The Bonnie Jones Shinneman Fund has been established by Susan Pendleton Jones D'83 and L. Gregory Jones D'85, G'88 of Chapel Hill, N.C., other Jones family members, and friends to honor Mrs. Shinneman and celebrate her lifelong work with missions and music. She is the wife of the late Divinity School Dean Jameson Jones, mother of four including former Dean L. Gregory Jones and United Methodist Bishop Scott J. Jones, and grandmother of five including a Divinity School graduate and a current student. Mrs. Shinneman resides in Westminster, Colo., with her husband, Dean.

Matching funds from the Mary G. and Donald H. Stange Financial Aid Initiative Challenge Fund have been added recently to qualified scholarships. The endowments that have benefitted include the William and Patsy Willimon Scholarship, the Reconciliation Scholarship, and the York Family Scholarship.

The Stewardship Foundation of Tacoma, Wash., has awarded major grants to the Duke Center for Reconciliation over three years to fund an International Leadership Institute, help underwrite the African Great Lakes Initiative, and support the center's ongoing programs in Duke Divinity School. Part of the funding is a challenge-match opportunity to build additional support.
