ADDRESS OF THE BISHOP.

Brethren of the Clergy and Laity:

This new and beautiful structure, in which we are assembled in the Ninety-fourth Annual Convention of the Diocese, is an indication of the new life and growth of this parish, and I trust, in the Diocese at large. The old St. Paul's has some very sacred memories for me. In it I was ordained to the Priesthood May 30, 1880; and in it sixteen years ago I first presided in this Diocesan Convention as your Bishop. I therefore fully understand the feelings which the older members of this congregation must experience in seeing the old building and site give place to the new. But it is the natural and necessary order; and it is the method and the means whereby God accomplishes His good purposes for us and for the world. And as these outer and lesser things change and pass away may be all too experience the inner change by which our immortal spirit is brought more and more into conformity with His divine nature and image!

And among the sad but blessed changes to which the Church of God is subjected, is the removal from this visible communion of those whom the Church esteems her most necessary and indispensable workers. Two of our brethren of the Clergy have been taken from us during the past year, both of whom stood in peculiarly close personal relations with me.

Of the Rev. Dr. Murdoch I do not know how to speak adequately; and however restrained I might be in my language concerning him, were I to say all I think, I should fear to be counted extravagant. He was a man of extraordinary intellectual force, and of rare discrimination of judgment and lucidity of thought. His capacious and vigorous mind seemed not to feel the burden or difficulty of the most intricate and stubborn problems; and his ability to set forth in clear exposition his own views was a constant surprise even to those who knew him best. This clearness of view and precision of statement made him a wonderfully attractive and successful teacher, as many of our brethren of the Clergy can testify. And yet all which has been said does not touch the best and the greatest of that which he was. He was a little child in humility and reverence and submission to the teaching and to the discipline of his Heavenly Father and to his Saviour and Lord. It was a privilege to sit and learn of him in his public preaching and exhortation; it was a greater privilege now and again in the revelations of personal intercourse and of private discourse to catch brief glimpses of the gentle and trustful soul, and of the tender and loving heart, which too often was unsuspected by those who came in contact only with his masterful will and intellect in the routine of daily conventional and practical life. His heart was fixed on God, and the Church of God commanded the full loyalty of his life service. Many of us feel that we shall never find another who can supply his place to us.

The Rev. Frederick A. Felter was the first person whom it was my privilege to ordain to the Holy Ministry, and, though ten or twelve years my senior loved to call himself my oldest son. He was a man full of love and goodness, of childlike faith and piety, and a heart responsive to the demand of every kindly relationship of domestic and social life. He was an excellent classical scholar, better than was commonly understood, for he had no desire or ambition in preaching except to set forth the simple story of God's love, and to exhort all men to love one another, and to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour by holy and unselfish lives. He loved his people and was beloved by them. He did not long delay in following the younger brother of his love.

I can not refrain from saying a word, however brief and inadequate, in regard to the Rev. Francis W. Hilliard, who has been transferred to the Diocese of Tennessee. Mr. Hilliard, though for many years absent from the Diocese, was one of our oldest Clergy in point of early association and service. He was always most faithful, earnest and self-sacrificing in his works, and devoted to the Diocese and to its people. It is with very great regret that I miss his face from this our annual meeting. Domestic circumstances made it more to his comfort to remove to a distant Diocese. We follow him with our prayers and with our affectionate regrets.

My first services since those covered by my last address were in connection with the Ninety-third Annual Convention of the Diocese which met in Christ Church, Raleigh, Wednesday, May 12th.

June 27, 1909, being the Third Sunday after Trinity, in Trinity Church, Scotland Neck, acting for the Bishop of Idaho, and upon his written request and authorization, I ordained as Deacon, Zachary Taylor Vincent. The candidate was presented by Archdeacon Hughes, and I preached the sermon. The Rev. Geo. W. Lay also assisted in the service.

October 17th, being the Nineteenth Sunday after Trinity, in the Church of the Messiah, Mayodan, I ordained to the Diaconate, Cyprian Porter Willcox. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Alfred R. Berkeley, and I preached the sermon. Archdeacon Osborne and the Rev. Walter J. Smith also assisted in the services.

We have had added to our Clergy list during the year, by letters dimissory from other Dioceses six; by ordination three, as follows:

Rev. William H. H. Ball, Priest, from Oklahoma, May 21, 1909.

Rev. Clement Grenelle Bradley, Priest, from Western Michigan, August 3, 1909.

Rev. Isaac Wayne Hughes, Priest, from East Carolina, October 1, 1909.

Rev. Samuel Chalmers Thompson, Priest, from Albany, November 1, 1909.

- Rev. George Meredith Tolson, Priest, from Virginia, November 1, 1909.
 Rev. Evan Alexander Edwards, Priest, from Maryland, December 11, 1909.
 Rev. James King Satterwhite, Deacon, ordained June 20, 1909.
 Rev. Robert Josiah Johnson, Deacon, ordained June 20, 1909.
 Rev. Cyprian Porter Willcox, Deacon, ordained October 17, 1909.

We have lost by death and by transfer to other Dioceses the following:

- Rev. Francis Johnston Murdoch, D.D., died June 21, 1909.
 Rev. Frederick Augustus Fetter, died January 18, 1910.
 Rev. Francis W. Hilliard, transferred to Tennessee, July 1, 1909.
 Rev. Locke W. Blackwelder, transferred to Florida, August 2, 1909.
 Rev. Francis W. R. Arthurs, transferred to New York, September 20, 1909.
 Rev. Wilborn L. Mellichampe, transferred to Georgia, November 24, 1909.
 Rev. John H. Crosby, transferred to East Carolina, February 1, 1910.
 Rev. Homer L. Hoover, transferred to Nebraska, February 4, 1910.
 Rev. Sanders R. Guignard, transferred to South Carolina, March 1, 1910.
 Rev. Samuel C. Thompson, transferred to Southern Florida, April 28, 1910.

We have therefore suffered a loss of one in the total number of our Clergy, having now one Bishop, forty-eight Priests, and eight Deacons, a total of fifty-seven. The candidates for Holy Orders are, George C. Pollard and Arthur Myron Cochran; the postulants are, Foster N. Cox, Henry A. Willey, Walter L. Loftin, Lewis N. Taylor, Israel Harding Hughes, and Wm. Hoke Ramsaur.

The following changes have occurred in the fields of labor of the Clergy since the date of my last address.

The Rev. Thaddeus A. Cheatham has resigned the parish of St. Timothy's Church, Wilson, and last November became Rector of St. Luke's Church, Salisbury, made vacant by the lamented death of the Rev. Dr. Murdoch.

The Rev. Evan A. Edwards, received from the Diocese of Maryland, succeeds Mr. Cheatham in St. Timothy's Church, Wilson.

The Rev. Thos. L. Trott, upon the urgent desire of Archdeacon Hughes, and with the approval of the Bishop, has taken charge of St. Peter's Church, Stovall, vacant by the removal of the Rev. Mr. Hilliard, and has given up the churches at Milton and Cuningham.

St. Paul's, Goshen, which had also been served by the Rev. Mr. Hilliard, has been assigned to the charge of the Rev. Fred. H. T. Horsfield.

The Rev. Geo. M. Tolson, received from Virginia, has taken charge of the church at Leaksville and at Spray, left vacant by the removal of the Rev. Mr. Hoover.

The Rev. Wm. H. H. Ball has continued in charge of the churches at Wadesboro and Ansonville.

The Rev. Clementy G. Bradley has become Rector of Trinity Church, Scotland Neck, having charge also of St. Mark's, Halifax.

The Rev. Hardy H. Phelps, returning to his former Diocese, is officiating in Grace Church, Weldon, and the Church of the Advent, Enfield, having charge also of Ringwood and Roanoke Rapids—but has not been transferred to me by the Bishop of West Virginia.

The Rev. Isaac W. Hughes, received from East Carolina, is most acceptably filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former beloved Rector of the Church of the Holy Innocents, Henderson.

The Rev. Saml. C. Thompson, received from Albany, ministered for some months in Southern Pines and also at Laurinburg, but has taken letters dimissory to Southern Florida.

The Rev. Cyprian P. Willcox, since his ordination, has been continuing with the Rev. Algeo M. Berkeley in the important field where he had, for some years prior to his ordination, been rendering most valuable assistance.

The Rev. James K. Satterwhite I put in charge of our colored Mission in Winston, and he has also begun a most promising work among the colored people of Greensboro.

The Rev. Robt. J. Johnson is doing good work in our colored Mission at Durham, and hopes to establish also a mission among the colored people of Henderson.

The Rev. R. Percy Eubanks has resigned St. Mark's, Mecklenburg County, and other work in the Convocation of Charlotte, and has become assistant in the parish of Christ Church, Raleigh, having special charge of St. Saviour's Chapel and other important mission work.

The Rev. Wilborn L. Mellichampe, though transferred to the Diocese of George, has not yet removed his family from this Diocese, and with my consent, continues his monthly service at Pittsboro; and gives also occasional services at Elkin and at Germanton.

The important work left vacant at St. Andrew's, Greensboro, by the removal of the Rev. M. Guignard; the missions in Salisbury and in Rowan County, formerly cared for by the Rev. Mr. Blackwelder, under the direction of Dr. Murdoch; and the work of the Rev. Fredk. A. Fetter at Monroe and in Union County; still remain uncared for. I have found it impossible so far to make any arrangement to supply adequate service in these and in some other parts of the Diocese. On the whole, however, our parishes and missions are well supplied, and the Clergy are doing faithful and effective work.

I have received a communication from the executors of the late Hon. Wm. P. Bynum, Sr., informing me that their testator had left to the Diocese of North Carolina the sum of four hundred dollars for disabled and needy Clergymen of the Diocese, and two thousand dollars to be used in the missionary work of the Diocese, "including the visitation of county homes and jails." These legacies will be paid over in the due course of the settlement of the estate, and I respectfully suggest that the convention should advise the Trustees of the Diocese as to the distribution and application of the funds when received.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

The proper work of the church is its missionary work, the extension of the Kingdom of God among men. The reports of our Clergy and of our several missionary organizations are before the Convention, and will afford some information as to what is being done in and by this Diocese. That which comes first into view, as lying nearest to us, is the work of our own parishes and missions. You are to remember, however, that this year our parochial reports cover only eleven months—from April 30, 1909, to March 31, 1910. This may cause some apparent falling off in results as compared with former years—I do not know that it will, but this possibility must be borne in mind, and its explanation. As a matter of fact the work of the Diocese was never more vigorous, effective and hopeful than at this time. The number confirmed is considerable larger than I have ever reported before, and very greatly above the average. Our number of Clergymen remains about the same, but there is a very distinct increase in the average activity and efficiency of the Clergy; and I can not be mistaken in thinking that there is a gradual but very distinct advance in the general efficiency of the lay sympathy and cooperation which the Clergy receive in their work. Our Diocesan missionary work is carried on under the immediate direction of our three Convocations: The Convocation of Raleigh, the Convocation of Charlotte, and the Colored Convocation, with their Archdeacons. Reports from these three Archdeacons will this evening be laid before you. Within the last year or two there has been a distinct advance in the interest our laymen have taken in the work of these Convocations, and judged by the financial test of the funds raised in the Convocations, as compared with the funds formerly raised and disbursed under the direction of the old Executive Missionary Committee of the Convention, our present system has thoroughly justified itself.

Our stronger parishes lie naturally in our larger cities and towns. That which has especially characterized the development of this State during the quarter of a century last past, has been the wonderful growth of our towns by the gathering in of the poorer people of the country to work in the factories established in and near these cities and towns, and, in many cases, the building up of entirely new towns around large factories established in the country. Naturally, therefore, the most important work of the Church has come to be its efforts for the benefit of these new communities of working people. We have in the Diocese fourteen churches and chapels erected in these communities, and five of our best and ablest Clergymen give themselves specially to this work, besides what is done by the rectors of many of our parishes. In eight of these churches I have during the past year confirmed ninety-five persons—not much less than one-fifth of the whole number confirmed during the year, and ten of them reported last year over three hundred communicants. There is no field of work more fruitful, or more attractive to the man who loves to do good to his fellows, and to be a real help to men in their lives. Of all the Clergy of this Diocese I specially love and honor those who so nobly and unselfishly give themselves to this work, refusing calls to parishes where they might greatly advance their personal advantages, and enjoy the comfort and ease which their harder and poorer fields can not afford them. And the same should be said of others of our younger Clergy. The young man of ability who foregoes personal interest in devotion to the work laid upon him, is not only accomplishing the good work he sees before him, but he is strengthening the hold of the Church of Christ upon the hearts and minds of men.

“THE MEN’S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.”

The most striking feature in the religious history of the State of North Carolina during the past year has been the movement to enlist Christian men generally of all religious bodies in the evangelizing of the world. The most notable event in this connection was the wonderful meeting at Greensboro January 12-14. I shall not undertake to describe its proceedings. I am happy to know that many of you were there and saw and heard for yourselves. It was indeed a wonderful occasion, and illustrated and emphasized the blessed possibilities of the “Men’s Missionary Movement.” No body of Christians in this State was better represented than our own, whether on the platform or in the audience, in proportion to our numbers. I am fully persuaded that the Church in this Diocese has received much benefit from this movement already, and may receive much more. It is a distinct gain to have a common ground of sympathy and cooperation with other Christian people about us, such as the movement offers. Our missionary collections in some quarters have shown the effects of the interest aroused at Greensboro—I am afraid, however, that we are in danger of forgetting the good resolves we then made and registered. Let me remind those who were at the Greensboro meeting, and who in the sectional meeting in St. Barnabas’s Church Friday endeavored to voice the spirit of North Carolina Churchmen, that we then pledged our people, so far as we could do so, to double their offering to our Foreign Missionary work during this current year. I trust that no one who assented to that action at the time will suffer his own congregation to fail of redeeming this pledge—and in endeavoring to bring our whole Diocese up to that standard.

But the financial work of this movement is not its best possibility. Difficult and almost hopeless as the prospect for Christian unity at times seems to be, I am firmly persuaded that it is our duty to pray for it, and to work for it, and to desire it; and I believe that this movement will be instrumental in some degree towards effecting it in the end, that it is a step in the right direction. And I do not say this because it has brought us here in North Carolina to see men on one platform, who had not before been thus visibly at one. That kind of union has an element of menace to ultimate and real unity, by its seeming to be what it is not. What we saw at Greensboro in the work of that Convention was a distinct recognition of disunion—though it was a disunion which is beginning to feel dissatisfied with itself. Unity must be a growth, it must be the effect of a vital process in the whole body of Christian people. And perhaps our divisions, and our inherited and crystalized forms and habits of thought and feeling, disable us from seeing what are the essential principles and the practical methods by which Christians in the future shall grow into the oneness for which our common Lord prayed. But if all Christians in Christian lands can be aroused to a full sense of their duty to evangelize the world, and if we give our Foreign Missions the full measure of spiritual, moral and material support which they need for their work, then, in those new fields of endeavor and of achievement, the Christian forces at work for the conversion of the world shall draw together by the vital power of love, and by the guidance of the spirit of life shall discover for us the principles and the methods of unity. And in the meantime our common interest in the work of our missionaries shall insensibly draw us nearer together in love and sympathy, and prepare us to learn of them how we may really come together in one. And so, wisely and faithfully preserving our heritage of truth, we must be ready to cooperate in all earnest efforts to extend the power of the Gospel, knowing that in thus doing we are saving ourselves as well as those for whom we labor.

DIOCESAN LAYMEN'S CONFERENCE.

So many matters demand attention at this time that a very brief mention must suffice for the interesting and helpful meeting of our Laymen's Conference in Raleigh January 24th and 25th. It had no immediate relation to the preceding meeting in Greensboro, but was called in pursuance of a resolution of our last Diocesan Convention. The attendance was most gratifying, both in numbers and in character. Interesting addresses were made; and it was resolved to hold an adjourned meeting in connection with the "Conference" in St. Mary's School buildings June 20th to 25th. I trust that our Clergy and laity will appreciate the efforts thus made for the development and strengthening of the Church life of our Diocese, and that we may have a large attendance in response to the most hospitable invitation of the Rector and Trustees of St. Mary's School.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION OF 1910.

There are a number of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the General Convention submitted to us at this meeting that we may express our opinion upon them, should we desire to do so. There is the proposed "Preamble" to the Constitution, the amendment in regard to the office of Presiding Bishop, and the amendment allowing Suffragan Bishops. I do not think it necessary that I should enter upon any discussion of them. I will, however, say that the proposed "Preamble" does not seem to have grown in favor during the three years since 1907, and there are manifest inconveniences and dangers in introducing into our Constitution matters not really necessary in such a document. The proposed article concerning the office of Presiding Bishop does seem to me important, and even necessary, and proved to be so in our experience. I am also inclined to favor the amendment providing for suffragan Bishops, though it is a question of much difficulty, where much may be said on both sides. In so vast a country as ours, of such extensive Dioceses, where such varieties of race and language are often found under one Bishop, it does seem that Suffragan Bishops might help to solve some of the practical difficulties of the work. I do not, however, believe that this amendment will specially affect the solution of the problems involved in our colored work in the South. The Bishops of the South do not desire suffragan Bishops for the colored work, and the colored people do not desire them. For my own part I adhere to the opinion that if any change be made, the organization of our colored congregations into a missionary jurisdiction, as proposed by their own leading representatives, will best meet the difficulties of the present situation, and least embarrass our future action in meeting future issues.

With this imperfect presentation of some of the more important features of our present situation, I leave these matters to your consideration, and to such action as you may think best, where any action on your part is necessary.

JOS. BLOUNT CHESHIRE,
Bishop of North Carolina.
