THE study of the Discipline, containing, as it does, the constitution and laws of the Methodist Episcopal Church, ought to engage the attention of all her people, lay and clerical. "Far from wishing you," the Bishops, in the Episcopal Address, well say, "to be ignorant of any of our doctrines, or any part of our Discipline, we desire you to 'read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest' the whole. You ought, next to the word of God, to procure the Articles and Canons of the Church to which you belong."

This little volume of ecclesiastical regulations, so worthy of serious study, having been subject from the organization of the Church to frequent and often extensive revisions, has come to demand a work of explanation, which shall set forth briefly, but distinctly, to the eye of the reader, the changes which have been effected in this grand charter of Methodism. The examination of these changes will prove not only a curious investigation, but will frequently be found indispensable to ascertain the meaning and intent of the law itself, by revealing the time of its enactment and its connection with other provisions, in the book.

With most students of the Discipline the difficulty of tracing, in the original sources, the historical progress of our Church legislation will prove altogether insuperable. The changes were made at first by the Annual, then, from 1792, by the General Conferences; but the Journals of those bodies afford us no light on the subject without the aid of the various editions of the Discipline to which they refer. These editions of our ecclesiastical code have now become numerous, and are all, save the last one, out of print, and hence nearly inaccessible. The issue of a new edition displaces the old one, which is then considered valuable only to the antiquary or the curious student.

As a result, early copies of the Discipline are obtained only with great difficulty, being seldom found in the libraries of the preachers, and no public library, save that of Drew Theological Seminary, is known to contain a complete set. This institution enjoys the rare fortune to inherit the set employed by Emory in the preparation of his History of the Discipline, and the series is complete, save the copy for 1787, which was obtained of Rev. Dr. Lee, of Richmond, Virginia.

My own collection, gleaned from old New England families, extends back to 1790; but the copies for 1791, 1792, and 1816 are missing. The missing volumes, together with the one for 1789, were furnished me by the authorities of Drew Seminary. These books, with the Journals of the Conferences, constitute the materials from which to trace the course of legislation in our Church.

It is the design of this work to facilitate the labors of the student and administrator of the rules of the Church, by placing at their command a digest of these materials, so far as they relate to the history of the Discipline. The original data are given, and then, in the simplest form, the mustard-seed of law, dropped in this fruitful soil by the hand of Wesley, is traced on, as it unfolds into the more compacted and complete system of our current Discipline.

The volume of Emory, prepared with the same design, and characterized by careful research, and neatness and accuracy of statement, extends only down to 1844. The continuations of that work, by various hands, are less careful and accurate than the original. The grand defect, however, of the whole book, is found in the plan on which it was constructed.

The volume affords a mass of materials for a history of the Discipline, rather than the history itself. The language of the statutes, with various explanatory clauses, is given in full; but the parts are so separated that the sense is often obscured. The extracts have to be reconstructed mentally, or, in case of extended passages, on paper, before the reader is able to perceive the real nature of the change. In other words, the reader, after being furnished with the data, is required to construct the history himself, often at no small inconvenience, especially when in haste.

The present work adopts a different plan. While the narrative style is avoided as too verbose and indefinite for a work of this kind, the language of the Discipline is, so arranged that the eye detects, at a glance, the change that has been made, and the Discipline thus becomes its own best historian. The passages are collated for the reader; the history prepared to his hand.

The author trusts this method will be found to possess some advantages not only for clearness, but also for brevity and convenience of consultation. The book will be often used in the haste of debate, when there is no opportunity to collect and arrange materials; and as to brevity, it is compressed into the smallest possible compass, containing, as it does, the language of the Discipline, with few words of the compiler.

In different editions of the Discipline, the paragraphs have been variously numbered; but, as the retention of these numbers was deemed liable to confuse the reader, the consecutive numbers of the present edition have been adopted in place of them.

The labor in the preparation of this work has been very great, as will be perceived by the immense amount of detail of which it is made up. The method of preparation is much more difficult than that employed by Emory. Extracts had to be made from the original sources in the same way, and then, the more difficult work to be performed of recasting the whole in minute and often perplexing detail. But, however difficult the use of the plan to the author, it is confidently believed it will be found more simple and valuable to the student than the former one.

That a work, beset with so many difficulties, should prove to be perfect, is too much to hope. The author only claims to have used due diligence, and indulges the hope that serious errors have been avoided. If any shall be found he would gladly be informed of them, that they may be corrected.

The Notes on the Discipline, by Dr. Coke and Bishop Asbury, "many of them still intrinsically valuable and all instructive and curious," as presenting the views of the fathers and founders of the Methodist Episcopal Church, are retained in the Appendix, as selected and arranged by Dr. Emory.

In examining this work the reader will find the "Key," inserted on page 14, to be indispensable.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

IN this revised edition the History of the Discipline is brought down to the close of the General Conference of 1876. Besides inserting the changes made by the late General Conference, the author takes occasion to correct a few errors of the first edition, and, by recasting a single passage in the Introduction, to express more clearly his views on our ecclesiastical economy.

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION.

Since the issue of the last edition of this work three General Conferences have been held, and the changes made by them are so numerous and important as to render a continuation of the history desirable. Accordingly, in this edition the record of change is brought down to the close of the General Conference of 1888.

In the original preparation of this history the author was unable to avail himself of the use of the important editions for 1787 and 1788. In place of a copy of the Discipline for 1787 he was, however, able to consult the ample and careful notes of change made by Emory; and now the missing link of 1788 is supplied by the reprint of Rev. Charles S. Nutter, who has performed a valuable service for the student of the Discipline by bringing within his reach the rare editions of 1785, 1786, 1788, and 1789. He needs only 1787 to complete his list of very early editions.

The edition of 1788 proves to be quite important. Three new sections were added, and several changes hitherto attributed to 1789 are found to belong to 1788. To make these changes the opening paragraphs, in a few chapters, have been recast. In this revised form it is hoped the volume will prove acceptable and useful to those who wish to become minutely acquainted with the practical and progressive legislation of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

INTRODUCTION.

BEFORE passing to an examination of the specific and extensive changes which have been effected in the Discipline, it may be proper to glance at the silent but important modifications which the fundamental law of the Church has been constantly undergoing. In the Church, as in the State, the significance of a historic period can be ascertained only by going below the surface, by studying the principles that underlie the movement, and by carefully noting and measuring the changes transpiring in the constitution.

These changes are sometimes sudden, violent, revolutionary; but more frequently slow and silent, the result of a gradual unfolding of the system; the abrasion or accretion of ages; the débris left by the steady flow of events through long periods of time. Like the Lord of the Church, they come without observation, without human forethought or plan. The actual results were not designed by any one; the providential undertow has swept the craft to a point not anticipated by any of the rowers; nevertheless, on a mature survey of the whole course of events, it is often found that the haven, so unexpectedly entered, is more commodious and secure than the one at which they aimed. They have builded wiser than they knew, because the spirit of the invisible Architect has inspired their plans, and, unwittingly to themselves, guided their hands in the execution of the work.

In the origin and development of the ecclesiastical system of Methodism, this providential superintendence was peculiarly conspicuous. Wesley is reputed a great organizer; but his superiority lies in an appreciative sense of Providence, a quick and keen insight into opportunities of doing good, and in consummate tact in bringing the human forces at his command into complete harmony with those of providence, thus insuring the help of the Divine and human elements in forwarding his undertakings. With a deep and abiding sense of Divine power, he was wise enough never to attempt to row against this stream; but his bark was so skillfully managed as to harness the winds and the waves in the service of his enterprise. More than almost any other, Wesley himself realized the hand of God to be in the Methodist movement. In the expressive language of the founder, they were "raised up," "thrust out," to spread scriptural holiness. The movement came from above, not from themselves; they had no plan, but were led by a way they knew not, entering into each door divinely opened to them.

Unlike those schemes of ecclesiastical polity which, Minerva-like, spring, full-formed and complete, from the teeming brain of some theoretical genius, the economy of Methodism is eminently practical and flexible, readily adjusting itself to new and strange conditions, and having no iron bedstead on which all forms of religious life and effort must be shaped.

For the beauty and excellency of the system we are not a little indebted to its flexibility, to its capacity to yield and change, to the imperfections even of its beginning, as they gradually give place to improvements which could not have been incorporated in the original structure. It is not so much a theory as a growth. As in the human system there is a constant elimination of refuse matter and an incorporation of healthy elements, so has this Church system, from the beginning, been casting off the cruder and less valuable materials, and taking on greater vigor and symmetry.

“The worst legacy,” says a recent English historian, “which princes or statesmen could bequeath to their country, would be the resolution of all its perplexities—the establishment, once and forever, of a finished system, which would neither require nor tolerate improvement.”* Free Governments, like those of England and America, are susceptible of constant improvements; the envelope yields to the pressure of new impulses, of fresh wants, of loftier aspirations; while nations, with cast-iron constitutions, either crush out the rising spirit of improvement and enterprise, or they are themselves rent into a thousand fragments by the uprising and overmastering energy of reform.

The advantages of such an improvable system are as apparent in the Church as in the State. Change is the safety-valve of the machine. The forms claimed to be divinely authorized, like those of the Catholics and of some Protestant bodies, find difficulty in meeting new conditions; the arrangement adapted to the beginning of the movement proves unsuited to its advanced stages, and must either incur damage itself or repress the improving influences about it; but, on the other hand, those bodies which hold, like the Methodists, that the New Testament prescribes no specific form of Church order, but allows each section of the Church to adopt the plan best suited to its conditions of labor, may keep constantly in harmony with the forces of the age in which they are called to act.

In the Methodist Church provision is made in the constitution for change. It was never anticipated that the legislation of one age would be sufficient to meet the wants of another. We retain the original Church, and yet a different one; the identity of the body remains, recognizable in all its features, and yet changed in all its particles. The system was never, save in a few features, stereotyped, but is subjected, in each period of four years, to a thorough review and revision by the General Conference.

The causes of change in the law of the Church have been various, arising both from internal and external conditions. The new life inspiring the movement constantly endeavors to express itself outwardly—the new wine requires new bottles—the freshly sowed field must have a fence adapted to protect the growing harvest. The importance of this cause, in the unfolding of the movement, will be observed in the fact that Methodism is a revival rather than a theology, a life rather than a theoretical system. In other words, the life was not an outgrowth of the system, but the system of the life.

The influence also of the freedom-loving race, to which we belong, has been potent in producing changes in our economy. The movement began and has achieved its greatest triumphs among the Anglo-Saxon people, ever practical, judicious, and attached to free institutions.

Again, the entrance of Methodism into the New World rendered other modifications inevitable. It was a land of experiments, in which nothing was considered ultimately settled. The Church, as well as the State, was subjected to the tide of new influences, and could not fail to be affected in its government. The germs of ecclesiastical law, selected by Mr. Wesley for a settled and conservative state of society, once established in our virgin soil, shot forth with fresh vigor and assumed unexpected forms. The cion flourished by the healthful and vigorous juices of the wild stock on which it had been grafted. The spirit of the Republic diffused itself by degrees through the economy of the Church. At first a centralized and, to some extent, conservative system, the polity of the Church has yielded to the influence of a genial and free atmosphere, to the gentle yet plastic touch of our civil institutions, until the genius of the Church has become assimilated to that of the State.

* Froude. “History of England,” vol. xii, p. 557.

The struggles of the Church and of society have been also a prolific source of change in the Discipline. Within the Church, as in nature, the centripetal and centrifugal forces have balanced and neutralized each other. There have been parties from the beginning in favor of reducing and others in favor of strengthening the central authority. The debate has resembled, in this particular, that under the General Government; Asbury and his fellow-organizers stand for the party of authority, O'Kelly and the seceders for Jefferson Davis and his band of rebels; the one would compact and fortify the organization, the other disintegrate and destroy its wholeness. Happily, both in State and Church, the centralizing force has held in check its opposite, and allowed the systems to run on in harmony.

But the struggle within the Church has been affected more or less by those going on without, as may be seen in the discussions on Temperance and Slavery, which touch the very core of human rights and interests. The combatants were often drawn into both arenas, and applied the principles of the one to settle questions in the other.

Finally, in estimating the improvements in the economy of our Church, the agency of organizing men, like Asbury, Coke, and Hedding, is not to be forgotten. The results of changes, effected by Providence, are registered ordinarily by the legislative genius of the Church. The hint, it may be, is given by some turn in affairs, but it takes form and becomes incorporated in the law of the Church only by men who are able to estimate its value and judge of its importance to the system.

In passing to notice some of the specific changes effected in the constitution of Methodism, we naturally revert to the origin of the system, as giving direction and shape to all the subsequent unfoldings of it. The stream is affected by the condition of the spring head, as well as by the tract of country through which it flows. A Church, uniting several original centers of action, will differ widely from one derived from a single mind; the weakness of the one will communicate itself along the whole line of its subsequent history, while the unity and strength of the other will be felt long after the primitive form has been discarded.

In the beginning of the religious movement from which the various branches of Methodism have sprung, the entire ecclesiastical authority, now widely distributed among ministers and laymen, resided in Mr. Wesley himself. As regards human interference, his rule was absolute and autocratic. He was the Church in a more emphatic sense than Louis XIV. was the State. His authority, however, was not thrust upon unwilling hearts, but courted by those who cherished entire confidence in his integrity and in the purity and elevation of his purpose. Having been the agent of their conversion, he became their natural guide and counselor in the conduct of religious affairs, being to them, as it were, a second lawgiver.

In accordance with this view of the subject we find that he made and executed all rules and regulations for the society; that he received and excluded both preachers and members at his will; that he considered and settled, as he pleased, all disputes among his followers; that he held control of all the chapels in the connection; that he stationed and changed the preachers of his own motion; and that he controlled the literature and the funds arising from the sale of books. In a word, of the societies he had been instrumental in organizing, he was an absolute ruler.

In attaining their present form and distribution of powers, the economy of Methodism and that of our Federal Government have traveled in opposite directions. In the Church, as we have seen, all authority was at first centered in one man, and then diffused through the body. In the State, on the other hand, authority was at first held by several scattered colonies, and afterward gathered up into a central Government. The former affords an instance of the operation of the centrifugal, the latter of the centripetal, force; the one diffusing, the other centralizing, power.

But the time came when the powers of government, originating in and long held by the founder, must pass into other hands. The transmission of those powers, which have crystallized in new forms of Church order, the unfolding of those regulative germs which have expanded over all the continents, afford a curious and instructive chapter in the constitutional history of our Church. It is clear that Mr. Wesley, by reason of his providential relations to the Methodist movement, could have no individual successor; his vast power must be distributed through the various branches of the religious family he had been instrumental in raising up. In passing over to these various sections, the features of the original economy assumed different forms and colors. The Methodism of England and America, though one in spirit and doctrine, adopted regulations suited to the fields each was to cultivate. In England, by act of Parliament, the ecclesiastical power of the founder, vested at his death in the "Legal Hundred" of the Conference; but in America, on the other hand, it passed to the body of the traveling preachers, most of whom were present in the Christmas Conference.

By act of that extraordinary assembly, a sort of constitutional convention rather than a conference, the American Societies, hitherto in an indefinite sense members of the Episcopal Church, became an independent organization, under the title of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The act, though not designed to be a separation from Mr. Wesley, whom the American preachers still promised "to obey," retaining his name in the Minutes, really became such. In 1787 his name was removed from the Minutes.

By this process the ecclesiastical power of Mr. Wesley was transferred to the traveling preachers. The right of legislation inhered in the entire body of preachers included in a single Conference; but in 1792, when the Conference was divided, the forming of "rules and regulations" was restricted to the General Conference, at first composed of all the preachers "in full connection;" in 1800, of those who had "traveled four years;" and in 1812, of delegates chosen by the Annual Conferences. In 1872 the laity was admitted to the law-making body. The ecclesiastical sovereignty thus residing in the preachers and people, the General Conference, though intrusted with the duty of legislation, is a derived and limited body. Clothed with extensive powers it is not unlimited, like the Conference of 1784. In several very important particulars "the Restrictive Rules" guard the rights of the Episcopacy, the ministry, and the laity from the encroachments of the General Conference.

But the powers of the General Conference, though limited, are still extensive. That body has full power, within the above limitations, "to make rules and regulations" for the government of the Church. It has all powers not reserved. In this respect the constitution of our Church differs, as Bishop Harris well observes, from those of the Federal and State Governments. In the latter there is a delegation of enumerated and exactly defined powers, with a reservation of all others; but in our ecclesiastical economy there is a grant of general powers with specific restrictions. All powers to make rules and regulations not embraced in these exceptions, either directly or by fair implication, belong to the General Conference.*

As already indicated, Mr. Wesley and his American followers entertained extremely moderate views on Church government. Belonging to the Low-Church wing, they held that "neither Christ nor his apostles prescribe any particular form of Church government,"* and hence that Christian people may institute such forms as the exigencies of the hour may demand. But, while cherishing such broad and catholic views, Mr. Wesley thought some forms of Church order better than others. From conviction, as well as from training, he "preferred the Episcopal mode of Church government to any other," as being in harmony with the practice of the Primitive Church and adapted to an efficient promulgation of the Gospel, especially amid a sparse population, such as he found on this continent. Unlike the High-Church party, his reasons for recommending to the fathers of American Methodism the Episcopal plan were utilitarian rather than prelatial. He was an Episcopalian from the usefulness of that form, not from its divine authority. Moderate, however, as were his views, he was not, as some of his followers claim, a Presbyterian, save in the broad sense that all who hold that sovereignty resides in the eldership are Presbyterian. Among this large class some are called Presbyterians and others Episcopalians. They differ as to the use rather than as to the source of power. In Presbyterianism the elders make and administer laws directly or by temporary agents; while in our mode of Church government the administration is intrusted to a permanent agency, known as the Episcopacy.

According to this definition Wesleyan Methodism is Presbyterian, because the Conference makes its laws, and administers them directly or by temporary agents.

In American Methodism we have another type of government. While supreme power resides in the aggregate ministry and laity, its exercise is distributed into three departments in a form analogous to that of the Federal Government—the legislative, lodged solely in the General Conference; the executive, intrusted to the bishops; and the judicial, diffused through various Church courts. Like Congress, the General Conference is the sole law-making body. Subordinate bodies can only make rules to regulate their own conduct. In like manner the executive power is exercised by the Episcopacy, whence it operates directly or indirectly through the whole Church. Standing at the head, and giving direction to the executive work, the bishops perform through agents what they are not able to do personally, just as the President of the United States acts through agents where unable to act personally. If not allowed to appoint their agents, the bishops could not be justly held responsible for the administration of the affairs of the Church any more than the President could be held responsible for agents he is not allowed to appoint. Hence the Church has committed to the bishops the appointment, either directly or indirectly, of all who administer the Discipline—the preachers, the presiding elders, and, through them, the leaders, partially the stewards and trustees. The bishops also arrange the districts, and, through their appointment of the preachers, exert no small degree of influence over the Conferences; in a word, they are the general medium of administration for the whole Church, the system operating only as these chief pastors give it direction. Again, the courts of the Church resemble in some points those of the Federal Government.

Between the polities of Presbyterianism and Episcopal Methodism there exists the same difference as between an aristocracy and a republic. The aristocracy not only holds power, but administers it; the republic has transferred it to other parties with limited powers and specified duties. Presbyterianism is an aristocracy; Episcopal Methodism a republic. Again, the distinction between Congregationalism and our type of Methodism is the same as that between a democracy and a republic. In Congregationalism the administration is in the hands of the people, a mode well suited to a small sect, but not broad enough for a large and wide-spread denomination. The nation could as well be governed in town meeting, as a large Church by Congregationalism. At best it is only a loose confederation, ever ready to fall in pieces, and powerless to resist the infection of false doctrine as well as to make any broad and united effort for the extension of the kingdom of Christ.

While these general features of our economy remain, as at the beginning, securing a beautiful harmony and balance in the elements of the constitution, the system, in its parts, has not been free from change. The equilibrium has not been destroyed, but it has been to some extent modified. No single element remains just as it was at the organization of the Church.

The change in the constitution of the Church has been nowhere more marked than in the legislative department. The General Conference at first included in its membership all traveling preachers; then, in 1792, all who had traveled two years or more; later, those who had traveled four years; and, finally, delegates from the Conferences. But the most important change was the introduction of lay delegates into the law-making body of the Church.

As we turn, however, to the executive branch of the government, we find there also changes of no inconsiderable importance have transpired. The Episcopacy, still holding an eminent place in our economy and in the affections of our people, has experienced a loss of power both positive and relative. The power remains, indeed, in the executive department, but has been transferred in some instances to other agents, whom the Bishop can reach only indirectly.

At the founding of the Church the Bishops, though distinguished from Mr. Wesley in many respects, inherited a larger share of his power than any other Church officers. Unlike him, however, they were deprived of all legislative and most judicial functions; they could not control the property of the Church, and even their executive powers were checked and guarded. Neither could the providential relations he sustained to the work pass over to them. But, at the same time, no superintendent, elder, or deacon could be chosen without their consent; no book could be issued by a preacher without their approbation, and the appeals of preachers and people were to be decided by them. But these important powers have been transferred to other parties.

With the decline of the Episcopal power, that of the Presiding Eldership has materially increased. In 1784 the elder had but little power, his labors being confined to a partial oversight of sections of the Church, and to the administration of the sacraments. A couple of years later the Discipline was so changed as to allow him to discharge some Episcopal duties in the absence of the Bishop; and in 1792 the office assumed its present form, though other duties have from time to time been attached to it.

The office of pastor also has grown in influence and importance with the growth of the Church. This relative growth has been attained while considerable subtractions, of a positive kind, have been made from it. The former judicial functions of the preacher have been transferred to other parties.

In closing, it may be proper to notice the extensive remodeling which the judicial department of the Church has undergone. From being the most poorly organized, this feature of our economy has come to be matured and completed. The extensive powers at first lodged in the hands of the chief executive officers have been passed over to regularly constituted courts, in which preachers and laymen are tried by their peers. The changes effected in this, as in all the other departments, being based on experience, have tended to secure real improvements and to establish the broad principles which underlie the system, and which have proved so beneficial in their effects in spreading pure and undefiled religion.

HISTORY OF THE REVISIONS

DISCIPLINE OF THE M. E. CHURCH.

BOOK I.

REVISIONS OF THE FORM OF THE DISCIPLINE.

CHAPTER I.

RULES AND REGULATIONS PRIOR TO 1792.

THE Methodist Societies grew up under the labors of John and Charles Wesley, who, from this circumstance, maintained from the first almost unlimited authority over them. John Wesley possessed unusual gifts for organization and ecclesiastical government, and hence when the great revival, produced through the labors of himself and his associates, brought about him unorganized masses of people, his genius was displayed in organizing them into societies, and in preparing rules for their government.

The first attempt at law-making resulted in the General Rules, prepared by the Wesleys in 1743, the most remarkable uninspired code for the regulation of a spiritual body on record. By these Rules the first Societies, as well as all the later ones in the various branches of the Methodist family, were governed. But as new exigencies arose in the development of their work, other provisions were made to meet them by the Conferences which were held yearly from 1744. These new regulations were at first published in the Minutes from year to year, and afterward collected together and issued in a corrected form in a work entitled "The Large Minutes." These, with the General Rules, constitute the Discipline of the English Methodists.

As those who originated the work in America were members of Mr. Wesley's Societies, they and the Societies they organized were governed by the same regulations, so far as applicable to their changed circumstances; and to meet the new demands occasioned by their enlarging field and the unformed state of society, additional regulations were from time to time adopted by the Conferences. These, as in the case of the English Methodists, "were inserted in the Minutes of the Annual Conferences from year to year until 1784, when the Methodists in America ceased to constitute mere Societies," and were organized into a Church independent of Mr. Wesley and the British Methodists.

The first period, then, in the history of the American branch of Methodism, is that extending from 1766, when the first Society was organized in New York, to 1784, when the inchoate Societies became consolidated into a regular Church. During this period they were governed by Mr. Wesley through agents whom he sent over for that purpose, and by the "Large Minutes" and the Annual Minutes of the American Conferences. During this period these Minutes constituted the Discipline of the American Methodists. The Large Minutes will be given in connection with the Discipline of 1784. The portions of the Annual Minutes relating to Discipline, and designed to supplement the Large Minutes, are given in this chapter, save the fragments that have been transferred into the body of the work in the shape of foot-notes. The first Conference was held in Philadelphia in June, 1773.*

1. Regulations of 1773.

The Conference passed the following:

Quest. 1. Ought not the authority of Mr. Wesley and that Conference to extend to the Preachers and people in America, as well as in Great Britain and Ireland?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 2. Ought not the doctrine and discipline of the Methodists, as contained in the Minutes, to be the sole rule of our conduct, who labor in the Connection with Mr. Wesley in America?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 3. If so, does it not follow that if any Preachers deviate from the Minutes, we can have no fellowship with them till they change their conduct?

Ans. Yes.

The following rules were agreed to by all the Preachers present:

1. Every Preacher, who acts in connection with Mr. Wesley and the brethren who labor in America, is strictly to avoid administering the ordinances of Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

* Prior to this date all their business was done in Quarterly Conferences, of which we have no records remaining. See Stevens' "History of the M. E. Church," col. ii, pp. 11, 12.

2. All the people among whom we labor to be earnestly exhorted to attend the Church, and to receive the ordinances there; but in a particular manner to press the people in Maryland and Virginia to the observance of this minute.

3. No person or persons to be admitted into our love-feasts oftener than twice or thrice, unless they become members; and none to be admitted to the Society meetings more than thrice.

4. None of the Preachers in America to reprint any of Mr. Wesley's books without his authority (when it can be gotten) and the consent of their brethren.

5. Robert Williams to sell the books he has already printed, but to print no more unless under the above restrictions.

5. Every Preacher who acts as an Assistant to send an account of the work once in six months to the General Assistant."

2. Regulations of 1774.

The Conference was held in Philadelphia May 25, 1774, and passed the following:

"All the Preachers to change at the end of six months.

This Conference agreed to the following particulars:

1. Every Preacher who is received into full connection is to have the use and property of his horse, which any of the circuits may furnish him with.

2. Every Preacher to be allowed six pounds, Pennsylvania currency, per quarter, and his traveling charges besides.

3. For every Assistant to make a general collection at Easter in the circuits where they labor, to be applied to the sinking of the debts on the houses, and relieving the Preachers in want.

4. Wherever Thomas Rankin * spends his time he is to be assisted by those circuits."

* The General Assistant. Lee gives definitions of the terms employed to designate the different laborers of that day. "They stood in three grades: 1. Helpers; 2. Assistants; 3. General Assistants. The Helper was the young Preacher in each Circuit where there were generally two Preachers in a Circuit. The Assistant was the eldest Preacher in the Circuit, who had the charge of the young Preacher and of the business of the Circuit. The General Assistant was the Preacher who had the charge of all the Circuits and of all the Preachers, and appointed all the Preachers to their several Circuits, and changed them. His being called a General Assistant signified that he was to assist Mr. Wesley in carrying on the work of God in a general way."—Lee's History, p. 41.

The General Assistant was the Bishop of his time, or, as called at a later date, Superintendent. Prior to 1769 the Societies were managed by the Local Preachers, by whom they had been founded: but at this date the work had so enlarged that they asked for Preachers from England. In response to this call Mr. Wesley sent over Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmoor, making the former General Assistant, which office he held till 1772. In 1771 Francis Asbury came to America, and in October, 1772, he was made "General Assistant in America," with power of

3. Regulations of 1775.

The Conference of 1775 met at Philadelphia May 17, 1775, and made the following Minutes:

“Thomas Rankin is to travel till the month of December, and then take a quarter in New York.

The Preachers in New Jersey to change in one quarter.

Webster and Cooper to change with Gatch and Watters at the end of six months.

The Preachers in Brunswick and Hanover to change as the Assistant thinks proper.

Thomas Rankin's deficiencies to be paid out of the yearly collection.

The Preachers' expenses from Conference to their Circuits to be paid out of the yearly collection.

A general fast for the prosperity of the work, and for the peace of America, on Tuesday, the 18th of July.”

4. Regulations of 1777.

The Conference of 1776 met at Baltimore May 21, but passed no disciplinary orders. The Conference of 1777 met “at a preaching-house near Deer Creek, in Harford County, Maryland, May 20, 1777,” and passed the following orders:

“Quest. 7. As the present distress is such, are the Preachers resolved to take no step to detach themselves from the work of God for the ensuing year?

Ans. We purpose, by the grace of God, not to take any step that may separate us from the brethren, or from the blessed work in which we are engaged.

Quest. 8. Has not the preaching of funeral sermons been carried so far us to prostitute that venerable custom, and in some sort to render it contemptible?

Ans. Yes. Therefore let all the Preachers inform every supervision over all the Preachers and Societies. In 1778 Thomas Rankin came to America, and as the senior of Asbury, became General Assistant. As the progress of the Revolutionary war rendered it difficult for English Preachers to labor here, Rankin left America March 17, 1778. As Wesley was not able, in consequence of the war, to exercise any further supervision over the infant Societies on this continent, the Conference in 1779 appointed Francis Asbury as the General Assistant in America. As Mr. Wesley appointed no other General Assistant, Asbury was re-elected from year to year till 1784, when the Church was organized, and he was elected one of the Bishops. In his letter to the American Conference, dated September 10, 1784, Mr. Wesley appoints “Thomas Coke and Francis Asbury to be joint Superintendents over our brethren in North America;” but Asbury would not serve without an election by the Conference.

The Discipline of 1784 gives an exact definition of an Assistant as follows:

“Quest. 53. (40.) Who is the Assistant?

“Ans. That Preacher in each Circuit who is appointed from time to time to assist the Superintendent in the charge of the Societies and the other Preachers therein.”

Society that we will not preach any but for those who we have reason to think died in the fear and favor of God."

5. Regulations of 1778.

The Conference of 1778 met at Leesburgh, Va., May 19, and made the following regulation :

"Quest. 8. What shall the Preachers be allowed for quarterage ?

Ans. Eight pounds, Virginia currency."

6. Regulations of 1779.

The Conference was this year held in two sections. The first met in Kent County, Delaware, April 28, 1779, and the other at Fluvanna, May 18, 1779. The following are selected from their Minutes :

"No Helper to make any alteration in the Circuit, or appoint preaching in any new place, without consulting the Assistant.

Every Exhorter and Local Preacher to go by the directions of the Assistants where, and only where, they shall appoint.

Quest. 8. Why was the Delaware Conference held ?

Ans. For the convenience of the Preachers in the northern stations, that we all might have an opportunity of meeting in Conference, it being unadvisable for Brother Asbury and Brother Ruff, with some others, to attend in Virginia; it is considered also as preparatory to the Conference in Virginia. Our sentiments to be given in by Brother Watters.

Quest. 9. Ought not every Traveling Preacher to meet the class wherever he preaches ?

Ans. Yes, if possible.

Quest. 10. Shall we guard against a separation from the Church, directly or indirectly ?

Ans. By all means.

Quest. 11. What shall be done with the children ?

Ans. Meet them once a fortnight and examine the parents with regard to their conduct toward them.

Quest. 12. Ought not Brother Asbury to act as General Assistant in America ?

Ans. He ought: 1. On account of his age; 2. Because originally appointed by Mr. Wesley; 3. Being joined with Messrs. Rankin and Shadford, by express order from Mr. Wesley.

Quest. 13. How far shall his power extend ?

Ans. On hearing every Preacher for and against what is in debate, the right of determination shall rest with him, according to the Minutes.

In the same year, at the Conference in Virginia, the following:

Quest. 6. What shall be done with the Preachers who were upon trial last year?

Ans. To be continued till next Conference.

Quest. 7. Shall any Preacher receive quarterage who is able to travel and does not?

Ans. No.

Quest. 8. In what light shall we view those Preachers who receive money by subscription?

Ans. As excluded from the Methodist Connection."

7. Regulations of 1780.

The Conference was held in Baltimore, April 24, 1780. Their Minutes contain the following: [For Quest. 7 see ¶ 368.]

Quest. 8. Shall all the Traveling Preachers take a license from every Conference, importing that they are Assistants or Helpers in connection with us?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 9. Shall Brother Asbury sign them in behalf of the Conference?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 10. Ought it to be strictly enjoined on all our Local Preachers and Exhorters that no one presume to speak in public without taking a note every quarter, (if required,) and be examined by the Assistant with respect to his life, his qualification, and reception?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 11. Ought not all our Preachers to make conscience of rising at four, and if not, yet at five? (is it not a shame for a Preacher to be in bed till six in the morning?)

Ans. Undoubtedly they ought.

Quest. 12. Shall we continue in close connection with the Church, and press our people to a closer communion with her?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 13. Will this Conference grant the privilege to all the friendly clergy of the Church of England, at the request or desire of the people, to preach or administer the ordinances in our preaching-houses or chapels?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 14. What provision shall we make for the wives of married Preachers?

Ans. They shall receive an equivalent with their husbands in quarterage if they stand in need.

Quest. 15. Ought not our Preachers, if possible, to speak to every person, one by one, in the families where they lodge, before prayer, if time will permit, or give a family exhortation after reading a chapter?

Ans. They ought. [For Questions 16 and 17 see section on Slavery.]

Quest. 18. Shall we recommend our Quarterly Meetings to be held on Saturdays and Sundays when convenient?*

Ans. Agreed.

Quest. 19. Shall not the Friday following every quarter day be appointed as a day of fasting? Ans. Yes.

Quest. 20. Does this whole Conference disapprove the step our brethren have taken in Virginia? Ans. Yes.

Quest. 21. Do we look upon them no longer as Methodists in connection with Mr. Wesley and us till they come back? †

Ans. Agreed.

Quest. 22. Shall Brothers Asbury, Garrettson, and Watters attend the Virginia Conference, and inform them of our proceedings in this, and receive their answer? Ans. Yes. [For Quest. 23 see on Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors.]

Quest. 24. What shall the Conference do in case of Brother Asbury's death or absence?

Ans. Meet once a year, and act according to the Minutes. [For Quest. 25 see note to section on Slavery.]

Quest. 26. What must be the conditions of our union with our Virginia brethren?

Ans. To suspend all their administrations for one year, and all meet together in Baltimore."

8. Regulations of 1781.

The Conference met at Choptank, Del., April 16, 1781, and adjourned to Baltimore the 24th of said month. The following items are selected from their Minutes :

"Quest. 1. What Preachers are now determined, after mature consideration, close observation, and earnest prayer, to preach the old Methodist doctrine, and strictly enforce the Discipline, as contained in the Notes, Sermons, and Minutes published by Mr. Wesley, so far as they respect both Preachers and people, according to the knowledge we have of them, and the ability God shall give, and firmly resolved to discountenance a separation among either Preachers or people?

Ans. [Here follow the names of thirty-nine Preachers.]

Quest. 2. Why was Conference begun at Choptank?

Ans. To examine those who could not go to Baltimore, and to provide supplies for the Circuits where the Lord is more immediately pouring out his Spirit.

* At first held on Tuesday.

† This refers to a partial separation which took place in Virginia on account of the ordinances.

Quest. 3. Is there any precedent for this in the economy of Methodism?

Ans. Yes. Mr. Wesley generally holds a Conference in Ireland for the same purposes.

Quest. 4. Should we take the Preachers into full connection after one year's trial, or would it not be better, after considering how young they are in age, grace, and gifts, to try them two years, unless it be one of double testimony, of whom there is a general approbation?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 5. Shall any Assistant take a Local Preacher to travel in the Circuit, in the vacancy of Conference, without consulting Brother Asbury, or the Assistants near him, by word or letter?

Ans. No.

Quest. 6. If any former Assistant has had just cause for removing preaching from any house, should his successor return to it without consulting Brother Asbury, or the Assistants in the Circuits near him, and if it remains doubtful, leave it till next Conference?

Ans. Agreed.

Quest. 7. Ought not the Preachers to examine every person admitted upon trial for three months: first, whether they have been turned out; and if so, let them not be received without they have evidenced repentance, and can be generally recommended?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 8. Ought not the Preachers often to read the Rules of the Societies, the Character of a Methodist, and the Plain Account of Christian Perfection, if they have got them?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 14. Ought not every Assistant to give a circumstantial account of the Circuit, in writing, both of Societies and Local Preachers, with a plan, to his successor?

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 15. Ought not each Assistant to inform all our Societies in his Circuit of the sum that is to be made up for the Preachers' quarterage, exclusive of traveling expenses, and urge them to give according to their several abilities?

Ans. Yes. [For Quest. 17 see note under ¶ 223.]

Quest. 18. How many general fasts shall we have this year?

Ans. Four, as follows: The first Thursday in June, September, January, and April."

9. Regulations of 1782.

The Conference was "held at Ellis's Preaching-House, in Sussex County, Virginia, April 17, 1782, and adjourned to Baltimore May 21." The following are selected from their Minutes:

" Quest. 11. What shall be done to revive the work ?

Ans. Hold evening meetings, and preach in the mornings in places convenient.

Quest. 12. What shall be done to get a regular and impartial supply for the maintenance of the preachers ?

Ans. Let every thing they receive, either in money or clothing, be valued by the Preachers and Stewards at Quarterly Meeting, and an account of the deficiency given in to the Conference, that they may be supplied by the profits arising from the books and the Conference collections.

Quest. 13. How shall we more effectually guard against disorderly Traveling Preachers ?

Ans. Write at the bottom of every certificate: 'The authority this conveys is limited to next Conference.'

Quest. 14. How must we do if a Preacher will not desist after being found guilty ?

Ans. Let the nearest Assistant stop him immediately. In Brother Asbury's absence let the Preachers inform the people of these rules.

Quest. 15. How shall we more effectually guard against disorderly Local Preachers ?

Ans. Write at the bottom of the certificate: 'This conveys authority no longer than you walk uprightly, and submit to the direction of the Assistant Preacher.'

Quest. 16. By what rule shall we conduct ourselves toward the Preachers and people that separate from us ?

Ans. Disown them. [For Quest. 17 see note under ¶ 176, § 5.]

Quest. 19. Do the brethren in Conference unanimously choose Brother Asbury to act according to Mr. Wesley's original appointment, and preside over the American Conferences and the whole work ? Ans. Yes.

Every Assistant Preacher must so order his Circuit that either himself or one of his helpers may travel with Mr. Asbury through his circuit."

10. Regulations of 1783.

The Conference was held again "at Ellis's Preaching-House May 6, 1783, and adjourned to Baltimore the 27th." The following items are selected:

" Quest. 9. How is this sum [for the support of the Preachers' wives] to be raised ?

Ans. Let the Preachers make a small collection in all the Circuits. [For Quest. 10 see on Slavery; 11, on Spirituous Liquors, p. 131, and 13, note under ¶ 177, p. 179.]

Quest. 12. How shall we conduct ourselves toward any European Methodists should they come to this continent ?

Ans. We will not receive them without a letter of recommendation which we have no reason to doubt the truth of.

Quest. 14. How many days of thanksgiving shall we have for our public peace, temporal and spiritual prosperity, and for the glorious work of God?

Ans. Two: the first Thursday in July and October.

Quest. 15. How many fast days shall we have?

Ans. Two: the first Friday in January and April.

Quest. 17. How is this money [for the Preachers' wives] to be raised?"

Ans. [The amount is then apportioned to the several Circuits.]

11. Regulations of 1784.

Conference "began at Elli's Preaching-House, Virginia, April 30, 1784, and ended at Baltimore May 28, following." [For Quest. 11 see section on Dress, ¶ 45; for Questions 12, 13, 22, see section on Slavery; for 14, section on Singing. (note;) for 15 see note to section on Parsonages, p. 260; for 18 see note on p. 251, Support of Bishops.]

Quest. 8. How shall we keep good order among the Preachers, and provide for contingencies in the vacancy of Conference and absence of the General Assistant?

Ans. Let any three Assistants do what may be thought most eligible, call to an account, change, suspend, or receive a Preacher till Conference.

Quest. 9. What can be done with those places we have long tried, and appear to grow worse every year?

Ans. If you are obliged to make use of such places to get to more valuable ones, appoint no public preaching, but only meet Society in the evening, or speak to the black people.

Quest. 21. How shall we conduct ourselves toward European Preachers?

Ans. If they are recommended by Mr. Wesley, will be subject to the American Conference, preach the doctrine taught in the four volumes of Sermons and Notes on the New Testament, keep the Circuits they are appointed to, follow the directions of the London and American Minutes, and be subject to Francis Asbury as General Assistant, while he stands approved by Mr. Wesley and the Conference, we will receive them; but if they walk contrary to the above directions, no ancient right or appointment shall prevent their being excluded from our Connection.

Quest. 10. What can be done toward erecting new chapels, and discharging the debts on those already built?

Ans. Let the assistant Preacher put a yearly subscription through the circuits, and require every member that is not supported by charity to give something. Let them subscribe the first quarter, and pay the second; and the money to be applied by two general stewards.

Quest. 23. How shall we more effectually appoint and keep days of fasting?

Ans. By writing upon every class paper, 'To be the first Friday after every Quarterly Meeting.'*"

12. Regulations of 1785.

The Christmas Conference was a General Conference, as it embraced the entire ministry, but irregular, as it did not become a part of the economy of the Church by assembling at stated periods in the future. It was a Convention assembled for the purpose of organizing the Church and establishing a constitution for the government of the body without any expectation of its recurrence. The Discipline provided in 1784 was designed to serve as a Constitution, to be supplemented by such statutory provisions from time to time as the Conferences might find necessary. In this irregular way the Church continued to legislate until the establishment of the General Conference in 1792. Hence it will be proper to notice the additions to our rules made in this interval in the Annual Conferences.

The Conference of 1785 is noted for the Suspension of the Rule on Slavery adopted in 1784. The first edition of the Discipline was also printed this year, and was bound with "the Sunday Service" and "the collection of Psalms and Hymns" sent over in sheets from London. The edition was issued from Philadelphia.

13. Regulations of 1786.

The edition of this year, printed in London, omits Quest. 23, on the use of "Spirituous Liquors;" the Rule on Slavery; that on Supplying Vacancies on Circuits, Quest. 64; and that on the Trial of Preachers, Quest. 63. "This appears to have been the last edition of 'the Sunday Service' for the use of the Methodists in America."† The psalms and hymns contained in it grew into the Hymn Book, and the Articles and Ritual, at first issued separately, were subsequently incorporated in the Discipline. "The Sunday Service" appears never to have been popular in the American Societies, and was laid aside the instant they were free from the direct supervision of Mr. Wesley.

* "All these Annual Conferences, and all subsequent sessions down to the organization of the General or Quadrennial Conference, were considered adjourned meetings of the undivided ministry, held at different places, often widely apart, for the local convenience of the scattered itinerants. The enactments of no one session were binding till they had been virtually adopted at all the other sessions of the same ecclesiastical year, and had thus become the expression of a majority of the ministry."—Stevens' Hist. M. E. Church, vol. ii, p. 13.

† Emory.

14. Regulations of 1787.

By some this has been incorrectly classed as a General Conference. That Wesley ordered one, and that Dr. Coke came over to hold it, is true; but the plan was so warmly resisted by Asbury and his associates that Mr. Wesley's name was removed from the Minutes by striking out the second question of the Discipline of 1784.* The Conference was simply annual, though much business was transacted such as now pertains to the General Conference. But this does not prove it to have been a General Conference, as all such matters were then arranged in the Annual Conferences of other years as well as this.

The third edition of the Discipline was this year issued, for the first time, in sections, as arranged by Asbury, and the Superintendents were called Bishops. The Annual Minutes contain some regulations of a disciplinary kind, as those on the Colored People, Salaries of Preachers, Register books for the Stewards, and Instruction of Children. The Discipline of this year contains new sections on Books, on Elders, on Deacons; regulates admission to Sacrament; makes provision for ordaining Bishops, for receiving Preachers in the interval of Conference, and omits the provision for Wives of Preachers.

15. Regulations of 1788.

To most students of the Discipline the edition of 1788 was long unknown; some doubted whether an edition was issued; and Emory felt quite sure that, even in case of a re-issue, this edition differed little, if at all, from that of the former year—an opinion in which he was confirmed by the silence of Lee on the subject. But the conjecture was ill founded. The fourth edition was issued in 1788, and contains most of the changes which have been attributed to 1789.

16. Regulations of 1789.

The fifth edition of this year differs little from the fourth. The Episcopal Address forms an introduction and the General Rules are added as a final section. The Articles and Doctrinal tracts, though not an integral part of the Discipline, are bound with it.

17. Regulations of 1790.

The sixth edition was issued this year with the Articles and Tracts incorporated in the body of the work.

18. Regulations of 1791.

In the seventh edition of this year is found the section "on Bands."

*The whole question is ably reviewed by Stevens, "Hist. M. E. Church," vol. iii, p. 37.

CHAPTER II.

AN ABSTRACT OF THE DOINGS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCES.

IN the General Conference of 1792 the Constitution of the Church was so far modified as to restrict the power to make "Rules and Regulations" to the General Conferences henceforth to be held quadrennially. Hence, in order to trace the gradual revision of the Discipline, it will be needful to examine the doings of those bodies, a brief abstract of which is given in this chapter. The brevity required precludes a minute examination; an outline, touching the main matters which possess an enduring interest, and which will guide the inquirer to fuller sources of information, in the General Conference Journals, is all that is here attempted. The index will render these materials available to even the casual inquirer. The references in this chapter are to the consecutive numbers of the Discipline, employed also in the second book of this work.

I. Conference of 1792.

"The first regular General Conference"* met in Baltimore, November 1, 1792, Bishops Coke and Asbury presiding.

THE LEADING TOPICS.—The establishment of the General Conference as a mode of unifying the Church, and the impending schism of James O'Kelley.

As the work was spreading, so that it was no longer possible for the Preachers to meet together every year, they naturally wished to devise some means to secure the future unity of the movement. The scattered and feeble Societies had been organized into a Church, but this even would prove of little avail without some means of concerted action by the entire body. To obviate the difficulty a "Council," composed of the Presiding Elders and the Bishops, was devised and introduced; but the concentration of such vast power in so few hands aroused suspicions, and elicited criticisms so severe that the plan fell dead at birth.

The only other eligible plan seemed to be to call the whole

* The words of Asbury. The Conference of 1784 was irregular, partaking of the nature of a convention rather than an established body. It was convened for the purpose of organizing the Church, and its recurrence not anticipated. That of 1787 had less claim to be designated a General Conference; but in 1792 the General Conference became a part of the established economy of the Church.

The records of this Conference have not been preserved, and the account given above is necessarily gleaned from other sources, as Lee, Asbury, Ware.

NOTE.—The paragraph references of this chapter are to the earlier edition which followed the Discipline of 1876. As the passages can usually be found by the subject, no change has been made in the figures.

body of Traveling Preachers together at stated intervals to consider and settle the business of the Connection. This was the first question of the hour. To settle it a large part of the Traveling Preachers had convened, and united, as a means of attaining this end, in the adoption of the General Conference, to be held quadrennially, and to be composed of all the Traveling Preachers.

The disorganizing tendencies were represented by James O'Kelley, who desired the power to be retained in local bodies. In his view the Bishops should possess less power, their appointments, as with our English brethren, being subject to revision by the Conference. These correlated questions were hotly debated for a week, till in the end the good sense of the members was convinced that the only method of maintaining a consolidated Church with an itinerant ministry was the creation of a central body and the election of Superintendents with extensive powers, duly checked by the General Conference composed as above.

The result was so displeasing to O'Kelley (the Jeff. Davis of the Church) that he left the Conference, and very soon seceded from the Church, in order to organize the divisive elements gathered about him, which, however, only proved a rope of sand.

The Conference agreed that, "It shall take two thirds of all the members to make any new rule, or abolish an old one; but a majority may alter or amend any rule."

THE REVISION OF THE DISCIPLINE.—The Episcopal Address was modified by the omission of "the Rigging House," and the insertion of the title to the tract on Baptism, and the date was "Baltimore, November 16, 1792." The sections on the Constitution of the Church and the Origin of Episcopacy were condensed into that on the Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church (§ 1). The provision on the General Conference was introduced (§ 62) in the place of the Council,* giving to it the sole power of legislation for the Church. The section also contained provisions for District Conferences, to be organized and bounded by the Bishops as now, and to be composed of all the Traveling Preachers. The order of business was the same as that retained in the Annual Conference.

The Bishop was now to be elected by, and to be amenable to, the General Conference, and in the interval of Conference to be tried by a committee. Ceasing to travel would deprive him of office.

The Elders now took the name of Presiding Elders, to be appointed by the Bishops, with defined duties, and dependent on the people for support, the tenure of office being restricted to four years.*

* For the origin and power of this body see the section on the "Circulation of Books," note.

The section on Traveling Elders was introduced, and their duties defined, while that on Deacons received the epithet "traveling." The Preacher was no longer required to meet the Leaders weekly; was not to believe evil of any one "without good evidence" (§ 105); to avoid affectation (§ 108); not to be received on trial without a recommend from the Quarterly Conference (§ 145; not to leave his work (§ 164); nor longer to be confined to sell "Kempis," etc.; to meet the men and women apart when "practicable;" to pay debts on houses of worship; to give "notes" to members, and to exclude members who do not pay their debts (§ 226). The Local Preachers were not to speak without a license. The section on Preacher in Charge first appears this year; some of the provisions had existed in that on Deacons. The Preacher was not to print any thing without the approbation of Conference or one of the Bishops. The people were to be advised to discountenance all treats to candidates; the Preachers to read "Cure of Heart and Church Divisions" (§ 124). The trial of a Preacher in the interim of Conference was to be reviewed by the Conference (§ 213); the section took its title, and paragraphs on "improper" conduct and "erroneous doctrines" were introduced (§ 205, 207). The Lord's Supper could be received "standing or sitting" (§ 39); a section on Public Worship was introduced (§ 54); and the people urged not to employ "fugue tunes" (§ 55).

The names of those received or excluded were to be read every quarter in class (§ 175); the section on Bands revised; the term "unawakened" defined to be one not eligible to membership; the rule on "sowing dissension," and that on appeal of members, were introduced (§ 222, 244).

The Ritual was now incorporated in the Discipline with some changes, and the Allowance made sixty-four dollars. The Book chapter was entirely recast. The Sunday Service is not named in the Discipline of this year.†

The number of members, 65,980; preachers, 266.

* This restriction was suggested by the troubles with O'Kelley, who had remained in the same section ever since the Church had been organized, and who was thus able to use his influence to distract the Church. This restriction, introduced at an earlier day, might have prevented the separation of this year.

† Lee says of this Conference, that the Preachers "came together with an expectation that something of great importance would take place in the Connection in consequence of that Conference. The Preachers generally thought that in all probability there would never be another Conference of the kind at which all the Preachers in the Connection might attend. It was generally thought this Conference would adopt some permanent regulations which would prevent the Preachers in future from coming together. This persuasion brought out more of the Preachers than otherwise would have attended."—Lee, Hist., p. 177.

II. Conference of 1796.

The second General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church assembled in Baltimore, October 20, 1796, and was composed of 120 members. Bishops Coke and Asbury presided. The session was one of great harmony and spiritual prosperity. Number of members 56,664, a decrease of 9,316; preachers 293, an increase of 47. This decrease was the result of the O'Kelley troubles. The Minutes of this Conference were printed separately, and sometimes bound with the Discipline of 1792. The chief topics related to the economy of the Church, and those measures necessary to promote its harmony and vigor.

The DISCIPLINE was slightly revised. The Bishops' Address was retouched. The section on the "origin" of the Church, omitting the constitutional clauses, shows that the Church was organized at the request of the Societies in America (§ 1).

Instead of the District Conferences, organized four years before, and found to be too restricted for the free circulation of the Preachers, several of these Districts were combined to form a yearly Conference (§ 72), and the bounds were fixed. The Conferences were six: New England, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Virginia, Southern Carolina, and the Western. Those in full connection and those to be received were to attend Conference.

A Traveling Deacon was made eligible to the office of an Elder after two years (§ 150); the Preacher in Charge was required to execute "our rules against all frauds" (§ 178); the section on Local Preachers adopted (§ 181); requiring for license a recommend from the Society and Quarterly Conference (§ 181); four years of license for Deacon's Orders (§ 186); and making provision for his trial (§ 213); and support when in charge (§ 353). Marriage with those of other Churches was not forbidden (§ 46). To relieve "the distressed Preachers" the Chartered Fund was devised (§ 338); and a form of deed to secure our Church property (§ 378). The Book Establishment was to be supervised by a committee of the Philadelphia Conference; books were to be sold by the Preachers on commission; Agents to print by the advice of the Bishop and Philadelphia Conference. The section on Slavery was restored, and ample notes on all parts of the Discipline were appended by Coke and Asbury. This tenth edition of the Discipline is the only one containing the Notes.

The Rule on Slavery had been suspended since 1785.

III. Conference of 1800.

The prevalence of yellow fever in Baltimore occasioned the change of time of the Conference of 1800 to the spring, when the epidemic was less dangerous. Bishops Coke and Asbury presided. Members 119.

Members of the Church, 64,894; preachers, 287; an increase of 3,543 members, and a decrease of 6 preachers.

As Bishop Coke spent most of his time in England, and the health of Asbury was greatly impaired, the Board was strengthened by the election of Richard Whatcoat. The Conference enjoyed the divine Presence in an eminent degree. Lee thought they "had never had so good a Conference;" Whatcoat estimates two hundred conversions during the session.

THE LEADING TOPICS.—Slavery, ministerial support, and changes in the Discipline.

THE REVISION OF THE DISCIPLINE.—The Discipline was read by Coke section by section, and changes made in order. A Preacher could now be a member of the General Conference only after having "traveled four years" (§ 62).

The Annual Conference was required to elect a Secretary, who should send his record to the General Conference (§ 84); to take collections for contingent expenses, and to make up the allowance of the Preachers; to pay its proportionable part of the salary of the Bishops.

The Preacher in Charge was to transmit to Conference a record of deaths, and to expel those convicted of non-payment of debt (§ 227). The definition of "unawakened" was omitted; "accused" instead of "suspected" persons might be tried (§ 217); and the duties of Preachers to the Book Room were defined. The meager compensation of the Preachers caused many to leave the traveling ministry. To remedy this the salary was raised to $100, and provision made for children and widows, and for the disabled the income of the Chartered Fund, the contributions of the effective Preachers, and public collections were to be employed. Societies advised to obtain houses for Preachers.

Preachers who held slaves were required to emancipate, and the Conferences to petition the Legislatures for emancipation. There were now seven Conferences. New York was added. The Rules on Education were omitted.

The Local Preachers were required to have their names enrolled on a class paper, and to attend class (§ 182); to have nine instead of three to recommend them for orders; and vacancies in the Board of Trust of the Chartered Fund to be filled by the Philadelphia Conference in the interim of the General Conference.

The CONFERENCE REFUSED to sanction a delegated General Conference; a council to aid in making the appointments; the ordination of Local Elders; the election of Presiding Elders; and the exclusion of slaveholders.

IV. Conference of 1804.

The General Conference of 1804 met in Baltimore May 7-23, the three Bishops being present. John Wilson was chosen Secretary, and a list of the members, amounting to one hundred and twelve, is for the first time given. "Five are 'excepted,' as not entitled to vote, not having traveled four years."

The addresses of the British and Irish Conferences were read and replies prepared. At the request of the Wesleyans Dr. Coke was allowed to return to Europe, subject to recall by three Conferences, and to return by the next General Conference.

SLAVERY and the BOOK ROOM were the chief topics of debate.

The Discipline was revised item by item as read by Coke. The form was considerably changed by distributing the matter into two parts.

In the twenty-third Article, at the instance of Cooper, "the Constitution" is substituted for the "Articles of Confederation," and the States are declared to be "a sovereign and independent nation." The probation of a Preacher is to date from "the time he was received on trial in an Annual Conference;" and the four years necessary to entitle a Preacher to membership in the General Conference were to date "from the time he was received on trial in an Annual Conference." The boundaries were slightly modified.

The Presiding Elder was authorized to call a Quarterly Conference, composed of official members, "and none else;" forbidden to employ a Preacher rejected by the Conference; and required to have a record of the Quarterly Conference kept. In his absence from Conference a Bishop might appoint one of the Elders; or if no appointment be made, the Conference might choose one by ballot from the Presiding Elders.

The section on the Trial of a Bishop was so modified that complaints must be in writing. In making appointments he might allow a preacher to remain but two years, except "Presiding Elders, the General Book Stewards, the supernumerary, superannuated, and worn-out Preachers." The Preacher was no longer allowed to desist from traveling on the Bishop's certificate.

The Rules of a Preacher were so changed as to require him to conduct himself "prudently and cautiously with women;" marriage with the unawakened was to be "discouraged" instead of "put a stop to," and those who violate the rules are "to be put back on trial" in place of being "expelled." The section on Slavery was retouched. The slaveholder was still urged to emancipate, but a failure to do so would not exclude.

The Book Business was removed to New York, and Cooper and Wilson elected Agents. The New York instead of the Philadelphia Conference was authorized to fill vacancies in the Trustee Board of the Chartered Fund. The Preachers were forbidden to publish any book without submitting the manuscripts to their Conferences, and the paragraph requiring them to give an account of marriage fees was omitted.

The salary of the Book Steward was to be $600, and that of the Preachers was not to be made up if they had other resources. The children whose mothers were deceased were to receive pay for board. The clause requiring the Preachers to pay two dollars on admission to the Conference was omitted.

At this Conference strenuous efforts were made, but in vain, to locate the Book Room at Baltimore; to allow Local Preachers to be ordained Elders; to abolish the Presiding Eldership, and, on the failure of this measure, to make it elective.

V. The Conference of 1808.

The General Conference met at Baltimore, May 6-26, 1808, and was composed of one hundred and twenty-nine members,* Asbury presided. Bishop Whatcoat had died, and Coke was in Europe, where he was desired to remain. The Conference complied with his request, allowing his name to stand on the Minutes, with a note stating that he resided in Europe. William M'Kendree was elected to the Episcopal office.

The leading questions related to the BOOK CONCERN, the CONSTITUTION OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE, and SLAVERY. On a memorial from the New York Conference, seconded by New England, the Western and South Carolina Conferences, the General Conference became a delegated body with limited powers, as provided in the new chapter on that subject.

The chapter on the Circulation of Books underwent some changes. Daniel Wilson was elected Agent, with a salary of $750, his name to be placed in the Minutes, and not in the Discipline as heretofore. In sending books to Presiding Elders the Agents were to pay freight. Book Agents could hold office but eight years. The new Hymn Book prepared by Daniel Hitt was adopted, and one thousand dollars of the proceeds of the book funds appropriated to publish tracts.

The subject of Slavery excited much interest. All relating to the buying and selling of slaves was omitted, and the Annual Conferences were allowed to make their own regulations on the subject. The section on Slavery was ordered to be stricken from the Disciplines printed for the South.

* Bishop Paine (Life M'Kendree, vol. i, p. 182) gives one hundred and twenty-five.

As to Salary, the term "allowance" was ordered to be substituted for it in the Discipline; the Conferences were permitted to adopt methods to raise the allowances of the Preachers, but in case they fail to do so the Church was not to be held responsible. The efforts to elect Presiding Elders; to farm the book business; and to omit all relating to slavery, failed.

Deacons were to be ordained on the recommendation of the Conference instead of the Elders; the form of the question, on admitting strangers to class, changed; lawsuits allowed when the case "requires or justifies it;" an appeal denied to those who absent themselves from the trial after due notice, and the consultation of the Pastor with the Stewards in cases of dispute between members was dispensed with.

VI. Conference of 1812.

The first delegated General Conference met at New York, May 1-22, 1812, and was composed of ninety members. Asbury and M'Kendree presided, and Daniel Hitt was chosen Secretary. The Episcopal Address was read by M'Kendree and filed, and subsequently referred to a select committee. Various committees were appointed.

There were nine Conferences; the bounds were considerably modified; three new ones added, namely, the Ohio, Tennessee, and Genesee, and one, the Western, omitted. The Bishops were allowed to organize another in the Mississippi Valley, but not to take territory from other Conferences without their consent. The Conferences were authorized to raise a fund for the support of the superannuated and supernumerary Preachers.

The Deed was so modified as to allow the Conferences to depart from the form; the word "ground" is changed to "land," and the words "and none other" omitted.

The Conference authorized the election of two Book Agents. Daniel Hitt and Thomas Ware were chosen. The Doctrinal Tracts were ordered to be omitted from the Discipline, and published in a separate volume. An address was issued to the Church. A clause excluding members for giving treats was ordered, but not inserted in the Discipline. The election of Presiding Elders failed (§ 42 to 45), and the motion to establish a Book Room in the West.

THE CHANGES IN DISCIPLINE were few. The Conferences were to report locations and withdrawals, and were authorized to raise a fund for the superannuated.

The Preacher in Charge was to call a committee, before whom the member not paying his debts should show cause why he does not.

Local Deacons were allowed, after holding a license four years, to be ordained Elders, and could be removed from office instead of expelled for neglect to meet in class.

The Stewards, who had hitherto been appointed by the Preacher, were to be nominated by him and chosen by the Quarterly Conference.

VII. Conference of 1816.

The second delegated General Conference, which assembled in Baltimore, May 1-24, 1816, was composed of one hundred and six members. Bishop M'Kendree presided, and Louis R. Fechtig was chosen Secretary. Asbury had died, and his remains were, by order of the Conference, transferred for re-interment to Baltimore, and a funeral service held by the Conference.

The chief questions that agitated the Conference related to SLAVERY, the LOCAL PREACHERS, and the EPISCOPACY.

The EPISCOPACY was strengthened by the election of Enoch George and Robert R. Roberts. The Bishops were ordered "to point out a course of study" for the younger Preachers preparatory to orders (§ 157). Their salaries were to be estimated by the Book Agents and Book Committee at New York, and they were allowed in the interval of General Conference to form new Conferences.

The STEWARDS were made amenable to the Quarterly Conference (§ 195).

SALARY.—The inadequacy of ministerial support had greatly interfered with the work by obliging some of the most efficient men to locate, while others were embarrassed with debt or want. To remedy the evil the Conference urged the Societies to secure parsonages (§ 362); raised the allowance from $80 to $100, and ordered the appointment of Estimating Committees and meetings of District Stewards. The clause in the Discipline requiring that "surplus" be reported to Conference was omitted.

LOCAL PREACHERS.—The questions relating to Local Preachers were thoroughly canvassed, and the section on that subject revised. On removal to another Charge a Local Preacher was to procure a certificate from the Presiding Elder or the Preacher. He was forbidden to manufacture or retail spirituous liquors, and an allowance to the Local Preacher could be made only when appointed by the Presiding Elder (§ 353).

The section on Preachers in Charge (§ 176) was so changed as to take from him the power to license and renew the license of a Local Preacher, and to give him the sole power to license Exhorters.

The BOOK INTEREST was fully considered. The Agents and Editors were to be Preachers, and, by virtue of their appointments, members of the New York Conference, to which they were amenable for official conduct. Expenses of delegates were $1,419 75; collections, $731 39; the deficiency ordered to be paid by the Book Room. The Agents were to publish "as the state of the finances will admit and the demands may require" (§ 310).

SLAVERY.—The paragraph giving to Conferences the right to regulate the subject was omitted, and slaveholders were made ineligible to office where the laws of the State will allow "emanipation, and permit the liberated slave to enjoy freedom."

The CONFERENCES were now eleven. The Missouri and Mississippi were new, the others slightly modified. The term "Connection" was in all places in the Discipline substituted by "Church," "community," or "itinerancy," as the case might require.

An effort was made to elect the Presiding Elders by giving the Bishops the right to nominate; to give the veto power in a Quarterly Conference on license to the Presiding Elder; to obtain for Local Preachers representation in the General Conference; a right to stipulate for salary, and govern in the local Church; and to relinquish our hold on Canada. These movements all failed.

The next General Conference was to be composed of one member for every "seven," instead of "five," members of the Annual Conferences.

EDITORS OF THE DISCIPLINE.—William Phoebus, N. Bangs, D. Hitt.

VIII. Conference of 1820.

The third delegated General Conference met at Baltimore, May 1-27, 1820, Bishops M'Kendree, George, and Roberts presiding. A. McCaine and T. Mason, Secretaries.

The ELECTION OF PRESIDING ELDERS and the STATUS OF THE LOCAL PREACHERS were the leading questions.

The BISHOPS were mildly censured for allowing Presiding Elders to retain Preachers more than two years in the same charge. They were associated with the Book Agents and Editors to issue the Discipline. Joshua Soule was elected to the Episcopal office, but refused to be ordained because they had voted to elect Presiding Elders. The Episcopal Address refers to the Episcopacy, Local Preachers, training of children, slaves, missions, and spirituous liquors, with notices of Churches and Conference boundaries.

The LOCAL PREACHERS, hitherto excluded, were now admitted as spectators of the General Conference, and provisions were made for a District Conference (§ 85).

THE CONFERENCES.—They now numbered twelve, Kentucky being new. Canada is retained, and a note appended to the Twenty-third Article of Religion defining our views of civil authority. The Conference encouraged education, and recommended the establishment of an academy in each Conference, the first utterance of the Conference on the subject since the burning of Cokesbury. The Conferences were urged to petition the General Conference to give the veto power to the Bishops in case of unconstitutional action.

PREACHERS IN CHARGE were "to renew tickets to regulate the Bands" (§ 175); the number of Stewards to be seven instead of five.

John Emory was elected a delegate to the Wesleyan Conference to renew the fraternal relations suspended since the departure of Dr. Coke, and he was cordially received, and the sentiments of the American Conference reciprocated.

The MISSIONARY SOCIETY, just organized, was adopted, and the Constitution revised.

The PUBLISHING HOUSE was still in debt, but authorized to build; a new Hymn Book was authorized, and the House to be incorporated. The book list was enlarged, as the Agents were now allowed to issue any new work by vote of the Book Committee. N. Bangs and T. Mason were chosen Agents for New York, and Martin Ruter for Cincinnati, on salaries ranging from $800 to $1,200. For expenses of delegates the Conference drew on the Book Concern for $1,000, and ordered that in future each Conference meet its own expenses.

CHANGES IN DISCIPLINE related chiefly to the Book Concern in giving more liberty to Agents, and in establishing an agency at Cincinnati; to the mode of appeal (§ 233); to Church building, requiring deed, the raising three fourths of the money, and free seats (§ 367); to the number of Stewards; to the District Conference, omitting the paragraphs not in harmony with it; to the Twenty-third Article; to the appointments allowing the Bishops to continue more than two years teachers in our institutions and missionaries among the Indians.

The Conference ordered the election of Presiding Elders, and then at a later date suspended the rule in deference to J. Soule. The Bishop was to nominate three times the number needed, and from these the Conference was to select, and those chosen were to have a voice in the Cabinet. The Conference refused to allow the location of a Preacher without his consent.

IX. Conference of 1824.

The fourth delegated General Conference met at Baltimore, May 1-28, 1824, Bishops M'Kendree, George, and Roberts presiding; John Emory, Secretary. Members, 125 Richard Reece and John Hannah came as fraternal delegates from England.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices the dearth of revivals, the poor health of the Bishops, the boundaries of Conferences, the Book Room, and the District Conferences.

The causes of missions and education were warmly commended, and the thirteenth article of the Constitution of the Missionary Society was changed. Each Annual Conference was required to appoint a committee on missions when any exist in its bounds.

The Committee on Itinerancy notice the neglect of class, inadequate salaries, and want of uniformity in public worship.

SLAVERY.—Those holding slaves were urged to teach them to read the Bible; to allow colored Preachers the privileges of the Quarterly Conferences, and the Annual Conferences allowed to employ them to travel.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE.—The Agents were not allowed to issue books on their own account; were to reduce the debt, which was $48,000. Expenses of delegates, $4,816 50; deficiency $2,408, which was ordered to be paid by the Book Agents despite the vote of four years ago. Agents—Bangs and Emory at New York; Martin Ruter in the West.

CHANGES OF DISCIPLINE.—The instruction of the young was commended, and the Preachers required to instruct the children (§ 248); Sunday-schools to be formed, and the Catechism to be employed; in case of neglect by a District Conference, the licenses, etc., to be obtained from Quarterly Conference; Minutes of the District Conference to be taken and credentials of Local Preachers required when expelled (§ 246); the Ritual to be used in administering the ordinances, (§ 54); the allowance to the wives of Preachers not to be made when they marry after joining Conference; collection to defray expense of delegates (§ 175); the Book Agents at New York to estimate the salary of the Bishops; the people of color granted privileges in Church and Quarterly Conference; section on Slavery.

The Conferences had increased to seventeen in place of twelve, Holston, Maine, Memphis, Illinois, and Pittsburgh being new. The bounds of others modified.

The Conference refused to sit with open doors; to grant Lay Delegation, though it issued an address to the people containing arguments against it; to relinquish Canada; and to indorse colonization.

Joshua Soule and Elijah Hedding were elected to the Episcopal office, and the suspension of the vote in regard to electing Presiding Elders was continued.

Editors of the Discipline—N. Bangs, D. Ostrander, P. P. Sandford.

X. Conference of 1828.

The fifth delegated General Conference met at Pittsburgh, May 1-24, Bishops M'Kendree, George, Roberts, Soule, and Hedding presiding. Members, 160. Martin Ruter, Secretary. Members of the Church, 381,997; ministers, 1,576.

LEADING TOPIC.—Lay Delegation.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS alludes to extensive revivals, missions and Sunday-schools, the right of appeal, and the failure to send a delegate to England four years before.

APPEALS.—Joshua Randall, of New England, expelled for false doctrine, Conference decision was affirmed; William Houston, of Baltimore, reversed; D. B. Dorsey, of Baltimore, expelled for agitating on the lay question, decision affirmed; William C. Pool, of Baltimore, for the same, affirmed; Joseph Crawford, of New York, expelled, affirmed; and that of William Cunningham was not admitted.

The Canada Conference was relinquished by mutual consent of the parties.

THE PUBLISHING INTERESTS.—Canada was to have books at fifty per cent. discount till 1852. Agents—John Emory, Beverly Waugh; Agent at Cincinnati, Charles Holliday; Editor of the Advocate, N. Bangs. Expenses of delegates, $7,671 36; deficiency, $3,741 50, ordered to be paid by the Book Agents.

The vote of 1820 in favor of electing Presiding Elders was rescinded; the character of Bishop Hedding, aspersed in "the Mutual Rights," was vindicated; the cause of temperance was sanctioned, and our people urged to aid it in the use of all proper measures; and the Colonization Society indorsed. Methodist Bible and Tract Societies were formed.

William Capers was sent as a Fraternal Delegate to England.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—The boundaries of the Conferences were slightly changed. The Bishop might appoint for more than two years the Editor of the Christian Advocate and the Preacher at New Orleans; a majority in a District Conference was made a quorum, and a recommend from the Society required before the District Conference can give a license; to "receive a present" was changed to "make a charge" (§ 38); "may remain on trial" changed to "may be borne with" (§ 221); trustees were required to report to Quarterly Conference (§ 377); the orphans of Preachers were allowed the same as the children of living Preachers; the Stewards were required to provide houses for the Preachers (§ 364); Conference Missionary Societies recommended, and the duty of the Bishop in regard to missions defined; the old system of selling books on commission was abolished, and all clauses relating to it omitted and others inserted in the section on Books (§ 333).

The Conference refused to elect Presiding Elders; to investigate the treatment of slaves; to condemn Masonry; to censure the views of Bishop Soule contained in his sermon before the South Carolina Conference, and to allow Lay Delegation. The last topic was debated at length, and the main arguments in favor answered in an able report by John Emory.*

XI. Conference of 1832.

The sixth delegated General Conference met in Philadelphia, May 1-28, 1832, Bishops M'Kendree, Soule, and Hedding presiding. Bishop George had died. Thomas L. Douglas and Charles A. Davis elected Secretaries. Members, 197. Members of the Church, 513,114; ministers, 2,010: increase of members in the four years, 131,117; ministers, 434.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices extended revivals; the allaying of "the reform" agitation; the general satisfaction of our people with the government of the Church; the benevolent causes; Conferences formed by the Bishops; our literary institutions, and disciplinary changes needed. The Episcopal Board was reinforced by the election of John Emory and J. O. Andrew.

APPEAL.—Ignatius H. Tackett, of Pittsburgh, case remanded.

The Report on Education notices the various academics and colleges, and urges the importance of education.

The cause of Missions was receiving a new impetus from the opening fields in Africa and Spanish America, and among the Indians and people of color, and the Bishops were asked as soon as able to send laborers.

CONFERENCES.—Six new ones were organized, namely: Troy, New Hampshire, Oneida, Alabama, Georgia, and Indiana, and the bounds of others modified.

The Canada brethren asked for a division of the Book Concern. The resolutions of 1828 were reaffirmed.

The cause of Temperance was also commended.

THE PUBLISHING INTERESTS.—The expenses of delegates were $12,713 56; the deficiency of $5,222 17 was ordered to be paid by the Book Agents. T. Mason and B. Waugh Agents at New York, and Charles Holliday at Cincinnati; T. Merritt, Editor of the Advocate, and N. Bangs, of the Quarterly Review. Depository at New Orleans.

*The reports of the General Conferences 1820-40 are not published in the Journals. They will be found in Bangs' History and the Christian Advocate. They ought to be printed with the Journals, as the Journals without them are not intelligible.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—They changed the Sixth Restrictive Rule (§ 71); the Bishops were allowed to appoint agents for our Literary Institutions and Colonization when asked by an Annual Conference, and the Bishops' salaries were to be estimated by a committee appointed by the Conference within whose bounds they may reside. They could appoint for more than two years the Editor of the Advocate, "Preachers to people of color and on foreign station," and to a seminary of learning "not under our care." The Presiding Elders were required to promote the causes of Sunday-schools and Missions, "publication of Bibles, Tracts, and Sunday-school Books." Class collections were required (§ 357), and Annual Conferences authorized to devise measures to raise money for Superannuated Preachers (§ 358). In the section on Missions the second paragraph was replaced, and in that on the Circulation of Books the Book Committee was newly organized; Agents were not allowed to publish books for themselves; the Agents were to secure the premises in Mulberry-street, and to open a Depository at New Orleans. A few other verbal changes were made.

Editors of the Discipline—D. Ostrander, N. Bangs, and Beverly Waugh.

The Conference refused to change the proviso of the Restrictive Rule; to sanction the leaving a Preacher without an appointment; and to examine the question of secret societies.

XII. The Conference of 1836.

The seventh delegated General Conference met at Cincinnati, May 1-27, Bishops Roberts, Soule, Hedding, and Andrew presiding. McKendree and Emory had deceased; Waugh, Morris, and Fisk elected. Thomas L. Douglas and T. B. Sargent, Secretaries. Members of Conference, 147. Members of the Church, 652,528; preachers, 2,758; gain of members during the quadrennium, 139,414; of preachers, 748.

William Lord was a representative from the Wesleyans, and William Case from Canada. Wilbur Fisk was appointed to visit England.

PUBLISHING INTERESTS.—Expenses of delegates, $10,359; deficiency of $1,282 ordered to be paid by the Book Agents. Agents at New York, Lane & Mason; at Cincinnati, Wright & Swormstedt. C. Elliott, Editor Western Advocate; S. Luckey, Editor Advocate; and N. Bangs, Missionary Secretary.

The MISSION spirit was rekindled. The Constitution of the Society was recast; a Conference established in Africa; provision made to enter China; and some changes in the Discipline on the subject were effected.

CONFERENCES were to divide their property when divided.

Number, 29; a gain of 7. The new ones were Black River, Erie, Liberia, Michigan, New Jersey, North Carolina, and Arkansas; and some modifications were made in the bounds of others.

The Canada brethren still claimed a part of the proceeds of the book sales. The last Conference, holding a constitutional change necessary to allow it, referred the question to the Annual Conferences, which voted adversely, 758 to 599. The Conference now agreed to give them a discount of fifty per cent. on the General Catalogue, and eighteen on the Sabbath-school list, to continue till 1852. Thus ended a long struggle.

The leading topic was Slavery. Many petitions were received. Those from Westmoreland complained of the Baltimore Conference for excluding the petitioners from office and ordination on the ground of their being slaveholders. The General Conference decided that such complaints were not well founded, as the granting or withholding of these favors was optional, and the motives of members of Conference could not be alleged as ground of action against them.

During the sitting of the Conference a couple of the New England members lectured on Slavery, which elicited a vote of censure against them, and of the condemnation of abolitionism. The Conference "disclaims any right, wish, or intention to interfere in the civil and political relations between master and slave." The leading participants in this debate were Orange Scott and William Winans.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—The ratio of representation was changed to twenty-one (§ 62), and to allow this the Second Restrictive Rule was changed. The Bishop was allowed to continue more than two years in the same Charge the Editors and Agents at Cincinnati, the Missionary Secretary and Sunday-School Agents (§ 157).

The Missionary Secretary was made amenable to the New York Conference; missionaries were not to interfere with the Wesleyans; persons selected for mission work could be ordained before "their probation ends" (§ 173); the Annual Conference was to supervise domestic missions; missionaries were to take collections in missions, and candidates for admission to state whether willing to become missionaries (§ 148).

The clause on "putting back on trial" for marriage (§ 42) was omitted; "give no tickets" was changed to "receive none into the Church" (§ 42, 56); and the Pastor was required to read the names of those received and excluded (§ 175).

The section on Local Preachers was modified by omitting all relating to District Conferences, and in the trial of Local Preachers a distinction was made in the offense as a Crime (§ 213) or Improper Conduct (§ 215).

The regulation in regard to Allowance of those married under four years was omitted, and the clauses on "Allowance" condensed. The Stewards were required to apportion the moneys to be raised (§ 193), and the Annual Conference to appoint an Estimating Committee for the Bishops (§ 343).

The BOOK COMMITTEE was rearranged; provision was made for erecting a building in Cincinnati; the Depository at New Orleans was discontinued, and arrangements made for the Editors and Publishing Committees of the several papers. No more Depositories were to be opened, and the salaries of Editors and Agents were to be estimated by the Book Committee.

After some debate the Conference refused to elect a Bishop for Africa; to change the section on Slavery; or to give any countenance to the agitation on the Slavery Question.

XIII. Conference of 1840.

The eighth delegated General Conference met in Baltimore, May 1–June 3, 1840, Bishops Soule, Roberts, Hedding, Waugh, and Morris presiding. John A. Collins was chosen Secretary, and J. B. Houghtaling and T. B. Sargent were chosen Assistants. Members, 128; members of the Church, 795,445; preachers, 3,687; increase, 32,917 members and 927 preachers.

The TOPICS OF CHIEF INTEREST were Slavery and those questions relating to Church authority growing out of it.

FRATERNAL DELEGATES.—From the Wesleyans in England, Robert Newton; from the Wesleyans in Canada, Joseph Stinson, John and Egerton Ryerson, John Howard, and M. Richey. Bishop Soule was sent to England and Bishop Hedding to Canada as delegates.

The Bishops' Address was lengthy, and treated of current topics. After alluding to the rise and progress of Methodism, it refers to the divine call to the ministry; the duty of the General Conference to devise measures of progress; deprecates the agitation on the subject of slavery; defines the constitutional powers of the General Conference; commends our educational interests, but not the establishment of theological schools; invites attention to the need of a course of study; to the cause of missions, and to some needed changes in the Discipline.

THE CONFERENCES.—Thirty-three; four new ones—Providence, Memphis, Texas, and North Ohio; while the boundaries of some others were modified.

APPEALS.—D. Dorchester, of New England, censured by his Conference for refusing to put motions not constitutional or germane, and for adjourning a Quarterly Conference without vote of the members, reversed; J. V. Potts, of Philadelphia, location, reversed, then reconsidered and remanded; Job Wilson, of Pittsburgh, reversed; James Smith, of Philadelphia, remanded; James Scott, of New Hampshire, location, reversed; Silas Comfort, of Missouri, condemned for admitting colored testimony against a white member, was sustained, but on reconsideration the case was not entertained. In this connection a resolution was offered by Ignatius A. Few "that it is inexpedient and unjustifiable" to permit a colored person "to give testimony against white persons in any State where they are denied that privilege in trials at law," and adopted. As this caused great uneasiness, a series of resolutions were passed, stating that by this resolution it was not designed to declare that it is inexpedient for colored persons to give testimony in States where the courts allow it, or that it is expedient in the Slave States, or to express any distrust of our colored members. These last were offered by Bishop Soule. The complaint of Local Preachers from Westmoreland that the Baltimore Conference refused ordination on the sole ground of slaveholding was not entertained, and yet the Committee, unlike the one four years before, thought the alleged obstacle ought to be no bar to ordination. The Colonization Society was also highly commended.

BOOK CONCERN.—Agents at New York, T. Mason, G. Lane; at Cincinnati, J. F. Wright, L. Swormstedt. Editors—Quarterly Review, G. Peck; Christian Advocate, Thomas E. Bond; Western Advocate, C. Elliott; Christian Apologist, W. Nast; Ladies' Repository, L. L. Hamline; Southern Christian Advocate, W. M. Wightman; Richmond Advocate, L. M. Lee; and Southwestern, C. A. Davis. Missionary Secretary, N. Bangs. Depositories were opened at Charleston, Pittsburgh, and Boston. Moneys obtained from the Book Room can only be appropriated to the support of the Preachers.

An Annual Conference cannot withhold Connectional moneys from a superannuated Preacher, or refuse a location to a member in good standing, and in examination of character the Elders should retire.

Expenses of Delegates, $9,170 20; deficiency, $1,061 72, and Book Concern ordered to pay it.

CHANGES IN DISCIPLINE.—The chief changes were as follows: The insertion of a section on Receiving Ministers from Other Denominations (§ 152); Instruction of Children was recast (§ 248); the Bishop was allowed to appoint for more than two years to Literary Institutions and "Military Posts," etc. (§ 157); to unite two or more Circuits or Stations for Quarterly Conference purposes (§ 158); to decide all questions of law in an Annual Conference (§ 157); and to adjourn a Conference when the legitimate business is transacted, as also to refuse to put a motion which he may regard as unconstitutional or not germane to the business. The same privilege was also allowed a Presiding Elder in a Quarterly Conference. "Without leave of Presiding Elder" omitted in section on Receiving Preachers, "and religious" inserted in the Episcopal Address. "Distressed" changed to "deficient" in the section on Books. The section on Missions provides for three Secretaries, one in the West, and one in the South, in addition to the one at New York, and that on Books is considerably modified. A Preacher can be received into full connection only after he has been on trial two years "in the regular itinerant work." Supernumeraries who refuse to attend to their work not allowed to exercise their functions.

Some other topics were discussed, but did not prevail, such as the extension of the pastoral term to three years; the right of a Conference to locate a Preacher without his consent; the limit of the Bishop's power of transfer; the giving an accused member a voice in the selection of a committee; the allowance of the President of a Conference to refer a case to a higher body for adjudication; Lay Delegation; moderate Episcopacy and the election of Presiding Elders; a Bishop for Africa, and the restoration of Mr. Wesley's rule on Temperance to the General Rules.

XIV. Conference of 1844.

The ninth delegated General Conference met in New York, May 1—June 10, 1844, Bishops Soule, Hedding, Andrew, Waugh, and Morris being present. Bishop Roberts had died. Thomas B. Sargent, James B. Houghtaling, and W. Kenney were chosen Secretaries. Members of the Church, 1,171,356; preachers, 4,621; increase of members, 475,911; of preachers, 934.

The LEADING TOPIC: slaveholding in the ministry.

Fraternal relations were maintained with the Wesleyans of England and Canada and the Evangelical Association.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices the death of Bishop Roberts; the itinerant system as related to Bishops, Presiding Elders, Pastors, Circuits, the local tendencies, and the term of ministerial service; education in schools and by the press; and Romanism.

APPEALS.—The subject of slavery came before the Conference in the appeal of Francis A. Harding, of the Baltimore Conference, expelled for holding slaves through his wife, the decision of the Annual Conference being affirmed, 117 to 56; Bradford Frazee, of Michigan, for location, reversed; Luman H. Allen, of North Ohio, suspended, affirmed; William Houston, of Baltimore, for location, reversed; J. S. Lent, of Genesee, for location, affirmed.

The QUESTION OF SLAVERY overshadowed every other. Petitions flooded the Conference in favor of rescinding the resolutions of 1840 on the testimony of colored persons, of excluding slavery from the Episcopacy, and from the Church itself. The obnoxious resolutions were rescinded. In the mean time it was found that Bishop Andrew held two slaves by inheritance, and had obtained others through marriage. A resolution was offered by A. Griffith that he be requested to resign, but a substitute finally passed requesting him "to desist from the exercise of his office so long as this impediment remains." A postponement was proposed to the next General Conference by the Bishops, which failed, when Dr. Capers proposed to organize two General Conferences, for the North and South, which also failed.

The Southern delegates entered their protest, and a new statement of the case was prepared by a committee appointed for the purpose; but all efforts at pacification were in vain: the storm so long lowering in the distance had burst in violence on the Church, and all the issues were to be met. A committee of nine was appointed, which drew the scheme or Plan of Separation that resulted in the division of the Church.

THE MISSION CAUSE received a due share of attention. The Bishops were allowed to form German Districts; Dr. Nast was sent to Germany; the Constitution of the Society modified, and a plan devised for raising money by encouraging the organization of auxiliary societies, and defining the duties of Presiding Elders and Pastors.

The observance of the Sabbath was urged, and the Preachers required to preach on it.

THE PUBLISHING INTERESTS were reviewed. The periodicals were continued, and the Northern Advocate was adopted. The Book Agents and Editors were allowed to select their Conferences for membership; were required to build in Cincinnati; to reduce the price of books as far as possible; to abbreviate obituary notices.

The expense of the General Conference was $9,467 75, and a surplus of $143 22 was paid to the Book Agents, which, together with former collections, nearly balanced the accounts of the preceding General Conference.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL DEPARTMENT was to be managed by an Editor; the Constitution was changed, and schools asked to contribute.

THE CONFERENCES now numbered forty. Vermont, North Indiana, Indian Mission, West Texas, and Florida were new; a few of the old ones modified.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—"Bibles and Bible Societies" was inserted in the order of Conference business; the Bishop was not allowed to continue a Preacher in the same Charge more than two years in six, nor in the same city more than four years in succession, nor return him till he had been absent six years (§ 157); nor to reappoint a Presiding Elder to a District till he had been absent six years (¶ 162). The Presiding Elder was required to report to the Conference the names of Preachers who refused to obey the rules (¶ 165). The course of study was extended to four years, and to be prescribed by the Bishops only (¶ 157); the Preacher was to secure contributions in the schools (¶ 248); and the estimate of the salary of a Bishop was to be submitted to the Conference. The section on Missions was recast (¶ 263), and that on Books modified in regard to Editors and Agents and the salaries of the several departments or establishments. A change of the Sixth Restrictive Rule was recommended to the Conferences.

ELECTIONS.—Bishops: E. S. Janes and L. L. Hamline. Book Agents at New York: G. Lane and C. B. Tippet; at Cincinnati, Swormstedt and Mitchell. Editors: Quarterly Review, George Peck; Advocate, Thomas E. Bond; Missionary Secretary, Charles Pitman; Ladies' Repository, Edward Thomson; Western Advocate, C. Elliott; Apologist, W. Nast; Richmond Advocate, L. M. Lee; Southern Advocate, W. M. Wightman; South-western, J. B. M'Ferren; Northern, N. Rounds; Sunday-School Advocate and Books, D. P. Kidder. Editors of the Discipline, G. Peck, N. Bangs, T. E. Bond.

XV. Conference of 1848.

The tenth delegated General Conference met at Pittsburgh, May 1—June 1, 1848, and was composed of one hundred and fifty-one members, Bishops Hedding, Waugh, Morris, Janes, and Hamline presiding. J. M. Trimble, J. T. Peck, John Fraser, and L. A. Eddy, Secretaries. Members of the Church, 639,066; preachers, 3,841; decrease of members, 532,290; of preachers, 780.

The LEADING TOPICS relate to the issues with the Church South, and the enlargement of the work.

The PASTORAL ADDRESS notices the improvement of the Church; admonishes the people to maintain her purity by discipline, observance of the Sabbath, education of our children, and temperance; and touches on the troubles growing out of the separation.

APPEALS.—Ezra Sprague, of Troy, expelled, the case remanded; John W. Osborn, of Baltimore, expelled, remanded; D. B. Sniffen, of Oneida, expelled, affirmed.

The administration of the Bishops was approved in the case of J. N. Maffit, as also that of the Preacher at Centenary Church, Brooklyn, Rev. B. Griffin, who maintained his right to the pulpit against the trustees.

Fraternal relations were maintained with the Wesleyans of England and Canada.

The five hundred dollars due the Missionary Society from the Wyandottes was relinquished; the separation of the Domestic and Foreign work disapproved, but an Annual Conference allowed to maintain a Domestic Society by a two thirds vote, and smaller appropriations to Liberia were recommended.

M. E. Society Separate after 1844

The resolution of 1840 on the Westmoreland case, maintaining that slaveholding is no bar to orders or office in the Church, was rescinded.

The importance of Christian education was recognized; the various institutions of the Church were noticed, and commended to the patronage and support of our people. The Trustees of the Chartered Fund were authorized to apply to the Legislature of Pennsylvania for such a change in their Charter as would allow them to increase their property and to fill vacancies in their Board.

PUBLISHING INTERESTS.—The Agents were allowed to sell houses in Crosby-street, to open Sunday-school Depositories in each Conference, and to regulate the discount. The Editors were forbidden to take extra pay for literary productions, as they were expected to devote their whole time to their work. Their traveling expenses were to include only those of moving to their places and those incident to visiting the Conferences. The Book Committee was formerly composed of Editors and six ministers chosen by several Annual Conferences; it was now to consist of seven Traveling Ministers chosen by the General Conference; that at the West also of seven chosen in the same way. The Depositories in the South were closed up, and the interchange of books and plates between New York and Cincinnati was regulated.

A committee of seven was raised to revise the Hymn Book and publish with approval of the Bishops. The Agents were authorized to issue German books; the German work was commended to the Sunday-School Union, and the Canada brethren were to have books for the next four years at cost.

OUR RELATIONS WITH THE CHURCH, SOUTH, were inharmious. It demanded the division of the property of the Church, and sent a visitor and commissioners, neither of whom was received. The Plan of Separation of 1844 was declared to be "null," as the Conferences non-concurred, and as the South had not awaited the "contingency" contemplated in the Plan, and had moreover committed sundry "infractions of the Plan." But as the Conference was desirous of amicably adjusting the matter, the Book Agents were authorized to refer the whole question to arbitration; and in case, on taking legal counsel, they found they had not authority to do so, the Bishops were requested to submit to the Conferences a change of the Sixth Restrictive Rule allowing it.

RESOLUTIONS.—The Conference declared, in reference to "the Plan of Separation," that the General Conference has no authority to divide the Church; that each member may remain in the Church till convicted of guilt; that he can then be excluded only by regular trial; and hence that those members in the South still remain in the Church. The Conference also resolved that a Presiding Elder has no right to employ a Local Preacher without the recommend of a Quarterly Conference; that a certificate is valid till the member has a reasonable opportunity to present it; that the member holding is amenable to the Church receiving his letter; that testimony before a committee may be used in the trial of a Minister before the Conference; "that questions relating to the admissibility of testimony are questions of law;" that when a Preacher, who, differing in judgment with the majority, refers the case to the Quarterly Conference, "it is an application for a new trial;" that new evidence in a case of appeal is in no case admissible.

The Conference also held that an Annual Conference can investigate the case of a member only by the Rules for Trial; can refer a case to a Presiding Elder; that a superannuated Minister, living out of the bounds of his Conference, is not a member of the Quarterly Conference where he resides, has no rights in the Society, but may attend class; that a Preacher whose case is remanded stands as an accused member, (see case of Sprague of Troy;) that the documents employed by the General Conference may be used in the new trial; and that a Conference may take testimony by a commission.

ELECTIONS.—Book Agents at New York, Lane and Scott; at Cincinnati, Swormstedt and Power. Editors: Advocate, A. Stevens, who resigned, and G. Peck was chosen; Western, M. Simpson; Apologist, W. Nast; Pittsburgh, W. Hunter; Northern, W. Hosmer; Sunday-School Advocate and Sunday-School Books, D. P. Kidder; Quarterly Review, John M'Clin- tock; Missionary Secretary, C. Pitman.

To write a History of the Quadrennium, C. Elliott.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—The arrangement was changed by Rev. T. Spicer. The Annual Conferences were to report collections for "the Bible Society" (§ 77), the members and probationers separately; and the question and answer in relation to electing Bishops were omitted. The provisions on Quarterly Conferences were made a separate section, and the Conference was no longer deemed a Board of Managers for the Sunday-School Union.

The Bishops were allowed to appoint for more than two years the Missionary Secretary, Editors and Agents at Auburn and Pittsburgh, missionaries to the Welsh, Swedes, and Norwegians, and naval stations. They were permitted to appoint an Agent for the German Publishing Fund, to form the Districts, and to prepare a Course of Study.

Presiding Elders were to direct candidates to the Course of Study, and explain to them that no wrong is done them if not admitted. The section on Preachers in Charge has in heading "on trial," and omits the giving of the Discipline; collections and reports were regulated, and the certificate revised. Sunday-school Societies, instead of the Quarterly Conferences, were made auxiliary, and each scholar asked to contribute a penny a quarter (§ 248).

The Trial of Bishops was made a separate section; that of Traveling Ministers distinguishes between trial at Conference and in the interval, adding a provision for the latter (§ 203), and also for failure in business (§ 206); and that on Location for "unacceptability" changed so as to allow the one located to defend himself before the Conference (§ 208). The Secretary of Conference was required to preserve the records, including charge and testimony (§ 84). Trial of Members slightly changed.

Local and Located Preachers were made amenable to the Quarterly Conference (§ 182); were not excused from meeting in class by "distance;" and the requirement on spirituous liquors omitted. A provision was made to try a Local Preacher who fails in business (§ 216).

The clause in the section on the Lord's Supper excluding a non-member without "a token" was omitted (§ 42). The General Rules were changed by restoring Wesley's original rule on the Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors (§ 34).

The CONFERENCES now number thirty-one, a loss of nine in the South. The new ones are New York East, East Maine, West Virginia, California, and Oregon. The bounds of others were little changed. The section on Building Churches was distributed into three—on Building, Deed, and Trustees. The estimate was made subject to the action of the Quarterly Conference, and the foot-notes on Supernumerary and Superannuated Preachers incorporated in the text. Missions: Domestic Societies allowed, and Auxiliary Societies to be formed on Mission Stations. Chartered Fund as above. The section on Books was modified in what relates to the South and Book Committee. (See above.) The Bishops were allowed to employ colored Preachers.

The Conference after debate refused to fraternize with the South; to pronounce a member withdrawn simply by his saying he is; to separate the Domestic and Foreign Mission work; to organize a Delegated Annual Conference as a Court of Appeals, as advised by the Bishops; to organize Colored Conferences; to extend the probation of Preachers to four years; to change the form of the Advocate to quarto; and to adopt Zion's Herald.

Editors of the Discipline: Spicer, M'Clintock, George, and J. T. Peck.

XVI. Conference of 1852.

The eleventh delegated General Conference met at Boston, May 1—June 1, 1852, and was composed of one hundred and seventy-eight delegates. Bishops Waugh, Morris, and Janes were present. Bishop Hedding had died, and Hamline, in consequence of ill health, resigned. The Board was reinforced by the election of Levi Scott, Matthew Simpson, Edward R. Ames, and Osmon C. Baker. Secretaries, J. M. Trimble and B. Green.

THE EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notes the death of Bishop Hedding, the general prosperity of the Church, the condition and prospects of Methodism, the itinerancy, revisions, education in schools and by the press, and the reduced Episcopal force.

APPEALS.—Ezra Sprague, of Troy, affirmed; J. M. Pease, of the New York Conference, complaint for withholding his dividends, ordered to be paid; J. S. Inskip, of Ohio, for contumacy, reversed; I. N. M'Abree, of Pittsburgh, case remanded; G. Taylor, of Michigan, for maladministration, affirmed; D. J. Snow, of Illinois, reversed; N. R. Peck, of Black River, affirmed.

THE PUBLISHING INTERESTS.—The claims of the Book Room on various parties were referred to the Agents. The Agents might import German books, and sell ours to our agents in Germany at the lowest rate, extending a credit of $500. Depositories and papers established in Chicago, San Francisco, and St. Louis. The management of the suit against the Book Room begun by the Church, South, was committed to a commission with full powers. The Agents were to send the Advocate gratis to Preachers' widows; to issue the Sunday-School Advocate weekly on good paper; to start the National Magazine, and issue the revised Catechisms. Expenses of delegates, $7,533 65; deficiency, $2,258 15, to be paid by the Agents.

THE MISSION CAUSE was thoroughly reviewed. The Bishops were to call together the colored Preachers for consultation; to visit Liberia; to establish a Mission in Italy; and to ordain a missionary Bishop when the Restrictive Rule should be changed.

The Conference ordered the publication of the Journals of the General Conferences from the beginning; that L. M. Lee be allowed to copy those of 1844. The enterprise of erecting a Metropolitan Church in Washington was sanctioned; a day of prayer recommended for the raising up of more ministers, and the vote requiring that reports and documents be journalized rescinded. The censure of a member by an Annual Conference for uniting with a secret society was determined not to be allowable, without the society is known to be opposed to the Discipline.

REVISALS.—The arrangement was further changed. The Second Restrictive Rule changed and referred to the Conferences for concurrence. The Bishop was made President of the Annual Conference (§ 76); probationers in Conference named as members (§ 73); Conference was to allow the widows and orphans of Bishops, and the Book Agents were to pay the claims (§ 343); and also for quarterage and traveling expenses.

The Superintendent of the Sunday-school and the Mission Committee were allowed seats in the Quarterly Conference; and the section further provided for a secretary in a question and answer and for the routine of business. The Preacher in Charge was to examine Leaders; to catechise the children; form Bible classes, and give Sabbath employment to Local Preachers (§ 175, 252); the Local Preacher was made amenable to the Quarterly Conference for "his Christian character and ministerial office" (§ 182); the paragraph in relation to pews was omitted, and free Churches were to be only "wherever practicable" (§ 366); and each Annual Conference was allowed to determine which of the superannuates should be claimants on the funds (§ 359). The section on Missions was entirely recast by Dr. Durbin; a new chapter on Tracts was added; and various changes in that on "books" relating to agencies and periodicals were made.

The Conferences are thirty-nine, eight being new, namely, Wyoming, Cincinnati, S. E. Indiana, N. W. Indiana, Southern Illinois, California, Arkansas, and N. Indiana.

The revival of the mission spirit and the extension of the work at home and abroad were LEADING THEMES.

ELECTIONS.—Book Agents at New York, Carlton & Phillips; at Cincinnati, Swormstedt & Poe. Editors: Quarterly Review, John M'Clintock; Christian Advocate, Thomas E. Bond; Sunday-School Advocate, D. P. Kidder; Magazine, A. Stevens; Ladies' Repository, W. C. Larrabee; Western Advocate, C. Elliott; Apologist, W. Nast; Northern, W. Hosmer; North-western, J. O. Watson; Pittsburgh, H. J. Clark; California Advocate, S. D. Simonds; Missionary Secretary, J. P. Durbin.

The Conference considered but refused to sanction the following: To extend the term of ministerial probation to four years; to separate the missionary work into home and foreign departments; to organize a new court of appeals for Local Preachers; to sanction the leaving a Preacher without an appointment for trial by the Presiding Elder, as had been done with Orrin Pier; to collect and arrange the Episcopal decisions; and to sanction Lay Delegation, the argument against being embodied in a report by Bishop Simpson, which was adopted almost unanimously.

XVII. Conference of 1856.

The twelfth delegated General Conference met at Indianapolis, May 1–June 4, 1856, and was composed of two hundred and seventeen members. W. L. Harris was chosen Secretary. Bishops as before.

There was an interchange of fraternal greetings with the Wesleyan bodies of England, Ireland, Canada, and France, and the Congregational Union of England and Wales. Drs. Hannah and Jobson came as delegates from England, and Simpson and M'Clintock were sent in return.

Slavery and various reforms in our economy, as Lay Delegation, the election and stationing of the Presiding Elders, and the term of ministerial service, were THE LEADING QUESTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE.

APPEALS.—Eli Dennison, of New York, reversed; D. J. Snow, of Illinois, remanded; L. D. Harlan, of Cincinnati, affirmed; J. N. M'Abee, of Pittsburgh, reversed; J. M. Snow, of Wisconsin, remanded.

THE EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices the general prosperity of the Church; some needed changes in the Discipline; education; our publishing, Sunday-school, and missionary interests, and the vexing question of slavery on the border. The tail of the serpent was still vital, and it was desired to extinguish it by excluding all slaveholders from the Church by changing the General Rule.

EDUCATION was considered, and the various institutions commended to the favor of the people, especially an institution for people of color, and the theological seminaries. Aid was asked for Ireland. The Conference asks for statistics of our institutions, and deprecates any further multiplication of them at present.

THE CAUSE OF MISSIONS was reviewed. Liberia was allowed to choose a Bishop by vote of two thirds, with jurisdiction confined to Africa, and to have the usual discount on our books. A Conference was ordered for Germany, and the Board allowed to extend our publishing interests there, as also to corresponding Wesleyan bodies.

THE BOOK AGENTS were allowed to give Local Preachers the benefit of the clerical discount; recommended to publish a cheap Commentary and antislavery tracts; to print blanks for Preachers; to purchase land and build in Chicago; to commence a paper in Oregon, and to make a larger outlay on the Christian Advocate. Expenses, $10,693 02; deficiency, $3,426 10, paid by the Book Agents.

The METROPOLITAN CHURCH was commended to the liberal consideration of our people, and the Bishops were invited to supply the pulpit from the different sections of the Church.

REVISALS.—The arrangement was somewhat changed. A new section was introduced on "Baptized Children;" the ratio of representation in the General Conference was changed from "twenty-one" to "twenty-seven," and the Second Restrictive Rule from "thirty" to "forty-five." The change was referred to the Conferences. Provision was made for calling an extra General Conference (§ 66). The section on Bands was omitted, and one on the Privileges of Colored Members inserted; an Annual Conference allowed to change its place of sitting ad interim (§ 75); the section on Trial of Members modified, and the Ritual referred to a committee of five, who were to report to a future General Conference. The Bishops were no longer allowed to station a Preacher for more than two years in "New Orleans;" the restriction on returning a Preacher to the same city taken off (§ 157); and they might appoint for more than two years a "State" Bible Agent. The Sunday-schools were to be auxiliary to the Sunday-School Union, and each Conference was to report their number; the male Superintendent, approved, was made a member of Quarterly Conference (§ 93); the Preacher was no longer required to have men and women sit apart, but to report to the Quarterly Meeting the names of those received and excluded (§ 175); and to embrace in his report to the Quarterly Conference the Sunday-schools.

The section on the Instruction of Children was recast; also that on Singing; Ministers might be tried by committee (§ 211); the General Conference might try appeals in the same way; and a superannuated Preacher residing out of the bounds of his Conference "shall have a seat in the Quarterly Conference, and all the privileges of membership in the Church where he may reside" (§ 180). The Quarterly Conference was allowed to order a new trial for a dissatisfied member (§ 229); the trial was to be in the presence of the "Preacher in Charge" instead of "a Bishop," etc. (§ 217); and exact minutes to be kept (§ 217, 24) by the Preacher. The District Stewards were to meet "annually" (§ 348); Publishing Committees for the Local Advocates (see section on Books); the number of Stewards was changed from "seven" to "nine;" and the widows and orphans of Bishops to draw from the Book Room.

The CONFERENCES were now forty-seven; Delaware, Detroit, Peoria, West Wisconsin, Upper Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, Newark, and German Mission being new. Some changes in the boundaries of others. The German work was divided into nine Districts attached to various English Conferences.

ELECTIONS.—Book Agents at New York, Carlton & Porter; Cincinnati, Swormstedt & Poe. Editors: Quarterly, D. D. Whedon; Advocate, A. Stevens; Sunday-School Advocate, D. Wise; Magazine and Tracts, J. Floy; Western, C. Kingsley; Apologist, W. Nast; Ladies' Repository, D. W. Clark; Northern, F. G. Hibbard; Pittsburgh, I. N. Baird; Northwestern, J. V. Watson.

Delegates to England, Bishop Simpson and J. M'Clintock, to Canada, Raymond, Hamilton, and Berry.

The Conference considered but refused to sanction the extension of the pastoral term; the division of the mission work into home and foreign; the modification of the Presiding Eldership, either by electing or stationing the incumbents; a court of appeals, but ordered in its stead a committee; the exclusion of slavery from the Church, and the insertion of the laws of evidence in the Discipline.

The Editor of the Discipline was W. L. Harris.

XVIII. Conference of 1860.

The thirteenth delegated General Conference assembled in Buffalo, May 1—June 4, 1860, and was composed of two hundred and twenty-one delegates. W. L. Harris, Secretary. The Bishops remain the same as four years ago, save Waugh, who had died.

Slavery and Lay Delegation were LEADING TOPICS.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices the death of Bishop Waugh and members of the former Conference; a missionary Bishop; education, tracts, our publishing interests, and missions; the pastoral work; changes in the Discipline, and their administration.

APPEALS.—A. Wright, of N. Ohio, reversed; G. C. Creevey, of New York East, reversed; W. H. Sheets, of South-eastern Indiana, remanded; G. C. Holmes, of Rock River, reversed; C. W. Batchellor, of Rock River, remanded; O. F. Morse, of Wyoming, remanded; J. W. Wood, of Wisconsin, affirmed; A. S. Wightman, of Black River, affirmed; P. H. Smith, of Troy, remanded.

The MISSION CAUSE was prosperous. The work in Germany was enlarging, and the Board was authorized to establish a Theological Institute there; the field to be visited by the Bishops. The doings of the Missionary Board were approved; a Mission Conference authorized in India, and the Presiding Elders were requested to furnish the Missionary Committee with a written statement of the home work in their districts.

The PUBLISHING INTERESTS were in good condition. The Agents were ordered to issue a Teachers' Journal and graduated text-books for Sunday-schools; to discontinue the Magazine, and to purchase property in New York, Boston, and Pittsburgh. They were allowed also to open a Depository in California; to issue the Central Advocate, and to settle with all who are indebted to the House, whose cases have come to the General Conference. The tract publications were placed in charge of the Sunday-School Editor.

Expenses of the Delegates, $10,352 53; deficiency, $3,717 19, to be paid by the Agents.

The Conference favored total abstinence and prohibition of the sale of liquor; ordered the Reports, majority and minority, to be published with the Journals of the Conference, and determined to celebrate the Centenary of American Methodism, and appointed a Committee of Correspondence on that subject. The statistics of our educational institutions were also given.

RESOLVES.—The President of a Quarterly or Annual Conference may refuse to put a motion when deemed unconstitutional, irrelevant, or one that contravenes his decisions of law questions. A case remanded by a Quarterly Conference leaves the member "accused;" one restored by the Conference, for mal-action of the Pastor, is restored to membership, not to good character; and notice given by a Traveling Preacher in the interval of Conference that he withdraws bars his appeal.

When a member has forfeited his right to appeal the Quarterly Conference cannot grant the privilege; a member not formally received into the Church cannot plead that non-reception as a bar to trial in case of alleged crime; the President of a trial cannot give a charge; transfers date from the time they are given unless the Bishop specify otherwise, and they should not be made for special cases, nor as the result of negotiations. Each administrator of Discipline is responsible for his acts, and cannot plead Episcopal decisions; the complaints against Bishops in the General Conference should not be made without due notice.

REVISALS.—The Discipline was modified greatly in its arrangement by Rev. Dr. Osbon. The ratio of representation in the General Conference was changed from twenty-seven to thirty. The Annual Conference was required to report to the Sunday-School Union; the supernumerary relation was struck out; an order of business inserted in the section on Quarterly Conferences; and the Bishop was allowed to appoint for more than two years to the "Five Points" and "Paris" (§ 157), as also required to prescribe a Course of Study for candidates for admission to Conference (§ 157), and allowed to unite two or more Charges "for Quarterly Conference purposes" (§ 158).

The Elder or Deacon was to "solemnize" instead of "perform" matrimony (§ 167); a Preacher was to be received only on giving satisfaction in regard to his studies; the Preacher in Charge was to call a Leaders' Meeting, and hear reports (§ 175); and to form classes for "adults" as well as youth (§ 175, 248). The Preacher, when not traveling, was to read and study "whenever practicable" (§ 125); an accused Presiding Elder was to be arraigned by "three senior Preachers" (§ 203); suspension to bar a "claim upon the funds" (§ 233-8); the appeal of a Local Preacher to be tried by Committee (§ 243); the Committee allowed to expel a member when "tried and found guilty" (§ 227); and the member to have the right of challenge for cause (§ 217). The Committee were not to be members of the Quarterly Conference (§ 227). The Stewards were to hold office only for one year (§ 192); the section on the Support of Ministers was inserted instead of that on Allowance (§ 343-352); and also a new section was substituted for that on Raising Supplies (§ 355). In the section on Missions the Presiding Elder was to see the provision executed, and for his administration therein to be examined at Conference; and to raise a Committee in Quarterly Conference at the "last" instead, of the first (§ 353).

In the section on Book Publishing, besides some verbal changes, the paragraphs on Magazine and the Publishing Committees of Local Advocates were omitted; the Central, North-western, and Sunday-School Bell were inserted.

The paragraph refusing orders to Local Preachers who were slaveholders was omitted, and Mission Conferences were not allowed to vote on constitutional questions. The original Rule was placed in the chapter on Slavery.

Conferences, fifty-one; four, namely, Nebraska, North-west Wisconsin, Central Ohio, East Maine, were new. Peoria changed to Central Illinois. There were now eleven German Districts.

ELECTIONS.—Book Agents at New York, Carlton & Porter; Cincinnati, Poe & Hitchcock. Editors: Quarterly Review, D. D. Whedon; Advocate, E. Thomson; Sunday-School Advocate, D. Wise; Ladies' Repository, D. W. Clark; Western Advocate, C. Kingsley; North-western, T. M. Eddy; Central, C. Elliott; Pittsburgh, S. H. Nesbit; Northern, I. S. Bingham; California, E. Thomas; Pacific, T. H. Pearne; Missionary Secretaries, Durbin, Harris.

Delegates to Canada Wesleyans, N. Bangs, F. G. Hibbard, F. Hodgson; to M. E. Church, Canada, G. Baker, F. A. Blades; to England and Ireland, Bishop Simpson, J. McClintock.

The Conference considered but did not approve of a modification of the Presiding Eldership, Colored Conferences, and Lay Delegation. The latter was long debated, and then referred to the Conferences and the people.

Editors of the Discipline, W. L. Harris, A. M. Osbon, D. D. Whedon.

XIX. Conference of 1864.

The fourteenth delegated General Conference assembled at Philadelphia, May 1-27, 1864, and was composed of two hundred and sixteen members. Bishops Morris, Janes, Scott, Simpson, Baker, and Ames were present. Bishop Burns had died. W. L. Harris, G. W. Woodruff, H. Brownscombe, K. P. Jervis, J. Hill, and R. W. Keeler, Secretaries.

THE EPISCOPAL ADDRESS notices the death of Bishop Burns, the Rebellion and war, the decrease of fifty thousand in our membership, but the increase in nearly all our benevolent collections, education, and the press.

Three additional Bishops—Clark, Thomson, and Kingsley—were elected.

Slavery in the Border States, the change of the General Rule, so as to exclude slaveholding, and Lay Representation, were THE LEADING TOPICS.

Fraternal relations were maintained with the Wesleyans in England, Ireland, and Canada. Deputations were also received from the M. E. Church of Canada and the Evangelical Association.

A plan for Centenary Celebrations was arranged, and a Church Extension Society organized and a Constitution adopted.

The Conference approved of the measures of the Government in prosecuting the war against the Rebellion; sent a letter and deputation to Mr. Lincoln; commended the National Freedmen's Aid Society, and recommended a recognition of the Divine Being in the Constitution of the United States.

THE BOOK AGENTS were commended for making our Publishing Interest a "great financial success;" asked to open Depositories in Philadelphia, Detroit, and St. Paul; to aid the Pacific Advocate; to procure buildings, at discretion, in Pittsburgh and New York; and to issue a Manual of Methodism and the German Hymn Book. Expense of delegates $14,373 08; deficiency, to be paid by Book Room, $6,228 91.

APPEALS.—The cases of J. T. Donahoo, H. T. Johns, and B. F. Northcote, expelled for immorality, were affirmed; those of W. H. Sheets and A. P. Allen were reversed; those of R. Smithson, I. Chivington, William Wilmot, G. M. Berry, S. W. Martin, I. N. M'Abree, and W. Smith were not admitted. Of O. D. Kneedson and Joseph Caunts, complaining of Episcopal administration, the latter was sustained, the former not.

RESOLUTIONS.—In the interim of Conference the Bishops have the legal right to arrange the Districts and change the Presiding Elders; a superannuated member residing out of his Conference cannot receive a certificate of withdrawal from the Presiding Elder; a Committee of Trial at Conference may not sit after the Conference closes. The case of Bishop Morris in "striking off" Union Chapel in Cincinnati, and that of Baker in ruling in regard to Joseph Caunts were approved. The administration of the Bishops was censured for allowing Preachers to continue more than two years over the same Churches by taking different names. The Bishops were requested to distribute their residences; the Elders in examination of character not to retire; and a chairman in a committee at Conference was not to dismiss a complaint.

The Constitution of the Missionary Society was changed, the territory of the Church divided into Mission Districts, and the Liberia Conference was authorized to elect a Missionary Bishop in place of Burns.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—A better arrangement of Discipline was prepared by Bishop Baker. The General Rule was so changed as to exclude "slaveholding," and referred to the Annual Conferences for ratification. The supernumerary relation was restored and defined (§ 179); in the absence of a Bishop any "member," instead of "a Presiding Elder," was allowed to preside in Annual Conference (§ 76, 163); the Quarterly Conferences were modified by admitting trustees (§ 93); by making it the duty of the Recording Steward to make the record of the doings (§ 95); by ordering the Quarterly Conference "to inquire into the condition of each school" (§ 95); and by a new order of business (§ 96); and a Tract Committee.

The Bishop was authorized to "consecrate" Bishops; to continue Preachers "three" years, and longer as Editors of Zion's Herald, chaplains of "Hospitals" as missionaries "to neglected portions of our cities" (§ 157.) The Presiding Elder was forbidden to appoint a Preacher where "he could not legally be appointed by the Bishop" (§ 163), and was ordered to report to the Conference our literary institutions in his District (§ 163). A Preacher appointed in "the army, navy, or to prisons," as well as to a mission, was allowed to be ordained before his probation ends (§ 173); an arrangement was made to receive Preachers from the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada, and from the Church, South (§ 149); and the Preacher in Charge was to have the "oversight" of his Preachers, instead of see that they "behave well and want nothing" (§ 175); to make "a written report" to the Quarterly Conference (§ 175); to report the Sunday-schools (§ 175); and to take a collection for the Church Extension instead of the old way of taking a "collection for building," etc. (§ 175).

The morning preaching "at five" was struck out (§ 115); the section on Instruction of Children was recast, and baptized children were to be gathered in classes and be received into Church by consent of parents (§ 51, 52).

A Local Preacher in Charge holds his relation in his Charge (§ 185;); a Located Preacher is amenable in his last Charge (§ 182); and not allowed to preach without a license (§ 181). The section on Public Worship was modified by changing the lessons, inserting evening, enjoining the use of the benediction, and omitting the afternoon service, and the question and answer on "a great indecency . . . talking" (§ 54); a leader in singing was to be obtained (§ 55); the section on Class-meetings was revised entire and made less stringent; members to be tried before "a committee" only, and if absent to be expelled (§ 217); for neglect of "means of grace" instead of "class" (§ 220); the number of arbitrators raised to five, and the person who should refuse to submit to this mode of settling a dispute was to be expelled (§ 224); and testimony was allowed without and by deposition (§ 228).

Trustees were to be chosen annually by the Quarterly Conference, and a majority of them to be members of the Church (§ 370); Stewards were no longer required to "register marriages and baptisms," or to "be subject to the Bishop," etc., but to Quarterly Conference (§ 195); and their number could be "nine" instead of "seven" (§ 196).

The salaries of Bishops, Editors, and Agents were to be estimated by the Book Committee (§ 344, 334); the provision respecting occupying houses was omitted, but the Church was not to be responsible for any deficiency (§ 360); the reporting of the names of those who contribute fifty cents mission money was dispensed with; and the Presiding Elder was required to have a Tract Committee appointed in the last Quarterly Conference (§ 308).

New sections were introduced on Education and Trustees for the Methodist Episcopal Church (§ 247, 38); the Book section was modified slightly in regard to Editors and the Book Committee (§ 317); the section on Colored Members was omitted; the Ritual was slightly modified.

CONFERENCES.—Fifty-nine instead of fifty-one in 1860. Of the eight new ones, two, Colorado and Nevada, were white English-speaking; two, Delaware and Washington, colored; three, Central, North-west, and South-west German, German; and one, India, a Mission Conference. The boundary lines of a few others were changed; the small ones allowed to send but one delegate to the General Conference (§ 63), and to locate a superannuated Preacher who does not send a certificate to his Conference (§ 180).

ELECTIONS.—Book Agents at New York, Carlton & Porter;

Cincinnati, Hitchcock & Walden. Editors: Advocate, D. Curry; Quarterly, D. D. Whedon; Sunday-School Advocate, D. Wise; Ladies' Repository, I. W. Wiley; Western, J. M. Reid; Northern, D. D. Lore; Central, B. F. Crary; North-western, T. M. Eddy; Pittsburgh, S. H. Nesbit; California, E. Thomas; Pacific, H. C. Benson.

The Conference considered but refused to pass the following: To elect Missionary Bishops, to district the Episcopacy, and to make the Presiding Elders the legal advisers of the Bishops in making the appointments.

XX. Conference of 1868.

The fifteenth delegated General Conference assembled in Chicago, May 1–June 2, 1868, and was composed of two hundred and thirty-one members. The officers remained nearly as at the preceding Conference.

THE LEADING TOPIC.—Lay Delegation.

The BISHOPS notice the death of Bishop Hamline; the unusual prosperity of the Church, showing an increase of 222,687 members, with a corresponding advance in all the benevolent enterprises of the Church: the press, education, missions, and Conference boundaries.

The usual fraternal greetings were interchanged with the various branches of the Methodist family. Bishop Janes had visited England, Ireland, and our missions in Europe; Bishop Thomson those of Asia. The Bishops were desired to visit our mission fields in the ensuing quadrennium; a missionary jubilee was authorized, and a change in the corporate act of the Missionary Society.

EDUCATION flourished, especially theological. D. Drew had transferred to the Church "Drew Seminary."

LAY DELEGATION was approved, and referred for ratification to the Conferences and members, male and female.

The Book Agents were authorized to open Depositories at such places as they should deem advisable; the New York House had been incorporated, and a similar act was asked for the Western House; and a Magazine for Children was recommended. Expenses of delegates, $14,461 93; deficiency, $4,341 35, ordered to be paid by the Book Agents.

APPEALS.—I. Aikin, R. P. Bell, J. N. Davis, C. G. Ferris, J. O. Fisher, S. Layton, N. L. Phillips, H. Pilbeam, S. D. Simonds, J. Thrusk, J. H. Waterbury, and B. F. Wilson.

REVISALS.—The sections on Exhorters and Church Extension were introduced; the Second Restrictive Rule was referred to the Conferences for a change to admit laymen to General Conference; Conferences were to report collections for Church Extension (§ 77); the clause giving a seat in the Quarterly Conference to the Mission Committee was omitted; any Elder was made eligible to the Presidency of the Conference (§ 76); the Secretary of the Quarterly Conference was to transmit his record to the Recording Steward (§ 95); the Stewards made a part of the Leaders' Meeting (§ 175); Committees on Tracts and Music, and that on Sunday-schools to be members of Church; and the clause requiring the Presiding Elders to promote the publication of Bibles, etc., was omitted.

The Bishops were allowed to appoint for more than three years Temperance Agents and Chaplains to Reformatory, Sanitary, and Charitable Institutions (§ 157); the section on the Reception of Ministers from the Wesleyans was extended to all evangelical sects (§ 152); the Preacher in Charge was to preside in the Quarterly Conference in the absence of the appointee of the Presiding Elder; to hold Leaders' and Stewards' meetings; to report by a given form to each Quarterly Conference; to read the names of those received and excluded at the love-feast; and to notify Pastors of certificates given, (§ 175). The clause requiring the Preacher to enroll in class the baptized children was omitted (§ 52); the committee on the case of an accused Presiding Elder in the interval of Conference to be "five" instead of "three" (§ 203); an accused Preacher to be tried in the interval of Conference by the Presiding Elder (§ 203), he having the right of challenge; Local Preachers, when unacceptable, to be deprived of "office and credentials" (§ 181, 182); in place of a Leader, a Committee on Singing (§ 55); and members were to be received on recommendation of the Stewards and Leaders where such a meeting is held, otherwise by Leader as heretofore (§ 46).

The appeal of a member might be vitiated by absenting himself from trial (§ 244); and the members of the committee were not allowed to vote in the Quarterly Conference (§ 244). The sale of Church property in the interim of Conference was to be authorized by the Preacher and Presiding Elder (§ 381); the duties of District Stewards were defined (§ 194); and when two circuits unite, both Boards hold till a new election (§ 196). There was to be a single Book Committee appointed by the General Conference (§ 317), and the salaries of the Bishops (§ 344) and the Editors and Book Agents (§ 334) were to be estimated by it. The Preacher was "required" to attend to the collections for missions; the section on Trusteeship was slightly modified, and the Book section, in what relates to Salaries, Book Committee, and Editors. The parts relating to the California Advocate and the two Book Committees were omitted. The Ritual was retouched in a few places. In the definition of a supernumerary "some other disability" was omitted, and he, when residing out of the Conference, amenable, as in case of superannuates (§ 180).

There were seventy-two Conferences, a gain of thirteen, as follows: Central New York, Central Pennsylvania, East German, Georgia, Holston, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, St. Louis, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and Wilmington. The lines of a few were modified. The great change was the admission of the Mission Conferences to full rights.

THE CONFERENCE REFUSED to elect Missionary Bishops, to increase the number of Bishops; to authorize biennial sessions of the General Conference, and to change the year of holding the General Conference.

XXI. The Conference of 1872.

The sixteenth delegated General Conference assembled in Brooklyn, May 1–June 4, 1872, and was composed of two hundred and ninety-two clerical and one hundred and twenty-nine lay delegates. Bishops Morris, Janes, Scott, Simpson, and Ames were present. Baker, Clark, Thomson, and Kingsley had died. Eight new ones—Bowman, Harris, Foster, Wiley, Merrill, Andrews, Haven, and Peck—were elected. Secretaries, W. L. Harris, G. W. Woodruff, O. S. Munsell, J. M. Phillips, D. N. Cooley, and E. A. Manning.

THE LEADING TOPIC.—The Book Room troubles.

The Plan of Lay Delegation was ratified by a nearly unanimous vote, and laymen, for the first time, were admitted as members of the General Conference.

The usual fraternal greetings were interchanged with the various Methodist brotherhoods, the Presbyterian, Congregational, and Baptist bodies.

The Book Room was the apple of discord. Near the beginning of the quadrennium the Junior Agent professed to have discovered great frauds; the Senior Agent denied the allegation. The Book Committee, after protracted investigations by experts, were not able to agree whether or not any fraud existed. The Church and the Conference were divided on the question; but after mature deliberation and examination of documents, the Special Committee on the Book Concern prepared a conciliatory report, which harmonized the discordant elements. The purchase of the building on Broadway was approved.

Expenses of delegates, $26,667 88; and a surplus from the collections of $1,080 05 ordered to be placed in the Permanent Fund. The General Mission Committee was reorganized, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society approved, and the Church divided into "twelve" Mission or General Conference Districts.

CHANGES IN THE DISCIPLINE.—The arrangement was modified by placing the Ritual at the close; the form of question and answer was dispensed with, and consecutive numbers adopted. New sections were introduced on Freedmen's Aid, the Permanent Fund, and District Conferences. The section on Class-Meetings was thoroughly revised (§ 56); the General Conference was to be composed of clerical and lay delegates (§ 62, 70), and only one clerical delegate to "forty-five" instead of "thirty" members of the Annual Conferences (§ 62).

The CONFERENCES now numbered seventy-six, a gain of five. Black River, Genesee, and East Genesee were merged in the new Conferences, Northern and Western New York; other new ones were Arkansas, Chicago German, Florida, Lexington, North-west Iowa, and Rocky Mountain. The Conference ordered the action of the Committee on Boundaries to be final (§ 383); the term "colored" to be omitted; reports to be made to the Missionary Society in New York (§ 80); record and reports on trials to be sent to the General Conference (§ 66, 84); and collections, etc., to be reported to the Sunday-School Union (§ 83).

The Bishops were to be classed as "effective and non-effective" (§ 343); their support was referred to the people (§ 345, 34); they were to decide all questions of law "involved in the proceedings" (§ 157); and allowed to continue for more than three years a Preacher as Editor at "Atlanta." Complaints against their administration were not to be allowed "without due notice" (§ 202); the presiding officer in a trial was not to deliver a charge (§ 232); and the clauses allowing a Bishop to refuse to put a motion and to adjourn a Conference were omitted.

The Presiding Elders were ordered to renew licenses authorized by Quarterly Conferences (§ 214); to furnish information to the Mission Committee of the mission work in their Districts (§ 216); to try Preachers who refuse to attend to their work (§ 209); to try cases referred to them by the Annual Conference (§ 211); to apply to the superannuated and Local Preachers in Charge the limitation of term of service to three years (§ 157); but their own time "in heathen lands" may extend beyond four years (§ 162).

Quarterly Conferences were to have a new order of business (§ 97); to renew licenses annually (§ 96); and to approve Superintendents and Trustees "not elected by the Quarterly Conference" (§ 96).

Local Preachers could be ordained only after holding a license four "consecutive" years (§ 186); these years could count for orders in Conference (§ 187).

The Preacher in Charge was made amenable to Conference for maladministration (§ 210); ordered to give letters or try the parties who demand them (§ 176); allowed to give a recommendation to a member wishing to unite with another denomination (§ 176); required to try a case remanded by the Quarterly Conference (§ 230); and to refrain from re-baptism (§ 47). A Preacher on Trial was made amenable to the Quarterly Conference (§ 212); but now was held to be under the jurisdiction of the Conference "as to his authority to preach," and his continuance on trial was to be a virtual removal of license (§ 146). The people were invited to participate in public worship (§ 54). Judicial Conferences were instituted for the trial of appeals of Traveling Ministers (§ 233).

In the section on Trustees what relates to an "option is given" was omitted, and the Rule of the Discipline ordered to be observed in creating new Boards and filling old ones (§ 373); all Charters for our Church property were to conform to this Rule (§ 376); a detailed report to the Quarterly Conference was required (§ 377); and the clause in regard to rich men omitted (§ 366). The section on the Support of the Ministry was recast (§ 349); that of the Bishops referred to the people (§ 349). The trial of members was made more stringent by a clause on "amusements" (§ 319). There was to be a Secretary of the Board of Education, and collections were to be made and sent to the Board (§ 340), and a Children's Day observed (§ 341).

The Conference located the residences of the Bishops; ordered them to appoint a committee of legal gentlemen to prepare "a Code of Ecclesiastical Procedure;" and accepted the trust of the "Minard Home."

The numbers 6, 23, 28, 31 in Appendix were omitted.

Editors of the Discipline, W. L. Harris, G. W. Woodruff.

The CONFERENCE REFUSED to revise the Hymn Book; to sanction a system of Insurance by the Church; to Elect Colored Bishops; to change the Tenure of the Episcopal Office; and to separate the Home and Foreign Mission Work.

XXII. The Conference of 1876.

The seventeenth delegated General Conference, held in Baltimore, May 1-31, was composed of two hundred and twenty-two clerical and one hundred and thirty-three lay delegates; total, three hundred and fifty-five. Reserves—Clerical, one hundred and thirty-seven; Lay, one hundred and thirty; total, two hundred and sixty-seven. George W. Woodruff was chosen Secretary. Bishops present: Janes, Scott, Simpson, Ames, Bowman, Harris, Foster, Wiley, Merrill, Andrews, Haven, and Peck. The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS, read by Bishop Janes, reviews the several departments of Church work, emphasizes the importance of the Presiding Eldership, and considers the propriety of making the office elective. The election of Presiding Elders became the leading question of the Conference, and it was decided adversely.

The expenses of the session were $23,210 12; the collections amounted to $18,534 73; leaving a deficiency of $4,210 12 to be paid by the Book Rooms.

The membership in 1875 was 1,580,559, and the number of Traveling Preachers, 10,923; total 1,591,482. The usual fraternal greetings were exchanged with the various Methodist bodies, the Presbyterians, Congregationalists, and Reformed Episcopalians.

The Senior Bishop, Morris, as also editors Eddy, Cobleigh and Lore, had died.

ELECTIONS.—I. Book Agents at New York, Nelson & Phillips; Book Agents at Cincinnati, Hitchcock & Walden. II. Secretaries: Missionary Society, Dashiell and Reid; Church Extension, A. J. Kynett; Sunday-School Union, J. H. Vincent; Freedmen's Aid, R. S. Rust. III. Editors: The Christian Advocate, C. H. Fowler; Quarterly Review, D. D. Whedon; Western Advocate, F. S. Hoyt; Northern, O. H. Warren; Pittsburg, Alfred Wheeler, Northwestern, Arthur Edwards; Central, B. St. James Fry; Ladies' Repository, D. Curry; Christian Apologist, William Nast.

Many changes in the Discipline were proposed; few were made. Bishop Harris, the editor of the Discipline, eliminates the word "section," retaining the section heading in small caps; reduces the consecutive numbers from 601 to 491, and adds to each the paragraph sign (§). The Bishops' Address is retouched by receiving its proper heading, and a paragraph on the extension of the work through the two continents. Wherever practicable the Conferences are to become bodies corporate. The section on District Conferences is considerably modified. Class-leaders are made members, an improved order of business is given, and the Bishops are authorized to preside. In the Quarterly Conference the Preacher, in the absence of the Presiding Elder, is to preside; the order of business is also enlarged. The section on receiving ministers from other Churches is made general. The Presiding Elder is to hold all the Quarterly Conferences, especially the first and the last.

THE EDUCATIONAL PART provides for aids in the training of the young by lyceums, evening schools, and libraries. The new Constitution places the school under a board consisting of the Pastor and the Sunday-school officers. The erection of a Mission into an Annual Conference is not to change the relation of the Missionary Society to it; and the Bishop may give a Superintendent the powers of a Presiding Elder. The salary of the Bishop is made a pro-rata claim with that of the Preacher and Presiding Elder.

TRUSTEES are not allowed to encumber church property to meet current expenses; are not to be ejected when in joint security, provided they remain members; and are not to remove church property without the approval of the Quarterly Conference and the Presiding Elder. The section on the mode of determining boundaries allows Conferences to re-adjust their bounds and raises the committee in the General Conference to one for each Annual Conference. Thirteen new Conferences are formed, making in all ninety-two. By a majority vote mixed Conferences may separate into white and colored.

Editor of the Discipline, Bishop Harris.

The eighteenth delegated General Conference, held in Cincinnati, May 1-28, 1880, was composed of two hundred and forty-eight ministerial and one hundred and fifty-one lay delegates; total, three hundred and ninety-nine delegates. Reserves—Clerical, one hundred and fifty-five; Lay, one hundred and forty-eight, making a total of three hundred and three. The Bishops present: Levi Scott, M. Simpson, Thos. Bowman, W. L. Harris, R. S. Foster, I. W. Wiley, S. M. Merrill, E. G. Andrews, and J. T. Peck.

Secretary, George W. Woodruff; Assistant Secretaries, I. S. Bingham, D. S. Monroe, Lew E. Darrow, George Mather, H. B. Heacock, James P. Magee, and James N. Fitzgerald. The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS, read by Bishop Simpson, notices the death of Bishops Janes, Ames, and Gilbert Haven; of the Book Agent, Reuben Nelson, and Secretary, R. L. Dashiell; refers to the labors of the Bishops during the quadrennium; enumerates the new Conferences organized; tells of the completion of the new Hymnal; the preparations for the Ecumenical Conference, and records the substantial and cheering evidences of prosperity in our publishing, benevolent, and educational work. Membership in 1879, 1,700,302; Traveling Preachers, 11,636; Local Preachers, 12,475. This gives an increase in four years of 119,743 members and 713 Traveling Preachers.

The expenses of the General Conference. $24,948 50; collections, $20,717 74; leaving a deficiency of $4,230 80.

ELECTIONS.—I. Bishops: H. W. Warren, C. D. Foss, J. F. Hurst, and E. O. Haven. II. Book Agents: New York, Phillips & Hunt; Cincinnati, Walden & Stowe. III. Secretaries: Missionary Society, J. M. Reid, C. H. Fowler; Church Extension, A. J. Kynett; Freedmen's Aid, R. S. Rust; Sunday-School, J. H. Vincent. IV. Editors: Christian Advocate, J. M. Buckley; Quarterly Review, D. D. Whedon; Northern Advocate, O. H. Warren; Western, F. S. Hoyt; Northwestern, Arthur Edwards; Pittsburg, Alfred Wheeler; Central, B.

St. James Fry; Methodist Advocate, E. Q. Fuller; California Advocate, B. F. Crary, and Christian Apologist, W. Nast.

LEADING TOPIC.—Work among the colored people.

The arrangement of the Discipline in six parts unchanged.

Part I, in three chapters, has a new section on Temperance, indorsing the principle of Prohibition. The class-leader is to be a "person" of sound judgment, and devoted to God; he is also to report to the Quarterly Conference according to a given form.

Part II. The section on Annual Conferences has two new items of business and a change in the order for Quarterly Conferences. The duty of the Committee on Church Records is more accurately defined. The item on receiving Preachers in the interval of Conference is omitted. The "Rules of Society" is changed to "the General Rules of our Church." "Are you groaning" after perfection is softened into "earnestly striving after it." The candidate for trial in Conference is also asked if he has studied the doctrines and polity of the Church, if he approves them, if he will "wholly abstain from the use of tobacco."

The Bishops are allowed a little more latitude in making the appointments and are to prescribe a course of study for candidates and for Local Preachers.

Part III, treating of Administration, is slightly touched. A Bishop committing an offense beyond the bounds of a District may be called to account by the Presiding Elder within whose District he resides, and when he disseminates false doctrines he may be tried by the same process as in the trial for crime. In the trial of a Preacher "not less than five nor more than nine," instead of "as many as he shall think fit" are to be called in. The counsel in a trial must be a member; the case may be remanded and errors corrected.

Part V, on Benevolent Institutions. The California and Pittsburg Advocates are placed in the hands of the Agents, and the money for the support of the Bishops is to be paid to the Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund.

Part VI. The Committee on Boundaries are to report to the Conference, and the report is to be acted upon as "a whole without amendment and without debate." Vermont was touched to the quick. In place of eighty-nine the committee give ninety-four Annual Conferences, besides nine enabling acts and seventeen Missions. The new Conferences are Austin, Blue Ridge, Central Tennessee, Little Rock, North-western Swedish, St. Louis and Western German. The taking of Burlington District from Troy and adding it to the Vermont Conference raised more dust than all the other changes. The Appendix abounds in valuable and convenient matters.

Editor of the Discipline, Bishop Harris.

XXIV. The Conference of 1884.

The nineteenth delegated General Conference, held in Philadelphia, May 1-28, 1884, was composed of two hundred and sixty-one ministerial and one hundred and fifty-six lay delegates; total, four hundred and seventeen. Reserves, one hundred and sixty-two ministerial and one hundred and fifty-five lay, making a total of three hundred and seventeen.

Bishops present: Simpson, Bowman, Harris, Foster, Wiley, Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Hurst.

Secretary, D. S. Monroe; Assistants, I. S. Bingham, J. N. FitzGerald, C. J. Clark, Sabin Halsey, G. S. Clapp, C. J. Howes, M. S. Hard, W. H. Croghan, Jacob Wernli.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS, read by Bishop Harris, refers to the deaths of Bishops E. O. Haven, Scott, and Peck; as also to the deaths of Secretary Geo. W. Woodruff, and Editor E. Q. Fuller; to the Ecumenical Conference in London in 1881, and the preparations for the Centennial of American Methodism in December, 1884; notices the payment of the debt on the Metropolitan Church in Washington; rejoices in the prosperity of our educational and benevolent work, calling special attention to the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission organizations and to the Homes for the Aged in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York, as also to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital in Brooklyn. The address deprecates the lax views on marriage, the frequency of divorce, the decay of class-meetings, and the disposition, on the part of Preachers and people, to stipulate for appointments independent of the appointing power.

Expenses of the General Conference were: $29,085 83; collections, $25,251 72, leaving a deficiency to be paid by the Book Concern of $3,834 11. Members of the Church in 1883, 1,769,534; Traveling Preachers, 11,349; Local Preachers, 12,026. Gain, 158,787 during the four years.

LEADING NEW TOPICS—Licensing and ordination of women to preach were forbidden.

Fraternal greetings were exchanged with the various Methodist bodies in Europe and America, as also with the Congregational, Presbyterian, and Reformed Episcopal Churches.

ELECTIONS.—I. Bishops: W. X. Ninde, John M. Walden, W. F. Mallalieu, and Charles H. Fowler. II. The Book Agents: New York, Phillips & Hunt; Cincinnati, Cranston & Stowe. III Secretaries: Missionary Society, John M. Reid and C. C. McCabe; Church Extension, A. J. Kynett; Freedmen's Aid, R. S. Rust; Sunday-School, John H. Vincent. IV. Editors: Quarterly Review, D. Curry; Christian Advocate, J. M. Buckley; Northern, O. H. Warren; Western, J. H. Bayliss; Northwestern, Arthur Edwards; Central, B. S. Fry; Pittsburg, Henry Wheeler; Southwestern, M. W. Taylor; California Advocate, B. F. Cray; Christian Apologist, W. Nast.

The arrangement of the Discipline was slightly changed. (See chapter on Arrangements.) The section on Membership was recast. Candidates for baptism may have the option of "sprinkling, pouring or immersion." Annual Conferences may hear complaints and try appeals; shall report to Sunday-School Union through its Statistical Secretary, according to a given rule, and shall appoint for each District a Board of Church Location. The District Conference is required to ask the candidate for license if he will abstain from the use of tobacco; and the organization may be discontinued by a majority instead of a two-third vote. In the absence of the Presiding Elder and the Elder appointed by him the Preacher in Charge shall preside in the Quarterly Conference, and shall ask the candidates for license if they will abstain from the use of tobacco. The Superintendents of Sunday-schools to be confirmed as Superintendents and as members of the Quarterly Conference. The paragraph on Official Boards is made a separate section. Preaching-places are not to be given up without the vote of the Quarterly Conference and consent of the Presiding Elder. The chapter on receiving Preachers from other Churches is recast and made more general. The Bishops are required to prescribe for candidates for admission to Conference a course of biblical, ecclesiastical, and literary studies, and may leave a Preacher without an appointment who wishes to study or travel. The Secretary of the Board of Education and the Germans in the United States, where supplies are difficult, are exempted from the three-years' rule. The Presiding Elders are to direct the attention of candidates for the ministry to the advantages of a thorough training in our literary and theological institutions, and to see that deeds to our Church property conform to the laws of the State and the Discipline. Candidates for Elders' Orders may, in Missions and Mission Conferences, be ordained before the full two years' probation expires. Deacons also, serving in foreign countries, may be ordained before their probation ends.

The Preacher in Charge is required to report the number of Love-feasts held, and to notify other Preachers of removals of members to their Charges. The name of a member who wishes to withdraw shall be entered on the books as withdrawn. A member of an Annual Conference may surrender his Ministerial office and have his membership in the charge where he wishes to reside.

Local Preachers are required to report to the Quarterly Conference. Preachers are not to hold services in other Charges without the request of the Pastors thereof. Local Preachers may be tried for disseminating false doctrine. A Judicial Conference may affirm or reverse, and the Triers are to be not less than thirteen.

The specific matter in the sections on Dress and Marriage is omitted and a new section on Divorce is inserted. The number of Stewards is raised to thirteen, and they are required to report their financial plan to the first Quarterly Conference. The District Stewards to choose a Secretary, whose record shall be preserved in a book to be in the custody of the Presiding Elder. In the section on Education the Presiding Elders and Preachers are required to direct the attention of candidates for the ministry to the advantages of our institutions of learning, and the collections on Children's Day, unless otherwise designated by the donors, shall be equally divided between the Parent Board and the Sunday-school Fund of the Board of Education. The Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman of the Sunday-school Committee.

The Superintendent of a Mission may be also Presiding Elder and preside, in the absence of the Bishop, in the Annual Meeting. The supplies and helpers to be members of the Annual Meeting, which shall have authority to license and to try Local Preachers. Missions outside of Annual Conferences may be attached to Home Conferences. Sections on the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, and also on Central Conferences, are introduced. Church Extension Society shall meet in November. The education of Teachers as well as Preachers is the aim of our Southern work.

To the form for ordaining Bishops a new rubric, defining the service, was prefixed.

The Book Committee can fill vacancies only by the concurrence of two Bishops.

Editor of Discipline, Bishop Harris.

XXV. The Conference of 1888.

The twentieth delegated General Conference, held in New York city, May 1-31, 1888, was composed of two hundred and eighty-eight ministerial and one hundred and seventy-five lay delegates, making a total of four hundred and sixty-three. Reserves elected—Clerical, one hundred and eighty-five; Lay, one hundred and seventy-seven; total, three hundred and sixty-two. Bishops present: Bowman, Foster, Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Hurst, Ninde, Walden, Mallalieu, and Fowler. Secretary, D. S. Monroe; Assistant Secretaries, Sabin Halsey, C. J. Clark, M. Hard, W. H. Crogman, Jacob Wernli, W. S. Umy, A. C. Crosthwaite, R. R. Doherty, R. E. Wheeler, C. C. Wilbor, and E. A. Simons.

The EPISCOPAL ADDRESS was read by Bishop Merrill. It opens with a notice of the deaths of Bishops Simpson, Wiley, Harris, and of Editors Curry and Marshall W. Taylor. It marks the profound interest manifested in the Centennial Conference held in Baltimore in December, 1884. It dwells with satisfaction upon the prosperity attending the various denominational agencies—the Book Rooms, Chartered Fund, Sunday-School Society, Board of Education, and institutions of learning, consisting of twelve theological seminaries, fifty-four colleges, and one hundred and twenty academies. To extend education to the whites in the South, the scope of the Freedmen's Aid Society needs to be enlarged. To prevent unequal representation from small Conferences it recommends the organization of Mission Conferences without representation in the General Conference. It favors the election of Missionary Bishops, more frequent vote by orders, consideration of the time-limit, a uniform order of service in public worship, and better provision for the Superannuates. It closes by uttering a warning against dangers from Romanism, Sabbath-breaking, the liquor traffic and polygamy, and calling attention to the election of delegates from beyond the Conference bounds, and of women as delegates to the General Conference.

The eligibility of women as delegates and the mode of supervising our Mission fields were leading subjects before the Conference.

THE ELECTIONS.—I. Bishops: John H. Vincent, James N. FitzGerald, Isaac W. Joyce, John P. Newman, and Daniel A. Goodsell. Missionary Bishops: William Taylor and J. M. Thoburn. II. Book Agents: New York, Phillips & Hunt; Cincinnati, Cranston & Stowe. III. Secretaries: Missionary Society, C. C. McCabe, J. O. Peck, and A. B. Leonard; Sunday-School Union, J. L. Hurlbut; Church Extension, A. J. Kynett; Freedmen's Aid, J. C. Hartzell; Board of Education, C. H. Payne. IV. Editors: Methodist Review, J. W. Mendenhall; Christian Advocate, J. M. Buckley; Northern, O. H. Warren; Western, J. H. Bayliss; Pittsburg, C. W. Smith; Northwestern, Arthur Edwards; Central, B. S. Fry; California, B. F. Crary; Southwestern, A. E. P. Albert; Methodist Advocate, T. C. Carter; Haus und Herd, Henry J. Liebhart; Christian Apologist, W. Nast.

The arrangement is slightly changed. The sections on Dress, Marriage, Divorce, Temperance, and Slavery are transferred from the first to the third part; and the chapter on Boundaries is placed before the Ritual. In Part I the changes are few. A new order, to secure uniformity in public worship, is given; and the Committee on Music, of which the Preacher is chairman, is made subject to the control of the Quarterly Conference.

Part II. The Annual Conferences are required to appoint Statistical Secretaries and Treasurers. Preachers from other Churches may be admitted to Conference when recommended by Quarterly Conferences. The Bishops may allow Preachers to remain five and Presiding Elders six years in the same Charge. A new section on Missionary Bishops is inserted. Deacons may be ordained before the time, when in charge of remote fields in any Conferences. Preachers in Charge are to report Watch-nights yearly and Love-feasts quarterly; Supernumeraries or Superannuates are also to report to the Fourth Quarterly Conference. Local Preachers are to report marriages and baptisms to be entered on the Church Record; and Exhorters to report their work. A new section, on Deaconesses, is inserted in this part.

Part III. Administration of Discipline. The record appropriate to Preachers who withdraw from Conference under accusation and charges is given. In all cases of trial of Preachers witnesses are to be notified by the Pastor, and refusal to testify, without showing just cause, is a violation of Discipline. An expelled minister can be restored only on confession satisfactory to the Conference from which he was expelled.

Part IV. TEMPORAL ECONOMY.—The Steward's term of service is to begin with the opening of the ensuing Conference year. The Board of Conference Claimants is a new section in favor of Superannuates. The Denominational Trustees are not required to accept funds to which unreasonable conditions are attached, and are required to use care in administration. An improved form of conveyance for Church property is given in place of the old.

Part V. EDUCATIONAL AND BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.—The location of an institution must be approved by the Bishop and Board of Education to bring it under the patronage of the Church. The Church Extension Society shall not make by-laws in conflict with the Charter, the Discipline, or the directions of the General Committee, and an equitable proportion of the expenses of the Society is to be defrayed from the Loan and Annuity Fund. The Freedmen's Aid Society is to include white work. On books: The Editor of German Sunday-school publications in Cincinnati shall be German Assistant Secretary of Sunday-School Union and of the Tract Society without additional salary.

The boundaries constitute Part VI. In place of the one hundred and three of four years ago we have one hundred and eleven Conferences. No Conference can be organized with less than twenty effective members. Smaller Conferences, organized as Mission Conferences, of which we have ten in the Home and seven in the Foreign field, are without representation in the General Conference. At the end we have twenty-two enabling acts. In the gain of Conferences we have Africa, Bengal, Central Missouri, Dakota, Montana, St. John's River and West Nebraska. Careful and conservative, the Conference of 1888 was, at the same time, wisely progressive.

Bishop Merrill was chosen as editor of the Discipline.

CHAPTER III.

AN OUTLINE OF THE DISCIPLINE OF 1784 COMPARED WITH "THE LARGE MINUTES."

THE year 1784 will ever remain memorable in the history of American Methodism as that in which the loosely connected Societies in the New World were organized into the Methodist Episcopal Church. As already noticed, these Societies sprang up spontaneously, or without the aid of clerical laborers commissioned by Mr. Wesley for this field. They originated in lay effort, and for a season continued without foreign aid. The missionaries of Mr. Wesley came to succor and build up Societies already planted by the people on the soil, as well as to form new ones.

The work of these agents, however, had hardly commenced when the storm of the Revolution burst on the country, and by its continued violence excluded most of them from the field. As Englishmen, loyal to the throne, they incurred the prejudice of the American people struggling to break a foreign yoke; and as they departed, the cause was left in the hands of those who had identified themselves with American interests. The Conference assumed the place of the great Founder of Methodism, whose voice, in the midst of the confusion, was only occasionally and indistinctly heard; but as the din of war ceased by the peace of 1783, the former relations of the parties were restored.

As the practiced eye of Wesley surveyed the scene he at once appreciated the change that had transpired. The independence of the United States having been acknowledged by the mother country, her authority over them, both civil and ecclesiastical, ceased. The connection with the Church of England, as well as with the State, being thus providentially dissolved, Wesley, who had hitherto resisted a separation from the Church, determined, on the application of the Preachers and members in America, to organize them into an independent Church.

In pursuance of this plan he "appointed Dr. Coke and Francis Asbury to be joint Superintendents over our brethren in North America, as also Richard Whatcoat and Thomas Vasey to act as Elders among them by baptizing and administering the Lord's Supper." In the letter to the American Societies, sent by Dr. Coke, he continues: "As our American brethren are now totally disentangled, both from the State and from the English hierarchy, we dare not entangle them again either with the one or the other. They are now at full liberty simply to follow the Scriptures and the primitive Church. And we judge it best that they should stand fast in that liberty wherewith God has so strangely made them free."

In the use of the liberty here recognized, a General Conference was called by the Superintendents to meet in Baltimore on Christmas Day, 1784, to consider what measures it might be proper to take. Of the eighty-three Traveling Preachers sixty came together at the time appointed, and held a session of ten days, in which the grave questions urged upon their attention by the exigencies of the hour were thoroughly canvassed, and an independent organization was determined upon.

"At this Conference," say the Annual Minutes for 1785, "it was unanimously agreed that circumstances made it expedient for us to become a separate body under the denomination of 'The Methodist Episcopal Church.'" And again they say, "We formed ourselves into an independent Church; and following the counsel of Mr. John Wesley, who recommended the Episcopal mode of Church government, we thought it best to become an Episcopal Church, making the Episcopal office elective, and the elected Superintendent or Bishop amenable to the body of Ministers and Preachers."*

As a separate organization the new Church required a code of laws for its regulation. The Large Minutes, which had hitherto served the purpose of a Discipline, required considerable modifications to adapt them to the exigencies of the New World and nation. Hence the members of the Christmas Conference, in constructing a body of statutes for the government of the infant Church, omitted a part of the Large Minutes, and to the remaining part added such new rules as the condition of the work required. This was the first Discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the outline of which is given below. The form of question and answer of the Large Minutes was retained, the Discipline consisting of a series of eighty-one questions and answers.

Of the two series of consecutive numbers the first is that of the Discipline; the second, inclosed in parentheses, is that of the Large Minutes. The portion of the material that belonged to the Minutes will, by this method, have two consecutive numbers, while the new matter will have but one.

The passages of the Large Minutes which were not inserted in the Discipline are here placed in brackets, and, if long, in smaller type. The parts of the Discipline of 1784 which pass into later editions are given in the particular sections, and to save space the subjects only are here indicated, with references to the paragraphs in the Discipline and in the second book of this work, where the whole is given with the later modifications

Francis Asbury, and others, at a Conference begun in Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, on Monday, the 27th of December, in the year 1784. Composing a Form of Discipline for the Ministers, Preachers, and other Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America.

It is desired that all things be considered as in the immediate presence of God; that every person speak freely whatever is in his heart.

Quest. 1. How may we best improve the time of our Conferences?†

Ans. 1. While we are conversing let us have an especial care to set God always before us.

2. In the intermediate hours let us redeem all the time we can for private exercises.

3. Therein let us give ourselves to prayer for one another, and for a blessing on [this] our labor.

[Quest. (2.) Have our Conferences been as useful as they might have been?

Ans. No. We have been continually straitened for time. Hence scarce any thing has been searched to the bottom. To remedy this, let every Conference last nine days, concluding on Wednesday in the second week.]

Quest. 2. What can be done in order to the future union of the Methodists?

Ans. During the life of the Rev. Mr. Wesley we acknowledge ourselves his sons in the Gospel, ready in matters belonging to Church government to obey his commands. And we do engage, after his death, to do every thing that we judge consistent with the cause of religion in America and the political interests of these States, to preserve and promote our union with the Methodists in Europe.*

*“The title of the Large Minutes reads, ‘Minutes of several Conversations between the Rev. Mr. Wesley and others, from the year 1744 to the year 1789.’ They are here printed as found in Wesley’s Works, vol. v, pp. 211-239. The English editor observes in a note, ‘This tract, which is usually denominated, “The Large Minutes,” contains the plan of Discipline as practiced in the Methodist Connection during the life of Mr. Wesley. As its title intimates, it underwent several alterations and enlargements from the year 1744 to 1789, when the last revision took place. It is here reprinted from a copy which bears the date of 1791, the year in which Mr. Wesley died, collated with the edition of 1789.’ Although the edition, which is here quoted, was revised four years after the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church, yet it is ascertained, by comparison with the Annual Minutes of the English Conference, that little alteration was made in the Large Minutes subsequently to 1784.”—Emory.

Quest. 3. As the ecclesiastical as well as civil affairs of these United States have passed through a very considerable change by the Revolution, what plan of Church government shall we hereafter pursue?

Ans. We will form ourselves into an Episcopal Church, under the direction of Superintendents, Elders, Deacons, and Helpers, according to the forms of ordination annexed to our Liturgy, and the Form of Discipline set forth in these Minutes. [Om. 1787.]

Quest. 4. (3.) What may we reasonably believe to be God's design in raising up the Preachers called Methodists?

Ans. [Not to form any new sect, but] to reform the continent, [particularly the Church,] and to spread scriptural holiness over these lands.† See the Bishops' Address.

Quest. 5. (4.) Origin of Methodism. See the Bishops' Address.

Quest. 6. (5.) Societies to be formed where we preach. ¶ 136.

Quest. 7. (6.) Places for preaching. ¶ 138.

Quest. 8. (7.) Is field preaching unlawful?

Ans. We conceive not. We do not know that it is contrary to any law either of God or man.

Quest. 9. (8.) Have we not used it too sparingly?

Ans. It seems we have: 1. Because our call is to save that which is lost. Now we cannot expect them to seek us, therefore we should go and seek them. 2. Because we are particularly called, by 'going into the highways and hedges,' [which none else will do,] 'to compel them to come in.' 3. Because that reason against it is not good, 'The house will hold all that come.' The house may hold all that come to the house, but not all who come to the field.

The greatest hinderance to this you are to expect from rich, or cowardly, or lazy Methodists; but regard them not, neither Stewards, Leaders, nor people. Whenever the weather will permit go out in God's name into the most public places and call all to repent and believe the Gospel; every Sunday in particular, especially where there are old Societies, lest they settle upon their lees. [The above 8 and 9 om. 1787.]

* This was omitted in 1787. The omission was the occasion of no little controversy, and is known in Methodist history as the leaving of Mr. Wesley's name off the Minutes. It was regarded by some as a total separation from the founder, and in this view was deemed objectionable. Wesley appointed this year Whatcoat and Garretson Superintendents, but the Conference refused to ratify, which introduced a discussion that led to the rescinding of the Minute. See Stevens, ii. 497.

† I never approved of that binding Minute. I did not think it practical expediency to obey Mr. Wesley three thousand miles distance in all matters relative to Church government. For this Mr. Wesley blamed me.—Asbury.

† "The land."—Ibid.

[The Stewards will frequently oppose this, lest they lose their usual collection. But this is not a sufficient reason against it. Shall we barter souls for money?]

Quest. 10. (9.) Places where the Spirit is poured out. ¶ 139.

Quest. 11. (10.) Strangers in class. See section on Class Meetings.

Quest. 12. Strangers at love-feast, which see.

Quest. 13. (11.) Class Leaders. ¶ 45.

Quest. 14. (12.) Classes.

Quest. 15. (13.) Pastoral Visiting. ¶ 140. The omitted part of the Large Minutes is here given:

[And we have many difficulties to grapple with in our people.

1. Too many of them will be unwilling to be taught till we conquer their perverseness by the force of reason and the power of love.

2. And many are so dull that they will shun being taught for fear of showing their dullness. And indeed you will find it extremely hard to make them understand the very plainest points.

3. And it is still harder to fix things on their hearts, without which all our labor is lost. If you have not, therefore, great seriousness and fervency, what good can you expect? And, after all, it is grace alone that must do the work.

4. And when we have made some impressions on their hearts, if we look not after them, they will soon die away.

But as great as this labor of private instruction is, it is absolutely necessary. For, after all our preaching, many of our people are almost as ignorant as if they had never heard the Gospel. I speak as plain as I can, yet I frequently meet with those who have been my hearers for many years who know not whether Christ be God or man. And how few are there that know the nature of repentance, faith, and holiness! Most of them have a sort of confidence that God will save them, while the world has their hearts. I have found by experience that one of these has learned more from one hour's close discourse than from ten years' public preaching.]

[I allow, in some of the country Circuits, where you have only a day to spend in each place, you have not time for this excellent work; but you have wherever you spend several days together in one town.]

[Give the children the 'Instructions for Children,' and encourage them to get them by heart. Indeed, you will find it no easy matter to teach the ignorant the principles of religion. So true is the remark of Archbishop Usher: 'Great scholars may think this work beneath them. But they should consider the laying the foundation skillfully, as it is of the greatest importance, so it is the masterpiece of the wisest builder. And let the wisest of us all try, whenever we please, we shall find that to lay this groundwork rightly, to make the ignorant understand the grounds of religion, will put us to the trial of all our skill.'

Perhaps in doing this it may be well, 1. After a few loving words spoken to all in the house to take each person singly into another room, where you may deal closely with him about his sin, and misery, and duty. Set these home or you lose all your labor. (At least let none be present but those who are familiar with each other.)

2. Hear what the children have learned by heart.

3. Choose some of the weightiest points, and try if they understand them. As, 'Do you believe you have sin in you? What does sin deserve? What remedy has God provided for guilty, helpless sinners?'

4. Often with the question suggest the answer. As, 'What is repenitance? Sorrow for sin, or a conviction that we are guilty, helpless sinners.' 'What is faith? A divine conviction of things not seen.'

5. Where you perceive they do not understand the stress of your question, lead them into it by other questions. For instance, you ask, 'How do you think your sins will be pardoned?' They answer, 'By repenting and amending my life.' You ask further, 'But will your amendment make satisfaction for your past sins?' They will answer, 'I hope so, or I know not what will.' One would think these had no knowledge of Christ at all. And some have not, but others have, and give such answers only because they do not understand the scope of the question. Ask them farther, 'Can you be saved without the death of Christ?' They immediately say, 'No.' And if you ask, 'What has he suffered for you?' they will say, 'He shed his blood for us.' But many cannot express even what they have some conception of; no, not even when expressions are put into their mouths. With these you are to deal exceeding tenderly lest they be discouraged.

6. If you perceive them troubled, that they cannot answer, step in yourself and take the burden off them, answering the question yourself. And do it thoroughly and plainly, making a full explication of the whole business to them.

7. When you have tried their knowledge proceed to instruct them according to their several capacities. If a man understand the fundamentals, speak what you perceive he most needs, either explaining further some doctrines or some duty, or showing him the necessity of something which he neglects. If he still understands not, go over it again till he does.

8. Next inquire into his state, whether convinced or unconvinced, converted or unconverted. Tell him, if need be, what conversion is, and then renew and enforce the inquiry.

9. If unconverted, labor with all your power to bring his heart to a sense of his condition. Set this home with a more earnest voice than you spoke before. Get to the heart or you do nothing.

10. Conclude all with a strong exhortation, which should enforce, 1. The duty of the heart, in order to receive Christ; 2. The avoiding former sins, and constantly using the outward means. And be sure, if you can, to get their promise to forsake sin, change their company, and use the means. And do this solemnly, reminding them of the presence of God, who hears their promises and expects the performance.

11. Before you leave them engage the head of each family to call all his family together every Sunday before they go to bed, and hear what they can repeat, and so continue till they have learned the 'Instructions' perfectly, and afterward let him take care that they do not forget what they have learned.]

Quest. 16. (14.) On receiving Church Members. Discipline, ¶ 36. They omit "See that this be never neglected," referring to reading the Rules.

Quest. 17. (15.) Same.

Quest. 18. (16.) Dress. See Discipline.

Quest. 19. Bands, which see.

The following was omitted 1784:

[Observe! You give none a band ticket before he meets, but after he has met.

Quest. (17.) Have those in band left off snuff and drams?

Ans. No. Many are still enslaved to one or the other. In order to redress this, 1. Let no Preacher touch either on any account; 2. Strongly dissuade our people from them; 3. Answer their pretenses, particularly curing the colic.]

Quest. 20. (18.) Marriage. See Discipline.

Quest. 21. (19.) Same. See Discipline.

Quest. 33. (26.) Rules of a Helper. ¶ 106.

Quest. 34. Will it be expedient to appoint some of our Helpers to read the morning and evening service out of our Liturgy on the Lord's day?

Ans. It will. And every Helper who receives a written direction under the hand of a Superintendent may regularly read the morning and evening service on the Lord's day.*

Quest. 35. Those who desist from traveling. Inserted in section on Presiding Elders. ¶ 182.

Quest. 36. Mode of receiving Preachers.

Quest. 37-40. Salary. May be found in the section on 'Allowance.'

Quest. 41-43. Slavery. See section on Slavery.

Quest. 44. The Lord's Supper. See Discipline and this history.

Quest. 45, 46. Baptism.

Quest. 47. Lord's Supper.

Quest. 48. Fees for Baptism forbidden.

The following from "the Large Minutes" was here omitted:

"[Quest. (27.) What power is this which you exercise over both the Preachers and the Societies?]

Ans. Count Zinzendorf loved to keep all things close. I love to do all things openly. I will therefore tell you all I know of the matter, taking it from the beginning.

1. In November, 1738, two or three persons who desired to 'flee from the wrath to come,' and then a few more, came to me in London, and desired me to advise and pray with them. I said, 'If you will meet me on Thursday night I will help you as well as I can.' More and more then desired to meet with them, till they were increased to many hundreds. The case was afterward the same at Bristol, Kingswood, New-

*This question and answer were inserted in the section on "Receiving Preachers," etc. In 1758 they were so modified as to read: "Quest. 3. Are the Preachers to read the Liturgy? Ans. All that have received a written direction for that purpose under the hand of a Bishop or Elder may read the Liturgy as often as they think it expedient." The whole was omitted in 1792.

castle, and many other parts of England, Scotland, and Ireland. It may be observed the desire was on their part, not mine. My desire was to live and die in retirement. But I did not see that I could refuse them my help, and be guiltless before God.

Here commenced my power, namely: a power to appoint when and where and how they should meet, and to remove those whose lives showed that they had not a desire 'to flee from the wrath to come.' And this power remained the same, whether the people meeting together were twelve or twelve hundred or twelve thousand.

2. In a few days some of them said, 'Sir, we will not sit under you for nothing; we will subscribe quarterly.' I said, 'I will have nothing, for I want nothing. My fellowship supplies me with all I want.' One replied, 'Nay, but you want a hundred and fifteen pounds to pay for the lease of the Foundry, and likewise a large sum of money to put it into repair.' On this consideration I suffered them to subscribe. And when the Society met I asked, 'Who will take the trouble of receiving this money, and paying it where it is needful?' One said, 'I will do it, and keep the account for you.' So here was the first Steward. Afterward I desired one or two more to help me, as Stewards, and, in process of time, a greater number.

Let it be remarked it was I myself, not the people, who chose these Stewards, and appointed to each the distinct work wherein he was to help me as long as I desired. And herein I began to exercise another sort of power, namely, that of appointing and removing Stewards.

3. After a time a young man, named Thomas Maxfield, came and desired to help me as a son in the Gospel. Soon after came a second, Thomas Richards; and then a third, Thomas Westell. These severally desired to serve me as sons, and to labor when and where I should direct. Observe, these likewise desired me, not I them. But I durst not refuse their assistance. And here commenced my power to appoint each of these when, and where, and how to labor; that is, while he chose to continue with me, for each had a power to go away when he pleased, as I had also to go away from them or any of them if I saw sufficient cause. The case continued the same when the number of Preachers increased. I had just the same power still to appoint when, and where, and how each should help me, and to tell any (if I saw cause), 'I do not desire your help any longer.' On these terms, and no other, we joined at first; on these we continue joined. But they do me no favor in being directed by me. It is true, my 'reward is with the Lord;' but at present I have nothing from it but trouble and care, and often a burden I scarce know how to bear.

4. In 1744 I wrote to several clergymen, and to all who then served me as sons in the Gospel, desiring them to meet me in London, and to give me their advice concerning the best method of carrying on the work of God. And when their number increased so that it was not convenient to invite them all, for several years I wrote to those with whom I desired to confer, and they only met me at London or elsewhere, till at length I gave a general permission, which I afterward saw cause to retract.

Observe, I myself sent for these of my own free choice, and I sent for them to advise, not govern me. Neither did I at any time divest myself of any part of the power above described, which the providence of God had cast upon me without any design or choice of mine.

5. What is that power? It is a power of admitting into and excluding from the Societies under my care; of choosing and removing Stewards; of receiving or not receiving Helpers; of appointing them when, where, and how to help me; and of desiring any of them to confer with me when I see good. And as it was merely in obedience to the providence of God, and for the good of the people, that I at first accepted this power, which I never sought; so it is on the same consideration, not for profit, honor, or pleasure, that I use it at this day.

6. But 'several gentlemen are offended at your having so much power.' I did not seek any part of it. But when it was come unawares, not daring to 'bury that talent,' I used it to the best of my judgment. Yet I never was fond of it. I always did, and do now, bear it as my burden—the burden which God lays upon me, and therefore I dare not lay it down.

But if you can tell me any one, or any five men, to whom I may transfer this burden, who can and will do just what I do now, I will heartily thank both them and you.

7. But some of our Helpers say, 'This is shackling freeborn Englishmen;' and demand a free Conference, that is, a meeting of all the Preachers, wherein all things shall be determined by most votes. I answer, It is possible after my death something of this kind may take place, but not while I live. To me the Preachers have engaged themselves to submit, to serve me as sons in the Gospel; but they are not thus engaged to any man or number of men besides. To me the people in general will submit, but they will not thus submit to any other.

It is nonsense, then, to call my using this power 'shackling freeborn Englishmen.' None needs to submit to it unless he will, so that there is no shackling in the case. Every Preacher and every member may leave me when he pleases; but while he chooses to stay, it is on the same terms that he joined me at first.

'But this is making yourself a Pope.' This carries no face of truth. The Pope affirms that every Christian must do all he bids, and believe all he says, under pain of damnation. I never affirmed any thing that bears any the most distant resemblance to this. All I affirm is, the Preachers who choose to labor with me choose to serve me as sons in the Gospel, and the people who choose to be under my care choose to be so on the same terms they were at first.

Therefore all talk of this kind is highly injurious to me, who bear the burden merely for your sake. And it is exceedingly mischievous to the people, tending to confound their understanding, and to fill their hearts with evil surmisings and unkind tempers toward me; to whom they really owe more for taking all this load upon me, for exercising this very power, for shackling myself in this manner, than for all my preaching put together; because preaching twice or thrice a day is no burden to me at all; but the care of all the Preachers and all the people is a burden indeed!

Quest. (28.) What reason can be assigned why so many of our Preachers contract nervous disorders?

Ans. The chief reason, on Dr. Cadogan's principles, is either indolence or intemperance. 1. Indolence. Several of them use too little exercise, far less than when they wrought at their trade, and this will naturally pave the way for many, especially nervous, disorders. 2. Intemperance, though not in the vulgar sense. They take more food than they did when they labored more; and let any man of reflection judge how long this will consist with health. Or they use more sleep than when they labored more; and this alone will destroy the firmness of the nerves. If, then, our Preachers would avoid nervous disorders, let them, 1. Take as little meat, drink, and sleep as nature will bear; and, 2. Use full as much exercise daily as they did before they were Preachers.]

Quest. 49, 50. (30,) (31.) Method of employing time. Large Minutes. ¶ 129.

Quest. 51. (32.) But why are we not more knowing?

Ans. Because we are idle. We forget our very first rule, 'Be diligent. Never be unemployed [a moment]. Never be triflingly employed. Never while away time; neither spend any more time at any place than is strictly necessary.'

I fear there is altogether a fault in this matter, and that few of us are clear. Which of you spends as many hours a day in God's work as you did formerly in man's work? We talk, or read history, or what comes next to hand. We must, absolutely must, cure this evil, or betray the cause of God.

But how? 1. Read the most useful books, and that regularly and constantly. Steadily spend all the morning in this employ, or at least five hours in four and twenty.

['But I read only the Bible.' Then you ought to teach others to read only the Bible, and, by parity of reason, to hear only the Bible; but if so, you need preach no more. Just so said George Bell. And what is the fruit? Why, now he neither reads the Bible, nor any thing else. This is rank enthusiasm. If you need no book but the Bible, you are got above St. Paul. He wanted others too. 'Bring the books,' says he, 'but especially the parchments,' those wrote on parchment.]

'But I have no taste for reading.' Contract a taste for it by use, or return to your trade.

'But I have no books.' [I will give each of you, as fast as you will read them, books to the value of five pounds]. And *we desire the Assistants will† take care that all the large Societies provide Mr. Wesley's‡ Works [or at least the Notes] for the use of the Preachers.

2. In the afternoon follow Mr. Baxter's plan. Then you will have no time to spare; you will have work enough for all your time. Then, likewise, no Preacher will stay with us who is as salt that has lost its savor. For to such this employment would be mere drudgery. And in order to it you will have need of all the knowledge you [have or] can procure.

The sum is, Go into every house in course and teach every one therein, young and old, if they belong to us, to be Christians inwardly and outwardly.

Make every particular plain to their understanding; fix it in their memory; write it on their heart. In order to this there must be 'line upon line, precept upon precept.' What patience, what love, what knowledge is requisite for this!

[Quest. (33.) In what particular method should we instruct them?

Ans. You may, as you have time, read, explain, enforce, 1. 'The Rules of the Society.' 2. 'Instructions for Children.' 3. The fourth volume of 'Sermons.' And, 4. Philip Henry's 'Method of Family Prayer.']

We must needs do this, were it only to avoid idleness. Do we not loiter away many hours in every week? Each try himself. No idleness *is consistent with growth in grace. Nay, without exactness in redeeming time you cannot retain the grace you received in justification.

But what shall we do for the rising generation? [Unless we take care of this the present revival will be res unius atatis; it will last only the age of a man.] Who will labor for them? † Let him who is zealous for God and the souls of men begin now.

1. Where there are ten children, whose parents are in Society, ‡ meet them at least an hour every week.

2. Talk with them every time you see any at home.

3. Pray in earnest for them.

4. Diligently instruct and vehemently exhort all parents at their own houses.

5. Preach expressly on education [particularly at midsummer, when you speak of Kingswood]. 'But I have no gift for this.' Gift or no gift, you are to do it, else you are not called to be a Methodist Preacher. Do it as you can till you can do it as you would. Pray earnestly for the gift, and use the means for it. [Particularly study the 'Instructions' and 'Lessons for Children.']

Ans. 1 will be found in ¶ 131; Ans. 2 in ¶ 140, and the last part in the section on 'Instruction of Children.'

Quest. 52. (34.) Pastoral work, Large Minutes. See Discipline, ¶ 142.

Quest. 53. (35.) But how can I fast, since it hurts my health?

Ans. There are several degrees of fasting which cannot hurt your health. We § will instance in one: Let us || every Friday (beginning on the next) avow this duty throughout the continent, ¶ by touching no tea, coffee, or chocolate in the morning; but (if we want it) half a pint of milk or water gruel. Let us dine on vegetables, and (if we need it) eat three or four ounces of flesh in the evening. At other times let us eat no flesh suppers; these exceedingly tend to breed nervous disorders. peel. All spirituous liquors, at that time especially, are deadly poison.]

[Is not this formality creeping in already by those complex tunes, which it is scarcely possible to sing with devotion? Such is, 'Praise the Lord, ye blessed ones:' such the long quavering halleluia annexed to the morning song tune, which I defy any man living to sing devoutly. The repeating the same words so often (but especially while another repeats different words, the horrid abuse which runs through the modern Church music), as it shoeks all common sense, so it necessarily brings in dead formality, and has no more of religion in it than a Lancashire hornpipe. Besides, it is a flat contradiction to our Lord's command, 'Use not vain repetitions.' For what is a vain repetition if this is not? What end of devotion does it serve? Sing no anthems.]

Quest. 58. (40.) Definition of "Assistant." See Preacher in Charge.

Quest. 59. (41.) How should an Assistant be qualified for his charge?

Ans. By walking closely with God, and having his work greatly at heart; and by understanding and loving Discipline, ours in particular;

[And by loving the Church of England, and resolving not to separate from it. Let this be well observed. I fear when the Methodists leave the Church God will leave them. But if they are thrust out of it, they will be guiltless].* ¶ 116.

Quest. 60. (42.) Duty of Assistant or Preacher in Charge. Large Minutes. Discipline, ¶ 175.

The following question and answer of the Minutes was not inserted in the Discipline:

Quest. (43.) Has the office of an Assistant been well executed?

Ans. No, not by half the Assistants. 1. Who has sent me word whether the other Preachers behave well or ill? 2. Who has visited all the classes, and regulated the bands quarterly? 3. Love-feasts for the bands have been neglected; neither have persons been duly taken in and put out of the bands. 4. The Societies are not half supplied with books, not even with those above mentioned. O exert yourselves in this! Be not weary! Leave no stone unturned! 5. How few accounts have I had either of remarkable deaths or remarkable conversions! 6. How few exact lists of the Societies! 7. How few have met the married and single persons once a quarter!]

Quest. 61. (44.) Other Duties of Preachers in Charge.

The following parts of the Minutes were not inserted in the Discipline of 1784:

[9.) Exhort all that were brought up in the Church to continue therein. Set the example yourself, and immediately change every plan that would hinder their being at church at least two Sundays in four. Carefully avoid whatever has a tendency to separate men from the

* "This passage is found in the original Minutes for 1749. The fact that it was continued in an edition of the Large Minutes, which was revised four years after the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church, affords conclusive evidence that Mr. Wesley did not consider that the Methodists in America had separated from or left the Church of England, but that the connection between them was provisionally dissolved."—Emory.

Church, and let all the servants in our preaching-houses go to church once on Sunday at least.

Is there not a cause? Are we not unawares, by little and little, sliding into a separation from the Church? O use every means to prevent this! 1. Exhort all our people to keep close to the Church and sacrament. 2. Warn them all against niceness in hearing—a prevailing evil. 3. Warn them also against despising the prayers of the Church. 4. Against calling our Society ‘the Church.’ 5. Against calling our Preachers ‘Ministers,’ our houses ‘meeting-houses;’ call them plain preaching-houses or chapels. 6. Do not license them as dissenters. The proper paper to be sent in at the assizes, sessions, or Bishop’s court is this: ‘A. B. has set apart his house in C. for public worship, of which he desires a certificate.’ N. B.—The justice does not license the house, but the act of Parliament. 7. Do not license yourself till you are constrained, and then not as a dissenter, but a Methodist. It is time enough when you are prosecuted to take the oaths. And by so doing you are licensed.

Quest. (45.) But are we not dissenters?

Ans. No. Although we call sinners to repentance in all places of God’s dominion, and although we frequently use extemporary prayer, and unite together in a religious Society, yet we are not dissenters in the only sense which our law acknowledges, namely, those who renounce the service of the Church. We do not, we dare not separate from it. We are not seceders, nor do we bear any resemblance to them. We set out upon quite opposite principles. The seceders laid the very foundation of their work in judging and condemning others; we laid the foundation of our work in judging and condemning ourselves. They begin every-where with showing their hearers how fallen the Church and ministers are; we begin every-where with showing our hearers how fallen they are themselves. What they do in America, or what their Minutes say on this subject, is nothing to us.* We will keep in the good old way.

And never let us make light of going to church either by word or deed. Remember Mr. Hook, a very eminent and a zealous Papist. When I asked him, ‘Sir, what do you do for public worship here, where you have no Romish service?’ he answered, ‘Sir, I am so fully convinced it is the duty of every man to worship God in public that I go to church every Sunday. If I cannot have such worship as I would, I will have such worship as I can.’

But some may say, ‘Our own service is public worship.’ Yes, but not such as supersedes the Church service; it presupposes public prayer, like the sermons at the University. If it were designed to be instead of the Church service it would be essentially defective, for it seldom has the four grand parts of public prayer, deprecation, petition, intercession, and thanksgiving.

If the people put ours in the room of the Church service we hurt them that stay with us, and ruin them that leave us, for then they will go nowhere, but lounge the Sabbath away without any public worship at all.

Quest. (46.) Nay, but is it not our duty to separate from the Church, considering the wickedness both of the clergy and the people?

Ans. We conceive not, 1. Because both the priests and the people were full as wicked in the Jewish Church, and yet it was not the duty of the holy Israelites to separate from them. 2. Neither did our Lord

* This sentence was obviously introduced into the Large Minutes subsequently to 1784, and seems to refer to the Minutes or Discipline of 1787, in which very strong language was used with reference to the condition of the Church of England. (See below, Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church. ¶ 1.)

command his disciples to separate from them; he rather commanded the contrary. 3. Hence it is clear that could not be the meaning of St. Paul's words: 'Come out from among them, and be ye separate.'

Quest. (47.) But what reasons are there why we should not separate from the Church?

Ans. Among others, those which were printed above twenty years ago, entitled, 'Reasons Against a Separation from the Church of England.'

We allow two exceptions: 1. If the parish Minister be a notoriously wicked man. 2. If he preach Socinianism, Arianism, or any other essentially false doctrine.]

Quest. 64. If there happen to be a vacancy in a Circuit by the death of a Preacher, by his withdrawing himself from the work, or otherwise, in the absence of a Superintendent, who are to fill up the vacancy?

Ans. Three neighboring assistants, called and assembled according to the preceding minute. Omitted 1786.

Quest. 70. (52.) Conferences.

Quest. 71. Supply of Circuits during Conference. Discipline, ¶ 190.

Quest. 72. (53.) Support of Superannuated Preachers. Discipline, ¶ 293, and before it.

The Large Minutes has the following:

[Those who can preach four or five times a week are supernumerary Preachers. As for those who cannot.]

[The present Stewards are John Murlin and John Pawson.]

[(11.) Let every Preacher who does not bring or send his subscription to the Conference be fined two shillings and sixpence.]

[13. Let a committee be named to see these rules duly executed. The present committee are Christopher Hopper, Thomas Coke, Thomas Hanby, John Allen, Robert Roberts, Henry Moore, Thomas Taylor, William Thompson, Andrew Blair.

(14.) Let an exact account of all receipts and disbursements be produced at the Conference.]

[Quest. (54.) Are not many of the Preachers' wives still straitened for the necessaries of life?

Ans. Some certainly have been. To prevent this for the time to come, 1. Let every Circuit either provide each with a lodging, coals, and candles, or allow her fifteen pounds a year. 2. Let the Assistant take this money at the Quarterly Meeting before any thing else be paid out of it. Fail not to do this.

Quest. (55.) How can we account for the decrease of the work of God in some Circuits, both this year and the last.

Ans. It may be owing either, 1. To the want of zeal and exactness in the Assistant, occasioning want of discipline throughout; or, 2. To want of life and diligence in the Preachers; or, 3. To our people's losing the life of God, and sinking into the spirit of the world.

It may be owing further to the want of more field preaching, and of trying more new places.]

Quest. 73. (56.) What can be done in order to revive the work of God where it is decayed?

Ans. [1. Let every Preacher read carefully over the 'Life of David Brainerd.' Let us be followers of him, as he was of Christ, in absolute self-devotion, in total deadness to the world, and in fervent love to God and man. Let us but secure this point, and the world and the devil must fall under our feet.]

1. (2.) Let both Assistants and Preachers be conscientiously exact in the whole Methodist Discipline.

2. (3.) See that no Circuit be at any time without Preachers. Therefore let no Preacher who does not attend the Conference leave the Circuit at that time on any pretense whatever. This is the most improper time in the whole year. Let every Assistant see to this, and require each of these to remain in the Circuit till the new Preachers come.

Let not all the Preachers in any Circuit come to the Conference.

Let those who do come set out as late and return as soon as possible.

3. (4.) Wherever you can, appoint prayer-meetings, and particularly on Friday.

4. (5.) Let a fast be published at every Quarterly Meeting for the Friday following, and let a memorandum of it be written on all the class papers.*

* "Observed in all our Societies the last Friday in August, November, February, and May."—Large Minutes.

5. (6.) Be [more] active in dispersing *Mr. Wesley's books, [particularly the sermon on 'The Good Steward,' on 'Indwelling sin,' 'The Repentance of Believers,' and 'The Scripture Way of Salvation']. Every Assistant [may give away small tracts, and he] may beg money of the rich to buy books for the poor.

6. (7.) † Strongly and explicitly exhort all believers to 'go on to perfection.' That we may 'all speak the same thing,' we ‡ ask, once for all, Shall we defend this perfection, or give it up? We § all agree to defend it, meaning thereby (as we did from the beginning) salvation from all sin, by the love of God and man filling our heart. The Papists say, 'This cannot be attained till we have been refined by the fire of purgatory.' The Calvinists say, 'Nay, it will be attained as soon as the soul and body part.' The old Methodists say, 'It may be attained before we die; a moment after is too late.' Is it so or not? We || are all agreed we may be saved from all sin before death. The substance then is settled; but as to the circumstance, is the change gradual or instantaneous? It is both the one and the other.

[From the moment we are justified there may be a gradual sanctification, a growing in grace, a daily advance in the knowledge and love of God. And if sin cease before death, there must, in the nature of the thing, be an instantaneous change; there must be a last moment wherein it does exist, and a first moment wherein it does not.]

'But should we in preaching insist both on one and the other? Certainly we must insist on the gradual change, and that earnestly and continually. And are there not reasons why we should insist on the instantaneous also? If there be such a blessed change before death, should we not encourage all believers to expect it? and the rather, because constant experience shows the more earnestly they expect this the more swiftly and steadily does the gradual work of God go on in their souls, the more watchful they are against all sin, the more careful to grow in grace, the more zealous of good works, and the more punctual in their attendance on all the ordinances of God. Whereas, just the contrary effects are observed whenever this expectation ceases. They are 'saved by hope,' by this hope of a total change, with a gradually increasing salvation. Destroy this hope, and that salvation stands still, or rather decreases daily. Therefore whoever would advance the gradual change in believers should strongly insist on the instantaneous.

[Quest. (57.) What can be done to increase the work of God in Scotland?

Ans. 1. Preach abroad as much as possible. 2. Try every town and village. 3. Visit every member of the Society at home.

[Quest. (58.) How many Circuits are there now?

Ans. Of America we have no late account. There are seventy-four Circuits in England, Wales, and the Isle of Man; seven in Scotland, and twenty-eight in Ireland.

[Quest. (59.) Are our preaching-houses safe?

Ans. Not all, for some of them are not settled on Trustees. Several of the Trustees for others are dead.

[Quest. (60.) What then is to be done?

Ans. 1. Let those who have debts on any of the houses give a bond to settle them as soon as they are indemnified. 2. Let the surviving Trustees choose others without delay by indorsing their deed thus:

‘We, the remaining Trustees of the Methodist preaching-house in —, do, according to the power vested in us by this deed, choose—to be Trustees of the said house in the place of—.

‘Witness our hands—.’

N. B.—The deed must have three new stamps, and must be enrolled in chancery within six months.

[Quest. (61.) In what form may a house be settled?

Ans. In the following, which was drawn by three of the most eminent lawyers in London. Whoever therefore objects to it only betrays his own ignorance.

‘The Indenture made——, between Benjamin Heap, of——, in the county of——, on the one part, and Thomas Philips, hatter, etc., on the other part, WITNESSETH, That in consideration of five shillings, lawful money of Great Britain, by the said T. P., etc., to the said B. H., truly paid, before the sealing and delivering hereof (the receipt whereof the said B. H. doth hereby acknowledge), and for divers other considerations him hereunto moving, the said B. H. hath granted, bargained, and sold, and by these presents doth bargain and sell unto the said T. P., etc., their heirs and assigns forever, all that lately erected house or tenement, with the yard thereunto adjoining, situate——, in ——, aforesaid, now in the tenure or occupation of——, together with all the ways, drains, and privileges to the said premises appertaining, and all the profits thereof, with all the right, title, and interest in law and equity: To HAVE AND TO HOLD the said house, yard, and other premises, to the said T. P., etc., their heirs and assigns forever. NEVER-THELESS, upon special trust and confidence, and to the intent that they and the survivors of them, and the Trustees for the time being, do, and shall permit John Wesley, of the City Road, London, clerk, and such other persons as he shall from time to time appoint, at all times, during his natural life, and no other persons, to have and enjoy the free use and benefit of the said premises; that the said John Wesley, and such other persons as he appoints, may therein preach and expound God’s holy word. And after his decease, upon further trust and confidence, and to the intent, that the said T. P., etc., or the major part of them, or the survivors of them, and the major part of the Trustees of the said premises for the time being, shall, from time to time and at all times forever, permit such persons as shall be appointed at the yearly Conference of the people called Methodists, in London, Bristol, Leeds, Manchester, or elsewhere, specified by name in a deed enrolled in chancery, under the hand and seal of the said John Wesley, and bearing date the 28th day of February, 1784, and no others, to have and to enjoy the said premises, for the purposes aforesaid: provided always that the persons preach no other doctrine than is contained in Mr. Wesley's 'Notes Upon the New Testament,' and four volumes of 'Sermons.' And upon further trust and confidence, that, as often as any of these Trustees, or the Trustees for the time being, shall die, or cease to be a member of the Society commonly called Methodists, the rest of the said Trustees, or of the Trustees for the time being, as soon as conveniently may be, shall and may choose another Trustee or Trustees, in order to keep up the number of—Trustees forever. In witness whereof the said B. H. hath hereunto set his hand and seal, the day and year above written.'

In this form the proprietors of the house are to make it over to five, seven, or nine Trustees.

Quest. (62.) But is this form a safe one? Should we not have the opinion of counsel upon it?

Ans. I think this would be throwing money away, 1. Because this form was drawn up by three eminent counselors. But, 2. It is the way of almost every lawyer to blame what another has done; therefore you cannot at all infer that they think a thing wrong because they say so. 3. If they did in reality think it wrong, this would not prove it was so. 4. If there was (which I do not believe) some defect therein, who would go to law with the body of Methodists? But, 5. If they did, would any court in England put them out of possession, especially when the intent of the deed was plain and undeniable?

Quest. 74. (63.) Is any thing [further] advisable with regard to building?

Ans. [1. Build all preaching-houses, where the ground will permit, in the octagon form. It is best for the voice, and on many accounts more commodious than any other. 2. Why should not any octagon house be built after the model of Yarm? Any square house after the model of Bath or Scarborough? Can we find any better model? 3. Let the roof rise only one third of its breadth; this is the true proportion. 4. Have doors and windows enough, and let all the windows be sashes, opening downward. 5. Let there be no Chinese paling, and no tub pulpit, but a square projection with a long seat behind. 6. Let there be no pews, and no backs to the seats, which should have aisles on each side, and be parted in the middle by a rail running all along, to divide the men from the women, just as at Bath.]

(7.) Let all *our chapels be built plain and decent, but not more expensive than is absolutely unavoidable, otherwise the necessity of raising money will make rich men necessary to us. But if so, we must be dependent upon them, yea, and governed by them, and then farewell to the Methodist Discipline, if not doctrine too.

[(8.) Wherever a preaching-house is built, see that lodgings for the Preachers be built also.]

Quest. 75. (64.) Is there any exception to the rule, 'Let the men and women sit apart?'

Ans. There is no exception. Let them sit apart in all our chapels.* 75, 76, see section on building churches.

[Quest. (65.) But how can we secure their sitting apart there?

Ans. I must do it myself. If I come into any new house, and see the men and women together, I will immediately go out. I hereby give public notice of this; pray let it be observed.]

Quest. 76. (66.) But is there not a worse indecency than this [creeping in among us]—talking in the chapels † before and after service? How shall this be cured?

Ans. Let all the Ministers and Preachers join as one man, and [the very next Sunday they preach in any place] enlarge on the impropriety of talking before and after service, and strongly exhort them to do it no more. In three months, if we are in earnest, this vile practice will be banished out of every Methodist congregation. Let none stop till he has carried his point.

[Quest. (67.) Is there not another shocking indecency frequently practiced by filthy men against the wall of a preaching-house, enough to make any modest woman blush?

Ans. There is; but I beg any one who sees another do this will give him a hearty clap on the back.

Quest. (68.) Complaint has been made that sluts spoil our houses. How may we prevent this?

Ans. Let none that has spoiled one ever live in another. But what a shame is this! A Preacher's wife should be a pattern of cleanliness in her person, clothes, and habitation. Let nothing slatternly be seen about her: no rags, no dirt, no litter. And she should be a pattern of industry; always at work, either for herself, her husband, or the poor. I am not willing any should live in the orphan-house at Newcastle, or any preaching-house, who does not conform to this rule.

Quest. 77. (73.) Raising Supplies. See Discipline, ¶ 294.

The following additional items are found in the Large Minutes:

[(3.) Let then every member of our Society once a year set his shoulder to the work, contributing more or less, as God hath prospered him, at the Lady-day visitation of the classes. Let none be excluded from giving something, be it a penny, a halfpenny, a farthing. Remember the widow's two mites! And let those who are able to give shillings, crowns, and pounds, do it willingly.]

[In this may not even the Romanists provoke us to jealousy? They have a general fund at Rome, and another at Paris, which bears all the expenses of their missionaries throughout the world.]

Quest. 78. What shall be done toward erecting new chapels and discharging the debts on those already built?

Ans. Let every Assistant raise a yearly subscription through his Circuit; and let every member, who is not supported by charity, give something. Let them subscribe the first quarter and pay the second. And let the money be applied where it is most wanted by a committee of lay members annually appointed by the Assistant, one of whom shall be chosen out of each society concerned. Omitted 1787.

Quest. 79. Financial Duty of the Assistant. See the section on Stewards.

The following additional items are found in the Large Minutes:

[Quest. (74.) What is the direct antidote to Methodism, the doctrine of heart holiness?

Ans. Calvinism: all the devices of Satan for these fifty years have done far less toward stopping this work of God than that single doctrine. It strikes at the root of salvation from sin previous to glory, putting the matter on quite another issue.

Quest. (75.) But wherein lie the charms of this doctrine? What makes men swallow it so greedily?

Ans. 1. It seems to magnify Christ, although in reality it supposes him to have died in vain, for the absolutely elect must have been saved without him, and the non-elect cannot be saved by him.

2. It is highly pleasing to flesh and blood, final perseverance in particular.]

Quest. 80. (76.) What can be done to guard against Antinomianism?*

Ans. 1. Let all our Preachers carefully read over Mr. Wesley's † and Mr. Fletcher's tracts.

2. Let them frequently and explicitly preach the truth, though not in a controversial way; but let them take care to do it in love and gentleness, not in bitterness, not returning railing for railing.

[Let those who preach it have all this to themselves.

3. Do not imitate them in screaming, allegorizing, boasting; rather mildly expose these things when time serves.

4. Imitate them in this: they readily seize upon any one that is newly convinced or converted. Be diligent to prevent them, and to guard those tender minds against the predestinarian poison.]

*"It."—Large Minutes.

3. (5.) Answer all the objections of our people,* as occasion offers [both in public and private]. But take care to do this with all possible sweetness both of look and of accent.

[(6.) Very frequently, both in public and private, advise our people not to hear them.]

(7.) Make it a matter of constant and earnest prayer that God would stop the plague.]

Quest. 81. (77.) Wherein lies our danger of it? †

Ans. 1. With regard to man's faithfulness. Our Lord himself taught us to use the expression, therefore we ought never to be ashamed of it. We ought steadily to assert upon his authority that if a man is not 'faithful in the unrighteous mammon God will not give him the true riches.'

2. With regard to 'working for life,' which our Lord expressly commands us to do. 'Labor,' εργαζεσθε, literally, 'work for the meat that endureth to everlasting life.' And in fact, every believer, till he comes to glory, works for as well as from life.

3. We have received it as a maxim that 'a man is to do nothing in order to justification.' Nothing can be more false. Whoever desires to find favor with God should 'cease from evil, and learn to do well.' So God himself teaches by the prophet Isaiah. Who ever repents should 'do works meet for repentance.' And if this is not in order to find favor, what does he do them for?

Once more review the whole affair:

1. Who of us is now accepted of God?

He that now believes in Christ with a loving, obedient heart.

2. But who among those that never heard of Christ?

He that, according to the light he has, 'feareth God and worketh righteousness.'

3. Is this the same with 'he that is sincere?'

Nearly, if not quite.

4. Is not this salvation by works?

Not by the merit of works, but by works as a condition.

[(5.) What have we then been disputing about for these thirty years?

I am afraid about words, namely, in some of the foregoing instances.

(6.) As to merit itself, of which we have been so dreadfully afraid, we are awarded according to our works, yea, because of our works. How does this differ from 'for the sake of our works?' And how differs this from secundum merita operum? which is no more than 'as our works deserve?' Can you split this hair? I doubt I cannot.]

* "Their objections."—Large Minutes.

† Quest. (71.) "We said in 1744, 'We have leaned too much toward Calvinism. Wherein?'"—Ibid.

5. (7.) The grand objection to one of the preceding propositions is drawn from matter of fact. God does in fact justify those who, by their own confession, neither 'feared God' nor 'wrought righteousness.' Is this an exception to the general rule?

It is a doubt whether God makes any exception at all. But how are we sure that the person in question never did fear God and work righteousness? His own thinking so is no proof, for we know how all that are convinced of sin undervalue themselves in every respect.

6. (8.) Does not talking, without proper caution, of a justified or sanctified state tend to mislead men, almost naturally leading them to trust in what was done in one moment? Whereas we are every moment pleasing or displeasing to God, according to our works, according to the whole of our present inward tempers and outward behavior."*

CHAPTER IV.

THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE DISCIPLINE AS SEEN IN THE TABLES OF CONTENTS IN THE VARIOUS EDITIONS.

THE first Discipline, as we have seen, consisted of a series of questions and answers without any attempt at arrangement according to the subjects treated. To the methodical mind of Asbury this was a defect so grave that he at once began to devise a remedy. In the year 1785, while confined by a swollen foot at James City, Virginia, he writes under date of November 27: "For some time past I had not been quite satisfied with the order and arrangement of our form of Discipline; and, persuaded that it might be improved without difficulty, and we accordingly set about it, and during my confinement in James City completed the work, arranging the subject-matter thereof under their proper heads, divisions, and sections."

The associate indicated was, with little doubt, John Dickins, who is named in Asbury's Journal of April 25, 1786, as preparing "our Form of Discipline for the press."

For some reason, perhaps to obtain the sanction of Dr. Coke, the publication was delayed till May, 1787. In this edition the term Bishop was substituted for Superintendent, and the second question in the former Discipline, relating to the authority of Mr. Wesley over the American Church, and known as "leaving Mr. Wesley's name off the Minutes," was omitted.

* Questions 80 and 81 remained in the Discipline, with very slight changes, till 1812, forming a separate section, entitled, "On Antinomianism."

I. The Arrangement of 1787.

The series of questions in the Discipline of 1787 is arranged in thirty-one sections, as follows:

Sec. I. Of the Rise of Methodism (so called) in Europe and America.*

Sec. II. On † the Method of Holding a Conference, and the Business to be Done therein.

Sec. III. On the Nature and Constitution of our Church.

Sec. IV. On the Constituting of Bishops and their Duty.

Sec. V. On the Constituting of Elders and their Duty.

Sec. VI. On the Constituting of Deacons and their Duty.

Sec. VII. On the Method of Receiving Preachers and their Duty.

Sec. VIII. Of the Collections that are to be Made, and How the Money is to be Expended.

Sec. IX. On Class-meetings. Sec. X. On the Duty of Preachers to God, themselves, and one another.

Sec. XI. On the Necessity of Union Among Ourselves.

Sec. XII. Of the Trial of Those who think they are Moved by the Holy Ghost to Preach.

Sec. XIII. Of the Spirit and Truth of Singing. Sec. XIV. Rules by which we should Continue or Desist from Preaching at any Place.

Sec. XV. On the Matter and Manner of Preaching and other Public Exercises. Sec. XVI. Against Antinomianism.

Sec. XVII. How to Provide for the Circuits in the time of Conference, and to Preserve and Increase the Work of God.

Sec. XVIII. Of Employing our Time profitably when we are not Traveling or Engaged in Public Exercises. Sec. XIX. On Baptism.

Sec. XX. On the Lord's Supper. Sec. XXI. On Unlawful Marriages. Sec. XXII. On Perfection.

Sec. XXIII. On Dress. Sec. XXIV. Of the Privileges granted to Serious Persons that are not of our Society.

Sec. XXV. On Visiting from House to House; Guarding Against those Sins that are so common to Professors, and enforcing Practical Religion.

Sec. XXVI. On the Instruction of Children. Sec. XXVII. On Building Churches, and the order to be observed therein.

Sec. XXVIII. On Raising a General Fund for the Propagation of the Gospel. Sec. XXIX. Of the Method of Raising a Fund for the Superannuated Preachers, and the Widows and Orphans of Preachers.

Sec. XXX. On the Plan of Education established at Cokesbury College. Sec. XXXI. On the Printing of Books and the Application of the Profits arising therefrom.

* This section in 1790 was incorporated in the Episcopal Address.

† In 1790 "of" was inserted in all the sections instead of "on."

Sec. XXXII. On Bringing to Trial, Finding Guilty, Reproving, Suspending, and Excluding Disorderly Persons from Society and Church privileges. Sec. XXXIII. On the Manner by which Immoral Ministers and Preachers shall be brought to Trial, found Guilty, Reproved, and Suspended in the Intervals of Conference.

Sec. XXXIV. On the Qualification and Duties of Stewards.

Sec. XXXV. On the Nature, Design, and General Rules of the United Societies.

Sec. XXXVI. Articles of Religion. Sec. XXXVII. Scripture Doctrine of Predestination. Sec. XXXVIII. Serious Thoughts on the Infallible, Unconditional Perseverance of all that have once experienced Faith in Christ.

Sec. XXXIX. A Plain Account of Christian Perfection by the Rev. Mr. John Wesley.

Sec. XL. An Extract on the Nature and Subjects of Christian Baptism. Sec. IX. On Bands.*

II. The Arrangement of 1792.

In 1792 the matter was distributed again into three chapters, the first treating of the Ministry and the Methods of Raising Money; the second, of the Membership; the third, of the Benevolent and Educational Plans, the Doctrinal Tracts, and the Ritual. In giving the arrangement below the entire language of the headings is not recited when the same has been previously given, the word section is omitted, and the Arabic instead of the Roman numerals are employed.

Chap. I.—The Ministry.†

1. Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church. 2. Articles. 3. Conferences, General and Yearly. 4. Of the Election of Bishops. 5. Of the Presiding Elders and their Duty. 6. Traveling Elders. 7. Traveling Deacons. 8. Method of Receiving Preachers. 9. Preachers in Charge. 10. Of the Salaries of the Ministers and Preachers, and Allowances to their Wives, Widows, and Children. 11. Trial of Those Moved to Preach. 12. Matter and Manner of Preaching. 13. Duty of Preachers. 14. Rules as to Preaching-places. 15. Pastoral Visiting. 16. Instruction of Children. 17. Employment of Time. 18. Union of Preachers. 19. Trial of Ministers in the Intervals of Conferences. 20. Provision for Circuits at Conference time. 21. Local Preachers. 22. Baptism. 23. Lord's Supper. 24. Public Worship. 25. Singing. 26. Of Raising Annual Supplies for the Propagation of the Gospel, for the Making up of the Salaries of the Preachers

*The thirty-second, thirty-third, and thirty-fourth sections were inserted in 1788; the thirtieth in 1789, though the section in the Discipline of 1788 contains a brief notice of Cokesbury College; and that on Bands (the 9th) in 1791.

† This heading is not given in the Discipline.

and Allowances to the Wives, Widows, and Children of Preachers.

27. Chartered Fund.*

Chap. II.—Membership.

8. Of the Reception of Preachers from the Wesleyan Connection and from Other Denominations.†

Chap. II.—Membership.

1. General Rules. 2. Class-meetings. 3. Bands. 4. Privileges of Serious Persons. 5. Marriage. 6. Dress. 7. Trial of Members. 8. Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors. †

Chap. III.—1-5. Doctrinal Tracts. 6. Ritual.

In 1812 the Doctrinal Tracts are omitted, and the Ritual is divided into Chapters III and IV, the former embracing the Sacramental Service, Baptism, Matrimony, and the Burial of the Dead; the latter the Forms of Ordination in three sections.

PART SECOND.—TEMPORAL ECONOMY.

1. Of the Boundaries of the Seven Annual Conferences, etc.§

* In 1796 the sections on Local Preachers and the Chartered Fund, also those on Slavery and the Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors, were inserted. The Ritual and Doctrinal Tracts were omitted, and the Notes of Coke and Asbury printed in the Discipline.

† In 1800 the Plan of Education was omitted, the Ritual and Tracts reinserted, and the title on Salaries of Preachers changed.

‡ This was inserted in 1840. The changes in the consecutive numbers are not indicated, as it would be liable to introduce confusion; but the numbers of 1804 are given in each chapter, and then the later insertions are placed at the close as above.

§ Omitted 1840.

¶ This had been previously inserted in the section on "Conferences."

2. Building Churches. 3. Stewards. 4. Salaries, changed, 1812, to Allowances. 5. Supplies. 6. The Chartered Fund. 7. Book Business. 8. Local Preachers allowed a Salary in given Cases. 9. Slavery. 10. Of the Support of Missions.*

IV. The Arrangement of 1848.

In 1848 the Discipline was rearranged by Rev. Tobias Spicer. The whole was distributed into three parts, as follows:

PART FIRST.—ORIGIN, DOCTRINES, AND ADMINISTRATIVE RULES.

Chap. I.—Origin and Articles.

1. Origin. 2. Articles.

1. Traveling Preachers. 2. Local Preachers. 3. Members.

Chap. III.—Restoration of Credentials of Ordination of,

1. Traveling Preachers. 2. Local Preachers.

PART IV.—RITUAL.

The word "chapter" omitted before the Roman ordinals, and Forms for the Reception of Members, Laying a Cornerstone, and Dedicating a Church added.

PART V.—EDUCATION AND BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

Changed from 1860 only by adding a section on Education.

PART VI.—TEMPORAL ECONOMY.

Chap. I.—Support of Ministers.

1. Bishops. 2. Presiding Elders. 3. Traveling Ministers. 4. The Superannuated. 5. Local Preachers.

Chap. II.—Raising Supplies—Parsonages.

1. Supplies. 2. Parsonages.

Chap. III.—Churches and Church Property.

1. Building Churches. 2. Trustees. 3. Deed. 4. Trusteeship of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Chap. IV.—Boundaries.

1. Boundaries of the Annual Conferences, Appendix, etc.

There were added in 1868 Sec. 21, Part I, Chap. II, on Exhorters; Part V, Sec. 5, Tracts; Sec. 4, Church Extension; and in 1872, Part II, Chap. I, Sec. 3, District Conferences; Part IV, Sec. 5, Freedmen's Aid; and Sec. 9, Permanent Fund; Part VI, Chap. IV, Sec. 1, The Mode of Determining Boundaries.

VII. The Arrangement of 1884.

The matter of the Discipline was this year distributed into seven parts.

PART I.—ORIGIN, DOCTRINES, AND RULES.

Chap. I.—Origin, Doctrine, and Rules contains sections on 1. The Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church. 2. The Articles. 3. The General Rules. 4. Temperance. 5. Slavery. 6. Baptism and the Lord's Supper. 7. Marriage. 8. Divorce. 9. Dress.

Chap. II.—The Membership of the Church, containing sections on the Reception of Members and the Relation of Baptized Children to the Church.

Chap. III.—Means of Grace, containing sections on Public Worship, Singing, and Class-Meetings.

PART II.—GOVERNMENT OF THE CHURCH.

Chap. I.—The Conferences, containing six sections, on the General, Annual, District, and Quarterly Conferences, the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting, and Official Boards.

Chap. II.—The Ministry, containing twenty-three sections, the same as in 1864, except that the section on preaching-places is omitted and two new sections are introduced, on Exhorters and Locating Unacceptable Preachers.

Chap. III.—Stewards.

PART III.—THE ADMINISTRATION OF DISCIPLINE.

Chap. I.—Trial of Ministers and Members, containing five sections, on the Trial of a Bishop, Traveling Preacher, Preacher on Trial in the Conference, a Local Preacher, and a Member of the Church.

Chap. II.—Trial of Appeals, contains four sections, on Appeals of Bishops, Traveling Preachers, Local Preachers, and Members.

Chap. III.—Restoration of Credentials, containing three sections, relating to those who have been Traveling Preachers, to those who have withdrawn, and to Local Preachers.

PART IV.—EDUCATIONAL AND BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS, containing sections on 1. Education. 2. Sunday-schools. 3. Missions. 4. Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. 5. Woman's Home Missionary Society. 6. Central Mission Conferences. 7. Church Extension. 8. Freedmen's Aid. 9. Books and Tracts. 10. Publishing Houses. 11. Chartered Fund. 12. Permanent Fund.

PART V.—TEMPORAL ECONOMY.

Chap. I.—Support of Ministers, containing five sections, on the Support of Bishops, Presiding Elders, Traveling Preachers, Superannuated Preachers, and Local Preachers.

Chap. II.—Raising Supplies, containing sections on Salary and Parsonages.

Chap. III.—Church Property, containing sections on Building, Trustees, Form of Conveyance, and Trusteeship.

PART VI.—RITUAL, same as in 1864.

PART VII.—BOUNDARIES.

In 1888 the section on Baptism and the Lord's Supper is transferred from the first to the third chapter of Part I; the Rules concerning Dress, Marriage, Divorce, Temperance, and Slavery are transferred from Chap. I, Part I to Part III, to form a third chapter under the head General Deliverances, and the order of the parts is changed, making Temporal Economy Part IV, Educational and Benevolent Institutions Part V, Boundaries Part VI, and the Ritual Part VII.

[In., 1876, EPISCOPAL ADDRESS.]

1789.] TO THE MEMBERS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

DEARLY BELOVED BRETHREN: [Om., 1790, sec. 1. Of the rise [1790. of Methodism (so called) in Europe and America.

1784.] Quest. 5. What was the rise of Methodism (so called) (in., 1789, in Europe)? Ans.]

[In., 1790, We think it expedient to give you a brief account of the rise of Methodism (om., 1796, so called) in Europe and America.] "In 1729 two young men in England, Origin of English Methodism. reading the Bible, saw they could not be saved without holiness, followed after it, and incited others so to do. In 1737 they saw, likewise, that men are justified before they are sanctified; but still holiness was their object. God then thrust them out to raise a holy people." [In., in note 1796, in the line 1876, "These are the words of (the Messrs. Wesley themselves," changed, 1876, to "John and Charles Wesley.")]

When Satan could no otherwise hinder this he threw Calvin- [1789. ism in the way, and then Antinomianism, which strikes directly at the root of all holiness.

1788.] Quest. 2. What was the rise of Methodism (so called) [1790. in America?

Ans. During the space of thirty years past certain persons, [1796. members of the Society, emigrated from England and Ireland, and settled in various parts of this country. ["About ^{American} twenty years ago" changed, 1791, to Methodism.

"In (om., 1796, the latter end of) the year 1766"] Philip Embury, ["a Local Preacher of our Society," changed, 1876, to "a Wesleyan Local Preacher"] from Ireland, began to preach in the city of New York, and formed a Society of his own countrymen and the citizens; [in., 1791, and the same year Thomas Webb, (in., 1872, a captain in the British army, and also a Wesleyan Local Preacher,) preached in a hired room, near the barracks, (om., 1792, and in the year 1767 the rigging-house was occupied).]

About the same time Robert Strawbridge, ["a" changed, 1876, to "another,"] Local Preacher from Ireland, settled in Frederick County, in the State of Maryland, and, preaching there, formed some Societies. [In., 1791, The first Methodist Church ("was built in New York in 1765 or 1769" changed, 1876, to "built in America was erected in New York in 1768,")] ["and in" changed, 1876, to "in,"] 1769 Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmoor, [(in., 1872, two Itinerant Preachers from England) came to New York, ("who were the first regular," changed, 1872, to "these were the first-traveling;") "Methodist Preachers" changed, 1876, to "two Itinerant Wesleyan Preachers of England were sent to America by Mr. Wesley. These were the first Methodist Traveling Preachers"] on the continent. In the latter end of the year 1771 Francis Asbury and Richard Wright of the same [in., 1876, country and] order came over.

1784.] Quest. 4. What may we reasonably believe to be [1790. God's design in raising up the Preachers called Methodists?

Ans. [In., 1790, (om., 1792, And) We (om., 1808, humbly) believe that God's design in raising up the ("Preachers called Methodists," changed 1876, to "Methodist Episcopal Church") in America was] to reform the continent, and spread Scripture ^{Design of} holiness over these lands. Methodism.

1788.] As a proof hereof we have seen ["in the course of ("fifteen," 1790, to "twenty-two") years," changed, 1796, to "since that time,"]; a great and glorious work of God [from New York through "the Jersey," changed, 1860, to New Jersey,") Pennsylvania, (in., 1796, D-laware,) Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Georgia; as also (in., 1796, of late, to) the extremities of the Western ("settlements," changed, 1796, to "and Eastern States," 1872, "and of the Eastern States.") changed, 1876, to "extending throughout all the United States and Territories, and throughout the British possessions of North America and the planting of successful missions in South America and Mexico. Moreover, the Methodist Episcopal Church in its organic form, as well as spiritual power, has been successfully planted in Africa, Asia, and Europe, and God has given her great prosperity in those countries.”]

We esteem it our duty and privilege most earnestly to recommend to you, as members of our Church, our Form of Discipline, which has been founded on the experience of [“fifty years in Europe, and of twenty years in America.” changed, 1792, to “many years,” 1796, to “a long series of years,”] as also on the observations and remarks we have made on ancient and modern Churches.

We have made some little alterations in the present edition, [1796. yet such as affect not in any degree the essentials of our doctrines and Discipline. We think ourselves obliged to view and review [“annually,” 1792, to “frequently”] the whole order of our Church, always aiming at perfection, standing on the shoulders of those who have lived before us, and taking the advantage of our former selves.

We wish to see this little publication in the house of every Methodist, and the more so as it contains [om., 1812, our Plan of (om., 1796, Collegiate and) Christian Education] the Articles of Religion, maintained more or less, in part or in whole, by every reformed Church in the world.

We would likewise declare our real sentiments concerning [1812. the Scripture doctrine of election and reprobation, as also on the infallible, unconditional perseverance of all that ever have believed or ever shall on the doctrine of Christian Perfection, [in., 1792, and om., 1796, and, lastly, on the nature and subjects of Christian Baptism.]

Far from wishing you to be ignorant of any of our Doctrines, or any part of our Discipline, we desire you to read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest the whole.

[Om., 1816, We know you are not in general able to purchase many books; but] you ought, next to the [“word of God, to procure the articles and canons,” changed, 1876, to “Holy Scriptures, to understand the Articles and Rules”] of the Church to which you belong.

This present edition is small and cheap, and we can assure [1872. you that the profits of the sale of it shall be applied to charitable [in., 1840, and religious] purposes.

We remain your very affectionate brethren and Pastors, [om., 1872, who labor night and day, both in public and in private, for your good.]

Thomas Coke, born at Brecon, Wales, September 9, 1747; entered the Wesleyan Conference 1778, was ordained Superintendent or Bishop by Mr. Wesley in 1784, and the same year came to America, and at the Christmas Conference of that year was chosen Superintendent by the General Conference. DOCTRINES AND DISCIPLINE OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

PART I.—ORIGIN, DOCTRINES, AND RULES.

CHAPTER I.—ORIGIN, ARTICLES [IN., 1872, OF RELIGION], AND GENERAL RULES.

1792.] *Section 1.—Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

1784.] Quest. 3. As the ecclesiastical as well as civil affairs [1787. of these United States have passed through a very considerable change by the Revolution, what plan of Church government shall we hereafter pursue?

Ans. We will form ourselves into an Episcopal Church, under the direction of Superintendents, Elders, Deacons, and Helpers, according to the forms of ordination annexed to our Origin of the M. E. Church.
Liturgy, and the Form of Discipline set forth in these Minutes.

1787.] Section 3.—On the Nature and Constitution of our [1792. Church.

We are thoroughly convinced that the Church of England, to which we have been united, is deficient in several of the most important parts of Christian discipline, and that (a few ministers and members excepted) it has lost the life and power of religion. Constitution of Church.
We are not ignorant of the spirit and design it has ever discovered in Europe, of rising to preeminence and worldly dignities by virtue of a national establishment, and by the most servile devotion to the will of temporal governors; and we fear the same spirit will lead the same Church in these United States (though altered in its name) to similar designs and attempts, if the number and strength of its members will ever afford a probability of success, and particularly to obtain a national establishment, which we cordially abhor as the great bane of truth and holiness, and consequently the greatest impediment in the world to the progress of vital Christianity.

For these reasons we have thought it our duty to form ourselves into an independent Church. And as the most excellent mode of Church government, according to our maturest judgment, is that of a moderate episcopacy, and as we are persuaded that the uninterrupted succession of Bishops from the apostles can be proved neither from Scripture nor antiquity, we therefore have constituted ourselves into an Episcopal Church, under the direction of Bishops, Elders, Deacons, and Preachers, according to the forms of ordination annexed to our Prayer-book, and the regulations laid down in this Form of Discipline.

1792.] ¶1. The Preachers and members of our Society in general, being convinced that there was a great deficiency of vital religion in the Church of England in America, and being in many places destitute of the Christian sacraments, as several of the clergy had forsaken their Churches, requested the late Rev. John Wesley to take such measures, in his wisdom and prudence, as would afford them suitable relief in their distress.

1787.] Section 4.—On the Constituting of Bishops and [1792. their Duty.

Quest. 1. What is the proper origin of the Episcopal authority in our Church?

¶2. Ans. In the year 1784 the Rev. John Wesley [in., 1792, in consequence of this our venerable friend], who, under God, had been the father of the great revival of religion now extending over the earth by the means of the Methodists, determined [om., 1792, at the intercession of multitudes of his spiritual children on this continent] to ordain ministers for America, and for this purpose [in., 1792, in the year 1784,] sent over three regularly ordained ["clergy," changed, 1872, to "clergymen];" but, preferring the episcopal mode of Church government to any other, he solemnly set apart, by the imposition of his hands and prayer, one of them, namely, Thomas Coke, Doctor of Civil Law, late of Jesus College, in the University of Oxford [in., 1792, and a Presbyterian of the Church of England], for the episcopal office; and having delivered to him letters of episcopal orders, commissioned and directed him to set apart Francis Asbury, then General Assistant of the Methodist Society in America, for the same episcopal office; he, the said Francis Asbury, being first ordained Deacon and Elder. In consequence of which the said Francis Asbury was solemnly set apart for the said episcopal office by prayer, and the imposition of the hands of the said Thomas Coke, other regularly ordained ministers assisting in the sacred ceremony. At which time the General Conference, held at Baltimore, did unanimously receive the said Thomas Coke and Francis Asbury as their Bishops, being fully satisfied of the validity of their episcopal ordination.

Section 2.—Articles of Religion.

These articles, though not inserted in the Discipline till 1790, were selected by Mr. Wesley from those of the Church of England, and printed in "the Sunday Service," prepared for the use of the American Societies. The parts of the English Articles omitted by the Conference are in smaller type, and a variation of language is indicated in foot-notes. Brief omissions are in brackets. Arranged by Robert Emory.

"I. Of Faith in the Holy Trinity.

¶3. There is but one living and true God, everlasting, without body, parts, or passions; of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness; the Maker and Preserver of all things both visible and invisible. And in unity of this Godhead there are* three Persons of one substance, power, and eternity: the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

II. Of the Word or Son of God, who † was made very Man.

¶4. The Son, who † is the Word of the Father, begotten from everlasting of the Father, the very and eternal God, of one substance with the Father, took man's nature in the womb of the blessed Virgin [of her substance]; so that two whole and perfect natures, that is to say, the Godhead and manhood, were joined together in one Person, never to be divided, whereof is one Christ, very God, and very man, who truly suffered, was crucified, dead, and buried, to reconcile his Father to us, and to be a sacrifice, not only for original guilt, but also for actual sins of men.

(III.) Of the Going Down of Christ into Hell.

As Christ died for us, and was buried, so also is it to be believed † that he went down into hell.

III. (IV.) Of the Resurrection of Christ.

¶5. Christ did truly rise again from the dead, and took again his body, with [flesh, bones, and] all things appertaining to the perfection of man's nature, wherewith he ascended into heaven, and there sitteth until he return to judge all men at the last day.

IV. (V.) Of the Holy Ghost.

¶6. The Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and the Son, is of one substance, majesty, and glory with the Father and the Son, very and eternal God.

V. (VI.) Of the Sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures for Salvation.

¶7. The Holy Scripture containeth all things necessary to salvation, so that whatsoever is not read therein, or § may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man, that it should be believed as an Article of the Faith, or be thought requisite or necessary to salvation. In the name of the Holy Scripture we do understand those canonical books of the Old and New Testament, of whose authority was never any doubt in the Church.

All the books of the New Testament, as they are commonly received, we do receive and account [them] canonical.

VI. (VII.) Of the Old Testament.

¶8. The Old Testament is not contrary to the New, for both in the Old and New Testament everlasting life is offered to mankind by Christ, who is the only Mediator between God and man, being both God and man. Wherefore they are not to be heard who † feign that the old fathers did look only for transitory promises. Although the law given from God by Moses, as touching ceremonies and rites, doth § not bind Christians, || nor ought the civil precepts thereof ¶ of necessity to be received in any commonwealth; yet notwithstanding no Christian [man] whatsoever is free from the obedience of the commandments which are called moral.

(VIII.) Of the Three Creeds.

The three creeds—Nicene Creed, Athanasius' Creed, and that which is commonly called the Apostles' Creed—ought thoroughly to be received and believed, for they may be proved by most certain warrants of Holy Scripture.

VII. (IX.) Of Original or Birth Sin.

¶9. Original sin standeth not in the following of Adam (as the Pelagians do vainly talk), but it is the [fault and] corruption of the nature of every man, that naturally is engendered of the offspring of Adam, whereby man is very far gone from original righteousness, and [is] of his own nature inclined to evil, and that continually.

And therefore in every person born into this world it deserveth God's wrath and damnation. And this infection of nature doth remain; yea, in them that are regenerated, whereby the lust of the flesh, called in Greek φρονημα σαρκός, which some do expound the wisdom, some sensuality, some the affection, some the desire of the flesh, is not subject to the law of God. And although there is no condemnation for them that believe and are baptized, yet the apostle doth confess that concupiscence and lust hath of itself the nature of sin.

VIII. (X.) Of Free Will.

¶ 10. The condition of man after the fall of Adam is such that he cannot turn and prepare himself by his own natural strength and [good] works to faith, and calling upon God; wherefore we have no power to do good works pleasant and acceptable to God, without the grace of God by Christ preventing us, that we may have a good will, and working with us when we have that good will.

IX. (XI.) Of the Justification of Man.

¶ 11. We are accounted righteous before God only for the merit of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, by faith, and not for our own works or deservings; wherefore that we are justified by faith only is a most wholesome doctrine, and very full of comfort [as more largely is expressed in the Homily of Justification].

X. (XII.) Of Good Works.

¶ 12. Although* good works, which are the fruits of faith, and follow after justification, cannot put away our sins, and endure the severity of God's judgment, yet are they pleasing and acceptable to God in Christ, and [do] spring out [necessarily] of a true and lively faith, inasmuch that by them a lively faith may be as evidently known as a tree discerned by its† fruit.

(XIII.) Of Works before Justification.

Works done before the grace of Christ and the inspiration of his Spirit are not pleasant to God, forasmuch as they spring not of faith in Jesus Christ, neither do they make men meet to receive grace, or (as the school authors say) deserve grace of congruity; yea, rather, for that they are not done as God hath willed and commanded them to be done, we doubt not but they have the nature of sin.

XI. (XIV.) Of Works of Supererogation.

¶ 13. Voluntary works, besides, over and above God's commandments, which they call works of supererogation, cannot be taught without arrogancy and impiety, for by them men do declare that they do not only render unto God as much as they are bound to do, but that they do more for his sake than of bounden duty is required; whereas Christ saith plainly, When ye have done all that is* commanded [to] you, say, We are unprofitable servants.

* "Albeit that."—Thirty-nine Articles.

(XV.) Of Christ alone without Sin.

Christ, in the truth of our nature, was made like unto us in all things, sin only except, from which he was clearly void, both in his flesh and in his spirit. He came to be the Lamb without spot, who, by sacrifice of himself once made, should take away the sins of the world; and sin (as St. John saith) was not in him. But all we the rest (although baptized and born again in Christ) yet offend in many things; and if we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

XII. (XVI.) Of Sin after Justification.†

¶ 14. Not every sin willingly committed after justification is the † sin against the Holy Ghost, and unpardonable. Wherefore the grant of repentance is not to be denied to such as fall into sin after justification. § After we have received the Holy Ghost we may depart from grace given and fall into sin, and by the grace of God [we may] rise again and amend our lives. And therefore they are to be condemned who || say they can no more sin as long as they live here, or deny the place of forgiveness to such as truly repent.

(XVII.) Of Predestination and Election.

Predestination to life is the everlasting purpose of God, whereby (before the foundations of the world were laid) he hath constantly decreed by his counsel, secret to us, to deliver from curse and damnation those whom he hath chosen in Christ out of mankind, and to bring them by Christ to everlasting salvation, as vessels made to honor; wherefore they which be endued with so excellent a benefit of God be called according to God's purpose by his Spirit working in due season. They through grace obey the calling; they be justified freely; they be made sons of God by adoption; they be made like the image of his only-begotten Son Jesus Christ; they walk religiously in good works, and at length, by God's mercy, they attain to everlasting felicity.

As the godly consideration of predestination and our election in Christ is full of sweet, pleasant, and unspeakable comfort to godly persons, and such as feel in themselves the working of the Spirit of Christ, mortifying the works of the flesh and their earthly members, and drawing up their mind to high and heavenly things, as well because it doth greatly establish and confirm their faith of eternal salvation, to be enjoyed through Christ, as because it doth fervently kindle their love toward God; so for curious and carnal persons, lacking the Spirit of Christ, to have continually before their eyes the sentence of God's predestination, is a most dangerous downfall, whereby the devil doth thrust them either into desperation, or into wretchedness of most unclean living, no less perilous than desperation.

Furthermore, we must receive God's promises in such wise as they be generally set forth to us in Holy Scripture; and in our doings that will of God is to be followed which we have expressly declared unto us in the word of God.

(XVIII.) Of Obtaining Eternal Salvation only by the Name of Christ.

They also are to be had accursed that presume to say that every man shall be saved by the law or sect which he professeth, so that he be diligent to frame his life according to that law and the light of nature. For Holy Scripture doth set out unto us only the name of Jesus Christ, whereby men must be saved.

XIII. (XIX.) Of the Church.

¶ 15. The visible Church of Christ is a congregation of faithful men, in the which the pure word of God is preached, and the sacraments [be] duly administered according to Christ's ordinance in all those things that of necessity are requisite to the same.

As the Church of Hierusalem, Alexandria, and Antioch have erred, so also the Church of Rome hath erred, not only in their living and manner of ceremonies, but also in matters of faith.

(XX.) Of the Authority of the Church.

The Church hath power to decree rites or ceremonies, and authority in controversies of faith, and yet it is not lawful for the Church to ordain any thing that is contrary to God's word written; neither may it so expound one place of Scripture that it be repugnant to another. Wherefore, although the Church be a witness and a keeper of holy writ, yet, as it ought not to decree any thing against the same, so besides the same ought it not to enforce any thing to be believed for necessity of salvation.

(XXI.) Of the Authority of General Councils.

General councils may not be gathered together without the commandment and will of princes. And when they be gathered together (forasmuch as they be an assembly of men, whereof all be not governed with the Spirit and word of God) they may err, and sometimes have erred, even in things pertaining unto God. Wherefore things ordained by them as necessary to salvation have neither strength nor authority, unless it may be declared that they be taken out of Holy Scripture.

XIV. (XXII.) Of Purgatory.

¶ 16. The Romish doctrine concerning purgatory, pardons, worshiping, and adoration, as well of images as of relics, and also invocation of saints, is a fond thing vainly invented, and grounded upon no warrant[y] of Scripture, but [rather] repugnant to the word of God.

(XXIII.) Of Ministering in the Congregation.

It is not lawful for any man to take upon him the office of preaching, or ministering the sacraments in the congregation, before he be lawfully called and sent to execute the same. And those we ought to judge lawfully called and sent which be chosen and called to this work by men who have public authority given unto them in the congregation to call and send ministers into the Lord's vineyard.

XV. (XXIV.) Of Speaking in the Congregation in such a Tongue as the People Understand⁽¹⁴⁷⁾.

¶17. It is a thing plainly repugnant to the word of God and the custom of the primitive Church to have public prayer in the church, or to minister the sacraments in a tongue not understood by* the people.

XVI. (XXV.) Of the Sacraments.

¶18. Sacraments ordained of Christ are† not only badges or tokens of Christian men's profession, but rather they are‡ certain [sure witnesses and effectual] signs of grace, and God's good will toward us, by the which he doth work invisibly in us, and doth not only quicken, but also strengthen and confirm our faith in him.

There are two sacraments ordained of Christ our Lord in the Gospel; that is to say, Baptism and the Supper of the Lord.

Those five commonly called sacraments; that is to say, confirmation, penance, orders, matrimony, and extreme unction, are not to be counted for sacraments of the Gospel, being such as have grown partly of the corrupt following of the apostles, partly are states of life allowed in the Scriptures, but yet have not the like nature of [sacraments with] Baptism and the Lord's Supper, because§ they have not any visible sign or ceremony ordained of God.

The sacraments were not ordained of Christ to be gazed upon or to be carried about, but that we should duly use them. And in such only as worthily receive the same they have a wholesome effect or operation; but they that receive them unworthily purchase to themselves condemnation,|| as St. Paul saith.

(XXVI.) Of the Unworthiness of the Ministers, which Hinders not the Effect of the Sacrament.

Although in the visible Church the evil be ever mingled with the good, and sometimes the evil have chief authority in the ministration of the word and sacraments, yet forasmuch as they do not the same in their own name, but in Christ's, and do minister by his commission and authority, we may use their ministry both in hearing the word of God, and in the receiving of the sacraments. Neither is the effect of Christ's ordinance taken away by their wickedness, nor the grace of God's gifts diminished from such as by faith, and rightly, do receive the sacraments ministered unto them, which be effectual, because of Christ's institution and promise, although they be ministered by evil men.

Nevertheless it appertaineth to the discipline of the Church, that inquiry be made of evil ministers, and that they be accused by those that have knowledge of their offenses; and finally, being found guilty, by just judgment, be deposed.

XVII. (XXVII.) Of Baptism.

¶19. Baptism is not only a sign of profession and mark of difference, whereby Christians* are distinguished † from others that are ‡ not baptized, § but it is also a sign of regeneration, or the new birth, [whereby, as by an instrument, they that receive baptism rightly are grafted into the Church; the promises of the forgiveness of sin, and of our adoption to be the sons of God by the Holy Ghost, are visibly signed and sealed; faith is confirmed, and grace increased by virtue of prayer unto God] The baptism of young children is [in any wise] to be retained in the Church [as most agreeable with the institution of Christ.]

XVIII. (XXVIII.) Of the Lord's Supper.

¶20. The Supper of the Lord is not only a sign of the love that Christians ought to have among themselves one to another, but rather is a sacrament of our redemption by Christ's death; insomuch that to such as rightly, worthily, and with faith receive the same, the bread which we break is a partaking of the body of Christ, and likewise the cup of blessing is a partaking of the blood of Christ.

Transubstantiation, or the change of the substance of bread and wine in the Supper of the Lord, cannot be proved by holy writ, but is repugnant to the plain words of Scripture, overthroweth the nature of a sacrament, and hath given occasion to many superstitions.

The body of Christ is given, taken, and eaten in the Supper only after a heavenly and spiritual manner, and the mean whereby the body of Christ is received and eaten in the Supper is faith.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was not by Christ's ordinance reserved, carried about, lifted up, or worshiped.

(XXIX.) Of the Wicked, which Eat not the Body of Christ in the Use of the Lord's Supper.

The wicked, and such as be void of a lively faith, although they do carnally and visibly press with their teeth (as St. Augustine saith) the sacrament of the body and blood of Christ, yet in no wise are they partakers of Christ, but rather to their condemnation do eat and drink the sign or sacrament of so great a thing.

¶ 21. The cup of the Lord is not to be denied to the lay people, for both the parts of the Lord's Supper* by Christ's ordinance and commandment ought to be ministered to all Christians † alike.

XX. (XXXI.) Of the one Oblation of Christ, finished upon the Cross.

¶ 22. The offering of Christ once made is that perfect redemption, propitiation, and satisfaction for all the sins of the whole world, both original and actual, and there is none other satisfaction for sin but that alone; wherefore the sacrifice of masses, in the which it is ‡ commonly said that the priest doth § offer Christ for the quick and the dead, to have remission of pain or guilt, is a blasphemous fable and dangerous deceit. ¶

XXI. (XXXII.) Of the Marriage of Ministers. ¶

¶ 23. The ministers of Christ are not commanded by God's law either to vow the estate of single life, or to abstain from marriage; therefore it is lawful for them, as for all other Christians, †† to marry at their own discretion, as they shall judge the same to serve best †† to godliness.

(XXXIII.) Of Excommunicate Persons, how they are to be Avoided.

That person which by open denunciation of the Church is rightly cut off from the unity of the Church and excommunicated, ought to be taken of the whole multitude of the faithful as a heathen and publican until he be openly reconciled by penance, and received into the Church by a judge that hath authority thereunto.

XXII. (XXXIV.) Of the Rites and Ceremonies of Churches. §§

¶ 24. It is not necessary that rites and ceremonies should in all places be the same, or exactly alike, for they have been always different, ¶¶ and may be changed according to the diversity of countries, times, and men's manners, so that nothing be ordained against God's word. (XXXV.) Of the Homilies.

The second Book of Homilies, the several titles whereof we have joined under this article, doth contain a godly and wholesome doctrine, and necessary for these times, as doth the former Book of Homilies, which were set forth in the time of Edward VI., and therefore we judge them to be read in churches by the ministers diligently and distinctly, that they may be understood of the people.

(XXXVI.) Of Consecration of Bishops and Ministers.

The Book of Consecration of Archbishops and Bishops, and Ordering of Priests and Deacons, lately set forth in the time of Edward VI., and confirmed at the same time by authority of parliament, doth contain all things necessary to such consecration and ordering; neither hath it any thing that of itself is superstitious and ungodly. And therefore whosoever are consecrated or ordered according to the rites of that book since the second year of the forenamed King Edward unto this time, or hereafter shall be consecrated or ordered according to the same rites; we decree all such to be rightly, orderly, and lawfully consecrated and ordered.

(XXXVII.) Of the Civil Magistrates.

The Bishop of Rome hath no jurisdiction in this realm of England.

The laws of the realm may punish Christian men with death for heinous and grievous offenses.

It is lawful for Christian men, at the commandment of the magistrate, to wear weapons, and serve in the wars.

¶ 25. The Congress, the General Assemblies, the Governors, and the Councils of State, as the delegates of the people, are the rulers of the United States of America, according to the division of power made to them by the general act of Confederation, and by the Constitutions of their respective States. ¶ 26. The riches and goods of Christians are not common as touching the right, title, and possession of the same, as some† do falsely boast. Notwithstanding every man ought, of such things as he possesseth, liberally to give alms to the poor according to his ability.

XXV. (XXXIX.) Of a Christian Man's Oath.

¶ 27. As we confess that vain and rash swearing is forbidden Christian men by our Lord Jesus Christ, and James his apostle; so we judge that the Christian religion doth not prohibit, but that a man may swear when the magistrate requireth, in a cause of faith and charity, so it be done according to the prophet's teaching, in justice, judgment, and truth."

The following alterations have been made in the Articles from time to time. It will be perceived that they are almost all typographical errors, or substitutions of modern forms of

* Although Mr. Wesley inserted in the Liturgy which he prepared for the American Methodists a prayer for "the supreme rulers of the United States," yet he probably did not think himself sufficiently familiar with the subject to draw up an article respecting "the civil magistrates." Such an article was framed, however, at the Christmas Conference, when the Church was organized. It could not be printed with the others because they had been previously printed in England. It was inserted, however, in the next edition of the Prayer-book, in 1786 (see "Defense of our Fathers," sec. 8), as above.

*Section 3.—The General Rules.

1789.] THE NATURE, DESIGN, AND GENERAL RULES OF OUR UNITED SOCIETIES.

¶28. In the latter end of the year 1739 eight or ten persons came to Mr. Wesley in London, who appeared to be deeply convinced of sin, and earnestly groaning for redemption. They desired (as did two or three more the next day) that he would spend some time with them in prayer; and advise them how to flee from the wrath to come, which they saw continually hanging over their heads. That he might have more time for this great work, he appointed a day when they might all come together; which from thenceforward they did every week, namely, on Thursday, in the evening. To these, and as many more as desired to join with them (for their number increased daily), he gave those advices from time to time which he judged most needful for them, and they always concluded their meeting with prayer suited to their several necessities.

¶29. This was the rise of the United Society, first in Europe, and then in America. Such a Society is no other than “a company of men having the form and seeking the power of godliness, united in order to pray together, to receive the word of exhortation, and to watch over one another in love, that they may help each other to work out their salvation.”

¶30. That it may the more easily be discerned whether they are indeed working out their own salvation, each Society is divided into smaller companies, called classes, according to their respective places of abode. There are about twelve persons in a class, one of whom is styled the Leader. It is his duty,

§ 1. To see each person in his class once a week at least; in order, 1. To inquire how their souls prosper. 2. To advise, reprove, comfort, or exhort, as occasion may require. 3. To receive what they are willing to give toward the relief of the [in., 1789, Preachers, Church, and] poor. †

* These admirable Rules were prepared by John and Charles Wesley in 1743 for the government of the Society in England, and were retained without alteration by the early Methodists in America. See Lee's History, page 33. Emory, 210. The Rules, though acknowledged as an authority, were not inserted in the Discipline until 1789.

“These are the General Rules which were first introduced among us and which have continued among us from the beginning, and they have been admired not only by the Methodists themselves, but also by most religious people of other denominations.”—Lee's History of the Methodists, p. 33.

“The present section forms perhaps one of the completest systems of Christian ethics or morals for its size which ever was published by an uninspired writer.”—Coke and Asbury. See “Notes,” etc.

Paragraph 28 was omitted in 1789, but re-inserted in 1792, substituting the third person for the first, and inserting Wesley's name.

portunity, doing good of every possible sort, and, as far as possible, to all men. To their souls, by instructing, reprovng, or exhorting all we have any intercourse with; trampling under foot that enthusiastic doctrine [om., 1759, of devils], that "we are not to do good unless our hearts be free to it." By doing good, especially to them that are of the household of faith, or groaning so to be; employing them preferably to others, buying one of another [om., 1792, unless you can be served better elsewhere], helping each other in business, and so much the more because the world will love its own and them only. By all possible diligence and frugality, that the Gospel be not blamed. By running with patience the race which is set [om., 1856, up] before them, denying themselves, and taking up their cross daily; submitting to bear the reproach of Christ, to be as the filth and offscouring of the world, and looking that men should say all manner of evil of them falsely for the Lord's sake.

¶ 34. It is expected of all who desire to continue in these Societies that they should continue to evidence their desire of salvation, Thirdly, By attending upon all the ordinances of God; such are, The public worship of God. The ministry of the word, either read or expounded. The Supper of the Lord. Family and private prayer. Searching the Scriptures. Fasting or abstinence.

¶ 35. These are the General Rules of our Societies; all which we are taught of God to observe, even in his written word [in., 1789, which is] the only rule, and the sufficient rule, both of our faith and practice. And all these we know his Spirit writes ["on every truly awakened heart," changed, 1792, to "on truly awakened hearts"]. If there be any among us who observe them not, who habitually break any of them, let it be known unto them who watch over that soul as they who must give an account. We will admonish him of the error of his ways. We will bear with him for a season. But if then he repent not, he hath no more place among us. We have delivered our own souls.

Receiving and Dismissing Members.

1884.] ¶ 36. In order to prevent improper persons from gaining admission into the Church, and in order to the exercise of the power of godly admonition and discipline,

§ 1. Let great care be taken in receiving persons on Trial, and let no one be enrolled as a probationer in the Church unless he give satisfactory evidence of an earnest desire to be saved from his sins, and to enjoy the fellowship of God's people.

§ 2. Let the Preacher in Charge and the Class Leaders see that all persons on Trial be early made acquainted with the Doctrines, Rules, and Regulations of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

§ 3. Let no one be received into Full Membership in the Church until such person has been at least six months on Trial, and has been recommended by the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting, or, where no such meeting is held, by the Leader, and has been baptized, and who shall, on examination by the Preacher in Charge before the Church, give satisfactory assurances both of the correctness of his faith and of his willingness to observe and keep the rules of the Church.* Nevertheless, if a member in good standing in any other Orthodox Evangelical Church shall desire to unite with us, such applicant may, by giving satisfactory answers to the usual inquiries, be received at once into Full Membership.

§ 4. All acceptable Members of the Church, desiring to remove their Membership from one Circuit or Station to another, are entitled to a Certificate; but until they are received into another Charge, or Church in another place, they shall be answerable for their conduct to the Circuit or Station from which the Certificate was given. After the depositing of such Certificate with another Charge, they shall be responsible for any misconduct of which they may have been guilty, during the time they held such Certificate, to the Charge which they shall have joined. But a Member holding a Certificate cannot avoid trial by presenting his Certificate to another Church, after charges have been preferred against him, but shall in such case be amenable to the Church from which he received his Certificate.

§ 5. Certificates of removal must be signed by the Preacher in Charge, or if there be no Preacher in Charge, by the Presiding Elder of the District, and shall be in the following form: "This certifies that A. B., the bearer, is an acceptable member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in"

* Persons baptized in Infancy must publicly assent, before the Church, to the Baptismal Covenant. The rebaptism of persons known to have been previously baptized is inconsistent with the nature and design of Baptism as set forth in the New Testament.

and is affectionately commended to the fellowship of the Methodist Episcopal Church in or in any other Church, to which he may present this Certificate. When admitted to another Charge, his relation to this Charge will cease."

§ 6. This Certificate of Church Membership shall not be valid for a longer period than one year; and if for any cause it has become impracticable to present the Certificate within one year, it may be renewed by the Preacher in Charge of the Church from which it was received.

§ 7. Let the Preacher in Charge and the Committee on Church Records be careful to see that the names of all persons received into the Church are duly recorded; and the Preacher in Charge shall report at each Quarterly Conference all changes that have occurred in the membership during the quarter.

1856.] *Section 2.—The Relation of Baptized Children to the Church.

Quest. 1. Are all young children entitled to baptism? Ans. [1872.

¶ 37. We hold that all children, by virtue of the unconditional benefits of the atonement, are members of the kingdom of God, and, therefore, graciously entitled to baptism; but as infant baptism contemplates a course of religious instruction and discipline, it is expected of all parents or guardians who present their children for baptism that they use all diligence in bringing them up in conformity to the word of God, and they should be solemnly admonished of this obligation, and earnestly exhorted to faithfulness therein.

Subjects.

Religious Instruction.

Quest. 2. What is the relation of baptized children to the Church? Ans.

¶ 38. We regard all children who have been baptized as placed in visible covenant relation to God, and under the special care and supervision of the Church.

Covenant Relation.

Quest. 3. What shall be done for the baptized children of our Church? Ans.

¶ 39. The Preacher in Charge shall preserve a full and accurate register of the names of all the baptized children within his pastoral care; the dates of their birth, baptism, their parentage, and places of residence.

Registry of Names.

[Ans. 2. As early as they shall be able to understand, let them be taught the nature, design, and obligations of their baptism, and the truths of religion necessary to make them wise unto salvation; let them be encouraged to attend class, and to give regular attendance upon all the means of grace, according to their age, capacity, and religious experience;"] changed, 1864, to (om., 1868, "At the age of ten years, or earlier.")

1864.] ¶ 40. The Preacher in Charge shall organize the baptized children of the Church, at the age of ten years or younger, into classes, and appoint suitable Leaders (male or female), whose duty it shall be to meet them in class once a week, and instruct them in the nature, design, and obligations of baptism, and the truths of religion necessary to make them "wise unto salvation;" urge them to give regular attendance upon the means of grace; advise, exhort, and encourage them to an immediate consecration of their hearts and lives to God, and inquire into the state of their religious experience; Provided, that children unbaptized are not to be excluded from these classes.]

1856.] ¶ 41. Whenever ["they," changed, 1872, to "Baptized children"] shall have attained an age sufficient to understand the obligations of religion, and shall give evidence [om., 1868, of a desire to flee from the wrath to come, and to be saved from their sins, their names may (in., 1864, with their consent) be enrolled on the list of probationers, and if they shall continue to give evidence of a principle and habit] of piety, they may be admitted into full membership in our Church, on the recommendation of a Leader with whom they have met at least six months in class, by publicly assenting before the Church to the Baptismal Covenant, and also to the usual questions on doctrines and discipline.

¶ 42. Whenever a baptized child shall, by orphanage or otherwise, become deprived of Christian guardianship, the Preacher in Charge shall ascertain and report to the Leaders' [in., 1868, and Stewards'] Meeting the facts in the case, and such provision shall be made for the Christian training of the child as the circumstances of the case admit and require.

CHAPTER III.

1792.] THE MEANS OF GRACE.

*Section 1.—Of Public Worship.

Quest. 1. What directions shall be given for the establishment of uniformity in public worship among us on the Lord's day? [1872.]

¶ 54. [In., 1872, For the establishment of uniformity in public worship among us on the Lord's day:] [1888.]

I. Let the morning service consist of singing, prayer, the reading of a ["chapter out of," changed, 1864, to "lesson from"] the Old Testament, and another ["out of;" changed, 1864, to "from"] the New, and preaching.

* "Our people should be urged to take part in the public worship of God, first, in singing; secondly, in prayer, in the Scripture attitude of kneeling, by the repetition of the Lord's Prayer."—Gen. Conf., 1865.

II. Let the afternoon service consist of singing, prayer, the reading of one [in., 1804, or two] chapters out of the Bible, and preaching. [1864. Afternoon.]

III. ["Let the evening service consist of singing, prayer, and preaching;" changed, 1864, to II. Let the afternoon or evening service consist of singing, prayer, the reading of one or two Scripture lessons, and preaching"] [1888. Evening. Afternoon and Evening.]

[IV. "But on the days of administering the Lord's Supper, the two chapters in the morning service may be omitted;" changed, 1864, to "III. On the days of administering the sacrament of the Lord's Supper the reading of the Scripture lessons may be omitted."] [Sacrament Day.]

1821.] IV. In administering the ["ordinances," changed, 1864, to "sacraments;"] and in the burial of the dead, let our form of ["Discipline," changed, 1864, to "Ritual"] invariably be used. [Ritual.] Let the Lord's Prayer also be used on all occasions of public worship in concluding the first prayer [in., 1864, the congregation being exhorted to join in its audible repetition. Let a doxology be sung at the conclusion of each service], and the apostolic benediction [in., 1864, be invariably used] in dismissing the congregation.

Public Worship.

1888.] ¶ 43. In order to establish uniformity in public worship among us on the Lord's day,

§ 1. Let the morning service be ordered, as far as possible, in the following manner: 1. Singing one of the hymns of our hymn-book, the people standing. 2. Prayer, concluding with the Lord's Prayer, repeated audibly by the congregation, the minister and people kneeling. 3. The reading of a lesson from the Old Testament, and another from the New, either of which may be read responsively. 4. The collection. 5. Singing another of our hymns, the people sitting. 6. Preaching. 7. A short prayer for a blessing on the word. 8. Singing, closing with a doxology, the people standing. 9. The pronouncing of the apostolic benediction.

§ 2. Let the afternoon or evening service follow the same order, except that either of the Scripture lessons may be omitted.

§ 3. At the service during which the sacraments are administered any of the items of the preceding order may be omitted except singing, prayer, and the apostolic benediction.

§ 4. In administering the Sacraments, and in the burial of the dead, let our form of Ritual invariably be used.

1864.] § 5. Let the people be earnestly exhorted [Responses.] to join in all these acts of worship, and especially to respond to the prayers of our Ritual.

1792.] § 6. Let the Society be met, wherever [Meeting Society.] it is practicable, on the Sabbath day.

1784.] Section 2.—The Spirit and Truth of Singing.

[“Quest. 57. (39.) How shall we,” changed, 1872, to “¶ 44. To”] guard against formality in singing:*

- Hymns. 1. By choosing† such hymns as are proper for the [1856. congregation.
2. By not singing too much at once; seldom more than five or six verses.
- Tune. 3. By suiting the tune to the words.
- Address the People. 4. By often stopping short, and asking the people, “Now, do you know what you said last? Did you speak no more than you felt?”
- Not Sing too Slow. 5. Do not suffer the people to sing too slow. This naturally tends to formality, and is brought in by those who have either very strong or very weak voices.
- Learn to Sing. 6. In every large Society let them learn to sing, and let them always learn our tunes first.
- Women’s Parts. 7. Let the women constantly sing their parts alone. Let no man sing with them unless he understands the notes, and sings the base as it is [“pricked down,” changed 1787, to “composed,”] in the tune-book.
- New Tunes. 8. Introduce no new tune till they are perfect in the old.
- Tune-book. 9. Recommend our tune-book. And if you cannot sing yourself, choose a person or two at each place to pitch the tune for you.
- Congregational Singing. 10. Exhort every person in the congregation to sing; not one in ten only.
- Our own Hymns. 11. Sing no hymns of your own composing.
- Reader. 12. If a Preacher be present let [“no singer,” changed, 1787, to “him alone,”] give out the words.
- Air in Teaching. 13. When the singers would teach a tune to the congregation, they must sing only the tenor [the air].
- Singing Schools. 1792.] 14. Let it be recommended to our people not to attend the singing schools which are not under our direction.
- Fugue Tunes. 15. The Preachers are desired not to encourage the singing of fugue tunes in our congregations.
16. We do not think that fugue tunes are sinful or improper to be used in private companies, but we do not approve of their being used in our public congregations, because public singing is a part of divine worship in which all the congregation ought to join.

1856.] I. Choose such hymns as are proper for the occasion, and do not sing too much at once; seldom more than four or five verses.

Tune. II. Let the tune be suited to the sentiment, and do not suffer the people to sing too slow.

III. In every Society let due attention be given to the cultivation of sacred music.‡

Sacred Music.

* “In public worship particularly.”—Large Minutes.

† “By preaching frequently on the head. By taking care to speak only what we feel.”—Ibid.

‡ Quest. 14. How shall we reform our singing?

Ans. Let all our Preachers who have any knowledge in the notes improve it by learning to sing true themselves, and keeping close to Mr. Wesley’s tunes and hymns.—Minutes. 1784.

IV. ["If you cannot sing yourself, let one or two be chosen in each Society to lead the singing," changed, 1864, to "Let one or more be chosen in Society to lead the singing;" 1868, to "Should the Preacher in Charge desire it, let the Quarterly Conference appoint annually a Committee of three or more, ("who," changed, 1888, to "of which Committee the Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman, and they") co-operating with him shall regulate all matters relating to this part of divine worship."] [in., 1888, The action of said Committee shall be in every respect subject to the control of the Quarterly Conference.]

V. As singing is a part of divine worship in which all ought to unite, therefore exhort every person in the congregation to sing, and not one in ten only.

1787.] Section 3.—In., 1872, Classes and] *Class-Meetings.

1784.] Quest. 13. How may the leaders of classes be made more useful? [1872.

Ans. 1. Let each of them be diligently examined concerning his method of meeting a class. Let this be done with all possible exactness at ["the next quarterly visitation," changed, 1787, to "least once a quarter,"] [om., 1797, And] in order to this ["allow," changed, 1787, to "take,"] sufficient time [om., 1787, for the visiting of each Society].

Let each Leader ["carefully," changed, 1872, to "be careful to"] inquire how every soul in his class prospers, not only how each person observes the outward rules, but how he grows in the knowledge and love of God.

III. Let the Leaders converse with ["the Assistant," changed, 1787, to "the Elder and Deacon," 1792, to "those who have charge of their Circuits," (in., 1872, "and Stations")] frequently and freely.

Quest. 14. Can any thing ["further," changed, 1787, to "more"] be done in order to make the class-meetings lively and profitable?

Ans. 1. Change improper Leaders.

2. Let the Leaders frequently meet each other's classes.

3. Let us observe which Leaders are the most useful, and let these meet the other classes as often as possible.

4. See that all the Leaders be not only men of sound judgment, but men truly devoted to God.

1872.] ¶ 45. The design of the organization of classes and the appointment of Leaders is:

I. To establish a system of pastoral oversight that shall effectively reach every member of the Church.

* Quest. 9. Ought not every Traveling Preacher to meet the class wherever he preaches?

Ans. Yes, if possible.—Minutes.

II. To establish and keep up a meeting for social and religious worship, for instruction, encouragement, and admonition, that shall be a profitable means of grace to our people.

III. To carry out, unless other measures be adopted, a financial plan for the raising of moneys.

¶ 46. The primary object of distributing the members of the Church into classes is to secure the sub-pastoral oversight made necessary by our itinerant economy. In order to secure this oversight:

I. ["Let a report of the condition of his class be presented by the Leader at each meeting of the Quarterly Conference," changed, 1880, to "§ 1. Let the Classes, wherever practicable, be composed of not more than twenty persons, and let the Leader report at each Quarterly Conference the condition of his Class as follows: 1. Number of members in his Class. 2. Number of Probationers. 3. Average attendance. 4. Number habitually absent. 5. Number of Class-meetings held. 6. Number who contribute to the support of the Church. 7. Number of visits made. 8. Number of heads of families in the Class, and what proportion of them observe family worship. 9. Number of Church papers taken by Class Members. 10. Miscellaneous matters."]

1781.] II. Let each Leader be careful to inquire how every soul in his class prospers; not only how each person ["observes the outward rules," changed, 1872, to "outwardly observes the rules"], but how he grows in the knowledge and love of God.

III. Let the Leaders converse with those who have the charge of their Circuits [in., 1872, and Stations] frequently and freely.

¶ 47. [In., 1872, in order to render our class-meetings interesting and profitable,] 1. Remove improper Leaders. 2. See that all the Leaders be ["not only men of sound judgment, but men truly devoted to God," changed, 1880, to "of sound judgment and truly devoted to God."]

1872.] ¶ 48. In the arrangement of class-meetings two or more classes may meet together, and be carried on according to such plan as shall be agreed upon by the Leaders in concurrence with the Preacher in Charge.

¶ 49. Let care be observed that they do not fall into formality through the use of a uniform method. Let speaking be voluntary or the exercises conversational, the Leader taking such measures as may best assist in making the services fresh, spiritual, and of permanent religious profit.

1861.] ¶ 50. Let the Leaders be directed to such a course of reading and study as shall best qualify them for their work; especially let such books be recommended as will tend to increase their knowledge of the Scriptures and make them familiar with those passages best adapted to Christian ["influence," changed, 1872, to "edification."] Whenever practicable let the Preachers examine the Leaders in the studies recommended.

1787.] Section IV, [“On.” changed, 1790, to “of”] the privileges granted to serious persons that are not of our [“Society,” changed, 1816, to “Church”].*

1781.] Quest. 11. How often shall we permit [“strangers,” changed, 1808, to “those who are not of our Society (1816, Church) [“to be present at the meeting of the Society,” changed, 1808, to “to meet in class, (om., 1816, or Society?)”]

Ans. At every other meeting of the Society in every place let no stranger be admitted. At other times they may; but the same person not above twice [in., 1787, or thrice].†

In order to this, see that all in every place show their tickets [1787. before they come in. If the Stewards and Leaders are not exact herein employ others that have more resolution.

Quest. 12. How often shall we permit strangers to be present [1861. at our love-feasts?

Ans. Let them be admitted with the utmost caution, and the same person on no account above twice or thrice, unless he becomes a member.

Section 3.—Of the Band Societies. †

1791.] Two, three, or four true believers, who have full confidence in each other, form a band. Only it is to be observed that in one of these bands all must be men, or all women, and all married, or all [“single,” changed, 1812, to “unmarried”].

Rules of the Band Societies, drawn up December 25, 1738.

The design of our meeting is to obey that command of God, “Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.”

To this end we [“intend,” changed, 1792, to “agree”]:

1. To meet once a week at least.
2. To come punctually at the hour appointed, without some extraordinary reason [in., 1808, prevents].
3. To begin [om., 1792, those of us who are present] exactly at the hour, with singing or prayer.
4. To speak each of us in order, freely and plainly, the true state of our souls, with the faults we have committed in [“thought, word, and deed,” changed, 1792, to “tempers, words, or actions”], and the temptations we have felt since our last meeting.
5. To end every meeting with prayer suited to the state of each person present.

6. To desire some person among us to speak his own state first, and then to ask the rest, in order, as many and as searching questions as may be concerning their state, sins, and temptations.

Some of the questions proposed to every one before he is admitted among us may be to this effect:

1. Have you the forgiveness of your sins?
2. Have you peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ?
3. Have you the witness of God’s Spirit with your spirit that you are a child of God?
4. Is the love of God shed abroad in your heart?
5. Has no sin, inward or outward, dominion over you?
6. Do you desire to be told your faults?
7. Do you desire to be told all your faults, and that plain and home?

* This was a separate section till 1848, then it was incorporated in this section on Class-meetings.

† This was restored from 1773.

‡ The Rules for Bands were prepared by Mr. Wesley in 1738. The original Rules, with their later modifications, are given in the text. They were inserted in the Discipline 1791, and omitted 1856. See Works of Wesley, vol. v, p. 192.

8. Do you desire that every one of us should tell you from time to time whatsoever is in ["his." changed, 1800, to "our"] heart concerning you?

9. Consider! Do you desire we should tell you whatsoever we think, whatsoever we fear, whatsoever we hear concerning you?

10. Do you desire that in doing this we should come as close as possible, that we should cut to the quick, and search your heart to the bottom?

11. Is it your desire and design to be on this and all other occasions entirely open, so as to speak every thing [om., 1792, that is in your heart without exception, without disguise, and without reserve.]

Any of the preceding questions may be asked as often as occasion offers; the four following at every meeting:

1. What known sins have you committed since our last meeting?
2. What [in., 1792, particular] temptations have you met with?
3. How were you delivered?
4. What have you thought, said, or done, of which you doubt whether it be sin or not?

Directions given to the Band Societies, December 25, 1744.

You are supposed to have the faith that "overcometh the world." To you, therefore, it is not grievous,

- I. Carefully to abstain from doing evil; in particular,
 1. Neither to buy nor sell any thing at all on the Lord's day.
 2. To taste no spirituous liquor, no dram of any kind, unless prescribed by a physician.
 3. To be at a word both in buying and selling.
 4. [Om., 1792, To pawn nothing (om., 1791, no, not to save life).*]
 5. Not to mention the fault of any behind his back, and to stop those short that do.
 6. To wear no needless ornaments, such as rings, [in., 1791, ear-rings], necklaces, lace, ruffles.
 7. To use no needless self-indulgence, [om., 1792, such as taking snuff or tobacco, unless prescribed by a physician].
- II. Zealously to maintain good works; in particular,
 1. To give alms of such things as you possess, and that ["to the uttermost of your power," changed, 1792, to "according to your ability"].
 2. To reprove all that sin in your sight, and that in love and meekness of wisdom.
 3. To be patterns of diligence and frugality, of self-denial, and taking up the cross daily.
- III. Constantly to attend on all the ordinances of God; in particular,
 1. To be at Church and at the Lord's table ["every week," changed, 1792, to "at every opportunity"], and at every public meeting of the Bands. [Om., 1792, 2. To attend the ministry of the word every morning, unless distance, business, or sickness prevent.]
 3. To use private prayer every day, and family prayer if you are at the head of a family.
 4. [In., 1792, Frequently] to read the Scriptures and meditate thereon [om., 1792, at every vacant hour.]
 5. To observe, as days of fasting or abstinence, all Fridays in the year.† [In., 1791, and om., 1792, 5. Have you nothing you desire to keep secret?]

* In publishing this rule Mr. Crowther adds the following note: "There was a fund at that time established to assist the poor, either by loan or donation, which accounts for the rigor of the rule.—Portraiture of Methodism, p. 256.

† The Discipline of 1754 has the following directions on the subject:

Quest. 19. What can be done to encourage meeting in Band?

Ans. 1. In every large society have a love-feast quarterly for the bands only. Omitted 1787. 2. Never fail to meet them once a week. 3. Exhort every believer to embrace the advantage. 4. Give a band ticket to none till they have met a quarter on trial.

Baptism.

1784.] Quest. 45. Is there any direction to be given concerning the administration of baptism? [1787.]

Ans. Let every adult person and the parents of every child to be baptized, have their choice either of immersion [in., 1786 pouring], or sprinkling, and let the Elder or Deacon conduct himself accordingly.

Quest. 46. What shall be done with those who were baptized in their infancy, but have now scruples concerning the validity of infant baptism?

Ans. Remove their scruples by argument, if you can; if not, the office may be performed by immersion or sprinkling, as the person desires. Rebaptism.

Quest. 48. Are there any directions to be given concerning the fees of office?

Ans. We will on no account whatsoever suffer any Elder or Deacon among us to receive a fee or present for administering the ordinance of marriage, baptism, or the burial of the dead. Freely we have received and freely we will give.

1787.] ¶ 51. Let every adult person and the parents of every child to be baptized have the choice either of ["immersion, sprinkling, or pouring," changed, 1834, to "sprinkling, pouring, or immersion"].

N. B. ¶ 52. We will on no account whatever ["receive a present," changed, 1828, to "make a charge"] for administering baptism, or for the ["burial," changed, 1828, to "burying"] the dead.*

The Lord's Supper.

1784.] Quest. 47. Shall persons who continue to attend [1787. divine service, and partake of the Lord's Supper with other Churches, have liberty at the same time to be members of our Society?

Ans. They shall have liberty if they comply with our rules.

Quest. 44. Are there any directions to be given concerning [1872. the administration of the Lord's Supper?

[Ans. Let it be recommended to the people to receive it kneeling; but let them at the same time be informed that they may receive it "either standing or sitting," changed, 1787, to "Ans. Let those who choose receive it kneeling, and let those who do not, either standing or sitting," changed, 1792, to (om., 1872, "Ans. ¶ 53. Let ("those," changed, 1872, to "persons") who have scruples concerning the receiving of ("it," changed, 1872, to "the ((in., 1834, sacrament of the)) Lord's Supper") kneeling, be permitted to "receive it either standing or sitting."]

Mr. Wesley's Minutes had the following additional:

Observe! You give none a band ticket before he meets, but after he has met.

Quest. (17.) Have those in band left off snuff and drams?

Ans. No. Many are still enslaved to one or the other. In order to redress this, 1. Let no Preacher touch either on any account, 2. Strongly dissuade our people from them. 3. Answer their pretenses, particularly curing the colic.

* Quest. 8. Has not the preaching of funeral sermons been carried so far as to prostitute that venerable custom, and in some sort to render it contemptible?

Ans. Yes. Therefore let all the Preachers inform every Society that we will not preach any but for those who we have reason to think died in the fear and favor of God.—Minutes of 1777.

Resolved. That rebaptism, whether of those baptized in infancy or adult age, is entirely inconsistent with the nature and design of baptism as set forth in the New Testament.—Gen. Conf., 1868.

2. Let no person who is not a member of our ["Society," [1848. changed, 1816, to "Church,"] be admitted to the communion without [a sacrament ticket, which ticket shall be changed every quarter : " changed 1787, to " examination, and some token given by an Elder or Deacon : "] [om., 1787, and we empower the Elder or Assistant, and no others, to deliver these tickets.]

1792.] ¶ 54. No person shall be admitted to the Lord's Supper among us who is guilty of any practice for which we would exclude a member of our ["Society," changed, 1816, to " Church "].*

Section 10.—Of the Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors. †

1796.] Quest. What directions shall be given concerning the 1840. sale and use of spirituous liquors ?

Ans. If any member of our Society retail or give spirituous liquors, and any thing disorderly be transacted under his roof on this account, the Preacher who has the oversight of the Circuit shall proceed against him as in the case of other immoralities, and the person accused shall be cleared, censured, suspended, or excluded, according to his conduct, as on other charges of immorality.

* " Resolved, That we earnestly recommend that in all cases the pure juice of the grape be used in the celebration of the Lord's Supper.—Jour. Gen. Conf., 1864, p. 440.

† The Rule on this subject in 1750 was as follows :

Quest. 23. Do we disapprove of the practice of distilling grain into liquor ? Shall we disown our friends who will not renounce the practice ?

Ans. Yes.

In 1783 the Conference passed this :

Quest. 11. Should our friends be permitted to make spirituous liquors, sell, and drink them in drams ?

Ans. By no means : we think it wrong in its nature and consequences, and desire all our preachers to teach the people by precept and example to put away this evil.

Coke and Asbury appended, in 1796, the following note :

" Far be it from us to wish or endeavor to intrude upon the proper religious or civil liberty of any of our people. But the retailing of spirituous liquors, and giving drams to customers, when they call at the stores, are such prevalent customs at present, and are productive of so many evils, that we judge it our indispensable duty to form a regulation against them. The cause of God, which we prefer to every other consideration under heaven, absolutely requires us to step forth with humble boldness in this respect."

" At that time (1783) it was but seldom known that a Methodist preacher drank spirituous liquors, unless in cases of extreme necessity."—Lee's History, p. 82.

The Rule for Preachers in 1784 was : Quest. 23. May our ministers or traveling Preachers drink spirituous liquors ? Ans. By no means, unless it be medicinally. This was omitted in 1786.

PART II.—GOVERNMENT OF THE CHURCH.

CHAPTER I.—THE CONFERENCES.

*The General Conference.

1792.] Quest. Who shall compose the General Confer- [1872. ence, [in., 1808, and what are the regulations and powers belonging to it]?

Ans. All the Traveling Preachers who shall be in full con- [1808. nection at the time of holding the Conference [in., 1800, and have traveled four years], [in., 1804, from the time that they were received on trial by an Annual Conference]. Members.

1808.] ¶ 55. 1. The General Conference shall be composed [in., 1872, of Ministerial and Lay Delegates. The Ministerial Delegates shall consist] of one ["member," changed 1888, to "delegate"] for every [five; 1816, seven; 1836, twenty-one; 1856, twenty-seven; 1860, thirty; 1872, forty-five] members of each Annual Conference, to be appointed either by seniority or choice, at the discretion of such Annual Conference, yet so that such representatives shall have traveled at least four full calendar years from the time that they were received on trial by an Annual Conference, and are in full connection at the time of holding the Conference.†

1872.] ¶ 56. The Lay Delegates shall consist of two Laymen for each Annual Conference, except such Conferences as have but one Ministerial Delegate, which Conferences shall be entitled to one Lay Delegate each.

¶ 57. The Lay Delegates shall be chosen by an Electoral Conference of Laymen, which shall assemble for the purpose on the third day of the session of the Annual Conference, at the place of its meeting, at its session immediately preceding the General Conference.

* "This day (July 7, 1791) Brother Jesse Lee put a paper into my hands proposing an election of not less than two nor more than four Preachers from each Conference, to form a General Conference, in Baltimore, December, 1792, to be held annually."—Asbury's Journal.

† 1872.] † A transferred Preacher shall not be counted twice in the same year as the basis of the election of Delegates to the General Conference, nor vote for Delegates to the General Conference in any Annual Conference where he is not counted as a part of the basis of representation, nor vote twice the same year on any constitutional question.

The Secretaries of the several Annual and Electoral Conferences shall send to the Secretary of the last General Conference a certified copy of the election of Delegates and Reserves to the next General Conference, in the order of their election, as soon after the election as practicable, so that a roll of Members and Reserves may be prepared for the opening of the next General Conference.

¶ 58. The Electoral Conference shall be composed of one Layman from each Circuit or Station within the bounds of the Annual Conference; and on assembling the Electoral Conference shall organize by electing a Chairman and Secretary of their own number, [in., 1876. such Laymen to be chosen by the last Quarterly Conference preceding the time of the assembling of such Electoral Conference;] Provided, that no Layman shall be chosen a Delegate either to the Electoral Conference or to the General Conference who shall be under twenty-five years of age, or who shall not have been a member of the Church in full connection for the five consecutive years preceding the elections.*

1792.] Quest. 3. When and where shall the next General [1796. Conference be held?

Ans. On the first day of November, in the year 1796, in the town of Baltimore.

Time of Meeting.

1808.] ¶ 59. II. The General Conference shall meet on the first day of May, in the year of our Lord 1812, in the City of New York, and henceforward on the first day of May once in four years perpetually, in such place or places as shall be fixed on by the General Conference from time to time; but the General Superintendents [in., 1856, or a majority of them], by ["and" 1854 to "or"] with the advice of [in., 1856, two thirds of] all the Annual Conferences [om., 1856, respectively], or, if there be no General Superintendent [in., 1856, two thirds], of all the Annual Conferences, shall have power to call [in., 1856, an extra session of the]

General Conference at any time, ["If they judge it necessary," changed, 1856, to "to be constituted in the usual way"] [in., 1884. But if there shall be no General Superintendent, then two thirds of all the Annual Conferences shall have power to call such extra session.]

¶ 60. III. At all times when the General Conference is met it shall take two thirds of ["the representatives of all the Annual Conferences to make," changed, 1872, to "the whole number of Ministerial and Lay Delegates to form"] a quorum for transacting business.

Quorum.

1872.] ¶ 61. IV. The Ministerial and Lay Delegates shall ["sit," 1854, to "vote"] and deliberate together as one body, but they shall vote separately whenever such separate vote shall be demanded by one third of either order; and in such cases the concurrent vote of both orders shall be necessary to complete an action.

1808.] ¶ 62. V. One of the General Superintendents shall ¶ 63. The General Conference shall have full powers to make rules and regulations for our Church, under the following limitations and restrictions, namely: Powers of.

I. The General Conference shall not revoke, alter, [^{nor} 1884, to, "or"] change our Articles of Religion, nor establish any new standards or rules of doctrine contrary to our present existing and established standards of doctrine. Restrictive Rules.

II. ["They," 1884, to "The General Conference"] shall not allow of more than one [in., 1872, Ministerial] Representative for every [five; 1836, fourteen] members of the Annual Conference [in., 1872, nor more than two Lay Delegates for any Annual Conference]; nor allow of a less number than one for every ["seven; 1836, thirty; 1860, forty-five"].*

1836.] Provided, nevertheless, that when there shall be in any Annual Conference a fraction of two thirds the number which shall be fixed for the ratio of representation, such Annual Conference shall be entitled to an additional delegate for such fraction; and provided, also, that no Conference shall be denied the privilege of ["two Delegates," changed, 1864, to "one Delegate"].

1808.] III. ["They," 1884, to "The General Conference"] shall not change or alter any part or rule of our government, so as to do away Episcopacy, or destroy the plan of our itinerant General Superintendency [in., 1856, † but may appoint a Missionary Bishop or Superintendent for any of our foreign missions, limiting his jurisdiction to the same respectively].

IV. They shall not revoke or change the General Rules of the United Societies.

V. ["They" 1884 to "The General Conference"] shall not do away the privileges of our Ministers or Preachers, of trial by a Committee, and of an appeal; neither shall they do away the privileges of our members, of trial before the Society, or by a Committee, and of an appeal.

VI. ["They" 1884, to "The General Conference"] shall not appropriate the produce of the Book Concern, ["or," 1828, to "nor"] of the Charter Fund, to any purpose other than for the bene-

*The General Conference of 1856 referred the question of this change to the Annual Conferences, which concurred.

† By oversight of the Editor this clause, though authorized by the General Conference of 1856, was not inserted in the Discipline until 1868.

To meet the expense of General Conference it was provided, 1868 and 1872 (see Gen. Conf. Jour., p. 251), that,

1. The Book Agents shall estimate the sum needed, and report the same to the Bishops.

2. The Bishops shall apportion it to the Conferences.

3. The Conferences shall apportion it to the Societies, and any Conference failing to do so shall forfeit all claim for the expenses of its delegation.

fit of the traveling, supernumerary, superannuated and worn-out preachers, their wives, widows, and children.

¶ 64. Provided, nevertheless, that upon the ["joint," changed, 1832, to "concurrent"] recommendation of ["all the," changed, 1832, to "three fourths of the members of the several"] Annual Conferences [in., 1832, who shall be present and vote on such recommendation], then a majority of two thirds of the General Conference succeeding shall suffice to alter any of the above restrictions [in., 1832, excepting the first article; and also, whenever such alteration or alterations shall have been first recommended by two thirds of the General Conference, so soon as three fourths of the members of all the Annual Conferences shall have concurred as aforesaid, such alteration or alterations shall take effect].

*The Annual Conferences.

1796.] Quest. 7. Are there any other directions to be given [1872. concerning the Annual Conferences? Ans.

¶ 65. There shall be [six; 1800, seven; 1812, nine; 1816, eleven; 1820, twelve; 1824, seventeen; 1832, twenty-two; 1836, twenty-eight; 1840, thirty-three; 1844, forty; 1848, thirty-one; 1852, thirty-nine; 1856, forty-seven; 1860, fifty-one;

Number. 1864, fifty-nine; 1868, seventy-one; 1872, seventy-six; 1876, eighty-nine; 1880, ninety-four; 1884, one hundred and three; 1888, one hundred and eleven] Annual Conferences in the year, [in., 1876, and these shall severally become bodies corporate, wherever practicable, under the authority of the laws of the States and Territories within whose bounds they are located.]

1792.] Quest. 1. Who ["are members," changed, 1796, to "shall attend"] the ["District," changed, 1796, to "yearly," and in 1852, to "Annual" Conferences? Ans.

¶ 66. All the Traveling Preachers [om., 1792, of the District or Districts respectively]. [in., 1852, both those] who are in full connection [in., 1796, and those who are ("to be received into full connection," changed, 1852, to "on trial")]; [in., 1872, shall attend the Annual Conference].

Time. Quest. 5. How often are the District Conferences to be held? Ans. Annually. [1796.]

Quest. 6. How many Circuits shall send Preachers in order to form a District Conference?

No. of Circuits in a District. Ans. Not fewer than three, nor more than twelve.

Union of Districts. Quest. 7. Shall the Bishop be authorized to unite two or more Districts together, where he judges it expedient, in order to form a District Conference?

Ans. He shall, as far as is consistent with the rule immediately preceding.

Quest. 8. Who shall appoint the times of holding the District Conferences? Ans. [1872.]

1888.] ¶ 67. No Annual Conference shall be organized with less than twenty effective members.

* In 1792 the Annual Conferences were in all parts of the Discipline called "District" Conferences; in 1796 "yearly" was substituted, and in 1816 "Annual." These changes are often, though not always, indicated in the text.

1792.] ¶ 68. The Bishops [in., 1872, shall appoint the times of holding the Annual Conferences]; [in., 1804, but they shall allow each Annual Conference to sit a week at least.] Time.

1804.] Quest. 3. Who shall appoint the places of holding the Annual Conferences? Ans.

¶ 69. Each Annual Conference shall appoint the place of its own sitting [in., 1856; but should it become necessary, from any unforeseen cause, to change the place of its sitting after it has been fixed by the Conference, the Preacher or Preachers in Charge of the place, and the Presiding Elder of the District where the Conference was to be held, shall have power to make such change. But this authority shall not be exercised without first consulting the other Presiding Elders of the Conference so far as practicable."] Place.

1852.] Quest. 4. Who shall preside in the Annual Conferences? [1872.]

¶ 70. A Bishop shall preside in the Annual Conferences. In case no Bishop be present ["a Presiding Elder, appointed by a Bishop by letter or otherwise," changed, 1864, to "a member of the Conference appointed by the Bishop"] shall preside. But if no appointment be made, or ["if the Presiding Elder," changed 1864, to "the person" appointed do not attend, the Conference shall [om., 1864, in either of these cases] elect a President by a ballot from among the [om., 1864, Presiding] Elders without debate. Presided.

1784.] Quest. 70. What is ["the method wherein we usually proceed in the (in., 1792, "District," changed, 1796, to "yearly," and in 1816, to "Annual" Conferences? changed, 1868, to "the business of the Annual Conferences")]? Ans. Order of Business.

According to the Annual Minutes, the order of business, prior to the organization of the Church, was as follows: Early Order.

1773. 1. How are the Preachers stationed?

2. What numbers are there in the Society?

The following questions were subsequently added at the dates prefixed to them respectively:

1774. 1. Who are admitted this year?

2. Who are admitted on trial?

4. Are there any objections to any of the Preachers?

1779. Who desist from travelin'?

1780. What Preachers are admitted into full connection?

1782. What is the yearly collection? How was it expended?

Where and when shall our next Conferences be held?

1783. What sum is to be raised for the support of the Preachers' wives?

1784. What Preachers have died this year?

1884.] ¶ 71. The Annual Conference has power to hear complaints against Traveling Preachers, and may try, reprove, suspend, deprive of Ministerial Office and Credentials, expel or acquit, any Member of the Annual Conference against whom charges may have been preferred; and in case any Member of the Annual Conference be deposed from the Ministry without being expelled from the Church, he shall have his Membership in the Church where he resides.

[NOTE.—The present order of business arranged in enlarged form in 1880, contains thirty-four questions. The original order in 1784 contained thirteen. The order of 1784 is first given and then that of 1880.]

NOTE.—The Report of Conference Treasurer shall be a summary showing the increase or decrease, by Districts, as compared with the previous year.

30. What is the Conference Treasurer's report for this Conference year?

31. What are the Claims on the Conference Fund?

32. What has been Received on these Claims, and how has it been Applied?

33. Where are the Preachers Stationed?

34. Where shall the next Conference be held?

[In., 1792, and om., 1848. Who have been elected by the unanimous suffrages of the General Conferences to exercise the Episcopal office and superintend the Methodist Episcopal Church in America?]

1784.] What was contributed for the contingent expenses? [1792. 6. How was this expended? 7. What is contributed toward the fund for the Superannuated Preachers and the widows and orphans of the Preachers? 8. What demands are there upon it? [Om., 1787, 9. How many Preachers' wives are to be provided for? By what Circuits and in what proportion?

1792.] 14. What has been collected for the contingent expenses [1832. [in., 1800, for the making up of the allowances of the Preachers, etc.]?

15. How has this been expended?

16. What is contributed toward the fund for the Superannuated Preachers, and the widows and orphans of the Preachers? [1800.

17. What demands are there upon it?

1832.] What amounts are necessary for the Superannuated Preachers, and the widows and orphans of Preachers, and to make up the deficiencies of those who have not obtained their regular allowance on the Circuits? What has been collected on the foregoing accounts, and how has it been applied? [1872.

1860.] 3. Every Annual Conference has full liberty to adopt [1864. and recommend such plans and rules as to them may appear necessary the more effectually to raise supplies for the respective allowances. Each Annual Conference is authorized to raise a fund, if they judge it proper, subject to its own control, and under such regulations as their wisdom may direct, for the relief of the distressed Traveling and Superannuated Preachers, their wives, widows, and children; and it shall be the duty of each Annual Conference to take measures from year to year to raise money in every Circuit and Station within its bounds for those purposes.

1787.] Quest. 3. Is there any other business to be done in [1872. the [in., 1792, "District," changed, 1796, to "yearly," and, 1816, to "Annual"] Conferences? Ans.

¶ 73. The Electing and Ordaining of [om., 1792, Bishops] Deacons and Elders [in., 1872, is to be done in the Annual Conferences].

1836.] ¶ 74. It shall be the duty of each Annual Conference to examine strictly into the state of the Domestic Missions within its bounds, and to allow none to remain on the list of its missions which, in the judgment of the Conference, is able to support itself.*

1872.] ¶ 75. Each Annual Conference shall report through its Secretary, annually, to the Secretaries of the Missionary Society at New York, the name of each District, Circuit, or Station within its bounds, sustained in whole or in part by said Conference as a mission, together with the amount of missionary money appropriated to such ["yearly," changed, 1876, to "for the year, and also the number of years that each mission has received assistance from the Missionary Treasury, and whether consecutively or otherwise."]

¶ 76. Each Annual Conference shall cause the Collections, as reported by the Preachers for the Statistical Tables, to be compared with the receipts of the Conference Treasurers of the several benevolent Societies, that discrepancies, Statistics. if any, may be corrected before the publication of the Minutes.

¶ 77. Preachers in Charge shall report to their Annual Conferences ["as collections, actual cash receipts only, and shall," changed, 1880, to "the amount collected for each of our Benevolent Causes. They shall "] hand the money, or a satisfactory voucher for the amount, to the Conference Financial Report. Treasurers, otherwise no credit shall be given to a contributing Charge.

1880.] ¶ 78. In each Annual Conference the Bishop presiding shall inquire whether the Disciplinary Plan for the support of our Benevolent Causes is carried out in every District and Pastoral Charge.

1888.] ¶ 79. The signatures of the Bishops presiding are essential to authenticate the Journals of the Annual Conferences, and Journals not thus attested cannot be approved by the General Conference.

1860.] ¶ 80. Each Annual Conference shall report, through its [in., 1884, statistical] Secretary, to the Sunday-School Union, the number of schools within its Sunday-School Report. bounds, together with other facts named in the form published by the Union, and contained in the annual reports of Preachers, as directed in ¶ 189, § 12.

* Transferred, 1848, from section on Receiving Travelling Preachers.

1884.] ¶ 81. That the Statistics may be rendered more complete let the following rules be observed:

§ 1. Each Annual Conference shall appoint a Statistical Secretary, [in., 1888, and also a Conference Treasurer,] whose names and addresses shall be printed in the general Minutes at the head of the Statistical Tables of the Conference.

§ 2. Each Annual Conference shall require every Preacher in Charge to present his Statistical ["report" changed, 1888, to "and Treasurer's Financial Reports"] complete, correct, and plainly written, on the first day of the Conference session.

§ 3. At the opening of the second day's session the Presiding Bishop shall call upon the Statistical Secretary [in., 1888, and Conference Treasurer, respectively,] to read the names of all Charges whose Statistics [in., 1888, or Financial Accounts] are not reported, and of all those whose Statistics or Financial Accounts are imperfectly or incorrectly reported. This call and announcement shall be made at the beginning of each day's session until the Statistics of every Charge are correctly reported.

1888.] ¶ 82. That the Benevolent Moneys be properly received and accounted for by the Annual Conferences, and in order that a uniform method shall be observed,

§ 1. Each Annual Conference shall appoint a Conference Treasurer, who shall receive and account for all moneys raised for the Church Benevolences, and such other moneys as the Conference may direct. They shall also appoint a committee to audit his accounts.

§ 2. The Conference Treasurer shall see that each Preacher in Charge duly receives a blank "Treasurer's Financial Report," which, when the provisions of ¶ 81, § 2. are complied with, he shall return to the Preacher in Charge, signed or stamped "Credited," as a voucher for the Quarterly Conference of the contributing Charge.

§ 3. The Book Agents shall provide supplies for the Conference Treasurer with those for Statistics.

1. A "Conference Treasurer's Financial Report," with envelopes for inclosure, both printed in blank, for Preacher in Charge.

2. Large sheets for Treasurer's Accounts.

§ 4. In case any Charge fails to make a report the Statistical Secretary shall fill up the blanks from the report of the preceding year, omitting the annual Collections; and he shall indicate such filling up by putting the figures in brackets.

1884.] § 5. When the name of a Charge has been changed the Statistical Secretary shall cause the former one to be printed in parentheses after the present one.

§ 6. All Collections and other moneys must be reported in even dollars.

1800.] ¶ 83. A record of the proceedings of each Annual Conference shall be kept by a Secretary chosen for the purpose, [in., 1804, and shall be signed by the President and Secretary,] and ["let a copy of said records be sent," changed, 1872, to "a copy of said record shall be sent"] to the General Conference; [in., 1872, om., 1884, also the minutes and documents of the trial of any member of the Conference who may have been condemned or censured shall be forwarded with the record.] Secretary.

1884.] ¶ 84. Each Annual Conference shall appoint annually, for each of its Districts, a Board of Church Location, which shall consist of the Presiding Elder, who shall be chairman, and not less than two nor more than five Ministers, and an equal number of Laymen. The duty of said Board shall be to prevent, as far as possible, the selection of improper sites, and to consider and determine all questions relating to the selection of new church locations which may be referred to it by the Presiding Elder or by the vote of any Quarterly Conference. The decision of said Board in regard to the location of a church edifice shall be final, unless overruled by the Annual Conference.

1792.] Quest. 11. How are the Districts to be formed? [1848.

Ans. According to the judgment of the Bishops [in., 1844, provided, that no District shall contain more than fifteen appointments]. Forming the Districts.

N. B. In case that there be no Bishop to travel through the District and exercise the Episcopal office on account of death [in., 1800, or otherwise] the Districts shall be regulated in every respect by the ["District," changed, 1796, to "yearly," 1816, to "Annual"] Conferences and the Presiding Elders till the ensuing General Conference (ordinations only excepted).

Mission Conferences.

1888.] ¶ 85, § 1. Any Mission in the United States established under the provisions of the Discipline, ¶¶ 356-358, may be constituted a Mission Conference by the General Conference.

§ 2. A Mission Conference is authorized to exercise the powers of an Annual Conference. ¶¶ 71-83, subject to the approval of the Presiding Bishop, and its members shall share pro rata in the proceeds of the Book Concerns with members of the Annual Conferences, but shall not elect Delegates to the General Conference nor vote on constitutional changes.

§ 3. The Bishop having Episcopal supervision of a Mission Conference may appoint a Superintendent, who may also be a Presiding Elder of a District, where there are two or more Districts. It shall be the duty of the Superintendent to take the general supervision of the entire Conference, and to represent the state of the work and its needs to the Bishop having charge, and to the Corresponding Secretaries of the Missionary Society.

§ 4. If there be no Bishop present at an Annual Meeting of a Mission Conference the Superintendent shall preside; but if there be no Superintendent present the presidency shall be determined as in an Annual Conference, ¶ 70.

§ 5. Each Mission Conference at its Annual Session shall appoint a Standing Committee, whose duty it shall be, with the concurrence of the President of the Conference, to make an estimate of the amount necessary for the support of each Pastoral Charge, or appointment, in full, or supplementary to the amount raised by the Charge or Appointment thus aided; such estimates shall be subject to modification by the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, and in the aggregate shall not exceed the amount appropriated by the General Missionary Committee; and the amount to be expended in a Mission Conference shall be paid in quarterly installments to the Superintendent, or Presiding Elder where there is no Superintendent.

¶ 86. Any Charge or Appointment within a Mission Conference may receive aid from the Missionary Society without having been designated in the estimates made by the Conference at its Annual Meeting.

Section 3.—The District Conferences.

1872.] ¶ 87. The District Conferences shall be composed of the Traveling and Local Preachers, the Exhorters, the District Stewards, and [Members. the Sunday-School Superintendents," changed, 1876, to "one Sunday-School Superintendent and one Class Leader from each Pastoral Charge "] in the District. But if there shall be more than one Sunday-School Superintendent in any Circuit or Station, then the Quarterly Conference shall designate one of them for this service, [in., 1876, and it shall also select the Class Leader.]

¶ 88. The District Conference shall meet [Time. "twice each year," changed, 1876, to "once or twice each year in each Presiding Elder's District, as each District Conference shall determine for itself "] at such time and place as the Presiding Elder shall designate for the first meeting after the adoption of this plan by any District; but the District Conference shall, at [Time. "any," 1876, to "the "] meeting, determine the place for its next meeting, the time to be fixed by the Presiding Elder. The first District Conference shall be held in the early part of it; the second near the close.

[President. "The Presiding Elder shall preside in the District Conference. In his absence," changed, 1876, to "¶ 89. A Bishop, when present, shall preside at the District Conference. If no Bishop be present, the Presiding Elder of the District shall preside. And, if both be absent"], the District Conference shall choose its own President by ballot, from among the Traveling Elders.

The Minutes of the District Conference shall be kept by a Secretary [1876, chosen by the Conference. The Minutes shall be carefully recorded in a book provided for the purpose, and kept by the Secretary for future use or reference. Secretary.

1876.] ¶ 90. A record of the proceedings of each District Conference shall be kept by a Secretary chosen for the purpose, and a copy of said record shall be sent to the ensuing Annual Conference.

1872.] ¶ 91. The regular business of the District Conference shall be, — Order of Business.

I. To take the general oversight of all the temporal and spiritual affairs of the District, subject to the provisions of the Discipline.

II. To take cognizance of all the Local Preachers and Exhorters in the District, and to inquire respecting the gifts, labors, and usefulness of each by name, and to arrange a plan of appointments for each [“for the ensuing half year,” changed, 1876, to “until the next District Conference”].

III. To hear complaints against Local Preachers; to try, suspend, deprive of ministerial office and credentials, expel or acquit any Local Preacher against whom charges may be preferred.

IV. To license Local Preachers. [in., 1884, to inquire if they will wholly abstain from the use of tobacco;] [in., 1876, to renew the licenses of Local Preachers and Exhorters annually], and to recommend to the Annual Conference Local Preachers as suitable candidates for Deacons' or Elders' Orders, and for admission on trial in the Traveling Connection; Provided, that no person shall be licensed to preach, nor [in., 1876, “shall his license to preach or exhort, be renewed; nor shall he be”] recommended for orders, nor for admission in the Traveling Connection, without the recommendation of the Quarterly Conference, or of the Stewards' and Leaders' Meeting of the Circuit or Station of which he is a member; and in all cases the candidates shall first pass a satisfactory examination in [“doctrine and discipline,” changed, 1876, to “such courses of studies as the Bishops shall prescribe. The District Conference shall also have the powers given to the Quarterly Conference in ¶ 151, § 1, and ¶ 153, relating to the recognition of orders.”]

V. To inquire whether all the collections for the Benevolent Institutions of the Church, as recognized by the Discipline, are properly attended to in all the Circuits and Stations, and to adopt suitable measures for promoting their success.

VI. To inquire into the condition of the Sunday-schools in the District, and to adopt suitable measures for insuring their success.

VII. To inquire respecting opportunities for Missionary and Church Extension enterprises within the District, and to take measures for the occupation of any neglected portions of its territories by mission Sunday-schools and appointments for public worship.

VIII. To provide for appropriate religious and literary exercises during its session for the mutual benefit of those attending upon them.

District Stewards. 126. IX. The District Stewards shall, at the place, and at or near the time of the first District Conference for the year, make their estimate for the support of the Presiding Elder, as provided for in ¶ 289.

1876.] ¶ 92. The order of business in the District Conference shall be,—

1. To inquire what members of the District Conference are present.
2. To appoint Committees on,—

(1.) Examination of candidates for license to preach. (2.) Examination of Local Preachers in each of the four years of the course of study. (3.) Examination of candidates for admission into the Traveling Connection. (4.) Examination of candidates for Orders. (5.) Home Mission Work. (6.) Appointments of Local Preachers and Exhorters. (7.) Apportionment to each charge of the amounts to be raised for benevolent purposes. (8.) Programme of religious and literary exercises for next meeting. (9.) Miscellaneous matters.

3. To receive reports:—

(1.) From the Presiding Elder, as to the condition of the work under his charge, and his own work as Presiding Elder. (2.) From each Pastor, as to the religious condition of his charge, his pastoral labors, the benevolent collections, and the circulation of Church periodicals and books. (3.) From each Local Preacher, the form of which report shall be prescribed by each District Conference. (4.) From each Exhorter, including a statement of the prayer-meetings he has held, and other work done, especially in destitute places, and among the sick and poor. (5.) From each District Steward, as to the temporal affairs of the charge he represents. (6.) From each Superintendent, as to the condition of the Sunday-schools of the charge he represents. (7.) From each Class Leader, as to the condition of the classes of the charge he represents. (8.) From each Committee.

4. To inquire concerning Local Preachers:—

(1.) Are there any charges or complaints? (2.) Who shall have their licenses renewed? (3.) Who shall be licensed to preach? (4.) Who shall be recommended for ordination? (5.) Who shall be recommended for recognition of Orders? (6.) Who shall be recommended for admission into the Traveling Connection? (7.) Where are the Local Preachers stationed?

5. To inquire concerning Exhorters:—

(1.) Who shall have their licenses renewed? (2.) What work is assigned each Exhorter?

6. Where shall the next District Conference be held?

7. Is there any other business?

¶ 93. The order of business may be varied, and the business interspersed with such literary and religious exercises as the Conference may direct.

1872.] ¶ 94. The provisions ["of this section," changed, 1876, to "for District Conferences"] shall be of force, and binding only on those Districts in which the Quarterly Conferences of a majority of the Circuits and Stations shall have approved, ["it," changed, 1876, to "the same"] by asking the Presiding Elder to convene a District Conference, as herein provided, [in., 1876. A District Conference may be discontinued by a vote of ["two thirds," 1884, to "a majority"] of the members present at any regular session, notice thereof having been given at a previous session, and with the concurrence of three fourths of the Quarterly Conferences in the District.] In those Districts in which District Conferences shall be held, the powers by this section given to the District Conferences shall not be exercised by the Quarterly Conferences. In all other cases ["their powers," changed, 1876, to "the powers of the Quarterly Conferences"] shall remain as heretofore provided.

1820.] Quest. 1. What directions shall be given concerning [1836. Local Preachers? *

1. There shall be held annually in each Presiding Elder's District a District Conference, of which all the Local Preachers in the District, who shall have been licensed two years, shall be Members. members [in., 1828, a majority of whom shall be a quorum to do business], and of which the Presiding Elder of the District for the time being shall be president; or, in case of his absence, the Conference shall have authority to elect a president pro tem. It shall be the duty of the Presiding Elder of each District to appoint the time and place of the first Conference, after which the Presiding Elder shall Time and Place. appoint the time, and the Conference the place, of its own sitting, [in., 1824, ("Provided, that if any District Conference shall refuse or neglect to," changed, 1828, to "But if any District Conference shall not") hold its regular sessions, then the Quarterly Meeting Conferences of the Circuits and Stations respectively shall have authority to transact the business of the District Conference]; [in., 1828, Provided, that no person shall be licensed to preach without the recommendation of the Society of which he is a member, or of a Leaders' meeting].

2. The said District Conference shall have authority to license proper persons to preach, and renew their license [in., 1824, annually, Business. when, in the judgment of the said Conference, their gifts, grace, and usefulness will warrant such renewal], to recommend suitable candidates to the Annual Conference for Deacons' and Elders' orders, in the local connection, for admission on trial in the traveling connection, and to try, suspend, expel, or acquit any Local Preacher in the District against whom charges may be brought; Provided, that no person shall be licensed [in., 1824, or recommended for admission into the traveling connection] without being first recommended by the Quarterly Conference of the Circuit or Station to which he belongs, nor shall any one be licensed to preach, or recommended to the Annual Conference for ordination, without first being examined in the District Conference on the subjects of doctrine and discipline.

3. The District Conference shall take cognizance of all the Local Preachers in the District, and shall inquire into the gifts, labors, Duties. and usefulness of each Preacher by name.†

It shall be the duty of the Committee on Church Records to see that the Records of Membership, the Records of the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting, of the Official Board, of the Sunday-School Board, of the Board of Trustees, and of the Quarterly Conference are properly kept, and when any of these books are filled up, or are no longer in use, they shall be deposited with the Recording Steward for preservation.

The Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting.

1881.] ¶ 102. The Preacher in Charge shall, as often as practicable, hold a meeting of all the Leaders and Stewards of the Circuit or Station, to be denominated the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting, in order to inquire, 1. Are there any sick ? 2. Are there any requiring temporal relief ? 3. Are there any who walk disorderly and will not be reprov'd ? 4. Are there any who willfully neglect the means of grace ? 5. Are any changes to be made in the Classes ? 6. Are there any Probationers to be recommended for reception into Full Connection? 7. Are there any to be recommended for license to exhort or to preach? 8. What amount has been received for the support of the Pastor or Pastors? 9. Is there any miscellaneous business?

The Official Board.

¶ 103. Whenever the Quarterly Conference of any charge shall desire it, it may organize, and continue during its pleasure, an Official Board to be composed of all the Members of the Quarterly Conference, including all the Trustees, except such Trustees and such Sunday-school Superintendents as are not Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The Official Board may hold its meetings at such times as it may determine, and shall be presided over by the Preacher in Charge, or in his absence by a Chairman pro tempore, elected by the meeting. When so organized, the Official Board may discharge the duties belonging to the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting, except the special duties pointed out in questions 3 to 8 inclusive, in ¶ 102 of the Discipline. It may also devise and carry into effect suitable plans for providing for the Finances of the Church, and discharge such other duties as the Quarterly Conference may from time to time commit to it, not otherwise provided for in the Discipline. The Board shall keep a record of its proceedings, and send the same to the Fourth Quarterly Conference for approval.

CHAPTER II.—THE MINISTRY.

Examination of ["those," 1833, to "persons"] called to Preach.

1787.] The ["trial," changed, 1848, to "examination," and in 1860 to "call and examination," and again, 1864, "examination"] of ["those," 1833, to "persons"] who think they are moved by the Holy Ghost to preach.

1784.] Quest. 68. How shall we try those who ["think [1872. they are]" changed, 1787, to "profess to be"] moved by the Holy Ghost to preach? Ans.

¶ 104. [In., 1872, In order that we may try those who profess to be moved by the Holy Ghost to preach,] The Test. ["inquire," changed, 1757, to "let them be asked the following questions. viz.," 1796, to "let the following questions be asked, namely:"]

I. Do they know God as a pardoning God? Have they the love of God abiding in them? Do they desire [om., 1816, and seek] nothing but God? And are they holy in all manner of conversation?

II. Have they gifts (as well as grace) for the work? Have they (in some tolerable degree) a clear, sound understanding;

[om., 1787, Have they] a right judgment in the things of God; a just conception of salvation by faith? And has God given them any degree of utterance? Do they speak justly, readily, clearly? Gifts.

III. ["Have they fruit? Are any truly convinced of sin, and converted to God by their preaching?" changed, 1880, to "Have any been truly convinced of sin and converted to God, and are believers edified by their preaching?"] Usefulness.

¶ 105. As long as these [om., 1880, three] marks concur in any one, we believe he is called of God to preach. These we receive as sufficient proof that he is moved by the Holy Ghost.

1848.] Section 2.*—Rules for a Preacher's Conduct.

1784.] Quest. 33. (26.) What are ["the rules of a helper," changed, 1787, to "the directions given to a Preacher"]?

¶ 106. Rule 1. Be diligent. Never be unemployed ["a moment," Large Minutes]; never be triflingly employed. Never trifle away time; neither spend any more time at any place than is strictly necessary.

¶ 107. Rule 2. Be serious. Let your motto be, Holiness to the Lord. Avoid all lightness, jesting, and foolish talking.

¶ 108. Rule 3. Converse sparingly and ["cautiously," changed, 1804, to "conduct yourselves prudently"] with women [om., 1787, particularly with young women"]. 1 Tim. v, 2.

[Om., 1884, Rule 4. Take no step toward marriage without first ["consulting," 1876, to "advising"] with your brethren.]

¶ 109. Rule 5. Believe evil of no one [in., 1792, without good evidence]; unless you see it done, take heed how you credit it. Put the best construction on every thing. You know the judge is always supposed to be on the prisoner's side.

¶ 110. Rule 6. Speak evil of no one; because your word, especially, would eat as doth a canker. Keep your thoughts within your own breast till you come to the person concerned.

¶ 111. Rule 7. Tell every one under your care what you think wrong in his conduct and temper,† and that [om., 1804, lovingly and] plainly, as soon as may be; ["else," 1804, to "because,"] it will fester in your heart. Make all haste to cast the fire out of your bosom.

¶ 112. Rule 8. ["Do not affect the gentleman (om., 1786, you have no more to do with this character than with that of a dancing-master)", changed, 1792, to "Avoid all affectation."] A Preacher of the Gospel is the servant of all.

¶ 113. Rule 9. Be ashamed of nothing but sin [om., 1787, not of fetching wood (if time permit) or drawing water]; [om., 1786, not of cleaning your own shoes or your neighbor's].

* The provisions of this section are found originally in the Discipline of 1784, Quest. 33, and in 1787 were placed in the section on the Methods of Receiving Preachers; thence here, in 1848, "Rule" inserted before each paragraph, 1872.

† "Him."—Large Minutes.

¶ 114. Rule 10. Be punctual. Do every thing exactly at the time. And ["in general," Large Minutes,] do not mend our rules, but keep them; not for wrath, but conscience' sake.

¶ 115. Rule 11. You have nothing to do but to save souls: therefore spend and be spent in this work; and go always not only to those that want you, but to those that want you most.

¶ 116. Observe! it is not your business only to preach so many times, and to take care of this or that Society, but to save as many as you can; to bring as many sinners as you can to repentance, and with all your power to build them up in that holiness without which they cannot see the Lord. And remember! a Methodist preacher is to mind every point, great and small, in the Methodist Discipline! Therefore you will need ["all the sense you have, and to have all your wits about you" changed, 1787, to "to exercise all the sense and grace you have"].

¶ 117. Rule 12. Act in all things not according to your own will, but as a son in the Gospel. As such, it is your duty to employ your time in the manner in which we direct: in preaching, and visiting from house to house; in reading, meditation, and prayer. Above all, if you labor with us in the Lord's vineyard, it is needful you should do that part of the work which we advise, at those times and places which we judge most for his glory. [Om., 1789, N. B. No Helper. or even Deacon, shall on any pretense, at any time whatsoever, administer the Lord's Supper.]

Quest. 55. (37.) Are there any smaller advices which might be of use to us? Ans.

¶ 118. [In., 1872, Smaller advices which might be of use to us are, perhaps these:

1. Be sure never to disappoint a congregation [om., 1787, unless in case of life or death]. 2. Begin ["and end," Large Minutes] at the time appointed. 3. Let your whole deportment [om., 1787, before the congregation] be serious, weighty, and solemn. 4. Always suit your subject to your audience. 5. Choose the plainest text you can. 6. Take care not to ramble, but keep to your text, and make out what you take in hand. 7. Take care of any thing awkward or affected, either in your gesture, phrase, or pronunciation. 8. Do not usually pray extempore above eight or ten minutes (at most) without intermission. 9. Frequently read and enlarge upon a portion of Scripture;* and let young preachers often exhort without taking a text. 10. ¶ 123. The INSTITUTED are:—

I. Prayer: private, family, and public; consisting of deprecation, petition, intercession, and thanksgiving. Do you use each of these? Do you use private prayer every morning and evening? If you can, at five in the evening; and the hour before or after morning preaching? † Do you forecast daily, wherever you are, to secure time for private devotion? Do you ["avow," changed, 1789, to "practice"] it every-where? Do you ask every-where, Have you family prayer? [Om., 1789, Do you retire at five o'clock?] [In., 1789, Do you ask individuals, Do you use private prayer every morning and evening in particular?]

Means of Grace.

II. Searching the Scriptures, by 1. Reading: constantly, some part of every day; regularly, all the Bible in order; carefully, with [om., 1792, Mr. Wesley's] notes; seriously, with prayer before and after; fruitfully, immediately practicing what you learn there. 2. Meditating: At set times. By rule. 3. Hearing [om., 1789, every morning? carefully] [in., 1789, every opportunity?]: with prayer, before, at, and after? Have you a ["New Testament," changed, 1789, to 'Bible'] always about you?

III. The Lord's Supper: Do you use this at every opportunity? With solemn prayer before? With earnest and deliberate self-devotion?

IV. Fasting: ["How do you fast every Friday?" changed, 1789, to "Do you use as much abstinence and fasting every week as your health, strength, and labor will permit?"] it not be well always to have a determined end in view? And to pray before and after it?

¶ 124. PRUDENTIAL means we may use either as Christians, as Methodists, or as Preachers, ["or as assistants," changed, 1757, to "or as Ministers," and om., 1792.]

I. As Christians: What particular rules have you in order to grow in grace? What arts of holy living?

II. As Methodists: Do you never miss your class [om., 1856, or band]?

III. As Preachers: Have you thoroughly considered your duty? And do you make a conscience of executing every part of it [om., 1759, as assistants]? Do you meet every Society ["also the Leaders and bands," changed, 1796, to "and their Leaders?"]

¶ 125. These means may be used without fruit. But there are some means which cannot: namely, watching, denying ourselves, taking up our cross, exercise of the presence of God.

I. Do you steadily watch against the world? Yourself? Your besetting sin?

II. Do you deny yourself every useless pleasure of sense? Imagination? Honor? Are you temperate in all things? Instance in food: 1. Do you use only that kind and that degree which is best both for body and soul? Do you see the necessity of this? [Om., 1792, Do you eat no flesh suppers? No late suppers?] 2. Do you eat no more at each meal than is necessary? Are you not heavy or drowsy after dinner? 3. Do you use only that kind, and that degree, of drink which is best both for your body and soul? ["Do you drink water? Why not? Did you ever? Why did you leave it off? If not for health, when will you begin again? to-day? How often do you drink wine [or ale] every day? Do you want it?" changed, 1759, to 4. Do you choose and use water for your common drink? And only take wine medicinally or sacramentally?]

III. Wherein do you take up your cross daily? Do you cheerfully bear your cross, however grievous to nature, as a gift of God, and labor to profit thereby?

IV. Do you endeavor to set God always before you? To see his eye continually fixed upon you?

¶ 126. Never can you use these means but a blessing will ensue. And the more you use them, the more you will grow in grace.

1787.] The Necessity of Union among Ourselves.

¶ 127. Let us be deeply sensible (from what we have known) of the evil of a division in principle, spirit, or practice, and the dreadful consequences to ourselves and others. If we are united, what can stand before us? If we divide, we shall destroy ourselves, the work of God, and the souls of our people.

1784.] Quest. 67. (49.) What can be done in order to a closer union [om., 1787, of our Helpers] with each other? Ans.

¶ 128. [In., 1872, In order to a closer union with each other],
1. Let ["them" changed, 1787, to "us"] be deeply convinced of the [want there is of it at present, and (Large Minutes)] absolute necessity of it.

2. ["Let them pray for a desire of union. Let them speak freely to each other," changed, 1787, to "Pray earnestly for and speak freely to each other."]

3. When ["they" changed, 1787, to "we"] meet, let us (them) never part without prayer.

¶ 130. Other reasons may concur, but the chief [in., 1872, reason that the people under our care are not better] is, because we are not more knowing and more holy.

Quest. 51. But why are we not more knowing? Ans.

¶ 131. [In., 1872, And we are not more knowing] because we are idle. We forget our first rule: "Be diligent. Never be unemployed. Never be triflingly employed. Neither spend any more time at any place than is strictly necessary." We fear there is altogether a fault in this matter, and that few of us are clear. Which of us spend as many hours a day in God's work as we did formerly in man's work? We talk ["or read history or," changed, 1789, to "talk—talk—or read"] what comes next to hand. We must, absolutely must, cure this evil, or betray the cause of God. But how? 1. Read the most useful books, and that regularly and constantly. 2. Steadily spend all the morning in this employment, or at least five hours in the four and twenty. "But I have no taste for reading." ‖ "But I read only the Bible." Then you ought to teach others to read only the Bible, and, by parity of reason, to hear only the Bible; but if so you need preach no more. Just so said George Bell. And what is the fruit? Why, now he neither reads the Bible nor any thing else. This is rank enthusiasm. If you need no book but the Bible you are got above St. Paul. He wanted others too. "Bring the books," says he, "but especially the parchments," these wrote on parchment."

Ans. 1. By meeting the married men and women together [1787. the first Sunday after the *Quarterly Meeting the single men and women apart on the two following, in all the large Societies; ["this has been much neglected".—Large Minutes.]

By instructing them at their own houses. What unspeakable need is there of this! The world says, "The Methodists are no better than other people." This is not true. ["But it is nearer the truth than we are willing to believe. N. B. For," changed, 1789, to "in the general, but"], 1. Personal religion, either toward Personal Religion. God or man, is ["amazingly," changed, 1789, to "too"] superficial among us. We† can but just touch on a few ["generals," changed, 1789, to "particulars"]. How little faith is there among us! How little communion with God! How little living in heaven, walking in eternity, deadness to every creature! How much love of the world! Desire of pleasure, of ease [om., 1789, of praise],‡ of getting money! How little brotherly love! What continual judging one another! What gossiping, evil-speaking, tale-bearing! What want of moral honesty! To instance only ["one or two particulars," changed, 1787, to "one particular"]: who does as he would be done by in buying and selling? [Om., 1787, Particularly in selling horses? Write him a knave that does not. And the Methodist knave is the worst of all knaves.]

2. Family religion is ["shamefully wanting, and almost in every," changed, 1789, to "wanting in many"] branches.

Family Religion. ["And the Methodists in general will be little better till we take quite another course with them. For," changed, 1789, to "and"] what avails public preaching alone, though we could preach like angels? We must, yea, every Traveling Preacher must, instruct ["them," changed, 1789, to "the people"] from house to house. Till this be done, and that in good earnest, Methodists will be no better.

3. Our religion is not [in., 1816, sufficiently] deep, universal, uniform; but superficial, partial, uneven. It will be so till we spend half as much time in this visiting Defective Expe- rience. as we do now in talking uselessly. Can we find a better method of doing this than Mr. Baxter's? If not, let us adopt it without delay. His whole tract, entitled "Gildas Salvianus [in., 1856, or, "The Reformed Pastor"], is well worth a careful perusal.§ Speaking of this visiting from house to house, he says (p. 251), "We shall find many hinderances, both in ourselves and the people." 1. In ourselves there is much dullness and laziness, so that there will be much ado to get us to be faithful in the work. 2. We have a base, man-pleasing temper, so that we let people perish rather than lose their love; we let them go quietly to hell lest we should offend them. 3. Some of us have also a foolish bashfulness. We know not how to begin, and blush to contradict the devil. 4. But the greatest hinderance is weakness of faith. Our whole motion is weak, because the spring of it is weak. 5. Lastly, we are unskillful in the work. How few know how to deal with men so as to get within them, and suit all our discourse to their several conditions and tempers; to choose the fittest subjects, and follow them with a holy mixture of seriousness, terror, love, and meekness!

¶ 141. *But undoubtedly this private application is implied in those solemn words of the apostle: "I charge thee before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing, preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering."

¶ 142. O brethren, if we could but set this work on foot in all our Societies, and prosecute it zealously, what glory would redound to God! If the common lukewarmness † were banished, and every shop and every house busied in speaking of the word and works of God, surely God would dwell in our habitations, and make us his delight.

¶ 143. And this is absolutely necessary to the welfare of our people, some of whom neither repent nor believe to this day. Look around, and see how many of them are still in apparent danger of damnation. And how can you walk and talk and be merry with such people when you know their case? When you look them in the face you should break forth into tears, as the prophet did when he looked upon Hazael, and then set on them with the most vehement exhortations. O for God's sake, and the sake of poor souls, bestir yourselves, and spare no pains that may conduce to their salvation! What cause have we to bleed before the Lord [om., 1796, this day] that we have so long neglected this good work! If we had but engaged in it sooner, how many more might have been brought to Christ! And how much holier and happier might ["we have made our Societies," changed, 1800, to "our Societies have been"] before now! And why might we not have done it sooner? There ["are," changed, 1799, to "were"] many hinderances; and so there always will be. But the greatest hinderance ["is," 1800, to "was"] in ourselves, in our littleness of faith and love.

* "And"—Large Minutes.

¶ 144. But it is objected, I, "This will take up so much time that we shall not have *leisure to follow our studies." We † answer, 1. Gaining knowledge is a good thing, but saving souls is a better. 2. By this very thing you will gain the most excellent knowledge, that of God and eternity. 3. You will have time for gaining other knowledge too. Only sleep no more than you need, "and never be idle or triflingly employed." But, 4. If you can do but one, let your studies alone. We ‡ ought to throw by all the libraries in the world rather than be guilty of the loss of one soul.

It is objected, II. "The people will not submit to it." Objection 2. If some will not, others will. And the success with them will repay all your labor. O let us herein follow the example of St. Paul! 1. For our general business, Serving the Lord with all humility of mind; 2. Our special work, Take heed to yourselves and to all the flock; 3. Our doctrine, Repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ; 4. The place, I have taught you publicly, and from house to house; 5. The object and manner of teaching, I ceased not to warn every one night and day, with tears; 6. His innocence and self-denial herein, I have coveted no man's silver or gold; 7. His patience, Neither count I my life dear unto myself. And among all other motives let these be ever before our eyes: (1) The Church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood; (2) Grievous wolves shall enter in; yea, of yourselves shall men arise, speaking perverse things.

¶ 145. Write this upon your hearts, and it will do you more good than twenty years' study. Then you will have no time to spare: you will have work enough. Then, likewise, no Preacher will stay with us who is as salt that has lost its savor. For to such this employment would be mere drudgery. And in order to it, you will have need of all the knowledge you can procure, and grace you can attain.

¶ 146. The sum is, Go into every house in course, and teach every one therein, [om., 1757, if they belong to us], young and old, to be Christians inwardly and outwardly; make every particular plain to their understandings; fix it in their ["memory," changed, 1759, to "minds"], write it on their hearts. In order to this there must be line upon line, precept upon precept. What patience, what love, what knowledge is requisite for this! We must needs do this, were it only to avoid idleness. Do we not loiter away many hours in every week? Each try himself; no idleness is consistent with a growth in grace. Nay, without exactness in redeeming time, you cannot retain the grace you receive in justification.

¶ 147. Why are we not more holy? why do we not live in eternity? walk with God all the day long? why are we not all devoted to God? breathing the whole spirit of missionaries? Chiefly because we are enthusiasts; looking for the end without using the means. To touch only upon two or three instances: Who of ["you," changed, 1800, to "us"] rise at four, or even at five, when we do not preach?

Personal Devotion and Effort.

Do you recommend to all our Societies the five o'clock hour for private prayer? Do you observe it or any other fixed time? Do you not find by experience that any time is no time?

[1787.

Do ["you," 1800, to "we"] know the obligation and benefit of fasting or abstinence? How often do we practice it? The neglect of this alone is sufficient to account for our feebleness and faintness of spirit. We are continually grieving the Holy Spirit of God by the habitual neglect of a plain duty. Let us amend from this hour.

TRAVELING PREACHERS.

The Method of Receiving Traveling Preachers ["and their duty," changed, 1848, to "on Trial"].

1784.] Quest. 36. What method shall we take to prevent [1787. improper persons from preaching among us as Traveling Preachers? *

* In 1780 it was required that all the Traveling Preachers should take a license from every Conference, signed by Mr. Asbury.

† In 1782, the more effectually to "guard against disorderly Traveling Preachers," it was ordered, "Write at the bottom of every certificate, 'The authority this conveys is limited to next Conference.'"

1784.] ¶ 152. Observe! taking on trial is entirely different from admitting a Preacher [om., 1804, into full connection.] One on trial may be either admitted or rejected without doing him any wrong, otherwise it would be no trial at all. [Om., 1848, "Let every ("Assistant," 1787, to "Deacon or Elder," 1792, to "one that has the charge of a Circuit.") explain this to those who are not on trial, as well as to those who are in future to be proposed for trial.]*

1836.] ¶ 153. At each Annual Conference those who are received on trial, or are admitted into full connection, shall be asked whether they are willing to devote themselves to the missionary work, and a list of the names of all those who are willing to do so shall be taken and reported to the Corresponding Secretaries of the Missionary Society; and all such shall be considered as ready and willing to be employed as missionaries whenever called for by either of the Bishops.

Missionary Bishops.

1888.] ¶ 166. A Missionary Bishop is a Bishop elected for a specified Foreign Mission field, with full Episcopal powers, but with Episcopal jurisdiction limited to the Foreign Mission field for which he was elected.

¶ 167. A Missionary Bishop is not, in the meaning of the Discipline, a General Superintendent.

¶ 168. A Missionary Bishop is not subordinate to the General Superintendents, but is co-ordinate with them in authority in the field to which he is appointed, and is amenable for his conduct to the General Conference, as is a General Superintendent.

¶ 169. The election of a Missionary Bishop carries with it the assignment to a specified Foreign Mission field, and such Bishop cannot be made a General Superintendent except by a distinct election to that office.

¶ 170. A Missionary Bishop should receive his support from the Episcopal Fund.

¶ 171. A Missionary Bishop should, in his field, co-operate with the Missionary Society of the Church in the same way that a General Superintendent co-operates in the Foreign Mission field over which he has Episcopal charge.

¶ 172. When a Missionary Bishop, by death or other cause, ceases to perform Episcopal duty for the foreign field to which he was assigned by the General Conference, the General Superintendents at once take supervision of said field.

¶ 173. In the matter of a transfer of a Preacher from a field within the jurisdiction of a Missionary Bishop, to a Conference under the Episcopal supervision of a General Superintendent, or from a Conference under the Episcopal supervision of a General Superintendent, to a field within the jurisdiction of a Missionary Bishop, it shall require mutual agreement between the two Bishops, and a similar agreement shall be required between the two Bishops having charge, when the proposed transfer is between two foreign fields, over which there are Missionary Bishops.

¶ 174. In case of a complaint against, or the trial of a Missionary Bishop, the preliminary steps shall be as in the case of a General Superintendent, but the Missionary Bishop may be tried before a Judicial Conference in the United States of America.

* The office of Presiding Elder, though formally instituted in 1792, dates back in its substances to an earlier period. Like many other features in our economy, this grew out of the exigencies of early American Methodism. Prior to 1784 few of the preachers were ordained, and the people were obliged to resort for the sacrament to the English Church.

But as they were "thoroughly convinced that the Church of England, to which they had been united, was deficient in several of the most important parts of Church discipline, and that it had lost the life and power of religion," this course created dissatisfaction in the Societies, and induced the founder to depute Dr. Coke to apply a remedy to the evil. The visit of Coke resulted in the Christmas Conference, at which the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized, and provision made for the sacraments.

At this Conference twelve, or, as some say, thirteen men were ordained Elders for the purpose of securing the administration of the sacraments among our Societies. By the Conference they were elected simply to the office of Traveling Elder, and for the sole purpose of administering the sacraments. But after the Conference adjourned, Bishop Asbury, "on his own authority to appoint the Preachers, grouped most of the Circuits into Districts, appointing an Elder to each District." The selection for Districts was by Asbury, not the Conference. The Conference elected the men to the order of Traveling Elders; the Bishop assigned them to Districts, and intrusted to them whatever supervisory powers they may have possessed. This was clearly the state of the case down to 1786.

A moment's reflection will convince the reader that the legislation of 1786, 1787, did not change the status of the Elder, as those provisions related to only a part of the Elders. The Conference of 1786 added certain duties, not to all Elders, but to the office of an Elder "in his own District," or, as in 1787, "in his appointed District." By these provisions the Conference did not create the Districts, nor assign the men to them; it simply indicated the duties to be performed by men whom the Bishop should assign.

If there was a sub-superintendency, or, as Lee claims, "the beginning of the Presiding Elder's office," it was an office created and filled by Bishop Asbury from 1785 to 1792. The Conference made no elections to the office, for it had not instituted the office; it simply specified the duties of certain men whom the Bishop should detail to districts of his own forming.

From the above it will appear that the statement in the former edition, that "all Elders prior to 1792 were Presiding Elders," was erroneous. Only a part of them, namely, such as the Bishop assigned to Districts, were in any sense Presiding Elders. Below, the facts, as tabulated by Dr. Arthur Edwards, are quoted from the "North-western Advocate," February 9, 1876:—

Year.	Total Elders.	Elders on Districts.
1786	28	22

Duties. Quest. 3. What are the duties of a Presiding Elder?

Ans.

¶ 177. [In., 1872, The duties of a Presiding Elder are]:

I. To travel through his appointed District.

II. In the absence of the Bishop, to take charge of all the Elders and Deacons, Traveling and Local Preachers and Exhorters, in his District.

III. To change, receive, ["or," changed, 1800, to "and"] suspend Preachers in his District during the intervals of the Conferences, and in the absence of the Bishop [in., 1804, as the Discipline directs] [in., 1864, provided, however, that a Presiding Elder shall not change a Preacher in his District from a charge to which he has been appointed by the Bishop, and appoint him to another to which he could not be legally appointed by the Bishop]. Some Conferences had voted, and individuals advised, that the same person should not be appointed to the office of Presiding Elder for more than two terms. The General Conference of 1848 voted "That it is the sense of this Conference that our Bishops should not be restrained or embarrassed by any such advice on the part of an Annual Conference."

 Travel.

1787.] ¶ 188. No Deacon who ceases to travel without the consent of the Annual Conference, certified under the hand of [“a Bishop,” changed; 1792, to “the President of the Conference”], [in., 1804, except in cases of sickness, debility, or other unavoidable circumstances], shall on any account exercise the peculiar functions of his office, [in., 1804, or even be allowed to preach], among us; [in.,
 1804, nevertheless, the final determination in all such cases is with the Annual Conference].*

*The Rule on this subject in 1784 has been as follows:

Quest. 35. How are we to proceed with those Elders or Deacons who cease from traveling?

Ans. Unless they have the permission of the Conference, declared under the hand of a Superintendent, they are on no account to exercise any of the peculiar functions of those offices among us; and if they do, they are to be expelled immediately.

In 1792 the epithet “traveling” is prefixed to Deacons throughout the section.

Preacher in Charge.

1784.] Quest. 58. Who is the Assistant?

[1787.

Ans. That Preacher in each Circuit who is appointed from time to time to assist the Superintendents in the charge of the Societies and the other Preachers therein.

Quest. 59. How shall an Assistant be qualified for his Charge?

Ans. By walking closely with God and having his work greatly at heart. And by understanding and loving Discipline, ours in particular.

Quest. 60. What is the business of an Assistant?

Ans. 1. To see that the other Preachers in his Circuit behave well and want nothing. 2. To renew the tickets quarterly and regulate the bands. 3. To take in or put out of the Society or the bands. 4. To appoint all the Stewards and Leaders, and change them when he sees it necessary. 5. To keep Watch-nights and Love-feasts. 6. To hold Quarterly Meetings and therein diligently to inquire both into the temporal and spiritual state of each Society. 7. To take care that every society be duly supplied with books; particularly with "Kempis," the "Instructions for Children," and the "Primitive Physic," which ought to be in every house. 8. To take exact lists of his Societies and bring them to the Conference. 9. To send an account of his Circuit every half year to one of the Superintendents. 10. To meet the married men and women, and the single men and women, in the large Societies once a quarter. 11. To overlook the accounts of all the Stewards.

LOCAL PREACHERS AND LAY WORKERS.

1796.] [Om., 1836, Of] the Local Preachers.

Quest. 1. What directions shall be given concerning [om., 1872. 1816, our brethren] the Local Preachers [om., 1816, in respect to their being received as Preachers or admitted into the order of Deacons?]

1. No Local Preacher shall receive a license to preach till he has been examined and approved at the Quarterly Meeting of his Circuit, which license shall be drawn up in the following words, signed by the President of the meeting, namely: "N. M. has applied to us for liberty to preach as a Local Preacher in our Circuit, and after due inquiry concerning his gifts, grace, and usefulness, we judge he is a proper person to be licensed for this purpose, and we accordingly authorize him to preach."

2. Before any person shall be licensed as a Local Preacher by a Quarterly Meeting, he shall bring a recommendation from the Society of which he is a member. Recommend.

1816.] 1. Before any person shall be licensed to preach [1820. as a Local Preacher among us he shall bring a recommendation from the Society or class of which he is a member, and be personally examined before the Quarterly Meeting Conference by the Presiding Elder, or, in his absence, by the Preacher having the charge, touching his acquaintance with the doctrines of our Church (to which he shall declare his assent), together with his gifts and grace for preaching, and if he be approved by the Quarterly Meeting Conference in these respects, and they believe that he will be generally acceptable and useful as a Preacher, he shall then receive a license, signed by the Presiding Elder, or, in his absence, by the Preacher having the charge, in these words, namely: "N. M. has applied to us for liberty to preach as a Local Preacher in our Circuit, and after due inquiry concerning his gifts, grace, and usefulness, we judge he is a proper person to be licensed for this purpose, and we accordingly authorize him to preach," which license it shall be the duty of such Local Preacher to have annually renewed.*

1836.] Section 19. General Directions concerning Local Preachers.

Quest. What directions shall be given concerning Local [1872. Preachers?

¶ 195.* The Quarterly Conference shall have authority to license proper persons to preach, [in., 1880, to Examine them in such Course of Study as the Bishop shall prescribe], and to renew their license annually, when, in the judgment of said Conference, their gifts, grace, and usefulness will warrant such renewal; to recommend to the Annual Conference [in., 1868, Local Preachers who are] suitable candidates [in., 1863, in the local connection] for Deacons' or Elders' Orders, and for admission on trial in the traveling connection; and to try, suspend, [in., 1868, deprive of ministerial office and credentials,] expel or acquit, any Local Preacher in the Circuit or Station against whom charges ["may be" changed, 1884, to "have been"] ["brought," changed, 1863, to "preferred"]; provided, That no person shall be licensed to preach without the recommendation of the Society of which he is a member, or of the Leaders' [in., 1868, and Stewards'] Meeting; [in., 1864, and no member of the Church shall be at liberty to preach without a license]. Nor shall any one be licensed to preach, or recommended to the Annual Conference ["to travel," 1884, to "to become a Traveling Preacher"], or for ordination, without first being examined in the Quarterly Conference on the subject of Doctrines and Discipline. [In., 1880, In all cases the Candidate shall first pass a satisfactory examination in such Course of Study as the Bishops shall prescribe.]

1800.] ¶ 196. Every Local [in., 1812, Elder, Deacon, or] Preacher [in., 1848, shall be amenable to the Quarterly Conference ("of which he is a member," changed, 1848, to "where he resides")] [in., 1852, for his Christian character and the faithful performance of his ministerial office]. [In., 1812, He shall have his name recorded on the journal of said Conference], [in., 1800, and also enrolled on a Class paper, and shall meet in Class: † (om., 1848, if the distance of his place of residence from any class be not too great.) type, 1880, to "and shall make a report of his labors annually to the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Circuit or Station to which he is amenable; and in neglect of the above duties, or, if found unacceptable in his ministerial office after due trial the District or Quarterly Conference, if they judge it proper, may deprive him of his ministerial office," changed, 1884, to "and shall make to each District or Quarterly Conference to which he is amenable a report of his labors, as follows: 1. Number of Sermons Preached; 2. Number of Prayer-meetings attended; 3. Number of Class-meetings attended; 4. Number of Sunday-schools attended; 5. Marriages Solemnized, and the names of the parties married, (in., 1888, and the names and ages of all persons baptized, that they may be entered by the Preacher in Charge upon the Church Records;) 6. Number of Funerals conducted; 7. Miscellaneous Items. If a Local Preacher be found neglectful of any of the above duties, or unacceptable in his Ministerial Office, after due trial the District or Quarterly Conference, if it judges it proper, may deprive him of his Ministerial Office."]

1848.] And when a Preacher is located, or discontinued by an Annual Conference, he shall be amenable to the Quarterly Conference of the Circuit or Station where he had his last appointment, [om., 1864, or at the place where he shall reside at the time of his location].

1816.] ¶ 197. Whenever ["a Local Preacher," changed, 1886, to "any Elder, Deacon, or Preacher," and 1872, to "a Local Elder, Deacon, or Preacher"] shall remove from one Circuit or Station to another, he shall procure from the Presiding Elder of the District, or from the Preacher having charge, a certificate of his official standing in the Church at the time of his removal, without which he shall not be received as a Local Preacher in other places.

1852.] ¶ 198. The Presiding Elders and the Preachers in Charge are required so to arrange the appointments, wherever it is practicable, as to give the Local Preachers regular and systematic employment on the Sabbath.

1864.] ¶ 199. Whenever a Local Preacher shall have a pastoral charge, he shall hold his Church relation in said Charge.

Local Preachers and their Ordination.

1789.] * The Bishop has obtained liberty, by the suffrages of the Conference, to ordain Local Preachers to the office of Deacons; ["Provided they obtain a testimonial from the Society to which they belong, and from the Stewards of the Circuit, signed by ("three Traveling Preachers, three Deacons, and three Elders, one of them being a Presiding Elder; the names of those nominated being read in the Conference previous to their ordination," changed, 1792, to "three Elders, three Deacons, and three Traveling Preachers;" again, 1800, to "nine Traveling Preachers, three of whom shall be Elders, changed, 1804, to “a”] [testimonial, 1880, recommendation] [“which is directed in the fourth section of the first chapter of the form of Discipline,” changed, 1804, to “from the Society to which he belongs, and from the Stewards of the Circuit, signed also by nine Traveling Preachers; three of whom shall be Elders, three others Elders or Deacons; and the other three Elders, Deacons, or Preachers,” changed, 1808, to (“from the Quarterly Meeting of the Circuit to which he belongs,” changed, 1820, to “the District Conference to which he belongs,” again, 1836, to “from the Quarterly Conference”), after proper examination, signed by the President and countersigned by the Secretary, and [in., 1836, after his character had passed in examination before, [“and he has obtained the (appropriation, 1863, to approbation) of the Annual Conference” changed, 1880, to “the Annual Conference and he has obtained its approbation.”]

1872.] ¶ 201. A Local Preacher who has been licensed three consecutive years before his admission on trial in an Annual Conference, shall be eligible to the office of Deacon after he has preached one year in the traveling connection, and has obtained a recommendation from [in., 1880, the District or] the Quarterly Conference of which he is a member, and his character and qualifications have been examined and approved by the Annual Conference.

1812.] ¶ 202. A Local Deacon shall be eligible to the office of an Elder after he has preached four years from the time he was ordained a Deacon, and has obtained a recommendation from [“two thirds of the Quarterly Meeting,” changed, 1820, to “the District,” and 1836, to “the Quarterly Conference;” 1880 to “the District or Quarterly Conference”] of which he is a member, certifying his qualifications in doctrine, discipline, talents, and usefulness [om., 1824, and the necessity of his official services as an Elder in the Circuit where he resides], signed by the President and countersigned by the Secretary. He shall if he cannot attend, send to the Annual Conference such recommendation, and a note certifying his belief in the doctrine and discipline of our Church:—the whole being examined by the Annual Conference, and, if approved, he may be ordained:

Provided, nevertheless, that no slaveholder shall be eligible [1860. to the office of an Elder [in., 1816, or Deacon], where the laws will admit of emancipation, and permit the liberated slave to enjoy freedom.

1816.] No [in., 1836, Elder, Deacon, or] Preacher among [1848. us shall distill or [“retail,” changed, 1836, to “vend”] spirituous liquors, without forfeiting his [“ministerial,” changed, 1836, to “official”] standing.

1804.] Local Preachers to have an Allowance in Certain Cases.

1784.] Quest. 71. What provision can we make for a [1796. proper supply of Preachers in the Circuits during the sitting of the Conference ?

Ans. Let as many Local Preachers as are necessary be provided by the Assistant in every Circuit, as far as possible, and let them be paid ["in proportion to their work as Traveling Preachers out of the yearly collection," changed, 1787, to "for their time in proportion to the salary of the Traveling Preachers"].

1786.] Quest. 2. Shall any regulation be made in respect [1804. to allowing recompense to Local Preachers for their work in given cases ?

Ans.

¶ 203. Whenever* a Local Preacher fills the place of a Traveling Preacher [in., 1816, by the approbation of the Presiding Elder] he shall be paid for his ["trouble," changed, 1800, to "time"] a sum ["proportionable to the salary," changed, 1808, to "proportional to the allowance"] of a Traveling Preacher, which sum shall be paid by the Circuit at the next Quarterly Meeting if the Traveling Preacher whose place he filled up were either sick or necessarily absent, or, in other cases, out of the allowance of the Traveling Preacher [om., 1800, himself].

¶ 204. If a local Preacher be distressed in his temporal circumstances on account of his service in the Circuit he may apply to the Quarterly Conference, who may give him what relief they judge proper, after the allowance of the Traveling Preachers and of their wives, and all other regular allowances are discharged.

Exhorters.

To license such persons as he may judge proper to officiate [1868. as Exhorters in the Church, provided no person shall be so licensed without the consent of the Leaders' Meeting, or of the class of which he is a member, where no Leaders' Meeting is held ; and the Exhorters so authorized shall be subject to the annual examination of character in the Quarterly Meeting Conference, and have their license annually renewed by the Presiding Elder or the Preacher having the charge, if approved by the Quarterly Meeting Conference.†

1868.] Quest. 1. How shall an Exhorter be constituted ? [1872. Ans.

¶ 205. [In., 1872, An Exhorter shall be constituted] by the recommendation of the class of which he is a member, or of the Leaders' and Stewards' Meeting of the Circuit or Station, and a license signed by the Preacher in Charge.

Quest. 2. What are the duties of Exhorters ? Ans.

* These provisions form a part of the section on Local Preachers till 1804 ; then they constitute a separate section in the chapter on support of Ministers : returned here in 1880.

† From the section on "Preachers in Charge," See pp. 184, 185 for other provisions on the subject. In 1868 this section was introduced into the Discipline in place of the former provision.

¶ 206. [In., 1872, The duties of Exhorters are] to hold meetings for prayer and exhortation wherever opportunity is afforded, subject to the direction of the ^{Duties.} Preacher in Charge; to attend all the sessions of [“the Quarterly Conference,” 1883, to “the District and Quarterly Conferences, and present a written report to the same;”] to be subject to an annual examination of character in the Quarterly Conference, and a renewal of license annually by the Presiding Elder, or Preacher having the charge, if approved by the Quarterly Conference.*

Deaconesses.

1888.] ¶ 207. The duties of the Deaconesses are to minister to the poor, visit the sick, pray with the dying, care for the orphan, seek the wandering, comfort the sorrowing, save the sinning, and, relinquishing wholly all other pursuits, devote themselves, in a general way, to such forms of Christian labor as may be suited to their abilities.

¶ 208. No vow shall be exacted from any Deaconess, and any one of their number shall be at liberty to relinquish her position as a Deaconess at any time.

¶ 209. In every Annual Conference within which Deaconesses may be employed, a Conference Board of nine members, at least three of whom shall be women, shall be appointed by the Conference to exercise a general control of the interests of this form of work.

¶ 210. This Board shall be empowered to issue certificates to duly qualified persons, authorizing them to perform the duties of Deaconesses in connection with the Church; provided that no person shall receive such certificate until she shall have served a probation of two years of continuous service, and shall be over twenty-five years of age.

¶ 211. No person shall be licensed by the Board of Deaconesses except on the recommendation of a Quarterly Conference, and said Board of Deaconesses shall be appointed by the Annual Conference for such term of service as the Annual Conference shall decide, and said Board shall report both the names and work of such Deaconesses annually, and the approval of the Annual Conference shall be necessary for the continuance of any Deaconess in her work.

¶ 212. When working singly each Deaconess shall be under the direction of the Pastor of the Church with which she is connected. When associated together in a home all the members of the home shall be subordinate to and directed by the Superintendent placed in charge.

* “In case a Quarterly Conference recommend the renewal of the license of an Exhorter, is the Presiding Elder under obligation to renew the license?”

“Ans. He is.”—Jour. Gen. Conf., 1860.

CHAPTER I.

1864.] BRINGING MINISTERS AND MEMBERS TO TRIAL, AND THE SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES.

1848.] [Om., 1864, of] Bringing Ministers and Members to Trial [om., 1864, and of Insolvencies], and the Settlement of Disputes.

*The Trial of a Bishop.

1784. Quest. 27. To whom is ["the Superintendent," [1872. changed, 1787, to "the Bishop"] amenable for his conduct? Ans.

[In., 1872, A Bishop is answerable for his conduct] to the Amenable to Gen- [in., 1792, General] Conference, who shall have eral Conference. power to ["expel him for improper conduct if they judge it necessary," changed, 1872, to "order the manner of his trial."]

1792.] Quest. 5. What provision shall be made for the trial of ["an immoral," changed, 1804, to "a"] Bishop [in., Trial in Interim of Gen. Conf. 1804, if he should be accused of immorality] in the interval of the General Conference?

Ans. If a Bishop be ["guilty," changed, 1804, to "accused"] of immorality, three Traveling Elders shall call upon him, and examine him on the subject; and if the three Elders verily believe that the Bishop is guilty of the crime, they shall call to their aid two Presiding Elders from two Districts in the neighborhood of that where the crime was committed, each of which Presiding Elders shall bring with him two Elders, or an Elder and a Deacon. The above-mentioned nine persons shall form a Conference to examine into the charge brought against the Bishop, and if two thirds of them verily believe him to be guilty of the crime laid to his charge, they shall have authority to suspend the Bishop till the ensuing General Conference, and the Districts shall be regulated in the mean time as is provided in ["the case of the death of a Bishop," changed, 1800, to "the third section," and 1808, to "the third and fifth sections;" in 1852, to "chap. iii, sec. 3, and chap. iv, sec. 1;" and in 1868, to "Part II, chap. i, sec. 2, and Part II, chap. ii, sec. 14"]; but no 1804.] accusation shall be received against a Bishop except it be delivered in writing, signed by those who are to prove the crime, and a copy of the accusation shall be given to the accused Bishop.

1872.] ¶ 213. A Bishop is answerable for his conduct to the General Conference, who shall have power to order the manner of his trial.

leged to have been committed shall call to his aid four Traveling Elders, which five ministers shall carefully inquire into the case; and if, in their judgment, there is reasonable ground for such accusation, they, or a majority of them, shall prepare and sign the proper charge in the case, and shall send a copy thereof, so signed, to the accused, and shall give notice thereof to one of the Bishops. Said Bishop, so notified, shall convene a Judicial Conference, to be composed of the Triers of Appeals in the five neighboring Conferences. And the said Judicial Conference shall have full power to try the accused Bishop, and to suspend him from the functions of his office, or expel him from the Church, as they may deem his offense requires. One of the Bishops shall preside at his trial.

¶ 215. The accused shall have the right of peremptory challenge, yet not so as to reduce the number of the Judicial Conference below twenty-one.

¶ 216. ["When a Bishop is chargeable with imprudent conduct," changed, 1880, to "in case of imprudent conduct"], a Presiding Elder shall take with him two Traveling Elders, and shall admonish the Bishop so offending. In case of a second offense, one of the Bishops, together with three Traveling Elders, shall call upon him and reprehend and admonish him. If he still persist in his imprudence, he shall then be tried in the manner ordered in ¶¶ 214, 215.

1880.] ¶ 217. In case the alleged immorality or imprudence has been committed without the bounds of any District, the Presiding Elder within the bounds of whose District the Bishop may reside shall proceed as hereinbefore specified.

¶ 218. When a Bishop disseminates, publicly or privately, doctrines which are contrary to our Articles of Religion or established Standards of Doctrine, the same process shall be observed as is prescribed in ¶¶ 214, 215.

¶ 219. The President of such Judicial Conference shall, at the commencement of the trial, appoint a Secretary, who shall take regular minutes of the trial, and of all the evidence in the case, which, when read and approved, shall be signed by the President and Secretary.

1872.] ¶ 220. A Bishop shall have the right of Appeal to the ensuing General Conference, if he signify his intention to appeal at the time of his conviction, or when informed thereof, [in., 1880, and in case of an Appeal, the minutes of the trial and all the documents relating to the case, including the charges and specifications, shall be transmitted to the ensuing General Conference, which minutes and documents only shall be used in evidence in the trial of the Appeal.]

¶ 221. Complaints against the administration of a Bishop

Trial of a Traveling Preacher.

1789.] "On the manner," changed, 1792, to "Of the method" [1848. od] by which Immoral Traveling Ministers or Preachers shall be brought to Trial, Found Guilty, and Reproved, [in., 1792, or] Suspended in the Intervals of the Conferences.

1784.] Quest. 63. Are there any further directions needful [1786. for the preservation of good order among the Preachers?

Ans. In the absence of a Superintendent, a Traveling Preacher or three Leaders shall have power to lodge a complaint against any Preacher in their Circuit, whether Elder, Assistant, Deacon, or Helper, before three neighboring Assistants, who shall meet at an appointed time (proper notice being given to the parties) and hear and decide the cause. And authority is given them to change or suspend a Preacher, if they see it necessary, and to appoint another in his place during the absence of the Superintendents.

1788.] ¶ 222. * [om., 1872, Quest. 1. What shall be done] when ["an Elder, Deacon, or Preacher" changed, 1880, to "a member of an Annual Conference"] is under report of being guilty of some [om., 1792, capital] crime expressly forbidden in the word of God [om., 1868, as an unchristian practice], sufficient to exclude a person from the kingdom of grace and glory [om., 1806, and to make him a subject of wrath and hell].

I. Trial by Committee.

1872.] ¶ 257. The several Annual Conferences in the United States shall at each session, select seven Elders, men of experience and of sound judgment in the affairs of the Church, who shall be known as Triers. Triers of Appeals.

* In the same year the following explanation of this section was published in the Minutes:—

“As a very few persons have in some respects mistaken our meaning, in the thirty-second section of our Form of Discipline, on bringing to trial disorderly persons, etc., we think it necessary to explain it.

“When a member of our society is to be tried for any offense, the officiating Minister or Preacher is to call together all the members, if the society be small, or a select number if it be large, to take knowledge and give advice, and bear witness to the justice of the whole process, that improper and private expulsions may be prevented for the future.”

This note is not found in the reprint of the Minutes, but it is published in Lee's History of the Methodists, p. 143.

† “Resolved. That when the motions to affirm, to remand, and to reverse have been successively put and lost, the decision of the court below stands as the final adjudication of the case.”—Gen. Conf. 1860.

¶ 258. When notice of appeal is given to the President of an Annual Conference, he shall proceed, with due regard to the wishes and rights of the appellant, to designate three Conferences, conveniently near that from which the appeal is taken, whose Triers of Appeals shall constitute a Judicial Conference, and to fix the time and place of its session, and to give notice thereof to all concerned. [In., 1880, when said Conference shall have assembled it shall be competent to try Appeals from any Conference conveniently near which may be presented to it, due notice having been given to all concerned.]

¶ 259. The appellant shall have the right of peremptory challenge, yet so that the Triers present, and ready to proceed with the hearing, shall not fall below thirteen, which number shall be required for a quorum.

¶ 260. A Bishop shall preside in the Judicial Conference. [In., 1880, and shall decide all Questions of Law, subject to an Appeal to the General Conference.] The Conference shall appoint a Secretary, who shall keep a faithful record of all the proceedings, and shall, at the close of the trial, transmit the records made and the papers submitted in the case [in., 1880, or certified copies thereof], to the Secretary of the preceding General Conference, to be filed and preserved with the papers of that body. [In., 1880, But if the case be remanded for a new trial, the papers submitted shall be returned to the Secretary of the Annual Conference of which the accused is a Member. And when the case of any Preacher who has been suspended or expelled is remanded for a new trial, he shall be suspended from all Ministerial service until the next ensuing session of the Annual Conference.]

1820. ¶ 261. [Om., 1864, In all the above mentioned cases] it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Annual Conference ["to keep regular minutes of the trial, including all the questions proposed to the witnesses, and their answers, together with the crime with which the accused is charged, the specification or specifications, and also preserve all the documents relating to the case," changed, 1848, to "carefully to preserve the minutes of the trial, whether taken before a Committee or before the Conference, and all the documents relating to the case, together with the charge or charges, and the specification or specifications;"] which minutes and documents only, in case of an appeal from the decision of an Annual Conference, shall be presented to the ("General," changed, 1872, to "Judicial") Conference in evidence on the case.

¶ 262. [Om., 1872, And] in all cases ["when," changed, 1872, to "where"] an appeal is made and admitted by the ["General," changed, 1872, to "Judicial"] Conference the appellant shall state, either personally or by his representative [om., 1880, who shall be a member of an Annual Conference] the grounds of his appeal, showing ["cause," 1880, to "the reason"] why he appeals, and he shall be allowed to make his ["appeal," 1872, to "defense"] without interruption. After which the representatives of the Annual Conference from whose decision the appeal is made shall be permitted to respond in presence of the appellant, who shall have the privilege of replying to such representatives, which reply shall close the pleadings on both sides. This done ["the appellant," changed, 1872, to "the parties"] shall withdraw, and the [in., 1872, Judicial] Conference [in., 1856, and om., 1872, or Committee] shall decide the case. [In., 1884, It may affirm or reverse the finding and decision of the Annual Conference, or affirm in part and reverse in part; but it shall not reverse the same, nor remand the case for a new trial, on account of errors plainly not affecting the result.]

[In., 1880, Counsel on both sides shall be Members of an Annual Conference.]

1872.] ¶ 263. The General Conference shall carefully review the decisions of questions of law contained in the records and documents transmitted to it from the Judicial Conferences, and in case of serious errors therein shall take such action as justice may require. Review.

¶ 264. Appeals from an Annual Conference in the United States not easily accessible may, at the discretion of the President thereof, be heard by a Judicial Conference selected from among the more ["central," 1884, to "accessible"] Conferences. Appeals from a Conference other than those in the United States may be heard by a Judicial Conference called to meet at or near New York by the Bishop in charge of said Conference; or the appeal may be heard directly by the General Conference. Exceptions.

1820.] ¶ 265. After a Preacher shall have been regularly tried and expelled, he shall have no privileges of Society or Sacraments in our Church without [confession, contrition, and ("proper trial," 1848, to "satisfactory reformation") changed, 1888, to "contrition, reformation, and confession satisfactory to the Conference from which he was expelled."]

*Appeals of Local Preachers.

1796.] ¶ 266. In case of condemnation, the Local Preacher, Deacon, or Elder [om., 1836, condemned] shall be allowed to appeal to the next Annual † Conference, provided that he signify to ["Quarterly," 1820, to "the said District," 1836, to "the (om., 1864, said) Quarterly"] Conference his determination to appeal; in which case ["the said Presiding Elder, or the Preacher who has the oversight of the Circuit,"

Does the act of the Annual Conference restore the character of the member, so that the charges on which he was expelled are so annulled that the Preacher can legally give him a letter before said charges are disposed of by trial or withdrawn?"

Ans. When a Local Elder or Deacon shall be expelled ["the President of the Conference," changed, 1836, to "the Presiding Elder"] shall require of him the credentials of his ordination, to be filed with the papers of the Annual Conference within the limits of which the expulsion has taken place. And should he, at any future time, produce to the Annual Conference a certificate of his restoration, signed by the President, and countersigned by the Secretary of the ["District," changed, 1836, to "Quarterly"] Conference, his credentials ["shall," changed, 1836, to "may"] be restored to him.

PART III.—CHAPTER III.

GENERAL DELIVERANCES.

Concerning Dress.

[Changed, 1864, to "Rules Concerning Dress."]*

1784.] Quest. 11. How shall we prevent superfluity in [1784. dress among our people?

Ans. Let the Preachers carefully avoid every thing of this kind in themselves, and speak frequently and faithfully against it in all our Societies. Annual Conference. Minute on Dress.

Quest. 18. Should we insist on the rules concerning dress? [1856.

Ans. By all means. This is no time to give encouragement to superfluity of apparel. Therefore receive none into the Church till they have left off superfluous ornaments. In order to this, 1. Let every one who has charge of a circuit or station read Mr. Wesley's Thoughts upon Dress, at least once a year in every society. 2. In visiting the classes be very mild, but very strict. 3. Allow no exempt case [om., 1792, not even of a married woman]; better one suffer than many. 4. Give no tickets to any that wear high heads,† or enormous bonnets, ruffles, or rings.‡

1856.] Quest. Should we insist on the rules concerning dress? [1872. Ans. By all means. This is no time to encourage superfluity in dress. Quest. 18 of Christmas Conference.

* The band rules, particularly with regard to dress.—Large Minutes.

‡ "Ruffles and rings," inserted 1784.—Ibid.

Therefore let all our people be exhorted to conform to the spirit of the apostolic precept, not to adorn themselves "with gold, or pearls, or costly array." 1 Tim. ii, 9.

1872.] We should by all means insist on the rules concerning dress. This is no time to encourage superfluity in dress. Therefore let all our people be exhorted to conform to the spirit of the apostolic precept, not to adorn themselves "with gold, or pearls, or costly array." 1 Tim. ii, 9.

1880.] ¶ 270. Let all our people be exhorted to conform to the spirit of the apostolic precept, not to adorn themselves "with gold, or pearls, or costly array." 1 Tim. ii, 9.

Rules Relating to Marriage.

1789.] ["Of unlawful marriages," changed, 1804, to "of marriages;" 1864, to "Rules Relating to Marriage"].

1784.] Quest. 20. Do we observe any evil which has ["lately prevailed among our Societies;" changed, 1796, to "prevailed in our Church with respect to marriage?"] Ans.

¶ 271. Many of our members have married with * unawakened persons. This has produced ["fatal;" 1787, "bad"] effects. ["They had either a cross for life or turned back to perdition;" changed, 1787, to "They have been either hindered for life, or have turned back to perdition."]

Quest. 21. What can be done to ["put a stop to;" changed, 1804, to "discourage"] this? Ans.

¶ 272. [In., 1872, To discourage such marriages]: 1. Let every Preacher publicly enforce the apostle's caution, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," 2 Cor. vi, 14.

2. Let him openly declare whoever does this will [1836. be ["expelled the Society;" changed, 1804, to "put back on trial six months"].

3. When any such is ["expelled," 1804, to "put back on trial"] let a suitable exhortation be subjoined.

2. Let all be exhorted to take no step in so weighty a matter without advising with the most serious of their brethren.

Quest. 22. Ought any woman to marry without the consent of her parents? [1872.]

Ans. In general she ought not.

¶ 273. [In., 1872, In general a woman ought not to marry without the consent of her parents.] Yet there may be ["an exception," changed, 1787, to "exceptions."]

For if, 1. A woman ["be under the necessity of marrying;" changed, 1800, to "believe it to be her duty to marry"]: if, 2. Her parents absolutely refuse to let her marry any Christian, then she may, nay, ought to marry without their consent. Yet, even then, a Methodist Preacher ought not ["marry;" changed, 1789, to "be married to"] her.

* "With unbelievers, yea."—Large Minutes.

1792.] N. B. By the word "unawakened," as used above, [1800. we mean one whom we could not in conscience admit into Society.

1796.] ¶ 274. We do not prohibit our people from marrying persons who are not of our ["Society," changed, 1816, to "Church"], providing such persons have the form and are seeking the power of godliness; but ["if they marry persons who do not come up to this description, we shall be obliged to purge our Society of them," changed, 1804, to "we are determined to discourage their marrying persons who do not come up to this description."] [Om., 1836. "And even in a doubtful case the member of our Society shall be put back upon trial"]

Divorce.

1884.] ¶ 275. No divorce, except for adultery, shall be regarded by the Church as lawful; and no Minister shall solemnize marriage in any case where there is a divorced wife or husband living; but this Rule shall not be applied to the innocent party to a divorce for the cause of adultery, nor to divorced parties seeking to be reunited in marriage.

Temperance.

1880.] ¶ 276. Temperance, in its broader meaning, is distinctively a Christian virtue, enjoined in the Holy Scriptures. It implies a subordination of all the emotions, passions, and appetites to the control of reason and conscience. Dietetically, it means a wise use of suitable articles of food and drink, with entire abstinence from such as are known to be hurtful. Both science and human experience agree with the Holy Scriptures in condemning all alcoholic beverages as being neither useful nor safe. The business of manufacturing and of vending such liquors is also against the principles of morality, political economy, and the public welfare. We, therefore, regard voluntary total abstinence from all intoxicants as the true ground of personal temperance, and complete legal prohibition of the traffic in alcoholic drinks as the duty of civil government. We heartily approve of all lawful and Christian efforts to save society from the manifold and grievous evils resulting from intemperance, and earnestly advise our people to co-operate in all measures which may seem to them wisely adapted to secure that end. We refer to our General Rule on this subject, (¶ 32,) and affectionately urge its strict observance by all our members. Finally, we are fully persuaded that, under God, hope for the ultimate success of the Temperance Reform rests chiefly upon the combined and sanctified influence of the Family, the Church, and the State.

*Slavery.

1780.] Quest. 16. Ought not this Conference to require [1785. those Traveling Preachers who hold slaves to give promises to set them free?

Traveling Preachers to Emancipate their Slaves.

Ans. Yes.

Quest. 17. Does this Conference acknowledge that slavery is contrary to the laws of God, man, and nature, and hurtful to society; contrary to the dictates of conscience and pure religion, and doing that which we would not others should do to us and ours? Do we pass our disapprobation on all our friends who keep slaves, and advise their freedom?

Ans. Yes.

1783.] Quest. 10. What shall be done with our Local Preachers who hold slaves contrary to the laws which authorize their freedom in any of the United States?

Ans. We will try them another year. In the mean time let every assistant deal faithfully and plainly with every one, and report to the next Conference: It may be then necessary to suspend them.

1784.] Quest. 12. What shall we do with our friends that [1786. will buy and sell slaves?

Ans. If they buy with no other design than to hold them as slaves, and have been previously warned, they shall be expelled, and permitted to sell on no consideration.

Annual Conference Minutes.

Quest. 13. What shall we do with our Local Preachers who will not emancipate their slaves in the States where the laws admit it?

* The Methodists, from the first, took a deep interest in the colored people of this country, as evinced by the regulations quoted below, from the Minutes of early Conferences, and the constant modifications of this chapter. The varied provisions of this chapter exhibit a constant desire to circumscribe, repress, and extirpate slavery, but to do it in such a way as not to exclude practical effort for the salvation of both master and slave. The problem was a difficult one; perhaps no people could have solved it better. The difficulties in the solution arose from the very success attained with both classes.

In this section the provisions on the subject of slavery prior to the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the Christmas Conference are placed first, followed by those of the Christmas Conference and the suspending minute, which really struck out all provisions on the subject. A new Rule was introduced in 1796, and variously modified by subsequent General Conferences.

The care of the Preachers for the colored people will be seen in the following:

Quest. 25. Ought not the Assistant to meet the colored people himself, and appoint as helpers in his absence proper white persons, and not suffer them to stay late, and meet by themselves?

Ans. Yes.—Minutes, 1780.

Quest. 41. Are there any directions to be given concerning the negroes?

Ans. Let every Preacher as often as possible meet them in class, and let the Assistant always appoint a proper white person as their Leader. Let the Assistants also make a regular return to the Conference of the number of negroes in Society in their respective Circuits.—Minutes, 1784.

Quest. 17. What directions shall we give for the promotion of the spiritual welfare of the colored people?

We conjure all our Ministers and Preachers, by the love of God and the salvation of souls, and do require them, by all the authority that is invested in us, to leave nothing undone for the spiritual benefit and salvation of them within their respective Circuits or Districts, and for this purpose to embrace every opportunity of inquiring into the state of their souls, and to unite in society those who appear to have a real desire of fleeing from the wrath to come; to meet such in class, and to exercise the whole Methodist Discipline among them.—Minutes, 1787.

The General Conference of 1800 allows the Bishops to ordain colored Preachers.—Journal, i, 44.

Ans. Try those in Virginia another year, and suspend the Preachers in Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Quest. 22. What shall be done with our Traveling Preachers that now are, or hereafter shall be, possessed of slaves, and refuse to manumit them where the law permits?

Ans. Employ them no more.

Quest. 42. What methods can we take to extirpate slavery?

Ans. We are deeply conscious of the impropriety of making new terms of communion for a religious Society already established, excepting on the most pressing occasion, and such we esteem the practice of holding our fellow-creature in slavery. We view it as contrary to the golden law of God, on which hang all the law and the prophecies, and the unalienable rights of mankind, as well as every principle of the Revolution, to hold in the deepest debasement, in a more abject slavery than is perhaps to be found in any part of the world except America, so many souls that are all capable of the image of God.

Minute by the Christmas Conference,
Dec. 25.

We therefore think it our most bounden duty to take immediately some effectual method to extirpate this abomination from among us, and for that purpose we add the following to the rules of our Society, namely:

1. Every member of our Society who has slaves in his possession shall, within twelve months after notice given to him by the Assistant (which notice the Assistants are required immediately, and without any delay, to give in their respective Circuits), legally execute and record an instrument, whereby he emancipates and sets free every slave in his possession who is between the ages of forty and forty-five immediately, or, at furthest, when they arrive at the age of forty-five.

Emancipation.

And every slave who is between the ages of twenty-five and forty immediately, or, at furthest, at the expiration of five years from the date of the said instrument.

And every slave who is between the ages of twenty and twenty-five immediately, or, at furthest, when they arrive at the age of thirty.

And every slave under the age of twenty, as soon as they arrive at the age of twenty-five at furthest.

And every infant born in slavery after the above-mentioned rules are complied with, immediately on its birth.

2. Every Assistant shall keep a journal, in which he shall regularly minute down the names and ages of all the slaves belonging to all the masters in his respective Circuit, and also the date of every instrument executed and recorded for the manumission of the slaves, with the name of the court, book, and folio, in which the said instruments respectively shall have been recorded, which journal shall be handed down in each Circuit to the succeeding Assistants.

Record of the Emancipated.

3. In consideration that these rules form a new term of communion, every person concerned who will not comply with them shall have liberty quietly to withdraw himself from our Society within the twelve months succeeding the notice given as aforesaid, otherwise the Assistant shall exclude him in the Society.

Liberty of Withdrawal.

4. No person so voluntarily withdrawn, or so excluded shall ever partake of the Supper of the Lord with the Methodists till he complies with the above requisitions.

Excluded from Sacrament.

5. No person holding slaves shall in future be admitted into Society or to the Lord's Supper till he previously complies with these rules concerning slavery.

Slaveholders ineligible.

N. B. These rules are to affect the members of our Society no further than as they are consistent with the laws of the States in which they reside.

And respecting our brethren in Virginia that are concerned, and after due consideration of their peculiar circumstances, we allow them two years from the notice given to consider the expedience of compliance or non-compliance with these rules.

Quest. 43. What shall be done with those who buy or sell slaves [1787. or give them away?

Ans. They shall immediately be expelled, unless they buy them on purpose to free them.

It is recommended to all our brethren to suspend the execution of the minute on Slavery till the deliberations of a future Conference, and that an equal space of time be allowed all our members for consideration, when the minute shall be put in force. [1796.]

N. B. We do hold in deepest abhorrence the practice of slavery, and shall not cease to seek its destruction by all wise and prudent means.

1796.] Quest. What ["regulations shall be made," changed, 1804, [1872. to "shall be done"] for the extirpation of the [om., 1804, crying] evil of [om., 1804, of African] slavery?

¶ 277. We declare that we are ["more than," changed, 1804, to "as much as"] ever convinced of the great evil of ["the African slavery which exists in these United States," changed, 1804, to "slavery,"] and do most earnestly recommend to the 1816. yearly Conferences, quarterly meetings, and to those who have the oversight of Districts and Circuits, to be exceedingly cautious what persons they admit to official stations in our Church, and in the case of future admissions to official stations, to require such security of those who hold slaves, for the emancipation of them, immediately or gradually, as the laws of the States respectively and the circumstances of the case will admit; and we do fully authorize all the yearly Conferences to make whatever regulations they judge proper in the present case respecting the admission of persons to official stations in our Church [in.,

1816.] 1816, therefore no slaveholder shall be eligible to any [1860. official station in our Church hereafter where the laws of the State in which he lives will admit of emancipation, and permit the liberated slave to enjoy freedom].

1800.] 2. When any Traveling Preacher becomes an owner of a slave or slaves by any means, he shall forfeit his ministerial character in our Church unless he execute, if it be practicable, a legal emancipation of such slaves, conformably to the laws of the State in which he lives.

1796.] 2. No slaveholder shall be received into Society [1808. till the Preacher who has the oversight of the Circuit has spoken to him freely and faithfully on the subject of slavery.

3. Every member of the Society who sells a slave shall immediately [in., 1804, except at the request of the slave, in cases of mercy and humanity, agreeably to the judgment of a committee of the male members of the Society, appointed by the Preacher who has the charge of the Circuit], after full proof, be excluded the Society. And if any member of our Society purchase a slave, the ensuing Quarterly Meeting shall determine on the number of years in which the slave so purchased would work out the price of his purchase. And the person so purchasing shall immediately after such determination execute a legal instrument for the manumission of such slave at the expiration of the term determined by the Quarterly Meeting. And in default of his executing such instrument of manumission, or on his refusal to submit his case to the judgment of the Quarterly Meeting, such member shall be excluded the Society. Provided, also, that in the case of a female slave, it shall be inserted in the aforesaid instrument of manumission that all her children who shall be born during the years of her servitude shall be free at the following times, namely: every female child of the age of twenty-one, and every male child at the age of twenty-five [in., 1804, provided, also, that if a member of our Society shall buy a slave with a certificate of future emancipation, the terms of emancipation shall notwithstanding be subject to the decision of the Quarterly Meeting Conference]: nevertheless ["if the member of our Society, executing the said instrument of manumission judge it proper, he may fix the times of manumission of the children of female slaves, before mentioned, at an earlier age than that which is prescribed above" changed, 1804, to "the members of our Societies in the States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee, shall be exempted from the operation of the above rules."]

Children of female slaves.

Subject to the Quarterly Conference.

The South exempt.

4. The Preachers and other members of our Society are requested to consider the subject of negro slavery with deep attention [om., 1800, till the ensuing General Conference,] and that they impart to the General Conference, through the medium of the yearly Conferences, or otherwise, any important thoughts upon the subject, that the Conference may have full light, in order to take further steps toward the eradicating this enormous evil from that part of the Church of God to which they are united.

[1804.

Subjects to be considered.

1800.] 6. The Annual Conferences are directed to draw up addresses for the gradual emancipation of the slaves to the Legislatures of those States in which no general laws have been passed for that purpose. These addresses shall urge in the most respectful but pointed manner the necessity of a law for the gradual emancipation of the slaves. Proper committees shall be appointed by the Annual Conferences out of the most respectable of our friends for the conducting of the business, and the Presiding Elders, Elders, Deacons, and Traveling Preachers shall procure as many proper signatures as possible to the addresses, and give all the assistance in their power in every respect to aid the committees, and to further this blessed undertaking. Let this be continued from year to year till the desired end be accomplished.

Petitions to the Legislatures.

[1804.

[2. "The Annual Conferences," changed, 1848, to "the Bishops (in., 1856, and Presiding Elders)"] may employ colored Preachers to travel and preach when their services are judged necessary: provided, that no one shall be so employed without having been recommended ["according to the form of Discipline;" changed, 1856 to "by a Quarterly Conference."]

Colored Conference.

1856.] 3. The Bishops may call a Conference, once in [1864. each year, of our colored Local Preachers within the bounds of any one or more of our Districts, for the purpose of conferring with them with respect to the wants of the work among our colored people, and the best means to be employed in promoting its prosperity; at which Conference the Presiding Elder within whose District and under whose care the colored Churches and congregations are shall be present: Provided, that the holding of said Conference or Conferences shall be recommended by an Annual Conference, and the Bishops, upon due inquiry, shall deem it practicable and expedient.

1860.] We believe that the buying, selling, or holding of human beings, to be used as chattels, is contrary to the laws of God and nature, and inconsistent with the Golden Rule, and with the Rule in our Discipline which requires all who desire to continue among us to "do no harm," and "to avoid evil of every kind." We therefore affectionately admonish all our Preachers and people to keep themselves pure from this great evil, and to seek its extirpation by all lawful and Christian means.*

Rule of 1750 Revised.

* The following minute in regard to Local Preachers is made, 1758, by the Annual Conference:

Quest. 10. What shall be done with our Local Preachers who hold slaves contrary to the laws which authorize their freedom in any of the United States?

Ans. We will try them another year. In the mean time let every Assistant deal faithfully and plainly with every one, and report to the next Conference. It may then be necessary to suspend them.

CHAPTER I.

SUPPORT OF THE MINISTRY.

Qualifications, Appointments, and Duties of Stewards.

1788.] “On the Qualification and Duty of Stewards” changed, 1792, to “of the Qualifications (in., 1812, Appointment) and Duty of Stewards of Circuits (in., 1848, and Stations)”, changed, 1864, to Qualifications, Appointments, and Duties of Stewards.”]

1812.] Quest. 2. How are the Stewards to be appointed? Ans. [1884.

¶ 192. [In., 1872, in the appointment of the Stewards], the Preacher having charge of the Circuit shall have the right of nomination; but the Quarterly [om., 1852, Meeting] Conference shall confirm or reject such nomination. Appointment.

1860.] The Stewards so appointed shall hold office for one year, but may be re-appointed in like manner from year to year.*

1788.] Quest. 3. What [“is the duty,” 1792, to are the duties] of the Stewards? Ans.

1884.] ¶ 278. There shall be not less than three nor more than thirteen Stewards in each Circuit or Station, one of whom shall, after each annual election, be appointed by the Quarterly Conference a Recording Steward, and one a District Steward. But when two or more Circuits or Stations are united the Stewards shall hold office till the first Quarterly Conference shall elect a new Board.

1788.] Quest. 1. What are the qualifications necessary for [1872. Stewards? Ans.

¶ 279. Let [“them,” 1872, to the Stewards] be [“men,” 1880, to “persons”] of solid piety, who both know and love the Methodist Doctrine and Discipline, and Qualifications.

* “2. In a few days some of them said, ‘Sir, we will not sit under you for nothing; we will subscribe quarterly.’ I said, ‘I will have nothing; for I want nothing. My fellowship supplies me with all I want.’ One replied, ‘Nay, but you want a hundred and fifteen pounds to pay for the lease of the Foundry, and likewise a large sum of money to put it in repair.’ On this consideration I suffered them to subscribe. And when the Society met I asked, ‘Who will take the trouble of receiving this money, and paying it where it is needful?’ One said, ‘I will do it, and keep the account for you.’ So here was the first Steward. Afterward, I desired one or two more to help me, as Stewards, and, in process of time, a greater number.

“Let it be remarked, it was I myself, not the people, who chose these Stewards, and appointed to each the distinct work wherein he was to help me, as long as I desired. And herein I began to exercise another sort of power: namely, that of appointing and re-appointing Stewards.” — Wesley's Large Minutes.

Prior to 1812 the Preachers in Charge appointed the Stewards.

of good natural and acquired abilities to transact the temporal business.*

1884.] ¶ 280. The Preacher in charge of the Circuit or Station shall have the right to nominate the Stewards, but the Quarterly Conference shall confirm or reject such nomination. The Stewards so elected shall enter upon the discharge of their duties on the adjournment of the next Annual Conference, and shall hold office for one year or until their successors are elected.

1888.] ¶ 281. [In., 1872, The duties of Stewards, are]† to take an exact account of all the money or other ["provision made for and received by any Traveling or Local Preacher," changed, 1792, to "provisions collected for the support of the Preachers;" 1884, to "resources received for the support of the Preachers"] in the Circuit [in., 1860, or Station, and apply the same as the Discipline directs]; to make an accurate return of every expenditure of money, whether to the Preachers, the sick, or the poor; to seek the needy and distressed in order to relieve and comfort them; to inform the Preachers of any sick or disorderly persons; to tell the Preachers what they think wrong in them; to attend the Quarterly Meetings of their Circuit [in., 1860, and the Leaders' (in., 1868, and Stewards') Meetings]; to give advice, if asked, in planning the Circuit; to attend Committees for the application of money to Churches; to give counsel in matters of arbitration; to provide elements for the Lord's Supper; to write circular letters to the Societies in the Circuit to be more liberal if need be; as also to let them know, [in., 1792, when occasion requires], the state of the ["temporalities," changed, 1792, to "temporal concerns"] ["at the last Quarterly Meeting;" 1858, to "of the charge"]. [Om., 1864, to register the marriages and baptisms, and to be subject to the Bishops, the Presiding Elder of their District, and the Elder, Deacon, and Traveling Preachers of their Circuit.]

1868.] Quest. 4. What are the duties of District Stewards? Ans.

¶ 282. [In., 1872, The duties of District Stewards are], to attend the annual District Stewards' Meeting when called by the Presiding Elder, and perform the duties specified in ¶ 289.

* In the Annual Minutes for 1787 we find the following:

Quest. 19. Shall any directions be given concerning register books?

Ans. Let register books be provided by all the Societies, that the elders and Deacons may enter the marriages and baptisms regularly in them; and let every such registry book be kept in the hands of the Stewards, or any other proper person of each Society respectively. Let one general register book be also kept in the hands of the General Steward of every Circuit, in which the contents of the private register books in the Circuit may be inserted at convenient times."

† Quest. 79. Is it not right that the Assistant, and not the Stewards or Leaders should receive the quarterly collections in the classes?

Ans. Certainly it is. This has been the general practice among the Methodists in Europe. And therefore let every Assistant look to it, and ask every person who can afford it for his quarterly subscription, when he changes the tickets; and in due time let him deliver the whole into the hands of the Stewards, to carry on the work of God in the Circuit."—Discipline of 1784. Om. 1787.

1816. Quest. 5. To whom are the Stewards accountable for the faithful performance of their duty? Ans.

¶ 283. [In., 1872, Stewards are accountable for the faithful performance of their duty] to the Quarterly [om., 1852, Meeting] Conference of the Circuit or Station, [1828, which shall have power to dismiss or change them at pleasure.]

Amenable to the Quarterly Conf.

1788.] Quest. 6. What number of Stewards are necessary in each Circuit? Ans. Number.

[In., 1872, There shall be] not less than ["two," changed, 1820, to 1884, "three"] nor more than ["four," changed, 1820, to "seven," and in 1856, "nine"] [in., 1872, Stewards in each Circuit or Station], [in., 1820, one of whom shall be (in., 1864, appointed) the Recording Steward] [in., 1864, by the Quarterly Conference after each annual election].

1868. But when two or more Circuits or Stations are united, the Stewards shall hold office till the first Quarterly Conference shall elect a new Board.

Support of Bishops.

CHAPTER I.—["OF SUPPORT AND SUPPLIES," changed, 1864, to "SUPPORT OF MINISTERS"].

1864. Section 1.—The Support of Bishops and the Families of Deceased Bishops.

1800.] ["Each Annual Conference shall pay its proportionable part toward the allowance of the Bishops,"* (in. 1836, "and their widows and orphans,") changed, 1852, to "each Annual Conference shall pay its proportionate part toward the allowance of the widows and orphans of Bishops""] [1852. Conference. 1856.]

1824.] 7. The Book Agents and the Book Committee in New York shall be a committee to estimate the amount necessary to meet the family expenses of the Bishops, which shall be annually paid by the Book Agents out of the funds of the Book Concern.† [1832. Book Agents' Estimating Committee.]

1848.] Quest. ["What shall be allowed," changed, 1860, to "What provision shall be made"] for the support of ["a Bishop," changed, 1864, to "the Bishops"], ["and how shall it be raised," changed, 1860, to "and the widows and children of deceased Bishops"]? [1872.]

Ans. 1. The annual allowance of a married Bishop shall be two hundred dollars and his traveling expenses. The annual allowance of an unmarried Bishop shall be one hundred dollars and his traveling expenses. [1860. Allowance.]

Each child of a Bishop shall be allowed sixteen dollars annually to the age of seven years, and twenty-four dollars annually from the age of seven to fourteen years.

1856.] The widows and orphans of deceased Bishops shall be allowed to draw on the funds of the Book Concern annually for their disciplinary allowance.‡

* This paragraph was originally inserted in the section on Annual Conferences; transferred, 1804, to that on Boundaries; again, 1848, to this place.

† From the section on "Raising Supplies," in 1848.

‡ The allowance of a Bishop in 1784 was as follows:

Quest. 18. What shall be allowed the General Assistant yearly?

Ans. Twenty-four pounds, with his expenses for horses and traveling, brought to and paid at Conference.—Minutes. 1784.

In 1860 the entire section on "Allowance" was omitted, the provisions contained in it being transferred to other sections on the Support of the Ministry.

1836.] 7. Each Annual Conference in which a Bishop or Bishops may reside shall annually appoint a committee of three or more, whose duty it shall be to estimate the amount necessary to furnish a house, fuel, and table expenses for said

Estimating Committee by Conference.

Bishop or Bishops [in., 1844, subject to the action of the Conference], and that they be authorized to draw on the funds of the Book Concern for said amount; [in., 1852, and also for the amount of their quarterage and traveling expenses].

1860.] It shall be the duty of ["each Annual Conference [1872. within whose bounds a Bishop or the widow or child of a deceased Bishop may reside, to appoint a Committee, whose duty it shall be to make an estimate of the amount necessary to furnish a comfortable support to such Bishop, considering the number and condition of his family, and the amount necessary to assist such widow or child in obtaining a comfortable support, which estimate shall be subject to the action of the Conference," changed, 1864, to "the Book Committee (om., 1868, at New York) to make an estimate of the amount necessary to furnish a competent support to each Bishop (om., 1868, residing east of the Alleghany Mountains) considering the number and condition of his family and the amount necessary to assist the widows and children of deceased Bishops (om., 1868, residing within the same territory; and it shall be the duty of the Book Committee at Cincinnati to make a similar estimate with regard to the Bishops and the widows and children of Bishops residing west of the Alleghany Mountains;")] and the Bishops are authorized to draw on the Book Concern for said amount ["allowed them, and also for the amount of their traveling expenses," changed, 1864, to "and also for their traveling expenses."]

The Bishop presiding at an Annual Conference where an [1864. estimate is made for the widow or orphan of a deceased Bishop, shall be authorized to draw on the Book Concern for such amount.

Drawn by a Bishop.

1872.] ¶ 284. The General Conference shall determine which of the Bishops are effective, and which are non-effective.

¶ 285. It shall be the duty of the Book Committee to make an estimate of the amount necessary to furnish a competent support to each effective Bishop, considering the number and condition of his family, and the amount, if any, necessary to the comfortable maintenance of the non-effective Bishops, and also the amount necessary to assist the widows and children of deceased Bishops; and the Bishops are authorized to draw on ["the Agents of the Book Concern" changed, 1880, to "the Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund"] for said amount, and also for their traveling expenses.

1860.] ¶ 286. The Bishop presiding at an Annual Conference, within whose bounds a widow or orphan of a deceased Bishop may reside, shall be authorized to draw on ["the Agents of the Book Concern" 1880, to the Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund for said amount, and also for their traveling expenses] for such amount as may be estimated as aforesaid.

1872.] ¶ 346. The Book Committee shall divide the aggregate sum required to be raised for these purposes among [1880. the Annual Conferences, according to their several ability, and the Annual Conferences shall apportion the same to the several Districts, and the District Stewards to the several charges.

Apportioned to the Conferences.

And it shall be the duty of the Presiding Elders to see that the amounts assessed on the different appointments are raised and forwarded to the Agents of the Book Concern.

¶ 347. The Agents of the Book Concern shall charge the sums paid to the Bishops and to the widows and children of deceased Bishops to "the Episcopal Fund," and all collections received from the different charges for the support of the Bishops shall be credited to the said fund. And the Agents shall report annually to the Annual Conferences the amounts received from the several Annual Conferences on account of said fund, and also the expenditures made, and shall make a full and detailed exhibit of such receipts and expenditures for the term of four years in their Quadrennial Report to the General Conference; and if there shall be a deficiency, and a balance due the Book Concern, the General Conference shall provide for its payment.

Duty of Book Agents.

1880.] ¶ 287. The Book Committee shall divide the aggregate sum required to be raised for these purposes among the Annual Conferences, on the basis of the total amount raised in the respective Annual Conferences for Ministerial support, exclusive of Missionary appropriations, and the Annual Conferences shall apportion the same to the several Districts, and the District Stewards to the several Charges. The amount apportioned to each Pastoral Charge for the support of the Bishops shall be a pro rata claim with that of the stationed Preachers and Presiding Elders; and no such Preacher or Presiding Elder shall be entitled to his allowance except to the extent to which the claims of the Bishops are also met by the Circuit, Station, or District with which such Elder and Preacher are connected. And it shall be the duty of the Annual Conferences to see that the amounts apportioned to the different Pastoral Charges for the support of the Bishops are raised and forwarded quarterly, when practicable, to the Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund.

¶ 288. The Treasurer shall charge the sums paid to the Bishops, and to the Widows and Children of deceased Bishops, to "The Episcopal Fund;" and all collections received from the different Charges for the support of the Bishops shall be credited to said Fund. And the Treasurer shall report annually to the Annual Conferences the amounts received from the several Annual Conferences on account of said Fund, and also the expenditures made; and he shall also make a full and detailed exhibit of such receipts and expenditures for the term of four years to the General Conference.

1860.] Support of Presiding Elders.

1792. Quest. 5. How shall the Presiding Elders be supported? Ans. [1872.]

1816.] ¶ 289. * There shall be [in., 1856, annually] in every District a meeting [in., 1860, composed] of one Steward from

1792.] If there be a surplus of the public money in one or more [1869. Circuits in his District, he shall receive such surplus; provided, he do not receive more than his annual ["salary," changed, 1808, to "allowance."] In case of a deficiency in his allowance after such surplus is paid him, or if there be no surplus, he shall share with the Preachers of his District in proportion with what they have respectively received, so that he receives no more than the amount of his (salary) allowance upon the whole. [In., 1804. He shall be accountable to the Annual Conference for what he receives as his allowance.]

1860.] And in all cases the Presiding Elder shall share with the Preachers in his District in proportion with what they have respectively received; but if there be a surplus of money raised for the support of the Preachers in one or more of the Circuits or Stations in his District, he shall receive such surplus, provided he do not receive more than his allowance. [In., 1884, The Minutes of the District Stewards' Meeting shall be kept by a Secretary chosen for the purpose, who shall also record the same in a book of which the Presiding Elder shall be custodian.]

1844.] ¶ 291. Whenever a member of an Annual Conference applies for a location it shall be asked in all cases, Is he indebted to the Book Concern? and if it be ascertained that he is, the Conference shall require him to secure said debt, if they judge it at all necessary or proper, before they grant him a location. Whenever any claimant on the funds of a Conference shall be in debt to the Book Concern, the Conference of which he is a member shall have power to appropriate the amount of such claim, or any part thereof, to the payment of said debt.†

1860.] ¶ 292. † When a member of an Annual Conference is accused of a crime in the interval of his Conference session, and is suspended by a Committee, and subsequently convicted by his Conference and expelled, his claim upon the funds of the Conference shall cease from the time of his suspension. [In., 1884, And when a member of an Annual Conference is suspended and is afterward restored, he shall have no claim on the Congregation, nor upon the Funds of the Conference, during the period of such suspension.]

Support of Superannuated Preachers.

¶ 293. It shall be the duty of the Quarterly Conference of each Charge, within whose bounds a Superannuated Preacher, or the widow or child of a deceased Preacher, may reside, to appoint a committee, whose duty it shall be to make an estimate of the amount necessary to assist such Preacher, widow, or child in obtaining a comfortable support, and such estimate shall be sent up to the Annual Conference with which the claimant may be connected, and subject to the action of said Annual Conference.‡

RAISING SUPPLIES.

Methods for Raising Annual Supplies for the Propagation of the Gospel, and for making up the Allowance of Preachers.

Allowance.

1787.] [Of the collections that are to be made, and how the money is to be expended, changed, 1792, to "Of the salaries of the Ministers and Preachers (in.. 1804, and allowances to their wives, widows, and children)," changed, 1808, to "Of the" Early Provisions "allowances;" changed, 1820, to "allowance" to the Ministers and Preachers, and to their wives, widows, and children"].

1774.] This Conference agreed to the following particulars :

1. Every Preacher who is received into full connection is to have the use and property of his horse, which any of the Circuits may furnish him with.

2. Every Preacher is to be allowed six pounds, Pennsylvania currency, per quarter, and his traveling charges besides.

3. For every Assistant to make a general collection at Easter in the Circuits where they labor, to be applied to the sinking of the debts on the houses, and relieving the Preachers in want.

4. Wherever Thomas Rankin spends his time he is to be assisted by those Circuits.

1778.] Quest. 8. What shall the Preachers be allowed for quarterage ?

Ans. Eight pounds, Virginia currency.

1782.] Quest. 12. What shall be done to get a regular and impartial supply for the maintenance of the Preachers ?

Ans. Let every thing they receive, either in money or clothing, be valued by the Preachers and Stewards at Quarterly Meeting, and an account of the deficiency given in to the Conference, that they may be supplied by the profits arising from the books and the Conference collections.*

1783.] Quest. How is this sum [for support of Preachers' wives] to be raised ?

Ans. Let the Preachers make a small collection in all the Circuits.*

1784.] Quest. 37. What shall be the regular annual salary [1800. of the [in., 1787, Bishops], Elders, Deacons, and Helpers ? †

Ans. ["Twenty-four pounds, Pennsylvania currency, (om., 1787, and no more)," changed, 1792, to "sixty dollars and their traveling expenses"].

Quest. 38. What shall be annually allowed the wives of the married Preachers ?

Ans. ["Twenty-four pounds, Pennsylvania currency, if they need it, (om., 1788, and no more)," changed, 1792, to "sixty-four dollars, (om., 1796, if they be in want of it)"].

Quest. 39. How is this to be provided ?

[1787.

Ans. By the Circuits proportionably.

Quest. 40. What shall be allowed the married Preachers for the support of their children ?

Ans. For each of their children under the age of six years let them be allowed six pounds, Pennsylvania currency, and for each child of the age of six and under the age of eleven, eight pounds.

* The Minutes of the Annual Conferences.

† General Conference. These questions found in the Discipline of 1784.

1788.] ["N. B. That no Ministers or Preachers, traveling [1800. or local, shall receive any support either in money or other provisions for their services without the knowledge of the Stewards of the Circuits, and its being properly entered quarterly on the books," changed, 1792, to "N. B. No Minister or Preacher whatsoever shall receive any money for deficiencies or any other account out of any of our funds or collections without first giving an exact account of all the money, clothes, and other presents of every kind which he has received the preceding year"].

1787.] How many collections are to be made a year? [1792.

Ans. 1. A quarterly collection from the members of the Society to supply the Preachers, and when that is deficient, a public quarterly collection. If there be an overplus, let one third of it be reserved for future deficiencies, one third to be given to the poor in general, and one third applied to the building or improving of our churches. If there is money left in the hands of the Stewards at the close of the year let it be sent to the Conference.

2. A yearly collection from all our members that are of ability for the building of convenient churches.*

3. A collection at love-feasts and on sacramental occasions for the poor of our own Society.

4. An annual collection or subscription for the college.

5. An annual public collection for the contingencies of the Conference, which shall be applied,

1. To discharge the deficiencies of those Preachers who shall not have received their full salary in their Circuits; and,

2. To defray the expenses of our missions to distant parts of the continent.

1792.] Quest. 3. What plan shall we pursue in appropri- [1800. ating the money received by our Traveling Ministers for marriage fees?

Ans. In all the Circuits where the Preachers do not receive their full quarterage, let all such money be given into the hands of the Stewards, and be equally divided between the Traveling Preachers of the Circuit. In all other cases the money shall be disposed of at the discretion of the District Conference.

1800.] ["1. The annual ("salary," changed, 1808, to al- |1836. lowance") of the Traveling Preachers shall be ("eighty," changed, 1816, to "one hundred") dollars and their traveling expenses.

2. The annual allowance of the wives of Traveling Preachers shall be ("eighty," changed, 1816, to "one hundred") dollars, (in., 1824, but this provision shall not apply to the wives of those Preachers who were single when they were received on trial and marry under four years, until the expiration of said four years).

4. The ("salary," changed, 1808, to "allowance") of the Superannuated, Worn-out, and Supernumerary Preachers shall be ("eighty," changed, 1816, to "one hundred") dollars annually.

6. The annual allowance of the wives of Superannuated, Worn-out, and Supernumerary Preachers shall be ("eighty," changed, 1816, to "one hundred") dollars; these four paragraphs changed, 1836, to 1836.] "1. The annual allowance of the married Traveling, [1860. Supernumerary, and Superannuated Preachers, and the Bishops, shall be two hundred dollars and their traveling expenses.

* A provision had been made for church building, 1754. See Question 78 and the section on "Church Extension."

1800.] 3. Each child of a Traveling Preacher shall be allowed sixteen dollars annually to the age of seven years, and twenty-four dollars annually from the age of seven to fourteen years, [in., 1804, and the Preachers whose wives are dead shall be allowed for each child annually a sum sufficient to pay the board of such child or children during the above term of years]; nevertheless, this rule shall not apply to the children of Preachers whose families are provided for by other means in their Circuits respectively.

4. The annual allowance of the widows of Traveling, Superannuated, Worn-out, and Supernumerary Preachers [in., 1836, and the Bishops], shall be [“eighty,” changed, 1816, to “one hundred”] dollars.

[“7. The orphans of Traveling, Superannuated, Worn-out, and Supernumerary Preachers shall be allowed by the Annual Conferences, if possible, by such means as they can devise, sixteen dollars annually,” changed, 1828, to “7. The orphans of Traveling, Supernumerary, Superannuated, and Worn-out Preachers shall be allowed by the Annual Conferences the same sums respectively which are allowed to the children of living Preachers. And on the death of a Preacher leaving a child or children without so much of worldly goods as should be necessary to his, her, or their support, the Annual Conference of which he was a member shall raise, in such manner as may be deemed best, a yearly sum for the subsistence and education of such orphan child or children until he, she, or they shall have arrived at fourteen years of age, the amount of which yearly sum shall be fixed by a committee of the Conference at each session in advance”].*

1804.] 8. Local Preachers shall be allowed a salary in certain cases, as mentioned, p. 44. sec. 9. [1848.]

[Ans. Those who can preach four or five times a week are Supernumerary Preachers. A farthing for those who cannot.”—Large Minutes.]

Ans. 1. Let every [out., 1788, Traveling] Preacher contribute two dollars yearly at the Conference.

2. Let every one when first admitted as a Traveling Preacher pay twenty shillings, Pennsylvania currency.

[“3. Let the money be lodged in the hands of the Treasurers. 4. Let there be three Treasurers; three Clerks; each of whom shall keep a separate account, and three inspectors who shall annually lay before the Conference an exact state of the fund. 5. Let these nine form a committee for the management of the fund. Three of whom shall be competent to proceed on any business, provided one be a Treasurer, another an Inspector, and a third a clerk,” changed, 1788, to “3. Let the money be lodged in the hands of the Presiding Elder, or lent to the College, and an account thereof be kept by the Deacon. N. B. The application of the money shall rest with the Conference.”]

6. Out of this fund, let provision be made first for the Worn-out Preachers and then for the widows and children of those that are dead.

7. Every orphan§ of a Preacher shall receive, once for all, if he wants it, fifty-three dollars and one third.||

8. But none shall be entitled to any thing from this fund till he has paid six dollars and two thirds.

9. Nor any one who neglects to pay his subscription and arrears for three years together, unless he be employed on Foreign Missions, or has received a dispensation as above mentioned.

10. Let every Preacher who has the care of a Circuit, bring to the Conference the contributions of every Preacher left behind in his Circuit.

11. Every person who desires support from the fund shall first make his case known to the District Conference, which shall determine how far he is a proper subject for relief.

12. The President of the District Conference shall give an order on the General Steward of the Book Fund, or any of his agents, for any sum of money allowed by the Conference, agreeably to these rules.

13. The receipts and disbursements of the fund shall be printed annually in the Minutes of the Conference.

14. The Presiding Elder of each District shall keep a regular account of all the concerns of the fund, as far as they relate to his District, in a proper book which he shall hand down to his successor.

[Om., 1796. 15. The next District Conference shall give certificates to all their members respectively for all the money which each Preacher has already advanced to the fund, as far as it can be ascertained], and in future each member of the fund shall receive a certificate from his District Conference for the payment of his subscription.

16. The fund shall never be reduced to less than six hundred dollars.

To this end he may then read and enlarge upon the following [1860. hints in every such congregation: ‡]

(1.) How shall we send laborers into those parts where they are most of all wanted? Many are willing to hear, but not to bear the expense; nor can it as yet be expected of them. Stay till the word of God has touched their hearts, and then they will gladly provide for them that preach it. Does it not lie upon us in the mean time to supply their lack of service? to raise a general fund, out of which, from time to time, that expense may be defrayed? By this means those who willingly offer themselves may travel through every part, whether there are societies or not,§ and stay wherever there is a call without being burdensome to any. Thus may the Gospel, in the life and power thereof, be spread from sea to sea. Which of you will not rejoice to throw in your mite to promote this glorious work?

(2.) Besides this, in carrying on so large a work through the continent,|| there are calls for money in various ways, and we must frequently be at considerable expense, or the work must be at a full stop. Many too are the occasional distresses of our Preachers or their families, which require an immediate supply. Otherwise their hands would hang down, if they were not constrained to depart from the work.

The money contributed will be brought to the ensuing Conference.¶]

PART IV.—CHAPTER III.

PROVISIONAL FUNDS.

Board of Conference Claimants.

1888.] ¶ 301. There shall be a Board of Conference Claimants consisting of twelve ministers and twelve laymen, chosen by the General Conference, who, together with the Bishops of the Church (who shall be ex-officio members), and the Corresponding Secretary, shall constitute a Board of Control. And they shall be duly and legally incorporated, with such powers and prerogatives as shall be needful for the accomplishing of the objects of the Board as shall be hereinafter stated. Nine members shall constitute a quorum. The place of business shall be Chicago, Ill.

¶ 302. The term of service of members of the Board shall begin on the first Monday of June following their election by the General Conference, or immediately, if appointed by the Board of Control, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified. Vacancies during the interval of the General Conference may be filled by the Board on the nomination of the Bishops. The officers shall have power to convene the Board when necessary.

¶ 303. The officers of said Board shall consist of a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and a Corresponding Secretary, all of whom shall be elected by the Board from among its own number, except the Corresponding Secretary, who shall be nominated by the Board of Bishops, and may be either a minister or a layman.

¶ 304. The Corresponding Secretary shall perform his duties under the direction of the Board and shall conduct its correspondence. He shall travel among the Annual Conferences, or elsewhere, in the interest of the Society, with the approval of the Board, and be authorized to secure pledges, make collections, and do such other work as will increase the funds of the Board. He shall receive such pay as the Board of Control may determine, and shall be paid out of the proceeds of the Permanent Fund.

¶ 305. The funds of this Society shall be known as the Permanent Fund and the Disbursing Fund. The Permanent Fund shall consist of special collections, grants, wills, bequests, or other conveyance of property, from which expenses shall be deducted, and the balance placed on interest by direction of the Board.

¶ 306. The Disbursing Fund shall consist of collections by the several Annual Conferences for Conference Claimants, together with the amounts coming from the profits of the Book Concern, and all interest from the Permanent Fund.

¶ 307. The claimants upon this fund shall be: all Superannuated Preachers and the Widows and Children of deceased Preachers. A Supernumerary Preacher may, by vote of his Conference, be made a claimant.

¶ 308. Each Annual Conference may organize a Board of Conference Claimants, auxiliary to the General Board, which shall, through its Secretary, report to the General Board, on or before the 1st of January or July next following the session of the Conference, the name and age of each claimant of the Conference, and give such other information as may be provided for by blanks furnished by the General Board. The Conference Board shall report to the General Board any urgent cases of need that arise during the Conference year, in order that relief may be given at once by the Board.

¶ 309. The Board shall have power to grant honorary membership to any person giving at any one time one hundred dollars, which shall allow such person a seat and voice in its deliberations, but not a vote. The Board shall have power to receive grants, gifts, or bequests, to be kept in the name of the donor, subject to the same rules as govern other parts of the Permanent Fund.

¶ 310. The Board shall cause a proper division of its funds to be made, based upon the number and needs of claimants, and through its Corresponding Secretary forward to the Bishop presiding at each Annual Conference the amount appropriated to said Conference; and the Conference Board, or the Conference Stewards, in the absence of such Board, shall divide it among the claimants of the Conference on such a basis as the Stewards may determine, with the approval of the Conference.

¶ 311. The division by the General Board shall be made on the first day of August yearly.

¶ 312. Any person may contribute to the Permanent Fund a sum to be preserved and perpetuated in his name, the interest on which shall go to the Disbursing Fund.

¶ 313. The Board of Control shall, through the Corresponding Secretary, make to the General Conference a full report of all its doings during the preceding quadrennium. And it shall send to each Annual Conference an exact statement as to the condition of its funds, together with such other information as may be useful.

1860.] ¶ 314. It shall be the duty of the Quarterly Conference, of each charge within whose bounds a Superannuated Preacher or the Widow or Child of a deceased Preacher may reside, to appoint a Committee whose duty shall be to make an estimate of the amount necessary to assist such Preacher, Widow, or Child in obtaining a comfortable support; and such estimate shall be sent up to the Annual Conference with which the claimant may be connected, and be subject to the action of the Conference; but the Conference Board may consider and report upon the case of any claimant that the Quarterly Conference has failed to report.

The Chartered Fund.

1796.] Quest. 1. What further provision shall be made [1872. for the distressed Traveling Preachers, for the families of Traveling Preachers, and for the Superannuated and Worn-out Preachers, and the widows and orphans of Preachers?

and Worn-out Preachers, and the widows and orphans of Preachers], there shall be a Chartered Fund, to be supported by the voluntary contributions of our friends, the principal stock of which shall be funded under the direction of Trustees [in., 1800, chosen by the General Conference,] and the interest applied under the direction of the General Conference according to the following regulations [in., 1800, namely:]

1. That no sum exceeding sixty-four dollars shall in any [1800, Amount. one year be applied to the use of an Itinerant, Superannuated, Appropriated. ated, or Worn-out single Preacher.
2. That no sum exceeding one hundred and twenty-eight dollars in any one year shall be applied to the use of an Itinerant, Superannuated, or Worn-out married Preacher.
3. That no sum exceeding sixty-four dollars in any one year shall be applied for the use of each widow of Itinerant, Superannuated, or Worn-out Preachers.
4. That no sum exceeding sixteen dollars shall be applied in any one year for the use of each child or orphan of Itinerant, Superannuated or Worn-out Preachers.

I. The Elders, and those who have the oversight of Presiding Elder. Circuits, shall be collectors and receivers of subscriptions, etc., for this fund.

II. The money shall, if possible, be conveyed by bills of exchange [in., 1800, or otherwise], through the means of the Payment. post, to [(om., 1800. John Dickens) "our General Book Steward, in Philadelphia;"] 1800, Superintendent of the Book Concern. changed, 1804, to "the General Book Stewards; " 1848, to "the General Book Agents"], who shall pay it to the Trustees of the fund; otherwise it shall be brought to the ensuing Annual Conference.

III. The interest shall be divided into eighty-nine* equal parts, and each of the Annual Conferences shall have authority to draw one of these parts out of the fund; Dividends. and if in one or more Conferences less than one of these parts be drawn out of the fund in any given year, then in such case or cases the other Annual Conferences, held in the same year, shall have authority, if they judge it necessary, to draw out of the fund [om., according to the above regulation] such surplus of the interest which has not been applied by the former Conferences, and the Bishops shall bring the necessary information of the state of the interest of the fund, respecting the year in question, from Conference to Conference.

["7. There shall be no money drawn out of the fund till the first day of August, 1798," changed 1800, to

* The number varies from time to time, according to the number of Conferences. See Annual Conferences.

9. The ["present," changed, 1800, to "old"] stock of the [1812. Preachers' Fund shall be thrown into the Chartered Sources of Revenue. Fund.

10. The produce of the sale of our books after the book [1804. debts are paid, and a sufficient capital is provided for carrying on the business, shall be regularly paid into the Chartered Fund; [in., 1800, to be applied, with the annual interest of the funded stock, to [1804. the support of the itinerant ministry, etc., agreeably to the design and rules of the Chartered Fund, and the twenty-sixth section of this Discipline.

7. Conference.

V. The money subscribed for the Chartered Fund may be lodged, on proper securities, in the States respectively in which it has been subscribed, under the direction Investments. of deputies living in such States respectively; provided, such securities and such deputies be proposed as shall be approved of by the Trustees in Philadelphia, and the stock in which it is proposed to lodge the money be sufficiently productive to give satisfaction to the Trustees.

1848.] Quest. 2. How shall vacancies in the Board of Trustees of the Chartered Fund be filled? [1872.

¶ 316. The Board of Trustees shall have power to fill any vacancy or vacancies that may occur in their body by death, resignation, or otherwise, subject, however, to the approval of the first General Conference that may be held after such vacancy or vacancies shall have occurred. Vacancies ad interim.

The Permanent Fund.

1872.] ¶ 317. There shall be a Fund known as "The Permanent Fund," to be held by the Trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the principal of which shall be intact forever, and which shall be invested by said Trustees on first-class securities, and at as favorable rates as can be legally secured.

¶ 318. It shall be the duty of all our Ministers to obtain, as far as practicable, contributions to said Fund, by donations, bequests, and otherwise.

¶ 319. The interest accumulating from said Fund shall be subject to the order of the General Conference for the following purposes: 1. To pay the expenses of the General Conference. 2. To pay the expenses of Delegations appointed by the General Conference to Corresponding Bodies. 3. To make up any deficiencies in the salaries of the Bishops. 4. To relieve the necessities of the Superannuated and Worn-out Preachers, and of the Widows and Orphans of those who have died in the work.

Denominational Trusteeship.

1864.] Quest. What shall be done for the better security of do- [1872. nations, bequests, grants, etc., made for benevolent purposes to the Methodist Episcopal Church? Ans. 1.

¶ 320. There shall be located at Cincinnati an incorporated Board of Trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church, composed of twelve members, six ministers and six laymen, appointed by the General Conference, of whom three of each class shall hold office four years, and three of each class eight years; all vacancies to be filled quadrennially by the General Conference. The duty of this Board shall be to hold in trust, for the benefit of the Methodist Episcopal Church, any and all donations, bequests, grants, and funds in trust, etc., that may be given or conveyed to said Board or to the Methodist Episcopal Church as such for any benevolent object, and to administer the said funds and the proceeds of the same, in accordance with the directions of the donors and of the interests of the Church contemplated by said donors under the direction of the General Conference; [in., 1872, Provided, that any sums thus donated or bequeathed, but not especially designated for any benevolent object, shall be appropriated to the "Permanent Fund"]. [In., 1888, and provided, also, That the Board shall not be required to accept any gift, bequest, or trust to which may be attached conditions that appear to the Board to be unreasonable, or likely to produce embarrassment; and having accepted in good faith, under the conditions imposed, any gift or bequest in trust for any one or more of the benevolent societies or other institutions under the patronage or direction of the Church, the Board shall be responsible only for the careful and economical administration of the same, and shall not be held to account to the beneficiary or beneficiaries thereof either for the fund or for a continuous income therefrom or interest thereon, beyond what may be secured through fidelity and diligence, and all necessary expenses arising from the care or administration of any trust shall be charged to the same.]

¶ 321. When any such donation, bequest, grant, or trust, etc., is made to this Board, or to the Church, it shall be the duty of the Preacher in the bounds of whose charge it occurs to give an early notice thereof to the Board, which shall proceed without delay to take possession of the same, according to the provisions of its charter.

¶ 322. The Board shall make a faithful report of its doings, and of the funds and property on hand, at each quadrennial session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

PART IV—CHAPTER IV.

CHURCH PROPERTY.

Trustees—Their Appointment, Duties, and Responsibilities.

1818.] [“Section 2.—Of Trustees,” changed, 1860, to “Section 2.—
1869.] Trustees—Their Appointment, Duties, and Responsibilities..]

1792.] 1. Let nine trustees be appointed for holding [1864. [“preaching houses,” changed, 1848, to “Church property”]], where proper persons can be procured, otherwise seven or five.

1848.] When a new Board of Trustees is to be created it shall be done (except in those States and Territories where the statutes provide differently) by the appointment of the Preacher in charge, or the Presiding Elder of the District.

Creation of a Board.

1796.] 3. When any one or more of the Trustees shall die, or cease to be a member or members of the said Church according to the rules of the Discipline as aforesaid, then and in such case it shall be the duty of the stationed Minister or Preacher (authorized as aforesaid) who shall have the pastoral charge of the members of the said Church (except in those States and Territories where the statutes provide differently), to call a meeting of the remaining Trustees as soon as conveniently may be, and when so met, the said Minister or Preacher shall proceed to nominate one or more persons to fill the place or places of him or them whose office [or offices] has [or have] been vacated as aforesaid; provided, the person or persons so nominated shall have been one year a member or members of the said Church immediately preceding such nomination, and be at least twenty-one years of age; and the said Trustees, so assembled, shall proceed to elect, and by a majority of votes appoint, the person or persons so nominated to fill such vacancy or vacancies, in order to keep up the number of nine Trustees forever, and in case of an equal number of votes for and against the said nomination, the stationed Minister or Preacher shall have the casting vote.*

Mode of Filling Vacancies.

1787.] 5. That no person shall be eligible as a Trustee to any of our [in., 1800, houses], churches, or [“colleges,” changed, 1792, to “schools”], [in., 1792, nor act as a Steward or Leader], that is not [“in constant communion and a regular Leader or a member of a class,” changed, 1792, to “a regular member of our “Society,” changed, 1816, to “Church”]].

Eligibility.

1864.] Quest. How shall Trustees be constituted for our [1872. Church property, and what shall be their duties?

¶ 323. Each Board of Trustees [in., 1872, of our Church property] shall consist of not less than three, nor more than nine persons, each of whom shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, and a majority of whom shall be members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

1796.] Quest. What shall be done for the security of our [1872. [om., 1864, preaching houses and the premises belonging thereto]? [in., 1864, Church property]?

Ans. Let the following plan of a deed of settlement be brought [1864. into effect in all possible cases, and as far as the laws of the States respectively will admit of it.

1812.] But each Annual Conference is authorized to make such modification in the deeds as they may find the different usages and customs of law require in the different States and Territories, so as to secure the premises firmly by deed, and permanently to the Methodist Episcopal Church, according to the true intent and meaning of the following form of a deed of settlement, any thing in the said form to the contrary notwithstanding: [om., 1812, namely]:

N. B. It is necessary that all our deeds should be recorded [1820. after execution, for prudential as well as legal reasons.

1864.] In all conveyances of ground for the erection of [1888. houses of worship, or upon which they may have been already erected, let the following clause be inserted at the proper place: Form of Conveyance for Churches. "In trust that said premises shall be used, kept, maintained, and disposed of as a place of Divine worship for the use of the ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America; subject to the Discipline, usage, and ministerial appointments of said Church as from time to time authorized and declared by the General Conference of said Church, and the Annual Conference in whose bounds the said premises are situate."

¶ 379. In all conveyances of ground for the erection of dwelling-houses for the use of the Preachers, or upon which they may have been already erected, let the following clause be inserted at the proper place: Form of Conveyance for Parsonages. "In trust that said premises shall be held, kept, and maintained, as a place of residence for the use and occupancy of the Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America who may, from time to time, be stationed in said place; subject to the usage and Discipline of said Church as from time to time authorized and declared by the General Conference of said Church, and by the Annual Conference within whose bounds said premises are situate."

1888.] ¶ 331. Before any real estate is purchased for either Church, Parsonage, or other purpose, let the Society, in all States and Territories where the statutes will permit, first incorporate. Let the articles of incorporation provide that the Society shall be subject to the provision of the Discipline, and the usage and Ministerial appointments of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America, as from time to time authorized and declared by the General Conference of said Church, and the Annual Conference within whose bounds such corporation is situated, and that the secular affairs of such corporation shall be managed and controlled by a Board of Trustees elected and organized according to the provision of said Discipline. Let such article further provide that such corporation shall have power to acquire, hold, sell, and convey property, both real and personal. When this is done let all property acquired be deeded direct to the Society in its corporate name.

¶ 332. In the States where Church property is required to be held by Trustees, let all deeds under which the Church acquires property, whether designed for Church or Parsonage purposes, be made to the Trustees, naming them and their successors in office, followed by these words: "In trust for the use and benefit of the Ministry and Membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America, subject to the Discipline, usage, and ministerial appointment of said Church, as from time to time authorized and declared, and if sold the proceeds shall be disposed of and used in accordance with the provisions of said Discipline."*

In all other parts of such conveyances, as well as in their attestation, acknowledgment, and placing them upon the record, let a careful conformity be had to the laws, usages, and forms of the several States and Territories in which the property may be situated, so as to secure the ownership of the premises in fee simple [in., 1880, and in no case shall the Trustees mortgage or encumber the real estate for the current expenses of the Church].

¶ 334. Whenever it shall become necessary for the payment of debts, or with a view to reinvestment, to make a sale of Church property that may have been conveyed to Trustees for either of the foregoing purposes, said Trustees or their successors may, upon application to the Quarterly Conference, obtain an order—a majority of all the members of such Quarterly Conference concurring [“and the Annual Conference, (in., 1868, and, in the interim of the Annual Conference, the Preacher in charge and the Presiding Elder of the District) consenting—for the sale, with such limitations and restrictions as said Quarterly Building Churches.

CHAPTER III.—CHURCHES AND CHURCH PROPERTY.

Section 1.—["Of Building Churches, and the Order to be Observed Therein," changed, 1864, to "Building Churches."]

1784.] Quest. 74. Is any thing advisable in regard to [1872. building [in., 1843, Churches]?

¶ 336. Let all our churches be built plain and decent, [in., 1820, and with free seats], [in., 1852, wherever practicable], but not more expensive than is absolutely unavoidable, [om., 1872, otherwise the necessity of raising money will make rich men necessary to us; but if so, we must be dependent on them, yea, and governed by them; and then farewell to Methodist discipline if not doctrine, too].*

1820. ¶ 337. In order more effectually to prevent our people from contracting debts which they are not able to discharge, it shall be the duty of the Quarterly Conference of every Circuit and Station where it is contem-

Church Debts.

* Quest. 7. Ought not all the Assistants to see to the settling of all the preaching houses by Trustees, and order the said trustees to meet once in half a year, and keep a register of their proceedings; if there are any vacancies, choose new Trustees for the better security of the houses, and let all the deeds be drawn in substance after that in the printed Minutes? Aus. Yes.—Minutes of 1780.

The part relating to Church property was included in one section till 1848, when it was divided into the three on "Church Building," "Trustees," and the "Deed."

plated to build a house or houses of worship, to secure the ground or lot on which such house or houses are to be built, according to our deed of settlement, which deed must be legally executed; and also said Quarterly Conference shall appoint a judicious committee of at least three members of our Church, who shall form an estimate of the amount necessary to build; and three fourths of the money, according to such estimate, shall be secured or subscribed before any such building shall be commenced.

1844.] ¶ 338. In all cases where debts for building houses of worship have been, or may be, incurred contrary to or in disregard of the above recommendation, our members and friends are requested to discountenance such a course by declining to give pecuniary aid to all agents who shall travel abroad beyond their own Circuits or Districts for the collection of funds for the discharge of such debts: except in such peculiar cases as may be approved by an Annual Conference, or such agents as may be appointed by their authority.

1820.] ¶ 339. In future we will admit no charter, deed, or conveyance for any house of worship to be used by us, unless it be provided in such charter, deed, or conveyance that the Trustees of said house shall at all times permit such Ministers and Preachers belonging to the Methodist Episcopal Church as shall from time to time be duly authorized by the General Conference of the Ministers of our Church, or by the Annual Conferences, to preach and expound God's holy word, and to execute the discipline of the Church, and to administer the sacraments therein, according to the true meaning and purport of our Deed of Settlement.

4. As it is contrary to our economy to build houses with pews [1852. to sell or rent, it shall be the duty of the several Annual Conferences to use their influence to prevent houses from being so built in future, and as far as possible to make those which have already been built with pews.

1784.] Quest. 75. Is there any exception to the rule, "Let the men and women sit apart?"

Ans. There is no exception. Let them sit apart in all our ["chapels," changed, 1787, to "churches"].*

Quest. 76. ["But there is not a worse indecency than this, talking in the chapels† before and after service. How shall this be cured?" changed, 1787, to "But is there not a worse indecency than this, talking in the congregation before and after service? How shall this be cured?" changed, 1792, to "Is there not a great indecency sometimes

* The Large Minutes contained also the following:—

"Quest. (65.) But how can we secure their sitting apart there?"

"Ans. I must do it myself. If I come into any new house, and see the men and women together, I will immediately go out. I hereby give public notice of this: pray let it be observed.

"In those galleries where they have always sat together, they may do so still. But let them sit apart every-where below, and in all new erected galleries."—Large Minutes.

practiced among us, namely, talking in the congregation before and after service? How ehall this be cured"]?

Ans. Let all the Ministers and Preachers join as one man,* and enlarge on the impropriety of talking before or after service, and strongly exhort ["them," 1787, to "those that are concerned"] to do it no more. In three months, if we are in earnest, this vile practice will be banished out of every Methodist congregation. Let none stop till he has carried his point. †

* "The very next Sunday they preach in any place."—Ibid.

† The Minutes contained this also:—

"Quest. (67.) Is there not another shocking indecency frequently practiced by filthy men against the wall of a preaching house; enough to make any modest woman blush?"

"Ans. There is: but I beg any one who sees another do this will give him a hearty clap on the back.

"Quest. (68.) Complaint has been made that sluts spoil our houses. How may we prevent this?"

"Ans. Let none that has spoiled one ever live in another. But what a shame is this! A Preacher's wife should be a pattern of cleanliness, in her person, clothes, and habitation. Let nothing slatterly be seen about her; no rags, no dirt, no litter. And she should be a pattern of industry; always at work, either for herself, her husband, or the poor. I am not willing any should live in the orphan house at Newcastle, or any preaching house, who does not conform to this rule.

"Quest. (69.) It has been complained also that people crowd into the Preachers' houses as into coffee houses, without any invitation. Is this right?"

"Ans. It is utterly wrong. Stop it at once. Let no person come into the Preacher's house unless he wants to ask a question.

"Quest. (70.) May any new preaching houses be built?"

"Ans. Not unless, 1. They are proposed at the Conference. No, nor, 2. Unless two thirds of the expense be subscribed. And if any collection be made for them, it must be made between the Conference and the beginning of February.

"Quest. (71.) What can be done to make the Methodists sensible of the excellency of Kingswood school?"

"Ans. Let every assistant read the following account of it yearly in every congregation:—

"1. The wisdom and love of God have now thrust out a large number of laborers into his harvest: men who desire nothing on earth but to promote the glory of God, by saving their own souls and those that hear them. And those to whom they minister spiritual things are willing to minister to them of their carnal things; so that they 'have food to eat, and raiment to put on,' and are content therewith.

"2. A competent provision is likewise made for the wives of married Preachers. These also lack nothing, having a weekly allowance over and above for their little children; so that neither they nor their husbands need to be 'careful about many things,' but may 'wait upon the Lord without distraction.'

"3. Yet one considerable difficulty lies on those that have boys, when they grow too big to be under their mother's direction. Having no father to govern and instruct them, they are exposed to a thousand temptations. To remedy this we have a school on purpose for them, wherein they have all the instruction they are capable of, together with all things necessary for the body, clothes only excepted. And it may be, if God prosper this labor of love, they will have those too, shortly.

"4. In whatever view we look upon this, it is one of the noblest charities that can be conceived. How reasonable is the institution! Is it fit that the children of those who leave wife, and all that is dear, to save souls from death, should want what is needful either for soul or body? Ought not we to supply what the parent cannot, because of his labors in the Gospel? How excellent are the effects of this institution! The Preacher, eased of this weight, can the more cheerfully go on in his labor. And perhaps many of these children may hereafter fill up the place of those that shall 'rest from their labors.'

"5. It is not strange, therefore, considering the excellence of this design, that Satan should have taken much pains to defeat it, particularly by lies of every kind, which were plentifully invented and handed about for several years. But truth now generally prevails, and its adversaries are put to silence. It is well known that the children want nothing: that they scarce know what sickness means; that they are well instructed in whatever they are capable of learning; that they are carefully and tenderly governed; and that the behavior of all in the house, elder and younger, is 'as becometh the gospel of Christ.'

1848.] Building and Renting Houses for the use of Traveling Preachers.*

1800.] Quest. What advice or direction shall be given concerning the building or renting of dwelling houses for the use of the married Traveling Preachers? Ans. [1872.]

¶ 340. It is recommended by the General Conference to the Traveling Preachers to advise our friends in general to purchase a lot of ground in each Circuit, and to build a Preacher's house thereon, and to furnish it with, at least, heavy furniture [om., 1864, and to settle the same on trustees appointed by ("the official members of the Quarterly Meeting," changed, 1816, to "the Quarterly Meeting Conference") according to the deed of settlement published in our Form of Discipline]. Parsonages.

¶ 341. The General Conference recommend to ["the country," changed, 1812, to "all the"] Circuits, in cases where they are not able to comply with the above request, to rent a house for the married Preacher and his family, (when such are stationed upon their ["Circuits," 1880, to "charges"] respectively,) and that the Annual Conferences do assist to make up the rents of such houses as far as they can, when the Circuit cannot do it.

1828.] ¶ 342. The Stewards in each Circuit and Station shall be a standing committee (when no Trustees are constituted for that purpose) to provide houses for the families of our married Preachers, or to assist the Preachers to obtain houses for themselves when they are appointed to labor among them. Duty of Stewards.

1816.] ¶ 343. It shall be the duty of the Presiding Elders and Preachers to use their influence to carry the above rules respecting building and renting houses for the accommodation of Preachers and their families into effect. In order to this, each Quarterly Conference shall appoint a committee, (unless other measures have been adopted,) which with the advice and aid of the Preachers and Presiding Elders shall devise such means as may seem fit to raise moneys for that purpose. And it is recommended Duty of Presiding Elders.

"6. But the expense of such an undertaking is very large, so that we are ill able to defray it. The best means we could think of at our Conference to supply the deficiency is once a year to desire the assistance of all those in every place who wish well to the work of God; who long to see sinners converted to God, and the kingdom of Christ set up in all the earth.

"7. All of you who are thus minded have an opportunity now of showing your love to the Gospel. Now promote, as far as in you lies, one of the noblest charities in the world. Now forward, as you are able, one of the most excellent designs that ever was set on foot in this kingdom. Do what you can to comfort the parents who give up their all for you, and to give their children cause to bless you. You will be no poorer for what you do on such an occasion. God is a good paymaster. And you know, in doing this, you lend unto the Lord. In due time he shall pay you again.

"Quest. (72.) But how can we keep out of debt?

"Ans. Let a collection be made for this school, the Sunday before or after midsummer, in every preaching house, great and small, throughout England, Scotland and Ireland."

* Taken from section on "Raising Supplies," etc.

to the Annual Conferences to make a special inquiry of their members respecting this part of their duty.

4. ["Those Preachers who refuse to occupy the houses which [1860. may be provided for them on the Stations and Circuits where they are from time to time appointed shall be allowed nothing for house rent, nor receive any thing more than quarterage for themselves, their wives, and children, and their traveling expenses," changed, 1860, to "Any Preacher who shall refuse to occupy the house which may be provided [1864. for him by the Stewards shall thereby forfeit his claim on the Stewards to the amount of said house rent"]. Nevertheless, this rule shall not apply to those Preachers whose families are either established within the bounds of their Circuits, or are so situated that in the judgment of the Stewards or the above-mentioned committee it is not necessary, for the benefit of the Circuit, to remove them.

PART V.—EDUCATIONAL AND BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

CHAPTER I.

EDUCATION.

Institutions and Collections.

1864.] Quest. How shall the Church provide for the higher [1872. education of her youth? Ans. 1.

¶ 344. [In., 1872, In order that the Church may provide for the higher education of her youth]:

§ 1. It is recommended that wherever practicable each Conference have at least one academy or seminary under its direct supervision, and that such institutions confine themselves to their legitimate sphere of duties.

§ 2. It is also recommended that, as a general thing, not less than four Conferences unite in the support of a college or university; and the Conferences are earnestly advised not to multiply schools, especially of this higher grade, beyond the wants of the people, or their ability to sustain them. [In., 1888: and that before any institution shall be considered under the patronage of the Church in respect of its Educational Funds, the Board of Bishops and the Board of Education shall approve the location and the character of the institution; and when the Conferences in any State, as patrons of a central university, have united in fixing the location, no one of them can withdraw from the compact, unless by consent of the Bishops and the Board of Education, without forfeiting its claim on the Educational Funds of the Church].

1884.] § 3. Our Theological schools, whose Professors are nominated or confirmed by the Bishops, exist for the benefit of the whole Church; and it is the duty of the Presiding Elders and Pastors to direct the attention of Candidates for our Ministry to the advantages afforded in the institutions.

1864.] § 4. All these schools are, to a certain extent, Beneficiary Institutions. The Academy must be furnished with buildings and apparatus by the benevolence of the Church. ["The College," changed, 1884, to "the Colleges and Theological Schools"] must, in addition to these, have such endowments as shall yield a regular income sufficient to meet its current expenses; and that our people may be properly instructed in this matter, it shall be the duty of each Preacher in Charge to preach on the subject of education once a year; to diffuse information by the distribution of tracts, or otherwise; and especially to call the attention of our wealthy members and friends to the duty of making liberal donations and bequests to this object.

It is also recommended that each Conference take up annually a collection to aid the work of education.

4. It is advised that educational societies for the aid of poor young men be established, in connection with each of our colleges and biblical institutes, or Annual Conferences. Educational Societies.

1872.] § 5. It shall be the duty of each Preacher in Charge of a Circuit or station to take one public collection annually in each Society in aid of the work of education. Public Collection.
The money so received shall be paid over to such auxiliary of the Board of Education as the Annual Conference may direct, or in the absence of Annual Conference directions, to the Treasury of the Parent Board.

§ 6. It is recommended that the second Sunday in June be every-where observed as "Children's Day," and that wherever practicable a collection be taken in the Sunday-school in aid of the "Sunday-School Fund" of the Board of Education. Children's Day.

1884.] § 7. In case it be deemed advisable to take the Public Educational Collection on "Children's Day," all contributions of the day, unless otherwise designated by the donors, shall be equally divided between the objects named in §§ 5 and 6 of ¶ 344.

1876.] § 8. It shall be the duty of each Presiding Elder to bring the subject of Education, in individual Churches, before the ["first," 1880, to "fourth"] Quarterly Conference of each year, and said Quarterly Conference shall appoint a committee, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be ex-officio chairman, to organize, wherever practicable, a Church Lyceum, under the supervision of the Quarterly Conference, for mental improvement and to develop facilities for social intercourse; to organize free evening schools; to provide a library, text-books, and books of reference; to popularize religious literature by reading-rooms or otherwise; to seek out suitable persons, and, if necessary, assist them to obtain an education with a view to the ministry; and to do whatever shall seem best fitted to supply any deficiency in that which the Church ought to offer to the varied nature of man.

1787.] ["On the Plan of Education Established at," 1789. changed, 1788, to "Concerning"] Cokesbury College.

As a college has been erected with the approbation of the Conference, for the benefit of the connection; and, as the whole direction of the seminary ultimately rests with the Conference, we are determined to support it under such regulations as the Conference from time to time shall order, concerning its literary, temporal, and spiritual interests. And therefore the counsels, the authority, and the aid of the Conference are earnestly requested for the support of the institution; that the necessary collections may be raised, the design of the seminary be fully explained and strongly recommended to the people, and all the objections which any of our mistaken friends may entertain be fully answered.

1789.] ["On the Plan of Education Established in Cokes- [1796. bury College," changed, 1792, to "Plan of Education recommended to all our Seminaries of Learning"].*

The college is built at Abingdon, in Maryland, on a healthy spot, enjoying a fine air, and very extensive prospect. It is to receive for education and board the sons of the Elders [in., 1792, Deacons] and Preachers of the Methodist Church, poor orphans, and the sons of the subscribers and of other friends. It will be expected that all our friends who send their children to the college will, if they be able, pay a moderate sum for their education and board; the rest will be taught and boarded, and, if our finances will allow of it, clothed gratis. The institution is also intended for the benefit of our young men who are called to preach, that they may receive a measure of that improvement which is highly expedient as a preparative for public service. A teacher of the languages, with ["an assistant," changed, 1792, to "two assistants"] will be provided, as also an English master, to teach, with the utmost propriety, both to read and speak the English language; nor shall any other branch of literature be omitted which may be thought necessary for any of the students. Above all, especial care shall be taken that due attention be paid to the religion and morals of the children, and to the exclusion of all such as continue of an ungovernable temper. The college will be under the presidentship of the Bishops of our Church for

* * The College was built on an eminence at Abingdon and was of the following dimensions: 108 feet in length from east to west, and 40 feet in breadth from north to south, and stood on the summit and center of six acres of land. The College was built of brick, and from the top of it there was an extensive prospect both of the bay and of the adjacent country.

"On the 8th, 9th, and 10th days of December, 1787, the College was opened, and Mr. Asbury preached each day; the dedication sermon on Sunday from 2 Kings iv, 40, 'O thou man of God, there is death in the pot.'"—Lee's History of the Methodists.

"When the College was built it was well understood that the whole management of it was to be under the direction of the Conference. But after some years Mr. Asbury consented for it to be incorporated, which was done, and done without the consent of all the Conferences. And the Trustees who were named in the act of incorporation had the management of the institution among themselves, and the Conference was deprived of all power in making rules, or giving orders for the future welfare of the children.

"This step was disliked by many of our friends, who from that time concluded that the institution would not prosper. And the business was not well conducted afterward. On the 4th day of December, 1795, the College took fire by some means, but we cannot tell how, and was all burnt down, and the library was consumed with the house."—Lee's History, pp. 117, 118.

"From this time the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the cause of liberal education seems for a number of years to have gradually declined, and after 1796 no notice is taken of it in the Discipline. As the Church has since taken hold of this work with greater zeal than ever, it may be a question whether some provisions on the subject might not again, with propriety, be introduced."—Emory, Hist. Discipline.

the time being, and is to be supported by yearly collections throughout our Circuits, and any endowments which our friends may think proper to give and bequeath.

Three objects of considerable magnitude we have in view in the instituting of this college. Design.

The first is a provision for the sons of our married Ministers and Preachers.

The wisdom and love of God hath now thrust out a large number of laborers into his harvest, men who desire nothing on earth but to promote the glory of God by saving their own souls and those that hear them; and those to whom they minister spiritual things are willing to minister to them of their temporal things, so that they have food to eat, and raiment to put on, and are content therewith.

1. To educate the Children of ministers.

A competent provision is likewise made for the wives of married Preachers.

Yet one considerable difficulty lies on those that have boys when they grow too big to be under their mother's direction. Having no father to govern and instruct them, they are exposed to a thousand temptations. To remedy this is one motive that induces us to lay before our friends the ["intent of the college," changed, 1792, to "Plan of the Institution"] that these little ones may have all the instruction they are capable of, together with all things necessary for the body.

In this view our college will become one of the noblest charities that can be conceived. How reasonable is the institution! Is it fit that the children of those who leave wife and all that is dear to save souls from death should want what is needful either for soul or body? Ought not we to supply what the parent cannot, because of his labors in the Gospel? How excellent will be the effect of this institution! The Preacher, eased of this weight, can the more cheerfully go on in his labor. And perhaps many of these children may hereafter fill up the places of those that shall rest from their labors.

The second object we have in view is the education and support of poor orphans; and surely we need not enumerate the many happy consequences arising from such a charity. Innumerable blessings concenter in it; not only the immediate relief of the objects of our charity, but the ability given them, under the providence of God, to provide for themselves through the remainder of their lives.

2. Orphans.

The last, though perhaps not the least, object in view is the establishment of a seminary for the children of our competent friends where learning and religion may go hand in hand, where every advantage may be obtained which may promote the prosperity of the present life without endangering the morals and religion of the children through those temptations to which they are too much exposed in most of the public schools. This is an object of importance indeed, and here all the tenderest feelings of a parent's heart range on our side.

3. Children of those of means.

But the expense of such an undertaking will be very large, and the best means we could think of at our late Conference to accomplish our design was to desire the assistance of all those in every place who wish well to the work of God; who long to see sinners converted to God, and the kingdom of Christ set up in all the earth.

All who are thus minded, and more especially our own friends who form our congregations, have an opportunity now of showing their love to the Gospel. Now promote, as far as in you lies, one of the noblest charities in the world. Now forward, as you are able, one of the most excellent designs that ever was set on foot in this country. Do what you can to comfort the parents, who give up their all for you, and to give their children cause to bless you. You will be no poorer for what you do on such an occasion. God is a good paymaster. And you know in doing this you lend unto the Lord; in due time he shall repay you.

The students will be instructed in English, Latin, Greek, logic, rhetoric, history, geography, natural philosophy, and astronomy. To these languages and sciences shall be added, when the finances of our college will admit of it, the Hebrew, French, and German languages.

But our first object shall be to answer the design of Christian education, by forming the minds of the youth, through divine aid, to wisdom and holiness, by instilling into their tender minds the principles of true religion, speculative, experimental, and practical, and training them in the ancient way, that they may be rational, scriptural Christians. For this purpose we shall expect and enjoin it, not only on president and tutors, but also upon our Elders, Deacons, and Preachers, to embrace every opportunity of instructing the students in the great branches of the Christian religion.*

And this is one principal reason why we do not admit students indiscriminately into our college; for we are persuaded that the promiscuous admission of all sorts of youth into a seminary of learning is pregnant with many bad consequences. For are the students likely (suppose they possessed it) to retain much religion in a college where all that offer are admitted, however corrupted already in principle as well as practice? And what wonder when (as too frequently it happens) the parents themselves have no more religion than their offspring!

For the same reason we have consented to receive children of seven years of age, as we wish to have the opportunity of "teaching their young ideas how to shoot," and gradually forming their minds through the divine blessing, almost from their infancy, to holiness and heavenly wisdom, as well as human learning. And we may add that we are thoroughly convinced, with the great Milton (to whose admirable treatise on education we refer you), that it is highly expedient for every youth to begin and finish his education at the same place; that nothing can be more irrational and absurd than to break this off in the middle, and to begin it again at a different place, and perhaps in a quite different manner. And on this account we earnestly desire that the parents, and others who may be concerned, will maturely consider the last observation, and not send their children to our seminary if they are not to complete their education there, or at least make some considerable proficiency in the languages, and in the arts and sciences.

It is also our particular desire that all who shall be educated in our college may be kept at the utmost distance as from vice in general, so in particular from softness and effeminacy of manners.

["We shall," changed, 1796, to "The masters should"] therefore inflexibly insist on their rising early in the morning; and we are convinced, by constant observation and experience, that this is of vast importance both to body and mind. It is of admirable use either for preserving a good or improving a bad constitution. It is of peculiar service in all nervous complaints, both in preventing and in removing them. And by thus strengthening the various organs of the body it enables the mind to put forth its utmost exertions.

On the same principle we prohibit play in the strongest terms, and in this we have the two greatest writers on the subject that perhaps any age has produced (Mr. Locke and Mr. Rousseau) of our sentiments; for though the latter was essentially mistaken in his religious system, yet his wisdom in other respects, and extensive genius, are indisputably acknowledged. The employments, therefore, which we have chosen for the recreation of the students—are such as are of the greatest public utility, agriculture and architecture—studies more especially necessary for a new-settled country; and of consequence the instructing of our youth in all the practical branches of those important arts will be an effectual method of rendering them more useful to their country. Agreeably to this idea, the greatest statesman that perhaps ever shone in the annals of history, Peter, the Russian emperor, who was deservedly styled the Great, disdained not to stoop to the employment of a ship carpenter. Nor was it rare, during the purest times of the Roman republic, to see the conquerors of nations and deliverers of their country return with all simplicity and cheerfulness to the exercise of the plow. In conformity to this sentiment one of the completest poetic pieces of antiquity (the Georgics of Virgil) is written on the subject of husbandry; by the perusal of which, and submission to the above regulations, the students may delightfully unite the theory and the practice together. We say delightfully, for we do not entertain the most distant thought of turning these employments into drudgery or slavery, but into pleasing recreations for the mind and body.

In teaching the languages care shall be taken to read those authors, and those only, who join together the purity, the strength, and the elegance of their several tongues. And the utmost caution shall be used that nothing immodest be found in any of our books.

But this is not all. We shall take care that our books be not only inoffensive, but useful; that they contain as much strong sense and as much genuine morality as possible. As far, therefore, as is consistent with the foregoing observations, a choice and universal library shall be provided for the use of the students.

Our annual subscription is intended for the support of the charitable part of the institution. We have in the former part of this address enlarged so fully on the nature and excellency of the charity that no more need be said. The relieving our Traveling Ministers and Preachers, by educating, boarding, and clothing their sons, is a charity of the most noble and extensive kind, not only toward the immediate subjects of it, but also toward the public in general, enabling those “flames of fire,” who might otherwise be obliged to confine themselves to an exceedingly contracted sphere of action for the support of their families, to carry the savor of the Gospel to the remotest corners of these United States.

["The four guineas a year," changed, 1792, to "The eighteen dollars and two thirds per annum"] for tuition, we are persuaded, cannot be lowered if we give the students that finished education which we are determined they shall have. And though our principal object is to instruct them in the doctrine, spirit, and practice of Christianity, yet we trust that our college will in time send forth men that will be blessings to their country in every laudable office and employment of life, thereby uniting the two greatest ornaments of intelligent beings, which are too often separated, deep learning and genuine religion.

The rules and regulations with which you are here presented have been weighed and digested in our Conference; but we also submit them to your judgment, as we shall be truly thankful for your advice as well as your prayers, for the success of the college, even where the circumstances of things will not render it expedient to you to favor us with your charity. And we shall esteem ourselves happy if we be favored with any new light, whether from the members of our own Church or any other, whereby they may be abridged, enlarged, or in any other way improved, that the institution may be as near perfection as possible.

General Rules concerning the College.

I. A president and (two) (1792, three) tutors shall be provided [1796. for the present.

II. The students shall consist of

First. The sons of Traveling Preachers.

Secondly. The sons of annual subscribers, the children recommended by those annual subscribers who have none of their own, and the sons of members of our Society.

Thirdly. Orphans. But,

1. The sons of the annual subscribers shall have the preference to any other, except the sons of Traveling Preachers.

2. An annual subscriber who has no sons of his own shall have a right to recommend a child, and such child so recommended shall have the preference to any other, except the sons of Traveling Preachers and annual subscribers.

3. As many of the students as possible shall be lodged and boarded in the town of Abingdon, among our pious friends; but those who cannot be so lodged and boarded shall be provided for in the college.

4. The price of education shall be ["four guineas," changed, 1792, to "eighteen dollars and two thirds. The rate of boarding in the college shall be sixty dollars per annum. N. B. The enhanced price of several of the necessaries of life has obliged us to raise the rate of boarding."]

5. The sons of the Traveling Preachers shall be boarded, educated, and clothed gratis, except those whose parents, according to the judgment of the Conference, are of ability to defray the expense.

6. The orphans shall be boarded, educated, and clothed gratis.

7. No Traveling Preacher shall have the liberty of keeping his son on the foundation any longer than he travels, unless he be superannuated, or disabled by want of health.

8. No Traveling Preacher, till he has been received into full connection, shall have a right to place his son on the foundation of this institution.

9. No student shall be received into the college under the age of seven years.

["Rules for the Economy of the College and Students," changed, [1800. 1796, to "General Rules prepared for the Methodist Seminaries of Learning."]]

1. The students shall rise at five o'clock in the morning, summer and winter, at the ringing of the college bell.

2. All the students, whether they lodge in or out of the college, shall assemble together in the college at six o'clock for public prayer, except in cases of sickness, and on any omission shall be responsible to the president.

3. From morning prayer to seven they shall be allowed to recreate themselves, as is hereafter directed.

4. At seven they shall breakfast.

5. From eight to twelve they are to be closely kept to their respective studies.

6. From twelve to three they are to employ themselves in recreation and dining—dinner to be ready at one o'clock.

7. From three to six they are again to be kept closely to their studies.

8. At six they shall sup.

9. At seven there shall be public prayer.

10. From evening prayer till bed-time they shall be allowed recreation.

11. They shall all be in bed at nine o'clock without fail.
12. Their recreations shall be gardening, walking, riding, and bathing, without doors; and the carpenter's, joiner's, cabinet-maker's, or turner's business within doors.
13. A large plot of land, of at least three acres, shall be appropriated for a garden, and a person skilled in gardening be appointed to overlook the students when employed in that recreation.
14. A convenient bath shall be made for bathing.
15. A master, or some proper person by him appointed, shall be always present at the time of bathing. Only one shall bathe at a time, and no one shall remain in the water above a minute.
16. No student shall be allowed to bathe in the river.
17. A *Taberna Lignaria shall be provided on the premises, with all proper instruments and materials, and a skillful person be employed to overlook the students at this recreation.
18. The students shall be indulged with nothing which the world calls play. Let this rule be observed with the strictest nicety, for those who play when they are young will play when they are old.
19. Each student shall have a bed to himself, whether he boards in or out of the college.
20. The students shall lie on mattresses, not on feather beds, because we believe the mattresses to be more healthy.
21. The president and tutors shall strictly examine, from time to time, whether our friends who board the students comply with these rules as far as concern them.
22. A skillful physician shall be engaged to attend the students on every emergency, that the parents may be fully assured that proper care shall be taken of the health of their children, without any expense to them.
23. The Bishops shall examine by themselves or their delegates into the progress of all the students in learning every half year, or oftener, if possible.
24. The Elders, Deacons, and Preachers, as often as they visit Abingdon, shall examine the students concerning their knowledge of God and religion.
25. The students shall be divided into proper classes for that purpose.
26. A pupil who has a total incapacity to attain learning shall, after sufficient trial, be returned to his parents.
27. If a student be convicted of any open sin he shall, for the first offense, be reprov'd in private; for the second offense he shall be reprov'd in public; and for the third offense he shall be punished at the discretion of the president; if incorrigible, he shall be expelled.
28. But if the sin be exceedingly gross, and a Bishop see it necessary, he may be expelled for the first, second, or third offense.
29. Idleness, or any other fault, may be punished with confinement, according to the discretion of the president.
30. A convenient room shall be set apart as a place of confinement.
- [“31. The president shall be the judge of all crimes and punishments in the absence of the Bishops.
32. But the president shall have no power to expel a student without the advice and consent of three of the trustees; but a Bishop shall have that power,” changed 1792, to
- “31. The president shall be the judge of all crimes and punishments in the absence of the Bishops and the Presiding Elder, and, with the concurrence of two of the tutors, shall have power to dismiss a student, if he judge it highly necessary, for any criminal conduct, or for refusing to submit to the discipline of the college, or to such punishment as the president and tutors judge he deserves.

32. A committee of five respectable friends, entitled, The Committee of Safety, shall be appointed, who shall meet once in every fortnight. Three of these meeting at the appointed time shall be sufficient to enter upon business, and shall have full powers to inspect and regulate the whole economy of the college, and to examine the characters and conduct of all the servants and to fix their wages, and change them as they may think proper. The committee shall determine every thing by a majority."]

PART V.—CHAPTER II.

INSTRUCTION OF CHILDREN.

Sunday-Schools.

1787. [“On,” changed, 1792, to “Of”] the Instruction of Children,” changed, 1852, to “Of Sunday-Schools and the Religious Instruction of Children;” 1864, to “Sunday-Schools and the Religious Instruction of Children.”]

1784. Quest. 51. What shall we do for the [“rising gen- [1872. eration,” changed, 1856, to, “moral and religious instruction of (“the,” changed, 1864, to “our”) children?”] [Om., 1789, Who will labor for them?]*

Let him who is zealous for God and the souls of men begin [1840, now. 1. Where there are ten children whose parents [“are in society,” changed, 1820, to “are in our church;” 1824, to “will Duties of Preach- ers. allow it,”] meet them at least an hour [“every week” changed, 1787, to “once a week, but where this is impracticable, meet them once in two weeks.”] 2. Talk with them every time you see any at home: 3. [“Pray in earnest for them,” changed, 1792, to “Pray constantly for them, and”]: 4. Diligently instruct and [om., 1792, “vehemently”] exhort all parents at their own houses: 5. Preach expressly on education. “But I have no gift for this.” [Om., 1788, “Gift or no gift, you are to do it: else you are not called to be a Methodist Preacher: do it as you can, till you can do it as you would.”] Pray earnestly for the gift, and use [“the means for it,” changed, 1788, to “every other means to attain it.”]

1787. Procure our “Instructions” [in., 1800, or “catechism,” changed, 1808, to “catechisms”] for them, and let all who can, read and commit them to memory. Explain and impress them upon their hearts. [“Let the Elders, Deacons, and Preachers take a list of the names of the children: and if any of them be truly awakened, let them be admitted into (“society;” † changed, 1816, to “the Church.”)]

* “Quest. 11. What shall be done with the children?”

“Ans. Meet them once a fortnight, and examine the parents with regard to their conduct toward them.”—Minutes of 1779.

† A fuller provision on the same subject had been made in the Annual Minutes for 1787, as follows: “Quest. 20. what can we do for the rising generation? Ans. Let the Elders, Deacons, and Helpers class the children of our friends in proper classes, as far as is practicable; meet them as often as possible, and commit them, during their absence, into the care of proper persons, who may meet them at least weekly; and if any of them be truly awakened, let them be admitted into society.” The whole section was recast in 1840; and again in 1856,

1824.] Changed, 1824, to "As far as practicable, it shall be the duty of every Preacher of a Circuit or Station (in., 1828, to form Sunday-schools) to obtain the names of the children belonging to his congregation, to form them into classes, for the purpose of giving them religious instruction, to instruct them regularly himself, as much as his other duties will allow. (In., 1836, The course of instruction shall not only embrace the nature of experimental religion, but also the nature, design, privileges, and obligations of their baptism) to appoint a suitable leader for each class, who shall instruct them in his absence, (in., 1836, recommend to the Preacher such among them as he may think suitable to be received among us on trial), and ("to," changed, 1836, to "the Preacher shall") leave his successor a correct account of each class thus formed, with the name of its leader".]

1840.] Ans. 1. Let Sunday-schools be formed in all our [1856. congregations where ten children can be collected for that purpose. And it shall be the special duty of Preachers having charge of Circuits and Stations, with the aid of the other Sunday-schools. Preachers, to see that this be done; to engage the co-operation of as many of our members as they can; to visit the schools as often as practicable; to preach on the subject of Sunday-schools and religious instruction in each congregation at least once in six months; to lay before the Quarterly Conference at each quarterly meeting, to be entered on its journal, a written statement of the number and state of the Sunday-schools within their respective Circuits and Stations, and to make a report of the same to their several Annual Conferences. Each Quarterly Conference shall ["be deemed a Board of Managers, having," changed, 1848, to "have"] supervision of all the Sunday-schools and Sunday-school societies within its ["limits," changed, 1848, to "bounds,"] which schools and societies shall be auxiliary to the Sunday-School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and each Annual Conference shall report to said Union the number of auxiliaries within its bounds, together with other facts presented in the annual reports of the Preachers, as above directed.

2. It is recommended that each Annual Conference, where the [1864. general state of the work will allow, request the appointment of a special agent, to travel throughout its bounds, for the purpose Special Agent. of promoting the interests of Sunday-schools, and his expenses shall be paid out of collections which he shall be directed to make, or otherwise, as shall be ordered by the Conference.

3. Let our catechisms be used as extensively as possible, [1856. both in our Sunday-schools and families, and let the Catechism. Preachers faithfully enforce upon parents and Sunday-school teachers the great importance of instructing children in the doctrines and duties of our holy religion.

4. It shall be the special duty of the Preachers to form Bible-classes wherever they can for the instruction of larger children and youth, and where they cannot superintend them Bible-classes. personally, to appoint suitable leaders for that purpose.

5. It shall be the duty of every Preacher of a Circuit or Station to obtain the names of the children belonging to his congregation, and leave a list of such names for his successor; and in his Names. pastoral visits he shall pay special attention to the children, speak to them personally and kindly on experimental and practical godliness, according to their capacity, pray earnestly for them, and diligently instruct and exhort all parents to dedicate their children to the Lord in baptism as early as convenient, and let all baptized children be faithfully instructed in the nature, design, privileges, and obligations of their baptism. Those of them who are well disposed may be admitted to our class-meetings and love-feasts, and such as are truly serious, and manifest a desire to flee the wrath to come, shall be advised to join Society as probationers.

1844.] And it is recommended that in all cases where it [1848. can be done our Sunday-schools contribute to the amount of at least one cent. per quarter for each teacher and scholar. One half of the amount so collected in each school shall be appropriated for the purchase of tracts, to be distributed under the direction of the Preachers and Superintendents, and the other half shall be forwarded to the treasurer of the Sunday-School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the purpose specified in the Constitution of said Union.

1852.] Let the Preachers also publicly catechise the children in the Sunday-school, and at special meetings, appointed for that purpose. It shall also be the duty of each Preacher, in connection with reporting the Sabbath-school statistics at each Quarterly Conference, to state to what extent he has publicly or privately catechised the children of his charge.

1872. ¶ 345. For the moral and religious instruction of our children, and for the promotion of Bible knowledge among all our people:

1876.] § 1. Every Sunday-school of the Methodist Episcopal Church shall be under the supervision of a Sunday-School Board, and shall be auxiliary to the Sunday-School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

§ 2. The Sunday-School Board shall consist of the Preacher in charge, [in., 1880, who shall be ex-officio chairman] the Sunday-School Committee appointed by the Quarterly Conference, the Superintendent, the Assistant Superintendent, the ["Secretary," 1884, "Secretaries"] the Treasurer, the Librarians, and the Teachers of the school.

§ 3. The Superintendent shall be nominated and elected by the Sunday-School Board, and ["approved," 1884, "confirmed,"] by the Quarterly Conference at its next session after such [election," 1884, to "nomination"] [in., 1884, and in case of a vacancy the Preacher in Charge shall superintend or secure the superintending of the school until such times as the Superintendent nominated by the Sunday-School Board shall be confirmed by the Quarterly Conference.]

§ 4. The other officers of the school shall be elected by the Sunday-School Board.

§ 5. The teachers of the school shall be nominated by the Superintendent, with the concurrence of the Pastor, and elected by the Board.

§ 6. In case of the withdrawal of officers or teachers from the schools they cease to be members of the Board; and the place of any officer or teacher habitually neglecting his or her duty, or being guilty of improper conduct, may be declared vacant by a vote of two thirds of the Board present at any regular or special meeting.

1864.] ¶ 346. I. It shall be the duty of each Presiding

Elder to bring the subject of Sunday-schools before the ["first," 1865, to "last"] Quarterly Conference of each year; and said Quarterly Conference shall proceed to appoint a committee of not less than three nor more than nine (in., 1865, "who shall be members of our Church"), to be called the Committee on Sunday-Schools, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be the Chairman," changed, 1880, to "appoint a Committee of Members of our Church of not less than three nor more than nine for each Sunday-school in the Charge, to be called the Committee on Sunday-Schools, who shall be members of the Sunday-School Board, and"] whose duty it shall be to aid the Preacher in Charge and the officers of the Sunday-schools in procuring suitable teachers, in promoting, in all proper ways, the attendance of children [in., 1872, and adults] on our Sunday-schools, and on our regular public worship, and in raising money to meet the expenses of the Sunday-schools of the charge [in., 1884, of the Committee the Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman].

Duties of Presiding Elders.

Sunday-School Books.

1856.] ¶ 348. II. It shall be the special duty of the Preachers having charge of Circuits or Stations, with the aid of the other Preachers [in., 1864, and the Committee on Sunday-Schools], to form Sunday-schools in all our congregations where ten children can be collected for that purpose [in., 1868, which schools shall be auxiliary to the Sunday-School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church], and to engage the co operation of as many of our members as they can, and to visit the schools as often as practicable; to preach on the subject of Sunday-schools and religious instruction in each congregation at least once in six months, and to form [om., 1872, Bible] classes wherever they can for the instruction of ["larger children and youth," changed, 1860, to (om., 1864, "larger children,) youth and adults (in., 1872, in the word of God)"], and where they cannot superintend them personally, to see that suitable teachers are provided for that purpose.

Duty of Preachers in Charge.

¶ 349. III. It shall be the duty of our Preachers to enforce faithfully upon parents and Sunday-school teachers the great importance of instructing children in the doctrine and duties of our holy religion, to see that our catechisms be chosen as extensively as possible in our Sunday-schools and families, to preach to the children, and publicly catechise them in the Sunday-schools and families, and at ["special," changed, 1864, to "public"] meetings appointed for that purpose.

Parents.

¶ 350. IV. It shall be the duty of every Preacher, in his pastoral visits, to pay special attention to the children, [“speaking,”

 Pastoral Visits. changed, 1864, to “to speak”] to them personally and kindly on the subject of experimental and practical godliness according to their capacity, pray earnestly for them, and diligently instruct and exhort all parents to dedicate their children to the Lord in baptism as early as convenient.

¶ 351. Each Preacher in Charge shall lay before the Quarterly Conference, to be entered on its journal, the number, state, and [in., 1864, average attendance] of the Sunday-schools [om., 1872, and Bible classes] in his charge, and the extent to which he has preached to the children and catechised them, and make the required report on Sunday-schools to his Annual Conference.

PART V.—CHAPTER III.

MISSIONS AND MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

Mission Work.

1832.] “Section 3.—The Support of Missions,” changed, 1876, to Missions and Missionary Societies.]*

1876.] ¶ 352. For the better prosecution of the missionary work in the United States and foreign countries there shall be a Missionary Society, duly incorporated according to law, and having its office in New York, said Society being subject to such rules and regulations as the General Conference may from time to time prescribe.

1828.] [“It is recommended that within the bounds of [1852. each Annual Conference there be established a Conference Missionary Society, auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with branches under such regulations as the Conferences respectively shall prescribe. Each Conference Missionary Society shall annually transmit to the Corresponding Secretary of the Parent Society a copy of its annual report, embracing the operations of its branches, and shall also notify the treasurer of the amount collected in aid of the missionary cause, which amount shall be subject to the order of the treasurer of the Parent Society,” changed, 1852, to ¶ 353. “It shall be the duty of each Annual Conference to form within its bounds a Conference Missionary Society, which shall appoint its own officers, fix the terms of membership, and otherwise regulate its own administration. But it shall pay all its funds into the treasury of the Parent Society”].

* The earliest provisions on the subject are found in 1824, in the chapter on “Annual Supplies.” The section was framed in 1832, and recast by Dr. Durbin in 1852.

The treasurer of the Parent Society, under the direction of the Board of Managers, shall give information to the Bishops annually, or oftener, if the Board judge it expedient, of the state of the funds and the sums which may be drawn by them for the missionary purposes contemplated by the Constitution. Agreeably to which information the Bishops shall have authority to draw upon the treasurer for any sum within the amount designated, which the missionary committee of the Annual Conferences respectively shall judge necessary for the support of the missionaries and of the mission schools under their care; Provided, always that the sum so allowed for the support of a missionary shall not exceed the usual allowance of other itinerant Preachers. The Bishops shall always promptly notify the treasurer of all drafts made by them, and shall require regular quarterly communications to be made by each of the missionaries to the Corresponding Secretary of the Parent Society, giving information of the state and prospects of the several missions in which they are employed. No one shall be acknowledged a missionary, or receive support out of the funds of the Society, who has not some definite field assigned to him, or who could not be an effective laborer on a Circuit.

Treasurer.

In all cases of the appointment of a missionary the name of such missionary and the District in which he is to labor, together with the probable expenses of the mission, shall be communicated by the Bishops or the mission committee of each Annual Conference to the treasurer of the Parent Society, that a proper record of the same may be preserved.

Duty of Bishops.

In all places where drafts are drawn in favor of any mission, if there be funds in the possession of any auxiliary Conference Missionary Society where such mission is established, the drafts for the support of the mission shall be paid from said funds.

Payments.

If there be no auxiliary Society, and there be money belonging to the Book Concern, the Book Committee or Presiding Elders or Preachers shall pay the missionary drafts from the book money which may be in their possession, which drafts, when paid, shall be transmitted to the treasurer at New York; and in no case, where any such moneys are at command, shall the drafts be sent to the treasurer at New York to be paid.

1832.] Whenever a [in., 1836, foreign] mission is to be established [om., 1836, in any new place, or in any place beyond the bounds of an Annual Conference], either among the aborigines of our country or elsewhere, it shall be the duty of the Bishop making such appointment immediately to notify the treasurer of the Missionary Society of the place, the number of missionaries to be employed, together with the probable amount necessary for the support of any such mission, which information shall be laid before the managers of the Society, and they shall make an appropriation according to their judgment from year to year of the amount called for to sustain and prosecute the mission or missions designated, for which amount the missionary or the superintendent of the mission or missions shall have authority to draw on the treasurer of the Society in quarterly or half-yearly installments.

Bishop to Notify Treasurer.

1848.] ¶ 354. Any Annual Conference may, at its option, by a vote of two thirds of its members, assume the responsibility of supporting such Missions, already established [om., 1852, or to be established] within its own limits, as have hitherto been reported under the head of "Missions in the Destitute Portions of the Regular Work;" [in., 1884, and such other Missions as may be established therein;] and for this purpose it shall be at liberty to organize a Conference Domestic Society, with branches; provided, such organization shall not interfere with the collections for the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as required by the Discipline. Provided, also, that in case more funds shall be raised for such Missions than are needed, the surplus shall be paid over to the Treasurer of the Parent Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at New York, to be appropriated to such Mission or Missions, under the care of the Society, as may be designated by said Conference.

It shall be the duty of every such Conference Domestic Society to send annually to the Corresponding Secretary at New York a full and detailed account of the number, name, condition and prospects of each mission under its care, and to the treasurer of the Parent Society at New York an account of its receipts, incidental expenses, and disbursements. [1860.

17. *It shall be the duty of all our missionaries, except those who are appointed to labor for the benefit of the slaves, to form their Circuits into auxiliary missionary societies, and to make regular quarterly and class collections wherever practicable, and report the amount collected every three months either by indorsing it on their drafts, or by transmitting the money to the treasurer of the Parent Society.

Auxiliary Societies.

1852.] ¶ 355. ["It is earnestly recommended," changed, 1868, to It shall be the duty of the Preacher in Charge to see] that each Sunday-school in our Churches and congregations be organized into a Missionary Society under such rules and regulations as the Pastor, the Superintendent, and teachers may prescribe. [In., 1868, And the Missionary contributions of the Sunday-schools shall be reported in a separate column in the Annual and General Minutes.]

1876.] ¶ 356. When a Mission is established in a foreign country, [in., 1884, or in the United States and Territories outside of Annual Conferences] the Bishop having episcopal supervision of the same shall appoint a member of the Mission as Superintendent, ["said Superintendent holding the relation in all ecclesiastical matters of a Presiding Elder in a District," changed, 1884, to "who may also be the Presiding Elder of a District."] It shall be the duty of the Superintendent [in., 1884, in the absence of a Bishop, to preside at the Annual Meeting of the Mission, to arrange the work, and take general Supervision of the entire Mission, and] to represent the state of the Mission and its needs to the Bishop in charge and to the Corresponding Secretaries.

¶ 357. It shall be the duty of the Superintendent annually to call together all the members of the Mission [in., 1884, and also the native Preachers employed as Supplies or Helpers in the Mission,] for the purpose of holding an annual meeting, said meeting possessing in all ecclesiastical matters the ["pre-rogatives," 1884, to "functions"] and privileges of a District Conference, and also transacting such other business as may be assigned by the Board, or grow out of the local interests of the work.

1884.] ¶ 358. In Missions in the United States and Territories, the power to license and to try Local Preachers, and to renew the Licenses of Local Preachers and Exhorters, shall remain with the respective Quarterly Conferences; and Local Preachers tried and convicted shall have their Appeal to the Annual Meeting of the Mission.

¶ 359. The Clerical Members of the General Missionary Committee shall constitute a Judicial Conference to hear Appeals of Local Preachers convicted at an Annual Meeting of a foreign Mission, said Judicial Conference to be presided over by a Bishop.

1876.] ¶ 360. When a Mission in a foreign country shall be organized into an Annual Conference, the administration of the Missionary Society is not thereby disturbed, but shall be continued, as in the case of other foreign missions.

1884.] ¶ 361. Wherever Methodist Churches are organized in territory outside of an Annual Conference, or of any regular Mission of our Church, such work may be attached to such home Conferences as the said Churches may elect, with the concurrence of the Bishop having charge of said Conference, and may be constituted a Presiding Elder's District.

1824.] ¶ 362. It shall be the duty of each Annual Conference where ["missionaries are to be employed," changed, 1832, to "missions have been or are to be established"] to appoint a [in., 1832, Standing] Committee [in., 1832, ^{Duty of Annual Conferences.} (om., 1852, to be denominated the Mission Committee) which shall keep a record of its doings and report the same to its Conference], whose duty it shall be, in conjunction with the President of the Conference, to ["determine," changed, to "make an estimate of"] the amount [om., 1832, which may be] necessary for the support of each ["missionary, agreeably to the regulations of the Discipline," changed, 1832, to "Mission and Mission School, (om., 1876, in addition to the regular allowance of the Discipline to Preachers and their families." ["from year to year," changed, with the above omission, 1876, to "in full or supplementary to the amount raised by the Society or congregation thus aiding;". for which amount the President of the Conference for the time [in., 1832, being] shall [om., 1832, have authority to] draw on the Treasurer of the Society in quarterly installments [om., 1832, in behalf of the missions.]

1852.] ¶ 363. The support of missions is committed to the Churches, congregations, and societies as such.

¶ 364. It shall be the duty of ["the Presiding Elders," changed, 1852, to “each Presiding Elder”] to bring the subject of our missions before the Quarterly [om., 1852, Meeting] Conference of each Circuit and Station within [“their Districts,” changed, 1852, to “his District”] [“as early in the Conference year as may be practicable,” changed, 1852, to “at the (“first,” 1860, to “last”) Quarterly Conference of each year”] and [“the Quarterly Meeting Conference,” changed, 1852, to “said Conference”] shall proceed to appoint a Committee of not less than [“five,” changed, 1852, to “three”] nor more than nine [in., 1852, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman] [om., 1852, all of whom shall be members of the Methodist Episcopal Church] to be called the Committee on Missions, whose duty it shall be to aid the [om., 1852, Presiding Elder and] Preacher in Charge [“in raising Missionary Societies, taking up collections, and in any other way which the Quarterly Meeting Conference may judge necessary for the purpose of raising missionary funds; such as having sermons preached, or lectures delivered, on the subject of missions, and the establishing of missionary prayer-meetings for the promotion of the cause,” changed, 1852, to “in carrying into effect the Disciplinary measures for the support of missions”].

13. It will be expected in the examination in the Annual [1860. Conference reference will be had to the faithful performance of the duty of Preachers on this subject in the passage of character.

1852.] 14. Each Presiding Elder is charged with seeing that the foregoing provisions, as far as applicable to his District, are faithfully executed within his District.

1860.] ¶ 365. It shall be the duty of each Presiding Elder to see that the provisions of this section are faithfully executed in his District; and in order thereto, he shall inquire at each session of the Quarterly Conference what has been done by the Mission Committee toward raising funds for the support of Missions during the preceding quarter, and particularly whether the Sunday-schools have been organized into Missionary Societies.

1852.] ¶ 366. It shall be the duty of the Preacher in Charge, aided by the Committee on Missions, to provide for the diffusion of Missionary intelligence to the Church and congregation.

¶ 367. It shall be the duty of the Preacher in Charge, aided by the Committee on Missions, to institute a monthly Missionary prayer-meeting, or lecture, in each Society, or Church and congregation, wherever practicable, for the purpose of imploring the Divine blessing on Missions, for the diffusion of Missionary intelligence, and to afford an opportunity for voluntary offerings to the Missionary cause.

¶ 368. It shall be duty of the Preacher in Charge, aided by the Committee on Missions, to appoint Missionary collectors, and furnish them with suitable books and instructions, that they may call on each member of the Society, or Church and congregation, and on other persons, at their discretion, for his or her annual, semi-annual, quarterly, monthly, or weekly contribution for the support of Missions. Said collectors shall make monthly returns (unless otherwise instructed by the Committee) to the Preacher in charge, or to the Missionary Treasurer of the Church, if there be such treasurer appointed by the Committee on Missions. Such returns shall be fairly entered in a book, which the Committee shall provide, together with collections and contributions received from other sources. Such entries shall set forth the name of each collector, the real or assumed names of the contributors to each collector, with the amount contributed by each.

¶ 369. Each Preacher in Charge shall report at Conference to the Executive Committee, or Board of Managers of the Conference Mission Society, a plain transcript of the record of the returns provided for in [“Section 7,” changed, 1864, to “item nine;” and, 1872, to “¶ 357;” 1876, ¶ 268] comprehending the name of each collector in his Charge, and the name, real or assumed, of each contributor to each collector [om., 1864, of fifty cents or upward during the year; and the aggregate sum of all contributions under fifty cents each], that they may be [om., 1876, by said Executive Committee, or Board of Managers, properly] arranged by districts and by charges for publication in the Annual Report of the Conference Missionary Society, together with the contributions and collections received from other sources, unless the Conference shall by vote declare such transcript returns and such [“publication not to be advisable,” changed 1876. to publications unadvisable.”]

Report to Conference.

1844.] It shall be the duty of the Preachers in Charge of [1852.] Circuits and Stations to organize one or more missionary Societies in their respective Charges if it should be practicable, to bear any name which the Societies may choose; provided always that these Societies shall be auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Annual Conference to which such Charges may belong, and shall be governed by such rules and regulations as the Annual Conference may prescribe. It shall also be their duty to take up or cause to be taken up a missionary collection in each and every congregation within their respective Charges at such time as may be fixed on by the Annual Conference. It shall be their duty further to appoint in every class within their Charges a missionary collector, who shall keep a book, in which shall be enrolled the names of all the members of the class, and shall collect from each member who shall feel disposed to contribute, at the rate of one cent per week, or fifty cents per year, and shall pay over the sums so collected to the Preacher in Charge at or before the last Quarterly Meeting in the Conference year, and the Preacher in Charge shall transmit the same to the Annual Conference, together with such sums as may have been collected by him from the congregations, as well as all sums received from branch societies or otherwise, all of which shall be reported in writing.

Missionary Societies.

It shall be the duty of the Quarterly Meeting Conference, from time to time, to fill up vacancies which may occur in the Missionary Committee, which Committee shall have the right to a seat in the Quarterly Meeting Conference during its action on the subject of missions. but at no other time.

Duties of Quarterly Conferences.

In order to keep up such missionary societies as may be established it shall be the duty of the Missionary Committee to use their best efforts to hold at least once a year a meeting of the missionary society within the Charge to which they may belong; in doing which they shall have the aid of the Preacher in Charge, and also of the Quarterly Meeting Conference, if need be.

Duty of Mission Committee.

It will be expected that in the examination in the Annual [1860. Conference a reference will be had to the faithful performance of the duty of Preachers on this subject in the passage of character.

For the purpose of more effectually administering the financial concerns of the Indian Mission Conference, as also promoting its spiritual welfare, there shall be a Superintendent appointed by the Bishop, who shall be a member of said Conference, and reside within its bounds, to be continued in office for any time not exceeding four years. It shall be his duty to overlook all the accounts of the missionaries and the superintendents of schools, to attend to all the interests of our missions and schools within the bounds of said Conference, as those interests may be connected with the government of the United States, and with the Indian school fund.

Indian Missions.

He may visit Washington city once a year, or oftener, if it be deemed necessary, and also, as far as his time and circumstances will permit, and it may be judged necessary for the interests of the mission, visit the interior of the Indian country with a view to the extension of the work within his bounds. His salary shall not exceed the ordinary allowance of other itinerant Preachers, and his table and other expenses shall be estimated by the Mission Committee of the Conference, for which amount he shall have authority to draw on the treasurer of the Missionary Society in quarterly installments.

[1852.] ¶ 370. It shall be the duty of the Preacher in Charge, with the aid of the Committee on Missions, to present once in the year to the Societies, or the Churches and congregations, the cause of Missions, and to ask public collections and contributions for the support of the same. The manner of asking and taking such collections and contributions shall be at the discretion of the Pastor and the Committee on Missions, with this injunction, that the pastor shall preach, or cause to be preached, on the occasion, one or more sermons; and with the recommendation that one whole Sabbath-day be given to the cause, on this annual presentation of Missions, in our principal Churches and congregations.

Duties of Preachers in Charge.

¶ 371. The President of the Conference, at each session, shall appoint one of its members, with an alternate, to preach a missionary sermon during its next succeeding session, at such time and place as the Officers of the Conference Missionary Society shall designate; and said officers shall cause timely notice of such sermon to be published abroad.

port of Missions have been carried out on his District; and when the character of a Preacher in Charge is examined, inquire of him what amount has been raised on his charge for Missions.

1836.] ["The (om., 1840, resident) Corresponding Secretary [1844. shall, by virtue of his office, be a member of the New York Conference, to which, in the interval of the General Conference, he shall be held responsible for his conduct; and the New York Conference shall have power, by and with the advice of the Managers of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and consent of the Bishop presiding, to remove him from office; and in case of removal, death, or resignation, the New York Conference, with the concurrence of the presiding Bishop, shall fill the vacancy until the next ensuing General Conference," changed, 1844, to Secretary.

¶ 373. ("The," changed, 1872, to "Each ") Corresponding Secretary (in., 1852, of the Methodist Episcopal Church) shall be a member of such Annual Conference as he may, with the approbation of the Bishops, select."

1876.] ¶ 374. The Board of Managers of the Missionary Society shall have power to suspend a Corresponding Secretary, or Treasurer, or Manager, for cause to them sufficient, and a time shall be fixed by the Board, at as early a day as practicable, for the investigation of the official conduct of said Secretary, Treasurer, or Manager, due notice of which shall be given by them to the Bishops, who shall select one of their number to be present and preside at the investigation, which shall be before the ["twelve," 1884, to "fourteen"] members of the General Missionary Committee, elected from the Districts by the General Conference, two thirds of whom may remove said Secretary, Treasurer, or Manager from office in the interval of the General Conference.

¶ 375. In case a vacancy exists in the office of Corresponding Secretary, Treasurer, or Assistant Treasurer, by death, resignation, or otherwise, the Bishops shall have power to fill the vacancy; and until they do so the Board of Managers shall have power to provide for the duties of the office. It shall be the duty of the General Missionary Committee to revise annually the lists of Managers, and in any case of inattention to the duties of the office, they may declare the said Manager's seat vacant.

It shall be the duty of the Bishops to instruct all our foreign [1852. missionaries that whenever they come in contact with any of the missionaries belonging to the Wesleyan Methodist Conference they shall not interfere in their respective Charges any further than to help them in their work when requested, but shall on all occasions cultivate a spirit of friendship and brotherly affection, as brethren engaged in the same common cause, namely, the salvation of the world by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. 382. “Each Annual Conference shall designate the month or months in which the public collections and contributions for missions shall be taken within its bounds,” om., 1876.]

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

1884.] ¶ 376. For the more successful prosecution of the Missionary work of the Church among women in foreign lands, there shall be an organization known as the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to be governed and regulated by their Constitution, which may be altered or amended by the General Conference as the necessities of the work may require.

§ 1. This Society shall work in harmony with, and under the supervision of, the authorities of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The appointment, recall, and remuneration of Missionaries, and the designation of their fields of labor, shall be subject to the approval of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and annual appropriations to Mission fields shall be submitted for revision and approval to the General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

§ 2. All Missionaries sent out by this Society shall labor under the direction of the particular Conferences or Missions of the Church in which they may be severally employed. They shall be annually appointed by the President of the Conference or Mission, and shall be subject to the same rules of removal that govern the other missionaries.

§ 3. All the work of the Woman's Society in foreign lands shall be under the direction of the Conferences or Missions, and their Committees, in exactly the same manner as the work of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Superintendent or Presiding Elder having the same relation to the work and the person in charge that he would have were it in the charge of any other member of the Conference or Mission.

§ 4. The funds of the Society shall not be raised by collections or subscriptions taken during any of our Church services, nor in any promiscuous public meeting, nor in any Sunday-School, but shall be raised by such methods as the Constitution of the Society shall provide, none of which shall interfere with the contributions of our people and Sunday-Schools for the treasury of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and the amount so collected shall be reported by the Preacher in Charge to the Annual Conference, and be entered in a column among the Benevolent Collections in the Annual and General Minutes.

§ 5. The provisions of § 4 of this paragraph (¶ 376) shall not be so interpreted as to prevent the Women from taking collections in Women's Meetings convened in the interests of their Societies; nor from securing memberships and life-memberships in audiences where their work is represented; nor from holding festivals or arranging lectures in the interests of their work.

Woman's Home Missionary Society.

¶ 377. There shall be an organization known as the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which Society shall have authority to collect and disburse money, employ Missionaries, and do work among the neglected populations in the Home field under the same Disciplinary Rules and Regulations as those which apply to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, except the requirements contained in §§ 2 and 3 of ¶ 376.

Central Mission Conferences.

¶ 378. When in any of our Foreign Mission fields there is more than one Annual Conference or Mission, or more than one form of Methodism, it shall be lawful, either by order of the General Conference or by a majority vote of all the Conferences or Missions wishing to unite, with the written call of the Bishop having Episcopal Supervision of the field, to organize a Central Conference, to be composed either of all the members of those Annual Conferences or Missions, or of representatives from the same, elected according to such ratio as may be agreed upon between the constituent parties, who may also provide for the admission of Laymen to such Conference, the number of Lay Delegates not to exceed that of the Clerical Delegates.

§ 1. The first meeting of the Central Conference shall be called by the Bishop in charge, at such time and place as he may select, to which all the Members of the Conferences and Missions concerned shall be invited, and at which a ratio of representation shall be fixed by the Conference. The time and place of future meetings shall be determined by the Conference, provided it shall meet at least once in two years.

§ 2. A Bishop, if present, shall preside over the Conference; but in his absence the Conference shall elect a President from among its own Members.

§ 3. This Conference may take under its supervision the Educational, Publishing, and such other Connectional interests and work as may be committed to it by the Annual Conferences or Missions; but never in contravention of the Book of Discipline, or Rules of the General Conference; and it shall have no authority to involve the Missionary Society in any financial responsibility, nor to hold or control the property of the Society without the official permission of said Society.

§ 4. The right shall be reserved to vote by Conferences or Missions whenever one third of either Conference or Mission shall so demand. In such cases the concurrent vote of all the Conferences and Missions shall be necessary to complete an action.

§ 5. When a Central Conference has been duly organized, the Annual Conferences or Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church shall not have authority to discontinue the organization except by order of the General Conference.

§ 6. The Journal of the proceedings of this Central Conference, duly signed by the President and Secretary, shall be sent to the General Conference for its consideration.

PART V.—CHAPTER IV.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

Parent Board.

1868.] Quest. What can be done for the relief of feeble [1872. Churches embarrassed with debt, and to secure suitable sites for and houses of public worship, and otherwise promote the cause of Church Extension among us?

Ans. 1. Let our Church Extension Society be liberally supported, and let its rules and methods be carefully observed.

1872.] ¶ 379. There shall be a Board of Church Extension, consisting of thirty-two Ministers and thirty-two Laymen, to be chosen by the General Conference, and to be duly incorporated according to law, with such powers and prerogatives as may be needful to the objects of its appointment; said Board to be subject to the control of the General Conference. [In., 1876, The Bishops shall be ex-officio members of the Board.]

¶ 380. The term of service of the members of the Board shall begin on the ["first day of January," 1884, to "second Wednesday in June"] following their appointment, and continue during the ensuing four years, and until their successors shall be duly chosen and have entered upon their ^{Term of Service.} duties, unless otherwise ordered by the General Conference. If a vacancy should occur by death, resignation, or otherwise, during the interval ["of the General Conference," 1884, to "between the sessions of the General Conference," 1888, to "between the sessions of the General Committee"], the Board shall have power to fill the vacancy.

¶ 381. The Officers of the Board shall be a President, five Vice-Presidents, a Corresponding Secretary, with such Assistants as the General Committee of Church Extension may authorize and appoint, a Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and Assistant Treasurer, all of whom, except the Corresponding Secretary and Assistants, shall be elected by the Board at the first regular meeting in ["January, 1884, to "November"] of each year. ^{Officers.}

1868.] ¶ 382. The Corresponding Secretary [om., 1872, of the Church Extension Society] shall be [in., 1872, appointed by the General Conference, and shall be] a member ^{Cor. Secretary.} of such Conference as he, with the approval of the Bishops, may select. He shall conduct the correspondence of the Board, 1872.] under its direction, and shall be subject to the authority and control of the Board, by whom his salary shall be fixed and paid. He shall be exclusively employed in conducting the affairs of the Board, and, under its direction, in promoting its general interest, by traveling or otherwise. Should a vacancy occur by death, resignation, or otherwise, the Board shall have power to provide for the duties of the office until the Bishops, or a majority of them, shall fill the vacancy.

¶ 383. An Assistant Corresponding Secretary, or more than one, may be appointed at any time by the General Committee, on the nomination of the Bishops, ["who," changed, 1888, to "which Secretary or Secretaries"] shall receive ^{Assistant Cor. Secretary.} such salary, and render such service, as the Board may determine.

¶ 384. The Board shall hold its meetings in the city of Philadelphia. It shall have authority to make by-laws for the regulation of its own proceedings [in., 1888, not in conflict with the Charter, the Discipline, or the directions of the General Committee]; to provide for and administer a Loan Fund; [in., 1888, to establish and administer an Annuity Fund, either in connection with, or separate from, the Loan Fund, as it may deem wise]; to take and hold in trust for the Methodist Episcopal Church any real or personal ^{Authority.}

property, and to dispose of the same for the use and benefit of the Church; and generally to do, all and singular, the matters and things which shall be necessary and lawful in the execution of its trusts: provided, however, that all amounts received on the Loan Fund shall be used only by loans on adequate security; and provided, further, that the aggregate amount of interest and annuities payable never shall be allowed to exceed the aggregate amount of interest receivable; [in., 1888, and, provided, also, that an equitable proportion of the expenses of administration of the business of the Board shall be charged to and defrayed out of the interest received on the loans made by the Board from the Loan Fund and the Annuity Fund respectively.]

¶ 385. ["It," changed, 1884, to "The Board"] shall also have authority to provide and recommend a uniform plan for the organization of Local Boards of Church Extension in large cities, under such local administration as may be deemed advisable; but in no case shall such local organization interfere with the general work of the Board.

¶ 386. ["It," changed, 1884, to "The Board"] shall also have authority, by constituting and procuring a special corporation, or otherwise, to take such measures as it may deem wise and necessary to procure the insurance of churches and other Church property against loss by fire; and the profits arising therefrom, if any, after the accumulation of a sufficient Reserve Fund, shall be devoted to the purposes of the Board.

¶ 387. ["It," changed, 1884, to "The Board"] shall also have authority, with the concurrence of the General Committee, to make such provisions as it may deem wise for Honorary Membership in the Parent and Conference Boards of Church Extension, and in the General Committee.

¶ 388. At all meetings of the Board thirteen Quorum. members shall constitute a quorum.

The minutes of each meeting shall be signed by the Secretary thereof.

Report. [The Board shall publish annually a full report of its proceedings, and of the state of its funds, and shall submit to the General Conference an abstract of the same for the preceding four years; changed, 1880, to

¶ 389. "The Board shall publish quarterly, or oftener, full information concerning its work; and shall submit to the General Conference a report of its proceedings for the preceding four years, and of the state of the funds."] and Treasurer, and not less than ["three (in, 1872, nor more than seven)," changed, 1880, to "not less than two nor more than six"] additional members, so located that a quorum thereof may be convened at any time. [In., 1880, the Presiding Elders shall be ex-officio members of the Conference Board, and shall also be a standing Committee on apportioning amounts asked of the Conference]. The Secretary of the Conference shall [om., 1872, immediately thereafter] notify the Corresponding Secretary of the Parent ["Society of such appointment, and of the names;" changed, 1872, to "Board of the name"] and post-office address of each member ["thereof," changed, 1880, to "of the Conference Board soon after the adjournment of the Conference"].

¶ 391. The Conference Board shall ["have authority to adopt by-laws not inconsistent with the Constitution of the Parent Society;" changed, 1872, to "be auxiliary to the Parent Board,"] Authority. and shall, under its direction, have charge of all the interests and work of Church Extension within [om., 1872, the bounds of] the Conference. ["It shall, in connection with the Conference, take all necessary measures to procure liberal Annual Collections from each Congregation in the Conference, and special donations and bequests to the Loan Fund of the Society;" changed, 1872, to "It shall see that the amount asked of the Conference by the General Committee is divided for collection among the several Districts and Pastoral Charges, with due regard to their circumstances and ability, and that each is notified early in the year; and shall, in connection with the Conference, take all necessary measures to secure at least the amount so asked, and especial donations and bequests to the Loan Fund." 1880, to "the Presiding Elder shall, as a Committee on Apportionments, distribute for collection the amount asked of the Conference among the several Districts and Pastoral Charges, with due regard to their circumstances and ability, and notify each Pastor and Quarterly Conference early in the year of the amount of their Apportionment, and report the result to the Annual Conference"].

It shall carefully examine all applications for aid from within [1880. the bounds of the Conference, and recommend only such as are found to be truly needy and meritorious. It shall keep and preserve in suitable books, to be furnished by the Parent Board, a faithful Duties. record of all its proceedings, and an account of amounts asked and received each year from every Pastoral Charge. ["It shall make full report of its proceedings for the preceding year to each session of the Annual Conference, and at the same time to the Parent Board," changed, 1872, to "and shall make full report thereof to each session of the Annual Conference for publication in the Conference Minutes, and at the same time to the Parent Board."] ["And the Treasurer of said Board shall remit all funds in his hands to the Treasurer of the Parent Society at least once in every three months;" changed, 1872, to 1872.] "¶ 392. The Treasurer of the Conference Board shall, as early as practicable, at least once in every three months, remit all funds coming into his Treasurer. hands to the Treasurer of the Parent Board".

¶ 393. If for any reason such Conference Board Bishop may Act. cannot be constituted or act, the Bishop having charge, or a Committee by him appointed, may perform any of the duties required in this section.

[In., 1888, General Committee.]

¶ 394. There shall be a General Committee of Church Extension, composed as follows,—1. The General Superintendents, General Committee. one of whom, as they may from time to time determine, shall be Chairman. 2. The Corresponding Secretary and [Assistants, the Recording Secretary, who shall be ex-officio Secretary of the Committee, and the Treasurer of the Board, changed, 1884, to “Assistant Corresponding Secretaries, the Treasurer, and the Recording Secretary of the Board, which Secretary shall also be ex-officio Secretary of the General Committee. 3. The Annual Conferences being grouped by the General Conference into [“twelve,” 1884, “thirteen,” 1888, “fourteen”] Church Extension Districts, there shall be one Member from each District, to be elected by the General Conference on the nomination of the Delegates of each District respectively, and also fourteen Members appointed by the Board.

¶ 395. It shall be the duty of this Committee to meet annually in the city of Philadelphia, on such day in the month of November as shall be appointed by the Corresponding Secretary, to determine,—1. What amount each Conference shall be asked to raise by collections for the use of the Board during the ensuing year; 2. What amount may be donated and loaned within each Conference during the same period; and, 3. What amount may be applied to general and special purposes not included in the above.

¶ 396. The General Committee shall also have authority to counsel and direct the Board in the general administration of the trust committed to its care. [In., 1888, it shall also have authority to revise the list of members of the Board, and for inattention to the duties of the office, or for other cause, to declare the seat of any member vacant and to fill any existing vacancy on the Board.]

¶ 397. If a vacancy should occur by death, resignation, removal from the District, or otherwise, the Bishop having charge of the Conference within which it occurs shall fill the vacancy.

¶ 398. Expenses incurred by the Committee in the discharge of its duties may be paid by the treasurer of the Board.

[In., 1888, Applications for Aid.]

1868.] ¶ 399. All applications for aid [om., 1872. from the funds of the Society] shall be made in accordance with blank forms, to be furnished by the Parent Board, and shall [contain the information therein required, changed, 1872, to “set forth,—1. The number of Church members, Sunday-school children, and congregation to be accommodated, the population of the place, and prospects of growth. 2. The legal incorporation of the Church or Board of Trustees. 3. The location, size, present and prospective value of the site, the validity of the title thereto, and whether held in trust for the Methodist Episcopal Church. 4. A description of the building to which aid, if granted, will be applied; and, if required, a copy of the plans and specifications of the architect shall be submitted, and, if deemed necessary by the Parent or Conference Board, modified as may be suggested. 5. The estimated and probable cost when completed. 6. The available resources and amount of reliable subscriptions; and that those immediately interested have done or are doing all that could reasonably be expected. 7. What amount of debt, if any, may be allowed to remain against the property, and how soon the Trustees or others will agree to remove it. 8. Is the property insured? Will it be? In what company? To what amount? 9. Whether the Church, if aided, will become self-supporting, and how soon, and to what extent it may be expected to aid in the general work of the Church. 10. Any additional facts and circumstances that will assist the Board to a proper decision on the application].

1868.] ¶ 400. Every such application for aid shall be first submitted to the Conference Board of Church Extension, and said Board shall certify its action thereon to the Parent Board, and aid shall be granted only by the concurrent action of both the Conference and Parent Boards [in., 1872, and, except in cases of great emergency, within the amount authorized by the General Committee]: ["Provided, however, that in any case in which such Conference Board cannot be created, or act, the Bishop having charge, or a Committee by him appointed, may perform the duties herein imposed upon the Conference Board," changed, 1872, to "Provided, however, that for the procurement of property in mission territory the Parent Board may appropriate funds, specially authorized by the General Committee, without such application or recommendation by a Conference Board: but in all such cases the title to such property should vest in the Board of Church Extension"].

[In., 1888, Duties of Presiding Elders.]

¶ 401. It shall be the duty of each Presiding Elder to bring the subject of Church Extension before the Quarterly Conference of each Circuit and Station within his District at the last Quarterly Conference in each ^{Duty of Presiding Elder.} year; and said Quarterly Conference shall appoint a Committee of not less than three nor more than five, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman, to be called the Committee on Church Extension, whose duty shall be to aid the Preacher in Charge in carrying into effect ["the plans of the Parent and Conference Boards, and securing liberal contributions in aid of the Church Extension"] sion Society," changed, 1872, to "the provisions of the Discipline and plans of the Boards for the support of this cause, and in securing at least the amount asked of the Circuit or Station for its aid"]; and the Presiding Elder shall inquire, in the third Quarterly Conference of each year, what has been done for ["the cause of Church Extension," changed, 1872, to "this cause, and whether the amount asked has been received; and if not, he shall urgently request the Preacher in Charge and the Quarterly Conference to take such measures as will secure it before the close of the year"].

[In., 1888, Duties of Preacher in Charge.]

¶ 402. It shall be the duty of the Preacher in Charge, aided by the Committee on Church Extension, to provide for the diffusion of information concerning the work and wants of the ["Church Extension Society," changed, 1872, to "Board of Church Extension"]; he shall preach, or cause to be preached, a sermon on this subject in each congregation in every year, and solicit contributions from each ["in aid of the Church Extension Society," changed, 1872, to "endeavoring to secure at least the amount asked as above provided; and shall at each Conference report the amount asked and the amount received for Church Extension"]. He shall also invite ["private," changed, 1872, to "special"] contributions and bequests to the Loan Fund [om., 1872, of the Society].*

SOUTHERN WORK.

1872.] For the mental and moral elevation of Freedmen [1888. and others in the South, who have special claims upon the Christian people of America:—

Design. I. Let all our people contribute liberally each year for Contributions. the support of our Freedmen's Aid Society.

* The attention of the Church was early called to the subject of church building. Early Provisions. The following minutes will evince the interest felt in it:
 "Quest. 10. What can be done toward erecting new chapels, and discharging the debts on those already built?"

"Ans. Let the Assistant Preacher put a yearly subscription through the Circuits, and insist upon every member that is not supported by charity to give something. Let them subscribe the first quarter, and pay the second; and the money to be applied by two general stewards."—Annual Minutes, 1784.

"Quest. 78. What can be done toward erecting new chapels, and discharging the debts on those already built?"

"Ans. Let every Assistant raise a yearly subscription through his Circuit: and let every member who is not supported by charity give something. Let them subscribe the first quarter, and pay the second. And let the money be applied where it is most wanted, by a committee of lay-members annually appointed by the Assistant, one of whom shall be chosen out of each Society concerned."—Discipline of 1784.

The Bishops are required to appoint in each State and Territory, and in the District of Columbia, one person learned in the law to be the legal advisers of the Board in regard to titles and the forms of conveyance.—See Jour. Gen. Conf., 1872, p. 229.

II. Let the Freedmen's Aid Society be careful to locate its schools where they will be of most advantage to our Churches and Missions, and especially seek to educate those persons who are called to preach, or who propose to become preachers; and let only those persons be employed as teachers who will conscientiously work in our Sunday-schools, and cheerfully co-operate with our Ministers. Schools.

III. The Board of Managers shall determine what amount shall be expended annually in this work, and apportion the same, according to their best judgment, among the several Annual Conferences; and each Annual Conference shall apportion, or cause to be apportioned, the amount assigned to it among the Circuits and Stations within its bounds; and each Presiding Elder, as early in the Conference year as possible, shall inform each Quarterly Conference in his District of the amount to be raised by the Charge it represents. Duty of Board of Managers.

IV. It shall be the duty of each Preacher in Charge to present this subject to his congregation, or cause it to be presented, once each year, in a sermon or address; to aid in the diffusion of intelligence in regard to the work of the Society and the wants of the Freedmen; and to use due diligence to collect the amount apportioned to his Charge. He shall report to the Annual Conference the sum collected, and the collections shall be published in a column in the General Minutes and in the Minutes of the Annual Conferences. Duty of Preacher in Charge.

V. The Corresponding Secretary, if a Traveling Preacher, shall be a member of such Annual Conference as he, with the approbation of the Bishops, may select. Corresponding Secretary.

1888.] Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society.

¶ 403. The work of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society shall be the establishment and maintenance of institutions of learning in the Southern States among Freedmen and others who have special claims upon the people of America for help in the work of Christian education. In presenting the claims of this cause the Preacher in Charge shall state plainly that the educational work of this Society is among both colored and white people.

¶ 404. Care is to be taken in locating institutions of learning so that the greatest advantages may be secured to the Conference or Conferences to be benefited, and special efforts are to be made to develop self-help among the people where the Schools are located. The Society is to be especially careful to educate those persons who are called to preach, or who propose to become Teachers; and to employ as Instructors only those who will conscientiously work in our Sunday-Schools, and cheerfully co-operate with our Ministers.

¶ 405. The Board of Managers shall consist of twenty-four Members, to be elected quadrennially by the General Conference. The Board shall determine annually what amount should be expended in this work, and apportion the same, according to its best judgment, among the several Annual Conferences; and each Annual Conference shall apportion or cause to be apportioned the amounts assigned to it among the Circuits or Stations within its bounds.

¶ 406. Each Presiding Elder shall, as early in the Conference year as possible, inform each Pastor in his District of the amount to be raised in his Charge, and he shall also inquire at the Third Quarterly Conference if the amount asked for has been raised, and, if it has not, urge that it be raised before the close of the Conference year.

§ 1. At the Last Quarterly Conference of each year a Committee of not less than three nor more than nine shall be appointed, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be Chairman, to be called the Committee on Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education, whose duty it shall be to aid in carrying into effect the provisions of the Discipline and the plans of the Officers and Managers of the Society for the Support of this Cause, so that at least the amount asked for each year in the Circuit and Station shall be secured. This Committee shall also see that information concerning this Work is diffused among the people.

§ 2. The Preacher in Charge shall, once a year, with the aid of the Committee on Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education, present the claims of this Work to his people, and ask subscriptions and collections for the support of the same. The Pastor shall preach, or cause to be preached, a Sermon on the occasion. He shall report to the Annual Conference the amount collected for this cause, and the collections shall be published in a column in the General Minutes, and also in the Minutes of the Annual Conference.

§ 3. The senior Book Agent at Cincinnati shall be the Treasurer of this Society, and the Board of Managers may appoint such Assistant Treasurers as it deems wise.

§ 4. The Corresponding Secretary, if a Traveling Preacher, shall be a Member of such Annual Conference as he, with the approbation of the Bishop, may elect.

PUBLISHING HOUSES.

Printing and Circulating Books and Periodicals.

1787.] [Of the Printing and Circulating of Books and (in., 1789, and om., 1800, the Application) of the Profits Arising Therefrom," changed, 1848, to "Printing and Circulating Books (in., 1860, Tracts, and Periodicals")].

As it has been frequently recommended by the Preachers and [1792. people that such books as are wanted be printed in this country, we therefore propose,

1. That the advice of the Conference shall be desired concerning any valuable impression, and their consent be obtained before any steps be taken for the printing thereof.

2. That the profits of the books, after all the necessary expenses are defrayed, shall be applied, [“according to the discretion of the Conference, toward the college, the Preachers’ Fund, the deficiencies of the Preachers, the distant missions, or the debts on our Churches,” changed, 1790, to “as the Bishop and Council * shall direct”]. † 1792.] Quest. 1. Who is employed to manage the printing [1800. business?

Ans. John Dickins.

Quest. 2. What allowances shall be paid to him annually for his services?

Ans. 1. Two hundred dollars for a dwelling-house and for a book room.

2. Eighty dollars for a boy.

3. Fifty-three dollars and one third for firewood, and,

4. Three hundred and thirty-three dollars to clothe and feed himself, his wife, and his children. In all, six hundred and sixty-six dollars and one third.

Quest. 3. What powers shall be granted him?

Ans. 1. To regulate the publications according to the state of the finances.

2. To determine, with the approbation of the Book Com- [1796. mittee, on the amount of the drafts which may be drawn from time to time on the book fund.

3. To complain to the District Conferences if any Preach- [1800. ers shall neglect to make due payment for books.

4. To publish from time to time such books or treatises as [1796. he and the other members of the Book Committee shall unanimously judge proper.

Quest. 5. How much shall be annually allowed out of the book fund for the Cokesbury College till the next General Conference? †

Ans. Eight hundred dollars for the ensuing year, and one thousand sixty-six dollars and two thirds for each of the remaining three years.

Quest. 6. What directions shall be given concerning the application of the money allowed as above for Cokesbury College?

Ans. The money shall be applied as follows:

1. For the education and board of the boys that are now on the charitable part of the foundation. But no boy shall be again placed on the charity till the next General Conference.

* The Plan of a Council, designed to take the place in our economy now occupied by the General Conference, was published in the Minutes of 1789. It was composed of the Bishops and the Presiding Elders, who had “authority to mature every thing they shall judge expedient. 1. To preserve the general union. 2 To render and preserve the external form of worship similar in all our Societies through the continent. 3. To preserve the essentials of the Methodist doctrines and Discipline pure and uncorrupted. 4. To correct all abuses and disorders; and lastly, they are authorized to mature every thing they may see necessary for the good of the Church, and for the promoting and improving our Colleges and Plan of Education.”—Lee’s History of the Methodists, pp. 148, 151, 160, 177; Asbury’s Journal, vol. ii, pp. 65, 76, 82, 84, 88; Young’s History, p. 349; Sterns’s History Methodist Episcopal Church, vol. iv, p. 500. The Council met at Baltimore, Dec. 1. 1789, and framed a constitution giving to that body powers similar to those of the General Conference; in fact placing the legislative power in the hands of one man and his aids and appointees. The plan appears to have been warmly cherished by Asbury; but it gave such general dissatisfaction to the Preachers that only one other meeting (that of December 1. 1790) was held. In 1792 the General Conference was devised to take its place, as the Council had become so generally odious to Preachers and people that Asbury himself requested that it might be named no more. Highly and justly as they esteemed Asbury they were not prepared to make him a Pope.

† “Resolved. That in our judgment the paramount object of our publishing should be the wider diffusion of a sanctified literature.”—Jour. Gen. Conf., 1864, p. 372.

‡ The college had been burned the preceding year.

2. The surplus of the money, after the charity is supplied, shall be from time to time appropriated to the payment of the debt of the college, and to the finishing of the building, under the direction of the Bishop and the Committee of Safety.

N. B. The present debt of the college is about eleven hundred dollars. The present expense of the charity is about nine hundred and sixty-three dollars annually, but this will probably sink into less than one half before the next General Conference.

Quest. 7. What sum of money shall be allowed distressed [1800. Preachers out of the book fund till the next General Conference?

Ans. Two hundred and sixty-six dollars and one third per annum.

Quest. 8. How is the money mentioned above for the benefit of distressed Preachers to be drawn out of the book fund?

Ans. By the Bishop, according to the united judgment of himself and the District Conferences.

Quest. 9. What shall be allowed the Bishop out of the book [1796. fund for the benefit of district schools till the next General Conference?

Ans. Sixty-four dollars per annum.

Quest. 10. How shall the surplus of the book fund be applied till the next General Conference after the provisions above mentioned are made?

Ans. To the forming of a capital stock for the carrying on of the concerns of the books.

[1796.] Quest. 7. What mode shall be struck out for the [1800. recovery of bad or suspected book debts?

Ans. 1. Let every yearly Conference appoint a committee or committees for the examination of the accounts of the traveling Book Stewards in their respective Districts.

2. Let every Presiding Elder and every Preacher who has the oversight of a Circuit do every thing in their power to recover all the debts in their Circuit or District, and also all books which may remain in the hands of persons who shall have resigned or been withdrawn from the office of a traveling Book Steward.

Quest. 8. Shall any drafts be made on the book fund before all its debts are discharged?

Ans. There shall be none till the debts are discharged, except in the case of distressed traveling Preachers.

Quest. 9. What directions shall be given concerning the regulation of our press?

Ans. The general Book Steward shall print no books or tracts of any kind without the consent of a Bishop and two thirds of the Philadelphia Conference."*

Quest. 10. Will the Conference recommend and engage to promote the publication of a magazine, entitled The Methodist Magazine, which shall consist of compilations from the British magazines, and of original accounts of the experience of pious persons, and shall be published in monthly numbers?

Ans. The Conference will recommend such a magazine, and desire that it may be printed.

* "In accordance with the direction of the General Conference (Quest. 6), the Philadelphia Conference, in 1797, appointed a Book Committee, and the following note was entered on the Annual Minutes for that year:—

"The above Committee are to meet at Philadelphia on the 2d of January, 1798, and once a quarter afterward, or oftener if necessary, to consider and determine what manuscripts, books, or pamphlets shall be printed.

"Four of the said Committee, when met as above, shall proceed to business, provided that the Chairman and one of the Presiding Elders be present. And the General Book Steward shall lay before the Committee all manuscripts, books, and pamphlets which are designed for publication, except such as the General Conference has authorized him to publish."—Emory.

1800.] 2. It shall be the duty of every Presiding Elder. [1828. where no Book Steward is appointed, to see that his District be fully supplied with books. He ["is to." changed, 1816, to "shall"] order such books as are wanted, and give direc-^{Presiding Elders.} tion to whose care the same are to be sent; and he (is to) shall take the oversight of all our books sent into his District, and account with the ["Superintendent," changed, 1804, to "General Book Steward"] for the same. He ["is to," changed, 1816, to "shall"] have the books distributed among the several Circuits in his District, and (is to) shall keep an account with each Preacher who receives or sells ["the books," changed, 1816, to "them"]. [om., 1816, and is to] receive the money and forward it to the ["Superintendent," changed 1804, to "General Book Steward"].

When a Presiding Elder is removed he (is to) shall make a full settlement for all the books sold or remaining in his District, and also make a transfer to his successor of all the books and accounts left with the Preachers in the District, the amount of which shall go to his credit, and pass to the debit of his successor.

1820.] 4. It shall be the duty of all Presiding Elders having accounts open with the Concern to pay over to the Agents annually or oftener all the money in their hands or which may be due from them, rendering at the same time an account of all the books remaining in their Districts unsold; and it shall be the duty of Preachers in Circuits and Stations having accounts with the Presiding Elder to make settlements and render payments in a similar way.

1800.] 3. It shall be the duty of every Preacher who has the charge of a Circuit to see that his Circuit be duly supplied with books, and to take charge of all the books which are sent to him from time to time or which may be in his Circuit, and (he^{Duty of Preacher.} is) to account with the Presiding Elder for the same. When a Preacher leaves his Circuit he must settle with the Presiding Elder for all the books he has disposed of; he is also to make out an inventory of all that are remaining unsold, which shall be collected at one place, the amount of which shall go to his credit, and be transferred to his successor, who is to take charge of the same. If the Preacher who has the charge of the Circuit be negligent in dispersing the books the Presiding Elder shall commit the charge of the books to another.

4. ["The ("Superintendent of the book business," changed, [1808. 1804, to "General Book Stewards"]) may from time to time supply the Preachers with books in those Circuits which are adjacent or convenient to ("Philadelphia," changed, 1804,^{Superintendent of Book Room.} to "New York"), and settle with them for the same. In such cases the regulations respecting the Presiding Elders are not to apply.

5. In all cases where books are sent to distant places the Presiding Elders or Preachers shall be allowed to put a small additional price on such books as will best bear it, in order to pay the expenses of freight or carriage; but the addition must not be more than what is necessary to defray such expenses," changed, 1808, to

4. "The Book Concern shall pay all the expense of the conveyance of books to the Presiding Elders until they are within the bounds of their Districts" [1828].

Agency at Cincinnati.

1820.] There shall be a Book Agent [in., 1832, and an Assistant Agent, who shall reside in Cincinnati, and manage the Concern in the western country, under the direction of the Editor [in., 1832, and of the Book Steward] at New York, [in., 1832, both of whom shall be chosen from among the Traveling Preachers], and who, by virtue of ["his," changed, 1832, to "their"] appointment, shall be ["a member," changed, 1832, to "members"] of the Ohio Annual Conference under the same regulations by which the ["Agents," changed, 1832, to "Book Steward and Editors"] at New York are members of the New York Annual Conference. And the Ohio Conference shall appoint a [in., 1832, standing Book] Committee ["of three," changed, 1832, to "to consist of five members"], whose duty it shall be to examine the accounts of said Agent, and report to the said Conference annually, [in., 1832, and to the General Conference at its session, and to give advice in any matters in reference to the branch in the West.] ["And in case of the (in., 1832, removal, death, or resignation of the Agent," changed, 1836, to "in case of removal by death, resignation, or otherwise, of the Agents or Editors, or any one of them;" 1840, to "in case of death, resignation, or removal of any of said Agents," or (in., 1832, Assistants)] the Ohio Conference shall have authority to appoint a successor until [om., 1832, the sitting of] the ensuing General Conference.

("seven," changed, 1860, to "eleven;" 1864, to "twelve") Traveling Ministers, to be chosen by the General Conference, whose powers and duties in reference to this establishment (in., 1860, embracing the 'North-western Christian Advocate,' published at Chicago, Ill., and the 'Central Christian Advocate,' published at St. Louis, Mo.) shall be the same as those of the Book Committee at New York in relation to the Concern there."]

[In., 1888, Book Committee.]

1872.] ¶ 415. The General Conference shall elect a Book Committee [om., 1880, of eighteen members] to serve for four years, consisting of one from each of the [om., 1884, twelve] The General Book Committee. Districts into which the Annual Conferences are distributed, three from New York or its vicinity, and three from Cincinnati or vicinity; which Committee shall, during the interval of the General Conference, have power to fill vacancies occurring in its own body. ["It," 1876, to "such Committee"] shall have the general supervision of the publishing interests of the Church, examine carefully into their condition, and make report of the same to the Annual Conferences and to the General Conference; ["and shall also attend to all matters referred to it by the Agents or Editors for its action or counsel," changed, 1880, to "and shall have full power to close all Depositories and Periodicals when the Committee believes the interests of the Church and Book Concern demand it. Said action shall, however, not be taken except by a two-thirds vote of the Committee, due notice of such contemplated action having been given the Book Agents. And the Committee shall also have the power to order expenses curtailed in any department of the Book Concern when it deems it necessary for the welfare of the Church and of the Book Concern. When such action as above specified shall have been taken by said Book Committee, notice shall forthwith be given to the Agents, who shall proceed at once to carry out the instructions of the Committee. The Book Agents are authorized, by and with the advice and consent of the Book Committee, to sell any real estate or personal property when it may be deemed best for the interests of the Church and Book Concern. The Committee shall also attend to all matters referred to it by the Agents or Editors for its action or counsel.”]

¶ 416. The three members at New York and the three at Cincinnati shall have power to suspend an Agent or Editor for cause to them sufficient, and a time shall be fixed at as early a day as practicable for the investigation of the official conduct of said Agent or Editor, due notice of which shall be given by the Chairman of the Book Committee to the Bishops, who shall select one of their number to be present and preside at the investigation, which shall be before the [“twelve,” 1880, to “thirteen,” 1888, to “fourteen”] members from the Districts into which the Annual Conferences are distributed, two thirds of whom may remove said Agent or Editor from office in the interval of the General Conference. And in case a vacancy occurs in any of the agencies or editorial departments authorized by the General Conference, it shall be the duty of the Book Committee [“and two or more of the General Superintendents,” changed, 1884, to “the General Superintendents, two at least of the Superintendents being present, and a majority of those present concurring,”] as soon as practicable to provide for such vacancy until the next General Conference.

¶ 417. The Book Committee shall be governed Regulations.
by the following regulations:

I. Immediately after its appointment the Members shall divide themselves into two Sections of ten (10) each, the one to consist of the Members from the Eastern Districts, together with those chosen from New York and vicinity, to be called the Eastern Section; the other to consist of the Members from the Western Districts and those chosen from Cincinnati and vicinity, to be called the Western Section.

II. To the Eastern Section shall pertain the Supervision of the New York Publishing House in all its departments. The three Members chosen from New York and vicinity shall constitute a local Sub-Committee, which shall meet monthly at the Book Room in New York, to examine into all the transactions of the month preceding; it shall keep a correct record of the proceedings, to be submitted to the Eastern Section of the Book Committee, at its ["semi-annual meeting," changed, 1876, to "annual meeting to be held at the place of, and on the day previous to, the meeting of the Book Committee."]

III. The Western Section of the Book Committee shall perform the same duties for the Publishing House at Cincinnati and be under the same regulations as are herein specified for the government of the Eastern Section.

IV. The annual meeting of the Book Committee shall be held on the second Wednesday of February; and each section shall have meetings at such time as it may elect.

vocate" at New Orleans; also, an Editor of the "Western Christian Advocate" [om., 1880, an Editor of the "Ladies' Repository" and "Golden Hours"]; who shall be Editor of the books of the [General Catalogue and Tracts, changed, 1880, to "Western Methodist Book Concern"]; an editor of the "Christian Apologist" and German books of the General Catalogue; an Editor of the German Monthly Family Magazine, "Sunday-School Bell," "Family Library," Tracts, and other German Sunday-school publications, all of which shall be published at Cincinnati; an Editor of the "North-western Christian Advocate," at Chicago; an Editor of the "Central Christian Advocate, at St. Louis, Mo., [om., 1884, and an Editor of the "Methodist Advocate," at Atlanta, Ga.,] who, if chosen from among the Traveling Preachers, shall be members of such Annual Conferences as they, with the approbation of the Bishops, may select. The officers mentioned in this chapter shall be either ministers or members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

¶ 419. The Editor of Sunday-school books, papers, and tracts, shall also have charge of all our Tract Publications, [om., 1876], and shall be Corresponding Secretary of the [in., 1884, Sunday-School Union and] Tract Society. Tract Editor. He shall also, in consultation with the Book Agents, have charge of the department of Sunday-school Requisites, including books of instruction for Sunday-schools and Normal Classes. He shall also be Corresponding Secretary of the Sunday-School Union and Superintendent of the Department of Sunday-School Instruction. The Tract Society and the Sunday-School Union shall each pay such proportion of his salary as the Book Committee, in consultation with the Executive Committee of each Society, shall consider just, in view of the time spent by the Secretary in the service of each Society. [In. 1884, the Editor of German Sunday-School Publications in Cincinnati shall be the German Assistant Secretary of the Sunday-School Union (in., 1888, and of the Tract Society,) without additional salary.]

¶ 420. Every Annual Conference shall appoint a committee ["or Committees to examine the accounts of the Presiding Elders, Preachers, and Book Stewards in their respective Districts or Circuits," changed, 1844, to "which in the absence of the Agents shall Duty of Annual Conference. attend to the collection of the accounts sent out from the Book Concern, and return an accurate report of the same. (Om., 1860, They shall also report to the Conference any claims which may have been one year due, that they may be collected or secured)].

¶ 421. Every Presiding Elder, Minister, and Preacher shall do every thing in his power to recover all debts due to the Concern ["and also all the books belonging to the Preachers to Aid the Business. Concern which may remain in the hands of any person within their Districts or Circuits," changed, 1832, to ("and also all books belonging to it," changed, 1848, to "for books and periodicals") within the bounds of his charge"]. If any [in., 1832, person] Preacher or member be indebted to the Book Concern and refuse [in., 1832, or neglect] to make payment or to come to a just settlement, let him be dealt with [“for a breach of trust, and such effectual measures be adopted for the recovery of such debt as shall be agreeable to the direction of the Annual Conferences,” changed, 1832, to “in the same manner as is directed in other cases of debt and disputed accounts”].

8. It shall be the duty of the Preacher or Preachers who [1804. travel with any of the Bishops, if he or they be authorized by the Superintendent of the Book Concern, to act as an agent in the settlement of accounts, collecting money, or in transacting any business belonging to the Book Concern.

Not to Publish but by Consent of Conference.

10. No Traveling Preacher shall print or circulate any books or pamphlets without the consent of the Annual Conference to which he belongs, except as an agent of the Superintendent of the Book Concern.

Discipline and Notes.

11. The Form of Discipline shall be printed by itself, and the Bishops' Explanatory Notes by themselves, but in such a manner that the Notes may be conveniently bound up with the Form of Discipline; and every Presiding Elder, Preacher, or other person who has the charge of the books may send for as many copies of the Form as he please, with or without the Notes.

Publishing Committees.

1856.] There shall also be a Publishing Committee for each of the above-named papers, to be appointed as hereinafter named, whose duties shall be similar [in., 1860, with regard to them] to those of [in., 1860, the Book Agents and] the Book Committees at New York and Cincinnati, [in., 1860, in relation to the publications under their care] so far as they may be applicable to the establishments under their supervision.

1852.] [“There shall be a Publishing Committee, consisting of four members, to be selected by the California, and one by the Oregon Annual Conference, whose duties shall be similar to the Book Committees at New York and Cincinnati, so far as they may be applicable to the ‘California Christian Advocate,’” changed, 1856, to “The Publishing Committee of the ‘California Christian Advocate’ shall consist of five members of the California Conference, to be chosen annually by said Conference”].

1856.] 13. The Publishing Committee of the “Pacific Christian Advocate” shall consist of five members of the Pacific Advocate. Christian Advocate, to be chosen annually by said Conference.

1872.] ¶ 324. There shall be a Publishing Committee at San Francisco, to consist of three Ministers and two Laymen, appointed by the General Conference, whose powers with respect to the Depository and the paper at San Francisco shall be the same as those of the General Book Committee. Said Committee may nominate an Agent for the Depository, subject to the approval of the Book Agent at New York.

1880.] ¶ 422. The “California Christian Advocate” shall be published at San Francisco, California, by the Agents at New York, under the direction of the General Book Committee, with a Local Committee of seven persons appointed by the General Conference.

1852.] ["The Pittsburgh Conference shall appoint from [1856. their own members a Publishing Committee, consisting of three, whose duties shall be similar to those of the Book Committees of New York and Cincinnati, so far as they may be applicable to the 'Pittsburgh Christian Advocate,'" changed, 1856, to "The Publishing Committee of the 'Pittsburgh Christian Advocate' shall consist of two members from each of the following Conferences, to be chosen annually by the Conferences respectively, namely, two by the Pittsburgh, two by the Erie, and two by the Western Virginia"].

Pittsburgh
Conference.

1872.] ¶ 325. There shall also be a Publishing Committee [1880. for the "Pittsburgh Christian Advocate" at Pittsburgh, Pa., and a Publishing Committee for the "Pacific Christian Advocate" at Portland, Oregon, whose respective duties with regard to these papers shall be similar to the duties of the Book Agents and Book Committee, in relation to the publications under their care, so far as they may be applicable to the establishments under their supervision.

1860.] ¶ 326. The Publishing Committee of the "Pittsburgh Christian Advocate" shall consist of three members from the Pittsburgh Conference, two from the Erie Conference, and two from the West Virginia Conference, to be chosen by the General Conference.

1872.] ¶ 327. The Oregon Annual Conference shall annually choose a Publishing Committee of five persons for the "Pacific Christian Advocate," which Committee shall also exercise general supervision of the affairs of the Depository at Portland.

1841.] ["But in the case of the 'Northern Christian Advocate' the Publishing Committee shall be appointed by the Oneida, Genesee (in., 1848, East Genesee), Black River, and (in., 1852, Wyoming) Conferences, and shall consist of ("two" changed, 1852, to "one,") members from each of these Conferences (in., 1848, to be chosen annually), changed, 1856, to "The Publishing Committee of the 'Northern Christian Advocate' shall consist [1864. of one member from each of the following Conferences, to be chosen annually by the Conferences respectively, namely: Genesee, East Genesee, Oneida, Black River, and Wyoming Conferences"].

cate.

1852.] ["There shall be a Publishing Committee for the [1856. 'North-western Christian Advocate,' consisting of one member from each of the following Conferences, to be selected by the Conferences respectively, namely, Rock River, Michigan, North-western Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin, whose duties shall be similar to that of the Book Committees at New York and Cincinnati, so far as it may be applicable to the establishment," changed, 1856, to "The Publishing Committee [1860. of the 'North-western Christian Advocate' shall consist of one member from each of the following Conferences, to be chosen annually by the Conferences respectively, namely: Michigan, Detroit, North-western Indiana, Rock River, Illinois, Iowa, Upper Iowa, Peoria, Wisconsin, and West Wisconsin Conferences"].

The North-west-
cate.

["A committee of one from the Illinois, one from the [1856. Southern Illinois, one from the Iowa, one from the Arkansas, and one from the Missouri Conferences, to be selected by the Conferences respectively, shall superintend the publication of the paper authorized to be published at St. Louis, Mo.; and on the nomination of said committee and recommendation of the Missouri Conference the presiding Bishop shall be requested to appoint an Editor for said paper when the Book Agents at Cincinnati shall have determined on its publication, and the duties of said committee shall be similar to those of the Publishing Committee at Chicago," changed, 1856,

Central Christian

to "The Publishing Committee of the 'Central Christian Advocate' shall consist of one member of each of the following Conferences, to be chosen annually by the Conferences respectively, namely: Illinois, Southern Illinois, Iowa, Upper Iowa, Arkansas, Missouri, and the Kansas and Nebraska Conferences"].

1836.] ¶ 328. The Publishing Committee in each of these establishments shall keep an account of the receipts and expenditures for the paper; correspond with the Agents at New York; hold all moneys, after defraying current expenses, subject to their order; and shall report annually on the state of the establishment to their Conference, and to the Agents at New York. And whenever it shall be found that such papers do not fully support themselves [in., 1860, with such aid as may have been allowed them] it shall be the duty of the ["Annual Conference within whose bounds they are established," changed, 1860, to "Publishing Committee"] to discontinue them [in., 1840, and om., 1860, and report to the Agents at New York the state of the accounts on the final settlement of the business; and if there be any loss, the said Agents shall take the earliest opportunity to discharge the debt"].

1880.] ¶ 423. There shall be a Publishing Committee for the "Pittsburg Christian Advocate" at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, consisting of three Members from the Pittsburg Conference, two from the Erie Conference, two from the East Ohio Conference, and two from the West Virginia Conference. to be chosen by the General Conference. The Committee shall keep an account of receipts and expenditures for the paper, correspond with the Agents at New York, hold all moneys, after defraying current expenses, subject to their order, and shall report annually on the state of the establishment to the patronizing Conferences and to the Agents at New York.

Depositories.

1832.] 7. There shall also be a General Depository for our books, Sunday-school books, and tracts at New Orleans, under the charge of an agent elected by the General Conference, which shall bear the same relation to the General Agency in New York as the branch establishment at Cincinnati does, and be under the same responsibilities; and the same to the Mississippi Conference which that at Cincinnati does to the Ohio Conference.

1836.] 11. It is inexpedient to establish any new depository of books at present, but if in the interval of the General Conference the presiding Bishop of any Annual Conference shall concur with the said Conference in opinion that it is expedient to establish a book store within their bounds, in such case the Agents, both at New York and Cincinnati, shall have authority to sell books to such Conference book store at a discount of forty per centum, without involving any pecuniary responsibility on the part of the Book Concern,

1840.] ¶ 424. There shall be a depository of our books at [om., 1852, Charleston, S. C.] Pittsburg, Pa.; at Boston, Mass., [in., 1856, and om., 1860, and restored 1872, at San Francisco, Cal., [in., 1860, at Buffalo, N. Y.,] furnished by the Agents at New York with full supplies of the books of our General Catalogue, Sunday-school books and tracts, to be sold for the Concern on the same terms as at New York. Provided, that there shall not be more than [om., 1852, twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of books at any one time at Charleston nor more than] fifteen thousand dollars' worth at Pittsburg, nor more than ten thousand dollars' worth at Boston. [In., 1852, there shall also be a Depository at Chicago, Illinois; one at St. Louis, Missouri]; [in., 1872, and one at Atlanta, Georgia] to be supplied by the Agents at Cincinnati [in., 1852, and om., 1860, Depositories shall also be established at Buffalo and Auburn, N. Y., and at Washington, D. C., at the discretion of the New York Book Agents].

¶ 425. The expenses incident to the transportation, management, and sale of our books at these Depositories having been met out of the sales, according to an Expenses. arrangement with the Agents, [om., 1860, at New York] the net proceeds shall be forwarded to said Agents as fast as possible.

¶ 426. Full statements shall be made to the Agents semi-annually, at dates fixed by them, of the amount of sales and of expenses, distinguishing cash sales from Statement. those on credit; and also annual statements shall be made of the amount of stock.

¶ 332. If it shall appear to the Agents [om., 1860, at New York] [1880. that the business at either of the Depositories is not well managed, or that remittances are not duly made, ["they shall give notice thereof to the committee or commissioners acting for the Annual Conference, or to the Annual Conference, who," changed, 1860, to "they "] shall immediately correct the error complained of, or, (in., 1860, with the concurrence of the Book Committee,) cause the affairs of the Depository to be wound up.

1828.] ¶ 427. No books shall hereafter be ["issued," 1860, to "sold "] on commission either from New York, Cincinnati, [in., 1832, or any other depository or establishment under our direction.]

7. At each Annual Conference next ensuing the passage of [1840. this resolution the Presiding Elders shall deliver into the hands of the Book Agents (or Book Committee of such Conference) Plan of Sale. for all the books in the several Circuits and Stations in their Districts the receipts of those persons in whose care such books shall have been left. After the appointments for the year ensuing have been announced, the Agents or Book Committee shall give to each Preacher the receipts belonging to his Circuit or Station, retaining an exact account of the amount called for by such receipts, which shall be charged against said Preacher, and accounted for by him at the next Annual Conference; provided, that the several Presiding Elders shall be at equal liberty to sell any such books on the same terms and principles with other Preachers, and shall account therefor with the Preachers to whom they have been charged, or with the Agents or the Book Committees of their respective Conferences.

Salaries of Editors and Agents.

1836.] The salaries for the support of Editors and Agents [1860. in all our book and periodical establishments shall be fixed by ["the Book or Publishing Committees in the several Salaries of Editors. places for which such Editors and Agents are appointed," changed, 1844, to "the General Conference, or by committees appointed by that body"].

1860.] The salaries of the Editors and Agents at New York, [1880.

[in., 1868, om., 1872, and San Francisco], [in., 1864, and the Editor of the "Northern Christian Advocate"], [om., 1868, shall be fixed by the Book Committee at New York]; the salaries of the Agents and Editors at Cincinnati and the Editors at Chicago and St. Louis, [in., 1872, and Atlanta] [in., 1876, New Orleans] shall be fixed by the Book Committee [om., 1868, of the Western Book Concern; the salaries of the Editors of the papers at Pittsburg, Pa., [om., 1864, Western New York]; Portland, Oregon; and at San Francisco, Cal., shall be fixed by the Publishing Committees having charge of those papers respectively, [in., 1868, the amounts to be appropriated for correspondence shall also be fixed by the Book Committee.]

1880.] ¶ 428. The salaries of the Editors and Agents at New York, and of the "Northern Christian Advocate," the salaries of the Agents and Editors at Cincinnati, and of the Editors at Chicago, Saint Louis, San Francisco, and New Orleans, shall be fixed by the Book Committee. The salary of the Editor of the "Christian Advocate" at Pittsburg shall be fixed by the Publishing Committee of that paper. The amounts to be appropriated for Correspondence shall be determined by the Book Committee.

Profits.

1800.] 7. There shall be no drafts made upon the Book Concern till its debts are discharged, and a sufficient capital provided for carrying on the business, after which the profits arising from the books shall be regularly paid to the Chartered Fund, and be applied, with the annual income of the funded stock, to the support of the distressed Traveling Preachers and their families, the widows and orphans of Preachers, etc.

1804.] ¶ 429. The profits arising from the Book Concern, after a sufficient capital to carry on the business is retained, shall be regularly applied to the support of the ["distressed," 1840, to "deficient"] Traveling Preachers and their families, the widows and orphans of Preachers, etc. ["The General Book Steward," changed, 1844, to "The Book Agents"] shall every year send forward to each Annual Conference an account of the dividend which the several Annual Conferences may draw that year; and each Conference may draw for its proportionate part on any person who has book money in hand: and the drafts, with the receipt of the Conference thereon, shall be sent to ["the General Book Steward," changed, 1844, to "the Book Agents"], and be placed to the credit of the person who paid the same. [Om., 1808, but each Annual Conference is authorized at all events to draw on the General Book Steward for one hundred dollars.]

1836.] ¶ 430. The Annual Conferences are affectionately and earnestly requested not to establish any more Conference papers; and where such papers exist, ["they may be discontinued," 1880, to "to discontinue them"] when it can be done consistently with existing obligations.

1800.] No Traveling Preacher shall print or circulate any books or pamphlets without the consent of the Annual Conference to which he belongs, except as an agent of the Superintendent of the Book Concern.

1803.] ["No Traveling Preacher is permitted to publish any book or pamphlet without the approbation of the Annual Conference to which he belongs, or of a committee chosen by them. It is recommended to the Annual Conferences to caution and restrict our Preachers from improper publications," changed, 1824, to 1824.] ¶ 431. "Any Traveling Preacher who may publish any work or book of his own shall be responsible to his Conference for any obnoxious matter or doctrine therein contained".

1832.] 14. The Editors, the General Book Steward, and Book Committee at New York shall be authorized to adopt such measures as they may deem expedient, and as shall be found practicable, to secure the premises on Mulberry-street for the uses and purposes for which the purchase was made and the buildings erected.

Circulation of Religious Tracts.

1852.] [Om., 1872, (om., 1860, Of the Printing and) Circulation of Religious Tracts. 1872.]

Provision is made for the publication at the Book Concern of cheap books and tracts in our own and foreign languages. For the duties of the Editor of tracts and Corresponding Secretary of the Tract Society, see Part III, chap. vi. art. 3, p. 198. Our Tract Society is designed to aid in the diffusion of religious knowledge by the circulation of our evangelical publications.

¶ 432. It is recommended to our people every-where to form Tract Societies, auxiliary to the Tract Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

¶ 433. It is recommended to Preachers in Charge to take annually, in their several congregations, collections in behalf of the Tract Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

1864.] ¶ 434. It shall be the duty of each Presiding Elder to bring the Tract Cause before the last Quarterly Meeting Conference of each year, in each Circuit and Station within his District; and said Conference shall appoint a Committee, [in., 1884, of which the Preacher in Charge shall be chairman,] whose duty it shall be to devise and execute plans for local tract distribution.

PART VI.—BOUNDARIES.

CHAPTER I.

Mode of Determining Boundaries.

1876.] ¶ 435. No petition, resolution, or memorial, asking for, or involving, the division of Conferences, or the organization of new Conferences out of territory already occupied by organized Conferences, or the absorption of Conferences already existing, shall be entertained by the General Conference until it has first been submitted to the Annual Conferences immediately affected by such proposed action.

¶ 436. No proposition for any change in Conference boundaries shall be entertained by the General Conference until due notice shall have been given by the Annual Conferences desiring such change, or a majority of the Presiding Elders thereof, to the Conference or Conferences that are to be affected by such proposed action.

Any two or more Conferences that may be mutually interested in the readjustment of their common boundaries may, at any time, raise a joint commission, consisting of five members from each Conference immediately interested; and the decision of such joint commission [in., 1880, in which it shall be necessary for a majority of the five members representing each of said Conferences to concur], when it shall be approved by the Bishop or Bishops who may preside in those Conferences at their session next ensuing, shall be final. But if the commission so appointed shall fail to agree, or the presiding Bishops shall not concur, then the case, with its facts, together with the records of the commission, shall come to the General Conference for final adjudication.

1872.] ¶ 437. The General Conference shall appoint a Committee on Boundaries [“to consist of three members to be nominated from each mission District, over which one of the Bishops shall preside, and of which twenty-four shall be a quorum,” changed, 1876, to “consisting of one member from each Annual Conference to be nominated by the delegations severally, over which one of the Bishops shall preside, and of which one of the General Conference Secretaries shall be the Secretary, and of which committee twenty-five shall be a quorum.”] All matters pertaining to Conference lines shall be referred to this Committee, and [“its decision shall be final,” changed, 1884, to “when the Committee shall have fixed the boundaries of all the Conferences, it shall submit its report to the General Conference, which shall immediately act upon the same as a whole without amendment and without debate”].

PART VI.—CHAPTER II.

BOUNDARIES OF CONFERENCES.*

Boundaries Described.

1796.] Quest. 7. Are there any other directions to be given concerning the yearly Conferences?

Ans. There shall be six Conferences in the year. The New England Conference, under the direction of which shall be the affairs of our Church in New England and in that part of the State of New York which lies on the east side of the Hudson River, provided that, if the Bishops see it necessary, a Conference may be held in the province of Maine; the Philadelphia Conference, for the direction of our concerns in the remainder of the State of New York, in New Jersey, in all that part of Pennsylvania which lies on the east side of the Susquehanna River, the State of Delaware and all the rest of the peninsula; Baltimore Conference, for the remainder of Pennsylvania, of Maryland, and the northern neck of Virginia; Virginia Conference, for all that part of Virginia which lies on the south side of the Rappahannock River and all that part of North Carolina on the north side of Cape Fear River, including also the circuits which are situated on the branches of the Yadkin; the South Carolina Conference, for South Carolina, Georgia, and the remainder of North Carolina; the Western Conference, for the States of Kentucky and Tennessee.

As the work extended these original six Conferences were divided and subdivided and others added on the new territory south and west, in the manner indicated below.†

1888.] ¶ 438. (1.) Africa Conference shall include the whole of Africa.

1832.] 2. ALABAMA CONFERENCE shall include [om., 1844, [1848. South Alabama], om., 1840, that part of Mississippi not included in

* The boundaries of Conference are first noticed, 1796, in the section on “General and Yearly Conferences;” and they are placed in a separated section, 1804. The Conferences 1773-1792 had no boundaries, or rather the entire work was embraced in an undivided Conference, and each Preacher was at liberty to attend such session as he chose. In 1792 District Conferences were organized, and to be bounded by the Bishops; these Conferences were dropped in 1796, and the Annual Conferences organized and bounded.

† These Conference divisions are not indicated in the annual Minutes until 1802. At first the names of the Presiding Elders, with the Circuits over which they presided, were given, and in 1801 the names of the Districts are added, and in 1802, at the suggestion of Ezekiel Cooper, the names of the Conferences, with the Districts into which they were divided, were printed. It is said that “prior to 1802, no distinctive and separate Annual Conferences, though so called in general parlance, existed, but the whole Methodist territory was divided up into districts.” See Phœbus’s “Beams of Light on Early Methodism,” p. 277.

the Mississippi Conference], [in., 1844, all that part of the State of Alabama not included in the Tennessee Conference], West Florida, [in., 1840, and the counties of Jackson, Greene, Wayne, Clark, Lauderdale, Kemper, Noxubee, Lowndes, and that part of Monroe east of the Tombigbee River in the State of Mississippi.]

1868.] (1.) The Alabama Conference shall ["embrace," 1872, to [1884. "include"] ["the State of Alabama (om., 1872, and that portion of the State of Florida lying west of Apalachicola River.)" changed, 1876, to "the Lebanon, Birmingham, West Alabama, and South Alabama Districts, embracing also the Sand Mountain and Scotsborough Charges." [In., 1880, "and also that portion of the State of Florida lying west of the Apalachicola River."]]

1884.] ¶ 439. Alabama Conference shall include [in., 1888, "the work among the white people in"] the State of Alabama ["together with" changed, 1888, to "and"] that part of the State of Florida [om., 1888, lying] west of Apalachicola River.

1836.] 16. ARKANSAS CONFERENCE shall include the [1848. ["Territory," changed, 1840, to "State"]] of Arkansas, [om., 1844, that part of Missouri Territory lying south of the Cherokee line; ("also so much of the State of Louisiana as is now included in the Louisiana District," changed, 1840, ((and om., 1844,)) to "so much of Texas as is now embraced in the Red River District")].

1852.] 33. The ARKANSAS CONFERENCE shall include the [1860. States of Arkansas, Texas, [om., 1856, and so much of New Mexico as lies east of the Rocky Mountains, and that part of the Indian Territory west of Arkansas], and so much of the State of Missouri as is not included in the Missouri Conference.

1872.] ¶ 440. (3.) Arkansas Conference shall include [in., 1888, "the work among the white people in"] the State of Arkansas [om., 1880, "and the Indian country west of the State."]

1880.] ¶ 441. (4.) Austin Conference shall include the State of Texas [in., 1888, "except El Paso county."]

1796.] 2. BALTIMORE CONFERENCE, for the remainder of [1812. Pennsylvania, ["the remainder," changed, 1800, to "the Western Shore"]] of Maryland and the Northern Neck of Virginia. [in., 1808, Carlyle District]. [in., 1804, and the Greenbrier District].

1812.] 5. The BALTIMORE CONFERENCE shall include the [1848. remaining part of Virginia not included in the [om., 1824, Tennessee and] Virginia, [in., 1820, Philadelphia, (om., 1824, Kentucky)], [in., 1824, Holston, Ohio, and Pittsburgh] Conferences, the Western Shore of Maryland, [in., 1832, except a small portion included in the Pittsburgh Conference], and that part of Pennsylvania east of the ["Ohio River," changed, 1824, to "Alleghany Mountains"], and west of the Susquehanna, [in., 1820, and om., 1824, together with the Bald Eagle, Lycoming, Northumberland, and Shamokin Circuits, ("not included in," changed, 1820, to "heretofore belonging to") the Genesee Conference], [in., 1824, including Northumberland District].

1848.] BALTIMORE CONFERENCE shall include all that part [1860. of Virginia not embraced in the ["Ohio," changed, 1852, to "Western Virginia"], Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia Conferences, and which is bounded by a line commencing at the mouth of the Rappahannock River, running with said river to the head waters thereof (including Fredericksburgh), thence by the Blue Ridge to New River, taking in Floyd Circuit, thence by New River to the boundary of the ["Ohio," changed, 1852, to “Western Virginia”] Conference, and the Western Shore of Maryland, except a small portion included in the [“Pittsburgh,” 1852, to “West Virginia”] Conference, and that part of Pennsylvania lying east of the Alleghany Mountains and west of the Susquehanna River, including Huntingdon and Northumberland Districts.

1860.] 1. BALTIMORE CONFERENCE shall be composed of [1868. the Baltimore, Washington, Potomac, Winchester, Rockingham, Roanoke, and Lewisburgh Districts, as they existed at the adjournment of 1857, the line through the city of Baltimore being the following, namely: Leaving the line of the Patapsco River and Jones’s [“Mills,” changed, 1864, to “Falls”] at Monument-street, and along that street to Eutaw-street, down Eutaw-street to Ross-street, thence along Ross-street to Dolphin-street, thence along Dolphin-street to Grundy-street, out Grundy-street to the city line, and along the line of the city Corporation to Jones’s Falls, Emory and Whitecoat Stations being exceptions, and belonging to East Baltimore Conference.

1868.] ¶ 442. (5.) Baltimore Conference shall [“embrace” changed, 1888, to “include”] the District of Columbia, the Western Shore of Maryland [“excepting so much” changed, 1888, to “except that part”] of [“Alleghany” changed, 1876, to “Garrett”] County [“as lies” 1888, to “lying”] west of the dividing ridge of the Alleghany Mountains; [om., 1888, “and including”] so much of the State of Pennsylvania as lies within the Hancock, [“Frostburg, Alleghany,” changed, 1876, to “Flintstone, Union Grove, and (“New Bridgeport,” changed, 1884, to “Hyndman”)”] Circuits; the county of Frederick [in., 1872, and om., 1884, “the city of Fredericksburg”] in the State of Virginia; and the counties of Jefferson, Berkley, Morgan, Hampshire, Mineral, [om., 1888, “Hardy, Pendleton”] and Grant, in the State of West Virginia.

1888.] ¶ 443. (6.) Bengal Conference shall include Bengal and Burmah, and such portions of India as are not included by the North and South India Conferences.

PART VII.

THE RITUAL.

I.—BAPTISM.

1784.] ¶ 552. Order for the Administration of Baptism to Infants.

The Minister, coming to the Font, which is to be filled with pure Water, shall use the following [om., 1852, or some other exhortation suitable to this sacred office]:

DEARLY BELOVED: Forasmuch as all men are conceived and born in sin, and that our Saviour Christ saith ["None can enter into the kingdom of God except he be regenerate and born anew of water and of the Holy Ghost," changed, 1864, to "except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God"], I beseech you to call upon God the Father through our Lord Jesus Christ, that [in., 1864, having] of his bounteous mercy ["he will grant to this child that thing which by nature he cannot have, that he may be baptized with water and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ's holy Church, and be made a lively member of the same," changed, 1864, to "redeemed this child by the blood of his Son, he will grant that he, being baptized with water, may also be baptized with the Holy Ghost, be received into Christ's most holy Church, and become a lively member of the same."]

Then shall the Minister say,
Let us pray.

Almighty and everlasting God, who of thy great mercy [om., 1864, didst save Noah and his family in the ark from perishing by water, and also didst safely lead the children of Israel, thy people, through the Red Sea, figuring thereby this holy baptism, and by the baptism of thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ in the river Jordan, didst sanctify water [om., 1786, to the mystical washing away of sin], [in., 1792, for this holy sacrament]; we beseech thee for thine infinite mercies that thou wilt look upon this child: wash him and sanctify with the Holy Ghost; that he, being delivered from thy wrath, may be received into the ark of Christ's Church, and being steadfast in faith, joyful through hope and rooted in love, may so pass the waves of this troublesome world, that finally he may come to the land of everlasting life, there to] [in., 1864, hast condescended to enter into covenant relations with man, wherein thou hast

* The Ritual, prepared by Mr. Wesley, is an abridgment of that of the Church of England. The several forms were inserted in "the Sunday Service" in 1784, and in 1792 in the Discipline. After noticing how they differ from those of the English Church, the changes in the forms at dates later than 1784 will be indicated in the text.

Of the material found in the order for infant baptism Mr. Wesley omitted the four introductory rubrics, the exhortation after the Gospel, the addresses to god-fathers, the two concluding notes, the service for private baptism, and all that relates to the regeneration of the child in baptism. The English rubric required that the child be dipped unless ill, while the American leaves it optional.

In 1796 the Notes of Coke and Asbury were inserted in the Discipline instead of the Ritual, but when they were omitted four years later this was resumed, and has since held its place in the book.

included children as partakers of its gracious benefits, declaring that of such is thy kingdom: and in thy ancient Church didst appoint divers baptisms, figuring thereby the renewing of the Holy Ghost; and by thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ gavest commandment to thy holy apostles to go into all the world and disciple all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: We beseech thee, that of thine infinite mercy thou wilt look upon this child: wash him and sanctify him; that he, being saved by thy grace, may be received into Christ's holy Church, and being steadfast in faith, joyful through hope, and rooted in love, may so overcome the evils of this present world, that finally he may attain to everlasting life, and] reign with thee, world without end, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O merciful God [om., 1864, grant that the old Adam in this child may be so buried that the new man may be raised up in him. Amen], grant that all carnal affections may die in him, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in him. Amen.

Grant that he may have power and strength to have victory, and to triumph against the devil, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

Grant that whosoever is dedicated to thee by our office and ministry may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

Almighty, ever-living God, whose most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ, for the forgiveness of our sins, did shed out of his most precious side both water and blood [om., 1864, and gave commandment to his disciples that they should go teach all nations and baptize them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost], regard, we beseech thee, ["the supplications of thy congregation," changed, 1864, to "our supplications."] Sanctify this water ["to the mystical washing away of sin," changed, 1792, to "for this holy sacrament,"] and grant that this child, now to be baptized, may receive the fullness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful and elect children, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

1864.] Then shall the Minister address the parents [or guardians] as follows:

Dearly Beloved: Forasmuch as this child is now presented by you for Christian baptism, you must remember that it is your part and duty to see that he be taught, as soon as he shall be able to learn, the nature and end of this holy sacrament. And that he may know these things the better, you shall call upon him to give reverent attendance upon the appointed means of grace, such as the ministry of the word and the public and private worship of God; and further, ye shall provide that he shall read the Holy Scriptures, and learn the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, the Apostles' Creed, the Catechism, and all other things which a Christian ought to know and believe to his soul's health, in order that he may be brought up to lead a virtuous and holy life, remembering always that baptism doth represent unto us that inward purity which disposeth us to follow the example of our Saviour Christ; that as he died and rose again for us, so should we, who are baptized, die unto sin and rise again unto righteousness, continually mortifying all corrupt affections, and daily proceeding in all virtue and godliness.

Do you therefore solemnly engage to fulfill these duties, so far as in you lies, the Lord being your helper ?

Ans. We do.

1784.] [Almighty and immortal God, the aid of all that [1786 need, the helper of all that flee to thee for succor, the life of them that believe, and the resurrection of the dead; we call upon thee for this infant; that he, coming to thy holy baptism, may receive remission of his sins by spiritual regeneration. Receive him, O Lord, as thou hast promised by thy well-beloved Son, saying, ask, and ye shall have; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: so give now unto us that ask; let us that seek find; open the gate unto us that knock; that this infant may enjoy the everlasting benediction of thy heavenly washing, and may come to the eternal kingdom which thou hast promised by Christ our Lord. Amen.]

1784.] Then shall the people stand up, and the Minister shall say :

Hear the words of the Gospel, written by St. Mark [ch. x, vers. 13-16].

Almighty and everlasting God, heavenly Father, we give [1786. thee humble thanks, that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace and faith in thee: increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to this infant; that he may be born again, and be made an heir of everlasting salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and for ever. Amen.

Then the Minister shall take the Child into his hands, and say to the friends of the Child, Name this child.

And then, naming it after them, he shall [om., 1792, dip it in water [1792. (in., 1786, or pour water upon it), or sprinkle it therewith], [in., 1792, sprinkle or pour Water upon it, or, if desired, immerse it in Water, saying]:

N., I baptize thee in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

We receive this child into the congregation of Christ's [1792. flock, and do* sign him with the sign of the cross; in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner against sin, the world, and the devil; and to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto his life's end. Amen.

* Here the priest shall make a cross upon the child's forehead.

Then shall the Minister say :

Seeing now, dearly beloved brethren, that this child is grafted into the body of Christ's Church, let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits, and with one accord make our prayers unto him, that this child may lead the rest of his life according to this beginning.

1864.] Then shall the Minister offer the following prayer, the people kneeling :

O God of infinite mercy, the Father of all the faithful seed, be pleased to grant unto this child an understanding mind and a sanctified heart. May thy providence lead him through the dangers, temptations, and ignorance of his youth, that he may never run into folly nor into the evils of an unbridled appetite. We pray thee so to order the course of his life, that by good education, by holy examples, and by thy restraining and renewing grace, he may be led to serve thee faithfully all his days, so that when he has glorified thee in his generation, and has served the Church on earth, he may be received into thine eternal kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Almighty and most merciful Father, let thy loving mercy and compassion descend upon these, thy servant and handmaid, the parents [or guardians] of this child. Grant unto them, we beseech thee, thy Holy Spirit, that they may, like Abraham, command their household to keep the way of the Lord. Direct their actions and sanctify their hearts, words, and purposes, that their whole family may be united to our Lord Jesus Christ in the bands of faith, obedience, and charity; and that they all, being in this life thy holy children by adoption and grace, may be admitted into the Church of the first-born in heaven, through the merits of thy dear Son, our Saviour and Redeemer. Amen.

[In., 1786, and om., 1792, The Minister, if he see it expedient, may conclude with a prayer extempore.]

[In., 1792, and om., 1864, Then shall the Minister conclude with extemporary prayer.]

[In., 1864, Then may the Minister offer extemporary prayer.]

Then shall be said, all kneeling :

1784.] Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, forever. Amen.

We yield thee hearty thanks, most merciful Father, that it [1786. hath pleased thee to receive this infant for thine own child by adoption, and to incorporate him into thy holy Church. And humbly we beseech thee to grant that he, being dead unto sin, and living unto righteousness, and being buried with Christ in his death, may crucify the old man, and utterly abolish the whole body of sin; and that as he is made partaker of the death of thy Son, he may also be partaker of his resurrection, so that finally, with the residue of thy holy Church, he may be an inheritor of thine everlasting kingdom, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

1784.] 553. *The Ministration of Baptism to such as are of Riper Years.

[“The Minister shall say.” changed, 1792, to The Minister shall use the following, or some other exhortation suitable to this holy office,” om., 1848.]

DEARLY BELOVED: Forasmuch as all men are conceived and born in sin; and that which is born of the flesh is flesh, and they that are in the flesh cannot please God, but live in sin, committing many actual transgressions; and our Saviour Christ saith, [“None can enter into the kingdom of God except he be regenerate and born anew of water and of the Holy Ghost,” changed, 1864, to “Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God”]: I beseech you to call upon God the Father, through our Lord Jesus Christ, that of his bounteous goodness he will grant to these persons that which by nature they cannot have; that they, being baptized with water [“and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ’s holy Church and be made,” changed, 1864, to “may also be baptized with the Holy Ghost, and being received into Christ’s holy Church, may continue] lively members of the same.

Then shall the Minister [“say,” changed, 1786, to “use as many of the following prayers as the time will permit, 1792, to “say.”]

Let us pray.

Almighty and immortal God, the aid of all that need, the helper of all that flee to thee for succor, the life of them that believe, and the resurrection of the dead: we call upon thee for these persons; that they, coming to thy holy baptism, may [“receive remission of their sins by spiritual regeneration,” changed, 1864, to “also be filled with thy Holy Spirit”]. Receive them, O Lord, as thou hast promised by thy well-beloved Son, saying, Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: so give now unto us that ask: let us that seek, find: open the gate unto us that knock; that these persons may enjoy the everlasting benediction of thy heavenly washing, and may come to the eternal kingdom which thou hast promised by Christ our Lord. Amen.

Almighty and everlasting God, who of thy great mercy [1792. didst save Noah and his family in the ark from perishing by water,

* The following are omitted by Mr. Wesley: The three introductory rubrics on preparation for baptism, an address respecting the sign of the cross, an exhortation to godfathers and godmothers, and one to the candidates, and the two concluding rubrics on confirmation and baptism of youth.

and also didst safely lead the children of Israel thy people through the Red Sea, figuring thereby thy holy baptism; and by the baptism of thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ in the river Jordan, didst [in., 1786, sanctify the element of water] [om., 1786, to the mystical washing away of sin], we beseech thee for thine infinite mercies, that thou wilt mercifully look upon these thy servants; wash them and sanctify them with the Holy Ghost; that they being delivered from thy wrath, may be received into the ark of Christ's Church; and being steadfast in faith, joyful through hope, and rooted in charity, may so pass the waves of this troublesome world, that finally they may come to the land of everlasting life; there to reign with thee world without end, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

After which he shall say:

[Om., 1786, re-in., 1792, and om., 1864, Almighty and everlasting God, heavenly Father, we give thee humble thanks for that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace and faith in thee; increase this knowledge and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to these persons that they may be born again, and be made heirs of everlasting salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and forever. Amen.]

Then shall the people stand up, and the Minister shall say:

Hear the words of the Gospel, written by St. John [ch. iii, vers. 1-8].

Then the Minister shall speak to the persons to be baptized on this wise:

Well beloved, who have come hither desiring to receive holy baptism, you have heard how the congregation hath prayed that our Lord Jesus Christ would vouchsafe to receive you, to bless you, and to give you the kingdom of heaven and everlasting life; and our Lord Jesus Christ hath promised in his holy word to grant all those things that we have prayed for, which promise he, for his part, will most surely keep and perform.

Wherefore, after this promise made by Christ, you must also faithfully, for your part, promise, in the presence of this whole congregation, that you will renounce the devil and all his works, and constantly believe God's holy word and obediently keep his commandments.

Then shall the Minister demand of each of the persons to be baptized,

Quest. Dost thou renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so that thou wilt not follow or be led by them?

Ans. I renounce them all.

Quest. Dost thou believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth? and in Jesus Christ His only-begotten Son our Lord? and that He was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary? that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried, [om., 1786, that he went down into hell]; that He rose again the third day; that He ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty, and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead ?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost, the Holy Catholic Church,* the communion of saints, the remission of sins, the resurrection of the body, and everlasting life after death ?

Ans. All this I steadfastly believe.

Quest. Wilt thou be baptized in this faith ?

Ans. This is my desire.

Quest. Wilt thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life ?

Ans. I will endeavor so to do, God being my helper.

Then shall the Minister say :

O merciful God, grant that the old Adam in these persons [1864. may be so buried that the new man may be raised in them. Amen.

O merciful God, grant that all carnal affections may die in these persons, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in them. Amen.

Grant that they may have power and strength to have victory, and triumph against the devil, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

Grant that they, being here dedicated to thee by our office and ministry, may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded, through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

Almighty, ever-living God, whose most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ, for the forgiveness of our sins, did shed out of His most precious side both water and blood, and gave commandment to His disciples that they should go teach all nations, and baptize them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: regard, we beseech thee, ["the supplications of this congregation ; (om., 1792, sanctify this water to the mystical washing away of sins,") changed, 1864, to "our supplications ;"] and grant that the persons now to be baptized may receive the fullness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful and elect children, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall the Minister take each person to be baptized by the right hand, and placing him [1864. conveniently by the foot according to his discretion, shall ask the name, and then [om., 1792, shall dip him in the water or pour water upon him, (in., 1786, or sprinkle him therewith). [in., 1792, shall sprinkle or pour water upon him (or, if he shall desire it, shall immerse him in water), saying] :

1864.] Then shall the Minister ask the name of each person to be baptized, and shall sprinkle or pour water upon him (or, if he shall desire it, shall immerse him in water), saying :

1786.] N., I baptize thee in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

1836.] * ["By the Holy Catholic Church is meant the Church of God in general," changed, 1864, to "The one universal Church of Christ."]

Then shall be said the Lord's Prayer, all kneeling.

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

[In., 1792, Then (let) may the Minister conclude with extemporary prayer.]

Seeing now, dearly beloved brethren, that these persons are [1792. grafted into the body of Christ's Church, let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits, and with one accord make our prayers unto him, that they may lead the rest of their life according to this beginning.

We yield thee humble thanks, O heavenly Father, that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace and faith in thee; increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to these persons, that being born again, and made heirs of everlasting salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, they may continue thy servants, and attain thy promises, through the same Lord Jesus Christ thy Son, who liveth and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the same Holy Spirit, everlastingly. Amen.

II.—RECEPTION OF MEMBERS.*

¶ 554. Form for Receiving Persons into the Church after Probation.

Upon the day appointed all that are to be received shall be called forward, and the Minister, addressing the congregation, shall say:

DEARLY BELOVED BRETHERN: The Scriptures teach us that the Church is the household of God, the body of which Christ is the Head, and that it is the design of the Gospel to bring together in one all who are in Christ. The fellowship of the Church is the communion that its members enjoy one with another. The ends of this fellowship are the maintenance of sound doctrine, and of the ordinances of Christian worship, and the exercise of that power of godly admonition and discipline which Christ has committed to his Church for the promotion of holiness. It is the duty of all men to unite in this fellowship, for it is only those that "be planted in the house of the Lord that shall flourish in the courts of our God." Its more particular duties are to promote peace and unity; to bear one another's burdens; to prevent each other's stumbling; to seek the intimacy of friendly society among themselves; to continue steadfast in the faith and worship of the Gospel; and to pray and sympathize with each other. Among its privileges are peculiar incitements to holiness from the hearing of God's word and sharing in Christ's ordinances, the being placed under the watchful care of Pastors, and the enjoyment of the blessings which are promised only to those who are of the household of faith. Into this holy fellowship the persons before you, who have already received the sacrament of baptism, and have been under the care of proper leaders for six months on trial, come seeking admission. We now propose, in the fear of God, to question them as to their faith and purposes, that you may know that they are proper persons to be admitted into the Church.

Then, addressing the applicants for admission, the Minister shall say :

Dearly Beloved: You are come hither seeking the great privilege of union with the Church our Saviour has purchased with his own blood. We rejoice in the grace of God vouchsafed unto you in that he has called you to be his followers, and that thus far you have run well. You have heard how blessed are the privileges, and how solemn are the duties of membership in Christ's Church; and before you are fully admitted thereto, it is proper that you do here publicly renew your vows, confess your faith, and declare your purpose, by answering the following questions:

Do you here, in the presence of God and of this congregation, renew the solemn promise contained in the baptismal covenant, ratifying and confirming the same, and acknowledging yourselves bound faithfully to observe and keep that covenant?

Ans. I do.

Have you saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ?

Ans. I trust I have.

Do you believe in the doctrines of Holy Scripture, as set forth in the Articles of Religion of the Methodist Episcopal Church?

Ans. I do.

Will you cheerfully be governed by the rules of the Methodist Episcopal Church, hold sacred the ordinances of God, and endeavor, as much as in you lies, to promote the welfare of your brethren and the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom?

Ans. I will.

Will you contribute of your earthly substance, according to your ability, to the support of the Gospel and the various benevolent enterprises of the Church?

Ans. I will.

Then the Minister, addressing the Church, shall say :

Brethren, ["you have heard the responses given to our inquiries. Have any of you reason to allege why these persons," changed, 1884, to "these persons having given satisfactory responses to our inquiries, have any of you reason to allege why they"] should not be received into full membership in the Church?

No objection being alleged, the Minister shall say to the Candidates:

We welcome you to the communion of the Church of God; and, in testimony of our Christian affection and the cordiality with which we receive you, I hereby extend to you the right hand of fellowship; and may God grant that you may be a faithful and useful member of the Church militant till you are called to the fellowship of the Church triumphant, which is "without fault before the throne of God."

Then shall the Minister offer extemporary prayer.

III.—THE LORD'S SUPPER.

1784.] ¶ 555. *Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper.

[In., 1884. Whenever practicable, let none but the pure, unfermented juice of the grape be used in administering the Lord's Supper.]

The Table at the Communion time, having a fair white Linen Cloth upon it, shall stand ["where [1792. morning and evening prayers are appointed to be said," changed 1786 to "in some convenient place"]. And the Elder, standing at the Table, shall say the Lord's Prayer, with the Collect following, the People kneeling.

The Elder shall say one or more of these sentences, [in., 1864, during the reading of which the persons appointed for that purpose shall receive the alms for the poor]: †

Matt. v, 16; vi, 19, 20; vii, 12, 21; Luke xix, 8; 2 Cor. ix, 6, 7; Gal. vi, 10; 1 Tim. vi, 6, 7, 17–19; Heb. vi, 10; xiii, 16; 1 John iii, 17; Prov. xix, 17; Psa. xli, 1; [om., 1792, 1 Cor. ix, 7, 11, 13, 14; Gal. vi, 6, 7; (om., 1786, Tobit iv, 8, 9)].

After which the elder [om., 1864, shall say] [in., 1864, shall give the following invitation, the people standing :

[In., 1864, If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous: and he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

Wherefore] ye that do truly and earnestly repent of your

*"The original order, as recommended by Mr. Wesley, differed from that of the Church of England in the following particulars: It omitted the rubric requiring communicants to signify their intention previously to the curate, and those requiring the curate to repel improper persons from the table, the first prayer for rulers; the creed, the rubric respecting the publication of notices, the verse in the offertory, taken from Tobit iv, 7; the three exhortations preparatory to communion, that part of the rubric directing the people to kneel while communing, (as well as the note in explanation of the rule,) the third prayer after the communion, all the collects at the close, and the rubrics, at the close (of which the first prescribed how much of the order was to be said when there was no communion, the second and third, when there was to be no communion; the fourth regulated the communicating of priests and deacons in cathedral and collegiate churches and colleges; the fifth prescribed the kind of bread; the sixth, what was to be done with the bread and wine that remained; the seventh, how the bread and wine were to be provided; the eighth, how often parishes should communicate and pay their ecclesiastical dues; the ninth, what was to be done with the money given at the offertory.)

Throughout, the title 'elder' is substituted for 'priest,' and 'the supreme rulers of the United States' for 'the king,' and 'to all the ministers of thy gospel' for 'to all bishops and curates.'

The 'absolution,' after the Confession, in the order of the Church of England, is an address by the priest to the people, while, in the Methodist form, it is a prayer to God.

A provision was made, which is not found in the Church of England order, for extempore prayer at the close of the communion."—Emory.

† [While these sentences are in reading, some fit person, appointed for [1864. that purpose, shall receive the alms for the poor, and other devotions of the people, in a decent basin, to be provided for that purpose; and then bring it to the elder who shall place it upon the table.]

sins, and are in love and charity with your neighbors, and intend to lead a new life, following the commandments of God, and walking from henceforth in his holy ways; draw near with faith, and take this holy sacrament to your comfort: [om., 1864, and make your humble confession to Almighty God, meekly kneeling upon your knees] [in., 1864, and, devoutly kneeling, make your humble confession to Almighty God.]

Then shall this general confession be made by the Minister in the name of all those who are minded to receive the holy communion, both he and all the people [om., 1864, meekly upon their knees] devoutly kneeling and saying:

Almighty God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Maker of all things, Judge of all men: we acknowledge and bewail our manifold sins and wickedness, which we from time to time most grievously have committed, by thought, word, and deed, against thy Divine Majesty, provoking most justly thy wrath and indignation against us. We do earnestly repent, and are heartily sorry for these our misdoings; the remembrance of them is grievous unto us. Have mercy upon us, have mercy upon us, most merciful Father; for thy Son, our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us all that is past; and grant that we may ever hereafter serve and please thee in newness of life, to the honor and glory of thy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall the Elder say:

[Om., 1868, O] Almighty God, our heavenly Father, who of thy great mercy hast promised forgiveness of sins to all them that with hearty repentance and true faith turn unto thee: have mercy upon us; pardon and deliver us from all our sins, confirm and strengthen us in all goodness, and bring us to everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Collect.

Almighty God, unto whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid; cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love thee, and worthily magnify thy holy name through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall the Elder, turning to the People, rehearse distinctly all the [1792. TEN COMMANDMENTS; and the People, still kneeling, shall, after every Commandment, ask God's Mercy for their Transgression thereof for the Time past, and Grace to keep the same for the Time to come, as followeth:

Minister.

God spake these words, and said, I am the Lord thy God: thou shalt have none other gods but me.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth. Thou shalt not bow down to them, nor worship them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, and visit the sins of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate me, and show mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath day. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all that thou hast to do; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt do no manner of work, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, thy cattle, and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt do no murder.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not steal.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and write all these thy laws in our hearts, we beseech thee.

Then shall follow this Collect:

Almighty and everlasting God, we are taught by thy holy word that the hearts of the princes of the earth are in thy rule and governance, and that thou dost dispose and turn them as it seemeth best to thy godly wisdom; we humbly beseech thee so to dispose and govern the hearts of the supreme rulers of these United States, our governors, that in all their thoughts, words, and works they may ever seek thy honor and glory, and study to preserve thy people committed to their charge, in wealth, peace, and godliness. Grant this, O merciful Father, for thy dear Son's sake, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall be said the Collect of the Day. And immediately after the Collect the Elder shall read the Epistle, saying, The Epistle [or, The Portion of Scripture appointed for the Epistle] is written in the Chapter of , beginning at the Verse. And the Epistle ended, he shall say, Here endeth the Epistle. Then shall be read the Gospel (the People all standing up), saying, The holy Gospel is written in the Chapter of _____, beginning at the Verse.

Then shall follow the Sermon.

Let us pray for the whole state of Christ's Church militant here on earth.

Almighty and ever-living God, who by thy holy apostle hast taught us to make prayers and supplications, and to give thanks for all men; we humbly beseech thee most mercifully [* to accept our alms and oblations, and] to receive these our prayers, which we offer unto thy divine Majesty; beseeching thee to inspire continually the universal Church with the spirit of truth, unity, and concord; and grant that all they that do confess thy holy name may agree in the truth of thy holy word, and live in unity and godly love. We beseech thee also to save and defend all Christian kings, princes, and governors, and especially thy servants, the supreme rulers of these United States; that under them we may be godly and quietly governed; and grant unto all that are put in authority under them, that they may truly and indifferently administer justice, to the punishment of wickedness and vice, and to the maintenance of thy true religion and virtue. Give grace, O heavenly Father, to all the ministers of thy Gospel, that they may both by their life and doctrine set forth thy true and lively word, and rightly and duly administer thy holy sacraments. And to all thy people give thy heavenly grace, and especially to this congregation here present, that with meek heart and due reverence they may hear and receive thy holy word, truly serving thee in holiness and righteousness all the days of their life. And we most humbly beseech thee of thy goodness, O Lord, to comfort and succor all them who, in this transitory life, are in trouble, sorrow, need, sickness, or any other adversity. And we also bless thy holy name for all thy servants departed this life in thy faith and fear; beseeching thee to give us grace so to follow their good examples, that with them we may be partakers of thy heavenly kingdom. Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake, our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

Then shall the Elder say :

We do not presume to come to this thy table, O merciful Lord, trusting in our own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. We are not worthy so much as to gather up the crumbs under thy table. But thou art the same Lord, whose property is always to have mercy: Grant us, therefore, gracious Lord, so to eat the flesh of thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and to drink His blood ["that our sinful bodies may be made clean by his body, and our souls washed through his most precious blood;" changed, 1792, to "that our sinful souls and bodies may be made clean by his death, and washed through his most precious blood and;" changed, 1864, to "that we may live and grow thereby; and that, being washed through His most precious blood,"] we may evermore dwell in Him, and He in us. Amen.

Then, all standing, the Elder shall say :

Hear what comfortable words our Saviour Christ saith unto all that truly turn to him:

Come unto me, all ye that are burdened and heavy laden, and I will refresh you. Matt. xi, 28.

So God loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, to the end that all that believe in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii, 16.

Hear also what St. Paul saith :

This is a true saying, and worthy of all men to be received, That Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. 1 Tim. i, 15.

Hear also what St. John saith :

If any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous ; and he is the propitiation for our sins. 1 John ii, 1, 2.

After which the Elder shall proceed, saying :

Lift up your hearts.

Ans. We lift them up unto the Lord.

Elder. Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.

Ans. It is meet and right so to do.

Here shall follow the proper Preface, according to the Time, if there be any especially appointed ; or else immediately shall follow :

The prefaces were inserted as follows :

Upon Christmas Day.

Because thou didst give Jesus Christ thine only Son to be born as at this time for us, who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man, and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from all sin. Therefore with angels, etc.

Upon Easter Day.

But chiefly we are bound to praise thee for the glorious resurrection of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord, for he is the very Paschal Lamb which was offered for us, and hath taken away the sin of the world, who by his death hath destroyed death, and by his rising to life again hath restored to us everlasting life. Therefore with angels, etc.

Upon Ascension Day.

Through thy most dearly beloved Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, who, after his most glorious resurrection, manifestly appeared to all his apostles, and in their sight ascended up into heaven to prepare a place for us, that where he is thither we might also ascend, and reign with him in glory. Therefore with angels, etc.

Upon Whitsunday.

Through Jesus Christ our Lord ; according to whose most true promise the Holy Ghost came down, as at this time, from heaven with a sudden great sound, as it had been a mighty wind, in the likeness of fiery tongues, lighting upon the apostles, to teach them, and to lead them into all truth, giving them both the gift of divers languages, and also boldness, with fervent zeal, constantly to preach the Gospel unto all nations, whereby we have been brought out of darkness and error into the clear light and true knowledge of thee, and of thy Son Jesus Christ. Therefore with angels, etc.

Upon the Feast of Trinity.

Who art one God, one Lord ; not one only person, but three persons in one substance. For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality. Therefore with angels, etc.

 Then shall the Elder, kneeling down at the Table, say in the Name of all them that shall receive the Communion, this Prayer following; the People also kneeling:*

Then the Elder shall say the Prayer of Consecration, as followeth:

Almighty God, our heavenly Father, who of thy tender mercy didst give thine only Son Jesus Christ to suffer death upon the cross for our redemption; who made there, by His oblation of Himself once offered, a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction for the sins of the whole world; and did institute, and in His holy Gospel command us to continue, a perpetual memory of His precious death until his coming again: hear us, O merciful Father, we most humbly beseech thee, and grant that we, receiving these [in., 1864, "memorials of the sufferings and death of our Saviour Jesus Christ," changed, 1868, for the old form thus: "thy creatures of bread and wine, according to thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ's holy institution, in remembrance of His death and passion,"] may be partakers of His most blessed body and blood; who, in the same night that he was betrayed, took bread;* and when He had given thanks, He broke it, and gave it to His disciples, saying, Take, eat; this is my body which is given for you; do this in remembrance of me.

* Here the Elder may take the p'ste of bread into his hand.

Likewise after supper He took† the cup; and when He had given thanks, He gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of this; for this is my blood of the New Testament, which is shed for you, and for many, for the remission of sins; do this, as oft as ye shall drink it, in remembrance of me. Amen.

† Here he may take the cup in his hand.

Then shall the Minister receive the Communion in both kinds, and proceed to deliver the same to the other Ministers, (if any be present:) ["in like manner and after that to the people also in order, into their hands. And when he delivereth the bread," changed, 1864, to "after which"] he shall say:

It is very meet, right, and our bounden duty, that we should at all times, and in all places, give thanks unto thee, O Lord, holy Father, almighty, everlasting God.

Therefore with angels and archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious name, evermore praising thee, and saying, Holy, holy, holy Lord God of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory. Glory be to thee, O Lord most high. Amen.

The Minister shall then proceed to administer the communion to the people in order, [in., 1868, kneeling,] into their uncovered hands. And when he delivereth the bread, he shall say:

The body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy soul and body unto everlasting life. Take and eat this in remembrance that Christ died for thee, and feed on him in thy heart by faith with thanksgiving.

And the Minister that delivereth the cup shall say :

The blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee, preserve thy soul and body unto everlasting life. Drink this in remembrance that Christ's blood was shed for thee, and be thankful.

[If the consecrated bread or wine be all spent before all have communed, the Elder may consecrate more by repeating the prayer of consecration.]

[When all have communed, the Minister shall return to the Lord's table, and place upon it what remaineth of the consecrated elements covering the same with a fair linen cloth.]

Then shall the Elder say the Lord's Prayer, the people kneeling and repeating after him every petition.

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

After which shall be said as followeth :

O Lord our heavenly Father, we thy humble servants desire thy Fatherly goodness mercifully to accept this our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving; most humbly beseeching thee to grant that, by the merits and death of thy Son Jesus Christ, and through faith in his blood, we and thy whole Church may obtain remission of our sins, and all other benefits of his ["passion," changed, 1864, to "death;" om., 1863, and original restored.] And here we offer and present unto thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy, and lively sacrifice unto thee: humbly beseeching thee that all we who are partakers of this holy communion may be filled with thy grace and heavenly benediction. And although we be unworthy, through our manifold sins, to offer unto thee any sacrifice, yet we beseech thee to accept this our bounden duty and service; not weighing our merits, but pardoning our offenses, through Jesus Christ our Lord; by whom, and with whom, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, all honor and glory be unto thee, O Father Almighty, world without end. Amen.

Then shall be said [in., 1863, or sung]:

Glory be to God on high, and on earth peace, good-will toward men. We praise thee, we bless thee, we worship thee, we ["glorify thee, we give thanks unto thee," changed, 1864, to "adore thee," original restored 1863,] for thy great glory, O Lord God, heavenly King, God the Father Almighty.

O Lord, the only begotten Son Jesus Christ; O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer. Thou that sittest at the right hand of God the Father, have mercy upon us, [In., 1864, "and receive us at last, through the riches of thy grace into the joy of thine eternal kingdom, where we may reign with thee, world without end." changed, 1868, to "For thou only art holy; thou only art the Lord; thou only, O Christ, with the Holy Ghost, art most high in the glory of God the Father]. Amen.

Then the Elder, if he see it expedient, may put up an extemporary prayer, and afterward shall let the people depart with this blessing:

May the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord; and the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be among you, and remain with you always. Amen.

1792.] N. B. If the Elder be straitened for time he may omit any part of the service except the Invitation, the Confession, and the prayer of Consecration; [in., 1884: and in its administration to the Sick he may omit any part of the service except the Confession, the Prayer of Consecration, and the usual sentences in delivering the Bread and Wine, closing with the Lord's Prayer, extempore supplication, and the Benediction.]

IV.—MATRIMONY.

1784.] ¶ 556. Form for the Solemnization of Matrimony.*

First, the banns of all that are to be married together must be published in the congregation [1864. three several Sundays in the time of divine service, ["unless a license be procured from the proper authorities" changed, 1792, "unless they be otherwise qualified according to law"], the Minister saying after the accustomed manner:

I PUBLISH the banns of marriage between M. of ———, and N. of ———. If any of you know cause or just impediment why these two persons should not be joined together in holy matrimony, ye are to declare it. This is the first [second or third] time of asking.

[In., 1864, The parts in brackets throughout may be used or not at discretion].

At the day and time appointed for the solemnization of matrimony, the persons to be married—having been qualified according to law—standing together, the man on the right hand, and the woman on the left, the Minister shall say:

DEARLY BELOVED: We are gathered together here in the sight of God, and in ["the face of this congregation," changed, 1792, to "the presence of these witnesses"], to join together this man and this woman in holy matrimony, which is an honorable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocency, signifying unto us the mystical union that is between Christ and his Church, which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence, and first miracle that he wrought in Cana of Galilee, and is commended of St. Paul to be honorable among all men; and therefore is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly [om., 1792, lightly or wantonly to satisfy men's carnal lusts and appetites like brute beasts that have no understanding], but reverently, discreetly, [om., 1864, advisedly.] and in the fear of God, duly considering the causes for which matrimony was ordained [1792.

First. It was ordained for the procreation of children, to be brought up in the fear and nurture of the Lord, and to the praise of his holy name.

Secondly. It was ordained for a remedy against sin, and to avoid fornication, that such persons as have not the gift of continency might marry, and keep themselves undefiled members of Christ's body.

Thirdly. It was ordained for the mutual society, help, and comfort that the one ought to have of the other both in prosperity and adversity.

Into which holy estate these two persons present come now to be joined. Therefore if any one can show just cause why they may not lawfully be joined together let him now speak, or else hereafter forever hold his peace.

And also speaking unto the persons that are to be married, he shall say :

I require and charge you both [om., 1864, as you will answer at the dreadful day of Judgment, when the secrets of all hearts shall be disclosed.] that if either of you know any impediment why you may not be lawfully joined together in matrimony you do now confess it, for be ye well assured that so many as are coupled together otherwise than God's word doth allow, are not joined together by God, neither is their matrimony lawful.

If no impediment be alleged, then shall the Minister say unto the man :

M., wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor, and keep her in sickness and in health, and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her so long as ye both shall live?

The man shall answer :

I will.

Then shall the Minister say unto the woman :

N., wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony? Wilt thou [om., 1864, obey him, serve him], love, honor, and keep him in sickness and in health, and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto him so long as ye both shall live?

The woman shall answer :

I will.

Then the Minister shall cause the man with his right hand to take the woman by her right hand, and to say after him as followeth :

I, M., take thee, N., to be my wedded wife, to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, [om., 1864, and to obey] till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance; and thereto I plight thee my faith.

Then shall they loose their hands, and the woman with her right hand taking the man by his right hand, shall likewise say after the Minister :

I. N., take thee, M., to be my wedded husband, to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death do us part, according to God's holy ordinance; and thereto I plight thee my faith.

Then shall the Minister say :

O eternal God, Creator and Preserver of all mankind, Giver of all spiritual grace, the Author of everlasting life, send thy blessing upon these thy servants, this man and this woman, whom we bless in thy name; that as Isaac and Rebecca lived faithfully together, so these persons may surely perform and keep the vow and covenant between them made, and may ever remain in perfect love and peace together, and live according to thy laws, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

1864.] If the parties desire it, the man shall here hand a ring to the Minister, who shall return it to him, and direct him to place it on the third finger of the woman's left hand. And the man shall say to the woman, repeating after the Minister :

With this ring I thee wed, and with my worldly goods I thee endow, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

1784.] Then shall the Minister join their right hands together, and say :

Forasmuch as M. and N. have consented together in holy wedlock, and have witnessed the same before God and this company, and thereto have pledged their faith either to other, and have declared the same by joining of hands, I pronounce that they are husband and wife together, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Amen.

And the Minister shall add this blessing :

God, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, bless, preserve, and keep you; the Lord mercifully with his favor look upon you, and so fill you with all spiritual benediction and grace, that ye may so live together in this life that in the world to come ye may have life everlasting. Amen.

Then shall the Minister offer the following prayer :

O God of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Jacob, bless this man and this woman, and sow the seed of eternal life in their hearts, that whatsoever in thy holy word they shall profitably learn, they may indeed fulfill the same. Look, O Lord, mercifully on them from heaven, and bless them: as thou didst send thy blessings upon Abraham and Sarah, to their great comfort, so vouchsafe to send thy blessings upon this man and this woman, that they, obeying thy will, and always being in safety under thy protection, may abide in thy love unto their lives' end, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Almighty God, who at the beginning didst create our first parents, Adam and Eve, and didst sanctify and join them together in marriage, pour upon these persons the riches of thy grace, sanctify and bless them, that they may please thee both in body and soul, and live together in holy love unto their lives' end. Amen.

O God, who by thy mighty power hast made all things of [1864. nothing, who also (after other things set in order) didst appoint that out of man (created after thine own image and similitude) woman should take her beginning, and knitting them together, didst teach that it should never be lawful to put asunder those whom thou, by matrimony, hadst made one; O God, who hast consecrated the state of matrimony to such an excellent mystery that in it is signified and represented the spiritual marriage and unity between Christ and his Church: look mercifully upon ["these thy servants," changed, 1792, to "this man and this woman,"] that this man may love his wife according to thy word (as Christ did love his spouse, the Church, who gave himself for it, loving and cherishing it even as his own flesh), and also that this woman may be loving and amiable, faithful and obedient to her husband, and in all quietness, sobriety, and peace, be a follower of holy and godly matrons. O Lord, bless them both, and grant them to inherit thy everlasting kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Here the Minister may use extemporary prayer.

Then shall the Minister say:

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Answer. Christ, have mercy upon us.

Minister. Lord, have mercy upon us.

Then the Minister shall say:

1784.] Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save thy servant and thy handmaid:

Answer. And let them put their trust in thee.

Minister. O Lord, send them help from thy holy place.

Answer. And evermore defend them.

Minister. Be unto them a tower of strength.

Answer. From the face of their enemy.

Minister. O Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

This prayer next following shall be omitted where the Woman is past child-bearing.

O merciful Lord and heavenly Father, by whose gracious gift mankind is increased, we beseech thee assist with thy blessing these two persons, that they may both be fruitful in the procreation of children, and also live together so long in godly love and honesty, that they may see their children Christianly and virtuously brought up, to thy praise and honor, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Communion of the Sick.

The Collect.

Almighty, ever-living God, Maker of mankind, who dost correct those whom thou dost love, and chastise every one whom thou dost receive, we beseech thee to have mercy upon this thy servant visited with thine hand and to grant that he may take his sickness patiently and recover his bodily health if it be thy gracious will, and that whenever his soul shall depart from the body, it may be without spot presented unto thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Heb. xii, 5, 6.

My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him; for whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

The Gospel. John v, 24.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.

After which the Elder shall proceed according to the form before prescribed for the holy communion, beginning at these words, [Ye that do truly, etc.]

At the time of the distribution of the holy sacrament the Elder shall first receive the communion himself, and after minister unto them that are appointed to communicate with the sick, and last of all to the sick person.

V.—BURIAL OF THE DEAD.*

¶ 557. Form for the Burial of the Dead.

[In., 1792, and om., 1843, N. B. The following or some other solemn service shall be used.]

The Minister, going before the corpse, shall say:

I am the resurrection, etc. John xi, 25, 26; Job xix, 25-27; i, 21; 1 Tim. vi, 7.

1868.] In the house or church may be read one or both of the following psalms, or some other suitable portion of Scripture:

Psalm xxxix; Psalm xc.

Then may follow the reading of the Epistle, as follows:

1 Cor. xv, 41-58, [om., 1792, Psa. xix; 1 Cor. xi, 20 to the end.]

1784.] At the grave, when the corpse is laid in the earth, the Minister shall say:

Man that is born of a woman hath but a short time to live, and is full of misery. He cometh up, and is cut down like a flower: he fleeth as it were a shadow, and never continueth in one stay.

*The Sunday Service omits the first rubric, forbidding the office to the excommunicated and unbaptized; the thirty-ninth psalm; the words to be spoken while the earth is cast upon the body, and the prayer following the Lord's Prayer.

In the midst of life we are in death: of whom may we seek for succor, but of thee, O Lord, who for our sins art justly displeas'd ?

Yet, O Lord God, most holy, O Lord most mighty, O holy and most merciful Saviour, deliver us not into the bitter pains of eternal death.

Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets of our hearts; shut not thy merciful ears to our prayers, but spare us, Lord most holy, O God most mighty, O holy and merciful Saviour, thou most worthy Judge eternal, suffer us not at our last hour for any pains of death to fall from thee.

1864.] Then, while the earth shall be cast upon the body by some standing by, the Minister shall say :

Forasmuch as it hath pleased Almighty God, in his wise providence, to take out of the world the soul of the departed, we therefore commit his body to the ground; earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; looking for the general resurrection in the last day, and the life of the world to come, through our Lord Jesus Christ; at whose second coming in glorious majesty to judge the world, the earth and the sea shall give up their dead; and the corruptible bodies of those who sleep in him shall be changed and made like unto his own glorious body, according to the mighty working whereby he is able to subdue all things unto himself.*

1784.] Then shall be said.

I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, From henceforth blessed are the dead who die in the Lord: Even so, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors.

Then shall the Minister say :

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Then the Minister may offer this Prayer:

Almighty God, with whom do live the spirits of those who depart hence in the Lord, and with whom the souls of the faithful, after they are delivered from the burden of the flesh, are in joy and felicity, we give thee hearty thanks for the good examples of all those thy servants, who, having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labors. And we beseech thee, that we, with all those who are departed in the true faith of thy holy name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in thy eternal and everlasting glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen. †

* Taken from the Prayer Book.

† Taken from the Prayer Book, 1584.

The Collect.

O merciful God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the resurrection and the life, in whom whosoever believeth shall live, though he die, and whosoever liveth and believeth in him shall not die eternally; we meekly beseech thee, O Father, to raise us from the death of sin unto the life of righteousness, that when we shall depart this life we may rest in him; and at the general resurrection on the last day may be found acceptable in thy sight, and receive that blessing which thy well-beloved Son shall then pronounce to all that love and fear thee, saying, Come, ye blessed children of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world. Grant this, we beseech thee, O merciful Father, through Jesus Christ our Mediator and Redeemer. Amen.

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost; be with us all evermore. Amen.

★ 1784.] VI.—ORDINATION.

[“The form and manner of making and ordaining of (“Superintendents,” changed, 1792, to “Bishops,,” Elders, and Deacons,” changed, 1843, to “Forms of Ordination;” 1872, to “Ordination”].

¶ 558. The Form of [“ordaining,” changed, 1864, to “Consecrating”]

Bishops.

[In., 1884. This service is not to be understood as an ordination to a higher Order in the Christian Ministry, beyond and above that of Elders or Presbyters, but as a solemn and fitting Consecration for the special and most sacred duties of Superintendency in the Church.]

The Collect.

Almighty God, who by thy Son Jesus Christ didst give to thy holy apostles, elders, and evangelists many excellent gifts, and didst charge them to feed thy flock; give grace, we beseech thee, to all the ministers and pastors of thy Church, that they may diligently preach thy word and duly administer the godly discipline thereof; and grant to the people that they may obediently follow the same; that all

*The form of the English Church was, “The form and manner of making, ordaining, and consecrating of Bishops, Priests, and Deacons.” In the Sunday Service Superintendent is invariably used for Bishop, and Elder for Priest. The English rubric forbade the ordaining “if any great crime,” etc.; the Sunday Service omits “great.”

may receive the crown of everlasting glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall be read by one of the Elders

The Epistle. Acts xx, 17-35.

Then another [om., 1804, Elder] shall read,

The Gospel. John xxi, 15-17. Or this: Matt. xxviii, 18-20.

After the Gospel and the Sermon are ended, the elected person shall be presented by two Elders unto the Bishop, saying:

We present unto you this ["godly," changed, 1808, to "holy"] man to be ["ordained," changed, 1864, to "consecrated"] a Bishop.

Then the Bishop shall move the congregation present to pray, saying thus to them:

Brethren, it is written in the Gospel of St. Luke that our Saviour Christ continued the whole night in prayer before he did choose and send forth his twelve apostles. It is written also in the Acts of the Apostles that the disciples who were at Antioch did fast and pray before they laid hands on Paul and Barnabas, and sent them forth on their first mission to the Gentiles. Let us, therefore, following the example of our Saviour Christ and his apostles, first fall to prayer before we admit and send forth this person presented to us to the work whereunto we trust the Holy Ghost hath called him.

Then shall be said this prayer following:

Almighty God, giver of all good things, who by thy Holy Spirit hast appointed ["divers orders of ministers," changed, 1864, to "divers offices"] in thy Church: mercifully behold this thy servant now called to the work and ministry of a Bishop, and replenish him so with the truth of thy doctrine, and adorn him with innocency of life, that both by word and deed he may faithfully serve thee in this office, to the glory of thy name, and the edifying and well governing of thy Church, through the merits of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee, and the Holy Ghost, world without end. Amen.

Then the Bishop shall say to him that is to be ["ordained," changed, 1864, to "consecrated"]:

Brother, forasmuch as the Holy Scripture commands that we should not be hasty in laying on hands, and admitting any person to government in the Church of Christ, which he hath purchased with no less price than the ["effusion," changed, 1864, to "shedding"] of his own blood: ["before I admit you to this administration. I will examine you on certain articles, to the end that the congregation present may have a trial, and bear witness how you are minded to behave yourself in the Church of God," changed, 1864, to "before you are admitted to this administration, you will, in the fear of God, give answer to the questions which I now propound"]:

Are you persuaded that you are truly called to this ministration, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ?

Answer. I am so persuaded.

The Bishop. Are you persuaded that the Holy Scriptures contain sufficiently all doctrine required of necessity for eternal salvation, through faith in Jesus Christ? And are you determined, out of the same Holy Scriptures, to instruct the people committed to your charge, and to teach or maintain nothing as required of necessity to eternal salvation but that which you shall be persuaded may be concluded and proved by the same?

Answer. I am so persuaded and determined, by God's grace.

The Bishop. Will you then faithfully exercise yourself in the same Holy Scriptures, and call upon God by prayer for the true understanding of the same, so that you may be able by them to teach and exhort with wholesome doctrine, and to withstand and convince the gainsayers?

Answer. I will do so, by the help of God.

The Bishop. Are you ready with faithful diligence to banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrines contrary to God's word, and both privately and openly to call upon and encourage others to the same?

Answer. I am ready, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you deny all ungodliness and worldly lust, and live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world, that you may show yourself in all things an example of good works unto others, that the adversary may be ashamed, having nothing to say against you?

Answer. I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you maintain and set forward, as much as shall lie in you, quietness, love, and peace among all men: and such as shall be unquiet, disobedient, and criminal, [om., 1864, within your District,] correct and punish according to such authority as you have by God's word, and as shall be committed unto you?

Answer. I will so do, by the help of God.

The Bishop. Will you be faithful in ordaining, or laying hands upon and sending others, [in., 1864, and in all the other duties of your office?]

Answer. I will so be, by the help of God.

The Bishop. Will you show yourself gentle, and be merciful, for Christ's sake, to poor and needy people, and to all strangers destitute of help?

Answer. I will so show myself, by God's help.

Then the Bishop shall say,

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, who hath given you a good will to do all these things, grant also unto us strength and power to perform the same; that he accomplishing in you the good work which he hath begun, you may be found ["perfect and irreprehensible," changed, 1864, to "blameless"] at the last day, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall Veni, Creator Spiritus, be said.

Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,
And lighten with celestial fire.
 Thou the anointing Spirit art,
Who dost thy sevenfold gifts impart.
 Thy blessed unction from above
Is comfort, life, and fire of love.
 Enable with perpetual light
The dullness of our blinded sight ;
 Anoint and cheer our soiled face
With the abundance of thy grace ;
 Keep far our foes, give peace at home ;
Where thou art Guide, no ill can come.
 Teach us to know the Father, Son,
And thee of both to be but one ;
 That through the ages all along,
This may be our endless song :
 Praise to thy eternal merit,
Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

That ended, the Bishop shall say,

Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Bishop.

Let us pray.

Almighty God and most merciful Father, who of thine infinite goodness hast given thine only and dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ to be our Redeemer, and the author of everlasting life; who after that he had made perfect our redemption by his death, and was ascended into heaven, poured down his gifts abundantly upon men, making some apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, some pastors, and ["doctors," changed, 1864, to "teachers,"] to the edifying and making perfect of his Church: grant, we beseech thee, to this thy servant, such grace that he may evermore be ready to spread abroad thy Gospel, the glad tidings of reconciliation with thee, and use the authority given him, not to destruction, but to salvation; not to hurt, but to help; so that as a wise and faithful servant, giving to the family their portion in due season, he may at last be received into everlasting joy, through Jesus Christ our Lord, who, with thee and the Holy Ghost, liveth and reigneth, one God, world without end. Amen.

Then the Bishop and Elders present shall lay their hands upon the head of the elected person, kneeling before them, the Bishop saying :

[“Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a bishop in the Church of God now committed unto thee by the imposition of our hands, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.—Amen. And remember that thou stir up the grace of God which is given thee by this imposition of our hands; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and love, and soberness,” changed, 1864, to “The Lord pour upon thee the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a Bishop in the Church of God now committed unto thee by the authority of the Church through the imposition of our hands, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen. And remember that thou stir up the grace of God which is in thee; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and love, and of a sound mind”].

Then the Bishop shall deliver him the Bible, saying,

Give heed unto reading, exhortation, and doctrine. Think upon the things contained in this book. Be diligent in them, that the increase coming thereby may be manifest unto all men. Take heed unto thyself, and to thy doctrine; for by so doing thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee. Be to the flock of Christ a shepherd, not a wolf: feed them, devour them not. Hold up the weak, heal the sick, bind up the broken, bring again the outcast, seek the lost, be so merciful that you may not be too remiss; so minister discipline that you forget not mercy; that when the chief Shepherd shall appear, you may receive the never-fading crown of glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

[Then the Bishop shall administer the Lord’s Supper, (“with whom the newly ordained Bishop and other persons present shall communicate,” changed, 1864, to “to the newly consecrated Bishop and other persons present.”)]

[“Immediately before the benediction,” changed, 1864, to “Then”] shall be said the following prayers :

Most merciful Father, we beseech thee to send down upon this thy servant thy heavenly blessing, and so endue him with thy holy Spirit, that he, preaching thy word, [in., 1864, and exercising authority in thy Church,] may not only be earnest to reprove, beseech, and rebuke with all patience and doctrine, but also may be to such as believe a wholesome example in word, in conversation, in love, in faith, [om., 1864, in chastity,] and in purity: that faithfully fulfilling his course, at the last day he may receive the crown of righteousness laid up by the Lord, the righteous Judge, who liveth and reigneth, one God with the Father and the Holy Ghost, world without end. Amen.

Prevent us, O Lord, in all our doings with thy most gracious favor, and further us with thy continual help, that in all our works begun, continued, and ended in thee, we may glorify thy holy name; and finally, by thy mercy, obtain everlasting life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord; and the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be among you, and remain with you always. Amen.

¶ 559. *The Form [om., 1864, and Manner] of Ordaining Elders.

[When the day appointed by the Bishop is come, [om., 1792, after the morning prayer is ended,] there shall be a sermon or exhortation, declaring the duty and office of such as come to be admitted Elders; how necessary that order is in the Church of Christ, and also how the people ought to esteem them in their office.]

After which, one of the Elders shall present unto the Bishop all them that are to be ordained, and say,

I present unto you these persons to be ordained Elders.

Then their names being read aloud, the Bishop shall say unto the people,

["Good people," changed, 1792, to "Brethren"], these are they whom we purpose, God willing, this day to ordain Elders. For after due examination, we find not to the contrary, but that they are lawfully called to this function and ministry, and that they are persons meet for the same. But if there be any of you who knoweth any crime or impediment in any of them, for the which he ought not to be received into this holy ministry, let him come forth in the name of God, and show what the crime or impediment is.

[If any crime or impediment be objected, the Bishop shall surcease from ordaining that person until such time as the party accused shall be found clear of the same].

Then shall be said the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel, as followeth :

The Collect.

Almighty God, giver of all good things, who by thy Holy Spirit hast appointed divers orders of ministers in thy Church; mercifully behold these thy servants now called to the office of Elders, and replenish them so with the truth of thy doctrine, and adorn them with innocency of life, that both by word and good example they may faithfully serve thee in this office, to the glory of thy name, and the edification of thy Church, through the merits of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Eph. iv, 7-13; John x, 1-16.

And that done, the Bishop shall say unto them as hereafter followeth :

You have heard, brethren, in your private examination, [om., 1864, "as in the exhortation which was now made to you,"] and in the holy lessons taken out of the Gospel and the writings of the apostles, of what dignity and of how great importance this office is whereunto ye are called. And now again we exhort you, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye have in remembrance into how high a dignity and to how weighty an office ye are called: that is to say, to be messengers, watchmen, and stewards, of the Lord; to teach and to premonish, to feed, and provide for, the Lord's family; ["to seek for Christ's sheep that are dispersed abroad, and for his children who are in the midst of this evil world, that they may be saved through Christ forever;" changed, 1864, to "to gather the outcasts, to seek the lost, and to be ever ready to spread abroad the Gospel, the glad tidings of reconciliation with God."]

Have always therefore printed in your remembrance how great a treasure is committed to your charge. For they are the sheep of Christ, which he bought with his death, and for whom he shed his blood. The Church [om., 1864, and congregation] whom you must serve is his spouse and his body. And if it shall happen, the same Church, or any member thereof, do take any hurt or hinderance by reason of your negligence, ye know the greatness of the fault, and also the ["horrible" 1880 "fearful"] punishment that will ensue. Wherefore consider with yourselves the end of the ministry toward the children of God, toward the spouse and body of Christ; and see that you never cease your labor, your care and diligence, until you have done all that lieth in you, according to your bounden duty, to bring all such as are or shall be committed to your charge, unto that agreement in the faith and knowledge of God, and to that ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ, that there be no place left among you either for error in religion or for viciousness in life.

Forasmuch then as your office is both of so great excellency, and of so great difficulty, ye see with how great care and study ye ought to apply yourselves, as well that ye may show yourselves dutiful and thankful unto that Lord who hath placed you in so high a dignity; as also to beware that neither you yourselves offend, nor be occasion that others offend. Howbeit ye cannot have a mind and will thereto of yourselves; for that will and ability is given of God alone; therefore ye ought, and have need, to pray earnestly for his Holy Spirit. And seeing that ye cannot by any other means compass the doing of so weighty a work, pertaining to the salvation of man, but with doctrine and exhortation taken out of the Holy Scriptures, and with a life agreeable to the same; consider how studious ye ought to be in reading and learning the Scriptures, and in framing the manners, both of yourselves and of them that specially pertain unto you, according to the rule of the same Scriptures; and for this self-same cause, how ye ought to forsake and set aside (as much as you may) all worldly cares and studies.

We have good hope that you have all weighed and pondered these things with yourselves long before this time: and that you have clearly determined, by God's grace, to give yourselves wholly to this office, whereunto it hath pleased God to call you: so that, as much as lieth in you, you will apply yourselves wholly to this one thing, and draw all your cares and studies this way, and that you will continually pray to God the Father, by the mediation of our only Saviour Jesus Christ, for the heavenly assistance of the Holy Ghost; that by daily reading and weighing of the Scriptures, ye may wax riper and stronger in your ministry; and that ye may so endeavor to sanctify the lives of you and yours, and to fashion them after the rule and doctrine of Christ, that ye may be wholesome and godly examples and patterns for the people to follow.

And now that this present congregation of Christ, here assembled, may also understand your minds and wills in these things, and that this your promise may the more move you to do your duties: ye shall answer plainly to these things which we, in the name of God and his Church, shall demand of you touching the same.

Do you think in your heart that you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, to the order of Elders?

Answer. I think so.

The Bishop. Are you persuaded that the Holy Scriptures contain sufficiently all doctrine required of necessity for eternal salvation through faith in Jesus Christ? And are you determined out of the said Scriptures to instruct the people committed to your charge, and to teach nothing as required of necessity to eternal salvation, but that which you shall be persuaded may be concluded and proved by the Scriptures?

Answer. I am so persuaded, and have so determined, by God's grace.

The Bishop. Will you then give your faithful diligence always so to minister the doctrine and sacraments, and discipline of Christ, as the Lord hath commanded?

Answer. I will do so, by the help of the Lord.

The Bishop. Will you be ready with all faithful diligence to banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrines contrary to God's word; and to use both public and private monitions and exhortations, as well to the sick as to the whole within your ["district," changed, 1864, to charge], as need shall require and occasion shall be given?

Answer. I will, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you be diligent in prayers, and in reading of the Holy Scriptures, and in such studies as help to the knowledge of the same, laying aside the study of the world and the flesh?

Answer. I will endeavor so to do, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you be diligent to frame and fashion yourselves, and your families, according to the doctrine of Christ: and to make both yourselves and them, as much as in you lieth, wholesome examples and patterns to the flock of Christ?

Answer. I will apply myself thereto, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you maintain and set forward, as much as lieth in you, quietness, peace, and love among all Christian people, and especially among them that are or shall be committed to your charge?

Answer. I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you reverently obey your chief ministers, unto whom is committed the charge and government over you; following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions, submitting yourselves to their godly judgments?

Answer. I will do so, the Lord being my helper.

Then shall the Bishop, standing up, say:

Almighty God, who hath given you this will to do all these things, grant also unto you strength and power to perform the same, that he may accomplish his work which he hath begun in you, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

[After this the congregation shall be desired secretly in their prayers to make their humble supplications to God for all these things, for the which prayers there shall be silence kept for a space].

After which shall be said by the Bishop (the persons to be ordained Elders all kneeling). Veni, Creator Spiritus, the Bishop beginning, and the Elders and others that are present answering by verse, as followeth:

Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,
And lighten with celestial fire.

Thou the anointing Spirit art,
Who dost thy sevenfold gifts impart.
 Thy blessed unction from above
Is comfort, life, and fire of love.
 Enable with perpetual light
The dullness of our blinded sight.
 Anoint and cheer our soiled face
With the abundance of thy grace.
 Keep far our foes, give peace at home;
Where thou art Guide no ill can come.
 Teach us to know the Father, Son,
And thee of both to be but one ;
 That through the ages all along,
This may be our endless song :
 Praise to thy eternal merit,
Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

That done, the Bishop shall pray in this wise, and say :

Let us pray.

Almighty God and heavenly Father, who of thine infinite love and goodness toward us hast given to us thy only and most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ to be our Redeemer, and the author of everlasting life; who after he had made perfect our redemption by his death, and was ascended into heaven, sent abroad into the world his apostles, prophets, evangelists ["doctors," changed, 1564, to teachers], and pastors, by whose labor and ministry he gathered together a great flock in all parts of the world, to set forth the eternal praise of thy holy name: for these so great benefits of thy eternal goodness, and for that thou hast vouchsafed to call these thy servants here present to the same office and ministry appointed for the salvation of mankind, we render unto thee most hearty thanks: we praise and worship thee; and we humbly beseech thee by the same, thy blessed Son, to grant unto all who either here or elsewhere call upon thy name, that we may continue to show ourselves thankful unto thee for these, and all other thy benefits, and that we may daily increase and go forward in the knowledge and faith of thee and thy Son, by the Holy Spirit. So that as well by these thy ministers, as by them over whom they shall be appointed thy ministers, thy holy name may be forever glorified, and thy blessed kingdom enlarged, through the same, thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord: who liveth and reigneth with thee in the unity of the same Holy Spirit, world without end. Amen.

When this prayer is done, the Bishop, with the Elders present, shall lay their hands severally upon the head of every one that receiveth the order of Elders; the receivers humbly kneeling upon their knees, and the Bishop saying:

["Receive the Holy Ghost for the office," etc., changed, 1792, to "The Lord pour upon thee the Holy Ghost for the office and work of an Elder in the Church of God, now committed unto thee by (in., 1864, the authority of the Church through) the imposition of our hands. And be thou a faithful dispenser of the word of God, and of his holy sacraments; in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."]

Then the Bishop shall deliver to every one of them, kneeling, the Bible into his hands, saying:

Take thou authority as an Elder in the Church, to preach the word of God, and to administer the holy sacraments in the congregation.

Then the Bishop shall say:

Most merciful Father, we beseech thee to send upon these thy servants thy heavenly blessings, that they may be clothed with righteousness, and that thy word spoken by their mouths may have such success that it may never be spoken in vain. Grant also that we may have grace to hear and receive what they shall deliver out of thy most holy word, or agreeably to the same, as the means of our salvation; and that in all our words and deeds we may seek thy glory, and the increase of thy kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Prevent us, O Lord, in all our doings, with thy most gracious favor, and further us with thy continual help; that in all our works, begun, continued, and ended in thee, we may glorify thy holy name, and finally, by thy mercy, obtain everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. And the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be among you, and remain with you always. Amen.

. [If on the same day the order of Deacons be given to some, and that of Elders to others, the Deacons shall be first presented, and then the Elders. The Collects shall both be used, first that for Deacons, then that for Elders. The Epistle shall be Ephes. iv, 7-13, as before in this office, immediately after which they that are to be ordained Deacons shall be examined and ordained as is above prescribed. Then one of them having read the Gospel, which shall be St. John x, 1-16, as before in this office, they that are to be ordained Elders shall likewise be examined and ordained, as in this office before appointed.]

¶ 560. The Form ["and Manner of Making of," changed, 1864, to "of Ordaining"] Deacons.*

[When the day appointed by the Bishop is come [om., 1792, after the morning prayer is ended,] there shall be a sermon or exhortation, declaring the duty and office of such as come to be admitted Deacons.]

After which one of the Elders shall present unto the Bishop the persons to be ordained Deacons, and their names being read aloud, the Bishop shall say unto the people:

BRETHREN, if there be any of you who knoweth any crime or impediment in any of these persons presented to be ordained Deacons, for the which he ought not to be admitted to that office, let him come forth in the name of God, and show what the crime or impediment is.

[If any crime or impediment be objected, the Bishop shall surcease from ordaining that person until such time as the party accused shall be found clear of the same.]

Then shall be read the following Collect and Epistle:

The Collect.

Almighty God, who by thy Divine Providence hast appointed divers orders of ministers in thy Church, and didst inspire thy apostles to choose into the order of deacons thy first martyr, St. Stephen, with others: mercifully behold these thy servants, now called to the like office and administration; replenish them so with the truth of thy doctrine, and adorn them with innocency of life, that both by word and good example they may faithfully serve thee in this office to the glory of thy name, and the edification of thy Church, through the merits of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, now and forever. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Tim. iii, 8-13.

Then shall the Bishop examine every one of those who are to be ordained, in the presence of the people, after this manner following:

Do you trust that you are inwardly moved by the Holy Ghost to take upon you ["this office and ministration," changed, 1792, to "the office of the ministry"] in the Church of Christ, to serve God for the promoting of his glory and the edifying of his people?

Answer. I trust so.

* The address of the Bishop to the Archdeacon, and the reply, the passage from Acts vi, 2-7, the oath of supremacy, and the closing rubric on the qualifications for the priesthood, are omitted by Mr. Wesley. The English form directs "the New Testament" to be given the ordained Deacon, the Sunday Service, and "the Holy Bible."

In 1786 a rubric was inserted directing the Superintendent, in saying the litany, to insert a petition for the candidates, which was omitted in 1792.

The Bishop. Do you unfeignedly believe all the canonical Scriptures of the Old and New Testament?

Answer. I do believe them.

The Bishop. Will you diligently read [in., 1792, or expound] the same unto the people whom you shall be appointed to serve?

Answer. I will.

The Bishop. It appertaineth to the office of a Deacon to assist the Elder in divine service. And especially when he ministereth the Holy Communion, to help him in the distribution thereof, and to read and expound the Holy Scriptures; to instruct the youth, and [om., 1864, in the absence of the Elder] to baptize. And furthermore, it is his office to search for the sick, poor, and impotent, that they may be visited and relieved. Will you do this gladly and willingly?

Answer. I will do so, by the help of God.

The Bishop. Will you apply all your diligence to frame and fashion your own lives (and the lives of your families) according to the doctrine of Christ, and to make (both) yourselves (and them), as much as in you lieth, wholesome examples of the flock of Christ?

Answer. I will do so, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop. Will you reverently obey them to whom the charge and government over you is committed, following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions?

Answer. I will endeavor so to do, the Lord being my helper.

[Om., 1792, The Superintendent.

Do you think that you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, to the ministry of the Church?

Ans. I think so.]

Then the Bishop, laying his hands severally upon the head of every one of them, shall say:

Take thou authority to execute the office of a Deacon in the Church of God; in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Then shall the Bishop deliver to every one of them the Holy Bible, saying:

Take thou authority to read the Holy Scriptures in the Church of God, and to preach the same.

Then one appointed by the Bishop shall read the Gospel.

Luke xii, 35-38.

Immediately before the benediction shall be said these Collects following:

Almighty God, Giver of all good things, who of thy great goodness hast vouchsafed to accept and take these thy servants into the office of Deacons in thy Church, make them, we beseech thee, O Lord, to be modest, humble, and constant in their ministration, and to have a ready will to observe all spiritual discipline; that they having always the testimony of a good conscience, and continuing ever stable and strong in thy Son Christ, may so well behave themselves in this inferior office that they may be found worthy to be called into the higher ministries in thy Church, through the same, thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ; to whom be glory and honor, world without end. Amen.

Prevent us, O Lord, in all our doings, with thy most gracious favor, and further us with thy continual help; that in all our works, begun, continued, and ended in thee, we may glorify thy holy name, and finally, by thy mercy, obtain everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. And the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be among you, and remain with you always. Amen.

VII.—LAYING A CORNER-STONE.*

¶ 561. Form for Laying the Corner-Stone of a Church.

The Minister, standing near the place where the stone is to be laid, shall say unto the congregation:

DEARLY BELOVED, We are taught in the word of God that, although the heaven of heavens cannot contain the Eternal One, much less the walls of temples made with hands, yet his delight is ever with the sons of men, and that wherever two or three are gathered in his name, there is he in the midst of them. And in all ages his servants have separated certain places for his worship: as Jacob erected a stone in Bethel for God's house; as Moses made a tabernacle in the desert; as Solomon builded a temple for the Lord, which he filled with the glory of his presence before all the people. We are now assembled to lay the corner-stone of a new house for the worship of the God of our fathers. Let us not doubt that he will favorably approve our godly purpose, and let us now devoutly unite in singing his praise, and in prayer for his blessing on this our undertaking.

Let one of the hymns 959-963 be sung.

* This form was introduced in 1864.

Then shall the Minister say,

Let us pray.

Most glorious God, the heaven is thy throne and the earth is thy footstool; what house then can be builded for thee, or where is the place of thy rest? Yet, blessed be thy name, O Lord God, that it hath pleased thee to have thy habitation among the sons of men, and to dwell in the midst of the assembly of the saints upon the earth. And now, especially, we render thanks unto thy holy name that it hath pleased thee to put it into the hearts of thy servants to erect in this place a house for thy worship. We thank thee for thy grace which has inclined them to contribute of their substance for the glory of thy name: and we pray thee to continue thy blessing upon their pious undertaking. Amen.

May many unite with them in their holy work, until this habitation of thy house shall be completed, and ready for dedication to thy service, free from all debt or claim of man. Amen.

May peace and harmony prevail in the counsels of thy servants, and may no selfish or divided aims find place among them. May the work of this building be completed without hurt or accident to any person. And when thou shalt have prospered the work of their hands upon them, and this house shall be prepared and finished for thy service, grant that all who shall enjoy the benefit of this pious work may show forth their thankfulness by making a right use of it, to the glory of thy blessed name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Grant that all who shall hereafter worship thee in the temple here to be builded, may so serve and please thee in all holy exercises of godliness, that in the end they may come to that temple on high, even to the holy places made without hands, whose builder and maker is God. Amen.

Hear us, O Lord, for thou art our God in whom we trust. And when we shall cease to pray unto thee on earth, may we, with all those who in like manner have erected such places to thy name, and with all thy saints and redeemed ones, eternally praise thee for all thy goodness vouchsafed unto us here on earth and laid up for us there in heaven. Amen.

Accept these our prayers, we beseech thee, for the sake of thy dear Son; and to thee, the only true and living God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, be honor, praise, and glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

Then shall the Minister read the following Psalm, or the Minister and people may read it in alternate verses; the parts in italics to be read by the people:

Psalm cxxxii.

The Lesson. 1 Cor. iii, 9-23.

Then shall follow the Sermon, or an Address suitable to the occasion, after which the contributions of the people shall be received.

Then shall the Minister, standing by the stone, exhibit to the Congregation a box to be placed in an excavation of the stone. It may contain a copy of the Bible, the Hymn Book, the Discipline, the Church Almanac for the year, Church periodicals of recent date, the names of the Pastor, Trustees, and Building Committee of the Church, with such other documents as may be desired. A list of these may be read, after which the Minister may deposit the box in the stone and cover it; and the stone shall be laid and adjusted by the Minister, assisted by the builder.

Then shall the Minister say:

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, we lay this corner-stone for the foundation of a house to be builded and consecrated to the service of Almighty God, according to the order and usages of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Amen.

The service may conclude with extemporary prayer, the Lord's Prayer, and the Benediction.

VIII.—DEDICATION OF A CHURCH.

¶ 562. *Form for the Dedication of a Church.

The Congregation, being assembled in the Church, the Minister shall say:
 DEARLY BELOVED: The Scriptures teach us that God is well pleased with those who build temples to his name. We have heard how he filled the temple of Solomon with his glory, and how in the second temple he manifested himself still more gloriously. And the Gospel approves and commends the centurion who built a synagogue for the people. Let us not doubt that he will also favorably approve our purpose of dedicating this place in solemn manner, for the performance of the several offices of religious worship; and let us now devoutly join in praise to his name, that this godly undertaking hath been so far completed, and in prayer for his further blessing upon all who have been engaged therein, and upon all who shall hereafter worship his name in this place.

Let one of the hymns 964-971 be sung, and extemporary prayer be offered, the congregation all kneeling.

Then shall the Minister, or some one appointed by him, read
The First Lesson. 2 Chron. vi, 1, 2, 18-21, 40-42; vii, 1-4.

Second Lesson. Heb. x, 19-26.

* Inserted 1864.

Then shall one of the hymns 964-971 be sung; after which the Minister shall deliver a Sermon suitable to the occasion; after which the contributions of the people shall be received.

Then shall the Minister read the following Psalm, or the Minister and the Congregation may read it alternately; the parts in italics to be read by the Congregation:

Psalm cxxii.

Then let the Trustees stand up before the altar, and one of them, or some one in their behalf, say unto the Minister:

We present unto you this building, to be dedicated as a church for the service and worship of Almighty God.

Then shall the Minister request the Congregation to stand while he repeats the following DECLARATION.

DEARLY BELOVED: It is meet and right, as we learn from the Holy Scriptures, that houses erected for the public worship of God should be specially set apart and dedicated to religious uses. For such a dedication we are now assembled. With gratitude, therefore, to Almighty God, who has signally blessed his servants in their holy enterprise of erecting this church, we dedicate it to his service, for the reading of the Holy Scriptures, the preaching of the word of God, the administration of the holy sacraments, and for all other exercises of religious worship and service, according to the discipline and usages of the Methodist Episcopal Church. And, as the dedication of the temple is vain without the solemn consecration of the worshipers also, I now call upon you all to dedicate yourselves anew to the service of God. To him let our souls be dedicated, that they may be renewed after the image of Christ. To him let our bodies be dedicated, that they may be fit temples for the indwelling of the Holy Ghost. To him may our labors and business be dedicated, that their fruit may tend to the glory of his great name and to the advancement of his kingdom. And that he may graciously accept this solemn act, let us pray.

The Congregation kneeling, the Minister shall offer the following prayer:

O most glorious Lord, we acknowledge that we are not worthy to offer unto thee any thing belonging unto us; yet we beseech thee, in thy great goodness, graciously to accept the dedication of this place to thy service, and to prosper this our undertaking; receive the prayers and intercessions of all those thy servants who shall call upon thee in this house; and give them grace to prepare their hearts to serve thee with reverence and godly fear; affect them with an awful appre-nension of thy divine majesty, and a deep sense of their own unworthiness; that so approaching thy sanctuary with lowliness and devotion, and coming before thee with clean thoughts and pure hearts, with bodies undefiled and minds sanctified, they may always perform a service acceptable to thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Regard, O Lord, the supplications of thy servants, and grant that whosoever shall be dedicated to thee in this house by baptism may ever remain in the number of thy faithful children. Amen.

Grant, O Lord, that whosoever shall receive in this place the blessed sacrament of the body and blood of Christ, may come to that holy ordinance with faith, charity, and true repentance; and being filled with thy grace and heavenly benediction, may, to their great and endless comfort, obtain remission of their sins, and all other benefits of his death. Amen.

Grant, O Lord, that by thy holy word, which shall be read and preached in this place, and by thy Holy Spirit grafting it inwardly in the heart, the hearers thereof may both perceive and know what things they ought to do, and may have power and strength to perform the same. Amen.

Now, therefore, arise, O Lord, and come unto this place of thy rest, thou and the ark of thy strength. Let thine eye be open toward this house day and night; and let thine ears be ready toward the prayers of thy children which they shall make unto thee in this place: and whensoever thy servants shall make to thee their petitions here, do thou hear them from heaven, thy dwelling-place, the throne of the glory of thy kingdom; and when thou hearest, forgive. And grant, O Lord, we beseech thee, that here and elsewhere thy ministers may be clothed with righteousness, and thy saints rejoice in thy salvation. And may we all, with thy people everywhere, grow up into a holy temple in the Lord, and be at last received into the glorious temple above; the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. And to the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit, be glory and praise, world without end. Amen.

The services to conclude with a Doxology and Benediction.

APPENDIX.

EXTRACTS FROM THE NOTES TO THE DISCIPLINE, BY DR. COKE AND BISHOP ASBURY.

THE fact has already been noticed, that Dr. Coke and Bishop Asbury appended explanatory notes to the Discipline of 1796. These consisted partly of Scripture proofs of the doctrines and rules of the church, and partly of expositions of the Discipline. The latter, constituting about two-thirds of the whole, are inserted in this Appendix, under their respective heads. The bishops themselves disclaimed having any authority "to make laws or regulations," much less can their notes be regarded in that light, now that the Discipline has been considerably modified. But they are still interesting and important, as containing the views of the first bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church respecting its discipline at that time, and also, as having been prepared at the request of the General Conference of 1796, and having received the implied sanction of the General Conference of 1800, which directed that they should be printed in such a manner that they could be conveniently bound up with the Form of Discipline. — EMORY.

"SECTION I.

"Of the Origin of the Methodist Episcopal Church."

"It cannot be needful in this country to vindicate the right of every Christian society to possess, within itself, all the privileges necessary or expedient for the comfort, instruction, or good government of the members thereof. The two sacraments of baptism and the Lord's supper have been allowed to be essential to the formation of a Christian church, by every party and denomination in every age and country of Christendom, with the exception only of a single modern society: and ordination by the imposition of hands has been allowed to be highly expedient, and has been practised as universally as the former. And these two points as above described, might, if need were, be confirmed by the Scriptures, and by the unanimous testimony of all the primitive fathers of the church for the three first centuries; and, indeed, by all the able divines who have written on the subject in the different languages of the world down to the present times

“ The only point which can be disputed by any sensible person, is the episcopal form which we have adopted ; and this can be contested by candid men, only from their want of acquaintance with the history of the church. The most bigoted devotees to religious establishments (the clergy of the Church of Rome excepted) are now ashamed to support the doctrine of the apostolic, uninterrupted succession of bishops. Dr. Hoadley, bishop of Winchester, who was, we believe, the greatest advocate for episcopacy whom the Protestant churches ever produced, has been so completely overcome by Dr. Calamy, in respect to the uninterrupted succession, that the point has been entirely given up. Nor do we recollect that any writer of the Protestant churches has since attempted to defend what all the learned world at present know to be utterly indefensible.

“ And yet nothing but an apostolic, uninterrupted succession, can possibly confine the right of episcopacy to any particular church. The idea, that the supreme magistrate, or legislature of a country, ought to be the head of the church in that nation, is a position, which, we think, no one here will presume to assert. It follows, therefore, indubitably, that every church has a right to choose, if it please, the episcopal plan.

“ The late Rev. John Wesley recommended the episcopal form to his societies in America ; and the General Conference, which is the chief synod of our church, unaniously accepted of it. Mr. Wesley did more. He first consecrated one for the office of a bishop, that our episcopacy might descend from himself. The General Conference unaniously accepted of the person so consecrated, as well as of Francis Asbury, who had for many years before exercised every branch of the episcopal office, excepting that of ordination. Now, the idea of an apostolic succession being exploded, it follows, that the Methodist Church has every thing which is Scriptural and essential to justify its episcopacy. Is the unanious approbation of the chief synod of a church necessary ? This it has had. Is the ready compliance of the members of the church with its decision, in this respect, necessary ? This it has had, and continues to have. Is it highly expedient, that the fountain of the episcopacy should be respectable ? This has been the case. The most respectable divine since the primitive ages, if not since the time of the apostles, was Mr. Wesley. His knowledge of the sciences was very extensive. He was a general scholar : and for any to call his learning in question, would be to call their own. On his death the literati of England bore testimony to his great character. And where has been the individual so useful in the spread of religion ? But in this we can appeal only to the lovers of vital godliness. By his long and incessant labours he raised a multitude of societies, who looked up to him for direction ; and certainly his directions in things lawful, with the full approbation of the people, were sufficient to give authenticity to what was accordingly done. He was peculiarly attached to the laws and customs of the church in the primitive times of Christianity. He knew, that the primitive churches universally followed the episcopal plan: and indeed Bishop Hoadley has demonstrated that the episcopal plan was universal till the time of the Reformation. Mr. Wesley therefore preferred the episcopal form of church government; and God has (glory be to his name!) wonderfully blessed it among us."

"But in all we have observed on this subject, we by no means intend to speak disrespectfully of the Presbyterian Church, or of any other: we only desire to defend our own from the unjust calumnies of its opponents."

"SECTION III.

"Of the General and Yearly Conferences."

"Our societies are scattered over a vast country, extending about fourteen hundred miles from north to south, and from five to eight hundred from east to west. We could not, therefore, in justice to the work of God, nor from the state of our finances, hold our General Conferences oftener than once in four years. If they were more frequent, the long absence of so many ministers from their respective circuits and districts would be an irreparable loss to the societies and congregations. Nor do we think, that the nature of a religious constitution renders it necessary to revise more frequently the regulations by which it is governed. But there are various particulars, which do not come under the name of laws, which require more frequent assemblies or conferences for their consideration. The admission of preachers on trial and into full connection, the ordination of elders and deacons, the examination of the characters of the ministers and preachers, and the stationing of them all, as well as the management of the fund for the superannuated preachers, &c., are points of the first moment, and call for frequent meetings. On this account, the General Conference has appointed yearly conferences, divided in the best manner they were able; to be composed, as far as possible, of at least one bishop—the president elder of each district within the control of those conferences, respectively—the elders, deacons, and the preachers in full connection. These men, who have been travelling the preceding year among all the societies in those districts and circuits, respectively, can give the fullest, the completest information on all the subjects which come under the cognizance of the yearly conferences.

"But it may be asked, Why are not delegates sent to these conferences from each of the circuits? We answer, It would utterly destroy our itinerant plan. They would be concerned chiefly, if not only, for the interests of their own constituents

They could not be expected, from the nature of things, to make the necessary sacrifices, and to enter impartially into the good of the whole. They would necessarily endeavour to obtain the most able and lively preachers for their respective circuits, without entering, perhaps at all, into that enlarged, apostolic spirit, which would endeavour, whatever might be the sacrifice, to make all things tally. The difference of gifts in the ministers, and the opposing interests of the delegates, would produce conflicts of a pernicious tendency; and, in many instances, improper means would be used for obtaining the desired point. Frequently the delegates, if unsuccessful in their application for their favourite preacher, would probably make him secret offers to settle among them; and if unsuccessful in every point, and the preacher, appointed for them and their constituents, was not agreeable to their wishes, they might grow indignant, and, through resentment, and by their unfavourable reports, on their return, might cause a separation from the general body. And those who imagine this to be a mere chimera, show, we think, but little knowledge of human nature: they do not consider how easily and powerfully the heated passions would plead in favour of a settled ministry—how easily disappointment and jealousy would present the purest and most disinterested conduct in the most unfavourable light: to say nothing of the labour and expense of such a plan. While, on the other hand, the present members who compose our conferences, who know not, when they meet, what may be their next sphere of action, and are willing to run anywhere on the errands of their Lord, are not nearly as much exposed to the temptations mentioned above.*

“The following portions of the word of God are pointed in support of the itinerant plan for the propagation of the gospel; which plan renders most of the regulations contained in this section essential to the existence of our united society: Matt. x, 5–11, ‘These twelve [apostles] Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go—to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, inquire,’ &c.

“* We are very far from making these remarks out of any disrespect to our located brethren. On the contrary, we are very conscious that many of them equal any of us, and perhaps much exceed us in grace and wisdom. We have made these observations only on account of their located situation, well knowing that our people would on no occasion choose any for their delegates who were not wise and good men. But such is the nature of man, and perhaps such is the duty of man, that he will always prefer the people for whom he acts, and to whom he is responsible, before all others. We should, probably, act in the same manner ourselves, if we were delegates for a single circuit or district.”

Matt. xxii, 8–10, ‘Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy. Go ye, therefore, into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage. So those servants went out into the highways,’ &c. Matt. xxviii, 19, ‘Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations,’ be as extensively useful as possible. Mark vi, 7–12, ‘And he calleth unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two,—and commanded them that they should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only.—And he said unto them, In what place soever ye enter into a house, there abide, till ye depart from that place.—And they went out, and preached that men should repent.’ Luke x, 1–9, ‘After these things, the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.—And into whatsoever house ye enter,’ says our Lord to them, ‘first say, Peace be to this house.—And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you,—say unto them, The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.’ Luke xiv, 23, ‘And the Lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.’ Acts viii, 4, ‘They that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word.’ Acts viii, 40, ‘Philip—preached in all the cities, till he came to Cesarea.’ Acts xvi, 36, ‘Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord,’ &c.

“We have already shown, that Timothy and Titus were travelling bishops. In short, every candid person, who is thoroughly acquainted with the New Testament, must allow, that whatever excellences other plans may have, this is the primitive and apostolic plan. But we would by no means speak with disrespect of the faithful located ministers of any church. We doubt not, but, from the nature and circumstances of things, there must have been many located ministers in the primitive churches: and we must acknowledge, with gratitude to God, that the located brethren in our church are truly useful and of considerable consequence, in their respective stations. But, on the other hand, we are so conscious of the vast importance of the travelling plan, that we are determined, through the grace of God, to support it to the utmost of our power; nor will any plea which can possibly be urged, however plausible it may appear, or under whatever name proposed, induce us to make the least sacrifice in this respect, or, by the introduction of any novelty, to run the least hazard of wounding that plan, which God has so wonderfully owned, and which is so perfectly consistent with the apostolic and primitive practice.

“We will now humbly beg leave to drop a few hints (for laws or regulations we have no authority to make) as explanatory of those words in the introduction to this section, ‘It is desired.

that every person speak freely whatever is in his heart :’ and we propose them the more readily, as they are extracted from the Minutes drawn up by our elder brethren, the members of the British Conference :—

“ 1. Be tender of the character of every brother ; but keep at the utmost distance from countenancing sin.

“ 2. Say nothing in the conference but what is strictly necessary, and to the point.

“ 3. If accused by any one, remember recrimination is no acquittance ; therefore avoid it.

“ 4. Beware of impatience of contradiction ; be firm ; but be open to conviction. The cause is God’s, and he needs not the hands of an Uzzah to support his ark. The being too tenacious of a point, because you brought it forward, may be only feeding self. Be quite easy, if a majority decide against you.

“ 5. Use no craft or guile to gain any point. Genuine simplicity will always support itself. But there is no need always to say all you know or think.

“ 6. Beware of too much confidence in your own abilities ; and never despise an opponent.

“ 7. Avoid all lightness of spirit, even what would be innocent anywhere else.—Thou, God, seest me.

“ The appointment of the times for holding the yearly conferences must necessarily be invested in the bishops, otherwise they cannot possibly form their plans for travelling through the continent, so that they may be enabled to attend each of the conferences. But the right of fixing the places rests with the conferences.

“ We cannot omit noticing, before we conclude this section, the strict examination which the characters of the preachers pass through, in the yearly conferences. When that eminent saint of God, and great writer, John Fletcher, was once present, in the British Conference, at the examination of the characters, he seemed astonished, and expressed his surprise and approbation in very strong terms. The examination is equally strict in all the conferences throughout the connection. And we know of no church where the purity of the morals, the orthodoxy of the doctrines, and the usefulness of the lives and labours of the ministers, (for all these are included in the examination,) are more strictly attended to than in ours.

“ In respect to the division of the continent, for the purpose of holding the yearly conferences, we may observe, that for several years the annual conferences were very small, consisting only of the preachers of a single district, or of two or three very small ones. This was attended with many inconveniences :—1. There were but few of the senior preachers, whose years and experience had matured their judgments, who could be present at any one conference. 2. The conferences wanted that dignity which every religious synod should possess, and which always accompanies a large assembly of gospel ministers. 3. The itinerant plan was exceedingly cramped, from the difficulty of removing preachers from one district to another. All these inconveniences will, we trust, be removed on the present plan; and at the same time the conferences are so arranged, that all the members, respectively, may attend with little difficulty.

“To all which may be added, that the active, zealous, unmarried preachers, may move on a larger scale, and preach the ever-blessed gospel far more extensively through the sixteen states, and other parts of the continent; while the married preachers, whose circumstances require them, in many instances, to be more located than the single men, will have a considerable field of action opened to them; and also the bishops will be able to attend the conferences with greater ease, and without injury to their health.

“The regulation concerning those who are to attend the conferences is made, that our societies and congregations may be supplied with preaching during the conferences. We would, therefore, wish to have a few of the travelling preachers among our dear flocks at those times. But as we desire to make the conferences as respectable and weighty as possible, we can spare none at those important seasons, except the preachers upon trial. They, also, will be absent from the yearly conferences only for one year, as they must be present on the second to be admitted into full connection.”

“SECTION IV.

‘Of the Election and Consecration of Bishops, and of their Duty.”

“In considering the present subject, we must observe, that nothing has been introduced into Methodism by the present episcopal form of government, which was not before fully exercised by Mr. Wesley. He presided in the conferences; fixed the appointments of the preachers for their several circuits; changed, received, or suspended preachers wherever he judged that necessity required it; travelled through the European connection at large; superintended the spiritual and temporal business: and consecrated two bishops, Thomas Coke and Alexander Mather, one before the present episcopal plan took place in America, and the other afterward, besides ordaining elders and deacons. But the authority of Mr. Wesley and that of the bishops in America differ in the following important points:—

“1. Mr. Wesley was the patron of all the Methodist pulpits in Great Britain and Ireland for life, the sole right of nomination being invested in him by all the deeds of settlement, which gave nim exceeding great power. But the bishops in America possess no such power. The property of the preaching-houses is invested in the trustees; and the right of nomination to the pulpits, in the General Conference—and in such as the General Conference shall, from time to time, appoint. This division of power in favour of the General Conference was absolutely necessary. Without it the itinerant plan could not exist for any long continuance. The trustees would probably, in many instances, from their located situation, insist upon having their favourite preachers stationed in their circuits, or endeavour to prevail on the preachers themselves to locate among them, or choose some other settled minister for their chapels. In other cases, the trustees of preaching-houses in different circuits would probably insist upon having the same popular or favourite preachers.* Here, then, lies the grand difference between Mr. Wesley's authority, in the present instance, and that of our American bishops. The former, as (under God) the father of the connection, was allowed to have the sole, legal, independent nomination of preachers to all the chapels: the latter are entirely dependent on the General Conference.

“ But why, may it be asked, does the General Conference lodge the power of stationing the preachers in the episcopacy? We answer, On account of their entire confidence in it. If ever, through improper conduct, it loses that confidence in any considerable degree, the General Conference will, upon evidence given, in a proportionable degree, take from it this branch of its authority. But if ever it evidently betrays a spirit of tyranny or partiality, and this can be proved before the General Conference, the whole will be taken from it: and we pray God, that in such case the power may be invested in other hands! And alas! who would envy any one the power? There is no situation in which a bishop can be placed, no branch of duty he can possibly exercise, so delicate, or which so exposes him to the jealousies

“* We must repeat nearly the same observations concerning trustees, which we have in our notes on the last section, concerning the sending of delegates to our conferences. We have a great respect for our trustees. We consider them as men to whom the connection is greatly obliged. They fill up an important province in our church and have a claim to a high rank among us. Humanly speaking, the work could not be carried on without them to any extent in the cities and towns. Their responsibility for the debts of our buildings, and the disinterestedness which must necessarily influence them when they make themselves responsible, lay our societies under very great obligations. We both love and honour them. But still they are located men. They cannot be expected to act impartially for the whole. They will think it their duty, and perhaps it is their duty, to prefer the interests of their own congregations to any other. We should probably act in the same manner in their situation.”

not only of false but of true brethren, as this. The removal of preachers from district to district, and from circuit to circuit, very nearly concerns them, and touches their tenderest feelings: and it requires no small portion of grace for a preacher to be perfectly contented with his appointment, when he is stationed in a circuit where the societies are small, the rides long, and the fare coarse. Any one, therefore, may easily see, from the nature of man, that though the bishop has to deal with some of the best of men, he will sometimes raise himself opposers, who, by rather overrating their own abilities, may judge him to be partial in respect to their appointments: and these circumstances would weigh down his mind to such a degree, as those who are not well acquainted with the difficulties which necessarily accompany public and important stations among mankind, can hardly conceive.

“May we not add a few observations concerning the high expediency, if not necessity, of the present plan. How could an itinerant ministry be preserved through this extensive continent, if the yearly conferences were to station the preachers? They would, of course, be taken up with the sole consideration of the spiritual and temporal interests of that part of the connection, the direction of which was intrusted to them. The necessary consequence of this mode of proceeding would probably, in less than an age, be the division of the body and the independence of each yearly conference. The conferences would be more and more estranged from each other for want of a mutual exchange of preachers; and that grand spring, the union of the body at large, by which, under divine grace, the work is more and more extended through this vast country, would be gradually weakened, till at last it might be entirely destroyed. The connection would no more be enabled to send missionaries to the western states and territories, in proportion to their rapid population. The grand circulation of ministers would be at an end, and a mortal stab given to the itinerant plan. The surplus of preachers in one conference could not be drawn out to supply the deficiencies of others, through declensions, locations, deaths, &c., and the revivals in one part of the continent could not be rendered beneficial to the others. Our grand plan, in all its parts, leads to an itinerant ministry. Our bishops are travelling bishops. All the different orders which compose our conferences are employed in the travelling line; and our local preachers are, in some degree, travelling preachers. Every thing is kept moving as far as possible; and we will be bold to say, that, next to the grace of God, there is nothing like this for keeping the whole body alive from the centre to the circumference, and for the continual extension of that circumference on every hand. And we verily believe, that if our episcopacy should, at any time, through tyrannical or immoral conduct, come under the severe censure of the General Conference, the members thereof would see it highly for the glory of God to preserve the present form, and only to change the men.

“2. Mr. Wesley, as the venerable founder (under God) of the whole Methodist society, governed without any responsibility whatever; and the universal respect and veneration of both the preachers and people for him made them cheerfully submit to this: nor was there ever, perhaps, a mere human being who used so much power better, or with a purer eye to the Redeemer’s glory, than that blessed man of God. But the American bishops are as responsible as any of the preachers. They are perfectly subject to the General Conference. They are indeed conscious that the conference would neither degrade nor censure them, unless they deserved it. They have, on the one hand, the fullest confidence in their brethren; and, on the other, esteem the confidence which their brethren place in them, as the highest earthly honour they can receive.

“But this is not all. They are subject to be tried by seven elders and two deacons, as prescribed above, for any immorality, or supposed immorality; and may be suspended by two-thirds of these, not only from all public offices, but even from being private members of the society, till the ensuing General Conference. This mode subjects the bishops to a trial before a court of judicature, considerably inferior to that of a yearly conference. For there is not one of the yearly conferences which will not, probably, be attended by more presiding elders, elders and deacons, than the conference which is authorized to try a bishop, the yearly conferences consisting of from thirty to sixty members. And we can, without scruple, assert, that there are no bishops of any other episcopal church upon earth who are subject to so strict a trial as the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America. We trust, they will never need to be influenced by motives drawn from the fear of temporal or ecclesiastical punishments, in order to keep from vice: but if they do, may the rod which hangs over them have its due effect: or may they be expelled the church, as ‘salt which hath lost its savour, and is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out, and trodden under foot of men.’

“3. Mr. Wesley had the entire management of all the conference funds and the produce of the books. It is true, he expended all upon the work of God, and for charitable purposes; and rather than appropriate the least of it to his own use, refused, even when he was about seventy years of age, to travel in a carriage, till his friends in London and Bristol entered into a private subscription for the extraordinary expense. That great man of God might have heaped up thousands upon thousands, if he had been so inclined; and yet he died worth nothing but a little pocket money, ‘he horses and the carriage in which he travelled, and the clothes he wore. But our American bishops have no probability of being rich. For not a cent of the public money is at their disposal: the conferences have the entire direction of the whole. Their salary is sixty-four dollars a year; and their travelling expenses are also defrayed. And with this salary they are to travel about six thousand miles a year, 'in much patience,' and sometimes 'in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, in labours, in watchings, in fastings,' through 'honour and dishonour, evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true; as unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and, behold,' they 'live; as chastened, and not killed; as sorrowful, yet alway rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things;' and, we trust, they can each of them through grace say, in their small measure, with the great apostle, that 'they are determined not to know any thing, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified; yea, doubtless, and count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus their Lord: for whom they have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung that they may win Christ.'

"We have drawn this comparison between our venerable father and the American bishops, to show to the world that they possess not, and, we may add, they aim not to possess that power which he exercised and had a right to exercise, as the father of the connection; that, on the contrary, they are perfectly dependent; that their power, their usefulness, themselves, are entirely at the mercy of the General Conference, and, on the charge of immorality, at the mercy of two-thirds of the little conference of nine.

"To these observations we may add, 1. That a branch of the episcopal office, which, in every episcopal church upon earth, since the first introduction of Christianity, has been considered as essential to it, namely, the power of ordination, is singularly limited in our bishops. For they not only have no power to ordain a person for the episcopal office till he be first elected by the General Conference, but they possess no authority to ordain an elder or a travelling deacon till he be first elected by a yearly conference; or a local deacon, till he obtain a testimonial, signifying the approbation of the society to which he belongs, countersigned by the general stewards of the circuit, three elders, three deacons, and three travelling preachers. They are, therefore, not under the temptation of ordaining through interest, affection, or any other improper motive; because it is not in their power so to do. They have, indeed, authority to suspend the ordination of an elected person, because they are answerable to God for the abuse of their office, and the command of the apostle, 'Lay hands suddenly on no man,' is absolute: and we trust, where conscience was really concerned, and they had sufficient reason to exercise their power of suspension, they would do it even to the loss of the esteem of their brethren, which is more dear to them than life; yea, even to the loss of their usefulness in the church, which is more precious to them than all things here below. But every one must be immediately sensible, how cautious they will necessarily be, as men of wisdom, in the exercise of this suspending power. For unless they had such weighty reasons for the exercise of it, as would give some degree of satisfaction to the conference which had made the election, they would throw themselves into difficulties, out of which they would not be able to extricate themselves, but by the meek and wisest conduct, and by reparation to the injured person.

“2. The bishops are obliged to travel till the General Conference pronounces them worn out or superannuated: for that certainly is the meaning of the answer to the sixth question of this section. What a restriction? Where is the like in any other episcopal church? It would be a disgrace to our episcopacy to have bishops settled on their plantations here and there, evidencing to all the world, that instead of breathing the spirit of their office, they could, without remorse, lay down their crown, and bury the most important talents God has given to men! We would rather choose that our episcopacy should be blotted out from the face of the earth, than be spotted with such disgraceful conduct! All the episcopal churches in the world are conscious of the dignity of the episcopal office. The greatest part of them endeavour to preserve this dignity by large salaries, splendid dresses, and other appendages of pomp and splendour. But if an episcopacy has neither the dignity which arises from these worldly trappings, nor that infinitely superior dignity which is the attendant of labour, of suffering and enduring hardship for the cause of Christ, and of a venerable old age, the concluding scene of a life devoted to the service of God, it instantly becomes the disgrace of a church and the just ridicule of the world!

“Some may think, that the mode of travelling which the bishops are obliged to pursue, is attended with little difficulty, and much pleasure. Much pleasure they certainly do experience, because they know that they move in the will of God, and that the Lord is pleased to own their feeble labours. But if to travel through the heat and the cold, the rain and the snow, the swamps and the rivers, over the mountains and through the wilderness, lying for nights together on the bare ground and in log-houses, open to the wind on every side, fulfilling their appointments, as far as possible, whatever be the hinderance,—if these be little difficulties, then our bishops have but little to endure.

“We have already quoted so many texts of Scripture in defence of episcopacy and the itinerant plan, that we need only refer our reader to the notes on the first and third sections. The whole tenor of St. Paul’s epistles to Timothy and Titus clearly evidences, that they were invested, on the whole, with abundantly more power than our bishops ; nor does it appear that they were responsible to any but God and the apostle. The texts quoted in the notes on the third section, in defence of the itinerant plan, we would particularly recommend to the reader's attention ; as we must insist upon it, that the general itinerancy would not probably exist for any length of time on this extensive continent, if the bishops were not invested with that authority which they now possess. They alone travel through the whole connection, and therefore have such a view of the whole, as no yearly conference can possibly have.

“ One bishop, with the elders present, may consecrate a bishop who has been previously elected by the General Conference. This is agreeable to the Scriptures. We read, 2 Tim. i, 6, ‘ I put thee in remembrance, that thou stir up the gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of my hands :’ here we have the imposition of the hands of the apostle. Again, we read, 1 Tim. iv, 14, ‘ Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery :’ here we have the laying on of the hands of the elders. And by comparing both passages, it is evident that the imposition of hands was, both in respect to the apostle and the elders, for the same gift. Nor is the idea, that three bishops are necessary to consecrate a bishop, grounded on any authority whatever, drawn from the Scriptures, or the practice of the apostolic age.

“ The authority given to, or rather declared to exist in, the General Conference, that in case there shall be no bishop remaining in the church, they shall elect a bishop, and authorize the elders to consecrate him, will not admit of an objection, except on the supposition that the fable of an uninterrupted apostolic succession be allowed to be true. St. Jerome, who was as strong an advocate for episcopacy as perhaps any in the primitive church, informs us, that in the church of Alexandria, (which was, in ancient times, one of the most respectable of the churches,) the college of presbyters not only elected a bishop on the decease of the former, but consecrated him by the imposition of their own hands solely, from the time of St. Mark, their first bishop, to the time of Dionysius, which was a space of about two hundred years : and the college of presbyters in ancient times answered to our General Conference.”

“ SECTION V.

“ Of the Presiding Elders, and of their Duty.”

After citing sundry scriptures in favour of having “ presiding, superintending, or ruling elders,” the bishops proceed,—

“ On the principles or data above mentioned, all the episcopal churches in the world have, in some measure, formed their church government. And we believe we can venture to assert, that there never has been an episcopal church of any great extent which has not had ruling or presiding elders, either expressly by name, as in the apostolic churches, or otherwise in effect. On this account it is, that all the modern episcopal churches have had their presiding or ruling elders under the names of grand vicars, archdeacons, rural deans, &c. The Moravians have presiding elders, who are invested with very considerable authority, though we believe they are simply termed elders. And we beg leave to repeat, that we are confident, we could, if need were, show that all the episcopal churches, ancient and modern, of any great extent, have had an order or set of ministers corresponding, more or less, to our presiding or ruling elders, all of whom were, more or less, invested with the superintendence of other ministers.

“Mr. Wesley informs us in his Works, that the whole plan of Methodism was introduced, step by step, by the interference and openings of divine Providence. This was the case in the present instance. When Mr. Wesley drew up a plan of government for our church in America, he desired that no more elders should be ordained in the first instance than were absolutely necessary, and that the work on the continent should be divided between them, in respect to the duties of their office. The General Conference accordingly elected twelve elders for the above purposes. Bishop Asbury and the district conferences afterward found that this order of men was so necessary that they agreed to enlarge the number, and give them the name by which they are at present called, and which is perfectly Scriptural, though not the word used in our translation: and this proceeding afterward received the approbation of Mr. Wesley.

“In 1792 the General Conference, equally conscious of the necessity of having such an office among us, not only confirmed every thing that Bishop Asbury and the district conferences had done, but also drew up or agreed to the present section for the explanation of the nature and duties of the office. The conference clearly saw that the bishops wanted assistants; that it was impossible for one or two bishops so to superintend the vast work on this continent as to keep every thing in order in the intervals of the conference, without other official men to act under them and assist them: and as these would be only the agents of the bishops in every respect, the authority of appointing them, and of changing them, ought, from the nature of things, to be in the episcopacy. If the presiding or ruling elders were not men in whom the bishops could fully confide, or on the loss of confidence, could exchange for others, the utmost confusion would ensue. This also renders the authority invested in the bishops of fixing the extent of each district, highly expedient. They must be supposed to be the best judges of the abilities of the presiding elders whom they themselves choose and it is a grand part of their duty to make the districts and the talents of the presiding elders who act for them, suit and agree with each other, as far as possible : for it cannot be expected, that a sufficient number of them can at any time be found, of equal talents, and, therefore, the extent of their field of action must be proportioned to their gifts.

“ From all that has been advanced, and from those other ideas which will present themselves to the reader’s mind on this subject, it will appear that the presiding elders must, of course, be appointed, directed, and changed by the episcopacy. And yet their power is so considerable that it would by no means be sufficient for them to be responsible to the bishops only for their conduct in their office. They are as responsible in this respect, and in every other, to the yearly conference to which they belong, as any other preacher ; and may be censured, suspended, or expelled from the connection, if the conference see it proper : nor have the bishops any authority to overrule, suspend, or meliorate in any degree the censures, suspensions, or expulsions of the conference.

“ Many and great are the advantages arising from this institution. 1. It is a great help and blessing to the quarterly meetings respectively, through the connection, to have a man at their head, who is experienced not only in the ways of God, but in men and manners, and in all things appertaining to the order of our church. Appeals may be brought before the quarterly meeting from the judgment of the preacher who has the oversight of the circuit, who certainly would not be, in such cases, so proper to preside as the ruling elder. Nor would any local preacher, leader, or steward be a suitable president of the meeting, as his parent, his child, his brother, sister, or friend, might be more or less interested in the appeals which came before him : besides, his local situation would lead him almost unavoidably to prejudge the case, and, perhaps, to enter warmly into the interests of one or other of the parties, previously to the appeal. It is, therefore, indisputably evident, that the ruling elder is most likely to be impartial, and, consequently, the most proper person to preside.

“ 2. Another advantage of this office arises from the necessity of changing preachers from circuit to circuit in the intervals of the yearly conferences. Many of the preachers are young in years and gifts ; and this must always be the case, more or less, or a fresh supply of travelling preachers in proportion to the necessities of the work could not be procured. These young men, in general, are exceedingly zealous. Their grand forte is to awaken souls ; and in this view they are highly necessary for the spreading of the gospel. But for some time their gifts cannot be expected to be various ; and, therefore, half a year at a time, or sometimes even a quarter, may be sufficient for them to labour in one circuit: to change them, therefore, from circuit to circuit, in the intervals of the yearly conferences, is highly necessary in many instances. Again, the preachers themselves, for family reasons, or on other accounts, may desire, and have reason to expect, a change. But who can make it in the absence of the bishops, unless there be a presiding elder appointed for the district? A recent instance proves the justice of this remark. A large district was lately without a presiding elder for a year. Many of the preachers, sensible of the necessity of a change in the course of the year, met together, and settled every preliminary for the purpose. Accordingly, when the time fixed upon for the change arrived, several of them came to their new appointments according to agreement, but, behold, the others had changed their minds, and the former were obliged to return to their old circuits, feeling not a little disgrace on account of their treatment. And this would be continually the case, and all would be confusion, if there were no persons invested with the powers of ruling elders, by whatever name they might be called; as it would be impossible for the bishops to be present everywhere, and enter into the details of all the circuits.

“3. Who is able properly to supply the vacancies in circuits on the deaths of preachers, or on their withdrawing from the travelling connection? Who can have a thorough knowledge of the state of the district, and of its resources for the filling up such vacancies, except the presiding elder who travels through the whole district? And shall circuits be often neglected for months together, and the flocks, during those times, be, more or less, without shepherds, and many of them, perhaps, perish for want of food, merely that one of the most Scriptural and useful offices among us may be abolished? Shall we not rather support it, notwithstanding every thing which may be subtly urged by our enemies under the cry of tyranny, which is the common cry of restless spirits, even against the best governments, in order that they may throw every thing into confusion, and then ride in the whirlwind and direct the storm?

“4. When a bishop visits a district, he ought to have one to accompany him, in whom he can fully confide; one who can inform him of the whole work in a complete and comprehensive view; and, therefore, one who has travelled through the whole, and, by being present at all the quarterly meetings, can give all the information concerning every circuit in particular, and the district in general, which the bishop can desire. Nor is the advantage small that the bishops, when at the greatest distance, may receive from the presiding elders a full account of their respective districts, and may thereby be continually in possession of a more comprehensive knowledge of the whole work than they could possibly procure by any other means.

“ 5. The only branch of the presiding elder’s office, the importance and usefulness of which is not so obvious to some persons, but which is, at the same time, perhaps the most expedient of all, is the suspending power, for the preservation of the purity of our ministry, and that our people may never be burdened with preachers of insufficient gifts. Here we must not forget that the presiding elder acts as agent to the bishops; and that the bishops are, the greatest part of their time, at a vast distance from him: he must, therefore, exercise episcopal authority, (ordination excepted,) or he cannot act as their agent. All power may be abused. The only way which can be devised to prevent the abuse of it, if we will have a good and effective government, is to make the executive governors completely responsible, and their responsibility within the reach of the aggrieved. And, in the present instance, not only the General Conference may expel the presiding elder—not only the episcopacy may suspend him from the exercise of his office—but the yearly conference may also impeach him, try him, and expel him: and such a threefold guard must be allowed, by every candid mind, to be as full a check to the abuse of his power, a perhaps, human wisdom can devise.

“ But is it not strange that any of the people should complain either of this or of the episcopal office? These offices in the church are peculiarly designed to meliorate the severity of Christian discipline, as far as they respect the people. In them, the people have a refuge, an asylum to which they may fly upon all occasions. To them they may appeal, and before them they may lay all their complaints and grievances. The persons who bear these offices are their fathers in the gospel, ever open of access, ever ready to relieve them under every oppression. And we believe we can venture to assert, that the people have never had even a plausible pretence to complain of the authority either of the bishops or the presiding elders.

“ 6. We may add, as was just hinted above, that the bishops ought not to enter into small details. It is not their calling. To select the proper men who are to act as their agents—to preserve in order and in motion the wheels of the vast machine—to keep a constant and watchful eye upon the whole—and to think deeply for the general good—form their peculiar and important avocation. All of which shows the necessity of the office now under consideration.

“ The objection brought by some that many of the most useful preachers are taken out of the circuits for this purpose, whose preaching talents are thereby lost to the connection, will by no means bear examination. Even if this was the case, the vast advantage arising from a complete and effective superintendence of the work would, we believe, far over-balance this consideration. But the objection is destitute of weight. Their preaching abilities are, we believe, abundantly more useful. Though all the preachers of matured talents and experience cannot be employed as presiding elders, yet those who are employed as such generally answer this character. They are qualified to build up believers on their most holy faith, and to remove scruples, and answer cases of conscience, more than the younger preachers in general. In many circuits some parts of the society might suffer much in respect to the divine life, for want of those gifts peculiarly necessary for them, were it not for this additional help; while the junction of the talents of the presiding elder with those of the circuit preachers, will, in general, make the whole complete. And as the presiding elder is, or ought to be, always present at the quarterly meetings, he will have opportunities of delivering his whole mind to a very considerable part of the people: nor is there any reasonable ground to fear that he will ever wear out his talents, if we consider the extent of a district, and the obligation the episcopacy is under to remove him, at furthest, on the expiration of four years.

“To these observations we may add, that the calling of district conferences, on the immorality of travelling preachers, on their deaths, the necessity of removals, &c., would be attended with the most pernicious consequences to the circuits on this vast continent, where the districts are so large, and the absence of the preachers would be necessarily so long upon every such occasion. And we will venture to assert, that if any effective government ought to exist at all in the connection, during the intervals of the yearly and general conferences, there is no alternative between the authority of the bishops and their agents, the presiding elders, on the one hand, and the holding of district conferences on the other hand.

“We will conclude our notes on this section with observing, that there is no ground to believe that the work of God has been injured, or the numbers of the society diminished, by the institution of this order, but just the contrary. In the year 1784, when the presiding eldership did, in fact, though not in name, commence, there were about fourteen thousand in society on this continent; and now the numbers amount to upward of fifty-six thousand: so that the society is, at present, four times as large as it was twelve or thirteen years ago. We do not believe that the office now under consideration was the principal cause of this great revival, but the Spirit and grace of God, and the consequent zeal of the preachers in general. Yet we have no doubt but the full organization of our body, and giving to the whole a complete and effective executive government, of which the presiding eldership makes a very capital branch, has, under God, been a grand means of preserving the peace and union of our connection, and the purity of our ministry, and, therefore, in its consequences, has been a chief instrument, under the grace of God, of this great revival."

"SECTION VI.

"Of the Election and Ordination of Travelling Elders, and of their Duty."

"We need not enlarge upon the necessity of an office, which every organized Christian church in the world, in all ages, has adopted. We would only remark, that the restriction respecting the elders withdrawing themselves from the travelling line, without the consent of the yearly conference, shows the confirmed regard our church has for the itinerant plan, and its determination to support it by every method in its power, consistent with justice and truth. And no elder has a right to complain, as he cannot but be previously acquainted with the conditions on which he accepts of ordination."

"SECTION VII.

"Of the Election and Ordination of Travelling Deacons, and of their Duty."

"As we find from the first-quoted text (Acts vi, 1-6,) that the deacons were set apart for their office by the imposition of hands, but not by the imposition of the hands of the elders, as in other cases; so we endeavour to come as near to the Scripture mode as we can, by confining the ceremony of the imposition of hands to the episcopacy only, in the present instance, without daring to compare ourselves, as some of our enemies would most maliciously assert, to the holy apostles; but simply, and in the fear of God, coming up to the written word as nearly as in our power.

"This office serves as an excellent probation for that of an elder. No preacher can be eligible to the office of an elder till he has exercised the office of a deacon for two years, except in the case of missions. For we would wish to show the utmost attention to the order of elders, and to have the fullest proof of the abilities, grace, and usefulness of those, who shall be, from time to time, proposed for so important an office as that of a presbyter in the church of God. And we judge, that the man who has proved himself a worthy member of our society, and a useful class-leader, exhorter, and local preacher, who has been approved of for two years as a travelling preacher on trial, and has faithfully served in the office of a travelling deacon for at least two years more—has offered such proofs of fidelity and piety, as must satisfy every reasonable mind. But as this continent is exceedingly large, and will continually open to our conferences new missions for the spread of the gospel (perhaps for ages to come) we have, in the case of missions, given a discretionary power to the yearly conferences. We have thus been able, through the grace and providence of God, to constitute such a regular gradation in our ministry as, we trust, will contribute highly to its purity, to the dignity of the ministerial office, and to the advantage of our people.

“We have here also made the same restriction for the preservation of our important itinerant plan, in respect to the deacons withdrawing themselves from the general work, without the consent of the yearly conference, which was made before in the case of the elders, and which has been spoken to in the notes on the former section.”

“SECTION VIII.

“Of the Method of receiving Preachers, and of their Duty.”

“To preach almost every day, and to meet societies or classes several times in the week, and to visit the sick, not only in the towns, but as far as practicable on the plantations, is a work which requires no small degree of diligence and zeal: and no person is fit to be a travelling preacher who cannot fill up these duties incessantly all the year round, except occasional indispositions incapacitate him for a season; or some reasonable and urgent necessity call him away for a little time.”

“Punctuality is of vast importance in every circumstance of life. Without it, no confidence can exist: and the want of it is productive of innumerable evils to society. But how much stronger are these observations, when applied to our situation? The itinerant plan, which we so much and so justly venerate, would be the most pernicious in the world, without punctuality. It would be almost sufficient to make mankind hate religion. The man who will disappoint a congregation through any worldly motive is highly criminal, and answerable for all the evil which his negligence has caused—answerable for all the souls which through disgust do afterward despise or neglect the ordinances of God. When an appointment is fixed, and cannot be revoked in time, it should be considered as an engagement made to God. ‘Lord,’ says the psalmist, ‘who shall abide in thy tabernacle, and who shall dwell in thy holy hill?—He that sweareth to his own hurt and changeth not.’ See Psalm xv. And the word of a preacher of the gospel, indeed of every Christian, should be the same as his oath, or he is not even an honest man. Alas! the good which the best of us do is but little, and, therefore, should not suffer any subtraction. But when the itine- rant preacher frequently proves himself destitute of punctuality, his life and labours become more hurtful than profitable. He not only prevents a faithful man from filling up the office which he himself abuses, but gives continual offence, and imperceptibly drives numbers from the ordinances of God, and thereby out of the way of salvation."

"The command given by the apostle, Heb. xiii, 17, 'Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves,' is as binding on ministers as on the people. Among us there is no exception. Our bishops are bound to obey and submit to the General Conference; and the preachers are bound to obey and submit to the General Conference, and also to the yearly conferences, in every thing except the stationing of them for their respective districts and circuits; and in this respect they are bound to obey and submit to the episcopacy. This is the order of our church: and as the New Testament is silent as to the constitutions of states, so is it, in a great measure, in respect to the constitutions of churches. It only requires obedience or submission to the powers that are, without which no order could possibly exist. This does not, in any degree, prevent the due reformation of the constitutions of churches, any more than of those of states. We may add to these considerations the command of St. Peter, 1st Epis. v, 5, 'Ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder.'

"The due examination of candidates for the ministry is of the utmost importance. The questions proposed for this purpose, in the present section, may be drawn out and enlarged upon by the bishops, as they judge necessary; and, if duly considered, will be found to contain in them the whole of Christian and ministerial experience and practice. In respect to doctrines, experience, and practice, the preachers will have passed already through various examinations, before they are received into the travelling connection. Let us take a view of the whole, remembering that our societies form our grand nurseries or universities for ministers of the gospel.

"1. On application for admission into the society, they must be duly recommended to the preacher who has the oversight of the circuit, by one in whom he can place sufficient confidence, or must have met three or four times in a class, and must be truly awakened to a sense of their fallen condition. Then the preacher who has the oversight of the circuit gives them notes of admission, and they remain on trial for six months. 2. When the six months are expired, they receive tickets, if recommended by their leader, and become full members of the society. And to prevent any future complaint on the ground of ignorance, the rules of the society must be read to them the first time they meet in class. 3. Out of these are chosen, from time to time, the leaders of classes, who should not only be deeply experienced in divine things, but have a measure of the gift of preaching, so as to feed the flock of Christ under their care, in due season. 4. Out of these, when they discover in public prayer meetings an extraordinary gift of prayer and some gift for exhortation, are chosen the exhorters. 5. Out of the exhorters, who are employed in the places of least consequence, or to fill up the place of a preacher, in cases of necessity, are chosen the local preachers. These are first to receive a license signed by the presiding elder, and by the quarterly meeting,* which is composed of the local preachers, stewards, and leaders of the circuit. Without the consent of the presiding elder, and of the majority of this meeting, which is the most proper and respectable representation of the circuit that perhaps can possibly be devised, no one can be admitted as a local preacher. And the license above mentioned must be annually renewed, till the local preacher be admitted into the deacon's office. 6. Out of the local preachers are chosen the travelling preachers, of whom those in full connection form the members of our conferences. These must be on trial for two years before they can be received into full connection with the conference, their characters being examined at each conference (whether they be present or absent) in respect to morals, grace, gifts, and fruit. Nor can they be received upon trial as travelling preachers, till they have obtained a recommendation from the quarterly meetings of their respective circuits. The bishops indeed, and the presiding elders, have authority to call them to travel, in the intervals of the conferences, when they have received the above recommendation, otherwise the circuits would be frequently destitute of preachers. But their call to travel must afterward be confirmed by the yearly conference.

“From all that has been observed, it must be clear to every candid reader, that it is not the yearly conference only, or the bishops or presiding elders only, in the intervals of the conferences, who choose the local or travelling preachers. On the contrary, they have no authority to choose at all, till the people, through their leaders, stewards, &c., recommend. And those who will not be satisfied with this whole process of probation, considered in all its parts, must be rigid indeed. But we bless God for the whole of this economy, and do attribute to it, under his grace and providence, the purity of our ministry. When we consider the importance of the gospel ministry, this severe process is by no means excessive.”

* See the twenty-first section of this chapter.”

"SECTION IX.

"Of the Salaries of the Ministers and Preachers."

"Those who read this section attentively will see the impossibility of our ministers becoming rich by the gospel, except in grace. And here there is no difference between bishops, elders, deacons, or preachers, except in their travelling expenses, and consequently in the greater labours of one than the other. The gifts they have to impart are not silver and gold, but, through the divine blessing on their labours, and the operations of the Holy Spirit accompanying their word, 'love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance.' And we may add, that the impossibility of our enriching ourselves by our ministry, is another great preservation of its purity. The lovers of this world will not long continue travelling preachers. Indeed, we may add, that a great many of the preachers do not receive the whole of their annual pittance; generally, we believe, through the poverty, but sometimes perhaps through the inattention of our friends.

"The clause concerning the allowance for a preacher's wife may need some explanation. The wife is to have the same claim in respect to salary as the travelling preacher: so that if there be a married and a single preacher in the same circuit, and the money for the support of the ministry be not sufficient to make up all the salaries, the whole is to be divided into three parts, one part of which belongs to the wife."

"SECTION X.

"Of the Duties of those who have the Charge of Circuits."

"When we consider the duties of the office described in this section, we shall feel no difficulty in allowing that it is an office of no small importance.

"1. The person who holds it, is to watch over the other travelling preachers in his circuit, not with the eye of a severe judge, but with that of a tender elder brother. He should indeed be faithful to his colleagues, and tell them all their faults: but he has no power to correct them. He is to bear an equal share with them in the toils of a travelling preacher, besides having upon him the care of all the churches in his circuit. But if his colleagues will not observe his reasonable directions, or behave grossly amiss, he must inform his presiding elder, whose duty it is, as soon as possible, to judge of and rectify every thing. He is also to use his influence with the people, that his fellow-labourers may stand in need of nothing for the simple convenience, or at least necessities of this transitory life. They want but little, and that little they ought to have. This also implies, that if his colleague be married, he should take care that neither he nor his family stand in need of any of the necessaries of life. For his performance of this duty, as well as all the rest, he is bounden to God, as well as to the church of which he is a member."

"2. He is to deliver tickets quarterly to each member of the society, with a portion of the word of God printed on them. This is of no small moment for the preservation of our discipline and the purity of our church. To admit frequently unawakened persons to our society meetings and love-feasts, would be to throw a damp on those profitable assemblies, and cramp, if not entirely destroy, that liberty of speech, which is always made a peculiar blessing to earnest believers and sincere seekers of salvation. Besides, this regulation affords the preacher who holds the office now under consideration an opportunity of speaking closely to every person under his care on the state of their souls."

"3. He is to watch over the stewards and leaders of his circuit. He should meet them weekly, when in the towns, and as often as may be in the country. He is to recommend to the stewards the poor of their societies, to lay before them, if necessary, the wants of his colleagues, and to stir them up to fidelity and activity in their office: but above all, he is to exhort the leaders, to instruct them in the best mode of addressing their classes, and to set before them the inestimable value of the precious souls respectively intrusted to their care."

"4. As he is the least likely to be influenced by the various circumstances arising from neighbourhood, long acquaintance, affection, consanguinity, or any other motives distinct from official talents, he is to appoint the stewards. And as he is, or should be the best judge of the gifts and experience of the members of society, he also is to select the men, from time to time, who are to fill up the weighty office of leader. And again, as he is the only person in the circuit who is responsible to the yearly conference for the decline of the work of God in his circuit, and the only one the conference can make responsible, he has the authority invested in him of changing leaders, when they have lost the life of God, or are incapacitated for or negligent of their duty. But if he ever use this power in a capricious or tyrannical manner, the people may lay their grievances before the bishops or presiding elders, who have authority to suspend him for ill conduct; or, before the yearly conference, which may proceed even to his expulsion, if he grossly offend against that wisdom which is from above, 'and which is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy,' James iii, 17.

"5. He is also to receive members upon trial, and into society, according to the Form of Discipline. If this authority were invested in the society, or any part of it, the great work of revival would soon be at an end. A very remarkable proof of this was given several years ago by a society in Europe. Many of the leading members of that society were exceedingly importunate to have the whole government of their society invested in a meeting composed of the principal preacher, and a number of lay elders and lay deacons, as they termed them. At last, the preacher who had the oversight of the circuit was prevailed upon, through their incessant importunity, to comply with their request. He accordingly nominated all the leaders and stewards as lay elders and lay deacons, with the desired powers. But alas! what was the consequence? The great revival which was then in that society and congregation was soon extinguished. Poor sinners, newly awakened, were flocking into the church of God as doves to their windows. But now, the wisdom and prudence of the new court kept them at a distance, till they had given full proof of their repentance: 'If their convictions be sincere,' said they, 'they will not withdraw themselves from the preaching of the word on account of our caution; they themselves will see the propriety of our conduct.' Thus, while the fervent preacher was one hour declaring the willingness of Christ immediately to receive the returning sinners, the wisdom of the lay elders and lay deacons would the next hour reject them even from being received upon trial, unless they had been before painted sepulchres, inwardly full of dead men's bones and rottenness. The preacher who had the charge of the circuit nearly broke his heart, to see the precious souls which God had given him kept at a distance from him, and thrown back again upon the wide world by the prudent lay elders and deacons. However, at his earnest entreaty, he was removed into another circuit by the conference, under whose control he acted, to enjoy the blessings of the Methodist economy. The revival of the work of God was soon extinguished; and the society, from being one of the most lively, became one of the most languid in Europe.

"Glory be to God, all our societies throughout the world, now amounting to upward of one hundred and sixty thousand, have been raised, under grace, by our ministers and preachers. They, and they only, are their spiritual fathers under God; and none others can feel for them as they do. It is true, that on great revivals, the spiritually halt, and blind, and lame, will press in crowds into the church of God; and they are welcome to all that we can do for their invaluable souls, till they prove unfaithful to convincing or converting grace. And we will not throw back their souls on the wicked world, while groaning under the burden of sin, because many on the trial quench their convictions, or perhaps were hypocritical from the beginning. We would sooner go again into the highways and hedges, and form new societies, as at first, than we would give up a privilege so essential to the ministerial office and to the revival of the work of God.

“The master of the house [God] said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, ‘Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room.’ He obeys his God without asking permission of any society, whether he should obey him or not. ‘And the Lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled,’ Luke xiv, 21–23. The servant answers not to his God, ‘I will comply with thy command as far as my society, or my leaders and stewards, will permit me.’ Again, the Lord says to Ezekiel, chap. xxxiv, 1–10, ‘Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, Wo be to the shepherds of Israel—the diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed that which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost. And they were scattered, because there is no shepherd: and they became meat to all the beasts of the field, when they were scattered. Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord: As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock became a prey, and my flock became meat to every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, neither did my shepherd search for my flock—therefore, O ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against the shepherds, and I WILL REQUIRE MY FLOCK AT THEIR HAND, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock,’ &c. Now, what pastors, called and owned of God, would take upon themselves this awful responsibility, if others could refuse to their spiritual children the grand external privilege of the gospel, or admit among them the most improper persons to mix with and corrupt them? Truly, whatever the pastors of other churches may do, we trust that ours will never put themselves under so dreadful a bondage. It is in vain to say, that others may be as tender and cautious as the pastors: for the pastors are the persons responsible to God, and, therefore, should by no means be thus fettered in their pastoral care. And those who are desirous to wrest out of the hands of ministers this important part of their duty, should rather go out themselves to the highways and hedges, and preach the everlasting gospel, or be contented with their present providential situation.

“Besides, the command of our Lord, Matt. xxviii, 19, ‘Go ye—and teach all nations, baptizing them, &c., is addressed to pastors only—to his disciples, and through them to all his ministering servants to the end of the world. But if ministers are to be the judges of the proper subjects of baptism, which is the grand initiatory ordinance into the visible church, how much more should they have a right to determine whom they will take under their own care, or whom God has given them out of the world by the preaching of his word! For ministers to spend their strength, their tears, their prayers, their lives for the salvation of souls, and to have both themselves and THEIRS under the control of those who never travailed in birth for them, and, therefore, can never feel for them as their spiritual parents do, is a burden we cannot bear. Thus it is evident that both reason and Scripture do, in the clearest manner, make the privilege or power now under consideration essential to the gospel ministry."

"7. Though the presiding elder is far more proper to preside at the quarterly meetings than any other who regularly attends, yet the preacher who has the oversight of the circuit is, next to him, the most likely to be impartial.* It is on this principle, that the twelve judges of England make it a rule, that no one of them shall take that circuit which includes the place where he was born. Besides, every thing is finally determined by a majority of votes. On those extraordinary occasions, therefore, when, through sickness, or any other unavoidable hinderance, the presiding elder is absent, the next to him in office must be the moderator of the meeting. See the notes on the fifth section of this chapter. Let us all be willing to submit to that due subjection which is necessary to the good order of the whole, 'yea, all of you be subject one to another,' 1 Pet. v, 5.

"8. Next to the preaching of the gospel, the spreading of religious knowledge by the press is of the greatest moment to the people. The soul, while united to the body, must be daily fed with pious ideas, otherwise it will lose ground in the divine life. Though the Lord is wonderfully kind to those of his children who are so unfortunate as not to be able to read, yet we are to use all the means in our power. And though the Bible be infinitely preferable to all other books, yet we are, even on that very account, to study the writings of those spiritual and great divines, who have by their comments, essays, sermons, or other labours, explained the Bible: otherwise, we ought not to attend the preaching of the gospel; for what is that but an explanation and application of the great truths contained in the Bible. He, therefore, who has the charge of the circuit, is to be diligent in the sale of those books, which, according to the judgment of our conferences and bishops, are deemed profitable for the souls of our people. St. Paul had need of books, otherwise he would not have carried them with him in his extensive travels. 'The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments,'* 2 Tim. iv, 13. And to minds which are influenced by the love of God and man, the consideration that the profit of these books is wholly applied to the work of God, will be a further inducement to them to purchase our books.

"* We do not mean that he is likely to have more grace or more integrity than the other members of the quarterly meeting, but only that he is not so much exposed to the temptations of prejudging a cause through consanguinity, affection, or a variety of other interests, as the other members are. We have a high esteem for all our official members, and would not intentionally offend them on any account."

"9. It is necessary that the yearly conference should have an exact account of the numbers in society, and of every thing material relating to each circuit under its control, otherwise it could not possibly judge of the progress of the work, and the fidelity of the preachers; nor could the episcopacy have otherwise such complete knowledge of every thing for the stationing of the preachers. 'Let all things be done,' says St. Paul, 'decently, and in order.'

"10. It is also necessary, that the presiding elder should receive regular details of the proceedings of those who have the oversight of circuits, that he himself may have such a clear knowledge of the state of the district, as may enable him to fill up his important trust, and to give such information of his district to the bishops, as may afford them a complete view of the whole. Thus are many eyes opened upon the great work, and the wisdom of many united for the good of the whole. 'In the multitude of counsellors,' says the wise man, 'there is safety.'

"11. The people of our special charge want all the advice we can give them: and their stations and circumstances are so different, that the rule of meeting the men and women apart, and, when the society is large, and the time will admit of it, the married and single men apart, and the married and single women apart, has been attended with many blessings. Mr. Wesley, from happy experience, considered this as a very profitable means of grace. Ministers of the gospel should think no labour lost, or means in vain, by which they may be enabled to give their whole flock their due spiritual portion. 'The Lord said, Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his Lord shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his lord, when he cometh, shall find so doing. Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath.' Luke xii, 42-44.

"12. As the public money should be applied with the greatest fidelity, the accounts should be examined with the strictest scrutiny: and, therefore, the preacher who has the charge of the circuit is to examine the stewards' accounts, as a preparative to their being laid before the quarterly meeting; and this not out of disrespect to the stewards, whom we highly esteem for their disinterested labours of love, but to prevent, as far as possible, even any plausible pretence for suspicion. 'It is required in stewards,' says the apostle, 'that a man be found faithful.' No person of integrity (and such we have reason to believe all our stewards are, without exception) will object to this rule."

"7. We are but one body of people, one grand society, whether in Europe or America; united in the closest spiritual bonds, and in external bonds as far as the circumstances of things will admit. And as our numbers have increased exceedingly both in Europe and America, it is necessary we should be particularly cautious in receiving strangers into our society, under the pretext of their having been members in other places; as the one end of our whole plan is to raise a holy people. On this account, all our conferences throughout the world mutually require that every member of our society who changes his place of abode, shall previously obtain a certificate from the preacher who has the charge of his circuit, who is most likely to be acquainted with his character, his own relations excepted: and that without such certificate he shall not be received into any other society."

"11. The authority of appointing prayer meetings will not, we think, be disputed by any. Many of our greatest revivals have been begun and chiefly carried on in our prayer meetings. We wish that the utmost zeal might be manifested by those who have the charge of circuits in the execution of this direction. The sacred writer, describing the effects of the day of Pentecost, observes, 'Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls. And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.' Acts ii, 41, 42. There is no doubt but those words refer to social worship. O that every family in our connection had occasionally a prayer meeting at stated times for the benefit of their neighbours! There would be no danger of wanting persons to pray: God would pour forth the spirit of grace and supplication; and soon the flame of divine love would glow through every civilized part of this vast continent. The Lord hasten the day!

"12. Public fasts are to be appointed by him at the regular times, and he is of course to take care, that himself and his helpers not only set the example, but also render those days peculiarly profitable by public meetings for the service of God."

"13. The whole organization of our church depends on an exact attention to all its distinctions and orders.—It has been, we doubt not, the close order and organization of our church, under the grace and providence of God, which has enabled us to resist all the shocks we have lately felt from the fanatical spirit of division, and to remain firm as a rock.

"We may just add, that it is customary for the presiding elders, or in their absence the preachers who have the charge of circuits, to hold quarterly, or half-yearly conferences with the local preachers and exhorters respectively under their care, to examine into their grace, gifts, and usefulness, and into the state of the work of God—a custom of exceeding great utility, and therefore, such as we trust will never be neglected.”

“SECTION XI.

“Of the Trial of those who think they are moved by the Holy Ghost to preach.”

“We have enlarged on the present subject in our notes on the eighth section of this chapter. Every reader may from hence perceive the care we take in receiving our preachers and ministers. As the presiding elders, or those who have the charge of circuits, are attentive to the examination of the local preachers and exhorters, so the yearly conferences are attentive to the gifts, grace, and usefulness of all the travelling preachers and ministers. Nothing will do for us without the life of God. Brilliant parts, fine address, &c., are to us but tinkling cymbals, when destitute of the power of the Holy Ghost.

“At the same time we are far from despising talents which may be rendered useful to the church of Christ. We know the worth of improved abilities: and nothing can equal our itinerant plan, in the opportunity it affords of suiting our various societies with men of God who are endued with gifts agreeable to their respective wants.”

“SECTION XII.

“Of the Matter and Manner of Preaching, and of other public Exercises.”

“The preaching of the gospel is of the first importance to the welfare of mankind; and, consequently, the mode of preaching must be of considerable moment. It is not the fine metaphysical reasoning; it is not the philosophical disquisitions of the works of nature under the pretext of raising up our minds to the great Creator, which regenerate the heart, and stamp the image of God upon the soul. No. The preacher must,

“1. Convince the sinner of his dangerous condition. He must ‘break up the fallow ground,’ Jer. iv, 3; Hos. x, 12 ‘Cry aloud, spare not,’ says the Lord to his prophet, ‘lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins,’ Isa. lviii, 1. He must set forth the depth of original sin, and show the sinner how far he is gone from original righteousness; he must describe the vices of the world in their just and most striking colours, and enter into all the sinner’s pleas and excuses for sin, and drive him from all his subterfuges and strong-holds. He must labour to convince the formalist of the impossibility of being justified before God by his ceremonial or moral righteousness. Myriads are continually perishing, yea, thousands of those who acknowledge in speculation the great truths of the gospel, through their dependence upon ordinances or upon an outwardly moral life. 'In Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature,' Gal. vi, 15.

"2. He must set forth the virtue of the atonement blood. He must bring the mourner to a present Saviour; he must show the willingness of Christ this moment to bless him, and bring a present salvation home to his soul. Here he must be indeed a son of consolation. He must say nothing which can keep the trembling mourner at a distance; he must not provide for him a rich feast, and hand it up to him in dishes too hot to be touched. There must be nothing now held forth to the view of the penitent but the everlasting arms, and the mercy which is ready to embrace him on every side. 'Come unto me,' says our Lord, 'all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest,' Matt. xi, 28. 'Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out,' John vi, 37. 'Having, therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus,—let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith,' &c., Heb. x, 19–22.

"3. He must, like a true shepherd, feed the lambs and sheep of Christ. He must point out to the newly justified the wiles of Satan, and strengthen them if they stagger through unbelief. He must set before them the glorious privileges offered to them in the gospel. He must nourish them with the pure milk of the word. Those who are more adult in grace, he must feed with strong meat. He must show them the necessity of being crucified to the world, and of dying daily; that 'if they mortify not the deeds of the flesh, they shall die.' He must not spare the remaining man of sin; he must anatomize the human heart, and follow self-will and self-love through all their windings. And all this being addressed to the children of God, he must do it with great tenderness. 'I protest by your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily,' says the apostle. 1 Cor. xv, 31. 'If ye live after the flesh ye shall die: but if ye, through the Spirit, do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live,' Rom. viii, 13. 'Grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ,' 2 Pet. iii, 18.

"And now he must again turn the son of consolation. He must hold forth Christ as an all-sufficient Saviour, as 'able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them,' Heb. vii, 25. He must describe to them, in all its richest views, the blessing of perfect love. He must now declare how our great Zerubbabel is this moment able and willing to reduce the mountain into a plain. And all the above he must endeavour more or less to introduce into every sermon which he delivers to a mixed congregation. 'The very God of peace sanctify you wholly, and I pray God your whole spirit, soul, and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it,' 1 Thess. v, 23. 'This is the will of God, even your sanctification,' 1 Thess. iv, 3.

"He must preach the law as well as the gospel. He must hold forth our adorable Redeemer as a Prophet to teach, a Priest to atone, and a King to reign in us and over us. He must break the stony heart, as well as bind up the broken. But still holiness, inward and outward, must be his end: holiness must be his aim: and Antinomianism, and every doctrine which opposes holiness, he must contend with, till he gain the victory or render his hearers utterly inexcusable. Who is fit for these things! O Lord God, help us all! Let us do our utmost, and have the blessing to the Lord.

"Acts iii, 22, 'A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren.' Heb. v, 6, 'Thou art a Priest for ever.' Isa. xxxii, 1, 'Behold a King shall reign in righteousness.' O let us never be wearied of exalting Christ, as living in us, as well as dying for us.

"Some useful smaller advices are now given:

"1. Never break an engagement. This we have enlarged upon under the eighth section of this chapter.

"2. The second advice belongs only to town congregations, where they have clocks and watches to direct them. In such cases, if they attend not exactly at the appointed time, they will be equally tardy, if the preacher habitually wait for them ever so long. But everywhere let him be always at the time. It is inexcusable in one to make a thousand, or even a hundred, wait for him. Let 'no man put a stumbling block, or an occasion to fall, in his brother's way,' Rom. xiv, 13.

"3. The deepest seriousness at all times becomes the minister of the gospel: but in the pulpit there should not be even the appearance of a deviation from it. An ambassador of an earthly government, when immediately engaged in the duties of his embassy, would be far from trifling: how much more should an ambassador of God? 'Do the work,' therefore, 'of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry,' 2 Tim. iv, 5.

"4. A preacher who seeks the honour which comes from God, and not that which comes from man, will consider the spiritual wants of his audience, and choose his text and subject accordingly. He will not preach to show his own abilities, but merely to do good. And, indeed, if he preach not from thi, pure motive alone, he has no right to expect the blessing of God upon his labours. See Luke xii, 42-44.

“5. Be cautious of allegorizing. It seldom informs the judgment, and still seldomer warms the heart. It may be called a pretty way of talking. The preacher may be admired, but the hearer will be little edified. And what is applause, or any thing but the salvation of souls, to the faithful minister of Christ? The genuine language of his heart is, ‘I ask not riches, honours, or pleasures, gain or applause; I ask only for the salvation of souls!’ ‘And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech, or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God. For I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ and him crucified.’ 1 Cor. ii, 1, 2.

“6. When the preacher has fixed upon the subject which he judges most suitable to the states of the souls he is going to address, he must keep to his point. He must labour to arrange his ideas, and to speak to the understanding as well as the heart. He must first endeavour fully to explain, and then to apply, to ‘show’ himself ‘a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth,’ 2 Tim. ii, 15.

“7. He must take care that his good be not evil spoken of, or laughed at, if possible, through any awkward or unmeaning gestures in the pulpit. When the instruction of immortal spirits is his employment, he should mind every thing, little and great, which can assist him in this glorious work, in which angels would envy him, if it were possible for them to indulge so base a passion. ‘These things speak and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.’ Tit. ii, 15.

“8. Be not too forward in writing for the press. Nothing disgraces a cause so much as to attempt to defend it in a feeble manner. Let not a few friends who are attached to you, and are not in the least degree judges of composition, prevail upon you to become an author. To write well requires a life devoted in a great measure to close and severe study. Preaching the everlasting gospel and spiritual instruction, in season and out of season, are your grand objects. There are so many excellent publications already in the world, which by the means of the press may be put into every hand, that there are fewer necessary to be written than many imagine. A few good writers in one church are quite sufficient, especially in ours, which has already been honoured with a Wesley and a Fletcher. But particularly comply with our express rules on this subject. ‘Of making many books there is no end,’ says the wise man Eccles. xii, 12.

“9. Scarcely any thing tends to damp divine service more than to be praying too long, and in a languid manner. Few things more tend to bring a congregation into a formal spirit. Sometimes, indeed, the minister is led within the veil in an unusual way, and may then justly give full vent to the holy flame. But on other occasions let the prayer be very fervent, and of a moderate length. 'When ye pray,' says our Lord, 'use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefore like unto them.' Matt. vi, 7, 8.

"10. A comment on a portion of Scripture is sometimes very profitable to the congregation, especially when a warm application is adjoined. And it is exceedingly useful for young preachers to habituate themselves to the giving of warm exhortations, otherwise they may get into a formal way of preaching without a due application of the subject. A fervent exhortation is preferable to a sermon without application. 'Till I come,' says St. Paul to Timothy, 'give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine,' 1 Tim. iv, 13.

"11. Souls are of so much value that we should improve every opportunity for their good. Shall the men of the world have carnal festivals on their birth-days, and shall we not commemorate the birth-day of our Lord? The primitive fathers of the church observed the day, which is now kept sacred by most of the churches of Christendom. Irenæus, who was one of the fathers, was a disciple of St. John; and the mother of Jesus lived with that apostle from the crucifixion of our Lord. There cannot, therefore, be a doubt but St. John knew, and, of course, his disciples, Irenæus, Ignatius, and Polycarp, the day of our Lord's nativity; and from them all the fathers of the church. Again, shall states and nations celebrate the day of liberation from slavery or oppression, or some other glorious event, from year to year? And shall we not celebrate by a holy festival the crucifixion and resurrection of our Lord, and the mission of the Holy Spirit, to which we are indebted for blessings infinitely more valuable than any which the revolution of states can possibly afford?"

"SECTION XIII.

"Of the Duty of Preachers to God, themselves, and one another."

"1. A minister of the gospel, who has consecrated all he is and has, and all he can do and suffer, to the service of his God, should consider himself as eminently called to walk with God. His peculiar calling is of the most public nature. It is a public profession, that he is a reformer of mankind: it says more loudly than any words, 'I am, or ought to be, one of the best of men: follow me as I follow Christ.' It is the very depth of hypocrisy to preach and not live the gospel. Of all hypocrites such a one is the greatest. Nay, it is in vain to preach, it is in vain to show forth the most shining talents, if the life of the preacher correspond not with his doctrines. He may possibly have the reward he seeks for here below : but the approbation of God he never will receive. 'Many will say to me in that day,' observes our Lord, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name ? and in thy name have cast out devils, and in thy name done many wonderful works ? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you : depart from me, ye that work iniquity.' Matt. vii, 22, 23.

"The work of God must also lie near his heart : yea, his very soul must enter into it. Nor must he be contented to preach, and then leave the souls he has been blessed to at the mercy of the world. He must seek out the awakened. He must fence in the flock. He must not only love, but, according to his sphere of action, recommend and enforce Christian discipline, especially the discipline of that church of which he is a member ; without which there would be nothing but anarchy and confusion ; and the word of God would in general become 'like water spilt upon the ground.' 'Neither count I my life dear unto myself,' says St. Paul, 'so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God,' Acts xx, 24.

"2. The preachers should tell each other in the spirit of love and meekness, and, at the same time, with humble boldness, all they think and all they fear of each other, in respect to every thing of consequence, particularly in regard to the spiritual life, the practice of devotion, and spiritual conversation. 'Faithful are the wounds of a friend,' says Solomon. Prov. xxvii, 6.

"3. Ministers of the gospel should be eminently attentive to all the means of grace, particularly private prayer. We do rejoice that our ministers are examples to the flock in this respect. When in the mountains and wildernesses they have no chamber to themselves, they will retire into the woods and other solitary places, and spend much of their time in that most useful exercise. O that we may continue to preserve this spirit and practice ! 'Thou, when thou prayest,' says Christ, 'enter into thy closet : and, when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret ; and thy Father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly,' Matt. vi, 6. We should also in the families, where we from time to time reside, be examples to all. The whole world is composed of families. A travelling preacher may bring as many souls to glory by his fidelity in the families which he visits as by his public preaching. See the fifteenth section of this chapter.

"4. Preachers of the gospel should be much conversant in the Scriptures. They should never be without a Bible. That invaluable book is like the starry heavens on a clear night: cast your eyes on any given part, and some bright stars will immediately strike your sight; but the more you gaze, the more stars will appear to your view. It is an inexhaustible mine of the richest treasures. The more infidels despise and oppose it, the more should we love, study, and defend it. It is reproachful to see a minister of God lounging away his time, when the word of truth and salvation is within his reach."

"SECTION XIV.

"Rules by which we should continue, or desist from, preaching at any Place."

In the notes to this section we find the following mention of a usage no longer known:—

"The stationing of the preachers is in the episcopacy, but the determination of the number of preachers to be sent to a circuit is in the yearly conference: with powers invested in the episcopacy and presiding eldership to meet the openings of grace and providence in the intervals of the conference."

"SECTION XV.

"Of visiting from House to House, guarding against those Sins that are so common to Professors, and enforcing practical Religion."

"In the plantations, which make the chief part of these states, and in which, of course, the chief part of our societies reside, the preachers cannot visit many of our competent families in a day. But they may almost daily visit many of the poor—many of those who most want their help. Various disagreeable circumstances, arising from the inattention of the poor to cleanliness, &c., may attend our zealous observance of the directions given in this section on the present subject, as far as it respects them. But where is our zeal for God, where our crucifixion to the world, where our regard for souls, if such considerations move us in the least? Our Lord gives it as one grand proof of his being the Messiah, that 'the poor have the gospel preached to them,' Matt. xi, 5. O then, if we love Christ, if we wish to be his ministers and disciples, let us not forget the poor! We have but little silver or gold to offer them; but we have what is infinitely more precious, even grace, pardon, holiness, Christ, heaven. Let us, therefore, labour at least as much in the houses of the poor as of the rich or competent: and this we certainly shall, if we be not interested by carnal or temporal motives—if we breathe the true spirit of missionaries."

"SECTION XVI.

"Of the Instruction of Children."

"The proper education of children is of exceeding great moment to the welfare of mankind. About one half of the human race are under the age of sixteen, and may be considered, the infants excepted, as capable of instruction. The welfare of the states and countries in which they live, and, what is infinitely more, the salvation of their souls, do, under the grace and providence of God, depend in a considerable degree upon their education. But, alas! the great difficulty lies in finding men and women of genuine piety as instructors. Let us, however, endeavour to supply these spiritual defects. Let us follow the directions of this section, and we shall meet many on the day of judgment, who will acknowledge before the great Judge, and an assembled universe, that their first desires after Christ and salvation were received in their younger years by our instrumentality. In towns we may, without difficulty, meet the children weekly, and in the plantations advise and pray with them every time we visit their houses: nay, in the country, if we give notice that at such a time we shall spend an hour or two in such a house with those children who shall attend, many of the neighbours will esteem it a privilege to send their children to us at the time appointed. But we must exercise much patience, as well as zeal, for the successful accomplishment of this work. And if we can with love and delight condescend to their ignorance and childishness, and yet endeavour continually to raise up their little minds to the once dying but now exalted Saviour, we shall be made a blessing to thousands of them.

"But let us labour among the poor in this respect, as well as among the competent. O if our people in the cities, towns, and villages were but sufficiently sensible of the magnitude of this duty, and its acceptableness to God—if they would establish sabbath schools, wherever practicable, for the benefit of the children of the poor, and sacrifice a few public ordinances every Lord's day to this charitable and useful exercise, God would be to them instead of all the means they lose; yea, they would find, to their present comfort and the increase of their eternal glory, the truth and sweetness of those words, 'Mercy is better than sacrifice,' Matt. ix, 13; xii, 7; Hos. vi, 6. But there is so much of the cross in all this! O when shall we be the true followers of a crucified Saviour!"

" SECTION XVII.

" Of employing our Time profitably, &c."

" We have already enlarged so much on the public and private duties of ministers, that on the limited plan and laconic mode we have adopted in these annotations, it may not be necessary to say much more on this subject. We would just recommend to our ministers and preachers, agreeably to the directions given in this section, much reading and study. We have various ranks of men to deal with, and as far as possible should be prepared for them all; that as scribes instructed unto the kingdom of heaven, we may, like unto a man that is a householder, bring forth out of our treasures things new and old. See Matt. xiii, 52. A taste for reading profitable books is an inestimable gift. It adds to the comfort of life far beyond what many conceive, and qualifies us, if properly directed, for very extensive usefulness in the church of God. It takes off all the miserable listlessness of a sluggish life; and gives to the mind a strength and activity it could not otherwise acquire. But to obtain and preserve this taste for, this delight in, profitable reading, we must daily resist the natural tendency of man to indolence and idleness. And when we consider the astonishing activity of the enemies of revealed truth, to disseminate their pernicious doctrines, we must allow that it behooves every minister of Jesus Christ, not only to be able to 'give an answer to every man that asketh him a reason of the hope that is in him, with meekness and fear,' (1 Pet. iii, 15,) but to answer and silence the most subtle arguments of the professed enemies of our adorable Lord. 'Till I come,' says St. Paul, 'GIVE ATTENDANCE TO READING,' 1 Tim. iv, 13. Heb vi, 11, 12, 'We desire—that ye be not slothful.' See also Ephes. v, 16; Col. iv, 5; 2 Tim. ii, 15, and iv, 13."

" SECTION XIX.

" Of the Method by which immoral Travelling Ministers or Preachers shall be brought to Trial, &c."

" The section now under consideration is of very great moment. Let us take a view of it under the three heads into which it divides itself.

" 1. The answer to the first question serves to remove every reasonable objection to the suspending power of the presiding elder. See section fifth of this chapter. The trial of a minister or preacher for gross immorality shall be in the presence of at least three ministers. These ministers have, of course, full liberty to speak their sentiments either in favour or disfavour of the person accused. This must always serve as a strong check on the presiding elder, respecting the abuse of his power. An act of tyranny would be so opposed by the ministers present, and so represented afterward in favour of the oppressed, that the presiding elder who would venture upon an arbitrary step would find himself dreadfully embarrassed. Besides, those ministers could lay the whole affair before the General Conference, if near at hand; or before the ensuing yearly conference; or, as soon as possible, before a bishop: in which cases, the injured person might have complete redress, and the presiding elder censured or punished according to his deserts: and those ministers could give all possible information, having been present at the whole of the trial.

“The passage in St. Matthew, ch. xviii, 15-17, ‘If thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone,’ &c., has nothing to do with the present subject. We are now speaking of gross immoralities committed by preachers of the gospel. This does not concern the trespass of a private person, but the gross offence of a minister against the church of God. Undoubtedly, a minister so offending should not be suffered to remain in his office till the next yearly conference, as many souls might be ruined thereby in the interval. There is certainly as much mercy due to the people as to the minister; and in the present instance more, as he is but one, and they are many; and he is invested with his office, not for their destruction, but for their edification. See 2 Cor. x, 8, and xiii, 10. But scarcely any thing can be more destructive to the cause of God than the immoral life of a minister. Such an Achan in the camp must, more or less, bring down a curse upon the cause. 1 Sam. ii, 27-59, ‘There came a man of God unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord,—Wherefore kick ye at my sacrifice and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my habitation; and honourest thy sons above me,’ &c. 2 Sam. xi, 12, ‘Now the sons of Eli were sons of Belial; they knew not the Lord.’ 2 Sam. iii, 11-14, ‘The Lord said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle. In that day I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: when I begin, I will also make an end. For I have told him, that I will judge his house for ever, for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not,’ &c. See that whole history. Matt. vii, 22, 23, ‘Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.’ Rom. ii, 3, ‘Thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?' 1 Tim. v, 19, 'Against an elder receive not an accusation, but before two or three witnesses.'

"2. The mode of process directed in the answer to the second question, is nearly according to our Lord's directions, concerning the offences of the private members of a church, in Matt xviii, 15-17, 'If thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican.' First the preacher is to be reprov'd by his senior in office. On a second offence, the minister reprehending, is to take with him one, two, or three witnesses: and if still incurable, the offender is to be brought before that part of the church to which he is particularly responsible, namely, the yearly conference. He is not to be tried by the members of his circuit or district, for they are the complainants—the persons supposed to be aggrieved—but by his elders and equals. There is, however, a considerable difference between the persons concerned in the directions given by our Lord in the portion of Scripture quoted above, and those who are adverted to in the present section. That scripture evidently refers to the private members of a church; and the minister himself, after private reproof and public reprehension, first before two or three witnesses, and then before the church, is to exclude the person, if impenitent. But of this we shall treat largely, when we come to consider the eighth section of the second chapter. Improper tempers, manifested in the conversation or conduct of a minister of the gospel, may be productive of more evil than all his public labours can possibly compensate. But, at the same time, he may not be so criminal, but that he may be borne with for a time, in hope of reformation.

"N. B. The reason why the expression, one, two, or three witnesses is mentioned in the section under this head, is, because it may, in some instances, be impossible to have more than one besides the reprehending minister, without sending to a neighbouring circuit; and as no public censure can pass upon the offending preacher in this case till the sitting of the yearly conference, it would not be proper to take a minister of the gospel from his labours in another circuit, for two or three days, to answer the present purpose.

"'The servant of the Lord,' says St. Paul, 'must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient; in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves,' 2 Tim. ii, 24, 25. 'He [Christ] turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of,' Luke ix, 55.

“ 3. It will, we believe, be allowed by all who love the truth as it is in Jesus, that the heretical doctrines are as dangerous, at least to the hearers, as the immoral life of a preacher; and, therefore, the same process is provided for both cases. Those must indeed be blind, who can sit for any time under the ministry of an Arian, Socinian, Universalian, or any other heretical minister: ‘and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch,’ Matt. xv, 14, and Luke vi, 39. But as we would guard against a hasty and arbitrary measure in a matter which sometimes, perhaps, it may be difficult to determine, the case alluded to at present shall lie over to the yearly conference, if the preacher be perfectly silent, in public and private, on the subjects objected to. But if he will go on to dishonour Christ, or to oppose the doctrines of holiness, or to introduce novel sentiments or ‘vain jangling,’ (1 Tim. i, 6,) to draw our people from the one thing needful,—CHRIST DYING FOR AND LIVING IN US,—an immediate stop must be put to such dangerous, such pernicious proceedings.

“ Matt. vii, 15, 16, ‘Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.’ Tit. iii, 10, 11, ‘A man that is a heretic, after the first and second admonition, reject;’ (here the authority of judging and rejecting is invested in Timothy;) ‘knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned of himself.’ 2 Pet. ii, 1–3, ‘But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction. And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of. And through covetousness shall they, with feigned words, make merchandise of you: whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.’ Rev. ii, 2, ‘I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars.’ Rev. ii, 20, ‘Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou [the angel of the church in Thyatira] sufferest that woman, Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.’

“ Before we conclude our notes on this section, we must entreat our reader to notice, not only here, but throughout the whole of our economy, the appeals which are allowed upon all occasions, as far as the nature and circumstances of things will possibly allow of them, without making our economy intricate and burdensome.”

"SECTION XXI.

"Of the Local Preachers."

"By this mode of trial we are desirous of showing the most tender regard toward our local brethren. We are all but men. The best of us may fall into sin, or be drawn into dangerous and pernicious errors; and it is sometimes necessary to stop the plague by an immediate stroke of discipline. But we would not have so important a character as that of one of our local brethren even touched to its disadvantage by only one preacher, who possibly might be younger than the accused. We have, therefore, provided that a small meeting of respectable persons shall be held, before a single step be taken in the business. The trial will then come before the most weighty assembly in the circuit.

"We have directed the yearly conference, upon an appeal, to determine upon the merits of the cause from the memorial of the quarterly meeting, on account of the difficulty, if not impossibility, of bringing the necessary witnesses, perhaps thirty, fifty, or a hundred miles from their home: nor have we any right or authority to lay such a burden on any of our people. In short, we have done the best we can, according to the nature of the circumstances in which we are placed."

"SECTION XXII.

"Of Baptism."

We need only observe here, that we are conscious that sprinkling, pouring, and immersing have been practised by different churches, in each of which the pure gospel was preached, and the life of God, more or less, experienced; and that all these modes are, more or less, acceptable to God, when administered with sincerity. At the same time, we know well, that as much or more may be said in favour of sprinkling than of immersion, from the account given us in Scripture of the baptism of John himself: and the primitive churches in general, we believe, favoured the practice of sprinkling. However, we would meet the tender mind, and in matters unessential condescend, as far as we conscientiously can, to the feelings and sentiments of all."

"As we have before observed, our aim is to save souls, and not to enrich ourselves: therefore, Mr. Wesley and our General Conference placed our whole economy as far distant as possible from that of a lucrative ministry. We are determined not to sell the ordinances of God: in this no man shall make our glorying void. Matt. x, 8, 'Freely ye have received,' says, our Lord, 'freely give.' 1 Cor. ix, 11-18, 'If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things? If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? Nevertheless, we have not used this power; but suffer all things lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ.—I have used none of these things; neither have I written these things that it should be so done unto me; for it were better for me to die than that any man should make my glorying void.' ” “ SECTION XXIII.

“ Of the Lord's Supper. ”

“ As the Scripture is silent about the posture of the communicants, we prefer the most humble, whatever our Saviour might have permitted when he instituted the sacred ordinance. Besides, as we always receive the elements in prayer, we for that reason also prefer the kneeling posture. We must also observe, that our elders should be very cautious how they admit to the communion persons who are not in our society. It would be highly injurious to our brethren, if we suffered any to partake of the Lord's supper with them, whom we would not readily admit into our society on application made to us. Those whom we judge unfit to partake of our profitable, prudential means of grace, we should most certainly think improper to be partakers of an ordinance which has been expressly instituted by Christ himself.”

“ SECTION XXIV.

“ Of Public Worship. ”

“ Our church insists on the reading of the Scriptures in the congregation, and gives directions accordingly. This is of the utmost consequence, and we trust will be most sacredly observed by all our ministers and preachers. A peculiar blessing accompanies the public reading as well as preaching the word of God to attentive, believing souls. And in these days of infidelity nothing should be omitted which may lead the people to the love of the Holy Bible.

“ The meeting of the society also, wherever practicable, is of considerable moment. There are various weighty subjects, peculiarly suitable to religious societies, which cannot be so well enlarged upon to a mixed congregation. Brotherly union and fellowship, Christian discipline in all its branches, and various other particulars may be enlarged upon and enforced with great propriety and success on such occasions. At these times also we may enter more minutely into the different parts of the relative duties, than we can to unawakened souls, whose whole life is sin, and who are at the best only 'like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.'" “ SECTION XXV.

“ Of the Spirit and Truth of Singing.”

“ The singing of psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, in the congregation, has been allowed by all the churches of God in all ages (one modern society excepted) to be a part of divine worship ; and, from its very nature, it evidently belongs to the whole congregation. It would be unseemly for the minister alone to sing : but if this be the duty of one member of the congregation, it must be the duty of all who have voices for singing ; and there are very few who may not join in the tenor part, all the defects of their voices being swallowed up in the general sound. Few things can be more pleasing to the Lord than a congregation with one heart and one voice, praising his holy name. It is indeed to be feared, that there is seldom a large congregation, where every individual is sincere. However, all who do in sincerity desire a blessing, should strive to join in the general chorus—we mean, in every part of the hymn. If one part of it be above the experience of the singer, he should adjoin a silent prayer, that the Lord may give him the grace he needs ; for the Lord listens to hear what the heart speaks, and takes all as nothing, if the heart be silent. Again, when his experience rises above the hymn, his secret prayer should be in behalf of that part of the congregation which it suits : but in the proper hymns of praise he may throw off all reserve, for we are all infinitely indebted to our good God. From these remarks we surely must be sensible of the necessity of confining ourselves to simple tunes, as the fugue-tunes have an unavoidable tendency to confine to a few this part of divine worship, which belongs to the whole. And those, we think, have made few remarks on public worship, who have not observed, on the one hand, how naturally the fugue-tunes puff up with vanity those who excel in them ; and on the other hand, how it deadens devotion, and only at the best raises an admiration of the singers, and not of Christ.

“ When it is recommended in this section to the preacher sometimes to stop and address the people in the course of singing, the substance only of what he should say is mentioned there. It is not intended, that he should speak abruptly on such occasions, but with softness and due respect on the necessity of singing and of performing every act of devotion from the heart.”

" SECTION XXVIII.

" Of the Chartered Fund."

" We need not be urgent on our benevolent friends to promote this great charity. Their own feelings, we well know, will sufficiently prevail, when proper light is given to them on the subject. Our brethren who have laboured on the mountains, on the western waters, and in the poorer circuits in general, have suffered unspeakable hardships, merely for the want of some established fund, in which the competent members of our society might safely lodge what their benevolent hearts would rejoice to give, for the spread of the gospel. On the same account, many of our worn-out preachers, some of whom quickly consumed their strength by their great exertions for the salvation of souls, have been brought into deep distress; and the widows and orphans of our preachers have been sometimes reduced to extreme necessity, who might have lived in comfort, if not in affluence, enjoying the sweets of domestic life, if the preachers who were the husbands on one hand, and the fathers on the other, had not loved their Redeemer better than wife or children, or life itself. And it is to be lamented, if possible, with tears of blood, that we have lost scores of our most able married ministers—men who, like good householders, could upon all occasions bring things new and old out of their treasury, but were obliged to retire from the general work, because they saw nothing before them for their wives and children, if they continued itinerants, but misery and ruin. But the present institution will, we trust, under the blessing of God, greatly relieve us in, if not entirely deliver us from, these mighty evils. For we have full confidence, that the hearts of our friends will be engaged, and their hands stretched forth on this important occasion; and a provision will be made, sufficient to preserve the objects of the charity from want, which is all that is aimed at or desired."

" CHAPTER II

" SECTION I.

" The Nature, Design, and General Rules of the United Societies."

" THE present section forms, perhaps, one of the completest systems of Christian ethics or morals, for its size, which ever was published by an uninspired writer. We speak this the more readily, because it was the work of the first divine, we believe, since the time of the apostles, the late Mr. Wesley, after matured experience, with only a small addition, which the circumstances of these states required. The rules are so clear, and so obviously approve themselves to every candid mind, that we need only touch briefly upon them, proving them by quotations from the sacred writings.

“1. Of class meeting we shall speak hereafter : we would here only explain a few particulars concerning the office of a leader. We have found it necessary in innumerable instances to enlarge the number of the class, from the impossibility of providing a sufficiency of class-leaders, if the number were always limited to twelve. The office is of vast consequence. The revival of the work of God does perhaps depend as much upon the whole body of leaders, as it does upon the whole body of preachers. We have almost constantly observed, that when a leader is dull, or careless, or inactive—when he has not abilities or zeal sufficient to reprove with courage though with gentleness, and to press a present salvation upon the hearts of the sincere—the class is, in general, languid : but, on the contrary, when the leader is much alive to God and faithful in his office, the class is also, in general, lively and spiritual. This arises from the nature of the Christian plan of salvation. It is the same, in general, with a minister and his flock ; and every leader, as we have before intimated, is, in some degree, a gospel minister : though we may add, that among us a spiritual body of leaders may counteract the otherwise pernicious consequences of a languid ministry.

“At the beginning of Methodism, the leader called weekly upon each of his class, in which case twelve were quite sufficient for his inspection. But very soon it was found abundantly preferable for the whole class to meet the leader together, not only for the sake of the leader, but for the good of the people, who by that means enjoy the unspeakable advantage of Christian fellowship. At the same time the leader is expected to visit the members of his class at their own houses, especially when they are sick or confined, as often as his circumstances will admit.”

“4. The buying and selling the souls and bodies of men (for what is the body without the soul but a dead carcass?) is a complicated crime.* It was indeed, in some measure, overlooked in the Jews by reason of the wonderful hardness of their hearts, as was the keeping of concubines and the divorcing of wives at pleasure, but it is totally opposite to the whole spirit of the gospel. It has an immediate tendency to fill the mind with pride and tyranny, and is frequently productive of almost every act of lust and cruelty which can disgrace the human species. Even the moral philosopher will candidly confess, that if there be a God, every perfection he possesses must be opposed to a practice so contrary to every moral idea which can influence the human mind."

“* Are there not many proprietors to be found on this continent, who restrain their slaves from enjoying the privileges of the gospel, and thereby invade the rights of the souls and consciences of their slaves, as well as their bodies? At the same time we must give the credit due to multitudes who do not thus enslave the minds of their servants, but allow them full liberty to attend the preaching of the gospel, wherever they think they are most profited.”

"6. We are debtors to the constitution under which we live (we, especially in these United States) for all the blessings of law and liberty which we enjoy : and without a government to support that constitution, all would be anarchy and confusion. It is, therefore, our duty to support it by bearing, with our fellow-citizens, an equal proportion of its expenses ; and it is as great a crime to rob our country, as to rob a private individual ; and the blindness of too many to this truth, injures not in the least the veracity of it."

"SECTION II.

"Of Class Meeting."

"So much has been already spoken concerning the office of a leader in the notes on the preceding section, and on the tenth of the first chapter, that we have hardly room to enlarge without tautology. But from the whole we may observe, how careful our ministers should be in their choice of leaders. For our leaders, under God, are the sinews of our society, and our revivals will ever, in a great measure, rise or fall with them. Our ministers and preachers should therefore consider no time better employed than that which they bestow on the leaders, in examining them, directing them, and stirring them up to their holy and momentous duty.

"We have made many remarks in the course of our work on the necessity of Christian fellowship : but this cannot be carried on to any considerable advantage without stated solemn times of assembling. The meetings held for this purpose must have a name to distinguish them. We call ours class meetings, and band meetings ; but of the former we are to speak at present. Here we must notice, that it is the thing itself, Christian fellowship, and not the name, which we contend for. The experience of about sixty years has fully convinced us of its necessity ; and we ourselves can say that in the course of an extensive acquaintance with men and things, and the church of God, for about twenty or thirty years, we have rarely met with one who has been much devoted to God, and at the same time not united in close Christian fellowship to some religious society or other. Far be it from us to suppose that no fellowship meetings, except ours, are owned of God : so illiberal a sentiment never entered our minds. But we must say, that those who entirely neglect this divinely-instituted ordinance (however various the names given to it, or the modes of conducting it, may be) manifest that they are either ashamed to acknowledge as their brethren the true children of God, or 'are enemies of the cross of Christ,' Phil. iii, 18. They wish to keep up a correspondence with the world, which Christian discipline could not long tolerate; or they cannot bear to have their wounds probed to the bottom, that the balm of Gilead, the healing wine and oil of the gospel, may be applied by the divine Physician, 'and the blood of Jesus Christ the Son of God cleanse them from all sin,' 1 John i, 7.

"We have no doubt but meetings of Christian brethren for the exposition of Scripture texts may be attended with their advantages. But the most profitable exercise of any is a free inquiry into the state of the heart. We therefore confine these meetings to Christian experience, only adjoining singing and prayer in the introduction and conclusion. And we praise the Lord they have been made a blessing to scores of thousands. And we must add, with gratitude to the Most High, that after an accurate attention to the point ourselves, and from the impartial account of several of our oldest and most useful ministers in different parts of the globe, we have cause to believe, that out of those who have died members of our society, far the greatest part have entered into glory in the triumph of faith. In short, we can truly say, that through the grace of God our classes form the pillars of our work, and, as we have before observed, are in a considerable degree our universities for the ministry."

"SECTION III.

"Of the Band Societies."

"Our society may be considered as a spiritual hospital, where souls come to be cured of their spiritual diseases. The members, therefore, who compose our class meetings vary exceedingly in the state of their minds and the degrees of their experience. On this account it was thought necessary by our venerable leader, Mr. Wesley, to establish a society of evangelical believers within the society composed of the whole body of Methodists, to which he gave the name of the band society. This institution he borrowed from the practice of the primitive churches, as indeed he did almost every thing he established.

"The heart of man by nature is such a cage of unclean birds that few are to be found who will lay before their brethren all its secret movements, unless the love of God be the ruling principle of their souls. And even then they are not called upon to exercise this confidence, except toward a small confidential company of true believers like themselves. When bands can ne formed on this plan (and on no other do we form them) they become one of the most profitable means of grace in the whole compass of Christian discipline. There is nothing we know of which so much quickens the soul to a desire and expectation of the perfect love of God as this. It includes in it all the spiritual benefits of social intercourse. For these little families of love not only mutually weep and rejoice, and in every thing sympathize with each other, as genuine friends, but each of them possesses a measure of 'that unction of the Holy One,' (1 John ii, 20,) which teaches all spiritual knowledge. And thus are they enabled to 'build up themselves [and each other] on their most holy faith,' (Jude 20,) and to 'consider one another, to provoke unto love and good works,' Heb. x, 24.

"The regularity and order which should be observed in every solemn meeting, requires that one of the band should be the leader, to open and close the ordinance with singing and prayer, though all may be here considered nearly upon an equality. Each must be at full liberty to follow the leader in prayer, whenever they kneel down together before God.

"In large societies all the members of those little bands are to meet together once a week with the preacher, and to spend an hour in speaking their experience one after another, as in our love-feasts: and these meetings have been rendered a great blessing to many.

"In very large societies there should be a quarterly love-feast for the bands, as well as for the whole society, (which always includes the members of the bands.)

"Wherever also it is practicable, there should be formed a select society chosen out of the members of the bands. This should be composed of believers who enjoy the perfect love of God, or who are earnestly seeking that great blessing. In London, Bristol, &c., in Europe, and in New-York, &c., on this continent, these select societies have been very profitable. They also meet once a week for an hour, and the preacher presides among them. Each member is at liberty to speak his or her experience, the preacher giving such advice respecting the grand point their souls are aiming at, as he sees expedient.

"Thus does our economy, by its prudential ordinances, under the grace of God, tend to raise the members of our society from one degree of grace to another. And we have invariably observed, that where these meetings of the bands have been kept up in their life and power, the revival of the work of God has been manifest both in the addition of members to the society and in the deepening of the life of God in general.

"We earnestly wish that our elders, deacons, and preachers be peculiarly attentive to these blessed ordinances in their respective spheres of action. They probably may find earnest believers in almost every circuit, who will be willing to meet in band, if properly advised and encouraged. And when many of these bands are formed, the other meetings may easily be established and regulated. And we believe hardly any thing will promote the general work more than this.

“The propriety of separating the men and women in these bands must be evident to every one who considers the account here given of this means of grace. The separating of the married and single arises from the peculiar circumstances in which they are situated, and from the closer union which is likely to subsist between those who are circumstanced alike. Widowers or widows may have their choice of meeting either with the married or the single, unless a band can be formed of them alone respectively.

“The social principle is one of the grand springs in the soul of man. It was not the design of Christianity to annihilate this principle, but the very contrary—to improve it, to spiritualize it, and strengthen it. O then let us exercise it in spiritual intercourse, as we well know that one part of our heavenly felicity will flow from friendship and union with our brethren, the redeemed of the Lord, to all eternity! Gal. vi, 2, ‘Bear ye one another’s burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ.’ 1 Cor. xii, 26, 27, ‘Whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it: or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it. Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.’ Phil. ii, 1, 2, ‘If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies: fulfil ye my joy, that ye be like-minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.’ We have perhaps one hundred thousand believers in our church throughout the world; and if all were thus of one accord, ‘walking by the same rule, minding the same thing,’ (Phil. iii, 16,) what a glorious church should we make; and God would hear our prayers, and look down upon us with the same delight, as if we were all assembled in the same room, or in the same temple.

“Observe, here is nothing of auricular confession or priestly absolution: the whole is the fruit of holy confidence and Christian love.”

“SECTION IV.

“Of the Privileges granted to serious Persons who are not of the Society.”

“It is manifestly our duty to fence in our society, and to preserve it from intruders; otherwise we should soon become a desolate waste. God would write Ichabod upon us, and the glory would be departed from Israel. At the same time we should suffer those who are apparently sincere, if they request it, to see our order and discipline twice or thrice, that they themselves may judge whether it will be for their spiritual advantage to cast in their lot among us. But we should by no means exceed the indulgence here allowed; otherwise we should make our valuable meetings for Christian fellowship cheap and contemptible, and bring a heavy burden on the minds of our brethren."

"SECTION V.

"Of the Qualification and Duty of the Stewards of Circuits."

"In each large society there are generally two or four stewards of that particular society for the management of its temporal concerns. These are appointed, as well as the circuit stewards, by the preacher who has the charge of the circuit. He is himself to have as little as possible to do with temporal affairs, but has the appointment of the officers of the society invested in him, as being likely to be the best judge of the society at large, and of each member in particular. Nevertheless, he is to advise with the quarterly meeting on the appointment of circuit stewards, and with the leaders of each society respectively on the appointment of society stewards."

"SECTION VIII.

"Of bringing to Trial, finding guilty, and reprovng, suspending, or excluding disorderly Persons from Society and Church Privileges.

"The present section requires a very full explication; not because Scripture and reason do not fully discover to us the truth on the present subject, but because many have objected to our Discipline in the instance before us.

"The grand point to be determined is this: whether the final judgment of an offender in respect to both the guilt and the censure should be invested in the minister or the people. We shall therefore take a view of this part of our economy, first, in the light of Scripture, and, secondly, in that of reason.

"First, in the light of Scripture. Here we must confine ourselves of course to the New Testament, as living under the Christian dispensation. 1. The first scripture we shall consider is the declaration of our Saviour in Matt. xviii, 15-17, 'Moreover, if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church; but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican.' These words were addressed to the apostles, and through them to all the ministers of Christ to the end of the world. This is evident from the words immediately following the quotation, and which are a continuation of the same paragraph, and could not belong to the private members of a church.

"The first step then which is to be taken, is to tell the offender of his fault in private without any witness. Here is the secret reproof of the minister himself. But if he will not hear and amend, the second step is, that the minister take with him two or three witnesses. Here is the reproof of the minister before witnesses. 'And if he shall neglect to hear them,' shall these two or three witnesses proceed to exclude him? No: they have no such authority: but 'tell it unto the church.' This is the third step. Has the church then any authority to punish him? No: their whole authority lies in advising and reproving him. 'But if,' after such advice and reproof, 'he neglect to hear the church, let him be UNTO THEE as a heathen man and a publican.' Can any one imagine that the minister only is to treat the offender thus: and that the rest of the church are to give him the right hand of fellowship? This cannot be. The minister is undoubtedly to exclude him from the communion of the church. This is the last step. Then follow immediately those words of our Lord, 'Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven:' which words, as we before observed, confine the power to ministers, whose church censures, as far as they are consistent with the word of God, (for we cannot suppose the authority goes further,) shall be confirmed and supported in heaven: and the faithful ministers of God, who have been more or less invested with the superintendency of the church, have found this promise verified. The latter words cannot be supposed to relate to an external exclusion from glory, for that would preclude the necessity of the day of judgment in respect to those so excommunicated. But we repeat, here is not a word said of the church's authority either to judge or to censure. On the contrary, the whole authority is expressly delivered into the hands of the minister.

"But we may add, that this passage speaks of offences which have not yet brought a public disgrace on the church of God. The church or society of which the offender is a member is not even supposed to be generally acquainted with the fault till after the failure of the first and second attempt for his reformation. Surely, if the offence be of a scandalous nature, and has already disgraced the cause of God by its public notoriety, the offender ought to be immediately removed, after clear conviction, for the honour of God and his cause: much more so still, if the offender has been found guilty of some gross crime. For could any one think of having communion with a murderer, adulterer, or thief, even for a moment, though the crime was not known to any but the offender and himself: and so we may observe of many other crimes.

“ But it may be urged that the offence must be first mentioned to the church, before the offender can be scripturally excluded. ‘Tell it to the church,’ says our Lord. And so we do. It is merely for the sake of convenience, that in large societies we tell it only to a committee or representation of the society, or do abundantly more, even make them the witnesses of the whole trial. But if such societies were to desire it, we would tell the whole unto the church at large. But still we must declare, from the plain sense of the word of God, that our Lord invests the minister with the whole authority both of judgment and censure.

“ 2. Another scripture worthy of consideration on this subject is 1 Cor. v, 1–5, ‘It is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father’s wife. And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed, might be taken away from among you. For I verily as absent in body, but present in spirit, HAVE JUDGED already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed: in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, to deliver such a one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of our Lord Jesus.’ It is evident, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that the apostle, being fully persuaded of the truth of the fact, took upon himself the whole business of deciding on the guilt and punishment of the incestuous Corinthian. ‘I, as present in spirit,’ says he, ‘have judged already.’ He here acts as their chief minister, and requires them to consider his spirit present with them, as he could not be so personally. They were not to meet, in order to consult whether the offender should be put away or not, but merely to put him from among them, because the apostle was absent.

“ It may here be asked, Why did not the chief resident minister of the church of Corinth put away the incestuous person, if he possessed the authority? We answer, Because he was unfaithful. He connived at this enormous crime, either because he did not love the cause of holiness, which is the cause of God, or because he gave way to the evil solicitations of the people. This is evident from those words in the passage before us, ‘Ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed, might be taken away from among you.’ He does not say, Ye have not mourned that you did not put away this great offender, but ‘that he might be taken away from among you.’ But as the person who had the immediate authority did not take the offender away from among them, St. Paul, as the apostle of the Gentiles, steps in to the minister’s place, and cuts him off.

“It might also be urged, that it was an apostle who thus acted: and we should be ready to admit this as an exempt case, if it were not agreeable to the authority given by Christ himself to his ministers—an authority, the due exercise of which by his ministers our Lord highly approves of, and the neglect of which he strongly condemns, as we shall now proceed to show.

“3. Rev. ii, 1, 2, ‘Unto the angel of the church of Ephesus write, These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks; I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil.’ With what high approbation does our Lord here express himself concerning the determined opposition of the chief minister of the church of Ephesus to all immoral professors! ‘Thou canst not bear them which are evil.’ But if this minister had only a single vote against immoral practices in the church, or was only chairman in the meetings of the church, to examine into the conduct of offenders or supposed offenders, is it likely that our Lord would have given so high an encomium, so strong a commendation of the conduct of the minister in this respect? Would he not at least have said something in commendation of the church itself, without whom in this instance, if the power of censure lay in them, the minister would be almost a cipher? For the minister, in such case, would have little to do in the business, unless as a complainant or informer. Besides, our Lord adds in the second verse, ‘And thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not; and hast found them liars.’ And again, verse 6, ‘But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.’ From the whole of which it appears, that the minister was the sole judge both of the morals and doctrines of the church which he superintended, the church not being at all mentioned by our Lord as having any authority in these matters.

“4. Rev. ii, 12–15, ‘And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write, These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;—I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak to cast a stumbling block before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication. So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.’ But why should our Lord cast all this blame on the minister alone, without taking the least notice of the church, if the power of censure rested in the church, and not in the minister; or no further in the minister, than as having a single vote in the church? Is it, we must repeat, at all probable, is it morally possible, that our Lord would have written thus to the angel of the church, if that angel, or chief minister, had not possessed authority to cleanse it from the followers of the doctrine of Balaam, and of the Nicolaitans?

“ 5. Rev. ii, 18–20, ‘ And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write, These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass ; —I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.’ But how could he possibly avoid suffering her to remain in the church, if the church possessed the power of censure and excommunication, and was determined to keep her in? Or, how could he possibly have prevented her being turned out, if the church had in it the power of expulsion, and had expelled her ?

“ We may here just observe that most of the churches of Asia Minor, mentioned in the second and third chapters of the Revelation, if not all of them, were founded by St. Paul.

“ 6. We shall instance in only two more portions of the word of God on this subject. (1.) Heb. xiii, 7, ‘ Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation.’ And (2.) Verse 17, ‘ Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves : for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account : that they may do it with joy, and not with grief : for that is unprofitable for you.’ Observe, [1.] The persons here described as having the rule, and a right to obedience and submission, were persons who had spoken the word of God to the people, and watched over their souls, and consequently were their preachers and pastors. But, [2.] To suppose that they ruled in the church, and had a claim to obedience and submission, and yet had not the authority of cleansing the church from immoral and heretical persons, would be exceedingly absurd. These last-quoted texts are collateral and inferential proofs, the former are expressly so.

“ 2dly. Let us consider the subject in the light of reason. 1. Is there any propriety in constituting a husband the judge of the guilt or innocence of his wife, or the wife of her husband ; the parent of his child, or the child of his parent ; the brother of his sister, or the sister of her brother, &c.? Would not natural affection almost unavoidably move them in such cases to be partial to each other ? Might not resentment move a master to be partial in his judgment against his servant ? Might not fear, on the contrary, influence the servant in favour of his master ? A long acquaintance also, perhaps even from childhood, has a powerful effect upon the minds of men, and would strongly tempt them to cover sin, to the destruction, not intentionally but eventually, of the work of God. The intermixture of temporal interests would also be a strong motive to induce many to make large allowances for the offender. ‘ My income is small, and my family large : such a one is my customer, and also many of his relations ; and shall I vote against him to the injury of my family ? Perhaps he may repent, and be better in future. Such a one has obliged me in various respects, and shall I be so ungrateful as to condemn him wholly ? Those who are acquainted with the operations of the human mind, must be very sensible how often these reasonings would warp the minds of the judges, and produce a partiality in their decisions, which would be ruinous in the last degree to the work of God. Additionally to all this, we must recollect that different countries, and different parts of the same country, are addicted to particular vices : and those are but little acquainted with human nature who do not know that men are strongly tempted to cover those sins which they themselves are inwardly inclined to, or which it is their interest to commit. For instance, in a part of the country where the maple-tree grows abundantly, and there are various manufactures of sugar, would not the church be strongly inclined to make large allowances for those who would labour in their sugar-camps on the Lord's day ? Let those answer who are acquainted with the nature of that manufacture. Again, in that part of the country where the buying the souls and bodies of men is a common practice, would not many in the church be tempted to favour those who were guilty of that practice, because they themselves might be the next to fall into the snare ? Yea, we have had proofs of this—of private members of the church, who have attempted to assume the power, not only of judging or rather clearing the offender, but of judging the law itself!

“To give therefore the authority of judging and censuring offenders to the private members of a church, would be to form a court which in innumerable instances would have the strongest temptations to partiality. We do not mention this to show the least disrespect to the private members of our society : on the contrary, many of them may exceed us in piety and every grace. But it is contrary to all the rules of justice to appoint those to be judges who may in so many instances be strongly tempted to be partial. At the same time we must observe, that THE WORD OF GOD is that which we principally stand upon, knowing well that every passage in the New Testament which relates to the present subject is wholly on our side.

“2. Our original design in forming our religious society renders the existence of this authority in our ministers absolutely necessary. But what was this design ? To raise a holy people. Our plan of economy shuts us up from the influence of any other motive in respect to our ministerial labours. It is impossible for us to enrich ourselves by Methodist preaching. Again, we bear a constant testimony against the pleasures of the world, and therefore should be esteemed, even by our own people, as the greatest of hypocrites, if we indulged ourselves in them, and would soon be excluded the connection by the various means of trial to which all of us are subject. And as to honour, we are almost the only despised people in Christendom, as a religious body. The secondary rank of mankind and the poor are the only persons (with a few exceptions) who receive the gospel. The rich and great in general, even those who have not embraced the favourite doctrines of the times, will not submit to the way of the cross, but, on the contrary, look down on the preachers of it as the greatest enthusiasts. And shall we thus sacrifice all that the world holds dear and at the same time lose the only aim of all our public labours, by false complaisance? No. We will have a holy people, or none. In every part of our economy, as well as doctrine, we aim at crucifixion to the world and love to God. This must be the price of our labours. We require not riches, honours, or pleasure, but a holy people. We have a right to dispose of our labours as we please, as far as they respect our fellow-creatures: and we will not bestow them on any other condition. If we labour in any place a sufficient time for a trial, and are not able to raise a people devoted to God, we will leave it: we have a right so to do, and none have just ground of complaint. Again, if we have encouragement from any people, but they afterward deceive us, and return to the world 'like the dog to his vomit,' (2 Pet. ii, 22,) they have broken the condition on which we labour among them; we have nothing more to do with them; and if we continue in that place, it is for the sake of others, and not of them. But, blessed be God, if we meet sometimes with discouragements in this respect, they are amply compensated by the increase of vital godliness. We love our people; and they in general amply repay our labours by their holy conversation. They are the joy of our hearts, and will, we trust, be our crown of rejoicing on the great day. But still we must observe, that our immovable support, on which we rest our sentiments upon this subject, is THE WORD OF GOD. And we may add, that the present point has been seldom disputed, as far as we know, by any, except those who have been disaffected to us, or have openly separated from us.

"An appeal is allowed, in all the cases mentioned in this section, to the following quarterly meeting. For though the power of appeal be not mentioned in the last clause, which relates to the sowing of dissensions, yet it certainly is implied. Our work is at present in its infancy in comparison to what, we trust, it will be through the blessing of God. Our ministers who have the charge of circuits may not be always so aged and experienced as we might wish them to be; the appeal to the quarterly meeting is therefore allowed to remedy this defect. And this no one can object to. No one, we think, can imagine, that the members of a class, or the members of the largest society, would form so respectable or so impartial a court of judicature as the presiding elder, the travelling and local preachers, and the leaders and stewards of the whole circuit. But the point is quite out of the reach of debate in respect to those who believe the sacred writings, and sincerely reverence them. The New Testament determines, beyond a doubt, that judgment and censure in the cases before us shall be in the minister : nor could we justify our conduct in investing the quarterly meeting with the authority of receiving and determining appeals, if it were not almost entirely composed of men who are more or less engaged in the ministry of the word, the stewards being the only exceptions.

“ We shall now just add some portions of sacred writ, in relation to the immoralities which are referred to in this section, that our ministers who have the oversight of circuits may have them under their eye.”

“ SECTION X.

“ Of the Sale and Use of Spirituous Liquors.”

“ Far be it from us to wish or endeavour to intrude upon the proper religious or civil liberty of any of our people. But the retailing of spirituous liquors, and giving drams to customers, when they call at the stores, are such prevalent customs at present, and are productive of so many evils, that we judge it our indispensable duty to form a regulation against them. The cause of God, which we prefer to every other consideration under heaven, absolutely requires us to step forth with humble boldness in this respect.”

“ CHAPTER III.

“ SECTION I.

“ Of building Churches, and the Order to be observed therein.”

“ ‘ The sitting of men and women apart’ was the universal practice in the primitive church. A general mixture of the sexes in places of divine worship is obviously improper.

“ In respect to the deed of settlement, we would observe, that the union of the Methodist society, through the states, requires one general deed, for the settlement of our preaching houses and the premises belonging thereto. In the above plan of settlement we have given to the trustees an authority and security they never possessed by virtue of our former deeds, namely, the power of mortgaging or selling the premises in the cases and manner above mentioned. By which we manifest to the whole world, that the property of the preaching houses will not be invested in the General Conference. But the preservation of our union and the progress of the work of God indispensably require, that the free and full use of the pulpits should be in the hands of the General Conference, and the yearly conferences authorized by them. Of course, the travelling preachers, who are in full connection, assembled in their conferences, are the patrons of the pulpits of our churches. And this was absolutely necessary to give a clear, legal specification in the deed. If the local preachers, stewards, and leaders (who have an undoubted right to preach, meet their classes, &c., in the preaching houses at due time, according to the Form of Discipline) were specified, it would be necessary to add a description of their orders; which would throw such obscurity upon the whole, that a court of justice would either reject the deed, or be at a loss to determine concerning the little peculiarities of our Form of Discipline. But we do hereby publicly declare, that we have no design of limiting, in the least degree, the privileges of any of the public officers of our society, but by this deed solely intend to preserve the property of our church by such a clear, simple specification, as shall be fully and easily cognizable by the laws."

"SECTION II.

"Of the Printing of Books, and the Application of the Profits arising therefrom."

"The propagation of religious knowledge, by means of the press, is next in importance to the preaching of the gospel. To supply the people, therefore, with the most pious and useful books, in order that they may fill up their leisure hours in the most profitable ways, is an object worthy of the deepest attention of their pastors. On this account we are determined to move in the most cautious manner in respect to our publications. We have a great esteem for our general book steward, and are much obliged to him for his fidelity and usefulness in his important office: but we shall in future submit our publications to the judgment of no single person. The books of infidelity and profaneness with which the states at present abound, demand our strongest exertions to counteract their pernicious influence: and every step shall be taken, which is consistent with our finances, to furnish our friends, from time to time, with the most useful treatises on every branch of religious knowledge. And the consideration that all the profits shall be lodged in our chartered fund for the benefit of the distressed preachers, both travelling and superannuated, will, we trust, prove a considerable additional inducement to our brethren to purchase our books."
