Dear Delbert:

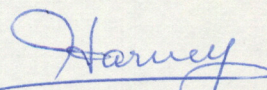

I am writing to say that I do not see how I can afford to take the two days required for the W.T.S. meeting in November. I must take a week to work at British Isles College in October. Besides that, we are short staffed in our department which throws some extra obligations my way. Also, my going could well throw extra weight on Esther and she is doing perhaps more than she should as it is.

So please do not think too hard of me. I have so wanted to get involved in the W.T.S. and have enjoyed it too. But I think it wise not to think also of serving again as editor. Perhaps if all the articles were in good form, I could. But that is too much to expect. I would be willing to assist.

The price on printing the Journal by our Press would be in the vicinity of $1500.00. That would include everything from the original copy to the finished product. Ken Sullivan was rather apologetic, but prices have increased so that it will probably be impossible to match any previous price. I am going to write Edwards Brothers who previously did the job by special arrangement with Dr. Carter. I will let you know their answer.

We are working hard toward our move early in January. Much still needs to be done. But we are also looking ahead with much anticipation. A real challenge awaits us.

With kind personal regards,

Harvey J. S. Blaney

Dear Delbert:

I am writing to say that I do not see how I can afford to take the two days required for the W.T.S. meeting in November. I must take a week to work at Antislavery College in October. Besides that, we are short staffed in our department which throws some extra obligations my way. Also, my going could well throw extra weight on Father and she is doing perhaps more than she should as it is.

So please do not think too hard of me. I have so wanted to get involved in the W.T.S. and have enjoyed it too. But I think it is not to think also of serving again as editor. Perhaps if all the articles were in good form, I could. But that is too much to expect. I would be willing to assist.
