Dr. Jackson: “We Need Difference- Makers”

By E. O. Johnson/The BAPTIST INFORMER

People brave enough to reach across the racial, social, economic and political divide are needed to do real ministry in 21st century America.

That’s a message from the Rev. Dr. Charles B. Jackson, Sr., one of the central voices in today’s urban ministry landscape. “Real ministry isn’t what happens on Sunday mornings. Real ministry is facing the challenges. Real ministry is speaking out. Real ministry needs difference makers,” he told an audience of about 850 people at the MLK Banquet in January.

As pastor of the Brookland Baptist Church in West Columbia, South

Carolina, Dr. Jackson has been reaching across those gaps and working to make a difference in the theological trenches for nearly four decades. Today, his congregation is one of the fastest growing churches in South Carolina. Its 2,300-seat sanctuary was completed in 1999 and in 2005, they added a 68,000 square-foot Community Resource Center. It includes an Academy Child Development Center, a Health and Wellness Center and a Banquet and Conference Center.

“What we need are more ‘difference-makers’ who are committed, strong and fortified.”

Being a “difference-maker” in ministry, he said, means that church members must embrace and celebrate their gifts and talents to uplift others, especially young people who need role models in communities.

“Stop player-hating and being jealous,” Dr. Jackson said to shouts of “amen.” “Reach out and help someone else. We can’t collectively advance if we keep being jealous of each other. Not everybody has everything, but everybody has something.”

During his address, Dr. Jackson noted that he was “concerned about the racial divide” in the United States, especially since the historic election of President Barack Obama. It seems to be wider now, he said, than it was before the 2008 election.

He challenged members of the audience to re-evaluate the state of affairs of their communities, especially in light of the 2010 mid-term elections, when many incumbents lost their seats in the rising tide of political unrest surrounding issues such as health care reform and immigration. Now is not the time to rest on the past victories, but to move forward, he said.

“It’s time to get smart,” he said. “Have you taken a look at the economic situation lately? How many black businesses are surviving and thriving? All other ethnic groups can thrive, but we still have difficulties. The questions becomes can you maintain what you’ve attained.”

Highlights of the honorees:

Judge Beasley, a member of First Baptist, Fayetteville, was selected to the court in 2008. She is the first black woman to win election to statewide office in North Carolina without first being appointed by a governor. Beasley previously served as a state district court judge, serving District 12 (Cumberland). She was appointed to the bench by Gov. Jim Hunt in 1999, and then elected in a 2002 election. She was re-elected without opposition in 2006.

Judge Bryant, a member of Cedar Grove in Supply, N.C., was appointed to the North Carolina Court of Appeals in 2001 by Gov. Mike Easley. In 2004, she was elected to an eight year term on the NC Court of Appeals (expiring in 2012).

Judge Thigpen, a member of Christian Faith in Raleigh, was appointed to a seat on the North Carolina Court of Appeals in 2010 by Gov. Bev Perdue. He served as a special superior court judge from May 2008 until his appointment to the Court of Appeals. Previously, he was a partner in the law firm now known as Blue, Stephens & Fellers. He has practiced law for 30 years. In 1999, he was elected president of the state bar – the first African-American to hold that post.

Bread for the World Campaigns to Increase U.S. Foreign Aid

From Press Release

Washington, DC - Bread for the World has launched its 2011 Offering of Letters campaign to urge Congress to reform U.S. foreign assistance so it is more effective and benefits hungry and poor people globally.

“The main driver of poverty reduction in the world is the hard work of poor people themselves. Given the opportunity to improve their communities and provide a better life for their children, they will seize it,” said Rev. David Beckmann, president of Bread for the World. “We need to make sure U.S. foreign aid reaches those who need it most, and that it supports their efforts to lift their communities out of poverty.”

More effective aid matters to poor countries, such as Haiti and Liberia. For example, Haiti is struggling to recover from long-standing poverty made worse by the 2010 earthquake. Similarly, the people of Liberia are emerging from two devastating civil wars that left many more deeply impoverished.

“These problems cannot be overcome quickly, but more effective U.S. assistance will make a big difference as Haitians and Liberians—and people in many other developing countries— increase their capacity and infrastructure so they can become self-sufficient and build a better future for themselves,” said Bishop Don Dixon Williams, racial/ethnic outreach associate at Bread for the World.

Bread for the World seeks these changes:

- A stronger U.S. government focus on reducing poverty.
- Clearer accountability for how U.S. aid dollars are spent and their results.
- A transformed U.S. development agency.
- U.S. aid that meets the needs and wants of local people.

Bread For The World is a Christian-based organization focusing on alleviating hunger in the United States and abroad. The organization is based in Washington, DC, but has regional offices across the country. For more information about Bread For The World, visit www.bread.org/ol.

HKonJ MARCH, RALLY IN RALEIGH TO FOCUS ON JOBS AND EDUCATION

From Press Release

Reverend Dr. William J. Barber, II

RALEIGH, NC – Thousands are expected to gather at Shaw University on Saturday, February 12, 2011 and march to the State Legislature on Jones Street to protest the re-segregation of public schools, call for education instead of imprisonment, and demand good jobs and schools.

The 4th Annual HKonJ (Historic Thousands on Jones Street) March and Assembly will begin at Estey Hall (on the campus of Shaw University) beginning at 9:30 a.m. for the march and rally, beginning at 11:00 a.m., at 16 W. Jones St. in downtown Raleigh.

Featured speakers will include the Reverend Dr. William J. Barber, II, president of the NC Conference of NAACP, North Carolina civil rights and civic leaders and a special audio message from NAACP President and CEO Benjamin Todd Jealous.

“This is one of the most exciting movements I’ve seen across the country,” said NAACP President and CEO Benjamin Todd Jealous. “The agenda-based coalition, led by the NAACP State Conference, should be replicated across the country. We cannot in good moral conscience separate the struggle for diverse and superior education from the struggle for jobs and economic solutions.”

“On one hand, we must expose that the ultra right wing race baiting re-segregation strategy is a cynical attempt to play upon people’s vulnerability to division as they struggle for jobs,” said North Carolina NAACP State Conference President Rev. William J. Barber II. “On the other hand, we must demand recognition that the economic crisis in the African American and poor communities existed before recent crisis was acknowledge by the larger society and must be addressed.”

African-American Baptists increase Haitian Aid to $1 million

By Bob Allen
American Baptist Press

WASHINGTON (ABP) -- Five historically African-American Baptist denominations that collaborated last year for Haiti relief made a second grant of $500,000 on Jan. 12 to build homes through Habitat for Humanity International.

Announced on the one-year anniversary of the Haiti quake, the grant increased to $1 million the amount of money raised by the African-American Baptist Mission Collaboration.

Presidents of the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission Convention; National Baptist Convention, USA; National

Baptist Convention of America; National Missionary Baptist Convention of America; and Progressive National Baptist Convention decided shortly after the Jan. 12, 2010, earthquake to pool resources of more than 10 million Baptists in the United States.

In June the presidents presented a first $500,000 check to Habitat, the largest faith-based donation Habitat had received for Haiti relief.

"Our commitment to help our brothers and sisters in Haiti continues with this contribution," David Emmanuel Goatley, coordinator with AABMC and executive secretary-treasurer of the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission Convention, said in a press release.

Raised within the first year, the combined $1 million in gifts represents the first step toward a five year-goal of raising $50 million to rebuild lives of those devastated by the earthquake.

"We are just getting started in earnest with our assistance, and this partnership with Habitat for Humanity is one part of a variety of investments our network is making in support to churches, clinics, schools and families," Goatley said.

The initial funding supported the construction of transitional shelters to help meet basic needs of more than 1,600 Haitians in Cabaret. Julius Scruggs, president of the National Baptist Convention, USA, said the second installment will be used in Leogane to fund more than 80 housing solutions, which includes materials, construction, site preparation, water, sanitation, training, community engagement and access to basic infrastructure such as roads, schools and churches.

"As Christians we are committed to helping our fellow man," said Stephen John Thurston, president of the National Baptist Convention of America. "This contribution goes a long way in helping those affected by the earthquake a year ago."

“Unfinished Business of Civil Rights Movement”

Staff Reports

Raleigh – The 31st Annual Martin Luther King Celebration, held January 14-17, attracted a record number of participants, including an estimated 3,200 people who marched from the State Capital to the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium on Monday, January 17.

“Our 31st celebration was highly successful and on par with others,” according to Bruce Lighter, chairman of the MLK Celebration. Carrying MLK-themed signs and posters, many were dressed in Greek-letter sorority and fraternity regalia and represented various organizations, churches and civic groups, he said.

The three-day celebration, presented by the MLK Celebration Committee, Inc., featured various events including a wreath laying ceremony at Martin Luther King Gardens, an Youth “Rise Up” Town Hall meeting, Interfaith Prayer Breakfast at the Sheraton Imperial Hotel in Research Triangle Park, an MLK YWCA Racism Study Circle Town Hall at the Community United Church of Christ and a musical celebration at Meymandi Hall.

Guest speakers included the Reverend Dr. Staccato Powell, pastor of Grace AME Zion Church in Raleigh who spoke at the prayer breakfast; the Reverend Dr. Earl C. Johnson, pastor of Martin Street Baptist Church, Raleigh, who delivered the keynote address at the Noon Ecumenical Observance. Others included Charles C. Meeker, Mayor of Raleigh; North Carolina Governor Beverly Perdue; Erin Byrd, Civic Engagement Director, N.C. Justice Center; Zachary Hinton, a senior at Southeast Raleigh High School, and a participant in the Clarence Lightner YMCA Achievers.

Ushers' One-Day Session

The State Ushers' Auxiliary One-Day Session will be held on Saturday, February 26 at Union Baptist Church in Durham, where the Reverend Kenneth R. Hammond is pastor.

Registration opens at 8 a.m. and the session begins at 9 a.m. The cost is $10.00 per person for adults. The church is located at 904 Roxboro Street.

“We hope to have a good session and have a lot of youth talent involved,” said Charles Dunn, president of the Ushers.

“We hope to have about 1,000 ushers from across the state and we've set aside a lot of things to help them in their churches and associations.” All ushers are asked to wear their uniforms.

Featured speakers will be the Reverend Marvin T. Clowney, Dean of Ushers, and Hazel Kennedy, youth supervisor.

Churches are asked to contribute $400 each fiscal year to support the work of the Usher's Auxiliary. Full and/or partial payments will be taken during the February meeting. GBSC fiscal year begins on September 1 and ends August 31 each year.

IN MEMORIAM

The GBSC recognizes the following Baptist family members who recently passed away.

Dr. Mansel P. McCleave (1926-2010)

The Reverend Dr. Mansel Philip McCleave, former pastor of First Missionary Baptist Church, departed this life on November 25, 2010. His funeral service was held on Friday, December 3, 2010 at First Missionary Baptist in Siler City.

Dr. McCleave, son of the late Reverend Dr. Allen F. and Annie Lewis McCleave, was born on August 7, 1926 in Rock Hill, South Carolina. In 1927, he moved with his family to Liberty, N.C. where his father became the pastor of the Edwards Grove Missionary Baptist Church.

He received his education in the public schools of Chatham County, graduating from Chatham County Training School in Siler City. At 16, he enrolled at Hampton Institute (now University). His career at Hampton was cut short by the World War II Armed Forces draft. After a two-year tour of duty, he enrolled at N.C. A&T State University where he earned both the Bachelor and Master of Science degree.

Dr. McCleave served as an instructor of Plant Sciences at A&T for 34 years, teaching on the undergraduate and graduate levels. He did additional studies at UNC-Chapel Hill, North Carolina State University and Cornell University. He was awarded the Doctor of Divinity Degree from Friendship College and the Doctor of Humane Letters Degree from Apex School of Theology.

Affiliated with more than 20 organization, he was a preacher of the Gospel, an outstanding leader and spokesperson, an educator, businessman, writer (of four publications), a mentor and friend to many. He served three tenures totally 30 years at Edwards Grove. He was also pastor of First Missionary Baptist Church for 18 years.

He leaves to cherish his memory his nephews, Charles A. Brown of Atlanta and Victor M. Brown of Birmingham. His sisters (Wilma and Lilly) and his brother (Allen) predeceased him.

Reverend James L. Stowe (1924-2010)

The Reverend James L. "J.L." Stowe, of Post Oak Place in Salisbury, departed this life on Sunday, Dec. 26, 2010 at Rowan Regional Medical Center.

Rev. Stowe was born March 28, 1924, to the late Samuel L. and Nannie Sadler Stowe in Clover, S.C. He attended Clover High School and J.C. Price High School. His collegiate training was received at Moody Bible College and Livingstone College's Hood Theological Seminary.

At an early age, he accepted Jesus Christ and became a faithful member of Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, Clover, S.C. He was a veteran of World War II, having served in the U.S. Army as an Assistant Chaplain from 1943 to 1946.

Upon moving to Salisbury with his wife of 63 years, Sarah Amanda Currence, he became a member of Gethsemane Baptist Church and was licensed and ordained by the pastor, Rev.

W.T. Bryant. Rev. Stowe's pastorates were at Boxwood Baptist Church, Mocksville; Henderson Grove Baptist Church, Salisbury; Union Baptist Church, Lexington; and Yadkin Grove Baptist Church, Salisbury.

In 1984, he became the pastor of his home church, Gethsemane Missionary Baptist Church. During his pastorate there, the church's membership grew to more than 1,000 members, prompting the need for a new sanctuary and educational building.

In 2004, after spreading the gospel for more than 54 years, Rev. Stowe retired. He was later named Pastor Emeritus. Pastor Stowe was also retired from the W.G. Hefner VA Medical Center.

Rev. Stowe was preceded in death by two sons, James L. Stowe, Jr. and George B. Stowe; his two brothers, John C. Stowe and Emanuel Stowe; and two sisters, Elizabeth Sadler and Nina Stowe B. Howard.

Those left to cherish his memory and legacy include his wife, Sarah C. Stowe of the home; children – Robert Louis Jackson (Cassandra), Clover, S.C., and the Rev. Sherry S. Ford (John) and Jamye M.C. Stowe, Javan D. Stowe (Michele) and Tarshia N.S. Stowe, all of Salisbury; three sisters, Elizabeth Stowe Johnson (Charles), Esther Stowe Davis (Nathaniel) of Clover, S.C., and Martha Stowe Tate (William), Gastonia; 14 grandchildren; sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Health Concerns for Triangle Elderly (Beware of Winter Dangers)

From Press Release

Durham, N.C. - There is no other way to say it – it's brutally cold outside across the Triangle. While severe winter weather and plummeting temperatures may mean little more than extra time scraping windshields and one more layer of clothes for most people, they are serious concerns for local seniors living on their own.

"As we work with local seniors living on their own each day, we see the additional stress cold weather can bring," said Frank Coker, owner of Senior Helpers of the Triangle. "It is absolutely vital that families take precautions to keep seniors safe through the winter months because many times, seniors simply don't or can't take the necessary steps on their own."

Senior Helpers of the Triangle, a leading local in-home senior care provider, is urging families across the area to take extra precautions to ensure that senior loved ones and elderly family members are safe and secure during this extended stretch of cold weather.

Some basic physiological differences make seniors much more prone to health problems related to the cold. Older adults have slower metabolisms, so their bodies don't generate heat as quickly as younger people do to withstand colder environments. Many seniors also suffer from poor circulation, meaning their bodies struggle to pump blood to their arms, legs, hands and feet. This makes them more easily susceptible to hypothermia, frostbite and other common cold weather conditions.

"Taking a few extra minutes to check in on elderly neighbors and family members can make a huge difference," Coker said. "As the mercury continues to fall, make sure senior loved ones on their own have all the help they need to stay safe, happy and healthy this winter."

The following is a list of ideas and precautions for seniors during the winter months:

Senior Helpers' Winter Weather Prep List for Triangle Families:

- Keep thermostat in senior's home between 68 and 70 degrees – this may mean a small additional expense, but it's a necessary one.
- Use electric space heaters – these are an economical way to heat a small space, such as a bedroom or den. Use heaters with modern safety features, like an automatic shut-off. Be sure to keep the heater at a safe distance from furniture, curtains, bedding, etc.
- Choose clothes wisely – dress for warmth during the day by layering loose-fitting, lightweight garments. Tight clothes and long underwear can actually restrict blood flow if they do not fit correctly.
- Extra blankets on the bed – a helpful tip that works to trap warmth between layers.
- Mittens instead of gloves – mittens keep hands and fingers warmer than gloves because the fingers to touch each other, generating warmth.
- Eat plenty, eat right – Body heat is generated by burning calories. Without a proper steady diet, the body runs out of fuel.
- Check rubber tips on canes or walkers – If they are old and worn, these tips can become slippery on snow, ice or wet surfaces and cause slipping or falls.

One-Day Session at Galilee Baptist

The Congress of Christian Education will convene its One-Day Session on Saturday, February, 12 at Galilee Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, where the Reverend Dr. Nathan E. Scovens is pastor.

Registration opens at 8 a.m. and the cost is $10 per person. The session begins at 9 a.m. at the church, located at 4129 Northampton Drive.

Featured speakers will be Dr. Frank J. Byrd, President of the Congress, and the Reverend A. Jamale Johnson, Dean of Congress.

"The one day session is always a great fellowship and a time of teaching and learning," said the Reverend A. Jamale Johnson, Dean of the Congress of Christian Education and pastor of Mt. Sinai Baptist Church in Fayetteville. "We encourage deans from across the state, Sunday school superintendents, teachers, youth and children's workers and missionaries to take advantage of the curriculum for this session."

Session classes will include: "Pastoring Men," "Using Technology in the Classroom," "Reaching Young Adults," "Transformational Church," "The Churches' Musical Ministry," "Organizing a Step Team in Your Church," "Biblical Basis for Praise Dance Ministry," "Spiritual Gifts in I Corinthians 12," "Faithful Preaching."

Instructors for the Session are Dr. Ricky Banks, the Rev. Anthonette Wright; Ms. Lula Gainey; Ms. Dianne Newell; the Rev. Christopher Stackhouse; Ms. Cynthia Moore; Dr. Terry Thomas; the Rev. Delores

Redmon; the Rev. David Eggleston; Mr. Shaun Mayes; Mrs. Letitia Myles. Churches are asked to contribute $400 each fiscal year to support the work of the Congress. Churches may also contribute the full amount or make partial contributions at the February session. The General Baptist State Convention fiscal year begins on September 1 and ends on August 31 each year.
