FRONT ELEVATION PROPOSED GIRL'S DOMITORY FOR CHRISTIAN COLLEGE, FRANKLINTON, N. C.

FANKLINTON CHRISTIAN COLLEGE,

Franklinton, N. C.

Location

Christian College, a Christian Institution is beautifully located in a grove, part of a track of land running along the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, twenty-eight miles North of Raleigh, and one mile north of the corporate limits of Franklinton, North Carolina. Federal route number one, which separates the railroad from the campus, adds great to the attractiveness of the grounds and gives tourists an opportunity to get a panorama of this track of land consisting of eighty-two and three-fourths acres.

Franklinton Christian College had its origin in the formation of a public school in the Franklinton Christian Church, in 1879, with H. E. Long as teacher. It had the support and cooperation of many of the workers of the Southern Christian Convention and received aid from the public school fund.

There was such a deep interest in education manifested by the colored people until it became necessary to increase the capicity of the school and employ other teachers.

Dr. J. P. Watson, then mission secretary, made an appeal for assistance through the Herald of Gospel Liberty and many of the Northern friends responded. The colored people were able at this time, through special effort, to purchase the land, then valued at three hundred dollars, ($300.00) on which Northern friends furnished money for the main building, now known as the administration building and boys domitory. This building was erected in 1880 and the school was formally opened in the new building January 1st, 1882, under the name of Franklinton

Literary and Theological Institute. In 1886 the institute was placed under the care of the American Christian Convention, and a Board of Control was elected to foster its interest and direct its work. In 1891 a charter was obtained from the State of North Carolina and the name of the school was changed to Franklinton Christian College.

A second building, "The Hermitage," or the teachers home, was erected by the North Carolina Christian Conference (Colored). The history of the school has been one of progress. The most marked development of Franklinton Christian College, has been its spiritual growth. From the foundation of the institution, the bible has been the leading text book. Its aim is to assist the students in acquiring high morals and high intellectual standards. Those who have graduated from the College rank well as teachers, doctors, ministers of the gospel, editors and managers of large business interests. While the College has a commendable history of the past, its future is full of promise; its course of study has been raised, more departments of work have been added, and it is the aim of the Board of Control, and the faculty to keep the work of Franklinton Christian College abreast with all the Institutions of like grade.
