Dear Doctor Taylor:

At the request of Professor Charles Carter, editor of the Wesleyan Theological Society bulletin, I am writing to you and the other officers of the WTS about the bulletin.

First, after considering several bids, Carter tells me that the Editorial Committee recommends that the bulletin be published by the Pilgrim Holiness Press, at Indianapolis. They bid $396.70 to do 500 copies to the Editorial Committee's specifications, and will afford galley and page proofs, with the promise of delivery in sixty days after receiving the material.

Prof. Carter thinks the Committee should have $400 for the project. He says the NHA has practically assured them of a $100 subsidy for it. The WTS has $264.69 in the treasury. Dues for the current year have not begun to reach me yet. Do you men approve of my giving the Editorial Committee $250 from the treasury whenever it is needed, with the assurance that they may count on up to $50 more when sufficient funds are available? Please give me you advice on this matter as soon as possible as they are waiting for my reply.

Second, Carter requests that a decision on the name of the bulletin be made soon. You will know how to handle that matter. I suggested to you the name, "Wesleyan Theological Journal," but do not know what ^{other} names may have been suggested.

Cordially,

W. Ralph Thompson
