Dedication

We gratefully dedicate the 1953 DUKE CIRCUIT RIDER to Dr. Franklin Simpson Hickman, Professor of the Psychology of Religion and Preacher to the University.

Dr. Hickman was born in Fort Wayne, Indiana, in 1886. He was ordained to the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1913. After receiving his A.B. degree in 1917 at DePauw University, he attended Boston University where he received his B.D. degree. Dr. Hickman received his Ph.D. degree at Northwestern University in 1923 and his D.D. degree at DePauw University in 1950.

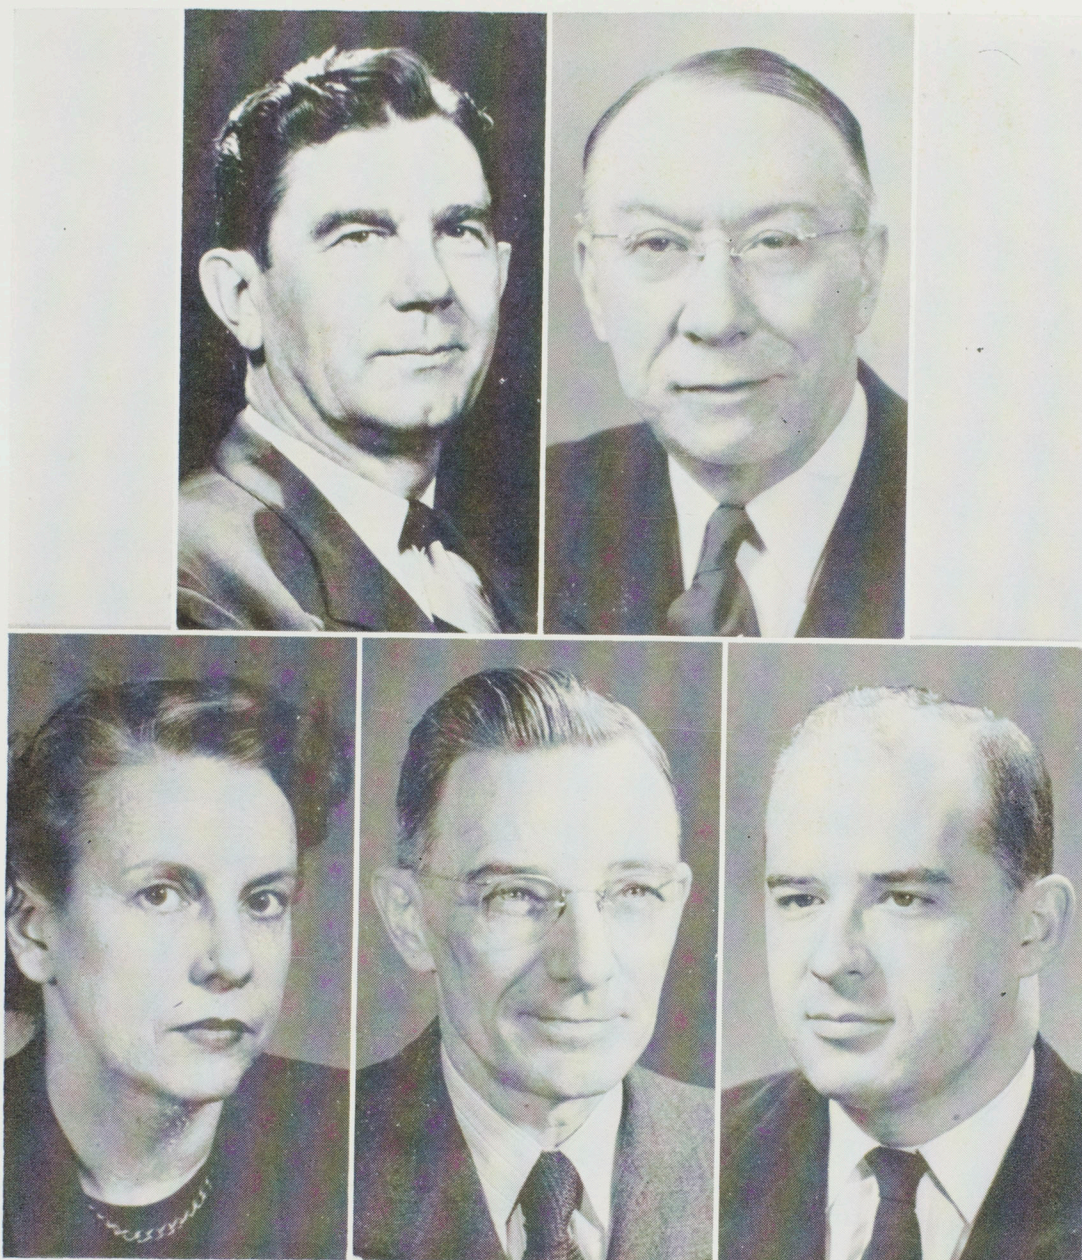

In Minneapolis Dr. Hickman was chairman and director of the Wesley Foundation from 1925 to 1927. In 1927 he came to Duke University to be preacher to the University and to serve on the faculty of Duke Divinity School.

Among the many books written by Dr. Hickman are: Introduction to the Psychology of Religion (1926), Christian Vocation (1930), and Signs of Promise (1943). He has also widely contributed to magazine and newspaper publications.

When it was announced that Dr. Hickman would be given the status as Professor Emeritus on the staff of the Divinity School, Dr. Paul Gross, vice-president of Duke University, paid the following tribute: "We are all aware of the period of the long and faithful service which Professor Hickman has rendered, not only in connection with his teaching responsibilities in the Divinity School, but also in relation to the University Chapel and related aspects of the religious program of the University as a whole. His contributions to the life and development have, moreover, far exceeded the bounds of these formal capacities in which he has served. He has been an important influence in bringing to the general public a knowledge of the ideals and work for which the University stands."

We shall miss Dr. Hickman. But we know that Dr. Hickman will continue to be with us and to give us the benefit of his counsel in his new status as Emeritus Professor of the Duke Divinity School.

Duke Endowment

"Summer time means different things for many people. Some go on long vacations to Maine or the mountains in an effort to stay cool. Others go on as though it were just a yearly occurrence which has to be borne as a plague on mankind. The Divinity student at Duke does neither of these (usually). Through the kindness of the Duke Endowment and the hard labor of Dr. A. J. Walton, anywhere from seventy-five to one hundred students spend most of their summer working. The churches in which they serve range from a membership of seventy-five to one of five to six hundred. A student may go to a station charge or a circuit of six churches. Or, he may go to one of the numerous camps over the state.

Besides earning the major portion of his expenses for the coming year, the budding minister gains invaluable experience working with seasoned veterans of the cloth. It is impossible to estimate how much these experiences can mean."

BRUCE MCCLURE, President of the Duke Endowment Association.

And the world Christian Church with its needs and power has been presented to the Divinity School students for their prayers, consideration and personal aid."

Athletics

During this school year, the Divinity School participated in the University intramural athletics and "intradivinity" athletics. In September a cup was received for a division winner in softball. This cup was won by team "B" during the previous May.

Under the direction of Coach Foster, the football team completed the regular season with a record of 4 wins and 1 loss. In a three-team play-off for the winner of our divisions, the team was defeated 6-0 by the Law School.

In fall tennis several fellows represented the School, and Pete Burks went into the semi-finals of the tournament.

Many Divines played on the basketball teams and the season was an enjoyable one. Team "B" had a record of 2 wins and 2 losses. Team "A," which won 3 and lost 4 during the season, received a post-season invitation to play in a game sponsored by the young people of Charlie Wiggers' church.

Two teams took part in the volleyball tournament, and Christopher and Hansen represented the Divines in badminton. For the spring games, two teams participated in softball, and several played in the tennis tournament. A good showing was made in these events.

The "intradivinity" sports program was sparked by many participants. Softball and tennis play-offs for champions high-lighted the program along with just playing for the fun and enjoyment derived.

The Unhappiness of the Haphazard

The pleasures of the absent-minded enjoy a good press. They are usually delightful folks and generally beloved. Yet their lot, like that of the famous policeman, is not a happy one. Slap-happiness may be more superficial than fundamental among this allegedly happy band.

Be that as it may, the clergyman who tries to work out a financial program in a fit of absent-mindedness will come to grief. Only by careful foresight can real satisfaction be secured.

The Fund exists just to help those who avoid anxious care by taking steps, at an early age, to prepare for eventualities.

Ask for help and it will arrive right early.

Serving the Church Since 1789...

IT WAS on April 30, 1789, that George Washington was inaugurated first President of the United States. Five blocks away, twenty-five ministers wrote a letter of congratulations . . . and the reply was one of the first letters written by the Chief Executive of the new Nation.

These were the men who founded The Methodist Publishing House to further "the advancement of the cause of Christianity by disseminating religious knowledge and useful literary and scientific information in the form of books, tracts, and periodicals . . ."

Today, as in those pioneer days, the first charge of The Methodist Publishing House is to provide and distribute church-school literature "of such type and variety as to meet the needs of all groups of our people." The Church recognizes that there is nothing uniform about Methodists. They have different backgrounds, insights, outlooks, and alignments; they represent every stage of culture and every shade of opinion; they are of "every age and station."

That is why the Methodist church-school curriculum offers several series of lesson materials—the most diversified ever published. It is a strong, unified system with a complete Literature program for every church large or small, rural or urban . . . dedicated to the total program of united, world-wide Methodism.

The Methodist church-school literature is based on the Christian gospel of personal and social redemption, the Bible, and the beliefs and practices of The Methodist Church.

The Circuit Riders of 1789 established the tradition of bringing the Holy Scriptures and good literature to all people. Today, The Methodist Publishing House carries on this charge, serving millions through its vast printing and publishing facilities and a network of regional Houses throughout the land. Each of these carries the most complete stock of good books from all publishers and the finest church supplies and equipment.

Remember this sign of the Circuit Rider—a symbol of service to the Church since 1789.
