Dear Roger,

Greetings! I wrote to Bischoff, to ask him a few specific questions, and he was kind enough to go through my entire summary list of MSS and correct dates and places. I consider myself very fortunate. Enclosed is a copy of my letter to him, his response, and my inventory with his hand-written corrections. I thought you might be interested to see it, as some of the MSS he changes are "yours".

Also, I did not know about Florence, Bibl. Laur., Ashburn. App. 1923. I knew that Paris, BN lat. 13373 formerly contained Jesse's tract, but I am very pleased to hear that it still survives in an early s. ix MS from Corbie. Do you have anything on this Florence MS- any micro-film or references to it in publications? I will try to get what I can on it at UCLA this weekend, but I thought if you had any info, perhaps you would send it along with the other stuff. Would it be possible also to see your film of Paris, BN lat. 13373 again?

Thanks very much for the list of job openings in history and the article on the "7 Deadlies".

As always,
