All reports are as presented to the General Conference and include those not acted upon as well as those finally adopted by the General Conference including amendments accepted by the chairperson on the floor and amendments and substitutes adopted by the General Conference. The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

The United Methodist Church since its inception in 1968 has consistently opposed peacetime conscription. In doing so, it has heeded its Lord's injunction to know and to seek the things that make for peace. The vision of peace portrayed so graphically in Isaiah and Micah concludes with the expectation that the day will arrive when men and women shall no longer learn the ways of war.

Despite the fears of some, we do not believe that military conscription is essential to the security of nations in time of peace. In fact, evidence indicates that conscripted armed forces can be used to conduct unpopular unauthorized wars for which volunteers would be unavailable.

Some countries require that all young people perform national service, military or civilian, and other countries are proposing to do the same. The cost and bureaucracy of such massive undertakings are enormous; the opportunities for indoctrination pose a constant threat to peace and freedom; the invasion of personal liberty and privacy is alarming; and the value of such involuntary service is dubious.

We urge all United Methodists to oppose compulsory registration and induction of persons into any system of military or civilian conscription and to work toward its elimination where it exists.

Minority report as follows:

The United Methodist Church since its inception in 1968 has consistently opposed peacetime conscription. In doing so, it has heeded its Lord's injunction to know and to seek the things that make for peace. The vision of peace portrayed so graphically in Isaiah and Micah concludes with the expectation that the day will arrive when men and women shall no longer learn the ways of war.

Despite the fears of some, we do not believe that military conscription is essential to the security of nations in time of peace. In fact, evidence indicates that conscripted armed forces can be used to conduct unpopular unauthorized wars for which volunteers would be unavailable.

Some countries require that all young people perform national service, military or civilian, and other countries are proposing to do the same. The cost and bureaucracy of such massive undertakings are enormous; the opportunities for indoctrination pose a constant threat to peace and freedom; the invasion of personal liberty and privacy is alarming; and the value of such involuntary service is dubious.

We urge all United Methodists (1) to oppose induction of persons into any system of military or civilian conscription except in times of war or national emergency, and (2) to work toward the elimination of existing conscription systems in times other than those of war or national emergency. Further, we declare that registration of persons should not be undertaken for psychological reasons nor designed to affect only a limited age group.

The committee voted concurrence.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

The Bible teaches us that ultimately there is no security in horses or chariots, or for that matter in tanks and planes. We are admonished to seek peace and pursue it. We are warned of the consequences of not knowing the things that make for peace.

Again and again, the essential unity of humanity is stressed, that God has made of one blood all nations to dwell together on the face of the earth. The nuclear threat to the whole world only serves to emphasize anew that we are our brother's and sister's keepers.

Our Social Principles reminds us “. . . that human values must outweigh military claims as governments determine their priorities; that the militarization of society must be challenged and stopped; and that the manufacture, sale and deployment of armaments must be reduced and controlled.”

The Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT) between the world's two superpowers constitute an important and necessary step toward this end. In view of the enormous destructive power and modern weaponry possessed by the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R, it is absolutely essential not only that communication channels (hot line) be constantly open between these two countries, but also that negotiations continue in order to reduce the danger of war and take substantial steps toward elimination of nuclear arms.

We support the SALT process in the hopes that future agreements will reduce the level of world armaments. In the absence of such agreements, nations would not only retain their arsenals, but would increase them even more drastically and continue to devise new and more sophisticated weapons systems.

In view of the delay in the SALT negotiations, we call upon the governments of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.:

- 1) to make strenuous efforts to reestablish the SALT process.
- 2) to strengthen SALT II, amending it to include a mutual moratorium on all further testing, production, and deployment of new nuclear strategic weapons, and to prohibit the deployment of additional nuclear arms beyond present levels.

3) to conclude agreements requiring large and continuing reductions in Soviet and U.S. nuclear arsenals; and

4) to seek similar reductions in the nuclear weaponry of all nations as others join in the talks.

5) to institute a moratorium on all research and deployment of nuclear weapons systems during the SALT process.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

We recognize that "all creation is the Lord's and we are responsible for the ways in which we use and abuse it." (1976 Statement of Social Principles.)

We are called to repent of our devastation of the physical and non-human world, because this world is God's creation and is therefore to be valued and conserved.

Nowhere is this need greater than in relation to the sea. In 1970 the United Nations agreed that those areas of the sea beyond national boundaries were the "common heritage of humankind." This means that the resources belong to everyone.

But this ideal isn't yet expressed in international treaty. So the race is on to see who will be able to exploit and control the resources of the seas. The question facing the peoples of the world is whether global cooperation or global anarchy will prevail.

The best hope for global cooperation is through the United Nations, where representatives of the nations of the world are at work in the conference on the Law of the Sea.

The conference hopes to produce a fair and just law for the ocean, in which all nations will benefit. No one nation will have all of its interests satisfied, but mechanisms will be set up to maintain order and peace, and both developed and developing countries will have worked on the regulations.

The United Nations, concerned with protecting this "common heritage of humankind," is negotiating international agreements to:

—guarantee unimpeded access to over 100 straits, facilitating commercial transportation;

—prevent conflicts or "cod wars" like the one between Iceland and England over fishing waters;

- enforce environmental regulations forbidding countries to dump harmful wastes which spoil the ocean waters;
- share equitably the ocean resources (oil, fish, minerals) and prohibit unjust exploitation of these resources by the powerful;
- regulate access to the waters of coastal countries to permit research of the marine environment;
- limit the continuing extension of national sovereignty over international waters and settle legal disputes arising therefrom;
- prevent the division of the world into competing camps each depending on powerful navies;
- create an international agency to cooperatively manage the international seabed resources.

We also affirm our support for the evolution of effective “commons” law, such as the one that is now under development for the Antarctic and outer space, which supports our obligations of stewardship, justice and peace.

Therefore, we urge all United Methodists to become informed about all of the aspects of “Law of the Sea,” one of the most critical and least understood issues of our day.

Further, we urge all United Methodists to call upon their governments to commit themselves to the development of a just and equitable treaty through the United Nations Conference on Law of the Sea, and to ratification of the treaty by our respective governments.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

I

Christianity was born in a world of male preference and dominance. Practices, traditions, and attitudes in almost all societies viewed women as inferior to men, as having few talents and contributions to make to the general well-being of society aside from their biological roles. This was true of the Judaic society of which Jesus was a part.

But the life of Jesus, the redeemer of human life, stood as a witness against such cultural patterns and prejudices. Consistently he related to women as persons of intelligence and capabilities. He charged women as well as men to use their talents significantly in the cause of God's kingdom. His acts of healing and ministry were extended without distinction to women and men.

The central theme of Jesus' teaching is love for God and neighbor. Jesus embodied this message in his life, and, in the early church, women held prominent positions of leadership. Christian love as exemplified in the New Testament requires that we relate to others as persons of worth. To regard another as an inferior is to break the covenant of love: denying equality demeans, perpetuates injustice, and falls short of the example of Jesus and the early church.

II.

The movement to improve the status of women is one of the most profoundly hopeful of our times. The United Methodist Church in various ways has sought to support that movement. Although change is taking place, in most societies women are still not accorded equal rights and responsibilities.

There is increasing awareness that we cannot solve world problems of hunger, population growth, poverty and peace so long as the talents and potentialities of half the world's people are disregarded and even repressed. There are strong interrelationships between all these problems and the status of women.

The years 1975 and 1985 have been designated the Decade for Women, a time for correcting these ancient injustices. For Christians, it is a time for repentance and for new dedication to Christ's ideal of equality. It is a time for examining specific areas which need to be addressed in societies:

Economics. Often the productive labor of women is ignored in economic statistics, reinforcing the impression that work done by women is peripheral, of secondary importance, even dispensable. For that reason, few studies have actually evaluated the importance of contributions by women. As one example, when women grow food to feed their families, they are "just" tending kitchen gardens, but when men grow cash crops like tobacco and coffee, they are engaged in agricultural and commercial enterprises. In more industrialized societies, the enormous amount of volunteer work done by women is not counted as adding to the nation's wealth.

In the United States, nearly half of all women are working outside the home in the paid labor force and there are well-publicized professional successes, yet actually the earning gap between men and women is greater than it was in the 1950's. Everywhere, women tend to be clustered in the lower-paying jobs and in certain stereotyped job fields.

Legal Rights. In 1945, only 31 countries allowed women to vote; today women have the right in more than 125 nations. Only eight countries exclude women entirely from political processes open to men. Still, many areas of legal discrimination remain. In some nations, women are still considered the chattels of their husbands, with few rights in family law, landholding, inheritance, and guardianship of children.

In the United States some of the more glaring inequities are being corrected step by step. Nonetheless, a 1978 report of the Civil Rights Commission noted continuing discrimination on the basis of sex in the federal statutes.<sup>1</sup>

Cultural Factors. The perception of women as inferior and dependent is perpetuated through many institutions in society—the media, school textbooks and curriculum, political structures, and often religious organizations. Education is one of the principal ways of opening doors to wider participation in society. Thus, it is distressing that, while the percentage of literate women is at an all-time high, the absolute number of illiterate women is greater than at any time in the past. The fact that two-thirds of the world's illiterates are female is evidence of continuing disparity in importance given to the education of boys and girls.

Traditional perceptions of female qualities also are a factor in the widespread domestic violence against women, now coming to be recognized as a tragically widespread occurrence.

Human Rights in Fertility Decisions. Through the centuries, women have been little consulted or involved in the decisions regarding fertility-related laws or practices. For women particularly, the ability to make choices concerning fertility is a liberating force, helping to safeguard their health and that of their children, to plan for the future, to assume wider roles and responsibilities in society.

The United Nations has declared that education and access to means for determining the number and spacing of children is a human right, yet this is an ideal far from realization.

Coercion is still common, sometimes aimed at increasing births, sometimes at limiting them. Evidence now clearly shows that many poor, particularly ethnic, women have been sterilized without their understanding of what was being done to them and without their informed consent. In many places, safe and legal abortion is denied, in some cases even to save the life of the pregnant woman. In other cases, women are threatened that welfare payments or aid programs will be cut if the pregnancy continues. Such inconsistency reflects lack of value-centered decision-making, as well as sensitivity to the personhood of the woman involved.

While societal needs more and more should be considered in fertility matters, this should never be at the price of demeaning the individual or applying restrictive measures only to the poor. Women should be fully informed and fully involved in the decision-making.

Development Programs. National and international development programs now often stress the need to "integrate" women into the development process. Full recognition is seldom given to the contributions women already make to economic and social progress. For example, women make up 60-80 percent of the agricultural workers of the world; in some parts of Africa women manage a third of the farms. Yet few programs of agricultural development seek to upgrade the skills of women, provide easier access to credit, assure them the right to land titles in their own names, etc. In some cases, modernization actually degrades the already low status of women.

III.

Across the nations of the world, new movements are growing which address the serious handicaps and harsh realities of the lives of many women. In the context of this increasing momentum for a more just society, we call on local congregations and the agencies of the church:

1. To exert leadership in working wherever possible for legal recognition of equal rights for women. In the United States, this means a strengthened determination to secure passage of the Equal Rights Amendment,<sup>2</sup> in line with the United Methodist General Conference affirmations of 1972 and 1976. We need to recognize that this measure has become a symbol of the drive for equality. It has meaning far beyond the borders of one nation in the search for equal rights in other societies.

2. To urge governments to ratify the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women which was adopted by the United Nations, December, 1979.

3. To encourage support of studies by scientific and governmental bodies of the economic contributions made by women outside the formal economic sector, and to include this information in the Gross National Product of nations or compilations of national wealth.

4. To examine governmental policies and practices, including development assistance, as to their impact on women's lives; to work to ensure that policies upgrade the status of women, and that women are included in decision-making regarding development goals and programs. The key roles of women as workers and consumers and as transmitters of culture must be given adequate weight in national development activities.

5. To examine the impact of transnational corporations on women's lives, and to work to eradicate exploitative practices where identified. One such area is the promotion and selling of inappropriate products and technologies.

6. To encourage private charitable organizations including churches to initiate and support more programs of leadership education for women and other educational programs that upgrade the status of women.

7. To monitor printed, audio-visual media and other means of communication on their portrayals of the roles and nature of women and men, and to seek ways to eradicate narrow stereotypes which limit the possibilities of useful contributions by both sexes. The church should encourage study of the impact of Western, particularly U.S. television, radio and other media on cultural patterns and national development around the world, and should draw public attention to cases where such influence is destructive of other cultures.

8. To support programs providing knowledge and access to services in the area of family-planning and contraception, and to involve women in planning and implementation of such services. This effort should include support for public funding for these programs; for access to safe, legal and non-coercive contraception, sterilization and abortion services; and for improved educational efforts on responsible sexuality and parenthood for both men and women. Attention should particularly be paid to ensuring high standards for clinics performing abortions; to monitoring enforcement of regulations designed to ensure informed consent for sterilization procedures; to opposing profit-making referral agencies, which charge fees for providing information freely available elsewhere.

9. To examine the impact of judicial decisions at all levels upon the daily lives of women in such areas as child custody, employment, civil rights, racial and sexual discrimination, credit practices, estate settlements, reproduction and education, and socio-economic status.

IV.

The words and acts of Jesus give the Christian a vision of what a just society should be. Discipleship to Jesus requires both men and women to measure their attitudes about themselves and all others by his values and to act in accord with those values. The full worth and dignity of each person is to be acknowledged and expressed. The church may help the vision of Jesus to be realized by proclaiming that women are persons created in the image of God, here to serve with men in the breaking forth of the Kingdom.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

Resolution on Equal Rights of Women

The Gospel makes it clear that Jesus regarded women and men as being of equal worth. Nowhere is it recorded that Jesus treated women in a different manner than he did men. (In marked contrast to the religious and cultural customs of the day in which women did not have the same rights or responsibilities as men, Jesus made no such distinction between persons.) Although the gospel writers recorded little in the way of verbal statements of Jesus about women, they have preserved for us many incidents in the life of Jesus which indicated that he understood the equality of all people, male and female alike, to be a significant element of his message.

While Jesus called only males to be part of the twelve, Biblical evidence indicated that others, including women, were considered to be disciples or followers of Jesus. In open defiance of the customs of his society, Jesus taught women, spoke to them in public, refused to accept the idea that childbearing was a woman's most important function. Moreover, women were the first witnesses to the Resurrection and were directed to go and tell their brothers.

While both the Old and New Testaments came out of male-centered cultures and necessarily reflect that culture, interpretations of the Scriptures by the church have unduly emphasized male superiority. For example, popular interpretations of the two creation stories often assume that the woman as "help meet" or "helper" implies female inferiority or subordination. In the original Hebrew, however, the word translated "helper" described a person of at least equal status to the one helped. Indeed, the majority of times this word appears in the Old Testament it is speaking of God as "helper." Rather than defining woman as secondary to man, the creation stories each point to the equality of the male and the female, both of whom are made "in the image of God."

A number of statements attributed to Paul have frequently been cited to support the idea of feminine subordination and submission. However, when these statements are taken in context and balanced against the rest of the New Testament, especially against the message of Jesus, there can be no doubt that women are of equal value with men and should enjoy the same rights and privileges, and obligations as do men.

The support of The United Methodist Church for the Equal Rights Amendment derives from a historical concern for justice, human dignity and equality for every person. The 1972 General Conference of The United Methodist Church first passed a resolution affirming support for ERA, urging all United Methodists to work on ratification in their respective states in order to secure ratification of the ERA and its inclusion in the federal Constitution. The 1976 General Conference strongly re-affirmed this support.

Thirty-five states have ratified ERA. Three more states must ratify by 1982 for ERA to become the 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Current attitudes toward women in the United States are blatantly discriminatory, based on stereotyped ideas of a woman's abilities and proper roles in society, rather than on her actual potential and rights as an individual.

Laws (local, state and federal) discriminate among persons. A 1978 report of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission noted continuing discrimination on the basis of sex in the federal statutes.<sup>1</sup>

A constitutional amendment will insure that men and women have the same rights and responsibilities under the law. Those who say that ERA will change the family, the importance of motherhood, relationships between men and women do not understand the impact of a constitutional amendment. ERA will only affect laws.

We therefore commend the U.S. Congress for its passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and call upon the various states to ratify this amendment in order to insure that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Be it resolved that all United Methodists work through the appropriate structures and channels toward ratification of the amendment by their respective states.

Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment would indicate a national commitment to correct laws which discriminate on the basis of sex. Without consistent interpretations, which is impossible in the absence of a clear national commitment, legislators and judges will continue to exclude women from the full protection of our laws and our Constitution.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

Resolution on Martin Luther King, Jr. Birthday

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. brought a new understanding and better relationships between blacks and whites in our society through a mass-based non-violent struggle for justice which achieved significant social and legal reforms.

The United Methodist Church recognizes the witness of this ministry of the late Dr. King.

In the interest of improved human relations in our country, there should be a national holiday honoring this outstanding black American.

Presently, Iowa, Illinois, Florida, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Connecticut, South Carolina, and the District of Columbia observe Dr. King's birthday as a legal holiday.

In addition, hundreds of municipalities and school boards across the country schedule formal observances of Dr. King's birthday every year.

The General Conference of The United Methodist Church: (1) urges the United States Senate and House of Representatives to enact legislation establishing the celebration of Dr. King's birthday, Jan. 15th, or the Monday nearest the 15th, as a federal holiday; (2) requests the Secretary of the General Conference to write the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate conveying to them this resolution. The day will be called Martin Luther King, Jr.—Human Rights Day.

The committee recommends that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

Resolution in Support of Affirmative Action

The concept of "affirmative action" emerged and developed during the period of the 1960's along with many other programs designed to address the inequalities and discriminatory practices within our society. It was defined as measurable efforts by employers and educational institutions to hire and admit those who had traditionally been excluded. While it has been actively resisted in many ways, especially where it has meant change from long existing patterns, significant though small gains for women, ethnic and racial minorities, and persons with handicapping conditions have been achieved, but much more needs to be done.

Gunnar Myrdal reminded us in his book, An American Dilemma (published in 1944), that the race problem in America is basically a moral dilemma, not a legal problem. The premise upon which affirmative action is built is essentially moral and spiritual in nature. Concern for the disadvantaged, the disinherited and the oppressed is a major feature of both the Old Testament prophets and the message and ministry of Jesus. According to biblical teaching, what is required is a redress of grievances and a sincere effort to make amends. Strong leadership from the religious community is demanded when efforts to correct the injustices and evils of the past and present are under attack.

The characterization of affirmative action as "unfair" often appears to rest on the dubious assumption that conditions for women, minorities, and persons with handicapping conditions have improved so radically that further special efforts on their behalf are unnecessary. On the contrary, minority unemployment remains much higher than the national average, and women workers continue to earn a smaller percentage of the wages of male workers. Affirmative action has not yet even begun to reverse these trends; it may be merely serving to prevent a bad situation from becoming even worse.

Affirmative action recognizes the need to broaden the definition of compensatory, protective and preferential programs that now exist in our society such as tax breaks and the traditional preferential treatment given to nonminority groups and males. It also attempts to provide goals designed to achieve an inclusive society in a time when competition for jobs and educational opportunity is intensifying. The discrimination of the past, which automatically excluded certain groups of people—by color, by sex, by age, and because of handicapping conditions—is being corrected with due regard for the compensation necessary for the disadvantages of the past to be transformed into equality of opportunity in the future. Affirmative action plays an important role in "releasing captives" and "setting the oppressed at liberty." The church has an important role to play in ministering to those who suffer the pain caused by societal change which is designed to effect reconciliation and healing, as well as in supporting the continuation of those changes.

We, therefore, call upon individuals and institutions including United Methodists individually and as congregations to:

(1) forthrightly and clearly affirm their support of affirmative action legislation and programs.

(2) reaffirm and increase their support of those efforts that seek to insure effective representation of minorities and women in American life.

(3) continue to provide a much-needed role model for others in society by affirming, strengthening and practicing their own affirmative action policies.

(4) affirm and proclaim the Judeo-Christian heritage of restitution, inclusiveness, justice, and grace as the best possible support for affirmative action.

(5) affirm the equal consideration of lay people in church-related positions where not prohibited by the Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church.

(6) seek to interpret the true purpose and meaning of affirmative action against claims of reverse discrimination.

(7) support actively church-related programs such as Project Equality which seek to support equal opportunity and to promote an inclusive society.

(8) insist that agencies of The United Methodist Church follow affirmative action policies.

The committee recommends that Par. 71, The Nurturing Community, read as follows:

A) The Family.—We believe the family to be the basic human community through which persons are nurtured and sustained in mutual love, responsibility, respect, and fidelity. We understand the family as encompassing a wider range of options than that of a two-generational unit of parents and children (the nuclear family), including the extended family, families with adopted children, single parents, couples without children. We affirm shared responsibility for parenting by men and women and encourage social, economic, and religious efforts to maintain and strengthen relationships within families in order that every member may be assisted toward complete personhood.

B) Other Christian Communities (unchanged)

Substitute the following for present Section C:

C) Marriage.—We affirm the sanctity of the marriage covenant which is expressed in love, mutual support, personal commitment, and shared fidelity between a man and a woman. We believe that God's blessing rests upon such marriage, whether or not there are children of the union. We reject social norms that assume different standards for women than for men in marriage.

Add the following new Section D:

D) Divorce.—Where marriage partners, even after thoughtful consideration and counsel, are estranged beyond reconciliation, we recognize divorce as regrettable but recognize the right of divorced persons to remarry. We express our deep concern for the care and nurture of the children of divorced and/or remarried persons. We encourage that either or both of the divorced parents be considered for custody of the minor children of the marriage. We encourage an active, accepting, and enabling commitment of the church and our society to minister to the members of divorced families.

Add the following new section E:

E) Single Persons.—We affirm the integrity of single persons and we reject all social practices that discriminate, or social attitudes that are prejudicial against persons because they are unmarried.

F) Human Sexuality.—We recognize that sexuality is a good gift of God, and we believe persons may be fully human only when that gift is acknowledged and affirmed by themselves, the Church, and society. We call all persons to disciplines that lead to the fulfillment of themselves, others, and society in the stewardship of this gift. Medical, theological, and humanistic disciplines should combine in a determined effort to understand human sexuality more completely.

Although men and women are sexual beings whether or not they are married, sex between a man and a woman is only to be clearly affirmed in the marriage bond. Sex may become exploitative within as well as outside marriage. We reject all sexual expressions which damage or destroy the humanity God has given us as birthright, and we affirm only that sexual expression which enhances that same humanity, in the midst of diverse opinion as to what constitutes that enhancement.

We deplore all forms of the commercialization and exploitation of sex with their consequent cheapening and degradation of human personality. We call for stern enforcement of laws prohibiting the sexual exploitation or use of children by adults. We call for the establishment of adequate protective services, guidance, and counseling opportunities for children thus abused.

We recognize the continuing need for full and frank sex education opportunities for children, youth, and adults.

Homosexual persons Homosexuals no less than heterosexuals heterosexual persons are persons individuals of sacred worth, who need the ministry and guidance of the Church in their struggles for human fulfillment, as well as the spiritual and emotional care of a fellowship which enables reconciling relationships with God, with others, and with self. Further we insist that all persons are entitled to have their human and civil rights ensured, though we do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching.

G) Abortion.—The beginning of life and the ending of life are the God-given boundaries of human existence. While individuals have always had some degree of control over when they would die, they now have the awesome power to determine when and even whether new individuals will be born. Our belief in the sanctity of unborn human life makes us reluctant to approve abortion. But we are equally bound to respect the sacredness of the life and well-being of the mother, for whom devastating damage may result from an unacceptable pregnancy. In continuity with past Christian teaching, we recognize tragic conflicts of life with life that may justify abortion. We call all Christians to a searching and prayerful inquiry into the sorts of conditions that may warrant abortion. We support the legal option of abortion under proper medical procedures. Nevertheless, governmental laws and regulations do not necessarily provide all the guidance required by the informed Christian conscience. Therefore, a decision concerning abortion should be made only after thorough and thoughtful consideration by the parties involved, with medical, and pastoral and other appropriate counsel.

H) Death with Dignity (formerly Section F; otherwise unchanged)

Subject: Par. 71: Proposed Section C

Date: April 17, 1980

Calendar No. 217, Defeated April 19, 1980, Journal pages 283-285.

This minority recommends that in Section C the words and only between be added after the word "between" so that Section C would read as follows: Section C—Substitute for Section II, C—Marriage:

We affirm the sanctity of the marriage covenant which is expressed in love, mutual support, personal commitment, and shared fidelity between, and only between, a man and a woman. We believe that God's blessing rests upon such marriage, whether or not there are children of the union. We reject social norms that assume different standards for women than for men in marriage.

We support measures which will halt the spread of deserts into formerly productive lands. We support regulations designed to protect plant life, including those that provide for reforestation and for conservation of grasslands. We urge policies that retard the indiscriminate use of chemicals, including pesticides, and encourage adequate research into their effects upon God's creation prior to utilization. We urge development of international agreements concerning equitable utilization of the ocean's resources for human benefit so long as the integrity of the seas is maintained. Moreover, we support policies on the part of governments and industries that conserve fossil and other fuels, and that eliminate methods of securing minerals that destroy plants, animals, and soil. We believe our culture is impoverished and our people deprived of a meaningful way of life when rural and smalltown living becomes difficult or impossible. We recognize that the improvement of this way of life may sometimes necessitate the use of some lands for nonagricultural purposes. We oppose the indiscriminate diversion of agricultural land for non-agricultural uses when non-agricultural land is available. Resolution on The United Methodist Church and America's Native People

Most white Americans are isolated from the issues of justice for the United States' Native people by the lapse of time, the remoteness of reservations or Native territories and the comparative invisibility of Natives in the urban setting, the distortions in historical accounts, and the accumulation of prejudices. Now is the time for a new beginning, and The United Methodist Church calls its members to pray and work for that new day in relationship between Native peoples, other minorities and white Americans.

The United States has been forced to become more sharply aware and keenly conscious of the destructive impact of the unjust acts and injurious policies of the United States government upon the lives and culture of U. S. American Indians, Alaskan and Hawaiian Natives. In the past the white majority population was allowed to forget or excuse the wrongs which were done to the indigenous peoples of this land. Today, U. S. American Indians, Alaskan and Hawaiian Natives are speaking with a new and more unified voice causing both the government and the American people to re-examine the actions of the past and to assume responsibility for the conditions of the present.

A clear appeal is being made for a fresh and reliable expression of justice. The call is being made for a new recognition of the unique rights which were guaranteed in perpetuity of U. S. American Indians by the treaties and legal agreements which were solemnly signed by official representatives of the United States government. A plea is being raised regarding the disruption of Alaskan and Hawaiian Natives who were not granted the legal agreements protecting their culture and land base.

The time has come for the American people to be delivered from beliefs which gave support to the false promises and faulty policies which prevailed in the relations of the United States government with the United States' Native peoples. These beliefs asserted that:

1. White Europeans who came to this continent were ordained by God to possess its land and utilize its resources.

2. Natives were not good stewards of the environment, permitting nature to lie in waste, as they roamed from place to place living off the land.
3. The growing white population tamed nature and subdued the Natives and thus gave truth to the assumption that the white race is superior.
4. The forceful displacement of the Natives was a necessary and justifiable step in the development of a free land and a new country.
5. The white explorers and pioneers brought civilization to the Natives and generously bestowed upon them a higher and better way of life.

Rarely are these beliefs now so blatantly set forth, yet they are subtly assumed and furnish the continuing foundation upon which unjust and injurious policies of the government are framed.

These beliefs, in former times, permitted the government, on the one hand, to seize lands, uproot families, break up tribal communities, and undermine the authority of traditional chiefs. On the other hand, the beliefs enabled the government to readily make and easily break treaties, give military protection to those who encroached on Native lands, distribute as "free" land millions of acres of Native holdings which the government designated as being "surplus," and systematically slay those Natives who resisted such policies and practices.

In our own time these beliefs have encouraged the government to:

1. Generally assume the incompetence of Natives in the management and investment of their own resources.
2. Give highly favorable leasing arrangements to white mining companies, grain farmers, and cattle ranchers for the use of Native lands held in trust by the federal government or historically used as a supportive land base.
3. Use job training and other government programs to encourage the relocation of Natives from reservations or Native territories to urban areas.
4. Utilize government funds in projects which are divisive to the tribal or Native membership and through procedures which co-opt Native leadership.
5. Extend the control of state government over Native nations which are guaranteed federal protection.
6. Terminate federal services and protection to selected Native nations and further deny federal recognition to others.
7. Engage in extensive and expensive litigation as a means of delaying and thus nullifying treaty rights and aboriginal land claims.

8. Pay minimal monetary claims for past illegal confiscation of land and other Native resources.
9. Lump together United States Natives with other racial minorities as a tactic for minimizing the unique rights of Native peoples.
10. Punitively prosecute the Native leaders who vigorously challenge the policies of the federal government.

The Church is called to repentance, for it bears a heavy responsibility for spreading false beliefs and for unjust governmental policies and practices. The preaching of the gospel to America's Natives was often a preparation for, followed by assimilation into, white culture. The evangelizing of the Native nations often effected the policies of the government.

The Church has frequently benefitted from the distribution of Native lands and other resources. The Church often saw the injustices inflicted upon Native peoples but gave assent or remained silent, believing that its task was to "convert" the heathen.

The Church is called through the mercy of Almighty God to become channels of the reconciling Spirit of Jesus Christ and instruments of love and justice in the development of new relations between Native nations, other minorities and whites, in pursuit of the protection of their rights.

The United Methodist Church recognizes that a new national commitment is needed to respect and effect the rights of American Indians, Alaskan and Hawaiian Natives to claim their own identities, maintain their cultures, live their lives, and use their resources.

The United Methodist Church expresses its desire and declares its intention to participate in the renewal of the national responsibility to the United States' Native people.

The United Methodist Church calls its congregations to study the issues concerning American Indian, Alaskan and Hawaiian Native relations with the government of the United States; to develop an understanding of the distinctive cultures and the unique rights of the Native people of the United States; to establish close contacts wherever possible with Native persons, tribes and nations; and to furnish support for:

1. The right of Native people to live as Native people in this country.
2. The right of Native people to be self-determining and to make their own decisions related to the use of their lands and the natural resources found on and under them.
3. The right of Native people to plan for a future in this nation and to expect a fulfillment of the commitments which have been made previously by the government, as well as equitable treatment of those who were not afforded legal protection for their culture and lands.

4. The right of American Indian nations to exercise the sovereignty of nationhood, consistent with treaty provisions.
5. The right of Alaskan Natives to maintain subsistence land base and aboriginal rights to its natural resources.
6. The right of Native Hawaiians to a just and amicable settlement with the United States through federal legislation related to aboriginal title to Hawaiian lands and their natural resources.

The United Methodist Church especially calls its congregations to support the needs and aspirations of America's Native peoples as they struggle for their survival and the maintenance of the integrity of their culture in a world intent upon their assimilation, westernization and absorption of their lands and the termination of their traditional ways of life.

Moreover, we call upon our nation, in recognition of the significant cultural attainments of the Native peoples in ecology, conservation, human relations and other areas of human endeavor, to receive their cultural gifts as part of the emerging new life and culture of our nation.

In directing specific attention to the problems of Native peoples in the United States, we do not wish to ignore the plight of Native peoples in many other countries of the world.

The resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan in recent months has been widely reported in the media. In many instances the impression has been conveyed that the burning of crosses and destruction of homes of black residents may be simply an act of vandalism carried out by children.

1) The crossburnings and destruction of homes and desecration of synagogues and churches is an elaborate and premeditated act which cannot be dismissed as only the spontaneous expression of juvenile restlessness.

2) The involvement of minors in such racist rituals means that tomorrow's generation of whites is embracing as a virtue the racism of their elders.

Therefore the General Conference of The United Methodist Church expresses its sympathy to the victims of recent outbreaks of cross and home burnings and calls upon all United Methodists to:

1) Embark on a serious program of education in the church and elsewhere on the current resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan and its challenge to us as witnesses of the Christian Gospel.

2) Support and work in coalition with groups that are already working on this issue.

3) Call upon federal, state and local governments to use resources to implement positive educational programs about the dangers of racism in a democratic society.

4) To call upon federal, state, and local governments to exercise the utmost vigilance and bring to justice perpetrators of practices such as cross burnings and destruction of homes of persons.

5) Express their minds and hearts in this coming electoral season and urge that candidates for government positions name the struggles against racism and its symbol as a top priority.

The 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty

Whereas the 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty was entered into by the United States of America, the Lakota Nation and other Indian nations and was ratified by the Senate of the United States and proclaimed by its president in 1869;

Whereas this Treaty affirms the sovereignty of the people of all the nations involved;

Whereas treaties entered into by the United States Government are considered to be the supreme law of the land equal to its Constitution;

Whereas treaties cannot be unilaterally abrogated, according to international law;

Whereas the 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty has never been legally abrogated;

Whereas the 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty has been repeatedly violated and ignored by the United States Government;

Whereas these treaty violations have undermined both the moral integrity of the United States Government and the respect for its laws by U.S. citizens;

Whereas these treaty violations have resulted in the loss of land and loss of self-government which have contributed to poverty, ill-health, unresponsive educational institutions, loss of self-determination and loss of life for the Lakota people;

Be It Resolved that we, the members of The United Methodist Church recognize and reaffirm the sovereignty and independence of the Lakota people.

Be It Further Resolved that we, the members of the General Conference of The United Methodist Church call on the United States government to recognize the sovereignty and independence of the Lakota Nation through the 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty. We call upon the President of the United States to form a Presidential Treaty Commission to meet with representatives selected by the Lakota people to redress the grievances caused by the U.S. violations of the 1868 Ft. Laramie Treaty to the mutual satisfaction of both nations, and to devise and implement specific steps to bring the United States into compliance with its treaty obligations with the Lakota Nation.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

The Black Hills, historically the sacred, ancestral lands of the Lakota people, is designated a "national sacrifice area" in a federal plan known as Project Independence. Large scale plans are underway for the mining of uranium, coal and taconite iron deposits, using open pits, strip mines and solution mines. It is estimated that within 35 years the water tables will be exhausted.

Radioactive by-products will pollute the air. Unrestricted strip mining will devastate the land.

We therefore affirm: 1) the right of Native people to keep sacred their ancestral burial grounds and their right to determine the responsible use of natural resources, 2) the necessity to consider the long range consequences of depleting the water supply, as opposed to the short range benefits of obtaining additional coal and other mineral resources, and 3) the position of the Black Hills Alliance, an organization of persons who live in the Black Hills region, who are dedicated to a safe and healthy future for their children, and who maintain research, education and action projects in support of their cause.

A Charter for Racial Justice Policies in an Interdependent Global Community

Racism is the belief that one race is innately superior to all other races. In the United States, this belief has justified the conquest, enslavement and evangelizing of non-Europeans. During the early history of this country, Europeans assumed their civilization and religion were innately superior to those of both the original inhabitants of the United States and the Africans who were forcefully brought to these shores to be slaves. The myth of European superiority persisted and persists. Other people who came and who are still coming to the United States by choice or force encountered and encounter racism. Some of these people are the Chinese who built the railroads as indentured workers; the Mexicans whose lands were annexed; the Puerto Ricans, the Cubans, the Hawaiians and the Eskimos who were colonized; and the Filipinos, the Jamaicans and the Haitians who live on starvation wages as farm workers.

In principle, the United States has outlawed racial discrimination but, in practice, little has changed. Social, economic and political institutions still discriminate, although some institutions have amended their behavior by eliminating obvious discriminatory practices and choosing their language carefully. The institutional church, despite sporadic attempts to the contrary, also still discriminates.

The damage of years of exploitation has not been erased. A system designed to meet the needs of one segment of the population cannot be the means to the development of a just society for all. The racist system in the United States today perpetuates the power and control of those of European ancestry. It is often called "white racism." The fruits of racism are prejudice, bigotry, discrimination, and dehumanization. Consistently, Blacks, Hispanics, Asians, Native Americans and Pacific Islanders have been humiliated by being given inferior jobs, housing, education, medical services, transportation and public accommodation. With hopes deferred and rights still denied, the deprived and oppressed fall prey to a colonial mentality which acquiesces to the inequities, occasionally with religious rationalization.

Racist presuppositions have been implicit in U.S. attitudes and policies toward Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America. While proclaiming democracy, freedom and independence, the U.S. has been an ally and an accomplice to perpetuating inequality of the races and colonialism throughout the world. The history of The United Methodist Church and the history of the United States are intertwined. The "mission enterprise" of the churches in the United States and "Westernization" went hand in hand, sustained in their belief of their superiority.

We are conscious that "we have sinned as our ancestors did: we have been wicked and evil" (Psalm 106:6, Today's English Version). We are called for a renewed commitment to the elimination of institutional racism. We affirm the 1976 General Conference statement on The United Methodist Church and Race, which states unequivocally: "By biblical and theological precept, by the law of the Church, by General Conference pronouncement, and by episcopal expression, the matter is clear. With respect to race, the aim of The United Methodist Church is nothing less than an inclusive church in an inclusive society. The United Methodist Church, therefore, calls upon all its people to perform those faithful deeds of love and justice in both the church and community that will bring this aim into reality."

Because We Believe:

1. that God is the Creator of all people and all are God's children in one family;
2. that racism is a rejection of the teachings of Jesus Christ;
3. that racism denies the redemption and reconciliation of Jesus Christ;
4. that racism robs all human beings of their wholeness and is used as a justification for social, economic and political exploitation;
5. that we must declare before God and before each other that we have sinned against our sisters and brothers of other races in thought, in word and in deed;
6. that in our common humanity in creation all women and men are made in God's image and all persons are equally valuable in the sight of God;
7. that our strength lies in our racial and cultural diversity and that we must work toward a world in which each person's value is respected and nurtured;
8. that our struggle for justice must be based on new attitudes, new understandings and new relationships and must be reflected in the laws, policies, structures and practices of both church and state;

We commit ourselves as individuals and as a community to follow Jesus Christ in word and in deed and to struggle for the rights and the self-determination of every person and group of persons. Therefore, as United Methodists in every place across the land, we will unite our efforts within The United Methodist Church:

1. to eliminate all forms of institutional racism in the total ministry of the church with special attention given to those institutions which we support, beginning with their employment policies, purchasing practices and availability of services and facilities.
2. to create opportunities in local churches to deal honestly with the existing racist attitudes and social distance between members, deepening the Christian commitment to be the church where all racial groups and economic classes come together.
3. to increase efforts to recruit people of all races into the membership of The United Methodist Church and provide leadership development opportunities without discrimination.
4. to create workshops and seminars in local churches to study, understand and appreciate the historical and cultural contributions of each race to the church and community.
5. to increase local churches' awareness of the continuing needs for equal education, housing, employment and medical care for all members of the community and create opportunities to work for these things across racial lines.
6. to work for the development and implementation of national and international policies to protect the civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights of all people such as through support for the ratification of United Nations covenants on human rights.
7. to support and participate in the world-wide struggle for liberation in the church and community.
8. to support nomination and election processes which include all racial groups employing a quota system until the time that our voluntary performance makes such practice unnecessary.

Study Document On Human Sexuality

God's love as promised in the covenants and revealed in Jesus Christ is the norm for our relationships with each other.

Relationships which call forth wholeness, caring, openness and dignity between persons affirm God's covenant. God's love, expressed in covenant, calls us and strengthens us to live faithfully in human community. The crucial questions of life center on understanding who we are, on how we relate to one another, and on our response to the love of God. This is the Gospel's message.

Current discussions in our churches concerning sexuality indicate much fear, misconception, ignorance, hostility or indifference, making evident the need for the Gospel's message of forgiveness and renewal in this crucially important area of human relationships. We are not as caring for each other as the Gospel calls us to be. Too often single persons feel outcast from church activities because programs are designed for nuclear families or for married couples, or because the singles groups seem designed for "match-making." Too often the Church has not provided a supportive climate for the widowed and divorced. Too often teenagers and adults search for adequate sex education resources only to have the churches respond by saying the subject is "too controversial." Too often men and women who are genuinely struggling with problems in their sexual relationships or with ambivalences in their sexual orientation have had their concerns met with rigidity and simple moralisms, if met at all. Open and helpful dialogue is blocked, and personal needs are ignored. For many individuals this lack of openness results in their leaving the church in search of more supportive communities.

Why do we do this to one another? What is it about our view of sexuality that causes us more often than not to approach it negatively rather than positively? Are our expectations and experiences about human sexuality bound up with a culturally-restricted view of humanity, full of "holy negatives"? Often we are subject to distorted and misinterpreted biblical, theological and ethical interpretation. We are called to examine the biblical and theological roots of our understanding of human sexuality. Careful consideration should be given to the context in which Scripture was written. The emphasis on sexuality as limited to procreation is particularly in need of examination. Additionally the biblical teachings must be related to understandings provided by the human sciences and both should be applied to personal and corporate experience of contemporary Christians.

We recognize that for Christians across the United States and the world there is a profusion of voluntary and involuntary living patterns, caused by social, economic, cultural and political factors. There is no one life pattern for all Christians. We are called to discipleship and to nurture the quality of our faith and life together.

To speak of our sexuality is to speak of all that it means to be male and female. It is a gift of God to each human being and it is a fundamental means by which we realize our individual life-in-community. It is not limited to nor even primarily expressed by genital behavior. All expressions of sexuality affect the emergence of genuine personhood and should reflect a concern for personal integrity, faithfulness in relationships, and the equality of men and women.

A full consideration of sexuality will require study of life's total reality. Each aspect of our sexuality needs full study and discussion. The following are examples of some aspects:

- a) health care and health education related to sexuality;
- b) psychological dimensions of sexuality;
- c) the institutional practices in society that have kept women in an inferior role or status;
- d) legal justice, including efforts to assure civil rights for homosexuals;
- e) legal rights relating to contraceptives, abortion, rape and incest;
- f) economic exploitation of sexuality and dehumanization of persons, such as is evident in advertising, pornography and prostitution with particular concern for the growing misuse of children in pornography and prostitution;
- g) the tremendous increase in teenage pregnancy, its causes and implications.

These are not totally new areas to our church's life and concern, but they do represent areas where much more open, rational, loving dialogue must occur. These issues are not options for Christians to discuss. They are issues of basic human dignity, and Christians must affirm the roots for establishing that dignity. We should not stereotype any person, or make certain persons or life situations the object of cruel jokes or flippant comments. Each person must be free to speak about these issues without fear of being labeled or excluded by others in the Church.

We recognize at least five mistaken ways of viewing sexuality. They are: 1) to worship it as an ultimate concern; 2) to sacramentalize sexuality as so holy, so extraordinarily divine that it becomes threatening and dominating over our lives; 3) to debase sex and sexuality, viewing these aspects of life as essentially evil; 4) to trivialize sex and sexuality, denying the deep meanings of human relationships; and 5) to abuse sex and sexuality by using it as a means of manipulating and controlling others.

Profound changes in marriage, divorce, child-rearing and living arrangements have occurred in the U.S. in the past decade.

Family types are extremely diverse as a 1978 breakdown revealed:

Father as the sole wage earner, a mother as a full-time homemaker, and at least one child—15.9 percent.

Both the father and the mother as wage earners, plus one or more children at home—18.5 percent.

Married couples with no children, or with no children living at home—30.5 percent.

Women who are single parents, with one or more children at home—6.2 percent.

Single-parent males, with one or more children at home—0.6 percent.

Unrelated persons living together—2.5 percent.

Single-person households—20.6 percent.

Female- or male-headed that include relatives other than spouses or children—5.3 percent.

Statistics are from the U.S. Statistical Abstract, 1977. Children are defined as persons under 18.<sup>1</sup>

U.S. government sources indicate that the marriage trend, along with the continued increase in divorce, has made for stunning increases in the ranks of people living alone. Although most of such people are still elderly widows, big increases are evident among young men first and then young women. A corollary trend is the family headed by a woman.<sup>2</sup> The Church must address its word of love and hope to people in all these myriad conditions.

Data from the 1978 census reveals that one out of every five American households consisted of just one person, a staggering 42 percent increase over the 1970 census statistic. Census experts tell us that nearly half of all children born today will spend a significant portion of their childhood with only one parent. The number of unmarried persons living together more than doubled in this eight-year period, although this does not necessarily imply a sharp rise in lifelong singleness.

The Church in its advocacy of human worth must take seriously the validity of singleness for clergy and laity, women and men, and incorporate this understanding into its program. Single women and men at all ages need expressions of physical affection and emotional support from both women and men. Widowed and divorced persons speak of this need. As long as one lives, there is need for loving support expressed physically and emotionally. The Church must search out ways for all persons to fulfill this basic human need for warmth, closeness and affection.

Single parents need support groups within the Church for sharing concerns or for assistance in times of particular needs. Churches need to recognize single-parent families in their usual family life activities which tend to assume the nuclear family as the norm.

The nuclear family, which is defined as wife and husband and offspring living together in a common household, comprises 34.4 percent of all households in the U.S.<sup>3</sup>

Regarding the nuclear family, we recognize that the changing understandings of one's own sexuality result in new awareness of the dynamics of intimacy, meaning and power. What is to be shared, or what is kept private? Where can married couples find support for their needs? Power within family units can no longer appropriately be exercised through an authoritarian style of life, or by automatically assigning power on the basis of gender. The varying stresses and opportunities affecting the nuclear family provide the Church with unique challenges for ministry and participation.

Some women, in coping with a changing society, turn even more strongly to concepts of femininity whereby they regard themselves as sex objects and basically as inferior to men. Some persons have exploited this notion through organizations, book sales, political movements. The exploitation of sexual issues by playing upon the fears of people in order to gain a political following is a serious issue within the Church as well as within local, state, and federal governments. Narrow biblical teaching has been used to undergird this philosophy.

We believe that these concepts of females as sex objects exploit both men and women and seriously distort the basic gospel message of respect for persons. For the many women who are not married and for many who are, such methods perpetuate cruel illusions about sexuality and relationships. In contrast we believe that these times call for the active incarnation of the gospel example of mutual love and commitment to one another's well being in the midst of change.

In discussions about human sexuality, persons often reveal fear of the ambiguities inherent in life's experiences and relationships. Confronting this fear is part of the risk of living life fully, trusting the gospel message that mercy and grace come with the risk of faithfulness to God.

Sexuality is commonly associated with sin. The very notion of sin has a distinctly sexual suggestion in the popular mind. However, the basic form of sexual sin lies precisely in our alienation from our sexuality . . . At its root sin always involves alienation in three interwoven directions: separation from self, from neighbors, and from God.<sup>4</sup>

The Bible reflects the ambiguities we experience in our human sexuality. Yet its message about creation, sin, judgment and redemption is that God is good, loving and just and will sustain us in our brokenness as well as in our strength.

Nowhere in the Church's considerations of human sexuality is there more confusion, embarrassment and even self-hatred evident than in the currently dominant discussions about homosexuality. It is not simply a matter of differences of opinion among church members or between clergy and laity. Homophobia, the fear of homosexuality in oneself or another, is one of the sexual fears which must be faced.

Homophobia has caused the waste of many human lives whose full talents have never been available to the churches because known homosexual men and women have been labelled and set apart. But a heavy cost is also paid by those who suffer from such a phobia. The resulting inhibitions spread to a whole range of behavior related to the feared activity.

We urge the Church to resist easy moralisms or dogmatic views which set up different views regarding the "normalcy" in sexual behavior of heterosexuality and homosexuality. Promiscuity, the idolatry of pleasure, the absence of fidelity, attack, seduction and violence, the exploitation of people, are characteristics found among persons of all sexual orientations. On the other hand, gentleness and warmth, compassion and strength, commitment and fidelity are human qualities which are found in persons of all sexual orientations.

What is the Church's mission? Are we commissioned to love and minister to all persons as sexual beings, or just to some? What is an inclusive Church? Is sin a state of being or an act? Is there less love, respect and fidelity among homosexual followers of Christ? Is there only one sexual norm to which all must or can be converted?

In summary, we believe that the Church must concern itself with the reality of human sexuality in all its aspects, including:

- the needs of single persons in all categories;
- the needs of persons with physically or emotionally handicapping conditions;
- changes and needs facing the nuclear family;
- sex-stereotyping which results in inferior status for women;

- the needs of older persons;
- sexual orientation including heterosexuality, bisexuality, homosexuality;
- the meaning of sexuality and the fear of sexuality;
- the theological and biblical issues which would enlighten all the above.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ calls us to love and affirm all persons.

The preamble to the Social Principles reaffirms the “inestimable worth of each individual,” and

The Social Principles, with regard to the nurturing community, specifically states that “Homosexuals no less than heterosexuals are persons of sacred worth . . . ” and that, “all persons are entitled to have their human and civil rights ensured . . . ”

The United Methodist Church has a tradition of active support for the human and civil rights of all persons:

Therefore, be it resolved, that

1. The United Methodist Church calls upon the Congress of the United States to enact federal legislation protecting human and civil rights of all persons without regard to sexual orientation.
2. The United Methodist Church calls upon the President of the United States to issue an executive order banning discrimination based on sexual orientation in all agencies of the federal government, the military, and in federally contracted private employment.
3. The United Methodist Church calls for an end to discrimination against homosexual parents in child custody cases.

4. The United Methodist Church calls for the protection of homosexual youth from any laws which are used against, oppress, and/or harass them in their schools, jobs, and social environments.

5. The United Methodist Church calls upon its agencies, boards, commissions, and educational institutions at all levels to insure human and civil rights of all persons, including employees, regardless of sexual orientation.

Jesus' words, "Judge not that you may not be judged . . ." (Matthew 7:1) surely implies that all judgments are judged in the light of God's truth. The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church state boldly that ". . . governments, no less than individuals are subject to the judgment of God."

Such a social principle causes us to appropriately view with concern the government's use of the Grand Jury to control the dissent and harass those who act under the constraint of conscience.

The Grand Jury is envisioned in American law as a protector of citizens from unwarranted prosecutions. It is for this reason that its proceedings are secret and it has the power to subpoena witnesses.

Evidence indicates that in recent years the extraordinary powers of the Grand Jury often have been used—not for the protection of citizens—but in subjecting them to harassment and intimidation. Historically, political dissidents, antiwar activists, and leaders of minority groups and religious organizations have been particularly vulnerable to these abuses.

A government prosecutor can control the Grand Jury thus distorting the Grand Jury's power to monitor and moderate the actions of the prosecution.

The prosecutor can use the subpoena powers of the Grand Jury to conduct investigations which are the responsibility of law enforcement agencies. As an example, Congress has never given the Federal Bureau of Investigation subpoena powers, yet agents routinely threaten uncooperative persons with subpoenas from a Grand Jury. In fact, subpoenas are often served at the request of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The use of the powers of the Grand Jury to harass and pursue political dissidents is a departure from its proper constitutional function, and is a threat to public order, lawful government and true domestic security.

Witnesses called before a Grand Jury may be given little or no warning of their subpoenas, may be forced to travel to courts at distances from their homes, may not know whether they are targets of prosecution, may have little understanding of their rights, and cannot have legal counsel in the chambers.

Comprehensive Grand Jury reform legislation is needed to restore the constitutional guarantees of protection for citizens. The Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination and false accusation must be re-established and reinforced.

The United Methodist Church, therefore, supports legislation designed to enhance the rights to due process of law, freedom of association, effective legal counsel, the presumption of innocence and the privilege against self-incrimination of persons subpoenaed to testify before Grand Juries.

The Scriptures tell us clearly that "God shows no partiality" (Acts 10:34). The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church cite "the full and willing participation of its citizens" as a key factor in the strength of our political system.

In keeping with the idea of impartiality and the call for citizen participation, we are concerned about the lagging issue of ratification of the Constitutional Amendment providing for full representation of the District of Columbia in the Congress. We are well aware that the population of the District of Columbia is powerless with respect to our national legislative body.

In October of 1971 a statement of the Board of Christian Social Concerns of The United Methodist Church asked the United States Congress to "provide the District of Columbia with two voting U.S. Senators plus the number of voting U.S. Representatives it would be entitled to if it were a State." This position was reaffirmed by the Board of Church and Society in October of 1978.

In 1978 the U.S. Congress passed a Constitutional Amendment providing for full voting representation of the District of Columbia in both the House and the Senate.

This Amendment is now before the various state legislatures and, to become law, must be ratified by 38 states by 1985. A number of states have already ratified the Amendment.

The District of Columbia contains about 750,000 residents. This represents a population equal to or greater than seven states—each of which has full voting representation in the Congress. Each year District residents pay more than $1 billion into the Federal treasury, yet they are not permitted to have voting representation in the Congress. Such a practice appears to violate our American heritage of “no taxation without representation.”

In terms of simple justice we believe it is appropriate that District of Columbia citizens should have the right to elect national legislators who make the laws under which they, too, must live. Therefore, we urge all uncommitted state legislatures to ratify the Constitutional Amendment providing the District of Columbia with full voting representation in the Congress. We further encourage all United Methodists to support their state legislators in this endeavor.

U.S. Constitutional Convention

As United Methodists, we are grateful that for almost 200 years the Constitution of the United States has provided a basis for cherished religious and civil liberties. The document drawn up by persons, including many descendants of those who fled to America because of persecution for their religious beliefs, has served as the cornerstone of our freedoms. The Social Principles statement of The United Methodist Church “acknowledge(s) the vital function of government as a principal vehicle for the ordering of society.” With the rules for governing a constitutional convention would become a vehicle of disorder rather than order (sic). We are therefore deeply concerned about state efforts to mandate that Congress call a convention which would re-open the Constitution and possibly jeopardize its provisions.

I. Background. Unknown to most citizens of the United States, twenty-seven state legislatures have petitioned Congress for a constitutional convention. Only seven more are needed to make up the three-fourths (sic) required by the Constitution. This would be the first constitutional convention since 1787, which was called to amend the Articles of Confederation. There are two forces behind the movement. One desires to add an amendment declaring a fetus a human person at the moment of conception, thus prohibiting abortions for any reason. Another force seeks an amendment to require a balanced federal budget.

The Constitution provides two methods for proposing amendments. One is the familiar route used to adopt all the twenty-six present amendments. Five others were approved by Congress but not ratified by the states. Two are still pending. Both methods are described in Article V of the Constitution.

“The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution, or on the Application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress.”

Since 1787 there have been over 300 applications for a constitutional convention, but no single proposal has ever been endorsed by two-thirds of the States at the same time. The closest approach occurred in the mid-1960s when thirty-three state legislatures petitioned Congress to call a convention to overrule the “one person, one vote” decision of the Supreme Court dealing with equitable apportionment of state legislatures.

II. Reasons For Opposition To A Constitutional Convention. We state the following concerns as our reasons for opposing a constitutional convention.

1. There are virtually no guidelines regarding the specific rules for calling a convention and, if it were called, for determining how it would be run.

Since the language of the Constitution is vague, serious questions have been raised which constitutional scholars and jurists are unable to answer. What constitutes a valid application to Congress by a state legislature for an amending convention? Do all state petitions have to have the same wording, the same provisions, and the same subject matter? If the two-thirds of the legislatures do adopt a resolution, is Congress obliged to call a convention? Must all applications for a convention on a given issue be submitted to the same Congress, or is an application adopted in 1975, for example, still valid? If an amending convention were called, could it be limited to a single issue or might it open the entire Constitution for change? How would delegates be selected and how would votes in the convention be allocated? What would Congress' role be in this amending method? Would disputes over calling a convention and over its procedures be reviewable by the courts?

The complexity of the questions, and the fact that "experts" have no answers, illustrates the seriousness of attempting an uncharted route for changing the most fundamental document of our government.

2. This constitutional convention process of amendment has been a less democratic procedure than the traditional means of amendment.

The fact that in almost 200 years there have been only twenty-six amendments to the Constitution attests to the fact that the traditional amendment route is constructed to assure wide national debate on each amendment and careful consideration by a three-fourths majority of the legislatures.

The process of calling for a constitutional convention has not been marked by careful consideration and democratic procedures. Of the twenty-seven states which have adopted the resolution, only six legislatures held hearings where the public was able to testify on the implications of the convention. In most instances there has been only cursory debate before adopting the resolution. In two states no committees considered the petitions before they were passed by the two bodies of the legislature. Committee reports were issued in only six states, explaining the proposed action. In one state, the Senate committee discussed the petition for thirty minutes; the House committee discussed it six minutes.

Further, the people of the United States would have no direct vote on the results of the convention. State constitutional conventions, which are quite common, submit the proposed state constitutional changes to the voters. This has prevented the passage of changes pushed by small pressure groups, frequently over highly emotional issues. But the voters would have no ability to vote on a national constitutional revision, a matter affecting their most precious liberties.

3. Forces behind the call for a constitutional convention are dealing with highly emotional and highly complex issues which should be dealt with in the established manner for amending the Constitution.

“Right to life” advocates, frustrated by their inability to succeed in their goals of eliminating all abortions through the normal legislative process are now trying the constitutional convention route. Yet such an amendment, declaring the fetus a person from the moment of conception, would be, in effect, to write one theological position into the Constitution. Various faith groups, including The United Methodist Church, do not share that theology. Such a position would be tantamount to declaring an abortion for any reason a murder. It would also inhibit the use of contraceptives such as the intra-uterine device (IUD). This would be contrary to the doctrine of separation of church and state embodied in the Constitution, and would impinge on freedom of religion, guaranteed in the First Amendment.

While the idea of a balanced federal budget has wide popular support, economists are highly uncertain of its effect on the economy. Many believe that it would not cut spending, as the public believes, but instead might require higher taxes and higher revenues. Both Republican and Democratic leadership oppose such an amendment because of its inflexibility. The budget and the economy are closely interrelated. When unemployment goes up only one percentage point, the deficit swells by some $20 billion due to lost tax revenues and increased social welfare costs such as unemployment compensation. A constitutional amendment would make it impossible to deal with such situations. Congressional leadership also points to the fact that the federal budget could be balanced fairly easily—by eliminating the current $82 billion in aid to state and local governments. But the same states calling for an amendment do not want the budget balanced at the cost of lost revenue to their states.

In summary, the present move towards a constitutional convention is ill-conceived and is being promoted by persons looking for easy solutions to complex problems. The Constitution should not have to suffer at the expense of frustrations that should be dealt with in the normal procedural manner which has served us well for two centuries. Therefore, be it resolved, that the General Conference:

1. Oppose efforts of state legislatures to petition Congress to call a constitutional convention;
2. Inform local congregations regarding the factors involved in proposing a constitutional convention; and

3. Urge United Methodists to communicate their opposition to such a convention to their state legislatures and, in states that have adopted such a resolution*, to urge its withdrawal.

Safety and Health in Workplace and Community

Just as biblical religion affirms that God is involved in the healing of individuals (Genesis 20:17; Matthew 8), so also does God's covenant with His people include the mandate to protect the community from dangers that threaten the health of the people (Leviticus 14:33-15:14). At the beginning of Methodism, John Wesley provided medicine and medical treatment at no cost to the poor in London and Bristol. In addition to pioneering free dispensaries in England, Wesley emphasized prevention of illness. In his book "Primitive Physic" he dealt with nutrition and hygiene, as well as treatment of the sick. The first Social Creed, adopted by the 1908 General Conference of The Methodist Episcopal Church, declared that workers must be protected "from dangerous machinery, occupational diseases, injuries, and mortality," and that working conditions must be regulated to safeguard the physical and moral health of the community. Today as well, the church is called to declare that the health of every individual is part of community health, including safe and healthy conditions in places where people work. The Church has a responsibility to pronounce clearly the implications of God's law of love for human health. Where human life and health are at stake, economic gain must not take precedence.

A. Public Health Hazards. Public health hazards originate from a variety of sources, including organisms (e.g., bacteria, fungi, and viruses), physical conditions (e.g., hazardous machinery and excessive noise), toxic chemicals and radiation. Some public health hazards, such as venereal disease and lead poisoning, were known to our biblical forebears and other ancient civilizations. Other hazards such as toxic chemical wastes are products of the past century's rapid technological development. Such hazards can produce infectious diseases, disabling injuries, incapacitating illnesses, and death. Toxic substances and related hazards such as ionizing radiation threaten the exposed individual to additional hazards such as cancer and sterility, and also threaten future generations with birth defects and gene mutations. A single toxic substance may have wide-range usage from the home to the workplace to the environment. It may persist for years in the form of dangerous wastes and residues. The human consequences of such public health hazards are vast. In 1977, work-related injuries claimed 5.3 million victims, including 4,760 deaths.<sup>1</sup> In 1976, compensation payments of $7.5 billion were made for work-related deaths, disease and disability.<sup>2</sup> Environmental and occupational cancer are estimated to represent 20-38 percent of all cancer.<sup>3</sup> One substance alone, asbestos, is expected to claim the lives of 1.6 million of the 4 million individuals heavily exposed since World War II, including a substantial number of shipyard workers.<sup>4</sup> These deaths, diseases and disabilities have an additional impact on the affected individuals and their families in terms of medical costs, lost earning capacity, pain, suffering, and grief. When long-term diseases such as cancer, birth defects, and gene mutations are involved, the human consequences extend far beyond the immediately perceived hazards of infection or injury.

B. Declaration. Public health is dependent on effective prevention and active protection before illness or injury have occurred. To fulfill God's commandment to love our neighbor as ourselves, we should support action to protect each individual's health and to preserve the health of the community. To this end we declare:

1. Every individual, including those with handicapping conditions and disabilities, has a right to a safe and healthful environment unendangered by a polluted natural world, a hazardous workplace, an unsanitary community, dangerous household products, unsafe drugs, and contaminated food. This human right must take precedence over property rights. Moreover, the necessary preservation of human life and health must not be sacrificed or diminished for economic gain. It is unconscionable that anyone should profit from conditions which lead to the disease, disability or death of another. Furthermore, the essential protection of the physical and moral quality of human life must not be compromised by competing considerations of capital investment and return, or diminished by society's insistence on affluence, luxury and convenience.

2. Public health hazards must be prevented in order to avoid the serious individual and community consequences of injury, illness, and untimely death, including disability, physical pain, mental anguish, lost human potential, family stress, and the diversion of scarce medical resources.

3. Public health hazards to future generations such as toxic substances and wastes which produce birth defects and gene mutations must be prevented in order to avoid a legacy of disease, disability and untimely death. No generation has the right to assume risks that potentially endanger the viability of future life.

4. The public health risks of technological development must be fully and openly assessed before new technologies are introduced into the home, the workplace, the community, or the environment. Medical research should be required to give high priority to the identification of hazardous substances and processes.

5. The preservation and protection of human life from public health hazards is a fundamental responsibility of government which must be maintained by active public support and adequate public funds. Efficient administration and effective enforcement of public health laws including those governing the use and disposal of toxic substances should be supported at all levels of government.

6. Preventive health care should be taught in educational institutions to persons in every age group at every level of society. Health professionals in all branches of medicine and public health, and those in related fields, should be educated in practicing preventive medicine, implementing community preventive health strategies, and assisting patients in the adoption of healthy lifestyles. Programs should be implemented that educate and inform consumers and workers about physical, chemical, biological and radiological hazards of products, services, working conditions, and environmental contaminants.

Concern for Persons in Poverty

We are aware of the plight of many in our country who do not have enough of the necessities of life to live as human beings, and

We know that some are caught in a depressing cycle that makes it difficult for them to move out of their plight, and

We, as Christians, accept the responsibility of trying to provide sustenance, encouragement, education, and motivation to the poor to join the mainstream of society, and

We recognize that if we are to accomplish these goals of raising persons' standards of living we Must request that federal minimum standards be set that will more nearly equalize welfare support in various states, and

Must challenge the welfare systems of the states, and the nation, to recognize that the poor have both rights and responsibilities, and

Must reaffirm the statement on "National Income Policies" and social welfare that was adopted by the 1976 General Conference, and Must urge our United Methodist Church and members to learn first hand about their local welfare systems and encourage more effective use of the resources available to serve the poor.

Therefore Be It Resolved that we request the boards and agencies of The United Methodist Church to include concerns for the persons in poverty to the end that the Church will make every effort to influence public action so that the rights of all persons will be protected.

Drug and Alcohol Concerns

I. Introduction. We recognize the widespread use and misuse of drugs which alter mood, perception, consciousness, and behavior of persons among all ages, classes, and segments of our society. We express deep concern for those persons who must depend on the effects of chemical substances to medicate emotional problems or to meet personal, social, and/or recreational needs to an extent that debilitates the individual's health or functioning.

The church can offer a religious and moral heritage which views each individual as a person of infinite worth and significance, sees meaning and purpose in all of life, supports the individual and the society in the quest for wholeness and fulfillment, and seeks healing for the afflicted and liberty for the oppressed. The church should act to develop and support conditions in which responsive decision-making by both individuals and corporate bodies can occur.

We are also deeply concerned about the widespread ignorance and fear of drugs and their effects on the part of the general public. Such lack of knowledge and understanding makes for hysterical and irrational responses. Humane and rational approaches to solutions require an enlightened public capable of making discriminating judgments.

We understand the drug problem to be a "people problem" rather than merely a chemical, medical, or legal problem. As such, a human problems approach is required, focusing on why people use drugs, the meaning and significance of drugs in their lives, and the social and cultural conditions which may contribute to or alleviate the destructive use of drugs. Such an approach sees drug use and misuse in the larger context of health care, inadequate education and substandard housing, poverty in the midst of plenty, affluence without meaning, rapid social change and technological development, changing moral values and growing alienation, hostility and war between peoples, environmental pollution, the waste of natural resources, and the quest for purpose and meaning to life and the lack of self-understanding, self-affirmation and self-reliance.

The human problems approach is interdisciplinary; i.e., it involves all relevant files of human knowledge in the search for solutions. It requires community involvement from professionals, self-help groups, volunteer agencies, and concerned individuals in the public and private sectors. Such active mobilization of community resources makes possible the consideration of all relevant dimensions of the situation, personal and social.

With all the conflicting opinions and misinformation available, accurate definitions are essential to clear understanding and constructive action on human problems involving the use and misuse of drugs. Pharmacologically, a drug is "any substance which by its chemical nature alters the structure or function of the human organism." This broad definition encompasses a wide range of substances, including medicines, food additives, and household remedies such as aspirin, as well as psychoactive substances such as alcohol, tobacco, caffeine, heroin, barbituates, amphetamines, Cannabis sativa (marijuana), tranquilizers, LSD and miscellaneous substances such as glue and paint thinner. Even the proper medical use under guidance of a competent physician carries risks to health and functionings, and nonmedical use increases those risks considerably.

We understand drug use to mean taking a substance responsibly in the appropriate amount, frequency, strength, and manner that is likely to result in physical, psychological, and social well-being, and drug misuse to mean taking a substance irresponsibly in an amount, frequency, strength, or manner that is likely to result in damage to the user's health or impair his or her ability to function psychologically, socially, or vocationally, or proves harmful to the society. The meaning of drug abuse is covered in the definition of misuse and is thus omitted, since it has generally confused rather than clarified understanding. No drug may be considered harmless, but the effects of any given drug must be judged in the light of such variables as dosage, manner of ingestion, the user's personality and disposition, and the social setting in which the drug is taken.

The ministry of the church should be directed both to the prevention and the treatment of problems related to drug use and misuse. All members of society, including churchmen and churchwomen, should become thoroughly informed about drug issues so that they can make intelligent and responsible decisions about personal use and social policy controlling drug use. Therefore:

1. We encourage and seek funding for the church and the larger community to develop various forms of drug education for children, youth and adults that deal with drug issues in an honest, objective, and factual manner. Informed public discussion is essential to enlightened public action.

2. We urge churches and their members to join with others engaged in positive and constructive programs of prevention and treatment to form a comprehensive, ecumenical, interfaith and multi-disciplinary approach to the wide range of drug problems. The total resources of the community need to be mobilized. Therefore, churches should become involved in prevention and rehabilitation efforts and should encourage and support community-wide efforts to provide services and facilities to the total population in need.

3. We call upon the helping professions in general to develop an increased awareness of drug problems and to utilize their various skills in the search for solutions to these problems. The pastor should serve as a member of this interprofessional community service team.

4. We encourage public schools to integrate drug education into the curriculum in such a way that children and youth of the total community may learn about drugs in an open and supportive atmosphere that facilitates personal growth and responsible decision-making.

5. We urge professional schools in theology, medicine, education and other graduate schools to develop drug education courses for the training of their students. Opportunities for continuing education and in-service training should also be provided for these professionals.

6. We encourage the efforts by city, state and national government to find ways and means to deal with people who have drug-related problems within the framework of social, health, and rehabilitation services, rather than in the framework of law and punishment. The fundamental role of law enforcement agencies should be to reduce the traffic in drugs by apprehending the professional profiteers. We ask legislative bodies to provide sufficient funding for an adequate drug education program.

7. We call upon members of the medical profession to join with the church, all community agencies, and government in finding ways and means of preventing the misuse of those drugs which are intended to be therapeutic.

8. We urge research into the effects, the extent, the causes, the prevention, and the treatment of all aspects of the use and misuse of drugs, and believe that such research is urgent and should be pursued in an atmosphere of flexibility and freedom.

9. We support the efforts of the President, the Congress, and state legislative bodies to develop social policy about drugs that is rational, humane, based on factual evidence, and commensurate with the known dangers of the drugs to the individual and to society.

II. Alcohol. Alcohol presents a special case of drug abuse because of its widespread social acceptance. We affirm our long-standing conviction and recommendation that abstention from the use of alcoholic beverages is a faithful witness to God's liberating and redeeming love.

This witness is especially relevant in a pluralistic society where drinking is so uncritically accepted and practiced; where excessive, harmful, and dangerous drinking patterns are so common; where destructive reasons for drinking are so glamorized that youthful immaturity can be exploited for personal gain; where alcohol contributes to a great proportion of fatal traffic and industrial accidents; where millions of individuals and their families suffer from alcoholism and countless others from various drinking problems and where alcohol is a factor in many other social problems such as crime, poverty, and family disorder.

Thus the recommendation of abstinence to members of The United Methodist Church is based on a critical appraisal of the personal and social-cultural factors in and surrounding alcohol use, the detrimental effects of irresponsible drinking on the individual and society, and a concrete judgment regarding what love demands. The church recognizes the freedom of the Christian to make responsible decisions and calls upon each member to consider seriously and prayerfully the witness of abstinence as a part of his or her equipment for Christian mission in the world. The understanding of the social forces that influence people either to drink or to abstain must be encouraged. Christian love in human relationships is primary, thereby making abstinence an instrument of love and always subject to the requirements of love. Persons who practice abstinence should avoid attitudes of self-righteousness which express moral superiority and condemnatory attitudes toward those who do not abstain.

We believe that concern for the problems of alcohol carries with it the inherent obligation to seek the healing and justice in society that will alleviate the social conditions which contribute to and issue from alcohol problems. Therefore:

1. We urge every local congregation and each member to demonstrate an active concern for alcoholics and their families and for all persons with drinking problems.

2. We urge all legislative bodies and health care systems to focus on and implement measures to meet the special needs of women, racial minorities, juveniles, and the elderly. Basic to this concern is an informed mind and compassionate heart which views the alcoholic without moralism and with empathy.

3. We urge churches to make education about alcohol problems and the value of abstinence an integral part of all drug education efforts.

4. We encourage churches to develop special action programs on alcohol problems which include prevention education in the family, church and community; utilizing mass media to develop responsible attitudes toward alcohol-related problems; care, treatment, and rehabilitation of problem drinkers; measures to prevent persons from driving while under the influence of alcohol; the achievement of appropriate and effective legal controls; and the stimulation of sound empirical research.

5. We favor laws to eliminate the advertising of alcoholic beverages.

6. We urge the health system, especially United Methodist-related hospitals, to accept alcoholism as a medical-social-behavioral problem and to treat the alcoholic person with the same attention and consideration as any other patient.

7. We urge the Federal Trade Commission to develop a health hazard warning statement concerning the use of alcohol as a beverage, and that it be affixed to all alcoholic beverages offered for sale.

8. We urge the Federal government to coordinate its drug and alcohol abuse efforts in an attempt to alleviate fragmented results in treatment and prevention.

III. Tobacco. Tobacco presents another special case of drug abuse. Constrained by the overwhelming evidence linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer, cardio-vascular diseases, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and related illnesses, and moved to seek the health and well-being of all persons, we urge private and public health organizations to initiate intensive programs to demonstrate the link between smoking and disease. The United Methodist Church discourages persons, particularly youth and young adults, from taking up this generally habituating practice.

We are especially concerned about the portrayal of smoking in connection with commercial advertising. We commend the suspension of cigarette advertising on radio and television. Smoking in other advertisements is still depicted in ways which identify it with physical and social maturity, attractiveness, and success. We support the Federal Trade Commission's rules requiring health warning statements in cigarette packaging.

1. We support expanded research to discover the specific agents in tobacco which damage health, to develop educational methods which effectively discourage smoking, to organize services to assist those who wish to stop smoking.

2. We urge the Department of Agriculture and other government agencies to plan for and assist the orderly economic transition of the tobacco industry—tobacco growers, processors, and distributors—into other, more benign lines or production.

3. We recommend that tobacco smoking in our churches and in other public facilities be discouraged in support of the right of non-smokers to clean air.

4. We recommend the prohibition of commercial advertising of tobacco products in order to reduce enticement toward use of a proven health hazard.

IV. Marijuana. Marijuana is one form of the common hemp plant, Cannabis sativa, which consists of the dried and crushed leaves and flowering tops of the plants. High concentration of the plant resin alone is called hashish, and is six to eight times as potent as the usual marijuana.

Recent studies by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare show (1) increases in the use of marijuana, especially by youth between the ages of 12 and 17, (2) that as many as 43 million Americans have tried marijuana at least once and 16 million use it regularly, (3) that one marijuana cigarette produces as much airway obstruction as 16 tobacco cigarettes, and that despite marijuana decriminalization efforts on the part of many states, in excess of 4,000,000 persons were arrested for possession of marijuana in 1978. Researchers contend that marijuana use will continue to rise in prevalence among youth and other age groups.

Research conducted at the Institute of Behavioral Science, at the University of Colorado, concluded that "personal control variables—whether religiosity, moral standards, or attitudes about transgression—were shown to be powerful in regulating whether marijuana use occurred at all, how early, and with what degree of involvement."

We recommend the following:

1. Abstinence from the use of marijuana.
2. The elimination of criminal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana not to exceed one ounce, for personal use. The social costs of wrecked lives and careers, especially among young people, and of wasted law enforcement resources involved with continued criminal prohibition far outweigh the harm caused by the misuse of the drug. This recommendation in no way, however, implies approval or encouragement of marijuana use or its legalization.
3. Therefore, we urge that special attention be given marijuana in drug education programs. It is necessary to deal with the fear and misinformation which surround attitudes about this drug in order that discussion can be conducted on a rational basis.
4. We continue to support strong law enforcement efforts against the illegal sale of all drugs.
5. We encourage a review of cases of persons already serving sentences for use or possession of marijuana committed prior to reforms which reduced penalties for such use or possession.
6. We encourage continued medical and scientific research to determine the potential dangers of marijuana use to the individual.
7. We urge development of a social policy regarding the use of marijuana based upon accurate knowledge and enlightened understanding.

V. Narcotics. Narcotics are a group of drugs whose analgesic action relieves pain and produces sleep or stupor. They include derivatives of the opium plant such as heroin, morphine, codeine and percodan and synthetic substances such as methadone and meperidine. Medically, narcotics are employed primarily for the relief of pain, but the risk of physical and psychological dependence is well established. Dependence of both kinds refers to compulsive behavior characterized by a preoccupation with procuring and using the drug. The exact number of persons, commonly called "addicts," dependent on self-administered doses is unknown, but estimates place the number as high as 456,000.

The action of the narcotic reduces hunger, pain, and aggressive and sexual drives; it is the desire or need for the drug rather than its effects which motivates criminal activity associated with compulsive narcotic abuse. While the availability of heroin has long been prevalent in many inner-city ghetto communities, it is a growing problem in all segments of our society. Therefore:

1. We urge members of the church to consider the compulsive users of narcotics as persons in need of treatment and rehabilitation, and to show compassion and supportive concern for them and their families.

2. We urge that public, private and church funds be made available for prevention of drug abuse and for treatment and rehabilitation methods for compulsive narcotic users, including types of chemical therapy, which emphasize becoming productive and emotionally stable members of society.

3. We urge continual reform of the law to make it easier for the compulsive users to be treated not as criminals, but as persons in need of medical attention, psychiatric treatment, pastoral care, and social rehabilitation.

4. We support strong enforcement measures aimed at reducing the illegitimate organized production, manufacture, distribution and sale of narcotics for profit.

VI. Sedatives and Stimulants. Sedatives are used therapeutically to treat anxiety, induce sleep, control convulsions, and also as muscle relaxants. Barbituates and the minor tranquilizers are the sedatives most commonly prescribed by physicians.

Although major tranquilizers may properly be prescribed to treat mental illnesses such as schizophrenia, the use of such drugs to relieve emotional stresses of everyday living constitutes misuse as well as irresponsible prescribing practices.

Severe physical dependence on barbituates can develop at dosages higher than therapeutic doses, and withdrawal is severe and dangerous. Overdose of barbituates is currently one of the major methods of committing suicide. Accidental overdoses sometimes occur when sleeping pills are left by the side of the bed and an already sedated, confused person ingests a lethal dose. Alcohol and barbituates combined multiply their efforts so that drinking after taking medication is especially hazardous. Enough barbituate capsules are manufactured by pharmaceutical companies annually to supply approximately thirty capsules for each person in the United States. A significant proportion of these legitimately produced pills are diverted into illegitimate channels.

Stimulants produce a sense of vitality, alertness, and energy plus the ability to do without sleep for long periods. Stimulants include amphetamines, cocaine, and mild stimulants such as caffeine and nicotine. Therapeutically they are used to treat obesity, narcolepsy, hyperkinesis, fatigue, and depression.

Recent studies by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on amphetamines (uppers, speed, etc.) show their excessive use causing increased blood pressure, brain damage, kidney failure, severe weight loss and malnutrition, irritability, violence and severe delusions of persecution.

The stimulant misuser cannot be stereotyped but ranges from the diet pill abuser to the "speed freak." Few people die from the direct overuse of stimulants, but long-term misuse may result in disorientation and paranoid psychosis. Stimulants are not a magic source of energy, but instead push the user to a greater expenditure of his or her own physical resources often to a hazardous point of fatigue. The body builds a tolerance so that larger doses are required to maintain the same "high." Stimulants such as amphetamines are available legally on a written prescription of a physician. These prescriptions cannot be refilled, but can be obtained from one or more physicians, and filled by one or more pharmacists. Therefore:

1. We urge members of the medical profession to exercise special care in their prescription of sedatives and stimulants and that they provide therapeutic nonchemical alternatives where available and possible, especially to those eligible for third party payments.

2. We urge the federal government to take the necessary protective steps to curtail excessive production and distribution of sedative and stimulant drugs by setting quotas, requiring precise record-keeping of receipts, and dispositions to be filed with the government periodically, and the insuring of adequate drug storage procedures by the manufacturer and wholesalers through licensing requirements.

3. We call upon both the governmental and private sectors of society to develop cooperatively a comprehensive regulatory system in which the drug industry, the drug distributors, advertisers, the medical profession and the consumers will be required to assume collective responsibility for the proper production, distribution, promotion, and the use of prescription and nonprescription drugs.

4. We call upon the mass media, advertising agencies and drug companies to frame advertisements which promote appropriate drug use rather than to encourage their indiscriminate use to solve personal problems.

5. Because mood-altering drugs have often been promoted and prescribed for uses beyond those that are medically indicated, we recommend (1) the development of an independent drug information/evaluation system; (2) the upgrading of medical school training in regard to the prescribing of mood-altering drugs as well as post-graduate education for already practicing physicians; (3) the education of the public to the inherent dangers and inappropriate uses of such substances.

6. We encourage and support the efforts of the federal government to continue to monitor and reduce the manufacture and distribution of amphetamines.

VII. Psychedelics or Hallucinogens. Psychedelics or hallucinogens are a class of drugs which include LSD, psilocibin, mescaline, PCP, and DMT. These drugs produce radical changes in perception and altered states of consciousness. Hallucinogens refers to the illusion-producing properties of these drugs, and psychedelic means, literally, mind-opening. PCP (Phencyclidine, Angel Dust) has been determined by the federal government to have no recommended human medical use. It is a depressant, although it is sold on the street as an hallucinogen. Depending on the dosage, PCP can cause increased heart rate, elevated blood pressure, flushing, sweating, impaired coordination, speech and vision, drooling, nausea and vomiting. The simple manufacture and easy distribution of PCP enables its production by a vast number of persons, making it the current drug of choice of the 15 to 25 year old age group in the United States.

Scientific experimentation to determine therapeutic uses for LSD-type drugs includes treatment of alcoholism, narcotic addiction, and terminal cancer patients. As far as it is known, these drugs do not produce physical dependence. The full dangers are still under investigation.

Some persons take LSD in search for self-knowledge and self-awareness, others in quest of mystical or religious consciousness, still others because of disillusionment with reality and rebellion. Casual or promiscuous use is particularly hazardous since serious adverse reactions are common where warm and supportive settings are absent. These dangers include fear and panic which can lead to bizarre and self-destructive behavior or temporary psychosis. Long-term risks include prolonged depression, paranoia, psychosis, and the "flashback," the recurrence of some aspect of the drug experience after the influence of the drug has gone. Buying LSD-type drugs through illicit channels carries the additional large dangers of unknown dosage and impure forms. Therefore:

1. We urge individuals to refrain from the use of psychedelics.
2. We urge modification of current legal controls of psychedelic drugs in order to make possible more controlled professional therapeutic research with these drugs.
3. We call upon the churches to demonstrate actively their concern for those who use such drugs.

Penal Reform

Our Lord began his ministry by declaring, ". . . release to the captives. . ." (Luke 4:18), and he distinguished those who would receive a blessing at the last judgment by saying, "I was in prison and you came to me." The Christian, therefore, naturally has concern for those who are captive, for those who are imprisoned, and for human conditions under which persons are incarcerated.

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church asserts the need for “. . .new systems of rehabilitation that will restore, preserve and nurture the humanity of the imprisoned.”

There is not one, but there are many correctional systems in the United States which bear the responsibility for the confinement or supervision of persons convicted of crimes. For the most part the systems are capable neither of rehabilitating criminals nor of protecting society. They are, in fact, institutions where persons are further conditioned in criminal conduct and where advanced skills in crime are taught. More often than not correctional institutions have created crime rather than deterred criminals. They represent an indescribable failure and have been subjected to a gross neglect by the rest of society.

The church has participated in the neglect of the correctional system by being blind to the inhumanities which the system perpetuates and being silent about the social ills that it intensifies. The church has challenged neither society nor itself to acceptance of responsibility for making those critically needed changes in the penal system which would permit it to motivate improvement and offer hope to those detained within it.

Major changes are needed in the nation's correctional systems in order for them to become positive factors in the restoration of persons and the stabilization of society. Support needs to be given to alternatives to incarceration to reduce mounting costs, by using additional rehabilitative resources.

The United Methodist Church calls upon its members to express a practical faith in redemptive love through the supporting of:

1. The greater use of alternatives to pretrial detention for persons accused of crimes such as: (a) release on recognizance; (b) the setting of reasonable and equitable bail; (c) the payment of a modest percentage in cash of the designated bail.

2. The use of alternatives to prosecution such as dispute settlement services and conflict resolution programs and; the diverting of persons formally subject to criminal prosecution for drunkenness, vagrancy, and juvenile “status offenses” into those organized programs which furnish noncriminal justice services.

3. The use of alternatives to incarceration for those convicted of crimes such as: fines, payments of restitution to victims of offender's crimes, social service sentences, and probation.

The United Methodist Church further urges its congregations and members to support those penal policies which:

1. Promote social rehabilitation of convicted persons in preference to punitive confinement.

2. Develop and support a range of community-based alternatives to institutional incarceration such as work release programs.

3. Establish and maintain prisons and jails which have healthful and humane surroundings and a climate conducive to human growth and development.

4. Guarantee and maintain the rights of offenders to legal and medical services. Guarantee the freedom of expression, association and religion, protect the lives and persons of offenders from abuse from staff and other inmates, and furnish effective procedures for the redress of grievances.

5. Establish uniform disciplinary procedures within correctional institutions.

6. Provide cooperation with community agencies.

7. Allow an optimal maintenance of relationships with the outside world, especially to preserve wholesome marriage and family ties; arrange for conjugal visits of husbands and wives following medical examinations and interviews for the purpose of insuring that mutual desire exists. Arrange visits of families with as much privacy as security will permit. Encourage friends and friendly counselors to make visits as well.

Gambling

The Social Principles state that "gambling is a menace to society, deadly to the best interest of moral, social, economic, and spiritual life, and destructive of good government. As an act of faith and love Christians should abstain from gambling, and should strive to minister to those victimized by the practice. Community standards and personal lifestyles should be such as would make unnecessary and undesirable the resort to commercial gambling, including public lotteries, as a recreation, as an escape, or as a means of producing public revenue or funds for support of charities or governments."

One of the essential commandments, according to Jesus, is "love thy neighbor as thyself." (Matthew 22:39-40) This, together with loving God with all of one's being, summarizes all of the law.

Gambling as a means of seeking material gain only by chance and at the neighbor's expense is a menace to personal character and social morality. Gambling fosters greed and stimulates the fatalistic faith in chance. Organized and commercial gambling is a threat to business, breeds crime and poverty, and is destructive to the interests of good government.

We oppose the growing legalization and state promotion of gambling.

Dependence on gambling revenue has led many states to exploit the weakness of their own citizens, neglect the development of more equitable forms of taxation, and thereby further erodes citizens' confidence in government.

We oppose the legalization of parimutuel betting, for it has been the opening wedge in the legalization of other forms of gambling within the states, and has stimulated illegal bookmaking. We deplore the establishment of state lotteries and their use as a means of raising public revenues. The constant promotion and the wide advertising of lotteries have encouraged large numbers of persons to gamble for the first time.

We express an even more serious concern for the increasing development of the casino enterprise in the United States, for it has taken captive entire communities and has infiltrated many levels of government with its fiscal and political power.

Public apathy and a lack of awareness that petty gambling feeds organized crime have opened the door to the spread of numerous forms of legal and illegal gambling.

We support the strong enforcement of anti-gambling laws, the repeal of all laws that give gambling an acceptable and even advantageous place in our society, and the rehabilitation of compulsive gamblers.

The church has a key role in fostering responsible government and in developing health and moral maturity which free persons from dependence on damaging social customs. It is expected that United Methodist churches abstain from the use of raffles, lotteries, Bingo, door prizes, other drawing schemes, and games of chance for the purpose of gambling or fund raising. We should refrain from all forms of gambling practices carried on in our communities and should work to influence community organizations to develop forms of funding which do not depend upon gambling.

Juvenile Justice

Our Lord particularly identified with children and illustrated the loving care which they need to grow and mature (Mark 9:36-37, Mark 9:42).

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church call for special attention to the rights of children and youth. From these perspectives we are concerned that in many states children are arrested and incarcerated for truancy, incorrigibility, stubborn altercations with parents, and other conduct which would not be criminal if performed by an adult. Such status offenses should not be considered as grounds for relating a juvenile to processes of criminal procedure or even of delinquency procedures. Rather, a child in trouble should be helped by agencies for domestic assistance.

There is considerable evidence that the methods of dealing with the child have a major part in developing criminal tendencies. Most violent, persistently repeating adults began their conflict with law and order as children, ten to fourteen years old. If treatment by the state or local agencies lead the child to think of himself or herself as a tough or young criminal, he or she is likely to act out that role.

The United Methodist Church urges that all status offenses be eliminated from the juvenile codes and from the processes for determining juvenile delinquency. We urge further that all offenses by children and youth be handled with extreme reluctance to incarcerate the offender. We especially oppose solitary confinement of children and youth in official detention. Institutions where juveniles classified as delinquent often are segregated from the general population often become schools of crime. As an alternative, we encourage greater use of supportive services for parents and children in their home settings; foster child care; neighborhood group homes, Parents Anonymous, and other alternatives.

There are communities within the states in which children are routinely locked up in jails because of a lack of temporary shelter care or an unwillingness to use home detention. We urge the prohibition of placing dependent and neglected children in jails or facilities for juvenile delinquents.

Capital Punishment

In spite of a common assumption to the contrary, "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," does not give justification for the imposing of the penalty of death. Jesus explicitly repudiated the lex taliones (Matthew 5:38-39), and the Talmud denies its literal meaning, replacing it with financial indemnities.

When a woman was brought before Jesus, having committed a crime for which the death penalty was commonly imposed, our Lord so persisted in questioning the moral authority of those who were ready to conduct the execution, that they finally dismissed the charges (John 8:31f).

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church condemns "... torture of persons by governments for any purpose," and asserts that it violates Christian teachings. The Church also through its Social Principles further declares, "we oppose capital punishment and urge its elimination from all criminal codes."

After a moratorium of a full decade, the use of the death penalty in the United States has resumed. Other Western nations have largely abolished it during the 20th century. But a rapidly rising rate of crime and an even greater increase in the fear of crime has generated support within the American society for the institution of death as the punishment for certain forms of homicide. It is now being asserted, as it was often in the past, that capital punishment would deter criminals and would protect law abiding citizens.

The United States Supreme Court, on Gregg v. Georgia, in permitting use of the death penalty, conceded the lack of evidence that it reduced violent crime, but then permitted its use for purposes of sheer retribution.

The United Methodist Church cannot accept retribution or social vengeance as a reason for taking human life. It violates our deepest belief in God as the creator and the redeemer of humankind. In this respect, there can be no assertion that human life can be taken humanely by the state. Indeed, in the long run, the use of the death penalty by the state will increase the acceptance of revenge in our society and will give official sanction to a climate of violence.

The United Methodist Church is deeply concerned about the present high rate of crime in the United States, and about the value of a life taken in murder or homicide. By taking another life through capital punishment, the life of the victim is further devalued. Moreover, the church is convinced that the use of the death penalty would result in neither a net reduction of crime in general nor in a lessening of the particular kinds of crime against which it was directed. Homicide—the crime for which the death penalty has been used almost exclusively in recent deaths—increased far less than other major crimes during the period of the moratorium. Progressively rigorous scientific studies, conducted over more than forty years, overwhelmingly failed to support the thesis that capital punishment deters homicide more effectively than does imprisonment. The most careful comparisons of homicide rates in similar states with and without use of the death penalty and also of the same state in periods with and without it have found as many or slightly more criminal homicides with use of the death penalty.

The death penalty also falls unfairly and unequally upon an outcast minority. Recent methods for selecting the few persons sentenced to die from among the larger number who are convicted of comparable offenses have not cured the arbitrariness and discrimination that have historically marked the administration of capital punishment in this country.

The United Methodist Church is convinced that the nation's leaders should give attention to the improvement of the total criminal justice system and to the elimination of social conditions which breed crime and cause disorder, rather than fostering a false confidence in the effectiveness of the death penalty.

The United Methodist Church declares its opposition to the retention and use of capital punishment in any form or carried out by any means; the church urges the abolition of capital punishment.

Population

The creation of the world out of chaos into order is the initial biblical witness. In this witness is the affirmation of the freedom and responsibility of humankind. We affirm God to be the Creator, the one who grants us freedom, and the one to whom we are responsible.

God's ongoing creative and re-creative concern for the universe was expressed through Jesus Christ, who has called us to find the meaning of our lives in dual love of God and neighbor. In this context we live responsibly before God, writing history by the actions of our lives. The imperative upon the individual Christian and the Christian community is to seek patterns of life, shape the structures of society, and foster those values which will dignify human life for all.

In this quest we must not "quench the Spirit" but allow the spirit to lead us into God's new day for all people, a new day which calls for the compassionate and passionate desire to see a new birth out of justice.

We believe that history is not finished, but that we are engaged in a history. This is an age of possibility in which we are called under God to serve the future with hope and confidence. Christians have no alternative to involvement in seeking solutions for the massive and complex set of problems which face the world today. All these issues are closely interrelated: hunger, poverty, denial of human rights, economic exploitation and overconsumption by the rich, technologies that are inadequate or inappropriate, depletion of resources, and rapid population growth.

Hunger and poverty, injustice and violence in the world cannot simplistically be blamed on population growth, yet the rapidly swelling numbers of humankind are making it increasingly difficult to solve the other interconnected problems. There is much we do not yet know about the relationship between population size and the sustaining environment, but clearly we do know that there can be too many people.

Programs aimed at reducing population growth should not be ends in themselves, nor substitutes for other measures necessary to eliminate hunger and poverty. The church supports population programs as needed to move toward its goal of a just and humane world order.

The population situation is different in different societies, and therefore nations must be free to develop policies in keeping with their own needs and cultures. In the world community, however, we realize that there are global and regional aspects that affect all humankind and that can only be solved by international cooperation.

At the individual level, our Church has long recognized the basic human right to have the education and means to plan one's family. For women, particularly, the ability to control fertility is a liberating force, making it possible to assume other roles and responsibilities in society. Men and women alike bear responsibility for family planning and contraceptive practices.

Today there are those who claim that some nations are beyond help because of their rapid population growth. The Christian church cannot accept these voices of despair. Even as just means for achieving stabilization are urgently sought, the Christian church must reaffirm the sacredness of each individual and stand fast against attitudes and practices which treat people as mere numbers or masses.

We welcome the growing understanding of what just and desirable means for lowering fertility rates may encompass, and we affirm that the use of such means must take into consideration the critical importance and interrelated nature of these aspects: better education, and the opportunity for people to participate in decisions that shape their lives; the provision of basic economic security, including old-age security; upgrading the status of women; improved maternal and child health care; and finally, a strong birth control program, including the right to abortion and sterilization procedures which are both legally obtainable and voluntary.

The church should take the lead in actions which can help focus on the problems caused by rapid population growth and to support measures to deal with them. We therefore call on the people and agencies of the Church:

1. To recognize rapid population growth to be a matter of great religious and moral concern, to develop education and action programs on the issues raised, and to increase understanding of the interrelationships between population growth and other world problems. Education must include sensitivity toward the existence of varying sociological patterns and religious philosophies.

2. To develop programs to increase understanding of the meaning in today's world of responsible parenthood. Churches can encourage acceptance of the idea that not everyone needs to be a parent and that those who choose to have children should accept the small family norm as responsible practice in today's world.

3. To help the affluent realize the devastating impact on the world and its people of wasteful consumption patterns and exploitative economic systems, and to develop resources and curriculum which encourage change in over-materialistic lifestyles.

4. To urge that United Methodist medical and mission facilities and programs provide a full range of fertility-related and family-planning information and services. The Church should exert leadership in making possible the safe and legal availability of sterilization procedures for both men and women, and of abortion where appropriate.

The Church should offer informed counseling and support to both men and women on all options regarding childbearing. The Church bears a particular responsibility to stand guard against coercive use of birth control practices aimed at the poor and powerless.

5. To take the lead in measures to upgrade the status of women in societies and to include them in all development planning and processes, and give increased support to policies which will further the goal of equal rights for women, such as the Equal Rights Amendment in the United States.

6. To call on all governments to give priority to implementing the provisions of the World Population Plan of Action which the United Nations approved in 1974, and which called for population policies in a context of total social and economic development planning. We especially call on the United States government to develop a national population policy that would include the goal of stabilizing the United States population, and recommendations on population distribution and land and resource use.

7. To call on the United States Congress and legislative bodies of the affluent nations to recognize the crucial nature of population growth, and to give maximum feasible funding to programs of population, health, agricultural, and other technological assistance programs for the poor nations. International assistance programs should be based on mutual cooperation, should recognize the diversities of culture, should encourage self-development and not dependency, and should not attempt to require "effective population programs" as a prerequisite for other developmental assistance.

8. To call for government and private agencies to place a higher priority on research aimed at developing a range of safe, inexpensive contraceptives that can be used in variety of societies and medical situations.

A high priority should also be given to research aimed at gaining greater understanding of attitudes, motivations, and social and economic factors affecting childbearing.

Even as we urge individuals and governments to intensify efforts immediately to achieve population stability as soon as possible, the churches need to keep before people the moral reasons why we need to be concerned with the population problem. Our goal in history is that everyone may have the conditions of existence necessary for the fulfillment of God's intentions for humanity. Our context in history is the preciousness of life and the love of God and all creation.

To the Ayatollah Iman Khomeini, President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, and the people of Iran.

In the name of God the merciful, the compassionate. In the name of Jesus Christ our loving and forgiving Lord. Amen.

We, the General Conference of The United Methodist Church (religious leaders who care about the poor and oppressed of the United States and the world), meeting in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA, hear the agonies of your people; we hear their cries for freedom from foreign domination, from cultural imperialism, from economic exploitation.

We long for that time when our peoples may dwell together in peace.

In the words of Moses, the liberator; let us say to each other "Let my people go!" And let us begin to walk together down the long, hard road toward reconciliation.

Iran . . . Response to Message of Bishop Dale White:

The 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church, desiring to provide positive and constructive leadership in the resolution of the crisis between Iran and the United States.

1. Requests the Council of Bishops to prepare and distribute to all congregations a pastoral letter embodying the spirit of the address by Bishop Dale White, "The Many Truths of Iran."

2. Mandates the General Board of Church and Society, the General Board of Global Ministries, and the General Board of Discipleship and other agencies to cooperate in providing program resources for our congregations.

Housing

The scriptures look ahead to that ideal day when all persons will enjoy pleasant, peaceful and secure shelter under their own vines and fig trees and "none shall make them afraid." (Micah 4:4)

In many portions of the gospel, we find Jesus seeking out homes for retreat and renewal, for fellowship and hospitality. All persons are entitled to dwelling places that provide for privacy and recreation.

The Social Principles statement of The United Methodist Church declares: "We hold governments responsible for . . . guarantee of the right to adequate . . . shelter. We reaffirm this right as well as the assertion of the 1972 General Conference that "housing for low income persons should be given top priority . . ."

There are 75 million occupied housing units in the United States. Of these seven million are seriously substandard; another 25 to 30 million are marginal for human habitation. Furthermore, four and one-half million U. S. citizens are paying more than half of their income for housing.<sup>1</sup> The need for adequate housing at affordable costs abounds.

Love for neighbor demands that Christians care about how adequately their neighbors are sheltered. Christians should identify with those who suffer daily from a shortage of available, decent, safe and sanitary housing. There are many levels and forms of deprivation. Nearly every American town and city has its "street people," those who live literally, without any form of shelter, carrying their entire possessions with them in a few shopping bags.

Millions of families huddle together in densely over-crowded apartments, rural shacks, ancient house trailers, converted warehouses, and condemned or abandoned buildings. At least seven million of our fellow citizens are forced by our society to live in intolerable housing because the remainder of us fail to recognize their plight or simply do not care enough.

Yet hundreds of United Methodists are engaged in a heroic battle to change such intolerable housing conditions. We commend every such individual, local church, interfaith group, non-profit, for-profit, and governmental effort. We endorse with gratitude and appreciation the thousands of dollars and untold hours of voluntary service which United Methodists dedicate to this battle to improve human shelter in our country. We urge local churches, districts and annual conferences to strengthen every housing ministry taking place within their communities by providing additional financial, technical counseling and spiritual resources.

Many specific activities deserve greater United Methodist support.

A. At the local level:

Local churches, individually or in cooperation with other churches, can identify specific housing needs existing in their communities. Often bringing people in need of shelter to public consciousness is the first step toward alleviation of such need. Sometimes the use of existing church buildings can graphically demonstrate both the need and a solution which then can be developed more fully through the use of other facilities and financial resources. Examples of effective housing ministries include emergency housing, ministries of acceptance to "street people," various housing counseling services, location of available apartments and housing for rental or purchase, supporting tenants by providing meeting places and leadership, and providing technical expertise for organizing more substantial efforts to meet various specific housing needs.

Formation of non-profit and limited-dividend housing corporations or housing cooperatives is a viable approach in many situations. There are excellent opportunities for establishing housing construction, management, and advocacy programs. However, expert consultative and technical services generally are needed from the very earliest concept onward. We commend the Board of Global Ministries, National Division, for provision of such services for the past decade and a half (Par. 1532.14, 1976 Discipline), and urge United Methodists to seek out such services at every stage of development of any housing ministry.

We deplore the atmosphere of conflict which infects the relationship between cities, towns, suburban areas, counties and states throughout our nation. Too often competition for use of land clothes subtle racism. Economic profit, likewise, often is used to justify a lack of concern for the impact of taxation measures. Uncoordinated planning and development results in jobs being located beyond the reach of those most in need of work. The "trickle down theory" of housing occupancy masks a selfish motivation, and results in maintaining and expanding existing ghettos, causes the formation of new ghettos, and enforces negative attitudes that support class and racial segregation. We urge United Methodists to challenge all such practices of and to engage in every activity which can eliminate such vestiges of discrimination from our nation.

Every urbanized area in our country is required to have some form of a regional planning agency. Most rural areas have some similar agency, such as an area development district. Generally these political structures have considerable influence upon housing patterns, planning, production and usage. Most can have citizens' advisory groups which develop strategy proposals and monitor private and governmental housing activities. We urge United Methodists to become knowledgeable of, and involved in, such planning agencies. Whether serving as political appointees, elected representatives, professional staff or designated "citizen advisors," a substantial contribution can be made toward developing realistic and morally just housing conditions by active participation in such regional agencies.

C. At the national level:

Since the enactment of the National Housing Act of 1949 it has been the goal of this country that every citizen should be housed in "decent, safe and sanitary housing." Yet the reality is that we are farther from that goal today than ever before. In part this is due to growth of population and the ever increasing gap between those who are economically well off and those who are not. But in large measure the disparity is due to an unwillingness of our elected representatives to use tax revenues in ways which would achieve the goals more fully. Generally legislators feel they represent the views of their electorate, and receive very little support for using tax dollars to build more housing for low and moderate income families. The moral commitment first stated in 1949, and restated in every subsequent Housing Act by Congress (1959, 1968, 1974, 1978), has gone greatly unheeded. If "decent, safe and sanitary housing" is to be a citizen right, a much greater moral outcry must be heard.

Therefore, we call upon United Methodists to undertake a concerted effort to impress upon their elected representatives a profound concern over the continuing housing deficiencies existing in our cities, towns, and rural areas. Much more effort needs to be made to influence the legislative processes which impact housing issues: improving existing law, developing more imaginative approaches where possible, and providing adequate funding for housing designed to meet the needs of the ill-sheltered.

1. Subsidized Rental Housing (Section 8) and Public Housing. Under the Section 8 Housing Assistance Payments Program, normally renters pay a percent of their income for rent and the federal government makes up the difference between that and the HUD-established Fair Market Rent. We support this program for subsidizing rents as one way of opening up more housing units to low-income families and yet expecting such families, when possible, to provide their fair share of costs. We ask that this program be substantially expanded to include at least 600,000 units annually, which is the minimum needed to house our poorest citizens.

We support use of a wide variety of subsidized housing approaches in order to meet a greater demand to house needy people.

Public housing continues to be a vital necessity in both urban and rural areas. Every incorporated city, town and county can, and should use this means of providing well-constructed and well-managed rental housing for those who can not obtain it on the open market. Nearly 50 percent of all public housing now is occupied by the elderly. Since the church has traditionally expressed concern and provided care of the aging, it is especially crucial that this program be continued, expanded and adequately funded.

2. Fair Housing. We support the Social Principles statement asserting "the right of members of ethnic minorities to equal opportunities . . . in housing purchase or rental."

Fair housing in our nation has progressed at a plodding pace. Because housing remains segregated in most places in the United States, schools tend to be segregated and jobs tend to be located at inconvenient distances from ethnic minority neighborhoods.

We therefore call upon the U.S. Congress to provide the Department of Housing and Urban Development with "cease and desist" enforcement powers and we encourage HUD to apply these powers evenly and with relentless determination to assure equal access to affordable housing in all markets.

Also, we are well aware that there can be no fair housing if the overall stock of housing is in short supply. Equal access to no available housing represents an unrealizable right. Therefore, to fulfill equal opportunity objectives we urge that much more housing be built and offered at prices most ethnic minority persons and the poor can afford to pay.

3. Redlining. We deplore the practice of "redlining" as it occurs in many urban areas. This generally means that financial institutions, insurance companies and mortgage brokers collectively make it difficult for homeowners to secure adequate financing and insurance at reasonable rates in a certain neighborhood of a given urban community. Such questionable business practices inevitably hasten the decay of targeted neighborhoods. Thus they are marked for death. We ask that all steps necessary be taken, through negotiation and legislation, to eliminate this heartless practice and that churches take the lead in encouraging financial support arrangements that rejuvenate neighborhoods instead of destroying them. Vigilant monitoring by the religious community can forestall such unhealthy practices.

We support existing laws, such as the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act, which provides public information on where banks and savings and loans make their loans, and the Community Reinvestment Act, which mandates that banks and savings and loans have the responsibility to serve the credit needs of moderate and lower-income communities.

We urge assessment of whether the institutions in which the church deposits funds comply with the Home Mortgage Act; and we support such additional regulations and laws that will assure reinvestment in currently redlined communities in a way that will not result in unjust displacement of elderly, poor, ethnic minority, and other persons.

4. Housing for the Elderly. The Section 202 federal program is a bright spot in the otherwise dismal picture of housing for the elderly. Restricted to sponsorship by non-profit groups (the majority of which are related to some religious group), the 202 program continues to offer a direct ministry opportunity. Since it is a loan guarantee program and has limited impact upon the federal budget, it should be funded at much more realistic levels than in the past. The steady increase in age of our population argues for expanding the 202 program until the need for this type of rental housing for the elderly has been met.

We are greatly concerned over the rapidly increasing trend toward converting rental housing to condominiums for sale. Too often in practice this means pushing elderly people out of housing they can afford to rent but can't afford to buy. We, therefore, recommend that the rate of condominium conversion of rental units be slowed. Further, we urge local housing authorities to offset this bind by encouraging increased housing stock of subsidized rental units for the elderly under Section 202.

5. Housing for Native Americans. As in the case with regard to other aspects of our national policy and practices toward Native American tribes and the continued isolation of our fellow citizens on Reservations, implementation of housing programs to benefit our Reservation population has been woefully inadequate. We call for substantial increases in programs at the federal level, and the use of state and local housing programs in every possible way, so that the shocking level of Reservation housing conditions can be changed quickly. Special efforts by United Methodist programs and funds for ethnic minorities should be supportive of such efforts.

6. Increasing Housing Production. Outmoded materials and procedures required by building codes often force housing costs up. Also, because of a wide variation in building codes in different communities, it is difficult to utilize mass-produced building units and components. Therefore, we recommend that city and county governments and the trade unions review building codes with the prospect of revising them to reasonable restrictions which will not stand in the way of utilizing factory-built housing. We also recommend there be no instituted state or national standardization of building codes so that system-built homes and apartments can be produced on a substantial scale. Nevertheless, quality workmanship and materials must be guaranteed.

Building codes should encourage use of adequate insulation and passive solar or other innovative fuel saving technology. Zoning codes should protect solar access for new construction, and allow for the possibility of converting existing residential units to solar technology.

Substandard lot sizes and topography often are deterrents to constructing housing units on available urban lots. In such instances, because manual labor must be used instead of machine labor, it is difficult for builders to earn a profit, and quality must be compromised to break even. Therefore we recommend that the federal and state programs compensate for such site deficiencies through subsidies, and thus enlarge the housing stock by using lots that would otherwise add to the deterioration of a neighborhood. However, such use should not deny other possible needs, such as air space, recreational grounds or other community amenities.

7. Financing of Housing. Traditionally, the vast majority of housing in our country has been financed through the private money lending business. There is little likelihood that this would need to change if the traditional principles against usury are followed. But more attention needs to be given to developing ways mortgage money can be made available to low income persons for homeownership, to provide rental housing for homeownership, and to provide rental housing for low income people. Federal and state programs benefit the moderate and upper income segments of our population quite well, but there are not equally helpful programs for the lower income sector of the population. Such government subsidized mortgage programs need to be further developed. New methods of private financing need to be developed so that traditional money sources do not abandon the housing field for other more profitable forms of investment.

Where feasible, generous tax credits and loan subsidies should be made available from various political entities to builders, owners and renters for the installation and use of solar energy equipment.

8. Neighborhoods and Communities. An emphasis upon neighborhood revitalization is sweeping the urban scene. It may also be offered as a panacea for deteriorating suburban areas. Even rural communities and cross-road towns face the temptation to use a "Fix-up" approach to housing deterioration problems. There is much to be valued in retaining and restoring housing which is soundly constructed and can be expected to continue to be usable for years to come. Not only could it be somewhat less expensive, but such a process is a needed supplement to reduce pressures for the costs of new construction. But several pitfalls should be recognized. Changing types, sizes and age levels of family units often make rehabilitation of existing housing more expensive than is justified by either the age of the building or the economic capability of the family. Often neighborhood revitalization is a less offensive term for displacement of families presumed to be less desirable, and so it becomes another type of class, racial or ethnic discrimination. Likewise, maintaining "community" may often be little more than a cover for continuing various forms of ethnic and racial exclusiveness. We urge all citizens to be honest and realistic in assessing the value of any neighborhood or community development program and then proceed with caution and objective responsibility in implementing rehabilitation and revitalization programs.

D. Role of the Church. A number of federal programs as well as some state programs exist today to make it possible for church groups to participate meaningfully in providing adequate housing in a wholesome environment. We encourage churches to join in such programs which require only a minimum of capital investment but a substantial commitment of time and energy. Churches should be aware that these programs are available to both urban and rural people. More church groups ought to 1) be concerned about the conditions of housing; 2) use the tools available to provide better housing; 3) develop a sense of mission and assume responsibility as stewards to meet these needs with no expectation of monetary reward.

In implementing any housing ministry, church people must maintain great sensitivity to community needs and work to achieve community participation and control. Needs of tenants for adequate, reasonably priced and energy-efficient housing should be recognized. Care always must be exercised to assure our involvement as Christians as "enablers" rather than "controllers." Our goal must always be to enable those who benefit to be in control of their own lives, future and destiny. Whatever the form of community organization, housing production, management, or ownership, every effort should be made at each developmental step to insure that those who are being aided are afforded, indeed required, to take every action necessary to self-direct the undertaking. Wherever possible, we must train rather than service, transfer power rather than decide, empower rather than control. In this as in all other aspects of housing ministries, United Methodists should seek the best technical guidance, and provide the greatest professional competence for such a ministry. Let us equip ourselves and provide the widest possible range of supportive assistance to individuals, congregations, districts, conferences, and all forms of cooperative groups sharing similar goals and policies, so that our fellow citizens may achieve as their right "decent, safe and sanitary housing" at the earliest possible time.

Christian teaching stresses the heavy responsibility that rests upon the rich and powerful. Bible stories make clear the divine judgment upon those who fail to discharge their personal and social responsibilities. These should be read together with the injunctions concerning righteousness and peace to grasp the full imperative that rests upon the leaders of the nations of our world today.

For centuries the rich and powerful of this world have dominated, exploited and segregated the peoples of Africa through colonialism, slavery and apartheid. We celebrate the end of war in Zimbabwe and the peaceful transition into a new independent nation under the rule of all the people.

The government of South Africa continues to resist substantive change in its ruthless rule by apartheid. White South Africans have the highest standard of living in the world. Black South Africans live in poverty. Per capita income is more than ten times higher for whites than for blacks.

South Africa is completely segregated by law, under the apartheid system. 13 percent of the country is reserved for blacks, while 87 percent—including all the cities, industries, fertile farmland, and major mines—is legally the territory of the whites, who comprise only 16 percent of the country's population.

Blacks cannot vote or join political parties. By law the best jobs are reserved for whites. Black unemployment is well over 25 percent, while white unemployment remains at 1 percent. Education is compulsory and free for white children, while blacks must pay.

In recent years, the South African government has tried to crush all opposition to apartheid. In 1976, demonstrations spread throughout the country in which more than a thousand persons were killed by the police and the military. Thousands more were arrested. In October, 1977, all remaining organizations critical of the government were outlawed, including the Christian Institute. Steve Biko and many other leaders have been killed in prison. The government continues to ban persons, such as Archbishop Tutu.

In 1950, U.S. direct investment in South Africa totaled $140 million. Since then the figure has grown to $2 billion, while indirect investment is mostly in the form of loans from large and small commercial banks throughout the U.S. Many of these loans have gone directly to the South African government and its agencies.

Another source of major support of the South African government is the "Krugerrand," a one-ounce gold piece minted and sold by the government to raise money. In 1979, Krugerrands accounted for 30 percent of South Africa's gold production and as of that year more than half of the world sales of the Krugerrand were in the U.S. Purchasers of such coins invest in poverty and oppression for the majority population of South Africa.

1. We call upon all nations, acting through the United Nations, to continue to press South Africa to eliminate the system of apartheid. Such pressure might include the adoption of economic sanctions by the United Nations Security Council.

2. We call upon all nations to work for the release of political prisoners in South Africa, to grant political asylum to South Africans who request it and to extend such asylum to those refusing to serve in armed forces.

3. We call upon the developed nations, including the United States, to end various forms of financial support to the government of South Africa.

4. We particularly call upon United States banks and corporations to make no new loans or investments and not to renew any previous loans to the South African government or government owned or related corporations.

5. We call upon all banks to stop promotion and sale of the "Krugerrand" coin.

6. We call upon legislatures, state and city governments to pass legislation mandating the withdrawal of public funds from banks that continue making loans to the South African government or government owned or related corporations.

7. We call upon our church at all levels—general boards and agencies, annual conferences, local churches and individual members—to join in this effort to stop bank loans to South Africa, and to refrain from the purchase of the "Krugerrand" coin.

8. We call upon the financial officers of our church at all levels to examine their banking and investment practices and to withdraw accounts from banks and financial institutions that continue to make loans to the South African government or government owned or related corporations. (Refer to Investment Policy, General Council on Finance and Administration, 1978). We do not engage in such efforts lightly, but with prayer and with the deep conviction that substantive change in South Africa will only come by a concerted effort of nations and peoples dedicated to justice for all, including the oppressed majority in South Africa.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

Against Sterilization Abuse

We recognize, especially in this country, that the choice of sterilization as a method of limiting family size is winning more acceptance. When voluntary, this practice is a matter of personal choice; however, when someone else makes the decision, the chances of abuse are great.

Sterilization abuse is recognized as a problem of low-income women, particularly Third World women. According to "Family Digest," May 1972, 35 per cent of married Puerto Rican women of child-bearing age were sterilized. In November 1977 the U.S. General Accounting Office issued a report indicating that between 1973 and 1976, the Indian women of child-bearing age in the Aberdeen, Phoenix, Albuquerque and Oklahoma City areas (sic). In 1979, a study conducted by the Women's Division in New York City found in face-to-face interviews with 600 women ages 18-45 that of the first 50 interviews, 26 women had had tubal ligations and 8 hysterectomies. Of those who had tubal ligations, 13 were black, 9 were Puerto Rican and 4 were white. Ten of the 26 were receiving public assistance. In 13 cases a doctor suggested the operation, and 12 of these women indicated that the doctor was the single most influential person in the decision. Only 8 of the 26 brought up the subject themselves; 3 women do not remember how the subject came up and in one case the woman's mother influenced her. Fifty per cent of the women showed regret over having been sterilized.

Whereas the decision to be sterilized is unique in the area of reproductive freedom because it is irreversible, the dangers of coercion, deception and misinformation and the desire of some for population control, particularly among the poor, Third World (in the U.S. and overseas) people, require safeguards against an uninformed and involuntary decision with such inexorable consequences;

Whereas the importance of the sterilization decision for most people cannot be overestimated, since reproductive ability is key to the identity of many people, both male and female, the decision to become sterilized can have tremendous psychological as well as physical repercussions;

Whereas sterilization abuse (the sterilizing of people against their will or without their knowledge) is still occurring;

It Is Therefore Recommended that:

1) The United Methodist Church support the following principles:

a. The patient, not her physician or any other party, should make the ultimate decision in accordance with law, as to whether she will be sterilized. Involuntary sterilization (for minors or persons adjudged to be mentally incompetent) are justifiable only if ordered by a competent court after a hearing according to due process of law.

b. Adequate and accurate information should be given to women concerning sterilization and its alternatives;

c. The decision to be sterilized should not be made during a time of stress, particularly during hospitalization for abortion or childbirth.

In order that the sterilization decision be both informed and voluntary, there is a need that:

a. women considering sterilization be given specific information in their own language using understandable terms about the nature and consequences of the sterilization procedure to be performed, as well as the risks and benefits of that procedure;

b. they have adequate time in which to make this irreversible decision in a non-coercive atmosphere—thus a thirty-day waiting period which would enable them to leave the hospital and consult with family, friends or other physicians.

2) Local churches monitor the implementation of the guidelines in local hospitals;

3) Local churches be encouraged to ascertain women's attitudes towards and experience with respect to sterilization in their communities;

4) Education and information about sterilization and other forms of contraception be included in family life programs with special note taken of the guidelines for voluntary consent;

5) The United Methodist Church oppose racist population control policies and practices aimed at Third World peoples (in the U.S. and overseas);

6) The United Methodist Church oppose all forms of sterilization abuse, including lack of informed consent, arbitrary measures for handicapped and institutionalized women and industrial exposure to radiation.

(Editor's Note: This Report was referred to the General Board of Church and Society to be harmonized with action on Report No. 1; see pages 759-760).

Concerning the Draft
In the United States

The General Conference of 1980 in session in Indianapolis resolves to transmit by special messengers an urgent message to the President of the United States. Messengers for this mission shall be named by the Council of Bishops and include, in addition to the president of the Council, six persons: one laywoman, one clergywoman, one layman, one clergyman, and two youth members (one male and one female). At least two of the six members shall be racial or ethnic minorities.

Such a plan for communicating with the President of the United States today, in a new kind of world and for a different purpose, is in keeping with a tradition of the early history of Methodism. Deputations of distinguished persons were sent from time to time to convey messages of support or commendation to the President from the General Conference. Among these communications history records the visit to President George Washington in 1789, expressing gratitude to him "for the preservation of civil and religious liberties and for the glorious revolution." Again in 1864, when General Conference convened in Philadelphia, the first order of business after the flag raising was to name a delegation to call on President Lincoln to assure him of the unfaltering support of Methodists in the war against slavery. Lincoln's response expressed gratitude that, "the Methodist Church sends more soldiers to the field, more nurses to the hospitals, and more prayers to heaven than any." (Charles Ferguson, "Organizing to Beat the Devil.")

The basic content and guidelines of the message to the President today shall be as follows:

"The 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church, which includes 912 duly elected delegates from 73 annual conferences across the United States of America, respectfully calls upon the President of the United States to rescind his announced policy calling for registration of youth in this land. We believe this will lead to the possible renewal of the draft into military service. We also believe that such a presidential plan has already increased the war hysteria in our own nation and generated greater tension among the Middle East nations and their neighbors.

“We acknowledge that the issues are complex in today’s military-industrial economy, but we believe that a peace-minded nation, such as we claim to be, needs your leadership as a President committed to peace. Your State of the Union message and your call for a great and continuing increase in defense weaponry, renewed registration of youth for a potential draft, and greatly strengthened military power seem to rule out all means for peaceful negotiation and the resolution of the conflict through United Nations and/or in cooperation with other concerned nations.

“In the words of the 1976 action of this governing body of The United Methodist Church, ‘One hard fact must be bluntly stated: The arms race goes on. The momentum never slackens, and the danger of a holocaust is imminent. Meanwhile, millions starve, development stagnates, and international cooperation is threatened.’ We, the policy-making body of this world-wide church, pray that you will reverse your policy of dangerous military threats and fulfill your commitment to peace. We do not believe that one life, man or woman, should be sacrificed in a war in this period of history when the global community provides untapped means for negotiation and the reconciliation of differences.

“Therefore it is with the deepest concern and the greatest urgency that we call upon you, as President of the United States, to end the threat in this nation of registration of the youth of this land. We believe that such an act is clearly a basic step toward reinstating the draft. The question before us at this time is not whether both men and women should be registered and drafted for military service. The issue, in this enlightened beginning of our third century as a nation, is leadership in a world where war seems imminent and where the peoples of the world cry out to be saved from nuclear holocaust. We pray that God will give you wisdom and courage to take the necessary action for peace on earth—now!”

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

The people of Nicaragua are experiencing a new sense of freedom and are seeking to build a more just and democratic society. In their efforts to rebuild their land and to overcome the legacy of debt and corruption left from the Somoza dictatorship, the Nicaraguans, strongly supported by the Christian church in that land, are now seeking and obtaining help from countries throughout the world. Proposed reconstruction assistance from the United States is bogged down in the United States Congress as a result of budgetary cuts.

Be it therefore resolved that this General Conference urge President Carter to make renewed efforts to gain approval for the proposed economic aid to Nicaragua as requested by Christian leaders of that country.

Resolution on El Salvador

In El Salvador, Archbishop Oscar Romero stood out in the midst of his country's strife as a prophetic Christian leader, concerned for the poor and committed to an end of oppression and violence. His assassination should move Christians everywhere to action for economic justice and human rights that will provide the conditions for internal peace.

Shortly before his assassination, the Archbishop addressed a letter to the President of the United States asking that no further military aid be sent to the government of El Salvador while the repression and violence there continued. His appeal went unheeded, and the funding for military supplies was readily granted.

In view of our Christian commitment, it is recommended:

- A. That this General Conference urge the President of the United States to reconsider and cancel the shipment of military supplies to El Salvador as pleaded by Archbishop Romero; and
- B. that this General Conference express regret, sympathy and solidarity with the people of El Salvador for the loss of their spiritual leader and champion who spoke on behalf of their human rights.

- C. That the Secretary of the General Conference be instructed to send a letter to our Christian brothers and sisters of the Roman Catholic Church of El Salvador conveying our concern and expressing support for their continued ministry as exemplified by Archbishop Romero; and
- D. that a copy of this resolution be sent to appropriate Congressional leaders and to the Vatican.

Membership 107; Present 68; For 43; Against 21; Not Voting 4.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

“It is not the will of my father who is in heaven,” said Jesus, “that one of these little ones should perish.” Over and over again Jesus charged us to concern ourselves with the weak, the poor, the downtrodden. It is our relationship with these people by which our relationship to God will be measured. Jesus has made clear that “as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me.”

It is in this spirit that we are concerned with governmental, private or corporate practices which are damaging to the poor and the weak. It is in this context that we need to be aware of the mounting criticism of the marketing practices of infant formula companies in developing countries, for those who suffer from these practices are the most vulnerable in those societies—mothers and their babies.

Infant formula, a substitute for breast milk, has been sold in the United States since the 1900's; in the developed world, bottle feeding is a relatively safe process. In areas where social and economic conditions make safe usage virtually impossible, prepared infant formula can be and indeed has been a destructive force.

Bottle feeding where there is impure water, low purchasing power, and inadequate heating and refrigeration facilities, can result in low-protein/calorie malnutrition (especially marasmus) due to over-dilution of the formula; diarrhea and gastro-intestinal infections due to contamination of the formula; reduced immunity to disease as the formula lacks the colostrum in early breast milk; and increased risk of obesity. For the mother, bottle feeding brings greater risk of pregnancy due to early return of ovulation. Breast feeding has served as a traditional means of spacing children in the past.

The major area of controversy in the infant formula issue has been over the manufacturers' marketing techniques. Formula companies give free samples to hospitals, offer fringe benefits to doctors and free equipment as gifts to graduating medical students, and use "milk nurses" (local saleswomen dressed in nurses' uniforms), all with goal of selling the product. Bright billboards with happy mothers cooing over the bottle-fed infants are a common sight in the urban/rural areas of developing countries. Radio commercials also push the use of formula as the modern way of ensuring a happy, healthy baby.

One of the factors which make women susceptible to these marketing techniques is the fact that more and more women, worldwide, find it necessary to enter the paid labor force and often there are no provisions for keeping their babies in close proximity.

The Swiss company Nestle has a nearly 50 percent share of the world wide market, and in some individual national markets its share exceeds 70 per cent. A number of United States companies also sell infant formula in developing countries. The marketing of infant formula in ways which are detrimental to the real needs of the women and children in their specific circumstances is an example of transnational corporate practices that are difficult to control. Some improvement has occurred because of public criticism, but much remains to be done.

Therefore the 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church hereby:

1) Calls upon United Methodists to become informed about the infant formula issue and ways companies may promote formula use in inappropriate ways.

2) Calls upon United Methodist-related institutions and agencies to support shareholder resolutions which would limit formula promotion by the U.S. formula companies.

3) Calls upon Nestle to cease promoting its formula in areas where social and economic conditions are such that general use of formula will damage the health and well-being of infants and mothers. This would include

- a) an end to all direct promotion to the consumer through mass media, posters, calendars, baby care literature, shows, wrist bands, and baby bottles;
- b) an end to the use of company 'milk nurses';
- c) an end to promotion to health professionals and through health care institutions and,

d) an end to the distribution of free samples and supplies to hospitals, clinics, and homes of newborns.

Where there are medical or indications (sic) supplies can be made available without high-pressure marketing techniques.

4) Supports the international boycott of Nestle company and its subsidiaries until such time as Nestle's marketing, advertising, and distribution practices conform to (3) above.

5) Instructs General Conference, Jurisdictional Conference, General Council on Ministries, general boards, and bodies related to these agencies to cease using Nestle products and services, including those of its subsidiaries, until the boycott is ended;

6) Requests the Board of Global Ministries and the Board of Church and Society to monitor the boycott and to recommend to the General Council on Ministries the discontinuance of the boycott at such times as the conditions stated above have been fulfilled;

7) Calls upon the General Board of Church and Society to provide resource material that will assist in the passage of legislation that would make formula companies more accountable to the public in their marketing practices;

8) Calls on all governments to initiate and pass legislation that would make infant formula companies more accountable to the public in their marketing practices.

Infant Formula Distribution

Whereas, The problem of infant malnutrition and mortality is a critical aspect of global hunger; and

Whereas, An intense international debate is underway concerning the provision of optimum infant nutrition in conditions of chronic poverty, illiteracy and disease; and

Whereas, The issues of this debate are of considerable scientific, economic, psychological and political complexity; and

Whereas, Christians from a number of churches and religious organizations have been engaged in the continuing debate and in a variety of actions relating to the issues, including consultation and a selective boycott of one of the major suppliers (The Nestle Company);

Therefore, Be It Resolved that:

The 1980 General Conference authorize the General Council on Ministries to establish a representative task force of persons from the Council and the church at large, including persons designated by the Board of Global Ministries and the Board of Church and Society and persons of special expertise, with instructions to:

- a. Review and update developments in the continuing debate and action relating to the controversy.
- b. Take initiatives with the three major American suppliers of such infant formula products (Bristol-Myers Corporation, American Home Products, and Abbott Laboratories) and with Nestle, the largest supplier, to establish constructive dialogue seeking modifications of advertising, promotion and distribution methods which may contribute to nutritional harm to infants in areas of chronic poverty, illiteracy and inadequate hygienic conditions.
- c. Convey to the suppliers the sense of utmost urgency felt by United Methodists and other persons for the nutritional protection and development of infants of the world.
- d. Consult with persons of expertise in the technical fields related to the issues involved.
- e. Report to the General Council on Ministries regularly on the progress of the consultation and specific steps taken by the suppliers.
- f. Recommend to the General Council on Ministries no later than July 1, 1982 further appropriate actions by that body and other United Methodist agencies. Such actions might include, but not be limited to:
  - (1) Continuation of the dialogues if they have proven fruitful and effective in producing constructive change.
  - (2) Formal participation in a boycott of the company or companies involved, such action to be taken in conjunction with other concerned groups.
- g. Recommend to the 1984 General Conference such further response and actions as may be deemed appropriate at that time to continue the effective involvement of the church.

Be It Further Resolved that this action become effective immediately upon the adjournment of the 1980 General Conference, and that the General Council on Ministries be requested to establish the designated Task Force as soon thereafter as possible.

Puerto Rico and Vieques

The theme of human liberation is found again and again in the Bible, from Moses' leadership of the Hebrew people out of Egypt to Jesus in the synagogue proclaiming the acceptable year of the Lord.

The United Methodist Church has long stood for an end to colonialism and for the self-determination of all peoples. At the same time, the people of Puerto Rico have lived under the sovereignty of the United States in what can be described as a form of colonialism. Though plebiscites have been held and a degree of local autonomy granted, all of the island's political parties in recent years have expressed their dissatisfaction with Puerto Rico's political status. The situation has been aggravated by the U.S. Navy's bombing practice and related activities on and around two offshore islands, at first Culebra and now Vieques.

The General Conference of The United Methodist Church:

1. Asks that the people of Puerto Rico be accorded full opportunity for self-determination of their future political status under conditions that assure a genuinely free choice with generous provisions for adjustment to any new status chosen; and

2. Expresses its solidarity with the people of Vieques in their most ardent desires that the United States Navy cease its military activity that adversely affects the citizens of Vieques, and that the United States Navy repair whatever damages it has caused to the people of Vieques.

To these ends the General Conference directs the attention of United Methodists and the general agencies of the denomination to the need for information and action.

In Support of the United Nations

This General Conference affirms its historic support for the United Nations.* Today we rejoice in the fact that for the past thirty-five years the United Nations has been a functioning organization working for international peace and justice. In that time it has:

Provided mechanisms for the peaceful settlement of disputes.

Provided an arena for promotion of a just and equitable world economic system.

Provided assistance through United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization, United Nations Development Program, United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), World Health Organization and its other agencies to persons who are usually neglected.

Established peacekeeping forces in troubled areas.

Defused big power confrontations.

Provided a forum for discussion of difficult issues, such as decolonization.

World public opinion has affirmed the growing importance of the United Nations in the search for world peace. However, the respect which has developed among most of the world's peoples is paralleled with a growing apathy in a few countries of the world, including the United States. This apathy jeopardizes the understanding and reduces the effectiveness of the work of the United Nations. We pledge ourselves to work to broaden citizen awareness in those countries in order to enable persons to evaluate accurately the work of the United Nations.

* In 1924, the Methodist Episcopal Church (Par. 572) urging participation in the League of Nations, said: "We set ourselves to create organization for peace." The 1952 Methodist General Conference (Par. 2026) affirmed that "Our best political hope of peace lies in the United Nations." Concern stated in 1959 by the Evangelical United Brethren Church (Basic Beliefs) for the "honest recognition of the interdependence of the nations and the races of all the world" is now symbolized by the almost universal membership of the world's nations in the United Nations.

Despite the desire of the world's peoples, the United Nations has been unable to act in many important arenas. This inability is caused primarily by lack of political will on the part of member states. We have long declared selfish nationalism to be a primary enemy of peace. Although some change in the structure of the organization may, in the future, be desirable or necessary, structural problems do not prevent success in areas of action. It is instead the unwillingness of member states to act cooperatively. We ask United Methodists to urge their governments to utilize the United Nations and to provide leadership which will extend international cooperation and create world community. By this means the United Nations will be enabled to act constructively with regard to the major areas of concern to the world's peoples.

The pursuit of peace is thwarted when misunderstandings about the purpose and possibilities of the United Nations are widely promoted and believed. Therefore, we commend to the churches a wider study of the United Nations in order that Christians might be enabled to work in unity for peace and justice in the world.

To that end:

1. We reaffirm decisions of the General Conference beginning in 1944 to establish "an international office of education and publicity for peace." These decisions resulted in establishment of the Methodist Office for the United Nations and, in 1963, in construction of the Church Center for the United Nations.

2. We particularly commend the program "United Methodist Seminars on National and International Affairs" to local church, district and annual conference groups as a way to experience first hand the work of the United Nations as it grapples with the work for peace.

3. We also reaffirm the importance of celebrating the signing of the Charter of the United Nations on October 24, 1945, with an emphasis in local churches of World Order Sunday, observed on that date or the Sunday preceding it.

We deplore the protracted delay which continues in spite of the support of Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, and Carter and urge its prompt ratification by this Senate as an affirmation of the elemental right of all human groups to exist and as a witness to United States moral concern for all humanity.

of Conscientious Objectors

The United Methodist Church today nurtures a substantial number of conscientious objectors among its members. Since 1936, The United Methodist Church or one of its predecessors has provided to those of its members who claim to be conscientious objectors the opportunity to register. Certified copies of such registration are supplied for use with draft authorities.

We support this procedure and propose that The United Methodist Church further develop a churchwide process that certifies the decision of its members who seek to be identified as conscientious objectors. That process should be created by the General Board of Church and Society in cooperation with the General Board of Discipleship.

The process may begin in the local church, where the pastor, in cooperation with the Pastor-Parish Relations Committee and the Council on Ministries, could select a person or committee to implement the process developed by the general agencies.

The United Methodist theological statements, Social Principles, and historic statements on war, peace, and conscription should be primary points of reference. It is the responsibility of the church at all levels to inform its members of the fact that conscientious objection, as well as conscientious participation, is a valid option for Christians and is recognized in many countries as a legal alternative for persons liable to military conscription.

The local committee's action does not express agreement or disagreement with the convictions of the applicant member. Rather, the committee's task is to record which of the church's members are opposed to participation in military service on grounds of conscience and to assist them in securing proper counsel. When a member has registered and his/her registration has been certified to the proper authorities, that action should be recorded with the conference and General Board of Church and Society.

Persons of Japanese Ancestry

Whereas, during World War II, the United States of America did forcibly remove and incarcerate, without charges, trial, or any due process of law, 120,000 persons of Japanese ancestry, both citizens and resident aliens of America and citizens from Latin America; and

Whereas, this action was initiated by a presidential order, enabled by Congressional legislation, and supported by the Supreme Court, thereby implicating the total government; and

Whereas, despite the government's claim of military necessity, this action proved to be made solely on the basis of race, there having been not a single case of sabotage or espionage committed by such persons and there having been no such sweeping action taken against Americans of German or Italian ancestry; and

Whereas, the American Convention on Human Rights, to which this country is signatory, states;

"Every person has the right to be compensated in accordance with the law in the event he has been sentenced by a final judgment through a miscarriage of justice";

Therefore, Be It Resolved: (1) We urge a study of the facts surrounding the evacuation and incarceration without trial or due process of law of nearly 120,000 Americans of Japanese ancestry; (2) that this General Conference acknowledges the flagrant violation of human rights, and affirms the need for the United States of America to redress legislation; (3) that we call upon Congress to support legislation that would determine appropriate remedies and; (4) the General Board of Church and Society be instructed to communicate this resolve to all members of Congress, and to adopt support for redress as part of its program for this quadrennium.

Membership 107; Present 65; For 51; Against 8; Not Voting 6.

The committee recommends concurrence.

Transnational corporations (TNC's) are centrally organized business entities with operations located in two or more countries. Headquarters of these corporations determine total global corporate policy. The world-wide operating capacity of these institutions, combined with their central control, gives them great advantage in their ability to produce both goods and capital with a high degree of efficiency. This ability can be advantageous to both the host country (where the corporation operates) and to the home country (where the corporate offices are located).

On the other hand, this capability gives transnational corporations an operating advantage both over indigenous enterprises in host countries as well as over most governments which operate with less capital and less power than many transnational corporations. The primary goal of TNC's is not development of the host country or, for that matter, bettering the state of the home country. They are businesses organized for profit, each guided by its own interests. We are concerned about their operation, therefore, because they are able to bring much needed technical ability as well as goods to non-industrialized countries, and also because the TNC's power enables them to exploit the resources of those same countries to their advantage.

TNC's are primarily headquartered in the highly industrialized economies of the United States, Japan, and Western Europe. Although the bulk of their world-wide operations is in the home country, or in industrialized host countries, operations in non-industrialized countries are important for two reasons: (1) corporate annual reports indicate a disproportionate profit from operations in those countries, and (2) even though operations may be small to the TNC, they are often mammoth for the country.

Often governments of less industrialized countries welcome the TNC's interest and investment, knowing that such involvement will generate foreign exchange that will provide a higher standard of living for part of their population. Disadvantages, however, result when investment is in capital-intensive technology which requires little reliance on a trained labor force. Investment may also be directed to industries which demand maintenance of a rather large supply of low income labor such as tourism or hand-agriculture. A combination of these factors presents grave dangers to most people in weaker countries while it offers economic advantage to persons in higher economic categories.

Two primary concerns about the operation of TNC's surface in the areas of agriculture and of women. Agricultural production in non-industrialized countries continues to increase but export markets continue to take more than the increase, leaving less food for persons in those countries to consume. Foreign exchange gained from export agriculture and manufacture does go to food, but imported food brings a high price in the marketplace and in general is only available to upper income groups. In addition, such policies lead rural people into cities where they exist as poorly paid laborers in assemblage plants or are unemployed, increasing the burden on the country of the urban poor.

Traditionally, women have assumed roles of providers, processors and preservers of food. TNC's have corrupted and altered these economic and social roles. Women are hired in assemblage plants at extremely low wages (textiles, electronics). While all poor people suffer under this dislocation of traditional roles, women receive the brunt of the upheaval.

In addition, the human toll of corporate relocation falls most heavily on non-white and third world peoples both in the U. S. and abroad. When a TNC closes a facility in the U.S., the workers most hurt are the lowest-paid and least-skilled, of whom a high percentage are black, Hispanic, or other ethnic minorities who are less likely to be retrained or relocated.

In keeping with the long time tradition of The United Methodist Church and its commitment to self-development of peoples, reducing the gap between the rich and the poor, justice, human rights, the status of women and the right to self-determination, we recommend the Board of Church and Society and the Board of Global Ministries:

1. Develop and distribute resources for use at local levels which examine the dual effects of TNC's on the human condition and on communities both in the U.S. and in third world host countries.

2. Initiate consultation with other boards and agencies in adopting criteria to use in choosing banks, businesses and establishments for use or investments which reflect awareness of the TNC's impact on third world peoples, and which affirm the commitment of The United Methodist Church to global economic and social justice.

3. Urge the United States and other national/international bodies to initiate and implement legislation that will ensure transnational accountability to local communities, nations, and the international community.

4. Foster and publicize action projects through which the Church seeks to correct abuses of power by TNC's.

5. Urge the United Nations Center on Transnational Corporations to compile data that can be used by all audiences and to complete work on a binding code of conduct as soon as possible.

Immigration

Again and again in the Old Testament, the people are praised or judged by their treatment of the stranger within the gate. Having themselves been pilgrims, the Hebrew people were reminded by God through their leaders and prophets as in Leviticus 25:23, "You are strangers, and sojourners with me."

The Epistle to the Hebrews contains the clearest and best known admonition to Christian hospitality: "Continue to love each other like brothers and sisters, and remember always to welcome strangers, for by so doing, some have entertained angels without knowing it." (Hebrews 13:2)

We commend to the governments of the world reflection on the policies which govern their handling of the movement of peoples in light of the above teaching and the principles at the heart of all great world religions. We call upon them to allow any of their citizens to emigrate freely.

Specifically, we urge the leaders of the nations:

1) To alleviate conditions and change internal policies that create a momentum for emigration. This would mean working for agrarian reform, social justice, and an adequate measure of economic security for all.

2) To create international policies that would make it possible for all nations to determine and implement measures essential to meet the basic needs of their people. This would mean re-examining trade and labor policies and the role of capital and technology.

3) To seek an end to hostilities, guerilla warfare, and terrorism through the just resolution of the continuing conflicts which spawn such activities and give rise to large numbers of refugees.

4) To insure that basic human rights of immigrants (such as the right to an education, adequate health care, due process and redress of law, protection against social and economic exploitation, the right to a cultural or social identity, and access to the social and economic life of nations) for both documented and undocumented, permanent or transient refugees or emigrants, are protected.

5) Welcome generous numbers of persons and families dislocated by natural disasters, war, political turmoil, repression, persecution, discrimination or economic hardship.

6) To define refugees and others in need of sanctuary broadly so as to include persons still within their own countries as well as those already outside.

7) To provide funds and personnel to relieve human suffering and facilitate the speedy relocation of displaced people.

8) To press for higher standards of respect for human rights in all countries including the elimination of violence and mistreatment of persons in the enforcement of laws.

9) And further, we deplore the insensitivity of the Immigration and Naturalization Services and urge both a congressional investigation and the enactment of appropriate legislation to achieve long overdue reforms.

We speak to the whole church, and specifically The United Methodist Church, to:

1. Call upon United Methodist churches and agencies to devote special attention and resources to the care of the legal, social, pastoral and other needs of the overstayed and of undocumented persons;

2. Instruct the General Board of Church and Society and the General Board of Global Ministries to continue explorations of solutions to the problems of the overstayed and of undocumented persons and provide information and guidance to United Methodists.

The Middle East is the location of one of the most serious international conflicts facing the world today. Though the area includes holy places of three religions—Judaism, Christianity and Islam—the problem is not primarily religious but one of conflicting national and class interests. The United States has become increasingly involved in the area (politically, economically and militarily), and it is incumbent upon the churches and their members to examine critically the reasons for and implications of such involvement.

For the first time since the creation of the State of Israel in 1948 a treaty of peace has been signed between Israel and Egypt, one of the states with which it has been at war. We welcome the courage of those leaders who have been willing to take the risk for peace. Within the Church, assessments differ as to the contribution this agreement makes towards a comprehensive peace in the region. There are those who rejoice at the state of peace which now exists between those two countries as an achievement leading to an overall peace in the region. There are others who fear this separate agreement makes a comprehensive peace more difficult to realize. We are in agreement, however, that despite the treaty, conditions persist which sustain injustice and armed conflict in the region. A true peace must meet the needs of both the Israeli and Palestinian peoples.

Integral to the solution of the Middle East conflict is the recognition of the right to self-determination of both Israeli Jews and Palestinian Arabs. Realization of this right demands our affirmation of the right of the State of Israel to exist and our support for the fulfillment of Palestinian national aspiration through a state of their own. Both states should be expected to pursue nondiscriminatory policies towards domestic minorities.

The Jewish people of Israel live under conditions of instability and insecurity. This is not only a consequence of the present power struggle, but also a product of a long history of oppression suffered by Jews—especially in the Western world—and culminating in the holocaust and extermination of millions of persons by the Nazi government. Out of the holocaust and the unwillingness of other nations to open their borders to Jewish refugees, the State of Israel was created.

As a result of the violence surrounding the establishment of the State of Israel, large numbers of Palestinian Arabs were dispossessed; they remain dispossessed. Their suffering takes many forms: the hunger and deprivation of refugee camps; the abrogation of legal rights under the military rule in the occupied territories (the arrests, tortures, and expulsions documented by the United Nations and other international organizations); the system of discrimination existing in pre-1967 Israel, especially in regard to ownership of land and homes.

In addition to these basic dilemmas, there exist several trends which warrant the attention and action of the Church:

The Middle East, as a whole, remains an arena of a furious arms race. The supply of weaponry provided to Israel and its Arab neighbors continues to escalate and is even a component of the Israeli-Egypt peace process. It is generally believed that Israel possesses nuclear devices on which it might rely should it feel its existence threatened.

Use and re-export of United States weapons by Israel in violation of treaty regulations that specify that these arms are not for offensive use and not for re-export raises concern about the continued United States supply of weapons.

Demographic policies in Israel have led to increased tensions between the Arab and Jewish populations within the area controlled by Israel, as well as between Israel and the Arab states. The resettlement of Jews on land from which Arabs have been evicted and the continuing establishment of settlements in the occupied territories (West Bank, Gaza Strip, Sinai, and the Golan Heights) undermine the possibility of reconciliation and a settlement between the contending sides. The resolution of these issues depends upon the realization of genuine Palestinian self-determination and statehood on the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Recent United States policy has resulted in divisions among the Arab states through enticements to the national self-interests of certain states against the interests of others. There is danger that these policies may have an adverse effect on the possibility of achieving an overall solution. The United States has ignored the aspiration to statehood of the Palestinian Arabs, thus heightening their frustrations and militancy.

Strife has continued in the region. Peace has not prevailed. Shellings and commando actions directed against Israel by Palestinian units have continued. Israeli bombardments and commando actions have been directed against southern Lebanon and Beirut itself. The 1978 invasion of Lebanon by Israel brought sorrow and suffering to Palestinians and Lebanese alike. Attempts by United Nations forces to keep the peace and assist in re-establishment of Lebanon's sovereignty over its territory have been hindered by Israel's support of secessionist forces. Christians should be aware of this vicious circle of violence. It cannot be eliminated by palliative means. The Church must seek to understand the source of the problem and to oppose the moral injustices which produce such situations.

Therefore, we urge United Methodist churches and agencies to take the following specific action:

1) Promote educational programs at all levels aimed at helping Christians understand the intricacies of the Arab-Israeli conflict. Specific actions should include: an evaluation of the treatment of the conflict in the United Methodist curricula and media; the initiation of programs involving increased contact with and among Christians, Muslims, and Jews from the Middle East; the development of denominational participation in ecumenical networks to stimulate interest, raise consciousness and provide information about the Middle East.

2) Encourage local church and annual conference support of church-related programs of relief to refugees, reconstruction and development in the region.

3) Organize action programs at all levels to oppose the continuing flow of arms from all sources to the Middle East.

4) Encourage governmental officials to seek an overall solution rather than accept as final a partial settlement which may set states against one another and increase the isolation of the dispossessed.

5) Urge governments to seek the participation of both the Palestine Liberation Organization, as the representative of the Palestinian Arabs, and the State of Israel in all future negotiations. This position would be in line with the precedent established by the United Nations Security Council in 1976, when both parties participated in the debate.

Mindful of the tradition in which we stand, we seek the struggle for human rights for all people of God to be a continuous unfolding of the gospel. It is an unfinished task. Our participation in this struggle means that we must identify those principalities and powers that militate against the worth of persons and groups, that seek to devalue life by denying basic rights, or that claim an ultimacy for themselves rather than for the persons they are designed to serve.

We affirm that all persons and groups are of equal worth in the sight of God. We therefore work toward societies in which each person's or group's worth is recognized, maintained and strengthened. We deplore all political and economic ideologies that lead to repression or totalitarianism, that pit persons against each other, that deny hope, that seek to enhance privilege and power of the few at the expense and well-being of the many. We condemn violations of human rights in all political and economic structures. The church, while proclaiming the gospel message of a God of love and justice, must be wary lest it compromise its own witness and unwittingly become an uncritical ally of repressive power and privilege in society about it.

As United Methodists throughout the world give more attention to human rights, we must constantly examine or change our own practices in every locale where the basic rights of persons or groups may have been denied. The church in each community should be the means for removing the blindness from our eyes so that we perceive rights denied and redress imperfections.

Often the relationship of one country to another has been dictated by military and economic interests which tend to shape foreign policy and override moral imperatives to defend human rights. The church should not sanction nor should foreign governments support those governments or regimes that deny people the right of speech, assembly, dissent, education, health, worship or other rights.

Therefore we urge:

1. That The United Methodist Church on all levels continually examine the biblical and theological bases which call us to our own commitment to human rights.

2. That The United Methodist Church urge governments to cease all financial, military, open or covert support of those governments or regimes that systematically violate the rights of their citizens.

3. That The United Methodist Church urge governments, nationally, regionally and locally, to accord basic human rights to all persons residing within their boundaries regardless of citizenship. These rights include the right to an education, adequate health care, due process and redress of law, and protection against social and economic exploitation.

4. That United Methodist agencies join in effort—ecumenical, denominational, or international—on behalf of human rights, informing our people of developments in the struggles and offering them means of constructive responses.

5. That The United Methodist Church designate human rights as a continuing study emphasis to be carried on in every local church, utilizing in part the Social Principles and materials published in 1979 by the National Council of Churches and the Board of Global Ministries for the study theme, "Human Rights and the International Order."

6. That a network be established across United Methodism of Intercessors for Human Rights. This network could consist of individuals and groups within congregations, districts, Annual Conferences and agencies who would commit themselves to intercession by study and prayer for individuals and groups whose rights have been denied or abused and to intercession by advocacy in their behalf to the governments. Such a network shall be initiated and serviced co-operatively by the Board of Church and Society and the Board of Global Ministries. (We commend Amnesty International as a resource.)

7. That United Methodists call upon their governments to ratify and implement the human rights covenants and conventions approved by the United Nations and that we work together toward this end. When the constitution or laws of a country guarantee more rights for its citizens than are provided under these treaties, ratification should not be understood to require that the protection of these rights be ended.

We believe that respect for human rights has its roots in the biblical notion, made manifest by Christ's treatment of all those who experienced his teaching, that respect for human dignity is commanded by the divine presence within each individual human being. We believe that people have a right to live their lives free from fear of torture, cruel and degrading psychological and physical punishment, arbitrary arrest and imprisonment without trial, invasion of the home, forcible separation of family members, enforced starvation, denial of emigration and employment, forced labor, acts of terrorism, racial discrimination, and all other violations of the integrity of the person.

We believe that people have the right to freedom of expression and freedom of association. The denial of these rights represents a violation of the integrity of the community, destroying people's ability to communicate with each other and with people in other lands, to organize themselves in pursuit of common aspirations, to worship with each other in privacy, and to engage in other social and communal undertakings.

We believe that people have the right to choose their own government through democratic, competitive elections, free from internal or external coercion. Countries that respect these democratic rights are much more likely to respect the integrity of individual and communal rights as well.

We support the aspirations and struggles of people to achieve higher living standards, better health care, and greater access to education and economic opportunity. However, we reject the idea that these "economic and social rights," as they are sometimes called, take precedence over individual, communal and democratic rights. We believe that the best guarantee that people will ultimately achieve economic and social betterment is a system that protects their freedom to organize for these purposes.

We believe in freedom of religion, and we recognize the special threat to missional activity that is posed by the evil of totalitarianism.

We believe in a single standard of human rights. Evil must be recognized as evil, whether it occurs in "progressive" or "capitalist" regimes, and whether it is rationalized by right wing or left wing ideologies. We recognize that the important criterion in judging human rights is not the economic system, which people should be able to choose for themselves, but the degree of freedom.

We unalterably oppose all governmental systems that deny human rights to the people within their borders, including Facism, Communism, Apartheid, and all forms of military and authoritarian dictatorship, and those which, in addition to internal repression, seek to impose their tyrannies beyond their borders by means of military force, terror and subversion.

Aging

From a biblical view of human life in its wholeness, created by God in God's own image (Genesis 1:26), the Church seeks justice and well-being for the aging. Birth, aging, and death alike are all part of Divine Providence. Aging is a process involving the whole life span from birth to death, to be regarded as of positive value. This in no way means that such things as birth defects, disease, or deaths at an early stage in life are the will of God. The gift of God in Christ is for life abundant (John 10:10) in all the stages of life, including the later ones.

The great commandments, love of God and neighbor (Mark 12:28-31, Romans 13:8-9), cannot exclude the aging. Those who are elderly are often subjected to various kinds of ostracism, discrimination, and stereotyping. It is the Church's business to combat such evils.

In the larger pattern of human needs and rights, the needs and rights of elderly persons must be consciously and intentionally included. Their ability to serve must be recognized along with their need to be served.

For these reasons, The United Methodist Church issues the call that follows:

The United Methodist Church calls upon its people to engage in sustained advocacy for the elimination of age discrimination in personal attitudes and institutional structures. We should pursue this advocacy vigorously and in cooperation with appropriate private and public groups, including all levels of government. We recognize that there needs to be creativity in developing the proper cooperative mix of private and public programs to serve the elderly, but all of our efforts should be based on the following assumptions:

1. Religious institutions can make a unique and significant contribution to the context of care provided for persons. Secular society involves ethical issues and value decisions; therefore a religious presence in neighborhoods and institutions is important to the quality of total community life.

2. Government should be the guarantor of last resort so that no persons are left outside the systems of service. Christians should support governmental programming as a way of sharing with those who are less fortunate. This does not absolve either the institutional church or individual Christians from responsibility for persons in need.

3. A minimum standard of basic and necessary survival support systems should be defined in our society and made available to all persons. These should include at minimum: health care, transportation, housing and income maintenance.

Church people need to identify and promote those facilities and services that assure opportunities for prolonged well-being. These services should be provided at a cost within the financial means of the elderly with appropriate public subsidy when necessary. They include the following:

a. Health resource systems special to the needs of the elderly which are comprehensive, accessible and feasible within available resources. These must include both long-term care and special services such as home health care, hospice care and health maintenance organizations.

b. Health education systems that emphasize proper nutrition, proper drug use, preventive health care, and immunization as well as information about the availability of health resources within the community.

c. Training for medical and social service personnel concerning the special physical, psycho-social and spiritual needs of the elderly.

d. Adequate housing and transportation systems that meet the special needs of the elderly.

e. Basic governmental income maintenance system adequate to sustain a pre-retirement standard of living affording personal dignity. This system should be supplemented when necessary by private pension programs. Both public and private pension systems must be financed in a manner that will assure their ability to meet all future obligations.

f. When basic public pension systems benefit levels are not adequate to meet economic needs at least equal to the defined poverty level, they should be supplemented by benefits from public funds.

g. Continuing educational and counseling opportunities in work-related training, in interpersonal retirement relationships, and in personal enrichment.

h. Formal and informal community associations such as public and private centers that foster social, recreational, artistic, intellectual and spiritual activities to help persons overcome loneliness and social isolation.

i. Continuing employment opportunities for those who desire them in flexible, appropriate work settings related to varying life styles.

j. Develop opportunities for age appropriate volunteer work that utilizes best the skills and experiences of the elderly.

Finally, The United Methodist Church calls upon our society to respond to a basic human right of the elderly, the right to die with dignity and to have personal wishes respected concerning the number and type of life-sustaining measures that should be used to prolong life. Living wills, requests that no heroic measures be used and other efforts to die with dignity should be supported.

And, we call upon the general program agencies to develop programs and materials based upon the above assumptions to enable United Methodists at all levels of the church to work with and for older people.

Preamble

In 1979 our nation experienced two shocks which are compelling us to reassess our energy future: the revolution in Iran and the accident at Three Mile Island. It is already clear that by the turn of this century our sources of power will be radically altered. Just as the first half of this century was marked by a rapid shift from wood, water and coal to the fossil fuels that currently supply 90 percent of the U.S. energy needs, so we today are at the beginning of a rapid transition from these fuels, which are running out, to the renewable sources which must supply our energy future. Because society runs on its energy and is shaped by the fuels it uses and the way it uses them, we will, in effect, be shaping a new world by the energy policies we adopt in the next few decades. The stakes are high: the decisions which human societies are now making will either enhance or degrade the quality of life on our planet; they will either more closely approximate the vision of the Reign of God which fires the Christian imagination or they will make that vision more remote from actual human existence. Furthermore, as our world comes up against limits and undergoes the stress of rapid change, fears will be raised and conflicts will become inevitable. Our responses to these stresses can either produce more repressive societies or ones in which liberty is enhanced.

Stewards of the Spaceship Earth

The recognition that a new world is emerging and that the Church of Jesus Christ may have a role to play in shaping that world calls us to re-examine the Biblical sources out of which we, as Christians, live our lives.

Humankind enjoys a unique place in God's universe. On the one hand we are simply one of God's many finite creatures, made from the "dust of the earth", bounded in time and space, fallible in judgment, limited in control, dependent upon our Creator and interdependent with all other creatures. On the other hand we are created in the very image of God, with the divine spirit breathed into us, and entrusted with "dominion" over God's creation (Gen. 1:26, 28; 2:7, Ps. 8:6). We are simultaneously co-creatures with all creation and, because of the divine summons, co-creators with God of the world in which we live. This hybrid human condition produces both the opportunity and the twin dangers for humans on this planet. The first danger is arrogance: that we may overestimate the extent of human control over our environment and the soundness of human judgments concerning it (after all, we still know very little about the ecosystem in which we live); that we may underestimate the limits of the planet where we live and that we may misunderstand "dominion" to mean exploitation instead of stewardship. The second danger is irresponsibility: that we may fail to be the responsible stewards of the earth that God has called us to be, choosing instead to bury our "talents" while awaiting the Master's return (Mt.25:24-28). As stewards entrusted with dominion, then, we will demonstrate our faith in God by becoming God's avante garde in shaping the new human society which will emerge in the twenty-first century. We cannot, therefore, eschew the task of seeking to embody in the new-world-aborning the values which we hold in covenant with God. At the same time, however, we dare not overlook the limits of our control; nor can we forget the forgiving grace in Jesus Christ which alone makes us bold enough or the hope in Christ which alone keeps us from despair.

The Values Involved in Energy Policy

The scripture which provides the motive for our action in the present energy crisis also lays the foundation for the values which we seek to realize. These values underlying the policies we advocate are justice and sustainability.

1. Justice. Ever since the first covenant between God and Israel, and especially since the eighth century prophets, the People of God have understood that they bear a special concern for justice. "Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an everflowing stream" (Amos 5:24) is a cry echoed in hundreds of contexts throughout the Old and New Testaments. Biblical righteousness includes a special concern for the least and the last: the poor, the captive, the oppressed (Lk. 4:18; cf. Isa. 61:1-2). Energy policies which Christians can support, then, will seek to actualize the multifaceted Biblical vision of justice. They will be policies which close rather than widen the gap dividing wealth and poverty, rich nations and poor. They will be measures which liberate rather than oppress. They will be programs which distribute fairly the benefits, burdens and hazards of energy production and consumption, taking into consideration those not yet born as well as the living. They will thus be strategies which give priority to meeting basic human needs, such as air, water, food, clothing and shelter.

2. Sustainability. Only recently have we humans come to recognize that creation (finitude) entails limits to the resources entrusted to us as stewards of the earth. In particular we have come up against limits to the non-renewable fuels available for our consumption and limits to our environment's capacity to absorb poisonous wastes. These double limits mean that humans can betray their stewardship either by using up resources faster than they can be replaced or by releasing wastes in excess of the planet's capacity to absorb them. We now know that humans have the capacity to destroy human life and perhaps even life itself on this planet, and to do so in a very short period of time. Energy policy decisions, therefore, must be measured by sustainability as a criterion in addition to justice. In terms of energy policy, sustainability means energy use which will not (a) deplete the earth's resources in such a way that our descendants will not be able to continue human society at the level which is adequate for a good quality of life, and (b) pollute the environment to such an extent that human life cannot be sustained in the future. These guidelines for sustainability must include considerations of quality of life as well as mere biological continuance.

Until such time as a truly inexhaustible source of power is developed, we must create and expand all of the energy resources available to us with special emphasis on renewable energy resources. We enjoy a highly sophisticated, industrialized world. It is not a realistic option for us to retrogress to a world where people read by candlelight and heat with wood. Also we should be aware of the tragic effects that steadily increasing energy cost will have, especially upon the aged and poor members of our society. All options available in the United States are not open to peoples in other parts of the world; hence we should endeavor to develop all available energy sources. We must creatively explore all of the energy options available to us.

There are environmental problems connected with these energy options that cause people to raise objections to their development and use. We believe that the objections to each energy source should be calmly assessed and then the risks and benefits of its use compared with the use of the other energy options. For example, the large-scale use of our coal resources poses many problems. Underground mining, in addition to operational accidents, causes disabling illness or death from black lung. Strip mining can despoil an area and ruin it for further use if restoration measures are not practiced. The actual burning of coal causes large-scale pollution, and could seriously alter environment by increasing the CO<sub>2</sub> content of the atmospheric envelope.

Hydroelectric power also has its problems. In addition to deaths from industrial accidents, many damsites are (or were) attractive scenic areas. Destroying (or diminishing) such natural beauty areas as the Grand Canyon would be objectionable to most of us. Possible dam failure with the resultant flood damage must also be considered in evaluation of this source of power.

The use of petroleum products creates environmental problems which are on the increase. Tankers and off-shore wells have created spills which have devastated sea coast areas; the damage is longlasting or permanent. Atmospheric pollution, far from being under control, is a most serious health problem in centers of dense population.

Our nuclear energy option also has many problems to be faced. The hazards in storing radioactive wastes for thousands of years and the destructive potential of a catastrophic accident involve a great risk of irreversible damage to the environment or to the human genetic pool.

1. We support a strenuous national effort to conserve energy. Economists have concluded that in the next decade a greater increase in end-use energy can be gained through conservation than through any single new source of fuel. Furthermore, conservation is non-polluting and job-producing. We include under conservation: insulation, cogeneration, recycling, public transportation, more efficient motors in appliances and automobiles as well as the elimination of waste and more simplified lifestyle. The technology for such steps is already known and commercially available; it requires only dissemination of information and stronger public support, including larger tax incentives than are presently available.

2. All United Methodist churches are encouraged to be models for energy conservation by doing such things as: installing dampers in furnaces, insulating adequately all church properties, heat and light only rooms that are in use, use air circulation and explore alternative energy sources such as solar energy.

3. We also urge all our members and agencies to assess their own energy consumption, finding ways to conserve, to eliminate waste, to revise transportation patterns and to simplify lifestyles as a model for sound stewardship of the limited resources entrusted to us.

4. We support increased government funding for research and development of renewable energy sources, especially solar energy, and government incentives to speed the application of the resulting technologies to our energy needs, wherever appropriate. The greatest national effort should be made in the areas of conservation and renewable energy sources.

5. Our Christian responsibility is to give serious study to the various options listed above.

6. We oppose any national energy policy which will result in continuing exploitation of Native American lands without the consent of the persons who control those lands. The despoliation of Native American lands and the increased health problems which have resulted among Native Americans because of the mining of coal and the milling of uranium must cease.

7. We support a national energy program which will not increase the financial burden on the poor, the elderly and those with fixed incomes. If a rapid rise in the price of fuel is necessary to smooth out distortions in the energy economy, as many economists believe, then legislative means should be found to cushion the impact of such price increases on the poor.

8. We support full U.S. cooperation in international efforts to ensure equitable distribution of necessary energy supplies and rapid development and deployment of appropriate technologies based on renewable energy resources such as solar, wind, and water energy generation.

9. We strongly encourage The United Methodist Church at all levels to engage in a serious study of these energy issues in the context of Christian faith and the values of justice and sustainability.

Whereas, the Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Food and Nutrition Education Program (WIC Program) provides nutrition education and food coupons for needy high risk pregnant women, lactating women, and children under five years of age, and

Whereas, the WIC food coupons are available to high risk needy pregnant women such as those who are anemic, overweight or underweight, teenage or over 35, or those who have had problems with previous pregnancy, and

Church/Government Relations

Introduction

In response to a question about paying taxes, Jesus said: "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's." Although this statement refers specifically to taxation, its implications are apparent that there are separate obligations and responsibilities to government and religion.

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church assert: "We believe that the state should not attempt to control the church, nor should the church seek to dominate the state. 'Separation of church and state' means no organic union of the two, but does permit interaction. The church should continually exert a strong ethical influence upon the state, supporting policies and programs deemed to be just and compassionate and opposing policies and programs which are not."

As we consider the religious protections of the First Amendment—the free exercise and non-establishment of religion—we are profoundly grateful for the major statement made by the 1968 General Conference on “Church/Government Relations.” In recognizing that debt, we reaffirm much of the substance of that declaration prepared by two distinguished committees under the authority of the General Conference and operating over two quadrenniums of the life of the Church.

Religious Liberty

1. Christians share commitment to the protection of human dignity and recognition of the right of every individual to freedom of thought, conscience, and religion. In the Christian tradition, in the heritage of Western philosophy and in the emerging consensus of humankind, this freedom is deemed to be inherent in human personality. The United Methodist Church rejoices, therefore, to be in agreement with the principles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights regarding religious liberty, and basic affirmations of other religious communities concerning religious liberty. We seek the universal observance, in law and in social practices, of fundamental freedoms for all persons everywhere.

In the modern world, every person—individually or in association with others—should be free to hold or change religious beliefs; to express religious beliefs in worship, teaching, and practice; and to proclaim and act upon the implications of religious beliefs for relationships in a social and political community.

We support the explicit constitutional safeguards which have long undergirded religious liberty in the United States of America. We believe it is of utmost importance for all persons, religious groups, and governments to maintain a continuing vigilance to insure that religious liberty be guaranteed. We respectfully request all national churches within the fellowship of the world United Methodist family to continue working for the realization and support of religious liberty in the constitutions, governmental forms, and social practices of their respective countries.

2. Religious freedom is of three kinds. 1) The freedom to worship and believe with integrity—that is, without being required by any external authority to affirm beliefs that one does not hold or to engage in acts of worship that do not conform to one’s inner state of mind. This form of freedom must be considered absolute. 2) The freedom to communicate the meaning of one's religious convictions to others. This freedom should be considered a near absolute, subject only to the limitation that verbal injury to others and direct incitement to criminal actions cannot be permitted legal refuge on grounds of religious motivation. 3) The freedom to act on the basis of one's religious convictions. This freedom may sometimes be limited in the regulation of human affairs, for the sake of public health and safety, or to guarantee the rights of others. Nevertheless, the widest possible latitude should also be provided for the expression of this form of religious liberty.

3. Since objection to all war on conscientious grounds has fundamental implications for religious liberty, we believe that the policy of national governments to grant deferment from military service on grounds of conscience must be affirmed.

4. The constitutional provision which precludes governments from taking any action "respecting an establishment of religion" has a positive effect on the maintenance of religious liberty. "Establishment of religion" places the power of all of society behind the religious expressions of some part of society. The United Methodist Church is opposed to all establishment of religion by government. Therefore, we are in agreement with the Supreme Court's decisions declaring unconstitutional required worship services as part of the public school program. We believe these decisions enhance and strengthen religious liberty within the pluralism that characterizes the United States of America.

We are opposed to any attempts by Congress to take away from the Supreme Court's jurisdiction decisions with respect to school prayer or any other matter that might threaten constitutional proscriptions against "the establishment of religion."

We recognize that religious liberty includes the freedom of an individual to be agnostic, a non-theist, an atheist, or even an anti-theist. Otherwise, the civil community would be invested with authority to establish orthodoxy in matters of belief. We are confident that such a state of affairs would constitute a threat to all religious interests. According to the ethical concept of a responsible society, government commits a morally indefensible act when it imposes upon its people—by force, fear, or other means—the profession or repudiation of any belief. Theologically speaking, religious liberty is the freedom that God has given, in his creative act, to all persons to think and to choose belief in God for themselves, including the freedom to doubt and deny God.

5. We recognize that civil authorities have often been leaders in expanding religious liberty. Many times in history it has been constitutions, legislatures, and courts that have served as protectors of religious liberty against the misuses of governmental powers by religious bodies.

At the same time, we believe it is essential to recognize that decisions of the courts with respect to constitutional issues should not be taken as wholly defining desirable relations between churches and governments.

Therefore, while we affirm our support of basic constitutional principles, we believe that if a constitution contains provisions that offend values basic to religious faith or the freedom of religious expression, or if constitutional provisions are being interpreted with that result, it is the right and the duty of churches to speak out in opposition to them.

6. In keeping with our commitment to religious liberty, we are concerned over the recent Internal Revenue Service regulations regarding "integrated auxiliaries" of churches. The IRS has attempted to define which of the church's organizations are integrated with it functionally and which are not.

Those organizations officially viewed as not being "integrated auxiliaries" will have to fill out informational returns. In time their tax status may be in doubt. The church's hospitals and children's homes, for example, would not qualify as "integrated auxiliaries."

We believe that it should not be the role of a government agency to determine which church organizations are integrated into its life and which are not. The church itself should be given the role of defining which organizations are integral to the church's mission. If this can not be accomplished through administrative remedy, then the churches should initiate legislative remedies.

7. In recent years the nation has considered the question of whether government action was needed in coping with "cults." In the context of what follows, the word "cults" means a small religious group with a distinguishing system of beliefs, ritual, and practices.

In protecting the free exercise of religion, the First Amendment does not distinguish between the rights of members of well-established and newly-founded religious groups. "Equal protection of the laws" applies to all adherents to religious beliefs. The government may neither support any particular religious group nor limit the freedom of any person to join or remain in any religious body. For constitutional protections to apply to main line religious groups, they must also protect the most unpopular or despised religious groups.

If any cult or religious group imprisons its members by physical force or the threat of such force, the criminal law should be applied to them evenhandedly. However, public officials must also prosecute those who kidnap, assault and imprison others—under conservatorship orders or otherwise—as a means of compelling renunciation of or adoption of beliefs of any kind.

The United Methodist Church supports the right of citizens who have reached the age of majority to accept or reject whatever religious beliefs they choose without facing the charge of “brainwashing.”

We are sympathetic to the emotional trauma faced by parents whose children have been drawn into cults whose beliefs most citizens may regard as bizarre or repulsive. At the same time we oppose the physical coercion techniques of deprogramming which seek to “correct” the beliefs of those who have joined cults. If one’s adult child adopts religious principles or a life style repugnant to one’s own, parents should not resort to vigilante type lawlessness and interference with constitutional liberties. Parental remedies lie in attempting to understand, sympathize and persuade.

In assessing whether or not governmental action is called for with respects to cults, we propose that the following principles be applied:

a) Investigations of alleged criminal activity within cults should be considered legitimate by appropriate law enforcement officials only so long as they operate within the bounds of normal constitutional standards. Sufficient evidence must exist to justify such a criminal investigation.

b) There should be no legal distinction made between “cults” and “bona fide religious groups.” Evidence of criminal or other illegal conduct, not the content of an unpopular belief system, should govern a decision to launch an investigation.

c) Limitations such as the above should also apply to what is considered an appropriate congressional investigation. Unless there is a bona fide legislative purpose, no such investigations should be conducted. The business of the Congress is not to regulate religion. It would be inappropriate for national legislative bodies to deal with religious groups by conducting investigations that are primarily accusatory or prosecutorial.

*A Statement Concerning
Church-Government Relations
And Education*

1. The fundamental purpose of universal public education at the elementary and secondary levels is to provide equal and adequate educational opportunities for all children and young people, and thereby insure the nation an enlightened citizenry.

We believe in the principle of universal public education, and we reaffirm our support of public educational institutions. At the same time, we recognize and pledge our continued allegiance to the U.S. constitutional principle that citizens have a right to establish and maintain private schools from private resources so long as such schools meet public standards of quality. Such schools have made a genuine contribution to society. We do not support the expansion or the strengthening of private schools with public funds. Furthermore, we oppose the establishment or strengthening of private schools that jeopardize the public school system or thwart valid public policy.

We specifically oppose tuition tax credits or any other mechanism which directly or indirectly allows government funds to support religious schools at the primary and secondary level. Persons of one particular faith should be free to use their own funds to strengthen the belief system of their particular religious group. But they should not expect all taxpayers, including those who adhere to other religious belief systems, to provide funds to reach religious views with which they do not agree.

To fulfill the government's responsibility in education, sometimes it and non-public educational institutions need to enter a cooperative relationship. But, public funds should be used only in the best interests of the whole society. Extreme caution must be exercised to assure that religious institutions do not receive any aid directly or indirectly for the maintenance of their religious expression or the expression of their institutional resources. Such funds must be used for the expressed purpose of fulfilling a strictly public responsibility, subject to public accountability.

Public schools have often been an important unifying force in modern pluralistic society by providing a setting for contact at an early age between children of vastly different backgrounds. We recognize in particular that persons of all religious backgrounds may have insight into the nature of ultimate reality which will help to enrich the common life. It is therefore essential that the public schools take seriously the religious integrity of each child entrusted to their care. Public schools may not properly establish any preferred form of religion for common exercises of worship, religious observance, or study. At the same time, however, education should provide opportunity for examination of the various religious traditions of humankind.

We believe that every person has a right to an education, including higher education, commensurate with his or her ability. It is society's responsibility to enable every person to enjoy this right. Public and private institutions should cooperate to provide for these educational opportunities.

2. Freedom of inquiry poses a risk for established ideas, beliefs, programs, and institutions. We accept that risk in the faith that all truth is of God. Colleges and universities can best perform their vital tasks of adding to knowledge and to the perception of truth in an atmosphere of genuine academic freedom.

We affirm the principle that freedom to inquire, to discuss, and to teach should be regulated by the self-discipline of scholarship and the critical examination of ideas in the context of free public dialogue, rather than by supervision, censorship, or any control imposed by churches, governments, or other organizations. In the educational process, individuals have the right to appropriate freely for themselves what they believe is real, important, useful, and satisfying.

3. Experience has demonstrated that freedom to inquire, to discuss, and to teach is best preserved when colleges and universities are not dependent upon a single base or a few sources of support. When an educational institution relies upon multiple sources of financial support, and where those sources tend to balance each other, the institution is in a position to resist undue pressures toward control exerted from any one source of support. In the case of church-related colleges and universities, we believe that tuitions, scholarships, investment returns, bequests, payments for services rendered, loans, government grants, and gifts from individuals, business corporations, foundations, and churches should be sought and accepted in as great a variety as possible. Care must be exercised to insure that all support from any of these sources is free from conditions which hinder the college or university in the maintenance of freedom of inquiry and expression for its faculty and students.

We are very much aware of the dangers of church-sponsored colleges and universities being overly dependent upon government funding. However, we are also aware that, given the independent thought of most college students today, there is little danger of using government funds to indoctrinate students with religious beliefs. Therefore, institutions of higher learning should feel free to receive government funds (except for religious teaching and structures for worship). At the same time they should be eternally cognizant of the dangers of accompanying government oversight that might threaten the religious atmosphere or special independent character of church-sponsored educational institutions.

No church-sponsored higher education institution should become so dependent upon government grants, research projects or support programs that its academic freedom is jeopardized, its responsibility for social criticism (including criticism of governments) inhibited, or its spiritual values denied.

We recognize that the freedom necessary to the existence of a college or university in the classical sense may be threatened by forces other than those involved in the nature and source of the institution's financial support. Institutional freedom may be adversely affected by governmental requirements of loyalty oaths from teachers and students, by public interference with the free flow of information; or by accreditation and certification procedures and requirements aimed at dictating the content of college and university curricula.

With respect to church-related institutions of higher education, we deplore any ecclesiastical attempts to manipulate inquiry of the dissemination of knowledge, to use the academic community for the promotion of any particular point of view, to require ecclesiastical "loyalty oaths" designed to protect cherished truth claims, or to inhibit the social action activities of members of the academic community. We call upon all members of The United Methodist Church, in whatever capacity they may serve, to protect individual and institutional freedom and responsibility in the context of the academic community.

4. We are persuaded that there may be circumstances or conditions in which the traditional forms of tax immunities granted to colleges and universities may be a necessary requirement for their freedom. Therefore, we urge a continuation of the public policy of granting reasonable and non-discriminatory tax immunities to all private colleges and universities, including those which are related to churches.

We believe that colleges and universities should consider the benefits, services, and protections which they receive from the community and its governmental agencies, and should examine their obligations to the community in the light of this support. We believe it is imperative that all church-related institutions of higher education determine on their own initiative what benefits, services, and opportunities they ought to provide for the community as a whole as distinct from their usual campus constituencies.

Church-Government
Relations And Governmental Chaplaincies*

1. We recognize that military and public institutional chaplaincies represent efforts to provide for the religious needs of people for whom both churches and governments are responsible. We recognize that in such a broad and complex undertaking there are bound to exist real and serious tensions which produce genuine uneasiness on the part of government officials as well as church leaders. Great patience and skill are required to effect necessary accommodations with understanding and without compromising religious liberty.

2. We believe that there are both ethical and constitutional standards which must be observed by governments in the establishment and operation of public chaplaincies. At a minimum, those standards are as follows:

First, the only obligation which governments have is to assure the provision of opportunities for military personnel, patients of hospitals, and inmates of correctional institutions to engage in religious worship or have access to religious nurture.

Second, participation in religious activities must be on a purely voluntary basis; there must be neither penalties for non-participation nor any rewards for participation.

Third, no preferential treatment should be given any particular church, denomination, or religious group in the establishment and administration of governmental chaplaincies.

Fourth, considerable care should be exercised in the role assignments of chaplains so they are not identified as the enforcer of morals. Precaution should also be taken to avoid chaplains being given duties not clearly related to their primary tasks.

Standards should be maintained to protect the integrity of both churches and governments. The practice of staffing governmental chaplaincies with clergy personnel who have ecclesiastical endorsement should be continued. The practice of terminating the services of such personnel in any instance where it becomes necessary for ecclesiastical endorsement to be withdrawn should also be continued. Supervision of clergy personnel in the performance of their religious services in governmental chaplaincies should be clearly effected through ecclesiastical channels with the cooperation of the public agencies and institutions involved. In the performance of these administrative functions, churches and agencies of government have an obligation to be fair and responsible, and to insure that due process is observed in all proceedings.

3. The role of governmental chaplain should be primarily pastoral but with important priestly, prophetic, and teaching roles. The chaplain has an obligation to perform these ministries in as broad an ecumenical context as possible. A chaplain is responsible for the spiritual welfare and religious life of all the personnel of the military unit or the public institution to which he/she is assigned.

There are many persons, and some groups, whose personal religious practices or whose church's rules make it impossible for them to accept the direct ministry of a particular chaplain. In such instances, the chaplain, to the full extent of his/her powers, has an obligation to make provision for worship by these persons or groups. A chaplain is expected to answer specific questions by members of faith groups other than his/her own. Chaplains must know the basic tenets of their denominations in order to protect such members in the expression and development of their faith. The absence of parochialism on the part of a chaplain is more than an attitude; it necessitates specific, detailed, and accurate knowledge regarding many religions.

4. The churches should strive to make public chaplaincies integral expressions of their ministry and to face the implications of this for supervision and budget. The chaplain represents the church by affirming the dignity to all persons in military service through the chaplain's function in upholding their freedom of religion and conscience. Every person exists within a broader set of values than those of the military, and within a broader spectrum of responsibilities than those created by military orders. The chaplain is a bearer of the gospel to affirm the freedom of the individual and represents The United Methodist Church at that point of tension. Whether the freedom of the gospel is compromised or limited may be a result of either external pressures or internal submission, or both. Failure to sustain the freedom of the gospel lies within any human system or any individual. It is the task of the church to prophetically confront institutions or chaplains who compromise the gospel. The United Methodist Church provides presence, oversight and support to chaplains who risk ministry in such a setting.

There are degrees of tension in present arrangements whereby a chaplain is a commissioned officer of the armed forces or an employee of a public institution. As such, he/she is a member of the staff of the military commander or of the director of the public institution involved. Government regulations and manuals describe him/her as "the advisor on religion, morals, morale, and welfare." Therefore, we believe it is the chaplain's duty in faithfulness to his/her religious commitments to act in accordance with his/her conscience and make such viewpoints known in organizational matters affecting the total welfare of the people for whom the chaplain has any responsibility. The chaplain has the obligation and should have the opportunity to express his/her dissent within the structures in which the chaplain works, in instances where he/she feels this is necessary. With respect to such matters it is the obligation of religious bodies to give the chaplain full support.

Churches must encourage chaplains who serve in the armed forces to resist the exaltation of power and its exercise for its own sake. They must also encourage chaplains who serve in public institutions to maintain sensitivity to human anguish. Churches and chaplains have an obligation to speak out conscientiously against the unforgiving and intransigent spirit in people and nations wherever and whenever it appears.

*A Statement Concerning
Church-Government Relations And Tax Exemption*

1. We believe that governments recognize the unique category of religious institutions. This unique category is not a privilege held by these institutions for their own benefit or self-glorification but is an acknowledgement of their special identity designed to protect their independence and to enable them to serve mankind in a way not expected of other types of institutions.

We urge churches to consider at least the following factors in determining their response to the granting of immunity from property taxes:

- a) Responsibility to make appropriate contributions for essential services provided by government;
- b) The danger that churches become so dependent upon government that they compromise their integrity or fail to exert their critical influence upon public policy.

2. We support the abolition of all special privileges accorded to members of the clergy in U.S. tax laws and regulations and call upon the churches to deal with the consequent financial implications for their ministers. Conversely, we believe that all forms of discrimination against members of the clergy in U.S. tax legislation and administrative regulations should be discontinued. We believe that the status of an individual under ecclesiastical law or practice ought not to be the basis of governmental action either granting or withholding a special tax benefit.

*A Statement Concerning
Church Participation In Public Affairs*

1. We recognize that churches exist within the body politic along with numerous other forms of human association. Like other social groups their existence affects and is affected by governments. We believe that churches have the right and the duty to speak and act corporately on those matters of public policy which involve basic moral or ethical issues and questions. Any concept of or action regarding church-government relations which denies churches this role in the body politic strikes at the very core of religious liberty.

The attempt to influence the formation and execution of public policy at all levels of government is often the most effective means available to churches to keep before humanity the ideal of a society in which power and order are made to serve the ends of justice and freedom for all people. Through such social action churches generate new ideas, challenge certain goals and methods, and help rearrange the emphasis on particular values in ways that facilitate adoption and implementation of specific policies and programs which promote the goals of a responsible society.

2. We believe that any action that would deny the church the right to act corporately on public policy matters threatens religious liberty. We therefore oppose inclusion of churches in any lobby disclosure legislation.

This does not mean that, in any way, we wish to hide actions taken by the church on public issues. On the contrary, we are usually proud of such actions. It does recognize, however, that the church is already responding to members who request information with respect to church action on public policy questions. In effect, in accordance with legislation enacted by the 1976 General Conference, The United Methodist Church already has its own lobby disclosure provisions in place.

But it is quite another matter for the government to insist that it must know everything about what a church is saying in its private communications with its own members.

When the U.S. Supreme Court acted in the 1971 landmark case of Lemon v. Kurtzman (403 U.S. 602 at pp. 612, 613), the Court applied a test to determine constitutionality of legislation on First Amendment grounds as it deals with religion. Among its three criteria were these two: (1) its principle or primary effect must neither advance nor inhibit religion; (2) the statute must not foster an excessive government entanglement with religion.

Lobby disclosure legislation before the U.S. Congress over the last several years has required (1) extremely burdensome recordkeeping and reporting of all legislative activity; (2) reporting of contributions of churches giving $3,000 or more annually to a national body if a part of this is used for legislative action; (3) criminal penalties with up to two years in jail for violations; (4) unwarranted subpoena powers to investigate church records.

Legislation which passed the House in 1978 would have required detailed records of expenditures of 22 items.

As such, it would have been burdensome and would “inhibit religion” in that The United Methodist Church would have been severely handicapped in implementing its Social Principles due to being neutralized by minutiae.

Futhermore, if the government insists on knowing everything the church is doing on public policy questions over a five-year period (as was required) and imposes a criminal sentence for violations, this could “inhibit religion” to the extent that the church might be tempted to limit severely its activity to avoid noncompliance.

If the government is going to require that religious groups keep burdensome records and make voluminous reports, and there is some question as to whether the churches are complying, federal authorities would be authorized to step in and check church records and files. Such action would undoubtedly represent an unconstitutional “excessive government entanglement with religion.”

The United Methodist Church would have great difficulty in complying with the provision that all organizational contributions of $3,000 annually be reported if some of these funds are used for lobbying. Since local churches contribute generously to the World Service dollar and a small portion of those funds are used for legislative action, this brings our church under coverage of this provision. Such a requirement could mean that reports of contributions of some 30,000 United Methodist churches would have to be made to the government shortly after the close of each year. This could not be done as we would be in violation having “knowingly” omitted material facts “required to be disclosed.” As a result, church officials would be subject to criminal penalties of up to two years in prison.

For these reasons, we oppose lobby disclosure measures for the churches. In its most stringent form this legislation would inhibit our free exercise of religion. It would be impossible for the church to comply with certain provisions, thus subjecting our church leaders to criminal penalties.

3. We believe that churches must behave responsibly in the arena of public affairs. Responsible behavior requires adherence to ethically sound substantive and procedural norms.

We live in a pluralistic society. In such a society, churches should not seek to use the authority of government to make the whole community conform to their particular moral codes. Rather, churches should seek to enlarge and clarify the ethical grounds of public discourse and to identify and define the foreseeable consequences of available choices of public policy.

In participating in the arena of public affairs, churches are not inherently superior to other participants; hence the stands which they take on particular issues of public policy are not above question or criticism.

Responsible behavior in the arena of public affairs requires churches to accept the fact that, in dealing with complex issues of public policy, good intentions and high ideals need to be combined with as much practical and technical knowledge of politics and economics as possible.

Another norm of responsible behavior derives from the fact that no particular public policy which may be endorsed by churches at a given point in time should be regarded as an ultimate expression of Christian ethics in society. Churches should not assume that any particular social pattern, political order, or economic ideology represents a complete embodiment of the Christian ethic.

When churches speak to government they also bear the responsibility to speak to their own memberships. Cultivation of ethically informed public opinion is particularly crucial in local congregations. It is essential to responsible behavior that procedures be established and maintained to insure full, frank, and informed discussion by members and constituents of churches of the decisions and actions of religious groups within the arena of public affairs. In the present period of human history, attention should be given to the dignity of every person and appeal should be made to the consciences of all persons of good will. Churches must acknowledge and respect the role of the laity as well as the clergy in determining their behavior in the arena of public affairs.

Because of their commitment to unity and in the interest of an effective strategy, churches should, to the maximum extent feasible, coordinate their own efforts and, where appropriate, cooperate with other organizations when they seek to influence properly the formation and execution of public policy at all levels of government.

Finally, churches should not seek to utilize the processes of public affairs to further their own institutional interests or to obtain special privileges for themselves.

4. United Methodism is a part of the universal church. In the formulation and expression of the United Methodist voice in public affairs, we must listen to the concerns and insights of church members and churches in all nations. It is imperative that our expressions and actions be informed by participation in the universal church.

5. With particular reference to The United Methodist Church and public affairs, we express the following convictions: connec-tional units of the denomination (such as General Conference, jurisdictional conference, annual conference, local congregation, or general board or agency) should continue to exercise the right to advocate government policies which involve basic moral or ethical issues or questions. In exercising this right, each such connectional unit, or any other official group within The United Methodist Church, should always make explicit for whom or in whose name it speaks or acts in the arena of public affairs. Only the General Conference is competent to speak or act in the name of The United Methodist Church.

Agricultural And Rural Life Issues

I. Theological Statement. In the beginning, the Creator formed light and darkness, energy and matter, space and time, and the earth with all that's around, on, and within it. Then came primitive life forms and, finally, human beings made in the Creator's image and likeness. The Creator looked over this creation and called it good. Thus could the Psalmist sing: "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and those who dwell therein (Psalm 24:1 RSV). We have been given responsibility for God's created world. As stewards of God's good creation, we have oftentimes been neglectful. We have sinned against God and creation in polluting the air and water, by degrading and destroying the soil, plant, animal and human forms. We have despoiled the Gardens of Eden and made them into deserts and wastelands. We have created supported systems which disrupt the natural web of life and dehumanize persons and groups. Yet, as sons and daughters of God, humankind is sometimes capable of converting deserts back into gardens and to cooperate with God and nature in creating food and fiber sufficient to meet the basic needs of human beings everywhere. The resources of the earth are God's gift to present and future generations and are to be used to bless the whole human family.

The resources of the good earth are the life blood of survival and the sources of challenge for creativity and fulfillment.

Faith mandates that the stewardship of earth's resources must be a central concern of all God's people. We must allow our personal and social salvation in Jesus Christ and the leadership of the Holy Spirit to guide us into attitudes and actions appropriate to the management of agricultural and rural resources as God's servants. This central theological issue is matched by the needs of all God's people for food, clothing, shelter, justice and caring. We are called to be especially concerned about those who are powerless, starving or subsisting at subhuman levels. We must make scripture, tradition, experience, and reason central Wesleyan doctrinal forces as United Methodists face agricultural and rural life issues in the United States and around the world.

II. Historical Interest. The United Methodist Church has long had an interest in rural life issues. Each General Conference since 1940 has given guidance to The United Methodist Church and to society for improving the life chances of rural people. In 1972, and again in 1976, the General Conference adopted major resolutions entitled, "Agricultural and Rural Life Issues." The Social Principles speak to the needs of building national support for the improvement of rural life in paragraph "K" of Section III. The special needs of migrant workers are recognized in paragraph "F," Section IV.

III. Issues in Town and Country America. We affirm the necessity for United Methodists, a large proportion of whom live in town and rural areas, to lift up the interdependence of rural and urban citizens. Energy, food production, and the acquisition of raw materials generally are associated with town and rural areas. Survival needs of all people are dependent upon their common stewardship of life resources. On the one hand, the values and decision-making of urban dwellers have a strong influence on rural people and their concerns. On the other hand, the conditions of life in rural America are significant keys to the quality of life achievable in urban America. We, therefore, commit ourselves to the disciplined pursuit which affirms all people, all resources, and all community life as gifts to be invested for the total good of all of God's people. Our concern with rural issues does not blind us to the problems of urban areas; we see them in relationship to each other.

1. The Family Farm. Much of rural America was settled and has been characterized in the past by family farms. They have been the basis of traditional rural values and have resulted in a revolution of increased agricultural production. The family farm was a place for cooperation as a life style with men, women, youth and children working together as teams. The current struggle for the survival of the family farm involves such negative forces as inflated production costs, lack of capitalization, tax laws, gyrating markets, the rise of corporate farming and large scale investments in land.

There has been a dramatic decline in the number of family farms and people living on farms. Part-time farming, increased mechanization, migration to the cities, rural employment, and corporate farming have resulted in vast changes in church and community life in many places. The reversal of these trends and the strengthening of family farming are important for a significant rural culture in the future.

2. Land Use. Much of rural America has been characterized by abundant natural resources of land, minerals, and timber. However, abuse of these resources and inadequate land use planning can threaten this abundance and be detrimental to the environment. Each year, approximately one million or more acres of U.S. farmland are diverted from agricultural production to suburban housing, industries, highways, airports, reservoirs, power plants, and strip mining. Also, the pressure for minerals, timber, and production of energy often are translated into dysfunctions in the ecological system.

Among other land use concerns are the encouragement of immediate reforestation programs for the protection of soil as well as for production; the misuse of eminent domain; conservation through parks and wilderness areas; low cost loans that will enable minorities to own and use land; the rights of Native Americans to control land resulting from negotiations with federal and state government; and the use of appropriate and sustainable technology at home and abroad to increase food and fiber production and to enhance the land for future use. As Christian trustees, we should respect the land as a gift of God's creation and call for responsible stewardship and just use that will preserve it for future generations.

3. Quality of Life. Present rural America is characterized by diversity and conflicting interests brought about by industrialization of farming and the forces of urbanization. There are no simple generalizations which can adequately describe rural America, but there are a wide variety of urgent concerns related to the quality of life in rural areas.

a) Education. More than two million rural adults have completed only five years of schooling. The proportion of rural children not enrolled in school is nearly twice that in urban areas. While about one-third of our nation's school children reside in rural areas, a small proportion of public funds is spent on their education. For example, only 11 percent of public funds are spent on libraries in rural America; 13 percent of basic aid funds; 20 percent of bilingual educational funds; 8 percent of migrant educational funds; and 25 percent of educational opportunity programs. Help for gifted and handicapped children is virtually non-existent in rural areas. Rural children have far less access to the educational resources and opportunities than those in the nation as a whole.

b) Health Services. Twenty-five percent of all citizens have inadequate health care compared to 60 percent of rural residents. Of the 1,500 counties with inadequate medical services, 95 percent are in non-metropolitan areas. Ninety percent of urban families have some kind of medical insurance; this is true of only 60 percent of rural Americans. Nationwide, there is a ratio of one doctor to 1,432 residents; in rural areas the ratio is only one doctor to 2,512 residents. Medical care is simply unavailable in many rural areas.

c) Justice and Legal Services. Incidents of injustices and inadequate legal services are widespread in rural and town settings. Because it is difficult to attract trained attorneys, judges, and law enforcement officials to rural areas, the pursuit of justice and law enforcement is often inadequate.

d) Transportation. In 1976, the 20,000 towns with under 50,000 population had only 310 bus systems. During the past 15 years, 146 bus systems have disappeared from these small towns. One-third of the rural poor own no family vehicle; 47 percent of rural elderly have no license to drive; and 20 million rural residents report no access to any form of travel while the family car is gone for the day. The loss of railroads has left a large gap in rural transportation. The establishment of a national transportation policy should take into account these town and rural realities.

e) Housing. The town and rural sector has approximately one-third of the nation's population but over one-half of the nation's sub-standard housing. Migrant workers, ethnic minority persons, and the elderly are the most vulnerable. The need for rural housing legislation and funding are urgent.

f) Energy/Water Resource. The nation is in a political struggle to set priorities related to energy. However, much of the rhetoric and the legislative proposals overlook rural America and its needs. As we continue to exploit and develop fossil fuels, including oil, natural gas, coal, and uranium, we must recognize the need for careful stewardship of land, water, and air resources. We dare not despoil our renewable resources for short-term gains in non-renewable energy sources.

Farm operators are in strong competition for access to fuel for farm machines and transportation. This competition extends to petroleum and natural gas, which are the raw materials for the manufacture of fertilizer and herbicides. The increasingly short supply and the 500 percent rise in the cost of fossil fuels and products demand decisions about energy use which will assure the continued production of food and fiber to meet domestic and world needs,

Water is expected to replace energy as our next major resource crisis. The development of new forms of energy will threaten already limited water supplies, particularly in those arid regions with untapped coals and oil shale.

g) Employment. The lack of adequate employment in rural America is usually hidden from view. A city street corner filled with idle youth or unemployed persons calls attention to itself; however, the jobless are easily out of sight in the rural areas. Most government employment programs are designed for the urban rather than the rural unemployed.

Farm workers and migrant laborers find it difficult to organize for collective bargaining and are often denied the benefits of the minimum wage, child labor laws, or even social security benefits. They are frequently excluded from welfare benefits, educational opportunities, voting and other rights associated with residency requirements. This lack of political and economic power inhibits resolution of these problems.

Small businesses, branch plants of large manufacturing firms, resort establishments, and service institutions are increasingly being located in town and rural areas. These provide needed employment for rural people. Yet they are accompanied by social, economic, and political problems. Some of these are rural-urban differences in wages and benefits, job safety protection, opposition to collective bargaining and unionization, and exploitation of low-paid unorganized rural labor. Often there is tension and unrest because of dependence on a single industry. The mix of farm and non-farm occupations and ensuing problems require cooperative efforts in order to achieve a balanced economy and improvement in the quality of life. Within political and economic decision making processes, the policies of agribusiness cannot be assumed to be those of farm workers and family farmers.

IV. *The Rural Church. Methodism adapted to the frontier as the United States developed westward. The dynamic spiritual motivation, the circuit pattern, the lay preacher and the traveling elder enabled the flexibility needed to minister to the people who moved west. The circuit shared pastoral leadership among churches and encouraged the emergence of strong lay leadership. Rural churches were and continue to be important centers of community life.

This movement was uniquely able to relate to the rural areas. Today, 88 percent of our churches and 73 percent of our members are located in population areas of 50,000 or less; 78 percent of our churches and 51 percent of members are located in areas of 10,000 or less; 58.3 percent of our churches and 24 percent of members are located in areas of 1,000 or less. Ours is a denomination of churches with small memberships; 64 percent with less than 200 members and 40 percent with less than 100 members. Sixty percent of our churches are served on multiple-church charges. The United Methodist Church occupies a place of unique responsibility for rural America—"To whom much is given . . . much will be required." (Luke 12:48b)

V. *The Call to the People of The United Methodist Church. The United Methodist Church urges its congregations, rural and urban, to:

1. study and become involved in agricultural and rural life issues;
2. remember with thanksgiving the contribution of farm workers to our national life, affirm the ministry of the churches among seasonal and migrant farm workers and pledge continued support for the organizing efforts of farm workers and their families;
3. work for justice and equity for farmers, and rural ethnic minorities, especially regarding access to land ownership;
4. influence community decision-makers to bring about improvement in the quality of life;
5. strengthen small and moderate-sized family farms by affirming resident land ownership or access to long term leases;
6. cooperate with each other in clergy and lay exchanges, comprehensive salary plans by annual conferences, and adequate planning for small churches and cooperative parishes.

The United Methodist Church directs all its boards and agencies to:

1. develop and find appropriate programs emphasizing rural life issues;

2. redress the present unjust imbalance in the distribution of funds between rural and urban ministries.

The United Methodist Church calls upon leaders and pastors to:

1. utilize available resources in community renewal programs aimed at the improvement in rural life;

2. undertake cooperative and ecumenical models of ministry aimed at the improvement in rural life, including adequate orientation and training of pastors serving rural churches.

The United Methodist Church directs the Board of Church and Society to coordinate a study of multinational corporations and their social, economic, and political impacts on rural communities.

VI. The Call to U.S. Social and Economic Institutions.

1. The United Methodist Church calls upon farmers, agribusinesses, and other corporations to be good stewards of the earth, with all of its resources, and to find ways of sharing the benefits of food, fiber, and energy with poor and hungry people in this country and around the world.

2. The United Methodist Church urges agribusiness to recognize the rights of farmworkers to organize into unions of their own choosing, receive adequate wages and benefits, to be protected from occupational hazards.

3. The United Methodist Church encourages land grant colleges and universities to develop technologies appropriate for the small and moderate-sized family farms.

4. The United Methodist Church encourages all institutions to be sensitive to the need for participation in planning and decision-making by local residents.

5. The United Methodist Church calls for urban people to be more sensitive to rural life issues.

6. The United Methodist Church urges farmers to give primary use of land to the production of food and fiber rather than the production of non-essential products such as tobacco and grains for alcoholic beverages.

VII. The Call to the Federal and State Governments. The United Methodist Church calls upon the federal and state governments and their appropriate agencies to:

1. make grants and low interest farm loans available to small and moderate-sized families for the purpose of preservation of farmland and encourage labor intensive agricultural production;

2. restructure investment and tax policies to promote small and moderate-sized family farm operations, to discourage growth in large corporate and corporately controlled farms and of foreign investment;

3. promote farm ownership and management by Blacks, Hispanics, Native Americans, and other ethnic minority persons;
4. establish procedures and programs to ensure small and moderate-sized family farmers fair and equitable return on labor and products;
5. develop land use policies, undergirded by adequate funding, to preserve productive farm lands;
6. expand the amount of funding and program resources available to rural schools and educational institutions;
7. support health care programs that provide for the medical needs of rural people;
8. provide financial assistance and training to rural law enforcement officials and rural legal service agencies;
9. expand energy efficient mass transportation programs in rural areas;
10. upgrade housing programs in rural areas;
11. respect the guaranteed land and water rights of all minority peoples, with the expectation of their traditional stewardship of those rights.
12. develop a national water and energy policy which assures participation of local residents in decisions about rural and agricultural resources.
13. recognize and protect the right of farmworkers to organize into unions of their own choosing, be covered by minimum wage laws, receive adequate benefits, including Social Security;
14. redirect comprehensive employment and training programs to also meet the needs of rural unemployed persons;
15. increase funding for food and nutrition programs in rural areas;
16. expand programs that serve the needs of the rural elderly;
17. conduct research and extension designed to increased production of food wherever it is needed.

All of the above governmental actions must be accomplished through processes that include all persons residing in the rural areas that will be affected by such decisions.

Human Rights in Korea

The human rights of the people of South Korea have been seriously violated since the establishment in 1972 of the repressive Yushin ("revitalization") Constitution. In the period since the death of President Park Chung-hee in October, 1979, there seems to be some genuine movement toward the formulation of a democratic constitution. It is, nevertheless, a regrettable fact that freedoms of speech, press and assembly, the very basis of democracy itself, continue to be denied the Korean people by means of martial law and many persons continue to be incarcerated or restricted for political reasons.

It is true that in the past twenty five years, Korea has achieved significant economic growth. The standard of living of the population has increased substantially. These achievements, however, were made at the expense of workers and those who are not in the privileged economic class.

The United States, as the primary nation involved in the formation of the Republic of Korea, has a unique responsibility for the flourishing of genuine representative government there, and has supported Korea's governments with military and economic aid in order ostensibly to preserve democracy. However, the U.S. government has been reluctant to pursue a strong course of human rights in Korea in deference to perceived American national security interests.

Our religious faith calls us to affirm the dignity and worth of every human being and to struggle with our oppressed brothers and sisters for justice in order "to preach good news to the poor . . . to proclaim release to the captives . . . to set at liberty those who are oppressed."

Therefore, be it resolved that we, the General Conference of The United Methodist Church:

1. Express our continuing support for our brothers and sisters who struggle and suffer for the sake of social justice in Korea.
2. Call on the United States government to insist on the immediate end to martial law in Korea and the withdrawal of military officers from civilian governmental affairs, making it clear that the continued distortion of their proper defense role by the ROK military threatens the basis of the United States' commitment to the security of Korea.

Resolution on Family Life

I. Introduction. In the beginning God created family. Through this gracious gift we all enter into life, find our identity, claim our heritage and seek our mission as God's children. Of all institutions, the church, as the people of God, is pre-eminently called and charged to support, nurture, and strengthen the family in its various forms. Whatever in society threatens families threatens the church, most especially in its mission of bringing in the kingdom. Because of its significance to the life of the church and because of the church's responsibility to nurture and protect family life, this resolution suggests some of the specifics of the basic relationship of church and family.

II. Christian Family Living. Christians believe that God's creative and redemptive love is the basis on which all human relationships should be established. The love and faithfulness seen in God's covenant with Israel and in the event of Jesus Christ are the model for these relationships.

God's covenant is communicated and translated through human relationships. These relationships are often broken and violated by social forces and personal actions that destroy concern for one another and undermine personal integrity. Systems and actions that build common concerns among persons witness to God's covenant. In the strength of God's faithfulness to this covenant, we are called and enabled to live faithfully in human community. Significant ways of doing this include such expressions of our sexuality as establishing a marriage relationship and becoming parents.

Sexuality is a good gift from God, fundamental to realizing the wholeness of life. This gift includes all that it means to be fully human as a male or a female. All expressions of sexuality affect the full development of persons and should demonstrate personal integrity, faithfulness in relationships, and the equality of women and men.

The church understands marriage to be a covenant relationship of a man and a woman under God in which the partners promise to live together in love and fidelity to this covenant with God, and who consent to be responsible to each other under God and the regulation of the state. Christian marriage is marked by the quality of that relationship. It involves a commitment that is expressed in sharing, caring, trusting, supporting, giving, receiving, forgiving and in general, preferring the good of the partner as one's closest neighbor. A Christian family affirms its place as a unit of the larger Christian congregation and tradition and sees itself called to witness to the gospel in many ways through contacts its members make with the larger society.

The family is the basic relationship through which individuals claim their sense of identity and self-worth and learn mutual love, respect, fidelity, and responsibility. The church affirms the right of families, and embraces its own responsibility, to communicate the richness of full cultural heritage to every descendant of specific cultural communities. The church celebrates the wealth of these different cultures within its churchwide family as part of its enriching pluralism.

Marriage and family patterns have always had historical and cultural features that vary under changing circumstances. Basic to any family form is commitment to one another's care and welfare. Responsible family relationships may be expressed in a variety of ways, such as: parents with one or more children; extended families of several generations; foster parents; parents with adopted children; single parents; couples without children; and sisters, brothers, other related persons, or friends sharing the same household. The church is concerned about the well-being of all persons in all family forms.

The current technological period has brought cultural and political changes that profoundly affect the forms as well as the functions of marriage and family life. Many of these changes have reduced the social support given families. As a result, the expression of faithfulness in marriage and family relationships has become much more a matter of personal decision and initiative. We recognize the need to strengthen structures and forces that support faithfulness to covenant in marriage and that enhance personhood for all family members: adults, youth, children. At the same time, we call individual Christians to overcome the secular forces of our society by exercising freedom, creativity, and courage in living out the gospel in responsible, faithful, committed relationships.

We acknowledge that at times we all fall short of total fidelity in our human relationships because of individual and collective sinfulness; therefore, a family unit may be both creative and destructive of its individual members. We stand in constant need of God's forgiveness and the patience and understanding of ourselves and one another.

The church recognizes that the covenantal relationship of marriage may be broken. If, after conscientious evaluation and counseling, divorce becomes the most healing solution available under the circumstances, the church must serve as a supportive community for the entire family, including both partners, their parents, and especially any children affected by the dissolution. All parties are charged with particular care and concern for the children, while at the same time, recognizing that the healing of the parents is essential to the children's welfare. The responsibilities of parenting continue beyond divorce.

We recognize the right of divorced persons to remarry. God's forgiving and redemptive love allows us to become whole persons who are capable of beginning a new family, undergirded by faith in God.

The gospel affirms the sacred worth and merit of every person in the eyes of God. All persons, regardless of sexual orientation, need the love, care and concern of a supportive community to achieve the fullness of life that God intends for all human beings. As God's people, we are called to love and care for homosexual persons and for families with such members, and to seek better understanding of them in the context of the gospel of God's love.

III. *The Family in Society. In the family's interaction with society, it faces the possibility of both creative and destructive experiences. Social grouping affects the moral and cultural atmosphere in which family units function. With commitment to growth and freedom under God's covenant, Christian families are called to support social forces and programs that contribute to the well-being of persons and to work to change those systems that hinder the development of their finest qualities.

Values are chosen, evaluated, affirmed or rejected, and transmitted within the family as it relates to society. Often values are chosen only because they appear to work or because they are socially acceptable. Christians need to evaluate values by Scripture, tradition, experience, and reason. Families and churches can provide an atmosphere of freedom within which members are enabled to resist negative influences and to be open to positive experiences. Other structures with which the family interacts include schools, mass media, work, government, business and economic systems, and housing. These systems are constantly under God's judgment and need to be scrutinized by Christians to measure the quality of their influence on family life.

Traditional foes of humanity, such as war, racism, ageism, poverty, sexism and sexual abuse, drug and alcohol abuse, are forms of human exploitation that affect the quality of family life. This effect may be immediate and direct or it may be long-range, but the presence of such destructive forces in society has a negative impact on families.

Institutions in society may be damaging the family structure and its members in ways that are not immediately apparent. Our educational institutions, for example, have long been allies of the church in instilling important values in the young. Recent studies and evaluations of our educational systems, however, suggest that sometimes these institutions in their forms, policies or practices may be instilling ideas that are in opposition to the Christian understanding of what is beneficial to human personality. In a similar manner, television communicates questionable values when its content emphasizes violence and sexual exploitation, and creates a commodity-consuming atmosphere. Likewise, residential living patterns based on economic and racial exclusiveness not only have reinforced the practice of segregation but have contributed to the causes of racism.

Society is a complex system that surrounds and interacts with the family. The church must provide guidance to families to enable them to make informed and purposeful decisions in interacting with social forces.

IV. Changing Functions Of the Family. The functions of the family have been variously described as procreative (reproductive), economic (producing and consuming), religious, educative, social, affectional, and protective. In recent years many of these functions have been assumed in part by other agencies and institutions. Because of the family's unique opportunity to nurture the qualities of maturity in persons, the church must assist families in recovering and maintaining those responsibilities and functions they can perform best.

Specifically, the church is concerned that families provide a growing experience in understanding God and the world and in demonstrating the reality of God's love in the world. God's love, expressed in families through affectional and emotional ties and commitment to responsible relationships, as well as providing the necessities of life, is essential for personal stability and personality growth. Attitudes shaped through such loving relationships provide the basis for reliable self-discipline.

In recent times many social influences and family patterns have created in families a sense of isolation from the larger community. In this sense of isolation, family members have felt limited to one another in meeting their needs for affectional and emotional support. In response to this need, churches can arrange for exchange of ideas and experiences within and between the generations, provide a variety of guidelines and models for life patterns, give families opportunities to experience an extended or larger family, and support couples seeking to grow and fulfill their commitment to each other.

In the future, family functions will continue to change. Social conditions, limited resources, educational opportunities, scientific development, increased communications, mobility, medical advances, and psychological insights are creating both opportunities and demands for new personal and family lifestyles. Medical technologies will increasingly affect the child-bearing and parenting functions of the family. These technologies include genetic control, artificial insemination, extrauterine conception and organ transplants. The Christian church must engage in ethical and theological reflection that will enable it to make a creative contribution in these areas.

V. *Sex Role Stereotypes In Church and Family. Sex role stereotyping (the assumption that persons of a certain sex do certain tasks better than members of the other sex) frequently begins in the home. It is confirmed by schools, media, the church, and other social institutions. The church can do much to overcome this stereotyping that restricts the full human development of boys and girls, men and women.

In the past the church has been guilty of assigning certain functions of the family's life to one sex or the other, leaving the impression that men and women who vary from traditional sex role patterns are irresponsible to their basic family function. The changing consciousness of women and men regarding their responsibility to all of life now challenges the church to overcome its own limited interpretation of sex roles. The church is also challenged to work aggressively to overcome the legal and cultural barriers that have prohibited persons from full participation in church and society.

The church supports the self-awareness of women as persons who are able to take full responsibility for their own lives. The church itself must eliminate sex role stereotyping from its counseling, worship and liturgy, church government, and church school curriculum.

Decisions that affect the entire family should be reached with no thought as to the superiority of any family member because of gender. Sex role stereotyping has led to irresponsibility on the part of some members in such areas as family planning, birth control, child care, vocational choices, and financial priorities. Equal rights and equal responsibilities for men and women can strengthen marriage, nourish family life, and affirm personhood.

VI. *Church and Family. Marriage and family relationships are understood as particular kinds of relationships among the many others about which the church is concerned. In its concern for the nuclear family, the church has at times neglected its ministry to persons living in relationships based on other forms of firm commitment. The church is concerned for every person regardless of lifestyle. For example, the single person who is divorced or widowed or has never married needs to be fully accepted within the life of the church. God's blessing is given to couples without children as well as those with offspring. The church, as God's covenant community, is called to practice God's gracious acceptance of all persons who have need of the redemptive life of the church.

The church must focus upon and bring to light the needs of persons in their loving, procreating, and nurturing functions. This includes calling persons to evaluate the moral quality of their lifestyles, including their use of natural resources, and to live responsibly in all of life's relationships. The church needs to search for the best possible understanding of human life through knowledge obtained from psychology, economics, sociology, medicine, and other sciences. Furthermore, it must relate the values found in the Christian tradition and experience to the needs and changing situations of persons.

The church's ministries are called to strengthen, nurture, protect, and sustain persons in families. This requires programs of education and counseling that will assist the personal and moral development of each family member. Pastors, religious educators, and others with helping skills need training in marriage and family counseling, especially in Christian moral decision-making related to such family life issues as sexual development, marriage (including legal rights and responsibilities pertaining to the marriage contract), divorce, parenthood, family planning, adoption, child care, lifestyles, sterilization, and abortion. When appropriate, families should be referred to other helping professions for further assistance with marriage and family crises. The church needs to reinforce the meaning of commitment and faithfulness as the basis for responsible human relationships. The church must lead families in the examination of issues affecting the welfare of all family members.

Violence among family members is an issue of special concern. The home should be a place of honest communication where conflict is dealt with constructively. All family members are entitled to physical safety, security and emotional well being.

A high priority must be given also to the rights and needs of children. The church calls for re-examination of legislation in all those areas that affect children and their families in order to guarantee that such legislation is beneficial and not harmful to their needs. The nation's resources and concern must be focused with greater creativity and imagination upon the development and use of our schools, media, child-care and other programs designed to strengthen families.

The church supports public schools and other agencies in educational programs on human sexuality, parenting, and family life. At the same time, it holds that the home and the church are primary centers of moral development and religious training.

Confusion regarding the meaning of sexuality in human life and the number of issues affecting families continue to increase. Therefore, the church, through its theological faculties and other agencies, needs to conduct studies of these issues and to affirm clearly relationships based on the gospel.

VII. *Families in Mission. A Christian family, as a form of the church in the world, becomes a source of the church's ministries to the world. As a part of the Christian community, family members, individually and collectively, seek to fulfill their mission by witnessing and serving in a variety of ways in the community, state, nation, and world.

Families need the church to help them recognize and improve the many ways in which they witness to what God has done for them in Christ, as well as what God can do for others and for society.

Family members witness (1) by the quality of their life together in the home and by the way they love, support, and honor one another's rights in their daily living; (2) by the way they relate to others, in expressing genuine Christian concern and support in times of crisis or struggle as well as in times of rejoicing and celebration; (3) by what they say in direct conversation with others about what the Christian faith means to them; (4) by taking a stand on social issues and working toward changes in those public policies, structures, and conditions that damage persons or hinder their full growth and development; (5) by working for reconciliation of individuals or groups, and (6) by their vocational, paid jobs and volunteer work in the community.

The church challenges families to avoid retreating into isolation and calls them to find creative ways of using the full extent of their abilities to be instruments of God's creative and redemptive purposes.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

The Episcopal Address called us "in the name of Christ to let the world be liberated from the sin of war" and urged that "our voices must be heard in opposition to war, for it is a contradiction to the principles of Christianity and ignores the Prince of Peace."

We are deeply troubled over recent events in Afghanistan. We object to the decision by leaders of the USSR to intervene militarily in a country that, like all countries, has the right to self determination. We condemn their use of aggressive force.

We urge United Methodists to reflect carefully on developing events, weighing them in the light of the New Testament message and of Christian experience. Let our response always be one of human beings to human beings, under God.

We direct the Secretary of the General Conference to communicate this statement to the Secretary General of the United Nations, commending the UN for its efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement in the region and urging further continuing efforts to avert this growing threat to world peace.

We also direct the secretary of the General Conference to send this statement to the Ambassador of the USSR to the United States, urging the immediate withdrawal of Soviet forces from the sovereign nation of Afghanistan and to the President of the United States urging his serious consideration.

The United Methodist Church And Peace

“Peace is not simply the absence of war, a nuclear stalemate or combination of uneasy cease-fires. It is that emerging dynamic reality envisioned by prophets where spears and swords give way to implements of peace (Isaiah 2:1–4); where historic antagonists dwell together in trust (Isaiah 11:4–11); and where righteousness and justice prevail. There will be no peace with justice until unselfish and informed love are structured into political process and international arrangements” (Bishops’ Call for Peace and the Self-Development of Peoples).

The mission of Jesus Christ and his church is to serve all peoples regardless of their government, ideology, place of residence, or status. Surely the welfare of humanity is more important in God’s sight than the power or even the continued existence of any state. Therefore, the church is called to look beyond human boundaries of nation, race, class, sex, political ideology, or economic theory, and to proclaim the demands of social righteousness essential to peace.

The following are interrelated areas which must be dealt with concurrently in a quest for lasting peace in a world community.

I. Disarmament. One hard fact must be stated bluntly: the arms race goes on, the momentum of the race never slackens, and the danger of a holocaust is imminent. Meanwhile, millions starve, development stagnates, and international cooperation is threatened. Increasingly sophisticated weapons systems accelerate arms spending and heighten anxieties without adding to the security of the nations. Again and again, regional tensions grow, conflicts erupt, and great powers intervene to advance or protect their interests without regard to international law or human rights.

True priorities in national budgeting are distorted by present expenditures on weapons. Because of fear of unemployment, profits, and contributions to national balance of payments, the arms industry engenders massive political power. Arms-producing nations seek to create markets, then vie with one another to become champion among the arms merchants of the world. Food, health, social services, jobs, and education are vital to the welfare of nations. Yet the availability of all is constantly threatened because of the overriding priority given by governments to what is called "defense."

If humanity is to move out of this period of futility and constant peril, the search for new weapons systems must be halted through comprehensive international agreements. Moreover, disarmament negotiations should include all nations with substantial armaments systems. The vast stockpiles of nuclear bombs and conventional weapons must be dismantled under international supervision, and the resources being used for arms be diverted to programs designed to affirm life rather than destroy it. Serious consideration should be given by nations to unilateral initiative which might stimulate the reaching of international agreement.

Where nations in a specific region band together to bar nuclear weapons from the area as encouraged by the international community, we commend such constructive agreements and urge other countries, particularly the great powers, to respect them.

The goal of world disarmament demanding a radical reordering of priorities and coupled with an effective system of international peacemaking and peacekeeping, must constantly be kept before peoples and governments by the church.

II. Human Rights. Millions of people still live under oppressive rule and various forms of exploitation. Millions more live under deplorable conditions of racial, sexual, and class discrimination. In many countries many persons including Christians are suffering repression, imprisonment and torture, as a result of their efforts to speak truth to power.

Action by governments to encourage liberation and economic justice is essential but must be supported by parallel action on the part of private citizens and institutions, including the churches, if peaceful measures are to succeed. Unless the prevailing oppression and denial of basic human rights are ended, violence on an increasing scale will erupt in many nations, and may spread throughout the world. The human toll in such conflict could be enormous and could result in new oppression and further dehumanization.

“We are concerned for areas where oppression and discrimination take place, and specifically for Namibia and South Africa, where white minorities continue to oppress and discriminate against black majorities through legal systems.”

This concern extends to all situations where external commercial, industrial, and military interests are related to national oligarchies which resist justice and liberation for the masses of people. It is essential that governments which support or condone these activities alter their policies to permit and enable people to achieve genuine self-determination.

III. The United Nations. International justice requires the participation and determination of all peoples. We are called to look beyond the “limited and competing boundaries of nation-states to the larger and more inclusive community of humanity” (Bishops’ Call for Peace and the Self-Development of Peoples).

There has been unprecedented international cooperation through the United Nations and its specialized agencies as they have worked to solve international problems of health, education, and the welfare of people. The United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF) is one of the agencies that has been successful in this area.

These achievements are to be commended. However, in other areas political considerations have diminished the support needed for the United Nations to achieve its goals. Many nations, including the most powerful, participate in some programs only when those actions do not interfere with national advantage.

We believe the United Nations and its agencies must be supported, strengthened, and improved. We recommend that Christians work for the following actions in their respective nations.

a) The Universal Declaration of Human Rights is a standard of achievement for all peoples and nations. International covenants and conventions which seek to implement the Declaration should be universally ratified.

b) Peace and world order require the development of an effective and enforceable framework of international law which provides protection for human rights and guarantees of justice for all people.

c) Greater use should be made of the International Court of Justice. Nations should remove any restrictions they have adopted which impair the court's effective functioning.

d) Development agencies should not be dominated by the industrialized world. Efforts to make controlling bodies of these agencies more representative should be supported.

e) International agencies designed to help nations or people escape from domination by other nations or transnational enterprises must continue to be created and strengthened.

f) Issues of food, energy, raw materials, and other commodities are greatly affected by economic and political considerations. Efforts in the United Nations to achieve new levels of justice in the world economic order should be considered, reviewed, and supported.

g) Collective action against threats to peace must be supported. Wars fought in the search for justice might well be averted or diminished if the nations of the world would work vigorously and in concert in seeking changes in oppressive political and economic systems.

IV. *World Trade and Economic Development. The gap between rich and poor continues to widen. Human rights are denied when the surpluses of some arise in part as a result of continued deprivation of others. This growing inequity exists in our own communities and in all our nations. Our past efforts to alleviate these conditions have failed. Too often these efforts have been limited by our own unwillingness to act or have been frustrated by private interests and governments striving to protect the wealthy and the powerful.

In order to eliminate inequities in the control and distribution of the common goods of humanity, we are called to join the search for more just and equitable international economic structures and relationships. We seek a society that will assure all persons and nations the opportunity to achieve their maximum potential.

In working toward that purpose, we believe these steps are needed:

Economic systems structured to cope with the needs of the world's peoples must be conceived and developed.

Measures which will free people and nations from reliance on financial arrangements which place them in economic bondage must be implemented.

Policies and practices for the exchange of commodities and raw materials which establish just prices and avoid damaging fluctuations in price must be developed.

Control of international monetary facilities should be more equitably shared by all nations, including the needy and less powerful.

Multilateral, rather than bilateral, assistance programs should be encouraged for secular as well as religious bodies. They must be designed to respond to the growing desire of the "developing world" to become self-reliant.

Nations which possess less military and economic power than others must be protected, through international agreements, from loss of control of their own resources and means of production to either transnational enterprises or other governments.

These international policies will not narrow the rich-poor gap within nations unless the powerless poor are enabled to take control of their own political and economic destinies. We support people's organizations designed to enable the discovery of local areas of exploitation and development of methods to alleviate these problems.

Economic and political turmoil within many developing nations has been promoted and used by other powers as an excuse to intervene through subversive activities or military force in furtherance of their own national interests. We condemn this version of imperialism which often parades as international responsibility.

We urge the appropriate boards and agencies of The United Methodist Church to continue and expand efforts to bring about justice in cooperative action between peoples of all countries.

V. *The Law of The Sea. The ocean, which covers 70 percent of the earth's surface, is the supplier of most of the earth's rain, renewable oxygen, and a significant amount of food. The United Nations is concerned with protecting this common heritage by international agreements on the uses of the sea, the prevention of conflict, and the equitable sharing of ocean resources, and by the establishment of an international authority to manage the international seabed.

We support the United Nations efforts to develop international law to govern the sea and to ensure that the ocean's common resources will be used cooperatively and equitably for the welfare of humankind.

VI. *Military Conscription, Training, and Service. a) Conscription. We affirm our historic opposition to compulsory military training and service. We urge that military conscription laws still in effect be repealed, we also warn that elements of compulsion in any national service program which may be in effect or under consideration will jeopardize seriously the service motive and introduce new forms of coercion into national life. We advocate and will continue to work for the inclusion of the abolition of military conscription in disarmament agreements.

b) Conscientious objection. Each person must face conscientiously the dilemmas of conscription, military training, and service and decide his or her own responsible course of action. We affirm the historic statement: "What the Christian citizen may not do is to obey persons rather than God, or overlook the degree of compromise in even our best acts, or gloss over the sinfulness of war. The church must hold within its fellowship persons who sincerely differ at this point of critical decision, call all to repentance, mediate to all God's mercy, minister to all in Christ's name" (The United Methodist Church and Peace, 1968 General Conference).

Christian teaching supports conscientious objection to all war as an ethically valid position. It also asserts that ethical decisions on political matters must be made in the context of the competing claims of biblical revelation, church doctrine, civil law, and one's own understanding of what God calls him or her to do.

We therefore support all those who conscientiously object: to preparation for or participation in any specific war or all wars; to cooperation with military conscription; or to the payment of taxes for military purposes; and we ask that they be granted legal recognition.

c) Amnesty and reconciliation. We urge understanding of and full amnesty or pardon where necessary for those persons who refuse to participate in war, such as Vietnam.

VII. Peace Research and Peace Education. We call upon The United Methodist Church in the light of its historical teachings and its commitment to peace and self-development of peoples:

a) To encourage peace research programs within and outside the Church to explore alternatives to war;

b) To further develop peace education guidelines in order to provide a positive program of peace education at all age levels within the Church.

c) To implement the guidelines applicably through all agencies of The United Methodist Church.

Repression and the Right to Privacy

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church affirmed that "national security must not be extended to justify or keep secret maladministration or illegal and unconscionable activities directed against persons or groups by their own governments. We also strongly reject the domestic surveillance and intimidation of political opponents by government in power, and all other misuses of elective or appointive offices."

The prophets of Israel denounced the repression of the poor, widows, orphans and others of their society, and our Lord's ministry began with the announced purpose to set at liberty the poor, and disadvantaged. In our Biblical tradition we raise the following issues:

Repression

We have lived in a time when the accumulated hopes of racial and cultural minorities combined with a growing dissent in the United States were met by mounting fears and rising anxieties of the dominant group within the population. Seized with apprehension, many became obsessed with establishing a climate of security—even at the sacrifice of creating and maintaining justice and protecting the rights and liberties of individuals.

The institutions of this society began to reflect the fears of the majority of the population and established policies and procedures that, in the short range, provided expedient control. These policies, however, were seen as repressive measures by those who sought legitimate rights and new opportunities.

In the immediate past, we sounded a call to concern because we recognized that society can become repressive in nature with hardly a trace of consciousness by the mass of the people, particularly if that people is feverishly fearful and has developed the readiness to accept any measure that seems to offer a new form of protection.

It is deplorable that in a society which is democratic in theory and structure there are signs of increasing repression: dragnet arrests; police and the intelligence community's harassment of minority leaders; charges of conspiracy, summary acquittals of police accused of brutality; the rising militance of rank and file police; support for the use of preventative detention; the utilization of wire taps; censorship of journalism in educational institutions; heavy punitive action against dissidents; the confinement of those who protested within the military forces; the use of police to control dissent within the churches; utilizing grand juries for the purposes of harassment rather than indictment; and the use of church members, clergy and missionaries for secret intelligence purposes by local police departments, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency.

We affirm the many civil, school and church authorities who are working toward the elimination of these abuses through their work and example; and we note that many of the most flagrant of these acts of repression no longer occur. Congress, the press, and the American people have begun watching agency activities more closely and with a greater demand for public accountability.

This vigilance must not be relaxed, for if it is, there may be renewed acts of repression and fresh attempts to curtail the rights of citizens whenever redress is sought for economic and social grievances.

Therefore, we urge that all church members and leadership continue to be sensitive to this situation in their local community and in the nation by:

1. Seeking to understand and undergird responsible institutions and agencies of the community and being supportive of measures that will improve them and upgrade their personnel.
2. Establishing programs in the community sponsored by local churches to: (a) educate church members and their wider community about the potential for repression in the institutions of society; (b) study and affirm the Biblical and Constitutional basis for justice under law; (c) work in state and federal legislatures to (1) bring about just and responsible criminal code revisions which do not reinforce repressive elements in our nation's life; (2) oppose forms of legislation which would legalize repression; (3) support legislation which would prohibit intelligence agencies from conducting surveillance or disruption of lawful political activities or otherwise violating Constitutional rights; (d) develop an awareness of rights and protection citizens should expect; (e) work for institutional change in situations where rights are not respected and protection is not furnished.

The Right to Privacy

The Christian faith stresses the dignity of and respect for human personality. Invasion of the privacy of an ordinary citizen of society negates this dignity and respect. Further, the Christian faith is supportive of a society which elicits hope and trust, not a society that foment fear and threatens oppression.

The revelation that intelligence agencies, local police, and the United States Army have over a number of years developed a domestic espionage apparatus involving the gathering of information about the lawful political activities of millions of citizens is a cause for concern.

The Constitutional Rights Subcommittee and the Privacy

Commission Report provided substantial information which demonstrated that privacy lies in jeopardy as a result of the use of long, personal government questionnaires. Much government data are collected under the threat of jail or fine. As useful as such information may be to the government and to private agencies, the misuse of data banks is an imminent and a serious threat to constitutional liberties.

We are concerned about the increased amount of government wiretapping and electronic surveillance which has taken place in recent years.

Although it is now illegal for any governmental unit to engage in any kind of wiretapping without a warrant of a court, we urge restraint in the use of wiretapping and electronic surveillance, for its prevalency creates an air of suspicion throughout the whole society and contributes to the insecurity of law abiding American citizens.

Therefore, we respectfully request the Congress of the United States to:

1. Enact comprehensive charter legislation for all of the intelligence agencies which would prohibit them from engaging in surveillance, or disruption of lawful political activity. We oppose any charter provision which permits intelligence agencies to recruit and use as agents clergy or missionaries.
2. Place statutory limitations upon the demand by governmental bureaus and agencies for personal information about any citizen or family for statistical purposes. When such requests by agencies are for information not required by law, the respondent should be informed that compliance is voluntary. Restrictions should be placed by law on private agencies in the gathering, storing and dissemination of personal information.
3. Retain the Freedom of Information Act as is, in support of the rights of all citizens to know the actions of their government.

Equal Justice

It must be remembered that the advice, "let every person be subject to the governing authorities," (Romans 13:1) is preceded by, "live in harmony with one another, do not be haughty, but associate with the lowly, never be conceited. Repay no one evil for evil, but take thought for what is noble in the sight of all." (Romans 12:16ff.)

The admonition is directed to the authorities who govern as well as those who may be subject.

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church states that, "the Church should continually exert a strong ethical influence upon the state, supporting policies and programs deemed to be just and compassionate and opposing policies and programs which are not." "We support governmental measures designed to reduce and eliminate crime, consistent with respect for the basic freedom of persons. We reject all misuse of these necessary mechanisms, including their use for the purpose of persecuting or intimidating those whose race, appearance, lifestyle, economic conditions, or beliefs differ from those in authority, and we reject all careless, callous or discriminatory enforcement of law."

The Police

In our democratic society, the police fill a position of extraordinary trust and power. Usually the decision of whether a citizen is to be taken into custody rests solely with the police. For these reasons, law enforcement officers must be persons who possess good judgement, sound discretion, proper temperament and are physically and mentally alert.

Unusual care must be exercised in the selection of those persons to serve as police officers. We recommend psychological testing prior to employment of police officers and periodically thereafter. During the period of training and continually thereafter, police must be instilled with the knowledge that the rights of many will never be secured if the government through its police powers is permitted to prefer some of its citizens over others. The practice of citizen preference in the enforcement of our criminal laws must not be tolerated. Our laws must be fairly enforced and impartially administered. No one is immune from the requirements of the law because of power, position or economic station in life. Further, the power of the police must never be used to harass and provoke the young, the poor, the unpopular and members of racial and cultural minorities.

Where there is heavy pressure upon police officers by police departments to make regularly a large number of arrests as a demonstration of their initiative and professional performance, we urge that such practice be discontinued.

In a democratic society, however, a large majority of police work encompasses peacekeeping and social services rather than crime control functions. Police routinely use more than 85 percent of their duty time in giving assistance to citizens and making referrals to other governmental agencies. It is important for police to be recognized and promoted for their effectiveness in such roles as diverting youth from disorderly activities, peacefully intervening in domestic quarrels, anticipating disturbances through the channeling of grievances and the building of good community relationships.

The United Methodist Church recommends that police departments publicly establish standards of police conduct and policies for promotion. To this end congregations should encourage the police to conduct public hearings among all classes of citizens, giving adequate weight to peacekeeping, life-protecting and other service roles, as well as the bringing of criminal offenders to justice. The standards must include strict limits on the police use of guns.

We further recommend that police officers live within the jurisdiction in which they are employed.

We make these recommendations not only in concern about the frequent abuses of people by the police, but also because we are concerned for more effective control of crime. We observe that only about one half the victims of serious crime and a far smaller proportion of witnesses report to the police. If offenders are to be apprehended and convicted, police and law abiding citizens must work closely together. Such cooperation can occur only when the police are fair and humane and when they are publicly known to be sensitive and considerate.

The United Methodist Church urges that communities establish adequate salary scales for police officers and develop high standards for recruiting both men and women, and members of all ethnic groups. Recruitment must be followed by adequate training in social relations and dispute settlement as well as in law and the skills of crime detection investigation, and the apprehension of offenders. As police officers continue to meet those improved qualifications, we will recognize law enforcement as a profession with status and respect.

Criminal Laws And the Courts

Where the law recognizes and permits plea bargaining, and in those instances where the ends of justice dictate that a negotiated plea be considered, we recommend it should be permitted and approved only after full disclosure in open court of the terms and conditions of such plea bargaining agreement. Equal justice requires that all trials and the sentencing of those convicted under our criminal laws must be conducted in the public court room.

Since at present 90 percent of all criminal convictions are by guilty pleas—an unknown but large proportion of those by plea bargaining—this recommendation would mean a large increase in the work of the criminal courts. However, that work should be correspondingly eased by changes in the law such as the moving of most traffic offenses out of criminal court to administrative procedures, and by relieving the court of great numbers of civil cases through the adoption of genuine no-fault motor vehicle insurance laws. The courts must also organize their work efficiently, employing modern management procedures. Many improvements could be made by the use of administrative volunteers, including retirees who can furnish professional services at minimal costs to the court.

Other changes needed to secure equal justice in the courts include:

1. The repeal of some criminal laws against certain personal conditions or individual misconduct. Examples are criminal prohibitions of vagrancy, personal gambling, public drunkenness and prostitution. Together, these three items alone account for more than half of all arrests in some jurisdictions. They result in little social good but great evil in class discrimination, alienation, and waste of resources needed for other purposes. Some related laws such as those against drunken driving and those limiting and controlling the operation of gambling establishments need to be tightened.

2. The adoption of systematic new penal codes prescribing penalties proportionate to the predictable damage done by the various kinds of crime, without regard to the class of the offender.
3. The training of judges of juvenile and criminal courts in the use of non-incarcerated community sanctions wherever the offense does not involve persistent violence.
4. The adoption of systematic new penal codes prescribing a range of penalties without regard to the class of the offender, but utilizing non-incarceration community sanctions wherever possible. The provision for court-fixed sentences, rather than mandatory ones, in order to draw upon the skill and the training of qualified judges.
5. Statement by the sentencing judge of the reason or reasons why he or she is selecting from the range permitted by the law the particular sentence being pronounced.
6. The development of appropriate jury selection procedures which would insure most inclusive representation, including representatives of the socio-economic class and ethnic group of the defendants.
7. The adoption by all courts of: (a) speedy trial provisions which the Constitution guarantees, and (b) that degree of personal recognizance and supervision which each defendant's situation warrants, in place of the present inherently discriminatory bail bond pre-trial release process that exists in some courts.
8. When fines are assessed, they should be scaled to the magnitude of the crime and the ability of the offender to pay. In suitable cases, fines should be made payable in installments.
9. Government regulated programs of compensation for reimbursement for financial loss incurred by innocent victims of crime should be encouraged.

We recommend that local churches consider setting up court monitoring panels to observe the court operations and proceedings. Such panels may well adopt a role of "friends of the court" or of advocacy on behalf of accused persons. They may adopt other appropriate procedures in the interest of criminal justice, including close scrutiny of plea bargaining and/or evidence of unequal imposition of sentences.

Be It Resolved:

That the leadership and members of The United Methodist Church recognize inflation as a major domestic issue facing our nation, and that all Methodists have a moral obligation and duty to seek to curb the damaging effects of inflation on the welfare of our people.

1. It provides means whereby the strong and the well-organized can effectively exploit the weak, unorganized, and aged.
2. It provides methods of promoting changes in our economic, social, and political institutions that circumvent the democratic process.
3. It encourages deceitful promises in politics by allowing the government to validate its promises by the creation of money that becomes worth less and less.
4. It robs the pensioner and all people living on fixed incomes and causes suffering and want.
5. Its long-term consequences are unpredictable and thereby it makes all long-term planning of financial and economic matters, including those of our church and its related institutions, including colleges, hospitals, orphanages and homes for the elderly, meaningless.

We, therefore, pledge ourselves to corporate and individual restraint in activities that are inflationary. We believe that inflation, at its present rate, can only lead to chaos in this country and that the only sane way to deal with inflation is to stop it. We urge the political leaders of our country, and all others in positions of public trust, to immediate and corrective action in dealing with this problem to which we pledge our support.

The committee recommends concurrence of the following:

Church's Ministry to Women in Crisis

New attention and concern has developed for the crisis needs of women. Historically many of these needs have been overlooked because of the secondary status of women. The United Methodist Church is especially challenged to minister to the needs of women in crisis, because of its support for the self-development of peoples and the empowerment of women. This ministry takes shape in a variety of ways: supportive community of the church's own fellowship, advocacy for legal justice, counseling that provides understanding without judgmental attitudes. The reconciling and empowering love of God is a fundamental ingredient of ministry to women in crisis.

A crisis occurs whenever life's experiences become overwhelming. As a result a woman is sometimes locked into situations from which she cannot escape and faces problems which she cannot solve with her usual resources. In transition from inferior to equal status with men, women are finding strength to speak about crisis conditions that have existed for generations. Battered women and victims of rape are only two of the several problem areas defined as crises for women today. Other manifestations are seen when women are widowed, deserted, imprisoned, unemployed, or dependent on alcohol or drugs. For many women, it is not one but several of these conditions that result in crisis.

Many crisis situations become chronic as economic hardship and shrinking natural resources intensify the pressures on women and their families. Women regularly and consistently fare worse economically in many areas of life in the U.S. including education, housing and employment. The 1977 U.S. Statistical Abstract states that: only seven percent of U.S. women fit the "traditional" understanding of family as a "non-working" woman with an employed husband and two children.<sup>1</sup> Of the women who are employed outside the home, women earned only 59 percent of the median earnings of men for year-round, full-time work (1977 and 1978 statistics).<sup>2</sup> 79.3 percent of all mothers receiving A.F.D.C. (Aid for Families of Dependent Children) are under 40 years of age.<sup>3</sup> Of these A.F.D.C. mothers, 37.5 percent have graduated from high school only.<sup>4</sup> 30.1 million women who are age 18 or over are single, widowed, divorced, or separated from their spouse. 16.9 million or 59 percent of these have incomes less than $5000 yearly.<sup>5</sup>

Whether short-term or a more chronic condition, women and their families have serious needs. Among these are personal safety, coping with loss and grief, dealing with fear, alienation and loneliness, financial management, employment and a need for reliable transportation and child care services. Counseling that enables them to make decisions and find needed services is essential. Whether services are to be supplied by church, government or community organizations, efforts should be made to secure sound financial and public policy undergirding. Women are best served when they participate in the design and leadership of services.

Therefore we urge:

1) That annual conferences and seminaries provide awareness training for pastors to sensitize them to the problems and needs of women in crisis, with special emphasis on counseling skills;

2) That local churches advocate for community services that respond specifically to the needs of battered women, victims of rape, displaced homemakers and unemployed women;

3) That the church at every level provide opportunities for both lay and clergy to deal with physical violence, economic exploitation, loss and dependency;

4) That The United Methodist Church work through appropriate channels to initiate and support government policies that provide needed social services to women in crisis;

5) That appropriate agencies support research and evaluation as to the impact of social services on women and their families.

We support social measures that ensure the physical and mental safety of workers, that provide for the equitable division of products and services and that encourage an increasing freedom in the way individuals may use their leisure time. We recognize the opportunity leisure provides for creative contributions to society and encourage methods that allow workers additional blocks of discretionary time. We support educational, cultural, and recreational outlets that enhance the use of such time. We believe that persons come before profits. We deplore the selfish spirit which often pervades our economic life. We support policies which encourage workplace democracy, cooperative and collective work arrangements. We support rights of workers to refuse to work in situations that endanger health and/or life, without jeopardy to their jobs. We support policies which would reverse the increasing concentration of business and industry into monopolies.

Amend Introduction to Par. 75 to read:

God's world is one world. The unity now being thrust upon us by technological revolution has far outrun our moral and spiritual capacity to achieve a stable world. The enforced unity of humanity, increasingly evident on all levels of life, presents the Church as well as all people with problems that will not wait for answer: injustice, war, exploitation, privilege, population, international ecological crises, proliferation of arsenals of nuclear weapons, development of transnational business organizations that operate beyond the effective control of any governmental structure, and the increase of tyranny in all its forms. This generation must find viable answers to these and related questions if humanity is to continue on this earth. We commit ourselves, as a Church, to the achievement of a world community that is a fellowship of persons who honestly love one another. We pledge ourselves to seek the meaning of gospel in all issues that divide people and threaten the growth of world community.

Membership 88; Present 73; For 64; Against 8; Not Voting 1.

Recommended Action: The following petition, its contents and explanations, shall be referred to the General Council on Finance and Administration for study during the quadrennium with a report to the 1984 General Conference. Petition B-01082 reads as follows:

Partly because of its size the General Conference is somewhat clumsy and very expensive. It is often exceedingly difficult to obtain the floor. Even the committees are so large that it is hard for any but the rather aggressive members to be heard.

We want broad representation, but it seems that if the 200,000,000 citizens of the United States can be reasonably adequately represented by about 450 representatives and 100 senators, the approximately 10,000,000 United Methodists could be adequately represented by about 800 General Conference members.

Reducing the size from 1,000 to 800 should save in the neighborhood of $150,000.00, for with present travel and hotel rates the average expense account of a member should approximate $750.00. The reduction in confusion and loss of time will be reduced considerably more than 20%, for as size increases inefficiency increases more than proportionally.

Paragraph 12 of the Constitution provides that the General Conference should be composed of not less than 600 nor more than 1,000 delegates. Until 1958 the Constitution of the former Methodist Church fixed the maximum at 800 and it was then increased to 900. Sad to say, The United Methodist Church now has fewer members than did the former Methodist Church prior to 1958 when the maximum was 800. Representation is partly on the basis of membership and partly on the basis of annual conferences. The United Methodist Church now has considerably fewer annual conferences than did the former Methodist Church prior to 1958, so many of the overseas conferences having become autonomous churches. It seems almost certain that before the General Conference in 1984 we will lose about another 500,000 members and 11 annual conferences in India.

Present Paragraph 601 recognizes the difficulty, if not impossibility, of devising a formula in advance that will result in a specified number of delegates. The Secretary of the General Conference has therefore been delegated to adjust the formula to keep the number within the maximum and minimum numbers specified in Paragraph 12 of the Constitution. Whether the secretary has had to adjust to prevent the present formula from resulting in more than 1,000 delegates, I do not know, but feel we cannot predict with any precision how the formula should be revised to result in approximately 800 members. Hence, my recommendation is as follows:

Amend the third paragraph of Subparagraph 601.3 to eliminate the first sentence and reword the second sentence to read: Should the computations provided in this paragraph result in a figure below 750 or above 850 delegates, the Secretary of the General Conference is authorized and directed to adjust up or down by the same proportions the figure 140 in Subparagraph 601.1 and the figure 44,000 in Subparagraph 601.2 to the extent necessary so that the total number of delegates will be at least 750 but not more than 850.

Since 750 and 850 are within the limits set by Paragraph 12 of the Constitution, I believe the first sentence of the third paragraph of 601.3 is unnecessary and may be deleted.

Recommended action:

The following is referred to the General Conference Committee on Plan of Organization and Rules of Order:

Whereas, the rules of the General Conference call for the selection of assignments to legislation committees by delegates in order of their election (Plan of Organization, 1976 Journal of General Conference, Page 170); and

Whereas, this procedure tends to polarize the General Conference by collecting into the various legislative committees persons with similar points of view and with strong advocacy commitments to the areas of church life and ministry related to those committees; and

Whereas, a random assignment of delegates to the committees would tend to produce within each committee a cross section of the General Conference with various theological, ethical, and political viewpoints represented; and

Whereas, such diversity within committees will enable a quality of debate that does not always occur under the present form of organization until proposed legislation reaches the plenary session of the General Conference; and

Whereas, the present organization often brings to the plenary session a great volume of proposed legislation from the committees late in the conference when insufficient time is available for debate;

Therefore, Be It Resolved that the General Conference change the Plan of Organization of the General Conference so as to require a random assignment of delegates to the legislative committees of the General Conference.

Recommended action:

Amend Pars. 691, 691.1, 691.2, 692.3, 691.4, 691.5, 691.6, 691.7 as follows:

Par. 691. Organization.—A Missionary Conference shall be organized in the same manner and with the same rights and powers as an Annual Conference (Pars. 700-702), but with the following exceptions:

Par. 691.1. The College Council of Bishops shall provide episcopal supervision for any such Missionary Conference(s) within its jurisdictional boundaries as are organized. The bishop thus placed in charge and having episcopal supervision within the respective episcopal area, in cooperation with the General Board of Global Ministries, shall appoint a conference superintendent and/or district superintendents. Such appointment(s) shall comply with limitations on years of service as found in Par. 517 for such terms as the bishop may determine.

Par. 691.2. The General Board of Global Ministries shall give close supervision and guidance in setting up the administrative and promotional budgets and Advance projects within the conference and in the promotion of new mission projects. The conference, in making requests for appropriations for support and grants and loans for building projects, shall submit to the General Board of Global Ministries a statement of the proposed annual promotional and administrative budget and the proposed financial plan for new mission and building projects. New work and building projects involving increased appropriations from the General Board of Global Ministries shall first have the approval of the General Board of Global Ministries. (See also Par. 1532.18.)

Par. 691.3. Missions and Missionary Conferences shall elect one minister and one lay person as delegates to the General and Jurisdictional Conferences with voice but not vote, provided that subject to the passage of a constitutional amendment the delegates for Missionary Conferences shall have such vote. Missionary conferences shall elect ministerial and lay delegates to General and Jurisdictional Conference on the same basis as annual conferences as provided in Pars. 601 and 622.

Par. 691.4 a) Membership.—A Missionary Conference shall determine by majority vote whether it will establish the right of full ministerial membership. A minister in full connection with an Annual Conference who is appointed as a missionary to a Missionary Conference shall be considered in affiliated relationship with the Missionary Conference.

Par. 691.4 b) A minister in full connection with an Annual Conference who is appointed to a Missionary Conference which has previously voted to include full membership under Par. 691.4 a) may choose either to request the bishop of the Missionary Conference to seek the transfer of her or his membership into full membership with the Missionary Conference or retain her or his membership in a home conference and be considered in an affiliated relationship to the Missionary Conference.

Affiliated relationship shall entitle the minister to the fellowship of the conference, to full participation in its activities, including holding office and representing the Missionary Conference in General and Jurisdictional Conferences. An affiliate member of a Missionary Conference shall not vote in his or her Annual Conference while the minister retains retaining the affiliate relationship to a Missionary Conference. Such affiliate relationship to a Missionary Conference shall be only for the duration of the minister's appointment as a missionary to the conference.

An affiliate member elected to a General or Jurisdictional Conference from a Missionary Conference shall not be eligible to be elected to such a position from the conference where his or her membership is held.

Par. 691.4 c) A Missionary Conference may elect into full ministerial membership those persons desiring full membership in accordance with the revised Par. 693.

Par. 691.4 d) A pastor under fulltime appointment in a Missionary Conference, upon consultation with and the approval of the bishop and conference or district superintendent/cabinet, may waive his or her claim upon the conference minimum salary. This waiver is to be reviewed annually and is to be effective until the time of subsequent appointment.

Par. 691.5. A Missionary Conference may include in its membership representation of such mission agencies within its boundaries as it deems advisable; provided, however, such representation shall not exceed a number equal to one-third of the total membership of the Missionary Conference and that such representatives shall be members of The United Methodist Church in accordance with constitutional requirements.

Par. 691.6. Clergy Couples.—In a Missionary Conference, either or both pastors may at the time of their appointment on their own initiative waive their claim or any portion thereof on the Missionary Conference minimum salary upon consultation with the bishop and the conference superintendent or cabinet. This waiver shall be reviewed annually and shall be effective until the time of subsequent appointment. Persons serving under such waiver may still be considered to be in full-time service under the supervision of the conference or district superintendent when so approved by the bishop, the conference superintendent or the cabinet and the executive committee of the Board of Ordained Ministry.

Par. 691.7. In order to provide traditional and experimental ministries, the bishop of the Missionary Conference may appoint an effective elder to other than full-time pastoral appointment combined with secular employment. This will in no way affect the conference relationship. Pension and other benefits shall be provided in consultation with the parties involved and with the approval of the Missionary Conference.

Par. 609. Petitions to General Conference.—Any organization, minister, or lay member of The United Methodist Church may petition the General Conference by sending to the secretary a signed petition in duplicate indicating that the petitioner is a member of a local church, a member of an Annual Conference, or is a United Methodist-elected agency or organization. in the following manner:

1. Two copies of the petition must be sent to the petitions secretary.

2. Each petition must address only one paragraph of the Discipline, or one issue.

3. Each petition must be signed by the person submitting it, accompanied by appropriate identification, such as address, local church, or United Methodist board or agency relationship.

4. Petitions must be postmarked by a national postal service no later than 60 days prior to the opening session of the General Conference.

5. If petitions are transmitted by a means other than a national postal service, they must be in the hands of the petitions secretary no later than 45 days prior to the opening session of the General Conference.

Exceptions to the time limitations shall be granted for petitions originating from an Annual Conference session held within 45 days prior to the opening session of the General Conference, and for other petitions at the discretion of the Committee on Reference.

Petitions shall be in the hands of the secretary of the General Conference no later than forty-five days prior to the opening day of the conference session; provided that this shall not apply in the case of Annual Conferences outside the United States nor to any Annual Conference which meets within the forty-five day period. All petitions secured by the above deadline shall be processed by the secretary in order that they may be in the hands of the appropriate legislative committees of the conference on its opening day. Petitions received after the forty-five day deadline shall be processed only by direction of the Committee on Reference of Petitions of the General Conference.

Each petition should deal with one issue or with one paragraph of the Book of Discipline. In the interest of economy of time, materials and money, the submission of large numbers of identical petitions is to be discouraged. One petition signed by a number of individuals is to be preferred.

That the Constitution of The United Methodist Church be amended by:

Insert in Par. 36, Article I, Line 6, following “the conference lay leader,” the words the district lay leaders, followed by “the president of the conference youth organization”.

Amended Par. 36, Article I, will read as follows:

Par. 36, Article I.—The Annual Conference shall be composed of ministerial members as defined by the General Conference, together with a lay member elected by each charge, the conference president of United Methodist Women, and conference president of United Methodist Men, the conference lay leader, the district lay leaders, the president of the conference youth organization, and two young persons under twenty-five (25) years of age from each district to be selected in such manner as may be determined by the Annual Conference. Each charge served by more than one minister shall be entitled to as many lay members as there are ministerial members. The lay members shall have been for the four years preceding their election members of the constituent churches forming this union or of The United Methodist Church, and for one year next preceding their election as a member of the charge they are to represent.

Whereas, The United Methodist Church is undergoing a serious crisis of authority:

Whereas, the Discipline clearly indicates that no group, person or paper can speak on behalf of The United Methodist Church;

Whereas, only the General Conference can speak on behalf of The United Methodist Church;

Whereas, the prophetic power of The United Methodist Church is seriously diluted by confusing claims of authority;

Therefore, we recommend that we add to Par. 612 the following:

Any written public policy statement issued by a general church agency shall clearly identify, either at the beginning or at the end, that the statement represents the position of that general agency and not necessarily the position of The United Methodist Church.

¶ 1303. Incorporation.—The General Board of Discipleship shall be a corporation existing under the laws of Tennessee, and shall be the legal successor and successor in trust of the corporation known as the General Board of Evangelism of The United Methodist Church and the General Board of Laity of The United Methodist Church, and shall further be responsible for the performance of the functions previously conducted by the Commission on Worship of The United Methodist Church, the Division of the Local Church, and the Division of Curriculum

Resources of the General Board of Education of The United Methodist Church.

The General Board of Discipleship is authorized to take such action as is appropriate under the corporation laws of Tennessee so as to accomplish the end result stated above, and under which the Board of Discipleship shall be one legal entity.

The divisions of the General Board of Education were not incorporated separately; it is the intent, however, that responsibility for the functions delegated to the divisions by prior legislative action be transferred consistent with the separation of the divisions between the General Board of Discipleship and the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry. In the division of the assets of the General Board of Education, it is the intent that all assets be used in keeping with the original intent and purpose for which they were established or acquired, and so be assigned as appropriate to the Board of Discipleship and Higher Education and Ministry respectively. It is further intended that the annuities, bequests, trusts, and estates formerly held by the General Board of Education be used for the benefit and use of the Boards of Discipleship and Higher Education and Ministry (in accord with their purposes as defined in the Discipline) respectively as their interests may appear, and that real estate titles be authorized to be conveyed as appropriate and apportioned where indicated.

In the event that the intent of the original donor of existing annuities, bequests, trusts, and estates cannot be clearly determined in relation to the interests of the two boards, such assets shall be divided equally between the two boards.

It is further intended that should additional assets accrue to the former General Board of Education by reason of annuities, bequests, trusts, and estates not now known and where the intent of the donor can be clearly ascertained, the assets shall be used in keeping with the original intent and purpose for which they were established or acquired and so be assigned as appropriate to the Boards of Discipleship and Higher Education and Ministry respectively.

It is further intended that should additional assets accrue to the former General Board of Education by reason of annuities, bequests, trusts, and estates not now known and where the intent of the original donor cannot be clearly determined in relation to the interests of the two boards, such assets shall be divided equally between the two boards.

¶ 1306. The president of the board, the general secretary, and the treasurer shall have the power to execute on behalf of the board legal paper such as conveyances of real estate, releases on mortgages, transfer of securities, contracts, and all other legal documents.

Using United Methodist curriculum in United Methodist church schools makes sense, as it best exposes those in our educational program to United Methodist beliefs and doctrines. We petition the General Conference to maintain the Curriculum Resources Committee as the agency for reviewing and authorizing materials for church school use. We believe this plan for providing church school materials works well to implement the educational ministry of the church, meeting the various ethnic, age, cultural and language constituencies, as well as meeting the needs of persons of various learning capacities, backgrounds, psychological development and Christian maturity. We further believe that curriculum should reflect the positions of The United Methodist Church, based on the Bible and the Universal Gospel of the living Christ.

Whereas, Black Methodists for Church Renewal notes and is concerned that 61 million adults are not members of any church or religious institution, and

Whereas, at least half of the unchurched say they could see where they could become a fairly active member of a church now and would be open to an invitation from the church community; and

Whereas, studies have suggested eight possible steps to help bring about renewal in the local church: 1) re-evaluate program of religious education; 2) strengthen program of spiritual counseling; 3) re-examine the status of religion in the home; 4) develop an active program of evangelism; 5) reach out to new people in the community; 6) build on, rather than compete with religious broadcasting; 7) examine and evaluate the effectiveness of the mission of the local church; 8) use the so-called "liberation" church school materials.

Be It Resolved, that the 1980 General Conference continue the emphasis/thrust on Evangelism and the Church School.

Be It Further Resolved, that the campus be seen as real focus for evangelistic efforts on the part of campus leaders and local churches.

Be It Further Resolved, that the United Methodist seminaries place strong emphasis upon vital preaching and recognize the effective work done by Black Preachers of America as a source for the training of seminarians and as a model.

Be It Further Resolved, that Black Methodists for Church Renewal affirms the work done on the adjunct hymnal, Songs of Zion, and commend it for use in the local churches in the denomination.

Be It Finally Resolved, that the General Board of Discipleship develop a notebook that would contain case studies of effective local church models citing factors which facilitated as well as those which had to be overcome.

This preparatory work would include:

1. Research to determine: (a) What in "The Book of Hymns," The Hymnal of the former Evangelical United Brethren Church, Supplement to The Book of Hymns, ethnic minority hymn and song books, and other hymnals is being used or not used by United Methodists, and how they are being used. (b) What United Methodists want in a new hymn and worship book—types of hymns, specific hymns, services of worship, aids to worship, etc. (c) What United Methodists want in terms of format, size, price, and other general specifications.

2. Development, trial publication, and field testing, with suitable research, of a version of the Psalter suitable for United Methodist use.

3. Development, trial publication, and testing, with suitable research, of a collection of service music suitable for general use among United Methodists.

4. Development of general design and specifications.

5. Prepare a report to the 1984 General Conference, which would contain the results of the above research and development, with interpretation. In addition, the report would outline the proposed contents of a hymn and worshipbook.

6. The cost for this study will be shared by the Board of Discipleship and The United Methodist Publishing House. The General Conference asks the Board of Discipleship to be attentive to the use of inclusive language in relation to persons and to God in the preliminary study on the new Hymn and Worship Book.

The committee voted to refer the amended petition to the Board of Discipleship for consideration.

Whereas, it is estimated there exist some 400 or more cults in the United States (in general, a cult is a small religious group outside the established churches, usually with a charismatic leader who is strong as an authority figure); and

Whereas, the cults see themselves as small enclaves in a hostile, secular world. (Many current cults in the United States have their roots in Oriental, mystical religions. Most appeal primarily to whites in their 20's. The tragedy of the decade—Jim Jones and the death of nearly 1,000 at Jonestown, Guyana, mostly blacks—indicates the cults' appeal to blacks. About half the cults practice communal living. Nearly all tend to be family-like in orientation.) And

Whereas, people moving out of the United States en masse should have been a matter of concern to our U.S. government; and

Whereas, life orientation for blacks is listening to and following white people. (So, blacks marched off to death following a person with a messiah complex.) And

Whereas, some ask, is this a failure of religion generally, the black church in particular? (One of the things we teach in the black church is what to and what not to expect from religion). And

Whereas, the Jim Jones situation and People's Temple, where nearly 1,000 children, youth, and adults met death, cannot be taken lightly, and

Whereas, the inner-city is a haven for cults in our culture. (Thousands of boys and girls, men and women give to the church a "Macedonia Call," for help.)

Therefore, be it resolved, that The United Methodist Church respond to this great army of people who have chosen cults and who feel rejected, enslaved, and ignored by the church and government.

Be it further resolved, that evangelism be continued as a major emphasis during the 1981-84 quadrennium.

Be it further resolved, that the General Board of Discipleship assist our churches to serve as service institutions with programs that aid when people are in need and hurting.

Report No. 86

Subject: National Consultation of Young Adults

Date: April 19, 1980

Petitions: C-01441

Membership 104; Present 87; For 86; Against 0; Not Voting 1.
Calendar No. 1348, Adopted April 25, 1980, Journal page 529.

The committee concurred with the petition as amended and referred it to the Board of Discipleship.

To the members of the 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church:

Whereas, the young adults need more participation in the church and share common interests, and

Whereas, it is necessary to create an effective ministry that can retain and increase the number of young adults in the church, and

Whereas, the Hispanic Young Adults of the United States and Puerto Rico have manifested the need to have a national organization to adequately equip the same, and

Whereas, the formation of a National Young Adult Organization would help young adults to become involved in the ministry of The United Methodist Church, and

Whereas, the young adults can make considerable contribution to the ministry of the church, and

Whereas, there is a national youth, women and men's organization.

Be it therefore resolved that the General Conference direct the General Board of Discipleship to convene an inter-ethnic consultation of young adults, insuring jurisdictional representation, in consultation with those young adults who sit on the general boards and agencies, during the 1980-84 quadrennium, with the organization of said convention to be determined by the General Board of Discipleship, and

Be it further resolved, that the interethnic consultation include the following:

1. Evaluate the state of young adult ministries at all levels of the church and explore the factors contributing to the decline in young adult participation in the church.

2. Identify the young adult needs and aspirations which can be addressed by the church such as problems of living in a state of transition, the problems of empowerment, and the redefinition of identity and life goals.

3. Develop and consider possibilities for enhancing young adult ministries and young adult leadership training at all levels of the church including the possibilities offered by the establishment of a national young adult organization.

4. Make recommendations regarding effective young adult ministries at all appropriate levels of the church and to report its findings and recommendations to the General Board of Discipleship for report to the 1984 General Conference, and

Be it further resolved, that the Annual Conference be encouraged to form Councils on Young Adult Ministries or comparable units.

The committee voted to refer the following petition to the Board of Discipleship for study.

Lay Care Ministries

Whereas lay persons have a unique and valuable contribution to make in the supportive ministries of pastoral care, as well as in lay speaking, whose ministry should be authorized in an accountability structure and recognized as a defined and credible ministry of the church.

And Whereas the uniform plan of training should be established throughout the church so that lay care ministers may be of use as they move from one parish to another.

6. Report to the 1984 General Conference, making recommendations regarding the use of inclusive language about God as it is expressed in liturgy, preaching, teaching, publications, and legislative bodies of The United Methodist Church.

Subject: Petition to Establish a Task Force to Explore the Biblical and Historical Language of the Christian Faith

Calendar No. 1762, Referred to General Council on Ministries, April 25, 1980, Journal pages 527-528.

Introductory Statement

As United Methodists, our history is set within a tradition where the Word of God is central, Biblical preaching is crucial, and the ways we express our witness to God's word are vital. We are deeply aware that our written and spoken language (words, images, symbols, gestures) both reflect our culture and behavior and also shape our culture and behavior. The way we use language influences our perceptions of ourselves and the Christian faith.

We and many disciples of Jesus Christ have become aware that various translations of the Bible and historic formulations of the Christian faith do not adequately express, either the personhood of God or our human nature as children of God. This is a problem for our own affirmation of faith and worship and for our witnessing to others. Many of the inadequacies are related to matters of gender designations, generic designations and the lack of expressions of inclusiveness.

God, whom we worship and serve, transcends all human gender designations, for God is neither male nor female, but inclusive of both (see Genesis 1:27). Yet God is often described in metaphors drawn from human experience. We note that most such metaphors are of masculine images, which do predominate in Scripture. We further note that Biblical imagery of God includes feminine as well as masculine metaphors (see Deuteronomy 32:11-12, 18; Psalms 51:1, 131:2, Isaiah 46:3, 49: 14-15). Jesus taught and lived out of inclusive images of God. In parables, for example, Jesus used similes for God's action which included a woman searching for a lost coin, a shepherd seeking a lost sheep, and a father embracing a prodigal son (Luke 15).

We believe that Jesus Christ will best be served by the church which in prayerful study seeks to understand our language and how we formulate our Christian faith.

The Petition

We petition the General Conference of 1980 to direct the Board of Discipleship to establish a task force to explore the biblical and historical language of the Christian faith.

A. The task of the task force shall be:

1. To inquire into the power and meaning of words, symbols, and images about God as found in the Bible;
2. To examine images of God which are prevalent in the Church;
3. To identify ways in which language about God leads to limiting relationships among persons; and to identify ways in which language about God enables discernment, wholeness (salvation), and reconciliation among persons in the church and the society;
4. To document and take account of work in this area already completed or in process by agencies of The United Methodist Church (e.g., the Section on Worship of the Board of Discipleship), other denominations, ecumenical agencies, and groups within the larger society;
5. To suggest parallel studies and workshops to be held in each annual conference concerning language about God—its biblical foundations, its power, its relationship to language and behavior among humans, its possibility in enabling redemptive change in the church and the society, and its influence in the full worship to God.

6. To report through the Board of Discipleship to the 1984 General Conference, making recommendations regarding the use of inclusive language about God as it is expressed in liturgy, hymnody, preaching, teaching, publications, and legislative bodies of The United Methodist Church.

B. The Composition of and Funding for the Task Force.

The task force on language about God shall consist of 21 members chosen to represent geographic, sex, and ethnic diversity. Three members shall be selected by each Jurisdictional Conference—one lay woman, one lay man, one clergy (woman or man). There shall be six members-at-large, one person to be named by each of the following agencies: the Board of Discipleship, the Board of Higher Education and Ministry, the Commission on Religion and Race, the Commission on the Status and Role of Women, the Council of Bishops, and the Women's Division of the Board of Global Ministries. The member-at-large, named by each of these agencies, may be staff, agency member, or another designated individual. There shall also be two regular non-voting consultants, one each to be named by the Commission on Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns and by United Methodist Communications. The task force may invite biblical scholars and theologians representing the full range of United Methodist belief on an occasional basis as needed.

The budget of the task force for the quadrennium shall be in the amount of $50,000 to cover the following:

Expenses of Jurisdictional members of the task force	$44,000
(Expenses of travel and lodging members-at-large will be borne by their agencies.)
Administration and Consultant	$6,000

The task force shall be convened by the Board of Discipleship. The organizational and first full meeting of the task force shall be held no later than January 31, 1981.

P. Boyd Mather, Sponsor, Beth Capen, Erwin W. Schwiebert, Ginena L. Wills, Ron L. Keller, Paul Stark, Lynne Alley, Thomas K. Farley, Glen R. Murray, Collus O. Johnson.

Whereas, the Christian Church has the unique responsibility to reach out to the youth and provide them with a Christian perspective on sex;

Laity Address—Upon review of the Laity Address, we find two areas that should be referred to the General Board of Discipleship for study. They are referred to as Call II and Call III.

Call II deals with evangelism and membership.

Call III deals with the need for healing of the divisions within the church itself. We see opportunities here for educational and worship experiences.

Whereas, the custom of embalming the bodies of the dead derives from ancient pagan sources, and is not distinctly Christian, and has never been officially approved apparently by any Christian denomination, but has in America and some other places become a dominating practice, and in many states is a practice legally enforceable;

Whereas, cremation is an alternative chosen by some people;

Whereas, the cost of embalming and burial to many of limited means causes financial hardship;

Whereas, this is a matter in which the church should have an interest;

Therefore be it resolved that this General Conference refer this matter to the most suitable agency.

COMMITTEE NO. 4

HIGHER EDUCATION AND MINISTRY

Paul Hardin III, Chairperson—Judith Craig, Secretary
(Committee duties and personnel are listed on pages 135-137.)

Report No. 1

Subject: New Paragraph on Call and Candidacy

Date: April 16, 1980

Petitions: D-01055

Membership 108; Present 100; For 99; Against 0; Not Voting 1.

We recommend concurrence with Par. 404 as follows:

¶404. Candidacy for Ordained Ministry.—Candidates for the ordained ministry of The United Methodist Church, upon hearing and heeding the call to preach, shall take the first formal step toward the ministry by qualifying as candidates for the ordained ministry. Candidates thus are under the care and supervision of the district Committee on Ordained Ministry until the time they are received as associate or probationary members of the Annual Conference. A certificate of candidacy may be issued by the district Committee on Ordained Ministry after candidates have met the following conditions. They shall have (1) been members in good standing of the local recommending United Methodist congregation for one year immediately preceding application for candidacy; (2) been graduated from an accredited high school or its equivalent; (3) met with the Pastor-Parish Relations Committee and the pastor of his/her local congregation for consultation after submitting a written request and statement; the committee shall use the historic questions in ¶403 as a guide in examination of the candidate and shall make its recommendation to the Charge Conference; (4) secured the recommendation of the Charge Conference in the following way: a meeting for the purpose of recommending a candidate for the ministry must be preceded by at least two public announcements and must be held in the presence of the bishop, district superintendent, or an authorized elder, who shall counsel with those present regarding the ability and qualifications of the applicant and make plain the importance of such recommendation to the ordained ministry; to be valid such a recommendation must be voted by written ballot by two-thirds of the members of the Charge Conference present at this meeting; (5) applied to the district superintendent in writing; (6) appeared before the district Committee on Ordained Ministry; made themselves available for any psychological and aptitude tests it may require; completed the studies exploring the spiritual, professional, academic, and personal potentialities of the candidate, as recommended by the Division of Ordained Ministry; and provided and supplied such other information as it may require for determining their gifts, graces and fruits; (7)

Substitute the following for the deleted material:

¶404. Candidacy for Ordained Ministry.—Upon one's hearing and heeding the call to ordained ministry, the first formal step toward ordination and annual conference membership shall be to qualify as a candidate. In interpreting one's sense of call, The United Methodist Church provides a vocational guide called "The Christian as Minister." This should be read in consultation with one's pastor or another United Methodist minister.

Prerequisites for candidacy studies and procedures are (a) to have been a member of the local recommending United Methodist congregation for one year immediately preceding application, and (b) to have been graduated from an accredited high school or received a certificate of equivalency.

The steps to becoming a certified candidate for ordained ministry are (1) to consult with the pastor and Pastor-Parish Relations Committee after formulating a written statement reflecting one's call to ordained ministry and requesting recommendation for candidacy. To pursue candidacy, this committee must recommend the applicant to the Charge Conference. The committee shall interview the inquiring candidate, reflecting his/her statement and Wesley's historic question in ¶403. (2) to be recommended by the Charge Conference, in accordance with the following method: a meeting for the purpose of recommending a candidate for the ministry must be preceded by at least two public announcements and must be held in the presence of the bishop, district superintendent, or an authorized elder, who shall counsel with those present regarding the ability and qualifications of the applicant and make plain the importance of such recommendation to the ordained ministry; to be valid such a recommendation must be voted by written ballot by two-thirds of the members of the Charge Conference present at this meeting; (3) to apply to the district superintendent in writing for admission to candidacy studies as defined by the Division of Ordained Ministry; (4) to be assigned as a declared candidate to a Supervising Pastor by the district Committee, and to complete appropriate candidacy studies after proper registration through the annual conference Candidacy Registrar and the Division of Ordained Ministry; (5) to appear before the district Committee on Ordained Ministry for such examination; make themselves available for any psychological and aptitude tests it may require; completed the studies exploring the spiritual, professional, academic, and personal potentialities of the candidate, as recommended by the Division of Ordained Ministry; provide and supply evidence of understanding the expectations and obligations of the itinerant system; provide and supply such other information as it may require for determining their gifts, graces, fruits, and demonstration of call; (6) agree for the sake of the mission of Jesus Christ in the world and the most effective witness to the Christian gospel, and in consideration of their influence as ministers, to make a complete dedication of themselves to the highest ideals of the Christian life as set forth in ¶¶67-76 and to this end agree to exercise responsible self-control by personal habits conducive to bodily health, mental and emotional maturity, social responsibility, and growth in grace and the knowledge and love of God.*

Upon completion of all the above requirements and approved by a three-fourths written ballot by the District Committee on Ordained Ministry, the applicant shall be *In adopting the statements in ¶¶404.7 and 474.7c)(2) on the moral and social responsibility of ministers, the General Conference seeks to elevate the standards by calling for a more thoroughgoing moral commitment by the candidate and for a more careful and thorough examination of candidates by district committees and boards of the ministry.

The legislation in no way implies that the use of tobacco is a morally indifferent question. In the light of the developing evidence against the use of tobacco, the burden of proof would be upon all users to show that their use of it is consistent with the highest ideals of Christian life. Similarly, regarding beverage alcohol, the burden of proof would be upon the users to show that their action is consistent with the ideals of excellence of mind, purity of body, and responsible social behavior.

Therefore, the changes here do not relax the traditional view concerning the use of tobacco and beverage alcohol by ministers in The United Methodist Church. Rather they call for higher standards of self-discipline and habit formation in all personal and social relationships. They call for dimensions of moral commitment that go far beyond any specific practices which might be listed. See Judicial Council Decision 318.

The General Conference, in response to expressions throughout the church regarding homosexuality and ordination, reaffirms the present language of The Book of Discipline regarding the character and commitment of persons seeking ordination, and affirms its high standards.

For more than 200 years candidates for ordination have been asked Wesley's Questions, including "... Have they a clear, sound understanding; right judgment in the things of God; a just conception of salvation by faith? . . ." (Par. 403).

All candidates agree to make a complete dedication of themselves to the highest ideals of the Christian life, and to this end agree "to exercise responsible self-control, by personal habits conducive to bodily health, mental and emotional maturity, social responsibility and growth in grace and the knowledge and love of God." (Par. 404)

The character and commitment of candidates for the ministry is described or examined in six places in The Book of Discipline. (Pars. 403, 404.7, 414.7, 419, 422, and 446.) These say in part: "Only those shall be elected to full membership who are of unquestionable moral character and genuine piety, sound in the fundamental doctrines of Christianity and faithful in the discharge of their duties." (Par. 419)

The statement on ordination Par. 446 states: "it is expected that persons to be ordained shall:

"6. Be willing to make a complete dedication of themselves to the highest ideals of the Christian life and agree to exercise responsible self-control in their personal habits.

"7. Be persons in whom the community can place trust and confidence." (Par. 446) There are eight crucial steps in the examination of candidates. They are:

1) The self-examination of the individual seeking ordination as he or she responds to God's call in personal commitment to Christ and his church.

2) The decision of the Pastor Parish Relations Committee which makes the first recommendation to the charge conference when a member seeks to become a ministerial candidate.

3) The decision of the charge conference which must recommend the candidate.

4) The decision of the district committee on the ministry which must recommend the candidate to the Conference Board of Ordained Ministry and, where applicable, the decision of the District Conference.

5) The decision of the Board of Ordained Ministry which must recommend deacon's ordination and probationary membership.

6) The decision of the ministerial members of the Annual Conference who must elect candidates to deacon's ordination and probationary membership.

7) The recommendation of the Board of Ordained Ministry for elder's ordination and full membership.

8) The election to elder's ordination and full membership by the ministerial members of the annual conference.

All pastors are accountable as to character and effectiveness to the annual conference throughout their entire ministry.

The General Conference has made it clear in the "Doctrine and Doctrinal Statements. . .," (Part II of the Discipline) that scripture, tradition, experience and reason are our guidelines. "United Methodists share with all other Christians the conviction that scripture is the primary source and guideline for doctrine."

In the Social Principles, the General Conference has said that ". . . we do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching." Furthermore, the Principles state that "we affirm the sanctity of the marriage covenant which is expressed in love, mutual support, personal commitment, and shared fidelity between a man and a woman. We believe that God's blessing rests upon such marriage, whether or not there are children of the union. We reject social norms that assume different standards for women than for men in marriage. We affirm the integrity of single persons and we reject all social practices that are prejudicial against persons because they are unmarried."

The General Conference affirms the wisdom of our heritage expressed in the Disciplinary provisions relating to the character and commitment of ordained ministers. The United Methodist Church has moved away from prohibitions of specific acts, for such prohibitions can be endless. We affirm our trust in the covenant community and the process by which we ordain ministers.

In our covenant we are called to trust one another as we recommend, examine and elect candidates for the ordained ministry and conference membership.

granted a certificate by the committee to be signed by the district superintendent and the Annual Conference Candidacy Registrar.

All certified candidates shall be reported to each session of the annual conference by the Board of Ordained Ministry and listed by district.

We recommend nonconcurrency in accord with this statement:

Rationale for Response to Petitions Regarding Conference Membership, Ordination, and Assignment of Avowed Homosexual Persons:

The legislative committee on Higher Education and Ministry has taken action to reaffirm the "Resolution on Character and The Ordained Ministry" with additional language from the 1980 United Methodist Social Principles relating to marriage (Petition 1055, Report No. 1). The intention of the legislative committee was to affirm the seriousness with which we take the issue of homosexuality without singling out one facet of moral character for greater attention in the Discipline itself. In light of this action by the whole committee we recommend nonconcurrency.

Recommend concurrence with Par. 304 on Candidacy for Diaconal Ministry:

¶304. Candidacy for Diaconal Ministry. Candidates for the diaconal ministry of The United Methodist Church, upon hearing and heeding the call to serve, shall take the first formal step toward the ministry by qualifying as candidates for the diaconal ministry. Candidates thus are under the care and supervision of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry. (Where appropriate, candidates may also be related to a district committee on diaconal ministry.) A certificate of candidacy may be issued by the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry after candidates have met the following conditions.

1. Each candidate must have agreed for the sake of the mission of Jesus Christ in the world and the most effective witness to the Christian gospel, and in consideration of their influence as ministers, to make a complete dedication of themselves to the highest ideals of the Christian life as set forth in ¶¶67-76 and to this end agreed to exercise responsible self-control by personal habits conducive to the bodily health, mental and emotional maturity, social responsibility, and growth in grace and the knowledge and love of God.

2. Each candidate must have been a member in good standing of a local United Methodist congregation for at least one year immediately preceding the application for candidacy. The recommendation for candidacy must then come from the charge conference of that congregation.

3. Each candidate must have been graduated from an accredited high school or its equivalent.

4. Delete present ¶1608. In its place insert a new ¶1609:

¶1609. The division shall represent The United Methodist Church:

1. All persons have the right to receive the full ministry of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The Church is aware of its responsibility to provide adequate professional ministry to persons in special situations beyond the local church. In order to assure high standards of competency, the Division of Chaplains and Related Ministries shall have responsibility for clergy in extension ministries (¶454.1b), such as: chaplaincy in the Armed Forces, Veterans Administration, industry, correctional, health care fields, and those other related ministries which Conference Boards of Ordained Ministry and bishops may designate. Clergy to be appointed to any of the above extension ministries shall receive ecclesiastical endorsement through the Division of Chaplains and Related Ministries.

2. Duties of the Division of Chaplains and Related Ministries:

a. Recruitment. The division, in cooperation with other units of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry and other agencies of the church, shall recruit persons for ministry in the above categories through contacts in college, seminary, post graduate, national professional societies and also within the structures of the local church and boards and agencies of the Annual Conferences.

b. Interpretation. The division is charged with the responsibility to interpret to the church at large the need to have adequately trained clergy to staff hospitals, homes, corrections, industry, the Armed Forces and counseling centers.

c. Endorsement. In order to assure high standards of competency for ministers serving in extension ministries, all United Methodist ministers appointed in the above categories shall receive endorsement from the division prior to such appointment. However provisional endorsement can be granted for appointment purposes to institutions related to an Annual Conference. Specific requirements for various ministries, requiring professional certification, where applicable, shall be met prior to endorsement and appointment. The division, through the evaluation of readiness of the candidate for endorsement, shall facilitate the entry of clergy into these ministries.

d. General Oversight. The division shall provide general oversight for all those under endorsement, particularly for those serving outside the bounds of their Annual Conferences. The division shall assure conference Boards of Ordained Ministry of the validity of ministry and quality of performance of clergy serving under its endorsement.

e. Annual Recommendation. The division shall verify annually to bishops and conference Boards of Ordained Ministry those clergy under its endorsement and request their reappointment.

f. Advocacy. The division shall serve as an advocate for persons serving in extension ministries under its endorsement. Such advocacy may include: representing their interests within the non-church institutional systems where they serve; representing their interests within the connectional system of The United Methodist Church in conferences and boards and agencies; being in dialogue with the various professional and certifying agencies; helping to facilitate, as an agent on their behalf, the transition into or out of extension ministries; and giving attention to the needs for continuing education for those under endorsement.

3. Overseas Laity. The division shall assist in providing a ministry to United Methodist laity in or associated with the Armed Forces stationed in overseas locations. The Board of Higher Education and Ministry through the Division shall cooperate with the Board of Discipleship, Board of Global Ministries, and other agencies of the church in preparing materials, planning programs, and providing a continuing ministry, such as: retreats, confirmation classes and other pastoral functions.

We recommend concurrence on this resolution to support Student Day and Higher Education which reads as follows:

Whereas, The Board of Higher Education and Ministry has proposed a special emphasis on higher education for the 1981-84 quadrennium entitled The Church and Campus—An Essential Evangelism, and

Whereas, the General Council on Ministries has approved this program as one which it will commend for appropriate action to the General Conference in 1980, and

Whereas, the Board of Higher Education and Ministry and the National Association of Schools and Colleges of The United Methodist Church have responded to the recommendations of the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education by promoting a broadening of fiscal support of United Methodist students to enable them to attend United Methodist institutions, and

Whereas, the financial support from the annual conferences continues to be a significant evidence of United Methodist concern for higher education, and

Whereas, current inflationary pressures continue to erode the percentage of financial support given by the several conferences to their related institutions, and campus ministry units;

Now, Therefore Be It Resolved that the 1980 General Conference reaffirms its resolution adopted in 1976, "Mission of The United Methodist Church in its Institutions of Higher Education," and

Be It Further Resolved that the General Conference supports a program of fiscal support for United Methodist students to enable them to attend United Methodist institutions through an asking undergirding the Student Day Offering, and

Be It Finally Resolved that the General Conference urges that each annual conference of The United Methodist Church increase its financial support to the educational institutions and its campus ministry units within its boundaries at a rate of seven percent each year during the 1981-84 quadrennium.

We recommend concurrence with the petition entitled Black Colleges and the Black College Fund which reads as follows:

To the membership of the General Conference:

Whereas, the twelve black colleges related to The United Methodist Church offer quality education; these colleges offer curricula designed to produce persons who will serve the black community and society as a whole. The success rate at producing leaders in the colleges is phenomenal. These institutions have developed an expertise in teaching, training and dealing with black disadvantaged young people. Often this kind of expertise is not present on our predominantly white campuses. Black colleges have geared their programs for both the talented and well prepared student and also those who have been inadequately prepared; and

Whereas, numerically, more blacks choose to go to a predominantly black college because they feel more accepted; and

Whereas, many predominantly white colleges are not prepared to accept a large number of students. If black colleges ceased to exist, large numbers of aspiring blacks would be denied a higher education. Quotas and the attrition rate for black students at white colleges are such that prospective students are discouraged to matriculate. Adjusting to the academic, cultural, and social requirements often is too overwhelming; and

Whereas, black colleges are necessary because the mores and traditions of social relationships between whites and blacks are still restrictive and tabooed. Social isolation is a common experience for the few blacks who might be enrolled in a white college; and

Whereas, black students like to identify with the black scholars, administrators, doctors, lawyers, teachers. They need to feel their ethnic group is identified with specific institutions of higher education; and

Whereas, many of the predominantly black colleges offer financial aid packages, which can assure the students successful completion of their education; and

Whereas, black colleges are the repositories of black history, culture and research. These are the vehicles by which black heritage has been and is preserved, interpreted and articulated in North America and the world; and

Whereas, private black colleges continue to serve a vital role in the education of black students. The students are attracted to these colleges by the schools' quality academic reputations, their geographic location, their intimate sizes, their ability to evaluate educationally and economically disadvantaged youth, and their generous offers of financial aid; and

Whereas, black Americans control very few institutions. Black people have only one network of black colleges, over which they have a measure of control. Both private and public black colleges are located in the south and still serve as a vehicle for empowerment of black people and the communities in which they are located; and

Whereas, an emphasis is placed on the religious development of the student. There is a freedom to worship and espouse one's faith without feeling alienated from peers or faculty. Being church-related colleges, the religious life is geared around each student's interests and aspiration; and

Whereas, in the large American university or community college, of up to 25,000 or more students, one is usually treated as a statistic. In the small private black church-related college, there is community. You are known as a person and you know others as persons. Even the president of the college will take time to talk with you and get to know you by name; and

Whereas, there are more opportunities for participating in all phases of the life and operation of the black college; e.g., Administrative Council, Student Body Association, Board of Trustees, Alumni Association, etc.

Be It Resolved, that the United Methodist Ministers' Black Caucus of the North Georgia Conference urge the continuation of the present twelve black colleges related to The United Methodist Church.

Be It Further Resolved, that the University Senate give attention to the needs of the students now being served, future academic needs and what colleges can best provide for those needs and perform the related functions as for an example, major remedial center, a center that specializes in preparation for ministry, vocational needs for the future, etc.

Be It Finally Resolved, that $8 million per year be established as the goal for the 1981-84 quadrennium, recognizing that at no time in its history has the Fund received 100 percent of the apportionment, nor has it kept pace with the inflation.

We recommend referral to Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

We commend the members of the Committee to Study Diaconal Ministry for their sensitivity to the emerging issues of Diaconal Ministry, for their careful and diligent work on their report, and especially for Part IV-A, Theological Interpretation of Diaconal Ministry for The United Methodist Church.

Therefore, we offer the following resolution:

Whereas, the work of the Division of Diaconal Ministry and that of the Committee to Study Diaconal Ministry moves in the direction of a more holistic understanding and ordering of ministry in The United Methodist Church, and

Whereas, a holistic understanding and ordering of ministry is best accomplished by the three ministry divisions working together than each working in isolation, and

Whereas, the issues related to the above are complex, and decisions related to the same affect the lives of a number of persons in profound ways.

Therefore be it resolved that the General Conference instruct the three ministry divisions of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry to collaborate, and after consultation with other appropriate general agencies, to bring to the General Conference of 1984 recommendations reflecting a holistic understanding and ordering of ministry with specific response to a permanent diaconate in The United Methodist Church including orders, function, annual conference membership and itineracy.

Be it further resolved that these recommendations be informed by scripture, tradition, experience, reason and an ecumenical understanding of ministry for our time.

Be it further resolved that this interdivisional report is to be completed by October 1, 1982, and then forwarded to the membership and constituencies of the respective divisions for reflection and refinement prior to the 1983 annual meeting of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry where it will be perfected for forwarding to the General Conference of 1984.

We recommend concurrence—relation of diaconal ministry to the ministry of all Christians (Par. 301)—diaconal ministers are called and set apart for representative ministry.

¶301. The New Testament witness to Jesus Christ makes clear that the primary form of His ministry, in God's Name, was that of service (diakonia) in the world. Very early in its history the Church came to understand that all of its members were commissioned, in baptism, to ministries of love, justice, and service, within local congregations and the larger communities in which they live; all who follow Jesus have a share in the ministry of Jesus, who came not to be served, but to serve. There is thus a general ministry of all baptised Christians (¶¶104-106).

The Church also affirms that particular persons are called and set apart for representative ministries of leadership within the body, to help the whole of the membership of the Church be engaged in and fulfill its ministry of service (¶108). The purpose of such leadership is the equipping of the general ministry of the Church, to the end that the whole Church may be built up as the body of Christ for the work of ministry. This set-apart ministry is not a substitute for the diaconal responsibility of all members of the general ministry. Rather, it exists to intensify and make more effective the self-understanding of the whole People of God as servants in Christ's name.

We recommend concurrence—meaning of diakonia, or service; setting apart of persons called to this representative ministry of service to the office Diaconal Ministry (Par. 302).

¶302. The words deacon, deaconess, diaconate, and diaconal all spring from a common Greek root—diakonia, or “service.” Very early in its history the Church instituted an order of ordained ministers to personify or focus the servanthood to which all Christians are called. These people were named deacons.

Those who are called to this representative ministry of service in the Church and world may be set apart to the office of diaconal minister. This ministry exemplifies the servanthood every Christian is called to live in both church and world. Participating with the elder in the leadership of worship, working in a serving-profession in the church, and serving the needs of the poor, the sick, or oppressed, the diaconal minister embodies the unity of the congregation's worship with its life in the world.

We recommend concurrence—questions regarding call by God (Par. 303).

¶303. The diaconal ministry is recognized by The United Methodist Church as a called out and set apart ministry. Therefore, it is appropriate that those persons who present themselves as candidates for diaconal ministry be examined regarding the authenticity of their call by God to this office. Accordingly, let those who consider recommending such persons for candidacy as diaconal ministers in The United Methodist Church prayerfully and earnestly ask themselves these historic questions, as applied to the nature of diaconal ministry:

1. Do they know God as a pardoning God? Do they desire nothing but God? Are they holy in all manner of conversation?

2. Have they gifts, as well as graces, for the work of diaconal ministry? Have they the love of God abiding in them? Do they show forth that love in service to others? Have they an abiding sense of the urgency for justice in the world?

3. Have they fruit? Are others edified by their service?

As long as these signs are visible in them, we believe they are called of God to serve.

These we receive as sufficient proof that they are moved by the Holy Spirit.<sup>1</sup>

We recommend concurrence—Par. 313 deals with leaves of absence, retired relationship, termination of conference relationship, and reinstatement.

¶313. Change in Conference Relationship. Diaconal ministers seeking a change in conference relationship shall make written request to their Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry stating the reasons for the requested change in status. In addition, the Board of Diaconal Ministry may request personal interviews with diaconal ministers requesting the change in status. The Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry will be in consultation with the cabinet.

1. Leaves of absence. Each leave granted by the Annual Conference shall be recorded in the conference journal. When a diaconal minister requests a leave between sessions of the Annual Conference, the executive committee of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry, in consultation with the Diaconal Minister, the district superintendent, and the employing agency, may recommend the leave of absence for approval by the bishop for the remainder of the conference year. Any such leave granted between sessions of the Annual Conference, with the effective date of such leave, shall be entered in the conference journal of the next regular session of the conference.

a) Disability leave. When diaconal ministers are forced to give up their ministry because of their physical or emotional disability, upon recommendation of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry and by a majority vote of the members of the Annual Conference they may be granted annual disability leave without losing their relationship to the Annual Conference. When diaconal ministers on disability leave recover sufficiently to resume their ministry, they may return to an active relationship to the Annual Conference through the process described for a service appointment (¶310).

b) Maternity/Paternity Leave. Maternity/paternity leave up to one-fourth of a year will be available to any diaconal minister who so requests it at the birth or adoption of a child. During the leave, the diaconal minister's Annual Conference relations shall remain unchanged, and the insurance claims will remain in force. Persons desiring maternity/paternity leave should file their request with the personnel committee of the employing agency and the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry prior to its beginning.

c) Study/Sabbatical Leave. Diaconal ministers shall be encouraged to continue their education throughout their careers, including pursuit of carefully developed personal programs of study augmented periodically by involvement in organized educational activities. A study leave of up to one year negotiated by a diaconal minister and his/her employing agency shall not affect the relationship to the Annual Conference. The diaconal minister's continuing education program should allow for leaves of absence for study at least one week each year and at least one month during one year of each quadrennium. Such leaves shall not be considered as part of the diaconal minister's vacation and should be planned in consultation with his/her employing agency. Diaconal ministers shall be asked by the district superintendent in the Charge Conference to outline their programs of continuing education for the year.

d) Personal Leave. When a diaconal minister is temporarily unable or unwilling to perform the work of his/her ministry, a personal leave of absence may be granted upon recommendation of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry. This relation shall be approved annually and shall not be granted for more than three consecutive years.

2. Retired Relationship. Retired diaconal ministers are those who at their own request or by action of the members of annual conference, on recommendation of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry, have been placed in the retired relationship.

a) By a two-thirds vote of those present and voting, the Annual Conference may place diaconal ministers in the retired relation with or without their consent and irrespective of their age if such relation is recommended by the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry. The Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry shall provide guidance and counseling to the retiring member.

b) Every diaconal minister whose seventieth birthday is on or before July 1 shall automatically be retired from the active relationship at the conference session closest to that date.

c) Retired diaconal ministers shall be listed annually in the journal of the Annual Conference in which their retired relationship is held.

3. Termination of Conference Relationship.

a) Voluntary Termination. A diaconal minister who desires to withdraw from the Annual Conference may, after consultation with the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry, deposit his/her credentials with the bishop between sessions of the Annual Conference. When this action is taken between sessions of the Annual Conference, it shall be reported by the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry for confirmation by the Annual Conference at its next regular session.

b) Involuntary Termination. A diaconal minister's relationship to Annual Conference may be terminated by a two-thirds vote of the members of the Annual Conference on recommendation of the Conference Board of Diaconal Ministry. Termination may be recommended, in consultation with diaconal minister in question, on the basis of incompetence in professional function, indifference to the work of the ministry, or personal conduct which is deemed seriously to impair usefulness as a diaconal minister (Chapter Nine, Section II).

¶ 107. Within the people of God, there are those called to the representative ministry—ordained and diaconal. Such callings are evidenced by special gifts, graces, and promise of usefulness. God's call to representative ministry is inward as it comes to the individual and outward through the judgment and validation of the Church. When inner and outer call agree and are affirmed through election by an Annual Conference, the candidate may then be ordained or consecrated, according to such election, through symbolic acts which confer special roles of responsibility.

4. The duties of the conference Board of Diaconal Ministry for certification shall be:

a) To determine whether applicants meet the standards of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry for certification in Christian education, evangelism, music, and others that may be assigned.

b) To recommend to the Annual Conference for certification those who have met the standards for education, evangelism, music and others that may be assigned; and to

The concern of this minority report is:

1. That the General Conference has already determined how 75 percent of the Ministerial Education Fund is to be spent; this legislation would place conditions on the remaining 25 percent. Some discretion should be left to the conferences who have raised these funds.

2. Conferences who are considerable distances from the seminaries will be disadvantaged by this legislation. They now lose some of their best students who serve student pastorates near their seminary and remain. They also lose some through recruitment of other conferences. Repayment of Ministerial Education funds would require a more equitable dealing with these situations.

3. It is important that students, who are usually best known in their own conference as to their gifts and needs, return there for the probationary period. Their preparation for ministry will be better assured.

Petition No. 1417 would amend Par. 731.1 of The Book of Discipline, which provides for the make-up of the conference Board of Ordained Ministry, and generally would specify that the laity would be represented on the board in numbers equal to half the number of ministerial members.

It would seem that of all classes or groups of people having an interest in the quality and competence of ministers, the laity would be foremost. We know of no reason why clergypersons are more qualified to judge applicants for the ministry than are laypersons. Having laity on the board might add a new dimension to the experience and talent of the board and may have a salutary effect upon the quality of our future ministers. It is difficult to see how the presence of laypersons on the board would have a deleterious effect upon the board's deliberations and conclusions. This petition (1417) should be concurred in.

Petition D-01015, presented by the Commission on Archives and History, would delete Par. 731.3(c) of The Book of Discipline, which provides that all files on each candidate for membership in a conference, except biographical data, shall be destroyed at the time of the candidate's election into full or associate membership.

The argument for keeping the paragraph must be that the files may contain sensitive material which when a candidate is finally elected to membership should be completely destroyed.

The principal difficulty with this is that all material, except biographical data, whether sensitive or not, is destroyed and forever lost. This makes no sense. Much valuable information which might be important for historical purposes is destroyed.

There is another petition being presented which would cause all such files to be protected, in accordance with guidelines established by the Division of Ordained Ministry, as nearly as possible from unauthorized research by, and disclosure to, improper persons.

The value of maintaining these files in a protected manner far outweighs the danger of sensitive information getting into unauthorized hands. This petition (D-01015) should be concurred in. Delete present ¶ 438.

In its place insert the following:

¶438. Complaints and Charges, Remedial Action, Discontinuance or Termination—

1. General Provisions—Ordination and membership in an Annual Conference in The United Methodist Church is a sacred trust. The qualifications and duties of associate members, probationary members, and full members are set forth in The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church, and we believe they flow from the gospel as taught by

Jesus Christ and proclaimed by his Apostles. Whenever an ordained minister in any of the above categories violates this trust, the membership of his/her ministerial office shall be subject to review.

This review shall have as its purpose the reconciliation and restoration of the ordained minister and the strengthening of the church. If the remedial process is unfruitful, discontinuance or termination may follow.

2. Supervision—In the course of the ordinary fulfillment of the superintending role, the bishop or district superintendent may receive complaints about the performance or character of an ordained minister. The supervisory response, in cooperation with the Pastor-Parish Relations Committee for pastors, the District Committee on Superintendency for District Superintendents, or appropriate personnel committee, shall be directed toward a reconciliation between all parties and the ordained minister. If the supervisory activity does not achieve the desired results the matter may be referred to the Joint Review Committee.

3. Formal Complaints—A formal complaint must be based on any one or more of the offenses listed in ¶ 2521 and shall be submitted in written form and signed. No complaint shall be considered for any alleged offense which shall not have been committed within two (2) years immediately preceding the filing of the complaint. The complainant shall be informed of the process and its purpose. Formal complaints may be initiated by the bishop, a district superintendent, the Cabinet, a ministerial member of the Annual Conference, a local church Pastor-Parish Relations Committee, or a personnel committee for appointment beyond the local church. If it is the judgment of the bishop that the complaint is of sufficient gravity, the bishop may temporarily suspend the ministerial member from ministerial duties until the matter is resolved (¶ 438.5). Formal complaints shall be lodged with the bishop, a district superintendent, and the chairperson of the Annual Conference Board of Ordained Ministry, who shall forward the complaint to the Joint Review Committee within ten (10) days of receipt for screening and evaluation.

4. Joint Review Committee—In each annual conference there shall be a Joint Review Committee composed of an equal number of district superintendents appointed by the Bishop and Board of Ordained Ministry members nominated by the chairperson and elected by the board.

This committee shall receive all referrals from the cabinet and all formal complaints and seek resolution of them. The work of this committee shall be informal and confidential and shall guarantee all persons related to the complaint the right to share their view. No witnesses will be called and no counsel shall be present. Should the ordained minister under complaint desire it, a clergyperson chosen by the minister may accompany him/her at meetings of the committee. If the desired results are not achieved, the Joint Review Committee may refer the matter and any written formal complaints to the Board of Ordained Ministry with any recommendations.

5. Disposition of Complaints—When a formal complaint has been reported, the Board of Ordained Ministry shall develop a response based on the report of the Joint Review Committee and the needs of the Church and the ordained minister. The board may recommend remedial action, discontinuance, or termination or it may dismiss the complaint. The board's recommendation will be shared with the ordained minister, the bishop, the Cabinet, and the complainant.

6. Remedial Action—In cooperation with the Cabinet and in consultation with the ordained minister, the Board of Ordained Ministry may choose one or more of the following options for a program of remedial action, subject to regular oversight by the board and annual review:

- (a) Program of continuing education (§ 424)
- (b) Leave of absence (§ 433)
- (c) Early retirement (§ 434)
- (d) Sabbatical leave (§ 425)
- (e) Honorable location (§ 435)
- (f) Withdrawal (§ 439)
- (g) Personal counseling or therapy
- (h) Program of career evaluation
- (i) Peer support and supervision
- (j) Private reprimand: A letter signed by the chairperson of the Board of Ordained Ministry and the ordained minister's district superintendent, addressed to the ordained minister with a file copy in the permanent file of the Board of Ordained Ministry stating the appropriateness of the complaint, the specific remedial action required and the conditions under which the letter shall be withdrawn from the file and destroyed.

7. Recommendation to Terminate Membership—When a formal complaint has been received and the Board of Ordained Ministry recommends the discontinuance of a probationary member, or the termination of an associate member or member in full connection, the board shall prepare and sign the proper charges and specifications. Copies shall be immediately sent to the minister, the bishop, the district superintendent of the minister. The board, within seven days of the formal charges being received by the minister, shall be responsible for informing him/her of his/her right to elect trial as provided in ¶ 440 or withdrawal under complaints and charges as provided in ¶ 439.3 as an alternative to this action. If a person chooses trial, the Board of Ordained Ministry shall prepare a written statement of charges which shall be submitted to the Investigations Committee.

¶ 433. Leave of Absence.—1) This relationship is granted to ministers who are probationary, associate and full members because of impaired health or for other equally sufficient reason when a minister is temporarily unwilling or unable to perform the full work of his/her appointment. This relationship is to be requested, may be initiated by the ministerial member or the Cabinet through the Board of Ordained Ministry and granted or renewed by the vote of the ministerial members in full connection upon the board's recommendation. Between sessions of the Annual Conference this relation may be granted or terminated with the approval of the bishop, district superintendents, and executive committee of the Annual Conference Board of Ordained Ministry. This interim action shall be subject to the approval of the Annual Conference at its next session. This relation shall be approved annually upon written request of the ministerial member at least ninety days prior to Annual Conference and shall not be granted for more than five years in succession except by a two-thirds vote of the ministerial members in full connection. This leave shall be counted as a part of the eight-year limit for probationary members unless the Board of Ordained Ministry recommends otherwise. After consultation with the pastor, ministers on leave of absence shall designate the Charge Conference in which they shall hold membership. The exercise of their ministry shall be limited to the Charge Conference in which their membership is held and under the supervision of the pastor in charge, to whom they shall report all marriages performed, baptisms administered, and funerals conducted, and shall be held amenable for their conduct and the continuation of their ordination rights to the Annual Conference. Should they reside outside the bounds of the Annual Conference, they shall forward to it annually a report similar to that required of a retired minister, and, in case of failure to do so, the Annual Conference may locate them without their consent. They shall have no claim on the conference funds except by vote of the ministerial members in full connection. They shall not be eligible for membership on conference committees, commissions, or boards except the Board of Ordained Ministry. They shall not receive pension credit and shall not be eligible to receive pension payments while in this relation.

Add the following new ¶ 433.2:

2) When a member requests an end to the leave of absence, the Board of Ordained Ministry shall review the circumstances surrounding the granting of the relationship for the purpose of determining whether those circumstances have been alleviated.

Add the following new ¶ 433.3:

3) Ministerial members who do not request an extension of the leave of absence or do not indicate willingness to return to the itinerant ministry at the end of the five-year period may be terminated.

Consultation is both a continuing process and a more intense involvement during the period of change in appointment.

529.4 remains as in 1976 Discipline.

Delete ¶529.5. In its place, insert the following:

b) The district superintendent shall confer with the receiving Pastor-Parish Relations Committee about specific possible appointment (pastor) and her/his congruence with the criteria developed in consultation with the charge.

d) If during this consultative process it is determined by the bishop and cabinet that this decision should not be carried out, the process is to be repeated until the bishop, basing his/her decision on the information and advice derived from consultation, makes and fixes the appointment. The committee recommends concurrence with this petition to become effective upon adjournment of the 1980 General Conference.

Amend ¶527 as follows:

¶527. Function. Pastors, ordained and unordained, and clergy in extension ministries shall be appointed by a bishop, who is empowered to make and fix all appointments in the episcopal area within which the Annual Conference is a part. Appointments are to be made with consideration of due regard to the gifts and graces, of pastors, those appointed, to the needs, characteristics, and opportunities of congregations, and institutions, and to program and missional strategy of conferences and without regard to race, ethnic origin, sex, or color, consistent with the commitment to an open itineracy. Through appointment-making, the connectional nature of the United Methodist system is made visible.

The amended paragraph would then read:

¶527. Function. Pastors and clergy in extension ministries shall be appointed by a bishop, who is empowered to make and fix all appointments in the episcopal area within which the Annual Conference is a part. Appointments are to be made with consideration of gifts and graces of those appointed, to the needs, characteristics, and opportunities of congregations and institutions, and to program and missional strategy of conferences and without regard to race, ethnic origin, sex, or color, consistent with the commitment to an open itineracy. Through appointment-making, the connectional nature of the United Methodist system is made visible.

Add the following new ¶527.1:

1. To make visible the connectional nature of the United Methodist system and to relate appointment making to the missional needs of the whole church, itineracy across conference lines shall be encouraged. The Jurisdictional Conference may authorize a Jurisdictional Committee on Ordained Ministry to support this policy in cooperation with bishops, Cabinets, and Boards of Ordained Ministry. Part of the Jurisdictional Committee responsibility should be to make a study of anticipated ministerial supply and demand in the conferences of the jurisdiction during the last quarter of each calendar year and provide this information to bishops, Cabinets, and Boards of Ordained Ministry by January 15. A part of this responsibility should be an annual study of the supply, demand and mobility of ethnic clergy, clergy couples and clergywomen within and across jurisdictions.

¶508. Termination of Office.—An elder who is serving as a bishop up to the time of retirement shall have the status of a retired bishop; this provision includes all bishops of Central Conferences.

1. Mandatory Retirement.—a) A bishop shall be retired on August 31 next following the regular session of the Jurisdictional Conference if the bishop has reached his/her bishop's sixty-sixth birthday has been reached on or before July 1 of the year prior to the first day of the month in which the Jurisdictional Conference is held. b) Pension and housing allowance as approved by the General Conference shall be payable on September 1 following the first day of the following month after the close of the Jurisdictional Conference.

c) If, however, the retired bishop accepts any one of the following assignments of churchwide responsibility, the General Council on Finance and Administration, after consultation with the Council of Bishops, shall set a level of compensation not to exceed 75 percent of the salary of an active bishop: (1) assignment of a special nature with direct relationship and accountability to the Council of Bishops, or (2) assignment to a general agency or United Methodist Church-related institution of higher educa-

No assignment to a jurisdiction, Annual Conference, institution, school, or non-United Methodist agency shall qualify for additional compensation from the Episcopal Fund under the provisions of this paragraph. The status of a retired bishop on special assignment shall, for purposes of housing and other benefits, be that of a retired bishop.

2. Voluntary Retirement.—a) Bishops who have completed twenty years or more of service under full-time appointment as elder, including at least one quadrennium as bishop, may request the Jurisdictional Conference to place them in the retired relation with the privilege of receiving their pension as determined by the General Council on Finance and Administration. Payment of the pension will begin the first month after the sixty-fifth birthday.

Any bishop who seeks a voluntary retired status shall notify the president of the Council of Bishops at least six months prior to the General Conference.

b) A bishop may seek voluntary retirement for health reasons and shall be so retired by the Jurisdictional Committee on Episcopacy upon recommendation by the involved College of Bishops and upon presentation of satisfactory medical evidence. Such bishops shall receive their pensions as provided by the General Council on Finance and Administration in consultation with the Jurisdictional Committee on Episcopacy.

c) Clergy persons Conference members may receive appointments beyond the ministries usually extended through the local church and other institutions listed above in (a) and (b), when considered by the bishop and Conference Board of Ordained Ministry to be a true extension of the Christian ministry of the church, or an outreach ministry in keeping with the goals of the Annual Conference, and one in which ordination to word, sacrament and order is useful or necessary. These ministries shall be initiated in missional response to the needs of persons in special circumstances and unique situations and shall reflect the commitment of the clergy to intentional fulfillment of their ordination vows to word, sacrament, and order. These appointments may involve clergy with expertise from other vocations. Conference members in such appointments retain conference membership, and the Annual Conference may choose to extend financial support and benefits for its clergy by vote of the Annual Conference.

Those seeking such an appointment in this category shall submit to the bishop, the district superintendent, and the conference Board of Ordained Ministry a written statement of their intentional fulfillment of their ordination vows to be minister of word, sacrament, and order not later than ninety (90) days before Annual Conference. a) Accountability to the Annual Conference. Conference members under appointment beyond the local church are amenable to the Annual Conference of which they are members and in so far as possible should maintain close working relationship with and effective participation in the work of their Annual Conference, assuming whatever responsibilities they are qualified and requested to assume.

They shall submit annually to the bishop, the district superintendent, and the Board of Ordained Ministry a written report prepared in consultation with their immediate supervisor of their performance of the ministerial office. The report will use the official report developed for the church by the Council on Finance and Administration for use in the Annual Conference. This report shall serve as the basis for the evaluation of these clergy in light of the missional needs of the Church and the fulfillment of their ordination to be minister of word, sacrament and order. A written summary of the evaluation shall be prepared and sent to the minister under appointment by the bishop and the Cabinet. Ministers serving in appointments outside the conference in which they hold membership shall furnish a copy of their report also to the bishop of the area in which they reside and work. It is recommended that at the initiative of the superintendent, a personal interview with the district superintendent in the district in which they are serving be held.

b) Responsibility to the Annual Conference. The bishop and representatives of the Cabinet, the Committee on Chaplains and Related Ministries of the Board of Ordained Ministry shall provide an opportunity to meet annually with ordained ministers appointed beyond the local church who carry on their ministry within the bounds of Annual Conference, both of that Annual Conference and those who hold membership elsewhere. The bishop shall convene the meeting which is to be planned by the Cabinet and the Board of Ordained Ministry. The purpose of this meeting is to gain understanding of one another's role and function in ministry, to report to other ministers appointed beyond the local church and to discuss with them matters concerning the overall approach to ministry in the episcopal area, to interpret the role and function of extension ministries to the larger church through the offices of the bishop and his/her representatives, to nurture the development of various ministries as significant in assisting the mission of the Church, and to discuss specific programs and services which the bishop and his/her representatives may initiate in which the various ministers serving in appointments beyond the local church may be qualified as consultants and supervisors.

Amend ¶ 454.3 as follows:

3. Relation to the Local Church. a) Conference members appointed beyond the local church shall establish membership in a Charge Conference in their home Annual Conference in consultation with the pastor in charge and with approval of the district superintendent and the bishop. They shall submit to their home Charge Conference an annual report of pastoral duties and the fulfillment of their ordination through their special appointment, including ministerial activities in the Charge where they have an affiliate membership relation and in other units of the Church at large, as well as continuing education work completed and anticipated. This report may be the one submitted to the bishop and Cabinet (¶ 454.2a).

All conference members, including those in extension ministries, shall be available and on call to administer the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper as required by—the Discipline (§ 453.2b) and requested by the district superintendent of the district in which the appointment is held. Add the following new § 454.3b:

b) Affiliated Relation to a Local Church. Ordained ministers under appointment beyond the local church and serving outside of the geographical bounds of their home Annual Conference shall be affiliate members without vote of a Charge Conference either within the district where they carry out the primary work of their appointment or within the district where they reside. These ministers under appointment beyond the local church and serving outside the geographical boundaries of their home Annual Conference shall submit to the Charge Conference of which they are affiliate members a copy of the report submitted to their home charge conference and/or an oral report concerning their ministry and the fulfillment of their ordination. The district superintendent shall be responsible for the notification to these ministers concerning the time and place of the Charge Conference.

Add the following new § 454.4:

4. Affiliate Relation to Annual Conference. Ordained clergy appointed beyond the local church outside the boundary of their Annual Conference may, at their own request, apply for affiliate membership in the Annual Conference in which their appointment is located. By a two-thirds vote of the executive session, such clergy may be received with rights and privileges, including service on conference boards, agencies, task forces and committees, with voice but without vote. Voting membership shall be retained in the appointee's home Annual Conference for the duration of affiliate member relationship. Nomination to general church boards and agencies and election as delegates to General and Jurisdictional Conferences shall originate in the appointee's home Annual Conference. Such persons may serve on the board, agency, task force or committee of only one Annual Conference at any one time.

Through these distinctive functions ordained ministers devote themselves wholly to the work of the Church and to the upbuilding of the general ministry. They do this through careful study of the Scripture and its faithful interpretation, through effective proclamation of the gospel and responsible administration of the sacraments, through diligent pastoral leadership of their congregations for fruitful discipleship, and by following the guidance of the Holy Spirit in witnessing beyond the congregation in the local community and to the ends of the earth. Calendar No. 935, No action taken.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following:

Whereas, Black Methodists for Church Renewal (BMCR) has noted the erosion of the itinerancy both as a concept and in practice; and

Whereas, BMCR does not believe that this erosion is good for our denomination; and

Whereas, there is widespread misunderstanding of the term "consultation" as defined and used by the Study Committee on the Ministry in their report to the 1976 General Conference;

Be It Resolved, that BMCR communicate our deep concern over this erosion and misunderstanding to the 1980 General Conference.

Be It Further Resolved, that we affirm Pars. 452 and 453 of the 1976 Book of Discipline, believing that this is consistent with our historic understanding of a way that a connectional church with an episcopal style leadership functions.

Be It Finally Resolved, that this affirmation of an open itinerancy leads to a goal of an inclusive church and is a direct follow through of the appointive powers of the episcopacy.

The committee recommends concurrence with the following: Amend ¶ 410 as follows:

¶ 410. Exiting, Reinstatement, and Retirement of Local Pastors.

1. Termination and Reinstatement of Local Pastor Status—Discontinuance of Local Pastor—Whenever a local pastor is no longer approved for appointment by the Annual Conference as required in ¶ 408, or whenever any local pastor severs relationship with The United Methodist Church, license and credentials shall be surrendered to the district superintendent for deposit with the secretary of the conference. This does not apply to persons who were licensed to preach prior to 1950. After consultation with the pastor, the former local pastor shall designate the local church in which membership shall be held. The Board of Ordained Ministry shall file with the resident bishop a permanent record of the circumstances relating to the termination discontinuance of local pastor status as required in ¶ 721.3e. ¶ 731.3e.

Renumber last paragraph of ¶ 410.1 to read as new ¶ 410.2 as follows:

3. Trial of Local Pastor. When a local pastor is accused of an offense under ¶ 2542, the procedures described in ¶¶ 2524-32 shall apply.

Renumber present ¶ 410.2 as 410.4 and amend as follows:

4. Reinstatement of Local Pastor Status. Local pastors whose approved status has been terminated discontinued from an Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church or one of its legal predecessors may be reinstated by the Annual Conference which previously approved them, or its legal successor, or the Annual Conference of which the major portion of their former conference is a part, only upon recommendation by the district Committee on Ordained Ministry, the Board of Ordained Ministry, and the Cabinet. When approved by the ministerial members in full connection as provided in ¶ 408.1, their license and credentials shall be restored, and they shall be eligible for appointment as pastors of a charge. They shall complete ministerial studies and meet requirements as provided in ¶ 408.3.

Whenever persons whose approval as local pastors has been terminated discontinued by an Annual Conference are being considered for appointment or temporary employment in another Annual Conference, the Board of Ordained Ministry where these persons are being considered shall obtain from the Board of Ordained Ministry of the conference where approval has been terminated discontinued certification of their qualifications and information about the circumstances relating to the termination discontinuance of their approval as local pastors. Before such persons shall be appointed, they shall be recommended by the board and approved by the Annual Conference. A district superintendent may arrange for them to serve temporarily when the board and the Cabinet agree and when the board certifies that they are enrolled for those studies which they have not completed previously.

Renumber present ¶ 410.3 as new 410.5 as follows:

5. Retirement of Local Pastor. On recommendation of the Board of Ordained Ministry and by vote of the ministerial members in full connection a local pastor who has served not less than four years as a local pastor (formerly an approved supply pastor or a lay pastor) and who will have attained age sixty-five on or before June 30 in the year in which the session of the conference is held may be recognized as a retired local pastor and so listed in answer to the Business of the Annual Conference question: "Who are recognized as retired local pastors?"

Calendar No. 1007, Concurrence agreed under terms of omnibus motion adopted April 25, 1980, Journal page 564.

We recommend concurrence with the following:

Preamble:

The 1980 session of the General Conference of The United Methodist Church desires to renew emphasis on children's ministry in our church.

Whereas, persons in all age groups attach a high value to the pastor's role as a teacher of the Christian faith, as pointed out by Warren Hartman's study of ten influential factors in Membership Trends, p. 27;

Whereas, candidates for the ministry are called upon to respond to the 1976 disciplinary question (Par. 422), "Will you diligently instruct the children in every place?";

Whereas, it is recognized that children are important concerns of evangelism in the local church since, according to Membership Trends, by Warren Hartman, p. 28, nearly 62 percent of persons come into membership by profession of faith, a large majority of whom are children moving into the youth division;

Whereas, there are ordained clergy who lack training in ministry with children;

Whereas, the 1976 Book of Discipline does not have provision for ministerial training with children;

Whereas, members generally lack the awareness of the needs and rights of children (i.e., battered, abused, unwanted, unchurched, unloved) and methods supporting children and families, in the nurture of the Christian faith;

Whereas, we as caring persons need to proclaim and develop and support more loving, redeeming and reconciling ways to live as shown through God's love, revealed in Jesus Christ and directed by the Holy Spirit in our lives;

Be It Therefore Resolved that persons preparing for pastoral ministry in United Methodist churches give serious attention to developing proficiency in Christian education including skill in faith development of children, youth, adults and in interpreting the church's curriculum resources in light of their theology.

2. Those eligible to be appointed as part-time local pastors. Part-time local pastors are lay persons (a) who meet the provisions of ¶ 408; (b) who have completed in the preceding year a minimum of one half a year's work in the course of study, provided that the entire five-year course shall be completed in a maximum of ten years from the time of first enrollment; (c) who do not devote their entire time to the charge to which they are appointed; and (d) who do not receive in cash support per annum from all church sources a sum equivalent to the minimum salary established by the Annual Conference for full-time local pastors. A person who has met the qualifications for approval as local pastor may request to be classified as eligible to be appointed as a part-time local pastor for the ensuing year. In the case of a part-time local pastor whose secular work, family situation, or other circumstances make completion of the requirements for associate membership or probationary membership impossible, an additional two-year period, to a maximum of ten years from the time of granting of the license, may be granted on three-fourths vote of the district committee, recommendation of the Board of Ordained Ministry, and the vote of the ministerial members in full connection. These circumstances shall be regarded as extraordinary in those cases where the eight-year limit would be unfair and unjust to the candidate, provided that they are annually involved in specific educational requirements specified by the Division of Ordained Ministry under the direction of the district Committee on Ordained Ministry.

We recommend concurrence with the following new Par. 436 as follows:

Par. 436: Administrative Location.—1. An annual conference shall grant members certificates of administrative location when, in the judgment of the annual conference, members have demonstrated an inability effectively and competently to perform the duties of full-time itinerant ministry; provided that the annual conference shall have first examined their character and found them in good standing.

2. At least ninety days before the opening of the next annual conference, the cabinet wishing to initiate this procedure shall notify the members of the Board of Ordained Ministry, in writing, of its intention to do so. The Board of Ordained Ministry, or the executive committee, shall then, in consultation with the cabinet and the member, establish a date no later than sixty days before the opening of annual conference for a joint hearing at which the member, three district superintendents, one of whom shall be the member's district superintendent, and a committee of the Board of Ordained Ministry will be present. The chairperson of the Board of Ordained Ministry will preside, and will give full opportunity for all to be heard. Since this is an administrative hearing, and not a trial, proceedings will be informal and counsel will not be allowed.

3. After the hearing, the Board of Ordained Ministry will review the committee's recommendation and make its own recommendation and notify the member and the cabinet within one week. The Board's recommendation shall take one of the following three forms:

a. A recommendation to the Annual Conference to grant administrative location.

b. Initiation of a remedial program with the member designed to overcome deficiencies, said program to last for one year. At the close of that year, on a date at least sixty days preceding the opening of Annual Conference, another hearing as outlined in Section 2 would be held, unless such hearing be jointly waived in writing by the member, the cabinet, and the Board of Ordained Ministry or its executive committee, in which case the entire matter would be considered dismissed. After this hearing, the Board of Ordained Ministry would have to decide on option (a) or (c).

c. A finding that the allegations of incompetence are not sustained.

4. The provisions of Par. 435.2 apply to administrative location, except that a person on administrative location may not be given ad interim appointments by the bishop.

The old Par. 436 would have to become 437, with these amendments: The title should read "Readmission from Honorable or Administrative Location", and line 2 should add or Par. 436, so it will read "who have been located under the provisions of Par. 435 or Par. 436."

We affirm the action of the leadership of the Board of Global Ministries in December, 1975, who declared that missionaries of The United Methodist Church are servants of Jesus Christ and under the separation of church and state are not agents of any government, repudiated the use of the Central Intelligence Agency of missionaries and church personnel of other countries in its intelligence gathering, and declared it inconsistent with our understanding of the universal church of Christ that the Board of Global Ministries should maintain personnel known to be intentionally engaged in the intelligence gathering activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Further recommend General Conference urge the President and the Congress of the United States to include in the Charters of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency specific prohibitions against their use of United Methodist missionary personnel, whether in the United States or outside its borders, in their intelligence gathering activities.

The committee recommends Par. 1533.5 of The Book of Discipline be amended as follows:

Par. 1533.5 Encourage rural, town, city, metropolitan, or district mission structures according to the following:

a) Such structures may be organized, under such names as may be determined, wherever, in the judgment of the bishop or bishops and district superintendents concerned, it is deemed advisable. When two or more districts, conferences, episcopal areas, or jurisdictions have churches in the same city or metropolitan area, it is recommended that the structure be so organized as to include all United Methodist churches. "Metropolitan" or "rural" shall be defined with sufficient flexibility to include separate communities which are economically or socially related.

b) It is recommended that a majority of the governing body be from the laity, men and women, young adults and youth. All bishops, district superintendents, and superintendents of ethnic and minority ministries having jurisdiction within the geographic territory served by the structure may be ex officio members of the organization. Membership may also include representation from conference Boards of Global Ministries, conference or district United Methodist Women, community-based young adult ministries (Par. 256.3), rural, city and suburban parish churches, community centers, and other nonparish rural or urban ministries, poverty communities, youth and racial and ethnic minorities.

c) The purpose of such a structure shall be to promote and coordinate the work of the Church in town and country or metropolitan areas. It may:

(1) Develop special ministries and new forms of mission appropriate to new metropolitan or town and country needs, including recruitment, training, and involvement of clergy and laity, and cooperative models of ministry.

(2) Promote long-term regional planning and provide coordinating framework for town and country and metropolitan mission strategy for United Methodism, especially with small congregations and ethnic and language minorities.

(3) Enable and support rural, central city and suburban church extension, including research, organization (but not the constituting) of churches, acquisition of real estate, and the erection and maintenance of buildings (having first secured the approval of the district Board of Church Location and Building). Wherever possible, consideration should be given to new concepts of church extension, such as leased space, shared facilities, revitalized small congregations, and other experimental styles.

The committee recommends that the 1980 General Conference approve the following document called Guidelines for Interreligious Relationships as a companion resolution to two previous statements—The Cause of Christian Unity adopted in 1968 and Jewish-Christian Relationships adopted in 1972; that it be published in the next Book of Resolutions and made available in pamphlet form for the use of United Methodist people.

Guidelines for Interreligious Relationships:
 “Called To Be Neighbors and Witnesses”

Neighbors and Witnesses. Nations of the world are growing increasingly interdependent politically and economically; the various world religious communities are also encountering each other in new ways. Religions of Asia and Africa are showing new life and power within their homelands and are spreading to other continents, creating new multi-religious societies especially in western nations. New sects, cults and ideologies emerge and seek converts to their faith.

The emergence of these religiously diverse societies and the new dynamics in old religious communities have forced many faiths to reconsider how they relate to one another and to secular ideologies. There is danger that religious tensions will lead to oppression of religious minorities, and curtailment of religious freedom with real potential for armed conflict. Worldwide problems of human suffering due to poverty, wars and political oppression are so vast and pervasive that no one faith group can solve them, yet tensions between religious groups often prevent cooperation in solving these urgent human problems. As ancient religions demonstrate new life and power to speak to the deepest human concerns, questions are raised for Christians regarding their understanding of these faiths and regarding their claims to a global mission to all people.

What are the implications of this religiously diverse situation for Christian theology? What does it mean to be a faithful follower of and witness to Jesus Christ? Can we of different faiths live together as neighbors, or will diverse religious loyalties result in mutual antagonism and destruction? What are the resources of United Methodist Christians for building constructive relationships between persons of different faiths?

The United Methodist Church provides this statement as guidance to its members and congregations in facing these questions in their relations with persons of other faiths.

Called to be Neighbors. For some Christians, it seems strange even to refer to "persons of other faiths." We are accustomed to calling them "non-Christians" or "non-believers." These attitudes have developed out of confidence in the ultimate truth of our own faith, and from ignorance of and insensitivity to other faiths, to the truth they contain, and to the profound meaning and purpose they give to the lives of people.

In conversation with a lawyer (cf. Luke 10:25), Jesus reminded him that his neighbor, the one to whom he should show love and compassion, included a stranger, a Samaritan. Today, our Lord's call to neighborliness (cf. Luke 10:27) includes the "strangers" of other faiths who have moved into our towns and cities. It is not just that historical events have forced us together. The Christian faith itself impels us to love our neighbors of other faiths and to seek to live in contact and mutually beneficial relationships in community, with them.

What does it mean to be a neighbor? It means to meet other persons, to know them, to relate to them, to respect them and to learn about their ways which may be quite different from our own. It means to create a sense of community in our neighborhoods, towns and cities and to make them places in which the unique customs of each group of people can be expressed and their values protected. It means to create social structures in which there is justice for all and in which everyone can participate in shaping their life together "in community." Each race or group of people are not only allowed to be who they are, their way of life is valued and given full expression.

Christians distinguish several meanings of "community." One definition expresses their relationships as members of one another in the body of Christ, the Church, a people called together by Christ, a "communion of saints" who look to the reign of God. A broader definition points to the relationship that is shared with others in the wider human community, where Christians are concerned for peace, justice and reconciliation for all people. Other faiths also have their understanding of "community." The vision of a "worldwide community of communities" commends itself to many Christians as a way of being together with persons of different faiths in a pluralistic world. That suggests that we United Methodist Christians, not just individually, but corporately, are called to be neighbors with communities of other faiths (Buddhist, Jewish, Muslim, Hindu and others), and to work with them to create a human community, a set of relationships between people at once interdependent and free, in which there is love, mutual respect and justice.

Within this religiously diverse community, Christians, trusting in Jesus Christ for their salvation, are called to witness to him as Lord to all people (cf. Acts 1:8). We witness to our Lord through words which tell of his grace, through deeds of service and social change that demonstrate his love, and through our life together in the Christian community, exhibiting God's power to heal, reconcile and unite.

As relationships with persons of other faiths deepen, Christians discover how often their witness has been unneighborly, how much we have talked and how little we have listened, and how often insensitive and unappreciative approaches have alienated sincere truth seekers and persons who already have strong faith commitments. We become aware that we frequently communicate attitudes of superiority regarding our own faith and inferiority toward that of others, and that in so doing, we perpetuate walls and hostilities between us as human beings which lessen chances that our witness will be received.

As we United Methodist Christians reflect anew on our faith and seek guidance in our witness to and encounter with our new neighbors, we rediscover that God who has acted in Jesus Christ for the salvation of the whole world, is also Creator of all humankind, the "one God and Father of all men, who is Lord of all, works through all, and is in all" (Ephesians 4:6 TEV). The God to whom we point in Jesus Christ is the God who is at work in every society in ways we do not fully understand and who has not left himself without witness in any human community. Here Christians confront a profound mystery, the awareness of God who is related to all creation and at work in the whole of it, and the experience of God who has acted redemptively for the whole creation in Jesus Christ. Christians witness to God in Jesus Christ in the confidence that here all people find salvation and in the trust that because of what we know of God in Jesus, God deals graciously and lovingly with all people everywhere.

Dialogue: A Way To Be Neighbors And Witnesses. "Dialogue" is the word which has come to signify a different approach to persons of other faiths, one which takes seriously both the call to witness and the command to love and be neighbors, and sees witnessing and neighborliness as interrelated activities. Rather than a one-sided address, dialogue combines witnessing with listening. It is the intentional engagement with persons of other faiths for mutual understanding, cooperation and mutual learning.

"Dialogue" may be as informal as a conversation in the marketplace, or as formal as the leader or one religious group explaining to others its philosophy of worship life. Dialogue is more than an individual or academic enterprise. It also involves groups or communities of people holding different faiths, who reach out to one another. This community orientation gives a practical bent to interreligious dialogue.

In dialogue, one individual or group may seek relationship with another in order to expose misunderstandings and stereotypes, and to break down barriers that separate and create hostility and conflict. Ethnic or religious communities may approach each other in dialogue in order to resolve particular problems or to foster cooperation in dealing with a local, national or even global situation of human suffering. At its deepest level, dialogue is both learning about and sharing our respective faiths. Each partner learns from the rich store of wisdom of the other, and each expresses his or her own deepest conviction in the faith that it has a truth worth sharing with the other.

Through dialogue with persons of other faiths, new insights are received regarding God's activity in the world today and the divine purpose for humankind as a whole, and the place of the Christian community, within these purposes. It is also a common experience for Christians to feel the need to express their own faith with greater clarity. We can expect the Holy Spirit to make known new and different insights through our encounter with persons of other faiths.

Because the Jewish community is the largest community of another faith in the United States, Jews will be a major partner in dialogue for United Methodists. Christians need Judaism lest their faith in God be compromised and truncated in a rootless Christianity. For many United Methodists, especially in Asia, Buddhists, Hindus or Muslims will be their natural partner in dialogue. Dialogue with persons in these faith groups is increasingly important for United States Christians as well, since their numbers there are increasing. Muslims and Christians also share a close but often unrecognized relationship, since both have roots that go back to Abraham. In many nations, long histories of separation between Buddhist, Hindu and Christian communities have yet to be bridged, while in the United States many youth have been attracted to the deep spirituality of Buddhist and Hindu adherents. Dialogue offers the possibility of sharing mutually beneficial insights, as well as overcoming past hostilities.

Dialogue frequently has been misunderstood. Some see it as limited to the commonalities between persons and communities of different faiths. It is important to discern and explore those commonalities and to utilize them to strengthen relationships. But there is more! Dialogue offers to both partners the opportunity of enriching their own faith through the wisdom of the other. In the process it helps overcome the deep mistrust, hatred, hostility and conflict that characterize so many intercultural and interreligious relations. Each religious community asserts that its faith offers a way to resolve conflict in positive ways and has resources for building community among diverse peoples. Dialogue seeks to provide an environment which allows space for differences and to build on the positive affirmations of each faith and to bring them into relationship with each other.

The only precondition for dialogue is a willingness to enter a relationship of mutual acceptance, openness and respect. Effective dialogue requires that both partners have deep convictions about life, faith and salvation. True dialogue requires that Christians not suspend their fundamental convictions concerning the truth of the Gospel but enter into dialogue with personal commitment to Jesus Christ and with the desire to witness to that faith. Effective dialogue also requires that Christians be open to persons of other faiths, to their convictions about life, truth and salvation and to their witness, as others also feel called to witness to their faith and teachings about the meaning of life.

Dialogue: An Exchange Of Witness. Is not this urge to witness an obstacle to interreligious dialogue? It often has been but it need not be. Where there is listening as well as speaking, openness and respect as well as concern to influence, there is dialogue and witness. Indeed, dialogue at its most profound level is an exchange of witness. Participants share with each other their perceptions of the meaning of life, of ultimate reality, salvation and hope, and the resources of their faith for enabling community. In genuine "dialogue," we "witness and are witnessed to." The most effective dialogue takes place when both sides really do care that the other hear, understand and receive their wisdom. Part of our witness is our openness to hearing the witness of the other.

Dialogue at these depths holds great promise. Long cherished convictions may be modified by the encounter with others. Misunderstandings may be clarified, potential hostilities reconciled, and new insights regarding one's own faith may emerge in contrast to that of another. The depths of another's faith may be so disclosed that its power and attractiveness are experienced. Dialogue is a demanding process, requiring thorough understanding of one's own faith and clear articulation of it to the other person.

Dialogue is not a betrayal of witness. Dialogue and witness are wrongly placed in opposition to each other. They need each other. Dialogue creates relationships of mutual understanding, openness and respect. Witness presses dialogue to the deepest convictions about life, death and hope.

Many persons of other faiths are suspicious that dialogue is a new and more subtle tool for conversion. In some ways this is inevitable since Christians do want others to learn of and receive the truth and grace we know in Jesus Christ. The difference between dialogue and other forms of witness is that it is a context for learning from the other the truth and wisdom of the other faith as well as sharing with the other the truth and wisdom of our own. We leave to the Holy Spirit the outcome of our mutual openness. Our concern is to be obedient to our own call to witness and to the imperative to be loving and neighborly to persons of other faiths. In dialogue, these deeply held truths encounter each other in witness and love, so that larger wisdom and larger understanding of truth may emerge which benefit all parties in the dialogue. As we exhibit courtesy, reverence and respect, and become neighbors, fears of each other are allayed, and the Holy Spirit works within these relationships.

Neighbors and Witnesses: The command to love one's neighbors and the call to witness to Jesus Christ to all people are inseparably linked. The profound challenge which this represents for United Methodist Christians can be seen most sharply in the new religious movements which have arisen in recent years. These movements have become a source of concern for many Christians. Some groups seem to utilize methods that are manipulative and coercive. However, many people have found new vision, meaning and hope in some of these new faiths. These new religious movements are very diverse and they should not be lumped together indiscriminately, condemned and dismissed. Neither should they automatically be embraced as valid expressions of human dignity and freedom.

Careful study and contact will enable Christians to distinguish those which are manipulative and coercive and which are to be challenged for reasons of faith. Questions of basic human rights are raised both by tactics sometimes employed by some religious movements and by acts of opposition against them. In particular, enforced deprogramming represents a violation of the personality of individuals and their rights of free choice. The question of what means are justified in trying to win back persons who have joined cults is a difficult one, and one to which Christians will respond differently. Where children of church members are involved, the parents are in special need of pastoral counseling and support. The best preparation for meeting these groups is the development within families and through the educational program of the Church, a deeper understanding of and commitment to Jesus Christ and his claims, especially the costliness of following our "suffering servant" Lord. This commitment is deepened through the experience of acceptance and personal relationship within the fellowship of the Christian community.

As we take seriously this calling to be witnesses and neighbors, to people of all faiths old and new, we become aware of the biblical caution not to bear false witness (cf. Matthew 19:18) and the admonition to live at peace with all people (cf. Hebrew 12:14). How are we to avoid bearing false witness unless we know our neighbors and understand their faith commitments? How can one truly love a neighbor and hold back what to Christians is the greatest of all gifts—God becoming present to people in Jesus Christ? How can we live peacefully together, unless we are willing to be neighborly? How can we say we love our neighbor if we are unwilling to be attentive to the message and the gifts which God has given him or her? Love of neighbor and witness to Christ are the two primary attitudes of United Methodist Christians in their relationship with persons of other faiths. And when we become this kind of neighbor, we discover that God has given us another gift—people of different faiths.

Guidelines for Interreligious Relationships. The following guidelines will assist United Methodists to be faithful to their call to witness and to the call to be neighbors with persons of other faiths.

1. Discover and find out about the persons of other faiths in your town or city and educate your congregation about them.

a. Plan experiences that bring Christians into contact with persons of other faiths. Whenever possible initiate these experiences ecumenically. In the absence of cooperative efforts to develop relationships and explore tensions and difficulties, United Methodist initiative is encouraged.

b. Visit the services and meeting places of other faiths, but respect their sacred times and places and do not treat them as “tourist” attractions.

c. Study the new religious movements carefully and develop attitudes of courtesy towards them.

Support efforts in the community to insure that their human rights are not violated. Seek assistance in cases where efforts are being made to insure the human rights of members of a group by testing their freedom to leave it, and in developing perspectives on Christian witness to these new religious movements.

2. Initiate dialogues with other faith communities.

a. Seek relationships with Jews, Muslims, Buddhists and Hindus, and their respective organizations. Initiate conversations, programs and dialogues leading to: understanding of each faith, appreciation of their particular gifts, discovery of commonalities and differences, and areas of mutual cooperation.

b. With the Jewish community seek an awareness of both our common roots and the tragic interlocking of our histories, sensitivity to anti-semitism among Christians, and an understanding of the significance of the Holocaust and the importance of Israel for Jews.

c. With the Muslim community, explore the negative stereotypes which perpetuate misunderstanding and continue to hinder the establishment of positive relationships, and seek an understanding of the role of the Islamic faith in various Middle Eastern societies.

d. With the Buddhist and Hindu community, explore their spiritual practices, and understanding which have attracted many people in the West.

Prepare for dialogue through reflection on the following:

(1) Clarity regarding your understanding of and commitment to your own faith is absolutely essential.

(2) Each partner must believe the other is speaking in good faith.

(3) Each partner must strive for a clear understanding of the faith of the other and be willing to interpret it in its best light rather than its worst.

(4) Each partner must forthrightly face the issues that cause separation as well as those that create unity.

3. Share in common enterprises with persons of other faiths in practical ways.

a. Work together to resolve economic, social, cultural and political problems in the community. Together become sensitive to infringements of the human rights of groups within the community and threats to their cultural values and heritage and initiate steps to protect them.

b. Plan jointly community celebrations with an interreligious perspective.

c. Participate in interreligious associations.

d. Seek to generate interreligious educational efforts in the community. This could include enlisting the aid of school authorities in the examination of texts used in schools to see that the various religious groups are depicted fairly and accurately. Other educational ventures might include providing courses in adult schools and for people who are planning trips abroad; or developing special programs for media such as television and radio to reach a wider audience.

4. Prepare carefully before sharing in celebrations, rituals, worship and meditation with persons of other faiths.

It will not be possible for Christians to participate fully in another faith's rituals and worship, nor should they expect it. However, it is appropriate, where invited, to share in such occasions. Some may wish to share in joint prayer services. On such occasions, care should be taken not to relativize all religious symbols and practices to make religious differences unimportant. It is unwise to juxtapose symbols of different religions. Each partner must approach such occasions out of the integrity of his or her own faith.

Intent. The intent in developing interreligious relationships is not to amalgamate all faiths into one religion. We Christians have no interest in such syncretism. To engage in interreligious dialogue is not to say that any religion is all right just so you have one. Far from requiring a lessening of commitment to Christ, effective dialogue is only possible when one's own faith is strong.

We Christians are seeking to be neighbors with persons of other faiths whose religious commitment is different from our own, and to engage each other about the deepest convictions of our lives. In our assurance of and trust in God's grace in Jesus Christ, we open ourselves to dialogue and engagement with persons of other faiths and to other Christians whose understandings may be different from our own.

This interreligious engagement challenges United Methodist Christians to think in new ways about our life in the broader human community, about our mission, evangelism, service and our life together within the Christian Church. We seek to promote peace and harmony with persons of other faiths in our various towns, cities and neighborhoods. Yet we do not hide our differences, nor avoid conflicts, but seek to make them constructive. In each place, we share our lives with each other, we witness and are witnessed to, we invite others into the Christian community and we are invited into theirs. Our prayer is that the lives of all in each place will be enriched by the differences of others, that a new sense of community may emerge, and that others may receive the gift of God in Christ while we receive the gifts which have been given them.

The committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution by the General Conference:

The Church and Persons With Mental,
Physical, and/or Psychologically Handicapping
Conditions

We call United Methodists to a new birth of awareness of the need to accept, include, receive the gifts of, and respond to the concerns of those persons with mental, physical, and/or psychologically handicapping conditions, including their families.

BECAUSE the experience of handicapping conditions is included in all racial, social, sexual and age groupings, and this experience is common to every family and at some time in every life; and

BECAUSE a large part of the ministry of our Lord focused on persons with mental, physical and/or psychologically handicapping conditions; and

BECAUSE the body of Christ is not complete without people of all areas of life and because we cannot afford to deny ourselves fellowship with these persons and must intentionally develop more healthy attitudes and behavioral responses to persons with handicapping conditions; and

BECAUSE there exist inadequacies in the church and in society with regard to concerns for the rights of persons with handicapping conditions, utilization of talents, and their full participation within the life of the church and society; and

BECAUSE this has caused more suffering and exclusion from the fellowship of the church of persons with mental, physical, and or psychologically handicapping conditions; and

BELIEVING that the church is most faithful to the teachings and example of Jesus when it expresses love in concrete ways in a mutual ministry with those who are outcast, neglected, avoided or persecuted by society; and

BELIEVING in the great heritage which is ours in the legacy of John Wesley, Phillip Otterbein, and Jacob Albright, who held that vital piety flows into compassionate ministry; and

KNOWING that prevailing societal norms unduly glorify the conditions of youthful beauty, mental alertness and material affluence to the exclusion and avoidance of those whose handicapping conditions put them outside these norms;

THEREFORE, we pledge ourselves to:

ACCESSIBILITY. Renew and increase our commitment as a church to the development of a barrier-free society, especially in the many facilities of the church. To indicate the seriousness of our intent we must set time limits to assure the greatest physical accessibility in the shortest feasible periods and extend our policy of not providing funding through or approval by United Methodist agencies unless minimum guidelines are met.

AWARENESS. 1. Sensitize and train local church pastors to the needs and opportunities for those who are handicapped and their families to better minister to and with them.

2. Lead the local churches in attitudinal change studies to the end that the people called United Methodists are sensitized to the gifts, needs, and interests of persons with handicapping conditions, including their families.

3. Take advantage of the great opportunities for our church to work cooperatively with other denominations who also are addressing these issues and extend an active invitation to work jointly where possible.

4. Suggest one Sunday a year as Access Sunday to sensitize people to our accessibility concerns.

ADEQUATE RESOURCES. Provide resources through the church at all levels, including curricula, for persons with various handicapping conditions, such as those who are blind, deaf, para- or quadriplegic, mentally retarded, psychologically or neurologically disabled, etc., so that each individual has full opportunity for growth and self-realization within the community of faith and the society at large.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION. 1. Include in all our efforts of affirmative action the concerns and interests of persons with handicapping conditions, particularly in the active recruitment and encouragement of these persons for leadership roles, both clergy and lay, within the church and its agencies, in hiring practices, in job security, housing and transportation.

2. Strongly urge that our schools of higher education and theological training provide specialized courses for faculty and students in the awareness of and appreciation of gifts, needs, and interests of persons with handicapping conditions. This must include the emphasis of accessibility and equal employment in these institutions as well as in those in the larger society. Accreditation by the University Senate should be withdrawn where handicapped persons are excluded, either from attendance, services, or employment.

3. Strongly urge local churches to conduct needs assessment surveys.

ADVOCACY WITHIN THE CHURCH. Implement within each annual conference methods of recruiting, sensitizing and training persons as advocates to work with and on behalf of persons with handicapping conditions on a one-to-one basis and to enable them to achieve their human and civil rights as well as to assume their rightful place in the life of the church and community. Each Annual Conference should also develop the larger concern of advocacy for persons with handicapping conditions to enable them to achieve appropriate housing, employment, transportation, education, and leisure time development.

ADVOCACY WITHIN THE SOCIETY. While there is much to be done within the church to make real the gospel of inclusiveness with regard to persons with handicapping conditions, yet there is a world society which also must be made aware of the concerns and needs of these persons. We admonish the church and its people to stand alongside persons with handicapping conditions, and to speak out on their behalf for their rights in society. These rights include access to jobs, public transportation, adequate housing, and education.

We are a people under orders to minister to and with all of God's children. We are all a people in pilgrimage! We have too often overlooked those of God's children who experience life in different ways than ourselves. We pledge ourselves to an inclusive, compassionate and creative response to the needs and gifts of persons with mental, physical and/or psychologically handicapping conditions.

The committee recommends adoption of the following "Health Care Delivery Policy Statement" and further recommends the two statements be printed together in the Book of Resolutions and that for educational purposes in the United States the Policy Statement always accompany the statement entitled "Health Care Delivery in the United States."

I. Introduction. The United Methodist Church understands itself as called by the Lord to a wholistic ministry of healing—spiritual, mental, emotional and physical. Persons created by God are called to the abundant life—life in its wholeness—for which Jesus of Nazareth came. Health in this sense is something beyond, but not exclusive of, biological well-being. In this view, medical care is inadequate when it fixes its attention solely on the body and its physiological functions, as is any religion that focuses its interest entirely on the soul.

Although medical care represents a very important and expensive part of health care, it does not include the whole. More medical care does not always equal better health. Medical care in much of the world has evolved too much as disease care rather than health care. Disease prevention, public health programs, and health education appropriate to every age level and social setting are needed to supplement today's curative care.

Environmental factors—clean air, pure water, effective sanitary systems for the disposal of wastes, nutritious foods, adequate housing, safe and nontoxic work places—are essential to health. The best medical system cannot preserve or maintain health when the environment is disease-producing.

Personal habits are also crucial to health. Overeating, or eating non-nutritious foods, drug abuse (including alcohol, tobacco, barbiturates, sedatives, etc.) are clearly destructive of health. Failure to exercise or to rest and relax adequately are also injurious to health.

Still, illness and disease remain mysterious to us. Human suffering is caused by a variety of factors—personal, social, environmental, genetic and others which remain unknown to us.

From these perspectives, The United Methodist Church urges that medical and health care services of good quality should be made available to all persons and should be so organized as to be readily accessible to all, subject only to necessary limitations of resources. Services should be provided in a compassionate and skillful manner on the basis of need, without discrimination as to financial status, mental or physical handicap, race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin or language.

II. Principles and Goals. We view health wholistically, and are fully aware of the shared responsibilities among individuals, families, communities and the society at large for the impact of life style and environmental factors on health status. We affirm the following principles and goals as necessary for effective and responsible delivery of health services:

A. All people should be entitled to a basic benefit package of preventive and health care services. We reject any notion of dual standards of care.

B. The package of health care benefits should be comprehensive, including preventive, therapeutic and rehabilitative services.

C. New emphasis should be put on preventive care to all ages.

D. Adequate programs and information should be available to assist people in acceptance of appropriate responsibilities for protecting their own health and for seeking medical and health care as needed. Schools, community organizations and churches, as well as health care personnel and health care institutions, should be involved in a coordinated health education program.

E. Human wholeness and health have religious and spiritual components and should be considered in the planning for and provision of comprehensive health care services. Religious and spiritual counseling should be available to all patients.

F. Structures and procedures for effectively evaluating the appropriateness and comprehensiveness of health services should be established.

G. Regional planning processes should coordinate the services rendered by all health care institutions, including those funded by the federal government to create a more effective system of health services in every area. Priorities should be established for the provision of health services, such as preventive care, mental health services, home care and health education.

H. Consumers, broadly representative of the whole population, should serve on boards and groups who, with health care professionals and public officials are given the responsibility to plan, administer and evaluate the effectiveness of every level of the health care system.

I. We do not believe that one single way of organizing health care services can be developed for application to all communities. The system should display the requisite diversity and adaptability to meet differing social and community circumstances.

J. Professional health care personnel should be recruited and trained appropriately to meet the health care needs of all persons. Special priorities should be established to secure among the professional group at least proportional representation of persons who are now seriously under-represented.

K. Where medical services are not available, or are in undersupply, it is essential that public or private sources provide the full range of needed services.

III. Health Ministry: Our Responsibility. We United Methodists are called to a ministry of healing. We must continue to support direct health services where needed and to continue to provide, as we are able, such services in hospitals and homes, clinics, health centers and hospices. In addition, we have a responsibility to support public policies and programs which will ensure comprehensive health care services of high quality to all persons on the principle of equal access.

Health Care Delivery in the United States

I. The Medical Care Delivery System and its Problems.

Excellent quality medical services exist in the U.S., but poor quality services are also found here. In some cases the medical care system consists of unrelated and uncoordinated health-providers who are heavily reimbursed by third parties—private or government insurance plans. Incentives for the more economical delivery of services have been dulled or frustrated by financial considerations. In spite of its real accomplishments, the medical care delivery system in the U.S. comes under criticism for weaknesses and failures. Among them are the following:

A. In some cases the current health delivery system is not well planned or coordinated.

B. Medical costs have been rising at a pace much faster than the general inflation rate.

C. There are serious gaps of coverage in private insurance, Medicaid and Medicare.

D. Physicians and other professional medical care personnel are generally over-concentrated in urban, suburban and affluent communities, and under-concentrated in rural, small-town, inner-city and poverty areas. Physicians are also generally over-concentrated in the specialties and are in undersupply in primary care.

E. There is not proportional representation among physicians and management personnel by gender, race, and ethnic origin.

F. Overall there is some shortage and maldistribution of hospital beds, of intermediate care and nursing home care, of home delivered care, of neighborhood health care centers and community mental health care centers, of emergency care networks and or prepaid group practice plans.

G. Significant deficiencies are found in some cases, including such problems as unnecessary and inappropriate drug prescribing, unnecessary surgery, superfluous testing, and inappropriate or unnecessary institutionalizing of patients.

H. Some patients are treated impersonally or even callously, and in too many cases the spiritual and psychological needs of patients are ignored.

II. Alternative Health Care Systems. Our present health care “system” consists of largely unrelated and uncoordinated health care providers who are largely reimbursed by third party payers on a fee-for-service basis. We urge that alternative systems, offering comprehensive services to an enrolled membership for a fixed premium should be made available in all health service areas. All individuals and groups should have the option of enrolling in such plans, which are generally referred to as Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's).

III. Health Insurance. For all persons in the nation to have equitable access to needed health care services, public financing must be a significant part of an overall health insurance plan. Public funding is necessary to pay for insuring those who cannot pay part or all of the necessary premiums required. This group includes, among others, the poor and the near-poor, most of the elderly, the unemployed, the disabled, and those whose care is extremely costly. Government should ensure that the providers of health care services are adequately and fairly remunerated for services rendered. Any overall plan and program for insuring the financing health care services should meet, at the minimum, the following tests:

A. The plan should support the provision of comprehensive health care services of high quality to all persons.

B. The plan should establish equitable cost sharing among all payers, and should remove the burden of excessive medical expense from any single individual or family.

C. The plan should provide for control of the overall cost of health care, with financial incentives for the provision of quality care in cost efficient settings and modes, and with financial disincentives for waste, inefficiency, and inappropriate care.

D. The plan should be integrated and coordinated with all key elements in the health care system, including the health delivery system, the financing mechanisms, and the regulatory and administrative mechanisms.

E. The plan should allow sufficient time between enactment of legislation and actual implementation of its provisions to make possible establishment of adequate delivery systems and appropriate regulatory structures. Any proposed regulation under such legislation should be analysed and evaluated for long term consequences prior to promulgation.

IV. Health Ministry: Our Responsibility. We United Methodists are called to a ministry of healing. We must continue to support direct health services where needed and to continue to provide, as we are able, such services in hospitals and homes, clinics and health centers. In addition, we have responsibility to support public policies and programs which will ensure comprehensive health care services of high quality to all persons on the principle of equal access.

We urge individual United Methodists to:

*Recognize the need for certain fundamental changes in the way health care services in the U.S. are presently organized, delivered, and financed; and *Choose those individual and family life styles which are conducive to good health.

Beyond this, we call upon United Methodists in their local churches, districts and annual conferences, in organizations and agencies, to work to enlarge the health care service choices available to people everywhere, by supporting:

1) adoption of a health policy which will provide comprehensive health care according to the principles and goals set forth in our health care statement;

2) alternative plans for financing health care delivery systems;

3) community health programs which assess health needs and provide preventive, primary and home care services;

4) educational efforts and programs which help people understand the spiritual, emotional, mental and physical components of health in their personal lives and circumstances;

5) development of wholistic health centers within the context of the church's ministry; and

6) appropriate national and international efforts and programs aimed at providing basic and necessary health care services to the people of other nations of the world, particularly in those places of greatest need.

7) a response to the mandate of the gospel, within United Methodist Church-sponsored health care institutions, to provide care for the poor and oppressed;

8) participation by blacks and other minorities in representative numbers in all United Methodist Church efforts directed toward the implementation of its health care policy. Every effort should be made to ensure that actions directed toward the formation of recommendations and policy statements by United Methodist boards and agencies include representative numbers of black persons and other minority persons with professional skills commensurate with the task to be performed in the formulation of those recommendations and policy statements.

No local pastor shall be eligible as a lay member or alternate. church on a charge, one of the secretaries of the Administrative Boards shall be elected to serve as secretary of the Charge Conference.

4. The health and welfare representative shall be selected from among the members at large.

4. The Charge Conference may elect a church historian, who shall be responsible for preparing, where it does not exist, a history of the local church or churches from the time of organization; shall provide for preserving the same in permanent form; shall bring the history up to date at the close of each year; and shall provide for the preservation of all records and historical materials no longer in current use. There may be a local church Committee on Records and History to assist the church historian in fulfilling these responsibilities.

5. The secretary of career planning and counseling (Par. 261.2 259.1) may be one of the coordinators or work area chairpersons of the Council on Ministries.

6. The Charge Conference may establish a limit to the consecutive terms of office for any or all of the elected or appointed officers of the local church except where otherwise mandated. It is recommended that no officer serve more than three consecutive years in office.

7. The Charge Conference may make provision for the recognition of the faithful service of those members of the Administrative Board who have reached the age seventy-two or who have become physically incapacitated by electing them honorary members. The committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution as amended:

Whereas, every means should be made to empower the local church for its ministry and mission; and

Whereas, The United Methodist Church is basically a denomination of small membership churches, since approximately 64 percent of the churches have fewer than 200 members; and

Whereas, parish development as a specific strategy for the empowerment of the local church for its ministry and mission is affirmed in the 1976 Discipline (Chapter Two, "The Local Church"); and

Whereas, Church and Community Ministry has been an important part of parish development in strengthening the local church and responding to community issues;

Therefore Be It Resolved that empowerment of the local church in the 1981-1984 quadrennium be enabled by focusing on:

1) The need for staff (clergy and lay professionals) of cooperative parishes so that specific ministry can be carried out with small membership churches in areas such as Christian education, United Methodist Women, United Methodist Men, youth work, etc.; and

2) The need for the placement of Church and Community

Workers in local settings where groups of small membership churches function as a cooperative parish and in district settings with the District Council on Ministries in working with local churches in a variety of programs that would empower them for their ministry and mission; and

Further Be It Resolved that the Board of Global Ministries request the National Division to facilitate local church empowerment by increasing its funding for Church and Community Ministry.

The committee recommends the following action as amended:

Par. 260 is renumbered as Par. 264 and amended. New Par. 260 is an amended version of Par. 256. The material on United Methodist Men has been rearranged as well as amended.

Par. 260. Program Agencies.—The ministries of the local church are implemented through the encounter of persons with God's redeeming love for the world and with his action in the world. To achieve this ministry persons are involved in age-level or family groupings. Usually a variety of settings is essential. Some will be formed by the Council on Ministries. Others will emerge with the approval of the Council on Ministries. Another type is historical, expressing itself in organizational structures that are related to counterparts in Annual Conferences and the general church. These are referred to as program agencies and are related to the Council on Ministries through its age-level and family coordinators, work area chairpersons, and councils or commissions of the Council on Ministries.

1. The Church School.—In each local church there shall be a church school for the purpose of accomplishing the church's educational ministry in accordance with Par. 1310.

a) The church school provides a variety of settings and resources for all persons—children, youth, and adults—to explore the meanings of the Christian faith in all its dimensions, to discover and appropriate to themselves those meanings which are relevant for their lives and for society, and to assume personal responsibility for expressing those meanings in all their relationships. Through such experiences persons will be encouraged to commit themselves to Christ and to unite with the Christian community through membership in a local church. The Division of Education, Board of Discipleship sets standards and provides guidance resources and plans for the organization, administration, grouping, and leadership of the church school (Par. 1311.1).

b) All the concerns of the church will be present in the church school's educational ministry: ecumenical and interreligious concerns, evangelism, missions, religion and race, social concerns, church and society, stewardship, and worship. The curriculum of the church school will include the meanings and experiences of the Christian faith as found in the Bible, in history, and in human encounter with the natural world and contemporary society. The curriculum resources shall be based on curriculum plans approved by the Division of Education of the Board of Discipleship (Par. 1325).

c) The church school shall be administratively related to the Commission on Education, if organized, or the unit responsible for Christian education. The superintendent of the church school, who is the administrator of the church school, shall be responsible for relating the church school to the total ministry of the church through the Commission on Education, if organized, and the Council on Ministries.

d) Church school settings include the Sunday church school and all other ongoing and short-term classes and learning groups for persons of all ages. The church school may be organized with three divisions if desired: children's divisions for persons from birth through the sixth grade; youth division for persons from the seventh grade through the twelfth grade; and adult division for persons beyond the twelfth grade. Division superintendents, teachers, counselors, church school secretary, curriculum resources secretary, librarian, and such other officers as needed to administer and operate the church school shall be nominated by the work area chairperson on education upon the recommendation of the superintendent of the church school in consultation with the minister or representative of the employed staff and elected by the Council on Ministries.

e) Mission education shall be a part of the church school education for children. The chairperson of the work area on education and the children's division superintendent (if elected) or the coordinator of children's ministries shall interpret the Children's Fund for Christian Mission (to be referred to as the United Methodist Children's Fund for Christian Mission) as a means of mission education for children. This fund is established in accordance with Pars. 1306.5 and 1310.7.

2. Youth Ministry.—Youth who have been confirmed shall be recognized as full laity and participants in all the activities of the church. The term "youth ministry" is an inclusive title, encompassing all the interest of the church and all activities by, with, and to youth, including The United Methodist Youth Fellowship. The Youth Council shall be responsible for developing the comprehensive ministry. The Youth Ministry of The United Methodist Church shall include all persons from the seventh grade through senior high school (approximately twelve through seventeen years of age, taking into account the grouping of youth in the public schools) who are currently or potentially associated with the church or any of its activities.

The term "youth ministry" is an inclusive title, encompassing all the concerns of the church and all activities by, with, and for youth. The youth ministry of The United Methodist Church shall include all persons from approximately twelve through eighteen years of age (generally persons in the seventh grade through the twelfth grade, taking into account the grouping of youth in the public schools), who are currently or potentially associated with the church or any of its activities.

Youth who are full members of the church have all rights and responsibilities of church membership except voting on matters prohibited by state law (see Par. 225). The coordinator of youth ministries and the Youth Council, when organized, shall be responsible for recommending to the Council on Ministries activities, program emphases, and settings for youth. The local church may designate one of its settings as the United Methodist Youth Fellowship. The coordinator and council shall use available resources and means to inform youth concerning the Youth Service Fund and shall cultivate its support; provided that prior to this cultivation or as a part of it, the youth shall have been challenged to assume their financial responsibilities in connection with the total program and budget of the local church.

3. Young Adult Ministry.—The ministry of the local church shall include and be extended to persons out of high school (approximately 18 19 through 30 years of age). Such ministry shall seek to meet the needs of young adults and bring them to a knowledge of Jesus Christ. Such ministry shall be the responsibility of the Council on Ministries, working through its adult coordinator or young adult coordinator, if elected, or the Adult/Young Adult Council, if organized. A cooperative approach to young adult ministries with other churches, denominations, community organizations, and groups shall be encouraged as a valid outreach ministry of the local United Methodist Church.

4. Older Adult Ministry.—The ministry of the local church shall include and be extended to persons 65 years of age and older. Such ministry shall seek to meet the needs of older adults and bring them into the fellowship, ministry, and service of the local congregation. Such ministry shall be the responsibility of the Council on Ministries, working through its adult coordinator or older adult coordinator, if elected, or the Adult/Older Adult Council, if organized. A cooperative approach to older adult ministries with other churches, denominations, community organizations, and groups shall be encouraged as a valid outreach ministry of the local United Methodist church.

5. United Methodist Women. (Renumber Par. 256.4 as Par. 260.5, without change.)

6. United Methodist Men.—a) A fellowship of United Methodist Men may be formed in every local church. Resources for the organization and implementation of men's ministry, including chartering services, are to be prepared by, and under the direction of the Division of Lay Life and Work, Board of Discipleship.

Each church or charge shall be encouraged to have a fellowship of United Methodist Men chartered through the Board of Discipleship to provide another channel for involving men in the total ministry of the church.

a) Resources for organization and implementation of the ministry of men at the local church, district, conference, and jurisdictional levels shall be provided by the Board of Discipleship.

b) United Methodist Men shall be a creative supportive fellowship of men who seek to know Jesus Christ, to grow spiritually, and to seek daily his will., and whose Its primary purpose is to bring Jesus Christ into declare the centrality of Christ in the lives of men and into in all their relationships. The major concerns are:

(1) To encourage knowledge of and support for the total mission of The United Methodist Church.

The committee recommends the following action:

Whereas the basic organizational plan for the local church was adopted in 1968; and

Whereas there has not been a major study of the effectiveness and continuing appropriateness of this plan since its adoption; and

Whereas there are many persons, especially in smaller membership churches, who feel that the present organizational plan for the local church is not fully suited to their needs; and

Whereas questions have been raised about the workability of the offices of age-level and family ministry coordinators as presently described in the organizational plan, about the feasibility of continuing to expand the number of work areas, and about the continuing need for several of the mandated leaders;

Therefore, the Board of Discipleship requests authorization of the General Conference to conduct a major study of local church organization during the 1981-84 quadrennium. This study, if authorized, will involve persons from local churches, districts, and annual conferences, and from the appropriate general boards and agencies, and will be reported to the 1984 General Conference, along with any needed proposals for legislative change.

Add: New Section III. Churches in Transitional Communities

Par. 207. Since many of the communities in which the local church is located are experiencing transition, both in inner city urban areas and rural communities, special attention must be given to forms of ministry required in such communities. The local church is required to respond to the changes which are occurring in its surrounding community, and to organize its mission and ministry accordingly.

(1) When the communities where the church is located experience transition especially identified as economic and or ethnic, the local church shall engage in deliberate analysis of the neighborhood change, and alter its program to meet the needs and cultural patterns of the new residents. The local church shall make every effort to remain in the neighborhood and develop effective ministries to those who are newcomers, whether of a cultural, economic, or ethnic group different from the original or present members.

(2) In communities in transition the local church shall be regarded as a principal base of mission from which structures of society shall be confronted, evangelization shall occur, and a principal witness to the changing community shall be realized.

The committee recommends the following substance be included in The Book of Resolutions:

The Local Church and the Local Jail

The writer of the letter to the Hebrews, in suggesting conduct consistent with the new covenant brought through the mediation of Jesus, advises, "Remember those who are in prison as though in prison with them." (Hebrews 13:3)

The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church urges that the love of Christ be translated into "new systems of rehabilitation that will restore, preserve and nurture the humanity of the imprisoned." This concern must be expressed in local communities by local congregations, for most of those imprisoned in the United States are in city and county jails.

Citizens pay millions of dollars for the support of jails in their local communities each year; yet, for the individuals who are detained in them, jail life is a particularly dehumanizing experience accompanied by the loss of freedom, the loss of contact with family and friends, and the loss of self-determination.

According to recent studies, most local jails provide inadequate food services, minimal medical care, no libraries or recreational facilities, no educational programs and only a limited religious ministry. These conditions are physically injurious, mentally deteriorating, and spiritually destructive to those who are confined.

Most of the persons detained in local jails are being held for trial and actually are serving sentences prior to their conviction.

Since incarceration is by its very nature dehumanizing and destructive, The United Methodist Church states its belief that every responsible means should be used to reduce the present jail population and to use methods (such as release on recognizance, bail, probation, etc.) to keep persons out of jail.

All citizens have a fundamental right and obligation to know how the jails in their communities are being administered, and how prisoners are being treated and under what conditions they are being confined.

They should have further concern for the losses in human relationships and personal welfare which are suffered by those who are held in local jails.

The United Methodist Church urges its members to inform themselves about local jails through participation in citizen inspections; to establish programs of regular volunteer visitation with both individual staff members and confined residents of jails; to support chaplaincy programs within jails; and to diligently seek the alleviation of the present inhumane conditions while working for the eventual elimination of jails, except as necessary places of detention for dangerous criminals. Members of churches are further urged to support and fund organizations in their local communities which advocate the protection of the rights of all citizens. Where conditions are found to be substandard then United Methodist Church members are urged to request formal inquiry procedures.

The committee recommends amending Par. 264 of 1976 Discipline by making the following change:

Par. 264. Churches of smaller membership size may are encouraged to develop an organizational plan which combines the functions of several boards, councils, commissions, and committees in accordance with Par. 246 and Par. 262. Such a plan might combine the functions of the Council on Ministries and the Administrative Board; the work areas of education, worship, and stewardship; the work areas of evangelism, missions, religion and race; ecumenical Christian unity and interreligious concerns, and social concerns church and society; the age level and family coordinators; the Committee on Finance; or such other combinations as may be desirable.

The committee further recommends that all the above listed petitions, since they contain recommendations and guidelines for alternate models of organization, be referred to the Board of Discipleship and also to the Town and Country Office of the Board of Global Ministries.

Subject: Small Membership Churches—Alternate Models of Organization

Date: April 20, 1980

Petitions: F-1013—F-1018, F-1020

1. We concur with petitions numbered F-1013, F-1014, F-1015, F-1016, F-1017, F-1018 and F-1020 related to material in the Advance Edition of the Daily Christian Advocate, pages F-9 through F-12, as amended and printed in Par. 3, below.

2. This minority report is brought before this body because of three reasons.

1) Small membership churches need to be heard. Many of them feel "left out." They resent the existing disciplinary language which says they should adapt their organizational structures to a model that basically has been developed for larger membership churches. It may be pointed out that only about one out of every ten of the delegates to this conference are members or pastors of churches of under 200 members.

2) The United Methodist Church is a church of small congregations. 64.2 percent of our churches have fewer than 200 members. 40.2 percent have fewer than 100 members. 18.3 percent have fewer than 50 members. 69.5 percent of our churches have fewer than 100 persons at worship on Sunday mornings. 50.5 percent of our members attend churches having fewer than 200 members.

3) Our constituency of small membership churches has requested response to their need. Many of the petitions on the small membership which are now before this conference resulted from concerned persons in attendance at convocations and conferences on the small membership church held during the quadrennium. Also present at these events were staff of the Offices of Town/Country Ministry and Urban Ministry of the National Division, Board of Global Ministries, the Board of Discipleship, and the national United . . . (sic)

It is increasingly clear to small membership churches and those who work in and with them that their organizational and missional needs are dependent on the recognition and support of the General Conference of The United Methodist Church. Their effectiveness, in large measure, is dependent on the awareness of their number and importance to United Methodism. They are basic units of our denomination often located in isolated and difficult areas with a seriously limited reservoir of resources. They are places where ministry and mission can take place even more effectively if they have available a basic organizational model which allows flexibility in form.

The small membership church, whether rural or urban, needs a basic structural plan clearly spelled out in the Discipline. Structure is a tool of the Church. United Methodists long have known that form without spirit never lives while, at the same time, we have known that spirit without form dissipates the energies of God's people.

This minority report suggests a structure that is based on the following paradigm of function and form:

1. Basic functions of the Church
2. Basic organizational plan
3. Small membership church options
4. Larger membership church options
5. Election of officers

III. Amend the designated paragraphs as indicated below:

Par. 242. The local church shall be organized so that adequate provision is made for these basic functions: (1) planning and implementing a program of nurture, outreach and witness for persons and families within and without the congregation; (2) providing for effective pastoral and lay leadership; (3) providing for financial support, physical facilities and the legal obligations of the church; and (4) insuring relationships to appropriate district and annual conference structures and programs.

1. In every local church there shall be an administrative body known as the Administrative Board to which the members, organizations and agencies are amenable. It functions under and is amenable to shall be amenable to and functions as the executive agency of the Charge Conference. (See Paras. 242-44 Par. 246.)

2. In every local church there shall be a local church Council on Ministries programmatically body which shall consider, develop, initiate and coordinate goals and program proposals for the church's strategy for mission.

Paragraph 243. Organization of the Local Church. In order that each local church may be an effective connectional unit in The United Methodist Church, it shall be the duty of all district superintendents and pastors to organize and administer the charges and churches committed to their care in accordance with the plan hereinafter set forth. In each local church there shall be The basic organizational plan for the local church shall include a Charge Conference, an Administrative Board, a Council on Ministries, a Committee on Pastor-Parish Relations, a Board of Trustees, a Committee on Finance, a Committee on Nominations and Personnel, and such other elected leaders, commissions, councils, committees and task forces and offices as the local church charge conference may determine. This plan may be modified in consultation with and upon the approval of the district superintendent. (See provisions for alternate models, Par. 260.)

1. Churches of smaller membership size— Since a majority of United Methodist churches are of smaller membership (approximately 200 members or less) and may be limited as to numbers of leaders, program scope, missional resources, or by other circumstances, they may develop an organizational plan which combines the functions of several boards, councils, commissions, and committees in accordance with Paras. 246 and 262, 243 and 247.2. Such a plan might combine the functions of the Council on Ministries and the Administrative Board; the work areas of education, worship and stewardship; the work areas of evangelism; missions, religion and race; ecumenical and interreligious concerns and social concerns; the age level and family coordinators; the committee on finance, or such other combinations as may be advisable.

a) The Administrative Board and the Council on Ministries may be combined in an Administrative Council provided adequate provision is made for the planning and implementing of the programs of nurture and outreach of the church and for the administration of its organizational and temporal life. The Administrative Council shall have all of the responsibilities of the Administrative Board (Pars. 250ff.) and the Council on Ministries (Pars. 254ff.). Its membership shall include the combined membership of the two bodies insofar as the offices listed in Pars. 251 and 255 exist within the local church.

b) The responsibilities of the work area chairpersons of education, worship, stewardship, and the membership care aspects of evangelism may be combined and assigned to a work area chairperson of nurture and membership care.

c) The responsibilities of the work area chairpersons of ecumenical and interreligious concerns, missions, religion and race, church and society, the health and welfare ministries representative, and the outreach function of evangelism may be combined and assigned to a work area chairperson of outreach.

d) The responsibilities and work of the coordinators of children's, youth, adult, and family ministries, and the secretary of career planning and counseling may be combined and assigned to a coordinator of age-level and family ministries.

e) The function and responsibility of lay leader, lay member of the Annual Conference, and chairperson of the Administrative Council may be combined in some manner.

2. Churches of larger membership size may choose to, or with more leaders or more extensive program scope and missional resources, may establish commissions in each one or more of the work areas (Par. 254, 262), and/or councils for each in one or more of the age level and family ministries (Par. 257, 261); and/or they may elect such other committees and task forces as may be advisable.

Par. 244. The Charge Conference shall elect upon nomination of the Committee on Nominations and Personnel (Par. 260.1, 264.2) of each local church on the pastoral charge or by nomination from the floor and by vote of each such local church, the following at least the following leaders for the four basic functions (Par. 242):

1. Lay leader(s), lay member(s) of the Annual Conference, chairperson of the Council on Ministries and chairperson of the Administrative Board or chairperson of the Administrative Council. Chairpersons of work areas (ecumenical and interreligious concerns, education, evangelism, missions, religion and race, social concerns, stewardship, worship), age-level coordinators (family, children, youth, adult), secretary of career planning and counseling, superintendent of the church school, coordinator of communication, district steward (optional), church historian (optional), and (if not paid employees of the local church) the church treasurer(s), financial secretary and membership secretary. (For election of Recording Secretary, see Paragraph 242.2, 248.3.)

Members at large of the Administrative Board as provided in Paragraph 244, one of whom shall be selected as the Health and Welfare Ministries representative.

2. The Committee on Nominations and Personnel (Par. 260.1 264.1) and the Committee on Pastor-Parish Relations and chairperson )Par. 260.2 264.2).

Additional members of the Committee on Finance (Par. 260.3) and chairperson.

The Committee on Nominations and Personnel (Par. 260.1).

3. A chairperson and additional members of the Committee on Finance (Par. 264.3); the financial secretary and the church treasurer(s) (if not paid employees of the local church); and the trustees as provided in Pars. 2420, 2422, unless otherwise required by state law.

Such other personnel and committees as may elsewhere be ordered by the Discipline.

4. The lay member(s) of the Annual Conference and lay leader(s).

5. Special attention shall be given to the inclusion of women, men, youth, young adults, persons with a handicapping condition, and racial and ethnic minority persons.

Par. 245. The Charge Conference shall may elect, upon nomination of the Committee on Nominations and Personnel (Par. 260.1 264.1) of each local church on the pastoral charge or by nomination from the floor and by vote of each such church, such leaders and officers of the local church(es) as it may choose from among the following:

1. Chairpersons of work areas (ecumenical and interreligious concerns, education, evangelism, missions, religion and race, church and society, stewardship, worship), age-level coordinators (family, children, youth, adult), secretary of career planning and counseling, superintendent of the church school, health and welfare ministries representative, coordinator of communications, district steward, church historian and membership secretary.

2. Members at large of the Administrative Board as provided in Par. 251.

3. Such other personnel and committees as it may choose or as may elsewhere be ordered by the Discipline.

Par. 246. General Provisions.—1. Within the pastoral charge, the basic unit within the connectional system of The United Methodist Church is the Charge Conference. The Charge Conference shall, therefore, be organized from the church or churches in every pastoral charge as set forth in the Constitution (Par. 48). It shall meet annually for the purposes set forth in Par. 243 247. It may meet at other times as indicated.

2. The membership of the Charge Conference shall be all members of the Administrative Board (or Administrative Boards, if more than one church is on the pastoral charge) named in Par. 248 251 together with retired ministers who elect to hold their membership in said charge conference and any others as may be designated in the Discipline.

3. The district superintendent shall fix the time of meetings of the Charge Conference. The Charge Conference shall determine the place of meeting.

4. The district superintendent shall preside at the meetings of the Charge Conference, or may designate an elder to preside.

5. The members present at any duly announced meeting shall constitute a quorum.

6. Special sessions may be called by the district superintendent after consultation with the pastor of the charge or by the pastor with written consent of the district superintendent. The purpose of such special session shall be stated in the call, and only such business shall be transacted as is in harmony with the purposes stated in such call. Any such special session may be convened as a Church Conference in accordance with Par. 245 249.

7. Notice of the time and place of a regular or special session of the Charge Conference shall be given at least ten days in advance.

8. A joint Charge Conference for two or more pastoral charges may be held at the same time and place, as the district superintendent may determine.

Par. 247. Powers and Duties.—1. The Charge Conference shall be the connecting link between the local church and the general church and shall have general oversight of the Administrative Board(s).

2. The Charge Conference, the district superintendent, and the pastor shall organize and administer the pastoral charge and churches according to the policies and plans herein set forth. When the membership size, program scope, mission resources, or other circumstances so require, the Charge Conference may, in consultation with and upon the approval of the district superintendent, modify the organizational plans (provided that the provisions of Par. 242 are observed).

3. Its primary responsibility in the annual meetings shall be to evaluate the effectiveness of the program of the charge toward achieving its mission in the community and world, to establish goals for the ensuing year, receive reports, review and evaluate the total mission and ministry of the church, and adopt objectives and goals recommended by the Administrative Board, which are in keeping with the objectives of The United Methodist Church (Par. 253.3), and to develop specific proposals to be implemented by the Administrative Board(s).

4. The Charge Conference shall determine the number of members at large to serve on the Administrative Board in keeping with the following provisions: churches of five hundred members or less shall may include at least four members at large and may include a total not to exceed thirty-five in number, but not more than thirty-five members at large exclusive of ex officio and honorary members. In churches of more than five hundred members there may be elected additional members at large not to exceed the ratio of one for each thirty additional members. The members at large, if elected, shall include at least two young adults between the ages of eighteen nineteen and thirty-one and at least two youth nominated by the youth coordinator or Youth Council.

5. It shall examine and recommend to the District Committee on Ordained Ministry, faithfully adhering to the provisions of Par. 404(4), candidates for the ministry who have been members in good standing of the local church for at least one year; whose gifts, graces, and call to the ministry clearly establish them as candidates; and who have met the educational requirements.

6. It shall examine and recommend, faithfully adhering to the provisions of Par. 405, renewal of candidacy of candidates for the ministry.

7. It shall examine and recommend to the responsible church agency any candidates for church-related vocations.

8. It shall affirm the good standing in the congregation of the persons seeking the diaconal minister relationship in the Annual Conference and transmit this information to the conference Board of Diaconal Ministry.

9. It shall recommend to the district or conference Committee on Lay Speaking for certification as lay speakers those persons who have met the standards set forth by the agency to which they are related and shall inquire annually into the gifts, labors, and usefulness of lay speakers (Par. 271).

10. It shall in consultation with the district superintendent set the salary and other remuneration of the pastor and other staff appointed by the bishop.

Par. 254 is renumbered as Par. 257. New Par. 254 is an amended version of Par. 251. Par. 254 begins a section entitled The Council on Ministries of the Local Church and Parish.

Par. 254. There shall be a The local church Council on Ministries, which shall consider, initiate, develop, and coordinate goals and program proposals for the church's strategy for mission. It shall receive and, where possible, utilize resources for missions provided by the district, annual, jurisdictional, and general conference Councils on Ministries, boards, and agencies, and shall coordinate these resources with the Church's plan for ministries. The council shall be amenable to the Administrative Board, to which it shall submit its goals and program plans for revision and appropriate action. Upon adoption of the goals and program plans by the Administrative Board, the council shall implement and evaluate the goals and program plans which are assigned to it.

The Council on Ministries shall elect teachers, counselors, and officers for the church school except where these are subject to election by the Charge Conference. In local churches when size and organization permit, and where the educational program can be enhanced by division superintendents, the council may elect such person(s). Nominations for these positions shall be made by the work area chairperson of education upon the recommendation of the superintendent of the church school and after consultation with the pastor, the division superintendents, and such other groups or persons as the Council on Ministries may designate. It is recommended that the Committee on Nominations and Personnel be a resource in this process (Par. 260.1 264.1).

The Council on Ministries shall make recommendations to the Committee on Finance requesting the financial resources needed to undergird the ministries which it has developed, using local and connectional program suggestions, and which the council recommends to the Administrative Board.

The Council on Ministries, in consultation with the pastor, may make recommendations to the Pastor-Parish Relations Committee regarding the professional and other staff positions needed to carry out the program projected by the Council.

Since local churches vary greatly in needs and size, the structure and organization required will differ. The Council on Ministries with its several elected representatives is the minimum basic structure for the development and administration of the local church program. The Council on Ministries, in order to implement the Church's mission, may request expansion of the structure to include councils, commissions, task groups, committees, and other groups as needed. Where the committees, councils, task groups, commissions, etc., are not organized, the duties assigned to each become the responsibility of the Council on Ministries.

This minority report supports deletion of Par. 906.13.

This Minority Report is filed to concur with Petitions No. 01063, 01065, 01070, 01250, 01251 and 01069, for the following reasons:

1. Par. 906.13 was passed only in the last 15 minutes of the 1976 General Conference, with no debate and having passed its committee by only one vote. In such a hasty passage, time was not allowed for reflection on implications or enforcement.

2. This paragraph sets a dangerous precedent of restricting theological stances and controlling programs through the funding process. Such a precedent bypasses our connectional channels for discussion and decision, and thus prevents any education or further exploration of this issue. Such a precedent also opens up this same channel to be used against any other constituency within our denomination as well.

3. The paragraph is hard to interpret, and in fact has never had to be enforced.

4. Par. 906.13 is subject to a wide range of misuse based on the meaning of the word, "promote," as opposed to "minister to" or "accept as persons." This ambiguity has led to exclusion of homosexual students in United Methodist seminaries, and could lead to even more serious injuries as a result of the ambiguity.

5. This paragraph singles out one constituency of The United Methodist Church and denies them help through a network of ministry and support which is available to every other group in this denomination.

6. Due to Par. 906.13's confusion and discrimination, several bodies of people have petitioned for its deletion. They include:

The General Board of Church and Society

The General Commission on Religion and Race

The Women's Division, Board of Global Ministries

The General Commission on the Status and Role of Women

The Coalition for the Whole Gospel

The South Atlantic Regional United Methodist Women School of Christian Mission

The following Annual Conferences: Pacific and Southwest, California-Nevada, Oregon-Idaho, New York, Western New York, and Northern New Jersey

We join these concerned United Methodists in voting for deletion of such an ambiguous passage.

Alice Trost, Harry Shaner, Barbara Thompson, Burt McIntosh, Kathleen Haining, John Kirkman, Harold Knudsen, Jo Anne Wilshusen, Frances Dickson, Larry LaVelle.

Whereas the corporate operations of The United Methodist Publishing House are of complex nature requiring long-range projection and extended oversight to pursue the directives of the General Board of Publication, and

Whereas the Church's financial investment in publishing demands both expertise and continuity of observation, and

Whereas turnover of board membership and its executive committee tends to place the Publishing House management in reportive role functions rather than receiving concrete directions from the board elected by the Church for that general intention,

Therefore we petition the 1980 session of the United Methodist General Conference to extend election of members to the General Board of Publication to the possibility of a 12-year term of service by the following legislative change:

Amend Par. 1802 of the 1976 Book of Discipline by adjusting the phrase, "Membership shall also be by classes based on term of office for one or two quadrenniums" to read "Other paragraphs of the Discipline notwithstanding, membership shall also be by classes based on term of office for one, two, or three quadrennia."

The amended Par. 1802 would then read as follows:

The General Board of Publication, hereinafter called the board, constituted coincident with or next following the Declaration of Union of The Evangelical United Brethren Church and The Methodist Church, shall consist of forty-five members, including two bishops selected by the Council of Bishops. Five members shall be members at large elected by the board. The remaining members shall be elected by the Jurisdictional Conferences on a ratio which will provide for an equitable distribution among the various jurisdictions, based on the memberships thereof; provided that no jurisdiction shall be represented by fewer than two members. Membership on the board shall be equally divided, as far as practicable, between ministers and lay persons. Other paragraphs of the Discipline notwithstanding, membership shall also be by classes based on term of office for one, two, or three quadrennia, attention being given to the principle of rotation so that, as far as practicable, one-third of the membership shall be elected each quadrennium. The principle of rotation is also applicable to the executive committee. At least two young adults, at the time of their election, shall be elected each quadrennium. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the General Conference to inform the various jurisdictional secretaries of the number of members to be elected from their jurisdictions, the ratio of such representation being computed on the basis of the latest official membership statistics available. In case a vacancy occurs between sessions of the Jurisdictional Conferences for any cause, the board shall fill the vacancy for the unexpired term from that jurisdiction in the representation of which the vacancy occurs, except in the case of members at large where such vacancies would be filled by the board in the prescribed manner without regard to geographic or jurisdictional relationship. The publisher of The United Methodist Church (Par. 1814) shall be an exofficio member of the board without vote.

i) In the event of retirement under ¶ 434.5, the actuarially reduced pension or subsequent pension resulting from annuity rate increases for service rendered prior to January 1, 1982, shall be determined by multiplying the pension (years times rate) by a percentage factor; such percentage factor shall be the greater of 100 percent minus one-half percent per month or fraction of a month of age less than sixty-five years attained on the date the actuarially reduced pension is to commence (or the date of such annuity rate increase), or 100 percent minus one-half percent per month for each month of difference between the assumed date at which pension payments would have been permitted by retirement under ¶ 434.3 by completion of forty years of service under appointment and the actual date the actuarially reduced pension or annuity rate increase, is to commence under ¶ 434.5. Such actuarially reduced pension shall be calculated by the General Board of Pensions and allocated pro rata to the Annual Conference or conferences which are charged with the pension responsibility.

A successor conference resulting from a merger involving a former Central Jurisdictional Conference shall establish for all for whom it has pension responsibility the same rate for past service of conference members in the Central Jurisdiction as for service in a geographic former Methodist jurisdiction and the same rate for past service of local pastors regardless of the jurisdiction in which the service was rendered.

If compensation from the local church or pastoral charge is supplemented from other church sources, pension and benefit contributions related to such supplements shall be paid from that same source. If the entire compensation for a participant is from a salary-paying unit other than a local church or a pastoral charge, the unit responsible for compensation shall remit the pension and benefit contributions to the General Board of Pensions. Nothing in this paragraph shall be understood as preventing an Annual, Missionary or Provisional Conference from raising part or all of the annual contributions for the pension program of its pastors by an apportionment to the churches of the Conference, remitting payments to the General Board of Pensions on behalf of all the pastors covered; there is no time limit on this provision.

We move that an amendment be inserted by the General Board of Pensions at the appropriate points in the document governing the operation of the proposed Ministerial Pension Plan and the Comprehensive Protection Plan which will specify "actual compensation limited by the denominational average compensation," as the basic contribution base of the plans. Other options setting the contribution base as actual compensation limited by the 150 percent of the denominational average compensation or actual compensation may be elected by the annual conference or other participating groups (groups being defined as defined in the plan) as they may determine. The above limits do not apply to personal contributions or to tax deferred annuity contributions.

(1) It is the responsibility of the conference Council on Finance and Administration to establish the total amount to be recommended to the Annual Conference as the conference benevolences budget and, within that amount, the total sum to be recommended for distribution among the conference program agencies. It is likewise the responsibility of the council to study the budget requests for any agencies or causes to be included in the conference benevolences budget other than the conference program agencies, including the requests of the conference Council on Ministries, and to give the chairpersons or other authorized representatives of such agencies and causes opportunity to represent their claims before the council.

(2) It is the responsibility of the conference Council on Ministries to study the budget requests of the conference program agencies and to recommend to the conference Council on Finance and Administration amounts to be allocated from the conference benevolences budget to each such agency, within the total established by the conference Council on Finance and Administration.

"Annual Conference program agencies and institutions" shall be defined as those agencies with responsibilities parallel to those of the program-related general agencies (§ 803) represented by voting membership on the conference Council on Ministries and institutions whose work is within the field of responsibility of one or more of those agencies. Administrative expenses which are directly related to the program, mission, and benevolent causes of conference program agencies, including the expenses of the conference Council on Ministries, may also be included in the conference benevolences budget. The term "conference benevolences" shall not include allocations and expenditures for other conference agencies and officers whose work is primarily administrative. It shall likewise not include Annual Conference ministerial support funds as set forth in §§ 920 929-937, allocations and expenditures of conference agencies responsible for administering ministerial support funds, or apportionments made to the Annual Conference by the General or Jurisdictional Conferences.

d) The council, on receiving from the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration a statement of the amount apportioned that Annual Conference for World Service, shall combine the total World Service apportionment, without reduction for the quadrennium, and the approved conference benevolences budget (§ 709.3a). in one total sum to The sum of these two amounts shall be known as World Service and Conference Benevolences. The total World Service apportionment as received from the Central Treasury and Conference Benevolences budget thus established shall include a statement of the percentage for World Service and the percentage for conference benevolences, and shall be distributed as received annually among the districts or charges by the method determined by the conference (§ 711) and by such divisions and ratios as the conference may approve. A like distribution shall be made of Jurisdictional Conference apportionments and any other apportionments that have been properly made to the Annual Conference. The distribution of all apportionments mentioned in this paragraph shall be subject to the approval of the Annual Conference. (See new proposed ¶ 710 for all matters related to apportionments.)

4. Other apportioned causes. The council shall include in its budget recommendations all other amounts properly apportioned to the Annual Conference for the support of duly

Neither shall special conference-wide appeals to local churches for funds be made by such boards, interests, agencies or institutions which are not related to the Annual Conference in which the appeal is to be made, unless approval for such an appeal is granted by the Annual Conference upon recommendation of the council. The Annual Conference approvals specified in this paragraph shall not be required for special churchwide financial appeals which have been approved under the provisions of ¶ 910.4, for solicitations which have been approved under the provisions of ¶ 911.3, or any other general fund promotion or appeal authorized by the General Conference or approved and conducted under other provisions of The Book of Discipline.

¶ 709.5b. Renumber and amend ¶ 725 as follows:

b) When application is made to the council conference for the privilege of a special conference-wide financial appeal, whether by special collections, campaigns, or otherwise, the application shall be referred to the council before final action is taken thereon the council shall investigate the application and its possible relation to other obligations of the conference, and in the light of the facts make recommendations to the conference for its action and determination. If Such application for privilege of a special appeal is may be made directly to the conference council for recommendation to the Annual Conference, the application shall be referred to the council before final action is taken.

¶ 709.5c is new and would read as follows:

c) The council may include in its budget recommendations to the Annual Conference amounts to be considered as goals for special appeals or other non-apportioned causes.

¶709.6. Renumber ¶708.3.

Prior to each regular session of the Annual Conference the council shall make a diligent and detailed study of the needs of all the conference agencies and causes asking to be included in the budget of any conference fund. The chairperson of each conference agency, or other duly authorized representative, shall have opportunity to represent the claims of that agency before the council.

c) After consultation with the conference Board of Pensions, the council shall report to the Annual Conference the amounts computed by that board as necessary to meet the needs for pension and benefit programs of the conference. Such amounts need not be derived solely from apportionments.

d) It shall recommend to the Annual Conference an amount determined in consultation with the Commission on Equitable Salaries to be used for compliance with the approved schedule of equitable salaries for pastors (¶ 934).

expenses and those of the conference treasurer's office. It shall consult with the conference agencies and officers to be included in the administrative budget regarding the estimated budgets of their expenses and base its conference administration budget recommendations on information thus received.

b) It shall include in its estimates recommendations regarding the conference's share of an area expense fund, if any, and apportionments for administration properly made by the Jurisdictional Conference and the General Conference (§ 916.2).

Basing its judgment of needs upon the information secured, the council shall recommend to the Annual Conference for its action and determination the total amount to be apportioned for the conference benevolences budget. It shall also recommend the amount or the percentage of the total of the conference benevolences budget which shall be allocated to each cause included in the said budget, such recommendations to reflect agreement with the conference Council on Ministries on program agency allocations as specified below.

b) In studying the requests of conference program agencies for allocations from the conference benevolences budget, the council and the Annual Conference Council on Ministries shall work together to establish and follow a procedure which shall preserve the following principles:

(4) It is the responsibility of the conference Council on Finance and Administration to present the conference benevolences budget recommendations to the Annual Conference. The recommended allocations to conference program agencies should reflect agreement between the council and the conference Council on Ministries.

c) The term "conference benevolences" shall include those conference allocations and expenditures directly associated with the program, mission and benevolent causes of Annual Conference program agencies and institutions. "Annual Conference program agencies and institutions" shall be defined as those agencies with responsibilities parallel to those of the program-related general agencies (§ 803) and institutions whose work is within the field of responsibility of one or more of those agencies. Administrative expenses which are directly related to the program, mission, and benevolent causes of conference program agencies, including the expenses of the conference Council on Ministries, may also be included in the conference benevolences budget. The term "conference benevolences" shall not include allocations and expenditures for other conference agencies and officers whose work is primarily administrative. It shall likewise not include Annual Conference ministerial support funds as set forth in §§ 929-937, allocations and expenditures of conference agencies responsible for administering ministerial support funds, or apportionments made to the Annual Conference by the General or Jurisdictional Conferences.

Special appeals.—a) No Annual Conference agency or interest, including any related agency or institution such as a school, college, university, hospital, home, housing project, or other service institution, shall make a special conference-wide appeal to the local churches for funds without the approval of the Annual Conference upon recommendation of the council except in case of an extreme emergency when such approval may be given by a two-thirds vote of the district superintendents and of the council, acting jointly. Neither shall special conference-wide appeals to local churches for funds be made by such boards, interests, agencies, or institutions which are not related to the Annual Conference in which the appeal is to be made, unless approval for such an appeal is granted by the Annual Conference upon recommendation of the council. The Annual Conference approvals specified in this paragraph shall not be required for special church-wide financial appeals which have been approved under the provisions of ¶910.4, for solicitations which have been approved under the provisions of ¶911.3, or for any other general fund promotion or appeal authorized by the General Conference or approved and conducted under other provisions of The Book of Discipline.

b) When application is made to the council for the privilege of a special conference-wide financial appeal, whether by special collections, campaigns, or otherwise, the council shall investigate the application and its possible relation to other obligations of the conference, and in the light of the facts make recommendations to the conference for its action and determination. If application for privilege of a special appeal is made directly to the conference, the application shall be referred to the council before final action is taken.

c) The council may include in its budget recommendations to the Annual Conference amounts to be considered as goals for special appeals or other non-apportioned causes.

6. The committee recommends the following addenda:

—under Missional Priorities No. 5, page D-135, we object to the conclusion that making evangelism a Missional Priority was counterproductive. It seems to put evangelism in a negative light and suggests that there is no way to transcend theological and/or ideological differences.

We recommend the 1980 General Conference, except for highly unusual circumstances, refrain from establishing study commissions, committees, or task groups to do the work already assigned to the general agencies of our church by The Book of Discipline.

Membership 98; Present 88; For 83; Against 2; Not Voting 3.

We recommend concurrence of Proposed Par. 727 as follows: It is recommended that the legislation governing the conference Advance be placed in Part IV, Chapter Six, Section X, The Annual Conference, as a new ¶727, with subsequent paragraphs renumbered accordingly.

Renumber present ¶913.9 as ¶727.1, and amend it as follows:

¶727.1. There may be a conference Advance program, established and carried out in the same spirit as the general Advance program, with emphasis upon of partnership as the general Advance program across boundaries of race, nationality, and culture.

Delete present ¶913.10. Substitute for it the following new ¶727.2:

2. A conference Advance special gift is one made to a conference Advance special project within bounds of the Annual Conference or Episcopal Area, authorized by an Annual Conference upon recommendation by the conference Board of Global Ministries or its equivalent structure and consistent with the goals of the Advance. The funds as received shall be administered by the conference Board of Global Ministries or such structure as designated by the conference.

Delete present ¶¶913.11-.12.

Renumber present ¶913.13 as ¶727.3, and amend it as follows:

3. An Annual Conference may undertake a conference-wide campaign for a lump sum to be applied to its missionary and church-extension needs. The funds so received shall be designated as conference Advance specials and shall be administered by the conference Board of Global Ministries or equivalent structure. Local churches shall report their respective contributions as conference Advance specials.

Renumber present ¶913.14 as ¶727.4, and amend it by additions and deletions as follows:

4. With the approval of Unless the Annual Conference directs otherwise, a district within the conference may authorize and promote Advance specials for church-extension and missionary needs within the district, such funds to be administered by a district missionary society organized for that purpose or by a similar body set up by the district Conference. Such specials special funds secured and administered on a district level shall be reported by each local church to the Annual Conference as conference Advance specials.

Renumber present ¶913.15 as ¶727.5, and amend it by inserting the words to the charge conference and, as shown below:

5. Local churches shall report their contributions to general Advance specials and conference Advance specials to the charge conference and in the manner indicated on the Annual Conference report form.

Delete ¶913.16.

¶727.1-5, in its entirety, will then read as follows:

¶727.1. There may be a conference Advance program, established and carried out in the same spirit of partnership as the general Advance program.

2. A conference Advance special gift is one made to a conference Advance special project within bounds of the Annual Conference or Episcopal Area authorized by an Annual Conference upon recommendation by the conference Board of Global Ministries or its equivalent structure and consistent with the goals of the Advance. The funds as received shall be administered by the conference Board of Global Ministries or such structure as designated by the conference.

3. An Annual Conference may undertake a conference-wide campaign for a lump sum to be applied to its missionary and church extension needs. The funds so received shall be designated as conference Advance specials and shall be administered by the conference Board of Global Ministries or equivalent structure. Local churches shall report their contributions as conference Advance specials.

4. With the approval of the Annual Conference, a district within the conference may authorize and promote Advance specials for church extension and missionary needs within the district, such funds to be administered by a district missionary society organized for that purpose or by a similar body set up by the district. Such special funds secured and administered on a district level shall be reported by each local church to the Annual Conference as conference Advance specials.

5. Local churches shall report their contributions to general Advance specials and conference Advance specials to the charge conference and in the manner indicated on the Annual Conference report form.

Present Par. 727, Conference Board of Church and Society, would be renumbered but unchanged.

RECOMMENDATION AND IMPLEMENTATION

On the basis of the factors and criteria established at the beginning of the study process, analysis of the data assembled to inform the discussion, and extensive consideration of the best interests of The United Methodist Church, the Select Committee recommends to The General Conference in session April 15-25, 1980, in Indianapolis, Indiana:

THAT THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE BOARD OF GLOBAL MINISTRIES REMAIN IN NEW YORK, AND THAT THE BOARD FURTHER DECENTRALIZE STAFF.

We support this recommendation to maintain the board headquarters in New York with the following conclusions:

1. The decision on the location of the board should be made on the basis of the board's mandate, responsibilities, and operating style, rather than on perceptions about the board's responsiveness to diverse constituencies. The location of the board is not significantly related to the board's functioning (see pages E-39-40).

2. The historical location of the board in New York continues to place it in relatively close proximity to a significant part of the United Methodist constituency in the United States and around the world (see page E-41).

3. The cost of moving the board headquarters to another city is high and the annual rental and other occupancy costs in cities such as Chicago, Denver, and Dallas would be significantly greater than the special arrangement in New York (see page E-32).

4. Access to communications and world banking services is a neutral factor. They are available in all major cities (see page E-43).

5. A priority of the board is racial and sexual inclusiveness in its staff. This has been achieved in New York, and may not be as readily possible in other cities. Further, it is likely that a significant number of staff would not move with the board to another locale (see page E-48).

6. Because of historical working relationships with other denominations and ecumenical organizations, many of which are headquartered in New York, several divisions of the board would experience serious disruption in programming by relocation (see pages E-47-48).

7. Adequate office space for the board is not currently available in United Methodist-related facilities in other cities (see page E-48).

8. The Board of Global Ministries (members and staff) has expressed its opinion that the board should remain in New York (see page E-48).

9. Surveys of Annual Conference leaders and 1976 General Conference delegates indicate divided, but positive, support for maintaining the headquarters of the board in New York, particularly in view of the cost of relocation (see page E-48).

The Select Committee reviewed several models for the decentralization of Board of Global Ministries staff. One plan called for the deployment of 43 executive staff in 17 different cities across the United States. Most of the staff of the Health and Welfare Ministries Division of the board would relocate to another city from New York. A second model that was considered would also spread staff across many cities, but by relocating some staff of the National, Health and Welfare Ministries, and Education and Cultivation divisions. This model would establish a new portfolio of conference relations for the National Division. A third model reviewed by the Committee entailed the placing of ten staff persons in each jurisdiction to perform a wide variety of responsibilities which are now spread across several divisions. The estimated cost of implementing these options ranges between $275,000 and $400,000.

The models referred to here are illustrations of the plan which might result from the consultations between the board and the jurisdictions. The final decisions will await the conclusion of that process and consideration by all parts of the Board of Global Ministries.

The Select Committee moves that the 1980 General Conference receive this report and approve the recommendations.

Whereas, the Lovely Lane building now urgently requires extensive and costly restoration far beyond the resources of its diminished in-city congregation;

Be It Resolved that the 1980 General Conference endorse a churchwide campaign to secure funds for such restoration and encourage conferences, local churches, interested groups and individuals to contribute during the quadrennium 1980-84 so that the restoration can be completed by 1984.

The committee concurred on a substitute recommendation rather than the proposal to establish a Commission on Native American Self-Development to replace the Study Committee on Native American Ministries as described in Par. 2201 of the 1976 Discipline. In the process of consideration and reconsideration of the petitions the committee was in agreement about its appreciation for the work of the Study Committee and the report which appears in the Advance Daily Christian Advocate, pages E-131 ff.

The recommendation of the Legislative Committee is as follows:

Inasmuch as the Ethnic Minority Local Church is proposed to be the missional priority for the 1981-84 quadrennium, that we receive the report of the Native American Study Committee with appreciation and serious and prayerful concern.

We affirm the need to have our existing boards and agencies take positive and deliberate action in addressing the needs identified and established in the study report. Therefore, we recommend the following strategies be adopted to insure an effective Christian response and witness to enable those boards and agencies to strengthen and develop the Native American local church.

Each board and agency shall designate an executive level staff person to be responsible for the advocacy, development and implementation of Native American ministries.

Boards and agencies without Native American staff persons are urged to be intentional and give priority to the recruitment and hiring of Native American staff persons during this quadrennium.

Boards and agencies shall address in the 1981-84 Quadrennium those issues raised by the Study Committee report of Native American ministries.

Each board and agency shall establish by January 1, 1981, specific plans for resourcing and working in ministry with Native American churches, districts, and missionary conferences; giving care to identify specific programs to be implemented, the dollar amount of resources to be committed through these programs.

The General Council on Ministries and the Commission on Religion and Race shall convene a meeting in early 1981 of appropriate board and agency representatives to review and coordinate the proposed use of agency resources to Native American ministries within The United Methodist Church to insure that an equitable and adequate distribution of total agency resources are committed to Native American programs and needs.

The General Council on Ministries shall make an annual evaluation; the Commission on Religion and Race shall do the monitoring and jointly they shall make a report to the 1984 General Conference of what has been done to enable an effective ministry to and with Native Americans in the 1980-84 quadrennium.

The Church is called to be one and most fully responds to the prayer of her Lord when, in the unity of Christ, all her varied parts work together in love and understanding and concern (John 17:21, Ephesians 4:1-6, I Corinthians 12).

But, too often, the envisioned oneness to which we have been called has not been realized. Caught up in the predicament of our self-centeredness, we have not heard the cry of our brothers and sisters, and those whom we have been called to love have been hurt.

The story in Acts 6 in which a committee organized to help widows facing discrimination is the first in a long series of attempts the Church has made through structure to address and correct the situations in which some in the Body of Christ have been neglected, misunderstood, hurt.

The beginning of the Methodist movement was a response to people who were forgotten. So, likewise, was the growth of the Salvation Army and of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Within The United Methodist Church we have established structures in response to the pain which has been inflicted on others within the Body to which we all belong. The Commission on the Status and Role of Women and the Commission on Religion and Race are both attempts to hear and to heal.

We now seek to respond to the cries of Native Americans. It would be great if we could wave a wand and correct all the pain and injustice, but that is not possible. It would be great if everything could be corrected through the structures of the Church which have already been established, but that is not happening.

The Commission on Religion and Race, in its disciplinary mandate, does not allow comprehensive program development and long-range planning. Nor does the disciplinary structure of the Commission on Religion and Race provide a way in which the proposed resource staff (which was identified by the Study as the most important component for survival of local churches) can be enabled to carry out the proposed mandate. Likewise, the General Council on Ministries has voted that Ethnic Minority Local Church funds cannot be used for administration and salary support for additional staff for boards and agencies. Therefore, the proposal coming from the legislative committee cannot function.

There are reasons why a new commission is not the ideal answer: financial reasons, the creation of a new structure.

But the alternative would be far worse as many of our Native American friends have stated: there would be four more years of crying to those who do not hear, of living with systems that have not responded, of waiting for a tomorrow which does not come.

In order to meet the needs reported in the Study, and with the conviction that it is the answer which gives the greatest hope, we recommend the establishment, funding, membership and functions of a Commission on Native American Self-Development as proposed in Petitions J-01035, J-01036, J-01037, and J-01038. It may just be that in so hearing and responding to those who are in pain, all of us shall meet the Christ.

The committee recommends concurrence with the resolution which follows and recommends that it be referred to the Book of Resolutions and included in Par. 72.

WHEREAS, European social and religious systems were perceived (by European Americans) as the highest level of human achievement and all other cultures were to yield and be replaced by it, and

WHEREAS, the Biblical mandate for Christians to take the gospel to all nations was relegated to a secondary consideration as acculturation became the main focus in missionary activity among Native tribes, and

WHEREAS the philosophical and social basis for the development of Native American ministries of The United Methodist Church is based on the erroneous stereotyping (conceptualization) of Native Americans by missionaries, and

WHEREAS, Native American cultures were given minimal or no consideration in the propagation of Gospel among Native Americans, and

WHEREAS, forced acculturation has resulted in the demoralization of Native Americans, now

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the 1980 General Conference be requested to approve the following resolution for inclusion in the goals and objectives for Native American ministries of each annual conference and general board and agency:

The United Methodist Church declares:

a. That its primary function of Christian ministry among Native American people is the propagation of the gospel, and not acculturation into the dominant European cultural system. And furthermore, deliberate efforts to compel Native American people to accommodate European cultural modes and ideas as a prerequisite to receiving the gospel are eliminated; and,

b. That acculturation is no longer the principle underlying strategy for ministry to Native American individuals and communities.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that The United Methodist Church commits itself to the acceptance of:

a. The Native American individual as a whole person with a positive heritage consisting of tribal origin and/or citizenship in that tribe, a value system, and the right to enjoy that status while deciding for him/herself to what extent there will be extracultural interaction;

b. The tribal communities as positive units for the perpetuation of Native American cultures and cultural elements, governmental system, and other societal components that such communities deem essential to the happiness, growth and stability of Native people; and,

c. The tribal communities as proper vehicles for the propagation of the gospel.

The study committee also recommends a basic theological statement for Native American ministries be developed and adopted by The United Methodist Church for use in the formation of models of ministry. This statement must reflect the spiritual basis for propagating Christianity among Native Americans and understanding of and respect for traditional spiritual concepts of Native American people.

The committee recommends acceptance of the Quadrennial Report of the Commission on Religion and Race and the recommendations in their report.

See Advance Edition of the 1980 Daily Christian Advocate, pp. H-59—H-75. The Committee recommends that the section on Asian American Constituency be amended to read as follows:

THE ASIAN AMERICAN CONSTITUENCY

In this quadrennium, the Commission has continued to support the ministries of the Asian American constituency through the services of commission members and staff. While the Asian members and staff are our primary conduit of services to the Asian American communities, the entire commission is involved in the tasks of empowerment, counseling, advocacy and enabling. Asian American churches and community organizations have been supported through the Minority Group Self-Determination Fund. The first National Convocation of Asian American United Methodist Churches, held in San Francisco on December 6-12, 1978, was undergirded by the commission.

Since the focus of this agency is on the internal life of the Church, the commission has rarely dealt with social issues directly. Our modus operandi has been referring the social concerns of various ethnic communities to other general boards for action. Among the Asian concerns we have referred to other boards are the "Resolution on Koreans in America," the Japanese A-bomb survivors, and the issue of reverse discrimination.

In the internal life of the Church, the commission has advocated, on behalf of Asian Americans, the employment of Asian American faculty members in the United Methodist theological schools, a sensitivity to the cultural contribution of Asian traditions to doing theology, an awareness of the complex diversity of the Asian community, and the commitment to open itinerancy. Thus, in our monitoring, we asked general boards and agencies and annual conferences to document how they enable the development of ministries among Asian Americans. We have conferred with district superintendents and bishops about the admission of Korean ministers into their annual conferences and the appointment of Asian pastors to local congregations. We have also emphasized with general boards the importance of including Asian Americans in audiovisual and curriculum materials. The commission has also worked closely with the National Federation of Asian American United Methodists, encouraging the caucus to raise sensitive questions about the Church's structure and ministry, and to continue its stirring up of the establishment's status quo.

Generally, program boards have been responsive to the needs of Asian Americans. More Asian staff have been employed, more Asians are present on various boards and committees, and some audiovisual and curricular materials have Asian presence. Annual conferences are also more responsive to the admission of Asian ministers into the conferences and to the opening of new Asian churches. Many local churches are cooperating in the launching of ministries with Asian congregations.

Despite the progress, the Church's ministries among Asians are underdeveloped. Labeling a diverse group of people as Asian Americans has often masked the distinctiveness of the several subgroups within the Asian American community. The Church does not seem to recognize the different needs of Chinese, Japanese, Filipino, Korean, and other people of the Pacific Basin. Some of these Asian people also do not recognize the needs and aspirations of their neighbors. Perhaps the most critical need in the Asian American community is for the Church to recognize the differences in socio-political history, culture, language, and relationship with Methodism among the various Asian ethnic groups and to design programs and services with due regard to these differences.

The development of Asian American ministries is closely connected with the recruitment, cultivation, and nurture of ministerial and lay leadership, but the Church has been deliberate in these essential tasks.

Central to the problems of ministerial supply in Asian communities is the lack of adequate remuneration for ministers. While the Church insists that all United Methodist ministers are to have adequate professional training, it has yet to find a way to compensate ministers equitably for their particular gifts and/or ministries or to enable ethnic minority ministers to move freely within the connection. The lack of an equitable salary system has kept many ministers from enlisting their younger church members into Christian ministry. Yet, the harvest is ripe!

To the dozen-or-so young Asian seminarians and recent seminary graduates, theological education continues to be a bleaching process. With the exception of one appointment, there is no fulltime Asian American theological faculty member in any of the 13 theological schools.

We celebrate the establishment of many Asian—especially Korean—congregations in this quadrennium, but our exuberance is severely tempered by an awareness of the relatively weak foundation of many of the new congregations. They are congregations of new immigrants. They have limited financial and human resources, and their pastoral leadership is not always aware of the complex United Methodist system and obligations. The Church must provide adequate resources to these congregations for their ministries.

The crucial question is how does The United Methodist Church enable the gospel to blossom in the Asian communities? In the next quadrennium, the Church must initiate a more comprehensive approach to evangelism in the Asian American context. We recommend that the Commission on Religion and Race in consultation with the National Federation of Asian American United Methodists appoint a Task Force on Asian American ministries to study, recommend, coordinate, and monitor the development of ministries among Asian Americans in this nation. The task force is to make a progress report and recommendations to the Commission on Religion and Race with copies to the Council of Bishops annually through the 1981-1984 quadrennium. We recommend that United Methodist theological schools employ and utilize Asian Americans in their faculty and administration. We further recommend that general boards and agencies elect and appoint Asian Americans to senior staff positions.

The gifts and talents of a great people are available to the Church. We must use these gifts and talents to the glory of God.

The committee noted editorial changes that need to be made in the Quadrennial Report as follows:

In the advance edition of the 1980 Daily Christian Advocate, page H-64, in the fourth paragraph in the right column, second sentence insert the article a following "There are" so that the sentence reads: There are a few exceptions: . . .

In the last paragraph of the right column insert the section numeral 1.

In the left column of advance edition of the 1980 Daily Christian Advocate, page H-65, sub-paragraph 4. in the fourth line insert only so that the third sentence will read: However, this ought not to be the only means of adding racial and ethnic minority persons to the faculty.

Episcopal Address

The committee assigned to present some findings from the 1980 Episcopal Address makes the following brief remarks:

We receive and affirm the 1980 Episcopal Address with much appreciation in recognition of its forthright message.

We especially wish to commend the Council of Bishops for theological presentations in the address; for the insights it gives on connectionalism—for the focus of attention of the Ethnic Minority Local Church and the timeliness of its explanation on “Oneness in the Church.”

We particularly noted the emphasis given in addressing the church, but without intentional emphasis on addressing the needs in the world:

One could have hoped that the address could have included an encouraging statement welcoming the possibility of women bishops in United Methodism.

It is of concern that the Episcopal Address did not address racism in the church.

The Laity Address called attention to racism in many areas, but did not mention racism within the church as a concern.

Address of the Laity

We commend the Laity Address inaugurated this General Conference, 1980, for its sensitivity to persons and people as we are called to be “participants” in the ministry and mission of The United Methodist Church.

Especially do we affirm phrases and sentences that speak a special word of caution and challenge to us regarding our struggling inability to give full allegiance to all persons. How urgently we need “a new vision of a theology committed to the integral liberation of persons and structures . . .” We are accused because “of our support of systems and cultural biases that subordinate one person to another.” “Pervasive racism” does “continue to encircle” our expressions and demean “millions of God’s children.”

“Can The United Methodist Church with its diversity” be prophetic? Is our declining membership the result of our “failure” “to reach out and deal with people in terms of their needs?”

The Laity Address calls us to healing “in theological differences,” “between clergy and laity,” “between old and young,” “between special interests and concerns,” and “between differences that exist” among us.

Hearing these words, therefore be it resolved that The United Methodist Church urge all local churches, districts, conferences, boards and agencies to diligently implement the programs and concerns bringing us into the new day of the Church of Jesus Christ, especially giving attention to the disinherited and disenfranchised within and beyond the church through our efforts accenting racial and ethnic minorities. Let us take the Laity Address as a mandate to be even more specific about eradicating racism within The United Methodist Church and heal our life together as we care for the oppressed and rejected. There IS a balm in Gilead.

The committee recommends concurrence. It approves in principle and refers to the General Council on Finance and Administration for funding of $50,000 per year. It recommends specifically naming the Women's History Project, and the text reads as follows:

We recommend that the 1980 General Conference authorize the following emphases as the major focus in the continuation of the Church Women's History Project.

(1) That history of women in The United Methodist Church should become a major ongoing priority in the functioning of the Commission on Archives and History.

(2) Development of a continuing resource and interpretation center for women's history with adequate space for office, storage and professional staff.

(3) Continuing responsibility for underwriting the publication of the selected essays growing out of the Church Women's History conference, representing high level scholarship, inclusiveness, and a broad scope of relevant content rooted in the United Methodist tradition. The conference eagerly anticipates the publication of this book "during 1981," which will make it available for effective use in preparation for the bicentennial celebration.

(4) Take immediate steps toward the recovery of the history of ethnic minority women of The United Methodist Church as a special resource for the missional priority on Ethnic Minority Local Churches.

(5) Discover, catalogue and promote the resources for utilization in the planning for the celebrations of the bicentennial of Methodism in order to insure the full representation of women. And further, we call upon the General Conference to provide adequate funding for the effective implementation of the above proposal.

(Note: The recommendation of the General Council on Finance and Administration in response to this referral is found in its Report No. 22; see Journal, page 1790).

The committee recommends concurrence with the following amended petition from Black Methodists for Church Renewal, Inc.:

Whereas, an examination and reassessment of America's church history reflects a significant omission of the contribution of black people outside and within The United Methodist Church; and

Whereas, this history now lies almost dormant and uneventful in the life of the Church; and

Whereas, a serious effort should now be made to flush this history out of the religious milieu in order to dispel the myths that have accumulated over the years, and to place in proper perspective black witnessing to Christ.

Be It Resolved, that the commission intentionally seek out those blacks who have historical records in their possession as well as those who can contribute to the facts from an oral tradition.

Subject: Resolution Concerning Relationship with American Indian Movement

Date: April 22, 1980

Petitions: J-01090

Membership 74; Present 48; For 45; Against 3; Not Voting 0.

The committee recommends referral to the Board of Church and Society. On the matter of the Commission on Self-Development the Committee has acted on a previous petition J-01036 and related petitions.

The future relationship between the American Indian Movement and The United Methodist Church will be based on action taken by the Church according to the following resolution:

Whereas, The American Indian Movement presented eight challenges to The United Methodist Church at the Board of Global Ministries in Minneapolis, Minnesota; and

Whereas, the challenges were designed to bring about self-determination and recognition of the Church's responsibility to work for social change inside and outside the church; and

Whereas, these challenges were endorsed and supported by the General Conference for implementation; and

Whereas, the challenges called for an Indian controlled commission to implement these challenges; and

Whereas, the United Methodists have in the past eight years failed to recognize the Indian self-determination at the Commission level within their own church; and

Whereas, the American Indian Movement has developed many community-based, Indian-controlled programs with very limited support from the churches; and

Whereas, these programs developed by American Indian Movement address the issues of treaty rights, alternative education, legal rights, housing, health, and training for (sic); and further expansion of these programs are limited due to lack of endorsement and support by the United Methodist and other church denominations; and

Whereas, the church holds thousands of acres of Indian land granted to them by Indian people and the U.S. Government; and

Whereas, The United Methodist Church solicits millions of dollars annually to address the needs of minorities and poor people; and

Whereas, the conditions of Indian people continue to deteriorate on a national and international level through the genocidal policies of various governments and regimes in the Western Hemisphere and through land and resource acquisition by multi-national corporations, sterilization, mass murder, denial of religious freedom—

Now therefore be it resolved that:

The American Indian Movement supports the efforts of the Native American Study Committee, and it calls for The United Methodist Church to establish a Commission on Native American Self-Development to investigate and develop a policy to expand and to continue existing support for programs developed by Native Americans, in order to bring about liberation, freedom, and spiritual and economic development.

Report No. 72

Subject: Comity Agreements Affecting Development of Native American Ministries by The United Methodist Church

Date: April 19, 1980

Petitions: Resolution

Membership 74; Present 46; For 42; Against 2; Not Voting 2.

The committee recommends concurrence with the resolution contained in the report of The Study Committee on Native American Ministries as follows:

Whereas, certain annual conferences of The United Methodist Church have used the alleged Comity Agreement as the basis for their functional relationship among native Americans, limiting their capability to develop native American ministries in certain geographical areas, and

Whereas, the effects of practicing the concept of a Comity Agreement by The United Methodist Church have resulted in the failure of the church to follow through with the Biblical mandate of propagating the Gospel to all nations and further, caused the failure of the church to create the climate for leadership development of native Americans, and

Whereas, it is concluded, on the basis of data collected, that a Comity Agreement, limiting The United Methodist Church to certain geographical areas of ministry to native Americans, does not exist, and

Whereas, such a Comity Agreement would be discriminatory in that it would violate the right of native Americans to associate with the denomination of their choice, now

Therefore Be It Resolved, that the 1980 General Conference be requested to approve the following resolution for inclusion in the 1980 Book of Resolutions and subsequent publications:

That The United Methodist Church states, as a matter of policy, that it is not a party to any interdenominational agreement that limits the ability of any annual conference in any jurisdiction to develop and resource programs of ministry of any kind among native Americans, including the organization of local churches where necessary.

¶ 803. Definitions, Structures, and Titles.—I. General Council.—An organization created by the General Conference to perform defined responsibilities of review and oversight on behalf of the General Conference in relation to the other general agencies and to perform other assigned functions shall be designated as a general council. General councils are amenable and accountable to the General Conference and report to it. These councils are the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries.

(Note: The Council of Bishops and Judicial Council are authorized by the Constitution and not created by the General Conference.)

2. General Board.—A continuing body of the Church created by the General Conference to carry out assigned functions of program, administration, and/or service shall be designated as a general board. Each general board, so far as possible, shall adopt the following levels in agency organization:

a) Division—an organizational unit within a general board along functional lines for the purpose of accomplishing a part of the total work of the general board.

b) Section—a functional subunit of a division.

c) Office—a support service unit within a general board.

3. a) General Commission—An organization created by the General Conference for the fulfillment of a specific function for either an indefinite or a limited period of time, shall be designated as a general commission.

b) Standing General Commission—A commission created by the General Conference for the fulfillment of a specific function for an indefinite period of time shall be designated as a standing general commission.

4. Study Committee.—An organization created by the General Conference for a limited period of time for the purpose of making a study ordered by the General Conference shall be designated as a study committee (of the General Conference).

5. Program-related General Agencies.—The general boards and commissions which have program and/or advocacy functions shall be designated as program-related general agencies. These agencies are amenable to the General Conference and between sessions of the General Conference are accountable to the General Council on Ministries: the General Board of Church and Society, the General Board of Discipleship, the General Board of Global Ministries, the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry, the Standing General Commission on Christian Unity and Inter-religious Concerns, the Standing General Commission on Religion and Race, and the Standing General Commission on the Status and Role of Women.

6. Administrative General Agencies.—The general boards and commissions which have primarily administrative and service functions shall be designated as administrative general agencies. These agencies are the General Board of Pensions, the General Board of Publication, the Standing General Commission on Archives and History, and the Standing General Commission on Communication, which also carries program-related functions for which it is accountable to the General Council on Ministries.

7. Each general agency, unless otherwise provided, shall adopt the following executive staff titles:

a) General Secretary.—the chief staff officer of a general agency. Each general agency is entitled to only one general secretary, who is its chief administrative officer.

b) Associate General Secretary.—the associate staff officer of a general agency, or the chief staff officer of a division of a general agency.

c) Assistant General Secretary.—the assistant staff officer of a general agency, or the chief staff officer of a section or office of a general agency.

8. Missional Priority.—A missional priority is a response to a critical need in God's world which calls for The United Methodist Church's massive and sustained effort through primary attention and ordering or reordering of program and budget at every level of the Church, as adopted by the General Conference or in accord with ¶ 1005.1 of the 1976 Book of Discipline. This need is evidenced by research or other supporting data, and the required response is beyond the capacity of any single general agency or Annual Conference.

9. Special Program.—A special program is a quadrennial emphasis approved by the General Conference and assigned to a general agency, designed in response to a distinct opportunity or need in God's world which is evidenced by research or other supporting data, and proposes achievable goals within the quadrennium.

10. Program.—A program is ongoing or special activity designed and implemented to fulfill a basic disciplinary function of a general agency accountable to the General Council on Ministries.

11. Association or Fellowship.—Organizations not created by nor officially related to the General Conference, and intended to provide professional relationships conducive to sharing professional techniques and information for groups within the denomination, shall be designated as associations or fellowships.

Delete all of Chapter Nine, Section II, Pars. 2520 through 2560 of 1976 Book of Discipline, and substitute the following:

Chapter Nine—Judicial Administration Pars. 2501-2526

Section II. Investigations, Trials and Appeals

Par. 2520. Preliminary Assumptions. The following procedures are presented as much for the protection of the rights of individuals guaranteed under Section III, Article IV, of our Constitution as they are for the protection of the Church. The innocence of the accused is assumed unless and until the facts of the case prove otherwise.

Par. 2521. Chargeable Offenses. 1. A bishop, ministerial member of an Annual Conference (Par. 412), local pastor or diaconal minister may choose a trial when charged with one or more of the following offenses: a) immorality; b) practices declared by The United Methodist Church to be incompatible with Christian teachings; c) crime; d) failure to perform the work of the ministry: 1) indifference, 2) incompetence, 3) inefficiency; e) disobedience to the order and discipline of The United Methodist Church; f) dissemination of doctrines contrary to the established standards of doctrine of the church; g) relationships and/or behavior which undermines the ministry of another pastor.

2. A lay member may choose a trial when charged with the following offenses: a) immorality; b) crime; c) disobedience to the order and discipline of The United Methodist Church; d) dissemination of doctrines contrary to the established standards of doctrine of the Church.

Par. 2522. Charges. Charges against bishops, ministerial members, local pastors, diaconal ministers, and lay members shall be subject to the following guidelines:

1. A charge shall not allege more than one offense; several charges against the same person, however, with the specifications under each one of them, may be presented at one and the same time and tried together. When several charges are tried at the same time, a vote on each specification and charge must be taken separately.

2. Amendments may be made to a bill of charges at the discretion of the presiding officer; provided that they relate to the form of statement only and do not change the nature of the alleged offense and do not introduce new matter of which the accused has not had due notice.

3. Charges and specifications for all trials shall define the offense in keeping with the provisions of Par. 2521 and shall state in substance the facts upon which said charges are based.

Par. 2523. Investigation Procedures. A. General—1) All accusations shall be submitted in writing and signed by the accuser; 2) no charge shall be considered for any alleged offense which shall not have been committed within two years immediately preceding the filing of the complaint; 3) if possible, the accused and accuser shall be brought face to face, but the inability to do this shall not invalidate an investigation. Other supporting witnesses shall not be permitted at the investigation; 4) the parties may be represented by counsel at an investigation; 5) proceedings in the investigation shall be informal. No oaths shall be taken. All procedural decisions shall be made by the chairperson and shall be final; 6) the appropriate Committee on Investigation (Pars. 2522.B and 2522.C) shall conduct the investigation, and if in the judgment of a majority of the committee there is reasonable ground for such accusation, they shall prepare and sign the proper charges (the general offense or offenses under Par. 2521), and the specifications (the time, place and specifics of events alleged to have taken place). They shall then forward a copy to the accused and to appropriate church officials (Pars. 2522.B4 and 2522.C4).

B. Investigation of a Bishop. 1) There shall be a Committee on Investigation consisting of seven elders in full connection elected by each Jurisdictional or Central Conference, with not more than one elder from each Annual Conference, if possible. Three reserves shall also be elected. The committee and its chairperson shall be elected on nomination of the College of Bishops; 2) if a bishop shall be accused in writing of any of the offenses in Par. 2521, the President of the College of Bishops (or, if the accused is the President, the Secretary) shall convene the Committee on Investigation within sixty days of receiving such accusation; 3) in the best interests of the bishop and the episcopal area, in exceptional circumstances the College of Bishops may suspend the bishop pending investigation; 4) any charges and specifications adopted shall be sent to the accused, to the secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference, and to the President and Secretary of the College of Bishops; 5) if five or more of the committee so recommend, the College of Bishops may suspend the bishop pending trial.

C. Investigation of a ministerial member of an Annual Conference, local pastor or diaconal minister.

1. There shall be a Committee on Investigation consisting of seven elders in full connection nominated by the presiding bishop and elected by the Annual Conference. Three reserve members shall also be elected.

2. If a ministerial member of an Annual Conference, local pastor or diaconal minister shall be accused in writing of any of the offenses in Par. 2521, the accused person's district superintendent shall within sixty days of receiving such accusation convene the Committee on Investigation. (If the accused is a district superintendent the bishop shall appoint another district superintendent as convener.)

3. In the best interests of the ministerial member or local pastor, in exceptional circumstances the presiding bishop may, with the unanimous concurrence of the district superintendents, suspend the accused from all ministerial responsibilities pending investigation.

4. Any charges and specifications adopted (Par.2522.A6) shall be sent to the accused, the Secretary of the Annual Conference, the accused person's district superintendent and the presiding bishop.

5. If five or more of the Committee on Investigation so recommend, the bishop may suspend the accused from all ministerial responsibilities pending trial.

D. Investigation of a Lay Member. 1) If charges of offenses under Par. 2521 are made in writing to the pastor in charge against a member of the Church, the pastor in charge shall appoint a Committee on Investigation, consisting of seven lay members of the Church in good standing. The pastor shall preside at the investigation, and the district superintendent shall be informed of the investigation and have the right to be present; 2) any charges and specifications adopted shall be sent to the accused, to the recording secretary of the Charge Conference, the pastor and the district superintendent; 3) if five or more of the committee so recommend, the pastor may suspend the accused lay person from exercising any church office pending trial.

Par. 2524. Trial Procedures. A. General.—1. Church trials are to be regarded as an expedient of last resort. Only after every reasonable effort has been made to correct any wrong and adjust any existing difficulty should steps be taken to institute a trial. No such trial as herein provided shall be construed to deprive the accused of legal civil rights. All trials shall be conducted in a consistent Christian manner by a properly constituted court after due investigation. The administration of oaths shall not be required.

2. Officers of the Trial Court. Officers shall consist of a presiding officer (Par. 2524.B, 2524.C, 2524.D) and a secretary appointed by the presiding officer.

3. Convening of the Court. The official charged with convening the court (see Pars. 2524.B.1, 2524.C.1, 2524.D.1) shall, within twenty days after receiving a copy of the charges and specifications, appoint counsel for the Church and notify the accused in writing to appear at a fixed time and place no less than ten days after service of such notice and within a reasonable time thereafter to select the members of the Trial Court. At the appointed time in the presence of the accused, counsel for the accused, counsel for the Church, and the presiding officer, thirteen persons shall be selected as Trial Court out of a pool of 21 persons selected according to Pars. 2524.B.3, 2524.C.3, or 2524.D.3. The counsel for the Church and the accused shall each have up to four peremptory challenges and challenges for cause without limit. If by reason of challenges for cause being sustained the number is reduced to below 13, additional appropriate persons shall be nominated, in like manner as was the original panel to take the places of the numbers challenged, who likewise shall be subject to challenge for cause. This method of procedure shall be followed until a Trial Court of 13 members has been selected.

4. Time and Place of Trial. The official charged with convening the Trial Court (Pars. 2524.B.1, 2524.C.1, and 2524.D.1) shall also fix the time and place for the trial, which may immediately follow the convening of the Trial Court, if notice of the convening so specified. If such notice was not provided, then the presiding officer shall fix the time and place for the trial not less than ten days following the convening of the Trial Court, unless all parties consent to an earlier trial. Announcement of this trial date may be made at the time of the original convening of the Trial Court.

5. Notice. a) All notices required or provided for in the chapter shall be in writing, signed by or on behalf of the person or body giving or required to give such notice, and shall be addressed to the person or body to whom it is required to be given. Such notices shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to the party or chief officer of the body to whom it is addressed in person or by registered mail addressed to the last-known residence or address of such party. The fact of the giving of the notice shall affirmatively appear over the signature of the party required to give such notice and becomes a part of the record of the case.

b) In all cases wherein it is provided that notice shall be given to a bishop or district superintendent and the charges are against that particular person, then such notice (in addition to being given to the accused) shall be given in the case of a bishop, to another bishop, within the same Jurisdiction and, in the case of a district superintendent, to the bishop in charge.

6. Counsel. In all cases an accused person shall be entitled to appear and be represented by counsel, a ministerial member of The United Methodist Church if the accused is a bishop, a ministerial member, a local pastor, or a diaconal minister, and a lay member of the said Church if the accused is a lay member. An accused person shall be entitled to have counsel heard in oral or written argument or both. The interest of the Church shall be represented by a ministerial member selected by the bishop. In all cases of trial where counsel has not been provided, such counsel shall be appointed by the presiding officer. The counsel for the Church and for the accused each shall be entitled to choose one assistant counsel who may be an attorney.

7. Witnesses. Notice to appear shall be given to such witnesses as either party may name and shall be issued in the name of the Church and be signed by the presiding officer of the Trial Court. It shall be the duty of a minister or a member of the Church to appear and testify when summoned.

8. Power of the Trial Court. The court thus constituted shall have full power to try the accused and upon conviction by a vote of nine or more thereof shall have power to suspend the accused from the exercise of the functions of office, to remove the accused from office or the ministry or both, to expel the accused from the Church, or in case of conviction of minor offenses to fix a lesser penalty. Its findings shall be final, subject to appeal to the Court on Appeals of the Jurisdictional Conference or the Central Conference, as the case may be.

9. Trial Guidelines. a) As soon as the trial has convened, the accused shall be called upon by the presiding officer to plead to the charge, and the pleas shall be recorded. If the accused pleads "guilty" to the charges preferred, no trial shall be necessary, but evidence may be taken with respect to the appropriate penalty, which shall thereupon be imposed. If the accused pleads "not guilty" or if the accused should neglect or refuse to plead, the plea of "not guilty" shall be entered, and the trial shall proceed. The court may adjourn from time to time as convenience or necessity may require. The accused shall, at all times during the trial except as hereinafter mentioned, have the right to produce testimony and that of witnesses and to make defense.

b) If in any case the accused person, after due notice (ten days) has been given, shall refuse or neglect to appear at the time and place set forth for the hearing, the trial may proceed in the accused's absence. However, if, in the judgment of the presiding officer there is good and sufficient reason for the absence of the accused, the presiding officer may reschedule the trial to a later date.

c) In all cases sufficient time shall be allowed for the person to appear at the given place and time and for the accused to prepare for the trial. The presiding officer shall decide what constitutes "sufficient time."

d) The court shall be a continuing body until the final disposition of the charge. If any member of the court shall be unable to attend all the sessions, that person shall not vote upon the final determination of the case, but the rest of the court may proceed to judgment. It shall require a vote of at least nine members of the court to sustain the charges.

e) All objections to the regularity of the proceedings and the form and substance of charges and specifications shall be made at the first session of the trial. The presiding officer, upon the filing of such objections, shall, or by motion may, determine all such preliminary objections and may dismiss the case or in furtherance of truth and justice permit amendments to the specifications or charges not changing the general nature of the same. But after the Trial Court is selected as provided for in Par. 2524.4 and convened for the trial, the authority of the presiding officer shall be limited to ruling upon proper representation of the Church and the accused, admissibility of evidence, recessing, adjourning and reconvening sessions of the trial, and such other authority as is normally vested in a civil court judge sitting with a jury, but he shall not have authority to pronounce any judgment in favor of or against the accused other than such verdict as may be returned by the Trial Court, which body shall have the exclusive right to determine the innocence or guilt of the accused.

f) Objections of any party to the proceedings shall be entered on the record.

g) No witness afterward to be examined shall be present during the examination of another witness if the opposing party objects. Witnesses shall be examined first by the party producing them, then cross-examined by the opposite party, after which any member of the court or either party may put additional questions. The presiding officer of the court shall determine all questions of relevancy and competency of evidence.

h) The presiding officer shall not deliver a charge reviewing or explaining the evidence or setting forth the merits of the case. The presiding officer shall express no opinion on the law or the facts while the court is deliberating unless the parties in interest be present. The presiding officer shall remain and preside until the decision is rendered and the findings are completed, and shall thereupon sign and certify them.

i) The testimony shall be taken by a stenographer, if convenient, or recorded by other appropriate means, and reduced to writing and certified by the presiding officer and secretary. The record, including all exhibits, papers and evidence in the case, shall be the basis of any appeal which may be taken.

j) A witness to be qualified need not be a member of The United Methodist Church.

k) The presiding officer of any court before which a case may be pending shall have power, whenever the necessity of the parties or of witnesses shall require, to appoint, on the application of either party, a commissioner or commissioners, either a minister or a lay person or both, to examine the witnesses; provided that three days' notice of the time and place of taking such testimony shall have been given to the adverse party. Counsel for both parties shall be permitted to examine and crossexamine the witness or witnesses whose testimony is thus taken. The commissioners so appointed shall take such testimony in writing as may be offered by either party. The testimony properly certified by the signature of the commissioner or commissioners shall be transmitted to the presiding officer of the court before which the case is pending.

B. Trial of a Bishop.—1. The President of the College of Bishops of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference, or in case the accused is the President, the Secretary of the College, shall proceed to convene the court under the provisions of Par. 2524.A.4.

2. The President of the College of Bishops (or in the case the accused is the President, the Secretary) may preside or designate another bishop to serve as presiding officer.

3. The Trial Court shall be convened as provided in Par. 2524.A.3, with the 21 member pool to consist of 21 elders in full connection, named by the College of Bishops in approximately equal numbers from each episcopal area within the Jurisdictional or Central Conference.

4. Counsel for the Church shall be a bishop or another elder in full connection.

5. The Trial Court shall, at the conclusion of the proceedings, send all trial documents to the Secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference who shall keep them in custody. If an appeal is taken, the Secretary shall forward the materials forthwith to the Secretary of the Judicial Council. After the appeal has been heard, the records shall be returned to the Secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference.

6. A bishop suspended or removed from office shall have no claim upon the Episcopal Fund for salary, dwelling, or any other expenses from the date of such suspension or removal, but in case this bishop is thereafter found not guilty of the charge or charges for which suspended or removed, the bishop's claim upon the Episcopal Fund for the period during which deprived of the function of office shall be paid.

C. Trial of a Ministerial Member of An Annual Conference, Local Pastor or Diaconal Minister.

1. The bishop of the accused shall proceed to convene the court under the provisions of Par. 2524.A.4.

2. The bishop may preside, or may designate another bishop, a district superintendent, or elder in full connection to be presiding officer.

3. a) The trial court for a ministerial member shall be convened as provided in Par. 2524.A.3, with the 21 member pool to consist of elders in full connection. If there are not enough persons in appropriate categories in an Annual Conference to complete the pool, additional persons may be appointed from other Annual Conferences. All appointments to the pool shall be made by the district superintendents.

b) The trial court for a local pastor shall be convened as provided in Par. 2524.A.3, and shall consist of a 21 member pool who shall be local pastors, or, when necessary, members of the Church.

c) The trial court for a diaconal minister shall be convened as provided in Par. 2524.A.3, and shall consist of a 21 member pool who shall be diaconal ministers, or, when necessary, members of the Church.

4. Counsel for the Church shall be an elder in full connection.

5. The Trial Court shall, at the conclusion of the proceedings, send all trial documents to the Secretary of the Annual Conference who shall keep them in custody. Such documents are to be held in a confidential file and shall not be released for other than appeal purposes without a signed release from both the accused minister and the presiding officer of the Trial Court which tried the case. If an appeal is taken, the Secretary shall forward the materials forthwith to the President of the Court of Appeals of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference. If a president has not been elected, the Secretary shall send the materials to such members of the Court of Appeals as the President of the College of Bishops shall designate. After the appeal has been heard, the records shall be returned to the Secretary of the Annual Conference, unless a further appeal on a question of law has been made to the Judicial Council, in which case the relevant documents shall be forwarded to the President of that body.

D. Trial of Lay Member.—1. The district superintendent of the accused shall proceed to convene the court under the provisions of Par. 2524.A.3.

2. The district superintendent may be the presiding officer, or may designate another elder in full connection to preside.

3. The Trial Court shall be convened as provided in Par. 2524.A.3, with the 21-member pool to consist of lay members in good standing of the accused's local church.

4. Counsel for the Church shall be a lay person who is a member in good standing.

5. The Trial Court shall, at the conclusion of the proceeding, deposit all trial documents with the secretary of the Charge Conference. If an appeal is taken, the secretary shall deliver all documents to the district superintendent. After the appeal has been heard, the records shall be returned to the custody of the secretary of the Charge Conference.

Par. 2525. Appeal Procedures.

A. General.—1. In all cases of appeal the appellant shall within thirty days give written notice of appeal and at the same time shall furnish to the officer receiving such notice, and to the counsel for the Church, a written statement of the grounds of the appeal, and the hearing in the appellate court shall be limited to the grounds set forth in such statement.

2. When any appellate court shall reverse, in whole or in part, the findings of a Charges Committee or a Trial Court, or remand the case for a new hearing or trial, or change the penalty imposed by that committee or court, it shall return to the convening officer of the Charges Committee or Trial Court a statement of the grounds of its action.

3. An appeal shall not be allowed in any case in which the accused has failed or refused to be present in person or by counsel at the investigation and the trial. Appeals, regularly taken, shall be heard by the proper appellate court, unless it shall appear to the said court that the appellant has forfeited the right to appeal by misconduct, such as refusal to abide by the findings of the Committee on Investigation or Trial Court; or by withdrawal from the Church; or by failure to appear in person or by counsel to prosecute the appeal; or prior to the final decision on appeal from conviction, by resorting to suit in the civil courts against the complainant or any of the parties connected with the ecclesiastical court in which the appellant was tried.

4. The right of appeal, when once forfeited by neglect or otherwise, cannot be revived by any subsequent appellate court.

5. The right to take and to prosecute an appeal shall not be affected by the death of the person entitled to such right. Heirs or legal representatives may prosecute such appeal as the appellant would be entitled to do if living.

6. The records and documents of the trial, including the evidence, and these only, shall be used in the hearing of any appeal.

7. In no case shall an appeal operate as suspension of sentence. The findings of the Committee on Investigation or the Trial Court must stand until they are modified or reversed by the proper appellate court.

8. The appellate court shall determine two questions only: a) Does the weight of the evidence sustain the charge or charges? b) Were there such errors of law as to vitiate the verdict? These questions shall be determined by the records of the trial and the argument of counsel for the Church and for the accused. The court shall in no case hear witnesses.

9. In all cases where an appeal is made and admitted by the appellate court, after the charges, findings, and evidence have been read and the arguments conclude, the parties shall withdraw, and the appellate court shall consider and decide the case. It may reverse, in whole or in part, the findings of the Committee on Investigation or the Trial Court, or it may remand the case for a new trial. It may determine what penalty, not higher than that affixed at the hearing or trial, may be imposed. If it neither reverses, in whole or in part, the judgment of the Trial Court, nor remands the case for a new trial, nor modifies the penalty, that judgment shall stand. The appellate court shall not reverse the judgment nor remand the case for a new hearing or trial on account of errors plainly not affecting the result. All decisions of the appellate court shall require a majority vote.

10. In all cases the right to present evidence shall be exhausted when the case has been heard once on its merits in the proper court, but questions of law may be carried on appeal, step by step, to the Judicial Council.

11. Errors or defects in judicial proceedings shall be duly considered when present on appeal.

a) In regard to cases where there is an investigation under Par. 2521 but no trial is held as a result thereof, errors of law or administration committed by those in charge of the investigation are to be corrected by the presiding officer of the next conference on request in open session, and in such event the conference may also order just and suitable remedies if injury resulted from such errors.

b) Errors of law or defects in judicial proceedings which are discovered on appeal are to be corrected by the presiding officer of the next conference upon request in open session, and in such event the conference may also order just and suitable remedies if injury has resulted from such errors.

B. Appeal of a Bishop.—1. A bishop shall have the right of appeal to the Judicial Council in case of an adverse decision by the Trial Court; provided that within thirty days after the conviction the bishop notify the secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference in writing of intention to appeal.

2. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference, on receiving notice of such appeal, to notify the secretary of the Judicial Council, and the Council shall fix the time and place for the hearing of the appeal and shall give due notice of the same to the appellant and to the secretary of the Jurisdictional or Central Conference, who in turn shall notify the counsel for the Church.

C. Appeal of a Ministerial Member of an Annual Conference, Local Pastor or Diaconal Minister.—1. Each Jurisdictional and Central Conference, upon nomination of the College of Bishops, shall elect a Court of Appeals, composed of nine itinerant elders, who have been at least six years successively members of The United Methodist Church, and an equal number of alternates. In addition, two local pastors and two alternates shall be elected in the same manner, to serve as members of the Court of Appeals in the event, and only in the event, that the appellant is a local pastor. In addition, the Court of Appeals shall have two diaconal ministers and two reserves elected in the same manner who will serve in the event, and only in the event, that the appellant is a diaconal minister. This court shall serve until its successors have been confirmed. This court shall have full power to hear and determine appeals of ministerial members taken from any Annual Conference within the jurisdiction. The court shall elect its own president and secretary and shall adopt its own rules of procedure, and its decisions shall be final, except that an appeal may be taken to the Judicial Council upon questions of law.

2. ## COMMISSION ON BLACK COLLEGES

(The Report of the Commission on Black Colleges was accepted by General Conference action on Report No. 137 of the Legislative Committee on Higher Education and Ministry; see Journal, page 1154. As a part of that action, a resolution contained in the report was amended and adopted; it is printed as amended below. The full text of the report may be found in the Advance Edition of the 1980 Daily Christian Advocate, pages E-9—E-20.)

The Commission on the Black Colleges recommends to the General Conference of 1980:

Whereas, the Methodist Episcopal Church organized the Freedmen's Aid Society in 1866 for the purpose of providing educational opportunities for the manumitted black slaves; and

Whereas, the Freedmen's Aid Society and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, established nonsegregating and unsegregated colleges for the primary purpose of educating black people; and

Whereas, the Freedmen's Aid Society, after having helped the West Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church establish one of the schools, later assumed responsibility for the same; and

Whereas, the black colleges made a significant contribution to racial progress in America and have played a unique role in advancing democracy; and

Whereas, people called United Methodists through the years have reaffirmed their commitment to these institutions through the Race Relations offerings, the Negro Colleges Advance; and

Whereas, the General Conference of The United Methodist Church in 1972 reaffirmed these long-standing commitments by establishing the Black College Fund;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the 1980 General Conference be requested to approve the following legislation:

1. New Par. 918—Black College Fund. The council [GCFA] shall recommend to the General Conference the sum which the church shall undertake for the black colleges and the method by which it shall be apportioned to the annual conferences in accordance with the provisions adopted by the 1972 General Conference in establishing the Black College Fund. The purpose of the fund is to provide financial support for current operating budgets and capital improvements of the black colleges related administratively to the church. The Division of Higher Education of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry shall administer the fund according to the guidelines for continuing support and a formula approved by the General Conference. Between sessions of the General Conference, these guidelines for continuing support and formula may be changed as necessary upon recommendation of the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges and the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry and the consent of the General Council on Finance and Administration. Promotion of the Black College Fund shall be by the Division of Higher Education, in consultation with the Council of Presidents and in cooperation with and with the assistance of the Joint Committee on Communications, the cost being a prior claim against the Black College Fund receipts and within a budget approved by the Division of Higher Education and the General Council on Finance and Administration.

2. That the current funds achieved annually be distributed to those black colleges whose eligibility under adopted guidelines of management, educational quality, and measurement by announced objectives shall be the precondition of participation. These guidelines shall be revised and administered by the Division of Higher Education of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry in consultation with the appropriate church bodies. The distribution shall be on the following formula which was recommended by the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges and approved by the Division of Higher Education: one-sixth of all monies be set aside for capital purposes to be distributed by the Division of Higher Education on the basis of need and matching grants, and the remainder to be distributed as follows: 75 percent assigned equally to each college; 20 percent distributed on the basis of enrollment; 5 percent distributed equally to each college annually for long-range planning, special academic programs, and challenge grants in complying with the guidelines established by the General Conference.

And Be It Further Resolved that the General Conference be requested to approve the following resolutions:

1. That continuing support of the black colleges shall be through the Black College Fund, an apportionment.

2. That the amount of this annual apportionment shall be as recommended by the General Council on Finance and Administration and approved by the General Conference, that full amount being apportioned to the annual conferences on the same formula used in apportioning the World Service Fund. The annual conferences shall apportion the fund to their local churches, on a formula of their choosing, as a priority to be met.

3. That annual conference treasurers remit monthly to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration the amounts received for this fund.

4. That the general treasurer remit receipts for this fund monthly to the Division of Higher Education of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry for distribution under formula approved by the division and the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges.

5. That administration and cultivation of this fund be vested in the Division of Higher Education of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry through the Office of the Black College Fund under the provisions set forth above.

6. That an annual conference may make additional direct and/or designated gifts for current expense purposes to one or more of these black colleges, but only after it has met its full apportioned share of the annual conference making the gift. There may be reasonable exceptions to this adjustment, but such exceptions shall be negotiated with the Division of Higher Education prior to implementation. Gifts for capital funds purposes may be made without reference to the restrictions in this section.

7. There shall be a standing committee of the University Senate to continue to study the areas of finance, location, church relationship, governance, and merger possibilities for the 12 black colleges historically related to The United Methodist Church. The committee shall be amenable both to the Division of Higher Education and the University Senate in the implementation of its responsibilities.

8. That the committee be constituted of twelve members as follows—

a) three members from the University Senate of The United Methodist Church, to be elected by the senate;

b) one member from the General Council on Finance and Administration, to be elected by the council;

c) one member from the General Council on Ministries, to be elected by the council;

d) one bishop to be elected by the Council of Bishops;

e) two members of the Division of Higher Education, including the associate general secretary of the Division of Higher Education and the chairperson of the Division of Higher Education;

f) two presidents of the black colleges, to be elected by the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges;

g) two members-at-large, to be elected by the Committee;

h) at least one member of the committee who must be a woman.

It is suggested that the General Conference adopt the following resolution:

“The United Methodist Church believes that our present Concordats with the Methodist Church in Great Britain, the Methodist Church of Mexico and the Methodist Church in the Caribbean and the Americas are significant means of fostering better understanding and closer communication and cooperation with churches with whom we share the Wesleyan tradition. We hereby express our desire to discuss similar Concordats with all other autonomous Methodist churches, especially where such arrangements can help us reach over boundaries of differing races or cultures.”

We, the Commission on Central Conference Affairs, rejoice in the Conference acceptance of the address from the laity.

We accept the challenge of strengthening our faith and increasing our evangelistic outreach to those who have not yet received the saving grace of Jesus Christ.

We lift up the need for those who are, by a matter of birth, fortunate enough to be citizens of nations of abundance, to be aware of the needs of less fortunate peoples.

We challenge the fortunate to be aware of their disproportionate consumption of the world's resources to the detriment of their brothers and sisters.

We join in the reaffirmation of John Wesley's belief in "diversity within unity" of the many people of God.

GENERAL COUNCIL ON FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION

Report No. 1 The World Service Fund

INTRODUCTION

The World Service Fund.—The World Service Fund is basic in the financial program of The United Methodist Church. World Service on apportionment represents the minimum needs of the general agencies of the Church. Payment in full of these apportionments by local churches and Annual Conferences is the first benevolent responsibility of the Church. (Par. 911)

The council shall recommend to each quadrennial session of the General Conference the amount of the annual World Service budget for the ensuing quadrennium and the method by which it shall be apportioned to the annual conferences. In cooperation with the General Council on Ministries it shall prepare and recommend a plan of distribution of World Service receipts among the World Service agencies, in accordance with the procedures described in Paragraph 906.1b. . . ." (Par. 911.1)

These two statements from the Book of Discipline are fundamental to an understanding of the church's financial support of the missional program of the general church. While the church does have several general funds, the World Service Fund is basic. Its support by annual conferences and local churches is essential to maintaining the health and vigor of the programs and institutions determined by General Conference to be supported by the World Service Fund. The World Service Fund should receive top priority in payment of apportionments among all general funds.

Each quadrennium careful attention has been given by the General Conference to the determination of the World Service goal; to the decision as to what agencies, programs, and institutions are included in the World Service Fund; and to the amount to be distributed to each of those agencies, programs, and institutions. These funds represent the gifts and sacrifices of United Methodists throughout the connection and are dedicated to funding certain missional needs. For these reasons, the General Conference must weigh thoughtfully the development of this budget.

Christian stewardship demands the utmost in the development and support of this fund. World Service dollars make possible a resourcing of annual conferences and local churches to assist them to be in effective mission. Through the development of leadership training enterprises, interpretive materials, research data, ministerial and lay development, church extension, and guidance in evangelism, education and worship, annual conferences and local churches are encouraged to reach their fullest potential in growth and development. Furthermore, World Service dollars make possible the extension of certain missional activities on a general church level. These missional activities strengthen the church's work and witness both at home and abroad.

The General Conference of 1972 in its restructuring process created two councils accountable to the General Conference and the United Methodist public—the General Council on Ministries, for program affairs; and the General Council on Finance and Administration, for fiscal affairs. Through this structural arrangement, the General Council on Finance and Administration has the responsibility of monitoring the financial support from the World Service Fund.

In fulfilling these responsibilities, the General Council on Finance and Administration, in cooperation with the program agencies, moved early in the 1973-1976 quadrennium to effect a centralized accounting, banking, and payroll system. This has resulted in substantial cost reductions, elimination of duplicatory services, more efficient handling of services, centralized accounting that produces meaningful control data, and increased earnings on short-term investments. Presently, all World Service agencies except the General Board of Global Ministries are included in these central services.

WORLD SERVICE FUND—1975-1978

During the years 1975-1978, receipts for the World Service Fund increased a total of 8.6 percent. The annual increases are shown in the following chart:

Year	World Service Receipts	Increase	Percent Increase
1975	$21,849,580	$ 164,126	.7%
1976	21,931,747	82,167	.4%
1977	23,225,972	1,294,225	5.9%
1978	23,556,164	330,192	1.4%

All other general funds during that same period increased a total of 31.3 percent, with the largest increase in 1977, when two new apportioned funds and two new General Advance Specials were introduced:

Year	Other General Fund Receipts	Increase	Percent Increase
1975	$36,067,433	$2,536,462	7.6%
1976	38,036,105	1,968,672	5.5%
1977	43,958,359	5,922,254	15.6%
1978	44,024,132	65,773	.2%

The 1978 receipts of all general funds, including World Service, totaled $67,580,296, which was 22 percent higher than the total 1974 receipts of $55,216,425.

Total local church expenditures for all purposes for those same years were:

Year	Total Expenditures	Increase	Percent Increase
1975	$1,081,080,372	$ 71,319,568	7.1%
1976	1,162,828,991	81,748,619	7.6%
1977	1,264,191,548	101,362,557	8.7%
1978	1,364,460,266	100,268,718	7.9%

In considering the financial contribution of United Methodists during the 1975-1978 years, it should be helpful to examine the membership statistics for those years:

Year	Membership Reported	Percent Change
1975	9,861,028	- 1.0%
1976	9,785,534	- .8%
1977	9,731,780	- .6%
1978	9,650,676	- .8%

It is interesting to compare the annual per capita giving of United Methodists in the three general categories noted above. The chart below lists that information for the World Service Fund, for all other general funds, and for total local church expenditures (which includes the first two amounts):

Per Capita Giving

Year	World Service	All Other General Funds	Total Local Church Expenditures
1975	$2.22	$3.66	$109.63
1976	2.24	3.89	118.83
1977	2.39	4.52	129.90
1978	2.44	4.56	141.38

Per capita giving during the 1975–1978 period increased 9.9 percent for World Service, 24.6 percent for all other general funds and 29.0 percent for total local church expenditures. During that same period, the Consumer Price Index increased 37 percent.

United Methodists must not lose sight of the basic benevolent responsibility of the general church. The World Service Fund is that responsibility. Annual conferences and local churches are encouraged to place the World Service Fund along with their own annual conference benevolence program as a first responsibility to be met before participation in designated giving. The basic missional and administrative work done on the general church level resources and gives direction to the local church, as well as undertakes missional programs on behalf of local churches and United Methodists. The World Service Fund also underwrites the costs incurred by some agencies which promote and administer designated gifts, making it possible for the entire amount of those designated gifts to be used for the purpose intended.

The 1976 General Conference adopted a World Service goal for the 1977-1980 quadrennium of $24,980,000 annually. During the first two years of the quadrennium, receipts toward that goal have been:

During 1977, 23 annual conferences paid their World Service apportionment in full and another 26 paid 90 percent or more. In 1978, 28 annual conferences paid 100 percent and another 23 paid 90 percent or more. However, had all the annual conferences and local churches paid the World Service apportionment in full, during those two years more than $3 million in additional funds would have been available to support the basic missional programs of The United Methodist Church.

In these times of economic uncertainty, United Methodists have been generous and loyal, and they have made possible many wonderful works for the kingdom of Christ. There is profound gratitude among the membership of the General Council on Finance and Administration that the membership of The United Methodist Church has responded as it has to the World Service Fund during this past quadrennium.

WORLD SERVICE BUDGET AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR DISTRIBUTION

In the development of the recommendations to this General Conference, the General Council on Finance and Administration has worked in close cooperation with the General Council on Ministries. The 1976 Discipline provided that in the development of the World Service Fund the General Council on Ministries, in planning for the new quadrennium, would determine the church's general program needs through consultation with the general program agencies and would recommend to the General Council on Finance and Administration the programs that the General Council on Ministries deems worthy of the church's support. The General Council on Ministries made those recommendations. In return, the General Council on Finance and Administration established and communicated to the General Council on Ministries the total sum proposed for distribution in the new quadrennium among the program agencies.

The General Council on Ministries, on the basis of program priorities, then recommended a plan of distribution of World Service funds for the new quadrennium to the General Council on Finance and Administration. The two councils then finalized a plan for distribution. This is the plan which is proposed to this General Conference.

This cooperative approach in developing the plan of distribution for the six program agencies accountable to the General Council on Ministries means that the agency which has program accountability has a major role in developing the initial recommendations to the General Conference for the distribution of funds intended for those agencies. The procedures as set forth in the Discipline have been followed. The General Council on Finance and Administration believes that this is a sound approach for the church.

The General Council on Finance and Administration held hearings related to those requests from administrative, promotional, and institutional causes in the World Service Fund budget which are not the responsibility of the General Council on Ministries. After a careful study of those requests and agreement with the General Council on Ministries on proposed allocations for the program agencies, the recommended World Service Fund apportionment for the 1981-84 quadrennium is now being proposed.

Recognizing present inflationary pressures, the General Council on Finance and Administration recommends to the 1980 General Conference a graduated World Service Fund apportionment for the 1981-1984 quadrennium as follows:

1983	31,196,620
1984	32,404,730

This recommendation includes the addition to the World Service Fund of the Mass Communications Fund and the following items which have previously been funded from other sources which are indicated:

Salary and Pension Assistance for Ethnic Minority Conferences—from the Temporary General Aid Fund

Hispanic, Asian and Native American Scholarships—from the Missional Priority Fund

Division of Chaplains and Related Ministries of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry—from the World Communion offering

General Commission on Chaplains—from the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund

Religion in American Life—from the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund.

After adjusting for the additions listed above (which total $1,643,000 and would increase the 1980 annual World Service apportionment to $26,623,000) the amounts being recommended represent annual increases above the previous year's apportionment of approximately 7 percent in 1981, 5 percent in 1982, 4 percent in 1983, and 4 percent in 1984. This will result in an increase of 22 percent in 1984 above 1980. The council believes that this new goal, when placed within the total financial commitments being recommended, is within the range of the possible and yet is sufficient to challenge United Methodists during the coming quadrennium.

The General Council on Finance and Administration, in making this recommendation to the General Conference, believes that annual conferences and local churches should seriously undertake to pay their respective apportionments in full. If the new goal is achieved, this would represent an increase in 1981 of 16.3 percent above the 1978 giving to World Service (adjusted to reflect recommended changes), an increase which would make possible many badly needed missional programs.

The General Council on Finance and Administration also recommends that the World Service Fund budget be constituted as shown in Table A (pages 1738-1739), it being understood that the General Council on Ministries joins in this recommendation for the six program agencies accountable to it.

DISTRIBUTION

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends that distribution of the World Service Fund be as follows:

1. Prior claims shall be paid as expended within the limits of the budget shown in Table A, up to the following annual totals:

1981	$1,992,500
1982	2,067,130
1983	2,129,810
1984	2,195,000

2. The balance of receipts for the World Service Fund shall be distributed according to the ratios shown in Table B for each year of the quadrennium. (See Table B, page 1740)

CONCLUSION

The General Council on Finance and Administration states emphatically that it does not consider the apportionments being recommended an adequate sum for the work of the World Service agencies. It therefore calls upon all annual conferences and all local churches to consider their apportionments as a base below which they will not fall, rather than a sum the payment of which signifies the payment of their total obligation to the World Service agencies. Annual conferences and local churches which call upon these agencies for aid must come to realize that these general agencies cannot meet increasing demands on them without having increased income.

The recommendation is therefore given to the church as a minimum challenge. The General Council on Finance and Administration expresses the sincere hope that the effort will be made everywhere to enlarge the services of these agencies to the church through the means of greatly increased giving to World Service.

Essential to carrying on the work of the World Service agencies is full compliance with Par. 718 of the 1976 Book of Discipline:

All amounts contributed in each local church for World Service and conference benevolences shall be remitted monthly by the local church treasurer to the conference treasurer, who shall each month divide the total amount thus received, setting aside the proper amount for World Service and the proper amount for conference benevolences, according to the ratio of each established by the annual conference in the total World Service and conference benevolence budget. The conference treasurer shall make monthly remittances of the share received for conference benevolences to the treasurers of the several agencies for conference work according to the rightful share and proportion of each. The treasurer shall remit monthly to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration the total share received for World Service. . . .

The General Council on Finance and Administration recognizes the difficult circumstances in which general agencies must operate in periods of low income and urges all local churches and annual conferences to respond according to the intent and purpose of Par. 718 at all times.

Report No. 2
Apportionment Formula

Report Number 2 is concerned with the method by which provisions of Reports numbered 1, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 are to be funded. Specifically, the approved budgets for the World Service, Temporary General Aid, General Administration, Interdenominational Cooperation, Black College, and Missional Priority funds are to be apportioned separately among the several annual conferences in an equitable fashion so that all annual conferences and their respective local churches will have full opportunity to be involved financially in the total mission of the church.

The 1976 Book of Discipline provides that this council shall recommend the formulas by which all apportionments to the annual conferences shall be determined, subject to the approval of the General Conference (Par. 906.1c).

In fulfilling this disciplinary directive, the council has sought to recommend a formula which it believes is based on the willingness and the ability of annual conferences and local churches to participate in the missional objectives of the general church supported by the general funds.

1. The World Service Fund. To insure that the total missional objectives of the World Service program will be fully realized, annual conferences shall be apportioned the World Service goal according to the formula which follows, and local churches should accept World Service and Conference Benevolences apportionments in full before undertaking Advance Special or other benevolent commitments. The General Council on Finance and Administration therefore recommends:

That the 1981 World Service Fund goal of $28,452,000 be apportioned to the several annual conferences on "decimals" derived from the following factors:

a. One-third, or $9,484,000, on the basis of the average lay church membership for the two reporting periods ending December 31, 1977, and December 31, 1978, as revealed in the General Minutes of the Annual Conferences of The United Methodist Church.

(1) The average lay membership for the above-mentioned years in the 68 annual conferences whose apportionments are determined by the formula is 9,615,569.

(2) The "decimal" for this one-third of the total apportionment is determined by dividing one-third of the amount to be apportioned on formula by the average membership, after taking into account the figures for those annual and missionary conferences which are exceptions to the formula [see Sections c, d below]. The resulting decimal is .9848713589.

b. Two-thirds, or $18,968,000, on the basis of Non/Building Expenditures (i.e., the total paid for all purposes minus payment on indebtedness, buildings, and improvements) based on the average figures for the years mentioned in a above.

(1) The average Non/Building Expenditures for the above-mentioned years in the annual conferences whose apportionments are determined by the formula is $1,042,245,895.

(2) The "decimal" for this two-thirds of the total apportionment is determined by dividing two-thirds of the amount to be apportioned on formula by the Non/Building figure, again after taking into account the figures for conferences which are exceptions to the formula. The resulting decimal is .0181914526.

The two resulting "decimals" are then applied to the appropriate figures for each annual conference, using the figures as shown in the 1978 and 1979 editions of the General Minutes of the Annual Conferences.

c. That the Puerto Rico and Rio Grande annual conferences and the Alaska, Oklahoma Indian, and Red Bird missionary conferences be exceptions to the above formula, and that the council be authorized to negotiate general fund apportionments with representatives of those annual and missionary conferences in amounts deemed equitable by the council and the conferences involved.

d. That funds paid by the churches of the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference for emergency cost pertaining to the Pacific Homes shall be excluded by the General Council on Finance and Administration from consideration in the computation of the World Service formula decimal for the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference for the 1981-84 quadrennium.

The council further recommends that, for the years 1982, 1983, and 1984, the amounts approved by the General Conference as the total of the World Service Fund for those years be apportioned to the several annual conferences on decimals determined by means of the procedure specified above. The decimals will continue to be based on the average membership and the average local church non-building expenditures for 1977 and 1978.

2. The Temporary General Aid, General Administration, Interdenominational Cooperation, Black College, and Missional Priority Funds. It is the council's recommendation that the respective amounts approved by the General Conference as goals for these five funds be apportioned to the annual conferences by means of the same formula as is used for apportioning the World Service Fund.

Accordingly, it is recommended that:

a. One-third of the goal approved for each of these funds for each year of the quadrennium be apportioned in the manner described in Section 1a of this report.

b. Two-thirds of the goal approved for each of these funds for each year of the quadrennium be apportioned in the manner described in Section 1b of this report.

c. The apportionments for these five funds to the Alaska, Oklahoma Indian, and Red Bird missionary conferences and the Puerto Rico and Rio Grande annual conferences be amounts determined by negotiation between the council and these conferences, as authorized in 1c above.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal page 473.)

Report No. 3 The Episcopal Fund

The General Council on Finance and Administration presents to the General Conference the following recommendation concerning items in the Episcopal Fund budget for the quadrennium beginning January 1, 1981:

I. Bishops Elected by Jurisdictional Conferences

A. Salary

The salary, including the housing allowance, of an effective bishop shall be at an annually graduated scale as follows:

January 1, 1981-December 31, 1981	$42,000
January 1, 1982-December 31, 1982	45,000
January 1, 1983-December 31, 1983	48,000
January 1, 1984-December 31, 1984	51,000

Each bishop shall certify annually to the General Council on Finance and Administration his/her housing expenses on forms provided by the council for its approval and use in excluding such housing allowance from reportable income.

B. Pensions

1. Background. The pension benefit for a retired bishop or bishop's surviving spouse is changed by action in this report to provide a more equitable benefit as well as larger benefits, with a significant increase for the surviving spouse.

Historically, the bishop's entire pension (except for certain non-church funded pensions from institutional service) was paid by the Episcopal Fund on a uniform benefit basis. The benefit was the same whether a few or many years had been served by the bishop. Then in 1972 a revision was made whereby the bishop could receive either a minimum benefit for all service or a proportion of the minimum for each year of service to a maximum of 20 years for 100 percent of the benefit plus the years times rate for years of conference credit at the conference rates. This provided a larger benefit for those with longer service as a bishop. All these benefits were paid entirely by the Episcopal Fund. The new proposal in this report provides a pension benefit for years of service as a bishop, with other years of service being paid by the agency or conference where service was rendered based on their pension plan. Also, if the General Conference adopts the MPP-CPP Plan, the necessary provisions are provided to include the bishops in this plan.

2. Bishops Retiring in 1980 and thereafter.

a. The initial pension of a retiring bishop shall be determined by the following guidelines and paid on this basis through Dec. 31 in the year of retirement.

(1) For each year of active episcopal service up to 20 years, a retiring bishop elected by a Jurisdictional Conference shall receive 1/20th of 30 percent of the compensation (cash salary and housing allowance) of an active bishop.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1982, however, all active bishops' pensions shall be incorporated in The United Methodist Ministerial Pension Plan (MPP) and the Comprehensive Protection Plan (CPP) for years of service as a bishop. The pension plan now known as the Episcopal Pension Program shall thereby cease for service after Jan. 1, 1982. Pension credits earned by individual bishops prior to 1982 in the Episcopal Pension Program shall be paid on the basis of that plan.

The 3 percent reduction from salary will be required with the accumulations credited to the bishop's personal account.

(2) A bishop's claim for prior years of service as a conference claimant in an annual conference or conferences shall be paid from the Episcopal Fund at the respective conference pension rate(s) prevailing at the time of retirement. Notwithstanding these provisions, for bishops elected in 1980 and thereafter, the pensions earned prior to election to the episcopacy, including any post-retirement adjustments, shall remain the responsibility of the annual conference(s), general board or agency, and/or institution, wherever such service occurred.

- (3) A bishop's claim for prior years of unfunded service in a general agency for which the earned pension was funded by the Episcopal Fund shall be paid at the rate of $100 per service year by means of the Episcopal Pension Reserve.
  - (4) If the initial total pension amount for a retiring bishop for both episcopal service years and for service years under appointment, i.e. annual conference(s), general board(s) and agency(ies) and institution(s), is less than $10,500, then any difference between that amount and $10,500 shall be paid from the Episcopal Fund.
- b. Effective January 1, 1981, the cost of living increases on pensions being paid from the Episcopal Fund shall be based on the same percentage as all other bishops retired prior to 1980.

3. Bishops in Retired Relation. For those bishops retired prior to the jurisdictional conferences of 1980, the following procedure for cost-of-living increases shall prevail on amounts paid from the Episcopal Fund: The percentage of increase in 1981 shall be 14 percent based on the combined pension and housing allowance amounts of the preceding year, and 7 percent for each of the three remaining years in the quadrennium based on the combined amount of each preceding year.

4. Housing Allowance. Income tax exclusion for housing for retired bishops shall be authorized upon individual certification of housing expenses as submitted annually in advance to the General Council on Finance and Administration on forms provided by the council. Notification of such approved, certified amount shall then be forwarded to each bishop for his/her use in filing tax returns.

5. Salary Continuance for the Surviving Spouse. The surviving spouse of a bishop shall receive the full salary (or pension, if retired) of the bishop for the three months immediately following the month when death occurred, after which the pension of the surviving spouse shall take effect as stipulated hereunder.

6. Pensions for the Surviving Spouse.

- a. At the death of a bishop on or after the closing date of the 1980 Jurisdictional Conference, the pension for the surviving spouse shall initially be 70 percent of the pension benefits of the retired bishop, or 70 percent of the pension rights stipulated in this report if the bishop were not retired.
- b. Consistent with the provisions of the preceding paragraph, all other surviving spouses of bishops shall receive a base increase of $1,800 to be effective Jan. 1, 1981.
- c. Thereafter, the same percentage of the cost-of-living increase prevailing for the retired bishops of 7 percent over the combined pension and housing allowance of each preceding year shall be applicable for all surviving spouses.
- d. The benefits of the surviving spouse in the MPP-CPP Plan shall prevail for years of service of the bishop after Jan. 1, 1982.
- e. To receive benefits as a surviving spouse the marriage must have taken place prior to the bishop's retirement.

7. Children of Deceased Bishops. The General Council on Finance and Administration shall determine the amounts to be allowed for the support of minor-aged children of the deceased bishops and for children who are at the time of a bishop's death of mental or physical incapacity to provide for their own self-support.

Beginning January 1, 1982, the provision for children of evident mental or physical incapacity will be found in the Comprehensive Protection Plan of the General Board of Pensions.

C. Office Allowance

1. Each effective bishop shall be allowed annually a sum as needed for office expense, but not to exceed the maximum amounts as follows:

1981—	$23,000
1982—	$25,000
1983—	$27,000
1984—	$29,000

The Office Allowance Budget of each bishop shall consist of the following items of expenses:

- a. Staff Salary—full or part-time
- b. Employee Benefits
- c. Occupancy Expense (rent, utilities, etc.)
- d. Office Supplies
- e. Printing & Copying
- f. Equipment Maintenance
- g. Professional Entertainment and Courtesies
- h. Audit Expense
- i. Postage Expense
- j. Episcopal Office Share of Workmen's Compensation Insurance
- k. Miscellaneous items related to the operation of the episcopal office.

2. Budgets of the episcopal office expenses shall be subject to the approval of the General Council on Finance and Administration annually in advance on approved forms provided by the council.

3. In accordance with Par. 906.4 of the 1976 Book of Discipline, and as required by the Audit and Review Committee of the council, an annual audit by certified public accountants shall be sent to the General Council on Finance and Administration. A complete inventory of episcopal office equipment and furnishings shall be maintained and kept on file with the council.

4. Purchase of office equipment and furnishings shall be a reimbursable expense and request for purchase shall be submitted on forms provided by the council for prior approval. Payment shall be made on submission of an invoice.

5. The local telephone and telegraph expense and long distance calls expense shall be reimbursable on submission of copies of bills, or voucher from the agency if the telephone system is shared.

D. Moving Expenses

Moving expenses of bishops, including retiring bishops, shall be paid upon the submission of an itemized statement of expenses with an accompanying copy of the freight bill. The Episcopal Fund shall be responsible for the payment of only one moving expense incident to the assignment of a newly elected bishop, to the reassignment of an active bishop, or to a retiring bishop. Storage expense is not a reimbursable item.

After Aug. 31, in the year of election or retirement, no payment shall be made for bishops' expenses of travel, including transportation, lodging, meals, and incidentals, arising from inability of the bishop to move to a newly assigned area. Exception to this policy may be considered by the council.

The provisions of the paragraphs under "Moving Expense" shall be in effect upon the adjournment of the General Conference.

E. Travel

1. Cost of all official travel of each effective bishop shall be paid upon presentation of an itemized statement of expense on forms provided by the council accompanied by supporting data according to instructions on the forms. Data specifically required by the General Council on Finance and Administration are the customer's copy of the airline ticket, car rental bill, and receipted hotel/motel bill. "Official Travel" shall be interpreted as including area and general church travel. Charges on general church travel shall be based upon the most direct route to specific meetings and return, unless travel is combined with another meeting en route scheduled just prior or just after one meeting.

2. Travel expense to annual, semiannual, or executive committee meetings of the general boards and agencies to which the bishop is assigned by the Council of Bishops or the General Conference shall be classified as a general church expense chargeable to the Episcopal Fund.

Expenses of travel to general board or agency meetings other than annual, semiannual, or executive committee meetings shall be chargeable to that board or agency. Travel to programmatic task forces or committees of the board or agency shall be charged to the program board or agency.

3. The allowance for travel by car within the episcopal area shall be at a rate determined on an annual basis by the General Council on Finance and Administration. The allowance for travel by car outside the episcopal area shall be at a rate not to exceed the mileage rate allowed and shall not exceed 1,000 miles for any one roundtrip. If the roundtrip is over 1,000 miles, the roundtrip coach airfare will be paid instead of mileage. Expenses incidental to travel by car (hotel/motel, meals, tips) are reimbursable.

4. Travel for addresses and lectures for which an honorarium is received is not official travel.

5. The travel expense of the bishop to meetings of the Council of Bishops and the College of Bishops shall be paid.

6. Travel of bishops to any meetings of ecumenical agencies such as the National Council of Churches, the World Council of Churches, and the Consultation on Church Union shall be chargeable to the travel fund of the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund.

7. Travel expenses of bishops to attend the executive committee meetings of the World Methodist Council of which the bishop is a member as affirmed by the Council of Bishops may be charged to the Episcopal Fund.

8. Travel expense incurred by retired bishops resident in the United States in attending the meetings of the General and Jurisdictional conferences, the semiannual meetings of the Council of Bishops and any official meetings of the College of Bishops of which the bishop is a member shall be paid from the Episcopal Fund.

9. General Church, International, and Special Travel.

a. The Council of Bishops shall determine and schedule the travel of its members on international visitations, and such expenses are reimbursable from the Episcopal Fund. Authorized travel by the Council of Bishops shall be certified to the General Council on Finance and Administration by the Secretary of the Council of Bishops.

b. "Travel within the connection at large" shall be defined as travel authorized by the Council of Bishops.

c. Travel to boards of trustees or directors meetings of United Methodist-related colleges, seminaries, or institutions shall be defined as "official travel" where membership in such bodies is by action of the General Conference, Jurisdictional Conference, Council of Bishops, College of Bishops, or an annual conference or conferences of the episcopal area. Expenses of members of meetings of boards of trustees or directors of colleges, universities, seminaries, or other institutions in which membership is by virtue of election by the board of trustees or directors of colleges only are not chargeable to the Episcopal Fund.

d. Expenses of travel to seminaries within or without the area to counsel with students from within the area or for recruitment purposes shall be chargeable to the Episcopal Fund.

e. Travel to jurisdictional meetings of committees, commissions, or task forces assigned by action of the College of Bishops shall be deemed "official travel."

f. Representative(s) designated by the Council of Bishops to attend a funeral of a bishop may charge such expenses to the Episcopal Fund. Expenses of a bishop to attend a funeral of a member of the same college may be charged to the Episcopal Fund, provided the funeral is held in the jurisdiction to which the deceased bishop belonged and provided further that the bishop desiring to attend resides within the jurisdiction.

g. The surviving spouse of a bishop shall be entitled to the payment of expenses to attend the memorial service of his/her deceased spouse scheduled at the Council of Bishops meeting.

h. Travel to meetings or causes beyond area travel shall be identified as to name(s) of meeting(s), date(s) and place(s).

i. Exclusions. Certain expenses considered as personal and not official are: travel expense to learned and fraternal societies, travel expense of commuting between residence and office, and gifts.

10. When the necessity arises, the Council of Bishops may send one of its number to organize and/or hold a conference or annual conferences outside the United States with the expense for same paid from the Episcopal Fund.

11. The travel expense of the spouse of a bishop shall not be a charge to the Episcopal Fund. This policy recommendation was reached by the council as a result of further review during 1976-80 in consultation with the Council of Bishops.

F. Renewal Leave

During the period of a renewal leave, the following financial arrangements shall be in effect:

1. Normal salary, including housing, will continue.
2. Reimbursable episcopal travel expenses will not be paid during renewal leave.
3. Expenses incurred by another member of the Council of Bishops in providing episcopal supervision during the absence of a bishop on renewal leave shall be reimbursed.

G. Disability Leave

This payment shall continue until official notification of the bishop's return to work is received. Should disability continue to retirement age, the regular pension as provided by the Episcopal Fund shall begin at the attainment of the retirement age for that bishop as designated in Par. 508.1.

a. Receipts on apportionment to the Episcopal Fund equal to 2 percent of the cash salary paid to pastor or pastors of each charge through the conference;

b. Complete annual budgets of episcopal offices, including recommended salaries and all allowances, on approved forms furnished by the General Council on Finance and Administration. The council shall send to the bishops elected by the central conferences, or to the treasurers administering funds of the episcopal offices, such remittances as the council shall determine. Where term episcopacy has been established, the pension provided shall be made only after a minister elected as a bishop by a central conference shall have reached the age of retirement as set by the central conference or shall have been retired for physical disability. In no case shall automatic retirement take effect before the sixty-fifth birthday.

6. The travel of the spouse of a bishop shall not be a charge to the Episcopal Fund.

D. Renewal Leave

The provisions of renewal leave under Paragraph I.F, 1-3, shall prevail for bishops in the central conferences, except that the expenses incurred by another bishop in providing episcopal supervision during the bishop's absence shall be payable from the episcopal budget of the bishop on renewal leave.

E. Salary

The salary of bishops elected by the central conference may be recommended by the respective central conferences in accordance with provisions of Par. 652.4 of the 1976 Book of Discipline.

III. Affiliated Autonomous and United Churches

1. Methodist Church in India. The General Council on Finance and Administration has set aside $200,000 to establish an endowment fund from the Episcopal Fund, the income from which shall be used to fund episcopal support for the Methodist Church in India under the following conditions:

a. that the Plan for Affiliated Autonomy is approved by the Central Conference of Southern Asia and the annual conferences within it,

b. that the plan is adopted by the 1980 General Conference,

c. that the principal sum of $200,000 and interest accumulated from the date of council action shall be payable to the Episcopal Endowment Fund of the Methodist Church in India,

d. that such money be distributed with the expectation that the Board of Global Ministries provide a similar amount,

e. that in no event shall money provided from the Episcopal Fund, either principal or interest, be used for other than episcopal support,

f. that it be understood that this is not a precedent for other national groups seeking affiliated autonomy.

g. In the event that the Endowment Fund is no longer needed for this purpose, the Methodist Church in India shall negotiate with the General Council on Finance and Administration concerning its disposition.

2. Contractual Agreements. The General Council on Finance and Administration of The United Methodist Church assumes no responsibility for contractual agreements made by agencies supported by general funds of the church with affiliated autonomous and/or united churches unless such agreement has had prior approval of the General Council on Finance and Administration.

IV. Reserve for Pensions of Retired Bishops

1. Those bishops elected in 1980 and thereafter—whose pension claim under appointment for years of service prior to election to the episcopacy, including post retirement adjustments, is the responsibility of the annual conferences, general boards and agencies, and/or institutions—shall be paid for such years of service from wherever such annuity responsibility exists.

2. The General Council on Finance and Administration specifically requests authorization to transfer from the reserve for pension in the Episcopal Fund to the General Board of Pensions such amounts as may actuarially be determined as necessary to fund the proposed pension program for bishops of The United Methodist Church.

V. Increase or Decrease During Quadrennium

The amounts authorized in I, II, and IV are subject to increase or decrease during the quadrennium if, in the judgment of a three-fourths vote of the total membership of the General Council on Finance and Administration, economic conditions make such change necessary.

VI. Apportionment for the Episcopal Fund

Apportionment for the Episcopal Fund during the 1981-1984 quadrennium shall be equal to not less than 1.5 percent nor more than 2.5 percent of the pastors' cash salaries; and the apportionment for the first year of the new quadrennium shall be at 2 percent with the stipulation that the General Council on Finance and Administration shall review the apportionment annually to adjust necessary cash balances. The General Council on Finance and Administration shall have the authority to increase or decrease the rate of apportionment during the quadrennium as may become necessary or advisable, providing that the rate shall not be increased above 2.5 percent.

The General Council on Finance and Administration is directed to alter the provisions of this section of the report so as to conform to any legislation that may be adopted by this General Conference.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal pages 473-475.)

Report No. 4 Ministerial Education Fund

1. Purpose. The Ministerial Education Fund was established by action of the 1968 General Conference as a means of engaging the total membership of the church in an effort to equip annual conferences, theological schools, and the Division of the Ordained Ministry of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry to meet increased demands for the recruitment and education of ministers.

2. Background. The Ministerial Education Fund was begun in 1970 as one of the church's general funds being apportioned to the annual conferences on the basis of 2 percent of local church expenditures for all purposes, excluding payments for benevolences, new buildings, and servicing of debt. The amount apportioned during this quadrennium has been approximately $12,600,000. The response of the church during these nine years has been encouraging. The program provides that 75 percent of the receipts in an annual conference is forwarded to the General Council on Finance and Administration, to be administered by the Division of the Ordained Ministry of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry. The remaining 25 percent is retained by the annual conference board of Ordained Ministry in its program of ministerial education. Through this program, substantial amounts have been made available to the church's seminaries, and annual conference boards of Ordained Ministry have been strengthened.

Keeping in mind that the goal for 1970-72 was $8,250,689, that the goal for 1973-76 was $10,000,000, and that the goal for 1977-80 is $12,600,000, the record of giving during this period is as follows:

Year	Payments	Percent of Goal
1970	$ 4,765,672	58%
1971	5,910,256	72%
1972	5,939,762	72%
1973	7,287,028	73%
1974	7,724,726	77%
1975	7,849,049	78%
1976	7,993,865	80%
1977	10,078,640	80%
1978	10,333,392	82%

3. Apportionment. The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends that this fund continue to be supported by receipts on an apportionment to the annual conferences. The apportionment shall be defined as 2% of local church expenditures less capital expenses, benevolent expenses, and connectional ministerial support expenses.

For the 1981-84 quadrennium, the annual apportionment shall be based upon an average of local church expenses as follows:

Year	Base Averages	Amount
1981	1976-77	$14,057,000
1982	1977-78	15,296,000
1983	1978-79	16,616,000*
1984	1979-80	18,070,000*

*Estimated

4. Distribution. Amounts received by the conference treasurer for this fund shall be distributed as follows:

- a. Twenty-five percent shall be retained by the annual conference which raised it, to be used in its program of ministerial education as approved by the annual conference and administered through the Board of Ordained Ministry. The Board of Ordained Ministry may support continuing education of diaconal ministers. Administrative costs of the Board of Ordained Ministry shall be a claim on the conference budget.

- b. Seventy-five percent shall be sent by the annual conference treasurer to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration for distribution to the Division of the Ordained Ministry, to be administered as hereinafter set forth for the financial support of the theological schools of The United Methodist Church and the total program of education of its ministry.
  - (1) At least 75 percent of the amount received by the division shall be distributed on a formula established by the division after consultation with the jurisdictional committees on Ordained Ministry. All money allocated to the theological schools shall be used for current operations, not for physical expansion, but can be used for improvements to aid persons with handicapping conditions.
  - (2) The remaining portion of the amount received by the division shall be administered by it, in order of priority, for distribution to the seminaries of The United Methodist Church to correct inequities in appropriations to the seminaries, and for divisional use in its program of ministerial enlistment and continuing education.
  - (3) Administrative costs incurred by the Division of the Ordained Ministry in the administration of this fund shall be a prior claim against that part of the fund administered by the division.
  - (4) Promotion and interpretation of the Ministerial Education Fund shall be by the Division of the Ordained Ministry in cooperation with and with the assistance of United Methodist Communications, the cost being a prior claim against that portion of the Ministerial Education Fund administered by the Division of the Ordained Ministry, and within a budget approved by the Division of the Ordained Ministry and the General Council on Finance and Administration.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal pages 459, 467-468.)

Report No. 5
Temporary General Aid Fund

I. Background

The 1964 General Conference of The Methodist Church adopted a plan of action for the elimination of the Central Jurisdiction and the development of an inclusive church through mergers among annual conferences of the Central Jurisdiction and of the geographical jurisdictions. It was recognized that a considerable difference in salary rate and ministerial pensions existed between the Central Jurisdiction conferences and the conferences of the geographical jurisdictions. A Temporary General Aid Fund was therefore created through which the entire church could assist in increasing these items. The Rio Grande Conference was also included as a recipient in this fund.

The 1968, 1970, and 1972 General Conferences took actions which either delayed the annual reductions provided for by the 1968 General Conference or increased the amounts apportioned for the fund. In 1972 the Puerto Rico and Oklahoma Indian Missionary Conferences were added as recipients.

The 1976 General Conference provided for annual decreases in assistance to conferences which result from a merger with former Central Jurisdiction conferences, the decreases to begin after the eighth anniversary of merger in each conference. Corresponding decreases in this fund's annual apportionment were resumed, after having been interrupted in 1971. As a result the apportionment for this fund has declined from $1,690,000 in 1977 to $1,599,665 in 1980.

II. Assistance to Other Conferences

The council has considered the fact that the pension and salary assistance monies for the Oklahoma Indian Missionary, Puerto Rico, and Rio Grande conferences are needed on an ongoing basis. It has also considered requests for additional assistance from these three conferences, needed to enable them to fund their pension responsibility for past service.

The 1976 General Conference referred such requests to the Commission on Religion and Race, the General Board of Pensions, and the General Council on Finance and Administration. Based on consultations between those three agencies, the council is recommending that annual pension assistance to these three conferences from general church funds be increased by the following amounts:

Oklahoma Indian Missionary Conference	$46,000
Puerto Rico Annual Conference	20,000
Rio Grande Annual Conference	48,000

These amounts would be in addition to the amounts which have been apportioned for pension assistance to these conferences during the 1977-80 quadrennium and are for the purpose of enabling the conferences to make the level annual payment needed for their participation in the Minister's Reserve Pension Fund.

Because the need for salary and pension assistance to these conferences is ongoing rather than temporary, the council is recommending a new line item in the budget of the World Service Fund in an amount of $350,000 annually to care for these needs (see Report No. 1).

On-ratio receipts allocated to this line item will be divided, on ratio, as follows:

(1) For salary assistance: $129,000 (to be administered by the General Council on Finance and Administration). On-ratio receipts allocated to this share are to be remitted to the Oklahoma Indian Missionary, Puerto Rico, and Rio Grande annual conferences according to such plans of distribution as have been approved by previous General Conferences.

(2) For pension assistance: $221,000 (to be administered by the General Board of Pensions). 51.6 percent of the on-ratio receipts allocated to this share is to be divided on ratio as follows: Rio Grande Annual Conference—$48,000; Oklahoma Indian Missionary Conference—$46,000; and Puerto Rico Annual Conference—$20,000. Of such on-ratio receipts, 48.4 percent are to be distributed to the same three conferences according to such plans of distribution as have been approved by previous General Conferences.

III. Recommendations for 1981-84

With the transfer of these responsibilities to the World Service Fund, the Temporary General Aid Fund reverts to the purpose for which it was originally established—that of providing temporary assistance during a transitional period to annual conferences that are financially strong but have taken on heavy new financial responsibilities as a result of General Conference actions.

With these considerations in mind, the General Council on Finance and Administration recommends:

1. That reductions in assistance as ordered by the 1976 General Conference continue as follows:

a) That pension and salary assistance to annual conferences formed as a result of a merger with former Central Jurisdiction conferences and which have been merged eight years or longer continue to be reduced each year by an amount equal to 5 percent of their 1976 allocations for these purposes.

b) That such 5 percent reductions in assistance be instituted for other annual conferences formed as a result of a merger with former Central Jurisdiction conferences, beginning with the year following that in which the eighth anniversary of their merger occurs.

2. That annual conferences which would be entitled to less than $2,500 in salary assistance benefits in 1978 be discontinued as recipient conferences for the salary assistance portion of the fund beginning in 1981. The amounts recommended in III 3 below reflect a corresponding decrease in the amounts authorized to be apportioned.

3. That the following amounts be apportioned during the 1981-1984 quadrennium for the support of salary and pension assistance programs to the annual conferences qualifying under section (1) above:

1981	$1,289,969
1982	$1,224,593
1983	$1,150,746
1984	$1,076,900

4. That receipts on these apportionments be allocated to qualifying annual conferences as follows, on ratio:

(a) For pension assistance: 1981—$944,747; 1982—$899,199; 1983—$845,180; 1984—$791,162.

(b) For salary assistance: 1981—$345,222; 1982—$325,394; 1983—$305,566; 1984—$285,738.

5. That annual conferences qualifying for pension assistance be permitted to retain and remit to the treasurer of their Conference Board of Pensions an appropriate percentage of their receipts on this apportionment. The amount and percentage to be retained will be determined in accordance with guidelines adopted by the 1968 General Conference. The annual statement of general fund apportionments, transmitted by the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration to each annual conference (Par. 908), shall include instructions as to the percentage of Temporary General Aid Fund receipts to be remitted to the General Council on Finance and Administration and the amount and percentage to be remitted to the treasurer of the Conference Board of Pensions.

6. That Temporary General Aid Fund receipts from the annual conferences be allocated on ratio by the General Council on Finance and Administration to the pension and salary assistance programs. The General Council on Finance and Administration shall remit amounts allocated for the pension assistance program to the General Board of Pensions to be administered by that board. Amounts allocated for salary assistance shall be administered by the General Council on Finance and Administration according to formulas adopted by the 1968 and 1972 General Conferences.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140, see Journal pages 477-478.)

Report No. 6 General Administration Fund

Explanation of Items in the Budget

1. The Commission on Archives and History (Pars. 1901-1912). The purpose of this commission is to gather, preserve, hold title to, and disseminate materials on the history of The United Methodist Church and its antecedents. It shall do any and all things necessary to promote and care for the historical interests of The United Methodist Church.

2. Historic Shrines, Landmarks, and Sites (Par. 1912). The supervision of historic shrines, landmarks, and sites is part of the responsibility assigned the Commission on Archives and History, but because of the significance of these items special consideration is given them in this budget. This fund is used at the discretion of the Commission on Archives and History.

3. General Conference. The expense of the General Conference is an extremely large item in the budget, and each quadrennium finds it increasing due to the rising costs associated with such a meeting. The amount listed here is to care for all administrative costs of the session, including travel and per diem of delegates, cost of the office of the secretary of the General Conference, expenses of the Commission on the General Conference, and the publishing of the Daily Christian Advocate and the Journal of the 1980 conference sessions.

4. The Judicial Council (Pars. 2501-2519). Par. 916 provides that the expenses of the Judicial Council will be paid from the General Administration Fund.

5. Special Unfunded Pensions Commitment. This item in the fund includes reimbursements for distribution by the General Board of Pensions for Special Unfunded Pensions Commitments ordered by the General Conference, including pensions of former Evangelical United Brethren general church officers, pensions for earlier European pastoral service by United Methodist pastors, and pensions for service in a mission or provisional annual conference.

6. Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation. United Methodist Communications is allocated the designated sum for the purpose of promoting the General Administration Fund.

7. United Nations Church Center Building Subsidy. This fund is to aid the General Board of Church and Society to finance its obligations on The United Nations Church Center Building.

8. The World Methodist Council. Par. 2301 contains provisions governing United Methodist membership in this council and financial support for it. The council is a significant channel for United Methodist relationships with other Methodist bodies and with autonomous and united churches formerly part of The United Methodist Church or its predecessor denominations.

9. The General Council on Finance and Administration. This allocation provides partial support of the General Council on Finance and Administration and particularly funds certain administrative services provided by the General Council on Finance and Administration.

10. United Methodist Youth Ministry Organization (Pars. 1401-1403). This allocation will allow the United Methodist Youth Ministry Organization to fulfill its national responsibilities under the government of the personnel policies and guidelines of the General Board of Discipleship. All other projects will be funded out of the proceeds from the Youth Service Fund.

11. Special Litigation Costs. This allocation provides funding for litigation in which the general agencies or units of The United Methodist Church are involved, in which issues of churchwide significance are being litigated. Currently, this includes the Pacific Homes litigation.

12. The Contingency Reserve. This item is established to provide for unforeseen recommendations by the General Conference as well as for emergency situations which might arise during the quadrennium and which would fall within the scope of general administration.

Recommendations

1. The amount budgeted for the Judicial Council is $20,000 per year; however, if this is insufficient in one year, such additional funds as may be necessary may be allocated from the Contingency Reserve.

2. The authorized travel allowance for attendance at the General Conference shall be as stated in the final Plan of Organization and Rules of Order for the General Conference.

3. The General Council on Finance and Administration shall be authorized to reduce the amount of the Special Litigation Costs line item during the quadrennium based on the actual experience and need, and to reduce the total apportionment to the annual conferences accordingly.

4. When all the approved items in the General Administration Fund have been determined, the General Council on Finance and Administration is authorized to apportion the same to the annual conferences using the same formula used in determining the apportionment for the World Service Fund (see Report No. 2).

5. The General Council on Finance and Administration is authorized to adjust annual conference apportionments for the General Administration Fund as follows: an annual conference which in any year overpays its apportionment for the General Administration Fund shall be given credit for same in the succeeding year and any conference which fails to pay its apportionment in full for any one or more years shall have its deficit added to the apportionment of the succeeding year. Deficits or credits shall not be carried into a new quadrennium.

Report No. 7
Interdenominational Cooperation Fund

The General Council on Finance and Administration shall recommend to the General Conference the sum which the Church shall undertake to provide as its share of the budget of the National Council of Churches, the World Council of Churches, and such other interdenominational causes as may be recommended by the General Council on Finance and Administration and approved by the General Conference for inclusion in the interdenominational cooperation budget. (Par. 917.1)

As a service to the council, the Ecumenical and Interreligious Concerns Division of the Board of Global Ministries shall provide recommendations for action on the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund. . . ." (Par. 917.2)

The Interdenominational Cooperation Fund represents the church's financial commitment to fund the ecumenical activities in which The United Methodist Church participates. To this end, the General Council on Finance and Administration recommends the following annual budget for the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund:

Guidelines for Fund Administration

The allocation for the National Council of Churches covers the general responsibilities of The United Methodist Church. It is understood that general boards and agencies may participate in the budgets of the cognate divisions and departments of the National Council, in accordance with the provisions of Par. 910.5 of the 1976 Book of Discipline.

The allocation of funds for the World Council of Churches covers both administration and the programmatic work of the World Council of Churches.

Within the limits of the funds available, the General Council on Finance and Administration establishes the following procedures with reference to the payment of travel related to the various meetings of the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches:

1. Travel expenses for members of the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches shall be paid upon the approval of the General Secretary of the United Methodist Communications.

2. Travel expense to be paid for United Methodist general board members of the National Council of Churches named by the General Conference or the Council of Bishops, except that United Methodist members who represent Councils of Churches or who are staff members of boards and agencies of the church shall have their expenses provided by the respective agencies.

3. It is important that The United Methodist Church be represented at the meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, which meets annually; the Executive Committee, which meets twice a year; and the Assembly, which meets every seven years. Travel expenses for United Methodist members named by the Council of Bishops to committees of the World Council of Churches shall be paid. Payment of such expenses, other than for the Executive Committee meetings, shall be limited to one trip annually. These provisions shall also apply to travel of United Methodist appointees named by the Council of Bishops to study conferences. The expenses shall be limited to the round trip coach air fare from place of residence to place of meeting, plus expenses at the place of the meeting.

4. Travel expenses for other ecumenical and interdenominational activities involving The United Methodist Church shall be paid when approved in advance by the administrative office of the church's ecumenical agency or the general secretary of the General Council on Finance and Administration. Expenses for staff persons of general agencies of the church shall be provided by their respective agencies.

5. Attendance during three-fourths of a meeting's agenda time shall be a requirement for eligibility for reimbursement.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal page 478.)

Report No. 8 The Black College Fund

In response to a request from the Commission on the Black Colleges and the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges, the 1972 General Conference established as one of the general apportioned funds "The Black College Fund." The objective of the fund is to marshal financial support for the 12 black colleges related to The United Methodist Church and provide this support at a time of their need in their service to the United Methodist constituency. The goal of this new fund was originally set at $6 million, this amount to be apportioned to the annual conferences by means of the World Service apportionment formula.

Response by local churches and annual conferences has been commendable. The receipts for each year since its inception are as follows:

Year	Receipts	Percent of Goal
1973	$4,012,504	67%
1974	4,518,441	75%
1975	4,482,029	75%
1976	4,553,062	76%
1977	4,653,927	78%
1978	4,736,763	79%

Annual conferences, by action of the General Conference, are permitted to designate 75 percent of their receipts for a specific black college or colleges with which there may have been a long history of support, provided that the college or colleges so selected receive no more than their fair share of the total funds contributed. This arrangement proved helpful for many of the annual conferences. The 1976 Book of Discipline now reads:

The Council recommends to the General Conference the sum which the Church shall undertake for the black colleges and the method by which it shall be apportioned to the Annual Conferences. The purpose of the fund is to provide financial support for current operating budgets and capital improvements of the black colleges related administratively to the Church. The Division of Higher Education of the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry shall administer the fund according to the guidelines for support and a formula approved by the General Conference.

In the interim between sessions of the General Conference, these guidelines for support and this formula may be changed as necessary upon recommendation of the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges and the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry and with the consent of the Council on Finance and Administration.

Promotion of the Black College Fund shall be by the Division of Higher Education and in consultation with the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges, in cooperation with and with the assistance of the Joint Committee on Communications, the cost being a prior claim against the Black College Fund receipts and within a budget approved by the Division of Higher Education and the General Council on Finance and Administration. (Par. 918)

Therefore, the General Council on Finance and Administration recommends the following:

1. That the 1980 General Conference authorize the continuation of the Black College Fund as one of the apportioned funds of the church.
2. That the quadrennium goal for this fund amount to $27,462,705 derived from a yearly apportionment as follows:

Current Annual Apportionment                    $6,000,000

Year	Compound Increase	Annual Apportionment
1981	7%	$ 6,420,000
1982	5%	6,741,000
1983	4%	7,010,640
1984	4%	7,291,065
Total Quadrennium		$27,462,705

These respective amounts are to be apportioned to the annual conferences by means of the same formula used for the World Service Fund.

3. That annual conference treasurers remit monthly to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration the amounts received for this fund.

4. That expenses for administration and promotion of the Black College Fund be a prior claim against the fund and within a budget approved by the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry and the General Council on Finance and Administration.

5. That the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration remit monthly receipts for this fund to the Board of Higher Education and Ministry for distribution to the colleges on the formula recommended by the Council of Presidents of the Black Colleges and the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry and approved by the General Conference. The formula for distribution is as follows:

a) That five-sixths of the receipts of the fund be distributed to the colleges to assist in supporting their current operating budgets, and one-sixth of the fund receipts be set aside for capital improvements.

b) That 75 percent of the five-sixths operating portion be shared equally by each college.

c) That 20 percent of the five-sixths operating portion be distributed on the basis of enrollment.

d) That the remaining 5 percent of the five-sixths current operating portion be distributed equally to each college annually for long-range planning, special academic programs, and meeting challenge grants in complying with the guidelines for support established by the General Conference.

e) That the one-sixth capital fund portion be distributed by the Division of Higher Education on the basis of need and matching grants.

6. That an annual conference may make additional direct and/or designated gifts for current expense or capital funds purposes to one or more of these black colleges, but only after it has met its full Black College Fund apportionment. There may be reasonable exceptions to this restriction, but such exceptions shall be negotiated with the Division of Higher Education prior to implementation.

Report No. 9 Missional Priority Fund

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends to the General Conference that a Missional Priority Fund be established in the amount of $5 million annually for the 1981-1984 quadrennium, to be designated for the Ethnic Minority Local Church program. It is further recommended that the $5 million be apportioned to the annual conferences on the World Service Fund apportionment formula.

In concurrence with the General Council on Ministries, it is recommended that receipts of the fund be allocated as follows:

Up to 30 percent to be retained in the Annual Conference
A minimum of 70 percent to be transmitted to the General Council on Finance and Administration and allocated as follows:

Prior Claims:

An amount not to exceed $250,000 for promotion.

An amount not to exceed $43,750 to be distributed to the General Board of Pensions commencing December 31, 1981 in payment of the special deposit obligations of the Oklahoma Indian Missionary Conference required for the entry and participation of the conference in the Minister's Reserve Pension Fund to commence January 1, 1981.

Of the balance:

92.5 percent to the general program boards as follows:

Board of Church and Society.....	10%
Board of Discipleship.....	21%
Board of Global Ministries.....	48%
Board of Higher Education and Ministry.....	21%

7.5 percent to the General Council on Ministries to be made available to general program agencies, caucuses, and annual conferences for emerging opportunities.

Promotion of the Missional Priority Fund shall be the responsibility of the Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation of United Methodist Communications, the cost being a prior claim against the Missional Priority Fund, and within a budget approved by the General Council on Ministries and the General Council on Finance and Administration.

Report No. 10
Special Days with Offerings
Special Days
With General Church Offerings

The 1976 Discipline designates four special days in connection with which offerings for general church purposes are to be received (Pars. 269.1a), b), d), f); 915). The General Council on Finance and Administration, after consultation with the General Council on Ministries (Par. 906.11), recommends that these four general church special day offerings be continued in accordance with the following provisions:

1. Human Relations Day. A Human Relations Day shall be observed on the last Sunday in Epiphany with an offering goal recommended by the General Council on Finance and Administration. The purpose of the day is to further the development of better human relations through funding programs determined by the General Conference upon recommendation of the General Council on Finance and Administration after consultation with the General Council on Ministries.

For the 1981-84 quadrennium an annual goal of $750,000 shall be established; the offering receipts will be allocated and administered as follows:

a) Community Developers program: 50 percent (administered by the National Division, General Board of Global Ministries).

b) United Methodist Voluntary Services Program: 45 percent (administered by the National Division, General Board of Global Ministries).

c) Police-Community Relations Program: 5 percent (administered by the General Board of Church and Society).

Net receipts of the Human Relations Day Offering, after payment of promotional expenses, shall be distributed on ratio to the administering agencies.

2. One Great Hour of Sharing. There shall be an annual observance of the One Great Hour of Sharing on or about the fourth Sunday in Lent. All local churches shall be fully informed and encouraged to receive a freewill offering in behalf of the relief program. The observance shall be under the general supervision of United Methodist Communications. Insofar as possible, the planning and promotion of the One Great Hour of Sharing shall be done cooperatively with other denominations through the National Council of Churches, it being understood, however, that receipts shall be administered by The United Methodist Church. Net receipts from the offering, after payment of the expenses of promotion, shall be remitted by the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration to the United Methodist Committee on Relief Division of the General Board of Global Ministries, to be administered by that committee.

3. United Methodist Student Day. The United Methodist Student Day offering, taken annually on the Sunday after Thanksgiving, shall be received for the support of The United Methodist Scholarships and The United Methodist Student Loan Fund. There shall be an annual goal of $2 million. Net receipts from the offering, after payment of the expenses of promotion, shall be remitted by the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration to the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry, to be administered by that board.

4. World Communion Offering. In connection with World Communion Sunday there shall be a churchwide appeal conducted by United Methodist Communications in accord with the following directives: Each local church shall be requested to remit as provided in Par. 915.6 all the Communion offering received on World Communion Sunday (the first Sunday in October) and such portion of the Communion offering received at other observances of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper as the local church may designate.

The net receipts, after payment of promotional costs, shall be divided as follows: 50 percent for Crusade Scholarships, to be administered by the Crusade Scholarship Committee; 35 percent for the Ethnic Minority Scholarship Program and 15 percent for the Ethnic Minority In-Service Training Program, the last two to be administered by the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

Directives

The following directives shall apply to each of the four general church special day offerings:

1. Promotion of all authorized general church special day offerings shall be by United Methodist Communications in consultation with the administering agencies. Expenses of promotion for each offering shall be a prior claim against the receipts of the offering promoted. In each case such expenses shall be within a budget approved by the General Council on Finance and Administration upon recommendation of United Methodist Communications after consultation with the administering agencies. In the promotion of these offerings there shall be an emphasis on the spiritual implications of Christian stewardship.

2. Receipts from all authorized general church special day offerings shall be remitted promptly by the local church treasurer to the annual conference treasurer, who shall remit monthly to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration. A special gift voucher for contributions to the offerings will be issued when appropriate. Local churches shall report the amount of the offerings in the manner indicated on the Local Church Report to the Annual Conference.

Special Days With Offerings Authorized for Use Within the Annual Conference

The 1976 Discipline authorizes offerings in connection with two special days for which the offering receipts are to be retained for use within the Annual Conference (Par. 269.1c, e). The General Council on Finance and Administration, after consultation with the General Council on Ministries, recommends that the authorization for these offerings be continued in accordance with the following provisions:

1. Golden Cross Sunday. A Golden Cross Sunday shall be observed annually on the first Sunday in May. If the annual conference so directs, an offering may be received for the work of health and welfare ministries in the annual conference. Local church treasurers shall remit the receipts of the offering to the annual conference treasurer, and receipts will be acknowledged in accordance with the procedure of the annual conference. Local churches shall report the amount of the offering in the manner indicated on the Local Church Report to the Annual Conference.

2. Christian Education Sunday. A Christian Education Sunday shall be observed annually on a date determined by the annual conference. If the annual conference so directs, an offering may be received for the work of Christian education within the annual conference. Local church treasurers shall remit the receipts of the offering to the annual conference treasurer, and receipts will be acknowledged in accordance with the procedure of the annual conference. Local churches shall report the amount of the offering in the manner indicated in the Local Church Report to the Annual Conference.

Program and Benevolence Interpretation Budget

The Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation of United Methodist Communications serves as a central promotional agency for the general agencies of the church and for General Conference-approved programs. While it is true that some of the general agencies have authority for and do some promotional and cultivation work throughout the church, the Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation has primary responsibility for interpreting and promoting the benevolence program of the church. This is the reason for its existence, and to this end, this division is totally dedicated.

The principle which has long been in effect for funding promotional costs of the church's program is that each general fund pays the cost of its own promotion. An examination of the proposed budgets of the various funds reveals that certain amounts have been placed in those budgets to cover the costs of their promotion. These promotional costs are prior claims against the receipts for these funds since in most instances the costs of the promotion are incurred prior to the funds having actually been received. This is true for all of the general funds of the church with the exception of general Advance specials, where, according to the Book of Discipline, promotional costs are charged to the agencies which administer the funds. This is to insure that all funds contributed to general Advance specials go to the project or projects for which they are given.

Since the Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation of United Methodist Communications does receive funding from a number of sources, the council is hereby recommending a total income budget for the division so that the General Conference and other interested United Methodists may be aware of the total cost to the church for the work of this division. The council therefore recommends that the annual income for the 1981-84 quadrennium to support the work and services of the Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation be as follows:

World Service:

1981.....	$1,100,000
1982.....	1,155,000
1983.....	1,201,200
1984.....	1,249,250
The Advance.....	500,000
Ministerial Education Fund.....	45,000
Black College Fund.....	40,000
Temporary General Aid Fund.....	30,000
United Methodist Student Day.....	13,000
Episcopal Fund.....	35,000
General Administration Fund.....	30,000
Interdenominational Cooperation Fund.....	30,000
World Communion Fund.....	150,000
Human Relations Day Fund.....	135,000
One Great Hour of Sharing.....	205,000
Missional Priority Fund.....	250,000

Totals:

1981	$2,563,000
1982	2,618,000
1983	2,664,200
1984	2,712,250

It is further recommended that the budget for the expenditure of funds by this division for the promotion of all the general promoted funds be developed annually by the division and approved by the agency or agencies having the responsibility for the administration of the program or programs related to the general fund being promoted and by the General Council on Finance and Administration.

Promotion of any new general funds which may be approved by the 1980 General Conference shall be the responsibility of the Division of Program and Benevolence Interpretation and shall be in accordance with budgets developed by the division and approved by the agency or agencies having the responsibility for the administration of the program or programs related to those funds and by the General Council on Finance and Administration.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal pages 479.)

Report No. 12
Reports and Recommendations

The General Council on Finance and Administration presents the following reports and recommendations for which it seeks the approval of this General Conference:

1. World Service and Conference Benevolences. The council wishes to call attention to the following three vital concerns:

a. When local churches include World Service and Conference Benevolences in a unified budget, the purpose of World Service is frequently forgotten. Therefore, the council urgently requests that local churches with unified budgets make provision for:

(1) Dissemination of information concerning World Service and Conference Benevolences, with special emphasis that this program provides the major funds for the agencies which are helping local churches with their program on both the general level (through World Service) and the annual conference (through Conference Benevolences). When there is no special appeal for these causes, additional information is needed in order to keep church members informed about this essential work of the church.

(2) Providing means whereby persons who desire to make an additional gift for World Service and Conference Benevolences beyond the amount in the church budget can do so. The World Service and Conference Benevolence asking is a minimum asking, and treating it as a ceiling above which a church should not go is injurious, not only to the work but also to the motivation which prompts World Service and Conference Benevolences.

(3) Providing means whereby persons who desire to make an additional gift for World Service only can do so by being properly informed concerning the purposes and procedures of the World Service Specials administered by the General Council on Finance and Administration.

b. Maintaining the integrity of World Service as a benevolence is essential. On the annual conference level there is a tendency to include "administrative" items in the conference World Service and Conference Benevolences budget. To help maintain the distinction between "benevolence" and "administration" the council respectfully reminds the leadership of annual conferences of the following definition of Conference Benevolences, as found in the 1976 Book of Discipline:

The term "conference benevolences" shall include those conference allocations and expenditures directly associated with the program, mission and benevolent causes of Annual Conference program agencies and institutions. "Annual Conference program agencies and institutions" shall be defined as those agencies represented by voting membership on the conference Council on Ministries and institutions whose work is within the field of responsibility of one or more of those agencies. Administrative expenses which are directly related to the program, mission, and benevolent causes of conference program agencies may also be included in the conference benevolences budget. The term "conference benevolences" shall not include allocations and expenditures for other conference agencies and officers whose work is primarily administrative; it shall likewise not include Annual Conference ministerial support funds as set forth in Pars. 920-937, allocations and expenditures of conference agencies responsible for administering ministerial support funds or apportionments made to the Annual Conference by the General or Jurisdictional Conferences. (Par. 709)

c. Annual conferences should be aware that World Service is a minimum asking and insist that World Service funds be transmitted in full to the General Council on Finance and Administration by the conference treasurer.

2. Budget of the General Council on Finance and Administration. The proposed 1981 budget for the General Council on Finance and Administration totals $1,720,400. The costs of the General Council on Finance and Administration are charged against all general funds in proportion to receipts. Exceptions to this provision may be made only by the council. In addition, other costs of the council will be charged against an approved allocation in the World Service and General Administration funds. It is anticipated that proceeds from short-term investments of receipts of general funds and balances held by the General Council on Finance and Administration for general agencies may be used to support the work of the council. The operation of the council shall be within an annual budget submitted to and approved by the council.

3. Authority to Adjust Budgets. It is recommended, in order to meet changing conditions or emergencies, that the General Council on Finance and Administration be authorized to adjust the budgets of prior claim items as emergencies or the responsibilities placed upon the general agencies by the General Conference may require.

4. Prior Claims. It is recommended that prior claims in any of the general funds be paid as expended within the limits of the approved budget.

5. On-Ratio Allocations. It is recommended that all allocations for the World Service Fund; the General Administration Fund; the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund; and the Missional Priority Fund, except for prior claims, if any, be paid on ratio of receipts to the fund.

6. Income from the Board of Trustees. The General Council on Finance and Administration, by action of the 1972 General Conference, is the successor to and serves as the Board of Trustees for The United Methodist Church. In serving in this capacity, the General Council on Finance and Administration shall publish annually a report of all distributable income held in the name of the Board of Trustees. The 1976 General Conference recommended that the distributable income from undesignated funds be made a part of the World Service funds for distribution. The council reports that in 1976, 1977, 1978, and 1979, a total of $127,777.26 was received and placed in the World Service Fund for distribution as directed by the 1976 General Conference. The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends that the Board of Trustees' distributable income from undesignated funds be made available to the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration during the 1981-1984 quadrennium to be made part of the World Service funds for distribution.

7. Validity of Claims. It is recommended that the General Council on Finance and Administration be authorized to determine the validity of claims in all matters involving the World Service Fund, the Episcopal Fund, the General Administration Fund, the Temporary General Aid Fund, the Interdenominational Cooperation Fund, and the Special Days offerings, where these are not specifically set forth or determined by the General Conference.

8. New Apportionments for Annual Conferences. It is recommended that the General Conference authorize the General Council on Finance and Administration to report immediately the new apportionments to each Annual Conference.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140; see Journal page 479.)

(Note: Reports numbered 13, 14, 15, and 16 dealt with activities of the General Council on Finance and Administration during the 1977-80 quadrennium and were "received" by means of General Conference action on Committee on Financial Administration Report No. 140. Reports which were received are not printed in

Report No. 17
Report to the 1980 General Conference
Regarding the Pacific Homes Litigation

Since late in 1977 complex and widely spreading class suit litigation has grown out of the financial difficulties of Pacific Homes, a California not-for-profit corporation which, for more than 50 years, has been related to the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference and predecessor annual conferences. Four suits brought by a limited number of present and former residents of the homes, as well as suits brought by related litigating interests, for aggregate damage claims exceeding $600 million are now pending in state and federal courts of California. Two additional suits pertaining solely to the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference are not described in this report, which relates principally to the litigation involving the denomination as a whole and co-defendant church units.

In the four cases in question, plaintiffs have claimed, under the contention that it is an "unincorporated association," that the entire United Methodist Church, as a denomination, must answer and defend civil court charges on the theory that Pacific Homes, related to the annual conference, could obligate and render the whole denomination liable for its alleged acts, including performance of life care contracts with residents. Serious and unwarranted charges of fraudulent misconduct are leveled at all defendants. These cases are briefly summarized as follows:

1. Barr v. The United Methodist Church. This was the initial class action brought by 162 named individuals claiming to represent all residents of Pacific Homes, Inc. When the case was filed Sept. 26, 1977, the damages claimed were $366 million. The suit named as defendants the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference (PSWAC), the General Council on Finance and Administration (GCFA), the Board of Global Ministries and The United Methodist Church in its denominational entirety as an "unincorporated association." Sometime later the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, which had served as auditors for Pacific Homes, Inc. and as auditors of GCFA during a number of years involved in the suit, was added by plaintiffs as a defendant. Coopers & Lybrand recently decided to settle out of the case rather than defend, while disclaiming misconduct. It will pay amounts aggregating $1 million under conditions giving it a financial stake in the outcome of the litigation. Those settlement terms would permit it a substantial recovery of the settlement payment if the suit is ultimately determined in favor of the plaintiffs and against The United Methodist Church and other units served as codefendants, including that accounting firm's former client, GCFA. Under the settlement, Coopers & Lybrand will provide accounting services on a discounted cost basis to plaintiffs in their preparation and trial of the case. A portion of Coopers & Lybrand's settlement is $250,000 for plaintiffs' legal expenses.

Bishops Charles F. Golden and Paul W. Milhouse and layman James Walton-Myers were the individuals chosen by plaintiffs to be served with summons as purported agents of the denomination. They promptly filed Motions to Quash, asserting that The United Methodist Church is neither incorporated, nor an unincorporated association, nor any form of a jural entity capable of being sued; also denying their authority to act as representatives of all of United Methodism for service of summons since the Discipline neither names nor provides for any designated agent for that purpose. The trial court upheld these contentions in the motion. It ruled that the denomination could not be sued since it is not an "unincorporated association"; also, that a contrary ruling "would effectively destroy Methodism in this country and would have a chilling effect on all churches and religious movements by inhibiting the free association of persons of similar religious beliefs." Thereafter, the Court of Appeal of California, Fourth Appellate District, on appeal, reversed that decision, a reversal ruling which the Supreme Court of California thereafter declined to review. The United States Supreme Court, on Nov. 26, 1979, denied certiorari to review the case at this term. To avoid default against the denomination in this multimillion dollar case, protesting the lack of legal capacity of the denomination either to sue or be sued and their lack of authority to receive summons on its behalf, Messrs. Golden, Milhouse and Walton-Myers filed an answer on behalf of The United Methodist Church to the best of their ability to do so. They expressly denied all allegations of breach of contract, fraud, and other acts of wrongdoing, preserving those issues for jury trial. They also expressly preserved, to the best of their ability, the constitutional issues hereinafter described involving an impermissible judicial recasting of the polity and nature of the denomination. This case has been set for trial on the merits before a jury in San Diego on June 16, 1980.

2. Barr v. State of California. This is a class action against the State of California by the same plaintiffs who filed Barr v. The United Methodist Church. The basic allegation is that the State failed to properly supervise Pacific Homes, Inc., and its affairs. The State filed a cross-complaint against The United Methodist Church, as an “unincorporated association,” the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference, The General Council on Finance and Administration, the General Board of Global Ministries, and the Health and Welfare Ministries Division of the Board of Global Ministries, as third party defendants, seeking from them indemnities up to $266 million if the state ultimately be held liable to plaintiffs. Bishop R. Marvin Stuart and Ewing T. Wayland were served with summons as purported agents for receipt of process of the denomination. They filed a Motion to Quash similar to that in the Barr case and that motion has been denied. An answer has been filed by Bishop Stuart and Dr. Wayland on behalf of the denomination in form similar to that in the original Barr case.

3. Trigg v. Pacific Methodist Investment Fund. This class suit in the U. S. District Court at San Diego claiming damages of $5 million, was filed March 27, 1978, by seven individuals who are represented by the same attorneys who filed the class suits for plaintiffs in the Barr and State of California cases. The action alleges security fraud violations in the sale of PMIF bonds, the proceeds of which were used for the benefit of Pacific Homes, Inc. Again, The United Methodist Church, in its denominational entirety, was named a defendant along with PSWAC, GCFA and other defendants on the theory that the denomination was a “control person” responsible for security fraud violations. Ewing T. Wayland and Paul W. Milhouse, individually, were again selected by plaintiffs to be served with process as purported agents of the denomination. After service of summons, they filed a motion to dismiss on the grounds that the denomination is not incorporated, not an unincorporated association, or otherwise a jural entity and that they are not authorized agents upon whom process could be validly served on The United Methodist Church. The trial judge denied the motion and ordered an answer to be filed at the pain of a $5 million default judgment. Efforts to review the court’s decision in higher courts have been unavailing to date. The Supreme Court of the United States also recently refused certiorari to review the jurisdictional issues at this term.

4. Matthews v. The United Methodist Church. This is an action brought in the United States bankruptcy court in Los Angeles against The United Methodist Church, Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference, General Council on Finance and Administration, the Board of Global Ministries, the Health and Welfare Ministries Division and 87 individuals, most of whom are United Methodists who served voluntarily over a decade or more as directors of Pacific Homes, Inc. The complaint filed April 27, 1978, alleges negligent and wasteful mismanagement of Pacific Homes, Inc. and asks damages of $50 million, jointly and severally against each and all defendants. The plaintiff trustee-in-bankruptcy initially sought to have the case tried summarily before a referee in bankruptcy (now known as Bankruptcy Judge) under an order of reference by a United States District Judge. This was appealed by defendants to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States, which recently upheld the appeal and ruled that the reference was improper; also, that the case may not be tried summarily in the hurried manner proposed by the trustee-in-bankruptcy, both because of lack of jurisdiction of the referee and because of a possible conflict of interest on his part. It is now pending in the United States District Court at Los Angeles awaiting further proceeding including action on motions to dismiss filed by the several defendants, including individuals who were served with process as purported agents of the entire United Methodist Church.

Costs of Pacific Homes Litigation Paid by GCFA

The litigation to date has involved literally thousands of hours of the services of numerous attorneys and staff personnel, encompassing a great number of motions, court appearances, appeals to appellate courts, review and production of many thousands of documents, numerous typewritten and printed briefs and other necessary legal procedures required to avoid multimillion dollar judgments against The United Methodist Church charging fraud, breach of contract and other alleged wrongdoings against the whole denomination and other defendants.

Pursuant to Par. 907.4 of the Discipline, the General Council on Finance and Administration has expended, during the three years since this complex web of litigation commenced, an aggregate of approximately $1,007,558, defending the denominational interests of the church as a whole, defending GCFA itself, against which plaintiffs avowedly would seek to attack World Service, and other "general funds." This aggregate includes a part of the legal expenses incurred in the year 1979 by the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference. That annual conference, because of its relation to the Homes, has been made a principal object of plaintiffs' proliferating and widespread litigative assault. Commendably, it has defended and continues to defend the suits but at great cost which threatens its solvency and ability to conduct its missional programs. In continuing to resolutely defend against unwarranted charges of fraud and misdoing, it merits financial support.

Judicial Council Ruling Decision No. 458 Dated May 25, 1979

In its adverse decision against The United Methodist Church mentioned above in the Barr Case, the Court of Appeal of California interpreted Par. 907.4 of the 1976 Discipline as giving the General Council on Finance and Administration authority and a duty to appear on behalf of The United Methodist Church, rendering the denomination a jural entity and to answer for it. This is the first known instance in which any civil court has imposed upon the denomination its own interpretation of Par. 907.4 or other Disciplinary provision. Consequently, an interpretation by the Judicial Council became necessary after that action by the Court of Appeal.

In Decision No. 458, the Judicial Council of The United Methodist Church ruled: "Paragraph 907.4 of the 1976 Discipline does not delegate to the General Council on Finance and Administration either the authority or the duty to sue or to file an answer or to otherwise plead on behalf of The United Methodist Church, as a denomination."

The opinion accompanying the decision made clear that there is no individual or unit of the denomination authorized to treat the denomination as a monolithic jural entity; also that the only institution of United Methodism which may even "speak" on denominational matters is the General Conference, itself.

Contributions and Offers of Assistance to Homes by Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference

The Homes have long been assisted by the annual conference as a mission to the elderly. In 1976-77 the annual conference approved a plan to raise $5 million to cover costs for residents unable to meet increased fees deemed necessary to make the financial operations of the Homes viable in the face of mounting inflation and other problems. The Department of Health of the State of California refused to approve that proposal despite the fact that surveys indicated that 85 percent of the residents approved it. The Pacific Homes board of directors then authorized the filing of a petition under Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Act. The directors of the Homes prepared a Plan of Arrangement under Chapter XI (a negotiated proposal) which won the support and approval of all parties represented in the court. Under that plan residents would have been asked to accept new contracts based on actual cost of care. The plan included credits based on previous payments by residents and a formula for making equitable settlements with all residents. The annual conference agreed to raise $9 million over a nine-year period to subsidize the corporation during its struggle to attain solvency. While 91 percent of the residents who voted on the plan endorsed it, it was rendered impossible of achievement when, on Oct. 17, 1977, 108 residents represented by the same counsel for the plaintiffs in the Barr and Trigg cases and among the named plaintiffs therein, filed complaints with the Bankruptcy Court to block the discharge of the debts they claimed the Homes owed them. These claims, charging fraud, effectively prevented the reorganization plan from being advanced and made inevitable the complex litigation described above.

In addition, on three earlier occasions, the annual conference had responded positively to requests to act as guarantor of loans of Pacific Homes which now total $12 million. In addition to these guarantees, the annual conference also contributed $1.2 million toward operating costs of the Homes during efforts to secure adoption of the Plan of Arrangement. After the failure of the plan, the annual conference initiated an Emergency Relief Fund to insure that no needy resident would be forced out of the Homes. To date, no resident has left the Homes involuntarily. While defending the many legal assaults against it, the annual conference continues in its efforts to find an equitable and viable means of reorganization under Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act, a development which would require the cooperation and concurrence of the trustee-in-bankruptcy.

Constitutional Issue Posed by Litigation

The essential question, insofar as the denomination's position is concerned in the pending litigation, is:

Can an international religious denomination, such as The United Methodist Church, with thousands of constituent churches, conferences and units serving in connection, collectively be held accountable for the acts of any local unit or charitable corporation which may be related to any of its 114 annual conferences?

In the several motions to quash or dismiss as well as by answers filed in the above-mentioned cases by the individuals selected by plaintiffs to be served with process as purported agents of The United Methodist Church, it has been asserted that the action of the California courts forcing the entire denomination into the mold of an "unincorporated association," as though possessing a unified, quasi-corporate characteristic, constitutes a violation of the First Amendment of the United States Constitution and a similar provision of the California constitution. The Federal constitutional clause states that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . ." Also raised in these cases is the question of whether an attempt to sue the entire United Methodist denomination which has no executive officer, controlling board of managers, joint assets or unified structure normally requisite for proper and meaningful legal defense of civil actions, violates the due process clauses of the United States and California constitutions. The due process concern arises particularly from the Court of Appeal of California's opinion apparently followed in other courts, that any group of persons or corporate units acting under a common name for a common purpose (which would apply to all major religious systems) automatically becomes suable as an "unincorporated association." The court's definition would simply leave to future after-judgment determination what church units or church assets would be required to respond in satisfaction of a judgment against a common denominational name, such as The United Methodist Church. If, indeed, such a judicial determination were to go unchallenged, its impact on religious, benevolent and charitable services for aged or persons in need would be devastating.

The refusal of the Supreme Court of the United States to grant certiorari did not mean that that court has ruled adversely to the denomination on the basic constitutional questions which have arisen. It merely means that the court has declined review at this term.

Clearly, the constitutional question is not whether The United Methodist Church exists. It exists as a loose, nonjural connection of more than 10 million believers in all 50 states of the United States, Puerto Rico and 20 other countries who worship in more than 45,000 local churches affiliated with 73 annual conferences in the United States and 41 annual conferences abroad. The basic question is whether The United Methodist Church will continue to exist in a structure of its own choosing that is compatible with its theological beliefs and history and polity as an ecclesial institution. The fundamental threat to the denomination growing out of the Pacific Homes litigation is unprecedented in the 200-year history of Methodism.

Recommended Action To Be Taken by the 1980 General Conference

1. It is the sense of this General Conference that the individuals served with process in the above-described actions, as purported agents of The United Methodist Church and who were declared by California courts to be authorized agents, have correctly interpreted their lack of representative capacity, as well as the polity and usages of The United Methodist Church in defending the denomination in all proceedings to date; also, that in so acting they have done all that could reasonably have been expected of any United Methodist placed in the severe and unprecedented legal dilemma which has confronted them. They wisely sought to prevent the entry of default judgments against the entire denomination, acting to the best of their ability. They have correctly resisted the erroneous efforts of civil courts to mold The United Methodist Church into a monolithic, unitary entity for purposes of the litigation, contrary to its own self-understanding and true polity as an ecclesial body.

2. It is further the sense of this General Conference that the Pacific Homes litigation and the ongoing attempts to hold the entire United Methodist denomination answerable for the alleged actions of any local unit related to the denomination poses a great threat to this denomination and its ongoing religious and charitable mission. They also threaten all other religious denominations and are an interference with the exercise of constitutional rights of freedom of religion and due process of law.

3. It is further the sense of this General Conference that such threats should be resolutely resisted and the rights of United Methodism resolutely defended in the courts pending final decisions, if need be in the highest court of the land.

4. This General Conference authorizes and directs the General Council on Finance and Administration to make provision for financial assistance, consistent with the established policy of the General Council on Finance and Administration, to the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference for legal fees in defending the Pacific Homes litigation until such time as a viable and equitable plan of reorganization of the Pacific Homes may be achieved.

5. This General Conference confirms the church's mission in ministry to all and encourages the Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference in its continued attempts at settling this delicate issue through an equitable plan of reorganization.

Responses to Referrals Reported During the 1980 General Conference

(Note: Report No. 18 dealt with the funding of the General Commission on Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns; its content is incorporated in the World Service Fund budget as found in Report No. 1.)

Report No. 19 Television Presence and Ministry

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends approval of the following:

Television Presence and Ministry Fund Campaign Principles and Outline

The Television Presence and Ministry Plan proposes to the 1980 General Conference that United Methodist Communications be authorized to undertake a capital funds campaign to raise at least $25 million during 1981-83. The money will be used primarily to invest in broadcast properties to create a separate and independent flow of income on an on-going basis for the communications ministry of The United Methodist Church. Profits from the operation of television and radio stations will flow from the for-profit corporation to a not-for-profit foundation and then to United Methodist Communications for use in communications ministries (see proposal in Advance Daily Christian Advocate, Report #69, p. D-137).

In recommending a funding plan, the Task Force on the Television Presence and Ministry developed a set of principles and an outline of procedures. In the process, they talked with representatives from two major fundraising firms, and members of the Task Force talked with several additional fund raisers. Professional persons within the denomination also have consulted.

• The Task Force has received encouragement as to the feasibility of such a campaign from professional counsel. In addition, experience of Task Force members has indicated that capital funds campaigns often stimulate and support other benevolence giving. The Task Force believes that this project will appeal to persons and secure funds which would otherwise not be available to the denomination.

United Methodists already are supporting television ministries—the television and radio preachers of the “electronic church.”

One such preacher, who raises between $25-30 million annually, is reported to receive a third of his contributions from United Methodists. The "Wall Street Journal" estimates that paid radio and television religion is a half-billion dollar industry. A significant portion of that money is United Methodist. While much of this money would not be available, the task force believes that United Methodists want to see their church on television and that they are willing to support it. The task force proposes that it is time for our denomination to make a dramatic and substantive move into media.

I. Campaign Principles and Guidelines

- A. The campaign will be sensitive to existing efforts in the United Methodist Church. In order to accomplish this, we have established the following guidelines:
1. No money will be requested from regular benevolence funds or from the World Service Fund.
  2. No quotas or goals will be assigned to any jurisdiction, area, conference, district or local church.
  3. The public funding campaign will not begin before January 1, 1981, after the new quadrennial programs have been launched and after local congregations have completed their regular budget campaigns in Fall, 1980.
  4. The major fund-raising emphasis of the campaign will be to individuals, both United Methodist and others.
  5. There will be a major effort to find people who are not already giving to the programs of The United Methodist Church and to provide a new stream of income.
  6. The campaign director will work closely with the leadership of the denomination at the jurisdictional, area, conference and district levels.
  7. Where there is mutual agreement local church leaders at the local level may voluntarily participate in the campaign as well as identify new sources of individual contributions.
  8. Progress reports and relevant information will be shared with the Council of Bishops, the General Council on Finance and Administration, the General Council on Ministries and with other appropriate leadership groups.
  9. There will be no special TV Ministries Sunday established nationally.
  10. Special campaign staff will be secured so that present staff is not diverted from their regular benevolence interpretation tasks.

- B. The campaign will use an in-house structure which will be accountable and report to United Methodist Communications.
  - 1. The campaign will be directed from within the agency, rather than using an outside fund-raising organization.
  - 2. Services by outside fund-raising counsel will be contracted for as appropriate, but direction and control will be maintained by United Methodist Communications.
  - 3. There will be division of the country into regions or major market areas based on concentrations of United Methodists.
  - 4. There will be the use of volunteer teams and leaders in the annual conferences and/or yet-to-be-defined geographic or market areas.
  - 5. There will be heavy use of direct mail to individual donors.
  - 6. The use of television itself may be an important part of the fund-raising campaign. Actual TV programming will probably be tied into any market-by-market effort.

II. Campaign Strategy

- A. Pre-campaign activities will begin immediately following General Conference and continue through 1980.
  - 1. Staffing: A national director will be secured who will be directly accountable to the General Secretary of United Methodist Communications.
  - 2. An internal, in-house Steering Committee, co-chaired by the President of the Board and the General Secretary of UMCom, will be created. This group will coordinate campaign strategy and give leadership and input to the national director and his/her staff.
  - 3. A campaign ascertainment study will be launched in early summer. Personal visits and mail questionnaires will go to bishops, district superintendents, selected conference leaders, selected ministers and laypersons.
  - 4. Evaluation of the study data will begin in late summer. From the evaluation should come information with regard to strengths and weaknesses in various regions, structures, leadership, timing and interest.
  - 5. Regional leadership will be selected and organizational meetings held.
  - 6. Identification will begin of potential major contributors, a list of 10-20,000 names (a major contributor could give $5,000 or more) and major pre-campaign gifts will be solicited.
  - 7. Creation of the "United Methodist Television Council" of 100 key leaders and persons who will contribute, help identify other contributors, and help approach major contributors.

- B. Public Campaign Solicitation will be launched no sooner than January 1, 1981. Activities will be guided by the campaign principles. Specific activities for each region will be determined by the findings of the ascertainment study. However, it is anticipated that the campaign will:
1. Organize committees and teams on a regional basis by television markets or by conferences and districts.
  2. Stage events in regional centers which may feature television specials and initiate contacts with individuals.
  3. Launch a direct mail campaign to a million potential contributors, United Methodist and others.
  4. Begin production of television specials or programs which would not only illustrate the potential of the Television Presence and Ministry campaign but also would lift up the ministry of The United Methodist Church.
  5. Create support materials such as a videotape or film, brochures, feedback systems, etc.
  6. Depend heavily on activity of the United Methodist Television Council in soliciting major gifts.
- C. An estate planning program will be established to help in the on-going support of the Television Presence and Ministry. The national average for colleges and universities shows a return in three to five years.
- D. Cost: Because of the unusual nature of the financial campaign, various fund-raising counselors have advised that campaign costs could run a range of 5% to 15% of the total campaign goal. Further research during the ascertainment study phase of the project will reveal a firmer percentage figure. After preliminary consultation and study, the Task Force on the Television Presence and Ministry Proposal determined that 10% of the campaign goal is a reasonable and appropriate campaign cost. Such costs will be paid for by campaign proceeds. The General Council on Finance and Administration has taken action to advance start-up costs which will be paid out of the proceeds of the campaign if the campaign is approved. It is estimated that such start-up costs through 1980 will be $250,000 to $400,000.
- E. Holding of Campaign Funds: Contributions will be sent directly to the Finance Office of United Methodist Communications in Nashville, Tennessee, and placed with the Service Center of the General Council on Finance and Administration there for immediate investment until needed for implementation of the Television Presence and Ministry Proposal.

F. Approval of the General Council on Finance and Administration is required for the plan of investment of funds in a broadcast station and before any investment of such funds or commitment to do so is made.

In summary, the campaign will be carried out following the guidelines and principles developed by the Task Force. We will use fund-raising counsel but direct and conduct the campaign with in-house staff. The campaign will be organized during 1980 and major pre-campaign gifts will be solicited. However, public campaign solicitation will not be launched before January 1, 1981. It is anticipated that the campaign will secure a minimum of $25,000,000 for the Television Presence and Ministry plan of The United Methodist Church.

Report No. 20
Bicentennial Committee and Funding

We approve the concept of the Bicentennial Fund, but in deference to the quadrennial emphasis already voted for the 1981-84 quadrennium on the $20 million Missional Priority, the new pension program and the $25 million Television Presence and Ministry, we recommend:

- 1) That the funding program be launched in the 1985-88 quadrennium if the 1984 General Conference approves;
- 2) That special emphasis be given to the beginning of the third century of United Methodism at the General Conference of 1984;
- 3) That the Bicentennial Fund be referred to the special Bicentennial Committee as established by this General Conference for detailed study and planning during 1981-84;
- 4) That detailed plans having the concurrence of the Council of Bishops, the General Council on Ministries and General Council on Finance and Administration be presented to the 1984 General Conference.
- 5) It is further recommended that up to $75,000 annually be made available to the Bicentennial Committee from the World Service Contingency Fund upon request to the General Council on Finance and Administration with annual proposed budgets for the anticipated expenditures for the following year.

(Adopted April 25, 1980, Journal pages 564-565.)

Report No. 21*Lovely Lane United Methodist Church

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends to the General Conference that permission be granted to the Lovely Lane United Methodist Church of Baltimore, Maryland to seek gifts from United Methodists to fund the restoration of that church. In accordance with Par. 912.3 of the 1976 Book of Discipline, it is understood that funds thus secured will be channeled through the Central Treasury of the General Council on Finance and Administration.

(Adopted April 25, 1980, Journal page 567.)

Report No. 22*Women's History Project

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends to the General Conference that the Women's History Project be referred to the Commission on Archives and History for funding within its budget.

Adopted April 25, 1980, Journal page 567.)

Report No. 23*Ethnic Minority Curriculum Resources

The General Council on Finance and Administration recommends to the General Conference that the funding for the ethnic minority curriculum resources be from the Missional Priority Fund; and that the funding within the fund be referred to the General Council on Ministries to negotiate with the four program boards receiving money from this fund for appropriate sharing of the cost of these curriculum resources.

(Adopted April 25, 1980, Journal page 567.)

Report No. 10

Report on the Reference for the Evaluation Of The Churches' Center For Theology and Public Policy

(This report is from both the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries.)

The General Conference in 1976 approved a recommendation from the Methodist Corporation that from the sale of real estate in Washington, D.C., a trust fund be accumulated to the principal amount of the remaining proceeds, $973,195.76, more or less, which fund shall be under the custody and control of GCFA; that the income from the investment of this fund up to $50,000 annually be made available to the Churches' Center for Theology and Public Policy; that $50,000 be paid annually to the center for the four years 1977-80; that if the income is not available in any year, GCFA shall negotiate advances with the center; and that the program of the center be evaluated by GCFA and GCOM and a recommendation be submitted by these councils to the General Conference of 1980 concerning the continuation of The Methodist Corporation Trust Fund, or the turning over of the trust principal to the center, or other recommendation.

A joint committee of the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries met in Washington, D.C., in February of 1979 for the purpose of evaluating the center's program. The committee visited the center at Wesley Seminary and held several sessions with staff and members of the center's board of directors and representatives of the Wesley Seminary faculty and staff.

The joint committee made the following report to the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries:

The genesis of the idea of the Churches' Center for Theology and Public Policy originated in the Bishops' Call for Peace and Self-Development of Peoples, and the principle has been endorsed by United Methodist leadership, including GCOM and the General Board of Global Ministries. In 1973 Dr. Paul Minear, professor emeritus of Biblical Theory at Yale University, and Dr. Paul Minus, Professor of Church History at the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, first discussed the idea of establishing such a center to strengthen the vocations of Christian leadership in the political order. As a result of exploratory discussions with various seminary faculties and church leaders, the idea attracted strong interest from the Washington Cathedral (Episcopal), the Woodstock Theological Center (Jesuit), and the Washington Theological Consortium (Roman Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, United Methodist, and nondenominational seminaries).

An ecumenical planning committee was formed in September, 1975, evolving into a sponsoring committee and, in the bicentennial spring of 1976, a board of directors chaired by Bishop James K. Mathews of the Washington Area was named. The center was incorporated in the District of Columbia. Father Edward Glenn, S.J., director of the Woodstock Theological Center, was appointed acting director of the new venture. Various communions provided financial support. Office facilities were established at Wesley Theological Seminary, adjacent to the American University. Monthly gatherings of Washington area associates were inaugurated.

In January, 1977, at a press conference on Capitol Hill, Bishop Mathews announced the imminent activation of the center with the appointment of Professor Alan Geyer of Colgate University as the first executive director, effective June of that year.

The stated objectives of the center are:

1. To muster the intellectual resources of the churches for sustained study of the bearing of Christian faith on political life and thought.
2. To develop humane perspectives on policy issues and processes, with special concern for justice to the poor, the powerless, and the oppressed and for the peace of the whole human family.
3. To affirm and nourish the ministry of the laity among politicians, bureaucrats, diplomats, judges, lobbyists, and activists.
4. To empower church leaders and groups for competent and credible action in the policy arena by a thorough grounding in research and reflection.
5. To assess the attitudes and behavior of the churches as they affect public life, with particular concern for integrity between pronouncements and practice.

The cross-disciplinary, dialogical approach of the center is undergirded by a fully ecumenical pattern of work. The center studies policy structures and issues in cross-cultural perspective whenever feasible, believing that the values which shape U.S. policy are not to be absolutely identified as universal truth and perfect justice. The center maintains a very modest core staff and focuses a major portion of its resources on strategies of communication with its varied constituencies.

Many of the center's activities involve a deliberate effort to mix four clienteles which are often isolated, if not estranged, from each other: (1) policy-makers, including legislators, executives, and staffs; (2) nongovernmental organizations active in seeking to shape and influence policymaking; (3) policy analysts in academic and research institutions, particularly social scientists; (4) theologians, ethicists, and other humanists concerned with the political implications of beliefs and values.

The program of the center has five principal features: (1) Policy panels bring together government leaders, nongovernmental activists, secular scholars, theologians, ethicists, and church leaders to explore such problems as urban policy and disarmament with a view toward designing and monitoring research, developing theological and biblical perspectives, projecting a conceptual framework for more humane policies, and making recommendations to the church. (2) Study groups on foundation issues have given emphasis to the theology of politics. (3) A group of people from the Washington area, called "center associates," has helped nurture collegial and personal development. (4) A series of "staff and fellows seminars" has helped nurture collegial and personal development. (5) The center has published a basic informational brochure, two newsletters, six monographs (Shalom papers), a study document for the National Council of Churches, a joint urban document with the National Association of Ecumenical Staff, and a number of special papers and lectures.

The chief financial support of the center has come from The United Methodist Church, which has contributed $50,000 in 1977, $50,000 in 1978, and $50,000 in 1979 from the income of The Methodist Corporation Trust Fund. The principal of this fund totaled $335,882 at December 31, 1979, and earned approximately $54,636 in interest during the three-year period. The contributions to the center left a deficit balance of approximately $95,364 in the expendable portion of the fund.

Financial support has also come from eleven other Protestant denominations, three Catholic institutions, and six diocesan groups. Unfortunately, most of these contributions have been modest.

The center's budget for 1979 projects income of $80,500 with $50,000 coming from The United Methodist Church, $30,000 from other churches and individuals, and $500 from publication sales.

Wesley Seminary has provided an estimated $13,000 in-kind contribution to the center in office space, utilities, maintenance, and instructional services.

The committee on evaluation was well-impressed by the qualifications, competence, energy, resourcefulness, productivity, commitment, frugality, and ecumenicity of the center's staff. The executive director obviously is giving strong and effective leadership, utilizing his limited financial resources to best advantage. The programs are well designed to achieve their stated objectives. The Shalom papers are well written and have been utilized effectively. The potential of influence of the programs and publications on appropriate constituencies appears to be considerable. The board of directors, although limited in geographical representation, is broad in expertise and denominational affiliation. Members interviewed were familiar with and highly supportive of the staff and programs. They are concerned about the need for more financial support; but, in the opinion of the committee on evaluation, the directors have not exercised their maximum influence in soliciting additional funds. The sizeable support from The United Methodist Church in the initial stages of the center's operation is a good investment and should be continued. The relationship between the center and Wesley Seminary is healthy and mutually advantageous.

On the basis of this evaluation, the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries recommend to the 1980 General Conference that:

1. The Methodist Corporation Trust Fund be continued under the custody of the General Council on Finance and Administration.
2. An annual payment of $50,000 from the income of the fund to the Churches' Center for Theology and Public Policy be continued.
3. The United Methodist Church reaffirm its strong support of the center and encourage increased financial contributions from individuals, corporations, foundations, and other church groups.
4. The United Methodist Church encourage its appropriate agencies to utilize the services of the center.
5. The board of directors of the center be encouraged to exercise more initiative in raising additional funds.
6. A further evaluation of the center be conducted at least twice by the General Council on Finance and Administration and the General Council on Ministries during the 1981-84 quadrennium and a report be made to the 1984 General Conference.

It is recommended that the center circulate more widely the availability of its publications.

Report No. 18 Resolution on Special Sundays

Be It Resolved, That the whole of Par. 269 of the 1976 Book of Discipline be deleted;

Be It Further Resolved, That based on Report Number 41 of the General Council on Ministries, after consultation with the Council of Bishops and the General Council on Finance and Administration, the following legislation be substituted as the new Par. 269:

Section VIII. Special Sundays

¶ 269. The Special Sundays in The United Methodist Church are intended to be illustrative of the nature and calling of the Church, and are celebrated annually. The Special Sundays are placed on the calendar in the context of the Christian year, which is designed to make clear the calling of the Church as the people of God, and to give persons the opportunity of contributing offerings to special programs.

Four special churchwide Sundays provide for churchwide offerings to do deeds expressive of our commitment: Human Relations Day, One Great Hour of Sharing, United Methodist Student Day, and World Communion Sunday. Three Special Sundays without offering: Heritage Sunday, Laity Sunday, and World Order Sunday. One Churchwide Sunday, Christian Education Sunday and One Annual Conference Sunday, Golden Cross Sunday provide opportunities for Annual Conference offerings.

The Special Sundays approved by General Conference shall be the only Sundays of churchwide emphasis. The program calendar of the denomination shall include only the special Sundays approved by General Conference, special Sundays approved by ecumenical agencies to which The United Methodist Church is officially related, and the days and seasons of the Christian year.

Special Sundays with Offering. The purpose of the church-wide offerings shall be determined by General Conference upon recommendation of the General Council on Finance and Administration, after consultation with the Council of Bishops and the General Council on Ministries. The purpose of these funds shall remain constant for the quadrennium and shall be promoted by United Methodist Communications.

Each offering shall be promptly remitted by the local church treasurer to the Annual Conference treasurer, who shall transmit the funds to the General Council on Finance and Administration within thirty (30) days of receipt in the office of the Annual Conference treasurer.

Special Sundays Without Offering. The program functions assigned to the general agencies are carried out by the respective agencies through normal programmatic channels. Special Sundays are not needed for these program functions to be implemented.

The two Special Sundays without offering are to be administered as follows:

Heritage Sunday—Commission on Archives and History.

Laity Sunday—The Board of Discipleship.

Any general agency of the Church which desires to recommend a theme for a given year for either of these two Sundays may do so one year prior to the observance for which the recommendation is made. This recommendation is to be made to the administering agency, and the decision of the annual theme of these Sundays shall be made by the voting members of the administering agency.

The Sundays without offering shall be approved by the General Conference upon recommendation of the General Council on Ministries, after consultation with the Council of Bishops.

The churchwide special Sundays are as follows:

1. Human Relations Day shall be observed on the last Sunday of the Season of Epiphany with an offering goal recommended by the General Council on Finance and Administration. Epiphany is the season of manifesting God's light to the world. Human Relations Day calls the Church to recognize the right of all God's children in realizing their potential as human beings in relationship with each other. The purpose of the day is to further the development of better human relations through funding programs determined by the General Conference upon recommendation of the General Council on Finance and Administration after consultation with the General Council on Ministries.

For the 1981-84 quadrennium an annual goal of $750,000 shall be established; the offering receipts will be allocated and administered as follows:

a) Community Developers Program: 50 percent (administered by the National Division, General Board of Global Ministries).

b) United Methodist Voluntary Services Program: 45 percent (administered by the National Division, General Board of Global Ministries).

c) Police-Community Relations Program: 5 percent (administered by the General Board of Church and Society).

Net receipts of the Human Relations Day offering shall be distributed on ratio to the administering agencies.

2. One Great Hour of Sharing shall be observed on the fourth Sunday of Lent. Lent is the season of repentance, self-examination and awareness of the hurts of the people of the world. One Great Hour of Sharing calls the Church to share the goodness of life with those who hurt. All local churches shall be fully informed and encouraged to receive a freewill offering in behalf of the relief program. The observance shall be under the general supervision of United Methodist Communications. Insofar as possible, the planning and promotion of the One Great Hour of Sharing shall be done cooperatively with other denominations through the National Council of Churches, it being understood, however, that receipts shall be administered by The United Methodist Church. Net receipts from the offering, after payment of the expenses of promotion, shall be remitted by the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration to the United Methodist Committee on Relief Division of the General Board of Global Ministries, to be administered by that committee.

3. Heritage Sunday shall be observed on the Sunday following April 23, the date of the birth of The United Methodist Church. It falls during Eastertide, the season in which we remember the resurrection and triumph of our Lord. Heritage Sunday calls the Church to remember the past by committing itself to the continuing call of God.

4. Laity Sunday shall be observed on the second Sunday in October. Laity Sunday calls the Church to celebrate the ministry of all Christians, including lay men, lay women and youth, as their lives are empowered for ministry by the Holy Spirit.

5. Christian Education Sunday shall be observed on a date determined by the Annual Conference. It calls the Church as the people of God to be open to growth and learning as disciples of Jesus Christ. If the Annual Conference so directs, an offering may be received for the work of Christian education within the Annual Conference. Local church treasurers shall remit the receipts of the offering to the annual conference treasurer, and receipts will be acknowledged in accordance with the procedure of the Annual Conference. Local churches shall report the amount of the offering in the manner indicated in the Local Church Report to the Annual Conference.

6. World Communion Sunday shall be observed the first Sunday of October. World Communion Sunday calls the Church to be the catholic inclusive Church. In connection with World Communion Sunday there shall be a churchwide appeal conducted by United Methodist Communications in accord with the following directives: Each local church shall be requested to remit as provided in ¶ 915.6 all the Communion offering received on World Communion Sunday and such portion of the Communion offering received at other observances of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper as the local church may designate.

The net receipts, after payment of promotional costs, shall be divided as follows: 50 percent for Crusade Scholarships, to be administered by the Crusade Scholarship Committee; 35 percent for the Ethnic Minority Scholarship Program and 15 percent for the Ethnic Minority In-Service Training Program, the last two to be administered by the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

7. World Order Sunday has been an ecumenical observance of the churches since the founding of the United Nations thirty-five years ago this year. This celebration in the churches is observed world-wide as United Nations Day. We affirm World Order Sunday as the symbol of our continuing witness of and support for the work of the United Nations. Because the United Nations works toward the purpose of peace and justice for the world's peoples, it is appropriate that World Order Sunday be observed on the Sunday or preceding October 24. It reminds the church of its task and of the wholeness of the Gospel which includes structures in the secular realm. It also suggests specific actions to the church as it moves in that direction.

8. United Methodist Student Day shall be observed on the Sunday after Thanksgiving. United Methodist Student Day calls the Church to support students as they prepare for life in uniting faith with knowledge. The United Methodist Student Day offering, taken annually on the Sunday after Thanksgiving, shall be received for the support of The United Methodist Scholarships and The United Methodist Student Loan Fund. There shall be an annual goal of $2,000,000. Net receipts from the offering, after payment of the expenses of promotion, shall be remitted by the treasurer of the General Council on Finance and Administration to the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry, to be administered by that board.

Annual Conference Special Sundays. 1. Golden Cross Sunday shall be observed annually on the first Sunday in May. If the Annual Conference so directs, an offering may be received for the work of health and welfare ministries in the Annual Conference. Local church treasurers shall remit the receipts of the offering to the Annual Conference treasurer, and receipts will be acknowledged in accordance with the procedure of the Annual Conference. Local churches shall report the amount of the offering in the manner indicated on the Local Church Report to the Annual Conference.

2. Annual Conferences may determine other special Sundays with or without offering. Special Sundays with offering shall be approved by the Annual Conference upon recommendation of the Annual Conference Council on Ministries in consultation with Annual Conference Council on Finance and Administration. Special Sundays without offering shall be approved by the Annual Conference upon recommendation of the Annual Conference Council on Ministries.

Costs

The General Council on Ministries shall evaluate the ratio of communication and advertising costs to the contributions received on the churchwide special Sundays and report these to the 1984 General Conference.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Council on Ministries Report No. 34; see Journal pages 481-483.)

Report No. 19

Resolution on Guidelines For Eliminating Racist, Sexist, Ageist Language From United Methodist Publications

“The GCOM shall establish a task force to draw up a new and exhaustive set of guidelines for eliminating sexism, racism and ageism in language content, theology, and imagery from all Church resource materials, and mandate that such guidelines shall be adhered to in —Church periodicals

—Curriculum materials
—All publications of boards or agencies
—All other printed materials and audiovisual resources produced by The United Methodist Church.”

The task force, established as a result of this action, completed its work in early November, 1978. The General Council voted to approve the guidelines for submission to the 1980 General Conference.

Therefore, it is resolved that the Guidelines for Eliminating Racism, Ageism, and Sexism from United Methodist Resource Materials, as detailed in Report Number 42, including the two recommendations at the end of the report to 1980 General Conference, be approved for use throughout the Church.

For reference, the text of the above two mentioned recommendations is:

1. We recommend that the 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church direct the General Council on Ministries to assign an appropriate agency or agencies the task for developing guidelines which would discourage the stereotyping of people with handicapping conditions, of diverse lifestyles (economic, marital, sexual), and of religions other than Christian.

2. In developing guidelines to eliminate sexist and racist language and imagery from United Methodist publications, we have become aware of a biblical and theological heritage of language used in liturgy and Bible translations that may be contrary to our guidelines. However, since changes in this language call for a scholarly understanding of Bible translations, liturgical history, and theological foundations of our faith, we ask that the 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church direct the GCOM to find a way to assign this issue to appropriate agencies so that Bible scholars, theologians, and liturgical scholars may bring recommendations for resolving this issue.

Report No. 20

Resolution on the Report Entitled Communications in the United Methodist Church

Be It Resolved that the report, Communications In The United Methodist Church, as found in Report 43, be approved by

Resolution on the Observance Of the Bicentennial Of American Methodism By The United Methodist Church

The 1976 General Conference authorized the Council of Bishops and the General Council on Ministries to develop plans for a 1984 bicentennial celebration of 200 years of American Methodism, and to present these plans to the 1980 General Conference.

The Bicentennial Planning Committee, established as a result of this action, has carefully considered the matter and has proposed plans for the celebration of the bicentennial observance. These plans are described in detail in the Report of the Bicentennial Planning Committee to the 1980 General Conference.

The plans for the observance include these major points:

- 1) The bicentennial observance will be organized around the tripart theme: Claiming the Past, Celebrating the Present, Challenging the Future.
- 2) The bicentennial observance will call for a concerted, systematic church-wide ingathering of freewill offerings to give substance to the 200-year celebration. Every United Methodist will be asked to participate by giving at least $1.00 annually for four years (1983-1986) in order to achieve a goal of $40,000,000 for the organizing of new congregations and the renewal of existing congregations.
- 3) The bicentennial observance shall be coordinated by a national Bicentennial Committee composed of eight representatives of the Council of Bishops, eight members of the General Council on Ministries, and eight additional members appointed by the two councils. The Bicentennial Committee will be accountable to the Council of Bishops and the General Council on Ministries. It will be convened and staffed by the GCOM. Programs shall be implemented through the general boards and agencies where appropriate.
- 4) Funding needed for the Bicentennial Committee is to be provided by GCFA. These funds are to be repaid to GCFA by funds generated by the Bicentennial observance to a total of $309,300 in the 1981-1984 quadrennium.

Therefore, It Is Resolved that the plans for the bicentennial observance of American Methodism as detailed in the Report of the Bicentennial Planning Committee to the 1980 General Conference be approved.

(By action of the General Conference on Legislative Committee on Council on Ministries Report No. 46, this report was referred to the General Council on Finance and Administration for a recommendation on its funding aspects. Other portions of the report were adopted; see Journal, pages 437-440, 1546. General Conference action on General Council on Finance and Administration Report No. 20 deferred the funding provisions until the 1985-88 quadrennium pending approval of the 1984 General Conference; see Journal, pages 564-565, 1789.)

Resolution on the Joint Celebration Of the Bicentennial of American Methodism in 1984 by Methodist Denominations

Introduction

For all in the United States who share the religious heritage with Christians called Methodists, 1984 is a significant date. With the establishment of the Constitution of the United States, it was with the blessing of John Wesley that Methodists in this nation organized to establish a church separate from the Church of England and, indeed, also from the organizational structures of Methodists in England.

From this common starting point sprang many Methodist bodies, of which over forty exist today. Thus, the observance of the bicentennial of Methodism in the United States is an occasion for celebration, not only for The United Methodist Church, but also for other Methodist communions. Many of these Methodist communions feel it is appropriate to participate together in this celebration. It is in this spirit that the following joint resolution is presented to the 1980 General Conference of The United Methodist Church, just as it has been or will be presented to the General Conferences of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Church Zion, the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, the Wesleyan Church, the Free Methodist Church, and others.

Acknowledging that in the formal sense American Methodism was first organized as The Methodist Episcopal Church at the "Christmas Conference" in Baltimore, Maryland, December, 1784;

Noting that all "people called Methodists" in the United States, of whatever denominational designation (A.M.E., A.M.E.Z., C.M.E., U.M.C., Wesleyan, Primitive, Free Methodist, etc.) have a common origin in this historic event;

Admitting that a great Christian witness should be possible by some joint celebration of American Methodism in 1984; and

Having heard from its bishops that other member-denominations of the Methodist family intend to take similar action;

Therefore the General Conference of The United Methodist Church (and such other denominations as shall join in this resolution) hereby: (1) records its readiness to cooperate with other American based denominations of the Wesleyan heritage in planning and carrying out some appropriate common event of witness and celebration of this bicentennial to be held during the year of our Lord 1984; and (2) states its willingness to join with sister denominations in a planning commission to be made up of three to five representatives from each denomination; and (3) in addition, states that as a denomination it will plan such other forms of recognition of this anniversary as it may deem appropriate.

Resolution on a Study Of the Program and Funding Patterns Of The United Methodist Church

In the course of the 1977-1980 quadrennium a Joint Task Force of the Advance Committee and the General Budget and Allocations Committee of the General Council on Ministries dealt with several issues related to the utilization of Advance funds and with the program funding concerns of agencies. As a result of that work the General Council on Ministries approved and recommends to the 1980 General Conference the adoption of the following resolution:

Inasmuch as there have been critical changes in world economic conditions and changes in the patterns of program staffing and resourcing at all levels of the church, there is a need for the church to reassess its program functions and to support more adequately its essential mission.

Therefore, it is recommended that the General Conference of 1980 instruct the Council of Bishops, the General Council on Ministries, and the General Council on Finance and Administration, within the context of their present responsibilities, jointly to lead a study of the program and funding patterns of the Church, in an effort to improve the program and increase the funding to be made available for its program, involving consultation with representatives of the general agencies, annual conferences and local church leaders, and persons involved in promotion and stewardship; and that recommendations be made to the General Conference of 1984.

Report No. 33
Resolution on the Church in a Mass Media Culture

At the request of the Joint Committee on Communications (United Methodist Communications), the General Council on Ministries recommends that the General Conference of 1980 adopt the following resolution (to be printed in The Book of Resolutions) on The Church in a Mass Media Culture:

The Church in a Mass Media Culture

The mass media—especially radio, television (including cable TV), motion pictures, newspapers, books, and magazines—are pervasive and influential forces in our culture. Their influence can be either positive or negative, manipulative or open, humanizing or dehumanizing.

The technologies and devices of mass media are of themselves amoral. It is the structures created for utilization and the messages carried or omitted which move the media into the area of values. The church must be a constant, questioning participant in the presence of the structures and uses of mass media throughout the world.

The goals of The United Methodist Church, based on our understanding of the gospel, are clear:

- Persons everywhere must be free in their efforts to live meaningful lives.
- Channels of communication must operate in open, authentic, and humanizing ways.
- Church persons should be involved seriously and continuously in the communication systems of their societies.

In the implementation of these goals, we must be aware of the socializing power of the mass media: all mass media are educational. Whether they deal with information, opinion, entertainment, escape, explicit behavioral models, or subtle suggestion, the mass media are always involved, directly or indirectly, in values. Therefore, as Christians we must confront such major questions as:

- Who controls the media? Who determines the structures and the public's access to the mass media?
- Who uses the media structures and for what purposes? Who determines message content and within what guidelines of responsibility?
- What rights does the recipient or consumer have in determining media structure and content? What is the consumer's responsibility in bringing critical appraisal and judgment to the messages received?

- What is the appropriate response to the growing demands of developing countries that there be a new and more just world information system which meets the needs of their countries?

General Conference sets forth the following principles and guidelines, recognizing that appropriate action will depend upon the efforts and involvement of United Methodist members and agencies.

As Christians we affirm the principle of freedom of expression as a right of every person, both individually and corporately. We oppose any laws which attempt to abridge freedom of expression and state our concern about the growing incidents of repression of freedom of expression around the world. This requires that:

- Freedom of expression, whether by spoken or printed word, or any visual or artistic medium should be exercised within a framework of social responsibility.
- The church is aware of increasing pressure toward the use of censorship. While reaffirming that all communication must take place within a framework of social responsibility, the church is opposed to censorship.
- The principle of freedom of the press must be maintained, even when the cost is high, and receive full support from the church and its constituents.
- The airwaves are held in trust for the public by radio and television broadcasters, with access to them regulated by government, while the broadcaster is responsible for the content of the programming. This right does not abridge the public's "right to know" and to be fairly represented.
- We encourage continued development of public broadcasting as a complementary communications voice.
- All persons of every nation should have equal access to channels of communication so they can participate fully in the life of the world.
- To this end, we encourage the participation of United Methodist members and agencies in the study and continuing dialogue across national boundaries concerning the development of a "new world information order."
- The appropriate agencies of The United Methodist Church should keep abreast of new communication technologies and structures, helping the church to stay informed so it may respond to developments which affect the human condition.

While we acknowledge the responsibility of media professionals to determine the societal and moral content of mass media, we must continue to oppose the practices of those persons and systems which use media for purposes of human exploitation by:

- Emphasis on violence
- Pornography
- Appeals to self-indulgence
- Presenting consumerism as a way of life
- Offering easy solutions to complex problems
- Favoring the mass audience to the exclusion of individual needs
- Withholding significant information
- Treating news as entertainment
- Presenting events in isolation from the larger social context
- Stereotyping of characters in terms of sex roles, ethnic or racial background, occupation, age, and economic status
- Failing to deal with significant political and social issues objectively and in depth
- An overriding concern for maximizing profit
- Discriminatory employment practices
- Presenting misleading or dangerous product information or omission of information

In a media consumer society, we urge the church to devise creative ways of responding to the messages of the mass media. This will require the church to:

- Initiate, participate in, and keep abreast of communications research on the prosocial and antisocial effects of media content.
- Develop criteria and resources by which, as Christians, church members can interpret what is being communicated to them through the mass media. This includes: 1) interpretation in depth of significant media content; 2) providing resource materials on the impact of media for special study groups; 3) providing advance information about significant media presentations and programs; 4) helping parents exercise their responsibility for guiding their children in the use of mass media; 5) utilizing film, book, television, and journalism reviews and analyses designed to give guidance for intelligent and selective mass media consumption.
- Employ meaningfully the content of mass media in the church's ministry, recognizing that all media messages speak from a theological base.
- Recognize that the communications professions, no less than other pursuits, offer opportunities for service and ministry to people. Work with the mass media at local and national levels, linking the life of the church with the life of the community.

We urge our churches to communicate, serve, and minister to their communities through the public media. This will require our churches to:

- Discover the needs of persons in the community and determine how the church can minister to those needs through the media.
- Work with other churches in an ecumenical spirit of service and ministry.
- Commit time, budget, and talent to a ministry through the media.
- Maintain high ethical and moral standards in utilizing the media. Recognize the variety of purposes the church can fulfill in communicating through the mass media, such as education, witness, evangelizing, information, social action, service, and ministry.
- Finally, we call upon the mass media industries and leaders to recognize their power and to use this power responsibly in enabling persons to achieve their fullest potential as children and adults of God.

Report on the Recommendation For a Missional Priority On Developing and Strengthening The Ethnic Minority Local Church

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that as the Missional Priority, "Developing and Strengthening the Ethnic Minority Local Church" be adopted for the quadrennium of 1981-1984, except in the Central Conferences which determine that this is not the basic need in their churches, and when such determination is made the Central Conference shall establish its own missional priority.

Preamble

A singular blessing is flowing into the life and spirit of The United Methodist Church out of the Missional Priority on the Ethnic Minority Local Church. It is the unique richness of our pluralism.

The usual concept associated with integration has been sameness; that is to say that if all United Methodist churches were the same in liturgy, forms of worship, et al, contentment and peace would reign. The missional priority has helped us understand that we must transcend the institutional structures, lifestyle, and traditional thought patterns.

The molds of our heritage cannot and should not be broken. The new awakening within the church is an evolution that makes use of the richness of our heritages, fashioning new vessels that celebrate the pluralism as an act of God in history.

In Christ we are Black, Pacific and Asian, Hispanic, Native or White Americans—we are all one in Christ. Oneness is not to be equated with sameness. The richness of our oneness is our pluralism. This is not to deny the validity of our ethnic heritages but to use them to the glory of God and the bringing in of the Kingdom of God.

The greatest strength of The United Methodist Church is to be attained when we at once affirm our separate heritages and identify and commit these with ourselves in celebration of our unity in Christ. “The Missional Priority to Develop and Strengthen the Ethnic Minority Local Church” has a global dimension. The United Methodist Church is a worldwide church. When seen from an ethnic perspective, The United Methodist Church is a part of the white minority. From the perspective of the Christian community, God’s people, we are under mandate to be witnesses and share in the life, redemption, and welfare of all people around the world. At the same time, as we affirm and celebrate our unity, we must appeal to God’s forgiving grace for our failure to live up to what we affirm and celebrate.

The Missional Priority to Develop and Strengthen the Ethnic Minority Local Church in its achievements and in the areas of its shortcomings will be shared by the total church, The United Methodist Church around the world. Our witness has a global dimension, and it will have a global response and global implications. We are under the judgment of God.

Missional Priority Defined

A missional priority is a response to a critical need in God’s world with global implications which calls for The United Methodist Church's massive and sustained effort through primary attention to ordering and reordering program and budget at every level of the church as adopted by the General Conference, or in accord with Par. 1005.1 of the 1976 Book of Discipline. This need is evidenced by research or other supporting data, and the required response is beyond the capacity of any single agency or annual conference.

An outline would look like the following:

A missional priority includes the following characteristics:

1. It addresses a critical need.
2. The need is established by research and supporting data.
3. The need is so broad it interrelates national and global ministries of the church.
4. The need lies beyond the capacity of a single agency or annual conference to address effectively.
5. The need calls for massive and sustained responses.
6. The priority requires reordering programs and budgets on every level of the church.
7. The issue goes beyond the programs and finances to achieve personal and institutional changes.

It is understood the ethnic minority local churches are composed primarily of Black, Hispanic, Native, Pacific and Asian Americans—persons with a history of being exploited, oppressed, and neglected, but who have a rich heritage of culture.

Purpose for the Ethnic Minority Local Church Missional Priority

1. Recruitment of ethnic ministers
2. New forms of evangelism and to provide an evangelistic thrust for the most rapidly growing population segment of our society, namely the ethnic minorities.
3. Education/training related to ethnic church needs and practices
4. Inclusion and enhancement of ethnic ritual, liturgy, and tradition in ethnic minority churches
5. Increased visibility and representation of ethnic minority persons in church boards, agencies, commissions, and committees at all levels of the church's life
6. Greater ethnic accord
7. Intentional recruitment and training of lay women, lay men, and youth for church leadership at all levels
8. Ethnic minority churches should be utilized in all board, agency, and annual conference hunger projects

9. The participation of every United Methodist local church, not only in payment of the missional priority apportioned benevolence, but in study to understand and share in the richness of our ethnic heritages, the many benefits of our pluralism and the celebration of Christian community in the family of God
10. To affirm the global dimension of the church and to celebrate our unity in Christ
11. To explore ways of using mass media, social and Church structures and other institutional forces in forming values in public and private life
12. Financial goal—(annually)—Apportioned Benevolence—$5,000,000
13. United Methodists to participate in the elimination of racial injustices; in the support of Human Rights.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

1. The review of the records of achievements and the performance of the church is witness to the fact that God's blessing is upon the missional priority. It testifies to the validity of the venture and urges upon the church the need to continue the missional priority.
2. There has emerged in the total church a sensitivity to the potential in evangelistic mission within the ethnic minority local churches and communities that is born of the Holy Spirit and needs time to mature.
3. The white constituency is beginning to express the historical theological position of The United Methodist Church in combating discrimination due to race, color, national origin, or economic condition.
4. The biblical mandate to the church is, although in Christ we are Black, Pacific and Asian, Hispanic, Native Americans, and White Americans—we are all one in Christ. We come into the Body of Christ with the validity and richness of our ethnic heritages as an affirmation of Christ's unifying and liberating power, and the use of our separate and varied gifts. The missional priority reveals our need for repentance, forgiveness and prayer for the capacity of spirit to achieve our goal as one Body in Christ.
5. Because 95 percent of The United Methodist Church has a white heritage, it means the intractability of racism within society and the church is a condition that calls for constant extra effort to overcome. The missional priority has given birth to a new determination to harvest the richness of our ethnic pluralism while affirming our oneness in Christ.

The haunting evil continues to pervade the total church. As evidence mounts concerning the church's persisting complicity in the insidious operations of racism which prevail in the land and penetrate their own behavior, United Methodists could grow weary in the demanding battles against racism. They could settle for shadow boxing where ineffectual gestures and shining pronouncements do not engage the real enemy which manipulates whites and oppressed colorful peoples. Faced with threatening developments abroad and their constricting consequences at home, the United Methodist people could follow those who withdraw into religious highs and indulge in sanctimonious "feelies" which substitute for authentic faith. Or, they could rally with those who would lash out against others they see as sources of their frustrations. Such spirits which are on the rise in this society cannot be called the Holy Spirit.

As Jesus taught us, and as our heritage illustrates, when the Holy Spirit is poured out upon us, the alienated and rejected are taken hold by an acceptance stronger than any rejection which humankind could hurl against them. "The Spirit bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God" (Romans 8:16). We are not the pitiful offspring of a lower grade of humanity, a freak accident of nature, or the tools of evil forces. By faith, we who "were no people have become the people of God" (I Peter 2:10). Hallelujah! Praise God for that love that is stronger than rejection or neglect! Only when this happens are we the church.

6. The missional priority program has revealed the great distances that separate ethnic churches from each other and the white church confessionally, liturgically, and functionally. It also affirms the theological mandate of the potentialities of acceptance and Christian fellowship.
7. The missional priority remains a theological and biblical challenge to redeem The United Methodist Church for missional opportunities in today's world.
8. The situation today is comparable to Jesus and his contemporaries. While they longed for a God-sent Savior who would restore past greatness, Jesus called his people to live in vulnerable yet trusting service to God and neighbor amidst the hazards of the world. Working with a compassionate God who would rectify wrongs, his obedience to God's call led to the cross. It also unleashed upon mankind an unquenchable light and life for the healing of nations!

9. The United Methodist Church under the leadership of the Holy Spirit can no longer exclude and reject persons because of their ethnic heritage, either from the church or the societal systems. If the church is obedient to the leadership of the Holy Spirit, it will find itself identified with the marginalized, the oppressed, and rejected.

The question emerges: can a Christian body identified with significant advances in the past draw in people set aside by their churches and the society of which they are a part? Or must the marginalized become new agents of God in a separate enterprise as followers of Jesus as the Wesleyans were forced to do?

10. The Central Conferences are urged to develop their own programmatic implications for this missional priority.

Report No. 53
Report on the Special Program on Africa

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that a special program emphasizing “Africa” be adopted and assigned to the General Board of Global Ministries for implementation for the quadrennium 1981-1984.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

Africa at this point in its development is the scene of God’s action in history in very visible ways. It is urgent that The United Methodist Church not only give recognition to this but make itself, together with resources available, as a partner to the African churches in responding to God’s action.

Some of the evidence of God’s action in the unfolding history of the African church is:

1. Rapid growth of the churches, 10 percent per annum.
2. The emergence of a call for holistic discipleship. The church in Africa has in the making a self-image of its evangelistic mission in the total affairs of Africa.
3. The African church understands the rapid pace of changes in the total life of the African continent as a manifestation of God’s action in history. This program design supports that understanding.
4. Christianity is endeavoring to live out the gospel of Christ as it searches for its mission and ministry in this continent of rapid and total change.
5. This program provides the channel of expression of the theological/biblical self-understanding of The United Methodist Church as a worldwide movement and its creedal covenant.

Purpose

The special emphasis on “Africa” is needed in the 1981-1984 quadrennium to accomplish the following objectives:

1. National African leadership development
2. A new evangelism
3. The indigenization of the Christian faith
4. Broaden and strengthen ecumenical relationships
5. Highlight and support the effort in liberation and achievement of human rights
6. To strengthen the status and role of women through special programs
7. To develop essential programs in communication
8. Set up dialogues with other religions
9. To give undergirding to self-determination and mutuality
10. To help the African church identify and carry out its role in the new economic, political, and social situations emerging in Africa

Implementation

1. Leadership development/training. Training is the one most important area where Christianity must be strengthened.
2. The development of a relevant evangelism with strength

4. Providing program in essential communications
5. Conferences and conversations with leaders of the other religions
6. The development of special program in the support of women
7. Provide resources in support of self-determination and mutuality

And Campus—An Essential Evangelism

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that a special program emphasizing "The Church and Campus—Essential Evangelism" be adopted and assigned to the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry for implementation for the quadrennium 1981-1984.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

1. The mandate of the faith calls for a vigilant search for truth and a vital relationship to God. The Social Creed of The United Methodist Church states, in part, "We believe in God, Creator of the world, and in Jesus Christ the Redeemer of creation. . . ." This affirmation of faith is dynamic motivation to know more about the truth of God's creation. A realistic evaluation of the searcher reveals the need for continuing redemption.
2. Proclaim the good news to a secular culture. The college/university campus is the scene of great excitement in secular culture. This affords an opportunity for proclamation of the gospel through faithful witness in the most crucial setting.
3. The perpetual renewal of creative expressions of faith through value searching and academic pursuits. The campuses are the scene of a continuous flow of awakened and creative lives into society. These are crucial years for faithful witness.
4. Relation of knowledge and vital piety. Where else is there an opportunity for a more vital and creative exchange between knowledge/truth and the cultivation of a dynamic faith?
5. The college/university communities are impacted by 400 ministries. The total community of God's people known as United Methodist need to be made aware of and share in these ministries of witness to a vital faith in God as creator and redeemer of creation.

Purpose

1. Sustain among United Methodists a continued concern to share with persons in the campus community a witness to the redemptive love of God as revealed in Jesus Christ;

2. Sensitize The United Methodist Church to intellectual, moral, and value-centered issues;
3. Search for means and methods to liberate further the church and the learning arts for vital Christian witness;
4. Serve the world through those who have been set free in this renewed understanding; to the end that this partnership will continue to affirm a universal gospel for a universal community.

Implementation

Program—Components.

Report No. 55

Report on the Special Program on Peace with Justice

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that a special program, "Peace with Justice," be adopted and assigned to the General Board of Church and Society for the quadrennium 1981-1984.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

Peace is the hope and dream of every generation. For Christians there is a special urgency for peace born out of the gospel of Christ. This is compatible with our understanding of the biblical message, including the teaching of Christ.

The special program on "Peace with Justice" carries in it the urgency of:

1. The word Shalom, the potential of peace that is always and everywhere present. It is the hope of God for his people everywhere.
2. The goal of world peace is securely linked with the kingdom of God, for which Jesus prayed "Thy Kingdom come on earth. . . ."
3. Peace, according to the gospel, is a way of life, a style of life. It is a way of living. Jesus taught nonviolence by word and deed.
4. The theological/biblical foundations of life and living offer the reality of a world that is:

- a. A faithful world, one that sees itself as God's own creation; that all people are children of God. People are not our enemies. War is the enemy.
- b. A disarmed world—The vision of peace must be taught and transformed into reality. It must be seen as Isaiah saw it, "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation. Neither shall they learn war anymore." (Isaiah 2:4)
- c. A just world—peace calls for a world marked by an affirmation of the Christian faith that all persons have worth and dignity before God. This calls for justice, liberty of every race, religion, and culture. It calls for economic justice. Shalom and well-being of all must become the goal of all.
- d. A secure world—"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God" (Matthew 5:9). A secure world calls for persons and nations dedicated to making peace.

Purpose—Achievable Goals

1. To make "peacemaking" an urgent claim on The United Methodist Church
2. To create a process that gives substance, structure, and force to the "peacemaking" effort
3. To achieve a United Methodist Church as a fellowship of God's people committed to peace and the creation of a peaceful world
4. To provide the possibility of building on the peace efforts of the past and expanding those efforts in the 1981-84 quadrennium
5. For the individual:
  - a. To study the biblical message as it relates to peace, freedom, and justice
  - b. To understand oneself as called to be peacemakers
  - c. To commit oneself to action as evangelists of peace
6. For the local church:
  - a. To enable each congregation to deepen its understanding of concepts of peace and related concepts
  - b. To understand the nature of violence
  - c. To provide opportunities to look at issues from a global perspective and from the viewpoint of other peoples and culture
  - d. To support the United Nations
  - e. To strengthen ecumenical efforts at peacemaking
  - f. To examine the role of the military

7. For annual conferences:
  - a. To resource conference training events for "Peace Interpreters"
  - b. To develop networks of peace advocates
  - c. To develop goals with the society that work toward the achievement of an enduring world peace
8. For the general church:
  - a. To create in The United Methodist Church a vital peace movement
  - b. To develop new and creative activities that work for peace and provide the resources and tools

Implementation

Program and Resource Components.

1. To create resources in the effort to impact and influence public policies, legislation and international confrontations
2. To provide biblical study resources for The United Methodist Church in an effort to come to an understanding of and obedience to the biblical message as it relates to freedom, justice, and peace
3. To provide study materials that help understand "war" as a problem, not as a method of resolving problem conflicts
4. To examine the role of the military and militarism and work for mutual reduction and eventual abolishment of nuclear weapons and conventional arms
5. To provide resources in the motivation of all persons in the understanding that peacemaking must be the concern and effort of all and not just the "experts"
6. To provide model workshops for local churches in growth in peacemaking and the local church as an action base for achieving global unity

Administration. The special program is to be assigned to the Board of Church and Society. It may work with other boards and agencies and annual conferences to achieve the purpose of this special program. It shall be responsible for designing, resourcing, and promoting this special program.

Funding

The Board of Church and Society is to resource this program through its regular annual budget.

Coordination

The Board of Church and Society may seek the cooperation of other boards and agencies in the development of the "Peace with Justice" special program. The Annual Conference Board of Church and Society may be the means of coordination with annual conferences on the special program and linkage with general agencies and local churches.

Monitoring

The General Commission on Religion and Race and the General Commission on the Status and Role of Women will carry out their regular monitoring function in accordance with their disciplinary mandate. Each shall file its monitoring report with the General Council on Ministries annually. The annual conference commissions may be used to assist in this process.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Council on Ministries Report No. 20; see Journal pages 356-357, 1536.)

Report No. 56 Report on the Special Program On Strengthening the Local Church For Its Evangelistic Mission In The World

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that a Special Program entitled "Strengthening the Local Church for its Evangelistic Mission in the World" be adopted and assigned to the General Board of Discipleship for implementation for the quadrennium 1981-1984.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

The local church is the body of Christ; as such it needs to find the theological/biblical motivation for its evangelistic mission in the world.

The evangelistic mission and the being of the local church, the expression of its life as the body of Christ, are one and the same.

To be the church is to live out the evangelistic mission in word and deed.

All the program planning and developments emerge from the theological/biblical understanding or the lack of it.

1. This special program will address itself to the theological/biblical basis of the church in the world today.
2. The local church, the body of Christ, is the center and genius of the evangelistic mission in the world.
3. The evangelistic mission is basic expression of the theological/biblical message.
4. A vital, vigorous evangelistic mission envisions the world as its evangelistic field and opportunity, beginning at home.
5. Any thorough understanding of the theological/biblical undergirding of the local church will be corrective of its weaknesses. The program envisions an awakened and renewed local church.
6. The great commission of Christ (Matthew 28:19-20) enjoins us to make disciples of all the nations. Church membership growth is an important goal in this special program.
7. Faithfulness to Christ on the part of the local church calls for it to become a functioning center in evangelistic mission, a caring, service, and nurturing community.
8. There is the necessary motivation to be found in the study of the Bible to gather the local church into a witnessing community, to the end of increasing the attendance and membership in church school, worship, caring, loving services, and mission.

Bible study and prayer is a major emphasis in the program.

Purpose

1. To affirm the essential importance of the local church as an expression of God's mission in the world.
2. To enable the local churches to be a vital and growing center of nurture, witness, and service.
3. To challenge lay and clergy persons to commit themselves to be the Church in all their relationships and in all dimensions of their lives.

4. To help local churches emphasize and strengthen their ministries in the areas of church school, evangelism, family life, stewardship, and worship.

Implementation

Program Components. This special program will serve as the primary criterion for determining what program objectives within the board will be given priority.

Efforts will be focused on:

1. Resourcing the denomination in the critical program areas of church school development, evangelism, family life, stewardship, and worship.
2. Developing and distributing resources; servicing and resourcing leadership training events; and sharing experimental models that will assist annual conferences, districts, and local churches in their mission and ministry.
3. Promoting the broad understanding of the term "evangelistic mission" which includes what all Christians do to win persons to Jesus Christ (Discipline Par. 1301).
4. Emphasizing the ministry and mission of the laity as the people of God.
5. Family life—The family is a primary institution in our culture. Nurturing and strengthening the family is basic to the evangelistic mission of the local church. This special program will emphasize the religious needs of the family. It calls for ministry to the family to strengthen and nurture the bonds of creative Christian relationships between the family and God, between the individual members of the family and between itself and the church, the community, and society. The sacredness of the marriage relationship will be highlighted and the need for a caring ministry to members of troubled families will be a constant emphasis.

Administration. The special program is assigned to the Board of Discipleship for designing, resourcing, administering, and promoting. The Board of Discipleship may choose to assign, coopt or otherwise seek the cooperation of other boards, agencies, commissions, and annual conferences in carrying out this special program.

Coordination

1. The board staff will itinerate as resource persons in annual conferences, districts, and jurisdictions.
2. The board will share models for possible use by annual conferences, districts, and local churches.

3. The board will provide resource materials and training opportunities.
4. The board will work cooperatively with district and annual conference councils on ministries and with the Council on Ministries directors and conference staff in its efforts to resource and serve local churches.

Funding

The Board of Discipleship will resource this special program through its regular annual budget.

Monitoring

The General Commission on Religion and Race and the General Commission on the Status and Role of Women will carry out their regular monitoring function in accordance with their disciplinary mandate. Each shall file its monitoring report with the General Council on Ministries annually. The annual conference commissions may be used to assist in this process.

Evaluation

The Board of Discipleship and the General Council on Ministries shall follow the process of joint program evaluation. The evaluation report shall be filed with the General Council on Ministries annually.

The background document and a more detailed account of the purpose, design, goals and rationale for this proposed Special Program are to be found in the document, "Charting the Course for the General Board of Discipleship, 1981-84," as prepared by the Board of Discipleship.

(This report was adopted by General Conference action on Legislative Committee on Council on Ministries Report No. 21; see Journal pages 376-382, 1536.)

Report No. 57

Report on the Special Program on World Hunger

Recommendation

It is recommended to the 1980 General Conference by the General Council on Ministries that a special program emphasizing “World Hunger” be adopted and assigned to the General Board of Global Ministries for implementation for the quadrennium 1981-1984.

The Theological/Biblical Mandate

1. The “World Hunger” special program provides the channel of expressing concern, caring, and action to the gospel, “As you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me,” both at home and around the world.
2. It maintains our compassion, justice awareness, and the growing need to minister in the name of Christ to those who are always hungry.
3. It calls our attention to the fact that we are living in an economy of consumption without due regard that we are the keepers of our sisters and brothers living in a poverty economy.
4. It builds the sense of Christian community in the Body of Christ calling for a sustained, long-range response by The United Methodist Church and the ecumenical structures.
5. It gives emphasis to the needed changes in lifestyle, institutional responses to hunger, the legislation at both federal and state government levels to more readily respond, and to the need for a more just and equitable distribution of the basic necessities of life.
6. It keeps before the church the magnitude of the task and that the response of the church is an expression of oneness and the universality of the faith. The church’s response to feeding the hungry calls for a total response. This tests The United Methodist Church’s capacity to join forces with the total Christian community in total witness to Christ.
7. The theological/biblical view of persons focuses on self-development, human worth and dignity, justice, and human rights. This program emphasis is based on this theological/biblical view of persons and communities of persons.

Purpose

The Christian biblical mandate calls for the Christian community to stand with and identify with the needs of the poor.

1. Provision of food on an emergency basis
2. Assistance in production and the growing of food
3. Analysis of root causes of hunger
4. Experimentation and research on methods of addressing domestic hunger programs

A Proposal For a National Television Presence and Ministry By The United Methodist Church

“If religious-minded people can't use the media effectively then a-religious and anti-religious factions will form the value systems of the world.”

—James Fleck, Film-maker/Writer

This proposal was adopted by the Board of Managers of United Methodist Communications (Joint Committee on Communications) on Nov. 10, 1979, and transmitted to both the General Council on Ministries and the General Council on Finance and Administration.

The document was approved by the General Council on Ministries on Nov. 30, 1979, for transmittal to the General Conference for its consideration and decision.

Financial feasibility was considered by the General Council on Finance and Administration, which will make its own report.

Preamble

We are living in a mass media culture and yet The United Methodist Church is not significantly using all the media in its outreach. This is true particularly of television, where the church has been unable to underwrite programming on a regularly scheduled basis. Radio is being utilized by our church through the syndicated program Connection, which is produced with monies received from the Mass Communications Fund and is broadcast weekly over 330 AM and FM stations.

Because of the extremely high television production costs and time charges it is necessary to have a reliable stream of income in excess of $1 million annually, as a minimum, to underwrite the entrance of The United Methodist Church seriously into a mass media ministry. Clearly, as the church increasingly feels the shortage of funds at the general level, commitment of such amounts of funding become impossible to achieve under current financial structures.

To achieve the programming and presence we seek in broadcasting, various funding proposals were examined by a joint task force of United Methodist Communications and the General Council on Finance and Administration. These proposals included special fund-raising drives for individual television specials and series, World Service categories, and programming which would directly solicit funds from viewers. The television station ownership plan appears to be the most feasible financially and offers the greatest number of additional benefits for impacting the media and those who control it.

Rationale for a National Television Presence and Ministry

Why should The United Methodist Church make widespread use of the medium of television in its outreach program? The following points need to be considered:

1. Christians are charged with the responsibility of going into all the world and preaching the gospel to every nation. Evangelism is a missional priority.
2. Membership in The United Methodist Church is declining. The church is slowly losing its base in American society.
3. We are experiencing the evidences of moral decay in every facet of society, while at the same time we know people are searching for meaning and purpose in their lives. Those not finding this in the Christian churches are turning elsewhere. Sixty-eight million Americans profess no belief in God. Twelve to fifteen million additional Americans are alienated from their former church ties. Easily 80 million Americans (approximately 40 percent of our total population) are not members of any community of faith.
4. Television has become the main enculturating tool of society. Young people formerly learned their values in the homes, church, and school. Today television is the primary educator of our society. By age 15, youth have watched 18,000 hours of television, spent 11,000 hours in school, and 1,200 hours in church at most. Television has greater access to children's minds than church and school combined.
5. Those denominations using television most effectively (The Mormons, Seventh-Day Adventists, Southern Baptist, to name three) appear to be growing. What is the correlation, if any? Are they growing because of the use of mass media or are they using the mass media because of their evangelistic zeal?
6. Christians have precedents for going to the people to preach the gospel. Jesus not only spoke in the synagogue: he went to the people. He ate with the publicans and sinners, taught in the villages, in the hills, by the lakeside, and from a boat. John Wesley went into the fields and factories, wherever he could collect a crowd. Can we do less?
7. In the United States today more than 74.5 million households (98 percent of all homes) own at least one television receiver. Ratings services estimate an average of two viewers per household whenever the set is in use. A television set is turned on in an average home over six hours a day.
8. There were 8,608 radio stations broadcasting in the U.S. at the end of 1978, of which 4,547 were commercial AMs and 3,079 were commercial FMs. In 1977, commercial broadcasting had total revenues of $8.2 billion. Profits were $1.6 billion. Television accounted for $5.9 billion in revenue, and $1.4 billion of profits. The percentage of industry growth over the preceding year was 13.3 percent for television. For the year 1978, television broadcast revenue increased to $6.9 billion (up 17.4 percent from 1977) and pre-tax profits rose 17.6 percent to $1.65 billion.

Background of this Proposal

In its financial presentation to the General Council on Finance and Administration for the 1981-84 budget, United Methodist Communications requested a joint task force to study new methods of funding for underwriting a major thrust by The United Methodist Church into prime time television programming.

A joint task force of United Methodist Communications and the General Council on Finance and Administration has studied the feasibility and desirability of a church entity's owning and operating commercial broadcast properties.

The following persons were named by the respective presidents to serve on the task force: from the General Council on Finance and Administration—Harry Johnson, Ralph Mohny, Thomas P. Moore, Ewing T. Wayland, and DeWayne Woodring; from United Methodist Communications—Bishop W. Ralph Ward, Jr., John Montgomery, Spurgeon Dunnam III, Charles Cappleman, Curtis A. Chambers, Robert Hanna, and Nelson Price.

The task force considered financial viability of station ownership, structure and organizational style, and funding approaches; consulted with owners and operators of stations, attorneys and tax specialists; and tested their thinking with colleagues in the church. They hired a broadcast consultant firm and engaged attorneys to secure professional advice and counsel. This paper includes their recommendations.

The task force made its proposal to the Board of Managers of United Methodist Communications meeting in Washington, D.C., Nov. 8-10, 1979. After careful consideration and debate, the Board of Managers approved the proposal and voted overwhelmingly to recommend it to the General Council on Ministries and the General Council on Finance and Administration for possible consideration by the General Conference in 1980.

Goals and Strategies

The strategy of the Television Ownership Plan is to purchase and operate a high-quality commercial television station for the purpose of providing an independent stream of income to be used to produce programming for non-broadcast and for broadcast use in that station's locale and elsewhere. The underlying goals of the programming produced are as follows:

1. To present the messages of the church through the most effective usage of the medium:
  - a. To reach those now unreached with messages of truth, hope, and help.
  - b. To increase the belief of those nominal Christians who suspect that a deeper level exists but who have yet to experience it.
2. To be supportive of the "gathered" church in existing congregations.
3. To help reverse the down-trend in membership of churches by providing the means for careful local follow-up with persons contacted through the television medium.
4. To develop programming to address the needs of youth, single adults, single-parent families, families, minorities, and the elderly. To make such programming available for broadcast on other stations, for cable, or on cassette or film for other use.
5. To assist in the development of denominational leaders who effectively communicate the gospel through the medium.
6. To improve the quality of television programming by upholding those principles and values that our faith has taught us.
7. To enhance the image that Christians hold of themselves and of each other.
8. To stimulate the development of contemporary media for church use similar to video cassettes and other modern materials used by schools and industry.

The station itself would also provide the following valuable benefits:

1. To produce $1 million profits annually after the second year of ownership; to increase this profit yearly at the competitive industry rate (currently 13 to 15 percent annually) thereafter. Such a station if purchased today would cost approximately $10 to 12 million.
2. To make available at discounted costs the production and post-production facilities of the station to other United Methodist organizations during unused hours. This should result in the saving of major production dollars for church agencies.
3. To increase effectively the influence of the Christian community upon other broadcasters, the networks, and the creators of programming.

4. To provide on-the-job training for United Methodists pursuing careers in telecommunications using the equipment and qualified personnel of the station. (Even major universities have obsolete equipment and instructors who may not be current with industry practice.)
5. To provide a training ground for management and production personnel for potential future station acquisitions.
6. To act as a nucleus around which would cluster expanding production and broadcast facility employing and supporting talented, creative personnel who themselves would represent valuable denomination resources.

Recommendations

The Board of Managers of United Methodist Communications makes the following recommendations to the General Council on Ministries and the General Council on Finance and Administration:

1. That United Methodist Communications, the General Council on Ministries, and the General Council on Finance and Administration recommend to the General Conference a plan to secure funds to enable The United Methodist Church to move into national television and radio programming and station ownership.
2. That a three-year fund-raising emphasis begin as early as possible following General Conference and no later than Jan. 1, 1981, with the goal of no less than $25 million with the intention of the purchase of at least one station by the end of the second year. That we establish as a high priority the production of some kind of program for prime-time television as soon as possible to be funded from the campaign.
3. That the fund-raising effort be clearly separate from, and not in competition with, the ongoing benevolence program of the church; and that United Methodist Communications create a special task force to give oversight to the fund-raising effort.
4. That money be solicited on a voluntary basis and in keeping with this principle the following priorities are proposed:
  1. Voluntary gifts.
  2. Borrowing of funds.
  3. Sale of a stock issue.

And it is further understood that any fund-raising plan would not include a system of apportionments or quotas.

The Board of Managers of United Methodist Communications also took the following enabling actions:

1. That the Executive Committee of United Methodist Communications be authorized to petition the General Council on Finance and Administration for an advance to cover start-up and fund-raising costs. That the General Council on Finance and Administration be requested to manage the investment of monies received until such time as the monies are needed by United Methodist Communications for investment in broadcast properties or underwriting of initial programming.
2. The establishment of the following priorities with regard to purchase of broadcast properties:
  - a. A network-affiliated television station.
  - b. An existing VHF TV station in a two, three, or four-station market.
  - c. An existing UHF TV station in a three-station market.
  - d. An existing UHF TV station in a two-station market.
  - e. An existing FM station.
  - f. Construct a UHF television independent station in a three-station market.

Whatever the choice, it is recommended to locate in an area of sizable United Methodist constituency.

3. The corporate directors and station management shall be guided by the following Statement of Purpose:

Ownership of a radio or television station by an agency of The United Methodist Church would be a commercial undertaking, with a commitment to excellence and to community service.

While the station will be related to The United Methodist Church and its officers will largely be United Methodists, and while its operation will always be sensitive and responsive to the theological posture of The United Methodist Church, the ownership of a commercial radio or television station is, first of all, a public trust. Concern for both of these trusts requires that we maintain standards in selection and production of both programs and commercials which uphold those principles and values our faith has taught us.

We are persuaded that the principles and values of our faith have a universal appeal which is attractive not only to United Methodists but to non-United Methodists as well, to Christians, to non-Christians, to the churched and unchurched. We are less concerned that our witnessing take the form of explicit appeals and claims than that our faith inform and pervade everything that we say and every decision which we make.

4. After a legal and tax analysis of the laws covering churches, foundations, and corporations, the following organizational structure is suggested:

United Methodist Communications will select directors of the not-for-profit foundation from among its board of managers, and business and professional persons.

The General Council on Finance and Administration, the General Council on Ministries, and the Council of Bishops will each select a director of the foundation.

The directors of the foundation are accountable to United Methodist Communications. The foundation will own the operating corporation and will elect the operating corporation's directors.

The board of directors of the operating corporation will employ the general manager of each station and will hold him/her responsible for day-to-day operation of the station in keeping with the Statement of Purpose. The boards of the Foundation and the Operating Corporation should reflect balance, inclusiveness, and competence in their membership.

In Conclusion . . .

This proposal is for the long-range development of mass communications capability of the denomination starting with the purchase of a single television station.

The station would be operated commercially in keeping with high moral and ethical standards. The operating corporation would be profit-making and tax-paying, owned by a foundation which in turn would be owned and controlled by United Methodist Communications.

Profit dollars would flow upward from the station to the foundation and from the foundation to United Methodist Communications. The income would be spent for national programming, upholding the outreach and ministry of The United Methodist Church. In addition, the human resources assembled and developed in the carrying out of this proposal will strengthen and invigorate this facet of our ministry and tremendously increase our communications capability.

Production facilities and other broadcast outlets would be added as finances, needs, and opportunities permit. Television broadcast industry revenues have averaged 13 percent growth annually for the last quarter century and give every appearance of continuing at that rate or better for the foreseeable future. It is proposed that we act as rapidly as our processes will allow since the purchase price of properties is following this growth.

It is hoped that the introduction of this proposal will enable the leadership of the denomination to examine and discuss the range of opportunities that exist in mass media ministries, to catch a vision of what the church could be doing in this field, and to consider a practical way by which The United Methodist Church can have a greater national television presence and ministry.

  - (i) In the event such a Participant becomes disabled prior to age 60 years and disability continues, and such person is receiving disability benefits in the conference year in which such person attains age 65 years, then such contributions may be continued through the June 30th next following such person's 65th birthday anniversary (if the final day of the regular session of such person's Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference falls in the month of May or June; otherwise to the end of the month in which the closing day of such Conference session occurs).

  - (ii) The Active Participant's Plan Compensation for a Plan Year.
- (d) Beginning January 1, 1986 the contribution rate for any Plan Year will be limited to:

4.4 Pension Benefits. Upon retirement at or after age 62 years or upon retirement at or after the completion of 37 appointment years, and upon application, a Participant shall receive a monthly pension. The amount of the pension shall be determined by converting the Participant's Church Account to an annuity, on an actuarially equivalent basis. If the Participant is married at the time of retirement, the form of annuity shall be a life annuity with 70% to the surviving spouse contingent annuitant, with the Participant as the primary annuitant, unless an optional form of benefit is elected under subsection 4.8; the surviving spouse in order to be entitled to the contingent annuity must have been the Participant's spouse at the time of the Participant's retirement. If the Participant is not married at the time of retirement, the form of annuity shall be a single-life ten-year certain annuity unless an optional form of benefit is elected under subsection 4.8. The first payment under such annuities shall be due as of the first day of the month following the month in which retirement occurs or application for the pension is made, whichever is later.

4.5 Survivor Death Benefits. Upon the death of a Participant or a Retired Participant prior to the Annuity Starting Date, the surviving spouse, if any, of such Participant shall receive a single life annuity, payable monthly with an apportionable first payment, that is the actuarial equivalent of the Participant's or Retired Participant's Church Account at the date of death. The surviving spouse shall, however, have the right to elect instead to receive an actuarially equivalent monthly income on a single-life with five years certain or single life with ten years certain form. If there is no surviving spouse, the Participant's or Retired Participant's Church Account shall be paid in a lump sum, or at the written election of the Beneficiary, a five-year annual annuity certain, payable to the Participant's or Retired Participant's Beneficiary.

4.6 Benefit Increases. The amount of any monthly annuity benefit payable under subsections 4.4, 4.5 or 4.8 shall be determined actuarially on the basis of the account value such that the amount shall be increased by 2% (or 3% or 4% if so elected by the Participant at the time of application or the beneficiary at the time benefits commence under subsection 4.5) on July 1 of each year, provided such benefit was in effect on the previous December 31st.

4.7 Vested Benefits. The amount in the Church Account of an Active Participant who becomes a Vested Former Participant shall remain in that Account to be applied under subsection 4.4 or 4.5. Notwithstanding this provision, the General Board may in its full discretion refund such amount to the Vested Former Participant without that Vested Former Participant's consent if the amount is less than $1,750; or with that Vested Former Participant's written consent if the amount is more than $1,750 but less than one-fourth of the Denominational Average Compensation then in effect when that Vested Former Participant gave such written consent. In the event of such refund such Vested Former Participant shall no longer have an interest in the Plan.

4.8 Optional Forms of Benefits. Before the Annuity Starting Date, a Participant may elect in writing, upon such forms as required by the Board, to receive any benefit payable under subsection 4.4 as an actuarially equivalent benefit. - (d) The Participant shall notify the General Board in writing on such forms as it shall require concerning the conversion options above within 90 days before the Personal Contributions Annuity Starting Date. No annuity benefit payments shall be payable until the Participant so notifies the General Board. Failure to make any such notification within 90 days following the Participant's 70th birthday anniversary will result in the conversion of the Personal Contribution Credits to an annuity supported by investments of the type similar to those held in the Fund in which such credits are held and in the same form and rate of increase of annuity as in effect under subsections 4.4 or 4.8.

5.11 Benefit Adjustments.

The absence of such election within a six-month period following the date the Vested Former Participant ceases to be an Active Participant shall be deemed to be an irrevocable election to forego such lump-sum payment in favor of the right to be eligible for a benefit in accordance with subsection 5.7 or 5.8. An election to leave such dollar value in the Plan carries with it the right to make investment elections in accordance with subsections 5.4 and 5.5. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Board shall retain the right to refund to the Participant the equivalent dollar value of the Personal Contribution Credits at the time a Vested Former Participant ceases to be an Active Participant if such dollar value is less than one-fourth of the Denominational Average Compensation as of that time.

OPERATION OF FUNDS

6.1 Transactions by General Board. The Board may, in its own discretion, maintain in cash, such part of the assets of each Fund as described in Sections 4 and 5 as it shall deem necessary for the proper administration of such Fund. Any cash in any of the Funds may, pending the disposition or investment of such cash for the purposes of such Fund, be temporarily invested in short-term securities. For this purpose, cash in the several Funds may be commingled. From time to time the Board shall determine the income on all such temporary investments made from commingled funds for a period to be determined by the Board, and such income shall be allocated to the respective Funds in such manner as the Board shall determine. Such short-term securities may from time to time be sold by the Board to provide cash for the purposes of such Funds. Purchases and sales of investments for a Fund shall be made by the Board in accordance with the investment policy of the Board. Brokerage commissions, transfer taxes and other charges and expenses in connection with the purchase and sale of securities held in each Fund and other related expenses as determined by the Board shall be charged to such Fund. Any income or other taxes payable, if any, with respect to each Fund shall likewise be charged to such Fund.

6.2 Powers of General Board.

- (a) The ownership of the assets of each Fund shall be in the Board as such; and the Board shall have, in respect of any and all assets of each Fund, full and exclusive powers of management and control thereof including, but not by way of limitation, the power to sell, exchange or convert the same; to exercise or sell in such manner as it may deem appropriate any options, rights or warrants which may be granted or issued with respect to any of the assets of the Fund; to consent to, join in or oppose any plan of re-organization and pursuant thereto, to exercise any right of conversion granted by any such plan, to receive in exchange for any investment in such Fund another investment, although the same may not be eligible as an original investment of such Fund; to cause any securities to be registered in its name or the name or names of its nominee or nominees and to hold any transferable securities in such condition that they will pass by delivery; and to vote any stock in person or by proxy; discretionary or otherwise.

- (b) Except as otherwise specifically provided in subsection 6.2(a) above, income on and proceeds of sales of investments of each Fund shall be reinvested by the Board in the same Fund.

6.3 Units of Participation.

- (a) Valuation of Units. The Special Fund shall be divided into Units of Participation and the interests of each Participant in such Fund shall be evidenced by the numbers of Units and portions thereof in such Fund credited to his or her account. Each Unit in a Fund shall have an equal beneficial interest in such Fund, and none shall have priority or preference over any other. The original unit of each Fund shall be Ten Dollars ($10). Thereafter, at or as of such times as may be prescribed and such other times as the Board may elect, but not less frequently than monthly, the value of a Unit in each Fund shall be determined by dividing the value of such Fund, determined by the Board as hereinafter provided, by the total number of outstanding Units in the Fund. Each investment of a Participant in Units in a Fund shall be on the basis of the value of such Unit as of the valuation date last preceding such investment. Each distribution in respect of, and each conversion of Units in a Fund shall be on the basis of the value of such a Unit as of the valuation date determined by the Board and in this subsection respectively. In the discretion of the Board, Units of any Fund may be split or combined to facilitate the administration of such Fund.
- (b) Allotment of Units of Participation. The number of Units and fractions of Units in each Fund credited to a Participant's account each month shall be calculated by dividing the monthly sum to be allotted to such fund for such Participant by the value of the Unit in such Fund as of the last valuation date prior to the date on which the Board receives such allotment, and the number of outstanding Units in such Fund shall be increased accordingly.

6.4 Valuation of Funds.

- (a) The Special Fund shall be valued by the Board as follows:
  - (i) Investments of the Fund shall be valued at the market value thereof, as determined by the Board on the valuation date. The value of any investment of the Fund shall include the amount of any interest accrued but unpaid thereon to the valuation date and shall include, in the case of any evidence of indebtedness held in such Fund which is surrenderable at any time at the option of the holder for redemption at a price in excess of the cost thereof, the difference between the then current redemption price thereof and the cost thereof to such Fund. Unless otherwise determined by the Board, the value of any investment of the Fund shall include the value of any options, rights, warrants or dividends (whether payable in stock or cash) which may have been declared but not received by the Board as of the valuation date, provided that the market value of such investment has been computed ex-options, ex-rights, ex-warrants or ex-dividends. In the event that the market value of an investment is not readily determinable, the Board has the right to determine such market value from time to time.

- (ii) The value of the Fund as of a valuation date shall be determined by adding the value of the investments of such Fund and all uninvested cash of such Fund at such date and deducting from such sum the total of any liabilities and expenses due or accrued and properly chargeable to such Fund.
- (b) The Diversified Fund accounts shall be credited with interest at an annual rate to be determined by the Board. Any excess of the actual investment experience of the Diversified Fund, including unrealized appreciation, over the interest credited to accounts in a Plan Year shall be credited to an investment reserve account from which the Board may withdraw funds in succeeding years in order to stabilize the rate of interest credited to Diversified Fund accounts from year to year.
- (c) Records of valuations of each Fund and Units thereof shall be prepared and preserved by the Board in such manner and within such time and after each valuation date as may be prescribed by the Board.

6.5 Records and Reports. The Board shall keep full books of account in accordance with regulations it prescribes. The Board shall, at least once during each calendar year issue a report on each Fund, which shall include a list of the investments comprising such Fund at the end of the period covered by the report, showing the valuation placed on each item on such list by the Board at the end of such period, and the total of such valuations. The report shall also include the number of Units in the Special Fund outstanding at the end of such period. The Board shall make this information, and any such other pertinent information available to the Participants and Retired Participants.

Section 9.

AMENDMENT AND TERMINATION

9.1 Amendment. To the extent not inconsistent with The Book of Discipline, the General Conference shall have the right to amend this Plan at any time; provided, however, no amendment of the Plan shall cause any part of the Plan assets to be used for, or diverted to purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of the Participants and their Beneficiaries covered by the Plan.

9.2 Termination. The Church expects the Plan to be ongoing, but since future conditions affecting the Church cannot be anticipated or foreseen, the General Conference must necessarily and does hereby reserve the right to terminate the Plan at any time in a manner and to the extent not inconsistent with The Book of Discipline. Upon termination of the Plan, the accounts of Participants shall be nonforfeitable and either distributed outright or held for distribution in accordance with the terms of the Plan. ### Section 10.

MISCELLANEOUS

10.1 Non-Alienation of Benefits. No benefits payable at any time under the Plan shall be subject in any manner to alienation, sale, transfer, pledge, attachment, garnishment, or encumbrance of any kind. Any attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge, or otherwise encumber such benefit whether presently or thereafter payable, shall be void. Except as provided in subsection 10.6 hereof, no benefit nor any Fund under the Plan shall in any manner be liable for or subject to the debts or liabilities of any Participant or other person entitled to any benefit.

10.2 Non-Reversion. The Church shall have no right, title or interest in the contributions made to the Funds under the Plan and no part of the Funds shall revert to the Church, except that—

- (a) Upon termination of the Plan and the allocation and distribution of the Funds as provided in subsection 7.3 hereof, any monies remaining in the Funds because of an erroneous actuarial computation after the satisfaction of all fixed and contingent liabilities under the Plan may revert to the applicable unit of the Church; and
- (b) If a contribution is made to the Plan by the Church by a mistake of fact, then such contribution shall be returned to the applicable unit of the Church within one year after the payment of the contribution.

10.3 Unclaimed Benefits. If a Participant or Retired Participant fails to claim a benefit to which the Participant or Retired Participant is entitled for a period of five years following the Participant's or Retired Participant's attainment of age 70 years, and if the Participant's or Retired Participant's whereabouts is unknown to the General Board after such Board has sent a registered letter to the last known address and has made inquiry of the last known applicable unit of the Church, the General Board may dispose of or use the benefit in such a way as the Board deems appropriate, fully discharging the Plan and the Board of all liability with respect thereto.

10.4 Relinquishment of Benefits. A Retired Participant or Beneficiary may voluntarily relinquish in writing for not more than a year at a time all or any part of benefit payments that are in pay status. Benefit payments that are relinquished shall not thereafter be recoverable by such Retired Participant or Beneficiary. Such relinquishment shall not abrogate the subsequent benefit which may be payable to a Surviving Spouse.

10.5 Reemployment. In the event a Retired Participant is made effective and returns to a ministerial position with the Church, the payment of pension benefits then being paid hereunder shall be suspended, the annuity or annuities reconverted to account balances on an actuarially equivalent basis, and the Retired Participant reinstated as an Active Participant. In the event a Retired Participant is under an appointment but not in the effective relation, the pension benefits then being paid hereunder shall continue and the Retired Participant shall not be reinstated as an Active Participant.

10.6 Marital Litigation. In the event a Participant or Retired Participant is a party to marital litigation, the Board shall make payments from the Participant's or Retired Participant's Plan accounts as directed by the court hearing such litigation. Where appropriate, the Board shall provide to the parties involved in such litigation data related to such accounts and assist them or the court in interpreting this data. Any expense incurred by the Board related to this procedure shall, to the extent permitted by law, be deducted from the Plan accounts of the Participant or Retired Participant. The amounts directed or assigned to the Participant or Retired Participant and to the Participant's or Retired Participant's spouse or former spouse shall not exceed the value of the Participant's or Retired Participant's Plan accounts as of the date of the court order.

- (b) Amendment of Prior Plans: Effective as of January 1, 1982, this Plan and Supplement One shall supercede and replace the provisions of the Prior Plans, other than those related to the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund of The Ministers Reserve Pension Fund, with respect to the persons described in paragraph (a) above. The assets of the Prior Plans, other than those in the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund, are designated as a part of this Plan for the purpose of funding the past service benefits under this Supplement for such persons. Said assets shall be collectively referred to as the Reserve Pension Fund and shall be accounted for separate and apart from the other Funds under the Plan. The assets of the Prior Plans in the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund shall be transferred to the Comprehensive Protection Plan, which shall supercede and replace the provisions of the Prior Plans related to the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund.

- (c) Addendums: Each Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference, having Participants in this Participating Group No. 1 shall execute a separate Addendum hereto setting forth the Pension Rate applicable to such Participants, the Church contribution rate, and any other provisions specifically applicable to such Conference. A Conference shall have the right to periodically amend the Addendum applicable to it.
- (d) Definitions: The following terms shall have the respective meanings set forth below for purposes of this Supplement, and when the defined meaning is intended the term is capitalized:
  - (1) "Approved Service" means a Participant's or Retired Participant's years and fractions of years of service rendered prior to January 1, 1982, with pension credit on an Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference, as evidenced by the Participant's or Retired Participant's service record maintained by the Board. A Participant's or Retired Participant's service record shall be subject to correction in accordance with the provisions of The Book of Discipline in existence as of December 31, 1981, or as subsequently amended.
  - (2) "Formula Benefit" means an annual benefit determined by adding the product of a Participant's or Retired Participant's Approved Service as a minister and the applicable ministerial Pension Rate to the product of such Participant's or Retired Participant's Approved Service as a local pastor and the applicable local pastors' Pension Rate, reduced by the lesser of (i)  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1% per month or fraction of a month of age less than sixty-five years attained on the date the benefit is to commence or (ii)  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1% per month for each month of difference between the assumed date at which 40 years of service under appointment would have been completed and the actual date the benefit is to commence.
  - (3) "Pension Rate" means the sum payable for each year of Approved Service, as determined by the Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference, and set forth in the applicable Addendum. If a different Pension Rate applies to Approved Service as a local pastor than applies to Approved Service as a minister, the applicable Addendum shall so indicate. In no event, however, shall the Pension Rate for local pastors be less than 75% of the Pension Rate for ministers in any Conference.

- (4) "Personal Contributions Accumulation" means the sum of the amount standing to the credit of a Participant as of December 31, 1981, in such Participant's individual account under the Prior Plan, based on contributions made by such Participant and interest credited thereon prior to January 1, 1982, and the amount of interest credited thereon after December 31, 1981 by the Board.
  - (5) "Personal Contributions Annuity" means an annuity during life, payable in monthly installments in advance, on the basis of the actuarial equivalent of the Personal Contributions Accumulation.
  - (6) "Service Annuity Accumulation" means the sum of the amount standing to the credit of a Participant as of December 31, 1981, in such Participant's reserve account under the Prior Plans, based on contributions made by the applicable conference or employer on behalf of the Participant and interest credited thereon prior to January 1, 1982, and the amount of interest credited thereon after December 31, 1981 by the Board.
  - (7) "Service Annuity" means an annuity during life, payable in monthly installments in advance, on the basis of the actuarial equivalent of the Service Annuity Accumulation. The annuity shall be determined actuarially such that it shall increase annually in accordance with the percentage increase, if any, elected by the applicable conference and set forth in the Addendum.
- (e) Past Service Benefits: A member of this Participating Group No. 1 shall, in addition to any benefits based on service after January 1, 1982, be entitled to benefits based on service prior to January 1, 1982, in accordance with the following provisions:
- (1) Retirement Benefits: All persons who as of December 31, 1981, were receiving pension benefits from the Prior Plans shall thereafter continue to receive such pension benefits in the same form and amount from this Plan. Upon retirement at or after age 62 years or upon retirement at or after the completion of 37 appointment years, and upon application, a Participant shall receive a monthly retirement benefit, payable in the same form as provided in subsection 4.4 of the Plan, equal to the sum of such Participant's Service Annuity and, if any, the Personal Contributions Annuity.

If the Participant's Service Annuity, on an annual basis, is less than the Participant's Formula Benefit and if the applicable conference does not stipulate that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit, a past service supplement shall be added so that the sum of the Service Annuity and the past service supplement is equal, on an annual basis, to the Participant's Formula Benefit.

If the applicable conference stipulates that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit then the Personal Contributions Annuity shall be determined actuarially such that it shall increase annually in accordance with the percentage increase, if any, elected by the applicable conference and set forth in the Addendum. If the Participant's Service Annuity plus the Participant's Personal Contributions Annuity, on an annual basis, is less than the Participant's Formula Benefit, a past service supplement shall be added so that the sum of the Service Annuity, the Personal Contributions Annuity and the past service supplement is equal, on an annual basis, to the Participant's Formula Benefit.

If the applicable conference does not stipulate that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit, the Participant's Personal Contributions Accumulation shall be included in the Participant's Personal Contribution Credits and distributed in accordance with subsection 5.7 and 5.12 of the Plan.

- (2) Vesting: A person described in subsection (a) above shall at all times be fully vested in such person's Personal Contributions Accumulation.

A person described in subsection (a) above shall be fully vested in the retirement benefits set forth in paragraph (1) above at the time of retirement as described therein.

A person described in subsection (a) above shall be fully vested after December 31, 1981, in the retirement benefits set forth in paragraph (1) above if at that time such person has at least ten years of vesting service if a minister or four consecutive years of vesting service if a local pastor.

For purposes of this paragraph (2), vesting service means years of service under appointment in an annual conference or conferences. In addition, vesting service shall include periods of service in the ministry of another denomination to the extent that such denomination grants pension rights in its plan for such service.

The foregoing notwithstanding, a person described in subsection (a) above who participated in the Ministers Reserve Pension Fund prior to January 1, 1973, and upon termination, allows his or her Personal Contributions Accumulation to remain in the Fund, shall be fully vested in his or her Service Annuity, payable in the same form as provided in subsection 4.4 and 4.8 of the Plan.

- (3) Retirement Benefit Increases: At the election of the applicable conference, the amount of any benefit payable under paragraphs (1) and (2) above shall be increased by the percentage set forth in the applicable Addendum on July 1 of each year, provided the benefit was in effect on the previous December 31.
- (4) Disability Benefits: All persons who as of December 31, 1981, were receiving disability benefits under the Current Income Distribution Pension Plan shall, effective as of January 1, 1982, be entitled to an annual disability benefit, payable in monthly installments, equal to 40% of the Denominational Average Compensation in effect as of January 1, 1982. The benefit amount shall be increased by 2% on July 1 of each year beginning July 1, 1983.

All such persons shall, in addition, have credited to a Church Account established on their behalf under the Plan an annual amount equal to 12% of the Denominational Average Compensation in effect as of January 1, 1982. Such amount shall be credited, commencing January 1, 1982, in monthly installments. The applicable Conference shall be responsible for this monthly contribution as part of its current service contribution to the Plan. The amount shall be increased by 2% on July 1 of each year beginning July 1, 1983.

Payment of the disability benefits set forth in this paragraph (4) shall be subject to the provisions of subsection 5.4(d), (e) and (f) of the Comprehensive Protection Plan.

- (5) Surviving Spouse Benefits: All surviving spouses who as of December 31, 1981, were receiving surviving spouse benefits from the Prior Plans shall thereafter continue to receive such benefits from this Plan, except such benefits that were formerly being paid from the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund which shall be continued under the Comprehensive Protection Plan.

Upon the death of a Participant on or after January 1, 1982, and prior to retirement, the surviving spouse shall receive a monthly benefit equal to the sum of such Participant's Service Annuity and Personal Contributions Annuity. If the Service Annuity, on an annual basis, is less than 70% (75% if elected by the applicable conference and so set forth in the Addendum) of the Participant's Formula Benefit and if the applicable conference does not stipulate that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit, a past service supplement shall be added so that the sum of the Service Annuity and the past service supplement is equal, on an annual basis, to 70% (75% if elected by the applicable conference and so set forth in the Addendum) of the Participant's Formula Benefit.

If the applicable conference stipulates that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit, then the Personal Contributions Annuity shall be determined actuarially such that it shall increase annually in accordance with the percentage increase, if any, elected by the applicable conference and set forth in the Addendum. If the Participant's Service Annuity plus the Participant's

Personal Contributions Annuity, on an annual basis, is less than 70% (75% if elected by the applicable conference) of the Participant's Formula Benefit, a past service supplement shall be added so that the sum of the Service Annuity, the Personal Contributions Annuity and the past service supplement is equal, on an annual basis, to 70% (75% if elected by the applicable conference) of the Participant's Formula Benefit.

If the applicable conference does not stipulate that the Personal Contributions Annuity shall apply toward the payment of the Participant's Formula Benefit, the surviving spouse may elect to receive in one payment all or any part of the Participant's Personal Contributions Accumulation. Upon written request, such surviving spouse may receive all or part of such Accumulation at any time within a period of one year following the date of death if such written request is received within 90 days after the date of death. If a partial lump sum benefit is elected, the remaining Accumulation will be payable as a Personal Contributions Annuity.

- (6) Surviving Spouse Benefit Increases: At the election of the applicable conference, the amount of any benefit payable under paragraph (5) above shall be increased by the percentage set forth in the applicable Addendum on July 1 of each year, provided the benefit was in effect on the previous December 31.
- (7) Surviving Children Benefits: All surviving children, of deceased former ministerial members of a conference covered by the Current Income Distribution Pension Plan, who as of December 31, 1981, were receiving or could in the future receive surviving children benefits under said Pension Plan shall, effective as of January 1, 1982, be entitled to the following benefits from this Plan.

Any such surviving child age 18 years but under age 25 years shall receive an annual educational benefit in an amount equal to 25% of the deceased minister's Formula Benefit. Such benefit is payable for each year during attendance as a full-time student at a secondary school and, in addition, for each year not to exceed four years during attendance as a full-time student at a standard school or college beyond the secondary school level. The annual benefit shall be payable in monthly installments.

Satisfactory certificate of enrollment and attendance in school or college shall be provided periodically as may be required by the Board in order for an educational benefit to be paid.

- (8) Surviving Children Benefit Increases: At the election of the applicable conference, the amount of any benefit payable under paragraph (7) above shall be increased by the percentage set forth in the applicable Addendum on July 1 of each year, provided the benefit was in effect on the previous December 31.
  - (9) Deferred Vested Benefits: All persons who as of December 31, 1981, were entitled to receive deferred vested pension benefits from the prior plans shall receive such benefits from this plan in the amount and form as determined to be payable under the prior plans as in effect at the time of termination of service.
  - (10) Pre-1982 Contingent Pension Credit: If pension credit for service prior to 1982 is contingent upon receiving pension credit for subsequent years, each year of concurrent participation in the Ministerial Pension Plan and the Comprehensive Protection Plan will be considered for this purpose only as the equivalent of one year of such required subsequent pension credit.
- (f) Funding: except as otherwise specifically provided in this Supplement, the past service benefits provided under subsection (e) shall be funded by the applicable conference by making annual past service contributions through the Board in accordance with the schedule for such contributions determined by the Board on the basis of periodic actuarial valuations.

The initial unfunded liability for such past service benefits, based on the Pension Rate in effect as of January 1, 1982, shall be funded by annual past service contributions at least equal to the greater of the amount required to amortize the unfunded accrued past service liability over a period not to exceed 40 years or the amount of unfunded past service benefits paid out during the year.

In determining the initial unfunded portion of the accrued past service liability as of January 1, 1982, the funded past service liability, the total Service Annuity Accumulations, and any Personal Contributions Accumulations that are applied toward the payment of Formula Benefits, shall be subtracted from the total accrued past service liability.

A conference may elect to provide an annual increase of 2%, 3% or 4% in past service retirement benefits, past service surviving spouse benefits and past service children's benefits. If such election is made prior to January 1, 1982, the additional liability will be subject to the funding requirements set forth above.

A conference may elect a 2%, 3% or 4% annual benefit increase after January 1, 1982, or an additional benefit increase at any time. The additional liability related to any such increase shall be funded by annual contributions at least equal to the greater of the amount required to amortize the liability over a period not to exceed that ending on the earlier of 30 years from the effective date of the increase or December 31, 2021, or the amount of the unfunded increases paid out during the year.

- (g) Liens on Pensions: A lien on a pension shall mean the right of a conference to hold, retain, or appropriate the pension or any part thereof of a Retired Participant or Beneficiary related to service in that conference of a Retired Participant or Beneficiary due to unpaid apportionments or required contributions for the pension and benefit programs maintained by the conference board of pensions for the conference.

Whenever a ministerial member or local pastor is in debt to a conference or any of its organizations, due to unpaid apportionments or required contributions for the pension and benefit programs administered by the conference board of pensions for the conference, the debt shall constitute a lien on the pension related to service in that conference, and the conference board of pensions shall have the power to appropriate and apply such pension or any part thereof, to the payment of such debt; provided, however, that not more than one tenth of the pension payable by the conference in which the debt was incurred shall be appropriated in any year for such purpose; and provided, furthermore, that such power shall not be interpreted as applying to the settlement of other debts of a ministerial member or local pastor.

5.4 Disability Benefits.

- (a) Eligibility. In the event an Active Participant, who has been an Active Participant for at least one year, becomes disabled as defined in paragraph (b) below, such Active Participant shall be entitled to a disability benefit under this subsection 5.4.

- (b) Definition of Disability. An Active Participant will be considered disabled for purposes of the Plan, as of the date the General Board determines, on the basis of medical evidence that such Active Participant was unable to engage in substantially all of the usual and customary duties pertaining to any employment for remuneration or profit in such occupation for which such Active Participant is reasonably qualified by training, education, or experience; by reason of a bodily injury, disease, or mental or emotional disease or disorder which will presumably last for at least six continuous months, exclusive of any disability resulting from:

- (i) services in the armed forces of any country;
- (ii) warfare;
- (iii) intentionally self-inflicted injury;
- (iv) participation in any criminal or unlawful act.

The General Board shall have the responsibility for determining whether an Active Participant has incurred a disability and, before approving payment of any disability benefit, may require medical proof of such disability, including, but not limited to, a requirement that the Active Participant submit to medical examination at the request of the Board. The Plan shall pay all reasonable medical fees, as determined by the Board, for any medical examinations requested more frequently than annually.

- (c) Amount of Disability Benefit. The General Board shall have the full authority to grant disability benefits to Active Participants under this Plan as follows:

- (i) an annual disability benefit, payable in monthly installments, shall be made from the Protection Benefit Fund to the Active Participant in an amount equal to 40% of the Denominational Average Compensation in effect immediately preceding occurrence of the disability, and
- (ii) an annual allocation from the Fund, made in monthly installments, shall be credited to the Active Participant's Church Account in the Ministerial Pension Plan in an amount equal to 12% of the Denominational Average Compensation in effect immediately preceding the occurrence of disability, and
- (iii) the amount of the benefit payable in accordance with (i) and (ii) shall be increased by 2% on July 1 of each year during the duration of disability, provided the benefit was in effect on the previous December 31st.

- (iv) Payment of disability benefits shall begin on the first day of the month following the determination of disability by the General Board under the provisions of paragraph (b) above.
- (v) In the event the commencement and/or discontinuance of disability benefit payments hereunder occurs other than on January 1 of the Plan Year, the amount of the disability benefit shall be prorated based upon the number of days of disability during the Plan Year.
- (d) Discontinuance of Disability Benefits. An Active Participant's disability benefit will be payable pursuant to paragraph (c) above, subject to the following:
  - (i) If an Active Participant refuses to submit to a medical examination at any reasonable time, as determined by the Board (such examination to be required not more frequently than annually), for the purpose of verifying the continuance of disability, the disability benefits otherwise payable shall be suspended for the duration of such refusal to submit to such examination; provided, however, that such suspension shall become effective ninety days following the date of the written request for the medical examination, and provided further, that if the duration of such refusal exceeds twelve calendar months, the Active Participant's rights to disability benefits shall cease. If an adequate medical examination report is submitted to the General Board within the nine-month period following the effective date of suspension and such report verifies the continuance of disability, disability benefit payments shall be reinstated, provided, however, that retroactive payments to the date of suspension shall be at the discretion of the General Board.
  - (ii) If the General Board determines that such Active Participant is no longer disabled, payment of all disability benefits shall cease irrespective of the period that has elapsed since the Active Participant first became disabled.
  - (iii) If the basis for disability benefits is mental or emotional disease or disorder, all such benefits shall cease after five years of benefit payments unless in the judgment of the General Board such individual requires and is receiving continuous substantial supervision, medical or otherwise, which, at the discre- tion of the General Board will constitute sufficient grounds for the continuation of benefits.

- (iv) An earnings test may be used by the General Board to reduce or terminate disability benefits when the earnings of a disabled Active Participant exceed two-thirds of the Denominational Average Compensation.
  - (v) In the event such an Active Participant becomes disabled prior to age 60, and such person is receiving disability benefits in the conference year in which such person attains age 65 years and disability continues, then such benefits will terminate on the June 30th next following such person's 65th birthday anniversary (if the final day of the regular session of such person's Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference falls in the month of May or June; otherwise to the end of the month in which the closing day of such Conference session occurs.)
  - (vi) In the event such an Active Participant becomes disabled after age 60 years and disability continues, then such benefits will terminate on the earlier to occur of (A) the June 30th next following the end of a five-year period from the date of disability (if the final day of the regular session of such person's Annual Conference, Provisional Conference, or Missionary Conference of a Jurisdictional Conference falls in May or June; otherwise to the end of the month next following the end of such five-year period, in which the closing day of such Conference session occurs); or if earlier (B) the June 30th next following such person's 70th birthday anniversary (if the final day of the regular session of such person's Conference falls in May or June; otherwise to the end of the month in which the closing day of such Conference session occurs.)
  - (vii) All disability benefits shall cease upon the death of the Active Participant.
- (e) Rehabilitation Benefits. The General Board is authorized to allocate reasonable amounts, not to exceed two-thirds of the Denominational Average Compensation, as it deems appropriate, on behalf of a disabled Active Participant when, in the judgment of the Board, it is presumed that such allocation could:

- (i) result in the qualification of the Active Participant to engage in an occupation which can be expected to provide compensation commensurate with the Denominational Average Compensation or;
- (ii) result in the return of such Active Participant to the duties performed prior to the occurrence of the disability.

Allocation of such amounts shall not disqualify the Active Participant for continued disability benefits if following such allocation, the Active Participant continues to be unable to engage in any occupation for remuneration or profit as defined in paragraph (b) above. If a disabled Active Participant engages in any employment or occupation while receiving disability benefits and in the judgment of the General Board such employment or occupation could be expected to result in the rehabilitation of the Active Participant such disability benefits may be continued in whole or in part and the General Board may waive annually any compliance with an earnings test.

- (f) Disability Committee. The General Board shall appoint a Disability Committee and delegate to such Committee all of the authority and all of the duties of the General Board under this subsection 5.4. The Disability Committee shall have full authority to determine application procedures, eligibility for benefits, amounts of benefits, the commencement or discontinuance dates of any benefit payments and the development of an earnings test. The Disability Committee in the exercise of such authority shall follow the provisions of this subsection 5.4 and principles consistent with The Book of Discipline.

5.5 Pension Supplement. In the event an Active Participant in this Plan is an Active Participant in the Ministerial Pension Plan and the Church contribution to such Active Participant's Church Account is based upon a Contribution Base less than the Denominational Average Compensation, an allocation shall be made from this Plan to such Active Participant's Church Account in the Ministerial Pension Plan sufficient to make the total allocation to such account equivalent to the Church contribution such Active Participant would have received under Section 4.2 of the Ministerial Pension Plan had the Active Participant's Contribution Base been the Denominational Average Compensation. Any such allocation will be suspended if:

- (a) The Church Contributions to the Ministerial Pension Plan or to this Plan are more than 180 days in arrears.

- (b) The Active Participant becomes a Retired Participant or a Vested Former Participant in the Ministerial Pension Plan.
- (c) The Active Participant is disabled as set forth in Section 5.4.
- (d) The Active Participant is appointed to a sabbatical leave or to attend school as set forth in subsection 3.2(b).

If the Church contribution to the Active Participant's Church Account is based on less than a full month of Plan participation, then the amount of the allocation from this Plan shall be prorated based upon the number of days of Participation during the month covered by such Church contribution.

Section 7.

ADMINISTRATION

7.1 General Board of Pensions. The General Board of Pensions is charged in The Book of Discipline with the general supervision and administration of The United Methodist Church's pension and benefit programs. Accordingly, this Plan shall be administered by the General Board of Pensions, as from time to time constituted pursuant to The Book of Discipline.

7.2 Expenses. All expenses incurred by the General Board of Pensions in connection with the administration of this Plan shall be paid out of the Protection Benefit Fund.

7.3 Delegation of Authority. The General Board of Pensions may authorize one or more of their number or any agent to carry out its administrative duties, and may employ such counsel, auditors, and other specialists and such clerical, actuarial and other services as it may require in carrying out the provisions of this Plan.

7.4 Appeals from Denial of Claims.

- (a) Claims for benefits under the Plan shall be filed with the General Board on forms supplied by the General Board. Written notice of the disposition of a claim shall be furnished to the Conference Board of Pensions (hereinafter referred to as the Conference Board) or other responsible unit of the Church and to the individual within 30 days after all required forms and materials related to application therefor are filed. In the event the claim is denied, the reasons for denial shall be specifically set forth in writing, pertinent provisions of the Plan shall be cited and, where appropriate, an explanation as to how the Conference Board or other responsible unit of the Church and the individual can perfect the claim will be provided.

- (b) Any individual who has been denied a benefit shall be entitled to appeal the denial of the claim. This appeal must be filed with the Conference Board or other responsible unit of the Church within 90 days after receipt of the written notification of denial. If the Conference Board or other responsible unit agrees that the request for benefits is valid, it may file a written appeal to the General Board. There shall be an Appeals Committee, named by the President of the General Board, to hear these appeals. The Conference Board or other responsible unit of the Church may send a representative to the meeting at which the appeal shall be considered. The individual and the Conference Board or other responsible unit of the Church shall be notified within 10 days after the decision is reached by the Appeals Committee.

7.5 Limitation of Liability. All benefits hereunder are contingent upon and payable solely from such contributions as shall be received by the Board and investment results of the Board. No financial obligations, other than those which can be met by the contribution actually received and the investment results shall be assumed by the Board. Neither shall the members of the General Board be personally responsible or otherwise liable for the payment of any benefits hereunder.

Section 8.

AMENDMENT AND TERMINATION

8.1 Amendment. To the extent not inconsistent with The Book of Discipline, the General Conference shall have the right to amend this Plan at any time; provided, however, no amendment of the Plan shall cause any part of the plan assets to be used for, or diverted to purposes other than for the exclusive benefit of the Active Participants, Retired Participants, and their beneficiaries covered by the Plan.

8.2 Termination. The Church expects the Plan to be ongoing, but since future conditions affecting the Church cannot be anticipated or foreseen, the General Conference must necessarily and does hereby reserve the right to terminate the Plan at any time, in a manner and to the extent not inconsistent with The Book of Discipline.

Section 9.

MISCELLANEOUS

9.1 Non-Alienation of Benefits. No benefits payable at any time under the Plan shall be subject in any manner to alienation, sale, transfer, pledge, attachment, garnishment, or encumbrance of any kind. Any attempt to alienate, sell, transfer, assign, pledge, or otherwise encumber such benefit whether presently or thereafter payable, shall be void. No benefit nor the Fund shall in any manner be liable for or subject to the debts or liabilities of any Active Participant, Retired Participant or other person entitled to any benefit.

9.2 Unclaimed Benefits. If an Active Participant, Retired Participant or beneficiary fails to claim a benefit to which the Active Participant, Retired Participant or beneficiary is entitled and if such participant's or beneficiary's whereabouts is unknown to the General Board after the Board has sent a registered letter to the last known address and has made inquiry of the last known applicable unit of the Church, the General Board may terminate benefit payments as the Board deems appropriate, fully discharging the Plan and the Board of all liability with respect thereto.

9.3 Relinquishment of Benefits. An Active Participant, Retired Participant or beneficiary may voluntarily relinquish in writing for not more than a year at a time all or any part of benefit payments that are in pay status. Benefit payments that are relinquished shall not thereafter be recoverable by the Active Participant, Retired Participant or beneficiary.

Section 10.

PRIOR PLAN BENEFITS

10.1 Amendment of Prior Plan. Effective as of January 1, 1982, this Section 10 shall supersede and replace the provisions of the Ministers Reserve Pension Fund relating to the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund with respect to all persons who on December 31, 1981, are receiving or are entitled to receive future benefits from the Disability and Survivor Benefit Fund of the Ministers Reserve Pension Fund (hereinafter referred to as the "Prior Plan").

Any such surviving child under age 18 years shall receive in monthly installments an annual benefit of 10% of the Denominational Average Compensation in effect as of January 1, 1982.
