ANDEAN RURAL HEALTH CARE

Bolivia is the poorest country in South America. Preventive medicine is the country's main need. Deaths are caused frequently by bacteria now non-existent here, as well as malnutrition and dehydration.

Andean Rural Health Care has been able to bring hope and primary health care to 20,000 people in Bolivia who would not otherwise have had any care. They have been able to vaccinate more than 2,000 children; teach mothers about nutrition, rehydration formula, and breast feeding; treat people with illnesses, and refer critical cases to hospitals.

Eleanor Powell, a member of First United Methodist Church in Clinton, and John Wesley Jones, a member of Haymount United Methodist Church in Fayetteville, are members of the Board of Directors. Both have worked for several weeks in the program there and are very knowledgeable about the ministry.

Special Emphasis SOCIETY OF ST. ANDREW POTATO PROJECT

The Potato Project is a produce salvage program that provides direct food relief to our nation's poor while addressing one of the major causes -- food waste. During the first five years of operation, this two-pronged attack on hunger has been responsible for distributing over 72,000,000 pounds of otherwise wasted potatoes and yams to hungry Americans in 47 states and the District of Columbia. At a total cost of less than 4¢ a pound, nutritious produce (that is normally dumped to rot), is salvaged and distributed to food banks, Native American Reservations, and other agencies working to feed the poor and hungry. Expansion of the Potato Project is currently limited only by available finances.

The newest program, the Virginia Gleaning Network, officially started in late May. The Gleaning Network has gleaned a total of 103,000 pounds of otherwise wasted produce from farms within the Commonwealth, Maryland and D.C.
