CHURCH HISTORY

Duke Memorial United Methodist Church had its beginning with the organization of Bethany Sunday School in a packing room at Duke's Factory.

Durham was growing and there were men such as Washington Duke and his son Benjamin N. and others who were deeply concerned about the spiritual needs of the community and decided to do something about it.

Trinity Church had served the denomination up to this time and it was felt that the growing town and its large number of Methodists warranted two churches. There were those among Trinity's membership who looked with disfavor upon the plan, however.

According to records on the Methodist Church in Durham, Rev. T. A. Boone, Trinity's pastor, was one of the first of those who favored a new church. He began the agitation for it in 1884 and the fourth quarterly meeting of the church saw definite action with the appointment of a special building committee to undertake the erection of a new church. The annual conference in 1885 approved the new church idea and assigned Rev. Amos Gregson as pastor.

In 1886 Gregson began preaching in Duke's Factory. Soon thereafter a movement was started to raise money for a permanent home for the congregation. Brodie L. Duke, Washington Duke's elder son, gave a lot on the southeast corner of Main and Gregson streets, and a brick building was erected. With the building's completion the happy members vacated the factory quarters. Shortly afterwards, Washington Duke gave his personal check for sufficient funds to liquidate the church's indebtedness, rather than see a canvass of the membership for the money.

The church became an independent station in 1887 and on April 24 at the 11:00 o'clock service Bishop Charles B. Galloway preached the dedicatory sermon.

In 1890 Main Street Church was enlarged by the erection of an addition to the rear of the building and a little later a Sunday school addition was built and presented to the church by Benjamin N. Duke.

The membership grew rapidly and in 1906, under the pastorate of Rev. T. A. Smoot, a committee was named to select a new site and erect a new church. The home site of William T. Blackwell, a prominent man of his day, was purchased. The house was torn down to make room for the church and construction of the building soon began. The Sunday school section was first constructed in which all services of the church were conducted.

In time the sanctuary was built and on Sunday, June 2, 1912, the dedicatory sermon was preached by Dr. John C. Kilgo, bishop and formerly president of Trinity College.

The old Main Street Church property was sold to the Christian denomination in 1908.

Rev. M. Bradshaw was the first pastor of Memorial Church, coming here in 1908 as successor to Smoot.

Nearly a score of fruitful years passed before further expansion of the church's physical plant became necessary. In May, 1931, an elementary department building was occupied, giving the church enlarged facilities that made its program more effective.

In October, 1961, the congregation, on the eve of the 75th year of the church's founding, approved plans to finance and build a third structure. This was the first major canvass of the membership-at-large for a building program. A $450,000 campaign was oversubscribed and little time was lost in beginning the construction of the structure. Ground-breaking ceremonies were held July 14, 1963, and the cornerstone was laid October 13, 1963. The building, known as the church school building, was consecrated on August 23, 1964, and occupied a week later. Bishop Paul N. Garber was the dedicatory speaker.

The long-range study of the church's physical plant showed need for renovation of the sanctuary building, and this endeavor was to be launched as soon as feasible after completion of the church school building. The needs were determined, plans were laid and work began. The resulting effort of this $303,000 project was the updating of all utilities and facilities in the Sunday school areas of the sanctuary building.

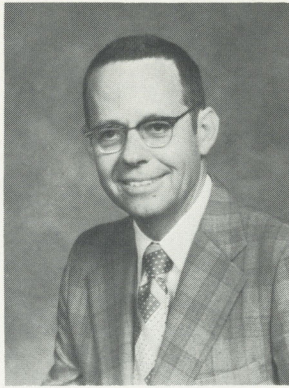

To further enhance the physical facilities, a $278,000 sanctuary and organ crusade was held in 1969. Success crowned this effort, also.

Twenty-nine men of God have served our church and each has left his record of service indelibly written in the history of Duke Memorial.
