Regents Met Latter Part of September

Reports of Superintendent and Treasurer Made for Six Months. -Case Work Reviewed

At the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home here on September 29th, it was announced that $20,200 in government bonds were in hand toward a proposed new church and that a $10,000 legacy for one of six proposed cottages of a six-cottage children's village for the smaller boys and girls had been paid in since the last meeting of the board.

Most of the government securities for the new church are memorial donations and the legacy paid came from the estate of the late Mrs. James K. Mebane of Washington, D. C., in memory of her husband. Receiving this bequest makes $27,000 in hand for three of the six cottages.

These facts were brought out in reports made to the board by J. B. Johnston, superintendent, and Ernest Milton, treasurer.

Mr. Johnston's report covered the entire field of operations at Barium Springs, taking up the workings of each department. He stated that the truck farm and fruit crops were slim, but that there had been a good return, for the most part, from the big farm. He revealed that there were 297 children in the Home at the present time.

Plans were started by the Reg- (Continued On Page Two)

New Members Are On Permanent Committee

Synod Made Selections at Recent Meeting. -Entire Personnel of Ten Is Given

Two men in the Synod of North Carolina will be functioning for the first time this fall as members of Synod's Permanent Committee on Orphanage work. These are C. Spears Hicks, of Durham, who will direct the emphasis in Granville Presbytery, and Hugh A. Query, of Gastonia, who will be in charge for Kings Mountain Presbytery.

These two and Rufus A. Grier, of Charlotte, who is Mecklenburg's chairman, were named for three-year terms on this permanent committee at the recent meeting of the Synod of North Carolina. Mr. Grier served in 1942-1943, filling out an unexpired term, and his work was so effective that Synod selected him for a full three-year tenure.

Lt. Fred Lowrance Was Killed In Action

Definite Word Was Received from His Chaplain That He Lost His Life on July 30th

Late on the afternoon of Sept. 29th Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, of Barium Springs, received word that their son, Second Lieutenant Fred J. Lowrance, was killed in action on July 30th in the New Georgia area of the Solomon Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance were notified by the war department on August 21st that their son was missing in action, and the definite statement that he was lost in battle was received in a letter from Captain Dudley H. Burr, chaplain of the 169th regiment, with which the late Lieutenant Lowrance was attached.

The chaplain wrote these Barium Springs parents that Lieut. Lowrance was last seen on July 30th wounded but firing his pistol at the advancing enemy. He said that the "attack came suddenly, which coupled with the excitement of battle, leads me to say that he suffered little, if at all."

On July 31st another regiment was assigned to that territory in which Lieut. Lowrance lost his life. His body was found when this regiment regained the lost territory and the chaplain wrote that it was removed to the central national cemetery on New Georgia island, where all of the soldiers lost in the Southwest Pacific area would eventually be buried. The fact that he was buried by another regiment other than his own accounted for the delay, he wrote, in getting definite information. Until such could be obtained he had to be reported as missing in action.

Capt. Burr paid a glowing tribute to the Barium Springs boy, who was born here, attended the schools at this Home and thus spent most of his almost 25 years in this vicinity. In his letter, Captain Burr wrote "You may all be proud of the splendid service which Lieut. Lowrance gave to his country—a good soldier who fought for God, for country and for no reward. He died for his beliefs; there are so many people in this world who just die."

Lieut. Lowrance was born at Barium Springs on October 14, 1918, just before the last war was concluded. Until he graduated from high school at Barium in 1937 he had spent all of his life here. He attended Davidson College and Appalachian Teachers' College and for a time he was affiliated with the Statesville Flour Mills and later with the Children's Home at Lexington. He entered the army as a private, was promoted to sergeant and was selected for Officers' Candidate School from which he (Continued On Page Two)

Good News

Royal Oaks Sunday School, one of the most recently organized Sunday Schools in a new church in Concord Presbytery, has started the Offering-per-month plan for Barium. The first response in September was $4.33; it jumped to $10.25 in October.

Asheboro Sunday School in Orange Presbytery has started the Offering-per-month plan and has sent three responses for August, September and October. This Sunday School once used the fifth Sunday plan, but this has been changed to once a month. There's a possibility that Asheboro will join the $100.00 Club. If they don't do it in 1943-1944, they will in 1944-1945 when responses for a whole year will be available.

WHICH SUNDAY SCHOOL IS NEXT?

Thanksgiving Funds Have Started Arriving

Thanksgiving Gifts of $1,498.75 Had Been Received by October 22nd. -Big Emphasis in Nov.

There are some individuals who follow the annual custom of making their Thanksgiving Offerings to Barium Springs even before the season gets under way, for they realize that their contributions before the large influx of such donations from the churches and individuals will be particularly useful to the Home in its operation.

As the time arrived for going to press with the October copy of the paper on the 22nd, Thanksgiving sums in hand were tabulated and these totaled $1,498.75. Of that sum, $1,191.00 is what is listed in The Messenger as "Miscellaneous" which means that they arrive direct from individuals and are not credited to any church. The remaining $307.75 was received from people who designated that certain churches were to receive credit or they came from one or two organizations.

It was announced two issues ago that an alumnus had left $40.00 as his Thanksgiving offering for Barium on a visit here and only $100.00 appears in this issue of the (Continued On Page Two)

Very Interesting

A few years ago a comparatively small Sunday School, which never before did so, instituted the Offering-per-month plan for this Home, and as a result they have had more money in the treasury than at any previous time. In sending a quarterly sum recently, the treasurer told about this as follows:

"I'm proud to know we have doubled our contribution to the Orphans' Home this quarter, and hope to keep up the good work."

"One reason it was so good this quarter was that the third Sundays were fine days, with good attendances."

"I believe the Sunday School for the past two or three years, has given more than it ever has. We got so much ahead that we presented the church with a nice pulpit Bible last second Sunday. It cost $28.35. Then we had enough to pay for literature for the next quarter and $27.09 over."

These statements simply corroborate what has been said and written so many times, i. e., an offering can be contributed each month to Barium Springs and more money somehow becomes available for other purposes. It simply is a means of developing benevolent giving. Once the plan is in operation it is seldom discontinued unless some unexpected local expense makes it necessary.

Over $1,000 Increase In Bonds In A Month

On October 22nd, Government Bonds for Proposed Church Had Passed Sum of $21,100.00

In the September Messenger it was announced that $20,000.00 in government bonds of the Series F Springs for a proposed church and educational building, but there was considerably more than a $1,000.00 increase in such securities within a month's time. On October 22nd, the bonds in hand numbered $21,100.00, with $7.80 of cash towards the next purchase.

On April 1st, the record showed this to be $15,100.00, so there has been a gain of $6,000.00 in a period of seven months. The advances have been gaining momentum all along.

All memorial contributions are going into bonds for that church, and then there have been contributions of bonds and money, some of which had the memorial thought behind them and others with no memorial idea attached.

Within the past month the following has arrived:

Mr. and Mrs. Coit Robinson, of Lowell, gave a $100.00 bond.

From Mrs. Bonnie Austin Petteway, of Charlotte, another $25.00 bond was received in memory of her father and mother, with the statement that she expected to follow this with more later. That is the second such donation from Mrs. Petteway.

Eugene Larry and Edward Bosworth, very young sons of Gene and Bobby Bosworth, brothers who graduated from Barium, sent a $25.00 bond.

W. Osborne Lee and family of Lumberton had a $100.00 Series E bond issued in the name of the Home.

Mrs. W. S. Wilson, of Davidson, sent a $100.00 check to be used in the new church.

The necessary blanks, properly made out in the corporate name of Barium Springs, will be furnished by Ernest Milton, Treasurer, Barium Springs, to any individual who wants to buy bonds for the proposed church or for any other need at Barium Springs. Individuals who have been purchasing these securities have been reading The Messenger and have had these made out in the name of "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Explanation Is Made of Thanksgiving Sums

Majority of Churches Have Made Best Responses In Recent Years. -170 Best in '42

On the third and fourth pages of this issue of The Messenger are a lot of figures, the biggest number dealing with Thanksgiving responses in 1941 and 1942, as well as the greatest donation of the past 18 years and the year in which the peak sum was contributed. There are 536 churches or missions listed as having participated in either of the last two Thanksgiving seasons, and if the name of any place is omitted it is because no Thanksgiving Offerings have been received for the past two years.

Back in 1934 the Synod of North Carolina appointed a special committee to emphasize the Thanksgiving Offering for Barium. That special group has since become a permanent committee on Orphanage work. It is extremely interesting that since this corps of individuals started functioning in 1934 that 328 of the 536 churches can boast of their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings, with 170 of those 328 going to their highest heights in 1942.

The year in which these 536 have given their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings and the number in each of the past 18 years follows:

Year	Number
1926	29
1927	50
1928	16
1929	17
1930	16
1931	4
1932	4
1933	6
1934	13
1935	18
1936	33
1937	7
1938	15
1939	22
1940	20
1941	30
1943	???

A detailed examination of individual churches will show that many of them were within a few cents, and others within a few dollars, of touching new zeniths in 1942. It is the hope here that members in all churches will do their best to reach the greatest heights ever in 1943.

Home-Coming Day Is Slated for Nov. 24th

No Elaborate Program Is Planned for Returning Visitors.—
Game Will be at 3:30

The 1943 Home-coming of Barium Springs alumni is one of particularly great convenience this year, for the day is Wednesday, November 24th, immediately before Thanksgiving. Usually, Home-coming is on a Friday, but by having it over the holiday season, those alumni who can possibly "make" it can use a holiday period and remain at their Home through Thanksgiving Day.

Many of the boys and girls - close to 180 of them - are in the services of the country and with few exceptions none of those will be able to attend Home-coming. However, those nearer by might be able to visit their Home by bus and can join in the festivities of the day. No elaborate program is planned, for this is home to these boys

Orphanage Work Secretary Says:

Dear Friends and Co-workers:

Another cycle of time has rolled around; Thanksgiving is approaching, and we once again turn our thoughts to our orphan children at Barium.

An appeal for the Presbyterian Orphans' Home is particularly inviting opportunity for investment of liberal gifts at the Thanksgiving season, and let us consider it more than merely a responsibility but a privilege to which we eagerly accept in practicing on this Thanksgiving the "pure and undefiled religion" which consists in visiting the fatherless with our financial resources and sharing with them our material goodness.

At this season, the management of the Home looks to the Presbyterians of North Carolina for more than half of the contributions for the year for the support of the fatherless and motherless ones

PRIDE AND APPRECIATION OF BARIUM SPRINGS

Voluntarily Voiced by the Alumni

The boys and girls who have been one-time residents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs are always writing back to members of the staff. Over a period of about three months, a few extracts from their many, many letters were copied, without the consent of the writers and entirely without their knowledge that this was being done. The problem was one of condensation and selection, for their words of pride in, appreciation of, and loyalty to their Home could easily have filled a much larger booklet than the 11 pages which were allotted for their use in the 1943 Thanksgiving publicity.

Approximately 30,000 of these booklets were printed. The greater majority was sent to the Auxiliaries, to be used in their fall programs, and to each individual to whom the Thanksgiving envelopes and literature were sent a copy of this booklet was enclosed. Almost 75,000 leaflets were printed for distribution to the various congregations, the material in these simply being extracts from the larger booklet volume.

In order that the general public might become more familiar with the thinking of the alumni, the series of quotations is being used in full in the November Messenger. Every inch of space in this copy could have easily been filled with kindred statements. Not a one was solicited. Care was taken that the alumni did not know of the plan, for it was the desire of officials that no comment be inspired, for the value of the booklet would have been discounted had this been known.

As Presbyterian supporters read these comments, it is felt that there will be a large sense of pride that they have the privilege of maintaining a Home which ranks so high in the hearts of the alumni, a place for which they frequently get homesick, and a Home toward which they display the highest kind of allegiance.

These voluntary comments follow:

"I wouldn't take all the money in the world for the time that I spent at Barium, and hope to visit you on my first furlough. There's no place in the United States, in my opinion, that needs to be fought for more than Barium, and I'll be glad to give my life just in order that the splendid work that is being carried on, and has been carried on at Barium, may be continued."

"I am writing you this letter knowing how sad some of the seniors will be tonight after graduation, having to leave the home that some of them hold so dear, and where most of them were raised ever since they were just little tots. That's the saddest moment in a man's life, having to leave his home. I can remember how badly I felt when I left that morning. You soon get over it but you will always have a feeling inside of you of wanting to come back."

"Five of us were together to spend a very happy evening talking about our experiences and about the good old times we had at Barium."

"If I can send any money to help out, please let me know. I sure would like to help because I was at Barium myself."

"I know that they (the graduates) will have success in anything they undertake to do because they were raised at Barium."

"Spirit and teamwork is what every team needs to win and it's the thing that's going to carry our army to victory, with God's help."

"Give my love to all Barium mothers. I miss you all so much. I sure love old Barium."

"There are a lot of boys interested in us, and I spend a lot of my time telling them of our life at Barium."

"We ended our conversation by wishing that we were still kids just starting out at Barium. I don't think that there is a boy or girl who has gone away from Barium who doesn't wish the same."

"It seems impossible to some of my shipmates that there could be an Orphanage anywhere that is unlike those which are portrayed by the pictures. They are amazed that anyone can look back and thank God for the privilege of having lived there."

"I have seen a lot of pretty country, but I guess I saw so much of Barium I still like it best."

From a wife of a Barium boy: "My husband is a good person, and is well liked by his men and officers. I am sure that he will never depart from the good training that he received at Barium in his early years. We have Barium to be grateful for."

"I wouldn't take anything in this world for the years that I spent there, and I will always call it home. I still continue to go to church and read my Testament every day. It sure does console me. It brings back memories of Barium."

"I will be getting leave in August and I am longing for Barium right now. This time I want to get some of that soil and put in my shoes to steady me for the next invasion we have. It was because I learned to obey orders at Barium that I am alive today. * * * Barium is blessed so much. We didn't realize when we were there what a lucky bunch we were, always happy and enjoying life. I pray every night that God will keep Barium in the same manner He has always kept it - just as beautiful and lovely as ever."

"It seems as if there has been an umbrella

Marion Church in Concord Presbytery included Barium Springs in its 1943-1944 budget for a "special" of $200.00 and has already paid the pledge in full.

Royal Oaks Auxiliary is a new organization in Concord Presbytery but has started the plan of sending $1.00 a month to the Home.

Commonwealth Avenue Sunday School in Mecklenburg Presbytery has reinstated the Offering-per-month plan and sent $17.00 as its October gift. They formerly did this at Commonwealth Avenue, but for a year tried the fifth Sunday plan. The results of the earlier procedure were apparently more effective.

Hallsville Sunday School in Wilmington Presbytery has started the Offering-per-month plan and contributed $7.45 on the third Sunday in October.

25 Leading Churches of 1942 Thanksgiving

Membership Also Given for Top 25 Churches in the Amount Contributed

Since the 1943 Thanksgiving season is near at hand, a tabulation has been prepared of the leading 25 Churches in the 1942 Thanksgiving response to Barium Springs. The memberships of the churches, as they appeared in the 1943 Minutes of the General Assembly, have been listed, for it so happens that occasionally churches with smaller enrollments exceed the generosity of the larger churches.

While the listing is on a numerical basis of the amount contributed last Thanksgiving, the picture would be to figure out the per capita amount given. However, some churches much smaller than any of the 25 recounted would be ahead of any of these. At present the idea is to give monetary leaders and those 25 accordingly

Memorial Service For Lt. Fred Lowrance

Held in Little Joe's Church On October 30th, With Rev. Thos. C. Cook in Charge

Many friends and relatives on Sunday morning, October 31, attended a beautiful memorial service at Little Joe's Presbyterian Church at Barium Springs in memory of the late Second Lieut. Fred Lowrance, who lost his life on July 30th in battle in the Southwest Pacific theatre of the war. The service was conducted by Rev. Thos. C. Cook, pastor, who serves the church of which Lt. Lowrance was a member.

Rev. Mr. Cook opened the services by singing "The Prayer Perfect", and held in his hands the music of that song that Lt. Lowrance himself had frequently used when singing in the church choirs. Mr. Cook explained that the thoughts of the song were those

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

ANNIE LOUISE
We have had several girls here to get the show ticket. They are: Mary, Bowles, Leitha Walker, Pattie Inman, Geraldine Katen, Aline Thomas, Helen Hawley and Mary Elizabeth McNeill. We are very proud of them.

Several children, Jackie Porterfield, Sylvia Sue Buie, Shirley Thomas and Helen Hawley went to Morganton and Davidson to give a Thanksgiving program. They reported a nice time.

We have all gotten two new pairs of shoes and a pretty brand new cap. We sure do look cute, we think. We are sure proud of them.

We have been to some football games. Although we didn't win them all we surely had a swell time. We surely were glad we beat Davidson and of course you know Statesville couldn't beat us. It was a scoreless tie, 0-0. It was very exciting.

Have you all heard the latest moron joke? Here is how it was told to us by our matron, Miss Hardin. "A man came to his refrigerator to get some ice, and found this moron sitting in it. He said, 'What are you doing in my refrigerator? Get out and don't you ever let me catch you in here again'. The next night the man went again to his refrigerator and there sat the moron. The man said, 'I thought I told you to stay out of my refrigerator.' 'Yes, sir, you did but isn't this a 'Westinghouse' 'Yes, it is.' The little moron replied, 'Well, I'm only Westing. (resting).'" Ha! Ha!

It isn't long until Thanksgiving now. We sure have lots to be thankful for. Say, and only seven weeks until old Santa Claus is coming. (I'm going to start being good.) You know he only likes good boys and girls.

We went to the show a few weeks ago and saw "Nasty Nuisance" "Mr." Hitler, Mussu, and the Emperor of Japan played. We sure enjoyed watching "Mr." Hitler with his head stuck in the ground and tootsies in the air.

We sure are all stained up with pecans. We have been to the orchard and it looks like we picked up all the green ones, but we surely are having some be-u-tiful apples. Our cheeks are about as rosy as they are.

"We-uns" will be seeing "youns". Come when you can (if I were you I would ask Santa Claus for a car and some gas coupons to come to see us. Tell him not to forget to give you an extra set of tires).

INFIRMARY

Clyde Reid has spent a few weeks here in the infirmatory and is looking better now.

We are glad to have Amos Hardy back from the Hospital. "Hurry and get well, Amos".

We had several nights of Hallowe'en celebration, and the infirmatory was "overrun" with patients afterwards. They registered to fifty-three, but by Tuesday night they had all vanished.

Miss Lacky has had good luck with her flowers this fall and has sold most of them to the Johnston Greenhouse.

We were very glad to have Lt. R. G. Calhoun on the campus for a few hours and hope he can come again when he can stay longer.

Football is the leading sport now and especially when Barium wins.

November 24th is Home-coming and we hope to see a lot of old Barium boys and girls again.

Thanksgiving is just about here and we have a lot to be thankful for.

By Mary Belle Reid

RUMPLE HALL

Here we are again with news about our Hallowe'en party we had last Friday night. We each invited a boy. We played games directed by Miss Clark while Mrs. Thompson, who gave us the party, played the piano. About 9:30 we had refreshments of ice-cream, cake and candy in Hallowe'en colors.

We made all the decorations for the sitting room. And, if we do say so, we had many compliments about them.

We want to thank Miss Clark, Ruth May and Mary Alice Stevens for helping us. We also enjoyed having Miss Carpenter stop in for refreshments.

Mrs. Thompson said that we all acted so nice that she would give us another one around Christmas. "Can't wait". We also want to thank Mrs. Thompson for giving us so good a time.

We were so glad to see Mr. Calhoun today and we wish he could stay longer.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

You ought to come to see us in our new winter schoolshirts. They are checked, red, green, blue, yellow, brown, just most every color. We think they are just beautiful.

We fixed four pumpkins on Hallowe'en and Dewie Belle Buie put candles in them and put them in our dormitory while we told stories. They looked awful funny when they were all lighted up.

Woodie and Frankie Smith had a visit from their daddy Saturday. He brought their little sister to see them. She is just three years old. They had not seen her since she was quite small. Woodie and Frankie certainly did enjoy their visit.

Come to see us whenever you can. -The Wigglers

BABY COTTAGE

The girls have their new shoes. Never mind, the boys will get theirs, too, then we can stick out our feet and show off. "Just wait, girls," say the boys.

We had a Hallowe'en party and we dressed up and said speeches and had candy and cakes to eat. Miss McNeill, our Kindergarten teacher, gave us the party and we had a good time.

At night the big girls dressed up and put on ugly faces. We laughed and laughed.

Boyce Dean Smith had company last Saturday, including his father, sister and Aunt, and they gave him some candy for all the babies.

Myrtle Rushing's mother came to see her and gave all the little girls a hair comb - pink, red, green and yellow ones.

We have some pretty new bed spreads from Gastonia and Lexington. We are so proud of them.

Mrs. Massey's son, Lt. Massey, brought us some bananas and oranges.

This morning we heard the piano. It sounded like kitten on the keys, and little two year old Donnie Privette had opened the piano, climbed up on the chair. His little fingers were pounding on the keys and he was singing "Birdie, Birdie, I tan see 'oo way high up in dat tee." We just let him alone.

Pride and Appreciation of prayer over me during the campaign; keep praying."

"I really didn't know how to appreciate Barium until I got here."

"There have been some very unusual questions put to me about Barium and in most all cases I gave them an answer that made them agree with me that the Orphanage is a very good place. They have also asked me how I got to grow so big and ugly. My answer was that food was swell and the milk plentiful."

"There is a boy in my hut that used to be in an Orphanage in Maryland and he and I together are slowly but surely getting the boys straightened out about Orphanages. I told them I would not take anything in the world for the time I spent there. I really mean that, too. I don't guess they realize how much the training I got there helps me. * * * I hope I can keep up the good name that so many of our boys started for Barium; but rather, the name that they have kept for Barium."

"I think of my Barium home always. To me it has become the most beautiful place in the world."

"I have started off at $70.00 a month. I do not know whether my salary will decrease or increase, but whatever happens I intend to keep my pledge of one-tenth to God."

"I think about how thankful I am that I was brought up in an Orphanage. I don't think I'd trade it for anything. I've been taught what is right and wrong and I try to live that way. I'll never be able to repay everyone for what they have done for me. * * * I don't have a chance to go to church often, but I can still pray and read the Bible myself."

"I know that I haven't lived the best life of a Christian but the background I received at Barium has stayed with me. Since we have been here I have seen miracles performed and I know that they just didn't happen."

"It seems like every time I am offered a drink those Sunday School lessons pop into my mind very quickly and very vividly. * * * Every boy I run around with drinks a little and they ask me time and time again to drink with them but I have always refused. It seems as if I can see a light of respect in their faces."

"I shall continue my membership in Little Joe's Church and would like to send something to the church for the next church year."

"When I was at Barium I loved the Home very much but really didn't know how much until I left it."

"When I try to express my gratitude for all the opportunities received at Barium, it seems impossible. Just hope that through a wholesome and Christian life its influence might be better known. It shall always hold a warm place in my heart and be a model for our home in years to come."

"Am sending $5.00 for Little Joe's Church; it is part of my pledge. Please give two of the five to the Boys' Bible Class."

"We have churches down here and I enjoy attending every time I get a chance. I go every Sunday except when I am on guard duty or some other detail."

"I don't know just yet what my pay will be, but just as soon as I get it I will send one-tenth of it."

"I stand up for Barium and what it has done for me. I can never repay in words or money or in any way possible. I believe that God is really behind the whole plan at Barium because there is something you get there that no man can take from you."

"One of our boys made the remark that he felt sorry for me because I was the only one who didn't smoke, curse or never had a yarn to tell about getting drunk, so I replied that I was very sorry for them because they could not resist the temptations of life. Since then I have made a good many friends and hardly ever hear a curse from them."

"There's one thing I learned at Barium that helps me out a lot here, and that is the 'discipline.' It's pitiful to watch boys here, who have never had any kind of discipline, try to do or not do things they are told."

"Any small success that I may be able to achieve shall be due entirely to your splendid work. Thanks for everything and especially for having confidence in me when I made mistakes."

"I finished my 16 weeks' school last night, but I didn't feel half as bad as when I finished at Barium."

"I have never said much toward thanking you for all you and Barium have done for me. There is no use trying to thank you because there are no words that can tell you the feeling in the old Barium graduates' hearts. The only way to tell you what Barium is, is to say that it's paradise and let it go at that. Thanks for everything."

"You don't realize how good those 'old' matrons and teachers (as we sometimes referred to them) were to you until you get out and try to understand other people. I'm telling you it's hard to do."

"I have met up with some fellows who have a very low opinion of an Orphanage, but I've changed their minds a good bit by telling them of Barium. Every time I mention home (Barium) they ask me about it and I tell them a lot."

"I really don't believe we are praying for our boys and our country enough. It seems that all the people study about it is having a big time and going places. That's why so many ships and planes are lost. If people would pray more there would be a great difference in this world."

"I pray to God every day that the day will speedily come when all of us will be together, celebrating the glorious victory, which surely will be ours, because if peace, freedom, love and happiness isn't the right way of life, I don't care for any other kind."

"I'd be worth millions if I had a nickel for every time I've wished I was back in school again. Those were the 'grand old days.'"

"Boy would I love to see Barium again. I get quite blue when I think of what swell times I've had there. My husband thinks quite a lot of Barium, too. He's in Africa now. * * * My only regret is that I didn't get to get married at Barium, but my future husband couldn't get a leave, so I just went to him."

"My stay at Barium has helped me quite a lot since I have been in the Navy - in the line of making friends and things like that."

"I know the boys and girls who graduate are going to miss Barium and I know that they would like to stay on there. I sure did when I finished and only wish I were there now."

"I want to express my sincere gratitude to you for the things that you have done for me in my stay at Barium. I shall never forget you and your splendid way of doing things. * * * I will always hold the memories of you and Barium and the people of Barium deep and close in my heart. I know how much it has meant to me to have stayed there."

"I will probably run up against many temptations, but I feel sure that all the splendid training I received at Barium will help me from yielding to them. Tell all the workers I thank them with all my heart for the fine job they did when they taught me all I know."

"About this time of year (right after graduation) I begin to get a little homesick for good old Barium."

"I can honestly say that I could write a love letter about Barium, for I do love that place."

"One of my corporals asked me where I was from and I told him about Barium. I also told him that I wouldn't take anything in the world for the time I spent there. He said that it was the first time he had ever heard a person from an Orphanage say they liked it. Barium is a fine place and I think of it a lot."

"It makes me proud to know that I went to school with such a fine bunch of boys that has come out of Barium."

"I realize I will be confronted with many temptations in all sorts of disguises, but please don't worry about me. I think I'm prepared to deal with them all."

"My wife is in love with Barium, as I knew she would be. It certainly does the old heart good to see the homestead."

"I sincerely hope the war and its results have not, and will not, cripple the operation of Barium Springs."

"I really enjoy 'Stars and Stripes' and I always look for some Barium names. But The Barium Messenger comes first. I'm enclosing $1.00 for ours."

"It (Barium) is one of the best places for anyone to think about, and to also know that some of your time had been spent in such a wonderful place."

"Even by being away from Barium I have always and will think of it as my home and will try and carry the splendid name that goes with all alumni that go out from there. More than once the name 'Barium Springs' has helped where anything else would have failed. It's something that one cannot buy. This makes me, like all other Barium boys and girls, more than glad to get in here and do my bit, whatever it might be, to help make our country a place where others may get the chance that we have had because of the many fine people who made it possible, there and elsewhere."

"Everyone here likes to hear me talk about Barium and I really enjoy telling them about my fine home. When I start I usually keep talking for an hour or so and no one seems to get tired of it, even though I do it every night. I have not found a single person from North Carolina. I met one boy from California and he is real nice and a church boy, too. He and I went to the Soldiers' Club Saturday night and drank a quart of milk apiece." (Ed's. note; The word milk was underscored by the fellow who wrote the letter.)

"It will soon be graduation at Barium and I wish I were there. It's been four years since I graduated. I spent my happiest years at Barium and I have always considered it as my only home."

"You sure sent out some good advice on the liquor question, but we couldn't get any here if we wanted it. Even if we could I'm sure I would not touch it."

"I owe Barium a very great deal. I was very glad to get a chance to talk of Barium in one of the churches last Thanksgiving, and I hope I get another chance some other time."

"The army is just fine, but I still haven't been able to find a place that I like as well as Barium. * * * I go to Church every Sunday and enjoy it very much."

While less than half of the Churches and Missions in the Synod of North Carolina had filed their completed 1943 Thanksgiving Offering reports with officials at Barium Springs by December 9th, the day this article is being written, yet the unqualified prediction is made that the final total for the season is going to exceed considerably the 1942 peak of $56,013.-38.

On the morning of the ninth, 226 reports had been completed, and very close 50% of the churches and missions—112, to be exact—already boasting of their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings since 1925. Most of these would easily be the best for all time if the records prior to that year were checked. Of the completed Offerings in the hands of Barium, 183 had shown increases, leaving but 43 that had given less than in 1942.

There is no reason to believe but that this trend will continue as the remainder of the Thanksgiving Offering is daily received and recorded. Since less than half of the reports are finished, no prediction is being offered this month as to the final aggregate for Thanksgiving of 1943.

Good News

Warsaw Sunday School in Wilmington Presbytery is the latest Sunday School to become a "once-a-monther", having instituted an offering per month for Barium Springs on the first Sunday in November. A check for $25.00 has arrived for November and December together. At this rate, Warsaw is also going to be a member of the $100.00 Club in 1944-1945, when 12 gifts are received, for only three more months remain in 1943-1944.

The number of Sunday Schools regularly helping Barium Springs, either by a response once a month or on the fifth Sundays, is now nearing 300, which represents a majority in the Synod.

Since 1943-1944 started, eight Sunday Schools have inaugurated the Offering-per-month plan, and it is conservatively estimated that the eight together will average $75.00 monthly, or $900.00 more in a full year's time.

SHALL THERE BE ANY GOOD NEWS ITEMS FOR JANUARY'S MESSENGER?

Income Taxes — And Barium Springs

Within a very short time individuals and business firms will be checking up on their contributions of 1943 to see how much more they have available for giving to various causes before the close of the year. As this was done toward the close of 1942, several substantial checks were forwarded to Barium Springs without any solicitation from the Home or any awareness that Barium Springs was to be the recipient of those gifts.

This thoughtful action on the part of some in the closing days of 1942 has inspired the writing of this article to commend this Home to any individual or business firm making a distribution of gifts in the waning days of this year.

It may be, too, that the donor would like to designate a specific use of the gift, and some suggestions are offered for these special donations. It is known that some are primarily interested in the immediate operation and prefer that their gifts be so used. Some are known to be interested in the proposed church and educational building (if you want your gift in memory of some one individual or individuals, that information can be furnished to Barium Springs) and still others are interested in a permanent endowment fund for the Home. Paul Burney Is Named Most Valuable Player

Announcements of Other Selections Made at Football Banquet on December 3rd

With W. A. Hethcox, principal of the schools here, as the efficient toastmaster, a banquet was staged at Barium on Friday night, December 3rd, in honor of the several football teams which have represented the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in the past season. It was an informal affair, with a few outsiders as guests from Statesville, Davidson, Troutman and other nearby points.

At the close of each season the Barium varsity players select certain of their players for particularly outstanding performance. It was announced that Paul Burney was the unanimous choice as the most valuable on the team; Bill Tyce, the center, was selected as the best blocker, and Hervey Stricklin was named as the best

Anyone counting the number of leading Churches in the Thanksgiving season of 1942, as they appeared in the November issue of The Messenger, would have found that 24 churches and their offerings were tabulated. The missing one was Rocky Mount First, which gave $508.09 as its 1942 Thanksgiving Offering.

The type on this article was prepared for the October issue, but was held over for November. In all of the rush, the line revealing that Rocky Mount First was among those 25 disappeared, and the error was made in not making a last-minute re-check to see that all 25 were listed.

It is a pleasure to call this omission to the attention of readers, and an apology is being offered the Rocky Mount First people who were generous enough to be included in that tabulation.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks, Here we are back with you again. We sure did have a swell Thanksgiving. We really enjoyed the show "Girl Crazy." We wish to thank Mr. Johnston for letting us go.

Johnny Collins went to the second floor and when he came down he said. (all puffed out, too) "Uh, huh, I got to ride in the 'alligator' and you didn't." Clyde Andrews carried his shoes 'round all hugged up like a doll, and when he finally agreed to put them on on Saturday morning he grinned and said "Now, ain't I pur-ty!"

BABY COTTAGE

Of course we have our new shoes, girls! Mr. Lowrance, somehow or other, packed us all in the station wagon, and took us to Belk's store in Statesville, and they fitted us with the prettiest brown shoes, and are our feet stuck out, now!

Charles Bowles put his in the box and sat down on it. He didn't want to go to bed at all, and it night. We're the proudest set of boys in the state 'cause "we got shoes!"

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, Many nice things have happened to us lately. Mr. Stowe and his lovely cousin visited us Home-coming day and brought us two large delicious cakes. We enjoyed them very much.

We received our second report cards last week. We had eight girls on the honor roll: Jackie Porterfield, Louise Bradshaw, Pattie Inman, Mary Bowles, Letha Walker, Geraldine Katen, Margaret Hopkins and Carol Jean Andrews.

RESUME OF 1943 FOOTBALL

(Continued From Page One) its touchdowns the hard way, driving the length of the field for they were evidently the stronger team, but we might have held on to our one-point margin of 13-12 and thus obtained the victory over the team that later became the South Piedmont Conference Champions.

Mr. Johnston took us to see Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Girl Crazy" on Thanksgiving Day. We surely did enjoy it. Diamond Jim Speagle and his talking dummies came to entertain us last week. Have you met Tony "Hethcox"? And Jerry and Hervey? Well, they are two of Diamond Jim's gang. They really are "snavy" folks. We actually believe they have more fun than people!

MARRIAGES

Roach-Goodnight. Miss Mary Ethel Goodnight, of Mooresville, was married on November 3rd at El Paso, Texas, to Sergeant Arthur W. Roach, of the Army Air Corps. Sgt. Roach was graduated from Barium in the class of 1941, and had attended Davidson Cottage for a year and a half before going into partnership with Uncle Sam in the business at hand.

INFIRMARY

Hello Friends, Here we are again, bringing you the latest news of the Infirmary. There has been so much happening lately we hardly know how to word it.

BIRTHS

PROMOTIONS

Promotions with which officials of Barium Springs have become familiar since the last Messenger include Leila Johnston to an Ensign in the Waves; Roy Wilson to Sergeant; Billy McCall to Corporal and William Wadsworth to private first class.

PERSONALS

Many friends will be glad to know that Miss Frances Steele, formerly case worker for the Home here, is recuperating from a serious attack of neuritis. She has been a patient at the Garfield Hospital, Washington, D. C. and until she leaves her address is Room No. 7, CB-2 at the hospital.

George Faison has recently been taken under the care of Concord Presbytry as a candidate for the ministry. In preparation for his entering the Seminary he is now studying at Lenoir-Rhyne College and also working in Newton, where he makes his residence. After leaving Barium he worked in Statesville and later went to Newton. He is married and he and his wife have one child.

out of our class. Asheville beat us 32-0 through the speedy legs of two backs, Britt and Justice, and yet there were moments in that game during the second and third quarters particularly when we looked mighty good. In those two quarters we stopped those backs before they could get up to full speed. Those two quarters were scoreless.

At Lexington the team was somewhat upset over the loss of the captain and tailback, and it took them half of the game against Lexington to find themselves. During that half, Lexington scored six points. During the second half, Barium was much the better team and pushed Lexington around everywhere except over the goal line. Barium missed two good chances to score.

Davidson B team, means the Davidson squad less their top 15 men. We won this game by a one-point margin due to the determination of one boy in making the last extra point. Paul Burney assisted in all of the scoring that we had this year; we think we should let him claim the Davidson game as his own.

Everyone realizes that the civilian colleges had teams composed of what was ordinarily high school material, and the Davidson B team played us on even terms. The Barium team was constantly behind in the game; Davidson scored two quick touchdowns at the beginning of the game, Barium scored one in the second period. Then after Davidson scored a third touchdown in the last period, Barium came back to score two quick touchdowns and win the ball game. This was probably the most interesting game on the list.

Statesville - Barium, a tie game for the first time in the long history of Barium - Statesville competition. Both teams knew just too much about the other's offense and took steps to stop it. Barium threatened in the first quarter; the rest of the game Statesville did the threatening. At one time a pass was made into the end zone, which looked as if a Statesville boy had caught it, but his basket had a hole in the bottom and the ball went on through. Their failure to win a victory was just that close.

Our game in Salisbury, was, as usual, one of those wide open interesting games from start to finish with one team making a touchdown and then the other team matching it, and so on. We finally emerged the victors by a score of 20-13 with the most spectacular touchdown being made by a former Salisbury boy, Fred Cole. Barium blocked a kick, John Ammons recovered it, ran ten yards toward the goal and when tackled, lateraled the ball to Fred, who went on for the winning touchdown.

At Morganton we defeated this good team 12-0. In that game, we resembled Salisbury the week before. In the Salisbury game, we many times gave Salisbury the ball through a fumble or an intercepted pass deep in our territory, but Salisbury couldn't score; however, they twice took the ball on their own ten and marched the length of the field for touchdowns. That's the way we were in Morganton; they would give us the ball deep in their territory and then take it away from us, but twice we marched the length of the field for touchdowns which gave us the victory.

Home-coming Day and Kannapolis: Barium has never been defeated on Home-coming Day; they have been tied twice, once with Belmont Abbey and once with Lees-McRae. We knew that Kannapolis was one of the strongest teams we were to face; they had an old Children's Home boy playing on it, and he was responsible for one of the touchdowns; Greene is his name. Kannapolis scored first and then in the last minute of play of the first half Barium scored two touchdowns: one, a forward pass to Ed Blake; another, an intercepted pass taken by Bill Tyce, who made his one and only touchdown in the final game just as several years ago, Dick Parrish did. Bill Tyce is center of our team. We entered the second half with a seven-point margin, but we couldn't hold it. Kannapolis was just too strong, and in the fourth quarter, they came through with a touchdown to tie up the score, and that is the Varsity story!

Now for the B team, which includes two regular 125-pound games: We found this year that so few people were getting out 125-pound teams that we joined the B teams and played altogether ten games. All of these games were interesting, in some respects more interesting than the varsity. Summing it all up, we beat Landis twice, China Grove twice, a whole mess of games with Concord, and one with Statesville. There are some good players on this team that makes us believe that next year we will really have some replacements for the varsity. Earl Allen acted as Captain for this team; Earl Adams was the tailback, receiving good assistance from Fred Cole, Wilbur Coats, and at the first part of the season, Ed Blake. Thanksgiving Offering Reaches New Peak $20,000.00 Given To Barium for Building

Final Total From All Sources Estimated To Be More Than $72,000

Churches Have Already Passed the Peak of $56,000 Established in 1942

$6,000 YET TO COME

Miscellaneous Sources Have Been Responsible for $8,000, Which Shows $2,000 Increase

The 1943 Thanksgiving Offering from the Synod of North Carolina has already touched a new all-time high by having exceeded the pinnacle sum of $56,013.38, for on January 17th, $58,265.30 had been received from the churches, with an estimated $6,000.00 yet to be forwarded before the books are closed on the 1943 Thanksgiving response. Besides these donations through church channels, from miscellaneous sources a total of $8,137.50 had been received, for an increase of around $2,000.00 from individuals who send direct and whose gifts are credited to no church.

Thus, $66,402.80 was in hand on the 17th of this month as the combined Thanksgiving response, and with approximately $6,000.00 yet to be received, the final will be between $72,000 and $73,000, which will be a gain of $10,000.00, in round numbers, over the combined church and miscellaneous Thanksgiving sums of 1942.

Besides this increase at Thanksgiving-time, the regular giving for three-fourths of 1943-1944 had shown a gain of $5,540.04. Church budgets were responsible for an increase of $3,258.76 and Sunday Schools had given $2,819.67 more. Auxiliaries had sent $538.39 less, to give the net regular gain of $5,540.04.

Of the 453 completed Thanksgiving reports on January 17th, 356 of the churches had given more than in 1942, leaving but 97 that fell below the previous year's donations. It was particularly noteworthy that 205 churches or missions in the Synod were boasting of their best Thanksgiving donations since the season of 1925. This detail by Presbyteries is (Continued On Page Three)

Fayetteville Family Honors Mother By Making Such a Gift

Messrs Edward W. and Charles King Grannis and Mrs. Mary Grannis McLeod Are Donors INVESTED IN BONDS

All Building Money at Barium Is Being Invested in Such Securities

Early in January a check for $20,000.00 was received at Barium Springs for the future construction of a cottage, or other building, to be known as the Kate Fields Grannis Building and which is a donation in honor of their mother, Mrs. Kate Fields Grannis, of Fayetteville, by her three children, Messrs. Edward W. and Charles King Grannis, and Mrs. Mary Grannis McLeod, all of Fayetteville.

This gift of $20,000.00 to Barium Springs was part of a $33,500.00 trust fund which the children created in honor of their mother, and which was forwarded to the respective participants through the trustees of the First Presbyterian Church in Fayetteville.

Others sharing in the funds included $6,000.00 for the Fayetteville First Presbyterian Church, to be used for the erection and equipment of a recreation room; $5,000.00 to the Presbyterian Junior College for a scholarship fund, and $2,500.00 to Flora Macdonald College, also for a scholarship fund.

The trust agreement between the donors and the Trustees of the Fayetteville First Church pertaining to the $20,000.00 sent to Barium Springs specifically read:

"The check for the sum of $20,000.00 is to be transmitted to the Trustees of the Presbyterian Orphanage, located at Barium Springs, North Carolina, now owned and controlled by the Synod of North Carolina. The said sum is to be used by the Trustees of the Orphanage for the erection of a cottage, or other building, for the use of the orphans located in said orphanage; and it is the request of the Trustees that it be designated as (Continued On Page Two)

Church Bonds Have Advanced to $26,100

One Large Gift of $500.00 Is Among Others Available in Recent Purchases

On January 17th, the maturity value of bonds in the possession for a proposed church and educational building at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home was $26,100.00, and there was $68.55 of cash on hand, which was almost enough to buy another $100.00 security. This is an increase of $1,600.00 in bonds and $12.00 in cash since December 9th.

When it is remembered that the Home owned $15,100.00 of bonds on April 1st, then it is realized that these securities have climbed over $11,000.00 in a little over nine and a half months. An increase like that over a period of a few years would give the necessary money for the project that is contemplated.

Three $25.00 bonds were sent direct. One came from Mrs. W. H. Sullivan, of Greensboro, and another friend gave the other two as a Christmas gift, with the request that the name of the donor not be revealed.

Money specifically given by individuals without any memorial thought behind them included $18.75 from a Class in the Rocky Mount First Church for a bond; a like amount from friends as a Christmas gift for another bond; $500.00 from L. Young White, of Mooresville, and $1.00 from another individual.

The balance of the bond purchases was possible because of the regular memorial contributions received at Barium Springs. Some (Continued On Page Two)

BIRTHS

Sergt. and Mrs. Edward L. Oliver announce the birth of a son, Edward Lee, Jr. on November 30, 1943. Mrs. Oliver is at her home, 117 W Avondale, Greensboro, while Ed. is at Harrington, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Cole, of Statesville, announce the birth of a son, Charles Howard, in January. Both of these were reared at Barium, Mrs. Cole being the former Sallie Farmer.

FUNDS FOR GYM

In his address to the congregation of the Greensboro First Church just before Thanksgiving, Jos. B. Johnston, superintendent of the Home, mentioned the need of a gymnasium at Barium Springs, explaining that all the facilities now available here was the auditorium which was converted into a basketball court during the season for that sport.

Since Mr. Johnston's appearance in Greensboro, two friends in that city have sent respective contributions of $50.00 and $25.00, which constitutes a nucleus of $75.00 toward this project. These funds were placed in the capital fund, and other donations for a gymnasium will be so placed, too.

The government now has the use of the $75.00 contributed, and it will also temporarily have other such funds, since all building money is being placed in government securities.

GOOD NEWS

Shearer's Chapel Sunday School, in Concord Presbytery, has adopted the plan of giving Barium Springs one Offering each month, this being the first time that Sunday School has ever used it.

Ashpole Sunday School, in Fayetteville Presbytery, has been following the offering-per-month plan since last February, but this was not known at Barium Springs until a gift was received for the months of February through November. This Sunday School once followed the procedure, so this can be considered a re-instatement of it.

Because so many more Sunday Schools are helping on a regular basis, and because others have been showing increases, the Sunday Schools of Synod together had shown an increase of $2,819.67 in the regular giving for nine months of 1943-1944 as compared with three-fourths of 1942-1943.

WALLACE COTTAGE

This is Wallace Cottage bringing you the latest news. Santa Claus has already come and gone. We want to thank everybody for the nice things they sent us. Douglas Ryder, one of our "little" boys, is one of the best basketball coaches around here. Earl Allen must have found something he likes up in Statesville because he goes up there every chance he gets. Bennie Gregory and Dallas Ammons have gone to look in their rabbit hollows, or rather they have gone to look in somebody else's. "Snake" Blake has got him a girl now. Scott Blue is practicing up for the 125-pound team. Wilbur Coates, Earl Allen's roommate, drinks all of the chocolate milk that is made up here. Jack Jones finally changed his sox and Ryder sure was glad. Tommy Hayes is a new boy over here. "General" Grover Ingram and "Admiral" David Burney came to see the boys and Dwight Spencer made good use of the sleeping porch while they were here. Charles Smith is quite a studious boy nowadays. Will fold. So long. -Douglas Ryder.

CANNON COTTAGE

Hello faithful readers. This is Thad Stevens giving you the latest news of the famous Cannon building. We all had a wondrous Christmas and a very happy New Year and we hope all of you folks did too. Mrs. David Blair, of Washington, D. C., sent us some nuts and fruit and a dollar apiece for Christmas, and we wish to thank her very much. Mrs. Neel gave us a game and we also wish to thank her a lots for we enjoy playing with it very much. "Boys will be boys." Mr. "Nut" George Landrum, had a ten-cent date the other night on his girl. Our house-wife, Charles Barrett, is the best house-wife among all these hills. "Wahoo" Hayes finally got off of the mighty war path when receiving a good grade in school. "Silas Marty", better described as Jerry Young, was found hiding pennies in an old red sock in the bottom of his trunk. Other great characters in our building are "Craig" Mundy, our assistant housewife; J. D. Everett, "Human" Blue who had a girl named Sue; Donald Pettus, Herbert Good and John Lee. I hope I have been able to keep you up with the latest happenings. Your devoted reporter, -Thad Stevens.

The kindness of many people made our holidays most joyous. The management of the theaters in Statesville, with their usual thoughtfulness, gave theater tickets which were presented at the

CHRISTMAS EVE TREE

Christmas Eve tree which has become a tradition on the campus. This year the scouts prepared and presented the treats of fruit, candy and nuts. On Christmas morning we awoke about 5:30 to find that Santa had already come and gone, leaving behind an assortment of lovely things. Our tree, being rather small, was practically hidden by the array of packages. After singing carols we received our packages and were delighted with the manner in which our friends had remembered us. Each year our many neighbors excell themselves in their generosity to us. The love and good will of our many friends is what makes Christmas for us. During the holidays we enjoyed our tickets to the fullest extent. Mr. Sams always takes this way to say Merry Christmas to us. We appreciate this and the many other times that he remembers us throughout the year. We had several small parties during the week following Christmas. Each class had an evening of fun. It was cold and clammy and we enjoyed the open fire very much. A variety of entertainment, including cards, various table games, contests and dances, filled the evenings. On New Year's Eve everyone in High School enjoyed a square dance at the gymnasium. After light refreshments, we went down to the church for the annual night watch service. Under the guidance of our minister, Mr. Cook, we participated in a very simple but inspiring service. Thus together we saw the new year dawn. May we take this opportunity to wish each of you, our friends, a very prosperous new year and much happiness.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Dear Friends, We would like to wish all of you a very happy New Year. We had such a wonderful Christmas. Everybody was so good to us. Our friends all over the state were just grand to us. Santa put our toys under our beds this Christmas, and we waked up real early Christmas morning and found them there. Oh! boy! did we make a lot of noise. Miss Taylor said it was a regular bang-bang Christmas. We played soldier all day long. Some of the boys got the nicest soldier and cow boy suits. Wish you could see how nice they look in them. Since everybody had been so good to us, we thought we would like to make somebody else happy. So we played Santa to a colored family that lives close by. We had more fun going to town to buy their presents. Then we all helped fix them up real pretty. We knew they were just as happy Christmas morning as we were. We are all working hard in school so we will have good report cards. One of our boys had his tonsils out last week, Gene Thomas. He was real good at the hospital and didn't fuss a bit. Dewie Belle Buie, one of our big girls, had a visit from her mother. We like Mrs. Buie a lot; she's so sweet. -The Wigglers.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, I know I'm not going to be able to tell you all the good things that have happened to us during the past month. We don't know all of those who

REMEMBERING THE ORPHANS.

From The Charlotte Observer. The approach of Thanksgiving suggests to different people different forms of commemoration, but to all it should suggest the day as being an occasion for remembering the orphaned boys and girls of our State in whatever institutions they may be located.

Particularly in this community and general area of Presbyterianism, the needs of the Orphans' Home at Barium Springs come to mind at this time, and Thanksgiving Day will be marked by the annual collections in the churches for this worthy cause.

This institution last year received a total of $62,000 as a result of contributions from the Thanksgiving offerings—$56,000 from the churches and $6,000 in individual gifts.

That represented more than one-half of the total income of the Barium Springs Home during the entire year, a circumstance which illustrates how dependent it is upon these particular remembrances.

The needs there now are no whit less than they were last year and the opportunity, therefore, for liberal support from these thank-offering just as challenging.

Indeed, the entire program of its activities for another year will be determined in large measure by the generosity of its friends on Thanksgiving Day.

Other similar institutions in the State may not be quite so utterly dependent for their support upon these particular contributions, but there is not a one of them which is independent of such free-will aid as is thus represented.

And each denomination which sponsors institutions of this kind will have both the privilege and challenge this week to "remember those in bonds" in these several well-operated Christian agencies for the homeless and the parentless boys and girls who receive their beneficent ministries.

Contributions made to such worthy causes are verily like unto the "bread cast upon the waters," returning in due time laden for those who receive of the bounties of a kindly and Christian charity.

INFIRMARY

We had a Merry Christmas and received lots of gifts. We didn't have a white Christmas, but the following Sunday when we awoke the ground was covered with snow. We had an icy Christmas and it was lots of fun skating and falling on it. Amos Hardy was our Santa Claus and this is the first time that our Santa wasn't fat. We want to thank all of our many friends and folks who made our Christmas such a happy one. Our teachers are all back from their holidays and from their reports they all had a nice Christmas.

Alumni News

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

Dear Friends, Since we last wrote you we have been doing big things. We all had a very nice Christmas, thanks to you folks. Buster (Gadget) Myatt is in the infirmary. We sure do miss his blowing all our fuses. Jack Caldwell is now one of the Gopher Gang.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news. We sure did have a good Christmas and hope you did, too. We want to thank Mr. Sams for giving us the show tickets. We went to the show to see "Mr. Mugs Steps Out". Boy, was it good? Thank you, Mr. Johnston, and Mr Sams. Two new girls have come in since the last time we wrote. We are very glad to have them stay at Barium. Their names are Vally Brown and Annie Elizabeth Hendrix.

John Whiting is still having girl trouble.

Amos Hardy spent Christmas at the Infirmary and we sure did miss him.

"Pee Wee" Reid has been promoted from sweeping the floor at the printing office to cleaning the press.

I guess we have shot enough bull, so, so long 'til next time.

PROMOTIONS

Promotions occurring since the last issue of The Messenger include Dewey Barnhill, Joe Johnston and A. D. Potter to captaincies; Grover Ingram and Bryson Stinson to corporals; Marjorie Lail to corporal in the Wacs; Clyde Johnson to private first class; James Shroyer to AMM 1-c. and Wallace Twombly to S 1-c.

VISITORS

PERSONALS

In the December Messenger we announced the marriage of Mary Parks Allen to Master Sergeant Walter Howe, and it is with deep regret that announcement has to be made in this issue of the death of this officer in a plane crash at Boise, Idaho on January 8, 1944. They had been married seven weeks. The funeral was held at Scranton, Pa. Mrs. Howe will later return to Charlotte, where she was making her home before her marriage.

Information has come to Barium of the death of Mr. L. J. Boyle on November 11th. Mr. Boyle was the husband of Vanilla Bolden Boyle, who lives with her three children at 612 3rd Avenue, S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Boyle's oldest child is a son 16 years of age.

The above was clipped from a Washington (D. C.) paper, and sent to Barium Springs by relatives of Sgt Ray Norman, who did not know anything of the award until they read it in the newspapers. No doubt this is also true of other alumni who have been decorated, but whose reticence has kept the Barium people unaware. If anyone knows of such awards to those who were once at Barium, such information will be gladly and heartily received here, publicly announced and added to the case history of this individual on file at Barium Springs.

(Continued From Page One) "The Kate Fields Grannis Building." Each of the three children accompanied identical letters to Barium Springs in which they expressed a thankfulness that their mother was still living and was in good health. Since it is impossible to do any building at the present time, and in their letters the three donors advised against using their $20,000.00 until the period of inflation had passed, this gift has been invested in government securities, which is the disposition which has been made of all building fund money that has been coming to Barium Springs during the past several years. Besides this $20,000.00 which was promptly placed in government securities, the Home here possesses $26,100.00 (maturity value) of government bonds toward a new church; and funds of $10,000.00, 7,000.00 and $9,550.00 for three small cottages of a proposed children's village have also been invested in government bonds. Still other funds, labeled for specific things, have been placed in this type of security.

Thanksgiving Offering Continues to Arrive

By Feb. 18, the Response Had Advanced to $62,991.33.— More Expected

On January 31st, the Thanksgiving Offering received from the Synod of North Carolina had advanced to $61,021.81, with an estimated $3,500.00 of that special donation yet to be forwarded in the closing two months to officials here by church treasurers - some to send original offerings, others to dispatch supplementary sums, and gifts to be received from certain organizations in some of the churches before the Offering was completed.

(NOTE: On February 18th, the Thanksgiving total received was $62,991.33, with 41 churches to have their reports marked as being completed.)

The latest tabulation on churches shows that 482 completed reports were in hand, with 381 giving as much, or more, than in 1942, leaving but 101 that failed to reach the '42 amounts. Of the grand total of 481, 214 churches were boasting of the greatest Thanksgiving Offerings to Barium Springs since the season of 1925.

Seven of the nine Presbyteries had surpassed the final 1942 aggregate by January 31st. These seven and their gains were Concord Presbytery, $2,799.27; Granville, $975.28; Mecklenburg, $948.22; Wilmington, $606.56; Winston-Salem, $332.97; Fayetteville, $171.06, and Albemarle, $39.99.

The two that were not "over the top" at the end of last month were Kings Mountain, lacking $531.04, and Orange, $393.88. The former's giving in February sent them into a plus category, while Orange will also have an increase when all of the Offering is here from that Presbytery. That will make a 100% record for the nine divisions of Synod.

Here is the way the Offering had been received through January 31, 1944, as compared with the final Offerings from each Presbytery for 1942:

	Through Jan. 31, '44	1942 Final
Presbytery	$ 2,411.19	$ 2,311.20
Albemarle	14,865.95	12,066.68
Concord	5,833.87	5,662.81
Fayetteville	4,733.89	3,758.61
Granville	4,800.44	5,331.48
Kings Mountain	13,462.85	12,514.63

Bonds for Church Now Total $26,800

Increase of $700.00 Noted In Such Securities Within the Past Month

Between January 17th and February 18th, government bonds for a proposed church and educational building at Barium Springs increased from $26,100.00 to $26,800.00. Besides those securities, there was cash of $44.40 in hand on February 18th which will be used in the next bond purchase.

Quite interesting is the fact that this $700.00 increase in such holdings came about largely through small memorial contributions. The Mebane Sunday School sent the money for a $25.00 bond, to join other organizations helping on the project, and one $100.00 check in memory of an individual was received. The other gifts were small memorial contributions of individuals, organizations and business firms. Part of those are in January's Messenger; the others will be listed in February.

No doubt some bonds will be forwarded to Barium Springs soon which were purchased in the recent bond drive. An inquiry was received here recently as to the proper name to be used, for relatives wanted to honor a boy who recently sacrificed his life in an airplane accident. The information always reads "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Substantial progress is being made toward the necessary funds for the contemplated church and memorial building, for the current holdings represent an increase of $11,700.00 in bonds since last April 1st, which covers a period of almost 11 months. For the whole year, the average monthly gain is going to be well over $1,000.00 a month in such securities.

$100.00 S. S. Club

By January 31st, 65 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina had sent as much as $100.00 regularly to Barium Springs in 10 months, and with that many already included in the Club, the final number to be listed for 1943-1944 is going to pass, by a considerable number, the 77 that were tabulated at the close of 1942-1943.

Of the 65 Sunday Schools, four have been listed in the Club for the first time in history. These are Centre and Red Springs in Fayetteville Presbytery; Mallard Creek in Mecklenburg and Chadbourne in Wilmington.

GOOD NEWS

Add the name of Grantham Sunday School, a mission point in Albemarle Presbytery, to that fast-growing list of Sunday Schools in the North Carolina Synod that give Barium Springs an Offering each month. Grantham adopted this plan in February, and the initial gift of $2.00 for the first Sunday of this month has been welcomed here.

Each additional Sunday School is helping to swell the regular receipts at Barium Springs and as more join in, the amount annually received will still climb, aside from the pleasure that it will give Sunday School members in doing something for these boys and girls every month. The total from this source in 1943-1944 is going to be more than doubled, according to present indications, the aggregate arriving from this source in 1933-1934 - ten years ago.

WHAT SUNDAY SCHOOL WILL BE NEXT TO JOIN IN THE PARADE?

Lieut. T. L. O'Kelley Missing on Flight

Parents Receive Word on Feb. 9th.— This Officer Graduated From High School Here

From The Charlotte Observer of February 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. O'Kelley, of 1816 Cleveland avenue, were notified last night that their son, Second Lieutenant Thomas L. O'Kelley, 24, is reported missing while on an "overwater aircraft flight."

The telegram which was sent from Morrison Field, Fla., added that a search has been instituted and further details would be furnished as they become available. It was signed Richard T. Knight, lieutenant-colonel, commanding.

Lieutenant O'Kelley had been in the army since September 1942. He received his commission as a second lieutenant and a navigator at Mather Field, Calif., about the first of October 1943. From Mather Field he was sent to Tucson, Arizona, and from there to Westover Field, near Springfield, Mass. He had been stationed there since October. Mr. O'Kelley said last night he had received his son's APO number from Westover Field and assumed that he would be on his way overseas by this time. He last heard from him two weeks ago from Mitchell Field, N. Y. Mr. O'Kelley believed that he was leaving for overseas from Mitchell Field.

Second Lieut. O'Kelley was educated at Mitchell college, Statesville, and later attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He has one brother, Air Cadet Joseph C. O'Kelley, who is stationed at the University of Chicago where he is attending the School of Meteorology. He is with the 31st AAFSTC.

The above distressing news cast a pall over the campus at Barium Springs, where T. L. is so well known because of the many years he spent at Barium, going to the schools here. His father was at one time head of the local schools, and later on his mother was matron at the Baby Cottage. Hope is still being entertained that this navigator will be found. T. L. was among the first in Statesville to volunteer. His first attempt to get into the service led to his rejection, but he later made the grade, and had since proved his ability which led to his commission.

Regular Giving of Synod Much Better

Increase of $5,623.20 Shown In First Ten Months.— Other Gain Expected

The combined regular and Thanksgiving Offerings from the Synod of North Carolina for Barium Springs were $13,058.76 ahead of the total posted here through January 31, 1943. Elsewhere, information is furnished on the Thanksgiving Offering increase, more particularly as related to the final figure for 1942, but in this article it is being announced that the regular donations were $5,623.20 ahead for the first 10 months.

With Synod having shown this much of a gain through January, it is logical to believe that other increases will be noted in receipts during February and March. The latter is always a month of large receipts as that is the "pay-up" month, and the tenor of the giving earlier in 1943-1944 is expected to find further reflection in the final sums that will be forwarded by Church budgets, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries.

The Thanksgiving Offering for 1943 will be close to an $8,000.00 increase over 1942, and the regular increase will possibly hover around $7,000.00, to give Barium Springs a gain of $15,000.00 over the 1942-1943 giving by Synod.

Of the regular total of $41,431.51, the larger portion has arrived from Sunday Schools. Approximately 300 of these organizations had forwarded $19,673.97, or 47.6% of the total. Church budgets were responsible for the next largest amount of $15,517.91, or 37.4%, and the balance of regular income, $6,239.63 had been sent by the Auxiliaries for 15% of the aggregate.

In this connection, it is interesting that Church budgets have shown an increase of $3,248.76; $2,703.59 more had come from the Sunday Schools, but there had been a decrease of $329.15 by the Auxiliaries.

Detail on the regular receipts by Presbyteries and organizations within them is as follows:

Presbytery	Ch.	S. S.	Aux.
Albemarle	$ 362.44	$1,041.93	$ 794.00
Concord	2,525.65	3,061.96	913.28

Mecklenburg	4,136.55	3,970.46	943.13

Wilmington	1,651.07	1,758.28	400.24

TOTAL $15,517.91 $19,673.97 $6,239.63

Below will be found a picture of the per capita giving of the Presbyteries, comment upon which is being withheld, since some of the Presbyteries had just about finished their Thanksgiving Offerings, and others yet had substantial amounts to be forwarded:

214 Churches Send Outstanding Sums

During the 1943 Thanksgiving Season.— Other Facts Given on Offering

By February 18th, completed reports for the Thanksgiving season showed that 214 churches, missions or chapels in the Synod of North Carolina were boasting of their best Thanksgiving totals since 1925, and in many instances, the Offering of 1943 was tops for all time. Since all reports have not been completed to officials at Barium Springs, there may be others to be added to the present number; if so, these will be publicly announced later.

Since there were 482 completed reports in hand, it meant that just about 44.4% of the places reporting 1943 Thanksgiving Offerings to this Home had the best for a period of 19 years that has been examined by authorities at Barium. A scrutiny of the Offerings since this Home was established in 1891 would no doubt reveal that the majority was the best in the 52 years that this Home has been in operation.

Most of the churches broke peaks which were set in 1942, for 116 smashed those high-water marks of the previous year. But, they weren't content simply to relegate to musty records recent zeniths, but many of the churches surpassed offerings that have been standing at the helm since the 1920's. For instance, 34 churches broke peaks that were on the books between 1925 and 1929. Among the 214 total were nine places reporting their first Thanksgiving offerings.

Full details on the 214 shows that 9 smashed 1925 highs; six for 1926; 15 for 1927; one, 1928; three, 1929; five, 1930; one, 1932; four, 1934; five, 1935; nine, 1936; four, 1937; three, 1938; one, 1939; eight, 1940; 15, 1941; 116, 1942, and nine, first reports.

The 214 churches which will have new sums to their credit when the Thanksgiving tabulations for the season of 1944 are prepared for distribution are as follows:

Quotable Quotes From the Alumni

In November's Messenger there were many quotations from alumni of Barium Springs anent their love, pride, appreciation, loyalty, etc., all pertaining to their old Home here.

Every now and then I get sick - nothing wrong with my body, just homesick. I wonder where I can get medicine to cure me of that sickness.

Quite a few fellows have asked me just what the life in the Orphanage is like. I tell them of all the wonderful times I've had there.

After having lived at Barium for a little over 16 years I can readily understand why we love Barium so much.

Sure would love to have been there yesterday (Home-Coming Day). I don't think I was the "onliest" boy who was homesick.

From a wife of a Barium graduate: has always told me it was a paradise on earth and has praised it to the skies.

When this war is over I am planning on coming and seeing the good old place. I really miss Barium and the good times I had there with a swell bunch of people.

I got my furlough last week and went to London. While I was in the Red Cross at a show I heard a boy call me and I looked around. About 20 feet away was - I was so glad to see him I 'bout cried.

I miss the "ole" place and I'm looking forward to the day when I can bring my wife up, show her around, try to tell her of some of the grand times I've had there and introduce her to the grandest people in the world and the best home this guy has ever known.

Barium deserves only the best.

Glad to hear that our fellows are doing such good work. We can't help it, we were trained and raised at Barium.

The things I learned at Barium are really coming in good now more than ever before.

When I go out on these missions it's a great feeling to know that not only my prayers but the prayers of my friends back home are with me constantly. I know, because sometimes it would be impossible if it wasn't for our Good Lord.

I'm doing my best to make a pilot. If I fall out of that I still have a chance to make a navigator, bombardier or gunner, but whatever I make or wherever I go I'll always give Barium the best name I know.

A fellow doesn't know how much he misses his home (Barium) and friends until he's away for some time. I want you to know I think the world of Barium, and I'd rather be there than any other place in the world.

Those quotations that were printed in it (The Messenger) are the right things all of us who leave Barium think about. The army sure is a lot easier to the Barium boys than to most of the other fellows.

I also learned down here how much Barium has meant to me. Not only in the way of discipline, but religiously, educationally and physically. I find that it is easy to be disciplined by these officers because I was taught discipline at Barium.

I sure am proud that I was there. When I read anything about Barium's games, sports or church activities, something deep down inside of me warms with pride.

I also wish there was some way I could pay back Barium for all the good times I've had there, and what you and the rest of the folks did for me. I know now that any person who has ever been at Barium could never be in better hands, and I'm thankful that I had the chance to go through Barium.

every time I go out. I was even called a sissy by a girl. Isn't that something?

I tell every new bunch of boys that come in about my home at Barium. They do not know that places like this exist. I do not have to stretch anything either.

I have a very nice group to work with, but after all I still think Barium is the best place in the world.

I always remember Barium in my prayers. To me Barium is my home and I hope the day will soon come when I will get back home.

I am still trying to practice the morale you taught us at Barium and yet expect to come out of this Army with a clean record and yet to take my first strong drink.

Sometimes wonder what I would have looked like if I had not had the care and love that Barium gave me. Then I just thank God for Barium and all the "Bariums" everywhere and all the people who make them the kind of places that they are.

It was a great pleasure to return to Barium again and I hope I will again soon. I also hope that all the boys will have the same privilege. It is just like home to me and I am very proud to say that I was raised there.

You know Barium will be running this war if some of the boys don't stop slowing up. Barium really has something to be proud of. It certainly does make one feel proud to say, "Yes, I was there fifteen years," and then to read down the roster of those from Barium.

It is just like home to me, and I am very proud to say I was raised there. I don't believe that you can find a home better than Barium.

It's gratifying to look over the list of names of the old boys and girls and find that they are living up to the tradition inherited while at Barium. Of course we are not all Generals, but they alone cannot suppress the charges of the enemy. I do believe that we are performing our respective duties as well as the big boys above us.

Those 15 1/2 years I spent there at Barium I wouldn't trade for anything in the world, and can imagine that is the way that lots of the other boys feel.

Seven Mistakes

The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.

The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or converted.

Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.

Refusing to set aside trivial preference in order that important things may be accomplished.

Neglecting development and refreshment of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading.

Attempting to compel other people to believe and live as we do.

The failure to establish the habit of saving money.

But the greatest mistake of Christian people is the neglect of witnessing, and honoring the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Exchange.

The sailor was recounting his experiences to a dear old lady when she interrupted him. "But what rank did you hold?" she asked.

"Ship's optician, lady," was the reply.

"Ship's optician! I never knew there was such a rank in the Navy. What did your duty consist of?" asked the old lady.

"Scraping the eyes out of potatoes," the sailor replied.

She: "What has happened, George?"

George: "A puncture."

She: "You should have been more careful. The guide book warned us there was a fork in the road at this point."

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

LOTTIE WALKER

With the exception of a number of very exciting basketball games the lull after Christmas was very pronounced.

Last week Statesville played the local team an unusually interesting game. Having already met the Statesville team on its own court and having been defeated by them, the girls team was particularly anxious to win.

On February 12 the girls at the Lottie Walker building are entertaining their friends at the gymnasium with a barn dance. A prize is to be presented to the couple who dresses as the most typical "Clem" and "Country lass."

We'll let you know how it turns out.

LEE'S COTTAGE

It has been quite a while since we last wrote news of our cottage and a number of things have happened since then.

Our number is reduced by one. Johnny Slater went to live with his mother in Portsmouth, Va. We miss him, but we are happy that he can be with his mother.

We have had our yearly physical check-up by Dr. Herman, and all were found to be in good health.

We had a little spell of measles and the following boys had to be in the Infirmary: Charles Faircloth, Mac Caldwell, John Junius Wicker, Cromer Curtis, Jerry Ennis, Bobby McMannen and Buddy Maples, but everyone is well now.

Miss Turner, our house mother, fell and sprained her ankle and we had to help her around a bit, but she is all right now.

A number of the old Lee's cottage boys who are in the service called by the cottage to see us recently. They were: Jack Weeks, Billy McCall, Roscoe and Wallace Twombly and Robert Brown. We are always glad to see our boys.

Our good friend, Mrs. Ervin of Charlotte, came to see us at Christmas time. We always enjoy having our friends come.

Every Saturday, Mr. Thomas and the orchard boys bring us a big box of apples that grew in our orchard. We have them every day. They are very good, and it makes us appreciate the orchard more.

We have been seeing some good pictures. One was "Lassie Come Home." Mr. Sams gave us tickets for Christmas.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, This is Valentine month, and a good friend gave our matron money to get us some Valentines and candy. We certainly appreciate this kindness.

Our three measles girls are back with us after two weeks at the Infirmary. We missed them, as each girl has her place in our home.

Annie Star Langley is still the "boy crazy girl" of our cottage.

Monday night we went to the show to see "Lassie Come Home." We thank our matron very much for her kindness in paying our way. We had to wait an hour before we got in, but it was worth waiting for.

The Junior choir sang last Sunday. We hope the people enjoyed hearing us as much as we enjoyed singing for them.

Our Junior basketball team is knocking it hard and hope to bring home the bacon someday.

Spring seems to be right around the corner and the swimming pool seems very peaceful and waiting for us to take a dip.

Signing off 'til next month. -Rumple Hall Girls.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, This is the Infirmary girls bringing you the news of the month.

Our epidemic of measles is finally over. We had over 60 in bed, but they have all gone out, and none of them has come back. We had a hard time while they were here, but since they have gone our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, was off for a few days visiting her son, Staff Sgt. Charles McNatt at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Our kitchen matron, Miss Lackey, was sick for a few days, and Miss Sallie Whitner took her place.

Miss Juanita Hardin, matron of Annie Louise Cottage, was with us two weeks recovering from an operation which she had at Davis Hospital.

Amos Hardy, who has been with us for quite a while, has left the Infirmary. "We miss you, Amos, but we were glad you could go."

One of our girls, Jean McDonald, finally got on the honor roll.

One of our dear friends, Lucile Smith, has been looking "down in the dumps lately." What could the matter be? Is it because her boy friend is leaving? Keep your chin up, Lou, he'll come back!

We wonder why our Junior team lost with Statesville. It couldn't be because Betty Joe Smith played half a quarter which you never could expect to happen. Keep it up, Joe, we'll win next time.

Tune in again next month. -The Infirmary Girls.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks, Here we are again, bring you news from Synod's Cottage.

Since you heard from us the last time 15 boys have had measles, and as soon as Clayton Miller got over the measles, he took chicken pox. We are all well now, though, and real glad to get back to our cottage.

You should see our new basketballs and goals. The ladies from Miss Cora Freeze's Circle in Mooresville sent the money to buy them. We are having such a good time playing ball. Some of our boys can play real good now, since they have a place to practice. We want to thank the ladies of the circle for a nice gift.

Albert Clough had a visit from his sister last week. Billy Hardin's mamma and a big sister came to see him from Raleigh. They were both real tickled to see their folks. -The Wigglers.

BABY COTTAGE

Hey there folks! Would you like for us to crowd 'round you for a little visit, feel your pretty dresses with our sticky fingers (for we're eating candy and oranges), maybe step on your toes with our "bootful" shoes and all talk at one time?

Well here we come: Shirley Johnson is all smiles these days. She has found a little new friend about her own age, who is Donna Brooks Irving of Greenville and they are having lots of fun writing letters and exchanging valentines. Donna sent Shirley the nicest little white slips you ever saw. Shirley smiles most of the time. She is just so happy.

Myrtle Rushing, one of our big girls, was taking little Donnie Privette to ride on her back. We asked Donnie what he was riding on and he said "a elephant." Myrtle just laughed and they rode on up and down the hall. You see, it's been snowing and raining and cold and muddy. We think that is fine but they just will not let us go "outsides" to play in any of it.

Little Charles Bowles had just gotten up from his afternoon nap, and he said "I see a pheet 'ittle boy. I went to seep!"

Andy Brown is in the rocking chair all by himself and says "I'm a big boy." But he's out now, trying to get Mrs. Massey's ink bottle off the table. He has pretty brown eyes.

We had a fine time Valentine day. The first and second grades and their teachers, Misses Koon and Vidall, came over to our cottage and had a party and a little play called "Tarts." Beth Jackins was Queen of hearts and baked some tarts, and Donald Dean, a little Knave, stole them away, and then, would you believe it, he wanted another one! The children sang some songs, including some solos, some duets and some quartets. After that, they gave us tangerines, cookies and candy. Miss Vidall said Miss Koon made the

Annual Health Clinic Is Held In January

General Health of Barium Family Has Been Good As Shown by Check-up

You know, we always have our health examinations in January, and usually we write about it in the next issue of The Messenger. This year that was skipped, and now this article is appearing a month late; in fact, nearly two months late. Here's why: the examinations went off just as usual. There were 16 bad tonsils; there were a few other minor operations, and for the most part, the children were in good shape.

We were just squaring off to write an article bragging about the fine state of their health. Everybody around us was having flu, and we didn't have a single case, and we were really feeling in a very superior frame of mind when our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, informed us one day that she had a case of measles - zowie! We were right in the midst of tonsil operations when that announcement was made; in fact, the Infirmary had eight tonsillectomy convalescents (how do you like those two words?) when this one little case of measles showed up. The boy's name was Whiting, by the way, and he is very blond ordinarily. We thought of changing his name from White to "Red" - it would have been more appropriate, because he was certainly on fire, and in just a few days, the procession started. Something like 90 went through the mill before we took down the quarantine sign and announced that the measles was over.

At times there were 70 in the Infirmary at one time, and the routine with each one was just about the same - a few bumps, a rather sickly grin, followed the next day by many bumps and a decidedly doleful countenance; then on the third day the smiles started to return, and from then on, the patients really enjoyed the party.

Having a good many sick at one time was very hard on the nurse and the housekeeper, Mrs. McNatt and Miss Beatty Lackey, respectively, because after the first couple of days, there wasn't a thing wrong with appetites, and it taxed the kitchen at the Infirmary to keep all those appetites satisfied. For a time we had to have some extra help there preparing and serving meals and cleaning up the wreckage afterwards.

Having so many sick at one time had its advantages, too. A single measles patient gets mighty lonesome; the room has to be kept darkened, and unless there is a radio or something like (Continued On Page Three)

Beattie Memorial Goes Over the Top

Beattie Memorial Church in Concord Presbytery has become the 215th one in North Carolina Synod to send its greatest Thanksgiving Offering to Barium Springs since the season of 1925. Last month's Messenger listed 214 churches, missions or chapels achieving this, and in March the final Thanksgiving response arrived from Beattie Memorial which sent its Offering beyond the former high of $39.00, sent in 1940.

There may possibly be some more; if so, public mention of these churches will be made in subsequent issues of The Messenger.

These 215 were among the 390 giving as much or more than in 1942, leaving but 106 that failed to reach their Offerings of the previous Thanksgiving. All told, 496 reports had been finished on March 14th, while at least 30 others were yet to be marked as complete.

Government Bonds Show $1,000 Increase

This Gain In Securities For New Church Occurs Span of 26 Days

Within less than a month the United States government bonds which are either being bought or sent to Barium Springs for the contemplated new church and educational building have increased $1,000.00. On March 15th, the securities in hand totaled $27,800.00 and on February 18th, when the last article was written for the (Continued On Page Three)

Thanksgiving Sums Continue to Arrive

All Presbyteries Will Show Some Increase.— Books on 1943 Offering Close Soon

On February 29th, the total Thanksgiving Offering received from churches in the Synod of North Carolina had advanced to $63,337.01, which was then $7,323.63 greater than the final total for the season of 1942. In addition to these Thanksgiving sums through the regular church channels, $8,967.00 had been sent by individuals and business firms direct to Barium Springs, making (Continued On Page Three)

Girl Scouts Celebrate Their First Birthday

March 10th Marked the Anniversary of Organization.— Play Was Presented

By the Girl Scouts. We, the Girl Scouts of Barium Springs, celebrated our first birthday Friday night, March 10th, from eight 'til ten o'clock. You can imagine our excitement and keen enjoyment when we tell you that we not only had many of our friends from Barium who are interested in us, but fourteen sister scouts and their leader, Mrs. Ples Canter, from Statesville with us. And we had a real birthday cake with all the trimmings! The one lonely candle looked 'most lost on that big cake but next year we hope to have two!

Troop Number II, under the direction of Miss Gladys Burroughs and Miss Sara McNeill, the leaders, presented a play called "The Vanishing Pearls" after an investiture ceremony and patriotic song "He's My Uncle." All twenty-one of us in this troop had a part in the play and were proud to wear our uniforms for the first time before an audience. At the end of our play the cake was brought on the stage by two of the characters, the little negro maid and her "boy friend." All the scouts who were not in the play, including our Statesville visitors, were asked to come to the front of the auditorium while the audience stood and sang "Happy Birthday" to all the scouts.

Orphanage Work Secretary Says:

Dear Friends of Barium in the Woman's Synodical Auxiliary: Again it is time to balance our books and close our accounts for the past year.

By this time all local Secretaries have the Orphanage work blanks in their hands and are ready to make out the report of the work that has been accomplished in their Presbyterial during the year.

If we have been faithful and served well we will have a feeling of joy and satisfaction.

Nothing can give our hearts greater happiness than to feel that our fatherless ones have all the comforts of life.

Let us be 100% in our reporting. Two features are necessary for successful reporting - accuracy and promptness.

When we read in The Messenger that the Thanksgiving Offering has been unusually good and the memorial gifts are increasing rapidly from month to month we realize that the Presbyterians of North Carolina have the interest of their Orphans' Home on their hearts.

I want to express to all my co-workers my deep appreciation of their cooperation in this work and for the liberal gifts that have enabled this work to go forward so wonderfully during the past year.

We all feel a sense of pride that in these critical times this work could be carried on without interruption.

At this time when our attention is so centered on the war, let us not forget to keep the home fires burning and faithful to all our responsibilities and obligations especially our boys and girls at Barium Orphanage who are to be the men and women of tomorrow. JANIE J. LOFTIN, Synodical Secretary of Orphanage Work. Gastonia, N. C.

GOOD NEWS

The single good news item for the March issue of The Messenger is the revelation that Cross Roads Auxiliary in Orange Presbytery is adding a Circle in 1944-1945, which will mean $12.00 more to Barium Springs, since that Auxiliary follows the $1.00-per-month-per-Circle plan. This is going to be a 50% increase in giving by that Auxiliary, for they now have two Circles and sent $24.00 for 1943-1944. Next year, it will be $36.00.

Officials at Barium take a great deal of pleasure in revealing any items increasing the regular income, and will continue to follow the policy of acquainting everybody in the Synod with any newcomers to regular systematic plans or any definite increases in regular appropriations. Of course, some organizations allotting all of one particular offering to Barium Springs show gains repeatedly, and if these were listed each time, the majority of churches in the Synod would be listed at one time or another throughout the year, and some of them in most of the months.

Two Commencement Speakers Are Selected

Dr. Roy D. Watts, Albemarle, and Dr. George Mauze, Winston-Salem Accept Invitations

Two of the three people who will make addresses at the 1944 commencement exercises of the high school at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home have been invited and accepted invitations, and within a short time the third and final speaker will have been chosen and an acceptance received from (Continued On Page Two)

Many Are Entering $100.00 S. S. Club

Sixty-eight Were "In" On February 29th.— Final Number to Be Over 80

By February 29th, three more Sunday Schools had become members of the $100.00 Club, to make 68 in this classification when the 11th month of 1943-1944 was ended. The final number in the Club in 1942-1943 was 77, but with many of the Sunday Schools on the threshold, the total "making" it when all donations are in hand this year will be nearer 85. Some stepped across in the early days of March when the final Offerings of 1943-1944 were welcomed at Barium Springs after the first Sunday.

The three that were added in February were Church-in-the-Pines and Jackson Springs in Fayetteville Presbytery and Rutherfordton in Kings Mountain Presbytery. The first two were grouped with the 77 last year, but Rutherfordton returns to the $100.00 Club after being on the outside one year.

All 68 and the amount that had been received at Barium Springs from then on February 29th follow (Continued On Page Three)

Synod's Total Almost Up to 1942-1943 Final

Lacked But $320.98 on February 9th.— New Peak Reached Early in March

If the Synod of North Carolina had reported $320.98 more to Barium Springs by February 29th, then the total receipts for the 11 months would have been exactly equal to the final aggregate for the full 12 months of 1942-1943. In the first few days of March more than the $320.98 was received from Synod, so the contributions from Synod for 1943-1944 are slated to be considerably in excess of the 1942-1943 income from this source.

The record shows that in March and the first 15 days of April last year, when the books were kept open to receive old year funds, that $14,372.34 was forwarded to Barium Springs. On this basis, the final figures for Synod will show a gain of slightly more than $14,000.00 if the receipts were identical. However, since there has been an increase in regular donations throughout most of the past 11 months, a further gain in regular gifts is expected in March and through April 12th, when the books will be closed.

Elsewhere in The Messenger detail is furnished on the Thanksgiving Offering as it has arrived from the nine Presbyteries, but in this article it is revealed that the regular receipts showed an advance of $6,353.91 for the 11 months. Church appropriations and Sunday School Offerings had respective increases of $3,551.09 and $2,963.70, with the Auxiliaries showing a decline of $160.88, to give the net gain as announced above.

Of the regular total of $45,894.91, Sunday Schools were leading in the amount contributed. These organizations had been responsible for $21,376.83, or 46.6% of the aggregate. Church budgets sent 37.6%, or $17,265.55. The balance of $7,252.53 came from Auxiliaries and meant they were responsible for 15.8% of the regular month-by-month income.

Within the nine Presbyteries, this regular amount had been received from the three main sources as follows:

Presbytery	Ch.	S. S.	Aux.
Albemarle	$ 373.69	$1,181.65	$1,020.00
Concord	2,779.94	3,281.59	1,052.35
Fayetteville	2,173.37	3,842.26	766.72
Granville	925.95	850.63	719.65
Kings Mtn.	1,378.76	2,595.88	531.02
Mecklenburg	4,486.56	4,443.26	1,062.63
Orange	1,580.96	2,329.19	1,236.52
Wilmington	1,856.45	1,855.32	437.79
W.-Salem	1,709.37	967.05	425.85

TOTALS $17,265.55 $21,376.83 $7,252.53

Concord Presbytery has a fairly comfortable lead over Kings Mountain in per capita giving, with Concord and Kings Mountain both being 'way out in front of the other seven. The lineup of the Presbyteries as noticed at the close of February is going to fairly approximate the standing at the year's conclusion, for most of the Thanksgiving Offering was in hand, and the balance of the giving is slated to follow the pattern observed in earlier months.

MARRIAGES.

Petty Officer James Richard (Jimmy) Dorton, of the Naval Air Corps, and Pfc. Jean Jones of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve were married in the First Presbyterian Church of San Diego, Calif. on February 16th. Since school closing and spring. Then it won't be long until summer and camp and vacation time. We get all excited when we think of all this, so we'll sign off right here. —The Annie Louisers.

BIRTHS.

Warrant Officer and Mrs. James Fred Edwards, of Taft, Calif., announce the birth of a son on March 13th. Both of these are graduates of Barium, Mrs. Edwards being the former Lucile Burney.

Corp. and Mrs. James Hannon, of Atlanta, Ga. announce the birth of a girl. The exact date of the recent arrival is not known at Barium.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Turner, of Greenville, Ills., announce the birth of a son on December 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pollock, of Clinton, N. C., announce the birth of a son on December 12th. Mrs. Pollock is the former Minnie Lou Turner.

Anna Turner, who told of the above two births, also announced the birth of a child on December 9th, but didn't say whether it was a boy or girl, nor did she give her married name. It was interesting that children were born in these homes on December 9th, 10th and 12th.

When A. C. Gantt was a visitor recently (the only alumni visitor besides Dick Parrish) he also stated that he was a father, but he didn't reveal whether it was a boy or a girl, or the date of birth. A. C. is stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

PROMOTIONS

James D. Johnston, son of the Barium superintendent, from Major to Lieutenant Colonel (he has been acting in this capacity since June, though his commission was only recently received) and Marshall Norris to S 1-c.

NEW RECRUITS.

Strange as it may seem, this is the first issue of The Barium Messenger in a long, long while that has not given the name of some alumnus entering the services of Uncle Sam. Maybe there were some within the past three weeks, but officials here are not acquainted with them.

PERSONALS.

No further word has been received about Second Lieut. T. L. O'Kelly, missing on an over-water flight. For 14 consecutive days his family received a telegram in Charlotte that the search for him was continuing, but on the 16th day, the telegram said that the search had been abandoned after covering a territory of a thousand miles and extending over a period of 16 days. Mr. and Mrs. O'Kelly, former residents of Barium, were informed that their next official word would be coming from Washington.

The newspapers recently listed the name of Vance Smith, Jr., of Statesville, a Barium alumnus, as having been wounded. That information was known here some time before it became public property, and by now Vance has no doubt recovered and is back in the thick of things.

At the Sunday School superintendents' conference at Barium Springs recently, four of the visitors (not all are superintendents, though) were alumni of Barium. These were Rev. J. O. Mann, D. D., of Charlotte, W. T. Warlick and Ed. Flowers, of Statesville, and George Faison, of Newton.

Rev. Roy D. Watts, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albemarle, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates on Sunday, May 14th, and the commencement address on Monday night, May 15th, will be delivered by Rev. George Mauze, D. D., pastor of the First Church of Winston-Salem and a member of the Board of Regents of the Home. The third speaker, who has not yet been invited, will be the minister who will preach to the various Young People's Societies on the Sunday night of May 14th. In addition to the appearances of these three speakers, there will be other program events of the commencement season, which always include exercises on the Friday night preceding graduation and the final Class Day program on the morning of graduation. Before these events, too, there will be a junior and senior music recital by the pupils of Miss Laura Gray Greene. Usually there has been but one recital, but two are planned for this spring.

Commencement of 1944 will be a month later than it has been for a good many years, and that is because the schools here, like all others in North Carolina, are now operating under a nine-month schedule instead of eight months. Even as it is, the graduating exercises at Barium Springs will be earlier than the average school, because of the opening of the 1943-1944 session the latter part of August and also because no time is lost here because of bad weather. The school buildings are on the campus and nobody has to depend upon a bus getting them there. Consequently, heavy snows never interfere, as it does in most schools.

Fuller details on the 1944 commencement program will be announced in the April issue, when the name of the third speaker will also be available.

INSPIRING TRIBUTE

Maybe this ought to be placed in the "Alumni News" of The Barium Messenger, but if so, it might be that only the alumni would read it. Since it is the desire of officials that everybody - both alumni and the constituents of the North Carolina Synod - read this, it is being published in the general columns of The Messenger. It is a comment of which all should be proud. It will be gratifying to those students who have attended Davidson College and it will be stimulating to those who have made possible this higher education.

In March a gift of $20.00 was forwarded to Barium through a friend by a Captain in the U. S. Air Corps, and the accompanying letter said this:

"I graduated from Davidson College and during that time he saw much of the Barium Springs Orphanage boys. In the letter with this enclosed check he said he had never met a finer group of boys anywhere."

Such a tribute is inevitably of large satisfaction to every person at Barium Springs who has had any part whatsoever in helping to train the boys and girls who graduate from the Home.

This comment by a Davidson alumnus is not the first one, by any means, that has come to officials at Barium Springs, but it is the latest. Many such assertions have been made, and contacts with Barium Springs' boys at Davidson have even led to the sending of contributions to this Home by people who are not affiliated with the Presbyterian denomination. They simply wanted to give their stamp of approval to the type of work that was being done with the graduates whom they later knew in college.

JOHN DOE CONTRIBUTES

You've read of "John Doe" in school textbooks a good many times, and John Doe has been a figure in many arithmetic problems offered for solving. That gentleman has become quite real to officials at Barium Springs in recent months, for airmail letters have been reaching Barium from Pueblo, Colorado, and in each airmail letter has been a splendid donation.

Officials here have no idea who this particular John Doe is, but it is an assured fact that he or she does not want his or her identity known, for there is never any return address on the envelope. No copy of The Messenger goes to anyone in Pueblo, though there might be some relative in North Carolina forwarding a copy out to Colorado.

Anyway, the gifts keep on coming, they keep on being recorded at Barium Springs, and the gratitude of the people here keeps on climbing.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Here we are back with you bringing you the latest news. We hope you are feeling as good as we are. Old spring is just around the corner, but it doesn't seem like it right now. Miss Burgess went off for a week-end not so long ago and while she was there she made the best cake! Each one of us got a slice. Miss Burgess (who is always thoughtful) took some of our Christmas money and bought each of us a mirror. She had them put on the wall according to our height. She also had a long dressing table made for each dressing room, and a shelf put underneath to put our shoes on. Miss Hardin, Annie Louise Matron, is well now and, boy, are we glad! But we sure are sorry that Mrs. Rogers went home. We got report cards and only two girls made the honor roll. They were Hazel Creech and Shirley Inman. All of us will try to make it next month. Our Girl Scouts gave a play last night and invited the scouts from Statesville. After the play we had punch and cake, which was our birthday cake. —The Howard Girls.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, Our spring month is here again and our basketball tournaments are about to start. We have several girls who will enter and they are just itching to get out there and help win for all of us. The following girls had visits from their people: Lucille Brown, Betsy Disherman, Virginia Hendrix, Annie Marie Andrews, and Dorothy Shepherd. A good friend of ours came and brought us some cookies. We all want to thank her for them very much. Some of the girls got very pretty presents from some of their people in the service. We have 10 girls who have relatives in some part of the armed forces. We are looking forward to the Girl Scout party which we are going to have this month. We are now a year old. Mrs. Johnston is going to cut the cake which we will all join in eating. We want to thank Mr. Johnston for letting us go to the show. We certainly did enjoy it. —Rumple Hall Girls.

PRINTING OFFICE

Dear Readers, Sometimes you probably wonder how The Barium Messenger is printed. The boys do it themselves, along with the help of Mr. E. K. Kyles, the foreman. Of course, there is someone behind him Mr. Ernest Milton, assistant editor, who makes up the copy and Mr. Johnston, takes the blame for anything printed that ought not to be. I doubt if you very seldom find anything that ought not to be there. The money copy, as you see every month on the back page, is worked up by Miss Andrews, bookkeeper and cashier. The copy is sent down here and Ray Lewis sets a lot of it up on the linotype when he is here. Mr. Kyles usually does it now since we are in school most of the day. Paul Reid, a former Barium boy who was drafted, used to set it up. I set a little of it up myself. James Reid runs the linotype a little. What he does mostly is to work on our mailing list, putting in names and taking them out, changing addresses, making proofs of it to run through the mailers which stamps the name on every paper. Our mailing list has over 25,000 names on it, not counting the boys in the service which are from Barium. We send one to them every month. They number about 230, which includes the ones we send to the wives of the soldiers or various other branches of the armed forces. We have boys from up here in about every branch there is. When Mr. Kyles has "made up" the forms, I run them off the press with his aid (if anything goes wrong that I can't fix, he does; I wonder what we'll do without him if the Army calls him). Then we hand it over to Mr. Martin, our shoeman. He fixes shoes during the time he doesn't run the folder. One of our printer's devils watches the "box" (that is where the papers come out of the folder after they have gone through the process of folding). They are then passed to Ray Lewis and myself to have a name stamped on them and from us to James Reid and the beginners who wrap them. James is not a printer's devil any more. He has passed that stage of learning. The bundles are then put in bags labeled and set out on the Printing Office porch. Mr. Thomas, the postmaster, gets them. We then see no more of them unless some have the wrong address on them or come unwrapped on the way. —Earl Allen.

ANNIE LOUISE
Dear Friends,
Well, we are glad to have Miss Hardin back with us after having been out for two months on account of illness. We missed her so much. Mrs. Margaret Rogers from Franklin, Va. was with us during Miss Hardin's absence. She was so sweet. We hated to see her leave us. In fact, we begged her to stay with us.
We are so proud of our lovely new bed spreads. Circle No. 3 in Mooresville so graciously gave them to us. They also brought us some candy. We enjoyed the candy and our beds look so good with our new spreads on.
We got our report cards. These were the girls on honor roll: Pattie Inman, Aline Thomas, Shirley Thomas, Martha Nell Hall, Sylvia Sue Buie, Geraldine Katen, Margaret Hopkins and Jackie Porter-field.
Since you last heard from us Betty Lou Hooten has come to live with us as one of our big girls. We like her very much.
Nearly all of us had measles and several have had pink eye, but we are all well and happy again.
We have an honor guest on our campus now. She is Mrs. John Q. Holton from Winston-Salem. She was seventh grade teacher here for many years and for five years before her retirement she was matron of our cottage. We are delighted to have her visit us. We hope she will not wait so long before she visits us again. We all learned to love Mrs. Holton and we can never forget her. She just seems to belong to Barium.
We will soon be thinking of Most before we know it, it's time to write you another letter. Wish we could get a letter some day. We like to get mail.

We'll just come in and sit down, try to keep our feet on the floor, and our hands on our laps long enough to write you a letter.

Mrs. Massey came in just now and said, "little birds, open your mouths", and they flew wide open. She dropped a little round piece of candy right "ker-dab" on our tongues. Was it good! Oh, my!

Myrtle Rushing put on a little play the other night and she made it all up herself, too! And here it is:

BABY COTTAGE

The Land of Winter
Queen of the Land of Winter, Lois Dellinger; Snow Shoes, Linda Inman; Messenger, Donald Deane, King of March, Richard Vest; Flowers, Shirley and Jackie; Children, Johnnie, Marie Idell, Patsy, Charles and Mary Rose.

Place: In basement of playroom. Time: 7:30.
We wish you could have seen us. We liked ourselves pretty good, all dressed up!

Nina Berryhill, one of our big girls, just will not let us start anywhere with soiled hands and faces. She adores a wash rag and "ole" soap. We try to slip by some times, but no, sir, she gets there with that wash rag first!

Hazel Walker has gone to live at the Woman's Building and Dorothy Maples has come to live with us. Bye, bye, Hazel, and good luck to you and to Dorothy, too, if we give you time to find it.

Virginia Presnell and Dorothy play basketball.
Miss Lily Bryant spent the week end at Salisbury visiting her friend, Miss Janie Smith.

Little Andy Brown's father came to see him last Sunday. Andy was so glad he just laughed and laughed.

Donnie Privett couldn't run fast enough to get away from a cold, and he is at the Infirmary. One night before he went to the Infirmary he heard an air plane. (he had been put to bed and it was time he was asleep). He called out loud, "Dot air plane's 'yummin' fast."

Mary Rose was rocking her baby doll in a little cradle and was singing Mary's little lamb like this: "and Mary put the teacher out."

Miss Whitener has come to live with us awhile too. She plays games with us and we have a grand time.

We have two new babies, Doris and Jean Harris. They are sweet little folks.

Our feet just will not be still another minute and our hands are so tired being still. We'll just have to get up and run out now in the sunshine.

We must tell you, though, that little Charles Bowles' mother came to see him last week.

Mrs. Holton has been to see us, too. She lives in Winston-Salem now. —The Babies.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, This is the Infirmary bringing you the news of the month. We are very glad to have Mrs. Holton, one of our retired matrons, with us. We feel honored having her stay in our cottage. We have had very few patients sick this month. We have one patient, Herbert Good, who has just had his appendix removed. He is much better and will soon be out. We enjoyed having all the Sunday School Superintendents with us Sunday for their conference. We have taken in five new children since we last wrote you. They are: Earl and Bobby Johnson, and Jimmy, Donnie and Jean Harrington. We are very glad to have them with us. Look for us in the next Messenger. —The Infirmary Girls.

S. S. Superintendents' Conference Held Here

Sunday School Leaders of Concord Presbytery Have All-Day Session on March 5th

More than 25 Sunday Schools of Concord Presbytery were represented at Barium Springs Sunday, March 5th, at an all-day conference of Sunday School superintendents and their assistants...

McAlister Carson, of Charlotte, was the key individual arranging the sessions in conjunction with Rev. J. O. Mann, D.D., also of Charlotte and who is director of religious education.

Dr. John C. Bailey, dean of students at Davidson College, spoke on "The Sunday School and Christian Culture" at the first exercise, followed by a discussion on "The Superintendent's Job" by Mr. Patterson from Richmond.

Rev. Thos. C. Cook, pastor of Little Joe's church, preached a sermon at the regular morning worship service in which he extolled the importance of Sunday Schools endeavor. Lillie Bell Smith, a senior at Barium, led the devotional exercises in the church service.

Participating in the afternoon session, presided over by Mr. Carson, were Elbert Todd, Charlotte, former superintendent of Westminster Sunday School, who presented an outline of detailed records kept on their Sunday School members; Miss Mary Louise Woodson, Charlotte, on "Improving Our Worship Services," Dr. Mann on "Securing and Helping Teachers," with the final stirring and inspirational address by Mr. Patterson.

Just before Mr. Patterson's address, a general discussion on the Sunday School was led by Rev. A. R. Batchelor, of Richmond, Va, director of Sunday Schools in the General Assembly, who was a former pastor in Concord Presbytery.

This meeting at Barium Springs was one of several which have been planned throughout North Carolina Synod, and are designed to inspire the Sunday School superintendents in their important jobs and to fortify them with materials to carry on their work in an effective manner.

somewhat to themselves. The other five are in a closer range of each other, with Granville ahead and with Wilmington trailing. There's not such a great difference between the last five. Granville has a per capita sum of 106.1 cents as compared with Wilmington's low of 90.9 cents.

Last-minute giving by some Presbyteries may change this picture of the ratings, and it will be interesting when the final standing is prepared to see how closely it conforms to the one appearing in this issue of The Messenger.

Through February the Presbyterians of the Synod had an average of $1.17 per person. The final average will probably be around $1.23 for the 93,371 North Carolina Presbyterians.

Table showing Synod totals for various Presbyteries: Concord ($612.99), Kings Mountain (203.54), Winston-Salem (273.68), Mecklenburg (942.31), Granville (431.31), Albemarle (376.97), Orange (605.31), Fayetteville (677.32), and Wilmington (339.97).

And, that is not all of the Thanksgiving Offering yet. The individual donations have probably been completed, but a considerable amount was yet to be welcomed from treasurers of churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries. Quite a bit of that had arrived at Barium Springs through the middle of March. Synod's total on March 14th was $64,047.44, with an estimate of around $600.00 yet to be recorded at Barium.

April 12th has been set as the closing date on the 1943-1944 books, and any Thanksgiving Offering arriving after that date cannot be included in the 1943 grand aggregate. It is hoped that practically all of it will be here long before that time, and that treasurers will notice that they have not sent the Offerings when they start balancing off their books for the year.

All but one Presbytery had gone beyond the 1942 final by February 29th, and that Presbytery had Thanksgiving Offerings for Barium Springs in early March that sent it over, too. The one behind on February 29th was Orange, which lacked $340.38. The other eight Presbyteries had increases at the close of last month as follows: Concord, $2,817.77; Mecklenburg, $1,414.65; Granville, $1,055.53; Wilmington, $751.62; Fayetteville, $586.61; Winston-Salem, $439.27; Kings Mountain, $373.07, and Albemarle, $225.49.

The total from all Presbyteries through February, as compared with the final 1942 Thanksgiving Offering, is as follows:

Generous Response To Red Cross Appeal

Sum of $124.50 Given By Barium Springs Under Sponsorship of Senior Class

The greatest amount ever contributed to the Red Cross cause was donated by the people at Barium Springs in the recent 1944 campaign when $124.50 was collected and sent on to officials in charge of the efforts in Iredell County. This was considerably in excess of the response which the people made in 1943.

Members of the senior class are annually in charge of the task of contacting everyone on the campus, and this is also presented to the pupils in the classroom. Mr. W. A. Hethcox, school principal, turned over the job to the seniors entirely, told them to elect their own chairman and then to proceed in their efforts.

As the collections were made, they were handed to Mr. Hethcox, who was the individual turning the final sum in to the proper authorities. "The Seniors did an unusually good job this year," said Mr. Hethcox, "and deserve to be congratulated. Too, the people of Barium Springs are to be commended for their generosity."

Everyone at Barium Springs is keenly interested in this important agency. Most of the workers have some relative with the armed forces, this is also true of many of the children, and then there are close to 200 alumni of Barium Springs affiliated with the fighting forces in some way. The senior solicitors said that everybody seemed glad of the opportunity to aid the Red Cross.

Government Bonds Show

That was a thousand dollar gain in 26 days, and from what has been written to officials at Barium about other bonds to be sent, there will be a further decided gain by the time the next Messenger is issued. The bonds through March 15th had increased $12,700.00 over what the Home owned last April 1st.

Included in the recent increase were four bonds sent direct to Barium Springs. Three of these were of $25.00 denomination and one was a $100.00 bond, all of the Series F and properly made out to "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Mrs. George Petteway, of Charlotte, sent two more $25.00 bonds, to make $100.00 in such securities that she has sent here in memory of her father and mother, the late Dr. and Mrs. James Aaron Austin. A $25.00 bond was received from Mrs. Comann M. Gold, of Wilson, who honored her aunt, the late Miss Louise Daniel, of Wilson.

From a friend a $100.00 bond was received in memory of the late Mr. E. J. McIntire, of Wilmington, who died in January. The friend desired that identity remain unknown.

Two monetary gifts were received without any memorial thought behind them - simply a desire on the part of the donors to help on the church project. One was a $100.00 check from Miss Ella Graham, Route 3, Laurinburg, and the other was a $50.00 check from a friend who also asked that the name not be made public.

The balance of the money available for bond purchases were memorial contributions such as those listed on the back page of this Messenger and which appear in the paper every month. These gifts average about three a day, and are not only helping to build a church and aid the government, but appropriately honor the deceased and express heartfelt sympathy to those who survive.

Girl Scouts Celebrate

After the play we had a birthday party at the Woman's building where we were happy to have as our guests the Statesville scouts, our Troop Committee, Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston, Mrs. George Neel, and Mr. Ernest Milton and Mr. Jos. B. Johnston, and Mrs. John Q. Holton, Troop Number I and their leader, Miss Lorena Clark, had charge of the party. Mrs. Johnston cut the birthday cake and Miss Clark officiated at the punch table. Our Girl Scout color scheme of green and yellow was beautifully carried out with arrangements of spring flowers as well as in the refreshments. We were happy Girl Scouts as we sat before the log fire and discussed scouting with our friends.

As it is the beginning of a new Scout year it is in order for us to take inventory: During the year we, Troop Number II, have received as a gift, $32.50; we cleared from the sale of Christmas cards, $21.00; from the sale of scrap paper we earned $16.02. We now have over a hundred dollars invested in uniforms after using most of the money from our treasury and receiving generous gifts from friends. We have bought Girl Scout Handbooks and song and program books. Our membership fees and Troop credential fee for next year have been sent to National headquarters and our Girl Scout pins have been ordered. Each member of our Troop was able to pay her own membership dues, as we had saved money that had been given to us. We now have in our treasury $6.96. At our play we sold ice cream and candy to pay the expenses of our party.

We have had many good times during the past year. The younger patrol in our Troop, headed by Miss Burroughs, is now working on handicraft, while the other patrol, with Miss McNeill as leader, is working to earn our First Aid badge.

Troop Number I, Leader: Miss Lorena Clark; Assistant leader, Miss Vidal. Patrol Number I, headed by Miss Clark, has the following members: Frances Rhyne, Margaret Bullard, Annie Star Langley, Dorothy Shepherd, Nellie Isenhour, Callie Dunn, Vivian Jacumin, Frances Adams, Elina Thomas, Helen Morgan, Anne Wicker, Elsie Vest, and Virginia Hendrix.

Miss Vidal has charge of Patrol Number II, with the following members: Mary Morgan, Betsy Dishman, Lucille Holt, Elizabeth Johnson, Melva Powell, Lucille Brown, Gwendolyn Landrum, Kathleen Monroe, Willie Mae Robinson, Jean Turlington, Betty Sue Wolfe, and Betty Lou Williams.

Troop Number II: Leader, Miss Sara McNeill; Assistant leader, Miss Gladys Burroughs. Patrol Number I, with Miss McNeill as leader, has the following members: Ellen Holt, Shirley Inman, Lucille Stinson, Kathleen Ellis, Mabel Milton, Peggy Neel, Juanita Young, Frances Stricklin, Clara Mangum, Essie Jean Lee, Mary Lee Jordan and Annie Hendrix.

Patrol Number II, headed by Miss Burroughs, has the following members: Louise Campbell, Hilda Barnes, Ethel Brotherton, Jennie Lee Philips, Catherine Stevens, Hazel Creech, Betty McMannen and Jane Feimster.

Annual Health Clinic

(Continued From Page One) that handy, time passes mighty slowly, but when there are a half dozen in that room - my, my - the jokes they can tell, the songs they can sing, the games they can play, and all we had to do was to keep the building comfortable and let nature take its course. Now that is all settled, and we are getting down to the business of writing about the clinic.

As you know, there is a doctor shortage - a most serious doctor shortage in Iredell County. Instead of having one doctor for each 800 people, I believe we have one doctor for every 4,500 people right now in this county. That being the case, we didn't want to take as much time of our regular Dr. Herman as we had been formerly, so we asked Dr. Skeen to help out, and the two of them really did give our youngsters a going over.

Both doctors seemed to get a great kick out of it. Dr. Skeen was Barium Boys Were Champions at Landis

Boys and Girls Participate In Three Others.—Big Tournament Staged Here

The latter part of February and the early part of March has been the season for basketball tournaments. The initial one is always the Mid-Piedmont affair at Barium Springs in which 32 teams are guests and in which the Barium players play host to the visiting contingents. That tournament has been followed by three in which the Barium varsity aggregations have been participants.

Naturally the one which stands out uppermost in the minds of the Barium crowd is the affair over at Landis, for the Barium Springs boys were champions of that tournament. Their laurels were won against China Grove's boys, and the Barium five had to play sensationally in the closing quarter to overcome a substantial lead and win by two points. Six gold basketballs were given the individual members, and a trophy to the team. This award has been added to many which are already displayed in the dining room at Rump Hall. The girls were entered, too, but they were eliminated in the semi-finals.

Both of the varsity teams participated in the tournament at Scotts, but they both went down in the semi-finals. However, Mary Alice Stevens won the foul-shooting trophy, having been chosen to represent Barium Springs. Three times did she have to toe the foul mark, for she tied with other players, but in the final go-round she dropped through 18 out of 25 attempts to win handily.

The other tournament in which Barium advanced to the semi-finals for both the boys and girls, was in the southern division of the South Piedmont conference, of which the school is a member. Had they won at Kannapolis, they would later have had to meet both crews from the Methodist Children's Home of Winston-Salem, who copped the northern division and then went on to win both engagements against their competitors for the 1944 championship of the South Piedmont conference.

having his first experience with us although he had helped with tubercular clinics many times before, and Dr. Herman, being able to say, "I told you so," to Dr. Skeen. Dr. Herman prides himself on recognizing the children that he has examined before, but one boy puzzled him: He said, "That youngster looks familiar, but I don't remember examining him at all." I refreshed his memory; a year ago he examined him. At that time he had bad tonsils, adenoids, intestinal parasites, and he was just badly run down. During the year those things had been corrected, and the lad had gained 25 pounds. Instead of being stoop-shouldered and weak looking, he was square-shouldered and just radiating good health. No wonder Dr. Herman didn't recognize him!

The most gain in weight goes to a girl - 31 pounds. The most to a boy is 25 pounds, but there were a 24, a 23, and several 22's, so the boy didn't lead the procession very much.

The general health during the year has been good in spite of the fact we have taken in more small children than usual, and these smaller children, as a rule, need a good deal of attention. All in all, our health examination revealed many things to make us grateful and many things to challenge our continued efforts. We try to do everything possible, so that every child who leaves Barium Springs will have as fine physical equipment as is possible for him to have.

From year to year we give you this report. This year we can give you an over-all report, which is most gratifying. We read from time to time in the papers that of the inductees from 17% to 25% are turned down because of physical defects.

As far as we know, out of about 190 inductees from Barium, only three have been turned down; they were for eye conditions. That makes us feel mighty good.

God has certainly blessed our efforts, and the young people themselves have cooperated so that our small efforts have really resulted in big things.

Synod Breaks All Records During 1943-44

Vacations Will Be Allowed This Summer

Arrangements for These Must Be Made Between May 22nd and July 22nd

Every summer until 1943 the children at Barium were allowed to visit relatives and friends for a limited period of time.

As the summer of 1943 approached, there was such an acute gasoline shortage and transportation of all kinds was so congested that we did not think it patriotic or practical to allow vacations to take place with the necessary traveling that that would entail.

Some of the children could have gone to relatives and friends without causing any travel bother at all, those who lived nearby in particular. It did not seem fair, however, to allow these to go and deny the others, so for that one year we did not have vacations.

Now this year is another story: it appears that car travel has eased up somewhat, and while bus and railroad travel appear to be just as much congested, we are still going to try to restore the (Continued On Page Two)

Every Presbytery Shows An Increase.— 217 Give Best Amount's Since 1925

The final 1943 Thanksgiving Offering from the Synod of North Carolina was $64,838.34, which is by far the greatest in the 52 years of operation of this Home. This relegated to history the peak of $56,013.38 reached in 1942, being $8,824.96 more. In addition to this aggregate by Synod, Thanksgiving responses coming direct from individuals and business firms, and not credited to churches, were $8,967.00, to give a grand total of $73,805.34 at Thanksgiving-time.

There were 529 churches or mission points in North Carolina that participated in Synod's Thanksgiving Offering, and it is interesting that 217 of the 529 sent the best responses since the 1925 season. All told, 405 gave more than in 1942, while only 125 fell below the sums donated in the immediately previous Thanksgiving period.

During the month of March, Marshville Church in Mecklenburg Presbytery and Grier's Church in Orange Presbytery became the 216th and 217th churches or missions in the Synod of North Carolina to establish new Thanksgiving peaks over a period of the last 19 years. Additional responses from organizations at both of these places arrived at Barium Springs in the closing days of the 1943-1944 year to send them to new highs at Thanksgiving-time since the season of 1925. It is quite remarkable that 217 of the 529 participating churches in the offering last November could climb to such heights in the 1943 special period of emphasis.

Recognition of the 215 others has already been given in previous issues of The Messenger, and officials are glad this month to make public these additional two. To all 217 genuine and hearty congratulations are being extended upon the marvelous record that was made in the 1943 season of unprecedented giving to this Home in its 52 years of operation.

Church Bonds Show Phenomenal Advance

Gain of $2,600.00 in 37 Days.— Present Holdings for Proposed Church Are $30,400.00

On April 21st, the Presbyterian Orphans' Home owned $30,400.00 of government bonds toward a proposed church and educational building at Barium Springs, which represents a phenomenal 37-day increase of $2,600.00 in such securities since the last article was written for The Messenger on March 15th. Besides these bonds, there was a small amount of cash on hand toward the next $100.00 similar security.

The present holdings for the church are more than doubled what they were on April 1, 1943, when $15,100.00 were in the lock box of the Home at a bank in Statesville. That is an increase of $15,300.00 in bonds within a little over one year, and if this present rise continues in the months and years ahead it will not be such a long while before the Home will own the necessary $75,000.00, maturity value, of such bonds. This is a tentative estimate of what the contemplated church and educational building will cost.

During the past 37 days, many memorial contributions have been received at the Home, part of which are listed in this issue of The Messenger, with the others to be recorded in next month's copy. Too, there have been gifts for the church without a memorial thought behind them and those are also tabulated this month or will appear in May's issue.

Those contributions, though, not listed in The Messenger at any time under monetary donations are the bonds that came direct. In recent days there have been two of these.

From the family and friends of the late Rev. John Shaw Foster, D. D., of Winston-Salem, arrived $750.00 in Series F government bonds as part of a fund which they are establishing in memory of this eminent minister who was a professor at Columbia Theological Seminary at the time of his death.

A $100.00 Series F bond also arrived from First Lieut. James V. Neelley, of Greensboro, who is now serving overseas in England.

Publicity will be given other bonds as they are received and recorded in the "journal" at Barium, and quite a number of these are expected when the fifth war loan drive gets under way in June. The Series F bond is preferable and these should always be made out to "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Not since the Home was established at Barium Springs in November of 1891 have the Presbyterians of the Synod of North Carolina exhibited a liberality of such generous proportions as that reached in 1943-1944, when the grand total of regular and Thanksgiving Offerings for the support fund were $124,843.92 - just a little bit shy of $125,000.00 for the 12 months. The 93,371 Presbyterian in Synod averaged almost $1.34 per person in the 1943-1944 year, showing a per capita gain of almost 18 cents over 1942-1943.

The sum of $109,442.90 for 1942-1943 was "tops" until the recently concluded year, but the increase overshadowed last year's peak by $15,291.02. This deals with support fund money and does not include anything given by the churches or organizations on the clothing fund, which is kept separately, or for the proposed church at Barium, the latter gifts going into a capital fund.

Regular monthly giving accounted for $60,005.58 - an increase of $6,466.06 in the month-by-month responses - and the Thanksgiving Offering was responsible for $64,838.34 - an advance of $8,824.96 - to make up the gain of $15,291.02. Regular donations represented 48% of the total and 52% as Thanksgiving responses.

Every one of the nine Presbyteries surpassed their giving of 1942-1943, with six of them giving the best aggregates since 1927-28, and two having the next-best totals for that period of time. The six were Concord, Fayetteville, Granville, Kings Mountain, Mecklenburg and Wilmington. Next-best were Albemarle and Orange. What the Presbyteries have sent each year since 1927-1928 is shown elsewhere in this paper.

Increases by Presbyteries follow: Concord, $4,194.56; Mecklenburg, $2,565.86; Fayetteville, $2,022.68; Wilmington, $1,747.72; Kings Mountain, $1,604.16; Granville, $1,240.80; Winston-Salem, $715.62; Albemarle, $660.23, and Orange, $539.39. These gains represent both regular and Thanksgiving sums.

Of the $60,005.58 of regular income, Sunday Schools were responsible for 44.6%, or $26,738.69; Church budgets, 38.4%, or $23,052.77, and Auxiliaries 17%, or $10,214.12. Sunday Schools showed an increase of $3,456.57; Church budgets gained $3,333.66, but the Auxiliaries were $324.17 shy of their 1942-1943 regular amount.

Sunday Schools Very Generous Last Year

Show Gain of $3,456.57.— Grand Total of $26,738.69 Given By 266 Sunday Schools

During 1943-1944 266 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina made some regular contribution to the Home at Barium Springs and the total of all of these donations advanced to the unprecedented amount of $26,738.69. This is $3,456.57 more than the Sunday Schools gave in 1942-1943, and it is almost twice as great as the $13,446.42 which was sent on a regular basis by these organizations in 1933-1934. This giving represented 44.6% of all that Synod sent regularly in 12 months, which so clearly and decisively indicates the dependence of Barium Springs upon these Sunday School Offerings.

Here is the record of Sunday School donations for the past 11 years:

Year	Amount
1933-1934	$13,446.42
1934-1935	15,594.03

Greatest Number Ever Classified in This Group Met Century Sums In 1943-1944

A grand total of 90 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina - the greatest number in any single year - sent a minimum of $100.00 regularly throughout 1943-1944 and thus are included as members of the 1943-1944 $100.00 Sunday School Club. In 1942-1943 there were 77 organizations tabulated. Thirteen Sunday Schools entered the Club for the first time in history, three returned to it after a short lapse, while three in this classification last year failed to maintain their seats in 1943-1944.

Newcomers to the Club were Black River, Centre (F), Chadbourn, Cook's Memorial, Culdee, Flat Branch, Gilwood, Jonesboro, Mallard Creek, Mooresville Second, Mount Olive, Red Springs and Williams' Memorial.

Re-entering the group were Lee Memorial, Marion and Rutherfordton.

Barium Treasurer Goes to Birmingham

Ernest Milton Accepts Position As Treasurer of Box Manufacturing Business

On March 23rd the Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home received in writing the resignation of Ernest Milton as treasurer, this to become effective at the close of April. Thus, the Barium Springs' treasurer and his family will be leaving here for Birmingham, Ala. about the time that this issue of The Messenger is delivered to the friends of the Home.

Mr. Milton has accepted a position as treasurer of the Hightower Box & Tank Company, of Birmingham, which is a 52-year-old box manufacturing business. He has also been made a director.

The departing treasurer came to Barium Springs in September of 1932 and has been operating in this capacity for over eleven and a half years. Prior to his affiliation with the Home he served for six years as the first alumni secretary of Davidson College, from which institution he was graduated in 1926, after having entered Davidson in 1922 from his native home of Thomasville, Ga.

Before Mr. Milton became connected with Barium Springs the office of superintendent-treasurer was a joint one which had been filled by Jos. B. Johnston from the time of his coming to the Home in July of 1922. The work was divided with the arrival of Mr. Milton, Mr. Johnston continuing as superintendent.

In submitting his resignation to the Board Mr. Milton wrote that "the decision to leave this work after over eleven and a half years was made after weighty deliberation on my part. It is difficult to loosen one's self from roots which have gone deep through such a period of years, during which time a great attachment has been developed for the Home. Many, many angles were turned over in my mind and heart and the conclusion was that I should accept the offer which was made and which has been carefully investigated."

To the Regents Mr. Milton also wrote "My resignation could not be submitted without a personal word of thanks to the members for their co-operation and vital assistance in promoting this Home (Continued On Page Two)

On Friday night, April 7th, Leona Hall and Paul Burney were announced as the players' choices as the most valuable 1944 members of the Barium Springs girls and boys varsity teams, respectively.

R. E. Jackins, football coach at Barium and basketball official in many games, was toastmaster of the occasion when a few invited guests joined the local people in honoring the athletes.

The after-dinner speech was made by Rev. E. G. Carson, a rabid basketball fan who sees a host of court games during all seasons.

Harry E. Barkley, basketball coach, awarded certificates to the boys and girls who had played on the midget teams and Mr. Johnston gave out the varsity letters.

Boy Scout Troop Being Organized

Necessary steps were begun at Barium Springs in March to have a Boy Scout troop on the campus, which will be the first time that a troop of this organization has ever been organized here.

While 33 boys met to talk over this, yet there will be only 27 to become scouts because of their age. The others, though, will be joining as they get old enough.

The 1944 Basketball season is officially at an end, and looking back over the record, we can understand why Mr. Barkley's hair is much thinner now than it was at the beginning of the season, but in spite of that, he wears a smile.

Here's how come: if you will glance through the scores, you will find that our girls played two tie games; two important games were won by one point; one was won by two points and one lost by two points, and all of the games were fairly close. Usually when a coach goes through such an experience with the opening games he can relax and enjoy himself during the boys' games - but not Mr. Barkley!

Here's what happened in the boys' division. Take a look at the scores; remember, you don't have tie games in the boys' division. Four games were won by one point, one was lost by one point, two won by two points, and a whole flock of others that were close.

Some of these were tournament games; some had an extra period.

In fact, one of our girls' games had to go into an extra period since it was a tournament game. In some of these games, our boys and girls made marvelous comebacks and came from behind to win. The final game in the Landis tournament when they were seven points behind and had four minutes to go was the most remarkable. In only one game was the reverse true. In the Scotts Tournament, our boys led all the way and then had Celeste Henkel to overtake them and win out in the last few minutes of the game. It has been a good season; we missed our contacts with the South Piedmont Conference teams, but we enjoyed our games with our neighbors and the tournaments that we entered so much that we wonder if we'll ever really want to go back to the strenuous schedule of meeting the South Piedmont opponents all during the season.

In the Midget Tournament, ten teams were entered this year, which required some games being played on Wednesday. There was so much enthusiasm for this tournament that likely next year, there will be twelve teams entered, and then some of you mathematicians sit down and try to figure out how to have these games so that each team will have two chances - double elimination, it is called - where it takes two wins in three games to win a trophy.

The Midgets took pity on Mr. Barkley and either won or lost their games by a comfortable margin, the only exception to this being the first game of our girls with Celeste Henkel which they won by one point, and then on the return game, they lost it by two points.

Well, the season ended with everybody still hungry for basketball. We'll go into next season all pepped up and rarin' to go with the abundance of material that the Midget Tournament seemed to indicate. Three girls will graduate from the Varsity, four boys from the Varsity. By the way, one of those boys, Paul Burney, was named All-Tournament player in the Landis tournament, and Mary Alice Stevens won the goal shooting trophy at the Scotts tournament. We have enough rather tired looking basketballs to start us off next fall after football, so we'll be seeing you!

ping out were Burlington Second, Thomasboro and West Avenue (M).

Looking back over the records it is found that at one time or other since 1928-1929, there were 29 other Sunday Schools giving as much as $100.00 regularly in any single year. If all former members could have achieved this, there would today be 119 $100.00 Club members.

Those 29, exclusive of the three mentioned above as dropping out, are Charlotte Second, Covenant (O), Front Street, Graham, High Point First, Leaksville, Lexington First, Lillington, Little Joe's, Mocksville, Montpelier, Morgan, Newton, Raleigh First, Reids-ville, Reynolda, Saint Andrews (M), Saint Paul (F), Saint Paul (M), Sanford, Shiloh (KM), Spencer, Sugaw Creek, Warrenton, Warsaw and Washington First.

The 90 in the Club for 1943-1944 and the amount contributed (a sum which does not include Thanksgiving Offerings, clothing funds or memorial donations) are arranged in Clubs of different denominations as follows:

1943, there would have been 546 participants. Those places from which gifts did not arrive last fall were Buffalo (G) Chapel, Cape Fear, Danbury, Ebenezer (F), Euphonia, Gilmore Memorial, Hebron (W), Maple Hill, Morton, Naomi, Pee Dee, Pine Hall, Pine Ridge, Poplar Point, Rehobeth, Unionville and West End. There are some churches and missions which did not report offerings in either of the past two Thanksgiving seasons, but these are not being listed.

Every one of the nine Presbyteries showed an increase in its Thanksgiving response, ranging from a high of $3,026.38 by Concord Presbytery to a low gain of $219.20 by Orange. In between were the following Presbytery increases: Mecklenburg, $1,581.85; Granville, $1,090.53; Fayetteville, $938.55; Wilmington, $786.62; Winston-Salem, $558.27; Kings Mountain, $398.07 and Albemarle $225.49.

Hail and Farewell

Along about Commencement time is "goodbye time" when we say more or less tearful goodbye to the Seniors who are leaving us, and we have just gone through that experience, saying goodbye to what was left of a fairly large class.

In the last issue of the Messenger, quite a bit was said about the Miltons' leaving us, and now we want to speak of some others: Miss Beattie Lackey - "Miss Beattie" has served the Orphanage most faithfully for nearly a quarter of a century. For a time she was assistant in the kitchen, then kitchen matron, and then housekeeper at the Infirmary where she built up a reputation of being the most successful flower grower at Barium, in addition to fulfilling a most useful place in providing the food for the Infirmary staff all the time and for a varying number of sick youngsters also.

Mrs. Purdy, who has presided over the dining room so efficiently and faithfully for more years than she likes to have mentioned (we'll say in the neighborhood of seventeen), is leaving us also. There is not a child at Barium who remembers any other dining room matron. The returning boys and girls know just what person to look for to find a place to eat. Mrs. Purdy is giving up her work to take one not quite so strenuous here at Barium. You will still find her when you come back, but someone else will be in charge of the dining room.

Miss Long will leave soon from the kitchen, and how we will miss her! How you boys and girls have smacked your lips over the dishes that Miss Long knew so well how to prepare. She knew so well how to gauge your appetites and to have enough without having too much. Miss Long's father died during the year, and she is leaving us to take up work in Charlotte and to live with her mother over in Lincoln County.

Mrs. Marshall, who has done such a good job as housekeeper and matron in old Alexander and at Jennie Gilmer, is going to leave us soon, also. Mrs. Marshall has also been a pinch hitter in the kitchen, and she can turn out a swell meal anytime she puts her mind to it. Mrs. Marshall is leaving us to move to Charlotte where she will keep house for her two daughters who are now working in Charlotte.

Miss Burgess, a most efficient matron in Howard Cottage, has gone and did not get to carry out some projects that she had started in Howard Cottage. Through her own efforts she secured individual mirrors, and through the cooperation of the carpenter, she was fixing up some special arrangements for each girl in Howard Cottage. You could always depend on Miss Burgess doing a large part of the work herself - "Always Busy Burgess" should be her full name.

Mrs. Thompson from Rumble Hall - Mrs. Thompson was just here a year, but she did a grand job during that year mothering those busy Rumble Hall girls - that's quite a task for anyone! None ever gained the effect of her charges more quickly and more completely than did Mrs. Thompson. Before she had been here, two months, they had forgotten her name and called her "Honey" all the time. We regret to give her up!

Mr. Keever, our most efficient English teacher, who had charge of the library and who had a big hand in all school activities, will not be back this fall. We are going to miss not only Mr. Keever, but Mrs. Keever and those two little blonde daughters. One of them is getting big enough already to know how to take care of herself and incidentally to use her eyes for other things than just looking - they have a decided "Come hither" in them already.

I know you want to know who is going to take the place of all these people who are leaving. We would like to know, too. Up to the present the following replacements are: In Mr. Milton's place is Rev. R. S. Arrowood, for a number of years pastor of the McKinon Presbyterian Church at Concord, and for the last twelve months, President of Mitchell College. He will move to Barium the first of June, and we will welcome him and his family with open arms and hearts.

At Rumble Hall Miss Juanita Hardin and Miss Louise Everett will take over the duties of Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Purdy.

Mrs. Ray Clendenin, Johnny Burgin to most of you, is taking over Howard Cottage. Ray has been called into the service and will soon be reporting to camp. Johnny and little Ray will be permanent residents at Barium with big Ray—a most welcome transient.

Annie Louise Cottage is right now being taken care of by Mrs. Utley, and she is doing a splendid job of it. She took the work on a part time basis, and we are hoping she can be with us for the duration, at least.

Mrs. Ralph Spencer, Bobby Marlowe to you, is taking over Mrs. Marshall's work in Jennie Gilmer. The other vacancies have not as yet been filled. It would be too bad if we could not fill them. We'd just have to stop eating for the duration; that wouldn't do at all. We hope that everything will be in shape before next fall.

We wish all of these departing workers a most affectionate farewell. We'll never get anyone to serve us better or that will have a higher place in our affections. We hope they will get a little bit homesick for Barium just as we know that we'll get homesick for them. They won't be so far from us, but it won't be like having them right here on the job. More of you will miss Mrs. Purdy and Miss Long, because somehow our appetites never take a holiday; they have a big part in our lives three times every day. I know at the meeting of Synod early in September, there will be many people inquiring for these two. They will want to know what has become of Mrs. Marshall also, because there were many who complimented her splendid housekeeping when they used Jennie Gilmer to house the commissioners of Synod. Miss Lackey will be remembered by many, many folks; she is the one who fixed up those meals for you when you were sick, and she is the one who managed somehow to take over Mrs. McNatt's duties when Mrs. McNatt was away. It looks like sometimes that the various bugs that cause illnesses would hide somewhere until Mrs. McNatt left and then kick up a fever in some kid to frighten us all to death.

One time that we remember a youngster ran a very high temperature for no apparent reason. Miss Lackey insisted there was

Freshman and Seniors Presented Two Plays

Tuesday evening, May 2, the children of the orphanage, and also many people from the community, including a number of teachers and students of the Troutman school, enjoyed two one-act plays given by the Freshman and Senior Classes of Barium Springs High School. The Freshman Class presented "Ten Per Cent Tommy" under the direction of their home-room teacher, Miss Reba Thompson. Those taking part in the play were: Bennie Gregory, as Tommy Ballinger, Ida Belle Dunn as Tommy's mother; Mary Ann Ryder, Lee Vinson, and Hannah Price as his sisters; Helen Hawley as the girl friend; Jack Caldwell, Earl Allen, Dwight Spencer, Buddy Lippard, and Horace Denton as Tommy's boy friends; Toni Delancey as the fruit peddler's daughter; and Myrtle Rushing as the maid.

The second of the plays, under the direction of Miss Ruth Troutman, English teacher, was "Buddy Buys an Orchid". In this one-act comedy Buddy Bradley was played by Hervey Stricklin; Mrs. Bradley, his mother, by Lillie Belle Smith; Alida, his sister, by Bette Lou Williamson; Belle, the hired girl (and very black, by the way) by Mabel Vinson; and Bill, an admirer of Alida, by Paul Burney.

All of the members of these two classes who did not have parts in the plays were on various committees that helped to make the evening a very enjoyable one.

May Festival Beautiful

When May comes around again, we hope that the teachers and others who helped to make this festival such a beautiful and enjoyable occasion, will have recovered from the blisters they received practicing under the broiling sun, and will be ready to give a repeat performance.

Following the May Festival by the Grammar Grades in the afternoon, the primary grades gave an operetta in the auditorium at eight o'clock in the evening. The principal parts were played by Hazel Creech, Geraldine Katen, Pattie Inman, Billy Black, Jimmie Harrison, Franklin Smith, and Linda Inman. All of the primary children took part.

something wrong with that youngster that ought to be attended to. We took him to the hospital in the wee, small hours of the morning; he was on the verge of pneumonia; had we delayed just a few hours, he might have been desperately ill.

There will be a number of children returned to their homes this summer. Arrangements have already been made for the following children to go home: the four little Browns who have been here just long enough for everybody to fall in love with them - Vallie, Clara, Pauline, and Andy. They came here when their mother was quite ill, their father was helpless to look after them; now their mother is well, and they, together with their still younger brother, are all united again at home. Clayton and Peyton Miller from up in Ashe County - their father has remarried, reestablished his home and needs those little youngsters to live up the house. We don't blame him for wanting these two attractive boys at home again. Wilbur and Evelyn Coats - their mother remarried several years ago, she is living in Baltimore and finally has a home large enough to take care of these fast growing, attractive young people. Charles Smith from Lumberton - he will be eighteen years old in August. He has decided that there is not much point in staying because Uncle Sam will tap him on the shoulder before he really gets started in his final year of school. He wants to visit relatives and friends and then join up even before his 18th birthday.

Our paper this month is pretty well loaded with pictures of the graduating class and the news about those leaving. Our next issues will have something to say about the newcomers.

PERSONALS

The Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel of April 23rd contained pictures of the Beshears boys and a writeup of them. This writeup said that another message had been received from J. D., it read as follows: "Dear Brother: Again I have the opportunity and pleasure of writing you. This message leaves me in good health and hope it finds you the same. I hope and pray it won't be long until we are together again. Our living quarters are as good as could be expected in the conditions and circumstances. Hope to hear from you soon. Your brother, James."

Dalma Jessup who has been missing in action over Germany since February 25th, has just been reported a German prisoner, and we are all much relieved.

A letter came from Robert Blue of Burlington that his brother, Miller had been wounded in action and that he has been awarded the Purple Heart.

"For meritorious service while serving as a member of a Marine battalion in action against enemy Japanese forces on Namur Island, Kwajalein atoll, Feb. 1, 1944. Faced with extremely heavy enemy small arms fire, he led his men forward to an advantageous position and there skillfully organized a defense which secured the right flank of his battalion. His heroic and courageous conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service," said Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commanding none other than Marine Sgt. Miller Blue!

Two Recitals Given By Music Department

The 1944 commencement season at Barium Springs began the last week in April with two recitals by the music department. The first of these was given by the piano pupils of the elementary grades Tuesday afternoon, April 25th. The program began with the Star Spangled Banner as arranged by R. M. Stults, played by Mabel Milton and Shirley Inman at two pianos. Others taking part on the program were Hazel Creech, Shirley Thomas, Peggy Neel, Louise Campbell, Lucile Stinson, Ann Wicker, Jackie Porterfield, Patty Inman, Elsie Vest and Mary Morgan.

Thursday evening, April 27th, the second of these recitals was given by the high school piano pupils of Miss Greene, assisted by the glee club, and Miss Carolyn Vidal, violinist. The following high school pupils took part in this recital: Lillie Belle Smith, Myrtle Rushing, Billy Everett, Helen Hawley, Charles Smith, Dixie Lee Buie, Dewie Belle Buie, Bette Lou Williamson, Hannah Price, and Martha Price.

These recitals gave evidence that much has been accomplished this year in both piano and vocal music. Miss Greene, piano teacher, and Misses Vidal and Cherry, musical members of the regular faculty, are to be congratulated for their excellent work.

pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albemarle. He based his message on the story of David and Goliath as found in I Samuel 17: 44-50. He began his message by saying that David was not the only one who faced giants in life. "You Seniors have giants to fight. Whether you slay them or they slay you depends on how you are trained and equipped."

The choir for the service was made up of the High School Glee Club and Junior Choir. The Glee Club sang the anthem "The Heavens are Declaring" - Beethoven.

The sermon to the young people Sunday night was preached by Rev. W. B. Heyward, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, and Chairman of Presbytery's Committee on Young People's Work. He used as his text, Matt. 6:33, "Seek Ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness."

Two anthems, "Great is thy Lover" by Carl Bohn, and "Send Out Thy Light" by Gounod, were sung by the Junior Choir. All the Seniors took part in the Class Day Program at eleven o'clock Monday Morning, May 15. An original skit, prepared by the Seniors with the help of Mr. Keever, their home-room teacher showing the members of the class in a situation in which they might find themselves at some future time, was very cleverly used as a background for the class history prophesy, will, and class gifts. Among the gifts was a check presented to Mr. Johnston to be used in some way in memory of the class, if and when a new gymnasium is built at Barium.

Life at Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

A few months ago the young people in one of our churches became much interested in the life here at Barium. Certain of the young people, through their Pastor, wrote suggesting some very interesting topics which they wished discussed in letters. They requested that the letters which dealt with a topic be sent to the person who suggested that topic. And in suggesting a topic they added what they wished to be covered in the discussion of it. For instance: The first topic suggested is "The Children." The writer wishes to know the number of the children, the age limits, and about the life in the cottages. The next topic is "The food." That topic comes from a boy. He wants to know "How much it takes to feed, how it is done, how cooked, how served, etc.

We are publishing these letters as we feel that there are many other young people and older ones too who will be interested in the discussion of these subjects.

The writer of the two papers which we publish this month, graduated from the Home this past spring and have left us. We are glad that we can share with you the description of the Home as seen through the eyes of young people who lived and were brought up in the Home.

CHILDREN OF THE HOME

I am glad to know that you are interested in knowing about the children of the home, and I shall try to give you the best information in answer to your questions that is obtainable.

I shall take each cottage separately, starting with the cottage where the younger ones stay and finishing with the cottage where the older ones stay.

There are twelve cottages on the campus. By observing the life in one cottage you will have a picture of the life in all of the cottages, except for minor exceptions which I will call to your attention as I mention the cottage.

The three cottages where the younger children live have the same life records. The Baby cottage has the boys and girls of ages from two to six. There are at present nine baby girls and twelve baby boys.

The boys of the Synod's Cottage are the next to the babies. There are twenty five boys in this cottage, and they are from six to ten years of age.

The Annie Louise Cottage keeps the girls who are from six to eight. There are twenty five girls living at this cottage now. As I said before, the above three cottages mentioned have the same kind of work, but I haven't told you what their life at the cottage is. Those who live at these three cottages have little or nothing to do except to keep their teeth brushed, hair combed, and their faces clean; this ends their part of the work.

In Lee's Cottage there are now thirty boys whose ages are from ten to thirteen. The majority of these boys work on the truck farm. The other help keep the cottage clean.

Over at the Howard Cottage we have the girls whose ages range from eight to twelve. There are twenty eight of them, and their task is to string all the beans and shell all the peas that are eaten at the home. In later life if these girls can't do anything else, they can certainly string beans and shell peas!

Rumple Hall, being situated in the middle of the campus, happens to be a main building, for it is here that the kitchen, dining room, place to do the dish washing, and home of the girls who are from eleven to thirteen years of age are; also the teachers live up on third floor in this building during

REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Meet the new treasurer, Rev. R. S. Arrowood - a thoroughly North Carolina product, born in Iredell County, Elmwood, back in the lush '90's when so many good things happened. He has lived in North Carolina ever since except for a brief pastorate in Virginia, and for a year as chaplain in the services during the first World War, a graduate of Davidson, the Class of '13, was assistant pastor in Salisbury and held pastorates in Glenwood near Greensboro and in Concord. He was President of Mitchell College for one year. At present he is Stated Clerk of Concord Presbytery and is already well known to many of you. His family, besides

Mr. Arrowood, consists of Mrs. Arrowood; his daughter, Katherine who is now ready for college; another daughter, "Dickey", who is just entering high school, and a son, Bobby, the "boss of the ranch", who is about ready to enter the kindergarten, and Mrs. Arrowood's mother, Mrs. Murray.

We at Barium are delighted to have this splendid family living in our midst right in the center of things. Their home is the Boyd cottage, between the office and the Lottie Walker building.

Mr. Arrowood is supplying for Mr. Cook during the month of June.

Invasion News — "That Sunday Punch"

The time is 9 A. M. Sunday, June 18th, listening to the news of the world, all dressed up and ready to go to Sunday School, but just waiting to get the last war news before leaving the radio. We had been thrilled all week with the doings in Italy where a whole lot of Barium boys are in it up to their necks, with the news in the Pacific where our boys are cutting up didos in the islands that are getting nearer and nearer to Japan, and also that bombing of Japan.

We had been wondering, though, where that old Ninth Division was. We had listened to the invasion news from England and read about the exploits of this division and that division, but nothing about the Ninth Division, and we knew that that was one of Eisenhower's finest.

We couldn't help but think that all the invasion so far was that Eisenhower's just leading with his left, that he had his right hand cocked for a real knockout blow, a "Sunday punch", if you please. If any of you folks don't know what a Sunday punch is, ask some of these Jack Dempsey admirers.

Well, as we sat listening to the news over the radio, here is what it said: "General Bradley's army, spearheaded by the Ninth Infantry Division, has broken clear across the Cherbourg Peninsula to the sea a daring advance made during the night", and when the news came in, this division had already repulsed a determined German counterattack with two divisions. Atta boy!

That is the division that was trained here at Fort Bragg and so liberally sprinkled with Barium Springs' boys that it just had to be good. They did monumental fighting in the landings on the west coast of Africa, they distinguished themselves in Tunisia and climaxed their campaign there by taking Bizerte; then they put on a demonstration in Sicily just to prove to Hitler that the best he had wasn't good enough to stop the old Ninth Division.

You don't have to wait til Sunday to deliver a "Sunday punch", but the news coming in on Sunday morning was just too much to be a coincidence. They had finally landed their Sunday punch, and part of the German army had ceased to be useful on account of it. Every newspaper account that you read has the name of some local boy in it, so many from Davidson College that they will have the whole area turned Presbyterian if they stay there long. Frank Niven was in this morning's bulletin; John Bolin is another.

It seems that this particular section of North Carolina is having one of the most severe hot spells in its history. The thermometer says that Sunday, the 18th of June, was one of the hottest days ever recorded. We wouldn't know; as long as the radio was bringing in news from any direction, it might have been snowing or cycloning for all we knew about the weather.

If any of you folks who read this article get uneasy for fear the war is not going right, just keep your ears cocked for the old Ninth Division. When it is operation, it is going to arrive at its destination. You know, that is the Division that the Berlin broadcaster referred to after three attempts of the Hermann Goering Division to stop it; he said the reason the Germans could not defeat the Ninth Division was because the Ninth was made up of gangsters from New York and Chicago and they didn't care if they killed themselves. Well, they made a mistake about what it is composed of but they didn't make a mistake about its being unbeatable.

Now you tell one!

Vacation News

You know, in 1943 we didn't have any vacations, and it was such a disappointment to so many people that we decided this year to try to put them back in force, and we have gone ahead with that. Now we are just about half way through vacations, and our youngsters have been scattered all over the country. I know many of you people living throughout the state have seen a little stranger sitting in church or walking out on the street and have wondered from what place that nice looking child came. Well, it might have been one of ours. One of the very first to go were three children who did most of their visiting around Pinehurst - Anne Wicker, Carolyn Wicker, and Mack Wicker; Caro-

Young People Meet At Camp Fellowship

The Pioneer Camp for youngsters, (12-14) of Camp Fellowship was held at Camp Fellowship during the week of June 12-17. There were seventy registered for the Camp. The following is a partial sketch of a pioneer's day at Camp.

In the early morning before breakfast, we had the morning Watch or Worship. This was led by Miss Hattie McLean of Lenior, N. C. These morning worship programs were most inspirational and gave a good start to the day. After breakfast, the pioneers went to their quests. The very able teachers were Miss Louise Maxwell of Davidson, N. C., and Miss Martha McLeod of Aberdeen, N. C.

MR. AND MRS. S. A. GRIER

Hey you - do you know who this is? Well, of the nearly 2200 boys and girls who were reared at Barium Springs, at least 1600 will say, "Yes", most emphatically. This is Mr. and Mrs. Sam Andy Grier, who has been at Barium Springs since December 1, 1916.

If we tried to enumerate all the good things associated with his couple, we would need this whole front page of the MESSENGER. We are just going to mention a few.

Mr. Grier has been the Sunday School Superintendent for nearly all of the years he has been here, a member of the Session, and he has been an indispensable member of our religious life. All the rest of the time, Mr. Grier is the trouble shooter; if anything is wrong anywhere, send for Mr. Grier. If the electric light goes out, if the iron won't heat, if the water line is stopped up, if the buildings are cold, send for Mr. Grier, and he will fix it as he has been fixing it all these years. Some of us get a headache just thinking about the number of headaches Mr. Grier fixes, and yet it seems to leave him unruffled, in a good humor, and with a most wholesome outlook on life. We wonder why - that must be where Mrs. Grier comes into the picture. You couldn't know Mrs. Grier and think about her for any length of time without getting in a good humor; she is that kind of person. Every boy who ever worked on Mr. Grier's group remember Mrs. Grier above all others, and my, my - such an impressive number they were.

One of the reason may be that Mrs. Grier can make the best candy of anybody on the place, but she hasn't been able to make much of it since sugar has been rationed, and the boys go on thinking just as much of her now as they did when joy was unconfined, meaning when the sugar was unrationed.

The Senior Class of '44 has dedicated their annual to Mr. and Mrs. Grier. You might think that they would have picked out one of the heroes of this World War for that honor, another striking evidence of the high esteem in which this most worthy couple is held, that they were chosen. Mr. Grier is a veteran of that dim and distant Spanish-American War, and he still has a tale to tell of those days.

There is another thing about Mr. Grier - sometimes on rainy days his bones will creak a little bit, and he gets the notion that he is getting up in years, and he begins to add up his birthdays, but whenever that old State College football team is on the rampage and is playing somebody, he forgets all about those birthdays and gets just as interested as if he was still on the team.

Mr. Grier is one of the most loyal supporters of our athletic teams; in fact, he is a loyal supporter of everything that is good about Barium. He and Mrs. Grier are two people who make Barium the lovely place that it is, and they make the boys and girls look backward with longing when they leave. May they never grow old!

THE NEED OF A MARGIN

Eight years ago most of the agencies of our Church were struggling under a heavy load of debt. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had been borrowed from banks and the interest paid during that period of depression, if totaled, for the debts of our Assembly agencies, our Synodical and Presbyterian Home Mission work, and our Schools and Colleges, would run into really colossal figures.

At that time the word often went to the various organizations, "You are to incur no more debt. Your spending must be limited to receipts." Stringent methods were called for and they were carried out.

The problem was not solved in this way, however. A preacher or a school teacher or institutional worker who does not get his check at the end of the month will either have to go hungry, into debt, or to the bank and borrow. So when the church refused to incur debt, that debt was at times transferred to the backs of those least able to bear it. The credit of our most faithful was strained, they were forced to buy on long term credit, and to pay interest and carrying charges.

At the end of the church year they were paid up, so they could go out and straighten up obligations and draw a sigh of relief. All too soon the summer slump was on again receipts dropped off and debts must be made again.

Then we realized that we needed a margin, a margin big enough at the beginning of the year to carry over through the slack times of the summer season. Eighty per cent of the income of Presbyterian Orphan's Home is received in the last four months of the church year, December-April. But children must be fed and clothed and cared for the year around, every day. Workers must have their pay every month. If we are to avoid interest payments, that is using the benevolence of our people to finance loans, we must maintain a margin sufficient to carry through the summer months.

All that has been said with reference to the short summer slump is doubly true with reference to longer terms of business depressions. We are so happy now that money is coming in not only to Presbyterian Orphan's Home, but to the other great and noble causes of the church. We can maintain a pay as we go basis. For over a year now we have run on a cash basis here. We can do some needed repair work and add something of much needed equipment. Much credit is due the Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries whose care now flourishes twelve months in the year.

It is important that we do all we can in these days to create a margin of safety that, if and when another period of depression shall befall us, we may not find it necessary to again begin to do business on the "insolvent plan". One thing we can do these days is to redouble our efforts to economize and wisely use each dollar that is given. It is not easy to be saving now. Everything costs more. Money is being freely spent all around. Still we must make every effort to husband our resources and be good stewards of the money given to our institution. Another thing we can do is to maintain the level of giving. The church at large must not get the idea that this institution is being flooded with money and has more than it can use, such is not the case.

If our vigilance were relaxed and our money was not wisely ex-

ADVENTURES AND REFLECTIONS OF A WAYFARING MAN

In order to make this article readable, we will just have to break down and write it in the first person singular and not use the editorial "we".

It started out by an invitation made to me by the Superintendent of the Colored Orphanage of North Carolina. He had made me an invitation sometime before to come up and see him sometime, but this time it was definite and the date set was Sunday, June 11th. I accepted the invitation, and then things really began to happen. This Superintendent, in order to see that I was properly entertained, spoke to Mr. Proctor, Superintendent of the Oxford Masonic Orphanage and to the pulpit committee of the First Presbyterian Church at Oxford, and here came invitations showering on me to be entertained by Mr. Proctor and to fill the pulpit at the First Church Sunday morning. Then two of our very small children received an invitation to spend a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claudius Dockerys at Guilford College. The Dockerys run a most delightful camp for a flock of young children there at their home during the summer, and two of our children were invited, so on Saturday morning we started out. The two children, after a hasty and early dinner, and me, with a very much disturbed mind and empty stomach.

The day was hot, and we were traveling right in the middle of it. We discussed every subject under the sun, and I was much enlightened by my youngest passenger, Elizabeth Huddleston, and her views on life in general.

As we approached Winston-Salem, we became acutely aware of the ice cream plant that adorned the country side just before you get into Winston. We stopped for refreshments without even taking a vote on it, and we were served most bountiful helpings of ice cream - unbelievable helpings - so much so, that while Richard Huddleston managed his saucerful, Elizabeth couldn't possibly hold all of hers, so I had to help her in addition to mine. When I started to pay for this, I was told, "Oh no, you are the guests of the house". We had been recognized as coming from Barium Springs, and we had been packed full of ice cream as a courtesy.

Well, we started out again on our trip, all of us very much uplifted. The world looked better. We didn't care if the sun was hot. It wasn't long before we reached the Dockerys and unloaded. Everything was lovely except one small item - there were three big bird dogs at the Dockerys. They took one look at Richard and decided that he was just an ordinary boy, but they looked at Elizabeth and knew she was an extraordinary girl; she looked so cute that I know they thought she must be good to eat, and to prove it, they licked her face to see if she tasted as good as she looked. This was somewhat an embarrassment to Elizabeth, and it took her sometime to really find out whether or not the dogs were going any further with their manifestation than just the face licking.

After a brief visit with the Dockerys, I traveled on. The car was empty for about 100 yards, and then from there on, it was a soldier and sailor transport. I stopped at Durham for a short visit with the Pittman family, and there was more ice cream and most pleasant associations. Mrs. House, the mother of the big Pittman family who were reared at Barium, looked as young as some of her children, and that isn't saying anything against her children. She has just one evidence of advancing age, according to her daughter Margaret, and that is, she has great difficulty in remembering how old her older children are. Margaret was mean enough to say that her mother was doing it on purpose. Well, there is this much to say about it; very few people would believe it if she really told the true age of her oldest if they were seeing the mother.

On to Oxford where I arrived about 7 o'clock - I found both boys and girls most industriously drilling and doing a mighty good job of it. The whole Saturday afternoon was put in at this. They were not producing sweat, blood, and tears, but sweet and enthusiasms in abundance.

I was entertained so beautifully at Oxford that I hesitate to attempt to describe it. The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Proctor have been for a number of years at the head of the Oxford Orphanage makes them both mighty understanding people. They know when a person gets tired, they know when he wants to be alone, and they just do the kind and considerate thing on every occasion. Mr. Proctor even went farther than that; he agreed to conduct the service at the Presbyterian Church, so that all I had to do was to make the speech, and he did that so beautiful that the people listened to me as though I were someone of a special kind. It was mainly because Mr. Proctor so beautifully paved the way and started me off so well.

In the congregation were Mrs. Holton and her daughter, Emily, and her son who is now as large as his mother. Then there was a little old lady who came up to speak to me after the service and wanted me just to sit down and tell her about one of the families from Oxford; this little woman was Mrs. Lucy Fort, the grandmother of the Fort family. I didn't have time to really talk to her; there were too many interruptions, so the next day I just sat down and wrote her all about the family.

After a most bountiful and beautiful dinner at the Masonic orphanage, I went out to the colored orphanage. About 150 young people are cared for there at that colored institution; they have a good school building. They were quite thrilled over having completed a new dairy barn, but there were many things they wanted that they didn't have, but they were enthusiastic and appeared headed for better times. The superintendent is doing something that has never been thoroughly tried out in North Carolina, and I doubt if it had been tried out in any Southern state, and that is, to look to the colored people themselves for the support of their institution. If you go into the chapel or the office, you will find pictures of prominent and rich white people. Mr. Duke, for instance, gave them the school building; others have donated and helped support the institution. Unfortunately when these men died, others have donated and helped there would be no one else to take up where they left off, so the support of this institution has been more or less uncertain.

Now in an ever increasing measure, Mr. Hamme has been successful in interesting his own race in supporting it, and I believe I can already see an improvement in the morale and in the general atmosphere of this worthy institution. I wish it were possible to reach the ear of every colored man and woman in the state and tell them what an opportunity they have for doing a worth while job for the benefit of their race right here in this splendid institution so ably administrated at this time.

The afternoon passed away all too soon, and I found myself on the way home. I started out with a passenger, a nice, tall red-headed school teacher who wanted to go back home in Salisbury. We also had a lunch - fried chicken, cookies, and all the trimmings. I knew just as soon as I left Oxford that this car would be loaded up with soldiers and sailors all the way home, even more so than on the trip up, because now the soldiers would not only have a ride, they would have somebody to talk to. The first group of soldiers that we passed, however, were so struct with the wonderfully opportunity that they were attacked by something like "buck ague"; it's a thing that keeps a hunter from pulling the trigger when a beautiful deer is standing right in front of him. These soldiers, when I stopped to pick them up, just stood and stared and delayed so long in making a move toward the car that we had to go off and leave them, but that was only the first crowd. We had sailors, Marines, air men, students - we even picked up a soldier, his wife, and a little puppy. The little puppy was lost, and the soldier's wife had picked him up, and we picked them up, and everybody in the car took such an interest in that puppy that you would have thought his being properly fed was more important than waging the war. Our hitchhikers entertained us, ate up our lunch, and helped us change a tire that went flat at a most inconvenient spot.

We landed back home about ten o'clock Sunday night. I was really tired, but I had to stop and just sum up the whole trip.

People have said that the war is making us hard, that we are so intent on destruction that we don't have room in our minds for kindnesses or looking after the weak. In answer to that, there kept flashing into my mind these pictures - these two little youngsters from here being given a bountiful treat of ice cream to make their day happier, that fine couple at Guilford College turning their home into a camp for the summer for the pleasure of little youngsters who still require so much attention that the days may not be a complete picnic for the people who give their home; the busy Superintendent of an orphanage giving us his small leisure time, Saturday afternoon and Sunday, to make a visiting brother more comfortable and more at home, the picture of a colored man who has given up a rather satisfactory job as a farm demonstrator to become the head of an institution that lacks so many things that one might think that all he would get out of it would be headaches, determined, however, to make of it a thing of pride and of enlarged service to his race.

The picture of some soldiers doubling up in a car so that a man, his wife, and a puppy would have room to get in, too. These soldiers were all dressed up and waiting to go out among the girls and on a hot afternoon, sitting in each other's lap wasn't something to really be cheerful about. The picture of two young Naval officers, spic and span in their white uniforms, changing a tire in spite of my insistence that they not risk soiling their clothes, and the apology that one made when he had to hurry away to a class and was not able to stay and finish the job. I didn't pick the soldiers who rode with me; they were privates, officers, Northerners, Southerners, Westerners or what have you - they were all likeable boys, extremely appreciative of the small courtesies accorded them.

Well, to sum it all up - the old United States has been at war for nearly three years now; it was getting ready for war a good while before that. If war hasn't done any better job driving out kindness and courtesy from the hearts of people than this trip gave evidence of, there isn't much use to worry about what might happen in the future - a pretty good old country, nice folks no matter what their color, their age, occupations, or where they came from.

When I came back and told the Ration Board about the trouble with the tire, they didn't raise the roof but gave me a new tire, so I couldn't have been dreming all that I have written here; maybe you don't have to go to Europe for high adventure after all!

BABY COTTAGE

Hi Folks! Yes you guess right this is us. We told you we would be back this month.

We went in swimming this morning and did we have a big time. Miss Neel and Myrtle took us in their arms, wet us and got us used to the water. Little Donnie said, "I won't to dive" and little Charles said "I wanta get wet." Shirley ducked her head ten times in the water.

Marie, Johnnie, Anne, and Linda have gone on their vacations but they are back playing with us a gain now.

Lilly has gone on her vacation too and is going to stay a whole month. We didn't think that we could get along with out her until Mrs. Massey came back Saturday and now everything is just fine.

Nina Berryhill our big girl has moved to Women's Building for her Senior year at Barium. Now she doesn't carry the wash rag but Dorothy Plumber from Charlotte does. (Wonder if we'll ever have a big girl that won't wash our faces?)

Friday we went blackberry picking and got enough berries to have a pie. Miss Long sure made two nice pies for us babies on Saturday.

Yesterday afternoon Clyde said to Myrtle, "I like blackberries and think they are good for babies". (He was getting ready to eat green berries.)

It has been hot these days and we spend most of our time down in the cool playwoods.

Dorothy asked little Donnie if he were a mess and his answer was, "Yes, and my daddy's too."

Well so long folks we will see you again next month.

JENNIE GILMER

Hello Everyone, It has been quite some time since you heard from us but we will let you hear more often from now on.

We are having a grand time going swimming since it has been so hot. We've had fourteen boys to come over from Lee's Cottage and some of them can already dive off the top board. We had fourteen boys to go to the 'quads' where the larger boys stay.

Mrs. Marshall, who worked with us for a long time has gone to Charlotte to live. We all miss her very much, but hope she will be happy with her daughters. Mrs. Spencer, is working in her place at the present.

Many of our boys have gone and are going on vacations. They reported having very good times. Those that don't get vacations will get two weeks at our Camp on the river. Nearly all of our boys belong to the Scouts and expect to get uniforms soon. We hiked to the camp at the river the other week and had a picnic after we arrived.

We certainly did enjoy that and want to thank Mr. Cook, our Pastor and Scout Master.

We have some more good news too. A circle in Mooresville has adopted our Cottage for the year and they have already given us lots of books to read (Comics) and cookies to eat. We appreciated them so much and want to thank them.

We must stop now but we'll have more news next time.

-Jennie Gilmer Boys

HOWARD COTTAGE

Dear Friends, Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news.

We have not had so many beans this year but we will have more later on.

The following girls have had visits: Louise Campbell, Jackie Porterfield, Essie Jean Lee, Kathleen and Edna Ellis.

Some of the girls have been on vacations and come back. We are sure they all had a nice time.

We will soon be going to camp and we will all be glad.

The Annie Louise Cottage is being repaired and the Annie Louise girls are staying with us. We are very glad to have them stay with us and their new matron Miss Blakeney.

We will close for this time. So, Good-bye.

Dallas Ammons. Several of our boys have gone on their vacation. They are Bennie Gregory, Charles Barrett, Dwight Spencer and your reporter.
There isn't much news this month, it's too hot to write much. Earl Allen, our artist, is drawing pin-up girls and Charles Barrett is posing for him. That's the way it goes.
Donald Mitchell one of our boys is looking over my shoulder and evidently doesn't agree with me. So long until next month.

PRINTING OFFICE

The printing office is composed of four boys and Mr. Kyles, the boss. The boys are Earl Allen, Johnny Meroney, James Reid and Donald Mitchell.
We have been pretty busy since school has been out. A few thousand and letter-heads, checks, annual and now The Messenger. We are always glad to see the Messenger on its way.
Ray Lewis one of our boys who graduated this year is helping us with the annual and it will soon be out for everyone to see.
Johnny Meroney has been on his vacation to Mocksville and Earl Allen is going to Lexington the later part of this month.
We have been going in swimming after work most every day. It sure feels good to hit the nice cool water these hot days.
Donald Mitchell is walking around here grinning like a wolf. I think he's got a girl.
Well, I will say good-by until next month when we will again let you in on the latest news of the printing office.

SYNODS COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Since the last time you heard from us, we have made a change in our big happy family. We sent 14 little boys to Lee's Cottage and we certainly do miss them, but to satisfy our grief the Baby Cottage sent us nine little boys. They are: Ronnie Hudgins, Hoyce Dean Smith, Idell Andrews, Bobby Fry, Jimmy Campbell, Charles Creech, Jerris Ellis, Donald Dean and Richard Vest. We have a time settling their arguments because they are so small. We also have a hard time keeping them clean.
Some of our little boys have gone on their vacations. They are: Gene Thomas, Jimmy Freeman, Charles Creech, David Thomas, and Ronnie Hudgins and we certainly do miss them.
We are having a real good time going in swimming and we are preparing ourselves for camp so we won't spend most of our time suffering from sunburns.
All of our little boys will be back when we write you next time and they will want to tell you a lot of the good times they had. So we'll sign off for this time.
—The Wigglers

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,
Here we are again after waiting a long time. All the girls and Mrs. McNatt have gone on their vacation except Mary Belle Reid and she will go in July.
We have a little boy here with us now and he is a good baby although he gets mad once in a while.
Clyde Reid works at the Infirmary and seems to like it.
Miss Duke was our matron while Mrs. McNatt was away and we enjoyed having her.
Mrs. McNatt sent us some funny books while she was gone and we enjoyed reading them.
We enjoyed having Mrs. Jackens with us. Sorry that she could not stay.
We are glad to tell you that we are having very few patients at the present.
Good-by until next time.
—Infirmary Girl

Life At Barium

the school term. The girls in this cottage have a heavier burden because they are now big enough to take charge of one. They wait on tables, clean up the dining room, wash dishes, and see that everything is in perfect order for the next meal. They do this three times each day, and then when the different banquets are held, they are always entitled to more work. In all we have three big occasions which call for more work on their part: the Kiwanis supper, and the football and basketball banquets. But even with all this to do, they like it and feel it is just their minor part in keeping the home a cheerful place in which to live. These girls will certainly make good housewives for some males in the future.

The boys of the Jennie Gilmer Cottage do the dairy work. They see to not only the feeding and milking of the cows, but they also see that it is done through clear processes. They also see that the milk is brought to the kitchen where it is served or poured into the pitchers before each meal. You would probably think that these must be large boys, but there are thirty of them in this cottage and their ages range from eleven to thirteen. These boys are learning the requirements of grown men before their time, so I suppose they will have to find some other traits of men when they get older.

Now we will push over to where the girls who see that the boys and girl's cloths are kept clean and the meal are prepared promptly all the time. I just about forgot to mention this, but I shall also tell you where most of the cloths are made and who is behind the machines. The juniors, the sophomores, and freshmen have the task of seeing that the clothes are washed, starched, and ironed. Although we have electric washers, a mangle, a wringer, and a drier you can rest assured that we do not have electric ironers! But we do have electric irons. To do this work the girls are divided into different groups. For instance, one group of girls works in the kitchen one month and then the next month an easy piece of work is given to them. They take this as their regular duty as the others, and then the next month they start over again on their various tasks.

I count the Quadrangles as separate dwellings. Three of these cottages were constructed by various people; they thus carry the name of the cottage in their memory: the Stultz, Wallace, and Cannon are the three which were named in memory of people. The Johnston building was named for Mr. and Mrs. Johnston; Mr. Johnston is the Superintendent of the Home, and we feel that this credit was just a fraction of what he deserves. These cottages are homes for forty high school boys, and their ages range from twelve to eighteen. These boys work on the orchard group, carpenter group, electrician group, and the farm group; also a few work in the printing shop. Now these boys date girls from the Woman's Building and we leave them now on their way to a date.

Respectfully yours,
Mable Vinson

THE FOOD

In reply to the letter received by Mr. Johnston asking for information about the various types of work and activities at Barium, I am going to give you a few facts concerning the food situation.

The food is cooked in large pots, two of which hold fifty gallons and one which holds twenty-five gallons. We have a big oven in which we fry and bake to different foods.

- Cereal - 75 boxes.
- Oatmeal - 4 boxes - each weighing three pounds.
- Eggs - 500 (scrambled).
- Butter - 6 pounds.
- Bread - 75 loaves.
- Green Beans - 16 gallons.
- Dried Beans - 8 gallons.
- Tomatoes - 2 bushels.
- Hams - 6 large.
- Chickens - 60 (fried).
- Apples - 4 bushels.
- Sugar - 25 pounds for cereal.

The food is cooked in the kitchen and served in large bowls, which are placed on the table by the waitresses. When a table asks for a second helping or a third helping, the waitress goes to the kitchen and gets more for them. There are usually between forty-three and forty-seven tables. Each table has eight places to be filled, and a matron or teacher sits at the head of each table. Usually we stay in the dining-room a half hour. After every one eats and leaves, the waitresses then eat, clean the tables and wash the dishes.

Although I'm not the dietitian, or even an assistant, I hope I have given you the main facts which will help you to know more about the food situation at Barium.

Respectfully yours,
Jeanne Fletcher

Box: Are you going to study singing as you intended?
Cox: No, I gave up the idea when the teacher convinced me it would take me three years of hard work to enable me to sing as well as I thought I sang already.

lyn and Mack are twins and all three are red headed, and that kind of red head that just distinguishes a person and makes you look twice. Yes, freckles go with them when they are little, but you know what people have found out about freckles - the more freckles a little girl has, the more beautiful she is when she grows up, and these people are growing up.

Then there were Jennie Lee and Ann Phillips, who had a brief visit with their father in Laurinburg. Their father is a soldier and this visit coincided with his time at home on his furlough.

Jackie Porterfield, who hasn't had many vacations in her sweet, young life, started out visiting her aunt in Greensboro. She got to travel around a great deal and had a little while in Atlanta.

Then there was a whole family of Walkers - Hazel, Ed, Kenneth, Nancy, and Letha - who descended on Burlington at one time. They went away in good humor and came back in good humor; maybe it is because they found so many Walkers' wherever they went - gas shortage, you know. (Not such a hot pun after all.)

Hannah Price, another red head and the only one of the Price family still on the roll, visited her two sisters and mother in Charlotte.

Hazel Creech, Cecil Creech, Charles Creech, the three small Creeches from Wilmington were back there for two weeks, and to hear them tell it, they saw all of Wilmington while they were there.

Billy Black visited his mother in Kannapolis.

On May 24th so many went away, it made our dining room look like something had happened to us. We began to eat in just one end of the dining room to keep from feeling lonesome.

The three Coffey girls went to Guilford College, Jean Turlington to Clinton, Dorothy and Frances Maples to Pinehurst, Lucille Smith and her two brothers to Glen Alpine, Essie Lee to Morganton, the five Dunns to Clinton, S. C., the two McNeills to Broadway, the Innans to Lumberton, the Popes to Charlotte and Elizabethtown. Then there was a lull for a few days, and on the 31st, things picked up again.

Pearl, Helen, and Bobby Morgan went to Concord, Jimmy Freeman to Candor, Earl and Frances Adams to Durham, the Whitfield twins to Keenansville, the Halls to Roxboro, Charles Barrett to Asheville, Amos Hardy to Henderson, Elizabeth and Lucy Johnson to Tarboro, Johnny Meroney and the two Ammons boys to Mocksville, the three Barnes to Stony Point, Earl and Bobby Johnson to Laurinburg, Bessie and Betty Jean Page to Raleigh, Anne Starr Langley to Akron, Ohio, believe it or not, the two Scotts to Winston-Salem, Edna, Jean, and Aileen Thomas to Charlotte, Nina Berryhill to Knoxville, Tenn., Dwight Spencer to Davidson, the Bradshaws to Mooresville, the Isenhours to Winston-Salem.

On June 7th, Robert, Charles, and Shirley Hall went to Ivanhoe, the Clark boys to Lenoir, the Barbers to Laurel Hill, the Burneys to Clarkton, the Baldwins to Whiteville, Vivian Jacumin to Valdese, the Vinsons to Durham, Jean Steppe to Raleigh, Virginia Pressnell to Lenoir, the Holts and the Traywicks to Belmont, the Landrums and the four Hudgins to Charlotte, and the four Katens to Lexington. Jack Jones to Kinston, the three Manus children and Toni Delancey to Charlotte.

This week the Pioneer Camp of Concord Presbytery meets at Camp Fellowship, and four of our young people are there; they are Charles Campbell, Earl Huddleston, Bessie Dishman, and Mary Morgan. Then two of our rather small ones are at the home of Mrs. Dockery at Guilford College for a week. The Dockerys just made a camp out of their wonderful home there near the college. There are ponies to ride, wadings pools, and more interesting things than you can imagine. Well, Richard and Elizabeth Huddleston went over there last Saturday, and they will spend a week there; then they will spend the following month telling us what a good time they had.

All in all, vacations are in the air. Usually some children come back from vacations weeping. There has been a minimum of that this year, and that makes us all feel good.

Young People Meet

there were various committee meetings. It was during this time that the camp newspaper, "Camp Review", was written. The editor of the "Camp Review" was Miss Phyllis Summers of Statesville N. C. Her very efficient staff was composed of volunteers from the campers.

The afternoon was full of recreation and swimming. On the waterfront were Miss Ann Keeter of Morganton and Mr. Harry Barkley of Barium Springs. The recreation, consisting of games, baseball, and folk dances, was under the direction of Miss Katherine Ballew of Marion. After supper there was a song feast with Miss Nancy Ridenhour of Concord, leading the singing. One of the most popular fellows at Camp was Middy Raynal of Statesville, who had charge of the store.

The highlight of the camp was the Campfire evening service. Rev. J. K. Parker of Mt. Mourne, was the speaker; and he delivered very inspirational and clear talks. His general topic was "Building on the Bible. He gave such fine talks that each person listening to him came to love the Bible more than ever. Rev. Parker told the Pioneers that they were the future builders of the world; and that they should build their future on the Bible and Christ. The following is a very beautiful poem quoted in one of his services.

MY BIBLE AND I

"We've travelled together through life's rugged way.
O'er land and o'er water, by night and by day,
To travel without it I never would try
We keep close together, my Bible and I.
In sorrow I've found it my comfort and joy.
When weak, my strong tower which naught can destroy.
When death comes so near me 'tis thought I would die,
We still are together my Bible and I.
If powers of evil against me would come,
And threaten to rob me of heaven and home,
God's Word then directs me to Him in the sky;
And nothing can part us - my Bible and I."
The Camp was under the direction of Rev. W. B. Heyward of Kannapolis, and Rev. Earl Thompson of Statesville. Much of the success of the Camp is due to the faithfulness, understanding, and guidance of these two fine directors. The Camp was most successful; and everyone had a grand time.

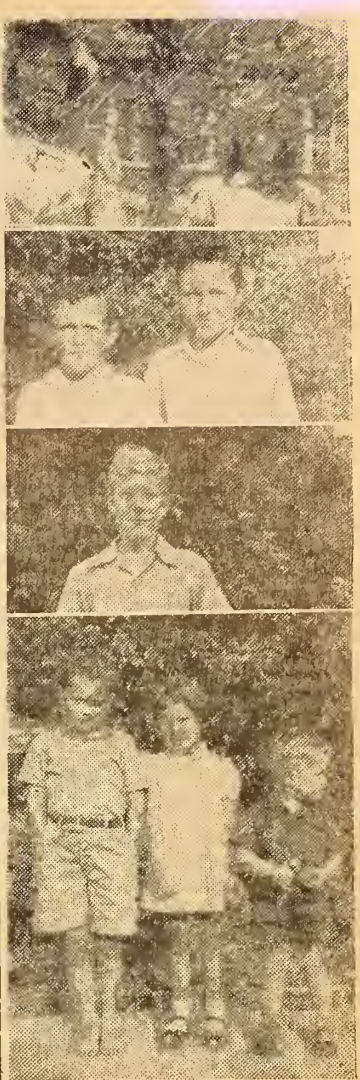

The teacher was putting questions to the class.

"What do you call a man," he asked, "who keeps on talking when people are no longer interested?"
"Please, sir," replied the boy, "a teacher."

"So you believe in free speech," said the Irishman to the Scotsman.
"Yes, I do," replied the canny Scot. "Can I use your telephone?"

"My doctor says that eating of onions is the secret of health."
"Yes? But how are you going to keep it a secret?"

"Do you have animals crackers?"
"No, but we have some very nice dog biscuits."

A Few of the Recent Newcomers at Barium

Dorothy and Mattie Plummer - They came to us from Alexander Home in Charlotte, originally from Cabarrus County. Mattie fits right in with the Howard Cottage girls, and Dorothy is helping at the Baby Cottage.

Earl and Bobby Johnson - from Laurinburg - They say that Scotland County is 'way behind in its dairying. When these boys go back, they should be able to remedy that, because they are most efficient members of our dairy here.

Billy McAllister - His name sounds Scotch, and he looks Irish, so he must be Scotch Irish. He started out in Iredell County, but he spent quite awhile in Asheville. Yes, you guessed it - he is red headed and freckled.

The Harrison family - Jimmy, Jean, and Donald came to us from Charlotte, but they have been living in Wilmington. Their father is in war work, and for the time being, he is in Wilmington.

Lady Jane: "Have you given the gold-fish fresh water, Janet?"
Janet: "No, mum, they ain't finished the water I gave them yesterday yet."

A conceited young preacher had just indulged in a tirade against college and other higher institutions of learning. He concluded by saying he was thankful he had never been corrupted by contact with such institutions. Whereupon the bishop asked him if he meant to say he was thankful for his ignorance.

"Well, yes," said the young man, "you may put it that way if you like."

"My observation is," said the bishop, "you have much to be thankful for."

No. 10

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston Died In France June 29th

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston died in France June 29th, 1944 as result of wounds received in action June 20. Message received on July 23rd by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston from the War Dept. follows:

The Secretary of War asks that I assure you of his deep sympathy in the loss of you son, Lt. Col. James D. Johnston. Report received states he died twenty nine June in France as result of wounds received in action. Letter follows.

Ulio Adj. General

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston was seriously wounded on June 20th, 1944, in the fight for the taking of Cherbourg. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, of Barium

LT. COL. JAMES D. JOHNSTON Springs received a telegram July 9th, 1944, from the War Department informing them that their son had been seriously wounded. The whole Barium Springs community was shocked and saddened by the news.

For one so young, Col. Johnston had a most interesting and colorful career. He was a graduate of Davidson College, having finished in the Centennial Class of 1937. Being his father's son, he was a most enthusiastic football player. He belonged to the "Scairt o' Nuthin" team of 1936 that went up against the best in the state with one regular substitute.

Having taken advanced R. O. T. C. at Davidson, Col. Johnston held a reserve commission. He went into the Army on Christmas day, 1940, with a rank of first lieutenant and took further training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

He had his orders to go to the Philippines and was home on leave when Pearl Harbor was attacked. He was then sent to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was run over by a tank, escaping miraculously.

He landed in Safi, Africa in 1942. He saw much action in Tunisia. At this time he was awarded the Silver Star. The incident giving rise to this signal honor occurred when as Company Commander, he was given Command of the Second Battalion whose commanding officer was missing in action. The citation states: "Without hesitation, and with utter disregard for his personal safety, Capt. Johnston passed through heavy artillery fire to recover a vehicle and reached the unit. Upon arrival, he reorganized the battalion and with outstanding coolness and courage commanded throughout the entire engagement."

The Silver Star medal is a bronze star having at its center, an oak wreath and small silver star.

Growth of the Memorial Funds

The history of the growth of our Memorial Funds here at Presbyterian Orphanage during the past few years is a most fascinating one. If we go back to the files of the Barium Messenger we find that twenty years ago perhaps a half dozen people in this community, when occasion arose, sent a check to the Orphanage in memory of a deceased friend. At that time it was listed as Miscellaneous Support. For many years such donations did not average more than one per month.

In December, 1943 a separate heading was given to these funds and they were designated at Memorial Gifts. There were four memorials that month almost ten years ago. It is interesting to note that there is listed in the June Messenger 1944, sixty-seven memorials. Perhaps the largest number of memorials yet received in any one month was eighty-five in April, 1944.

In 1935 Mr. Milton distributed a leaflet among some of the friends of the Home on the appropriateness of such memorials. A copy of this leaflet fell into the hands of Dr. Walter L. Lingle. That, and some other observations, which Dr. Lingle had made led him to write an article in his column in the "Christian Observer" in the issue for June 5, 1935. He entitled his article "Instead of Flowers". This article was reprinted in the July 1935 issue of the Barium Messenger and has since been issued in pamphlet form and hundreds of copies have been distributed.

The next year a blank for the use of those desiring to send memorial gifts was published in the Messenger and it has been appearing since that time. A large percentage of our memorial gifts are accompanied with the blank clipped from the Messenger.

A careful search of the pages of the Messenger reveals that not until 1941 was there an article on the Memorial Fund printed in the Messenger. That story told something of the growth of the fund since its beginning. The fact was mentioned that in the church year of 1932-33 seventy eight dollars was given the Memorial Fund while in 1940-41 the amount given was $1,592.75. It is interesting to observe that in the church year 1943-44 that government bonds with a face value of over fifteen thousand dollars were added to our Memorial Funds.

In October, 1942, The Board of Regents appointed a special committee to make a study of the Memorial Funds and to bring in a recommendation at the spring meeting as to what definite object should be named for which the undesignated Memorial Funds would be dedicated. This committee reported to the meeting of the Regents May 12th, 1942, and made the following recommendations which were adopted by the Board of Regents.

1. The Board of Regents authorize the setting aside of memorial gifts which have been received at Barium Springs during the last ten years - $7,263.36, that this fund become a part of a fund to build

Newcomers

Virginia and Ann Hendricks from Scotland County. When they arrived at Barium, they had a little dog named "Trixy" that was the favorite of the whole cottage where they stayed. Trixy got to running in bad company, however, and was killed. The girls stood their bereavement splendidly. Virginia is one of the big girls at Synod Cottage. Ann has just moved to Rumble Hall.

Ray Shoemaker. A lad from north Iredell in the Union Grove neighborhood. He already knows a lot about farming. He's at Jennie Gilmer and a member of the dairy group.

Doris Rockley from Clinton, N. Carolina. She's at Howard and already knows all the girls there. If you ever come to Barium and get lonesome, Doris will do more to keep you entertained than any one you can find.

Suzanne, George and Ruby Truelove. All Baby Cottagers. They came from Fayetteville. No, Ruby isn't the smallest one at Barium. Little Jimmy Harris is the smallest, but we haven't been able to get him to stand still long enough to take his picture. Maybe we'll get in the next issue.

- a memorial building.
 - 2 That all future memorial gifts, not otherwise designated, be placed in this memorial fund.
 3. That this memorial building be a church for Barium Springs.

Reports of 1st Quarter of the Church Year

The first quarter of the church year has come to a close and we print below the giving of the churches, Sunday schools, and Presbyteries of the Synod of North Carolina to the Presbyterian Orphans' Home for the first three months of the year. With the report we print along side the giving for the same period of last year.

We make no attempt to analyze these figures exhaustively for we know that they represent amounts that have been received here and that in some cases money has been given which has not yet reached us. We will mention the totals, however. We have received from the churches of Synod as of June 30th five hundred thirty-two dollars and eighty-seven cents less than last year.

The Sunday Schools show a very gratifying increase of $192.39 from the excellent giving of last year.

On the other hand the gifts from the Women's Auxiliaries for the support fund is somewhat less than for the same period last year. Last year the first quarter total was $1,615.00; this year $1,324.93, or, $290.07 less than last year.

The following shows the giving by Presbyteries, Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries as of the amounts received up to June at Barium through the Eyes of the Children

Last month we carried two letters written by young people of last year's graduating class describing the life here. One was entitled "Children of the Home" and was written by Mable Vinson - the other was "The Food" which was written by Jeanne Fletcher.

This month we have two more which we believe will be informative.

OUR STOCK

It gives me pleasure to have the opportunity of writing to you about our stock. The first thing you asked about is the horses. We have ten mules and two horses at the farm. The two horses are kept mainly for breeding. We try to raise one mule every year, but sometimes we don't succeed.

The greater part of our meat comes from our hogs. Each year we raise around two hundred and twenty-five Poland Chinas. This past year we sold one hundred and fifty and killed seventy-five for our own use.

People are always saying something about our sheep. We have forty-eight now, and during the past year thirty-six were killed and five were sold. They are sheared once every year at the first of the summer. We got three hundred pounds of wool from our sheep last year; so you see they are valuable.

Take a good look at this man. Very few of you have ever seen him and yet his handiwork reaches more people than anybody here at Barium Springs. He is the man who prints the Messenger. You don't hear of him because when there's anything good about the Messenger, we editors blandly take the credit for it. When there's anything wrong, we blame it on the printer, Mr. Kyles, and he rocks along just as good-naturedly accepting all the blame and somehow never being on hand when the bouquets are passed out.

Seriously, Mr. Kyles is one of the most valued members of the staff at Barium. He not only prints The Messenger, he keeps that monumental mailing list in order, he prints and binds the annual and does hundreds of other jobs. The calls on the printing office for job work are surprisingly high.

In addition to all of this Mr. Kyles looks after the shoe repair shop. We might call him our hoof and mouth doctor. Not that we have the hoof or mouth disease, but he in a way is our mouthpiece in that he prints the Messenger. He's a hoof specialist in that he supervises the repairing of our shoes.

ED KYLES

Mr. Kyles not only looks after the work, but he keeps the machinery in shape - an intertype machine, a linotype machine, a big printing press, job presses and all the other tools that you'll find in a print shop.

Mr. Kyles also has a very interesting family. He's not exactly a son of Barium, but a son-in-law. His lady, Rachel Moore, (she used to be,) was raised at Barium and graduated here. The rest of the family consists of little Nancy, five years old, little Ed, four months old, and a little dog who is very much interested in these two younger members of the family. All mighty nice folks.

Polio

As this is written all of North Carolina is concerned over the infantile paralysis epidemic. Some sections are alarmed and some are hysterical.

A number of regulations have been set up to prevent the spread and to control this disease. These regulations have affected orphanages very much. In some orphanages all going and coming has been forbidden. No new children are being received. No children are being allowed to go on vacation, and those that have already gone on vacation cannot come back. In some places day nurseries have been closed and the children are required to remain in their home surroundings. In almost all localities the assembling of children under thirteen has been forbidden, which has stopped Sunday Schools for the most part, and schools that ordinarily would be starting up at this time of the year. These things are all, of course, intended to prevent the spread of the disease by keeping children from different localities from mingling together. There is a question, though, as to whether the closing of these normal gathering places doesn't give rise to other contacts that may be just as dangerous. Grownups sometimes forget that children are going to move around. They aren't going to stay where you put them. If they can't go to picture shows, can't go to swimming pools, can't go to Sunday School, can't go to day nurseries, they aren't going to just sit still in their homes with their arms folded and not make and contacts with anyone.

We at Barium Springs have tried to inform ourselves in every way possible about the disease; what has been done to check it, what has been done to cure it, what should be done if it strikes, and we've tried to govern ourselves according to these findings.

In our investigation we found out some rather remarkable facts. The most striking and to us the most comforting is this: that children in orphanages apparently are immune to the disease. They've been so few cases in all the orphanages that it might well be said that it just doesn't strike orphanage groups.

From this it appears that where children are constantly in groups, that they build up some personal protection that we do not know much about yet. Knowing this, we have not attempted to curtail our own gatherings of our own children. We continue to operate our Sunday School, we continue to allow the children to use the swimming pool. In deference to the neighboring towns, we do not allow the children to visit the picture shows.

In the first two instances, Sunday School and swimming pool, they do not come in contact with other children; in the picture shows they would.

We're going to have our camps on the Catawba River, Camp Fellowship, just as usual. The only difference from other years is that we will not invite outside children to participate. It'll just be our own Barium Springs crowd.

We let our children go on their vacations in the early part of the summer. When the epidemic reached the proportion that the whole state was alarmed, we ceased to grant additional vacations, and the children are all coming back and by the end of this week, vacations will be over. We're continuing to take in new children, and in doing so we are not attempting to flout the recommendation or the practices of other communities. We're simply trying to weigh one hazard against another. Let us give you an illustration.

An application came to us a short time ago from a home in which the mother was tubercular. There were nine children altogether involved. The key to the situation, however, was four. We were told that if we could take four children here, that the three older children could be provided for among one set or relatives, and another relative would take the two youngest, and then the mother would be free to go to a sanitorium. The sanitorium was ready for her, but she would not go and could not go until provisions were made for her children. Now we know that the longer the children had to stay in this rather small home where the mother prepared the food, slept in the same room with them and in other ways came in contact with them, that every day that they continued there, it constituted a hazard on the safety of all the children. Would we be justified in continuing that hazard to protect our institution from the remote hazard of these four children bringing infantile paralysis here? We know that tuberculosis is extremely contagious. We know that somehow infantile paralysis is not so universally contagious. The fact that in the majority of families that polio strikes affect only one member of that family is evidence to that end.

We are not accepting children where their advent can be delayed for a month or two without creating or continuing a hazard for their welfare, but where there is a real hazard in their present situation, we do not feel justified holding them out until we feel perfectly safe about polio.

We have not put a ban on visitors coming to see us. If we did put a ban on that, it would result in many people being disappointed. For no matter how many papers you publish it in, some relative will fail to see it. Then in event that we attempt to put the ban on, and relatives would come from a far away place like Wilmington or New Bern expecting to see the children, we'd be faced with the problem of either denying them the privilege of seeing the children or else being rather unfair to those nearby that we did not turn back. We've had practically no visits from children, and we believe in that way we are carrying out the spirit of the polio quarantine.

There's one feature of this thing that is very difficult to control. We grown people forget that children absorb what we print, what we say, and sometimes what we think. This was brought to light by a rather pathetic incident. A little girl had been on a visit. The community that she visited was very much excited over polio. It was a subject of conversation all the time. She came back from this little vacation and was a little upset and had to spend a day or two at the infirmary. There was nothing serious about her slight illness. She did run a little temperature. She was upset - possibly lived too high while she was away. She got it into her head that she had polio and one night about 3:30 A. M. she came into the nurse's room terribly distressed. She said, "Mrs. McNatt, I'm paralyzed. I can't move a leg or foot." The fact that this little thing had walked the whole length of the hall and was standing on her feet when she was talking to Mrs. McNatt hadn't apparently entered her mind. She was so sure that she had this dread disease that she couldn't get away from the fear even in her sleep. Some children are laboring under fears that may be far more dangerous for their future welfare than the actual danger of polio.

How many cases are there in North Carolina? Something over three hundred. How many children have been seriously ill from measles during the last twelve months? We'd venture to say five times that number and yet we didn't get excited about it. Right here at Barium where a number of people are dreading polio, we had within a week's time three very serious accidents. By the grace of God no permanent injuries resulted but the cars on the highway, the tempting apples in the top of a tree, the temptation to do something daring at the swimming pool, all constitute more real hazards for the general run of children than the much advertised polio. If you don't believe it, get down your figures. We'll even enter the innocent looking bath tub as being a more lethal weapon of destruction than the polio germ taken year in and year out.

Don't get the idea that we are belittling this thing. No one who has ever seen the result of a single case of polio can treat that disease lightly. Death is a terrible thing to think of in connection with a little child, and yet we are trying to not be so afraid of one thing that we'll back into something more dangerous. There are many things that need to be watched and sometimes we will let the bars down for one danger in our excessive zeal in trying to protect ourselves from some other danger. We are trying to stay on an even keel at Barium and not forgetting that with the doctors, with the foundations and with all the other efforts made for the control of this disease, that God is still in His heaven and he still answers prayers and he still affords protection. We will do all we can to protect our children, but will leave the worrying to Almighty God.

We Would Be Worthy

There are certain tasks from which it is never possible to wholly divert one's thinking. I have been call to such a task.

During the month of June, I was privileged to be at Montreat for a period of rest and change, but no day passed that my thoughts did not, again and again, turn to Barium where it is my task to furnish the spiritual leadership for the more than 300 boys and girls of that institution.

In my thinking I have tried to honestly evaluate our Barium program. I have been wondering just how worthy is that program, and just how worthy those of us who belong to the staff of workers, are, of the confidence that has been placed in us by the Presbyterians of North Carolina.

I have no doubts about the worthiness of our program. To put it briefly, we are seeking to provide that sort of program that will most surely enable the boys and girls committed to our care to grow as did JESUS, "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man." We could have no worthier program. But what of the manner in which that program is being carried on?

Each day, there must be thousands of Presbyterians in North Carolina who think of us at Barium. Are we worthy of their consideration.

Each day, those same thousands remember us at His great throne of grace. Are we worthy of their prayers.

Almost every day in the year, gifts of one kind or another reach Barium. Are we worthy of the tremendous sacrifices of time, thought and effort, represented by these generous gifts.

Today, with our country at war, and more than 200 of our own boys and girls from Barium in our Armed Forces, it can be said that men and women each day are giving "the last full measure of devotion" for Barium. Are our efforts at Barium worth dying for?

Presbyterians of North Carolina, I believe I express the sincere feeling of all who labor here, when I say that we would be worthy! Keep us on your hearts. Continue to send in your gifts - but above all else, PRAY for us! PRAY that we shall become increasingly worthy of the confidence you have placed in us. More important still, pray that we shall merit the confidence in HIM, Who said, "suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven", and Who more than all others has enriched childhood.

Rev. Tom C. Cook Pastor of Little Joe's Church

Old Morgan

One of the most unique characters and one of the best friends a boy ever had was Old Morgan. He had his faults, as most people do, but his virtues were many. He had his peculiarities and eccentricities as most people have but he served his generation well and died a useful and respected member of society.

Old Morgan was a horse. We called him old because he was older and had more sense in some ways than we boys who worked him. Also "Old Morgan" was something of a term of endearment. Reverend Robert S. Arrowood bought him while living at Cool Springs in Iredell county. Old Morgan helped move the family and lived there for ten years during Mr. Arrowood's pastorate in Rowan County Old Morgan was a big rangy black horse. He was never very fat; he worked too hard for that. He was never very poor; he was too well fed for that. Old Morgan was a versatile horse. For many years his chief duty was to take Mr. Arrowood to his appointments and on his rounds of visiting in the homes of the people. Old Morgan was no race horse but his rangy legs covered the ground at

This is the Rumble Hall girls bringing you our news for this month.

Most of our girls went on vacation this year. All of us had a good time visiting our friends and relatives. Everybody is back except two girls and they are due today.

We all have been going in swimming nearly every day. We are sorry that Betty Dishman fell off the back of the pool and broke her wrist. She is down at the infirmary. We have been going down to see her. We are so anxious for her to hurry and come up.

Miss Hardin's sister, Grace, spent a few days with us. We enjoyed having her so much.

Last Saturday Misses Hardin, Everett, and Lorene Brown took us down to the spring for a picnic.

a good rate of speed in those days. In summer he pulled the buggy at a steady trot. In winter when the roads were deep in mud, the buggy was put away and Morgan was saddled. Under the saddle he was a pacer and carried his two hundred pound master with security and ease. Mr. Arrowood did quite a bit of farming on the thirty acres which belonged to the manse and a large farm which he bought. Morgan was a plow horse of superb quality. If it was needed to take a load of cotton to the gin or corn to the mill or to haul a load of wood Morgan was hitched to the wagon and could pull all that the wagon or harness could stand.

We spoke of his faults. Morgan had two major ones. He was an individualist. It irked him to be hitched with other horses. Put him to a reaper with three or four other horses and he would get in a very sour humor and he accommodated his pace and direction to the other horses only after much persuasion of his driver. His disposition would be bad for a week afterwards. Morgan's other fault was that he would occasionally run away.

If it was cold weather and he had not been getting plenty of exercise and he had a boy on his back; he would take the bit in his teeth and run a half mile or so for the fun of it. It was more serious when something went wrong with the gear and he would run till he broke loose from every thing. That only happen twice, however.

He was a well known figure in Rowan Rowan County in those days. He carried Mr. Arrowood to his appointments so many years that it is said, (I will not say by whom) that he knew, without a rein being pulled, to turn right in front of the manse on the second and fourth Sundays to go to Third Creek and Cleveland Churches; and to turn left on the first and third Sundays to go to Franklin Church.

When Morgan was still hale and hearty at eighteen years of age, Mr. Arrowood left Rowan County. Before he left he presented Morgan to Barium Springs Orphanage. So Morgan was the first one from the Arrowood family to work at Barium Springs. A couple of years later Reverend A. Shorter Caldwell who was at that time representative of the Home came by to see us. We asked him how Old Morgan was getting along. Our hearts were saddened to learn that Old Morgan had eaten too heartily of some fresh cut millet and was dead; but that, before his passing, he had made quite a place for himself at Barium Springs; that to the last he took delight occasionally in taking the bit in his teeth and running a piece for the fun of it. Yes, he was a horse.

4. That a Book of Memory be placed in the building including all names of donors, and those memorialized. There are those whose support we welcome who prefer to designate some other department of the home as the recipient of their memorial gifts. We gladly carry out such requests to the letter. Since the time when the Board of Regents authorized that the undesignated funds be set aside for a church we have purchased government bonds with the income of this fund, thus aiding the war effort and giving a safe and liquid depository for the money. At this time we have in the bank vault, bonds with a face value of $31,425.00 and we have the amount in cash of $626.10 for the purchase of additional securities. So the memorial fund is growing day by day. So when peace has come and the Regents feel that sufficient means are available and business conditions right we shall see a beautiful church here for the glory of God and the blessing of succeeding generations of our children.

The second battalion with Major Johnston commanding was first to enter the city of Bizerte. For this feat his outfit was given the usual distinction of being the Guard of Honor for the king of England on his visit to Bizerte. This gave rise to the famous conversation when the king asked Major Johnston how his men kept so clean in that climate. Major Johnston replied: "By using plenty of elbow grease, your majesty." It was necessary for Major Johnston to further explain the American idiom "elbow grease", as King George had never heard it before.

After a further campaign in Sicily at Randazzo, he was sent to England. There he was promoted to Lt. Col. At the time he was wounded he was in command of the 2nd Battalion of the 47th Infantry in the 9th Division.

Col. Johnston is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston of Barium Springs; his two sisters, Mrs. D. W. Morris of California; and Ensign Leila D. Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla., his three brothers, Lt. R. Z. Johnston of Louisiana; W. L. D. Johnston of Batesburg, S. C.; and Captain Jos. B. Johnston Jr. in the medical Corps in Africa.

The following was clipped from a service paper.

"The veteran Ninth Division from Fort Bragg, N. C.," of which Col. Johnston was a member "received official credit for breaking through to the west coast of the Cherbourg Peninsula and cutting off more than 25,000 Germans from the main body of the enemy troops in France. The 9th Division scored this first big victory of the Normandy campaign after the drive to isolate Cherbourg had been started by the 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions and the 4th Division.

The 9th took most of its early raining at Fort Bragg under Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, now commander of U. S. forces in the Mediterranean. Under Maj. Gen. Matthew S. Eddy, it landed in Morocco during the North African invasion, fought at Maknassy and was the first infantry division to enter Bizerte. It also fought at Troina and Randazzo in Sicily as part of the II Corps of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Seventh Army."

able to us in many ways.

We have a chicken farm about a mile from us, where five hundred white leghorns are bought every year. Of these three hundred hens are kept to lay and the other two hundred are eaten mostly as friers. The hens are thinned out by eating them as they get too old. We do not have any turkeys.

Our beef cows are kept in a separate pasture during the summer and brought to the barn when winter comes. We raise from twelve to fifteen every year.

I hope this letter has given you the information you wanted. Maybe we can help you again sometime.

Respectfully, Leland Rogers

FARM

Replying to your letter written by the pastor of your church for information about the farm, I am very glad to give you just the information you want.

First of all the farm is divided into three main groups, the large farm, the truck farm, and the orchard. I will take these units one at a time, and give you an idea of how they were managed.

The large farm is composed of about five hundred acres which is under cultivation and from which wheat, corn, barley, oats, rye, hay, lespedeza, clover, and kindred products are obtained. The work of this group requires a skilled boss and about four other experienced white farm hands and about three or four colored workers along with the larger boys of the orphanage which takes about thirteen or fourteen. The farm also has its own machinery such as two reapers, two trucks, two tractors, a thresher, a combine, and different sort of plows. In addition to this we have eleven mules to help do most of the plowing and cultivating.

The truck farm is composed of about one hundred acres in cultivation. This group is managed by an experienced truck farmer who is boss, a colored helper, about five or six large boys from the ages of nine to twelve. The latter group has the responsibility of gathering the vegetables for the table. The products which are raised by this group are corn, onions, tomatoes, potatoes, cabbage, carrots, pumpkins, canteloupes, celery, radishes, lettuce, okra, beans, (both lima and string) beets, peas, and different kinds of greens. This seems like a lot of work but the boys enjoy working this because this is the food most enjoyed by the children. This group is sometimes referred to as the garden group of Barium, and I know people are much interested in their gardens.

Now for the orchard or the fruit group which has about one hundred acres in peaches and apples. This group has a small tractor and about seven large boys and three are four smaller boys to help. This group also tends to the grape vineyard and the canning house which turns out from four to five thousand gallons of surplus foods and fruits which are consumed during the winter.

I think I have covered your questions about the farm and the different divisions and their work. I hope that this information will be very helpful to you and that you will have a better understanding of our farm.

Respectfully yours, Fred Cole

We had such a good time. We are so grateful to them.

Three of our girls, Shirley Inman, Hilda Barnes, and Juanita Young, attended Kannapolis Girl Scout Camp in Concord last week. We are sure they brought back some good ideas and suggestions that will be of much help to us in our own Girl Scout work here.

Vacations are all over now and Camp Fellowship opens Monday of next week. We are all so thrilled over going to camp for a week.

We have many things on our schedule for next month. Maybe we will have lots to tell you then. So long, Thanks for listing!

INFIRMARY NEWS

Hello Folks, Here are the nurses again writing a few lines in which to let you know how things are at the infirmary. We have five patients but they aren't really sick. Little Jimmy Harris's mother came to see him Monday and he seemed to know who she was.

Mrs. Barkley is cooking for us now and she is a good cook. We sure do miss Mrs. Jackins now that she is staying over at the quads.

We all went to the show the 4th of July and saw "Up in Arms" and we sure did enjoy it.

We sure do miss Paul Reid's jokes now that he has gone to the Air Corps; maybe he is telling them to his pals.

I guess we will be signing off now because there isn't really anything new happening.

We sure are glad we are getting our building done over.

—Your friends, The infirmary

JENNIE GILMER NEWS

Hello Everybody, It doesn't seem long since we wrote the last news and since then all of us that were to go on vacations have gone and returned except two. Bobby Haddin and

Jas. E. Martin Wed to Miss Nellie Sherrill

Of interest to the Barium Community was the marriage of Mr. James E. Martin, who is head of the Shoe Repairing Department of Presbyterian Orphans' Home to Miss Nellie Sherrill of Troutman, N. C.

The marriage was performed in York, South Carolina on July 1st, 1944. The happy couple are now at their home in Troutman, North Carolina.

Tommy Ryan are still on theirs. Bobby Allen returned today and reported a good time. Mason Traywick's mother wrote him and said she missed him a lot, especially at meal time.

Our friends in Mooresville are so good to us. They brought us a complete badminton set, a box of bar candy, and stacks of funnies and books. The badminton set even had a roller to line off the court. We are enjoying everything and we sincerely wish to thank them.

We have our scout uniforms now and they are really good looking. Our pants are up town being altered now but we will soon be able to wear the whole outfit. Having the uniform makes us feel more like a full fledged scout.

Well, so long and a very pleasant summer to all of you.

—The Boys

PRINTING OFFICE

Friends.

Saturday, July 1, 1944 our shoe-man, Mr. Martin, had plans in his mind known only to a small portion of the world. He went swiftly from his home and entered the bus and headed for York, S. C. to get married. This bit of news came as a shock to his fellow workers, but we are over it now and wish them happiness the rest of their life.

We are now working on our biggest job of the year, The Annual, better known as The Spotlight. This is the twenty-first volume.

—Earl Allen

ANNIE LOUISE

The Annie Louise girls are glad to be back home again. We appreciate our nice clean building. We are going to try to be good house keepers and keep it cleaner.

All are excited over going to Camp next week. We hope all can enjoy this experience and have the best time ever.

Five little girls came to join our family from the Baby Cottage. We are glad to have them and hope they will like it here. Their names are: Shirley Johnson, Anne Phillips, Jackie Liverman, Linda Inman and Lois Dellinger. We welcome them to our group.

BABY COTTAGE

Room for your babies folks?

Here we come, Charles Bowles trying to run ahead of Donald Privette; Clyde Andrews ducking under the table; Loretta Katen is so tiny she gets by anything most anywhere. Donnie Harris stately as a judge; Ralph Huddleston with his story book, Jerry Thomas with his whistle; Johnny Collins carrying his navy doll, George True-love with a cap in his hand and our little Charles Andrews, who just came in this morning. He's sweet, too.

The other little girls, Mary Rose Privette, Patsy Dean, Marie McNeil, Susie Truelove, Jean Harrison and the baby, Ruby True-love are coming and we get up and ask them to take our little chairs. We sit down beside them but we can't be quiet long.

Miss Lily Bryant came back yesterday from her vacation and were we glad to see her! Myrtle Rushing came back, too. She had been to Charlotte to visit her mother. We were glad to see her, we missed them while they were away and don't you think they would miss us too? Anyway they seemed glad to see us.

Mr. Grier has a little car he uses to ride in when it's too far to walk, and when he leaves it close to our cottage Donnie Privette tries to open the door and get in it. He does sometimes. Mr. Grier said, "Donnie, don't get in my car," and Donnie said, "I already did it!" Mr. Grier just laughed and said "That's Donnie".

Anyway, we are all well and happy as can be, and just can't sit still any longer - so, bye.

K. P. NEWS

Just a minute folks, you wouldn't stop before hearing from the girls on K P would you?

The kitchen matron, and girls are fine. We have been very busy getting the kitchen in good shape and want to thank Mr. Ralph Spencer and his boys for the splendid job they did on our basement. If we had any company we would probably bring them in through our basement just to show it off. Thank you Ralph.

We miss our former matron, Miss Long, who was with us for so long that it seems strange now that she has gone. Come up to see us Miss Long, we'll be very glad to see you, and you are always welcome out here in our "Den."

Miss Turner has taken over as our leader on K P and she's grand. But we regret to inform you that she is only staying for the present, she has plans for the future. At the present we are sending our prayers for her father who is ill. We hope he will be better soon. We miss you Miss Turner, but we also have a good sub matron, our head matron, Miss Clark. She's carrying on for you, so hurry back.

Our group of eight girls are as Nellie Isenhour, shall we say, is our Mascot. Well anyway she's 4 ft. 11, a blonde and has a eye for Dwight Spencer. You find them on the back porch after each meal if you drop around.

Toni Delancey comes next. She's 5 ft. 2, a blonde and — censor. Sorry folks, but if you ever want to find Earl Allen call up Toni phone number.

Mary Frances Isenhour is a brunette and has a boy friend over seas, but she's always the one to tell the boiler boy that we want steam, huh, Donald Pettus?

Annie Star Langley is a sweet girl, but Annie likes to pick a fuss with a certain dairy boy. Could it be Earl Johnson? could be.

Marion Coffey is one you could not very well stick on the wall-flower list. She reports that Vinson Secrest has gone in to the service. Don't stay away too long Vinson.

Janie Hall is a cute girl and has bow-legs. You'll know her if you see her. She has a bad habit of feeding "Son" Fred Cole ice cream on Thursday. Stop that Janie.

Frances Adams is a "Chicken" or at least you'd think so if you could hear her when she gets tickled. But don't get the idea that she doesn't work. She does.

And as for Lee Vinson, we can't say much because her Navy guys might get a chance to censor this paper.

We are sorry folks but our time is short, but first let me give you our favorites: sub matron, Miss Clark; our pin-up boy, Earl Allen; our motto, "Can Do"; badge of honor, dish rag; pin-up girl, Blanche Fienster; favorite work, K. P.

I'll sign off for now, hoping there is no censoring done to this.

Shining In the Night

A friend gave me a cardboard cross. One side of it has been treated chemically so that it absorbs light when exposed to the sun and gives off light in the dark. I have it hanging on my bedroom wall and often my eyes turn to it when I wake during the night. I have gradually become aware of certain things about it. For example, I find that the darker the room, the brighter the light rays to which the cross is exposed, the brighter and longer will it shine in the dark. Shall we ever forget that many years ago Jesus was crucified on a rude wooden cross? That cross shines now more brightly for us during the darkness of our distress and grief. It has become a symbol to the christian world of a glory that will not dim. The rugged cross once erected on Calvary is a symbol of power that draws men to Christ, even as He said: "And I, if I be lifted up . . . will draw all men unto me."

—George C. Alborn

Henry: "Girls want a lot nowadays."

John: "Yes, and they want a house on it, too."

WELCOME SYNOD!

BARIUM GRID SEASON OPENS SEPT. 15TH

Synod Met Here In 1936, 1941 — 1944;
Looks Like A Habit But We Love It

A short time after you receive this paper it will be expected for the Synod of North Carolina to meet, and we are expecting them here at Barium Springs again this year.

Ever since we invited Synod to meet with us this meeting has not been entirely absent from our minds. We enjoyed your meeting with us in 1941 and in 1936, and we expect this meeting to be even more pleasant than those two former ones. When you commence to arrive on Monday, September 4th, and then on September 5th when the big crowd comes, you will find the lawn mowed, the shrubbery trimmed, the buildings cleaned, the beds all made up fresh, our pillows taken out of storage, arranged on the beds; you will find us in our Sunday best with our hair brushed and our faces clean, all set for company. You will find that everybody at Barium has had a thought about you, and everybody has had a hand in it, even to the raising of the pigs, the lambs, the chickens, the vegetables and the fruits that go to your daily sustenance and for our daily comfort. Even the apple trees seem to have caught the spirit. Those of you who were here in 1941 remember the splendid apples we had for you. Well, since that time we have had plenty of apples but no bumper crop of that special early apple that you enjoyed so much. This year they seem to be ganging up to give you an abundance just as they did three years ago. It looks like those trees were just holding back during the years that you were not here to give you an abundance the year you are here.

Maybe that is the way it is with everything at Barium. The extra work that we have done to have things ready for you is a labor of love, and if you enjoy being with us, we will be amply repaid.

There are many changes since you were here before. Many of the staff are gone; many new staff members are with us for the first time. In the children there is an even marked difference. You won't find nearly so many large children here as when you were here before. In fact, in '41 we were still graduating classes of 30 and 40 people. Now our high school has dwindled due to the fact that the scar fever hits us when the youngsters are around 17. There are more little children here, and you will be seeing many of them for the first time.

There are two organizations here that we didn't have before, the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts, and these two organizations will make it their special business to look after your comforts and to be at your beck and call. Do not hesitate to ask them to do you a favor. It will please them.

In 1941 the newspapers of the date, as a courtesy, sent in plenty of morning and afternoon papers, (Continued On Page Three)

This is the third issue of The Messenger in which we publish letters from children of the Home describing the life here at Barium as they see it.

Social Life

The purpose of this letter is to describe to you our social life here at Barium in response to the letter from your pastor.

To begin with I wish to tell you of the social life between the boys and girls. We all live together as one, big happy family. Our social life begins when we first get up and lasts all through the day. Our biggest social time is when we all eat together in our big dining room; then we all have a good chance to associate with everyone else. I think this is well worth mentioning: every Sunday morning after breakfast Mr. Johnston brings us very interesting talks; he brings us up to date on the war news and (Continued On Page Three)

In each issue of THE MESSENGER, we like to do honor to a member of the staff. This month we are honoring Miss Mary Turner, and it is the most fitting that we do so. She has about the biggest job to do of any for this month. She presides over the cooking; in addition to the preparation of our regular meals, it is up to her that the members of Synod are kept full and happy - quite some job!

Our confidence in Miss Turner, however, keeps us from being uneasy. We know she will deliver the goods.

Football. Did you ever hear that word before? The war, infantile paralysis, the Republican-Democratic Conventions and all these things have made us forget for a time that there could be a thing like football. Maybe we are feeling impatient and have a kind of notion that we haven't time this year for these kid's doings. Well, this article, we hope, will wake you up and get you out of that.

The Synod of North Carolina And Barium Springs

From its very beginning Presbyterian Orphan's Home has been owned and controlled by the Synod of North Carolina.

The Synod of North Carolina is composed of nine Presbyteries, Albemarle, Concord, Fayetteville, Granville, Kings Mountain, Mecklenburg, Orange, Wilmington, and Winston-Salem. These Presbyteries occupy eighty-six counties of North Carolina. Fourteen of the Mountain Counties of the state were set off in 1916 to form a part of the Synod of Appalachia.

In May 1978 the Synod of New York and Philadelphia decided to constitute the Synod of the Carolinas. The following resolution was passed, Resolved that the Synod of the Carolinas meet the first Wednesday of November next at eleven o'clock in Center Church, Rowan County" (now Iredell), "and that Mr. Pattillo, or, in his absence (Continued On Page Two)

To our way of thinking, there is no time in our whole lives when we have needed the feeling that football gives us more than we do right now this fall. We have all been tense with anxiety over the war news. Many of us have been grieved over the death or the crippling of a loved one. We are tortured by our thoughts of what might have been or our dreams disturbed by the thoughts of this awful war. As it goes on, we can hardly find a family but that some beloved member has been touched, and we can let our thoughts dwell on these things until we forget this still younger generation that is growing up around us. It is not natural for teen age young people to grieve for any length of time. It isn't good for them to have to live in a home or in a community that is burdened with grief continuously. We must, even in the midst of war, consider these young people who will some day carry on. There is none of us who would hesitate to do something that would honor our soldiers or our beloved dead. Let us have the same feeling about our young children whose lives are all before them, who are now in school, many of them who wish they were with their older brothers in the fight. They are chaffing under the necessity of having to continue the prosaic business of the three R's.

If we lose interest in their activities, if we brush aside their athletic interest and their other interests as something of little account, we may encourage a situation that we will later regret. Let's give the kids all the encouragement possible. Let's go out and see them play whether we feel like it or not, and we guarantee that if you do, you will find a blessed relief from the things that weigh you down. You will join in with their triumphs; you will grieve with them over their losses, and you will love them for their enthusiasm.

Barium Springs is going to carry on a full schedule. We will have 100-pound teams, 85-pound teams, 125-pound teams, although the 125-pound team may have to be the Varsity. We hope there will be enough teams around so that these youngsters can get some of the thrills of an inter-school game.

Our season will open in Charlotte on the night of the 15th of September. Harding High will be the opponent. We usually have (Continued On Page Three)

Take a good look, folks, at the above picture. They are the Senior Class at Barium this year. To us they look like a mighty nice set of folks. We have a lot of confidence in them. We have to have. The kind of place Barium Springs will be during this school year depends a lot on the kind of boys and girls in the Senior Class. We are looking to this year with hope and confidence. You will see these youngsters again when the graduate. They will have an individual picture in THE MESSENGER then.

The Presbyteries which united to form the Synod of the Carolinas were Orange in North Carolina; the Presbytery of South Carolina and Abington Presbytery in Tennessee.

At that time there were ten ministers in Orange Presbytery; eleven in the Presbytery of South Carolina; and seven in Abington Presbytery; a total of twenty-eight.

The Synod of the Carolinas adjourned sine die at New Providence Church October 5, 1812. The first meeting of the Synod of North Carolina was held at Alamance Church, Guilford County October 7, 1813. Twelve ministers and three ruling elders were present. They were Reverend Messrs. David Caldwell, Robert H. Chapman, James W. Thompson, William Paisley, Robert Tate, Murdock McMillan, John McIntyre, James Hall, Samuel C. Caldwell, John M. Wilson, John Robinson; Elders, Hugh Forbes, John McDonald, and William Carrigan. Dr. James Hall preached the opening sermon on the text "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature". The Synod at that time was composed of three Presbyteries, of thirty-one ministers, with eighty-five churches and about four thousand members.

It was from a report of the agent of Education given at the Synod in October 1888 that the following resolution was adopted, "Resolved, That, in the judgment of Synod the time has come to take steps looking to the establishment of an Orphans' Home within our bounds and that a committee be appointed to take the matter in charge to consider and execute whatever may seem wise and practical in putting such an enterprise on a permanent basis.

There was also before the Synod a memorial from the "Home and Hospital" a private institution which had been maintained in Charlotte for several years to care for children. A commission with Dr. Jethro Rumble as chairman was appointed by the Synod and the resolution and the memorial were referred to them.

This commission sent out a circular to each Presbytery asking for its opinion. The project was approved unanimously and offers began coming in of sites in various parts of the state. Synod met in Charlotte in 1889 and approved the idea of establishing a Home. They elected the following Board of Regents to direct the affairs of the Home:

- Mecklenburg Presbytery— Reverend Wm. McIlwaine, George Wilson, Esq., Mr. John E. Oats.
Concord Presbytery— Reverend J. Rumble, Mr. G. M. Love.
Orange Presbytery— Reverend D. I. Craig, Hon. A. M. Scales.

Wilmington Presbytery— Geo. Chadbourne, Esq.

Fayetteville Presbytery— Reverend D. D. McBryde.

Albemarle Presbytery— Hon. D. G. Fowle.

This Board of Regents was directed to take over the group being maintained in Charlotte and to purchase ten acres of land near Charlotte and there open the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Although a tract of land was bought near Charlotte the Home was not established there and the land was sold. But in 1891 the Regents bought the old hotel property here at Barium from Davidson College together with thirty-two acres of land for the price of $1,000.00. The old hotel was repaired and furnished for $1,222.58. So when the Home opened for its twenty children, 16 girls and 4 boys, the total investment was $2,222.58.

Reverend R. W. Boyd was the first superintendent here at Barium. His salary was $750.00 per year, Mrs. Boyd was employed as matron on a salary of $150.00 a year.

The first time Synod ever met at Barium was in 1897. The meeting was convened at Salisbury. Dr. Rumble, pastor at Salisbury, had been chairman of the Board of Regents from the beginning. So Synod came over from Salisbury on November 5, 1897 to Barium that they might dedicate a new building which on the program was called "Center Building." This was done to give the chairman the delightful surprise which came when the name was announced as "Rumple Hall." Distinguished men on that program were Dr. J. M. Rose, Dr. J. B. Shearer and Dr. Thornwell Jacobs.

Again the Synod visited Barium in 1911. Synod had met in Charlotte. One day was set aside and by means of a special train the delegates came to Center Church for an historical program and the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the founding of the Synod of the Carolinas in Center Church in 1788. Synod then took the train to Barium Springs, inspected the Home and returned to Charlotte.

In 1926 and in 1936 Synod was jointly entertained by Statesville, Mitchell College, and Presbyterian Orphans' Home. In 1941 for the first time all the sessions of Synod were held on the grounds of the Home. Three hundred and fifty-six ministers and elders were registered for that meeting of Synod.

In this sketch of our controlling Synod we have seen something of its growth from its beginning till the present time.

Of the seventeen Synods which compose the Presbyterian Church in the United States, North Carolina is by all odds the strongest. Virginia is next in strength. Of the 2562 ministers in the southern church 409 are in the Synod of North Carolina. Of the 3,500 churches, 549 are in North Carolina Synod. In the churches of our

FARM NEWS

Here is your newest reporter bringing you the latest gab about the farm. We have finished most of our big jobs such as: thrashing, 2 cuttings of hay, plowing and hoeing corn, mixing feed, combining, and we also fertilized two new plots of land. Although we have finished many our big jobs, we still have a few big ones to look forward to. Tearing down Alexander building, 3rd cutting of hay, shucking corn and cutting silage corn just to mentioned a few.

Robert Templeton, one of the most favored hand on the farm after twenty-three years of work has retired because of his health. We miss him very much and always will welcome him back for a visit.

This is about all the news for a while.

This is Quad 2 coming to you through the courtesy of Bennie Gregory and Dallas Ammons. The boys of quad 2 elected Ernestine Baldwin as their pin-up girl this month.

Camp is about over and everyone seems to have had a good time. Dwight Spencer has been on the loose lately seeing Darling Nellie, Peanut has been swimming for the last three nights straight and he said the water is fairly warm. Peanut, you had better watch out for the Coffey's. Ken Manus has been to camp and rowed around in his size 10 1-2 shoes. Jack Jones has been fishing a good bit lately. Crow Mundy visited us the other night.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news.

We are looking for more beans today, because we get more every time we finish what Mr. Clark brings us at first. It is more than we can do, so we give the Annie Louise girls half of what we get.

We have been getting a lot of peaches this summer, they sure are good. We have been getting two crates a week.

We will soon be going to school and sure will be glad to get back at good school. Be looking for our news next month.

So long folks, -The Bean Stringers

INFIRMARY NEWS

The next time you come to see us you probably won't recognize us because we'll be all "prettied up." The infirmary is being plastered and painted. And while all this is going on the screens are out so we're kept pretty busy fighting flies and mosquitoes.

We all spent a week at the Camp and had a grand time. That is, all Synod are to be found 3,073 elders; 3,631 deacons. Last year there was added on confession 3,407 members, and on certificates 3,188. The number of communicants in the churches of our Synod is 95,716 or about 1-6 of the number of the whole General Assembly. Last year the Synod of North Carolina gave the benevolences $755,609.00. The ministers of the Synod received as salaries $625,419.00. Though this was not a good year for building we see the item of Building Expense in the Synod was $445,728.

If we compare the figures with last year we find seventeen more ministers than last year, two more churches, 2,345 more members and 3,508 less were enrolled in Sunday Schools.

For all causes the Synod gave in the church year ending March 31st, $376,793.00 more than for the year ending March 31, 1943, and there were 679 more added on profession than on the year previously. If every minister who is a member of Synod attended and every church were represented the Synod would have a membership of nine hundred and fifty-eight.

except Katherine Stevens. She sprained her ankle and couldn't go this year but we thought about her and had fun for her too.

There has been very little sickness since the last time we wrote you. We can't seem to get rid of Nina Berryhill. She's had an appendicitis operation and has been with us three weeks. Could it be that she likes us?

We were so sorry to hear of Jim Johnston's death. He was a good friend to all the children and a real soldier too.

School will start the end of the month. It certainly will seem good to have the teacher back with us. We've had a grand vacation but we are always glad for school to begin and to end.

Our little friend, Jimmy Harris is two years old today. We hope he'll understand that all the little spankings he gets today are only "love licks."

Preacher Paragraphs By Rev. T. C. Cook

"... Let us provoke one another unto love and good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is." Heb. 10:24, 25.

You see Lord, it is like this - you could attend Church much more faithfully if your day just came some other time, but you have chosen a day that comes at the end of a hard week when we are tired out.

Not only that, but it's a day following Saturday night. Saturday afternoon and evening is the time that we feel we should enjoy ourselves, so we go to town to shop, then to the movies, or maybe a party, and often it is around midnight, or after (especially) we go to a midnight show) when we reach home.

You have chosen the very day we need most for sleeping late. We find it hard to get the children off to Sunday School in time - getting up so late. It is usually after ten o'clock before the dishes are done, and by then it is time to get busy with Sunday dinner.

I mean no disrespect and do not claim that my judgment equals yours, but you must realize that you have picked the day when the morning paper is bigger than ever and takes longer to read thoroughly. You must also realize that Sunday we have the biggest dinner of the week.

Then too, we feel we must think about poor dad. He's cooped up in his office all week, and Sunday is the only day he has to do a lot of things that he can't do during the week. He wants to get out and open. He needs the fresh air and sunshine. When the weather is good, he gets with his friends for a round or two of golf, sometimes a little fishing trip. If the weather is bad, he feels he must tinker with the car. And, of course, when he gets into his old work clothes and gets his hands all greasy, it's hard for him to get cleaned up for Church. We could go, of course, but we hate to leave him at home all alone.

I'm telling you these things, Lord, because I want you to see our viewpoint and that it is not our fault that we are not able to get to Church. We want to go, and we know that we ought to go; we know that we promised to "attend up to its ordinances", but it must be clear to you after this explanation that the real reason we cannot go is your having chosen the wrong day of the week. If you will select another day of the week, we shall be glad to give the matter further consideration.

Prayer: Lord Jesus, help us to "remember the Sabbath Day, keep it holy." Help us to know that if we will keep Thy Day holy, we shall be kept holy. AMEN.

to live with us.

We have been to camp and though we couldn't go swimming we had a good time boat riding, going on hikes and playing.

Some one gave us some of the best peaches and we have enjoyed them so much. We have also had some mighty good grapes and apples.

Miss Taylor will be back from her vacation next week. We have missed her and we hope she had a good time. Every one had had a vacation and we have had a very pleasant summer, so now we are looking forward to the opening of school.

Good bye folks, -The Wiggle

BABY COTTAGE

For once in a long time we were so that everyone could have the news right hot off the press. We will have some papers this year but not so many as before. The restrictions on news print make it impossible for the publishers to grant us the courtesy to the extent that they did before.

As we write this, we don't know whether we will have the free soap or the free cigarettes. We are afraid that the surplus of both those articles has gone to war, but there will be soap and towels and hot water for your use even though none of you may stay over Saturday night.

We hope you will enjoy everything we have. You should get a special enjoyment out of the pillows you find on your bed. It might interest you to know that these are saved for your exclusive use. We chillum here at Barium don't use 'em. We keep 'em just for you.

We have had a lot of repairs to be done, and as usual, we have tried to hurry them through to have them entirely out of the way before you come so we could look composed when you did come. It has been more than usually difficult this year. Material is scarce and hard to get, and workers still harder. Those fine college boys we used to depend on so much to help with the repair work during the summer have also gone to war.

We have very little new in the way of building to show you at this time, but we do have plans, and we hope each of you will have time to look at the things we have in mind for the immediate and the distant future.

Money is coming in in memorials for our church. We feel sure that this church will be in sight when the war is over. The money for the Children's Village has been coming in in liberal amounts, and we might say that the building of the Children's Village is assured in the near future.

The third project which we need is the gymnasium. A few donations have been made to that, but nothing like in the amounts that encourage us to think that we will have it soon. You will have to live here awhile to know how badly this building is needed. We are not attempting to burden you with our wants and needs, but we hope many of you will have time to talk a few things over with us.

God has been good to us. The friends of our state and friends elsewhere have been liberal. We feel that your knowledge and help in these matters will make us handle more wisely these gifts that God encourages his servants to send our way.

seven or eight thousand people to see this opening game. We hope we'll have at least that many this year. It will do us good; we believe it will do you good. Our opening games in Charlotte have always been interesting and all the more interesting from the number of people who fill up our side of the stadium to cheer us on. There are a lot of Presbyterians in Mecklenburg County; if you come out to see this game, you can depend on it that your family at Barium Springs will not let you down. We hope you won't let us down.

Our complete schedule follows: Sept. 15: Harding High, Charlotte. Sept. 22: Albemarle at Barium. Sept. 29: Thomasville at Barium. Oct. 6: Asheville at Asheville. Oct. 13: Concord at Concord. Oct. 27: Davidson B. at Barium. Oct. 20: Lexington at Barium. Nov. 3: Children's H. at W-Salem. Nov. 10: Salisbury at Barium. Nov. 17: Morganton at Barium. Nov. 24: Statesville at Statesville.

gives us first hand information from over a hundred of our boys and girls who are serving in the service of this great nation.

After our evening meal, the older boys and girls have a social hour and a half together. We usually have one special friend to be with at this time.

We have a very interesting and enjoyable sports' life. In the fall and winter we have basketball, football, and wrestling. In the summer we have baseball, softball, tennis, and swimming. The biggest part of every summer and the thing most looked forward to by all of us is our vacation period. Before the war most of us spent two or three happy weeks with our "home folks". This year, due to lack of transportation we all spent two weeks out at our camp on the Catawba River. This camp was given to us by the Fellowship Club of Charlotte, so we named it Camp Fellowship.

Our camp consists of two barracks, one for the boys and one for the girls, a kitchen, a dining hall, and a pavilion. We have several boats or canoes which were made here. On rainy days we eat in the dining room, but generally we eat outside. We have an outside furnace where we prepare our meals and there are tables nearby where we serve them.

Our activities at the Camp are so much fun! We have two supervised swimming periods, one in the morning and one in the afternoon; each period last two hours. During the day we go on long hikes, play games, and sleep. After our evening meal our pastor or Mr. Johnston conducts a vesper service in which interesting talks are given. Afterwards we sing or present dramatic skits, and sometimes we have visitors present us special programs. Our week at Camp Fellowship begins Monday afternoon and ends Saturday morning - a glorious week in the life of a boy and girl!

During our school year we have various parties and picnics. At the beginning of each school year the senior girls give a buffet supper welcoming the teachers home again. The boys of the senior class are also invited. The girls prepare all the food themselves and decorate the drawing room. It is always a lovely occasion, and it is looked forward to by everyone concerned. I was especially interested in it this year, because being a senior, I had a definite part in it.

Over the weekends we take long hikes and have picnics. Usually every Saturday afternoon a group of us girls and a worker hike to Statesville, a distance of five miles, go to a movie, and then hike back home again. Various groups and grades have picnics either at the spring or at Camp Fellowship where we used to spend our camp life.

On special holidays we have parties and celebrations. One of the loviest parties takes place at Christmas. All of the students, teachers, and workers are invited to the school house. In the center of our auditorium is a huge Christmas tree, beautifully decorated, and under the tree is a Christmas box for each of us. We sing Christmas carols afterwards and enjoy ourselves immensely.

In closing I will tell you of the matches made by our home graduates. Approximately eighteen couples have been married after leaving Barium. I will give as examples two couples I have in mind who represent the fine standing our graduates are making in life. One of Statesville's most ideal couples is graduated from Barium; they have a lovely family of children and they are known and loved by many people. The other couple is living here on the campus; they have a beautiful child. The happiness of their married life together is a joy to all who know them.

So you see our social life here at Barium corresponds very closely to that of an average community.

Respectfully yours,

Lillie Belle Smith

Dairy

I have the pleasure of writing to you about our dairy here at Barium.

We have sixty-five cows, thirty-three milk cows, eighteen dry cows, ten calves, two beef cows, and two bulls. The boys from Virginia Gilmer Gilmer, which numbers about thirty milk cows and takes care of the barn. Their ages are between ten and fifteen years. We have two Red Poles and the rest are Holstein. We get about eighty-five gallons of milk a day and keep it in "the cold storage" until it is ready to be used.

We by what butter we can from the farmers around here, and we also use oleomargarine that we buy from Charlotte and Statesville. The butter is brought by the farmers every Saturday morning.

We have a big barn where the cows are milked and a barn below the milk barn where they stay. There are two other barns where the dry cows and the feed stay. The rest of the dairy, about one hundred and fifty acres, is taken up by pasture land.

I hope the information which is contained in this letter is adequate for your purpose.

Respectfully yours,

Ray Lewis

Miss Mary Turner

long Miss Turner has been working with us. She came here as a student matron. Her first regular assignment was Synod Cottage, and while there, Miss Kate Taylor, another student matron, worked under her for awhile as an assistant. Later on Miss Turner moved to Lee's; then for a time she was Rumble Hall matron; now she is kitchen matron.

A more faithful, conscientious, dependable person has never worked for Barium. We wish there were a whole flock of just such people as she is to draw on for all vacancies that may arise here.

When the boys return from the fighting fronts or wherever they may be, there are two people whom they always look up - Miss Turner and Miss Taylor, and they are quite ready to admit that they owe much to these fine women.

Our hats are off to Miss Turner and our bibs tucked in, too, by the way. We salute you and praise you with every mouthful we eat.

We know that Miss Turner is human, so we don't think we had better go any further in this eulogy. If we told her what the youngsters said about her while she was away sometime ago, we know that there would be no doing with her. She would just have to get conceited. They missed her from her cottage, and they missed her from the kitchen, and there were mighty good substitutes at both places.

quite as little mice last Monday afternoon; all sitting on benches under the big tree waiting for a slice of watermelon. Mr. Whitener gave us some big ones, and they were sweet as candy. We were so busy eating we couldn't even talk and we ate every bite of it. Thank you, Mr. Whitener.

Mr. Andrews visited Clyde, Annie Marie, Idel and Carol Jean today; they are his little folks.

Mr. Thomas brought us some grapes and they are green but they are ripe, too. That's funny.

Donnie Privette was meddling in the cookie box and Dorthy Plummer saw him and told his matron. Later she said to him, Donnie, a little bird told me she saw a little boy in the cookie box. Do you know who it was?" Donnie said, "Um, um, dat bird dot some eyes!"

We're growing so fast that by the time our people get gas to see us they won't even know us.

Mr. Johnston took us to the camp yesterday in his car and as we rode along we saw corn, cotton, trees, mail boxes, a wind mill and we saw water running down the river!

We went boat riding too, and Charles Bowles stood up in the boat and said, "Gee up, hosses."

Miss Whitener is away or her vacation and we miss her. Have a good time, Miss Whitener, and hurry up and come back.

Ruby Truelove is our baby now. She was sitting on Myrtle's lap and all the little boys were trying to get close, when the least but loudest little boy pushed through and said, "Stan back, boys!" pushing them back with both hands; he put his little arms 'round her, kissed her and said, "Honey!" and little Sue Truelove was talking while riding with Mr. Johnston and said, "I'm going to blow his horn." Jerry Thomas said, uh! he wont let you." Then Susie said, "Yes, he will, 'cause he loves me."

Mr. Johnston laughed big and said, "That's what a girl can do for you!" We think some body heard that horn blow!

Come to see us and we'll be so glad, we will all try to sit on your lap, talk to you and love you all at the same time.

Clyde picked up a greased paper off the ground and Donnie Harrison said, "Put it down, dot germs on it."

Thirty Years A Servant of Barium Springs

On January 18, 1914 a young couple with one child moved to Barium Springs. For a year the man had charge of the dairy. After that, he became a kind of trouble hooter. Any job that might not appear to be anybody's particular business fell to his lot, and he has been working at that ever since. This man is J. I. Lowrance.

He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church when he came to Barium. He was immediately elected an elder here, so for thirty years, he has been an officer in Little Joe's Church. He has been the Clerk of the Session for practically all of that time.

Mr. Lowrance's title is Assistant Superintendent, which covers a multitude of duties, so many in fact that there are times that Mr. Lowrance is accused of having a poor memory. We don't think it is really a poor memory - it's just simply too many things to remember.

Three more children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance after they moved to Barium - Wilson, Fred, and Frances. The one daughter who was born before they came to Barium is now Mrs. Joe Rhyne of Jacksonville, Florida. The Rhynes have two lovely daughters who spend most of every summer at Barium. Captain Wilson Lowrance, the oldest son, is connected with a hospital unit at El Paso, Texas. Lt. Fred Lowrance was killed in the fighting in the Southwest Pacific a little more than a year ago. Frances married Bruce Parcell in 1942; his death is mentioned in another column of this paper.

The war has struck this family more deeply than any other at Barium.

Along with the honor that we wish to pay to this faithful servant and his family goes the sympathy of the entire community to him and his devoted family.

Early History of the Synod North Carolina

The history of Presbyterianism in what is now North Carolina goes back to the early days of the eighteenth century. Reverend R. C. Reed, D. D. in the history says, "Presbyterians began to settle in North Carolina at an early period, but owing to their scattered condition, and the want of preachers they gathered into organizations until far along in the eighteenth century. The materials of the first churches was mainly Scotch. Beginning with 1729 these came in increasing numbers through many years and settlements mainly along the Cape Fear River." These were Highland Scotch and the Macs who are in eastern North Carolina now are descended from them. About the same time came by way of Pennsylvania and down into the Piedmont Section of North Carolina a stream of Scotch-Irish.

The first Presbyterian minister known to have preached in North Carolina was Reverend William Robinson. Foote gives his date as about 1742. He did not settle in the state but returned to Virginia and settled there.

In 1744 we read in the minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia, "a representation was laid before the Synod of North Carolina, showing their desolate condition and petitioning that we would appoint one of our number to correspond with them."

The first minister to settle in North Carolina was Reverend James Campbell. Dr. Reed gives the date for his entrance to North Carolina as 1747. He settled on the Cape Fear and took charge of four churches near Fayetteville.

Reverend John Thompson came to this section about 1751. He settled near Center Church and preached in this community.

In the minutes of the Synod of New York we read that in 1753 that the Synod addressed a petition to the General Assembly to the Church of Scotland as follows: "There are in the colonies of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina a great number of congregations formed on the Presbyterian plan. * * * *"

There are also large settlements lately planted in various parts, particularly in North and South Carolina where multitudes are extremely anxious for the ministrations of the gospel, but who are not formed into congregations and regularly organized for lack of ministers."

In 1775 the Synod of New York formed the Presbytery of Hanover for the whole southern country which embraced North Carolina.

It was stated in the minutes of the Presbytery of New Castle in (Continued On Page Two)

The Work.

Newcomers

Introducing these nine newcomers may be a trifle late; they have already met in person most of the preachers of the North Carolina Synod and a lot of other folks besides. Just in case you don't remember their names, here is a rememberer:

Carolyn and James Garner - Second Presbyterian Church, Charlotte. Carolyn is an 8th grader, and she is catching on to things just like an old timer. James is a Jennie Gilmer boy.

Kenneth and James Jackson - from the Second Presbyterian Church, Mooresville, but at the time they entered here, they were (Continued On Page Two)

Killed In Action

Once again that dreaded telegram expressing the sympathy of the Secretary of War over the death of a soldier has been received at

Just a week before his wife received a telegram stating that he was missing in action. He was the pilot of a fighter plane, and his squadron was extremely busy during the latter part of July making possible the breakthrough of Patton's army. Every news broadcast had something to say of the effectiveness of the fighter command in the part they played in this tremendous thing. This effort was costly, and the life of this fine young man was part of the price paid in this effort.

Bruce came to Barium as an eleven year old boy on the 27th of August, 1928. He was a good student, a serious minded, friendly youngster. One of the jobs that he had as a lad was minding the sheep. Maybe he, like David of old, had time to think a lot of things out while the sheep were on their good behavior. Surely many things that he did and said in his later life bore out the fact that he thought more deeply of many things than the average boy. He graduated from Barium in 1934 and immediately went to Davidson College where he graduated in 1938. That same year he entered the army; this was long before Pearl Harbor. Bruce entered the Air Corps and later became a pilot.

His rating when he entered the army was 2nd Lieutenant. When he met his death in 1944, he was a Lt. Colonel, an average of an advancement of one rank a year.

He saw much service in this country; he rated tops as an instructor. He was careful of his men and during the latter part of his stay in the states, he was instructor in squadron maneuvers.

In March, 1944, he went to England and immediately began to see active combat. During his service he was awarded the Air Medal and Four Oak Leaf Clusters.

Many of the boys from Barium Springs are in the Air Corps. Some are navigators, mechanics, bombardiers, pilots. Bruce was the only one who piloted a fighter plane. We have heard him express satisfaction over this. He said when he (Continued On Page Two)

Home Mission Conference Was Held At Barium

By REV. J. G. GARTH.
(Charlotte Observer)

It is the writer's intention to prepare two feature articles, one on the recent meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina and one on the pre-synod home mission conference, both of which were held at Barium Springs Orphans' Home, the institution belonging to the synod which is caring for 290 children as wards of the synod, who helped to entertain both conventions, by giving up their rooms for use of the ministers and laymen for four days September 4-7.

To show their appreciation for the children and their hospitality, the members of the synod and conference contributed $346 for the children to use in their pleasures. This fund exceeded a similar gift made in 1941.

According to the secretary of the conference the attendance at that meeting was about 200.

This conference was sponsored and expenses of guests were paid by the synod's executive committee of home missions of which Dr. E. E. Gillespie, Greensboro, is superintendent. Rev. R. H. Stone, Charlotte, was secretary of the conference. The efforts of these brethren were highly appreciated and the conference thanked them and hoped they would put on another conference when the synod meets next year at Davidson college.

Dr. Gillespie had written a letter sending out a call for book donations and over 1,000 books were brought in for free distribution to the ministers and laymen. This will be an annual feature, and the books will be shelved so as to be more accessible to inspection and choice.

Victory Theme.

With victory for the Allies in the war in the air, the home mission conference program adopted "Victory" as its motif and the addresses and testimonies were all based on successes attained in the work during the past year in church extension, in city, rural and industrial areas, Negro work, evangelism, and benevolence.

The appropriateness of the theme came out in the impromptu testimonies made by workers in the various fields. We give just a sketch of these short speeches. Rev. Ralph Buchanan, Pine Hall, told of a successful meeting in his field, with 23 additions, and two Bible vacation schools. Rev. P. D. Patrick, Kings Mountain, reported a vigorous outpost at Dixon. Rev. H. R. McFadden, Pinetops, said his section had the largest birthrate in the United States, and the importance of home missions was evident there. He and Miss Rachel Hassel reported a new church in Washington county at Plymouth, which county had no Presbyterian church till the one Miss Hassell serves, which now has 23 members.

Rev. R. K. Davenport, evangelist of synod, said a mission was formed at Hollywood, near Greenville, and this mission formed an outpost which is growing faster than its parent. Rev. R. H. Stone told of the activity of Amay James, Negro (Continued On Page Two)

Rev. J. W. Hassell reported marked success in his new work in the mill section of Goldsboro, and Dr. W. C. McLaughlin said his industrial work at Burlington is quickly becoming self-supporting. Rev. I. M. Ellis, Gastonia, said the three outposts of his church were flourishing.

Karl G. Hudson related the success of work in Wake county. There was only one presbyterian church in Raleigh in 1910, with 450 members. Now there are four other churches and 2,800 Presbyterians. H. H. Littrell, Rocky Mount, told of the rapid growth of outposts near his church.

Rev. Marion Bradwell, pastor at Reynolda, was asked to describe his evangelistic work outside of his church in holding meetings, and said he held about four a year. Dr. Gillespie said 47 other pastors had done similar work, held 60 meetings, and there were 400 conversions, with 300 joining the Presbyterian church. Rev. T. B. Ruff, Old Fort, gave an exhortation on Evangelism.

Phases of Victory.

Besides the impromptu speeches, there were set addresses describing successful work in various fields. W. Erdman Love, Charlotte, a building contractor interested in chapel work, told of erecting chapels out of abandoned church buildings and school houses. He mentioned one on Beatty's Ford road called Erdman Love chapel, Avondale chapel, soon to be an organized church. South Park chapel, all in Charlotte, and Unity chapel near Polkton built from materials of the old Polkton church, which is now called the Hawley Memorial.

Rev. G. Dana Waters spoke on the Lord's Acre plan for rural churches, in which each member sets aside a portion of land, or one hour's wages for church work. It enlists all members, gives poor people a chance to do something and appeals to the people outside the church. This plan pays debts, helps get full-time pastors, increases benevolence, and develops co-operation. Proceeds ought to be dedicated in a harvest Thanksgiving service. It needs a zealous leader.

Rev. N. R. McGeachy spoke on Negro work. There are 981,000 Negroes in the state, less than half in churches, one-fifth in Sunday School. Northern Presbyterians have done more than Southern. The U.S.A. church has 132 churches in North Carolina, with 10,138 members while Southern Negro churches number three with 111 members. There are now six missions to Negroes in the state. Negro Methodists in Charlotte number 5,490, and Negro Baptists 3,946. He exhorted revival of work among Negroes. The conference asked that Mr. McGeachy's paper be mimeographed and distributed to members of the conference.

Rev. R. H. Stone, Charlotte, said the cities of North Carolina have over 27 per cent of the populations and are growing fast. The cities have 38 per cent of the church members. He spoke of several new churches in Charlotte and several in prospect. All the cities offer great opportunities.

Rev. I. M. Ellis, Gastonia, spoke of the value of music in evangelism and pointed out the need of gospel songs as well as church hymns. Mr. Ellis had charge of the music of the conference. Special music was furnished by a ministerial male quartet and a Negro girl chorus from Fairview Homes, Charlotte.

Karl Hudson, Raleigh, on behalf of W. H. Belk, Charlotte, told of the work Mr. Belk has done with his benevolence to home missions in North Carolina. He told of the J. M. Belk Fund contributed by the various department stores in the Belk Brothers chain, and how they give brick for new churches. Mr. Belk himself makes many contributions to churches and workers and his liberality has multiplied churches and members in Union county and many other places.

Addresses Heard.

The opening address of the conference was delivered by Dr. J. R. Cunningham of Davidson, who stressed the importance to the home mission cause of temperance, interracial understanding and goodwill, and a durable world peace. Dr. Cunningham said the church must be concerned with all these things. The Negro asks for economic opportunity and social justice, educational privileges and participation in a government to which he pays taxes and gives his life.

Two devotional addresses were made. Rev. Marion G. Bradwell, Reynolda, spoke of devotion to Christ, and Dr. J. A. Redhead, Charlotte, of relying on divine support and having something to stand for.

Dr. H. H. Thompson, Baton Rouge, La., the director of Evangelism for the church, pointed out the vacillating record of conversions of the whole church, and exhorted the church to advance in evangelism by holding special meetings in every church during the period chosen in March, keep a continuous program of evangelism going every Sunday, and stimulate personal work among church members. He said the Southern Presbyterians have proposed 50,000 conversions as their goal for this year.

Dr. Thompson spoke again along similar lines at synod's meeting, when Rev. M. O. Sommers, Raleigh, reported as chairman of evangelism. Mr. Sommers said conversions numbered last year in the synod 3,407, which was an increase of 25 per cent. Synod pledged Dr. Thompson its full co-operation, and set as its goal 9,500 new members by conversion this year, in the Presbyterian Evangelistic Crusade. Mission Report.

We wish to combine with this story the report made on home missions to the synod. But before we give that report, let us note the findings on the conference. This report given by Rev. T. C. Cook, Barium Springs pastor, requested the publication of Mr. McGeachy's address on the Negro Work, urged the conference to take a stand against the liquor traffic, to co-operate with Dr. Thompson in evangelism, urged multiplication of outposts and missions, expressed appreciation to the family of Rev. A. M. Earl for the donation of his library, and thanked Dr. Gillespie and Mr. Stone for the splendid program of the conference.

An exhibit furnished by Rev. O. V. Caudill, Winston-Salem, showed pictures of new church buildings and manses erected in the synod recently.

Rev. J. W. Witherspoon, Lexington, chairman of synod's home missions, presented the 56th annual report to synod. This report shows 54 workers received aid from the committee, a full-time evangelist, Rev. R. K. Davenport held 12 revivals, with 82 professions and 34 additions, and 47 pastors held 65 revivals with 400 professions and 300 additions.

Dr. Gillespie, the superintendent of home missions, has managed the home mission office which also handles the assets of home missions as well as the collections, and other funds, emergency home missions, defense service, and educational institutions, and served as a bureau for the pastor revivals. About $47,000 was paid out for home missions which includes funds reserved for future use, about $7,514. Dr. Gillespie edited and distributed 30,000 copies of Presbyterian News to 7,500 families in the synod. This office handles about $100,000 a year. Fourteen church and manse projects were aided to the amount of $4,930.

Dr. Gillespie was re-elected to his office for two years, and Rev. R. J. Davenport was re-elected evangelist for one year.

Rev. D. T. Patrick, Kings Mountain, is the new chairman of synod's home missions.

The conference adjourned at noon Tuesday in time for the synod to open the same day at 2:30 p. m.

Killed In Action

went into battle, he did not want to feel responsible for other lives than his own, that the responsibility of leading a squadron is enough without feeling that an error in judgment or a mechanical failure might cause him to be even slightly responsible for the lives of other members of his crew.

We can imagine this lad in his last battle as a brave leader, hunting out danger spots himself and protecting the other ships of his squadron whenever possible - surely a noble leader of men!

While we at Barium will never again see his face, we will cherish in our memory the high ideals and the brave deeds of this fine young man.

Bruce's mother lives at Cleveland, North Carolina. His widow and her parents live at Barium. Bruce had two sisters younger than he at Barium, two older than he who never came to Barium. These older sisters helped Bruce with his education, and he most generously helped his younger sisters with theirs. Surely we must all be better men and women for having accepted for our protection the life of this young man.

A movement was started at Synod to honor those Barium boys who have paid the full price. At this writing there are eight boys. Synod voted to perpetuate their memory in a memorial, a gymnasium and the thought behind this is not just a matter of raising money for a building, but it is in having a building here erected in memory of these boys who in years past, by their devotion and bravery, made possible the athletic developments of the young people at Barium. The things that made them good athletes here afterwards made them good soldiers.

It is hoped that in building a gymnasium to their memory, we may capture in some way this fine spirit and transmit it to their younger brothers and sisters in the years to come. Could anybody ever become a coward who is trained in a gymnasium erected to the memory of boys like Bruce? Could anyone ever be a slacker in a game, in war, or in the other affairs of life if he has passed the portals that had on them the list of names of these boys who will never come back to us?

We hope that before many years have passed this building will be erected. What could be a more fitting memorial?

living in Kannapolis. They say they like it here. From the grin on Kenneth's face, we are inclined to believe them.

David Jones - from 'way down in New Bern, a brother of Jack Jones, by the way, and he felt right at home from the first day he landed here.

The Andrews family from Kannapolis - Janie, James, Charles, and Annie. Yes, you guessed it - Janie and James are twins. All four of these youngsters came to Barium wearing a smile. They greet you with that same smile every time you are near them. They look more serious in this picture than you will ever be able to find them otherwise.

We are behind in our introductions; there are this many more whom you haven't met yet, but just keep watching. Their pictures will appear in a later issue of the Messenger.

plied by four large girls and two matrons, who keep the house clean, do the mending of their clothes and keep the children clean. When children first enter the orphanage, they are taught how to make their beds and keep their clothes in correct order. Outside of this they have no other duties to perform.

Annie Louise girls and Synod's boys are the same age, ranging from six to eight years. These children do very little in the way of work. They ake their beds, keep their clothes neat, and some of the older children help with the sweeping in their cottage. They also keep their play grounds clean by picking up paper every morning. Two large girls and one matron are in both of these cottages to perform the necessary duties.

In Howard and Lees' cottages the ages vary from nine to eleven. The Howard girls are better known as the bean stringers. Of course this gives away their occupation. They string enough beans to last the year round which is a very large quantity. They do no other work outside of keeping their own building clean. All boys at Lees' cottage work on the truck farm with the exception of about four boys who do the house cleaning. They have a matron in each one of these buildings.

Rumple Hall girls serve the tables and do the dish washing. Each girl waits on two tables, and there are seven students and one matron or teacher at each table. The Jennie Gilmer boys who are the same ages as the Rumple Hall girls work on the dairy.

Lottie Walker is the building that girls live in during their four years in high school. The boys live at the Quads. All senior girls work in the sewing room. They make clothes for all children who do not receive a clothing box, aprons for girls to work in sheets, play suits and other things that may need to be made by them. The girls in eighth, ninth, and tenth grades work in the laundry and kitchen. During the winter there are three negro women who do the washing of the clothes. We have two washers which the clothes are washed in; the girls iron after school. Two girls work at the mangle where all flat work is ironed such as pillow cases, etc. The other girls work in the kitchen. Two girls fix breakfast every morning, and the dietitian helps. The Quad boys have different kinds of work: the farm, the repair group, who fix all window lights that are broken out and build the boats which are used at the camp, and repair buildings. Two boys are on the plumbing group. I have not gone in detail and explained certain work due to the fact it is being explained as separate subjects, the dairy, the farm group, the kitchen, and the serving of the food.

I hope that this information will prove of value to you and that I have answered your question satisfactorily.

Respectfully,

Peggie Lou Buie.

School.

In answering your request for information concerning our school work, I am happy to tell you my opinion of it. We are proud of our school system here at our home, Barium; and I'm glad you made inquiries concerning this very important phase of our life.

We have two separate school buildings on our campus, one the grammar grade school, to which grades one through eight go; the other, the high school where grades from nine to twelve are included. The eighth grade is not considered the freshman class; this title goes to the ninth graders. The school is a state school with more teachers than are allotted by the State hired by the orphanage.

In the primary school there are teachers for each grade with a separate music teacher, piano teacher, and a physical education teacher, who also teaches the kindergarten.

The high school is altogether different from the grammar school. We have the State required subjects and in addition a two-year Bible course which is not required by the State but by the orphanage. The electives are third year Home Economics, Glee Club, Sociology and Economics, Basic Math, Public Speaking, World History, Geometry, and a Safety course.

The total number in both schools is two hundred and eighty-six.

I have enjoyed writing this letter, and I hope that it answers your questions.

Respectively yours,
Grace Adams.

"Yes", admitted the optimistic salesman, "business is booming. This time a year ago my order book was half empty; now it's half full."

Gloria: "Was your uncle's mind vigorous and sane up to the last?"

Harold: "I don't know. The will won't be read until tomorrow."

Has Your Candle Gone Out?

"Thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will enlighten my darkness." Psalm 18:28.

Archibald Rutledge, in his book, "Home by the River," has a chapter entitled, "It's a Dark Business," in which he tells of some of the interesting experiences he has had with the negroes. He relates a conversation he had with an old darkey who was on his way to Church. On parting company with Mr. Rutledge, the old negro said: "And now, I must go light my candle by His fire." How we do need to ponder the truths contained in that quaint remark!

Our spiritual candles have become as smoking flax. The prophecy made by one of England's statesmen on the eve of the last world war has well-nigh become fulfilled. Our churches, our social relationships, and our homes have been blacked out. The lights, physical and spiritual, have gone out, pretty much everywhere. And until we as Christians bring our candles into contact with "His fire", our world will be plunged into ever-deepening darkness.

Our candles can burn again with a bright flame. David, again and again suffered spiritual blackouts, but he was willing, again and again to have his candle rekindled from above. And God, as often as David came to Him, lighted his candle and enlightened his darkness. What God did for David, He can and will do for us. There are some things, however, that we must do ourselves.

We shall have to repent of our sins, individual and corporate. We shall have to stand with David, with the publican, and with the prodigal. We shall have to cry as they did: "Have mercy upon me, O God. Be merciful to me a sinner. Against Thee, Thee only have I sinned." Once we have sincerely uttered such a confession of sin, God will hear, He will forgive, our candles will burn again with a bright light and we shall have restored unto us the joy of His salvation.

Like the old negro, we can make our way to the House of God. Faithful attendance upon the services of the Church will keep our candles from going out. Many a Christian can trace the beginning of his spiritual decline to the day he began neglecting God's House. We can spend some time each day with God's Word. Daily meditation upon the Book that tells of Jesus the light of the world will keep our candles burning brightly. "The entrance of" God's Word "giveth light."

We can spend a while each day in prayer, and we must, if we would keep our lights burning brightly. A physical candle cannot burn without air. Prayer is the Christian's vital breath. It contains the spiritual oxygen that feeds the flame of the soul. It is no wonder that Jesus said, Men ought always to pray and not to faint. If we don't pray we shall faint. Paul discovered this truth, hence his injunction: "Pray without ceasing." Stop breathing physically and the body dies. Stop breathing spiritually and the soul dies.

Jesus, the "Light of the World" is most merciful. "A bruised reed shall He not break, and the smoking flax shall He not quench." Let us go to Him, poor smoking flax that we are, at best. Let us feel "His fire." Only thus can our lamps be trimmed and burning bright. Only thus can we shine in a world that is so desperately in need of light just now.

through the settlements of Eastern North Carolina and to Virginia. Later he came back to this state to settle as pastor in Duplin and New Hanover counties. He was received by the Presbytery of Hanover and settled in this field in 1759.

The last meeting of Hanover Presbytery held in North Carolina was at Buffalo Church in Guilford County March 7, 1770. At this meeting an overture that the Presbytery of Orange be formed was granted. On the 5th of September 1770 in Orange County at Hawfields Church the Presbytery of Orange was organized.

The first settled pastor in the western section of the state according to Dr. Foote was Dr. Alexander Craighead. He was called to Rocky River and installed there in 1758.

Other early ministers of the sections were McMordie, Donaldson, James Creswell, Henry Pattillo, David Caldwell and James Tate and others.

Dr. D. I. Craig tells us that the first meeting of a church court in the bounds of what is now the Synod of North Carolina was at "Lower Hico" Church, Person County, October 2, 1765, when the Presbytery of Hanover met there.

There was present at Center at the organizations of the Synod of the Carolinas from Orange six ministers and six elders; from South Carolina, three ministers and two elders; and from Abington, one minister; eighteen all told.

Reverend David Caldwell preached the sermon and was the moderator of this meeting.

In 1795 the Presbytery of Concord was set off from Orange by the Synod of the Carolinas and consisted of twelve ministers. The Yadkin River was made the dividing line. All east of the Yadkin comprised Orange Presbytery and all west in North Carolina belonged to Concord. The first meeting of Concord Presbytery was at Bethpage Church December 24, 1795.

In 1712 the Presbytery of Fayetteville was formed from Orange with eight ministers as members.

Not An Upset But A Disappointment.

As usual Barium Springs opened the football season with a Charlotte team in the Memorial Stadium in Charlotte on the night of September 15th.

It was a perfect night for football and should have been an even more auspicious season's opening game than it was.

The relative strength of the two teams was about as usual. Charlotte teams always have a larger student body to choose from; they usually have a week's more practice before the starting game. They have opportunities to scrimmage between schools and have access to the playing field so that, as a rule, they have some advantage over the Barium team, and Barium enters the game as the underdog.

This year for some unknown reason, the Charlotte papers and the Charlotte schools played down the strength of the Harding team and made them the underdog, conceding the victory to Barium by two or three touchdowns. We couldn't understand their reasoning, because Barium has been hit even harder by the war taking the older boys and by the younger boys enlisting, and at the present time Barium has the smallest student body of boys to get a team from and a younger group than they ever had before.

Be that as it may, a great many people believed the Charlotte papers. From the looks of the first quarter of the game, the Barium team believed it, and certainly many thousands of people in Charlotte believed it because the attendance was less than half of the number that usually sees the opening game.

Charlotte people do not like to see their teams pushed around. This is easily understandable, and they didn't care to see Barium Springs defeat Harding by three or four touchdowns as was freely predicted.

It took the first quarter of the game for the Barium team to find out that they were up against a real opponent, and finding this out was a painful procedure; it upset the Barium team to such an extent that for a while, they forgot most of the football they knew.

During the interval Harding scored two touchdowns, both touchdowns being set up by the Old Statue of Liberty play, something that we now look on as "kindergarten football". All of this happened in the first quarter, and at the end of that quarter, Harding was leading 13-0. From then on it was a real ball game. Fred Cole's punting for Barium was something beautiful to see. We didn't get the full advantage of his kicks, because they were not well covered and the runbacks were too liberal. Barium's passing offense was not so good, while Harding's would have been a credit to a midseason team.

The running plays of both teams in the early part of the game were poor except for those Statue of Liberty plays. Later on Barium picked up and the ball carrying of Earl Adams, Bennett Baldwin, Scott Blue, Fred Cole, and Gene Bounous looked good.

Harding had the weight on Barium, and they looked like they had the experience. While Harding does not have a regular coach, one of the ex-Central High coaches, Pasco Gettle, coached for that

KINGS MOUNTAIN S. S. SENDS MEMORIAL SUM TO BARIUM

The Sunday School of the Kings Mountain Presbyterian church has shown its love for its beloved superintendent, Mr. C. F. Thomasson by contributing to our Memorial Fund the sum of one hundred dollars to be added to our church building fund.

We will carry this gift in our list of Memorials in next month's Messenger.

A country preacher was informed that the congregation had voted to increase his salary $200.

"Tell those good souls," he replied, "that I cannot accept it. I have enough trouble now trying to collect my present salary."

Johnson: What's wrong? You look awfully mad.

Thompson: I am. Here I have been treating a patient for three years for yellow jaundice and now I find he's a Chinese.

After the game the students of Harding High had an open house to which the Barium team was invited and it was a delightful occasion. It was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Knox near the Harding School.

It is interesting to note how much different a boy looks wearing his social smile than he does when he is wearing his football helmet.

Barium Springs took a small cheering section, which didn't function too well; too many amateurs wanted to get in on it. Some had the desire to help, some with the desire just to have fun. The Harding side was as little organized as Barium; their school had not opened at the time of the game, and many of the student activities hadn't gotten started. One of the things was that band that always adds so much to the festivities.

Taking it all in all, it was a good start for the season, handicapped as everyone was by the late starting of school and the usual wartime inhibitions.

The police force evidently had such confidence in the two teams that it didn't show up at all, not that they were needed!

No. 1

Miss Lulie E. Andrews

Cashier - Bookkeeper and Most Capable "Handy Man."

In presenting a lady, it isn't always the best policy to be too meticulous in giving the number of years that she has worked at any particular place.

In saying something about Miss Lulie Andrews, we are torn between a desire to protect her age and still tell about her wonderful service to Barium Springs. We'll just have to break down and say that she did come here in 1925, fresh out of the Assembly's training school. She came, she saw, she conquered not only a troublesome set of books and a bank account that would sometimes get entirely too weak for its duties, but in addition she took on in such a masterful way the leadership of the Young People's Work that today can be looked on as one of the very foundation stones of our religious life at Barium.

A large part of the credit for this Young People's work goes to "Miss Lulie"; a large part of the credit for the present setup of the handling of our finances goes to her. She has to know a lot about so many things that she is probably the best informed person at Barium Springs about its multiple activities. Certainly she can tell you more quickly which pays and which does not pay—

We delight to do her honor in our paper and to present her to our friends wherever this Messenger goes.

Many of you would recognize her signature; comparatively few have met her face to face. Here she is:

The Inauguration of Reverend Malcolm MacDonald as President of Thornwell Orphanage

A lot has been written and said about the emotional strain that a father goes through on the occasion of his welcoming his firstborn, and no one has ever yet exhausted that subject.

Recently the writer was invited to attend the ceremonies having to do with some two hundred children acquiring a new father. The ceremonies were impressive; they had to do with greetings from friends in the same line of work, from neighbors, from former officials, and from the Board of Trustees, and all of this was fine.

He was told how he must raise money, how he must publicize the orphanage, and how he must administer that big financial business wisely, but we were a little disappointed. There didn't seem to be enough talk about the really important thing, and that was the business of being a father to a big family of children, to be the person to look to as their protector, as the person to see that they are never imposed upon, as the one whose activities provide them with the good things of life, the pleasures as well as the necessities. As we sat through that ceremony, we couldn't help wondering what was passing in the minds of those children during this formal introduction to their new father.

Thornwell Orphanage has been extremely fortunate in its presidents - Dr. Jacobs, Dr. Lynn, and now this new man, Mr. MacDonald. Certainly this new president has much in the path to encourage and inspire him. He has a future that is unlimited in its possibilities. He will need all his mental and spiritual resources to handle the job that he has taken on his shoulders, and we hope that he will reserve time and strength for those personal contacts with the children under his care that will mean so much in their lives and their future.

All of us who are engaged in orphanage work wonder what is in a child's mind. During these war times a good many of us are finding out. We were quite impressed sometime ago in listening to a group of old timers - boys and girls who had assembled back here as men and women; they were discussing what they remembered first about Barium. One of them stated most positively that he remembered 'way back when he came to Barium as a six-year old that the superintendent had called him by his first name when he spoke to him that first day. That feeling of comradeship on the day that he needed it so much had stuck in his mind through all the years. We are willing to bet that the superintendent didn't even remember the occasion that was so important for that child.

BARIUM 22, ALBEMARLE 18.

Sept. 22.—Barium has played her second game, and it was a thriller. It was played on Sloan Field on a beautiful day before a nice crowd of friendly fans, many of them from Albemarle.

During the game our old friend and neighbor, Bill Kirkman, came in with his Monroe boys, they being en route to Statesville to play a game that night.

We won't attempt to give you all the details of this Albemarle-Barium game; there were thrills aplenty. There was a blocked punt ending in a touchdown; there were two touchdowns from passes; there was a safety; there was some grand forward passing work on both teams. The blocked punt was recovered by Baldwin; the next touchdown Barium made was a pass - Baldwin to Adams; the last one - a pass from Baldwin to Horace Smith. There were other passes - Cole to Baldwin for a beautiful one. There was some nice running, Adams making the longest gain from scrimmage. There was some extra nice punting, Fred Cole engineering those things.

It was a grand game with both teams determined, alert, and playing good ball. We can stand a lot of games like that, and we feel all the better for having seen it and participated in it.

BARIUM 27, THOMASVILLE 0.

Sept. 29.—Barium's last September game was fine - all except the weather! It rained the entire day, all but the two hours in which the game was played. It didn't rain then, and Sloan Field was just as good as though it hadn't rained

Former Barium Girl Writes of Her Appreciation of This Home

The following article was written by Pearl Bostian (now Mrs. Frank Galyon), a member of the class of '33. After graduating from Barium, she worked for a time in Statesville, then High Point, then out on the Pacific Coast, and she has lived most of the time since then on the Coast. Right now she is taking a business course, in addition to her other duties, in Olympia, Washington while her husband is in the service. Pearl said she was practicing on her typewriter and decided to write an article about Barium. We think it is good enough to publish.

We appreciate the credit Pearl gives to Barium Springs, and we love her for saying these nice things about the old Home. We appreciate all the more the fact that when Pearl was at Barium, she didn't always have smooth sailing. She had her ups and downs, and there were times when she didn't like Barium Springs, just as it happens in the lives of so many of the youngsters here now.

She is seeing Barium as it looks when you look back on it after having seen a good deal of the world.

In a small place which isn't even on the map unless you find a very big map is a place called "HOME" for many children, some who today have grown to manhood and womanhood. This HOME in the heart of North Carolina is BARIUM SPRINGS' Orphanage.

All children, being children, do not realize how much this home means to them. It is later that they look back with pride upon this home of their childhood.

I have lived in quite a few towns from North Carolina to California. Eventually in each town the occasion arises for some one to ask, "Where is your home?" When I tell them I was raised in an orphanage in North Carolina, they get a sad look on their face and always say, "you poor kid." You should see how quickly I say, "Oh, you don't understand about orphanages. I was fortunate." No, I don't mean it is nice to have given up my Mom and Dad and all the little things that go with an individual home. Some of us don't remember that home except by the pictures we have of our parents. Don't fool yourself we would have liked to have had the pleasure of really knowing mother and dad. We would have enjoyed a home with them. When the best of life isn't possible we hope for next best. I am grateful that my mother requested I go to live at Barium if she should pass on while I was still very young.

Of course there are many children who would also like to enter this home but unfortunately there isn't room. You see most of us, including myself, get so busy with our own problems and needs we forget to think that a few dollars we could have spared would help insure the youth of tomorrow.

These small children of Barium soon grow up and after finishing school go to make a place for themselves. Since I was at Barium 14 years, these several hundred children all seem like my brothers and sisters. It sounds like a big family, doesn't it? Yet I knew each of them by name when I was there. I can still close my eyes and and picture each as she or he looked then. I often wonder how they look since they have grown up. Most of the boys now wear some kind of Uncle Sam's uniforms and are scattered all over the States and Europe. Many of the girls are nurses, WAC's and WAVE's. I can assure you that wherever they are they are doing their duty well.

There is a sad part to our story, too. Some of our boys have been wounded and one killed. We all are in deepest sympathy with Mr. Lowrance, our assistant superintendent, whose younger son Fred was killed by the Japs. I am sure many a Barium person found it hard to hold back the tears at this sad news for all of us feel as he was our own brother.

I could write on and on of the men and women of today who are playing their part in helping preserve the things we have found worth fighting for.

So many people have asked me about an orphanage. It seems many think that orphanages are to be mentioned quietly or not at all. We cannot blame them for they do not understand what an orphanage is like. I am not alone in my gratitude.

Thomasville this year is a combination of Thomasville High and the Mills Home teams, and they have plenty of good, heavy material. By Barium's good luck, they hadn't gotten together too well when they played us, and we beat them 27-0 with each member of the backfield making a touchdown and completing three of the points afterwards.

We really felt good after that game. We were a little bit ashamed of our defeat at the hands of Harding and had a suspicion that it was our luck more than our skill in winning from Albemarle, but there is no doubt about our being superior to Thomasville.

BARIUM 14, ASHEVILLE 33

Oct. 6.—"A whole lot of 'Hip' and a little hipper dipper" was too much for Barium when they went to Asheville. There is a boy on the Asheville team named Hipp; he is the nephew of our Miss Laura Gray Greene, our music teacher. She told us to look out for him when we went up there. Well, we did, but we didn't look after him soon enough, because he took the ball on the first play after the kickoff and ran sixty five yards for a touchdown and almost broke our hearts. All during the game he was in "our hair" and over the goal line a good many times. He was responsible directly for three of the touchdowns, and it was because we watched him so closely that the other touchdowns were made possible.

Be that as it may, if we can just forget that first half, we didn't look so bad. The second half was 14-7 in our favor with Bennett Baldwin making both the touchdowns but with John Ammons' long arms having a lot to do with both. Earl Adams, with his ball carrying and Fred Cole with his kicking also contributed a lot.

The next time we go to Asheville we are going to start playing the game five minutes earlier, and maybe we can change the complexion of things. Both this year and last year Asheville has started playing the game just a few minutes before we got into it, and that accounts for a good part of the scoring against us.

THE MIDGETS

Our 85's and 100's journeyed to Winston-Salem on a September 30th and played a couple of games with the Children's Home. Our 85-pounders lost 13-0; the 100-pounders tied 0-0.

On Saturday night, October 7th, our mixture of heav 85's and the light 100-pounders played a game with a similar team at Landis, and they ended up with a 6-6 score, the Landis team coming from behind and scoring in the last few minutes of the game to save themselves from a defeat.

Former Barium Girl Writes of

(Continued From Page One) fulness of being raised at Barium Springs. This point is proven by the many letters received by Mr. Johnston. I only wish every child who doesn't have parents could go there. There are many orphanages all over North Carolina and the rest of the United States which are probably as nice as Barium. We always hold dear the home of our childhood.

Let me tell you a few things about the orphanage as I remember it. I was five years old when I entered Barium. I am now thirty years old and many things have happened since leaving there. When I was there we arose at six o'clock in the morning by the ringing of a big bell. At six-thirty we all went to Rumpel Hall for breakfast. Rumpel Hall was the cottage where the girls who waited on tables lived. The entire first floor of this building was the dining room and kitchen. Each table had a matron or senior girl to sit at the head. At seven breakfast was over. We had our own school which started at eight. School was from eight until twelve for the high school students. The grammar grades went to school from one until five. The other half of the day we did the work to be done. The smaller children at Howard Cottage helped keep their cottage tidy. Then there were the girls of Rumpel Hall who waited tables and washed the dishes with the aid of a dish washing machine. The older girls at the Woman's Building did quite a few different jobs. For a few months some girls worked in the laundry, others in the kitchen and the Infirmary. A few worked in different cottages to mend clothes and other little things the smaller children couldn't do. Each cottage had a matron. We would rotate jobs so as to do every thing. When you became a senior you worked in the sewing room learning to sew. Each child received a clothing box twice a year, summer and winter. Quite a few churches and friends clothed some of the children.

In the summer we all had a vacation. Some spent two weeks with relatives and others with friends who liked to take Barium boys and girls into their home for two weeks. All who did not go to either went on a camping trip to Lake Waccamaw, Camp Fellowship or elsewhere. We were glad of the vacation but always happy to get back to Barium.

Our B team played the same night with the Landis Varsity, losing 14-0. In their game they evidently caught a habit from the Varsity's playing in the Asheville game and allowed Landis to score a touchdown in the opening kickoff; another touchdown in the quarter from a forward pass. After that, our boys did most of the ball carrying and advanced the ball many more yards than Landis did in the entire game, but none of it happened to be across the goal line, so the score ended Landis 14, Barium B, 0.

We also had a good football, basketball and track team. There wasn't a town in North Carolina that didn't know about Barium's football team. While living in Bend, Oregon, near Camp Abbot, I met a Sergeant in my husband's company from North Carolina. I asked him the name of his home town and found it to be Mt. Airy. I asked if he had heard of Barium Springs? He answered promptly, "sure, I played football against them and they had some team." He then mentioned Lester King, who happened to be a schoolmate of mine.

Our health was watched closely. We were weighed quite often and had all kinds of shots to prevent typhoid and scarlet fever and other diseases. Our meals were wholesome and we had plenty of rest and exercise. We had our own orchards, dairy, hogs and vegetables including watermelons and canteloupes.

There is so much good that could be told of Barium but that would take pages and pages of paper and even then it would be hard to express my gratitude and thankfulness for the privilege I had of being at Barium for 14 years. I shall always be proud to say I was raised at Barium Springs orphanage to any person and in any state.

Newcomers

From Mecklenburg - Jimmy Wetmore, top, Leroy Norman, next. This is the first Wetmore ever to be at Barium; it isn't the first Norman, but the other family of Norman's came in larger quantities than this; there were six of them, and there is just one of this one. Neil and Shirley Shaw from Wilmington - that's good old Presbyterian stock, in case you are interested.

A FEW FACTS

2,175 children have made Barium their HOME.
200 of these are now in the uniform of our country.
The average family of this HOME is 300.
About half are boys and half girls.
296 boys and girls are now in this HOME.

Increased cost of operation has not skipped this Home.

$125,000.00 from Presbyterians on the home front will be needed this year to operate the HOME.

The boys are taught while in this HOME:

Truck farming - general farming - poultry raising - care of livestock - dairying - printing - production of grapes and fruit - painting - carpentry - plumbing and electrical repair - canning - shoe repair.

The girls are taught while in the HOME:

Preparation of food for cooking - cooking - canning - sewing - laundry - elementary nursing - serving tables - care of young children - other domestic services - library work.

Both boys and girls attend school regularly, attend Sunday School and Church services regularly. A Christian atmosphere is thrown around them at all times. All matrons and overseers are Christian people who are active in church work, principally in Little Joe's Church.

Health Clinics are held regularly.

With an average family in this HOME of 300 children there has been but one death in the past 16 years. No serious illness or polio occurred this past year.

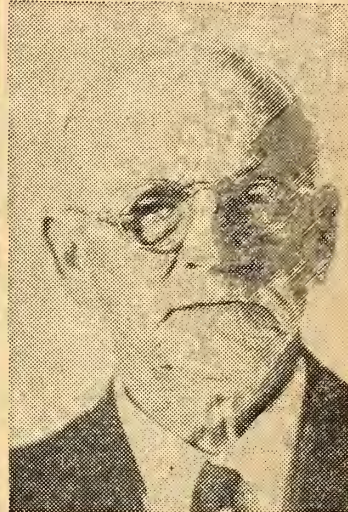

If you are a Presbyterian you have an interest in this HOME, coupled with this interest is a share of the responsibility for its operation.

THIS HOME IS COUNTING ON YOU TO DO YOUR PART

Mr. H. L. Thomas

This month we do honor to another old timer - Mr. H. L. Thomas, the man who touches our lives in more different ways than any other person at Barium. He is Postmaster, and it doesn't take much thinking to realize how very important that job is. The very life of the orphanage is, in a large measure, dependent on what comes in and what goes out in the mail. Everybody at Barium has associated Mr. Thomas with this most important part of our lives for so long that we really have begun to think that Mr. Thomas looks like Uncle Sam.

Then there is the fruit: without the constant efforts and farseeing planning of Mr. Thomas, it is doubtful if there would be very much fruit at Barium, and we know that we are particularly fortunate in this respect. We do not know of any other orphanage in this area certainly that is blessed with such a bountiful and pleasant supply of fruit.

Then the cannery: how he does it, we don't know, but Mr. Thomas has a knack of putting more different things in tin cans and making them taste good when they come out than any person we know - from canned corn to canned chicken with special emphasis on peaches and apple sauce. We live in the winter on the surplus of the summer, and does it taste good!

Ordinarily we let chickens stay in their own skins until they are transferred to ours, but this year, due to an unusual set of circumstances, Mr. Thomas has done some chicken canning with the usual marked success of our cannery.

Mr. Thomas has been at Barium a long time. He is just about the oldest settler here; he has made himself such a part of our life that it would take a lot of readjustments to replace Mr. Thomas in any part of our living. He is just a big part of Barium Springs.

Recently Mr. Elliott has come to assist him in his post office duties, and he will probably take over the entire duties of that office soon, which will mean that the fruit and the canning will just get that much more attention from that always busy, always efficient Mr. Thomas. We delight to honor this faithful, conscientious servant. At least fifteen hundred Barium boys and girls, men and women, remember him most affectionately.

Some Thanksgiving Customs of Hebrews

All three of the great feasts of the Hebrews had some significance as a harvest festival and some features of Thanksgiving. The three great feasts of the Hebrews were the Passover also known as the feast of unleavened bread, the feast of Pentecost also known as the Feast of Weeks and the feast of Tabernacle also known as the Feast of Ingatherings.

Pray Without Ceasing

Archibald Rutledge was once talking with an old negro about prayer. Among other things, the old darkey said: "less'n a man is in trouble, his prayers just ain't got no suction." He meant, I suppose, that men don't really pray until they get in trouble. There is altogether too much truth in the old darkey's statement.

I used to read a little magazine called "Your Faith" that carried each month a series of articles written by men and women who had prayed and whose prayers had been answered. Following are some of the titles of the articles: "When Death Came Close, I Prayed"; "I Prayed When I Was Drowning"; "The Ship Was On Fire and I Prayed"; "I Was On The Chain Gang and I Prayed." These people, all, did well to pray. They were in deep distress, and God has told us to call upon Him in the day of trouble, promising to hear and answer us, but all of them indicated very clearly in their articles that they had not been in the habit of praying. It had taken a time of grave crisis to drive them to their knees. One does well to pray in times of crisis. Our Lord Jesus Christ prayed during great crises in His life, and He lived a life that was characterized by daily communion with His Father. (Continued On Page Three)

"Spiritual Life" At Barium Springs

In attempting to get material, historical and otherwise, for this paper, I am embarrassed by the volume of it.

The problem is not getting material to write about but in deciding which parts to leave out, because the spiritual life of Barium permeates everything that is done here and everything that has been done here to such a degree that to discuss it to its fullest extent would be to discuss progress of each development at Barium.

From the time back in the fall of 1891 when Dr. Boyd gathered all the people at Barium to pray, following the destruction of the one building in which the orphanage family was housed until the last huddle before the last athletic conference, prayer enters into everything that we do.

Whether it is a formal church gathering or pep meeting, whether it is in preparation for some great undertaking or whether it is a group of boys and girls about to enter an athletic contest - none of these is entered into without tying it up with the Almighty in prayer.

For the first years of the orphanage Dr. Boyd and his devoted family provided religious instruction and religious leadership for the entire family at Barium. They attended the church at Troutman. You all are familiar with the outgrowth of that condition. A little (Continued On Page Two)

"Spiritual Life" At

(Continued From Page One) boy who was crippled and could not go provided the impetus that resulted in a church being built on our campus. The first pastor of that church was Rev. John Wakefield, who for a short time was Superintendent of the orphanage, also. He early realized that it was impossible to fulfill adequately the position of superintendent and pastor as well, so he took steps, together with the Board, to secure a pastor for Little Joe's Church. Rev. W. T. Walker was the man secured, but by the time he actually came, Mr. Wakefield had died, and for a time Mr. Walker was both pastor and superintendent.

Soon after this Rev. W. M. Walsh was called to the pastorate of Little Joe's Church, followed in 1915 by Rev. H. M. Parker, D. D. Both of these men were pastors of Front Street Church as well as Little Joe's Church. This meant that the preaching service was in the afternoon on Sunday, sometimes Sunday School being held in the morning and sometimes in the afternoon.

This arrangement was not too satisfactory, and we rejoiced when in 1924 we secured a full time pastor, Rev. W. C. Brown, and in just a short time thereafter, a manse was provided for him on our campus. Since that time we have enjoyed the services of a fulltime pastor, and we believe that it has paid big dividends in the religious life of the campus and community.

Mr. Brown served until 1938; since then Rev. T. C. Cook has been our pastor.

Of course in speaking of the religious life of the place, we emphasize the work of the church. There is where the work shows up, and there is where we receive members, but it is not the only religious organization.

There is the Young People's League; the Senior Young People's League was organized in 1924, and Miss Alice Alexander started out with the first organization. A year later Miss Lulie Andrews took over, and she has continued until the present time as the efficient and loyal head of the Senior Young People's work.

In the Intermediate and Junior groups Miss Mildred Moseley was the first to take a hand, and she has been followed by numbers of loyal, consecrated women. At the present time the organization is: Miss Lulie Andrews, head of the Senior group, Miss Sarah McNeill the Intermediates, and Mrs. R. S. Arrowood the Juniors.

Of equal importance with the Young People's Society is the Sunday School. Mr. S. A. Grier has been the superintendent for twenty five years. For the last fifteen years the Sunday School has been divided, and Mr. Lowrance has been the superintendent of the Intermediate and Primary Departments. This particular department has its classroom work in the Primary school building. All of the rest of the Sunday School, except the Boy's Bible Class, meets in the high school, and the entire Sunday School meets in the church for the closing exercises and church worship.

The formal religious exercises are the Sunday School and church service Sunday morning, Young People's meeting Sunday afternoon, Prayer Meeting Wednesday night. During the summer when the Young People's Leagues are not operating, there is a Sunday night service under the sponsorship of the Senior Young People's group otherwise conducted by the pastor.

In addition to these there are cottage prayers, and for a number of years there was a chapel program in the mornings following breakfast. This last mentioned program has been discontinued for several years due to the fact that breakfast has become such a haphazard and poorly attended meal. It is really one of the prices we have paid for the changeover to the state school system.

In lieu of that, there is a devotional period in the school each day, and on Sunday morning the superintendent conducts a devotional in the dining room following breakfast, which is a little more prolonged than the ordinary chapel program.

Most of the religious programs are compulsory. Membership and attendance in the Young People's leagues are not compulsory, and this gives us an indication as to the popularity of religion in the lives of the children here at Barium.

There is one matter that we have to be extremely careful about: it is so easy to assume that the observance of Christian habits and "going through the motions" of being a good church member is the same thing as a sincere, heartfelt religious conviction.

We have made mistakes along that line at Barium, and we have had some rather shocking things to happen. For instance, we had one time a president of one of the young people's groups who apparently led a very devout life; he would lead in prayer; he would devote much time to the programs, and on the surface he seemed to be a perfect leader. At the same time he was systematically stealing from anybody who accidentally left his valuables where he could get his hands on them. When confronted with this, he did not see the inconsistency of his position. He had the idea that his religious activities would in some way offset his moral delinquency.

At another time a child who led all the others in recitation of Scripture, in learning the shorter catechism, being the first to answer a Biblical question whether that question was made in Sunday School or church, was at the same time the most profane and vulgar in his ordinary conversation.

In both of these instances, the person somewhat got the idea that his religious life was entirely separate from the rest of his living, that if he behaved in church and did the things he was required to do, that that made up for everything else he might do otherwise without his even being penitent for these other things.

We have endeavored in all departments to correct this particular thinking, and this has caused us to lay less strength on the mechanics of religion and more on individual responsibility. At times this has resulted in a less perfect ritual, but we believe a much more sincere approach.

It is so easy in dealing with children to attempt to satisfy our desire for perfection by forcing the children to do certain things.

When we have visitors, for instance, it is so nice to see every child come into the church and sit down, fold his hands in his lap; then when they ask for the shorter catechism for each one to recite it perfectly, to go through the whole day's procedure in a perfect manner. The praises of the visitors are very sweet in our ears, but the situation on Monday may not be quite so happy. Anyone who knows children knows that such perfect behavior is the case only by the fear of punishment and the prompt administration of such punishment by any failure to observe these correct conventions.

In our religious life we have tried to put the responsibility on the child himself. In my own contacts with them in the class that I teach in Sunday School, attendance is voluntary. There are times when many are absent. I feel maybe I am not making the lesson interesting enough and that it is my fault more than it is theirs. I don't like to think that they would come to the class just for fear of punishment. As a rule very few of them stay away habitually, and we do have very gratifying evidences of the sincerity of their desire to attend.

Children come into the orphanage at the rate of 50 to 60 a year. In five years the turnover is usually complete; an entire new generation of children is here. At all times at least a fifth of our young people are in their first year here. Some of them have never attended church. It is interesting to watch the reactions of a child sitting through his first religious worship, to watch the expressions on the faces of many when they witness their first communion. We don't want to frighten these newcomers by the severity of our requirements, and yet we do want to endue them with reverence and at the same time with a love for things spiritual.

Sometimes a child goes for several years without getting much of this. Sometimes they go through their entire life at Barium without any apparent "inoculation" of the religion that we try so hard to teach, and yet we have evidence of the Truth that if you "bring up a child in the way he should go, when he is old, he will not depart from it."

During the past three years we have received more mail from the boys and girls who have left Barium than ever before. These are boys and girls in the service. They have spoken more of spiritual things than ever before. Some of the letters were written in the face of death, nearly all are written from faraway places in strange circumstances. In these letters these young people bared their souls in a way that they probably never would have done otherwise. We get a glimpse of just what the religious life at Barium Springs has meant to them.

I received a letter just ten days ago following a rather noisy prayer meeting. The children at this prayer meeting service were particularly boisterous. They came into the church laughing and talking, and they couldn't seem to settle down, and until the service started, it sounded more like children gathering in a place of amusement than in a church. Many of us were distressed over this levity. We felt that we weren't getting anything across to this group of children.

The next morning I received this letter; it was from a girl who twenty years ago belonged to this talkative age group. I remember the hopelessness with which I used to observe her and wondered if it would ever be possible for her to close her mouth long enough for the other children to settle down in preparation for prayer meeting or a church service. Whether it was in a school room, church, kitchen, or sewing room, that child's clatter would rise above everything else.

Now she is a settled married woman living in a large city; she is my "anchor to windward" for all the girls who go to that city to work. I refer them to her. She takes them into her home until she can find them a good, safe boarding place. She mothers them, gets them started to church and has done more for the youngsters who have gone to that city than any other one person. She herself is a constant, devout member of the church. Her children have grown up to be fine people. Somehow even though she apparently was a heedless, noisy child as a little thing, she "soaked up" something very precious that has developed in her later life and has paid big dividends.

Our boys have all been rated as being very courageous. Many have been decorated; not a one has ever been termed a coward or failed to do his duty in this great war. What is the secret of that? Surely many of them were timid little youngsters, afraid of their own shadows. How did they get to be heroes? I think a perusal of their letters will answer that question. There is something solid about their faith. They have a feeling that is sincere, that "though I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, Thy hand shall lead me and Thy right hand shall hold me".

I haven't burdened you with statistics. Little Joe's Church leads all churches in the Synod of North Carolina in professions of faith. Just nine days ago 32 stood before the altar and professed their faith in Christ and joined our church.

From the opening of the orphanage back in 1891 until the present time, 2,177 have entered Barium. Two hundred and ninety six of these children are here now. I do not know a single one over twelve years of age having left the orphanage without being a member of the church.

Were they all consistent members? No - there were a few who did just go through the motions. There are times when we think a large percentage would so classify, and then something happens to open our eyes to see how wrong we were. I believe that I can safely say that no child has ever entered the doors of this institution and stayed for a year or more without the religious life having made a definite and beneficent impression on that child's living.

As a final word in this matter, I want to mention something of our thinking in regard to the church. Back yonder thirty one years ago Little Joe's Church was built on this campus. At that time it was the best building on the campus. It dominated the other buildings here, and how the children and everyone here loved it! As time moved on, however, Barium Springs has built finer buildings, remodeled its old buildings, installed many conveniences, and now practically every building on our campus is a finer building than Little Joe's Church. As a result of this, it is difficult to keep religion on the plane that it should be here at times when our little church looks shabby and second rate. By inference some children get the idea that religion is a second rate thing in our lives. We are looking forward with keen anticipation to the day when our church building will again be the nicest, the finest and the dominating building on our campus, and we want to keep it so! We want to make sure that even though we build it just a little at a time, it is built to truly demonstrate the place that religion does occupy in our minds and hearts!

Some Thanksgiving

The second great feast was the feast of Pentecost and represented the offering of the first fruits of the wheat harvest. It was called Pentecost because it was fifty days, that is the day after seven times seven, after the waving of the offering of the first fruits of the barley harvest. The ceremonies were very similar. In fact the feast of Pentecost loaves were waved before the Lord and lambs and other offerings were sacrificed. Great crowds came to Jerusalem for all of these feasts and it was at the feast of Pentecost that under the preaching of the apostle Peter great numbers were converted and the harvest of souls in the New Testament church began.

However, the great Thanksgiving festival of the Hebrews was the feast of the Tabernacles, known as the Feasts of Ingatherings. This was a general harvest festival expressing gratitude for the harvest of the fields. It was also an anniversary of the beginning of wanderings of the children of Israel through the wilderness. There was, too, the perennial expression of gratitude for their escape from bondage in Egypt, their safe journey through the wilderness and arrival in the land of Palestine. This feast was held in early autumn late September or early October of our season; in the Jewish calendar it begin on the 14th day of Tishri. In a way it corresponds to our camp meetings in as much as every one was supposed to erect booths of brush and poles or pitch tents, during the eight days to camp out, in memory of their living in tents during the wilderness wanderings, so these little structures were erected all over Jerusalem and in the surrounding country. Jews came home from the whole known world of that time for this great thanksgiving harvest festival. We are told that larger crowds came to the feast of Tabernacle than to any other feast for the reason that the Passover occurred when the weather was still cold and the feast of Pentecost in the heat of summer so that the weather was better for the crowds in the early autumn.

The ceremonies of the feast originally consisted of meeting in the Temple, offerings upon the altar and the singing of psalms. But from time to time other features were added, so that this feast became the most colorful of the feasts at Jerusalem. The first of these was the illumination of the Temple throughout the night on the first night of the feast and at daybreak the following morning they blew a three-fold blast on the trumpet and still sounding the trumpets they marched through the court of women to the beautiful gates. Here turning around and facing toward the holy place, they repeated: "Our fathers who were in this place, they turned their backs on the sanctuary of Jerusalem, and they faced eastward for they worshiped the sun; but we, our eyes are toward Jehovah." This, of course, represented the worship of Jehovah as a light unto the world.

The water drawing festival was also an added feature. This was held every day, but we will describe the ceremonies on the last day of the feast which was the great day which included the water festival. All the people were expected to leave their booths at daybreak and as they came they each carried in their hands certain things, in the right what was known as the lulabh. This consisted of palm branch and myrtle branch and a willow branch tied together. In the left hand what they carried what was known as the ethrog a so called Paradise Apple or sometimes known as the forbidden fruit. It was species of citron. They carried these in obedience to Leviticus the 23rd chapter and 40th verse, "And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and boughs of thick trees, and the willows of the brook and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days." The multitude divided into three bands, one to make preparation in the Temple by going down below the Temple and getting green boughs, leaves and decorate the great altar and make a leafy canopy over it. Another group marched around Jerusalem in the same way as the children of Israel marched around Jericho. The other group engaged in the water festival They fell wed a priest who carried a golden pitcher holding a little over a quart, they went through the beautiful gates down the stairs to the pool of Siloam. As they went they sang antiphonally some of the songs of Zion by singing Ho Everyone that Thirsteth Come Ye to the Waters. Another quotation from the 12th chapter of Isaiah, "with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation." At the pool of Siloam the priest dipped a pitcher of water and led the way returning through the water gate into the Temple. There they were greeted with a three-fold blast of trumpets. The priest poured the water on the great altar of sacrifice. After that they chanted the great hallel and then shaking off the leaves of the branches which they held in

More Football Doings At Barium Springs

In September and October Messengers we told you about our first four football games. They were Barium 0, Harding 13; Barium 22, Albemarle 18; Barium 27, Thomasville 0; Barium 14, Asheville 33. We will now continue from that and tell you about the following games.

Barium 0, Concord 7 - it was just too much Dorton that night and although the two teams played evenly through most of the game, on one drive Concord went practically the length of the field for a touchdown. Dorton was the sparkplug for this drive. Barium gained almost as much ground during the night as Concord, but it was mostly in the middle of the field and did not pay dividends.

Barium 19, Lexington 7 - this game was played at Barium, and it was a most interesting game. Both Barium and Lexington started the season rated as two of the weaker teams of the South Piedmont. It never pays to depend too much on such rating, however, and when those two teams get together, be they weak or strong, it is an interesting game. It was a wide open gain; Barium scored two touchdowns and was leading 12-0 when Lexington scored bringing the score up 12-7. Ordinarily it is good tactics when a team is leading by only five points to play safe and not try any passes, but not Barium. That old passing combination of Baldwin and Ammons went to work, and the final score was Barium 19, Lexington 7.

The next game was played at Davidson: Barium 7, Davidson

Preacher Paragraphs

It is a grievous mistake for one to wait until trouble comes to go to his knees. We should not wait until times of crisis to think of God. We need to cultivate our prayer life until it shall have become a daily and hourly experience. Jesus said, "Men ought always to pray and not to faint." Paul called upon his hearers to "Pray without ceasing." And when we have made prayer a part of the warp and woof of our daily lives, we shall not be confronted with so many unhappy emergencies and grave crises.

We have sinned, not only as individuals in our failure to pray until faced with disaster, but also as a nation. Instead of engaging in daily earnest prayer as a nation, we have to experience Dunkerques Pearl Harbors, D-Days, before we can see the wisdom of prayer. It would seem that already there is enough gravity in the world situation to arouse us from our indifference in this matter. One wonders just what frightful crisis must arise before we shall make prayer a daily habit both as individuals and as a nation.

The world conflict in which we are engaged is not yet won by any means. Well over a hundred thousand of our very finest young men have already given "the last full measure of devotion." God alone knows how many thousands more shall have to die before hostilities shall have ceased. With all of our planning, our men, materials, and skill, we must look to God for victory. The battle is His. He could terminate the awful conflict within the next hour if His creatures were to fulfill certain conditions. One of those conditions is that they call upon Him, not just when they are in trouble, but at all times. "Lord teach us to pray."

their right hands, they departed for their homes. It must have been just as this ceremony was concluding that Jesus stood and said, "If any man is of thirst, let him come unto me and drink." John 7:37.

Freshmen 0. This was a game that Barium was supposed to lose. The Davidson Freshmen team is heavier and a little older, and they could push Barium about on the ground, but whenever they would approach pay dirt, Barium would stiffen and hold. It was late in the game before either team really had a scoring chance. It was near mid-field when Davidson attempted to pass; the pass was intercepted by Ammons who ran the ball back to the one-yard line. Two plays later he scored with a pass from Baldwin, and the extra point was made by the same route.

Barium 0, Children's Home 26 - the game was played at Winston-Salem at night in the Memorial Stadium there. The Children's Home was ripe; Barium, at times, was all thumbs. Things like that happen sometimes when one team can't do anything wrong; the other team can't do anything right. The running attack of the two Poole boys of Children's Home was too much for Barium. Four touchdowns was the margin. Remember that, everybody - we have to even things up with the Children's Home, and 1945 may be the year to do it.

November 10th, Homecoming Day with Salisbury as the opposition and many precedents were broken. Up to the playing of that particular game, Barium had won all of her home games this year, all of her daylight games, and from the time we began having Homecoming Days we had won every Homecoming event or tied it; we had not lost a Homecoming encounter. Well, Salisbury didn't know about this, and they came over and took us to the cleaners, 27-7. There was a good crowd of Homecomers here; we enjoyed the game and couldn't have lost to a nicer crowd of boys than that Salisbury bunch. An interesting thing about the team was an end playing on Salisbury named Dunham; he is the son of the official who works so many of our football and basketball games, Umpire Paul Dunham. When the game was over, we decided we had much rather have had the father here officiating than that son spoiling our offense and recovering every fumble that we made. The scoring of Barium was made Baldwin to Ammons.

Barium 28, Morganton 14 - the Barium-Morganton games are always interesting. Barium needed that game to even up a year's wins and losses, but when the game started it looked like Barium had picked the wrong team to even up with, because that big, powerful Morganton team just marched down the field as though they intended to run up a big score. Barium stopped them in time, however, and with Fred Cole's kicking and the Baldwin-Ammon passing, we managed to double the score.

And now only one more game before the end of the season - Thanksgiving Day game in Statesville.

A word or two about the Midgets - here is their record for the last two months: many of their games early in October were rained out, so there are not so many games to report as might have been. On October 31st at Barium our 85's played a tie game with Children's Home, 0-0. The 100-pounders lost to Children's Home, 0-12; on the following Monday our B team defeated Statesville's B team 2-0 by virtue of a safety. On the 4th our 100-pound team played Landis defeating them 27-7, and our B team defeated their Varsity 13-12. These games were played at Barium and were very interesting games. On the 11th everything below the B team went to Concord with the following results: the 85-pounders defeated Concord 20-0; the 85-pound reserves defeated Concord 14-0; the 100-pound team tied Concord 7-7. Then the B team in a return game with Statesville ended up in a 7-7 tie.

Smith-Linthicum

A marriage of interest to their many friends was that of Miss Janie Estelle Smith of Salisbury to Marine Thomas Linthicum who was just home from service in the Pacific. Miss Smith, who is an alumna of Presbyterian Orphans' Home was married to Marine Linthicum by her former pastor, Reverend Thomas C. Cook in the manse of Little Joe's Church. This interesting event took place after the homecoming day at Barium on November 10th, 1944.

A Wish

I'm still suffering, waiting, watching, and praying,
 And oh, how happy I would be if I were a beautiful little poet,
 And could lead the people, my God, to Thee, Yes, my God to Thee.
 If God is my refuge and Jesus my salvation, and Heaven my future home,
 Why should I stay in this wicked world to roam?
 But if there is any good I can do,
 Then, O God I'd like to stay
 And lead some people in the Heavenly way.

—C. A. Hethcox.

Some Good Advice

Brother, sister, neighbor, stranger, friend,
 Please give God your heart and hand,
 Speak the truth what'er you do,
 Pray to God, be humble, be true,
 Don't rob, cheat, steal or lie,
 If you want to go to Heaven when you die.

—C. A. Hethcox.

Newcomers

Remember these newcomers! You'll be meeting them some of these days.

The final windup of the Midget schedule took place at Barium Saturday the 18th in which four games were played. The 85-pound team defeated Concord 20-0; the 85 reserves, 12-0; the 100-pound team 0-0; the Bteam 7, Concord 21. The individual stars of these Midget teams are plentiful, and they encourage us to believe that we'll have plenty of material for the Varsity in days to come - Donald Mitchell, James Reid on the 85; Jack Mangum, Max Dellinger, Jimmy Williams on the 100; Dallas Ammons, Gene Bounous, Jack Clark and many others on the 125.

A Prayer to the Holy Spirit
 By C. A. Hethcox, Troutman, N. C.
 Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove, Be with us from Heaven above, Lead us in the straight and narrow way,
 That will take us home to Heaven some bright, beautiful and glorious day,
 We humbly pray—Amen.
 A Prayer To Jesus
 Lord Jesus, be with us through the day,
 Help us to watch, work and pray,
 And walk in the straight and narrow way,
 Bless us with more love and greater faith,
 With a little better health and a little more strength,
 And a little better eyesight, I humbly pray,
 If it is God's Holy will and his righteous way—Amen.
 A Benediction
 May God's richest blessings and forgiving love,
 Be with you from Heaven above,
 And if on this earth we meet no more,
 May we meet on that beautiful shore,
 Where parting will be no more.

Preacher Paragraphs By Rev. T. C. Cook.

I WILL

When David wrote the 116th psalm, he must have been facing the coming of another year, for in that psalm he makes five splendid resolves. As we stand upon the threshold of another year, we may well consider these five resolves of the psalmist of old.

In the second verse, and again in verses 13 and 17, David says that he will call upon the name of the Lord. God is going to be his refuge and strength. He is not going to trust the arm of flesh. He is not going to depend upon human agencies. When he prays, it will be to God. David says that he will call upon God as long as he lives. He will pray, not only when faced with difficulty, trial, temptation, danger, suffering, but prayer will become with him a daily experience. Morning, noon, and night he will pray, every day, as long as he lives. What a fine resolve for each of us as we face a new year. Let each of us during 1945 call upon our God, in sickness and in health, in prosperity and in adversity, in sorrow and in joy.

In verse nine, David makes a second splendid resolve. "I will walk," he says, "before the Lord in the land of the living." David resolves to do more than pray to the Lord. He is going to walk before the Lord. He is going to do what so many of us need to do very badly these days: practice his religion. To put it another way, he is going to practice the presence of God. He is going to live from day to day just as he would live if God were with him in bodily form. Brother Lawrence, one of the greatest saints of all time, became so by simply practicing day and day out the presence of God. Notice that David says he is going to do this, not when he gets up to heaven, not just when he goes up to the house of God, but "in the land of the living." In his home, in his daily life, wherever he happens to be, among flesh and blood people, he is going to live a consistent Christian life. Is that not what the world needs just now as badly as any other one thing? In the 13th verse, David resolves to "take the cup of salvation." There have been several interpretations of this expression, the "cup of salvation", one of which is that David is determined to more fully appropriate whatever God has for him as he seeks to experience His goodness. As David drank of the cup, he found it sometimes very bitter, but even though it was bitter, as he drank of it, he experienced growth in grace and in the knowledge of God. Again as he drank of the cup of salvation, he found it sweet and running over. It will mean much to us this coming year. (Continued On Page Two)

Season's Greetings

We Thank You!

The Thanksgiving season seems to be a very appropriate time to say "Thank you" to some of the people to whom we owe a lot of gratitude for what they have done and said and given to Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

We appreciate the interest and efforts of the Board of Regents whose names are carried in each copy of The Messenger, especially Mr. J. A. Cannon who for years was chairman of our permanent committee and conducted our Thanksgiving campaigns. In large measure the present sound financial status of the home is the result of his inspiring leadership.

We are grateful to his successor in the office of chairman, Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham, whose knowledge of publicity and organizing ability and effective work have done much to make the Thanksgiving appeal a success this year.

Mr. Hicks' efforts were ably abetted by the other members of the Permanent Committee on Orphanage work, Mr. Colon W. McLean, Washington, N. C., Albemarle Presbytery; Mr. William A. Sherrill, Salisbury, N. C., Concord Presbytery; Mr. H. M. McKeithan, Fayetteville, N. C., Fayetteville Presbytery; Mr. R. W. Bruin, Henderson, N. C., Granville Presbytery; Mr. Hugh Query, Gastonia, N. C., Kings Mountain Presbytery; Mr. Rufus A. Grier, Charlotte, N. C., Mecklenburg Presbytery; Mr. M. E. Yount, Graham, N. C., Orange Presbytery; Mr. J. B. Huntington, Wilmington, N. C., Wilmington Presbytery; Mr. R. S. Haltiwanger, Winston-Salem, N. C., Winston-Salem Presbytery. We give them our thanks.

In turn these committee members have enlisted the aid of orphanage chairmen in local churches who have been invaluable in presenting the Orphanage work. Their efforts, along with thousands of others who love Presbyterian Orphans' Home are resulting in a very fine response to the orphanage ap-

PRINT SHOP

Upon request for information on the Print Shop, I am writing you "first hand", being a member of the Print Shop crew myself.

Our Print Shop is in one of the newest buildings at Barium Springs. The building was built in 1941 for $7,000.00 by Mr. Franklin A. Sherrill of Statesville, North Carolina, in memory of his wife. The Print Shop is used only in connection with the orphanage needs; we do not do advertising from a business standpoint.

Our equipment consists of a 25 x 38 Babcock press with automatic feed, capable of approximately (Continued On Page Two) peal which bids fair to surpass even the high mark of last year. For this we are deeply grateful.

We owe a debt of gratitude also to the Sunday School superintendents who month after month, have presented the cause of the Home and received the offerings which means much to us, especially during the slack summer season. We thank, too, the faithful treasurers who regularly and carefully send in the offerings from time to time.

We remember with much gratitude the Orphanage Secretaries and members of the Woman's Auxiliaries who send substantial aid and do many thoughtful and generous things to make our children well clothed and happy and our home more home like.

To the ministers of our church we extend our many thanks that in the multitude of appeals that come from so many worthy causes they still keep their ears and hearts open to the need and appeal of the orphan child and, with all their fine consecrated influence and sacrificial giving, have supported the home since its beginning.

To all whose gifts and love and prayers are our constant joy, uplift, and inspiration—we thank you!

MISS KATE TAYLOR

Soldiers, sailors, marines, or what-have-you! The lady whom we delight to honor in this month's Messenger is well known to all of you. If there are any of our men in the service who do not know Miss Kate Taylor, it is a sign that he has been away from Barium a good many years. Not only do most of you know her, but she has had a big hand in bringing you up, and the part she has done has been well done!

Miss Kate Taylor has presided over the destiny of Synod Cottage for a good many years. Synod Cottage is the place in which from 25 to 40 boys, six to ten years old, live and move and hatch out their problems, and when we say "move" we mean "move", and when we say "hatch out" problems we are meaning a large daily output from the hatchery.

In spite of it all, Miss Taylor has retained her youthful enthusiasm and hopeful outlook. You can't be a pessimist and live near her. Miss Taylor is the only "foreigner" on our staff; she is a Scotch lady who has been in this country long enough to accept with affection and be accepted - all things American, and she still retains that Scotch sturdiness and honesty that endear her to us all. No one can ever replace Miss Taylor in our hearts!

You men in the service are better men because of her, and if you weren't so far away, we could hear your "Aye, aye, Sir" to everything we have said. We delight to honor this fine member of the Barium staff.

And Miss Taylor is a young woman!

Funeral Expenses

Dr. Byron Clark of Salisbury, has a wonderful store of anecdotes which he told in an inimitable way.

In Dr. Clark's early ministry, prior to the time he came to Salisbury, he called one evening at the home of a wealthy elder of his church, a business man, by the name of Mr. Fletcher.

They entered the library and Mr. Fletcher went on with his story. "This afternoon I was about to close my desk when a young man spoke to me and asked if I was Mr. Fletcher.

Mr. Fletcher went on to say "I closed my desk and went with the young man. He took me out to a poor tenement. We went up the creaking stairs into a hall and in a room to the right the body lay.

When I arrived home, and as dinner was being put on the table, I paced up and down the house. My wife said, 'Mr. Fletcher, what is the matter with you? Why don't you sit down and rest after your day's work?'

About a week ago your pastor wrote to Mr. Johnston, our superintendent, asking him to have a series of letters written by the older boys and girls here at Barium, telling about the different activities here on the campus.

Our work consists of many jobs of different quality and quantity. Our annual jobs are few but large. The Thanksgiving leaflets are the most important.

This work is very interesting, and we have had many boys to leave Barium Springs prepared to go to work at a good job because of the training they received in our Print Shop.

I hope that this information is adequate.

Yours truly, Paul Reid.

SPORTS

What seems to be a lot of fun among a lot of the students is playing softball in the spring of the year. We choose up and play just like the big leagues do.

Now a little about basketball, which comes around after Christmas, and lasts about three months.

Cottage News

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Since you heard from us last, lots of things have happened. We have had our football banquet, and started basketball.

We are going Christmas shopping today and we are so excited we just can't wait. Each one of us that doesn't have money gets 75 cents and the others get to take a dollar.

It won't be long before old Santa will come around, so all you girls and boys had better be good so he will bring you what you want. Anne Wilcox, Ray Powell, Patty Inman, Peggy Collins and Edna Ellis have had visits from their people.

We have two new girls in our cottage, Dorothy and Marjorie Seales. Welcome to our cottage.

We had a nice snow Monday, however the ground was wet and it didn't last long.

We played Cool Springs on our home court Tuesday, the 12th and won both games. We think we have two grand teams this year.

We will see you next month, so until then, Merry Christmas and a most joyous New Year.

LEES COTTAGE

The Lees boys are so happy, we are going Christmas shopping tomorrow. We will have a good time playing with our toys.

The truck farm boys at Lees are shelling beans, so we can plant them next year. The orchard boys are canning apple sauce for the winter.

Mr. Ervin came to see us and gave us some things to use in our rooms.

We are having lots of fun with our games at the house.

We all went to the football banquet and enjoyed it. One of our boys got a football letter, Bobby Morgan.

Cromer Curtis and Jerry Williams went to the birthday dinner in December.

We had fun playing in the snow. Bye now.

—Lees Cottage Boys.

We have both girls' and boys' basketball. Our schedule usually calls for about fifteen games with other schools around us.

Toward the last of the regular basketball season we hold a big tournament and invite around 32 teams. The tournament lasts four days, and the money we make we use to buy equipment.

Well, I have tried to give you some idea of how we play and enjoy sports, and I hope the information is satisfactory for what you will use it for.

Respectfully yours, Paul Burney.

Barium Defeated Statesville 13-7 In Final Grid Game

The last Messenger carried our football season right up to the last game, but that last game to most of you readers is the most important one of the whole season.

The game was played at Statesville on Thanksgiving afternoon. It was a beautiful day, there was a good crowd present, and the teams were evenly matched.

Shortly after that touchdown we started passing that ball around. Ammons threw a pass to Jerry Young, who picked up those feet of his and just ran faster than he ever knew he could run.

We missed another chance to score in that half in the last few minutes of the half. Ammons intercepted a pass and got the ball to the one-yard line.

In the second half the touchdown was made on the ground with Ammons finally carrying over. In this whole game while Adams' name didn't appear in the scoring, he carried the ball more times than any other person.

The final score was Barium 13, Statesville 7, and that ended the season, all but the eating.

All of us were saddened over the death of Charles Langley Purdy, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purdy of Walled Lake, Mich.

Football Banquet Held At Barium 7th of December

The Barium Springs' football banquet was held on the night of December 7th, Pearl Harbor Day by the way, and to keep our mind on the war, the dining room ma tron had arranged the tables in the shape of a B-29 with the speaker on the tail with the rest of the guests and players seated at the long table, representing the wing and the four short tables, the engine.

"Captain" Jackins was the toast master, and he handled the job splendidly. The only trouble was no one got a chance to brag on the coaches as much as they would like with one of the coaches being toastmaster.

The season's total showed six wins, five losses with the home games being the ones we like to talk about the most. They were all victories except one; that loss was with Salisbury.

The boys who were honored by their classmates were Herman Blue the best blocker; Earl Allen, the best tackler; John Ammons, the most valuable player. Herman Blue was honored by being elected Captain for 1944.

(Continued From Page One) year to drink willingly and often of the cup of salvation. And whether we find its contents bitter or sweet in the drinking of it we shall more fully experience the abundant life that comes through Him Who found the cup very bitter that night in Gethsemane, but Who nevertheless drank it, and by doing so won the victory.

In the 14th verse, and again in verse 18, David resolves to "pay unto the Lord" his vows. What a fine resolve that is. If it be true as David so clearly stated in Psalm 51, that we sin only against God then is it not equally true that when we take any worthy vow, we take it as unto God? What a marvelous transformation would take place during 1495 in all walks of life if we should all of us resolve to pay unto the Lord all of the vows we have made. There are the vows we made when we were received into the church; the vows we made when we stood before the marriage altar; the vows we made when we brought our little one for baptism; the vows we have made in our dealings with one another day after day in our respective places of business. Such a vow made and kept would usher in the kingdom.

David's last resolve in this psalm is in the 17th verse. David says he will offer to God the sacrifice of thanksgiving. He is going to be more grateful during the coming year. How badly do we all need to make such a resolve as that, one of mankind's greatest sins is that of ingratitude. Daily God showers His rich blessings upon us, and day after day we go about our selfish ways, just as though there were no God "from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift." Instead of counting our own blessings, we count the blessings of those about us. All around us are our fellow-beings, hungry for a word of thanks. God, too, is yearning for our gratitude. And unless we exercise more gratitude we shall fail to enjoy to the fullest the manifold blessings that God pours into our lives each day. As we contemplate the new year, let us meditate upon these words: resolves of the psalmist. Let us make the same resolves, and by God's grace, let us keep them.

Thanksgiving Offering Greatest In History

Mr. J. W. Ervin

The most oft repeated question at Barium Springs is not about the weather - it is, "Where is Mr. Ervin?" and the person who gets the most fan mail at Barium is Mr. John Wesley Ervin. His fan mail consists of matters like these: "Please fix the door on the dining room." "Please fix the screen on my bedroom window." "Please put in some window glass, etc."

You've guessed it - Mr. Ervin is the main repair man, and he has something to do every day for almost everybody at Barium. In addition to that, he has charge of the big repairs, and there isn't a building at Barium Springs that doesn't show evidence of his handiwork. His last and biggest job was complete renovation of the Lottie Walker Building, and you would have to have seen that building before and afterwards to appreciate the magnitude of that job. Rumpel Hall, the Infirmary, the Baby Cottage, the school building have had their "faces lifted" under Mr. Ervin's supervision.

He can "start right from scratch" and build you a building, too. About the most complicated example of this is the new mill house; there are so many gadgets and special arrangements in that mill that a

The Agnes Myers Memorial Offering

In looking over the Thanksgiving offerings from the hundreds of Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries of the Synod of North Carolina there are many that are notable and outstanding. Perhaps the casual reader would scarcely pause at the names of two churches in Wilmington Presbytery, Delgado which gave $165.33 and Topsail which gave $126.65 for the 1944 Thanksgiving offering, yet for those particular churches those amounts represent as liberal an offering as any received in this most generous year.

If we look back 19 years ago Delgado gave $17.00 for Thanksgiving. Topsail gave $24.40. That level of giving was maintained more or

Life At Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

For several months we have been carrying a series of letters written by members of last year's Senior Class in answer to questions sent in by members of a young people's organization. The letters herewith on Discipline and Health are the last of the series.

DISCIPLINE

It is my purpose in this letter to answer questions concerning discipline here at the institution.

In high school we are punished by having to come back to school on Saturday afternoon from two to four o'clock. The reason for this is that every person has a special job to do after school until supper and if he is kept in after school, it really lets him out of some other work. The teacher who is punishing sets the amount of time the pupils are to stay but it can't be over two hours. Whoever comes back on Saturdays cannot expect to get a good grade on deportment. The grammar school pupils are punished by staying extra time in the afternoons, writing compositions, or any number of things the teacher may choose.

Preacher Paragraphs

GOD'S OTHER SHEEP

Jesus, the Good Shepherd, one day spoke words that should forever put us straight concerning the proper attitude to take regarding the great Foreign Mission task of the Church. Said Jesus, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also I must bring." We cannot take seriously these words of our Lord and not believe in Foreign Missions. Many (all too many within the Church) have either never heard Christ's words, or having heard, have never considered them seriously.

From ten to thirty per cent of our people (Church members) hold to an attitude of complete indifference. A large proportion accept Missions along with everything else as a matter of course manifesting no zeal. A third group exercises an attitude of uncertainty, finding it difficult to make up their minds. A fourth group is very frankly opposed to Foreign Missions. They are like the man who wrote across the back of every check he placed in the collection plate the words: "Not one cent for Foreign Missions." Finally, there are those, and I believe they are in the majority, who not only believe in

Bond Funds For Church Still Climbing

In the January, 1944, issue of The Messenger, Mr. Milton wrote, "On January 17th, the maturity value of bonds in the possession for a proposed church and educational building of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home was $26,100.00 and $68.55 of cash on hand."

In the year since those words were written the Memorial Funds have had a phenomenal growth. Today we can report that the maturity value of our Memorial Bonds is $44,675.00, being an increase in maturity value in one year's time of $18,575.00. The actual value of our Memorial Bonds is $33,279.95.

The increase in this fund was greatly accelerated by two very generous memorials placed here

Concord Presbytery Met In Little Joe's Church In January

Churches Have Already Passed Peak of $64,838.34 Which Was Given In 1943

Again this year the Presbyterians of North Carolina have surpassed the great offering of the previous year. The offering of the 1943 Thanksgiving was an all time high for this institution. Already that fine record has been broken. Last year on April 17th when the books were closed the Thanksgiving Offering from the churches stood at $64,838.34. As we go to press the amount received to date on the 1944 Thanksgiving Offering is $66,572.11, this is

First Consideration

We probably, some of us at least, need to recall that a weakness among us these days is to build fine, well-equipped houses and make things very showy and attractive while we are not giving sufficient attention to child psychology and all the things that go with its study. We do not make the charge that it is the weakness of our day, but we will boldly say that it is a weakness. There is a great temptation to put emphasis upon numbers. There is also the temptation of counting buildings and talking about the physical

We had so many things in last month's Messenger that the football picture was crowded. Here it is - take a good look at these boys' pictures. They did manful work for Barium last fall, and they enabled us to walk around with our chins a little higher and our shoulders a little further back than would otherwise have been the case. They earned some remarkable victories and all in all made a season's record not to be ashamed of.

Boys from this same group are carrying on into basketball, and up to the present time they have lost only two games. They have won victories; their record is just a trifle better than the girls'.

Without attempting to write about the individual games, the basketball scores are as follows:

plant. So much is said about the receipts—that they are larger this year than last and that last year they were larger than the year before.

Then we are inclined to run about the country and flit from place to place seeking publicity and, in this way, pushing the work. Many things come in to take time and strength while the great problem of giving the child better training is pushed off for a more favorable opportunity. Few of us are giving the time that we should to conferences in which the children and their difficulties are discussed. It would be interesting to know how many of our Orphanages are having weekly, or even monthly, meetings in which the staff gathers together to give joint discussion to problems of the children. But ought the child be put off for anything? Ought not we to be making constant effort to understand each child and especially the difficult child so that we may be worth more to him? How many a little fellow is discouraged and needs encouragement? How many lack the personal touch and the vital, living friendship of an older person? The child is the main thing. A building is a small thing. Every building is erected for the good of the child and for his service. The child comes first. The institution is organized for his benefit. It is for him that we solicit funds.

Let us examine our hearts and ask whether we are giving the child first place. If we are neglecting him or pushing him off for any cause, we might as well admit that our efforts are vain. The study of the individual child should stir our united efforts. What is good for the child? What was the institution built for? What is all our income meant to do? Let's get down to the fact in the case. The child is the first consideration—The Connie Maxwell.

Cottage discipline is very different from that of school. Children from ages two to eleven are sent to bed early, spanked, made to sit or stand in the corner, and do extra work. Ages twelve to eighteen are given extra work to do, kept from the show or town, and if they do something very against the rules several times like going to town or riding without permission they are sent away from the institution.

Although there is not much need for discipline, especially among the high school pupils, when we are punished we usually see the need of it.

Thank you for your interest in the orphanage, and hope that I have answered all the questions you wanted to know.

Yours respectfully,

Mary Alice Stevens.

HEALTH

I am going to try to give you the general facts about the health of our Barium family.

When the children are sick, they are taken to the infirmary, where they are cared for until they are well again. Our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, is a graduate nurse. Our doctor does not live on the campus, but in Statesville which is five miles from Barium. Dr. Herman is considered as our doctor and can be had at a very short notice if needed. All our operations are performed at Davis Hospital.

Each child is examined every year by Dr. Herman, and also his teeth are checked by the dentist who comes to our campus and remains several days. At certain times during the year we are vaccinated for typhoid and given the test for tuberculosis.

To keep us from having so many colds, during the winter, Mr. Johnston has placed on each table in the dining room cod liver oil vitamin pills, which may be taken three times a day.

The general health of our family is excellent; seldom do we have any absence from school. Very few of the alumni of our home have been rejected on account of health by the medical staff of the U. S. Army.

There are five girls at the infirmary who help with the cleaning up. Food for the patients is cooked in the building.

I have enjoyed writing you this information. We hope you can visit our home here sometime.

Respectfully yours,
Martha Price.

during the Thanksgiving season. One for $1,500.00 by Mr. Jack Wagner and Mrs. A. W. Barringer in memory of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Turner. Another from Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Barringer in amount of $500.00 was given in memory of Mr. W. M. Barringer.

As this fund steadily grows it brings nearer to realization the dream of a worshipful, beautiful church here that will put the Church back where it belongs in the position of the most beautiful and the best appointed building on the campus of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

less until the Thanksgiving of 1943 when Delgado which had given $13.00 in 1942 gave $137.00 in 1943, and Topsail that had given $83.00 in 1942, gave $125.00 in 1943.

We have been informed that this wonderful development was the result of the work of the pastor's wife, Mrs. C. C. Myers. Mrs. Myers began in her class of boys the keeping of a little bank. This was done in each church. The banks were little dime store banks. During the year the banks were on hand each Sunday. They were opened the last Sunday before Christmas, and great was the interest and enthusiasm of the boys of the class when at last the banks were opened and the money counted. Such enthusiasm is contagious. The other classes of the Sunday School adopted the same method with the phenomenal results mentioned above. Now we are told all the members of the Sunday School eagerly await the opening of the banks on the last Sunday before Christmas.

Mrs. Myers has passed on. At the request of the Sunday School this offering is called the Agnes Myers Memorial Thanksgiving Offering.

grain of wheat hardly realizes when it ceases to be wheat and becomes part of a tasty sackful of cow feed.

Mr. Ervin knows where to get every article that is needed in keeping up the property at Barium. He knows where to locate the men with the special skills to do the work that has to be done - be he painter, tinsmith, millwright, or what-have-you.

One of the constant jobs which peeks up on rainy days is keeping furniture in condition, and Mr. Ervin's shop does a mighty good job in this line. We have added a new tool here and there until his shop has developed into quite an enterprise, although architecturally it doesn't look like anything at all. It has just "grew up", so to speak.

Mr. Ervin looks after the lawns, which means keeping up two power mowing machines, and keeping these machines operating with boys who insist on each one finding out what makes these machines run. You can guess how these investigations often turn out. These and the other headaches to which a trouble shooter is heir have not caused Mr. Ervin's hair to turn gray, but it has caused a good deal of it to leave him. The expression on his face, however, hasn't suffered. He can still laugh and is pretty good company.

One of Mr. Ervin's special charges is the football field, and somehow, through his ministrations, it gets more beautiful every year.

Mr. Ervin hasn't been connected with Barium so long as some of the real old timers, but he has been here long enough to become part of the institution, and the place is better because of Mr. Ervin.

We have hopes that, no matter how good he is now, he will get better during the years because he has a father living with him who has seen many more summers than Mr. Ervin; in fact, his birthdays are so numerous that he can now brag about them, but he still retains his zest in living and is the most consistent and constant football and basketball fan in the neighborhood.

The more young Mr. Ervin grows like his father, the more we like him, and we like him a lot already!

Concord Presbytery

ter the thirty sixth verse through the eleventh chapter and first verse. As Dr. Pritchett was the retiring moderator his successor who was chosen by acclamation was Reverend Thomas H. Spence who is the curator of the Presbyterian Foundation at Montreat.

The Presbytery was delighted to receive at this time Dr. Roy E. Hoke from Davidson College; also Reverend Robert Turner who comes to us as the new Executive Secretary was received from Mecklenburg Presbytery where he has been the very popular pastor of the Monroe Church. Mr. Turner is familiarly known to the young people of our Presbytery as "Pop" Turner as he had charge of our young people's work and our conferences for some years while he was pastor of the Bethpage Church. We are glad for him to return to our Presbytery. The other new comer in our Presbytery is Reverend John H. McKinnon who comes from Maxton Church to be the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Concord.

We were sorry to lose our veteran presbyter who at one time was superintendent of Home Missions in the Presbytery, Dr. J. E. Flow. Dr. Flow, who is now supplying churches in Abingdon Presbytery asked for a certificate of transfer to that Presbytery and this certificate was granted with much reluctance.

Dr. W. C. McLaughlin, now serving a church in Burlington, N. C., spoke at Presbytery in connection with the Foreign Mission report and his topic was "The Place of The Church In The World of Today." Dr. McLaughlin, from his long experience as a minister in China was well qualified to give us a very illuminating study of the mission and opportunity of the church in the world crisis and in the days to come. Another item which always elicits much interest is the election of the Commissioners of the General Assembly. The next meeting of the General Assembly will be in Montreat, North Carolina on the 24th day of May, 1945 at 7:30 P. M.

Our Commissioners for this Assembly were elected as follows: Principals: Ministers, N. E. Oplinger, W. L. Lingle, W. B. Heyward, C. H. McLeod—Elders, Wilson Warlick, J. T. Pritchett, J. C. Query, J. W. Taylor—Alternates: Ministers, J. K. Parker, J. T. Barham, George M. Wilcox, B. B. Shankel—Elders, C. F. Thomason, J. H. Shuford, Walter Bobbitt, W. F. Ramseur, Reverend J. T. Barham, the successful pastor of the Poplar Tent Church was nominated as moderator for the meeting of the Presbytery which will be held at the Concord Church, Loray, N. C. on April 10th. Members of Presbytery enjoyed a very delightful dinner served by the folks here at Barium. As the meal was being concluded, Presbytery adopted the following resolution of thanks which was read by Dr. A. A. McLean, "Concord Presbytery, hereby expresses its appreciation of the privilege of meeting in the Barium Springs community. It is always a help and inspiration to be here, to have a meal in the dining room, and to associate with the boys and girls. We thank you most heartily for the entertainment."

There were 32 ministers and 32 elders representing churches present. Altogether it was a most delightful occasion.

Foreign Missions, but who are enthusiastic about it, and who not only pray for, but support, and oftentimes, either go themselves, or send their sons and daughters.

Christ has forever put us right on the Foreign Mission question. He would have us know that the "field is the world"; that all men everywhere need to be told the good tidings of Jesus and His love. You will notice Jesus said, "them also I must bring." Why did He put it that way? If we can find a satisfactory answer to that question, we shall have found a way out of any indifference or opposition we may have acquired regarding Foreign Missions.

Jesus, to begin with, had a full realization of the urgency of Missions. Statistics show that Christianity is not gaining upon heathenism, but that heathenism is gaining upon Christianity. The earth's population now is about 2,000,000,000. More than a billion of these are heathen, and according to the experts, they are increasing faster by natural propagation than the Church by spiritual regeneration. We must remember also that the heathen are not only fast coming into the world, but that they are fast going out. Since Christ was here, about 65 generations of the earth's inhabitants including countless numbers of heathen, have passed away. In China alone over 12 million heathen die every year. In the world at large fully 35 millions of those who have never heard of Christ pass out yearly into eternity. In the light of these facts is it any wonder that Christ realized the urgency of Missions? Do we need to wonder that Paul cried, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel"?

Jesus also realized the necessity of Missions. Jesus believed that the world needed Him and what He through His Church could give. He knew man's need for God, for freedom from guilt and the power of sin; assurance of future existence. Jesus knew that there was "none other name given under heaven among men whereby men might be saved." Jesus knew there could be no compromise with the other religions; that one could not take the best the non-Christian religions had to offer, patch them up, and let them serve as a substitute for His Gospel. And history's verdict has shown Christ to have been eternally right.

Furthermore, Christ's honor was at stake. He had predicted one fold and one shepherd. To keep His word, He had to bring those other sheep into His fold.

So firmly did Jesus believe in the ultimate success of the Missionary enterprise, He gave His life. His followers through the ages, since He died have also believed, and have also died.

The list is too long to be printed. One must however mention a few. There were His immediate disciples. There were early Church fathers, many of whom suffered torture and martyrdom. Standing out in the long procession of faithful soldiers of the cross are men like Paton, Judson, Martyn, Borden, Keith-Falconer, Livingstone, the Stams, and our own Vinson.

Present conditions make it difficult to believe in the ultimate triumph of Missions: More than a billion still out of Christ; millions here at home not members of any church; crime on the increase; the war and all the dozens of other evils that raise their ugly heads on every side.

But we can believe. Christ says "yes." We have the assurance of prophecy; the assurance of the Christian conviction; and the assurance of history.

God help us all to realize as did Christ the urgency, the need, the uniqueness of Missions. God give us bright hope. God help us to pray, to give, to go. God hasten that glad day when we can sing, not Jesus shall reign, but rather doth reign where'er the sun does his successive journeys run.

An American "soldier now in Northern Ireland is said to have written home:

"Dear Dad: Gue$$ what I need most of all. That's right. $end it along. Be$t wi$he$. Your $on, Tom."

The father replied: "Dear Tom: Nothing ever happens here. Write us aNother letter aNon. NOW we have to say good-bye."

Annual Health Clinic Held Here In January

As usual, we held our health clinic during the Christmas holidays and early in January. Every child was weighed up and measured just prior to Christmas. The Count Health Department made the tubercular test for all new children that had come in since January 1, 1944.

Of this number there were a very small percentage of re-actors. They and the re-actors of former years were further checked over by Dr. Skeen and for the first time in a number of years we were given a completely clean bill of health. Not a single child has even the mildest of childhood type of tuberculosis.

We just have to stop and moralize a little bit. Back yonder in 1926 when we started these clinics there were nearly one hundred re-actors and thirty-nine active cases of tuberculosis. Five were so ill that they had to spend some time in the Sanatorium.

The second week in January we really got down to business. Dr. Herman and Dr. Skeen together finished the job in short order. They discovered seventeen folks needing tonsilectomy - there was about an equal number of minor operations, all in all a smaller number than we usually have. Only one serious physical condition was located. One little girl was found to have a heart somewhat damaged from rheumatic fever. The doctors shake their heads over this, but our experience in the past has been that a prolonged rest in bed and careful attention results in good recovery. This particular child is such a good patient that we feel that she will make a good recovery.

Fifteen of the seventeen operations for bad tonsils have been performed. The clear weather in January was a Godsend in this particular.

You know, we have begun to expect something unusual happening when these tonsil operations commence. One year we were right in the midst of it when a flue epidemic hit the country so hard that we were afraid to continue.

As it turned out we did not have a single case of flue here, but the air was so full of it that the doctors [Continued On Page Two]

Mrs. Mary McNatt

In past issues of The Messenger we have paid tribute to Mr. Grier and to Mr. Ervin. If anything gets wrong here with your light, water or heat you send for Mr. Grier. If a window gets knocked out, or a door out of fix, or a gutter stopped up, we send for Mr. Ervin.

Now, if anything gets wrong with you, if you run a temperature, stump your toe, have the toothache, you run to Mrs. McNatt. She is the trouble shooter for bodily ills and ailments at Barium, and does she know her stuff! Mrs. McNatt came to Barium about nine years ago. At first she was substitute at Annie Louise Cottage for Miss McGoogan who was ill, and after Miss McGoogan's death she was matron there for a year. Then she succeeded Miss Una Moore as nurse in the Infirmary, and the full responsibility for the health of the Barium family was placed in her hands.

And she has carried on most acceptably during the years since then. A daily procession goes to the infirmary. Real pains and imaginary pains. Symptoms that seem dangerous and are not. Symptoms that seem commonplace and are dangerous. All come under her attention. She has a most amazing faculty of being able to distinguish the serious from the trivial, and to take the necessary steps. So well has she managed that during the years of her stay at our [Continued On Page Two]

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

ARE YOU A DETACHED CHRISTIAN?

Read carefully the printed matter on the little folder that contains your gas ration coupons, and you will find a list of important suggestions. Suggestion number three says: "Detached coupons are void." That simply means, "Not good if detached." That is a truth of wide application. It is true of inanimate things.

Men used to wear old-fashioned, detachable collars that were no good whatever when detached. Coat buttons, no matter how beautiful, are no good if detached. An automobile wheel is no good if detached. This truth applies to people also.

A soldier, no matter how brave he is, is no good to his outfit, if detached. A detached teacher, no matter how many degrees and certificates she holds, is no good to her school. A detached quarterback, no matter if he is All-American, is no good to his team. One could go on indefinitely.

Let us consider for a moment the "detached Christian." In two general ways, he is no good. To begin with, he is no good to his Church. His Church may be ever so well organized. Its minister; its choir; its leaders; its teachers; its building - everything may be of the very best, but if he remains [Continued On Page Two]

Killed In Action

EUGENE THOMAS WHITENER

Our community at Barium is made up of one big family and a lot of little families. The big family is the children that are in the Orphanage; the little families all grow up together and there is no difference in their affections for each other. "Little" Gene Thomas Whitener, the grandson of our orchard man and postmaster, grew up at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Dick Whitener and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, and all over Barium Springs. Everyone knew him, and everyone loved him. He had a smile for everybody and a willingness to help in anything which endeared him to all who knew him. He did not go to the Barium schools, but went with his younger sisters to Troutman. The rest of the day when he was not in school, he was usually following his grandfather around, or playing tennis, or something else. Suddenly Gene grew up. One day he was a little fat smiling boy, the next day he was a graduate of the High School and almost old enough to be inducted into the Army. He worked for a time in Charlotte and then at Uncle Sam's call entered the service. His training was in a Tank Destroyer company and he was quickly sent overseas, first to England and then in to Belgium. He was probably seeing his first active duty when he was killed.

His family received a message that he was missing in action and then a few days later the dread telegram came saying that he was dead. This was one of the many casualties caused by Von Runsted's break-through which was so disastrous for our Army. Gene's death makes the fourth of those from the little families at Barium.

It is hard to become reconciled to the thought that this young man, facing life in such a wholesome, hopeful manner should have been cut down so early. He has four sisters and a little brother. They with his parents and grandparents mourn his passing.

Pvt. Whitener was a graduate of Troutman High school in 1942. He was a former employee of the Air Reduction Company in Charlotte and entered service December 31, 1943. He took his basic training in Camp Hood, Texas, and was later transferred to Camp Bowie for more training. Pfc. Whitener went overseas in October 1944.

Resume of Barium Basketball Season

From the number of inquiries that we get there are still a lot of people interested in Barium basketball. Here's what has happened since the last issue of The Messenger.

On January 16, our teams journeyed to Winston-Salem and lost two games to the Children's Home in what was a rather unhappy night for both teams. The trouble was no referee showed up and after three-quarters of an hour wait, Mr. Clary volunteered to referee the girls' game. It ended 37-20 in favor of Children's Home. Then after another three quarter of an hour wait the boys' game took place with the Children's Home winning 32-26. Neither team played their best, but the Children's Home teams were certainly superior that night. Then on January 19 we went to Concord. Their Girls, undefeated in the conference, defeated us 30-17. We defeated the boys 41-28. On the 23rd Thomasville played at Barium - our girls won 24-14; our boys 48-34. On the 26th, we took a breather, playing outside of the conference. Our girls defeated Harmony 28-19; our boys were defeated 36-32. On the 30th, Concord here defeated our girls 27-24; our boys defeated Concord 45-21. On Thursday night, February 1st, Children's Home here defeated our girls 40-29, but our boys defeated them 41-28. The next night we journeyed to Lexington. Now Lexington did not have a girls' team at the beginning of the season but they do have one [Continued On Page Three]

Annual Tournament Growing Each Year

The 1945 Mid-Piedmont Tournament took place according to schedule on February 15th and ended up February 19th. We had to turn down more teams than usual this year - some thirteen - and some of those were our neighbors who hadn't missed a tournament in years. It looks like somebody is going to have to build us a Gymnasium so that we can take care of these extra teams that want to get in.

The games started off in high gear with the girls division resulting as follows: Stanley beat Davidson; Troutman beat Long Creek; China Grove beat Harmony; Sherrill's Ford beat Cool Springs; Scotts beat Mount Ulla; Union Grove beat Huntersville and Catawba beat Cornelius. In the boys division China Grove beat Long Creek; Landis beat Cornelius; Stanley beat Ball's Creek; Union Grove beat Huntersville; Harmony beat Davidson; Catawba beat Cool Springs; Scotts beat West Yadkin; Sherrill's Ford beat Mount Ulla.

We won't attempt to give you all of the details. The games on the second day were very close. Strange to say, the semi-finals on Saturday were not so close, but when it got to the finals on Monday night it was anybody's game up to the last minute. In the girls game Union Grove coached by Mr. Homer Keever tangled with Sherrill's Ford and the score at the end of the fourth period was 39-39. In the extra period of three min- [Continued On Page Three]

INFIRMARY

We have sent up all our tonsil patients and now we have three baby boys and a older girl visiting us.

Lucile Smith, one of our girls, has made the honor roll for the last two months and seems to be keeping up the good work.

Mrs. McNatt, the nurse was sick for a few days and her daughter, Mrs. Smith, took care of our patients for us while she was sick. We are glad to report that she seems better now.

Our former principal, Mr. Calhoun, was here one day last week and it looks as if the army still agrees with him.

Mary Belle Reid, one of our girls, had a visit from a sailor and of course every one knew who he was. She seems to be mighty happy over something.

Well we will have to sign off now and go to school.

Bye and good luck until next time.

—The Little Nurses, and Buddy (the baby).

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello, folks! This is the Howard Cottage news of the month.

It snowed and we made a snow man and put some clothes on him and we had a good time fixing him too.

We had four games yesterday and won all of them.

We are going to have a tournament next week and hope we have a big crowd.

One of our girls have been at the Infirmary for a good while. We hope she will soon come up. Six of our girls had their tonsils removed and we sure did miss them.

Nancy Stafford Pate came to see us. She brought her little boy and we sure did enjoy playing with him.

Jackie Porterfield's aunt came to us and gave Jackie a birthday party, and we all had ice cream and cake.

We sure do thank Mr. Sams for the show tickets. We have been to some real good shows.

This is all for this time. Will see you next month.

—Helen and Sylvia.

BABY COTTAGE

It has been a long time since we've chatted with our friends and we are so glad to see you again.

Some of our people have been to see us since then and we will try to spell their names - we get the letters all jumbled up.

When Donnie Privette saw his daddy coming his heels made you think of the tigers turning so fast they all went to butter.

Billy Harrison is all in a wad, but so sweet—when he tries to run he falls over himself, and says "I falled down," and starts off again, he always gets there.

When Jimmie Harrison's mother came he made one little leap and

Our community was saddened to learn of the death on December 6th, 1944, of our friend and former pastor, Reverend W. C. Brown. Mr. Brown had been in failing health since he left here in 1937 and made his home in Raeford, North Carolina until the time of his death.

Mr. Brown was born in Carthage, North Carolina, March 8, 1867. He is a graduate of Davidson College, class of '93 and took his B. D. degree from Union Theological Seminary in 1896. His first pastorate was in Concord Presbytery when he came to the work at Concord and New Salem Church. Also during his pastorate there he supplied Front Street Church in Statesville and Clo Church for a time. In 1907 he left Concord Presbytery and went to Raeford, N. C. as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Raeford. He remained there from 1907 through 1924 as their beloved pastor.

In 1924 he came to Barium Springs as the first full time pastor of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. He brought his broad charity and wide experience and mature study to the work here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. His benign and fatherly presence were great blessings and benediction to the Home until he was forced to retire from ill health in 1937.

His wife preceded him in death as she passed away in 1942 on June 28th. Mr. Brown is survived by a son, Mr. Lamont Brown of Alexandria, Virginia, by a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Reagans of Kingsport, Tennessee; by a step-son, Dr. John Adams; and also a stepdaughter, Mrs. Robert A. Collier of Statesville, N. C.

she caught him right in her arms, but she was close by. You know his legs are not very long yet.

Little Ruth Shepherd's little blue eyes were like stars when her folks came.

Every one wants a curl from Ruby Truelove's pretty brown ones, but she shakes her little head "No."

We have four babies now, and one more pretty little one to come from the Infirmary soon.

When little Donnie Harrison came up from the Infirmary where he went to leave his cold with Mrs. McNatt, he said, "Mommie, I've turned back home."

"Where did you come from, baby dear?"

"Out of the every where into here."

We have seven little girls and twelve little boys.

"I took a piece of living clay, And gently formed it day by day, And molded with my power and art A young child's soft and yielding heart.

I came again when years were gone,

It was a man I looked upon, He still that early impress bore,

And I could change him nevermore.

Mr. Johnston came one day and took us to ride in his car and gave us all some ice cream. He always has room in that car for one more.

Mrs. John White Moore came from Mooresville last Sunday and brought us some pretty valentine cakes - all heart shaped and sprinkled with pretty red - looked like sugar and tasted like it too. And some little animal cakes and candy in little valentine napkins tied up with little red bows - and a little paper saucer inside - we almost ate that, too. Circle No. 8 and No. 2 from Mooresville First church sent them. Thank you so very much for them. We went to walk after rest hour and ate them.

So many of our friends thought of us at Christmas time and all times, we wish to thank you now. —The babies.

FARM NEWS

We believe that this Messenger goes into the hands of many people who live on the farm. Some of you are old timers who used to have to get up early in the morning and push your team hard to get anything like two acres of land ploughed in a day. Well, that's the way the writer was raised. Back in the days when I was a farmer boy, we were nervous in the summer time until we got all the wheat land broken, and then we were nervous in the winter until all the plowing for corn was done - if we didn't get this red land broken in time to have a few freezes on it we were destined to wrestle with clods all summer long.

Well, we had trouble here this year - the ground got too wet around about Thanksgiving Day and we couldn't get all of our wheat sowed. The first time the land was dry enough to plow was Monday, the twenty-ninth of January, getting late, and we had a little more than 150 acres to break - just figure out how many teams that would take. I am writing this article on the second day of February, just five days after that first dry day, and all of the land is broken. Three tractors and four teams did the job, and it is done better than in the old days when we had to depend on a plodding team for this work. The weather man has been good to us, giving us clear weather all week, and it has been cold enough at night to freeze those clods so they won't bother us this summer.

MUSIC CLUB

The Barium Springs Music Club held its last meeting December the eighth at which all members were present.

The following took part: Hannah Price, Jackie Porterfield, Shirley Thomas, Jimmy Hayes, Lavana Morrison, Miss Greene, Shirley Inman, Louise Campbell, Patty Inman, Ernestine Baldwin, Anne Pope, Sadie Grey Buie, Peggy Neel, Myrtle Rushing, Dixie Lee Buie and a reading by Dewey Belle Buie.

Mrs. George Neel was the invited guest at this meeting and we were all delighted to have her.

At the close of the program the pupils presented to Miss Greene a selected box of stationary as a token of our love for her and appreciation of her fine work with us.

Refreshments of candy and oranges were served after which we ended our program by singing Christmas carols.

The officers of the club are: Dewey Belle Buie, president; Helen Hawley, vice president and Myrtle Rushing, secretary.

VIRGINIA HALL CIRCLE

The Virginia Hall Circle meets once a month and is a part of the Woman's Auxiliary. It is composed of the girls of the eleventh and twelfth grades. This year the members are Dixie Lee and Dewey Bell Buie, Leona Hall, Blanche Feimster, Ruth May, Lucy Johnson, Nina Berryhill, Lucille Smith, Patricia Hooten, Gilda and Gloria Whitefield. Miss Carpenter is chairman of the circle.

We had our February meeting on the twelfth and following the Circle programs. We made Valentine favors for the trays at Davis Hospital.

The attendance at the Auxiliary form our Circle is very good.

Mrs. Mary McNatt

[Continued From Page One] infirmary not one appendix has escaped her notice to the point where the patient was in a critical state. Pneumonia, that wolf at the door, of all institutions has been kept away: we believe it is due largely to Mrs. McNatt's skill and perseverance that this excellent report can be made. She recognizes a dangerous symptom in time to prevent a critical situation. Mrs. McNatt is very much on our mind during the winter months - that is when we have our tonsil operations and other operations. It is also the time when so many diseases might get in their deadly work. We have more colds during the winter and somehow earache and toothache assume more alarming proportions when the wind is howling and the temperature is low. Mrs. McNatt has raised a wonderful family of her own - a preacher, a soldier, a businessman, and four daughters, two of them nurses. Occasionally Mrs. McNatt gets sick herself - not often - whenever she does there is one of her efficient daughters at hand to help her and to take over. Isn't that fine? It is nice to have a person in charge of an important department that you can feel about as we do about the infirmary and Mrs. McNatt. We do not need to wake up in the middle of the night and wonder if that job is being taken care of. We know it is. We delight to do honor to this fine member of our staff.

Annual Health Clinic

[Continued From Page One] tors advised the stopping of all operations except emergency ones. Then last year we were right in the midst of these operations when a measles germ poked up its head at Barium and before he was through with his visit - he and his family - we had ninety cases of measles. Then one time the weather turned so bad that we were just afraid to continue. Well, this year there was no flu in sight, no measles in the neighborhood, and the weather was pretty and we thought everything was going to be lovely, and here on the second day when we had eleven patients fresh from the hospital and four more to come, Mrs. McNatt turned up sick - imagine that calamity!

But Mrs. McNatt has raised a fine family of her own and in that family are a couple of nurses and one of those nurses was on hand before we had a chance to worry much - not only taking care of her mother but looking after her patients also. This frightened us. We think of Mrs. McNatt every time we get sick and when she gets sick we feel mighty helpless.

All in all, our health examination showed a commendable growth and improvement with only five children in the entire family failing to gain in weight. These were without exception girls who had the idea of streamlining themselves and it was not an evidence of bad health. The average gain in weight was nine pounds, with the girls outgrowing the boys by a small fraction - theirs was 9.2, the boys 9 pounds even.

A boy and girl tied for the top gain - 29 pounds.

A great improvement was noticed in the condition of teeth. A greater portion of the fillings was necessary for the forty-two new children who entered during the year. It appears that eating several apples a day helps.

For those of you who are not familiar with the set-up at Barium we have been raising enough apples so that every child has plenty all during the winter - they usually last up until April or May. They are distributed at high school and given out at recess, or as the classes change in the High School building. Some of the girls in the High School go from the High school building to the Lottie Walker building to attend domestic science classes. That is a good time to eat an apple, as they go from one building to another. They do this so unanimously and enthusiastically that we might paraphrase the old battle song "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the boys are marching" to "Chomp, Chomp, Chomp, the girls are marching."

We think it adds a polish to those already gleaming teeth.

We believe that the good health of the children has been reflected in their disposition and maybe in their attentiveness. Three times in the last thirty days the writer of this article has made requests of all of the children - all three of those requests had to do with their behaviour at basketball games. They responded so satisfactorily that we have been delightfully amazed. If an apple a day had anything to do with that we recommend it to everybody raising children. Maybe ice cream once a week has something to do with it too.

In the second place, and this is far more serious for the individual, the detached Christian is no good to himself. In union there is strength, and the detached Christian fails to share that strength that is experienced by those who are united in the work of the Church. A terrific storm struck one day in the midst of a lovely grove of pines. People living nearby, who had come to love those pines feared they would all be uprooted. Not so. To be sure, the gale caught some of the tallest limbs, injuring them to some extent, but the trees themselves, were not uprooted as they would have been had they been standing alone. They were protected by the presence of the other trees. It is that way in the Church.

A minister once witnessed the amputation of an arm that had been badly mangled in a wreck. Having detached the arm, the surgeon casually told his attendant, "throw it away!" When the minister expressed horror, the surgeon said, "Why not? It is no good, detached."

Roger Babson says that five per cent of the Christians in America can't be found. Intentionally, or non-intentionally, they have become "detached." When they moved into a new community, they fully intended (some of them) moving their Church membership with them. But they just didn't. The years have come and gone, and they remain "detached." Their membership is either back home on their old Church's inactive roll, or they did not get their Church letter, but it is still in their trunk. As a result, they are no good to the old home Church, and no good to the Church nearby. Most tragic of all, they are starving to death, spiritually; receiving only the backwash of the Church, when they could, and should be experiencing its flood-tide.

Dwight L. Moody once visited a member of his church who had not only been detached for a long time, but had also fallen into grievous sin. The man received Mr.

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER ONE

Sam Smith read the night letter summoning him home from his post-graduate course at the University for the twentieth time. His wealthy father had very mysteriously disappeared and he, Sam, had been hurriedly summoned home by his father's attorney.

Sam, called Sampson, for short, by his friends at college, had taken only a nominal interest in his father's business. Beyond knowing that he belonged to numerous boards of directors and seemed always amply supplied with money, he knew very little about his affairs. What Sam had been more interested in than anything else was athletics, and post graduate work at the University was really for the purpose of getting one more year on the baseball team. He played football, basketball, and baseball and loved them all. Feeling that the making of money was a minor consideration he still enjoyed college life and the place he had won for himself there by his athletic powers, rather than starting out to make his living.

Sam was twenty-four, six feet two, weighed one hundred and eighty pounds. His curly red hair was good to look upon. At the time our story opens his face wore a troubled look, not one of grief but rather bewilderment. He was now speeding on a fast train in response to the summons above

Barium Teams Wind Up Successful Season

Taking up the continued story of the basketball season, our last report ended with our twin victories over Statesville. That was about the last of the good news attending our Varsity doings. Following our tournament here which was most enthusiastically patronized both by teams and spectators, we got back into the playing. Our first game was with Lexington at Barium, our girls won 47-37; our boys 41-47, and then on the following Friday, February 23rd, we went to Kannapolis. Our girls won 29-16, but the boys lost 32-30. In that game Barium was very much superior in the first, second and fourth quarters, but in the third quarter Kannapolis scored 19 points to our 4, and that was enough to win the ball game. On Tuesday, February 27th, we had somewhat of a repetition of these doings. Our girls defeated Thomasville 24-19; our boys lost to Thomasville 38-31, scoring by a big margin against Thomasville in the first, second and third quarters, but in the fourth quarter the score was almost identical with the Kannapolis third quarter. That wound up the Conference schedule and left our boys in the third place and the girls in fifth place. Then we entered the tournament in Salisbury. We were paired with the strongest girls' team - the only undefeated and untied team in the Conference, Concord, and we went down in defeat on the first go-round on Wednesday. The score was 40-23. Then on Thursday our boys went up against Thomasville and Thomasville gained a four point lead in the first quarter, we gained 1 point in the last quarter, the final score being 31-28 in Thomasville's favor.

By the way, Statesville looked mighty good in that tournament. The Statesville girls bumped off

Mr. R. E. Jackins

Back in 1918, a little brown-eyed boy with wide ears and teeth came to Barium Springs. Nobody knew how long he was going to stay here. He probably liked the place some days and some days he didn't. Ten years later he graduated, and by that time he had developed such an affection for Barium and had made himself so useful that he was retained as a kind of all-round help man. He helped the dairyman; he helped the farm boys; he helped the coach; and rapidly became one of the busiest folks at Barium. Several years later this young man was promoted from assistant dairy boss to dairy boss, and he never has gotten out of that job although he has acquired a good many others since. The man we are talking about is the one whose name is at

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

I WOULD LIKE TO SEE!

Facing a new church year, I am thinking about certain things that I, as a minister, would like to see accomplished in my Church. They are as follows:

I would like to see a genuine deepening of the "Prayer Life" of each member, for without that, there is little that we can do that will really last. "Men ought always to pray and not to faint."

I would like to see every member cultivating the habit of spending some time each day in a prayerful reading of God's Word, with the intention of doing whatever God's Spirit leads him to do. "Search the Scriptures, for they are they which testify of Me."

I would like to see every member taking seriously the matter of attendance upon whatever services are held each week - that means "Prayer Meeting." "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together."

I would like to see everyone taking a deeper interest in the Church School. All too many members of the Church seem to think that there is no benefit to be derived from a weekly study of God's Word.

Killed In Action

CAPTAIN LEONARD FORT

Back in 1924 a family of children entered Barium Springs from Oxford, North Carolina. There were twin boys, Ben and Charles, and there were two little girls near enough the same size to be sometimes mistaken for twins, Irene and Sarah. Then, in between was a boy that didn't receive so much attention as either his older twin brothers or his little sisters. He grew up without being in the limelight near as much as either end of the family. In due course of time he graduated at Barium, and when we began to sum up his accomplishments we found that instead of being just another Fort he was a very distinctive and talented young man in his own right. He was quite an athlete; he was

Literary Column "Lunatic Legacy" Begins in This Issue of The Messenger

Way back yonder twenty years ago when the Barium Messenger was just a fledgling, when there was no war to write about, and no athletics to speak of, it was sometimes a problem to fill up a column for The Messenger.

One time a serial story was run. It was a kind of community affair. The editor wrote the first and last chapters, without consultation with anybody. Of course, he wrote the first chapter first and the last chapter after the other chapters had been turned in. He just wrote that first chapter and turned it over to a member of the High School faculty and asked her to write the next chapter, another teacher wrote the third chapter and so on until five or six chapters had been written, then the editor pulled it in and wrote the final chapter.

Several days ago, we re-read that literary gem and became so interested that we actually got our mind off of the war, and we have been wondering if our readers could stand a reprint of that. You

Gives Advice On Care Social Security Cards

During July, August, and September 1944, more than 574,000 youngsters between the ages of 15 and 19 obtained social security cards. In all, over 1,300,000 security account numbers were issued by field offices of the Social Security Board throughout the United States during the third quarter of 1944.

Now that these workers have obtained social security cards, there are certain steps which they must take in order to get full credit, on the records of the Social Security Board, for all the wages they earn from now on. This statement was made today by Louis H. Clement, Manager of the Salisbury, N. C., office of the Social Security Board. Here is the information which he says every wage earner should have.

1. After you have obtained your social security account number, mentioned. It was hard for him to think of his father in trouble of any kind. All his memories of the strong gray haired man were of his energy, his masterfulness, his readiness to help others, never had he seen his father gloomy, or helpless or apparently in need of help or sympathy. He was always the perfect provider.

Lunatic Legacy

This accounted for Sams indifference to money, these seemed no need for him to make any particular effort to provide for himself, with this efficient and affectionate father whose delight seemed to be to anticipate his sons wants. True at times his father had asked him rather queer questions about himself, as to his future, his aims and ambitions, but at Sam's rather joking answers had changed the subject always with a sort of an embarrassed laugh as if he touched something that needed an apology.

As the train neared the foot of the mountains, Sam remembered some of the things he had heard about his father, some his father had told him himself. How he had been raised in these very mountains, how as a young mountain lad with only the beginning of a country school education, he had gone to work for a lumber company. How his knowledge of the mountains, the timber and the people, had made him very valuable to the lumber company, then by several shrewd deals he had acquired a share in the company and then control. How this led to other things until the "Old man" had grown to be the most powerful man in this mountain section. For years they had made their home in Asheville, going there first with his bride of a year. It was there that Sam the only child had been born, and it was there that his mother had been buried while he was yet just a twelve year old boy.

The father had never remarried but had spent his energies in providing for his boys wants. Sam remembered with a warm feeling of affection his father's intense interest in his school progress, in his friends and his other activities. When the time came for college and during his years there the old man seemed to grow less interested in his progress, seldom visiting him although his business called him often within a few miles of Chapel Hill.

As Sam thought of these things he wondered if his father had troubles that were never told him, if his seeming indifference was only preoccupation over matters that might be causing him sleepless nights.. Sam remembered with a pang that even though this might have been the case how always his father had been jolly and cheerful with him to meet his wishes and even go beyond any request his son might make.

Sam looking out the windows watched without interest the tall column of Andrews geyser that his train was now passing. For the next twenty minutes he was mildly amused by the passengers remarks. Many who were making the trip for the first time imagined that there were several geysers due to seeing the same one from different sides of the train.

As the train climbed the mountains and plunged into tunnel after tunnel he remembered how his father used to watch everything about this as if he were seeing it for the first time. He had lived here before the railroad came and the wonders man had brought here had never ceased to interest him.

Soon the summit was reached, and the long train dropped the big pusher engine and commenced the long glide to Asheville. In a short time Sam was sitting in the office of Mr. Peabody listening to a most amazing account, of the things that had brought him home.

Just two days before Mr. John Smith had called Mr. Peabody in and gave him a few documents for delivery to Sam, he had stated that he was going to leave town, and that the papers that were to be delivered to his son were of vital importance. "This letter is to be handed you first and then this document under seal. As to the contents of either I am in total ignorance", said Mr. Peabody.

Sam hastily tore open the letter and read.

Dear Sam:
Contrary to general belief, I have been a failure for the last few years in the most important affairs in which I have been engaged. Not wanting to endanger your prospects or cause you worry in your start in life, I have decided to eliminate myself. No, not suicide, I am simply disappearing, but the disappearance is as complete and final as if it were suicide, and any effort on your part to locate me will be time lost and needless notoriety raised.

All my affairs are wound up, and all debts paid, I simply start life anew and have no fear but that it still holds many joy for me yet. The papers will publish my going abroad and I will just delay my return until I am forgotten.

While paying all obligations, even your personal bills at Chapel Hill there is nothing left unless you wish to take up the clue that may be found in a further paper left in your hands.

This seems a coldblooded goodbye, but it seems to me best, your future is in your hands, when the time arrived when I could no longer help, I didn't want to stay to hinder.

Believing that you will win for yourself a place worthy of your mother's hopes and hoping that no cloud of regret will be left from this enforced action of mine, I remain,

Your devoted Father.

Sam looked up at Mr. Peabody. "Have you any idea?" he began. Silently Peabody handed him the days paper. There with small heading was the account of Mr. John Smith sailing for Europe, to look after Business interests. "But he didn't go, he simply vanished," said the lawyer. "You can imagine the difficulty of tracing a man named John Smith, but even without that handicap, your father has done a thorough job of covering his tracks." "My advice to you is to follow absolutely his advice, for I never knew him to fail in anything he attempted." Then what does he mean by this?" asked Sam handing over the letter, and what important affairs has he recently failed in?"

The lawyer read the letter. "I don't know," he said, "I never knew much of your father's affairs, but at his request and for your information I have secured a complete statement of his affairs for you. As he says here there is not a debt nor a dollar left. He has liquidated, and gone. Evidently he had less than a hundred dollars himself when he left, but I am willing to bet that he won't suffer where ever he goes. But how about you?"

Sam flushed, the lawyer didn't mean to draw comparisons but his assurance that a John Smith in his late fifties, could make good anywhere while his son, a vigorous man of twenty four with all the training his state university could give him was rather helpless.

What he could do for himself had not occupied his thoughts much, it would take some time for his habit of thinking to change. Heretofore when he needed or wanted anything the only thing necessary was a proper approach to his father. For the first time he began to look into his own capabilities for his needs.

Sam had a fine mind without being brilliant, his studies had interested him, and in some he had made exceptional marks. Math was easy for him, and yet he had only taken the pure mathematics, the necessary field work of applied math interfered with some of the other activities. The same with chemistry, he loved it but laboratory work interfered with something else he wanted to do. The only real sacrifice he had made for a study was geology. He became so interested in the structure of old mother earth that he even gave up a tennis tournament to take the full course. His post-graduate work was in that but he remembered now with regret none of his course had been taken with a view to earning money with it, rather for the entertainment he got from them.

Really the only jobs he was equipped to hold down were clerkships, or maybe that of lumberjack, or examiner. These two last thoughts gave him somewhat of a thrill, his father had started out as one, why not he? As to mining that would give him a chance to see with his own eyes the things that had held him fascinated in college.

Sam looked up at the lawyer and said, "I have twenty dollars, and I suppose that is just twenty more than Dad had when he started out from the log school house. If I'm worth raising maybe I can make it on that."

Taking his hat, Sam started out and was just closing the door when he remembered the other paper. "I believe I will read this later," as he took the sealed envelope from the lawyer's hand.

Out in the bracing sunshine and mountain air of that glorious mountain city his spirits rose, the world was not so bad, it was time he was going to work anyhow, he would go get some dinner and hop to it. He headed for his usual eating place, and proceeded to order with disregard for price. Just as he had finished his order two girls in tennis flannels came in and rushed up to Sam with a most effusive welcome. It ended by their eating with Sam and on Sam, and when he again stood in the sparkling sunshine, his twenty dollars was just a ten and some change.

He sought a quiet chair in a hotel and proceeded to open the envelope left by his father.

He first drew out a heavy paper which proved to be absolutely blank, and when it unfolded a slip of paper fell out. Sam was so busy searching the large piece for some sign that he did not look at this slip for a few minutes. When finally convinced that the slip was the only thing with any writing or printing on it he read what was written on it. Then in amazement he turned it over, but nothing on that side. His expression must have been so utterly bewildered that it attracted attention. He was aroused by a laugh. A young lady a few chairs away was openly laughing at him. "Pardon me," she said, "but you looked too funny, did somebody play a trick on you? Of course you don't remember me, I am Jenny Priest that used to admire your football from a distance, and met you two years ago." Still puzzled, Sam held out the slip of paper to her and they both read:

If doubtful but daring, get your inspiration where the creek does a toe dance and the water runs uphill. Feed your imagination where the hills juggle the juggernaut, and find your information at the eighteenth hole.

P. S. This may not be pretty, but for purposes of identification nothing beats a snaggle tooth. Don't wear your heart on your sleeve, but wear me next to your heart, till a mate is found. (To be continued next month.)

3. Take good care of your social security card. That card is the key to your social security account which is kept for you by the Social Security Board.

Mr. R. E. Jackins

[Continued From Page One] the head of this article, known to you as Buck or Cap, depending on when you stayed at Barium.

He became head football coach, then dean of the boys, then head of a family. In the course of the years he and Miss Laura Northrup decided on matrimony.

During the years Mr. Jackins has left some enviable records as a football player, as a wrestler, as a wrestling coach, as a football coach, and as a basketball player, and finally as a basketball official.

You can gather from this that Mr. Jackins is a right useful individual. We at Barium have found him so, so useful in fact that the temptation is to add to his duties every year.

If you take a look at his picture he looks mighty robust, but he has had his years of ill health which would have permanently impaired the disposition of most folks but somehow this young man has come through with his smile unimpaired, and that smile is such an effective thing that he can call the fifth foul on a girl basketball player and have her leave the court without ideas of manslaughter in her mind.

He is still very youthful looking so we won't call him a veteran, although his stay at Barium as a student and as employee is now twenty-seven years.

Now, for the real exciting news, as this report is being dictated the Junior Tournament is in progress. We didn't think we had much this year - a passable boys' team, but such a green girls' team that we did not know whether they would even stand up for the first game.

Final results will be in The Messenger in a little special box so that you will be sure to notice it. Our teams will either be the runners-up or the champions of one of the liveliest little tournaments you ever read about.

This write-up will be the final one this year on our basketball activities. There will be some class games from the fourth up through the seventh, but no paper could include all the thrills of these games and do them justice.

VIRGINIA HALL CIRCLE NEWS

The Virginia Hall Circle has done a number of worth while things this month.

On March 2, we sponsored a birthday party for Mr. Johnston and as a gift, we renewed his subscription for the "Life" magazine. We played games which were enjoyed by all. Afterwards refreshments consisting of punch, sandwiches, and cookies were served.

We sent off another carton of used clothing for the European refugees. Everyone was very cooperative in helping us gather the clothes.

At our meeting which was held on March 10th, Miss Carpenter explained to us about "Togs In A Towel". Our circle fixed up one for an eight-year old girl.

Preacher Paragraphs

I would like to see every member tithing his or her income each week to God's Work, bringing the greater portion of that tithe to the Church, through whose channels it will serve to support, not only the local work, but also our great Home and Foreign Mission tasks.

I would like to see our congregation coming in quietly, on time, and in a spirit of deep reverence to all the services of our Church, thus contributing to an orderly, reverent, helpful season of fellowship and worship with other Christians, God our Father, Christ our Lord, and the Holy Spirit our Helper.

I would like to see every member making a definite effort this year to lead others into a satisfying fellowship with Jesus Christ our Lord and Master, Whom to know aright is life eternal.

To sum it all up: I would like to see the members of my church so living during the coming Church Year - April 1, 1945 to March 31, 1946 - that my church shall have become the most indispensable force in our community.

SHALL WE NOT ALL OF US WORK AND PRAY FOR THE ABOVE GOALS?

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER TWO

Jenny Priest looked almost as bewildered as Sam after reading the tiny jagged slip of paper. Laughing again she looked at Sam and said, "I am a shark when it comes to working out cross word puzzles but this makes me feel rather insignificant."

Sam dismissed the subject with a laugh too, not wishing to explain its source. They sat and chatted for sometime, discussing the recent ball games. At length Jenny excused herself and Sam was left to his own thoughts.

He took out the envelope which contained the slip of paper and read it again. Had his father intended to be so mystifying? What could he mean by such a jumble of words. Were the words to be taken literally or was he to interpret into them something not there. Surely no one this side of Morganton could expect the words to be taken literally. With a frown on his forehead, he seized his hat and without stopping to think where he was going he started down the hotel steps.

He walked hurriedly for sometime in the waning afternoon sunlight, and at length realized that it had been quiet a while since he had heard the street cars or much traffic. Looking up he found himself on the road that leads up behind Grove Park Inn. He continued up this road and finally found an inviting seat, overlooking a part of Asheville and giving a splendid side view of Grove Park Inn. A

MISS LORENA CLARK

Take a good look at this picture. The article is a sort of three-pronged affair. We have been each month honoring some member of the staff for their fine work at Barium. Miss Clark comes in that category. Whenever some former student of Barium has done some outstanding thing, that deserves an article. Well Miss Clark comes in on that. And whenever there is a wedding in prospect, the persons involved are due a write-up. Miss Clark comes in that. So here goes. Way back yonder in 1924 a flock of four little boys and one little girl came to Barium. The boys all later distinguished themselves by holding down the same position on our football team - right guard. It got so sports writers would just put down that name on our team without consulting anybody. The one girl, and this is the heroine of this article, distinguished herself in other ways. She was valedictorian of the class of 1931 and went to Flora Macdonald College where she made

Killed On Iwo Jima

DICK PARRISH

Back in 1927 two little red-headed boys entered Barium Springs from Red Springs. The youngest was little Dick Parrish. Not a very strong little boy, he had to be nursed along for several years until he began to live up to the vivid color of his hair. He lived at the Baby Cottage, at Synod's, at Lee's, at Jennie Gilmer, and in the Quads. He took his turn at all the jobs which the boys have to do at Barium, with this invariable result: every matron that had to do with him, every foreman, and every teacher, learned to love the boy for his willingness to do, his eagerness to please, and his all-around unselfishness.

It never seemed to occur to Dick that he was ever called on to do anything hard. He accepted every task and every duty as though he were being done a favor by being allowed to have his share in whatever was being done. He became quite an athlete - the wrestling team and the football team - and somehow the teams that he played on were always good. Dick would be the last to claim that it was his being on the team that made it good, but we who watch these things know that Dick had a lot to do with it. He was Center on our Championship Team of 1941 and made the last touchdown of the season which rounded out a perfect career. He graduated in 1942, entered Davidson that fall and was able to complete one year, and a most satisfactory year, and it was his hope and our hope that when he had served his term in the Armed Services he would come back and complete his college career.

Such, however, was not to be. He was killed on Iwo Jima on the fourth of March, and while we do not have the particulars as yet, we know that Dick was there doing his full duty and maybe a little more, and making the company, the squad, or the battalion which he was in just a little better for his being a member of it.

We here at Barium find it hard to believe that this fine, loyal, eager lad is no more. All of us who knew Dick will be better men and women for having known him.

an enviable record. She made a record in more ways than her studies. As everyone knows it costs a good deal of money to go to college. Back in those days our fund for helping college students was very meager, and that meant that the students accumulated a pretty sizable debt. Lorena made a record in getting hers cleared up after graduating. She taught school for several years and then came back to Barium in 1940 to take over about the most

WHY GO TO CHURCH?

"Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together."

A church succeeds in proportion to the loyalty of its members. This being true, one should go to Church, first of all, because the Church needs him! Cooperation brings the same results in a Church as it does in any other organization. Church-going is not Christianity, but it is an essential means of promoting Christianity, and an investigation will reveal that the most consistent Christians are those who attend Church most regularly.

The same thing is true of the best givers, the best prayers, and the best workers. The person who has quit giving, praying, witnessing, and working, is the person whose interest has begun to lag; and lack of interest can almost always be traced to carelessness in Church attendance. Those who are the backbone of the Church, its spiritual strength, its pillars of faithfulness, are, with few exceptions, those who regularly attend its services.

But there is a second reason why one should go to Church, and that is the fact that man needs the Church. In fact, the Church can get along without the individual much better than the individual can get along without the Church.

All great men have recognized this fact. Oliver Wendell Holmes said that there was a little plant in the corner of his soul called reverence that needed watering at least once a week.

St. Augustine said: "Our souls (Continued On Page Two)"

Rev. Thomas C. Cook Accepts Call To the First Presbyterian Church of Laurens, S. C.

Seven years ago, Reverend Tom Cook and family came to Barium. The family then, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, were two little boys. Now they are leaving us to go to Laurens, South Carolina, and the family, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, are one big boy, one middle-sized boy, and one little boy.

During the years that this delightful family has been a part of the Barium Springs community we have learned to love not only them, but the members of their families that have for a time so-journed with them. Mr. Cook's father; Mrs. Cook's father and mother; besides younger members of both families. Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Cook's mother, has lived with us so much that if we could we would insist that the Cooks leave her as a peace offering for their leaving.

During the years that Mr. Cook has been Pastor of Barium he has lent a helping hand to the neighboring churches many times, and he will be missed in Concord Presbytery as well as at Little Joe's Church.

During the last year Mr. Cook has been Scoutmaster, a most worthy work and one that has meant much to the boys as well as the grown-ups at Barium. He has twice been the official host for Synod, and in all of these things he has performed well.

The community will miss Mr. Cook, not only in his regular duties as Pastor, but in his conduct of the Vespers at our camps, and in many other ways. The good wishes and prayers of the Barium community go with this family to their new home. Mr. Cook will take up his new duties in his new pastorate the first of June.

From the Statesville Daily

Rev. Thomas C. Cook, pastor of Little Joe's Presbyterian church at Barium Springs, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Laurens, S. C., and will take up his work there the first of June. Rev. Mr. Cook presented his resignation to the Barium Springs congregation on Sunday, April 8, and at a congregational meeting in connection with the morning service yesterday the congregation voted to concur with him in a request to Concord Presbytery for the dissolution of the pastoral relation, effective June first.

Mr. Cook came to the pastorate of Little Joe's church in 1938 from the Second Presbyterian church of Salisbury, where he had been pastor since 1930 when he was graduated from Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Va. A na-

CHARLES EDWARD RAYNAL

Charles Edward Raynal was born in Savannah, Georgia, on March 17, 1877, the son of Pierre Napoleon Raynal and Rebecka Ann (Girardeau) Raynal. His father, an architect and designer, was born at Ste Marie aux Mines in the Vosges mountains of Alsace, France, and came with his parents in childhood to America. His mother was a descendant of the French Huguenots who on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes fled from France to South Carolina. When Dr. Raynal was eight years of age his family moved to Thomasville, Georgia. Three years later they moved to Birmingham, Alabama. Here, the young Charles Raynal attended private schools. In 1896, while his family was residing in Bessemer, Alabama, Dr. Raynal entered Southwestern University at Clarksville, Tennessee, from which institution he graduated in 1903. He next attended Princeton University and Princeton Seminary, receiving from these two schools the A. B. and B. D. degrees. He was licenced to preach in 1903 and ordained in 1904 by the Presbytery of Northern Alabama.

Dr. Raynal began his ministerial life as assistant pastor in the 1st Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Alabama, where he served from 1904 until 1907. His next pastorate was at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, N. C., where he served until 1909 when he accepted a call to the 1st Presbyterian Church of Statesville, N. C., which pastorate he held until last October when, due to failing health, he tendered his resignation. Following his resignation, his congregation elected him pastor emeritus. Despite his physical limitations, he continued to serve his people, but finally, realizing that he was growing weaker, he entered Long's hospital. His condition became steadily worse, and on the morning of December 1, 1944, after some two weeks in the hospital, he was called to his eternal reward.

Davidson College in 1941 awarded Dr. Raynal the degree of Doctor of Divinity, an honor well deserved, for Dr. Raynal was first of all a minister of the Gospel, bringing to his preaching, mature scholarship, rare wit and humor, pathos and beauty of expression. He was devoted to his Church and his pastorate in Statesville was marked by the construction of the handsome $200,000 place of worship that was completed in 1934, in every step of the erection of which he took an active interest, making with his own hands much of the woodwork that adorned its walls. A first class botanist, he planned with care the planning of the church grounds, selecting rare and beautiful trees and shrubbery.

Dr. Raynal did not confine his interest to his Church. He made a distinctive contribution to his community. For 35 years he gave unsparingly of his ability and leadership of the civic, educational, cultural and spiritual life of Statesville. He was a trustee of the Statesville Public Library, a trustee of Mitchell College, and a member of the N. C. Interracial committee. He held membership in several scientific societies, and was the author of several pamphlets, contributing from time to time to various magazines, among them, the North Carolina Review.

Dr. Raynal had a number of hobbies that called for skilled hands. His book binding, cabinet making, and wood carving were not to be surpassed. He was an excellent gardener and landscape artist, and he could cast a rod with the best of them.

Dr. Raynal's first marriage was to Miss Mary Graham Morrison, of Charlotte, N. C., who died two years later. In 1914 he married Miss Margaret Mayo Scott, a former member of the faculty of Mitchell College, of which her father was the president. He is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter: Lt. C. E. Raynal, Jr., chaplain U. S. Navy; Capt John Scott Raynal, U. S. Army, in service overseas; Henry Middleton Raynal, student at Davidson College; and Miss Margaret Isabel Raynal, student at Salem College.

Concord Presbytery will miss Dr. Raynal very sorely. The younger men coming into the Presbytery always found in him an understanding friend. Almost always when a candidate had finished a sermon for licensure, Dr. Raynal was the first to reach him and give words of encouragement.

Dr. Raynal once said: "It is wonderful to be living today and looking ahead to tomorrow. It would take five or six lifetimes to do all I want to do. I will die still interested in this beautiful world."

We who mourn his passing, rejoice that we have known this great soul. We rejoice that he is now a citizen of that world that is more beautiful than anything envisioned here, and in which he will have all eternity to fulfill his desires.

George L. Ayers, a driver for Smith Transfer Co. before he entered the service on Aug. 18, 1944, was wounded in action in Germany March 24, according to an official notification sent to his wife on April 4. Ayers went overseas shortly after he was inducted.

During the First World War he served overseas with the 146th field artillery, was in France for six months and in Germany for the same period of time with the army of occupation. He is a member of Hurst Turner Post of the American Legion, this city, and chaplain of the post.

As pastor of the church at Barium, Rev. Mr. Cook was known for his friendly contacts with the Barium Orphanage family, contacts that he has maintained during the war with regular letters to the men in service. He has also been a leader in activities of the Boy Scout organization, and Scoutmaster of the Troop at Barium.

He has a wide circle of friends in the local community who regret his leaving. He had many contacts in Statesville, where he was in touch with civic and church groups and Mitchell College. He was known for his inspiring messages to civic organizations and gifted and versatile, was much sought as an entertainer.

During the interim following the resignation of Dr. Charles E. Raynal as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Statesville last October, Rev. Mr. Cook served the church as supply, preaching at the evening services and also serving the congregation as pastor, in so far as he could do so in connection with his own work as pastor of the Barium church.

During the seven years of his pastorate at Barium, Mr. Cook has had ten calls to other pastorates. Last summer he rejected a call to the pastorate of the Montreat church. The call to the Laurens church is the first that he had been led to accept.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and three young sons plan to leave around the first of June for Laurens. Mrs. Cook, who underwent an operation in a Richmond, Va. hospital several weeks ago, is still under treatment there, though improving steadily. The operation has necessitated her remaining in a cast for a number of weeks. Mr. Cook plans to go to Richmond next week to bring her home.

The late John Wanamaker, sensing this same need, traveled nearly 1,000,000 miles during his tenure of office as Postmaster General under the Harrison Administration in order that he might be present each Sunday at his own Church. It is no wonder he was such a great soul and that God so richly difficult job that a woman has at blessed him.

She has had the general oversight of all the other girls' departments and cottages, and some supervision of the Boys' Dormitories - quite a job! And Miss Clark, in spite of her youth, has handled it magnificently. She is one person whom we had hoped would not let her light so shine before men that it could be seen of all. We had hoped to keep her as our own little private treasure for years to come, but such was not to be. At least one man saw her good works and has robbed us of our treasure, and by the time you read this Lorena will no longer be Miss Clark - she will be Mrs. Piner.

We know that wherever she goes there will be people who will love her, that she will make other people happy, and that the home in which she presides will be truly a Christian home. All who know her, and that means a pretty large section of the Barium family both here and of our graduates, will wish her well and will be proud for having served with her at Barium Springs.

Lunatic Legacy

Sam sat on the rock, studying the slip word by word. "If doubtful but daring"—apparently there was to be adventure, everything was not to come too easy. "Get your inspiration where the creek does the toe dance and the water runs uphill." So his father recognized the fact that it would take an inspiration to make him wake up. But where was he to ever get an inspiration? "Where the creek does a toe dance and the water runs uphill!"—wasn't that a definite and sensible answer? "Toe dance", "uphill." Maybe his father's worries had been too much for him. But no, he couldn't think of that. Evidently he was not getting an inspiration here. He must seek it elsewhere. He would go back and sleep over it.

That night Sam sought a theater to help pass the time away. He couldn't get his mind started to work in any systematic way, not even to concentrate on his puzzle. So as means of relaxation, he found what he thought would be a good picture. He went in and tried to enjoy it but his mind would turn to the slip of paper again and again. Nevertheless he managed to stay through the picture, thinking that after a rest, he would be able to go to sleep and then wake up and solve that mystery that had caused him so much unrest.

He returned to his room and made hasty preparations for bed and rolled in. After tossing and tumbling for an hour he finally began to drift off into a very light sleep. He seemed to be on a train, coming up the mountains with his father, the first time he and his father had made the trip together when he was a boy. His father seemed to be pointing out different things to him and about each one he had something interesting to tell, just as if he knew every crook and turn on the road and seemed to impress Sam now in his dreams was the way in which his father talked. His eyes seemed to sparkle and gleam as he spoke of a certain mountain in the distance.

At length they reached Andrews Geyser and then his father's whole face seemed to glow. But now in reality it was Sam's turn to glow! Didn't he hear his father saying something about dancing? In an instant Sam was wide awake. What was it his father was talking about when he heard him say "dancing?" All else seemed to have escaped him but the word "dancing." Then he remembered that it was in connection with Andrews' Geyser. To be sure! What is it that Andrews' Geyser does if not a toe-dance. What is it that Andrews' Geyser does if it does not do more than run up hill? It shoots straight up! At last he now had a clue. It was to Andrews' Geyser he must go to get his inspiration. So far so good! But this was only a beginning. He must find where the hills juggle the juggernaut and the eighteenth hole and last of all the mate to this little slip of paper. This last must be the most important.

Sitting on the edge of the bed, picturing in his mind the dancing water of Andrews' Geyser, Sam realized there was no more sleep for him. What could he do? He couldn't be still nor could he pace the floor all night. It would never do to go pacing the streets at 12:30 at night. As he, thinking, it occurred to him that now was the time to get that inspiration.

Sam jumped at the thought and he got ready to start on his uncertain expedition about as hastily as he had gotten ready for bed. Thinking it most suitable for such an escapade he adorned himself in his golf suit, plus a light weight overcoat. In his pockets were his few dollars, a few cigarettes and a match box.

He rushed down to the station only to find that the next train was a through one carrying only pullmans and it was not due for several hours. What should a man with only a few dollars do? Just at that moment he noticed a long freight train slowly moving in the direction he wished to go. With a sudden impulse, he swung on to a car whose door was open as it slowly passed. Crawling inside, he sat down and leaned up against the side of the car, just beside the door. As he sat there thinking of the unusualness of his situation, he gradually became conscious of a tiny glow in one end of the car. He focused his attention on the small light for some time and with the aid of his imagination it was first one thing and then another. Looking at one time, it seemed to be one single glowing eye glaring at him, while looking at it again it seemed to be only a spark of fire. At length he got a faint whiff of cigarette smoke and decided that it was a cigarette. But this was more alarming than ever, because a burning cigarette was usually held by somebody. Peculiar sensations raced up and down his spine, at this conclusion. He had been riding a good while already and surely it wouldn't be very long until he would be in the vicinity of his destination. If only this stranger for surely that must be what it was, would keep still until then, all would be well. But if---?

The dim glow gradually grew fainter and fainter and then went [Continued On Page Three]

Preacher Paragraphs
By Rev. T. C. Cook

VALEDICTORY!

Mr. Kyles, our most efficient printer here at Barium, has just reminded me that another month has rolled around, and that it is time again for another column for the Barium Messenger.

What I shall write this month is sort of Valedictory, for it is the last contribution I shall have the privilege of making to the Messenger. It has been a real pleasure, doing this little stint each month, and I want to thank those of you who have been good enough to write me regarding my poor offering. I wish I could type in this final column, all that is in my heart, and I wish I could use words that would adequately express to you the thoughts that are now crowding my mind.

I am thinking mostly of the more than three hundred boys and girls here in this home; this home made possible through the generous gifts of the Presbyterians of the Synod of North Carolina. During my ministry in the midst of the Barium boys and girls, I have learned to love them, almost as my very own, and while I am looking forward eagerly to my new work, I am saddened at the thought of leaving them behind. I must confess that it is with genuine reluctance that I make my departure. I had hoped when I came to Barium, and that hope has grown with the years, that I might spend all my days ministering to these boys and girls, but God has ordered otherwise. I desire, therefore, in this last message to you to make a plea for them.

Don't forget them! Continue praying for them each day; for their matrons, teachers, workers, and all those here who are charged

LEES COTTAGE

School will soon be out and will be glad?

We have a new boy in our cottage, his name is Charles Skipper. He came from Wilmington. He is in the fourth grade.

We will be glad when summer is here and we can go swimming.

We have just come in from work because it's raining and we can play the rest of the day. We work on the truck farm.

We went to the show not long ago to see "Tarzan".

We have been playing softball and we sure do have a good time.

The seniors gave a play last night and it was grand.

It won't be long till some of the boys move to another cottage and smaller boys will move to our cottage.

—Jerry Innis.

INFIRMARY

Here at the Infirmary we have been having several cases of "Pink Eyes" but except for that we have had very little sickness.

Our matron, Mrs. McNatt, had a visit from her daughter, Miss Rachel McNatt, and we enjoyed having her, the few days that she spent with us.

Miss Frances O'Kelly has been sick and has gone away for a few weeks rest. We hope she will soon be back with us.

Two of our girls made the honor roll this month. They were Lucile Smith and Jean McDonald.

We only have a few more weeks of school and we are eagerly waiting on the end.

Recently we have taken in several new children. They are Therman Andrews, Gene Jimmy, Margaret and Carolyn Hucks, Edward, Jeanette and Tommy Lane, Charles and Edith Skipper, Carl Spices, and Edsel Jerry and Richard McArthur.

Good-by until next month.

—The Infirmary Girls.

HOWARD COTTAGE

We forgot to write you last month, but we are back now with lots of things to tell you.

All of the Grammar grades have given a play for the past five weeks. We enjoyed them very much. Last night we went to the Senior play, "Aunt Letty's Niece." It was really a good play and we surely enjoyed it.

It won't be long until school will be out and then we can start going barefooted and going in swimming.

One of our girls, Peggy Ann Collins, who was at the Infirmary with three broken toes, has come back to our cottage. It is nice to have her back. We hope Betty Ann Andrews will soon come home. She has been down there in bed for a long time and would love for all of you to go down and see her.

We haven't had much warm weather, and it is almost the middle of May. Maybe it will soon turn warm - we hope so.

Well, it won't be long until the beans will start coming in. We don't so much like to string them, but we surely can eat them in a hurry.

That's all the news for this time but we'll see you again next month.

—The Bean Stringers.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

We are looking forward to vacation which is not so far off now. We are planning to have great times this summer.

The Board of Regents are, visiting us this week and we are glad to have them as our guests. We are to have the birthday table today in their honor.

Carol Jean Andrews recited the Catechism this month.

Last week some people from Mooresville sent us some cookies and we had a nice party.

We are making improvements in our cottage each day.

Some of our members will leave this summer and go to Howard, others will take their places. We will miss these old friends, but it is also nice to welcome the new ones.

Many of us will take part in the Chapel program at school Friday morning. This is the last one of the year and we hope everyone will enjoy it. The play is The Wedding of Jack and Jill.

—Annie Louise Girls.

BABY COTTAGE

Won't you please sit down and play with us? We're all sitting on the nice warm green grass and we're playing "Three Bears". Guess who the bears are? Well, they're sitting on a bench close by - "Mommie" (Mrs. Massey, 'cause she's the Big Bear, Miss Mc'um (Miss Whitener, 'cause she's middle size) and "Yiddie" (Miss Bryant) 'cause she's the little bear.

Every time we're naughty a bear growls, and some times all three at one time. If you'll listen close you might hear them. Our big sisters are here too - Myrtle Rushing, Virginia Presnell, Helen Morgan and Dorothy Plummer, and twenty four little girls and boys. Don't you think we're a big family?

Now we may not get all the little pig tails turned up and down at the right time and place every time, but we are not even in the first grade, so maybe you won't mind.

"My Daddy just won't write to me", said Susie Truelove, and Loretta Katzen consoles her. "Don't you know why? He's in Germany, and they don't have pencils, paper and nothin'."

"I know its summer now, 'cause bugs, snakes and worms are crawl-in", chimes in Mary Rose Privette.

Donnie Harris: "Div me back my little yellow car, now I say!" Chas. Bowles hands it to him, "you're 'elfish". "I'se not 'elfish! eifer, my Daddy dived it to me," so they both filled it with sand and the bears didn't growl.

with the tremendous responsibility of creating a home here that will afford each boy and girl committed to its care an opportunity to grow as did Jesus, "in wisdom, and in stature, and in favor with God and man." The creation of such a home means, not only your daily prayers, but continuation of your generosity that has been so magnificent through the years.

One last thought. Up until now, your memorial gifts, now being invested in war bonds and to be used when war restrictions have been lifted for the building of a new Church, have reached the grand total of $34,000.00. This fact gladdens my heart more than words can tell. I have prayed for and dreamed of this proposed new Church almost every moment of my ministry here. I know so well how badly such a structure is needed. Not only do we need a new Church, but we need, and we need it very, very much, adequate facilities for Christian Educational work. Only those who are trying to carry on our religious program at Barium know the handicaps under which we work. All of our Sunday Schools work has to be carried on in our day-school class rooms, with the exception of the older boys Bible class that meets in Little Joe's Church. I plead with you to keep sending in your memorial gifts. Hasten that day when through your continued generosity, the children here can receive all that a well equipped church plant can offer. Let us have enough funds to build a Church that will be not just a pile of bricks, but a structure so beautiful that if our children never hear a word spoken within its walls, they shall be given as they enter it an awareness of God. Help make my dream come true.

Thank you again for your loyal support of Barium - your prayers - your letters, your interest shown in so many ways. Pray for me in my new work, and know that I shall be remembering you and your great Home at Barium each day before His throne of grace.

Donnie Privette: "Myrtle I don't love you any more, I like wild onions".

It is so nice and warm that Adrian Cochran, Billy Harrison, Jimmie Harris and Tommie Lane are rolling over and over on the grass. Ruby Truelove and Ruth Shepherd just will not sit still a minute.

You should see Walter Plyler, Cecil and Charles Shepherd, George Truelove, Jerry and Richy McArthur in their pretty new suits - they stand up and then march and act just like Gen. McArthur was looking right at them.

Little Tommie Lane ate so much birthday dinner - ice cream 'n things till he just went right to bed and asleep, saying: "I'se a dood little boy", and he is a dood little boy.

Charles Andrews is the big boy in his room and helps dress a baby. They keep him busy tying shoe strings. Charles likes to help.

Ralph Huddleston is growing so fast he will soon be a big boy.

Clyde Andrews is our little wiggler, but can he smile!

Marie McNeill is "little mother" and most dependable for a tot.

Patsy Dean likes to play with her doll, and little Jeanette Lane likes everything and everyone of us like chewing gum and candy.

Do hope we can soon go barefooted and wiggle our toes in the sand.

There's a little red bird flying 'round out here, and it tells on us too, 'specially if we're naughty and it tells the three bears, but it sings for us and we love it, and wouldn't hurt it for anything.

We're happy and it is getting time for bed, so goodnight!

was rushing down upon him out of the darkness. By almost super-human effort he managed to roll over to one side just as the through express train swept through the tunnel leaving him trembling with fright and exhaustion. It was several minutes before he could scramble to his feet but the cold water that was running over him from a fissure in the rock served to bring him back to a realization of where he was. By this time his eyes were accustomed to the darkness so that it was possible to see the blurred outline of objects. By grasping a jutting rock he was able to pull himself out of the ditch and ice cold water. There beside his hand was the piece of paper he had seen by the light of his match only a few minutes before, although it seemed like an age. That is what the same paper he recognized by its jagged outline. Of course he was all eagerness to read it but unfortunately he had used his last match.

What would he do? He would have to get out of the tunnel in order to get light. His foot, now that he was moving about, was paining him considerably and this tended to sober him and plan his exit more carefully than would otherwise have happened. By looking first in one direction and then in the other, he could see a faint glow in one direction but inky blackness in the other. Realizing this glow must be the nearer end of the tunnel he started in that direction, walking as best he could in the darkness and with a lame foot. Fortunately there was a fairly smooth footpath between the track and the wall of the tunnel and with exercise his foot began to feel better so that he made fairly good progress. Suddenly a deafening roar was heard behind him, and laying flat against the wall escaped injury from the long freight train that was rushing through the valleys below. After this interruption he pushed on and in a short time came suddenly into the bright sunlight, for the sun was rising over the hills in the east.

Sam was now eager to see the slip of paper which he had in his pocket, but he was sore and his foot and bruises pained him so that he was thankful for a seat on the boulder in the warm sunshine. Now that he could read the paper he was afraid to read to find his fate, fearful of what it might or might not tell. Carefully drawing it from his pocket he saw that it roughly matched the paper in his shirt pocket, and was certain the one he had first seen in the tunnel. But the first quick glance showed him his fate was not to be revealed by it. It was merely a scrap of paper hurled from a train that had found lodgment in a crevice there to be picked up by him. On it was a date two or three years previous to this time which conclusively showed it had nothing to do with him.

This was a blow to Sam. As he sat on the stone he began, for the first time, to think seriously of what he was doing and he began to realize how foolishly he had been acting. His conduct was worthy of the most untutored mind. Essentially he had been governed by the idea of luck, of fate, in fact, the chief motive was very near superstition. The action of his father, he began to realize, was that of an unbalanced mind, or else it was designed to wake him out of himself to a realization of how unprofitable his life was becoming—how vain his ambitions. His first thought was to try to get back to Asheville which was some thirty miles away but feeling that he would like to be alone for a time he decided against that.

With his mind made up to think out his problem like a man, he set off down the railroad track. He was sore and bruised and his foot

During the regime of Mr. Milton as treasurer of Presbyterian Orphan's Home he promoted the giving of the Sunday School by organizing club of different amounts which represented the giving of each Sunday School regularly to the Orphanage. The rules of these clubs excluded the Thanksgiving offerings and included the regular month by month checks of the Sunday School to the Home. This created a great deal of interest among the Sunday Schools who met the challenge of Mr. Milton and the last year Mr. Milton stayed at Presbyterian Orphan's Home showed the largest number of members of the club who had given a minimum of $100.00 on that year. The number that year was ninety members. This year the number has increased one and this year is ninety-one members. The highest club is the $600.00 club and the clubs range on down to the $100.00 Club.

I notice that several of those have advanced in their standings this year, however, Belmont and Rocky Mount First have advanced from the $400. to $500 club, Burlington First and Kings Mountain First from the $300. to the $400. Club, Durham First and Highland have advanced from the $200 to the $300.00 Club. The following have advanced from $100 to $200: Fayetteville First, Olney, Lincolnnton First, Red Springs, Sunnyside, Elizabethtown, Laurinburg and Westminster (M). Seven churches dropped out of the $100. Club and eight new ones were added. The ones that have been added to the $100. Club are Howard Memorial, Antioch, Raleigh First, Commonwealth, Morven, Thomasboro, Mebane, and Warsaw.

The list in order of the amounts of the contributions follow:

LUNATIC LEGACY

(Continued From Page Two) hurt but he began to feel better as he trodged along—better both mentally and physically. He soon came to another tunnel which he recalled was a short one and ended near Andrews' Geysers. Being fond of nature he wanted to see the geysers again because of its sheer beauty and so decided to make that his objective. In less than an hours time he was enjoying the beauty of this wonder of nature. The day was clear and cool and the sunlight in the spray made an ever changing rainbow. Seeing this he remembered the old saying that a pot of gold was at the end of a rainbow and how he had attempted to find it. He reflected that his action for the past 12 hours had not been much more sensible.

Now, however, he was beginning to feel the pangs of hunger and began to wonder how he was to get his breakfast. Near the geysers several of the native mountaineers had enlarged their reede cabins in order to accomodate guests who wanted to get away from the city and society and have a vacation close to nature. There was excellent refreshments for those who wanted it and mountain climbing and beautiful scenery. Sam, therefore, thought he would see what he could do in the way of a breakfast for it was still early.

He took no time in reaching a cottage, the only one in sight of the geysers and in answer to his knock the man of the house came to the door and in accordance with the hospitality of the section asked him to have some breakfast as they were just sitting down to the table when he knocked.

In addition to the father, mother and two children there was a fifth person at the table, evidently a man on a vacation whose conversation was delightful. Sam felt he must have seen him somewhere at some time but he was unable to place him. Sam was charmed by the peace of this environment that he decided to stay for several days and pay for his bread and room by check for he still had a small sum on deposits in the Chapel Hill Bank.

CHAPTER FOUR

But while Sam was in doubt whether to remain where he was or move forward the weather decided it for him. Then came a rain, a regular deluge and Sam began to wonder if he must build a boat and wander around awhile or what. His late experience in the tunnel made him resolve that he would confine himself strictly to places on the earth. He wanted no more under the earth or in bowels of the earth, "Terra Firma," was good enough for him, he thought as some man suggested there were adventures he could seek "in the air" if he wanted variety in his experience. Besides his money was getting low and how was he to make anymore. A job was just at hand, the rain had done so much damage and then ever so many washouts, there was an immediate demand for his help to repair Nature's damage. Shoulder your pick-axe and shovel and come and help us out. Sam thought such a job was much beneath his dignity, but he had to have something to pay for his daily bread. He felt sorry for himself that he didn't have a father to whom he could turn for wherewithal to spend. Perhaps it was good for him now he had to meet single handed all such emergencies. His athletic experience had toughened him a little for this hard work, but whether bitter or sweet he never complained.

The gentleman who was boarding at the house still interested him very much. He proved to be a very literary man representing a New York periodical, attracted by the world renowned reputation of Asheville as a summer resort, and while he was down here he said he was going to make a close study of the mountain people. He used to re-learn at the supper table every night the fruits of works and words among them, said he was charmed with them, their integrity, their sincerity and their naivete. He used to invite Sam to attend with him some of their social functions, but Sam was too tired every night after his hard days work for social life. But all Mr. Blank said about mountain people, Sam took to himself, or was not he a mountaineer once, his father had been one of them and look how his father had risen to a position of honor and wealth, and for the first time in his life he realized he was proud of his father even if he hadn't left him any legacy except that curious puzzle. It occurred to him that perhaps his father wouldn't be proud of him if he could see him at his present job, but necessity was laid upon him in this case. The road had to be repaired and he had to have some money to get away. But before he got away there was another question he had to settle, there was a teacher wanted for a mountain school and they had asked him to qualify. He was a university graduate and would he bury his talent in that style? He would be ashamed or any of his former friends to see him hear him doing such an insignificant job. Oh well he didn't have any purpose in life, and since they begged him so hard he consented to try it a few months.

A sneaking idea crept up in the back part of his brain any how that he ought to be willing to do a little for his own people and so like Milwaukee while he was waiting for the next thing to turn up, he started a school for his mountain brothers and sisters. He only thought he could endure the job for a few months and to his utmost surprise he found himself getting interested in his job. Away in the dim past, he had heard some Y. M. C. A. secretary talk about investing your life here it would bring the largest returns and that thought kept bobbing up in his mind now. He was helping those mountain boys and girls wonderfully, developing them physically, socially and mentally but that was as far as he could carry the fourfold life development recommended by the Y. M. C. A. Sam went into their home but he was in despair over the bread they made and put on the table before him. But courtesy forbids his saying anything. It made him think of a verse he read once in the

No. 9

Mr. J. F. Stinson

The farm at Barium Springs is one of our big enterprises. It is a man-sized job to keep everything on it co-ordinated, to get crops in the ground, to get them properly harvested. Alfalfa has a habit of sneaking up on a wheat harvest and crab grass just sneaks up on you any time. Mr. Stinson has been the farm boss for several years. He has been a most faithful employee of the orphanage for many years before that. The farm has prospered under his management, and the yields of grain, hay and other crops have been consistently good.

A lot of things have to be kept going smoothly for this department to pay off. There are two tractors, two trucks, nine mules, about eighty sheep, and some twenty-five boys. Stir all that up and you can get a lot of headaches if they don't mix right. Mr. Stinson manages to keep all of this moving along so smoothly that many of us have gotten in the habit when our own headaches pile up on us to take a trip around the farm and relax. Somewhere on the farm we will see something to revive our enthusiasm.

We delight to do our honor to this man who finds something to do 365 days in the year, and a lot of the nights.

Sipes Orchard Home Has House-Warming

The Sipes Orchard Home had a house-warming on Sunday, June 10th. Now the weather was such that a house could warm up with very little effort on that particular day, and the crowd of friendly, cordial people who gathered to look through this new institution would warm anybody's heart.

It was our good fortune to go with a group from Barium Springs to look through the initial building of this enterprise. The location is perfect - right near a Church and not too far from a school. The building would make an orphanage man just a little envious. It is built so sturdily, and yet with an eye to comfort and beauty. It will soon, no doubt, be the home of twenty-two boys and we all wish for them the splendid career that this opening seems to predict. Reverend L. C. Pretty is the superintendent. He has made many visits to Barium. He is a kindly man and enthusiastic for his work. We believe he is equipped to absorb the headaches and irritations that work with children sometimes develops; that he can face these things without turning sour, that he can retain his sense of proportion and be looked upon as a true father to the boys who will come under his care. As a neighbor in the same line of work, we at Barium wish him and his associates well, and we hope there may be many pleasant contacts between these institutions.

See Page Three For Honor Roll Of Boys And Girls In Service

The senior class of 1945 contributed money for a Display Cabinet giving the names of all the boys and girls in the service from Barium Springs and this immediate vicinity.

A copy of this roll is being displayed on the third page of the Messenger. There are two hundred and twelve names on it. Those with a star in front of their names have lost their lives in the service. This Roll is not exactly a Church Roll, it is not exactly an Orphanage Roll, nor a School Roll, but all of the names here belong to our community. They either grew up in the Orphanage, were members of our Church, or attended our school, or were members of our staff. They truly belonged to our family.

We have not indicated where they are serving nor what rank the various individuals have attained. We do have the addresses of most of these members of our family and send them a letter at least every two weeks.

Annual Meeting of Board of Regents Held Here In May

The annual meeting of the Board of Regents was held at Barium on May 15th. It was a record breaker in a number of ways. All committees except one met on the afternoon and night of the 14th, and many of these committees had a full attendance. On the day of the meeting only one man member was absent and two of the women. Seventeen of the twenty being in attendance. Two of the absentees had attended an Executive Committee meeting just the week before so they might be credited with an attendance at this meeting.

At the spring meeting a lot of attention is usually given to the finances, and the financial report this year was good, but more time was spent in looking into the real work of the orphanage and a review was made of the various entries since way back in 1931. There was one child in the graduating class who entered that year - fourteen years ago. The review took up each year's list of entrants and a brief study was made of what had been done in a physical and educational way for each of them, where they had gone, and what they are doing now.

Three members of the Board were attending their last meeting. The limitation for length of service on the Board being set by Synod at two terms. The retiring members are J. S. McKnight of Shelby who has been chairman of the Finance Committee for many years. Mr. McKnight's faithfulness in attendance and his close attention to the details of the duties of his committee have made him a most valuable member of the Board. Mrs. J. M. Walker of Charlotte has for several years been chairman of the Case Work Committee which each year reviews the intake and the outgo and the general run of applications that come to the Orphanage. Her committee, reviews the real work of the institution and her interest and enthusiasm for the work of that committee has certainly put more enthusiasm into our work here.

Mr. S. Parks Alexander of Durham is the third member to retire this year. He has been on several committees, most of his work being on the Finance Committee. The successors to these three members will be elected at the Fall meeting of the Synod.

Along about the middle of each month, there is a Birthday Dinner and the Birthday Dinner in May came so near to the Regent's meeting that it was moved up one day so that the Regents could be guests. [Continued On Page Four]

News From the Campus At Barium

BABY COTTAGE

Here are the babies again since we last wrote you we've been real busy moving around dodging our newly painted floors and beds.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hello Folks, School is out and we are all having a swell time. We have had quite a change in our family.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, This is the new Infirmary girls bringing you the latest news of the month.

and green. Well this is the infirmary girls saying so long until next month. The Little Nurses.

PRINTING OFFICE

As of to-day June 12, 1945. The printing office of Barium Springs, named after Franklin Ayery Sherill in a loving memorial to his wife, Jenny White Sherill, is approximately four years, three days, and a matter of hours old.

There are four hundred and forty five windows in the printing office and out of four years of service three have been broken. The printing office consists of five boys growing in wisdom of the art of printing everyday.

Mr. Edwin Kenneth Kyles professor of printing, doctor of broken machines is known and respected, and a good example for his students. Mr. James Ephram Martin, mender of soles, plays an important part in the organization.

The printing office consists of eight power driven machines, and one proof press. All in running order kept that way by our doctor of motors. There are three stones and four tables scattered about the place, and in a corner built for it stands our metal melting pot.

RUMPLE HALL

School is out and we are beginning to have vacations. The swimming pool is open and we are having a lot of fun in it. We have changed girls in our cottage and we also have a new girl. Her name is Mary Lou Nunn. She came from Kinston.

JENNIE GILMER

Hello Folks Here we are again bringing you our monthly news. Since we wrote you last ten boys have moved into our building and ten have moved out.

Williams, Bobby McMannan, John Junius Wicker, Richard Huddleston, and Robert Lee Hall. It is not long before camp starts and all of us are looking forward to it.

FARM

During the winter months our employees have carried on the work faithfully, but now that school is out we are pitching in very enthusiastically with our work and have already started getting good sun tans working in the fields.

Bob Temp, who is our oldest employee of the farm, has had bad health but who is still wanting to work was transferred to the kitchen to help our girls get out the meals.

When our former farm boss left us, Mr. Stinson who was one of our farm employees stepped in and has been running the farm ever since, and he is doing a grand job of it.

Eb Young who is now our oldest farm employee is still going strong and can follow the fastest mule we have. Claude Stinson and Eb are cultivating partners and they seem to enjoy each others company very much as every time you look their way they are laughing at something.

Horace Whelman and Mr. Troutman are our tractor-men and they are having a busy time hauling hay, harvesting wheat, oats and barley by the use of the combine. They keep all our machines in good working order and well oiled.

Otis Sherrill who has been with us a little more than a year is Mr. Stinson right-hand man with the crops and with us boys. The boys have played the hands several baseball games with the employees of Barium and we were very surprised to see Otis' curves which very few of the boys could hit.

There has been alot of changing about since school closed and we have only five of our former farm boys left with us. They are Tommy Hudgins, Earl Adams, Jack Clark, John Denton, Amos Hardy, Donald Pettus, John Meroney, Jack Mangum, and Bob Whiting who is our faithful water-boy (we hope).

Mr. Stinson gave the three farm boys who graduate this year, Fred Cole, Gene Bounous and Mac Rogers, a big supper which will account for their sudden increase of weight. Mr. and Mrs. Stinson give this supper annually to the farm boys who graduate and we are certainly looking forward to it.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Folks, This is the S. S. S. (Sit, Sew, Sweat, and Spread) girls bringing you the months highlight of the Sewing room.

We have all been working hard and according to our motto "As we sew so shall we rip". We never have a spare moment. Now for some news about our girls:

Lucille Smith has her mind on a certain guy far away. Mary Frances Isenhour keeps our morale up by talking about a chocolate cake (which she hopes her daddy will send her). Adelia Knight sleeps all the time and snores so loud that Miss Mona Clark gets her and the machine mixed up.

Elenor Pope is still talking about going to Catawba College in 1941 (if a certain guy is still there.) "Bush Fiemster has been selling eggs to get enough money to go see the "general". I think she has 88 cents so far. Keep up the good work, "Bush".

Maggie Katzen doesn't say much during work hours. Helen Hawley is on her vacation and we wish her a good time. Hanah Price, with the glowing red hair, still has a gleam in her eye for a certain cadet. Miss Mona Clark, our sewing room matron, keeps us all happy by keeping us busy. Until next month, bye. The sewing room girls and Miss Mona Clark.

LEES COTTAGE

School is out and the teachers have gone home. We miss them, but we are glad school is out. No more studying for a while. Swimming time is here and you ought to be at the swimming pool around five o'clock and see the heads bobbing up and down.

Seven boys moved to our cottage from Synods and we are breaking them in on the truck farm. Ten of our boys moved to Jennie Gilmer and we know they are having a good time working with Ralph.

We are all thinking of vacations now. Some of the boys are going this week. We went to the show the other week to see "God is My Co-Pilot." It was a grand picture. We are looking forward to a happy time this summer.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Dear Friends, Here we are again telling you our latest news. We have been having beans to string once in a while. We have had a few girls from another cottage, and we really have fun.

Some of our girls have gone on vacation and we really miss them. It has been raining a lot but the weather is getting better. We went in swimming Tuesday afternoon and we really had fun. One of our girls Gerladine Katen is going home to stay today and will miss her.

Shirley Thomas is going on a vacation today and we wish her a good time. Well we had better be closing now. Goodbye friends. The Bean Stringers

STULTZ COTTAGE

Greetings friends, This is the first report of news of 1945 that will be brought to you from Stultz cottage. Since school is out there has been a lot of changes in our living quarters and work groups, and we are settling down for the summer.

Well vacation time is finally here again. Some of the boys seem very excited, and are planing on visiting relatives and friends. We hope they will enjoy every moment of their vacations and wish them best of luck. Horace Denton and Donald Pettus have been transferred to the farm, although they say they work harder and like it.

Jerry Young is our new truck driver. He being vice president of the Senior Young People's League is leaving Tuesday June 12, to attend a conference at Flora Macdonald College in Red Springs, N. C. W. A. Johnston has been transferred from the farm to the truck farm and orchard group. He has been installed as one of the four new group leaders of the Senior Young Peoples League and will attend a conference with them in Statesville from June 25th to June 30th.

Jack Jones is now working on the gopher group and Herbert Willard is enjoying the truck farm. Little Miss Beth Jackins is visiting her grandmother in Saint Pauls, N. C. If we know Beth she is having a good time. Your correspondents, W. A. Johnston Jerry Young

Hello Folks, Well since school is out all we have been "studying" about is vacations. That is our main topic around the campus. We had six little girls to move in with us and about ten to leave us. Two of our girls have gone home to live with their parents. We miss them but we are glad that they could go. Hannah Price and Sadie Grey Buie (the girls who help Miss Jackson) have moved out also. Margaret Bullard and Anne Pope were sent in their place. We all got pretty new bathing suits and we just can't wait to make use of them. We are waiting [Continued On Page Four]

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER FIVE

One morning, as Sam walked to school, he overtook one of his little pupils, Mary McNair, who was loitering along the way ahead, evidently waiting for him. She seemed bursting with information and could hardly wait for him to question her.

"There is a lady stay'in at our house," she said, "She come yestiddy and told Mammy she wanted to stay a month if she would board her."

"Is that so?" replied Sam, "What is her name?"

"Her name is Miss Jenny, and she come from Asheville. She is pretty as a picture, too."

"Miss Jenny." Immediately Sam thought of a certain day when he had been in the hotel in Asheville and Jenny Priest had read the crazy words on a slip of paper taken from the letter his father had left with Mr. Peabody. He wondered if it could really be Jenny Priest. The picture of her fresh young face and sparkling eyes had come before him recently with a persistency that he could not down. Was he in love with Jenny Priest? He assured himself that he was not. Then why had she been in his thoughts so constantly of late? He remembered her as she was when he had seen her occasionally while at home from college. He had danced with her once or twice the first summer and had taken her to ride, but she was not as fast as the other members of his set, so she had soon been dropped. He remembered now that someone had said that she was going into some kind of charitable work but had not been sufficiently interested to inquire just what it was.

As he went on to school, he kept pondering over this and from thinking of this, his mind naturally reverted to his father and a sudden regret and loneliness swept over him. How he longed to see his father again! He was somewhat surprised at this feeling, for heretofore, if his thoughts had turned to the subject at all, it had been to conjecture as to the mystery connected with the crazy words on the slip of paper and the possibility of really finding his father's fortune. He had long since given up hope of finding anything else and had not thought of the matter for several days.

He reached the little schoolhouse and, after answering some of the children's questions, he rang the bell for school to begin. But it seemed that he could not keep his thoughts on his work. Try as hard as he might—still they would wander—first to the girl in the hotel and then to his father as he saw him last.

At last, the day's work was over and he dismissed his pupils, unmindful, as they, sensing the let-up of his customary strick discipline, rushed noisily from the schoolhouse, shouting and pushing and upsetting little Mary McNair who thereupon rolled screaming down the doorsteps.

Sam, hearing her screams, rush-out and found the pupils disappearing down the road and Mary still lying on the ground her primer lying on one side of her and her dinnerbasket on the other, open, out of which a piece of apple pie had fallen and was lying on the ground.

While he was assisting Mary to her feet, a dog ran up and, seeing the pie gulped it down at one swallow.

The Good Old Summertime — Time of Rest And Relaxation — Oh Yeah?

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON.

Long before school closes its doors in the springs, it seems that every child is counting the days and hours until school is out; we grown-ups find ourselves doing the same thing and looking forward to that magic time when school books can be laid away and the tasks and duties of the school term temporarily forgotten. Each of us thinks of the happy days ahead, and then the last day - diplomas are given, good-byes are said, teachers scurry off to summer school or to summertime work, and we begin to heave a sigh with the thought, "Well, that is over".

Then we take a stroll over the campus. The swimming pool is just opened and there's a clamor around the neighborhood of the pool, but there is a much louder clamor in the neighborhood of every cottage - it is a chorus - "When am I going on my vacation?" is the burden of that song. It is pronounced differently - in the case of the older children it may be, "When am I going to see Aunt Minnie?" grand-daddy or something like that. Down in the smaller cottages it is just "Vacation", and in the Baby Cottage it is "Batation" a magic word that some of the little ones do not even know the meaning of.

As we journeyed around during the early days of the summer, a little boy, the son of one of the matrons here, walked up to us and in a very indignant manner wanted to know when his vacation was going to start. Of course, he did not know where, or when or what it was, but since the others were asking for it he wanted it too.

Well, just a word about vacations. Before they could start we had to get a few little summertime duties out of the way such as typhoid inoculations, catching up on vaccinations giving the younger children shots for diphtheria, and then to further complicate matters, a few little youngsters showed up with the whooping cough. It usually takes a week or ten days to get these summertime chores out of the way and then the procession starts. This year the middle of the week was the time set for going and coming and every Wednesday and Thursday quite a delegation started out. Some were so little that they had their railroad tickets pinned to their shirt fronts; others were large enough to walk up and negotiate their own tickets, but all of them had that same gleam in the eyes that made them impatient at even a minute's delay of the train or bus they were going to travel on. And then, after a couple of weeks they commenced to come back. We are always a little bit apprehensive of a youngster's humor when he comes back. This year it was one of the pleasant things of the summer to see the smiles that greeted us from returning vacationers. They seemed glad to get back to Barium. We like to think it is because they love us here, but there was a little bit of suspicion in our minds that our ration points might have been more numerous than they found at home. Anyway, we were mighty glad to see them back and mingled with these returning vacationers was a sizable sprinkling of new children coming in. It seems like for the most part this summer they run to blondes, with a leaning toward the boys - as a result our Baby Cottage is almost a Boy's Cottage, - only three little girls to temper a round dozen boys.

Now, as this is written vacations are pretty well over and the theme song has changed from "When am I going on my vacation?" to "When are the camps going to start?" and that will be just ten days from now on July 30th, and there will be three weeks of it with each child at Barium getting one week at our delightful place on the Catawba River known as Camp Fellowship. There the lid will be taken off as regards appetites and each child will have his own conscience as his guide as to how much he may eat. It is amazing to see what happens - a few do get sick, but not many, and the total volume of lamb chops, ham, chicken, weinies, hamburgers, melons, peaches, watermelons, and so on, that they consume during their five days at camp is purely amazing. We could easily be led to believe that that five days at camp is the time when they put on most of their yearly growth.

Of course, camp time is the time when those usual summertime complaints are multiplied - stubbed toes, bee stings, poison ivy, stomach aches of various kinds, sunburns, and mosquitoes. Anybody who has to look after children knows that in spite of the most

1945 EDITION — By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

At a recent meeting of the Board of Regents, a plan was discussed for as many of the Regents as could to take a trip around to the various institutions in North and South Carolina to see how they are working out their problems with the idea that we would bring home to Barium many things that might improve our work here.

This plan was enthusiastically endorsed and sometime later a date was set for the trip and all the members of the Board were notified of the route, and the heads of the institutions that we planned to visit were informed; and then time marched on until that date arrived.

You know how vacation time is; many unexpected things come up and many half-forgotten commitments come to light - first one and then another member of the Board found that they could not join us, and when the day finally arrived only one, Dr. W. Z. Bradford of Charlotte, was able to start on the trip. He and the writer of this article started out from Charlotte, first visiting the Children's Home at Lexington, the Junior Order Orphanage so ably administered by Mr. Robert Bruton. We looked through their commodious buildings, their splendid auditorium, their gymnasium, inspected their busses and discussed many things. It was interesting to note the different ways that this institution is working out some of the problems that are peculiar to it and that are not quite so acute with the others. Having children from widely separated sections of the country is one of these things. Children who have had their early years at an institution in another state. The thing we would like to have brought home most of all from this institution was the quiet, courageous way in which Mr. Bruton is meeting his difficulties and overcoming them.

The next stop was at Mills Home in Thomasville where we were met by Miss Lucille Johnston, another member of our Board who lives in High Point. We looked over some of the buildings, the printing office, parts of the farm, and some of the living quarters, and had a most delightful meal in one of the cottages for larger girls. Much of the time was spent in the office, discussing policies not only in the handling of applications of children, finances, and the upkeep of the plant but many other items that are dear to the heart of every man who loves his work. Where do we go from here? Meaning future plans and future developments. Mr. Grier and his whole staff treated us so royally that it was mighty hard to get away from that splendid institution.

We left Mills Home in mid-afternoon and went on to the Children's Home at Winston-Salem. Miss Johnston was not able to accompany us on this part of the trip. Mr. Woosley, the Children's Home superintendent, was away - (he had told us that he would be away on that date) but we were so ably directed about the place by Mr. Cleary, school principal, and Mrs. Bellew, the supervising matron, that we spent a most pleasant and profitable afternoon at this wonderful institution. We saw their new buildings and their old buildings, their recreational lay-out and something of their future plans. Incidentally, we saw the swimming pool in full vigorous operation. It is awfully hard for an orphanage man to keep from breaking the 10th commandment when he sees this splendid institution and its up to date equipment.

It was getting late when we left the children's Home - that is late by daylight savings time, but not late by the sun time. We didn't stop at Barium Springs, but went on to Charlotte: at Dr. Bradford's suggestion we did drive through the grounds so that he could see if the impression of the three institutions he had visited would over-shadow the impressions of Barium.

We were a little bit concerned about Dr. Bradford's reactions in this respect. We knew that he

[Continued From Page One] careful precaution there will be accidents. Most of the accidents are of a minor character but occasionally there are serious accidents. We have heard a number of parents state that looking back over their families' growing years they found that each child averaged one serious accident a year. Well, with something over 300 children that would mean a serious accident pretty near every day. We don't have that many but we act as though we expected that many and we take double precautions to keep them from happening. Somehow we expect these things to happen during the summer, and since there are so many dare-devil things to do at camp, we expect them to happen at camp. So far we haven't had a single serious accident at camp. A broken ankle is the sum total of our casualties there in all the years that we have been maintaining the camp, but this year we had a serious accident in connection with the camp. It happened one Monday morning when everybody was supposed to be starting into their week's work cautiously and carefully, but a truck load of boys had to go out to the camp on an errand. They went out before breakfast and were coming back and the boy who was driving the truck just had an uncontrollable desire to press down with his right big toe, (you drivers know that that is the toe that steps on the gas,) as a result the truck went too fast to negotiate a curve and turned several summersaults, finally landing upside down with boys pretty well scattered over the highway and an adjoining cow pasture. There were something like ten boys on the truck - all were more or less shaken up and one was seriously hurt. His head was cut in so many places that it took the doctor two hours and a half to do his stitching - we don't know whether each stitch saved nine but they were taken in time - and resulted in a marvelous recovery for that boy. If you look closely you may observe the scars but they are not disfiguring. Nevertheless for a few days after this accident all of us were extremely uneasy about the lad's welfare. We hope that this will be our one and only serious accident for the year.

The children are not the only ones who are crazy about vacations - the grownups are too, and there is never a week during the whole summer when a full staff of regular workers are here. This summer Barium is very fortunate in having a splendid crew of substitute workers. Miss Duke who worked with us last summer is here, Miss Brown from Red Springs, Miss Myatt, Miss Cullom, Miss Privette, and Miss Moose. And then members of our own family - Miss Irene McDade one of the teachers; and Nina Berry-hill and Dixie Buie, recent graduates who will be going to college this fall; Sarah Parcell who is one of our students at WCUNC. Mrs. Purdy is back - she came back as a substitute but we are hoping that she will continue as a regular for at least another year. Mrs. Purdy has a magic touch about her that makes the dining-room just look like home, and everybody at Barium was most enthusiastic over her return.

In spite of the fact that these substitute matrons are doing such an excellent job there are times when embarrassing things happen. Here's one. Early this summer a little boy entered the orphanage - he is about three years old, a healthy-looking, plump little boy. He had a knot right in the middle of his little fat stomach just as though he had swallowed a thimble and it had worked up near the surface. Well, he was taken to the doctor and he did not think it was anything serious - the regular nurse was told this and we went ahead not worrying, but about a week ago this lad waked up one morning with a pain in his stomach and the substitute matron, seeing that knot on his stomach, came to the conclusion that there was something serious the matter with him. It happened that our nurse was away, Miss Carpenter was away, and everyone was away who had any knowledge of the original examination, so we had to hustle the child into the hospital for a complete examination. He is back at Barium now none the worse for wear but he had a lot of needles in his arm during the fortyeight hours he was under observation in the hospital. Now we all know that the little knot in his stomach which seems to be disappearing is nothing serious and in the future he won't have to undergo those painful punctures.

In passing we will say that his stay at the hospital was not without profit to this boy. They were so crowded that they made a place for him in the hall on the floor where many nurses, doctors and patients pass. He wasn't completely happy but was ready to return a smile to everyone who passed him and greeted him. As a result, he collected an amazing amount of toys and things. There was just about all one person could carry, of toys, funny picture books and fruit, and in his bed we gathered up money - two quarters, four dimes, fifteen nickels, thirty-five pennies, and a big English penny - that was the result of a forty-eight hour stay in the hospital. Who was it said that doctors and nurses were too busy to pay any attention to a little kid, or that patients were too wrapped up in their own miseries that they could not see anybody else in trouble?

What about crops and such? The summertime is when we do our big farming, as you know; it is also the time when we have a lot of weather. There is the alfalfa to cut, wheat, oats and barley to harvest, corn to plant and to cultivate, something to do to vegetables every hour of the day or night, fruit trees to be sprayed and pruned and the fruit gathered. It has to be dry for making hay; it has to rain to make the corn grow; storms play havoc with everything. The business of diversified farming is something not intended for a pessimist to indulge in - there is something going wrong all the time. It rains on the hay, it is too dry for the corn. The wind blows the fruit off the trees and blows the wheat down - something is going wrong all the time. On the other hand, an optimist can flourish like the green bay tree; no matter what happens, unless it is a bad storm, it is good for something. He may have a lot of hay down and a rain will come up and spoil that hay but he can shrug it off by saying that the rain did the corn lots more good than it hurt the hay; or, if there should be a week or two of dry weather, that's just fine for harvest and for doing the spraying and such, and although the corn may wilt and look sick, the optimist can comfort himself by saying that he is getting so much work done in the other crops that maybe the corn can stand a little dry weather anyhow.

Oh, yes, we were about to forget - insects - summer is their time too. Flies all seem to know when the dinner bell rings and ride joyfully into the dining-room on the backs of the children - they just like company. The mosquitoes seem to know where every slight hole is in every screen. Don't tell us that mosquitoes can't talk. But these are mild little pests compared to the vegetable-eating kind, potato bugs, bean beetles, Curculia flies whose children are those cute little worms that you bite into when you think you are eating a peach. Then there is plant lice, and we could go on like this for hours and it seems that each one of them has a little different poison to make them desist. It means that a man who runs an orchard or a truck farm has to pretty nearly take a Ph. D. in Chemistry to know exactly what poison to use on what date and what crop, but that is better than the days when a boy's afternoon work consisted in a pretty good-sized bottle of potato bugs gathered by his own shrinking fingers. Why in the world there isn't a bird that likes potato bugs we wouldn't know! But, there are watermelons, canteloupes, peaches and grapes, all to make us forget the bugs, and we can add up each day, or each week, or each month and put the headaches on one side and the delights on the other and we just have to admit that it is a pretty good old summertime.

Nevertheless, along toward the shank of summer on those hot August days and nights when we don't need a blanket, when the grownfolks are all hurrying away to get those last vacations finished, we can't help but listen eagerly for the first twinkle of the school bell that calls us back to those delightful books and those beautiful days when everybody is on the job and we can take a vacation from vacations!

Reflections of A Wayfarer

[Continued From Page One] would be too polite to say anything disloyal or in any way derogatory about Barium, but we did want to see the expression on his face, we were relieved to see a smile which we interpreted as being one of self-satisfaction after going through our grounds and seeing the children gathering for the Wednesday evening Prayer Meeting.

After a not-so-happy trip to Charlotte (there was a blow-out on the way) we spent the night at Dr. Bradford's home. Maybe we ought to stop right here and put in a paragraph of praise for this worthy gentleman. You know, maybe it is just ordinary hospitality that will induce a man to invite a friend to spend the night in his home and to furnish him a delayed supper, and maybe a person isn't to be commended too highly for giving up two days of a very busy practice to devote it entirely for the benefit of an orphanage, but when a man volunteers to use his car for a trip of some 350 miles with the wear and tear on tires and the burning up of precious gasoline, that stamps him as one of the true nobility. Well, that's the class that Dr. Bradford belongs in. We were afraid to risk our car with its damaged tires on the trip to South Carolina and Dr. Bradford used his.

We made a rather early start, Mr. Archie Cannon meeting us in Charlotte, picking up Mrs. Coit Robinson at Lowell, and Mrs. George Patterson at Gastonia. We went down through Spartanburg where we could smell the peaches as they were gathered and offered for sale. It took much restraint to keep our minds on the job at hand, namely, to get on to Thornwell where we could look over that wonderful institution and have the mid-day meal with them. We arrived there and were greeted most cordially by their new superintendent, Reverend Malcolm Macdonald, and by many, many old friends there: Mrs. Copeland, Mr. Stutts, to mention just two. It was good to be in this splendid Presbyterian institution to refresh our memories of the wonderful work that this institution has done in the past and the enthusiasm with which the present head faces the future. We went through a number of buildings there - too many in fact - and some of our party began to be conscious that their feet were doing an unusual day's work, and most of us began to be conscious of our birthdays - we had too many for that many stairs to climb and places to see.

By mid-afternoon we started out for the last place on the schedule - Connie Maxwell Orphanage at Greenwood, South Carolina. This is an institution which is spread over so much ground that you can get in the middle of it before you realize that you are in an institution. We located the office and were met in the yard in the front of the office by Dr. Jamison who called each one of us by name and made us feel so much at home and so welcome that we just wanted to take off our coats and hats and spend the rest of the summer with him. You know some of us who have been in orphanage work for twenty-three years or thereabout are inclined to think of ourselves as veterans, and at times get off into a corner and heap a lot of self-praise on ourselves for enduring so long. Well, we asked Dr. Jamison how long he had been the head of Connie Maxwell Orphanage - he nonchalantly said forty six years," and he is still an up and coming man, ready to take on any new policy or program that appears to be sound and progressive. Somehow in the presence of Dr. Jamison we feel immature and childish, and the things that we might congratulate ourselves on having accomplished shrink to rather small proportions in the light of his accomplishments. We took a bird's eye view of Connie Maxwell Orphanage, and went into several buildings - the gymnasium, the Church - but we did not begin to see enough. Our party was tired and we were a long way from home and our visit there was all but too short. You just hate to leave Dr. Jamison ever; he wanted us to stay and have supper with them and every time we think of that there's a longing in our hearts, not only for the good things that we would have had to eat, but for the pleasant contacts we would have made with the other members of the Connie Maxwell staff.

We journeyed on home, picking up some luscious peaches on the way - peaches that Mr. Cannon, our president, insisted on paying for. We were riding on gas that Dr. Bradford insisted on paying for, and we found ourselves at home finally with most of the money still intact that we had provided for the trip.

Now, what are the conclusions: Well, we found all of these institutions are up and coming affairs. They have been doing things some times where we have just talked about them. You know Barium Springs rather prides itself on being the institution that paved the way in inter-school athletics; the kind that caused the youngsters to lift up their chins and know that they could do anything that anybody else could. Well, we found the other institutions that had followed along in this respect have much nearer complete equipment than Barium. The Junior Order Home and Connie Maxwell Orphanage have splendid gymnasiums. The Children's Home and Thornwell have the money in sight to build fine gymnasiums at both places. The Mills Home is just trying to decide where to locate theirs and Barium's gymnasium is still in those Castles in the Air.

Barium is very far behind in the ways of transporting children. It is the only institution that doesn't have some bus transportation - that is the only one outside of Thornwell; Thornwell being right in the town of Clinton does not need a bus as some of the other institution do.

All of the institutions have the same program in keeping buildings in repair. Somehow where children are housed paint will wear off; window glass will occasionally be broken; plaster will break; and houses will leak. Balls and such things will fall on a roof and will sometimes break the slate. Barium at times has had to reach pretty deep into the bank account to keep its equipment ship shape. Just a year ago our repair bill was $23,000.00. It made us feel better when we found several institutions exceeding this amount and one, more than doubling it in one year's repair bill.

We all came back home feeling much better about a lot of things, and we believe that the main cause of that feeling was meeting these other orphanage folks. We challenge anybody to attempt to disprove that statement. If you will make a trip to the five orphanages that we visited, meet their superintendent and staff, you will just come away thinking better of humanity and the world in general. If you happen to get a chance to meet the kids just as man to man, you will come away enthusiastic about the world in general. This reminds us of something: While we were at Mills Home we were surrounded at one time by a bunch of little boys from five to ten years old - they were getting ready to go in swimming. One of us mentioned something about teeth and they were all intent on showing us how clean their teeth were. One of them had a slightly crooked front tooth; it was due to a baby tooth that had stayed in too long. We casually mentioned it

The Football Season Is Open

Hurricane Stay Away From My Door

Barium football season opened on Friday, September 14th. The game was with Mooresville and it was a good game, but before we start telling you about that, let's talk about the weather.

When you read this you may have forgotten, but September 14 was hurricane weather. It started to rain on Thursday and it looked like the bottom had dropped out. It rained all Thursday night and all Friday morning and part of Friday afternoon. When we held our pep meeting Friday noon, we couldn't think much about the game for thinking of the weather, but about an hour before game time it stoppel raining. During the game the sun came out and the conditions were delightful for that game, and it was a grand game. The weather stopped a good many people from coming which was a pity but even at that there was a good crowd present.

Now about the game. Mooresville kicked off, Barium received and on three trials failed to gain, so Barium kicked. The boy doing the the kicking was Roscoe Smith, playing his first game as a back-field man - last year he was center on our team. Well, he got off a pretty good kick and then Mooresville took over and after making a first down they kicked and then on about the third down Barium kicked and this was some kick - it carried over the safety man's head and rolled down to about the twenty-yard line in Mooresville territory.

The second play after this Mooresville fumbled, Barium recovered and from that point Barium marched for their first touchdown with Roscoe Smith carrying over for the score - the try for point after touchdown failed. This score was made early in the second quarter and the game stay-just that until the third quarter, then with the ball deep in Mooresville territory Mooresville attempted to kick, the kick was blocked, Barium recovered and from that point she marched to the second touchdown with Jack Clark carrying over. Again the try for point failed. Earl Allen was the boy who blocked that kick and Jerry Young recovered.

It looked like this was going to be the final score but in the last two minutes of play Barium opened up a passing attack with it ending up in another touchdown with Earl Adams scoring this time. The point after was good by a pass Adams to Clark and that was about the prettiest play of the game. Clark and the man defending him both caught the ball - they held on to it so tight that it locked for a time as though the ball would have to be sawed in two, but after the referee declared the point good they finally gave up the ball.

Mooresville has a good team and by the time you read this they will probably have proved it in other games. Barium was fortunate to win the victory by so large a score.

Maybe the excellence of Barium's play can be explained by the crowd. It wasn't Home-Coming Day, but there were so many old timers present that it must have

The Message of the Pulpit

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Habakkuk 2:20 "The Lord is in His holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before him."

There is a time when silence is awful. When there is no voice from heaven. When there is no voice within us. Nothing but darkness and silence and loneliness. I have experienced that. So perhaps have you. There is a time when silence is sin. "When I kept silence my bones waxed old through their roaring all the day long." But, when the Lord is in His holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before Him.

There is healing in silence. There is reverence in silence. We enter the portals of His great temple of nature. The draperies of night have been let down and in the velvet dome, the candelabra of heaven are lighted.

"Silently, one by one, in the infinite meadows of Heaven blossom the lovely stars, the forget-me-nots of the angels."

Perhaps we go some bright morning and sit down by some rippling water fall in a quiet valley. The walls of verdure clad mountains. The carpet of grass and flowers with the deep blue sky for a ceiling.

"Not a sound uttered—but deep And solemn harmony pervades The hollow vale from steep to steep,

And penetrates the glades. And a still small voice whispers, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple, let all the earth keep silent before Him."

There, too, should be quiet, silent worship in the Church, His earthly temple. The world is so noisy.

A Real Need

A real need at Presbyterian Orphans' Home is a movie projector for the use of our schools.

In these days when visual education is coming more and more into prominence the use of educational films is becoming increasingly useful. The methods used in army training have demonstrated the effectiveness of this type of instrument. Many excellent films may be gotten free and many others for a nominal charge.

This machine also will be needed when we are ready to show pictures of the Home in the churches of our Synod. Owing to the unsettled conditions and the scarcity of supplies no plans have been developed as yet. But we hope before many months that we can begin work on this project.

We are sure that the showing by Mr. Ernest Milton of the movies of the Home taken some years ago did much to acquaint the people of the state with our needs here and to give many of our friends a better idea of the work of the Orphanage. Mr. Milton's equipment was developed before the use of sound in movies. Also color photography has added much to the attractiveness of movies. We believe that new equipment will not only add much to the teaching power of our schools but will also be most helpful in the presentation of our Orphanage work.

Thanksgiving Offering Home-Coming Day At Barium

For twenty years now we have each year kept the record of the Thanksgiving Offering separate from the regular offerings of the churches.

It is interesting to trace the development of the offerings during these twenty years. A study of them will reveal not only the ebb and flow of prosperity in our state but also the value of various crops for certain crop years. For instance 1925 was a great tobacco crop year and the gifts of that year in some sections has never been surpassed. Also, of course, they reveal the interest and ability of the local church to give to the Home. We are glad that this interest and ability continues to grow.

See pages three and four of this issue of The Messenger for the Thanksgiving tabulation.

The machinery, the horns, the whistles, the bells, the brakes, the raucous voices. There is a clash of noise against noise, a confusion of sound.

Its din is ever in our ears. Its impact batters upon our nervous systems beating and bruising them. Oh the blessing then of a quiet hour in the house of God when, silence, like a poultice comes to heal the blows of sound.

Silence is comely in God's house because it is the attitude of listening. One reason I think God does not speak to us is because He would have to interrupt us in order to speak.

And then when we withdraw into the sanctuaries of our own soul, silence is most healing and helpful. Amiel in his journal has said, "Reverie, like the rain of night, restores color and force to the thoughts which have been blanched and wearied by the heat of the day."

After all, worship is a personal thing. If we cannot find God, if we cannot hear Him in the chapel of our own hearts we cannot expect (Continued On Page Two)

A GOLDEN SOUL

(From The Lutheran)

By Dr. Oscar Blackwelder

One of Washington's finest and best closed his ministry last week. He was 94 years of age and preached his final sermon June 10. He had served his congregation

There has been more mention of Home-Coming Day this year than in any other recent year.

It doesn't seem to matter just when it is held just so it is held. There are more people just hungry for a chance to see each other and to see Barium Springs again than ever before.

Ever since we have had Home Coming Day we have had it late in November and somehow the weather is more often bad than good along that time of year, so this year we are trying an experiment - Home Coming Day will be the nineteenth of October, a month earlier than we usually have it. We believe that the weather will be better, it won't be mixed up with any other holiday, and we hope that more people can concentrate on this day than one nearer Thanksgiving.

The football game will be with Lexington that day and Lexington always produces a good game. By the way, our games with Lexington is the longest continuous series that we have. It started in 1928 and there has been a game every year and the list of victories is about Even-Stephen -- You will see a good game.

If the game with Mooresville is any indication we should have one of the biggest crowds of returned servicemen ever. There were at least twenty-five Barium alumni, men and women, back for our Mooresville game, there should be two hundred and fifty at Home Coming Day.

It won't be long 'til this day comes around so make your plans, get your ducks in a row and notify the Secretary, Mrs. Ed Flowers, Statesville, N. C., if you want to - if not, just come on anyhow. We will try to cook up enough vittles so that you won't go away hungry.

for 63 consecutive years. He was 14 years of age when Lincoln's Proclamation made him free. He recently turned down an honorary degree from a certain university. That same institution had given him the same degree so long ago that everybody had forgotten. His name was Dr. Walter H. Brooks, negro pastor of the Nineteenth Street Baptist Church. There was no more trusted, beloved and respected citizen in Washington by all classes, all creeds, all colors. He had a tremendous ministry.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM

Children From the Baby Cottage at Barium Springs

What That Day Means To This Home

Since the early days of the Home a special Offering has been given for the children of the home at Thanksgiving. This is a very appropriate time as it is the time when harvests are being gathered, crops are being sent to market and money is available throughout the state of North Carolina.

Those of us whose memory goes back thirty or forty years can recall that wagons used to go throughout many country churches Thanksgiving week collecting canned goods, cured meats, Irish and sweet potatoes, and fruits as well as quilts and other things. When the offering in kind had been collected, often a wagon would haul it to Barium, driving twenty or thirty miles. Money was not plentiful in those days but then as now a large expense at the home was incurred for food. Often too, the driver of the wagon would bring very carefully the offering of money for the home. So from the beginning the Home has depended on the Thanksgiving offering for its existence.

In fact the Synod of North Carolina sets up a budget which assumes that the larger part of the income of Presbyterian Orphans' Home will come from special gifts over and above the regular percentage apportioned to the churches. For instance, the Synod put the Orphanage in the proposed budget for 1945-1946 for 8.5%, which is supposed to yield $62,105.00. On top of that several Presbyteries yielded to pressure from other causes and reduced that percentage still further. Some to as low as 6%. This makes it imperative that we get over two thirds of our income from other sources which are principally the Thanksgiving Offering and the special offerings of the Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries. Answering the question then what does the Thanksgiving Offering mean to the Orphanage? It means every thing. Without it the children could not be fed and clothed nor the workers paid. Last year the Presbyterians and friends of the Synod of North Carolina gave in a Thanksgiving (Continued On Page Two)

We are glad to have Pat Hooten spend the week end with us. She is a student at East Carolina Teacher's College at Greenville, N. C.

Captain John Lee has been discharged and is in Statesville with his family.

Arthur Roach is coaching Freshman football at Davidson and going to school. He is staying in Mooresville with his wife.

Lt. (j.g.) Leila D. Johnston spent a few days at Barium. She is being transferred to Anacosta Naval Air Station near Washington, D. C.

Sgt. Roy Wilson has been transferred to Camp Bowie, Texas.

Peggy Lou Buie of Ocean Drive, Va., spent the week-end at Barium.

Charles Hooten is on the Liberty Ship S. S. Walter Reid and his headquarters is at Norfolk.

Henry Alessandrini was discharged from the marines September 21st. He came to see us while he was visiting in Charlotte. He is going to live in Cleveland, Ohio and will go back to his old job with the Bell Telephone Co. He spent thirty-eight months in (Continued On Page Two)

The Synod Was Well Attended At Davidson

The Synod of North Carolina met this year at Davidson. Of course, Mr. Arrowood attended all the sessions Mr. Lowrance was Church. Others of us attended different sessions of the Synod and were greeted most affectionately by the members of Synod who were entertained at Barium last year. They asked if we had any more steak, lamb chops, or apples, everybody asked about the apples. We had to tell them that the apple trees did such a wonderful job last year that they seemed to be taking a holiday this year and we have a very, very light crop, so light that we will have all of our apples eaten by Thanksgiving.

The program of the Orphanage before Synod this year was conducted by Mr. J. Archie Cannon, the president of the Board, who made his report. Speaking on the report was our neighbor and good friend, Mr. Zeb Turlington. Mr. Turlington has been a member of the Board of Regents, served a term as president, and Mrs. Turlington was also a member for at least eight years. Mr. Turlington has done a lot of legal work for (Continued On Page Two)

C. Spears Hicks Heads Thanksgiving Drive For Barium Springs

The Offering for the Presbyterian Orphans' Home has been steadily increasing for several years. This is the result of very careful planning and much hard work by a great many people.

This is the second year that the planning and work for this seasonal effort has been under the direction of Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham. Mr. Hicks is the Chairman of Synod's Committee on the Orphans' Home. Last year he was pressed into service rather late in the year succeeding Mr. J. Archie Cannon of Concord, whose fine work as head of this Committee had led to his elevation as President of the Board of Regents.

The Message of the Pulpit

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Mark 10:13-14. And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it he was much displeased and said to them suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

There were no moving pictures in Jesus' time, but this is a scene just like a moving picture. The characters in the scene. There was Jesus Christ we may picture him walking along the banks of the Jordan. With him are his twelve disciples, Peter and John and James and Matthew, Phillip, Nathaniel, Andrew and the rest. And there are some other people too. As they walk along they ask Jesus questions and he answers them. Now Jesus and his disciples were on their last journey to Jerusalem. Jesus knew he was going to (Continued On Page Two)

Barium Has Played 5 Games - 7 More to Go Won 1, Tied 1, Lost 3

The football season rolls along. Following our opening game with Mooresville, which was played during a two-hour interval of dry weather during the hurricane, we moved on to Charlotte for our annual game with Harding High. This year Harding was just too good for us and defeated us 13-0. Barium made one threat early in the game, driving down to within the ten yard line but a fifteen yard penalty destroyed that chance, and they did not again threaten until late in the last quarter when a forward pass might have scored. Harding had too much power on the field and on the bench, and Barium was just worn out before the game was over. (Continued On Page Three)

Concord Presbytery Observed Its One Hundred And Fiftieth Birthday Oct. 16

Bethpage Presbyterian Church, on the 16th day of October, was the scene of a most interesting meeting of Concord Presbytery. On that day the Presbytery observed the sesquicentennial of the organization of the Presbytery on December 24th, 1775. Concord Presbytery was cut off from Orange Presbytery which had been organized twenty-five years before. The Yadkin river was made the dividing line and all west of that line became Concord Presbytery.

The special anniversary program was planned by a program committee. Dr. C. M. Richards was chairman and the other members were Rev. R. S. Carson and Elder J. E. Ramsay. The retiring Moderator, Dr. W.

L. Lingle made the opening address on the subject: Presbyterianism and Human Freedom.

Dr. J. H. Spence made the Historical address on the subject, Four Eras of Concord History. Presbytery rose in appreciation to these five addresses and directed that they be printed. Greetings were brought from the mother Presbytery, Orange, by the Moderator, Rev. N. N. Fleming, who is also a son of Concord Presbytery.

Dr. C. M. Richards was elected Moderator of the meeting. Dr. Richards has been a member of this Presbytery for forty-five years and this is the third time he has been Moderator.

Mecklenburg Presbytery Met At Matthews

Mecklenburg Presbytery had a place on the program of their fall meeting for the Orphanage and the writer of this article was invited to speak there during this meeting. We believe that this was the largest attendance of any Presbytery we have ever spoken to. The meeting was held at Matthews. The church is such a beautiful one and so comfortable that this may have had something to do with all the members of Presbytery being in the church. It was an inspiring occasion for the speaker.

Jerusalem to die. It was a long walk he had to make; it would take him several days. So when they came to a little village they stopped at some friends house to take dinner and rest in the heat of the day. And I think the people of the village began to tell around "Jesus is here; he says he will be delivered to the chief priests, and that he will be crucified; and on the third day he will rise again. And one mother said, "I would like my little Isaac to be good like he is; I am going to ask him to put his hands on him and pray for him." And another mother said, "I am going to ask him to bless my little Mary." And so they started to the house where Jesus was. And as they went others asked, "Where are you going here in the heat of the day?" And they said, "To take the children to be blessed by that Holy man Jesus", and the others said, "Wait, we'll call the children and go with you." And so they came to this house where Jesus was. Now the scene shifts to the house and we see Jesus surrounded by his disciples; and they are asking him to explain some things he had said that day, when suddenly there was a commotion at the door; and the man of the house said: "Here are some women and children who wish to see the master." Peter and Andrew and some more of them said to the women: "Don't trouble the master; he has walked a long way today, and is very tired, we haven't long to rest and must be on our way. Besides he was discussing with us some very vital matters which should not be interrupted."

whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child he shall not enter there in. Peter you have got to have a childlike attitude; John, you have to be like a child. Now that doesn't mean perfection - children are often selfish and inconsiderate and cruel. But you know children do not have low and evil thoughts; they are dependent and realize it; they are trustful and they are straightforward, no put on; they are full of humility, and simplicity; and they are capable of growth and development. They are not dead either physically, mentally, or spiritually. In these days we take the children to George Washington or Lincoln or Socrates or David or Solomon or Isaiah or Paul or Peter. But forget not to take them to Jesus Christ. George Washington was the father of his country but Jesus taught us to pray, "Our Father". Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves in the south; but Jesus is the Savior of the world. Yes wonderful was the reverence of David, but Jesus reveals God. Great was the wisdom of Solomon, but a greater wisdom Solomon is here, made unto us wisdom and righteousness and sanctification and redemption; deeper is his calm than that of Socrates: more eloquent than Isaiah; more zealous than Peter; more fervent than Paul. I think when I read that sweet story of old, When Jesus was here among men, How He called little children as lambs to His fold I should like to have been with them then. I wish that His hands had been placed on my head, That his arm had been thrown around me And that I might have seen His kind look when He said, "Let the little ones come unto me." Yet still to His footstool in prayer I may go, And ask for a share of his love And if I thus earnestly seek Him below I shall see Him and hear Him above. Cho.— But thousands and thousands who wander and fall Never heard of that heavenly home I wish they could know there is room for them all, And that Jesus has bid them to come. The Synod Was (Continued From Page One) the Orphanage and is about as well equipped as anyone could be to speak in its behalf. The Synod was well attended and Davidson College seems to have outdone itself in serving the food and other things to make Synod's stay there comfortable.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks, First of all we would like to thank our good friends of Mooresville for the pretty pictures which they gave to us. Our house really looks good now so we want you to come up and see us. We have been getting our clothing boxes and we would also like to thank our friends for them. We all look like new dolls now and we look forward to the days when we can get dressed up and parade in front of every one else. We got our report cards last week and only four of our girls made the honor roll but we plan to have at least twenty next time. Louise Bradshaw recited the child's Catechism today. She will receive a gift from Mr. Belk and also a New Testament. with her name on it. Friday is Home-Coming and we expect quite a number of our folks back. Most of the boys who are out of the service hope to be with us. We just can't wait until Friday. We should win over Lexington with all of our boys back to help us cheer our team to victory. The trees are turning and they look like someone has sent them clothing boxes, or that a painter has splattered paint on them. We believe though they are mostly getting pretty for President Truman. As you know he is to speak in Statesville November, 2nd, and we are going to go down to the road and get a good look at our favorite friend. We'll be seeing you, — The Annie Louise Girls

SEWING ROOM

Hello Folks, There are eight of us in the did not make the honor roll. Only one subject kept them off. We sure are proud of them. Miss Mona hugged all our necks. We have made all of us some new winter pajamas. They are not only warm, but very pretty. We ought to have a pajama party now. Did you say, "Out with the Gospel?" Well, here goes. Adelia Knight certainly doesn't look like she's going to be an old maid. Who's that guy that fills that frame on her dresser? Maggie Katen, who's "sleepy" now? Seems like a Freshman from State is waking up and writing pretty often now. "Red" Price seems to be spending more time with the smaller children than she does with us. Say, Red, have you "Ben" getting into practice for later life? Lee "Jackie" Vinson is our new member who took Lucile Smith's place when Lee went back to her old job as nursing. Lee's learning fast. Wonder why? Do you think it's because a guy she knows has just come "wading" back from overseas and she wants to impress him. "Bush" Feimster said tell everyone hello and not to worry about her. She's doing okay, eh, Charlie! "Cherry" Pope is still hanging around, doing what bit she knows how. She thinks the "West" is okay, but it's pretty cold now. Say, Cherry we know what we're talking about, don't we? Helen Hawley seems pretty happy these days. All you have to do is to "Leavy" her alone. It isn't the furniture business she's interested in now. "Wonder when he's coming home?" Say, Mary Frances, how goes that good-looking sailor you go goo-goo over? Folks, we wish to take time out to welcome back all the old-timers on Home-Coming Day. It's swell to see you. Hope we win our game with Lexington.

Drop in and see us any old day between the hours of three and five. We'll certainly welcome you. We love visitors.

INFIRMARY

Dear Friends, Our epidemic of whooping cough is over except for one baby, three years old who just keeps whooping. Our only other patient, Betty Ann Andrews, is still going to school but still lives with us at the Infirmary. We will be getting our first report cards near the end of this week. We hope there will be good grades for all and maybe a few on the honor roll from our small group. We now have two of our older girls back at the Infirmary, Lucile Smith and Jean McDonald. We knew we couldn't get along without them. The cold weather seems to have caught up with us and we are having plenty of it. It would be nice if we had a small radio to help pass away those long winter evenings, after we have finished our studying, of course. Annie Marie Andrews, one of our girls had a visit from her father recently. —The Infirmary Girls.

LEE'S COTTAGE

Now is the time for football games and we always enjoy them. We played Concord last Friday and they beat us. We are looking forward to Halloween, we will have fun with our false faces. We have been picking up potatoes and putting them up for the winter. Dean Upton and Frankie Smith went to the birthday dinner this month. We got our report cards last week and Tommy Scott made the top. The leaves are turning red, yellow and brown and they are pretty. Home-Coming is the 19th and we hope to see a lot of the old boys and girls. Lee's Cottage Boys.

The Music Club

The Second Graders

Barium Has Played

The following week at Albemarle Barium was defeated 13-6. Barium had several chances to score but did not have a touchdown play to cash in on. The field was wet, but that didn't seem to bother the forward passing of either team - it just seemed to be Albemarle's year to win.

On October 5th our team journeyed to Asheville and it rained all that day and most of the night. The field was wet and muddy and Barium did not attempt a single pass. There were times during the game when Barium seemed to have the stronger ground attack but neither team got near enough to really threaten and the final score was 0-0. Late in the last quarter Asheville did some passing that almost paid off - maybe if both teams had started passing sooner there might have been some scoring done.

Here's an interesting thing; there were only three fumbles in that whole game and only one of these was recovered by the opponent. One time Asheville lost the ball through the fumble. The following week at Barium, Barium lost to Concord on a perfectly clear, dry afternoon, and it was a fumble which set up Concord's first touchdown, so you just never can tell, fumbles do not always come with wet weather. A little more about the Concord game. Barium and Concord have been playing football for a long time; in fact, Concord helped us dedicate Sloan Field and then four years later Concord did the first scoring against a Barium team on Sloan Field. In spite of all this long history their victory over Barium this year was the first victory they had ever had on Sloan Field, but it was a decisive victory at that - 18-0. Concord is one of the most improved teams in the South Piedmont Conference. They started out rather slow this year but have gotten better with each game and they looked like that State Champion team of many years back when they went through the season undefeated.

This brings us right up to Homecoming Day - the game will be with Lexington. Lexington is always a tough team. There have been 17 games played with Lexington - 8 of them have been won by Lexington and 8 by Barium and one game was a tie.

While the Varsity was having these games there were other games on the schedule too. The Conover Grammar Grades came over and played Barium's eighth grade. Barium won 34-7. The members of the team belong to the eighth grade and down and they weigh almost as much as the varsity. If we can just be patient for a couple of years until these boys commence to get on the varsity maybe they will stop pushing our varsity around. Boys like Max Dellinger, Mason Traywick, Herman Smith, Pinky Hilliard, all of those will be entertaining us one of these days.

Then the B team played Landis and defeated them 26-0, and all 26 points were made in the 2nd quarter. The boys playing for Barium were all but the first string varsity, and there was some right nifty playing. Dwight Spencer did some very neat pass receiving which resulted in at least two of the touchdowns.

And then the Midget have had a game. The Children's Home 85-pounders and 100-pounders visited Barium. Their 85-pounders defeated Barium 7-0, and our 100-pounders defeated theirs 7-0. The score made by the 85-pounders was on an intercepted pass and the Children's Home boy who caught that pass kept running faster and faster until he crossed the goal line. Barium almost had a chance to tie the score but the boy who had the ball just couldn't get up the necessary speed and was tackled before he got across. Barium's 100-pound team looked much superior to that of the Children's Home, but they couldn't seem to get across that goal line but once. For a time it looked as if they would not get across at all. There is much promise in that team and they will be feeding some good players to the varsity before long.

There will be many games to report in the next issue of the Messenger.

forms and plans for each Committeeman which will be of great assistance both to them and to the Treasurer of the Home.

The task of putting on the Thanksgiving appeal and receiving the Offering is a very large one. There are five hundred and fifty-nine Churches in the Synod. There are over four hundred Auxiliaries. There are five hundred and eight-one Sunday Schools. These organizations are composed of 98,073 members of the Presbyterian Church and their children. It is the purpose of Synods Committee to contact and to present an opportunity to give to each one of those ninety-eight thousand and seventy-three Presbyterians.

In the pre-war years the Committee met at the Home and took time to work out the plans together in detail. Travel conditions have been such that such a meeting has been left off for several years. However, Mr. Hicks has spent much of his time in going about contacting the Committeemen and discussing plans with them.

Naturally under conditions under which we work there have been many disappointments and delays in getting out the Thanksgiving supplies. We had hoped they would be in your hands before this. But we are making progress. Requisitions for supplies are coming in. We hope that very soon after you read this, full supplies for each Church will be in your hands.

Mr. Hicks and the members of Synod's Committee are not working for the praise of men. They are anxious to serve the children of our Home and Him who said, "Suffer the little children and forbid them not to come unto me." But I am sure we will want to show our appreciation of the splendid and unselfish work they are doing by cooperating fully with them in their efforts.

We are grateful here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home for the wide distribution of our supporting organizations. We are thankful for the large gifts of the large churches and for the small gifts of the small churches.

We are sensible that often a gift that may look small if reckoned in dollars, is a large gift when the sacrifice is taken into account. The Master said of the poor widow who dropped in the pennies, "She gave more than they all." For such sacrifices of Thanksgiving we render thanks.

It is with this idea in mind that we are asking that a local chairman be appointed in each Church to receive the supplies and present the work of the Home to the local Church. No Church is too small to have a part. No individual but that can make an offering.

The Presbytery's Committeemen are busy perfecting their organizations and getting information out to the churches. We bespeak for them your help and approval.

ed by certificate from Kings Mountain Presbytery. He will be installed pastor of Waldensian Church October 28th. Rev. Thos. B. Ruff was called as pastor of Cleveland Church. He will be installed pastor on November 2nd. Rev. Ira H. Rawles who has just been given his discharge as a Naval Chaplain accepted the call of the Bethpage church. He will be installed as pastor on November 11th.

Rev. Al S. Burdette who was licensed to preach the Gospel at the spring meeting of Presbytery was called as stated supply of the Bayless Memorial Church. He signified his acceptance of the work and Presbytery ordained him as an Evangelist. He will assume his work at Bayless at an early date.

Two of the sons of Bethpage who are honored ministers were present, Rev. J. E. L. Winecoff and Rev. W. E. Furr.

Two former pastors were present, Rev. F. A. Barnes and Rev. Robert Turner.

A delightful feature of the occasion was the most delicious and bountiful dinner served under the trees in the church yard. The crowning glory of the feast was the beautiful big birthday cake which was served to the hundreds of guests.

Elder John E. Ramsay was elected as the Moderator nominee for the next meeting of Presbytery which will be held at First Church, Kannapolis, January 15, 1945.

Summary of Recent Football Games

We have reported on our football games in former issues of the Messenger right up to Homecoming Day, and you would just have to have an eye-witness account of that game with gestures to get the full picture. Lexington and Barium games have always been interesting. This year was no exception. It started out with Lexington looking like much the superior team. They drove Barium down and finally scored, mainly by main strength; a Barium fumble had something to do with it, but the team was certainly one touchdown better than Barium all during the first half. The second half was something else. Jack Clark, playing his first game at tailback, really went to town in that half and his passing and running was not to be denied. It only yielded one touchdown but it might just as well have yielded three because we missed those other two by such a small margin that the Lexington people are still shivering about it. The final score was Barium 6 - Lexington 6.

The following week our Varsity journeyed to Davidson, and the Davidson Freshmen bumped us off 18-0. This is the third year we have played Davidson, and their first victory. This victory was a convincing one, although all the scoring was done in the first half. In the second half the two teams played on even terms with Clark again being the boy Davidson had to stop.

On Nov. 1st, the Children's Home came to Barium and this was just one of those years we don't like to think about too much. Children's Home was so much stronger than Barium that it was not much of a contest. They beat Barium 48-12 and they used their second-string boys in a good part of the game. Barium's scores were from passes Clark to Young - the two touchdowns being very much alike.

The lightweight teams have had a full schedule. On October 17th our eighth grade team played a second game with Conover, defeating them 21-0. This was a very

The Barium Messenger Has Its 22nd Birthday

The Barium Messenger Speaking ---- Take a look at me. I am twenty-two years old today. All dressed up with a face wash and no five o'clock shadow, and raring to go. I am reprinting the editorial that announced my existence to the quivering public twenty-two years ago. I have tried to live up

THE BARIUM MESSENGER

As soon as we found that our printing shop was assured and that the orphanage was again to have a paper, the question of a name had to be decided. In order to get the very best name for the infant sheet, a prize was offered to the person suggesting the most acceptable title.

Of the great number suggested, the name BARIUM MESSENGER, was selected and Mary Lee Earnheart was the fortunate winner of the prize for suggesting this name.

Now, just a word about this name and what we hope this paper to be.

First of all, we want this Messenger to be welcome. It will contain just commonplace news that may not always be interesting to people who do not know us. Then if you see a news item that Billy Harrell bumped his nose and scraped off six freckles, you will know that this is only a minor injury if the freckle count was correct. The Messenger will contain some editorials, and while we will not attempt to settle the affairs of the League of Nations, the Pan-American Alliances, or even the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., nor answer all the criticisms of the tariff and the income tax. Still we may at times raise our voice in praise or condemnation of some of the present day practices that effect our immediate family.

The Messenger will contain a list of receipts both in money and in kind, and if in any issue the space reserved for this department is not filled up the space unused will be used in talking about it.

The departments will all be heard from, not just for the purpose of making appeals but that our friends everywhere will know what is being done.

Every cottage will have a news editor and the news of that cottage written out by that boy or girl, as the case may be, and published "as is". Then, too we want a real live alumni news column. Any person who has at any time been in the Home may have items about themselves in this column and we hope many will send news in themselves.

Then lest our reading matter become too heavy especially in the days we seem to be forgotten, we will have a joke column. That will publish both new and secondhand wheezes.

Finally, we hope our Messenger will always be a cheerful one. We hope to only have good news to tell you.

When you see it in the mail we want you to have a feeling of pleasure that you are to read of the daily life of this large family of yours, and its achievements, its hopes, and sometimes of its disappointments, and may it never be the messenger of evil tidings that tell of wasted opportunities or curtailed usefulness from lack of support.

to those aspirations in that editorial. I have made mistakes and I haven't always been as cheerful as I might have been. For a time I did not dress up as I should have done to be a guest in your home - in fact, I got to coming in dressed in overalls. I had hoped it would only be for a short period of time. The paper that I was printed on was not very good - it did not hold its color very well - and it didn't show up the pictures which I want

When the Days Talk Together

Psalm 19:2. Day unto day uttereth speech.

I. Yesterday speaks of: Experience

"O there are voices of the past,
Links of a broken chain,
Wings that will bear me back to Times which cannot come again;
Yet God forbid that I should lose
The echoes that remain."

The Value of Time
"In time take time while time doth last,
For time is no time when time is past."

All Things Pass

Who upon his signet ring
Graved a maxim true and wise
Which if held before the eyes
Gave him counsel at a glance
Fit for every change and chance.
Solemn words and these are they;
Even this shall pass away."

Forgetfulness

Feast Days At Barium

You know the business of eating gets to be a pretty common place affair. You can fill a youngster up and in just a few hours he is empty and ravenous again - the old stand-bys of grits and gravy, beans and cornbread, cereal and milk, are all for foundations, but they have to be topped off occasionally with something else. The alfalfa fields have done so well the last few years that they have provided the wherewithal for an occasional ice cream treat, which is a treat indeed in these days of scarce sugar. And then there is the meat question - pork is awfully good but after awhile we get tired of pork; beef is mighty good but it is possible to ever get tired of that; so we really rejoice when something happens to give us a brand new meat meal. We had had several Sunday dinners of lamb and chicken and were just about to settle down to our winter diet of sausage and such, when along came a gift of venison - believe it or not! Mr. Ray Morrow and Mr. Cameron

Three Barium Boys Were In Death March

Three years ago when we were listening to the news broadcast of the gradual destruction of our Army in the Philippines we were much concerned over the fate of three Barium boys; J. D. Beshears, Robert Wilkes, and Ben Morrow. These three boys were captured either on Bataan or Corregidor and it was not until the end of the war that we heard the details of what happened to them.

Ben Morrow died in a prison camp in May, 1942. J. D. Beshears and Robert Wilkes were released at the end of the war, but Robert died in California on the way home. He had evidently been terribly abused and was too weakened by his experiences to survive. J. D. Beshears, apparently in good shape, has landed in the United States and we hope will soon be around Barium to pay us a visit. We do not know of any of the particulars of the experiences of these three young men, but we hope to give it to you in a later issue.

Fall Meeting of the Board of Regents

The Board of Regents of the Orphanage met on Tuesday, Nov. 6th, the latest Fall meeting in twenty years. Usually this meeting occurs during the last of Sept. or early in Oct., but since the Snyod met so late this year this had something to do with the postponement of the Regents meeting.

There were ten members present, including two brand new members, Mrs. R. A. Young of Central Steele Creek, Charlotte, and Mr. Thomson of Kings Mountain. There was one other new member who did not get here. Mr. R. W. Bruin from Henderson, North Carolina.

One of the main pieces of business of the Board was to pass on some insurance matters which means a re-vamping of the values on all of our insured property.

The meeting was saddened by the news of the death of Mr. Sam A. Robinson of Gastonia. Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Board of Regents for a number of years; in fact every member if the Board knew Mr. Robinson intimately, and to know him at all was to count him as a friend. We were all saddened by his sudden death.

THANKSGIVING OFFERING

Date

Rev. R. S. Arrowood, Treas.
Presbyterian Orphans' Home,
Barium Springs, N. C.

Dear Mr. Arrowood:

Enclosed is $..... Thanksgiving
Offering for Presbyterian Orphans' Home.
From

Paul Reid has been discharged from the Army Air Corps and is working in the printing office at Barium for Mr. Kyles. We are glad to have Paul with us. He expects to go to college later on.

John and Mable (Vinson) Lee spent Sunday at Barium. John has been discharged from the Navy and they will live in Morganton they think.

Sgt. Nelson Farmer has returned from the pacific and has been discharged. We are happy to see him and glad that he is in Statesville near us.

The Alumni Association, represented by approximately fifty members met in the Rumble Hall living room, October 19, just after dinner. President Edward Flowers called the meeting to order and those present introduced themselves stating the year of graduation or departure. Years represented ranged from 1899 to 1945. The '30 - '39's, and of course, the '40's had quite a jolly reunion, but we of the '20's and before were entirely too few.

New officers were elected as follows: president, Irene McDade; vice-president, Maude Inman; secretary-treasurer, Walter Beattie; treasurer of Memorial Fund, Reid Brown.

After some discussion as to the form our Memorial should take, and the amount needed to finance it and the manner of obtaining that amount, it was voted that a letter be sent out soon containing suggestions from Mr. Johnston, and asking that each member make a contribution within the next twelve months. It is hoped that we shall have a considerable sum in hand and be ready to decide the matter by vote at our next annual meeting. It was voted also that alumni dues be raised to $1.00 per year and that all who have not paid this year be urged to do so. This money is needed for the expense of mailing correspondence to the members.

The annual Thanksgiving offering taken at the meeting amounted to $103.10.

We noted the following at the game and during the day: Bernice Stone Thompson, Joy Stone Sommers, Nellie Johnson Summers, John Ammons, Wilma Campbell, Wilma Jessup, Rachel Kyles, Hattie Michael Painter, Annie Bell William Dawson, Tom Clark, Doris Gant, Capt. John Lee, Major A. J. Potter, Ruth Cole Fletcher, Sallie and Ed Cole, Hattie Primm Black, Edna Marlowe Holthouser, Clarence Clark, Arthur Roach, Lafayette Donaldson, Lee Donaldson, Leona Hall, Delma Jessup, Lt. Sara Fort, Willard Dry, Eva Sluder, Kathleen Moore Radcliff, Margaret Moore Williams, Sadie and Ed Flowers, Maude Inman, Sam Bernardo, Cheek Freeman, Morris Freeman, Roy Wilson, Linda Culp, Louise Martin Carson, William Allen, Gertie Smith Welborn, Elmarie Smith McCrimmon, Flora Mae Smith, Elizabeth Roberts, George Faison, Fred Little, Helen Brown Coble, Reid Brown, Newton Brown, Walter Beattie, Julius Kinard, Betty Whittle, Paul Burney, Vance Smith, Laura Smith Boro, G. H. Hipp, Mrs. Mary E. Hartsell, Laura McKee Herrin, Hattie McKee, Ester Archer, Avis Archer McLaughlin, Harold Bustle, Eva Bustle, Mrs. C. L. Mullis, Nettie Miller Clark, Gene Bonous, Billy McCall, Frank Purdy, Hazel Walker, Lavada Lambert Mullis, Fred Johnson, Fannie Whitlow Kipka, Lucille Long, Sara Donaldson, Sylvia Brown, Garland McConnell, Johnnie Burgin Clendenin, Ralph and Bobbie Spencer, Lee Spencer, Neely Ford, Irene McDade, Buck Jackins, Woodrow Clendenin. Paul Horne has been discharged and will work at Barium until he enters Davidson the second semester.

We were saddened over the death of Robert Wilkes. He had been a POW in Japan for the past 40 months and landed in Oakland, California when he passed away in a Naval Hospital. His body was brought to Charlotte for service and then buried in Spring Hill Cemetery in Scotland County.

Our hearts were made glad when J. D. Beshears made us a visit this week. J. D. was a POW for 40 months, making the death march from Bataan. He had four battle stars and the Presidential citation with 2 oak leaf clusters. He landed at Seattle and Howard met him there. He will have a 90 day furlough and then report at Moore General Hospital for examination. He said that there were 1600 prisoners in his Camp. He was freed by the Russians in Manchuria. He worked in a textile plant weaving canvas. His menu was mush for breakfast and maize and beans for dinner and supper. He received 8 or 10 Red Cross packages. We all thought that he looked fine.

Arnim East is in Kannapolis with Guy, after having been overseas for some time.

Paul Cornette is working in Statesville.

Lacy Beshears has been discharged from the Navy.

Born to Sgt. and Mrs. D. W. Morris (Anne Fayssoux Johnston) on November 11 a son, David Walter, III.

The Barium Messenger

(Continued From Page One) ed to show you from time to time. I did this because money was so scarce back during the depression, you remember? And then I got into the habit of coming into your homes in these overalls and the first thing you know the war came along and just froze me in those clothes and all during the war I had to continue that way. Now, as one of the happenings since the war is over the folks in the big office have gotten some better paper to print me on and this is the first issue, and I feel like celebrating. In fact, you can stick me in your pocket now and take me out at your club, or in your dressed-up part of the house and not be ashamed of me. I am going to stay dressed up if I can, and I am going to decorate too. I hope there will be at least one nice-looking picture of some of your children on this front page every month. It used to be that way, and I hope you like it. Just three more years and I will be a quarter of a century old: I don't feel that old, and if they will just put enough pictures of young people in me every time I won't seem old to you. Miss Andrews has a complete file of all 264 copies of me, and there are lots of interesting things in these files. There are going to be interesting things in the issues from now on. I just dare you to read everything in me.

Summary of Recent

Barium. There was an 85-pound game which Concord won 13-12. There was a 100-pound game which Barium won 7-0. There was a B-team game which Barium won 13-0. On October 28th, the 100-pound team played Morganton at Morganton winning 26-0. The 125-pound team defeated Morganton 13-0. On the 29th the B-team played Statesville at Barium and the score was Barium 13 - Statesville 6. On Saturday, November 3rd, our Midget teams journeyed to Winston-Salem where the Children's Home 85-pound team defeated Barium 21-0. The 100-pound team game resulted in a tie 6-6. On the night of November 6th, our B-team played the Landis Varsity and the game ended 6-6. Landis scored early in the game and it was in the final quarter that Barium scored.

The Varsity has four game yet to play - the Midgets about an equal number. They will make good reading in the December issue.

Speaking of football, here's an item. A number of years ago the folks at Barium set us up to a trip to the Sugar Bowl and got us into the habit of going. They did not need to do anything but start us on our way. Well, for the last few years all the Bowl games have been out as far as we are concerned, but one of our boys is a cadet at West Point right now and he wrote us several days ago that he thought we needed a rest after the strenuous Thanksgiving doings and that if we could use those three tickets he would send them to us. - So if anybody is looking for the editor of this sheet on the afternoon of December 1st, he can probably be found somewhere in the Army section of the Stadium at Philadelphia watching the Army-Navy game.

Army-Navy Game And Other Things

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

The whole thing began back in November. I received a letter from Joe Long who is now a Cadet at West Point. And the boy said he had three tickets to the Army - Navy game that he was going to send to me, and right then and there I began to have notions.

Just forty-five years ago and just two days after I played my last college football game, I went to Philadelphia to see the Army and Navy play. It was tops in football intertainment then and I knew it would be tops in intertainment now, so as soon as this letter came from Joe Long I made plans.

Of course, I excepted to take Mrs. Johnston and to go in a very dignified manar on the train, and we were to pick up Leila in Washington for the third member of the party, but as the time drew near we found that there wasn't any such thing as getting a reservation on any train from any direction going toward Philadelphia around that time, so it settled down to making the trip by car.

On Friday morning at 9:30 we two Johnstons set sail. We had to miss the final Barium football game and that was a disappointment indeed, but we found that the team and the coaches forgave us for that, seeing that it took that to get to this other game. Everybody around Barium seemed to be intent on getting us off and making the trip a pleasant one. Some of the ladies gave me a couple of ties to flash on the unsuspecting Philadelphia public. We armed ourselves with everything from overshoes to hot water bottles so that no matter what weather came we would be ready for it.

We landed in Washington Friday night and found that that very efficient daughter of ours had located a hotel room for us in the crowded city and also located what was even more scarce, a good meal.

On Saturday morning at 7:30 we left Washington for Philadelphia, feeling that three hours leisurely drive would put us at our destination. What a thought! It is 140 miles from Washington to Philadelphia and they are the most crowded miles in the United States or they were that Saturday morning. When we drove into Baltimore we stopped to get some gas. I asked the man at the filling station if the traffic was any heavier that morning. His reply was, "Man I never saw anything like it in my life. I wouldn't be caught in that for a hundred dollars an hour." That was not too encouraging, but we lit out in that traffic. It took us a solid hour to get through the twelve miles of Baltimore, and even in the open country the traffic was almost bumper to bumper. The only thing that seemed to keep going was our watches, and time was running out on us. How we wished we had Joshua for a few moments to have the sun to stand still for an hour at least, but of course we didn't. When we landed in Philadelphia we found that extra good precautions had been made for the crowd. Certain streets had been left as one-way streets and we picked up a little time getting to the stadium. There was ample parking space and in a very short time we found ourselves in the sta-

A Birthday Party for Jesus Christ Very Soon

Very soon the world will be giving a birthday party.

Now all of you like to have birthday parties and you like to go to birthlay parties. What do you have at your birthday parties? Well you have a birthday cake with candles on it, one for each year old you are. Then you have games and favors for your guests. You receive presents from parents and friends. And then we like to invite a lot of our best friends. Why is that? Why don't we just have a nice meal and birthday cake and have a good time all by ourselves. I'll tell you, happiness is something that the more we share it the more we have. A birthday is a lot more fun if we have our friends sharing it with us.

Years ago I was alone in a great city. I had just gotten out of the hospital so I thought I'd celebrate. So I went to a famous dining place and ordered a fine dinner. But it was no fun. I would have had more pleasure if I had picked up a bum on Water Street and given him a bowl of soup and a cup of coffee. So we like to have a big party the bigger the better.

Now the birthlay of Jesus we call Christmas. Can we imagine what a big party the birthday party for Jesus Christ is. If we invited all the people in a city to a party that would be a great party. But think if we had all the people in Charlotte and Greensboro and New York what a great big party that would be. But the birthday party goes all round this big world. Millions of people rejoice in the birthday of Jesus our Lord.

One of the joys of birthday is the giving and receiving of gifts. The gifts to Jesus on his first birthday were given by the wise men. They were rich and lovely gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. But now Jesus no longer walks among us as a man. How can we give to Jesus now? Well though Jesus does not walk on earth as a man, his spirit is here and he loves us so much that if we would give to him we must help the poor and needy and we cannot help them without giving to Jesus. He has said "I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and ye took me in, naked and ye clothed me, sick and ye visited me." And his disciples say Lord when saw ye thee hungry or thirsty or naked or sick and ministered unto thee and he shall answer inasmuch as ye have done unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me.

Now when we have a birthday our parents or whoever gives us a birthday party or dinner try to do the thing that will give us most happiness. They have the friends invited we like best, they prepare refreshments of which we are most fond, they try to give the

Here's how a football player looks on Sunday. Earl Allen is his name. He plays guard - voted by his teammates the most valuable player for 1945, also the best tackler. He is Barium's contribution to the South Piedmont all conference team for 1945.

Heart Attack Fatal To Mr. James E. Martin

On Dec. 3rd there passed from this world a kindly man who will be greatly missed here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. James E. Martin died suddenly from a heart attack at his home in Troutman, N. C.

Mr. Martin was born June 25, 1878 near East Monbo. He was the son of William and Julia Ann Martin. He had been living in Troutman for five years.

In July 1944 he was married to Miss Nellie E. Sherrill who sur-

Final Account of Football Games

On November 9th our somewhat battered Varsity team journeyed to Salisbury to help them celebrate Homecoming Day. There was a crowd that would have done honor to a college game, and Salisbury pulled off a program that made you think you were in one of the famous Bowls. Barium staged a come-back from her poor showing against Children's Home and defeated Salisbury 12-0. The first touchdown was made the hard way after recovering a fumble deep in Salisbury's territory. The second touchdown was one that has become Barium's specialty - a long pass Clark to Young.

The following week at Morganton it was another story altogether. We ran into another Homecoming Day up there in Burke County. The Morganton team has been good all year - they were inspired the night we played them. The score was 33-0 in favor of Morganton. Morganton scored on us almost every kind of way and seemed to enjoy doing it. They were, no doubt, remembering those lopsided victories in which Barium used to defeat Morganton when Morganton was champion of the Western Conference.

Then came Thanksgiving Day, and the game of the year when Barium and Statesville tangled on Sloan Field for the Iredell County Championship. Thanksgiving Day was beautiful - the sun was out and while it was a little chilly for the spectators it was dium - that was 12:30, an hour 'til game time. We thought of course, that we could look around and locate some friends and kinder get our bearings before the game started - that's what we thought until we came out into the stadium looking for our seats and there we found that enormous place absolutely packed. We knew there had to be some vacant seats yet because people were still streaming in but you couldn't locate them just by looking.

Army-Navy Game

This was a friendly crowd - a different crowd from any that I have ever seen at a football game. You know, when you go to the Rose Bowl or any of those big games you usually run into a lot of flashy people blowing their money around and displaying it in other ways, but this crowd at Philadelphia was just a crowd of homefolks. Out of 100,000 people possibly 80,000 were there as guest of some boy or soldier or sailor. We couldn't see anybody trying to make a display of their possessions or their personality, it was just a nice, homefolksy, picked crowd of 100,000 people and it somehow made your blood run a little warmer to be sitting there in that crowd and feeling like you were part of it.

We had taken some field glasses along with us and we found that almost everybody sitting near us wanted to borrow them because there was a boy either in the West Point crowd of Cadets or among the Midshipmen that they were interested in and during the parade immediately before the game they wanted to pick him out.

You know those boys in these two schools came from all over the United States and the people who were their guests at the game also came from all over the United States. We have a big time in this state and other states going to see the state universities play ball. Well, this occasion was seeing the university of the United States having a game between its two divisions - the Army and the Navy, and that gave you a thrill. As we looked around we could see up in the press box that it was absolutely jammed, and we knew, with the top flight news reporters of the nation. We could count seven newsreel cameras in position to catch every play of the game. Up above that was the public address system giving more or less accurate information as the game went on.

We were sitting just above the end zone on the Army side in the closed end of the stadium and five of the seven touchdowns made in that game were made right out in front of us - so close that we could almost hear the boys breathing as they went over the final white line.

There is no more for me to describe about these magnificent teams, but I will give you some impressions. If you looked at the crowd in the stadium you could not help but be impressed with its big-papers got up some statistics on the various things - how many miles of hot dogs - 80 I think it was. How many thousands of gallons of coffee, and so on, served there at the stadium. And yet when you looked down toward the field you realized that the football field was just the same size as the one at Sloan Field here at Barium or in any of the towns where they have football fields. The goal posts were just the same size, and placed at the same places. There were 22 boys out there playing and four officials seeing that they played it right, just as we have here at Barium Springs or in any of the towns that we visit. The grass on the field was no greener, and the lines with which the field was lined up smeared one of the boy's breeches - Blanchard it was - just like it sometimes happens at Barium, and all of that made us feel at home even though we were in a mighty big place.

The President was there. He sat on the Army side during the first half and at the intermission went across and sat on the Navy side. There was a row of policemen that marched in - one on the Army side and one on the Navy side - and they formed a lane across the middle of the field - while they were doing that some little fellow piped out, "Go on Harry, nobody is going to hurt you," and that brought a laugh from a good many people. The policemen were simply a guard of honor - not there for his physical protection because I don't think anybody in that crowd of 102,000 would have lifted their hands to hurt the President or any of those of our nation who have authority. It was just a good, jolly, friendly crowd.

A lot of field glasses were turned in the direction of the President and he was a right important person during the intermission, but for the rest of the time he didn't rate with a twenty-year old boy named Blanchard and another one about the same age named Davis, and one named Scott, and one named Douden, and 17 or 18 other boys almost as important. It was a grand game and it illustrated something. Maybe it explains why we won a victory over two powerful combinations of nations.

Everybody recognized, that is everybody who knew football, recognized that Navy didn't have a chance in this ball game. Army with one of the greatest teams of any college at any time was just too much, and in the first quarter they piled up a score of 20 points, think of it - a regular Pearl Harbor as far as the Navy was concerned. They were hopelessly behind. Well, did they quit? Emphatically not. It wasn't due to any pep talk by a coach or anybody else, because this happened between quarters, not between halves. From the beginning of the second quarter until the end of the game Navy had the edge on the Army. The whole of the second quarter was scoreless until the last fifteen seconds, Navy had the ball about the center of the field.

A pass was thrown to Scott and all Scott had to do was to outrun Glenn Davis for 40 yards for a touchdown. Well, Davis is considered about the fastest football player in the United States, and he lacked just a half a step of outrunning that Scott. If he had tackled him anywhere before the end zone it would not have been a score and time would have run out, but that Scott boy did about like the Navy did in the battle of Midway. He put on that extra pound of pressure that put him into the end zone with a touchdown. The second half was almost even-Steven, with the final score being Army 32, Navy 13. The score after the first quarter being Navy 13, Army 12, and that was the ball game.

You might think that when this game was over that that was all there was to it, but wait a minute. Over the public address system the crowd was requested to wait a few minutes before leaving the stadium.

There was some ceremony taking place in the middle of the field which nobody seemed to pay much attention to, and then the National Anthem and everybody snapped to attention.

The Army band played and since we were on the Army side, we could barely hear it - just a few high notes, more like an echo, so to us it appeared that 100,000 people were standing in absolute silence with the thousands in uniform at salute and all the other men with their heads bared and a look on their faces that gripped you. In spite of ourselves there was a lump in our throats and we got a thrill that was greater even than the thrills that brought us to our feet during that magnificent ball game. I do not think there was a person in that hundred thousand who did not feel the impact of that moment.

Then the crowd melted. It did not leave, it just shuffled around. The blue block on the Navy side and the Gray block on the Army side where the Cadets were seated simply disappeared into the crowd. Each boy had somebody in that crowd he wanted to see, and in a few moments the mixture was complete and then the crowd commenced to leave. There is not much more to tell.

Getting out of Philadelphia was quite a job and fighting traffic all the way home was quite a job. Mrs. Johnston and I sat on the front seat. Leila and a young Navy Lieutenant sat on the back seat. They amused themselves counting the red lights that I ran through on the way home. I believe they got up to 20, which sounds bad but when you think of the number that I hit right the percentage wasn't so bad after all. We picked up a few dirty looks from other car drivers and an angry whistle or two from traffic cops, but all in all, our memory of the trip is one of pleasant people, kind people, tolerant people. If there ever was a sample of the cross-section of this United States it was in that stadium at Philadelphia last Saturday, and it is good to be a part of it. We could forget the wrangles that seem to be in the air about our foreign policy, the continued turmoil of strikes over our nation and for a time revel in the glory of America. To see the thousands of Midshipmen and Cadets that are our guarantee of some sort of protection in time of peace, and our strong right arm in time of war - to see these magnificent young men in their enthusiasm and loyalty to their institutions and to their country is a heartening thing. Someone has said that the Army-Navy game ought to be played in different parts of the country each year. Brother, I have got a better idea than that, let them take the road and play this game at a different place every week. Our nation could stand a lot more of it.

There is one thing that happened on the way home that we will have to tell you about. It was in Washington - we stayed in Washington long enough to go to church Sunday morning, and it was a big city church - the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Now, you know that in a big city church you are apt to see a couple of preachers - one giving out the hymns and conducting the services and the other doing the preaching and sometimes you will find some empty seats. Well, this one was different. This preacher has been preaching the kind of sermons people are hungry to hear and this church has been crowded. They have been turning them away, so what does he do? Of course, they have tried to build a bigger church, but while they are waiting this man preaches the same sermon twice. We went to the nine o'clock service - the church was full, and that preacher certainly did not hold back. He put his whole soul into the message to that congregation. As we left the church at 10 o'clock, other worshippers were lining up for the 11 o'clock service, at which time he would preach the same sermon again to another overflow crowd. Somehow that made us feel good. We see so much and hear so much about people trying to get more and do less, and here was this man of God willing to do double duty that his message might reach more people.

It has been 45 years since I saw that other game between Army and Navy. I am not going to wait another 45, because this trip beats vitamins, daily dozens, or any of Bernarr McFadyen's recipes for bringing back a man's youth.

vives him. He is also survived two brothers Mr. William Martin of Cornelius and Mr. G. D. Martin of Troutman, and his sisters Mrs. William Moore and Mrs. W. A. Clodfelder.

Mr. Martin was a very active and loyal member of the Troutmans Baptist Church. A large gathering of friends at his funeral attested the esteem with which he was regarded.

Mr. Martin was a valued member of the force here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. For over four years he has been the shoe repair man and assisted in the printing department. His were the hands that wrapped the Thanksgiving supplies this year and sent them out to the churches. He usually folded the Messenger and assisted in getting them into the mail. Always Mr. Martin was friendly and cheerful and ready to do his work. He will be greatly missed from among us.

just perfect for the players. A large crowd came down from Statesville and everybody had a big time for all but one minute of the game - the last one. In that brief space of time Jimmy Hayes threw a pass to Jerry Young which was good for a touchdown for Barium and the ball game. Barium had a chance to enjoy this storybook finish for a whole week and then they journeyed to Thomasville on November 30th and had the same thing done to them that they did to Statesville. Barium was leading Thomasville 7-6 up to the last minute of the game and then Thomasville scored a touchdown defeating Barium 12-7, and that wound up the long, hard season - twelve games.

While the big boys were doing all this the Midgets were busy, too. Over in Concord our 85-pound team defeated Concord 6-0. The 100-pound team defeated Concord 20-0. The B Team lost to Concord 7-0. And then Morganton visited us on the 17th and our 85-pound team defeated Morganton 21-0; the 125-pound team defeated Morganton 49-0.

The Message of the

resents we most want. Now Christmas is Jesus' birthday party. Don't you think Jesus is one we should try to make happy?

I am sure Jesus wants us all to be happy on his birthday. Such is the greatness of the heart of Jesus that every blessing he has he shares with those he loves. And he knows that the greatest joy we have is in giving not getting. Did you know Jesus left directions how to give a successful party in Luke 14:12,13. He says don't invite those that will invite you or give presents just to get them back, but invite the poor and the maimed and the lame and the blind: And thou shalt be blessed.

Jesus himself was the world's first and greatest Christmas gift. He gave himself to the world to bless and save us. He did not do that in order that he might receive anything from us. So if we have the true spirit of Christmas which is the spirit of Christ we will be thinking less of what we may get and more of what we may give.

And surely we would not want to do anything on our Lord's birthday that would hurt the heart of Jesus. We would not be greedy or selfish. We would not be mean or ill tempered or fail to be considerate of others. Many people work hard many extra hours to serve us at Christmas. I think especially of sales people and men and women in the P. O. Dept. The ones who get up Christmas programs and decorate for the holidays. I think we ought to show our appreciation by being just as considerate of them as we can and helping them in every way possible.

I think we ought to be a little more thoughtful, a little more loving, a little kinder now than at any other time of year, that is the Christmas spirit, that is the way Jesus would want us to be on his birthday.

I have heard of a little boy who had just had a very happy birthday, and that night as he knelt by his bed and prayed he thanked the Heavenly Father for the blessings of the day and he closed his prayer this way; And, Dear Lord Jesus, I hope you have a happy birthday too. Christmas is our Lord's birthday lets make it a happy one for Him.

THE MILLS FAMILY

Hello America!

thing. They were sweethearts before they left Barium; they were married in a very short time after leaving. They may have had tough going during the first few years of their married life but they have conquered whatever obstacles came in their way and, as you can see, they are now a settled, happy family. A going concern, the hope of America! We are delighted to give you this picture of this family of Barium children and grandchildren. We are proud to claim them and to let you see how they look. The father, Robert, is back home now and this fine family live in Salisbury.

The Message of the Pulpit

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

THE LORD'S LAST PASSOVER

On the fourth day of April in the year A. D. thirty or as the time was then computed, the 12th day of Nisan, there was a meeting of Priests in the open court of the Palace of Caiaphas the High Priest. Caiaphas presided. The others were the leaders of the 24 courses of priests who ministered at the Temple. The subject of their discussion was how to arrest Jesus. He had launched tremendous denunciations at them. Called them "Blind Guides," and "Whited Sepulchres." He had come into the temple and attacked those who were preparing for a lucrative season of graft during the Passover, when they usually profited to the extent of $100,000.00. They had given orders as we read in Jno. 11:57 that any one who knew where to find him should let them know that they might take Him. But so far, they have not been able to get the information that will help them to arrest him in a quiet place, for they feared the reaction on the public if he were taken publicly.

Into this Hellish Council came Judas. He had doubtless come into the city to get the lamb for the Passover feast, together with the other necessary things. He was a Judean and as such has been educated at the temple schools and known to the priests. The chief priests were more than delighted when the traitor appeared. He, with the love for money asked how much they would give him. They offered him thirty peices of silver, the price of a slave. And they reached their unclean hands into the treasury of the temple, and from the funds kept to purchase sacrifices for the altar they bought

"The Lamb of God."

Two days later Peter and John were sent to attend to final matters in the preparation of the Passover. Judas was not sent, though he was treasurer, because Our Lord did not want him to know the place of meeting, lest they be disturbed. They saw the room, that it was a commodious upper with all the necessary furnishings, cups, platter, copper basin, water, table, triclinia covered with cushions. They saw to the preparation of the elements which were unleavened bread, wine, sauce bitter herbs, and the paschal lamb. This lamb which had been purchased by Judas and inspected

Barium Mourns the Loss of Dr. Chas. B. Herman and Ardrey Barringer

The Barium Springs community was shocked and saddened last Saturday when we received the news of the death of our good friend, Dr. Herman. For over ten years Dr. Herman has been the guardian of our health. He examined all of the children who entered Barium Springs. He conducted our health examinations. He was our consultant about every human ailment that would hit our big family, and he was our physician of call.

The write-up of our doings every Christmas has had a sort of sameness about it. The adjectives just grew larger as the generosity of our friends increased.

We can hardly remember the time (although there was a time) when we had to scout around to find enough people to play Santa Claus to each member of our family. Not so, now. As a matter of fact, we run out of children long before Christmas comes.

You see, all of the children write their Christmas letters and these letters are sent out to people who ask for them. During the last two years more people have asked for letters than there were letters to go out. That's what we mean when we say we ran out of children long before Christmas.

It has been difficult to buy toys and gifts, and yet somehow the friends of Barium have gotten the most delightful and enjoyable presents to send to the children here, so that our Christmases have been an increasing delight, and were this a usual Christmas we would just end up by saying that it was the best ever in the way of gifts, but there was something added.

For a number of years many of us have felt that our Christmases were just a little bit one-sided - there was too much getting and not enough opportunity for giving. One small group - (a cottage of small boys) several years ago started out being the Christmas man for a family of colored people who live on the place. The Christmas letters from this home came to these boys, and they, out of their own earnings bought the Christmas things for this family and they got such a whale of a kick out of it that they were rather envied by some of the others on the campus.

This year in our search for something we hit upon an idea that was discussed at a recent meeting in Chapel Hill. This idea, by the way, came from Mr. Fred Behrends, of the Greer School in

He was the one person outside of Barium Springs who knew every child here, and his ministrations were so kindly and sympathetic that no child was ever afraid of him.

We all loved Dr. Herman. We had the utmost confidence in his skill as a doctor and his understanding of our ailments. We mourn his loss because he was one of us. We feel that we have lost a member of our family.

Dr. Herman's companion in death was Ardrey Barringer - a young man not many years in business - but a young man who had already displayed such generous habits and willingness to share whatever prosperity he may have had that Barium feels that in his death we have lost a friend.

Many kind things can be traced back to this fine young man. Barium feels doubly bereaved in this tragedy.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are again bringing you the news for this month.

We are very happy to have Miss Jackson from Annie Louise cottage to be our matron since Mrs. Clendenin left. We are making improvements in our cottage each day and it is really beginning to look nice.

Patty Inman and Shirley Thomas were the only girls in our cottage that made the honor roll and we are very proud of them. We hope to have a lot more next month. Everyone has been having such a nice time playing with our games and toys that we didn't want to do our lessons.

Santa was very good to us this Christmas. Most everyone got everything they asked for in their letters to Santa Claus.

We want to thank the circle from Morganton for the nice gifts they sent to each child in our cot-

I give and bequeath TO THE REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE REQUEST)

MESSAGE OF THE PULPIT

(Continued From Page One) by the priests, they took to the temple. At one-thirty they stood without the temple gate and heard the silver trumpets blow two blasts and the gates opened. Again the trumpets sound, and the great choral choir sang the Eighty-first Psalm.

"Sing aloud unto God Our strength: make a joyful noise unto the God of Jacob. Take a psalm, and bring hither the timbrel, the pleasant harp with the psaltery. blow up the trumpet in the full moon, in the time appointed, on our solemn feast day.

Hear, O my people, and I will testify unto thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me. There shall no strange god be in thee; neither shalt thou worship any strange god. I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open they mouth wide, and I will fill it."

Then Peter and John together with the other worshippers killed the lamb in their hands with a knife. The 24 courses of priests were drawn up in long rows. They caught the blood in golden basins and passed it to the altar where part was sprinkled on the altar and the rest was poured at the foot and carried by sewers out to the brook kedron. During this ceremony, the Hallel was sung, the worshippers joining with the choir in the singing of certain of the choruses. These same Psalms which are called the Hallel are used during the Passover feast proper as we shall presently see.

The lambs were dressed. Certain fatty parts were burned on the altar. Then they were trussed up with pomgranite wood, wrapped again in their skins and carried home to be roasted.

At sunset our Lord and his disciples met in their appointed place. When three stars appeared the priests at the temple sound the trumpets and the time for the solemn ceremonial has come.

They stand about the table as the first cup consisting of half a tumbler of water mixed with wine is before them, they repeat, "Praise unto Thee, O Lord our God, King of the world, who hast brought forth from the earth its fruits."

Jesus said, "With desire, I have desired to eat this passover." After the cup had been drunk, they began to seek the places and each pushed for the places of most importance near the head of the table. Jesus rebuked them sharply yet tenderly saying I am among you as he that serveth! "I think it was then at the time of the usual washing of hands that he took the copper basin and washed their feet and said I have given you an example. It would seem that John had the place on the right of Christ, Judas the place on the left, and Peter with his impulsive nature had at Christ's rebuke taken the lowest seat directly opposite John. In his temporary humility he said, "Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no place in me. And Peter having one of his quick conversations said "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head."

Then the Paschal dishes were brought in; The Paschal lamb roasted whole, two or three round cakes of unleaven bread, a dish of bitter herbs, like a salad, (bitter to typify the bitterness of bondage in Egypt.) Charoseth, a sauce made of almonds, dates, figs, raisins and vinegar. As they were bringing on the meal Christ was troubled in spirit and said, "One of you will betray me." They began to say, "Lord, Who is it?" Jesus replied, "It was the one to whom he would give the sop. And we unto that man by whom the Son of Man shall be betrayed. It were better for that man if he had never been born." Judas said, "Teacher, is it I." And Jesus replied so low that the rest could not hear, "Thou has said." He then took the bitter herbs and dipping them into the sauce he handed it to Judas saying, "This is the bread of affliction which our fathers ate in Egypt." Judas took it and went out.

Again they washed their hands after which followed the second cup with this benediction, "We are bound to give thanks to praise, to laud, to glorify, and to extoll Him that hath done for our fathers and for us these wonders; Who hath brought us from bondage to freedom, from sorrow to rejoicing, from mourning to a good day, from darkness to a great light, from affliction to redemption; therefore must we say before Him Hallelujah, Praise ye the Lord. Then were sung the first part of the Great Hallel Psalms 113-114.

Then the Passover proper was partaken. Christ took of the lamb, bitter herbs, and bread, and dipped it into the sauce and passed it to another. Then the youngest person present asked, "What is the meaning of this supper?" He replied, "This is the passover which we eat because the Lord passed over the houses of our fathers in Egypt; All hungry ones come and eat; all needy ones come and keep this passover." The Paschal supper being ended Our Lord instituted that supper which has among Christians since that time been celebrated. Though even at this time the feast of the passover is observed by the Jews.

It was at the third cup called, the Cup of Blessing that the Lord's Supper was instituted. Our Lord took of the broken peice of unleaven bread and broke it anew and said, "This is my body." And he took the cup and gave thanks and said, "This is my blood shed for many for the remission of sins, this do as oft as you drink it in remembrance of me."

And when they had sung an hymn; the section of the Hallel parts of Psalms 115-118 for the conclusion, they went out. Would that we might catch some echo of the song that comforted the heart of Christ and fortified Him for the Garden of Gethsemane, Pilate's Hall Golgotha.

CHRISTMAS DOINGS

would give to rather than get things from. We debated during the fall as to just what cause or people we would give to. It was finally decided to make a Christmas present to the children of the colored Orphanage at Oxford, N. C.

There was no particular campaign made about this, no pressure put on it, but it culminated in a most happy night for us. We will try to describe that night. It was December 19th, Wednesday night before Christmas, We did not have a regular supper that night, but all the tables in the dining room were heaped up with fruit and nuts and paper plates with sandwiches. All of the children and all the neighborhood gathered in the dining room. It did not take long to dispose of the sandwiches. Then the music started. Mr. Arrowood, our Treasurer, is quite a hand when it comes to getting groups to sing. He is full of music himself and has a way of coaxing it out of folks. Miss Green at the piano just makes everybody want to sing anyhow. So we sang Christmas Carols just for fun.

There was a Christmas tree right in the middle of the dining room with no decorations or gifts on it at all. At a table right near this Christmas tree there were two girls. They had a quantity of cardboard decorations with strings in them. These decorations had been made by our own print shop; there was also a bowl to hold money. Any person who came up to make a contribution got a decoration - then this person would go and hang it on the tree. Now, in the dining room there were something over 400 people. To keep it from being too confusing, several of the cottages of the smaller children had received their decorations beforehand so they could come up in groups, and if they needed any help in tying on their decorations there was a flock of boys there to help. It happened that during Christmas time a number of our service boys came in. There was one from the Air Corps there was one from a Submarine, there was one from a destroyer, and there was one from Boot Camp, and they took great delight in helping the little ones arrange their decorations tastefully.

There was a lot of confusion - just enough to make the whole occasion a happy one. Nobody tried to be quiet and yet the noise was not the kind that would get on anyone's nerves. We sang Christmas Carols right along during all of the confusion and in a very short time - all too short, in fact - in less than an hour every person in that big dining room had placed a decoration on the tree and in the bowl there was a surprisingly generous contribution. There was $112.65, which went the next morning in a check to the colored orphanage of North Carolina at Oxford. That morning the money continued to come in - the colored folks on the place had heard about it and they sent in $3.50 and all of this went on to the same place.

On Sunday morning we received a letter from the superintendent of this Orphanage at Oxford which was a beautiful letter. We doubt if we have ever received a more appreciative letter from anybody about anything. The gift was a complete surprise to them, but we are sure that the pleasure which they got from the use of that gift could not exceed the pleasure that the Barium family got out of making it.

We feel sure that this business of giving will become a regular habit at Barium. We will probably choose a different object for our gift each year. It will be discussed and decided on by vote well before next Christmas. We are glad that we chose the colored Orphanage as the recipient of our first gift.

At first we had some misgivings about telling the general public about it they might get the notion that any set of children who could dig up over one hundred dollars to give away before Christmas did not need very much in the way of gifts themselves. Let us disabuse your mind of any idea like that. A lot of this money was out of savings from work. One whole cottage very diligently gathered leaves all last fall - they were paid so much a bag for them. Their mouths at times watered over the thought of what they were going to do with that money which was slowly accumulating in the office for them. They were going to have a big splurge, but as Christmas approached that cottage unanimously voted to give all of their money received for gathering leaves to this fund.

The Baby Cottage crowd - that's the place where nickels look awfully big - most of their money handling comes in pennies. Every one in that Baby Cottage made a contribution. It wasn't much in the lump - but to see those little tykes march up and take their decorations would make you think that they were responsible for the success of the whole business, and maybe they were not so far wrong at that.

The weatherman was a little rough on us Christmas. We did not have any lights - we didn't have much of a way to cook and very little heat, and before they got the lines repaired we had very little water, but it might have been a lot worse. With all of the sleet and snow it didn't get very cold, and the gifts that each person received somehow helped keep our bodies warm. And we got through the day with out anybody being much the worse for wear.

We can't help but think that maybe our blood ran just a little warmer and we were just a little stronger due to the fact that we had all joined in doing a kind deed before we accepted the many kind deeds of our friends. Thanks to Mr. Fred Behrends for the idea, thanks to the folks at the Colored Orphanage for being so appreciative in their thanks, and thanks to everybody at Barium - wait a minute, it looks like everybody is getting thanked for this thing. Isn't it a pity that there could not be more events in our lives like that - maybe after all we should just let it go and thank God for the period when we celebrate the gift of His Son to the world - the greatest gift of all.

COTTAGE NEWS

Well, I guess that is all for this month so good-bye till next month.

SYNODS COTTAGE

Well folks Christmas has come and gone. We had such a good time playing with our toys. Everybody was so good to us. We are always so happy at Christmas, that we want to have a part in making other people happy too. So we played Santa Claus to Willie Barber's children. Willie is a colored man who works on the campus. He has four children. It was more fun going shopping for the things they had asked for. Then we all helped tie them up with bright red ribbons. We also had a part in the Christmas gift tree, but I expect somebody else will tell you about that.

We want to wish all of you a very happy new year.

—The Wiggless.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, We have several down here with Chicken Pox, but they are doing just fine.

We had a very merry Christmas and want to thank all of our kind friends for the beautiful presents. From our cottage this month Vivian Jacumin, Betsy Dishman, Lucille Smith, and Jean McDonald were on the honor roll.

There has been some new children to come in. David Reid from Lillington and three Terry children whose mother is kitchen matron. She certainly can cook some wonderful meals.

Betsy Dishman had a visit from her sister and some friends from Mooresville. Vivian Jacumin is expecting a visit from her sister and brother-in-law who has just returned from Germany.

Paul Reid who has been here on the campus has now a permanent position in Alabama. Thats a long way Lucille, but there is still a future.

Mrs. McNatt had a visit from her son Charles and his wife. Charles has just returned from Manila and is discharged from the Army.

We'll say so long 'til next month.

MR. HARRY E. BARKLEY

This is a picture of Mr. Harry Barkley. In addition to being the principal of the grammar grades he is the coach of both boys and girls in basketball. There are times during the year when he looks terribly imposed upon, and then you occasionally catch the expression which is on his face in this picture. This is the way he looked in the last moment of the Barium-Kannapolis game. Here's how come: the Barium teams had been going through a hectic two weeks. They had been having trouble with teams that were 'way below them in the standings - the girls had barely won from Lexington. They had lost to the Children's Home by a scant three-point margin. They had tied Statesville after being in the lead with less than 15 seconds to go. His boys come from behind in one game to win by one point, in another game by two points, and then finally to lose to Statesville by two points after leading Statesville. So when we went to play Kannapolis on their court, Kannapolis being 'way out in front, the only undefeated and un-scared team of the conference, most of us really just expected to hold the score down to something respectable. Well, our boys took the lead at the beginning of the game and never relinquished it - it ran from two points to six points, and the game ended with four points. The above expression on Mr. Barkley's face was caught just as Earl Adams scored an amazing shot in the last thirty seconds to really sew up the game. It appears that friend Barkley is beginning to realize that the world is a fairly decent place to live in after all - this dawning realization can be observed in his expression - maybe mixed with it is the thought that Barium still has a chance to come out on top in the conference, although a mighty slim chance.

News From Some of the Cottages

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,
Here are the dish washers again bringing you our news. We have so much news we don't know where to begin.

We have two new matrons now. Mrs. Wood from Greenville, S. C., is our dining room matron. Our upstairs matron is Eleanor Pope. We like them both very much.

We can hardly wait until our new preacher arrives.

We went to the show Saturday and sure had a grand time. A man by the name of Robert Stowe is very good in supplying us with candy, and is also a good friend of ours.

The weather is warm and sunny and we enjoy playing basketball out of doors.

We have two girls sick in the infirmary, we hope they will soon be back with us.

We had better close and say son college spent Sunday at Barium.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cole so long for this month, we will be thinking about you all.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the latest news from our cottage. We have scraped around in our cottage to get some news but I think we have just about run out.

We have quite a few girls in the Infirmary and it certainly seems lonesome without them. Hurry up girls.

February 20th is the birthday of one of our teachers who lives in this cottage and we would like to say Happy Birthday, Miss Blakeney and everyone else who has a birthday in February. Some of her friends sent her a big cake in the shape of a drum and we had a party. Boy I wish birthdays came more often. We played games and then we had lemonade and cake.

The tournament begins today and we here at Barium always

Winter Sports

The basketball season is little more than half over and the Barium teams have acquitted themselves well. There have been some hair-raising one-point victories, and just the same sort of defeats.

In the warm-ups before the conference season started we lost a couple of games to Union Grove. Union Grove was the Mid-Piedmont champion of 1945 in the girls' division, and most of their team is back this year. It was Barium's first game and we lost both of them. Then our B teams went to Troutman just for a warm-up for their varsity teams that are beginning to function again. Barium won both of those games. Against China Grove our girls won, our boys lost. Then with Scotts that one-point business started. Our girls won 30-29; our boys more than doubled the score.

Then the conference games started. Our first game was with Concord. The Concord girls were co-champions for 1945; our girls defeated them 35-26, and our boys took them over for 33-21. Then Lexington visited us. We did not expect to find a very strong girl's team but we had a good deal of difficulty in beating them - the score was 31-28; the boys' game was 43-26 in our favor. Then we

THE GLORY OF THE COMMONPLACE

II Cor. 4:7—We have this treasure in earthen vessels.

Dr. J. R. Miller tells us that a number of years ago some Americans were in Cairo for a journey across the desert. They went out to buy some vessels to carry their supply of water for the journey. And they bought in accordance with their pleasure. Some bought brass vessels beautifully engraved, others bought porcelain delicately ornamented, others bought plain earthen ware vessels. The brass vessels heated and the water became tainted, the porcelain cracked and the water was lost; so the old earthen ware vessel was found to be the most useful as it preserved the water and kept it cool. Therefore, in its usefulness, the earthen vessel shone more brightly than brass and was more beautiful than porcelain for the treasure was safe in the earthen vessel.

The life, death, and teachings of Jesus have been eloquent of the beauties and glories of the earthen vessel.

We are near to Lincoln's birthday and much will be said of the home-spun hero of the little log cabin home, of the splitting of rails, etc. But think of how Christ changed a stable into a shrine and made of a manger a cradle venerated throughout time. It may be that on the night that Christ was born, Caesar Augustus had a great reception in Rome. There, as they reclined about sumptuous repasts with vessels of gold and silver and the rich viands from all over the world, suppose someone had the gift of prophecy to say, "Tonight your imperial highness, there is born in a stable in the province of Judea of peasant blood, One Who shall establish the greatest kingdom ever known, Who will be known and loved when you are forgotten and even the time of your illustrious reign will be dated from his birth." How that would have amused Caesar. But the stable at Bethlehem today is the object of teeming millions of pilgrims to who Augustus Caesar is unknown and his palace forgotten.

The same might be said of the little town of Nazareth which was a by-word in those days, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" But now we sing in our hymns of Nazareth and Bethlehem glorified by the presence of Christ.

I suppose if Jesus had seen fit, He could have selected as His birth-place the finest palace in Jerusalem. I suppose He could have gone to the greatest universities and schools in the world, but He chose for His college, a carpenter's shop. And I think He did that because He knew that some day He would stand and say, "Come unto me all ye that labor," and He did not want anyone to say, "What does He know about me, or the way I have to live, or the work I have to do." Jesus took homes and scenes more humble, more crude, more austere, and more uncomfortable than we can know or imagine and made a halo of glory to shine about them.

I suppose He could have select-

SCHOOL NOTES

The Stronghold Bible Class of Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian Church of Charlotte recently sponsored an essay contest in our school. The subject used was, "Why I Should Put God First in My Life." Eight high school students participated in the contest. An age limit caused those taking part to come largely from the ninth and tenth grades. First prize, a twenty five dollar bond, went to Bradley Jean Manus of the tenth grade. Second prize, a beautiful picture of Christ was received by Mary Dickson Arrowood of the ninth grade. The others who wrote essays were Charles Barrett, Ernestine Baldwin, Dorothy Shepherd, Peggy Coffey, Betty Coffey, and Virginia Presnell. Each of these participants received a small picture of Christ.

Friday, February 8th, the High School Glee Club gave a program at Mitchell College at their Chapel Hour. Three numbers were sung by the entire Glee Club, and one by a double quartet. There are thirty-one members of the Glee Club. Mrs. J. P. Johnston, the director, is planning to have our school take part in the State Music Contest in April.

A few weeks ago the school acquired a very valuable piece of equipment: a 16 MM sound, movie projector. Three or four educational pictures are shown each week.

Several of the teachers have been on the sick list during recent weeks. One teacher was lost by marriage just before Christmas, Miss Frances Hildebrand of Troutman. Fortunately, we were able to secure Mr. R. E. Sigman to take her place.

This school was not affected by the bad weather, and bad roads; so the seven members of the senior class expect to receive their diplomas on schedule, Monday May 13th.

ed as His friends and familiars on earth the most prominent people, the richest families in the land, but He chose the fisher folk of the Sea of Galilee, and I think He did that because when He says, "I have called you friends," He does not want anyone to feel that Jesus was above them.

Jesus found treasures in earthen vessels in His teachings. Doubtless Jesus loved the mountains, He spent a great deal of time there. I am sure he observed sunsets. He may have stood on some rocky promontory and watched the waves roll in from the Mediterranean Sea.

Jesus in His parables spoke of many classes of men, kings, lords, princess, judges, farmers, tax gatherers, fishermen, merchantmen, but I want you to especially observe His glorifying the profession of the shepherd.

occupation and drawing from them beautiful lessons has made for us compelling figure, has given to the shepherds of today a standard toward which to aspire and has surrounded the shepherd and his flock with a halo of glory.

The same may be said of childhood. We speak now of them, "Trailing clouds of glory, From God Who is their Home." They were not so considered before Christ.

I wish you to notice to the monument by which He wishes to be remembered. When Mausolus, King of Careia, prepared for death, he prepared a vault upon a base 250 feet high, on which stood a chamber surrounded by an ionic colonnade of 36 columns, and upon this was a pyramid of 24 steps.

The gallows has strangled the breath of many a noble spirit; the guillotine has let the life blood from many a noble heart, but neither one of them is revered today.

Crucifixion was the most shameful of deaths. The old song is true—"On a hill far away stood an old rugged Cross, the emblem of suffering and shame."

The Cross reconciled God and man. The Cross saves from sin. "So we love that old Cross for the dearest and best, for a world of lost sinners was slain."

No doubt in this day of careless thought, the Cross is often carelessly sacrilegiously used to ornament an arch or to enhance decoletee beauty, but to those who believe it is the power of God, so that Christians of every tongue sing: "In the Cross of Christ I glory, Towering o'er the wrecks of time, All the light of sacred story, Gathers round his head sublime."

Paul tells us in another place that there are all sorts of vessels, some of honor and some of dishonor, but we have this treasure in earthen vessels, the power of God. Jesus said, "The glory that thou hast given me, I've given them."

How Bigbee has shown us in his "Twice Born Men", old Born Drunk and the rest of them, Jerry McAuley, Billy Sunday, Tim Ranney, Tom Farmer, and scores of others transformed by the renewing of their mind.

We wonder at the sunset glories and we wonder the more when we learn that those colors are not reflected by air, for air is perfectly transparent. They are reflected by minute particles of dust; dust glorified by light reflected. I wonder if that is not the picture of a Christian and I wonder if there would be as much glory of Christ on earth if there was no Christians, earthy though they be, to reflect Him.

We all with unveiled face beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord are transformed into the same image from glory to glory even as from the Lord, the Spirit."

made a trip over to the Children's Home at Winston-Salem. Our girls lost their first conference game 35-23; our boys won 24-22 — a two point margin. We then went to Concord where we had it rather easy, defeating their girls 21-16, and their boys 24-15.

Then to Lexington — our girls barely won 22-20; our boys won in the last fifteen seconds 32-31, with Lexington leading all of the fourth quarter but the last fifteen seconds.

Then the Children's Home again they defeated our girls 21-18, although we led for a brief moment before the end of the game. Our boys lost 35-20. And then Statesville, and when the final whistle blew our girls had tied Statesville 25-25 and our boys lost 25-23.

The junior teams at this writing, have only had one game each, our ninth grade girls losing to Statesville 15-10; the 125lb. boys losing to Statesville 29-7.

Here is what we have yet to play: Kannapolis, their boys' team is leading the conference so far undefeated; then a game with Union Grove, not a conference game; then with Monroe, Mooresville, and return games with Kannapolis and Statesville, and then the tournament. We will probably enter the Landis tournament and the Salisbury tournament.

won't seem tired a bit.

FOUL-WEATHER FRIENDS

Tim Burton had no faith in human nature. He formulated the idea at an early age that a man had to fight for everything he got, and that the other fellow was not to be considered—unless one could afford to do so.

Tim developed a pleasing personality. People liked him because he pretended to like them. He was ambitious and successful. Before he reached the age of twenty-one he had overcome the handicap of poverty-stricken parents.

He found young doctors, lawyers, writers, singers, engineers, and actors, young businessmen and bewildered youths. He traveled the length and breadth of the country, and whenever he located someone who was working hard and not getting ahead, he would present a sizeable voucher, consistently refusing collateral.

Tim Burton's reputation spread far and wide. His friends began to wonder if there was no end to his wealth. Tim did not worry about this; he was too shrewd, he figured, to lose all his money. But something did happen. A bank failed. An oil well ran dry. A prospecting expedition failed.

For two years Tim roamed the world under an assumed name, trying to recoup his fortune. One

Reminiscences of Little Joe

East Gastonia, N. C.
March 10, 1946

Mr. Joseph B. Johnston,
Dear Mr. Johnston:

The literature on Barium you sent me reached me safely, and I found it to be very interesting, especially the pamphlet on Little Joe's Church. This brought to my mind things I have not thought of for many years.

I must say that it is true Joe's favorite song was "When the roll is called up yonder," although I had not thought of that in many years.

Joe could be crying and we could say, "Laugh Joe, Laugh," and he could start laughing with the tears still rolling down his cheeks. Once we were singing songs in the chapel and we sang "Old Black Joe," and Joe began crying. Miss Celeste Boyd said, "Joe, we are not singing about you, we are singing about a black man named Joe." Then Joe began laughing with tears still rolling down his cheeks. We also sang "Hail Columbia, Call the Muster Roll, All true men are with you heart and soul, Wave Old Glory, let the eagle scream. Truth and right and justice are supreme." Joe thought the words of the last line were "truth and right and just a saucer of cream."

The Pastor's Paragraph

By REV. F. B. BENTON

"A Light in a Dark World"

The world in which we live is a place of beauty and goodness in which God has made bountiful provision for all the needs of his creatures. But evil long ago made its entrance into God's world and the trail of the serpent which is everywhere evident has time and again threatened to obscure the handiwork of the Creator. The day in which we live is dark with problems brought on by hate and greed and fear. Men yearn for something that will lighten the darkness and give them assurance that good will prevail.

God in his wisdom and love has provided an unfailing light for all who will use it. The Psalmist, facing the evil and darkness of his own day, knew of this light and exclaimed, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." And Peter, writing centuries later in another period of darkness, echoes, "We have the word of prophecy made more sure, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a lamp that shineth in a dark place."

The scripture makes a definite claim to throw light upon the areas of greatest human need. Throughout the Old Testament a beacon is focused upon the coming Christ who shall win the victory over evil for all men. The New Testament presents the claim of Jesus of Nazareth to be this deliverer and King and offers the promise of His unfailing care to all His followers. To those sunk in sin it says that "He that believeth is not condemned". To those confronted by death it says that "he that believeth hath everlasting life." To those who are worried (and there is cause for worry today if ever) it declares, "Be careful for nothing but — let your requests be made known unto God, and the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." No matter

Death Notice

"Mrs. Prayer Meeting died recently at the First Neglected Church, on Worldly Avenue." Born many years ago in the midst of great revivals, she was a strong healthy child, fed largely on testimony and scriptural holiness, soon growing into world-wide prominence, and was one of the most influential members of the famous church family.

For the past several years Sister Prayer Meeting has been in failing health, gradually wasting away until rendered helpless by stiffness of knees, coldness of heart, inactivity, and weakness of purpose and willpower. At the last she was but a shadow of her former self. Her last whispered words were inquiries concerning the strange absence of her loved ones, now absent from her presence, busy in the marts of trade and places of worldly amusement. Her older brother, Brother Classmeeting, has been dead for many years.

"Experts, including Dr. Works, Dr. Reform and Dr. Joiner, disagreed as to the cause of her fatal illness, administering large doses

Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Benton and Elizabeth

The entire community at Barium is overjoyed at the coming of the new pastor and his family to Little Joe's Church. You will see the three reasons why just above. The whole family of three has already endeared themselves to everyone.

Rev. Francis B. Benton is a native of Alabama. He graduated from Southwestern University at Memphis in 1936, with the degree of B. A. After teaching two years at McCallie School in Chattanooga he took his Seminary training at Columba Seminary, Decatur, Ga. where he graduated in 1941 with the degree of B. D.

Mr. Benton was licensed and ordained by the Presbytery of Knoxville, May 11, 1941.

Before coming to Barium Mr. Benton had served in two very successful pastorates in Etowah and Dyersburg, Tenn.

In January 1944, Mr. Benton was married to Miss Mildred Thomas of Charlotte. Mrs. Benton is a graduate of the Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Va.

The third and most interesting member of the family group is Elizabeth Louise better known as Betty.

We heartily and happily welcome this family to Presbyterian Orphans' Home. We cordially invite the members of our Messenger Family to attend worship with us and hear Mr. Benton preach. We are sure you will agree with us that we are very fortunate in securing this man who has accepted the unanimous call of Little Joe's Church.

Barium Teams Wind Up Successful Season

Last month's Messenger brought the story of our 1946 Basketball up through February 5th, then on February 8th the most exciting games of the whole year were played at Kannapolis. Our girls defeated Kannapolis 24-13, but did not have too easy a time doing it. Our boys pulled an upset, winning 29-25. This was the first defeat administered to the Kannapo-

Finally, And In Conclusion

For several months since the departure of Rev Thos. C. Cook and the coming of the new pastor, Rev Francis B. Benton, I have been privileged to write a sermon each month for the Messenger.

I wish to express my thanks for the letters received and the kind words spoken about my efforts.

I am sure we may all look forward with pleasure and profit to the fine things which will come from Mr. Benton's pen.

R. S. ARROWOOD.

Library Notes

Our library here at Barium is one of the things we are very proud of. Perhaps no other school in Iredell County system has so well equipped library as ours.

We use the library page system whereby students under the general supervision of Miss Ruth Troutman, English and French teacher, take charge of the library during the periods when the students go there for reference work, reading or studying. Mary Morgan has charge of the over-due notices; Jeane Steppe, of the stock room; Miriam Huddleston keeps the two big rooms neat and attractive, looking after our plants, bulletin board and the general appearance; Blanche Feimster takes the responsibility of seeing that the magazines and periodicals are properly stamped and put in place. Other student librarians who "keep the desk" and aid pupils in finding materials are: Dewie Belle Buie, Lucy Gray Johnson, Lavona Morrison, Dorothy Shepherd, Janie Hall, Helen Vinson and Margaret Katen.

We use the card catalogue sys-

Memorial Fund Values To Grow

The Memorial Fund for the new church, Presbyterian Orphans' Home, continues to grow steadily. It has attained the wonderful total of $43,364.23 which is the actual value of the bonds and cash on hand. For the past two years this fund has grown on the average of one thousand dollars per month.

If building conditions were normal we would begin at once on the first unit of our building as we estimate that in normal times we could build either the auditorium or the Educational Building for $50,000. But owing to abnormal building conditions the Committee on Buildings and Grounds do not plan at this time to begin any major building program. They hope that by waiting, to get much better value for the funds contributed as memorials.

While no final plans have been approved by the regents it is thought that the Auditorium and the Educational Building can be erected for $100,000. We are happy that we have made such fine progress toward reaching that goal.

Attends Convention In Winston-Salem

On March 8th and 9th in Winston-Salem at the Robert E. Lee hotel, the annual State Beta Club Convention was held. Four of us members - W. A. Johnson, Maggie Katen, Lucile Smith, and Dewie Belle Buie were chosen to represent our local chapter. We were very fortunate to be accommodated with nice living quarters at Children's Home. A talent show was staged by Beta members of various chapters on Friday night. The show lasted well into the night but none became restless, because skilled talent was displayed by every contestant. Saturday, we attended several business meetings which dealt chiefly with ways of promoting leadership and activity among the individual chapters. The election of state officers was held in the afternoon after which the meeting was adjourned. From 4:00 to 5:00, the girls were invited to an informal tea at Salem College. Following the tea, we scurried "home" and donned our formals for an exciting evening. The banquet coming first and then the ball. During the banquet, we had speeches from the newly-elected officers and from C. C. Ervin, superintendent of Rowan County schools. The ball began at 9:30 and lasted until mid-night. There was a very good orchestra, which made the dance much more enjoyable.

Suggestions to the Orphanage Secretaries

As many new orphanage Secretaries are now being installed in local Auxiliaries, we offer the following suggestions:

The Orphanage Secretary represents the Orphanage to her Auxiliary all during the year.

The Auxiliaries have supported the Orphanage in a wonderful way in the past, and we are very grateful for this support.

Local conditions will, of course, determine the activities of the Auxiliaries in relation to the Orphanage.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks, Here we are bringing you the news for this month. We have been having a grand time in the nice sunshine. Edna Ellis and Pattie Inman had visitors last Sunday and they stayed most of the day. We are practicing our play for the Kiwanis and we hope some of you can come to see it. We got our report cards this month and just Pattie Inman made the honor roll, but everyone is going to try very hard and see how many can bring home the honor roll next time. We went to the show Saturday and it was very good. That is all for this month but you will hear from us again next time. — The Howard Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks, This is the Annie Louise Girls bringing you the latest news from our cottage. We got our report cards last week and very few were on the honor roll, but we hope to have twice as many next time. Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Shirly Plyler, Shirly Shaw, Phebee Cochran, Martha Nell Hall, and Mary Bowles have recited the Catechism for young children. Most of the other girls in our cottage have recited it before. Our basketball teams entered a tournament at Landis. Our boys lost out but our girls go to the finals tonight. We also enter a tournament at Catawba College this week. Our last game of the year was with Statesville and we won. We are all enjoying these beautiful days. It seems as if King Winter, Jack Frost, and Queen Snow have returned home after wearing out their welcome. We have a number of girls who are going to be in Kiwanis and we are looking forward to the time when we can preform for our dear friends. — The Annie Louise Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks, This month you will call this more or less a gossip column since we are just catching up on all the gossip from this section of the campus. Since we last called on you we have lost one of our matrons and picked up a swell one named Miss Coffey and we surely do enjoy her coming in and playig the piano for us. We like Miss Coffey a great deal and we appreciate the people from Steele Creek for sharing her with us. In our joy of having a new matron we also regret losing Mrs. Hoyle who was very good to us and meant a great deal to us, and her husband isn't bad at all. He is serving as a Chaplain in the Army and he is really some guy. Now folks settle down and get comfortable for the gossip from our cottage.

Helen Morgan and Virginia Presnell are taking turns with Horace Denton during the basketball games, and you can see Virginia on one side of the gym smiling at him and Helen on the other side. They should be watching those wonderful games. I wonder why Betty Joe, Lucille Stricklin and Ernestine are so excited about the big tournament coming up this week. It could be that Landis is entering. Hey, "Strick," quit turning flips. Our "all star" player, Adelia Knight is a little on the blue side now. Could it be that she hasn't heard from the Navy in a good while? Is it that he is out of the service or on a leave? We all wonder what Earl Adams was doing over at Howard playing dodge ball? He looks okay outside but how about inside, "Red" Price. Mary Francis Isenhour doesn't seem so sad because Donald Pettus left. She seems to be doing better with Roscoe Smith. This seems to be the first time we haven't caught Lee Vinson writing a service guy. Could it be that she has lost all interest in boys or is she looking for a better one? We haven't much to say about Helen Hawley since she has already received a diamond. But the guy isn't bad at all. This wedding that Willie went to two weeks ago. I bet he wishes that it were he and Miriam getting married. How about it Miriam? Well that is about all for this time so we will say so long for awhile. — The Women's Building Girls

Pastor's Paragraphs

(Continued From Page One) what our need may be the Scripture offers blanket coverage: "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." Anyone can make claims, but the proof of the ability to fulfil them is more difficult. Peter can say, "We have this word of prophecy made more sure." He and the others who followed Jesus during His earthly ministry knew that of which they spoke. They had heard the divine voice at His baptism, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." They have seen this same Jesus glorified in the Transfiguration. And even more important, they had seen Him risen from the dead and ascended into heaven. It is on the basis of such witnesses that the claims of the Scripture were first given credence. Nineteen centuries have added such overwhelming proof in the lives of countless Christians that denial is no longer possible. The Word of God is a never-failing light for those who will search the Scripture and lay it up in their hearts. It is the one lamp with power to lighten the darkness that is over the world today.

books 329 of these books were added this year. 177 of these books were sent to the elementary school. Sixty six of the books added this year were gifts. We are particularly pleased over a new set of Compton's Encyclopedias. Our library has been newly painted this year and flourescent lights have been installed. Posters by Adelia Knight and Earl Allen help to make it inviting. Fifteen magazines and three newspapers come regularly to us; friends on the campus supplement this number by giving us their copies. These are all filed for reference. An attractive display of our new books was made and shown at a teachers meeting last fall. The pages are working on collecting and mounting pictures to have available to teachers who wish to use them in connection with their particular subjects. Another of our projects was to make possible a small library at Rumble Hall for the girls that live there by putting in their living room juvenile books which were not regularly classified for high school students. Most of the children at Barium like to read books. We like Wordsworth's quotations about books which we have on one of our posters: Dream books are each a world; and books we know Are substantial world both pure and good. Round these with tendrils, strong as flesh and blood, Our pastimes and happiness will grow." Suggestions to the (Continued On Page Two) Orphanage. Here are some things which may be done: 1. Make quilts, bureau scarfs, towels, etc., for the use of the Orphanage. 2. Check on the ones who are getting the Messenger, having us discontinue any duplicates and adding to the mailing list any names of families not now receiving it. 3. Follow the columns of the Messenger and give to the Auxiliary any new current interest. 4. Keep before your Auxiliary the suggestions of your Presbyterian or Synodical Officers with reference to the support funds and Home. 5. Look after any program the Auxiliary may have to clothe one or more children at Barium. The doctor's little daughter had strayed into his surgery. Watching him as he tested the heart and lungs of a patient, she suddenly spoke: "Getting any new stations, Daddy?" "Where were you born?" "I was born in the United States, but I went to school in England." "Boy! You had a long way to go every day, didn't you?"

Memorial Service for 15 Barium Boys Who Died In Service

Rev. Joe H. Carter to Deliver Com'encement Address at Barium

Commencement is just around the corner. It is amazing how things happen in the spring. One day we are shivering from the March winds and the next day all the leaves are out and we are talking about commencement. Already commencement doings are taking place. The seventh grade have put on their minstrel, and a most enjoyable occasion it was. As this is written the fourth graders have themselves all dolled up and are planning for their performance at the chapel hour today. There will be something from each class or each section of school until the big day - May 12th and 13th. Reverend Cliff McLeod of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville will preach our baccalaureate sermon on the morning of May 12th. Mr. McLeod was a seminary classmate of our pastor, Reverend F. B. Benton.

On Monday night the final commencement exercises will be held, and our speaker for that occasion is Reverend Joe H. Carter, D. D., pastor of the Newton Presbyterian Church, lately moved back to North Carolina from Anderson, South Carolina.

The speaker for Sunday night has not been secured at this writing. The sermon on Sunday night is addressed to the members of the Young People's Societies, but the congregation is the same which hears the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning.

Our graduating class this year is the smallest in many years. In fact, this is the year when the high schools all over the State have very small graduating classes. Four years ago no one was promoted from the elementary schools to the high schools due to the fact that an extra grade was added to the elementary school. We have two boys and five girls. In next month's Messenger we will have their pictures and a brief write-up of each one and their address at that time.

Vacations

You can pretty well tell the time of year at Barium by listening to the conversation of the children. If it is the fall of the year for a time it is about Thanksgiving and football games, and then it is about Christmas. In the winter and spring by the time basketball has ceased to be a subject of conversation the question is, "when can I go on my vacation?" Well, this article attempts to answer that question. Our school will be out May 13th. There are many things to be done during May and we are going to have a daily vacation Bible school early in June, and this means that June 10th will be as early as vacations can commence. Vacations must be over by July 27th at the latest. Our camp on the river will start the following Monday and be over by August 17th. We will probably start school the following week, or early the week after that.

I hope matrons, children, relatives, and friends will clip this particular article and not make any arrangements for any vacations except between the dates mentioned. The maximum length of time for each vacation will be two weeks unless there is some extraordinary reason for a longer vacation.

Basketball Banquet Was Held April 12th

The Barium Springs Basketball banquet was held last night with just homefolks attending. This is the first time since these banquets were started many years ago that no outside guests were invited, but just the Barium Springs folks teachers, matrons, workers, and their families, and it was a large gathering about 160 being present.

Reverend R. S. Arrowood was toastmaster and handled the talking part of the occasion in such a happy and expeditious manner that the banquet was over at 8:30.

The letters for the Junior Girls' team were delivered by R. E. Jackins. Mr. Jackins has officiated in a good many games and had seen our Junior teams play. His comparison as to the spirit and sportsmanship of our teams was most gratifying to hear. The Junior Girls receiving letters are as follows: Dickie Arrowood, Annie Star Langly, Vivian Jacumin, Francis Stricklin, Nellie Isenhour, Ann Wicker, Lorena Hall, Margaret Bullard, Juanita Young, Elsie Vest, and Dorothy Shepherd.

Joe Ben Gibbs, a returned marine, delivered the letters to the 125 - lb Boys. Joe Ben was a member. (Continued On Page Two)

Short On Pictures This Month

We had hoped to have cuts in this Messenger of Miss Maggie Adams and Miss Mona Clark, and one of the pictures having to do with our memorial service, but we were unable to get any of these pictures. Next month the Messenger will be decorated with the pictures of our graduating class. Four years ago these pictures took the entire front page of the Messenger - there are not so many this year but you will be glad to look at them. We will be homesick for them when they leave us.

Speaking of pictures, there is one that remains in our mind and we wish we could reproduce it for you. The event took place on Easter Sunday morning - twenty-two young people joined Little Joe's Church, and twenty of them were baptized. There are many beautiful and solemn occasions in our little church here at Barium. Communion is always such an occasion to see this church full of small children perfectly quiet, and partaking of, without fully understanding, something of the spiritual blessings that come with a Communion Service. And then the occasions when a number join the church - it is not often that as many as twenty-two join at one time. The occasions are beautiful and we do not believe that they are forgotten by those participating in any way in these occasions. We wish we could picture to you the beauty and solemnity of this wonderful thing.

Gen. Manton S. Eddy Made Presentation

The memorial services held at Barium Springs Monday afternoon for fifteen boys from the Barium Home who lost their lives in the war were brief, simple and impressive. Spring flowers made a background for the speakers who were seated on the platform in the auditorium of the primary school building. Music was by a vested choir of boys and girls, Pleas Norman, Barium boy who is veteran of World War II, singing a solo part in "Lest

We Forget." Rev. Francis Benton, pastor of Little Joe's church was in general charge of the service and introduced others on the program who were General G. W. Smythe, Major General Manton Eddy, and Dr. Carl R. Pritchett of Davidson, N. C. Pritchett made the memorial address, pointing out the beauty of service, the nobility of sacrifice and the abiding hope of reunion through faith.

The Pastor's Paragraph

By REV. F. B. BENTON

"USING OUR EASTER GIFT"

The joy of the Easter season is still fresh in our minds. Once more the beautiful music, the elaborate floral decoration, the reading of good tidings of the angels at the tomb, and the inspired preaching of the glorious Easter truths have thrilled our hearts, reminding us anew of the gift of life which the first Easter brought to us. As we turn back from this mountain top experience into the valley of everyday living, we need to be reminded that even eternal life is a worthless gift unless we are willing to receive it and use its power.

Some time ago I heard a story, whether true or not I do not know, of a small community back in the mountains near the North Carolina-Tennessee border. The advent of T. V. A. brought electricity to the people of this village who had known few of the conveniences of modern civilization. Some years before this a son had gone out into the outside world from one of the (Continued On Page Two)

High School Enters State Music Contest

The State High School Music Contest, which was discontinued during the war years, has been revived; and the Barium Springs High School entered it this year for the first time.

Before entering the statewide contest, the contestants have to take part in a district contest. Here, each contestant, or group, is given a rating. Only those receiving a rating of I are eligible to enter the state contest.

The district contest for this area was held in Charlotte April 6th. Barium Springs entered more events than any other school in the district. The events entered were: Mixed Chorus, Mixed Quartet, Girls Trio, Soprano Solo, Alto Solo, Tenor Solo, Baritone Solo, and Unchanged Voice Solo.

There are thirty members of the Glee Club. The mixed quartet was composed of Virginia Presnell, Peggy Coffey, Herbert Good, and John Whiting. The girls trio was composed of Frances Adams, Betty Jo Smith and Callie Dunn. The soloists were Dorothy Sheperd, Bradley Jean Manus, Ray Huddleston, W. A. Johnson, and Billy Lybrand.

The Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament

This is a story that should have gotten into the last issue of the Messenger. It is too important to leave out altogether because it records something of a miracle. There were 24 teams entered in our Junior Tournament this year - this means teams of girls from the ninth grade down, and boys with 125-lb. weight limit. During the season both of our teams were defeated repeatedly and very few people though we had any chance at all in the tournament. Here's the way things turned out in the tournament.

The first girl's team which we met was Celeste-Henkel, the one-time champions. The Barium team happened to be "hot" that afternoon and defeated Celeste-Henkel 27-8. In the second go-round our girls met Cleveland and that was one nip and tuck affair with Barium finally winning 20-19. This (Continued On Page Three)

Barium Community Saddened by Death of Two Workers

The Barium Springs community has been saddened by the death of two of its most faithful workers, Miss Margaret Adams and Miss Mona Clark.

Miss Adams was for many years matron of the larger girls and then head matron of the whole institution. During her stay at Barium at least a thousand girls were under her supervision and care. This many women living today have had their lives touched and to a certain extent moulded by the work of this consecrated woman. Miss Adams gave up her work at Barium in 1940 due to failing health. She has lived in nearby Statesville since that time with her sister, Miss Mattie Adams. There never has been a visit from returning Barium people who knew Miss Adams but that their first inquiry was "How is Miss Adams?" The news of her death as it will be spread over the country in this Messenger will bring sadness to many who knew Miss Adams and loved her. From far away Portland, Oregon, came a young woman with her family who counted on a reunion with Miss Adams as part of her visit to her old home state. She arrived too late.

Miss Mona Clark had been our sewing-room matron almost as long as Miss Adams had worked here. Just as Miss Adams had helped develop character, so did Miss Clark, not only character but personality and appearance. The well-dressed appearance of our girls was largely due to Miss Clark's efficient methods. For a number of years we had arranged it so that the vacation in the sewing-room would be during the months of January and February, at a time when the larger girls were so interested in basketball, and that the sewing-room would work right on through the summer when other people were having vacations. Miss Clark helped to work out this idea and managed her work most efficiently. As she was closing up the sewing room for this January and February vacation, she asked us if we could not brighten up the sewing-room with paint and with a few decorations. Sometime later when Miss Clark had become ill she was told that (Continued On Page Three)

Thanks Expressed to Synod's Committees Outstanding Thanksgiving Offering

As the final results are tabulated showing the total amounts given for the Thanksgiving Offering again there is evidence of very efficient service of the Synod's Committee on Orphanage work.

This year the outstanding sum of $80,073.08 was received as a Thanksgiving offering which was $10,000 more than the previous high year. This splendid increase reflects the planning and effort of the general chairman Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham and the fine men who assisted him: Mr. James G. Johnson of Goldsboro the chairman of Albemarle Presbytery, Mr. Richard E. Lackey of Hickory, the chairman of Concord Presbytery, Mr. H. M. McKethan of Fayetteville, the chairman of Fayetteville Presbytery, Mr. R. M. Bruin of Henderson, Chairman of Granville Presbytery, Mr. Hugh A. Query of Gastonia, Chairman of the Kings Mountain Presbytery, Mr. A. Ray Morrow of Charlotte, Chairman of Mecklenburg Presbytery, Mr. M. E. Yount of Graham, Chairman of Orange Presbytery, Mr. Wm. L. McIntire of Wilmington, Chairman of Wilmington Presbytery, Mr. R. S. Haltiwanger of Winston Salem, Chairman of Winston Salem Presbytery.

The above gentlemen gave of their time and talents without stint and are hereby tendered our grateful thanks for their unselfish service which was so richly crowned with success.

INFIRMARY

Hello Friends, We are glad to say for the last eight days we haven't had any patients. The last patient we sent up had mumps.

We are looking forward to our Easter parade with all of our new dresses and shoes.

Betsy Dishman and Vivian Jacumin have had visits from their sisters.

Jean McDonald, Betty Ann Andrews and Vivian Jacumin are keeping up our record of having someone on the honor roll each month.

We were delighted to receive the news that our superintendent, Mr. J. B. Johnston had been elected president of the Tri-State Conference of Orphanage workers.

We are already talking about the close of school so near. We only have three weeks till school is out.

Basketball season is over and Vivian Jacumin from our cottage received a certificate for playing on the junior team. We were also champion and got a lovely trophy.

We have all been practicing for our commencement.

We are going to try and write you the news from our cottage each month. Good by for this month.

little mountain cabins of the village and had made a financial success in the work he undertook. Now he saw an opportunity to ease the last years of his aged mother. He had electric wires led into his old home, and as a crowning gift he had a beautiful new electric stove delivered there. It was the wonder of the community. His mother was so proud of it that she refused to have it installed inside the cabin, but left it instead on the porch so that all who passed that way might see it. She continued to cook on the old wood burning stove that she had used all her married life.

Too many of us are like the old mountain woman. We treasure the gift of life given to us by Christ, but we make no use of it. Instead we continue to live in the same manner as those who are still dead in sin and to bear all the age-old burdens of the human race that the gift was meant to remove.

Worry is one of these burdens. How many Christians there are who are chronic worriers! They live constantly in fear of what some tomorrow may bring. They fear for their own health or for that of other members of their family. They worry about their jobs or their futures or about any one of a thousand other things. And yea the gift of eternal life assures us that "all things work together for good to them that love God." We are reminded to "be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." Easter's gift is intended to give to us "the peace that passeth all understanding" in our hearts.

Pessimism is another burden that many Christians carry needlessly. It is true that the outlook for our world is dark today if we have no power beyond human strength and goodness upon which we can rely. But the Christian has a faith which can make him an optimist. "If Christ be not risen, your faith is vain", but Christ is risen and our faith in God's plan to redeem the world from sin and evil is a certainty. The resurrection is a token to us of God's love that overcomes every evil. Resting upon it, we can see the light that glows even in the darkest time and we can face the future with confidence.

Selfishness is a burden many Christians fail to recognize as such. It restricts one's interests and pleasures to the small world of himself and his own pleasures. The eternal life which Christ gives makes us members of the great family of God and opens for us worlds which cannot be known otherwise. It gives our lives a great purpose and a noble plan. We learn the pleasure of serving others and enjoy the privilege of sharing with God in the building of His Kingdom. David Livingston, when questioned about the sacrifices he had made going to Africa, showed that he had learned this truth. "Sacrifice!" he replied. "Why I have never made a sacrifice in my life." His work was not a burden he was bearing but a means of rolling away the burden of selfishness.

Consider your own life and you will doubtlessly find other burdens that you are bearing thus needlessly. The gift of life on that first Easter morning was meant to set us free. Christ is risen, and we can leave the load we are carrying in his empty tomb. Let us then live in the luxury of contentment, faith and service which are meant to be ours along with eternal life.

1. Gastone Alessandrini, Private, United States Army Air Corps. A member of our community here for eight years, he was serving on a B-29 bomber crew which had successfully completed 34 missions from Guam. On its 35th mission the crew failed to return, and Gastone was among those listed as missing in action.

2. Walter Archer, Master Sergeant, United States Army. Walter, who spent 15 years here at Barium Springs, was serving in the New Guinea theater of action at the time of his death. His outfit had completed a successful raid on a Japanese coastal position, and he had gotten back on the boat safely when he noticed his commanding officer left on the beach. Disregarding his own safety he returned to rescue the officer and was killed in the attempt.

Barium boys for 10 years and a graduate of Davidson College, Leonard was serving as a bomber pilot over Austria when he was shot down. Evidence from eye witnesses is that he could have parachuted to safety, but because he had a wounded man aboard, he elected to stay with the plane and bring it to a crash landing. This heroic effort cost him his life.

4. James D. Johnston, Lt. Colonel, United States Army. Jim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, and a graduate of Davidson College, was killed while on reconnaissance preparatory to the attack on Cherbourg, France.

5. Fred Lowrance, Lieutenant, United States Army. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, Fred attended Davidson College before entering the army. He served in the Southwest Pacific theater of action. His unit was attacking a hill on New Georgia Island when the Japanese counterattacked in force. When last seen, Fred was wounded but still firing his pistol at the enemy.

6. J. C. McMasters, Private, United States Army. A member of our community for six years, he entered the army from here and was killed in Germany in February of last year. No details of his death are available.

7. Tom Morgan, a member of the United States Navy. After eight years at Barium, he entered the navy and was serving in the engine room of one of our ships during the early days of the war. His ship was torpedoed, and he was killed either by the explosion or by drowning when the engine room was shut off to keep the water out of the rest of the ship. He was the first Barium boy lost in the war.

8. Ben Morrow, Private, United States Army. Ben spent 12 years with us here at Barium Springs and was serving with the army in the Philippines when the war broke out. He was captured on Bataan, endured the infamous death march, and died in a Japanese prison Camp.

9. T. L. O'Kelly, Lieutenant, United States Army Air Corps. He had completed one year at Mitchell College and one year at the Juilliard School of Music in New York before entering the army. While on maneuvers he flew his plane out over the Caribbean Sea and failed to return.

10. Dick Parrish, Private First Class, United States Marine Corps. A member of our community for fifteen years and a student at Davidson College at the time of his entering the service, Dick was killed in the attack on Iwo Jima.

11. Bruce Parcell, Lt. Col., U. S. Army Air Corps. After spending six years at Barium Springs, Bruce went on to Davidson College and graduated there. On a mission over Germany his objective was to blow up a bridge. In order to accomplish this objective he flew his plane so low that when he was hit he could not land and crashed to his death.

12. Paul Pittman, Captain, United States Army Air Corps. A Barium Springs boy for eight years. Paul graduated from Davidson College and entered the army before the outbreak of the war. He was serving as a test pilot and instructor when he became ill, and he died in a hospital in Dallas, Texas.

13. Corris Smith, Private, United States Army. He spent a year and a half at Barium Springs as a boy. After entering the army he became a member of the 88th Artillery and was killed by shrapnel while sleeping in a dugout in Italy.

14. Eugene Whitener, member of the United States Army. While serving with a Tank Destroyer Company, he was killed in Europe in the Battle of the Bulge.

15. Robert Wilkes, member of the United States Navy. He spent eight years at Barium Springs during his youth. Serving in the Philippines at the outbreak of the war, he was captured on Bataan and endured the infamous death march afterward. At the end of the war he was rescued from a Japanese prison camp, but died in San Francisco on his way home.

The address by Dr. Pritchett followed the In Memoriam and after that General Smythe was introduced who in turn presented General Eddy. General Eddy had a special mission, the presentation of the Legion of Merit to the mother of Lieutenant Colonel James Johnston. Colonel Johnston served under Major General Eddy and General Eddy paid tribute to him as comrade at arms, personal friend and a man of high courage, steadfast principals and devotion to duty. Major Wylie read the citation that accompanied the award and General Eddy then handed the medal to Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston, who stood, with her husband, to receive it. The citation is as follows:

Lieutenant Colonel James D. Johnston, as Commanding Officer, 2nd Battalion 47th Infantry Regiment, displayed exceptional leadership and ability from November, 1943 to June, 1944 while organizing, training and leading his outstanding combat unit into battle. His courage and relentless determination enabled his battalion to establish a highly enviable record in Tunisia, Sicily, and in the critical stages of the Normandy campaign, when it swept gallantly across the Cotentin Peninsula and insured against any possible escape of enemy troops contained therein. Until mortally wounded by an enemy shell he was a constant example to his command, a battalion which earned three Distinguished Unit Citations.

The services closed with singing of the national anthem and benediction. Representatives from the families of the boys who were memorialized were present, some coming from a distance, and there was a large group of interested friends present also for the service.

ber of the original 125-lb team gotten out by Barium Springs, the first team to win a championship in the Junior Tournament. He is still almost small enough to make this 125-lb team. He was discharged from the service and landed at Barium in time to see the Junior Tournament this year but very few of the Varsity games. His comments on the play of the Juniors was highly complimentary. Those receiving letters are as follows: Jimmy Williams, Rufus Clark, Donald Mitchell, Paul Barnes, James Reid, Fred Feimster, Ray Huddleston, Bert Atwood.

Mr. Barkley, coach, delivered the letters to the Varsity Girls. He spoke of the pleasure he had in coaching this team and the spirit which they had displayed all during the season. In spite of the fact that many of the games during the season were won or lost by one or two point margins, he did not lose very many of the remaining hairs on his head. Lee Vinson, Guard, was elected captain of the team for the year, and also voted the most valuable by her team-mates. Those receiving letters are as follows: Lee Vinson, Janie Hall, Helen Hawley, Tony DeLancy, Hannah Price, Lucille Stricklin, Adelia Knight, Helen Vinson.

The Varsity Boys' letters were delivered by Joseph B. Johnston who had a few remarks to make on the record of the team. The fact that Barium was the only team to defeat Kannapolis and Children's Home on their home courts was a matter that seemed worthy of comment. The girls team played all of the good teams in the conference and was the only team that did so, and in spite of this only lost two games. Boys winning letters are as follows: Earl Adams, Jerry Young, Benny Gregory, Charles Barrett, Jack Jones, Dwight Spencer, Earl Allen. The captain elected for the year was Earl Adams. The one voted most valuable by his team-mates, Jerry Young.

Attention was called to the trophies won during the year. The Varsity Girls winning a handsome trophy as runner-up in the Landis tournament; The Junior Boys won the championship trophy of the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament and the Girls winning the championship for the same Tournament.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Junior Senior Banquet
On April 19, at seven thirty the junior class of the Barium Springs High School gave a banquet, honoring the senior class, in the assembly room of Rumble Hall.

After the welcome song by the junior class, W. A. Johnson said grace. A five course dinner was served by Dickie Arrowood, Mildred Monroe, Elizabeth Johnson, Dorothy Plummer, Betty Sue Wolfe, Bradley Manus, and Kathleen Monroe.

Dwight Spencer gave a toast to the seniors, to which Roscoe Smith responded. Margaret Katen gave the toast to Mr. T. Ward Guy (superintendent of Irell County Schools) and his wife.

Group singing lead by Mary Ann Ryder was enjoyed between courses.

The guest speaker, Rev. Homer Keever of Union Grove, a former member of our high school faculty, was introduced by Benny Gregory.

Guest to the banquet included the members of the senior class, Adilia Knight, Lucy Johnson, Lucille Smith, Blanche Feimster, Dewie Belle Buie, Amos Hardy, and Roscoe Smith, and the mascot Bobby Arrowood, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, Mr. R. E. Jackins, Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Benton, Miss Rebecca Carpenter, Miss Sara McNeil, Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Arrowood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barkley, Mr. J. H. Lovrance, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ward Guy, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Keever and members of the high school faculty.

The juniors who were hosts were as follows: Earl Adams, Earl Allen, Mary Ann Ryder, Myrtle Rushing, Lee Vinson, Helen Hawley, Mary Frances Isenhour, Eleanor Pope, Miriam Huddleston, Margaret Katen, Jeanne McDonald, Benny Gregory, Dwight Spencer, W. A. Johnson, Toni Delancy, Buddy Lippard, and Hannah Price. The banquet was under the capable direction of Miss Cloyce Moose, junior class sponsor. —Hannah Price brought us up to the finals and the team Barium faced in the finals was China Grove. Now: China Grove had defeated Scotts and Cool Springs, two good teams, and were the favorites to win in the finals. The first half was on rather easy terms, but in the second half Barium pulled away and won 24-18.

Now for the boys. The boys started out against Cleveland. Cleveland was a much weaker team and the score was lopsided-42-3. In the second go-round Barium met Celeste-Henkel and defeated that team 24-18. And then into the finals against the team that had beaten us badly twice during the season - Statesville. The Barium boys would just not be denied - the final score was Barium 28 - Statesville 20.

Just a word about this tournament. It started out about six years ago with 16 teams participating. Very few grown people came to see the youngsters play, but the tournament has grown in popularity and this year there were almost as many spectators as there were for some of our big tournaments. Plans are already on foot to expand it from 24 to 32 teams in 1947, making it cover as much ground as the big tournament. The fact that there is double elimination means many more games and much more fun, because sometimes after one of these teams lose a game they really enjoy playing the other games. Any team that wins two of the three games wins a trophy. The other teams that won trophies were the Statesville Girls, Mooresville Boys, Scotts Girls, West Yadin Boys, Catawba Girls, Troutman Boys, Cleveland Girls, and Celeste Henkel Boys. The runners-up were the China Grove Girls, and the Statesville Boys and they, of course, received trophies too.

this had been done, and she expressed great delight over the prospect of coming back to these brighter surroundings at the end of her vacation.

As we know now, she was not permitted to come back. Her illness became more severe and she passed away early in April.

It would be difficult to name two people whose lives were more filled with usefulness and who touched more other lives for good. We mourn their passing and their memory will continue to inspire us to ever try to make Barium a better place.

the alto soloist, Dorothy Shepherd. The Glee Club, mixed quartet, girls trio, soprano solo, all received ratings of II, which we feel is unusually good for the first year. As this is being written the state contest at Greensboro is still in the future. Our school will be represented by Dorothy Shepherd.

The Glee Club has been under the direction of Mrs. J. P. Johnston of Statesville. She is finding it necessary to give up the work here as soon as the contest is over, on account of her many duties elsewhere. We are hoping to find a capable music teacher to carry on this work next year.

WM. A. HETHCOX

During a lesson in grammar the teacher wrote on the blackboard: "I didn't have no fun at the seashore."

Then turning to the pupils, she asked: "Roland, how should I correct that?"

And Roland answered: "Get a boy friend."

"This record," said the magistrate, "says that you have already been convicted seven times of stealing"

"I guess that's about right," said the prisoner apologetically. "Nobody's perfect."

Medals And Prizes Awarded At Exercises

One of the most pleasing parts of the Barium Springs commencement programs each year is the awarding of various medals and prizes to outstanding students by the Orphanage Superintendent, Mr. Johnston. Few people knew who the ones were who would receive prizes, and it was interesting to watch the expressions of pleasure, and sometimes, surprise, as the names were called.

Cash prizes for those in the grammar grades and high school who made the highest grades during the year went to Tommy Scott, Hazel Creech, Louise Campbell, Shirley Inman, Peggy Neel, Mary Morgan, Ernestine Baldwin, Hannah Price, Margaret Katen, and Dwight Spencer.

Mr. Fred Sherrill of Statesville each year gives forty dollars to be divided among the pupils who have shown the most improvement, not only in scholarship, but also in general attitude, conduct, and effort. This year, those who received awards from this fund were: James Jackson, Sarah Bradshaw, Bobby Johnson, Peggy Plyler, Elizabeth Johnson, Lorene Hall, Frances Adams, Margaret Bullard, Mildred Monroe, Bennie Gregory, Earl Adams, and Roscoe Smith.

Prizes were given to Mary Morgan and Jeane Steppe by the librarian for service to the school through outstanding and consistent work in the library.

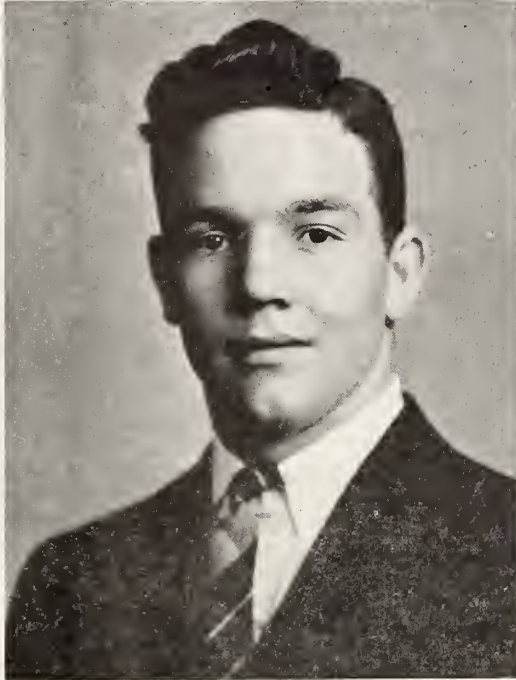

Certificates which were received at the District Music Contest in Charlotte some weeks ago were presented to Dorothy Shepherd and Bradley Jean Manus, Soloists, and to representatives of the girls' trio, mixed quartet, and mixed chorus.

Helen Hawley was given a prize by the piano teacher for consistent work in music.

Three medals are presented each year at the commencement program. These are the Bible Medal, Music Improvement Medal, and the Ace Medal. The Bible medal is given to the member of the graduating class who, in addition to doing excellent work in Bible study, has memorized a required number of Bible passages. This medal was won by Lucy Johnson. The Music Improvement Medal was presented to Charles Barrett, a member of the tenth grade. Perhaps the most coveted award of all is the Ace Medal. This medal is given each year to the member of the graduating class who has, according to a vote of the high school students and the teachers and other orphanage workers, made the most consistent effort to take advantage of the facilities offered for their betterment by the school and orphanage, during their stay at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. This medal was won by Lucille Smith, and from the applause, this selection seemed to have met with popular approval.

It was announced at commencement last year, that beginning this year, two Ace Medals would be given; the second one to be presented to an alumnus of the school who has remained loyal to the institution and continually endeavored to live according to the principles received when a student here. A member of our high school faculty, Miss Irene McDade, was the popular recipient of this medal.

THE 1946 GRADUATING CLASS

Class President
ROSCOE SMITH - Nearly half of the graduating class entered Barium in 1937. Roscoe entered that year and is the last of the Smith connection from Pink Hill. Of the two families there were nine altogether. Roscoe is the biggest of the lot.

BOBBY ARROWOOD, Mascot will be remembered by more boys than any other member of the graduating class. Don't get a wrong idea about this for Dewie has been playing matron to twenty-four Synod Cottage boys for the better part of a year - their ages are from 6 to 10. Dewie Belle is headed to Flora Macdonald College to join her older sister.

Top to Bottom:
LUCY JOHNSON - Entered in 1939 from Tarboro and she plans to live in Tarboro from right now on. Lucy is the second of a family of three girls and leaves a younger sister, Elizabeth, to carry on at Barium.

ADELIA KNIGHT - Entered in 1937 from Greensboro the oldest of two little white-haired girls. Adelia is still white haired, but is not very little. She plans to settle down in Greensboro. We will miss Adelia in many ways, particularly on that basketball team.

LUCILLE SMITH - Salutatorian, entered in 1936 from Glen Alpine. Just ten years a member of our family, ten years from now, we will not have begun to forget her.

Seven Graduate From Barium This Year

The 1945-46 school year for the Barium Springs School came to a close with the usual graduating exercises Monday night, May 13th. A small graduating class; Dewie Belle Buie, Blanche Feimster, Adelia Knight, Amos Hardy, Lucy Gray Johnston, Lucille Smith, and Roscoe Smith, received diplomas. The small number of graduates is accounted for by the addition of the twelfth grade.

Rev. R. S. Arrowood introduced the speaker of the occasion, Rev. Joe H. Carter, D. D. of Newton, N. C. Dr. Carter's address was (Continued On Page Two)

Barium Students Make Good Showing

A few weeks ago all of the pupils of the three upper grades of the Barium Springs High School were given a test on Recent Social and Scientific Developments. This test was prepared by the American Council on Education and consists of 116 questions. It has recently been given in many schools in all parts of the country. The results were received recently, and are very gratifying.

We find that our students did as well, or better, than fifty percent of all of those taking the test. The highest grade was made by (Continued On Page Two)

Sunday School Clubs Show Further Increase

Again this year we print the lists of Clubs in our Sunday Schools who have given more than one hundred dollars excluding the Thanksgiving offering during the past year.

It is noteworthy that last year we had nothing higher than the 600.00 Club. This year we jump up to the wonderful amount giving by the Myers Park S. S. in amount of $813.64 and Kings Mountain $733.10.

The impressive list of the Clubs follow:

News From Some of the Cottages At Barium

SEWING ROOM

Flash! Flash! Spring is here and our sewing machines are buzzing beautifully as if in tune to our happiness. Mrs. Hudson of Statesville has come to be our matron and we all are very fond of her.

Yesterday was Lee Vinson's birthday, and Mrs. Hudson baked a beautiful cake for her. We had a lovely birthday party and Yum! Yum! was it good!

Katherine, Mrs. Hudson's daughter, came up for her spring holiday from Meredith College and while here gave her full time helping us decorate our banquet room.

Folks, come to see our matron if you're ever up this way. You can then get an idea of our work. The dresses will be out where you can see them.

How's the present for some gossip?

Blanche Fiemster and Adelia Knight are leaving us shortly to take their places in this world. With them we send our best wishes.

"Red Top" Price is all smiles since her telephone call from her big brother, Mott, Sunday Morning.

Esau Davis's ship has at last hit the States and it must have hit hard because Mary Frances is still shaking with tingling excitement.

Since our last news letter Toni De Lancey has come to work with us. You should see the beauty of her work.

Helen Hawley has had another visit from "the man," Leaver Allen Bennett and she has that certain "sparkle" and not only that of her third finger-left hand either.

How is State College getting along now day, Billy? Say, when are you coming to see us and especially Margaret Katen.

Two of our girls were chosen Marshalls because of scholastic work. They were Hannah and Margaret.

Lee Vinson says she wishes you all could have been here for her 18th birthday. Of course the cake is what she enjoyed most.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, We cannot say the same thing we said last month because we have been having quite a few tonsil patients lately.

Hazel Creech, Betty McMannen, and Elsie Vest are glad to be down at the Infirmary and also Vivian Jacumin and Annie Marie Andrews are staying another year and we are all very glad to be together.

School will soon be out and we will start talking about vacations and camp.

We will all miss the seniors but we know they are proud to be graduates of Barium Springs.

Mrs. McNatt our matron had a visit from her son and daughter-in-law.

We enjoy living close to the babies although they do make quite a bit of noise but we know that they have a good time playing in their sandboxes and the swings.

The other day we were reading a ten year old Barium Messenger and we payed special attention to the Infirmary news. We were thinking of the improvements which have been made since then.

This is all for this month, will be back with you next month.

PRINTING OFFICE

Today as the crew entered the shop, after winter activities. The machines made a different hum. Seeming to welcome us back for another summers work.

School is out. The end was welcomed, but we are looking forward to next year, wondering what joy, what surprises it will hold.

All the machines are running except the job press, which hums on with a never ending drone, printing letter heads for our pastor. The Linotype has just started. It is setting a fraction of the three hundred inches of type, needed for publishing our "Barium Messenger".

This period now could be called, "the calm before the storm," because we are getting ready to publish the "Messenger", and one of our biggest jobs of the year, our annual, "The Spotlight".

We face the summer with eight members: Mr. Edwin Kyles, boss, Mr. Wallace Twombly, shoeman, and assistant printer, Earle Allen, James Reid, Donald Mitchell, Dwight Reid, Edward Walker, and Jimmy Williams.

We have an abundant supply of machines, paper, and working hands. We feel confident that our printing will reach no end.

Edna Ellis and Sylvia Sue Buie had visitors over the week-end.

We are looking forward to vacation and camp.

Some of the girls got perfect attendance certificates.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks, Well, the day we have been waiting for has finally come. School is out and its time for fun and believe me we have already started having our fun. We did hate to see our seniors leave us but we hope they will come back to see us soon.

After school is out it is time to start moving up to another cottage. We have about six girls who will move to Howard this time and they are so happy about it we can't be sad because they are moving.

We would like to thank our nice friends in Mooresville for the nice box of cookies. They were just super after a hard day's play.

We'll be seeing you next month to let you know how many beans we've strung and also how many toes have been stumped.

The Annie Louise Girls

Billy Black, Tommy Scott, and Palmer Wilcox are the "House Cats"

Mrs. Dawson spent the weekend with us. We enjoyed the Hershey bars she brought us. We are always glad to have company.

All the teachers have gone for the summer and we will miss them. We will be looking forward to seeing them next fall.

We will be glad when it gets warm enough for us to go swimming.

We will be back next month.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks, We locked the doors to the "Little Red Schoolhouse" Monday, to begin our summer vacation, and we are really looking forward to it.

This is the time of year to be promoted in our cottage as well as in our school grades. All of the seventh grade girls are moving out except Louise Surles. A few of the sixth grade girls and one fifth grader have moved to different cottages to help the matrons.

The days are beginning to get so hot that we are counting the days until the swimming pool opens.

Our dining room matron, Mrs. Woods, took us to the show last night. We saw a technicolor musical, "Zeigfeld Follies." It was very good.

So long until next month.

A few others who made exceptionally good grades were Amos Hardy, W. A. Johnson, Lee Vinson, Tommy Hudgins, and Charles Barrett. All of those named made grades that were better than 70 percent of those taking the test in the entire country.

During the weeks immediately preceding the close of school chapel programs were given by each of the elementary grades, all of the children in these grades taking part; the seniors gave a three act play, "Don't Darken My Door", in which all of the seniors had important parts; and two piano recitals were given by Miss Green's piano pupils, one by the elementary and one by the high school pupils.

Thus ended what we at Barium feel was a very successful school year.

Concerning the Once A Month Sunday School Collection

Some months ago there was an article in the Messenger telling in fable style of the death of the Prayer Meeting. This article is about the slowly dying of the once a month Sunday School Collection.

This Sunday School collection has been approved by the Synod of North Carolina for over twenty-five years. It has been practiced in many churches and it apparently has had a wholesome effect, not only on the Sunday School in increased interest in Barium, but increasing its interest in the other benevolences. In by far the most instances it has shown a commendable increase in the Sunday School collection for that Sunday, and some improvement in the other Sundays, even when the Barium cause has not been stressed.

In cases where there has been an enthusiastic promoter of the Barium cause Sunday School collections have reached amazing proportions, and yet with all of this, the sum total of the Sunday School offerings has never reached an impressive figure. We do not rely on that as a major portion of our support, and yet we are enthusiastic about the idea. Children grow up knowing about Barium and they early get the thrill of doing something for Barium. There are very few Sunday Schools in our church that do not have some contact with Barium, either by having a child to go from that Sunday School to Barium or to go from Barium to that Sunday School. In many communities there are families where either the father or mother was raised at Barium. These are always enthusiastic supporters of Barium.

It is so easy to work up enthusiasm for this wonderful place that the Sunday School offering becomes not a burden, but a delightful privilege, and in all of our years at Barium we have yet to hear a person express the thought that what they gave to Barium hurt them, or made them unhappy. Now, we have heard members of congregations and ministers and Church

Can any reader give any information about the Baptismal Font in Little Joe's Church as no record can be found here as to who gave it, or the circumstances under which it was given, or any information as to the person in whose honor it was placed in the Church.

The Baptismal Font is of white marble. Bowl and pedestal are cut octagonally and the base is cut square. Along the edge of the bowl is the inscription, "Suffer little children to come unto Me," and on the base of the bowl, "IHS". On the front of the base is the inscription, "In memory of Frederick Phillips Jackson, October 21, 1902."

If anyone can give us any information with reference to the circumstances of the Font given to Little Joe's, and as to who the donors were, and anything with reference to the one in whose memory it was placed, Frederick Phillips Jackson, please send such information to R. Report On Meeting of General Assembly

The news of most importance to the Presbyterians of North Carolina is of the meeting of the General Assembly which was held in Montreat, North Carolina, on May 23rd through May 28th.

This Assembly was very well attended as there were 371 present out of a possible 378 Commissioners, so only seven places were vacant.

The Moderator's sermon was preached by the retiring Moderator, Dr. C. K. Young of Memphis, Tennessee. His very timely topic was "Christianity's Most Excellent Way."

Quite a spirited contest was held for the Moderatorship, and finally Dr. J. B. Green of Decatur, Ga. was unanimously elected. Dr. Green is retiring as Professor of Theology of Columbia Theological Seminary, but will next year teach Homeletics.

The reports of the various committees were generally very encouraging and challenging.

From the Foreign Missions Report we learn that we now have 341 missionaries, some of whom particularly from Asia, are now in the United States, but these are anxiously awaiting the time when conditions will allow them to return. Last year we spent on foreign missions $1,209,185.00. The Churches are asked to give $1,450,000.00 next year. From the Report of the Assembly's Committee on Home Missions, we learn that we have 479 workers engaged in 812 projects. The receipts for the Assembly's Home Missions last year were $521,544.00, and we are asked to give for this cause for the coming year $699,750.00.

The Committee on Evangelism reports that 18,913 were received on the profession of faith last year. The goal put before us for next year is for 500 new Sunday Schools and 50,000 to be received on profession of faith and 50,000 by letter and restatement.

The women's work of the church is always carried on and very effective. We have 2,619 Auxiliaries with 210,395 members. The women of the church gave through their Auxiliaries last year $1,924,912.00.

Items of interest picked up from the Assembly's reports include Chaplains still in service which is 114. Evidence that the long decline in Sunday School enrollment has taken a turn for the better is shown by the fact that we have 13,000 more in Sunday School than last year.

The Committee on Moral and Social Welfare has long been the center of considerable controversy.

The name of that Committee has been changed to "The Department of Christian Relations."

Several matters of special interest were the cause for considerable debate. The first was the question of reunion with the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. No vote on this question was called for this year as the Committee on Cooperation and Union requested permission to defer the report until next year, and this request was granted.

Another question which always calls for a large number of overtures and much debate is the membership of the Presbyterian Church, United States in the Federal Council. All overtures to withdraw from the Federal Council were denied.

AM I BLUE?

You said it, I am Danny Leroy Blue, and I am the son of Herbert Blue who used to lug a football on Sloan Field in a most satisfactory manner. Daddy is now a Marine and he and his wife, who happens to be my mother, please me very much. My name is Blue but that's all, I don't feel blue everything suits me fine.

Herbert Blue is one of that family of Blue boys - Robert, Herbert, and Miller, who spent a number of very satisfactory years at Barium Springs.

Hail and Farewell

The month of June ushered in a number of changes at Barium. Miss Sarah McNeill commenced her last month here and her leaving makes us all feel badly. She has endeared herself to us in all of the work that she has done here at Barium, as matron, as Physical Ed Teacher, as Girl Scoutmaster, and as Head Matron, she has done her work well and conscientiously, and we hate to see her go.

Mrs. Mary Bryant takes over as Head Matron. She comes to us from the Y W C A of Charlotte. She brings to the work years of experience with young women. We believe that her work at Barium will be effective and good. We welcome her to our staff and community.

Mrs. E. C. Williams comes to us from Y W C A work in Texas. She will be matron of the Women's Building. It has been a long time since we had a regular matron at the Women's Building and a Head Matron. Miss Clark and Miss McNeill would get a matron for that work and then have to lend her to some other department to make up for the woman-power shortage which we have suffered all during the war years. We hope Mrs. Williams will not be required to take up any other work but will devote her entire energies and time to this one big job. The community welcomes these two fine women.

Mr. Jerry Newbold is taking on a brand new job here for the summer. Mr. Newbold is a seminary student working his vacation at Barium Springs. He is sort of Promoter, and he is already showing his success in this line. During the summer months there is so much

Camp Fellowship

Camp Fellowship opened for business on June 7th with a group for the church at Davidson taking over from Friday through Monday. On Monday, June 10th, the first group of Concord Presbytery Pioneers showed up, and as this is written they are enjoying the camp eighty strong. June 17th through June 22nd the second group of Concord Pioneers will take over. Then on June 24th the Winston-Salem Presbytery Pioneers will have the camp for a week. On Monday, July 1st, the Broad Street Methodist Church of Statesville will have the camp for a week. On Wednesday, July 10th, the Davidson Methodist Church comes in. Friday, July 12th until Monday July 15th Catawba County's Sub-District A will use the camp. Monday, July 15th, the First Methodist Church of Hickory moves in. Monday, July 22nd, the 4-H Clubs of Wilkes County will enjoy their second outing at the camp. On Monday, July 29th, for that week and the two weeks following we ourselves will use the camp, and our summer activities are already beginning to point toward those three weeks as the climax of the summer.

going and coming among our children and workers that there is never two weeks with the same organization. We start out in the summer with lots of plans in mind "we are going to do this work" "we are going to have these games" "we are going to promote this project" and then the people who are interested in that particular project or game go away for two weeks, and when they come back the project has languished. The Pastor's Paragraph

By REV. F. B. BENTON

"OUR FATHER'S WORLD"

The season of the out-of-doors has come again. Everywhere men and women and children are leaving the crowded cities with their clutter of man-made civilization and going forth to enjoy the refreshing qualities of the world of nature. As we turn to the mountains, the woods, the seashore, we come face to face with God. Only those the eyes of whose souls are blinded can fail to see Him.

Out under the open sky "the heavens declare the glory of God" to us as we turn our faces upward. The immensity of space - the home of the sun and moon and stars - reminds us of the bigness of our God who created the universe. His glory and majesty and power and wisdom are all written there for us to read. We are moved to ask as did the Psalmist when looking heavenward, "What is man that thou art mindful of him?" And in our day of world-wide crisis and evil we might add the question, "What is the power of so insignificant a creature as man to thwart the eternal goodness of the Creator of the heavens and the earth?" The message of God written in the vastness of the open sky brings life into its proper perspective and thus brings peace to our souls.

Many of us this summer will be journeying into the mountains, and there again God is about us everywhere. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills" and find there the strength and stability of their Maker. As the crashing of much with which we have clothed our lives and our hopes echoes across the world, we sometimes fear that we are to be left naked and defenceless. But there is a message in the mountains - "As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even forever." "They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." (Continued On Page Three)

Quilt Makers

Did you ever try to stuff a quilt with marbles or acorns, or did you ever try to sleep on one stuffed like that? Believe it or not, we have had that experience, and here's how come.

You can occasionally buy a beautiful material of mixed cotton and rayon batting that is soft, beautiful and looks ideal for quilt making. Well, it is good until you wet it and then things happen.

It so happens that the quilts which we use in our infirmary have to be washed rather often and there's where the trouble shows up first. This beautiful mixture of rayon and cotton draws up into little knots - they are about as hard as acorns and rough as cockleburs - and when the quilt does that it does not create any warmth or comfort of any kind.

All of you quiltmakers, whether you are making quilts for Barium or for yourselves, beware and do not use this mixture for quilts. It looks good, but it does not last.

Concerning the Once A

(Continued From Page One) treasurers say that they thought the Church was extending itself too much for Barium, and in many instances took measures to protect their Church and Sunday School from what appeared to them to be the inroads of our appeals.

Some of the friends with the best of intentions, we know, have prevailed on the Sunday Schools to discontinue the once a month collection for Barium, feeling that the giving to that source was too big in comparison to the giving to other Church causes.

We contend that this is bad logic, bad psychology, and bad Church finance. We do not believe that there has been a single Sunday School which has discontinued the once a month collection but that some individual from that Sunday School has written us deploring the change. Many have sent in money direct which they would otherwise have contributed through the Sunday School. In some instances there has been decided resentment over the ruling that stopped the collection.

We believe that we can safely challenge every Sunday School that takes this collection and ask them this question, "Do you think that the money contributed to Barium through the Sunday School is impoverishing the Church or robbing the other causes?" We do not think we will get a single answer in the affirmative. We really believe that the generous giving to the Orphanage instead of depriving or impoverishing the other causes is an inspiration for the Sunday School and Church to give more to them.

Let's use some everyday illustrations. A farmer plants wheat, corn, cotton, and a number of other things. Suppose he makes a great success out of one crop and a very poor success out of the others, what would you advise him to do? To try to build up his other crops to that good crop, or to cut down the good crop so that all the other crops would be on a par with it? If your child came to you with his report card from school showing a good mark on one subject and very poor marks on the other subjects, would you spend your time encouraging him to pull up his poor marks to the good mark, or would you insist that he cut down his good mark to the level of the poor marks?

Isn't this business of stopping the Sunday School offering a good deal like telling the child to cut down on his good mark to be on a par with his poor ones?

We have been told from our very beginning in orphanage work that we had to keep the orphanage and its needs before the public. The organization of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Presbyterian and the Synodical, all stress this we have letters by the score asking us to tell them about Barium and its needs so that they can stress it in the various organizations. We would certainly be considered derelict in our duty if we failed to keep the Auxiliaries and the other Church organizations informed. What is the purpose of this? Isn't it to create a lively interest in our institution, to keep it on the hearts of our friends throughout the State, and as a by-product to give them a chance to have a part in this work?

Now, if this work in the Sunday son Lee of Morganton.

Born to Jimmy and Lilly Bell (Smith) Dorton of Alameda, Calif. on May 6th a son, James Richard Lee.

Mott Price, who has been discharged from the army visited us at Barium. He is in Charlotte. Ben Lewis was also a visitor. It has been four years since Ben has been here.

Take a look at this young lady. This is the way she looked when she came to Barium and she was wearing the same smile when she left. Little Mary Mauldin - back home now with her parents and making friends just as fast and just as permanently as she did during her short stay at Barium Springs. She has a talking smile that says, "I like you and I know you are going to like me, so everything is all right."

School - which is one of the main agencies for instructing and informing our Church about the institution - is wrong, should we cease to publicize, or is the Church saying to us by inference that "we will penalize you because you are doing well what the Church has instructed you to do?" Shall we sit still and simply rely on the budget, saying nothing about our work and allow the money to come in as a percentage of the general benevolent impulse of our Church? How long would we or any other Church cause survive if we did that? We go to one Church Court and are told that if we don't publicize we will starve; we go to another Church Court and see machinery in operation which tells us just as plainly, if we do publicize we will be cut down.

Let's do a little sober thinking about this thing. Are the friends who oppose the once a month collection in the Sunday School, are they really afraid of Barium Springs? Can they recite anything in their experience where Barium Springs has taken one dollar out of the treasury of another cause? Can they prove that these Sunday School collections have in any way lessened the giving to any other cause? Can they find any member of the Church who complains about the opportunities to have themselves and their children contribute to Barium Springs once a month?

It is said and believed by many that we don't need to worry about the finances of an orphanage, that people will always take care of that. Well that belief has sometimes caused the children here to go hungry. Money doesn't just rain out of the clouds for Barium and it takes a sustained system of giving and of education to keep the flow of money to the level where it can do an adequate job.

The expenses of running an orphanage have increased just like maintaining your home. There are many things that have to be paid for now which used to be given to us. Many things are required of us now that were not even thought of twenty-five years ago.

Sometime ago we had a man of national reputation making inquiry as to just what we spent per day per child. We told him the figures according to our last report, expecting criticism from him since our cost had gone up so materially in the last five years. Instead of that he made this statement, "Well, I am glad to know it. Because any institution like yours that spends less than that figure is cheating somebody." He elaborated on this much more than we will in this article. He said an adequate staff, adequately trained and adequately paid, with due regard for time off and vacations, had to receive a certain amount of money or else you would get the scrubs. That children needed a certain amount of food, clothing, education, and health program, and all of this costs money, and that the general practice over the entire nation had established a pretty accurate minimum below which no institution dared fall and still claim to do a first-class job.

The Presbyterians of North Carolina, if we know anything about them at all, will never be satisfied with anything but a first-class job, if they are kept informed and their interest kept alive. The slow death of the Sunday School offering will bring about a slight decrease in revenue, but as the years go by it will mean a decided slackening of interest until the time may come when we will be forced to do a second-rate job, and nobody will mind it very much because they will have lost interest.

This article started out to be a sort of a pep talk to keep going those Sunday Schools that may be now debating the wisdom of discontinuing the monthly offering. Our plea is to consider seriously all the angles - consider what you would gain by it, if anything and consider what you would lose in addition to what we would lose.

Report on Meeting of

The only test by vote was on the motion that the Presbyterian Church, United States, enter into a consultative relationship with the Federal Council. This motion was lost by a vote of 214 to 78.

Probably the most widely discussed action of the Assembly was with reference to the new set-up for our negro work. Hitherto the negro work of the Assembly has been under the direction of the Assembly's Home Mission Committee. A new Committee has now been constituted composed of the following men: H. L. Gladney, J. McDowell Richards, M. Ray Doubles, W. L. Dansey, Frank C. Brown, Arch E. Taylor, W. J. Gipson, Henry W. Mack, and Albert Kissling. This Committee is to operate with a budget of $100,000.00, and with the expressed purpose of making the Stillman Institute a four-year college and with the Assembly proposing to raise a million dollars for its support.

The following are interesting statistics:

In the Presbyterian Church in the United States there are seventeen Synods; eighty-seven Presbyteries; 2,623 Ministers; 3,524 Churches; 44 Ministers have died during the past year; there are 19,270 Ruling Elders and 22,793 Deacons; there was added on by profession of faith last year 18,913 members and added on by certificate 28,502 members; the total number of Church members now stands at 593,613; the total Sunday School enrollment last year was 423,012.

The next meeting of the Assembly will be at Montreat, North Carolina, on May 29th, 1947.

Flora McDonald College celebrated its semi-centennial at the commencement season. Dr. Vardell, who founded the College fifty years ago was on hand at this occasion. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Dr. J. J. Murray, Dr. Vardell's son-in-law, of Lexington, Virginia and the commencement address was delivered by Dr. Frank P. Graham, President of the University of North Carolina. Diplomas were granted to 51 graduates.

Among new Ministers recently received into the Synod are Dr. Sidney A. Gates, now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Salisbury; Rev. Samuel M. Houck, Pastor of the Concord Church at Loray, North Carolina; Rev. M. J. McChesney, now pastor of the Taylorsville group of Churches; Rev. E. H. Clark, Pastor of Warsaw and Bowden Churches; Rev. J. M. Smith, Pastor of Faison, Clypsco; and Sanford Churches, Rev. B. F. Brown, Pastor of Rockfish, Willard, and Potts Memorial Churches; and Rev. W. B. Hood, Pastor of the Wallace Church.

As we drive through the countryside, the wild flowers and luxuriant greenness about us urge us to "consider the lilies of the field, how they grow." Or as we "behold the fowls of the air" and listen to the joyous song of the birds, we are reminded that "your Heavenly Father feedeth them." Nature is prolific with the promises of God's constant care for His own. Too often the anxieties of the business of living weigh heavily upon us, but out in God's open spaces these fall away and we find rest at last.

Are you going to the woods this summer? The poet has described them as "green cathedrals" where trees "lift their leafy arms to pray." Somehow to the soul that is alive the quietness of the forest brings a feeling of the presence of God. He is there, and in the stillness we commune with Him, when life's strain is heavy upon us, there is no better antidote than a trip alone into the woods. As the noise of the outside world is left behind, its stresses also fall away. And there, alone with God, we find once more "the peace that passeth all understanding."

"How great is His goodness, and how great is His beauty!" Oh, that we may see them and know them as we go out into our Father's world this summer. For then the beauty of the Lord our God shall be upon us and in us and shall shine forth from us unto others.

"A girl no longer marries a man for better or for worse."

"Indeed!"

"No; she marries him for more or less."

Vol. 23

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JULY 1946

No. 9

C. K. PROCTOR

Just as the last issue of our Messenger left the press we received the news of the death of our dear friend and fellow worker, Creasy Kinion Proctor, for many years the most efficient and lovable head of the Oxford Orphanage in Oxford, N. C.

Eighteen years ago Oxford had the misfortune to lose their superintendent after a very brief illness. We who knew of the splendid work of Mr. Brown wondered where the Masonic Fraternity would turn to find a man to fill his place: it seemed a hopeless task. Well, they found one in Mr. Proctor he took up where Mr. Brown left off and has made of the Oxford Orphanage one of the outstanding institutions of its kind in the nation. It was his lot to weather the years of the depression; it was his lot to meet the vastly changed conditions of the second World War. He met these problems and crises in a quiet, efficient, uncomplaining manner and from them emerged a stronger and better institution.

We who have lived in the same generation with Mr. Proctor can only partially evaluate his services: it will take future years to really reveal the full worthwhileness of this great man's work.

Our sympathies go out to the Masonic Fraternity, to the organization of the Oxford Orphanage, and to the thousands of young people who have felt his guiding hand in this hour of their distress, and we hope that they will be guided in choosing his successor to find a man worthy and capable of carrying on in the high plane where Mr. Proctor dwelt.

Ladies From Concord Presbytery Visit Here

Our day at Barium June 20th was most enjoyable and instructive too. I speak for myself and the twelve ladies from the Women's Auxiliary of Concord Presbytery who attended the meeting.

We appreciate very much Mr. Arrowood taking so much interest in planning the day for us. It was a privilege to hear talks by Mr. Johnston, Mr. Benton and Mr. Arrowood.

You who could not go with us will never know what you not only the splendid messages mentioned but the food. Who was responsible for the good food? We know the Rumble Hall girls served it, and they really know how to serve.

After lunch we visited several of the Cottages, talked with the matrons and children. We wish that time would have permitted us to visit all twelve Cottages and the Infirmary; but we do remember just which ones we visited, and on our next trip we will visit the others.

If you have not visited Barium Springs you should. What we asked was: "How can you keep the Cottage so clean with twenty-five to thirty children living here, and how do you keep clothes for so many children in such a systematic way?" It would take a long time to go into this; you just visit them and see for yourself.

(Mrs. E. C.) Sec. of Orphanage Work, Women's Auxiliary of Concord Presbytery.

Kindergarten at Barium Springs Seventeen Years Ago

This is the Kindergarten at Barium of Seventeen years ago - there are twenty-three youngsters in this picture - there are three sets of twins whom you can, no doubt, easily pick out. Thirteen of these twenty-three children graduated from Barium. Two joined the service just before graduation; Eleven saw service in the late war and every branch of the service was represented - the Navy, the Marines, the Army, the Coast Guard, and the Air. One boy lost his life. Nine went to college, are in college now, or have graduated from college. Six are married, three of the six marrying their Barium sweethearts.

A number of remarkable athletes are in this picture, among them the captain and center of Barium's State Champion football team, and six others were members of Barium's best teams.

Two of them were on the State Champion wrestling team. Four of the girls in this picture were basketball players and two were outstanding players on the team that was two years champion of the South Piedmont Conference. Do you know any of them? Well, here they are:

The fuzzy looking little blonde in the first row is Evelyn Coppedge, now Mrs. Lacy Beshears: she lives in Springfield, Mass. and has a little boy. She graduated from Barium and was quite a basketball player. The next two are Jack and Tom McCall. They graduated from Barium - one had a year at State, one had a year at Davidson and they are both now at Iowa State College. They saw plenty of service in the Army - Tom in India, Jack in the Air over the South Pacific.

The next lad is Robert Kerr who went back to live with his father while still quite young. We haven't heard from Robert in a good many years - he probably was in the service also.

The next smiling youngster is Pleas Norman who graduated from Barium and who is quite a football player and singer. He is now back preparing to enter Davidson College this fall. Next is Billy McCall who graduated at Barium, quite a football player and wrestler, he had almost one year at Davidson before going into the Army. He saw service in Europe and is now ready to enter Davidson again this fall. The pleased looking little girl on her knees is Catherine Trollinger who went back to live with her people so many years ago that we might not know her now, and from her winning ways we are almost sure that she is married by this time.

The solemn looking young lady sitting on the bench in the second row is Margaret Boyd whose father re-married and Margaret has been living with them for the last fifteen years at least. We are pretty sure that Margaret must be married because she got prettier by the minute as she grew older. The smiling little girl in the white coat is Althea Ellis who went back to live with her mother while still quite young. Her brother, John, finished at Barium. The next young lady is Sarah Parcell who graduated from W. C. U. N. C. just a month ago - quite a young lady. She has worked at Barium during her summer vacations and as student and worker she holds a high place at Barium. The next two are Evelyn and Helen Billing - twins - who went back to live with their father and step-mother while still in the Elementary grades - one is now married. They graduated from school in Statesville.

The next is Dick Parrish - football player and wrestler - just a good all-around boy. He graduated at Barium and almost finished a year at Davidson. He was in the Marines and was killed at Iwo Jima.

The back row, commencing with the young lady leaning so nonchalantly against the column. That is Vittoria Salvaggio the youngest of three of a family from Valdese. Her father re-married and she went back to live with him. brown eyes and all. If she hasn't married by this time it is because of the man scarcity.

Leslie Smith joined the Coast Guard just after he turned seventeen and before he finished his high school work. He has learned enough geography since entering the service to make up for what he did not learn in school. He is about the most traveled member of this group. Paul Horne is next. He graduated at Barium, had almost a year at Davidson, was in the Army, saw plenty of service in Europe and is back at Davidson again - he is now a rising Sophomore. Henry Pittman, quite a football and basketball player, graduated at Barium, had a year and a half at Davidson, and has been in the Navy. He saw lots of service in the Philippines and later on was in Japan. He married his Barium sweetheart and is now a student at Carolina. Billy Lindsey didn't quite finish at Barium - the war was just too much. He saw plenty of service in the Air and is now a student at Westminster College, Missouri. Dennis Williams - While Dennis was quite a little boy he and his brother went clear across the continent by bus to be with their father who had settled down in Cottonwood, Idaho. He finished his growing up there and was in the service.

The next two girls are twins again - Grace and Agnes Coppedge a famous pair on the basketball court. They graduated at Barium and had one year at Mitchell. Agnes married her Barium sweetheart, Joe Savage. Joe is still in the Navy. Hugh Norman, the captain of our 1941 football team and our most valuable basketball player in the same year. Hugh finished at Barium, went into the service, and is now married and living on the West Coast. Sallie Farmer finished at Barium and was quite a basketball player, although not a starter in the famous championship team; she was a member of it. however. She married her Barium sweetheart, Ed Cole. They live in Statesville have two fine children.

So now since you know them, you name the picture. Shall we call it The Champion Football Team or The Champion Basketball Team or The Champion Wrestling Team, or shall we just call them A Nice Bunch of Kids, whom we still love very much even though we could not get them again in that small a space. We are sure you who look at this picture will remember some of these youngsters.

Just to refresh your memory a little bit, Sallie and Henry Pittman graduated in the Class of '41; Paul Horne, all three of the McCalls, Sarah Parcell, Hugh Norman, and Dick Parish graduated in '42. The Coppedge twins graduated with the class of '40.

OLD MAN RIVER

"The Old Man River, he just keeps rolling along. This song was written about the Mississippi but it can apply to the old Catawba. It just keeps rolling along every day of the year - sometimes muddy, sometimes clear, sometimes swift, sometimes slack. It belongs to anybody with the time to sit near its banks and look at it or get in a boat and ride on it or get into its cool depths for a swim, but for three weeks in the year there is a section of the Catawba that belongs to the kids of Barium Springs. This time commences on July 29th this year, and anybody in the neighborhood of the Buffalo Shoals can, no doubt, see and hear a bunch of lively kids enjoying the river in boats, in swimming, or satisfying the appetites that such exercises engender at our grand outdoor cooking place.

For several years it was our pleasure to write to the boys in the service scattered all over the world and to girls too, almost as widely scattered. We received hundreds of letters in return. Along this time of the year it was a rare thing to receive a letter that did not have some reference to former camping parties on the Catawba at our gorgeous camp grounds. Well, old man river doesn't seem to get impatient and as long as it runs and our friends continue to be kind to us this generation and the next generation will still enjoy Camp Fellowship.

The old river does things to the camp. there was a big hole right near the dining room where we used to have a raft and it was good diving. Well, during the last two years old man river has just filled that hole up completely and almost made an island of it. It has dug

Information Received on Baptismal Font

In response to our request for information with reference to the Baptismal Font given in memory of Frederick Philips Jackson, several friends sent full and very interesting information about the little boy and his family.

Frederick Philips Jackson was born in Raleigh November 3, 1899 and died of diphtheria when he was almost three years old on Oct. 21, 1902. His father was Herbert Worth Jackson of Raleigh who was a grandson of Governor Worth. His mother was before marriage Miss Annie Philips. She was the daughter of Judge Frederick Philips of Tarboro, N. C. for whom the little boy was named. His father was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Raleigh and Superintendent of the Sunday Schools.

Several people wrote of the beauty of the child as they remembered him a lovely blond with head covered with golden ringlets and a pure and spiritual expression on his face.

His sister Miss Evelyn Jackson of Richmond Virginia writes us that he had a little iron bank in which he had saved a good many small coins. After his death his parents took the coins and added to them to purchase the memorial for their little son.

After his death the family moved to Richmond Virginia. The father and mother are now dead and rest by their little child in the cemetery in Raleigh. Two brothers and a sister survive.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are bringing you our news from our cottage. Most of our boys are back from their vacation and we are glad to see them back. Jack Jones took us to the show the other week and we enjoyed it very much.
We have been picking blackberries and we enjoy the blackberry pie they made for us. Miss Ford went home for the week-end and when she came back she brought us back a lot of funnie books. We will go to camp July 29th and stay a week.
— Tommy Scott

HOWARD COTTAGE

Our special topic for conversation in this cottage at present is about vacations and we want to tell you something about it. Most of our girls have already gone somewhere for two weeks vacation. Martha Nell Hall, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston and Phoebe Cockran went to Hickory Dockery camp. Martha Nell enjoys telling us about how she fell off the pony.
Mary Jane Andrews expects to go the 23rd to spend two weeks. While Margaret Hopkins was on vacation she went to the Atlantic Ocean. She brought several of us some shells for souvenirs.
For recreation we have been going in swimming most every day and sometimes Mr. Newbold takes us on a walk. Last Saturday he took us to Kesler's bridge.
We'll be seeing you next month.
— The Bean Stringers.

BABY COTTAGE

Hello There,
It's news time again, and here are the babies. Just let us know when you want to hear the latest, we know it all - or think we do.
All fifteen of us went swimming this morning, more fun! We always go the first of the week because the water isn't deep then. You should see little Jimmy jump off the side. And Charles can swim like a fish until he turns loose the hooks.
Mrs. Nelson is in Montreat now "Nanner" Berryhill is taking her place and is almost always carrying an o'le wash rag around for our hands and ears. Miss Moles backs her up with the comb and hair brush (We do hope she will continue to use the hair brush for our hair only).
Ruth Shepherd is home from the hospital, and we're so glad.
Essie Jean Lee is our only vacationer now. Won't she be surprised to see our new sliding board? Oh, yes folks, we do have a new sliding board in our play pen. At first the newness of it kept us from sliding good. We'd stop right on the half way mark every time, but Ann Wilcox fixed that. She slicked it with bread paper and Johnson's wax. Now we go down with the greatest of ease, that is until our little bottoms hit the ground. We wish Mrs. Scattergood would slide down for us like Mrs. Gentry slid down the fire escape for the Annie Louise girls!

We'd better put an end to this chatter now and go wash for supper but we do hate to wash! Donnie slipped to supper last week without even touching soap and water, but Nanner caught on, bet he won't accidentally on purpose forget any more!
Bye now and come to see us.
— The Babies

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
So many of our group have been home or are going that we really don't have much to tell you this time except that we want to thank each and everyone of you who have made our vacations possible.
Now that vacations are over we still have something to look forward to. Camp! We have a whole week down on the Catawba River and we just can't wait until the 29th.
We would like to thank someone for the magazines that were given to us. We don't know who it was but we will thank them and maybe they will read the messenger this month.
Hope you all had a pleasant 4th. We had a picnic supper and we had some extra special things. Thanks to our matron.
We'll be seeing you next month.
— The Annie Louise Girls

LAUNDRY

Hi Everybody,
This is the laundry girls bringing you the news of the month.
Most of the girls here now have been on their vacations, but there are still a few who have not been.
Anne Wicker has just returned from the State's Tourist Center, Pinehurst. Mary Morgan went to Rockingham, Bradley Jean went to Norfolk, Betty Lou Williams to Durham, Margaret Bullard to Kannaolis and Mildred and Kathleen Monroe to Washington, D. C. We all had a wonderful time, but are glad to get back to work.
Mrs. Neel, our matron, has not taken her vacation yet, but is leaving August 1st. We certainly are going to miss her.
Right now the topic of conversation is our yearly trip to the river. We are all planning to have a good time.
Well Folks this is all until next time.
So long,
Bradly Jean Manus
Mildred Monroe

SEWING ROOM

Knowing that you enjoyed our Atomic news letter last month we somewhat couldn't let another Messenger slide through the press without making sure the news and gossip of the S. S. S. S. (Sit, Sew, Sweat and Spread) girls were included.
Although most of the girls are on vacations there is still enough of us left to turn out playsuits by the dozens and to keep everyone up on our latest gossip.

When and if we ever get all of our girls together again, we are going to hold open house up here in the sewing room and put on display some of our domestic ability. Then we can prove that we have stuck to our tasks and have been smart girls this summer.
We know that you're just itching to hear from the girls who are here, so here goes.
Mary Anne has been wearing a flashy ring since she has returned from her vacation we've noticed. She's wearing it on her right hand though.
Helen and Maggie, after a long leave of absence, can be seen walking arm in arm down the side walk with no Mr.-in-between.
Lee's mind must have gone some where as she sewed her finger on the machine his morning.
Myrtle is all smiles and seems to be well satisfied these days.
We'll be glad when the rest of the girls, Toni, Jean, Mary Francis and Atomic Price get back.
Don't forget to tune in next month, Folks and listen to our chatter amidst the hum-drum of our sewing machines.
— The Sewers.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,
Here we are again bringing you the news for this month.
Most of our girls are back from their vacations now.
We are planning to go to the skating rink Friday night if nothing happens.
We are all looking forward to the camp which starts two weeks from Monday.
We have been going in swimming and having lots of fun.
Our dining room matron, Mrs. Wood is going on her vacation the 15th and we sure will miss her a great deal.
We are going to have ice-cream for dinner and are going to have chicken two times a week, yum! yum! We had better stop talking about food we might make you hungry.
Well good-bye for this time.
— The Dish Washers

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks,
Quite a few things have happened since we wrote you last. Many of the girls are still on their vacation but they are returning every day. We really miss them while they are away, and will be glad when they all come back.
Our thoughts have now turned to camp which is only a few weeks off. Going to camp is always lots of fun and it is just another little vacation before school begins.
Wish all of our friends could see our new recreation room. It's really nice. Our upstairs living room just didn't seem to get used, so to make it more attractive, it was decorated and furnished for games and recreation. One night each week we have open house for high school groups, including the boys, we really have lots of fun. One of the nicest things in way of equipment for the room is a lovely automatic record-player. We are really proud of that.
Well, Folks that's about all there is to tell for this time, but we'll be back next month with more news, so be sure to look for it.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,
We are so happy to be back with you again this month.
Vacations are almost over now and we are so happy that we all could go on a vacation. Annie Marie Andrews went to Manchester N. C., Elsie Vest went to Kannaolis, they are back now. Vivian Jacumin went to Valdese, N. C., Hazel Creech went to Wilmington, N. C. Betty McMannen is going to

MOTHERS AND JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

It is no happy experience to reflect that something has come over far too many of the mothers of this country to interfere with their fundamental homemaking and child training responsibilities. We ascribe it to the times and to the customs of this age and let it go at that.
These times and these customs have for a fact, reacted upon motherhood with a pernicious impact. They have forced masses of women into the atmosphere of our work-a-day world, and for this they are not to be censured.
Economic pressures rather than personal inclinations have been in many of these cases the contriving as well as the controlling factor.
Even so, these are not the only nor perhaps the major, influences, which account for a sort of faded glory to be hanging around the heads of modern mothers. In the cases of all too many they have lost their old-time attachments to their paramount concern.
The consequences of this desertion of the responsibilities of their own firesides are alarming. Upon what other factors in our modern life is the laxity in the morals of today's youth to be led than at this point?
The American home has within late times become invaded by various distracting influences which tend to break it up and it is the one human institution upon which through the ages the structure of a stable and moral society rested.
Against the poundings of contemporary life, this ancient citadel of decency and Democracy, of right and of character in our national living, of religion, of conscience life has sadly and seriously crumbled.
Except for this wreckage which has been made of the American home by whatever evil influxes you may care to designate, the nation's standards of moral idealisms and of spiritual understanding would not today have had their flags dragged so humiliatingly in the dust.
Mothers who are sensitive to their superior obligations to their children must have an awareness of their responsibilities for much of what has happened in this regard.
In forgetting moments, multiplying into months and then into years, they have left their own throne seats in their homes and their children, leaving these latter to be brought up, trained and instructed, guided and influenced by proxies.
In North Carolina we have lately been shocked by some authentic findings as to the increase of delinquency among juveniles in this state.
These studies show that there has been an increase in mischief-making and evil-doing among white children of 41 per cent during the 30-month period following the nation's entry into the war.

And here is the most desolating of all these statistics. White girls showed the highest rate of increase in delinquency, namely 46 per cent.
If it is assumed that no one has a more contagious influence over the boys than the father, it must be equally true that no one has such a powerful influence over a girl as her mother.
The above statistics are preaching our modern mothers some harsh truths. — Charlotte Observer

WHERE PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY BELONGS

How Jesus would have scorned that limp sense of personal responsibility which forever lays blame for its moral failures upon the conditions where it finds itself! He drew a picture of a wayward, disobedient son coming back to his father's house, not with an eloquent indictment of the social and political conditions in that "far country" where he had gone to pieces. This young man came back with this frank statement on his lips, "I have sinned. I am no more worthy to be called my father's son." Had he blamed his misfortunes on some political party, or upon the Anti-Saloon League, or a high protective tariff, or the profit motive, he would be in that far country yet. We do not kill fatted calves, nor bring out the best robes and the gold rings, for those who lay the entire blame for their misdoing on environment.
How wholesome is that truth for these times! From soap-box reformers, from some professors' chairs from Christian pulpits, alas, one hears this sort of misdirected emphasis. People are told to say, "Create a better social order, O God, and renew right relations between all these various classes of men." We do need better conditions, political, industrial, social. But the better conditions will be created and maintained by better people. We are still compelled by the logic of events to go back and offer that basic petition, which has come down to us hallowed by the ages, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." If people generally were offering that prayer with sincerity of purpose, "all the kingdoms of this world," business and politics, education, recreation, and the rest would be in a fair way to "become kingdoms of our God and of his Christ." — Charles R. Brown

WHAT KIND OF EVANGELISM
By Richard L. Ownbey, D. D.
Some leaders in Methodism seem to be greatly distressed by published figures showing results in numbers from the Crusade for Christ emphasis on evangelism to date. They ought not to be disappointed! How could any Methodist leader ever hope that we could have a church-wide revival of genuine evangelism by the hocuspocus of adroitly organized ecclesiastical machinery with the "power" coming chiefly from episcopal, secretarial and general board pressures. Surely none of us should be surprised at the failure thus far of a campaign for souls in which emphasis on quotas and numbers and the like make it look strangely like another drive for the big money.
What kind of evangelism is this? Is it a gesture of skepticism of evangelism in Christian education — the only type of evangelism to which a liberal Methodism may look with any hope? Is it a resurgence of the superficial, fundamentalistic, "come to Christ" evangelism that is more concerned about bringing people into "our church" than about indoctrinating them in the truths of real Christianity?

Durham. We hope they will have a good time.
We still go in swimming every-day. The swimming pool is a very good place to go when you are hot.
Camp time is just around the corner. We sure do have a good time at camp and we are eagerly looking forward to camp time.
We are having very few patients now. And that is a great help, during vacation time since we have less girls. We are glad that everyone is feeling good. But when you do feel badly you are welcome to come.
We had a pleasant week-end having Mrs. McNatt's son, Charles and his wife visiting us.
Betty McMannen had a visit from her Aunt and Uncle Sunday.
We certainly are enjoying the radio which Mr. Johnston brought to us and we wish to Thank him very much.

There is no Christian evangelism in that—it is an un-Christian mis-evangelization, and the pity of it is that our country is overflowing with it already in a hundred evangelical, non-liberal sects today. The Apostolic Overcoming Holy Church of God has had an increase of 664 per cent in membership in the past eighteen years. Are we Methodist looking enviously in the direction of that kind of evangelism? In eighteen years the Church of the Nazarene has increased 183 per cent in membership, and the Christian Congregational Evangelistic Association 2,033 per cent. Can it be that any intelligent Methodist is intrigued by the methods and type of religion promoted by these and other fast-growing cults? God forbid!

This special Crusade emphasis on evangelism began too soon. Before such a campaign can succeed the Church must itself be evangelized by being indoctrinated with a liberal interpretation of Christianity and fired with zeal for the expansion of the Kingdom of God on earth. Half the Methodist in this country do not know what liberal Christianity is, and of the other half ninety per cent are not evangelistically minded. Most of them are interested in being "saved by the blood of Christ," but have never had a serious intention of trying to live like Christ. What would we do with a million members of that sort uniting with our churches in 1946?

Jesus began a revival in Judaism by teaching a new and spiritual interpretation of religion in an age of fossilized legalism. Martin Luther led a tremendous advance in Christianity by emphasis upon the spiritual as against the ritualistic religion of the Roman Catholic Church. John Wesley and his co-workers, under God, evangelized organized Christianity in the eighteenth century, and Methodism was born. And now Methodism must be evangelized so that its thousands of congregations may become mighty forces for spiritual production instead of remaining fallow fields to plow in and weep over, but that kind of evangelism is not visioned in the set up of the present drive. To be sure some people seem naively to think that if we could somehow get large numbers of unevangelized Methodists busy evangelizing others they themselves might ultimately be evangelized! But by what kind of evangelism?

Our churches go haltingly about the work of evangelism because their life is shot through with the spirit of secularism which imperils

Receipts Continue to Show Increase in First Quarter

We are glad to say that our first quarters' receipts from the organizations of the churches continues to increase. The following table gives the picture by Presbyteries. Five Presbyteries show an increase and four a decrease.

These figures are not conclusive as they merely reflect what has come into our hands during that period. They do indicate that the church is mindful of the higher costs of caring for our children and are helping us meet that increase.

the sensate society with which they are too closely identified. Standards of success in the churches like measures of success in our acquisitive order are quantitative rather than qualitative. What do you pay your pastor, and how many accessions this year? Give us the figures—and remember that we must not let the Baptists beat us in securing members in 1946. God help us!

Pastor's Paragraph

THE BOOK AND THE HOME

A little girl one day pointed to the Bible lying on the library table in her home. "Mother, is that God's book?" she asked. And upon assured that it was, she replied, "Then let's give it back to Him; we never use it." Her statement well illustrates the paradoxical position of the Bible in America's homes today. It continues to be the most widely owned book while it has become one of the least read of all. We seem to feel that no home is completely furnished unless it has a Bible, but to feel also that the very presence of a Bible is sufficient to make a Christian home without its ever being used. The percentage of American families who set aside a regular time each day for reading God's Word together is so small that it hardly allows us to call ourselves a Christian nation.

In the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy we find God's instructions as to the place that His Word should occupy in our homes. There He tells us that His commandments "shall be in thine heart" and that "thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children". The solemn responsibility is laid upon parents to transfer the Word from the pages of the Book into their own hearts and lives. Then they are given the further obligation of teaching the Word to their children. God makes the home the primary seat of religious education. "Thou shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house," He says. The things of God should be, not a subject of embarrassment, but of the most intimate and delightful family conversations.

There is ample evidence of the influence that the Bible can have upon a home. Statistics today show that the divorce rate in America has reached the alarming proportion of one in every four marriages. Yet in even nominally Christian homes the rate is negligible, and in homes where the Bible is read daily in family worship it is practically zero. These facts alone should cause us to realize what the Bible can do for us in our twentieth century.

God's Book gives us a beautiful picture of the sanctity of the marriage tie, of the home and of the family. It bases life in the home on God's law rather than on man's pleasure. It teaches consideration for others, and achievement of happiness through sacrifice and service. Its "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is a code of unselfishness which can make home the type of heaven that God intended it to be.

The Bible builds men and women of character and strength. It offers a better guide to child rearing than all the books of modern psychology combined. In the final analysis life depends not upon money or education or any of the so-called "advantages" of our day, but upon character such as the Bible builds.

Our world today cries out for adequate, dedicated, unselfish leadership. We look about us and wonder whence it shall come. In the Bible we read the beautiful love story of Ruth, culminating in the establishment of a godly home. And then we find that from this home came the line of Obed, Jesse, David -- the Christ. When God would provide the world with truly great leadership. He begins with a series of Christian homes. We can make no larger contribution to the world today than by making our homes worthy for such use.

CHEAPNESS IN THE CHURCH
By Wilbur Laroe, Jr.

The time has come for us laymen to revise radically our views about the conduct of church affairs. We have got to stop being so cheap.

We have fallen into the awful error of assuming that whatever the church does must be done cheaply. If we have a church dinner, it must be cheap. If we employ a church missionary, he or she must be inadequately paid. If we employ a church secretary, she must expect to be paid less than she would be paid in a business office because, forsooth, the church is less important than business.

Recently I spoke to a women's missionary group. Before the meeting I heard them discussing the need for redecorating the church parlor, where the furniture and draperies were shabby, and the whole atmosphere of the room was gloomy and funeral. The conclusion was reached informally that the room could not be redecorated because it would cost $2,000. From the church I was driven to a country club for lunch. There I was shown a new ladies' parlor which had just been magnificently refitted with modern furniture and equipment at a cost of $7,500. That room must be nicely fitted because it is there that the ladies drink their cocktails. It is only where the work of God is done that rooms must be shabby and drear. Members of a country club will pour out money more lavishly than will members of a church. The country club is important.

Two cocktails and two dinners at the average restaurant cost $3.80. The average weekly contribution to the Presbyterian Church is 54 cents per member.

The next time I am served cold ham and cole slaw and a cold, indifferent tea biscuit at a church supper I shall bring a tort suit against the church for the ensuing indigestion. Why in the name of common sense do we assume that we may have a very adequate and tempting dinner in our own home, but plan a church supper around baked beans or cole slaw? The average church member would fall into a faint if he were served lamb chops and apple pie a la mode at a church supper. Why? Because in things pertaining to the church mediocrity and cheapness are the accepted standard.

Recently a highly competent science teacher in one of our southwestern missionary colleges got her class interested in the production of penicillin and not only succeeded in producing a substantial quantity of it but turned it over to the medical department of the school where it was actually used in the treatment of certain skin diseases. This highly competent science teacher, who would easily command $3,000 to $4,000 in almost any other field of employment, receives the munificent salary of $50 per month, plus board and lodging. Our ideas are far too low as to the compensation which skilled religious teachers should receive. Is it because we regard religion as less important than other fields of instruction?

Our ministers are notoriously underpaid. We cling to the absurd fiction that they should, because they are ministers, dispense with the material things of life except food and a little raiment. Meanwhile we expect our minister to live in our community, to educate his children, to maintain the cultural progress of himself and his family. When shall we awake to the fact that our minister is, and must be, a highly trained professional expert, with numerous special qualifications required of a pastor, yet we pay him as if he were a truck driver or less.

We are cheap in our giving. At a time of indescribable world need, with millions facing physical and spiritual starvation, we Presbyterians give an average of 9.3 cents per week to all Presbyterian benevolences, including the wonderful work of our boards. And for current church expenses we give 44.7 cents. These figures reflect little real love for our religion or for our church. We ought to support our church better or join another faith to which we can give more wholeheartedly.

We Presbyterians have got to take the job of discipleship more seriously. We must awake to the fact that our religion is the most important thing in life—more important than our business, more important than our homes, more important than life itself. If we once convince ourselves of these things, Christ will get more than pennies and nickles and dimes.

away about twenty feet of the old shore line where we used to have our horseshoe pitching pits - and has made a deep channel just off shore, but it has widened out the big island in the middle of the river and made a bigger playground where it is safe for very young children to play. The grass that was sown on the ground thrives as well as it can considering the heavy traffic it bears. The sheep go out every spring and discourage poison oak so that our youngsters do not have that to contend with.

The boys who were in the service wrote back often that they were homesick for the camp. Several said that their highest ambition was to get back here and to

HOME COMING DAY SET FOR OCTOBER 4TH

Football Game With Harding High To Be Feature of the Day

For many years our Homecoming Day was in the neighborhood of Thanksgiving and the weatherman did not cooperate at all. It was seldom that we had a good day. Then we commenced to experiment with having it earlier in the season and it worked out so well that this year we are putting it on the Fourth of October.

All of you alumni mark that date on your calendar - it is going to be a great day. We are going to have a big football game that day, too. For the first time in the history of things a Charlotte team is coming to Barium Springs to play - we have always gone to Charlotte for our games. Harding High will be the opponent and they have beaten us the last couple of years. That won't do, and we want the Homecoming crowd to help change that.

There will be some brand new seats to sit on down at the football field and we will try to have everything else in apple-pie order. We hope the time will come when there will be too many alumni to accommodate in our dining room and we will have to have an outdoor picnic dinner for them. That would be nice, too. That is the way Homecoming Days are usually handled at other institutions.

Just to remind all of you alumni

Successful Season At Camp Fellowship

As the Messenger goes to press the last of the Barium Campers will have returned to the campus and the camping season for the children of the home will be over for this year.

This has been a fine Camping Season with wonderful weather all summer. Only one rainy day put a stop to outdoor activities.

During this summer there have been twelve groups using the Camping facilities. They were: Davidson College Presbyterian Church, Two groups of Concord Presbytery Young People, One group of Young People from Winston-Salem Presbytery, a group of Methodists from Iredell county, Methodists from Davidson county and West Jefferson, Methodists from Catawba county - Sub-district A, two groups of Hickory Methodists, Four H Clubs of Wilkes county, and three groups from Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

Other groups will use the Camp on into September.

Mr. Harry Barkley has been at the camp all summer and has assisted or has been in charge of every group. He has been assisted on the water front and in the recreation by Ernest Stricklin and Pleas Norman. These young men have done an outstanding service at the camp this summer.

Mr. Jerry Newbold assisted in the Barium camps and had charge of the recreation.

Young People of the home helped to put on the camps for the younger children.

Other assistants during the Camping Season have been Mrs. I. B. White, Miss Cloyce Moore, and

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

SATISFIED.

In Paul's Letter to the Philippians we read a remarkable statement; "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." It is unusual to find one who can make that statement truthfully. Most people are dissatisfied with their lot in life. We have only to stand on a busy street corner in some city and watch people pass to see dissatisfaction written in the great majority of faces. We have only to look about us at our own friends to find someone who has struggled all his life for some goal, only to find upon attaining it that it was not what he wanted after all.

To be satisfied, that is the goal for which people really seek. In the sixteenth Psalm we have a beautiful picture of one who has learned the secret. There David gives us the key in a lively poem that has well been called "The Song of a Satisfied Soul." He has learned, as Augustine said, that "Our souls are made for God, and they are restless until they rest in Him".

The first four verses of this Psalm are David's confession of faith -- a statement of his belief in God. He recounts the power of God to preserve and protect, and the righteousness of God which delights in goodness and punishes evil. And David looks up at this Lord of the universe and writes "my" across Him. "Thou art my Lord."

If, as students of human nature tell us, we are and do what we believe -- if our beliefs determine our character and actions -- then such belief in God must orient life and give it purpose and direction. It gives a sense of safety in a tumultuous world for it enables us to say at all times, "My life is hid with Christ in God." God is man's richest possession. It is good to say, "I am thine, O Lord." But life becomes complete only when we can add, "And thou art mine forever and forever."

The second four verses carry us another step toward satisfaction with life. They move from confession to communion, and in them we find some soul-satisfying statements. "The Lord is the portion of my inheritance." In counting his riches, he names God as first and chiefest. "I will bless the Lord who has given me counsel: -- because He is at my right hand I shall not be moved." Experience has proved his beliefs with an unanswerable proof that makes his soul invulnerable.

The richest possession that a man can have is a true friend, and man's best friend is God. No discontent is possible when we can say, "He walks with me and He talks with me and He tells me that I am His own."

I like the story of the man who called for a light that he might go ahead into the future. And the answer came back, "You don't need a light; step out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God." Even the darkest road holds

Jerry Newbold, Jr.

An outstanding addition to our staff during the summer months has been Mr. Jerry Newbold, Jr., a student from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. He has filled a need that has long been felt on our campus, serving as director of recreation for the children during the vacation period.

From the first day that Mr. Newbold arrived he won the affection of all through his sympathetic understanding and his pleasant personality. He soon became known as the one person who always had time to stop and talk or play, and the children gathered around him in groups wherever he appeared.

Under his supervision game equipment sprang up all over the campus. Horseshoes, tennis, badminton and other games have flourished through his leadership, and in the afternoons he could always be found adding to the fun at

Recreational Program Needed At Barium

We carry in this month's Messenger an article about the fine work done on our campus by Mr. Jerry Newbold.

Mr. Newbold has been doing many things and doing them well, but I wish to make some comments from observation of his work in directing the recreation of the children.

Mr. Newbold's excellent service for a few months accentuates the fact that we need some one to carry on this work the year round. In fact a young man and a young woman might be used in this field very profitably on a full time basis.

This brings up the question of equipment. During the summer months most of the activities could be carried on out of doors. One of the parlors of the Woman's Building was converted into a game room and open house was kept several nights each week. This was fine as far as it went but was not adequate and left much to be desired. We have a basket ball court which doubles for an auditorium in our school building.

We need a recreational building that would combine the uses of the gymnasium for athletic games with social and general recreational activities for all the children of the

As I'll Remember

By Jerry Newbold, Jr.

Four months ago "Barium Springs" would have brought to mind hardly more than just two things: Thanksgiving Day and Football. Thanksgiving has always been the time to share with our home here through special gifts; and as for football -- well, you see I went to Davidson. But come next Fall and the future, "Barium Springs" will bring to mind far more than just a couple of things. Instead, many a moment of day dreaming will be devoted to drifting back to Barium to reminisce an unforgettable summer spent there.

Even now I can see myself "drifting back" -- back up the Charlotte highway, on past Doodlem's, the "Workers' Village", and the train station until we soon see there on the right, the football field. And what shall that sight bring to mind? Memories of treasure hunts, Bum Bum Bum, scavenger hunts, Red Light, and many an impressive outdoor Sunday night service, tho it'd be nice to forget the way I seemed to always stay "off key" while trying to lead the singing. On beyond the football field stands the High School; and with it comes thoughts of Bible School: spatter printing, Mark's Gospel, and the "swarm" of Juniors upstairs, thoughts, too, of Sunday School and Dr. Pike's Pink Pepo Pills for Petered Out Personality which proudly presented Professor Pat Patterson and his "Quiz Program" one night. Then comes Little Joe's Church and memories of a meanful Communion Service, an attractive bulletin each Sunday, the thrill of preaching to a congregation of young folks, but also the visit by a bat right in the middle of a sermon.

Pausing at the fountain for a drink, we drift on to the Office where my mind goes back to a group of helpful workers, interesting Staff meetings, and mail call each morning just after breakfast, the time when one gathers all the latest gossip as well as dust out the usually empty post office box. Friendliness and food reside next door, and then we reach the sideyard "playground" of the Woman's Building. There I'll be reminded of tennis and badminton, ping pong and horse shoes, and the "face washing" water-mellon feast one certain Saturday. The Woman's Building, itself, will always bring to mind our Friday Night Open Houses: Bingo and cooling refreshments, a brand new record changer along with lots of new furniture and all kinds of games, memories too, of skating parties in Statesville, of Sunday Night Bull Sessions and front campus strolls and the thoughtful "Farewell Party" my last night at our Home.

Perhaps there is little to be remembered about the next building, the Grammer School building, except to never forget how good it looked after my first and last "journey" to Kiesler's Bridge one scorching, dusty Saturday afternoon. Who said it was just around

Impressions of A Teacher On Vacation

People are nice, and this is a wonderful country in which we live. Then drag yourself out of your rut, Irene, and this summer get a new outlook on life - go to California!

Me? Go all the way across the United States? Why, I've scarcely been beyond the limits of North Carolina. I'd be sure to miss connections somewhere, or get lost.

Then a trip is just what you need - a challenge to self-reliance. Yes, you're a Mathematics and Latin teacher, but first hand geography would do you good, too and you certainly need to learn to meet people. You'd be surprised how many interesting people there are beyond the circle of your acquaintance.

I can't afford that trip by Pullman. Anyway, that would be too fast for me. I want to see everything, to have time for a second look at mountains and plains and rivers and tall buildings. Then why not try the bus, you can stop as often and for as long as you wish; and a round trip ticket will be good for six months.

Oh, that ticket! It must be every inch of six feet long; believe I'll back out, I'm scared. But I'm ashamed to do that now after the agent has spent an hour and a half mapping out for me a route that

Bible School Was Held Here Aug. 12-23

The annual Vacation Bible School was held here on the campus August 12-23 with about two hundred enthusiastic children in attendance. Every available adult was pressed into service to conduct the school, and a number of the older boys and girls acted as helpers. Classes were held in the two school buildings.

The Beginner Department, under the leadership of Mrs. R. S. Arrowood, Miss Peggy Coffee and Miss Myrtle Rushing, kept the folks busy learning Bible verses and new songs and playing games under the trees. Paper and crayons and paste and scissors worked together with them to produce book marks, baskets and other articles of handiwork.

Mrs. Bruce Parcell, assisted by Miss Katharine Arrowood and Miss Betty Coffee, led the Primary Department. There are some thirty-five children, studied the prescribed course, memorized Bible verses and made picture posters to illustrate them, learned new songs and mounted Bible pictures on wooden plaques.

Work in the Junior Department was under the leadership of Mrs. F. B. Benton, assisted by Misses Helen Hawley, Maggie Katen, Bradley Jean Manus and Mary Dickson Arrowood. The juniors made notebooks from the material they studied and produced large wall maps of Palestine and a model Palestinian village. Scrap books of original and selected prayers, illustrated with pictures, were prepared for sending to Africa with some of our new missionaries who are going out this fall.

But on across the underpass there's much to be remembered, for there stands Howard which sends my mind back to trips to the spring, swimming every afternoon at two, sideyard playhouses, a cute little negro doll, acrobatic stunts, crazy songs and choruses, and innumerable string beans. The Baby Cottage, which is next in line, will always remind me of "May we go sthimming?" or "Can we go blackberry pic" then, too, a new sliding board and merry-go-round, a magician show in the basement, tiny beds, a hayride to the chicken farm in the old milk wagon, but perhaps above all: June bugs and sewing thread.

Yes, "Barium Springs, from now on will mean a lot, even more than has been mentioned above; for who could forget Camp with its ham and eggs, trips to the store and Long Island, ghost stories each night, moonlight hikes, stunt nights, square dancing, yellow jackets and water moccasins, a womanless wedding, riding the rapids, our huge rubber raft, boat races and ping pong and horseshoe tournaments, Vespers, "Fire from Heaven", Phil Harris' "Dark Town Poker Club", and Smut. No, "Barium Springs" will be synonymous with one of the happiest summers of my life.

superintendent of the Intermediate Department and was aided in the teaching and handwork by Mrs. J. B. Johnston, Miss Lee Vinson, W. A. Johnson and Dwight Spencer. Under their leadership each child prepared a notebook on the Gospel of Mark and made various articles such as dresser scarfs and model airplanes.

A feature of the school was a watermelon cutting at the end of the first week. Needless to say, participation in this event was as enthusiastic as in everything else done in the school.

On the last morning of the school each department held open house to show the work that it had done. Many visitors came in to see the various things made by the boys and girls. Then all adjourned to the church for a program of songs and recitations in which the children demonstrated what they had learned at the Bible School. Certificates were awarded to all who had attended regularly, and the program was closed with the benediction by the pastor.

Cottage News

INFIRMARY

Hello There, Here we are back again with you this month bringing you the news from our cottage.

We have just gotten back from camp. We can not express what a wonderful time we had swimming in the river, going on boat rides etc.

We have had only six patients in the past month. We had two tonsil patient and a few little girls with poison oak.

Mrs. McNatt had a visit from her son from New Jersey. He had some girls our age and we had a swell time. Vivian Jacquimin had a visit from her sister and brother-in-law from Valdesse.

We are having a good time going to Bible school and we are all excited about our long school months starting Tuesday.

We are happy but down in our heart we can't help from grieving of losing Mr. Jerry Newbold, Jr. He has done a lot for us this summer and it's been wonderful knowing him.

Well I guess we will become artists and draw this to a close until next month. —The Infirmary Girls

SEWING ROOM

We have been having a wonderful time at Camp Fellowship and we about let this month slip by without bringing you the latest gossip. However, here we are and we hope you enjoy reading about us.

This is the first time we have worked in the sewing room in three weeks. We have worked in various other places on the campus because Mrs. Hudson's son came home from Quam and she took a short vacation. When her vacation ended, ours was just beginning. We all went to Camp the day she returned. It seems good to be running our machines again.

Our school starts next Tuesday and since we are seniors we are real excited.

Some of our girls are helping with Bible School this week. They seem to be doing a good job.

As for the gossip about our family, here goes:

Mary Anne Ryder is always talking about spending her honey moon at Coney Island. How about that, Roscoe?

The Fleet came in and it brought with it Maggie's flame, Billy Everett. He really looks sharp, Maggie. Myrtle and W. A. are still hitting it. Myrtle is all smiles.

Toni said that we didn't have any gossip about her, but if you were here around 6:30 to 8:30 each night you'd find out different.

When Mary Francis finds out Esau is coming she about runs us crazy. We see why though.

Lee Vinson is trying to find a way to go to Greensboro. Is it because Herbert McMasters is located there?

There are only two things Hannah Price talks about, Earl Adams and going to Mississippi.

Jeanne McDonald said she was still here. She hasn't faded away yet.

Helen Hawley always gets twenty cents in her letters from Wilmington. Could it be that someone wants to take her to the show? We'll be back next month but until then, Bye, Bye. — The S. S. S. S. Girls

WOMEN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks, This is none other than the young ladies of Barium Springs, bringing you the headlights of the month.

Everyone has returned from vacations and a few have been to Camp. Today over half of our girls left for Camp so you can see we are mighty busy.

The younger children started to Bible School this morning. We are proud to say that some of our girls were asked to help out a little.

Our sitting room downstairs is beginning rapidly to take shape. We have been working on it all summer and it seems to be a great success.

It isn't long before we will be getting our books and rushing off to school. We have enjoyed the summer but are always glad for a change. We'll be covered in books beginning the twenty-seventh of this month.

We miss Mr. Johnston, who has gone to school for a few days. There are many other people such as he at this school.

Mr. Jerry Newbold, who has been conducting our sports, preached in church yesterday. We really enjoyed it. Mr. Newbold will only be with us a week or so more. We will miss him.

Look for us next month friends, we'll be around. — Women's Building

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks, We are back again to tell you that we had a wonderful time at camp this summer.

We are having Bible School now for two weeks and most of the boys and girls have been going.

Our swimming season will soon close (much to our regret) because we must again take up our books and go back to school, but football season is coming around so we won't mind missing swimming very much. Be sure you don't miss any of our football games.

Louise Campbell, one of our big girls here at Rump Hall is going over to our next door neighbors "The Synod Cottage." We will all miss her very much even though the distance is short.

We will be back again next month and so until then, Good-bye. — The Rump Hall Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks, Here we are again bringing you the latest news from Annie Louise Cottage.

"School" - that word has been the most used word around here for the last month. We are all looking forward to next Tuesday. We have all had a nice vacation, swimming, playing, and helping string beans but we would rather go to school.

This summer we have been very lucky to have Mr. Jerry Newbold of Wilmington here to help us keep entertained. Thanks a lot, Mr. Newbold, and remember us next summer when you get out of school. The gate will be open to you. Also we want to thank Miss Ruth Troutman for having the story hour twice a week. We really enjoyed it. It won't be long before we put up our swim suits and put on shoes and that will suit us just fine.

Be sure to read the latest news in The Messenger next month. — The Annie Louise Girls

THE PLUMBERS

This is the debut of Plumbing group news. This is the first time we have exposed our inside activities to the public. We are fortunate indeed to secure space in the Messenger, which is a "growing" (Continued On Page Three)

Our foreman, Mr. S. A. Grier, who has been here the larger part of half a century is assisted by Mr. Issac B. White. Assisting our able leaders are: J. D. Everett, Ray Clark, and myself.

The job of our group is handling the plumbing and electric end of the campus.

As of today, August 23, we are servicing the boilers on the campus in order to have them ready for winter use.

We hope that we will be able to inform you of our work next month. — Herbert Good

THINK GREAT THOUGHTS

The measure of the mind is the measure of the man. The worth of the man is in the volume and the quality of the contents of his mind. Ideas are the creative forces in the world. Every act is the expression of a thought. Every invention was first an idea in some man's mind. The mind moves the hand, sees through the eyes and hears through the ears. The mind sees, hears and acts. The mind is the man. What the mind is the man is. Small men are small minds thinking small thoughts and doing small things. Large and strong men are large minds thinking great thoughts, undertaking great things. Shallow thinking, easy thinking made for softness and weakness of character. Hard thinking, high thinking, wrestling with great thoughts, grappling with large ideas make for strength of character and worth of character and worth of conduct and accomplishment.

There is a constant interplay and inter-dependence between the moral character of a man and the quality of his thinking. What the man thinks, that he is; what the man is, that he thinks. Thinking, character, conduct, these three, are one and indivisible, and the indivisible one is the human personality.

This fact of the nature of personal life means that the mind, its contents and employment, has a vital, an essential place and part in the religious life, in determining the character and directing the conduct of Christian people.

Great thinking makes great Christians. There is no doubt about it; there is no other way. It is difficult to understand how any man can be a Christian at all without being deeply stirred by great thoughts and moved to action by creative ideas. He must contemplate the greatest ideas the human mind can contemplate, ideas of the infinite and the eternal, the idea of God, of the immortal human spirit, of righteousness and truth, of measureless mercy and fathomless love, of inescapable responsibility, and of judgement to come, of redemption and forgiveness of sin, of the Kingdom of God on earth and a heavenly home. He can't read the New Testament or sit at the feet of Jesus without being disturbed by great thoughts of the greatness of life or without getting some stirring glimpse at last of the limitless eternal infinite glory and grandeur of God's thoughts for men.

How can he who has had that experience of thinking with Jesus, ever again think little things of himself or of any man, or doing little and mean things, or living a small, narrow, selfish life. Life surely has come to mean to him something large and wide and high.

The human body is limited to the reach of the hands and eyes and ears, but to the Christian mind there are no boundaries, no horizons, no impassable barriers to its interest, its understanding, to its sympathy and compassion, to its outreached hands of service. — Baptist Courier no terrors when we walk hand in hand with Him. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." It is enough, and he who can say that truthfully is satisfied.

The last three verses of the Psalm carry the thought through to its logical conclusion. Communion with God leads to perfect confidence in Him. "Therefore my heart is glad... my flesh also shall rest in hope." And again, "Thou wilt show me the path of life: in Thy presence is fulness of joy; at Thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore." The tenth verse points to Christ, the Hope of the World. David looks forward to Him in faith, but we have a heritage in our knowledge of Him that can give us an even greater confidence.

Though we spend a lifetime building for ourselves a bulwark against defeat and dissatisfaction, our fortress must fall in the hour of our supreme trial. None holds but one, and only the man whose confidence rests securely upon God can say, "I am satisfied."

Impressions of A

will allow me to visit friends and return another way, retracing only the first hundred miles or so. And that's not too much to pay for six to eight thousand miles of riding on those big comfortable Greyhounds.

Well, I'm on my way! Imagine all this beauty at my very door and I'd never seen it - white buildings set like jewels in the green hills of western North Carolina. How beautiful is the Great Smoky Mountain National Park by moonlight and how pleasing the absence of billboards disfiguring the landscape.

Now, why did my seat mate, so friendly and talkative for a while, close up immediately he learned I'm a school teacher?

These are good sandwiches they serve at our stop in Cherokee Indian Reservation, and I sense a pride in the bearing of these pretty Indian girls and the stalwart men and boys.

The idea of stopping in Nashville, "hardly out of sight of home," seemed a joke, but it gives me a good idea of how long a stretch I can stand and what clothing will be suitable and more comfortable for traveling. Just what could be the meaning of that well-dressed man's low spoken suggestion that he has a car going to Memphis - "would the lady like a ride?"

"No, I'm staying here," (for a few hours, at least.)

One does meet interesting people, especially these ex-service men with their varied reactions to civilian life; this boy, hardly "dry behind the ears" is evidently returning to camp and feeling very clever to have "got by" the bus driver with his bottle; this one has already had too much to drink and is quarrelsome and profane; he has served his country and can't understand why any and all the girls don't welcome his insistent attentions; this one came through still level headed and able to face readjustment at home.

Now, southerner, this is St. Louis, Mo. and you'd better begin to accept the equality of races.

And already, with Kansas City you think you've had enough of strangers and big cities! Kansas City is a shining example of civic pride. It has so many beautiful parks and handsome buildings, and the lawns are all so well kept; but don't forget, Irene, that a native daughter would naturally put the city's "best foot foremost." How nice to have a car and be able to entertain a guest with sight seeing (doubly nice when one is the guest): that turkey farm at Liberty, Mo. with its 13,000 three-week-old turkeys that are "put out on the sun porches" in the day time; and the President's home in Independence; and the beautiful truck gardens of Missouri!

This pillow service on a long, or overnight bus trip is really worth the fifteen cents it costs. After the first night one can even sleep quite well. Now you're headed for your next planned stop - Salt Lake City - with no hotel reservation. Oh, well, one can always go on if there isn't a room to be found.

These vast grain fields and pasture lands of Kansas and Colorado are inspiring at first, but they become monotonous as scenery. Is that spinach I see growing in that field? No, that is sugar beets, and lettuce, as far as the eye can see.

We're approaching Denver and beginning to catch glimpses of snow capped mountains. They look like fairyland places in the clouds.

This must be the Continental Divide - wish I could have seen it by daylight. The bus has been climbing for some time, now the summit, and then a rather frightening rapid descent. These towering queer shaped, starkly bare boulders of Wyoming make magnificent scenery. We're well on schedule so our driver says we have time to stop and look at Devil's Slide in Weber Canyon, Utah. Very pleasing observation; Utah forbids smoking on buses.

That was good advice my friend gave me about getting a room at the Y. W. C. A. Now I can stay here and tomorrow hear the Organ recital in the great Mormon Tabernacle, and maybe even see the Great Salt Lake.

Is some unseen force arranging everything for my especial pleasure? What could be more thrilling than hearing Schuberts "Ave Maria" and "Suzanne River" played on this magnificent organ; and later a dip in the Great Salt Lake which leaves one feeling, as the guide said, truly "ten years younger." There is something irresistibly attractive about Salt Lake City.

So this is Reno! Well, viewed from the vicinity of the bus station, I'll take up residence elsewhere.

Agriculture inspection station; hills covered with beautiful evergreens, orchards, fruit stands displaying great quantities of superb cherries, apricots, peaches, and apples; this could be nothing else than California. Can anything be more awe-inspiring than the sight of a mighty bridge! Can it be that I am actually riding along the lower deck of this one of the world's largest bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay "symphony of steel"?

San Francisco, another of those big cities that make me feel so insignificant and all alone. Well, I'll just stay with Anne at her apartment for a day or two then go on.

But Anne, the perfect hostess and enthusiastic booster of her adopted city, has plans: first, a view of the city, from atop the apartment house, and there, within a stones throw it seems, is Alcatraz Island. Today we'll take a picnic lunch and see first Civic Center and the very buildings in which was held the United Nations Conference; then the beach and the famous Cliff House and Seal Rocks; then back to Golden Gate Park (1000 A.) and the aquarium and the beautiful Oriental Tea Garden. Now, we're caught in the late afternoon rush and they won't allow us to take the baby's carriage on the street car, so we'll have to walk home - blocks and blocks!

After careful study of the city map I'm venturing out alone today. A pretty good sense of direction guides me to the bus station, where I'm advised, for scenery, to travel the Redwood Highway from San Francisco to Portland. This business attended it is a simple matter to locate a street car going to the Ferry Building. Better not ride across to Oakland again, much as I like that ferry, or there won't be time left to visit Fleishbacher Zoo at the extreme opposite side of the city.

This day is not yet done - we have tickets to a radio broadcast "Night Editor"; after that the breath taking view of the city by night seen from the "Top of the Mark"; and then China Town. I'll come back here again, this is too fascinating to be left after an hour; anyway, I haven't had time tonight to buy souvenirs.

There is talk of a street car strike. Yes, Saturday at midnight all cars stop so Sunday will find me limited to walking on the pier and Fisherman's Warf. Those queer huge cauldrons lining the sidewalks, you can watch crabs being cooked.

It was too far to walk to Sigmund Stern Recreation Grove so we missed the outdoor concert, but we have tickets to another broadcast, this time the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and Chorus and how thrilling to hear that chorus sing one of my favorites "The Lost Chord"!

Well, I've already overstayed my allotted time in San Francisco and have barely glimpsed its wonderful opportunities. Make a note to return here. Entrance was by way of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and to my delight departure gives me opportunity of crossing the famous Golden Gate Bridge.

Bus drivers are nice fellows - they know we passengers would like to stop and go through the famous redwood Tree House. So, we stop. This highway is scenic, and winding. Oh, joy! another state (Oregon) where smoking on buses is prohibited (and our driver sees to it that the law is observed).

Well, these sixteen days impressions have crowded each other so that there hasn't been a chance to write down anything. "We have four days off for the Fourth and we want to show you beautiful Oregon" - so my friends had written, and they've almost made me willing to forget I'm a Tarheel. I have eaten at every kind of restaurant: Smoegasbord, Bohemian, Pagoda, Lido, Marine Grotto, and tasted every kind of food new to me. I have seen superbly beautiful scenery: the Columbia River Highway; Bonneville Dam and hatchery. snow capped mountains, woodland parks and streams, blue lakes, sunset over the Pacific, totem poles, Portland by night from Council Crest, beds and beds of gorgeous roses in Washington Park, the Sanctuary of Our Sorrowful Mother with its wonderful wood carvings. I have ridden the ski lift and made snowballs on the Fourth of July, on Mt. Hood, have seen salmon swimming upstream over the fish ladders at Bonneville; have picnicked in Sherwood Forest; have enjoyed motor boat riding on the Pacific and witnessed the manouvers of an octopus safe in an aquarium; have attended Greyhound races at the Multnomah Athletic Club; have experienced the questioning and inspection necessary before one can go into Canada or return to the United States.

Is it any wonder I leave Portland with the greatest reluctance?

What a contrast, the heat and vast grain fields of eastern Washington and the graceful fir trees and cool streams of the west.

Northern Idaho has beautiful scenery, too, and interesting little nearly deserted mining towns.

Now what an experience this is - a two hour tour into the Leonard Copper mine at Butte, Montana. They've dressed us, the twenty-four tourists, in trench coats or coveralls, belts, miners' hats, lamps and battery. First we see the engine room of the 4500 H. P. electric hoist that lowers and lifts miners and ore into and out of the mine. We are packed, seven to a cage, and lowered 3300 feet into the "Worlds' Richest Hill." Our guide shows us how the mine is developed and each pocket filled after the valuable ore is taken out. He gives each of us a souvenir chip of ore bearing stone. I really wasn't worried, but it's good to be above ground again.

This is going to be a long hop from Butte to Chicago and there is such a sameness in the landscape. The Badlands of North Dakota are interesting, and Wisconsin has pretty green country and nice towns.

We're entering Chicago, the one city of my itinerary I'd dreaded. It's so big and I'm too tired to cope with the problems relative to sightseeing, alone. The bus comes in by Lake Shore Drive and our driver points out the strongest beacon in the world, the largest building, the Wrigley Building and the Stevens Hotel. As usual, I arrive here without hotel reservation, but my third call is successful so I'll have a night's sleep in a bed, at least.

Note: Travel by Express bus whenever possible. Stopping at every small station to discharge and take on passengers gets very tiresome.

They really keep people moving at this Cincinnati station. Even the maid sees that no traveler takes a nap in the lounge monopolizing a whole couch. Loafers and drunks are hustled out of the waiting room. How do these young mothers manage a bus trip with a babe in arms and two others scarcely older.

Knoxville - North Carolina state line - Asheville, almost the end of my vacation, but home!

It has been glorious, every hour of it a never-to-be forgotten experience.

Wonder how soon I can go west again.

the swimming pool. Softball games at twilight and other activities during the evening hours kept him busy and the children happier.

At Camp Fellowship this month Mr. Newbold gave valuable assistance in directing games and in sponsoring tournaments and other programs. His campfires and ghost stories will long be remembered.

In addition to his recreational activities, Mr. Newbold has made a valuable contribution to the religious life at Barium Springs. He taught a Sunday School class during the summer, served as one of the department heads in our Vacation Bible School, led the singing at out door vespers on Sunday evenings, and supplied the pulpit of Little Joe's Church several times in the absence of our pastor. The boys and girls here will not soon forget his vivid "first person" sermons and talks.

Mr. Newbold came to us this summer because he is interested in going into full time orphanage work when he graduates from the seminary. He felt that this was the best chance for him to learn what orphanage life is like. We send him back to the seminary with the hope that we have benefited him as much as he has benefited us. We know that he is admirably suited to the work he has chosen, and we pray God's blessing upon him in his further preparation.

home. All the children at Presbyterian Orphan's Home with the exception of the Baby Cottagers are assigned to useful work. That is directed. We have coaches for athletics but these coaches have other work which takes most of their time. The development of supervised recreation in a well appointed building by competent leadership would add greatly to the building of character here, which, after all, is the main business of this institution.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., SEPTEMBER 1946

No. 11

Report of Synod And Church News

The one hundred and thirty-third meeting of the Synod of North Carolina was held at Queens College in Charlotte September 2-5, 1946. The enrollment showed that there were in attendance 380 representatives of Churches. This is the largest attendance on record.

The Retiring Moderator, Dr. J. A. Redhead, preached the opening sermon on the subject, "The Kingdom of God is at Hand." Dr. O. C. Williamson, Pastor of Cooks Memorial Presbyterian Church was elected Moderator of this meeting and served most efficiently and acceptably.

Rev. C. M. Gibbs was re-elected Stated Clerk of the Synod for a term of three years. Dr. J. O. Mann and Rev. R. K. Davenport were re-elected to the positions of Director of Religious Education and Synod's Evangelist respectively.

Among important matters that were approved by the Synod was the authorizing of the rebuilding of the William Black Home at Montreat. This structure was burned during the past summer and was a total loss. The estimated cost of replacing it with an additional building is $50,000. The Synod approved that amount for the Home. The Synod also re-approved the campaign for $100,000 for Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton.

The Synod voted to establish a home for the aged in Greensboro and authorized a campaign for $300,000 to be used in building and in endowing this home - the campaign to begin October 1st. Applicants of this home must have been Presbyterians for five years and must pay $500 on entrance plus $150.00 for burial fee.

A benevolent budget for the year 1947-48 in amount of $880,000.00 was adopted. Benevolent gifts last year amounted to $982,055. Total gifts to Synod to current expenses and benevolences amounted to $2,571,068.00.

Among the fine addresses that were heard by the Synod might

Pastor's Paragraph By Rev. F. B. Benton

WAITING ON THE LORD

In the fortieth chapter of Isaiah we find the prophet writing to a people who have difficult times ahead of them. He is imparting to them the secret of strength that he has found for his own life. As a climax at the end of the chapter come the words of promise: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

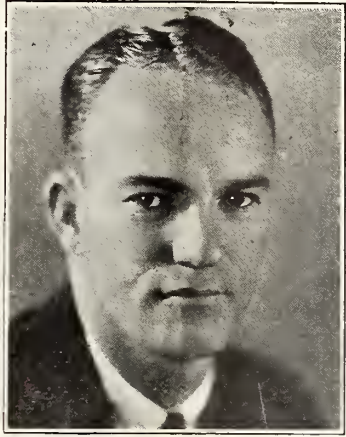

I used to have the idea that he meant by "waiting upon the Lord" a pious folding of the hands and sitting back in serenity amidst the constant turmoil of life. Such may be possible for some people, but most of us are not constituted for serene inactivity.

The method of "waiting upon the Lord" which it seems to me that Isaiah meant as a renewer of strength can be illustrated from an experience of my own college days. For three years it was my job to wait upon the faculty table in the college dining hall. There I was in constant touch, three times a day, with a number of my professors. Each of them had definite likes and dislikes about his food, and I learned what they were. In time I came to take pride in serving each one in just the way that would be pleasing to him. There was nothing degrading about such service; rather it won for me the most valuable friends that I made during my college years. The association with those worthwhile men in the intimacy of mealtime, hearing their conversation and learning to know them better than was possible in the class room alone, proved a real source of strength to me.

In the same way those who "wait upon the Lord" by serving Him find added strength coming to them from their service. His servants will certainly seek to learn His likes and dislikes and to satisfy these in all their actions. They will study His words as they are given to us in the Scriptures for this purpose.

The Return of A Valuable Servant

In the Fall of 1929 there came to Barium straight from Davidson College a young man, Robert Glenn Calhoun. He came as a teacher in our High School and as a coach in basketball, track and football. A few years later he was promoted to principal of the school and continued to give great assistance to the athletic teams. He continued in this work until the summer of '42 when Uncle Sam tapped

WHAT A MONTH!

September is just about the busiest month of the year. It starts out with school just commencing, with many new teachers and new workers to get used to things, and here right at the first of the month a flock of new children to learn their place in the scheme of things. Then there is the meeting of Synod that causes a wave of excitement - we still remember the delightful times when we entertained Synod. This year Synod met at Queens College in Charlotte. Then there is the beginning of the football season - two games to be played during the month and preparations for Home-coming Day for the first week in October. Then there is the Regents' meeting on September 24th and that is always a big day. Apples are getting ripe and our trees are loaded to the ground and it is a problem to get those apples gathered. Sweet potatoes are building up for a big let-down. Hay-making and filling those big silos with corn. And then there is the dentist who has to look at every tooth on the place and sometimes yank a few out. On the 25th of the month there is to be a big gathering here of women from over the Presbytery - every mail seems to bring in requests for information or material for a program or something about the orphanage. All of which would indicate that Barium is a live place. It is in the minds and hearts of many people and September is just the month when the symptoms appear most evident. It is a big month of preparation and the air is all a-quiver with anticipation of big things to come.

Winners Announced in Mule Naming Contest

The Society for the Nomenclature of Quadrupeds takes great pleasure in announcing the winners in their "Mule Naming Contest" which closed last night, August 21, 1946. This contest was sponsored for the purpose of securing a fitting name for our faithful old dairy mule. First prize of $3.00 goes to Miss Vivian Jacumin for the name "Matilda" and for her original twenty-five word explanation as to why the mule should be given that name. Second prize of $1.50 goes to Miss Kathleen Ellis for her entry, "Caledonia;" while the third prize of two free show tickets goes to Mr. Edward Walker for his suggestion of "Boss." The mule has been properly christened at the Christening Ceremony held in front of Rumble Hall in the presence of the entire Home and henceforth she shall be known and loved as "Matilda."

A Letter From the Vice-President of the Barium Alumni Association

To The Alumni,
Barium Springs Orphanage,
Barium Springs, N. C.

It is my information that three hundred letters have been sent out to members of the Alumni, offering to each of them the privilege of contributing ten dollars to the Memorial Fund, and that only thirteen have responded.

I am of the opinion that this is the result of carelessness on the part of the members, and does not represent any spirit of indifference, or ingratitude for the wonderful benefits each of us has received by the generosity of others in the past.

Surely we cannot expect others actively to participate in this grand work if we fail, who so well know the wonderful work the Orphanage has, and still is doing for those children who otherwise would not receive the educational advantages and Christian training so necessary to fit them for their proper place in our social and domestic world. Appreciating what we have, ourselves, received, and desiring to further the activities of the Orphanage in the upbuilding of character and fitness for citizenship, it is more of a privilege than a duty that the response to the request sent out be one hundred percent. Let's all give to this effort our whole-hearted support, not only with our substance, but with all the moral support of which we are capable.

What is really more important than the money itself, is the attendance of each member at Home-coming Day. This year let's break all previous records for attendance and cooperation.

Sincerely yours,
MAUDE INMAN
Vice-Pres. Alumni Association
Class of '35.

Barium Springs Eleven Defeated Mooresville 7 to 6 In Season's Opener

The whistle has blown, the kick-off has happened, and the first game is under our belt, and what a game it was!

Barium Springs journeyed down to Mooresville for their opener. The game was played on the baseball field and more than half of it is clay - naturally everybody is more or less nervous over the opening game and to make them more nervous it rained pretty hard during the hour before the game, and that baseball field became a rather slippery proposition.

The field slopes toward the south and the team going down hill naturally has the advantage. Well, on the toss Barium elected to receive and had the downhill pull. The game started out with a fair return of the kick-off, but Barium unable to gain and make a first down kicked; the ball was fumbled by the Mooresville safety man and Barium recovered deep in Mooresville's territory. It looked like things were going Barium's way, but Barium was stopped just short of a first down within the ten-yard line. The ball went over and Mooresville kicked out and on this drive Barium scored.

Here are the particulars of the score: it was third down and quite some distance to go - a forward pass was incomplete and then everybody seemed to take a good grip on their chewing gum and started another play. This was one of those long passes - Clark to Young - which Young took on the ten-yard line and on over to score. The extra point which turned out to be the deciding point of the game was made by Dwight Spencer on a quarterback sneak.

Shortly after this score the quarter ended and Mooresville had the downhill pull and it looked bad for Barium. Mooresville got to the six-yard line, first and goal to go but gave up the ball on downs.

The defensive play of the Barium team was plenty good. The half ended with Mooresville still threatening.

In the third quarter Barium had downhill but was unable to utilize it and did not seriously threaten. Mooresville took the ball and (Continued on Page Three)

News From Some of the Cottages

WOMEN'S BUILDING

News time once more and time to let all of our good friends in on our fun.

We have started to school since you last had word from us. We are doing very nicely in our studies, thanks to the hour and a half which we now have set aside for studying each night.

Our senior girls under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Bryant, the girls' head matron, gave a tea in the honor of the teachers who had just returned. The affair was wonderful and we enjoyed it as much as the guests seemed to. Of course they will have to tell you if they enjoyed it themselves. We were glad to welcome to our staff two new teachers: Miss Hickman, our musical director and Miss Westbrook, who teaches the fourth grade. We also had the joy of welcoming back Miss Straughn, who lives in our cottage with us and once more has taken the little tots in the first grade.

Some of our numbers had some very nice letters from our summer recreational leader, Mr. Jerry Newbold, now at the Union Theological Seminary of Richmond, Virginia. We are very pleased to find that the "missing" goes both ways.

Football season has really gotten a good start and we're backing our boys for a fine season. Our voices are fine and our lungs hold out in rain or cold so when our boys decorate the ball park in their new uniforms we'll be right there with our good spirits to push the game ahead.

Our senior class has just chosen its class ring and invitations and that's about all you hear from them. The juniors have an extra member in their class now and we hear that Kenneth Baker is really a ladies' man. Of course our Sophomores are so interested in their bugs and worms in biology that they can't send a message. The freshman class keep reminding us that "they're big girls now."

Well, folks, what do you say we sign off for now and hear from another cottage?

BABY COTTAGE

Well, here we are again. It has been some time since you heard from us but we are still here and happy and having the most fun for Daddy Johnston is just too good to us. First he had us a nice play yard fence put up then four swings and a slide board and put us a small merry-go-round so we can get on and we have lots of fun.

We have had a big time all summer and now we have school every day from 9 to 11:30 in our play room and we are learning to do lots of nice work. Miss Moles is our teacher.

Five of our Big Brothers have moved up to go to school and we miss them so much. They are Charles, Ralph, David, Melvin and George. We miss Miss Berryhill for she kept us all laughing so much for she was tops in telling jokes.

Well it will soon be winter and we will have to play in the house and we don't like that so well.

We will have to stop now, love to everybody.

— The Baby Cottage

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

We are glad school has started and football season is here again. Although, we can't play football, yet, it is fun to see the games. It won't be many years before most of us will be out on the football field playing.

George Truelove, David Reid, Ralph Huddleston, Melvin Cannon, and Charles Shepherd moved from the Baby Cottage to Synods. We have 26 boys in our cottage.

Miss Kate Taylor, our regular matron, hasn't returned from Scotland yet, but we are all anxiously waiting for her return. We know she will have lots of interesting things to tell us.

So long till next month.

— "The Wigglers"

LEES' COTTAGE

Vacations are over and we are back in school again.

Six boys from Synods' have moved down to live with us and we are glad to have them.

Mr. Thomas and "Pete" Clendenin needed some help on the truck farm so we have been helping them pick beans, tomatoes and apples. We have plenty of apples and we are putting some up for the winter.

Football season is here and we are all glad. All the Lees' boys are going out for football. We will have a good time practicing if we don't get to play in any games.

We went to the show Saturday to see "My Pal Trigger."

We are glad to have Mr. Calhoun with us again.

We are all looking forward to our first football game here.

Miss Carpenter's nephew, William Carpenter, spent a week with her this summer and we enjoyed playing with him.

Some of our friends from Morganton sent us some books and we want to thank them.

— Lees Boys

SEWING ROOM

We now pause, cut off our motors, and put our brains on the table to see which one has any news for you folks.

No doubt you folks have read of the "open house" that we girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Hudson, gave. We want to express our deepest appreciation for the splendid write-up which Mrs. Long gave us in the Statesville Daily. We're sorry we can't help out in the teacher shortage, but let's hope we can find our place and help this old world out in some way. It certainly does need some helping.

Say, let's see how our members are feeling on the subject of news. "Red" Price and Toni DeLancey have even more interest in our football squad than we do because they are members of our set of four cheer-leaders. Is that why you girls head for football practice every day after work? Or is it that hero, Charles Barrett, Toni?

Mary Frances and Mary Ann Ryder have more to discuss now than school. They're room-mates, and Esau Davis and Roscoe Smith are best friends.

Helen Hawley and Myrtle Rushing along with Margaret Katen and Miriam Huddleston to say nothing of Lee Vinson are all stuck on bo - no not ys but books. Or are they? Helen and Margaret do a lot of letter writing and Miriam and Myrtle a lot of dating. Lee seems to like shows. Who else does. Lee?

Jean McDonald, the humorist of our bunch, has been sick with ear trouble lately and you can bet we are glad to have her back. So long.

pose. They will spend frequent periods in the intimate conversation of prayer. Their Lord's wisdom will flow into their own lives, and they will naturally grow to be like Him as they learn what He is like. God's waiters become His friends, and in His friendship there is strength for every need.

The good waiter's likes and desires are unimportant to his job. His one purpose is to please those whom he serves. He learns to say in all sincerity, "Thy will be done - - - by me." The Christian who learns this attitude toward his Lord can cheerfully "deny himself and take up his cross" of service daily. Because he becomes but the expression of God's will, he is strong to meet every situation of life.

God's waiters, even in our twentieth century, can "mount up with wings as eagles. They shall run and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint."

be mentioned the sermon of the retiring Moderator, Dr. J. A. Redhead; and address by Rev. A. W. Hewitt of Riverton, Vermont, on "Expository Preaching"; the devotional messages of Dr. Wade H. Boggs on the book of Hosea were of high order. Chaplain E. L. Daniel, who was a prisoner of war in a German prison camp during the war, and who did a wonderful service in ministering to allied soldiers, made a stirring address, describing conditions in Europe.

Dr. L. H. Patterson, Director of the Home Mission Emergency Fund made a very interesting address on the development of our Home Missions. He said that in four years the Fund had raised $375,000 and built 350 Churches, and that the goal for this year is for $600,000.

Dr. George Mauze presented the report on Presbyterian Orphans' Home and made a most impressive talk on his observation of the work of the Orphanage.

The Synod changed the term of office of the Committee on Orphans' Home so that those who are elected at the meeting of Synod in 1947 and subsequent Synods will take office at the end of that Church Year, and the ones whose terms expire will continue in office until the end of the Church Year. This was reported in the public press as applying to the Regents, but that was an error as it only applies to the members of the Committee on Orphans' Home.

The Presbyterian Orphans' Home was well represented at the meeting of Synod. Little Joe's Church had as its representative, Elder H. L. Thomas, who is in charge of the truck farm, orchards and canning. Present from the Board of Regents were Mr. J. A. Cannon, president; Mrs. Coit Robinson, Mrs. George Patterson. Dr. George Mauze, and Dr. S. H. Fulton. From Synod's Committee on Orphans' Home was Mr. C. S. Hicks, chairman; Mr. R. E. Lackey of Concord Presbytery, and Mr. T. N. James of Kings Mountain Presbytery. From the administration of the Home, Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, Superintendent, and Rev. R. S. Arrowood, Treasurer.

The following are some items of general religious news: Dr. John H. Marion has resigned the pastorate of the Grace Covenant Church of Richmond to accept the work as Director of the newly formed Committee on Christian Relations. Dr. Marion is a nephew of Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston. His headquarters will continue to be in Richmond.

The Ashlin-White Bible Lectures founded by the members of the First Presbyterian Church of Mooresville in memory of their beloved Pastor, Dr. Ashlin White, will be delivered by Dr. Roy L. Smith, October 6-11. Dr. Smith is a very prominent Methodist Minister and is Editor of the Christian Advocate.

Two very useful ministers have died during the month of August, Rev. H. N. McDiarmid of Greenville died at his home on August 16th. Mr. McDiarmid was a graduate of Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. His pastorates included the First Church of Kinston and Shelby. At his death he was Executive Secretary of Albemarle Presbytery and Chairman of the Trustees of the William Black Home.

Rev. George W. Hanna died August 26th in a hospital in Statesville. Mr. Hanna was a graduate of Erskine College and Erskine Seminary. He entered the ministry of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian Church and served for nineteen years in that Church. After that he joined the Presbyterian Church U. S. and held pastorates at Pinehurst, Antioch, and Harrisburg.

Chaplains who have returned and accepted work include Rev. Eugene Alexander, who goes to Victoria, Virginia; Rev. C. L. Brown goes to White Memorial at Raleigh and Rev. Carl H. Storke, Jr., goes to Pilot Mountain. Rev. R. Murphy Williams, Jr., will be Student Pastor at Davidson College.

The Presbyterian Hour Broadcast will resume October 6th and will continue each Sunday morning at 8:30 E. S. T. through December 29th. Dr. John M. Alexander, former Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fayetteville, is director of these programs. The following speakers will be heard: Rev. David L. Stitt, Ben R. Lacy, Jr., William Crowe, Jr., Ansley C. Moore, Walter B. Healy, J. M. Walker, Frank L. McClure, Ben L. Rose, James Sprunt, John S. Land, E. B. McGuken, J. McDowell Richards, C. Darby Fulton. In this state the following stations will carry the broadcast: Asheville, WWNC; Charlotte, WSOC; Raleigh, WPTF; Winston-Salem, WSJS.

Synod will meet next year at Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, on September 9th.

him on the shoulder. In spite of the fact that his work would have exempted him from service, he felt that as a single man he should leave the teaching profession to married men. It was not until the time approached for his leaving that we fully realized the value of this man to the life of Barium Springs. The students themselves waked up to this fact as well as the grown ups. At the final Basketball banquet the players presented him with a trophy.

It happened that he had lead this group of boys to three successive championships in the South Piedmont Conference. It is tough to win that championship one time; it is almost unheard of to win it three times in a row.

Barium's opponents in the South Piedmont attempted to explain the success of this team on material - that Barium just happened to have a bunch of good athletes all at one time, but when it was shown in their third championship year there were none of the players who participated in the first championship year it knocked this argument rather high, so then a good many people said that Barium was just lucky - they had a rabbit's foot. The players heard this so much that they decided to hunt for the rabbit's foot and they finally decided that Mr. Calhoun was it. so they presented the trophy to the rabbit's foot that had been giving them such good luck in their basketball careers.

By the way, it was at this presentation which was a complete surprise to Mr. Calhoun that we saw him speechless for the first time.

Then the war years - Mr. Calhoun entered the service as a private. His good qualities were quickly recognized and he was made an officer, and all during the war he had one of those hard jobs that the public very seldom hears about at Camp Shanks, N. Y., routing soldiers overseas and checking their returning.

He now returns to Barium as Assistant Superintendent. He will not have as much time to give to athletics as he did in former years, but his presence here will help. He has already taken hold of a few of the many duties which he will fall heir to and Barium Springs is already a better place for his being here. Everyone welcomes Mr. Calhoun back and we hope that nothing will ever take him away from us again.

(Continued From Page One) on their own thirty and in two plays had a touchdown. One by a thirty-five yard run and again by a sweeping end run which brought the score. They failed to kick goal, and the score stood 7-6 until the end of the game.

This was the first game for both Barium and Mooresville. Barium's squad is so small this year that they had not had a serious scrimmage - that made the coaches and everybody else rather nervous - not knowing just how the boys would stand up under fire. They all feel better now. Watch for Barium's doings in the athletic line - we think it will make pleasant reading.

The lineup of the Barium team is as follows: Ends, Young and Barrett; Tackles, Lippard and Good; Guards, Baker and Allen; Center, Everett; Backfield, Whitey Clark, Mangum, Gregory and Spencer.

W. A. Johnson got into the game for a very brief stay while Baker was given a rest.

Barium cheer leaders in their new clothes did a grand job and were worth a lot in keeping alive that old Barium spirit that wins games.

THE BIBLE IN AMERICAN HISTORY

Historians seeking to discover the major influences which have molded the course of American history find that the Bible has played a significant role. Within the pages of this greatest of all documents lies the inspiration for the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and the Four Freedoms.

The Bible was the first textbook of the American colonies. It was the most important factor in the educational system of those years, for, both in private and public schools, the Bible was the chief text. In the New England primer, used extensively in the elementary schools for more than a century before the Revolutionary War, characters from the Bible were used in teaching the three R's.

Making the Bible better known appeared to be the whole purpose of the early American education. Of the 10 colleges founded before the Revolution and still in existence, 9 were begun to give adequate training to ministers of the gospel. There were Harvard, William and Mary, Yale, Princeton, Washington and Lee, Columbia, Brown, Rutgers, and Dartmouth. The 10th, the University of Pennsylvania, developed from a charity school founded by George Whitefield, the great Bible evangelist.

Thomas Jefferson, who was asked to frame the Declaration of Independence, was steeped in the Bible. Much of the beauty and clarity of his prose were acquired through years of reading the New Testament, which he mastered in Greek, Latin, French, and English in order to compile a collection of excerpts covering the life and teachings of Jesus.

Where but in the Bible had he learned that men are equal under God and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights? Jefferson was expressing in immortal phrases the conviction which had led to the Revolution and which men had first gleaned from the Word of God.

One of the very earliest acts of Congress was to approve the printing of a large edition of the Bible and officially recommend it to the people of the land. The desire to maintain the Bible's influence in American life led to the formation of the Bible Society movement, whose purpose was to make the Bible available to every household in the rapidly expanding country. Nowadays, this function is carried out on an infinitely broader scale by the American Bible Society founded in 1816, which prints millions of Bibles, Testaments, and Scripture portions in many languages and dialects, and distributes them to the populations of teeming cities and to obscure people living in the remotest corners of the earth.

The influence of the Bible on American life has never waned, for each year since 1800 it has been a national best seller. In times of war, it is in greater demand than ever, among the men on the fighting fronts, prisoners of war, and families praying for their loved ones to come home.

As the Bible guided the men who founded our Republic, so today it guides the statesmen who are leading civilized nations out of the jungle of war, greed, and prejudice. At the dramatic meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill when the Atlantic charter was given to the world, the Bible was read in a service of public worship. This was a symbolic incident, for the truths of God given in the Bible chart the road to permanent peace and human brotherhood. — Bible Society

HOW DO WE HEAR?

The hearing of a sermon may bring us a great blessing, or it may be a weariness of the spirit. The difference is not necessarily in the sermon; indeed, it is much more likely to be in ourselves. If we are looking merely for entertainment, the sermon—perhaps the majority of sermons—may prove a bore to us. But if we have come as humble seekers, knowing "our need of finding the Bread of Heaven," and "set to receive some truth about God, about man, about life," that will help us to live in a more Christ-like way, the sermon will have to be poor indeed if we fail to find a blessing in it.

Even the best sermon, as Hugh Stevenson Tigner in his excellent little book, "The Christian Pattern," points out, cannot meet the need of everybody at the same time. Nevertheless, there will be some help for the seeking soul in every thoughtful and prayerfully prepared sermon. One may find in it, Mr. Tigner continues, "some sentence of Scripture, something that will be to his benefit, something that will open a new truth or open an old truth in a new manner; something that will stimulate, kindle, refresh, or command him in a moral-spiritual way; something that will help raise up a fallen spirit, a tottering faith, a crumbled courage; something that will sweeten a bitterness or console a grief; or something that will mark off the true from the false; something that will admonish; or something that will indict that which should be put aside and swept away."

If it should happen, as it may happen once in a great while, that a sermon should miss all of these human needs, even then the earnest hearer may find the task of listening a good discipline for his soul.

Because the hearer has a measure of responsibility, let no preacher dare neglect his preparation for that momentous hour when he stands in the pulpit to give a message from the Word of God. On the other hand, let not the hearer try to lay all the responsibility upon the preacher. We believe men are called of God to preach the Gospel. No less truly do we believe He calls us to be hearers of the Word. Was it not the greatest of all preachers who admonished, "Take heed how ye hear?" — Christian Observer

THE PRAYER ON SIGNAL HILL

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, as a young missionary, went to work among the Moros, a tribe of people living on the island of Mindanao, Philip-ines. These people were Mohammedans. He planned to start a normal school. But there were not enough Moros who could read and write to make teachers of them. So he had to begin by teaching them their A B C's. It seemed a waste of time, that he, a scholar with a Ph. D. degree should thus waste his time. He felt it was beneath his dignity as a learned man.

He says that one night he was praying on Signal Hill, telling God how discouraged he was and how the Moros hated every Christian. Then his own lips seemed to be saying to him: Frank, you have failed because you don't really love those Moros. You look down on them with your white superiority; you think because you are educated and they are ignorant you are better than they are. If you can forget yourself and remember how I love them, they would love you back."

This was the turning point in his life. He changed his whole attitude. He asked to study their Koran with them. He gained their confidence. They in turn asked him to teach them his Bible. But they had no language. Dr. Laubach discovered they had twenty-two sounds. He picked out twenty-two letters from the English alphabet and put with these twenty-two sounds and soon developed a basis for a language. In a short time he had taught the Moros to read. He became highly honored.

Because of his great success with the Moros his system of language was used in many other countries. He was called to many places in Asia, Africa, South America, and the islands of the Pacific to introduce his simple phonetic method of language teaching. It was my privilege to have a short visit with him and his wife two summers ago. My sister-in-law worked under him in Mindanao for sometime before the last war.

The seed which this great man sowed in Mindanao has grown into much fruit. It fell on good ground. At first he failed. The seed took no root. He was not a good sower then. But after the experience at Signal Hill he became the true friend of the Moros and they received his teachings, just as the good soil receives the good seed. — The Reformatory Herald

FOR AN AGGRESSIVE CHURCH

Christianity is natively aggressive. Its Founder was not a zealot, like Mohammed. He did not arouse His followers to a frenzy of passion. But He was aggressive, calmly and sanely so. He did not speak as a world statesman, but He was imperial in His outlook and program. He set the faces of His followers toward the nations and left a program of orderly expansion that looked from Jerusalem to the ends of the earth, and from the hour of the commission to the end of the age.

As we read the volumes of matter that come from the religious press setting forth the urgent need for aggressive Christian action, we cannot say that the leaders of the Church are not alert to the situation or unaware of the passivity of the Church. And judging from the multiplication of organizations and programs, we cannot change that there is not a willingness to meet the need. The church is progressive; it is enamored of progress. To be unprogressive would be the sin of sins. But it is not evangelically aggressive. It is not fired with a passion to propagate the Gospel.

As one reads the story of the first generation of Christians as found in the Acts and the Pauline epistles, he is impressed with the deep conviction of the early Christians that, apart from Christ, man is utterly undone, that the situation of the unbeliever is desperate.

What was needed was not just a change of environment, or even of life habits. There must be a complete break with the old ways of sin. The old man must be made new. There must be a re-birth. To this end, there must be repentance and faith toward Christ, leading to newness of life. Nothing short of that would meet the need.

And there is a companion conviction that must always go with this; namely, that the provisions of the Gospel are adequate to the need. The success of the Gospel program hinges just here. The need is great. Sin is deeply entrenched in the human heart. Its power over the life is strong. The whole nature is corrupt. The case is beyond human resources. If there is no adequate provision for the need, how shall we have the courage to try to meet it? But the Gospel is adequate for the need of the sinner, and the Christ of "all authority" is adequate for the effectual support of those who proclaim it. In this faith, the Church must become aggressively active, if the deep spiritual need of our generation is to be met. — Associate Reformed Presbyterian.

HOW TO LISTEN TO A PRAYER

By Roy L. Smith

The prayer period in any service of worship should be one of the most enriching experiences through which any person ever passes, yet it is probably true that many people sit through it without realizing any direct benefit whatever. This is because of the fact that they have never learned how to listen to a prayer. For increasing the spiritual value of the public prayer we offer a series of simple suggestions. 1. Assume a reverent attitude of the body. Few people ever benefit from the prayer through which they sit bolt upright with eyes open, roving over the building. 2. Enter the prayer period with an open mind. A mind that is cluttered up with a variety of concerns is in no condition to appreciate the suggestions that the Spirit may be seeking to offer. 3. Listen sympathetically. The person who listens for the faults in the prayer is almost certain to miss God's answer. 4. Make the prayer your own. Pay strict attention to the prayer that is being offered, and make expressions of need your own. 5. Add your own special petition when necessary. The prayer which starts us praying is worth as much to us as the prayer that is offered for us. 6. Accept each holy suggestion as though it were from God. The holy joy, or sense of reassurance, that comes with such an experience can have had but one source—God. 7. Assure yourself that God is very near while the prayer is being offered. We have been promised that he will be in the midst of any company of two or three who are making an honest effort to make themselves heard in heaven. Then believe the promise. 8. Say "yes" to any promoting of conscience that may occur. To fail to act, or to decide to act, is to refuse to accept God's guidance, and nothing is more certainly fatal to spiritual growth. — Christian Advocate.

WHAT I OWE MY PASTOR

I owe him respect as the ambassador of God, sent to teach me a better way of living than the selfish, sordid existence of which I might be guilty but for his guidance.

I owe him trust, that he may be free to serve the church unhampered by criticism and faultfinding.

I owe my pastor the protection of kindly silence by refraining from repeating, in his presence, the slander of gossip that would worry him and prevent him from doing his best.

I owe him prayer, that God may make his service a blessing to everyone with whom he comes in contact.

I owe him enough of my time to help him in his work, wherever he may need me.

I owe him encouragement, when vexations and annoyances make his work difficult.

I owe my pastor consideration, not to interrupt and hinder his work by financial worry.

I owe my pastor attention when I go to church, that he may not be annoyed by seeing my careless inattentive actions indicating that I am not interested in what he is saying. —Baptist and Reflector.

THE SERMON THAT YOU SEE

Yes, it is possible to see a sermon as well as hear one. The sermon that you see is likely to make a deeper impression than even the best one that you hear. It is a "vitalized" sermon—made alive in the face and in the behavior of the one who preaches it. That sermon is expressed in the joy that shines through the countenance, the sense of repose and comfort and joy that is pictured in glowing colors on the face, whether that face be wrinkled with the years or yet buoyant in the springtime of life. The sermon that you see is preached by faithfulness in service, loyalty to God and His cause, in devotion to the church in all its interests, but more especially in the unwavering devotion to Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour. Someone has well said that as the pastor looks into the faces of his congregation, the faces of godly men and women, on Sunday morning, he sees sermons that are more powerful than any he will ever be able to preach. And you can preach such a sermon. — Religious Telescope

A DAY

What does it take to make a day? A lot of love along the way: It takes a morning and a noon, A father's voice, a mother's croon; It takes some task to challenge all The powers that a man may call His own: the powers of mind and limb; A whispered word of love; a hymn Of hope—a comrade's cheer— A baby's laughter and a tear; It takes a dream, a hope, a cry Of need from some soul passing by; A sense of brotherhood and love; A purpose sent from God above; It takes a sunset in the sky, The stars of night, the winds that sigh; It takes a breath of scented air, A mother's kiss, a baby's prayer. That is what it takes to make a day: A lot of loving along the way. — William L. Stidger.

KILLING THE PREACHER

A church known to me once buried its pastor, and on the following Sabbath held a memorial service in his honor. A large congregation overflowed the house. One speaker told of his worth as a preacher, another of his tender administrations as a pastor, others spoke of him as a citizen. Finally they called on me to speak. I said, "All you have said of my brother is true. He was a man out of the ordinary and gave his remarkable powers without stint or reserve to your service. But if you had while he was yet alive—filled these pews as you have today, and had said of him and to him what you have just said, he would not now be dead. Empty pews broke his heart, and he did not know of the love of which you have just been speaking. He died for the lack of the things you have today so beautifully said and done." —L. O. Dawson, in More Illustrations and Quotable Poems.

Barium Messenger

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., OCTOBER 1946

No. 12

Time of Ingathering

Mrs. E. P. Thornton
503 E. Cameron

One-Half of Orphanage Income Is Received at Thanksgiving Time

From time immemorial the autumn season has been the time of ingathering. In the apple orchard, all during the year the fruit trees have been developing and maturing their fruit to bring it to ripened perfection. The most beautiful season in the orchard is in apple blossom time when the fragrant blooms are lovely to see. But the most satisfying time is when the trees are laden with the red or golden apples, then all the care and work which have been spent to bring the fruit to perfection is repaid.

This is the time too, "When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock." Or should we say the fodder is in the silo? That is less picturesque but more economical.

Here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home we are very grateful for a fine apple crop. We have had a very good year in regard to other crops too, for which we are thankful. We join the fellowship of all others in expressing to our God, the Giver of every good gift, "the thanksgiving of our hearts."

This is also a time of ingathering of the funds required to run this big Home for our many children with their multitude of needs. During more than half the year we do not receive enough funds to meet our needs, but this special offering has for several years taken care of the amount needed. We have only to go back ten or more years to find a very different situation. Then the Home was in debt and not able to keep up

The Paper Shortage Hits Presbyterian Orphans' Home

You will note that the paper on which this paper is printed is different from the kind we have been using. This was a special concession from the firm that supplies us. This company has been expecting a supply of paper for several months. If it does not soon arrive our next Messenger will have to revert to newsprint. You will note also that the paper on which our Thanksgiving leaflet is printed is of lower quality. Also we have had to reduce the number of leaflets. There are one hundred thousand Presbyterians in North Carolina. We would like to print a leaflet for each one, but we only had paper for 60,000. We hope that these will be so handled

The friends of Presbyterian Orphans' Home were made glad by the news recently of the wonderful bequest by Mrs. William N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem to Presbyterian Orphans' Home. The statement in the will of Mrs. Reynolds is as follows: "To my trustees one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) in trust to pay the net income therefrom toward the maintenance and support of the Barium Springs Orphanage."

This will give a wonderful boost to our income from trusts and endowments which have been decreased of late years by the lowering rates of interest.

with its bills. Much credit for leadership in correcting this condition should go to a group of men in Albemarle Presbytery who led the way in organizing and informing the churches of the needs and opportunities at Barium. So the present organization of the Synod was set up with a chairman for the Synod, one for each presbytery and local chairman in each church. For many years this work was most efficiently led by Mr. J. A. Cannon of Concord, who is now president of the Board of Regents. The chairman of the the Synod now is Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham, who has given of his time and talents most unsparingly. He is doing a fine job.

Chairmen of Presbyteries are as follows:

Albemarle, James G. Johnson; Concord, Richard E. Lackey; Fayetteville, H. H. McKethan; Granville, J. R. Webb; Kings Mountain, T. N. James; Mecklenburg, A. Ray Morrow; Orange, M. E. Yount; Wilmington, Wm. L. McIntire; Winston-Salem, R. S. Haltiwanger.

We are very grateful to these fine men for giving of their time and efforts. We know that they will receive a ready response from the churches of Synod and that this will be a time of ingathering for Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C. NOVEMBER 1946

Thanksgiving And Barium Springs

So much of the Thanksgiving news appears in the tabulation of gifts and people may get the idea that all the cheering at Barium is done in the cashier's and treasurer's office, but such is not the case. You know, this thing of being friendly and kind is catching. It is one of the most contagious things in the world and what somebody does one year inoculates somebody else and they do something special the next year. The ladies of Laurinburg, Hickory, Durham and all around send us cakes. During the last few years they have not been able to get sugar but they manage to get us cakes some way even though they don't bake them themselves. Steele Creek Church has sent us chicken for our Thanksgiving dinner for so long that Thanksgiving would not be Thanksgiving without that fine gift. Then something else happened this year and if any of you Steele Creek folks read this don't let it interfere with you for we have more than one Thanksgiving dinner. Here's what happened. Every year we have as our guests the Civic clubs of Iredell County. They completely fill our dining-room and our dining-room is so big that you can hardly recognize a person from one end of it to the other and when its full of people putting away a big meal you may begin to wonder where all the food comes from. Well, two of our neighbors in Statesville have been guests at these meetings for a good many years and they, no doubt, commenced to wonder what miracle it was that put the food on the table. As it happens, they have been raising turkeys on the side this year and they have done well. Would we be stretching the thing to say that the Lord had blessed them in it? They are kindly folks and do many kind deeds in their regular line of business and have helped Barium Springs out of many a dilemma when it came to getting machinery, trucks, or tractors. The Battle of Iredell — Barium 12, Statesville 6

Elsewhere in this paper you will find an account of our football doings up to Friday, November 22nd. This take up the story from that time on.

The doings of Iredell County in a football way have not been such as to cause any state-wide or national talk. Only one Iredell County team seemed strong - that was Mooresville. Barium was lucky to win a one-point victory over this team early in the season. Later on Mooresville took Statesville apart, but the game between Barium and Statesville did not come along until near the end of the season. Both teams were just a little bit sensitive about their records: they had been pounded by so many teams that their victory columns required a microscope to read. So it all added up to this that the only satisfaction either team would get out of the season would be to take it out on the opponent in this particular game. Barium has had a lot of limpers in all of its other games but the players were so eager for this game that they forgot to limp, or forgot the cause of their limping. Statesville looked better than they had all season. A big crowd of enthusiastic rooters were out to see the game and the weather was perfect. The bands did their stuff and the cheering sections did theirs. The officials solemnly tossed a coin, the whistle blew and the game started. Barium threatened first, missed their chance, and then (Continued On Page Three)

Youth Convention On World Missions

The third Quadrennial Youth Convention on World Missions will be held in Nashville, Tennessee December 27-30, 1946. The convention will be held in the War Memorial Auditorium in Nashville. The general theme will be "The World, the Gospel and You". Those who may attend are all young people of our church, ages 17-25 with the understanding that college, seminary, and training school students and members of Synod's Young People Councils are eligible regardless of age. Delegates do not need to officially represent any particular group or organization or to hold any official position in a local youth organization.

Each delegate is expected to pay his own transportation, all meals, and a registration fee of $3.00. The Nashville Committee will provide room for each youth delegate. Delegates from our Presbytery should be able to attend the Convention at a cost of from forty to fifty dollars—Depending upon amount spent for food and transportation.

The program will be built around the theme "The World, the Gospel, and You", and will consist of worship, addresses, reports of commissions, forums, and discussion in small groups. Among the speakers will be found such names as Dr. John A. Redhead, Dr. Walter Judd, Dr. C. Darley Fulton, Dr. John A. Mackay, Dr. Oscar Blackwelder, Miss Ruth Seabury, and others.

Herbert Good and Lucille Stricklin will represent Presbyterian Orphans' Home at this convention.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN GOD"

Recently here at Little Joe's Church we have been making a series of studies on the Apostles' Creed. By request of some of our members we want to summarize them in printed form and share them with you through this paragraph during the next several months.

From the earliest Christian times believers attempted to state the essence of their faith in short summaries or creeds. These were necessary even from the beginning as tests of membership in the church. Usually they followed the baptismal formula in the Great Commission, being built around the "name of the Father, and of the son and of the Holy Ghost". Early Christian documents show a slow evolution of statement until by the fifth century our so-called Apostles' Creed had taken approximately its present form. Since then it has been the common creed of all Christians.

The first article of the Creed opens with the simple statement, "I believe in God." There is no attempt at proof of the existence of God, for the Creed like the Scripture upon which it is based takes this for granted. The evidence is overwhelming, and to seek to prove it would be as foolish as attempting to prove that one has been born. The Bible opens with God already present and active and then proceeds to show what He is like and what He has done. The Creed follows a parallel course.

Through the centuries atheism has had brief periods of fashionableness, but men have always come back to the truth taught by their very natures. Several years ago Dr. A. J. Cronin, an English physician and author or note, epitomized this repeated wandering and return to faith of mankind in an autobiographical Easter editorial entitled "Why I Believe in God". He told of his early years (Continued On Page Two)

Huddleston Family

We are printing this month the picture of our biggest family. Somehow Barium Springs always manages to have one family, and only one, of six children. The Huddlestons have been holding this spot ever since the Smith's abdicated this position. The head of the family is Miriam, a senior. Next is Ray, then Earl, then Richard, then Elizabeth Ann, and the little one, Ralph. They did not all come to Barium at one time - the four older ones did and then Elizabeth Ann. She happened to arrive here on Christmas Eve and her first impression of Barium was that Christmas morning explosion that takes place with most emphasis in the Baby Cottage - she was a Baby Cottage youngster then. And then a little bit later Ralph came in. After next commencement this will just be a family of five because Miriam will be leaving us - but we will still have lots of Huddlestons around for many years to come - take a good look at them and you will recognize them when you visit Barium.

Presbyterian Orphans' Home And Special Offerings

The administration of Presbyterian Orphans' Home has had two letters in regard to the Thanksgiving tabulations as published in the Messenger calling attention to the fact that the two churches represented, took care of their responsibilities to the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in other ways than the Thanksgiving Offering; in one case through the regular church budget, and in the other through increased Sunday School givings and that this tabulation which only showed the Thanksgiving Offering was not a fair indication of what they had done for the Home. The names of the two churches are: The First Church of Morganton and The First Church, Rockingham.

We are glad to correct any misapprehension that may have been caused and publish below the total gifts to the home from all sources from these two churches.

From First Church Morganton, year ending 1945, $512.73, year ending 1946, $474.41.

From First Church Rockingham, year ending 1945, $485.48, year ending 1946, $472.45.

There are doubtless some other churches of the Synod who give (Continued On Page Two)

Football Season Drawing to a Close

There hasn't been one word said about football in the Messenger since the September issue, and we have received so many letters inquiring about what is doing that we have to give this feature more space in this issue than we might otherwise have done.

Up to now we have only reported the result of the Mooresville-Barium game played on the 20th of September, and that game resulted in a victory for Barium 7 - 6. Up until the time we write this article that game is the beginning and the ending of the varsity's victories for this season, but hold on a minute! The varsity still has two games to play and one of them will be reported briefly in this same paper - that is the game with Statesville. It will take place November 22nd and the Statesville papers are rating Barium as the underdog. However this article is about the games which have already been played and not about prophesies for the future.

On Friday, September 28th, Albemarle played Barium at Barium. Right at this moment Albemarle is leading the conference, and for the first half of the game they certainly led Barium, getting 27 points in the first half. In the second half, however, Barium not only held Albemarle scoreless but scored 6 points herself, with the game ending 27-6 in favor of Albemarle. A week later, October 4th, was home-coming day - the earl- (Continued On Page Three)

An Old-Timer Is Heard From

Attention you old timers! We are printing below two letters which should be of a great deal of interest to those of you who were at Barium in its early days. You will note that the writer admits that he was the boy who built the fire that overheaded the stove that probably set fire to the old hotel in which the orphanage was first housed. His second letter is in reply to a letter from Miss McDade, the president of the Alumni Association. We would like to have more letters from you old-timers so that we can keep history straight. Some of you who did the washing tell about where you did it and how. The old spring has pretty well disappeared - that is the spring where you first did these things.

Morganton, N. C.
October 18, 1946

Dear Miss McDade:

This being my 52nd anniversary of my leaving Barium Springs, I thought it a good time to express my regret at not knowing of a reunion there until too late. I just returned to North Carolina after forty-one years living in other states, the last twenty-five in St. Louis, Mo., and I am completely out of touch with everything. I am wondering if it is possible anyone I know ever go to reunions, or belong to the Alumni. These may be strange names to you, but it would give me much pleasure to see Jacob, Jack, Jim or Rebecca Woods, John Sterling, Minnie Reynolds, Jennie Maiden, William or Tom Blaylock, Dan Carter, Julia or Ophelia Carter. I could go on naming them, but some may not even be living now. I met one, Charles Daughtry, recently in Charlotte. He owns a business and is very prosperous. Incidentally, he was the third boy admitted to the Home, and I was the fourth. I went through the big fire that destroyed the original building, in fact I was the culprit who made the fire that overheated the stove that burned the house down. The old trap went up like a stack of straw. But I had been scolded for not making a big enough fire to warm up the big dining room, which was used both for eating and for morn- (Continued On Page Two)

NEWS FROM SOME OF THE COTTAGES

HOWARD COTTAGE

One of the most exciting things the Howard girls did this month was going to Davidson to the football game and the best part of all we went in private cars with Mr. Johnston, Miss Carpenter, Miss Andrews and Miss Thompson. You'll never know how much we enjoyed it unless you could come and live with us and hear us talk.

On November 11, at 3:30, Circle No. 2 of Mooresville met with us in our cottage. We put on a program for them and after that they had their business meeting. We really enjoyed seeing how big folks do things. They gave us a shower of fruit and each of us a nice coloring book and crayons. We have really been working on those coloring books every day after school.

Six of our girls went to Statesville, they sang for the people in the church and someone gave each of them a dollar.

Mrs. Craig came Saturday to stay at Howard. She is going to be the substitute matron when Miss Jackson has her days off. We just love for new people to come to Barium.

horses, pigs and sheep. He even let us touch the horses and we like Patsy more than the others. We'll like the colt better when he becomes more friendly.

We like to play in the leaves, we raked some and filled sacks for Matilda to come after. Ann Wilcox and Florence Andrews showed us how.

Douglas Byrd and Tommy Lane make up our football team. They spend hours practicing.

We all love to hear the bell for kindergarten for we know it means crayons, color books, clay, and other things. The clay is tops right now. We love to see our hands get red, green, blue and other pretty colors. Stick around sometime and you'll hear Donnie Privett's airplane buzzing over the head of Larry Terry's "Little Black Sambo."

Peek in the window of Shelia's house and see Mary's sizzling pancakes. Always ice cream is on our tables. We'll soon be making Santa Claus. Until then - that's all. Good bye and come to see us.

—The Babies.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here is the latest news from our cottage. We have really been doing a lot of things this month.

First of all on Halloween night we had a big carnival and the spooks, oh my goodness! We weren't really scared at all.

The leaves have been beautiful and we have enjoyed raking them up very much. We get paid for each sack and we plan to use the money for our Christmas gifts to someone.

Six of our girls went to Mooresville to sing and they reported a grand time. We want to thank our friends in Mooresville for the nice fruit that they sent to us. Also the friends in Morganton for the jump ropes. We have really been jumping around to keep warm.

Jackie Liverman and Shirley Johnson have recited the Child's Catechism but we are all working

BABY COTTAGE

Since the last time we gave you the news we have become very interested in painting. When we grow up we want to be painters and paint all the cottages on the campus. That's why we wouldn't dare miss seeing the men paint the windows during quiet hour and we just keep the corner of one eye and all our ears open to learn everything. No, some of us aren't sure that we can paint, so just in case we can't, we have practiced enough to take Mr. Johnston's, Mr. Benton's and Mr. Hetheox's places.

Of course you knew when Halloween came, for we blew our horns to warn you.

Just ask us and we can tell you all about "Black Beauty."

Mr. Grier took us to see the Wish you could all see and taste the good apples we have been having. They sure are grand after playing in the leaves, and jumping rope all afternoon.

We'll be seeing you next month.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

So many things have happened to us since we wrote you last month. Miss Taylor came back from Scotland and England. She has told us many interesting things about these countries. We were all interested in knowing all about the ship that she come back on. We are so happy to have her back.

Circle Number Six of Mooresville sent us some candy. We certainly do appreciate it.

The story of "Black Beauty" was read to us and then we went to see the picture. It was very good because we like horses.

We are going to get our report cards soon. We hope that all of us will make the honor roll.

The Wigglers.

LEES COTTAGE

Thanksgiving will soon be here and we have many things to be thankful for. Our friends are so good to us. Someone is giving us turkeys for our Thanksgiving dinner.

We have our last football game next Thursday and we hope to win. Then we will start basket ball.

We have been raking up the leaves and they use them at the barn. We have filled 450 sacks.

We went to the show this afternoon - saw Roy Rogers. We enjoy going to the show.

It won't be long until Christmas. We are writing letters to Santa Claus.

We are having our basket ball court fixed up and it sure does look pretty.

Be looking for us next month.

—Lees Boys.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, "The Little Busybodies," and we aren't kidding, bringing you the news before our next task. Right now some of the girls are cleaning the dining hall (and what a job) while the others are resting until our time comes (time marches on).

We have completed another six weeks of school, our report cards looking much better than they did last time. Next month we hope to improve even more.

Since football season is coming to an end we are glad to see basket ball just around the corner (lets not look too far around it for "Old Santa" is not so very far off). We really did like those Davidson games we saw this season, and we thank the friends from Scotts who so kindly took us in their bus.

Lucille Smith, our matron, had a visit from her brother and a friend, who are stationed at Fort Bragg. We liked their visit as "Lu" did.

We must say good-bye until the next time.

liberally in other ways but do not stress the Thanksgiving offering. To all of them we express our appreciation for their support in any way they choose to give it. We in no way wish to criticize or dictate the financial policy of any Church. That would not become an institution supported by the generosity of the Church. Nor is it in the power of the Presbytery or the Synod to dictate to the Church as to how its money shall be designated.

It were well however to take a look at our finances that we may see how dependent we are on the Thanksgiving Offering. From the earliest days of the Home the Synod and Presbyteries have not put enough in the budget to take care of the needs recognizing the special appeal of the children. So each year the Synod has called on the Churches to make a generous Thanksgiving Offering and has recommended to the Sunday Schools a special offering once a month for the Home.

In 1940 the budget of Synod recommended that 9 per cent of benevolent gifts be allocated to the Home. In 1946 the Synod recommends that 7 per cent be given to the Home.

Presbyteries have put the Home in the budget for the following percentages:

Albemarle - - - - -	5.5%
Concord - - - - -	6.5%
Fayetteville - - - - -	7 %
Granville - - - - -	5.5%
Kings Mountain - - - - -	7 %
Mecklenburg - - - - -	4 %
Orange - - - - -	6.5%
Wilmington - - - - -	6 %
Winston-Salem - - - - -	7 %

So we see that six out of nine Presbyteries have reduced Synod's budget for the Home sharply.

The results of this policy is indicated by the following receipts as shown in our report for the year ending March 31, 1946.

From the regular budget $32,020.19.

Special Offerings from Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries $41,231.24.

Thanksgiving Offering $80,073.08

Again we reiterate that we want always to give credit where credit is due and we appreciate every gift large or small given for this great work committed to us, the care of dependent children.

spent in an atmosphere of narrow sectarian bickering which made him bitter toward religion, and of his medical education which left him a confirmed atheist. Then, he he says, he began his practice at a charity hospital in a city slum area. There he soon had his first experience with death, and was puzzled by an acute consciousness of the departure of something at the moment his patient expired. He laughed when older doctors told him that this was the flight of the soul, but he could offer no other explanation. Years went by, and repeatedly the young doctor was puzzled upon noticing people involuntarily break into prayer in times of crisis. Still more he was puzzled to see some of his patients come back from the very brink of death, apparently in answer to prayer. Finally came the great crisis in his own life, his wife's illness. For days she lingered between life and death. Afterwards his friends told him that during those days he had walked the streets of his neighborhood talking to himself. But he knew that in the hour of his extremity he, like so many others, had turned to God for help. At last emotion so powerful as to overrule his reason had opened his life to the evidences of his own nature, and he had found God.

The Apostles' Creed uses two terms to describe God, only two out of all those that might well have been chosen. But these two, "Father" and "Almighty," gives us the essential picture. In the Godhead the Father is planner and architect of our salvation. In His relation to men He is Father in the fullest and best sense of all that name implies. As our Creator He is responsible for our being, and His infinite love makes that responsibility a delight to Him. "Father" is a name which makes it possible for us to understand the showers of good gifts which He sends down upon us, and enables us to trust Him even in the valley of the shadow of death. Her way of teaching the goodness Even Jesus could think of no better and love of God than to call Him "Our Father".

The second descriptive term, "Almighty," gives us assurance that God is able to do all the good which His being our Father makes Him desire for us. As a Father He wills only that which is good; and as the Almighty "He can do all His holy will". Thus He created the universe by the word of His power; thus He laughs to scorn the puny efforts of evil men to flout His will, and thus He gath-Word has come to us of the death of Miss Mary Alice Raymond who was our music teacher here in 1925 and 1926. Miss Raymond went from us to Thornwell Orphanage in 1927. During the last fifteen years she has lived in Nashville, Tennessee. She had been in poor health for several years but had been confined to her bed for only a few days before her death. She died on October 15th.

ing prayer. I feel sure that was the fall of 1891, in November. I could almost write a history of those old days, but that is not my purpose. I would like to get more in touch with things, I would like to join the alumni if I am not a rank outsider to those who are in it, and if my joining can be to any good purpose. Let me know the requirements, and if "Our Fatherless Ones" is still published under that name.

Reference in the Charlotte Observer to the "class of 1924" struck me as an indication of great progress since the old days when we just went to school. Of course there were elementary and advanced classes, but we just quit when the time came, no class of this or that year or time.

Respectfully,
T. M. ALEXANDER

Dear Miss McDade:

I thank you for your nice letter, and assure you I am interested in the matters mentioned and will act upon them.

I am enclosing a clipping I took from the Observer which will explain the reference to the class of 1924. It was by this story I learned there had been a home-coming, and gave me enough information to start getting acquainted with the new Barium.

Being a teacher, you may be interested in knowing I have a son (my youngest child) who is a teacher in the St. Louis public schools. He is right now dividing his time between university work and his teaching job. He will get his master's degree next June. He had his B. A. before going into the Army and the Army sent him to University of Alabama and Carnegie Tech for nine months - eight of them at Carnegie. He is already a member of two honorary scholastic fraternities at the age of 26. His thesis for his master's degree was a masterpiece, and I feel it had more to do with the invitations by these fraternities than his class work, which was high. You will understand it is a father's pride which calls this forth. I want to add he served overseas - landed in Normandy a short while after the original invasion.

Sincerely yours,
T. M. ALEXANDER

ers His own to His bosom. The Bible is full of the omnipotence of God, and both nature and human nature echo the same truth. "I believe in God!" What a difference it makes in life when we can repeat these words truthfully and earnestly. They are a basis for life at its finest and best, for they unshackle the human soul and point it heavenward where its destiny lies.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., DECEMBER 1946

No. 2

Deceased

MRS. S. A. GRIER

The angels came and took her home. With the setting of the sun she went from us into the presence of her Savior.

On December 1, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Grier came to live at Barium and since that day many, many boys and girls have found in them the sweet forbearance and understanding and strength that seemed lost to them with the loss of their own parents.

Her own went in infancy to be with that holy, happy band of children around the throne of God in heaven, and so Mrs. Grier gave a mother's love unstintingly and without bitterness to the children of others. For many years she was the beloved teacher of the beginners in Sunday School. To her neighbors, the babies and the little girls at Howard Cottage, she was a ray of sunshine passing by and going in and out amongst them, never too hurried to listen to their small troubles or to be happy with them in their triumphs.

To the older boys and girls she was an ideal of unselfishness and Christian faith. Her greatest joy was their trust and confidence, and many of us can recall how her interest and sympathy stood by us through the difficult times. Mrs. (Continued On Page Two)

Our Christmas Tree

This story has to be written just before the event happens. Reporters do this lots of times without admitting it. We are admitting it but we know we are going to have such a big time that it won't hurt to tell the story before it happens.

On Wednesday night, December 18th, Barium Springs will have her big "Give-to" Christmas tree. The affair will start at six o'clock. All of the children of the Orphanage and of the neighborhood will be present. We will eat a little, sing a lot, and do a lot. When the affair starts there will be a Christmas tree in the middle of the dining room with no decoration whatever on it. There will be a bowl on a table and a box full of decorations - that's at the beginning of the meal. An hour later the tree will be highly decorated with some four hundred decorations. The box of decorations will be empty. The bowl will be pretty full of contributions. We will sing Christmas carols and just have a whopping big time. As each child leaves the dining room he will have a bag of apples, nuts and candy, - just a foretaste of the good things ahead for the next ten days, and they will also have a nice warm feeling in their hearts in having done something for other people first before enjoying the many things which people do for us.

The gift this year is going to the Home for the Aged - that new cause which the Presbyterian Church so heartily endorsed at the last meeting of the Synod. We hope that the people receiving money for this cause will be the busiest people in North Carolina during these Christmas days.

There are many people anxious about this enterprise. They are wondering if this home can be built in time to help them. They are people who just a few years ago were vigorous, helpful people who helped all of our church causes to function. Now they need help and time is running out on some of them. It is the prayers of every contributor to our "Give-to" Christmas tree that our mites may be added to the dollars to quickly furnish a haven (Continued On Page Two)

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN JESUS CHRIST"

This article is being written at the beginning of the Christmas season, and certainly there could be no fitter subject than the second article of our Apostles' Creed. Last month we thought together of the first article, "I believe in God the Father Almighty", and now we come to the statement of that which Christians believe about Christ. It is the longest and most important section of the Creed. "I believe in - Jesus Christ His only Son our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; suffered under Pontius Pilate; was crucified, dead, and buried; the third day He rose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven; and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; from thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead." This section of the Creed emphasizes both the divinity and the humanity of Christ and presents Him to us as our Lord and Savior.

The opening words, "Jesus Christ His only Son our Lord", present to us a livine Being. He is God's Son in a way that no mere man could ever be. The human mind can never understand the mystery of the Trinity, but someone has given us a picture of the division of work among the three Persons which is helpful. The great work of God is the work of salvation. The Father is the architect who conceived the plan, and the Son is the contractor who actually builds the structure. He is the executor of the plan of God for our salvation.

Christ is also our Lord. The dictionary defines "Lord" as "one who has power and authority, a master, proprietor, ruler". And when we use the Creed we own Christ as all these things to us. We belong to Him, for "you are not your own; you were bought with a price". And that price was His own precious blood. Christ is our Lord and also the Lord of all creation. He is our King and the King of the universe whom the Father (Continued On Page Two)

Winter Sports

The last issue of the Messenger told the story of our football season up through the Statesville game, and all that remains to be told in this issue is the story of the final varsity game and four mid-game games and then the biggest event of all - the banquet.

First about the varsity windup. This final game was played on Thanksgiving Day at Barium. Thomasville was the team furnishing the opposition and some of you may remember that it was Thomasville who spoiled the end of our season last year. Last year we were leading Thomasville by one point until the last few minutes of the game when they scored. This year our team started out like they were meaning business and scored two touchdowns in the first half, but did not complete the point after (Continued On Page Two)

In Lieu of Cross Word Puzzle

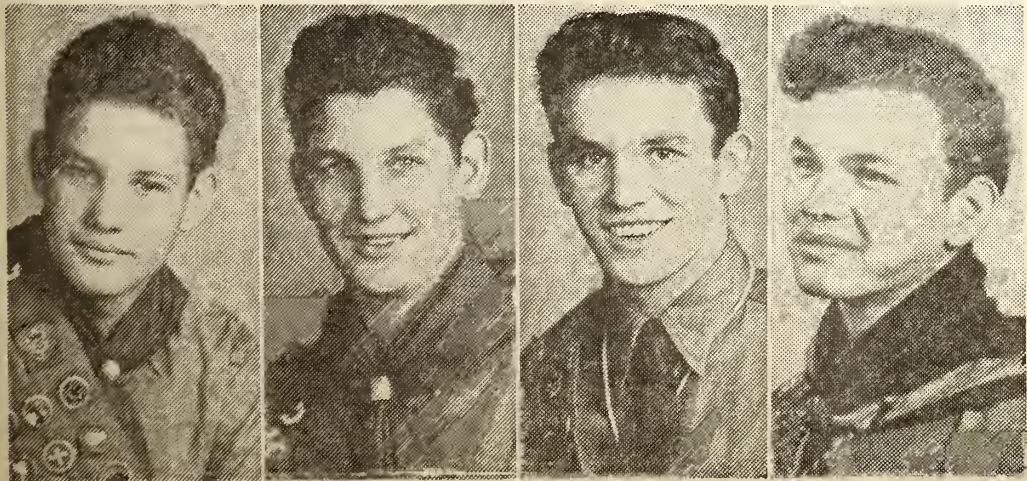

Some papers have a crossword puzzle in every issue: sometimes it is the most interesting part of the publication. We have not adopted that particular policy but we do occasionally like to publish a puzzler - something to interest old-timers particularly. Today in this issue we are publishing a picture of the 2nd grade of 1928 and the graduating class of 1937. There are four boys and three girls who appear in both pictures. In the fourth grade picture, front row, there is a fighter pilot who earned a good many decorations; a captain in the Army; an officer in the Navy; and practically all of the entire row are G. I's.

In the second row there is a bombardier who was shot down over enemy territory but got back in less than a day - his wife is also in that row. In the top row there are four soldiers and among the girls there is a nurse who saw overseas duty; a Marine; and a WAVE, and in the whole picture there are two widows who lost their husbands in the war.

In the picture of the graduating class every boy in the picture except one saw service. One was killed. Of the girls all are married except one, and four of them married their Barium sweethearts, but none of their husbands are in this picture. Of the boys all are married except two, and one of these married his Barium sweetheart. Now you guess the names, and let's see how nearly right you are. Check your guess with answers on page two.

Given Scouting's Highest Award — The Eagle Badge

Barium Springs is not a large high school. Sometimes we run as high as 115 students, then sometimes as low as 70. We are down on the low end right now, and that makes this story all the more unusual.

It is a rare thing when a Boy Scout receives the Eagle Award and becomes an Eagle Scout. It is something for the boy to remember all his life and something for his community to be proud of. Well, on Friday, December 6th, there were three students of the Barium High School who received this Eagle Award. The ceremonies were held at Barium Springs in the high school auditorium. The boys did not all belong to the same Scout Troop. Dwight Spencer, a senior at Barium, was a member of the Barium Troop, Reverend F. B. Benton, Scoutmaster. Buddy and Ricky Lippard are also students of the Barium High School but are members of the Troutman Boy Scouts and they were the other two who received this award.

There was a Statesville boy, Duke Fowler, making four altogether to be honored and to honor our community on that occasion.

NEWS FROM SOME OF THE COTTAGES

LEES COTTAGE

We are all looking forward to Christmas and we know Santa will be good to us for we have so many friends. We have been picking up apples but we don't have to go out to work to-day - so we will get to play until supper time. Miss Ford is going home for the week-end and one of the big boys, W. A. Johnson is going to stay with us. We have raked up 595 sacks of leaves and there is plenty more on the campus. We had the football banquet last Thursday night and we had a good time. Wishing every one a Merry Christmas. — Lees Boys

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Are all of our friends being good so Santa will come to see you? We have been being especially good for about a month now in hopes that he won't forget us. The 18th of this month we are going to have a Christmas party in the dining room. We all plan to give a little present so that we can have a part in the present that the Orphanage gives to the Home for the aged ministers and their wives. Three more of our girls have recited the Child's Catechism. They are Shirley Anne Hollifield, Betty Jean Johnson, and Evelyne Cox. We are still enjoying the nice candy that our friends in Mooresville and Belmont sent to us. We surely do appreciate the kindness of them to us. Guess Santa is making out his list and "checking it twice" and we here at Barium hope that he remembers each and everyone of you! Merry Christmas! — The Annie Louise Girls

INFIRMARY

Here we are bringing you the news of our cottage again. Since Christmas isn't far off we have quite a bit of news. We are all excited about Christmas and we wish to thank all of our friends who always manage to help us have a Merry Christmas. We are all sorry about Mrs. Grier's death and we all want to sympathize with Mr. Grier. Louise Harwell had a visit from her father and sister last week. Mrs. McNatt our matron also had a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Charles McNatt. We had a grand Thanksgiving. The turkey dinner we had sure was good. We wish you could have been here to eat dinner with us. We had a swell football season this year and we wish to thank the ones who so kindly volunteered to carry us to games away from home. We wish to thank Davidson College for inviting us to come to most of their home games. We sure did enjoy it boys. Basketball season has now started and we are all looking forward to a grand season. Come on boys and girls. We haven't had many patients lately. We only have three in bed at the time. It is very nice to have Mrs. Holton on the campus now. We wish all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. — Infirmary Girls

has set upon His throne. The next words in this article of the Creed emphasize how Christ became man. They recognize His preexistence, for as Brother Bryan of Birmingham used to say, "He was the only man who ever lived before he was born". The eternal Son of God became man, not by natural generation, but through the work and power of the Holy Spirit in the Virgin Mary. His miraculous birth fulfilled the prophecies given long before to enable men to recognize Him, and kept Him free from the guilt of Adam which corrupts all born in ordinary manner. His being born as a baby, weak and helpless, was meant to show the complete humanity which He assumed. The eternal Son of God, a complete divine Being, added to His divinity a complete humanity and thus became God and man in one person for our salvation. The Creed is too brief to carry a statement of Christ's life for our example, but goes directly to His death in accomplishment of the chief work which He came to do. He "suffered under Pontius Pilate"; and in those words we hear again the prophecy of Isaiah, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed". But even more -- He was "crucified, dead, and buried". Unbelievers have made every effort to prove that Christ did not really die, but this statement emphasizes that His death was as real and complete as human death can be. Though sinless, He took our sins upon Himself and paid the penalty which God demands for every sin. And by bearing our sin He became the means of our forgiveness and reconciliation to God. Being complete man He could represent us, and being complete God He was a worthy sacrifice. Here is the very core of the Christian's belief about Christ. But our belief in Christ does not end with His death. "The third day He rose again from the dead." That is the final proof of His Messiahship and divinity; and there is our assurance that the penalty for sin has been paid in full. Death, sin's consequence, has been conquered. Believers are assured of deliverance from its clutches through Christ. And Christ is alive forevermore. "He ascended into heaven." Heaven is not the dwelling place of the dead, but of the living. The ascension was the final consummation of the glory of Christ and the final mark of His love, for He has said, "I go to prepare a place for you." In heaven He sits today at the right hand of the Father, having carried humanity to the very throne of the universe. There His wounds make constant intercession for us and give assurance that He will be heard for our salvation. The last part of this article of the Creed concerns the work of Christ at the end of the world: "From thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead". We today have little to say on the subject of a final judgement, but the Creed is clear. Judgement will come to all, and the same Christ who offers Himself as Savior will then judge every man. On that day those who have accepted Him will hear His "Come, thou blessed of my Father, and inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world". And on that day those who have rejected Him will find themselves rejected. Then the Son having put all enemies under His feet, He shall reign forever and ever. Then every kingly prophecy concerning Him will be fulfilled. The Apostles' Creed thus gives us a strong statement of the essential Christian beliefs about Him who is Head of the church and Savior of all who call upon Him. It allows us to disagree upon many such minor points as the mode of His baptism, the manner in which He worked His miracles, and the various theories as to how His death accomplished its saving work. But the essentials which it does give are those upon which all Christians must agree. The Creed is still as good a test of a man's Christianity as it was in the first century. All who can say sincerely, "I believe in Jesus Christ -", can be welcomed into the family of Christians as brothers.

Mrs. S. A. Grier

Grier loved the laughter and the happiness of youth and was never impatient with its mistakes.

To the adult members of her Barium family she was esteemed co-worker, trusted friend and confidante, and unparalleled example of life spent joyously and unselfishly. Mrs. Grier will be sorely missed in the local auxiliary in which she served faithfully in various offices. In 1942 the women of Little Joe's Church delighted to honor her with life membership in the Woman's Auxiliary.

Our first overwhelming grief is scotched when we think how our dear Mrs. Grier was spared pain and suffering and passed, as it were by a single step, from this life to life everlasting. There is an aching emptiness in our earthly day, but in our hearts a sweet peace, and in the heavenly home another dear one safe and well.

touchdown in either case. One of those touchdowns, by the way, was made by a 65-yard run by Jack Clark. It was a beauty. It seemed that somebody stepped on one of Jack's toes early in the game and as it turned out it was broken, but he did not know anything about this when he started on that run and he made that run with just nine working toes. There is no telling what that boy could do with a couple of more broken toes. Anyhow he went ahead and finished the game in fairly good shape, but the next day his foot was a mess. Our boys thought that the game was sewed up at the half but Thomasville didn't think so and they came back in the second half and clearly outplayed Barium scoring 7 points and threatening again, but the final score ended 12-7 in favor of Barium which gives us three conference wins and four losses and puts us at the head of the second division of the conference. While the varsity was finishing up this last chore the midgets on Tuesday Nov. 26 journeyed to Morganton - the 100-pounders and played a grand game there defeating Morganton 21-0. Then on the 29th they took on a brand new team from Davidson. This team did not have very much equipment and it had to borrow a good many helmets from us but they knew their football and played on even terms with Barium during the entire first half. In the second half, however, Barium really got serious and ran up 21 points. The final score was Barium 21 - Davidson 0. In the return game on Wednesday, December 4th, Barium defeated Davidson 7-0. This game was played on Richardson field and a good many Davidson students came out to get their final football meal - they seemed to enjoy the game. The Jackson Training School 100-pounders came over on Thursday, November 21st, and the final score was Barium 12 - Jackson Training School 6. Jackson Training School's team has one boy on it who is mighty hard to stop; when he really put his mind on it the Barium team could not stop him and that is the reason why they scored 6 points. All in all, our midgets season was enjoyable. We started off slow but ended up good. On Thursday night, December 5th, we had our football banquet. Mr. Calhoun presided and that means that it had to be good. The meal was different and the guests were different. For the first time in a number of years no outside guests were invited - just 160 football players and friends right here at Barium. A home raised Barium hog furnished the barbecue meal with a little ice cream and cake to top it off. Letters were awarded as follows:

Earl Allen was elected the team captain and was also voted the best tackler. Jerry Young was voted the best blocker. Dwight Spencer was voted the most valuable player.

Our Banquet was moved up to Thursday night to leave Friday night clear for the Scout Court of Honor. You will read about that elsewhere in this paper. That, of course, winds up this year's football schedule but it does not end the duties of those who have to do with football - schedule meetings and such.

On Thursday, December 12th, the coaches and principals of the South Piedmont Conference met at Barium Springs. All afternoon and in to the night they chewed the rag and chewed apples, taking time off at six to chew some more durable rations in the Barium dining room, and when it was all over they had selected their all-conference team, which is as follows:

Ends — Klutz, Concord; Angell, Children's Home.

Tackles — Walsen, Lexington; King, Children's Home.

Guards — Alexander, Mooresville (Captain); Allen, Barium.

Center — Bowles, Mooresville;

Back — Thompson, Albemarle; Singleton, Mooresville; Poole, Children's Home; Lefler, Albemarle.

You will note that a Barium boy is on this team for his second year. We received a new member into the conference and reinstated an old one. North Wilkesboro was the new member; Mills Home was the old one. Schedules were arranged in football, basketball, and baseball, and here is Barium's football schedule for next fall;

Sept. 19th — Mooresville at Barium.

Sept. 26th — Morganton at Morganton.

Oct. 3rd — North Wilkesboro at North Wilkesboro.

Oct. 10th — Thomasville at Thomasville.

A Revival of the Student Conference

A number of years ago an idea was suggested by the Children's Home of Winston-Salem - it was to have meetings twice a year of selected students from several of the larger institutions. Eventually five institutions participated. The Children's Home, The Mills Home, The Lexington Junior Order, The Hughes Memorial School of Danville, Va., and Barium Springs. The war came along and broke into this conference as it did so many other gatherings and now all of the students who ever participated in this conference have graduated and moved out.

The Beta Club at Barium is attempting to revive this conference and has issued invitations to the Orphanages that participated before and to the Raleigh Methodist Orphanage and the Oxford Masonic Orphanage, too. Their invitation is to meet at Barium the latter part of March - March 27th to 29th to be exact, and it is hoped that this will again become a going concern to carry on the good work started by the original conference. If these other institutions accept the invitation more detailed description of the program and plans will be in the next issue of The Messenger.

January Doings

You have been in the movies when the picture changed from something like "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to a news-reel, and the change is so abrupt that it takes you a moment or two to get adjusted to it. Well, that is something like the change at Barium right after the Christmas holidays. We have such a big time with our presents and our parties and our picture shows during the holidays, and then all of a sudden school starts again and we find ourselves in the midst of not only school activities but the annual health clinic, starting to make out the Duke Endowment Report, and getting started in a new athletic season.

Well, we have had all three of those things. First, a little bit about the Duke Report. We find that we have had 1.4 children less daily population than a year ago. The average age of the children is about a year younger than a year ago. We have not yet worked out the per capita cost to see how much it cost to keep well, how much it cost to keep appetites satisfied, and to keep clothed. All of those things will be interesting to check on after the final report is made.

In the health clinic the first thing on the docket is to weigh and measure, and we find only one boy in the whole place who did not make a satisfactory gain during the past year. In the tubercular test there were five reactors among the new children but none with even incipient tuberculosis. The general examination showed a good many enlarged and diseased tonsils, and we have already had our first tonsil party - three little girls went to the doctor on January 16th, came back to Barium on the 17th, minus their tonsils and managed to smile, a little bit weakly it is true, but able to enjoy a large helping of ice cream. These little girls to start off the tonsil activity of the season were Shelby McEwen, Carol Harwell, and Nancy Yandle. Another party is scheduled for January 21st.

In athletic activities: at this writing our teams have played four conference games, our girls winning from North Wilkesboro, Monroe, and Thomasville and losing to Children's Home. Our boys winning from North Wilkesboro and Monroe and losing to Thomasville and Children's Home. The midget teams are beginning to practice and will open their season against Oxford School in Catawba County on January 29th. Arrangements are already being made for our two big tournaments. The Mid-Piedmont will start on February 19th running through the 24th. The Junior Tournament will start March 18th, and run through March 24th. Trophies are already on hand for these two tournaments and inquiries are already being made. Don't we wish we had that new gymnasium to stage this year's tournaments in! We have a good basketball court but not nearly enough room for the spectators.

Boy Scout activities are progressing even though the weather has been bad almost continuously since the first of the year.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN THE HOLY GHOST"

This month our discussion of the Apostles' Creed brings our attention to one of our closest, though least known, friends and helpers. As Christians we say that we believe in a God of one Being and three Persons. The First Person is familiar to us as our Father in heaven. So is the Second Person, for He is Jesus our Savior. But to most of us the Third Person, the Holy Ghost, is a mysterious character about whom we know very little.

The word "ghost" recalls to our minds the spine-tingling stories we heard as children. Then our fears were quieted with the knowledge that "there is no such thing as a ghost", and association of ideas brings this teaching into our subconscious minds when the Holy Ghost is mentioned. Though we may learn that the "ghost" of childhood memory and the Holy Ghost have no relation, it is hard for us to free our selves from the sense of unreality about Him.

It would be well if we could use the more modern form, Holy Spirit, exclusively. We learn early that "God is a spirit", and we are accustomed to recognize the reality of a spiritual Being. Thus we are prepared for acquaintance and fellowship with the Third Person of the Godhead.

Scripture teaches that the Holy Spirit is like in being to God the Father and God the Son, and equal to them in power and glory. He is always mentioned by names indicating a real, living personality. The adjective "holy" describes His nature, which is that of God. He is called "the Spirit of Truth", indicating that His work is to enlighten the hearts of men with the truth of God. And He is called Comforter or Counsellor (the word really means "one called along side to help"), for He is the Helper whom God has sent into the world

We wish that every person who has mailed a post-card, sent a present, or done anything else to make Christmas at Barium happier, to read this.

Every year we start out with the best resolutions in the world - we are going to make a note of every post-card sent to us individually or to the Orphanage and acknowledge them, but before Christmas arrived we are hopelessly snowed under and it is out of the question to acknowledge or to even list those wonderful messages of good-will.

We wish it were possible to acknowledge by special letter every individual gift that is sent to the children at Barium, but that becomes an impossible task. To acknowledge these by post-card becomes a big job. We feel badly about this because it is so easy for a person to think that we take their gifts lightly and that we do not appreciate the many kind things done for us here, individually and as a family.

This article is an inadequate expression of our thanks for the many kindnesses done for us this year. It seems to have risen to a larger volume than ever before. Our children were better taken care of and we want everyone who had any part in making this possible to know that we thank them and appreciate highly what they have done for us.

Christmas is such a busy time. Before we have gotten our family together again after the Christmas holidays other things are crashing in on us. There is the annual health examination, which becomes more and more important every year it seems; then there are reports to make out; the Executive Committee of the Board wants to know how our finances stand; the Duke Endowment Report is due to be made out; the basketball season starts off; and there are nearly always some new worker starting in at the first of the year. All of this makes January a most hectic month.

We wish we could spend it in just saying Thank You for the many kindnesses that make our life here so worth living.

to be with men always.

In answering the question as to exactly what the Holy Spirit does for us, let us return to an illustration used last month. We likened the Father to a Great Architect, (Continued On Page Two)

Doings of A Dozen at Annie Louise Cottage

A most enjoyable party was given on Friday night, January 17 by the matron to the dozen little girls who have recited perfectly, the Child's Catechism. Those participating in the social activities of the evening were as follows:

Games were played and contests engaged in by all. A delightful social hour followed. Mrs. Gentry, assisted by Miss Blakney and Mrs. Craig served delicious refreshments consisting of a fruit salad plate with sandwiches, crackers and cocoa followed by ice cream and pound cake.

This was a nice reward for the efforts of these little girls who deserve much commendation for this first mile post in memory work in our Sunday School. We all wish for them much success in their journey forward and hope the next mile post will be reached soon.

—Written by a Friend and Admirer of these little workers.

NEWS FROM ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

We are just beginning to get settled down since Santa has come and gone and we want to tell you all about his visit.

Christmas Eve night we found it almost impossible to go to sleep but when we did we dreamed only of Santa's visit. He played a trick on us this year. He usually leaves our toys under our beds, but this year we awoke and there was not a play thing in sight. We hurried down stairs and still no toys and after we were dressed and ready for breakfast our toys were found in another room. It was a good surprise but next year we will all go to sleep.

We want to thank all our good friends for telling Santa what we (Continued On Page Two)

Mid-Piedmont Held At Barium Springs February 19th - 24th

Many things happened in February, including groundhog day. The weather sometimes cuts up and usually February is the month when the flu bug gets in his heaviest lick. In spite of all this we manage to have a big time at Barium and very little of it ever gets to the papers. What we are referring to in particular is the Mid-Piedmont Tournament. This tournament started 16 years ago. It is an invitational tournament in which Barium Springs plays host to the consolidated schools of the adjoining counties. It started out on a very small scale, but there were some ideas about it which seemed to make it very popular. The members of the Barium teams act as sponsors for the visiting teams. The students manage the refreshment stand, the time-keeping, the scoring, and nearly all of the activities. All of this is supervised by some grown person but the students enter into it with such enthusiasm and do their work so effectively that they have made themselves very popular with the visiting teams and made the whole tournament very popular.

The tournament started out with 32 teams being invited and this continued until the war years, then it looked like the tournament would have to stop, and we did not plan a tournament for one year, but the neighboring schools were so insistent that we did finally stage a tournament late in March for that year. Next year we went ahead at the usual date in the middle of February. Some of the regular participants dropped out during these years for lack of transportation, then when the war was over they wanted to come back. We found that 32 teams was not enough and we had to expand it. Last year it was expanded to 42 teams, this year to 50. Now eliminating 48 teams to finally arrive at the two champion teams requires a lot of games. The first day, Wednesday, February 19th, 18 games were played, starting at 11:50 a. m. The games were shortened, being ten-minute halves and were run off the first two days a game every thirty-five minutes. Sixteen games were played on Thursday, eight on Friday, four on Saturday, and the finals Monday night. The people attending the games come from all of the participating schools and they have a grand time cheering and boosting their teams along. This year there were eight Mecklenburg teams entered and the Mecklenburg teams all had their cheer leaders which added to the occasion. The teams are the best-looking teams you ever saw. There has been a trophy awarded to the girls' team that was the best-dressed and neatest in appearance, and it has become harder and harder each year to determine the winner of this trophy.

Stanley boys and Scotts girls were the champions of the tournament. The refreshment stand sell a quantity of soft drinks and sandwiches. The seventh-grade boys are the "cleaner-uppers", gathering in the bottles and cleaning up after each day's play. In cleaning up they run across many lost articles - car keys, purses, letters - these are turned in at the judges' stand and are usually there by the time the owner misses them. Many things are turned in, but this year was the first time that we ever had a live lost article, and it was a sixteen-year old girl who announced that the party she was with had gone on home and forgotten her and here it was 10:30 on a snowy night and she had no place to go. Well, we made arrangements to get her home but she was called for before that necessity really arose. Her party finally missed her and came back after her.

This year an event happened that ought to get into Ripley's column, and we hope everybody who owns a Chevrolet '36 model will read this article, because they might look in the trunk of their car and find the lost articles we are talking about. Here's the story. This boy was on the Thomasboro team. He came to the game with his parents. They parked the car in the parking lot and came in to watch the game. Before the game was over, however, the boy's parents went on to Statesville and another car of exactly the same model and make came and parked in the place where this car was. Well, after the game was over the boy went out and took his key which was the duplicate to the key which his parents had and proceeded to unlock the trunk of this other car, thinking it was his own, put his suit inside and his Sunday shoes, locked it up again and went back in again to watch the other teams play. Later on in the evening his parents came for him and he got in their car and went home, and then they discovered that this was not the same car in which he had put his clothes.

The coincidence of a car of the same make being in the same spot would be rare enough, but to have a lock that could be opened by the same key is just too much to believe all at one time, and yet it really happened. All you Chevrolet owners go out immediately and look in the trunk of your car and if you find this suit and shoes, please return them to this boy at Thomasboro.

We are showing elsewhere in this paper a picture of the trophies that are awarded at this tournament. There are quite a lot of them. Also in this picture are the trophies for the Junior Tournament which is staged a month later.

The profits of the tournament and the profits of the refreshment stand go to defray Barium's athletic expenses. In the first years the tournament barely broke even on expenses, the paying of the officials and the purchasing of the trophies taking most of the profits. But in recent years the attendance has been so good that the net profit of the tournament has materially helped to defray the expenses of all of our athletic teams.

The big trouble today is accommodating the people who want seats; we could easily fill a gymnasium three times as large as our basketball court which is in our grammar grade school building. We are looking forward to the day when we

I BELIEVE IN THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH.

This month we come in our study of things that we as Christians believe, to the fourth article of the Apostles' Creed. Already we have examined the first three articles, which deal with our belief in God. They have shown us God the Father as the architect of the universe and of our salvation, God the Son as the Master Builder who wrought out the work of salvation on Calvary, and God the Holy Spirit as the applier of salvation to our hearts and the presence of God with us always.

Now as we pass from our belief about God to our belief about the instrument through which God works in the world, and we say, "I believe in the holy catholic Church." Before discussing this doctrine, let us define the terms. I have found that children are often confused by the word "catholic", thinking that it refers to the Roman Catholic Church. Of course, there is no such meaning. "Catholic" is simply an adjective meaning "universal" or "world-wide". This article might better be restated today: "I believe in the universal Church".

In the Epistle to the Ephesians we find the heart of the Scriptural doctrine of the Church. There we are told (1:22, 23) that God gave Christ "to be the head over all things to the church, which is His body." From that statement we gather two useful figures which help us to understand the Church. First of all, Christ is called the head. The head, which is the seat of the brain and the will power, rules over the body, directs its activities, and controls its movements. It is His, for He is its founder. "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." He is also the Lord of the Church; and as such He rules and directs it, protects it from harm, and uses it to do His work on earth.

A second and complementary figure also comes from this same passage. The Church is pictured as the body of Christ. It serves as His arms and legs to do His work in the world. It is under His direction and control and performs His will. This figure which Paul uses pictures for us the Church in a way that all of us can understand. In the sense that we who are members of the Church are the chosen instruments of Christ, we can say that "Christ has no hands but our hands to do His work today . . ."

From another viewpoint we ask what the Church is, and we receive the answer from our Confession of Faith that it is all those who believe in Christ as Lord and Savior through all the ages. The Church is bigger than just our local congregation, or even than all the local congregations in the world today. It includes all believers, past, present and future. Thus when we become members of the Church, we join the vast throng of the saints of all ages. We identify ourselves with Abraham, Paul, Luther, Calvin and Wesley. We become linked to that innumerable host that is around the throne of God in heaven, and to multitudes of those yet unborn. The Church, consisting of all God's children, whom He adopts into His family through Jesus Christ, is bigger than anything else we have ever known.

February and March Issues Combined

You readers of the Messenger may be somewhat puzzled, and you have a right to be. The February and March issues of the Messenger have been combined into one issue for this month. Here's why. The paper problem still exists and it has been quite difficult to get enough paper for all issues of the Messenger. Right now we are faced with the necessity of skipping one issue for lack of paper. The April issue is always a big one. It contains a lot of information covering the end of the Church Year, and the only issue which could be well combined with another is the one of February, so we are combining February with March. This is the first time since the Messenger started many years ago that we have failed to get out an issue each month, and we hope that this will not happen again.

We do not want to revert to newsprint, so we are hoping that by skipping this one issue we can get along all right for the rest of the year. Be patient with us and we will do the best we can.

It is a glorious thing to be a part of this great, true invisible Church. But membership is not just a matter of getting our names on the roll of some earthly church. It is rather a matter of an overwhelming belief in our hearts that turns our lives around and makes us like Christ.

The Church in the world has a two-fold task. The great Commission instructs us to go and make disciples of all nations. The Church's first task is to preach the gospel for the salvation of souls. It is God's rake in the field of the world for the gathering in of the harvest of those to be saved. One distinguishing mark of the true Church is the performance of this duty - the true preaching of the Word of God. Its first message is that Christ came into the world to save sinners, "for God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have ever-lasting life."

The second part of the Church's task is to gather together those reborn as babes in Christ, and to nourish them in order that they may grow in His likeness and strength. As the first part of the Church's mission is to the lost, so this second part is to the saved. The Church has the duty of preparing its members for their future.

Letter to the Alumni Association

Burlington, N. C.
Route No. 6

Dear Alumni,
At Barium Springs, Home-coming day, I was elected to that most cherished position of Secretary and Treasurer of the Memorial Fund. This fund is to be set aside to establish a memorial to the boys and girls of Barium Springs who served in the Armed Services. The nature of this memorial will be decided upon at the next Home-coming meeting of our Alumni Association.

Now, I was instructed to give each person an opportunity to contribute to this fund so that each of us will feel as though he had a part in this small way to express our deep appreciation to those who gave so much and to the memory of those who gave everything.

Won't you please send to me your most liberal contribution so that next Home-coming we may have a sizeable fund with which to establish a memorial to our gallant Brothers and Sisters.

Your Foster Brother,
D. REID BROWN.

The above is a communication from Reid Brown, a most enthusiastic member of the Alumni Association. He is very anxious to get a more complete mailing list of the alumni, and if every one of you who read this will send him your name and address it will help him lots. If you will call this to the attention of any other members of the alumni that you know, we will appreciate it.

We know that many of the alumni read The Messenger whose addresses the Alumni Secretary does not have. The alumni mailing list has been incomplete from its very beginning and you can now help put it in better shape. Give Reid a hand in this and it will make for better work all around.

By the way, while you are thinking of alumni doings it might be well to commence to make your plans for our next Home-coming Day - it will be on October 17th - not quite as early as last year but much earlier than many of our Home-comings have been. On that day Lexington will play Barium Springs in football.

Attention Treasurers

In order to have our books ready for the Auditors, that we may have our audit report ready for the Annual Meeting of the Regents of the Orphans' Home we must close our books on April 10th. Please have all funds for the Current Church year in our hands by that date.

Thank you,
R. S. ARROWOOD, Treas.

THE BARIUM MESSENGER

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME
Entered as second-class matter, November 15, 1928, at the postoffice at Barium Springs, N. C., under the act of August 24, 1912.

BOARD OF REGENTS
President: Mrs. N. S. Cochran & Miss Nancy Reid, Matthews, back numbers
Vice President: Mr. James A. King, Wilmington

(FORM OF REQUEST)
I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina.

MRS. S. A. GRIER

We, the members of the Auxiliary of Little Joe's Church, wish to pay loving tribute to the memory of our dear friend and co-worker, Elsie Morrison Grier, who died suddenly at sunset on November 30th 1946.

Mrs. Grier was devoted to her Church and every phase of the Auxiliary work was dear to her heart. She was ever ready to do her share and more, and accepted responsibility in the Auxiliary willingly and cheerfully.

In the year 1925, when the "Ladies Aid Society" was organized, Mrs. Grier became the first President and did a large part in shaping the constitution to fit our local conditions. After some years she was pressed into service again as president - then Foreign Mission Secretary, and then Secretary of Spiritual Life.

Her death, far from bringing a feeling of sadness, gives us a sense of triumphant victory. It is a fitting climax to a life of loving service that she should enter into the mansion prepared for her and hear her Savior's "well done good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord".

We cherish her memory and pledge ourselves to seek to imitate her goodness, in order that we may be more like the Savior Himself.

"CROSSING THE BAR"

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.
But such a tide as moving seems asleep ture life in heaven. We are far from perfect when we come into the Church, but its preaching and teaching should constantly aid our development in that direction. There are many tasks to be done on earth, but just these two are the work of the Church.

militant Church, fighting the battle against Satan for the souls of men. Only when Christ returns and ushers His Church into heaven will it become a Church triumphant and at rest.

While we must grant the theoretical possibility of being saved without becoming a member of an earthly church, we are reminded that "the church is the means through which men are ordinarily saved." It is the natural way to Christ.

"I believe in the universal Church." And, believing in it as it has been presented here, I cannot but throw my life into its great work of bringing in the Kingdom of God.

Mid-Piedmont

will have such a gymnasium and then our tournaments can really help in defraying our other expenses.

The Barium teams do not participate in this big tournament they help make it a success. In fact, everybody at Barium Springs has a hand in it. The school teachers sell tickets and that is quite a job.

One school principal has charge of the score keeping and timing; another school principal has charge of the arrangements; others have charge of the seating of people - the ushering.

There is something to be done by everybody and they have all done their work so efficiently that this tournament is one of the most popular in this section of North Carolina.

Just a month later another tournament is held - the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament. The girls' teams entered are from the ninth grade on down. The boys teams entered are 125-pound weight limit. There will be 32 teams entered this year and they will play double eliminations and each team winning two of their three games will get a trophy.

Barium Messenger

Campus Happenings

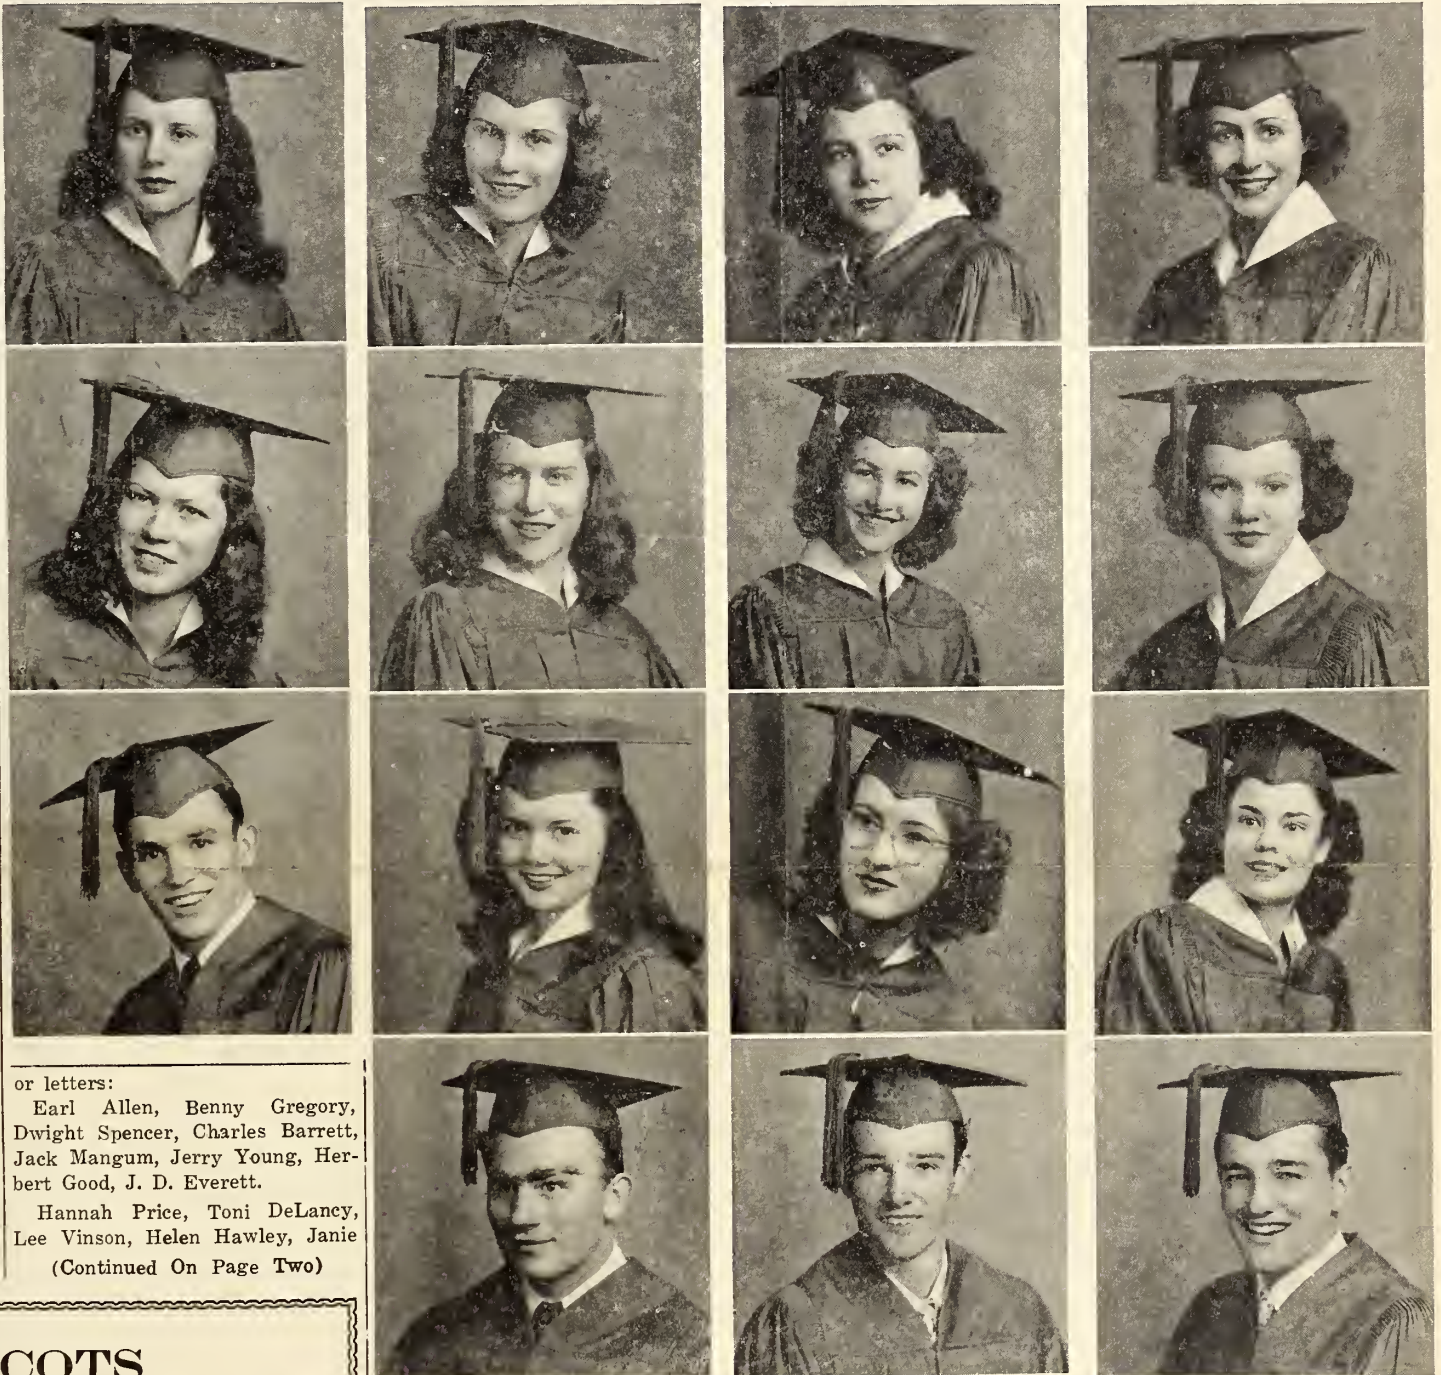

The Barium Messenger coming out just once a month cannot carry reports of all the interesting events which take place at Barium. This time it is increasingly difficult because this particular issue covers nearly two months of activities, and during that two months so many things have happened. To begin with, there was the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament, and then there was the Student Conference, and then a lot of the grown folks went down to Charlotte to attend the Tri-State Orphanage Conference. Then we have had the Senior Play and the different classes have put on Chapel Programs which have been most interesting, and as this is written we are getting all dressed up for the big music recital. Then there is the basketball banquet, and all of those things ought to be talked about, but we will just have to devote a little bit to each one of them.

Let's begin with that Junior Tournament. This year there were 32 teams entered. Play began on March 18th, and every day that week from then on four games were played in the afternoon and four at night and the following Monday afternoon four games were played with the finals that night.

On the eve of the first day's play one of the girls' teams dropped out and Barium substituted a second team, so this year Barium had two girls' teams and one boys' team entered, and two of these teams went into the finals on Monday night, and in the finals our boys were defeated by Mooresville and our girls came through victorious. There were 16 trophies given at this tournament and we believe more fun was had at it than at any of the big tournaments.

Just a week after this we had the basketball banquet. Our pastor, Reverend F. B. Benton, was the toastmaster, and the following boys and girls were awarded monograms or letters:

Earl Allen, Benny Gregory, Dwight Spencer, Charles Barrett, Jack Mangum, Jerry Young, Herbert Good, J. D. Everett.

Hannah Price, Toni DeLancey, Lee Vinson, Helen Hawley, Janie

MASCOTS

The mascots for the class are Joe Anne Jackins whose Daddy was raised at Barium and whose Mother taught at Barium and who is named for Mr. and Mrs. Johnston. The boy mascot is Adrian Cochran, but nobody knows him by that name - Buddy he is to everybody at Barium.

TOP TO BOTTOM

Third Row: Frances Isenhour, Margaret Katen, Jean McDonald, Benny Gregory.

Fourth Row: Toni DeLancey, Helen Hawley, Miriam Huddleston, Earl Allen.

We are presenting in this issue of the Messenger our graduating class for 1947. There are 16 in this class, but only 15 pictures. The other member of the class is a neighborhood boy who did not get his picture in in time - Buddy Lip-pard. He has been a most consistent member of the high school for the last four years. The girls greatly outnumber the boys as has been the case since the war started. It will continue through next year's class, and then we hope it will even up.

The member of the class who has been at Barium the longest is Jean MacDonald who entered from St. Pauls, N. C. in 1933, the youngest of a big family.

Earl Allen is next. Earl entered in 1934 from Lexington, the same year that Hannah Price and Myrtle Rushing entered. These two girls came from different parts of Union County. In 1935 Helen Hawley from Wilson, N. C. entered; in 1936 Dwight Spencer from just over in Mecklenburg (Cornelius) entered, as did Lee Vinson from Johnston County. In 1937 Toni DeLancey from Charlotte and Mary Ann Ryder from Durham entered. None of the class entered in 1938 or 1939, but 1940 brought in Frances Isenhour from Concord, and in 1941 Margaret Katen from Lexington, Benny Gregory from Charlotte, Eleanor Pope from Elizabethtown, and Miriam Huddleston from Wilmington, and in 1944 the baby of the class entered - W. A. Johnson from Laurinburg.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

I BELIEVE IN THE FORGIVENESS OF SIN"

The oldest problem of the human race is the problem of sin. Hell used to be a favorite sermon topic for preachers, but we don't talk much about it any more. The consequence of sin is still eternal punishment in hell, but we today prefer to stress the means of escape. We have discovered that more people can be loved out of hell than can be scared out of it.

The writers of the Apostles' Creed expressed the same emphasis that we use today. They spoke not of punishment but of forgiveness. The fifth article of the Creed states, "I believe in the forgiveness of sin." Here is the core of Christianity's appeal and the keystone of its hope, for the path of forgiveness is the one path to eternal life.

The ever present fact of sin keeps constantly before us the need of forgiveness. Of course, many people manage to dull their consciences enough to put it out of their minds, especially when things are going well with them. But sooner or later the inescapable fact creeps back upon them, and their guilt before God makes itself known. I shall never forget calling at a home during a former pastorate in an effort to interest a family in the church. It

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Dear Friends, It has been quite a long time since there has been any news from the Woman's Building in the Messenger, so we should have a lot to talk about.

There has been much flurry and excitement in our building in recent weeks. Ten seniors are getting ready to leave us in May. They certainly will be missed, and our building will seem rather empty for awhile until we get some new Rumble Hall girls.

The Juniors have been quite busy too. They have been preparing for that gala occasion that all the Seniors look forward to - the Junior-Senior banquet and dance. The rest of the girls are happy too, because school will be out in four weeks.

One of our girls is getting married in May. We are very glad she is getting married this soon after graduation because we will have the opportunity of seeing the wedding which will be held in Little Joe's Church.

One of the most interesting features at Barium was the Student Conference which was held here last month. Delegates from many orphanages attended and stayed with us for three days. We learned a lot about the other orphanages, as well as making many friends. The Woman's Building housed the girls, while the quads took care of the boys. The girls were hostesses at a tea given for the delegates on Friday evening 27th.

Until next month this is all the news, so don't forget to read our column next month.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

We have a new girl over at our house, she has not been here very long, and her name is Betty Ann Blackburn.

We have a new substitute matron over at Howard. She is in the eleventh grade and her name is Ernestine Baldwin. She is nice to us, and we like her. She has been our matron this week-end, and we enjoy having her.

School will be out in about a month. All of us will be glad to let our minds rest a while, however our hands will be busy stringing beans.

Linda Inman, Louise Bradshaw, Aline Thomas, Betty Blackburn, Mary Bowles, Phoebe Cochran, Shirley Byrd, Lois Dellinger, Margaret Hucks and Carol Jean Andrews made the honor roll for the last six weeks period. Because this includes about half of our family, we are very proud of this record.

Most of the grammar grades have been enjoying practicing their commencement plays which we are looking forward to present during the next few weeks. Come up folks and see some good entertainment!

You should have seen the happy faces on Easter Sunday, for we were thrilled to death wearing our pretty Easter dresses and ribbons. We know that we have more than that to be thankful for though, and all of us appreciate every kind little deed you have done for us. Thank you each very much.

-The Howard Girls.

LEES COTTAGE

It has been several months since you have heard from us.

School will be out the tenth of May and we will be glad.

The campus is pretty now and it is our job to keep it clean and we are doing a good job. Hope you will come to see us this summer.

We are going to take off our shoes in a few days and we are all excited.

We have been studying the Child's Catechism and the following boys have recited it: Tommy Scott, Leroy Norman, Jimmy Harrison, Eugene Thomas, Jimmy Harwell, Edward Lane, Frankie Smith and Archie McMannen.

We want to thank our friends in Mooresville for the cookies they brought us Easter.

We have a flower bed in the backyard and we hope to have some flowers for the house this summer.

We are all interested in soft ball now.

answer to my invitation the father in the home replied, "We feel no need of the church. We live as best we know how, and we are certainly getting along all right without it." His words pretty well summed up the man's feeling of self-sufficiency. But later I was called back to that same home. Conditions had changed and a nd trouble had entered. The father spoke again, quite differently this time: "We realize now that we have been neglecting and dishonoring God, and that we need Him."

Some would say that God was punishing those people for their sin. But I believe as the Scripture tells us, that God brought them low in order to bless them. Our God of love would rather forgive than punish, but often He has to use severe means before He can make us ready to receive His forgiveness.

All sin is primarily against God, and all failure to honor Him and to obey His law is sin. Even so great a man as David had to learn this truth by painful experience. When he committed his great sin of taking the wife of Uriah the Hittite and was confronted with his sin by Nathan the prophet, he left us a record of his repentance in the fifty-first Psalm. And the great burden of that Psalm is in these words, "Against Thee, Thee only have I sinned." Beside the offense to God, the offense to others faded into insignificance. Every sin is first and foremost against God.

But the Christian can say with confidence, "I believe in the forgiveness of sin." This same God

There has gone from us one whom, though not all of us knew her personally, we counted among our friends, because she was so near to one of our number, Mrs. W. F. Andrews, mother of Miss Lulie E Andrews, Cashier and Bookkeeper of Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Her cheery presence will be greatly missed when we drop in at Miss Lulie's apartment. Our thoughts are with Miss Andrews in the loss of her mother.

who is offended has made a way of escape for all who have sinned. Perhaps we are used to thinking of some as "hopeless cases", but Christ teaches that all who look to Him can be forgiven. The case of the paralytic who was brought to Him teaches us this truth. He was in a hopeless condition when his four friends brought him to Jesus. And Jesus spoke to him first of his most serious need, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Only when the bystanders whispered in horror of blasphemy upon hearing these words did Jesus continue his healing and move from soul-needing to body-need. In doing so He made it plain that the physical healing was but proof of His power to forgive. "That ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive, I say unto thee, arise and walk." Yes, there are no hopeless cases.

But perhaps our error is at the opposite extreme, and we take the forgiveness of God for granted. This same miracle corrects this error by showing us that the one basis of forgiveness is the power of Christ. As sin is an offense against God, only He can forgive. The mission of Christ to the world was to establish a means of forgiveness commensurate with God's justice. His death on Calvary unlocked the door of forgiveness, for only by bearing our guilt and paying the penalty of death for every sin could this be done. God's justice and mercy were reconciled in the cross, and only in Christ and through Christ is forgiveness possible.

Nor may we forget that we too have a part in obtaining forgiveness of sin. We must repent and believe. Repentance, which is the burden of David's great Psalm that we have already mentioned, has been defined as "being sorry enough not to do it again." Belief, or faith, is emphasized in the story of the paralytic. John sums up both in his great statement, "If we confess our sin, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sin, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

There is yet one more thing we must notice, and that is the extent of God's forgiveness. Human forgiveness is seldom complete. The memory of a wrong lingers on and crops up again under the proper conditions. Often the wrongdoer is less intimate or less respected by the wronged one than before. But this is not so with the forgiveness of God. His forgiveness is total and complete. When He forgives, He then looks upon us as if we had never sinned. He sees us clothed in the righteousness of Christ, and thus as pure and sinless as our Savior.

Such forgiveness is always ready for those who come through Christ in faith and repentance. It is there for the child standing on the threshold of life, for the reprobate as near to death as the thief on the cross, and for every Christian who seeks forgiveness for his sins anew each day.

When I say, "I believe in the forgiveness of sins", I imply other things as well. I must also mean, "I believe in the love of God - in the atoning death of Christ for me - and in the power of the Holy Spirit to change my heart."

$4,000.00 More Given by Sunday Schools.— Eight More Sunday Schools In Clubs

Each year when the offerings are all in for the fiscal year just closed we make up a report on the gifts from the Sunday Schools of the Synod that take a special offering for Presbyterian Orphans' Home. In this we do not include the Thanksgiving Offering. We will print that report later.

The returns this year are indeed gratifying. To make special mention of the increases in each case would almost require two lists. The total amount from these clubs this year is the splendid sum of $28,472.39. The year before the figure was $24,793.15. Last year we reported ninety-nine Sunday Schools in these clubs. The number this year is one hundred and seven.

The list follows:

Table listing contributions from various Sunday Schools and clubs. Includes $800.00 Club, $700.00 Club, $600.00 Club, $500.00 Club, $400.00 Club, $300.00 Club, $200.00 Club, and $100.00 Club.

CAMPUS HAPPENINGS

Hall, Lucille Stricklin, Sadie Gray Buie, Helen Vinson, Ann Wicker, Mary Dickson Arrowood.

Special honors went to several of the players. Benny Mac Gregory was voted the most valuable boy player, Earl Allen was elected captain for the season. Among the girls, Helen Hawley was voted the most valuable and Hannah Price the captain. The banquet was just a home affair with not more than three outsiders these being from the press. Quite a number of old boys and girls were here and there were altogether around 200 present. It was quite an occasion.

Just a little later we had a very remarkable gathering at Barium. This was the Student Conference, a revival of an organization that commenced to function about ten years ago but had to drop its activities during the war period. It is composed of a selected number of students from The Children's Home, Mills Home, The Kennedy Home, Lexington Junior Orphanage, Oxford, Hughes Memorial School at Danville, Virginia, and Barium.

The Beta Club at Barium sponsored the meeting and they got off to a good start on the night of March 27th. Their meeting lasted through the night session of the 28th and adjourned Saturday morning, the 29th. Two of the members were commissioned to present their findings to the Tri-State Orphanage Conference which met in Charlotte on the night of April 8th. Dwight Spencer of Barium was the temporary chairman to convene the meeting and was elected permanent chairman for this meeting. Jerry Young was elected president for next year and the meeting will, no doubt, be held in the neighborhood of the latter part of March, 1948. Dwight Spencer of Barium and Ben Tucker of Oxford were the two commissioned to present their resolutions to the Tri-State Orphanage Conference. They did this on the night of the 8th and did a splendid job - they were well received by the Conference.

The program of commencement has been pretty well prepared and the activities of the school now are looking toward commencement. Our baccalaureate sermon on the morning of the 11th will be preached by the Reverend John McAlpine of Lexington. The sermon on Sunday night will be delivered by Reverend Samuel M. Houck of Lora, and the commencement address on the night of the 12th will be delivered by an old Barium boy, Reverend Samuel E. Howie, D. D., of Fayetteville. The senior play was quite interesting as well as

16 Graduate at Barium May 12.- Awards Made

Commencement is always a happy time tinged with some sadness. The children are happy that school is out for a few months. The seniors are happy that their period of preparation is over and they can go to college or out into a life work. The sadness comes from the fact that our graduates scatter rather widely and so have to part from life time friends. Friendships formed here are very close and vital and parting for new environment is the more poignant for that reason.

Members of the graduating class whose pictures appeared in last month's Messenger are Mary Ann Ryder, Lee Vinson, Dwight Spencer, Eleanor Pope, Hannah Price, Myrtle Rushing, W. A. Johnson, Frances Isehour, Margaret Katen, Jean McDonald, Benny Gregory, Toni DeLancey, Helen Hawley, Miriam Huddleston, Earl Allen. This was a splendid graduating class. There were more honor students in this than any previous class. Of the fifteen, four girls and three boys plan to enter college.

Fine sermons were preached on Commencement Sunday by Rev. John McAlpine, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lexington, and Rev. Samuel M. Houck of Concord Presbyterian Church, Loray, N. C.

The subject of the Baccalaureate sermon was "The Merchantman Who Sold His Possession to Gain the Pearl of Great Price."

The evening sermon by Mr. Houck had the subject "Building Bridges."

The inspiring Commencement Address by Rev. Samuel E. Howie, pastor of Highland Presbyterian Church of Fayetteville, N. C., was on "Paying the Price."

Certificates for perfect attendance were given to over sixty boys and girls by the grammar school principal, Mr. Harry Barkley.

The eighth grade certificates were delivered by the superintendent.

Eleventh — Betty Coffey, Peggy Coffey, Betty Joe Smith.

The above picture is of the wealthy class at Barium, those people who have more unused and unspent years ahead of them than anyone else at Barium Springs. They are the Baby Cottage crowd.

The mature looking individuals in the back row will be going to school next year, and you can see that this responsibility is already commencing to weigh heavily upon them. From left to right they are Charles Bowles, Donny Privette, Richard MacArthur, Jimmy Harrison, Richard Blackburn and Larry Terry.

The girls from left to right - Mary McEwen, Jackie Taylor, Ruby Truelove, Nancy Yandle, Sheila Wilson, and Ruth Shepherd. And the little blondes out in front are Linda Shepherd and Brenda Shepherd. These young ladies have already commenced to take on some of the responsibilities of living. They have had their vaccinations and inoculations, and little Jackie Taylor has even assisted in a wedding. In this picture they show up just as blondes and brunettes. In technicolor there would be some brilliant reds, with little Nancy Yandle the particular star. Ruth Shepherd has had the most hospital experience and the deepest dimples. She forgot to put those dimples in operation when this picture was made. Mary McEwen has the widest range of expression - to see her smile and to see her frown unless you were right there to see the transformation you would not believe it was the same person. Little William Harrison must belong to a different political party from the rest of them. He seems to be viewing everything with alarm. We wish you could know these youngsters. They will be our regular citizens from right now on.

In the April issue of The Messenger we always glorify the graduating class. In this issue we are introducing the rising seniors, the ones who will have a large part in making Barium Springs a good place in which to live during the next twelve months. There is a little larger percentage of boys in this class than was in last year's.

Here are the names: The big boy in the front row is our one and only G. I. - Kenneth Baker. Then Betty Jo Smith, Peggy Coffey, Janie Hall, Betty Coffey and Harold Myatt. In the middle row, left to right: Charles Barrett, Sadie Gray Buie, Mildred Monroe, James Reid and John Whiting. In the back row, Pearl Morgan, Tommy Hudgins, Bradley Jean Manus, Ernestine Baldwin, Lucille Stricklin and Jack Clark.

If you have any old annuals if you will look back about eleven years you will find five members of this class in the Baby Cottage picture of that year. These are Charles Barrett, Betty Jo Smith, the Coffey twins and Mildred Monroe. We hope that you will look at this picture and learn to like these folks. They mean a lot to us and we are counting on them in a big way.

46 Children Joined Little Joe's Church

Easter Sunday was a memorable day at Little Joe's Church. On that day we had the thrilling experience of seeing forty-six children received into the membership of the church at one time. Our pastor, Mr. Benton, had been conducting a communicants class for several weeks preceding Easter, instructing a communicant's class the meaning of church membership and receiving the children in clear profession of allegiance to Christ.

We wish that every one of our readers could have been with us to see the impressive scene. As names were called, the line of children grew until it crowded the whole area in front of the pulpit. Then, while their eager, upturned faces responded to the required questions, it seemed truly that "the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them". And most impressive of all was the mass baptism with which this part of the service ended.

Thirty-eight children were baptized upon profession of faith at that time. They were:

QUADS NEWS

Howdy Folks, With spring here for 1947 it's about time we were getting our "annual" message to you into the messenger.

The spring sports have come so quick that we have hardly had time to catch our breath from playing basketball. We have organized three softball teams from the boys in high school and the faculty has one also.

School is out and four of our boys are missing from the summer work line up. We miss these boys but maybe Barium won't go bankrupt in their absence.

We'll sign off for now with hope that we'll be able to get in another few words to The Messenger before next Spring.

With all our spring fever, "The four sided boys" (Quadrangles)

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends, School is out at last, and graduation is over and we have really started our vacations.

We are going barefooted and all the rocks are getting us down, but that doesn't matter just so long as we get off our hot shoes.

Some of our girls are moving up to Howard, we will miss them a lot but we hope they will be happy in their new home.

One of the little girls found a bird bath and is still watching it in hopes a bird will bathe in it.

Miss Blakeny, one of our teachers, gave us a party the other night. We had a nice time and enjoyed it very much.

We will see all of you about this time next month. So long.

-Annie Louise Girls

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

School is out and without our shoes we are enjoying our lawn of grass, clover, and also the bees.

Marble season is almost over and Marvin Garris has the greatest collection, 360 of them.

We dressed up in our new shorts and polo shirts, and attended the graduation exercises. We were thrilled, as it was a new experience for some of us.

Moving time is here and six new boys from the Baby Cottage are coming: Rickie McArthur, Charles Bowles, Donnie Privett, Donnie Harris, Richard Blackburn and Larry Terry.

We are proud of Shirley, our big sister, who is assisting in playing the piano this summer.

Louise Campbell, our other big girl, was awarded a lovely letter of congratulation on her improvement in school by Miss Faye Stevenson.

Four of our boys were given perfect attendance certificates in school and we are very proud of them.

We are quite happy to know we have been adopted by the Business Women's Circle of the Mooresville First Presbyterian Church and we are looking forward to a visit from them in the near future.

Billy McAllister has done a fine job on our flower beds and we have a beautiful azalia plant given us by Miss Lulie. We are hoping for lovely flowers next year.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN EVERLASTING LIFE"

Through the past several months we have been thinking of the Apostles' Creed and the great fundamentals of Christianity with which it deals. The Creed begins with our belief in a Triune God, the Father our Maker, the Son our Savior, and the Holy Spirit the Communicator of salvation to us.

The efforts of men to look beyond the grave are as old as the human race. Job asked the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" And his faith answered, "I know that my Redeemer liveth;" David expressed his belief in immortality in the twenty-third Psalm: "And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

People have always speculated as to what lies beyond death, but to the Christian alone is given the answer to the problem and the assurance that the grave is not the end. I shall never forget my first experience with death after I became old enough to realize its meaning.

The Scripture teaches me that what I experienced that day is true. The believer's soul is indestructible. It is hard for us to disassociate the soul from the body as long as the two are joined in this life, but in death we realize the distinction.

Death is then but a change of state, and not really an end at all. As the moment of death approaches Christ whispers to every believer, "Today thou shall be with Me in paradise." The end of this life ushers us into the state for which we were created.

Christ gives many benefits to believers in the present life, but the fullest and best are reserved for the time of death which so many fear and dread.

Alumni News

Dr. Sam Howie, minister at Highland Presbyterian Church, Fayetteville delivered the commencement address. He was awarded the ace medal that is given to the alumni for outstanding work.

We were happy to have many of our former children back for commencement. We noted Lucille Smith, Wilma Jessup, Dalma Jessup, Arthur Sigmon, Donald Bolton, Esau Davis, Richard Shoaf, Anna Bell Williams Dawson, Marguerite Jordan Tysor, Will and Sam Warlick, William Wadsworth, Edna Maples, William Billings, Jack McCall, Joe Long, Martha ing life given to us the moment we first accept Christ as our Savior bursts forth into full bloom. Like the butterfly emerging from the cocoon, we appear in full beauty and glory. And like the butterfly soaring upward on its newly given wings, we soar upward to join Christ in glory.

It is hard to bury a loved one, but we can only bury his body. And even that body remains under the care of God. It is still united to Christ in some mysterious way we cannot understand.

And we do believe that the time of resurrection will come. Then the resting body will be raised up and reunited to the soul. It will be raised in glory, a better body than we place in the grave, without spot or blemish, fashioned after the resurrection body of Christ Himself.

On that last day, when the believer's soul and body are reunited he will stand before Christ for the final judgement. It will not be an occasion for fear, for Christ will recognize His own. "Then shall the King say unto them on His right hand, 'Come ye blessed of my Father and inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.'"

As long as this world lasts, death will bring sorrow into the lives of men, but it need not bring despair to believers. Sorrow is for the ones left behind, those who are lonely without the loved one who goes before them.

A LAST REMINDER OF THE WAR

There in the summer of 1947 we want to forget about the war, but just to remind us that Barium Springs was very much in the war we are printing this picture. There was no doubt a good deal of mail from Barium Springs headed toward Adolph Hitler. This particular package was directed and sent on its way by William Lindsey who is also in the picture.

MESSAGES OUT OF THE DEPTHS

Facing death with fortitude is nothing new or unique among men, but it never loses meaning. Written on a rock above the bodies of thirteen miners who died in the Centralia disaster were the words: "Look in everybody's pockets. We all have notes. Give them to our wives." The contents of these notes are revealing. One might have expected to find some echo of the long, bitter struggle of the miners for safety, for protective measures which might have prevented the disaster; but not so. Thoughts of loved ones were uppermost, and of God.

Two miners asked their wives for forgiveness seeing the mistakes of the past in a different setting. One wrote the single sentence, "God bless you and your baby." Another put it, "It looks like the end for me. I love you, honey, more than life itself. . . . You are the sweetest wife in the world." An expectant father who realized he would never see his unborn child wrote simply, "My dear Wife: Good-bye. Name baby Joe, so you will have a Joe. Love to all, Dad." One wrote to two boys: "Be good boys. Please your father. O Lord, help me." Here is a sort of last will testament from another brave American passing into the valley of the shadow "Dear Sweetheart and Sons: It's now 6 o'clock. — is feeling pretty low, but Honey, if I don't make it, sell the house and go live with your folks. Your Mom and Dad will take care of you and the boys. Please pray for me and join the church for me. Tell Dad to quit the mine and take care of Mom, not like this. Well, Baby, and my loving boys, goodbye as I am feeling weak. Lots of love." — North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Two Delegations Visited Campus

Two large buses brought a fine delegation to visit us from the Men's Bible Class of Cherryville on the afternoon of May 20. Rev. George L. Riddle, the Church pastor, headed up the group and spoke of the fine work of this class.

They brought six nice boxes of oranges and apples, as well as some crayons and drawing books for our little folks.

It seemed to bring us good luck as we had a refreshing shower of rain just after their arrival. However, their spirits were not dampened, and we enjoyed showing them around the home.

A small group of ladies from Laurel Hill Church in Fayetteville Presbytery also paid us a delightful visit recently, and it was a great pleasure to have them on the campus. We hope that many more delegations will visit us from time to time.

THE CAPONE AND VOLSTEAD ERA

It was a rather curious coincidence that the two persons whose names were synonymous with the 1920's should die within the same week. The nation's press made much of the evils of Capone and the bootleggers' paradise. Scarcely a word even a by-line heralded the death of Volstead, the author of the amendment that brought in prohibition. Who wants to bring back Capone's days with its mass murders, gang fights, and muscle men? But, on the other hand, have we much about which we can boast with legalized liquor for sale in every block, night clubs available on the outskirts of every city and cocktails once and for all made respectable? — The Baptist New Mexican.

THE GREATEST TASK IN THE WORLD

By Thos. A. Frazier, Knoxville, Tenn.

The preaching of the gospel is the greatest task that has ever engaged the mind of mortal man.

It's great because of him who said go and preach. It's great because of the value of that with which it deals. Who can calculate the value of an immortal soul? It's great because it deals with time, eternity. It's great because it deals with that which man cannot give and money cannot purchase. It's great because its subject matter will live when the stars have grown old and the sun has grown cold, and when all things else have been brushed aside. It's great because its field of operation is as broad as the universe, as high as heaven, and as deep as the bottomless.

It's great to be an ambassador, to cross the ocean (the briny deep) and have the crowned heads of Europe bow at your feet and pay you great homage. But it's greater still to be an ambassador of the Son of God and have men and women fall at your feet and cry out and say, "What must I do to be saved?"

It's great to see men and women turn from death unto life, from darkness unto light, from punishment to bliss. It's great to have the Lord's seal of approval stamped on your work.

It's great to have the Lord and the King of Kings to say unto you, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things I will make thee ruler over many things." And do you know that the same God who said preach also said teach? Then how great and grand and glorious is the teacher's task. You say whom shall I teach? What shall I teach, where is my field of operation? (Continued On Page Three)

Pastor's Message

By Rev. A. D. Benton

"THE BREAD OF LIFE"

Have you ever seen anybody starve to death? Real hunger is so far from us that it is hard even to imagine not having enough to eat. Yet America is one of the few nations in the world where there is enough food today. A British leader recently characterized his country's diet as one of slow starvation. And on the continent of Europe, with even less food than England, constant hunger over the past several years has left children weak and stunted and has allowed disease of all kind to reach alarming proportions. All over the world people are crying for bread and are ready to follow anyone who can provide it.

Bread is one of the fundamental necessities of life. This has always been true. Therefore, when Jesus spoke of Himself as the "bread of life", He intended to show the essential nature of His relation to us. Let us think together this month on His enlightening words: "I am the bread of life; he who comes to me shall not hunger."

By these words Jesus would tell us first of all that He alone can satisfy the gnawing pain inside our souls. Bread is a staple filler that gives needed bulk to the diet and produces a feeling of satisfaction. In recent years scientists have developed concentrated foods to the extent that a person can now get all the necessary food values for his body by merely swallowing one or two little pills at each mealtime. But experiments in the use of these concentrated foods over a period of time have proved them a failure. Their users invariably become unhappy and irritable after a day or two. They miss the bulk which their bodies require for full satisfaction.

We who live here with growing boys and girls are used to seeing them reach for the bread plate toward the end of the meal and eat two or three slices of bread just to top things off. That is perfectly normal during the fast growing years, for nothing else satisfies the craving of our stomachs and gives a feeling of well-being so well as bread.

And Jesus would have us know that He fills a corresponding soul need. If we stop long enough to think about it, we must realize that most people in the world are unhappy. The vast majority don't know what is wrong with them, but they are not contented. The truth is that their souls are hungry, unfilled. And Jesus is the "bulk" that alone can fill the void, give a feeling of well-being, and bring the happiness of contentment. Our souls must be miserable without a daily filling by Him.

Again, "I am the bread of life" tells us that Jesus nourishes our souls and enables them to grow and develop to maturity. All of us know that a growing body requires more food than one that has finished its growth. Appetites are biggest during the teen years when the body is growing fastest. And bread is one of the best foods to supply the vitamins and minerals and calories that growing bodies require.

HOWARD COTTAGE

This is one of the most exciting months of the summer so many things are happening to us. Miss Taylor came to our cottage to live and we hope she will enjoy living with us as much as she did the Synods boys.
We got our first peas June 3, we had four crates of peas to shell.
I guess you know the swimming pool is open and we are having a grand time in it.
Bible school has started. We all go to Bible school and we have a good time. The Junior department had to be divided because there were so many. Half of us are in Miss Troutman's class and the others in Miss Moose's class.

Two of our girls are going to Hickory Dockery Camp the 9th. We hope they will have a fine time. We are anxious to go on our vacation and that is our topic for conversation at present.
Eight of our larger girls moved to Rumble Hall and six girls moved from Annie Louise to our cottage their names are: Betty Lou Johnston, Laura Jane Craig, Shirley Hollifield, Jackie Liverman, Shirley Shaw and Nellie Rae Sellers. We are glad to have them come live with us.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Well, the swimming pool is really open and all are going in every day. Boy, that water really feels good after a hot day of working!
We haven't started stringing beans yet but we will soon be helping the Howard girls string them.
Almost all of us have gotten our toes stumped since we have been going bare footed, but that doesn't matter because we can always get one of the big girls to paint them.
We are all looking forward for June 14 because that is when we start on our vacations. Boy it really is a headache because it is hurry, hurry, hurry all the time! We think we are never going to get home.
Last Saturday our matron and two big girls took us down to the spring for a picnic. We really had a good time, we played games and had lemonade, cookies, sandwiches and oranges for supper.
We will be looking for you next month.
— Annie Louise Girls

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

It has been but about three weeks since school closed and work begun but it seems much longer to us who hunger for knowledge and long for the classroom.

Not getting to go to camp this year we are looking forward to our vacations very much.
The boys in our quad have been shaken up and reshuffled. Billy Lybrand, great romeo of Statesville and beloved by all who know him, has departed to dwell with his comrade, Jack Clark, in quad two. Ray Clark, Donald Mitchell, and "Jeep" (a K-9) still room together. Billy Mack and Terrel are still trying to make a go of it, however they now have a valet, Carl Spicer.
The Whiting brothers, John and Bobby are still living together peaceably except for their regular arguments with "Mole" Meroney and "Buster" Myatt. "Buster" set a new record by not blowing a fuse with his experiments in a whole month.
J. D. Everett and Paul Barnes are still fighting for their beds when visitors come.
Last and everything but least we come to Charles Barrett and Herbert Good. We have no slighting remarks to make about these two grand boys, so you can guess who wrote this.
Thanks for your reading time. Good health to all from us all.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Summer is here and summer means hot weather. That means swimming and all the other summer activities that we are swinging into. The pool has opened and every one is getting his share of swimming. Our tennis champs have been occupying the court from morning til night. Our recreation room now has a piano. Now everyone who isn't a Beethoven can really enjoy himself playing chop sticks and boogie woogie.
Mrs. Bryant, with the help of the girls, has been turning our long neglected back yard into a garden.
The seniors have taken over at the sewing room and have turned out many pretty clothes.
That is about all the news for this month, but we'll be back next month with more facts, about our building and our "gals."
— The W. B. Girls

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,
When you last read the gossip and bits of news from the sewing room, you were hearing from a group of seasoned veterans. Today you are reading the news from a bunch of girls who have been sewing only three weeks. However we have turned out many dresses and other items. Mrs. Smith has been slowly but surely pumping the "do's and don'ts" about sewing into our heads.
Sadie Buie isn't tearing up the machines as fast as she did in Home Economics but no B-29 could beat her on the take off.
Mildred has been singing "Its Benny a Long, Long Time."
Lucille Stricklin hasn't quite hit the jack pot yet but she's still betting on those corny radio programs.
Betty Jo is leaving us next week to go to a conference at Red Springs. (Good luck Jo)
We wonder why Peggy and Betty always spell please — Pleas.
Bradley Jean certainly is happy these days. Could it be because she is hearing from Robert so often. We wonder?
Va. Presnell sews so much until we don't know anything to say about her.

Ernestine Baldwin got tired sewing, she went to the Infirmary.
Pearl Morgan is hoping she can wait on tables in Laurinburg this summer. She always did like to wait on tables.
Enough of this gossip. Folks just remember to read our column next month.
— The Sewing Room Girls

SYNODS COTTAGE

Dear Friends,
We are so busy playing and going to Bible School that we almost let our cottage news slip by this time.
First of all, we want to tell you about our Bible School. It started Monday morning at nine o'clock when we all went to church and were divided into classes according to our age. We are learning something new every day and oh gee, what a good time we are having! Next month, we will give you a full report on the outcome of Bible School.
Mrs. Bowling has gone on a two weeks vacation to Stanford, Kentucky and we miss her very much. Dewie Buie, one of our former big sisters, who is back from Flora Macdonald College for the summer, is seeing to it that we keep our hands and faces clean and get to Bible School on time along with her many other tasks.
It is almost warm enough to go in swimming and we are looking forward to it very much. Here's hoping we'll have a long list of boys to report to you next time who know how to swim.
So long until next month when we hope to have lots of news to report.
— "The Wigglers"

PRINTING NEWS

There is, Jimmy Reid our right hand man in the printing business. James Williams, assistant shoe cobbler, Dwight Reid the faithful printers devil. We hope the rest of the crew can carry on after we lose these most valuable men. We were sorry to lose Miss Moles. Also six of our big boys have moved to Synods' Cottage.
Miss Richards has taken Miss Moles place as our little girls' matron. We all miss Miss Moles but are happy to have Miss Richards with us.

Dr. John R. Mott
I have just come back from the most exhausting but illuminating trip of my life. I have visited nine principal zones of Europe, representing five world-wide agencies, and I know from what I have seen and felt, that while this is the most dangerous era the world has ever known, it is also incomparably the greatest opportunity to build and develop a future that will far transcend anything in the past.
I have in my collection, 115 sets of findings which have been adopted by various organizations, committees on post war requirements, international and national welfare organizations, problems incident to the atomic bomb and others of a religious character, all of them dealing with resolutions looking toward the betterment of mankind.
Never has there been anything quite like this. Many groups of thoughtful and serious people across the breadth of the world are trying to take stock of our world situation, asking the question — "Where are we heading?"
When I think of human tragedy, as I saw it and felt it, of the Christian ideals sacrificed as they have been, the thought comes to me that God is preparing the way for some immense, direct action. Who knows through what conduits and channels He will make His power felt? I believe we are on the threshold of something far greater and more portentous than the world has ever known.

These piled up figures, Dr. Vickrey has assembled, are not an exaggeration. Their only fault is that they are an under-statement.

What is money? It is so much stored up personality, whether the dribbles of the poor or the rivers of wealth. Money is a solemn trust and responsibility. Apart from money, we cannot do the larger things.

What is organization? The means of distributing force more advantageously. With the impulse to go forward, and gathered momentum, what can we not do?

What does the increasing thoughtfulness and turning to religion mean? It means the hour is here. We are summoned to something that will far transcend anything in the long history of mankind.

Man's extremity has ever been God's opportunity. We are on the threshold of something that may be marvelous. We should walk softly here, today.

Are we sufficiently responsive to recognize God's visitation? — The Baptist Courier.

SOURCE OF SPIRITUAL POWER NEGLECTED

The Church has been neglecting the source of its spiritual power. We can never know accurately the state of the Church until we look into the Scriptures. If the Bible is the Christian's only rule of faith and conduct, it is no less the one standard by which the Church can gauge its power and spiritual condition. More specifically, the book of Acts sets forth clearly the plummet which God places alongside the Church to show the degree of rectitude. Here is not man's measurement; here is God's. The test applied is not: Is the Church getting on in the world? The question is: Is the Church fulfilling God's purpose, is it indwelt by His life? The Church is God's husbandry, God's building. He had laid the foundation. Christian fellowship is the temple of God. If any man defile the temple of God, him will God destroy, for this spiritual habitation of God is holy. When a minister of Christ breathes deeply and long in the pure, pungent atmosphere of the book of Acts, he is bound to come forth from the experience with some deep convictions concerning the state of our churches. The change in atmosphere is arrestive— even startling. And the difference is summed up in one fact; namely, that the Holy Spirit is not honored in our churches as He was in the infancy of the Christian movement.

HOW DO YOU RATE AS A PARENT?

Parents have report cards too! The Piedmont, California High School Dads Club issued a report card which parents graded themselves, according to the Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals. For each of the following questions to which they could answer an unequivocal "Yes" they received ten points:

1. Do you provide a quiet study room for your child away from family, telephone, and radio?
2. Do you schedule a regular study time, and insist on its being kept?
3. Do you make an unsatisfactory report card (grades 3 or below) or a delinquency slip an occasion for a parent-faculty conference, at once?
4. Do you require your child to stay at home and study every evening before a school day?
5. Do you see that your child gets adequate sleep? (9 hours Jr. High)

(8 hours H. S.)?

6. Do you contribute to your child's school morale by avoiding criticisms of teachers and school before your child?

7. Is the home work help you give your child such that he does not become dependent upon you?

8. Do you insist that your child refrain from cigarettes and cocktails?

9. Do you refuse to permit your child to do things you do not approve, even when he tells you "everybody else does"?

10. Do you refuse to permit unchaperoned parties or "dark dances" in your home?

— Uplift.

WHAT IS HOME

A roof to keep out the rain? Four walls to keep out the wind? Floors to keep out the cold? Yes, but home is more than that. It is the laugh of a baby, the song of a mother, the strength of a father. Warmth of loving hearts, light from happy eyes, kindness, loyalty, comradeship. Home is first school and first church for young ones, where they learn what is right, what is good, what is kind. Where they go for comfort when they are hurt or sick. Where joy is shared and sorrow eased. Where fathers and mothers are respected and loved. Where children are wanted. Where the simplest food is good enough for kings because it is earned. Where money is not so important as loving kindness. That is home. God bless it!—Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

— Baptist New Mexican.

LIQUOR PICTURES

Far too many of our young people are seeing the wrong pictures in connection with liquor traffic. Wet propaganda and liquor advertisements portray the person who drinks as an elegant gentleman or glamorous lady imbibing amid surroundings of culture, sophistication and refinement. Unfortunately, that is the only picture many people seem to see. But there is another that should be kept vividly in the imaginations of youth: the broken home, the foul-smelling drunkard, the mangled victims of automobile accidents caused by drinking drivers, the depraved criminal, the pathetic alcoholic. Quite often, the cartoonist pictures the ardent dry as a fanatic with a long face, long hair, long coat, long nose, tall hat, and bulging umbrella, lifting a warning face. The caricature of the temperance advocate, offensive to the imagination, has probably done more to prejudice young people against the dry cause than all the arguments and editorials of the wet press taken together. There is another picture of the brilliant doctor or the learned judge, or the unprejudiced social worker, or the impartial scientist, or the judicious minister, who intelligently and conscientiously oppose the liquor traffic because of the tragic ruin it has wrought in human experience.

— J. Maurice Trimmer in Watchman-Examiner.

FATHER OF THE R. F. D.

City residents of this country have never had much reason to complain of Uncle Sam's mail service. Since the year 1853, their letters have been delivered regularly at their front doors.

It has been different with farmers and other people living in the outlying rural areas. Less than fifty years ago, the people of these sections had to walk or drive to the nearest post office. Often this meant a journey of ten miles or more. On the face of it, this arrangement seemed hardly fair. No one had considered it seriously enough to do anything about it for all those years.

The establishment of the R. F. D. changed all that. Rural free delivery routes now extend over most of the back country roads, and tin mail boxes dot nearly every highway. From Bad Axe, Michigan, southward to Rough and Ready, Texas; from Sudden, California, to Meddyhemp, Maine, and back again to Evening Shade, Arkansas, these boxes stand unguarded along the road.

Who brought about this revolutionary improvement?

Curiously enough, "the father of the R. F. D." seems to be forgotten today. He was Perry S. Heath and was appointed first assistant postmaster-general by President McKinley. He had hardly stepped into his new office before he began to plan for better mail service for the farmers. To him, more than to anyone else, the nation owes its present rural free delivery system.

The son of a Methodist lay minister, Heath was born in Muncie, Indiana, on August 31, 1847. He must have been an up-and-coming young man, for by the time he was twenty-one, he was sole proprietor of the Indiana city's first newspaper. Then, succumbing to the Western fever, he sold out and moved to Aberdeen in Dakota Territory, where he launched another paper.

Washington, the national capital city, was his next stopover, and here he made quite a name for himself as a journalist. Heath became well acquainted with Republican party leaders. They were so impressed with his ability that they asked him to take an important part in managing William McKinley's campaign for the presidency.

It was 1896, and William Jennings Bryan was making speeches up and down the country on "free silver." Heath decided on a different approach for his candidate. He decided that he would make an appeal to the voters of the country through the newspapers. He had 135 carloads of campaign literature printed and distributed throughout the country. He hired 350 writers to produce "Republican copy" for more than 12,000 newspapers.

The result of the election everybody knows. Grateful for the part Heath had played in his election, McKinley appointed him first assistant-Postmaster-general. It was an office that the publicity director was well qualified to fill, and as soon as he took up his new duties he began to make changes that at the time seemed very startling.

His biggest innovation was in country mail delivery. The R. F. D. already existed in a small way, but had never been given any whole-hearted backing by his predecessors in office. Skeptical of its success, deeming it impractical, earlier postmasters-general refused to ask Congress for any large outlay of funds. The biggest appropriation that had ever been made was $50,000, and for a nationwide service it can be imagined how far this would go and how ridiculously inadequate it proved.

Grangers and farmers flooded Heath's office with petitions demanding better mail service. Even if the assistant had not been convinced a vast improvement was possible, he would have had to listen to their appeals. As a matter of fact, Heath was all for the experiment and made such a strong plea that Congress granted him $150,000 for the R. F. D. the first year.

The following year, the allotment was doubled. By that time, Perry Heath's work was beginning to show that the experiment in free rural delivery could be a success. Congress sat up and took notice since the public approved the service so enthusiastically. By 1900, the number of rural delivery routes had increased from 44 in 1897 to 1,214.

Encouraging as this was, Heath foresaw the time when it would be of nation-wide benefit. In his report to Congress he pointed out,

"It no longer is in an experimental stage, but has reached a practical stand-point. With the cooperation of Congress, this rural free delivery service should be extended to the entire rural population."

Not long afterward, Mr. Heath resigned his Washington office to return to newspaper publishing, but his three years of organization had been a triumphant success. The people of the rural sections owe him a lasting debt for the mail service which has proved so worth while. — Upward.

Let him that lacks wisdom ask of God who giveth to all freely and upbraidth none.

It's not enough to have ability however highly we may prize this. It's not enough to be able to translate Greek and Hebrew or calculate the distance from one planet to another. You may have the wit of Voltaire, the poverty of Byron, the science of Halley, the philosophy of Hobbs, the command of Napoleon, the statesmanship of Pitt, the common sense of Franklin, the mechanical skill of Stephen, the business talent of a Rothschild and a superficial knowledge of the Bible. But without the spirit that gripped the great Apostle to live is Christ you will fail.

— Baptist and Reflector.

years, leaves a person weak and stunted for life. It makes dwarfs, both physically and mentally. And soul starvation has exactly the same results. The world is full of spiritual dwarfs and weaklings whose condition is just as pitiful and just as apparent as that of the physically starved. They are indifferent to God because the starved soul is sluggish and unwilling to put forth the effort to think and work. They blight the world with their immorality and other crime, which are results of their souls not being fed.

Jesus alone provides food to build the bone and muscle of the soul. Only by feeding on Him can we grow and develop into spiritual adults. Our entire lifetime in this world is the "growing age" of our souls, and we need large amounts of the "bread of life" every day. There may be some reason why people must be physically undernourished, but there is plenty of "bread of life" for all.

Finally, "I am the bread of life" means Jesus can provide strength for the work God gives us to do each day. All of us know that if we are going to do hard work we have to eat heartily to prepare ourselves for it. Bread is a source of energy that enables the body to accomplish the tasks set for it.

Some people are afraid to try the Christian life because it looks too hard. In reality, they remain inactive because they are so starved that they are weak. They need the assurance that the "bread of life" can nourish and strengthen them, and enable them to do their duty to God. The well fed soul can say with Paul, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

There is no need to remind you readers not to neglect your three square meals a day for your bodies. But Jesus would remind you not to neglect the feeding of your soul as regularly and as well. "I am the bread of life", He says; "he who comes to me shall not hunger."

The Cruise of the Little Red Angel Being the Vacation Trip of the Johnston Family

By JOSEPH B. JOHNSTON

On June 4th, the remnant of the Johnston family, consisting of Mrs. Johnston, daughter Leila, and myself set out on a month's vacation. On that morning we gaily waved good-bye and set sail in our little red chariot to explore the United States, and thirty days and 480 gallons of gasoline later we pulled up at our home, winding up a series of most thrilling experiences, chief among which was the conviction that however great our nation may be and however wonderful the different states may appear there is nothing quite so nice as that particular part of North Carolina known as Barium Springs.

But wait a minute! Let's get started. We went to San Francisco. We spent nine nights and ten days on the way there. We spent ten nights and nine days in San Francisco; and we spent eleven days and ten nights on the way home. The first night we spent in Corbin, Ky., then Olney, Illinois, then just outside of Kansas City, then Colby, Kansas, then Loveland, Colorado (what a place for a honeymoon), then Vernal, Utah, then Ely, Nevada and Carson City, then Yosemite Valley and on in to San Francisco. On the way back the first night was at Bakersfield, then Boulder Dam, then the Grand Canyon, then Winslow, Arizona, Albuquerque, New Mexico, Elk City, Oklahoma, Fort Smith, Arkansas, Iuka, Mississippi (look that up on your map), Chattanooga, Tennessee, Fontana Dam, North Carolina, and then home.

On that first day out we really said good-bye to North Carolina at Montreat where we stopped with friends for a word or two and then lit out for foreign countries like Tennessee and Kentucky. In Tennessee we passed through the upper reaches of the Norris Lake and on to Louisville - we will remember that Norris Lake before we get back. Across the river from Louisville we had lunch with son Bill and his lady Nell and from that time until we reached San Francisco not a single person did we see that we knew, but everywhere we met people who knew about North Carolina. In Olney, Illinois where we spent our second night, the talk was about the heavy rains in Iowa and Nebraska and the damage it might do to that part of the country. We crossed the river at St. Louis - that is the big united Mississippi and Missouri - and it looked mighty peaceful on the way out. It really did not look any larger than the Ohio which we crossed at Louisville. On across the Missouri and then into Kansas, we commenced to see those big wheat fields and corn fields which made us wonder why people would take the trouble to farm little hilly fields like we have around Barium. The farther we went the bigger the fields seemed to get. The biggest crop of all was wheat, although alfalfa was plentiful and it seemed to grow so rank that there was hardly enough land where it grew for it to cure; it had to be spread out so the sun could get to it. But the rivers commenced to look ugly. Those we crossed were beginning to get

Death Makes Two Visits to Barium

Early in the morning of June 5th death visited Barium Springs. Richard Lee Huddleston, a thirteen year old lad, was stricken suddenly, taken to the hospital and just a few hours later passed away. The doctors diagnosed his trouble as meningitis. It struck suddenly and without warning.

Richard was born May 26th, 1934. He entered Barium Springs November 22nd, 1941. He was a member of the largest family at Barium during his lifetime - four boys and two girls.

Richard was beloved of everyone at Barium. He was eager to help, always cheerful, thoroughly dependable. On an occasion several years ago he and his sister just younger than he went on a vacation to a camp. His devotion and protective attitude toward his little sister made him the favorite at the camp. This was such a common trait in Richard's makeup that we at Barium just took it for granted. He was very popular around the families where there were young children - he liked to play with them and protect them. No one could have been missed more from our community than little Richard. The tokens of love, not only from those of us who live here but from all who knew Richard, indicated the deep affection in which he was held. His body rests in the little cemetery at Barium Springs.

Just one month to the day after the death of little Richard Huddleston, death again visited Barium Springs and this time took a faithful colored man who had worked at Barium for over twenty years - Everett Young.

Everett became ill about a week before his death. He was taken to the hospital and became rapidly worse, passing away early in the morning of July 5th. He was buried near his home in Troutman on July 8th. His funeral was attended by more people than could get into the church. Many expressions of admiration and love for this faithful citizen were made. Barium Springs will long miss Uncle Everett.

A number of years ago another faithful colored man, Uncle Abner, died. There was a team that he worked and one of the mules, Abner's favorite in that team refused to eat after his death; for a time it looked like Old Cordy would die. She lost three hundred pounds before she began to pick up. We had a veterinarian to check her over and he could find nothing wrong. We finally decided that the verdict of the other colored men was correct, that Old Cordy was grieving for her master. Well, there is a team of mules at Barium Springs right now that are grieving for the man who drove them for so many years. They will, no doubt, miss for many months the sound of their master's voice.

We all miss Uncle Eb.

Goes to Black Mountain

Barium Springs is losing one of its landmarks, the Barkley family. Mr. Barkley has been the principal of the Grammer School, basketball coach, and assistant football coach for many years. Mrs. Barkley has been supply teacher and during the past year has taught the sixth grade most acceptably.

We had hoped that the Barkley's would stay here until they had forgotten the year they came, or until memory failed, but an opportunity for a larger service presented itself and they moved to The Mountain Orphanage at Black Mountain, N. C. The best wishes and love of every one at Barium goes with this family in their new work. We believe that both Mr. and Mrs. Barkley are particularly well qualified to handle the job to which they are going. It is a Presbyterian Orphanage in the Presbytery of Asheville - a good

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends.
Well here we are bringing you what news we have for this month which isn't much.
Since you last heard from us there has been lots of excitement going on in our cottage about vacations. Most of us have gone and come back or getting ready to go.
Miss Eva Sluder, a former student, has come to be our matron in the dish hall. We all like her and hope she will be with us for some time.
We want to thank Mr. Calhoun for the nice ping-pong set he bought us. We all have fun playing with it.
We are sorry to tell you the sad news of one of our Barium boys, the angels came and took him home with the rising of the sun, he went from us into the presence of his Savior. This boy was Richard Huddleston.
Our news is running short so we will have to say so-long until next month.

LEES COTTAGE

Miss Neely Ford, our matron, is on vacation during the month of July, Miss Alice McConnell from Charlotte is taking her place. She has been teaching us some new games three evenings during the week. She has also been reading King Arthur stories to us and other good stories.
We enjoy going in swimming everyday.
Lots of the boys have enjoyed two weeks vacation this month. We go to camp in August.
We have been picking blackberries almost every day for the past two weeks. Although we have picked 300 gallons. Some have been used to make pies which we have enjoyed. The rest are being canned to use this winter. Along with the blackberries we have had extra visitors in the form of redbugs.
We think Amos Hardy is the best "boss" we have had. He keeps us so busy we don't have time to get into mischief. We hope he will have another good year at Davidson.
— HOWARD COTTAGE

HOWARD COTTAGE

We have been enjoying our swimming pool these hot afternoons. A few of us can swim and several girls have learned to dive this summer. The time from 2:30 to 3:30 P. M. each day just seems to fly.

Miss Richards and Miss Moose have given us two water melon feasts. The babies were going to join us for the last one Wednesday afternoon but the rain forced them to stay at home and us to make a retreat to the back porch.
From the ladies of Circle Number Six of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville we received a generous box of cookies and candy. These were very nice to have when we finished stringing beans and were tired and hungry.
Sixteen girls have returned from their two weeks of vacation. Jackie Liverman has gone to Hickory Dockery Camp. There she will get to learn new games and handicrafts. Jackie will like to ride the ponies which are named, "Beauty", "Lucky Star", "Tony", "White Rose" and "Chocolate Drop".
The few girls who do not get vacations will go to Camp Fellowship. That is always fun.
Miss Jackson, our matron, will soon return from her vacation in Virginia. We have missed her and it will be good to have her home at Howard again.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Well we are back again bringing you the news from our cottage.
Since the last time we wrote you most of our little girls have gone on their vacations. They are back now having as much fun working and playing as much as ever.
A few days ago the truck came backing into our house and sat down 25 beds. We are real proud of them and every time some one comes to see us we just have to show them our new beds.
Our matron has gone on a vacation for a month. We miss her but we hope she is enjoying herself. We have a girl who graduated from Barium now she is working up here this summer. We really like her and will be sorry to see her leave this summer.
We are helping the Howard girls string beans and we really like to do them.
You will see us again next month and we will probably be getting ready for school.
Until next month.

BABY COTTAGE

Our dear friends all over N. C.: We are having a wonderful time playing in the sun.
We are a bit lonely since six of our big brothers moved out to be ready for school and there are only six boys left, but we still have ten little sisters and two big ones and two big mamas to take care of us and believe me they sure do that and make us walk the chalk line too.
Since our last letter to you two little girls have come to live with us. They are real little it makes us big boys feel so big to have three little babies live with us. They are cute and we love them.
Not many of us got to go on a vacation I guess we are just too little but we will move out very soon and then we will get to go.
We have a new matron for the girls and we all love her so much.
Miss Moles came to see us July 4th. We were glad to see her and wish she would come back to live with us.
Ann Wilcox has been gone on a vacation for the past two weeks we are looking for her home today. Florence Andrews, our other big sister will go to camp pretty soon.
We had a watermelon party July 8th for Ruby Truelove and Billy Harrison's birthday. We had a happy time. We wish we could have many more melons to slice they are so good.
We are so glad to see Mr. Johnston back from his vacation but sorry for Mr. Benton to leave us. We miss him so much.
Well bye now.

out of bounds and some of the crops were being destroyed. A few weeks later the worst flood in a century crashed down over these lands and through the center of Missouri.
All through Kansas, while the land was level, it rose and we could begin to tell the difference when we crossed over into Colorado. Then we began to hit dry country and by the time we reached Denver we had almost forgotten about there being such a thing as rain. The approach to Denver is something which a person who has seen it can not soon forget. There are clouds in the sky, but as you approach nearer you see that they begin to separate and then you realize that the lower part of those clouds are snow-covered mountains, and as you get nearer and nearer to Denver they become more and more distinct and you begin to wonder if you are going to have anything to do with those mountains later on. Well, after spending a delightful half-day and night in and around Denver we started out to find out. Up through Thompson Canyon into the Rocky Mountain National Park we went to an elevation of something over 12,000 feet, and there we saw plenty of that snow. We went through places where the snow plows had cut the road through drifts at least twenty feet deep, and we thought it extremely interesting and funny that we would be here on the ninth of June driving through snow drifts. Well, before that day was over it ceased to be too funny because at a place called Rabbit Ear's Pass we ran into some new snow - a snowstorm, believe it or not, and for twenty-six miles we had some of the toughest going on the whole trip. I am sure that if that snow had laid on the ground there would have been at least six inches of it. At times the road was clogged with stalled cars and our faces were very red for a number reasons when we slid into the ditch ourselves. A highway truck pulled us out. We finally pulled into a town called Steamboat Springs and waited for the snow to stop before proceeding further. That was our introduction to the wonderful state of Colorado. We had an experience climbing the mountain that was interesting. As you go up from Denver to the high point in the Rocky Mountain National Park you have some wonderful scenes along the road. We pulled out at one of these places and immediately there was a great scurrying among the rocks just below us, and in a few minutes the chipmunks were sitting all around looking at us. Finally, one sickly looking little one crawled up to where we were standing and stood on its hind legs. We gave it a peanut, and in less time than it takes to tell it there was another and another, and finally the old Daddy Rabbit of them all, seeing that we were harmless tourists, came up and filled his jaws with our peanuts. This was the official recognition that we had that we were tourists - a traveling gravy-train to the inhabitants both four-legged and two-legged. It was not an unpleasant experience and we still have a very kindly feeling toward the little chipmunks who recognized us as harmless travelers ready to give them a hand-out. As fine as Colorado was we eventually pulled out of it and into Utah, and there were more interesting scenes, all climaxed by Salt Lake City and the Great Salt Lake. We spent a good part of a day in Salt Lake City. We listened to lectures on the Mormon Church and soaked up a lot of their history. It happens that this year they are celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of their move to Utah. The state of Utah recognizes this and has some words on their automobile license plates which were the words that Brigham Young said when he first laid eyes on the Salt Lake valley - "This is the place."

this state we bounced into a state that instead of being organized around a Church and its religious revenues from the weaknesses of men - the state of Nevada. The sign that greeted us as we entered this state was something like this: "Nevada - the state that has no ad-valorem tax, no license tax, no gas tax, no sales tax." We happened to know that the revenue of the state is largely derived from gambling machines and liquor sale so you could just feel the difference when you commenced to circulate in Nevada. In some of the other places we had been there was an eating house in the front with a gambling house in the back in Nevada the gambling house was in front and the eating place was in the back and the slot machine were in evidence everywhere we went.
We spent our first night in Nevada at Ely. We did not know anything about the town before we got there, but found it to be one of the most interesting places on our trip. We could spend a lot of time talking about Nevada. I had just read an article by ex-president Herbert Hoover in which he said that the United States was unable to feed the whole world and itself too. He made a rather depressing picture of it. Well, I wonder if he had ever traveled through Nevada. There is enough land there which does not seem to have any inhabitants on it at all that might be irrigated and turned to use that would feed a good part of the world by itself. Nevada, one of the largest states, has less people in it than one good sized North Carolina city.
One of the most remarkable things about traveling in this state is what it does to your eyes. After we entered Nevada at Wendover we entered a valley which appeared to us to be about two miles wide and to have a lake at the lower part of it. We found that that valley was fifteen miles wide and that the lake at the bottom was a mirage. We crossed a small mountain range and into another valley ten miles wide with a mirage lake in the bottom. We crossed so many of these between Wendover and Ely that we lost count. The land in these valleys was practically level. There was no sign of a person or anything alive but prairie dogs and an occasional squirrel. At one place a coyote took a look at us and seemed inclined to trot along beside us just for company, but gave up the job after a little while. We passed only one town in the hundred miles between Wendover and Ely - that was McGill, Nevada, and we could see its lights twenty miles before we reached it. It snowed on us a little as we entered Ely and the next morning it was rather cool. As we left the town we came to a sign in the road which said that nearby was the biggest man-made hole in the world. We had to investigate. It turned out to be a copper mine and we are willing to admit that it was certainly the biggest hole we ever saw, man-made or otherwise, up to that time. It started out to be a mountain but they had mined the copper ore with steam shovels, hauling the waste and dumping it in a valley and now the valley is a mountain and the mountain is a hole in the ground. I would not say how deep that hole is, but there were at least twenty levels with a railroad track on each level. While we were there a train with a crew had started and was about half-way down. We understand that it takes about an hour and a half to go from the top level to the bottom level. Well, we must not stay too long at Ely. Our next stop was at Carson City where we secured a place to stop and then set out to explore Lake Tahoe which lies partly in California and partly in Nevada. We drove completely around this lake - 74 miles. It is probably the biggest spring in the world because no river runs into it and quite a good-sized river runs out of it. I asked one of the people there what became of that river and he said it just disappeared or dried up out in the desert - it did not get anywhere. This is a very deep lake with whole mountain ranges in it and the color of the water is beautiful. In driving around it you see it from highland and from lowland, in places you almost look straight down into it and it is a wonderful place. We think of Lake Waccamaw and White Lake as being pretty good-sized springs, but neither of these would make any impression on Lake Tahoe at all.

The next day we left Carson City and set out for Yosemite Valley. On the way we passed Lake Mono and that is an amazing lake - it has no outlet, it is not salt, it is alkali, the alkali is so strong in it that it sometimes crystallizes on the surface and this makes it look as though it were frozen over in spots. We will have to talk a little geology to explain that lake. When the Rocky Mountains were being pushed up and the things that afterwards became the Yosemite and the Grand Canyon and other places were rising up, part of it slipped and fell back. Geologists call it a "fault", and on one of these places is what is now Lake Mono.

After leaving this place we started to climb and if any of you have an idea that you have done mountain climbing in a car by going up from Old Fort to Black Mountain, or from North Wilkesboro to Sparta, don't say anything about it until you have gone from Lake Mono to Tioga Pass - it is equivalent to climbing up the top of Mount Mitchell and then climbing the same height - it is over 10,000 feet when we get up there and the road is steep and narrow and sometimes there appears to be nothing but air under you. It looked terrifying to us on the way up. I know it must have looked twice as terrifying to anyone coming down. We happened to have the inside track going up and we met a man who would have to pass us on the outside. He just couldn't take it - he pulled over against the wall or precipice and waved us to pass him on the outside which was to his left. So much for that.

We landed in this part of the Yosemite Park - over 10,000 feet. There was snow there. The ranger described the road we would take to get down - he said it was a one-track road and had just been opened for a week, that is the snow had just been cleared off of it, and we would have to look out for up-coming cars as those coming up have the right of way. In other words, if we should be on a narrow place and meet a car coming we would have to climb a tree with our car to let him pass. It sounded dangerous and we would not recommend that twenty-six miles which starts you down as just an everyday pleasure drive. However, it was fun. We got our first glimpses of the deer there although they did not bother us - they did later on when we had to stop twice to let the deer get out of the road. We couldn't understand this at first, but we believe that the deer had been reading the literature that they have in all of the parks informing all of the people who come to the Park that they are not allowed to harm any of the wild animals, so the deer naturally know that we cannot harm them even with an automobile, and they are not in too big a hurry about getting out of the road.

We finally landed down in the Yosemite Valley, climbing down (by road, of course) through the northern side of the gorge. We had a most delightful day there. There are so many things about it that it would take too much space just to tell all the things that we saw and heard in this marvellous place. We learned some geology. We had always looked on Stone Mountain as being a pretty respectable chunk of granite. We had even heard it said that it was the biggest chunk of granite in the world. Well, the Yosemite Park which is the size of a fair-sized county is just one chunk of granite which a little river cut a slice through.

The last thing we enjoyed in the day in the Yosemite was the fire fall. We sat at the base of a cliff and saw the pouring of live coals over a precipice at Glacier Point. It had the appearance of a falls just like it were water - a most impressive sight and something of nightly occurrence in the Yosemite. The place where this went over the top was just a mile and a half from where we sat. The next morning we drove thirty-five miles to reach that point and eat breakfast. Later on in that day we went to the grove of the big trees that are in the Yosemite Park and drove through the big tree that has a highway cut through it and had our pictures made to prove that we had been there.

Then we left the highland and went down into the valley. We had been living up high so long that we had gotten used to the cool and rarefied air, and it made the San Jacin Valley seem oppressively hot and close and we did not spend too much time there as we drove right on to San Francisco.

San Francisco is a magic city and man has added two wonderful things to it - the two bridges. We stayed about equidistant from the two, maybe a little nearer the Golden Gate Bridge. We drove across both bridges several times. They seemed more wonderful every time we went on them. Alcatraz, the most famous prison in the United States, was in the Bay in easy sight of where we stayed. Ann Fayssoux, our daughter, was our hostess and guide in San Francisco and the ten days we spent there were busy, delightful days. The Golden Gate Park, The Cliff House, the cable cars, Fort Mason, Treasure Island, Oakland, Berkeley, the ferry over to Berkeley, the fisherman's wharf, Nob Hill, Chinatown. A too brief summary and not nearly inclusive enough. One of the most wonderful things about San Francisco is the intense loyalty of everybody we met. I took the car to a garage for a check-up. The man in charge was originally from Cleveland, Ohio. I discussed with him some of the difficulties of an Easterner understanding the traffic regulations in San Francisco. He said, "They are the worst of any place in the world, but if you stay here long enough you will get used to it but if you stay here that long you will never be able to leave the blankety-blank place you will be so in love with it then that no other place on earth will satisfy you."

While in San Francisco we had a meal at the famous Omar Khayyam: we saw a show at one of the big opera houses: we went to the Standard Oil Hour with its big symphony orchestra: we went to see the Ice Follies - the very tops in entertainment: we rode the ferry to Oakland. Leila and David Morris went to Sacramento for a side-trip. We spent a half a day in the Zoo until the monkeys were almost ready to claim kin with us, and we left San Francisco feeling that we had not begun to see all that was to be seen. Leila went off to Los Angeles for a day, flying down and arranging to meet us at Bakersfield, so she missed one of the most delightful days of that trip. That was when Lt. Eston Lackey took me over the Navy Yard, into a submarine, all through a big airplane carrier, and all over Treasure Island which now belongs to the Navy. We saw the wreck of the airplane carrier, Independence, which was one of the smashed up vessels in the Bikini bomb test. We met Eston's wife, baby and little step-daughter - a delightful family. On Sunday we had a visit from Betty Lou Hooten who has grown taller and prettier than she even was at Barium.

On Monday, June 23rd, we bade farewell to San Francisco and journeyed down the peninsula through the hottest, driest country I think I have ever seen. We followed a river, the Salina; and it had big bridges across it both for railroads and for highways, but not a drop of water in it. As a matter of fact, in that part of California there is far more oil than there is water and yet the country is low and the production of crops is tremendous - all irrigated. Bakersfield is the center of the California oil fields and when you leave there to go East they really talk of your going on to the desert. We thought we had been in dry country before but we did not know the half of it. Most people carry an extra supply of water, not only to drink but to feed the automobile, as the water in the radiator usually boils out before you are half way across. Our little car behaved nicely, however, and we did not have to pamper it but that thermos bottle that was so thoughtfully given us when we started our trip saved our lives many a time. We would fill it up every time we stopped and drink that cool ice water between stops.

We finally left California and went back into Nevada to Los Vegas and then to Boulder City and the Hoover Dam, spending the night there and having a most interesting day going through that big enterprise. You go down an elevator from the top of the dam down to the level of the powerhouse. A guide takes you down and explains everything to you. I won't attempt to do that here except for the wonderful feeling that man had within the last ten years conquered that Colorado River and put it to use. Before that it was a destructive thing, destroying more than it helped. Now it not only yields electricity but it has stopped flood danger and supplies irrigation water for enormous sections of the country and water for the city of Los Angeles. Before we arrived there we had begun to realize the absolute importance of water to that section of our country.

After our day at Boulder we drove to the Grand Canyon, and there had another thrilling day. Mrs. Johnston and Leila gave me an extra thrill in paying my way on an airplane which spent about thirty minutes over the center of the Grand Canyon. You know this Canyon is so big that you cannot see the river from the top - you know that the river has cut the Canyon and you want to see it, but it is hidden by the trench that it has dug but from an airplane you can see it plainly and it is a wonderful thing. There we had another lesson in geology which was most interesting. It made us believe that the Yosemite was just a recent occurrence - that thirty million years was all it took to do the job - whereas the Grand Canyon took at least a billion and a half.

From the Grand Canyon we had hoped to spend the night at Flagstaff, Arizona, but were unable to get a place to stay so we missed several interesting things - Sunset Mountain and the Meteor Crater near Winslow but we might have spent too much time if we had lingered. We went on to the Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert and the reason people don't talk about those things so much is because nobody would believe them. We brought back a little piece of petrified wood to prove that there was such a thing as the Petrified Forest, but there is no way to prove anything about the Painted Desert. We were still passing rivers that had no water in them and the first time we commenced to find water was when we reached Albuquerque. There the Rio Grande at this time of year has a little water in it, but we understand that it dries up by midsummer.

Oklahoma, Arizona, and New Mexico are wonderful states. We won't attempt to describe Texas although we went clear across the Panhandle without having to spend the night in it. We did not see enough to really know about Texas. This country through there is another great wheat section and we hit it right at the time when combines were in action on every hand. The grain elevators were busy and the roads were full of trucks hauling wheat to these elevators. Certainly going through Kansas and coming back through Oklahoma and Texas, a person could not be afraid of running out of bread. We spent a night in Albuquerque, and our next night in Elk City, Oklahoma. In the morning there I turned my radio on to get the news, and what should I get but the "Voice of Carolina" - it was the Briarhoppers from WBT in Charlotte - and didn't they sound good! Claude Casey, Fred Kirby and all the others with Kirk Webster announcing. The station tuned in on was Wichita Falls. This was Sunday morning, June 29th. We journeyed on, stopping for church at Oklahoma City and then on to Fort Smith for the night.

The womenfolk of the party had pretty well had their way about what we should look at and what we should miss, but I was determined to show them some North Carolina doings that would at least compare with things like Boulder Dam and the big bridges in San Francisco, so we set Fontana Dam as the place we would stop last. On leaving Fort Smith we decided to see some of the Tennessee Valley doings. We dropped down into Mississippi and spent the night at a little town called Iuka; it is the county seat and is about the size of Troutman and full of good, friendly folks. They told us a lot about the Pickwick Landings Dam and the other Dams so that the next morning we were prepared to enjoy seeing the Wilson Dam at Florence and driving across the Wheeler Dam and soaking up a lot of information about the various dams that had made the old red dangerous Tennessee River a series of lakes.

Forty-two years ago I was in Sheffield, Alabama. At that time the Tennessee River could not be used for anything. It was a danger in flood time and it was too shallow in dry times to support any ships. It was a menace. Now it not only furnishes navigation all the way to Knoxville, Tennessee, but it protects that whole land from floods and helps to control the Ohio River so that it ceases to be a menace from Paducah down. We spent the entire day sight-seeing in the valley, finally arriving at Chattanooga and getting a bird's eye view of the city from Lookout Mountain. We spent the night there in a delightful Motor Court and then set out for N. C. We passed through a section of country which is slowly being brought back to life. It is around Ducktown, Tennessee, where there is a copper smelter. For years the fumes from the copper refinery were allowed to settle on the country which destroyed all the vegetation - not a living piece of grass, tree or shrub remained, and the land washed away. Now the TVA is getting trees and grass started back on that land.

We passed some wonderful dams and finally arrived at Fontana. Fontana is the fourth highest dam in the world. It dams up the little Tennessee, the Nantahala, and the Tuckesegee rivers, and creates a lake over thirty miles long. After a delightful day and night there, Mrs. Johnston and Leila took a boat and proceeded up the lake to Bryson City. I took the car and traveled sixty-five miles around the mountains to meet them there. Then on to Montreat and home by nine o'clock, and the nearer we came to Barium Springs the better the air seemed to feel and the happier we became. We came back with memories of wonderful things. No longer do we think of the United States as an old, settled country. It is a young vigorous country and we are just now commencing to do things with it. When you look at the Grand Canyon and the Yosemite and the other marvels of nature it makes you feel mighty small; then when you see things like Boulder Dam, the big bridges in San Francisco, and the miracle that the TVA has accomplished, you are grateful that God has permitted his little creatures, men, to do things like that. All of these things have been accomplished within the last fifteen years, and there are so many more things to accomplish. For instance, as we crossed the Mississippi on the way home all the land above us was in distress. We crossed at Memphis, but at St. Louis and all above there they were suffering a flood - a flood such as used to devastate the Tennessee Valley and the lower reaches of the Colorado. Now those things are under control - surely within the next few years men will be able to control the Missouri and the Mississippi and the Ohio and other lesser streams.

Another thing that impressed us was the kindness of people. We don't think we came across an ill-tempered person on the whole trip. They were busy - sometimes they were inclined to charge too much for the things that we needed - but, all in all, they met us with a smile, served us well, and waved us on as good neighbors. We crossed state lines - many of them - going into twenty states altogether and only once were we stopped - that was for an inspection to see if we were carrying any fruit. Every time we passed one of these lines we could not help but think of what it meant in other countries to cross from one commonwealth to another where passports, visas, and all those sort of things were necessary. Surely God has wonderfully blessed our nation.

We attended worship in Loveland, in San Francisco, and in Oklahoma City, twice in big churches, once in a post chapel, and once in a little church where the congregation was so small that the pastor met each member at the door when they came in, gave them a hymnbook, and carried on a conversation with different members all during the service. There was real religion there and you could feel it, even though the church was small and the congregation was few in number.

The best part of the trip was in getting back to Barium and seeing how well things had gone along in my absence. I really believe that it did Barium more good to be rid of me for a time than it did me to be rid of Barium. That's an idea! Don't talk it too much, however!

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

I Cor. 12:31, But Covet earnestly the best gifts.

Dominant Desires

We all have desires - Those desires are mingled. We have good desires and bad desires. They often conflict. That was the experience of the Apostle Paul. He says, "For the good that I would I do not, but the evil that I would not I do."

There are sometimes conflict between desires which are both good. The Apostle Paul had a desire to remain on earth for the good of his work. He also had a desire to depart and be with Christ.

Now the desires which are strongest and so control us we call dominant desires.

Dominant Desires tend to attain their objects.

Little can be accomplished in life without an earnest desire.

Robert Burns the poet did much for his country Scotland. He tells of the dominant desire of his childhood.

"E'en then a wish (I mind its power)

A wish that to my latest hour Shall strongly heave my breast,

That I for poor auld Scotland's sake

Some useful plan or book could make

Or sing a song at least."

A greater Scotchman was John Knox. He changed the life of Scotland; gave a plan for public schools established a Church government; gave a tremendous impression upon the world so that his ideals had much to do with establishing the great institutions in America. The great burden of John Knox was uttered in his prayers, "Lord give me Scotland or I die."

The great Dominant Desire of Christ he expressed in these words, "In the volume of the book it is written of me I have come to do Thy will O my God". Do we wonder that from the excellent glory (Continued On Page Three)

Vacation Hangover

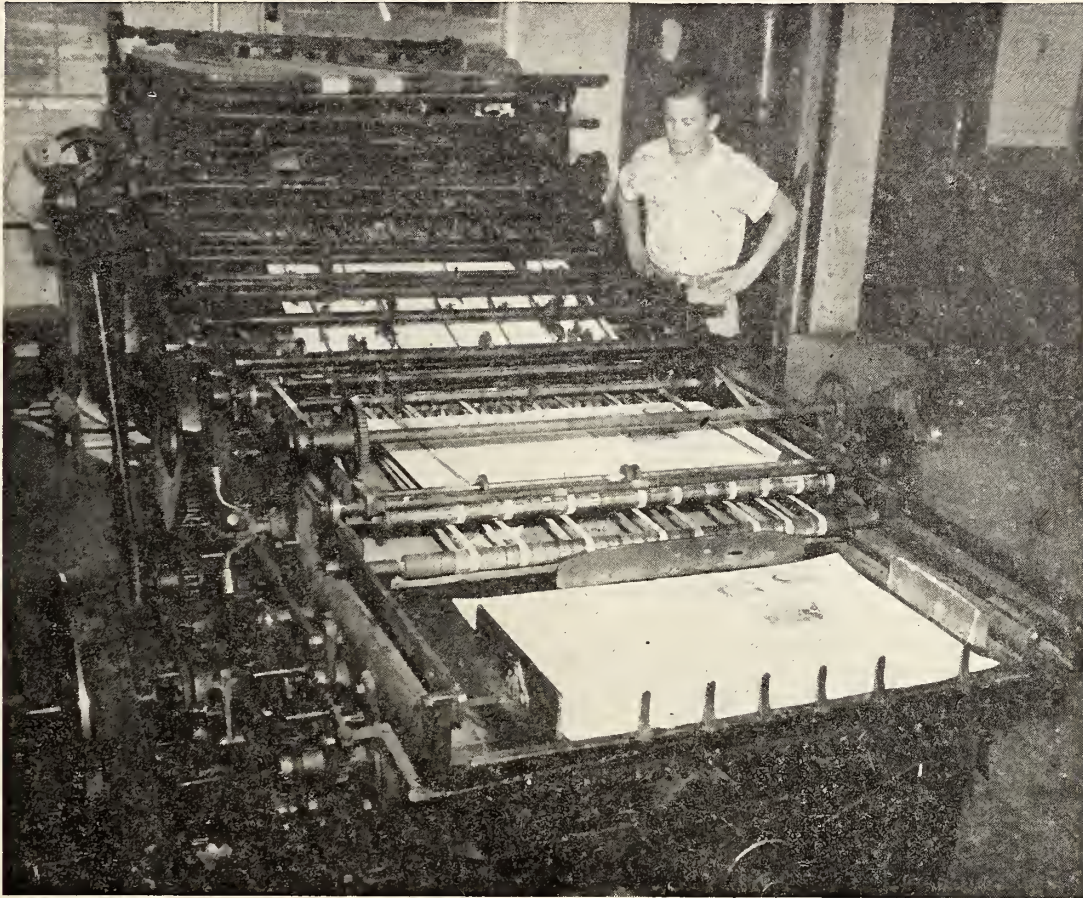

(The Pleasant Kind)

The account of our vacation trip to the West Coast brought so many letters that I feel I must make some acknowledgment in this paper. At first I attempted to acknowledge all the letters that came in but, believe it or not, too many of them came in for that, so this is a public acknowledgment and thanks to those who wrote in or called in about that article in last month's Messenger.

It is most gratifying to know that so many people even read the Messenger, and still more gratifying that so many people are interested in the movements of us here at Barium. Many people wrote in who had made a trip something like that. They had stopped at some of the same places and the article stirred up pleasant memories. Letters from others told of planning to make such a trip and they were inclined to follow the same routing that we used to such good profit. One man wrote in even threatening to enter suit since our description of the trip had created so much enthusiasm in his family that he saw he was going to have to send or take them on that same trip and it was going to cost him a lot of money. He felt that he had a justifiable suit against me for stirring up all that enthusiasm! Of course, that was all in fun.

There is nothing we like to do more than to meet old friends and to make new ones, and this trip was so prolific in both of those - not only the trip itself but the tell (Continued On Page Three)

It Prints The Barium Messenger

The pictures which we present in the Messenger are usually of people. This time it is a picture of a machine at work - a very important machine - it prints the Messenger for you every month. Ordinarily, it is a right good-natured bunch of metal, but there are times when it is just as cantankerous as flesh and blood.

There was a time when the Messenger was quite a young publication and the type was set by hand and printed on a hand-fed press. It took a lot of doing to get it ready but the mailing list was not so large, so we managed to get it out on time every month - that is most every month. One time a boy was carrying the forms to the press and stumped his toe and dropped the type which had been set up for one whole page. The echoes of the groan that went up in the printing office still resound at Barium. That was a calamity of the first water. The type was pied - it had to be picked up and separated and then reset, and such a time that turned out to be.

As time went on a linotype machine was put in and that made the type-setting easier, but it did not make the printing any easier, and as the mailing list grew from five thousand to ten thousand to fifteen thousand and finally to twenty thousand it was quite a job to get that paper out. Then we installed this completely automatic press. You are supposed to pile the paper on top of it and it feeds itself, prints the paper and deposits it on a platform. All you have to do is to pick that paper up again and put it on top and let it run through and print the other side, just as simple as that. Well, that sounds nice and the boy can just stand there and look on as the paper goes through when everything is working right, but there are some five hundred different things that can go wrong in this piece of machinery. The paper can be too dry and get static in it, or the ink can act bad, or the feeding apparatus can get out of fix, or the paper sticks to the rollers. Mr. Kyles, who is the head of the printing department is entirely bald on top of his head. He is the only member of his family who has lost his hair. It did not fall out - it was pulled out just a little bit at a time when this big machine would take a notion to have a bad day. However, Mr. Kyles still has some hair left and an enormous amount of patience, and as a result this machine behaves nicely most of the time. Once a month it prints enough Messengers for a mailing list of twenty-five thousand. It prints our Annuals, and does a lot of other special work in the course of the year. It is like the little girl with the curl right in the middle of her forehead, when it is good it is very, very good, and when it is bad it is horrid.

School at Barium To Open Aug. 28

By the time you receive this, school at Barium Springs will have started and all the young people will be busy with their algebra, geography, reading, writing and arithmetic, and the grown folks will be busy at their various jobs. In the summer time this process is reversed somewhat. Many of the teachers go to summer school, and then there are various schools for the rest of us too. Down at Chapel Hill there is held every year an Institute for orphanage executives. We have been represented at that Institute for the last three years and found it very helpful. This year two of us took in the week designed for the executives. Some twenty-three orphanage superintendents were present. Many things were discussed and experiences told which will result, we hope, in all of the orphanages represented doing a better job. We hope that in our own case, certainly, we may (Continued On Page Three)

Dr. A. T. Jamison

On August 9th in Greenwood, South Carolina, Dr. A. T. Jamison passed away. Dr. Jamison was eighty-one years old, and yet to those of us who knew him he was so vigorous, and alert, and as interested in orphanage affairs as when we first knew him twenty-five or more years ago.

Dr. Jamison was the superintendent of Connie Maxwell Orphanage for forty-six years. Just a year ago he laid down the work of superintendent, turning it over to a man who had grown up under him as a student, as an assistant, as a co-superintendent, and finally as full superintendent.

Dr. Jamison was one of those people who dared to be different. He was not tied down by convention or practices which most people are afraid to break. If a thing appeared good, although it were different and new, he would try it, and as a result the institution which he administered was a leader for many (Continued On Page Three)

Many New Faces Seen on the Campus

By the time this issue of The Messenger reaches you school will be starting and all the vacationers will be back at Barium. That means not only children but teachers and workers. There will be some old friends missed - the Barkleys, the Bentons, Miss Burroughs and Miss Greene. We are going to miss all of them. In their places will be Mr. Archie Calhoun and his wife who will both have work in the Grammar School; Miss Ernestine Cullom will replace Miss Burroughs. Miss Cullom substituted here two years ago at Rumble Hall and I am sure most of us here at Barium remember her most pleasantly. Miss Margaret Ritchie will take over Miss Greene's work. Miss Dorothy Deal will be Miss Carpenter's assistant. Then there will be some additions to our staff of matrons. Miss Nell Richards has taken work at the Baby Cottage since school was out and she will be new to many of (Continued On Page Three)

MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENT

In this article I shall try to inform you of the maintenance department, its groups and their accomplishments this summer.

This is the largest working department at Barium. It is subdivided into three groups, all of which are under the general supervision of Mr. John W. Ervin. The three subdivisions are as follows: The Campus group, the plumbing and Electrical group and the Carpenter group.

I shall take each group, beginning with the smallest, and give you some idea of their work.

The plumbing group is composed of four high school boys, their foreman, and a boiler attendant who are in order named: Herbert Good, J. D. Everett, Ray Clark, Mason Traywick, Mr. Isaac White (director) and Walter Williams, boiler attendant. This group is in charge of all plumbing and electrical work on the campus. They are kept busy repairing bath rooms, fixing faulty wiring, broken irons, supplying the campus with light bulbs and other electrical appliances. This summer's work has been composed largely of installing plumbing in the chicken farm attendants' house, wiring the new shop and moving in, cleaning the water tank. They are right now in the midst of putting a new wall in the cold storage. This group is one the campus could not do without. They are on call twenty-four hours a day, and on all holidays. The campus group. This group has twenty nine boys on it, and is directed by Mr. R. E. Jackins. It is more an occupational group; formed to give boys from 9-12 years of age something to keep them busy and prepare them for heavier work.

The third and last group is the Carpenter's group. It has the largest number of high school boys and older men than any of the other groups in the department.

three types of work; Constructive, destructive, and cleaning up. First we have built a nice dual bus garage for our two new buses.

Another item we are now working on is our warehouse. It is to the right of the shop, and will be a storage house for our lumber.

Mr. Johnston's roof has been painted and now plans are in progress to do the same to Annie Louise Cottage.

These groups, although separated in name are not independent of the other groups. Each group is in constant need of the other, and by cooperating, we gain a smooth working department.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Here we are back again to tell you every thing that has happened since last month.

All of our little girls are back from their vacations and all of us had a very nice time. After we came back our matron and two big sisters got us ready to spend a whole week at our camp.

We started to camp Monday right after dinner and got down there about 2 o'clock. The first thing we did was to put lipstick and finger nail polish all over us.

Our flower garden is real pretty now. We have flowers all over the house.

We have one little new girl to live with us. Her name is Bernice Kuykendall. We are very glad to have her live with us.

—Annie Louise Girls

BABY COTTAGE

Dear Friends, So much has happened to us this month we hardly know where to begin.

First of all, Mama Nelson has been on her vacation for a whole month. We missed her very much, but Miss Cloyce Moose was a very good substitute.

We have been swimming lots of times this month when the weather was good and hot. We are all crazy about the water and some of us boys think we already know how to swim.

Miss Richards, our matron upstairs for the girls, and Miss Moose gave us a birthday party and we invited Mr. Johnston and Miss Carpenter.

Our two big sisters - Florence Andrews and Anne Wilcox - are out at camp this week. Elsie Vest and Callie Dunn are helping keep us nice and clean.

All of us girls have had a short hair cut and you should see us now. Some of us hated to part with our curls, but we all look and feel very cool now.

Wonder if everybody has had as much watermelon as we have had lately? We are beginning to lose count of the number we have had now, but we can tell you they all have been very, very good!

Linda Lee Byrd, our next to the youngest baby, is just about to out weigh us all. She is two years old and weighs forty pounds.

We have been to the movies several times this month in our big yellow bus. It is just lots of fun to go riding in it and especially when we get to go to the show.

Well folks, this is all the news for this time. Look for us again next month when we will be back to tell you more about our good times.

Until then - so long.

—The Babies

LEES COTTAGE

Vacation is over and we are looking forward to starting back to school.

All the boys in our cottage went to camp for a week and we sure did have fun. We went swimming twice a day and some of us went boat-riding.

We enjoyed having Miss McConnell with us during July, hope she can come back next summer.

Charles and Ray Smith's mother visited them Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Beard and Mr. and Mrs. West came with her. They brought us ham and chicken and we had a picnic supper.

We have been working at the office, fixing the yard. Miss Carpenter is going to put out some pansy plants.

We will be practicing football soon and then we will have fun.

Will have more to tell you next month.

—Lees Boys

INFIRMARY

Here we are bringing you the news from Sick Bay.

We have all returned from vacations and camp. The seniors were in charge of camp this year and we want them to know we had a wonderful time.

The men of our cottage are back to live with us again and we are very glad to have them.

Louise Harwell had a visit from her father and grandmother Saturday.

We still have Melva, Marie, Hazel and Louise to nurse the sick.

We are having a few sick people mostly sore throats and sore ears, nothing really serious.

Well guess we will say so long until next month.

— Marie Andrews Melva Powell

SEWING ROOM

Hello Dear Friends, We have just returned from a two weeks leave of absence to bring you the latest news from the Sewing Room.

Mrs. Smith has just returned from a two weeks rest period which we think she deserved very much after struggling through the summer with us.

All of us had the privilege of being councilors at Camp Fellowship this year. We enjoyed ourselves very much and we hope the children did even more.

Lu. Stricklin is walking around with her head in the clouds. The reason, too many long distance calls from the air corps boy lately.

Sadie Buie is busy collecting pictures from the sports page of the newspaper. That's the reason she hasn't been sewing so much.

We never see "Ernie" Baldwin at night. We wonder why? Everyone is guessing.

Bradly Manus and Lu. Strick have been "feuding and fighting" over who they were going to invite to the Virginia Hall Social.

Betty Jo Smith is wondering if a certain team will enter the basketball tournament this year. Kinda early, aren't you Jo?

Peggy Coffey has been hearing from a Marine lately, so we hear. What are you holding back on us, Pug?

Betty Coffey is busy thinking about the Kentucky Derby and a horse named Don. She doesn't think he's much of a horse though.

Va. Presnell has been dressing up even to come to work lately. Wonder why? Could it be some one is next door?

The people on the second camp all ran out to greet Pearl when she came to visit us. The gravey certainly looked better. It looked more like gravey than it did the day before. Isn't that right, Lu?

If we don't stop it'll take the whole Barium Messenger for us alone. What would everyone else do? Look for us next month.

— The Sewing Room Girls

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks, Drop by sometime and see our house, it has been varnished and it looks so pretty.

We went to camp August fourth and we had the best time. When we had to come back some of the girls almost cried.

We have a new girl at our cottage, her name is Catherine Kuykendall.

All of our girls went on a vacation except four, their names are Shirley Shaw, Betty Lou Johnson, Shirley Jean Byrd and Carol Jean Andrews. They went to the show with the Baby Cottage and rode around with Miss Carpenter.

Miss Moose is coming over to live with us this winter. We are glad to have her.

We have six music students, Louise Bradshaw, Shirley Byrd, Linda Inman, Lois Dellinger Margaret Hucks and Larua Jane Craig. We can hardly wait for school to start.

—The Bean Stringers

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Everybody,

August is always a month of happiness for the Synod boys. The first week was spent at Camp Fellowship under the watchful eyes of Miss Dewie Buie and it was an event that we will always cherish and we have resolved to be good "Little Men" so we will be allowed to go again next year.

Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman our big sisters went to the second week of camp, reporting much fun and a most satisfactory rest and recreation period.

Mrs. Arrowood gave a see-saw to the boys of Synod's and Lees Cottage and we sure do thank her for it. The board is just a bit short (all the 26 little boys can't get on it at the same time) so we left it out in the rain hoping it will grow.

We are indebted to Miss Alice McConnell for the lovely book, to be used in our devotional period. "Three Minutes With God." We remember her kindness and stories she told us.

The following conversation was overheard by our matron:

George Truelove: "Miss McConnell you tell stories so good, you must be Uncle Remus."

Jimmy Campbell: "George, she can't be Uncle Remus."

George: "Maybe she is Mrs. Remus."

Jimmy Campbell, Walter Plyler, and George Truelove all had birthdays and enjoyed the traditional spanking, George is still laughing.

We, Nat Craig, David Reid, Melvin Cannon, Richard Blackburn, Ralph Huddleston, Donnie Harrison, and Larry Terry have started our fall football training, by eating our food well so in eight years we shall be able to be on the varsity team.

The wiggles signing off. Good-bye.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, Here we are again, all back from vacations and camp, ready to start school again which starts August 28th.

August 11, we went to Camp Fellowship to spend a week. The seniors and Miss Carpenter were in charge, and oh boy! what a good time they did give us.

Mrs. Craig, our upstairs matron has come back from her vacation and we are glad to have her back Mrs. Hobgood, our dining room

The 1947 Meeting of Synod

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Synod met this year at Flora Macdonald College, and evidently the memory of the delightful meeting at Barium in '44 still lingered in the minds of the commissioners because they honored me by electing me Moderator. This was the first time that I was elected commissioner to attend Synod since the meeting here in '44. There can be no doubt but that it was the splendid way in which Synod was served while here that brought about this election, and not from any excellence on my part.

The Synod was on its best behaviour. No controversial matters were brought up. The actual business of moderating the assembly appeared easier than at any time in recent years, and the final hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was sung with enthusiasm, and I believe without any mental reservations.

Next year Synod meets at Montreat. This is the first time, we believe, that it has met out of the bounds of the Synod. Montreat is just twelve miles beyond the extreme limit of the North Carolina Synod. Some day we will have them back at Barium. We hope we will have a new Church for them to meet in when they do meet here.

Alumni News

We have had a number of visitors on the campus this month:

Wilma Jessup, Paul Burney, Donald Pettus, Jack Caldwell, Mott Price, Pleas Norman, Billy Dunn, Ray Huddleston, Earl Adams, Gene and Thelma Shannon of High Point, Clarence Robards and his wife and Elizabeth Robards, Bennie Gregory, Nina Berryhill, Lucile Smith and Hannah Price.

Marley Sigmon is coaching football and teaching at the Mills Home, Thomasville.

Dennis Williams came by to see us. He is buying and selling cars and at present is in Ashe County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mosley (Ida Bell Dunn) of Laurens, S. C. were visitors on the campus.

We were glad to have Ruth Bobbitt and her family visit us, also Robert Blue, his wife and two children.

Born to Clarence Clarke and his wife on September 6th a son, Joe Stephen, weight 9 pounds.

Toni DeLancey of Charlotte spent the week-end at Barium.

Born to Wallace and Birdie (Whitener) Twombly, at Davis Hospital, September 17, a daughter, Ruth Elizabeth.

Fred Cole is spending some time in Statesville with Ed. He has been away for two years. He will be stationed in California at the termination of his leave.

Mary Ann McCormick was a visitor at Barium.

Stanley and William Smith and Janie Smith Linchium made a visit to Barium.

Home-coming Day Will Be October 17th

Home-coming Day is drawing near. It will be on October 17th and part of the attraction for the day will be a game of football with Lexington. We hope more of the old-timers will come in early in the morning of the 17th. We count on them (that is these early comers) to help at the pep meeting which we always have on the morning of Home-coming Day. It does something to our football team and they seem to play better ball that afternoon than in any other game of the year. They will need encouragement like that this year because the team which they will meet is one of the strongest on our schedule, one which has already beaten Statesville 35-0.

However, the football game is not the biggest event of the day. It is getting back together and renewing friendships and making plans for the future. Several days ago we had a visit from an old-timer, Laxton Sherman. He was one of the very first children entered after the founding of the Orphanage, and was part of that family which was living in the old hotel when it burned.

Home-coming days were not so well attended during the war and that was understood. Now, we are looking for more and more of those (Continued On Page Two) Hebrews 8:5: See that thou make all things according to the pattern showed thee in the Mount.

PATTERNS

When Moses was to have the Tabernacle built God told him just how He wanted it built and gave him patterns for every part. He gave him patterns for the walls; the courts; the altars; the tables; the lamps; candlesticks; everything. And God told Moses to use those patterns and make each part according to pattern.

All well made articles are made by pattern.

I used to go into a large iron foundry. They had hundreds of patterns for all kinds of metal ware. I have watched the workmen as they select a pattern, say of a part of a stove, put it in a hinged frame, fill around it with moist sand. Then, lifting the frame take out the pattern, leaving the imprint in the sand. Then they would pour in molten metal and the molten metal would fill every crack left by the pattern. So when the metal cooled and hardened it would be exactly like the pattern.

Barium Defeat Mooresville 6 - In Season's Op

Barium's 1947 football season opened on the afternoon of September 19th. The Mooresville team was the visitor, and along with the team came Mooresville's splendid high school band and the biggest crowd of rooters that we have had in many a day. The afternoon was hot but the game started out as a fast proposition and it was good throughout, although in the second half the heat slowed both teams down somewhat. Barium's lone score was made by Jack Clark, and in that second quarter it was Jack who did most of the ball carrying. The backfield was composed of Jack Clark and Jack Mangum, veterans; Charles Barrett, a veteran end but playing his first game in the backfield and Paul Barnes playing his first game as a varsity player. In the line Mason Traywick played his first conference game and stayed through the entire four quarters. The whole team did surprisingly well. Mooresville brought an experienced, well-coached team. They showed evidences of power and played a splendid defensive game. They will be heard from later in the season. This game with Mooresville is the only conference game that Barium plays in September.

A Committee Meeting

The Board of Regents usually has an Executive Committee meeting during the summer, and one of the things that was supposed to be looked after was the purchase of furniture for Lees Cottage living room and a few other things. Well, the summer seemed so full of so many things that this meeting was never held, but a special committee visited Barium on September 22nd and unanimously approved the purchase of this furniture. So in a short time the Lees boys can be as proud of having visitors as the Howard girls are at the present time.

A number of years ago we had contests in housekeeping and each month some visitors would be asked to inspect all of the cottages and to award the prize for a month. The prize was the privilege of flying a particular flag at that cottage for a month. The practice was discontinued owing to the difficulty of getting people to do the judging. We believe that if it were in practice today the Lees boys would rate high, although the competition would be mighty keen.

IT IS CHRIST OR NOBODY

I have looked the whole planet over, and I see no man but Jesus only who is able to take away the sin of the world. I have sat at the feet of the world's crowned religious leaders, and I have seen all the great religions in their homes, and I know that it is Christ or nobody. No one else has the slightest chance of winning the homage of the entire human race. More and more, he is what he was to Saul of Tarsus—"The image of the invisible God." More and more, he is to me what he was to John the Beloved—"God made manifest in the flesh." More and more, he is to me what he himself claimed to be, the eternal Son of the living God. To know him in establishing on this earth the kingdom of righteousness and peace and joy, this is what makes my life more and more worth living.

PREJUDICES

By Russell H. Conwell

There is such a thing as being insanely conscientious. It is a kind of unnatural false form, an imitation, a sort of counterfeit of real conscientiousness. With such people their prejudices are often their conscience. If a man be prejudiced against a thing, his false conscience will immediately arise and condemn it to be wrong. Did you ever study human nature enough to see how many good Christian people get a prejudice, and try to support it by the Scriptures? Everything is wrong against which the man happens to hold a prejudice. Every thing is wrong which that Christian man or woman dislikes. If he thinks it is wrong for himself to go to church in one cut of clothing, it is wrong for another person to go in that style of suit. If he dislikes anything in social life, then it is wrong for any person to do that thing. We find it also exhibited in the tendency of some excellent Christian people to think all religion must be sour and gloomy. The person's conscience persuades him to feel that nothing is religion unless it is dark. He is not sensitive to anything that is cheerful, not sensitive to anything that is beautiful. All things to him work together to bring gloom if they work together for good. Hence his religion is all conscientious dullness against everything hopeful, against all brightness and cheer." — Ex.

The salesman was demonstrating an old army jeep to a prospect when suddenly the jeep hit a bump and the prospect's wife was thrown out of the back seat.

The salesman glanced over his shoulder. "And the jeep has many other advantages over an automobile," he cautioned in his sales talk.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., OCTOBER 1

No. 12

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME began its work when some motherless children were found whose father had deserted them. Since that time the HOME has ministered to over two thousand dependent children.

The HOME undertakes not only to give the children under its care a subsistence, but to give a normal life of study, work and play, so that they may live while here a happy life and be fitted for usefulness in the Church and community.

The cost of all supplies and services is constantly increasing. We are sure you will not be unmindful of that in making your THANKSGIVING OFFERING.

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C.

WILL YOU GIVE ONE DAY'S INCOME TO YOUR HOME FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN?

The High Cost of Orphanage Financing And the Thanksgiving Offering

Eleven months in the year we try to bring to you in The Messenger the news of the Home, interesting events in the lives of the individual children here, interesting things that happen to us as an institution, the doings of our alumni, and in all of these months we try to keep in the background family matters, such as paying the grocer, meeting the payroll, etc.

But in this one issue which comes to you just before Thanksgiving we have to let our hair down and really tell you some of the things that we face. We only have to go back a few years and compare prices with those that we have to pay now and it does not seem like we are living in the same country. As an extreme example let us tell you about coal. Fifteen years ago we installed stokers in order to utilize the very cheapest grade of coal which we bought at that time for fifty cents a ton. The railroads brought it to us for half freight rate, altogether the coal cost us at our boiler less than $2.00 a ton. Now we pay a full rate and $5.10 a ton at the mines for this same identical coal. We have put in coal-saving devices but our coal bill is more than doubled, of course.

All the clothes that we buy and such food as we have to purchase has increased in like manner, although not to that extent. We are raising a larger proportion of our food than ever before and we have been blessed with bountiful crops. As we write this our barns are full of hay, our cribs are full of corn, we have enough pigs and steers to guarantee us our meat rations for the winter, our apple house is filling up with apples, and potatoes and other things are being stored

Report of Barium Alumni Association

The Barium Springs Alumni Association met at 1 P. M. in the Grammer School Auditorium. Approximately fifty members attended and paid dues for the coming year.

The meeting was called to order by the president; minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, treasurer's report heard, and a Thanksgiving offering ($36.56) taken.

Following the report of the committee on disposition of the Memorial Fund, it was voted that the Alumni Association would buy the pulpit furniture for the new church. Reid Brown will continue as treasurer of this Memorial fund, and he urges that each of us help him get a complete and up-to-date mailing list. Additional contributions to the Fund are expected, and it is hoped that when the time comes to spend it there will be

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Isaiah 38:16 - O Lord, by these things men live.

In this text we have the expression of one of the greatest and best kings Judah ever had, King Hezekiah, in the greatest moment of his life. King Hezekiah's life had been spared fifteen more years. He had been drawn back from the jaws of death by the mercy of God. So he meditates upon the true meaning and values of life. The light grows brighter and we hear him say Lord, by these men live.

Hezekiah had been very sick and in that time of trouble had found that men live by prayer. He had prayed to live and God had heard his prayer and granted his request.

Home-coming Day at Barium Springs.— Everything Fine But the Weather and the Score

We used to have Home-coming Day in November and it always rained. Then we moved it back to October and for several years we have had perfectly clear beautiful weather. We did not always win our ball games during that pretty weather but outside of that the Home-coming was perfect. This year we had a return of the rain and it looked like a lot of our fun was going to be rained out. It rained so much in the morning that we could not have our outdoor picnic dinner - we had to have that inside. At the half at the football game it really did pour, but the crowd hung on and witnessed a very good football game with Barium staying on the short end of the score.

Barium Children Take Mountain Trip

Several weeks ago some of our larger girls had occasion to make a trip to Morganton. They were so impressed with the mountains on either side of the road as you go to Morganton that we thought it would be a good idea to let them see some real mountains. Mrs. Bryant first conceived the plan and it has worked out so well that she deserves a trophy of some kind. Here's how it worked out. On Saturday morning around nine o'clock a bus load of about 32, a station wagon of 10, and a carload of 5 left Barium Springs on Highway 21. They journeyed up through Elkin, Roaring Gap, took a quick look around the grounds of Grey-stone Inn, then on to the Parkway, and along the Parkway to Wildcat Rocks where the party stopped for a weiner roast and for a ramble. Then back home by route 16 and North Wilkesboro, arriving

People began coming in to Home-coming on the afternoon before. Maude Inman and her sister, Anna, were the first to come and then Anna Turner came in. Incidentally, Anna brought lots of folks presents and the one she gave us was the most beautiful of the lot. By ten o'clock there were so many that we had to reserve a special place at our pep meeting for them. The boys in college were particularly in evidence. There were six from Carolina, two from State, two from Catawba, and one from Davidson and two from Mitchell. More would have been present from Davidson but for a football game which took place there on the same afternoon. Children were more in evidence than ever before. Nellie Culp with her four and Linda with her one were about the biggest single carload that came in.

At the meeting of the alumni the same officers were re-elected for another year: Irene McDade of Barium Springs, president; Reid Brown of Burlington, treasurer; at a low ebb spiritually. Isaiah describes them as smear eyed, dull eared, and fat hearted, worshipping the gods of nature on high hills and under green grass; bowing down to the old brazen serpent Moses made in the Wilderness and forgetting to worship the God of Moses.

Hezekiah showed his faith by his works. He hewed in peices the brazen serpent; he cleansed the Temple; and restored its priests; liturgy, and choral service. In close cooperation with Isaiah and Micah, he led the people back to the worship and service of God. He looked to God in faith and by a miracle the army of the Assyrians was destroyed and Jerusalem was saved.

"This is the victory that overcometh the world even your faith." Hezekiah lived by a consciousness that God loved him. In verse seventeen we read; "Thou hast in love to my soul delivered it."

Sometimes the providence of God is hard to understand. "He leads us on by paths we do not know." But when we can believe as did Hezekiah that every stroke of chastening is in love; that the blows we endure are not the bludgeining of blind fate or the vindictive fury of an angry deity, but the way a God of Love leads us through storm and tempest to a higher holier life, we can say with Job, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him."

Hezekiah lived by praise to God. In contemplation of the goodness of God and his mercy in prolonging his days, Hezekiah wrote this passage which we are studying today, set it to music so it could be sung in the Temple supported by stringed instruments. (See verses 19 and 20)

As we approach the Thanksgiving Season we are reminded that we should not confine our praise to one day in the year but every day should be Thanksgiving Day in America. In this land which is still safe and still free and still prosperous and still full of plenty, we should daily praise God from whom all blessings flow.

And when at last by prayer and faith and righteous service to our loving Heavenly Father we reach the haven of our souls and enter into a closer fellowship with God; when with undimmed eyes we know as we are known, and enter into a deeper experience of his boundless love, then may we rest our souls in his compassion, and the abundant life will possess our spirits. Then from the fulness of our hearts we will join the much people of heaven saying "Alleluia! Salvation and glory and honor and power unto the Lord our God." And life will grow sweeter and richer and fuller throughout eternity.

For by these things men live.

The High Cost of

away in abundance. But the cost of producing these things has increased - fertilizer, the labor such as we have to employ, the equipment, the expense of running that equipment and keeping it in repair, all have advanced tremendously, so much so that the money that we thought was ample just a few years ago will not carry the load today. We have added to our case work department in an effort to more thoroughly work out every possible means of caring for children without crowding Barium Springs. We are utilizing more and more the boarding home idea, especially for very young children. This is more economical because we can often enlist the help of other agencies in this.

All of this is an effort to stretch your dollars further, but in spite of it all we find ourselves more in need of a bountiful Thanksgiving Offering than ever before in our history.

Those of you who have kept up with Church affairs know that every year more and more things are added to the budget of the Church and the giving to the various causes, such as Home Missions, Foreign Missions, and the like has been increased, and no one can find fault with that. The need is great and must be met, but these things have meant the lowering in many instances of our gifts from the regular Church budget. Our percentages have been cut and we today can depend on less money from that source than before.

The only large source of revenue other than this on which we depend is the Thanksgiving Offering, and that is right before you now. What you do during Thanksgiving Season will largely determine the welfare of Barium Springs for the next twelve months.

We had hoped that when Social Security and Aid to Dependent Children began working we would feel its effects and that many cases of dependency would be wiped out. That probably is the case, but in their place have come many, many other calls.

The adjustments necessary following the end of the war have not all been made; many homes are broken in spite of the best efforts of the parents to make a go of it. The helping hand of the Orphanage is needed in more different ways now than ever before.

Barium Springs has endeavored in every way not to be greedy. Back in '41 plans had been made for making an intensive drive for building funds, but before this could get going the war came on and those plans were dropped. Ever since there has seemed to be something of a greater necessity than our need for new buildings and this plan has been postponed from year to year. Even today we do not contemplate starting such a campaign. The money has come in to us for our Church from a different source, - Memorials. Money has come in to us from individuals that will enable us in the not too distant future to start our Children's Village. We hope money will come in for our Gymnasium, but we are not trying to shove any of these things ahead of the various drives of our Church, but we do come to you and lay the case of the Orphanage before you. We are trying our best to be economical and to make the money go as far as possible, but the total needed from you this year is greater than any sum we have ever asked from you before.

If we measure this sum in terms of a day's work it does not look so large, because the average income of our Church members has increased along with expenses, but if we measure it in the old time dollars it takes more of them. If you respond to our call as we have every reason to believe that you will we will not bother you with other headaches that may come our way, but will try for the rest of the year to bring you the cheerful and the happy news of this big family which we believe still occupies a high place in the affections of our Church. We look to you with hope and confidence.

Walter Beatty of Charlotte, secretary. There were quite a number of this year's graduating class present - Dwight Spencer, Lee Vinson, Earl Allen, Benny Gregory, Frances Isenhour, Myrtle Rushing, Miriam Huddleston, and then at the other end of the family was Mr. T. M. Alexander who was in the original group of children who started Barium Springs. He was here from 1891 to 1896. Of the couples of Barium children who were back there was Ed and Sallie Cole, James and Ann McDonald Shroyer, Howard and Grace Adams Beshears, John and Mabel Vinson Lee, Ed and Sadie Eudy Flowers, James and Lois Mott Hannon, and then, of course, there was Ralph and Bobby Marlowe Spencer and Wallace and Birdie Whitener Twombly.

To those of you who are interested, the football game turned out 31-0 in favor of Lexington. We could not soften those Lexington boys up on the football field, but we did certainly soften them up at supper. They had part of the meal prepared for the Home-comers and they seemed to enjoy it. In fact, they enjoyed the whole day and we did not feel too badly about it.

Correction: In our list of Thanksgiving Offerings in September we did not give credit to Morven Church in Mecklenburg Presbytery for any Thanksgiving Offering. We received $40.50 which was designated as a Regular Offering but which we now know was a Thanksgiving Offering. We are glad to make this correction.

mountain trip, but they came back home most enthusiastic about the trip, North Carolina and the country at large in general.

We were impressed with the beauty of the Scenic Highway, the way it is kept up, the efforts made to beautify it the care with which spaces have been provided for cars to stop and view the scenery. While we were at our picnic grounds two of the park's rangers stopped and inquired where we were from. They gave us valuable road information about the return trip and were most solicitous for our pleasure and safety. We told them that we were planning to bring another group of younger children on the same trip and they gave us valuable tips as to how to arrange that to make the trip even more delightful. These things make us so enthusiastic about our country that we are inclined to pay no attention to the headaches that arise around January 1st to March 25th when income tax reports are in order.

A Message of the

And in his hour of sorrow he had done more than utter a petition for himself, he has found fellowship with God and worshipped him. So have sorrowing souls in every age. Jesus said "My soul is exceeding sorrowful even unto death, tarry ye here and watch with me." And he went a little further and fell on his face and prayed.

"All ye who journey soon or late
Must pass within that garden gate,
Must kneel alone in silence there
And wrestle with some dark despair.
God pity who only say 'let this cup pass'
Who never say 'not mine but thine,' and cannot see
The purpose of Gethsemane.

Hezekiah lived by obedience. In verse three we read "Remember, O Lord, I beseech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight."

To most of us life is not always serious sickness, sad bereavement, terrible tribulation. Our lives are subject to these things. They happen sooner or later to all. But for the most part our life is in the workaday world doing our part in the home, the school, the community, the church. In all our dealings we should live by high moral principles, walking in truth with a perfect heart, doing that which is good in the sight of God.

Hezekiah lived by faith. The historian who wrote the eighteenth chapter of the Book of II Kings says this of Hezekiah; "He did that which was right in the sight of the Lord - - He trusted in the Lord God of Israel - - He clave to the Lord and departed not from following him." Hezekiah had shown great faith all the days of his life. As a young man he had succeeded his no good father, Ahaz, on the throne. Ahaz had sold out to the Assyrians; had removed sacred furniture from the Temple; and had brought in heathen gods and shrines. The Chronicler, after he had with blistering words described the iniquities of Ahaz, wrote for him the devastating epitah; "This is that King Ahaz."

Hezekiah took the throne when the Temple was closed; no priest, no worship; the country disorganized; groaning under the rule and tribute of Assyria; the people were home about 5 o'clock. It does not sound like much in this brief telling and yet the number of adjectives used by these 43 girls, there were four grown people along, would if placed end on end certainly reach around the world.

The elevation produced symptoms resembling sleeping-sickness, high blood pressure, bad hearts, and plain hunger. As the day progressed and the journey lengthened all the other symptoms merged into just one of plain hunger, and when we finally arrived at the picnic grounds and were trying to coax some reluctant wood to burn so that we could roast our weiners, the hunger pangs became acute. We had intended to have a weiner roast, but the fire was so slow in burning and our hunger was mounting so rapidly that we lived on smoked weiners rather than roasted weiners, but the digestions we carried along were perfectly capable of handling weiners in any style.

The girls spent a little more than an hour ranging over the grounds at this picnic place in the mountains and got enough scenery in their systems to pretty near fill them up to capacity. They were not too much interested on the way home; in fact, some of them slept through the interesting down-

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Ecc. 11:9 - Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth: but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgement.
Ecc. 12:1 - Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

REJOICE AND REMEMBER
A certain man who had followed the false philosophy "to try anything once," wrote out his experiences and conclusions and they have found a place in Holy Writ. Out of his life time of experimenting with the possibilities of study, of worldly pleasure, of amassing a fortune, he made some discoveries under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. He has given them to us. Among those conclusions can be found our text; "Rejoice and Remember."

Rejoice, O young man in thy youth. Enjoy life, have your fun with sports. Get all the joy and pleasure out of life that you can but remember that God will give you an examination at the end of the course as to how you have used the body and the time and talents he has given you. For that reason be careful to keep the body clean and strong and pure for him.
"Know ye not that ye are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?"

There is a little fable of the Foolish Skylark. If you think this story is too silly to tell, I am reliably informed that Luther Burbank liked and repeated it.

Once upon a time there was a foolish little skylark that was just learning to fly, soaring into the sky; and as it soared it sang. They do say that the singing of a skylark is most beautiful.

But this little skylark heard the tingle of a little bell on the ground and came down. And there he saw

There have been times when we have had an outstanding varsity team. The fall of 1941, for instance, when we were about the best team in the state, 1940, when we were one of the best, and many other times in our athletic career. There have been times when our 125-pound team was the talk of the country - that team which was called "The Light Brigade" which took championships all over the country, and then later on the team that was called "The Rhapsody in Gold."

And then we have often had 100-pound teams that broke into the headlines. We had a 100-pound team that went for several years without a defeat. They were so good that they ran out of competition. They were the ones who had the name "Symphony in Blue." Now, we have an 85-pound team that is our pride and joy.

We have spent some unhappy afternoons and nights watching our varsity play - the weather had a lot to do with it and the strength of our opponents had a lot to do with it. We have not won all our games. Our 125 or B Team has had an excellent record and we have all enjoyed seeing them play. We have gotten a lot of fun out of the 100-pound team which is a little better than average, but the team that has really brought out all of our enthusiasm is our 85-pound team. Take a good look at them. The upper part of the picture shows them lined up and raring to go: the lower part of the picture is the squad. They are noted for their long runs and tricky play; in fact, anything that the big team does this team apparently can do just a little bit better. Show them a play one day and they will perform it the next.

The record for 1947 is as follows:

Barium 14-Concord 0: Barium 13-Newton 0: Barium 21-Huntersville 0: Barium 16-Newton 0: Barium 48-Huntersville 0: and as this is written they have one more game to play with Concord.

In addition to this the members of this team have often substituted in the 100-pound team and have had a big part in their victories. The record of the 100-pound team is as follows: Barium 26-Concord 0: Barium 2-Cramerton 0: Barium 7-Newton 0: Barium 25-Davidson High 0: Barium 7-Newton 0: Barium 20-Davidson High 0: and as this is written they still have games with Cornelius and Concord.

We are proud of this grand bunch of players. Watch for them as they make the larger teams, and in about three more years some of them will be getting on the varsity. Watch out!

Football Season Ends At Barium Springs

The football season is over - all but the eating - the banquets and such. Our varsity has played 10 games: they have won 3. They lost 4 conference games and 3 games outside of the conference.

We have not had any out-and-out 125 pound team. We have played a number of games, each one under a little different setup. Two games were B team games with everybody below the varsity regardless of weight and age.

Then we played three games with 140 pound weight limit and sixteen years age limit; and then we played some with 130 pounds. All of them are listed, however, under B. Team activities.

The 100 pound team has been quite a team. We have held to 105 pound weight for the most part, but some of the teams that we played were allowed a greater weight limit to make up for our greater experience.

The doings of the 85-pound team are written up elsewhere in this paper, so we will just add the statistics for all of the football games. The weather has been bad and it was hard to play on many occasions. It has certainly affected the gate receipts, but there is nothing we can do about that and we just take it as one of the things that

Building America's Future

(Editor's Note: The following article was written for the local newspapers in connection with the observance of National Education Week.)

The above topic is the one that has been chosen for special emphasis on this day of National Education Week. It is also the topic that was assigned to me for an "Education Week" newspaper article. Although this matter of building America's future is the chief business of all schools, I shall confine my remarks to the one school in which I work: the School at Barium Springs.

It may be that there are those who think of the Barium Springs School as a private, or privately supported, institution. The truth is that it is a state school, whose teachers are - for the most part - paid with state funds; it is a part of the Iredell County administrative unit; and makes up a part of District Number Six. This is as it should be; for, after all, the children are citizens of the state of North Carolina, and are just as much a part of the state's responsibility as the children of any other town or community.

However, the people who support and control the Presbyterian Orphans' Home feel that they, too, have a definite responsibility for the education of these children; and so, the matter is not left entirely to the state. Since many of the children who enter this school are retarded and maladjusted, and since each extra year that the pupil stays in school because of repeated grades will cost the Orphanage several hundred dollars; the orphanage authorities feel that it is good business - to say the least - to try to have the best school possible. In order to do this

Hello Folks, We are all looking forward to Thanksgiving. We are going to have a holiday. We are having a ball game in the afternoon.

Mrs. McLelland from Mooresville brought us some cookies, candy, and chewing gum. Folks certainly are good to us.

A group of the Lees boys went to Mooresville and put on a program for one of the Circles. We really had a good time.

We hope a lot of our friends will come and see our pretty tables and chairs. We are proud of them and we are going to take care of them.

We all went to Statesville and got some work shoes. The leaves are falling and we have been raking them up and they use them at the barn.

Some of the boys went up to Synods the other night and Mrs. Bowling gave us some pop corn.

We will be looking for Santa Clause the next time you hear from us. — The Lees Boys.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Many things have happened since the last time you heard from us. Halloween night the little boys who are the same age as we invited us to a party at their cottage.

This past Sunday Circle Number 5 of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came to see us and brought supper for all at the cottage. Before we ate we gave a short program and walked with our friends around the campus.

Thanksgiving is just around the corner and we are all looking forward to it because the children at Barium have a lot to be thankful for.

Hoping each and everyone of you have a happy Thanksgiving. — The Annie Louise Girls.

INFIRMARY

Here we are again bringing you the news from our Cottage this month. We have not had many sick folks lately. We are proud of our smaller football teams we would like to let you know why.

QUADS

The Quad boys are looking forward with great interest to our annual football game with Statesville this year. All of our "Stars" including "Jack Clark, J. D. Everett, and Jack Mangum" are very confident of a victory.

Bill Stern Berryhill and Ted Huesing Clark predict a great victory over Statesville. They also predict Carolina over Duke, Army over Navy, and Southern California over Notre Dame.

The grading period in our school is about over now and we hope to bring the boys "honor roll" total up to "three" at the most this time which will make a great improvement over our two of last month.

Well here's hoping you will have a grand Thanksgiving with a big turkey on the table, but remember the food shortage in Europe and don't waste anything.

Take it easy till next time. Your "Ace" Reporters. Whiting, Hudgins and Myatt

SYNOD COTTAGE

There is hardly time to take our Halloween faces off before Thanksgiving comes around. On Halloween night we had a party and had heaps of fun. Mrs. Bowling made a ghost out of a sheet and a pumpkin, and it did look like one.

All of us have new shoes and galoshes and we have started wearing our overalls and knickers.

We wrote our Christmas letters this week in school. We are all excited about Christmas. Just 35 more days.

For Thanksgiving we get three days holiday. Whoopee! They had the birthday table last week. Louise, Shirley and Rickie McArthur were the only ones to go. We'll be seeing you next month. — The Synod Boys

HOWARD COTTAGE

Mr. Johnston is so nice to us. He arranged a way for us to go to two Davidson football games. Best of all we got to go in personal cars. Mr. Johnston, Mr. Calhoun, Miss Carpenter, and Mr. Lowrance took us. We got to go because we were good girls.

Miss Carpenter is our leader in Junior League this year. For Halloween she took the Lees boys and Howard girls to Statesville in the Barium bus. She let us watch the people in the costumes.

On November 10, Circle No. 6 of Mooresville met with us. We gave them a program and then they had their business meeting. They were so good to us. They brought us all kinds of candy, a lot of cookies and all kinds of jelly.

Shirley Shaw was not here when the Circle came. She went to Morganton with Miss Carpenter. Carol Jean Andrews, Shirley Byrd and Louise Bradshaw have been to Statesville shopping and to a show for making the honor roll. The other honor roll students will go soon.

WOMANS BUILDING

Last month I touched on the subject of the Junior and Senior girls preparing supper and acting as hostesses on Sunday night to the football boys. This month I wish to tell you more about these Sunday night suppers.

Until the weather prevented it we cooked these suppers on our grill behind Woman's Building, but now that it has gotten so cold we find it quite convenient to cook at the kitchen.

We all enjoy these suppers because they are informal in that they are served S and W style.

Since it is the Woman's Building girls who help fix most of the meals, we find it suitable to tell you about a new improvement at the kitchen. The carpenters here at Barium have replaced the back porch by enclosing it with glass windows and wood walls, whereas before it was enclosed with screen.

All vegetables and meats will be prepared (cleaned and cut) on the porch before entering the kitchen, therefore preventing the kitchen from becoming dirty and cluttered. Basketball practice starts soon and everyone is excited. It is hard to tell exactly which sport is the most popular among the children here at Barium - basketball or football - because so many participate in both.

The Juniors and Seniors wish to thank Mrs. Bryant and the carpenter group for our new dressing tables. They not only make our rooms attractive but are quite convenient. Each girl is making her own spread and curtains for her room. In the middle of the spreads a design of a flower has been sewed on.

Every month Mr. Sams, who owns the theaters in Statesville, sends two tickets to each class in school. Many of the girls at our Cottage received a ticket because of outstanding school work. We commend these girls, namely; Lucille Stricklin, Betty Jo Smith, Virginia Pressnell, Lorene Hall, Betty Sue Wolfe, Jeanne Steppe, Helen Vinson, Betsey Page, Mary Frances Price and Margaret Bullard.

We'll be with you next month so look for us. Margaret Bullard

SEWING ROOM NEWS

The sewing room has been quite busy since we last wrote to you. We have been busy making blouses for the Glee Club girls; making coats for the younger girls and curtains for various cottages on the campus. There has been almost more talk in the sewing room about the football game with Statesville Friday than there has been sewing. This is "the" game of the year for us.

Since basketball has started most of the girls aren't with us too much of the time, so we don't have much time for gossip. Therefore you won't find the usual gossip this month. Most of the girls have been talking about Christmas and what they plan to do during the holidays. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fox, (our matrons), seem content to listen to our chatter, but our guess is that they are thinking about the holidays too.

To each of you we wish a happy Thanksgiving holiday. —The S. R. Girls.

JENNIE GILMER

First of all we wish to thank the circle of Mooresville for the nice gifts that they brought to us. We are very sorry that we were not here to see and be with you. The scarfs are all so nice. We could hardly pick the one we wanted for our room.

Basketball has started now and we are very glad. Besides football this is the next best liked sport among us. We hope that you can come up to see us play sometime. Read about us in next months paper. Jennie Gilmer Boys

RUMPLE HALL

Dear Friends, Here we are bringing you the news again this month.

We wish that all of you could see our play room. We have a new virola and some nice records. We like to get in our play room and do acrobatics.

The Junior Choir went to Taylorsville last week and gave a program in the First Presbyterian Church. After the service the ladies of the Auxiliary served delicious refreshments.

We are going to get new coats from the sewing room by Christmas, we hope. Good-bye until next month. — The Rumble Hall Girls

News From Other

(Continued From Page One) 1900. He was a good young man. He has been a most efficient pastor and orphanage superintendent. The Talladega institution will long miss his services.

Dr. Lynn, the former superintendent of Thornwell Orphanage, still retains his home at Montreat and meets his many friends there every summer. He holds a pastorate in Florida.

Speaking of orphanages, there is an orphanage in Australia - the Melbourne Orphanage - whose superintendent Mr. Butler, has kept in touch with us for many years. We exchange literature, reports, and letters. During the critical war years the things that their institution had to do brought us a close-up picture of the war front.

We know that wars upset the lives of children in many ways, and we feel it in our lives, but these things are tempered to us by distance and by many other things. Australia was near the front and there was not much to temper the shock of these disturbances to them. We remember a letter which we received from Mr. Butler during the early years of the war. It was at a time when the Jap drive was nearing Australia. There did not seem to be any strength lying between the advancing Jap armies and the relatively undefended shores of Australia, and then as he described it one morning they suddenly found the streets of their cities full of American soldiers - big, strapping, self-confident, and unafraid. "They just took over," so he said. "They ate up all our steak, all of our sheep, and nearly everything else that we had, but how we thanked God that they were here. We are now no longer afraid." Some of our own Barium Springs boys were in that crowd of early soldiers on the streets of the Australian cities. They wrote back and gave us their impressions, too, and it made us feel close kin to these neighbors down under. We have just received the Annual Report of this institution. Their buildings are badly in need of repair, new buildings are needed, but building conditions are even worse in Australia than they are here.

They have also had an epidemic. We can say that was due to the war too - an epidemic of ringworm, so severe that they had to stop taking children into the orphanage until it could be gotten under control. Diphtheria and other things have had a hand. Well, we sympathize with them and then give thanks for our doctors and the health measures that are possible here at Barium. For instance, we had an epidemic of a new kind of ringworm. It was new to some of the doctors. It was a tropical job that was picked up by our army and brought back to the United States, and eventually reached us.

The old methods of handling ringworm and kindred diseases did not seem to work with this, but eventually after many attempts it was gotten under control. We know they will manage it somehow, sometime, at this Australian institution. It all adds up to this, that when you are dealing with children there is never a dull moment. Even behavior problems sometimes shrink by comparison with some of the more urgent and distressing health conditions. Sometimes we think we are suffering more than others, but the report from Australia opens our eyes to the fact that we are living in a mighty good place.

Mitchell Co-Eds vs. Barium Alumni

When you read this it will be wry past football season - even the Bowl games will have been played, but there is just one game you must hear about. It happened on Thanksgiving Day at Barium Springs and it was between the Mitchell Co-eds and the Barium Alumni. Now, the Mitchell Co-eds are boys and there are about 85 at Mitchell College. The idea for this game started out as sort of a joke, but as time went along the boys got more and more serious about it and when Thanksgiving Day finally arrived the event took on the appearance of a Bowl game. There was a grand crowd out to see it: the weather was beautiful a nice, sunshiny afternoon. Men women and children came, and the Barium Alumni looked formidable. They brought so many wives and children with them that it took a separate section to handle them and it was difficult to keep the second generation off the bench.

Listen to this line-up, you old football fans. At center for Barium was Roscoe Smith, a recent graduate. At ends were Toe Donaldson and Lee Spencer. Toe has children in high school and he belonged to one of those teams of way back yonder when Barium's annual occupation was to beat the State Champions. We did it so regularly and so neatly that we were called "The Giant Killers". We liked to pick out the champion in each of the Conferences and work on them. There was Buck Brigrance, that motorcycle racer, who is so toughened up from spills from his motorcycle that a little thing like a tackle or a block did not even irritate him. He did have to stop for breath occasionally. By the way, Brigrance came all the way from Jacksonville, Florida, to get in this game. There were three boys from Chapel Hill - Benny Gregory, George Lewis, and Dave Burney. From right here at Barium in addition to the ones already mentioned there was Ralph Spencer at guard, Joe Ben Gibbs in the backfield, and even old man Jackins, the Barium Coach. When Jackins used to play as a regular he was one of those slim, willowy, slippery backs. Now he has sacrificed a good bit of his speed to weight, and he cannot carry his 225 plus around like he used to carry his 150 but he was still potent and toted a mean ball all during that game. He really set up the one touchdown that was the margin of Barium's victory. Arthur Roach was here with his wife and baby to watch him, and he looked just like the Roach of old. He made the touchdown that won the victory. Dwight Spencer, now a student at Mitchell College, was torn between two loyalties - whether to play on Barium's team or Mitchell's. He finally chose a Barium uniform. His half-brothers, Fred and Clyde Johnson, wearing the same uniform created too much of a pull for him. Kenneth Baker, another Barium alumnus, played on the Mitchell team, so that evened thing up. There was Charlie Sear, whom a lot of Davidson folks remember as the midget back who helped to defeat V M I one year while at Davidson. Ed Oliver, the boy who led Barium to a 28-0 victory over Greensboro; Ed Flowers, the speed-boy of one of our former teams and who now lives in Statesville, and to complete the list of Eds there was Ed Cole, one of the backs of that miracle midget team, who was so good that he finally made the varsity without getting

Some of This Year's Senior Class Ten Years Ago

Take a good look at this picture, and then preserve it because in about five months the Messenger will carry individual pictures of nine people who are in this picture. They will be graduating and in this picture they are second graders - just ten years ago this picture was made.

We will not attempt to name everybody in the picture but just pick out the seniors. In the first row, second from the left, is Betty Jo Smith and in fifth place right square in the middle is Virginia Presnell; then next to her is Peggy Coffey and on the extreme right Betty Coffey. In the second row, second from the end right in front of the teacher is Sadie Buie;

the fourth in the row looking down is Mildred Monroe; next to her is Ernestine Baldwin, and between them and behind is Charles Barrett. Second from the end is Lucile Stricklin. All of these are in the present senior class at Barium.

In the front row the third from the left is Doris Gant who is a senior in the Statesville High School this year. Third from the right in the back row is Betty Lou Hooten who is graduating in San Francisco this year. The teacher, by the way, will have to remain unidentified. She is still teaching at Barium and looks just as youthful as she does in this picture. She might not like it known that she has been teaching here that long. We are rather proud of it and proud of her.

There are also two others in the picture who are still at Barium. The little girl in the back row slipped one grade and is now a junior - Helen Vinson, and then in the first row third from the right, is another who due to illness missed two grades - that is Elizabeth Johnson.

Down in the first row at the extreme left is a young lady who is now a settled married woman - believe it or not. Tempus does fugit!

We are going to miss all of these young people when they finish up here.

Football Banquet Held Here On December 11

By ALWYN MORRISON
A most delightful occasion was that of the annual football banquet at Barium Springs last night, which honored some sixty odd football stalwarts of the home, for outstanding play on the football gridiron this past season.

A most delicious steak supper was served, at beautiful appointed tables set in Ruple dining hall at Barium, and with their decorations suggestive of the past football season and of the approaching holiday season, made a most attractive scene as some one hundred or more officials, alumnae, workers and invited guests enjoyed a most delightful evening together. During the supper, Miss Rachel Hickman, music director at Barium and a sextet of singers at the home made the occasion a most delightful one with some snappy and entertaining song hits. Those composing the sextet were Misses Betty and Peggy Coffey, Betty Jo Smith and Messrs. Herbert Good, Charles Barrett and Jerry Young.

Genial Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, superintendent of the home, welcomed all present and introduced a number of his guests of the evening, including a number of the alumnae of Barium Springs. Messrs. Sid Bost and Bill McLain of the Statesville Daily Record, Alwyn Morrison of the Statesville Daily, assistant coach Moneyhan of Davidson College, and Heath Whittle, who incidentally is Mrs. Sutherland's son-in-law.

Mr. Johnston called on Joe Ben Gibbs, a former outstanding Barium athlete, to present the letter certificates to the 85 pound team that won five out of five games played this past season, these being: Edsel McArthur, Jimmy Freeman, Jimmy Johnson, Dean Upton, Jerry Hudgins, Robert Lee Hall, Charles Hall, Larry Dean, Ennis Blackburn, Calvin Burleson, Everett Vest, Woody Smith and Archie McMannan.

To Donnie Bolton, another former outstanding athlete at Barium went the honor of presenting the letter certificates to the 100-pound team that won seven games this season without a setback, these being: James Wheeler, Mack Wicker, Charles Faircloth, Carl Spicer, John Plyler, Alfred Williams, Palmer Wilcox, Ray Shumaker, Bobby McMannan, Clyde Dellinger, Billy Black, Joe Barkley, Jack Harwell, Dean Upton and Bobby Whiting.

Mr. Johnston next called on another former outstanding Barium athlete, Ralph Spencer, to present the letters to the Junior varsity or "B" team, which com-

Children Enjoying Christmas Parties

There was a time when all the time before Christmas was just a time of delightful waiting and lively anticipation of the things that were going to happen on Christmas day.

This year we have not had time to do much thinking about the future for enjoying the present. Here are just a few of the things that have happened. The Playhouse Theatre invited all of us to come in and see The Miracle of 34th Street, and that was just like having an extra Christmas. Everyone who saw it, and that includes all of us, thoroughly enjoyed that fine picture. And then on last Tuesday night, the 9th, the fraternities at Davidson invited 157 boys and girls from Barium, practically everything below the high school and above the Baby Cottage. Eleven fraternity and independent groups did the inviting. There were around fifteen children as guests at each of these eleven parties. The groups were arranged by Mr. Calhoun. They went down on our buses and trucks right after supper Tuesday night. They were met in front of the Chambers Building by a boy from each of the inviting groups. The Barium children were introduced by one of their number who who had been appointed monitor and then the parties began.

We would not attempt to describe any one of them. Whenever you say "Davidson Party" to a

THE LIGHTS OF CHRISTMAS

In many lands there are no Christmas lights. In some countries millions have never heard the story of God's great gift to man of the light which shone from the Manger Cradle or the Glory of God which shone round about when the angels Host sang Glory to God in the highest.

The lights of Christmas should mean more to us than the candle in the window; the lights on the Christmas trees or the brilliant illumination of the city streets. In the Beginning of Creation God said "Let there be light and there was light," and, as the curtain of darkness lifted, the miracle of light drove away the darkness. Paul gives us the spiritual interpretation of that sublime scene in II Cor. 4:6 "For God, who hath commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts; to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." So, after all, the great and blessed Christmas light is that which comes from him who said, "I am the light of the world." There is then one light, one hope, that is found in that "light not seen on land or sea."

But we are His. He teaches us that we should walk as children of light. Paul is very bold as he says

Eighth Grade Presents A Christmas Play

The eighth grade gave a Christmas present to every member of the first seven grades Thursday, Dec. 18, 1947, when they presented the heart-warming one act play, "The Birds' Christmas Carol" in the high school auditorium. The play, an out growth of a project in English, was a dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggin's famous story of the "Ruggleses in the dear Carol Bird. The costumes, reminiscent of the "eighties", were planned and executed by the wearers. A prize was given to the member of the cast judged to have inter-

The Give-to Christmas Tree — Before and After

The picture reproduced here is not a moving picture but it almost is. They are three views of our "Give-to" Christmas tree which was held on the night of December 17th in our big dining room. You know in this we start out with a bare tree. When each person makes a contribution they pick up a decoration and tie it on the tree.

The picture at the left shows the first decoration being pinned on. The picture at the right shows the final results, over 300 decorations. The picture in the middle shows the activities in full swing.

Our Christmas gift this year went to a former Barium Springs student, George Faison. After leaving Barium he decided to study for the ministry. At that time he was married and had a family, but he managed to take care of the family and get his college degree and then he went to the seminary. Right in the middle of his seminary career his health failed him and he had to move to a dry climate. This was a great disappointment to him as well as a great expense. He says that our contribution will enable him to enter Austin Seminary. His letter of thanks for this gift is printed elsewhere in this paper.

Crystal City, Texas
December 22, 1947

My dear Friends at Barium,

This morning I received a very special Christmas present. I think it was the nicest Christmas surprise I have ever had, because I have never gotten a Christmas gift from so many friends at one time. The gift I am writing about is that one which each of you made possible at your "Give-to" Christmas tree.

I know that to just write a letter to say "thank you" could never let you know how much I appreciate your kindness, but maybe if I tell you what your gift is going to be used for, you will have some idea of what a wonderful thing you have done. By the gift that you have sent, I am going to be able to go back to the Seminary this next fall and finish my studies in preparing for the ministry. I am sure you have all heard of the great need there is in our church for ministers today, and then when you realize that each of you, by your gift at the "Give-to" Christmas tree, will have a part in helping fill this great need, you can really understand what a useful and generous thing you have done.

I am at loss to think of a single thing that could have brought a greater joy to me on this Christmas Day, or that could have been more useful, than the gift you have made. Your "Give-to" Christmas tree at Barium reflects the true spirit of Christmas more radiantly than all the "Take-from" Christmas trees I've ever known! From the depths of my heart I say, "Thank you", for sharing that which you have with me, and thus making this Christmas one of the happiest and most glorious ones I have ever known.

With love and Best Wishes to all,

George Faison.

THE MINISTER'S MESSAGE

Psalm 90:12. So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

John Calvin calls this a problem in arithmetic. It is the same problem we experience when we have a certain amount of money to spend and we go to the store to spend it. That article is too high, we do not buy that. Another is not of good quality, we pass it by. Another we would like to have but it is not necessary.

Now, perhaps we may have little money, but there is something more valuable than that; it is Time. It is said that when she was dying, Queen Elizabeth offered her doctors any amount of money they asked, for one hour more of time.

We have a year before us. We do not have the promise of the whole year, though God grant we shall all live the year. But we have certain days before us to spend. Our problem is to spend them wisely and well for things worth while and so may find a good investment. That was the thought of the Psalmist and he seeks help from God.

The writer of these words is Moses, the man of God. Moses has been, from his youth, learned in all the learning of the Egyptians. But Moses looks and says, "So teach us." Moses has lived in the desert of Arabia in contemplation forty years, but in humility he looks to God and says, "Teach us." Moses has seen God face to face but he says, "So teach us."

He makes his prayer out of his experience with God. For many years he has had no home but has lived a nomad a wanderer on the face of the earth.

He looked to God to teach him because of the Eternity of God and the frailty of man. God knows all about time, the numbering of the days, because he is before time and above time. Before the mountains were brought or the earth was born, even from everlasting to everlasting, He is God.

But man is mortal. His time is so limited when he begins to know something, mortality crooks a finger at him and he is gone. Bishop Edward H. Buckersleth wrote a transcription of this Psalm which brings out the thought most beautifully. "O God the Rock of Ages, who evermore hast been, What time the tempest rages, our dwelling place serene, Before the first creation, O God, the same as now, To endless generations the Everlasting Thou."

And then the second verse man's Mortality. "Our years are like the shadows on sunny hills that lie. Or grasses in the meadows that blossom but to die. A sleep, a dream, a story by strangers quickly told; An unremaining glory of things that soon are old." And Moses would suggest to us that we pray God to teach us, for God is wise and we lack wisdom. The children have a beautiful song:

"Teach us Lord thy wisdom
For Thou art wondrous wise
Teach us Lord thy wisdom

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends'

Here we are back again to bring you the news. We are getting our house painted up and clean. Our new matron arrived and we are all very glad to have her to come to live with us. She looks like she is very nice but when she has lived with us long enough we will learn to know and love her better, her name is Miss Grier. Mrs. Bryant is moving back over to the Women's Building and we will all miss her and hope to have her as our matron some other time. We sure had a good time when she was our matron. We are all doing good in school and hope to have 27 honor rolls next month. We will see you next month when the time comes.

Good Bye,
— The Busy Bees

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Here we are back again with lots to tell.

School was out for Christmas holidays December the nineteenth and started back the thirty-first of December. During that time we had a lot of fun. We don't see how our matron and big sisters put up with such excitement. Mr. Johnston let us go Christmas shopping. Everything we saw we wanted but of course that was impossible.

Christmas Eve, we went to bed but couldn't sleep. The next morning we were awake and had a wonderful Christmas. It snowed almost all day. We didn't play in it but still we had a good time with all our dolls, games and other nice things we got.

We want to thank each and every one of our friends for making our Christmas such a successful one. Also we want to thank Mr. Sams in Statesville for the show

Letter From One of Our Little Friends

Dear Friends,

If you can, please print this in the February issue. I wish I could go to see all of the people at Barium Springs, but I can't go up there. I am a member of the Tar Heel Presbyterian Church. I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. I come to see my grandmother and grandfather to read the paper that all the friends make for me to read in Barium Springs.

Have a good time. My mother and father's name is Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gooden and my grandfather and grandfather's name is Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gooden.

Your pal,
James David Gooden.

tickets.

It was nice to get away from school for a few days but it is nice to see all of our smiling teachers.

Report cards have come out for the third period. Eighteen of our little girls got on the Honor Roll. We are very proud of them. We hope all of us will make it next time.

It is getting cold now. Hope it snows soon. Any of you who pass by Barium will probably see a lot of snow men, women and children.

Hope all of you have made some New Years Resolutions. Our's is trying to be good. Our big sisters and matron are glad to hear that.

Be with you next month same time, same paper.

— Annie Louise Girls

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

The following sermon was preached at Little Joe's Presbyterian Church on the occasion of the calling of a pastor.)

John 17:8. For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me.

Acts 20:26,27. Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men. For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the Council of God.

THE MINISTER'S THEMES.

As we today go into the election of a new minister let us consider the minister's themes: What should be the content of his message?

What should be the limits of his discussion?

What is the fundamental purpose of his preaching?

That there is a wide difference of opinion and practice on this subject all will agree. The minister is besieged by scores of agencies to present all manner of projects in a sermon. Often an outline is furnished. On the other hand he is admonished by sundry to stick to the old Gospel.

The content of the minister's message may be divided into two parts. The first is doctrinal, that great body of preaching on revealed truth. The second is the practical application of that truth. We may illustrate this from Paul's letter to the Romans. Paul takes his text from Habakkuk 2:4, "The just shall live by his faith." Paul gives us the great doctrines of justification by faith; peace with God; Predestination; The persevering love of Christ. So having told the glorious story of God's plan of salvation through Christ he comes at the 12th chapter with his application, "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of Christ that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice." And he continues that application through the rest of the great book of Romans.

In like manner Jesus gave his sermon on the Mount with its description of the citizens of the Kingdom, their influence, duties and the principles by which they should live. His application included these words, "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him to a wise man, which built his house upon a rock." When Jesus spoke to the lawyer on the subject who then is my neighbor he applied the lesson of the parable of The Good Samaritan with the effective words, "Go and do thou likewise." We would say then that the content of the minister's message should be the teaching of God's revealed truth and its application to life.

So far we can probably all agree. Difference of opinion arise when we begin to apply the implications of the scripture to social questions of the day.

Take for instance, capital and labor; should a minister have anything to say about that? Well the Fourth Commandment has this to say, "six days shalt thou labor." That is pertinent. James, the brother and servant of Jesus Christ has this to say, "Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Behold, the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth." VISITORS

We have lots of visitors at Barium Springs, people who casually drop in, delegations that come to see us from various churches, sometimes big groups like the men of the church when we have three or four hundred for a meal, and then the alumni and their friends. Hardly a day goes by but we have from one to a dozen visitors just to pass the time of day and look over Barium. Then we have another sort of visitor - the high school boys and girls who come to play basketball, and we have had some most delightful visits already this year. Early in January while we are getting ready for our basketball season we have games with our neighbors, the consolidated schools, Celeste Henkel, Scotts, Cool Springs. And then, while we have not had a game with our nearest neighbor, Troutman, they are on hand to see our other games so much that we feel like they are really part of us. Then in our regular basketball season in the games with our fellow conference teams, we have entertained Monroe, North Wilkesboro, Albemarle, The Mills Home, and still have Mooresville, Kannapolis, Spencer and Statesville to visit us. And then in addition to that, our big Mid-Piedmont Tournament has taken place. This year in this tournament there were 43 teams entered, representing 22 schools. Nine of these schools are in Mecklenburg County; the others are scattered around - Catawba, Alexander, Davie, and Iredell. They are from the consolidated schools, and they are fine folks. Barium enjoys playing host to them every year. They are well-behaved, courteous, and good sports. Even the losers nearly always have pleas-

New-comers at Barium Springs

Our January newcomers were all boys - two from up in the mountains, one from down toward the sandhills. The mountaineers are Charles and Ricky Ward, our little sand-lapper is Rusty McNeill. We have been having chicken for Sunday dinner since the first of the year, and the smiles on the faces of these boys may be thinking about that or about the sunshiny day on which these pictures were made. They are all three nice youngsters and seem to like Barium Springs just as we like them.

The Johnston Pew

Back yonder some twenty-six years ago when the Johnston family moved to Barium they did not quite fill one of the church pews. The old man sang in the choir most of the time, and little Mrs. Johnston sat in the pew with their six children, ranging in age from the tenth grade Ann Fayssoux, to the baby, three year old Leila. As time went on the old man's voice commenced to creak and he moved back to the family pew but by that time the family was beginning to move out - to colleges, to jobs, etc., but they had increased in size so much that when the family got together they filled the pew entirely.

And then as time went on wives and husbands commenced to have a part in it, and now a family reunion overflows and takes a pew and a half at least.

This past week a further addition was made. Bob Johnston, the oldest son, has taken unto himself a wife and a step-son, and now at a family reunion the roll-call would run something like this: In addition to the two old folks there would be Ann Fayssoux, her husband and son; there would be Bob, his wife and step-son; Bill and his wife; Joe, his wife and daughter; and Leila, still hopeful. Time does move and while this increase in this particular family would hardly justify enlarging the church, it is still an indication that room which was ample twenty-six years ago now needs adjustments.

Another Evidence of Growth

Some twenty-two years ago we built a school building and in that school building we arranged a combination auditorium and basketball court. It was such a wonderful improvement on our outdoor court that we thought we had secured just a little piece of Heaven. We enjoyed playing on that court and a few homemade bleachers made it possible for everybody to see our games and the children too.

But much time has passed since then and during this time our athletic and recreation program

THE BUDGET

All contracts that are written in war time have this clause, "Subject to acts of God and the public enemy." Well, maybe that sort of a clause should be attached to the budget of an institution like ours. Every spring we spend a lot of perspiration figuring out a budget. We try to estimate every item of expenditure - how much it is going to cost to feed the family, how much to clothe them, how much to look after their medical needs, how much to keep the buildings warm, how much to feed the cows, etc. The items of this budget are bewildering in number, and a person who can guess correctly is a magician indeed.

Just one little item - Fuel. When the weather is balmy and bracing, ordinary winter weather we will say, a carload of coal lasts us from ten to fourteen days. When the thermometer takes a nose dive and it snows or sleets we burn up a car every four to five days.

Well, we know that we are going to have some bitter weather, and we try to average things year by year. We cannot always tell about the price. Several years ago we were buying Nut and Slack coal at less than a dollar a ton at the mines. Now we are paying $5.25, and a lot of that was added in the last twelve months.

Then the year 1948 came along with a special brand of weather, and our coal supply which we expected to last us through March has disappeared before the month of February has passed away. That is doing something to our budget.

We have been extremely fortunate in not having any serious illnesses. Several years ago we had an epidemic of measles in February which necessitated running our heating plant 24 hours a day. This year we are glad to say that we have no such epidemic and can shut off our heat from 9 o'clock at night to six in the morning.

We are fortunate in having coal at all. When we read of the shortages elsewhere and the hardships that people have had to go through, it makes us thankful that so far we have not run out, but we shiver when we think of what it is doing to our budget and the things we will have to answer for when next the Board of Regents meets.

Another thing, all the hay and grain that a cow eats does not go into milk - part of it has to heat her up, and the amount of extra food that our herd has eaten this winter has made another dent in our budget.

Maybe we should not worry too much about this: we have gotten through the winter with very little illness in spite of the weather.

School News

There is one department of the school at Barium Springs that we believe deserves a little more publicity than it has thus far received. That is the music department.

Last year, the school secured for the first time a full time music director: Miss Rachel Hickman of Covington, Va., and a recent graduate of Erskine College. Already, we wonder how we got along without someone to devote her full time to music in the school. Miss Hickman teaches public music in the first seven grades, and in addition, directs the high school glee club, the junior choir, and the church choir.

The glee club, or smaller groups from the glee club, has already made a number of appearances this year; before church groups, civic clubs, and other organizations. Both the glee club and junior choir frequently take part in the services at Little Joe's Church. The glee club has several invitations to take part in the services of some of our neighboring churches this spring. The next scheduled appearance is at the Second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville, Sunday night, March 7th. If any other churches that are not too far from Barium Springs wish to secure the services of the glee club they may write Wm. A. Hethcox, Principal, or Miss Rachel Hickman, Music Director.

In addition to the services performed by Miss Hickman which have already been mentioned, she (Continued On Page Three)

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,
Since we last wrote you it has snowed, but now we have been having a few pretty days.
We have been enjoying watching the people who come to see our tournament. It seems like they always come by to see us.
Mrs. Goodrum came to Barium from Charlotte to be a substitute matron. She helps Miss Jackson with us sometimes and we like her a lot.
We had a nice time on Valentine's day. A Circle from Mooresville and Morganton sent us a Valentine each, and we got some from our parents and other friends.
— The Howard Girls

SYNODS COTTAGE

Dear Folks,
Valentine has come and gone and we were very enthused about it. We received some beautiful ones.
Our dog just came back from the hospital. He some how got hold of a few chicken bones and for a while we had a very sick dog on our hands. He is completely well now and is so frisky none of us can keep up with him. We wish you all could see how he is growing.
We had a good time eating the oranges Dr. Nisbett sent us from Florida. They were wonderful. We are going to see "Black Gold," the story of a horse, thanks to Dr. Nisbett also.
Rusty's Aunt made some cookies and he gave us all some. Yum Yum!
Mrs. Bowling went to town Thursday and bought kites and string for us. We're just waiting for a good wind so we can show them off.
Mrs. Harrison, Bobby Ray's sister, sent us a box of lollypops. They were in the shape of big red hearts. Lollypops are good to little boys no matter what shape they're in.
Good-bye, we'll be back in the next edition.
— The Synods Family

INFIRMARY

Hello, Friends,
Since we wrote you last our dining room has been completed. The furniture is grey and black as is the floor. The curtains are grey and black with a yellow back ground. To go with the curtains, and for Sunday use, we have a beautiful yellow table cloth. We hope before long to be writing you about our "new" kitchen.
Since Mrs. Finley has come, we've had more company than ever. It seems that all the boys feel that they have to get sick. Is it Mrs. Congleton, the "bonne cook," or Mrs. Finley, the nurse, they really come to see? We'll let you decide for yourself. Of course it's not the girls.
Kathleen Ellis is worried about the fact that she's getting too boney. Is this why boys don't come to see me?" She's asking herself. It's the other way around with Kathleen Monroe. By the way, Margaret Bullard has lost three pounds. Is it from lack of food or love? eh! Mangum.

Mrs. Finley had to get on to Elsie the other night for keeping such late hours. Who's the lucky guy, or is it more than one, hon?
We had quite an entertaining guest at our lunch table Tuesday, none other than Miss Lulie Andrews. Miss Lulie is not only a person to have around when you need something, but she's sweet and understanding at all times.
Mr. Hethcox, our principal, who lives at our house, is "sporting" around in a new 1948 Chevrolet.
We'll be with you again next month, so until then keep smiling.
— Margaret Bullard
Kathleen Ellis
Kathleen Monroe

LEE'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are again bringing you the news. We are having a good time skating. Miss Ford bought each one of us a ball of string, and we are having a good time flying kites, and she bought us paste to make our kites.
We are glad it is getting warmer. After awhile we are going to have to start working on the float-groups.
Miss Ford varnished our hall, playroom, and library.
We will be seeing you next month.
— Eugene Thomas,
Billy Hardin.

SEWING ROOM

The sewing room has been a busy place for the past month. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Long have piled forth dozens of new dresses for Woman's Building and Howard girls.
The fact that snow was a great hinderance against "good old school days" in many sections, did not burden us. We tucked in our warmest clothes and set forth each morning to school.
Since we wrote you last we (the sewing room girls) have bought our evening gown materials. We have already started work on them and many of us are ready for the grand finale.
It hardly seems possible that in only three short months we will be leaving our beloved co-workers (the sewing machines) to find work of our own choosing. Many of us are already beginning to get homesick for them.
Ernestine has finally found a mate. What does he look like? Oh, you know him, the red headed boy from Paw Creek.
Bradley has been a very efficient salesman during our tournament (isn't that right girls.)
Peggy, better known as Pug, is still keeping good time at the basketball games. Oh- Don't get me wrong I meant with the clock. Don't give up hope, Pug.
Who did we see walking to supper with Betty the other night?

Alumni News

W. A. Johnson, Amos Hardy and Ernest Stricklin, students at Davidson College, spent the week-end at Barium.
Gene Bonnous was discharged from the Navy 1-11-48 and has entered Iona College at New Rochelle, New York.
Raymond Good has moved into a new home in Charleston, S. S. He has a little girl born May 23, 1947. Raymond is still in service.
Earl Adams, student at Catawba College, spent the week-end at Barium.
Bennett Baldwin is working in Wilmington.
We were glad to have Jack Weeks make us a visit. Jack is living in Wilmington.
Announcement came to us of the birth of Stephen Mark, 8 pounds, 8 ounces on January 28 to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cumbie of Greensboro.

(He's a little "too fat for you," Bet). But, of course, love is blind.
Mildred, the shoulder, is still the person who knows what you're going to say before you say it.
We've got to get back on the job, so look for our slanderous column next month.
Sew long.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Basketball and tournament are in the air about this time every year and most of the Woman's Building girls have been helping out at our annual basketball tournament which started February 18 and ended February 23. The basketball players sponsored the teams, while the other girls worked in the refreshment stand, kept time, and did various other duties. Our own basketball team will enter a tournament at Salisbury in March.
We have a new matron in our building from Charlotte, Mrs. Ellis. We are delighted to have her live with us.
Several of our girls have been selected to attend a Beta Club Convention in Raleigh. This is quite an honor, and we are very glad they can go.
This is about all the news for this month, so be looking for more news next month from the W. B. girls.

The Budget

Our children show a fine gain in growth and weight. We have had good things to eat and have stayed reasonably happy. Maybe that should wipe out some of the money worries.

Another Evidence of

has increased, and now when we have a ball game it is a question of whether we shall let our children see it or hold them out and let visitors see it. It crowds things entirely too much to have both. It does not seem right to exclude the children from their own contests and it does not seem right either to exclude friends who are willing to pay to see these contests. Incidentally, we need the money that these visitors would pay in our athletic program.

In addition to our regular games we have tournaments. One of those tournaments is briefly described elsewhere in this paper. We have just finished that tournament, and on the final night we had to stop selling tickets twenty minutes before the first game started. We have about 450 seats in our gymnasium by crowding in every available space. By twenty minutes to game time we had sold in the neighborhood of 900 tickets. We stopped the sale of tickets and the estimated number who were turned back ran everywhere from five hundred to a thousand. There is no way to estimate those who did not come, knowing that the conditions would be crowded.

It is a pity that these good friends had to be turned away. They were good-natured about it, and those who had to crowd in and stand up were good-natured about it: the teams that had to play under the handicap of people standing on part of the playing court were good-natured about it, but each year they ask us why in the world we do not build a bigger place for them to play. These questions are asked good-naturedly, but it appears to us that there is a little more acid in the questions now than there was a few years back, because it appears to them that we are making no effort to provide better accommodation.

Let us interject here an answer to your question as to why we stage these tournaments. Well, if we did not it is doubtful if we could have our athletic program because this tournament and a smaller one in March pay the freight. The profit that is made on these is the money which makes our own athletic program possible.

One other thing, and a more important thing. No orphanage can exist without friends, and the business of making and holding friends is one of the biggest and most important jobs that we do. Well, of all the things that are done by Barium and at Barium to our minds it appears that the tournament creates more goodwill, adds more good friends to Barium and to the individual boys and girls here than any other one thing that we do. We have evidence of that by the hundreds. People who come to our tournaments say that they are unique, and that they would rather lose in our tournament than win in some other tournament. We hope that they will always feel that way about it and we hope that we can soon furnish accommodations, or make a start toward it, so that our friends will not feel that we are taking their money without giving any thought to their comfort and convenience.

We think the tournament does our community good in another way. You know people are inclined to think the younger generation of this day and time are going to the dogs. The papers and magazines seem full of evidences of juvenile delinquency and incidents of selfishness and thoughtlessness on the part of young people. Well, if anyone is getting down from these thoughts they should come to these tournaments - they would go away feeling better. There were 43 teams entered this year. They with their cheer leaders meant something like 600 young people. Some of them became highly excited during the games. They wanted their teams to win: they played hard for their teams to win. In the playing of that many games under the pressure that exists at any tournament anything ugly in these young people would be pretty apt to come out. Well, not a single incident occurred during this recent tournament that was any indication of bad sportmanship, bad manners, or thoughtlessness on the part of these 600 young people. They were courteous, good sports, good losers, and not arrogant winners. You would see a game going on with teams doing their best to outdo each other - thirty minutes later you would see the members of those same teams at the refreshment stand enjoying a bite together, teasing or complimenting each other in the best spirit in the world. Very few of them forgot to pat the referees on the back as they left and tell them they did a good job.

It might interest you to know that the officials consider it a high compliment to be chosen for this tournament and say they are willing to work for much less money than in another tournament because the crowds and the players are such good sports. We do not attempt to jew their price down on that account, but we do appreciate their sentiment.

All in all, we think the participants of the Mid-Piedmont Tournament are a fine set of folks. We hope they will hold their good opinion of us until we can get better accommodations for them to play in.

that a problem settled ages ago? Recently a brother minister told me of serving a church in a cotton growing section of the deep south. Officers in his church who had stores furnished the negro tenants on credit and charged exorbitant profits. The land lords also, in some cases officers of the church, stood for the accounts and received ten per cent on the accounts when cotton was marketed in the fall. Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, "Woe unto you, Scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites; for ye devour widow's houses and for a pretense make long prayers." Similarly we might illustrate from such subjects as war, poverty and riches, race relations, marriage and divorce, the liquor traffic, etc.

If you will study the way that Jesus handled these matters, you will find that Jesus refused to act as a judge. He would not tell a man how to vote, he entered not into useless controversy. But when a social or political problem was presented to Him He delivered great and profound principles on which the earnest seeker could build his faith and by which he could guide his life. For instance when they asked him that question so full of political dynamite "Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar, or no?" He answered "Render therefore unto Caesar the things that be Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's." In all these things the minister can go as far and no farther than the principles of truth and right as found in the Word of God. For he follows a master who said I have given them the words which thou gavest me." He has for his example the Apostle Paul who said "I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God."

The purposes of preaching are many fold. I shall mention but three fundamental purposes which meet basic needs of men. The first is that men might be saved. Without Christ man is lost. But it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

Man is in need of spiritual food. So Jesus said to Peter "Feed my sheep." Paul said to the Ephesian Elders "Take heed to feed the Church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood."

There is a great deal of sorrow and sadness in the world. There are pictures on our walls, there are poignant memories in our hearts. A minister can have no finer name than to be called Barnabas, "The son of consolation." There can be no more helpful message than that in Isaiah, "Comfort ye, Comfort ye my people, saith your God." No more gracious invitation than that of Christ's, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

These three things: the salvation of immortal souls; the feeding of the flock; the bringing of comfort to heavy hearts can only be accomplished by preaching Christ in all his full orb'd deity. There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." Jesus said, "I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat this bread he shall live forever." Jesus only could say, "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have over come the world."

May our minister, may every minister, hear the voice of inspiration, "O thou that telleth good tidings to Zion, get thee up on a high mountain; O thou that telleth good tidings to Jerusalem, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God."

 she has several voice pupils; and she has recently started a rhythm band in the primary grades. This band will be making itself heard in a short time.
 Miss Margaret Ritchie of Statesville is teaching piano at Barium this year. She was secured to take the place of Miss Green, who resigned after serving most capably as piano teacher here for a number of years. Miss Ritchie has more than forty pupils, and would have more if she could possibly get them in her schedule. There will be recitals by the piano pupils this spring.
 The Johnsonian, a Winthrop College publication, each year publishes a high school edition carrying the pictures and write-ups of high school senior girls in the Carolinas who were selected by their classmates as "Miss Hi Miss". Bradley Jean Manus of the senior class at Barium received this honor.

VISITORS

 ant words to say when they leave and have some good words for the officials; which, by the way, is the last word in politeness.
 A number of trophies are given to the winning teams and the runners-up, the foul shooting contest, and one for the best-dressed girls' team. It is more difficult each year to decide this particular winner. This year it goes to Troutman, with so many teams close behind that it would not do to name them all. Troutman won it, however, by the unanimous vote of the judges. It would take a color photograph to do justice to that team.
 Elsewhere in this paper will be given the scores of the various games in the tournament.
 The results of the Barium games will be compiled next month and a story on the entire basketball season given, also the results of the Junior Tournament which is to take place about the middle of March. This Junior Tournament, by the way, is more fun than you could imagine. The teams that compete are made up of girls from the ninth grade down - the beginners. The boys' teams consist of players weighing 125 pounds or less.
 There will probably be 32 teams entered in this tournament, and there will be double eliminations, and every team winning as many as two games will receive a trophy. As a matter of fact, there are more trophies given for the Junior Tournament than there are for the big tournament. It is quite an exciting time, and brings to Barium still another group of schools.
 The attendance at this Junior tournament is not anything like as great as at the big tournament, or a number of years it took some of the profits of the big tournament to pay for the Junior tournament, but now it pays its own way, and it winds up the basketball season with everybody happy. Those who assist in putting this on are the varsity players who have finished their season. By the way, the big tournament handled to a large extent by the students at Barium. The score-keeping, the refreshment stand, the sponsoring of the various teams, and many of the details of the tournament are handled most efficiently by the students.
 Those in charge of the tournament are Mr. R. G. Calhoun, Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Hethcox, Mr. Archie Calhoun, Mr. Sigmon, Mr. Ike White, Mr. Lowrance, Mr. Ervin and Mr. Gibbs and the whole staff of teachers who assist in ticket sales and other details of handling the crowd and the teams.

Old Man Winter Took A Slap At Us

Old Man Winter certainly played rough with us and it was not all in fun either. The weather commenced to play tricks on us last Fall when it would set in and rain every Friday and thus make mud-hens out of our football boys until they got so they did not know how to play on a dry field. You might say Old Man Weather was playing a joke on us, and then when the winter months rolled around he served notice on us Christmas Day with that nice snowstorm, and all through January and February we had it, rain, snow and sleet. With it all it looked like just clean fun except on three occasions when Old Man Winter shook his fist at us and finally slapped us down - they were the times when it sleeted.

If you want to know what really scares us at Barium Springs it is a sleet storm, and when this last one came along on the night of March 5th it really did fix us. Along about 10:30 P. M. Saturday the lights went off which meant that something had happened to the wires in Statesville or between Statesville and Barium. Whatever it was was soon fixed, however, and the lights came back on, but at 2 o'clock a wire came down right at Barium and the live wires kicked up such a racket that it put the girls at the Woman's Building into a complete panic. They had to shut off the power in Statesville. Well, from that time on a good many folks were busy, not only at Barium but in Statesville too. The

Barium Girls Are Champions of the South Piedmont Conference

The picture that we publish this month is the same picture that will go on a handsome trophy that will occupy an honor place in our trophy cabinet. It is the champion girls team of the South Piedmont Conference in basketball for 1948. Our girls went through the season with only one defeat in conference play and with fifteen wins. They lost some warm-up games to the consolidated schools in the neighborhood before the season opened and they lost one game in the Salisbury tournament. By the way, this loss was to a team which the Barium girls had defeated twice in the regular season.

There are many good teams in the South Piedmont Conference. Statesville, Albemarle, Children's Home, Mills Home, and Thomasville. There are only three really weak teams. The complete record of all our teams is listed below.

Our boys ended up in fourth place in conference play. They lost two games to Statesville, one game each to Albemarle, Kannapolis, and Monroe. Our junior team played a short schedule, and as this is written are engaged in the junior tournament. The results of that will appear elsewhere in this issue.

In the Salisbury tournament both of our teams went down in the semi-finals, our girls losing to Statesville and our boys to Lexington, but three of our players were chosen for all-tournament honors: Frances Stricklin, forward, on the girls team and Janie Hall, guard, and Jack Mangum from the boy's team. They attended a banquet given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the tournament, in the Yadkin Hotel Tuesday night, March 16th., and there received their trophies.

This is Mr. Archie Calhoun's first year as coach of basketball. He handles both teams. To place one team in the first division and another team as champion is quite an achievement in any year, particularly so in the first year.

Three of the regulars of the girls' team are seniors and have played their last game for Barium - Lucille Stricklin and Sadie Buie, forwards, and Janie Hall, guard. Betty Jo Smith is also a senior and has seen a lot of service but was not a starter.

The boys lose only one by graduation, Charles Barrett. They will miss Charlie because in several games he was the high scorer.

This is the final news on basketball. It has been a lot of fun and the basketball trips have been much more pleasant - we have had a bus - and it was lots of fun, particularly coming home from the games. Mr. Hethcox did the bus driving and he is the world's best. The crowd usually spent a good deal of time coming home from the games singing and you could not tell from the music whether we had won or lost. Usually there was a stop somewhere for a hamburger or hot-dog to fill up that void due to an early supper and a long time until breakfast. It was fun winning a championship, but almost as much fun just going and playing, win or lose.

We are proud of our teams and like to associate with them.

Following is the scores of our basketball games:

The Every-Member Canvass for Little Joe's

(By Jos. B. Johnston)

This is a purely personal narrative and is my own experience in recent every-member canvasses. We have heard elders congratulate themselves on their election to the Session by saying that now they would not have to bother any more in the every-member canvass, that the deacons would look after that. Well, here at Little Joe's Church we do not have enough deacons to do the job and the members of the session are called in to team up on the every-member canvass day's work.

I am one of the older elders and might plead an excuse for getting out of the job, but I am not inclined to do so because it is so much fun. During the last three or four years I have had one of the younger deacons to team up with and we had most of the high school boys and girls on our list. This year my team-mate was the very youngest deacon - a young man who just a few years ago was one of the high school boys himself. We started out on Sunday afternoon, March 14th. We visited the area known as the Quads where the high school boys live. Some of them were waked up out of a sound sleep and had a card and pencil poked at them. Some were reading, some were listening to the radio, and some (believe it or not) were out playing marbles. The cheerfulness with which they all stopped what they were doing

Junior Tournament Held Again At Barium

We hope our readers will not get the idea that we do nothing else but play basketball at Barium. It just happens that this issue of The Messenger is the one which has to have the writeup of so many basketball doings that is crowds out some other news sometimes.

The final act of the basketball season is the Junior Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament. In it there are 32 junior teams entered. The boys play under a 125-pound weight limit and the girls must come from the ninth grade or under.

Due to conflicting tournaments in Catawba County and in Winston, a number of schools that ordinarily take part in this tournament were not able to enter this year, so Barium entered three girls' teams, Statesville entered two girls' teams, Mooresville entered two boys' teams, and Claremont entered two teams of both boys and girls.

It would take too long to put all of the scores down. The tournament

The Message of the Pulpit

Isaiah 61:10. "He hath clothed me with the garments of Salvation."

This subject was suggested to me by the outline of a sermon which was preached by a Jewish Rabbi in a Synagogue during the first century of the Christian Era. As seven was The Sacred Number, he found in the Psalms and Prophets seven garments for Christ.

Remember in the first place that clothes are the outer covering, but that the being underneath is the same. Yesterday a mechanic was underneath an automobile, clothed in old overalls, blackened and greasy. Today washed, shaved, in fresh linen, and a good suit he may look very different but he is the same man.

So, though we see Jesus under varying conditions and clothed differently

Worth-while Reading

(From The Connie Maxwell)

Most of us will agree that a child gets his sense of values in life from the people with whom he grows up. In fact, although we seldom think of it, there is no other way for him to obtain a sense of values.

Spend an hour with Gloomy Gus and how do you feel? Gloomy! Spend an hour with the happiest person you know and how do you feel? Hardly gloomy. Associations have a great deal to do with how we feel and act.

We no longer say a child inherits his behavior from his parents. He acquires it by association with people, and develops it as he learns to deal with people in one way or another—acceptably or otherwise.

As a matter of fact, the cards are stacked against the child from the start. He will have little choice in what he becomes. He wants to do as he pleases, but these horrible adults are continuously interfering in their efforts to make him conform. How ever you take it, growing up is a fight for the child and many harmful things can happen to him if he is misunderstood.

After all, each of us who deals with a child has a deep-seated need of our own to see him grow up in our own image. Too often we forget the needs of the child and the fact that he is an individual with an inalienable right to be so. We also forget that our image may not be the only valid one in the universe.

If the people with whom the child grows up determine his development, are some more important than others? Of course. The parents are the key persons. The child's experiences with his parents will determine more than anything else his adjustment to other people. If he has been happy with his parents, he will exhibit few problems. On the contrary, if he has had to fight his parents to get a decent break, his feelings toward other adults will be colored by his experience. He will feel that he has to fight to get his due where-ever adults are concerned. A child who has had unhappy experience with his parents—

- 1—may fight everybody.
2—may fight people who seem like his parents.
3—may steal.
4—may play the big-shot.
5—may become outright delinquent.
6—may wet the bed.
7—may be sullen.
8—may withdraw and live within himself because trying to live like a human has hurt him at every turn.
9—may have nightmares.
10—may fail in school.
11—may run away.

There are many other ways in which he may express his unhappiness.

To grow up normally, a child must have two parents who love him, understand him and encourage him in his efforts to conform to life's demands, or he must have the best possible substitutes. This seems to be an innate need. The child must belong and must know that he belongs to someone who loves him for what he is and regardless of what he is.

Consequently, good—bad—indifferent—moral—immoral—dead—or alive, the most important people to any child are his parents; and next his relatives. And the most important decision any person takes upon himself is that of cutting the ties between a child and his parents. This can be done psychologically just as effectively and just as completely as it can be done physically and with much more serious implications for the child.

We are again talking about human relations. But what do these things imply for us—the people who try to substitute for the home and parents. There are many implications. The child comes to us with his behavior pattern well-developed. He has already learned a great deal about people. But so many of our children have difficulty with one or both parents and often with other people. They may have found that they could not trust the adults in their world. After all, few adults are consistent and children just will look for consistencies. If they burn their hands on a stove, they will expect to be burned if they touch it again. But if they are "burned" by an adult, they may be "loved to death" by the same person the next minute. This is all rather confusing. Why should they trust us? As a matter of fact, they won't until we prove we are different.

We are not talking about punishment. But suppose the child has been hurt by adults. What if we hurt him also.

There is no reflection upon any one of us that a child exhibits any or all the problems mentioned when he comes to Connie Maxwell—we cannot control the past. There is no reflection when one of us fails. The important thing is that one of us succeed. The child first must respond to a person. This is why it is so important that the janitor and the plow-hand be the kind of people who understand and love children, because the child's need may be met by the janitor as often as by the social worker. There is a reflection upon each of us when a child leaves with the same problems he brought.

We can be very sure the child's problems are related to his feelings about his own people. Patience, and understanding will be required to restore his confidence in people. Some one must break the chain of events. These problems persist from generation to generation as all of us are so often reminded.

Whether we want the responsibility or whether we are capable of accepting it, when a child comes to us it is up to each of us acting as individuals, and all of us acting collectively, to break the chain and send the child away at peace with himself, capable of living with people and confident that he carry on. These traits can come only through a conviction on his part that he is loved for and in spite of what he is.

There is no greater challenge. There is no greater responsibility. There is no task in which failure can work such unlimited havoc.

To sum up the child has an inborn need for his parents, or substitutes, which must be met if he is to be normal and happy. His behavior is determined largely by his associations with these parents. When he comes to us, many behavior patterns have already developed. If he is to be helped to overcome his problems, it is we who must break the chain of events, else the problems may pass on to future generations. There is no greater responsibility. There is sufficient knowledge to equip us to deal with these problems, but we must work on our feelings about this knowledge.

ferently, as he is revealed to us in the word of God, yet he does not change. He is the same yesterday, today and forever.

The first garment Christ wore was the garment of honor and majesty. Even as Jacob loved Joseph, the beloved son of Rachel, and gave him a princely robe of rich and royal colors; so God the Father loved and honored his only begotten Son and gave into his hand the stupendous works of creation.

"In the beginning was the word." He was the image of the invisible God, first born of every creature, for by him were all things created that are in heaven and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones or dominions or principalities or powers, all things were created by Him and for Him and He is before all things and in Him all things consist, that in all things He might have the preeminence."

It was he who spake from Mt. Sinai and who passed by as the herald angels proclaimed, "The Lord, The Lord God."

Daniel saw the ancient of Days clothed in a garment as white as snow. John and James and Peter saw Jesus on the Holy Mount and amidst the pure white snows of the heights of Mt. Lebanon His garments glistened more white than the snow about.

The Jewish preacher taught that the white raiment of the ancient of days represented forgiveness, but surely he missed the mark. White is the emblem of purity and of innocence. Jesus was pure, the only perfect man. He was not only clothed with the garment of purity which is in a sense a negation; His was also a positive character.

He was clothed with righteousness. Jesus not only did not break the law in its smallest part, but he filled the law full, He fulfilled it. He carried it out in every precept, every ordinance and command, every implication; He obeyed the spirit. And he went not as a galley slave driven to the bench, scourged to his task at the oars, but joyfully; "In the vol of the Book it is written of me, I have come to do thy will, O my God."

And so out of his Ivory Palaces, clothed in garments of beauty and glory, smelling of myrrh, aloes, and cassia, He came into this world of woe. Where He was clothed in purity, in righteousness, obedient to the law.

He was clothed too with humility.

He girded himself with a towel and washed his disciples feet.

But for us surely the most significant of the garments of Christ is that one mentioned in Rev. 19:13 "He was clothed in a vesture dipped in blood: and His name is called the Word of God."

Jesus conquered Satan, Jesus prevailed over sin, Jesus destroyed death, Jesus wrought out salvation not by the shedding of rivers of blood from his enemies. His was a conquest by consecration; a rule by righteous; a salvation by sacrifice. We were bought by the blood. He conquered with the conquest of the cross and on that triumphal day when on his snow white steed he leads forth the hosts of heaven he will still be our Savior, clothed in a vesture dipped in blood.

But as I meditate upon this subject I could not but remember that when they came to a place of a skull the soldiers took His garments and divided them and they lifted Him upon a cross stripped of His raiment.

Yes, He was stripped of honor and majesty. Despised and rejected. Even holiness, purity, and righteousness were taken from Him and the filthy rags of our sin were laid upon Him that you and I might be clothed upon with the robe of righteousness; that when the prodigal son shall come to himself, he can go home, and the father will say "bring forth the best robe and put it on him, and a ring for his hand and shoes on his feet." That we may be clothed upon with the righteousness of Christ that we may, being clothed with the wedding garment, enter into the marriage supper of the Lamb.

Shall we return to our Jewish Rabbi? He went his round of ceremonies, he read the scrolls of Moses, he uttered the usual prayers, and he even preached on the garments of salvation of his Messiah. And a young teacher passed him on the street, teaching as never man taught in tones of love and deep sincerity, performing miracles of healing even dying like a God. But the Rabbi saw him not and knew him not.

But a certain woman said to herself "If I could only touch the hem of His garment I might be healed." "She only touched the hem of His garment

SEWING ROOM

With one glance around the Sewing Room it looks as if it were already spring. All the bright yellows, pinks, greens, reds and blues give this appearance to our busy work-room. How we wish you could all be with us at the Easter Parade! Then we would not have to tell you how busy we have been.

The seniors, not to be out done by the rest, have been busy making evening gowns. How striking we will look in our reds, pinks, blues, lavender, blacks, greens, and whites.

Three of our girls, Mildred Monroe, Betty Coffey and Betty Jo Smith, are going to the Beta Club Convention in Raleigh Easter week-end. Have a good time, girls!

Well, basketball season is finally over, and we are now convinced that our girls can do something besides sew. It will seem good to have all the girls back at work again, at least for awhile.

The Glee Club has an invitation to go to Covington, Virginia the first week-end in April. They are doing a lot of performing this year.

Look for us next month.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

This is the Synod's Cottage Boys again with our monthly news broadcast.

Its "marble shooting" time again and the knees in our overalls are wearing out so fast, Mrs. Bowling is having a hard time keeping them fixed.

We had a visit from Mrs. Nisbet, Mrs. Murell, and their friend Mr. Taylor last Saturday. They brought us some candy which we enjoyed very much.

We certainly have been busy getting all the clothes out of the clothes rooms so we can have them painted. So, thanks to you, Mr. Ervin, our work will be much lighter.

Mrs. Goodrum, the substitute matron in our division, is with us for a while to learn us and our ways. We like her very much and hope she likes us.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We want to thank our Mooresville friends for the delicious box of cookies they sent us not so long ago.

This month we had eleven girls on the honor roll. Last month we had three new girls on the honor roll and our matron, Miss Jackson took them to a show.

Shirley Shaw is taking piano now and she is so thrilled.

Mr. Johnston comes to see us on Sunday nights and tells us stories and last Sunday night we invited him over to see us and we surprised him with a birthday cake.

We are so happy that we get to see movies about the Bible on Wednesday nights at the church. The last one we saw was, "The Calling of Matthew".

This month we had two girls to go to the birthday dinner. They were Shirley Hall and Edna Bau- (Continued On Page Three)

Here they are, Friends, the graduating class of 1948, the product of 191 years of training at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Seventeen of them were raised at Barium and two are from our neighboring city of Troutman.

The mascots are, in a way, products of Barium. The little girl, Celia Donaldson, is the daughter of Lafayette Donaldson who graduated at Barium and lives near us. The little boy is James Howard Cole, a kind of double grandchild of Barium as both his father and mother were raised here - Ed Cole and Sallie Farmer.

Charles Barrett is the senior member of the class in point of years at Barium. He entered in '32.

We would like to write a brief article about each one of these children of ours who are now young men and women, but on account of lack of space (continued on page two)

Diplomas Received By 1948 Graduating Class

Commencement began with the Baccalaureate Service at 11:00 A. M. on Sunday. The nineteen seniors and the choir marched in to the processional, "For all the Saints" by Barnby. The Baccalaureate sermon was preached by Dr. Sidney A. Gates, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Salisbury, North Carolina. The subject of his highly inspirational sermon was "The Rich Young Ruler."

At the evening hour, Rev. M. Millard Miller spoke on the subject "Making a Heaven on Earth." He took as his text Psalm 86, "Who passing through the valley of Baca, make it springs of water."

A special feature of both services was the music by the choir of Little Joe's Church and the High School Glee Club. In the morning service the choir sang, "The Lord is My Light" by Speaks. In the evening, "Alleluia" was sung by Virginia Presnell and the High School Glee Club "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

Class day exercises were enjoyable very much at 10:30 on Monday morning, at which time the class history and class prophecy were delivered and appropriate gifts were exchanged. This was concluded by the singing of the class song, "Auld Lang Syne."

The Rising Senior Class at Barium Springs High School

Every year the feature of our April issue of The Messenger is the individual pictures of this year's graduating class. It seems fitting that the feature of the May issue should be a picture of the rising senior class. This class is a small one. We still have not recovered from the war. It will be two years yet before we begin to have classes the size of those pre-war classes. It will be the class of '51 that will really indicate that Barium is back to normal.

Take a good look at these juniors. There are only thirteen of them who are members of the orphanage family; three are village children. Jane Sigmon is the daughter of one of our high school teachers; Dickie Arrowood is the daughter of our treasurer; Ricky Lippard is the son of a neighbor. The number of years that this class has been at Barium is much less than the total number of years of the class just graduating. None of them were quite as young when they entered as four members of the recent graduating class.

They are an up and coming bunch of kids though. Every boy in the class is a member of the varsity football squad. All but one are first-class basketball players. They have notions in their heads by the way - the girls put it there. Now, this is not the ordinary kind of notion that girls put in the boys' heads but it has to do with trophies. Our girls won the South Piedmont Conference title this year, and with it a handsome trophy; the boys have notions to put the 1949 basketball trophy in our trophy case with their names and picture on it.

Most of the boys are musical. Three of them at least rate the front line in Glee Club activity.

The girls are all musical, likable, and lookable. The girls on each end of the line of this picture are basketball standbys. They were in the first six of our recent championship team. Three others play and keep the first-stringers on their toes. A versatile bunch of young people whom we are proud to present to you as the top class of the coming year.

Beta Club Had Many Activities This Year

We have many activities at Barium Springs. One of the finest groups that we have is the Beta Club. They are doing good things all year long, and for one week-end the chosen members of this club attend a convention.

The Beta Club mimeographs a monthly newspaper writing up their activities. Below we are giving you the account of the Beta Convention which this year was held in Raleigh. The account was written by one of the juniors, an active and enthusiastic Beta.

Another interesting item in the Beta News was the account of the trip taken by the Glee Club to Covington, Virginia. This is written up by a senior who is a Beta and also a member of the Glee Club. Our director of public school music has developed the Glee Club and Covington, Virginia, is her old home town. She took a sample of her work to show to the home-folks - quite a sample if you believe me.

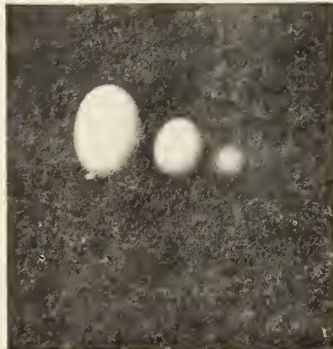

Beta Convention

On Friday, March 26, after much planning, packing and primping, the delegates (Mildred Monroe, Betty Coffey, Betty Jo Smith, Dickie Arrowood, and J. D. Everett) to the annual Beta Club Convention piled into Mr. Hethcox's car, in high spirits. Not only were we "beating out" of school, but we had the prospect of a wonderful week-end before us. The sun was shining brightly, the red bud was in bloom and the miles flew by. We reached Raleigh a weary group, weak from hunger.

Our abode for the week-end was a pretty little tourist home situated right across from State College. The girls were delighted with this arrangement, but found no time (Continued On Page Two)

Strange Doings In Poultry Department

Ordinarily, three hundred and sixty-four days in the year the poultry department at Barium is a calm, easy-going community.

The eggs are gathered, the chickens are fed, the brooders are adjusted, etc. The eggs being from the same family of hens are usually of one color and one size, but on Wednesday, March 24th, strange things happened. We don't know just why - we know the chickens are getting pretty smart and they may be psychic from being raised under an electric brooder and lay- (Continued On Page Two)

LEES COTTAGE

Here we are again bringing you the news from our cottage.

April the 24th was a happy day for us and the Howard girls. Mr. Johnston took us to the mountains. We had a picnic lunch, you should have seen the "hot dogs" we ate. We had a grand time.

We are playing baseball and having lots of fun.

School is out and we are looking forward to a happy summer, just now we are anxious to go swimming.

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Ecc. 10:8. "Whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent will bite him."

Four or five years ago there was a popular song about the great open spaces which rather plaintively implored, "Don't fence me in!" Every one is impatient of restraint. The world is becoming increasingly so, especially here in America.

But dislike hedges, walls, restraints as much as we may, the fact remains that the walls are there and that they serve a useful purpose. Also that retribution follows swiftly when the restraint is thrown off. "Whoso breaketh an hedge a serpent will bite him." Even the good and righteous Job complained of his limitations "Thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass. Turn from him that he may rest."

It is no happen so that the basic code of laws, The Ten Commandments are couched in the negative, "Thou shalt not" - "Thou shalt not". I heard of a little boy who when asked by a caller what his name was, replied "Johnny don't do that." When the caller expressed surprise at the strange appellation the boy said "well that's what they always call me."

There are many walls or restraints laid upon us. Many bounds that we may not pass.

One hedge is the limit to our physical strength. God has given us bodies of remarkable physical abilities with wonderful reserve powers. With proper care the old machine can perform long hours through many years and do a prodigious amount of work but there is a limit. The automobile has to regularly have the oil changed, greased, water in the radiator and battery, air in the tires and a gen- (Continued On Page Three)

A Message From Pres. Alumni Assn.

On last Home-coming Day, D. Reid Brown was elected president of the Alumni Association. He is writing a card to all of the alumni about next Home-coming Day and about another matter. Here is what he says:

Hey Folks:

Here's that man again. Last year at our Home-coming you asked me to write each of you a reminder of our Memorial Fund drive during the year.

You also remember that we decided to furnish the Pulpit of the new Church in honor of our foster brothers who gave everything for us and our country.

If you will please forward to me your most liberal contribution we will have a sizable amount to report at our Home-coming Meeting which will be held October 15, and the football game will be Barium vs. North Wilkesboro. Let's each of us plan to attend Home-coming this year, to see all of our old friends, and to make this the largest Home-coming yet. See you at Barium, Oct. 15, 1948.

Your Foster Brother, D. REID BROWN.

Reid's address is Route 6, Burlington, N. C. He would like to hear from you.

Campus News

We have some porch boxes on our north porch and have flowers planted. Our Madonna lillies are about ready to bloom and pansies are so pretty. Miss Blakney gave us three African violets, a white, pink and blue. They are Mrs. Bowling's hobby.

We are hoping to get to go to Statesville tomorrow to see "Fun and Fancy Free".

FAITH AND COURAGE

The world outlook as 1948 gets under way, all must admit, is in many ways far from bright. What can we do about it? I was reading Charlotte Bronte, the famous author of the book, Jane Eyre. At a time when her sister had died, her sister Anna fatally ill, and her brother Branwell dying from drink, she wrote to a friend: "I avoid looking forward, or backward, and try to keep looking upward. This is no time to regret, dread or weep. God is all over."

It seems to me there are four things you and I may do in a confused world.

1. Each of us can, by God's grace, keep himself going straight. That will help. By believing in the Providence that watches over us in spite of our errors and bad judgments, we can attain a level of action that will be helpful to those nearest us, and help the contagion of Goodness to spread.

2. Let us keep looking upward. Sailing the Atlantic some time ago, I had several conversations with the captain. Learning that I was a minister, he took me to see the compass of the ship. He told me that sailing a ship was like living on land. Unseen forces play about us. No one can see the power that keeps the time clock of the heavens, yet the sailor banks on the North Star being in its place, even though it be impossible to glimpse it through the storm clouds.

3. Let's keep our faith in the future. The nations of men do indeed have much to learn about living together in peace and harmony on this whirling ball we call the Earth. Once nations lived entirely by the law of "Might Makes Right." Now there is a dream of justice and fair play called the United Nations. Surely it will come if—if we keep looking up, and going straight ahead. —The Uplift.

The Message of the (Continued From Page One) eral overhauling from time to time. The human body is the same way. It must have proper care, proper food, proper rest. If that hedge is broken the serpent of serious illness strikes. I read sometime ago about a man in his early forties. He had a fine position at the head of a big advertising firm. He made a fine salary, enjoyed his work and went at it with zest for long hours. He also loved to play golf and played it with great enthusiasm. He was a great sportsman going afield with dog and gun or fishing in mountain streams. One day he picked up a couple of heavy suitcases and ran up a hill and up a flight of stairs with them. When he set them down the world went black. It was nature's warning. But he got better and ignored it. The next attack put him on his back for months. From now on he will not take a quick step or lift a chair. He went beyond his limit and the serpent of ill health struck him down.

Of course there are other ways to break the hedge of bodily health and strength besides over work, worry, or strain. There is the misuse of the body as the prodigal son when he wasted his substance in riotous living. In my youth I met a man of attractive personality who came from one of the proudest families in the state. When he went to work, he told me, "I did not drink, or curse, or smoke." "But", he said, "It wasn't long till I could go with the boys anywhere." He was a man of fine judgement, a great sportsman and attractive personality. He wasted his substance. He wrecked his body in debauchery and drunkenness and died as a result of his excesses in early middle life.

There is also the hedge of convention. It is that hedge which a mother or a matron speaks of when she says "nice girls do not do so and so". These rules of convention are made up of the general opinion in a community of what is right, or proper, or safe or most praiseworthy to do or not to do. It is determined, on the one hand, by those of noble thought and aspiration which would raise a high standard of conduct. On the other hand, the tongue of scandal, and the foul mouthings of the evil minded; the vulgar imaginations of those who, while they may not be outwardly vile, in their minds they run to do evil, and are always ready and delighted to believe the worst. Conventions are not so strict nor are the standards so high as they once were but the hedge is still there. Many a girl and many a boy has been heedless of that and the serpent has struck surely and swiftly. Honored names have been sullied, reputations have been wrecked in a few hours of heedless conduct.

There is the hedge of the law of the land.

The hedge of the law is supposed to run along where my rights end and the rights of the other man begin. I have a right to drive my car on the highway so long as I do not violate the rights of another. I must observe his right of way. I must not speed or otherwise operate my car in such a manner as to endanger the lives of others. You know how much that hedge of the law is being broken in this state and throughout the nation and how swiftly the serpent strikes wrecking property, maiming bodies, taking human life.

There is the hedge of Home Restraint. This comes before the law of the land and is the basis of law. It is of prime importance. It is made up of the counsel, advice and direction of the Father and Mother. It is founded on parental care, love and responsibility. Paul said, "Children obey your parents in the Lord for this is right." I remember years ago preaching one night in a little school house on "The Prodigal Son." That night my host told me of his own handsome son who had flouted his father's advice and prayers and after a career of sin the boy disappeared. He told me how he had found his son's bloated body in the same little school house, a suicide. I had been thinking about a prodigal as some one long ago in some other country but reality got up and looked at me that night.

There is the hedge of the law of God. It was not different from the hedge of the home restraint or the law of the land. It is only different in extent or quality. The law of the Lord is perfect. Human laws are fallible, home restraints may lack in either being too strict or too indulgent; but God's law is true and just and good. And the certainty of punishment for break-that hedge is sure. God said "the soul that sinneth it shall die."

Parents are soft and forgiving and many a crime of the state goes unspanked of justice, but not the law of God. "Be sure your sins will find you out." "Whoso breaketh this hedge a serpent will bite him."

Is there then no hope for the sinner? Yes, it is in Jesus Christ. When the children of Israel were bitten by the fiery serpent, Moses was told to make a brazen serpent and those who looked at it in faith lived.

As Moses lifted up the serpent so was the Son of man lifted up that whosoever believeth in him might not perish but have everlasting life. Christ is the great physician of our souls, Christ cleanses from every sin.

I have heard a story of a rich man who had an only son. The boy was lonely and one day the father came home and there sat his son in a big chair looking at a book and by him about the dirtiest, most ragged boy he had ever seen. As he came in his boy put his arm around a dirty, ragged shoulder and said, "Father meet my friend". The rich man said, "well if he is your friend take him up stairs give him a bath and some clothes". So they went off together and presently came back two clean, fine looking boys. But isn't that what Jesus does for us? He says, "Father meet my friend". He cleanses us and clothes us and takes us as his younger brother, healed and free from sin.

"Look unto Him and be ye saved all ye ends of the earth."

Camp Fellowship

Miss Guelda Elliott

In Memoriam

Something over ten years ago Camp Fellowship was built. The land on which Fellowship stands was leased to Barium Springs by the Paola Cotton Mills owned by the Mills family, the Bloomfield Mills at that time owned by the Cannon Company, Statesville Cotton Mills and Statesville Flour Mill, Mr. Clint Wagner.

Buildings at Camp Fellowship were provided for by the Men's Fellowship Club of the Second Presbyterian Church in Charlotte. They gave the bulk of the money for this. Other contributions were made by Mr. Bob Grier of Statesville, Mr. Bill Preyer of Greensboro and numerous smaller contributors. The initial investment was in the neighborhood of $3,000. Later on the water supply had to be increased and wells were dug so that the total investment over all as of today is about $4,000. Camp Fellowship was used during the first three of four years almost exclusively for the Orphanages of North Carolina. The Childrens Home of Winston-Salem, Mills Home at Thomasville, the High Point Orphanage, and the Junior Order at Lexington and one year the Alexander Home at Charlotte.

Later on the Orphanages began to drop out of the picture and the Presbytery and churches of other denominations began to use the camp. Concord Presbytery now uses it for two weeks, the Methodist Churches use it for four weeks, the Baptist Churches for one week and during the last two years the Four H-Clubs have managed to get in a little time there also, this in addition to our own use of the camp.

It has become more a place for religious gatherings rather than just of entertainment and fun.

The lease under which we secured the land was for ten years and now that ten years is up. And many of the men who were interested in securing that lease for us are dead. Mr. N. B. Mills was most enthusiastic about the project. Mr. Clint Wagner, and Mr. Avery Sherrill. In fact, Mr. Sherrill and Mr. Wagner went to Charlotte with us to interview The Duke Power Company officials and were most helpful in getting electricity into the camp.

We started over a year ago to take steps toward the renewal of the lease. We found that the Statesville Cotton Mills were perfectly (Continued On Page Three)

"There Is a Lad Here"

It was Andrew, one of the Disciples who made this statement, wondering whether he had found a way of solving a serious problem. Great crowds of people had been listening to the Galilean Preacher for hours, but now it was past meal time and they were far from home in a desert place, where no food was available.

Still the Preacher said the people should be fed and the Disciples wondered what to do. They had a little money, but that didn't help when there was no store or bakery. When Andrew mentioned the lad and said, "He has a little food—five barley loaves and two small fishes—but what is that among so many?" Jesus took the loaves and fishes and blessed them and (Continued On Page Three)

The Junior Choir of Barium Springs

The group that we wish to honor this month by displaying its picture in the Messenger is the Junior Glee Club. It has furnished music and other entertainment many times during the year. Several times taking over the church service music and doing it acceptably. We are proud of the Junior Glee Club, not only for what they have done and are doing, but for the promise of additional music in the years to come. They won't be our Junior Glee Club very long. They will soon be the Senior Glee Club.

Four Elders Going to the Assembly

The church papers have already written splendid accounts of the recent meeting of the General Assembly of our church. This particular article will have something to say about it but not in a very serious vein. It is the account of the trip of the four Concord Presbytery elders on their way there. By way of introduction, they are: treasurer, F. L. Jackson of Davidson College, Dean C. K. Brown of Davidson College, Mr. R. L. Sparrow of Mount Mourne and Mr. J. B. Johnston of Barium Springs. For the balance of this narrative these four men will be known by their last names, Jackson, Brown, Sparrow and me. These four left Mooresville around ten o'clock on the morning of May 27 and headed toward Atlanta. The Presbyterian Orphans' Home furnished the car and the driver and a great deal of the conversation for the first and last part of the trip. The Assembly paid for the gas and the eats. And when the driver would let them, conversation went pretty freely around the whole car. As a matter of fact we reached Atlanta without finding out how we stood individually on the important matters coming up before the Assembly. We didn't know who was for Federal Council or who was against it.

As it happened we went through Lincolnton, Shelby, and on down through Spartanburg and Gaffney. I monopolized the conversation so much during this part of the trip because I had once lived in Lincolnton and had a lot of business transactions in Cherryville, Shelby, and even down as far as Gaffney. After leaving Gaffney some of the others had a chance to talk a little. We found lots of things to talk about. About Bob Jones' University in Greenville. We passed right through the grounds. For many miles before we reached Greenville we also talked about something for lunch. Jackson mentioned an eating house in Greenville and described it so vividly that we were all practically drooling by the time we reached Greenville. We parked the car and went (Continued On Page Three)

Albert S. Barnes

One of the great men in orphanage work, Rev. Albert S. Barnes, superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage, Raleigh, has announced his resignation. We see by the papers what we never would have dreamed, that he was seventy-five years old. Mr. Barnes has been superintendent of the institution for thirty-four years and has kept not only abreast of the times in Orphanage work but has been a leader in its development. His own institution ranks along with the best of the south and that means the best in the world. The best orphanages in the world are found within the bounds of the Southeastern Conference. Men like Kessler and Jamison developed the standard of orphanage work. Then men like Barnes and Joseph B. Johnston, I. G. Greer and O. V. Woosley carried the work forward. For many years the child welfare people of the North and East have attempted to down the very idea of the institutional life for children. These leaders in the South have gone on the even tenor of their way rearing children in their orphanages and sending them out into life as highly useful citizens. The people of the North as a rule have never learned how to rear children in an institution and therefore think that because they cannot do it, it cannot be done. These southern orphanage not only know how to do it but do it. If the proof of the pudding is in the eating, the proof of the orphanage work is in the product, that it turns out. Mr. Barnes for thirty-four years has been turning out a product that is inescapable proof that children can be reared successfully in an institution. Mr. Barnes was superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage and never hesitated to admit that his institution was a Methodist institution. He felt that the Methodists were responsible for some dependent children of the (Continued On Page Four)

THE BIBLE AND CIVILIZATION

There is one book that has been the best seller ever since it was first printed, hundreds of years ago. That book is the Bible. It is one book it had one author, the Holy Spirit of God. It is many books. We think of it as having 66 books in it written by a number of men over a period of more than a thousand years.

All that is good and great in our civilization we owe to the Bible.

One of the pillars of civilization is business.

Back in the early days of the race each man's home was practically self sufficient. The members of the household killed the game; tilled the fields; cooked the food which they themselves had provided; wove their cloth; made their shoes; built their own houses; had their own work shops.

Now we buy food largely prepared and much of it cooked; we buy clothes ready made; we purchase fruits and vegetables from distant states. If we have any money, a bank takes care of it for us. This vast institution of business is built on credits and on the integrity and honesty of people. No great and lasting civilization can be erected in any nation or people who are not fundamentally honest. If, for one day the people of America stopped trusting one another and cancelled all credit, our business structure would collapse. This honesty and integrity comes from the ideals of that book which is called the word of truth and which teaches us "wherefore putting away all lying speak every man truth with his neighbor for we are members one of another."

Business also depends on industry. One reason the American workman gets high wages and has such a high standard of living is that he is worth it. He has been schooled in the word which says "whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

The man who knows and obeys his Bible will make a true success (Continued On Page Two)

Babe Ruth's Tribute

The following testimony to the useful life of an old minister was given by "Babe" Ruth, the famous baseball player: "Most of the people who have really counted in my life were not famous. Nobody ever heard of them, except those who knew and loved them. I knew an old minister once. His hair was white; his face shone. I have written my name on thousands of baseballs in my life. The old minister wrote his name on just a few simple hearts. How I envy him! Because he was not trying to please his own immortal soul, fame never came to him. I am listed as a famous homerunner, yet beside that obscure minister, who was so good and so wise, I never got to first base."

 doors of orphanages today because of homes broken by divorce than because of the death of a parent. Let me plead with you to relight your family altar.
 Robert Burns in his poem "The Cotters Saturday Night" describes a humble family having scripture reading, hymns and family prayer. He concludes the poem with these words we may well ponder:
 "From scenes like these Old Scotia's grandeur Springs,
 That makes her loved at home, rever'd abroad;
 Princes and Lords are but the breath of Kings,
 An honest man's the noblest work of God."

Four Elders Going

 and found out that probably the only good meal the restaurant had ever served was when Mr. Jackson was there a year ago.
 The next place of interest after leaving Greenville was Clemson College. And then on into Georgia. At Toccoa, Georgia we all took a bird's-eye view of the big LaTourneau plant. This is the place where a famous man manufacturers his earth moving machinery.
 On into Atlanta around 6 o'clock. Before reaching Atlanta I again proceeded to take charge of the conversation and was doing fine. I told the other passengers that I had lived in Atlanta about six years and described Atlanta as it was when I lived there. I found out that they had commenced to figure in the back of envelopes while I talked and didn't catch on until later. I found that they had figured up all the years that I had been talking about and had me a little over a hundred years old and were wondering if I was too old to drive a car.
 Well in spite of my age, I got my passengers to the Hotel and finally to church. The first night of the Assembly is always the most exciting time. The sermon by the retiring moderator is one of the highlights of the meeting and the election of the new moderator brings much excitement. Dr. Cunningham preached a wonderful sermon and then Dr. Fulton took over as the new moderator. Jackson and Brown quartered at the Biltmore Hotel just about a mile from the church. Sparrow was lodged at Columbia Seminary about ten miles away from the church. I was quartered with a friend of mine who lived about seven miles across the busy part of Atlanta. I had to drive out and back, of course, every morning and it was quite a job in the heavy traffic. Well as luck would have it. I was appointed on the committee that had the most arguments, that of Interchurch Relations. And I had trouble with one eye. A sty was giving trouble, believe it or not, but it didn't act like a sty does on a very young person. It made my whole eye black and it made a pouch under it that I had to almost lift up to talk. Well people didn't notice this eye until about the second session of our committee meeting and then they began to wonder if our argument had gotten to where we were trading punches and I had a hard time convincing the friends who knew me best that such was not the case.

We all managed to get through the meeting of the Assembly but not without accidents. Of course, my eye put me in the casualty class for the first three days and then Jackson fell down the steps of the church, skinned his knee and had to be taken to the hotel. Brown had to stay with him and eventually took him home on the train. So that cut our party down to two for the trip home. And then something happened to me. I hate to tell about it but since this is a truthful narrative I will have to come through with it. You know as I told you before I used to live in Atlanta. I was rather proud of my ability to find my way around. I was also proud of my ability to handle a car in the heavy traffic. I wanted to show off a bit and one day I picked up an old friend of mine, Reverend W. W. Arrowood. He was in college with me way back yonder in the beginning of the century. I persuaded him to go across town with me to visit this friend of mine with whom I was staying. He reluctantly agreed. I purposely picked out the street where the traffic was the heaviest just to show him what a good driver I was. I would drive with one hand and point out the window with the other hand. I don't think my passenger looked where I was pointing, he looked where I was driving. Things went along beautifully. I came to a place where they were working on one side of the street and all the traffic had to be handled on the two lanes on the left hand of the street. And right there my car stopped. I had run out of gas and was my face red. In fact my face was so red that when I came home my folks thought that I had acquired a tan but it was just that deep flush still on my face. I think every automobile horn in central Georgia began to toot for me to get out of the way and I had to use my battery to pull out of the way so that they could get by. I had to ask my passenger to go a block or two to a filling station to get some gas. All in all I was very much embarrassed.

On the way home we had a passenger, Reverend J. S. Cook, who took the place of our two Davidson elders. Our trip home was uneventful. Leaving Atlanta right after our lunch hour but before we had any lunch. We stopped at Gainsville, Georgia to fill up on milkshakes and there our passenger lost his hat. It was so hot and the milkshake was so delicious that our preacher friend just had to take off his hat to inhale it properly and then he forgot to pick it up when we left.

The only other disturbance was a flat tire but that happened in Charlotte right at a service station so it didn't bother at all.

We all landed at home in good shape and with only our friend Jackson bearing any scars from the trip. We easily recovered the lost hat.

 willing to give us not only the land on which the camp is but the balance of the 80 odd acres in the entire tract. The Statesville Flour Mill and Mr. Wagner's trustee and the Paola Mills were willing to go along with this and give the property to the Orphanage fee simple. But the Cannon Company was not willing to go that far but was willing for a long time lease.

Statesville Cotton Mills was willing for a short time lease but not a long time lease. So there the matter stood for awhile and then The Statesville Cotton Mills was sold to the Burlington Mills and negotiations had to be started all over again. This time purely with the idea of a lease.

We wanted a longer lease than for the ten years that we worked on before to justify more adequate buildings at the camp.

It took some time to get the Burlington Mills to agree to this arrangement but they finally did. All parties seemed to agree on it and the matter was turned over to the Cannon Company lawyer to draw up the lease well in advance of the date of the expiration of the old lease. It was in January of this year when final arrangement were agreed upon. This was more than two months ahead of the date for the expiration of the old lease.

We thought everything was arranged for so went ahead and make arrangement for holding camp this summer and booked the camp up straight from the seventh of June through August.

Then as the time approached for the expiration of the lease we again contacted the Cannon Company lawyer and was told that there was nothing in the way of preparing the lease and that it would be finished in a few days. March passed along. Our lease expired and nothing was done and then April, May and now June and still no lease.

As a matter of practice we commence booking up the camp for the next year during the present series of camps. This means that Concord Presbytery wants to book up the camp now for corresponding dates next year.

We have to tell Concord Presbytery that the camp is no longer in our hands and that we cannot book it ahead. We really have no right to use it this year.

We feel it our duty to acquaint the many people who helped us build Camp Fellowship as to its status at the present time. Literally thousands of young people have enjoyed Camp Fellowship. It has been a delightful spot. As near perfect for our purpose as could be found anywhere. It is with regret that we have to give it up but apparently something is in the way of a renewal of the lease and we aren't even able to find out what it is that is holding it up. When a person says "no," that gives you a chance to argue with him but when he says "yes" but acts "no" then you can't do anything about it. The buildings at Camp Fellowship received no fresh coat of paint this spring. Even the sign board looks old and bedraggled. We could hardly ask the Board of Regents to authorize any expenditures on a camp that no longer belongs to us.

"There Is a Lad Here"

 then by a miracle of His divine power kept on handing out loaves and fishes to the Disciples and they passed them on to the people until all were fed.
 What a day to remember! The lad may have set out to go fishing or on a hike and took a little lunch with him, then he saw the crowd and joined it, then he heard the wonderful words, and when the food question came up he eagerly offered his lunch, only to see it blessed and multiplied until it fed thousands. What a day and what an experience!

Do things like that still happen? Yes, they do—at least spiritually. A little lad consecrated to the Lord may become a great missionary, a mighty preacher, a brave leader among men through whom multitudes may be blessed.

Possibly somebody reading these lines and the heading, "There is a Lad will say, "that means me"—I will be inspired to step out to do great things for God and humanity.

Farm Activities

The big crop at Barium Springs is alfalfa. The welfare of the farm, the dairy and incidentally the dining room depends largely on our success with the alfalfa crop.

Of course, we plant corn by the scores of acres, small grain: wheat, oats and barley. And of course, we have vegetables and fruit.

Alfalfa feeds our dairy herd it feeds the mules and then sometimes we have some for sale. We try to keep a hundred acres of alfalfa and usually a good stand lasts about six years before it needs to be cultivated for a few years and then put back into alfalfa.

Last year we didn't put up enough alfalfa and had to buy hay for the last six weeks of the winter and that does things to a bank account in a most frightful way.

All of this made us all the more eager to save every bit of alfalfa that we raised this year. Of course, we can't order the rain when we need it or can we stop it when we don't need it. We have to have pretty soaking rains immediately after cutting the alfalfa to get the new crop started. But rain during the hay making time is bad. Naturally we have to take our chances. Well we cut our alfalfa first in May. We were about 60 per cent successful in getting the crop in. Not too bad for a first cutting. The heavy rains that fell while we were curing it made the second cutting all the more abundant.

Then as luck would have it the rain came back on us just when we were cutting the second crop. One field of twenty acres was lost completely, one of ten acres was lost. One field of twenty acres was damaged. The balance of the crop was gotten up in good shape.

This was rather disappointing as we had hoped to make a complete success of harvesting the second crop. We have two more cuttings to look forward to and if we get these put up we will be all set for the coming year. We are somewhat like a baseball player at the bat with two strikes on him. We can't afford to miss another one.

Of course we have many acres in lespedeza and we fall back on that when the alfalfa crop fails for any reason. One of the hitches, however, is that the lespedeza hay making must be done during school days and it has to be baled. All of this calling for a lot of labor at a time when labor is scarce and as far as our home boys' are concerned practically non existent.

We hope to have the use of a pick up bailer during the fall months as this will enable us to put a lot of lespedeza hay with a minimum of labor. Visitors to Barium Springs do not often get to see anything of our farm activities. Our farm is a very interesting department. It has a lot to do with our living. Our milk, beef, pork, mutton, chickens, eggs, corn bread, bread and many other by products, are the things we get from our farm and dairy.

The truck farm and orchards are a different department and we depend on that department from day to day. This year we will just read about peaches however, but are counting strong on having a lot of personal contact with our apple crop. The apple crop gives promise of being a wonderful one.

The young husband wrote home from his new job, saying;

"Made foreman—feather in my cap."

A few weeks later he wrote again saying;

"Made manager—another feather in my cap." After some weeks he wrote again, saying:

"Fired—send money for train fare."

His wife unfeelingly telegraphed back:

"Use feathers and fly home."

Mother: "Where do bad little girls go?"

Daughter: "Most everywhere."

Jack: I got up at dawn to see the sun rise.

John: Well, you couldn't have picked a better time.

Most women would be more spic if they had less span.

Father: "Well son, what did you learn in school today?"

Son (proudly): "I learned to say 'Yes, sir,' and 'No, sir,' and 'Yes, ma'am,' and 'No, ma'am.'"

Father: "You did, eh?"

Son: "Yeah."

Angry Father: "What do you mean by bringing my daughter home at 4 o'clock in the morning?"

He: "Well, you see, sir, I have to be at work by seven."

The Johnstons Take Another Trip

By Jos. B. Johnston

Last year the Johnston family took a long vacation. They drove all the way to San Francisco and back and had fun every minute of the time. Then they had fun writing and talking about it - so much so that they had planned to repeat that performance this year, but many things have occurred to prevent such an extended vacation.

We had hoped for a week, but finally settled for three days. Here is the story.

On the morning of July 29th, Mrs. Johnston, her sisters, Mrs. Wilkinson and Mrs. Marion, and her nephew, Dr. Chalmers Davidson of Davidson College, and your humble servant set out to improve our minds and to enjoy a vacation.

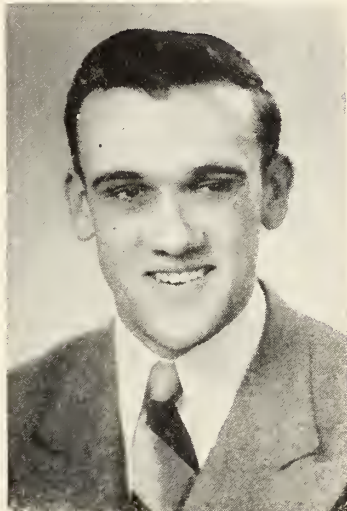

We drove to Richmond, taking the back roads wherever we could, but for the greater part of the distance riding on number one highway with a most energetic company of buses, trucks and cars to keep us company. We landed in Richmond at 5:30 p. m. and were there joined by our daughter, Leila Johnston, who had arranged for our entertainment that night. A supper at the home of Reverend J. H. Marion, D. D. and a night in a tourist home was our main entertainment in Richmond. The supper was fine. The tourist home would have been fine but for the fact that it was on the main number one highway, Chamberlain Avenue, that passes through Richmond. Big trucks were passing about every fifteen seconds and they should not have disturbed anybody and would not have the second night, but the first night we imagined the Indians were coming, or the Russians or the Germans, or somebody because those trucks do sound ominous in the wee small hours of the night. However, Friday morning dawned clear and invigorating and we started out for Williamsburg, landing there in the early afternoon. We won't attempt to describe Williamsburg except to say that the whole business is unbelievable. That any man or group of people would attempt the virtual destruction of a modern town to restore it to its colonial appearance is something that it takes you some time to take in. A whole nation will continue to be grateful that this thing was done.

We took in the ancient capital of the state, the goalhouse, the Governor's palace, and many other buildings of interest. That night we took in "The Common Glory," a pageant written by Paul Green and staged in a setting somewhat similar to the one at Manteo, and it was a most entertaining and instructive performance with Thomas Jefferson being the central hero and most prominent character.

If any criticism could be voiced it might be that the pageant should have allowed a little more credit to the rest of the United States for the success of the Revolution; however, that criticism is not vital enough to start a quarrel or even an argument. The pageant was thoroughly enjoyed as was the night spent in a tourist home at quiet Williamsburg, with an emphasis on the quiet.

An early morning start Saturday took us through Newport News and across the big bridge over the James River and on down through Portsmouth and along the Dismal Swamp Canal to Elizabeth City, N. C. Then down the rest of the Dismal Swamp and the Outer

Accepts Call To Little Joe's Church

Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

The above is the picture of the Pastor-Elect of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. The church has been without a pastor since Rev. F. B. Benton left in June 1947.

Rev. Mr. Sides grew up in our neighbor community, Loray, and was a member of Concord Presbyterian Church, the church which gave Concord Presbytery its name.

Mr. Sides is a graduate of Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. During his summer vacations at the Seminary he supplied the Duncan's Creek Church in Kings Mountain Presbytery and was assistant in the First Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, N. C.

For two years he has been pastor of the Benton Heights Presbyterian Church of Monroe and under his leadership the church made excellent progress.

Mr. Sides will come to Barium Springs on Sept. 1st and will be received into Concord Presbytery during the meeting of Synod the following week. His coming is eagerly awaited by the children and whole community at Barium Springs.

the sights we saw in connection with that rivaled in interest Kill Devil Hill and the Wright brothers monument which we also took in.

You know, the popular costume for houses along the beach are swimming togs. A pair of shorts for a man and a two piece suit along the same lines for the girls. A rather attractive get-up when youth and symmetry are combined with this costume, but a little bit startling and sometimes alarming when worn by the more aged and less shapely members of both sexes. A mattress of hair down the front does not add to the glamour of an aging male, nor do the curves of an aging female when they get in the wrong places cause very much pleasurable excitement when displayed in these beach costumes.

At one of the places where we stopped the hostess of the motor court wore a most daring costume which did not fit too well with her surely sixty years and possible 150 pound weight. The women in our party were a little bit alarmed as she was very active and seemed to put more dependence on one large safety pin than prudence would dictate. They were just afraid that in her hurry and zeal to show us the delights of her cabin that a major tragedy might occur, and they all heaved a sigh of relief when we decided to go further in our search for quarters for the night.

On down to Manteo where we

Lottie Walker Building Gets A Dressing Up

Good things are always happening to Barium Springs. This time Lottie Walker Building has been the recipient of such lovely gifts to make our rooms more attractive and our girls very happy.

Some months ago, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Robinson of Fayetteville, redecorated the Pearl Green room. Such lovely bed-spreads, scatter-rugs, lamp, curtains and dresser-scarfs. The girls who occupy this room are so proud of their room, rather than to "muss" their lovely beds.

Now the Lincolnton Auxiliary has really made us happy, with a gift of beautiful rugs, lamp, curtains, bed-spreads, scarfs and material for a dressing-table. Also, a subscription to girls magazine and a generous check to be used at our discretion.

And last, but not least, North Wilkesboro Auxiliary has given to the senior girls, something we have longed for, but was in doubt if we would ever possess - a beautiful lace tea cloth. Also, a crystal bowl and matching candle sticks. The seniors are so excited about this, they can scarcely wait for their first party which will be on the 27th of Aug. This is a reception for the teachers.

Want to see something pretty? Then come take a look. We believe that you will go home inspired to fix up a room so that all of our girls will have a room with that "new look."

We are so grateful to all of these kind friends, and wish to say "thank you."

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

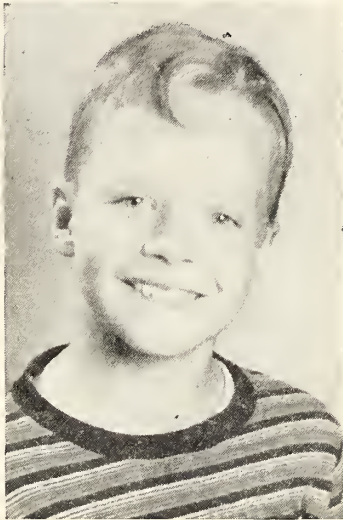

Isaiah 37:3. And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

THE MIRACLE OF PREACHING

Again today we are considering the calling of a pastor for Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. On a similar occasion we spoke on the Minister's Message, dealing somewhat with the content of the Message of the Minister. Today we would speak more in particular as to effect which, under God, may be confidently expected from the faithful preaching of the word of God.

We find our message in the vision of Ezekiel of the valley of Dry Bones. Note this is a vision. It is not related in the Bible as an historical event, but it was given to Ezekiel to see this vision with its spiritual meaning. Perhaps Ezekiel had seen some time such a valley where two armies had met and fought and the whitening bones of the slain still were there glistening in the sun. The prophet was to prophecy, which means to speak for God, unto these bones. And when he does, the miraculous begins to happen; a noise and a shaking, and the bones came together bone to his bone. The frame work of bodies became evident; sinews muscles form; skin covers them; and there they were, bodies but no life. Again the prophet was directed to speak to the wind, and the breath of God came upon them, and they stood up, an exceeding great army.

Barium Child Victim of Polio

Herbert Gerald McArthur

On the morning of July 16th death visited our family and took little Jerry McArthur. The doctors pronounced his illness to be poliomyelitis, the first case that we have experienced in the fifty-seven years of our history.

Apparently, institutions like ours are practically immune to this dread disease, but not completely so, and Jerry's passing was indeed tragic.

He had been in the hospital about a day and a half. His early symptoms seemed to point more to meningitis than to polio, and he was responding to treatment and showed mark improvement, but early on the morning of the 16th he developed symptoms that pointed to polio and in a very short time a complete paralysis of his heart and lungs set in and the little fellow quietly passed away.

Jerry, who was eight years old when he died, had been a member of the Barium family for a little more than three years. He came from Carthage, N. C., and has an older and a younger brother at Barium. He was a universal favorite.

Shortly after coming to Barium he had to have a rather serious operation on his eyes. It was painful and necessitated his eyes being bandaged for four days - a rather trying ordeal for a young man his age. He was such a good soldier and cooperated so thoroughly with the doctors and nurses that his operation was a complete success, and Jerry's smile for everybody increased just in proportion as that operation was successful. He thought everybody was good and especially good to him, and he was eager to do favors for anyone when he could.

Jerry's body was taken to Carthage and he was buried there late

Barium School Opens August 26

As this is written, the school buildings are being readied, schedules made, and other preparations are under way, for the opening of school Thursday morning, August 26th. It is hoped that the new pastor, Rev. C. H. Sides can be present on that day to take part in the first assembly program of the school year. Strange as it may seem, most of the children seem to be anxious for school to open. Let us hope that this enthusiasm lasts throughout the year.

The faculty, which has had very few changes from last year is as follows: Miss Theoria Straughn, first grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, second grade; Miss Edmonia Blakey, third grade; Miss Cora Westbrook, fourth grade; Miss Sadie Brandon, fifth grade; Miss Ernestine Cullom, sixth grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, seventh grade; Mrs. Lee Spencer, public school music; Miss Margaret Ritchie, piano; Miss Ruth Troutman, French and English; Miss Reba Thompson, English and history; Miss Irene McDade mathematics; Miss Cloyce Moose, home economics and science; Mr. A. M. Calhoun, Bible and Physical education; and Mr. Wm. A. Hethcox, principal.

Two badly needed items of repairs and improvement that have been made this summer are a new roof on the elementary building, and rubber tile floor covering in the high school library.

Look

Yes that is just what we mean. Come and take a look at our two new rooms. One a reading room and the other a music room. Where did we get the new things for these two rooms? You will look twice and still won't believe us when we tell you that those beautiful dark red and green striped covered chairs and couch were about to see their last days when Mrs. Bryant saw them and they were rushed to a furniture hospital to be repaired and covered. Those green flowered drapes look new don't they? Well don't faint when we tell you, but they are about two years old and Mrs. Smith did a beautiful job making them over for us. The only new things you will find in this room are those three green throw rugs.

How do you like our reading room? Those green chairs we painted look pretty with those brown card tables don't they, but if you want to get more comfortable just sit down on that nice couch over by the wall and read your book. If you look at the windows you'll see a pair of made over curtains like those in the music room. There is nothing new in this room, just old furniture fixed over and painted, but you wouldn't know it if you weren't told.

No. 11

Barium's Single Wing In Action

Barium Springs has been accused many times of starting football practice in the Baby Cottage. The picture on this page would seem to bear out this idea.

It is true that whatever the big boys do the little ones try to do, and from the expressions on the faces of these Baby Cottage lads they are destined to become football heroes at Barium sometime in the future. Look out for them. As a matter of fact, at least three of the present Barium varsity started their lives at Barium at about the age of these young hopefuls.

As this article is written Barium has played two games. First with Albemarle on the night of the 13th. This happened to be two days before the Albemarle schools opened, but the team had been practicing for about a month and the two teams were well matched. They showed excellent training. Our recollection is that there were only two fumbles in the entire game and both of them were recovered by the team that did the fumbling. The ball handling was good, and both teams played with the dash and speed that you would expect from later season games. There were times when it appeared that Barium could not stop either Albemarle's running attack or its passing attack, but at no time did this drive continue too far, that is except in one instance and that time Albemarle completed a pass so easily for a touchdown that the wonder was that they did not do more just like that. All of our boys performed well. Little Pinky Hilliard in his first varsity game did exceptionally well - he scored both touchdowns. Paul Barnes was responsible for the safety that added two points to our score. Altogether, it was a good starter and the Albemarle folks stated that it was the biggest crowd they had had for a ball game up to that time. The Albemarle people treated our team and our spectators so cordially that it was just like a homecoming event. They welcomed us back on their schedule so cordially that you might think they let us win that game just to show their pleasure at playing us again. The boys, however, have a different idea.

On Friday night we went to Monroe. Monroe had previously beaten a strong Wadesboro team and they were considered the favorites in that game, but our boys after a rather slow start commenced to click and they ran up six touchdowns before they stopped. Practically everybody who went along in uniform played. There were a few minor accidents that looked bad but turned out to be not too bad. Mason Traywick came out of the game once with a finger so crooked that it pointed every way but the right way; it snapped back into position, however, and Mason got back into the game. Paul Barnes in trying to kick goal kicked the cleats out of a Monroe boy's foot instead and made a very painful bruise on the top of his foot. The Monroe field is new and rather rough. It required a good deal of meurochrome to clear up some of the abrasions, but the team came back home delighted with the treatment that they received at the hands of the Monroe school which included a splendid meal afterwards, and were of course delighted with the score 36-0. By the way, the Albemarle school provided a splendid supper for our team after the game there. On both of these occasions our boys made the trip home on a full stomach and a satisfied mind - a very pleasant experience.

Before you read these lines we will have played Mooresville and China Grove. We will tell you about those games next month.

FRIENDSHIP

by
JAMES W. DAVIS, M. D.
Statesville, N. C.

Editor's Note:- The following article on friendship is from the pen of a man who has certainly practiced the principals expressed in this article through many years. Barium Springs health program and the health of its children has been immeasurably helped by the good deeds of this man and his institution. Surely Barium Springs has no better friend than this man.

What is a Friend? We often speak the word lightly, not realizing how much it means. Few words in our language are so misunderstood, so wrongly defined, and so inappropriately used as the word "friendship."

A friend is one who needs us and one whom we need. Around us may be many whose companionship we enjoy, but were they to suddenly drop out of their places there would be no soreness, no sense of deprivation, no lack of comfort. We do not need them, neither do they need us.

A friend is one to whom we cling, though many leagues of space separate us. Though days pass with no sight of his face or word from him, we know our friend loves us and that when we meet again we will be on the same old terms: we will begin where we left off.

A friend is one in whom we can confide. The sweet chambers of our soul open to his touch on the lips. We don't imagine their cheeks are flushed by scores, and we don't feel that every one of them would fall into the arms of a common humanity.

What makes good friends? The answer is found in these words:

"The soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and he loved him as his own soul." The tie that binds hearts together in such fashion cannot be described to others; but it is a real force, nevertheless. It can come from only one motive, Love.

A friend is one who is for you always, under all circumstances. He never investigates you. When charges are made against you, he does not ask proof—he asks the accuser to clear out. He likes you just as you are; he does not want to change you. If all the world is against you he is still your friend.

Whatever kind of coat you are wearing suits him. Whether you have on a dress suit or a hickory shirt with no collar, he thinks it's fine. He likes your moods, and enjoys your pessimism as much as your optimism. He likes your success; and your failures endear you to him the more. He wants nothing from you except that you be yourself. Although you may sometimes seem to neglect him and forget him, he ignores the slight. Nothing can cause his faith in you to waiver.

He keeps alive your faith in human nature. It is he who makes you believe it is a good universe. When you are vigorous and spirited, you like to take your pleasures with him; when you are in trouble, you want to tell him about it; when you are ill, you want him near. You care to him without reluctance, and borrow from him without embarrassment. He is the elixir of life, the antidote for despair, the tonic for depression. The potion he gives is what the doctor's drugs are meant to be. He is your friend.

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

THE BIBLE AND TODAY'S NEED

There is no question but that one of the most urgent needs today is the individual's need for some certainty, some anchor for living in days such as these. For it is surely true that much of the fear and anxiety abroad in the world is a basic uncertainty as to what tomorrow may hold. The Bible, God's Word, is one of the undeniable certainties of life. It is eternal, it has stood and will stand throughout all ages.

Regardless of all attempts to discredit it in modern days, the Word of God stands unmoved, bearing inward witness to its truth, and showing forth its fruits in the changed lives of men and women down through the centuries who have given heed to that truth. And those who would doubt or question the Bible fall into the oblivion which is their due, but the Bible's "thus saith the Lord" remains a vital message for this as for every age.

The world of the Roman Empire was in many ways a replica of our world today. The Apostle Paul in writing to the young man Timothy had some very pertinent advice concerning the way in which the Bible should be used to meet man's need. And that advice was not that Timothy should cling to the moor of tradition, but that he cling to that rock of God which was his heritage. "Continue thou in the things which thou hast learned," he said. "Remember that for him to hold fast to God's Word as it had been taught to him. For Paul knew, and he would say to us today, that the Bible is a certainty of life to which men may ever cling.

Why was this his advice? He goes on to tell us, because the Holy Scriptures "are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." And there is the purpose of the Bible, of all God's revelation, that men may come to a saving faith in Jesus Christ. That is the message to which men are to cling in times such as these, says Paul. But he doesn't stop there, he goes on to point out a further reason for clinging to the Bible. That reason is its authorship, and its author is none other than God Himself. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God." Thus in message and authorship the Bible reveals itself to be one of life's basic certainties for such uncertain times as these.

We have no reason to doubt the truth of this, but the tragedy of it is that about the world today there is a widespread neglect of the Bible. In the homes it is becoming a dust-catcher and young people are growing up in ignorance of its truth. Time and time again it has been demonstrated that there is an almost universal and alarming ignorance of the Bible. Some time ago a professor in Northwestern University gave a shrewd test of nine questions about the Bible to one hundred students. He asked such questions as these: What is the Pentateuch? Is the book of Esther in the Old or New Testament? Name one of the Judges. Out of thirty-six poems returned he had only eight who had answered all correctly. One half could not locate the book of Jude. Matthew, Luke, and John were given as prophets. One student says that the Pentateuch was the same as the Gospel. (Continued On Page Three)

Life is sweet just because of the friends we have made, And the things which in common we share, We want to live on, not because of ourselves,

Well, here is one way: Take two minutes off. Remember some person whom you reverence and admire. Think of someone near you, someone you care for, someone who cares for you.

The Spanish say of friendship: To keep with the good is to be one of them; to go with the bad is to soon be one of them.

All these are only the fringes of friendship; a very reasonable friendship may exist between persons in many things the opposite of each other.

Shakespeare has given us an instructive instance in the case of Timon of Athens, who was a rich lord, had plenty of friends while his money lasted, who made lavish and costly banquets, with splendid dinners, and gave away plenty of money to men in turn, played upon his credulity.

But his means soon came to an end, and when his money ran out his head servant was sent out to borrow a little of his former friends.

but he refused saying, "I will not return, for what is money without friendship?"

Let us linger a moment on the theme that comes so close to our homes and our lives; let us hurry not away from it, but go from it thoughtfully. The Chinese have a saying when parting from their friends: "Go away slowly when you must go—go away slowly." The Japanese say, when they separate, "If it must be so." The Germans. "auf wiedersehen," till we meet again; and Confucius, the great Chinese teacher, said, "The archer who misses the target, turns to himself and not to another for the cause of his failure." So with our friends, and our friendly relations—the only possible failure, if failure it be, to win their respect must fall upon ourselves. Perhaps the most beautiful story of friendship of all was the story of Damon and Pythias. You remember it is in poem form but to shorten it and get the meaning of it, the tyrant first says to Damon, "What means this disguise, and the dagger that gleams in thy breast?" To which Damon answers, "Twas to free this dear land from its chains "Free the land, wretched fool; thou shalt die for thy pains."

I am ready to die—I ask not to live

Yet three days of respite, perhaps, thou wouldst give, For tomorrow my sister will wed; And 'twould damp all her joy were her brother not there. Then let me, I pray thee, to her nuptials repair, While a friend remains here in my stead. Then to Pythias he went and told him his case; That true friend answered not, but with instant embrace Hurried forth to be bound in his stead.

You remember on his return three days later, how he met the floods and robbers, and battled his way back, and at last arriving in sight of the scaffold, the poem concludes: "When, hark! what a sound is muttered around, Saying, hold! it is I, it is Damon, for whom he was bound."

How the King for once felt himself as he ought and commanded that both to his side might be brought. How the King forgave them both on condition that they would make him one of their friends. You remember another instance of friendship. It is old, it is rare, it is beautiful; it is the little story in the Bible of Ruth, the gleaner, who, when asked by her mother to remain at home while she went out into another country to get grain, the dutiful girl said, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, thy God shall be my God. Where thou livest, I will live. Where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried."

And so in friendship we must stand together, like Damon and Pythias, to the end of life, and not to the end of fortune. As a man advances in years he is more likely to appreciate his friends. "Is there anything in the world that can take the place of friendship?" asks somebody. "Just knowing that people like you and enjoy your company and want to do things for you, gives you a satisfaction which success or wealth alone can never bring. There is no substitute for friendship. You cannot buy it. It is not for sale. A man may achieve high position, his earnings may be large, but if he has no friends, he has missed one of the finest things in life. In his heart, he is a poor and lonely man." All about you are interesting people, either in your own profession or business, or in entirely different lines. Study them. Most likely you will soon find a number with qualities that you like. Cultivate such people. It pays. Your life will be richer in many ways.

Dr. Johnston often said: "Keep your friendship in constant repair." Many of our old friends are passing on; unless we make new friends to take their places we will eventually find ourselves friendless. "Here's to the hand of friendship, Sincere, twice-tried and true, That smiles in the hour of triumph And laughs at its joy with you, Yet stands in the night of sorrow Close by when the shadows fall, And never turns the picture Of an old friend to the wall."

The Message of the (Continued From Page One) Admitting then that literal knowledge does not always show a deep understanding of the Bible, there is still an appalling lack of familiarity with the Bible today.

Yet with the evidence of this ignorance, the truth still stands that only the Word of God is able to arm men with a faith by which they can live in days such as these. As the Psalmist said so long ago, it is he "whose delight is the Law of the Lord who shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in season, his leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

Our Confession of Faith in speaking of the Holy Scriptures, says, "All of these are given by inspiration of God, to be the rule of faith and life." The Bible then gives us the only sure faith in an age that is beset by the various ideologies and "isms" that only confuse, but do not point the way. To a confused world, to a disillusioned world which is groping around in its chaos and hopelessness, the Bible's message of faith in God is the one sure anchor for our souls.

Too long has man trusted in the material things that do not satisfy, in the things that are temporal and all too soon will pass away. Too long has he tried to live within himself in the false assurance of his own self sufficiency. The Bible reproves and corrects that error in revealing the timeless truth that faith in God is the way of salvation, the way of abundant life here and eternal life hereafter.

God's Word too has a message to deliver on godly living in the realm of daily life. Faith must show itself in deeds of righteousness or it reveals itself to be no faith at all. The man who takes that Word as his anchor is committed to a life that seeks ever to follow the teachings of the Master. The Master who said so searchingly, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." There is no halfway point to following Christ, either we walk with Him all the way or we walk with Him not at all. Faith and life are one. God's Word alone can be the rule of both.

The Bible is our great heritage, given to us by God Himself who is its author. However uncertain life may seem, whatever changes the future may bring, the Bible has stood and will stand in its ability to meet the need of the world in every age.

School has started and everybody seems to like it. The six grade has a new teacher. Her name is Miss Jean Murphy. We all like her very much.

We have had only one new girl this year and she came in after school started. Her name is Almo Wright and that makes 21 girls in our cottage.

The sewing room matron and some of the high school girls made us some beautiful school dresses. Miss Andrews brought us a new record player last week and we like it so much we play it nearly every night.

Due to lack of space, Wilmington and Winston-Salem Presbyteries will be published next month.

Friendship

(Continued From Page Two) Friendship. His friend "A" said, "I'm very sorry, but my present wants are enough to use up quite all the money I can raise." His friend "B" said, "Well, I thought so much. Timon has been living too fast." His friend "C" said, "It has come at last; just as I expected; he was too prodigal of his money." When Timon heard of it he felt greatly hurt; he called his servants together and made a great feast, and invited everybody, including his friends.

As they came in one by one they spoke something like this: "We are glad to dine with our genial friend again; we knew it was a joke; we knew our old friend Timon was well-to-do." Timon remained silent. At a given signal the covers were raised, and only hot water was seen in every dish. "Now," said Timon, "Begone, begone, you false friends; flee out of my sight instantly," and he drove them away. He took to the woods, and lived like a hermit with his dogs. War came on, and Timon, who had been valiant in battle, was needed in Athens, but he would not go back. One day he found a vast deposit of gold and silver, and became very rich again, but even then he would not return, though he could have returned in great splendor and been a ruler and prince in Athens;

Barium Springs at the Crossroads— A Little Financial History

They say that history repeats itself. Those of us who have made a study of the finances at Barium Springs are ready to admit the truth of that statement. Let's illustrate: back in the '20s Barium Springs was fairly prosperous. The Orphanage had taken on a lot of new obligations, new buildings had been erected, the population had increased, and it took much more money to operate, but the Church responded nobly, and during the early '20s we were able to go to Synod every year with a statement that all bills were paid and income was sufficient to take care of all of our expenses.

We rather gloried in that condition and maybe bragged on it too much. At the same time that we made our reports to Synod some of the other causes were making their reports and they were not so encouraging. One department of the Synod's work was woefully behind in its finances. Someone came up with the idea that, since Synod owned the Orphanage and these other causes too, they could vote money out of the Orphanage treasury to support the other causes, and by a simple vote this was done.

It was so easy that this was repeated the next year and the next and then another enterprise in which the Synod was interested, one of the Church papers, was in financial difficulties so a sum was voted out of the Orphanage treasury to help that. This continued until the depression was on us and we found ourselves with no surplus and with a fast diminishing income. We went through the depression trying to limp through and do the job that we were called upon to do in those distressing times. In spite of all of our efforts to curtail, we found ourselves tremendously in debt - so much so that the entire Synod was much disturbed about it.

Finally it was decided that the only way to remedy that condition was to raise the money to put Barium Springs back in the black. Albemarle Presbytery was the first one to start out with a plan. It worked so well that the plan was adopted all over the Synod, and as a result additional money was raised, Barium's debt was paid, and she has been kept in the black in spite of the tremendously increased cost of living during the last few years.

Barium's costs have increased - just doubled what it was nine years ago. It is hardly necessary to explain why this is true. Anyone who has maintained a family, who has bought clothes, who has bought food, or who has had to hire anybody to do anything knows that wages and prices have doubled in this period of time.

In addition to that we have had most stringent regulations to work under and have to do things in a different and sometimes more expensive way than we used to. Up to now, however, Synod has contributed enough money to keep us going with a small surplus at the end of the year. During the last year the difference between income and outgo was dangerously small - a very slight change and we would have ended up with a deficit.

We are looking forward to the coming Thanksgiving to help things. We enter this Thanksgiving season already behind. During the summer most of the Sunday Schools in the State were closed on account of the polio epidemic and the ban placed on public gatherings of children. This has meant a decided decrease in income during the summer. Sunday School collections have always been a real part of our living.

Now, as we prepare for the Thanksgiving Offering what do we find? Well, we find in nearly every Presbytery a feeling that we are getting too much money, that we are getting more than we need, that we are impoverishing the other causes by taking more than our share, that we are wasteful and are spoiling the children who are here to be cared for. Some of the Presbyteries are taking active steps to curtail the giving of the people.

In one Presbytery it has been ordered that all special gifts shall be credited against our percentage, with the exception of the Thanksgiving Offering. Now, it is recognized that the budget set up in the various benevolence arrangements in the Church does not pay half of our expenses. We have to live on the special gifts that come to us and the Thanksgiving Offering. When these special gifts are credited against the budget it means a very definite decrease in our income.

In two other Presbyteries we find our percentage cut down more than half. Where just a year or two ago it was 7½ percent in these two Presbyteries it is now 3 percent in one and 3½ percent in another.

In addition to that, money is taken out of this 3½ percent to pay for some other expenses in the Presbytery. We find in other places plans to use the Thanksgiving Offering for other causes than Barium. This Thanksgiving Offering is as old as the Orphanage. It is really our main source of support. If that is eliminated the work at Barium will certainly suffer, and when that does it will not be long until our Church will not be proud of Barium Springs - they will be ashamed of it. This idea of using Thanksgiving to raise the budget for the other causes or to divide it with any other cause is a step toward the eventual death of this wonderful institution.

The intent and purpose of Barium Springs is to serve needy children, to do it in the most economical way, to utilize boarding homes, their own homes, or pay institutions wherever it is possible to work out a plan to use them, to restore to their homes children who can be so restored without hurt to them, to see to it that the Church is not imposed on by caring a useless load, but with all that, the calls on us for help for needy children has increased from all sides.

We believe our people want Barium to continue on the same high standard that it has been maintained for the years past. We believe our people do not want the work lessened. We believe, if they are allowed to, they will contribute the money necessary to do this. We plead with the individual Churches and with the Presbyteries to build no fence around us to keep these gifts from coming to us.

Twenty years ago money was voted out of our treasury for the benefit of other Church causes and it brought about a disastrous situation. Now, fences are being built around to keep money from coming to us so that it may be distributed to other Church causes. The method is different but the end result is the same. We will not have money enough to carry on.

We wish it were possible for every individual person who gives to Barium Springs to answer a questionnaire. The questions would be this. Does your giving to Barium hurt any other cause? Does it cause you to give less to the other Church causes?

A good many years ago we had a meeting with the heads of the Assembly causes. We agreed then that we would plead our cause only on certain occasions, never in conflict with the Assembly causes. We have religiously lived up to that and have confined our appeals to just a small part of the year. We have never tried to shove our cause ahead of other Church causes, and the record of the liberality of our own little community here toward the other causes certainly bears out our friendly feeling to them all.

We readily admit that the Orphanage cause is the more easily understood and possibly the first cause responded to by Church members - those who may not be familiar with the other work of the Church. Maybe those new Church members learn the thrill of giving by first giving to Barium, and then begin to give to other causes. We believe that the Orphanage cause is something that is a good thing to start out with. It is evidenced by the liberality of newly organized mission Churches and Sunday Schools.

About the most hurtful thing that people say in regard to orphanages is this - "That we do not need to do anything for the orphanages, they will be taken care of anyhow." Well, if you care to travel just visit some of the adjoining states and see how untrue that statement is. You can see some of the desperate measures that some of our neighbor orphanages have to take to just keep alive. We do not want Barium to ever get in that condition. We cannot pay bills or salaries with a statement that somebody will take care of the Orphanage.

Of late years we have had very few articles like this in our paper. We have tried to tell you about the children, their activities, their hopes and fears. We do not want our paper to have so much about appeals that it will again have the nickname that it had in years past - "The Squealer." We felt that we must write this article. It is written in desperation, but in the devout hope that you will read it and not let Barium Springs suffer. We believe that this year is the critical year in Barium's history. If someone can show us how to do

GOD'S STANDARD OF TRUTH

The true Christian realizes that there are certain Christian virtues that are a part of the life that would follow after Jesus Christ. Those virtues include, of course, love, a sense of fairness to others, honesty in all things, rejoicing at other's good fortune rather than harboring a covetous spirit, and many others. We would like to think just now though about another, God's standard of truth.

The whole fabric of society and civilization rests on truthfulness. In Washington at the Bureau of Standards there are certain standard measurements which the entire country follows. There is a standard foot, a standard pound, and a standard time. We go by them and accept them as being correct.

God has just such a standard of truth for us as Christians. It means the absolute truth, not just what may suit the time or the occasion, but representing things exactly as they are. We think perhaps that this has no meaning for us, but aren't there times when most of us strain the truth to the breaking point simply for our own convenience? Let us look briefly at the ways in which men and nations are evading the truth today.

The truth has been sadly used by nations. We wonder sometime what is the matter with the world, yet the answer, or at least a partial one, is not long in coming. There is today no such thing as honesty and truthfulness between the nations of the world. The past thirty or forty years has been a record of promises continually broken. In 1914 Germany was under promise to respect the neutrality of Belgium. She broke that promise as if it had been only a scrap of paper. Later the League of Nations was founded on the promise of the nations that they would not begin aggressive warfare. Japan broke them in Manchuria, Italy in Abyssinia, and the League was dead. It had rested upon truth and the keeping of promises, and see what happened!

Another world war has since been fought over the ruins of broken promises. Today there is no adequate peace because there is no trust. Pledge after pledge between nations is broken as if it did not exist. Confidence is gone and civilization stands still with bated breath looking for the catastrophe to come. Why? Surely one reason is that God's standard of truth has not been observed between nations. Among individuals, too, the same unfortunate condition prevails. Business methods seem to rest on a sort of basis that all is fair that works. Trust becomes non-existent between labor and management and all too often a suspicious belligerent mood is created. And the results is lessened efficiency and lessened production and we all suffer for it.

Advertising in our country today has become a gigantic contest to see who can make the most extravagant claims. Listen to your radio, read your newspaper. How much of the advertising can you really believe? Can it be that advertising has become a game to see just how much we are foolish enough to accept?

We are now in the midst of an election year. The political campaigns are upon us. Party platforms have been set up with all their high-sounding phrases. The our work more cheaply with less money, we will welcome those suggestions. If someone can show us how we can do less and still serve our Church we will welcome that suggestion gladly. We may have to ask that person to help us put those plans into effect. We are in your hands and we trust you.

candidates are each one assuring us that if we vote for them all will be well, but if we vote for their rivals we are likely to be plunged into war or depression. Promises are being made that no superman could ever hope to carry out. And where is truth as God set's the standard of truth?

Individuals with their gossip and slander add their bit and the stories are repeated and added to as they go their rounds. None of us are completely immune to it, and yet where is the truth and our adherence to its standard?

Rumors, usually with no foundation in fact, sweep over the country. Some are harmless; some do a great deal of harm. Always we do ourselves and others an injustice by repeating them. Sometimes they are absolutely foolish. As for example the wonderful rumor that anyone sending a 1943 copper penny to the Ford Motor Company would receive immediately a new Ford. What a marvelous opportunity! And probably the company would have done just that. It would have been perfectly safe in making that promise. For in 1943 only pennies with a steel base were coined. Rumors, some foolish, some harmful, but all lacking in verification add to our fund of untruthfulness.

But with all these examples of failures to meet God's standard of absolute truth, perhaps the saddest is the way in which we deceive ourselves. Perhaps we think that we do not ordinarily do that, but how common it is. And the dangerous possibility is that we completely lose the ability to see ourselves as we really are. We live in a sort of moral fog assuring ourselves that we are better than we actually are. And that condition, so typified in Jesus' day among the Pharisees, makes it impossible for a man to see his sin and repent of it.

There is the man who tells himself that he drinks alcoholic beverages to quiet his nerves or for the sake of his health when usually the real reason is his craving for drink. There is the person who prides himself upon his generosity when he is most concerned with his own selfishness. There is the one who makes religion a front for a heart that is neither right with God nor his fellow men. Such are simply deceiving themselves.

The prodigal son who had wasted his substance in riotous living in a far country could only find forgiveness when he came to himself and saw himself in the true light. At last he had to say, "Father, I have sinned." Then he was deceiving himself no more, he was ready for forgiveness.

Among all the deceptions of this present day, among nations, among individuals, in our private lives, God still has a standard of truth. It is for the Christian a sacred duty to follow that standard.

Burglar Cracks Safe In Barium Office

Barium has had a burglary and we are all quite excited about it. The postmaster in delivering the mail to the office early on the morning of October 20th found the doors to the superintendent's office and to the treasurer's office jammed open. They found the safe in the treasurer's office broken open and the contents, so far as money was concerned, gone. It happened that the only money in his particular safe was that in connection with the Barium Savings Department and just a nominal sum is carried in cash, enough to carry on the business of cashing checks and such day by day. It was not a big haul, but still we would not like to lose that much money every day. The amount taken was $154.00.

The robbery evidently followed a pattern. The Kannapolis High School office was broken into folas though Jesse James had paid us a personal visit and so keyed up that I am afraid if a burglar attempted to repeat the job he would find so many people looking over his shoulder as he did it that he would be very embarrassed in his work.

The money that was lost was from the Barium Savings Department - that is where the children keep their savings accounts. We will see to it that these individuals do not suffer and will make up this amount in some way so that their Savings Bank will be solvent. Truly, this burglar, if he had only known it, was stealing money from a baby - a lot of babies, in fact.

HOME-COMING DAY

We have had a wonderful Homecoming Day. Friday, the 15th. was the day. The weather was perfect, the campus was its prettiest, the crowds of returning alumni were the best looking ever, the football game played in the afternoon was just what the doctor ordered - a good game with Barium being the victor.

Many of the alumni stayed for supper and the visiting team was there also and the day ended up with everybody tired, happy and pretty full of Barium rations.

The last two years it has rained, this year it made up for both of those other years. Lack of space keeps us from giving a more detailed account of the Home-coming.

BULLETIN!

Good News and Bad

This is being written twenty-four hours after the article telling about our burglary. At the time the first article was written we had not made a complete check-up. Later on we found that the burglars had entered the vault and had made away with $700.00 in pay-roll money, and that is something that really hurts. We called in the authorities and everything possible is being done to trace and apprehend the burglars. But if and when they are caught there is not very likely that there will be very much of that money still in their possession. That is the bad news.

Here is the good: Already two checks have been received making up the $154.00 loss. The first was from Mr. J. Archie Cannon, Jr., of Greensboro. He saw the account of the burglar in the Greensboro afternoon paper and the check was in our hands the next morning. The other check is from Mr. June Scarborough of Statesville, a good neighbor and friend, who called us up as soon as he read the account of the burglary and said that his check for the exact amount of that loss was on the way.

So that takes care of the Savings department - the children's money. The other check is applied on the other loss, and a sizable check from another source reduces our loss in that department considerably, but it does not keep our feelings from being badly hurt over having robbers take this money from us.

We are hoping something will happen to bring them to justice

Following a football game and the robbers made a pretty good haul. Two other high schools in the State were broken into following football games. Barium had Homecoming last Friday and a pretty good crowd attended. The robbers evidently did not know our habits. We do not hold cash at Barium at all - it goes right straight to the bank, and the receipts of that football game were resting in a Statesville bank before it had cooled.

The receipts of money that keep the Orphanage going are, for the most part, in checks and money-orders - not very attractive to a burglar. Fortunately, this burglar did not disturb the checks and money-orders - they were in another safe. The burglar did not discover the candy money, the picture show money, and other small items which might have netted him possibly $25.00 more if he had found them.

The burglar entered the office building by breaking out a window in the basement, coming through the Assembly room upstairs and breaking down doors just as fast as he came to them until he found the safe, and then he broke in the safe. Evidently, he was a person who did not know much about Barium but knew a lot about safes, because he wrecked the one iron safe in the treasurer's office completely.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are back with the cottage news. We got our report cards and seven girls made the honor roll. They are Betty Anna Blackburn, Phoebe Cochran, Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Shirley Shaw, Shirley Johnson and Mildred McFarland.

Thursday the 14th we walked to Troutman to see a picture show. The name of it was "That Lady in Ermine."

Homecoming was a happy day for us. We were glad to see our old friends. The Rhythm Band and Junior Choir gave a program that morning and in the afternoon we had a football game with North Wilkesboro. North Wilkesboro had a band and we enjoyed it as much as the game.

Linda Inman and Shirley Hall have gotten their clothing boxes. They were beautiful clothes. They are anxiously looking forward to visiting Shirley Hall's clothing people at Belmont the last of this month.

We received a nice Thanksgiving gift from The Mary Carson Circle, Fuller Memorial Church, Durham, N. C. It contained white socks enough for each of us to have two pairs.

Miss Carpenter, the leader of our Young People's group took us to town to buy Christmas gifts for the children overseas.

We are busy keeping our campus clean by raking leaves and making play houses with them and at the end of the day we put them in bags.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hope you don't think we have forgotten you since school has started but studying and stringing beans has really kept us busy. Now with a little time on our hands we are once again giving you some news.

The leaves are beautiful now since they have begun changing colors. We decided that we would like to have our house looking pretty so with the help of our matron we had leaf chains hanging our walls. The Baby Cottage children thought they were just as pretty as we did.

All of us were looking forward to Homecoming because that is the time when all you see is babies. It really is very interesting and quite amusing to watch them.

Some of us in one way or other have a pet which we love very much. The other day one of the little girls came running up to Mrs. Gentry all out of breath.

"Mrs. Gentry," she said breathing hard, "Virginia has a bug in her box."

"Virginia why have you got a bug in your box?" inquired Mrs. Gentry.

"Why, Mrs. Gentry thats my pet," smiled Virginia.

We all got a good laugh out of that.

Thanks to Mr. Calhoun we enjoy going to the play woods to eat our supper.

This summer quite a few of our little girls went home to stay. Among the ones who went we miss Sue Anne most because Sue had a radio and when she left she took it with her. One reason we miss it so much is that we learned to eat a lot of cereals which we didn't like otherwise by hearing the advertisements over the radio.

Clara and Bonnie haven't started going around saying poetry yet. But one of these days that will be all one can hear.

Look for us next month. Same Cottage, same place.

School is well under way now and we have had our first reports. We didn't have too many on the honor roll but most of us were kept off only by one S., which wasn't bad for the first time.

All of our "new geniuses" have been initiated into the Beta Club. For one whole week they were subject to horrid punishment from the elder, or should I say, feller members of the club. But all in all I think the whole school enjoyed it. Some of our girls went on a

NO. 1

The Meeting of the Men of the Church

Barium Springs seems to be always the meeting place for the Men of the Church of Concord Presbytery. Mr. Fred Long was the president this past year - he is from Lenoir, Mr. Hethcox of Barium Springs was the secretary, Mr. Cary Lowrance was the Vice-president.

The number attending these meetings has grown so large that very few people can entertain them, so the job came back to Barium Springs. This is a task that is pretty large but the folks at Barium seem to welcome it and thrive on it. This year we were afraid that there would not be room to seat everybody in the big dining room to serve a regular meal, so we put on a barbecue and served it cafeteria style and the entire group of people were served in twenty minutes and they ate for the rest of that hour.

We found out something about the Men of Concord Presbytery this year that we did not know before. We always knew they were generous, and they proved it again this year. There were about 475 present - by actual count 470. There was a voluntary offering after the supper and that added up to $471.00, so that proves that the crowd was extremely generous. Part of this money went to pay the expense of the meal, part of it as a gift to the children who had to give away their supper period, eating a picnic lunch instead, and who had to do a good deal of extra work to put the meal on - part of the money contributed goes to their pleasure - picture shows, picnics, and such.

Now, as stated above, we already knew that the men were generous. We did not know that they had appetites like they have. That is a discovery that we will have to take note of in future suppers.

We did not know beforehand how

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

We are bringing you the news of Rumble Hall. First we would like to tell you about our trip to Davidson homecoming. We saw a little of the game but couldn't see the rest because it rained and we were soaked to the bone. The little we saw was very interesting.

On Tuesday night we went to Mooresville skating rink. We had a wonderful time and skated a long time. Some of the girls who did not know how to skate when they went down there knew when they got back.

The following Tuesday Shirley Hollifield, Elizabeth Huddleston, Delores Ramsey, Mary Elizabeth McNeil, Shelby Andrews, Shirley Byrd and Carol Jean Andrews went to Mooresville and gave a short program after which we had tea and the circle gave us vases, scarfs and a huge box of candy, cakes and nuts. We enjoyed it very much and greatly appreciate it.

PRINTING OFFICE

Hello Folks,

Here we are bringing you the latest news from the Printing Office.

Printers Devil Dean Upton has had a little tough luck recently. He accidentally fell and broke his arm, but he is alright and is back working with us again.

In a few months we will be printing the individual pictures of the senior class - those who are finishing the high school. In this issue we are printing the pictures of the beginners in the High School - the Ninth Grade. They will look quite different from this three years from now when their pictures appear as seniors. A good many of these faces will be missing then. As a matter of fact, already four are no longer with the Ninth Grade. They will look a heap more grown up when you see their pictures as seniors, but from now until then they are very important members of the Barium School and community.

Mr. James Sloan of Redlands, California

On Saturday morning, October 30th, we received a message telling us of the death of Mr. James Sloan, one of the best friends that Barium Springs ever had.

We do not remember that Mr. Sloan ever made a visit to Barium, but his kindness to this institution began away back in the early twenties and his helpfulness has been of the kind that has done Barium the most good.

Never was there a time when Mr. Sloan seemed to want to do something just to please a whim of his. It was always to meet a real need at Barium. The first thing was our printing office, and later additions to the printing office, and today our up-to date print shop is, as far as the equipment is concerned, entirely the gift of Mr. Sloan. Sloan Field, our athletic center is possibly the most popular place on the whole Barium campus. It was made possible by a gift from Mr. Sloan.

Now, here is an interesting thing. Mr. Sloan was not interested in athletics. When a suggestion was made that he help us to get started on a field, his reply was that he was not interested in athletics, but that if we thought that was the thing we needed most right then he would help us to get it. That is the kind of a friend he has been all along. His contributions and encouragement have come right at the time and in the way that did us the most good.

Mr. Sloan has helped us over many a hurdle - the enlargement of the office, helping us to get out of debt, a generous check every year toward the running expenses of the Orphanage - all of these were things that he did. Barium truly has lost a friend. The name Sloan has meant so much to every child who has grown up at Barium during the last twenty-five years that wherever they go they will feel kindly toward a person bearing that name. Sloan Field has

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

THE GREATEST BLESSING

As we approach the season of Thanksgiving we seldom fail to come with grateful hearts. For all of us are thankful for something and can rejoice that our early forbears were moved to set apart this day in late autumn for joyful thanksgiving unto God. Surely it is fitting that we should observe such a day, and just as surely it is true that every day ought to be a day of thanksgiving. We come on Thanksgiving being grateful for many things, and yet so often they are the material things of life, money, comfort, possessions, health. We must be thankful for these things, but for the Christian is there not a much greater blessing to which none of these other things are able to measure up? For our greatest blessing, and that for which we should be most thankful, is our relationship to Jesus Christ.

In this season of thanksgiving it would be well for us to pause and consider just what this relationship means to us. What have we gained, after all, in giving ourselves unto Christ?

It is human nature to count results. When we make any outlay of energy or time or money we want to see what the results are, what we have gained by that action. Suppose you buy a piece of property. You improve it; you build a house on it. And you want to see results, you want to see it increase in value. Perhaps you farm. Then you expect that the cost of the seed and the fertilizer and the value of harvest. If you work for an employer, you surely expect that the energy expended shall be met with a reasonable compensation. Now that is human and natural, that tendency to count results.

In a somewhat different sense

Deceased

Mrs. Mary McNatt

On November 1st 1948 Mrs. Mary McNatt died in Fayetteville, N. C. at the age of seventy years. Mrs. McNatt was the beloved matron of our infirmary for the years 1937 - 1947.

Mrs. McNatt was born in Thomasville, Ga. the daughter of John Hancock the inventor of Hancock plows.

She was married to Mr. J. B. McNatt and came to North Carolina and lived in Parkton, N. C.

She came to Barium in July 1937 at first as a substitute matron, and later as the trained nurse in charge of the infirmary.

Several years ago the Superintendent, Mr. Johnston, wrote of Mrs. McNatt as follows:

"She has carried on most acceptably during the years. A daily procession goes to the infirmary. Real pains and imaginary pains; symptoms that seem commonplace and are dangerous; symptoms that seem dangerous and are not; all come under her attention. She has a most amazing faculty of being able to distinguish the serious from the trivial, and to take the

Football Doings Around Barium

We have not told you about our football doings since our Monroe game. On September 25th we played Mooresville at Mooresville. The week before we had beaten Monroe so easily that maybe we took Mooresville too cheaply, and as a result the first half ended 6-6. We got busy in the second half, however, and scored two more touchdowns, winning 19-6, and were mighty glad to come away from Mooresville with that game salted away.

The next week was our first home game. We played China Grove - a non-conference team - and a team not quite up to the other teams that we had been playing. The final score was 61-0, and all of the substitutes got a chance to play. Joe Savage, an old Barium boy, is coaching at China Grove and he is doing the best he can under pretty hard conditions. China Grove has suffered two tragedies in former years and the town does not take too enthusiastically to the game.

On October 8th we journeyed to Spencer, playing an afternoon game on the Spencer field. We did not play as good a game as we usually do, and Spencer was at their top form. The final results was Barium 6 - Spencer 6. Barium had to come from behind to tie that one. The Spencer folks entertained us royally, giving us supper after the game so we came home feeling not too badly about being held to a tie.

On the 15th, Homecoming Day we had North Wilkesboro here. The weather was beautiful and the game was all that could be desired. Barium won 27-6 and avenged an almost similar defeat at the hands of North Wilkesboro a year ago. There was brilliant playing on both teams. Barium had several good backfield men to rely on and North Wilkesboro had to put most of their

Large Thanksgiving Offering Needed

When this copy of the Messenger reaches you, you will be making your contributions to Presbyterian Orphan's Home for the Thanksgiving Offering. Soon also the Presbyteries and churches will be preparing budgets for the year 1949-'50. There are some things we hope will be borne in mind.

In the year nineteen and forty we published a few figures in the Messenger showing the cost of certain items per day at the Home. In that year it cost $101.62 a day for food; this past year it cost $151.91. That year clothing cost $29.04 per day; now it costs $45.50.

In the year 1939-'40 we spent for fuel and lights $7,884.00. This past year because of the great increase in price of coal and freight rates we spent for fuel and lights $20,398.87. Because of the increase value of buildings, which has more than doubled in these eight years, our insurance bill has advanced from $1900.00 per year to $5,000.00 per year. These are but outstanding examples of an advance in costs which has been in evidence throughout the budget.

In the face of this advance we have experienced a decrease in income in several sources. In 1941 Synod recommended to the Presbyteries that Presbyterian Orphan's Home be put in the budget for 9 per cent. This year Synod reduces that percentage to 5 per cent. Some Presbyteries have gone even farther. One gives 3 1/2 per cent, one 3 per cent and one 4 per cent. One Presbytery gives 6 1/2 per cent for which we are thankful.

During the war we had some children of soldiers who made an allotment to us. We no longer have that income.

Though there has been some increase in our endowment funds, income from investments have been reduced more rapidly. The mistaken idea has gone abroad that the Home has been receiving more money than it needs. The fact is that only a very generous Thanksgiving Offering and a liberal response from the churches during the rest of the church year can avert a deficit.

Mrs. Mary McNatt

necessary steps. It is nice to have a person in charge of an important department that you can feel about as we do about the infirmary and Mrs. McNatt. We do not need to wake up in the middle of the night and wonder if that job is being taken care of. We know it is. We delight to do honor to this fine member of our staff."

Mrs. McNatt is survived by her children, four girls and four boys who are as follows: Mrs. Nanette Buckley, New York City; Mrs. Anita Smith, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Rachel McDougald, Fort Bliss, Texas; Mrs. Virginia March, Fayetteville, N. C.; James Taylor McNatt, New Jersey; Neill McNatt, Florida and Charles McNatt, Winston-Salem, and Rev. J. P. H. McNatt of High Point, and 15 grand children who along with a host of friends mourn her loss.

game, which we won 27-6. Rufus is going to school at Columbia, S. C. now. We miss him and his "Tall Tales" about whales a lot. He used to be one of our boys.

We haven't been seeing much of "Shooter Bum" Dwight Reid, another one of our tall tale tellers, much anymore at night. Wonder where he is. I bet he is down at the Infirmary shooting Elminia some of his tall tales.

Donald Mitchell who is on our crew is personally upset about the Carolina - William & Mary game.

Football season is coming to a close which we have done very well in our games. We still have to face two strong teams, Salisbury and Statesville. We sure do hope to beat them both.

Well folks, we hope to bring you more news next month, so until that time, so long.

LOTTIE WALKER BUILDING

Hi Folks,

A month seems a long time when it is only once in a month that I have the opportunity of telling you what is happening on our campus.

Our football team has been doing very well this month, only last week we had a win over Thomasville, 12-6. This week they play Salisbury on our own field and next week they go to Statesville for the game we girls have been looking forward to all season. We will be there pulling for you boys!

Margaret Bullard, one of the girls from our cottage, has entered the county beauty contest for "Miss Merry Christmas." Good luck Margaret!

Speaking of beauty we hear our pastor, Mr. Sides, has become formally engaged to Miss Virginia Smith of Monroe. Congratulations.

"Into each life some rain must fall." Yes, even at Barium there comes moments of great sadness.

We have just learned that Mrs. Mary McNatt, who was our nurse for many years and had just been gone from our home a year, has died. She was dear to us and will be missed by everyone.

It isn't long until Thanksgiving and Barium has much to be thankful for, mainly you, our friends.

Goodbye for now, and be with us again next month.

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

We have been out of the news for a month or so, but we are a lively bunch around the cottage.

We have enjoyed the football games here and at Davidson. We want to thank our friends at Davidson for being so good to us.

We went to town the other day to get our winter shoes and we are proud of them. It hasn't been so very cold so we are still bare footed. Some frosty morning we will put on our shoes. We are tough guys.

We have been planting some bulbs around our house, hope to have some pretty flowers in the spring.

Two of our boys went to the birthday dinner this month, Bobby Ray Bailey and Le Nair Burns.

We have been helping on the truck farm after school picking up potatoes and apples.

It won't be long until Christmas, we have been writing to Santa Claus to tell him what we want. We have worn out Sears catalog looking through it to see what to ask for.

We are going to have a football game here Thanksgiving afternoon.

Miss Carpenter took the Juniors to town Halloween night and we got in the parade. We had a good time.

At this Thanksgiving season, we want to thank all our friends for being so good to us.

A WISH IS NOT A WILL

Many people in Oklahoma have spent all their time and energy in accumulating wealth of one kind or another, land, royalties, cattle, real estate, stocks and bonds. These same people have given little thought as to how they will perpetuate their energies for the good of mankind. In their hearts they want to help and not hinder. It is harder to invest an estate wisely than to make it. Great character is not revealed in the making of money but in the use of it. This requires no small amount of time, thought and consideration.

Hundreds of friends have already settled the decision in their own minds as to what they will do, and have good intentions but through procrastination never do it. A man may wish a hundred times concerning his estate, but a wish is not a will. A wish denotes a feeling of need, yet this is not sufficient. Unless you wish and actually do something your wishes are in vain. A wish should lead to a will.

If you want worthwhile religious institutions to benefit from your lifetime of labor, make your will immediately. Most people who have died without a will had expressed to intimate friends that they wished to remember a certain institution, organization but were so busy they kept postponing the making of their will. Make a will regardless of the size of your estate.

Project your life through your will—make it now!

Baptist Messenger

On a dark and stormy night the trainman was signaling to the engineer when he dropped his lantern to the ground. Another man passing by tossed it back to him on top of a boxcar. In a few minutes the engineer came rushing up.

"Let's see you do that again!"

"Do what?"

"Jump from the ground to the top of that boxcar!"

The Meeting of the many were coming. There were guesses of everything from 400 to 600. To be on the safe side we prepared enough barbecue for 600 people, after consulting experienced barbecue dispensers, so we felt that if all of this was not eaten up we would have something to go on in next day's regular meals. We did not give the men a very big helping when they first lined up and told them that they could come back for second helpings. Did they respond to that invitation? Well, before the evening was over every scrap of the barbecue was gone, so those 470 men ate up what was a normal allotment for 600.

All glory to the men of Concord Presbytery. Anybody who can eat like that can do a lot of work, and we believe that the effort to make the Program of Progress real will be carried out by these men.

Reverend Ben Rose made the principal address, and the neat way he acknowledged his introduction captured the interest of the men listening to him and helped to make his speech well received and inspiring. Dr. McLean of Lenoir introduced Mr. Rose as the son of a famous lawyer, the grandson of a State treasurer, the nephew of the president of the Union Seminary, and the son-in-law of a distinguished professor, Dr. Thompson. Mr. Rose, in acknowledging this introduction, stated that he took no credit for being the son of his father or the grandson of his grandfather or the nephew of his uncle, but he claimed all of the credit for being the son-in-law of Dr. W. T. Thompson, which evidently meant that his wife did not give him a bit of encouragement in that line at all. Mr. Rose's address was one that inspired us, and we believe Concord Presbytery is going to do better things because of it.

The new officers elected were Mr. J. A. Sloan, of Salisbury, President; Judge Wilson Warlick of Newton, Vice-President, and Mr. Archie Calhoun of Barium, Secretary.

It is very likely that the meeting next year will again be held at Barium. If, however, it should be held somewhere else, please take note of the item about the barbecue. The men of Concord Presbytery are real men.

we might carry that over to our spiritual lives. What have we gained? Certainly we ought to say that not by any efforts of ours do we receive the myriad blessings of Christ. But we do have something that we must do before these blessings can be ours. We give ourselves to Him. We offer ourselves in full surrender. We say, if we come sincerely, "Here is my life; take it, Lord, and let it be consecrated unto Thee. I hold back nothing, all my talents, all my time, my heart and soul are given unto Thee. Take and use me as thou wilt."

If then we have made that full (Continued On Page Three) surrender, what does it mean to us? What have we gained? well, the Apostle Paul mentions very clearly in the fifth chapter of Romans some of those blessings that are assuredly ours in Jesus Christ.

First of all, being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. That is to say, we are reconciled with God. We are no longer the subjects of God's displeasure, His wrath against sin will not be shown toward us.

The world cries out today for peace, peace between men and nations. But here is a peace that is available for all and yet how many are refusing it! How many today are living miserable lives because they have not come to peace with God.

With that peace we no longer have to dread God's wrath, for we are no longer enemies, we are sons. We are brought as sons to the Father by Him who is our elder Brother, the Lord Jesus Christ.

The second blessing is that we rejoice in the hope of the glory of God. The lot of the saved person is joy. Actually it is more than joy that Paul had in mind.

It is rejoicing in the hope and the blessed assurance that we shall be saved to fellowship with God in heaven. How is it that if we ask some if they are saved, they will reply, "I don't know. I hope that I am saved. I believe I am saved but I am not sure."

It is that assurance that gives us joy. It is that assurance that should put the glow of rejoicing on the face of every Christian.

And then, finally, Paul would tell us here of a third blessing that might be described as patience in tribulation.

Paul makes no attempt to say why good people suffer, and yet he says something far more important. And that is that tribulation may also be made a blessing for the one who truly trusts in Christ.

In this season of thanksgiving let us be most thankful for the marvelous blessings of Jesus Christ; peace with God, hope of the glory of God, patience in tribulation.

marvelous blessings of Jesus Christ; peace with God, hope of the glory of God, patience in tribulation. All of us are seeking peace, joy, contentment. We may be thankful that they are found in Him.

dependence on one. On October 22nd, Barium suffered their first defeat, losing to Lexington 21-13. It was a drizzly night, spoiling to some extent the homecoming festivities of the Lexington school.

On November 5th Barium played Thomasville at Barium - a big, tough team. The final score was Barium 13 - Thomasville 6.

As this is written two games are still on the schedule - Salisbury and Statesville - two of the hardest and most interesting games on the entire program.

While the big boys were doing all of this, the Juniors have played several games. The first was the B-team playing Statesville and winning 7-0.

It is that assurance that gives us joy. It is that assurance that should put the glow of rejoicing on the face of every Christian. And that joy that we gain is only the beginning, the sample of the joy that shall be ours at last in the face that Christ has gone to prepare for us.

Miss Virginia Smith Wed To Rev. Mr. Sides

From The Charlotte Observer
Monroe, Dec. 7—Miss Virginia Hill Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Alexander Smith of Unionville, became the bride of Rev. Charles Hobart Sides, Jr., of Barium Springs, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sides of Statesville in a beautiful ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Rev. Jack T. Akin, pastor, officiated.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. H. H. Wilson, organist, and Mrs. Ted O. Morgan, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice, leg-of-mutton sleeves, Queen Anne collar, and full skirt which ended in a train. She wore a chapel-length veil of imported bridal illusion fastened to the head with a sweet-heart halo of seed pearls, and carried a white satin prayerbook topped with a white, purple-throated orchid. Her only ornament was a fleur-de-lis pin that belonged to her paternal grandmother.

Mrs. Kenneth S. Welch of Unionville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Anne Smith, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore dresses of cherry red moire taffeta

And They Lived Happily Ever After

The above picture shows our pastor and his bride strolling down the aisle - or up the aisle maybe - would be better . . . on a recent afternoon, and from the decorations you know what has just happened. The stroll is the beginning of a lifetime walk which we hope will last many, many years. They are going a roundabout way but will eventually land in the manse at Barium Springs where Mr. Sides has already become a most popular member of our community. You cannot look at this picture without falling in love with this young couple. Barium Springs welcomes them with open arms.

Elsewhere in this paper you will find the detailed account of the wedding.

The Message of the Morning

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

WHAT DOES CHRISTMAS MEAN TO YOU?

In answering that question do not pause for reflection just now as to what it ought to mean. Instead answer it quite truthfully with the first thing that comes to mind. Does it mean a vacation from work? Does it mean perhaps a time of exchanging gifts, with all the worries that are entailed in making sure that the exchange comes out even and no one is slighted? Is it the holiday spirit and parties and gaiety that appeals most? Might it be the singing of carols, the old and ever new portrayal in our churches of the first Christmas? Perhaps our answer as to what Christmas means to us would include many of these.

And yet most of our answers would sadly reflect the obvious truth that in our modern age Christmas has become a huge festival, a time of unrestrained spending that has grown to such proportions that we can no longer control it. Christmas - an almost frenzied effort to make merry in the time allotted the season. And the day itself is now indeed a holiday and no longer for many a holy day. All of which is but to say that we are taking Christ out of Christmas.

Even in much of our correspondence the word becomes Xmas, and Christ, whose birthday we celebrate, is reduced to the algebraic quantity of X. Were it a cross it might well represent the Lord who died that we might live, but it is not a cross. And Christ is the forgotten element of many a Christmas day as celebrated by the average American.

This not said to lessen our joy. It is said in the hope that ours may be a greater joy and a saner joy this Christmas season. If it is centered in Christ, it will be a joy

The Liniment Bowl Game

A Beautiful Game On A Beautiful Day

By An Interested Bystander

The big Iredell county game annually staged on Thanksgiving Day is now history. The Mitchell college "Fighting Wildcats" were downed by the Barium Alumni in one of the most interesting and spectacular games ever staged in this neighborhood.

The ordinary football fan would imagine that a game between two teams, one a college team with no previous experience and the other a team of boys who had most of them never played together and without any preliminary practice, would not be a very creditable exhibition. Well, it just goes to show that the experts don't know their stuff. The game was thrilling, it was an exhibition of good football, most excellent defensive work on the part of Mitchell, and some of the most intricate forward and lateral passing by Barium that you will see on any football team.

The statistics of the game are interesting. Barium made three touchdowns and 10 first downs. Mitchell made no touchdowns and two first downs, and yet all through the game Mitchell was threatening. Their forward passing attack seemed to be the strongest weapon

Mr. Fred W. Sherrill

Mr. Fred Sherrill died very suddenly on Friday afternoon, December 3rd. He was buried on Sunday, the 5th. He appeared to be in good health up until the time of his death. He died in his car while waiting on a traffic light.

Mr. Sherrill was a bachelor. The many kind things that he did were done quietly and very few people knew about them. For a number of years he has been the inspiration of the boys and girls at the High School at Barium. It has been his custom to give cash prizes to the ones showing the most improvement during the year. He had started this out with ten dollars, and built it up to forty dollars, and that had become the main inspiration for the students in the High School during the year. They wanted to be in on Mr. Sherrill's prizes, not for just the amount of money involved but because of the honor and prestige of reaching that goal. In many other ways Mr. Sherrill was kind to us at Barium.

bers of the team, which includes all the boys in the senior class. Take a good look at these boys. They have carried the colors of Barium for four years, one of them for five, as he played when the eighth grade was eligible. In this group is our regular center, three ends, three tackles, and two backs, almost a team in itself. In our last issue we told you about all of our

Mrs. Bessie D. Elliott

Death has again touched our family at Barium and this time taken one of the most beloved members of our community. Mrs. Exam Elliott, the wife of our postmaster and the sister of Mrs. J. B. Johnston, has been in declining health for more than a year. She passed away quietly on the night of November 16th. After a brief service at a funeral home in Statesville the body was taken to Birmingham to be buried in the family plot with her three children. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott have lived at Barium Springs for about four years. During that time Mrs. Elliott was never strong enough to take a very active part in our community life, and yet her kindness and thoughtfulness touched every life at Barium. Everyone here knew her and loved her. There is hardly a cottage or a building on the campus that has not felt the touch of her hand. Flowers somehow grew more luxuriantly under her touch. Potted

The Message of the Month

SERVING BY SENDING

"For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Romans 10:13-15.

A criticism often heard, and sadly enough, often justified, of preaching today is that it fails to be practical. It is quite true that ministers frequently stand before their people and present perhaps very beautiful and moving sermons. They are spiritual truth, but they aren't practical. They describe what we ought to be, but they fail somehow to point the way. They fail to answer the question, "How?"

People are asking some serious questions today because they are doing serious thinking. They are asking, "What can I do?" "How can I serve in a more real way?" Some time ago a minister wrote in to one of our church papers and asked the question, "What is the real frontier today?" In other words, if I am to serve the Master in the best possible way, where will I go, what will I do? I believe that many people truly want to know the answer to that question.

I do not claim to know the complete answer, but I do know one answer. Certainly the clarion call for a Christian in any age and in any situation is for him to share his faith with others. Of course the most obvious way is through our own personal evangelistic efforts. And it is a heartening fact that throughout our church today emphasis is being placed upon just that effort in the form of visitation evangelism.

Personal evangelism is basic, but we cannot stop there. The average Christian is of necessity limited in this work to those associations that he is able to cultivate in his own community. But the fact is self evident that there can be no limit placed upon the crying need of all people for Jesus Christ. Our responsibility is not and cannot be limited to those nearby. And it is right here that the Foreign Mission enterprise confronts us. Foreign Missions is concerned with the essential fundamental task of bringing men to Christ and as such is the responsibility of every true Christian. It is a most important part of what I consider the real frontier for each one of us, sharing our faith with others. And it is a field in which all may serve.

In the verses of our text there is a message that must come home to all of us as we face just now the call of Foreign Missions. In these words of Paul we find a promise, a question, and a challenge.

The promise is this - "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

God's Word abounds in precious promises. There was the promise to Abraham, "Go into a land that I will show thee." That promise was gloriously fulfilled. There was the promise to the children of Israel in Egypt that they would be delivered from bondage. And they were! The promise to the people who were captives in Babylon that a remnant should return to the land of their fathers. And God kept His promise!

God, too, made promises to individuals, promises of help and guidance and his blessed presence. Moses heard them, Paul heard them, and more. Each one lived to have those promises fulfilled. We cannot then doubt God's word, for His promises are good.

But of all God's promises, none exceed the glorious promise of our text. The promise of that which is dearest and best of all, the promise of salvation. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." God wants men to be saved. There is no life apart from Him. Men are lost without Him, and what a world of suffering and sadness is represented by that word, "lost". But no one need be lost, for God's promise concerns a gift, a free gift, of salvation to all who will call upon Him.

And yet in the very saying of that we come to our second thought, the question. Suppose men don't call upon Him? What then? The answer is and can only be, separation from God. And that brings us face to face with the question of our text. "How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

Does that stir your soul? It should! Does it fill you with an unquenchable desire to do something about it? God help us if it does not! For that is the question before the church today and in all ages. God has promised salvation.

Christmas At Barium Springs

* * * Christmas Peaks — Santa Claus At Work — The Miraculous Epidemic of Giving.

Anyone who has lived through a Christmas at Barium Springs will have memories to carry with them for the rest of their lives. It is like Christmas at other places just magnified, with many other special features. Of course, the idea of Christmas commences to build up from Thanksgiving right on. We are hardly through talking about the big football games that take place on Thanksgiving Day and our wonderful Alumni game at Barium on that day before the talk of Christmas drowns it out. To help it along is the flood of Christmas cards that commence to come in very soon after Thanksgiving. By the time the November bills have all gotten in, the mail is getting heavier every day and our postmaster develops a squint from reading the names on so many Christmas cards. They come to us from all over the world - most of them without return addresses. Most of them are from people whom we know, some are from people whom we think we know, and some leave us completely bewildered. For instance we may get a post card from Cincinnati signed "with love, Mary," and we try to think of all the Marys we have known and loved who might be living in Cincinnati! Then there are so many that are signed with the husband's name "Mrs. Whosis." We know that when a girl marries, the name of the man whom she marries is the most important name in the world, and she is perfectly justified in feeling that all the world should know who she is by that name, but we do not know.

For many years we tried to acknowledge all the cards that came in to us, but for the last five years we have given it up as a completely hopeless job and have simply extended our thanks through the columns of The Messenger which we are doing this time. We want to thank everybody - and this means at least five hundred people - who were kind enough to send us Christmas cards. Thanks a million. It warmed our hearts and made us feel really important that so many people thought of us at Christmas. We wanted to just call you up and thank you every time a card was received. Now, we look at the pile on our living room table and gloat when anybody comes in and we tell them that that many people remembered us at Christmas. They came from nearby and from far distant points and all are greatly appreciated.

The mails were full of other things besides Christmas cards - Christmas letters. There were the letters going out from our big family of children to the people who had asked for their Christmas letters, and then there were letters to relatives and to clothing people, and before long the returns on these letters commenced to show up. We have a big conference room at Barium where the Board of Regents meet and where the staff meet occasionally, and this is the Christmas room. Christmas presents are brought in and listed with the name of the donor and the name of the child for whom it is intended and a record is carefully kept. A postal card is immediately mailed to the person sending the gift to let them know of its safe arrival. These presents are all kept together until the day before Christmas when they are sent out to the various cottages, and you would not believe the number that are in that pile of gifts - beautiful gifts, an amazing variety. It makes you take off your hat in awe and gratitude to see the magnificent response of the people who love to do things for the children at Barium Springs to make their Christmas a happy one.

We are getting ahead of the story, however. Long before these packages are opened we have the "Give To" Christmas Tree. We have described this in former years and now it is one of the most delightful occasions that we have. We always have it before school closes while the teachers are still here. The whole Barium community - teachers and nearby neighbors and the children gather in our dining room and there to an accompaniment of Christmas Carols as we decorate a Christmas tree. We start with the bare tree and as we make our gift we pin a decoration on the tree and end up with a most beautifully decorated tree and a substantial gift for some worthy cause. This year it went to the Home Mission enterprises under the direction of Reverend John W. Luke of Glendale Springs, N. C. We know Mr. Luke and we know the grand work that he has been doing for so many years and we enthusiastically made his work the object of our gift this year.

After this big occasion, the various grades in school usually have a little program or party or something and many gifts are exchanged. Through the kindness of several friends the children are provided with some Christmas money - not all of the children - just those who do not otherwise have any money, and there is a hilarious shopping day for each of them. You ought to see what happens to a five and ten-cent store when some forty children invade it each with a dollar or a dollar and a half to spend. Things really happen.

A special friend sends in a pretty sizable check to be divided among the late comers - those who have been at Barium only a short time when Christmas arrives. This is more than the ordinary child receives, but the idea back of it is to let that first Christmas be so impressive that the child will never forget it. Well, the idea works. One of the boys who was the recipient of this money this year apparently had never heard of Santa Claus. He had certainly never enjoyed a Christmas that made it stand out as any different from any other day. He was rather skeptical - he did not believe that things were going to happen like the other boys told him they were. Well, when he got through with his spending spree and with the Christmas distribution of gifts he was ready to tell the world there is such a person as Santa Claus.

Well, Christmas Day finally arrived. By this time the teachers have gone; some of the workers have gone, but most of them hang around until about ten o'clock Christmas morning. By that time the various Christmas trees have taken place. In fact, this business starts

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hello Friends,
The time we have been waiting for has finally come and gone. Thanks to all our many Friends, Christmas here at Barium was just wonderful.

All the nice toys we received were just the thing for playing indoors on rainy days. If you come by our house all you will be able to hear is the lovely music of our xylophones and pianos. Christmas wouldn't be Christmas if we didn't get Old Maid Cards to play with. Our big sisters and matron like to play this game with us too.

Also we want to thank all our friends for the candy and nuts. We will still be eating candy and nuts for a long time to come.

When the weather is pretty we are going to dress up our dolls in all their pretty clothes and take them for a nice long walk.

Many of our girls got beautiful pocketbooks for Christmas. If any of you see us come sporting out in our new dresses, socks, handkerchiefs and pocketbooks, you'll know where they came from. All of these new clothes combined make a dazzling outfit.

One night one of our little girls was awakened out of a deep sleep by a shrill whistle. Not knowing what it was she decided she would wait for a repeated whistle. Sure enough a repeated whistle was fast and loud in coming. What she heard sounded like a quartet tuning up for their concert. One girl was snoring bass, another alto, another tenor and the last soprano which was the shrill whistle that she had heard previously.

One morning, not having any heat, all of us gathered in one room to play games, listen to the radio, and to eat a snack now and then. All the games you sent us came in very handy during this occasion and many more since then when we couldn't get out in the yard to play.

We are looking forward to a lot of snow this winter. It has snowed only once here at Barium, but that wasn't enough to brag about.

Basketball has started and we are hoping that our boys and girls will win the conference.

Again let us thank all our many friends for the lovely gifts which we received from them.

Until next month, we remain yours.

—The Annie Louise Girls.

GLEE CLUB

After the seniors graduate, we nearly always feel that certain school organizations have been ruined beyond repair by their loss. This is about the way we felt about the Glee Club, after losing almost one third of last year's membership by graduation. However, others always come along to take their places, and this year the Glee Club has more members than last year, and is probably just as good. Last year our music director was Miss Rachel Hickman. This year it is Mrs. Lee Spencer. Still the same person, though. She just changed her name during the summer.

Before Christmas the Glee Club prepared a program of Christmas music which was presented to the Iredell County Unit of the North Carolina Teachers' Association, the Campus Club of Davidson College, the Rotary Club of Statesville, and the Second Presbyterian Church of Mooresville.

At present, the Glee Club is working on a program of sacred music, anticipating that invitations will be received from a number of nearby churches to present this program anytime between February 20th and May 1st. Last year, one overnight trip was made by the Glee Club to Covington, Va., the home of the director; which was thoroughly enjoyed by the group, and was a kind of reward for the hard work it had done. This year the club is looking forward to another such trip, and a repeat invitation has been received from the people at Covington; but in order not to show partiality, some other invitation might be accepted this spring, if such an invitation were received.

The membership of the Glee Club is as follows: Sopranos: Anne Wicker, Lavona Morrison, Bernice Thoutman, Melva Powell, Jean Turlington, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson, Frances Stricklin, Anne Wil-

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., FEBRUARY 1949

NO. 4

The Mid-Piedmont Tournament

Barium Springs held the eighteenth Mid-Piedmont Tournament in February from the 16th through the 21st. This is something that started at Barium in a very small way in 1932. It was popular from the very first. It invited the best consolidated school teams from the adjoining counties. We attempted to discontinue it during the war years, but the nearby schools just wouldn't have it. They insisted that it continue, and it has continued and grown. Originally designed for 32 teams, it now enters over 40, requiring an extra day of play. This year there were 40 teams entered. The weather was good and bad - it rained just half the time, and yet the attendance was literally overwhelming. At least half of the spectators had to stand in the semi-finals and the finals. The players at times had to share the court with spectators, and the officiating was done under difficulties, but everybody was in a good humor, the players took their defeats gracefully, and the whole thing ended up with everybody apparently happy.

There was something that transpired during the final games that Ripley ought to hear about. Berryhill school entered both boys' and girls' teams and these teams reached the finals. The girls' team was defeated decisively and the boys were in the midst of their game, when during a lull the cheer leaders took over. Now Berryhill school had one of the best group of cheer leaders we have seen. They put on a floor show that was as entertaining as the ball games. Naturally, their cheers, for the most part, were for their teams but right in the midst of the thickest of the fight for the final championship the cheer leaders gave 15

HOPES FOR THE FUTURE

The picture we are featuring in this month's Messenger is a group of junior basketballers. This is not all of our juniors - it is not even half of them. As a matter of fact, there are forty-eight who rate the uniform, 24 blues and 24 greens. There is enough of pep and enthusiasm in this group to power a medium-sized atomic bomb.

In our limited gymnasium space they do not get to practice nearly as much as they would like. Tuesdays and Fridays are their practice days while the members of the Varsity teams are resting up for their regular games on those nights. They play one game a week on Wednesday afternoon. They have to share their practice time with the junior boys so they do not get nearly enough basketball according to their way of thinking.

There is a tournament in the middle of March to feature these junior teams from a number of schools near Barium. That is their big day. Last year Barium entered three girls' and two boys' teams. We do not know how it will turn out this year.

Many a boy and girl gets to play in these junior tournaments who never make the grade in varsity competition, so they have to have their fun while they have a chance.

Those who are skillful enough make the varsity teams and then they play before crowds all the time and usually give a good account of themselves. Last year our varsity girls were conference champions, then at the end of the season they lost out in a tournament, but a beautiful trophy is in our trophy case for the conference championship. We might have repeated this year but for, not a slip of the wrist, but a slip of the ankle. One of our main dependencies on the girls' team sprained her ankle just two days before a crucial game. We lost that game and the next game to the same team and by the same ankle.

At the end of the season there will be a tournament for the conference teams and maybe our girls will make up for their two defeats by coming through in the tournament.

Our boys also have a very strong team. The fact that five in the squad are seniors may account for it, and may cause us to have some misgivings about our team for next year, but there is an enthusiastic bunch of juniors coming up and they may have something to say about it. Anyhow, we are not weeping over next year's chances yet. We know from the size of the crowds that attend our games and tournaments that a lot of people are interested in basketball, so we are giving something of this year's record for our teams.

Before Christmas we played some games with some stronger county teams, and they turned out this way: The very first games were with Celeste Henkel, our nearby neighbors. Our girls won 35-22 and the boys won 36-26. In the return game with the same school Barium was again victorious, the girls 42-25 and the boys 42-22. Then against the strong Cool Springs girls, our girls took their first defeat, losing 29-17 and our boys winning 38-18. Against the always strong Scotts teams, Scotts defeated our girls 41-23 and our boys won 40-29. In a second game with Cool Springs our girls won 32-26 and our boys 44-9, and then the conference season started. Our opening game was with Kannapolis at Kannapolis and our girls won 32-23, our boys 40-37, two red-hot well played games. Then followed games at Barium with Lexington. Our girls won that one 36-19, but our boys lost 35-29. This boys' game was really a heartbreaker. It was just one of those nights when Barium could not make her foul shots. Barium led Lexington all through the game but with Lexington narrowing the margin and just before the whistle blew for the end they tied the score at 28-28. In the extra period Lexington went ahead to win 35-29.

Then Barium journeyed to Mooresville. Neither one of the Mooresville teams had hit their stride and Barium played unusually fine ball, winning the girls' game 34-10, the boys' 47-29.

Back at Barium entertaining Spencer. Barium defeated the Spencer girls 44-10. This was an amazing victory, and at this writing is the only game that the Spencer girls have lost in the conference. They are the runners-up to the championship Statesville team. Barium defeated the Spencer boys 33-17.

Then came the big pair of games with Statesville played on the Barium court and Statesville took a double-header, the girls winning 30-26 and the boys 29-25. This double loss to our neighbors really meant something. It followed a decisive defeat in football by Statesville and constituted quite a record in a second defeat by our neighbors. Our boys and girls both determined to do something about it.

Then, to the Children's Home - another team that always gives every team a hard battle and saves their best for Barium. Our girls won easily, 32-17, but our boys had to come from way behind to win company in Winston-Salem. Our part of the income from this trust is about $4,000.00 per year. This has been a great help to us for it took up a part of the reduction in income for our endowment which because of the decreased earnings of investments of late years has been gradually reduced.

We are grateful for the generous support of the people of North Carolina, but the truth of the matter is that we will come very close to a deficit in our income this year. In fact, we will have difficulty in avoiding one. The orphanage has always been and will always be dependent upon the gifts of the churches large and small in the Synod of North Carolina. The income from them constitutes more than three-fourths of our needed yearly income.

THE MESSAGE OF FALSE IDEALS

The prophet Isaiah opens with the author's striking use of a very spectacular device. It is a description of a great court of law. Isaiah says that God himself has a suit at law against His people. They are tried before the high jury of the heavens and earth and are found guilty. Yet that sentence is not final. For God ceases to be the harsh judge and becomes instead the loving, forgiving father who is pleading for the return of His children.

Isaiah wrote when Judah was being crushed under the heel of the conqueror, ruined, desolate. The land was a picture of destruction and waste. Why? Why did this happen to God's people? Isaiah answers that sin was the reason, as shown in their turning away from God. And that had resulted in a set of false ideals, of wrong ideas and attitudes toward each other and toward God.

And this sad condition into which the people had fallen was certainly not due to the fact that they had not been warned. Powerful and convincing messages from God through the prophets had fallen on their ears, but they had not heeded. Surely they deserved the rebuke of Isaiah, that "the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of man shall be made low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted." For their pride had so engulfed them that they had left God out of their lives and had come to feel completely self sufficient.

When a people become blinded by their own self-conceit, that condition invariably shows itself in

School News

Each year several fund raising campaigns are conducted by the school. The one that seems to meet with the most favor is the Polio fund, or "March of Dimes." This year the school collected $102.65 for this cause. This was more than twice the amount contributed any previous year. A good part of this amount was contributed by the children themselves. The rest by the matrons, teachers, and other workers. The eighth grade contributed $12.50, which was the largest amount given by any one grade; although the first, second, third, and tenth grades, and Baby Cottage, each contributed ten dollars or more.

New desks which were ordered almost two years ago arrived last week and have been placed in the Seniors' home room. It is hoped that the desks in some of the other rooms can be replaced soon. Many have been in use thirty years, or more, and are in very bad condition.

May 16th is commencement day, and plans for this important occasion are already being made. Pictures for the Spotlight have been made, commencement announcements have arrived, Senior rings came some time ago, plans are going forward for the Junior-Senior Harmony boys and the Scotts and Blaramont girls. Then, of course, on Monday night the losers in the finals received trophies and individual silver gifts for the players. The champions received the championship trophy and gold ornaments. In addition there will be special ornaments sent to those selected for all-tournament honors. The officiating was handled most efficiently by Mr. Jim Gramam of Laurel Springs, Mr. Cloyd Jager of Hickory, Mr. Fred Daniels of Statesville, and Mr. Ervin Perkins of Barium. The only headache in the whole tournament was the limited space at the Barium playing court. It is estimated that as many people were denied admission on two nights as entered.

 14-30. The Children's Home led through practically the entire game and in the last quarter Barium came through with a rush to win. Over at Concord next and Barium took the girls' game 33-17 and in the boys' game played extraordinarily well to win 38-31. This was the first defeat administered to the Concord boys on their home court for the season. Then Barium journeyed to Lexington trying to redeem themselves for their earlier defeat by Lexington, but it could not happen that way. Our girls won 31-16, but our boys again lost 46-35. This is the only team that beat our boys twice during the season. Then the big return game with Statesville, and what a battle that was. The girls game wound up with Statesville winning 22-21, but our boys would not be denied and won this game 31-35. Then to North Wilkesboro. North Wilkesboro had a team which we had not heard anything about, but we knew they loved their basketball. Our teams had a setback following the Statesville games and for a time it looked like North Wilkesboro would take both of these games. Our girls got a good lead to start with and then North Wilkesboro outplayed us, and the lead became smaller and smaller and when the whistle blew Barium was a very much relieved team to have that victory 32-28. Another quarter might have turned the tables. In the boys' game the North Wilkesboro team stayed in the lead with Barium coming through at the last to win 38-30. Then the Children's Home came to Barium. Barium won these two victories rather easily, girls 28-19, boys 38-19, and this established somewhat of a record. This is the first time in so many years that we have almost forgotten that Barium made a clean sweep of all basketball games with the Children's Home. It is not apt to happen again.

Then the last game before this writing Concord came to Barium and Barium again won a double victory, the girls 40-23 and the boys 36-30. Don't let anyone get the idea that Concord is weak - they have two strong teams and Barium was extended both times to beat this team. Barium still has four games yet in her conference schedule. She entertains Mooresville here on Tuesday, the 22nd, and North Wilkesboro on the 25th (Friday). They go to Spencer on March 1st and end the season March 4th, entertaining Kannapolis at Barium. You will have to consult the daily papers to find out how these games come out. There will be a brief account of them in the next issue of the Messenger, but most of the news in that will be about the Junior Tournament. We are proud of our teams, not only of the way they have played, but the way they have conducted themselves on the court. They play hard but still manage to stay good friends with their opponents. Right now we are in the midst of a tournament and we again have it brought home to us the desperate need for a gymnasium at Barium. Twenty-three years ago we started using our present school auditorium for a basketball court. It was such a big advance over what we had always had (an outdoor court) that we thought we had entered heaven when we entered that nice building, but a lot of things have happened since then. At that time we just had one basketball team - a girls' team - possibly 20 girls played some basketball and that did not interfere with their school work. Now we have more than 30 girls out for varsity ball; we have about 60 out for junior ball, and an equal number of boys in both divisions, and in addition so that every youngster below these groups is itching to get his hands on a ball to play. There have been no Saturdays that as many as 90 youngsters would be on that basketball court, tossing balls around, and a game going on at the same time. It is hard for you to believe this: we did not believe it until we saw it with our own eyes. Somehow they never run into each other and never interfere with the shooting of a goal. Just as soon as the ball changes hands the non-players change courts and commence to shoot at the goal which is not being threatened. Maybe it is just a dream, but our desires and dreams about a new gymnasium become acute at this time of the year. We believe that Barium Springs is missing some big opportunity by failing to do something about it now.

There is no doubt about it but that the Barium tournaments are the most popular high school affairs in this part of North Carolina. People love to come to them and they love to play in them, and we have to say no to so many people who want to see these games. One of our dreams is that sometime two people may come to this tournament, a rich man and a contractor and that they will be sitting near each other, that they will be nudged in the back by people on our too-narrow seats and that they will have their feet trampled on because they are sitting too close to the court. There will, no doubt, be people standing in front of them and players and officials bumping into them. They won't see much ball game. We hope the rich man will turn to the contractor and say, "This is silly; let's build Barium Springs a decent gymnasium where the kids can play and where the people can see them play. I will furnish the money if you will do the work."

Now, our original dream was to have an architect sitting right behind them listening to the conversation and volunteering to draw the plans, but we already have the plan: we already have the ground, and all we need is the money and the contractor. We can almost forget the contractor part, because one has attended these games and been through just the experience that we have mentioned, and he has agreed to build this thing at such a reasonable price that all we need to make our dream complete is the man with the check-book.

Elsewhere in this issue we are giving an account of the basketball tournament. You can see how widespread this tournament is. From the number of Mecklenburg entries you could almost call it a Mecklenburg tournament - they even have more than our home county of Iredell - and they bring in mighty good teams.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., MARCH 1949

NO. 5

Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, Member of Board of Regents Passes

(From The Farmville Enterprise)

Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, a talented and capable administrator who dedicated her organizational ability and qualities for leadership to beautifying her home, increasing the influence of her church and improving her community, succumbed at 6:40 Monday morning, in a Wilson hospital, to an illness with which she was stricken several months ago.

Endowed with the charming characteristic of being able to guide and direct while remaining in the background and with no penchant for personal gain or glory, Mrs. Hobgood during her life-time was the recipient of many honors, ranging in importance from college medals to the presidency of the North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs.

Describing herself as "having been born in a Presbyterian manse" and "marrying into another," Mrs. Hobgood was the daughter of the Rev. Andrew Morrison and Sarah Rebekah Taylor Hassell, a family that was established in the Colonies by James Hassell who came from England in 1752 and settled in Bertie county, North Carolina. Her father enlisted, at the age of 16, in the Confederate Army and after the Civil War was ordained a minister of the Southern Presbyterian church. Mrs. Hobgood was born August 7, 1888, in Cross Hill, S. C., and was christened Elizabeth Lucile.

After receiving her education in the public schools of North Carolina and spending one year at Flora Macdonald college, she entered Fredericksburg college in Fredericksburg, Va., and was graduated in 1910 with the degree of Bachelor of Music. In 1908 she was awarded a medal for proficiency in public speaking and in 1909 was awarded another medal by the college, this one for proficiency in piano. Following her graduation she taught music at the college until her marriage.

The Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament

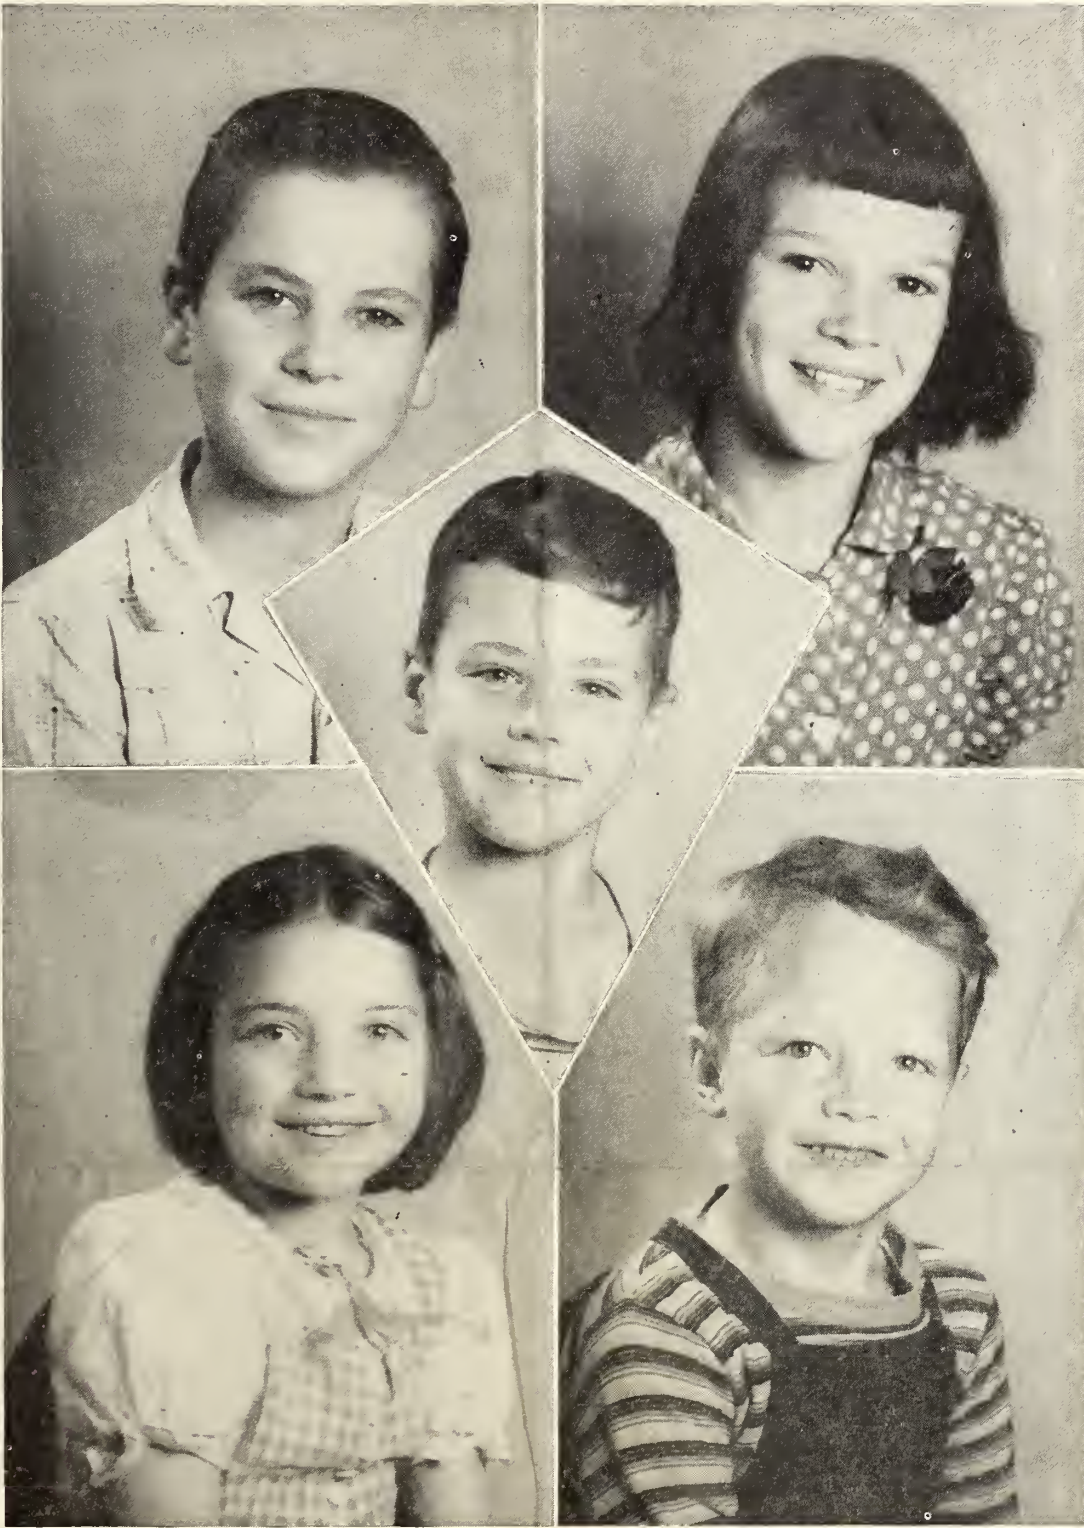

This tournament winds up the basketball season. We will have to give you a little news about the varsity before going into this. Since the last issue of our Messenger our big girls and boys were in a tournament at Mooresville and our girls came through as Champions bringing home a beautiful trophy. In the finals they defeated Statesville, a team which had twice defeated Barium during the season. The boys looked like they were headed for honors also, but they were defeated in the quarter-finals by Concord, a team which Barium had twice defeated during the season. So that's the way things go.

As soon as that tournament was off the board we all got busy to make our Junior Tournament the best ever. Thirty-two teams entered this tournament - 16 boys and 16 girls - and they played 46 games, a little shorter than the regular high school games, 6 minute quarters they were, but packing as much action as the usual eight minutes.

Barium entered a team of girls and a team of boys, but just before the tournament commenced one of the schools dropped out so two other teams had to be put in. These teams were not supposed to be very good; in fact, they were not supposed to last out the first two days, and the girls, meeting rather strong opponents, lost their first two games and were out of the tournament. In their first game they lost to the Mountain Orphanage girls 32-18. They lost their second game to Scotts 22-12. The second team of boys, however, did not submit quite so easily. They defeated the Wiley School of Salisbury 34-21 in their first game and in their second game beat Cool Spring 22-16. In their third game they were defeated by the Troutman team 27-22.

Our first team of girls, called the Barium Blues, defeated Wine-coff in their first game 30-8: they defeated Troutman in their second

We are decorating our Messenger this month with a bouquet of pictures. These pictures are just taken at random from those made last spring of all of the students here. The young people pictured here just happen to be photogenic. They make nice pictures, they also make nice company, and we are glad to introduce them to you.

The boy in the middle is Jimmy Bunnell from down Fayetteville way. The grin he is wearing in this picture is what he usually wears. He has been at Barium about a year. The girl in the upper bracket is Phoebe Cochran from Rutherfordton. Those eyes are brown and she is a nice somebody to know. She has been at Barium four years. The young gentleman in the top bracket is Archie McMannen from Durham, and he has been at Barium for eight years. The young lady in the bottom row is Shelby Peake. She is from Elizabethtown and has been at Barium two years. The young man in the bottom row is Richard McArthur from Carthage. Ricard has one brother at Barium, so does Archie, and so does Phoebe. Jimmy is the only member of his family here and Shelby is the only member of her family. This is a nice bouquet to adorn anyone's desk.

CAMPUS NEWS

ANNIE LOUISE

Hi Friends,

Before you quite get over valentine its almost time for Easter. Our new outfits are coming along just fine. We see also that Mother Nature is giving the trees their buds in time for Easter.

Thanks to Mr. Johnston, we have gotten a new R C A Victor record player. He also gave us some records which are almost worn thin from playing them so much. Our favorite is Rumplistikin.

Mr. Calhoun has done it again. What? He gave us a new basketball for our court. We shall take good care of it. Thanks so much, Mr. Calhoun.

Our News just wouldn't be right without some news from our teacher, Miss Blakney. Flash! Miss Blakney has been seen talking to some of the boys around here. What's the deep dark secret? Bet we can guess. Miss Blakney has gotten her a new spade and is try-

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

GIVING IS LIVING

At this particular season of our church year we are all thinking of the financial obligations of our church's work and how those obligations may best be met. It is, of course, a principle of the church that it subsists upon that which we voluntarily give for its support. The condition and future of the church therefore always is strongly affected by the liberality of our giving.

Many people are inclined to feel that there is often too much emphasis upon this very thing. And yet the fact is plain that giving often reflects the spiritual health of any church. We want to think just now of some simple principles

P Situation

This paper reaches your hands the various organizations of our Church, of the Boy Scouts, of the Girl Scouts, of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., and others will be making plans for summer activities. Many of these activities center around a camp and all of these plans have to be made just tentatively, because nobody yet knows how scared we are going to be about polio. Just one case of polio may start an hysteria that will close all camps, all picture shows, all swimming pools, all Sunday Schools, and everything that you can imagine which would be of interest and pleasure to young people. That is the way it was in 1948.

Let's hark back and think just a little bit about last year and what happened. North Carolina got the reputation of being one of the rotten spots of America, dangerous even to look at the name in a geography. All gatherings of children were stopped. People from North Carolina found themselves embarrassed. A young doctor and his wife had secured reservations for a vacation at one of the South Carolina beaches. When they arrived they found that their reservation had been cancelled and they were not allowed to stop. They were from the plague State of North Carolina. There were many other instances of people from North Carolina being denied hotel accommodations because they were from North Carolina. There were instances, many of them, where people were afraid to cross the State for fear of contamination.

This seems unbelievable even now just a year later. Someday our children will look back on this situation and compare it with the witch hunt of colonial days. We attended a funeral last summer and the mourners were more concerned about their children because some people came from a town where there were one or two cases of polio than they were over the death of their loved one. Why do we do such foolish things? What was the reason? We are publishing in full a pamphlet that was gotten out with much care by a man who was in charge of a camp. His camp was put out of business completely by the polio ban on camps. During his idleness he took pains to investigate to find out just how serious polio was in comparison with other diseases and in comparison here with other states. It may help you to control yourself during the summer of 1949.

By all the laws of averages we will have some cases of polio during this year. Whether we shall treat it reasonably or whether we shall get tremendously excited remains to be seen. We believe that we can hurt our children far more by simple fear than we can by the disease itself. Every year the March of Dimes brings the polio situation before us clearly, and we heartily

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST).

(Continued From Page One) subscribe to all efforts made to eradicate the disease and to find its cause and cure, but we do not think the cause is advanced by senseless orders such as stopping Sunday School. Whoever caught anything in a Sunday School? The Sunday Schools are not crowded, the children are clean, the place they are in is clean and they are only there a few minutes. One rather pessimistic minister remarked as an additional argument that nobody who ever had the least pain ever went to church - it was too easy to use that headache, or whatever it might be as an excuse to stay at home, so you may depend on it that those who go to Church and Sunday School are perfectly healthy.

tion that some of its own press and citizens have helped it acquire, of being the polio state? Is the disease more prevalent in North Carolina than elsewhere? Comparatively speaking, how serious is polio? These are questions to which we shall seek authoritative answers. First, let us get a factual picture of what has happened in North Carolina and elsewhere in the United States from 1916 through 1946, inclusive (the last year tabulated in a publication by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, "Facts and Figures about Infantile Paralysis," publication 59, revised December, 1947). Table III, page 25, shows that—

The United States averaged 7.3 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 to 1946 inclusive. North Carolina averaged 3.5 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 to 1946 inclusive. A condensation of figures from that authority, showing relative cases rates for all states, District of Columbia, and the United States, follows:

AVERAGE CASE RATES, 1916-1946, PER 100.00 POPULATION. Table with 48 rows listing states and their respective rates, including Minnesota (14.0), New York (12.9), Vermont (12.1), California (10.9), Washington (10.6), Connecticut (10.1), Nevada (9.8), Massachusetts (9.6), New Jersey (9.6), Kansas (9.1), Montana (9.1), North Dakota (8.4), Utah (7.7), Wisconsin (7.7), South Dakota (7.4), Michigan (7.4), Avg. United States (7.3), Oregon (7.2), Nebraska (6.9), Colorado (6.9), Arizona (6.8), Maine (6.8), Wyoming (6.7), Illinois (6.7), Virginia (6.6), Iowa (6.6), New Mexico (6.5), Rhode Island (6.3), Maryland (6.2), New Hampshire (5.9), West Virginia (5.5), Dist. of Columbia (5.5), Idaho (5.5), Ohio (5.2), Kentucky (4.8), Oklahoma (4.4), Pennsylvania (4.2), Mississippi (4.1), Missouri (4.1), Alabama (3.9), Delaware (3.9), Indiana (3.6), South Carolina (3.6), Tennessee (3.6), Texas (3.51), North Carolina (3.50), Louisiana (3.4), Arkansas (3.2), Florida (3.2), Georgia (2.4).

It is interesting to note that the three highest occurrences, and four of the five highest occurrences are in states bordering Canada. The eight lowest rates occur in Southern States. While it is possible that some part of this apparently good record is due to under-reporting in normal years, that possibility tends to be offset by the fact that in periods of abnormally high occurrences over-reporting is apt to take place.

We know little of recurrence cycles. In my 27 years of camping in North Carolina, we have had three so-called epidemics. There is some support for the theory of an approximate nine-year cycle—though I have seen it recur within four years.

Pages 10-23 in this same publication 59, carry some very enlightening charts on distribution, indicating visually North Carolina's comparatively favorable position. Attempting to bring these comparisons to October 2, 1948, including the first nine months, and worst recorded period of North Carolina's worst year, I get this report from the North Carolina Board of Health.

United States averaged 7.4 cases per 100,000 population in 1947. United States averaged 13.1 cases per 100,000 population to October 2, 1948.

North Carolina averaged 8.1 cases per 100,000 population in 1947.

North Carolina averaged 60.2 cases per 100,000 population to October 2, 1948.

Combining these with the above figures, we find that the United States averaged 7.56 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 through October 2, 1948.

North Carolina averaged 5.4 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 through October 2, 1948.

North Carolina's worst attack left the state comfortably below national averages. Generously assuming the other states figures static as of the end of 1946, North Carolina would now rate thirty-second.

Corroborating the fact of North Carolina's sub United States average case rate is Reprint Number 2848 from Public Health Reports, Public Health Service—"Poliomyelitis in the United States, England, and Wales in 1947." This study, by C. C. Dauer, W. H. Bradley, and A. H. Gale, shows the morbidity rate for the years 1944-1947 inclusive, and North Carolina's rate is again below the United States average—and below most of the other states, individually. Reprint Number 2630, also by C. C. Dauer, and from Public Health Service in Washington, studying the 1944 epidemic, locates the worst area that year "in a solid block of counties in western and southern New York State, and in a single tier of counties in northern Pennsylvania, bordering on New York. The western part of Massachusetts where the incidence was high, should also be included as part of this outbreak. One-third of all the cases reported in the United States in 1944 occurred in this area. . . . The highest rate of incidence, 381 per 100,000 population, occurred in Steuben County, New York." Compare that with North Carolina's rate for 1948 to October 2, its worst occurrence, of 60.2 per 100,000 population.

We scarcely need pursue such figures any further to see that North Carolina's sometimes predominant reputation as the polio state is undeserved; was probably acquired by unwise publicity, exaggerated interpretation, hysterical reaction.

Now, let us look for a moment at the comparative importance of poliomyelitis. U. S. News and World Report, September 17, 1948, page 22, "Polio: Facts vs. Fears," is responsible for the statement that polio "is killing far fewer persons that whooping cough, crippling fewer than rheumatic fever." The same article carries a chart showing that the Chances of infection for polio are 1 in 1,000; for rheumatic fever 1 in 100.

Chances of being crippled by polio, 1 in 5 victims; by rheumatic fever 1 in 2 victims.

Chances of death from polio are 1 in 20 victims; by rheumatic fever 1 in 5 victims.

Chances of recovery from polio are 3 in 4 victims; from rheumatic fever 3 in 10 victims.

Automobiles do many times the damage to life and limb that polio does. While polio was accounting for 120 deaths in North Carolina in its worst outbreak on record,

- 1. Heart disease killed in the same state 4,953
2. Apoplexy killed in the same state 2,098
3. Cancer killed in the same state 1,643
4. Influenza and Pneumonia killed in the same state 1,038
5. other accidents killed in the same state 894
6. Automobiles killed in the same state 411
7. Diabetes killed in the same state 340

Polio can be a terrible thing to its victims; but when we look at it among man's other enemies, its comparative importance shrinks. Occurrence of the disease seems highly improbable; recovery probable.

Age susceptibilities can be important and interesting, especially to those of us dealing with groups of children. The North Carolina Board of Health is the source of these figures, taking August 1948 as a sample month. Of the polio cases reported, 46% were from 1 to 4 years old. 27% were from 5 to 9 years old. 13% were from 10 to 14 years old. 14% were 15 years old and over.

This indicates that well over half the cases occur before school age and that approximately three-fourths before the usual age for beginning camp. Does it not follow that some three-fourths of the chances of occurrence is therefore past by camp time?

The question of whether or not group living increases incidence has come up. The following is a condensed report based upon information received from four children's institutions in North Carolina. This information was given in answer to an inquiry as to how many cases of polio per year they have experienced over a period of years.

The Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina, Thomasville, N. C., reports in 1935, one case from a group of 500, or two-tenths of one percent occurrence. Since then they report no cases to August 9, 1948, the date of their reply. The capacity now averages 400 per year. 1935-1948 morbidity rate was two one-hundredths of one percent.

The Methodist Orphanage, Raleigh, N. C., reports never a case of polio to date of writing, August 10, 1948.

From an average annual capacity of 400 plus, the Children's Home, Inc., Winston-Salem, N. C., had two cases in 1944, an incidence of five-tenths of one percent for that year. Neither of those cases resulted in permanently adverse effects. In 1948, one case occurred, an incidence of twenty-five-hundredths of one percent; no paralysis resulted in this case. 1944-1948 morbidity rate (through mid-August 1948) fifteen-hundredths of one percent.

The Presbyterian Orphan's Home, with a capacity of 300 annually, reports two cases for 1948; one fatal, the other very mild. This is an incidence of sixty-seven-hundredths of one percent for 1948. No other cases at this institution are known of since its beginning in 1891; since that time some 2500 children have been there for varying lengths of time. Overall morbidity rate (mid-August) eight-hundredths of one percent.

In 1948, only one private camp in North Carolina had any poliomyelitis, according to the Board of Health. One other case occurred in a short term 4-H camp—that was the camp total.

We have at least two obligations where our children's health is concerned. One is to protect them and help them learn to protect themselves against real and avoidable dangers. Another is help them avoid physical or emotional damage from unnecessary fear and fear reaction. We should be sure our goblins are real. The species has been known to vanish under good light. Probably polio's priority as the top child enemy, and North Carolina's as a polio center, will do likewise!

The Message of the (Continued From Page One) of giving that may prove helpful. Our subject is "Giving Is Living." And it is! For following Christ at all means just that, it means giving our all to Christ. It means seeing through the eyes of Christ to the extent that we realize that all that we are and have belong after all to God. That our blessings are simply held in trust for God, and our task is to prove ourselves good stewards of His gifts. It is then that life becomes truly abundant and worthwhile. For when we live for Christ, we give our hearts, our time, our talents, our money in His service. For giving is living!

Paul in speaking to the church at Corinth mentions some principles that might well characterize our stewardship of possessions. First, there is a need for liberal giving. Paul refers to a collection that he is taking in Macedonia and Greece for the poverty stricken Christians of Jerusalem. As a rule these people came from the poorer classes. The opposition of the time made it almost impossible for them to secure work for their support. A severe famine had added to their woes, and it was just at this time that Jerusalem was in a very unstable and troubled condition. Surely no one could doubt the people's need for help and help that must not be long delayed.

Just as surely no thinking person today can deny the need for Christian liberality. It is true that government agencies have been set up to alleviate suffering, but they will not be able to carry the burden alone. Nor can such agencies possibly meet all the needs of suffering mankind. For it is the Christian Church alone that is able to minister to the world's spiritual needs. Most of our contributions go directly or indirectly to the cause of winning men for Jesus Christ. Such a high purpose merits our most liberal support.

There is a second principle that Paul might give us, that there is always a need to plan our giving. In his first letter to the church at Corinth he had urged the people to give systematically. He had proposed that the people should try to give at certain specified periods. So you see when we plan a budget and try to urge each person in our churches to give to the church at weekly intervals we are not injecting modern ideas. This method of planned giving is almost as old as the gospel itself. It is not a departure from the gospel, it is a return to it. Surely Paul would approve and heartily support the idea of the budget and the every member canvass.

When we give only occasionally, or just on impulse, we are likely to think that we are giving a great deal more than we actually are. We see those gifts perhaps in our imagination and they are likely to loom pretty large. But when we are able to make a pledge and fulfill that pledge from week to week, then we have the satisfaction of knowing exactly what we are doing for the Lord. Planned giving, then, is Biblical, and it has the blessing of God.

A third principle that Paul would give us is that there is a need for cheerful giving. It is a matter for the heart to decide what we shall give. And I am convinced that he who gives from a heart warmed by love for others and concerned by the need of others is likely to give all that he is able.

Paul's advice is this, "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver." Perhaps no other verse in all the Bible is quoted half so much as this in regard to giving. Think of that word, "cheerful," for a moment. The Greek word, hilaron, carries an even stronger meaning than cheerful. What does it suggest to you? What English word? Perhaps I might be fairly cheerful about giving to the Lord something I would rather keep for myself. But I could not be hilariously joyful about. There, isn't that the word? Hilarious. God loves, then, a hilarious giver. One who gives happily and joyfully from a heart that is simply overflowing with love and good will. We may give from a sense of duty and the gift be eminently worthwhile. But how much better it is to give with boundless joy that we are able to share in the work of God.

Finally, Paul gives us the principle that there are rewards for liberal giving. "And God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work." The reference in that statement seems to be toward earthly goods. And actually no one can deny that liberal giving is often followed by an even greater outpouring of God's blessings upon us.

Yet actually the true spirit of giving is not to give just to receive more. The surest fact is that zealous giving to God's work is one of His surest methods for training loyal men and women to follow Him. Giving to God binds us to Him, it gives us a feeling of participation in His work, it gives us higher and nobler goals in life, it gives us a more lasting consecration to Him. And that is the true worth and the true reward for liberal giving. For giving is living!

The incidence of poliomyelitis in North Carolina during 1948, and the attendant hysteria, threw some perspectives out of balance, and indicate the possible wisdom of a second, calm, factual look. Does North Carolina deserve the reputa-

We are herewith presenting the pictures of our 1949 Graduating Class. There are thirteen Barium Springs young people presented here and two from the neighborhood: At the Mills Home they call these "scrub orphans", but we want to think up a nicer name for them because all that we have in our school are mighty nice people. The two presented here are Dickie Arrowood and Ricky Lippard. Here are the statistics on the other thirteen: Herbert Good has been in the orphanage longer than any other member of the class. He entered July 1st, 1935. All in all the thirteen members of this class have been living 245 years. 144 of these years have been at Barium Springs. We are going to miss this class for a long time. Every one of the boys played on our football team, seven of them were starters. Seven boys played basketball, four in the starting lineup. Four are in the Glee Club. Among the girls three are basketball players; two are members of the Glee Club, and all of them have done their assignments in school and in work most acceptably. They are going to make good citizens wherever they go. They can do a surprising number of things well. Three of the girls are headed to W. C. U. N. C. Four of the boys are headed to Appalachian. If you run across one of these young people as your neighbor we think you will find that he or she is a good neighbor. We wish them Godspeed.

The Johnstons On The Prowl Again

By Jos. B. Johnston

A few years ago there was a very popular song, "Stars fell on Alabama". Well, during the last twelve months the Johnstons could have a song something like this, "Girl Babies Fell on the Johnston Family." Three grandchildren of the female variety arrived within the twelve months. On June 10, 1948, Elizabeth Dickey Johnston was born to Joe and Peggy. On October 13th, little Jane Ann was born to Bill and Nell Johnston. On January 15th, little Nancy Horne was born to Bob and Marjorie Johnston, and all of this entails a lot of responsibility to the grandparents.

It takes just a day to visit the Joe Johnstons in Concord and to check up on their two little girls. It takes a week-end to visit the Bob Johnstons in Charleston to see little Nancy and step-son, Joel. Then it takes a whole week to visit the Bill Johnstons and little Jane Ann because they live in New Albany, Indiana, and it takes quite a bit of arranging for a whole week. As a matter of fact, that does not happen once a year even, but on April 6th we started out for that visit. We left Barium at nine o'clock in the morning on a beautiful but windy April day. The previous day's rain had swept all the dust and smoke out of the nearby Blue Ridge and the trip up to Asheville was one of delight. The fact that we had made that trip many a time before did not lessen the pleasure of seeing it all again. A mid-day lunch in Asheville and then out through the Great Smokies. A new road had been built since our last trip that way, missing Waynesville by a few miles and taking us through Soco Gap. This was some added scenery which we had not expected and it was worth traveling over a second time, but we were on our way to New Found Gap and Clingman's Dome before the evening wore away. On Clingman's Dome we found plenty of snow and ice and we found that we could see part of Fontana Lake from that spot. It looked mighty far down. Before it was too late we drove down off the mountain and spent the night in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. It was quite warm there and that helped to make us realize that Gatlinburg is just a mile lower than Clingman's Dome where we were earlier in the afternoon. We had supper at a little cafe which was over the Little Pigeon River. The food was fair - the price was strictly for the tourist trade, but that of course goes with the trip. We spent the night at a Motor Court, run by a woman whose hobby is African Violets, and I had a lot of trouble on my hands the next morning getting Mrs. Johnston to leave without getting the personal history of every individual plant. However, we did manage to get away rather early. We stopped by Knoxville to get breakfast, and then on to Oak Ridge, that wonderful secret city which has just been opened to the public.

We spent several hours driving through the residential part of this place and another hour in the museum, but we never did see any of the plants where the miracles are being performed. We found out a lot of things about this city of about 35,000 people, something less than half its size at the peak of the war activities. There are city - trading centers with drug stores, grocery stores, dry goods stores, picture shows, etc. The houses are of a very temporary nature but are now being converted to more permanent structures. Their schools, athletic fields, places for games, park and everything but graveyards. After driving through that place and finally leaving this was the thing that struck me most forcibly - not an old person and not a graveyard in a city of 35,000 people. Would it not be wonderful if it could be like that all the time - if people did not get old and have to have special provision made for them and if no ground had to be set aside for graveyards. We do not want to spend too much time talking about Oak Ridge - just enough to whet your appetite so that you will take in this wonderful place the next time you are out near it.

After leaving Oak Ridge, we journeyed north and stopped for a few minutes at the Norris Dam, the first of the big storage dams of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Of course, the water was very low at this time, purposely so in order to hold back the Spring floods which have so often proved disastrous. The Tennessee is now under control and you can plant your garden right down to the edge of it without fear that it will be overrun - that is the river below the storage dam. Just to show that we know what we are talking about, these storage dams are, in addition to the Norris, the Cherokee on the Holston River, the Douglas on the French Broad, and Fontana on the Little Tennessee.

We had budgeted our time very carefully in order to arrive at New Albany at six P. M. We understood that something was cooking in preparation for our arrival. We also realized that we had picked up an extra hour going from Eastern to Central Standard Time, so we were drifting along without being in too much of a hurry, and then something happened. We had a flat. It was the left rear tire, and it happened where the road is very narrow, but very heavily traveled. We could just barely get off the highway to change that tire, and it seemed that right then all the trucks and busses in Kentucky started coming our way. I had to get down on my knees to take that tire off. That meant that my heels were pretty far out on the highway, and for the first time in my life I wished that I was a very short man, because it seemed to me that every car that passed was at least going to knock the heels off my shoes.

Mrs. Johnston had gotten herself all fixed up for our trip and that included a manicure and her nails were polished up so prettily that it would have been a crime to have marred their shining surface with anything like Tennessee dust, and our car and wheel were prettily heavily coated. She wanted to help change that tire, but I would not let her do anything but hold the bolts when I took them out. It did not take us but fifteen minutes to make the change, but it took us more than thirty minutes to recover our composure afterwards, and all of that caused us to be a little late in reaching our destination. We were thirty minutes late for that supper, which meant that we had just that much extra appetite to satisfy, but Nellie had anticipated something like that and had an extra supply of food to take care of the occasion. Bill had to wake up little Jane Ann who had gone to bed by the time we arrived, just to show us that all the things he had said about this little girl were not exaggerations nor flattery, but just the modest truth. Little Jane Ann looked a little bewildered but was willing to accept us as belonging to the family, although she did not quite know how.

On Friday Bill took the two of us on a tour down through Shelbyville, Frankfort, Versailles, Lawrenceburg, and Tyrone, and we saw something for the first time that we did not even know existed, the Grand Canyon of the Kentucky River. Now, don't go trying to compare the Grand Canyon of the Kentucky with the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The Colorado has been at the job for about two billion years we understand, starting out by cutting its Canyon through the Kaibab limestone and then on down for another mile. Well, the Kentucky River has cut down through limestone strata and created quite a gorge. The city of Frankfort is in that gorge and the Tyrone Power Company up the river from Frankfort is in that gorge. Bill took us there. It is a steam electric plant operated by the Kentucky Utilities Company, an immense affair, generating steam at 900 pounds pressure and that steam turning turbines to generate electricity to send all over the state. Well, we were prepared to enjoy seeing this miracle of turning 15 carloads of coal into electricity (its daily quota), and while we were in there something happened. It seems that one of the men turned a valve to pack the stem of the valve in order to stop a leak. That valve happened to have something to do with the feed water supply to one of the boilers, and in just no time at all the alarm whistles on that boiler commenced to play a tune and by the time they found out what the trouble was something else turned loose, and we thought an explosion was starting. In just a few minutes everything was under control again and going as before, but we were told that the effects of that few minutes' shut-down of one boiler was felt all over northern Kentucky in lowered voltage. Don't ask me to explain; I am just telling you what they told me.

The Southern Railroad crosses the Kentucky River at Tyrone on a bridge that was built sixty years ago. It is a beautiful thing: from a distance it looks like a spider's web, but it is not rugged enough to carry the heavy tonnage of today's big trains, but it is still used on this branch line under strict limitations. It is a pity that such a beautiful structure could not be preserved as an antique for future generations to see and admire. The general manager of the Tyrone Power Company is named Bunch - a name that sounded very much like Iredell County. His energy and resourcefulness would indicate that he must be kin to the Bunches who have had so much to do with the development of Iredell County.

The return trip was through Louisville where we were shown the results of the 1937 Ohio flood. The effects of that flood are still visible in places. It is unbelievable to think that a city could stand a catastrophe like that and survive. The pictures still on display as to the height of the water are unbelievable. Today, not only Louisville but the cities across the way, are building flood walls to prevent anything like this happening to them again. Maybe they will never have to use that flood wall. It is to be hoped that before such a catastrophe strikes again the Ohio River will be under somewhat the same control that the Tennessee is today.

Saturday was spent visiting places of interest in Louisville in connection with Bill's work. I found that he did have to show up at his office once in awhile to let the railroad know that he was still working for it.

Bill took me to the railway yards. I had to climb over a train and climb up into the tower in the freight yards, but I saw what happened to the freight trains when they came in and were broken up and made into new trains to leave. A lot of figures were fed to me - the only one I seem to remember is that something like 5,000 cars are processed through that yard every day, and one man seemed to have his finger on the whole transaction - the man in the tower. He had equipment before him enabling him to talk to any place on the yard. One moment an incoming conductor would ask him a question and he would locate the man at the other end of the yard to answer it. One train was getting ready to leave and they could not find the conductor. This man in the tower began calling for the conductor, up through the yard went the loud speakers as he would tune in one after another. Finally the conductor was located and in less than five minutes was on his train which was moving out. As a train would come into the yard (sometimes at a pretty fair rate of speed) every car number would be recorded and in just a few minutes, not only the car numbers but the destination of each car would be in the hands of the man in the tower.

I could have spent many days watching this performance without losing interest.

Sunday morning the important event of the whole visit took place. Little Jane Ann was baptized and the pastor of the Church insisted that the grandparents have a hand in it, so there was quite a procession that went down the aisle for the baptism of this one little mite. Bill sang in the choir, so he came down to meet the party in front of the pulpit. I carried the baby. Nell and Mrs. Johnston came along. The minister asked me to hold the Baptismal Font, and then he baptized the baby. I do not know whether he did it purposely or not, but when he caught sight of my height he stopped on the last step of the pulpit steps rather than coming down to the floor. That made him just my height. Little Jane Ann behaved beautifully and the ceremony to us was a wonderful one.

Sunday afternoon was the time for visiting friends and getting ready for an early start home on Monday morning. Well, we pulled out at twenty minutes before eight, and coming east as we were, we lost an hour so that made it twenty minutes to nine, Barium Springs time.

We journeyed down through Shelbyville, Frankfort, Georgetown, Paris, and on through the part of Kentucky and Virginia where the principal industry is coal mining. We will not try to describe that. You would not believe it. One time we passed a string of empty coal cars that must have been five miles long. They were new cars, and we found out that they were simply parked there for the next days business.

Later on we passed through a valley and met three trains leaving that valley with loaded coal cars. We counted the cars in the first train and there were up in ninety. The other two were just as long. These were just on one railroad from one mining enterprise or valley. It makes you wonder what becomes of all of that coal, but when you visit a power plant like that one at Tyrone you wonder where all the coal comes from.

It began to rain on us late Monday afternoon so we did not try to make it on home, but stopped for the night at a little place on the top of the mountain near Richlands, Virginia. This is where highway 460 meets highway 19. It is right on top of a mountain and it is a place where the trucks make their stops. It is called Farmer's Inn. An all-night restaurant is run and it has a juke-box maybe two juke boxes, and our room for the night was squarely over this. Well, you would think that it would have disturbed us. Somehow it did not. I do not believe anybody could drive the trip that we did and fail to sleep at night, regardless of what sort of noises might be about.

We got up for an early start and what appeared to be a beautiful day. Down through the valley to Lebanon, Virginia, across the mountains to Abingdon, and across some more mountains to Damascus, and then we slipped into North Carolina through Boone and on down through North Wilkesboro and home, arriving home at eleven o'clock on Tuesday morning. It was foggy when we came through the gap into Boone, so foggy in fact that we had to keep our lights on and we could not see any of the magnificent scenery around Low Gap and the other places in the mountains coming down to North Wilkesboro, but the fog had dissipated by the time we came through Statesville, and Barium Springs was there before us. We had only been away six days, but we both can truthfully say that that was the most wonderful scenery of all. It seemed to us that the flowers had grown, the grass was greener and everything was more beautiful than when we left, and the greetings from our big family at Barium made it all perfect. The nicest thing about going away is coming back.

CAMPUS NEWS

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hi Friends,
Just think, six more weeks of school and then summer vacations. We have gotten our report cards for the past six weeks but some of us didn't do so well. The girls that got bad conduct cuts saw rulers floating around in the air coming home from school.
Sylvia and Shelia Wilson, who left us this summer, came by to see us the other Sunday. They have grown so much we hardly knew them.

Three new girls have been added to our family but we lost two of our older girls who moved to Howard. We received from Baby Cottage, Jackie Taylor, Virginia Kiser and a new child, Nancy Mobley. We are happy to have these girls added to our family.

We have been to see "Eggs from Texas" with Roy Rogers playing.

We have been to see a few good plays with some of our girls taking part in them. The fifth and second gave "Jack and the Magic Beanstalk". We also got to go to Cool Springs to see Cinderella. This was given by the Cool Springs high school.

Some one told us the other day that worms work a garden. Well all we can say is that we are the worms that work our garden.

We are planing a big Easter egg hunt Easter if the weather is good. We wish all our many friends could be with us but we will be thinking of you.

One of our little girls can't tell the difference between pigeons and geese. The other day she saw some pigeons out side and said, "I didn't know we had any geese around Barium. We soon got her straight on that subject.

We are going to have to lay off saying anything about our teachers because we couldn't find enough hiding places to hide in last time.

Addie McEwen saw one of our big girls yawning real big one day and with out thinking said, "Don't you know when you "Yap" you are supposed to put your hand over your mouth?" She didn't relize what she had said until every one laughed.

We sincerely hope all of you will have a wonderful Easter.

Until next month.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,
Here we are back again bringing the cottage news.

We have had two more girls to move in our cottage. They are Virginia Baucom and Bernice Kuykendall. They both take piano which makes us eleven piano students. Now we have a cottage of twenty-six girls.

Mr. Grier has come back from Florida. When he came he brought a real lot of sea shells. We are having a lot of fun playing with them.

We are proud to say that Laura Jane Craig, Lois Dellinger and Linda Inman have recited the Shorter Catechism. Miss Taylor and Miss Jackson took them to Charlotte. When they came back they told us what a good time they had. Now everybody is studying the Catechism so they will get to go to Charlotte.

When we got our report cards we were happy to find out that twelve girls had made the honor roll. We are hoping to keep the good work up.

Some people from Fuller Memorial Presbyterian Church sent each of us a corsage, a pair of socks, and hair ribbons. The socks and hair ribbons are sorted colors.

We will have another piano recital the twenty-sixth of this month. We will each play a solo.

Shirley Hall, Shirley Johnson, and Linda Inman got their clothing box this month. They were thrilled with them. They had some very pretty dresses.

Miss Brandon took her Sunday school class and her school class to camp Saturday. Sixteen of us went. We had a weiner roast and we went on a walk to Long Island and bought us some candy there. Everyone enjoyed the trip very much.

Commencement Activities

Barium's 1949 commencement program began Friday evening, May 13th, with an interesting program by the glee club. In the first part of the program, the stage was set to represent a sidewalk cafe. The varied colored lights and girls in evening dresses made a beautiful background for the singing by the members of the glee club as they sat around the tables. The second part of the program consisted of songs by a male quartet consisting of Herbert Good, Ricky Lippard, Billy Lybrand, and Jerry Young. The audience would not let them leave without an encore. The program was concluded with the singing, in a more formal manner, of a number of songs by the entire glee club.

The Baccalaureate service was held in the elementary auditorium Sunday morning, May 15th. The members of the graduating class entered to the playing of the traditional processional, "For All the Saints." The anthem, "The Earth Is the Lord's" was sung by the choir, and Dr. Charles E. S. Kraemer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Charlotte, preached a challenging sermon on the text, "That Those Things Which Cannot Be Shaken May Remain."

At the service for The Youth Fellowship, held Sunday evening, Rev. John L. Fain, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, brought a fine, spiritual message, using as his text, "Behold the Lamb of God." At this service the glee club sang as a special number, the anthem, "How Lovely Are Thy Messengers."

Monday morning, May 16th, the graduating class presented its Class Day program, using as its theme, a class reunion fifteen years later. One of the features of this reunion was the reading of the class history, will, and prophecy. The class gift to the school, a beautiful reading stand, was presented at this time.

The graduating exercises were held in the elementary auditorium Monday evening, May 16th. Addresses were given by the salutatorian, Mary Dickson Arrowood, and Valedictorian, J. D. Everett. The commencement address was delivered by Dr. J. O. Mann, of Charlotte. In his address, Dr. Mann reminded the graduates of the many opportunities that had been afforded them at Barium, warned them against ever being ashamed of their school and home, and challenged them to make good use of

Mr. J. B. Johnston Resigns

The resignation of Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home since 1922, came as a distinct surprise to the Barium Community. Although Mr. Johnston appears to us in the full vigor of his strength, he expressed the desire to open the way for the election of a younger man on whom the many burdens incident to the work of the home might be laid.

BEFORE

been efficiently operated in the departments of the Big Farm, Truck Farm; Poultry Farm; Dairy; and orchards.

When Mr. Johnston came to Barium the athletic program had not been developed in any of the orphanages of the state. It was all work and very little play. The building of the swimming pool; the development of Sloan Field; the erection of the Grammar School Building, with its indoor basketball court and gymnasium has made possible a well rounded athletic program. One great need still exists at Barium, to have a well equipped recreational building. No more fitting monument to the life and work of Mr. Johnston could be erected. Mr. Johnston's interest in young people and his enthusiasm for sports has made him active in the athletic programs of high schools and colleges. He has done much to foster clean and wholesome sportmanship in the state.

No review of the life and work of Mr. Johnston here would be complete without some account of the development of the health program at Barium. Mr. Johnston gives full credit for the fine work to Dr. Adams; who was our physician for years, to Dr. Davis and his staff; to the public health doctors and many others who have most generously and skillfully given their services. Two figures tell something of the success of this program; the rejections of our boys in the draft during the last war was less than 5 percent while rejections at the high school level in the state was 25 percent. Attendance in our school during the past year was approximately 99 percent. To Mr. Johnston goes a large share in integrating and leading in this program.

Mr. Johnston has seen many changes under which aid to dependent children is being rendered. Most of these changes have been of benefit, but they have brought their problems.

I but mention two of these. The public school now carries much of the load in paying the salaries of teachers. This gives a measure of control to the state and makes a change in the daily schedule. The payment of mother's aid has taken care of quite a large group of children and has opened other fields for orphanage service. It has been well that the orphanage had a wise and capable administrator in these days of adjustment.

The most fundamental part of the work of the superintendent is that of being Father to the large family here. The first task in bringing in new children, is to make them feel at home, get them over the home sickness which is natural, and get them adjusted to life in an institution. From the day a child enters the Home he is assured of the personal interest and care of Mr. Johnston who personally understands and knows each child. As a father to the children, Mr. Johnston has made his influence felt most wisely in the guidance, encouragement, and discipline of the Home, developing well rounded character, and preparing for life in the world at large. Some of the projects instituted by Mr. Johnston toward those ends have been, the establishment of a children's bank; children's pay; and the introduction of a measure of self government with a forum from the children for suggested improvements. As the Master puts the child in the midst, so Mr. Johnston has always made the welfare of the children the criterion for resolving any question at Barium.

The religious program has always had a large place in the life at Barium, and in that program Mr. Johnston has always had a very important and vital part. He has served as an Elder of Little Joe's church since coming to Barium. He has led the chapel services in the dining room on Sunday mornings. He has been the teacher of the Senior Boys Bible Class. When the church was vacant or when the pastor was away he had led the services. No matter how often he comes before them he is always interesting and helpful in his talks to the children. Though his many calls for services elsewhere occasionally take him away, he is usually to be seen in his accustomed place when the church doors are open.

Mr. Johnston's outstanding work as an orphanage superintendent has been widely recognized. He has been president of the Tri-State, now Southeastern Conference, for three terms, and also president of the North Carolina Conference several times. Twice he has attended the White House Conference on Child Care. Davidson College awarded him the Algernon Sidney Sullivan Award for Unselfish Service. The Synod of North Carolina took note of his twenty fifth anniversary of service by electing him to the Moderatorship.

The inscription over the tomb of the great architect, Sir Christopher Wren in St. Pauls Cathedral in London, which Sir Christopher Wren had designed, is a fitting tribute to the life and work of Mr. Joseph B. Johnston at Presbyterian Orphans' Home:

"If you would see his monument look around."

Vaccinations, Vacations, the Scenic and Wildcat Rocks

The Barium Springs school wound up its year's work on the night of Monday, May 16th. The account of our commencement exercises is elsewhere in this paper. Then things commenced to happen. The first week following commencement is usually taken up in getting the house in order, catching up on inoculations, vaccinations, and what-have-you, and getting all set for the summer hazards.

Well, during this first week we have had 286 inoculations for typhoid fever, about 20 for diphtheria and whooping cough, a round dozen vaccinations for smallpox, and as this is written it is best not to squeeze anybody's left arm. It is liable to bring on a physical calamity. However, nobody is very unhappy about it.

The next week will be taken up with Daily Vacation Bible School and everybody seems to be looking forward with keen anticipation to that; and then vacation time will follow, and already requests are coming in like rain on the roof.

But then there is another thing that we are counting on for lots of pleasure during the month of June and July. We do not know whether the United States Park Service had Barium Springs in mind when they built the scenic highway from Roaring Gap on toward Boone and located a delightful picnic ground just about halfway - Wild Cat Rocks is the official name for it. Anyhow, it is perfect for Barium outings. It is just 75 miles from Barium, about a two and one-half hour ride in a bus. That trip goes up through Elkin and the new highway which has just been built up the mountain and finally to the highway. This is such a delightful trip and the scenery along the way not only delights the mind but seems to create an astounding appetite, so much so that somebody has to go a little ahead and get the fires lit up at the picnic ground so that very little time is spent in getting ready for the weine roast and the other things that are always on the schedule for a picnic in this neighborhood. Two or three hours of eating and tramping and sightseeing at the picnic grounds, and then the journey home, this time down through Mulberry Gap and North Wilkesboro with the most beautiful scenery of all on that part of the trip.

We can leave Barium Springs in parties of 50 or 60 at ten o'clock

"...I stayed too close to the setting-in place." Aren't we as Christians sometime guilty of complacency, of being content to remain too close to the getting-in are?

The development of a Christian character is definitely a matter of growth. We do not spring forth full grown in the Christian life, just as tiny babe does not enter the world full grown. Christ himself did not expect the Christian character to come to perfection in a day. Whenever he finds a receptive soul, he gives it time to grow. Sometimes the worst mistake is to feel that conversion is the beginning and end of all our efforts as Christians. It is just as thrilling an experience to grow into a better Christian as first become as Christian.

How do we grow a Christian character? Well, our forefathers used to talk a great deal about means of grace. Sometimes it seems that in the modern church that phrase has been half forgotten. For so many Christians today do not seem to make personal prayer habit and a definite part of their lives. So many fail to give any time to quiet periods of reading and meditation to strengthen their spiritual lives.

We are a people who have made physical fitness a sort of cult. We give a great deal of time to education. We certainly do not often omit our social activities. But growth applies to the spirit as well as the physical and mental and social aspects of life. And here we have sadly failed. We are all too often in the sad condition of being failures in growing a Christian character when we are eminently successful in about everything else. Growth in Christian character certainly will require periods of quietness with God, communion with God in prayer, daily Bible reading and meditation on its truths, and fellowship through the church with other Christians. Simple things, but O so important! These are some of the means by which we are enabled to follow the advice of Peter that we should grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To follow them will mean to develop a true Christian character.

their talents, their training, and their heritage. At the conclusion of his address, Dr. Mann was presented the Alumni Ace Medal. This is the fourth year that this medal has been presented to an illustrious alumnus of the Barium Springs School. Others who have received this honor are Miss Irene Dade, Dr. Sam. Howie, and Mr. Walter Fraley.

Other traditional features of this program were the presentation of medals to the members of the graduating class by the pastor of Littlefield's Church, Rev. Chas. H. Sides, the farewell song by the Junior class, and the awarding of medals and prizes by Mr. Jos. B. Johnson. In addition to the Alumni Ace Medal to Jerry Young, the music improvement medal to Irene Hall, and medals to the valedictorian and salutatorian. A present was given by the piano teacher, Mrs. Stafford, to Laura Craig for winning a piano contest conducted among the grammar grade students. Joe Barkley received a present from his teacher, Miss Stevenson, for his wholehearted co-operation in helping to the care of the school building. Cash prizes were given to Curtis Edwin and Billy McAllister for meeting all the memory work requirements for the Bible medal. The following pupils received cash prizes for making the highest grades in his or her grade for the year: Nancy Kyles, Laura Jane Oig, Betty Anna Blackburn, Col. Jean Andrews, Hilda Donaldson, Louise Campbell, Shirley Inman, Bernice Troutman, and Herbert Good.

Cash prizes for improvement were given Barbara Johnson, Clayton Miller, Edna Baucum, Florence Andrews, Helen Baucum, Elmina Johnson, Joyce Katen, Mack Berryhill and Billy McAllister. These prizes were given annually by Mr. Fred Sherrill of Statesville, and since his death they are being continued by his brother, Mr. Carl Sherrill.
Diplomas were presented by the principal, Mr. Hethcox, to the following graduates: Mary Dickson Norwood, Curtis Baldwin, Margaret Bullard, J. D. Everett, Herbert Good, Virginia Hendrix, Star Bagley, Fred H. Lippard, Billy Grand, Jack Mangum, Billy Mc-Allister, Helen Vinson, Anne Wick- er, Jerry Young, and Johnny Mero- ney.

During the several weeks prior to the commencement week-end, interesting programs had been given, either at the chapel hour or in the evening, by all the elementary grades. Each child had a chance to participate in these programs. Also, three piano recitals were given during the last few weeks by the forty piano pupils of Mrs. Wilbur Stafford.

These exercises brought to a close another very successful school year, but the school buildings are not vacant as they are being used at the present for classes of the Daily Vacation Bible School.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE 1949

NO. 8

A Sample of Barium Springs' "Bad Luck"

In a former issue of The Messenger we described a trip to the mountains when we took all of the Baby Cottage for a day's outing in the mountains with a picnic dinner at the Wildcat Rocks picnic grounds. Since that time we have had several trips. One time we took the Jennie Gilmer Boys and the Ruple Hall girls, about 60 altogether and requiring both of our buses to transport the crowd. Then Lees Cottage and Howard Cottage made the trip - some 60 of them, and finally two big bus loads of the larger boys and girls.

On every one of these trips the weather was delightful. Sometimes it was cloudy when we left Barium but by the time we got to the mountains the sun was out and we could see tremendous distances. In fact, it looked like the weatherman smiled on us and made each of these days perfect - until the last day - then everything seemed to go wrong. It rained hard before they left Barium but it looked just as it had one other day when it cleared up, and just as soon as the party left Barium at ten o'clock it did clear up at Barium, but they tell us that the rain just followed them as though they were under the end of a sprinkling pot and when they started up the mountain they got in the clouds which shut off scenery completely. However, this did not dampen the spirits of the crowd because these boys and girls enjoy each other tremendously. Just after they got to the top of the mountain, however, one of the buses commenced to act up and finally stopped. Something had gone wrong with the engine and from the noise it made it seemed to be something very serious. Well, it was only four miles from Wildcat Rocks so the other bus went back and picked up the load of this bus and everybody got to the picnic grounds in time to eat, but the rain arrived there at the same time. They were supposed to have hot dogs and cold milk, but somehow the weather changed things around and they had cold dogs and hot milk; or at least that is what was reported to us. There was not enough space for everybody to get in the dry so instead of soaking up sunshine they soaked up showers while the older people worried about that broken down bus. Telephones are rather scarce up in that part of the mountains and the station wagon that accompanied this mountain trip carrying the surplus had to go to Laurel Springs to use the telephone and there they found that the nearest place to get attention for their ailing bus was at Sparta. They contacted the Choate Motor Company there and they sent their wrecker and hauled this ailing bus about 18 miles to their shop. The other bus had to make two trips to bring the crowd home. The first load brought the girls, slightly damp but still enthusiastic. The boys had to sit on top of the mountain until the bus could return. They got home about 8:30 - not quite as enthusiastic as the girls. The older people were not only damp but somewhat depressed. They were dampened by the rain and depressed by the thought of a great big repair bill on that bus which would cut so deep into our recreational Hey, everybody! Read this. Since the last issue of THE MESSENGER we have received so many letters addressed to different members of the staff commencing like this "Since Mr. Johnston has left Barium we do not know to whom we should write about this and that." Well, the purpose of this particular notice is to inform everybody that I have not left Barium. I have resigned, the resignation to take effect when my successor has been named and is firmly seated on the job. Until then I will continue to do business at the same old stand.

The Music Department at Barium Springs

The Voice Club

The Glee Club

The Junior Choir

The pictures we are displaying this month are not athletic teams, strange to say, the groups presented here very seldom get any notice in the newspaper - nothing like as much publicity as the athletic teams get. And yet, we are just as proud of them - maybe more - as the best of our teams. These pictures represent the activities in the music department. If you don't believe they are good, drop around some time and hear for yourself. The senior Glee Club is in great demand and they make good music, if we do say it ourselves. Individual members of the Glee Club form the bulk of our choir, and our good music for church services is the result of their effort.

Occasionally the Junior Choir takes over, and they do a workman-like job, too.

The delightful thing about both of these organizations is the enthusiasm with which they throw themselves into their work. For this, we give a lot of credit to Mrs. Lee Spencer, who is voice teacher. She not only teaches well, but she has the ability to keep the enthusiasm of her classes at a high pitch.

Mrs. Spencer has been at Barium only a few years, and yet her original Junior Choir is now the Glee Club.

Those of you who have followed our athletics will find practically all of our girls' basketball team in the Glee Club. An while we are talking about these girls, we'd like to mention also that they can not only sing, and play basketball, they also wield a mean skillet. They know how to cook.

One of these days we will write up the Home Economics Department and speak of their accomplishments in the cooking and clothing line. In fact, we might write a song about this group and start it out something like this: (Continued On Page Two)

Some More Barium Luck

From the middle of May until the first of July is the very busiest time at Barium Springs. It starts with the very first cutting of the alfalfa, corn planting, harvest, the second cutting of alfalfa and the cultivation of corn. Some of these things pile on top of each other. This year we got the first cutting of alfalfa all put up and were in the midst of corn cultivating and harvesting when the second cutting fell due.

Some of this hay had to be baled because there was not room to put it all in the barns. We either had to bale what we already had in the barn or to bale this

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Graduation is over and we are now settling down to our normal routine.

The days have been very hot and the sight of the swimming pool is a welcome joy to all of us.

We have lost most of our larger girls, but we are still a family wherein much happiness presides.

Bible School has come and gone, and we had lots of fun attending classes every morning from 9:00 to 11:30.

We had an awful storm one night and three of our trees in our back yard fell down.

Speaking of flowers; I suppose some of you great lover of flowers have seen a stranger walking around your flower gardens taking notes on what is growing in your beds.

Yesterday, we had the time of our lives! Mr. Johnston took the Synod boy's and us to the Mountains.

We started back home about 2:00 o'clock, and got back around 4:30. We were all tired, but we finally got into our nice soft beds, and dreamed about mountains, bears, small houses, and so on.

We had a wonderful time and our hardy thanks go to all the people on the campus for making it possible for us to enjoy our trip as much as we did.

Some of our Children are going on vacations. We miss them lots, but we know they will have a very nice time.

Until next month
—The Annie Louise Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING
Hello Folks,

Here we are bringing you the news from the big girls!

Everyone in their new bathing suit is keeping the path to the swimming pool hot here lately.

Mrs. Gresham and we girls are really keeping the flower garden in bloom. Only three of our girls have left for their vacations, but by the end of the month many will be gone.

We have a new Matron with us, Mrs. Hayes who is taking the place of Mrs. Williams this month.

It seems wonderful to have new wall sockets so as we don't have to have drop cords all over the rooms.

We are happy to have Mrs. Allison with us in the kitchen while Mrs. Hobgood is away on her vacation.

The younger children have already taken their trip to the mountains, and we are eagerly waiting our time, which with weather permitting will be Thursday.

So long folks, we hope to let you hear from us again next month.
—Marie and Ethel

LAUNDRY NEWS

Hello Folks, You haven't heard from us in so long you have probably forgotten us, but we are still thinking of you.

Only one of our girls has gone on her vacation, but quite a few will leave around the last of the month. We have Helen Vinson helping us in the mornings. The younger girls have an hour set aside to go swimming in the evenings.

We finish work on Thursday morning and Thursday evening is scrub time. We have started a small flower garden in the front yard. We hope to improve and enlarge it in the near future.

The water in the swimming pool feels wonderful after a day of hot ironing.

We are now enjoying having our Sunday evening worship services at the football field where it is cool. Come up and join us sometime.

Well goodbye folks.
—Marie and Ethel

SEWING ROOM

Hello there! Now that school is out we have been kept-busy sewing and ripping.

There are only five seniors to work in the sewing room this year. Let me introduce them. Betty Lou Williams, is our pretty redhead. Brownette Lorene Hall, is the most sensible of the group, which I regret to say isn't much.

We also have two college sophomores working with us, Mildred Monroe and Sadie Bue.

Miss Smith is still suffering from our inexperience, but I think we are doing better. We made seventy-five bathing suits, while keeping up with our regular work of dresses "As we sew; so shall we rip."

BABY COTTAGE

Hello Friends, Gee! We've had a lot of nice things happen to us. Not so long ago we went to see "Lassie" in "When the Sun Comes Up." We were so excited when Lassie was trying to save the little orphan boy from being burned in the fire that our hair almost stood straight up!

Miss Carpenter and Mr. Johnston took us to see the circus. It was the first time many of us had ever seen Elephants so we had lots of questions to ask about their noses. We finally found out that some water animal pulled it. We can't spell its name.

Now for the best and most exciting news of all which came as a very happy surprise to us. Our matrons Mrs. Nelson and Miss Richards told us that we were— Hey! wait a minute, we're going to let you guess. The mountains? That's right! (Who answered?) It all started on a nice sunny Thursday morning. Oh! What an exciting morning that was. We were so delighted that we almost flew up into the air. However we did stay on the ground long enough to pack a very delicious lunch consisting of "Stomach filling", sandwiches, chocolate cake, and Barium's special milk.

Every month we always have something to say about our garden. This month we are especially proud of it. Every flower has put on its most beautiful dress whether it is red, white, or lavender. Those of you who haven't seen it's beauty and smelled the fragrance of its flowers come down and take a peek.

Did someone mention summer? So far the summer events are "Going to the mountains", and "Our inoculations." You have read about our trip to the mountains, so let us tell about our "Shots."

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi, Here we are once more, to tell you the happenings at the printing office.

Since you last heard from us we have lost Bobby (Doc) Whiting, he was transferred to the carpenters group. Before he went on the carpenter group he was assistant shoe man of Mr. Twombly.

This might come as a shock but our head man, Donald Mitchell, is a senior. He will be with us for another year then Dwight Reid will take over the press, and head man among the boys.

Vacation has started and Frank Lentz has already gone on his three week vacation. Donald is going to Flora Macdonald to a conference for a week. Edsel McArthur is going on his vacation this week. He will reside in the big town of Carthage, N. C.

Dwight and myself aren't going until a little later in the summer.

As you know we are not going to have a July messenger, so you probably won't hear from us until August.
—Dean Upton

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks, Here we are again with the news of our cottage. We have so much to say that we hardly know where to begin.

Vacations have started and we are all so happy. We have two girls on their vacations now. They are Evelyn Cox who is visiting her grandfather in Sanford and Jean Carol Harrison who is visiting in Charlotte. We expect to have four or five more to leave this week.

The majority of the girls at our cottage are new ones. We have eight who moved from Annie Louise. Their names are Mary Glenn, Jean Carol Harrison, Barbara Johnson, Dian Kyser, Addie and Shelby McEwen, Jewel McFarland, and Marie McNeill. We also have two new girls who have come to live with us. They are Madeline and Elizabeth Byrd from Faison, N. C. We are glad to have them. Now we have nineteen in our cottage.

Yes the swimming pool is open and we are having the best time. Our swimming hour is from 2:00 to 3:00 every day.

Our housemother has gone on her vacation and we all miss her. Dewie Bue is taking her place.

We went to the mountains June the third. We had lots of fun. For our picnic lunch we had weiners, slaw, mustard, pickles, cake, and milk. We had the grandest time playing. This was the first trip for many of us and it was a real treat. Come see us.

Your friends,
—The Beanstringers

LEE'S COTTAGE

Hello Everybody,

We are right in the middle of our summer. Some of our boys have gone home for their vacations. Ralph, Jimmy, Laughton, Sidney, Fred, Memory, and LaNair have gone, more will go next week.

We are now cleaning the campus. The church needs cleaning around it and we are making it look good. We have been picking a lot of black berries and making money and pies. Everyone is having a grand time. We swim every day except Sunday.

Miss Ford has gone home for her vacation. Poppy Ray is taking care of us while she is away. We enjoy having him very much.

Walter, Bobby Ray, Gray, Ferrel, and the Cannon boys are going home soon. Ernest, Ray, and Johnny will go soon.

We have to get our play in each day. Amos was our boss last week. Ernest came back today. We finished trimming the bushes at the football field. We keep the campus clean by picking up glass, paper, and sticks. The winds have been causing a lot of sticks to fall.

That is all for this month, but we must tell you about our victory over the dairy boys in baseball. See you next month.

—The Lee's Boys

RUMPLE HALL

Hi Folks,

Here we are with news from Rumble Hall. Since school has closed we have been moving from one cottage to another. We have 17 new girls. We all enjoy our swimming pool very much. Each one has a nice new bathing suit. Vacations are here and some of us are leaving everyday and you can imagine how thrilled we are at helping pack and getting girls on busses. Ours will all come someday. Then Hurrah! A change, and seeing old friends and loved ones. Meeting new friends builds our morale for returning ready for school in the fall.

A Sample of Barium

(Continued From Page One) budget that we might have to do without some other very important things during the summer. It looked like all the bad luck of our good times in the mountains had accumulated in that one trip.

Well, the sun came out and we all dried out our clothes and began to be moderately happy again, and after several days we had a call from the Choate Motor Company in Sparta saying that our bus was ready to come home. The same man who had driven it up the mountain went after it. He brought back a message from Mr. Wade Choate. We had expected a message saying that we could pay the first two or three hundred dollars now and make the next payment around Christmas, but the note he sent us was different. There was No Charge Whatever.

Mr. Choate actually seemed happy over the circumstances: he said that he had always wanted to do something for an orphanage and was delighted to have this opportunity, and that he had gotten so much pleasure out of it that he hoped to be able to do something else for us. He told the man who went up to get the bus to drive it around and see if it ran all right. Well, that driver had driven this bus a good many hundred miles and his verdict when he came home was that thing ran slicker than he had ever thought it could run, that he did not even know he had an engine under the hood. Now, you tell us, what do you think about that bus going to the bad on that mountain trip. Was it bad luck or good luck? Suppose it had not happened, that the weather had stayed pretty and everybody had come back home. Well, it would have been just another pleasant day. Now as it is, everybody is back home, they have something unusual to talk about and we have discovered another most enthusiastic friend, one whom we discovered on a rainy day. Just another assurance that the finest thing in the world, better than money in the bank or brand new buses that just won't break down, is the thought that all about us are kind people who are eager to do a generous thing for a good cause. All the children involved thank Mr. Choate for making a most pleasant sequel to what looked like a bad day.

We grown people thank Mr. Choate for giving our spirits a lift and strengthening our faith. We have always believed in the goodness of God, but occasionally we need something to strengthen our faith in our fellowman.

Oh, yes one other touch. The tank on that bus was practically empty when the trouble started. Mr. Choate filled it lipping full of good gasoline. Now, that is just like putting the icing on the cake!

Some More Barium

new stuff. How to manage it? The combine was busy in the oats and wheat and our baler was busy picking up straw after the combine and could not be spared for the alfalfa. Our tractors were busy cutting alfalfa and cultivating corn, how to get in that hay making was the job that faced us when we had a telephone call. It was from the Turner Manufacturing Company in Statesville asking us if we had any hay in which they might demonstrate their pick-up balers. That little telephone conversation started it. We had hay ready for them that very afternoon and they stayed with us until every bit of the second cutting of our alfalfa, nearly 100 acres, was baled and ready for the barn, and when they got through the Turner Manufacturing folks thanked us for giving them the opportunity. Imagine that! Imagine anybody thanking you for eating up their ice cream.

By the way, we will have to talk about this company a little bit. The head of it now is Jack Wagner, the nephew of the founder, Charlie Turner, who has now passed on. Jack is a young man and is certainly a go-getter. He still finds time to do other things and run his business. He is a member of the School Board and is head of the present Mitchell campaign. He seems to like us at Barium and we do like him. In his company there are a lot of Barium people - Lafayette Donaldson, Bob Revis, Lee Donaldson, and Charlie Sears are a few of the names on their pay-roll.

We do love to do the Turner Manufacturing Company favors - favors like letting them bale our hay crops!

The Message of the Month

COMING FACE TO FACE WITH CHRIST

"Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." John 13:13.

Christ is known to us by many names. And yet it matters far less what we call Him as how we respond to Him. Isaiah spoke in glowing and descriptive words. "Wonderful, Counselor, The Mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Elsewhere we read of Messiah, Son of God, Son of Man, Rabbi, Master, Lord and Saviour. Those truly are descriptive words. We might profitably derive a sermon from them. But those are names, they have no value, except for this; that they describe a possible response for us to Christ.

There are countless numbers of people across the world who gladly and willingly give those names to Christ. Yes, they call Him by a variety of names. They claim to march under the far flung glorious banner of Christ. They pay lip service to the claims of Christ on their lives, but they go no further.

Jesus realized it, he saw the tragedy of it - of men saying, Master, Lord, Saviour - yet never responding completely. The disciples were good men at they had their frailties. They could say "Master" and fail to respond to a master with the humility and obedience required. They could say Lord and Saviour and yet fail to realize completely the response of love that must naturally be due to a Lord and Saviour.

And that has ever been a tragedy, that men are able to call Christ by His proper names and yet fail to show that their response is equal to their words. And surely without fear of contradiction we may say that here has ever been the weakness of Christ's Church in the world. A great throng of people capable of reaching the world for Christ. But still we go, and still the gospel of Christ has not reached all, and still we are indifferent, and still our faith is less than an all-powerful faith. And all because we call Christ one name and live below that calling.

"Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." And I detect in those words a sadness that encompasses us all. We who are church members, we who are elders and deacons, we who are in responsible positions, all yes, we too who are ministers. "Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am."

And I can see those hands, scarred now, stretched out unto us as if in pleading. Yes, you say well, you perhaps say well, but when will you begin to live well? When will you begin to face me truly as Master and Lord?

And so we lack something. Perhaps it is this - we have not yet come face to face with Christ and His claims on our lives.

The disciples themselves found it necessary. We turn back to the first verses of this 13th chapter of John and find what preceded the Lord's words.

In Palestine the washing of feet was one of the duties of hospitality. There were no carpets, no socks were worn. And on entering a house the sandals which were little protection were left at the door. The hot limestone dust caused the feet to burn painfully. Their cleansing with cooling water was tremendously refreshing as well as needed from a sanitary viewpoint. Usually this washing was performed by servants, or sometimes by one of the sons of the household. It was certainly considered however one of the humblest of services.

On this last evening that Jesus was to spend with the disciples they had come into the room. They were reclining at the table, for they did not sit up as we do today, but rather leaned back on one elbow on couches drawn up to the table. But here they were already there and no one had even so much as offered to perform this humble task of washing their feet. So Jesus, without making any fanfare or commotion about it, washed their feet. None of the others had been willing to humble himself enough to do it.

And now Jesus had washed their feet. They had come face to face with another aspect of Christ's personality. It was then that he said, "Ye call me Master and Lord." Yes, you do. But you are proud, you want to be looked up to, you want no little place in my kingdom. Come face to face with me as I am, and respond to me as you ought to do if I am really your Master and Lord.

Facing Christ as Master

Who is our Master? It would be rather difficult to say I suppose. Someone has said that the American people seem to be a master.

We are proud of this age of democracy. Men speak of personal liberty, women of this "new freedom," a great deal is said of the rebellion of young people against authority. But we all have a master.

The man who labors hard all day, the woman who gives herself unselfishly for her family, the man who marches to his death on the battlefield, the football player who plays to exhaustion on the gridiron -- all these are mastered and driven by something. Deep down in the human heart something is master. It is said that the soldiers of Napoleon carried in their knapsacks a map of the world in the tricolor of France. They were mastered by the idea of the world for France.

And Jesus knew this, and he knew too that if the world would ever be brought to His feet, that he would have a own a greater devotion and loyalty on the part of his followers than anything else. He knew that He must be the Master.

It was this mastery of the lives of his disciples that made the early church what it was. That church seemed to lack everything to make it strong-wealth, social position, political prestige. But it went forth to shake the world. We seem today to be midgets beside those early giants of Christ. Well, today we have the wealth, the social position, the political prestige. But we have not the very thing that made the early church strong- the mastery of Christ over our lives.

Dwight L. Moody once said, "Give me ten men men fully consecrated to Christ, and I will shake any city for God." Christ found eleven such men and the world still feels their influence after nearly two thousand years.

Have we seen Christ face to face as Master? Have we come to the point of acknowledging that Christ has the

Broken Homes

One morning the office girl ushered in a young father, whose every feature indicated distress and grief, and who approached the Children's Worker in a weary, frenzied manner. Without any explanation or introduction and before he was invited to be seated, he began his story thus: "Something's just got to be done about my kids. I love 'em and intend to pay their board. My wife and I are just about to separate and the kids 'gotta have somewhere to stay."

His hair was disheveled. His swollen eyes indicated that he had perhaps wept most of the night. He was terribly perturbed and disturbed. Withal, he recognized his personal responsibility for his children and seemed unwilling to shirk his paternal duty.

"What of the mother of the children?" asked the Worker.

"She's out in the car . . . we are fixing to quit . . . I just can't live with her any longer . . . I work at night and get no rest during the day . . . I don't want to say anything about her . . . but I'm quitting."

"Are you willing for her to take the children?" Worker queried.

"Yes, if she wants them, and will make a decent place for them to live."

"What about your church connections?" asked the Worker. "Do you and the mother of the children belong to any church?"

"Yes," he replied, "we both joined the church (not Methodist) several years ago but I am ashamed to say I haven't been inside a church in six years."

When his story was ended, Worker explained to him the reasons why Epworth Orphanage could not take his children. She proffered help in working out a plan for him, suggesting that he apply to the denominational home of his own right to rule over all of life? A master requires obedience. We recognize that in every other walk of life, but do we recognize it here? Perhaps we say, I want to obey, but his demands are too great. I do not have the power. Depend on Christ. Try his way, and the power to follow will be yours. Come face to face with Christ as Master!

Facing Christ as Savior and Lord

For it is here that Christian experience reaches the ultimate heights. Here in our response to Christ as Saviour.

Dr. Jamie Fowle of Chattanooga told this story several years ago at Red Springs at a meeting of Synod. A chieftain made war once on a neighboring chieftain. In time he conquered and took many captives. Among them were a young man and his recent bride. They were brought before the chieftain to see what would be their fate. He turned to the young man and said, "What would you do if I spared your life?" "Sire, I would be grateful to you all my days." "And," the chieftain asked again, "what would you do if I spared the life of your young wife?" "Sire," the man answered, "I would die for you."

Later, the two young people were freed. They were talking about the experience. The man asked his wife if she had noticed the beautiful drapes and finery in the palace. "No." He asked if she had seen the wonderful size of the enormous throne room. "No." Well, he asked, surely you saw the king's precious stones and his golden scepter? "No, I didn't," she said. Well, what did you see? "I could only see the face of the man who was willing to die for me."

God grant that we may be so be mastered by Christ and so responsive to His love that we shall not see the things that would draw us away from complete obedience, that we shall not see the claims and demands of the world, that we shall only be able to see the face of the one who was willing to die for us.

church. A better plan perhaps would be for him to contact the Children's Bureau of South Carolina regarding the placement of his little son and daughter in a boarding home and he be responsible for the payment of their board. A feeling of relief came over him when he was advised to the cost of the board per month for each child and that the home would be investigated and visited by one of the members of the Children's Bureau staff.

To make a long story short, Worker phoned the supervisor of said Bureau for an appointment next day when this young father, his wife, and two children would call to discuss the matter with her.

A broken home? Yes, and such a tragedy! This represents only one of many such cases which have come to our attention within the past few years.

Epworth Orphanage for fifty-three years has heard the cry of the little child that is orphaned or deserted or unwanted. We understand the language of every dependent child who enters our gates the one language that is the same in all lands and among all peoples. There are some languages, however, we do not understand. For instance, we do not understand the language of some fathers and mothers who permit their children, not orphaned, to be torn from the home ties and placed in an institution. Such children are victims of circumstances worse than orphanhood . . . victims of desertion, mental cruelty, incompatibility, non-support . . . children called upon to pay the penalty of having been born in a home where the rearing of children is an avocation instead of a vocation . . . where the child is a burden instead of an asset . . . where the child is in the way instead of being the center around which all "ways" are built.

A home is more than a place in which children eat and sleep . . . more than a "stopping off" place in the course of activities. A home should be the fountain from which flows the inspiration for all good activities and undertakings. It should be the one place where love and understanding are centered. It should be the place where children really want to begin their day and the place where they look forward to ending the same day. Home should be to them life, with all that a good life embraces.

One of our "pet peeves," relatively speaking, is the lavish bestowal of affection and gastronomic treats upon children from a broken home when their parents visit them. Sometimes they chance to hit up at the same time . . . perhaps the mother coming via taxi; the father in his old jalopy perchance . . . the mother dressed to the "nth degree" in a brand new outfit, including a permanent and 51-gauge nylons, and along whose trail arises the aroma of a mixture of cheap talcum and cigarette smoke. Thus it is with these parents who have deserted or separated or divorced or who are living immorally otherwise. They gladly turn over their little broods to Epworth Orphanage while they sit complacently along the sidelines loudly singing:

"Praise God for Epworth Orphanage so fair,
Which clothes, feeds, and trains our children so dear,
To whom we're indebted not even a penny,
And as for responsibility, indeed we haven't any!!!!"

The times are really out of joint. Telescopic changes are taking place in our institution as well as in the world in general. Things truly are in reverse. For instance, in 1934 Epworth's admissions were 58, seven of whom had both parents living. Nineteen forty-five, 46 children out of 78 admitted were not orphaned . . . approximately 59%. Today, out of 260 children in residence there are 104 having both parents living . . . 40%. Just here we should like to quote Dr. Karl P. Meister, executive secretary of the Board of Hospitals and Homes of the Methodist Church, in his Eighth Annual Report for 1949:

"Conditions from which children come to church homes have been almost completely reversed during the last three decades. Thirty years ago practically every children's home provided long time or permanent care for children. Last year there were 2,954 (out of a total capacity of 4,093) children in our homes having both parents living, while the total number of full orphans cared for was 1,581. Most homes began by taking care of orphans only. Today in one home of 63 children there is not one orphan. These children have one or both parents living. The principal causes for children needing the services of these homes, as given to us in the reports of the institutions, are broken homes, drunkenness, mental illness, desertion, immorality, neglect, unwholesome surroundings, housing, lack of care, financial difficulty, illness, etc., etc. All of these vitally affect the intake policies."

The child is the victim of the broken home . . . the home where there has been no liberty in small things . . . no unity in large things . . . no charity in anything. Those things which he has seen and heard leave a lasting imprint upon his mind. Regardless of where he goes or how long he stays, he will display the pattern of his old home-- many of which patterns would require several psychiatrists and psychologists to unravel. Take for instance the case of Ann, 14, who had been at Epworth for seven years--ample time in which to forget and forgive. Without rhyme or reason one morning in school she hlew the top, claiming no one loved nor cared for her . . . that she had two mothers and two daddies and nowhere to go!!!

In another case, Tom, 13, ran to the home of one of the workers, banged rapidly upon the door and impatiently called, "Come quick! My second daddy is out yonder with a gun and he's about to kill my mamma and my third daddy!"

On her return from her vacation, Nell, one of the college girls, came to the office for a chat. "Did you have a nice stay with your mother?" I asked. "Yes," she replied, "but I am always glad to come back to Epworth." "If I asked you something, will you tell me the truth?" I asked. "Sure. What is it?" "I have often wondered how you girls feel about your mothers, you having been away from them since you were small children. Just how do you feel about your own mother?" "That is easy to answer," she said. "I have great respect for her but I do not love her."

Now the case of Jane is different . . . The mother in this case did the laying out of the home-pattern in "black and white"--a distinct pattern of Jane's early home life. Jane had come to Epworth in early childhood. She came from a home of poverty, ignorance and sin. Sometimes at Epworth it is astounding to hear the children "mirate" over their home castles . . . the accumulation and display of wealth . . . the extent of perfection and honors attained by their relatives. Perhaps it is a defense mechanism they build up, knowing it would never do to let the other children know just what their home situations are. Jane doubtless had been playing the game of make-believe during the nine years she had been at Epworth. She evidently had created mental pictures of sugar plums hanging from her family tree . . . and had built up high hopes of falling heir to some of the precious family heirlooms and jewels. She was in her senior year of high school at the time she received the following letter from her mother, evidently in answer to some question she had asked her. Imagine Jane's terrible disillusionment on reading:

"Why did you ask me about your daddy's rings, he didn't have any rings or any thing else and didn't try to get anything only his wiskie and Let me and you children do without food. I had to work and manage the best I could I am Proud of you children (Jane and her two brothers)--You all have dun wonderful considering you didn't get Smartness from him for there wasent any about him and if he had of lived to raised you all you shure would of had a tough time and no education. I could start Jim and John off to school in the mornings and he would make them come Back to the house for spite to me he was Just as worrisome as any man could be I would like for you all to Just forget him and all his people. I have had more and have at this time got more money and more around me this yeare than I had the 20 years I lived with him, he didnt want any thing but his drink."

Let's not leave Billy out. He was a small red-headed little fellow. One day the head matron (who censored the mail) asked him if he did not have a new daddy (a step-father). Billy replied, "I've had a heap of them."

Something definitely is out of joint. What is the remedy? Now, for the sixty-four dollar question: To what extent should the ropes be lengthened and how deep should the stakes be driven in rescuing (Continued On Page Four)

Broken Homes

(Continued From Page Three) the child who was deliberately placed by his father and mother upon a dangerous precipice? And after said child has been rescued by Epworth Orphanage, to what effective use should other agencies concerned . . . the state, the community, the Church . . . employ said ropes and stakes in bringing the parents into a realization of their duty and obligation to the child . . . their reconciliation with each other . . . their re-establishment of the home to which the child can safely be returned?

Johnny's home had been broken by the infidelity of his mother. He, 13, and Sarah, his sister, were in residence at Epworth at the time he wrote his father:

"Dad, I'm going to ask a favor of you. Today is Christmas and next Sunday I'm going to go to the preacher and give my heart to Jesus and I want you to do the same thing. I know it will be hard to go up to the preacher and ask him to ask the Lord to forgive you of your sins but if Sis and I can do it surely you can." (A little child shall lead them.)

Barium Welcomes Synod

Synod of North Carolina To Meet At Presbyterian Orphans Home September 19-20

Rev. Charles H. Sides, Pastor of Little Joe's Church, To Preach Opening Sermon

Again Presbyterian Orphans' Home entertains the Mother Synod. This is the seventh time that the Synod has met here. Its coming is eagerly awaited. We always get a lift from the presence of so many interested friends.

The Synod has raised up the orphanage from the baby it was when the Home opened in 1891 with twenty children, in an old Hotel, with a few acres of land; to the present, with our large number of buildings, set in a fine property of over a thousand acres. While no new buildings have been erected since the Synod met here before, we are glad for them to come to see us and to check on the progress of the children from time to time.

Between meetings of Synod here, the Synod has its governing body for the orphanage in the person of the Regents of the Orphans' Home. This is composed of twenty members, ten men and ten women. One man and one woman are elected from each Presbytery; and a man and a woman are elected at large. Mr. J. Archie Cannon of Concord has been the President of the Board for five years and has given a great deal of his time and ability to this strenuous task. He will make the report of the Regents to the Synod when it meets. Other members of the Board are Mrs. Coit Robinson of Lowell who is the efficient secretary; Mr. N. H. Edgerton from Rocky Mount, Rev. Sam Howie of Fayetteville who was brought up at the Home and is now pastor of the Highland Church of Fayetteville; Mr. W. E. Price of Charlotte, now Moderator of the General Assembly; Rev. Ben F. Brown of Wallace; Mrs. E. C. Beatty of Mooresville; Mrs. Percy R. Smith of Wilmington; Mrs. C. E. Kerchner of Greensboro; Mrs. P. P. McCain of Southern Pines; Rev. M. S. Huske, of Reidsville; Mrs. W. C. Alexander of Durham; Mrs. R. W. Bruin of Henderson; Mrs. Fred L. Smyre of Gastonia; Mrs. R. A. Young of Charlotte; Mr. J. H. Thompson of Kings Mountain, and Mrs. H. S. Kirk of Winston-Salem.

Four new Regents will be elected at the next meeting of Synod. Rev. M. S. Huske has completed his second term as Regent; Dr. George Mauze has left the Synod to take work in Texas, Mr. R. W. Bruin has requested he not be re-elected; and Mrs. J. M. Hobgood has died, so their places will have to be filled. They have all done much for the Home and will be greatly missed.

Another group, that means much to the Home, compose the Permanent Committee on Orphans' Home. This Committee is very active in helping us promote the Thanksgiving Offering. The Committee has for its Chairman Mr.

Home Mission Conference To Precede Opening of Synod Here On September 19

Rev. R. H. Stone, secretary of the Presynod Home Mission conference, has announced that the 12th annual meeting will be held at Barium Springs September 19 and 20, just preceding the annual Presbyterian synod of North Carolina. This conference calls together home mission workers, pastors, members of the woman's organization, Women of the Church, and young people of the synod who are guests of the executive committee of home missions of the synod for two days.

Mr. Stone said the theme of the conference will be "Our Task For Our Day." The meeting will begin at 2:30 p. m. Monday, September 19, and will continue until noon Tuesday, September 20. Rev. P. D. Patrick, chairman of the synod's committee, will preside, and a devotional service will be conducted by Rev. John McKinnon of Concord.

W. E. Price of Charlotte, moderator of the general assembly, will make the opening address on "The Imperial Task of Home Missions." Dr. J. M. Carr, Atlanta, Ga, new director of country church work, will speak on "The Town and Country Church." The closing address for the afternoon will be by Dr. R. S. Snyder of Charlotte.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock Rev. L. A. Taylor of Wilmington will preside and devotional exercises will be led by Dr. R. C. Long of Charlotte. New workers in home mission fields in the synod will be introduced. The premiere showing of a sound-movie prepared by the Home Mission committee in Atlanta will be shown, entitled, "Our Highland Heritage in Our Mountain Missions." Rev. O. V. Caudill of Salisbury, director of church construction, will speak on "Building Churches and Manses in the Synod." Dr. C. E. S. Kraemer of Charlotte will close with an address on the new study book, "Lift Up Your Eyes."

On Tuesday morning, September 20, Dr. Harold Dudley of Wilson will preside and Rev. Hardin King of Second Church, Lexington, will lead the devotions. This will be followed by an address by Dr. O. C. Williamson of Charlotte on "Recruiting for the Ministry."

Five speakers will make four minute addresses on the work in their presbytery. These speakers will be selected from Albemarle, Wilmington, Winston-Salem, Orange, and Mecklenburg Presbyteries.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of foreign missions, will bring the conference to a close with a talk on the world situation.

Mrs. Rosa W. Allison Died Suddenly Here On August 22nd

Mrs. Rosa Waugh Allison who has been substituting as dietitian while our regular dietitian, Mrs. B. B. Hobgood is on vacation, died suddenly here on Aug. 22nd. Mrs. Allison fell on the steps of Rumble hall. As we go to press it has not been decided by the doctors whether she died from natural causes or was fatally injured in the fall.

C. Spears Hicks of Durham who has done a magnificent job during his term of office. Other members of this Committee are Mr. Lee C. Goodman, Durham, N. C. Granville Presbytery; T. N. James, Lincoln, N. C. Kings Mountain Presbytery; A. Ray Morrow, Charlotte, N. C. Mecklenburg, H. G. Hutaff, Lumberton, N. C. Fayetteville, Holland McSwain, Yanceyville, N. C. Orange, Harry F. Synod's First Child Presbyterian Orphan's Home was the first and for a long time was the only Synodical Institution. For many years our colleges were owned and controlled by one or more Presbyteries. Now the Home shares

Mr. C. Spears Hicks, Chairman Permanent Committee on Orphans' Home.

the distinction of Synodical Control with Presbyterian Junior College and Queen's College

It was from a report of the agent of Education given at the Synod in October 1888 that the following resolution was adopted, "Resolved, That, in the judgment of Synod the time has come to take steps looking to the establishment of an Orphans' Home within our bounds and that a committee be appointed to take the matter in charge to consider and execute whatever may seem wise and practical in putting such an enterprise on a permanent basis."

There was also before the Synod a memorial from the "Home and Hospital" a private institution which had been maintained in Charlotte for several years to care for children. A commission with Dr. Jethro Rumble as chairman was appointed by the Synod and the resolution and the memorial were referred to them.

This commission sent out a circular to each Presbytery asking for its opinion. The project was approved unanimously and offers began coming in of sites in various parts of the state. Synod met in Charlotte in 1889 and approved the idea of establishing a Home. They elected the following Board of Regents to direct the affairs of the Home:

Mecklenburg Presbytery— Reverend Wm. McIlwaine, George Wilson, Esq., Mr. John E. Oats.

Concord Presbytery— Reverend J. Rumble, Mr. G. M. Love.

Orange Presbytery —Reverend D. I. Craig, Hon. A. M. Scales.

Wilmington Presbytery— Geo. Chadbourne, Esq.

Fayetteville Presbytery— Rev. erend D. D. McBride.

Albemarle Presbytery— Hon. D. G. Fowle.

This Board of Regents was directed to take over the group being maintained in Charlotte and to purchase ten acres of land near Charlotte and there open the Presbyterian Orphan's Home. Although a tract of land was bought near Charlotte the Home was not established there and the land was sold. But in 1891 the Regents bought the old hotel property here at Barium from Davidson College together with thirty-two acres of land for the price of $1,000.00. The old hotel was repaired and furnished for $1,222.58. So when the Home opened for its twenty children, 16 girls and 4 boys, the total investment was $2,222.58.

Reverend R. W. Boyd was the first superintendent here at Barium. His salary was $750.00 per year, Mrs. Boyd was employed as matron on a salary of $150.00 a (Continued On Page Two)

The Message of the Month

By REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

IS CHRIST ADEQUATE?

"Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?" Luke 7:19

In a day when many are inclined to scoff at religion and to demean the claims of Christianity it is essential that we as Christian people meet this question without hesitancy. Is Christ adequate? Is he the one for whom the world waited during the passage of many centuries. Or should we be looking for another?

It is all too true that today there are those who are rejecting the claims of Jesus Christ. There are those who do not see in Jesus the answer to all life's problems. This is evidenced by the willingness of so many people to follow after peculiar religious groups which exclude Christ. It is shown by the dangerous and growing acceptance of Communism, which has showed that it not only has no place for Christ but it also definitely opposes Christ and his teachings. This modern refusal to accept Jesus shows itself further in those who call themselves followers of Jesus without once exhibiting the discipleship that Jesus must command if we be true followers of Him.

And so by word and action there are great hordes of the world's people who apparently do not believe that Christ is adequate. Let us consider this question in the light of this chapter from Luke's Gospel.

Jesus had just performed two amazing miracles. In Capernaum he had healed the centurion's servant who was near death. And in Nain he had raised from the dead the widow of Nain's son. Surely now all would know that this was indeed the Christ the Son of God. Else how could He do such wonderful things?

Well, reports of the miracles had spread quickly. Those who had witnessed them were filled with awe. The whole countryside was excited at the wonderful things Jesus had done. But was he adequate to meet all their needs?

I. There was still an unwelcome doubt

The people had praised God for these wonders and surely they were filled with awe that any mere man could accomplish them, and yet they were not quite ready to go all the way in their acceptance of Christ.

They at once recalled Elijah and Elisha and declared that a great prophet like them had arisen in their midst. Surely, they said, God hath visited His people. For he has raised up such a man as this right here among us in Galilee. The whole country was ringing with the exploits of this new prophet. All Galilee and Samaria and Judea were talking of him and of his wonderful power.

And yet there was still a great lack in their response to Jesus. The prophets of old had been mighty men of God, they had thundered out God's hatred of sin and the necessity of man's repentance, they had pointed the way home to God, they had begged for renewed consecration and for true and spiritual worship of God. But mighty men of God though they were, they were still men!

It revealed certainly that these people had been thinking for them to call Jesus a prophet, but it showed too that they had not been thinking clearly. Perhaps the words and actions of the Lord had reminded them of the prophets, but it was not the plan of Jesus that men should look upon Him as a mere man. The whole success of His mission depended upon men's response to Him as the Son of God.

And so even yet there was this unwelcome doubt- yes, he is a great prophet, a mighty man of God, but no more. And this attitude (Continued On Page Two)

Mrs. J. B. Johnston

When the resignation of Mr. Johnston came it was doubly regretted because of Mrs. Johnston whom we all know and love and will miss very much as we will Mr. Johnston.

She has meant so much to the Orphanage family and has endeared herself to all visitors as well. She always has a smile and helping hand for everyone she meets, and has always opened her home to all the Barium children and to visitors that come for a short or a long visit.

Mr. Johnston could not have been the success that he has been if it had not been for Mrs. Johnston with her helpfulness and lovable spirit.

As he has been a Father to the children she has been a Mother and it is with double regret that Mr. Johnston has resigned. We hope that they will stay right on among our family here.

Mrs. Johnston has always been a great help and inspiration spiritually and her influence has been felt on the campus. All who know her appreciate her beautiful christian character and no word of criticism has ever been heard from a worker or a child.

Mrs. Johnston and her family have taken second place to the orphanage family all during the time that Mr. Johnston has been associated with Barium.

She visits everyone on the campus, attends all programs that concern the children and enjoys and appreciates even the smallest and seemingly unimportant.

Mrs. Johnston is a sincere friend, a lovable Christian and an inspiration to all.

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the Regents of the Orphans' Home of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (here name the bequest)."

Nathan Neely Fleming

By Robert S. Arrowood

But for the intervention of Providence Rev. N. N. Fleming would have presided at the opening of the Synod of North Carolina and would have preached the opening sermon.

The writer was a life time friend of Neely Fleming. During childhood we went to the same school at Woodleaf; fished and swam in Third Creek together; and joined Old Unity Church and attended there as members, and sat together in a Sunday School Class.

I might tell a number of anecdotes showing his smart mind and quick wit. In College he used his time in a remarkable way. With the aid of some scholarships and his own efforts he paid his way and had a little money to lend.

He was active in the civic life of his community and county. He served a number of terms as Chaplain of the State Grange and was Chairman for the Christian Rural Overseas Relief Program for North Carolina, under the North Carolina Council of Churches.

He was an active leader and wise counselor in the Young People's Work of Orange Presbytery and the Synod of North Carolina.

The following is the Memorial to Mr. Fleming written by Rev. W. M. Baker and adopted by Orange Presbytery.

Nathan Neely Fleming was born at Mt. Vernon in Rowan County, North Carolina, October 7, 1889.

He received his early education in the schools of Rowan County and in obedience to the call of God to preach the Gospel, he entered Davidson College in the Fall of 1908 and was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in June 1912.

Concord Presbytery licensed him to preach in June 1917 and later in the same month Albemarle Presbytery ordained him to the full Gospel Ministry and installed him as assistant pastor in the Tarboro Presbyterian Church.

In 1926 the Hawfields and Bethlehem Presbyterian churches in Orange Presbytery called him. While serving these churches he was Stated Supply of a small group at Saxapahaw and later at Efland, North Carolina. In 1931 Hawfields Church called him for his full time. His ministry in this large county field had been richly blessed but upon his entering a full time ministry, the work developed greatly, and the membership grew rapidly.

Mr. Fleming married Miss Jessamine Roberts Booth, August 29, 1918. To this marriage were born six children: Three daughters, Mary Rosa, of Fuquay Springs and the home, Jessamine Roberts (Mrs. Victor P. Owens,) Emporia, Va., and Lucy Lowman, of the home; three sons, Nathan Neely, Jr., of Hawfields Community, and the Rev. Russell Flemings, pastor of St. Andrews and Buffalo Presbyterian Churches in Lee County, North Carolina, and Willis, who died at the age of four.

Mr. Fleming was a loyal and devoted pastor. His large congregation was scattered over a wide community and overflowed into other communities, but none lived too far away to receive his personal systematic oversight and ministry. He loved his young people and devoted his fine gifts and graces to counselling and serving them. It was his dream to see a proposed Fellowship Building to serve the varied needs of his young people completed.

He was a sincere preacher of the Word of God and divided it rightly and faithfully to his people. He made the truth so plain that the large group of children, who always filled several pews in the front, could understand. He was a watcher for souls and expected a harvest from the seed sown. He led his people in Bible Study and helped them in spiritual growth.

Mr. Fleming was a faithful Presbyterian. He was always in attendance upon the meetings of the church courts. This faithfulness was rewarded by appointments upon many important committees and Commissions. His brethren trusted and honored him. He was Moderator of Presbytery, represented his Presbytery at the General Assembly on numerous occasions, and in September 1948 the Synod of North Carolina, at its meeting in Montreat, North Carolina, elected him Moderator. He was Stated Clerk of Orange Presbytery from 1930 to 1948. He was a Trustee of Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, North Carolina, for sixteen years.

He was active in the civic life of his community and county. He served a number of terms as Chaplain of the State Grange and was Chairman for the Christian Rural Overseas Relief Program for North Carolina, under the North Carolina Council of Churches. He was President of the Congress of Parents and Teachers of Alexander-Wilson School in his home community.

He was an active leader and wise counselor in the Young People's Work of Orange Presbytery and the Synod of North Carolina. In all of their Council Meetings, Rallies, Conferences, and Camps, he was a wise teacher, a sympathetic counselor, a trusted friend and a faithful guide.

Mr. Fleming had an optimistic outlook on life that revealed an inner calm, a quiet faith in God and his fellowmen that enabled him to see real good in mankind and believe that God's truth would triumph in this world.

He trusted implicitly in Christ as Saviour and Lord and walked humbly in the light of that faith. He was an inspiring friend, an entertaining companion and a tireless worker in the vineyard of our Lord.

Having run his course and finished his work he slipped quietly away in the early hours of October 7, 1948. It was his birthday, a glorious going home.

We laid him to rest in the quiet cemetery of the historical old church, where he had served for twenty-two fruitful, happy years, amid a grateful and devoted people who will keep green the memories of their genial pastor.

'Well done thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.'

The Message of the

tude was wide-spread, it was the common public opinion of Him.

Today there would be very few who would disclaim that Christ was a great prophet. The Mohammedan faith ascribes that to Him. All the world's unbelievers would probably agree that he was a matchless teacher, a seer into difficult and unknown things.

If God was in Christ, and if he loved me and gave himself for me, then all problems are solved and all wants are satisfied.

'Thou, O Christ, art all I want; More than all in Thee I find.'

We have seen that public opinion doubted Christ to be the promised of God. There was another phase of that unwelcome doubt in the life of John the Baptist. The whole country was in a state of excitement about Jesus.

And now perhaps he was wondering, 'Here I am in prison, and Jesus isn't doing anything about it.' He had been put in prison by Herod, and now he was depressed and discouraged by this long imprisonment.

And it further requires that we see clearly our own sinfulness and our own lack in the sight of God. Simon is his self-sufficiency could not even see a glimmer of that basic truth.

The woman, on the other hand, knew her own sin and she realized God's love. And that was the basis of her right response to Jesus.

And Jesus accepted her love, and he told those who were present the reason for it. This woman had repented of her misdeeds, her soul had been cleansed, and Jesus said to her very simply, 'Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace.'

To these doubts Jesus has an answer in the form of a - - II. Welcome reassurance

His first word of reassurance is directed to John. 'Go tell John what things ye have seen and heard, how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached.'

Then Jesus goes to point out that the prophecies of Scripture are fulfilled in John, in that he was a forerunner, a messenger, to prepare the way for Him. And now He has come, and He has vindedicated his mission by the wonderful work that have been performed. So how is it possible for them to doubt further. When these things are seen through the eyes of faith, it cannot be doubted that He is indeed the one for whom they were looking. Nor could it be doubted that he was indeed adequate for them in that he was able to meet all their needs.

Nor in the light of this Scripture can we deny that Jesus Christ is adequate for us. We look further through in the chapter and see two responses to Jesus that seem representative of people in every age. There was the response of Simon and there was the response of the wicked woman.

Simon was a Pharisee who asked Jesus to dine at his house. Why he did it we can't see, for his reception of Jesus was certainly not very cordial. It wasn't even courteous. First he failed to meet Jesus at the door with water for His feet which was one of the common courtesies.

The woman, who is described as a "wicked woman" in other words, a woman of the street, could not have been invited to the house of Simon. She had come in uninvited, ready to be treated rudely as she was sure to be, simply because she felt that in Jesus was the answer to all her need.

And it was in this that the meanness of Simon's soul shows itself. "Why," he said to himself, "This man, if he were a prophet, would have perceived what manner of woman this is, which toucheth him, that she is a sinner." And in those words Simon reveals his own response to Jesus. Simon was self-centered, arrogant in his beliefs, and quite sure that if Jesus had any special relationship to God that He would never associate with such a sinful woman.

Well, certainly Christ can never be adequate for such a soul as that. For any such attitude shows plainly that the person has not any conception of God as He really is. Christ, the Son of God? Why Simon could not even believe Him a prophet of God, and do the things that he was constantly doing.

And so can't we see that for Christ to be adequate for us requires first of all something of us? It requires that we first of all realize that God is primarily a God of love and mercy.

And it further requires that we see clearly our own sinfulness and our own lack in the sight of God. Simon is his self-sufficiency could not even see a glimmer of that basic truth.

The woman, on the other hand, knew her own sin and she realized God's love. And that was the basis of her right response to Jesus. To her Jesus was adequate, he was able to meet all her need.

And Jesus accepted her love, and he told those who were present the reason for it. This woman had repented of her misdeeds, her soul had been cleansed, and Jesus said to her very simply, 'Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace.'

'Go in peace.' She was bidden to go forth into life in peace, peace with God, peace within her own soul.

Is Jesus adequate? Yes. Yes, there can be no doubt that Jesus is adequate. For the life of this woman proves it. Is it sin that spoils life, it is in sin that makes it sometimes mean and hateful, it is sin that stands between us and our God. And when that sin is removed, then life may be lived in happiness and satisfaction and peace. And it is Jesus alone who can remove sin and make that wonderful life possible for us all.

We need never look for another. For this is the one that should come even as the angel promised, "And thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save the people from their sins."

Synod's First Child

The first time Synod ever met at Barium was in 1897. The meeting was convened at Salisbury. Dr. Rumble, pastor at Salisbury, had been chairman of the Board of Regents from the beginning. So Synod came over from Salisbury on November 5, 1897 to Barium that they might dedicate a new building which on the program was called "Center Building." This was done to give the chairman the delightful surprise which came when the name was announced as "Rumble Hall."

Again the Synod visited Barium in 1911. Synod had met in Charlotte. One day was set aside and by means of a special train the delegates came to Center Church for an historical program and the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the founding of the Synod of the Carolinas in Center Church in 1788. Synod then took the train to Barium Springs, inspected the Home and returned to Charlotte.

In 1926 and in 1936 Synod was jointly entertained by Statesville, Mitchell College, and Presbyterian Orphan's Home. In 1941 for the first time all the sessions of Synod were held on the grounds of the Home. Three hundred and fifty-six ministers and elders were registered for that meeting of Synod.

Again in 1944 the Synod met at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. There was a record attendance of 371; 230 ministers and 141 ruling elders. There were four visiting brethren and many outside speakers.

If every Presbyterian minister in the Synod were to attend that would be 416. And every church were represented that would be 581, that would be a total of 997. Those are the figures of 1947-'48. The number of ministers has increased and churches have been organized. The possible enrollment is now well over a thousand. Well come on! The more the merrier.

To the Members of Synod and
The Board of Regents of
The Orphans' Home:

During the meeting of Synod it is difficult to get to speak to everyone and when the opportunity comes for one to express his sentiments on the floor of Synod there never is a full house. For that reason, I did not attempt to express my feelings over the recent action of the Board of Regents and of the Synod to you while you were here. I wanted it to reach all of you and am using the columns of The Messenger as the medium to accomplish this.

I was overwhelmed by the generous action on the part of the Synod in recognizing my services here. I have felt all during the years of my stay here that I have been well paid for whatever effort I might have put out, the pay being in the affection of the children here and of the ever growing number of the alumni, in the loyal and hearty cooperation of the men and women who work at Barium, in the friendly understanding of the members of the Synod with whom we have had so many contacts. My life here at Barium has been most pleasant. My family grew up here. I think they are better men and women because they did, and their love for Barium is second only to mine.

I feel that the Synod in its action and through the Board of Regents has treated me generously and kindly, and I hope that somehow and in some way in the years to come I may continue to help to keep Barium Springs a place that can serve childhood adequately, and that our Church may continue to be proud of it.

Sincerely,

JOS. B. JOHNSTON.

Elected Moderator

REV. PAUL DICKSON PATRICK

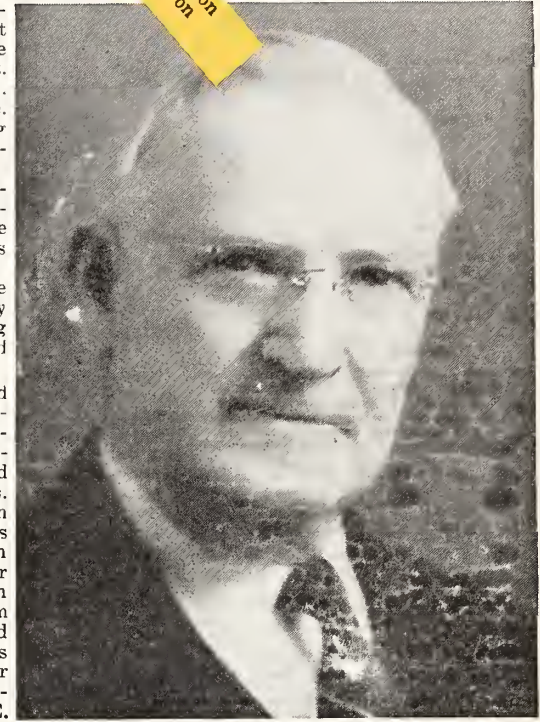

Rev. Paul Dickson Patrick was elected Moderator of the One Hundred and Thirty-sixth Stated Session of the Synod of North Carolina of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

For fourteen years Mr. Patrick has been the beloved and effective pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Kings Mountain.

Since 1944 Mr. Patrick has been chairman of Synod's Executive Committee of Home Missions. He has distinguished himself in that office.

He made an excellent presiding officer. While ever alert and prompt in his decisions he was always patient, considerate, and jovial. He did much to make this a delightful meeting of Synod

Superintendent of Home Missions

DR. E. E. GILLESPIE

The first delegate to arrive at Synod was the much beloved Supt. of Home Missions, Dr. E. E. Gillespie, who is still going strong in his eightieth year.

Dr. Gillespie came in on Saturday with a couple of loads of books for his Home Mission workers. He came back early Monday morning to arrange and package them.

The Pre-Synod Home Mission Conference is a product of Dr. Gillespie's fertile mind and useful hands. It has grown through the years and now has an attendance of over two hundred. An excellent program this year carried stirring addresses by the Moderator of the General Assembly, Mr. W. E. Price of Charlotte; Dr. Darby Fulton, Executive Secretary of Foreign Missions and a past Moderator of the Assembly; Dr. J. M. Carr, recently elected Director of Town and Country work; Rev. O. V. Caudell of Salisbury, Director of Church Construction; Dr. C. E. S. Kraemer of the First Presbyterian Church of Charlotte, and others.

The Pre-Synod Conference was a great success because it reflected the enthusiasm for Home Missions in North Carolina under the leadership of Dr. Gillespie.

Here at Presbyterian Orphan's Home we have long known of the vigor of Dr. Gillespie's personality and the wide scope of his interest. The excellent brick house in which the writer lives was built by money raised by Dr. Gillespie in 1901. This was the first Superintendent's Home. Dr. Gillespie saw the need of such a house because Rev. R. W. Boyd and his family were living in the dormitory. He and Mr. Boyd estimated the cost at $2,000.00. Dr. Gillespie went to Mr. (Continued On Page Two)

Four New Members of The Board of Regents

At the meeting of Synod just closed four new members were elected to the Board of Regents.

Rev. M. S. Huske has completed two full terms. In his place was elected Mr. J. Archie Cannon, Jr. son of our President of the Board. Mr. R. W. Bruin found that for business reasons he was unable to serve. In his place Rev. Kelsey Regen, D. D. adds a "T" and becomes a Regent. Dr. Regen is Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Durham. Mrs. J. M. Hobgood who served for six years on the Board of Regents and who passed away early in the year was a most useful and beloved member of the Board from Albemarle Presbytery. Mrs. J. H. Brown of Tarboro has been elected to succeed her.

Rev. George Mauze, D. D. Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church Winston-Salem was chairman of our Finance Committee and a very useful and active member of the Board. Dr. Mauze having removed to Texas, an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Winston-Salem Mr. W. Tully Blair was elected to succeed him.

Home-coming Day Set For October 14th

We have been so busy getting ready for Synod and entertaining Synod that we have not had time to talk much about Home-Coming Day, and here it is just a little while ahead.

It is on October 14th that the big event will take place. The maples on the campus are beginning to turn in preparation for that event so that the campus will be most beautiful when you arrive. We have had a big meeting of Synod. More and more, Barium alumni are showing up as preachers and elders in these meetings. I am sure that if there were a gathering of deacons there would be a most gratifying portion of them claiming Barium as their home. These fragmentary home-comings are delightful. Everywhere we play a football game there is an hilarious section of oldtimers present. Just a short time ago we helped dedicate the new stadium at Thomasville. The (Continued On Page Two)

Rev. C. H. Sides' Message to Synod

A RESPECTABLE RELIGION

It was several years ago that I had a conversation with a young deacon in one of our churches that has remained very clear in my memory. On that occasion I had been asked to teach the S. S. lesson which happened to be on the subject of relations with other races. In it I attempted as best I could to point out the Christian attitude. Afterward, the young man came up in a friendly manner to discuss the lesson. As he turned away, he said a thing that I shall not forget. He said, "I'm a Christian, but . . . I can't go along with you there." I'm a Christian, but . . .

That man was a church officer, he attended services regularly, he was a tither, a man of exemplary character. The issue at stake need not necessarily have been what it was. Nor was that an isolated incident. Perhaps all of you have had such experiences. But to me it was typical of a glaring weakness in the church today, of Christian people who say, "I'm a Christian, but there are areas of life where Christ cannot lead the way."

Can it be that our times have fallen heir to a respectable religion, comfortable and comforting, so long as it is in its place. And if such an attitude be widespread, doesn't religion come perilously near to being what Communism calls it - the opiate of the people.

Early Christianity was no opiate. The Christians of the first century did not know the meaning of a respectable religion. Elton Trueblood has said that "We must not forget that in the Roman Empire, Christ won, and won against tremendous odds. He won because faith in Christ really changed the lives of countless weak men and made them bold as lions. "Yes, they were bold, and they took Christ and his gospel into every avenue of life. Wherever there were conditions that were contrary to that gospel, those men and women with self-sacrificing courage proclaimed the truth of God. It was dangerous, they lived daily in peril of their lives, but the gospel touched human affairs at every (Continued On Page Two)

The Meeting of Synod At Barium Springs

Again the Synod of North Carolina has come and gone. We were glad to see them come and sorry that their visit was so short.

Rev. O. C. Williamson, the last Moderator who was a representative to Synod, presided at the opening sessions. This was made necessary by the untimely death of the Moderator Rev. N. N. Fleming. Rev. C. H. Sides preached the opening sermon which will be found elsewhere in this issue.

In introducing Mr. Sides, Dr. Williamson paid a tribute to our deceased moderator and read from a letter from Governor W. Kerr Scott who was for many years a member of the Church of which Mr. Fleming was pastor at the time of his death. Two paragraphs from Mr. Scott's eloquent tribute are as follows:

"His congregation was stunned and shaken by the suddenness of his passing. As he lay in the last great sleep an old man said, "It seems he must rise and speak to us." How short-sighted we are! He speaks and will speak on in the lives he has influenced. God called him in the glory of the Autumn of his life. He was spared the winter of old age. There was never any weakening of his physical or mental powers. His life was full to the brim with joyous service.

As a member of his church for twenty two years, I realize that God loaned us one of his great ones for a time. Words are inadequate to express our sense of loss. To those who served with him, as well as to other thousands who knew him, must come the memory of the example he set in putting aside personal sorrow for the task ahead. In the words he liked to quote, "We are not here to dream, to drift. There is hard work to do and loads to life." May God give us strength and courage to live up to that."

Getting Ready to Entertain Synod

Many of the visitors on our campus during the meeting of Synod congratulated a few of the grown people on their thoughtfulness in providing so many courtesies for the visiting guests.

Perhaps we should give you a glimpse behind the scenes to let you know how this worked out. No one person or group of persons is responsible for the many things that were done to make the stay of the Synod pleasant. Here is how it works. We know that probably Synod will return to Barium about 1953, so a few days after the meeting of Synod everybody will be asked to make suggestion for the next meeting. Those of the children who served you this time will be gone in 1953, and the little chaps that were somewhat under foot while you were here will be the ones who will serve you. Well, everybody will have suggestions. The children will have heard you speak of certain things and maybe will have heard you suggest a better plan. They will come up with suggestions about the next meeting.

For instance, in 1941 we served you tomato juice in your rooms. A boy would go in and wake you and hand you a glass of tomato juice and a newspaper, and there you were in bed and you had to do something about it. Maybe you had wanted to sleep thirty minutes longer. Well there were enough people who mildly objected to that for the boys to pick it up and suggest that in the future we serve the tomato juice outside of the bedrooms.

Another suggestion was made that we serve breakfast in a different way, since some wanted it early and some could not get there early. So this year the time of eating breakfast was extended over a period of an hour and a half. This and many other things will be discussed and when you return to Barium in 1953 or thereabouts you will find that your treatment will be smoothed out and the things that might have been a little inconvenient this time will not be so next time.

We sincerely hope that you will meet in our new church. It is now just a plan - not even on paper - but it will be in brick and stone certainly within four years.

It happened this year that having a football game on the last day of Synod was an accident. We moved it up from Friday to accommodate our visiting team. So many of the commissioners stayed to enjoy that game that we may make that a feature the next time you come and notify you about it in advance so that you can more conveniently stay over to see it.

We hope to have a better office and telephone arrangement when you come again. Maybe we can have a telephone in the Church so that this arrangement will be more convenient. However, when you come again do not think that the head man or the head group of people are responsible for the many things done for your comfort. It is something that we all think about all year. When some especially nice fruit or vegetable is being processed for canning some person will remark that it had better be set aside for Synod. It seems that our orchard has gotten the habit and the most delightful apples mature right at that time.

Now, in the name of the children, we want to thank you. In 1944 when Synod met here the commissioners made a contribution on Wednesday of Synod. Over 500 ate at that time. The contribution was over three hundred dollars and that was used for the pleasure of the children and lasted nearly two years. There is no telling how many delightful picture-shows, picnics, and other pleasures were wrapped up in that money. This year you were even more generous, and the final count shows $473.00 contributed. This, together with the profits on the refreshment stand that served you and which amounted to over $20.00, brings the total to practically $500.00. Now, the children who will get the most pleasure out of this gift are the younger ones and it will last them at least two years and when you come again the gleam in their eyes when they greet you will be partly in memory of the fine times that they have enjoyed at your hands.

During the meeting Reverend Carl Craig spoke just before you made your contributions. He said he saw a dime in one of the bowls in which you put your money. He did not know how that dime happened to be there. It came from (Continued On Page Three) a little fellow who had carried a package for one of you when you arrived at the office.

 On the Sunday morning previous to your coming here, we spoke to the children asking them not to accept tips for their services to you. When this little boy carried in the package the man gave him a dime. The boy protested but the man did not listen but just put the dime in his hand, and the boy walked around with that dime in his hand until he found me and that was the dime that started things off. This is just one of the things that goes on behind the scenes, that you may occasionally get a glimpse of. If you saw all the things that go on behind the scenes you would be so in love with Barium you would never leave, so maybe it is just as well that we can only give you a glimpse of the way it works.

The Meeting of Synod

 Fulton Executive Secretary of Foreign Missions.
 Among important matters before the Synod were the report on Orphan's Home, given by Mr. J. A. Cannon; Home Missions, given by Rev. P. D. Patrick; The Home for the Aged by Mr. R. A. McPheeters; Religious Education by Dr. E. D. Witherspoon; and the Stewardship Committee, Dr. I. M. Ellis, Chairman.
 A Committee was appointed to work out a plan of reorganization along the lines of adopted by the General Assembly at its last meeting. However the report of this committee was not adopted. An ad interim Committee was appointed to study the matter of reorganization and bring in a report at the meeting in 1950.
 As there was no invitation forthcoming for the next meeting of Synod, the Moderator and Stated Clerk were appointed to arrange for the meeting.

 While most of the delegates were housed at Barium in the dormitories for older children, all of the homes of the workers were opened to receive visitors. The city of Troutman went all out to help us. Sixty-five homes with accommodations for over a hundred delegates were offered. As usual our loyal friends in Statesville also tendered their homes but because of very dusty detours very few were assigned to Statesville.
 Here at Presbyterian Orphan's Home we are grateful to all who helped in the large undertaking of caring for this, the largest Synod in our Assembly.

led him to Jesus. The speaker said he would learn the identity of the donor when he got to Heaven. Who can tell what God can do with a barefooted country boy who puts his life upon the altar?
 Who can tell what God can do with anything else, small or great, that is dedicated to Him? It isn't the size that counts with God. It is the surrender.

MICHIGANDER ACCEPTS "YOU ALL"

By Louis T. Moore
 Several weeks ago I was talking with an intelligent and well-educated officer from the Marine Base at Camp Lejeune. As it happens he is a native of Michigan. Just as happens to a great many other visitors, he is much interested in the ways, customs and general methods of procedure of those of us who live "down South."
 After discussing various subjects the conversation drifted toward ideas of what constitutes correct usage of English forms and phrases. "This business you people down here engage in, in saying 'you all' is just a lot of foolishness," my military friend remarked. "Positively there is no acceptable authority for it so far as proper use of English is concerned. For the life of me I don't see why you folks down here keep on using it!"
 "What do you consider the best and most authoritative source of pure and acceptable expression, and language?" I asked.
 "The Bible, above any other reference which might be cited," was his reply.
 "Do you really and conscientiously mean what you say," was my rejoinder. "I most certainly do," was his quick and definite answer.
 "That is all I want to know," I said, handing the gentleman a Bible. "Now will you please turn to Acts 3:16."
 Quickly he turned over the pages of the Good Book and then said, "O K., if you will permit a slang expression, I've got it."
 "Well, then will you please go ahead and read it out loud."
 He recited somewhat as he read as follows: "And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given perfect soundness in the presence of you all."
 In the knowledge that he might doubt the realness of the situation if he were given only one illustration, I then told the soldier: "Now turn to I Corinthians, 2:3."
 With slow and measured deliberation he complied and appeared rather astonished as he slowly read aloud the following verse: "And I wrote this same unto you, lest when I came, I should have sorrow from them whom I ought to rejoice; having confidence in you all that my joy is the joy of you all."
 "Well, I just can't understand it," he exclaimed.
 With no special effort to make the soldier "eat crow" but merely to emphasize the fact that he was far in the wrong in his conception of the usage of the two words in question, I then said to him, "Now will you kindly read just the fifth verse from the same chapter?"
 With voice now sounding rather down-cast and disheartened, he read: "But if any have caused grief; he hath not grieved me, but in part; that I may not overcharge you all."
 Then, merely to convince one who was wrong even before he started the conversation, and on top of all the preceding citations, I called his attention to Philippians, 1:25. "And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith."
 Also Philippians 2:17. "Yea, and if I be offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all."
 I then concluded, by reminding my friend that the Benediction from the Bible, which we always hear at the conclusion of every church service is, "The Grace of our Lord, Jesus Christ, be with you all, now and forever, Amen."
 The soldier closed the Book and said: "That's all I want to hear and to read. From now on, I'll have no criticism to make when I hear 'you all' again."

GIFTS OF POVERTY

God wants gifts of money, to be sure, because He wants His part of the returns from our partnership with Him. If the returns are large, He wants large dividends. If the returns are small, He is content with small dividends. He does not want to break up a good business, except when it is breaking up a good man. He told the rich young ruler to sell out. He was making too much money, and losing too much religion.
 But God wants the gifts of poverty also. Jeremy Taylor, the great preacher was the son of a poor barber. George Fox, founder of the "Society of Friends," popularly called Quakers, was the son of a weaver. Haydn, master musician and Christian, was the son of a carpenter. John Bunyan was poverty's gift to all Christendom.
 Most of our preachers came out of humble homes. The majority of them climbed the ladder of achievement with little in their pockets. Lincoln said God must love poor people, because he made so many of them.
 Yes, God wants the gifts of poverty, also. We once heard a native Japanese say some Americans gave the twenty-five cents which bought the New Testament which

With the many resolutions that church groups have been passing, and especially with the statement of the Canadian Council of Churches urging that no church organization "should raise money by raffles, games of chance, lotteries or other gambling methods," we are in hearty agreement. But it seems to us that it remained for the Methodists of the Jacksonville (Fla.) district to put their finger on the real problem when they condemned the easy-money way of life. "Christian vocation," they said, "is too sacred to be jeopardized by an easy-money way of life." Loss of time and money, insecurity in the job and instability in the home, curtailment of industrial output and even dishonesty in public office may be traced to the gambling habit, but none of these evil effects matches the deplorable growth of the idea that (on a give-away program or elsewhere) it is ever possible to put one over on life. That kind of teaching and giving will soon undermine all that the Christian centuries have built into character.

GOD'S BROWN CHILDREN

In his memorable appearance before the North Carolina Rural Church Institute during the Christian Convocation at Duke, June, 1947, Russell Lord, editor of "The Land" and the "Country Voices" department in "The Progressive Farmer," read this touching poem by Vaughn White Holoman, Northhampton County, N. C.:
 Earth of God's earth, brown of His brown:
 These are His children scattering down
 The country road, released from school—
 Kicking the dust, splashing in pool,
 Snatching at caps, calling in glee:
 "I've got yo' tag! You can't git' me."
 Misshapen old shoes — battered in play,
 Facing the west painted with light,
 Hiding the cabins at fall of night.
 Theirs are the sun and renewing of rain,
 Theirs are the stars shining again.
 Riches of man by men denied,
 Bounty of heaven by God supplied.

BEATITUDES FOR CHILDREN

Blessed is the child who has someone who believes in him, to whom he can carry his problems unafraid.
 Blessed is the child who is allowed to pursue his curiosity into every worthwhile field of information.
 Blessed is the child who has someone who understands that childhood's griefs are real, and call for understanding and sympathy.
 Blessed is the child who has about him those who believe in his divinity and not his depravity.
 Blessed is the child whose love of the true, the beautiful and the good has been nourished through the years.
 Blessed is that child whose innate imagination has been turned into channels of creative effort.
 Blessed is the child whose efforts to achieve have found encouragement and kindly commendation.
 Blessed is the child who has learned freedom from selfishness through responsibility and cooperation with others.

A LAYMAN DISCUSSES FAITH

It is not news when an officer of the law talks about crime. Perhaps it is not news when he recommends religion as a cure for crime. It is news, however, when an officer of the law talks about faith and prayer and the Holy Spirit and the love of Christ from personal experience. Well, that is exactly what Walter F. Anderson, director of the State Bureau of Investigation and active Methodist Layman, did last Friday evening when he addressed 200 laymen and preachers at the annual stewards' dinner sponsored by the Durham Methodist Society. Mr. Anderson did not talk about abstract faith or academic religion. He talked about a personal experience with Christ. He told how a small group of Christians in Raleigh had banded themselves together to pray for one another, for their church and community, and for lost people. He talked about witnessing for Christ. "Juvenile delinquency," he declared, "would almost be solved if mothers and fathers had the love of Christ in their hearts."

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Gambling, which is now rated as the seventh industry in austere Britain, probably ranks even higher in the United States. Compilations of figures are of little use because there is so much difference of opinion on what constitutes gambling and so much gambling is illegal. Suffice it to say, the sum probably equals the national debt.

First Half of Barium's Football Season

We have heard it rumored that there are readers of The Messenger who eagerly look forward to athletic news and are grievously disappointed when any issue fails to have an account of the current athletic doings.

Barium Springs has an up and coming football team this year. She also has basketball teams, both boys and girls, that stay in the upper bracket. Those who have played on these teams and those who have seen them play are always interested in the doings of the teams, so this article is going to bring you up to date on the first half of Barium's football season. It began back yonder on September 15th when Barium helped to dedicate another stadium. This is about six of these athletic arenas that Barium has helped to dedicate. This time it was Thomasville, and while the seating arrangements are still somewhat crude, the playing field is perfect. Barium had to dissappoint the Thomasville crowd by taking that game 12-0. The game started out as though it was going to be all Thomasville. Barium kicked off and in the first play from scrimmage on a wide end sweep a thomasville boy almost got away for a touchdown. He made about a 60-yard run, but Barium held and was lucky enough to recover a fumble at that critical stage of the game and went on to score but was unable to complete the point after touchdown. We breathed a little easier after that game and came back home and prepared for our next game, the opening home game for Barium Springs.

Well, maybe our boys breathed a little too easy after the Thomasville game because they did not wake up until after half of our first home game had been played and in that half, Children's Home, our opponent made 20 points. In fact, they made two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play. That Big Red Smith was the boy who did the damage. We were all very proud of the Barium team, however, in refusing to become demoralized. They pitched in and played a whale of a game from that time on, and really outplayed Children's Home in the second half and the Children's Home team was still at full strength. Children's Home scored in the third quarter: Barium scored in the fourth, with the final score being 26-6, for Barium's only defeat of the season.

On September 30th Mooresville came to Barium and Mooresville has a much heavier team than Barium. They have one excellent backfield man - Liner. Barium succeeded in holding this team one time within the ten-yard line. Mooresville had the ball first and ten on Barium's ten-yard line. Five plays, which included a five-yard penalty against Barium, they failed to score and we felt rather proud about that. The final score was Barium 27, Mooresville 0.

On October 7th Spencer came to Barium. Spencer was the team that tied Barium in 1948. We knew (Continued On Page Two)

Large Crowd Here For Homecoming Event

The Homecoming Day which has just passed was in many respects the best ever. To begin with, the weather was perfect and the old-timers commenced to arrive even the night before and by pep meeting time there was quite a block of seats in the auditorium taken up by the homecomers. More and more children are appearing on the scene, and it may be necessary sometime in the future to set aside a day just for Barium grandchildren to congregate. They seem to get a great kick out of visiting the place they have heard their parents talk so much about.

Dinner this year was a barbecue, served cafeteria style and it took just 25 minutes for everybody to be served. They were still coming back for refills, however, an hour later.

The meeting of the Alumni Association was held immediately after this mid-day lunch and it lasted longer than it ever has; in fact right up to game time.

The football game was between Barium and Albemarle and is described elsewhere in this issue.

We wish it were possible to have the names of all of the ones who came back - about twice as many came for the dinner as came to the morning meeting - more than twice as many came to the ball game as were at dinner, and quite a number stayed for supper and were still at Barium for the midget game which took place on Saturday morning.

This midget game was played by a mixture of the 110 and the 125-pound teams. The opponent was the O'Donoghue school in Charlotte. The final score was 27-6. The playing of James Wheeler, Charles Faircloth, Dean Upton and Jimmy Johnson was outstanding, all of the team playing fine ball.

LEANING ON GOD

Self-sufficiency seems to be one of the primary mistakes, even sins, of our present day - man's trusting in himself alone and in his own powers. But listen to the word of Jeremiah. "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man. . ." But Jeremiah doesn't stop there, he goes on to paint a word picture of the life that is not founded on hope and trust in God.

Jeremiah would carry us in our imagination to a scene of desolation, a hot, dusty desert stretching on every side, fierce and unrelentless sunbeams bear down to destroy every green thing. Not a living animal is to be seen. Here and there a stunted, prickly little shrub struggles with the heat and barely manages to keep alive. On them are no leaves and no fruit. They only serve to make the desolation more desolate.

That, says Jeremiah, is a picture of a life that does not hope and trust in God. That life is blighted, it provides no fruits of service. There are many lives today like that, lives that are small and stunted without the life-giving grace of God shed upon them.

I. The Need For Trust In God. The need was evident in Jeremiah's day, for he lived in a day of war and suffering. His people were anxious for the future, and the future seemed dark indeed. It was his people's need for God that prompted Jeremiah to write these challenging words.

Our own day has seen many of the experiences that were common to the time of the prophet. An uneasy peace has been substituted for war. About the world suffering has been abated somewhat but has not been dismissed. After the holocaust of war nations still have not learned to get along with nations. And all this does little to contribute to peace of mind. Fear and dread are still with us in such measure that we can safely say that the majority of people have learned little yet of the true way of inward peace, the way of leaning on God.

Possibly there will always be (Continued On Page Two)

Cottage News

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are again with the news of our cottage.

We got report cards yesterday. Geraldine Hinant, Virginia Baucom, and Laura Jane Craig made the honor roll.

We went to Davidson to a football game. We saw them play Presbyterian College. There were eleven bands there. Although Davidson lost we had a wonderful time.

We went to see a show entitled: "Father was a Fullback." It was wonderful. Some of us even thought that it was better than "Mickey" a show we saw last year.

We got a box of assorted candy from the Sadie Blacknall Circle at Durham. We all enjoyed eating it during rest periods while we were stringing beans.

We have three new piano students at our cottage. They are: Mona Blake, Sylvia Wells, and Geraldine Hinant.

One of our family left us. Her name is Carolyn Holt, but we got another one in her place. Her name is Nancy Ferrill of Charlotte, N. C. She is ten years old and is in the third grade. We all enjoy her being with us.

We all are excited, we are getting a new porch. Mr. Ervin and his helpers have been working on it for two days. We will be glad when they finish.

Look for us next month.

Your friends,
The Bean Stringers

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

The first six weeks of school has drawn to an end, and report cards will be coming into view before long. All of you can keep your fingers crossed in hopes that not "too" many of us get bad grades.

Synod has come and gone but we surely did have a nice time while they were here. One afternoon we had a wonderful time at the movies. We went to the Playhouse to see "Sorrowful Jones." This picture was very good and we especially liked the little girl in the picture. A very nice thing that the men of Synod did for us was to give us all free show tickets. We enjoyed another very funny picture at the State. The name of it was "Ma and Pa" Kettle." We would like to thank the men for this wonderful thing they did for us. By the time Synod comes again to Barium many of us will be larger and we are really looking forward to this.

While Synod was here we had two girls from Woman's building (Continued On Page Two)

Conferences

By Jos. B. Johnston

It is amazing the number of conferences that are held from time to time by different groups of people.

It seems at times as though the welfare people have more than any, until the question arises as to whether or not there is time to do any work between conferences! As we write this we have just attended a meeting of the North Carolina Orphanage Association in Winston-Salem. This was on October 4th. Two car loads went from Barium for this all-day meeting and as the name suggests it is made up of the orphanages, Catholic, Protestant, white and colored, of North Carolina. It was well attended and the sessions were lively and interesting and, we believe, helpful.

We were royally entertained by the Children's Home of Winston-Salem and the large attendance was no doubt partly due to the reputation which this fine institution has for entertaining visitors.

Superintendent A. D. Leon Gray of Oxford was president this past year and Mr. Moose, superintendent of the Nazareth Orphanage, was elected president for the coming year.

On October 11 and 12th a conference was held in Raleigh at the Sir Walter Hotel under the auspices of the State Welfare Department. This was so well attended that seating space in the ball room of the Sir Walter was taxed to capacity - standing room only. There were speakers from out of the State, from the Child Welfare League, from the Government, from the adjoining states, and from Duke University and Merideth College.

Next week there will be a protestant Conference on Child Welfare, October 18th and 19th at Columbus, Ohio. The writer of this article plans to attend that as this meeting is in preparation for the mid-century White House Conference which will take place next year. All of these conferences are worthwhile. It is difficult to know just (Continued On Page Two) things to disturb and distress us in our personal lives. And it is also for this reason that we may profitably review the words of this great prophet in so far as he would teach us how to lean on God at all times.

New temptations and fewer restraints are meeting our boys and girls as they grow into manhood and womanhood. And life for young and old is not easy and I suppose that it has never been easy.

We can go on in an attitude of self-sufficiency as so many are doing today. Yet that is the way of ultimate breakdown and despair.

Perhaps the American people are as guilty of this attitude of self-sufficiency as any other people, unless it might be completely pagan nations.

II. The Source of Trust.

The answer of course is, and can only be, God. Jeremiah expresses it this way, "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is."

"Though the cause of evil prosper; Yet 'tis truth alone is strong; Though her portions be the scaffold, And behold the dim unknown, Standeth God within the shadow, Keeping watch above His own."

"Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is." It is God who is our true source of hope and trust.

We may trust in the wonderful promises of God and his presence. All down through the ages the Word of God has rung with those promises of God's nearness.

ise of the Master, "Lo, I am with thee always, even unto the end of the world."

And the Master's voice calms our fears with the words, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

III. The Reward of Trust. "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is." There is our reward, we shall be blessed.

Not fear, but courage and confidence will be our lot when we trust in God. We are all familiar with Paul's experience when he was shipwrecked.

We began with one picture, a picture of desolation. We end with another. This time we see a green and living scene, a brimming river flows between meadows of waving grass.

And that, says Jeremiah, is a picture of a life that hopes and trusts in God. And the one whose hope the Lord is "shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season, his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

Today was Barbara Porter's birthday. You remember the little girl that got her leg broken? All of us tried to do a little something to make her day happier.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., NOVEMBER 1949

NO. 1

Men of Presbytery Met At Barium

The Men of Concord Presbytery met in their annual fall meeting at Barium Springs on the evening of October twenty-fifth. This was the largest group ever to assemble for this meeting of the men of our Presbytery. There were in round numbers five hundred and fifty present. Mr. Johnston says they ate all of the barbecue and there was enough prepared for seven hundred people; this is an indication of how well they thought of the fine food prepared by the host group at the orphanage. The large dining room at Barium was completely filled — A thrilling sight when one considers the potentiality of such a group all working for the advancement of the Kingdom in Concord Presbytery.

In addition to the fine food, Barium Springs provided some splendid music by the Glee Club of the Orphanage. Mr. James Sloan, of the Thyatira Church, President of the Men of the Presbytery, presided during the meeting and deserves a great deal of the credit for the large number in attendance.

The invocation was led by Mr. W. C. Houck, and Elder in the First Church, Salisbury. The Devotional was led by Rev. Milton B. Faust, Pastor of the Franklin Church. The principal speaker was Dr. Edward D. Grant, Executive Secretary of the Board of Christian Education of our Church, Richmond, Va. Dr. Grant brought a most challenging message based largely on the Re-Study Report, the condensation of which we hope you have read in the book "Lift Up Your Eyes". Dr. Grant emphasized the importance of the findings of the Re-Study group and the importance of all Church (Continued On Page Three)

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi friends,
A good many things have taken place during the later part of October and the early part of November.

We're just raring to tell you the outcome of Halloween night.

We had lots and lots of "visitors" to come and scare us to death. A few of the younger ones were really scared too! Big old boys would come toward us all "blacked up" and in ragged clothes. Many of them had on false faces, which were really horrible looking! To top the night off, one of our big sisters told us a ghost story. It was awful too. The worse part of all though was when she kept on telling us it was true! A few of us cried and shivered on our way to bed. All in all it was an eventful Halloween.

We've been raking leaves and really making the money too. We have found that this is a good way to spend our spare time, and also a good way to make some extra money. The money usually goes for (Continued On Page Two)

Regular Income Less Than In 1948

Mecklenburg and Wilmington show increases.

Possibly because of some slight recession in business, or because of some reductions in Barium's percentage in the regular budget, our income from the churches for the first seven months of the church year is $2,788.52 less than for the same period last year. However two of the Presbyteries, Mecklenburg and Wilmington show an increase of $322.36 and $381.41 respectively. The tabulation is as follows:

April — October	1948	1949
Presbytery
Albemarle	$1,580.86	$1,574.78	— $ 608.00
Concord	6,191.37	5,962.03	— 229.34
Fayetteville	5,257.95	4,518.41	— 739.54
Granville	1,325.63	961.83	— 363.80
Kings Mountain	5,182.90	3,721.98	— 1,460.92
Mecklenburg	5,602.81	5,925.17	+ 322.36
Orange	3,090.77	2,871.52	— 219.25
Wilmington	1,942.18	2,323.59	+ 381.41
Winston-Salem	1,581.98	1,158.62	— 423.36

Progress Made Toward New Church.- Building Fund Now $90,000.00

Progress is being made toward the building of the first unit of our church.

The amount in bonds and cash for the church having reached about $90,000.00 the Building and Grounds Committee felt it time to begin definite planning to erect the new church. So an architect was elected. The firm of Thomas and Waggoner who are now the architects for the new church at Davidson College was selected.

Mr. Thomas has visited the campus and has studied the proposed site for the church. He has also sent down several preliminary studies to be considered by the Building and Grounds Committee and the Committee of the Church. The plans contemplate an expenditure of $125,000.00 for each unit of the church.

All gifts that are designated for the new church and all undesignated memorials go into this fund. We receive as memorials for the church about $1,000.00 per month. There are some friends and supporters who prefer for their memorial gifts to go to the operation of the Home and the care of the Children. Such preferences we are glad to carry out.

Home-coming Days

Without meaning to, I have sat in on four Home-coming Days in succession. You, of course, know the prime objectives of Home-coming Days. The idea is to attract all the alumni back for a feast. There are a lot of good things to eat and a good football team to beat - all of that is on the program. It would not do to have a weak sister as an opponent, so every school and college usually picks out a worthy opponent so that their victory will be a cause for celebration.

Well, at Barium Springs' Home-coming on October 14th it worked out just that way. There was plenty to eat and a most hilarious group of oldtimers assembled at Barium. The opposing team was Albemarle and Barium won its victory, so that was the perfect Home-coming Day.

The following Saturday it was Home-Coming at Davidson - plenty to eat, plenty to see, and a grand game with Davidson having a mighty good chance to win a victory, but it did not turn out that way - - the Richmond team just refused to cooperate and wound up by beating Davidson rather badly. That was all that kept that from being a perfect day.

The following Saturday it was at Chapel Hill. The Monogram Club at Carolina invited 35 of our students to come down and see the Tennessee-Carolina game, so we with some 40,000 other folks assembled at Kenan Stadium for the last event of the Home-Coming Day. Everything else had gone off in fine style. There had been so much food prepared that they say that chickens, turkeys and pigs within a radius of fifty miles were so scarce that they had to be protected by game laws for some time after that Home-Coming Day. But in the football game everything exploded in Carolina's face. We don't know yet whether Carolina has the superior team. The Charlie Justice team was on the field for such a little time that they hardly had a chance to warm up. The defensive team was on the field practically all the time, and they did not do so well. Tennessee very rudely slapped Carolina down by an unbelievable score.

The following week Mrs. Johnston and I journeyed to Clemson and participated in another Home-Coming Day. There is a whole lot

New Comers at Barium Springs

Geraldine and Peggy Hinnant

The picture at which you are looking is a sample of the new children who have come in during recent months. They came from Johnston County. Geraldine is almost nine years old and Peggy is five. There is nothing special about them except that they are just nice, lovable little girls. They came to Barium just as the Fall term of school was beginning. They are not the newest comers. There is Shelby Smith, ten-year old boy from Kinston; Melvin Sanders, seven years old, from Charlotte; Nancy Joyner, six years old, and Larry Joyner, three years old, from Charlotte; Katherine Ferrell, twelve years old, John Calvin Ferrell, eleven years old, and Nancy Ferrell, ten years old, from Charlotte; Nelson Anderson, ten years old, Betty Ruth Anderson, eight years old, and Jack Anderson, four years old, from Mt. Olive; Judith Bolton, eight years old, John Bolton, six years old, and Mary Jane Bolton, five years old, from Gastonia. And others are due to arrive between now and Christmas. Maybe we can get them all together for a group picture. If not, we will display a sample or two as we go along.

Mr. McClure to Assume Duties On January 15th

The new Superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home, Rev. Albert B. McClure, will assume his duties on January 15, 1950. Our last Messenger went to press a few minutes after Mr. McClure accepted the position, so at that time it had not been announced when he would come.

more to this than can be told in a paragraph. First, as to why. Well, a number of years ago a little widow came to Barium Springs with two little boys. She was not very strong, but she was determined to take the matron training course and to make a living for her two sons. Riding on courage alone, she made the grade. For a time she was a matron at Barium and then taught in our school. Later on in life she married a Clemson professor, Mr. A. G. Holmes, and they live at Clemson and lead a most active life. When the time came for Mr. Holmes' retirement, they built them a lovely home near enough in to the center of things to still be part of the Clemson community. This couple invited Mrs. Johnston and myself to spend the week-end of November 5th with them. This invitation came early in the summer, so it necessitated drawing a red ring around that date so that nothing could interfere with it. So on Saturday morning, November 5th, we two started out for Clemson. We went through Lincolnton, Shelby, and Gaffney and it seemed that the trees had put on their prettiest clothes in celebration of this event. The sun was just bright enough to bring out all of their beauty without any glare.

The Windup of the Football Season

Barium's final game was played Friday, November, 18th. The weather was cold but dry. A fine crowd came out to see it, and while the crowd shivered the teams did some outstanding playing. The game ended in a scoreless tie, but you would not believe it until the final whistle. Barium started early in the game and drove down to the ten-yard line and fumbled. Later on an intercepted pass placed the ball again on the fifteen-yard line. Barium again failed to make good on that chance. Then Statesville threatened. A blocked punt and a couple of first downs and Statesville had the ball first and goal to go on Barium's two-yard line. On the first play Statesville fumbled and Barium recovered in the end zone - a touchback. One time Hillard returning a punt got by every man but one, and he had Hillard by the sleeve of his jersey. They have torn up several jerseys for Hillard this year and the one he had on was new (more's the pity) and it would not tear - - this delayed Hillard until the roof fell on him - - all the other players of the Statesville team arrived in time to pull him down. All of these things made for a very exciting game. The complete scores for all Barium teams are put down below. We wish we had space and time to tell of the doings of the other teams. The B team played its final game on Saturday, November 19th, defeating a team from the Junior Optimists of Charlotte. The score was 36-0, but don't think from that that it was not a good game to watch. Barium started out with their B Team boys and gradually substituted down to where there were a good many 110 pound boys playing.

On Monday, the 14th, the 110 pound team played its final game, defeating a Mooresville team 18-14. The 85-pound team did not play such a big schedule, but they are coming along, and they will be the 100-pound team next year.

The B team will help to strengthen the varsity next year. Only three senior boys will be lost, and one other player who has tarried too long in the high school. You have to finish in four years to play your football in the South Piedmont and Western Conference.

The varsity scores were:

Barium 12, Thomasville 0.
Barium 6, Children's Home 26.
Barium 27, Mooresville 0.
Barium 40, Spencer 6.
Barium 20, Albemarle 12.
Barium 6, Lexington 14.
Barium 6, Davidson B 19.
Barium 0, Salisbury 32.
Barium 0, Statesville 0.

We will not attempt to separate the scores of the 125 and the B teams, because they were practically the same team:

Barium 27, Conover 0.
Barium 26, Mount Airy 0.
Barium 27, O'Donoghue School 6.
Barium 27, Charlotte Day School 0.
Barium 39, Statesville 13.
Barium 31, Newton-Conover 6.
Barium 0, Mount Airy 20.
Barium 36, Charlotte Junior Optimists 0.

Football Banquet Was Enjoyed By Barium Family December 2nd

Barium Springs football banquet was held on the night of December 2nd, and was like Homecoming Day as there were so many of the old-time Barium athletes present. A total of 170 sat down to a supper of regular old country steak and gravy, mashed potatoes, peas, scalloped oysters, topped off with ice cream.

Mr. Archie Calhoun presided as toastmaster and did it most effectively. He did not bring in too many jokes and all of his jokes were in perfectly good taste, not too old and not too new. Every guest had a very intimate tie-up with Barium Springs. They either lived here, worked here, had been to school here, or had done some special thing for us. There were enough boys of the famous 1941 football team to have almost made a team.

The letters were presented to the 90-pound team by Ed Oliver. Ed was famous as a midget and later on as a varsity player and, incidentally, had a big hand in the Barium Alumni victory over Mitchell College on Thanksgiving Day of this year. He is the boy who threw that long pass on the first play from scrimmage that resulted in a touchdown and victory for Barium.

Those receiving letters were: Albert Clough, Boyce Dean Smith, Charles Creech, Ronnie Hudgins, Franklin Lentz, David Morrison, Edsel McArthur, Neil Shaw, Bobby McEwen, David Thomas, and Gray Koontz. This team played two games during the year, both with Mount Airy. They won the first game 13-0 and the other was a scoreless tie. This team substituted liberally in the 100-pound team.

Letters to the 100-pound team were presented by LaFayette Donaldson. Donaldson was quite a football player and wrestler in his day, and still plays on the Alumni team every Thanksgiving. Boys receiving these letters were: James Andrews, Leroy Norman, Albert Clough, Donnie Campbell, Edsel McArthur, Wilbert Frazier, Robert Lee Hall, Charles Hall, Calvin Burleson, Donald Moore, Dwight Reid, Ennis Blackburn, Richard Vest, Jimmy Johnson. This team played four games as follows: Barium 13, Mount Airy 14. Barium 34, Mooresville Recreation Center 0. Barium 6, Mount Airy 2. Barium 18, Mooresville Recreation Center 14.

Letters to the Junior Varsity were presented by Reverend Charles Sides, not exactly an athlete, but most interested in athletics. This team, sometimes called the B team is made up mostly of 125-pound boys. The ones receiving letters were: Alfred Williams, Joe Barclay, Billy Black, Henry Troutman, Palmer Wilcox, James Wheeler, Melvin Morrison, Jerry Williams, Carl Spicer, Mack Wicker, Fred

New Heating Unit to Be Installed Here

However good a product may be it will wear out at last. That has happened to one of the boilers of our heating plant. We still have another one which is now carrying the load. It is greatly overloaded and must have help. Our best boiler has been in use over twenty years and has been overloaded most of that time.

After having consulted a competent engineer we are now making plans to purchase and install a two hundred horse power boiler. This has to be done whether we can afford it or not. The cost will be over $20,000.00.

Our steam lines service sixteen buildings and have been in the ground for thirty years. Extensive changes and repairs are needed and will be done next summer if the money can be found. By so doing we can add greatly to the comfort of some of our buildings and also effect considerable saving in our heating operations.

We call this to the attention of our friends at this season when income tax payments are just coming. Any help you can give us on this project will be greatly appreciated.

New Superintendent to Take Over Jan. 15

REV. ALBERT B. McCLURE

For many months now, ever since the resignation of Mr. J. B. Johnston was announced, the name of his successor has been anxiously awaited. As soon as the Regents announced that Rev. Albert Bonner McClure had been elected and had accepted the position as Superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home, general approval and delight was manifested here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home and throughout the Synod. It is universally recognized that Mr. McClure is well fitted by experience, temperament, and gifts to fill this exacting office. Those who know Mr. McClure best feel that a wise selection has been made.

Mr. McClure was born in Toccoa, Georgia, forty four years ago. His father was William McClure and his mother Kate Heidt Bonner. He was married to Miss Mary McGehee of Atlanta, Ga., in 1935. The McClures have four children, three girls and one boy.

Mr. McClure graduated at Davidson College in 1931 with the degree of B. C. His theological training was at Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, where he received the degree of B. D.

While he has been greatly beloved by all his people where he has served, his ministry has been particularly successful with young people. For three years he was Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Davidson College, giving all his time to the spiritual needs of

The Message of the Month

By REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

HOW DOES GOD SPEAK TO ME?

Does He speak to me at all? I know that not a day passes but that I speak to God. It is not always a formal prayer as in our Sunday services. Sometimes it is not even expressed, only an inner whisper of thanksgiving for some blessing. Sometimes a quick "God help me" in an hour of stress or a moment of temptation to be or to do less than God would wish. Yet each day I believe we do talk to God, often perhaps without realizing that that is what we are doing. And there are those special moments in the day that we pause for a word with God, sometimes at the beginning, sometimes at the close of the day.

But does God speak to me? Does it seem oftentimes that talking with God is a one-way conversation? Do we face a serious decision and ask God the way? Do we strain and listen and sometimes wonder if God is making any answer at all? Perhaps we do, and then in some sudden awareness of God's presence, we are startled that we could ever have thought God far away. Trouble had come upon us - a great sorrow, a terrible disappointment. We have felt that the waves of despair would cover us. And then we have whispered "God help me" and a marvelous peace and calm have come flooding over our souls. Maybe we did not hear God speak, maybe we could not make out any words and say, "That was God who spoke." Yet we know it was God, and we know that God is ever near.

Still sometimes we are dissatisfied. We want to hear a voice thunder out from heaven that we cannot doubt that God is speaking. We read often in our Bibles how God spoke to men. They heard His voice clear and plain. There could be no doubt. Abraham was a very ordinary sort of man until that day that he heard God say, "Get thee out of thy country . . . unto a land that I will show thee." It was God who said those words and they remade the life of Abraham. It was that same God who one night appeared unto Isaac with the words, "Fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee."

Jacob slept with rocks as his pillow one strange night as in a dream God stood at the top of a great ladder leading into heaven and said in unmistakable tones, "I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac." It was also in a dream that Joseph found God directing his way and his destiny.

Moses paused in awe and trembling before a strange little bush that burned and burned and yet would not be burned up. Until he heard God speak from that burning

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Christmas is one of the most enjoyable seasons of the year here at Barium. One of the things that we, here at Annie Louise Cottage, look forward to is going to Davidson College. The boys down there always treat us like little sisters, and it seems to us that they really go out of their way to show us such a wonderful time each year. For many of us, this will be our first trip, however, you can be sure that we will have a very nice time, and feel right at "home."

Many of us spent hours trying to make our "Santa Claus letters" readable. But in case some of our letters are not readable we are sure that you will understand. The first graders especially had a tough time, since very few of them know how to spell their name, much less write it.

The weather here at Barium hasn't as yet showed many signs of snow. Nevertheless, we have high hopes that it will be a "White Christmas." By the way, if any of you see Santa before Christmas please tell him not to get up in the North Pole and get snowed under before Christmas. If such a thing did happen, we are sure that his little "helpers" will take over, and we won't be disappointed.

All this talk about Christmas and not a thing about Thanksgiving! There are so many things a child here at Barium has to be thankful for. For instance, our friends in Belmont never fail to send us something to always make Thanksgiving one of pleasure. This year they sent us a big box of candy and chewing gum. Thanks so very much for it and you just can't imagine how good it is. Also we would like to thank the nice and generous people who sent us some nuts. Everyone at our cottage loves nuts, so our friends can be sure that we deeply appreciated them.

Carol Moore, one of our little girls will soon have a birthday. Her father came recently and left money enough for an ice cream treat to celebrate the occasion. Mr. Moore has two little girls at our cottage. And everytime one of them has a birthday, he leaves money for the whole cottage to celebrate. Mmmm we surely wish birthdays came more often.

Many of our friends and relations have been to see us during the month of November and December. We are always glad to have them, and wish they could stay and visit longer.

Some of our Durham friends came on Thanksgiving day, and brought the Orphanage sixty-nine cakes. The church that they came from was the church that Clara, one of our big sisters goes to when she is home visiting her mother. Recently Clara and Bonnie went on a week-end and talked to her church about Barium. The girls must have done a good job judging from the cakes that came. We would surely like to thank them for sending the cakes and let us

Trophy Presented to Mr. Jos. B. Johnston

We the members of the 1949 football team would like to present Mr. Johnston with this trophy for his outstanding leadership in sports, not only here at Barium, but all over the state of North Carolina. In presenting this trophy to Mr. Johnston we know that it can not express our full appreciation for his outstanding leadership and active-ness in our sports program here at Barium, but we would like for this to be a small token of our appreciation. With this trophy goes the love and admiration of the members of the entire football squad.

THE ROPE OF LOVE

The Indian language is not easily subject to translation, but the following, appearing in the Missionary Review of the World, is the Indian version of the 23rd Psalm. See how human the old Psalm becomes.

The Great Father above is a Shepherd Chief, and I am His, and with Him I want not. He throws out to me a rope, and the name of the rope is Love. He draws me, and He draws me, and He draws me to where the grass is green, and the water is not dangerous, and I eat and lie down satisfied.

Sometimes my heart is very weak, and falls down, but He lifts it up again, and draws me into a good road. His name is wonderful. Sometimes it may be very soon, it may be longer, it may be a long, long time, He will draw me into a place between mountains. It is dark there, but I will not draw back; I will not be afraid, for it is in there between those mountains that the Shepherd Chief will meet me, and the hunger I have felt in my heart all through this life will be satisfied. Sometimes He makes the Love rope a whip, but afterwards He gives me a staff that I may lean on.

He spreads a table before me with all kinds of food. He puts His hand upon my head, and all "tired" is gone. My cup he fills it till it runs over.

What I will tell you is true, I lie not. These roads that are away ahead will stay with me through this life; and afterward I will go to live in the Big Teepee, and sit down with the Shepherd Chief forever. — Along The Way.

Mitchell has been away from us for several weeks. We are all looking forward to having her back with us again. Helen Morgan, our big girl, is dining room matron while she is away.

Well so long until next time and Merry Christmas. — Shirley Ann Cannon

New Superintendent

(Continued From Page One) young men of that institution. Since 1937 he has served pastorates at the First Presbyterian Church of Lincolnton and the Waldensian Presbyterian Church, Valdesa, N. C.

Mr. McClure has been active in conferences for young people held by the Synod and Presbytery and has held official connection with them for several years.

The Community at Barium Springs is eagerly awaiting the coming of the McClures the middle of January and will gladly welcome them.

Football Banquet was

This team played eight games as follows: Barium 27, Conover 0; Barium 27, O'Donoghue 6; Barium 39, Statesville 13; Barium 26, Mt. Airy 0; Barium 0, Mt. Airy 20; Barium 27, Charlotte Day School 0; Barium 31, Newton-Conover 6; Barium 36, Charlotte Optimists Junior 0.

The varsity letters were presented by Mr. J. B. Johnston and those receiving the letters are as follows: Bobby Whiting, Charles Stevens, Johnny Hudgins, Mason Traywick, Jerry Terry, Terrell Hall, Jimmy Williams, Mack Berryhill, Cecil Burleson, Paul Dellinger, Paul Barnes, Norvin Hillard, Buddy Maples, John Bullard, Donald Mitchell, Ray Clark.

One of the interesting things in connection with the awarding of letters to the varsity is the announcement of the various honors. These are by vote of the players on the team. Those elected this year are: Captain, Paul Barnes; Best Blocker, Terrell Hall; Best Tackler, Mason Traywick; Most Valuable, Norvin Hillard. The record for the varsity is games won 6. Lost 3. Tied 1.

At the conclusion of the banquet the football team gathered around the head table and presented a trophy to the retiring superintendent. This trophy is a beautiful thing. The presentation speech was made by Mason Traywick and the acceptance speech, of course, by Mr. J. B. Johnston. This was a complete surprise and his remarks were "from the top of his mind but from the bottom of his heart." One of the remarks made during the presentation of the letters was that the reason Mr. Johnston had remained at Barium so many years was that he would see a little boy on the 85-pound team showing so much talent that he could not make up his mind to leave Barium until he saw that boy playing on the varsity, and the process is still going on.

Cottage News

we are planning to go next week. It will be lots of fun and we hope to see Santa.

Three of us boys and four of our girls made a trip all the way down to Mooresville to a Circle meeting in November. We really did enjoy being there. And thanks a lot for the fruit and scissors you gave the girls and we have just cut dolls, houses and everything imageable. You should come up and see us sometime.

The Monday before Thanksgiving three boys and five girls made a trip all the way to Salisbury. We all sang songs and Pat Ross and Margaret Ramsey recited thirty questions of the Catechism and little Peggy Hinnant gave us a song about a wren.

Our Christmas party will beat them all given by the little girls December 14. Miss Richard was successful in planning a little program last year so she thought she would give another try this year. We little girls are so thrilled that we can't wait for our own party because we invited thirty five guests.

We are all waiting for that big morning December 25. We wish you could come to both parties but since you can't all come we wish you a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

— From Your Babies

RUMPLE HALL

Greetings Folks,

Christmas is almost here and we can hardly wait until that day.

The weather is getting colder and we are all hoping for a white Christmas. We are going to Davidson Friday night and the boys there are going to give us a party. We are all excited about it and are very grateful to the Davidson boys for inviting us again this year. We always have such a wonderful time there.

We are going to have our gift tree in the dining room on the night of the 21st, then we are going to the church to see a Christmas program entitled "The Shepherds Story". Christmas presents are coming in every day now. We get out of school Friday week for our Christmas holidays.

We all got new dresses from the sewing room and they are very pretty. We can hardly wait to wear them.

Basketball season has started and we have played three games so far. After the holidays some of us hope to be on the Junior team.

Due to illness at home, our regular dining room matron, Mrs.

THE LURE OF THE UNKNOWN

"Not as though I had already attained . . ." Philippians 3:12.

I would like to be an explorer. So would you. So would we all. For there is a great deal of curiosity in each one of us. We want to know what lies outside our experience, we want to know what fascinating thing may be down the road a piece, in the next county, the next state. And while we may like it well enough where we are, still we wonder what it is like elsewhere.

For that is the lure of the unknown. And as long as we live, I suppose that we shall be just like that, wondering about the things we've never seen, wondering of the people we've never met, wondering about the experiences we have never known. For the unknown is thrilling and endlessly fascinating to us all.

It was in part at least the lure of the unknown that sent Columbus out across thousands of miles of uncharted seas toward the new world that they did not know existed. And yet they went, braving storms and winds, in ships so small and unseaworthy that we today would hardly want to venture out into a lake in such ships. And for them perhaps the thrill of discovery, of seeing new places and new people far outweighed the danger. It is such a spirit that has always pushed on the explorer, Magellan, Cortes, Ponce de Leon, Cabot, Peary, Amundsen, Byrd, and a host of others.

It is that same lure of the unknown that has prompted the discovery of countless new drugs to overcome sickness, that has led men to the invention of all the amazing machines that improve and often threaten the world. The development of new more powerful telescopes has pushed back millions and millions of miles into the heavens the limit of what man has seen. And the lure of the unknown has brought discoveries of atoms and electrons, the smallest things known to man.

And in all this exploration the things that are unknown seem more and more limited. Of course it would be foolish to say that in a few years all the unknown will be explored, but we can't help wondering if we aren't approaching the limit of our minds. But in it all, there is still a great unknown we have never explored. It is time, tomorrow, and all the tomorrows that remain as ever. We have the past, we have the present, but tomorrow is ever stretching out before us in the compelling lure of the unknown.

So let us think of tomorrow for awhile, the New Year, all the days and years that stretch out before us. Some of us have stood beside the shores of the Catawba River out at camp and watched that river flow on under the bridge and out of sight. Perhaps as we watch it we think of where it is going, past Long Island, to the south under the bridge at Mt. Holly, on into South Carolina, past Lancaster and Great Falls, beyond Camden into Lake Marion and Lake Moultrie, on through the Swamps past historic Charleston and at last by Ft. Sumter and on into the Atlantic Ocean. Yes, we stop and think of where it goes, but the river never stops its headlong rush to the sea. And so we think for a little while now about time, about the future, but the river of our lives rushes on. On past yesterday, with its joys and sorrows, on past today with its opportunities, on into the unknown tomorrow and the New Year.

But what of this unknown, this thing called time that lies before us? For the young the river of life seems to flow so slowly as we reach out toward every new day. For those who are older it seems to flow more swiftly and sometimes we would wish to hold it back. Yet for us all it has its lure and its thrill and its endless fascination. For one of life's great unknowns is the future.

I. The lure of unknown excitement and adventure may lead to sin.

The Last Fifty

By
JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Several years ago I wrote a book and called it "The First Twenty." It was an account of the first twenty years of athletics at Barium Springs. This article which I am writing today is an account of the unusual things that have taken place during the last fifty days of my stay here as superintendent of the Orphanage at Barium Springs.

This fifty days embraces a period of time that is full of many pleasant things that are on the regular schedule of events: the football banquet where we get together and gloat over our victories, excuse our defeats, and brag on each other and just have a genuine good time. That is always a highlight in the year's schedule of events. Then there is the Davidson party where so many of our young people go and have the time of their lives. Then there is the "Give To" Christmas Tree that somehow just puts us in the right spirit for Christmas. Then there is the party that Mr. Bob Stowe throws every year for more and more of the Children at Barium. And then there are the numberless events of Christmas week to recount all of which would mean that this article would have to be broken down into individual experiences. There is the spending of Mr. Johnston Irwin's gift which he always sends for the newest newcomers at Barium. Then there is the health clinic that always takes place the first week in January.

Now, you would not ordinarily think that a health clinic would be a social event, and yet it is with us. The children are always so delighted to come back and to see how they check up; the doctors get a great deal of pleasure out of seeing the growth and development of the children whom they recognize from year to year, and the members of the staff at Barium are always interested in seeing the result of their efforts toward better health for the big family.

The things I want to write about today, however, are the things that have happened to me and my little whitehaired lady during the last fifty days that we lived in the big house. To begin with back in No-

THANK YOU!

The members of the staff and the children would like to thank each person that had a part in making our Christmas such a happy one. We wish it was possible to thank each one personally and to tell you how very much we appreciated what you did. We do try to acknowledge each package that comes in but often things are mailed from stores or other places and do not have the name of the sender or have no label at all. Many times a number of packages are sent in one large package with only the child's name on it. Many packages are brought here and handled by a number of different people, or taken to the cottage with the child's name and we do not know the individual or organization. Please accept this as a grateful thanks from each of us to each of you.

member the Auxiliary at Barium gave a special party for Mrs. Johnston. It turned out to be a sort of a shower as well as a farewell party, and the gifts they gave to Mrs. Johnston made her feel and look like a bride, and made me resolve that the first trip which we made of any length after my retirement would be a second honeymoon.

The next unusual event happened at the football banquet. Ordinarily, the awards and the trophies go to the players, sometimes to the coach. This time to my amazement and delight the boys presented me with a trophy, claiming that I was a good sportsman and all that. I had never looked on myself as being a good sportsman. I have always gotten such a thrill out of athletic contests, especially those in which Barium participated, that I have sometimes wondered (and I am sure my friends have wondered too) if my helping to build up athletics at Barium was from a purely selfish motive - I just wanted to enjoy it myself. Well, however that may be, one thing is certain - I will enjoy the possession of that trophy and the thought of the kindness of the boys who presented it to me all my days.

The next event was a supper party given to Mrs. Johnston and Television Set Given to Mr. and Mrs. Johnston by Alumni Association

The Barium Alumni Association met at the Barium Springs High School building on December 20th for a picnic supper with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston as honored guests. The purpose of this meeting was to present Mr. Johnston with a television set as a token of appreciation for all he had done for them.

Arthur Roach, president of the Alumni Association, called the meeting to order and asked several people to get chapters organized in their area. Cheek Freeman was asked to organize the Charlotte area and Louise Martin Carson the Winston-Salem area. The meeting was short because a delightful picnic supper was spread on the tables before them and everyone was hungry.

After the meal Arthur Roach called for attention and asked Mr. and Mrs. Johnston to come up before the group. Roach made a short speech thanking Mr. Johnston and his faithful helper, Mrs. Johnston, for all they had done for the alumni, and then the television set was uncovered. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were asked to pose for several pictures and Mr. Johnston made a short speech. He spoke of how he had planned to get a two-bed car and travel, but since he had received a trophy at the football banquet and now the television set, he would have to get a place to sit down and watch them.

There were present thirty-eight alumni with their families, making around sixty present. The alumni present were: Joe B. Gibbs, Ed Flowers, Lafayette Donaldson, Herman Clark, Roscoe Smith, Ralph Spencer, Bobby Spencer, Donny Bolton, Paul Horne, Amos Hardy, Wallace Twombly, Nelson Farmer, Ann Fayssoux Johnston

In Lieu of Music

By
JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Do you remember the kind of weather we had in this part of North Carolina on the night of Sunday, December 18th? Just to refresh your memory, it was a drizzly, foggy, depressing sort of a night, a dangerous night to travel in heavy traffic and the traffic is always heavy on Sunday night.

Well on that day Mrs. Johnston, Brother Elliott and I went to Charlotte. In the morning we enjoyed the services at the Myers Park Presbyterian Church, heard a wonderful sermon by Dr. Jones, spent a delightful afternoon with relatives, and then started in a leisurely way to get to Davidson in time for their Christmas musical program. Those who have heard this program know that it is worth traveling miles to hear. We left Charlotte about 6:30 P. M. We were listening to Christmas music over the car radio and at peace with the world, and then just before we got out of Charlotte our radio stopped working. We did not think too much about it, assuming that there was some trouble at the broadcasting station, but after going a few blocks and passing the old Ford plant, our lights went out and the engine began to miss and then we really became alarmed. There is no filling station along there and with traffic solid both ways it gives a driver a mighty bad feeling to have a skipping engine and no lights.

In our desperation we looked around for a place to head in where we might try to find help. On the left of the road we saw what had been a filling station. There were lights in it but not under the shed. We could dimly make out a car and a man there, so we maneuvered our car around and edged into that place. We found that there were two men working on a car and they very courteously asked us what they could do for us. They said they did not know much about cars, but they would try to find out what the trouble was.

These two men stuck with me and guided me there riding in that unreliable car through the heaviest of the Charlotte traffic.

I think the presence of my two congenial friends whose names I had just learned had a lot to do with the very nominal charge which the garage man made for the repairs.

We went back, filled up with gas and arrived at the home of these two men. It had been three hours exactly from the time that we pulled in there and now we were ready to travel.

While we were doing all this Mrs. Johnston went into the home. She found the wives of the men there - one was visiting the other. There were six children from nine years down, eagerly anticipating Christmas.

If these good men had known that we were from Barium Springs we might have called it just another evidence of the Barium luck which is another name for the special care that providence seems to have over the people of this place, but these men did not know who we were at first.

In case you want to know, the name of one of the men is Black. He has a wife and four children. He is a sander. The other man's name is Duncan. He has a wife and two children and he is a plumber and we laugh about plumbers charging overtime.

I know whoever they work for get an honest day's job - they are that sort of folks. They live near the foot of the hill just beyond the old Ford plant in what used to be a filling station and they make a mighty good neighborhood of that particular spot.

myself by the Barium boys who are now students at Davidson. They dated us up and an the night selected they took us to the Chat 'n Nibble - a most delightful eating place on the Mocksville road and there entertained us.

We had not had time to get over the thrill of this particular supper when we received another invitation, this time from the Barium Alumni to meet with them in the High School Building for a picnic supper.

Now, just to let you in on a secret, we had never seen a television set - we had stayed away from it, just like we have stayed away from the game of golf, feeling that we could not afford it and that we had best not expose ourselves to the temptation of wanting one.

the thought of the love and kindness of these former boys and girls who are still members of our family.

Finally, there was a big supper in the dining-room in which everybody participated. Nothing extra was prepared in the way of food - it was just a regular supper but present there were all the workers at Barium, no matter where they lived.

After this the colored help took over - some fifteen men and women. They sang two numbers and no choir anywhere could have done better.

After the singing Mr. Arrowood took over and presented me with a bound volume of letters from practically everybody at Barium Springs even down to the little children in the Baby Cottage.

I do not know where we will travel or what we will do or how much baggage we will take along, but that book of letters will go wherever we go.

After the presentation of the book Mr. Sides then took over again and presented us with a traveling bag. He assured us that there was no significance attached to the bag and we are glad that he made that statement because it might appear that with all the fine things said and written about us at this meeting that there was a possibility of our changing our minds and just not leaving at all.

With the bag in our hands we could not very well reverse our position. After this two more selections were sung by the Glee Club and the meeting adjourned, but it did not break up. It seemed that every child and every grown up wanted to have a personal word with us, maybe it was a boy or girl who had been here so long that they did not remember any other home, or maybe it was a lad who had only been here a few weeks - they all seemed eager to let us know that they loved us and hated to see us go.

This article is written the day after this all happened, and we feel now that we could not stand another such fifty days - not that we would not enjoy it, but our emotions might give way. We have not mentioned the daily occurrence of these things - a dinner at the Lowrances, another at the Arrowoods, the special courtesies and attention which we have received at the Infirmary since we have been living there, the eagerness with which we are invited to visit the various cottages, and the pleasure we have gotten from these visits.

This is the last article I will write as editor of The Messenger but I hope to send in articles from time to time telling of our travels and experiences.

We do not know who instigated and arranged these various parties, but whoever it was did a perfect job and it gave Mrs. Johnston and me delightful memories to carry with us always.

Message of the Month

It is a very common feeling that life is quickly passing us by. Often we think that our lives are dull and drab and commonplace. We yearn for adventure, something to quicken our emotions, and cause us to feel that at last we are really living.

One man learned that lesson very young. The life down on the farm was certainly not a very exciting one. There were jobs to do and responsibilities that were the same day after day.

Sometimes as he went about his duties, a traveler would stop for a moment to chat. And as he talked of great cities, and forbidden pleasures, the young man's eyes would glow as he lived in his imagination those experiences.

Let his lesson be our first thought just now. There are things in life better left always to the unknown. And so may we refuse to let the lure of unknown excitement and adventure lead us into sin.

The truth of that was proved vividly back in 1925. A man named Floyd Collins had a very interesting and very dangerous hobby.

Now you and I are exploring, we are exploring a New Year. But we shall make a grave mistake if we enter it alone. There are too many temptations and too many dangers for us to go alone into that unknown.

One of the fascinating things about the unknown and one of its lures is the fact that we can never be sure what we will find. That is especially true of the New Year and all the future.

Whether life brings success or failure, joy or tears, friends or enemies, God's promise stands as the one thing that we may rest on. "Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee nor forsake thee."

The other certainty is you. God created you with an ever lasting soul. And that soul that makes you the person you are is going to live on and on into eternity.

IV. The lure of the unknown shows dissatisfaction with the present.

Does that sound strange? perhaps it does, since a little while ago we said that sometimes we need to learn to be satisfied with what we have. But we are thinking now of the sort of spirit Paul had when he said, "Not as though I had already attained . . ."

I need more of that haste toward being what Christ wants me to be. So do you, so do we all. More of that reaching forth unto a better way of life that Christ promises us.

There was a man once who dreamed that he was in a meeting of evil spirits. Satan was calling for volunteers to go into the world and ruin men's souls.

And I think that Satan and all his evil spirits have long been doing just that. Telling us not to hurry, telling us that there is all the time in the world to give our hearts completely to Jesus Christ.

"Not as though I had already attained . . . but this one thing, do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Reception At The Woman's Building Honoring the New Superintendent and Family

Surely some explanation ought to be given the readers about the picture that has been appearing in the papers and the one that appears in this issue of The Messenger. Well, the Women of the Church are to blame for it. You can always count on them to do the thing up in grand style, and that is what they did here. The Women of the Church thought that the Barium family ought to have an opportunity to meet the McClure family and so they made the arrangements. The living-room of the Woman's Building was decorated almost as if for a wedding reception with candles, flowers, and punch bowls. The ladies were dressed up as pretty as pictures, and then they invited the superintendent and his family in and lined them up. Beginning at 6:30 that Saturday evening the little folk from the Baby Cottage started coming by and the superintendent and his family had the privilege of shaking hands with them. After they were served their refreshments they moved out, making room for another group to come, and so on they came from the Baby Cottage, Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, Lees, Jennie Gilmer, the boys in the Quads and the young women in the Woman's Building. The adults on the campus and the members of the Church in general ended the procession. It was indeed a grand occasion.

Reasons Given For the Recent Mild Weather

Boiler Breakdown And the Weather Man Work Hand In Hand At Barium

You may be wondering why the weather has been so warm for the last few weeks - the explanation can be found down at Barium Springs.

On Sunday afternoon, January 22nd, the supervisor of buildings and grounds discovered that the main boiler in the furnace room was leaking. We went into action to get this repaired. The men came early Monday morning and began their work to rolling tubes in the boiler to get heat right away. This was completed and the water was turned on again about noon on Monday, and then instead of having a slow leak we had a shower bath. The tubes were twenty years old and the rolling made bad matters worse. It meant that a complete set of 86 tubes had to be put in. The small auxiliary furnace is insufficient to carry the load and it is not in good standing with the insurance company, so fast action was necessary to get heat back on the campus before it got too cold.

The next several days were spent trying to locate the 18-foot tubes and have them installed so that we might have hot water for the laundry, for bathing, and for heating purposes. That is all finished now and we are ready to go again, and you may look for cold weather to come just any time now that the Lord has taken care of Barium Springs with this warm spell during the boiler-breakdown.

BABY COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

It has been a long time since we wrote you.

Christmas has come and gone but we are still enjoying all the nice things you all gave us. We think old Santa was the nicest and best he ever has been to us little ones here and we thank everybody that helped him to bring us so many nice things.

Just now we are working on Valentines. Our Kindergarten teacher is teaching us to make them.

Our matrons are busy planning our Rainbow Garden again this year. You should have seen our bulbs that some of you sent us. When they were in bloom they were just gorgeous. We are sorry

Sextette In Lead At Three-Quarter Mark

Our conference basketball schedule has reached the three-quarter mark and our varsity girls are riding high at the head of the league. RUBINOFF GIVES CONCERT AT BARIUM SPRINGS

Sunday, February 5th, was a red-letter day on the campus at Barium Springs for it was on that day that Rubinoff, the world-renowned violinist, came to our campus to give the children a concert. Arriving at four o'clock in the afternoon, he found the church auditorium filled with children and adults to hear him. For nearly forty minutes he thrilled the entire audience with the beauty of his music and with his interesting conversation between the musical numbers. He was at once the great artist and again the warm, lovable personality as he talked to the boys and girls in an informal way from the platform. His words of wisdom and counsel concerning the necessity for education and religion on the part of the children and the great advantages that they have here in America certainly turned their thoughts to seriousness. The melodies from the Stradivarius, about which he told us, thrilled our hearts as we saw what one man could do through the inspiration given him, plus long years of practice and hard work.

This grand occasion was made possible by our friends in Statesville. Mr. James Meacham had called to ask if we would like to have the concert and Mr. Hugh Mitchell and Mr. L. Gordon came with Mr. Rubinoff to the campus, so we are indebted to these our friends, the Lions Club of Statesville, and to Mr. Dave Rubinoff for a beautiful and lovely concert afforded the children here.

After the concert was over the photographer was making a few shots as Mr. Rubinoff came out of the church and there was a mad scramble on the part of all standing nearby to get in the picture.

Newcomers At Barium

Since the last issue of The Messenger we have had three persons to arrive at Barium to take up residence with us - two boys and one girl. Joey Vecchio and Randy Shaw came to us from Fayetteville and Virginia LaFon came from Laurel Fork in John Luke's territory. Joey is four years old and lives at the Baby Cottage while Randy is nine years old and lives in Lees Cottage. Virginia is ten years old, is in the fifth grade, and lives in Howard Cottage.

These three new members of our family are very much at home and we feel like they have been here all the time.

Alumni News

A number of Alumni have been at Barium recently, among them were J. D. Everett, student at State College, Sadie Buie, student at Queens College, Dewie Buie and Mildred Monroe, students at Flora Macdonald College, Herbert Good and Jerry Young, students at A. S. T. C., Boone.

Betty Lou Hooten and Roland Hooten from Alameda, California made a short visit to Barium. Toni DeLancey and George Landrum came the same time. When Betty Lou and Roland returned, Toni went back to California with them where she has taken a job.

Mrs. Thrower, (Ida Bailey) of Robbins, N. C. made a short visit to Barium.

Illness Fatal To Mrs. John Mack Walker

Was Former Member of the Board of Regents of Presbyterian Orphans' Home

Mrs. John Mack Walker, Sr., wife of Dr. J. M. Walker, the former pastor of Steele Creek Presbyterian Church, was stricken in her home at Montreat on Tuesday, February 7th. Suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage she was removed from her home to the hospital in Asheville where she died on Wednesday night at 10:30. The funeral service was conducted in Watts Chapel on the Union Theological Seminary campus in Richmond and the body was laid to rest in the family plot in Richmond.

Mrs. Walker, a daughter of the manse, was born in York, South Carolina, while her father, Reverend T. R. English, was pastor of the church there. Her whole life was to be spent in the same environment for she married a minister and spent long years of service in the manse as a daughter and as a wife and mother.

Upon Dr. Walker's retirement from the pastorate they moved to Montreat and have been living there until the time of her death. Mrs. Walker was for 8 years a member of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs, serving as chairman of the case work committee, doing a most effective

Father-Son Banquet Held At Barium

Charles W. Brown, Head of Charlotte Office of the FBI Was Principal Speaker

One of the big events of the year is the Father-Son banquet held here in the dining room and sponsored by the Boy Scout organization of Statesville. This banquet was held this year on February 2nd.

Area chairman, John Donnelly, set up the banquet and presided at the meeting.

The banquet was served by the kitchen staff and the dining room girls.

Appropriate to "groundhog day" the meat was sausage, flanked by grits and gravy, green beans, candied yams, cole slaw, rolls, ice cream and cake, with milk and coffee to wash it down.

The Barium Springs Glee Club under the capable direction of Mrs. Lee Spencer accompanied by Miss Mary Ann Schepman sang, "My Grandfather's Clock" and "Why Do I Love You".

Raymond Horne, a student at Mitchell College, delighted all with ten minutes of magic.

Other interesting items on the program were "What is a Boy" by Bill Long, "Scout Law" by Bill Walker, "What Scouting has meant to me as a Boy" Jimmy Moore and the reading of the poem, "The

MESSAGE OF THE MONTH
BY REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

GOD'S ANSWER FOR EXCUSES

"And Moses said unto God, Who am I that I should go . . . ? And He said, Certainly I shall be with thee . . ."

The life of a shepherd might seem exciting. The constant adventure of exploring new scenes and new places as he leads his flock to find water and pasture. The ever-present danger of wild animals lurking near by, watching, waiting with endless patience for one of the flock to wander away from the safety of the shepherd's care.

But not this shepherd this man called Moses - this roughly dressed, weather-beaten man, already with the lines of age and outdoor life seaming his face. Not adventure, but the monotonous sameness of day after day leading the flock alone. No one to talk to, no one to see, just the sheep and goats for company.

Across the dry dusty wastes of the deserts he came, silently, except for the occasional bleating of the sheep or the harsher cry of the goats. At last the desert with its clumps of prickly shrubs was behind. He began to climb, as a mountain range loomed up ahead. At least the monotony of the desert was past, now as he climbed, he could look back toward the burning haze where he had been, and ahead to the lofty peaks tumbling upon each other.

And now he could rest, his body perhaps, but not his mind. For perhaps he was thinking of the years gone by, for the past had been thrilling and romantic. Maybe he was thinking of coming forty years before as a fugitive fleeing out of Egypt. And he thought of the palace, and his life there, and the brilliant prospects he had. But all that had seemingly been thrown away; his education, his own natural gifts were buried in the monotonous existence of a shepherd.

But as he sat there, his head bowed in thought, suddenly out of the corner of his eye he saw a fire flame up. He turned and looked at a bush that had without any apparent reason begun to burn brightly. "But then," he thought, "strange things happen sometime in the empty wilderness." But as he looked, expecting the fire to burn out in a moment, the bush burned on and on. Curiosity overcame him, he must see the reason why this bush could burn with a searing flame and yet never burn up. And the voice of God cried out his name, "Moses, Moses." Fearfully, trembling, Moses heard that voice saying, "I will send thee that thou mayest bring forth my people out of Egypt." A clear unmistakable call from God, a task to do, a service to perform.

Now you and I expect no strange and compelling call. But if we are honest with ourselves, we may expect that perhaps today or tomorrow or in the coming years we too shall know without any doubt that God asks us for service. It may be that for some of us God will ask that we devote all our time to him, for others that God will require part time work in the church and Sunday School, for all He will ask and expect love and loyalty to Him in every thing that we do. Usually we will begin to make excuses as Moses did, but let us see just how God answers our excuses.

I. Inferiority

God's words were hardly spoken before Moses blurted out his first excuse. "Why, who am I that I should go?" And no doubt he was thinking, "I'm just a shepherd, I've been buried here out of touch with the world for forty years, I'm not qualified for this great task. Long ago I tried to do something for my people and had to flee as a criminal and a fugitive. Why, who am I to try again? I simply can't do it." But then very simply, God gave the answer to this objection, the only answer really, as he said, "Certainly I shall be with thee." Even today when God calls us, something like this comes to our minds, the feeling that we are inferior, that we are not able to do the noble work of God. In a way I suppose we should feel that. Certainly we should be humble and know our limitations. But to us God makes that same answer - No, you can't go alone, by yourself you would not be able to do the things I ask, but remember, "I shall be with you."

II. Ignorance

Moses realized that in God's eyes his first excuse was a weak and paltry thing. But he continued, "When I say unto the people that the God of your fathers hath sent me, they shall say, 'What is his name, and what shall I say unto them?' And he was thinking that as far as he knew the people might in forty years have drifted far away from God. How would he be able to convince them of God's nature. And God answered, "Say unto them that I AM hath sent you." Say that the God who is eternal, the never changing God, the God of every need and problem, the personal God has sent you.

The excuse of ignorance is not a good excuse. Not for Moses, not for you and me. For that same living and loving God has shown himself to us in Jesus Christ His only Son. Do you wonder whether you know enough about God to tell someone else of Him? You know that God loves you, that God has sent His Son to die for you, that through faith in Him you shall live and never die. Do you know that? Then you know the important thing, and with God's help and your efforts, you shall come to know Him better. For God never calls those who think they have nothing more to learn. He calls those who want to learn more of Him.

III. Impossibility

Well, Moses' first two excuses had not worked. So he decided to change his tactics a bit. Instead of talking about himself, he would talk about the people to whom he was to go. "Behold, they will not believe me," he cried out. And now he seemed to be thinking not so much about the cruel tyrant Pharaoh as he was about the people. You see he knew those people, and he had reason to believe that they would be hard to convince. After all he remembered their angry question, forty years before, "Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?" No, the people would not be easy to make believe. But God was ready as ever to overcome that doubt, as he provided Moses with the magic rod that could become a serpent. Certainly this should prove that he was no ordinary man.

Now we aren't given any magical powers in these days to prove that God is behind us, but we are supplied with the power of God to convince people. The excuse is still being made - these are ungodly times, peoples' hearts are hardened, it is impossible to show them the truth of God. Don't let those excuses impair your witness for Him. Remember and rely upon God's presence and power. Certainly we need more of the spirit of the Korean Christian who was asked concerning his church work, 'Can you do it?' about men's work, but not about God's work."

IV. Inability

Moses, seeing that his excuses were getting him nowhere, put forth what he thought was the clincher. "I am not eloquent," he said, "for I am slow of speech and of a slow tongue." And yet there was probably more to it than just an excuse. Moses had lived in the palace, he had gone in and out of the king's courts. He knew how necessary it was to speak quickly and well in those surroundings. He knew too that this work that God would have him to do would lead him inevitably to that court. God understood that too, but he also had the answer. It was simply for Aaron, Moses brother, to go with him and speak for him.

How often is that same excuse used to avoid service of God today. But remember this, there are places to fill that do not require a glib tongue, and ways and ways to show God's love for all people. You can witness for him in whatever you do, and a life of love and service of God is far more important than the most eloquent sermon that was ever preached.

V. Indifference

The last excuse of Moses could hardly be called an excuse. In fact there is some doubt as to what he meant. For he said, "O Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt send." He must have meant, send whomever thou wilt. Since you are determined to send me, even if I would rather not do it, and don't feel able to do it, then I will go if I must. There certainly isn't much enthusiasm in that! But he may well have meant something else. You remember that Isaiah said, "Here am I, send me." Moses may have been meaning to say, "Here am I, send somebody else." Whatever he meant, it was an answer of indifference, and God was angered by it and urged him again to accept the challenge.

I am afraid that God is sometimes angered by our indifference. We know these excuses well, we use most of them from time to time. We see work in the church that needs to be done and must be done, and we say, "I'll do it if no one else will, but if you possibly can, God send someone else." May God forgive us that our own indifference often far exceeds that of Moses.

The story of the shepherd who did not want to serve does not end in indifference but it is a very human one. A story that need not have happened thousands of years ago and far across the world. For it can and often does happen here and now. There is the lesson to be learned that excuses in that day or this are not of value in the sight of God. But the truth of most value is that Moses at last went bravely forward to the work with the glad assurance that God went with him.

He undertook that work slowly and almost unwillingly. But he never turned back, for he was a man chosen of God, and he knew it. And God never failed him; He was always adequate in every need. There were difficulties, but there was also God to guide and help.

You will not remember these excuses - inferiority, ignorance, impossibility, inability, indifference. I do not expect that you will remember the story of Moses, and his God who would not accept excuses. For his God is your God. He calls and will call on you each one for service. Accept it willingly and gladly, rest on God through His Son, your Saviour. May your prayer and mine be: "May thy rich grace impart strength to my fainting heart, my zeal inspire; As thou hast died for me, O may my love to thee, Pure, warm, and changeless be, a living fire."

Illness Fatal To Mrs.

(Continued From Page One) piece of work for the church through her services to the Home. Working together with the case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, many long days and nights were spent in services of the children of the Home. Perhaps no other person who has been a member of the Board of Regents has done any more distinguished work than did Mrs. Walker.

For six decades this lovely lady of the manse lived and served her God and has now gone to be with Him and to receive her reward. All the family at Barium Springs express thanksgiving to God for the beauty and nobility of her life and pray that someone will be raised up to carry on her noble work here in this world.

Leadership

In every field of human endeavor, he that is first must perpetually live in the white light of publicity. Whether the leadership be vested in a man or in a manufactured product, emulation and envy are at work.

In art, in literature, in music, in industry, the reward and the punishment are always the same. The reward is widespread recognition; the punishment, fierce denial and detraction. When a man's work becomes a standard for the whole world, it also becomes a target for the shafts of the envious few. If his work be merely mediocre, he will be left severely alone—if he achieve a masterpiece, it will set a million tongues awagging.

Whatever you write, or paint, or play, or sing, or build, no one will strive to surpass or slander you, unless your work be stamped with the seal of genius. Long, long after a great work or a good work has been done, those who are disappointed or envious continue to cry out that it cannot be done. Spiteful little voices in the domain of art were raised against our own Whistler as a mountebank, long after the big world had acclaimed him its greatest artistic genius.

Multitudes flocked to Bayreuth to worship at the musical shrine of Wagner, while the little group of those whom he had dethroned and displaced argued angrily that he was no musician at all. The little world continued to protest that Fulton could never build a steamboat, while the big world flocked to the river banks to see his boat steam by.

There is nothing new in this. It is as old as the world and as old as the human passions—envy, fear, greed, ambition, and the desire to surpass. And it all avails nothing. If the leader truly leads, he remains the leader. Master-poet, master-painter, master-workman, each in his turn is assailed, and each holds his laurels through the ages. That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial. That which deserved to live—lives. —The Baptist Program.

Never before has the American dollar had such good-byeing power.

One man in a thousand is a leader of men; the others follow women.

When money talks, nobody pays much attention to the grammar.

First The Beam

This is a true story: At a Washington, D. C., parent-teacher association meeting, there was a discussion of the character education experiment which is being carried out in the schools of the nation's capital. A father from one of the Government offices spoke against the plan thus: "What they need to do is teach the children common honesty. I bring home pencils from the office for the children to take to school. I don't care, because the pencils don't cost me anything, but my boy no sooner lays a pencil on the desk until someone comes along and steals it from him. Just let the schools teach common honesty and we won't need character education." —Journal of Education.

A lad from Brooklyn turned up in a mess line in a Texas camp holding the rattles from a rattle snake.

"Where'd you get 'em?" a K. P. asked.

"Off a big woin," answered the big city soldier.

First Little Girl: "Has your sister begun takin' music lessons yet?"

Second Little Girl: "She's takin' something on the piano, but I can't tell yet whether it's music or typewritin'."

A small boy sat in the gallery and watched the preacher read a carefully written sermon. One page after another was laid aside until 30 or 40 of them had been piled up to the left. The youngster had watched the pile to the right decrease.

When, therefore, the last leaf was carefully laid to the left, the minister lifted his face and said, "And so my brethren, on this wonderful theme I could go on and on and on."

It was too much for the impatient little boy, and so he shouted, "No, you couldn't. You are out of stuff and you know it."

"You say you have no distant relatives?"

"Well, not right now. They are all living with us."

Barium victory. The Barium boys pulled up their percentage to .500 with a 46-35 win over North Wilkesboro on February 13th. Our boys' team is a new bunch this year, since most of last year's team was lost by graduation. Our boys' team is playing good ball now, and with a reasonable amount of luck should end the season with a .500 average. The Barium boys pulled one of the biggest upsets of the season by defeating the high-powered Thomasville team by the score of 60-52. It was one of those nights when every attempt we made for the basket seemed to find the mark. It will be remembered as one of the highlights of the season for the boys' team.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi There, Since you last heard from us we've got a new superintendent he is very nice and we like him very much. He has four children and we enjoy playing with them. The oldest girl is in the seventh grade, we sure enjoy her being in the grade with us. The baby is very cute and she is 21 months old.

We had a wedding up here last Saturday, Helen Vinson and Rosco Smith, it sure was beautiful. They went on their honeymoon right after the wedding and are coming back this Saturday.

We have had a nice Valentin today. We had a party in school and we sure do thank Miss Stevenso for it. The babies made some cut little Valentines in kindergarten they wanted them to go on the tables in the dining room. Ever one sure enjoyed them.

The last picture show we saw was "Ride Them Cowboy" and we hope to go again soon.

The varsity basketball tournament starts today and will last through Monday. We played Lexington last night and our girls won and our boys lost.

We got our report cards about two weeks ago. We had about 5 to make the honor roll. So long until next month. —Shirley Ann Cannon (Continued On Page Three)

LEES

Hi Folks,
Here we are with the news again. Three boys over at Lees recited the Child's Catechism. They are Walter Plyler, Lawton Rice and Sydney Morrison. Miss Ford went off and Ray Clark stayed with us for a week-end. Ray played with us a lot.

A lot of the boys got Valentines from their mothers. We went to a lot of basketball games. We are going to play Lexington Tuesday.

Lawton Rice is back from the hospital and feeling fine. He had an operation.

I guess it is time to close now. See you all next time. By now.

SYNODS

Hello Friends,
You didn't hear from us last month but that won't happen again.

With Valentine Day coming Tuesday we are very busy with bits of paper, lace, hearts, etc. Mr. Ralph Spencer, our Sunday School teacher, had a party for us with all the trimmings. We had a wonderful time.

Last Sunday the famous violinist, Dave Rubinoff, came down and played for us. It was different from anything we had ever heard before. He told us the story of the music and we appreciated it much more than that way.

We have been to the movies several times this month. After seeing Sands of Iwo Jima, most of us plan to be marines.

Helen Vinson, who used to live in our house and be our substitute matron, was married last Saturday night to Roscoe Smith.

Mrs. Hough has gone to Myrtle Beach this week-end and Miss Taylor is our matron.

You'll be hearing from us again next month.

HOWARD

Hi Folks,
We haven't written the cottage news since Christmas, so its time we caught up.

We received many nice gifts for Christmas. Circle Number 5 from Mooresville gave us a Philco radio and record player combination. We love to listen to "Lets Pretend" on Saturdays and some other programs.

Circle Number 2 from Morganton gave us $5.00 to buy records and we have just about everything we want now.

The Women of the Church at West End gave each of us $1.00. With that money added to what we already had, it made just enough for Marie McNeill, Bernice Kuykendall, Virginia Baucom, and Addie McEwen to buy rain-coats; Alma Wright a pretty green corduroy jacket, and others house-coats, kerchiefs, and other things we wanted.

Our friend, Mr. Stowe from Belmont, came up the night before Christmas and brought his movie projector and showed us some Christmas films. Also he brought us skates and lots of toys, fruits, nuts, and candy.

Virginia Lafon of Laurel Springs has come to be with us. She makes us a complete family. She is ten years old and is in the fifth grade. We are very fond of her and hope she likes being with us.

Dave Rudinoff came to Barium Sunday to play his violin. Among the pieces he played were "Clara De Lune," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Peasant Dance," and "Fiddling the Fiddle," a piece he wrote. Besides the songs he told us many interesting things about his life.

Look for us next month.
— The Bean Stringers

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
We didn't get any news about our cottage in the paper last month, but we little girls had a wonderful Christmas and Santa was very good to us.

Recently we have had the pleasure of attending three very good movies, Miss Grant Takes Richmond", "The Challenge to Lassie", and "Holiday Affair". We especially like "The Challenge to Lassie", since all of us like dogs so much.

The basketball games are in full blast now, and though all of us are not interested in basketball at the present, we older ones get a big kick out of watching the games. We always look forward to the Statesville games, because our matron is from Statesville and having two big sisters who are also very interested in basketball, she really gets "kided" about who she is going to yell for. What a house we do live in when Barium gets beat! We can hardly step our foot in the house when Barium does get beat.

Two of our little girls at our house had the chicken pox. They had "specks" all over them; but they have recovered now, and are as healthy as they ever were.

It has been said that the robin is the first sign of spring. Here at Barium we have had very little cold weather; and the flowers are coming out all over the campus. We have been down in the woods a number of times this month to plant flowers so that the play woods will look as pretty as the rest of the campus.

Our report cards have come out for the third time this year, and five of our little girls made the honor roll. We surely are happy because they made it, but we hope a lot more of us will get on next month.

It's very hard to tell exactly what children are thinking about. However, the other day one of our big sisters had an interesting experience with little Virginia Dare Lane. At lunch Virginia and Clara were talking, and Virginia said; "Clara, did you like what you got for Christmas?" Before Clara could answer, Virginia began naming out all the things she had received for Christmas. Before Clara could hardly catch her breath, Virginia asked, "Clara, do you have any money to take to camp? I do, I have five pennies!" All of us who were at the table began laughing, but little Virginia turned "red," and laughed too. Here is hoping she will slow down until we catch up.

A lot of our friends have been to see us, and we are always glad to see them.

We surely hope you all will be with us again next month. Until then.

Father - Son Banquet

Scoutmaster" - Edgar Guest, read by Dr. Wallace S. Hoffman.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Charles W. Brown, head of the Charlotte office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

After praising the Boy Scout movement and putting it along with the Sunday School as a prevention of crime and juvenile delinquency, Mr. Brown told the boys something about finger printing, saying that there were 113,000,000 sets on file in Washington, divided into the Civil Identification File and the Criminal File of which there was from eight to nine million.

The boys were also thrilled with Mr. Brown's account of the numerous bank robberies which occurred soon after he took charge of the Charlotte office and that all the robbers had been arrested.

The question in the minds of the boys as to how one got to be a member of the F. B. I. Mr. Brown answered that by saying that a man had to be a college graduate with a degree in law or accounting. He has to be a member of the bar or a certified public accountant. After examination and investigation he receives further training at Quantico, Va. That after he joins the F. B. I. he is still continually in training.

Plates were set for over three hundred and all enjoyed the fellowship and the inspiring program.

The Background

Mr. and Mrs. Arrowood met the guests at the door and Mr. and Mrs. Sides greeted them as they entered the living-room where Miss Rebekah Carpenter introduced them to the superintendent and he in turn sent them down the line. Mrs. Lowrance and Mrs. Kyles were at the punch table and Miss Mary Ann Schepman was at the piano.

I tell you it is hard to beat these Women of the Church when they get their heads set to do something. Just like those in Valdese who planned a lovely evening for us as we were leaving there, so the women here gave this fine reception for us as we began our life at Barium.

O yes, they arranged further for the photographer to be present and the flashlight bulbs were popping. And then later toward the end of the evening they held kangaroo court, or that which was similar to it. They turned the sofa out from the wall and seated the McClure children on it and placed Mrs. McClure and the old man back of it and gathered around to watch that which was about to happen. Mr. Ralph Spencer, the photographer, got out in front and everybody else at Barium, it seemed to me, gathered around and had suggestions to make about the type of pose to assume and the expression to get on your face. Some wanted a three-quarter grin and some wanted one of full length, others suggested that we use the push-button style. We squinted and twisted and posed and straightened and unstraightened until finally the bulb flashed and the results of this appeared in the papers. We thought you would like a different pose, so that is why we use a different one in this paper.

So that, dear folk and gentle readers, is the background of the picture that has been appearing in other papers, and we are doing as has been the custom since the Garden of Eden, blaming it on the women.

Railroad Station Takes A Trip

A landmark as familiar as the railroad station has been to every one who has been to Barium Springs must not pass without some due recognition. The railroad company no longer has need for a depot or freight station at Barium and they have, therefore, ordered the building be razed. Through the efforts of the former superintendent, Joseph B. Johnston, this building was secured for Barium Springs, but it is necessary to remove it from the railroad property. Within a few weeks the moving crews with their trucks, jacks and rollers will be putting the skids under the railroad station, removing it from its regular site. No longer to stand in the dignified place of a railroad station and serve the public, this building takes up its new service on the campus as an auxiliary building.

No passenger or freight service will be inconvenienced by this removal, for that had long since ceased to be a part of the railroad service to this community. For many years the railroad station has been used as a post office building. Through an agreement with the company the postmaster received and dispatched the mail from there, but now it will be necessary to provide other quarters for the housing of the post office.

Many of the former students at Barium will cherish the fond memories of approaching the campus from the Mooresville direction and seeing always there this little gray building with its funny-shaped roof, noting that Barium Springs was near at hand. In the earlier days it was quite an occasion to see the train come through and stop at the railroad station. As one alumnus of the institution has said, "It used to be the highlight of the day to go down to the depot and see the train come in and leave again." Life in those days was not as rapid as it is now and there were no buses and automobiles to give easy transportation in and out from Barium.

The orders of the railroad company are that the building shall be removed and the grounds shall be made clean and satisfactory to those supervising the moving. And so, for those who come and go through this area, there will be no remains to remind one that once there stood a building which held an important place in the life of

In the dining hall we proudly display the many tokens of our athletic prowess. There, too, hang plaques honoring those who have achieved in other fields of endeavor.

Recently added to this group is - not another trophy, not another plaque, but - the picture of that one to whom must be given much of the credit for any worthwhile achievement of ours, - Mr. Joseph B. Johnston. In this hall he ate with us often, laughed with us, held us spell-bound with interest, or awe, as he talked to us on Sunday mornings.

We don't need a reminder of him, but, especially during these intervals when he is not here in person, it's good to have this speaking likeness.

Barium Girls Win Basketball Crown

On Friday night, March 3rd, the Barium Sextette met the girls team from Albemarle in what was the game of the season, for only that game stood between them and the championship. Albemarle had been beaten only one time and that by the Barium Springs team at Albemarle, and now face to face it was either championship or Co-championship. The teams took the court and went into heavy action immediately. Through the excellent work of the guards the forwards from Albemarle were held to a low score and through the magnificent work of the forwards of Barium the score for the home team was rolled high with Frances Stricklin scoring over 50 points, the final outcome was 76-39 in favor of Barium, and this gave Barium a clean sheet for the season's campaign. They had won 16 straights, losing none.

The competition in the South Piedmont Conference has been strong, and the following schedule with the scores given will show the games played.

Senior Girls Make Sewing Machines Hum

Nothing could be nicer than a pretty new dress unless it is 75 pretty new dresses, and that is just what the senior girls, under the capable direction of Mrs. J. E. Smith and Miss Louise Campbell, have made in the sewing room during the month of February. The little girls' eyes danced with glee as each pointed out her new dress hanging on the wall. The whole wall of the sewing room was a riot of color with the new dresses of yellow, blue, pink, lavender, and green, checks and plaids, stripes and floral designs. These dresses had been made from pique, Indian Head, prints and gaberdines. The question arose as to how they made so many of them so pretty and all so different and how the patterns were chosen. The director of the sewing room explained that when a child needs a dress she comes to the sewing room and takes the catalogs and magazines and looks through them until she finds the particular style that she likes. So for many hours they sit around the table with Siegel's, Sears, McCall's, and Simplicity, studying the different children's clothes until they have decided upon the pattern they want to use. When this pattern has been chosen then the child has a

"Anyies, Backums, and No-fudgin'"

All across the campus can be heard the cries of anyies, backings, vencha roundance, dubs, and thribs.

As the springtime comes, the small boy's mind turns to thoughts of marbles and pockets are bulging and jangling with marbles as the boys go up and down the walks. Dr. Joseph S. Hiatt, superintendent of the Chatham Memorial Hospital in Elkin, has been kind enough year after year to send marbles to the boys. The other day we received a shipment of 2,000. These have been turned over to the children and they are making use of them on the campus. At almost every bare spot there is a circle drawn for the game. The housemothers know very well that the marble season is on because the knees of the pants give evidence of having been used for something other than prayer; and more than that, they give evidence of knees going through. But that is a part of a boy's life, and it makes for a happy life. It is good to have the marbles: it is good to have the boys, and it is good to have them together, so let the marble cries ring out.

CHURCH & CAMPUS

BY REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

Should the reader be somewhat amazed at discovering this title in a column usually reserved for a sermon, his amazement might be justified. So perhaps a word of explanation is due. We have felt that it might be well from time to time in this section of the Messenger to give our readers a little further insight into some of the activities connected with Little Joe's Church.

Instead of the sermon this month we will report to you on the Boy Scout Troop jointly sponsored by the church and the home here. We have a troop now consisting of twenty-four boys varying in ages from eleven to seventeen, and made up of boys from Jennie Gilmer Cottage and the Quads. The weekly troop meeting is held on Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. In that group are boys who have just entered scouting and are trying to pass their Tenderfoot requirements so that they may be full-fledged scouts, and others who are advancing to higher and higher ranks. Two boys, Carl Spicer and Franklin Lentz, are ready to become Star Scouts with only the Life rank then standing between them and the highly-coveted Eagle rank. It has been several years since Barium had an Eagle Scout and we are counting on these boys and others a little behind them to reach that final goal.

There are of course advantages and disadvantages to attempting a scouting program at Barium. The boys are all nearby and there is no problem of transportation to the weekly meetings. But the outsider would hardly realize how fully the time is occupied here, so that the main problem becomes finding a time when the boys and the Scoutmaster can get together for the weekly meetings. And when the Scoutmaster is also the pastor, as is true here, available time for such a meeting is further limited. The summer is vacation time, of course, and participation in Scout Camps is hardly possible. However, with these drawbacks, our Scout Troop remains strong and the boys are giving it a very active interest.

Since the boys often feel, and rightly so, that Scouting should give more outdoor experience, the Scoutmaster suggested recently a track and athletic meet to be held on successive Saturdays. It was eagerly accepted by all the Scouts, and last Saturday the first events were run off. As we have boys ranging in weight from around eighty to one hundred fifty pounds it was decided to divide into two weight groups and give a prize to the winner in each group along with a prize to the winning patrol. Fifteen events were scheduled including broad jump, high jump, dashes, runs, push-ups, baseball and football throws, rope climb, Scout Pace, and others.

The boys under one hundred pounds took part in the running broad jump, the standing broad jump, the running high jump, and the standing high jump last Saturday. Now the winning records won't push any world records, of course, but for boys around five feet tall or under they were very good. Marvin Garriss almost sprouted wings to jump twelve feet and six inches to win that event by almost two feet over his nearest competitor. The other three events were won by David Thomas as he proved himself a good little track performer in the standing broad jump, the running high jump, and the standing high jump. You just should have seen the competition in the high jump. Form didn't enter in too much as the boys used every style to get over that cross bar. And Johnny Collins thrilled the crowd every time diving over the bar and landing, it looked like, on the point of his chin.

It will take several more Saturdays to complete this meet for both weight groups and perhaps in another Messenger we can report the final results. It has been a number of years since Barium had a track team, but from the looks of some of these boys we could have a team, and a cracking good one, in a few years.

Campus News

WOMANS' BUILDING

We are so excited, we have to tell you the news of our girls winning the South Piedmont Conference first.

Friday night we played our last game and won 76-39. Our eyes and minds are now turned toward the tournament being held at Statesville's new gym. "Here's wishing you the best of luck, Big Teams."

We hear Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are going to be here during the Jr. Tournament starting the fifteenth. We can't wait until the time rolls around to see Pop Johnston again. We are inviting you to come and see him too.

We would like to take this time to thank the Barium Alumni for the grand picture they gave us of Mr. Johnston to put in our dining room, where we may see it every day three times a day. "Thanks again."

Don't think you are coming near a grave yard, when you come near the white posts being put up to keep the cars off the grass, so we can improve the looks of our campus grounds. Lets all help and see what we can do.

We will have to sign off and see you next month at the same time, same station, and also saying you are more than welcome to attend the Jr. Tournament, opening March 15, lasting for one week.

— See you then,
Marie Andrews

LEES

We have been enjoying the basketball games. We have the Junior Tournament next week and we will see some of the games.

Just now we are having fun playing marbles, so if you pass by and see us around a circle that is what we are playing. Ferrell sure can win a lot of your marbles.

Ten of our boys have recited the Childs Catechism and some of the others are trying hard to recite it.

We have been trying to keep the campus clean, the March winds keep the paper flying.

We got our report cards the other day and most of us did better this time.

We have been working in our flowers, we have had flowers blooming all winter. The pansies are blooming now.

We are enjoying the stories in the Christian Observer. One of our friends in Mooresville gave it to us Christmas.

We all like Mr. McClure and his family.

Will let you hear from us next month.

— Lees boys

BABY COTTAGE

Well, Well here comes Baby Cottage, here comes Baby Cottage, right down Baby Cottage lane into the Infirmary with those right mean old things they call old bumps meaning chicken pox, it is chicken pox period, one to three a day going down with them.

All but eleven out of 21 in the Baby Cottage is down there now. What makes it so bad is they had begun taking out tonsils and that will have to stop now.

One little boy made this statement to his house mother when he came back from a check up. She asked him why he did not come back with Miss Carpenter and with a great big sigh said, "Well I had not been doctored enough," so perhaps they will get doctored enough before this plague is over. We hope so.

Well we don't have any news only we all keep busy playing.

We have a new substitute matron, Miss Winnie Furgerson, and we like her so much. Just wish she would stay all the time.

We hope we will get to go to a show next week as we have not been but one time since Christmas.

We sure hope to see Gene Autry if he comes to Statesville. We listen to him over the radio and love to dress up in our suits and play. We would be glad if he would come to see us.

We have had to play indoors so much lately because it has been so cold. We will be glad when summer time comes and our flower garden gets in full bloom. Our Johnquills have been very pretty and our housemothers have bought lots of rose bushes and we hope they will all bloom this year.

We are looking forward to Easter, we have such a big time.

I guess we will have to stop so we'll say so long. We will be seeing you.

— Baby Cottage

QUADS

Basketball season is almost over now. We have only one game to play and then the tournament. We are all hoping to win the tournament. We have our last game with Albemarle here.

Our girls have won all their games, the boys have won 8 and lost 7.

One of our boys had his appendix taken out about a week ago.

Week after next we are going to have a Junior varsity basketball tournament here. We are going to enter a tournament at Statesville next week. Good luck boys and girls.

We have a large portrait of Mr. Johnston in our dining room.

Last Sunday there was a big fire over in the woods, it almost got in our orchard.

The best of luck to all our readers until next time.

— Your ace reporter,
Fairley Morgan

HOWARD

We had fifteen girls to make the honor roll this time. They were Laura Jane Craig, Florrie Garriss, Alma Wright, Evelyn Cox, Marie McNeill, Virginia Baucom, Virginia Lafon, Elizabeth Byrd, Jean Carol Harrison, Bernice Kuykendall, Shelby McEwen, Jewel McFarland, Remona Blake, Sylvia Wells, and Peggy Jean Sellers. We have worked hard the past six weeks and nearly every girl made a better grade than usual.

We went to the picture show and saw "Dear Wife." It sure was good.

Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell are making us some pretty dresses at the sewing room. We are so pleased with them. Some of us are getting new wind breakers for springs.

Look for us next month.

— Howard Cottage Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Although Valentine has come and gone, we here at A. L. C. are sure that "Cupid" is still flying around shooting people with his arrows. We had a wonderful Valentine's day at school as well as here at the cottage.

We would like to thank Mrs. Laura M. Young of High Point, for sending us those lovely cut-out Valentines.

Our report cards have come out once again, and about five or six of our little girls made the honor roll. Continue the good work girls and in the future all of us will be as proud of you then as we are now.

By the way! we have started work on our flower garden, and we surely hope that with all the work that goes into the making of it, we will have some beautiful flowers to show for our hard toil. Cross your fingers for us.

The big senior tournament that goes on up here at Barium is over with and all of us little girls are looking forward to the Junior tournament because we get to go to some of the afternoon games. Our two big sisters worked over at the tournaments this past time. Clara kept score and looked at all the "cute boys," while Bonnie worked in the refreshment stand and got "fatter" than she already is.

All of us little girls are proud of our varsity basketball teams, especially the girls. The girls won the South Piedmont Conference, winning all sixteen games. We just hope that they will do as well next year.

The sewing room has been awfully busy making us some pretty new dresses. We are saving one of our dresses for Easter. Maybe if the Easter Bunny sees us in one of our dresses he will leave more eggs for us to gather.

We have run short of news, so until next month, when things are popping over again, be good!

— The A. L. C. Girls

BARIUM GIRLS WIN

son on the hardwood courts for the Barium girls.

By the way, do you see the Church in the picture. Look again and in case you missed it let me point it out in this fashion, that while these young ladies spent only nine weeks winning the championship yet the Church spent 131 years of care in getting ready for this winning. Add together the total time that these girls have spent at Barium and you will arrive at the amazing figure of 131 years. Figuring a little further, you can see that these 131 years give 47,815 days of care. In other words, the Presbyterians of the Church have afforded 47,815 days of care for this championship. Those of us close at hand will see that it is worth it and worth every day that has been provided. The girls here in their joy over winning the championship will also remember the great host of folks who have had a share in it too.

Hats off to the champions, and to all those who have had a hand in it making these champions at Barium Springs.

Glee Club News

The Barium Glee Club is now busy getting ready for the "Annual Spring Tour." Actually, this "tour" consists of visits to a few of the nearby churches; usually for a short concert of sacred music given at the Sunday evening service.

If any pastor - or choir director is interested in having the Glee Club give a thirty minute program in the church on Sunday evening, or at some other time, please write Wm. A. Hethcox, Principal, or Mrs. Lee Spencer, music director. If it can be arranged the invitation will be accepted. Of course, the time from now until the close of school is short, and is a very busy time; so the number of invitations which can be accepted is limited. If you do invite the Glee Club, don't expect too much, as this is strictly an amateur group. A visit to your church, however, is a valuable experience for the members of the Glee Club, and it gives you a chance to meet and to know some of your children at Barium Springs.

RAILROAD STATION

Barium. All of those who have known the building and seen it in use will always remember arriving there by train or the leaving of Barium or sitting on the edge of the railroad station and watching the trains roll in and out. Time moves on and the railroad station moves on, and we assume that this is progress.

SENIOR GIRLS MAKE

right to look at the material which is in store, and from the material that has been placed on the shelves in large bolts she makes her choice. Then under the direction of Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell the senior girls make the dress a reality. The electric sewing machines hum steadily through the day with the girls coming to the room as soon as school is out.

The particular feature for the month of February has been the dresses and there were 25 or 30 hanging on the wall ready to go to the cottages to make the little girls happy and pretty as they wear them.

This is a part of what clothing money does. It manifest to the children here the love of the church people as they carry to their rooms the beautiful, lovely new dresses which have been provided for them through the gift of some person or persons who love the Church and Jesus Christ and children.

Mailing Information

On page three of this issue of the Messenger will be seen two blanks affording information on sending gifts to Barium Springs.

One is the memorial gift wherein in the memory of someone who has died a gift is sent to Barium Springs to be used in the building of a new church. Many people are using this blank already and they find it a great help in sending contributions to Barium for the church. Of Course, a contribution sent in without the blank and marked is credited to the church fund anyway, but the blank is used and printed in order to give something to fill out easily and also to remind the people that such an avenue is open to them as a means of remembering loved ones and friends.

The second blank will note that we have two persons who receive money and gifts or packages at Barium Springs. One of these is Miss Andrews and the other is Mr. Arrowood. So, in order to keep the blood pressure equally balanced in the finance department, it would be of some help to us if the blank could be used and the different items sent to the proper persons.

Now, if you are the kind of person who does not like to be regimented and does not care to use blanks or certificates or anything of the sort, then you are most cordially invited to send yours as you see fit. Just simply mark it Barium Springs and we will get it here and credit it to the proper person and proper source. But if you would like for Miss Andrews to be receiving some mail and Mr. Arrowood to be receiving some mail addressed to him, then you may fill out the blank and address your gifts to the proper person.

It would be a real help to the finance department to have the gifts properly marked and labeled and sent to the one who will eventually receive them and make recognition of the gifts. So, as we ask for help in this department, we also express appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation which prevails among all the Churches and express our gratitude for the gifts that come to the Home.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., APRIL 1950

NO. 6

Two Letters Tell the True Story

It is a wonderful thing to get mail and it is a thrilling thing to see the character of the persons who send the letters. Across the desk at Barium Springs come letters of every description, those from the big business firms, those from the Sunday Schools, those from the church treasurers, those from individuals, from children and from every source. The other morning the opener was run through the letter that gave evidence of having come from an elderly person. As the page unfolded it was clearly manifest that the hand which had written it was a bit shaky by reason of age and also that the spirit of the writer had lived long in the presence of Jesus Christ.

Because this letter set our heart on fire and because it is typical of so many, many letters that come to Barium Springs and because it manifests the true relationship of Christians in North Carolina to this Home, we print (with the permission of the writer) this letter in the Messenger with a portion of the reply.

"Dear Friends: I am sending you another comfort to the boys that sends me the Messenger. A few years ago I sent you one but I suspect that is worn out. This is not so fine, but it will keep you warm. I wanted to send it long ago, but

One To A Family To Those Desiring It

The purpose of the Barium Messenger is to send to every Presbyterian home in North Carolina the news of what the people of North Carolina are doing for boys and girls at Barium Springs, and to report the news of the campus. Our mailing list carries now somewhere between 25 and 30 thousand names. Some of these should be removed, some of these should have the addresses corrected, some of these are duplications and some homes receive more than one copy.

The editor and printer of The Messenger are very anxious to have every Presbyterian home receive a copy without charge, and also they are anxious for every other person who is interested in Barium Springs and who wishes to have a copy to have one. So if you read this column and know of anywhere you can help us correct our mailing list or add a new name to our mailing list, please drop a postal card to the Barium Messenger or to Barium Springs, or just address it anyway so it gets to Barium Springs, and we will see that your name goes on the mailing list and will send the Messenger to you.

The folk here would like very much to know what you think of the paper, and you are hereby invited to send in your criticism. If you have something on your chest and you want to get it off send it on over: we have enough troubles here so that a few more would not make a great deal of difference. So send us good suggestions or fuss at us, or do whatever you wish as long as you read the paper and keep us in your heart and prayers. So from editor and printer and all concerned at Barium Springs let

OF THE SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA
BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C.

Presbyterian Ministers Synod of North Carolina

Dear Brethren:

Ever since I came to Barium Springs on January 16th, I have wanted to write you a personal letter, but being a bit Scotch and having to watch the finances very closely, I have refrained from sending out individual letters and am using this issue of the Barium Messenger to send you a message.

I would like for you to know that when the committee of the Board of Regents came to me with the call to come to Barium that my soul suffered torture for days and nights that extended into weeks and months. When I met with the Board of Regents on October 25th and stood in that group to accept the call I said to them that I was convinced in my heart and soul that the Holy Spirit had led me to this place to be a servant of the Church in the name of Jesus Christ. I had then, and I have now, no illusions about the magnitude of the task and the terrific responsibility that rests upon the superintendent of this Home. I believe that this Home is cradled in the hearts and prayers of all the people of this Synod and I believe that my faith in the ministers and the officers and the members of the Presbyterian Church is more than well founded. I believe that you love this place and that this place will be provided for in whatever is necessary and good.

I should like to say to you that this place will be used for developing strong bodies, sound minds and pure hearts. It shall be our endeavor to provide the boys and girls of this Home with opportunity to become well-rounded citizens of the state and of the Kingdom of God.

We promise to use all that is sent here for the upkeep of this Home in such a way as to serve children and to bring glory to God. Barium Springs is the Synod of North Carolina in action, and we have the privilege of living with these boys and girls and representing the Church of Jesus Christ to them. I covet from you your earnest prayers on our behalf, and I extend to you a most cordial invitation to visit us, and to send us any suggestions that will be for the good of the Home.

Most sincerely,
ALBERT B. MCCLURE

Executive Committee Board of Regents Meet

The Executive Committee of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home met at Barium Springs on March 14th at ten o'clock.

The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mr. J. A. Cannon, with the chairmen of the various sub-committees making up the membership present.

The business of the day was largely exploratory in setting forth policies and studying existing relationships. The biggest single transaction was that taken subsequent to the report of the committee on Buildings and Grounds. For more than a year this committee has been securing information and getting bids on the new boiler for the heating system. It was reported that the building itself would have to be enlarged and that the new boiler necessary for the campus would be one of 200 h. p. with a new stoker attachment. The Committee was authorized to let the contract for the enlarging of the building and the installation of the boiler. In connection with this it was also decided to make a study of the total steam line on the campus with a view to making new installations at the expansion joints, thus concerning steam and making more effective the carrying of steam to the back side of the campus.

The regular meeting of the Board of Regents will be held in May and at that time some special committees appointed to make studies will report to the Board.

Joseph B. Johnston Is "Assistant Surgeon"

The announcement has been made recently that Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, formerly superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home, will be associated with Dr. Davis in the work of Davis Hospital in Statesville, N. C. Mr. Johnston, acting as toastmaster at the annual basketball banquet at Barium Springs, announced in a facetious manner that he was the "assistant surgeon" at Davis Hospital and that anyone wishing an operation should just come on up and describe it and he would see that it was done or do it himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are living in the Hospital Apartments on Cherry Street near the hospital. After spending about eight weeks in Florida and South Carolina visiting friends and relatives, drinking fruit juice and enjoying southern sunshine, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston returned to Charlotte in time to see some of the Junior Tournament at Barium Springs. They then took some of their household things out of storage at Barium and set up housekeeping in Statesville.

While the exact nature of Mr. Johnston's new position has not been revealed, it is generally understood that he will be associated with Dr. Davis in the business relationship of the hospital and in any other fashion that these two may deem wise. One thing that will certainly be a portion of Mr. Johnston's life, whether it is a part of his job or not, will be looking after the children from Barium Springs when they go to the Davis Hospital.

The doctors, nurses and the ex-

Campus News

WOMANS' BUILDING

Hi there,
 First lets wish every one a Happy Easter. Everyone is getting their new outfits ready, but lets not think this wonderful day is only a time to dress up in your Sunday best, but a great day we should all remember.

The Junior class is as busy as bees, getting every thing ready for the Junior-Senior banquet which will take place April 21.

We were very glad to have some of our friends from Thomasboro with us for supper and then our church worship Sunday, April 2. Come again folks.

Did I hear some one speaking of operations? Well two of we girls are just now recuperating from an appendectomy. Mae Hillard is already up and around as strong as ever, and Marie Andrews is following close behind.

Our basketball banquet was a grand occasion although we did not have the B sweaters to present to the Varsity girls who won the conference and tournament which consists of nineteen straight victories.

Louise Campbell was chosen most valuable, Lorene Hall captain, and Frances Stricklin allstate. "Congratulations girls."

We are glad to have Mrs. Williams and daughter visit us, here's hoping they enjoy staying here as much as we enjoy having them.

Well we will sign off until next month same time.

— Chief Editor, Marie Andrews

BABY COTTAGE

Well if our guess is right it is time again to let all our good friends know what we are doing here in the Baby Cottage so here we go.

First let us warn you all, if you should see lots of little ducklings trying to wade and paddle their way to and from the dining room, please don't get frightened, for it is only us children trying to wade through the mud puddles. We have to, as we don't have a cement walk.

We are happy to say we are all well from chicken pox, only two are out now with colds and sore throats.

Easter is almost here and we are working on baskets in Kindergarten and hope to have a big egg hunt.

We hope we get to see Gene Autry if he comes to Statesville,

Basketball Banquet For Barium Teams

Our annual basketball banquet was held on Friday night, March 24th, at six o'clock with about 200 people in attendance. We had a good supper planned around steak and French fried potatoes, with a few invited guests to help keep the homefolks straight.

Mr. J. B. Johnston was in grand form and did the honors as the genial toastmaster. He reviewed basketball at Barium Springs for the past years and made some predictions about the future that were most enjoyable and quite inspiring.

The varsity girls voted Louise Campbell the most valuable member of the team and this honor was also won by Paul Barnes on the boys team. The following varsity girls were presented letters by Miss Rebekah Carpenter: Lorene Hall, Elsie Vest, Peggy Neel, Marie Andrews, Rae Powell, Carolyn Wicker, Frances Stricklin, Louise Campbell, Ann Willecox.

The letters were presented to the varsity boys by Reverend C. H. Sides, as follows: Paul Barnes, Buddy Maples, Donald Mitchell, Terrell Hall, Mack Wicker, Fred Feimster, Bobby Whiting, Charles Stevens.

The following junior girls were presented letters by Mrs. Melba McLuen: Ruth Barkley, Helen Barnes, Helen Baucom, Hilda Donaldson, Jane Feimster, Pattie Inman, Gloria Williams, Jackie Porterfield, Margaret Hopkins, Jackie Kuykendall, Mae Hillard, Retha Bass, Edna McGhee, Florence Andrews, Carol Jean Andrews, Peggy Byrd, Delores Ramsey, Annie Ruth Church, Beth Jackins, Mary Jane Andrews.

and also go to his show.

We don't have any news to write. School will soon be out then vacations will start. Camp also will open up, and that long mountain trip in the bus taking our lunch with us and also getting those big red juicy water melons like we did last year. Yum, Yum, they were so good.

Our house mothers are working very hard digging grass, resetting plants, and planting seeds in our rainbow garden so we are hoping to have the prettiest garden ever this time.

Wishing every body a very Happy Easter, we are all saying so-long.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everybody,
 We had thirty five visitors from Thomasboro Presbyterian Church Sunday. The Pioneers showed them around the campus. After we got through showing them around we had supper in the dining room. After supper we went to church and they had the program which we enjoyed very much. We hope they will come again soon. Now that Spring is in the air we are having many visitors.

The girls and boys are playing softball, house mothers and girls are working in their flowers gardens. Lovely Spring dresses in the sewing room. Robins and bluebirds everywhere, surely Spring is here.

The fourth grade gave a very interesting program last Friday, every one enjoyed it very much. The first grade will give their program next Friday. I'm sure we will enjoy it. We are looking forward to hearing their rhythm band could not get it started. I am not so young any more and some times I don't walk very good and have to wait for someone to take me to town. I don't think I will make any more. I enjoy your paper and I thank you. I belong to the Presbyterian Church at _____, N. C. I do not get there very often. I like our minister very much. My husband don't like to drive much any more. He will soon be 77 years old. He drives to work but that is not far. I hope you will get this before the weather gets hot.

May the Lord bless and take care of you. With love to all."

"Dear Mrs. _____: I have received your letter and I want to thank you for the comfort which you have made and sent to us. I have succeeded Mr. Johnston as the superintendent of the Home here at Barium Springs and one of the reasons why I came here was the fact that Barium is loved and prayed for and worked for by people all over the Synod of North Carolina. When I read your letter this morning my heart was strangely warmed as I thought about your love for Jesus Christ which caused you to do the lovely thing that you have done in making and sending comforts to this place. The work of your fingers, the thoughts of your mind, and the prayers of your heart help to strengthen and keep us in the work with and for children in the name of Jesus Christ.

Let me thank you for all of your love and prayers for us, and ask of you that, as your physical energy diminishes and you may be unable to continue some of the things you have been doing, you continue to remember us in prayer, and remember also that we love you for what you are doing for us and trust that we may be good stewards of all that is sent to us."

again which they have every year. Everyone enjoyed seeing Gene Autry in "Mule Train" last Saturday, most everyone went to see it.

We have enjoyed our winter gardens this winter. We have had sultana, begonias, African violets and geraniums in bloom all winter. Now we are ready to plant them on the outside.

—Shirley Ann Cannon.

Mid-Piedmont Tournaments

The nineteenth Annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament was reeled off at Barium Springs from February 15th through the 20th. Forty-five teams from seven counties in the Piedmont section of North Carolina participated. Forty-three games were played during the five-day period and these were some of the best games played in the whole State during the year. We have fine basketball teams in this section and the best teams enter our tournament.

Union Grove and Cool Spring met in the finals in the girls division, with Cool Spring winning by 74-71. Scotts nosed out Celeste Henkel in an over-time game in the boys division by a three-point margin 36-33.

The following teams were represented in both girls' and boys' divisions: Matthews, Bain, Oakhurst, Thomasboro, Paw Creek, Berryhill, Long Creek, Huntersville, Cornelius, and Davidson from Mecklenburg County; Rock Springs from Lincoln County; Stanley from Gaston; Sherrills Ford and Oxford from Catawba; Hiddenite from Alexander; Landis from Rowan; Troutman, Celeste Henkel, Scotts, Union Grove, Harmony, Cool Spring, and Brawley from Iredell. Brawley was entered only in the girls' division.

Jo Ann Eller of Landis won the foul shooting contest by making 20 out of 25 attempts. Ted Garner was high for the boys with 24 out of 25. He missed number 13.

Long Creek won the trophy for having the best dressed girls' team.

We had good crowds during the week with over-flow crowds for the semi-finals and the finals. It would be nice to have an adequate gymnasium to take care of these events.

The Junior Mid-Piedmont

tire staff of the Davis Hospital have rendered service year after year to the children of the Home at Barium Springs. Now that Mr. Johnston is there on that staff, you may be sure that when a Barium child enters the hospital he will be one of the first ones in the room and will see that that child is looked after and cheered up while he is a patient.

WHAT CHRISTIANITY IS

An eminent clergyman once defined Christianity as follows:
 In the home it is kindness.
 In business it is honesty.
 In society it is courtesy.
 In work it is fairness.
 Toward the unfortunate it is pity.
 Toward the weak it is help.
 Toward the wicked it is resistance.
 Toward the strong it is trust.
 Toward the penitent it is forgiveness.
 Toward the fortunate it is congratulation.
 Toward God it is reverence and love.

WORKERS' CONFERENCE HELD AT THORNWELL

The forty-fifth annual meeting of Southeastern Conference workers in children's institutions was held in Clinton, South Carolina on March 28th and 29th. Thornwell Orphanage was the host and provided lodging within the buildings on the campus.

The vice-president, Sam Ed. Bradley directed the Conference in the absence of the president, W. G. Mize.

Representatives from Barium were Miss Rebekah Carpenter, case worker, Mrs. Foy Gresham, housemother, and Reverend A. B. McClure, the Superintendent.

Tournament was held one month later on March 14th through the 20th. Sixteen girls and sixteen boys teams played 46 games. The Junior Tournament has the double elimination feature and there is less pressure than is experienced during the varsity tournament. Twenty-four trophies are awarded which means that any team winning one game is entitled to a trophy. This has been a very popular tournament and we have more teams wishing to enter than we can accommodate each year.

The Mountain Orphanage won the title from Barium by winning the final game in the girls division by the score of 50-43. Statesville took top honors in the boys division by winning the final game with Barium 33-27.

The boys and girls who played in this tournament will be the varsity stars of future years and the good play shown recently by the juniors gives every indication that we will continue to have the same fine caliber of varsity basketball for years to come in this great Piedmont section of North Carolina.

Commencement Program To Be On May 21st and 22nd At Barium Springs

May 21st and 22nd will see the commencement exercises of Barium Springs for the graduating class of 1950. On Sunday morning Dr. Joseph M. Garrison, pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Greensboro, will preach the baccalaureate sermon. On Sunday afternoon Reverend Joseph B. Clower, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Morganton, will bring the vesper message to the young people of the Home. On Monday evening, the 22nd, the graduation exercises will take place. Professor Ernest Albert Beaty of Davidson College will address the graduating class and the awards will be made and the diplomas given.

One of the outstanding awards is the Ace Medal. One is given to a student and another to a non-student. All the members of the high school and all the adults of the Home cast a ballot to choose the outstanding member of the senior class to be the recipient of the Ace Medal award. Tabulation will be made and the result of the voting will not be announced until the award is made. The superintendent, upon the counsel of others of the Home, will select one member of the alumni who is to be the recipient of the non-student award. This will be someone who is outstanding in the field of service and will be brought to the campus for the purpose of receiving this Ace Medal.

Funeral Services For Miss Blakeney

Funeral services for Miss Edmonia Martin Blakeney who died Friday night, April 28th, at the Lowrance Hospital in Mooresville, were conducted on Sunday, April 30th, at the Providence Presbyterian Church of which she was a life-long member until moving her membership to Little Joe's Presbyterian Church at Barium Springs, N. C.

Dr. H. D. Haywood, pastor of the Providence Church, officiated at the service and was assisted by the pastor of Little Joe's Church, Reverend Charles H. Sides, Jr., and the superintendent of the Home, Reverend A. B. McClure.

For the last six years Miss Blakeney had been the teacher of the third grade at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. She had lived in Annie Louise Cottage where the third - grade girls are living. Every child loved her and every adult on the campus felt the magnificence of her spirit and the nobility of her soul every time she came near. Miss Blakeney will be sorely missed and long remembered on the campus at Barium Springs. It is the prayer of the entire group here that a double portion of her spirit will be the mantle of whoever succeeds her in the work at Barium Springs.

Campus News

ANNIE LOUISE

Has spring fever gotten a hold of you yet? If some of us don't snap out of it pretty soon now, we aren't going to be able to get much done in our flower garden and so forth. Speaking of flower gardens, we've been digging our fingers to the bone trying to make a few buds appear on those lonesome looking stems. Maybe we'll get it done yet!

Have we told you lately about our most recent report cards? Well, folks, we're ready to tell you just how proud we are of them! Eight of us little girls got on the honor roll and one big sister. So many of us came so close to making the honor roll that we felt a little bit proud of ourselves. You can't expect too much from such small ones, but honestly we try. Next time, though, we're going to try a wee bit harder, and bring that eight up to at least sixteen.

Last month we didn't get to tell you what we did to celebrate Easter. Rest assured that we all twenty-six had a wonderful time trying to find some Easter eggs. One time we almost gave up completely. Those eggs looked almost the same color as the ground and leaves, and we just couldn't find a few of them. It took the ones who hid them to find them, and even they were at the point of giving up. But as luck would have it, not one single egg was lost. After we found all of them we sat down and ate as much as our tummies would hold without getting sick.

Several of our little girls have had the measles and "boy" they really were spotted. But most of them are well and are back with us, just as happy as ever.

School will be out in three weeks and we can hardly wait to get out for summer.

Next time you hear from us there will be lots to tell about our summer plans.

Until next month.

— The A. L. C. Girls

WOMANS BUILDING

The time has come when we would like to pass our current events on to you.

First we would like to say we certainly do appreciate the delicious turkeys which the government gave us. Every one seemed to be loosening their belts Sunday, wonder why?

Another one of our girls was operated on the other day. Here's hoping she will soon recover. "Best of luck, Hazel."

We are having quite a bit of sickness these days consisting of measles, chicken pox, and bad colds.

One of our teachers, Miss Blakeney, whom we all thought a great deal of, died Friday night in the Lowrance Hospital in Mooresville. She will long be remembered and may God be with her family and loved ones during this sad period of life.

was a great success. Dr. Skeen from Mooresville was our speaker and he told us six ways to become a failure. Other guests were there, but we will not call all of their names, we will only say we enjoyed having them. The food was more than delicious and the dance was wonderful.

The Virginia Hall Circle, Junior Senior girls and Miss Carpenter went to the skating rink in Mooresville and we can truly say we had a wonderful time.

We only have three more weeks of school, and I think every one looks as though they can hardly wait.

We are looking forward to having the Board of Regents meet with us on the ninth of this month. They are planning to stay a few days with us.

We will say so long until the same time next month.

Board of Regents In Spring Meeting

W. E. Price Elected Chairman For Coming Year

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home met in the regular Spring session at Barium Springs on Tuesday, May 9th, with the Chairman, J. A. Cannon of Concord presiding.

Through the reports of the various committees the work of the Home was summarized and plans were made for the coming year. The Finance and Budget Committee which had spent long hours the day and night preceding trying to fit the needs into the amount of money anticipated, finally concluded by reporting a budget of $236,838.00. It was explained that by simple arithmetic a budget could be deduced because the annual per capita cost is over $800.00 plus per child. Multiply that by the number of children in the Home for a year the budget can be easily arrived at.

Special work for the summer was laid out in the report of the Buildings & Grounds Committee wherein Annie Louise Cottage was to receive the most attention. The wiring is old and dangerous in this building, so it will be necessary to completely rewire the whole building, to plaster and paint, and to generally improve so that the twenty-five little girls and their house mothers may be more comfortably and safely housed.

Other general repairs and upkeep were planned.

The Committee in charge of buildings and grounds also reported that the new boiler was in and ready for installation, thus affording the Home ample heating capacity for the entire campus. This heating system had been repaired and improved at the cost of approximately $35,000.00.

Upon report of the Nominating Committee, W. E. Price of Charlotte was elected Chairman of the Board for the coming year and Mrs. H. S. Kirk of Winston-Salem was elected Secretary. A unanimous vote of appreciation for the excellent work of Mr. Cannon and Mrs. Coit Robinson, chairman and secretary respectively, was taken and words of appreciation spoken as these two retired from the Board.

Definite plans for the church and the Activities Building were approved and the work is under way. The church will be built by the memorial contributions from the people throughout the Sate and Southland. The Activities Building will necessarily come from the capital funds. A subsequent issue of the Messenger will carry full information concerning the plans for the development on the campus, and a separate story in this will give the financial picture for the year 1949-50.

THE MESSENGER TAKES A VACATION

Owing to the fact that many of the staff and children will be away during the month of July, there will be no issue of The Messenger in the month of July. All money copy that would ordinarily be in that issue will be held over and run in the August number.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
Here we are again, giving you our little bit of gossip and news from the little bit of cottage that we have left. What! No cottage? Well, not exactly! We're just getting our house done over in fine fashion, and in so doing, we're having to move out. Luckily, though there is an apartment adjoining our house where we - yes, all sixteen of us, our housemother and two big sisters are living during the "reconstruction". (We picked this word up from one of the big sisters.)

Oh, happy day! Swimming has begun, and we are planning on going in real soon. We have been watching with eager eyes to see just when the big sisters were going to bring out the swim suits, and finally they have. (Yippee!)

Many a sore toe or foot has been "painted" since we've started going barefooted. Every once in a while someone comes running up to the housemother or a big sister to tell them they just got stung, or they stumped their toe, or some other similar summer accident.

Printer Kyles Appreciates Cards

Since the last copy of The Messenger cards and letters have come in from all over the State and from out of the State, too, bringing us information as to enable us to correct addresses and stop duplications where two papers have been going to the homes. Many of them have contained interesting items and many of them have contained facts about the mailing list which have enabled us to clear it up in spots at least.

Mr. Kyles has expressed his appreciation for the kindness that have been afforded us in sending in corrections and for the patience that has been manifested on the part of those who have been receiving incorrect mail or have been unable to receive the paper because of an incorrect mailing list.

Keep up the good work and any time there is an error in the mailing list please notify us at Barium. Any time there is a change of address let us have it here, and in that way we will be able to keep the many thousands of names in order and keep the papers going directly to the place for which they have been printed.

and the familiar reply we would like to quote for you: "Well, it's your foot, you can stomp it or get stung if you want to." Unquote. But then there's a sympathetic smile, and someone fetches the alcohol and "war paint."

Our school is finally out, as it (Continued On Page Two)

Mr. Jos. B. Johnston Honored by Davidson

Was Given Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws

The Superintendent Emeritus, Mr. Jos. B. Johnston was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by his Alma Mater, Davidson College at the recent commencement.

His citation spoke of the fact that he had been a loyal Alumnus and Trustee of Davidson; that for many years he was superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home. That he had done a great deal to foster clean athletics and give young people an ideal of good sportsmanship; and that he was known and loved by hundreds of young people who looked on him as their father. Surely this is an honor well bestowed.

SPIRIT OF CHRIST

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Rom. 8:9 If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his.

Here is a simple statement of essential Christianity in words that are beautifully clear. There is a lot more to Christian faith than this; there are many preparatory steps of experience and faith before one may come to this point. Paul has been leading up with them through more than seven chapters of this tremendous epistle when he comes out with this searching sentence. This epitomi of Christian experience, if any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his. That is if he does not have the spirit of Christ he does not belong to Christ.

Here the first great interpreter of Christianity has given us a simple test of what it means to be a Christian, a simple test of how we may know we, or anyone else, is not a Christian. This is so simple that it is self evident. It is a spiritual axiom. An axiom is a self evident truth, something we would be hard put to it to prove. We just know it is so like one and one makes two. Here is where I think we ought to begin in our Christian thinking, begin with our relationship with Jesus Christ. That is where Paul would have us begin. We go through certain religious practices, we say our prayers we read our Bibles we attend church and that is well. We have certain forms and ceremonies we are baptized, we take communion. These things are means of grace. We accept a creed perhaps we recite a creed called the Apostles Creed, but after all, though I may give assent to these and many other points of doctrine which might be mentioned, the simple un-failing test is, do I have, do you have, the spirit of Christ?

Now what is the spirit of Christ? Well the spirit of Christ is so many sided so rich, so full, so beautiful, that we can't miss knowing something about the spirit of Christ, we cannot know all about it. But if we have read the gospels, if we have been around where Christ has been we know his spirit, first as we can look around us at the friends and neighbors, brethren and sisters in Christ Jesus in our own church and we know the spirit of each one as clearly as we know the tones of their voices, the form and features of their bodies or the way they walk. It might be a profitable meditation what does Christ's spirit mean to me? What do I think about when the spirit of Christ is mentioned? Perhaps we visualize him, we personify him in a sainted mother, a beloved father, or a devoted friend. If so what characteristic did we regard as Christ like? I would like to know your thoughts on that.

May I share with you my thoughts on that and my joy with you that we have not been left in the dark as to what is the spirit of Christ.

It is the spirit of brotherhood. Jesus taught us to pray our father which art in heaven. He has taught us that the brother comes first before the worship. If we bring our gift and find our brother hath ought against us we are first to be reconciled and then offer our gift. Brotherhood went a long way with Jesus. It crossed social lines, he permitted a woman of ill fame to kiss his feet and bathe them with her tears and dry them with the hair of her head. He crossed political lines, Zaccheus, I am taking dinner with you today. He crossed racial barriers, he must needs go through Samaria. I have often wondered if the master did not shrink from these contacts. He who was so pure, from the caresses of the impure. He that loved the oppressed, from one who had been a traitor and a turncoat, who by fraud and false accusations had laid heavy burdens on the poor; I wonder how he felt toward that mongrel race that had built a rival shrine to his Zion and had been in feud with the Jews for generations. But the spirit of Jesus was higher and deeper and broader than any social strata or nation or creed or race. There was no littleness no narrowness in the spirit of Jesus Christ.

Now this brotherliness did not expend itself in sweet sentiment. Jesus showed his brotherliness in service. I am among you as one who serveth. Symbolically he washed the disciples feet which was the work of a servant. He taught, "He who would be great among you let him be as a servant." Yes, the master who pushed a saw and drove a hammer; who fished on the sea of Galilee, and who lifted the fallen, laid his hands upon the leprous, made clay of spittal and anointed blind eyes. He knew what it was to serve. So our first interpreter in that sublime passage Phil. 2:5-11 "Have this mind in you which was also in Christ Jesus, who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man he humbled himself, becoming obedient unto death, yea, the death of the cross. Wherefore also God highly exalted him, and gave unto him the name which is above every name; that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven and things on earth and things under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." "Let this mind be in you which was in Christ Jesus."

It was a spirit which served to the point of sacrifice. Not just the dropping of an extra nickle or dime or dollar into the collection plate out of an abundance. Did you notice the words "Becoming obedient unto death yea the death of the cross." "Greater love hath no man than this." "Let this mind be in you."

That speaks of humility. Do we have the spirit of humility? Rabundrant Tagore the poet of India Knighted by the King of England wrote:
 "Here is thy footstool, and there rest thy feet where lies
 The poorest and the lowliest and the lost
 When I try to bow to thee, my my obsrance
 Cannot reach down to thy foot rest
 Among the poorest and the lowliest.

Pride cannot approach to where thou walkest

In the clothes of the humble

Among the poorest and the lowliest and the lost.

My heart can never find its way to where

Thou keepest company with the Companionless

Among the poorest, the lowliest and the lost.

So Tagore never became a Christian, he had not the spirit of Christ.

Yet it was the humility of Christ that impressed the great Indian poet, a humility which he could not approach for Jesus approached what was for Tagore the unapproachable; He laid his hands on what was to Tagore the unapproachable. Is our pride so stiff it cannot stoop as low as Jesus Christ. Cannot our heart find its way to when Jesus walks in his seamless robe among the needy of the earth. If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his. It would be an interesting line of thought, a most serious line of thought to consider that those who are not his; who are not those that belong to him, will be lost and will perish. That is true of the individual, that is true of the business or industry. It may prosper for a time but in the end it will fail.

The nation that has not the spirit of Christ is none of his. Our souls are being tried again today to become angry, to become vengeful, to say in our hearts we are the greatest nation on the earth, drop a couple of a bombs on the Kremlin and blow it off the earth. But let us remember the words of Jesus, he that takes the sword will perish by it, he that takes the bomb will perish by it. I believe in order and discipline in the home in the state and among the nations of the world, but bitterness, malice, anger, pride, jingoism, saber rattling, red baiting, is not the spirit of Jesus Christ. Force never healed and war never cured. Some way, somehow the love and the spirit of Jesus must possess the world or the end of all things will come and it will come sooner than we think.

The church that does not have the spirit of Christ does not belong to him. If every man and woman in the church has the spirit of Christ. Then the church will have his spirit. It is beside the mark for me or any one else to be critical of the church when I am part of it. It were more profitable to search our own heart just now. Does the spirit of Christ dwell in me, the spirit of brotherhood, of service, of sacrifice, of humility for if any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his.

Again we thank thee Lord that thou hast taught us thy spirit spelling it out for us on the dusty hills of Palestine, and by a Syrian Sea, and if to that place of a skull outside a city wall and on that cross to pray, "Father forgive." And in thy grief and pain to turn to assure and bless a dying felon, saying, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

May thy gracious spirit abide with us this day, Amen.

 is almost everywhere. The graduation exercises were very touching but we want those who left us to know that our sincerest wishes and best of luck goes with them where'er they may be.

Recently some of our girls, who have been with us for a long while, left us to move to Howard Cottage. We hated to see them leave us, but we still get a chance to see them. This leaves us a remainder of nineteen girls, and three of them have gone on vacations.

We have a new big sister, who moved over three weeks ago. Even though Clara Mangum has become a Senior and had to move out, we are glad to have Shirley Byrd with us.

Dig, dig, clank, and dig! This is all we hear now that the rain seems to have gone for a while. Yes, all of us are busy pulling out weeds and our faces are purple with all the digging, not only does our flower garden look like a "Weed" garden, but our play woods do to. Pretty soon, though, it'll look as good as new again.

One can never know just how much we Annie Louise girls miss our beloved teacher, Miss Blakeney. We feel sure that she will be much needed in her Heavenly home, and this takes some of the hurt off our hearts. All we can hope for is that she is being greatly rewarded for the marvelous work she did here on earth.

Until August we remain,

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi Folks,
 Here we are again bringing you the latest news from the printing crew. Since we wrote you last we have lost one boy, Donald Mitchell, who was a senior and headman. Donald has taken up work with the Statesville Daily Record. We know he will be a complete success. So here's our luck to you, Don.

Vacations have rolled around once more and we are looking forward to ours very much. Swimming season is here also and if you ever come to visit us during the week days you will probably see a whole swimming pool full of water lovers.

School closed May 19th and we are all glad to be coming to work again and we are looking forward to a good summer vacation.

Well, folks this is all for this month, so until next month, bye-bye.

Oh! I almost forgot due to the absence of most of our crew we will not publish a Barium Messenger next month.

SEWING ROOM

Hi Folks,
 As all of us new seniors came into the sewing room this morning, the first thing we heard was, "Where is the new seventeen?" It seems that everyone wants a new dress. We don't know what the occasion is, but we have the general idea.

Although we shall miss the old seniors, we are very happy to be sitting in their seats, which they occupied for a year.

The seven new seniors are Shirley Inman, Jeanne Turlington, Melva Powell, Clara Mangum, Elsie Vest, Peggy Plyer, and Frances Stricklin.

Shirley Inman came over from the little boys cottage. We know she misses them, but the "larger" boys are more fun. Right Shirley?

Jeanne Turlinton used to be a nurse but she gave up nursing, so she could watch for an employee of Black & Clark Motor Co. who drives a gray Studebaker.

Melva Powell is nearly always found at one of the doors to see if by chance a beautiful new "Lincoln", with a cute boy in it, will pass and blow to her.

Clara Mangum trying to make up her mind between two blonds, sewed her finger in the sewing machine.

Elsie Vest before going to Conference, filled her suit case with 25 stamped envelopes. Wonder who the lucky person is?

Peggy Plyer always looking for a "Nash." Don't worry honey, Roy will come by soon. We hope!

The financial picture at Presbyterian Orphans' Home is the darkest it has been for some years. In fact for the first time in some years it is necessary this year to record a deficit of $10,760.69. Last year we spent $9,000.00 less than we had before. But our income was reduced by $16,326.61.

The tabulation above gives the figures on the income so far as it pertains to church sources. The principal decline in income is in the giving of the churches and from miscellaneous gifts.

The first column above refers to churches through the budget. In 1941 Synod asked the Presbyteries to allot to Presbyterian Orphans' Home 9%. Since that time the percentage to the Home has been gradually reduced. Now the largest percentage given by any Presbytery is 6 1/2%. One Presbytery gives 7%. Another gives 3 1/2% and takes 1/2% of the amount handled by the Treasurer for the expense of the Treasurer's Office. As a result of these reductions the total amount received from the budget of the churches was 27,816.12 which was a decline of $4,560.57 from the previous year. The giving to our Thanksgiving Offering as can be seen from the above declined from $88,663.67 to $82,341.29 or a reduction of $6,322.38.

These figures too show very clearly the necessity of the special Sunday School and Women of the Church offerings and the Thanksgiving offering for these offerings constitute about four fifths of our income from the church. The amount received from the regular budget of the church would at the present level of expenses care for about thirty five children.

At its recent meeting the Regents of the Home studied all of these figures very carefully. But believing that the church wished adequately to care for our Home, and knowing that according to accepted standards of child care about $240,000.00 is required to support the three hundred children which is our normal population, the Regents did not beat a retreat, but directed that the church be given the full facts as to the financial picture.

During the war period when many things could not be bought, we recorded a substantial surplus each year. But this was done at the expense of our equipment which has largely had to be replaced since the war.

The administration continues to use every means to economize in the handling of the sacred money committed to our care and we confidently look to the church for that interest, prayer and support which is the life blood of this institution.

er vacation. Sure hope she has a good time.

Some of you might think that we don't do any sewing, but in the two weeks we have been here we have had a taste of almost everything that the sewing room is filled on to make. All the way from dresses to mattress "Ticks."

Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell have had limitless patience with us and they have really needed it. We sign off now, but until next month when we will be back, we all be thinking of you.

JENNIE GILMER

There, it has been a long time since you have heard from us. We are busy now that school is out, getting the house and the dairy cleaned up.

The swimming pool is opened now, and we do a lot of swimming. Most of us know how to dive and swim, but the one's who don't hope to know how before the summer is over.

Four of our boys have gone on their vacations, and they are Fredrick Lentz, Marvin Garris, George Moore, and Memory Thompson. We hope these boys will have a nice time.

Well until next month we will say good bye.

INFIRMARY

Hi! Friends

Guess we had better let you know a little about our new nurses. They are Pattie Inman and Jane Feimster, our old nurses Jean Turlington and Elsie Vest have decided to learn a little more about "Stitching" before taking over a full time job with us.

Everyone seems to be feeling good except our dear little mascot Patricia Mobly. She has had a light case of tonsillitis.

Two of our nurses, Louise and Elmina will attend conferences this month. Louise will attend the conference at Red Springs, and Elmina will attend the conference at Morganton.

We are looking forward to our vacations this month. Mrs. Finley is going on hers in July.

If at any time you come to see us and we aren't here, we'll be riding in Mrs. Finley's new Oldsmobile.

Bye bye. See you next month.

Contracts Let For Activities Building

The Regents of the Home have accepted the bid of the Ervin Construction Company of Catawba and have let the contracts of the new Activities Building to be located on the corner of the campus. Thus the outstanding need of the last fifteen years has been met and the pressure and tension existing in the present arrangements will be eased.

For six months during each year the school auditorium had to be turned into a gymnasium and the school had no place for chapel programs or exercises pertinent to the educational functions. Half of the children in the Home went to Sunday School on Sunday morning through this auditorium converted into a gymnasium. During the week the teachers of the first seven grades trying to teach around it had to talk above the noise taking place in Physical Education on the court just outside the door. Tensions will be relieved and the quality of school work will be improved in getting the auditorium back as an auditorium for the school and the Sunday school.

In addition to serving as the basketball court, the Activities Building will meet the needs of the entire student body. Varsity sports serve the needs of approximately 30 percent, but in the new Activities Building there will be the regular roller skating, folk games, badminton, volley ball, shuffleboard, and rainy day room for activities that will touch the life of all the children.

About three-fourths of the necessary money for this building is in hand. All the savings have been scraped together and put in one pile and it is the faith of the Regents that people throughout the Synod interested in the Home will want to share in the building guaranteeing not only its erection but also its complete equipment. Children, teachers, housemothers, staff workers, everybody is standing up cheering for this great day in the life of Barium when the work on the building that will meet the greatest need on the campus has actually begun.

An Interesting Letter

Dear Mr. Arrowood:

I appreciate your letters received some two or three times. Have been ill, but you need not as I see it, put a stamp on a letter just in acknowledgement of a one-dollar bill. But as John Barrymore used to say, "It reminds me of the fact that if I do calculate right," every month for the past 19 years I have sent a one-dollar bill into Barium, and not one has ever been lost in the mail.

This may be odd, but it has been my only way to do some little thing for our Orphanage.

My regards,

July 3, 1950.
P. S. I am now 80 years of age.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi There,

Here we are trying to bring you up to date on our current events.

First I would like to tell you of the wonderful time we had at the square dance, which Mr. McSwein called. It was a grand treat, because it is not often we have such a delightful experience. We also had a grand get together on the fourth of July. Swimming contest, eating, a soft ball game, and last but not least, a watermelon feast. Everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

We would like to tell you, we have a new nurse, and we hope she is going to like us, as much as we are going to like her.

Vacations are nearly to an end and now all you hear is, "Camp." Some of the smaller children are going next week, lets hope they have a good time.

It will not be long until school starts and everyone is excited. Ha!

Shirly Ann Cannon, one of our girls, is just now recovering from an operation, "Here's hoping you will soon be well Shirley."

We certainly were glad to have the two sons of Mrs. Lottie Walker visit us, and we hope they can (Continued On Page Two)

Two Weeks of Camp Held On the Catawba

Monday afternoon, July 31st, was a great day for all the children in Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, and Lees Cottages. All during the summer they have been planning and talking about their camping trip and at two o'clock there were four rows of children standing along the side of the road waiting for the big yellow buses to come by and pick them up. Blankets, food and equipment had already been sent down, and the camp director, Mr. Archie Calhoun, together with his capable leaders, were ready to take these little folks down to the river for a week. Each child (and there were 96 of them) had his own little bundle of clothes and things that he might need and want, with twenty-five cents to spend at the country store across the river.

Down on the sandy beach by the rolling Catawba these children finding themselves away from the restraint and routine of the campus life, run and jump and play and carry on with wild glee. Swimming in the river, playing in the sand, playing group games together, swinging in the swings, and fishing from the banks, all combine to make busy days which are ended with family prayers.

The second week of camp will be under the direction of Miss Rebekah Carpenter who for many years has directed the camp for the older group, made up of the older boys and girls who have stayed here through the whole summer, and who did not go on a vacation. They have the time of their lives at the river in relaxing and resting and doing nothing. Food is prepared and the work is done by those who have had their time off and these boys and girls are kings and queens for a few days before they get ready for the opening of school.

Through these days on the river many an interesting episode has been stored away in the mind to

Nuernberg Worker Visits Barium Springs

Miss Gertrude Duell, social worker in Nuernberg, Germany, is visiting the United States, and under the direction of the Children's Division of the Department of Public Welfare, a visit to Barium Springs was arranged. Mrs. Louise Blake, Supervisor of Children's Institutions, chose Barium Springs because of its being a child-caring institution which has the extra feature of a camping program during the summer.

Miss Duell spent a part of the time at the camp with the campers and the rest of the time upon the campus of the Home, visiting with the housemothers and with the children and studying the plan and procedure, comparing and contrasting it with the work that is done in her own city in Germany.

Upon leaving Barium Springs, Miss Duell went to the Alexander Home in Charlotte to spend a few days there in the study of a child-caring institution that deals with particular problems.

be enjoyed forever and often recalled and retold in later days. It is a wonderful experience for the children of the Home.

Bean Stain And Blackberry Jam

The boys of Lees Cottage proudly announced that they had already picked 113 bushels of beans, while the girls in Howard and the Woman's Building displayed their stained fingers, indicating that they had strung and broken that same 113 bushels. All the children in the Home have their assigned share in the Home's production for summer food and winter supply. The orchard, the truck farm, the dairy farm, the cannery, and many other places require the time of the boys and girls.

A review of the records shows that up through July 15th there has been quite a variety brought in in great quantities. The boys on the truck farm with Mr. Stikleather brought in for the table and for canning such things as peas, lettuce, onions, radishes, by the bushel and cabbages by the hundred of heads, roasting ears by twelve hundred dozen, 264 bushels of beans, beets, squash, Irish potatoes, cucumbers, butter beans, tomatoes, and cantaloupes. The cannery has canned over a thousand no. 10 cans of beans and has stored away about one hundred twenty-five no. 10 cans of blackberry jam. Too, there has been 15,000 gallons of milk, 26,000 eggs, 2,000 lbs. of beef, 1200 lbs. of pork, 526 lbs. of frying sized chickens, 120 lbs. of hens and 240 lbs. of lamb. Some of this goes to the summer table and some of it goes to the cold storage for winter supply.

The big boys, under the direction of Mr. Stinson on the big farm have helped to produce feed supplies and grain, 119 loads of un-baled hay, 2300 bales of hay, over 1,000 bales of straw, 510 bushels of wheat, over 1500 bushels of oats, over 100 bushels of rye, and about 1600 bushels of barley.

These have been carefully stored away for the feeding of the horses, pigs, chickens, beef cattle, dairy cows, and sheep.

It has not all been work though. The picture in the center of the front page indicates that there has been a lot of activity down around the swimming pool. In addition to that, 90 percent of the children have had from one to three weeks vacation away from the Home this summer.

Work and play and worship, properly blended together is good for the children and they are happy in it.

come again before long. We would also like to tell them we certainly are enjoying living in this building, "Lottie Walker Building."

The men and boys on the campus are working very hard to do away with the paths we have made. "Come on folks lets see what we can do to help!"

We certainly are glad to get some new children and we hope they will continue to come and make this their home. "Welcome friends." The boys who work on the messenger each month really gave you a vacation. We saw them and their bosses out cutting grass and cleaning up around the church. "Looks nice too."

Well folks we will say so long until next month same time.

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again bringing the latest news from the printing office. A lot of things have happened since you last heard from us. All of our boys of the crew are back from their vacation and we had a very good time.

Last month the boys and girls had a square dance and a grand get together and we all enjoyed it very much. On the fourth of July there was a swimming contest, a softball game, and at last a watermelon feast. Everyone seemed to have had a wonderful time.

Vacations have come to a close and everyone seems to be ready for another school year. Some of the smaller children are down at "Camp" and lets hope they have a good time.

We have had our big press motor repaired in this slack period. It was hit by lighting and it is now repaired and ready to go as you can see.

Dwight Reid has just gotten back from Alabama from his vacation. Dwight told us he and three other boys caught 25 good sized fish, using soap for bait. It could be true.

In this paragraph we would like to say that we hope the readers of this paper have had a very pleasant vacation and have had a good rest. We sure have.

Well folks, thats all for this time and so until next time, bye.

—John Edsel McArthur

JENNIE GILMER

Hi There,

This is Jennie Gilmer bringing you our news.

All the boys are back from their vacations, and we all had a grand time, but are glad to be back.

Pretty soon some of Lee's boys will be coming to live with us and we hope they are as glad to come as we are to have them.

Some of us boys will go to camp and are really looking forward to going. I guess all of you know that we like to go boat riding and hiking. We wish you could come along.

School will start in a few weeks and we will be very glad to get back to school routine.

Well folks we will see you again next month and tell you more about school as we will be going to school then.

—The Jennie Gilmer Boys

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

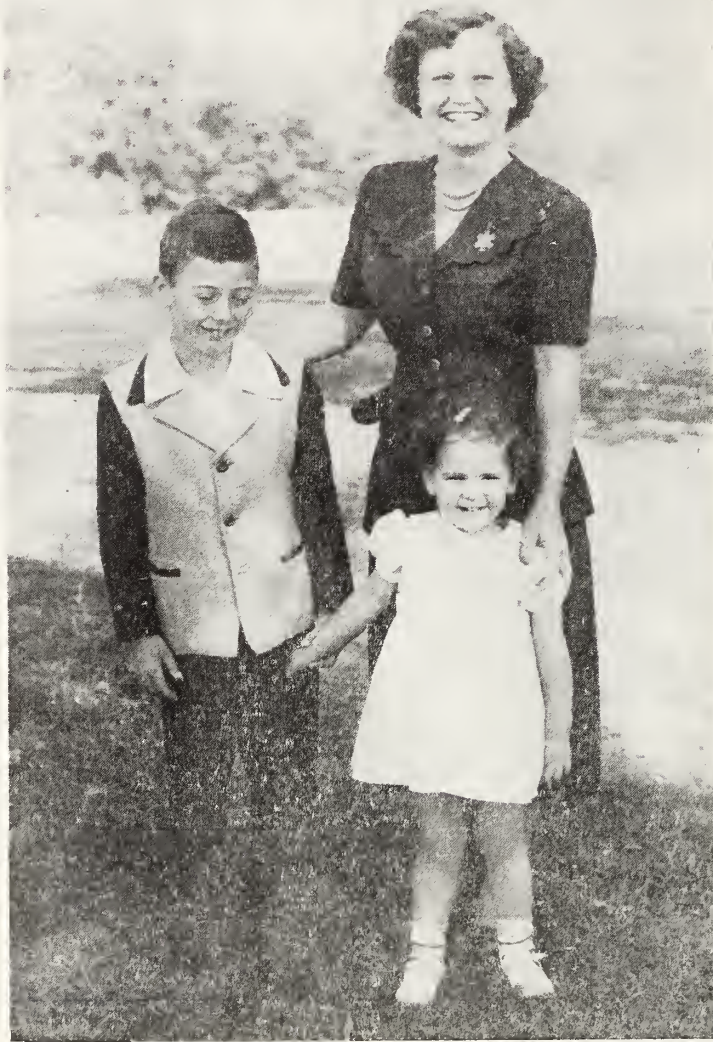

Hello Friends,

We, your little friends, have been doing some gay traveling this summer, and all of it was wonderful too. First, many of the girls over here went on vacations. There were only a few that didn't go. However those that stayed at home had just as good a time enjoying the moving back into our newly painted house. Second, we have just arrived back from a weeks camping trip at Camp Fellowship. There aren't enough words to express how dirty all of us were. The very first thing we saw was hot water and soap waiting for us in the tubs. Boy! does it feel good to be clean again after all that lipstick and and such.

While we were away at camp, a new little girl came down there to stay the rest of the week with us. Now, we have her to live in our cottage all the time. Also there was another girl that came just before we left. One is in the second grade (Claudeth Merritt) and the other in the third (Christine Clark). They are both very cute, and we are very glad to have them in our family.

A while ago we mentioned something about our "Newly painted house." You folks should see it, for it really looks pretty. The new lighting system is just beautiful, and we are just as glad to have that as we are to have the new paint "job." All of the Annie Louise girls would like to say here and now, that we thank Mr. Ervin, Mr. Gibbs, Mr. White, and all the carpenter group for making our house so beautiful.

Pretty soon now our school will start, and we'll have to dust out all the cob-webs for some more learning. Most of us have forgotten how to spell, and do we drive the house mother, and two big sisters mad when we start to write letters.

Our house mother has gone on a months vacation, and already we miss her. She will be back a day or so after we start school, and we hope she has a nice time during the four weeks.

As for our flowers, they're so thick that they resemble a jungle. But no matter how thick they may get, they're still pretty.

Since we're so excited over just coming back from camp, we'd better wait until next month to tell you the rest of our experiences.

Til then,
 —The A. L. C. girls

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Many New Faces At Barium Springs

The Fall of the year finds that a large number of folk have come to Barium Springs through the Summer. Some of them are children who are going to live here and some of them are adults who will live in the cottages.

The children who have come this Summer are: Kay, Christine, and Gray Clark from Morganton; Aileen, Bobby, and Claudeth Merritt from Rocky Point; Jimmy, Buddy, and Sara Lou Morris from Gastonia; Susie Blackburn from Fayetteville; Martha, Harold, and Edna Evans from Mocksville; Barbara Jackson from Statesville; Johnny MacNicholas from Statesville; Lena Mae, Ella Ann, and Charles Edwin McLean from Red Springs; Braxton, Linda, and Peggy Bridgers from Goldsboro.

New members on the staff are Miss Nancy Hoots, a registered nurse from Statesville, who is now in charge of the Infirmary; Mrs. Leona Fanshaw from Fayetteville, who has charge of the little boys in Synod's Cottage; Mrs. Carrie Webb from Woodleaf, living in Howard Cottage and working with the small children.

All of these folks, children and adults alike, make the campus happier because they have come to live at Barium. Already the children act as if they had been here all of their lives as they share the joys and pleasures with the other children.

"FUTURE FULLBACKS"

We have a number of little girls in our cottage whose birthdays come in September. Just to satisfy your curiosity, we'll name 'em for you: Sue Moore, Clara Dean Byrd, and Christine Clark. Even though we have sung a "Happy Birthday" to them all, we want them to know that we sincerely wish them many, many more in the years ahead.

A good many of the substitute housemothers are leaving us to take up their fall terms in college. Two or three of such students have been our housemothers during the past three months. We have become so attached to many of them, that we hate to see them go. However, we wish them good hunting and "larning" in those big thick books they study in.

Much to our sorrow, swimming is over, especially for us young ones. It so happens that we are having the hottest days of the year right now. Oh, well! such is life.

If we want to ever get any learning into these thick heads of ours, then we had better get busy. Don't you remember, we're supposed to be busy bodies. We can't let our reputation die down any. So keep your right hand fingers crossed. (Left hand brings bad luck).

Until October!
— The A. L. C. "Busy" Girls

SYNODS

Hello Folks,

Here we are back again telling you the latest news, since you last heard from us.

We are kept rather busy these days since school has started. We are glad to have our teachers back with us.

We have a new housemother, Mrs. Fanshaw, who has come to live with us. We hope she will enjoy living with us as much as we enjoy having her as one of our big family.

We have two new boys. They are Johnny MacNicholas and Charles McLean. We are happy to have them with us.

Until next time.

It is time for us to pass our good news on to you once more.

School has started and every one seems to be very happy. Here's hoping we will remain in this state of mind.

We have a new girl and we certainly hope she will enjoy living with us. Glad to have you, Lona! Also we are glad to have Miss Winnie Ferguson to spend the winter months with us.

We certainly did appreciate the delicious Bar-B-Q. Although it is gone we still have not forgotten about it.

We will be looking forward to having each and everyone of you with us, here September 15, to see our first football game of the season, "Best of Luck, Boys!"

The place has been cleared, and

286 Students Enrolled In the Barium Schools

School bells were heard again on the campus on Thursday morning, August 31st, as the 1950-51 school session got under way.

A short class schedule was followed during the early morning and the highlight of the day was the opening day program in the Elementary School auditorium.

Reverend R. S. Arrowood led the devotions and Reverend Albert B. McClure brought a very inspiring and helpful message which was most fitting for the occasion.

The attendance on the opening day was slightly higher than at the beginning of the previous year. We had 196 enrolled in the Elementary School and 90 in the High School.

Three new teachers have joined the faculty this year. Miss Mary Smithwick of Louisburg is the new piano teacher, Miss Eleanor Miller of Charlotte is second grade teacher, and Mrs. David S. Brown of Statesville is fourth grade teacher.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun is principal of the School, with the following teachers: A. M. Calhoun, W. A. Hethcox, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Miss Ruth Troutman, Miss Reba Thompson, Miss Irene McDade.

The Elementary teachers returning this year are Miss Theoria Straughn, first grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, third grade; Miss Sadie Brandon, fifth grade; Mrs. Pless Canter, sixth grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, seventh grade; and Mrs. Lee Spencer, teacher of public school music and director of the Glee Club.

First Football Game With Thomasville

Since August 21st the boys of the high school, under the direction of Coaches Calhoun and Jackins, have been getting ready for the football season. Though the squad is small, the players are in good shape and anticipate a good season. The schedule will open with the first game on Friday afternoon, September 15th, on Sloan Field at Barium Springs with Thomasville affording the opposition.

This game will give the coaches a chance to see just how much they will have to work yet on the team in shaping it up for the heavy schedule that lies before them. All of the home games will be played in the afternoon on Sloan Field because there is no lighting on the field for night games.

The date for Homecoming has been set for October 27th and our game that day will be with Monroe. All the Alumni will be expected to return and share in the festivities of the day. Further announcements will be made in the next issue of The Messenger and through the papers in general and through correspondence.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

- Sept. 15, Thomasville at Barium.
- Sept. 22, Barium at Children's Home.
- Oct. 6, Salisbury at Barium.
- Oct. 13, Barium at Spencer.
- Oct. 20, Barium at Lexington.
- Oct. 27, Monroe at Barium.
- Nov. 3, North Wilkesboro at Barium.
- Nov. 10, Barium at Mooresville.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

Yes, once again we little busy bodies are bringing you the ever-present gossip from Annie Louise.

Many of our little girls' parents have come this past month, and it is so nice to get acquainted with new children's parents, and also reacquaint ourselves - our busy selves - with the other parents.

Soon now, we will be going to football games and yelling - or rather cheering - for our own home team. It seems like ages since we last saw a football game, but of course a year does seem long to us little ones.

Last month I told you that we were about to begin school, but at this writing, it has gotten into full swing. Our study room, which we call the kindergarten, is now in full time occupation. Of course we aren't guaranteeing you that we use it for study, but just between you and us, we're supposed to.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi Folks,
Most everybody is back from vacation and we are getting ready for school. Judging from the post cards we have received this summer, some very interesting places have been visited by our folks.

We have received, and enjoyed cards from Valley Forge, Pa., Winter Haven, Fla., San Francisco, Calif., Lake Lure, N. C., Chimney Rock, N. C., Montreat, N. C., Pasadena, Texas, Farmount, Pa., Washington, D. C., Charlotte, N. C., Myrtle Beach, S. C., Wilmington, N. C., Elberton, Ga., and Daytona Beach, Fla. We enjoyed the beautiful pictures of lovely gardens, great bridges, beautiful churches, and many other things.

Friday night Miss Carpenter brought the record player to Rumble Hall and we enjoyed some folk dances. Mrs. Ellis served us iced apple juice. We enjoyed it very much.

We are enjoying our new girls very much. Hope they like us as much as we like them.

The teachers are coming in the 30th of August and we are starting to school the 31st of August and we sure can wait.

Be sure and look for us next month.

SEWING ROOM

Hi Friends,
This is the first time we have written the news for the past two months, and we can say right now that we have lots to say.

During the month of July our sewing room shut down for the entire month up 'til August the first. All the girls went on their vacations and had lots of fun.

Now to the high event of the summer for each girl and also for our sewing room matrons.

Melva Powell went to Mooresville and also ran back and forth between Carolina Beach and White Lake. She came back very brown and also with a cut foot.

Jeanne Turlington spent her vacation in Clinton, N. C. Her Studebaker friend was with her two week-ends. We are wondering when he is going to get tired of coming down to Barium.

Elsie Vest went to visit some friends in Kannapolis, N. C., the beach and the mountains. A certain young boy from Stony Point was a favorite visitor of hers while she was away.

Shirley Inman went to Lumberton, N. C. and also visited the famous Carolina Beach and White Lake. Two long distance telephone calls from Statesville, N. C. kept Shirley happy.

Peggy Plyler spent her vacation in Kannapolis, N. C. We know she had a good time looking at all the beautiful Nash cars go by.

Frances Stricklin was the first of our seniors to go on her vacation. She spent her two weeks in York, S. C. and Jacksonville, Fla. She came back very brown and went to a church conference.

Mrs. Smith spent her vacation traveling around Washington, Virginia and South Carolina. She really had fun and she was right back on the job on August the first.

Miss Campbell spent her vacation traveling and at her home in Mooresville, N. C. She came back the first of September ready and willing for work.

Last but not least, Clara Mangum had a wonderful time in Durham, N. C. She must have really impressed a boy because he came 150 miles just to see her an hour and a half.

Camp started the first two weeks of August and two of our seniors who didn't go on a vacation went. The second week Frances went, and by the looks of her baggage, she must have thought she was going to stay a year.

The last of August always means school, and we sincerely hope that this will be the best school year that we have ever had.

FINANCIAL REPORT TO THE SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home of the Synod of North Carolina have instructed that a complete financial report be given to the members of the Synod of North Carolina. There are three phases of finance at Barium Springs; namely, The Operating Fund, The Capital Fund, and The Designated Funds.

OPERATING FUND 1949-50

Operating Cash Balance April 1, 1949	$60,091.85
RECEIPTS
Presbyteries percentages	27,816.12
Sunday Schools	32,088.89
Women of the Church	8,879.26
Young People	97.88
Thanksgiving Offerings	82,343.29
Miscellaneous Contributions	12,968.25
Clothing Funds	12,999.02
Endowment Income and Rents	16,875.50
Income from Trust Funds	13,182.42
Duke Endowment	9,998.83
From Relatives	8,096.85
TOTAL	$285,438.16
DISBURSEMENTS
Administration	$27,441.52
Household	79,176.95
Health	5,211.87
Education	21,810.13
Plant Operation and Maintenance	45,786.39
Case Work and Foster Homes	11,279.09
Farms, Dairy, Garden, Orchard, Poultry	38,291.49
Printing Department	3,326.08
Annuities	1,537.97
Shoe Shop	2,285.51
TOTAL	$236,147.00

The expenditures for the year were $10,800.69 more than the income, which decreased the operating balance by that amount and left it at the minimum necessary for carrying on without borrowing money to meet operations in the times when money comes in slowly. This balance was $49,292.16 on April 1, 1950.

CAPITAL FUND

The source of the Capital Fund is legacies received annually. During the year 1949-50 the sum of $21,778.00 was received. The average over the last five years has been $18,692.22 per year. The expenditures from Capital Funds last year for land, buildings, machinery, equipment and trucks were $18,632.96.

DESIGNATED FUNDS

There are certain funds received at Barium Springs which are designated for special purposes and can only be used for that purpose.

The Memorial Church Fund	$94,572.25
Children's Village Fund	49,350.00
Funds held to be designated later by Donors	50,853.27

Through a long period of years there have been designated funds for endowments. This has reached the amount now where if used totally for operation it would carry the institution for a little more than a twelve-month period.

The above is a complete financial statement of the Home. The operating budget for 1950-51 is $236,838.00. It is easy to see that if the operating budget is not met annually by the gifts of the churches and friends the needs of the children will not be met. They will have to eat less, wear less and be admitted in smaller numbers. Barium Springs has always been taken care of and it is the faith of the Regents and the entire staff of the Home that the people of North Carolina intend for the needs of this place to be supplied. It is also the belief of the Regents and the entire staff that the Synod expects economy and business like management. To that end the Regents and the staff pledge themselves in faithful service.

Barium Boys Entered Seminaries This Fall

When the new students enrolled at the seminaries in Richmond, Va. and Louisville, Ky., Barium Springs had representation in each. Ernest Stricklin had chosen the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and Paul Horne had gone to Richmond to study at Union.

Ernest Stricklin came to Barium Springs when he was ten years old and graduated in 1943 with a fine record. Between high school and college he spent about three years in the Navy.

At Davidson he distinguished himself in the campus activities and particularly in the athletic life as one of the outstanding football players on the campus. During his years at Davidson he continued to serve Barium Springs by having charge of the water front during the summer at Camp Fellowship.

Paul Horne entered Barium Springs at the age of two and continued here until he graduated in 1942. Paul found his college course interrupted by the war and spent three years in the service of his country. Upon returning he completed his college course at Davidson and then at the request of the Administration of the college stayed an extra year managing the Student Store. On Awards Day at Davidson special recognition was taken of the outstanding work that Paul had done in his extra year.

This path from Barium to Davidson to the Seminary and into the Gospel ministry has been walked by many Barium students before. It is the earnest hope and prayer of the administration and of the Church throughout the Synod that the Spirit will lead many students yet to walk in that pathway to serve in the Kingdom of God.

Homecoming Set For October 27th

The annual Homecoming date has been set for October 27th at Barium Springs. From far and near, the trek to Barium will begin even before the 27th and that Friday promises to be a great day in the life of Barium Springs.

In addition to the hand-shaking, the personal greetings, and that which takes place at any reunion, there will be the scheduled events of the day. Beginning at 11 o'clock there will be a High School Chapel and pep meeting. At 12 o'clock the alumni luncheon will be served in the dining hall. After luncheon there will be a meeting of the alumni called by the president of the Alumni Association. At 3:30 in the afternoon the Homecoming game with the Barium Springs Red and White Tornados demonstrating their ability will be played on Sloan Field. Monroe High School will afford the opposition and from all appearances it promises to be a humdinger of a game.

Will every former student of this institution who reads this or hears of this occasion please accept it as a personal invitation to return to the campus on Friday, October 27th, for the annual Homecoming event.

LOOK AGAIN, THERE ARE APPLES ON THE TREE

Three Seniors and two Juniors in the apple tree assisting the supervisor of the orchards, Mr. Woodrow Clendenin, in gathering the apples. The apple crop at Barium has been more than abundant. The limbs of the trees have been broken down and the apples have been more than the Home could possibly use.

The Thompson Orphanage and the Jackson Training School were invited to come and take as many as they needed, additional boxes have been sent to Davis Hospital and the children of the Home have had all the apples that they wanted to eat. Of course, the late apples have not yet ripened but will be stored in the apple house for use in the late winter and early spring. No peaches now for about five years, but apples galore for all the children on the campus and for friends and neighbors nearby.

Do Your Thanksgiving Plans Include Your Barium Family, Too? The Synod Requests A Generous Offering, Presbytery Approves It, And The Home Needs It.

How It Looks At The Halfway Mark

One half of the church year is gone, bills are paid and accounts balanced and we can take a look at how things stand. In brief we have taken in from all sources of income $61,735.38. We have spent $107,152.04.

The above figures look bad but are not too discouraging. One half of our benevolence income is received from the Thanksgiving Offering. Also much of our income from regular offerings is received late in the church year. So we receive three fourths of our yearly income in the last four months of the church year. We are greatly dependent on the Sunday School offerings and those from the Women of the Church which largely keeps us going during the first part of the year. At best we have to draw on our reserves for about $50,000.00 for the first eight months of the fiscal year.

Another encouraging fact is that we have received from the churches $1,662.76 more than for the same period last year and we have spent $6,701.66 less than last year. I think there are three reasons for that. First, we have not been able to find some additional personnel, approved by the Regents; second, we do not entertain Synod this year. That always calls for considerable face lifting around here and the buying of additional supplies which hold over for several years. Third, the Lord has blessed us with fine crops this year and all the hay has been saved. The truck farm crops have been good, reducing our food bills. We have a wonderful apple crop.

Presbyterian Orphans' Home has had three sources of income from the churches. There is the percentage assigned us from the church budget; the special offerings from the Sunday Schools and Women of the Church; and the Thanksgiving Offering. Last year (Continued On Page Two)

Board of Regents to Hold Fall Meeting

The Fall meeting of the Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home has been called for Wednesday, October 18th, by the president, Mr. W. E. Price. The twenty members of the Board will convene in the morning, attending to business throughout the day and having lunch with the children on the campus.

Three new regents will attend their first meeting. Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham has been elected to replace Dr. Kelsey Regen. Mrs. J. H. Matthews of Gastonia has succeeded Mrs. Coit Robinson, and Mrs. Charles Ross of Lillington has succeeded Mrs. P. P. McCain. One other regent, Mr. W. Y. Preyer, who was elected at the Fall meeting of Synod, has written that his doctors will not permit him to accept any additional duties and, more than that, they are requiring him to lay down some of his present responsibilities.

In addition to the matters of the Home pertinent to the life of the boys and girls, especial attention will be given to the building program, including the Activities Building and possible housing facilities for the personnel necessary to the life of the campus.

Campus News
BABY COTTAGE

Hi Friends,
We suppose you are surprised to be hearing from us but we have been so busy and excited about many things for the past several months, that we haven't had time to write.

One of the many things we were excited about was the fair. It has been about two weeks since we went to the fair but you can still hear the little children talking about what they did and what a wonderful timethey all had.

Since you last heard from us, we have lost seven little girls and only gained four. We have lost four little boys and gained two. One of the little boys, Charlie Greene, has been on a month's visit in Charlotte. Happy return Charlie!

We wish you were all here to see how beautiful the campus looks at this time of the year. Most of the leaves have turned to their many colors and are gradually falling. It won't be long until everyone here will be raking or playing in them.

This coming Wednesday, October 11th, we are going to have a birthday party for our children since we have had so many birthdays this month. One of our big sisters also had a birthday.

We have now four big sisters who take very good care of us with the help of our housemothers. Two help with the girls and two with the boys. One of which is a very beautiful red-headed girl.

Another who shows her talent by singing in our church choir. Another who has been with us for only two weeks, we are growing to love as we do the other three. Last but not least we have a little girl who looks like a boy since she had her hair cut off.

So long until next month.

INFIRMARY

Hi Folks,
Long time, no hear! But open your ears because we are going to shoot you the works.

Football season is under way here at Barium and, "Boy!" are the "Tornadoes" hot this season; with the winning of Thomasville 21-6 and Childrens Home 41-0, but with a slight upset from Boyden High of Salisbury we were defeated 12-7. Here's hoping we win the rest of our games in the future. Keep up the good work boys.

Our new gym we have looked forward to for so long is being delayed for the lack of steel.

We went to the fair last week and had a wonderful time. The High School students want to thank the Kiwanis Club of Statesville for making it possible for us to attend.

Shirley Porter, the "Little Nurse" has finally returned from the hospital where she stayed for five weeks. Welcome Home!

Well folks, if you get sick you know where to come. Yes, you guessed it, come right to the Infirmary.

See you next month with more of our exciting news.

- The "Morgue" Reporters
- Jane Feimster, Elmina Johnson, Shirley Porter.

WOMANS BUILDING

Hi There,
Time again to bring you up to date on our current events.

First we want to tell you about our football team winning both of its games. The score of the Thomasville game was 26 to 6, and the score of the game with Children's Home was 41 to 0 in our favor. "Keep the good work up boys, we are with you all the way."

Fair bound! Every one attended the fair and seemed to have had a wonderful time. We had a chance to vote for the girl who is representing the fair queen from our school. "Best of luck Ann!"

We are all enjoying school and it will not be long until we receive our reports. Lets not be like this boy. Teacher: "Billy where is the Red Sea located?" Billy, "Its on the third line of my report card."

Each month our work sheet changes and we work at a different job. For myself I can't wait as I miss my good warm bed every morning. I know everyone else feels the same way so I hope their time will pass as fast as mine did.

Miss Ferguson took some of the girls (ones who wanted to) on a weiner roast and you should hear them talk. We know they had a grand time and also know they ate everything they could hold.

Two girls, Marie Andrews and Frances Stricklin, from our building are group leaders in our league for the coming year. May God be with you and guide you girls, and also the others who joined the groups.

Well so long folks until next time

-Marie Andrews

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

One of these days we little girls here at Annie Louise aren't going to make the deadline for the cottage news. But what can you expect from us small, "brainless", busy girls? (The $64.00 question!)

That event which never fails to creep up on us is soon due. Of course we're talking about the undying report cards that seem to come around unexpectedly. Just in case a "few" of us are a little below average, do you suppose it would do any good to cross our fingers? Or is it too hopeless?

Since our first football game was played on our own "Sloan Field", we Annie Louise girls were able to go. However, the second game was on Children's Home's field which we heard all about from our two big sisters. From all we can gather, our mighty Barium team is doing pretty good.

Speaking of our two big sisters, the other night they were teasing the house mother, who is from Statesville, about hoping her home town would get beat. For a while there was a wild chase all over the campus, and since their hiding place is a secret, we can't tell you anything further. But we can tell you this, they both slipped up by the fire escape at Bonnie's suggestion.

Not so long ago all the Barium students went to the Fair, which is just below us. You never saw so many dirty faces in all your life as there were at the end of that day. We always look forward to the fair, for we never have gone a time without having a great deal of fun.

As the beginning of October is the time when the changing leaves are given the most attention. It seems that they are the prettiest right at this time of year.

Some of our little girls have gotten beautiful fall school dresses from the sewing room. Come to think of it, there are a few that are the color of the leaves.

Just the other day we little girls had the nice surprise of going to see "Peggy" a comedy in technicolor. All of us were about to "die laughing", for just about everything in it was funny.

It's time now for us to wear shoes, which at the moment we are glad to get on. But by the time summer rolls around again, we'll be glad to get them off. That is human nature, we guess.

Now don't forget to keep your fingers crossed for us, and we're pretty sure that we won't. With the report cards coming our way, it's going to take more than crossed fingers to get good reports, and thats us crossed over our housemother's knee.

Until November, we remain-
-The A. L. C. Girls

HOWARD

Hello Friends,
We are glad that the leaves are falling. Now we can make play houses and run and jump in them.

We have a new bicycle that the children from the Junior High School in Mooresville sent to us. We are having fun riding the bike after school. If Miss Cora Freeze and the boys and girls who sent it to us could see us riding it they would know just how much fun we are having.

We are having a big time now after school has started. We have started skating. On rainy days we stay inside and fix puzzles and play records.

All of us were invited to the fair. We were so excited about getting to ride all the different things. We had almost as much fun talking about it when we came back. It was nice of the folks at the fair to invite us.

LEES

Hello Everybody,
We are still around and as lively as ever even if you haven't been hearing from us.

We had a very happy summer but were glad to start back to school. It is time for our first reports, hope every one makes good grades.

We transferred nine boys to Jennie Gilmer and we got nine from Synods Cottage.

We are glad to have Elmer Earl Cox to come live with us, he comes from Washington, N. C.

The flowers have been pretty, we have helped keep the weeds out of them. We want to move a lot of them in the house this winter.

You should see our campus now. The maple leaves are turning yellow and red and some are falling. We enjoy playing in the leaves. Then we will rake them up and send them to the barn to make beds for the cows.

We are having fun playing football. We are the "Rag Team".

So long till next month.
- The Lees Boys

How It Looks At

our income from all sources lacked $10,000.00 of meeting our needs and we had to draw on our reserves for that amount to make up the deficit. But if the churches, through their splendid organizations, continue the rate of giving we are now receiving, with God's help and blessing we will avoid a deficit this year. So we thank God and take courage.

Iredell County Fair Holds "Barium Day"

Since late summer great plans have been made by all the children on the campus for the annual Iredell County Fair. Some of the boys have been getting their calves ready while others prepared exhibits of fruit, grain and various other items. However all were ready to attend on the day which was turned over to Barium.

The general manager, Mr. Clyde Smyre, extended the usual invitation to Barium Springs to come down and have the afternoon "on the house". R. G. Calhoun, principal of the school, together with his teachers and some of the housemothers, made arrangements for the children to leave the campus at 12:30, walking about a quarter of a mile, to enter the fair ground gate. From one o'clock until five it was a hilarious and glorious occasion. During the first hour all of the exhibits were open and the children had an opportunity to see them. From two until four o'clock the Ferris Wheels were running and the jitneys were flying and the trains were on the track and loud and happy voices were calling across the way, giving evidence that hearts were light and merry. The management was at its greatest and turned the things over to all the children who came along. At four o'clock the arena was open and the arena show with all of its entertainment was presented before the cheering children. At 5:30 the afternoon was closed and weary bodies but happy minds made their way back to the campus and once again the Iredell County Fair was tucked away in the minds and memories and experiences of the boys and girls.

State Conference Held At Oxford

The annual meeting of the child-caring institutions was held in Oxford, N. C. on the 27th of September. The Masonic Orphanage with Reverend A. D. Leon Gray, superintendent, was host for the day, providing assembly halls and conference rooms and affording a delicious meal at lunch time for the nearly one hundred visitors.

The morning session was featured by choral singing of the children from The Colored Orphanage in Oxford and two addresses, one by Miss Mary Bruce Roberts from Atlanta, Ga., speaking on The Housemother, and the other by Mr. Martin Gula of Washington, D. C., speaking on The Superintendent.

After lunch forums were held for the housemothers and the superintendents. The business session in the late afternoon closed the conference, with Reverend L. C. Larkin of the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh being elected president to succeed Reverend Thomas L. Moose of The Nazareth Orphanage at Rockwell.

Invitation was extended by the Mills Home of Thomasville for the conference to meet with them in 1951.

Representing Barium were Miss Neely Ford, Mrs. Elizabeth Payne, Mrs. E. M. Ellis, Mrs. J. H. Gentry, Miss Kate Taylor, Miss Lois Jackson, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, Mrs. Ruth M. Watson and Reverend Albert B. McClure.

FOUNDATION OF FREEDOM

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Jno. 8:32: Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.

One hundred and seventy four years ago the Continental Congress passed and signed a great Declaration of Independence which began.

"We hold these truths to be self evident. That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Some years later a constitution of the United States was enacted and certain amendments were passed from time to time which became a part of the Constitution. The following are significant sentences:

"Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or of the freedom of speech or of the press."

"The right of citizens to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Somewhat before the Declaration of Independence of Philadelphia there was the Mecklenberg Declaration couched in similar language. A hundred or so years before that our Scottish forefathers signed their covenant in their blood on the grave stones of the Greyfriars Church yard, words that spoke as strongly for freedom.

I have just received a book translated from the Latin of the 16th century. I give you two short quotations. One was the words of Geo. Buchanan, moderator of the church of Scotland and a Presbyterian Elder. He said, "Kings do not exercise authority by divine or other inherent right, but are created kings by election at the hands of their people, and on condition of their maintaining the laws." The other quotation is from John Knox founder of Presbyterian church of Scotland, "All man is equal."

Whence came these thoughts of men of old that we find written in constitution of our Republic? It comes from God's Book. His word of truth. His word is truth. 'Freedom; says Jesus, 'comes from knowing the truth.' Again we briefly today find again and redefine the Foundations of our Freedom.

1—Freedom under the Law.

It is something of a paradox that there is no freedom without law. No state is a free state which is not governed by law and that law to apply to every person in the state be he king, prelate, president commisar or what have you. A free state is governed by law.

That is why when God was establishing the Hebrew Commonwealth, the first great democracy, he first called his servant Moses onto the mount and delivered to him the book of the law.

Should we make our freedom strong? Obey the law. Uphold the law. In that day when the law is used to strengthen oppression or to defeat justice then is freedom fled from our country.

2—Freedom under representative government.

As our Declaration says, "Deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed." The germ of representative government is found in the Hebrew Commonwealth built up by Moses. Fear him as he said to the Israelites, "Take you wise men and understanding and known according o your tribes and I will make them heads over you." Dr. Lyman Abbott has written "The Hebrew commonwealth was the first government to put restrictions upon the absolute power of the monarchy; the first to have a popular legislative assembly; the first to ask for the judgement of the people in general elections; the first to organize government into three departments - legislative, judicial and executive; the first to make any provision for popular instruction."

I have read a story of a statesman who picked up the book of church order which outlines the government of the Presbyterian Church, a representative government, representatives chosen by a vote of the people and he said here, coming down from the days of monarchy are the principles on which America was founded. Yes, I am proud of my Presbyterian heritage, traceable in two lives for nearly two hundred years. But the Presbyterian System is of value because the men of the Westminster Assembly were men of the Book and the Scottish Church which accepted those Presbyterian standards and passed them on to us were embred with the Philosophy of Geo. Buchanan, Algernon Sidney, John Knox, and Andrew Melville who were men of the Book. That book which Andrew Jackson declared in his last illness to be "The rock on which our republic rests."

3—Freedom in equality.

When our forefathers declared their independence they say that they hold it a self evident truth that men are created equal. Abraham Lincoln in his Gettysburg address began by saying "Four-score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Whence came this fundamental principle of freedom? It is founded on the word. The principle goes back to Moses in the establishment of the Hebrew Commonwealth when Moses declared in Deut. 10:7 "The Lord your God regardeth not persons." Job declared "He respecteth not any." God had to work a miracle and repeat it three times to get it through the thick head of Peter, but at long last Peter said I perceive that God is no respecter of persons. Puir Bobby Burns who wrote "a man's a man for a' that" also describes a poor farmer and his family reading the Bible and praying and singing hymns and concludes his great poem, "From scenes like these old Scotia's granduwers springs, which makes her loved at home revered abroad.

Princes and Earls are but the breath of Kings, an honest man's the noblest work of God. (To be continued next month)

Salisbury Eleven Takes Tornados

A strong and spirited club of Yellow Jackets from the Boyden High School in Salisbury, coached by Bill Ludwig, came out victorious in the scrap on Sloan Field on Friday, October 6th, by the score of 12-7. The Yellow Jackets with the passing accuracy of Barger scored two touchdowns in the first half to take a 12-0 lead. In the second half the Tornados held strong against all scoring threats and produced a touchdown of their own, making the extra point after and leaving only five points separating the two teams at the final score.

Strong line play, excellent passing, good down field blocking were demonstrated all afternoon. The coaches of Boyden and Barium had their squads in excellent shape and the spirit of the teams on the field and off and the spirit of the cheer leaders and cheering sections was a thing of beauty to behold. Finer sportsmanship and cleaner play could not be asked for.

This is Barium's first loss of the season, having won from Thomasville 21-6 and defeating the Children's Home 41-0. The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

October 13, Barium at Spencer; October 20th, Barium at Lexington; October 27, Homecoming, Monroe at Barium; November 3, North Wilkesboro at Barium; November 10, Barium at Mooresville; November 17th, Barium at Statesville.

Beta Club Elects Ten New Members

The Beta Club of the Barium High School at a recent meeting elected ten new members. Eight girls and two boys were recognized for their excellent grades and citizenship.

The new members are: Paul Barnes, Helen Baucom, Hilda Donaldson, Pattie Inman, Shirley Porter, Melva Powell, Frances Stricklin, Dorothy Surles, Palmer Wilcox, and Gloria Williams.

Mooresville Kiwanis Gave Circus Tickets

The Kiwanis Club of Mooresville, N. C. extended an invitation to the children at Barium Springs to be their guests at the Mills Brothers Circus in Mooresville on October 26th. Dr. Norman Sholar who had charge of the arrangements said that there were 300 tickets available and that he wanted every child at Barium Spring to be present for the circus that afternoon.

Mr. J. H. Lowrance, whose long service at the Home makes him ready to meet any occasion that arises, had transportation ready. The two buses were driven out and the two big trucks loaded up, the pick-up trucks were standing by, and all the cars available were in line so that the whole Home was loaded up and started in procession to the circus grounds.

Upon arrival, we found the Kiwanis committee ready to greet the children and the management of the circus very hospitable in admitting us to the Big Top. To the utter amazement of everyone present, the reserved seats in front of the middle ring had been made available for the Barium children. While the crowd waited the band came over into the center ring and gave a concert, and then for two hours the acts were performed to the thrill and delight of those who were present. Some of the little girls from Annie Louise Cottage wanted to take the clowns home and when their housemother asked them what in the world they would do with them at night they said they would just put them in the box with the rest of the dolls.

The management of the circus in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club went all out in making it a glorious occasion, and even invited the entire assembly to remain for the Wild West Show after the regular performance.

It seems like the Kiwanis Clubs of Mooresville and Statesville are special friends of Barium Springs. They are always doing something nice for the boys and girls here.

Adult Leadership Needed At Barium

Perhaps the most important place at Barium Springs is that of a housemother. For twenty-four hours a day she lives with the children and it is the housemother who coordinates all that happens in the life of the child. At the present time there is need for additional leadership in this field at Barium, but since this is a phase of work that is so important, it requires persons who are particularly well suited for the job.

A person necessarily has to be strong in body to take the strain of the day as it comes. Adaptability and gentleness are two other qualities that a person needs, and if one does not have a good sense of humor there is hardly a possibility of being successful in the work. Love for children and the ability to understand them are also prerequisites. So the housemother must be a rather unusual person, strong in body, keen in mind, and deeply spiritual in outlook, capable of dealing with the most important thing upon earth - the soul and body of a child. Persons who have these qualities and who have a desire to enter into this work as a calling and who are young enough to grow up in the work, might communicate with the superintendent of the Home.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM SPRINGS

On Thanksgiving Day nearly three hundred children will bow their heads to give thanks for the bountiful meal set before them at Barium Springs. It is traditionally true that certain friends provide the Home on that day with all that is necessary for a Thanksgiving spread. Every child may eat until he is satisfied, and more than that, until he is uncomfortable. But the glorious part of the story is that as they eat their Thanksgiving dinner they also know that they will be able to eat during the days between then and next Thanksgiving, because Presbyterians throughout the Synod of North Carolina, are going to reach down deep in their pockets and send their hard-earned money to the Home to provide for the children.

The Synod of North Carolina in adopting its budget proposed that nearly two-thirds of the Churches' gifts to Barium Springs should be given at Thanksgiving through the Thanksgiving Offering. Every year ministers, officers, Sunday School teachers, and members of the church have worked hard and given sacrificially. This year will be no exception. Even though everything at home is higher, people will also recognize that the same items bought at Barium Springs are higher too, and will therefore send to the treasurer of the Home enough to feed, clothe and care for the boys and girls who make up the Barium family.

Often it has been said that Barium Springs receives more than its share, that Barium Springs is rich. If the financial statement printed in the Messenger was read, the truth would be known for the facts stand out clear as to the exact financial status of this institution. Presbyterians like facts, and the facts are that last year the Home lacked over ten thousand dollars of receiving enough to meet its needs. This deficit was met by taking that amount from the cash operating balance. This cash operating balance stands now at a minimum necessary for meeting the bills between the interim of the incomes from the Churches. It is the faith of the Regents and the administration that when men, women and children throughout the Synod know these facts that they will provide adequately for the work of the Home.

Thanksgiving in 1950 is going to be a glorious occasion because Christian people at the call of the Synod and, in the name of the Christ, are going to send to this part of the Church's work an offering for boys and girls. Remember that Barium lives from hand to mouth and that it is your hand and Barium's mouth.

Homecoming Day Brings Hundreds Back

Former students from North and South Carolina and Virginia regaled the campus at Barium for the annual Homecoming football game on Friday, October 27th.

At the morning Chapel Program and Pep Meeting, presided over by the principal of the school, R. G. Calhoun, Reverend C. H. Sides, pastor of Little Joe's Church, conducted the devotional exercises. The new superintendent, Reverend Albert B. McClure, was presented to the returning alumni, and then the feature of the morning was the address and reminiscing by the former superintendent, Dr. Joseph B. Johnston. Dr. Johnston delighted the assembly by calling the returning grads by name and relating some incident about them and their athletic abilities while they were at Barium Springs.

At high noon the bell in the old tower called everybody together in the spacious dining room for the alumni luncheon, which by special request from the alumni was similar to that which had been eaten so often on the campus. About two hundred folk were present as guests, making from five to six hundred people in the dining room at one time.

The alumni meeting, called by the president, Arthur Roach, was held in the high school building. Reports were made, and resolutions were adopted. Since officers serve for two years no elections were necessary.

The feature of the day came when the Red and White Tornadoes of Barium Springs took on the Blue and White Pythons from Monroe, N. C. in a grand football game. During the contest two passes were completed for touchdowns. John Bullard took a reverse and ran for another one and Buddy Maples bucked over from the five for the fourth. Paul Barnes kicking each point with Pinky Hillard holding, made it four straight and the score was 28-0 in favor of Barium Springs.

SEWING ROOM

Hello friends,
Since we did not get any news in the Messenger last month, we have lots to say this time.

The most important thing that has happened to us was about a week ago. I suppose everyone enjoys a home made cake once in a while. All the sewing room girls and our two bosses enjoyed a big piece of devil's food cake. You ask where we got it? Jeanne Turlington's mother came to Barium for a week-end and she brought her a beautiful cake and well, you know the rest. We really would like to thank Jeanne's mother and all hope she will come back soon.

Our football season is in full swing and we have won all of our conference games. Our only non-conference game was with Salisbury. But they did not beat us too much, only 13 to 7. Our last game was played over at Lexington and ended with a scoreless tie. Keep up the good work boys and you can rest assured that all of us are behind you.

The sewing room has really been busy making pajamas for boys and school dresses for girls. You should hear these machines hum. You would think something was behind them, as indeed there is, you ask what? Why there are seven senior girls busy working their fingers to the bone.

Here is a little gossip about each girl working here in the sewing room.

Jeanne Turlington took a trip to Charlotte to buy her a new coat. We all know she will be really warm this year.

Frances Stricklin is already making college plans. She will attend W. C. U. N. C. Good luck goes with your plans Fannie.

Melva Powell having an 8 by 10 picture made. Wonder who the lucky person is that will receive it? Old Powell can be seen any time at the mail box, what time she isn't sewing.

Anne Wilcox is being a busy beaver beautifying our recreation room down at the Woman's building. Wonder what the big deal is? What say, Willie?

Shirley Inman, waiting with great anticipation for the Albe-marle-Statesville football game. Now what's in Statesville? Or is it Albemarle that is attracting her attention?

Peggy Plyler, keeping up with Western Carolina College. There must be a "Church" down there, Reckon?

Joyce Katen's favorite music is listening for the sounds of a motorcycle. We can't understand why she likes that kind of music, but if she likes it, why complain?

Louise Surles is still working as the school librarian.

Last but by far not the least is Clara Mangum. Wonder why it is that Clara is receiving a letter from Salisbury nearly every day. Could there be something serious about all these letters? We will leave that to her to decide.

Report cards have gone out and nearly everyone made the honor roll. We really are proud of our girls and we hope everyone will make the honor roll next month.

Homecoming is Friday, the 27 of October. Everyone come up and have a real big time. We are expecting a lot of people, so don't disappoint us.

All of us senior girls send all of you a sincere wish that who ever you are, or where ever you are, you will have a wonderful Thanksgiving and may God bless you all.

Until you hear from us again we remain as ever,

—The sewing room girls.

ANNIE LOUISE

Greetings Friends and Neighbors:

Since the Thanksgiving season is near at hand, we here at Barium are beginning to look around to see all the beautiful wonders to give thanks. The autumn trees, with their red, yellow, orange, and still green leaves, are a sight in itself to behold. With so many trees on our big campus, they no doubt are the first fall season things we notice. The green grass is fading slightly and with it we know old man winter isn't any too far away.

Surprises galore are just flooding our way! First, we went to the picture show to see a comedy called "Peggy". All of us including the first grade laughed till our sides felt as if they'd split. Second, we just came back from seeing a circus in Mooresville. It was the biggest circus we had ever seen, and in all three rings they had an act going on at one time. For some of us, it was the first time we had been big enough to see one. However, for us "veterans" it was again a pleasant surprise.

That same night while we were bathing, little Betty Sue Church and Mary Jane Bolton said that they wished they could have brought one of the elephants back with them. Where would you keep it? was asked. "In our boxes, of course", came a quick reply. Now for any of you who have seen these boxes, you could tell at once that an elephant's foot could barely get in one.

A little birdie has dropped us a hint that we may get to go to a movie to see "My Blue Heaven" starring Betty Grable. Of course there is a possibility that this birdie is wrong, but we hope not.

You faithful friends of ours who have kept your fingers crossed for us on that report card business, might be interested to know the outcome for the first six weeks. We want you to know that it certainly did help, for there were a good many of us on the honor roll, but also a good many who weren't. There were a few who missed by one S. Now that's doing good for us small ones, don't you think? Please keep on being just as faithful, and we'll see what we can do next time.

Until that time, thank you so much for everything.

—The A. L. C. Girls.

WOMANS BUILDING

It seems that so many nice things happen to us that I forgot something very important last month.

I would like to take this time to say thanks to Mrs. Crumpler for the sixteen pairs of lovely curtains. They certainly do improve the looks of our rooms.

We don't mind the wind blowing now, since Mr. Treuse sent us the beautiful lace trimmings for our slippers. "Thank you Mr. Treuse."

All the Senior girls are stepping out in new outing night gowns. Bet they stay warm, don't you?

Glad to have the Regents with us the other day. The birthday table was not quite so large this month, only 59 people went, this included the Regents and pupils who had a birthday in October.

We received our reports and everyone made pretty good grades. Now we will say, "Congratulations" to all the girls who made the honor roll.

One of our girls has taken the job as assistant matron on the other side of the campus. We hope she will soon come back and live with us. "Welcome home any time Elsie."

Our game with Spencer was one which almost anyone could enjoy, even though we did have to stand up. We put the game in the bag by a margin of 38 to 6.

Lay off your cokes and candy, girls, basketball starts November thirteenth. We can hardly wait, as we have new suits and everyone is doing her best to see if she can get one. They are still black and gold, but so beautiful that the players might be scared to play in them. We also got new warm-up suits which are lined this year. Guess we do not have an excuse to get so close to Mr. Hethcox now. "What do you say to this, girls?"

Everyone's eyes were turned to some visitors the other day that Elsie, Peggy and Marie were showing around. Certainly was glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Moore and some members of his church down from Charlotte. Hope you can come again soon, friends, and also you others who have not been the first time. Don't say you don't have time, just run up any time.

Due to rainy weather the Barium and Lexington game was postponed until Monday. The game turned out to be a scoreless one. But it was still exciting for those of us who went.

We have been having some excellent plays in the past weeks. If they don't watch out we will run the movie stars out of business.

We forgot to tell you before, thanks to you friends who have made it possible for us to attend the football games away from home.

Every one seems to be making tracks, and with new shoes at that. They certainly do look smart. Don't wear them out walking up and down the side walks, girls.

Some of the girls have had visitors and we would like to say we certainly did enjoy having everyone of you, come again, friends.

A member of the Senior class is going to start writing some news from our school. Be sure you read it, I know it will make interesting reading.

Certainly did have a delightful time at the Circus. Thank you friends, who made it possible for us to attend.

"I smell paint." O yes, I know, they are fixing up a recreation room down stairs, where we hope to dance, play games and just have fun.

So long folks until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

FOUNDATION OF FREEDOM

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Ino. 8:32: Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.

Last month we discussed the blessing of civil and religious liberty and gave three pillars for its foundation: The Law; Representative Government; Equality.

The fourth pillar is

FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND WORSHIP

We get our papers with their criticism of the powers that be, uttered without fear or favor so long as they contain nothing scandalous or libelous. So long as there is freedom to speak the truth in America, men's minds will be enlightened and their intellect will be free and freedom can live.

How wonderful is the Bible in its teachings on free speech. Old Nathan the Prophet feared not to point his finger at King David saying, "Thou art the man." Old Elijah met Ahab in Naboth's vineyard that Ahab was about to take, and Ahab said "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?" And Elijah replied "I have found thee because thou hast sold thyself to do evil in the sight of the Lord." The Apostles Peter and John preaching at the beautiful gate of the temple were called and commanded not to speak nor teach in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John replied "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Closely bound to the freedom of speech is freedom of worship, assured us by the Constitution of the United States. How fortunate Americans to have civil and religious liberty won by the blood of martyrs all down the ages. Witness the Hebrew children in the fiery furnace, Daniel in the Lion's den; James the son of Zebedee slain with the sword; Stephen stoned to death; Peter crucified; Paul beheaded; Ridley and Cranmer burned at the stake. Time would fail me to tell the long sad story how, in the name of religion, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Yes the roll of martyrs is a long one who gave their lives that we might worship our God according to the dictates of our own consciences. It was fitting that the words of Patrick Henry were first spoken in a church, Old St. John's Church in Richmond. "Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

FREEDOM FROM THE POWER AND PUNISHMENT OF SIN

But political and civil freedom is not the final, the complete freedom, described in our text, for far too many in this land of freedom are still bound by the chains of habit; hemmed in and hampered by their own prejudice; limited and enslaved by their sins; knowing little of what Paul calls "The glorious liberty of the children of God." Freedom to such an one only comes through the sacrifice, the salvation of Jesus Christ. No slave can set a slave free but the son of God can for he abides in God's house forever.

Last summer we visited one of the most beautiful estates in North Carolina and went through that part of the house open to the public. But often we came to a silken cord that said we could go no further. There were hundreds of rooms we might not enter. But if we had been children of that home every door would have swung wide for us. "For if the Son shall make you free ye shall be free indeed."

To gather then in a few words the message of this text. The hope of the world for freedom rests not in armies; or in Marshall plans; or in treaties, United Nations, or any man made material thing, but only on the principles of this Book, the Word of God, and in Him who is incarnated truth. For where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

Barium Takes Second Place In Conference

The Barium Springs football team finished a very successful season, with only one loss and that to Statesville 7-0 in the final game. The South Piedmont Conference record shows six wins, one tie, and one loss, which was good enough for second place in the final standings.

Salisbury, a triple A team, won over Barium in its only non-conference game by the close score of 12-7. Barium was one of the few teams to score on Salisbury this year.

The results of the games played this season are shown below:

- Barium 21, Thomasville 6.
- Barium 41, Children's Home 0.
- Barium 7, Salisbury 12.
- Barium 38, Spencer 6.
- Barium 0, Lexington 0.
- Barium 28, Monroe 0.
- Barium 28, N. Wilkesboro 0.
- Barium 23, Mooresville 0.
- Barium 0, Statesville 7.

- Barium 21, Statesville 7.
- Barium 37, Statesville 0.
- Barium 35, Lenoir 0.
- Barium 7, Lenoir 0.

WOMANS BUILDING

So much has happened this month I hardly know what to tell you first, and I can't go by importance because one is as important as the next.

We certainly have enjoyed having members from Gastonia, Kings Mountain, Charlotte, and other neighboring towns with us. We want to say thank you for the lovely and useful gifts you brought.

Everyone certainly did enjoy the delicious picnic supper, given mostly by the young people and some older members of the church from Gastonia.

Members of our home here at Barium have traveled around to different churches, and talked, sang and just had a swell time. "Thanks to you friends who's homes they stayed in." We know they had a wonderful time!

We had a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner and an entertaining ball game. Wish you all could have seen it. I think the final score was 18-0 Statesville Alumni's favor.

The girls on the first floor went bowling and you should hear them talk. This was the first time most of us had been, and we can hardly wait until we get to go again.

The upstairs girls took in a movie as their entertainment, as we have so many girls we could not all go bowling.

Mr. McClure and our matrons planned a square dance for us, and since we do not have them very often it is rather hard to find a partner. But I think the ones who wanted to go, went so far as to put a sack over some of the boys heads until they got them down there. Enjoyed having everyone of you boys with us and hope there will be some new faces at our next dance, which we hope will not be long off.

The boys are going to have their football banquet Friday. We hope they will enjoy it as much as we enjoyed their games. The senior girls have their fingers crossed, hoping they will get to go.

Everyone is looking forward to Christmas and to make it seem almost here we have a beautiful

SEASON'S GREETINGS

These little girls can hardly wait for the real Santa to come, but while they eagerly anticipate that glorious time they want to speak for all the boys and girls of the home and wish you a "Merry Christmas!"

snow fall. Merry Christmas, to all of you.

Supper was prepared by some of our girls and Mrs. Hobgood, for the men of the church. Surely was delighted to have each and everyone of you. Melva and Peggy Plyler appreciates the pictures the photographer sent them, of the girls who worked. "Thank you."

Well so long folk until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

BABY COTTAGE

Stop, Look and Listen!

Can that be old St. Nick we hear? Must be, for sure as can be we did see him Thursday night in Statesville and heard his big hearty laugh, and we just know he soon will be around, and just how in this world can we keep our eyes closed and not peep just a teeny weeny bit just to make sure he is the one we saw. I hope he finds every little stocking and makes everybody happy.

We have had snow and we played in it and had lots of fun.

Our basketball season has begun. We play our first game Dec. 12, and we are hoping to win, for our big sisters are on the team, and oh boy, we can't lose.

We just don't have much news this time only about Christmas. Our Santa letters have gone out and we just know all our good friends everywhere are going to see that Old Santa don't miss anyone.

We do want to thank everyone for what they have done already for us and that you have a very happy Christmas.

Yours as always,
—The Babies.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi Folks,

We are back again with our news. We didn't get our news in last time so we have a lot to tell you.

School is getting along just fine. We are all happy to be going back to school. We all are putting in a hard days of work and play.

Rumple Hall had a skating party we invited the Jennie Gilmer boys to go with us. We had a wonderful time and while we were skating it started snowing. One would have thought Santa had come and we thought we were having a white Christmas too.

We went to the Statesville Christmas parade and enjoyed it very much. The bands were wonderful. Jean Turlington was elected our Christmas queen. The night after that we had a football banquet and all of our football boys came.

We are all getting our furniture painted up. Some friends in Durham are sending us some new mirrors for our rooms and some friends in Wilmington are getting us some new curtains. We are very happy to be remembered by these friends.

We were also very happy to be remembered by a group of friends from Mooresville. We had a wonderful box of goodies and did we enjoy them. Thanks friends.

That's all folks so be watching for our news next month.

—Joyce Ferrell and Barbara Melton

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear friends,

This time last month we young-uns were thinking along the line of Thanksgiving and all it means to us. During December we tune up our thoughts on Christmas, baby dolls, Santa Claus, Rudolph the Red Nose Rein deer and so forth. Not only will our thoughts be tuned up but our vocal cords need to be tuned up too. In a week or so from now, quite a few of us will try to harmonize to the beautiful songs which are dear

Falling Leaves and Christmas Money

It would be hard indeed to convince a child at Barium Springs that money does not grow on trees, for every Fall as the leaves come tumbling down to the campus it is a sign for them to get their rakes, brooms, and sacks and start to work to pick up the money that has been growing on the trees. This is the way that leaves golden and red and brown and yellow become pennies, nickels, dimes, and dollars. The children in cottages rake up the leaves, play in the big piles and then pack them down deep into bags that have been provided. The housemothers supervise the job and keep count of the bags and then the truck comes by and hauls them away. Well, where does the money come in? Simply that the cottage gets paid so much for each bag and that money is used for Christmas. Thus a child is enabled to serve the Home and provide something for himself and his cottage in getting ready for Christmas giving and spending - spending for himself and giving to the Give-To-Christmas-Tree.

Each year a large Christmas tree is put up in the center of the dining room sometime before the Christmas holidays begin. For weeks the people of the campus plan and save and get ready to come to the Give-To-Christmas-Tree service. During the service an opportunity is afforded each one to bring his gift and place it on the tree and these gifts are taken and used for some person or family selected in advance who really needs something at Christmas time.

and familiar to us. If we get good enough, we might open our windows in order to give the other cottages some listening pleasure.

Football Banquet Honors Players

The annual football banquet was held at Barium Springs on Friday evening, December 1st, to honor four teams - varsity, junior varsity, and the 90-pound and 110-pound teams. Reverend R. S. Arrowood served as toastmaster.

Paul Barnes, varsity captain for the past year, received the greatly prized award of being voted, by his teammates, the most valuable player during the past season. This honor is acquired by a majority vote of the 18 letter men.

Mr. W. A. Hethcox presented the letters to the 90-pound team, Rev. C. H. Sides to the 110-pound team, Mr. Joe Ben Gibbs to the junior varsity, and Mr. S. A. Grier had the honor of awarding letters to the varsity.

The banquet menu maintained the high standard that has been set for this annual occasion at Barium, which is the crowning event of the football season and marks the close of a very successful one. Letters were awarded as follows:

Thanksgiving Report Will Be In Next Issue

From the North, South, East and West of the State of North Carolina, from the urban Church and the rural Church, from organizations and individuals, there has been coming to Barium Springs the gifts made at Thanksgiving time for the Home and the Children. Of course the money is essential to the operation of the institution, but the great and encouraging thing is the interest and prayers and love manifested by this giving.

It will be late December or January before a satisfactory report can be made, so look for the listing of the gifts in the next issue of the Messenger.

the honor roll. Improvements on conduct mean that we want Santa to be good to us again this year and not bring us any switches.

Every time we seem to tell you about our Joy Gift Christmas tree, which we have in the dining room. Well, it's no different this year. Again we're going to backfire and give instead of just receiving. To someone in need, we are going to give a gift and we are all too happy in doing so. It makes us feel that we have balanced the Christmas Spirit by giving.

Our ever favorite game of basketball is almost in full swing. By the 12th of December, we will have played our first game of the season. Our big sisters are going to try to explain what goes on out there on the court, for there are a few of us who have never seen a basketball game. We do hope that our basketball season will be as successful as our past football season was.

Also every month we tell you about a movie we have recently seen. This time, the most recent was "Tripoli," a very colorful and exciting movie. During part of a sand storm, we just had to close our eyes, for we're too chicken-hearted to watch.

Remember to keep in touch with us every month, and we'll make sure that our little article is right here where it ought to be.

Merry Christmas, everyone, and may you have a very happy New Year.

—The Little Forget-Me-Nots

The Glee Club had a program November 9th at the grammar grade auditorium, giving both sacred and secular music. They also gave a program of sacred music at Mitchell College. The Sextette, consisting of Melva Powell, Jeanne Turlington, Helen Barnes, Rae Powell, Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman, went to Raleigh and spent the week-end in order to sing for the Vanguard Sunday School Class and the First Presbyterian Church there on Sunday morning. This sextette also sang at Statesville for the Ladies Auxiliary. Another group, made up of Hazel Creech, Pattie Inman, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson and Anne Wilcox went to Newton to sing for the Ladies Auxiliary.

We are very proud of our school this month because during the recent Jr. Red Cross drive we had 100% participation and gave a total of $31.25. This is the largest amount we have given in recent years. The Junior Class is now selling Christmas Seals.

The middle of November we wrote our Santa Claus letters.

Our contestant for Miss Merry Christmas was Jeanne Turlington, a senior. Everybody went to the parade in Statesville. Now that the Yuletide Season is officially here, let us be the first ones to wish all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

—Shirley Inman.

LEES

Hello Folks,

We had a very happy Thanksgiving and we want to thank all our friends for the nice things they do for us.

We went to Charlotte to see the Christmas parade. We took our sandwiches along and had our supper in the bus. We had a good time.

We are looking forward to the Christmas holidays. Santa Claus will soon be here and we will have plenty of toys to play with.

We were invited to the Playhouse to see "Tripoli," then last week we went to see "Treasure Island".

Some friends in Morganton sent us some candy for Thanksgiving and Mr. Flynn Menius came to see us and brought a crate of oranges. Thank you,

We were all thrilled to see the snow. It was real cold but we got out in it just the same.

We have enjoyed the football games and now we are looking forward to the basketball season.

SYNODS

Hello Folks,

We certainly want to thank Mrs. Eugene Johnston's circle in Mooresville for the nice box of cakes they sent us. We have been sharing them with the Howard Cottage girls. They sure do taste good when we come in from school.

Old Jack Frost paid us a visit in real style during the Thanksgiving holidays. He nipped our toes and noses. It was so cold we had to play inside most of the time.

We brought home new report cards today with three of our family on the honor roll. They are: Douglas Byrd, Bobby Meritt, and Bobby Ramsey. Some brought their grades up from last month, others have promised to do better in the future.

Christmas is just three weeks away. We are trying to be real good so he will remember us this year.

Hope old Santa will be good to you.

—The Wigglers.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

The sewing room is just buzzing with news this month. We have been very busy making Choir robes for the Glee Club, and after making them, the girls got to wear them to sing at Mitchell College. Man, they really looked nice. (if we do say so ourselves).

All of us are really proud of ourselves. You ask why? Well, now don't die of shock, but all of us sewing room girls made the honor roll. The only thing now, is to work hard and make it again next month.

Our football season ended very successfully and to make a happy climax, a football banquet was given to which all the senior girls were invited, the faculty, and a number of friends, and of course, the football boys.

After the banquet, the high school was invited to a square dance and all of us danced until we could hardly move. Sure hope we have lots more square dances, 'cause all of us just love to dance.

Now for some news about each of our girls:

Anne Wilcox, receiving letters from Mississippi, wonder who could be way out there and is expecting to come home for Christmas.

Marie Andrews, having a little trouble with her football friend, but she was seen buying a Christmas present, so maybe things will work out.

Peggy Plyler is still keeping up with Western Carolina Teachers College. We are still wondering if a "Church" is down there.

Melva Powell was seen coming out of Belks with a big package. Wonder who the lucky person is that will receive it? The mail box is still a favorite haunt of old Powell's.

Shirley Inman has moved her interest from Albemarle to Statesville. Now wonder what is in Statesville?

Frances Stricklin going around with a wonderful expression on her face. What has come over Fanny? Could it be a "Boyd"?

Jeanne Turlington, our candidate for "Miss Merry Christmas", of Iredell County didn't win but we all thought she deserved it. The Studebaker friend is still going strong.

Now for Clara, well, old Mangum is still receiving letters from Salisbury every day. We were wondering last month if it was serious, now we are almost sure it is. By the way, old Mangum has a part time job working in the "Snack Bar", when the girls are practicing basketball.

Some of our girls have been away this month, making talks and singing. November 18th, Shirley Inman, Jeanne Turlington, Melva Powell, and a few more girls went over to Raleigh to sing. They wish to send their love to Dr. Scarborough and Miss Annie. They had lots of fun and talked about it for days. Clara Mangum went over to Winston-Salem the same day and made a talk on Barium to the Highland Presbyterian Church. After church, she ate at the Robert E. Lee hotel and that's all old Mangum talked about. We know all of these girls had fun and would love to go again, but much to their sorrow they will be graduating in May.

We want to thank Mrs. Hillard for the wonderful candy we enjoyed so much. Any time ya make any more, Mrs. Hillard, we would love to have it.

We are all looking forward to Christmas and to the New Year.

Surely hope all of you have a wonderful Christmas and a very happy New Year.

May God bless you all.

—Clara Mangum.
Melva Powell.

HOWARD

Hi there,
The things that stand out in our minds most this month is going to Charlotte to see the Christmas parade. Hopalong Cassidy led the parade and Santa Claus ended it. The parade was real pretty and we all enjoyed it. We all sat in the bus and watched it.

No one expected the snow but it came Nov. 24. Every one was excited. They were jumping up and down and running back and forth. After breakfast our big time came, we were all sliding down and throwing snow balls. After we had played a little while we came in and got warm. After dinner we went outside to play again and started to make a snow man but we didn't get to finish it.

We got our report cards, nine girls made the honor roll. Their names are Romona Blake, Shelby McEwen, McFarland, Sylvia Wells, Merle Byrd, Janet Woodall, Shelby Peak, and Edna Mae Evans. Elsie Vest, who came to help at our cottage made it too. We are all proud of the ones that made it.

We are still riding the bicycles, we are teaching the ones to ride that don't know how. Already four girls have learned to ride. They are Shelby McEwen, Lillian Bacon, Betty Wright, and Barbara Porter.

So long until next month.
—Howard Girls.

CHILDREN OF THE HOME ENJOY CHRISTMAS AND HOLIDAY SEASON

Christmas at the Home is one of the glorious seasons of the year and one of the busiest. Christmas letters are written in the school rooms under the direction of the teachers early in November and these letters are put in the hands of Miss Rebekah Carpenter who handles the Christmas presents for the children. Particular letters are sent to those who request particular ones and the others are sent to churches who ask for large numbers of letters with some churches taking as many as forty or fifty letters from the boys and girls.

As packages come in they are carefully listed and stored away. It takes a lot of thinking and remembering and writing to get these packages correctly listed and assigned to the proper cottage for a particular child. Two days before Christmas the store room is bulging and Miss Carpenter's brain is in a whirl.

Everything is sorted out and for two days the truck delivers the packages to the various cottages. The housemothers then in the secrecy of their own rooms begin to check to see that everything is properly arranged for and at the last minute there comes a frantic flurry if some expected package has not arrived. The housemother and Miss Carpenter are well fortified for that occasion and immediately the situation is remedied and the child is provided for.

By bedtime on Christmas Eve all is ready and in waiting for Christmas morning. From five o'clock on that good day throughout the rest of the day there is the thrilling excitement of what Santa Claus has brought or what has come from under the tree. Little girls with their baby dolls and little boys with their toys, cowboy suits and tents rock and sing, dance and play all day long. Basketball, volley balls, skates, shirts, sweaters, lovely things to wear, watches, small radios, money and gifts of every description are proudly displayed by the other boys and girls as the members of the Home visit from cottage to cottage to see what each one has received.

In addition to this there are special cakes that come for Christmas dinner, special turkeys that have been on deep freeze for many weeks in preparation for Christmas dinner, special candy that has been sent in for Christmas, special fruit that has been sent up for the Christmas time, and a varied assortment of candies and fruits and games and toys from one or two particular individuals who send up a truckload. There are those who, realizing that in it all somebody might be overlooked, send in special money for use at Christmas. Many individuals send in checks to be used for the children and for the purchase of Christmas presents. Organizations like the Elks of Statesville and the Y M C A of Davidson send in checks. All these things go into the making up of Christmas Day and Christmas dinner, and Christmas gifts, and Christmas trees, so that Barium Springs has a wonderful Christmas season because there are others who have caught the Christmas spirit and remembered the Home.

Campus News

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear Friends,

So much has happened since the first of December that we hardly know just where to start. We'd like to begin with Christmas morning, but there are lots of things which happened to us before that great day.

In December, we told you that the word had drifted out that all small children were going to Davidson for a real, sure-enough party. By the time any more news had drifted to us, we had already

Christmas Treats Parachuted to Campus

Candy from the heavens was a reality on Christmas morning. At eleven o'clock the air was filled with tiny parachutes floating to the ground with candy, chewing gum, and good things to eat. Mr. Aubry Wallace and Captain Marvin Huntley had been getting their flight ready for weeks at Monroe. The Civil Air Patrol of that town had purchased handkerchiefs and string and had made the little parachutes. The Men's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church had furnished the money for the project. The airplane had been furnished by the Civil Air Patrol with Captain Huntley at the controls.

At the appointed time on Christmas morning the plane circled the field three times and then made the first run across, setting loose a whole batch of 'chutes that filled the air and came fluttering down to the upreached hands of the children waiting for them. Four runs in all across the field and four loosing of 'chutes gave everybody a chance to get one out of the air and to have the thrill of getting it, taking possession of a good piece of candy and gum and to have a brand new handkerchief for keeps.

come and gone. On the way there, our hearts were light and so were our mouths, coming back, we were just as light-hearted, and our arms were heavy with gifts. No one at our house will ever be able to express our appreciation for the wonderful time, the wonderful courtesy, and the wonderful gifts. Anyway, thanks a lot, we had a nice time!

Next on our list as being an important occasion was the Friday noon we got out for the holidays. We were practically at a loss over how to spend so much free time! But we soon found out, for we went on walks, and played all sorts of games - both in the house and out of doors.

Finally, Christmas Eve we were unusually quiet. This sounds abnormal, doesn't it? Well, we were told that Santa might be peeping in the window to see if we were good or not, and we settled down for a quiet evening, just in case he happened to be watching us. Then - Christmas morning! Feet never moved as fast, sleepiness never vanished as quickly as it did that morning. Presents were sitting there so invitingly, waiting for us to open them up. "Why Santa must be awfully bright to remember all I wanted for Christmas!" "Isn't my Negro doll darling?" "Look at my Bride doll!" Oh, well, isn't all this chatter typical? Seriously now, if there is anyone in our writing thank-you notes we might have skipped, we would be awfully glad if you would write and let us know. There are so many to whom we must write, that perhaps we overlooked someone.

After Christmas Day wasn't the end of our fun! As usual we went to a movie to see another technicolor film. This time to see "Pagan Love Song". We were mostly interested in the beautiful coloring, the swimming, and the dancing.

Perhaps next month we will be able to finish telling you all our adventures and such! So, until February, we wish for each of you a very very happy New Year. —The A. L. C. Girls.

CHILD WELFARE EXPERT VISITS NORTH CAROLINA ORPHANAGES

Howard W. Hopkirk, senior consultant to the Child Welfare League of America, and one of the nation's outstanding authorities on child problems, visited North Carolina orphanages, officials of two orphan's homes.

Mr. Hopkirk visited the Presbyterian Orphan's Home at Barium Springs on January 9 and 10.

He consulted with the Rev. B. McClure, superintendent, and other officials, and then went to the Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina, Inc., at Thomasville on January 11 and 12 where he consulted with the staff headed by W. C. Reed, general superintendent.

Both agencies are members of the Child Welfare League, which is the national federation of child care agencies, both public and private, sectarian and non-sectarian. The League sets standards and helps improve methods for child-care agencies and admits to membership only those meeting high professional qualifications. It now has members in 146 cities in 40 States, Canada and Hawaii.

Mr. Hopkirk has been an expert in child care for more than 25 years. He is a member of the National Commission on Children and Youth, a director of the U. S. Committee for the care of European Children, chairman of the Department of Social Welfare of the National Council of Churches, and author of "Institutions Serving Children," published by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Mr. Hopkirk served as executive director of the Child Welfare League from 1940 to 1948, becoming the League's senior consultant upon his retirement that year.

take my ring off."

We had open house Christmas and all our friends came over to help us enjoy our beautiful gifts. "Glad to have you friends, come back to see us."

Sorry Mr. Johnston and his family could not be with us this Christmas.

We had some visitors on our campus and we hope they enjoyed being here as much as we enjoyed having them. "Come again folks!"

Glad to have all our teachers back with us now that the holidays are over.

The "Give to Christmas Tree" turned out to be one of the best we have ever had. This year the gift goes to our old friends, who need the help of young strong people.

Now is the time for exams and you can tell from the determined look on everyone's face, that they are going to pass if possible.

Senior are back and all reported having a nice time while visiting their loved ones during the holidays.

Well, so long friends until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

SEWING ROOM

Well, here is our first news for the new year. We sincerely hope that all of you had a wonderful Christmas, and we also hope that this new year will be the best ever.

The sewing room was closed from the nineteenth of December until the second of January. All of us had a wonderful time during the Christmas holidays.

Most of the Senior went home for a few days during the holidays and all of them came back reporting a wonderful time, but glad to be back.

Here is a little report on each of the girls from the sewing room.

Melva Powell received a beautiful music box from her boy friend. Lucky girl! Every time you pass her door you will hear the song "near you."

Shirley Inman, sporting a new "Joan of Arc" hair-do. She really looks cute - you ought to see her.

Marie Andrews with a new long sleeved blouse. Wonder who gave it to her?

Ann Wilcox taking "good" care of our boy friends while we were away, and having fun with the boy from Mississippi.

Peggy Plyler almost getting snow bound while going home. But a tall, good looking boy came to her rescue.

Jeanne Turlington admiring new white topper she received from studebaker friend. Lucky girl to have such a wonderful boy friend!

Clara Mangum wearing a new locket all the time. We know she wouldn't lose it for the world.

Frances Stricklin going to York, South Carolina, what has Fanny got up her sleeve?

Just before we got out of school our sewing room instructors gave us a party and each of us received a beautiful slip. Wish you could have seen the beautiful cake we had. It sure was good.

Since we have come back to work, we have been busy making over the books for the year and fixing some of the Christmas clothes that were a little too big.

Our basketball season starts the fifth of January and we will have lots to tell you about that next month.

We wish you, again, a happy New Year.

Mangum and Powell.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Gee! So much has happened since you last heard from us, that I hardly know where to start.

Santa certainly was good to us this year and we want to take this time to show our deep appreciation. "Thank you to all the Santas!"

It's always a treat to have turkey, and Dr. Scott from Statesville, is on our thank you list for that delicious turkey we had Christmas.

The ball teams have their first conference game January fifth and will continue to have one nearly every Tuesday and Friday until the season is over. "Good luck, girls and boys!"

The Seniors are now wearing those beautiful rings they had to wait so long for. One girl said, "Gee, its not in here I guess I'll

RUMPLE HALL

Well it is about time we started doing something. We had a nice time at Davidson. The boys were real nice to us and we think it was one of the nicest times we had this year.

Our Christmas tree was real pretty. We had gotten ornaments to put on it. Mrs. Ellis popped some pop corn to put on it and she had a little scene on a table which had some little reindeers and a Santa which made it real pretty.

Christmas morning we were all excited. We had to let every one get dressed and then we went in the sitting room. Mrs. Ellis got Shirley Johnson to call the names on the presents. If we all went up there at one time you know what our present would look like. We all got so many nice gifts for Christmas we hardly know what to do with them.

Mr. Stowe came to see us a little bit before Christmas. He brought us so many nice things, we enjoyed his visit very much.

We had a square dance New Year's night with the boys. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Ellis were there to help us do right. Mr. Sherrill and some boys came to play the music and we all had a good time.

Every one at Barium has four free show tickets and we know there will be some good shows on soon, at least we hope so.

We are trying to keep our yard clean and keep it clean so the campus will look neat.

Our Mooresville friends came to see us Wednesday before Christmas. They brought all of the girls a nice present and it was such fun opening them.

We guess this is all for now. Look for us in the cottage news next month.

Former Student Writes Back Home

As soon as the letter which appears in this column reached the desk of the superintendent, he immediately requested permission to publish it in the Messenger in order that the readers might have some idea of what has been done by one of the former students. The letter speaks for itself.

Dear Friends:

I am sure that you have no idea of my existence unless you have seen some of the names of students at Barium in the early part of this century - 1902 to 1909.

I with two sisters, Florence and Nola Murray, and a small brother, Fletcher Murray, entered the "Family of the Church" then called The Orphans' Home in the fall of 1902, and a younger sister, Evelyn Murray entered later. I graduated with the class of 1909. There were only three of us: Ernest Creason, Nell Powell, and Hester Murray. I have heard that Ernest died in early manhood, though I do not know this to be a fact. Nell was married and living in California near San Francisco the last I knew of her.

I attended Flora Macdonald College two years, taught a mission school near Plumtree, N. C. from the middle of May to the middle of September of 1911. Then I took the teacher's examination in Avery County North Carolina and taught the public school at Plumtree that year. The next winter I was principal of a country school in my home community near Burgaw, N. C.

In 1913, I was married to a young Presbyterian minister from Statesville, Reverend W. Parks Gibbs, and we went into one of the Home Mission fields of West Virginia. Mr. Gibbs had a large territory, some fifty miles in length, ten preaching points in churches and schoolhouses, and the method of travel was by horseback or by buggy in summer. The old-time sled with seasoned hickory soles on the runners served during the snowy periods in winter. We enjoyed the sledding. We were there several years until the exposures and rigors of those cold mountain winters made it necessary for Mr. Gibbs to get out of that section, have a throat operation or two, and then to take up other work for awhile. We taught school together for a few years in North Carolina and then in Virginia.

Our only child, a son, John Boyd Gibbs, was born in West Virginia in 1914. He is now an ordained Presbyterian minister in U. S. A. Church, lives near Nashville, Tennessee, is married, has a lovely wife and two dear children, a son, John Boyd Gibbs, Jr. now eight, and Mary Lou Gibbs, six years.

Mr. Gibbs and I did several years of teaching in the Mountain Missions or our church. During the war we did some supply work in mission fields in Virginia and Tennessee. Now we are living near Smithville, Tenn., on the rim of the Cumberland Plateau among a number of nursery farmers. Here, almost every farmer raises several acres of fruit, shade, and nut trees, grape vines, shrubby and roses as well as the regular crops of corn, grain, hay, etc.

Mr. Gibbs is in his seventieth year so is on the superannuate list. I am in the early sixties, but it doesn't seem possible. We are both alert in spirit and mind.

A new marker has been placed at each end of the campus of Barium Springs as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. John Allred of Mooresville. Photographer Ralph Spencer asked the following children to pose: Shelby Peak, Edna Evans, Joey Vecchio, Merle Byrd, Aline Merritt, Lillian Baucom.

Montgomery's Will Provides Pipe Organ

Plans for the new church at Barium Springs which are now being drawn can include a pipe organ for the sanctuary. The will of late J. T. Montgomery provided money left in his will for Barium Springs shall be used for the purpose of purchasing a memorial pipe organ for the new church to be erected at Barium Springs, to be known as a memorial to J. T. and Mattie Lou Montgomery. I would like for it to be a really good organ and if there is any surplus, after paying for it from the above fund, the excess shall become a part of permanent endowment fund of the institution.

Mr. J. T. Montgomery was a highly esteemed citizen of Statesville and beloved elder of the First Presbyterian Church. His life was a blessing to the community. He loved good music for it inspired his soul, and it lifted him above the trials of the day and strengthened him for his tasks. He also loved Barium Springs, and manifested a great interest in the boys and girls at the Home. In his will he has made provision for that which strengthened and fortified his soul to afford also to the young boys and girls of the campus the same strength that he knew in the beauty of worship through music.

The executors of the will in the closing out of the affairs of Mr. Montgomery will make the money available in plenty of time to secure for the new building this wonderful instrument for the good of the boys and girls and to the Glory of God.

What I want is a pamphlet with names and addresses of Barium Alumni if you have any such roster. I knew several who went on to college and made names for themselves; namely Oscar Mann, Thornwell Gibson, John Carriker and others. I am proud to have had the excellent training which was given at Barium, and have been able to teach Bible Schools, Sunday School classes, do pastoral visiting with Mr. Gibbs, work in the church, and to organize many missionary societies. My Home Ec. training enabled me to be a seamstress and tailor for my family as well as to teach Home Ec. some ten or twelve years. My students write me yet and tell me many nice things about our former associations as teacher and pupil. These letters are very gratifying for we tried to influence the hearts of our students as well as to train their minds.

One of my sisters, Nola Murray, died in 1929 and my brother, Fletcher, died during World War II. Florence, Mrs. Roy Potts, lives on RFD, Waynesville, N. C., and Evelyn, Mrs. P. T. Peterson, on Route 3, Box 204, Wilmington, N. C.

Please send me a copy of your paper and the list of names if you have them. If you do not, why not make that a goal? I know there was an Alumni Association at one time, but I have been out of touch for many years which is my own fault.

We were very much interested in your midget football teams when we got papers that reported their prowess.

My good will and thanks are yours for all that Barium has meant to me, for that training has been the leading influence in my life for all of these years and means more than I am able to tell (Continued On Page Two)

Dining Room Pictures Given As Memorial

The big dining room at Barium Springs is taking on a new life and color because of the beautiful pictures which have been hung on the walls. These pictures have been given as a memorial by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Love Tait in memory of Mr. Tait's parents, Margaret Elmina Love Tait and Charles Spottiswood Tait of Brunswick, Ga.

Mrs. Tait, a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Lincolnton and the teacher of art in that city, was invited to Barium Springs to give advice and help in planning for this project of beautifying the dining room. Many weeks and months were spent in securing pictures of the right size and subjects.

When the project was completed Mr. and Mrs. Tait announced that this was a gift to the children of the Home in memory of Mr. Tait's parents.

The Barium family is thoroughly delighted to have the warmth and beauty of color surrounding them at every meal, improving the appearance of the dining room and enriching their souls for eternity.

BABY COTTAGE

Hello friends,
So many things have happened since you heard from us that we don't know where to begin.

First we want to thank every one of you for the most wonderful Christmas. Old Santa left us so many nice things. We hope he had plenty for all the little boys and girls every where.

We had a beautiful give-to-tree in the dining hall, also Christmas tree in the cottage and we were so happy to see the lights come on Christmas morning and see what Old St. Nick left for us.

We have been to the show several times, we enjoy going so much.

We also had a Happy Birthday table for December and January.

We have lots of new brothers and sisters come to live with us.

We have started back to kindergarten, and it will soon be vacation time and moving up to get ready to start to school, and that really is the biggest day in history, when we walk out of the Baby Cottage to start to school.

We have had to stay indoors so much as the weather has been so bad and some have had their teeth tonsils out and are having to stay close for a little while.

Your little friends,
—Baby Cottage.

RUMPLE RALL

Hi Folks,

Here we are again, back with the news of our cottage.

We got our report cards last week and everyone of us improved some. We had nine girls to make the honor roll. Most of us are going to try to make it next time.

We are all looking forward to our next basketball game. Our next game will be with Children's Home on February 2. Cross your fingers we win!

Next week we are going to have the Father and Son Banquet. We are all looking forward to that.

We are all having a good time with our basketball goal some of the men put up for us. Thanks a lot.

Well so long for now, look for us next month. —Nellie Sellers.

SCHOOL NEWS

After our ten day Christmas vacation, we came back to school on January 2nd.

The Glee Club is going to Mooresville the 18th of this month to sing for the 2nd Presbyterian Church. A double sextette and the boys chorus are going to sing at the Fathers and Sons banquet on Thursday night, Feb. 8th.

The Beta Club sponsored the March of Dimes in our community. We collected $26.45 from the school and surrounding area.

Some of our friends in the Lions Club of Statesville invited the piano students to hear Jerard Jennings, acclaimed America's greatest child prodigy. This seven year old wonder, gave an amazingly good program and we are very grateful for having had the opportunity to see and hear him.

SEWING ROOM

The Sewing Room is writing to you again to tell you some news from our department.

We are really turning out some beautiful dresses and we think they are extra nice. Some pajamas we have been making too and they are really nice. If it weren't for our wonderful supervisors we would never turn out some of the nice clothes that we do.

We just must say something about our basketball players. Both of our teams are on top of the South Piedmont Conference and we hope they stay there all through the season. Keep your fingers crossed for all of them.

Now for some news about each of our girls here in the sewing room.

Marie Andrews has a new hair cut must be for her boy-friend. Looks pretty cute. Ole Powell can take the credit for the way it looks. Why don't you go into business Powell.

Melva writing letters backwards to her boy friend from Charlotte. Now wonder what ole Powell and Johnny are trying to do, keep a secret from the rest of us gals?

Shirley has become interested in Statesville again. Can't imagine why? But we think it's because of her cute boy friend.

Frances Stricklin trying to play "Ranzino" and getting forty-five points in one basketball game. What are you trying to do Fanny? By the way who is Fanny's red-headed boy friend?

Jeanne Turlington wearing her new topper her favorite boy friend Haskell gave her. In about three weeks Jeanne will be an old woman on St. Valentines day.

Peggy Plyler waving at every Nash that comes by. But the "Church" at Western Carolina is still most important interest.

Clara Mangum sending a mighty good looking picture to her favorite boy friend. We know it isn't the boy in Salisbury cause that's off. Now wonder who it could be? Mangum isn't telling this time.

You have heard the latest from the sewing room and the girls who work there.

So until next month, take good care of yourselves and be good!

The Sewing Room Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Even though the weather is cold and North Wilkesboro girls froze the ball during the game, both boys and girls came out victorious. The conference games are well on their way. The next on our schedule is Children's Home here. "Best of luck big teams!" Just because they are younger than we are lets not forget the future varsity team, which is now the Jr. team. They are showing great progress.

Not quite as many on the honor roll this month, guess exams had a great deal to do with it. But do not worry, reports come out again before long and we hope to have one hundred percent on the honor roll "Is it possible girls?"

Only two Juniors in our building and they can't wait until graduation. Sophomores are eagerly awaiting the day when they can call themselves Juniors.

Freshman girls are really stepping out in those beautiful blouses they made in Home Ec., with the guidance of their teacher, Mrs. McEuen from Mooresville.

Last, but not least, the eighth grade girls, we don't know what we would do without them, they are our Little sisters.

We want to welcome our two new members Barbara McCall and Ruby Clark. Glad to have you, and hope your stay at Barium will be as happy as ours is.

Seems they are doing some work at the Church, from what I can tell at the present it looks a great deal better.

About three weeks ago they asked us to leave a row in church vacant, and guess what? Not a single visitor has come to occupy those seats yet. "Whats wrong friends?"

The Carrom Set we received is really being used now. Even though there is not enough room for everyone to play we enjoy watching others.

News is short this month so I guess I will bring this to a close and take up where I left off next month.

QUADS

Hello Friends these are your ace reporters with the latest news from the Quads. Some girls must have told their boy friends that crew hair cuts looked good because its getting to be an epidemic.

What came over Joe Barkley lately he is beginning to walk around with that far away look in his eyes.

While graduation is coming closer, Terral Hall, Paul Barnes, and Ami Lybrand have their eyes on Catawba College, Uncle Sam also has his eyes on them. More power to you boys. At the same time, Mason Traywick, Bob Whiting, and Charles Faircloth are expecting a new M-1 rifle in a few months, "free of charge."

After the rush of a big Christmas we are just now beginning to settle down to our daily schedule of school, work, sports and play.

All of the boys want to take this time to say hello and good bye till next month when your ace reporters will bring you up to date news, on what goes on at the Quads.

ANNIE LOUISE

January has been a fast moving month for us little Annie Louise girls, who spend their time working a little, playing a great deal, and going to many basketball games.

From all we can understand, we here at Barium are to be the center of activity during a tournament in the middle of February. Seeing the teams and spectators come and go, win and lose, we make many acquaintances for years to come.

The birthday table for January was what we term as good food, lots of fun, and plenty of time to take care of both. January wasn't a very big birthday month. But with new faces seated at the table, it made everything so much more exciting.

As faithful as always, our third report cards came out the other week. Everyone had been promising such and such, until we didn't know whether we could do all we said.

On the same day the report cards came out, some of the music students, both voice and piano, went to Statesville to hear Jerard Jennings present a concert. Since we A. L. C. girls are too small to take music, we were puzzled over the word "prodigy" that our two big sisters used when they talked about the little boy. Some of us without front teeth, pronounced the word "prothigies", others just couldn't plain out pronounce it at all! We at least know what it means-even if we can't say it.

Many of us have been asking the question, "How long is it until summer?" The reply, "Just about four more months!" "Yippee-summer is nearly here!" is the response. After all the rain and ice, snow and sleet, who in the world would not shout "Yippee" to summer being only a few months away? Thoughts center around, "only four more months of driving howling wind, and freezing rain, then it'll be hot!" Some times when it is hot one day and cold the next, we get greatly discouraged. Oh well! its still four more months till summer.

Material for our new Activities Building are gradually being load-off huge, red trucks. It will be nice to have it, for we need it very much.

Basketball is still our main sport whether it is winter or whatever! we have only one home game in February, much to our regret! However, we have already seen a number of games- our team winning. Our forwards are so tall that the goal is only a few inches from reach. We lose a good many players this year and the basket next year will look a few feet away instead.

Weather permitting we are staying in the house to play with our Christmas things. They're still in fine condition, and we are trying very hard to keep them that way. We must get back to our task of changing our babies diapers, getting them ready for bed, and so forth.

Don't forget to cover up good and come to see us when you can.

—The A. L. C. Girls

JENNIE GILMER

Here we are once again bringing you our news.

We sure did enjoy the fruit Mr. Stowe Jr. and the toys given to us from Mr. Belk.

During the Christmas holidays, Boyce Dean Smith, James Ramsey, Nelson Anderson, Sydney Morrison, Jerry Thomas, Russell Wilson, Ray Smith, Freddie Lentz, Marvin Garis, and John Ferrell had visitors.

We want to thank Mr. Sams of Statesville for sending us some movie tickets.

Ray and Roy Clark from Morganton came to live with us two weeks ago, and we're very glad to have them.

Good bye until next time.

—The Jennie Gilmer Boys.

HOWARD

Here we are again with our news. The thing that we are thinking about most is the things we got for Christmas. It was about 6:30 when we got up. When our housemother told us we could get up, we jumped out of bed and ran down stairs.

Everybody was so pleased with what they got. It would take a long time to tell what everyone got.

We went Christmas shopping the Friday before Christmas. We had a dollar to spend on our friends. We wrapped and put them under the Christmas tree.

The thing we are thinking about now is our report cards. We all wish to make the honor roll. About half of us did, they are: Ramona Blake, Shelby Peak, Shelby McEuen, Sylvia Wells, Jewell McFarland, Janet Woodall, Aline Merritte, Lillian Baucom, and Edna Evans, and Elsie Vest who is working at our cottage. We are all proud of them.

The piano pupils got to go to a concert in Statesville. A little boy seven years old, played the piano. His name is Jerard Jennings. We were all amazed at the way he played.

Miss Andrews took one of our girls, Sylvia Wells for her Christmas present to Charlotte. She spent the afternoon in the dime stores messing around. Then she had her supper and then came home.

When Miss Jackson has her day off, Miss Fanshaw comes to work in her place. She brings some scrap cloth and lets us make doll clothes. We have a lot of fun making them. So long till next month.

Church Architect Visits Campus

Dr. Samuel E. Howie, chairman of the Church Building Committee, called a meeting of this committee for the middle of March for the purpose of meeting with the architect, Mr. Harold E. Wagoner of Philadelphia. Mr. Wagoner is the architect for the Davidson College Presbyterian Church, and upon his visit to the college also includes Barium Springs where he is busy working out the final details for the plans of the new Church here.

Two sets of sketches have already been presented and many details have been considered. The purpose of the March meeting was to make final decisions relative to the location and interior of the Church. The committee plans to have everything in readiness so that the minute that steel can be obtained the contract can be let for the erection of the Church.

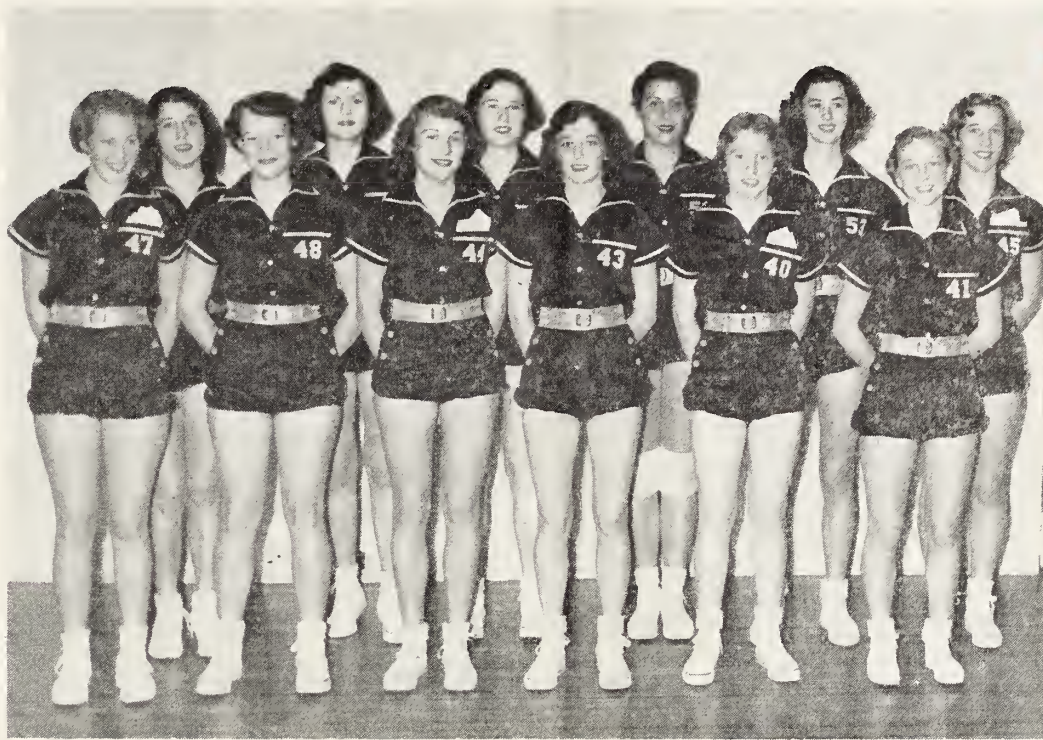

This building is one of the most urgent needs upon the campus for the congregation each Sunday morning is larger than the present Church can adequately accommodate. Three hundred and fifty will fill to overflowing the present auditorium and therefore the new auditorium is being planned to seat five hundred. This will provide adequate space for the regular congregation, allow for some anticipated growth in village membership, and afford space for visiting groups that come for the Church services on Sunday.

From the memorial gifts contributed in memory of loved ones and from special contributions made particularly to the Church there is now in hand approximately two-thirds of the amount necessary for the erection of building. The committee is confident that once the work gets underway the people of the Synod wishing to share in it will enable the Home to complete the whole edifice and equip the interior without any indebtedness upon it.

Summer Helpers Secured From A. T. S.

The Summer relief force for the home will have in its number four students from the General Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Virginia. These persons will serve as relief house-mothers in the cottages and as directors of special activities on the campus. Arriving on June 1st, they will organize and direct, under the leadership of the minister, a ten-day Bible School for the beginners, primary, juniors and intermediates. From that they will be able to carry on through the Summer a specialized religious program of activities and also some recreational projects in addition to their living in the cottages with the smaller boys and girls.

To have the Assembly's Training School students and graduates at Barium is not new because already on the campus there are a number who have graduated there, but the intensified effort for the Summer is different from last year and is to be tried as an experiment. It may be that in Summers to come an unusual program can be developed where-

Iredell Teams Win Cage Tournament

The defending champions made history repeat itself when the Cool Spring girls and the Scotts boys came through with wins in the finals for the second straight year in the twentieth annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament which was held at Barium Springs February 14th through 19th. The Scotts girls received the trophy and awards for runners-up position and the Berryhill boys were runners-up in the boys' division. Third place trophies went to the Brawley and Celeste Henkel girls

Mrs. David W. Morris (Anne Fayssoux Johnston) died suddenly at her home in Burlington on Friday December 22, 1950.

Anne Fayssoux was born in Lincolnton but spent most of her life at Barium where her Father, Dr. Joseph B. Johnston was Superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans Home. Anne Fayssoux graduated from Barium Springs High School and Queen's College in Charlotte. She was active in College and was May Queen her Senior Year.

After graduating from Queens, Anne Fayssoux taught in the city

Treasurer Says February Very Lean

It is good indeed that the month of February was short as the income for the Home in its operation was very light. The gloom is somewhat dispelled in that it is the hope of the administration that February's small income means a saving up for the March contributions.

At the present time the income has not been sufficiently increased to take care of the increase in the rise of prices, but with the last month of the year still to be heard from this can be overcome.

Basketball Teams Add New Trophies

The girls' basketball team brought home the conference championship trophy with a perfect record for games played. This means that the girls in regular season play and last year's tournament play were not lost a contest. The schedule for their regular season and the resulting scores show the caliber of play necessary to defeat the teams which were engaged.

The boys team got off to a good start but ran into some trouble about the middle of the season, losing several games by two points and some by three and one by four. The loss of Buddy Maples, a junior weakened the team in some fashion, and by the time the boys regained their equilibrium the season was over and their record did not show the real quality of the team's play.

The South Piedmont Conference Tournament playing in Statesville, N. C., found the Barium girls seeded first, going through to the finals, and in that game winning first place in the last game on March 9th. This then brings in the trophy for the showcase in the dining room.

The Barium boys given very little consideration as contenders in the Tournament, started things off right by soundly thrashing the Statesville Greyhounds. In the second round they came up against the highly favored Kannapolis team which had been picked by many to win the Tournament and were victorious over them by a slender margin. This victory put them in the finals against the Asheboro team which had won the Conference championship, and in that final game they won second place and brought home the trophy to be put in with the others.

The girls team this year will lose five of its starting players by graduation, while the boys will lose only three seniors from the starting team.

Coach Calhoun will have the job next year of rebuilding his championship team among the girls and shaping out his boys squad into what he hopes will be another outstanding boys team and one that is capable of winning the championship in the Conference Tournament.

Large Enrollment Takes All Space

The housemothers at Barium Springs are beginning to understand the plight of the old woman who lived in a shoe. To accommodate the 292 children of the Home it is necessary to put up beds in the halls in some of the cottages and to put extra children in some of the rooms in other cottages. Every bed is taken from the Baby Cottage up to the Woman's Building where the older girls live. It might be possible to arrange for a half dozen beds in that building, but rarely if ever are there applications for girls of that age.

All that can be done between now and the end of school is just to take the emergency cases where a child has neither food nor shelter and do the best we can in overcrowding. When Summer rolls around the seniors will be graduating, and re-adding

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with our news.

The thing we are thinking about most is our report cards. Grading period for this month stopped Feb. 26, and we get our report cards March 5.

Judy Bolton and Janet Woodall have already learned how to ride the bicycle, fourteen others know how to ride. We are all proud of them.

Sylvia Wells and Madeline Byrd have recited the Child's Catechism. Miss Taylor and Miss Jackson took them to the picture show. The name of it was "For Heaven Sakes". After they had seen the show they went window shopping. They came home at 9:30 and everybody was in bed when they got home.

Mr. Grier will soon be back from Florida. We are all anxious to see him.

Mrs. Fanshaw took us on a two mile walk Saturday. We were soon like old women using sticks for our walking canes. We went to the chicken farm. Mrs. Lackey showed us all the chickens. She said there was not quite eight hundred. We saw where they laid their eggs, and where they kept their eggs.

We will have more news for you next month.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

This is the beginning of March, with pretty weather to mix it up well. Along with the pretty weather as a message of the coming spring, are the brightly colored red and blue birds that wake us up with a cheery note and keep us happy for the rest of the day. Other signs of spring are the buds on shrubbery and trees, and the jonquils peeping out to see how the world looks.

Just the other day, we little girls gathered up our spades, hoes and what-not to get our start in the flower garden. For those who weren't with us in our cottage last year, the task of gardening was new and adventurous. As long as the weather permits we "busy-bodies" will be out there in the garden when we get the chance.

Also, with spring coming, the time is approaching when we will "journey" to the playwoods. We have individual gardens there, and we spend most of our time digging up the seed and planting it in better looking soil. We are told that won't do any good, but we hope it will. Not only do we plant flowers in the playwoods, but we also swing and slide, crack nuts, and eat them with candy. Is there anyone who would like to join us?

Ever since winter came and brought bad weather, we have been "itching" to go to the spring. Our Saturday-night suppers are even more pleasant by eating surrounded by pretty green grass, natural big rocks for seats, and tall trees.

Not so very long ago there came to our midst at Annie Louise, two little girls who are out of the family of four. They are so quiet that we hardly knew what they said the'r names are, but they are Brenda Faye and Mary Evelyn Pursly. Brenda is in the fourth grade, and Evelyn is in the first. Every time Evelyn takes a talking spell she mentions what all she is learning; such as writing, rather printing, and how to read. We are very glad to have these two nice little girls with us even if they are so quiet.

Well, well! Guess what the wind is blowing in? Yes, of course, it's report cards, as usual. We hope spring fever will keep away from us until we get through with school for this year. But everyday after lunch you can see people on the campus entering school building yawning. Naturally they've got their hand over their mouth, but that doesn't keep them from getting drowsy.

Speaking of school, everyone in Annie Louise is thinking of May 19th. We've been teasing our house mother about having us at home all day long and getting to annoy her even more!

In closing we just got to tell you about the two movies we saw during February. One of them was in technicolor called "High Lonesome", and the second was "For Heavens Sake." They were both good movies and we really enjoyed them.

Until the April showers month, we wish you lots of good luck and loads of fun.

—A. L. C. Girls.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

The sewing room is still buzzing with activities though the short month of February. Although February was a short month, many things have happened.

The Howard cottage girls are all sporting new dresses, both school and Sunday. The Rumble Hall girls are all receiving new pajamas and the Annie Louise girls are getting some new dresses. Through March the sewing room department will be extremely busy getting all the new Easter dresses made on time. All the girls are thinking up new ways they can have their dresses made and all you can hear is, "where are the 'seventeen's today."

Some of us Seniors in the sewing room, after months of sacrificing bits of money, saved and bought material to make our own Easter outfits. Peggy Plyer made a beautiful dress with the help of our instructors. Clara Mangum is going to look like a doll in her new suit she is making, these girls are both proud of their accomplishments, but they would readily give their credit to their wonderful instructors, who are so willing to give them a helping hand.

Speaking of our instructors, we just couldn't write this news without telling you that they gave us a St. Valentines Party, which was very nice and also good.

We know all of you are waiting for news about each of our girls, so here goes!

Marie Andrews, designing and planning her own Easter dress, wonder who she is trying to please, it being red? It couldn't be Hillard, could it?

Shirley Inman receiving air mail letters from Guam and Alaska. No one reads them except her. Wonder what kind of military secrets Shirley is getting?

Melva Powell still happy about getting her letters from Charlotte and we all know she will look nice in her new navy suit Easter, just for him.

Jeanne Turlington seeing more and more of her Studebaker friend. Doesn't Haskell like navy blue, Jeanne? Wonder why she sent the suit back that she ordered.

Anne Wilcox having a wonderful time at the tournament, sponsoring the Berryhill girls. We know now why she wanted them, "the cute boys they have!" We know your game "Willie".

Peggy Plyer trying to get us girls up at 4:30 o'clock to go to the kitchen instead of 5:30. We know Peggy likes to cook, but please don't rob us poor working girls of our sleep next time, Peggy.

Frances Stricklin having a good time at the Statesville-Barium game. Fannie tried to play Ranzino again by making 44 points. Keep the good work up Fannie.

Clara Mangum, receiving a beautiful box of candy for St. Valentine's day. Wonder who gave it to her? Mangum also received the shock of her life the last night of the tournament, when a certain person walked in. How's it coming Clara? She isn't saying.

All of us had a wonderful time at the tournament and we are really going to miss it next year.

The next time you hear from us, Easter will be over and we won't have but about a month and two weeks at Barium. But we'll save all of that "graduation stuff" for next month.

Until next month, the best of luck to each and every one of you.

The sewing room reporters.

—Mangum & Powell

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi Folks,

Each of us meets some difficult tasks in life, sometimes I think writing this is mine. But I would like to bring you up to date on our current events.

The Mid-Piedmont tournament went off smoothly. Congratulations to the Cool Spring girls and Scotts boys, they came out winners. And we also want to say we enjoyed having all of you with us, and hope you can come back next year.

The Senior Class is keeping Ammon's Studio in business here lately. We will let you see what we mean soon.

On February 8, we had a banquet for the fathers and sons, we enjoyed having each and every one of you.

Senior girls have nearly worn the calendars out counting the days until graduation. "It will pass before you know it, girls."

The Juniors are getting tired of waiting until they can move to the sewing room. "Don't sew your fingers like we did, Juniors."

Sophomores are all trying to play the graduation march for some reason. All three pianos are going constantly, wish we could find them another one.

Freshmen are eagerly awaiting graduation so they can move down stairs. They say the big girls live down there, but I can't tell the difference.

Eighth graders are discussing how long until the new activities building is finished. We hope it Everyone wishes they could have a birthday every month. Guess you folks would to, if you could see the beautiful tables and delicious food on them each month.

Well friends, we will close and memorize those long poems for English. See you next month.

Thurman Andrews was a visitor on the campus. He is in the Army.

Ruby Pickler of Charlotte spent the day at Barium recently.

Rufus Long made a short visit to Barium. He is working with a Scout Troop at the First Presbyterian Church, Charlotte.

Helen Morgan, student nurse at Cabarrus Hospital was a visitor on the campus.

Jean Steppe, student at W. C., Greensboro, spent a short time at Barium during the spring holidays.

During the Easter week-end we had a number of alumni visit us. Among those here were Ray Clark and Billy McAllister, students at Davidson

The students of the Elementary School, under the direction of the teachers, delighted the campus with one of the finest evenings to be held at Barium this Spring. Weeks of preparation resulted in the boys and girls performing in wonderful fashion in the operetta called "Sunny of Sunnyside" on Friday evening, March 30th. The costumes and characterizations were wonderful. The wild animals in the circus roved back and forth on the stage, and the little flowers sprang up out of the flower pots and danced and sang. Villains swept through the community and committed their deeds of crime but justice apprehended them and everything ended in a happy fashion.

The picture gives some evidence of the group that participated, but words themselves will never do justice to the occasion presented in the auditorium of the Elementary School. Congratulations are in order for the rhythm band, the chorus, the actors, the participants, the directors, and all who had a share in this performance. The stage was beautiful in its decoration of spring flowers and the audience filling the house was thrilled and delighted with the children's performance.

The Kindergarten

By MRS. R. S. ARROWOOD

What is all the chatter? Why the Kindergarten class is coming down the walk. Six boys and six girls, all five years old, and their enthusiasm is running away with them. Ring "Miss Airwood's" door bell and in they come with chubby hands extended in a cluster to be shaken one at a time mid a chorus of "Good Mornings."

The rug has been rolled back in the living room and they bring, each one, his little blue chair placing it in what is meant to be a semi-circle. After reports of what was seen on the way or who did what or whose "people" came or whose clothing box arrived, we gradually settle to our devotionals. About fifteen minutes is used in: Bible story, singing hymns, some of which are accompanied by the record player (we have a lovely album of Children's Favorite Hymns), prayers, some individual sentence prayers, memory verses, and then just talking about something we have read or heard at Church.

Refreshment period is next in which fruit, usually a luscious apple, or a beverage and cookie is served.

The story period is filled with requests for numerous favorites, but usually a new one is told or read first. Then old favorites may be retold by teacher or child and sometimes dramatized. Looking at story books is an endless delight - "May we look at books?" is a frequent question. With two shelves very well supplied they have an inducement to look at them. The pre-primers are easy to read when the total vocabulary is only two words or a few more. The pictures provide the readers with sufficient vocabulary, however.

A long table is now brought into the center of the room and the chairs arranged about it for work with modeling clay, crayons, pencils, scissors, and paste. Some have learned to write their first names (with only a few letters upside down or reversed). Working puzzles is a pleasure well provided for. We get an endless delight from the use of the record player, singing, skipping, marching, and just listening to our records. They play it themselves and enjoy selecting their favorite recordings. Tinker Toys and some other things of interest are in

With Spring in full swing and April showers clearing a path for May flowers, we little girls are looking forward to barefoot summer days and "one-two-three, here I go" swimming pool days. Anyone would at once realize that we are just as anxious as anyone else about getting out of school. Even though our school building and our swimming pool are located closely together, we don't at all mind having three months devoted to swimming.

Our proposed "Activities Building" is finally underway. We Annie Louise girls naturally don't know much about it, but we're always hearing about it when our two big girls get into a conversation. Anyway, all we know is that one day we might get to go skating there, and our basket-ball games will be played there. At least we'll get to walk farther when we finally put it into use.

At Easter time all our friends begin sending us candy eggs of assorted shapes and sizes. It would be very difficult to write each of our friends and thank them individually. Here and now we

Twenty-two Join Church Easter Sunday

As a part of the regular morning worship on Easter Sunday morning twenty-two persons were presented to the congregation as new members received by the session. Of this number sixteen were received on profession of faith and are: Rachel Bass, Roy Clark, Ruby Clark, Peggy Joyce Cox, Mary Glenn, Elizabeth Jackson, Barbara Johnson, Joyce Kelly, Bernice Kuykendall, Nancy Lee Kyles, A. B. McClare, Jr. Marie McNeill, Ann McLean, Barbara Melton, Lawrence Ramey, and Sylvia Ann Wells.

Two young girls, Barbara McCall and Lena McLean, who have come to the Home during the year were received upon reaffirmation of their faith and three boys, Harold Evans, Merton Cox, and Duke Spear, were received from the churches in the communities from which they have come.

Mrs. Martha H. Ramsay from Durham, N. C. was presented to the congregation as a new member having moved her letter from the Trinity Avenue Presbyterian Church in Durham. Mrs. Ramsay is a new member of the staff and is at the present time house-mother at Synod Cottage with twenty-four little boys under her care.

Easter Rabbit Visits Barium

There really is an Easter Rabbit. He came to Barium Springs on Saturday morning before Easter and if the pecan orchard is over run by rabbits next summer it will not be because any of the Easter eggs were left there. The 130 hunters diligently searched every hill and cranny bringing out beautiful eggs of all colors - real rabbit eggs. From the youngest child, Nancy Spencer, who is one and one-half years old, to the oldest - those of the fifth grade, there was utmost delight at the sight of the eggs.

The Sunday School teachers with Reverend and Mrs. Charles Sides later served chocolate milk and candy eggs to the group.

would like to thank you for the candy, and we appreciate it very much. Humm, it is good!

Easter morning was the final showing of a week's preparation for this occasion. Many of us had dresses from either our people or our clothing boxes. Others had dresses from the sewing room. Even if we have to say so ourselves, we certainly looked nice in our light colored sweaters and matching dresses and socks.

Either on Easter or a few days thereafter, some of our folks and relatives came to see us. Most of them were old friends and some of them were paying their first visit to Barium. We are always glad to see them, which isn't too often for us.

Our pride and joy has just been completed and given. Well, perhaps some of you remember the operetta we mentioned last month. It is our "pride and joy", and we are all pleased about it going over so well. Some of us at A. L. C. were leading characters; others of us played the part of roses or daisies and danced to a timely tune. Then there were some who were clowns, and looked and acted their part exactly. It took a great deal of work, making over 150 boys and girls get together, and our teachers took on an extra task, which was extra difficult. We hope they, as well as us, feel a deep satisfaction from such a satisfactory play.

April showers are beginning to be plentiful, so our May flowers ought to be plentiful, too. We are ready to start out on our adventure of the summer entitled, "Weeds". If all this rain doesn't help all our flowers, we at least feel for sure that we'll have a job of weeds.

All in all, life is sweet and full of unexpected things, even if we might have more weeds than flowers. So we journey on - waiting for Spring fever to pass and our classes pass and we pass our grades. Perhaps by next month we will be over our fever and can be called "The Busy Bodies". In the meantime don't let it get you, or you'll be like us.

With lazy thoughts, we will speed up our pace to be with you next month.

—The Spring Fever Victims

BABY COTTAGE

It hasn't been so long since you last heard from the babies although some of us are not babies now, as some are all of six years old. T. T. was six just before Christmas and I heard her telling her house-mother, "I'm an old lady now I can get married, and my teeth are almost gone. She and Linda Lee go around showing where their teeth were but are just a wide space now. Some of the boys have kept up with the girls losing teeth.

Lots of good things have happened to us. We went to the movies but can't remember the name of the picture' but oh what a nice ride in the big yellow bus. We all love to see it parked at the baby cottage for we know we are going to get to ride.

We had a very pleasant surprise a few Sundays ago when our former Nurse, Miss Nancy Hoots, spent Sunday afternoon and night with us. Monday was "Mama Richards'" day away from us chatter boxes so she took Miss Hoots with her, and went to Statesville. One little girl said, "Oh Miss Hoots tum back with 'Mama Richards' tause we love you." We are always playing hospital and dentist. Last Friday Mrs. Williams from Charlotte came to see us in time for an Easter egg hunt; she helped us find the eggs the bunny left for us. Little Larry had her by the hand and looked up and said, "I just can't find where the bunny left them eggs." The Easter bunny was good and after we found all those eggs and candy we were so full we didn't want any supper, although none of us got sick.

The boys' housemother, Mrs. Nelson, missed all the fun here, but she had a wonderful time Easter week-end; she spent it in Charleston, S. C. and went to the Sun Rise Service. We remember part of a picture we saw last year, the name was Prince of Peace.

Mrs. Sides and Mrs. Arrowood also gave us a nice party Saturday with eggs, chocolate milk, candy, oh! they and everyone have been wonderful to us. You should have seen our pretty little pins we wore on Sunday to Sunday school and church. Thanks, Miss Carpenter.

Our big sisters are anxious for school to close, and we are too because after that it's almost time to go swimming, and we like that. In the meantime we are having fun in the kindergarten, with Mrs. Arrowood who's a very nice teacher and we all like her a whole lot.

This is all the news, anyhow we can't think of any so we will sign off until next time.

WOMANS BUILDING

Once again I have received word to let you in on our current events.

I would like, if possible, to tell you how nice everyone looked in their new dresses and beautiful corsages. Also, to say to the instructors and the girls in the sewing room, "we thank you."

Three of the Senior girls had a voice recital, and not only did they sing wonderfully, but they looked beautiful with those lovely bouquets.

We were glad to have one of our former matrons spend Easter with us. Also we would like to say we were glad to have all the visitors who came up, and went to church with us Sunday.

The Seniors are busy planning and getting every-thing for graduation, and making out their lists of friends and loved ones they would like to invite up graduation.

Whats this we hear about the Juniors making evening dresses. We know they will look like dolls at the Jr., Senior banquet, which they are working so hard on.

Sophomores are still sitting and looking pretty, as they have nothing to worry about.

Freshmen are going on a diet when it comes to eating in the dining room. No wonder they are busy working and eating in Home Ec.

Eight graders, are really practicing how they are going to walk up and receive their diplomas at graduation. Make sure you get the right ones friends.

Marie Andrews

SEWING ROOM

The Sewing room was really hustling and bustling all through the month of March. Every afternoon after school, we Seniors were busy at our machines, working very hard to get out the dresses before Easter. When the last dress went out, all of us let out a sigh of relief.

The girls looked so nice Easter morning that the sight was almost breath-taking. Easter Sunday was so very beautiful. And the people on the campus looked so nice. Was it any wonder that everyone was happy?

We Seniors were especially proud of ourselves, because most of us had bought, selected, and made our own dresses with help of our instructors.

Marie Andrews had a birthday, and she being sweet nineteen, we had a nice birthday party. Man, we just think our instructors are the best you will find anywhere and we really appreciate them, and what they do for us.

Since everyone of you are patiently waiting to hear something about each of our girls, I won't keep you waiting another minute.

I honestly think ole Frances played "Ranzino" in the tour-namment. We played Statesville the last night and beat them 56 to 79. Stricklin made 56 points which was the highest score made by anyone in the tournament. She was also picked for the all tournament team by the coaches.

Marie Andrews really rates around this place. She got two corsages for Easter and she really looked nice in her tomato red dress she made.

Shirley Inman is still receiving air mail from overseas. She even gets pictures too. Lucky girl to be getting mail from two "friends."

Peggy Plyler looked too good Easter for "Church," not to see her. But for the benefit of him, I'll just say, she looked wonderful.

You never see ole Powell after work because, you guessed it, she is always at the mail box waiting to see if that certain letter came. That blue suit Melva had on Easter surely did look nice. Too bad "You know who" wasn't here.

Jeanne Turlington spent the week-end before Easter in Clinton, N. C. She brought back a beautiful white suit, and to top everything off real nice, Haskell gave her an orchid for Easter.

Clara Mangum, and Anne Willcox were invited to spend a week-end with some friends at Berryhill. They came back with such wonderful reports about their week-end that all of us wish we could have gone.

our toy wagon (cowboy pistols, whistles, balls, etc.) The color book industry ought to be one of the most thriving in the country. Never are they interested in drawing originals when a color book is in sight. However, the color books disappear sometimes and then the rebirth of modern art and realism begins. With a little interpretation from the artist one can see a whole story grow upon paper.

Indoor games are always welcome when the weather is cold. Some of the favorite games are "Going to Jerusalem," "Fruit Basket," and "Feathers". When the weather permits we go out of doors for the last half hour or more to play or take a walk. The slogan "every man for himself" seems to be most prominent in five-year olds. Embryonic team work can be discovered with some prodding in the older ones.

My place as a Kindergarten teacher may be compared to what is sometimes unjustly said of grandmothers and aunts: they love them and are loved by them, but when they are ready they send them back to mother. So little a thing may bring a burst of unexpected delight and pleasure from a five-year old that one must be on guard lest his vanity should begin to rise to the front. Our hats are off to the house mothers who are at the helm twenty-four hours a day.

Nineteen Seniors To Graduate

It is a woman's world in the senior class this year as they outnumber the boys 13 girls to 6 boys. Nevertheless, these boys have struggled hard to keep even with the girls through the years at Barium. All of the boys and nine of the girls are students of the Home. Two of the senior girls are children of staff members.

Clara Mangum has spent the longest time in the Home, a little more than fifteen and one-half years, while Louise Surles has been here less time than any other with a little over six and one-half years. The total time spent in the Home by the six boys and eleven girls is more than 179 years, which in turn is more than 65,000 days at Barium Springs.

While some of these 65,000 days have been happier than others, yet all of them have been good; each graduating boy and girl stands out as a credit to the institution and offers real hopes for citizenship in the world in which they move.

Out of the total class at the present time ten plan to do further study, three plan to go into nurses' training school and the remainder will seek employment of their choice.

This good group of citizens now leaving Barium Springs will make room for some other children to be admitted and so the cycle goes on.

Activities Building Is Going Up

Massive steel beams span the foundations and brick and mortar are being put together to bring the Activities Building about one third of the way toward completion.

Brick masons have the wall up to the first floor and as soon as the Flexicore concrete has been placed and leveled off they will start their work again.

There is just a vague possibility that there might be a skating party in that building on the Fourth of July. No real hopes are held out for that yet because it is impossible to determine to what extent the contractor will be able to get together the necessary materials and labor.

There will certainly be a dedication during the summer months if the final funds can be found for the payment. At least the building will be ready for use and the children will begin their happy play.

Cottage News

WOMAN'S BUILDING

We, the Senior girls, would like to express our deep appreciation to our housemothers and to each and every one of you who have made it possible for us to be here. We graduate and leave with memories of this our Barium home, and the many wonderful times we have had, packed in our hearts where they shall remain.

Libby Twombly, our mascot, had the Seniors out to a wonderful supper and a delightful dance. "We had a wonderful time, Libby."

This being my last time writing this news I would like to say, I have enjoyed it and I hope someone else will take up where I leave off.

It seems as though we hear "Sermons" in the air, not Rev. Sides' either. We Seniors are having the pleasure of preaching our ten minute sermons, which you might say, are required to graduate. Most of us have already finished and are now looking for an open pulpit or maybe we should just say pit! No matter which we say you would consider them good work if you could have heard them.

Juniors are busy as bees getting ready for the Junior-Senior banquet. "Best of luck, Juniors".

We were glad to have the members of the Survey Committee from the State Board of Education visit us in our school a few days ago.

We were delighted to have a number of men from the First Presbyterian Church in Greensboro with us, and we hope more of you will come.

We are all looking forward to seeing you on graduation which is May 21. So friends come on up, there's always room for one more.

Well friends I have enjoyed writing this, but now I just say so-long.

—Marie Andrews.

JENNIE GILMER

Hi Everybody,

It's awfully hard to keep our thoughts tuned to school and work with such wonderful weather beckoning us out. We want to lie in the sun or go exploring in the fresh green woodlands. We long to see the first scrubbing and to kick off our shoes and run barefoot again.

We are happy to report that in spite of spring fever, we have some honor roll students and a good many improved report cards.

We want to thank all the people in Statesville who were responsible for letting us see the play "Cinderella". We certainly will begin their happy play.

The Junior-Senior Festive Occasion

The Junior class made Friday, May 4th, a memorable occasion for the seniors and the invited guests as they staged the Junior-Senior banquet in the dining room at Rumble Hall. The Navy motif was used throughout. The tables were arranged in the shape of a big anchor and nets, trappings, port holes, and ship regalia were so attractively arranged that one almost felt the sea breeze blowing through the dining room.

The Sophomore gobs and deck mates dressed in Navy colors served the table. The guest singer, Jack Mills, chose for his songs those appropriate to the sea and Navy life. Louise Campbell, presiding in the absence of the class president, Charles Stevens, was most gracious in her presentation of the persons on the program and in giving toasts to the senior class. One of the highlights of the evening was the appearance of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston and Dr. Joe's tale about his visit to the Mitchell campus and the pretty girls and the mocking bird.

The evening in the dining room was concluded with and inspirational address by Reverend J. B. Hurley, Associate Pastor of the First Methodist Church in Charlotte, who was introduced by Mrs. Melba McLuen, teacher in charge.

SCHOOL NEWS

So many things have been happening in our school for the past two months that I am going to put them in chronological order.

April 5 - We Seniors were invited to Mitchell College for Career Day, as were all the other surrounding schools. There were classes offered in different vocations, and you could attend two of your choice. Entertainment was provided by some of the Mitchell students who presented "He Couldn't Marry Five," a very funny play. We had a grand time and learned a lot.

April 26 - All the grades from the seventh upward were invited to Garden Valley located eleven miles from Statesville. The seventh grade went in the morning, and the others went that afternoon. We spent around two hours in this lovely spot surrounded by thousands of azalea blooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Twombly, parents of our mascot, Libby Twombly, invited the Senior Class to a dinner party at Biltmore's. We had a dance afterward. It was a

Speakers Chosen For Commencement

Final plans have been made for the commencement exercises of the school and speakers have been chosen for the occasion. On Sunday morning, May 20th, at 11:00 the commencement sermon will be preached by Dr. S. H. Fulton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Laurinburg.

The Sunday evening vesper service, replacing the regular meetings of the young people of the campus, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Reverend G. Dana Waters, pastor of the West Avenue Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, will be the guest speaker for this occasion. Class Day exercises will be held on Monday morning at ten o'clock. On Monday evening at 8:00 the nineteen seniors will receive their diplomas. Awards will be made for the year and the occasion will feature a graduating address by Dr. Carl R. Pritchett, pastor of the Davidson College Presbyterian Church. All of these services will be held in the auditorium of the Elementary School building because of the lack of space in the Church or the High School building.

Friends of the children in the Home and the people of the neighboring communities are most cordially invited to be present for these services during the commencement week-end.

WBT Artists Entertain Children

Fred "Atomic Power" Kirby, Jack "Bow Fiddle" Pascal and "Fiddling Hank" thrilled the boys and girls as they came to the campus for an evening's performance. Mr. George Harris of the Myers Park Presbyterian Church together with the Men of the Church had made the arrangements and he came along with the team, bringing six other men with him from the class.

For more than an hour these artists delighted the children with their singing and playing and pranks and fun. The program was concluded by giving every child a picture of Fred Kirby and presenting citizenship papers as members of Tiny Town, U. S. A.

The children left the building with their citizenship papers in one hand and Fred Kirby's picture in the other and a mouthful of bubble gum and the memory of a wonderful evening lingering in their mind.

We are happy to see Mr. Grier back from Florida and we sure went for those oranges and grapefruit he brought back for us.

The next time you hear from us, school will be out and our thoughts will turn toward our summer vacations.

So long til then.

LAUNDRY NEWS

It's been quite some time since you've heard from us, so this month we've lots of things to talk about.

Of course our main interest right now is the forthcoming commencement exercises which are just two weeks off. The seniors are especially excited and busy, doing last minute tasks and preparing to leave. We've enjoyed your friendship, seniors, and are going to miss you all, even 'ole Traywick.

Along with the excitement of school closing, the laundry girls are thinking of all the work we'll have to do after our help leaves for summer vacations. We're going to miss you too, so hurry back!

Now to turn the spotlight on a few of our girls. Ethel Brotherton, one of our faithful workers, will leave us soon to go upstairs to the sewing room, since she is a rising senior. By the way, Ethel was sporting a new evening dress at the Junior-Senior banquet held recently and we all have to agree she was a knockout!

Any hour of the afternoon you can find Shirley Plyler and Martha Nell over at the Snack Bar with an armful of puppies. Seems like they just can't resist them, so all you puppies beware.

Shirley Hollifield is trying desperately to find a new hair style. It must be for someone special, eh Shirley?

Recently Barbara Bradshaw has become a regular hillbilly fan since one of the carpenters at the new gym is an almost perfect replica of Roy Acuff.

Margaret Hopkins competing with best beau for skating championship. Give up, Margaret you haven't got a chance.

See you again next month friends, with more news.

—Hazel Creech.

NOTICE!

For lack of space, a portion of the receipts were omitted, but will be published in the June issue.

Summary of the Year's Work

Excerpts from the report of the Superintendent to the Board of Regents in their annual Spring meeting are here-with given Humbly, we give thanks to Almighty God for the many blessings of the year bestowed upon Barium Springs. The unmistakable evidence of His presence upon the campus has been manifest to all. We, therefore, acknowledge Him, our Heavenly Father, as Sovereign over us and dedicate our lives anew to His service in the work of the Home.

The first item then to be considered is administration. A full year's working together is bringing the members of the administrative force in the office to a better understanding of each other. A reasonable harmony has existed in the planning and executing of the affairs of the institution. In some of the re-organization anticipated it is hoped that the loose ends of administration may be brought together and that this section of the Home may operate with greater efficiency.

The accomplishments of the year within the realm of household are amazing in the light of the facts which exist. We have had a capacity load of children and have been understaffed and the staff has been underpaid. All the workers have toiled diligently and long, going the second mile almost every day. The children of the Home have responded beautifully to the crowded conditions, and the irritations that naturally exist from pressures have been at a minimum. I am convinced that the most important person on the campus is the houseparent. This person is responsible for the child twenty-four hours a day. With the minimum salary of $80.00 a month, and a maximum of $110.00, plus room and board, it has been impossible to secure additional persons who are qualified for this important work. To put an unqualified person in charge of a heterogeneous group, ranging in number from twenty to thirty, is utterly incomprehensible. Frictions arise and damages are done. It is, therefore, indispensable that consideration be given to the houseparent, and that the salary scale be provided that will enable the administration to reinforce the staff with capable and competent persons when additions are made. The practice of housing personnel other than houseparents in the building with the children is very un-

Awards Made At Commencement

Dr. Carl R. Pritchett, pastor of the Davidson College Presbyterian church, made the commencement address at the Barium Springs High School graduation Monday evening.

Dr. Pritchett used the conquest of fear as his topic and in a narrative style, that held the interest of the youngest of his hearers, he told how youth can go out to conquer the fear of material, of physical, of worldly ills in the strength of an all-guiding and all-directing hand.

The 19 members of the graduating class wore caps and gowns and took their places on the stage, led by their attractive little mascot, Libby Twombly, who was also in a cap and gown. Louise Campbell and Henry Troutman were chief marshals; Dwight Reid, Elmina Johnson and Bonnie Odum were the other marshals.

Mrs. Lee Spencer was accompanist and played the Priests' March as procession-al. Members of the Junior class sang the farewell song at the close of the program with the alma mater sung by everyone.

Perfect attendance certificates were given by Mr. W. A. Hethcox, diplomas by Mr. R. G. Calhoun and Bibles were awarded by Rev. Charles H. Sides, with Miss Ruth Troutman giving the certificates to the elementary class.

Peggy Neel was salutatorian and Peggy also received the Bible medal. Shirley Inman was the valedictorian and Shirley received also a Bible from Little Joe's church, and the customary money award, for reciting The Shorter Catechism.

Paul Curlee Barnes won the much-coveted ace medal and Louise Bradshaw won the music improvement medal.

Martha Lucille Stinson was given a medal for perfect attendance. She did not miss a day during her entire schooling, first grade through graduation.

Tenth—Helen Barnes, Hazel Creech, Hilda Donaldson, Gloria Williams.

Eleventh—Henry Troutman, Elmina Johnson, Bonnie Odom, Carolyn Wicker.

Twelfth—Paul Barnes, Marie Andrews, Clara Mangum, Peggy B. Neel, Melva Powell, Lucille Stinson, Frances Stricklin, Jean Turlington, Elsie Vest, Ann Wilcox, Peggy Plyler.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gray Receive Alumni Medal

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gray whose home is on the Wilkesboro road, made history at the Barium Springs High School commencement Monday evening, just as they made history at the Barium Home some 30 odd years ago when they were married, the first boy and girl to step out from the Home as life partners.

Mrs. Gray is the former Miss Annie Hartsell, a graduate of Barium with the class of 1914.

Mr. Gray, news editor with The Statesville Daily and The Landmark, was with the class of 1913.

They were married in Little Joe's church at Barium on August 18, 1915. For the past 31 years they have lived in Statesville.

Monday evening their married life, their family life, their church and community life were given the highest recognition that Barium makes, the Ace Alumni award. It was a history-making award because for the first time, it went to a husband-wife couple. Heretofore it has been awarded to an individual only.

High tribute was paid to Mr. and Mrs. Gray for the home they have established, for the influence of that home, for their own daily life, for the training of their children, for their service in church and

It should be noted that there is not now any director of recreation on the campus. The varsity sports and Physical Education directed by the coaches through the school provide the only organized recreation on the campus. This must be remedied and in all probability it will require someone on the campus specifically trained to guide the boys and girls in wholesome recreational activities.

Campus News
RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everybody,

It has been a long time since we have written our news. We have been letting the seniors and juniors have first place in our paper for the last month. Now we are ready to tell you how much we have enjoyed the campus activities. The senior play was enjoyed so very much. We don't think we have told you about having Fred Kirby with us and that was very delightful. School is out and ten of our eighth graders have moved to Womans Building and eight of the Howard girls have moved to our cottage. We are missing our eighth graders very much. But hope they will be very happy at the Womans Building. We are happy to have our new girls. Hope they are going to be happy with us. Rumble Hall has had some visitors this past week, Mrs. John M. Wells, little Johnny and Glenn from Charlotte, N. C., Margaret Carpenter, from Rutherfordton, Mr. and Mrs. Dellard and little girl from York, S. C. We were very happy to have them.

We have a lot of new faces on the campus now. We have not learned them all yet, but I am sure we will know them well for they are to teach us in Bible School. We are looking forward to that. Some will be house mothers for vacation.

Our swimming pool has not opened yet but we hope it will soon. "Just can't wait", the weather is getting so warm.

We received two beautiful bolts of material from our friend in Wilmington, N. C. Thanks so very much friends. We know we are going to be proud of our rooms for we are to have new curtains. Guess this is all for this time.

LEES COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

We are still around if you haven't been hearing from us.

We got a bicycle for Christmas and we have been having loads of fun riding it.

We saved up money and bought us a record player, now we are buying some records.

School is out and we are glad we have a lot of time to play. Some of our friends in Kannapolis brought us a glove, ball and bat. Thank you.

Vacation Bible School begins Monday and I know we will have a good time and learn many things.

They are filling up the swimming pool and we will be glad when we can go swimming.

Four boys from Synods moved to our cottage, they are: Douglas Byrd, Billy Harrison, Graham Blake and Alton Bass. We are glad to have them.

We got our typhoid shots May 29th, but it didn't hurt much.

We'll write again next month.

—Douglas Byrd
Richard Blackburn

SYNODS COTTAGE

Many changes have come to us with the ending of the school year. Of our household four made the honor roll: Barbara McCall, Douglas Byrd, John Bolton, and Henry Harris. We are so proud of them. Douglas, along with Graham Blake, Billie Harrison, Alton Bass and Jimmie Harris were promoted to the Fourth grade. The first four have moved to Lees and are having their desire to help on the farm fulfilled.

Our big sisters, Mary Frances Price and Hilda Barnes will be seniors this fall so they are now living at the Woman's Building and stitching away at the sewing room. We miss them very much, but Louise Bradshaw and Barbara McCall are winning the hearts of all the little boys.

Last week, Freddie and Donnie Gillespie went home to live with their mother. A message from them says they are very happy.

Last, but not least our cottage is having its face lifted this summer. Next Monday, before painting begins, our family is going underground. We'll be out of sight but not out of hearing, in the basement of the Woman's Building, at the gracious invitation of Mrs. Gresham. On the Fourth of July, What a homecoming!, We hope!

INFIRMARY NEWS

Hello Folks,

Things have really been happening since you last heard from us. The mighty seniors, Louise Campbell and Elmina Johnson decided that they liked the Woman's Building better so they moved over there. Louise is now working in the Snack Bar and Elmina is working in the sewing room. Linda Inman and Lois Dellinger moved here from the Woman's Building and we are very glad to have them.

The seniors are sponsoring a square dance tonight in the auditorium and we all expect to have a big time.

Two of our girls, Linda and Pattie Inman were on the honor roll for the last report period and Jane Feimster only missed it by one S.

We really had a busy day Tuesday, the 29th. Two nurses from the health department came down and they and Miss Fleming gave us all typhoid shots. You should have seen everyone going around nursing sore arms the next day.

Right now, everyone is excited about vacations. Linda and Pattie are going July 10, and Jane and Lois are going July 31.

Look for us again next month and we will have some more news for you.

Pattie, Jane, Linda, and Lois.

SEWING ROOM

With commencement over, tears shed, and moving from building to building completed, the new, bright seniors have taken up their positions in the sewing room.

So far we senior girls have not sewed our fingers. This statement is far, far better than what the former seniors did at the beginning of their sewing career.

Many of you people don't know us at all, or anything about our experiences, which apparently begin in the sewing room. Therefore, we'll try to help you up to some "interesting" news.

Ethel Brotherton is still talking about her good friend who has finally arrived. From the moment Ann Willcox wrote to say she was planning a visit, all Ethel could talk about was Ann's coming. Now that she is here, the "parrot" is telling us that her friend is here every five minutes.

As for the rest of us, we like our friends to come back for visits. We aren't used to being seniors yet and we'd like to get a few pointers from the "former graduates." Throughout the summer we hope that many of them will come back to get a free meal off the home.

Familiar quotes around the place now are established as, "What next to sew?" answer, "Pajamas of course." "Can I have my dress now?" "Where in the world is that old elastic?" Mrs. Smith, my machine needle broke." "Mrs. Smith, my belt came off!" Whew! what a life!" says Mrs. Smith.

One of Caroline Wicker's aunts sent her some material to make some dresses. Evidently her aunt thought Caroline an expert with one week's work. All that is left to say is that "boy, we sure would love to have that aunt."

"When am I going to hear from Mason?" cries Mary Frances Price?" An optimistic reply sounds like this:

"Never be discouraged." At long last the "little princess" (as Mason calls her) has heard from her man. Harry S. Truman will probably get eaten out of the White House and Blair House. Don't starve Mason and Doc in Washington.

"Whose going to lie in the sun this afternoon?" yells blonde Elmina Johnson. No one replies since Elmina's pace is too, too fast for the rest of us; so energetic "Elminie" trots off to the back yard to add another layer (thin layer) of tan.

Hilda Barnes is getting to be a regular Doris Day. Even though she has always been bashful before, she sure is tuning up her vocal cords to serenade John Whiting.

The "Honest Abe" of the class is now putting her trustworthiness to work. Yes, Louise Campbell has to depart from the sewing room to take up another task of selling-and eating - popicles and candy. We certainly do miss her, but she's just across the road.

Sara Bradshaw, who is always in a hurry with her sewing, has been asking her neighbors for a razor blade just about every day. Don't worry she isn't cutting herself, only the material. Besides ripping, her poor fingers are getting stuck full of holes. Without Sara our motto, "As we sew, so shall we rip", would not be very effective.

Last but not least is the short, blonde Bonnie Lou Odom vs. "Lucifer." Heart breaks seem to be in full swing for old Lucifer, but there is a sailor in Florida who is still getting and sending letters. What won't happen to Bonnie next?

When next month rolls around look for our news in the same place and at the same time. We'll be good if you all will.

—The Seniors of 1952

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hi Folks,

Well, here we are again and we've got lots of news to tell you.

Our most important news we think is that school is out and we all passed our grades. We had eight small girls and one of our big sisters on the honor roll. They were Nancy Joyner, Nancy Mobley, Mary Lettie Ramey, Patsy Porter, Pamela Fair, Christine Clark, Judy Taylor, Sue Moore and Hazel Creech.

Since you last heard from us, six of our girls have moved to live with the larger girls. They were replaced by Linda Byrd, Diana Mobley, Mae Ramey, Teresa Taylor, Susie Blackburn, and Peggy Bridges; all from the Baby Cottage. We are very happy to have them and hope they like their new home. We also have a new big sister, Hazel Creech. She likes her new home and is very fond of playing with us.

We've seen two good movies recently. They were Lassie in "Painted Hills" and "Rocky Mountain." These pictures were very entertaining and we all enjoyed them.

To the nineteen seniors who graduated recently, we'd like to say we miss you all; so hurry back to see us soon.

Vacation Bible School starts next Monday and is lasting two weeks this year instead of one. It's so much different from our other school that we are looking forward to it with eagerness.

Our real vacations start on July 10 and that is when most of us will go. We enjoy going home but always look forward to returning.

We'll be with you again next month so until then; so long, it's been good to know you.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,
We are glad that we have six new girls, who moved from Annie Louise, at our cottage. They are Lois Ramey, Clara Dean Byrd, Donnie Lewis, Carol Moore, Brenda Pursley, and Catherine Reich.

When moving started we were lucky to be given a big sister. We were glad it was Margaret Hopkins, since we all like her very much.

Since riding the bike is the thing we like to do most at our cottage, we want everyone to know how to ride. Of all the girls who moved over here, Brenda Pursley is the only one who knew how to ride but, we have already taught Carol Moore how to ride.

We went to see a movie last week. The name of it was "Lassie and the Painted Hills." We all liked it.

Nancy Ferrell, Kay Clark, and Betty Ruth Anderson all made the honor roll the last six weeks for the first time this year. We are proud of them.

Miss Margaret Hall of Statesville sent us some records. We enjoy listening to them a great deal.

Vacation Time For Everybody

"I woke up at twelve o'clock and could not go back to sleep", said the little girl standing in line waiting for the early six o'clock bus. The whole campus had been in a state of nervous excitement because vacation time was coming. July 10th saw half of the children of the Home boarding buses and trains and traveling by car to uncles and aunts and grandparents and other relatives. For weeks this had been the topic of conversation. Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the case worker, had been busy securing a written request and permission from home; Mr. Lowrance had been getting suitcases, and housemothers had been mending, sewing, cleaning and packing in preparation for two weeks away from the campus.

While the first group was away the others stayed to take care of the necessary duties. Then on the morning of July 31st their great day had come and they, too, made their way to the various parts of

Caravan Visits Campus Ten Days

A Caravan Team sponsored by the Synod's Council arrived on the campus the last day of June and spent the next ten days working with the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and the Council. This group was under the direction of Miss Eleanor Godfrey of Winston-Salem and the student members of the Caravan Team were Peggy Crowe from Wilmington, Dora Lee Wiley from Norwood, Tommy Hall from St. Pauls, and Howard White from Dunn. The Caravaners spent each morning visiting and working with the various groups on the campus. The afternoon was given over to the study and evaluation and special training. The early evening and night was given over to worship, study and recreation in which the whole group participated.

The Youth Fellowship will perhaps count this as the highlight of the Summer's program. Not only was it fun, but it was also a very valuable period in preparation for the remainder of the Summer and the Winter's program.

These Caravaners made themselves a permanent place upon the campus and they do not need an invitation - all they have to do is just come back home. Tommy Hall might wish to return though only in the Winter when there are no beans to pick.

New Bookkeeper Joins Office Staff

On July 1, Miss Juanita McInnis took up her work as bookkeeper in the office of the Home, succeeding Miss Lulie E. Andrews who is no longer at Barium.

Miss McInnis is a member of the Second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville and is a daughter of an elder of that Church. She graduated from the Mooresville High School as valedictorian of her class and then took her special training at Mitchell College in the accounting department. During her college days she distinguished herself in her records and gave evidence of her ability in her chosen field. For nearly five years she served in the office of the Superintendent of the Iredell County Schools as the bookkeeper.

The Home feels fortunate in securing the services of Miss McInnis because of her pleasing personality and her professional training.

Ferguson Writes of Former Days

I am enclosing $100 for which please mail me the Barium Messenger as long as this will take care of. One of the boys sent me a copy of the issue in which Mrs. W. Parks Gibbs gave a fine account of her religious work since 1908, and it was of much interest to me. As you know, she was Hettie Murray from her letter. It is possible she has not visited your lovely and good Home since leaving.

I believe I entered your Home about 1898 and left about 1908 and two years ago I was able to attend your Home Coming day in October. It was really hard to believe it could have been made into almost a Heaven compared to the days of fifty-two years or so ago. It is really beautiful and wonderful. I did find some landmarks of course such as Synods Cottage, Annie Louise Cottage, Rumble Hall, and a few other buildings, all very much made over.

Of course, the steel ram that pumped the washing water to the great wooden tank and the wells and pumps the old wooden bucket was gone. And, of course, the oil lamps were gone.

Your lovely children were dressed well, looked happy and there was a high school. The winding clay road where I saw my first automobile was replaced by a ribbon of fine hard surfaced highway.

I went and looked at you

Many Young People Attend Conferences

Through the generosity of friends in Gastonia the young people of the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and Pioneers were able to attend the conferences.

Two delegates, the President and the Faith Chairman were at the Synod's Conference at Red Springs for a week. The whole Council was sent from Little Joe's Church to the Presbyterians' Conference in Statesville, and four

Ten Boys Take Life-Saving Course

The Iredell County Chapter of the American Red Cross, sponsoring a life-saving school in Statesville, found one-fourth of the class from Barium Springs. In addition to a good day's work, ten boys after supper took the station wagon and went to the City Recreation Pool where the classes were being held. All of these boys - Fred Feimster, John Bullard, Johnny Hudgins, Carl Spicer, Dean Upton, Bob Mc-

Cottage NewsLaundry

Since we hardly ever write any laundry news we thought maybe we would celebrate this month and write some.

The half of the girls who haven't gone on their vacations are keeping the old laundry open. The washer still boils over when Edna Baucom won't keep on the job. The mangle is running well. We have some girls working over there that are new on the job. Of course, Mrs. Neel guides the clothes through. Have you been wondering why the clothes have been ironed better this month?

When the sewing room closed Ethel Brotherton came back to her old job of ironing. Of course she has some very capable helpers. Jackie Porterfield and Jacqueline Kuykendall.

Next week the ones that haven't gone will go on their vacations, and the ones that are gone now will come back to take over our work. But we hope they have had as good a time as we know we shall have.

When you come to visit our campus you are always welcome in the laundry.

Take good care of your selves and we'll try to take good care of the laundry.

—Shirley Plyler.

Jennie Gilmer

Hi Folks,

This is the Jennie Gilmer Boys. We are having a fine time these days as vacation time is here. Vacation time is split this year as half of the boys went July 10th and the other half will go July 31st. The boys that went July 10th have already returned and all reported an enjoyable time.

Some went to the beach while others went on sight-seeing trips to the mountains and large cities; and still others spent a lazy two weeks at home. We are real glad to have them all back and we also hope that the boys that are on the 31st. will have an enjoyable time.

We boys are not the only ones vacating this month. Ralph Spencer and his family left July 21, for two weeks in Florida. We hope they enjoy their well earned rest.

Football practice is supposed to start in about three weeks and everyone is looking forward to it. Meanwhile we are enjoying ourselves in the swimming pool which feels mighty good these hot days.

—Jennie Gilmer Boys.

Synods

We are now back home after spending a month in the basement of the Woman's Building, while our cottage had its face lifted.

Mrs. Ramsay, our matron, is away on her vacation and we have "Miss Jackie" with us for a while. We call "Miss Jackie," "Ma Kettle." We miss Mrs. Ramsay and we all wish her a happy vacation.

Our big sister, Barbara McCall and ten of our boys went home on July 10th for a vacation.

Louise Bradshaw and 8 of our boys go on vacation July 31. Vacation time is very exciting.

The swimming pool is now open and we had quite a day on July 4. Jimmy Morris won the "belly whopper" contest. Jimmy Harris won a diving contest, and John Bolton won one too.

We've had a casualty, Earl Corbett decided to climb the football goal post and it broke and so did Earl's arm. Earl is at home but his arm is still in a cast.

Jimmy Harris moved to Lees Cottage and we have a new boy with us, Stanley Muse from Durham, N. C. Stanley is quite a fellow even if he does have red hair.

We have been busy too, for we asked that we be given beans to string and break. Believe it or not, but we enjoyed working.

Last, but not least, we've enjoyed going down to the spring for picnic suppers on Saturday night. We like to go on walks.

Look for us again next month.

Annie Louise

Well, here we are again busier than ever. We've had a lot to do lately with about half of us on our vacation from July 10th until the 26th. The rest of us are going the 31st. We can't wait until the day finally rolls around, neither can we wait for the day to come back. We don't know when we're happier, going or coming. One of our treats lately was when we saw "Bed-time for Bozo" and "Ma and Pa Kettle on the Farm". They were real funny and we enjoyed them very much.

We had a very good time the 4th of July. We entered swimming contests, ate watermelon and played in the rain.

The ones that have come from their vacations are very busy telling about the mountains, beach and home, which makes us more eager.

We have lots of work to do now that only half of us are here. We like that very much.

We like to mop the floor and clean up our play room and kindergarten. When we go home we are going to help our people a lot. We will have a lot to tell you next time we will be so excited for school to start.

One of our big sisters, Hazel Creech went home to stay. We miss her very much. We also have a new girl, Betty Rae Pursley. She is getting along fine.

Periods of inspiration and special instruction, such as is provided in a camp or conference program, has been one of the greatest assets to youth work in the program of the Church. cemetery and I saw markers at all the graves well kept. In the cemetery I saw that among those laid to rest were Joe Gilland, pneumonia; Beulah McDonald, diphtheria; Charles Justice, the very quick tuberculosis.

I met one neighbor, Alonzo Litaker, and he seemed glad to see me. I saw the great steel tank that must hold good clean drinking water I guess from a clean, closed deep well, and your Home, I believe, is heated by lovely steam heat instead of stoves and fire places, and you get your light from electricity, and it all seemed so very wonderful to me. If I said all the nice things I can think of since my visit, it would make this letter too long.

Long ago so often I would see a printed sign in almost every home. It read - "God Bless Our Home." So, I will close with that in mind - God Bless Our Home at Barium Springs, N. C. If you think my letter would be of interest to anyone you may print it in your paper.

I am with much respect,

The regular annual physical examination has been held and the student body seems to be in good general health. Where there have been specific items listed by the doctors we are taking steps to have these attended to. The doctor at Troutman, the local infirmary supervised by the nurse, and the Davis Hospital with its complete staff serve the students well. We are very much behind in our dental program. Conferences have been held with the dentist in Statesville who is doing the work. Ways and means of catching up with the back work and providing for everyday individual care is in process of being arranged for.

At present we are taking care of all the emergencies, but we need to do more than that.

The following figures from the case worker's office show some of the work done in the health department:

279 children were given a complete physical examination. 51 children were given a T B Skin Test, 37 children were given Parasite Tests, 42 children were given Wasserman Tests, 22 Tonsilectomies, 279 Typhoid Shots, 7 Appendectomies, 271 Teeth were filled - all children were screened by the dentist and emergency work done, 81 Extractions, 20 Refractions, 5 children taken to the Orthopedic Clinic, 15 were immunized against measles.

The school has had 285 students, 200 in the Elementary School and 85 in the High School. The school comes the nearest to being a department within the organization that we have. With Mr. R. G. Calhoun as the principal of the school, a good year has been accomplished and we look for still better things to come in the days that lie ahead. The school has cooperated with the other schools of Iredell County and has had complimentary remarks from those inspectors of the State who have come through to grade every phase of the school's activities.

The department of Extra-Institutional Services is concerned with the case work and the Foster Home program and maintenance in other institutions. During the first months of the year just concluded the Foster Home program was discontinued upon the authorization of the Board of Regents. The children thus affected were returned to their own homes or brought into the Home at Barium. This, then, indicates that the total scope of our work lies in the institutional care within the bounds of Barium Springs. The population to date is 292 - 147 boys and 145 girls. During the year there were 43 applications received with two reopened. These 45 applications involved 116 children and out of this 116 44 were admitted to the institution.

In the farm, dairy and orchard there are 600 acres in cultivation of which 85 acres are used for permanent pasture. Mr. J. F. Stinson is the supervisor and he is assisted by six full-time paid men and from two to 18 boys. At the present time we have 4 mules, 3 horses, 4 tractors, a motorized combine, and other necessary implements for farming. We have 48 sheep, 36 lambs, and 89 hogs. In the summary of production for the year on the farm we find that 52 acres of wheat yielded 510 bushels; 9 acres of rye yielded 120 bushels; 11 acres of oats and barley mixed yielded 310 bushels; 52 acres of oats yielded 1647 bushels; 60 acres of barley yielded 1295 bushels. On the same acreage used for small grain, after the cutting of the grain, there was harvested in lespedeza seed 11,000 pounds of No. 1 seed and 3,000 pounds of No. 2 seed. 72 acres of land produced 3600 bushels of corn; 8 acres produced 120 tons of ensilage corn. From the 104 acres used for alfalfa 200 tons of hay were used at the dairy barn and 50 tons for the horses, beef cattle and sheep. 90 tons was sold green in the field because we had more than we needed. 1800 bales of straw were put in the barns for use in bedding for the cows.

Ninety-two hogs were killed during the year, totaling 28,160 pounds. The hams, shoulders, and sides were cured at the freezer locker and the trimmings were used for sausage and livermush with the fresh meat from the spare ribs and back bones. This amount of hog meat makes the pork diet a little too heavy and it is our intention to move more from pork to beef, increasing the beef herd.

The orchards are supervised by Mr. Woodrow Clendenin and he has been assisted by one or more adults and from 1 to 15 boys. 1800 apple trees on 35 acres of land last year produced over 7,000 bushels of apples. The 500 peach trees on 15 acres of land produced about one peach. There are 200 peach trees which will bear in a few years from now, replacing the older ones.

The dairy is supervised by Mr. Ralph Spencer and he is assisted by his brother, Lee Spencer. Student help totaling 20 to 25 boys in the age range from ten to fourteen years is used.

The herd consists of 90 to 100 animals which have been cared for in four main buildings with several small auxiliary buildings. The herd is tested annually by the State Veterinarian and found to be free of Bangs Disease and TB. The milk is tested regularly by the County Sanitarian and the bacteria count has been ranging between three and four thousand which is considered very low. A Federal survey was made of dairy barns in this area during the past year and the barn at Barium was rated 98, the highest in Iredell County. The amount of milk produced last year was 44,410 gallons from an average of 35 Holstein cows. This is raw milk, having been cooled and stored, served and consumed. While there is some confidence in the quality of the milk which the children are getting, yet there is always the possibility of some infection coming from the animals through the milk. The County Health Department strongly recommends the use of pasteurized milk only.

The print shop and the shoe shop are under one director, Mr. Ed. Kyles. For three-fourths of the year just closed there was one adult assistant, Mr. Wallace Twombly. From one to eight boys are used in the shop. Necessary shoe repairs are made for the children of the Home but the primary work is done in the printing office.

Some idea of the activity involved in the shop can be had from the fact that in addition to printing 288,750 copies of the Messenger to be mailed out, there were 404,870 other pieces printed.

The general organized effort put forth in the religious training still persists upon the campus. All of the children are required to attend Sunday School and the morning Church service. The group meetings in the afternoon and evening are optional and the student attends on his own volition. Service is held each Wednesday evening and the student body is required to be present. The pastor and session arranged for a visiting preacher to hold services for one week in the Church.

The Passing of A Landmark . . .

This issue of The Messenger marks a change in the way we are showing our receipts from the various organizations of the Churches of Synod.

This change has been brought about partly by the growing conviction that an undue amount of space in The Messenger was being devoted to financial statistics in proportion to the benefits derived from the publication of each gift.

The second reason which brought about the change is the changing methods by which the offerings for Presbyterian Orphans' Home are received. Not so many years ago practically all of the money from the organizations was sent direct to the Home. Now each Presbytery has its Treasurer and the churches are urged to channel all the funds through the Treasurer. When the Presbytery's Treasurer first began to function, he sent us a list giving each contributing organization and the amount. As the churches have been using the Central Treasurers in increasing amount, this system has become burdensome so that several of the Treasurers have discontinued this distribution list. The Presbytery's Treasurers have always gone the second mile for the Home and have been most helpful in every way, for which we are very grateful. But because we would have to show an increasing amount credited to the Presbytery but undesignated as to the church or organization, we thought it hardly worth while to show a partial picture.

So we plan in the future to give our receipts by Presbyteries showing the totals given by the organizations of the churches. The figures will be given for the month just preceding and the total for the church year to date.

The Synod of North Carolina has apportioned to the Presbyteries the sum of $66,300.00 to be raised in the regular budget and has set the figure for the Thanksgiving Offering at $100,000.00 which makes a total asking by the Synod for the Home of $166,300.00. It is our purpose to show the proportionate part of Synod's asking for that period of the year. For example, through July, one third of the year is gone and one third of $166,300.00 is $55,433.33. We are sadly aware of the fact that this is counting on the Thanksgiving Offering, and Thanksgiving is quite a way off. However, we feel that this gives the clearest picture of what the Synod expects and what the Home will require to be adequately supported. If we see wherein we can improve on this report we will be glad to change. We welcome suggestions.

The following is our first report under the changed set-up:

Prior to vacation time the whole student body had been very busy indeed harvesting grain, working the gardens, gathering in the vegetables, spraying the apples, caring for the peaches, canning, picking blackberries and making jam, stringing beans, washing clothes, cooking in the kitchen, caring for the buildings, cutting grass, cleaning buildings, making the sewing machines hum in the sewing room. All in all, the days had been busy and the work had been well done and the vacation time was deserved.

Teachers Return And School Opens

On August 30th the big bell in the high tower brought both joy and grief to the hearts of the students at Barium, for at 8:15 on that morning it rang forth its summons to the schoolhouse again, thus ending the vacation period and beginning the busy days of school. Many of the children were so excited they could hardly sleep through the night and eagerly danced their way to the school house while others dragged along, longingly looking back toward the swimming pool and the fields where they had been playing all summer.

The teachers were present ready to receive them. Mr. R. G. Calhoun, the principal, had already been on the job for two weeks and had everything in readiness. Only three new members were added to the teaching force and none of the three was a stranger. Mrs. A. M. Calhoun, having been absent from the staff for three years, returned to teach the first grade; Miss Kathryn Troutman who taught at Gastonia last year, but who lives in Troutman, takes the sixth grade; Mr. W. L. Guy, formerly the principal of Celeste Henkel School in Iredell County, comes to take the seventh grade in the Elementary School. The other teachers in the Elementary School are Miss Fleanor Miller in the second grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, the third grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, the fourth; Miss Sadie Brandon, the fifth. The eighth grade is in the High School building and is taught by the teachers of the High School, and this group is the same as last year: Miss Reba Thompson, Miss Irene McDade, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Mr. W. A. Hethcox, and Mr. A. M. Calhoun.

Help Needed

The housemother is the most important person on the campus of the Home because of the long hours spent with the children in the cottages. It is, therefore, especially important that persons qualified to render this service and afford this leadership shall be placed in these positions. Persons between the ages of 25 and 50 who have a sense of humor, physical stamina for hard work, are willing to invest in the lives of children, and have a sense of calling for this particular field of service are greatly needed at Barium Springs. Persons interested in this type of work, or knowing of persons who might be qualified for this service will please communicate with the superintendent.

Football Team Hard At Work

The coaches, Calhoun, Jackins and Guy, issued the call for the football players and they did not have to call but once. The squad was small and all could hear and the forty boys in High School reported for practice. Beginning practice on August 20th and rounding out in shape, the squad hopes to about break even during the year on the games to be played.

All hopes for Buddy Maples, the spring-legged bit of dynamite in the backfield, has failed for the doctors have ordered him not to participate in football this fall. However, he may be able to play basketball in the new year. Charles Stevens, a senior and a guard from last year, has been advised to remain inactive because of a shoulder injury and he will not even don uniform during the season. Conference rules on age eligibility caught up with Fred Feimster and he

Attention Alumni

The football coaches, the president of the Alumni Association, and the superintendent of the Home have gone into a huddle and have called the signal for Homecoming Day. This date is October 12, and every former student of the Home is expected to return to take part in the exercises of the day.

In the morning there will be a combination program under the direction of the principal of the school wherein the present student body will have a chance to take part in the program and then the former students will have an opportunity to be presented and take some part in the program. Following that there will be the regular Alumni banquet in the dining hall. The term "banquet" is used advisedly because the meal is prescribed from year to year as being very similar to one that the students remembered so well while on the campus. Immediately after the meal there will be a meeting of the Alumni Association under the direction of the president.

Then in the afternoon there will be the annual Homecoming football game played this year between Barium Springs and the Children's Home. Make plans now to be present for this occasion.

Alumni News

Peggy Plyler has taken a position with the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Charlotte.

Joyce Katen is staying in Marion with her sister, Margaret Everett.

Anne Willcox has joined the Waves and is at Great Lakes, Ill.

Billy Barke from Charlotte spent the day at Barium. He will be in the 10th grade in Central High this year.

Children Invited to Attend Circus

The King Brothers Circus came to town on September 1st under the sponsorship of the Elks Club of Statesville. This was a happy day for the boys and girls of Barium because the members of the Elks Club extended an invitation to all at Barium to be their guests.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun, the principal of the school, shortened the afternoon schedule and made special arrangements for the children's travel. Each of the teachers took a group and went along with the children. Mr. Lowrance called into action both of the school buses and both of the large trucks and as many cars as were available for the afternoon's transportation. They all loaded up and made their way to the big top out on the Hickory highway.

Members of the Elks Club met the group at the gate by special arrangement with the management and admitted them through the turnstyle and escorted them to the seats reserved for them in the center tent.

The elephants, the horses, the dogs, the clowns, the acrobats and the trapeze artists furnished a high grade of entertainment which kept everyone thoroughly delighted. The clown made a special visit to the Barium section, and the boys and girls were thoroughly delighted as he feigned his affections for some of the teachers in the group.

Howard

Hi Folks,

We are just bubbling over with news now that school has started. There has been some changes in the teachers this year. Miss Stevenson is the new fourth grade teacher. She used to teach the seventh. Miss Brandon is still the fifth grade teacher. We are all working toward the honor roll hoping that all of us will make it this year.

Each of us have made a trip to the sewing room. Mrs. Smith is making all of us a pretty plaid dress for school.

We saw a very good picture, "Alice In Wonderland." There was a short picture also of "God's Half Acre", that was very educational. We learned a lot about birds and animals.

Our little two year-old neighbor, Nancy Spencer brought her birthday cake and ice cream up to our house and shared it with us. We enjoyed it so much.

Shelby Peak and Sally Corbett, two of our girls who did not get a vacation. Spent a day in Asheville seeing the beautiful scenery. We all know they enjoyed it very much.

We are still doing beans but now we have something to think about while doing beans.

Football is about to start and we can hardly wait for the first game.

Woman's Building

With such sweltering hot afternoons, which are now being spent in class rooms, it is a deep wonder that we all don't throw up our hands in exasperation! Even among those who like school, I bet they would love to be basking in a cool room with a tall glass of lemon-ade or tea near by. Doesn't that make you want to drop everything?

Since we have eight senior girls who are eagerly awaiting for graduation, we've got to let them get this final year over and done with. Hot weather or not! But, girls, when winter comes, what song are we then going to be singing?

We are sorry to have one of our junior girls leave us to go to a smaller cottage. Even if she is just across the campus, we shall miss her. We wish her success throughout the coming year with her new job at Annie Louise.

There's a great day coming! Yes sree! It won't be long before our activities building will be complete and we can start our skating. Each night after supper the majority of us trek down to see how much more has been done. But for some of us who don't go so often to see it, a saying one of our teachers passed on to us close to the end of school when it was first going up, suits us just fine. It goes like this: "The less you look, the more you see!"

After a month's vacation we are glad to have Miss Winnie Ferguson back in our building with us. We hope she had a nice time, but we are also glad to have her with us once again. Welcome home, Miss Winnie.

We've just got to wait until next month to finish telling you our news. Right now we have got to get our nose stuck in our books.

See you next month, friends.

—The W. B. Girls.

Jennie Gilmer

School days are with us again and though we are glad to welcome the fall and football, we aren't too fond of getting up at 5:30 A. M. to milk those cows. Well, there must be some bad along with the good things so we won't gripe too much - yet.

We have some real friends down in Mooresville, one of the Circles is either sending us stacks of comic books or something to eat. We had a real picnic supper about two weeks ago and you should have been here to help us put it away. We can't begin to thank our friends enough.

We miss all of our boys who left us to stay home this summer, we hope they will be happy though and will visit us soon.

The circus is coming to Statesville soon and we are keeping our fingers crossed hoping we will get to go.

—J. G. Boys.

Rumple Hall

Hello Folks.

We are back again with our news. We don't have much news to tell about this time. First, we went on vacation, half of us went the 10 of July and the rest of us went the 31st of July. Most of us went to the beach or to a lake, and we all had fun.

August 17th the Pioneers went on a hayride, we went to Brown's Pool in Mooresville and had watermelons, we came back by Davidson College.

School has started again. The girls in the seventh grade have a new teacher, his name is Mr. Guy, and we all think a lot of him.

Well this is all our news for this month.

Your friend,
—Ann McLean.Annie Louise

Here we are back again not only with the news this time, but with school and lessons, too. However, we're not in the least discouraged since all of us were really looking forward to it. Many of the girls who were in the first grade feel real proud now that they are in the second grade, especially one little girl who was overheard boasting that she had been promoted and was going to be in the second grade. She was soon cut short though, with the reply from one of the other little girls. "You needn't feel so big-gity," she said, "I was commoded," too. (meaning promoted, of course)

Now that school has started we're sort of disappointed that the swimming pool is closed, but we're really glad that we can all be back together again after a swell vacation with our friends and relatives. We really have enjoyed ourselves this summer and will be looking forward to next year when all of the summer workers can be with us again.

With the return of Vacations and the starting of school we have a newcomer in our midst, Judy Hamilton's her name and we hope that she will be very happy here with us.

Recently we've been to see two movies and hope that we will get to see "Alice in Wonderland" sometime soon. We have heard the story but have not seen the movie yet, so that's really something we're looking forward to.

We've had two birthdays so far this month but later on there will be another one. Our "big girl", Shirley, will be celebrating the 18th. Virginia Lane and Sue Moore celebrated theirs today, September 3rd.

We're having lots of fun playing grown up now with our high heels, hats, dresses and pocketbooks that we accumulated while we were home and brought back with us. Our favorite pastime is either playing "mama" or "going to the store."

Well I guess you folks are pretty tired reading all this "bunk" so we'll just say so long, until next month.

Baby Cottage

Hi There.

Here come the babies! You haven't heard from us in months, but now we are settled back down again after our vacations. Of course if you hear us yelling and see us jumping around you would hardly consider us very settled.

The ones of us who are old now ((six years old) have moved right on up to Synods and Annie Louise Cottage. That left us with a lot of empty beds but not for long. The little girls, Patricia Ann Mace, Sherry and Marie Ross, and three little boys, Mike Porter, Walter Snead, and Clyde Mace have come to live with us. But goodness, you would never believe they are new. They all keep right up with the rest of us in having fun on the slide, ocean-wave, and swings.

The summer substitute housemothers now know how the "old woman who lived in a shoe" must have felt.

While the regular housemothers were on vacations, the subs were having quite a time with us children who returned from our vacations. Although we enjoyed being at home with loved ones for a time we were real happy to get back to our friends at Barium. In fact, one little fellow was so pleased to see his playmates again that he got up in the middle of the night and went around to all the beds to say hello. Imagine hearing footsteps in the middle of the night and not knowing to whom they belonged!

Now that September is here, Miss Alderman and Miss Glass have left to go back to school. We wish them the best of luck.

Monday we are going to see "Alice In Wonderland." We always especially enjoy the ride on the bus.

Seems like we are all looking for something to get the matter with us so we can go down to the Infirmary and welcome our friend and nurse, Miss Hoots, back to our campus.

We're looking forward to the birthday table in September most of us will be there so it should be quite an occasion.

Well, so long for now—time for us Babies to rest. We'll try not to wait so long next time about writing.

Indeed, it was an afternoon of delight and cheer, but the house mothers are afraid the children are going to starve to death since the circus because when they come to the table they are so full of conversation about what happened that they hardly have time to eat. After all, that is what makes an interesting meal when cheerful conversation can be a part of the table's fellowship.

Little Wilbur cornered his father in the living room and let go with a barrage of questions. His dad finally became annoyed.
 "When I was a boy," he said in exasperation, "I never asked my father questions like you do."
 "Maybe that's why you can't answer mine," replied Wilbur.

houn. The music this year will be under the direction of the same persons as last year. Mrs. Rachel Spencer is the teacher of Public School Music and Miss Mary Smithwick is the piano teacher.

In the opening session of the first day the students were enrolled and properly classified and assigned during the early part of the day and then the Chapel Hour was called at 10:30. Mr. Calhoun, the principal, presiding, presented the new teachers for the year and welcomed the students to the Fall Session. Following a brief devotional period, the principal presented Reverend R. S. Arrowood, the treasurer of the Home, as the speaker of the morning. Through his fine message Mr. Arrowood demonstrated the wisdom of the principal's choice for the opening message of inspiration to his students.

High hopes are entertained in the minds of the students and faculty alike for a very successful school year during 1951-52.

 ed themselves most capable and acceptable to the Home. Misses Alma Steading, Priscilla Shorey, Dean Glass, and Jacqueline Hewett will be returning to A T S to complete their senior year of study. Miss Fumiye Miho, studying at Yale, will return to the campus to pursue her course throughout the winter months. David Sides, assisting in the boys' department, now joins Uncle Sam and his forces and has taken up residence temporarily in the Air Force at Lackland, Tex. Miss Louise Goodbread, Miss Nona Alderman, and Miss Mabel Stevenson, all of whom served part time during the Summer, have resumed their work as teachers in the school systems of their communities. Miss Nancy Hoots who served as relief nurse for the month of July has now come to be in charge of the infirmary and direct the health program at Barium. One thing that helps take away the sadness of parting was the promise of each to return to the campus, and the student body eagerly awaits these visits.

Afternoon of Fun At The County Fair

Following the regular tradition, the management of the Iredell County Fair had scheduled a Barium Day. Every boy and girl on the campus knew this and they had been preparing for it. Lunch was eaten hurriedly and for once everybody rushed back to school with great pleasure. Then the procession began, careful plans having been made by the principal, R. G. Calhoun, for the student body to move in procession down the railroad track a quarter of a mile to the County Fair Grounds. The gates were wide open and the student body were the guests of the management for the afternoon.

The operators were busy and the wheels were turning and the rides were free for the asking. Two big Ferris Wheels, the Merry-go-Round, the little airplanes and automobiles, the roller coaster, the roller plane, and the swinging chairs were kept busy for over an hour as the boys and girls lined up to take their turn in the various rides. The odor of freshly popped corn was not enough to tantalize anyone for those who were selling popcorn gave each child at least one bag. Some got two. Many of the stands reduced the prices of drinks to five cents, and so with popcorn and bottled drinks and candied apples and cotton candy, everything began to take a merry whirl.

The exhibit rooms were open and when the rides had been finished the next hour was spent in just visiting the exhibits at the Fair - the poultry, swine, cattle, and the handiwork and school work. Then the group began to gather at the door of the arena, for nothing was to be omitted and a special show was given for the boys and girls on this occasion. The hour and one-half in the arena as the artists performed thrilled and delighted everyone who were then by that time beginning to feel just a bit weary for a busy afternoon. Making their way back to the campus from the fairgrounds, the steps were a little slower than on the way down. The dietician noticed

Iredell Breeders Give Two Calves

The Iredell Breeders Association, through its president Mr. Harry Brown, presented to the Home two registered calves, one bull and one heifer. It was agreed that these calves would be registered in the name of the Home and each assigned to a particular boy of the Home. It will be the responsibility of this boy to take care of this calf and to prepare it for showing in any of the exhibits that are held.

In carrying out the calf-chain idea, the Home has agreed to return the first heifer calf to the Iredell Breeders

Fraley Elected By Davidson Alumni

The Alumni of Davidson College balloting by mail elected Walter Fraley of the class of '31 to be the vice-president of the Alumni Association. The Installation ceremonies will take place at Homecoming on the Davidson campus.

Walter Fraley graduated from Barium Springs with the class of 1927 and entered Davidson College that Fall. At Davidson he distinguished himself as an athlete and student leader, becoming captain of the football team in the Fall of '30, and his leadership merited him election to O. D. K. After graduation Walter served for a number of years in the field of teaching and coaching. At the present time he lives in Charlotte, N. C., and is associated with the work of the First Presbyterian Church, serving as a coordinator of its activities and directing its work.

Dairy Boys Win Many Blue Ribbons

Wednesday afternoon, September 26th, was the big day for the dairy boys, and they came home from the Fair with colors flying, having won two grand champion prizes, 12 ribbons, 2 red ribbons, 2 white ribbons and one green, meaning 17 places in all. These honors were not without some monetary value for all told the prizes won amounted to $106.00

For many weeks prior to the Fair, the boys under the direction of Messrs. Ralph and Lee Spencer had been grooming their calves and cows for the Fair, rising early before breakfast and working late after supper. They had trimmed and washed and polished and scrubbed and paraded in preparation for the presentation in the big ring. Placing their entries in the Holstein division along with other entries from registered farms, they eagerly awaited the decision of the judges, and were thoroughly delighted to find that in keen competition they had won the top prize in two

SUPERINTENDENT

REV. R. S. ARROWOOD
TREASURER

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME
OF THE SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA
BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C.

To the Members of the Presbyterian Church
In The Synod of North Carolina

Dear Pastors, Church Officers, and Members of the Church:

As you make plans for Thanksgiving, we thought you would like to hear from the Home. There are now nearly 300 children at Barium with the girls outnumbering the boys by about a half-dozen. The reason for the even balance between boys and girls is that the space provided for each is about the same and all the space is nearly always taken.

What about those who want to come? There are enough applications on file to more than take every available bed and new applications come in almost daily. All of these children cannot possibly be admitted; only the cases presenting the greatest emergencies can be received, and even then the buildings will be crowded and the staff overloaded. It is not good to have beds in the hall, but that is what will happen again this winter.

With this full enrollment and a heavy application list, our Home has the problem of making ends meet financially. Last year the Synod asked $100,000.00 for Thanksgiving and the Home received $87,144.60. By exercising the severest economy and stinting in every department we broke even in the year's operation. This year we have about an eight percent increase in the overall operation due to the rise in prices over which we have no control. We have only to meet the needs of the students and have to face the reality of this rise. The Synod is asking for Thanksgiving the same as was asked last year. The Regents have expressed the belief that the people of the Synod of North Carolina will provide for the needs of the Home when they know the facts about these needs. It will take the united effort of every church of the six hundred and eight churches in the Synod to make this come true. Won't you help in yours?

Let us extend an invitation to each of you to visit Barium Springs. The boys and girls would be delighted to have you as their guests to visit them in their cottages, and to have a meal with them in the dining-room. They would take pleasure in showing you the campus, orchard, dairy, and farm. We would be glad to have you visit the office and make inquiries concerning finances, or the gifts of the people, or to ask any questions concerning the operation of the Home.

Most cordially yours,

Albert B. McClure
Superintendent.

Cottage News

Annie Louise

Here we are once more with the news. Many things have happened since you heard from us last month. For instance, Friday, October 12 was Homecoming Day and many of our friends came to see us. We enjoyed their stay and are looking forward to seeing them again next year if not before. We also had a football game that afternoon. We beat Children's Home 6-2. We do hope to have more games at home in the future since most of them have been away and we couldn't see them.

A few days ago we saw the movie, "Warpath." It was good, it was about Indians and Soldiers. We all enjoy movies but a few of us shed tears when someone is shot.

Yesterday, while our two big girls were skating over at the Woman's Building, they heard a girl ask Bobby Arrowood if it was his Homecoming. He was running around with red and blue streamers, probably used for decorating the football field Friday.

We have two new girls at our cottage now, they are Betty Edwards and Margaret Ferris. They are very nice and like to live here. We hope they continue to do so. When they came we moved two of our larger girls to Howard, Judy Taylor and Virginia Kiser - we miss them. We still have 26 little girls.

Synod's Cottage Matron, Mrs. Ramsay has just had the cast removed from her broken arm. A few days ago we heard a little girl say, "Oh! Miss Ramsay has the "Casket" off her arm." A few of us seem to be getting worse off each day.

It's getting cooler each day and we are going to start wearing our school shoes soon we like to put them on but we are always eager to get them off in the summer.

We get our report cards soon and hope that we all make good grades.

School News

It has been several weeks since school started, and we believe everyone has settled down and is ready to get to work at last!

With the first report card period up, those who aren't so sure of how they are coming out, will buck up and work harder--we hope.

Despite the handicap of three of last year's starting players, being unable to play this year, we still consider ourselves a top-team in our vicinity and are giving other teams a tough race for the championship.

On September 14, being all steamed up over the first game, we went to Thomasville and brought home our first victory. The score: 7 to 0. But on September 21 the team lost to Salisbury. Since this was not a conference game, the score didn't bother our rating. The next game was at Albemarle, September 28. The score was a tie 7 to 7. At Asheboro the following week we suffered our first defeat. Asheboro beat us 18 to 13.

On October 4, at the elementary school building, the Senior Class presented a play entitled, "Feudin' Mountain Boys." The program was opened with the song, "Feudin', A-Fightin' and A-Fussin'" by Louise Campbell. Some of the characters of the play were introduced by acting out parts of the song. Those taking part in the play were: Johnny Hudgins, Elmina Johnson, Franklin Lentz, Bonnie Odom, Dwight Reid, Louise Campbell, Henry Troutman, Sara Bradshaw, Mary Frances Price, John Bullard, Carl Spicer, and Glenn Compton. We think it was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Look for the results of our report cards and games. We will no doubt be glad to inform you of the team.

Howard Cottage

We have added quite a number of people to our cottage. We have six new girls, four of them just came to Barium. They are: Hazel Edwards, Bessie Edwards, Fay Hicks, and Nancy Farris. Two came over from Annie Louise. They are Virginia Kiser and Judy Taylor, we are glad to have them.

We went to the Fair September 26th and had a very good time.

Lillian Baucom and Merle Byrd have started taking Piano.

We still have beans to string and while we are stringing them we have a good time taking turns singing.

divisions and first place in several sections. Hearty congratulations are due to these boys for their hard work and for the fine supervision of the Spencer brothers this year and in the years gone by. The boys having entries were: Lawton Rice, Mac McClure, Ray Smith, LeNair Burns, Bobby Ray Bailey, John Ferrel, Bobby Frye, George Cannon, Jerry Thomas.

Other prizes were won by

The Half-way Mark

By R. E. JACKINS

The Barium football team finds itself at the half-way mark of the season, after playing the first four games away from home. On September 14th Barium played Thomasville on a well lighted field and on a beautiful night. Barium scored on a pass from Hillard to Bullard and Bullard kicked the extra point, winning the game 7-0.

Our next game was with Salisbury. The Salisbury team had too much experience for Barium and did all their scoring in the first half. The Barium team stiffened in the second half and played Salisbury on even terms. In the fourth quarter Barium held Salisbury four downs on the four-yard line, which proved to us that Barium's team was in good condition as we are very short on reserves. The final score was 14-0 in favor of Salisbury.

On September 28th Barium went to Albemarle and played the team there which had just tied Lexington. Barium scored first in the second quarter. Albemarle came back and scored in the third quarter and we came away with a 7-7 tie. One of the bright spots of Barium's score was that Barium was penalized 5 yards on the first try for extra point and Bullard stepped back and put the second try through the goal.

The team went to Asheboro on October 5th. Barium was slow getting started and Asheboro got the jump on them. Barium never catching up. The score was Asheboro 18, Barium 13. This brings us up to October 12th and the big Homecoming game with Children's Home. In the second quarter Hillard got away on a perfect play with several good hard blocks and ran 33 yards for a touchdown. In the last quarter Children's Home

Ernest Austin who was looking after the sheep entered and Misses Carpenter and Ford, members of the staff who entered some of their choice hemstitching and crocheting.

The boys at the barn are beginning to feel that these two newcomers are getting used to the herd and the boys, and they are looking forward to increasing the number registered in the Barium herd.

drove to the five yard line but fumbled and Joe Barkley recovered on the two-yard line. Barium drove out to the nine-yard line, then tried the punt on fourth down, Children's Home blocked the punt, and in one of the luckiest breaks for Barium during the season, the ball decided to go out of the end zone for a safety. The score Barium 6, Children's Home 2 sent the Homecoming crowd away happy.

at supper that something had happened to the usual hearty appetites. Since it was Wednesday, prayer meeting was coming up and the minister must have noticed that while the children seemed very pleased, they were also very tired and just a bit sleepy.

This fair is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Statesville and they have always been generous to Barium Springs. The boys and girls of the Home are grateful to those who each succeeding year remember them with such fine entertainment and pleasure as has been afforded through the "Barium Days" at the Iredell County Fair.

Homecoming Day Brings Them Back

October 12th was a grand time for reunion for the former students of Barium Springs, and a festive day for the students of the Home. The regular classroom work was soon cut short in the early part of the morning and the festivities began with a chapel Program. The children of the primary school, under the direction of Mrs. Lee Spencer, delighted the audience of assembled visitors and home-folks with their songs and folk games. The High School Glee Club gave a short concert, closing this part of the program with the singing of a new Alma Mater and a new "Fight Song" which had been written by Mrs. Spencer. The audience enthusiastically received these and the student body continues to use them with pleasure. Before the football team was dismissed for their early lunch the cheer leaders gave them a rousing send-off with a pep meeting.

Two of the members of the staff who have helped to make more history here than any other persons were presented and spoke to the assembled students and guests of the day. Mr. S. A. Grier, retired campus engineer, and Mr. J. H. Lowrance, the present buyer of the Home reminisced for the benefit and pleasure of all those assembled.

The luncheon was served in the dining hall and the room was packed. Grandmothers and infants and all ages in between had come to have a meal in the dining room either for the first time or the millionth time, remembering the many days that they had walked through the doors of that familiar old building.

The alumni met in session prior to the football game, attending to their business for the day, and elected the following slate of officers: President, W. A. Johnson from Fairmont, N. C.; Vice President, Cheek Freeman; Secretary & Treasurer, Lafayette Donaldson of Barium Springs. The group took up a Thanksgiving Offering and presented it to the treasurer from the Alumni Association to be used in the Home.

The feature in the afternoon was the football game between the Barium Springs Tornados and the Methodists of the Children's Home. It was a nip and tuck struggle all the way through, finally ending up with Barium on top with a score of

Dry Weather Hurts Gardens and Farm

The farm superintendent, J. F. Stinson, says that this has been one of the driest summers he has ever seen at Barium Springs. This is not peculiar to this section of Iredell County for it has been true generally throughout the State, but it has been particularly acute for the Home since so much of the table supplies come from the gardens and farm. Some of the vegetables planted during the summer did not have enough moisture to even get out of the ground and a great many of the plants were unable to produce well because of the exceedingly dry hot weather that took its toll before maturity of the crop. Not only the summertime gardens but the early fall plantings were also hampered. All of this will seriously affect the dining room throughout the rest of the winter.

The grain turned out with a good yield excepting the corn, and last year's abundant crop gives enough corn to assure plenty for the winter for feed and the fattening of hogs. The hay will be of a poorer

Corrections Helpful

During the last several weeks many cards and letters have come to The Barium Messenger giving helpful information concerning persons who now receive The Messenger in more than one copy or concerning persons who are deceased or who have moved away. This is always helpful to the printer because he wants to keep his mailing list as nearly correct as he possibly can.

One card came saying that a correction had been sent in where there had been two copies received and that now a third copy was coming, and he wondered if it were wise to attempt to make a correction. The printer, Mr. Ed. Kyles, now believes that he has this particular item straightened out and that henceforth this person will receive only the one copy instead of the three.

A postal card or letter to the office giving information and correct addresses will be a great help and we appreciate your taking time to send them in. If you know of anyone who is not receiving The Messenger

Men of Concord In Annual Meeting

The night of October 9th found the campus at Barium Springs covered with automobiles and the dining room packed to the rafters with men. The occasion was the annual Fall meeting of the Men of Concord Presbytery. The program committee had requested the Home to provide a barbecue supper, the same as the custom has been in the past. Having no advance registration, the dietician and dining room hostess prepared for fifty more than had ever been here at one of the meetings. At five minutes to seven the group relaxed, feeling that the tables had been served and that there were sufficient places for all. When the doors opened and the men started in they continued to march and soon the 508 places were taken and men were standing in the lobby and more cars arriving. Before the meal was over we had served men, not only in the dining room and in the kitchen, but in the lobby and on the steps and around the building. Nearly 600 had been in attendance. The boys and girls of the Home, the teachers in the school, and the members of the staff were flying around like bees in tar buckets trying to get the food to the hungry people.

The special feature of the program was an address by Clarence S. Johnson, director of the Program of Progress. His stirring appeal for participation in the "Tithing Adventure" inspired the listening men and will bring forth fruit throughout the churches

Barium Alumni Elect Officers

The Barium Springs Alumni Association held their annual meeting after dinner in the dining room on Homecoming Day, Oct. 12th with the retiring president, Arthur Roach, presiding. The new officers elected were: President, W. A. Johnson of Fairmont, N. C.; Vice President, George "Cheek" Freeman, of Charlotte, N. C.; and Secretary-Treasurer, Lafayette "Toe" Donaldson. They will hold office for the coming 2 years.

Those Alumni members wishing to contribute to the Orphanage Thanksgiving offering through the Association may do so by sending your contribution to C. L. Donaldson, Route 1, Statesville, N. C., or to the Home.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM

"These two words have always gone together in our household; I remember when my mother used to bake cakes for the Thanksgiving dinner at the Home," said the woman at her church meeting, "and send them along with the gifts from the Church."

The folks of the Home will give thanks to God that more than one hundred thousand Presbyterians in the six hundred and eight Churches will be praying for us and sending their gifts as they worship in their Churches and in their homes.

Fitful Flashes

From The Statesville Daily
By Mrs. M. R. Long

No, you don't have to go to the high hills and the far off place to see the splendor of this fall. It is here at home, on our streets and in our yards—and it is down at Barium Springs in an abundant beauty that we really think could not be excelled at any one spot anywhere. The campus there is a veritable burst of color. The golds and red of the trees are so brilliant that the light, falling through the leaves, casts a golden sort of glow all over those who pass beneath them, a glow that goes clear through the heart and the soul of any one who loves the out of doors and the wonder that nature is.

And the little children down there fit into that colorful setting like it was made just for them. We saw one little thing dancing about the base of a big tree, doing a dance all her own, stooping now and then to pick up one big bright leaf at a time to drop on a heap she had collected at one side. It was like a fairy book page—that little blue-jean clad figure flinging its thin little-girl arms about and picking up that one leaf at a time as she stooped and whirled.

And about the corner of a cottage came a flock of other little girls, dark hair, light hair, blue eyes, brown eyes, an eager, happy bunch of life and energy the light through the bright leaves falling all about them like an aura of hope and promise.

If you would see the beauty of the season—the season that marks the closing of another year, you should go and see the campus of Barium. And if you would see the beauty of life—life in the very spring-time of its year—you should go see these little children that are growing up in happiness and security on that Barium campus.

Howard Cottage

During this month we have had many exciting things to happen to us.

Mr. Sides (our preacher) has set aside a day every other week to come to see us. We all look forward to Thursdays. When he comes we play games, and he reads stories to us. We enjoy this very much.

This month we had nine girls to make the honor roll at our cottage. All of our girls made good grades. These are the ones that made the honor roll: Betty Ruth Anderson, Barbara Porter, Clara Dean Byrd, Donnie Lewis, Merle Byrd, Judy Taylor, Edna Evans, Kay Clark, Brenda Pursley.

A Circle from the second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came up and gave us a weiner roast. We had a very good time. And appreciated it very much.

Halloween has just passed and we had a very good time. We had parties at school.

We all enjoy playing in the leaves and riding the bicycle. Judy Taylor has learned how to ride. We hope the rest of the girls will learn to ride soon.

Baby Cottage

Hi Folks,

Here are the baby reporters again. There has been so much happening and so much to happen, that we hardly know what to say, or where to begin.

First, tomorrow we are going to have a Halloween party. We are going to wear long skirts and faces. If you hear something in your front yard you'll know who it is. Mama Richards is working so hard to get our faces and skirts ready.

We made some new yellow curtains for our playroom. If you ever have time, stop by and see them. We also made a bookshelf to go over the radiator, its real cute.

Marie Ross, one of the smaller girls wanted to help Mama Richards. Oh, what a help that would be!

During the last month we have had several new playmates come to live with us. They are Shirley Ferris, from Charlotte; Billy Marino, Charlotte; Robert Hall, Fayetteville; Walt Snead, Albemarle. We are all so glad to have them with us, and now we have a family of eighteen.

One of the girls from the Woman's Building, Miss Ethel, has been our house mother this week end. We like her a lot. She has been decorating our house with witches and owls. So many of us wanted to help Miss Ethel that we were more in the way than a help.

Daddy McClure comes by quite often when we are playing out doors. One day he took all of us for a ride and it was fun. The little boys will go some other time.

The campus has been so pretty with all the beautiful colored leaves. They have been falling and making big piles under the trees. We haven't been able to play in them much this year because so many of us have had ear aches and colds.

Well, we will have to say, Stop - Look and Wait until next month.

Rumple Hall

Hi Folks,

We are back again with our news for the month. We have received our report cards and we did very well. Several of us were on the honor roll. We have been studying real hard.

We have had some real good football games. We enjoy them very much. We were invited to Davidson to a football game, we like going there.

Something else very exciting, we had a wonderful Halloween party. The Jennie Gilmer boys gave Rumple a party - and what a party. We had lots to eat and enjoyed lots of games as well as bobbing for apples.

We had the Pioneers from Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian Church of Charlotte to meet with us this month. We had a picnic supper and enjoyed our program together. We enjoyed having them very much.

Annie Louise

Hello Everyone!

It hasn't been too long since you last heard from us but during that little bit of time a lot of big things have taken place

One of the biggest things now is Margaret Farris' arm. She fell from the sliding board and unscrewed a bone somewhere in her wrist. She has a cast on it now which makes it rather difficult for her to get her arm through the sleeve in her dress. She feels proud now, but boy, did she yell when she fell.

Speaking of yelling, some of us nearly lost our voices during the Halloween season. The traditional ghosts, goblins and witches paid us a visit, together with the other different and original costumes of the Lees boys. In connection with losing our voices, a cute statement was made by one little girl to another little girl who was red in the face from yelling so long and so loud. When finally "little Miss red-in-the-face" quit yelling and was silent, "Little Miss Calm" turned toward her and remarked casually, "If you've lost your voice you'll find it in my right ear"! A few of the other things that made our Halloween day so pleasant were the parties given to us by our teachers and also the delicious assorted candy given to us by Pamela Fair's mother, who is a frequent visitor and who is always welcome to our cottage. Thanks so much Mrs. Barnhardt.

Now that Jack Frost is dropping his calling card in our laps, we're busy getting ready for him. We, who didn't have windbreakers have gotten new ones. Some are red, green, royal blue and navy blue. We surely are going to enjoy wearing them this winter, because we feel sure they will keep us warm since they are lined on the inside.

Much to our delight, but to the dread of our housemother and our two big sisters we have put on shoes and socks. Some of us whose soles were worn thin got to go into Statesville and get new shoes Friday afternoon.

The cold weather we're having is not only affecting us but also our pretty flowers. Our house mother has brought all of them that she can into the house, but we'll have to start our Flower Garden in the playwoods all over next summer.

The gorgeous trees that were so beautifully dressed up in their fall dresses of red, yellow, orange and gold have now put on their dull brown and bare black suits. They were so pretty two or three weeks ago that we just wished that they would stay that way.

However, despite all of the cold weather, we still haven't forgotten the latest movie we saw entitled "War Path". We are still playing cowboys and Indians. So in closing, as Gene Autry would say - "So-long, until we're back in the saddle again!"

Be seen' ya',

—Annie Louise Girls.

Woman's Building

Sorry to have missed our small contribution to The Messenger last month. However we were in the midst of school work and just plain out forgot our duties.

Our first report cards have come out and with good results too. Some are prouder than others, but we are, for the most part, doing our dead level best.

There are a number of girls in our dormitory who are going out for basketball. The tallies will do fairly well, while the shorties will just have to keep jumping.

Several different groups of guests have been visitors on the campus and have surveyed our rooms. If you ever get the chance, come to see us. There's nothing complicated about getting in, you know.

The P. Y. F. sponsored a Halloween party recently. That took the larger girls to one gala affair, while the smaller girls were treated to a somewhat similar party by the housemothers. Orange make-up, eye brow pencil and masks made up our costumes.

Cottage News

Some of the costumes must have been good, for there were prizes given to some clever, original costumes.

We are looking forward to Thanksgiving and hoping that it won't be too cold for a special occasion. From the looks of things at the present, it seems as though it will be sub-zero weather.

For months now we have been thinking of Christmas. It may seem rather early, but the seniors are having to write a theme on this particular subject in connection with Bible. One thousand words seems an awful lot, especially when you've given out of words at five hundred.

You'll have to pardon us for making our news short, but home work has to be done. You understand, don't you?

Until the twelfth month - December of 1951 - we invite you to keep posted on the current events through W. B. B. S. (Woman's Building Broadcasting Station.)

So long folks,

The W. B. Girls,

—Bonnie Odom.

Sewing Room

Though Halloween was over a week ago, our instructors in the sewing room gave us a delicious treat. We are all crazy about tomatoes and were they good this time of year.

There is an old saying that elephants never forget. Some of us have memories just as keen, for the tomatoes were a promise made sometime in May. Does anyone care to know our trick? If so, we will readily send out information on: "Training Your Mind For Memory."

All of us, except one, will be going out for basketball this year. The "exception" will be making up for all the rest, so we shan't fret.

Dresses, skirts, and blouses have been going out the door as fast as they have been made. As school is taking most of our time these days, our instructors are doing all the work - well at least three-fourths of it. Since we aren't doing them as much as we once were, we can brag on the finished product. Thanksgiving Day is going to be a gay affair with all the beautiful plaids of red, green purple and blue.

Why is Elmina beating the postman to the office each day? "Tex" writes regularly, but not that regular.

What happened to "Georgia" boy, Sarah? It might prove to be an interesting subject for a theme!

Mary Frances is in the mad rush for the mail also, with Elmina running her a close race. The little private has at long last been shipped to the deep southland of fair Georgia. Mary's on the look out for those famous Southern belles.

The big Kansas flood has set its course toward North Carolina, and Hilda's Brackington will come floating in. Just one more week, Hilda.

Prospects of further education and not men, are in the offing for Caroline Wicker. Right now she's debating over which college to choose from for her "sophisticated" future. Keep up the high aspirations, "Wick."

Always last but definitely not the least, is the dope of the class, namely Bonnie Lu. This orphan is busy writing letters to Mississippi to a small fellow of 6 feet 2". Along Christmas he'll be coming in on a wing and a prayer.

Topic of conversation is what to give a soldier for Christmas! Mason and Tex and all the rest are getting to be problems. Anyone having info to contribute in regard to such presents, please get in contact with the senior girls immediately. Appreciation assured.

Come by to see us when you can. We are always glad to have visitors.

—Bonnie Odom.

Homecoming Day

6-2. The rest of the afternoon and evening was spent in recounting the day's activities and some of the folks reminiscing with smaller groups over the campus. Saturday morning took up anew with a double-header football game between the B team and the Midget team. The old grads who stayed over saw why the small number of boys in High School can produce such a good football team-it is because of the fine training that is given to the smaller boys on the part of the coaches of the Home, Calhoun, Jackins, and Guy.

The only disappointing feature of the whole occasion was the fact that Mr. J. B. Johnston was unable to be present. Mrs. Johnston and Miss Leila represented him and said that he hoped to soon have his trouble licked and be out of the hospital and in regular attendance at the football games.

Dry Weather Hurts

quality and less in quantity. In the summer of 1950 one or more of the cuttings from the alfalfa were sold. During the summer just past we skipped one of the four mowings and in the other three, got a light crop of hay, so we are going to be forced to stretch it out during the winter in order to carry through with dairy herds and the livestock on the farm.

However, there is reason for being grateful for that which was given.

For the first time in four years we had peaches and in abundance. Fresh peaches all during the season with over 3,000 No. 10 cans put up for the winter, together with peach preserves and pickles made for the storeroom. The apple orchard, yielding well though not abundantly as last year, will provide what looks like enough apples for the boys and girls to have fresh fruit through the winter. The select apples are chosen and stored in the apple house and kept chilled until time for use in the kitchen and in the cottages. Apple sauce and apple butter can be a regular portion of the diet because of that which has been canned by the orchard supervisor, Mr. Woodrow Clendenin.

Christmas Plans Are Underway

The tempo of life at Barium is all awirl and everybody is talking Christmas and thinking Christmas. The house-mothers and boys and girls are busy planning shopping tours in the nearby towns. Mr. John Ervin and his crew are in search for Christmas trees so that every cottage may have a tree to be decorated for the Christmas week. Miss Rebekah Carpenter is assisting Old Saint Nick in getting the Christmas things together and ready to be delivered on Christmas morning.

Special Christmas services have been planned on Wednesday night, the 19th, when the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and the Glee Club will give a pageant at 7:30 p. m. On Thursday evening, the 20th, the regular Give-To Christmas Tree program will be held in the dining room, beginning with supper at 6:00. All of the Barium family will come together for the family supper, and following the supper each person will bring his contribution to the tree, putting it in the big red stocking and then placing some decoration on the tree. When all have made their Christmas gift the tree will be lighted and the Christmas season will actually have begun. Friday at noon the school closes and the holiday season will be in full swing. In addition to the Santa Claus and Christmas Tree, on Christmas morning each cottage will have some type of devotional service commemorating the birth of Jesus Christ.

Child Assignment And Clothing People

One of the very finest customs that prevails in nearly every institution like Barium is that people request the privilege of "adopting" a child within the Home for the purpose of providing greetings on birthdays and part of the necessary clothing funds. Oftentimes a very happy relationship grows between the child and his clothing people and continues over many years. However, sometimes people are unhappy in that about the time they have someone assigned to them there comes a notice that there has been a change made, and they don't quite understand. The explanation is that many children do not remain in the Home for a long period of time. Some circumstances may

The little folks in the picture would say "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all of you from all of us."

The Quad Boys Extend Scholastic Challenge

There is a rumor on the campus to the effect that the boys living in the Quads have challenged the girls of the Woman's Building to a scholastic duel. These boys are of the opinion that man can excel in brain as well as brawn and they are determined to outdo the girls in the number that appear on the honor roll each month.

When the second report cards came out Mr. Jackins was going about the campus hardly able to see over his

Awards Are Made At Football Banquet

On Friday evening, November 30th, the big dining hall was the scene of the annual football banquet. The three football squads, the cheerleaders, special guests and friends assembled for the gala affair. Mr. William A. Hethcox, of the High school faculty and who for many seasons has been the team's bus driver extraordinaire, was in the driver's seat on this occasion, acting as toastmaster for the evening.

After the invocation by Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr., pastor of Little Joe's Church, everybody was given forty minutes for uninterrupted pleasure

Funeral Rites For Robert Z. Johnston Held At Barium

From The Statesville Daily
Mr. Robert Zenas Johnston, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston of Statesville, died Tuesday, November 27 at his home in Fort Worth, Texas.

Mr. Johnston was born in Lincolnton on April 29, 1910. He came to Barium Springs in his boyhood, when his father became superintendent of the home there, and he spent a happy youth and early manhood there as member of a family circle whose ties are very strong. He had his college education at Davidson, graduating with the class of 1932. During his college years he, like his brothers, was interested in athletics and he was a valuable asset to the college's athletic program.

Following his graduation, Mr. Johnston was associated with the Firestone Company of Charlotte and of Spartanburg, S. C. from 1933 to 1942 and then, for three years dur-

Former Housemother Dies In Valdese

Funeral services for Mrs. Juliette Ghigo were conducted in the Waldensian Presbyterian Church in Valdese, N. C. on Friday, December 7th, and her body was laid to rest in the Waldensian Cemetery.

Mrs. Ghigo was formerly a member of the Barium family and served as housemother at Annie Louise Cottage. For the last number of years she has made her home in Valdese, living with her daughter, Miss Anita Ghigo, who is teaching in the High School there.

Her husband having preceded her in death, she is now survived by her two children, Miss Anita Ghigo of the home and Dr. Francis Ghigo, head of the department of Romance Languages at Hampden-Sydney College, Virginia.

Thanksgiving Offering

The month of December is too close to Thanksgiving Day for the Home to be able to give any sort of picture of the Thanksgiving Offering; however, the subsequent issues will carry in the "Contributions Received from Churches" in the regular tabulations that which has come in from the Thanksgiving Offerings. Any interested persons may get the information of the total picture from the publications as they come off the press on future dates.

change in the community where he has lived and he is able to be rehabilitated. This necessarily then means that the person must have another child assigned to them.

At Barium at the moment we are in the process of exploring the assignments that have been made and making new assignments. New personell on the staff must necessarily become acquainted with that which exists and we are revising our plan and pattern considerably. Therefore, if persons have any questions which they wish to ask please drop a note to the office and we will give explanations for making assignments, or correspond in any manner that is necessary to fully satisfy the minds of those persons interested. Just drop a note to the superintendent and make any inquiry that you wish to concerning this phase of Barium's program.

chest because of the additional number of boys who had added their names to the honor roll. The men declare that now that the football season is over and that the girls will have to spend some time in practicing the same as the boys do, they are going to far outdistance them in the number that attain the distinction of being on the honor roll each month.

Of course, the girls in a regular woman-like fashion are not saying much, but plans are made and they aim to make the boys eat their own words, or at least out-do them in the literary efforts. They intend to maintain supremacy in the field of the intellectual. The spectators will be very much interested in next month's honor roll to see who is leading in this challenge.

School News

Our football season has come to a close and basketball is once again taking its annual spotlight. At Hickory, both boys and girls lost the first game played.

Chapel programs for November have been presented by the eleventh and eighth grades. The eleventh grade gave a very fitting dramatization entitled, "Neighbors". Devotionals showed proper relationship of our Neighbors in the east. Taken as a class project the prologue, written in poetry, was spoken by Hilda Donaldson. The cast consisted of: Pattie Inman, Dot Surlles, Gloria Williams, Jerry Williams, Alfred Williams, Helen Barnes, Shirley Porter, and Helen Baucom.

Presenting for their program the eighth grade chose to dramatize three scenes from "Bird's Christmas Carol", led by Fredrick Lentz, the devotional was given by a special choir. Bobby McEwen recited a poem. Presented in the play were: Shirley Johnson, John Ferrell, Nellie Sellers, Catherine Kuykendall, Ralph Joyner, Martha Evans, and Evelyn Cox.

For Thanksgiving the school was out from Thursday through the week-end. Holidays for Christmas begin December 21 and last until January 1st.

On November 30, the yearly football banquet was held. For entertainment the Glee Club gave a short, delightful program. Songs that were sung were: "No, John", "Jingle Bells", and "Dry Bones."

A party for December 21 is being planned by the home economics department. Three classes in high school have home ec., and two of these are inviting different people.

Infirmary

Hi Folks,

It has been a long time since you heard from us but we are ready now to give you the bits of gossip picked up around the Infirmary.

We aren't having many patients now and you can guess why. With Christmas just around the corner, everyone seems to be in perfect health. They couldn't bear the thought of spending the holidays in bed.

We said that we didn't have any patients but actually we do. Two of our own girls decided that we just had to have someone sick so they got sick themselves. Hurry and get well, Jane and Lois. You can't play hooky from school forever.

Our regular nurse, Miss Hoots, was away this week-end and Miss Taylor substituted for her. Just think of all the fun she had painting scratches.

If you had visited the Infirmary recently you might have thought that "Open the Door, Richard" was back on hit parade. For the reason, just ask Jay Lee Moose, our little patient from Synods. He really did enjoy that song.

The football banquet was Friday, December 1, and Jane and Pattie were invited because they were cheerleaders. They had a big meal and a good time to go with it. But don't worry, we who stayed home got ice cream for supper, too.

On top of such a full week we got our report cards. Oh happy day, when we got together and compared we decided we didn't do too bad as a whole but there is certainly room for improvement. We congratulate Linda for being on the honor roll and hope that next time more of us will join her.

One of the Woman's Building girls, Barbara Bradshaw, is in the hospital recuperating from an appendicitis operation. We expect to welcome her back in a few days and hope that she will soon be well again.

As no one will admit that they are sick we will have to cut our news a little short and bid you all good-bye until next month.

We wish you all the very happiest Christmas ever.

Pattie,
Lois,
Jane,
Linda.

Annie Louise

Hi Friends,

Boy! Time really flies! Just three weeks until Christmas. We're all looking forward to seeing Santa Claus so I guess we had better clean out our chimney. We're trying to be real good so we won't get a bag of switches.

Speaking of being good, we got our report cards Wednesday and when we came home none of us even saw or felt Mrs. Gentry's little ruler. We made good grades as well as behaving ourselves. Ten of us were on the honor roll and we have an idea we're going to get a surprise party or something.

We've been studying at home as well as in school, but of course something different from books, the Catechism. We're real proud that five of us have recited it and have gotten our Testaments. More of us are studying it and hope to finish it soon.

Something wonderful happened to us over Thanksgiving. Some good friends from Belmont sent us each a big dixie cup of candy. It lasted about two or three days, because everyone of us just love candy. That wasn't all, though. We got to skate in the new activities building. Of course the word "skate" doesn't exactly mean what it says. For some of us just stood up and fell right back down again. We're just learning, but we're getting tough doing so.

We've been raking leaves so we can make our yards look prettier. We like to play in the leaves just as much as we like to rake them.

Well, that's all for this month folks, so bye, bye until January.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JANUARY 1952

NO. 3

J. B. Johnston Taken By Death

Funeral service was held in Little Joe's Church at Barium Springs on Tuesday afternoon, December 19th, for Dr. Joseph B. Johnson who was for twenty-seven years superintendent of the Home here and who died at Davis Hospital in Statesville on the preceding Sunday morning after four months illness.

The service was conducted by Reverend N. R. McGeachy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Statesville, Dr. James A. Jones, pastor of the Myers Park Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, and Reverend Charles H. Sides, Jr., of Little Joe's Church.

The burial was in the family plot in the cemetery on the edge of the campus at Barium Springs.

Joseph Boudinot Johnston was born in Lincolnton March 2, 1881, the son of Rev. Robert Z. Johnston and Catherine Caldwell Johnston. He graduated from Davidson college in 1901 and shortly thereafter became superintendent of Connors Steel Mill in Helena, Ala. He later operated the Johnston Ice and Coal company in Lincolnton.

In 1922, he was named superintendent of the Presbyterian orphanage at Barium and arrived to find in it a sad state of repair, with much work needed, not only on the physical plant, but in the relationships with the children. During the 27 years he was its leader, it became one of the outstanding homes for children in the state.

In recognition of his success as an orphanage administrator, he was elected president of the Tri-State Conference of Orphanage Workers in 1946. He was also president of the North Carolina Conference on Child Welfare and twice was North Carolina representative to the White House Conference on Child Welfare.

In the field of church work, Dr. Johnston again proved himself a leader. He was a deacon and an elder in the Presbyterian church and in 1947, was elected Moderator of the Synod of North Carolina.

As an outstanding alumnus and loyal supporter of Davidson college, Dr. Johnston received a number of honors from that institution. In 1933, Davidson conferred upon him the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award for unselfish service. He was one of 51 alumni selected for special 1948 Home-

Christmas On Campus A Joyful Season

Although the New Year is at hand and school books and regular routine fill the day, yet there lingers the pleasant memory of the Christmas holidays. "It was the best Christmas I have ever had," said the lad from Jennie Gilmer. In these words he was simply expressing the same thing that was said by so many of the boys and girls of the Home. The kind thoughtfulness of people throughout the Synod had provided everything necessary for a happy season. Fresh fruit and lovely candies, nuts, cakes, chickens and turkeys in ample quantities for all to have enough were on hand. Packages piled high for weeks before Christmas to provide the gifts for the trees in the cottages, all of them so beautifully wrapped in Christmas color when opened afforded the recipients the things they had asked for and wanted and needed—dolls and cradles, cow-boy suits and pistols and guns and hats and toys and bows and arrows, shirts and ties and socks and skirts and blouses and suits and raincoats, boots and shoes and roller skates, costume jewelry and nylon hose, and on and on would go the list.

Some very thoughtful persons and groups, recognizing the need at Christmas time for a little extra money, sent in their checks with instructions for the use of them. Trees were decorated and extras were added and the money used in the spirit in which it was sent.

This was not the whole of Christmas, though it is the great portion in the life of a child, for there were on the campus Christmas services in the Church and in the Young People's Group and in the cottages and at the Give-To (Continued On Page Three) coming Citations of Merit for achievements in their chosen field. His alma mater awarded him an L. L. D. degree in 1950.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Anne Lee Davidson, and by the following children: William Lee Davidson Johnston of New Albany, Ind., Dr. J. B. Johnston, Jr., of Concord and Miss Leila Johnston of Staunton, Va. Six grandchildren also survive. He also leaves one brother, Rear Admiral Rufus Johnston, of Newport, R. I., and two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Lore of Lincolnton and Mrs. R. S. Abernethy of Winter Haven, Fla.

Thank-You Notes

In spite of the exceeding care with which every package is received, listed and dispatched to the proper cottage, some mishap will take place and somebody will be wondering what happened to the package they mailed. Therefore, if there is any question about a package sent at Christmastime, please drop a card to the superintendent or to Miss Rebekah Carpenter who was in charge of the Christmas gifts. Nearly every year somebody does not receive a note of thanks and for that we are exceedingly distressed. If you are that person please accept the apology offered in this column, and give us a line to let us have a chance to check on our particular gift.

Hi Everybody!

Before we tell you about the many things that happened to us Christmas we would like to say "Thank You" to all you nice people all over North Carolina and everywhere else that were so nice to us Christmas. You have made it one of our happiest yet. We will get much enjoyment out of them for a long time.

To really get a good look at happiness you should have seen our faces the day the helicopter came from Fort Bragg with candy, presents, and best of all, Santa. It was the first time most of us had ever seen a helicopter and it was a very exciting experience.

The week before Christmas many nice things happened to us including the "Give-To Christmas Tree" and a nice treat from our friend Mr. Stowe in Belmont. When we have our "Give-To Christmas Tree" every year we have a chance to give something to make someone else happy and usually have some pretty music by a group of our colored friends, that work with us, at our nice big supper. And Mr. Stowe came Christmas Eve with books, games, dolls, candy and several good Christmas moving pictures.

We all got so many lovely things Christmas. Candy, dolls, games, just everything nice. We wish that you could see us all playing and having such a good time. We are so excited and eager to get back to play that the other day some of us were calling apricots "peacocks" and figs "twigs." Maybe there's hope for us

Birthday Table Time Again

A long table attractively decorated and heavily loaded with good food will be waiting for those whose birthdays are scheduled in February.

Each month birthdays are listed and all those who were born in that month have the opportunity to attend the birthday table. If, for some reason, a child misses the regular time in his birth month he may "make it up" at the next table.

We received a package from our friend that went home to stay, and guess what we got? Red, yellow and white new bow ribbons. Boy, did we look pretty the next few meals! We rolled our hair in the afternoon and took it down at night and out red ribbons in it. We looked pretty enough to eat.

Resolution

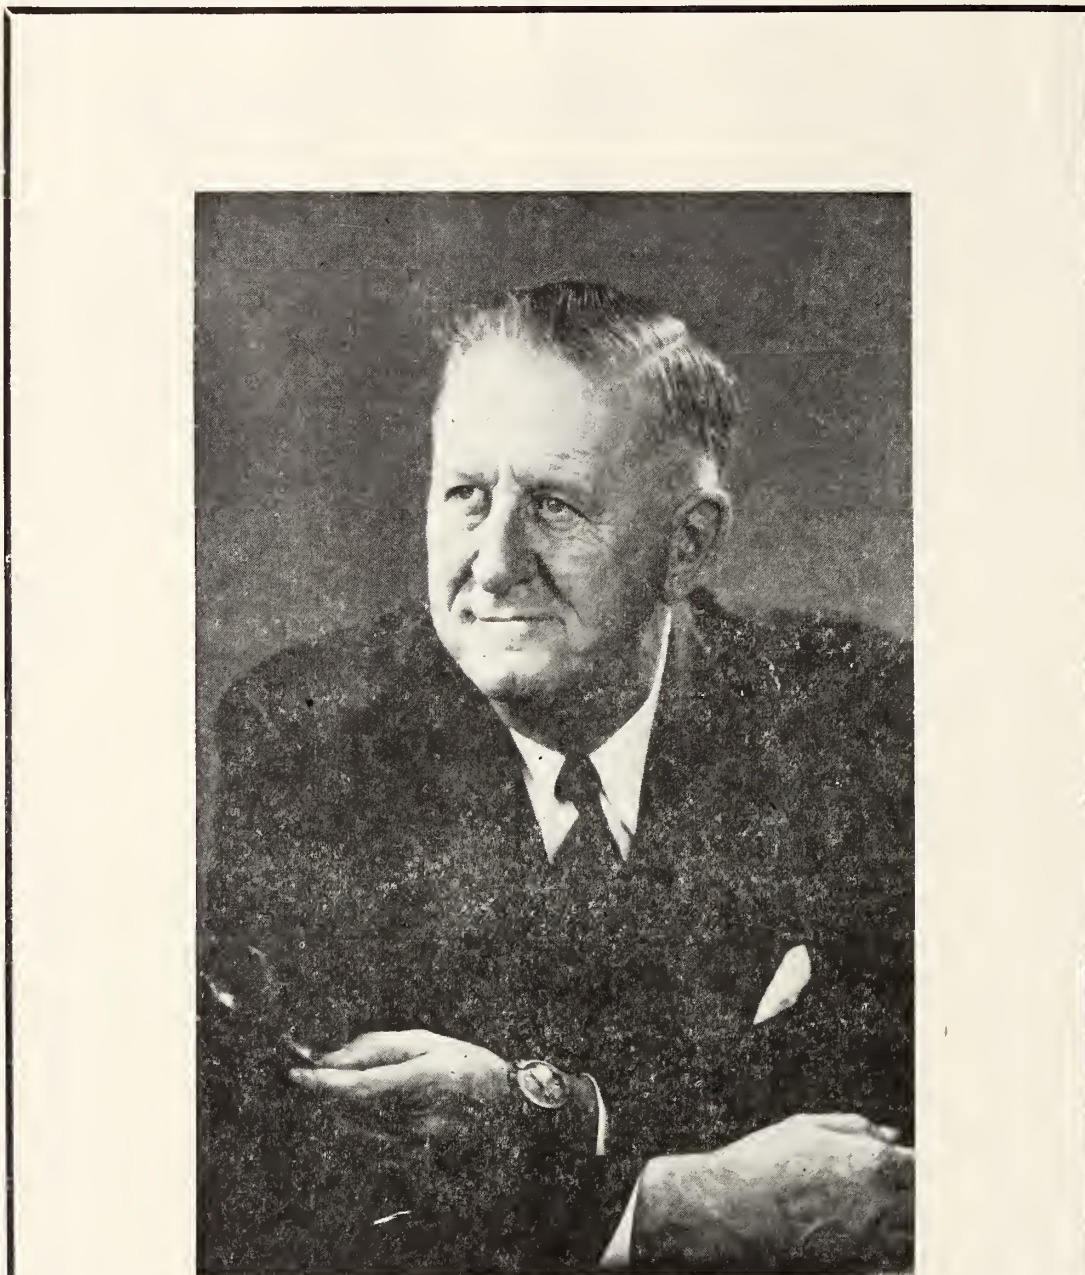

Joseph B. Johnston

From The Minutes of Synod

On July 1, 1922, a young man named Joe Johnston became the Superintendent of Barium Springs Orphanage. The 27 years that have elapsed since that day have witnessed as fine an achievement as can be shown by any institution under the care and direction of the Presbyterian Church. During this quarter of a century there has been carried on here a project in human relations that has transformed the lives of more than 1500 boys and girls. The physical plant of the Orphanage has been tremendously improved and many additions have been made. The Orphanage has become known, not only throughout the Synod of North Carolina, but all over the south as one of the finest institutions for the care of children in the nation. Little children have learned to love and laugh again, and they have found not only a place of refuge, but friends in whom they could put their trust. They have left this place and have gone up and down the length and breadth of the land, honest, upright, God-fearing, useful Christian men and women. The churches of the Synod have learned to look to this place, not only as a place of refuge, but as a Christian home for those whose homes had been taken from them. And the people of the Synod of North Carolina have placed their confidence in the man who was responsible for the conduct of the affairs of the Home, and they have given generously of their means for the support of the Orphanage.

These things have been possible because a young man named Joe Johnston wanted his life to count for something worthwhile in the world. With utter devotion to his task, with unbounded energy, with faith that challenged the people of this Synod, and with a heart big enough to love 300 children at a time, he has achieved his goal: he has done something worthwhile. He has made the world of 1500 boys and girls a better place to live in. He has enriched their lives immeasurably. He has been a good servant of Jesus Christ. If any man among us deserves the approbation of his Master, Joe Johnston deserves it: "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The Synod of North Carolina, in session at Barium Springs Orphanage, in recognition of the life and work of this servant of Jesus Christ, and upon the occasion of his retirement, tenders to him and to his helpmeet, Mrs. Johnston, whose labors have been equally untiring and interest just as deep, its heartfelt appreciation, and prays that a portion of the spirit that has gone into their life and work may be visited upon all those who shall attempt to carry on the work they have performed with such humility, devotion and success.

Joe Johnston— Friend of Youth

From The Charlotte News

There may be more important assignments in life than that given to Dr. Joseph B. Johnston, but we'd be hard put to think of any.

For 27 years Joe Johnston was superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans Home at Barium Springs, North Carolina. During that span there were both lean years and fat years, as the budget of the institution varied with the economic fortunes of the Presbyterians who kept the orphanage going with their contributions.

Joe Johnston liked young people. He knew how to get along with them. And where boys were concerned, he had a highly successful formula. To the building of their bodies, their minds and their souls, he added one extra ingredient, a generous helping of football know-how. Hence it was that many a Barium lad went on to Davidson College to become a grid star.

But Joe Johnston did more for Davidson than train young football players and develop candidates for the ministry. A loyal and active alumnus, he served for nine years as a trustee for the college. Davidson acknowledged his faithful service by giving him the Algeron Sydney Sullivan award in 1933, and the LL.D. degree in 1950.

And finally, Joe Johnston served his church well. A deacon and an elder in the Presbyterian Church, he was also elected moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947.

Since his retirement in 1949, Dr. Johnston has been director of the personnel and public relations department of Davis Hospital in Statesville. His death this week at the age of 70 ended a career of unselfish service to his fellow man.

Youth Lost A Friend In Dr. Johnston

From The Charlotte Observer

It would be hard to think of a more admirable calling than to be a friend of children, especially homeless children.

Yet that is the calling that Dr. Joseph B. Johnston took for himself when he gave up a successful business years ago to become superintendent of the Barium Springs Orphanage. For the next 27 years he guided that institution and saw many homeless ones grow up under Christian influences and go out into the world to make their mark as upright citizens.

The Orphanage is particularly proud of its graduates and of the fine records they have made in college, in business, and in the professions. No small part of that extraordinary achievement was the result of the sympathetic guidance and the understanding counsel of Dr. Johnston.

He was the kind of man who had the fire to awaken within youth its best efforts, to open to it a vista of learning and usefulness in the world, and to inspire it to follow that road.

Such qualities made him active in youth work outside the orphanage, especially in the Presbyterian church, which he served faithfully throughout his life. And, being a friend of and counselor of youth, he was naturally interested in athletics. For his help in that field he will long be remembered at Davidson College, which he served as trustee for nine years.

In the Presbyterian church he was moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947 and served the church in many other capacities.

The hundreds of today's citizens who can trace their own usefulness to the helping hand of Dr. Johnston in times of need will bear witness to a life devoted to the service of others.

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston

From The Statesville Daily Record

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston was a man who stood out in any crowd—not only physically, but as a leader. And his accomplishments during the three score years and ten allotted him on this earth will not soon be forgotten.

Dr. Johnston - a somewhat formal title for a man who was better known and more accurately described as "Mr. Joe"—for 27 years filled a unique spot as superintendent of the orphanage at Barium Springs. That job brought him to Iredell county and from the first days, it was apparent that he was destined to be a leader, not only in his church and in his work, but in this community.

It is difficult to imagine that death has stilled that tall, gaunt frame once so active. (Continued On Page Three)

Dr. Johnston loved children, he loved sports and he was quite an athlete in his day. He maintained his interest in athletics and especially his beloved South Piedmont conference to the very last, and kept the standings of the teams during the past season's football race for the Daily Record. Two family tragedies within the past year undoubtedly hastened Mr. Joe's death. But it was characteristic of the man that, last year, after one bereavement, he could be seen uptown the next morning, grim but calm and composed. He knew how to accept trouble, of which he and his family have had more than their share.

But Mr. Johnston will be best remembered as the "father" of thousands of children who passed through Barium during his 27 years as its superintendent. "I can call each child by name," he once said. "Sometimes, when I'm driving along, I name them—by cottages—just to keep in practice."

After he retired at Barium, he moved to Statesville, where he became associated with Davis hospital. But — when he went back to visit at Barium, it was a touching sight to see the little children swarm over him with affection. That would be proof enough of his success in life.

While we are paying our final tribute to this friend, we would like to suggest that no more fitting memorial to his memory could be established than to name the new Barium gymnasium-activities building for him. He loved sports and he did as much as any man in the state to develop the athletic program in the schools.

The Presbyterian church has a great opportunity now—in this new building which Mr. Joe longed for, for so many years—to honor his memory.

Meantime, we doubt that J. B. Johnston, who thought Barium Springs was only a little southeast of heaven, will be lonely. Surely a man who in his lifetime suffered so many little children to come to him will feel at home where he has gone. For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

We had a good time during the holidays playing in our gym. We will enjoy the basketball games.

Mr. C. K. Williams and Sons from Mt. Holly brought us a bicycle and we have a lot of fun riding it. Thank you.

Rumple Hall

Here we are again with the news of Rumple Hall.

We are all back in school again and are studying very hard.

We all had a wonderful time during the Christmas holidays. Santa brought us many beautiful things for Christmas, and we are sure, if Santa were here, we would all want to thank him in person, for the nice things we all received.

During our Christmas holidays the helicopter came and Santa got out and gave each one of us a gift. You should have seen some of the presents we received. We each got four gifts. A lot of people took pictures of the helicopter and Santa.

We also had the privilege of skating in the gym. Of course when we got through skating, we were all pretty sore from falling down, but we enjoyed it very much.

We have also had a few games in our gym, too. We played Hickory and the boys lost, but the girls won. Then we played Mills Home. We won both games, but Mills Home sure did play a good game, too. They are also good sports.

We got some free passes to the Playhouse Theatre. We sure were glad to get them. We all want to thank Mr. Sams. We surely do enjoy them. We've been to two movies since the Christmas holidays. One was "The Tanks Are Coming," and the other one was "Force of Arms."

We will try to let you hear from us next month.

Your friend,
—Barbara Ann Johnson.

Christmas On Campus

Christmas Tree in the dining room.

The chance for some to sleep late in the morning with only the necessary work scheduled and a lot of time for play. The Activities Building was open during the mornings for group activities - basketball and volley ball. In the afternoon and evening it was open for skating, with everybody getting a turn. Two former students of the school, Miss Mary Dickson Arrowood, daughter of the treasurer of the Home, and Paul Barnes, a graduate of last year, assisted in carrying on the recreation.

To all of those who had a part in making Christmas good at Barium Springs we send our sincerest thanks and, as you visualize that which took place on the campus, you surely take pleasure in the part that you had in it.

SCHOOL NEWS

BONNIE ODOM

After a month with most of our basketball games away from home, we are glad to be getting back home for most of our games during this month. Our girls team lost their first conference game to Statesville this season. The scores for our Statesville games were: Barium Girls 59- Statesville Girls 69; Barium Boys 49- Statesville Boys 35. Our boys lost to Spencer's Railroaders by a 49-45 margin. We are hoping to finish the remainder of the season with a clean slate.

Although the Glee Club has not had an opportunity to demonstrate their ability publicly, they are still working hard as ever. Soon they are to sing for our congregation at a prayer meeting service. We are very proud of the fine work they are doing.

Twenty-Eight Teams Play In Tournament

The twenty-first annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament came to a close on Monday night, Feb. 18th, with the girls team from Hiddenite high school winning first place over Blackburn of Catawba County. The crown for the first place in the boys division went to Oxford winning over Sherrills Ford. This tourney which has been in existence for more than two decades brought together twenty-eight teams from the Mid-Piedmont area. During the five days of play nearly 400 fine athletes gave exhibition of skill and sportsmanship in the new Activities Building on the Barium campus. The play was fast and the contests were good and the winners were real champions.

The girls division found teams entered from the high schools as follows: Blackburn, Central, Troutman, Catawba, Scotts, Rock Springs, West Yadkin, Hiddenite, Harmony, Sherrills Ford, Stony Point, Brawley, Celeste Henkel and Oxford. The boys division had entries from the high schools of Celeste Henkel, Blackburn, Hiddenite, Catawba, Central, Rock Springs, Oxford, Sherrills Ford, Cool Spring, Scotts, West Yadkin, Harmony, Brawley, and Troutman.

In addition to the regular officials, Daniels, Graham, Hager and Jackins, Bill Guy of the Barium school joined the whistle-tooting forces.

Final counting of the awards showed that in the girls division Hiddenite won the first place and carried off the largest trophy. Second place went to Blackburn.

The award for the best-dressed team went to Celeste Henkel girls and the foul-shooting contest was won by Muriel Mundy from Rock Springs who dropped 20 points through the basket out of 25 shots. In the boys division in first place was Oxford, in second place was Sherrills Ford. The foul-shooting contest was won by Carl Matthews from Oxford school who had 21 out of 25 shots.

The tournament under the direction of R. G. Calhoun, principal of the Barium Springs High School, is one of the highlights of the athletic program of the year.

eventful occasion, but the juniors and future seniors as well.

Quite a few girls made the honor roll on the first floor. We are hoping that all, or at least the majority, of the girls in our dormitory make straight "S's."

Several of the girls from the 1951 graduating class have visited us lately. We are always glad to have them come back as often as possible. However, two of last year's class have joined the service and have not been able to come back yet. Soon one of them is to have a leave and plans to visit Barium then.

The Mid-Piedmont Tournament started here the middle of this month, which means a great many of the girls and boys will be taking part in some phase of this particular activity. We only wish that we could show off our teams on the hardwood.

If the March winds don't blow us and our possessions away, we'll be seeing you in the month when Spring gets underway. Nevertheless, the way the February winds have been behaving, we're fortunate to be here at the present.

Until the "Windy Month," we are, the ever faithful Woman's Building Girls.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi!

With all this warm weather here in February we are just about to get "Spring Fever," but regardless of being a little bit lazy we are still full of energy and eager to start planting our flower garden. Already there is some "Sweet Breath of Spring" growing at our back door. Pretty soon there will be flowers all over the campus and that's when we want all of you to come and see how pretty it looks.

Now that the Mid-Piedmont Tournament has started, we are out of school for the afternoon. We feel like we deserve a vacation after working so hard in school.

With Cupid and his arrows floating around we have been making and sending valentines. This makes us think of our good friends in Morganton who were so nice to send us each a valentine. Thank you very much.

Lately we have seen two good movies, "An American in Paris," and "Golden Girl." It is hard to tell just which one we liked best since they were both good musicals.

We have been having lots of fun going down to the football field, running races, and going on walks to the woods. We all feel real lusty and healthy after taking walks.

One thing that makes us feel and look so healthy is our friend, Uncle Bob's, corn bread. We always look forward to lunch for just that reason. It sure is good and we really like it.

That's just about all the news for now. So long!

Your Friends,

The Annie Louise Girls

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hi Folks—

Since you have not heard from us in so long we want to say first of all how much we enjoyed the nice gifts everyone sent us for Christmas and the oranges our friends have been sending us from time to time.

We have some show tickets that our friends in Statesville gave us and have been to the movies twice, once to see "Coming Roun' the Mountain," and another time to see "Mark of the Renegade." We enjoyed both of them.

The last time we got our report cards we had five boys on the honor roll. We get them again in about three more weeks and we hope to have more on the honor roll this time.

Some of us had birthday parties in January and we hope the boys who have birthdays in February have as nice parties as we had. Until you hear from us again, we remain,

HOWARD COTTAGE NEWS

Hi Folks—

It has been a long time since you have heard from us, but with Christmas and getting back to school after the holidays, we hardly know which way we are going!

The following girls have recited the Child's Catechism: Brenda Pursley, Edna Evans, Betty Wright, Merle Byrd, and Nancy Ferrell who has just moved to Rumble Hall. We hope these girls will continue their work and go on with the Shorter Catechism. Carol Harwell, a girl who used to live with us, went home and now she has come to live with us again.

We received some gift show tickets for Christmas and have used two of them to see "I'll See You In My Dreams" and "Golden Girl." We appreciate and enjoy going to the movies.

We have been seeing a few basketball games. Both of our teams have lost one game. Since our big girl, Margaret Hopkins, plays on the team we are especially interested in the games. Now we are busy sending valentines but since we do not have enough to send to all of you, we want to wish you all a "Happy Valentine's Day!"

BABY COTTAGE NEWS

Hi Folks—

Here are the Baby Reporters again. A lot of things have happened since the last time you heard from us.

Santa Claus was really good to us. Wish you could have seen our beautiful curly-haired dolls and our pretty bright colored trucks and so many more things. We got many nice things that we needed such as oranges and juices from our "Circle" friends.

Mama Richards left January 11th for a two-months leave of absence. She went to Tampa, Florida. She sent us a large basket of oranges and grapefruit. Oh, they were so good.

Rita and Shirley went to Prayer meeting last night. Rita came home and told her housemother that they sang a Western song—"The Day Is Dying in the West."

At dinner Sara Lou asked for "straw" (meaning slaw). Linda was asked to go downstairs and ask Helen Barnes for Miss Richards' address. She was asked, "What are you going to ask Helen?" "Miss Richards' plaid dress," was her reply.

Oh, yes, Billy Marino had a birthday party. He said he was a "big boy." We don't see why because he is only four years old.

QUAD NEWS

Hello Everyone—

One of the most wonderful things that has happened recently was the party given by the Junior and Senior boys. Everything went off fine due to the exceptionally good efforts of the boys.

Sports are always a big part of Barium Springs, whether or not we have a winning team. It so happens that this year both teams have done very well. Thus far we have lost only one Conference game each. Buddy Maples was elected Captain of the boys' team and Louise Campbell received this honor on the girls' team.

Graduation is not very far off and our ten senior boys are pretty busy preparing themselves for the life ahead.

It may be that your town is entering our Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament which we have here each year. This is an event that we all look forward to, and this year because of our new Gym we are hoping that it will be a bigger success than ever. The basketball season will soon be over and then we will look forward to skating at the Gym.

Guess this is all the news this month, readers; from now on we will try to let you hear from us more often.

The Quad Boys

JENNIE GILMER NEWS

Hello Everyone!

We hope you are as well and happy as we are in this early part of 1952. We are especially enjoying our basketball games in our new gym and so far our girls and boys teams have lost only one game each. We are proud of our Junior team also, which has lost only one game.

We want to thank Mr. Fuller Sams of Statesville for the free show tickets we received at Christmas time and we have enjoyed the movies that we picked to see. We are certainly enjoying the books and papers the members of Circle 4 in Mooresville have subscribed to for our enjoyment during the coming year.

We are getting plenty of milk at the dairy now and a lot of new calves have been born. You should see them kick up their heels in this mild sunny weather we are having.

So long until next month.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., APRIL 1952

No. 6

Regents Will Meet In Regular Session

The regular meeting of the Board of Regents will be held at Barium Springs on the second Thursday in May - May 8th. Mr. W. E. Price, president, of Charlotte, N. C. will be presiding over the meeting made up of regents who are elected from the Presbyteries, two from each, with two additional persons elected at large, thus making a Board of twenty members. Annual reports will be heard and a budget for the new year will be adopted. Many important matters will be presented to the Board for their consideration, one of which is the laying of a new steam line on the campus.

Warm weather reached the campus just in time to save the situation. Steam lines lying under ground from twenty-three to thirty-six years have been giving trouble for some time and are beyond use for another winter. By limping through the winter just passed and reducing pressure on the lines, we were able to reach warm weather, but before Jack Frost comes to the campus again a new steam line will have to be laid to all the buildings. This is a tremendous summer time program, involving a large outlay of capital funds. The Board will give consideration to the problem of how to obtain the money in time to get the work done.

Young People's Group Attends Spring Rally

The Senior High Fellowship of Little Joe's Church made a grand showing as they stood up forty-four strong to be counted at the Spring Rally in Salisbury. With the total attendance of the group being 430, Little Joe's was more than ten percent of all the churches present.

Featured in the Rally was the presentation of the new theme for the year together with the theme picture and the theme hymn by Charles Williams, president of the Synod's Council. Reverend John S. McMullen, Director of Youth Work in the Assembly, explained the new commission changes to the group and also delivered the inspirational sermon at the close of the Rally.

In the business session new officers were elected and two Commission Chairmen chosen. All the officers were installed at the Evening Service by the Adult Advisor, Reverend Walter H. Styles, of Valdese. One of the Commission Chairmen

Wheels Go Around In Activities Building

The skating rink in the new activities building is the most popular place on the campus at the moment. With the basketball season concluded, the bleachers have been rolled back and the floor made ready for the wheels to roll. The floor space will accommodate about sixty persons at a time and there are almost enough skates to meet the needs from the Baby Cottage through the High School. With a good record player and an amplifying system, music is available and the children anticipate loads of fun from now on in the new sport at Barium Springs. Heretofore the only place for skating was the sidewalk and through the years the wheels had taken the toll at the seams and in the cracked places, and with the small area available the skating had been most unsatisfactory. But now at the new rink even the housemothers and Buck Jackins are learning the art of standing up. It is reported that Jackins fell only twice last Saturday.

FBI Demonstrate Firearm Safety

The Charlotte office of the FBI through its director, William Murphy, arranged for a visit to the campus at Barium Springs for the purpose of demonstrating the safety of firearms. A high rank was selected and targets were prepared and the school children gathered with eagerness to learn something of the power of guns and the proper use of them.

While this demonstration was originally scheduled for boys only, the magic of the term "FBI" so captivated the girls that they, too, wanted to see, and so both groups were present for the demonstration.

In connection with this visit two members of the senior class made arrangements for interviews with the special agent, looking toward employment in the offices in Washington. The whole group agrees that it is far better to be working with the FBI than against them, and this educational feature was proposed to wholsomely instruct the students concerning the work of the FBI and also to promote a safety program in the use of firearms.

is Dwight Reid from Little Joe's Church.

Annual Banquet Fetes Basketball Players

The large dining room on the campus, beautifully decorated, was the scene of the basketball banquet on Friday March 28th, with Mr. R. E. Jackins presiding as toastmaster. The invocation was offered by Reverend R. S. Arrowood and those present enjoyed a delicious dinner of steak topped off with ice cream and cake.

The two hundred guests assembled were delighted with the master of ceremonies as he guided the affairs of the evening. A review of the year's accomplishments in basketball shows that the varsity boys ended up in third place in the regular season and in second place in the South Piedmont Conference Tournament play-off. The varsity girls took second place in the regular season and went to the semi-finals in the tournament play-off.

Funeral Service For Miss Celeste Boyd

Funeral services were held in Little Joe's Church at Barium Springs on April 9th for Miss Celeste Boyd. Reverend J. O. Mann, Synod's Director of Religious Education, conducted the service and was assisted by the Reverend Charles H. Sides, Pastor of Little Joe's Church. Interment was at the cemetery on the edge of the campus in the family plot, and the nephews of the deceased acted as pallbearers, bearing the body to the resting place beside her father.

Miss Boyd had long been identified with Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Her father, the late Rev. R. W. Boyd, was the first superintendent of the Home, coming to the campus in 1891. She was associated with the children in the cottages and in the school, and it is said that she was with little Joe Gilleland at the time of his death.

Six Delegates Attend Conference

The annual North Carolina Student Conference of the Orphanages of North Carolina was held at the Kennedy Home at Kinston.

Each Home was allowed to send six representatives to share in the two-day session. Two girls, Louise Campbell and Hilda Barnes, and four boys, Albert Williams, Palmer Willcox, Ennis Blackburn, and David Morrison, were chosen to represent Barium Springs. Rising at four o'clock in the morning, the group ate an early breakfast and made a hurried trip to the Mills Home where they joined the others from this area and boarded the Mills Home bus bound for

Commencement To Be In May

Already in the final six weeks and moving rapidly toward the close of school, the seniors anticipate the glory of the High School Commencement exercises, which will come the third week in May.

The Glee Club will present its program on Friday, May 16th. Sunday, May 18th, is the day for the baccalaureate sermon, and the special Young People's Service in the evening. On Monday, May 19th, the graduation exercises will be held in the evening, closing the stay at Barium Springs for those who make up the twenty in the senior class.

Applications Exceed Available Space

The case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, is still busy making investigations and preparing reports, even though we have been unable to admit any children since January. All the available space is taken and in some instances beds have been placed in the halls for emergency situations. In the last case one child had to be kept in the Infirmary for several weeks before a place could be made in the regular cottage for her.

The old saying "There is always room for one more" does not hold true on the campus at the present. When there is no more room to set up a bed and when the housemother has more children than she can care for, the only answer left is to wait until after graduation and the seniors have moved out.

There are already on the superintendent's desk enough applications to fill the available space two or three times and additional applications come in almost every day.

Why I Study The Bible

It is difficult to analyze just why I do study the Bible, but these are perhaps the most outstanding reasons.

In the first place, I have associated with Bible readers all my life and I would miss it should I have to give it up. Then, too, in order to be our best we must have a "perfect model" to follow. Only in the Bible do we find the model of a perfect life.

When we study the needs of the world, in the light of principles given in the gospels, we are impressed that only here can they be solved.

Jesus said, "Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life." (John 5:39). The Bible is the story of the redemption of the human race, and it is here that we find the abundant life.

"All Scripture inspired by God is profitable for reproof, for instruction, for correction, which is righteousness."

"And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

—By Marguerite Gaskill

Why I Study The Bible

In the Westminster Shorter Catechism we are told that "The Word of God which is contained in the Scriptures in the Old and New Testaments is the only rule to direct us how we may glorify and enjoy Him." Again, "The scriptures principally teach what man is to believe concerning God, and what duty God requires of man." "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life." (John 5:39). These, of course are for those who are already Christians, rather than for unbelievers.

But there are reasons. The chief reason, most likely, for most of us who have been raised in Christian surroundings, is habit. Since childhood we have been taught the Bible; therefore, we study it involuntarily.

The third important reason may be called the "knowledge reason." Webster defines the Bible as "the Book of Books by preeminence." It contains sixty-six "books" written by thirty-six men, who were entirely different in character, in reactions, and in the walks of life. These men lived far apart and wrote on different subjects, yet the same theme and inspiration is in all. Christians and non-Christians read the Bible for the law, poetry, history, folklore, romance and tragedy found in it.

Even unbelievers will admit that Christ's principles applied to the problems of the world, such as the economic depression and the need of disarmament, would solve them quickly. In life we may say "Thy Word is lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." (Psalms 119:105.) We feel that David was right when he said, "Thy word have I laid up in my heart that I might not sin against thee." (Psalms 119:105).

A Day With
The Kindergarten

One long ring of the door bell announces the arrival of the five and six-year-olds for kindergarten. "Buddy", they say, in great excitement has worms for the duck". Sure enough he has - a fist full of squirming worms which he has collected for his pet, Snookums. We must first go to the backyard and deliver the prize and all watch with glee as the greedy old gander (last year's Easter duck) gobbles the worms.

Now we go into the living room and Rita presents us with a bag of candy from Miss "Pipe" (Pike). Each one brings his little blue chair and we are ready for our songs and stories of the opening worship period. But wait - one boy is standing - no chair. Everyone insists that he brought a chair. With the solution not in sight Larry suggests that we ask Jesus to tell us who has not brought a chair. After a prayer and withholding the candy and story, one child with painful volition goes after a chair.

We sing "Stand Up for Jesus", accompanied by the record player. Walter asks if he may sing "Jesus Loves Me", which he does very sweetly. Rita asks that we sing "When we First Get to Church" meaning the "Doxology". We have memory verses from the Bible and learn a new one. There are many requests for Bible stories: "David and the Giant", "Noah and the Ark", "The little Boy's Lunch", and many others. A few are selected after the first one which is more about the Easter events concerning Christ. This story is very real to them and they listen intently. They find Judas and Peter worthy of much comment and the happy climax for the story is the appearance of Jesus to his mother on that first Easter morn. This leaves them satisfied after the tension of some other parts of the story.

Now Bill is being requested to tell a story, which always furnishes us with fine entertainment. He tells us today, about "The Three Little Pigs." Robert volunteers to tell us a story. We listen: "Once there was a cowboy and he had a cow. The cow chased him and knocked him down and broke his horns off and I am glad. The cowboy got up and he was all muddy."

Larry is able to recite "The Night Before Christmas" for us which he does. "... not a preacher was stirring not even a mouse", he says. Christmas never loses its charm even at Easter time.

Robert then asks if he may sing "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" "... then one froggy Christmas eve..." he sings the whole song.

Leaving Christmas, we get back to lessons and begin our writing, drawing, coloring cutting. With big pencils and wide-lined paper some write their names very well, while others are still using the sign and seal. Percy will be a scholar - he likes writing and never gets enough of hearing "tories".

We like our pre-primers because most of the "reading" is done by interpretation of the pictures. The vocabulary produced is much more voluminous than the dozen words listed in the book.

Margaret, the youngest one, announces that she is tired of all the talking and wants to play the records. She selects a folk dance which is her favorite and stands or rather dances and sways in perfect rhythm with the music. Her blue eyes are dancing and her face is one big smile as she enters into the world of self expression.

Shirley is very much interested in birds, and calls our attention to a blue jay which is on the window sill examining the bread crumbs. The jay hears their voices, stretches his neck and looks through the window. Everyone becomes still and quiet and is spell-bound with the nearness of the blue jay. Then he takes a piece of bread and flies away.

Now it is time for out-of-doors play. There we play games such as "Hide and Seek," Basketball ("which is throwing balls into a bushel basket") "Farmer in the Dell" or individual play for those who prefer it. There is a tree to climb, a pail of modeling clay and a basket of toys. Soap bubbles are blown with large spools and make endless fun.

Here it is time to go home and no one wants to stop. Buddy is riding in the wagon with the duck in his lap - Larry pulling and Walter pushing, each earning his ride. Shirley is riding the scooter, Margaret is making a cake and playing in the "house" under the tree. (The house is furnished with furniture which we made with hammer and nails.) Rita is in the tree while Bill, Percy and Robert are busy "putting out a fire." They have a piece of rubber hose and a ladder and are very much excited.

Finally we gather at the gate and sing "Our Kindergarten is over and we are going Home, etc." They scurry away with their never-ending enthusiasm for the next event which is dinner. Always several turn and wave another "goodbye" and Margaret says, "See you tomorrow, Miss Arrowood."

School News

By Bonnie Odom

Having finished with basketball completely for this season, our high school boys have begun their softball games. This year's managers are Charles Stevens, Joe Barkley, Buddy Maples, and Johnny Hudgins. Just recently they played the first game, and all four teams seem to be in good shape. Soon the girls are to organize teams.

On April 3, the Glee Club paid its annual visit to Davidson College to give a program of entertaining music. In less than a month, they are scheduled to make a trip to Covington, Virginia to give a program of religious music.

The eighth graders have just completed the Easter Seal campaign, and have turned in $12.13 for the help of crippled children. Thus far this year, the contributions to other similar funds have been exceptionally successful.

On March 21 - 22 the Beta Club chapter went to Raleigh to attend the State Convention. For this year we had five delegates who represented us and who cast votes for our Club.

Friday, April 4, the Sixth Grade presented a delightful performance in which they made all the necessary scenes and costumes. It was entertaining in that they gave a puppet show with original characters.

The honor roll for the six weeks ending April 7 is as follows:

First Grade—Jerry Cavin, Dan Jackins, David Lee Spencer, Linda Lee Byrd, Diane Mobley, Betty Pursley, Mae Ramey, Susie Blackburn.

SEWING ROOM

Since we have been busy with Easter dresses, sheets, curtains, and the such, we have hardly had time to even think of anything else. Our instructors have been rushed also while we attended school.

Many compliments have been coming our way, and we are delighted that people are satisfied with our work for them. We shall try to keep them in good standing with us and work for their cottages.

Hilda, who is apparently the second Doris Day, is making final plans to enter a beauty school. She, as well as the rest of us, are very much concerned with our future.

We have a Miss F. B. I. in our class. Yes, Sara, is going to share with Uncle Sam her abilities as a typist.

The Women's Air Force is soon to add one more WAF into its branch. Confidentially we will watch Ethel Brotherton's patriotic career.

Soon after graduation Louise Campbell won't be sewing, or basting, or hemstitching, but studying to be an X-Ray technician. Good luck, Lou; we know you can do it well.

Here's another energetic bundle of atoms who is contributing generously her time and talents as an FBI typist. Elmina Johnson is sure to give her best to her work.

Going with Hilda Barnes to beauty school will be good natured Mary Frances Price. We guarantee Frances' customers a pleasant work-out.

Caroline Wicker isn't quite sure what college she will get into, but where ever she goes, Caroline will be a success.

With you nice people we leave our fondest regards and best wishes.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everyone,

Since we didn't write any news last time, we certainly have a lot to tell you this month.

First of all we got a brand new record-player and radio combined, we want to thank everyone who sent us money to get it. We already have an album of Dorothy Shay's records and we are hoping to get some more soon.

We had the Basketball Banquet March 28th and we all had a good time serving the food and ice cream to the people there.

Caroline Wicker got most valuable player of the girls and Mack Wicker got it of the boys. Congratulations Caroline and Mack!

Since Basketball season is over we are all having a wonderful time skating in the new gym. Only a few of our girls don't know how to skate, but they are learning fast. Of course they are learning fast. they get bumps and bruises but they get up and try again.

Well school will soon be out and we can hardly wait. Every afternoon you can see a different class outside playing softball. It seems as if everyone has baseball fever. Even the sixth grade gave a program: "Casey at the Bat."

On Easter nine of our girls will join the church and after they join everyone of our girls will have joined.

On April 1, the Senior Voice Club gave a program of singing and Louise Campbell sang in it. John Bullard and Johnny Hudgins, we all enjoyed it very much.

Well, so long until May,
—Jean Carol Harrison

INFIRMARY

Hello Everyone,

An important decision has just been made here at the infirmary. We have decided to write the cottage news. Since none of us want to be forgotten, we all agreed that it was about time you heard from us again.

We have been very fortunate about our health during the past winter. Our house was never full. But every now and then someone would hear about those "wonderful meals" and the "long peaceful hours of rest" that you can always enjoy at the infirmary, and they just could not resist the temptation to pay us a visit.

One of the workers here at Barium, Miss Taylor, has recently left us for a while to take a trip to England. She was the nurse at the infirmary every Thursday so you can understand why we miss her so much. Everyone hopes that she is having a pleasant trip.

We were all sorry to see the basketball season end but we are glad that we can start playing baseball soon. The boys have already organized their teams. We are also going to have a lot of fun skating now, which will probably mean more customers for the infirmary. It is not very easy to skate and really have fun without getting a few bruises.

School is almost over and then we can start enjoying summer again. Our news is very brief this time, but we will be seeing you in the Messenger again next month.

Your Florence Nightingales,
Lois Dellinger
Pattie Inman

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We are busy in school. Winnie Wright had a birthday this month. Judy Taylor has learned how to ride the bicycle - we are always glad for someone to learn how.

We have been to see two shows - "Francis goes to the Races," and "Room for one more."

Beverly and Emily Sue McClure come to play with us sometimes and we have fun with them. We are having fun playing softball and all of us are learning to bat the ball, although some of us cannot knock it very far.

Miss May took us to the spring and when we got back all of us got a dish of ice cream, and then on Sunday we had some more.

Our housemother, Miss Lois Jackson, went to New York with Miss Taylor to get on the ship. While she was gone Miss Stevenson was our housemother and we played racing in sacks.

Goodbye for now.

Your friends at Howard.

Annie Louise

Hi Everybody!

As spring approaches, we realize school's just about out, so we're all working harder to make the honor roll. The last time 14 of us made it and our housemother gave us a party. That's one of the main reasons we try so hard to make good grades. Also, we're determined we're not going to let spring fever get us, as everyone says it will.

Getting our new spring dresses, has been occupying most of the sewing room girls' time, and they're so pretty, (the dresses, that is) we'd like to take this opportunity to say thank you to Mrs. Smith, Miss Campbell and the Seniors. Our dresses are so cute that our housemother told us, "when you wear your new dresses, if you act as good as you look you'll be sprouting wings." That's really a compliment to us who are noted for our mischievousness.

Traditional to the Easter season, we have been hunting Easter Eggs. We really work up energy runing back and

Have you folks ever seen the comedy team, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis? Well if you have, you'll really know we got a lot of good laughs from the movie, "Sailor Beware," that we saw a few days ago. We recommend this movie to everybody, especially those of you who have the blues.

Taking the time and space right here, we would like to congratulate the sixth grade on their unique and original program. A puppet show, Hillbillys, square dancing, a few songs and the dramatization of "Casey at the Bat", made it one of the most enjoyable we've seen lately.

We're still working in our flower garden and have some of the results of our labor in vases, decorating the house. We love flowers and that's one of the things of which Spring offers plenty.

If nothing unusual happens you'll probably hear from us again next month.

Six Delegates

Kinston.

The group reports a very interesting trip and a very successful Conference. Many phases of the life upon the campuses of the various institutions were presented and discussed, thus enabling each one present to get a better understanding of the boys and girls in the various Homes and to compare the life of each other as the reports were made.

This conference was begun some years ago, probably originating in the minds of Mr. O. V. Woosley of the Children's Home and Dr. Joe Johnston. Certainly, they were great sponsors of it and had great faith in it. As the leaders pool their ideas and carry back to their campuses the findings of the group, they can serve as leaders in their own individual groups for bringing about happier and better relationships.

Annual Banquet Fetes

Two good Junior teams presented a fine record for the year and brought home trophies from the Tournament played at Scotts. The girls

The certificates were awarded the members of the junior teams and the varsity letters were awarded to the members of the varsity squad. Members of the team for the girls chose as the most valuable player of the year Caroline Wicker, and in the boys varsity group her twin brother, Mack Wicker, was awarded the same honor.

In the Junior group the following girls and boys were awarded their certificates:

Twenty Seniors In Graduating Class

The graduating class of 1952 has in it eight girls and twelve boys, eighteen of whom are from the Home and two from the community.

The honor of the valedictorian went to a girl, Louise Campbell and the salutatorian was Henry Troutman.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Reverend George E. Staples of the Highland Presbyterian Church in Winston-Salem, N. C. Following the usual custom of dispensing with Sunday School, the whole of the morning was given to the preparation for and the carrying out of the morning worship service.

The Sunday evening Vesper Service, designed particularly for the young people, Reverend Walter H. Styles, pastor of the Waldensian Presbyterian Church of Valdese, N. C. was the guest minister. On Monday evening, May 19th, in the Elementary School Building, the seniors together with the other students of the Home and friends in the community took part in the final graduation exercises. Mr. R. G. Calhoun, principal, presided, and the graduating address was delivered by Dr. John R. Cunningham, president of Davidson College, thus bringing to a close this part of the life of the eighteen boys and girls of the Home and sending them forth to take up new work in new places.

Board Meets In Regular Session

Eighteen members of the Board of Regents met at Barium Springs on May 8th in the regular Spring session. Reports were heard from all the various phases of the life of the campus and budgets were presented and adopted. Plans were made for the laying of a steam line, and many other minor repairs and replacements were approved.

The Board had been studying for many years the religious life of the campus, and has been giving intense study to this since the meeting in October, 1951.

It has been generally agreed that the difficulty arises out of the existence of two independent groups operating within the same sphere. The superintendent of the Home presented a recommendation to the Board that, in the light of the Report of the Committee on Religious Education and the special Committee on Church Building, intense and immediate study be given to the matter of clarifying the relationships and thus ease the tensions. Also, the officers of Little Joe's Church, through its pastor and representative, appeared before the Board and requested that the Board work toward clarifying the relationships. The Board requested Dr. Price H. Gwynn, of Flora Macdonald College, Dr. Charles E. S. Kraemer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, and Miss Margaret Ratchford of the Religious Education Office, to make a study and report to the Board, giving advice. The Regents called in special session on January 29th, 1952 to study the report adopted the general policy that the Regents were charged with the responsibility for the religious nurture of the boys and girls of the Home, and a committee was appointed for the implementing of this policy. In the Spring meeting the committee made a report to the Board and the Board in discussion of the whole matter adopted the following as the plan of implementing the policy adopted

The Superintendent Makes Annual Report

With grateful thanksgiving we acknowledge God's goodness in the year just closed and humbly rely upon him for the year that lies before us. As long as this Home meets the needs of the boys and girls in a Christlike manner the Heavenly Father will surely provide for its needs.

Two years seem such a short time when viewed from the standpoint of the calendar, but the two years spent upon the campus when viewed from the point of events taking place and their consequences seem long and filled with stress and strain. It is to be hoped that some of the major problems are nearing their solution and that the next two years may be concluded in a very different fashion.

Administration

Administration in a general sense, of course, covers the total work of the institution. As previously expressed, it is still the intent of the superintendent to have a plan of organization where some competent person is in charge of each department, affording that person sufficient help to carry out the work of that area. This plan has not been fully realized because in some instances capable persons were not available. We continue to move in that direction and hope that before too many months we shall be able to add additional personnel who will complete the organization.

The new bookkeeper has rendered exceptional service and is well qualified to carry on that work. The manner of receiving and acknowledging money and packages from churches and people throughout the Synod leaves something to be desired, but we believe that can be arranged before the next meeting of the Board.

Household

A large section of the work of the home is cared for under this heading. The cost of living has gone up and naturally this department needed additional funds for operation.

The dining room has had a reasonably fair diet served, (Continued From Page Two)

(Continued From Page One) supplemented by the abundant supply of milk. The Health Department still questions the advisability of our serving raw milk and recommends that we look toward the pasteurization of the milk which is served at the table.

Wonderful work is being done in the sewing room in making a great many of the things that are worn and used on the campus. For campus appearance the children are neatly dressed and sufficiently clothed for all weather.

The recreational program provided for in this budget section is being given special attention with the view to enlarging it and touching more of the boys and girls in various forms of entertainment and recreation. Always there has been the high standard of varsity sports and competition in football and basketball. With the new Activities Building completed, all the children of the Home are enjoying skating, folk games, and other group contests. This Summer there will be a director of Activities on the campus. This person, Miss June Holtzendorf of the Assembly Training School, is a physical education major, having graduated from college and taught in college two years and completed one year at the Assembly Training School. It is hoped that she will lay the ground work for a fine Winter's program of recreation.

Health

The general health of the boys and girls on the campus is very good. Each year a physical examination is given, and it is the opinion of Doctors MacLauchlin and Lafferty who made the examination this year that the general health, with the exception of teeth, exceeds the health of any other group that they have seen or know about. The Home is terribly deficient in the care of the children's teeth. Several conferences have been held with the dentist in Statesville who has been doing the work. He, together with a committee from the Dental Society, visited the Home and much time and thought have been given to this subject. The superintendent has been assured that the condition now is no worse than it has been for the last twenty years.

It was the recommendation of the committee from the Dental Society of Statesville that a room be equipped in the infirmary and that someone be secured to spend several months on the campus getting the teeth of the children in order, and then that some arrangement be made for a dentist to visit the campus regularly. It seems imperative that some definite plan be given and that the Board make some specific allotment for this purpose.

Case Work

Our case work is excellent, but is spread so thin sometimes that it is not as effective as it might be. This is in no sense a reflection upon the worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, but rather commends her for her untiring efforts through the many long hours in every day. It is generally recommended that there be one case worker for every fifty children in a Home - we have one case worker for 276 children.

Applications received during the past year totaled 29, with 78 children involved. Out of this number 30 children were admitted to the Home, which means in the final result that about one-third of the applications resulted in placement in the Home. At the present time there are 276 children enrolled, 134 boys and 142 girls. Of this number 31, or about 12 percent, are full orphans; there are 76 with mother dead; 73 with father dead; 96 with neither dead.

While the number of children in the Home has generally been considered around 300, it becomes more and more necessary to study the staff and cottage loads and to bring the number of children down to the size of the staff, or to bring the staff up to the number of children. It is generally considered that from 12 to 15 is the ideal number of children for any one housemother to care for. Our cottage parents have from 10 to 48, with most of them having 25 to 30. This makes it utterly impossible to give the child the necessary attention for his well being. A recommendation concerning this will be found in the report later.

Education

The school year has been satisfactory. Last year the State Department of Public Instruction made a survey of the schools in three representative counties of the State. Iredell County was selected from the Piedmont area and Barium Springs rated higher than any other Iredell County school in the various tests administered. This rating was superior to other schools and gives Barium only the aver-

State standards. Perhaps the greatest problem facing our school is the large number of boys and girls in the Elementary school and some in High School who are not prepared to do the school work and who have been moved along in what is called "social promotion." In cooperation with the Alexander Home in Charlotte certain clinical tests are being made to determine the ability of some of these children. We hope that more thought and time can be given to them and that some special instruction can be afforded to this group of children that they may be brought up to the level of what their particular grade is trying to do.

Plant Operation and Maintenance

Through the years there has been a great deal of development on the campus at Barium Springs, bringing about a certain beauty that must be maintained. However, careful scrutiny of walkways, roads, and buildings from cellar to attic affords the inescapable conviction that our campus is in great need, that many of the buildings are outmoded, and that many repairs and replacements must be planned for. The walkways and the roadways are muddy in wet weather and very dusty in dry weather, and both circumstances affect the health and happiness of the children. Each year dirt is hauled back and put in only to wash away again. The only satisfactory solution is the hard-surfacing of about a mile and one-half of roadway and putting some top dressing on some of the walkways where the children pass several times a day.

In new work begun on the heating system some years ago we can report a new boiler installed and the heating plant enlarged, but it will be necessary to complete the program this Summer by laying a new steam line for the whole campus. The pipes now in the ground have been there from 25 to 36 years and were laid for a low pressure system. These pipes are rusted out and we barely got through the Winter. We cannot face another Winter without this need having been met.

There is some money on hand which was given to the Home through Dr. Johnston's leadership for what was then called "The Children's Village." The donors are becoming a bit restless about this money not being applied to the purpose for which it was given. The buildings which house our smaller children are far from what is needed and they will soon have to be replaced. It would seem, therefore, that it is indispensable that some definite plans be made for the use of this money. The buildings which house our smaller children are far from what is needed and they will soon have to be replaced. It would seem, therefore, that it is indispensable that some definite plans be made for the use of this money.

The barns and outbuildings have been standing long and are sorely in need of paint on the woodwork and particularly on the metal roofs. It looks like a must for the Summer's program to have these roofs painted and at least one coat of paint applied to the outside of the buildings.

Farm, Dairy and Orchards

This department with its three component parts means big business within itself. The dairy is under the supervision of Ralph Spencer and he is assisted in the operation of it by one adult and the necessary number of boys. The State Veterinarian checks the herd annually for TB and Bangs Disease. The County Sanitarian checks the milk regularly for bacteria count. Records last year showed 42,309 gallons of milk produced and served in the Home: 7,416 pounds of beef were provided from the dairy herd: 300 loads of manure were provided for the farm. Careful thought must continually be given to the dairy enterprise and to the wisdom or advisability of continuing to serve raw milk.

Last year for the first time in four years the peach crop was not frozen out. 1,859 bushels of peaches from the Georgia Belles, Elbertas, and Nathaniel Hales were gathered. The apple crop was not as abundant as was the preceding year but was sufficient for the needs of the Home - 3,269 bushels. One section of the peach orchard is old and will have to be uprooted next year and replaced with new trees. The young orchard which was set out several years ago is just about ready to bear.

Small grain last year hit the peak in production and overran the bins provided. Mr. Stinson, the farm superintendent, reports 795 bushels of wheat: 3,210 bushels of oats: 2,776 bushels of barley: 40 bushels of rye: 3,000 bushels of corn: 7,000 pounds of lespezoza seed: 221 loads of hay: 60 loads of silage: 2,500 bales of straw.

Vegetables of great variety have been raised and provided for the dining room. In addition to those that were used when fresh large quantities have been canned. Mr. Clendenin who supervises the orchard and also directs the canning reports that between six and seven thousand No. 10 cans were filled with peas, beans, apples, berries, tomatoes, peaches, etc.

Pork, lamb and mutton sufficient for the table was also provided. A beef herd should be started in order that the excessive amount of pork may be replaced with the more desirable beef. Plans for the hogs and beef cattle to be moved further from the campus should be made. This is indispensable because of flies and odors which make the proximity of the barns and hog pens very undesirable and even dangerous from the standpoint of disease and infection.

responsibility for the spiritual and moral life of the children of the Home.

2. That all services of worship and instruction for the children of the Home shall be under the direct supervision of the superintendent of the Home.

3. That the adult congregation of Little Joe's Church shall be permitted to use the facilities of the Church according to the convenience of the Home.

4. That all the members of the congregation will be welcome to attend all services of worship held in Little Joe's Church.

5. That the Home shall employ, as soon as practicable, a chaplain, who shall be responsible to the Board of Regents, through the superintendent.

6. That the Board of Regents proceed immediately to erect a suitable House of Worship for the children of the Home, and any others who may care to worship and work in this Christian Fellowship.

7. That the Synod of North Carolina be petitioned to provide whatever authority is necessary for the reception of persons into full communion in Little Joe's Chapel, and for the administration of the Sacraments.

It has been frequently stated that the root of the whole matter lies in having two separate bodies independent of each other. There has been friction and misunderstanding for thirty-five years, according to the statement of the officers who have known the Church that long. It is earnestly hoped by all concerned that this matter may be resolved for the good of the boys and girls and for the Glory of God.

Summer Program In Full Swing

Every department reports unusually fine success in the work of the Summer. From the time of graduation until vacation the days are filled with great variety of work on the campus and on the farm.

Mr. Stinson and his crew have been busy getting the garden underway, taking off the first cutting of hay, and now in the midst of the harvesting of the small grain, and getting the corn cultivated for ensilage and feeding purposes.

The orchard has had its crew busy with the sprays and harrows and general work, looking toward a full crop of peaches and apples later on. The early peach trees are beginning to yield and peach pie has made its appearance on some of the tables.

The campus crew is trying to keep ahead of the grass with mowing machines and to repair the buildings and are also doing a lot of painting.

Sheriff Rumble Takes Group to Park

The junior age girls and boys from Howard and Lees cottages had the thrill of a lifetime as the guests of Sheriff Charlie Rumble of Iredell County who escorted them to the Airport Park in Charlotte for an afternoon of fun and free rides and drinks. An early lunch was provided and the Sheriff in his official car led the two buses from the campus until they were met by the rural police at the Mecklenburg line; then in great style and ceremony they moved across the country to the Park where this group joined other boys and girls from other Homes for an afternoon that

Health Department Says "Pasteurize"

Dr. Ernest Ward, Health Officer of the Iredell County Health Department, has instructed the Home that the County can no longer approve the use of raw milk at Barium Springs. For many years the Health Department has looked with disfavor upon the use of anything other than pasteurized milk for the sake of the safety of the children's health.

In this emergency situation the raw milk is being sold, and pasteurized, homogenized milk is being purchased in the quart bottles. This temporary plan will continue until definite arrangements can be made for the erection of an additional room and the securing and installing of an adequate pasteurizing unit. At the present neither the cost of this nor the length of time for installation has been determined, but all efforts are being made to secure and install the outfit in order that the cost of purchasing milk may be reduced and that the quantity for the boys and girls may be increased.

Bible School Camp Planned For August

Concord Presbytery's new camp at Lake Refuge, just above Old Fort, will be the site of the Bible School Camp which is being planned for late July and early August. Approximately one hundred of the younger children will spend ten days or two weeks at the camp site.

The six Assembly Training School students assisting in the work this summer will be planning the camp and teaching the courses throughout the day. Some of the house-mothers, one of the school teachers, and Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the case worker, will also join the force and it looks like a wonderful time is in store for the children.

The camp management has promised to afford the Home the most reasonable rates possible, and for that we are indeed grateful. Two weeks have actually been scheduled in the camp calendar, but in

HOUSEMOTHERS NEEDED

Would you like to invest your life in a great work? Need for additional house-mothers at Barium Springs continues to prevail. Persons between the ages of twenty-five and fifty who are qualified to work with boys and girls ranging in age from three years to the senior in high school, can render great service to youth and to the church. Anyone who is interested is invited to communicate with the superintendent at Barium Springs.

Campbell and Carriker Ace Medal Winners

One of the highlights of each commencement at Barium is the announcement of the Ace Medal winners for the year, with one medal going to a former student and one going to a member of the senior class. The committee choosing the alumnus to be the recipient of the medal this year thought that an excellent choice was made in the Rev. John A. Carriker who is now pastor of the Eastminster Presbyterian Church in Charlotte. Mr. Carriker

Six A. T. S. Girls On Summer Staff

The Barium summer staff has to be augmented in order to provide vacations for the regular workers. Six students from the Assembly's Training School in Richmond have come to the campus for the months of June, July and August.

Miss Alma Steading who was here during the summer of '51, and who is a graduate of the Assembly's Training School, is here for the summer again this year. Five others

Vacation Time Begins July First

The first day of July is the red-letter day in the near future for Barium Springs. From five o'clock in the morning until the middle of the afternoon the boys and girls will be making their way to their relatives for their Summer vacations. This year all of the children will go at one time except for a skeleton crew that will stay on the campus to keep the dairy and gardens in operation.

Cottage NewsAnnie Louise Cottage

Hello Everyone!

Here we are again and happier than ever. School is out and we were all promoted. One of us was overheard saying, "I sure am glad that I was commoted." We are having so much fun playing and working but we miss our teachers and the seniors who graduated. We really will be glad when school starts again. We get to go in swimming in about a week and we can hardly wait. Most of us "dog-paddle" though.

One of our big girls, Dorothy, is now a rising senior and had to move to the Woman's Building and instead we got a new one, Lena McLean. We all like Lena and hope that she will continue liking us.

We have some new ladies from the Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Va., with us for the summer and we like all of them. We hope they enjoy their work here this summer.

At the dinner table the other day someone asked the matron who was the wisest man in the Bible and Patsy Ross popped up and said, George Washington. She still won't change her mind no matter how much we tell her differently. Linda asked if the pickles grew on trees. We didn't know that our family was so dumb, but I guess the reason for these actions are the movie we saw last week, "Singing In the Rain." We probably won't be acting normal for quiet a while after watching Donald O'Connor. We really enjoyed the picture. Now in our playhouse we are all either "Lena LaMont", or "Cathy".

We are going on our vacations July 1st. We can't wait but about the second we'll be homesick and by the eighteenth we'll really be ready to come back and play with each other. We now have twenty-four little girls. Really twenty-six, but two of them are spending the summer in Charlotte. One, Betty Sue, is spending this week with us.

We are looking forward to Bible School before long. We love to go.

Finally, most of us can stand up on roller-skates without holding to anyone and many can really skate well. Such a difference since the first week of getting scratched and bruised all over.

By next time we hope to be able to tell you that we can swim. We're going to have classes for the ones that can't swim. Until then . . . so long and have a happy vacation.

Printing News

We are very glad to bring to you the news from our hard working crew. The hum of our machines can be heard early in the morning as we begin to print another Messenger for this month:

If you do not receive a Messenger for this month you can blame us because we have two new members on our staff. Charles Creech is our new press boy and Mirton Cox is on the mailing list. Everette Vest and Charles Smith are old hands at this work and they seem to enjoy it. Mr. Kyles is working on the annual, getting it ready to go to press. Charles Stevens, who was the class president, doesn't seem to have gotten all the material needed for the annual.

As you all know, next month vacations start and everybody will be going home so a Messenger will not be printed for that Month.

Well, so long until August when we will again bring you the news from our hard working crew.

—Charles Creech

Jennie Gilmer

This is the news from Jennie Gilmer. School is out and we are working morning and evening.

We have been skating a lot but skating is about over and swimming season is just about here. It really gives you a thrill to watch the pool being filled because it isn't but just a short while until we can take our first dip.

The dairy boys have really been having a spring cleaning at the dairy.

Everything is just about in tip top shape even to cleaning the roof. We are also very excited because we are to receive a new dairy truck. We can't express our appreciation enough for it. We also have a ping pong table. One of the circles at First Presbyterian Church gave us three card tables and we appreciate them very much.

We miss the Seniors a lot. It certainly is lonesome since they graduated and went away.

Hope you enjoy reading our news.

—Jennie Gilmer Boys

Woman's Building

Hi Friends,

Hear we are again bringing you the news in general from our building.

We only have forty girls now that graduation has taken our seniors out into a new life elsewhere in the world.

All of us have been enjoying the gym lately for skating and recreation which we have during the week.

There have come to our campus six girls from Assembly's Training School to be with us during the summer months. They are helping as house-mothers and as recreational directors.

Everyone is patiently waiting for July 1st to roll around because vacation time begins then.

To all of you nice people who have not had a chance to see "My Son John" do so, because it really is a wonderful movie and worthwhile.

May 30 we had the well known movie cowboy Don (Red) Barry to visit our campus. Everyone was delighted to see a real person from Hollywood.

One of our matrons will be leaving us shortly for a vacation. Have fun Mrs. Watson.

Be seeing you next month.
—Pat Hamilton

Quads

Hi friends,

Here we are again to give you the Quad news. The senior boys have left us and every one is changing rooms. We lost ten boys from the Quads and got three more from another cottage.

We are working all day now since school is out. The farm boys are getting in the hay. The painters are painting all the buildings they can. The printing office boys are getting the annual out.

We had a visitor on the campus, Don (Red) Barry from Hollywood. He came out and gave us a talk. We appreciate Don coming to see us.

Vacation will start July 1st and will be over July 18th.

Skating is just about over now and swimming season is here.

We'll see you in August. So long.

Charles Smith

Synods Cottage

Bumble, bumble,

Clover and bees and barefeet are here and the soft green lawn holds many a sting.

Down in the swimming pool the water is flowing in and in a few days we'll be bobbing up and down.

A few weeks ago a circle from the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came up and brought ice cream and cookies for the whole cottage family. We always look forward to their coming.

At present there are only 22 of us boys. One member of our family, Jay Lee Moose, went to Charlotte and another, Butch Bostian, went home to live with his mother.

Eight of us made the honor roll for the year. They are: Darrell Hicks, Gary Clark, Joey Vechio, Jack Anderson, Charles McLean, Gene Taylor, Charles Roberts, and Bobby Ramsey.

We are also proud of our big sister, Louise Bradshaw, for making the honor roll for the year.

Well, so long until next time.

—The Wigglers.

Rumple Hall

Hi Friends,

The old dish washers will bring Rumple Hall news. We have been going swimming instead of skating. Skating is almost over. We have been having lots of fun swimming.

Don Red Barry came to Barium a few days ago and told us about Hollywood. We enjoyed listening to him talk.

We went to the show yesterday and saw "Belles of New York". It was a good show.

The Rumple Hall girls have been working hard in Mrs. Ellis' flower garden trying to get some flowers around here.

It will soon be our vacation time and we are all getting ready for it.

Summer Program

A tin roof, a bucket of paint, and a hot June day, would not necessarily be the first choice of a high school boy, but the paint crew has certainly given a good account of itself this Summer under the direction of Mr. John Ervin. Mr. Isaac White, directing the crew of plumbers and electricians, has found himself busy with the regular routine of repairs and emergency work on the pumps in the wells. This outfit claims that they can use only men and have no place for boys. That is the report which the Quad boys make from that group.

The printers who will be cutting this type and setting it up and running it off on the press feel that, after all, theirs is an art and a skill, and that for heat they yield to no one because their roof is low and flat and their windows are unpainted and the sun pours through. So, they would claim some prestige for their department likewise.

The boys are not the only ones who take part in the life of the campus. The girls, rising at 4:30 in the morning prepare the breakfast for 6:30 serving, and are sure that this could not be called leisure time. Neither would the girls of the house and the girls of the laundry and the ones in the cottages admit that theirs is all free time. All in all, it is a very busy day and a very busy life, rising at 6:00 a. m. and eating breakfast at 6:30, with lunch at 12:00 and supper at 6:00, putting in a good day's work, taking time out for a swim or to take a turn on the skates in the Activities Building or participating in some other evening's fun, makes for fine fellowship and citizenship on the campus.

Six A. T. S. Girls

who have completed their first year and who will be seniors at A. T. S. next year are also contributing to the recreational life of the campus, work in the Sunday School, and also serving as substitute house-mothers. They are: Miss Mary Belle Jackson, Miss Sara Cavin, Miss Ruth Nicholas, Miss Helen Bell, and Miss June Holtzendorff. Miss Holtzendorff is a physical education major and is in charge of the recreational program at A. T. S., and is directing the activities on the Barium campus for the summer. The swimming lessons at the pool under her direction are particularly satisfactory because of her holding, not only the life guard certificate, but the instructor's certificate from the American Red Cross Training School. Folk games, square dances, and evenings of fun are being planned for the rest of the summer under the direction of Miss Holtzendorff who is assisted by some of the other members of the group.

Miss Taylor Returns From Scotland

For the last two and one-half months Miss Kate Taylor, member of the staff at Barium Springs, has been on leave to visit her homeland across the waters. Miss Taylor was born in Scotland, but has lived most of her life in the United States. Nearly all of her close relatives, however, still remain in the homeland. Two and one-half months leave gave her an opportunity to visit all of her folk and to rest and, as she reports, gain weight. Many of the boys of the Home will remember Miss Taylor as the housemother in Synod's Cottage for many years. She is actually approaching her twenty-fifth year of service to the Home. The boys and girls all demonstrated their affection for her as she returned and are delighted to have her back on the campus.

Bible School Camp

sufficient funds may necessitate cutting it shorter than that time.

This will be the first year to experiment with the idea of a Bible School Camp, and it may hold wonderful possibilities for the future in some sort of intensive religious training during the Summer period, not only for the younger children, but for the older boys and girls as well.

Delegates Attend Camp and Conferences

Plans are now underway for some fifteen or twenty young people from the Home to attend Pioneer Camp and Young People's Conferences this Summer. A telephone conversation from the First Presbyterian Church in Gastonia assured us that the Women of the Church were interested in continuing their project and a subsequent letter brought the check in which makes it possible for this number to attend the Summer conferences.

Pattie Inman, a member of the senior class and president of the Senior High Fellowship, and Albert Williams, also a rising senior, will be the representatives to the Synod's Conference to be held at Red Springs.

Sharing the added thrill of being the first group to attend the Conference at the new Concord Camp at Lake Refuge, seven of the Pioneers were selected to go. all of the elected officers and group leaders. They are as follows: Phoebe Cochran, Joyce Kelly, John Ferrell, Barbara McCall, Mac McClure, Shirley Shaw, and Evelyn Cox.

On June 23rd the Senior High Young People's Conference will be held at Lake Refuge and nine members of the group will represent the Senior High Fellowship. The Young People's Conference will be under the direction of Reverend Walter H. Styles, pastor of the Waldensian Presbyterian Church. The other adult advisor is Miss Beatrice Kiser, DRE of the First Presbyterian Church in Lenoir. The new camp site can care for more than 150 and the management anticipates a full house for this first conference to be held in the new camp ground.

Vacation Time

(Continued From Page One) who has the assignment of making contacts and connections for the boys and girls and getting schedules worked out and bus tickets bought, finds herself more than busy.

The chorus from the children on the campus to her is, "Have you heard from my mother yet?" "Have my folks written you about my vacation?" and from the Baby Cottage, "When am I going on my vacation?"

For those who pass through this way for the first eighteen days in July the campus will seem a bit deserted and unusually quiet, but by the night of the 18th the crescendo will rise and life will be normal again.

Dairy Boys Get New Jeep Truck

For many winters the dairy crew have had an old army truck in which they did their hauling of milk and feed. It very closely resembled a fresh air taxi cab, having neither cab nor top. Frosty mornings and wet days meant rough riding for them. Now the story is different - the new four-wheel drive Willis Jeep Pick-up truck is their proud possession. No more riding in the rain and no more wondering if the old boat will hold together to get back from town.

Sheriff Rumble

(Continued From Page One) would be called a "dream day" in any child's life. For a whole afternoon they could do whatever they wanted to without a soul correcting or interfering with their plans. They could drink all the drinks they wanted, ride all the rides they cared to, eat all the popcorn that they could consume - as one boy said it was just as near to a "dream day" as anything he had ever experienced.

When the afternoon was over and the journey home started it was quite a thrill to have the police escort with their sirens bring the two Barium buses right back through the heart of the city and on out through upper Mecklenburg and back to Iredell County, so that these boys and girls could begin to tell of the things that they had seen and done and what they had had to eat and drink in the afternoon.

If it is true that life is made up of pleasant memories it is easy to understand that this afternoon will long linger in the memories of every boy and girl who had the opportunity to be the guest of the sheriff and to visit the Airport Park.

Campbell and Cariker

Cariker has served in the work of the pastorate practically all over the United States and in Canada. He served in Missouri and Texas and in California. For a while he was stationed in Canada and is now serving in North Carolina, his home State.

The student award went to Louise Campbell who received the nomination by the votes of the members of the High School and the adults of the staff of the Home and the members of the school faculty. Louise was recognized as an outstanding athlete on the basketball team during her high school career. She showed exceptional talent in music, being a voice student and singing in the choir, and also being a piano student and an accompanist for the Glee Club. Neither her athletic interests nor her music detracted from her scholastic ability for she led her class and was the valedictorian. She has chosen for her career the work of X-ray technician and will enter the Charlotte Memorial Hospital for training in July.

The Ace Medal is given as the highest award of the Home to the person most nearly embodying the principles of life and traits of character cherished and esteemed by the members of the Barium family.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE - JULY

NO. 9 - 10

Steam Lines Now Being Installed

"What is all that red dirt on the campus at Barium Springs?" said the questioner. One answer to that question is that it is a great nuisance to those who are daily trying to get around it or over it or through it, particularly after there has been a hard rain and it has turned to mud; but the real answer is that the Gilbert Engineering Company and the Grinnell Company of Charlotte are in the process of laying a new steam line from the boiler campus. So the walks are cut and the roads are closed and the dirt's piled high and the work goes on. When it's finished there will be concrete trench eighteen inches square in the bottom of the ditch carrying a six inch main line with fifty pounds of pressure from the boiler room.

In addition to that there will be installed under each building a reservoir for hot water which will be attached to the steam line.

The days of cold showers will be a thing of the past for the boys in the Quads. There will be no necessity for running from one building to another to try to find half tank of hot water left to take a hot bath. Every building will be amply supplied twenty four hours in the day. It has been suggested that after we have lived in this red dirt for two and one-half months it will take an ample supply of water to get it out of our hair, clothes, buildings.

Summer Admissions Almost Complete

The case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, has been exceedingly busy during the summer in her trips over the state studying the applications made for admission to the Home. This work has been completed and the available spaces have been assigned. There is now hardly a vacancy for a child between the age of three and fourteen. While there are some vacancies in the older boys' building and in the buildings for older girls very few applications come in for these places.

Applications continue to come in and every attention will be afforded them. The case worker will make a full exploration and study of each individual case, make recommendations concerning it, and whenever it is possible the child will be admitted to the Home. But when there is no

Peaches Are Good Again This Year

For the second year in a row the peach orchard has yielded bountifully. The Elbertas, Hales, the Georgia Bells have come along in succession, so that fresh peaches and peach pies have tasted mighty good.

Mr. Woodrow Clendenin has been able to can several thousand cans for winter use. In addition to this there has been enough to share with the Mountain Orphanage in Black Mountain and, also, to have some peaches for sale.

bed and no space for a bed in a building it is impossible to take the children.

One Hundred and Ten Enjoy Camp Grier

The week of July 28th. to August 4th. was set aside for a Bible School Camp for the younger children. All summer these girls and boys of Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, and Lees have been looking forward to their visit to the new camp site of Concord Presbytery. For seven days, under the direction of a well trained staff, the boys and girls spent their time in study, play, and worship. Morning was given over to the Bible School session with three full hours. The afternoons were declared an open season on "craw divers" and spring lizards. Everybody, including Miss Carpenter, wad-

Barium Children Reach Halfway Around World To Cheer Orphans

A group of Barium youngsters in the past year reached halfway around the world to share in a Korean hospital.

The project began when Charles Barrett, a Barium Springs 1947 graduate, now serving in Korea as a welfare specialist and assistant to a chaplain, wrote to Mrs. Ruth Troutman Clark's eighth grade at Barium.

"The physical needs of the orphans with whom I work have been provided for", he wrote. "But they have nothing to help them pass the long summer hours."

Barrett told how the Korean orphans made marbles of clay,

Sore Muscles And Tired Feet

The first football practice got under way under the conference schedule. Although the high school boys have been hardening themselves all summer with outdoor work, yet they found the pace which was set for them by Coach Jackins quite stiff. They are just beginning to limber up some of the muscles that are sore and get some of the kinks out from the early practice.

With six or eight regulars back from last year's team, the coaches face the job of trying to plug up the holes in the lines and to secure replacements for the backfield. Boys like Hillard, Bullard, Hudgins, Troutman and Wick-er, last year's seniors, will be sorely missed and the job of finding successors will not be easy.

With Coaches Calhoun, Jackins, and Guy and with the Barium squad's determination, a good team will be put together to represent the school on successive Friday afternoons in the fall.

Gardens And Crops Damaged by Drought

The usual abundant supply of fresh vegetables for the table has been lacking this summer. The dry weather in the early spring at planting time and the subsequent unusual heat and drought has taken heavy toll of the garden. Mr. Stinson hopes that the recent rains will enable him to have some later vegetables.

The crops have suffered and the yield will be severely limited. The one bright spot for Barium in the farm program

Cottage News

Baby Cottage
 Hi Folks,

Here we are back from our vacations and bringing you the cottage news again.

Since you heard from us last we have acquired a new member to our family. His name is Alfred Koontz Blake from Wilmington. We are very glad to have him with us and we hope he will be happy here.

We sure will be glad when the new pipe line is finished.
 It runs through our front yard and we have to go elsewhere to play.

We have four new big girls with us now. Ann McLain and Gay Church with the little girls and Martha Nell Hall and Phoebe Cochran with the little boys.

We went to the movie last week and saw "About Face", a musical comedy which we enjoyed very much.

So long until next month.
 —Martha Nell Hall

Woman's Building

All are back from their vacation now, and are settled down to their prospective work. We had a wonderful time while on vacation but are always glad to see our familiar friends here.

Our girls are helping string beans, while the Howard girls are attending Bible School at Camp Grier near Old Fort.

Just recently some of our girls got an ambitious idea to help the boys pick beans. I am sure they had a good time picking beans, at least it was a new experience for them.

There aren't many summer activities going on now except for swimming and skating, of course, we enjoy these very much.

On August 1 the Senior Youth Fellowship participated in a party which was held late in the afternoon at Mirror Lake. Before starting back nature decided to take a hand with a good old fashioned down pour of rain. After raining for a long period of time we finally decided to return home in two open trucks without any cover to shield us from the rain except for a few blankets. When we were almost home one of our trucks went lame on us causing the rest of the boys and girls from that truck to move over into the good truck. Of course it was crowded, but we finally arrived home in time for a few hours of sleep before daybreak.

The Mecklenburg Presbytery Choir came to Barium
 Sunday August 3, to sing praises to God for the Barium family. We enjoyed this singing very much except for one thing, there wasn't enough of it. The choir was led by Pleas Norman, a former Barium boy, and we were glad to have Pleas and his choir come and hope they will come again soon.

Sewing Room

Well, since this is the first time you have heard from the new crew in the sewing room we will introduce each one of us. How about, by telling where each went for her summer vacation.

Jackie Porterfield, she's the youngest of the group, went to Greensboro to visit her aunt and to Spartanburg, S.
 C. to visit some friends.

Shirley Porter had a wonderful time visiting her mother in Salisbury.

Pattie Inman spent her vacation in Lumberton with her father. She also enjoyed a few days at the beach.

Gloria Williams went to Fayetteville to visit her aunt and Uncle and took her first airplane ride. Lucky girl.

Helen Baucom having worked one week of her vacation at Lake Refuge, spent the other days with her parents in Wilmington and the beach.

Helen Barnes visited her grand parents in Stony Point.
 She also stayed a while with her sister, Hilda, a former Barium student, in Salisbury.

Dot Surles, one of the few who remained at Barium had a big time at Kool Park Pool in Hickory.

Rae Powell had a nice time visiting the State Capital with her sister and also with a sister in Mooresville.

Jane Feimster visited her mother in Taylorsville and a friend, Mr. Robert Lee Stowe, Jr., of Belmont. From all reports she had a wonderful time.

Well, folks we will try to keep in contact with you all each month.

Infirmary

The Infirmary has four new girls to work down here. We didn't write anything in the Messenger in June because we were so busy getting acquainted with our new cottage. Oh, yes, our names are Elizabeth Byrd, Shirley Johnson, Mamie Lou Lloyd, and Shirley Shaw. Miss Hoots and Mrs. Lackey, our matrons are very nice and we hope they think the same of us.

Friday afternoon, Shirley Johnson went on a hay ride with the Senior High Fellowship to Mirror Lake in Salisbury. There they went in swimming but were caught in a rain storm and didn't arrive home until 1:20 A. M. My, she was a sleepy gal, but she said she enjoyed it anyway.

Sunday night at 8 P. M. we had a group of men from North Mecklenburg to sing hymns until nine o'clock. They were led by Pleas Norman, a Barium old-timer. Maybe we will be able to hear them again. We sure hope so.

Every one is getting back to their old routine since vacations are over and we are all looking forward to the opening of school.

BARIUM CHILDREN

 lected were prepared for mailing in the shipping department of the Troutman Shirt company by John Simpson; postage was supplied by adults who were interested in the project and asked to be permitted to help.

About six weeks after mailing, the packages were received by the Korean children.

Barrett, who supervised the distribution of the gifts, wrote to the class: "This was a shot taken to show your eighth graders where their toys went.
 I thought perhaps they would be able to spot the ones they sent over, although this picture does not show them all.

He added that although some of the children were not smiling in the photograph, their appreciation was deep and genuine.

"I could never thank you and the others who helped you enough for sending the toys to these children. I only wish you could have seen the gratitude that flowed (literally) out of the adults there who understood exactly what was going on. Anyway, for the kids and myself, Thanks a million."

The boy who has his arm in the sling is a private project of mine. I found him about a month ago in a deserted sand pit about a mile from the base. He had been living there in a hole in the ground for some time. No family - both dead - and no home. He had gotten cold one night and attempted to build a fire with some gasoline that he found there, and had burned himself badly. I found him the morning after he had been burned.
 I gave him the clothes, fed him, and put him in the orphanage-hospital for treatment where he has been ever since. For a while I was the only one who could cope with him as far as his treatments went; you can suppose that burn treatment is very painful."

Barrett is with the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing in Korea. The real climax of Operation Open Heart will come in September when he returns from Korea and speaks to the Barium eighth graders about their project - and about how it was received by the homeless Korean children under his care.

Barium officials were more than happy with the success of the school project. It seemed encouraging to know that children could still reach across half a world to each other without selfishness.

Resolution Adopted By The Trustees of Davidson College On May 31, 1952, Concerning the Passing of Dr.
 Joseph B. Johnston

The distinctive service of Dr. Johnston, who passed on to his heavenly reward December 19, 1951, was that of Superintendent of Barium
 Springs Orphanage for 27 years, 1922 to 1949, during which time that institution made remarkable progress in physical equipment and otherwise, attaining unto the reputation of being one of the very best orphanages in the South.
 His service to his church in this capacity and as one of its honored elders was recognized by his being elected Moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947.

Dr. Johnston was a loyal and active alumnus of Davidson College, which recognized his life service by conferring upon him the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award in 1933 and the LL. D. degree in 1950.
 He was a faithful member of its Board of Trustees for the 9 years, 1943-1952. Doubtless his most fruitful service to Davidson was that of turning the steps of hundreds of the Orphanage graduates to Davidson for their college education.

The Board of Trustees hereby expresses its gratitude to God for His gift of this "good and faithful servant;" its recognition and appreciation of his invaluable service to the Orphanage, College, and Church; and its sympathy and prayers for his loved ones from whom he has been taken - especially his life's companion and helpmeet who gave herself as royally as he in their "work of faith and labor of love."

GARDENS AND CROPS

 is having enough hay. Most of the Iredell farmers have been suffering from lack of rain for their hay crop, while Barium has suffered the same fashion, yet it has been able to harvest enough to carry through the winter.

ONE HUNDRED AND

 ed up and down the streams turning over the rocks and chasing the crayfish called
 "craw divers" and proudly showing their catches when the trip was over.

The closing exercises for the Bible School were held in the spacious dining hall on Sunday morning, with the various groups giving samples of the work they had done and displaying some of the handwork of which they were so proud. Following that, the morning service was held in the open under the trees. Rev.

 Robert Turner was the preacher of the morning. Sunday afternoon, following the regular quiet hour and rest period, small groups made their rounds again over the many places of the camp site, trudging over the hills, going up and down the streams, and down around the lake, and working up a grand appetite for supper. Sunday evening vesper services were led by the counsellors and the older boys and girls of the group.
 Everyone went to his bunk realizing that he had had a glorious week, something to remember for life.

The work of the Camp was under the direction of Miss Carpenter and Miss June Holtzendorff, and they were assisted by Miss Alice McConnell, who volunteered her services for the week, and also by Miss Ruth Nicholas, Miss Mary
 Belle Jackson, Miss Sara Cov-vin, Miss Neely Ford, Miss Lois Jackson, and Miss Eleanor Miller. One of the smaller boys seemed to express the sentiment of the whole group when he said, "Let's just move up here and live here all the time."

UNCLE BOB

Pictured above is the benign face of Robert Benjamin Templeton, better known on the campus of Barium as "Uncle Bob". All the children who come to Barium soon learn to know and love him. Often through the years returning alumni, after they have greeted old friends and looked around a bit have slipped over to the kitchen to shake hands and have a chat with their old friend, Uncle Bob.

But from now on Uncle Bob will not usually be found in his place in the kitchen, but at his little home a mile or so away where he will have his chickens and his dogs for company. After a service of thirty one years, Uncle Bob is now going on his well earned retirement, provided for by the Social Security benefits recently acquired for our workers.

When Uncle Bob first came to work at Barium, Rev. W. T. Walker was Superintendent.

He remained through the days of Mr. Jos. B. Johnston and two and one half years under Rev. A. B. McClure. Uncle Bob first took a job under Mr. J. D. Lackey, Farm Overseer. Other foremen he worked under were Mr. Ross Troutman, Mr. T. C. Cavin, Mr. Burton Linville, and the present farm overseer, Mr. J. F. Stinson.

Then in 1945 more help was needed in the kitchen and Uncle Bob was transferred there and spent the rest of his service as cook and helper there.

Uncle Bob will be missed because of the good service which he has rendered over the span of thirty one years. He will be missed even more because of what he is, a christian gentleman with a gentle philosophy of life, and a gentle rebuke for things that are wrong.

But Uncle Bob says he will be coming back often for this is home to him and he will want to see the children whom he loves and who love him.

Regents Report To Meeting of Synod

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home express gratitude to Almighty God for His goodness and guidance through the year 1951-52. Unmistakably, His hand has been manifest in the total life of the Home. To Him we offer our gratitude and thanksgiving.

The Regents have met in two regular sessions at the Home during the year and in one special session during January. The Regents have given careful scrutiny to the total program of the Home as it attempted to effect the policies adopted by the Board. In any period or reorganization there are always perplexing problems, but it is the consensus of the Board that the work of the Home is moving along with fair progress in the right direction.

The matter which has given the Regents the greatest concern over a long period of years is the religious nurture of the children, and for many months intense study and fervent prayer has been given to this matter. The Synod is aware that the Regents have attempted to establish a program which they believe wise and good for the Home, but have been willing to delay the putting of this into effect until the Synod should have opportunity to study the religious life of the children in relationship to the Home and Little Joe's Church.

The Home has been running at full capacity throughout the year; as a matter of fact, many of the buildings have been crowded and the staff has been overloaded in the work they were trying to perform. It has been reported that only about one out of every three children making application is admitted to the Home. Preference is always given to those who are of the Presbyterian family or closely related to the Presbyterian family through the outpost work of the Church.

Plans Made For Homecoming Day

Homecoming for Barium students and friends will be on Friday, October 3rd. Appropriate exercises for the morning in connection with the school chapel hour have been planned. The alumni luncheon will be served in the main dining hall at 12:00 o'clock. The old bell in the belfry will send out a call to those who want an old time meal of sausage and grits and gravy with a little extra added to bring in the flavor of the new.

In the afternoon time will be set aside for the meeting of the Alumni Association under the direction of their officers. At 3:30 in the afternoon the 1952 edition of the Tornadoes will take on Asheboro for the Homecoming game. This serves not only as an announcement of the plans for the day but as an urgent invitation and request for all former students to come back to the campus for these activities.

Teachers Return And School Opens

August 28th brought to the campus all the members of last year's teaching staff save one, and the school got underway for the new year's work. The only new member of the teaching staff was Mr. J. E. Ramsey who will teach math in the High School and eighth grade. The others returning are R. G. Calhoun, principal, A. M. Calhoun, William Hethcox, Miss Reba Thompson, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Mr. William Guy, Miss Kathryn Troutman, Mrs. Rachel Spencer, Miss Sadie Brandon, Miss Faye Stevenson, Mrs. R. E. Jackins, Miss Eleanor Miller, and Mrs. A. M. Calhoun.

With this excellent faculty and with the eagerness of the students to begin the year's work great things are anticipated before commencement time is reached.

Commission Appointed For Barium Study

The overtures to the Synod of North Carolina concerning the Church and the religious life on the campus of Barium Springs were referred to the Committee on Homes for study and report. This Committee, through its chairman, Dr. J. Harry Whitmore, brought in the following report which was adopted:

"Whereas this is an extremely important matter concerning the very life of one of the outstanding institutions of our Synod and whereas we do not believe it would be wise or feasible to attempt to adjust this matter by a discussion on the floor of synod:

"Be it resolved:

1. That a commission consisting of 18 members, one minister and one ruling elder from each presbytery, be appointed to consider the matters presented in these communications, to thoroughly investigate the whole situation and with power to make final settlement.

2. That the commission be convened by Dr. Dudley and to meet within the next 30 days."

The synod then took recess for the Presbyteries to meet for the purpose of electing the members to serve on the commission. The following were elected from the various Presbyteries:

Albemarle, Rev. C. D. Patterson and H. H. Littrell; Concord, Dr. J. H. Carter and J. E. Ramsay; Fayetteville, Rev. W. S. Golden and W. R. Sutherland; Granville, Dr. Kelsey Regen and W. Horne; Kings Mountain, Rev. G. L. Riddle and J. Graham Morrison; Mecklenburg, Dr. W. M. Boyce and Walter Fraley; Orange, Reverend W. M. Baker and J. A. Kellenberger; Wilmington, Rev. Carl B. Craig and J. B. Huntington; Winston-Salem, Rev. R. A. White and J. O. Spear.

The commission was convened by Dr. Dudley and the following officers were elected: J. A. Kellenberger, chairman, Rev. Robert A. White, vice-chairman, Dr. Kelsey Regen, secretary. The first

Staff Needs

The Home at Barium Springs is in need of a dietician and qualified persons for housemothers. Persons interested in these positions should address an inquiry to the superintendent.

Orphanages of State Hold Conference

The North Carolina Orphanage Conference held its annual meeting at the Alexander School in Union Mills, N. C.

Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner of Public Welfare of the State of North Carolina addressed the group on the subject "Forecasts for Child Welfare". A report was heard from the Children's Home Society on the adoption program for older children in which the orphanages have been cooperating. Enthusiastic approval was given for the continuation of this program if it be possible. An inspirational address was made by Reverend J. Walter Dickson, Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Belmont, and brought to a close the morning session.

The afternoon afforded a short business meeting in which Mr. M. D. Whisnant

New Children Come In September

There are five new children on the campus, three coming from Gaston County and two from Raleigh. Many months of work and study on the part of the case worker ended with Barium becoming the home for these children. Melvin McKenzie is in Jennie Gilmer Cottage and Richard in Lees Cottage. The other three children are of the one family from Gaston County. Forrest Spencer lives with the other little boys in Synod Cottage while his younger sister, Naoka, is in the Baby Cottage, and the older sister, Helen is in Howard Cottage. They have all gotten off to a good start and it will not take them long to become perfectly at home on the campus.

Elks of Statesville Give Circus Tickets

With elephants and clowns, peanuts and cotton candy, horses, dogs and wild animals, with steam calliope and brass bands, with costumes and regalia, all under the big top, everybody at Barium Springs had a wonderful time. The Elks sponsoring the circus made possible enough tickets for all at Barium to be present.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun and the teachers of the school were ready with their classes and Mr. Lowrance provided transportation and everybody took the afternoon off.

Some of the teachers were so busy getting the smaller children ready for the cannon explosion that was to catapult the great Zucchini through the air into the net that they forgot to stop up their own ears. Next year we will have to have someone to take care of the teachers while they take care of the children.

Two Watermelon Feasts Provided

Good things do come in doubles and such was the case on the campus recently. Twice the announcement was made that there would be a watermelon cutting and that you might have all the watermelon you wanted. Big, ripe, sweet, juicy watermelons by the dozens piled high on the truck. Everybody had all they wanted to eat and some had more than they really wanted. One small boy said "I have eaten six pieces and I don't believe I could swallow another bite."

Of course, there is the custom when a large group of young people get together for a watermelon cutting that

Annie Louise

Hi Folks,

We're finally getting in the Messenger again this month. Last month we didn't write our cottage news because we went to Lake Refuge near Old Fort for a week of Bible School. We really had fun and learned a lot. We sing the songs we learned about every day. The camp is really a pretty place. We got to go on hikes and swimming every day and it didn't rain except one day, believe it or not! We also played all kinds of ball and had wonderful meals. The mountains were beautiful and the only thing we didn't like was the mosquitoes which thought us awfully sweet. I think some of them followed us back. They are really coming from the ditches dug over the campus.

Large ditches were dug all over the campus in July and will be here for sometime. We are getting a new heating system which will be wonderful this Winter. The campus isn't quite as attractive as it would be without them but it isn't going to be long before the pretty maple leaves hide the ditches.

All of us had very nice vacations. Many of us went to the beach and mountains. But all of us were real glad to get back. We are still excited about school starting Aug 28, and all of us are trying our best to be good and make the honor roll.

Last Saturday afternoon everyone on the campus had a watermelon feast. You've never seen so many! Of course we ate them all as you could see all over our faces. We are also having real good pears now.

We hope we won't be gone next month and will be seeing you.

Woman's Building

School is final on its way again, for which most of us is a happy occasion. Mr. Ramsey, who comes from Brawley, is a new teacher on our staff. He teaches math and typing, and sponsors the Beta Club for the coming year.

Lately we have had two watermelon feasts, the first given by the Mecklenburg Men's Choir on August 30; the other feast being a gift from the Gilbert Engineering Company. To both of these sponsors we wish to express our sincere thanks.

On Friday, September 5th, Betty Lou Johnson, a sophomore; and Jackie Porterfield, a senior, were chosen by the student body as new cheerleaders, to aid Pattie Inman, Jane Feimster, Rae Powell and Mary Helen Barnes in cheering our team onward to victory. With such splendid cheerleaders there should be a great deal of good cheering going on for our team.

The Elks Club invited all of us to attend the Circus in Statesville on September 8. We enjoyed all the acts, but perhaps the most popular of the acts were the trapeze acts, and the trained elephants.

September 12, our boys played their first game of the season in football against Thamasville, and won the game 18-0, with Dean Upton, one of our Senior boys, making all three touchdowns. After the game the Thomasville team remained to be our guests for supper.

A coming event, which we always enjoy, is the Fair. We always have a good time because there are so many varieties of amusements there.

In schools all over Iredell County there is one girl chosen from each school to enter the contest of "Miss Fair Queen." Our contestant is Pattie Inman. "We wish you the best of luck, Pattie."

—Helen Barnes.

Regents Report To

being of the children has been good though there is a great deal of work yet to be done, particularly in the field of dentistry in the student-body.

The school, under the direction of the principal, R. G. Calhoun, has a good record for the year. It is reported that the Barium school received the highest rating of any Iredell County School in a special study made last year by the State.

The buildings on the campus are in a fair state of repair and have received the rating of excellent from the County Health Department. Attention of the Synod, however, is called to the fact that in the very near future a number of the outmoded buildings are going to have to be replaced in order to care satisfactorily for small children. Some funds are on hand for this purpose but not nearly an amount sufficient for that which will be required. One item that has entailed great expense in the last two and one-half years is the central heating plant and the steam line. It has been necessary to enlarge the plant and the steam line and to install a new boiler. It was necessary to lay on the campus a complete new steam line this Summer, contracted for at a price not to exceed $76,000.00. The old line, having been in the ground from 25 to 36 years, was more than worn out. It looks now as if the Regents might have to borrow money in order to complete this job.

Barium has always served raw milk, and for the last several years has done so, much to the displeasure of the Iredell County Health Department. In the Spring of 1952 the County Health Department issued an ultimatum requiring the Home to pasteurize its milk for the sake of the safety of the children. The erection of a plant and the equipping of the same has necessitated the outlay of $15,000.00 which had not been anticipated. This, we feel sure, will be cared for by someone or from some source before the year is out, though we have no assurance of this at the present.

Concerning finances, the treasurer reports that the people of the Synod have been generous again this year. The income of the Home from the Churches of the Synod reached an all-time high. The Thanksgiving Offering was $92,924.80. The regular offerings totaled $87,014.73. This income from the Churches of the Synod enabled the Home to operate the whole year without a deficit. Had it not been for the fact that the Synod comprehended the rise in prices and the high cost of living and met this contingency through their generous giving, the Home could not have balanced its budget. A copy of the audited report has been filed with Synod's Council.

The Regents recognize themselves as the servants of the Synod, and further recognize their responsibility to the Synod for carrying on this great work. The Board would earnestly request the membership of the Synod of North Carolina to continue its remembrance of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in their daily prayers, that the children may grow in the likeness of Christ, and that those entrusted with the care and leadership of the children may be guided by the Holy Spirit to do the will of God.

Respectfully,
W. E. Price President
Board of Regents.

Orphanages of State was elected president for the coming year and the conference accepted the invitation of the Thompson Orphanage to meet there in the Fall of '53.

Following this the group meetings for sections of the conference were held, the housemothers under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Woodruff discussed the subject of "Gaining and Maintaining the Confidence of the Child." The case workers, under the leadership of Mr. F. J. Herring, discussed "Relationships with Parents and Relatives." The executives in their session explored the field of "In-Service Training," and gave considerable time and thought to the discussion led by Dr. Ellen Winston on the cooperative efforts of the orphanages and all child-caring agencies in the State, particularly the Child Welfare in the Department of Public Welfare of the State.

The Alexander School, acting as hosts for the day under the direction of the superintendent, Mr. John W. Vogler, added great delight and pleasure to the whole meeting. The morning devotional period was under the direction of the boys and girls of the school and the three chorus groups from the school and the Glee Club sang beautifully for the pleasure and inspiration of the conference. The dining hall, attractively decorated, was the scene of a fine luncheon provided by the Home. The students of the school serving with grace and charm brought in the bountiful provisions which sustained and delighted all the members of the conference.

Summer Workers Conclude Their Work

Barium's staff was increased temporarily during the past Summer with six girls from the Assembly's Training School and two school teachers from the North Carolina teaching force.

The coming of September and the opening of school concludes this part of the program and these young women have returned to their respective places for study or teaching. Miss Alma Steading, having finished at the Assembly's Training School last Spring, has gone to Oklahoma for the teaching of Bible. Miss Sara Covin has accepted a position with the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville, S. C. as Director of Religious Education. Miss June Holtzendorff, Miss Mary Belle Jackson, and Miss Ruth Nicholas have returned to the Assembly's Training School for their senior year. Miss Helen Bell, the sixth member from ATS, is remaining at Barium Springs on the staff for the Winter's session. Miss Mabel Stevenson and Miss Eleanor Miller rendered invaluable assistance during the Summer program. Miss Stevenson has returned to her work as a teacher in the Stony Point School and Miss Miller is teaching the second grade at Barium Springs.

Through the leadership of these persons an excellent program was carried on. Relief was afforded to the house-mothers, recreational activities were provided, Bible School camp was conducted, and far too many other activities were carried on to be enumerated.

Cheer Leaders Elected For Year

The High School student body has chosen Jackie Porterfield and Betty Lou Johnson as new cheer leaders. Traditionally, there are six varsity cheer-leaders who can spell out B-A-R-I-U-M and lead the student body in the cheering section for the home team. Ordinarily, when a student is elected that person continues to serve through the remainder of the high school course. Graduation last year took out two, Elmina Johnson and Hilda Barnes,

Barium Wins Over Wilkes Central

By Sid Bost

Barium Springs put on its second performance of "David and Goliath Play Football" at Sloan Field Friday afternoon and once again little David took the starring role.

The big Goliath which unexpectedly bit the turf in this instance was Wilkes Central, heavily favored because of the size and experience it brought down from the mountains.

When David had put his slingshot and pebbles away Barium stood victor by 20-6 over Coach Marvin Hoffman's Wilkes squad. The Tornado team thus gained its second consecutive South Piedmont conference victory.

Somebody had better tell the Barium lads they just aren't supposed to be beating these big boys or the team — all 23 of them — may surprise a few more opponents before they have completed their eight-game schedule. They meet Lexington next at Lexington.

Yesterday, Barium scored twice in the second quarter and again in the third. Wilkes punched over its lonesome tally in the third.

Quarterback Dean Upton, guard Joe Barkley and fullback Arch McMannen scored for Barium. Carl Swanson got the six points for Wilkes Central.

Upton again looked like All-State material as he galloped 80 yards for his score. Barkley intercepted a pass and trotted 50 yards and Upton heaved to McMannen for eight and the third touchdown. Donald Moore kicked two extra points.

Barium Wins Over

Swanson went 50 yards on a pitchout for Wilkes Central. Jim Reavis, Wilkes Central guard, was carried off the field and taken to a Statesville hospital in an ambulance after being hurt in a pileup. He said he felt something "pop" in his back. But the hospital reported he was not seriously hurt. After the game, Wilkes Coach Marvin Hoffman, who got his football start playing at Statesville High school, could still manage a smile—although he was frankly amazed at what he had just seen. Walking up to Supt. Albert McClure of Barium and thrusting out his hand, Hoffman said, "Well, trying to run up the score on my little boys. . . ."

Hoffman was lavish in his praise of Barium's quarterback Dean Upton.

The Tornado line turned in another sparkling performance, opening up the holes necessary for the backs to get off on their long runs.

Fullback Arch McMannen began to hit his stride as a replacement for the departed Norvin Hillard. McMannen took some of the pressure off Upton with good gains late in the game.

there has to be a face-washing too. A lot of the young ladies were busy rinsing the watermelon juice out of their hair and the young men were busy getting the seeds out of their ears, for around the table they chased each other with a big watermelon rind in hand for the purpose of face wash-

Homecoming Day Is Fine Occasion

Friday, October 3rd, was a wonderful day on the campus. It was one of the most beautiful days of the Fall, once it was Homecoming Day on which former students coming from all parts of the State made their way back to Barium for a day on the campus. From early morning until the late afternoon the cars were rolling in with sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters of Barium Springs.

The morning Chapel program under the direction of the school principal, Mr. R. G. Calhoun, was excellent indeed. The devotional exercises conducted by Reverend R. S. Arrowood, a group of songs sung by the 50 members of the High School Glee Club, a marching demonstration put on by one of the Elementary grades, and the pep meeting directed by the cheer leaders (Continued On Page Two)

Lackey Retires After Long Service

For more than two decades Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Lackey have been the occupants of the house in the grove to the west of the farm. Mr. Lackey has served on the farm in assisting Mr. Stinson and also in supervising the raising of the poultry for the Home. In recent years as his strength diminished he has confined his activities to caring for the chicken farm only.

Having passed three score years and ten and retiring at his own request, Mr. Lackey leaves behind him a very en- (Continued On Page Two)

Men of Concord Plan Meeting

The annual meeting of the Men of Concord Presbytery is being planned by the officers of the group. Dr. F. L. Jackson of Davidson, N. C., president, in arranging for the program has asked that a barbecue supper be prepared at Barium.

Last year 500 places were set in the dining room and all the places were taken and many had to eat in the lobby and in the kitchen and on the stairway. Since the dining room will seat only 500, places will be made possible for that number in the dining room and all over that number will have to take their portion as an overflow in using the window sills and the (Continued On Page Three)

Special Guests Visit the Campus

The Fall months seem to be the best months for having company at Barium Springs, or at least it seems the best time to get people to come to Barium Springs. Since we love to have company we are always excited and pleased when we are getting ready for a group of persons to come to the campus. Some of those who have already visited here this Fall include a group from Stanley Presbyterian Church; they were also joined by a big busload from the Comfort Church near Fayetteville, and so at one time we had over fifty guests visiting on the campus. The most recent group to come has been the members of Circle No. 2 of the Belmont Presbyterian (Continued On Page Three)

Children of Home Guests At Fair

The annual event of the County Fair staged on the fairgrounds just south of the Barium campus brings great excitement and thrills to the boys and girls. The long standing custom of inviting the Barium school to be the guests of the Fair for the whole of the Wednesday afternoon prevailed again this year. Manager Clyde Smyre and the sponsoring Kiwanis Club went all out to make it a happy time. Everything on the grounds in the way of interest and amusement was made available without cost. All the rides were free for the asking, the animal shows were open and the monkeys claimed a great deal of the attentive interest of the little fellows as they watched them perform.

Generosity was the word from the beginning to the end. As the rides concluded the Custard Wagon gave free ice cream to all, and as the boys and girls made their way to the arena for the special arena show Mr. Holthouser and the drink stand provided pop corn and drinks for every student in the school. By the time they reached home supper held (Continued On Page Two)

Pattie Inman Queen of the Fair

It was Friday night and the crowd eagerly awaited the announcement and the crowning of the queen at the Iredell County Fair. A large group of Barium Springs boys and girls had gathered to pull for their entry in the contest. Then the master of ceremonies stepped to the center of the stage and presented Pattie Inman of the senior class at Barium High School as the winner. With a large trophy standing by her side, a fifty-dollar check in her hand, and a crown resting on her head, Pattie could hardly believe what she had heard and seen.

Abundant Crop of Good Apples

A fine season for fruit has prevailed throughout the year. Not only were there peaches again but an excellent crop of apples is to be gathered. Mr. Woodrow Clendenin who supervises the orchard says that he is almost overwhelmed with the abundance of apples. The regular process will be followed by which the apples will be gathered and sorted and graded. A great many of them will be used in the making of applesauce and canned apples. The boys and girls at Barium Springs would feel that something very serious had happened if they should go very long without applesauce on the table. It is one of the regular dishes.

Those apples best suited for storage will be packed away in the apple house for use after Christmas and those (Continued On Page Two)

New Steam Line Nearing Completion

The fear that Jack Frost would win the battle is over and once again the buildings are warm since the new steam line has been connected and the steam has been turned on. Since early in July the campus has been piled high with red dirt and cut deep with trenches for the installation of the line. Trucks and tractors and working crews, welders and pipe fitters and carpenters have been busy. The concrete trench eighteen inches deep has been completed, the pipe has been laid and anchored, the reservoirs for hot water under the buildings have been installed and the campus is ready to be reclaimed. Concrete lids poured in sections are being laid over the top of the trench and the bulldozer is pushing the dirt back in the hole.

A day of celebration will certainly be called for when once again the roads can be (Continued On Page Two)

The Ralph Spencers Going to Arkansas

Ralph Spencer has accepted the position of assistant superintendent at the Vera Lloyd Home in Monticello, Arkansas. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and their three children, Joe, David and Bobby, will be leaving Barium Springs and North Carolina about the middle of October to take up their new duties on the other side of the Mississippi. For this young couple it will really be leaving home, for after graduation from high school as students of the Home they were married and continued on the campus as staff members. Mr. Spencer served as supervisor of the dairy and assisted with (Continued On Page Two) put everyone in a fine frame of mind for the rest of the day.

The big dining room at Rumble Hall had been filled with extra tables set for the returning alumni. The dining room was filled to overflowing. Between lunch and game time small groups gathered about in reminiscing circles, and the official meeting of the Alumni Association kept the alumni busy.

At 3:30 on Sloan Field the Blue and White Comets from Asheboro engaged the Tornados of Barium Springs in a thrilling game, with Asheboro coming out on the long end of the score, 20-26. An evening of recreation in the Activities Building on Friday night for the High School students and the alumni concluded the day, which according to reports from all sources can be marked down as one of the fine Homecoming Days of Barium Springs' history.

New Steam Line

traveled, the walkways crossed, and the piles of red dirt removed from sight. Best of all is the fact that fifty pounds of pressure in the new high pressure line will guarantee steam in sufficient quantities in every building. Steam will also be afforded the kitchen for cooking, reducing the cost of individual heating which has been necessary there for many years. The new system also includes the four buildings that the older boys called the Quads where formerly there has been a separate heating plant, but the new line now carries heat from the central heating plant to the boys and their hot water supply will be abundant, the heat will be sufficient and the cost of providing it will be reduced.

Naturally, an installation of this proportion is an expensive proposition. The Regents in their Spring meeting considered the bids and authorized an expenditure not to exceed $76,000.00. Those who have observed the installation have the full conviction that a good job has been done and that the campus will now be well served for the next 25 or 30 years without any interruption or expense in equipment for heating.

Lackey Retires

viable record of faithful service. Friendly and gracious in their home and in the life of the community, Mr. and Mrs. Lackey made a place for themselves in the hearts of all.

The new residence of the Lackeys is in Statesville near several of their children where they can enjoy not only their own sons and daughters but their grandchildren and where they will be near enough to members of their family to receive aid in time of sickness. It will be a pleasant day for Barium each time that this couple returns, and it is the hope of all that their visits will be very frequent indeed.

The Ralph Spencers

the intermediate age boys in the cottage where Mrs. Spencer was housemother. The three children born to this family have lived all of their lives as part of the community and will now be traveling across the wide spaces and taking up residence among a new group of boys and girls.

It is the consensus of all who know the Spencers that the Vera Lloyd Home is now getting one of Barium's finest couples and great things are predicted for them. Earnestness and sincerity coupled with genuine ability and an understanding of children equip them for excellent service in the field of child care. All at Barium Springs wish them well and will be looking forward to the time when they visit the campus again.

Pattie Inman

(Continued From Page One) placed in jars in the voting booth. The annual custom is for the county schools to nominate an entry and place a picture on the bulletin board in the voting booth where visitors to the fair cast their votes. The honor this year is all the more cherished because of the loveliness of the others who had been nominated by the county schools. This trophy has been placed in the High School building, and Pattie says the money will go to help with college expenses.

Abundant Crop

(Continued From Page One) earlier apples will be used this Fall in the cottages and in the kitchen. In the meantime the surplus will be placed on sale and the proceeds will go into the operation of the Home.

While the students get weary from gathering and assorting and grading and storing in the Fall, yet it is a very pleasant experience to have a box of apples in the school building and one in the cottage available all through the winter and up until the coming of the early Spring fruit.

Children of Home

(Continued From Page One) no allure for the boys and girls. They really were not hungry and in addition they were so busy talking about the Fair that they could hardly stop to eat. The day closed with the smaller ones, particularly, tired and sleepy but thrilled over the afternoon's experience.

Special commendation should be made for the school teachers on the fine way in which they guided the children in their visit throughout the exhibits and the use of the rides at the fair grounds. Mr. R. G.

Church. Arriving by car in the morning, they visited the cottages and had lunch in the dining room and then toured the campus after lunch until they were ready to rest and return to Belmont.

Young People's Senior High Fellowships, Pioneer Groups, Sunday School Classes, Circles of the Women of the Church, Men of the Church, and just groups of interested persons from various places have visited the Home. The boys and girls feel particularly proud in having a part in showing the guests over the campus and entertaining them. Therefore, a cordial invitation is extended to those who wish to visit to communicate with the superintendent and make provisions for the trip.

SYNOD'S ASKINGS. AND THAT

GRATEFUL FOR YOUR GENEROUS GIFTS.
