We are very grateful for the 12 Sunday schools that reported monthly offerings this week; but we certainly do need and would greatly appreciate hearing from more of our schools. We are persuaded that it is not a question of ability, but interest. Our struggling Mission schools cheerfully contribute their monthly offerings, while many well established schools in prosperous communities contribute nothing. They are able to help but have no interest or concern in our orphan children.

With the hope that the sweet, sacrificing spirit of our High Point school may be transmitted to other schools, we are publishing a letter recently received from the Supt. of that school.

High Point, N. C., May 24, 1915.
 Dear Brother Cox:

Your letter received some time ago asking that our school make a monthly contribution to the Orphanage. We have had the matter under consideration and have decided to make a contribution each month. Our school like all other schools is under a financial depression, but knowing the need of the Orphanage we are sending you one dollar, $1.00, and as conditions get better we hope to make a larger contribution.

Our school is sending this freely and hopes that it will help some who can not help themselves. Our school is doing well and wishes to do all it can to help along the great work of the Master. With best wishes and kindest regards, we remain,

Yours in the Master's name,
 R. C. BOYD, Supt.,
 High Point Christian Church.

A CHAPTER OF EXCUSES

2. We have heathen at home.

Alas; too true. Verify in our own community the statement that only one of every five people in America ever go to church. But there are two kinds of heathen—those for want of the gospel and those in spite of the gospel. We spend ninety-seven cents to convert the latter to every three cents we spend to convert the former. Such a program, persistently followed, would soon make us, like "old-school" Baptists, a "disappearing brotherhood." We must go to the ends of the earth or go the way of all the earth.

3. We can't convert the heathen anyway.

Still go. We are not commanded to convert people, but to preach the gospel. "We have toiled all night and taken nothing; nevertheless, at thy word we will let down the net." And faith had its reward. So will the missionary enterprise. Nay, already the gospel net has enclosed a great multitude. This excuse must sink away from the blazing glare of results as told in an ever-increasing missionary literature.

4. The heathen are not worth converting.

A man who had seen a bad Chinaman out West said he would not give one American for four Chinamen. I wonder if the Chinese Minister, seeing some of our worthless Americans, would not say the same. This is simply race pride, which Jesus condemned, both in precept and practice. Like our own ancestry, they are weak and depraved and need lifting up. In our homes the crippled child or the weak-minded one receives the greater share of paternal love, by virtue of its very need. It is the glory or strength to help weakness.

5. Much of the money is wasted in expense of administration.

Yet no word of complaint when we are told that the Civil War cost our land 800,000 lives and $9,450,000,000. There is no waste too great for love. While the covetous disciples found fault, the woman was pouring the precious contents of the alabaster box on His head and feet. And He said, "It is a good work."

An excuse betrays a heart of disobedience, and disobedience "is as the sin of witchcraft." That the whole world shall have the gospel is the eternal purpose of God. The Bible begins with a universal promise and ends with a universal vision. Let us beware, lest we "be found even to be fighting against God."—W. F. Turner, in Missionary Intelligencer.

Elementary and Cradle Roll Departments

Edited by Mrs. J. J. Lincoln, Wakefield, Va., and Mrs. F. Bullock, Waverly, Va., respectively, to whom all communications for these Departments should be addressed.

Motto: "First the Blade."
 Colors: Green and White.

The primary comprises the children from seven to nine years of age, just leaving the Beginners going to school, and reading a little now. In this period as well as in the one just preceding it, we have a keen 1st. Sense Perception. Little fingers are quick to feel, little hands seize rapidly on every new thing; the eyes are quick to note changes of color, and the ear to hear variations of sound. Even the tiny baby will note and cry at an angry note in mother's voice and the child in the beginners and primary departments will secure about as much of a lesson through the modulations of the teacher's voice as through the words themselves. Miss Harris said she believed in an elementary teacher dressing as attractively as possible because the children so delighted in pretty clothes, not for the clothes sake, but for their sheer beauty or suitability. At this time and in this connection is the instinct which seems to tell a child more of the character of a person than we older may know through a supposed acquaintanceship. It is a mistake to give a child for a teacher a person we would not place in charge of older people under the impression that they will "not know the difference," because they will, and will show it very soon.

2. Controlled imagination. Imagination no longer runs away with them. They begin to ask how Santa Claus can climb down these little chimneys, and how oh, so many things, where heretofore they have only asked why. Happy the mother now who has always told her child the truth; if she has not, right at this time she begins to lose her child's confidence.

3. Curiosity. We all have a share of that, you will say, and that is true, but it is well to remember at this time that the trait is very strong, and ought to be taken into account by the wise teacher. Says Moninger: "The wise teacher constantly appeals to the curiosity of her children; she covers her picture roll until she is ready to use it. She makes a part of a diagram on a blackboard; she has a box on her desk or lap with a cover on it. The scholar will be curious to know what picture is covered, what the remainder of the diagram will be, and what is in that box. The skillful teacher will time her words and actions in disclosing these things so as to teach and impress the desired lessons."

4. Imitation. The boy or girl does not now discuss what the teacher says but what she does. She copies her teacher's actions, modes of speech, etc., and the boy imitates the actions of his favorite hero of the moment.

5. Desire for certainty. This is the time when as I said above the child asks how as well as why. They feel their limitations of knowledge more keenly and determine not to be taken in. Listen to a conversation among children and you will hear such phrases as these: "Honest for sure?" and "Cross your heart and hope to die?" etc.

6. Activity. Not quite the uncontrolled and uncontrollable restlessness of the beginner, but yet a constant desire to be doing something. This is recognized more and more in our public schools, and the children are drilled in exercises and motion songs; given physical culture lessons, made monitors of all manner of things, and in various other ways allowed to work off their surplus steam. Better, far better than the old way of doing. I remember reading a story once, by Will Carlton, I think, of a little girl who went to school for the first time. She could not and did not sit as still as the stern school mistress thought proper, so she took off her black silk apron, set little Marion in a corner and tied the apron over the child's face and head "until she could behave herself." At first little Marion kicked and screamed, but a few judiciously applied slaps stopped that, and soon little Marion sat still enough to satisfy her stern preceptress. At last, the time came to go home, the apron was removed and Marion told to go home, but—little Marion still sat there, so still, oh, so still! Her fright had been too great, the delicate machinery had stopped at the teacher's command to be still, and God had taken the little one where it was not a sin to move and whisper and even "talk out loud." In too many of our Sunday schools, however, we have not gotten away from the original conception that the only good child is a quiet child.

7. Affectionate. How demonstrative are our primary children! How they love and hate; with what an intensity of devotion do they throw themselves upon a loved teacher, and how easily she can turn their faces to the One who loved little children.

8. Limited vocabulary. They know few words, and those are small words. Let us be careful to couch our lessons in words known to and understood by the child.

Elon College

For Both Men and Women

Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, tho entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me as most genuinely Christian."

Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and, with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists, men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.

The lowest rates in the South, only $131 to $191 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address

OUR DEAD

Howell

A death that cast an unusual gloom over our town occurred on Sunday, Apr. 25, 1915, when the spirit of one of our most loyal members, Sister Mollie E. Howell, returned to the God who gave it. Hers was a character of unusual beauty and strength, and her circle of friends extended wherever she was known. She had been a member of the Franklin Christian church almost from its beginning, having moved here when the organization was about one year old, and was identified with the church in every line of its activity.

There remains of her immediate family the following: her husband, Bro. J. R. Howell; two sons, Dr. Carroll Howell, of Marion, S. C., and Marshall Howell, of Franklin; and three daughters, Mrs. W. H. Norfleet, Mrs. W. H. Burchette, and Miss Marion, all of Franklin, Va. The funeral services were held at the Christian church by the pastor, assisted by Rev. J. L. McCutcheon of the Baptist church, and Dr. W. W. Staley of Suffolk.

C. H. ROWLAND.

Roberts

Sylvester James Roberts died at his home near Windsor, Va., April 13, 1915. The deceased was 77 years, 10 months and 7 days old. He was married June 6, 1860, to Miss Lucy Fulgham, and is survived by his widow and three children, John G., Sherman, and Mrs. R. G. Brittan. He was a brave Confederate soldier and a most consistent member of the Windsor Christian church. All who knew him were impressed with his Christian piety and gentle lovable spirit. The church community will miss him greatly. May God's blessings attend those he has left behind.

STANLEY C. HARRELL.

Hanner

May 30, 1915, Edgar Winifred Hanner, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hanner, of Greensboro, N. C., aged nine months and five days.

The funeral services were conducted by the writer at home in the presence of many relatives and friends. The burial was made in Greenwood cemetery. The grave was literally banked with beautiful flowers. May the Healer of broken hearts comfort the bereaved.
 P. H. FLEMING.

INJUSTICE TO RAILROADS

Unfair! The glaring injustice of the government's treatment of the railroads in the matter of carrying the mails is brought out in a comparison of what Uncle Sam pays his own road and what he pays others. The government-owned Panama Railroad received last year, according to a statement by a committee on railway mail pay, $2,77 for each ton of mail carried a mile, while the private roads in the United States, according to estimates of the Post Office Department, received about 10 cents per ton for each mile. If this is the kind of extravagance the government ownership of railroads stands for, it will be a long while before the voters of this country will give it serious consideration. Had the privately owned railroads of the United States been paid in the same basis as the Panama Railroad, instead of receiving $56,000,000 or about one-fifth of the Post Office Department's revenues, they would have received $1,557,000,000, or more than five times the total revenues of the Department. The railroads have not asked Congress to advance mail pay rates. All they have asked for is to be paid to roll the mail they carry and for all the special facilities and services they furnish the Post Office Department. Why not, Uncle Sam? —Leslie's.

OF INTEREST TO MINISTERS

A large financial institution of national reputation is offering special inducements, in the way of a permanent investment earning unusual profits, to young men who are Total Abstinents from the use of intoxicating beverages. This enterprise is endorsed by the National Inter-Church Temperance Federation, composed of prominent ministers and laymen of Protestant denominations. Every pastor should be interested in furthering this undertaking, as it encourages economy and sobriety in the young men of his church and congregation. Accurate information will be furnished any pastor who will address a postal inquiry to Managers, P. O. Box 25, Anderson, S. C.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

The Beginning and the End

The Bible begins with a world wide promise and ends with a world wide vision.

Solid Comforts

When the taunts, jeers and cruel criticisms of men bite and sting and burn, Spurgeon's words are worth recalling: "Give me the comforts of God and I can well bear the taunts of men."

Boss or Leader

In an address recently ex-President Taft remarked: "It is all a matter of names, any way. If a man is opposed to you he is a boss; if he is working with you he is a leader." And going further it may be added: If your leader makes himself your servant and works for you, He is your Savior.

Heathen

There are two kinds of heathen: Those who live in pagan darkness for want of the gospel; and those who live in sin in spite of the gospel. We spend 97 cents to convert the latter to every 3 cents we spend to convert the former. The church will wake one day to the larger opportunity and will then more evenly divide its funds for the salvation of souls. God is no respecter of persons, and the soul of a Chinaman is as precious in His sight as the soul of an English lord or an American millionaire.

Negro Churches

According to Dr. H. K. Carroll of the Federal Council of Churches, there are now in the United States 38,360 negro churches, 4,257,401 communicants, 36,289 Sunday schools, and 1,740,099 Sunday school pupils. The value of church property owned by negroes is $56,725,825; these churches contribute annually $200,000 for home missions, supporting 200 missionaries and give aid to 350 needy churches. Their annual contribution to foreign missions is $100,000. This does not include many Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and W. C. T. U branches owned and conducted by the race. This is certainly no mean or niggardly showing for a race just half century from bondage. "For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles; whether we be bond or free." (I Cor. 12:13.)

God's Economy

It was arranged from the beginning that the right should ultimately triumph, and that no right deed, however humble and insignificant, should be wasted. "In the economy of God," wrote John G. Whittier, "no effort, however small, put forth for the right cause, falls of its effect. No voice, however feeble, lifted up for truth, ever dies amidst the confused noises of time." Sin and error and wrong create discord, produce sorrow, cause pain, but above this discord the melody of peace and righteousness arises, and blends with the harmony of the spheres which is the music of the soul.

Facing Perils

War is not daunting the spirit of missionaries and the dangers of the war zone do not terrify them. Some fifty volunteers were recently received by the Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian church and are to go this summer to various parts of the troubled world through dangers unseen to carry the message of love and light and life to those who have it not. It has ever been so; men and women who loved God and wanted to serve Him were willing to endure "perils of waters, perils of robbers, perils by heathen, perils in the city, perils in the wilderness, perils in the sea." (II Cor. 11:26)

The Almighty Heart

The tidal wave of materialism rolls high and far in our day. Many keen observers and profound thinkers are of opinion that the almighty is the God that rules supreme in our country, and the mad rush for wealth is the controlling passion. Others think differently and the bravest fight of ages is being waged by those who believe that the almighty heart is yet more powerful than the almighty dollar. It is the old, old fight between idealism and materialism. Unless high and noble ideals can be inculcated in the popular mind, and developed there, history will repeat itself, and the tragic story of Babylon and Greece and Rome will be retold in our own history. The Gospel of the Son of God, the high ideals of character as portrayed in the life and teaching of the Nazarene are America's and the world's only hope. The almighty heart must prevail, or the almighty dollar will destroy. "In him was life; and the life was the light of men." (Jno. 1:4)

"The Last War"

In the daily papers of May 24 was a news item to the effect that Dr. Frederick Lynch wants the words "The Last War" to be used as a slogan during the present year by all who desire international peace. Dr. Lynch has written a book on the theme which he is seeking to circulate far and wide particularly among clergymen of every denomination. The reasons for the book and the theme are set forth by the author in these words: "Every student of psychology knows the power of a word when it is on everybody's lips, in everybody's ears, and before everybody's eyes. The whole world, as never before in history, is sick of war. Its futility as well as its wickedness is coming home to all. Everyone is asking:

'Is there not some other way? Cannot this be the last war?' The way to make it the last war is to decide here and now that it shall be the last war, and one of the best ways to hasten this decision is to make it an obsession in each and every mind. I should like to see the words 'The Last War' printed on the front page of every magazine, periodical, journal and daily paper in big type, every month, week and day of 1915. I should like to see the words on every billboard and in the advertising space of every street car. I should like to see every man and woman in the world wearing a button with 'The Last War' printed in striking type. I should like to see it over the door or on the walls of every school and church."

The World's Greatest Charity

Since Christianity is the religion of charity it can hardly be said to have failed, since the most gigantic charity ever witnessed is even now being displayed. The American people, on learning of the pitiable plight of the Belgians, resulting from the present European war, undertook to save by voluntary contribution 7,000,000 people from starvation. The scale on which our Commission for Relief in Belgium has carried on its operations may be judged from this: In digging the Panama Canal the Government paid out $2,000,000 per month; this Relief Commission has paid out $10,000,000 per month so far this year. The greatest trans-Atlantic lines, when ocean traffic is at its height, send out only two or three ships a week from all American ports; this Relief Commission has sent out as many as nine ships per week and has had a minimum clearance of a 6000 ton steamer every forty-eight hours. Up to June 1 nine million bushels of our wheat crop of 1914 had gone to feed starving Belgians. The monthly food shipments during the winter and spring were 60,000 tons of wheat, 10,000 tons of rice, 5,000 tons of peas and beans, 1,200 tons of smoked salmon and 300 cases of condensed milk. By the middle of April the Belgians had killed all their cattle and hogs, and American charity had to increase its monthly donations by adding 2,400,000 pounds of barrel beef. So while machine guns are doing their ghastly work of blood and death in Europe, sweet charity comes forth in America robed in regal splendor and adorned with Christian graces such as was never witnessed before in all the world. Faith is not dead; hope is not dead; love is not dead. "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is Love." (I Cor. 13:13.)

—June 4 the Ford Motor Car Co. increased its capital stock from $2,000,000 to $100,000,000 and declared a stock dividend of $48,000,000 whereby nearly $28,000,000 was added to Mr. Ford's private fortune. Every great industry develops a genius, and Mr. Ford seems to be the genius of the automobile trade.

—Mrs. Rebecca Pearce, of Franklin county, N. C., has lived during the life of every President of the United States except Washington. She is in good health for her age and is a great reader of both classic and current literature. She is the mother of Mrs. W. W. Staley.

Prayer is the highest effort of man.

God is the noblest conception of man.

The soul's uplift is the highest elevation of man.

Man through prayer seeking God comes into the holiest relationship and divinest fellowship known to the human mind or experienced by the immortal soul.

THE PRAYER LIFE

It is the only life worth living. Yet it is a dangerous and hazardous life. To pray means to stake all your future on the consequences. Unless this is done, there is no prayer. If one is going to order one's future after prayer just as before it, one might as well not pray. "Not my will, but Thine be done," is the true spirit of prayer. It is certain God is not going to change. He is the same today and tomorrow. If we are not changed by our prayers there is no change, and the prayer was futile. The object of prayer is not to change God, but to change our stubborn and rebellious wills to His will.

This is living the prayer-life; going daily with the consciousness of a Will more than our own controlling us, our thoughts, deeds, words. In such a life is the highest freedom; the holiest and supremest liberty. He only is free who lives the life of perfect and filial obedience to the Father's will. If we order our way we are sure to circumscribe our path, limit the field of our operations and opportunities. If our Father orders our way for us there are no meets nor bounds set to the path, and we swing out into the boundless sea, the divine greatness, the unlimited domains.

One need not stay on one's knees all day to lead the prayer life. The moments of consecration, of fellowship and converse with God daily are essential; but they do not require the whole day. When one can really and truthfully say, "Thy will be done" one has uttered all there is in prayer, has said the final word in supplication. To begin the day with the sweet assurance that the heart has spoken that sentiment, that truth, to its Creator, that is the finest and best asset any soul can have. To live the prayer life is to act ever and always in obedience to a higher Will than our own, a wider Wisdom than our own, a greater strength than our own.

ADVERTISING THE CHURCH

Mr. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, a merchant prince who is a past master in the art of advertising, gave this summary the other day, to a conference of church clubs, of the best methods of advertising the church: "Clean up its building, jog up its different departments, remedy its systems of financial support and pay its ministers fairly and adequately and completely." All of which is respectfully submitted for the consideration of those who realize that their church is not moving forward as it should.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Our neighboring county of Guilford promises a departure which seems to spell progress in the right direction. We should not be surprised, for Guilford stands at the fore of the counties in North Carolina in the matter of culture, schools, morality, and good government. It is a county of fine schools, good worthy and progressive citizenship. Its present proposition is to have a director of religious education whose functions and qualifications are thus described by The Greensboro Daily News:

"The director of religious education for Guilford county, an office to be created and sustained by the Sunday School forces, is to be really a superintendent of religious instruction, functioning in his field in a way similar to the superintendent of public instruction in his; and certainly there is every basis for the conclusion that this will be a long step forward for the county in the matter of religious education. This official will do for the Sunday schools what Superintendent Foust does for the public schools.

"The superintendent will help to organize new Sunday schools; make a Sunday school survey of the county, ascertaining who are out of the Sunday schools, and instruct in methods of bringing them in. He will hold Sunday school institutes, organize community training classes, instruct in the best methods of superintendence and management and of teaching; establish standards of teaching in the Sunday schools, just as standards have been established in the day schools."

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH UNIVERSAL

They have tried it out to a finish and the Northern Presbyterians have learned that their General Assembly, nor the Presbyterian church, nor any other denomination or ecclesiastical body owns, or can control Union Theological Seminary, in New York. It just belongs to "the Christian Church Universal." It is not bound by the Westminster Assembly's Confession of Faith, nor by anything but Christian truth, "as it can be best learned from the three sources of authority, the Bible, the Church and human reason." Its trustees only direct its affairs and they are a body apart, controlled and inspired by Christian principles. So the courts have decided. If the Christian church had all its property listed and organizations indexed, the statisticians would stand amazed. As the world grows older the name Christian is found more and more sufficient—without any party or sectarian designations attached.

THE MAKING OF MEN

There is no nobler theme or thing than that; The making of the right sort of men and women. That is the supreme work of Almighty God; it is the holiest task of mortal man—Poets and philosophers, painters and preachers, scientists and statesmen have taught and wrought with this one thing in view, the making in this world the right sort of human character. The logic of the human mind, as well as the law of the land, declares that a man's most valuable asset is his character, his noblest possession is his good name. More to be desired than silver and gold, sweeter than honey and the honey comb, is one's character, one's good name. The house and all earthly possessions are as trash in comparison with this. If one has a good name, the right sort of character, one has all; if one loses this one loses all.

Pres. W. A. Harper of Elon College has grasped the worth and weight of this theme, and in right royal fashion has treated it in his recent volume, "The Making of Men." We know of no more fitting or appropriate word to use than to say that the great book is worthy of the great theme, of the wonderful mind that conveyed it, and the versatile and charming pen that wrote it. Unless many SUN readers buy and read this volume they are more indifferent to the good and great things than we think they are.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—We acknowledge with thanks an invitation to the marriage of Mr. Joseph L. Clements, of North Wilkesboro, to Miss Martha Clyde Watson, of Wilson, N. C., on the evening of June 30th. After July 15th the happy couple will be at home at North Wilkesboro, N. C. Our best wishes.

—Count on Memorial Temple, Norfolk when it comes to the good and great and wonderful things for missions. Dr. Denison, the pastor, writes: "Our pledge offering today (Sunday, 13) is $1042 and a few pledges yet to hear from." Last Sunday was the annual missionary rally day, and a great, good time was enjoyed.

—We acknowledge with appreciation the following invitation: "Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hall request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Sarah Ruth to Mr. James Kendrick Sanford, on the evening of Wednesday, 23rd of June, 1915, at 7:30 o'clock, Christian Church, Burlington, N. C." Miss Ruth Hall was an Elon College student and has many friends among SUN readers who will wish her all the happiness to which her charms and graces entitle her.

—The following from the Methodist Protestant Herald of last week notes a matter worthy of attention by hundreds of CHRISTIAN SUN readers: "C. B. Riddle, Elon College, N. C., who issued a book last year known as "College Men without Money," has rewritten it and is sending the same out at cost, that being ten cents the copy. It contains less than fifty pages and is a brief review of "College Men without Money" and is dedicated to "That unlimited number of young men and women who are in search of Education's Holy Grail with meagre means." It contains the likeness and autograph of the author and may be had by addressing Mr. Riddle and enclosing the above amount. This work and effort upon Mr. Riddle's part is done to influence young men and women to seek an education regardless of financial conditions, and we trust our readers will avail themselves of this chance of reading this inspiring book which he is giving away."

—Good Dr. Barrett, editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty appeals and appeals in vain for all who send him copy for print to send their name along also. So much space wasted, beloved. We have made this same appeal a thousand times—"more or less" as surveyors say about the acres of land contained in any given tract,—but it does no good. We have now an obituary that should be published we presume; but the writer sends neither his name nor address. So we do not know whether he, she, or it, lives in America, Europe, Asia, or Africa—and the obituary goes the way of all the earth. But all of this space, like Editor Barrett's, is all wasted, for another and another and another will come—and keep on coming for all time we presume—though they all go the same way and find the same destiny, viz, the waste basket and the ash heap.

—The Burlington News of last week has the following editorial: "We have received a copy of Dr. W. A. Harper's new book, "The Making of Men," and have read same with a great deal of interest. Dr. Harper is a clear and practical writer and thinker and in this book he gives some excellent advice as to the proper formation of character in making men. The book is in the nature of a series of lectures delivered to young men and if his advice is followed by those who read the book we will have a higher class of citizenship in those who take his advice. In this day of worldly delusion and numerous temptations that lower the standards of morality, such a book is needed to call the attention of the young man to the higher things of life. The book is issued by the Christian Publishing Company of Dayton, Ohio, and sells for 75 cents.

—From the Virginian-Pilot of June 10, we learn of the death of Bro. Luther Rawls, a most estimable citizen and a faithful Christian: "Suffolk, Va., June 8.—Luther Rawls of Holy Neck, one of the best known men in the county, and father of Dr. J. E. Rawls, of Suffolk, died today at his home in Holy Neck, aged 80 years and seven days. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Rawls, and six children, Jesse P. Rawls, of Enterprise, Ala., Mrs. E. S. Norfleet and Mrs. Vivian Gating of Holland and Drs. J. E. and D. L. Rawls of Suffolk and Mrs. Ernest Williams of Smithfield, Va.; one brother, Joseph Rawls, of Enterprise, Ala. The deceased is also survived by hosts of friends and relatives in the county. The funeral services will be held Friday at 3 p. m., at Holy Neck Christian church. Mr. Rawls was a brave Confederate veteran, having served four years during the War of Secession in Co. K., 41st Virginia regiment, Mahone's brigade."

METHODIST PROTESTANTS AT ELON COLLEGE

The people of North Carolina are not slow to perceive the advantages of collegiate training, and the churches of the State have, wherever possible, provided for the training of their sons and daughters. The churches that have not been able to provide educational institutions of their own have been educating the generation coming on the stage of action in our university and state institutions belonging to other denominations. Since the denomination's colleges furnish the intellectual discipline and culture that is offered in the State institutions and in addition to all offered in the state institutions a strictly moral and religious atmosphere, many people prefer the denominational college to the state institution, hence the denominational colleges have a far larger total registration than the state institutions.

Among the distinctly religious colleges in this part of the country that appeal to the people at large because of the stress laid on its highly moral atmosphere and religious spirit is Elon College. Between one third and one half of its total registration comes from other denominations. Here we find between thirty and forty students from the Methodist Episcopal church, nearly the same number from the Methodist Protestant church; and then between fifteen and twenty come from the Baptist church, and about the same number from the Presbyterian church. Practically all the protestant denominations in the South are represented in its student body.

Those who especially concern us as Methodist Protestants are the Methodist Protestant students in Elon College. Of the thirty or more Methodist Protestant students in the College, nine are preparing for the ministry in the Methodist Protestant church, and one young lady is preparing for a foreign missionary whenever she is ready for the work and the Board can make use of her services.

Of the Methodist Protestant young men in Elon, one of the ministerial students, Mr. W. D. Loy, was a member of the graduating class this year. He was honored by his class by being made class president, and he also won the distinction of being one of the class orators on Commencement Day.

Another young man of great promise for the ministry in the Methodist Protestant church is a member of the Junior class this coming year. The other ministerial students referred to are members of the lower classes of the college.

We are pleased to state that, at their last meeting, the Board of Trustees elected Miss Mabel Harris, daughter of our esteemed brother, S. R. Harris, of Henderson, N. C., a member of the faculty of Elon College. This is the second Methodist Protestant on the faculty list of this institution. Miss Harris has spent much time in work and study preparing herself for thorough and efficient work as a teacher of music, and Elon considers herself especially fortunate in securing her valued services.

The future of the college here seems very bright indeed. The Board of Trustees decided that, in the future, much attention would be paid to the internal development of the College and to strengthening and building up each school and department. To this end a number of the members of the faculty will spend the summer in some of our leading universities. And, working along these lines, Elon College is destined to become a mightier force in making for Christian education and character development.

Reported by a M. P. at Elon College.

SUFFOLK LETTER

When I moved my family to Suffolk on the 7th of December, 1882, the year England entered Egypt, we boarded a few weeks in the family of Burwell Roberts, who married Miss Ora Harden of Graham, N. C. They were at that time, keeping boarders for the "Suffolk Collegiate Institute," then in charge of Prof. P. J. Kernodle. Many of the successful people of this section were educated at that institution. Mr. Z. A. Post was a teacher in the school and boarded at the Roberts house.

Miss Florence A. Harvey, a young woman who had graduated from Union Christian College, of which Rev. Dr. D. A. Long has been president for the last few years, and from Oberlin College Conservatory of Music, and who had been recommended to Prof. Kernodle by the late Dr. Holmes, was teacher of music in the Institute and boarded in the Roberts family and led the church choir. My wife and Miss Harvey became fast friends during those few boarding house weeks and that friendship continues to this day and has included our children.

Except two years of absence from Suffolk and teaching in Michigan, Miss Harvey has led our choir throughout the years of my pastorate in Suffolk. In addition to her choir work she has taught music during these years in the "Institute," "Suffolk College," and private classes. She has inspired the musical spirit of the community, increased the devotional music in the churches, and kept our own choir up to a high standard of efficiency, not only in the musical sense but, also, in the spiritual sense. Choir practice was opened with prayer and the devotional element was emphasized always. The best class of music was used and a high standard of excellence was maintained.

Yesterday closed her long service as our leader. She retires by her own choice to enter upon Civic and Social Service work in Chicago. Her choir presented her with a beautiful cameo pin and the church with a hundred dollars in token of their high regard for her worth and faithful services. She retires with the benediction of the church and love of the community.

Miss Lillian Hosier, one of her pupils and a member of the church, takes her place as choir leader for the summer and until a permanent leader can be employed. The music committee is already in correspondence with a view of supplying the place made vacant by Miss Harvey's retirement; but her place will be hard to fill, as she was identified with the Sunday school, the church, the Philathea class, the Missionary society, and the Ladies' Benevolent and Social Union and was active and useful in all of them.

The years glide on and changes come in spite of our needs and our loves. Hon. James A. Turrentine, of Burlington, N. C., is the only surviving charter member of this church. All the deacons who were here when I came have passed on to their reward. But we trust that all the changes which the passing years bring will carry us on toward the final reward.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Randolph are spending the summer at Boone, North Carolina. The good Dr. is teaching in the summer school of the Training Institute at that place.

Prof. A. L. Hook and wife are spending the month of June with relatives at Winchester, Virginia. Prof. Hook will go to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, July first to take special work bearing upon his duties at the College.

Miss Myrtle Duke, Petersburg, Virginia, was a visitor at the College Friday. She is to be in the number of new students to enroll in September.

Mrs. Carl Wheeler and daughter of Guilford College were callers on the Hill Thursday. Mrs. Wheeler is to move her family here about the first of July and put her children in college.

Information comes from the President's office that many applications are being received from new students, and daily requests are being received for information and catalogues. It is much hoped that the financial conditions of the country will soon revive and even a larger number of young men and women be permitted to begin a college career.

"Thirty-Six" is the name of an abridgement which C. B. Riddle has written to his book, "College Men without Money," and which he is sending to any address at cost, that being ten cents the copy. It is a booklet of striking paragraphs and thrilling messages, and a rare opportunity for those who desire to get a synopsis of a book which has had such a wide sale.

President Harper spoke at Christian Chapel Sunday at eleven o'clock and Bethel in the afternoon. These churches are in the Eastern North Carolina Conference.

Mr. M. E. Winston, who has had charge of the Publishing House since September last, has resigned. His place has not been filled at this time.

The prayer meetings held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock are unusually large. If some of the students were to call at this hour they would be reminded of the Christian Endeavor meetings which have always been so helpful and enjoyable during the college year.

Added improvements will soon be made at the Power House. Supt. A. A. Riddle and his force are making necessary improvement and changes needful for the coming year. It is most remarkable that the College has suffered a loss of only fifty-eight minutes for breakage in the light current in the past two years, and this was due to an extremely heavy thunder storm which did damage to other points in this section.

THE EXISTENCE OF SUPREME INTELLIGENCE

Even from the standpoint of the skeptic, a reasonable and candid search into the unknown, by the light of what is known, will guide the unbiased, intelligent reasoner in the direction of the truth. Yet it is evident that without a direct revelation of the plans and purposes of God, men could only approximate the truth, and arrive at indefinite conclusions.

But let us for the moment lay aside the Bible and look at things from the standpoint of reason alone.

He who can look into the sky with a telescope, or even with his natural eye alone, and see there the immensity of creation, its symmetry, beauty, order, harmony and diversity, and yet doubt that the Creator of these is vastly his superior both in wisdom and power, or who can suppose for a moment that such order came by chance, without a Creator, has so far lost or ignored the faculty of reason as to be properly considered what the Bible terms him, a fool (one who ignores or lacks reason): "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." However it happened, at least that much of the Bible is true, as every reasonable mind must conclude, for it is a self-evident truth that effects must be produced by competent causes.

All vegetable creation, even, speaks volumes of testimony on this subject. Intricate in construction, beautiful in form and texture, each speaks of a wisdom and skill above the human. How short-sighted the absurdity which boasts of human skill and ingenuity, and attributes to mere chance the regularity, uniformity and harmony of Nature, while denying that nature has an intelligent Law-giver. Some who deny the existence of an intelligent Creator claim that nature is the only God, and that from nature all forms of animal and vegetable developments proceeded without the ordering of intelligence, but governed, they say, by "the law of the survival of the fittest" in a process of evolution. This theory lacks proof, for all about us we see that the various creatures are of fixed natures which do not evolve to higher natures; and though those who hold to this theory have made repeated endeavors, they have never succeeded either in blending different species or in producing a new fixed variety. No instance is known where one kind has changed to another kind. Though there are among brutes some which bear a slight resemblance to men, the evidence is wholly lacking that man was evolved from such creatures.

Surely if unintelligent nature were the creator or evolver she would continue the process, and there would be no such thing as fixed species, since without intelligence nothing would arrive at fixed conditions. Evolution would be a fact today, and we would see about us fish becoming birds, and monkeys becoming men. This theory we conclude to be as contrary to human reason as to the Bible, when it claims that intelligent beings were created by a power lacking intelligence.

It is claimed that the original plants and animals, from which present fixed varieties came, became extinct before creation of man. Skeletons and fossils of animals and plants which do not now exist, found deep below the earth's surface, favor this theory. This view neither ignores nor rejects the Bible teaching that man was a direct and perfect creation, made in the mental and moral image of his Maker, and not a development by a process of evolution, probably common to the remainder of creation. This view would in no sense invalidate, but would support, the Bible's claim, that nature as it is today teaches that an intelligent Being ordered it, and was its first cause.

We claim, then, that the existence of an intelligent Creator is a clearly demonstrated truth, the proof of which lies all around us; for we are His workmanship, whose every power of mind and body speaks of a marvelous skill beyond our comprehension. And he is also the Designer and Creator of what we term nature. We claim that he ordered and established the laws of nature, the beauty and harmony of whose operation we see and admire. This supreme Creator whose wisdom and power so immeasurably transcend our own, we instinctively worship and adore.

Not only are we forced to the conclusion that there is a God, and that His power and wisdom are immeasurably beyond our own, but we are forced by reason to the conclusion that the grandest thing created is not superior to its Creator.

*"Ye curious minds, who roam abroad,
And trace creation's wonders o'er,
Confess the footsteps of your God,
And bow before Him, and adore,
"The heavens declare the glory, Lord;
In every star that wisdom shines;
But when our eyes behold Thy Word,
We read Thy name in fairer lines."*

S. S. AND C. E. CONVENTION
At Elon College, N. C.

We are planning to have the greatest Convention possible this year at Elon and we trust that many are planning to come. Let the pastors and superintendents of the various Sunday schools keep the matter before their churches, and in general, make it an urgent matter that your respective schools are well represented. We feel fortunate in getting the promise of several prominent Sunday school speakers for that time, and we don't want any of our young people to miss this treat and feast of good things in Sunday school work. Don't forget that the time is July, from the thirteenth to the fifteenth. Plan to come and then work your plan, and let's get together for the greatest Convention that we have ever witnessed in the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference.

H. S. SMITH,
Corresponding Secretary.

THE MAKING OF MEN

President Harper's new book, "The Making of Men," embodies addresses which he has given from time to time to young people who are in college. In the book he sets a high standard and presents the obligations of the student towards religion, and the enjoyment and help he should receive from its exercise.

The little volume is recommended for its sweetness of tone, its loyalty to the Head of the Church and the soundness of its position on the necessity of education to be pursued in the religious atmosphere. It should have a wide circulation among high school students as well as those attending college. And it would be profitable for their parents to give it a close reading, since they would better understand the viewpoint of the intelligent instructor of youth.

MARTYN SUMMERBELL.

—June 20-23 are commencement days this year at Palmer Institute-Starkey Seminary, Lakemont, N. Y. President Martyn Summerbell, D. D., delivers the sermon to the graduating class on Sunday 20th. The graduating exercises are Wednesday, 23rd.

—Time is only a very small fragment of eternity. Therefore he is a foolish man indeed whose plans have only to do with time, and end this side of eternity.

THE YOUNG MEN'S BARACA CLASS
First Christian Church, Greensboro, N. C.

This is an active and interested class of busy young men who with their teacher bring things to pass. Mr. S. A. Caveness, of the firm Foster & Caveness, wholesale dealers fruits and produce, is teacher and has been since the class was organized. He is deeply interested in the class and in the Sunday school and church work. The class has the largest enrollment in its history. It began with five members and has now an enrollment of forty-one. They enrolled one member last Sunday and one the Sunday before. They have added within the last few weeks twenty-nine members to their roll. The class will doubtless reach fifty in number during the next month. They gave a reception on April 5th at the church, nearly one hundred persons being present. The program consisted of devotional exercises, recitations and impromptu speeches. A three course luncheon was served. The above cut shows the teacher, Mr. S. A. Caveness; the superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. C. A. Hines; the pastor of the church, Rev. P. H. Fleming, and twenty-three members of the class.

This Department is under the direction of the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor General Convention. Frequent news items from Sunday Schools, Organized Classes, and C. E. Societies are desired. If you are interested in any of these or are about to organize, address the department's editor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, JUNE 20

A Prayer for the Tempted. Ps. 141: 1-10

(Temperance Lesson)

Golden Text: Keep me from the snares which they have laid for me. Ps. 141: 9.

David had lived a full life. First he was loved by the King and honored. Then the next thing he knew he was hunted, like a wild beast. His father-in-law had laid many snares for David. Thus tempted as he was and not at all free from danger, he went to God in prayer. God answered his prayer and kept him out of the snares of Saul.

If we earnestly seek God's aid and guidance during the great trials of life, we will find refuge and sweet relief. The answer of God is the best protection in time of temptation. It turns man's thoughts from the things of the world; it changes clouds into sunshine and drives away worry.

The physician in treating a case seeks to drive away the cause of the disease, and also to build the body back to normal. Many times it is necessary for him to use a strong drug. So it is with one evil to our nation. The saloon is a curse of many diseases and we have the great privilege of using a strong remedy—prayer. The Great Physician loves for us to prescribe and answers the prescription. "The realization of God's presence is the one sovereign remedy against temptation."—Fenelon.

"Temptations, when we meet them at first, are as the lion that roared upon Sampson; but if we overcome them, the next time we see them we shall find a nest of honey within them."—John Bunyan.

"Temperance is reason's girdle and passion's bridle, the strength of the soul, and the foundation of virtue."—Jeremy Taylor.

Next Sunday's lesson is a review lesson. Teachers don't fail to make special arrangements for this lesson.

C. E. TOPIC, JUNE 20

Christ's Call to the Young Women Today

Luke 10: 38-42

(Led by three young women)

Christ, being tired and needing rest and food for his soul, sought the home of Mary and Martha. It was a peculiar pleasure to Jesus to be in this home. He could have heart to heart talks and speak messages that would live forever. The truths have been imbedded deep in the souls of tender faithful mothers for these two thousand years. They are destined to live on and on.

Too, we find Jesus calling the woman at the well and making it possible for her to herald the glad tidings abroad. One of the greatest sermons He ever preached and one of the greatest lessons ever taught found utterance on this occasion. It was necessary for Christ to call this woman to further the Kingdom.

Women were not called in the days of Christ's dwelling in the flesh among men as much as they are called now. God constantly needs women for his work. To our minds women wield a greater influence for the nation than men. We write and have in mind the moulding of the lives by the mothers in the home and by the lady teachers in our public school system. We wonder if all the teachers of the young minds are teaching the lessons which Christ ask them to teach. Would the government of these United States of ours be safer if the teachers of our young Americans were teaching what Christ called them to teach?

Young women of the Christian Endeavor Union, will you let your girl friends go to the world while you are worshipping the living God? Will you not speak to them about the future of their happiness and reward? Christ is calling you today to go work in the vineyard—the harvest is ripe but the laborers are few.

—We congratulate our hustling brother, S. A. Caveness, teacher and leader of the Baraca forces in Greensboro First church. Bro. Caveness carries into Sunday school and church work the progressive and enthusiastic methods that have made him so useful a citizen and so successful a business man. The cut and record of the class elsewhere should be a source of pardonable pride to both church and school in Greensboro.

Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Department

This Department is edited by Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., assisted by other members of the Board, to whom all items of Missionary interest and matter for the Department should be sent.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE S. C. C. WOMAN'S MISSION BOARD

The Woman's Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention met at the residence of Pres. W. A. Harper, Elon College, N. C., May 28th, 1915, at 10 o'clock a. m. The meeting was opened with devotional services led by Mrs. Rowland, who read a selection from II Sam., 6, and the 24th Ps. The following members of the Board were present: Mrs. W. T. Walters, Winchester, Va.; Mrs. W. A. Harper, Elon College N. C.; Mrs. W. H. Carroll, Burlington, N. C.; and Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va. Messages were read from the absent members, expressing their regrets at not being present. The minutes of the W. M. Convention held at Portsmouth were read and approved. The committee to form plans for life membership in the S. C. C. Woman's Missionary Convention, Mrs. W. A. Harper and Mrs. J. W. Patton, reported that they had done the necessary work, fixed the fee at $10.00 and distributed literature among the various societies. It was moved that the taking of memberships by societies and individuals be emphasized.

Mrs. J. J. Lincoln, Supt. of Literature and Mite Boxes, made a report of the work in her department showing that there had been an increase in literature distributed.

Mrs. L. F. Johnson, Supt. of Cradle Roll department, made her report which was adopted.

Mrs. W. A. Harper read her report as Corresponding Secretary, and same was approved.

Miss Bettie Stephenson sent in her resignation as Vice-President, because of her health not being such as to allow her to engage actively in the work. With reluctance this was accepted and the Board voted to express the sympathy of the members to her and a wish for her full restoration to health.

Mrs. A. T. Banks, of Henderson, was elected to succeed Miss Stephenson.

Mrs. W. T. Walters, Treasurer, read her report, which has already been published.

Adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION

It was voted to ask all societies to elect their officers at their September meeting.

Moved and carried that the Secretary of the annual W. M. Conference be instructed to furnish a copy of the proceedings of the W. M. Conference, together with a list of the officers of the local societies to the Secretary of the Conference, to be printed in the annual.

In order to assist the Treasurer in her work, it was voted to urge societies to report even dollars in making quarterly reports.

It was moved and carried to appoint a committee, with Mrs. Rowland as chairman, to form plans for an organization for boys. The other members of the committee were Mrs. W. T. Leathers and Mrs. M. L. Bryant.

The Board voted that the conference Superintendent of Literature enclose a copy of the Standard of Excellence to each society at the close of the conference year and ask that the society designate the number of points made during the year.

Mrs. Harper was appointed a committee to have copies of the Standards made in large letters to be displayed in the societies' rooms.

It was voted that a committee be appointed to prepare a missionary program to be used in our churches on Woman's Mission Day—1st Sunday in August. Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Denison, and Mrs. J. J. Lincoln were appointed as the committee.

It was voted to insist that our women make prayer lists containing the names of our missionaries and the members of our Mission Boards and that our mission cause be remembered daily in prayer. Prayer was then offered by all present for the work.

It was voted that the Board commit itself to the policy of securing a Mission Secretary for this Board, whose duty it shall be to organize societies, increase missionary interest and to be business manager of a proposed missionary magazine, and that a committee of two be appointed to secure such person subject to the approval of the Board. Mrs. Harper and Mrs. Carroll were appointed.

The Board then adjourned with prayer, led by Dr. Atkinson.

WOMAN'S BOARD MEETING

As appears from the account of the proceedings in this issue the S. C. C. Woman's Mission Board met, as appointed at Elon College on May 28. Reports all showed that progress had been made in every line of work. The treasurer's report showed an increase of over $250 over last year's report. This is not what we should or could have given to the work, but it shows a healthy growth. As yet the women in

Dear Friends:

I beg to submit for your careful inspection our weekly report, and express grateful thanks to every one who helped to make it as good as it is; and only wish that more had helped and made it better. We like to make good reports. I am sure every one likes to read good reports. Did you ever stop to consider how many faces you would brighten and how many hearts you would cheer, and the great good you would do by sending a check to the orphanage? Study it over and make some calculations. You will be surprised at the results. Try it.

Some of our Sunday school officials wait two or months to send in their monthly offerings. Of course we are glad to receive money any time and in any amounts, but the regular systematic giving is more helpful in every way. A long list of contributors each week encourages others to give; and then we need the money so badly these days that it hurts us to wait; and not only does it hurt us, but it hurts those who are looking to us. Some say they do this to save postage. They were never more mistaken. If we just had the money to pay our bills each month, how much postage would be saved! If the postage is all, we shall be glad to furnish that in order to get the offering. Never mind about the postage; let the offering come along each month, we need it. Thank you.

Durham, N. C., June 8, 1915.
Dear Uncle Jim: Our school closed the 3rd, and I am having my vacation now. My birthday was the 7th of June—I was ten years old. I was sick yesterday and today, but was able to get up about half past eleven o'clock. Hope the children at orphanage are well. I was in the fourth grade this year, and passed to A fifth, and was on the honor roll last month. I will enclose 30 cents for April, Many and June.

Lovingly

Vester Muhlolland.

Trust you may have a very pleasant vacation. Glad you did so well in school. You will soon be ready for college.

Clayton, N. C., June 9, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim: Here I come with my dues for June. I am well and hope you and the cousins are well. I trust you and your large family are enjoying the summer as well as I am. I have got to be such a man mother puts me on the ground and I play in the sand; and you know I enjoy it. Daddy has been to Louisburg and spent a few days with his sister, and returned Monday. I will close for this time, with love.

Ashley B. Breedlove.

We are very glad for your letter and dime. Glad to know you are having such a good time playing.

Sunbury, N. C., June 5, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim: Please forgive me for not writing every month. I did not have the money until grandpa paid me 25c for helping him set tobacco, and Uncle Sam gave me 15c for raking for him to plant stock peas. So I am going to divide with your children. I have two brothers and three sisters that I must not forget. They are coming to see us soon as the Virginia schools are out, and I have got to get busy and make some more money to give them a present when they come, and treat them to ice cream if it ever gets warm enough so we can enjoy it. Hope you are all well and happy, with love and best wishes from your little friend,

John M. Alphin.

Thank you for your liberal share of your earnings. Trust you may have a good time with your little brothers and sisters. I think you can enjoy the ice cream now. Our children did last Saturday evening.

some of our conferences have not caught a glimpse of the joy and possibilities of uniting our efforts in behalf of world evangelization.

It is hoped that the Presidents of all societies will see to it that the things emphasized in the Board's proceedings are carried out. We can but fail if the women do not back us in our efforts. There are many things planned which if carried out will deepen missionary interest and activity. Have the account of the meeting read before your society and endeavor to carry out the plans.

At present, no great effort has been made to hold and train our boys in missionary service. A committee was appointed to devise plans for a distinctive organization for them.

It is purposed to have a program of Woman's Mission Day to be used in all our churches on yourself to help make that a success.

Perhaps the most important thing taken under consideration was the securing of a woman to act as Mission Secretary for the Board and the looking to the establishment of a Woman's Missionary Magazine. If the right person can be secured, we believe that both can be an assured success. Let us all be much in prayer that we may be divinely led in this work. The women in our churches need to be appealed to and the opportunity given of engaging in organized, co-operative mission work. As it is, they are not being reached as they should be. With a woman, consecrated and set apart to the work, just as a missionary to her field, we believe that a great work can be accomplished. We need a missionary to work among ourselves. Where is the person.

DELMARVIA CONFERENCE

The Delmarvia Conference convened in annual session Saturday, May 29th, with the People's Christian church of Dover, Delaware, at 10 a. m. The Conference was opened with devotional services conducted by Rev. James H. Lightbourne of Ansonia, Ohio. The following officers were elected: President, M. W. Butler; Vice President, Prof. Wesley Cobb; Secretary, Mr. Howard E. Lynch; Treasurer, Mr. William J. Benson. The forenoon was occupied, after the organization, with church reports, the report on Moral Reform and miscellaneous business. The afternoon session was opened with devotional services conducted by Rev. Wilson C. Moore, of Dover, Del. The following committees reported: Education, Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, chairman; Home Missions, Dr. J. H. Wilson, chairman; Foreign Missions, Rev. R. S. Stephens, chairman; Sunday schools, Hon. J. B. Hutton, chairman; also the Conference Missionary, Rev. R. S. Stephens, reported. Some of these reports provoked interesting discussion, and they were all very fine. Rev. Geo. Wolfe, chairman of the committee on Moral Reform had to leave after making his report in the forenoon, because of his physical condition. Brother Wolfe has been a great sufferer for several years of some obscure ailment which has seemed to baffle the best specialists. He is a cultured and refined young man, of deep piety, and gifts as a preacher, and his friends are earnestly remembering him in their prayers. Rev. J. W. Barrett of our Baltimore church was present a few hours during this session and made interesting report of his work. He made a favorable impression on the body. The evening session was opened with devotional services by Rev. E. C. Graham of Clayton, Del. The following committees made reports: Publications, Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, chairman; Conference Statistics, Mr. H. E. Lynch, chairman; Examinations, Rev. A. W. Lightbourne, chairman; Executive, M. W. Butler, chairman.

The services Sunday morning were introduced with a Love Feast conducted by brother John R. McGonigal. Rev. Omer S. Thomas,

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Mission Secretary of Dayton, O., was expected to preach at 10:30 a. m., but in consequence of some mistake in train connection did not reach there until noon. The writer gave a short talk, instead, after which Rev. Wilson C. Moore, Rev. James Scott Hardeastle, and Rev. James H. Lightbourne were ordained as elders. The Ordaining Presbytery consisted of Rev. A. W. Lightbourne, D. D., Rev. E. C. Graham and M. W. Butler. In the afternoon the ministers rode out to Wyoming, one of our conference missions, where Secretary Thomes preached a most impressive sermon. The conference work was closed at evening, following which a platform service was held of an evangelistic character, participated in by Rev. Omer S. Thomes, Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle and the writer. There was one profession of faith. On Monday the Executive Committee, in company with the Mission Secretary, Rev. O. S. Thomas, the Conference Secretary and a Special Committee appointed by the Conference went to Fredrica to investigate a proposition for a church property. The writer was impressed that the committee was pleased with the situation. It is one of the wealthiest town, per capita, I am told, on the Atlantic coast, of about 1000 population and only one church which cannot supply the needs of the people. A church there would mean much to our cause.

Very truly,

For Both Men and Women
Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, too entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me most genuinely Christian." Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and, with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists; men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.

The lowest rates in the South, only $131 to $191 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address

OUR DEAD

Pierce

Edgar Theophilus Pierce was born September 7, 1836, in Spottsylvania co., Va., and departed this life at his home in Halifax co., Va., May, 30, 1915; aged 78 years, 8 mos, and 23 days. He was married to Martha Esther Farmer of Halifax co. in March 1869. To this union were born two sons, Archie R., now of Richmond William J., New River, and one daughter, Mrs. D. J. Sipe, all of whom with the bereaved wife, survive him. In early manhood he united with Pleasant Grove church and remained a member thereof until death. He was a member of Co. F, 38th Virginia regiment, Pickett's Division, Armistead's Brigade, in the Civil War. He was twice wounded, and was captured at Five Forks on Lee's retreat to Appomattox and was a prisoner at Fortress Monroe when the war closed. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and rose to the Commandery in that ancient and honorable order. Bro. Pierce had a certain refined and gentle manner, a magnanimous and stalwart dignity, a quiet reserve and complacency that made him master of himself and circumstances. He was a man of gentle breeding, of a refined and courteous manner, a calm and Christ like character. He was a benefit, a blessing, a benediction to his home and community. The burial services were conducted by the writer at Pleasant Grove church and the interment was in the church cemetery there. The floral designs were numerous and appropriate. The sorrowing ones have our sympathy.

J. O. ATKINSON.

Hedgebeth

At the age of 78 years, Miss Nancy Hedgebeth departed this life. She leaves to mourn her loss one brother. She suffered much, being afflicted from child hood. She joined Hebron Christian church in 1864. When the church was moved to Holland she retained her membership in it. She was faithful to her church vows, so far as she was able to attend and do for the church. Her home was with Claud Holland, near Carrsville, Va. The services were conducted by the writer. A good soul has gone to rest.

Whitfield

R. E. Whitfield died April 9, 1915, in the Burton Hospital, Newport News, Va. He was 42 years old and single. He leaves one sister and four brothers to mourn their loss. Services conducted by the writer.

Council

Jessie Wood Council, infant son of J. E. and Mary Eliza Council, died April 20, 1915. Jesus only can speak a lasting word of peace to these sore hearts. Services by the writer. Interment in family burying lot.

West

William Thomas West, 18 months old, died May 21, 1915. Son of H. C. and Iva V. West. Services by the writer. May the Lord comfort these sore bereaved hearts. Some day we will understand.

Duke

March 1st, 1915, Johnnie Baxton Duke, at age of 2 years, departed this life. He was a great sufferer for many weeks. May these dear parents be comforted, when they remember that baby with Jesus. Services conducted by the writer.

B. F. BLACK.

Goswick

M. G. Goswick, of Neuse, N. C., son of Mr. Charles Goswick and wife, died March 26, 1915; aged 16 years, 10 months and 8 days. He was a nice gentlemanly boy, and had many friends. He leaves a father and mother, with brothers and sisters to mourn their loss. He was buried at Oak Level.

W. G. CLEMENTS.

Holden

Mamie Balard Holden died June 4, 1915; the darling little baby of J. J. Holden and wife of Youngsville. She was 3 months and 11 days old. She was laid by the side of two others of Brother Holden's little children in Oak Level cemetery. May God bless all the family.

Armageddon

History repeats itself many times over. The reports now tell us that the Turks in Palestine are concentrating at Lijjun, which now occupies the site of Megiddo referred to in II King's 9:27; 23:29, etc. This on the plain of Esdraelon, near Mount Carmel. Time and time through history this has been a field of blood and battle, on which account it is referred to Rev. 16:16 as "the scene of the final battle between God and the powers of darkness." The modern form is Armageddon. Are the armies of right and wrong marshalling for a final conflict? The curious may speculate.

Gleams of Light

The following facts may interest the curious and inspire the knowing: The Bible has 66 books, 1189 chapters, 31,173 verses, 773,692 words, 3,586,489 letters. The middle verse is Psalms 118:9; the shortest verse is John 11:35; the longest verse is Esther 8:9 and every verse of the 136th Psalm ends alike. The two chapters exactly alike are II King's 19 and Isaiah 37. Ezra 7:21 has all the letters of the alphabet except J. The most graphic and thrilling chapter is Acts 26, and the most comforting chapter John 14. "Lord" occurs in the Bible 1855 times. Its gleams of golden light shine into millions of human hearts.

God's Plan

God permits much that He does not order; and often overrules the blunders of His children both to their good and to His glory. Fanny Crosby, the world famous hymn-writer, gave this to the printer just before her death recently: "In the case of my own loss of sight, I can see how the Lord permitted it. He didn't order it; He permitted it. You know how it happened when I was about six years old. I caught a cold in my eyes, and in the absence of our family physician my mother took me to another near by home, who, as it afterward turned out, had no right to be practicing. He ordered poulticing, his instructions were followed, and my sight was totally destroyed. Now the Lord didn't order that. The man broke a law of nature. Instead of regarding it as an affliction, I have always thought of it as one of the greatest blessings ever conferred on me, for it carried out God's plan." Out of our disappointments, sorrows, afflictions, come many of the sweetest joys and noblest virtues: For "whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth."

Rule G

In an attempt to show the development of transportation facilities "from Adam's day to ours," they had a Transportation Parade the other day at the Panama Exposition out in San Francisco. In the railroad section a "water wagon" evoked great approval from thronging spectators. On the water wagon, with the invitation "get on," Rule G was quoted, which rule applies now, we are advised, in every railway train in this country and reads as follows: "The use of intoxicants by employes while on duty is prohibited. Their use, or the frequenting of places where they are sold, is sufficient cause for dismissal." Here is the reason given for adopting Rule G: "Because two fingers of red liquor can turn a ten-million dollar safety block-signal into a ten-million dollar waste of money." Economy, Ethics, Sociology, Physiology and Theology have all weighed John Barleycorn in the balances and he has been found wanting. Not many years and he will be a renegade and an outlaw in all quarters of the earth.

Very Busy

All are very busy now (save those who don't count.) Ours is a busy time in which it is easier to be busy than to be idle. The spirit of steam and electricity is in men, and those who have the hardest and dullest time are the idle. This is why the world moves forward at such a rate. God has always used the busy to carry on His work. There was no busier man than the Christ who under the constraint of labor said: "I must be about my Father's business." Some writer calls attention to other busy men who were commissioned to carry forward the Father's work. Moses was busy with his flocks at Horeb. Gideon was busy threshing wheat. Saul was busy searching for his father's lost beasts. David was busy caring for his father's sheep. Elisha was busy ploughing oxen. Amos was busy following the flock. Nehemiah was busy bearing the king's wine cup. Peter and Andrew were busy casting their nets; James and John mending their nets. Matthew was busy collecting customs. Saul was busy persecuting friends of Jesus. In fact we have no record of where God ever called an idler into His service. He prefers the brain, brawn, heart, soul of the very busy. "Be not slothful," said Paul.

The Vital Thing

Dr. William T. Grenfell, one of the first exponents of modern Christianity, and the man who, by teaching and practice, has made the bleak coasts of Labrador famous by showing and telling its natives of the love and power of Christ relates a story of his conversion that is wholesome and vital. He was a medical student in London, unregenerate and indifferent to Christianity. He went one night to hear Evangelist Dwight L. Moody and yielded himself to that persuasive preacher's invitation to accept Christ as his personal Savior. Grenfell went forth to a life whose history is now known in many lands. Fourteen years after his conversion he called on Moody in Boston. "He did not know me from Adam," the missionary relates. "I realized my debt to him, and wanted just to say 'Thank you.' He listened to what I had to say. Then, just as one real ordinary man to another, treating religion as the Lord's business should be, as naturally as we treat calomel or ipecac or anything else which is of use to accomplish things, Moody said, 'Good! What have you been doing since?' That is the vital thing. Unless your religion has made you do things that you didn't do before, and differently, it is the wrong sort. It is well enough to have faith, hope and love, but Christianity is a religion of activity. 'Show me your faith without your work and I will show you my faith by my works.'"

Wings of the Wind

The progressive Japanese are the first to employ the aeroplane for evangelistic services. In a recent mission campaign in Osaka an aviator soared over the city and scattered religious leaflets which, says a dispatch, "were greedily seized and read by the people." The special meeting, about which the leaflets told, were addressed by distinguished and consecrated Christian workers, and a multitude was present to hear them. "Who maketh the clouds his chariot; who walketh upon the wings of the wind; who maketh his angels spirits; his ministers a flaming fire." (Psa. 104:3-4.)

He Never Fails

Dr. J. H. Jowett, who came from England to the Great Fifth Avenue church, New York two years ago has been granted a three months absence to go back to England to carry such spiritual comfort as he may to that distressed people. In bidding farewell to a tremendous New York audience he gave this testimony: "Jesus has never betrayed my trust in Him. Jesus has never failed me in time of need. Jesus has at all times answered my call for rest and for strength in Him. I want this to be my testimony, this last Sunday afternoon I stand in my pulpit, before sailing for England. Glory to His name." Likewise did an inspired writer speak of "A treasure in the heavens that faileth not." (Luke 12:33.)

The Little One's Life

The New York State Health Department, according to a report recently made, by the use of charts, leaflets and lectures, saved last year the lives of one thousand, four hundred and fifty-three infants under one year of age. Under the Department's educational campaign the death rate for babies under one year of age in that State decreased from one hundred and thirty-seven per thousand births to one hundred and twelve per thousand. But with these improved conditions one infant in every nine in New York State dies in its first year. As science and knowledge and sanitation increase the rate will still further decrease, for "It is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish." (Matt. 18:14.)

THE MISSIONARY ATMOSPHERE

It is glorious to breathe—is this atmosphere charged with the ozone of missions. It is indefinable, but is inspiring, sweet, sacred, holy and wholesome. The Sunday before Memorial Temple, Norfolk, was to take its annual missionary offering this year the writer was invited to preach in that church on missions.

The Temple has been made sacred by its marvelous contributions to and vital interest in missions. The congregation there is consecrated to missions. One need not be surprised then that preaching on missions was not only not difficult, but was easy and delightful. The congregation spoke in silent but unmistakable terms to the preacher, and he understood. Time was no element and the preacher could have spoken an hour as readily and easily and willingly as he spoke half that time. The easiest and most illuminating theme that one can speak on is missions, provided your audience is composed of missionary minds, and the audience-room is filled with the missionary atmosphere.

Our conviction is that the reason for this is not far to seek. The most unselfish work a people or a church can undertake is that of foreign missions. And the most unselfish theme that can engage the mind is missions. Is it not so?

When one gives to one's local church there may be in it a tinge of self-interest. The gift may be in order to satisfy a feeling of pardonable church-pride. One gives that one's church may be personally more comfortable or more luxurious than another's.

If one gives to an orphanage one may feel that some day one's own children may be orphans, and may need another's help.

If one gives to education one may reason that in a better educational system one's own intellectual and ethical life may be higher and more agreeable.

And so of the charities and benevolences about us. It is not difficult to trace the personal if not the selfish element. But when the gift is for foreign missions it then becomes a most difficult if not an impossible task to trace any selfish tinge entering into the act of giving. When the individual lays his dollar down for foreign missions he not only never expects to see that dollar again; but in this world he never expects to see any visible returns for that dollar. It is going to a land where he has never been and probably never will go; to benefit a people different in color, character and conception from himself, and to help a nation or a race that is incapable of helping him or in any wise reciprocating his favor. He never even expects to hear so much as "Thank you," for his gift, unless it be courteous gratitude of the preacher at the time of the offering. When one gives to missions one gives expecting absolutely nothing, no reciprocal favor, no social advantage, no reward of pride, in return. It is the one wholly unselfish offering of all our energy and effort.

Does not this account for the joy and the glory of the missionary atmosphere? And does not this explain, to a degree, the progress and the power of churches whose constant endeavor is for missions, and whose largest gifts are to missions? They have made the unselfish sacrifice in their Master's name, and God has given them a power they had never reckoned with, and a prestige they had not anticipated? The indefinable missionary atmosphere is that in which God silently and sweetly speaks to the soul, because unselfishness is there, sacrifice is there, sacredness and real consecration are there.

Christian Temple have, the total will be $50,000, its proper growth and power, it must begin to breathe the missionary atmosphere, create within its folds and flocks the missionary spirit.

Two Sundays ago Memorial Temple, Norfolk, made an offering of more than a thousand dollars for missions. There are twenty other churches within the bounds of the Southern Convention who are as able, financially, to do this thing as the Temple, many of them far more able. That would mean, if these churches were to follow this lead, $20,000 annually for foreign missions. Then there are twenty other churches half as able, financially, as Memorial Temple. That would mean, the lead being followed, and additional $10,000, annually. Then there are forty others half as wealthy, financially, as the last mentioned twenty. Their contribution, on the same basis, would mean an additional $10,000. And then there are eighty churches whose combined wealth would total that of the forty above mentioned. These giving as they are able and as God has prospered them would make an additional $10,000.

The reader may think the editor is dealing in dreams and figures and fancies to fill space with. He was never more earnest, never more sincere in his estimate and calculation than he is here and now.

Take this from his pen, his head and his heart: The editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN believes, calculates and estimates that the membership of the churches of the seven Conferences composing the Southern Christian Convention can give annually $50,000 to foreign missions, and that no person or enterprise of the church would suffer, but all would be sustained in the effort. The selfsame editor believes, estimates and calculates that if all our membership will give as liberally, in proportion to means, as the members of Memorial Christian Temple have, the total will be 50,000. And the identical and selfsame editor believes, estimates and calculates that our churches will come to this, and will have to come to it before we enjoy the growth, progress and power God has purposed and planned for us to enjoy. God can't prosper a non-missionary people and keep His word.

WHEN THE MAN ARRIVES

This personal from the pen of Editor J. P. Barrett, D. D., in the Herald of Gospel Liberty, attracts and interests us: "Rev. J. G. Bishop, D. D., who was last November appointed special solicitor for our Mission Board, is now in his eighty-second year, and still he is young enough to do good work, for since his appointment as special solicitor, he has secured for missions, $2,250.00" Our understanding is that Dr. Bishop has not given his full time to this work, and has wrought out his task rather incidentally and in love of the labor.

Of course the money has come as this great heart has unfolded its burden and its treasure to the people. Money for missions always comes under such provocation. In proportion as we get missionary men we get missionary money. The more any heart is burdened with the cause of missions the more is somebody's too weighty purse unburdened to the call of missions. The trouble with us is that our hearts are too light, and purses are too heavy, to do the missionary work allotted to us.

Our Southern Convention yet suffers the sad lack of a missionary man who has not arrived. When and where, beloved in the Lord, shall we find him? Till he comes the deep night overshadows us, and we grope our way in the dull darkness.

DESERVED TRIBUTE

The great and good John Ruskin who brought unnumbered thousands into his debt by his rich and unselfish life, gave this testimony: "Whatever I have done in life has simply been due to the fact that when I was a child my mother daily read with me a part of the Bible, and daily made me learn a part of it by heart." Are there many mothers among SUN readers to whom their sons, in the years to come, can pay this beautiful and worthy tribute?

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Kaiser William is at the front and in supreme command of his forces in the field, reports tell us. No monarch seems quite so determined and desperate as William.

—Rev. J. F. Morgan, Graham, enjoyed a ten days' evangelistic campaign with Hillsboro St. Church, Raleigh, last week and week before. There were twenty or more confessions and eleven accessions to the church at the close of the meeting.

—At Pontarlier, France, June 7 there was a public burning of one hundred tons of absinthe (whiskey), the pernicious beverage being prohibited, both as to manufacture and sale, throughout France in the early days of the present war.

—Bro. Pastor: Has your church had "Christian Education Day" as decided upon by the last session of the Southern Convention and later ratified by the conferences? If not, why not? It is worth while. There is no more worthy or meritorious topic than that of Christian Education.

—Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., has had three years of an exceedingly busy and fruitful pastorate with Memorial Christian Temple, Norfolk. His record printed elsewhere, is one that would carry pardonable pride to any pastor. We congratulate both pastor and people on their great and good work at Memorial.

—Rev. J. V. Knight is assisting Rev. J. F. Morgan in a meeting at New Providence, Graham, this week. Bro. Knight assisted Pastor Shelton Smith in a gracious revival at Palm St., Greensboro, last week. There were upwards of 75 confessions of faith in Christ and the church was wonderfully revived.

—We are advised by competent, capable and disinterested critics that Pres. W. A. Harper delivered an able address, and in a most pleasing manner, at Wake Chapel last Sunday, it being the occasion in that church for Christian Education Day, as decided upon for all our churches by the last session of the Southern Christian Convention.

—We gratefully acknowledge receipt of the following: "Mr. and Mrs. William David Neville request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Lessie, to Mr. James Blaine Scarborough, Wednesday evening June 30 at 8:30 o'clock, Christian church, Chapel Hill, N. C." Miss Lessie made many friends while a student in Elon College, and is worthy of all. We wish her all happiness. Mr. Scarborough, a Professor in the A. & M. College, West Raleigh, is to be congratulated.

—Leo M. Frank of Atlanta, four times sentenced to the electric chair, and seven times tried in the various courts for the murder of Mary Phagan in a pencil factory at Atlanta in April, 1913, had his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Slaton, of Georgia, Monday a. m. Tens of thousands of letters and telegrams and petitions received by the Governor prove that our civilization regards human life as sweet and sacred and that capital punishment, though not abolished, is not easy and ready as it once was. Whether this argues that the world is growing better or worse let the philosophers decide.

—So encouraging have been the letters received by our friend and brother, C. B. Riddle about his book, College Men without Money, that he decided to rewrite it and send it out at cost. The manuscript is now in the hands of the printers and will appear this week from our Publishing House in a twenty-four page booklet, 6x9 in size, bearing the likeness and autograph of the author, bound in deckled edge paper and handsomely made up. Each article in Part 1 of College Men without Money has been rewritten in a synopsis of about 100 words, made striking and forceful, and these make the body of the new book, which the author has seen fit to call "Thirty-Six"—that being the number of lives represented in it. "To that unlimited number of ambitious young men and women who are search of education's Holy Grail with meagre means," are the words of the dedication. The price is ten cents, that being the cost of the making and mailing. SUN readers should avail themselves of this opportunity. Address all requests for copies to Mr. Riddle, at Elon College.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The "Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christian Church," to be held at Virginia Beach July 19th-25th of this summer deserves the liberal patronage and financial support of the leading people in the Southern Christian Convention. I specify the "Southern Convention" because its membership is nearer the Beach than other parts of the church.

All progressive denominations in these times have places for similar meetings for the training of Christian workers and they are attended by large numbers of interested students, and supported by liberal contributions from some who attend and others who do not attend.

The following persons ought to attend and liberal people ought to make it possible for them to attend: Ministers, Sunday school superintendents and assistants, Sunday school teachers, leaders in Christian Endeavor work, and church officials. It would be a simple and gracious kindness on the part of congregations and Sunday schools to provide the expenses for their pastors and superintendents to attend; and, especially where they are not able to bear the expenses of attendance. There are ministers who would profit by the Chautauqua and would be glad to go, if they had the means. It seems to me that if I were a layman and had a good business, it would give me pleasure to hand my pastor $25.00 or more, if at a distance, and say to him: "Go and get all the good you can out of the Chautauqua, and come back to us fuller and stronger for your work." I have sometimes wished myself a prosperous layman so I could do a few things for example in the Kingdom. There are so many people who "have eyes and see not, and ears and hear not." Many good laymen will not see what I am writing, and will not heed the suggestion if they do. There are so many easy ways to improve the spirit and work of the church by the expenditure of money in the right direction.

People in the church who do not attend Sunday school could compensate in some measure for this gross neglect of duty by paying the expenses of the superintendent to the Chautauqua. There will be lectures, addresses, and demonstrations in all grades and in all departments of Sunday school work in the great institution which we call the "Sunday school". If we are to keep abreast of the progress in this field our leaders must be students of tested methods which have proven successful.

Ministers and superintendents should not wait help if able to go at their own charges. Of course I do not ask you to go for the pleasure of going, but for the profit of going to the Kingdom of God. Let the motives for going be as good as the cause itself.

But there is a class of young people and college students who will go somewhere for a summer outing at their own expense, and chiefly for recreation. To such a young people I would say: "Go the Chautauqua at Virginia Beach for two reasons—(1) It is good as any other place for an outing. (2) Every person who attends will help the Chautauqua. Come for your own enjoyment and come to swell the numbers and thereby add to the interest and the receipts. Not only come yourself, but bring a friend."

Dr. Denison has written again and again of the eminent men and women who have been engaged to conduct classes, deliver courses of lectures, and great addresses, and hence I am urging attendance on the part of those who are leaders in the work, and ministers of the church dear to our hearts.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Professor E. O. Randolph and family are spending the summer here, residing at the residence of Dr. E. E. Randolph, who is teaching at Boone, N. C.

Dr. Lawrence left last week for the mountains. The most of his time will be spent at Boone. However, the good Dr. has mapped out several places to which he expects to tramp in regaining his health.

Dr. Amick and wife left Monday for the University at Virginia. Dr. Amick goes to continue his study begun at that place last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Waynick of Greensboro, spent the week end with Dr. and Mrs. Ware. Dr. Ware is to leave us some time in July and locate in the State of Georgia.

President and Mrs. Harper spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Wake county. President Harper spoke at Wake Chapel at the eleven o'clock hour, and at Christian Light that afternoon.

Mr. D. Humble, the efficient Curator of the College buildings, accompanied by his wife, spent last week at his home a few miles east of the college.

Mrs. Sadie Jones spent Saturday and Sunday at the bedside her sick sister in Wake county.

Among those who have come this way the past week we note the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeil, and Daughter, Miss Frankie, of Nederland, Texas, Mr. Chas. N. White-lock of Greensboro. Mr. O. D. Poysthress of Chapel Hill, Mr. Wiggins of Raleigh, Mr. Lewallen of Asheboro, and Mr. C. C. Johnson of Siler City. There are perhaps others whose names we did not learn.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Riddle, Mrs. Zeb Atkinson and son, Hollis, spent the week end with friends near Raleigh.

Dr. G. E. Jordan, Gibsonville, N. C., for many years a practicing physician in Elon's student body, died suddenly Sunday. He was buried at Shallow Ford Monday. The funeral procession was more than a mile long.

Rev. Victor Lightbourne occupied the College pulpit Sunday and preached a most excellent sermon. His message was heard with gladness.

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the North Carolina and Virginia Conference convenes at this place July 13-15. We trust many will attend and make this place, which is so suitable for such, the scene of a real Christian workers' conference for the time.

The outlook for the year 1915-16, from advices received from the President's office, continues bright. Every mail brings encouragement from students and friends. Surely no institution ever had so many persons in so many places so vitally interested in its growth and welfare.

DURHAM LETTER

Since my last letter to THE SUN we have received eight members into the church, all on profession of faith, and baptized seven of these by immersion.

We have planned to begin revival services 2nd Sunday in June and continue for two weeks. We are expecting Bro. Neil Rowland of Texas, to assist us. We are holding cottage prayer meetings preparatory to the revival. Every great revival is preceded by prayer. A committee of thirteen couples has been appointed to visit every home represented in the church before the revival begins. Our church members need to become better acquainted with each other and it is believe that by visiting one another in their homes that it will be the means of bringing about a spirit of Christian love and fellowship and thus be in a position to render a more efficient service for the church and for the salvation of lost souls.

On last Wednesday evening Rev. W. D. Harward pastor of the Christian church at Newport News, Va., was with us and conducted the prayer services. He gave us a very helpful talk on the subject, "Jesus Christ, the Lesson and the Teacher." Our people appreciated Bro. Harward's talk and we all would be glad for him to visit us again.

Our Durham work, I am happy to say, is encouraging. Our conditions, as I see them are better. We are making an effort to get the work more thoroughly organized. It is the general opinion among the members that the spiritual condition is improving. We have a number of members who are true and faithful while we have a number of others who are not faithful, but who are negligent of their Christian duty. So far as we can judge they are dead branches, and if the tree cannot be properly pruned now it will be when our Master shall return.

OAK LEVEL

Yesterday was home-coming day at this church. It was a great day. The weather was ideal. The congregation was large. The music was soul stirring. The questions of Home Missions, Foreign, Sunday school and Education were all considered by the various speakers. The speakers of the occasion were Hon. Ben T. Holden of Louisburg; Prof. Geo. T. Whitaker of Franklin county; Paul Winstone of Franklinton, R. F. D., and W. H. Hudson of Youngsville. I heard all the speeches highly complimented. It was a day of mingling in religious thought and social conversation. One lady told me she had not been in Oak Level in about 27 years. She said it was a great pleasure to her. When dinner was over, and all were satisfied, many baskets full of fragments were gathered up.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Virginia Beach, July 19-25.

These days make one think of the splendid opportunity for a plunge in the ocean that awaits all those who come to Virginia Beach during the season of our Seaside School of Methods. This summer conference of the Christians aims to give a broadened vision of Christian life and service. It is of great value to young people to secure training for practical and efficient service in the home church. Each one who comes will be inspired to more consecrated Christian living. The program includes education, inspiration, recreation.

Education: Classes and lectures on Elementary Secondary, Adult Sunday school work, Evangelism, Christian Endeavor, the Ministry, Missions, Church Efficiency, Christian leadership, etc.

Inspiration: Morning Bible messages, Vespers by the ocean side, sermons. Some of the very best known men of our church will be speakers.

Lectures: Religious lectures on the most vital themes of the day in Christian and church life. Chautauqua lectures by strong men. Hon. William Jennings Bryan will be one of the speakers. The Patterson Jubilee singers of Buffalo, N. Y., will furnish an evening of songs and readings.

Recreation: From 12:40 to 4 p. m. each day and from 4:45 to 7:15 each day will be given to recreation, bathing in old ocean, sight seeing, visiting, fellowship.

There are many interesting points in this community. The Cape Henry Sand Hills, Hampton Roads, Navy Yard, Fortress Monroe, the two German ships which are interned here during the war, Ship Building Yard, and many other scenes of interest.

Season program is only one dollar for the entire session opening Monday night July 19 and closing Sunday night the 25th.

Write to Rev. L. F. Johnson, D. D., chairman of the entertainment committee about your desires for reservations. His address is Hardy Ave., Norfolk, Va. He will give attention to your requests.

We will be looking for you.

W. H. DENISON, President.

GET BUSY!

Plans for the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference have been practically completed. The convention will be held at the Wentworth Christian church, McCullers, N. C., July 13-15 Beginning Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, there will be six sessions—two in the morning at 9:30, two in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, and two at 8 o'clock in the evening. These sessions will be wide-a-woke, and interesting from the start. There will be no slow dragging, long drawn out disquisitions to weary those who attend. On the other hand we propose to stage the liveliest, most aggressive convention ever conducted by the Eastern Carolina Conference. It will be abounding in practical suggestions and new ideas—methods your school can't afford to miss. Interspersed throughout the program are fifty speeches ranging in length from 5 to 30 minutes, and covering every phase of Sunday school work from the cradle roll to the adult Bible class. Among those who will deliver these speeches are such aggressive workers as Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Dr. J. U. Newman and Mrs. Fred Bullock. Complete programs are being printed and sent out this week.

Now to make this convention the success it ought to be, we must have your hearty support and co-operation. You pastors, arouse the superintendent of your Sunday school to the importance of having a full delegation from your Sunday school present on this occasion. You superintendents, acquaint your school with the plans of the convention and get them interested in its success. Elect your delegates early and send a full delegation willing and ready to take an active part. You members, talk the matter over with the other members of your school and see that immediate action is taken towards doing your school's part in the convention. We need all pulling together, talking, planning, praying and working to make the coming convention a step success.

C. H. STEPHENSON, Pres.

LOOK OUT! IT IS COMING

What is coming? Why the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Western North Carolina Conference, of course. It will meet with the church at Pleasant Ridge Randolph county, on July 23, 1915, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., and every Sunday school and C. E. Society and organized class is expected to be represented. So we urge that plans be made and delegates elected from every school, C. E. and organized class as early as possible. Don't fail to meet us at the convention. Write Bro. E. W. Brown, Route 1, Ramseur, N. C., and tell him you are coming and to look out for you. Two trains leave Greensboro, one at 7:30 a. m. and the other at 5:30 p. m. Tell him how and when you are coming. He is expecting to see you, and so am I.

Yours for a great convention.

J. F. MORGAN, Pres.

CONVENTION NOTES

The forty-sixth annual session of the Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention meets with Antioch Christian church, near Windsor, Va., Isle of Wight County, on July 28, 29 and 30. The program is practically completed and will appear in a short time.

Indications are that this session of the Convention will be one full of interest, and helpful addresses will be delivered by the pastors and workers of the schools within the Conference territory named.

From information that is coming into the secretary's office daily we may look for a full representation from the schools that are represented in this Convention. Don't forget that the Christian Endeavor Societies within the bounds of the Convention are included in the Convention and that they are entitled to the same representation on the same basis as the schools and are required to pay the same membership fee. Let every C. E. Society send up full delegations.

The secretary will mail the report blanks to each superintendent by the first of July. Will they see that their secretaries fill out the blanks promptly and return one of the reports to the Convention secretary by July 10th, not later than this, so that he may have the large chart ready by convention time? The second report blank is for the secretary of the school to keep on file.

Please bear these requests in mind and let every superintendent and secretary be prompt so that no school report will be too late to get on the big chart.

Respectfully,

J. H. BLANCHARD,

Corresponding Secretary

MEMORIAL CHRISTIAN TEMPLE

Norfolk, Va.

With the close of May we closed our third year as pastor of the Temple congregation. We have been pleased with the work. 196 persons have united with the church in that time. Our average Sunday school attendance for January was 256 or an average of 12 more than any previous January; for February it was 313 or an average of 61 more than any previous February; for March it was 275 or an average of 14 more than any other other March; for April it was 285 or 49 more than any former April; for May it was 304 or 49 more than any previous May. The church is planning to erect an addition to the church to accommodate the Sunday school. Between $5,000 and $6,000 have been pledged for that purpose. We begin our fourth year of work with an offering for foreign missions yesterday pledged for the amount of $1,044. It is a pleasure to work with this people not merely for what they do but for the spirit with which it is done. Personally they have been very kind to the pastor and his family. May 16 a class of 16 graduated in the First Standard Teacher Training class and with impressive graduation services. Our Sunday school is thoroughly graded and using the International Graded Lessons in the Beginner's, Primary, and Junior Departments.

WARREN H. DENISON.

GOOD HOPE

This, June 13th, has been a great day at this old church. It was an all day service with an old time Sunday dinner on picnic style. Sunday schools, Education and Missions all received attention. The speakers were W. H. Hudson of Oak Level, Attorney Bland Mitchell of Youngsville, Paul Winston of Franklinton, Geo. T. Whitaker of Franklinton, and the eaters of all that would eat, and they were many, many, but I think they were all filled. THE CHRISTIAN SUN was not forgotten. The speakers were all good, better, best.

President Geo. T. Whitaker of Eastern North Carolina Conference, is exerting his energies to put business life in the churches of the conference. And, if we all rally to his efforts, we will soon see a brighter day in our work.

W. G. CLEMENTS.

HOLLAND LETTER

The third Sunday in May was Mission Day at Holy Neck. The collection in cash and subscription was $295.00. This was a splendid offering, when we remember that the members have just obligated to make $6,300 improvements on the church. The contractor is at work and we are to get in the new church by the first Sunday in September. At that time our protracted meetings will begin.

These good people are all of one accord, with reference to matters, material and spiritual, in the church.

Holland church is looking forward to the coming of Rev. Victor Lightbourne, Sept. 12-26. Many heard him while he was in Suffolk meeting and were delighted.

The C. E. Societies of both churches were represented in the State Convention. These societies are doing a great work. Both Sunday schools are moving along nicely. All departments of these churches are in good health and will not need to take a vacation.

The fourth Sunday in June will be our Mission Day in Holland—then we will be ready for Conference so far as our finances are concerned.

Review—David the Shepherd of Israel. Ps. 78: 65-72.

During the study of the last quarter we have found David to be an excellent shepherd for Israel. He was big hearted, true hearted and whole hearted. Saul was God's anointed, still he was not a shepherd like David. David was a man after God's own heart.

It is not the man who does large things, makes a big display, every time who is the leader of human interests. Watch the man who is faithful to small things.

at the same time to realize what it is singing. So many sing and call the words with a coldness that makes one shrink—don't pay any attention to what they are singing as though it was a form being carried out. We ought to put more feeling into the hymns; give them more life and make them more real.

During the meeting let the leader announce several favorite hymns and tell under what circumstance they were composed. Name several composers and give a sketch of their lives.

Call for favorite hymns at the same time and ask for their history.

For answer in the meeting: Why should we sing all the stanzas of a hymn? Is it well to commit hymns to memory? Why? How should hymns be selected?

NOTICE

To the C. E. Societies of the Eastern N. C. Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention:

Dear Co-Workers: We are looking forward for the best convention at Wentworth that we have ever had. As this is our S. S. and C. E. Convention I hope that we, the C. E.'s throughout the boundaries of this conference will get busy and help make it the best on record. We need a live report from every C. E. society to help make a live convention. I wish to ask every C. E. Secretary to get a full report of his society and report the same to me before the convention meets in July, so that I can make a good report on this work. Don't wait; but get up your report at once and let me know what you are doing.

I am yours in the work,

WHAT BECOMES OF OUR GIRLS? One Girl

Sometime past I was asked by Misao San to write you and let you know how she is getting along. She says she has not written you at all for a long, long time. She has two little children, both girls. One of them goes to the Christian kindergarten in a church building quite near her home which is in Koshikawa. Her own mother lives with them. Misao San is trying to earn her own living, in short for the family, though she has a husband. Of course he had work, but sometimes he is out of work. Misao San found long ago that she can not just depend on him, so she tried to do whatever she could find. What she learned in the Sendai Industrial school, where you put her, is doing good. She learned the art of embroidery there. Some two years ago she learned to do embroidery on the sewing machine. The Singer Sewing Machine Co. loans us so many machines for so much a month for those who can take pupils and teach. Misao San is able to teach. She has been taking pupils since last December. All the time she has three of four. She does some pretty work, sometimes taking orders from the stores. She can embroider on most anything, handkerchiefs, furoshiki (wrapping cloth) hand bags, etc., according to her orders. She would be glad to do what she can in that line if you or your friends in America would wish to have the Japanese embroidery done. Her mother is anxious to work for Mrs. Garman again.

I am expected to go to Misao San's house once a week or so and have Bible reading or talk for the women or girls who come there. The mother was a concubine, who rarely saw her husband. Misao San is many degrees farther up the moral and social scale, thanks to the help a Girl's school gave her at a critical time.

MISSIONARY CRADLE ROLL SERVICE

Cradel Roll Day was observed by the the Franklin Woman's Missionary Society at their regular June meeting. The primary and junior boys and girls rendered an interesting program, consisting of songs, recitations, duets, a missionary story and a prayer. Then the Cradle Roll babies marched to the platform and emptied their mite boxes. The amount contained in these was $2.53. After this, lemonade and cake were served to all present, and a short while was spent in a social way. The exercise was instructive and pleasing and much enjoyed by all present, and we trust that seed were sown that will bear fruit in the years to come.

MRS. ROWLAND.

CRADLE ROLL NOTICE

Dear Cradle Roll Supt.: I am hoping to meet you at the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention which is soon to meet at Elon College. That I may be prompt with my report, please send me at once the report of your Cradle Roll. Give number on roll, additions since last report, promoted to beginner's department, dead or removed, total increase or loss. Please state if the parents of all children are members of your church or congregation. If not, are they members of some other church in your community? Have you had any Cradle Roll offerings this year? Amount? Have you any suggestions to offer.

Please let every Cradle Roll superintendent of the the Sunday schools in the N. C. and Va. Conference consider this letter personal and answer at first convenience.

We are glad to be able to report an increase in offerings this week; do hope they may continue to increase so that we can pay our helpers at the end of the month and meet some pressing obligations.

We are harvesting our wheat this week, and it looks mighty good to us. We think we will make about half enough to run our family through the year. I suppose that is doing very well when we consider the size of our family. If our many friends who were so kind to donate wheat last year will remember us in the same way this time I think we can get along without buying much wheat.

We wish also to remind the good ladies who donated fruit last year that we would be very glad to receive the same great favor this year. I am sure if they could only know how much their gifts helped the institution and how much our children enjoyed and appreciated the fruit they would gladly do so again; and many others would join them. We will be glad to furnish the cars to any who will fill them. Please write us if you can assist along this line. Our children must be fed; and I know you want a share in this blessed deed.

CHURCH NEWS

Sunday, 13th inst., was my regular appointment at Mt. Auburn. We had a delightful service.

The second Sunday in July, our protracted series of meetings is to commence. Rev. I. W. Johnson, Suffolk, Va., is to aid in this meeting. The third Sunday in July, the meeting at Lebanon, and the first Sunday in August, at Berea, Alamance county, N. C., with Rev. P. H. Fleming, Greensboro, N. C., to aid. I am praying for all expecting a gracious revival at all three places.

Dr. Fleming was with me in the Memorial Service at Mt. Auburn, second Sunday in May ult. He preached a fine sermon to a packed house. The house was too small, by far, to accommodate the congregation, though we have a large new house of worship. Mt. Auburn is noted for large congregations and hospitality. Preaching also in the afternoon. The church is to have preliminary services, commencing next Sunday, and to be continued every Sunday until the meeting. I am requesting Lebanon and Berea to do the same; hold preparatory services for the same length of time, with a request to pray daily for a meeting of days, in which fundamental, not superficial but fundamental work shall be done. Repentance and regeneration are absolutely necessary to salvation.

Dr. Fleming is doing fine work at the First Christian church, Greensboro, N. C. He is a gospel preacher, emphasizing the fundamentals in religion. He, in life, is an exponent of what he preaches. The people say: "Bro. Fleming is a good man."

J. W. PATTON.

Greensboro, N. C.

Besides doing a wonderful work for missions, way verily, because they are doing a wonderful work for missions the membership of Memorial Temple are able to take care of their own and go forward in many good works. They are planning now to build an addition to their church for the sake of accommodating the Sunday school. They need this already, and the several thousand dollars they contemplate thus spending will be well invested indeed.

OF INTEREST TO MINISTERS

A large financial institution of national reputation is offering special inducements, in the way of a permanent investment earning unusual profits, to young men who are Total Abstainers from the use of intoxicating beverages. This enterprise is endorsed by the National Inter-Church Temperance Federation, composed of prominent ministers and laymen of Protestant denominations. Every pastor should be interested in furthering this undertaking, as it encourages economy and sobriety in the young men of his church and congregation. Accurate information will be furnished any pastor who will address a postal inquiry to Managers, P. O. Box 25, Anderson, S. C. Ad.

Elon College

For Both Men and Women

Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, the entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me as most genuinely Christian."

Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and, with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists: men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.

The lowest rates in the South, only $131 to $181 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address

Don't Hide Them With a Veil Remove Them With The Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

OUR DEAD

Britt

Mrs. Pcoahontas Britt was born in July, 1847, near Buckhorn, Va., and departed this life May 23, 1915. She was with her son, B. C. Britt, at Suffolk, Va., when the end came. For 30 years she was a faithful member of Cypress Chapel church. Her husband preceded her to that better land, some 30 years ago. She leaves to mourn their loss two sons, J. H. Britt, of Holland, Va., and B. C. Britt, of Suffolk, Va. (Both are highly esteemed young men and prosperous in business affairs) One grand daughter, Annie Virginia Britt, also one sister, Mary Holland of Philadelphia, Pa., and one brother, Jas. H. Holland, of Cypress Chapel. The floral tributes were beautiful. Remains of deceased were laid to rest in Nole cemetery, Holland, Va. The bereaved have the sympathy of many friends. Services by the writer.

At the home of her sister, Mrs. J. T. Bradshaw, Walters, Va., on the 4th of May, 1915, Mrs. Mary Louisa Edwards, aged 75 years, 4 months and 4 days. She was a step-daughter of the late Maj. I. W. Duck and half-sister of Mrs. J. T. Bradshaw. She was one among the oldest and most faithful members of Mt. Carmel church. She was truly a good Christian mother, and will be greatly missed in her home, community and church. She leaves a devoted half-sister, Mrs. J. T. Bradshaw, 3 children, two sons and one daughter, Mrs. W. G. Edwards of Suffolk, Va., Mr. John A. Edwards of Southampton county, Va., Mrs. J. S. Drewry of Southampton county, Va., several grand children and many friends. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor at the church and her remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery. God bless the dear bereaved ones. H. H. B.

Munford

At his home, Windsor, Va., May 23, 1915, Henry H. Munford, a well-known and greatly beloved young business man and salesman for the firm of C. L. Griffin, aged 26 years and 3 months. He was one among the best and most useful men of Antioch Christian church. He was secretary of the church and did his work well. He was all he professed to be—a Christian indeed and in truth. "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like His." He only lived about ten days after he was taken sick. He was married to Miss Dana Bradshaw, the only child and daughter of Deacon J. W. Bradshaw of Antioch Christian church, on the 17th of January, 1912. They were truly and happy and it was so sad to see them separated so soon by the hand of death, but He doeth all things well, knoweth what is best for us. The Lord's will be done—not ours. He was a faithful worker in his church and Sunday school. He will be greatly missed but our loss has been his eternal gain. He leaves a devoted wife, who is a niece of Rev. J. P. Barrett, D. D., Dayton, Ohio, a father, stepmother, 3 sisters, one brother and many friends. Funeral services were conducted by his pastor at his church and his remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery. IF YOU VALUE YOUR HEALTH

Read Every Word of This Remarkable Story

It is told by one who has himself experienced the regeneration in health which he encourages you to seek by the self-same means.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The hardships of a traveling salesman's life had wrecked my health. My family physician diagnosed my case as chronic gastritis, brought on by disease of the liver and complicated by kidney trouble. I consulted specialists who confirmed his diagnosis. Months passed, I grew worse and was finally compelled to give up my work.

By chance I heard of some wonderful cures which had resulted from drinking the water of a little spring in the Mineral Belt of South Carolina, a picture of which spring appears on this page. In desperation I tried it. On the second day I thought that I could notice some improvement; at the end of the first week my appetite and digestion had returned and I was much stronger; at the end of the third week I felt that I was completely cured. That was six years ago and I still enjoy perfect health.

Knowing that it had restored my health and believing that it had saved my life, I bought the Spring. I then determined to see whether the water would cure others as it had cured me. I shipped ten gallons absolutely free of charge to each of one thousand sufferers from chronic diseases. Only four reported no benefit from the use of the ten gallons. The other nine hundred and ninety-six reported decided benefit or complete cures. Many claimed that the water had saved their lives.

I realized that I had discovered one of the world's greatest mineral springs, and I decided to devote my life to it. But how could I make the world listen; how could I make them believe my story? The precious water was running to waste while thousands were suffering. I said, I will make them believe me by showing my faith in them and in the curative power of the Spring. I will tell them that the water shall cost them nothing if it fails to benefit.

The world listened!

Some wrote for proof and I sent them the letters which I had received from their fellowmen. Others accepted my offer without question. Thousands have written me reporting relief and permanent cure of a great variety of chronic diseases.

But some of the water still ran to waste for lack of belief. I determined that every drop should be used to relieve the sufferings of humanity. To this end I requested the advertising manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate to come to see me. At my desk I opened my mail and showed him the letters from men and women from all parts of the country who had suffered and who had found relief. I gave him my letter files and induced him to spend several hours reading my past correspondence with those who were using the water. I showed him the chemical analysis and letters from physicians explaining the curative properties of the water.

He believed, and as a result he has written this announcement for me.

WILL YOU BELIEVE?

I do not ask your implicit faith; only enough to try the water for three weeks as I did. I estimate that I drank about ten gallons and I, therefore, offer gladly to ship you two five gallon demijohns on my guarantee that if you find that it does not benefit you I will promptly refund the price, which is only $2.00. You must promise to drink the water in accordance with the instructions which I will send you and return the empty demijohns. I make you the sole judge as to whether the water has benefited you, and as the Advertising Manager of this paper has kindly consented to guarantee my guarantee to refund your money, if you are not benefited, I hope you will feel perfectly free to accept my offer.

This offer is extended to all who suffer with any chronic disease, except cancer and consumption, but I especially recommend the water for the treatment of stomach, liver, kidney and bladder diseases and for rheumatism, gout, uric acid poisoning, gall stones, diabetes, nervous headache and general debility resulting from impure or impoverished blood. These are the diseases most frequently mentioned in the letters which I have received, but my offer is open to anyone who suffers from any chronic ailment.

Yours sincerely,

N. F. SHIVAR, Proprietor.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir, As you are well aware, since 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered 10 gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously reordering when necessary, and in four months from date I began drinking it found 20 lbs. was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely nature's remedy.

DuPont, Ga., Nov. 25, 1911.
Shivar Spring, Shelton, S. C.: Gentlemen— I have suffered for years with nervous indigestion and kidney troubles. Derived more benefit from the Shivar Spring Water than from months at Hot Springs, Ark., and numerous other Springs. I consider it the very best water extant. AUGUSTUS DUPONT.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 24, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I suffered with intestinal indigestion and the Shivar Spring Water has cured me. I would gladly recommend it to all suffering with indigestion, kidney and liver trouble. My father had kidney trouble last fall and he thought Shivar Spring Water saved his life. Respectfully, MRS. HARVEY DIXON.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27, 1911.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I ordered 10 gallons of your Shivar Spring Water for my teething baby who was suffering with its stomach and bowels. This water cured her disorders entirely and she is here yet again. I stopped all medicine and gave her only the water. I was also run down from the heat and fatigue and my weight has restored me also. Thanking you. Very respectfully, MISS MARGARET MCGILL.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 11, 1912.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—Until a few weeks ago my wife had chronic pain from gall stones. She was stricken critically ill and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain, enduring her unconscious. Rev. A. J. Foster, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that we had no hope to do so, but I went. In about three days after arriving at the Spring, she was apparently relieved and had regained her weight. She has suffered no effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers. J. S. GRAFFIN.

P. S.—I suffered for 8 years with kidney trouble and indigestion of Shivar Spring Water. I agree to give the water a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you will send, and if I derive no benefit therefrom you are to refund the price in full, upon demand and upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL IT TODAY.

Shivar Spring, Box 9 F, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen—I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two ($2.00) demijohns for ten gallons (two five gallon demijohns) of Shivar Spring Water. I agree to give the water a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you will send, and if I derive no benefit therefrom you are to refund the price in full, upon demand and upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

National Ideals.

A really good and noble ideal does not remain individualistic long; it sweeps out from the mind and heart of him who conceives it and soon embraces communities, states, nations in its wake. Thomas Jefferson wrote: "Before the nineteenth of April, 1775, I never heard a whisper of a disposition to separate from the mother country." In March 1775 Benjamin Franklin said: "No American, drunk or sober, thinks of such a thing as independence." Within sixteen months not only was the ideal of a free and independent nation born, but independence had been declared. Ten years ago even the most sanguine did not dream of a saloonless nation; today it is on every tongue, and the belief is spreading that by 1920 the saloon will be outlawed throughout all our great country. "Dare to think and speak your deepest thought, and it will be found to be the universal speech," wrote Emerson. Until sin and rebellion divided the peoples they were all of the same speech, and tongue. "And the whole earth was of one language and of one speech." (Gen. 11:1).

Three Wheat Crops.

In a recent address on temperance before a great audience in New York, William Jennings Bryan used these comparisons: "Our drink bill is two and a half billion dollars a year. The value of last year's cotton crop was $520,000,000, of wheat $778,000,000, of corn $1,700,000,000. We spend more than three wheat crops a year for intoxicating drinks, and fifty per cent more than the entire corn crop for the year. Our annual drink bill would build 300,000 miles of macadam road sixteen feet wide and seven inches deep. It would duplicate the stock of all the national banks and have $700,000,000 left over. It would build six Panama canals. It would amount to three times as much money as is spent on all educational purposes." If facts and figures counted, no sane nation would stand for such useless and wanton waste, and the saloon would be outlawed in a twelve months. It is only passion for the demon of drink that can make a people spend that much money and get only ruin and poverty and death in return. "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not?" (Isa. 55:2).

Last and First.

A New York contemporary says that the great corporations who are looking for "efficiency first" in their employees, have adopted this slogan: "The drinking man is the last to be hired, and the first to be fired." This is the latter day interpretation of our ancient prophetic utterance: "In the end it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder." (Prov. 23:32).

Jesus or Caesar.

A newspaper carried this declaration recently: "In these times on earth, as in heaven, force is the final remedy." If that had been true Caesar would be more powerful in the world today than Jesus. Not force, but love is the supreme and irresistible power—in earth and in heaven. And this is not only philosophy but inspiration: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." (Zech. 4:6).

"Romance of Righteousness."

A paper last week carried the story of a lawyer out in Los Angeles who ten years ago was redeemed from a life of sin to one of righteousness. He now spends his days in his legal profession, but his nights and Sundays in winning men to Christ. For sometime past he has averaged about 600 souls for the Master each year. What excitement, what adventure, what dash and daring, what courage and triumph this man enjoys. "He that winneth souls is wise," says Proverbs, wise because of the life and joy and victory that come his way. The most romantic life on earth is the life of righteousness, and its pursuits.

Sightless Seeing.

Miss Helen Keller, the deaf and blind girl, has been "seeing" the Panama Exposition. She has learned to talk (most women do!) but cannot hear a sound. Reveling in the joy and inhaling the fragrance from the tropical trees that make the exposition incomparable, the blind girl exclaimed, "Do you think it will smell like this when we reach the pearly gates of paradise? And the violets—they are a song in the air. I learned to know the wild yellow violets the year I learned to speak my first word. I could not see the colors; and yet, since I came to the exposition, I think I can tell how color feels. When I walked through the Palace of Fine Arts, my heart ached and then danced as I put my hands on these statues there. How wonderful are the lights at the fair! I am always dreaming of the stars, and sometimes I dream of the moon; now I shall dream of these wonderful lights." Because Helen Keller has a brain back of her sightless eyes, and a soul back of her brain, she sees more than most people who have two eyes. Only as we look beyond the visible to that which is invisible, and feel further than our fingers can reach, do we see and touch that which is real, beautiful and abiding. "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and God-head." (Rom. 1:20).

Apologize.

"The day has passed," says a close observer, "when a Christian would apologize for missions. The day has come when the Christian who is not praying and working for missions must first explain why, and then apologize for calling himself a Christian." The time has ever been since Christ was on earth when in order to obey His commandments His followers had to be missionaries. "Go ye and teach all nations, * * * and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28:19, 20).

Just A Step.

"Eight persons drowned, three missing, four seriously injured and more than thirty rescued from the surf made up the record of bathing casualties at Atlantic City, N. J., on Sunday, June 20." So read the lines from the reporter in a New York paper. The bathing and the drowning, season is upon us and thousands will be the victims before the season is over who will end their life in a watery grave. Such casualties remind us of David's declaration to Jonathan, "As the Lord liveth and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death." (I Sam. 20:3).

Pearls to Swine.

One of the foremost men of England remarked recently at a university gathering in London that it would be a long time before Great Britain would have any money to spend on its colleges. Fifteen million dollars a day on its army and navy leaves nothing for the nobler and better arts of life and learning. Of the forty thousand college students in the United Kingdom, fifty per cent have answered the call to colors. Half of the students of Canada are already at the front. These men of promise and purpose have quit the halls of learning and inspiration to offer themselves to the devouring pestilence of war. The pearl of youth and beauty is thus thrown to the herd of heartless and soulless swine. The wickedness of war cannot be measured by the words or imagination of man. "Neither cast ye your pearls before swine." (Matt. 7:6).

An Inalienable Right.

A Chinaman asked an American statesman: "What right have you Christians to come over here to China and talk with our people about your religion?" To which the diplomat replied: "The right to give others something that is too good to keep." The "good news" of Christianity confers that inalienable right upon every one who embraces it, and the more that right is exercised the stronger does he become who exercises it. The missionary church is the strongest of all churches because it glories in the exercise of its God-given right. "I put on righteousness, and it clothed me; my judgment was as a robe and a diadem." (Job. 29:14).

—According to figures recently issued by the Southern railway over 700 solid car loads of strawberries were shipped from East Tennessee to Cincinnati and the West the past season; and the prices averaged about $700 a car.

GREAT THINGS FOR CHRIST

"Undertake great things for Christ; expect great things of Christ," runs a missionary motto. The Northern Baptists in Convention at Los Angeles recently acted upon the motto, and decided to enter upon a five years evangelistic campaign in an endeavor to win a million souls to Christ, to increase the number of missionaries from 3,700 to 5,000 and to aim at a $6,000,000 annual missionary fund. Such dreams as these stir men and women to noble endeavor and lead to achievement and conquest.

Our dear Christian church, conceived in a vision and born in a dream of great things to be needs even now to lay larger plans and launch out into larger fields of endeavor and service. The greater tasks must be undertaken.

The strength of a cause is measured not by numbers, but by the righteousness thereof and by faith in God. David put the whole army of the Philistines to flight because that army had defied the hosts of the living God, and because David had faith in God even though defied. Had David marked and magnified his own weakness and insignificance he would have availed nothing.

We have dwelt all too long upon the weakness of our numbers; let us think more upon the strength, the infinite resources of the God of Israel whose glorious cause we champion in the world.

OLD AS ADAM

Had a reader thought of any one as old as Adam? This record in an exchange gives the account that is worth while, and is true: "If Adam were still alive he would be about the same age as R. E. Morse. Adam met him after he was banished from the Garden of Eden; Eve also knew him after she ate the forbidden fruit. Pharaoh must have been well acquainted with him as he met him often. Saul, David, Solomon and all the kings of old knew him well. And in the New Testament we find men who knew him. Judas, who betrayed and Peter who denied, both knew him. So to this day we have met him. How happy we should make the world could we annihilate R. E. Morse." If we would learn by the bitter experience of others we might destroy him; but we will not learn, and the cruel, soulless, killing R. E. Morse abides in the world. He is present to disturb our sleep when we have done wrong through the day and steal away our appetite when we are guilty of transgression—is this unwelcome, undying, relentless—Remorse of conscience.

THE MAN AT THE FRONT

Some British operatives in factories making munitions of war were sent to the trenches the other day to see at first hand the needs there, and how fared the fighters. On their return they reported, "The man at the front is at the mercy of the man at home, and we intend that workmen shall know it." The lack of ammunition, or poor ammunition, meant death to their fellow countrymen in the trenches. The man at the front can never do his work effectually unless the man at home does his work well. Our missionaries in the field are powerless unless the folks at home sustain them with prayer, constant interest, abiding sympathy, and liberal support. What these British reported true of the soldiers in trenches is equally true of all who go to the front in any endeavor. The efficiency, the power, the very life of the man at the front in all church work depends upon the men and women at home. The men who are in the fore managing our colleges, our publishing interests, our orphanages, our pulpits, and all public and organized efforts are dependent upon the laymen, upon those who are at home, upon their sympathy, prayers and abiding interest.

THE POOREST MAN

A certain philosopher once wrote "The poorest man in the world is he who has nothing except money." Money alone never made any one rich. He only is rich, for time and for eternity, who has the willing hand the liberal mind, and the full heart. "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God." (Luke 12:20, 21).

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Ohio Wesleyan University recently conferred the degree of Doctor of Law on Secretary Josephus Daniels.

—President Wilson, it is announced, does not see much indication of an early peace between the warring nations in Europe.

—Mrs. Frank Leslie, of Leslie's Weekly, has left $1,500,000, practically her entire estate, to be used for the advancement of woman's suffrage.

—During the month of May the Southern railway operated 13,803 regular passenger trains, of which number 12,532 or 91 per cent made schedule time. This is a record any system might boast of.

—For forty-seven weeks now Teutons and Allies have been hammering away at each other in their mad effort of destruction. The losses of men and treasure in that time are beyond computation.

—On June 5 the Danish Parliament passed a measure granting universal suffrage to women. Denmark has gone forward by long strides since Shakespear wrote "There is something rotten in the State of Denmark."

—The Chautauqua at Burlington begins tonight, June 30, and continues until July 6. This Chautauqua last year was a great educational feature and was well worth while and promises to be equally great this year.

—On July 6, 1915 will be celebrated in many quarters and churches of Protestantism the five hundredth anniversary of the burning of John Huss at Constance. Huss like Stephen went to a martyr's death, but not in vain, for though dead he yet speaketh.

—According to a report of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, the aggregate of our exports for April, 1915, was $289,000,000 against $159,000,000 in April, 1914—an increase of $130,000,000. Explosives, automobiles, leather and leather manufacturers, so much in demand by European armies, showed the greatest increase.

—The World's Christian Endeavor Convention meets in Chicago July 7-12. It is reported that more than 15,000 delegates are expected. Pres. W. A. Harper of Elon College famous in C. E. Work is scheduled for three addresses, speaking Sunday at 11 A. M., at the Madison Ave. Baptist church.

—Berkley correspondence Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, June 27: "Rev. L. F. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the First Christian church, has been extended a call to serve the church another year beginning October 1, 1915. It is not known whether Dr. Johnson will accept or not. The church has grown and prospered under his ministry. The deacons state that the church is in excellent condition.

—Rev. L. E. Smith, 523 Jefferson St., Huntington, Ind., is established in his new home and has had several services now as pastor of First Church, Huntington Ind. We have heard good reports about Bro. Smith's beginning and his friends will not be surprised. He is a man of brain, and his success is no surprise for he merits it. One of our needy Southern churches will have to bring him home after awhile, for we need him and his kind very sorely in our work this way.

—All delegates and visitors who expect to attend the S. S. and C. E. Convention at Wentworth, N. C., beginning July 13, are urgently requested to write Mr. David Stephenson, McCullers, N. C., that he may arrange homes and accommodations for them. This should not be neglected. The Eastern N. C. Convention is preparing to have a great session, and it is desired to have everything in readiness. The program, a most excellent one, is already made, published and a copy sent to all speakers.

—The editor remembers meeting at the Quadrennial in Springfield, O., last October, Rev. J. L. Manly, who very graciously subscribed for THE SUN. In a note just received from this dear brother 709 Third St., Logan, Ohio, this line appears: "I pray for you daily." That somehow grips the heart and gives a tinge of grateful joy to the mind—that one met in a distant place and only briefly is praying daily for you. What a life of gratitude would be ours if we only knew how many currents enter into the stream that carries us in its daily sweep to the ocean of God's boundless love and the endless eternity.

—The National Anti-Saloon League Convention at Atlantic City, New Jersey, July 6-9th., promises to be a great success. The latest reports indicate that thirty thousand will be present. One Sunday school from Philadelphia will send fifteen hundred. The program, which is just out, is filled with men and women of national and international reputation in both state and church affairs. Supreme court judges, governors, senators, congressmen, bishops and other prominent divines will be there. All who attend will get a new vision of national prohibition and an inspiration that will make them a force in bringing it about.

—Mr. C. C. Johnson, of next year's Elon College Faculty and Miss Oma Lee Utley of Franklinton N. C., were united in marriage at a bride's home, THE SUN's editor officiating, Thursday, June 24. It was a home marriage and the spacious residence of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Utley, was beautifully festooned and decorated for the happy occasion. Of the bride's school mates attending the marriage were Misses Pat Preston, Ruth Johnson, Madge Moffitt, Beatrice and Gertrude Mason and Jennie Willis Atkinson, Messrs. Clifford Morgan, R. T. Bradford, and John L. Farmer. The occasion was highly enjoyed and the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Utley was regal.

—According to attractive programs, bearing out of the church and pastor, the following schedule of exercises was carried out at the installation services of Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor of First Christian Church, Huntington, Indiana, Wednesday P. M., June 9. "7:45 Installation Service, O. W. Whitelock, Presiding: Hymn 125—Congregation; Invocation and Scripture Reading—C. H. Rowland, D. D., Franklin, Va.; Hymn 126—Congregation; Prayer—W. D. Samuel, D. D., Bluffton, Indiana; Sermon—N. G. Newman, D. D., Defiance, Ohio; Duet—Mrs. Duffy and Miss Bitner; Charge to the Congregation—W. D. Samuel, D. D.; Charge to the Pastor—Warren H. Denison, D. D., Norfolk, Va., Response by Pastor; Hymn 182—Congregation; Benediction—Pastor.

—The advanced program, in outline, of the Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christian Church, Virginia Beach, Va., July 19-25, 1915, is before us and is exceedingly inviting and attractive. If many, many SUN readers do not take advantage of this delightful and inspiring occasion we shall be much surprised at their lack of interest and power of selection. To know a good thing when you see it, and make an opportunity to avail yourself of it, is the part of discretion and of wisdom.

—Dr. W. A. Harper, Secretary of the Home Mission Board of the N. C. & Va. Conference went to Danville, Va., last Sunday on business for the Board in connection with the proposed Christian church at that place. A lot has been secured and paid for in a very suitable location, the blue prints for the building have been drawn and submitted and work is to begin on the building at an early date as matters now indicate. Dr. Harper spoke to the church there twice Sunday and at Reidsville in our new church then at night. He is enthusiastic over the prospect at Danville and gratified at results already achieved at Reidsville. The Board of this Conference is an incorporated body now and is doing a vigorous work in the matter of church building. Rev. S. B. Klapp is leading the work at Danville in our new church there at night. He Missionary has charge of the Reidsville work.

NOTICE!

Delegates and visitors who desire entertainment provided before arrival at Virginia at Virginia Beach for Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods will kindly notify the chairman at 27 Hardy Ave., Norfolk, Va.
L. F. JOHNSON, Chairman.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH Virginia Beach, July 19-25.

We believe that you will like to know that Rev. H. G. Rowe, who gives the address on "The Organized Adult Bible Class" has just been highly honored by being elected President of the Illinois State Sunday School Association. There will be a Sunday School Rowe wherever he goes.

That every speaker expects to be on hand fully prepared just as per schedule and you are to have the opportunity of their best thought and work. It will be well worth your while to be here and stay from the first to the last. That President Harper will conduct a real class study on Christian Endeavor Expert work. The books can be secured right on the grounds. This is a great opportunity for Conference Christian Endeavor Secretaries, Christian Endeavor officers. Have you been reading Dr. Harper's articles in the Christian Endeavor World? Will you as a Christian Endeavor worker please make this important feature of the Chautauqua known to as many Christian Endeavorers as possible?

We hereby request that our pastors everywhere make repeated announcement of the opportunities of this Summer school and urge their workers and friends to attend. We kindly ask all our Sunday school Superintendents and Christian Endeavor Presidents to urge their teachers and workers to avail themselves of these rare privileges.

Your officers and the Central Committee have given very much time and thought to this work. It has been no small task and no little responsibility, but it has all been done gladly and willingly in order that the Christian church might have a religious center, a summer school, wholesome, first class in its grade of work, that would build up our work, give new life and inspiration, make a place of larger and wider Christian fellowship. We believe our brotherhood wants just such a gathering as we are offering. We ask the hearty co-operation of all our pastors and workers in giving it the publicity in your local communities that it should have. Will you give it a write-up in your local papers; will you speak of it in your church gatherings and thus help to do some good for it?

There will be a meeting of the Executive Committee of fifty early in the week of the Chautauqua to consider important matters for the future. We hope that all will be present for a probable meeting on Tuesday. If any can not be present we expect they will be sure to write in advance any suggestion they may have for the work and its continuance.

WARREN H. DENISON, President.

SUFFOLK LETTER

June has been more pleasant than usual and church life has moved on well for summertime. Our Sunday school has reached the six hundred mark in registration and the percentage of attendance has been good. The Baraca and Philathea classes are nearing the hundred mark and doing good work. H. Woodward and Col. J. E. West, their respective teachers, are faithful and enthusiastic in their work. Many other teachers in the school are equally so, and the work is in good shape with C. A. Shoop and W. T. Beamon as Supt. and Asst. Superintendent. W. A. King is our good Secretary with O. S. Smith, Jr., as his assistant. Punctuality is one essential for good officers and teachers and we have many of that type; of course spirituality is the supreme thing; but it will not do alone. Nothing can compensate for downright hard work. Jesus said: "My father worketh hitherto, and I work." Even their goodness would have been fruitless without work. There are a lot of good folks in the church who are doing nothing; but they are like a lump of coal in the side of the mountain—good for nothing till dug out and put in the furnace. No man is at his best till he is consumed in some good cause. That is the reason why the world has built monuments to men who died in battle. Most of us in the church are simply camp followers to pick up what we can of spiritual waste. Every church member ought to be in the Sunday school and busy trying to build up the interest of the Kingdom.

The spiritual side of our being needs development as well as our bodies and our minds. Much of the poor health and unhappiness in the world is the result of abnormal development. Some place all their energy on the physical; some on the mental; others on the spiritual. Normal development requires the harmonious development of these together. Work, recreation, religion, in proper proportion, will make the best man in all respects. Sunday school and church are the spiritual gymnasium; without this help men become lopsided and strong only in a one-sided way. Hence it is you have your physical giant; your intellectual giant; and your spiritual giant in useless men. There are men with religion and no sense; others with sense and no religion. What the world needs is men with both sense and religion.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Rev. W. S. Long of Chapel Hill was here for a short time Tuesday. The Dr. continues young and vigorous.

Mr. J. L. Farmer, who graduated at the last Commencement, called by Tuesday to see old friends and to be on "familiar ground," to use his expression.

Miss Ethel DuRant, class of '12, came this way last week for the first time since her graduation. Miss DuRant is engaged in teaching at Hillsville, Virginia, and like the many other teachers Elon is sending out, she is making good.

The Boy Scouts of the town, under the direction of the Scoutmaster, Mr. H. E. Jorgenson, and accompanied by Mr. W. S. Wicker, spent last week in camp at Fort Snug a few miles North of the College.

President Harper was with Rev. S. B. Klapp at Danville, Va., Sunday. Danville is a very promising mission point in the N. C. and Va. Conference. Brother Klapp has the work well under way.

Miss Alma Newman who has been teaching at Bernard, Alabama, came home last week to spend the summer with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. U. Newman.

Miss Mabel Harris, Henderson, N. C., who is to be in the teaching force of the music department for next year was here Thursday. Miss Harris comes well recommended and well equipped for her work.

Mr. J. P. Reynolds of the News and Observer, Raleigh, was here Sunday. Mr. Reynolds leaves Raleigh July first to accept a position with the Wilmington Star.

Mr. H. O. Dixon, Wallace, N. C., who was a student here last year, is spending a few days in town with friends.

Regular communion service was held Sunday. The college pastors, Drs. Atkinson and Wellons are to have a month's vacation, this to begin July 19, and ending August 19th.

The outlook for another year continues to be bright. Applications coming in every day, and though for a while it was expected, that the enrollment for another year would be short, it looks now as if every available room will be taken—and let us hope so.

Prof. J. S. Truitt was here Friday. He is to be principal of the Merry Oaks High School for another year.

COME—WHERE?—TO THE CONVENTION

We are looking forward to a great convention this year and we are expecting you, brother superintendents, teachers, and pupils of the various Sunday schools, to help make it so. Don't forget to elect your delegates next Sunday, if you haven't already done so. Lets get in line for the Convention, get more enthusiasm, and then get to doing something for Christ.

Those coming by rail will please inform Mr. J. R. McNally, Elon College, N. C., who will arrange for entertainment, etc. We hope to have many Elon students with us at that time, and those who feel embarrassed over the thought of coming to Elon, just come right on, and friends will endeavor to make the trip a pleasant one for you. Come! for everybody is welcome at Elon.

H. SHELTON SMITH, Cor. Sec.

P. S. Don't forget to send the Corresponding Secretary your S. S. report by the first of July.

ELON COLLEGE—PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Elon College, N. C.
May 24, 1915.

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF ELON COLLEGE:

This Commencement rounds out the first quarter century of Elon history. We look back over the past and consider the blessing of God, leading to the loyal devotion of our constituency and the general esteem of the public at large, it seems to me we have every reason to be grateful and to push forward.

A RETROSPECT AND CONTRAST

It might not be out of place to state that the first year the catalogue contained 24 pages, that during that year seven teachers were employed, 106 students were enrolled, and that the equipment consisted of the Administration Building and the East Dormitory, neither of which was completed. After 25 years, the record stands as follows: pages in catalogue, 202; teachers 24, with two additional non-resident lecturers; 402 students, seven well-equipped buildings and the nucleus of an endowment, which coupled with regular donations, represents an income at 4 per cent. on more than $200,000.

But I would remind you that the expansion of the College in the affections of the people has been even greater than this marvellous growth in material things would indicate. No statistics can record the spiritual endowment which the last quarter-century has brought to Elon, during which the College has become the synonym in the public mind of that noblest of educational concepts—the strictly Christian College.

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN COLLEGE?

It will therefore at this auspicious time be appropriate, I think to raise the question, What is a Christian College? The resolution calling for Elon's establishment as adopted by our General Convention specifically stated that it should be an institution where the highest education should be had under positive religious influences, free from sectarianism. This ideal accounts for Elon's growth. If the denominational college does not offer education under positive religious influences, it has no excuse for being. The State school can do the other work of education as well, and perhaps better. We must therefore never for a minute lose sight of the fundamental thing for which we were created and now exist.

But how can we have this religious atmosphere? I have repeatedly said that it cannot be had unless all the teachers are positively Christian in their life and attitude. Dr. H. H. Sweets, Secretary for Education of the Presbyterian Church, South, has recently made such a statement and called upon his Church's institutions to look well to such matters. So has President Mullins, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Our institution which two great religious leaders accustomed to visit colleges have declared to be the most genuinely Christian of their acquaintance can but rejoice that the ideals it has so long cherished are receiving such splendid endorsement elsewhere.

But what is meant by being positively religious in life and attitude? We all know that there are various methods of giving expression to the religious life within. Some are emotional, some are talkative, some are like the majestic gulf stream in its cheering sweep toward the frozen waters of the north. A religious atmosphere can never come of an endeavor to force all teachers to look alike. Yet it must be said on the other side that the example of teachers counts far more than all their precept. If teachers are whole-hearted and punctual in their attendance on religious services, the influence on students will be unmistakably salutary. A single one who is weak in this direction will have a serious influence on all students not inclined to avail themselves of such opportunities for religious culture as the College offers. Your requirement that all teachers attend the religious exercises required of students is therefore not only wise, but necessary, and no teacher ought to be retained who refuses to accede to your regulation. In addition to this the voluntary religious organizations should have the support of the Faculty. President Watkins of Palmer College requires all his teachers to affiliate with the College Church and to attend and support all the religious organizations. There is no doubt that a mighty awakening is brewing in the land, demanding religious education, not only for Colleges, but also for the public school system, and this Board I am sure will never fail to make its position plain touching the most vital element of Elon's life and spirit.

SALIENT FEATURES OF 1914-15.

There have been a few outstanding features of the College during the past year, to which your attention should be briefly directed.

I. The College inaugurated the custom of holding the annual series of evangelistic services in the fall rather than in the winter. It gave things the right start and it is not likely that the former custom will be recurred to.

II. The Conference of the College Y. M. C. A.'s for the State met with us in the fall. This visit has tended mightily to bring us into our right valuation among our sister institutions. Our students would not have it otherwise than that their entertainment should be in the West Dormitory Dining Hall. The delegates complimented us heartily on their entertainment and we gained in their respect from that source too. We should express thanks to the student Associations here for the splendid part they had in the happy eventuation of the Conference.

III. The Y. M. C. A. employed a student secretary this year and instituted a fine program of social and community service work. This has done much to stimulate the religious life of the young men.

IV. The Y. W. C. A. has been instrumental in having the west half of the campus somewhat beautified and entertains larger plans for the future. It has also kept flowers in the College Dining Hall and in the Dining Room of the Ladies' Hall.

V. The College Pastorate idea has had a second year to display its vital part in the College life. Dr. Atkinson has become a real student leader, teaching the fourteen group leaders for the student voluntary Bible classes, stimulating a personal workers' campaign that is destined to have a much larger influence, it is already a potent factor, organizing a Pocket Testament League, and in every way feasible conserving the religious energy of the institution.

VI. Cleanliness in athletics has again been a pleasing characteristic. We won the State Basketball Championship again this year, tho' our baseball record was not flattering.

VII. The Extension Lectures instituted by the Faculty have been taken advantage of by many schools. Our Churches also will gradually come to call for them. In this way the College will bring itself into direct contact with the Church and the public.

VIII. In January, Dr. W. P. Lawrence represented Elon in the Association of American Colleges. We were admitted to membership as a standard College.

IX. The Department of Education of the State of North Carolina and of the United States have cooperated in investigating the N. C. Colleges this year. Dr. S. P. Capen visited Elon on April 28. He expressed himself as well pleased with our aims and sincerity. He pronounced our equipment good and gave us credit for fifty advanced courses, rating only fourteen as introductory. He suggested strengthening our entrance requirement in English, the specifying of certain branches of Natural Science for entrance to particular courses, and the improvement of our library facilities. Our Natural Science department he thought in particular needed strengthening. He pronounced our scientific laboratories ample for all purposes.

X. I must in terminating this catalogue of good things with grateful appreciation refer to the spirit of the College. Discipline on the hill has been easy and home-like. The sympathy of the Church and of the public has never been more marked. Harmony and cooperation with sympathy seem to be the dominant notes both within and without, and so the Elon spirit grows more potent with each receding year.

DONATIONS

The College has this year received donations to its endowment and current funds totaling $2,300.00.

The income from current funds was $5,805.00.

The Improvement account totaled $3,627.66. The College carries insurance to the amount of $87,800.00.

VALUE OF THE COLLEGE BOOKS

There is due on the College books items to the credit of the various accounts as follows:

Room Rent	$1,652.00
Boarding Department	1,867.71
Instruction Account	2,411.41
General Items	268.78

Last year the College ledger showed items amounting to $2,528.93 due on May 25. The disproportionate increase this year can be accounted for by the hard times. Under normal conditions, our finances would be in much better condition.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

S. S. LESSON, JULY 4, 1915.

Absalom's Failure. 2 Sam. 18:1-15.

Some lessons to learn, to be taught, to be discussed concerning the relations of father and son.

During David's young days we find him a man of strong, physical, mental and spiritual powers. He was a hero on the battle field both with man and beast. While persecuted by Saul he kept a balanced mind and let God have revenge.

David, as an older man, seems slack in home discipline. He is not like Eli, but still he gives his son Absalom everything he desires. David rightly loved his son, but he wrongly showed his love.

We know of fathers today who give their sons all the comforts of life and luxuries for the asking. The son begins to think that he can get anything and everything for his father has indulged him and will continue to do so. The father is unable to fasten the growing son. The son rebels—often, very often because some one else advises him to.

It was by unkindly advice that David rebelled against by his son and driven from Jerusalem. Still the father loves the son. David loved Absalom. He showed his anxiety when he commanded his three captains to treat the young man Absalom well. Then too, when the king heard the intimation of the death of his son he was grieved. Though the young man had mistreated the father he was ready with a forgiving heart. The question we want the teacher to bring out and discuss with the class—could David have prevented the revolt of Absalom? Can the son be so trained that he will not want to go against his father's or mother's will? This will apply to young women as well as young men. Is the son or daughter talked to and about too much? Is there danger in praise?

A lesson for the young men—How many times since you went to the business college, or professional school have you wanted to change completely the method of father's business, or the grouping of the skeleton of father's sermon or to use different tactics in this and in that?

The church has its Absalom's. There are many problems such as David had to deal with that the church has to cope with. The Sabbath school is helping wonderfully in keeping Absaloms in their places.

C. E. TOPIC, JULY 4.

National Ideals, and How Home Missions Will Promote Them.

Isa. 62:1-7.

The leader in outlining his remarks should review history. Tell why America was settled by some of the best bone and sinew that England and Europe produced. The Massachusetts Bay Colony was made up largely of strong sturdy Englishmen. This colony wielded a great influence on the character of the settlers; it was instrumental in changing the form of government from that of the mother country to that of what we stand for—a government by the people. The ideal of the first settlers was a country where they would be free, where liberty reigned supreme. This ideal has been kept uppermost in the hearts of American citizens.

The nation that prospers has a worthy ideal and then fosters it. Its commerce must be taken care of and protected. Its political machinery must be free from impurities. The intellect of a nation needs broadening. Schools sufficient. Then its morals must be of a high type. Instrumental in making and keeping the morals high are the homes and churches of the land. The training that is received in the homes is lasting. A nation's sons carry this training into every clime the son may chance to go.

A great field is open for home missions can wield a hand in and classes of our nation. We mean the great mass of people who work by the day. Are the homes of these people such as to keep in harmony with F. W. Robertson's definition of a home? "A happy home is the single spot of rest which a man has upon this earth for the cultivation of his noblest sensibilities."

Then too, one of the best training schools is the church of God. Our ideal is lofty but not more lofty than our religion. Home mission can wield a hand in and for the church.

We are thankful for our own nation's ideal and the stand that we take in this inexcusable catastrophe.

Our nation stands on solid principles and holds for peace and good will toward men.

A SORE NEED

One of the most important things discussed at the recent S. C. C. Woman's Board meeting at Elon College, N. C., was the matter of securing a field Secretary for our work. If the right woman can be found to visit the churches in our convention and arouse and organize our women for service, there will be a great advancement in missionary progress. The women in each of our churches should be studying about and praying for and giving to the mission cause, and until the women get interested and active, there is not much enthusiasm.

That a secretary in the field can do a great good, the following account from the Ray's Hill and So. Pennsylvania Conference proves conclusively. "At the twelve churches we visited, we were received so kindly and people were so interested that societies were organized at each church except Mt. Union." Miss Blanche Smith is their capable Secretary. They hope by the next annual conference to be able to support a missionary in Japan.

Let us pray that some woman in our midst may be found who is willing to work among our churches and awaken our people to their opportunities.

VALLEY LETTER

Immediately after my return from the Elon Commencement I began a revival meeting at Dry Run. On account of other engagements I could not hold the meeting as long as usual, but we had a good meeting. It was a busy time with the farmers, and very rainy part of the time, but the people turned out in large numbers. Twenty-six accepted Christ as their Savior, and twenty-seven united with the church. At the close of the meeting I baptized twenty-four by immersion and have one other to baptize by immersion when I go there again. We give God the praise for this good meeting. One of our greatest needs at Dry Run now is a church building.

Since returning from Dry Run I have spent a few days at Mayland visiting and getting acquainted with the folks. On account of bad weather and for lack of time I have not held a revival meeting at Mayland this year, and as this is my first year there I have not gotten acquainted very well yet. We usually have good congregations there at the regular preaching services. While we have, perhaps, not made much advancement here this year I feel that the work is in better shape to go forward.

The work at all my appointments, I think, is moving along as well as I could expect, considering the large number of churches I am trying to take care of. I am looking after conference apportionments now, and will make a determined effort to bring every one of my eleven churches up to conference with all apportionments paid in full.

Conference meets at Timber Ridge, twenty miles west of Winchester, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday before the third Sunday in August. Let every church be represented.

Our S. S. and C. E. Convention which met at New Hope, May 12 to 14 was a good convention, and much enjoyed. The new President, R. Roy Hosaflook of Linville proved himself to be a good presiding officer. Many helpful suggestions and addresses were made during the convention. The banner was awarded to the Linville school, that school having scored the highest number of points of excellence. It is hoped that many of our schools will compete earnestly for the banner next year.

The work, as a whole, goes reasonably well here, and we are hoping for greater things in the future.

CRADLE ROLL DAY

Palm St. Church, Greensboro, N. C.

On the fifth Sunday morning in May we were delighted with an half hour's exercise by the small children of our church. We intended having this service earlier in the year; but on account of a delay in finishing the addition to the church we were forced to postpone the Cradle Roll Day. At the conclusion of the children's part, the writer delivered a short sermon with special application to the children. Our Cradle Roll is only about a year old, but the good it is doing is already manifest. Mothers are brought in closer touch and fellowship with the S. S. and church. Mr. S. H. Ballard, our Cradle Roll superintendent has proved a worthy one for this place, and we are anxious that she shall continue such a model work as has been carried on for the past year.

H. S. SMITH, Pastor.

My dear Children:—

We are so glad to have some letters to adorn our page this week. It makes us feel good, and I am sure they will delight our readers also.

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the North Carolina & Virginia Conference will convene in Elon July 13-15. The time is drawing near. We hope that every Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society within the bounds of the Conference will be well represented: and that each minister, delegate and visitor who attends this Convention will pay the Orphanage a visit. We want you to see the institution and the children you are helping to support, and decide for yourselves whether it is a good investment. Our children will perhaps give an exercise on Wednesday evening of the Convention. This will be worth your trip to the Convention.

Henderson, N. C., June 15, 1915.
Dear Uncle Jim:—

I am about to be one of the little girls "gone a fishing", but I will take a little time to think about you all. I hope you are having a pleasant summer. I am enjoying riding the horses at noon and night when they come from work. Mr. Stuart is staying some with us again this summer; and I enjoy playing with him.

Uncle Jim, do your little ones like going to the dew berry vines for berries? I do.

I close with my dime and love for each of your family, Lovingly, Virginia P. Ayscue.

We are glad to hear from you and to learn of your pleasant summer. Yes, our children are very fond of berries.

Holland, Va., June 17, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—

We decided last Sunday to send one Sunday's offering each month for the support of the little orphan children. We have been trying to have our Sunday school join you for some time, but did not succeed until last Sunday.

Uncle Jim, I am busy this morning helping mama iron, so please accept a short letter for this time, with our love and dimes.

Your sincere little friends,

Mary Nell Holland,
J. Howard Holland.

We are grateful for the good news your letter brings. I am sure the good people of Holy Neck will take great pleasure in contributing monthly for the support of the Orphanage.

Magnolia, Va., June 18, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—

Guess all at the Orphanage think I am not going to write any more. My grandmother, whom I wrote you about being sick, died about two weeks ago; so you see I have had a very poor chance to write.

Enclosed find my dues for May and June.

Annie Lee Felton.

Sorry to hear of the death of your dear grandmother. We all sympathize with you very much.

Wakefield, Va., June 23, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—

I have been sick a week with the tooth ache. I am having a nice vacation since school closed. I went to the children's day at Millfield Sunday and had a real nice time. Enclosed find dime and much love for you and all the cousins.
Martha Barrett.

I would suggest that you have that aching tooth pulled.

Raleigh, N. C., June 18, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—

This is my first letter to your Corner. I am a little girl five years old and go to the Christian Sunday school. I have a cute little brother nearly two years old. I am sending you a nickle for myself and one for little brother.

Your little niece,

Catharine Morgan.

Thank you Catharine, we are so glad to have you write. Hope you may become a regular contributor to our page. Would like to see you and your cute little brother.

MARRIAGES

West-Hiller

At the residence of the bride's mother on 25th Street a very pretty marriage was solemnized Sunday, June 13, when Miss Fleeta Hiller became the bride of Mr. C. D. West, the popular S. S. Supt. of the Rose Hill Christian Church. The bride's uncle, Rev. W. H. Hiller officiated. A long life and much happiness is the wish of their many friends.
B. J. Earp.

Fultz-Liskey

Mr. Luther Charles Fultz and Miss Mabel Catherine Liskey were united in matrimony at the home of the writer on June 10. After the ceremony they motored to Harrisonburg where they boarded the train for Washington and other points of interest. Mrs. Fultz is a daughter of deacon and Mrs. A. H. Liskey of New Hope, and is an active member of the church there. These are excellent young people, and their many friends wish and predict for them a happy life. They will reside at the home of the groom near Mt. Solon.
A. W. ANDES.

Shea-Kelly

On May 28, 1915, in Gates Co., N. C., Mr. Harry E. Shea and Miss Lucy H. Kelly of Nansemond Co., Va., were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Only a few immediate friends were present to witness the ceremony. Mr. Shea is a promising young farmer of the county and the bride is one of the popular young ladies of Suffolk. They will reside in the county. The ceremony was performed by the writer.
I. W. JOHNSON.

Sears-Hurley

At the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. L. C. Alred, June 17th Mr. J. L. Sears and Miss Ada Hurley were married, the writer performing the ceremony. The bride has many friends in Rainsour, and they are united in wishing her well. The groom is from Randleman.

Crimes of the Shoe.

Polite society requires the wearing of shoes.
Compliance means hardship for the feet.

Chafing of hosiery and shoes, excess pressure at some points, moisture, heat and germ laden dust combine to produce soreness, corns, bunions, blisters and allied troubles.

An excellent treatment is to anoint the feet with Mentholatum after bathing them.

The effect is cooling and pleasant, allaying inflammation, reducing pain, and encouraging rapid healing of many foot troubles.

Richmond, Va., June 3, 1915. To F. C. Kellam and Staff of the Kellam Hospital, Richmond, Va.: Gentlemen—Upon my arrival at the Kellam Hospital, the 7th of May, I wrote a letter to my city paper in Clinton, S. C., to let my friends know where I was and why I was in Richmond.

In that letter I told them of the Kellam Hospital, of its large brick building with every convenience for comfort, with the best furniture, and cleanliness their main feature, meals bountiful and the kind the patients need. The nurses always ready to serve, porters at their post night and day. Since that time I have been confined most of the time in the hospital, not being able to walk but very little.

When I came to Richmond over a month ago, I expected to see but little of the Reunion. We receive the daily papers at the hospital and being an old Confederate soldier, having spent four years in dear Old Virginia, my feelings every morning was to read something about the Reunion, the great preparations being made to care for the Old Soldier. I was made to feel proud of the welcome being extended by the city of Richmond.

On last Monday, the day before Reunion day, I noticed new faces in the hospital and they were being received with so much joy (I might say love), and they continued to come and receive such attention and courtesy that I was led to ask what all this meant, had the Kellams open up a hotel or was there a reunion at the hospital. I had become somewhat jealous that strangers were being given more attention than the patients, so I went out on inspection to learn something. Well, what did I find but they were his old patients that had been cured of cancer and had come to see all the Kellams at the hospital. I must say that no reunion of the Old Soldiers could be more joyous or could be received with more kind feelings and gladness than that shown their old patients by the Kellams—and where did they come from—I might say the four corners of the earth. I see them from Virginia and nearly all the Southern States. There is one feature at the Kellams that is so noticeable to me that if I would fail to mention, would do the patients great injustice, and that is the social feature among the patients. It would seem that there was a common sympathy for each other that have cancer. All try to be cheerful and try to help others to be the same. It is interesting to see sometimes the grouping of the states of the patients, and hear the jolly laugh from some, that to look at them you would not expect to hear the jolly laugh. Cheerfulness seems to prevail at all times after the patient arrives here and have time to see the many happy patients on the road to recovery.

Sincerely, W. A. Shands, M. D., Clinton, S. C.

The above voluntary expression from a physician of prominence in South Carolina tells its own story. There could be no happy reunions of cured cancer patients if the disease could not be permanently cured. Neither would patients under treatment be jolly or happy unless the rapid recovery of other patients with whom they come in contact gave them assurance of their own bright prospect of restored health.

OUR DEAD

Gilliam

Died June 12th, 1915, Jessie Mildred Gilliam, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gilliam, of Glenwood, Greensboro, N. C., aged three months and nine days. The funeral services were conducted from the home Sunday afternoon, June 13th by the writer. The burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Greensboro, N. C. The many relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gilliam deeply sympathize with them in the death of their only child.

P. H. FLEMING.

Titus

Little Walter Junius Titus, infant son, two years and six days old, of Harry Johnston Titus and wife who was Annie Ballard Carr, died at his grandmother's residence in Suffolk on June 6th, and was buried on Sunday, June 6th, from the home. He was the grandchild of Deacon and Mrs. S. J. Carr. His grandfather was the only J. Deacon in the church, but a Sunday school teacher and a member of the choir.

The little fellow was a great sufferer, but very bright and in his brief life won the hearts of the entire family. His father is a Civil Engineer and they have been living in Boston; but he has been transferred to the C. & O. Ry., and they will now reside in Richmond.

A sweet service in which a quartette sang "Sleep My Little One," beautiful flowers, love's tears, and we laid him to rest in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

W. W. STALEY.

Dorsett

Paul Gardner Dorsett, infant son of G. C. and Mattie Gardner Dorsett, died June 11th after an illness of two days. This was the first child to come into the home of its parents, and only remained seven weeks.

The body was brought from Greensboro and buried at Park's Cross Roads. The father and mother have the sympathy of their many friends in the community in their sore bereavement.

T. E. WHITE.

Oates

Emma F. Oates, wife of D. E. Oates was born Nov. 17, 1891, and died June 8, 1915.

She was a daughter of Geo. W. Williams, and until her marriage October 15, 1914, lived in Ramseur, where she had many friends.

She was a member of the M. E.

church at Ramseur. During her illness she expressed a willingness to die and said that she was ready.

She was buried at Pleasant Grove, and a large congregation of sympathetic friends were present. She leaves a husband, father, two brothers, and one sister who mourn her departure.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

A Bankrupt City.

The treasurer of the city of Nashville, Tennessee, is under arrest for misappropriating the sum of ten thousand dollars; the assistant treasurer has fled the country for fear of apprehension; and the city finance commissioner is under arrest for crooked financial conduct. And a receiver has been asked for to take charge of the city's bankrupt affairs. Drink and lust and crime slay their thousands; the love of money its ten thousands. "For the love of money is the root of all evil." (I Tim. 6:10).

The Saving Power

We are hearing much of better roads, better farms, better schools; and this is well, for all are needed. But neither roads, farms nor schools can save a race. Only the church can do that, and the church only as it preaches and teaches the gospel of Jesus the Christ. It behooves the church as never before to be on hand with its program, its equipment, its leadership, its strength. Material prosperity, and cultural progress, will count for nothing unless the church shall be in the van. Only the church of God, alive, visible, progressive, can furnish the crowning motive and safe ideal of life. "The church which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all" (Eph. 1:22, 23).

Now.

The present moment is very generous and kind to us. There is always something to be glad about and thankful for now. All unhappiness is borrowed, either from the past in shape of remorse, or from the future in shape of fear and dread. "The present is always tolerable," says Frank Crane. "You drag up from the pit of the past your sins and follies and mistakes, and load them on the poor little now, and when you are not doing that you are reaching forward to the future and imagining things disagreeable that are going to happen and piling them upon the back of poor little Now." Most of us suffer from many troubles, three fourths of which never occur. We live in the anticipation of horrors that never happen. "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; and yet * * * Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." (Matt. 6:28, 29.)

The Habit of Communing.

In Hebrews, chapter eleven, the writer thereof did not tell, with any degree of satisfaction, what faith is; but he did show, with unquestionable veracity, what faith does. Fact is where faith just is, it isn't much. For faith does, it acts, it has experience. "Faith is more than opinion; it is an experience," says Lyman Abbott. "Faith in God is not an opinion that God exists, it is the habit of communing with Him." So thought the writer of the Hebrews (11:2), "For by it the elders obtained a good report."

The Only Necessity.

They are paying the penalty of wrong doing in Europe at a fearful rate. This war is but a scourge for sins committed, for blunders made, for falsehoods perpetrated. Conflict remains. "We comfort ourselves," wrote a philosopher "with the phrase that war is a necessary evil. There are no necessary evils. The only necessary thing in the world is righteousness." It never has been necessary, it never will be, that men do wrong. All evil is unbecoming, unnecessary, wholly out of place. "The ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them; but the transgressors shall fall therein." (Hos. 14:9).

The Sublime Vision.

We catch the sublime vision by being, by thinking, by desiring the sublime thing. Only the noble and true can see and know the noble and true. We enjoy that fellowship of the best only by seeking ourselves to be and do the best. "Never can any advantage be taken of nature by a trick," wrote Emerson. "The Spirit of the world, the great calm Presence of the Creator, comes not forth to the sorceries of opium or of wine. The sublime vision comes to the pure and simple soul in a clean and chaste body." The sore and sordid mind cannot think the true and beautiful thoughts of almighty God in evidence everywhere in all His universe. The most costly thing in all this realm of being is insincerity, impurity, uncleanness. For only "the pure in heart shall see God." (Matt. 5:8).

To Him that Hath.

Harvard University has received gifts the past year to the amount of $995,000 this being no unusual year either for gifts to that great institution. There was one gift of $125,000 in honor of James J. Hill, the great railroad financier, and is to go for the endowment of a professorship in transportation. It has been said that a man of means in Massachusetts can't die decently unless he provides something in his will for Harvard, a corporation that already controls millions. When one sees institutions as worthy and as meritorious as Harvard struggling to do their good and unselfish work in the world one wonders why so much pours into the coffers of the great, so little comes, and with such seeming grudge, into the needy treasury of the small. But it illustrates that Scripture which says, "For unto one that hath shall be given * * *; but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath" (Matt. 25:29).

Automobiles.

These are new in history, but not in prophecy. Thousands of years ago the prophet saw and said "The Chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways: they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings." (Nah. 2:4). It is doubtful if a present day writer could, in a few words, describe the automobile better than the prophet did here.

The Third Element.

A generation or more ago the eminent German historian, Mommsen, warned his fellow countrymen in these words "Have a care, lest in this State, which has been at once a power in arms and a power in intelligence, the intelligence should vanish, and nothing but the pure military State should remain." The warning was insufficient and was unheeded, for besides intelligence and arms a State must needs have the spirit of the Prince of Peace, and a love for all mankind that faileth not. The German State had sufficient culture and sufficient arms; but more was needed: "And the work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness quietness and assurance forever." (Isa. 32:17).

Goats.

In prosperous and fertile regions men do not prize the goat at his true value; but from the beginning, this curious and confident animal has been the faithful ally and true friend of man. When the ancient Israelite had no lamb without blemish to bring to the sacrifice, he was permitted to bring a kid. And when a sin offering, and an atonement, were to be made to the Lord for the people, the goat was to be accepted, and when sins were to be borne away, a scape-goat was burdened with the task. No animal whose deeds are recorded in history has served his past more faithfully and well, with less complaint and honor. There are estimated to be in the world today no less than 35,000,000 of these animals modestly and uncomplainingly feeding on food such as the more glorious animals disdain. On one area of 15,000 square miles in Switzerland, where mountains are sterile and threatening, there are produced yearly $8,000,000 worth of goats and goat products. The peasantry of Spain, Italy, and Greece obtain many million dollars yearly from the goat and goat products, and many men, women and children would perish without him. Christ did not compare him to the wicked, in the final judgment, as many seem to believe, but used him and the sheep in relation to the shepherd to show that there would be a clear-cut and separate division made in the final reckoning. The goat is not used as a type of the bad in the Bible, but as a type of distinction and separation, as is also the sheep. The goat is like the vast, silent, unsung, unhonored, multitude of men and women who day by day go quietly about their merial task, adding, in their unpretentious way, to the wealth and supply of the world's wants, and exemplifying in their lives what wisest of men wrote "Before honor is humility." (Prov. 15:33).

EDITORIAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTIONS

THE SUN carries notices this week that certainly deserve heed and approved attention. The season of the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Conventions is upon us. The schools and societies certainly need all the inspiration that these Conventions can bring. But only that school or society that is represented in the Convention through intelligent and interested delegates will get it.

The Conventions have prepared helpful and wholesome programs, and will offer the best word, and the wisest, in Sunday-school management and teaching. When the school goes through the year with its own methods and ideas it must needs acquire new and improved ones if it is to live and move forward.

The Eastern North Carolina meets at Wentworth, McCullers, next Tuesday at 8 P. M. Superintendent Chas. H. Stephenson, of Hillsboro St. Sunday school, Raleigh, is president of the Convention and that of itself guarantees a live, active, business-like session. There is no man of all our number more interested in Sunday-school, and with better ideas about them, than C. H. Stephenson. All the schools of Eastern Convention will need to get in touch with his ideas and methods of making a school a success. Read and heed his notice in another column.

The North Carolina and Virginia Convention meets at the same time at Elon College. Rev. H. Shelton Smith is Corresponding Secretary of this Convention and is laboring diligently to make it a success in every way. He has provided a full program of attractive features, and the schools of the body should have their delegates present to get advantage of the good things offered.

Friday before the fourth Sunday of July the Western N. C. meets with the church at Pleasant Ridge. Rev. J. F. Morgan, Graham, N. C., is president of this Convention and is eager for a large attendance. The pastors especially are urged to make note of this meeting and not only urge others to be present, but be present themselves. Read Pres. Morgan's notice in another column and get the good to be derived from giving heed thereto. This is to be a wide awake session with a full and fine program.

Then the Eastern Va. meets at Antioch, near Windsor, July 28, 29, 30. The pastor, Rev. H. H. Butler writes in another column of this session. Bro. Blanchard of Norfolk has built a most timely program and there are many features that the schools of the Convention can't afford to miss.

It is certainly desired that all the schools get the benefit of these conventions; and the way to do this is to elect delegates and then see to it that the delegates attend and bring back the inspiration and information the sessions have to offer.

OUR ORPHANAGE

The appeals of our Orphanage, through its superintendent, Rev. J. O. Cox, should not go unheeded. Because of their repetition they may seem trivial and a matter of course. The church has no enterprise that partakes more of the spirit of true charity than the support of its motherless and fatherless ones. Through this institution the church seeks to take the place, do the work, and supply the need of father and mother.

From the beginning Superintendent Cox has labored with the utmost diligence and zeal to build the right sort of character at the institution and inspire the right ideals and hopes in the minds and hearts of the boys and girls intrusted to his care. The moral and religious training in the institution are of the highest type, and the utmost care and economy are practiced in the administration of affairs there. Bro. Cox and his faithful co-laborers certainly deserve not only the sympathy, but the active support and co-operation of the entire brotherhood in their great work of caring for the orphanage and rightly training the more than fifty young lives intrusted to their care and keep.

THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN

The hope of mankind is in doing the will of God. Men will devour each other in war, cheat each other in business, and slander each other in conversation till they learn this fact, and adopt this program—that of finding out and doing the will of God.

Again and again Lord Christ told us while He was on earth what the kingdom of heaven was like. He wanted that kingdom to be established on earth, and did all within His human and divine power to get it established. Because He wanted a kingdom here among men ruled by love and not by force, and sustained by justice, mercy and peace instead of by greed, madness and arms, they crucified Him, and thought to get clear of Him and His teachings forever. But they were mistaken. He will not be defeated. His prayer will not go unanswered.

"Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven." He had taught His followers to pray, to long and to work for. And the effort must not be in vain.

The kingdom of heaven is to pervade all the kingdoms of this earth and the perfect will of God is yet to be done among the children of men every where.

There is war in Europe and in America and in many parts of the earth today. This is because of man's rebellious and proud spirit; his unwillingness to know and do the will of God. The nations have made, and are making money their god and power in arms their hope and stay. This is contrary to the teaching of the Word of God and violates every commandment of God. The economist may explain and the historians may warn and the teachers may point out; but the hope of man is in learning and in doing the will of God.

The Christian pulpit has upon it now a responsibility such as it has never had, and an opportunity the like of which will not occur soon again. That responsibility is that of preaching and of teaching the real spirit and true meaning of the gospel of the Son of Light; and the opportunity has been enlarged because a civilization based on culture, force, militarism has crumbled to the dust and men are seeing as they never saw before the dependence of the world upon the life and teachings of the Prince of Peace.

The kingdom of heaven is to be established on earth, and it will be, when men learn every where that their and the world's hope is in knowing and doing the will of God. In that and that alone is health, hope, peace and happiness.

DEBT

"Owe no man anything but to love one another," said Paul in an inspired sentence. But the world has not taken him at his word, and suffering and sorrow have increased accordingly. Men of every walk in life go deeper and deeper in debt every year. And the world's indebtedness today is greater than ever before in the history of man. "He that goes a-borrowing goes a-sorrowing. Pride that dines on Vanity sups with Contempt. Many a one, for the sake of finery on the back, has gone hungry; silks and satins, scarlet and velvets put out the kitchen fire. These are not the necessities of life; they can scarcely be called the conveniences. The artificial wants of mankind thus becomes more numerous than the natural. And after all, of what use is this pride of appearance, for which so much is risked, so much suffered? It cannot promote health nor ease pain; it makes no increase of merit in the person; it creates envy; it hastens misfortune. But what madness it must be to run in debt for the superfluities!" So wrote Benjamin Franklin a long time ago, and truly; but his lesson goes unheeded. "Wherefore do ye spend your money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fastness." (Isa. 55:2).

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—At a recent commencement dinner Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court used this sentence which should inspire hope and courage: "The best lesson of the past is that there is a better future."

—Do you want printing of any sort? Then let the Southern Christian Pub. Co., Elon College, N. C., have your patronage. It guarantees the very neatest and best work at most reasonable and satisfactory prices.

—Rev. H. Shelton Smith, pastor, wrote under date June 21st, "Meeting closed at Palm St. Sunday night. Greatest revival ever held at the church. There were 75 professions." (This note was crowded out of previous issue).

—On June 21 the British government voted authority to its exchequer to raise five billion dollars for war purposes, a sum of money whose magnitude no human mind can grasp, and the biggest war loan ever authorized in the annals of mankind.

—The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Eastern N. C. Conference which convenes at Wentworth, McCullers, N. C., next Tuesday at 8 P. M., July 13, promises to be the best session in the history of that body. It will be a wide-awake Convention.

—Rev. S. B. Klapp, pastor, urges that all who have subscribed to the building fund of the Danville church send in the amount thereof, as it is now much needed. This is a most promising point and all who have helped, or shall do so, will have occasion to rejoice over their investment.

—Rev. B. J. Earp writes most hopefully of the work at Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga., of which he is pastor. A missionary society has been organized recently with fourteen charter members. The average church attendance has greatly increased in recent months, and there have been twenty-five professions of faith in Christ the past quarter.

—Bro. M. E. Winston, former Publishing Agent, writes from Louisburg, N. C., that his wife who has been quite ill is rapidly recovering and hopes are entertained for her complete recovery. Bro. Winston is taking a teacher's course in the Summer School at the University and expects to teach next year. He made many friends while with THE SUN and will succeed in the class room.

—Rev. W. B. Fuller, of Henderson, R. 4, and Mr. Roger White, Waverly, Va., are traveling this Summer in the interest of THE CHRISTIAN SUN and our Publishing House. Mr. Fuller travels in North Carolina, Mr. White in Virginia. If SUN readers will give these brethren new subscriptions, renewals and job work, the favor will be greatly appreciated both by the House and by these worthy men.

—Our government is moving to get all its 400,000 employees in various parts of the country vaccinated against typhoid fever. Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department estimates that this will save 3,000 people from periods of invalidism and will save 300 lives annually. He has designated 164 stations where federal employees may be treated free of charge to the individual.

—A former teacher in Cornell University, Frank Holt placed a bomb in the capitol at Washington one day last week and wrecked a room in the building doing great damage thereto, and next day forced his way into the home of J. Pierpont Morgan at Glen Cove, N. Y., where he endeavored to assassinate Mr. Morgan. Holt is detained in prison but is supposed to be mentally unbalanced.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of Henderson church, Rev. A. T. Banks, pastor, has recently purchased and installed a nice piano for the use of church and Sunday school. The Christian Endeavor society sent a delegate to the State Convention at Wilmington and paid all his expenses. The Woman's Missionary Society numbers 27. No wonder the work goes well in Henderson church with such auxiliaries to help.

—One of the sanest and most reasonable requests ever made of any Sunday school is that it give one offering a month to the support of our Orphanage. Yet there are many schools amongst us who will not heed that request. No wonder such schools have a struggle to pay their current expenses and keep going. As long as we think and provide for self only there isn't much hope or prospect for our growth, life, usefulness or permanence.

—The following from the Methodist Protestant Herald is given as "Elon's New Policy": "Elon College on May 25th rounded out its 25th year. The year just closed was marked by the largest enrollment yet attained, more than 400 having been in attendance. The Board of Trustees decided that for the future the enrollment should be limited to 400. They believe the college of that size is able to render a definite contribution to character development not possible under other conditions. Their attention for the next few years, if not permanently, will be directed to the making of Elon an ideal small college for just 400 students. The president and faculty are in thorough sympathy with this policy.

—The editor of THE SUN had the privilege of officiating Wednesday evening, June 30, at the marriage of Prof. James Blaine Scarborough of the A. & M. Faculty, and Miss Lessie Neville, a former Elon College student, in the Christian church at Chapel Hill, N. C. The church was beautifully decorated and amid sweet music, fragrant flowers and a happy throng these two well equipped and promising young people pledged their troth and began the journey of life together. The bride was one of Chapel Hill's most accomplished young women and is the daughter of Bro. David Neville, a merchant of the town. Prof. Scarborough was a former student and graduate of the University. It was a beautiful and solemn church marriage with brides-maids, grooms-men and attendants to cheer the happy pair and share the joys of the festive occasion.

TO PASTORS OF E. VA. CONFERENCE

Franklin, Va., July 2, 1915.

Dear Brother Pastor:—

The Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods will be held at Virginia Beach, July 19-25. We want each pastor to talk for it, pray for it, and plan for it. It is a great opportunity to the people of our Conference to have such a meeting brought right to our doors. The people do not appreciate the greatness of it yet, and its success, in a large part, depends on the interest of the pastors. We must have better trained workers in our Conference and churches, and here is the place to get them. Won't you see that your church, Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society have at least one representative each? We want every pastor, every superintendent, every president of C. E. Society, and as many teachers as possible to be present during the entire week. Read the program to your people, and let them know what is in store for them. We are counting on you.

C. H. ROWLAND,
Pres. of E. Va., Chris. Con.

SUFFOLK LETTER

"Thirty-Six" is a brochure of 24 pages condensed from "College Men Without Money" by the author of that unique and helpful book. The pamphlet sells for 10 cents and contains thirty-six excerpts from the book, with a word from P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education. His words are weighty and luminous and are well worth ten cents for which the booklet is sold.

Education is really an apprenticeship for life's highest and best service, and is not an easy road to an idle life. There is no justification in commending education as a means of increasing human earning capacity by decreasing human service. A river is educated when a dam is thrown across it to keep it from having its own way and turning its energy into working power. The discipline of education heads off human nature in its easy inclinations and turns its powers into real work. Work is the ultimate in education and good education produces good results. Activity is the law of matter as well as life. We know that the stella world is in motion all the time, and every atom in the universe moves on its own axis, as perfectly as the stars. Jesus said, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." So we have lessons in the material world and the spiritual world suggesting that the human world ought to work.

Again, the parable says: "Son, go work today in my vineyard." Hence we see that the Kingdom of God is a place for work, and not for "ease in Zion." I heard a person say: "I want to get to heaven where I can sit down and rest." That is a low concept of heaven. It certainly cannot be a place of inactivity of "do nothing" forever. That would be a monotony equal to perdition. In Revelation 7:15 it is said that they who come out of great tribulation "serve Him day and night in His temple," and in Revelation 22:3 it is said that "His servants serve Him." The higher the life the more the work. Idleness is considered the lowest form of human life; and even a watch becomes useless when it ceases to work. Gold and jewels count for nothing when it does not work with the sun. The most useless member in the church is the member who does nothing.

Every step upward from the lowest savagery to the highest civilization is characterized by increase in work. Work is the law of existence. It is the law of life. It is the law of love. It is the law of God. It is the law of progress. It is the law of salvation. Whoever despises work despises God and Christ and civilization. Rocking the cradle is not the whim of the mother, it is response to the demand of the child for activity. You cannot keep the child still. The command may be given in the home; "Children, be still;" but before quiet reigns motion begins anew. Quiet comes with age when powers lose their energy and steps go slowly toward the grave; and we go toward the grave in reverse order from the cradle. From the cradle the order is activity of body, mind, spirit—physical, intellectual, moral—toward the grave we decline in body, mind, and spirit. The moral nature is last to develop and last to decline. It is beautiful to see the moral and spiritual powers active in the Christian after body and mind grow feeble and dull. But it is even so. As Noah entered into the ark which he had built himself so every, every soul constructs its own house and fashions its own crown. God puts no crown on unworthy heads and no scepter into idle hands.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Miss Lena Ragsdale, Fuquay Springs, N. C., has accepted a position with the Southern Christian Publishing Company.

Mr. Frank Cagle and Mr. McCarn of Randolph County visited Mr. D. W. Brown and family last week.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the town held appropriate exercises Sunday at which time the Mite Boxes were opened. The Society is doing aggressive work and aiding materially in extending the Kingdom.

Mr. M. A. Reitzel of the village spent the week end with friends in the Pleasant Hill section near Liberty. This was Mr. Reitzel's first visit to that section in thirty years and he reports a vast change—all for the good. Mr. John G. Truitt accompanied Mr. Reitzel and filled the pulpit at Pleasant Hill church Saturday and Sunday for Rev. L. I. Cox, the pastor.

Mr. H. E. Jorgenson was in Siler City Saturday and Sunday with friends.

Miss Annie Rode, a special representative of the Southern Railway Co., was here last week in interest of the grounds about the station. Miss Rode has done much for the improvement of the depot plot and expects to continue her work until she has made it a sequestered spot and in keeping with the College campus.

Many of the citizens have attended the Chautauqua at Burlington for the past few days and report a most helpful and instructive program. Every phase of knowledge and intelligence is now being brought to the doors of the people, and we are of the opinion that the Chautauqua is doing a great and lasting good for the country.

Improvements continue about the College plant and every indication points to a most successful year for 1915-16.

Mrs. D. Humble has been sick for several days. She is now at her home near here and we trust for her a speedy recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Humble fill a great place with the College.

Rev. Mr. Lightbourne is this week holding a meeting for the town of Ether, N. C. Practically all his time has been taken up from now until Christmas. A call came for him this week to hold a meeting for Grace Church, Greensboro, N. C., sometime in the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Smith of Fuquay Springs, N. C., were here Monday visiting the family of Mr. Zeb Atkinson. They were on their way to Spartanburg, S. C. for an extended vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McNally, son Carl and daughter Edna are at Asheville, N. C., for a vacation.

Mr. R. E. Phillips and family have returned to Winston-Salem after having spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Womble.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS

Virginia Beach, July 19-25.

It seems that we are to have the very cream of things at our Chautauqua. Miss Elizabeth Harris, the N. Y. State Elementary Supt. and specialist is in attendance at the Training School of the Interational Sunday School Association at Lake Geneva, Wis., July 2-11; so also is Rev. H. G. Rowe, the new President of the Illinois State S. S. Association. Dr. W. A. Harper is in attendance at the World's Christian Endeavor Convention at Chicago, July 7-12. All these and others probably of our faculty will come fresh with the very best from these mountain peaks of inspiration. All those Elementary workers of our schools, all those in the adult Bible classes, all those who attend these Christian Endeavor expert classes at our Chautauqua will have the benefit of these great gatherings and speakers. Can you afford not to come?

The music will be inspiring and helpful. Dr. I. W. Johnson will have full charge of the music work. The Patterson Jubilee singers of Buffalo will furnish an evening's entertainment.

We are asking all our pastors and superintendents to help sell season tickets in advance. Will you write to the Ass't General Secretary, Rev. G. D. Eastes or the undersigned for a package of them? The season tickets are only the nominal sum of one dollar. We believe many of the friends of the cause will invest that amount even if they cannot attend and thus show a personal interest in its success.

Remember that Rev. Dr. O. B. Whittaker, Glenceo, Fla., will preach the Convocational Sermon Monday night at 8 o'clock, July 19. Dr. Whittaker is a great preacher. He has never been in the Norfolk section of our country. He is a thrilling speaker. He is the author of "Herbert Brown," "Dick Healey," "Uncle Bijah." Some rich things are in store for those who attend this session. Do not miss the opening session and Dr. Whittaker's message. It will stay with you throughout life. The members of the faculty will be introduced Tuesday morning.

Write to-day for further information, program, season tickets, and then help bring a blessing to some others by inviting them to come.

WARREN H. DENISON, Pres.

DO IT NOW

Many reports of the various Sunday schools have been sent in already, but there are several schools who as yet have sent in no report. Please elect your delegates at once, and send in your annual report for the past year's work. A much longer delay will mean a vacant spot on the chart for your school, so get busy and get your report in by return mail.

Also, remember that three cents is expected for each member of the Sunday school enrolled. The report may be sent in advance of the money; only be sure to state the amount of money that will be sent, or brought by the delegates.

The first session of the Convention will be held at Elon College Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, July 13th, and we hope every person coming at all can come for the first session.—Will you be there?

H. SHELTON SMITH, Cor. Sect'y.

MISSIONS AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Those who have in charge the program for our Chautauqua and School of Methods, at Virginia Beach, have, we believe, acted wisely in giving such prominence to the subject of missions. We are assured, and feel sure, that there is a feast in store for those who attend and care for the things for which missions stand. We are looking forward in expectation for help and inspiration from those messages on Evangelism, that message on Missionary Methods for the Elementary Grades, that message on The Minister and the World Kingdom, these four messages on The Missionary Conscience, and that message on The Church outside her own doors and other helpful messages.

I should like to make a plea in the name of the Christian Missionary Association of the Eastern Va. Conference for a large attendance of its members upon the sessions of the Chautauqua, and that they speak to others calling attention to the rich things in store for those who attend.

It will mean larger things for us as a people and larger things for the kingdom for more of our people to catch the missionary vision.

W. D. HARWARD, President C. M. A.

NOTICE!

The S. S. Convention of the E. Va., C. Conference will meet at Antioch, near Windsor, Va., July 28, 29, 30. We hope that every S. S. will be well represented. On Saturday, June 19th, arrangements were made as far as possible for the coming Convention, committees were appointed to look after the different departments of the work. Committee on transportation, J. W. Bradshaw, C. L. Griffin, S. G. Barrett. All who come by rail will get off at Windsor, Va.

We want all who expect to attend the Convention to write to Bro. J. W. Bradshaw, Zuni, Va., R. F. D.

Let all who expect to come by rail be sure to write Bro. Bradshaw so that arrangements may be made to take you from Windsor, Va., to the church.

H. H. BUTLER, Pastor.

ATTENTION

A "live wire" convention, composed of live wire Sunday school workers of live wire ideas and methods will begin Tuesday evening, July 13, at 8 o'clock at Wentworth Christian Church, McCullers, N. C., and continue through Thursday afternoon, July 14. From the dynamic Sunday school experts on the program will flow currents of inspiration and enthusiasm which your school needs. All preparations have been made and everything stands in readiness for your coming. Your presence alone will complete the circuit. Connect up with the live wire service. Through you we can electrify your school.

NOTICE!

(Committee Meeting)

The Educational Committee of the Eastern N. C. Christian Conference will hold their annual mid-year session on Tuesday evening, July 13th, 1915, 7 o'clock P. M., at McCullers, N. C. All young men contemplating entering Elon College this fall as ministerial students, who have not been admitted to the class, will present your application either in person or in writing, as admittance to the class is required before entering Elon College as a ministerial student. All ministerial students desiring the examination for licensure, and licentiates for ordination at the next annual conference will kindly give notice at this meeting or to the chairman not later than September the 5th, so the committee may give such information as desired and arrange the time and place for the examination.

C. E. NEWMAN, Chairman.

THE WESTERN N. C. CONVENTION

Again we call attention to the S. S. and C. E. Convention of the Western N. C. Conference which meets at Pleasant Ridge church Friday before the 4th Sunday in July at 2:00 P. M. Let every Sunday school in the bounds of this convention see to it that it has a delegate and a report at this convention. Don't fail to write Mr. E. W. Brown, Ramseur, N. C., R. F. D. No. 1, and tell him you are coming.

Blanks will be sent to each school to aid in making your report. Please make these reports as correct as possible.

Bro. Pastor in the Western Conference, we are expecting you to attend the Convention. A motion was passed at our last Convention to the effect that the pastors within the bounds of said convention please attend, if possible, and if they could not, to give their excuse to this writer that he might make such reasons known to the convention. Hence, I am expecting to see you at the convention to help make it a success.

J. F. MORGAN, Pres.

RALEIGH LETTER

On Sunday, June 13th, we began a series of meetings. Rev. J. F. Morgan of Graham came on Monday and remained for ten days. The meetings had been advertised and cottage prayer-meetings held. Our people and many others were impressed with Bro. Morgan's earnest, practical messages. Congregations increased from evening to evening till our auditorium was about filled. Sunday, June the 20th, was the great day of the meeting. It was decision day in the Sunday school. Bro. Morgan talked about fifteen minutes on "Making a Decision." In response to his appeal nearly every pupil present, beyond the primary grades who was not a Christian came forward and publicly accepted Christ. There were about fifteen professions during the day. In addition to the sixteen services at the church while here Bro. Morgan preached twice at the Soldier's Home, addressed a number of prisoners on two occasions at the Penitentiary and talked at the noon hour on Friday to the men at the Seaboard shops.

The visible results of the meeting are thirty professions, twelve accessions to the church and expressions from a large number of church people of their intention to be more consecrated to duty.

The Sunday school has an enrollment of over two hundred in all departments. The increase in attendance has been about twenty-five percent in the past six months. A Junior Baraca class is to be organized and more class rooms are needed. The average attendance at preaching has been above normal during the past quarter.

Solomon Anointed King.
(1 King 1:1-12:12).

Golden Text: Know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind.—1 Chronicles 28:9.

David in the Back Ground

We have completed the study of 1st and 2nd Samuel. In these two books we have studied the character of Samuel, as judge, Saul, as king, and more recently the character of David. The study of the books of Kings is a continuation of the characters found in the books of Samuel. David is still our principal character. Today we find an old man, age seventy, gradually becoming weaker. He has had many hardships during his military career, which sapped his young energetic body of its strength; domestic troubles entered his household together with the severe punishment God placed upon him for his lust and the grief that visited him on account of the conduct of his son, Absalom; all these sought the source of his vitality and told mightily on his strength.

A Son's Grief

Absalom was wayward and had evil companions. He went with and kept company with evil companions. Was slain in his sins. His brother, Adonijah, followed him in the same steps, striving for the crown. When a man is in sin he thinks little of the result of his deeds. Absalom had failed and Adonijah did not profit by his failure.

This is so often the case now. Men and women are living and dying in their sins, and others deliberately follow the broad way.

Adonijah thought he was safe because he had a few influential men on his side. This is not sufficient. We need influential hearts in our bodies then we stand a better chance for victory.

David's Promise

David had promised Solomon's mother that Solomon should be his successor. Nathan the prophet, knew of David's promise and of the actions of Adonijah. He, therefore, called on the king and insisted that something be done at once. Realizing the importance of the situation and recalling God's promise David called the men of state, the priest, the prophet and military men came together in a cabinet meeting. David announced his successor and preparations were made for the anointing of the new king.

Before Solomon could be appointed as king of Israel he had to live right. He lived as God directed, then God anointed him as King.

Elementary and Cradle Roll Departments

Now, if you have been reading the previous articles closely, you will see that we have, as it were, four overlapping circles.

These are, or ought to be again subdivided, for we have three "year periods" in each division. Therefore, if we have enough children, let us divide again thus.

- 1st year Beginners (4).
- 2nd year Beginners (5).
- 3rd year Beginners (6).
- 1st year Primaries (7).
- 2nd year Primaries (8).
- 3rd year Primaries (9).
- 1st year Juniors.
- 2nd year Juniors.
- 3rd year Juniors.

If you have the teachers sufficient to care for these divisions, and the scholars to make them, by all means, let it be done. This is the idea, plan work of the entire department, with nine teachers under her. You will need, if possible, a room to yourselves, an organist and secretary of your own, and you will have a large and flourishing Elementary Department.

"But," I hear some one say, "we have only about twenty-five or thirty scholars of all those ages; we have only a one-room school and church all in one; we can't have a separate room, and you said you were not going to tell us anything that could not be done by the smallest school?"

Now, wait just a minute. I said that and I meant it, too. Can't you find three women who will take classes, one of them being the Cradle Roll Superintendent? Give her the Beginners. Perhaps she only has four or five, so she just gathers them around her closely. But perhaps she has a few more. Can't she get a corner with three seats in it? the corner where the choir sits, or the "Amen corner" on the other side? Then let her place the four year olds on the seat next to her, the five year olds on the second, and the six year olds on the third seat at the back.

Pursue the same plan with the Primaries and Juniors, using three seats and placing the children on them according to their ages. You have thus, a number of children on the third seat of each division who may be regarded as the "graduating class" and who will "pass" into the next department on next Promotion day. "Oh," you say, "we don't have any Promotion Day." Well, don't let that be true next year. If your superintendent won't have one, get his permission to let you use ten minutes after Sunday school some day, and have a Promotion Day of your own. Get the little certificates which mean so much and cost so little, and give them to the children who have finished the Beginners, or Primary or Junior Grades, and are now "promoted" into the next higher grade of work. They will enjoy it; they are used to "passing" at school; it will give them a new sense of the importance of the Sunday school, and of the importance of the work to be done there.

But, I want you to notice one word I used there "finished". Finished what? Why, the special work for the grade. And as that is quite another story, we will take it up in our next article. MRS. F. BULLOCK.

FROM MISS HAMAGUCHI

I came back from Wakuya to Tokio a month ago today.

A tent meeting started in Tokyo the 25th of April lasting to the 9th of May. Tonight was the eighth night. I have just returned from the meeting. Tonight there were over eighty who signed their names. Counting from the beginning there are over 800 enquirers. The tent is in a very good location, just opposite the House of Parliament. It is large enough to hold 2,000 people. Some times the place is almost full. Of course the majority are Christians. The speaker is Evangelist Kimura, whom I suppose, you remember. He has recently returned from America. Shiba Ward, Azabro Ward and Akasaka Ward churches asked Mr. Kimura for this special work.

Men and women, boys and girls, (some of them are quite young) are on the street in front of the tent and invite the people in. The men and little boys with a red lantern to help them are out in the main streets around for the street preaching and distributing the notices. We who invite the people in also give out tracts. The churches in these three districts are putting all our forces to this tent work. Of course we try to get those who signed their names to any church in the city where they wish to go.

Mr. Garman's family arrived today. I just met Mr. and Mrs. Garman tonight. The children had gone to bed.

There were four of us in this house but now we are ten.

Mr. Kimura spoke for just the women this afternoon. Thirty-five women stood up, promising to learn about Christianity—more than half of them are young girls.

It has been the desire in the beginning of this tent meeting to make a thousand inquirers in the city of Tokyo. Last night there were only thirty three lacking, but this afternoon the numbers surpassed. We do not know how many more there will be in three more nights. Tonight is a Long Service.

Good night.

REN HAMAGUCHI.

N. C. AND VA. MISSION SECRETARY'S REPORT. APRIL AND MAY, 1915.

Our congregations at Reidsville have been good for the past two months, averaging about one hundred and twenty at the regular services. From the 6th to the 16th of May we held evangelized meetings, which were largely attended and results were gratifying. We are putting forth every effort possible to complete the main auditorium, except seating, this summer. If all those who have pledged help to the Reidsville work will meet their obligations in the near future, it will greatly encourage us in our efforts to push the work forward.

Memberships secured for the Christian Missionary Association, and subscribed for, are as follows:

NEW PROVIDENCE

Our regular meeting at New Providence began the 3rd Sunday night in June. Rev. J. V. Knight reached us on the following Monday, and did the preaching the rest of the meeting to great acceptance. Bro. Knight is an earnest and forceful gospel preacher, and the people of New Providence will be glad to have him again.

As to results there were about twenty who professed faith in Christ, and twelve united with the church. The church was much revived and we believe great good was accomplished.

To God we give the glory for these blessings. J. F. MORGAN, Pastor.

Dear Christian Friends:—

We submit our brief report and humbly beg you to help us make it better next week. I wish every member of our great church could understand our needs, and realize that the success or failure of our orphanage work depends, not entirely upon the superintendent and his helpers, but that each member of the church has a part in the success or failure of the institution. Brethren we want to succeed in this great and noble work. Will you not help us? We certainly would appreciate your assistance just at this time.

I am not complaining but feel it my duty to plainly state the needs of the institution. Space will not allow us to enumerate in detail, so will say that we are in great need of at least $500 with which to meet pressing obligations.

Dr. Atkinson told us when we took charge of the work that our first duty was to the children, and if we would properly rear and train them we would have no difficulty in raising the money. I employed competent and efficient helpers and we have labored together to the best of our ability. We are willing for others to pass judgment on our work and the children of the institution, but the time has come when we must have some financial relief or the work will be embarrassed. We can't retain teachers and matrons unless we are able to pay them; neither can we buy food and clothing for fifty children without money. We must pay our bills or lose our credit. Will not every one who reads these lines lend a helping hand? We certainly would appreciate it. J. O. Cox, Supt.

Gates, N. C., June 29, 1915.

Dear Little Orphans:—

We are sending you a Fourth of July offering amounting to $2.07 from our Juvenile Missionary society of Sarem church. We sent you an Easter offering. Our society was organized last summer, and has been doing good work since its organization.

We hope you all are doing your work nicely, and are nice little boys and girls. We hope you will enjoy a good vacation. That the future of each one of you be crowned with honor is the wish of your little friends.

WARREN EURE, Pres.,
DELLA HARRELL, Sec.,
MILDRED PARKER, Treas.

We thank you very much for the offering; but appreciate even more the good wish you extend each of our children.

MARRIAGES

Harcum-Holland

June 10, 1915, at the parsonage, Holland, Va., in the presence of a few select friends, the writer united in marriage, Joseph Ellis Harcum and Annie Novella Holland. Mr. Harcum and wife will live near Holland. Both are members of Holland Christian church.
B. P. BLACK.

West-Dunford

In my study at eleven o'clock on Saturday, June 26th, I united in marriage, J. Floyd West of Portsmouth, Va., and Miss Daisy May Dunford, of Nansmond county. Mr. West has a position in the Portsmouth Navy Yard and they will reside in that city. Mr. West was a native of Matthews county.

There is nothing sweeter in human society than marriage founded upon sincere love. Any institution can be built on that foundation, but the home rests most securely on that base. Any superstructure can be erected on the foundation and it will stand. May this couple build their life together on this foundation. W. W. STALEY.

AN INDEX TO THE HEALING POWER OF THE CHRIST AND A GUIDE TO HEALTH, PLENTY AND PEACE

"A beautiful book: Comforting, inspiring and altogether helpful."—Stephen T. Barnett, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

"The book grips me, it is vital and vitalizing. With its general principles I am in full accord. In fact, I am, myself, a demonstration of the truth that salvation of body, mind and spirit comes from harmonization with an eternal environment."

—Rev. W. W. Landrum, D.D.
Pastor Broadway Baptist Church, Louisville, Ky.

"Grown weary of searching for the grain of truth amid the chaff of many volumes on Christian Science, Theosophy, New Thought and the like, we have been waiting for some sensible, scientific, readable book, containing the essence of Truth without such mixture of mud and such insults to one's intelligence. The long-looked-for volume has appeared under the title 'The Master Scientist.' Its size and appearance betoken its quality. It is a nugget of pure gold, with the alloy removed; it is a handful of the finest wheat, with the chaff taken away. It is crammed full of healthy teaching and wholesome counsel. Its words are with power. After reading it through, one feels anew the force of Jesus' good-bye to his disciples: 'Now ye are clean through the words which I have spoken unto you.'

—Rev. L. O. Bricker, D.D.
Minister First Christian Church, Atlanta, Ga.

OUR DEAD

Turner

Margarette Lucile Turner, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Turner, was called to her reward June 15, 1915. Age 2 years 6 months and 13 days. A little sister, Sarah Pearle, preceded her to the better land. She leaves her parents, grand parents, a brother and sister, and many friends to mourn their loss and to rejoice at the treasure they have in heaven. God's blessings be upon the bereaved.

B. J. HARP.

Horton

Little Harvey E. Horton, Jr., son of the late Harvey E. Horton and Mrs. Lena E. Horton, died at the home of his mother in Whaleyville, Va., May 26, 1915, at the age of 9 months and 11 days. Little Harvey was sick only a few days, and his death came as a great blow to his mother, who lost her husband only a few months ago. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, and the body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Liberty Spring church. May the Lord comfort the bereaved ones.

I. W. JOHNSON.

Harrell

Little Majorie Norfleet Harrell, daughter of Mr. Jesse E. and Mrs. Susie B. Harrell of Norfolk, Va., was born December 25, 1914, and died June 1, 1915, at the age of 5 months and 6 days. Little Majorie was not a very strong child and suffered much during her brief life. Her body was brought to Liberty Spring church and buried in the cemetery. The day was specially sad for the bereaved for it brought one of the worst storms seen in years, and the service was conducted while the rain was falling. May our Father comfort the bereaved ones.

I. W. JOHNSON.

Skeeter

At her home, near Cypress Chapel, Nansemond, Co., Va., May 16, 1915, Miss Delilah Skeeter, aged 72 years, 3 months and 15 days. She had been a life-long member of Cypress Chapel church and will be greatly missed. She leaves one brother, John W. Skeeter, one sister, Mrs. R. L. Lassiter, two nephews, Vernon and Meigs Lassiter. Her funeral services were conducted at her home by her pastor and her remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground. The Lord bless and comfort the dear bereaved ones.

H. H. B.

Bradshaw

Mills W. Bradshaw was born October 22, 1860, and died June 19, 1915. He married Octavia White. They had eight children, three sons and five daughters, and all are living. He leaves two brothers, Josiah, Geo. C., and three sisters, Mrs. C. E. Reynolds, Mrs. Jesse Carr, and Mrs. Frank Carr. The children's names are: Wm., Virgil, Oscar, Percy, Lillian, Mary E. Ethel and Liverta.

This family came from the Mount Carmel neighborhood where he held his church membership.

He went to the funeral of a little child not long before his death, scratched a place on his hand on a piece of wood, picked up a piece of yellow paper and wiped off the blood, got the place infected and died of blood poison. It was a sad funeral.

The services were conducted by Rev. H. H. Butler and the undersigned.

W. W. STALEY.

Simmers

Miss Fannie C. Simmers was born Dec. 22, 1855, and died April 22, 1915, making her age, therefore, 59 years, and 4 months. Miss Simmers was an active and loyal member of the church at Linville, and will be greatly missed in the church and community. Death came as a relief after several weeks of great suffering, but her three sisters and four brothers and other relatives and friends weep not as those without hope, for all believe that a redeemed soul has gone to her eternal reward.

Burial services at Linville, April 24, 1915.

A. W. ANDES.

Howard

William Hillard Howard of Chapel Hill, N. C., departed this life at the home of his daughter, Miss Lizzie Webb, on Sunday, June 13, and was laid in the old home cemetery on the 14th beside his wife who died on May 4, 1914. He was buried on his 49th marriage anniversary. He died on Sunday and so did his wife. He and Caroline Tankland were married June 14, 1866. God gave them two daughters, Lizzie and Emma both of whom are living. Nine grand children and three great grand children made happy the hearts of the grand parents.

The large number at the funeral showed his popularity. He had been a member of the Christian church at O'Kelly's for more than fifty years. He was regarded a model Christian gentleman by all who knew him. May God bless the loved ones left behind.

The funeral services were conducted by Revs. W. G. Clements, W. S. Long, T. W. Stroud and Rev. Mr. Patton of the Methodist church.

W. G. CLEMENTS.

Merteague

Mrs. Yario Merteague was born in New Kent Co., Va., and died in Eclipse, Nansemond Co., Va., at the age of 75 years. She fell asleep in Jesus on April 8, 1915. She left two sisters, Mrs. V. P. Bingley and V. P. Thurston of Richmond, Va., two sons, Charlie E. and Emmett L., and two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Richardson and Mrs. T. H. Adams. Sister Merteague was a faithful member of the M. E. Church, South, and died in the triumphs of a living faith. The funeral service was conducted by the writer. Asleep in Jesus blessed sleep.

I. W. JOHNSON.

Frost

Mrs. Anna Mary Frost died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. L. Parker, May 30, 1915, at the age of 64 years, 5 months, and 19 days. She was a resident of Nansemond Co., Va., and had been living with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Parker for sometime. She was stricken with paralysis a few weeks ago, and was a great sufferer until death came to relieve her. Everything possible was done for her comfort, but nothing could restore her to health. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. C. L. Parker and five granddaughters. Her husband, Mr. W. J. Frost, preceded her to the grave a few year ago. She was a faithful member of Liberty Spring church, and a woman of exemplary character. The funeral service was conducted at Liberty Spring church by the writer, assisted by Rev. H. H. Butler. May the Lord bless the sorely bereaved family.

I. W. JOHNSON.

Crittenden

Mrs. Martha Alinda Crittenden was born December 19 1855, and died at her home in Crittenden, Va., on March 31, 1915, at the age of 59 years. She was twice married. She left two sons, Lewis A. Hogg and Jesse R. Crittenden. Her husband, Mr. R. H. Crittenden, one brother, Mr. G. W. Mitchell, and one sister, Mrs. J. Q. Adams survive her. Sister Crittenden was a faithful and consistent member of Mt. Zion church, and was always at her post of duty, when it was possible. She was a great sufferer during the last few months of her life, but was submissive to the will of her Father. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor. Peace to her ashes.

I. W. JOHNSON.

Saunders

Died at her home near Windsor, Va., June 9, 1915, Mrs. Willie Jane Saunders, aged 74 years, 7 months and 8 days. She was married to James M. Saunders December 20, 1857. God blessed the happy union with eight children, three sons and five daughters. Two sons and one daughter preceded mother to the better land. She gave her life to Jesus when quite young and united with Antioch Christian church and was faithful to the end. She leaves one son Mr. G. W. L. Saunders, of Ivor, Va. Four daughters, Mrs. Charlie Tomblin, Windsor, Va., Mrs. Stephen L. Bradshaw, of Zuni, Va., Mrs. Thomas L. Hall of Windsor, Va., and Mrs. Jacob A. Duck of Zuni, Va. She leaves four half brothers and two half sisters Rev. J. P. Barrett, Dayton, Ohio, Deacon R. H. Barrett, of Windsor, Va., Rev. J. W. Barrett, of Norfolk, Va., and M. T. Barrett, of Windsor, Va., Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw, of Zuni, Va., Mrs. Mattie E. Davis, of Colosse, Va. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor at her church and her remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery.

H. H. B.

Burgess

Woodie Nelson Burgess, infant son and only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burgess, was born September 13, 1914, departed this life April 3, 1915. His death was a shock to the whole community. He was one of the healthiest looking babies in our community and we know not why it pleased God to take him; but we do know that while the home is made darker and poorer, heaven is made richer and brighter and we bow in humble submission to God's will because we know that He is too wise to err. May heaven's richest blessings rest with the parents, and may the spirit of God keep them in humble performance of every Christian duty until they see their baby again. J. D. DOLLAR.

House

It is indeed with much sorrow that we record the death of Bro. and Sister House, both members of Pope's Chapel. Mrs. Mary Jeffries was born July 1, 1848, and was married December 12, 1866, to Mr. John W. House. She united with the Christian church in 1882, and was to the end a faithful Christian. She was a devoted wife and mother. Her sudden demise was a great shock to the community, leaving her husband and nine children to mourn their loss, four children having preceded her in death. A large number of friends followed her remains to their last resting place. After appropriate services we laid her to rest under a mound of beautiful flowers. Bro. John Weldon House was born August 29, 1840, died February 20, 1915. He united with the Christian church at Pope's Chapel in 1874. Was made a deacon in 1874 and was an active member and faithful follower of the Lord. Although afflicted his death was unexpected. He passed away just one week after his wife went. In his death we have lost a devoted Christian. A vast host of friends attended the service after which we tenderly laid him to rest beside his wife. Loving friends covered his grave with beautiful flowers.

TETTERINE CURES PILES

Every sufferer from Piles ought to read these words from H. S. Hood, Bellaire, Mich. — "For 16 years I had been a sufferer from itching piles. I got a box of Tetterine and less than half the box made a complete cure. Tetterine gives instant relief in all skin diseases such as Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Ground Itch, etc., and constitutes a permanent remedy. 50¢ at druggists or by mail from Shuprine Co., Savannah, Ga."

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Renew our health At Nature's Fountain

Without the Expense and Loss of Time Necessary for a Visit to the Spring

THE CRISIS

There comes a time in the life of practically every man and woman when their digestive or eliminative organs, or both, fail to respond to drugs prepared by human skill. In fact drugs seem to do them about as much harm as good for their systems rebel against all drugs. These are the cases which physicians call "stubborn" and "chronic" for the reason that they persist in spite of drug treatment. I do not refer to incurable diseases such as cancer and consumption, but to that larger class of functional disorders which we meet every day, where the organs of digestion and elimination are impaired.

For this class of cases our best physicians and our big city specialists send their wealthy patients to the mineral springs where, in the great majority of cases they are permanently restored or decidedly benefited. But what about the poor man who has not the money or the busy man or woman who cannot spare the time to spend several weeks or possibly months at a health resort? Shall circumstances deny them the restoration to health which Nature has provided? Read my answer in the coupon at the bottom of this page.

I have the utmost confidence in the Shivar Mineral Spring Water for to it I owe my Restoration to Health and probably my Life. It has made me tens of thousands of friends in all parts of America and even in foreign countries, whose faces I have never seen. Yet I count them my friends for the Shivar Spring Water has bound them to me by lasting gratitude.

I ask you to read their letters, a few samples of which I publish below for your benefit, and if you find among them any encouragement as to your own health do not hesitate to accept my offer which has no limits or conditions except those shown on the coupon. If you could read the letters that come to me daily, numbering about ten thousand a year, and the vast majority of them similar to those printed below, you would not wonder that I make this offer displaying my absolute confidence in the restorative powers of Shivar Mineral Water.

INDIGESTION

Savannah, Georgia.
I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrible phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

La Grange, Ga., Nov. 25, 1914.
I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to make public announcement of the benefits I have derived from Shivar Spring Water. I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years from indigestion and dyspepsia. After one week's trial of Shivar Water I commenced to improve, and after drinking it for four weeks I gained fifteen pounds. I feel better and stronger than I have in twenty-five years. I strongly recommend this Water to any one with stomach trouble of any character, and truly believe it will cure ulcer of the stomach. I am writing this voluntarily and trust it will fall in the hands of many who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.

C. V. TRUITT,
President Unity Cotton Mills.

DYSPEPSIA

Blaney, S. C.
I have suffered for many years from gastric troubles, stomach puffed and food sour. I have tried many remedies and a good many waters. Some have helped, but none have given me such relief as your Spring Water. I use it and recommend it to my patients.

W. D. GRIGGSBY, M. D.

Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 2, 1914.
It is a great pleasure to tell you that your Water has been a great benefit. I may say a great blessing, to me. My wife says it has helped me more than anything else I ever tried. I have been, for thirty years, a sufferer from stomach trouble.

REV. E. H. ROWE,
Co-President Southern Seminary.

Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914.
For many years I suffered with stomach trouble as a direct result of asthma. I consulted the very best specialist in this country, and spent quite a large sum of money in my endeavor to get relief. However, I had about come to the conclusion that my case was hopeless, but by accident I happened to get hold of one of your booklets, and decided to try Shivar Spring Water. After drinking the water for about three weeks I was entirely relieved, and since that time have suffered but little inconvenience from my trouble. I cheerfully recommend the use of your Water to any one that may be suffering from stomach trouble.

OSCAR T. SMITH,
Vice-Pres. Young & Seiden Co., Bank Stationers.

RHEUMATISM

Leeds, S. C.
I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

Fredricksburg, Va.
Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints upon her hands, caused by rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement.

WM. C. CARTER.

Roper, N. C., Oct. 30, 1914.
I am anxious to get more of the Water. It has done me more good than anything I have ever tried for rheumatism.

MRS. H. C. EDWARDS.

Florence, S. C., Dec. 1, 1911.
I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble, and a year ago was stricken with acute rheumatism; was helpless for months, and since using your Spring Water I am walking without any crutch and improving daily. Indigestion much relieved. I wish I could write Shivar Spring Water in the sky so that the world could become acquainted with it.

MRS. THEO. KUKER.

BILIOUSNESS

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 26, 1914.
For over two years, following a nervous breakdown, I have suffered with a liver so torpid that ordinary remedies were absolutely powerless. Under such circumstances, I came to Shivar Spring, and began drinking the Water. Upon advice however, the first night I took a laxative; the second night a milder one. Since then I have taken none at all. The effect of the water has been remarkable—its action on my liver most marked, and my health and spirits greatly improved. I am satisfied that the laxative, followed by the Water, was the proper treatment in my case. My condition is now perfect.

S. A. DERIEUX.

Carlisle, S. C.
It is fine for liver troubles, also for constipation. I cheerfully give you this information as to beneficial results in my case.

REV. A. McA. PITTMAN.

RENAL AND CYSTIC

Columbia, S. C.
I suffered for eight years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder to the extent that I would have to get up during the night some five or six times. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

J. P. D.

Virginia, Va., March 28, 1914.
Your Water has done me more good than anything I ever tried for bladder trouble.

A. R. F.

Wesley, Ga., May 12, 1914.
I had been down with bladder trouble. Couldn't stand on my feet three minutes at a time. In three days after I commenced drinking your Mineral Water my pain was all gone, could walk where I pleased, and felt like a new man.

S. B. D.

High Point, N. C., Oct. 6, 1914.
My wife has had a bad kidney trouble for several years. She has been using the water only about three weeks and it has already made her a new woman. Her color is much improved, her appetite is all that she could wish for, her digestion seems to be perfect. We give Shivar Springs credit for it all.

T. G. S.

GALLSTONES

Greenville, S. C.
Shivar Spring Water cured my mother of gallstones, or, I might say, it snatched her from the hospital door, as the doctors had said nothing short of an operation would do her any good. After drinking the Water she was able to get out of bed, and is today stout and healthy. I hope these few lines will be of help to some one suffering as my mother did.

W. J. STRAWN.

Williamston, N. C., Oct. 3, 1914.
My doctor said I would have to be operated on for gallstones, but since I have been drinking your Water I haven't had to have a doctor.

W. H. EDWARDS.

Columbia, S. C.
My wife was a chronic sufferer from gallstones. She was stricken critically ill, and nothing but medicine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. My physician, who is a good one, seemed to do very little good. Rev. A. J. Foster, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after arriving at the Spring she was apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has suffered no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers.

URIC ACID & DIABETES

Chancellor, Ala.
I have been for many years afflicted with uric acid and kidney trouble, and the Mineral Water has helped me more than anything I have ever done for them and therefore heartily recommended same to all who used a speedy relief and cure.

W. F. MATTHEW, M. D.

Lexington, Va.
I can recommend your Mineral Water for disorders caused by uric poison. I suffered and have been relieved. It affords me pleasure to recommend this Water to all sufferers.

J. H. WHITMORE.

Roxboro, N. C.
I have used ten gallons of your Mineral Water, and it has done me worlds of good. My disease is diabetes. I lost two years out of three from my work, and your Water is putting me back on my feet again.

JOHN R. PETTIGREW.

Derma, Miss., May 8, 1914.
Have suffered for several years with diabetes. I feel almost cured. Have recommended the Water to others.

Mrs. J. J.

Sanford, N. C., April 15, 1914.
Have been down eight weeks with diabetes. Ordered Shivar Spring Water, began drinking it, and kept improving. Showed my doctor the analysis and he said it was just what I needed, with a lithia tablet added.

Comforts or Taunts

Some take to heart so seriously the taunts and criticism of men that they little enjoy the comforts of religion. C. H. Spurgeon took the wise alternative when he said, "Give me the comforts of God and I can well bear the taunts of men." Even Lord Christ was bitterly assailed by those who misunderstood Him. His own brothers in the blood did not believe in Him. But He took comfort from the Father and prayed for those who misunderstood and abused Him.

Blind

The blind population of the United States is 57,272, or 62 for every 100,000 of the population. There is more blindness among men than among women, among negroes than among whites and among Indians than among any other class. It is one of the very greatest afflictions to which the human family is heir. But moral and spiritual blindness is a thousand times more prevalent than physical blindness, this despite the fact that it was truthfully written many centuries ago, "The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind; the Lord raiseth them that are bowed down." (Psa. 146:8.)

War in Time of Peace

A gentleman who has been a member of Congress for ten years said in a public address the other day that the United States now spends seventy per cent of its annual income (revenue) on past wars, present preparation for war and the fear of future war. And yet we are at peace and three thousand miles of water roll between any first rate nation and ourselves. Secluded and protected by nature as we are the struggle of our national existence is not to educate, not to enlighten and edify, but to meet the war budget and prepare for future arms. To be exact, during the year of our Lord 1914, a piping time of peace with us, our Government spent on war $173,894,143; on pensions $173,092,065; on navy $139,893,614. Yet thousands clamor for more war preparation—not even willing for 30 per cent. of our gross revenue to go to the purposes and pursuits of peace, progress and purity. "There is a generation, whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men." (Prov. 30:14.)

True Riches

Human riches can be easily exhausted. Spend some today, more tomorrow, still more next day, and soon the supply is depleted. Not so of God's riches. The more the soul draws on them today, the larger and better and more abundant they are tomorrow. God's riches for the soul become more abundant as they are used. Draw and drain deep today of God's love, goodness, mercy, benevolence; tomorrow the supply for your soul will only be the greater. God's riches, His delights for the soul, are inexhaustible and increase with the using. "For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light." (Psa. 36:9.)

Gigantic Words

Certain words are essential to any preaching and teaching whose aim is to save men and women from sin and ruin. Such words may be called gigantic, as Dr. Charles S. MacFarland designates them in a recent journal (Homiletic for July): "The gospel is emasculated, the pulpit is superfluous, and the Church of the Living God goes out of existence when the truths of the gospel, the vocabulary of preacher, and the constitution of the Church no longer contains the words, God, Sin, Judgment, and Redemption. These are gigantic and capacious words, belonging to a vocabulary that can interpret the whole universe of right and wrong." We may well eliminate many words from our vocabulary, but no one of these. For, "What a word is this!" (Luke 4:36.)

"Were, Are, Shall Be"

Dr. J. H. Jowett reminds us that Paul in speaking to believers in the past tense says, "Ye were saved;" to the same believers he uses the present tense, "Ye are being saved;" and to the same believers again in the future he says "Ye shall be saved." "All of which means that to this great apostle a gloriously full salvation stretches across the years from past to future, gathering riches with every passing day." With Paul salvation was not merely a beginning; it was a continuation. In a moment one passes from death into life in Christ; but that is only the beginning of life. If one would know the fullness of the joy of life one must press upward and forward daily. Christianity is a gift, but it is more, it is a growth. Wherefore, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us." (Heb. 12:1.)

Fit and Felt

It is recorded that a young man one evening indifferently remarked to Benjamin Franklin, "Did you know, Mr. Franklin that things not used on the earth go away to the moon?" Whereupon the sage immediately rejoined, "What a lot of good advice must be up there!" No wonder the moon is a totally dark object, (save as the sun reflects its rays to us from it) since all the good advice given, but unused, goes to fill up and cover over the moon. For good advice in order to be of any use whatsoever, must be given when the time and place are fit, and when the need is felt. All of wise Solomon's counsel goes off to the moon, or to some other dark place, unless given when fit, and imparted when the need of it is felt by the one who is to receive it. "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt." (Col. 4:6.)

Why, and Wherefore

Chancellor Lloyd George of England has adopted the slogan for all Britishers, "No drink for working men." Governor Capper of Kansas, has adopted the slogan in his State, "No work for drinking men." Accordingly the Civil Service Commission of Kansas has been instructed that no applicant for any position on the State pay roll shall be received, whatever else his qualifications may be, unless he is a total abstainer, and that the three thousand men and women now in the employ of the State must be total abstainers or quit their jobs. Kansas is the first State to adopt this regime. The attitude of Kansas to State-wide prohibition, which it has had as a part of its constitutional law for thirty years explains why that State has more empty jails, more idle court houses, more money in bank and more men and women in college, in proportion to population, than any State in the Union.

"Truth"

For a week recently 10,000 aggressive and progressive men met in Chicago and literally dinned the word "Truth" into 3,000,000 ears and blazoned it on a thousand billboards—Truth, Truth, Truth. These men represented many tens of thousands of others not present, and were themselves the accredited delegates of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. Here is the creed of these men who, leading the van in catching and controlling the commercial attention of all who read, think, buy, and sell, "We believe in truth, the corner stone of all honest and successful business and we pledge ourselves each to one and one to all to make this the foundation of all our dealings. We believe in truth not only in the printed word but in every phase of business." This creed of the Advertisers will do for all, and marks a new day in the business world. The day of the old fake and false advertising is past, or is rapidly passing; and the man must not misrepresent even in print; for he may be sued for fraudulent use of the mails, or lose the countenance and respect of decent and honest people. The world comes more and more to a high sense of truth and will yet prize it as did the Psalmist who said, "His truth shall be thy shield and buckler." (Psa. 91:4.)

Are you going to the Chantauqua at Virginia Beach next week, July 19-25? If not, why not. Rates are exceedingly reasonable, both for transportation and lodging; and the attractions are more than worth while.

—Some time ago the liquor dealers of the country raised four million dollars with which to fight prohibition. Too late; too late. John Barleycorn has been weighed in the balance and has been found wanting. His doom is sealed. Four hundred million dollars would not stay the rising tide of sense and sentiment against liquor.

DENOMINATIONAL LINES WIPE OUT

They have had a great revival in Henderson, North Carolina. It was held in a large tent, a Methodist evangelist did the preaching, the various churches of the town joined in the services, and the evangelistic spirit swept the community. The whole town and vicinity around had a great spiritual uplift, we are advised, and more than 500 made public confession of faith in Christ. The Methodist pastor reporting the meeting in his paper, The Raleigh Advocate, uses these lines, "The spirit of co-operation among the churches of the town was most beautiful. Denominational lines were wiped out, ecclesiastical barriers were broken down. We were the children of a common Father laboring in a common cause, for the salvation of lost souls."

The strange thing to us is, why this beautiful spirit of co-operation cannot abide all the while. Why in the world will four or five or six churches combine to save souls, and then divide up to keep them saved? If we are the children of a common Father laboring in a common cause to save souls, whose children else are we than those of that same Father when we set up "ecclesiastical barriers" in order to keep those same souls saved? Brethren and beloved we shall have to come to it. The thousands of empty pews on the Sabbath, the hundreds of thousands of those saved in combined evangelistic effort never heard of any more so far as the Kingdom of God is concerned, are a sufficient answer to those who, contrary to Scripture and divine command, set up ecclesiastical barriers.

If when it is desired to give the community the pure food of the Word the different ministers can work together by agreement for the salvation of souls, we can't to save us see why those same ministers can't agree to work together all the while and forever key out "ecclesiastical barriers" and theological dogmas whose chief effort and occupation through all time have been to divide, to drive away, to weaken, and to stir up ill-will, even envy and proselyting in the community.

Divisions and schisms have always come in the church not over questions of liberty and vital piety, but over questions in which liberty was restrained and vital piety was not considered. For instance, the Methodist church allows its members to be baptized by any mode the candidate may prefer. There have been many splits and divisions in the Methodist church, but never one on the subject of Baptism. The divisions in the Methodist church have usually occurred over the subject of government—the theme in that church from which liberty is excluded, and which never was essential to the salvation of a lost soul.

Again the Baptist church allows, upholds and maintains the widest democracy and largest liberty in matters of government. The idea of liberty in the government of a Baptist church is about the freest thing in the universe; and each Baptist claims to be a law unto himself in the matter of church government. Now so far as we know there never has been a division, a seism in the ranks of the Baptist brotherhood over the matter of government. Divisions there have occurred over topics from which liberty was excluded, and some tried to make others believe as they did about theories of theology, and doctrines of dogma.

We might as well make up our minds about it. This world of sin and wickedness will be taken for righteousness, truth, Christ when, and not until, "ecclesiastical barriers are broken down" and the "children of a common Father labor in a common cause, the salvation of lost souls."

If it requires combined effort to get men and women to take the first step in Christian experience it will take no less an effort to get them continue in that experience. Public confession of Christ is only a beginning. For the allurements, temptations, weaknesses, pit falls that await everyone along the way the united and co-operative efforts of ministers and Christian laymen are needed, and needed sorely. If wiping out denominational lines is necessary to start a town in the way of salvation, then to keep those lines wiped out is necessary to the continuation of the town in that good way. Will the ecclesiasties ever learn and teach this simple fact?

ALL THINGS NOW READY

If the Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christ-Church at Virginia Beach, Va., July 19-25, 1915, is not a success it certainly cannot be charged up to the promoters and organizers of that great movement. Particularly have the executive officers, Warren H. Denison, D. D., President, Prof. S. M. Smith, General Secretary, and Rev. George D. Eastes Assistant General Secretary, labored diligently with pen and tongue and printer's ink to make the session next week a glorious occasion.

According to statements now issued by the brethren, all things are now ready, the great program, the inspiring lectures, the thrilling addresses, the good fellowship, and even the ocean breezes—all, all are prepared and simply await the arrival of CHRISTIAN SUN readers from every quarter.

What a glorious time is anticipated; what a feast of fat things awaits us; what sweet and splendid days and hours lure us to the Beach July 19-25!

The great program provided is in itself enough to call together young and old from far and near; and the low rates of board and lodging; put this wonderful meeting within reach of all who really want to and will try to go. It is doubtful if in all this summer time as much help, health, information, real mind and soul food, genuine worth and lasting value can be obtained for as little outlay of time and expense. All things are ready. All aboard for Virginia Beach and the great Chautauqua July 19-25.

THE OLD TIME RELIGION

The worst thing about "the old time religion" is that there is so little of it; and the next worst trouble about it is that those who say and sing so much about it seem to have in actual experience the least of it.

The "old time religion" met the events and issues of the day and dealt with them vigorously and valiantly. It would not have survived and become "old time" if it hadn't. The old time religion then, first of all, is the sort that seizes the problems of the day and grapples with them with a mailed hand. It was good enough for father because it caused him to tell the truth; pay his debts, be a gentleman, extend courtesy, support his church, and worship God—according to the best ideals, standards and opportunities of his day. If ideals have improved, standards have been raised and opportunities enlarged then the old time religion will cause the son to be an improvement on his father, the daughter an improvement on her mother. So children are ever more an improvement or a reflection upon their parents. If the son has the old time religion as his father er had it he is an improvement upon his father.

Right and wrong remain the same; but human ideas and understanding of them vary constantly. We are more enlightened about the laws of agriculture, education, transportation than were our fathers. If we don't know more about the laws of justice, truth, morality, piety, Christianity, then we are a reflection on them and are destitute of all "old time religion." For old time religion knew the best and did the best of its day, and had that vitality and vigor in it that pushed forward toward higher, nobler and better things. The old time religion took advantage of the best learning, morals, ideals, aspirations, piety and privileges of its day and pressed toward the mark. Paul was an exponent and zealous advocate of such a religion when he wrote, "I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, * * * I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." (Eph. 3: 13, 14.)

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—All aboard for the Chautauqua, Virginia Beach, July 19-25.

—Enjoy the sea breeze at Virginia Beach next week and take in the delights and inspiration of Chautauqua at the same time.

—If you are in doubt about the cottage to stop at, or price charged for board at Virginia Beach Chautauqua next week, write Rev. L. F. Johnson, D. D., Berkeley, Va., who is chairman of Entertainment Committee.

—Mr. Junius Henry Reitzel and Miss Maude Miller Bouldin were married in Greensboro Tuesday, July 6, 1915, and will be at home after July 15, 202 South Ashe St., Greensboro, N. C.

—Cincinnati, Ohio, had the worst storm in its history July 7. Twenty-seven lives were lost, a million dollars worth of property was destroyed, a hundred houses were leveled to the ground and two steam boats on the Ohio river were sunk. The storm only lasted thirty minutes.

—CHRISTIAN SUN readers have lots and piles of commercial and other printing done. Why not let The Southern Christian Pub. Co do it for you? We do the very best work, all kinds of printing, at prices the most reasonable. When a SUN reader wants printing, call on us.

—Prof. C. C. Johnson, of the Elon College Faculty, and Director of Athletics for the coming year, is pleasantly situated at Apartment 77, 423-431 West 120th St., New York, and is now engaged in his summer's work in Columbia University.

—The Commencement Number of the College Bulletin is from the press, 5,000 copies, and is certainly a very creditable publication. The address of Pres. Fairfax Harrison deliverer at commencement is printed in full and is a classic. There are other articles of merit. A copy may be had by request to Pres. W. A. Harper.

—The pastor, Rev. L. I. Cox informs us that work on the interior of the Reidsville church building has begun and it is greatly desired will now be pushed to completion. This can be done if all those who have made pledges will send in the amount of their pledges. A dollar now will count for much in carrying on the work so well begun and so much needed.

—Our delightful and wide-awake brother Hermon Eldredge, 31 West 10th St., Erie, Pa., renewing for THE SUN is kind enough to say, "The first page alone is worth the price of the paper and the rest of the paper is as full of church news as an egg is full of meat." How we do wish that 1500 other subscribers whose time for renewal has come felt as does Bro. Eldredge.

—Rev. H. E. Rountree, pastor Portsmouth church reports eighteen members received past quarter making a membership of 231, and the Portsmouth church is yet in its infancy. The church has a Woman's Missionary Society of 31, a Christian Endeavor Society, a Sunday-school of 169 and a Teacher Training class soon to graduate and begin taking the Advanced Course.

—Under date of 523 So. Jefferson St., Huntington, Ind., July 5, Rev. L. E. Smith writes: "We have a fine work here: Every thing is beginning in great shape. Yesterday was a good day for us with 273 at Sunday-school. Received three members into church fellowship making a total of five since we came. The field for service here is almost unlimited and I am hoping to do good work for the Master."

—The Herald of Gospel Liberty carries the pleasing information that Pres. W. A. Harper's book, "The Making of Men, is having a sale ahead of our binding delivery." The Raleigh News and Observer speaks in very high terms of the volume and concludes: "In the modest volume Dr. Harper has embodied good counsel with a splendid mastery of English and style. The book is readable from the intrinsic interest of its subject matter, and from the purely literary merit of its writing."

—A determined and zealous effort is being made to enlarge THE SUN to its recent former size of sixteen pages. If friends will be patient with us, and those written to will respond favorably not many more issues of the present humiliating and regrettable size will go out. Do THE SUN a goodly turn now in the time of its need and you will not have occasion to regret it. We hope most prayerfully for the larger day to dawn soon.

—Rev. J. W. Holt, Burlington, under date of July 12 writes: We are expecting to protract our meetings in my field beginning the fourth Sunday in July at Union, Alamance county, with Rev. Victor Lightbourne in charge of the services. At Long's Chapel our meeting will begin 1st Sunday in August. At Bethlehem the third Sunday in August, with Rev. P. H. Fleming conducting the services. We are hoping for good results at these meetings.

—The rates at hotels and cottages for our Chautauqua next week are very reasonable and accommodations ample. All who attend may expect their money's worth—and more.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS

Virginia Beach, July 19-25.

The following message received from Dr. W. C. Wicker sets forth the aim of the Committee having in charge the matter of the Chautauqua of the Christian Church. He says: "This gathering of Christian specialists in Sunday school methods, church work, Christian ideals, and social service has discovered to the brotherhood something of the greatness of leadership, strength of scholarship, and sweetness of fellowship that the church represents. No gathering of Christian workers in any church or combination of churches has produced a better program, had better leaders, more capable speakers, or more efficient platform specialists than were represented in the first Seaside Chautauqua of the Christian church. It did much to reveal to us our strength, to discover our leaders, to appreciate our ability, to enlarge our vision, to magnify our mission, and to quicken our latent energies. The church or churches of every pastor should provide means and a vacation for their pastor to attend the next session of this great Chautauqua. Nothing else that they could do would mean so much for both church and pastor. In the counsel of the wise there is wisdom."

It is the confident expectation that the results of this session will surpass that of last year. Are you coming? Are you praying that it may be a meeting of great spiritual power? Do you want a few days of combined rest and profit? Do you want to meet some of our brethren whom you have not met and enjoy their Christian fellowship? Do you want to take a dip in old ocean? Do you want to fit yourself for Christian leadership? Come and send for literature and program and help to bring others. No mistake this is to be a great meeting. Come and hear Hon. William Jennings Bryan, Evangelist Victor Lightbourne, Dr. O. B. Whittaker, President W. A. Harper, the Patterson Jubilee Singers, Miss Elizabeth Harris, Mr. Hermon Eldredge, and some twenty others of our very best workers.

WARREN H. DENISON, Pres.

NOTICE

The Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention will meet with Antioch Christian church July 28-30. Let all schools have their delegates present for the entire session. Let all speakers and delegates come prepared to make this the best convention in our history.

R. H. PEEL, Pres.

NOTICE

To the Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies of the Southern Christian Convention:

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor General Convention will meet in connection with the Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christian Church at Virginia Beach on July 22 and 23. Sunday schools, Organized Classes, Teacher Training Classes, and Christian Endeavor Societies are entitled to one delegate for every 25 members or fraction thereof, provided that no class or Society have more than two delegates. Please elect your delegates. Let us have a good representation at this convention.

All officers of the various S. S. and C. E. Conventions are delegates ex officio, as are also all ministers in the S. C. C.

A. W. ANDES, Sec.

SUFFOLK LETTER

History more and more impresses the world with the folly of war as a means of correcting the inequalities and wrongs of human society in international relations. Force is necessary in the subjugation and transformation of matter; but civil and moral wrongs cannot be corrected by force. To convert iron ore into steel rails and locomotives force must be applied. Mechanical forces have wrought wonders in the material world and produced the great utilities of modern times; but when force is applied to the commercial relations of nations as expressed in terms of international relations it becomes destitute and hostile to human interests. Submarine action of recent months has demonstrated the folly of misapplied force. The brutality of the European war is written with innocent blood. The common soldier is the victim of conditions that use force instead of reason and love. Constitutions should be no more written with the point of the sword and human rights should not be defended by brutal force. Higher national standards must be set up among men and moral principles must take the place of guns and temples the place of forts.

Selfishness dominates the world as the cause of war. It would be a thousand times better for nations to settle differences by an international court, even if wrongs seem to be suffered, than to fill the earth with the graves of the flower of the age, and leave an intolerable burden of debt on generations unborn and for centuries to come. The gospel is the only remedy for world-wide peace. Diplomacy is a failure as well as war; because diplomacy involves war as the ultimate among nations.

The first step toward world-wide peace is peace among neighbors. Peace, like charity, begins at home. It may seem a small matter to think of one man's heart among earth's millions, but Jesus started his church with a few disciples. Earth's acres are plowed by a furrow at a time; but think of the millions behind the plow. Explosives can never change human hearts nor national wrongs. The trenches of war are not the channels of peace. Big guns are not the weapons of victory. Monuments to dead heroes will never save a world. Self-control and consideration for others is the hope of mankind.

If this nation maintains neutrality and moral self-respect through the present crisis it will win a victory greater than any nation now engaged in war, and will be in a position to prosper as never in all its history of prosperity. It will build and produce on a scale before unknown and rival all the ages in progress in morals, manners, and wealth. I would love to live long enough to see the roads and farms, the schools and churches, the factories and warehouses, the trains and ships, the cities and society that peace will create. The peaceful armies that go forth to daily toil not only outnumber the military armies of the world, but they represent more courage, more patriotism, and more moral force.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The Executive Board of Trustees of the College met last Thursday night and passed upon several matters of importance for the coming year.

Mrs. W. B. Hobby and children were here Monday and left for Culpepper, Virginia, where Mr. and Mrs. Hobby will make their home.

Mrs. J. O. Cox and children are spending some time at Hiddenite, N. C. Prof. R. C. Cox, who is to be a member of the Faculty for next year is also spending the summer at this splendid place of rest.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson has been appointed as a representative from Elon College to serve on the Rhodes Scholarship Committee of this State.

Mr. E. T. Taylor, who is assisting in the President's office this summer, spent last week with his people in Wilson county.

The local talent entertained Friday night with the play—"The Country Cousins"—to the delight of all present. The play was given under the auspices of the local board of the Woman's Missionary Society, and Miss Annie Laurie Wicker was chief in the work of its presentation.

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the N. C. and Va. Conference in session here this week. The attendance is good and the College community is glad to welcome and entertain this band of Christian workers.

No time is being lost by all connected with the College in making ready for the opening. The President's office is a busy place, and the outside work under the care of Mr. A. A. Riddle and Mr. Daniel Humble is steadily going forward. The new boiler for the Power Station is expected this week.

PONCE, P. E. LETTEE

In order to secure a better understanding of the teachings of the Catholic Church, as practiced in this city, I gave up most of last week to attending services at the Cathedral in this city, which is a magnificent building with a number of handsome altars, one of them, the altar of The Holy Sacrament, which is about fourteen feet long is covered with solid gold, so taking the building, the ground upon which it is located, in the very center of the plaza, and the altars and ornaments within, $100,000 would be a low estimate of the value of the Catholic Church in this city. Contrast it with the six Protestant churches erected by the Mission Boards of the various denominations, one can understand why it is that the casual tourist, who does not look beneath the surface reports that "Ponce has one Catholic Church and a few Mission houses of worship."

Holy Week, the week immediately preceding Easter is especially consecrated by the Catholic Church to the commemoration of the Passion of our Redeemer. Palm Sunday celebrated the triumphal entry of our Lord into Jerusalem, and a great quantity of palms were taken into the church, blessed and distributed to the faithful, and one can easily pick out the house of a Catholic now, by the palm fastened to the outside of the building. Aside from Palm Sunday Spy Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday were especially observed. Just after Palm Sunday the altars at the church, with the exception of the main altar, were all covered with purple, typical of mourning and all figures of the Saints were covered with purple drapery. On Good Friday, most of the women attending the services wore black in mourning for the Savior.

On Wednesday the Tenebrae were chanted. Fifteen lighted candles in the form of a triangular stand being the central figure on the altar. This stand, I was told represented Aaron's rod which budded. At the conclusion of the chanting of each psalm one of these candles was put out until only one was left and it was left burning till late Thursday when it was hidden away and the lights on the high altar all extinguished on Thursday at the conclusion of the singing of the Benedictus. The extinguishing of the lights was to symbolize the growing darkness of the world at the time of the Crucifixion, and the last candle was hidden for a time to signify that death could not really obtain dominion over Christ though it appeared to do so.

Thursday was marked by pomp and splendor. The great central altar was hung on either side with the royal colors of Spain, in damask and gold, the center was a mass of flowers, the finest of roses and other flowers that I did not know, in this bank of flowers lighted candles formed the letters J. H. S., the letters being about five feet in length. Above all the golden chalice, then above it the representation of the Holy Sacrament, the center of it was a mirror, around which were a lot of incandescent lights giving the impression of jewels, then the long rays of gold, leading from this, were picked out with electric lights. The effect was gorgeous. At one time in the service the mirror swung back and a dove was seen looking out, the effect being slightly spoiled for me as I could see the hand holding the dove. There were fully 1200 people at the early services Thursday morning, the elite of Ponce, fine looking men, beautiful women, of Castilian blood, the dresses were suggestive of an opera, the finest of silk, and all the colors of the rainbow. As the Catholic church does not permit women to enter it with uncovered heads, and since hats are seldom worn here, the ladies all had handsome lace mantillas. The three officiating priests outshone all in the splendor of their robes of heavy white silk embroidered in gold. The music was magnificent. This day is called Maundy—Thursday from the first words in the anthem sung at this service beginning "Mandatum novum etc. (A new commandment I give to you, that ye love one another). The sermon preached at this time was about the Lord's Supper and at its conclusion the feet of some of the poor were washed, but not by the priest but an attendant. At the High Mass two hosts were consecrated and the Hosts for Friday's Mass was carried processionaly through the church, many people kissing the hand, and some the robe of the priest. Thursday afternoon the wealthy people stayed at home and the church was filled with the poor, some of the men were bare footed, the women used handkerchiefs and mosquito netting to cover their heads, and many of them crowded around the empty casket provided for the body of Christ and told their beads before it, and I saw hundreds waiting patiently for an opportunity to kiss this casket. Many poor women were kneeling before the shrine of the Blessed Virgin saying their prayers and as they rose from their knees they would kiss the shrine. There were services of various kinds going on all day Thursday, I do not know how much I missed, but I sat in the church eight hours, and walked down and looked in at nine o'clock at night after our own evening services were finished, and the cathedral was packed, there not being even standing room.

Friday morning early I was present when Mass was celebrated. The church was in deep mourning, a black cloth being across the altar, and the music was so mournful that I suppose it was Mass for the Dying. Then the people passed out, and as I sat there with a few who were repeating their prayers a large cross was brought in and set up, people began to return to the church, many of them reverently went to the front of the church and kissed the cross. Two other crosses with pictures of the thieves were brought in and placed on either side. Then a figure of John the beloved disciple was placed upon one side, upon the other the Mother of Christ, dressed in a magnificent robe trimmed in silver and wearing a silver crown, in her hand was a lace handkerchief to wipe away her tears, then two men came in bearing a figure representing Christ and nailed it to the Cross, at the conclusion of each, magnificent music was rendered and the entire scene was so suggestive to me of a theatrical performance that I could not sit still, but went home and remained until after the body was taken down from the cross. At five o'clock a great procession was arranged for through the principal streets of the city, and I viewed this procession as it came out of the Cathedral and at two other points in its line of march. First the Cross upon which the image of Christ had hung was carried on a float, then came John, then the escort of the Daughters of the Cross, wearing white dresses and white veils, I think there were about fifty of these girls, then came the truck bearing the casket containing the body of the figure which represented Christ, this casket was made of gilt with the sides all glass and the figure could be plainly seen resting in a bed of flowers while a lot of handsome floral designs were upon the outside of the casket. On either side were lighted candles arranged in groups of seven, twenty-eight candles being beside the casket. The escort was composed of about 100 men bearing lighted candles, then came another truck upon which stood Mary the mother of Christ, and I saw a great many of the spectators bow to this figure. About two hundred women, the Daughters of Mary followed this truck, they being escorted by the Knights of Columbus. Next came the most imposing scene of all, escorted by a band, the men carrying the silver representation of the Host, here every hat went off, many knees were bowed, back of the Host was a canopy under which marched the priests who had officiated during the week. Then came a long line of citizens.

Next morning I went back to the Catholic Church early. The music was excellent. The Priests went to the Saviour's tomb, which was in the opposite end from the Altar, and there a good part of the services were chanted, they found the tomb empty, an angel had rolled away the stone, and they returned to the altar and proclaimed the glad news that Christ was raised from the dead, the church bells rang, torpedoes were fired and there was every demonstration of rejoicing.

A string was pulled and as if by magic the curtains fell from before all the altars and the electric lights blazed forth everywhere.

Outside the noise was intense, the rabble were dragging a stuffed figure to represent Judas through the streets.

Sunday morning I went to services but was not there at the time that Christ came out of a door on one side of the altar to meet His mother, as she came out the door on the other side, my own duties at our Sunday school not permitting me to remain to witness this encounter which was to be the crowning event of Easter Day. Sunday evening everybody went to the opera house to witness a theatrical performance, by everybody is of course meant the elite of Ponce, some who could not get in at the opera house went to a dance. Easter Sunday is a day of merry-making, feasting and pleasure.

Am very happy indeed to add there were many who attended the Easter services at the Protestant churches, where a true spirit of reverence characterized the observance of the day which commemorates the Resurrection of our Savior, at the Christian Church five people stood at the conclusion of the services saying that they wished to give their hearts to Christ.

OLIVE G. WILLIAMS.

The Committee on Education of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference will hold its mid-year meeting at Antioch church, Isle of Wight County, Virginia, on Thursday, July 29, 1915, during the Sunday School Convention.

Persons having business with the Committee or wishing to consult the committee will please be present at that time and place.

W. W. STALEY, I. W. JOHNSON,
W. D. HARWARD, Committee.

IT IS GETTING NEARER

The S. S. and C. E. Convention of the Western Conference is getting nearer each day. Don't forget that it meets at Pleasant Ridge church July 23-25, 1915, and please do not forget that we are expecting you to be present. We want reports from every Sunday school and C. E. Society, and also we want each of these to be represented by at least one delegate.

Bro. Pastor and Superintendent, please see that your school and society is represented at this convention.

Yours for a great Convention,

J. F. MORGAN, Pres.

P. S.—Each school is expected to send to the convention three cents for each member of the Sunday school. Please send this if possible, but be sure to send also the delegate and the report.

S. S. LESSON, JULY 18
Solomon Chooses Wisdom

I King's 3: 4-15

Solomon was solemn when he knew that he had been made king. He wanted to know what God would have him do first. He goes to the tabernacle and makes sacrifices to God. His father, David, had made sacrifices there and received results which were beneficial. So Solomon thought he would do likewise. He did and it was acceptable to God. Contrast this with the footsteps of Absalom and his brother. Solomon could see the good in David's act but Adonijah could not see the evil in Absalom's deeds.

God was pleased with the young man's actions and came to him in a dream. Wasn't Solomon rewarded for his sacrifices? It makes the heart feel good and gives the soul rest to have God speak to you in a dream. Solomon was encouraged. God asked him a few questions. The answers came from the lips of an humble servant—not puffed up on account of his kingly position. Read his words of what he said about his father: "Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness and in uprightness of the heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne as it is this day."

Solomon bears witness to the fact that God deals graciously and gently with those who follow Him. Solomon felt the strong arm of the Lord and was not content to try to stand alone. He opened his heart to God, telling Him that he was but a little child that knew not how to walk and prayed earnestly for wisdom.

Solomon taught us one of the great lessons when he went to God in prayer and prayed as a little child. God doesn't want prayers for the elegant words to be heard by man, but He wants to know how we want and are willing for hearts to be. The first thing is to realize your position—see if it is what it ought to be, then go to Him who gives strength for the power and wisdom to fulfil that position.

Wisdom is a handy instrument to have. There are certain requisites that have to be completed before wisdom is issued. The golden text reads: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." Prov. 9:10. We may not be as wise as Solomon but we can be wise enough to serve God, and do what He would have us do. Did you ever go to God about your business and see if God was approving your work and your daily walks? Solomon found it an excellent practice. Try it—you will find it comforting and refreshing.

WHAT CHRISTIANITY HAS DONE
FOR THE WORLD, JULY 18

Matt. 13: 31-33

In the meetings the writer has attended since leaving the school room he finds a lack of participation on the part of the members. Many give as an excuse, when asked why they don't take part, that they are not and have not been used in the habit of speaking in public. That is what has been the matter for these long years of people who confess to be Christians and when it comes to the test—comes to speaking for Christ, they sat dumb.

Dear readers and endeavors, you will never learn any younger to speak in public and for Christ. Many will testify that taking a real part, as the endeavor pledge suggests, is worth while. Why not you do something that is worth while? If you cannot read the print in the Bibles that are distributed get up and speak your thoughts in your own words. This is the better policy anyway. Christ needs our testimony, your fellow men and your companions need it and last but by no means least, you need it yourself said out loud.

Christianity has done what there has been done in civilizing the world. Christianity has always taken the forward step, then commerce follows. For an example we only have to turn a few pages of history and see the difference in Japan now and when she opened her doors to the missionaries. A wonderful transformation has visited China. Why? Christianity is being introduced.

Whence came our noble ancestors and why. The spirit of Christ touched the soul and guided the heart strings to this free, noble land.

We ought to be more thankful than we are for having the privilege of living in this age when we can see all around us the marks of Christianity.

Christianity will continue to bless the world as long as it blesses individuals. Are you helped by it? Are you helping to spread Christianity. Should Christian Endeavors stand out boldly for Christianity? Name some things the Endeavor Society has done for the world.

AN AUTOMOBILE NEEDED

It has been stated in The Christian Missionary several times that an automobile for the Porto Rico field would greatly increase the effectiveness of the missionaries in this field. It is very expensive to keep a horse on the island is one reason in its favor. Another is that Ponce, where our missionaries reside, is at the extreme western end of our work—it being about 25 miles to the other extreme. It makes it very hard for our missionaries to hold services at these farther points and return to Ponce in order to find a bed for a little rest. It was three o'clock in the morning when Mr. Barrett and Miss Williams returned from holding services at Salinas, a few weeks ago. With automobiles and automobiles for pleasure at home, surely there is one some where to be used in God's service in Porto Rico.

That the need has been laid on some hearts, is evidenced by the action of the "Willing Workers" of the Wakefield church as shown in the following report. "The Willing Workers of Wakefield are much interested in our Porto Rico workers and decided to give the proceeds of their Mite Boxes to an auto fund for our workers there. They have been using them only a little while and had their first opening last Sunday. The amount was $1.86. This is indeed a very small beginning but we are hoping some big people who are able to do much more will be inclined as we have been. We believe that a car would increase the usefulness of our missionaries and we are anxious to see such a fund begun, hoping with the help of others the necessary amount will be raised."

This is not the first work in which the children have led—now won't other children and the grown folks follow—until we shall have an amount sufficient to buy an automobile and to run it for twelve months. It is not a thing we can not do. The question is will we do it. We believe there are those who will make it possible for this need to be met.

the world is the existence of the spirit of God in its midst, and the works of the spirit of God are the true evidences of Christianity. They say miracles are withdrawn, but the Holy Spirit is the standing miracle of the church of God today."

Give us more and more of the real Christianity and we shall need less of its evidences.

FOR THE ORPHAN

The automobile fund is not all that our Wakefield Willing Workers are interested in. The W. W. of the Eastern Va. Conference have undertaken the support of Jessie Foster at the orphanage and each W. W. Society is asked to contribute to his support. On the first Sunday in July the Wakefield W. W. gave a public meeting and realized $3.26 for this fund—more than their proportionate share of this support. These are wide awake, willing workers indeed and should be an inspiration to others.

AN ENCOURAGING LETTER

The following letter from Bethlehem church was not intended for the public eye, yet its tone is so cheering and its spirit so inspiring that we are hoping to be pardoned for letting all our women read it: "My dear Mrs. Rowland: It affords me much pleasure to tell you that we have actually worn out our mite boxes—or at least some of us have—now will you be kind enough to send us twenty-five more? We are striving very hard to do what God would have us do. We have organized a Mission Study class and are studying The Child in the Midst. We have pledged a penny a day beside our mite box offering. I have reported $16.31 to Mrs. Bryant for the year and I am striving to do all I can for the spread of the Gospel at home and abroad, and I feel that God is abundantly blessing me.

Yours for the work,

Grand total $1853.90

Dear Christian Friends:

Our report looks better this week and we feel better and wish to thank every one who has contributed to our relief. If we could just have reports like this each week we could meet our bills, live happier and render better service. I am sure every one of the church wants the orphanage to succeed; so let us all join heart and hands and help it to succeed. Then we can all rejoice together, feeling that we have done our duty and rendered great service to the orphan child and the future church and state.

We wish to remind our good sisters that the orphanage would be glad to furnish them some empty cans to fill for us. One good sister from Eastern Virginia instructs us to send her fifty cans. We like to carry out such instructions as this. We are anxiously waiting for a few more orders of this kind. We are planning to can a great many vegetables, but we have no fruit of our own. We shall be very grateful for any and all assistance rendered along this line.

Raleigh, N. C., July 6, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—Thank you for the picture. You have such an interesting family. Hope you had a pleasant time the 4th. Daddy carried us to Bloombury Park to see the fireworks. Now, little cousins, lets get a move on us and keep the corner filled with our letters. You will find enclosed a dime from us.

Katherine Morgan,
Reuben H. Morgan, Jr.

We hope that all of the old cousins will heed your plea and we may soon have a full corner again.

Clayton, N. C., July 5, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—Here I come with my dues for July. I am well and getting on fine and hope you and the cousins are all well. We have been having some mighty dry weather but it is raining here now. I started to walking yesterday and I was thirteen months and eight days old. We had a sad death at Amelia church last Tuesday. It was Mr. A. P. Cards' baby, which was a little older than I am. The Lord saw where he had a place for it around his throne so he took it to himself and left its parents behind to grieve. Will close for this time as I have to go out and play some. Love to you and all the cousins.

Ashley B. Breedlove,
Glad to learn of your walking. I am sure you can play better since you can walk.

In this time of industrial opportunity, it is gratifying to see what a firm grasp the men trained at the Agricultural and Mechanical College are taking on the industrial life of the State. These men not only know how to do things, but they are doing them with credit to themselves and to their college. They are making over old farms and dairies. Many of them are directing cotton mills. On our railways and highways you find them with transit and rod. They are sought by men who need draughtsmen and machinists. Young men who are ambitious and determined to make headway in life are in increasing numbers making their way to this busy institution. The fall announcement in this paper will interest scores of young men. Adv.

KEYSER

This is the ninth year I have served this church. Our congregations are as large now as when I became pastor of this church; its financial members have died and moved to other places, leaving this church in a weak condition. We have some good Christian people here and they must be cared for, and this church should not be left without services. I have sacrificed for several years to keep this work going and am expecting to continue as pastor till Conference. I do think the Conference should assist this place. It is worthy of help. I have filled all my appointments here.

SMITHWOOD

This is a good little church with a good Sunday school and good congregation. Bro. W. A. Amick is superintendent. The services have been well attended all this year. This is an easy church to serve. I have been pastor here for several years. I feel sure that these are good Christian people. I have filled all my appointments here and they have been well attended. Our revival is expected to begin the second Sunday in August.

HAPPY HOME

The work is moving on here fairly well. After some 19 years hard work as superintendent of the Sunday school here, Bro. W. D. Wall has resigned on account of declining health and long distance to travel. "Uncle Bil" is one of the best Sunday school and church workers in that community. Bro. J. H. Richmond is superintendent there now. The Sunday school is good and the church work is moving slowly. The cry of hard times is raised with a loud voice. Like Jacob of old, I have served this church seven years and the good Lord has blessed me very abundantly. We have large congregations and good music. I have made all my appointments here. Our revival has been announced to begin the third Sunday in August.

DANVILLE, VA.

The work in our Danville mission is moving along steadily. Our congregations are larger than we can accommodate most of the time. Our house, the school building that we have been using for preaching and Sunday school is far too small to seat the congregations, both at Sunday school and preaching. It is said that we have the best Sunday school in North Danville. An enrollment of 287 and an average of 178 the last quarter; 35 on the cradle roll, making a total connected with the school of 323. We need our house of worship for this most deserving people. Our people are working hard to build the much needed house. We have had several reverses to encounter this spring in the work of building owing to the financial embarrassment that prevails throughout the country. I am asking those all who gave us such liberal subscriptions at Conference to be paid if desired in two installments by May 1st and Oct. 1st to please send in as soon as possible just as much of your subscription as you conveniently can. This will mean much to us now. We are in the midst of a hard struggle to move on at this time and I want to assure you that your help now will be appreciated most heartily. I do not know the address of all who gave subscriptions and am writing this to THE SUN so you can please see it and please answer. I have the full list but not the address of all. I am also asking every reader of this article who can to please help us some in this the first Cristian church of the city of Danville, Va. We need all the help we can get and need it now. Please send all contributions to me at 1204 N. Dairy St., Greensboro, N. C., and we will thank you so much and receipt you for the same in the CHRISTIAN SUN.

I have collected since Conference the following:

The Little Things

It is often the little things of life which brighten existence most.

A smile, a cordial handshake, a gentle, kindly word. We cannot measure their value, but they make up the sunshine of life.

It is also true that the little and inensive conveniences are the source of much of our comfort and health.

Mentholatum is one of these little household conveniences which fits into many emergencies.

Is it sunburn, an insect bite or sting, a bruise or burn?—Mentholatum brings relief and comfort.

Is it a head cold, difficult breathing, cold sores, a headache?—Again Mentholatum, the ready relief.

In almost any case of external inflammation this cleanly, convenient and efficient counter irritant serves to relieve the pain and hasten restoration.

In millions of homes the Mentholatum jar is a highly appreciated family friend. Adv.

MARRIAGES

Clements-Watson

Wilson, July 1—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kinchen H. Watson, at nine o'clock last evening, a beautiful wedding was consummated between Miss Martha Clyde Watson and Mr. Joseph Lee Clements, of North Wilkesboro, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. G. Clements, of Morrisville, who was assisted by Rev. T. W. Chambliss of this city.

The bride was gowned in satin with duchess lace wearing pearls and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Alice Herring Watson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mr. Henry T. Blair, of North Wilkesboro, best man.

Miss Ethel Clements, sister of the groom, prior to the marriage, beautifully rendered "Shubert's Serenade," and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Pattie Watson.

The home was beautifully decorated with rhododendrons and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Clements will spend their honeymoon in Norfolk, Washington and Atlantic City.

Brown-Cox

At the residence of Virgil M. Cox, June 23, 1915, Mr. William L. Brown and Miss Phanie Cox were united in holy wedlock. Only relatives were present. The groom is a grandson of Rev. W. R. Brown; the bride a member of Pleasant Ridge church and community and will be missed in both. Their future home will be at Erwin, Tenn.

T. E. WHITE.

Young-Beale

Miss Janie Lee Beale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Beale, of Handson, Va., and Mr. Robert N. Young of Fairfield, N. C., were married at the home of the bride's father June 24, 1915, at 9:30 A. M. Mr. and Mrs. Young left on the morning train for a northern trip. They will make their home in Fairfield, N. C. The groom is a prosperous farmer and business man. The bride is a graduate of Elon College, and is very talented. Their many friends wish for them an abundant measure of happiness. The writer officiated.

C. H. ROWLAND.

Miles-King

At the residence of Deacon J. M. King, 307 W. Johnston St., on June the 2nd, 1915, at 8:30 P. M., I officiated at the marriage of Mr. Rad Miles and Miss Myrtle King. The parlor of the king home was handsomely decorated. Mrs. R. L. King, sister-in-law of the bride played the wedding march. Miss Mattie King, a sister, was bride's maid. There were a large number of relatives and friends present. The bride is a daughter of Deacon J. M. King of New Hope church and a consistent member of the Raleigh Christian church. The groom is a valuable employee of the Seaboard Railway Co. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miles left for Washington, D. C. Their home will be in Raleigh. May blessings attend them in life and heaven be their inheritance in the life to come.

C. E. NEWMAN.

Green-Parks

On June the 29, 1915, at 128 N. Dawson St., Raleigh, N. C., 12:45 P. M. Mr. Herbert E. Green and Miss Sue Nina Parks of Rameur were married by the writer. Mr. Green has been for eleven years traveling salesman for J. Van Lindley Co., of Greensboro. The bride is a daughter of Brother Isaac Parks, of Randolph Co. Both Mr. and Mrs. Green are members of Park's Cross Roads church. They are spending awhile in Raleigh before going to Rocky Mount, where Mr. Green has temporary headquarters.

C. E. NEWMAN.

Johnson-Woodward

At my residence, 128 N. Dawson St., Raleigh, N. C., on June the 23rd, 1915 at nine o'clock P. M. I united in marriage Mr. John D. Johnson and Miss Margaret Woodward, both of Raleigh. The groom is a mechanic and has employment here. Their many friends hope for them happiness and prosperity.

C. E. NEWMAN.

Powell-Benton

At 207 Chestnut St., Suffolk, Va., June 24th, 1915 Mr. Arthur Powell, of Gates Co., N. C., and Miss Bertie Katherine Benton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benton of Nansmond Co., Va.

H. H. BUTLER.

Gilmore-English

At No. 207 Chestnut St., Suffolk, Va., June 24th, 1915, Mr. William Henry Gilmore, of Walters, Va., and Lillia Mae English, daughter of Deacon J. H. English, of Walters, Va. May their lives be long and happy together.

H. H. BUTLER.

McClenny-Hesser

At the home of the bride on April 18th, at 8:30, Miss Nettie Hesser became the bride of Mr. George R. McClenny, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The Wedding March was played by Mrs. R. J. Kernode. Miss Jennie Turner sang two beautiful solos, "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly." The only attendants were Miss Minnie Carden, as maid of honor and Mr. Hubert Harward, best man.

The bride is an attractive daughter of Mr. J. A. Hesser, of Durham, and is an active member of the Christian Church. Mr. McClenny is connected with the National Insurance Co. and is meeting with much success. Mr. and Mrs. McClenny will make their home in Kinston, N. C. Ceremony performed by the writer.

RESOLUTIONS

Felton

Our heavenly Father in His wisdom has taken from our circle our dear friend and sister, Mrs. Mary S. Felton. She has been transplanted to that beautiful home beyond, where joy, peace and happiness reigneth forever. Her religious life was one of deep conviction, great faith and fervent zeal.

Therefore be it resolved, First—That such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members of Sarem Christian church, and will prove a great loss to her immediate friends and relatives.

Second—That with deepest sympathy to her bereaved children and relatives we express our hope that even so great a loss to us may be for good.

Third—That the Lord may comfort and heal the crushed hearts of those left behind, and when the summons comes may they all meet and form an unbroken circle around God's throne.

Fourth—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be recorded in the secretary's book of Sarem Christian church and a copy be published in The Christian Sun.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR HEALTH

For diseases which do not readily yield to drug treatment, such as chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, Bright's disease, gall stones, uric acid poisoning, and diseases of the kidney and liver, the best physicians send their wealthy patients to the famous mineral springs. Some even spend months at the Spas of Europe and are almost invariably cured or greatly benefited. I believe that the Shivar Spring is the greatest mineral spring ever discovered and I believe it so firmly that I offer to send you enough water for a three weeks' treatment (two five-gallon demijohns) on my guarantee that if it fails to benefit your case I will refund the price. You would hardly believe me if I told you that only about two out of a hundred on the average, say that they have received no benefit. The water is restoring thousands. It restored my health when my friends and physicians thought my case was incurable and I am willing and anxious for you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If I win you become a life-friend of the Spring. If I lose I will be sorry for you, but I will appreciate your courtesy in giving the water a trial and will gladly refund your money on request. Sign the following letter:

Shivar Spring,
Box 90, Shelton, S. C.

Genlman: I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

OUR DEAD

Bridges

Albert F. Bridges was born July 27, 1890, and died June 4, 1915, aged 24 years, 10 months and 7 days. He was the son of F. M. and Bettie Bridges of Woods' Chapel. During the ministry of Rev. A. G. B. Powers there he united with the church; went west several years ago and was accidentally killed there. The body was shipped home for burial. Deceased is survived by one brother and three sisters. Funeral services at Wood's Chapel, June 7, 1915. A. W. ANDES.

Parker

Died at her home, near Savage, Gates Co., N. C., on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, June 12th, 1915, Mrs. Sallie E. Parker, the beloved wife of our much beloved Deacon L. S. Parker, aged 77 years and 18 days. She was all she professed to be, a sincere Christian, one of the charter members of Oak Grove Christian church. She was faithful in her church, community and home and will be greatly missed. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Frank Pierce, of Sunbury, N. C., many relatives and a host of loving friends. The funeral services were conducted at her home by her pastor and the remains were laid to rest in the family burying grounds. H. H. BUTLER.

Rothgeb

Noah Ernest Rothgeb was born December 2, 1877. On May 27 he fell from a building receiving injuries from which he died next day. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Elon and Clark; also a brother, B. E. Rothgeb; three sisters, Miss Casper Rothgeb, Mrs. Emma Thompson and Miss Mary Rothgeb survive him. He had been a member of Leaksville Christian church since 1901, and was faithful in his relations and obligations to the church and to his Master's cause. In the home, he was kind, thoughtful and loving. Towards all he abounded in good deeds. Truly a good and noble man has passed away. The funeral was conducted from Leaksville church May 29.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

Modesit

Belle Henkel Modesit, wife of William A. Modesit, was born April 15, 1858; answered the summons to come up higher June 21, 1915. For months she had been a great sufferer, and death came as a sweet relief. She leaves a husband and three brothers. The brothers are: Solon Henkel, Silon Henkel and Charles Henkel. The surviving children are: Mrs. Robert E. Brumback, Clyde Modesit, Mrs. Roy Rothgeb and Miss Annie Modesit. She was a member of Leaksville Christian church, and left comforting evidence of her readiness to go. The helpful influence of her beautiful life still lives to bless and comfort those who knew her. Funeral services conducted from Leaksville church.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

Ballard

James E. Ballard, a man sixty-six years of age, was stricken with paralysis on Monday, June 14th, and died June 18th, and was buried from the residence of his son-in-law, J. C. Jones, on Sunday afternoon. Two sisters, Mrs. Ben Smith and Mrs. J. C. Knight, survive him. He leaves also two sons, J. J., and J. C. Ballard; and three daughters, Mrs. R. L. Rawles, Mrs. E. L. Emery and Mrs. J. C. Jones. There are, also, five living grand children.

Mr. Ballard had been in the horse business most of his life, and was well known to those who visit stables for hire or purchase of horses.

His wife passed away many years ago. Family life blossoms in the children and fades in departing age. "We all do fade as the leaf," and the autumn is coming to all of us. How beautiful to fade after a life well spent!

W. W. STALEY.

Freeman

Walker Graydon Freeman died June 30, in his 17th year. He was a son of Alexander Freeman and had lived in Rameuse about six months. Graydon was a bright young man, and loved the Lord Jesus. He was a member of the Congregational church. The remains were taken to Biscoe and the funeral was conducted by the writer.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS

Virginia Beach, Va., July 19-25.

This is our last message before the opening of the second session of our Christian church chautauqua; when these lines are being read some will have started for the feast of spiritual and intellectual things. We are expecting a great and profitable gathering. The purpose of this gathering is to deepen our spiritual lives, to broaden our Christian vision, to get new inspiration, strengthen our fellowship, develop Christian leadership. We shall have come far short of our purpose if we merely have lectures, methods, a good time, and an outing. When I attended Northfield, Lake Geneva, Silver Bay, Winona Lake, I received a spiritual vision and power that will go with me as long as I live. The purpose we have in the Seaside Chautauqua is to give that same spiritual vision, to revolutionize the lives of many who come hither. To that end we have prayed that it might be a meeting of spiritual power, to that end we have asked those who teach and lecture to prepare their messages in the very atmosphere of prayer; to that end we ask our brotherhood at home to pray, that this Chautauqua may be the very mountain top of spiritual experience as well as a feast of intellectual and efficiency matters. We are hoping that every one who comes to this seaside gathering will carry back a note book full of the very best things said and done, also a vision to your church that will be a means of great blessing. Let no trivial excuse, no small matter, no little inconvenience keep you from this important meeting by the ocean. We have great speakers on great themes, men with vision, men whom God has mightily used. The program covers Christian Endeavor work, missions, evangelism, Christian leadership, elementary, secondary, adult Sunday school work, the work of the minister, women's mission work, teacher training, church efficiency, sermons, lectures, mother's conference, boy's work, Bible, model Sunday school, vesper services by the sea.

Will you come and be a channel of blessing to your church at home? We are looking for you at the opening service Monday night at eight o'clock, July 19.

Sincerely yours,
WARREN H. DENISON, Pres.

How the Great Guest Came to Conrad the Cobbler

*While the cobbler mused there passed his pane
A beggar drenched by the driving rain.
He called him in from the stony street
And gave him shoes for his bruised feet.
The beggar went and there came a crone,
Her face with wrinkles of sorrow sown.
A bundle of fagots bowed her back,
And she was spent with the wench and rack.
He gave her his loaf and steadied her load
As she took her way on the weary road.
Then to his door came a little child,
Lost and afraid in the world so wild,
In the big, dark world. Catching it up,
He gave it the milk in the waiting cup,
And led it home to its mother's arms,
Out of reach of the world's alarms.*

*The sun went down in the crimson west
And with it the hope of the blessed guest,
And Conrad sighed as the world turned gray:
"Why is it, Lord, that your feet delay?
Did You forget that this was the day?"
Then soft in the silence a voice he hears
"Lift up your heart, for I kept my word.
Three times my shadow was on your floor.
Three times my shadow was on your door.
I was the beggar with bruised feet;
I was the woman you gave to eat;
I was the child on the homeless street!"*

—Edwin Markham.

The Gossip

Every community has one or more. The Youth's Companion defines him (or her) thus, "A gossip is like a piece of blotting paper; he soaks up our words and then exhibits them—wrong side to." On the other hand he who uses his words right is thus described, "A wholesome tongue is a tree of life." (Prov. 15:4.)

Starving the Soul

An exchange remarks, "Labor may stunt the body, but the lack of it starves the soul." There is a labor which stunts soul and body; that labor which, for the greed of gain and gold, has no end and goes on by hand or in mind seven days to the week. The wise man had such an one in mind when he wrote, "Yet is there no end of all his labour; neither is his eye satisfied with riches; neither saith he, For whom do I labour, and bereave my soul of good?" (Ecl. 4:8.)

Think Big

There is dash and daring in big thoughts—provided there is zeal to sustain them and energy to execute them. "Get a million new members and a million dollars for missions," was the slogan adopted by the great Christian Endeavor Convention at Chicago July 7. The world is undertaking big business; the church must do likewise for the kingdom. "For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace, and not of evil to give you an expected end." (Jer. 29: 11.)

Lawyers and Courts

Dean Swift was rough and incisive in his gibe at the lawyers whom he described as "a society of men bred from their youth in the act of proving by words, multiplied for the purpose, that white is black, and black is white, according as they are paid." This was unjust to lawyers as a class for thousands of them keep ever before their minds high ideals of justice, truth and virtue; but certain cases before the courts of late, (one in particular) with their surprising results show that the old Dean was not altogether wrong. "For by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified." (Gal. 2:16.)

Are We Happy

The Bureau of Census announces that the wealth of the United States has increased 75 per cent. in the last eight years; and the value of all kinds of property, exclusive of that of the peoples of Alaska and our insular possessions, is estimated at $187,739,000,000, which is $1,965 per capita. In actual possessions of property and in resources, no peoples on the earth are to be compared even to us of the United States. If wealth can make a people happy, contented, and good then we should lead the world and at long range. But do we? Not if increasing suicides, divorces, nervous prostrations, severed sacred relations tell any truth. "Whoso trusteth in the Lord, happy is he." (Prov. 6:20.)

Lincoln's Prophecy

At the great Anti-Saloon League Convention at Atlantic City a few days since, possibly the most largely attended, enthusiastic and momentous temperance convention ever held on earth, a white bearded man of 91 was introduced as Major J. B. Merwin. This man was well acquainted with Lincoln and dined with him at noon on the day in the evening of which the great emancipator was assassinated. After declaring that Lincoln was not only a total abstainer himself, but an out and out prohibitionist, the Major testified to the great convention: "Mr. Lincoln said to me, Merwin, with the help of the people we have cleared up a colossal job. I prophesied twenty-five years ago that the day would come when there would not be a slave or a drunkard left in the land. I have seen the first part come true, and we have made the South rich by doing it. The next great movement on the part of the people will be the suppression of liquor traffic by law." Mr. Lincoln was not only a statesman, but a seer and a real prophet, as events have fully justified. "Your sons and your daughters shall prophecy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions." (Joel 2:28.)

The Way of All The Earth

For an individual, or numbers of us, to pass off the stage of action, suddenly, and at the hands of cruelty, is sad and tragic. But for a whole city, a great teeming, tireless throng to be wiped out, is more than tragic, it is appalling. Germans and Russians have been in life and death embrace for weeks about Ypres; but they need not fight there any more. Ypres, with all its ancient glory and modern splendor, is dead. A recent dispatch gives this pitiful picture: "People are still living in Rheims and Louvain, but Ypres is absolutely a dead city; dead as Pompeii; dead as a deserted mining camp in Alaska. No face appears in any window that can still be called a door or window; no figures are seen moving through the shell holes in the walls that are still standing. Before the war Ypres had some 18,000 inhabitants. Now it has not a single one. No one is making any effort to make any ruin habitable. The only signs of life except occasional soldiers coming out and going to the lines are cats grown wild which become streaks of fur disappearing among the ruins of their former homes." Many cities have perished, but there is "a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." (Heb. 11:10.)

Cotton

This staple is not king, and never was. Yet as a fabric it enters into so many and varied industries and trade relationships that its quantity and price affect almost the entire round of commercial activities. Its production increases from year to year as new uses are discovered for it, and as new and improved implements are invented for its cultivation. According to a recent Census Bureau report the crop last year was the largest in the history of the world, there being 16,134,930 five hundred pound bales. Of this Texas produced considerably over one fourth (4,592,112 bales) and Georgia more than one sixth (2,718,037 bales). Although these two States with Alabama, South Carolina, Oklahoma and Mississippi produced more than four fifths of the entire crop, other States are rapidly increasing their production of the staple, California having produced more than double what it did in 1913 and along with other States may become a great producer of cotton. But no crop, mineral, manufactory machinery is king. Man was given authority and dominion over all these and they prove a blessing to men and to the world only as man makes them his servant and not his king. "And God blessed, (Adam and Eve) and God said unto them * * * * * be faithful, * subdue, * * have dominion." (Gen. 1:28.)

—Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., Chapel Hill, N. C., writes: For the year now passing I have had no regular church work, and wish to state that I am anxious to engage at any time for all my time.

EDITORIAL

ON THE INCREASE

The people of the United States, already by far the richest people on earth, are increasing in wealth at a tremendous rate. By a recent report of the Bureau of the Census our wealth has increased 75 per cent. in the last eight years. The estimated value of our natural property, exclusive of that in Alaska and our insular possessions, is estimated at $187,739,000,000 winking $1,965 for every man, woman and child in the land.

If possessions, if wealth, if money could make a people happy then it follows that ours is the happiest of all peoples?

But are we? This much is true: we are the most nervous, the most active, the most restless, the busiest people in the world. We have more suicides, more murders, more divorcees, more shattered home ties and Sundered home circles from unhappy and unwholesome marriages than any other people beneath the sun.

Riches can't make a nation happy. Our wants are multiplying more rapidly than our possessions. Wealth has increased 75 per cent. in eight years, but if a census of our wants were taken most likely they would show 150 per cent. increase. One thinks if one were worth $25,000 one could have what one wants. A delusion. When one gets worth $25,000 one finds that one's wants have gone on to those requiring $50,000 possessions to satisfy. Pushing on the energy and pluck to the $50,000 possessions one finds that one's wants and demands have gone on to the $100,000 class and so on ad infinitum. Material possessions, achievements and pursuits never have yet satisfied any man. He acts under a delusion and a snare who thinks they can. Man has a soul and the soul cannot be satisfied with earthly possessions.

Did you ever see a dollar mark on a tomb stone? Did you ever see it written as the epitaph of any man, "Here lies a man who had great wealth?" Hardly. That would be mockery; that would be telling nothing worth knowing about the man when he is gone. When one lies beneath the sod we tell about him those qualities that are to endure, that are worth while; that he was generous, benevolent, kind, considerate, a good friend, a devoted husband, a faithful husband. I have never yet seen in the obituary columns of any paper how much a man was worth. No one would engage in the hollow mockery of dragging such irrelevant matter into the obituary column.

What the United States needs as a nation and a people is not more wealth, but more men and women who know how to make home happy, bring more light into life, more hope into our places of despair, and more Christian zeal into the task of reclaiming the fallen and lifting up the down east.

Happiness does not come with possessions, but with unselfish pursuits and unshaken faith in God who governs all.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN

President Fairfax Harrison, LL. D., of the Southern Railway has issued a most timely warning to drivers and occupants of automobiles. This warning is based on accidents occurring at grade crossings on the Southern Railway the past year, ending June 30. These figures as compiled by Pres. Harrison show that during the year the number of such accidents in the South were 69, persons killed 12, persons injured 58, automobiles damaged or demolished 69. These occurred in the six States, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia. In this number North Carolina leads the unenviable list with 27 accidents, 21 injuries and 6 fatalities.

Is it that Carolinians are more reckless and regardless of life than the people of any other Southern State?

But Pres. Harrison's motto is not a bad one for all peoples of all States to adopt, Stop, Look, Listen. Men and women are hurled into eternity, often without warning and before their day because they will not do this very thing. And the very reason why men and women go to their long home without due and proper preparation is because they will not stop, look, listen. They hear the message of warning hundreds of times from pulpit, pew, platform and market place; but in their lust for greed, gain, glory or greatness they rush on heedless of even the law and the prophets. Stop, look, listen, for danger bears down on the thoughtless and the listless.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. W. B. Fuller, THE SUN's hustling traveling representative, filled an appointment for Rev. W. G. Clements at Mebane last Sunday.

—Don't forget that we are doing all within our reach, in every legitimate way we know to increase THE SUN to its former size by August 15.

—Brethren J. H. Moring, Morrisville and Geo. M. McCullers, McCullers, N. C., had charge of the singing at the Wentworth Convention last week and we are told that no finer music has been heard in many a month than was heard by the great crowds who gathered at the convention from day to day.

—One of the very liveliest and most successful Sunday school superintendents in all our knowledge is C. H. Stephenson of Hillsboro Street Christian Sunday school, Raleigh. If our superintendents want to know how to have a better school they will read Bro. Stephenson's magnificent address published in THE SUN this week.

—The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the N. C. and Va. Conference in session at Elon College last week was well attended and greatly enjoyed. The convention voted that Pres. Harper who presided with such grace, modesty and wisdom, write the proceedings for THE SUN. It will, therefore, be good and worth reading.

—Rev. W. B. Fuller in North Carolina and Mr. Roger White in Virginia, two Elon College students worthy of all confidence and assistance, are doing fine work for THE SUN and Publishing House. They are both zealous and faithful workers and every dollar paid them and assistance rendered will be both a kindness to them and to us.

—The Farmers Bank of Nansemond remains a wonder, in the commercial world, of continued growth and increased progress even in stringent times. With a capital of $20,000, this institution showed a footing on June 23 of $3,188,604.34; the deposits on that date amounting to $2,037,109.20; the surplus and undivided profits being $983,184.76. Brains, character and eternal vigilance combine to create such an institution.

—According to a bulletin by the State Department of Education the percentage of illiteracy in North Carolina of the white voting population is 14 to the one hundred. There are in the State 132,000 white illiterates and 156,000 colored illiterates, 10 years old and older in this State—which puts the State at about the top (or rather the bottom) for illiteracy of all the States of the Union.

—Chants a paragrapher in The Greensboro News: "Palm Beach suits, wash ties and similar fabric things do not get any dirtier than the duds we wear in winter. They are merely frank about it." Come to think of it that is why we call saints and faithful church goers, "dirty," when they do wrong. Their lives are usually so clean and attractive that any little dirt on them shows terribly, even to the naked eye.

—We have a secret notion that before this horrible war is over our English cousins across the seas are going to come in for a drubbing at the hands of the Teutons. About all England has done thus far has been to put up a lot of money and talk. Money will buy many things, but will not man and shoot guns on the battlefield. Talk frightens little folks, but not German generals. And how the German hate the English at present is a caution. England will soon have "to swat or be swatted," we're thinking.

—A quarter of beef shipped from Australia eighteen years ago and kept on cold storage since the day of its slaughter, was exhibited in London recently and being tested was found to be of good color and perfect flavor. If some of our warm words could be kept eighteen years they would be of better color and flavor also.

—From Raleigh Christian Advocate, July 8: "C. B. Riddle, Elon College, N. C., has written an abridgement to his book, College Men Without Money, and is sending the same out at cost, that being ten cents a copy. The book contains less than fifty pages, handsomely bound, has the likeness and autograph of the author, and is dedicated to "That unlimited number of ambitious young men and women who are in search of education's Holy Grail with meagre means." The author's object is to get young men and women interested in a college education regardless of financial conditions. We trust many of our readers will send for a copy of the book."

—We regret to learn of the death of Brother Maurice B. Griffin at Churchland, Va., on June 25th. A stroke of paralysis June 24 was the first warning of the approaching end of this useful and consecrated life. He was a member of Berea, church, Nansemond county, Va., and had been for years. He was born September 6, 1852, and the son of Brinkley and Sophia Ann Griffin of Nansemond county. He was never married and since the death of his mother eight years ago had made his home with his nephew, Mr. H. Garland Griffin, Churchland. He was the last of a family of seven, and the sudden taking away found him prepared. A good man has gone to his reward and loved ones lament his loss.

—More than sixteen and a half million passengers—a number greater than the combined population of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky—were transported by Southern Railway during the year ended June 30, with only one fatal injury to a passenger while on a train and that one was standing on a car platform in direct violation of the Company's rules. In marked contrast are figures recently given out by President Fairfax Harrison, of Southern Railway, showing that, during the same period twelve persons riding in automobiles were killed in accidents at public highway crossings, every one of which accidents could have been prevented had the driver of the car observed the familiar warning, "Stop, Look, and Listen."

—We get the following, which will be of interest to many SUN readers, from last week's Burlington News, and which we are glad to note since Burlington is so near, and so favorably situated to Elon College: "News was received in the city this week that Dr. D. A. Long, who for the past several years has been president of Union Christian College at Mcrom, Ind., had resigned and would return to North Carolina. Inquiry revealed that such was true and that he would locate in Burlington on his arrival here. He and his son Joseph will first go to Florida where Dr. Long has a farm near Lake Alfred in that State, and they will be there for some time yet. Mrs. Long is visiting relatives in Virginia and will arrive here soon. It is understood that he has already shipped his household goods to this place, and will become a bona-fide citizen of Burlington on his arrival here shortly. Dr. Long has long been identified with the educational life of the country, having been president of Antioch College in Ohio some years ago, and at the time of his resignation from the presidency of Union Christian College he was also pastor of the college church and president of the Merom State Bank. Burlington extends a hearty welcome to Dr. Long and his family and trusts they will find in Burlington all that they hope for in a good place to live.

GREENSBORO LETTER

We had good services yesterday. It was Children's Day. The committee in charge, Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Patton, Mrs. Caveness, Mrs. Minor and Mrs. Stewart had arranged a good programme. The children did well and won for themselves many words of commendation. Cut flowers and potted plants were used in the decoration. Beautiful Canary birds in cages hung here and there about the church and added to the charm of the occasion with their sweet songs.

The children spoke and sang about the Master Teacher—His words and works—the flowers, the birds, the bees, the sunshine and glad, happy Children's Day. Reports from departments showed that the Home Department has an enrollment of fifty members with three visitors. The Cradle Roll has sixty members with four visitors.

One of our great needs just now is more room. Two members were received into church fellowship. While the pastor was extending the right hand of fellowship, a little Canary bird near the altar sang out clear and sweet one of its most joyous songs. Was it, too, welcoming members with the church? I thank the little bird for its song. We are praying and laboring for a gracious outpouring of God's grace upon the work we are doing for Christ and the Church.

P. H. FLEMING.

Greensboro, N. C., June 28, 1915.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, HUNTINGTON, INDIANA

The last four weeks have been delightful ones for our church here, made so by the work of our new pastor, Leon Edgar Smith, who comes to us from Princeton University where he recently graduated.

About the first of October our church pastorate became vacant upon the resignation of Rev. Warren H. Sandow who had received a call from Versailles, Ohio. A pastoral committee was appointed at once to fill the place but it was not until the early days of January that the coming of Rev. L. E. Smith was decided; and his coming could not be until late in May, after his work in Princeton was over.

These were long and anxious days, but greeting day, May 30, at last arrived, when the chief feature was making the new pastor acquainted with all the phases of the Sunday services and with the members in his new place. He was introduced to each service and responded to the satisfaction of all. The installation services followed on the evening of June 9. Several prominent ministers of our denomination participated. C. H. Rowland, D. D., of Franklin, Va., gave the invocation and Scripture reading; W. D. Samuels, D. D., of Bluffton, Ind., offered prayer and gave the charge to the congregation; N. G. Newman, D. D., of Defiance, Ohio, gave the sermon and Warren H. Denison, D. D., of Norfolk, Va., delivered the charge to the pastor who then responded. That Drs. Samuels and Denison had both served in the church made their work especially fitting and effective.

Everybody is more than pleased with the work so far of Bro. Smith. There is harmony and enthusiasm everywhere. Three have joined the church upon confession of faith, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Buffinton and son.

Bro. Smith is well fitted for the work which he has begun in Huntington. He is a man in the prime of life, but has had careful and extensive preparation, both in the field of experience and in college preparation. In June 1910 he graduated from Elon College, North Carolina. During his work there as a student as well as before, he served as pastor of different churches of our denomination. After graduating from Elon College he began his pastorate of the First Christian church of Greensboro, North Carolina, from which charge he resigned eighteen months later for his work in Princeton; but while there did part time preaching for two years. All who know him and have heard him feel that he is beginning a very useful life in the ministry.

NOTICE

The Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference will meet with the Timber Ridge church Hampshire county, West Virginia, August the 12th at 10 a. m. All delegates will be met at Gore, Virginia, eight miles from the church. Arrangements have been made to take all delegates from Winchester to Gore on auto bus at a cost of 50c each way.

Delegates and visitors from Harrisonburg and intermediate points, should leave Harrisonburg on the Baltimore and Ohio at 10:52. This train arrives in Winchester at 1:30. Those coming by way of the Norfolk and Western should reach Boyce on the 9:15 train in the morning and come to Winchester by way of the auto stage line.

All delegates and visitors must come the 11th. The distance from the railroad is too great to make arrangements to meet trains at other times.

If you expect to attend write to Walter N. Oates, Trone, Va. who is chairman of the Entertainment Committee and tell him whether you are coming on the train or by private conveyance.

W. T. WALTERS, Pres.,
Winchester, Va.

SUFFOLK LETTER

Yesterday was "Theological Department" day in the Suffolk Christian church. Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College, was the chief speaker. He discussed "Realizing Life's Responsibilities" in a very edifying manner. The midsummer weather prevented the attendance such an interest and such a discussion deserved; but taken altogether, the day was profitable and greatly enjoyed. The fruit of the meeting we hope to realize in the future. Our congregation loves to hear Dr. Harper speak and, more than that, they love the man and are proud of his work as President of the College.

He taught Col. J. E. West's Philathea class and made a talk in the Sunday school in addition to speaking at the eleven o'clock hour.

His coming is a benediction because he instructs, inspires, and touches the deeper things of spiritual consciousness.

At the evening service Rev. O. B. Whittaker of New Smyrna, Florida, preached on the subject of "Grace." His discussion was illuminating, easy to follow, scriptural and logical, and made a fine impression. The simplicity of the message was somewhat of a disappointment as the congregation had been led to expect more of the oratorical in his delivery. I think, however, the congregation was well pecked more of the oratorical in his delivery, I mon.

I have recently read Dr. Whittaker's last book, "Evenings with 'Uncle Bijah,'" which is an interesting story discussion of "Christian Fellowship." It is a beautiful story, evening talks between Rev. Richard Grate and Uncle Bijah as to the reasons why Uncle Bijah did not join the church. It can be read at one sitting and will repay the purchase price and the time given to it. The book is published and sold by the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio.

It is a great pleasure to me have distinguished men of our own church visit us and bring us good messages to our congregation.

The Chautauqua opens tonight and our Sunday school Convention will meet with Antioch church next week, on Wednesday the 28th. There are so many meetings in these modern days that time becomes more and more an important factor in every minister's work.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Miss Annie Bagwell of Durham spent the week end with Miss Annie Watson.

Mr. H. Lee Thomas of Broadway, N. C., a member of the Junior class for next session, was here Friday.

Mrs. Dora Wheeler of Madison, N. C., was here Friday looking forward to making Elon her future home for the benefit of her children.

Drs. Harper, Atkinson, Wicker, Revs. J. O. Cox, A. V. Lightbourne and Mrs. Harper are away this week attending the Seaside Chautauqua at Virginia Beach. If others of our town went we failed to get their names.

Mr. Montgomery Stroud and wife of Mabane, were here Monday looking for a location in the "ideal village." We hope they will east their lot in our midst.

Regular services were held Sunday, Dr. Atkinson preaching at the eleven o'clock hour and Prof. Oscar E. Randolph leading the evening prayer service.

The Farmers' Institute will be held here next Saturday. Townsman, Mr. D. W. Brown is president of the local work. A general good time of conferences and addresses is expected.

Ethleen Jones who has been spending the summer with her grand-mother in Wake county, returned home Saturday. She was accompanied by little Margaret Hobby.

Mr. Luis Rivera, Santa Isabel, Porto Rico, a young man from the mission field of Rev. D. P. Barrett, has arrived for the opening in September.

Despite the hard times and dry season requests for catalogs and other information continue to be received at the President's office. Education is now in the minds of the people one of the chief necessities of life and must be had even at a sacrifice. "X"

BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS

(By Pres. C. H. Stephenson, before the Eastern N. C. S. S. and C. E. Convention, Wentworth church, July 13.)

The theme of my message is, "Better Sunday Schools." The subject concerns itself with you as old as Adam. I am sure that each of you have heard of it, tasted it, or read of it, and yet when applied to the Sunday school or Christian Endeavor Society, it becomes an unknown quantity in the lives of too many of us. That word touches the lives of all classes, and is one that we should cultivate and become more familiar with since all success depends upon it. It is a short but all important word of four letters, and I don't want you to forget it—WORK. I shall not attempt to define this word as all are already more or less familiar with it.

I believe the mere ability to work is a blessing all should be thankful for, and especially at this time when the minds of men are in a state of unrest and foreign countries, full of strife, bloodshed, and destruction, are grappling at each other's throats in the throes of war.

Work is essential to every phase of human activity. It is absolutely necessary to our physical welfare. Strength comes to the body only with work. The same is equally true with regard to the intellect. Ask the world's great statesmen, "How came ye to this high pinnacle of knowledge and fame?" and they will invariably answer that it was through and by hard work.

When you think of the success of Thomas A. Edison, the greatest inventive genius that ever lived, I want you to think also of the fourteen hours per day and sometimes more of the hard work that led to his success. He hit the keynote when he said that genius was 1% inspiration and 99% perspiration; and that the modern genius in reality is the man who perspires. While hard work alone will not make a genius of an ordinary man, yet, no amount of natural talent will produce one of the world's great men unless that ninety-nine per cent. of perspiration as Edison puts it, goes along with the genius.

Henry Ford, the automobile king who today has an income of $28,000,000, began work in a machine shop and has been working hard ever since. And so with all great men we find demonstrated that trust of axioms: By the sweat of thy brow, thou shalt eat bread.

There are all kinds of successes, and yet from the highest genius who possesses his millions to the humble farmer who wisely cultivates his few acres, the key to every success is hard work. Yea, it is the very foundation and corner stone of success, the mortar for the brick, the one thing without which there would be nothing. On the other hand, there is one explanation of failure and only one. Excepting the man too weak in mind and body, there is no possible excuse for absolute failure except the lack of hard work.

And now since all success is directly dependent on hard work, and failure comes only from the lack of hard work, let us examine briefly four steps that lead through hard work to BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Take the first letter of the word Work and let it stand for Willingness and you have the first step. If you haven't a good Sunday school today, the fault is not with your Sunday school but with you. The life we live is from choice. "We can if we will" should be the motto of every Sunday school worker. One of the greatest evils of our young people today is the lack of preparation and application, with ambition but without the willingness to struggle to gain the desired end. We want all our Sunday school to be a good one, if not the best; and yet too many of us say by our actions that we are not willing to take an active part in its making. Many people aspire to high positions but are not willing to pay the price. No man ever put his foot on the top rung of the ladder of success who did not first place it on the bottom, and show by his climbing higher and higher that he was willing to work. If you will you can remain at the bottom; if you will you can climb to the top. I am told that there is plenty of room at the top.

One great trouble is, that in the army of Sunday school workers we all want to be captains and generals. We are not willing to march with the rank and file and do duty as a private soldier. There are those who say: "If I only had the eloquence or social position, if I could superintend, pray, teach, or sing, like so and so, how much good I would accomplish for God, the Church and the Sunday school." Pray tell me who are those who have built our live and aggressive churches and Sunday schools of today? The rich reservist? Nay, verily, but the thousands of humble of workers who are recruiting the army of Christian youth in the Sunday school not by their power, eloquence, or social position, but by the blessings of God, with plain talk, submissive prayer, and humble service.

The Sunday school is the only institution I know of that furnishes a place for everyone from the cradle to the grave, without any kinds of restrictions. No matter what your station in life may be, the Sunday school has a place for you, and you can fill that place which no one else can fill for you, if you are only willing. God is looking for willing workers who will bear the heat of the day and fight the battle of service. When God demanded of Abraham the slaying of his son, it was not the life of Isaac that God wanted, but merely the willingness of Abraham to make the sacrifice.

I hear you say: "What can I do?" Listen! Go to the superintendent of your Sunday school next Sunday, and ask him for something to do. Your very willingness will be to him a lasting inspiration. One of the most faithful, loyal, and dependable teachers that ever came to our Sunday school was a stranger in a strange land, so to speak. He had the willingness and expressed that willingness when he came to me one Sunday morning, handed me his card, and said: "I am here for several months, I am going to join your Sunday school, and you may use me where you think best." We used him and God blessed him. My fiends, God has no other way than through man to carry forward His great work, and He has left the choice with us.

Are you willing to have a better Sunday school? If you are honest and really want one, then show your willingness, your school will use you and God will bless you. I don't believe I ever saw a Sunday school that did not want to be a better one. I do not care how wide-a-woke and progressive that school may be there is always room for improvement.

On the other hand, it is absolutely impossible to have even a good Sunday school with a bunch of unwillingness. Willingness is the first step towards the accomplishment of anything in the secular affairs of men, and it is the very first step towards the Kingdom of God. We should show our love for the Lord Jesus Christ who gave his life that we might live, by walking in his footsteps and doing as He did when He lived among men. He went about doing good, and to us as His disciples of old, He says, "Follow Me." To do this we must be willing. My friends let's stop saying "I can't" and begin saying "I will." Let's stop making excuses and begin making pupils. Let's stop undoing and begin doing; and a better Sunday school is assured. Thus I have shown that to have BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS, first of all you must be willing.

Now the next important step in the school work as suggested by the second letter of the word Work is Organization. I like Webster's definition of the word: "The arrangement of a task in suitable parts so that it may be performed more efficiently." Now you will agree with me that the work of the Sunday school is a "task" and more especially when it is placed on two or three. But when it is divided in suitable parts and every member is willing to do his part, the task becomes lighter and more profitable. It is a well proven fact that the benefits of organized efforts far outweigh the results of individual action.

Now possibly the greatest organization in the world today is the Sunday school. This organization not only has behind it the working forces of all denominations. It is not only the largest religious organization, but the largest army of any kind marching under one banner with a single purpose. And yet, did you know that your school, no matter how small, is a vital part of this organization? To play its individual part in this tremendous organization your school itself must be organized. New devices, new methods, and new ideas must be injected into your schools as new conditions arise.

The successful Sunday school does not happen any more than the successful banking house, or any other institution. It has to be made. And then after it has been made it must be kept up continuously, or else it will lose its claim to success. There are hundreds of methods of teaching, thousands of ways of getting at the hearts of the young people, scores of excellent lesson helps, and a host of soul winning songs; but these avail not if they are not organized and systematized under one common purpose.

Some time ago it was my good fortune to attend with the other Sunday school superintendents of Raleigh, a meeting of the Workers Council of the Tabernacle Baptist Sunday school, which is one of the largest in the South. On this occasion I was forcibly struck with the visible results of organization. The reports of the different phases of the work by the various departments seemed to say "We succeed because we are organized."

I hear you say: "How must we organize?" First, elect your Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, Secretary, Assistant Secretary, and Treasurer. Then have elected or appointed an executive committee or Sunday school council composed of the officers and teachers. This much organization you must have; and as your school grows it should be carried further and organized into divisions and departments something like this:

1st—Elementary Division which embraces the Cradle Roll, age birth to three; Beginners, age three to five; Primary, age six to eight; and Junior, age nine to twelve. 2nd—Secondary Division which constitutes the Intermediates, age thirteen to sixteen; and Seniors, age seventeen to twenty. This division should be organized and should be under a competent Supt. 3rd—Adult Division which includes the Bible classes and Home Department. This department should have a superintendent and the better the organization the better the service. Then I am inclined to believe that the general departments should consist of these three: Missionary; Temperance and Teacher Training, with a certain time set apart for each.

Now just how much of this organization your school needs must be determined by you. I

S. S. LESSON FOR JULY 25

C. E. TOPIC FOR JULY 25

Solomon Dedicates the Temple
I Kings 8: 1-13

Christ in Me
John 15: 1-11

The lesson resolves itself into two main phases. The things relative to man and the things relative to God.

It is true we have a few biped-dont-cares stalking around. From all appearances it seems as though what comes and what goes is all the same price and it is immaterial whether they are raised or lowered in the walks of life. They are to be pitied and influenced so life would seem real.

As a general rule every man wants to make a name for himself. This ought to be so in every case. Some have the idea that if they build a large, costly structure that's sufficient for them to always be remembered. If it is in your bounds to do this and build the Temple (church), dedicate it to God and do it in the right way, with the willingness and God's guidance of the heart, you have paved the way for greater service. This is the material that David was permitted to collect. Man must furnish the material to be dedicated.

Solomon reviewed the great promises and dealings of the Holy Spirit with his father David. The material was gathered, placed in its relative position with regards to its self then ready to be connected to God.

God wants more than our dedicated churches. He wants the temple of self in which the soul abides to be dedicated to His service. He wants every human structure, every human temple dedicated to the cause of the kingdom. It is up to us to see that all are dedicated. Some one is going to be held responsible for the destruction of some human building, by vice, intemperance, lack of an encouraging word. Will it be you?

David's ambition was to have an edifice built for God. Your ambition ought to be like unto David's—make yourself a temple in which God dwells and the remaining years will be years of usefulness. It is necessary to adjust your life carefully so God can come in and reign without friction—remember the material for Solomon's temple was so carefully prepared that a sound of the hammer was not heard in the building thereof.

Golden Text: Mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people.—Isa. 56:7.

A good time to subscribe for THE SUN—$1.50 year.

This is a heart to heart meeting It may be opened by a chain of prayers from consecrated, earnest hearts. Prior to the opening the questions below from the C. E. World should be given to all members present if possible.

Christ made us wonderful promises which He can and will fulfill if we will let Him. He wants us to abide in Him and then He will dwell in us. If Christ was here in the flesh, as He was one time, every one would want Him to visit and remain with the household. It would be great to have the honor of having the King of England to stop awhile in our midst, still a greater honor to have the King of Heaven be with us; yet, we can have that honor, have Him come and stay always. Some have not had the distinguished visitor, Jesus Christ, to enter their hearts. He has often knocked out, sad to say, He was not permitted entrance.

Let those who are present who have let the Savior in, state what it means to have Christ rule their lives. Tell what it has meant to you to have this heavenly guest abiding in you.

Christ said a deformed tree could not give forth perfect fruit. It is not likely that good fruit can be had from dwarfed vines. Cut off the source of nourishment and the vine withers and is fruitless.

A man cut off from the nourishment of God's fountain of life ever-lasting falls short of the best he can do for himself and those around him. He ceases to bear fruit.

The man or woman who has cut himself or herself away from the vine can be connected again and live under His protecting power and strength. He is waiting; are you willing?

Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Department

This Department is edited by Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., assisted by other members of the Board, to whom all items of Missionary interest and matter for the Department should be sent.

OUR MISSION FIELD

We have not heard of that needed automobile being furnished to our workers in Porto Rico. There is some one to whom God has given the money for it. Is it you?

"Our Woman's Missionary Society had a banquet on Wednesday March 17th, at the home of their president Mrs. O. S. Smith, which was a great success. New interest and great enthusiasm were manifested at the meeting by the women, which bids fair to eclipse anything undertaken by them in the past." (From Rev. D. A. Keys' report of Rosemont.)

"Our Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society has been reorganized on a firmer basis." (From Rev. W. T. Walters' report of Winchester.)

If you have not observed "Cradle Roll Missionary Day" in your society, do not put it off longer. It is so easy to get up an exercise for the children and they are so glad to help. It is instructive to them concerning the work of our church and the best means of winning them to the work as they grow older. Let us have a report of your meeting for these columns.

Miss Williams is writing such interesting letters from Porto Rico. You will be entertained to say the least of it, if you will read what she writes.

SEND THE WORD ALONG

It would be so helpful if each of our societies would report what they are doing—others would get ideas and be inspired thereby. If you have had several additions to your roll, tell us how you secured them. If you have a thriving W. W. or Y. P. S. or M. C. R. let us know about that. This page can be made a real inspiration not only to the women but the whole church if we would all combine to do it. We believe there is progress and interest—tell it to others and help somebody today. Send the good news along. Let us hear from the work in your church.

A GREAT GIFT

The church people had not given As much money as they ought, And they were not interested, So the missionary thought; And his heart was greatly burdened.

"No one cares," he sadly sighed, "No one cares for my poor heathen Out beyond the ocean wide."

But that night he got a letter, Written in a boy's round hand, And a silver dime was in it— He began to understand. As he slowly reads, "Here's ten cents

When you want more call on me." Then his eyes grew rather misty, And the words he scarce could see.

Bless the little chap he murmured; If the boys like this will give We can risk the future with them, And the cause we love will live. For if hearts are only willing When the dimes to dollars grow There will be the same glad spirit And our wealthy men will show In their gifts to foreign missions The same generosity, As the boy who says "Here's ten cents, When you want more call on me."

WAKEFIELD NOTES

The second Sunday night in June children's exercises were held at Dendron Christian church. A good program had been arranged and all did their parts well. A large crowd attended these services to enjoy the evening.

The fourth Sunday night in June the Willing Workers of the Wakefield church had charge of the service. The services showed that the children had been well trained and all did their part well. A large audience was in attendance and good attention was given to the service.

The revival season will soon be on in this section.

We have arranged for services beginning the 3rd Sunday in August at New Lebanon, 2nd Sunday in September at Burton's Grove and 3rd Sunday in September at Union. We are expecting and we trust that our expectations may be more than realized.

The annual camp meeting at Wakefield will begin August 6th and last ten days.

The work in this field is moving on quietly. Several members have been received into the Wakefield church by letter during the year.

Our Chautauqua and Sunday School Convention are now at hand and we trust that new interest may be awakened in our work by these meetings.

Receipts for week	32.43
Grand Total	$1886.33

We are sorry to report a falling off in receipts again this week. If the high record of last week's report could be maintained for a few months we would make peace with our anxious creditors. The falling off this time can be explained in part by the fact that the report was made out a few days earlier than usual, in order that your humble superintendent could go to Virginia Beach. He expects to be there this week and hopes to meet many of the cousins and friends of the orphanage. Our letter will be brief this time as we have so many things to attend to before going.

The good ladies of Ingram church and community instruct us to send them thirty empty fruit jars. We are glad to comply with their request and are sending them by today's express. If other ladies wish to have a part in feeding our family we shall be glad to furnish the cans if they will furnish the fruit.

Yes, it is time to eat watermelon for those who have the melons, but the trouble with us is we haven't the melons. Our melon crop is almost a failure this time.

am inclined to think the more you have the better. Thus you have seen that with willing, organized workers behind your school, it must surely move forward and be placed safely on the road to success.

Turning to my third important step in the Sunday school work, we have suggested by the third letter of the word Work, Routine workers. Again we are enlightened by Webster who says "any regular course of action or procedure adhered to through force of habit." After we have organized our willing workers, it is extremely necessary that we set our organization to regular routine work. Why? First because of the value of habits. We all are acquainted with habit and know the importance of forming good ones. I wonder how many in this convention make it a habit of attending Sunday school every Sunday, being on time and taking an active part in the Sunday school work. It is routine and regular to be sure, but it pays. The best superintendents, officers, and teachers today engaged in Sunday school work are those who are routine workers. They are found filling their places as best they can every Sunday. They grow, broaden, and become more efficient only as they enter the realm of the routine.

Habits are formed in the plastic period of early life and it is then more especially that proper habits of attending Sunday school regularly should be cultivated. A good habit made in this formative period of life proves an invaluable aid in after life. Then why not be a routine worker in the Sunday school forming the habit while young and keeping it up through after life?

Then again we should be routine workers on account of the results which follow. Brother superintendent, do you think you can have good results if you open your school from three to thirty minutes late, or fail to be present yourself to see that every officer, teacher and pupil is in his place doing his duty? I think not. You all will agree with me that before results are attained, there must be willing organized and routine work. Just as the results of routine work in our daily lives are food, clothing and the luxuries of this life; just so the results of routine work in the Sunday school are better citizens, happier homes, and the luxuries of the life to come.

the making of BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS as suggested by the fourth and last letter of the word Work, we have Keep at it! When we have our willing workers organized at routine work it is necessary to keep them at it before we can have BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS. The late N. B. Broughton, Supt. of the Tabernacle Baptist Sunday school for life, while addressing our Sunday school in Raleigh shortly before his death, said: "If your Sunday school would succeed you must keep everlastingly at it." E. B. Crow, one of Raleigh's liveliest Sunday school workers, remarked on one occasion: "Every man has a gold mine in him, Keep digging!" One of our foremost scholars in giving advice to a college man once quoted an ancient piece of Indian poetry:

"Keep on, Keep on,
Keep on, Keep on,
Keep on, Keep on,
Keep on, Keep on."

There is no place to be found anywhere for the quitter. The only place I know for the quitter and the "I can't" man is in the basement of despondency. In the Sunday school there should be no such thing as quitting. Our watchword should ever be: "Keep on!" Listen to the words of the Master: "No man having put his hand to the plow, and turning back is fit for the Kingdom of Heaven."

And now you have my message. To have BETTER SUNDAY SCHOOLS we must first be willing. Then organizing our forces in routine work, to attain the right degree of success we must keep everlastingly at it.

This done we will be rewarded day by day with the presence and guiding spirit of the blessed Master while in this world. And when our time is no more here, and we meet Him face to face, in the great Beyond, our reward is complete as we hear Him say: "Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord!"

FORTUNATE FOR THE SOUTH

Skin diseases seem more prevalent in the warmer climates, which makes it fortunate for the South that it has such an exceptionally fine remedy in Tetterine for Eczema, Tetter, Itch, Acne, Salt Rheum, etc. Every skin trouble from a simple chafe or insect bite to the worst case of Tetter is quickly relieved by Tetterine. Applied externally, harmless and fragrant. 50c at druggist's or by mail from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The hardships of a traveling salesman's life had wrecked my health. My family physician diagnosed my case as chronic gastritis, brought on by disease of the liver and complicated by kidney trouble. I consulted specialists who confirmed his diagnosis. Months passed, I grew worse and was finally compelled to give up my work.

By chance I heard of some wonderful cures which had resulted from drinking the water of a little spring in the Mineral Belt of South Carolina, a picture of which spring appears on this page. In desperation I tried it. On the second day I thought that I could notice some improvement, at the end of the first week my appetite and digestion had returned and I was much stronger; at the end of the third week I felt that I was completely cured. That was six years ago and I still enjoy perfect health.

Knowing that it had restored my health and believing that it had saved my life, I bought the Spring.

I then determined to see whether the water would cure others as it had cured me. I shipped ten gallons absolutely free of charge to each of one thousand sufferers from chronic diseases. Only four reported no benefit from the use of the ten gallons. The other nine hundred and ninety-six reported decided benefit or complete cures. Many claimed that the water had saved their lives.

I realized that I had discovered one of the world's greatest mineral springs, and I decided to devote my life to it. But how could I make the world listen; how could I make them believe my story? The precious water was running to waste while thousands were suffering. I said, I will make them believe me by showing my faith in them and in the curative power of the Spring. I will tell them that the water shall cost them nothing if it fails to benefit.

The world listened! Some wrote for proof and I sent them the letters which I had received from their fellowmen. Others accepted my offer without question. Thousands have written me reporting relief and permanent cure of a great variety of chronic diseases.

But some of the water still ran to waste for lack of belief. I determined that every drop should be used to relieve the sufferings of humanity. To this end I requested the advertising manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate to come to see me. At my desk I opened my mail and showed him the letters from men and women from all parts of the country who had suffered and who had found relief. I gave him my letter files and induced him to spend several hours reading my past correspondence with those who were using the water. I showed him the chemical analysis and letters from physicians explaining the curative properties of the water.

He believed, and as a result he has written this announcement for me.

WILL YOU BELIEVE?

I do not ask your implicit faith; only enough to try the water for three weeks as I did. I estimate that I drank about ten gallons and I, therefore, offer gladly to ship you two five gallon demijohns on my guarantee that if you find that it does not benefit you I will promptly refund the price, which is only $2.00. You must promise to drink the water in accordance with the instructions which I will send you and return the empty demijohns. I make you the sole judge as to whether the water has benefited you, and as the Advertising Manager of this paper has kindly consented to guarantee my guarantee to refund your money, if you are not benefited, I hope you will feel perfectly free to accept my offer.

This offer is extended to all who suffer with any chronic disease, except cancer and consumption, but I especially recommend the water for the treatment of stomach, liver, kidney and bladder diseases and for rheumatism, gout, uric acid poisoning, gall stones, diabetes, nervous headache and general debility resulting from impure or impoverished blood. These are the diseases most frequently mentioned in the letters which I have received, but my offer is open to anyone who suffers from any chronic ailment.

Yours sincerely,
N. F. SHIVAR, Proprietor.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.—Dear Sir: As you are well aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horri-fying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered 10 gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months from date I began drinking it gained 20 lbs., was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely natural's remedy.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I ordered 10 gallons Shivar Spring Water especially for my teething baby who was suffering with its stomach and bowels. The water cured her disorders entirely and she is herself again. I stopped all medicine and gave her only Shivar Spring Water saved her from the heat and fatigue, and the water has restored me also. Thanking you. Very respectfully,

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 11, 1912.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—Until a few weeks ago my wife was a chronic sufferer from gall stones. She was stricken critically ill and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. Rev. A. A. Foster, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after arriving at the Spring, she was apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has since had no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers.

OUR DEAD

Craven

Rebecca Craven was born Sept. 11, 1826, and died June 25, 1915. She was the youngest daughter of Lawrence Moon, and married Robt. Craven Jan. 18, 1849, and had three children—Monroe, Rosaberg and Madison. She professed faith in Christ at the age of 22 years, and joined Pleasant Grove Christian church. She spent 66 years in the service of God in her quiet and unassuming way. She left a bright testimony to cheer the hearts of her relatives and friends. All of her immediate family have passed away but one son, Rosaberg. A large congregation attended her funeral, which was conducted by the writer.

Lineberry

Mrs. Nancy L. Lineberry died June 28th in her 59th year. She was the wife of Jefferson Lineberry, and the mother of 8 children. Seven children and the husband are still living. She was a member of the Society of Friends at Holly Springs, and was greatly beloved in her community. She called her children around her and exhorted them to live right and meet her in heaven. She was buried at Rehoboth M. E. church, and this writer conducted her funeral.

T. E. WHITE.

Brown

Lavina Craven Brown died June 23, in her 77th year. Early in life she professed faith in Christ and joined the Baptist church, but later joined the M. E. church and remained in its fold till death. She died very suddenly, but her relatives and friends believe she was ready. She was buried at Holly Springs, and the funeral was conducted by the writer. She was married four times and had one child, who with nine grand children survive her.

T. E. WHITE.

Womack

Mrs. Mary Etta Womack was born 1864, married Mr. James Womack 1881. To this union were born four children of whom three are living and one dead. She went from labor to reward July 12th, 1915. She professed faith in Christ about 1880 and joined Moepe Union Christian church of which she lived a consistent member until the date of her death. She left a bright testimony behind her to cheer her weeping husband and children.

She died at the Central Carolina Hospital, Sanford, N. C., and on the 13th day of July, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives we laid her remains to rest in the Moore Union cemetery.

 May God bless the bereft husband and children, especially little Vester, her baby girl, in her young and tender years. May God bless and keep her safe from harm or danger in his prayer. Services by her pastor,
 J. D. WICKER.

York

Oliver P. York was born Jan. 8, 1840, and died July 11, 1915, in his 76th year. He had been an invalid for nine years, but endured his affliction with cheerfulness and patience. He spent his life in Raddolph county, and his kindness and courtesy endeared him to his friends and neighbors. He married Loviney Pugh in 1859 and they had seven children. Of these two have died—Lucinia and Rebecca. He is survived by his widow and five children: Thos. M., P. P. Vandelia, John W., and Mary Jaue. Also 32 grand children and 7 great grand children. He was a member of the Baptist church and had held his membership with that church for 40 years. The funeral was conducted by the writer from the Baptist church and the interment was in the cemetery at Ramseur.

T. E. WHITE.

Stout

Jacob P. Stout, endearingly known and called "Uncle Press," died July 9th in his 75th year. He was twice married, his first wife being Nancy J. Cox. They had one child which died in infancy. His second marriage was to Sarah A. Cox, Feb. 19, 1882. This union was happy all through their married life, and the parting at death was sad to the wife who deeply feels her loss. He served in the Civil War from Oct. 19 to April 15, 1865. He professed faith in Christ Sept. 14, 1864, and was a loyal member of his church. He had been a deacon of Park's Cross Roads church for 35 years. He was a peaceable man in his church and community and will be missed in both. His home was open to friends and to his pastors and his hospitality was unstinted. He delighted in making his friends happy when they visited him and he possessed the gift of music, playing skillfully upon the violin. His funeral was conducted by the writer from the church and the burial was in the cemetery at Park's Cross Roads.

Williams

The subject of this sketch was born March 26th, 1845, died May 28th, 1915. Aunt Carrie Williams was 70 years, 2 months and 2 days old. She was the beloved wife of our good brother J. C. Williams of Beulah Christian church. Aunt Carrie was never a member of any church but she was a patient and industrious woman, whose life bore the good fruits of faith, hope and love, and died trusting in Christ who is abundantly able to save. She leaves to mourn their loss a faithful husband, two sons and one daughter, besides brothers, sisters and a host of other relatives and friends, whom we commend to Him who doeth all things well.

G. D. HUNT.

Pierce

At Youngsville, N. C., July 3, 1915, wife of R. E. Pierce, Mrs. M. B. Pierce. She was the daughter of Richard Holden and Margaret Holden. She was born Nov. 10, 1871. She had been an invalid for more than a year. She professed faith in Christ in early life, and lived a faithful member of the Christian church at Youngsville until the death angel called for her. She leaves to mourn their loss a husband, five children, three girls and two boys. Three children preceded her to the spirit world. She was laid to rest in the old family burying ground at Youngsville. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor. W. G. CLEMENTS.

Munford

Whereas, It has pleased almighty God, in His wisdom to take from our midst our esteemed brother Henry H. Munford, we the members of Antioch church and Sunday school do adopt the following resolutions:

First, That the church has lost a true and faithful member and officer, one who was ever ready and willing to do his duty.

Second, That the Sunday school has lost one of its most diligent and efficient workers.

Third, That while we realize with sad hearts our great loss, we will strive to emulate his virtues and profit by his example, thanking our heavenly Father for such an exemplary life amongst us.

Fourth, That we extend to the bereaved wife and family our deepest sympathy, invoking God's divine blessing upon them in these days of trial.

Fifth, That a copy of these resolutions be published in The Christian Sun and Norfolk Herald, and that a copy be sent to the members of the family.

Editorial Briefs

Brotherhood

*The one bethought Him to make man
Of many-colored dust
And mixed the holy spirit in
In portions right and just;
Each had a part of mind and heart
From One Himself in trust.*

*Thus came the brown and yellow men
And black and white and red,
So different in their outer look,
Alike in heart and head,
The self-same earth before their birth,
The self-same dust when dead.*

—Chinese Lyrics, in Harper's Weekly

Slaves

It was the Roman poet-philosopher, Horace, who wrote "He will always be a slave who does not know how to live upon little." And the inspired writer has declared "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

Evil Communications

The State Liquor Dealers' Association of New York met at Utica recently and considered plans for combining all allied interests in a crushing assault on the "ignorant, prejudiced, and hypocritical prohibition movement." John J. Hanley of the American Federation of Labor assured the liquor dealers that his organization would work with them. That laborers and liquor dealers should work together is a spectacle sad and tragic enough to make the angels weep. For the one sure goal of liquor is the destruction of labor. When liquor dealers and laborers consort together the lion and the lamb lie down together—but only that the lion may devour the lamb.

Kinds of Preaching

There are three kinds, and they are well defined by the person who expressed his preference for one of three preachers: "When I go to hear one, he always tells me what she—the Church—says. When I go to hear a second, he is always dilating on it—doctrine. But when I go hear the third, I go again and go often because he always preaches Him—Christ." He, she, it. What the world needs and longs for is Christ, and the preachers who reveal Him get a hearing, and lift the world up. Paul, the greatest of all preachers to the Gentiles, "preached Christ and Him crucified," and "Christ Jesus the Lord." There is power in the Life.

Timely Warning

The National Council for Industrial Safety gives the following advice to drivers of automobiles: "I Be considerate. II Go slow when: 1 Passing children; 2 Passing vehicles; 3 Approaching crossings; 4 Turning corners III. Stop: 1 At railroad crossings; 2 Behind standing street cars. IV Use chains on slippery pavements. When in doubt go slow or stop." Others than autoists should observe this wise council. "We ought to give the more earnest heed to the things we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip." (Heb. 2:1.)

A Prophet

Orators and statesmen are not always prophets, but read the following spoken by Daniel Webster: "Unhappy Europe! The judgment of God rests hard upon it. Thy sufferings would deserve an angel's pity if an angel's tears could wipe away thy tears! The Eastern Continent seems trembling on the brink of some great catastrophe. Convulsions shake and terrors alarm it. Ancient systems are falling; works reared by ages are crumbling into atoms. Let us humbly implore Heaven that the wide-spreading desolation may never reach the shores of our native land, but let us devoutly make up our minds to do our duty in events that may happen to us. Let us cherish genuine patriotism. In that there is a sort of inspiration that gives strength and energy almost more than human." That was of the Europe of 1802, more than a century ago. A prophet's vision and a prophet's prayer.

Neutrality or Hostility

The feeling obtains generally that President Wilson's last reply to Germany is final, so far as this country is concerned and will admit of no further quibbling or equivocation on the part of Germany. The note means neutrality or hostility as Germany prefers. Any further violations of international law on the seas by which American citizens lose their lives or suffer wrong will be looked upon, our President declares as "deliberately unfriendly." To repeat an offense of the Lusitania type would mean to sever all relations with this country. The President declares that the United States will contend for the freedom of the seas "from whatever quarter violated" and would defend the rights of its citizens "without compromise and at any cost." This note is firm, pointed, statesmanlike, and its tone is unmistakable. The President wants peace, and will go to any length to get it, only as decency and honor will allow. The note does not mean peace at any price; but peace that accords with the dignity and conscience of every honest mind. "Blessed are the peace makers; for they shall be called the children of God." (Matt. 5:9.)

Other Gods

A clear thinker and a close observer declared on the lecture platform recently that "either materialism or the Word of God would dominate our civilization in the near future." Which shall it be? Ex-Secretary of State, William J. Bryan declared in a public address before thousands at Oakland, California, the other day that, "The American people worship the gods of wealth, fashion, fame, physical comfort, travel, passion chance and drink." Babylon perished, Greece went to ruin, and mighty Rome fell, not from want or need or ignorance, or poverty, but from wealth, passion, indulgence, luxury. Is our civilization to perish from similar cause? "Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knoweth not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked; I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear." (Rev. 3: 17-18.)

Slaughter of Millions

This unbelievable, impossible, unthinkable but actual and bloody war in Europe continues. Its horrors and destruction of life and property beggar description and surpass computation. Up to June 1, ten months of the titanic struggle, figures given out on July 7, estimated 770,000 Russians had been captured, 1,982,000 wounded, and 733,000 killed, a total of casualties to the Russians of 3,485,000. Germany comes next with a total of 1,567,000 casualties, Austria third with 1,235,000; France fourth, with 1,200,000, while the total for Great Britain is 428,000. The losses of Belgium, Serbia, Turkey, and Japan added totals 8,770,000, of whom 2,228,300 are dead. This number itself is inconceivable, tells little of the untold sorrow, suffering and grief, and the enormous loss of millions of property. "Thou shalt not kill" is a commandment that applies to nations as well as to individuals and somebody is responsible for all this inexcusable bloodshed and death. In all the annals of history nothing has been recorded comparable to the horrors and fatalities of this conflict. May God pity the nations who seem not to pity themselves.

Not Challenged, But Challenging

It has been claimed in some quarters that Christianity has failed—because there is war in Europe. The finest reply to this thoughtless and unjust criticism we have seen is the following from the Outlook: "The life of the race is not bound up with things which it has made with its hands, however worthy and beautiful; it is bound up with its ideals and character, and out of this great furnace of affliction those ideals and character must issue purified and more commanding than they have ever been before. Man is incurably religious, and the nations of the world cannot escape the challenge of Christianity which is challenging rather than being challenged. Having tried force, wealth, comfort, scientific achievements, and been overtaken with bankruptcy, Christianity now challenges the world to test its teaching and practice its precepts. There never has been but one Saviour of the world, and against the blackness of the darkness today he stands, the hope and light of the world." The Apostle John in an inspired hour penned these words long, long ago, and one day the world will learn that that they are true: "That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." (John 1:9.)

YOUNG MEN AND THE MINISTRY

No calling of our day offers more for heroic endeavor and courageous achievement than the ministry. The appeal is for strong, vigorous, wide-awake young men.

There is enough in the ministry, as a life's vocation, to challenge both the strength and the admiration of the bravest and most daring young men. Through the centuries the pulpit has had a prominent place in shaping the thought and moulding the character of every community in Christendom; but within the next few decades, the outlook now is that the ministry is to play a larger part than ever in shaping the affairs of men and nations. There is a rising tide of materialism, which means a growing greed for gain, and for wants that satisfieth not the souls of men. Material achievements breed wants more rapidly than they satisfy them. Since our time is mad with the passion for material achievements the only hope of the race is a curtailment of these wants and a turning of the minds and hearts of men toward moral and spiritual achievements. "Either materialism or the Word of God will dominate the near future."

At Virginia Beach last week Rev. Dr. Sargent of Providence, Rhode Island, uttered these words as the conclusion of a masterful and incisive address on this very theme:

"It is not that the church should enlarge the scope of its local work and that the youth of our time must be brought to see the larger opportunity in the neighborhood, but that it should be borne in upon them that the church of Christ is the dominating force that is shaping a new world. There are multitudes of young men who look out over life ready and waiting to choose the calling that promises most for the good of the world. Not all are materially inclined. Home training and natural inclination exercise too strong an influence in the opposite direction in the case of numbers. But the ministry has not been made to appeal to them for the reason that its activities have been too circumscribed, too narrow, too exclusive. Looking over the field of endeavor of their time they have come to the conclusion that there are other vocations in which a much larger contribution may be made in the creation of new conditions, whereby the sum total of human happiness may be increased. The church is concerned with the future. The present is of most moment to them. The future is too remote. When the Men and Religion Movement held its conventions throughout the country at least three times as many men could be gathered into the Institute on Social Service as in any other Institute of the movement. The significance of this cannot be passed by. Here is the appeal that counts. If it were idle for us to deny the plain fact that the church and minister are looked upon with a degree of contempt by thousands of young men because the church does not seem to them to be doing things. The round of preaching, pastoral visitation, attendance upon weddings and funerals does not make a strong appeal to young men who believe there is no limit to what they may do. I am not defending their attitude. I am simply stating a fact. To a degree which the church would not care to confess is it, however, responsible for the conception. Is the ministry making it plain to young men that no organized force in human history has had so powerful and direct an influence in the shaping of the world for better things as the church of Jesus Christ?"

"The future is to be dominated by materialism or by the Spirit of God. Do our young men understand that the ministry of the church will settle that question? Never in the world's history has the opportunity been so great as now—this time of transition of thought and life—for the prophet to do his work. Never was the call so loud for real leadership. The social gospel of Jesus has been re-discovered; the science of religious education has come to birth; our western home empires are being shaped for good or evil; the oriental world has come to life, and the accident is feeling the impact of a new power and realizing the need of a mediator of east and west; the entire eastern world has opened its doors to the Gospel of Christ; the world is in the throes of the greatest war of history (will it be the last great war?). How can the Prince of Peace be enthroned supreme above all earthly sovereignty that war may cease forever? Here is the supreme opportunity and challenge of the college man. No where as in the Christian ministry is the privilege so wide open for participation. Are our young men made aware of this? Are they permitted to think only in traditional terms of evangelism and afternoon visitation or in terms of world statesmanship? Upon whom is the responsibility laid to see that their perception of modern demands and consequent privileges is commensurate with actual conditions?"

Colleges, teachers, parents should see to it that this challenge to the large task of the ministry is not passed by unheeded on the part of strong, brave, willing young men. If there are men who are looking for a future full of heroic service and real achievement they should be directed, by intelligent endeavor, to the ministry as a life's calling.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

The Christian Church has not yet been made aware of what the Chautauqua and School of Methods, meeting for the last two years at Virginia Beach, means. If it had there would be many more ministers, Sunday-school workers and Christian Endeavor enthusiasts present. We are not going to get at the matter right till the churches and schools and societies do learn, and send their pastors and representatives to get the blessings and benefits of the Chautauqua.

This assembly fills a unique place, and one that is of first importance. At our Conferences, Conventions and Associations we are busy with detail, working out plans, hearing and making reports of work done, and comparing facts and figures. At Chautauqua the plan and purpose are wholly different. Here efficiency is discussed, noble themes are dwelt upon, visions are revealed, inspiration is begotten. What the Christian church needs is a vision—a vision of the ministry, of missions, of evangelism, of Endeavor, of Sunday schools. We, all of us, need enlightenment on such themes, such enlightenment as brings real and great truths to surface, and inspires to more heroic endeavor. There were some exceedingly wholesome and uplifting addresses at Chautauqua, and their utterances were not to deaf ears. They will live and produce great results.

But all our churches and schools ought to be benefiting by these studies and addresses. Only the few are reached. The many must somehow be brought in touch. We doubt if churches or schools could make better investment than to send pastors, or some intelligent representatives to Chautauqua each year and let them get the information and inspiration offered there and bring it back to the home field.

Faithful officials labored zealously to make

Chautauqua a success, and their efforts would there be crowned with even more glorious success had the attendance been larger.

Withal it was a most delightful and inspiring occasion and every one present hailed with joy the unanimous decision to hold Chautauqua again next year.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Central Ohio has suffered another flood, there resulting from death, scores injured and a property loss of more than $2,000,000.

—Rev. C. E. Newman and family are spending their vacation at Elon College. Bro. Newman's child has been quite ill, but is improved to some extent now.

—Mrs. A. T. Banks, Henderson, writes the Christian Endeavor topic for SUN readers this week, and does it worthily and well. It will be read with great pleasure and profit by SUN readers.

—Dr. St. Clair McKelway, the gifted editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, died July 16. He was 70 years old. He was distinguished as lawyer, orator and educator and served his day with great zeal and ability.

—Mr. John Wannamaker of Philadelphia, has proposed that this country buy Belgium from Germany at the price of $100,000,000 and give it back to the Belgians; an ambitious but impracticable scheme.

—The notorious Harry K. Thaw, slayer nine years ago of Stanford White, and at the time declared insane, has been declared sane and given his freedom. Thaw had money and used it freely and constantly to gain his liberty.

—SUN readers will learn with great satisfaction that Dr. W. P. Lawrence continues to improve and gain strength. He is summing in the mountains, at Boone, N. C., and writes that he was able to walk four miles in one day recently.

—If the father and mother care most for the welfare of their sons and daughters they will have a regard for the moral and spiritual surrounding while deciding what school or college to patronize. Good scholarship with bad morals is worse than useless.

—The Newport News church and the Berkeley church are both on the look out for pastors the coming year. Drs. Harward and Johnson having notified their congregations that they will not return to these charges after the conclusion of the present year.

—Her many friends will learn with pleasure that Mrs. M. A. Atkinson who was recently carried to a Raleigh hospital for a serious operation is much improved and went a few days since to her father's, Mr. S. C. Hobby's in Raleigh where she is rapidly recovering.

—An excursion boat, tied up at her dock in Chicago, was loading for a day's outing with 2,500 Sunday school pupils, teachers and parents last Saturday, 24, when she listed and in two minutes turned over, dumping her passengers in the channel of the river. About 1,000 perished before rescue could be given.

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne, Elon College, N. C., is this week in a meeting with Rev. J. W. Holt, at Union Ridge. Next week Bro. Lightbourne goes to Pleasant Grove, Halifax Co., Va., for a meeting and his engagements then continue till November. Mrs. Lightbourne is to accompany him and assist in the singing.

—The Franklin, Va., people are rejoicing at the progress their new church is making in the building. The old building has been entirely torn away and a new and modern building is rapidly going up in its place. The new structure is to cost about $15,000. Rev. C. H.

Rowland, D. D., the beloved pastor and his good wife are sharing the joys and responsibilities of the great work.

—Rev. G. R. Hammond, Le Grand, Ia., has issued an Album of Christian ministers and others. There are 449 cuts and a brief sketch of the life of each one whose cut is given. There are cuts of Christian institutions also. The Album is artistically prepared and is neatly printed and substantially bound. It is well worth the price, $1.00 plus 12 cents postage. Orders should be sent to the author.

—Smithfield (N. C.) Herald: "Dr. H. H. Utley, County Health Officer, was in town Wednesday on his way home from Clayton and Archer Lodge where he had spent a busy day giving anti-typhoid vaccine. At Archer Lodge he vaccinated 200 people in 180 minutes, and at Clayton he gave the vaccine to 275 people in 240 minutes. Not only did he give the vaccine, but he made a record of every one vaccinated. The people are showing that they are interested in this work and at both places folks were turned away for lack of time to give them the vaccine. Dr. Utley's record of giving the typhoid vaccine to 475 people in 420 minutes is a record hard to beat." Dr. Utley, now one of the most prominent physicians and influential citizens of Johnson county, is a former Elon College pupil and his class mates will not be surprised to learn of his successful career. And he has, we are advised, remained as true and loyal to his church as he has to his vocation and to his Alma Mater.

PORTSMOUTH LETTER

The close of the last quarter finds us enjoying the hot weather. Situated where we get the ocean's breezes almost all the time, we sometimes wonder if it will ever get hot again, and then all of a sudden we swelter under the heat and repent our careless desire for that kind of weather. Both my residence and my church are in sight of the water, though they be three miles apart. The electric car connects me up about three times a day and between the two I am enjoying the work of this church with a depth of satisfaction I never knew before.

We began the quarter with a "tug" at the debt and the insurance. We asked our congregation for $416.00 which covered the interest due, the fee for renewing the loan and one year's insurance. Many dreaded the task and doubted in these hard times the possibility of raising the amount; but, like one climbing the mountain upon arriving at the mighty rock which far down the trail seemed to obstruct the way it was done. The contributions amounted to nearly $450.00. You know that the Lord must have done it.

The next thing we undertook was a revival which lasted two weeks, the pastor being his own evangelist. Bro. Chas. L. Strickland, of Huntington, Ind., assisted in the music. At the outset of the meeting a thing happened which I cannot forget. Rev. George D. Eastes, pastor of the Third church, Norfolk, a man thoroughly evangelistic, both in principle and practice, came over and on the second day of the meeting married our organist. What do you think about that? And his only apology was, "Blame Bro. Harrell for it. He invited me to hold a meeting for him last year and I just couldn't help it." I call that Grit. Well I have learned that there are two things which nothing can stop: a marriage and a meeting which God is running. So they went on and we went on. Brother Eastes has one of the best women in the world for a wife and especially fitted for a minister, and we had one of the best meetings you ever read about. Of course there have been just as great meetings elsewhere, but this was very gracious in its saving effects and the very great gratification it brought to all who were interested in it. Sixteen were converted and fifteen united with the church. We all are very thankful that the church can be so united and revived. This spirit of evangelism has prevailed during the quarter, and we expect to have another meeting sometime in the not very far off future.

Another feature of the quarter which has brought very gratifying results has been a series of sermons each Sunday evening on the Judgment; expository and doctrinal sermons on the Revelation. These subjects have awakened interest among the people and the attendance has been on the increase even in this summer weather. The Sunday school is growing each Sabbath and the roll now numbers two hundred and twenty-eight, including the Cradle Roll and Home Department. We are to hold our quarterly conference this evening and we are expecting to hear the "Go Forward" note all along the line.

Yours for the MASTER,
H. E. ROUNTREE, Pastor.

SUFFOLK LETTER

George Alonzo Spivey was born Nov. 5th, 1890, and died July 13, 1915, at the age of 24 years, 8 months and thirteen days.

His physical powers had been in decline for years, and he was confined to bed exactly six months. Residence at Catawba, service by physicians, and prudent self-care, all failed to restore him to health and prolong his life. But he was submissive, patient and hopeful all through the weary months of decline.

His life, though brief, was not in vain. He established himself in the home, in the church, and in the community. He was loved, trusted, and respected for his filial Christian and social virtues and graces. His future was bright for this world and brighter for the world to come.

He possessed some gifts that had promise of special usefulness in the church as well as in business. He possessed musical talent which he began to develop and was, for a time, a member of the church choir and sang several solos with good effect. But his early decline cut him off from this line of useful service which he very much loved. He was a faithful member of Mr. Ballard's Sunday school class as long as he had strength to attend. Even-tempered, of appreciative disposition, quiet in manner, and modest in intercourse, he won the confidence and esteem of those who knew him best.

There was the promise in him of a high-grade active church member, and his example as a young man was a model of simple Christian character. Many who were real Christians themselves were impressed by the sincerity and consistency of his life.

In Mr. Bruce's store, where he worked as long as he could go, he won the respect not only of his employer, but of the customers. Had life been extended and health continued he had a business future of possible quiet steady growth. Absolutely trustworthy and sincerely faithful, he impressed his character upon the position he filled as a clerk in the store. The stability of the community rests on just such characters, stressing religion in daily work.

His filial love for his mother was equally true and sustained to the last, not only in work for the family, but in gratitude for their help in his helplessness. The relation between him and the entire family was beautiful. He never faltered in his affection for them with the loss of strength and suffering long endured.

His gratitude for kindness was expressed to me in words during the last fifteen minutes of his life. Rational to the last moment, trusting implicitly and hopefully in his Savior, he breathed his last as peacefully as a tired toiler goes to sleep at evening time. One could scarcely discern when he ceased to breathe; and one could not help feeling, "absent from the body, present with the Lord." To have been the mother of such a son and to have served through long sickness such a patient is ample reward for loss of sleep, heart-anxiety, and the oscillations between hope and fear for recovery. The "things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal." The home is richer and the family life is larger since he was a part of it. God bless the mother, the brother and the sisters.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Mr. M. A. Reitzel has opened a stock of goods in the store formerly occupied by Dr. S. A. Ware.

Mr. George Maynard and wife of the Union Ridge section were in town last week and spent the day with Mrs. Tate.

Mrs. A. T. Banks of Henderson, N. C., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Michael.

Mr. G. B. Harris of Embro, N. C., a member of next year's Junior Class, spent Sunday and Monday in the village with friends.

Rev. R. F. Brown who has been spending the summer with his people in Alabama returned to the hill last week. Brother Brown has had fever this summer, but is rapidly recuperating and will be able to take up his work as a member of the Senior Class September 1st.

Miss Ione McCauley who has been spending some time with friends and relatives at Chapel Hill has returned to the village.

Mr. Chas. N. Whitelock was here Sunday and left Monday for his home in Huntington, Indiana. He will return for his college work at the opening in September.

A force of carpenters are at work erecting a residence for Prof. A. L. Hook on a lot between Dr. Newman's and Mr. J. H. Farmer's.

Judge West and wife of Waverly, Va., Mrs. John Baird and Mr. Jessie West, Jr., of Sedley, Va., were here for a short time Monday enroute to Chapel Hill and Durham.

Mr. Warren McCulloch who has been away for the summer was here Saturday and Sunday.

Those who attended the Chautauqua at Virginia Beach report a most delightful time.

The new boiler has been installed at the power house. This is not to take the place of the old one, but to add more to the efficiency of the plant.

Mrs. W. Z. Atkinson is spending some time in Wake county with her daughter.

Miss Mary Parks of Rameur, N. C., was here for a short time Monday.

Miss Annie Laurie Wicker who has been spending some time with relatives and friends in Raleigh, came home Monday.

Dr. Newman's mother is spending the week here.

The Farmers' Institute held here on the 24th was said to be one of the best of any thus far held by A. L. French and his party. Mr. French's party was composed of Mr. Pate, of the Department of Agronomy, Mrs. W. N. Hunt, Department Editor of the Progressive Farmer, and J. Hampton Rich, who represents the N. C. Post Road Commission and the Boys Road Patrol. At the noon hour a sumptuous dinner was spread in the College grounds. The farmers attested their interest by attending in large numbers, and we feel sure they profited by the highly instructive lectures delivered. Everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion. "X"

EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION

It was the good fortune of the writer to be among those present at the meeting of the last convention of the Eastern North Carolina people, and to say that it was enjoyed is to put it very lightly, indeed.

The singing was excellent and nobly aided by a very fine orchestra composed exclusively of Christian people, most of whom, in fact were local talent. McCullers and Wentworth church are to be congratulated on the splendid showing made. It is understood that an effort is being made to have all the Sunday schools in this convention use the same book, and have a singing class which shall meet regularly and practice so that the music of the school shall be the best possible. A musical institute was held last year and it is the purpose of the class leaders to hold another this year, for the express purpose of getting all the singers together, and enriching and bettering the singing in the Sunday schools in general and in particular. It might not be amiss to utter one word of warning and that is this: do not allow a desire for instrumental music to allow you to forget the meaning of the words to which the music is set. Cheap words and jingles will be remembered after the splendid music is forgotten. This just in passing.

While some of the speakers were unable to be present, owing to the fact that the N. C. and Va. convention met at Elon College at the same time, yet the program was full of most excellent things, the time fully taken up, and a spirit of enthusiasm and good feeling fine to behold was manifested by all present. Nearly two hundred delegates and visitors registered, and a majority of the schools within the bounds of the convention sent delegates and contributions. They tell me this is the largest and best convention yet; so that is another thing on which they are to be congratulated.

It would take too much, both of time and space, to speak of all the fine addresses and talks that were made. Mr. Geo. M. CeCullers spoke most earnestly and feelingly in regard to the music and the need of co-operation along this line. Rev. C. E. Newman spoke on several subjects, filling in most ably for several absentees. Rev. W. G. Clements gave the "Aim of the Convention" in a few well chosen words. These "veterans in the battle" give the younger ones inspiration and courage for the work.

Revs. J. E. Franks, J. Lee Johnson, A. T. Banks, T. W. Strowd, and Prof. John C. Root, were among the speakers. These names alone tell of the good things presented to us.

A notable feature of the convention were the young men and older men of the local churches, men who are solving the problems and meeting the conditions, who told of these things in few words or many, giving personal thought and experience. Among the latter, while it seems amiss to mention one name where many did so well, Mr. D. L. Fuquay especially impressed the writer with his views on the subject of "The Attitude of the Young Man to the Sunday School." He has evidently given the matter serious thought, and we predict for him a bright future in work of young men for young men, should he go into this line of service.

Rev. J. C. Stuart made a splendid secretary, while Rev. W. B. Fuller ably represented and advocated THE SUN. Hope he got as many subscriptions as his activities deserved. Those little "red books" were in evidence all the while.

The writer presented the subject of "Elementary Efficiency," "Teachers meetings and Cradle Roll and Home Department work" at various times, illustrating some of the points mentioned by teaching a "Model Primary Class" and will say right here that if the teaching was not a "model" the class certainly was. If all classes responded as nobly to the effort made, the work of the teacher would be cut squarely in two.

It would be remiss to close without a word of appreciation for the President, Mr. C. H. Stephenson, who is giving so freely of time and talent, not to speak of money to the advancement of the work. To use his own expression, borrowed for this occasion only, he is "mighty fine, mighty fine."

Because it is especially within the province of the writer, let me briefly mention the work being done by Mrs. Harriet McCullers for the Cradle Roll. She is earnestly at work, and is "making good" too. Someone was constantly coming to hear more of the Cradle Roll work, and almost all prefaced their requests with the information that "Miss Harriet's been writing to me, or asked me to see you." This is the method and the spirit that brings results.

Shall I speak of the cordial hospitality of the members of Wentworth church, and the friends and neighbors resident in McCullers? Shall I tell you of the fine dinners served at the church, with all manner of good things to eat, from barbeque and chicken to pie and cake? No, Mr. Editor, we remember that you were not present, and lest you and readers should be sick from sorrow over what they missed, we refrain.

A motto for the ensuing year was taken from the command God gave to Moses at the crossing of the Red Sea, "Bid my people that they 'Go Forward.'" "

May they grow and prosper and "Go Forward" for Christ and the Church.

A GREAT CONVENTION

Indeed it was a great convention at Elon College two weeks ago. The entertainment was splendid, more schools reported than last year, and great men delivered great speeches. If you were not there it would be hard for you to imagine how great it really was. All departments of the school were discussed and much time was given to the relation of the teacher, superintendent and pastor to the school and the way they can promote the work. Some time was given to Christian Endeavor. There are two great troubles about such conventions. First, the time is so short that great subjects have to be passed over too hastily, and second, we can't remember what we do hear long enough to put it into practice in our schools.

Space forbids me giving in detail the many good things of the convention; so I can merely mention a few. Every teacher should have heard Rev. A. B. Kendall discuss the subject, "True Teacher Training." Nothing but the address itself can do it justice, and here's hoping that it will appear in THE SUN in full form. Nor should any teacher have missed the "Object Lessons" as given by Mr. C. B. Riddle. He gave several forceful illustrations of how, by an object, the truth may be impressed upon the child's mind that would not stick when presented only with words.

Missions in the Sunday school was discussed by Dr. J. O. Atkinson and others. Those who have never heard the doctor on the subject of missions have certainly missed a treat. We were glad indeed to note that the amount given to missions this year was more than last year. According to reports to the convention we gave on the average of five cents per member this year which gave a total of a few cents less than one hundred dollars to this good work. It seems that we might do better than that next year.

Dr. J. U. Newman in speaking of "The Task of the Modern Sunday School" declared that the task of the Sunday school is to create such a sentiment for right and righteousness that all the powers of the world and hell itself will be afraid to meet it in open combat. Isn't he right? And isn't it a task? Then let us do our part.

Rev. J. F. Morgan would not have us forget that the final end for which we work is winning souls. Every teacher and superintendent anticipates the day when the boys and girls will accept the Christ and begin a righteous and worthy life.

Rev. W. L. Hutchins got some, at least, to agree that the Sunday school should be "Institutionalized," which simply means we should get out and feed the hungry, clothe the naked, help the needy and get the boys off the streets into some kind of service instead of sitting down professing a creed and having no deeds to follow.

Did you attend this convention? Brother superintendent see that your school is well represented next year at Bethlehem.

F. C. LESTER.

THAT CONVENTION

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Western North Carolina Conference met with Pleasant Ridge church July 23-24. The convention was poorly attended and the representation was amazingly small.

The following officers were elected: President, R. F. Brown, Elon College, N. C.; First Vice-President, Rev. T. J. Green, Ramseur, N. C.; Second Vice-President, Rev. H. A. Albright, Seagrove, N. C.; Secretary, Miss Myrtle Lawrence, Seagrove, N. C.; Assistant Secretary, Miss Bertie Wrenn, Franklinsville, N. C.; Treasurer, Rev. L. W. Fogleman, Elon College, N. C.

It was decided that we have the minutes printed in leaflet form instead of publishing them in the Hand Book.

At the closing session a resolution prevailed that the Convention shall change its time of meeting and hold its future sessions at Western N. C. Annual Conference, and that we ask that this Convention be given at least two sessions at every annual Conference to do the work which it is now trying to do.

We trust that this will be heartily approved by all, and that all the Sunday schools in the conference will co-operate in making this Convention what it should be, in order that the young people as well as the old may be encouraged and actuated to nobler efforts in Christian work.

R. F. BROWN.

—An exchange remarks, "Our notion of an unselfish soul is the man who is cheered at his work with the thought that his friends are having a good time fishing." Measured by such a standard there are no unselfish souls. We made the fatal blunder not long since of letting our former friend, Dr. W. W. Staley know that we had been fishing and had had great luck. It was no fault of ours that he couldn't go, but from that day to this he has hardly spoken to us, waiting, we presume, till he can go and we can't and then get on speaking terms again. Moral: If you wish real friends in life keep your good luck to yourself and tell only the misfortunes that befall you.

—Jedekiah, poet, philosopher and preacher, writes in The Herald of Gospel Liberty: "I was talking with a man the other day who said there could be no sin where the motive was right. I asked him how about the negro who stole a pair of trousers to be baptized in."

S. S. LESSON AUG. 1, 1915.

BY PROF. A. L. HOOK

The Queen of Sheba Visits Solomon
I Kings 10: 1-10, 13.

Golden Text: Wisdom is better than rubies.—Prov. 8:11.

Solomon must have been a man with marked personality. God surely endowed him with features that were characteristic of a king—features that carried with them more than simple kingship. Wisdom could be read from fair countenance.

The people of Israel felt that they had a great and wise king. They spread the news abroad.

The Queen of Sheba, being of an exceedingly high rank from her point of view, heard of Solomon's wisdom. She was probably told that Solomon knew more than she. This she could not believe.

Her country being at peace, the Queen of Sheba visits Solomon and propounds, what she considers, the most intricate and perplexing questions. Solomon very rapidly answers all of her questions in a straight forward and logical manner.

She visits the magnificent temple and witnesses the royal manner of Solomon's servants and how he lives—all of his splendor she notes with surprise.

The Queen of Sheba confesses that the reports which she heard are true and that she had not been told all.

According to Eastern customs the heads of two nations exchanged gifts corresponding to their positions, showing a mutual friendship.

SOME LESSON SUGGESTIONS

The Queen of Sheba had heard of a wise king. She sought to know more about this reported wise king. Teacher, there is without doubt some of your pupils who have heard of the Great King, but have not been interested enough to visit the King's palace. Can you create that interest and encourage the visit?

The Queen found a wiser and greater king than she expected. We, too, will find a King more wonderful than we expect. Let us seek the wisdom of which Solomon was endowed more than the things of this world. The golden text reads "Wisdom is better than rubies."

Jesus Christ is waiting to show us His dwelling. Bring Him your riches—your life and He will exchange gifts. For your earthly life He will give you life everlasting. "That fame which is most enduring is fame acquired through connection with the worship of God. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom—a wisdom that caused righteousness to predominate in the life, and when righteousness predominates the life grows attractive.

C. E. TOPIC, AUG. 1, 1915.

Every Day Kindnesses. Eph. 4:25-32
By Mrs. A. T. Banks

Does kindness mean anything to you as the days pass? Yes, for you remember that kind word that so lightened the load that the whole day seemed so bright with rays of gladness as you went about your routine of work. It is the greatest instrument we can make with little or no expense of time or labor, but none less valuable on that account. But however much those little acts of kindness cost they are always worth the price and should not be withheld by those who would make the best investment of their influence in lives of others. Wordsworth says "the best portion of a good man's life is his little nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and love."

Opportunity awaits us on every hand for that little kindness we might bestow directed by Christ's love. We come in contact with people daily whose burdens would be lighter and whose hearts happier by some small word or act of kindness. There is not much that they need from us, and yet a word fitly spoken, some small kindness shown would be as a tonic to their souls. Such opportunities come to us in the home, in the school room, on the play ground, in the work-shop; and they come to us all, big, little, old and young.

We can make our opportunities for kindness by letting Christ's spirit dwell within us and directing us. We can not be Christ-like until we have a heart filled with kindness, so full that it overflows, and by the overflowing, neighbors, loved ones, associates, laborers and strangers come in contact with Christ's love through our life filled with deeds and words of kindness.

A kindness often neglected is that which is due to our parents. Young man do you write often to your parents who have put you on the road to success through their labors and savings? Young woman, have you forgotten that careworn father and mother who have sacrificed their all for you that you might live an easier life than they and shine in the social world of today? Render them a kind word, a deed that a little sunshine may come in their poor withered hearts.

Kindness alone can give birth to kindness, and through its holy efficacy can purity be inculcated

CHANGES IN CHINA

By Miss Ruth Paxton

Note.—Miss Ruth Paxton, who is conducting evangelistic work in China, under the auspices of the Young Woman's Christian Association, in writing from Yangtze under date of October 9, 1914, portrays as vividly as anything we have seen, the remarkable changes that have taken place in China. She writes in her direct and interesting way.—Editor.

We are on the Yangtze River on our return trip from Changsha in far away Hunan. It is hard to tear one's self away from the beautiful scenery outside that reminds one somewhat of the Hudson, but these days are so full of the absorbing work of the evangelistic campaigns that such things as letters and reports would never materialize were it not for the breathing spaces afforded by the train and river trips.

How I wish each reader might have shared with us the fascination and joy of this visit to Changsha. It is the capital city of the province of Hunan, that was long the most bigoted in China, and which is one of the most recent to be opened to the Christian message. Twenty years ago entire province was without a single missionary or Christian. The meetings of the past few days among men and women in its capital city show it to be at present one of the most from one heart to another. The best educators, the noblest evangelizers, as well as the mightiest rulers, are kindness and love and virtue, holiness, and piety best flourish in their atmosphere. We find nothing in a Christian's life which makes him more God like than loving kindness.

God alone knows what kindness has done and is doing for the uplifting of human souls to that state of life where sweetness of spirituality abounds.

How beautiful are the words of Whittier:

A little word in kindness spoken,

A motion, or a tear,

Has often healed the heart that's broken

And made a friend sincere.

A word, a look, has crushed to earth

Full many a budding flower,

Which, had a smile but owned its birth,

Would bless life's darkest hour.

Then deem it not an idle thing

A pleasant word to speak;

The face you wear, the thought you bring

A heart may heal or break.

Henderson, N. C.

eager to hear of Christianity. One might think Chinese cities were all alike, but they are not, and certainly Changsha is different. The moment you approach the old city gate you feel it is distinctive, and as you pass through it you know it is imposing, progressive and most marvelous of all—clean. The city streets are swept daily and all garbage is removed. Many of the buildings are two stories, and on the main street are several shops similar to our department stores at home and with their splendid large incandescent lights in front. The city boasts of telephones with underground wires.

The feel of the city is that of progress, and in this the women of the city are not behind the times. Even Changsha contains some militant suffragettes, who inflamed by a semi-educated returned student from Japan went one day into the office of the printing press that had dared to speak against them, took some of the type and threw it into the river.

Another group of women with a saner understanding of true patriotism and a truer desire to meet the need of China's women, last year organized a Social Service League. Although planned and directed by foreigners the work has been done entirely by the Chinese women of the better class. The wife of the Governor of Hunan has been deeply interested in this work and in addition to her regular membership fee she has recently donated $300 for a special relief carried on by the League during a serious flood. The social Service League is endeavoring to awaken the consciences of Chinese women to the need of their own countrywomen, and arouse them to activity along lines of social regeneration.

Seeing their wonderful signs of progress, and hearing of the open-mindedness of the people, both men and women, made it all the more difficult to believe the words of a young Chinese man accompanying us who said that ten years ago we should have been beaten and driven out of the city had we been entering it on a similar errand. And all the more wonderful was the story we listened to that first night from the lips of one of the missionaries who told of his entrance into Changsha on Thanksgiving night, 1898. This was the first entrance that really counted towards the opening of the city to the Gospel. Think of it, just fourteen years ago! Driven out of the city in less than a day by the officials, he came back a week later only to be

My dear children:

Your Uncle Jim has just returned from Virginia Beach, where he spent a delightful week in attending the Chautauqua, meeting our friends and resting. It was all good and helpful.

It was our good pleasure to worship with Rev. D. A. Keys and his Rosemont congregation on Sunday morning and with Rev. L. L. Lassiter and his South Norfolk congregation at night. It was so pleasant to greet old friends again. The orphanage has many faithful friends in these congregations who were inquiring about the work.

Ruby and Syble Curling are away on a two weeks' visit with their mother in South Norfolk, while others are making preparations to visit later. We are limiting all visits to two weeks.

Mrs. W. W. Staley writes that she and the good sisters of Oak Level church will fill 30 cans for us, so we are sending the cans by today's express. If others should wish to have a part in feeding our family we shall be glad to furnish the cans. Mrs. Wicker says we have three or four hundred empty cans yet in our storage rooms, but very few "filled" cans. We shall be glad to furnish everything except the fruit and pay the transportation.

I was about to forget to tell you that our boys threshed wheat while I was away. They made 151½ bushels of wheat and 10 bushels of rye. This will make about half enough bread for our family. Will not a number of the churches in the wheat belt make up a donation of wheat among the members forced out again and sent away down the river. But he persistently returned again the next year, to be attacked, beaten by an angry mob and again sent away down the river. But he persistently returned the next year to be attacked, beaten and again driven from the city with cries of "Kill the foreigner." In 1900 every foreign missionary was obliged to leave Changsha and almost all the chapels were destroyed. Even so late as 1910 an anti-foreign riot took place at which time many of the missionaries had to leave the city in the guise of beggars.

Even in far away Hunan a marvelous change has taken place. Since 1900 not a school for girls was carried on by the government; in 1914 in Changsha alone there were twenty private or government schools with 2000 students. An audience of 2030 girls and women listened to Mr. Robertson's lecture. Schools were dismissed so that students could attend the evangelistic meetings. Seven hundred and sixty-five girls came to the first meeting, at which Mrs. Eddy spoke and which was presided over by a woman, the head of the largest Government Normal School in the city. What a strange combination! She was of the old and new, as with tiny, bound feet so small she had to be assisted to the platform, she presided over that large meeting of modern students listening attentively to the message of Christianity. What hope it gives that scores of those very listeners would accept the message of the One Who alone can emancipate mind, heart and soul.

The second afternoon was a holiday and the day before one of their big feasts. Notwithstanding, 500 students again came to hear Mr. Eddy's message on "What Can Save China." I wish you could have seen them lean forward and fairly strain their eyes to see the charts he used and to hear every word he spoke on this theme, that is a very vital one today to every patriotic man and woman in China. At the close, after a frank and undisguised appeal to look to Jesus Christ as the only hope of China, 201 girls signed cards pledging to enter a Bible class to study the life and teaching of Jesus Christ. More cards were handed in on the third day when in spite of the combination of both rain and feast day more than 200 came out again to hear Mrs. Eddy speak on "The Women of India."

It was my great privilege to lead three meetings in the Mission schools where sixty-five girls made the decision to follow Jesus Christ at any cost. One dear girl from a "heathen" home said she "had felt the Holy Spirit working in her heart for three months" urging her to decide to be a Christian. Just so is He working in the hearts of thousands of China's girls and women who are just waiting to hear the message of the One Who alone saves and satisfies. Surely God is ready and waiting "to work a great work in our day" if we will but believe.—The King's Business.

YOU WILL WRITE A LETTER LIKE THIS

I wish that I knew which one of the thousands of letters I receive would have the most weight with you, my friend. I can't quote them all here, but I am going to ask you to read these carefully and then give me a chance to renew your health and make you write me one very much like them:

701 Barnard Street, Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910
 Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C. Dear Sir: As you are aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral water, which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

 I have tested your Spring water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidney and bladder, and assist them in their respective and interdependent functions.

These are not selected cases nor are the results unusual. I receive thousands like them from physicians, ministers, lawyers, merchants, farmers, manufacturers and every conceivable profession. I want the satisfaction of receiving such a letter from you. No matter what your complaint may be, dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, or any chronic ailment that has not responded to drugs, I invite you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If the water fails to benefit you simply say so, return the empty demijohns and I will promptly and willingly return your money—every cent. Sign below:

Elon College
For Both Men and Women
Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, the entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me as most genuinely Christian." Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and, with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists; men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.

The lowest rates in the South, only $12 to $19 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address

OUR DEAD

Nichols

July 15, 1915, the death angel visited the home of our beloved deacon, I. W. Nichols, of Great Bridge and took his beloved wife. For a long while she had been complaining but did not know she was very sick till taken to the hospital for an operation. She lived only about 24 hours afterward. Her remains were interred in the Berea cemetery, of which church she was a faithful and loyal member. She was born Jan. 8, 1872, aged 43 years. She was the daughter of Josephus and Martha Pensel of Hickory. She was married to Bro. Nichols May 15, 1895. She leaves to mourn their loss her good husband and five children—Lola, Grace, Helen, Hazel and Pressley; two brothers and eight sisters. From early childhood she had been a faithful Christian, first a member of the Baptist church at Pleasant Grove, five years ago uniting with Berea. A good woman is gone, but her good works follow her, for her children bring honor to her name.

H. E. R.

Pierce

Where as, in wisdom and righteousness it has pleased the supreme Ruler of the universe to remove our worthy and esteemed brother, E. T. Pierce from among us,

Therefore be it resolved by Vernon Lodge No. 181, A. F. & A. M.:

First, That we bow in submission to this dispensation of God's providence, recognizing His love for His people. His condescension in caring for them. His forbearance with them. His right to take them and say "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

Second, That the family of our deceased brother has the sympathy of those of the craft who survive him and that each member of the craft be suitably impressed with the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, and to so spend their time and talent as to be ready when the Master calls.

Third, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Lodge, a copy sent to the family of the deceased and a copy sent to the Christian Sun, published at Elon College, N. C.

Lime Medication In Tuberculosis

In the New York Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes (of tuberculosis) is 'lime starvation.' * In all cases of incipient tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Any diet not eat food containing enough lime. * In such cases we must resort to lime medication."
Eckman's Alternative should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its chief ingredients is calcium (lime). In such combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person.
Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis.

It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1.00 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

The educated man

If man lived alone there would be no need for education. Be it borne in mind that the one high aim of education is that of proper relationship, not to trees and things and theories, but to God and man. Lower animals by instinct know, and adjust themselves to nature, but man alone seeks to know and adjust himself to man, to society, to God. This excerpt from an exchange catches our eye and speaks wisdom: "Man exists for personal relations, in which his best powers have play and his best joys are born. The educated man is supremely practiced in high personal transactions with God and with his fellowmen. In these relations his individuality is not sacrificed, but heightened. He becomes more himself as he gives more to others. In the thought of Christ—the man of no schools but that school of sympathy and insight from which he graduated with the title of "The Son of Man"—in the thought of Christ the completely educated man is he who is most successful in obedience to the great commandments of love to God and man." "Casting down imagination and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God and bringeth into captivity every thought to the obedience of God." (II. Cor. 10:5.)

Why He Refused

One of the real notable characters of our day was Dr. R. K. Pearsons, who by hard work amassed a fortune and then retired from business that he might give away to worthy institutions all he had made. The Congregationalist quotes Dr. Pearsons as saying one day: "I refused point blank the other day to give to a prominent university president, because his institution is in a big city and I don't want a college where a student can ride into hell for a nickel." In deciding about a college one should consider what one may purchase for a nickel. "Wherefore do you spend money for that which satifies not? (Isa. 55:2.)"

Ministers and Colleges

Be it borne in mind that the leaders in education, and in the founding of educational institutions, have in most instances been, not the state or statesmen, but the pulpit and the ministry. Abundant figures sustain this declaration. There falls under our eye now an article by Dr. Henry M. McCracken, Chancellor Emeritus of New York Universities in which the history and purposes of educational institutions in this country are discussed: "It was a young ecclesiast, John Harvard, who gave vigor to the first attempt at an American college by his gift of half of his fortune and the whole of his library. This young ecclesiast, by whose side I might place the ten Connecticut clergymen whose joint offering of a library started Yale College, is a type of hundreds of ecclesiastical agencies which have founded American colleges and today are supporting them." The student will find that "ecclesiasts" have ever been in the van of those who stand for real enlightenment and a liberal education. This was necessarily so in Christianity for its Founder had declared: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." (John 14:6.)

Your Neighbor

According to the plain and unimitable teaching of the Bible your neighbor is not necessarily the person who lives next you, but the person whom you may help in time of need in any part of the habitable globe. Christ taught this in recital of the story of the good Samaritan recorded in Luke 10:30-37. Not the Levite who lived near the unfortunate victim of thieves, but the Samaritan who lived far away in another country was real neighbor to the man in distress. In the light of such teaching we are wondering how the people of the churches of the United States are going to justify themselves in spending only six cents on their neighbors in need of the Gospel beyond the seas out of every dollar they spend on the Gospel in their own country. We spend 94 cents at home for every six cents in the foreign field; and yet you will find people who are ignorant enough to say "We believe in home missions, but we don't believe in foreign missions."

Success by Loss

Most of us count our success by the gain we make, forgetting that not infrequently success comes by loss. The following is related of the "Swedish Nightingale," one of the most beloved and successful singers that ever went on the stage: "After Jenny Lind had left the stage for no apparent reason, a friend who went to see her found her sitting by the sea, with an open Bible upon her knee, looking out on the sunset glory. During the conversation the friend said. 'Madame Goldschmidt, how is it that you ever came to abandon the stage at the very height of your success, when money and affluence were pouring in upon you?' Laying one hand upon the Bible, and pointing with the other to the sunset, she quietly said: 'When my success was making me every day think less of this dear Book, and nothing at all of the sunset's glories, what else could I do?'" Though she had achieved success from every worldly point of view she was losing it from every spiritual point of view, and she reckoned her gains and her success by her losses. Paul did the same when he wrote: "What things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ." (Phil. 3:7.)

Neutrals as Teachers

Representatives of the American press in Europe write back to their papers that there is no such thing as a "neutral war correspondent." The marching of battalions, the blowing of bugles, the glare of glorious uniforms, the imposing presence of armies, the display of courage and heroism, put a spell on the correspondent which he cannot resist. A writer on education declares the same to be true regarding the teachers in our colleges and the religious issue. Can teachers be neutral? Impossible. Consider. "With 18,000,000 youths and children before them, with the mighty questions of our immortality, of the soul and its responsibilities and possibilities, of heaven and the hereafter upon them, can they so poise their whole intellectual and moral system in the center as to swerve neither to the positive nor the negative side of religion in their teaching? Can a man or a woman be a believer as an individual and a nothing as a teacher? It is doubtful. There are men spouting infidelity in the class-rooms of universities and colleges and high schools and yet declaiming against the introduction of the religious issue in the schools. Satan himself could not devise a scheme of neutrality, more to his liking, than that which insidiously undermines the faith of the young people who come from believing homes." So writes "Grapho" in Christian World. If such words are not heeded by parents who send sons and daughters away to college, we cannot see how they care for the most important element in all education, namely, the religious and saving element.

THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE

There is one phase of the denominational college not often considered; but it is worth while. The spirit of self-sacrifice on the part of president and teachers is something wonderful. At the head of your denominational college you will not infrequently find a scholar and an executive officer without a superior in any educational work in the State; but if you will enquire you will find his salary not much over half of that paid to dozens of educators in state-supported institutions. And the same is true of members of the teaching force in the church schools. The spirit of self-sacrifice for duty's sake and the good accomplished is praiseworthy indeed. And this spirit may account for the fact that the most momentous and powerful work in real education and in character building is done not in state schools, but in denominational colleges. Take the men who have influenced most powerfully life and history of our country, presidents, congressmen, supreme court judges, orators, statesmen, teachers and the great majority of them received their inspiration and education from the denominational schools and colleges.

And then there is another phase of the denominational college worth thinking over. It is spoken of in this fashion in The Congregationalist: "It is the fashion to criticise the denominations, that there are too many of them, etc., but never since age began to teach youth or knowledge took childhood by the hand has there been anything more self-sacrificing, more untiring, more generous, more enthusiastic, or more successful than the denominational college movement in America. It has made the poor think that they could give, and it has made the rich feel that they ought to give. Trace up that marvelous flow of money into the schools, which every year astonishes even ourselves, and its source will be found near the altar of the church. Faith has been the substance of things hoped for. And there has been more than money in this generosity." Again sacrifice shows its hand and strength, and explains in a measure why the denominational college is such a potent factor in national life.

In the keen and cruel competition that now obtains between the state colleges and the church colleges one is made to feel that the state is in hostile conflict with the church and would if it could crush to the ground the church schools. Can it be possible that men who profess to love their state and yet assume a hostile attitude towards church colleges have stopped to consider the contribution that the church schools are making to the State's citizenship? The State contributes not a dollar to the support or maintenance of the denominational schools within its borders; and yet these self-same institutions are every year giving to the State more graduates, more men and women of character, influence and intelligence than all the state-supported colleges combined.

The denominational college, inured as it is to sacrifice and service for love of church and duty, asks no stipend of the State, but does feel that her best contribution to the State is worthy of having a square deal and a fair chance in the field of education.

All the denominational college asks is a fair and just consideration of its advantages on the part of pupils about to go to college, and a chance to live in the field of competition with State-aided colleges. Give the denominational college a square deal. The spirit of sacrifice that builds and maintains these colleges demands at least this much.

THE SANER SACRIFICE

If sober fathers and mothers would be governed by established facts, there never would be another plea as to the sort of sacrifice they should make for their children. They would know, by all history and experience, that the best investment they can ever make of their savings is in the education of their children. Some parents are very ambitious that their sons and daughters start in life with property and possessions to their credit; caring little for their equipment for life and their fitness for service and society. When fathers and mothers have educated their children they have done the best that is to be done for them; and then if their children do not make good in life the fault is at the door, not of the parent, but of the child.

The noblest and sanest and safest sacrifice a father and mother ever make for their offspring is to give them the blessings and benefits of a liberal education. Not many fathers can leave their sons a legacy of a million dollars. Yet the father who equips his son with a college education gives to him that with which a million dollars are not to be compared for usefulness, for service, for worth in society and for all that counts in life. I would a thousand times rather my son be a man of culture, scholarship, developed mental, moral, and religious traits, and start in the world without a dollar, than to be a multimillionaire without the blessings and benefits that real education confers.

Roman history tells that there was formed to rule her vast domains, a triumvirate from the Roman world. This consisted of three of Rome's most noted men, Pompey, the man of fame, Crassus, the man of millions, and Caesar, the man of scholarship and of brains. That happened which always has happened, and ever will happen to the end of time; the man of fame lost his prestige; the man of millions was found unequal; and the man of brains, the mighty Caesar, was left alone to rule a world.

If the father has a small farm or an unpretentious business, and wants to "give his boy some land when he is free, or set him up in business when he becomes a man," he would by all the history, logic, truth and facts on earth, far better give him a chance by equipping him with the best education within his reach. Land without learning is a mill-stone about any boy's neck. Ten months in school is worth more to the average boy than any ten acres of land that ever were on the earth's surface, provided the boy use the ten months in acquiring knowledge and in building the right sort of character. We never could see why a father sought to impoverish his boy by rearing him in ignorance in order that he might deposit him on a few acres of land when he reached manhood. The boy was worthy of a better fate, and the father should have made a nobler sacrifice for his off-spring. He has put his love for land above that for the character and usefulness and achievement of his boy.

Some boys, some girls, given the advantages of an education will not use them. (The sin in such cases lies at the door of the son and daughter.) But how about the ten fold more boys and girls who, getting property as a gift, squandered it, and with it their own character and prospects? It is rare indeed to hear young men or young women complain in after life that their parents left them no property. But how bitter indeed the complaint, how lamentable, how tragic, how sad, of tens of thousands who, too late, say, "We never were given the advantages of an education, and so had to start life under the baneful disadvantages of ignorance and the lack of learning"!

The noblest and safest and sanest of all sacrifices for children is that which parents make that their sons and daughters may have a liberal Christian education. The father who prizes for his son or daughter land above learning, a bank account above brains, and business above equipment, education, and enlightenment, is certainly rating that son's or daughter's future on too low a basis, and putting a most unworthy estimate on the life and usefulness of his off-spring.

ELON COLLEGE EDUCATIONAL NUMBER

We greet our readers this week with our annual Elon College Number. That there are articles worthy of consideration by thoughtful men and women everywhere goes without saying. Not only those who have sons and daughters to send to college, but all who are interested in mental, moral and spiritual betterment will find in this number matter both to interest and to instruct. We commend most highly the two practical and pointed addresses by President W. A. Harper, realizing that they will more than repay a most careful reading. But even surpassing these in many particulars, especially for mothers, is the exceedingly charming contribution by rs. W. A. Harper, a paper which treats a vital topic in a most thrilling manner. President Fairfax Harrison's "Choice of Heracles" is a classic, and is equal in diction, logic, and depth of thought is seldom found in current literature. We had desired to carry several cuts, but important printed matter demanded space and we had to forego this part of the plan. We are pleased however, to present the face of Elon's new music director, in whose coming career at Elon College many hundreds of our readers are exceedingly interested. We invite readers to give the SUN this week a more careful perusal than usual, feeling that they will be more than repaid in so doing. Of one thing we are certain: all friend will be delighted to have the SUN again in its restored and enlarged form. Our devout hope is to keep it at this size. The Church needs the enlarged paper and the demand can be met if friends of the Church and the paper will have a regard for its financial welfare.

PROGRESS IN EDUCATION

According to the annual report of the Commission of Education just issued there were enrolled in the educational institutions in the United States in 1914, 22,000,000 pupils. Of this number 19,000,000 were in elementary schools, 1,374,000 in public and private and secondary schools, 216,000 in Colleges and Universities. In the Normal schools preparing to teach were about 100,000, in professional schools 67,000. The Report showed that there were 700,000 teachers, of whom 566,000 were in the public schools. The estimated cost of education for the year was $750,000,000.

We are doing much to educate and are making some progress but the Report gives some comparisons which are interesting: "This three quarters of a billion dollars is a relatively small amount when compared with other items in the public expenses. It is less by $300,000,000 than the cost of running the Federal Government; it is less than one-third the entire expenditure for alcoholic liquors; it is only a little over three times the estimated cost of admissions to moving picture shows in the United States for the year." We have heard within the last few years very much about improving our public schools. It would seem from this Report that the expenditure has gone more largely into the machinery of these schools than into the expenses of conducting them, for between 1910 and 1913 the increase in length of term of public schools was from 157.5 days to 158.1—a growth of only .6 of a day in three years. This is surprising as the income to public schools has increased enormously. More and more times demand education and the Report reflects a steady growth largely attended, well entertained, and did splendid work though the temperature was well up in ninety. The officers from President R. H. Peel to the last on the list provided an elaborate program and conducted the exercises to the edification of all who took interest. The Exhibit was good and well arranged. The demonstration of how to convert a one-brother and restore former friendly relations, let him name the time when we can test our skill on that pond that has made the "Editor's" nerves so sensitive to imaginary neglect on the part of an ink-artist.

The demonstration of how to convert a one-room school into class rooms by James H. Blanchard was an instructive feature of the convention and left for the use of Antioch.

Netum Rathbun, manager of the Christian Publishing Association was present with a large supply of publications on missions and Sunday Schools and sold all his teacher training books.

Mr. Hermon Eldridge of Erie, Pa., was present on Friday and made two splendid addresses. His work at the Seaside Chautauqua has attracted such attention as to make our people want to hear him, and his addresses are of such interest as to make those who hear him want to hear him again.

The reports and collections seemed to be good, and higher aspirations and deeper consecration are manifested in the convention.

The absence of Drs. Atkinson and Harper was regretted as both were on the program for addresses.

The hospitality of Antioch and pastor H. H. Butler abounded in all sorts of attention and accommodations.

The Christian Sun of July 28th contained some statements by its distinguished "Editor" that reflect upon the writer of the "Suffolk Letter"; and the "Suffolk Letter" feels entitled to some consideration by virtue of its age and infirmities. The otherwise courteous and fair-minded "Editor" of the "Sun" intimates that the writer of the "Suffolk Letter" became jealous of the "Editor" because he (Editor) had been fishing and had great luck and from that day to this he has hardly spoken to us.

This deponent does not deny the main charge of not speaking to the conscious "Editor," but he does deny the motive implied in the allegation. The relation of the "Suffolk Letter" to "Editorials" is that of a lower order in the quill-world. A lowly person is not supposed to speak to ladies and important gentlemen, unless recognized by the more important persons, lest such salutation be construed as intrusions. It is, therefore, surprising that such a notable personage as the "Editor of the Christian Sun" should feel any slight because the humble writer of the "Suffolk Letter" had not spoken to him since he had "great luck" in fishing. If apologies were required to relieve the "Editor's" feelings they would outnumber the fish caught by the happy "Editor." It is a pity that human feelings should be disturbed in the midst of success by imaginary slights; but this is common experience among men.

The truth is, that Benke Johnson's pond is such a good pond to fish that it requires no great piscatorial ability to satisfy one in this apostolic art. No jealous feelings arise in this scribe's heart for any success attained in any field by the good "Editor" of the "Sun" and all that is needed for renewal of friendly salutations is recognition and opportunity. One smile of recognition from the Editorial force would cause the removal of the "Suffolk Letter's" hat and an humble but sincere "good morning" that would quiet the troubled waters and gild every wavelet with golden light. Here is to the success of the Editor with reel and rod in spite of slurs and hints at jealousies! This is meant as a pious defense of a hard-earned reputation, and need not be construed as a complaint or reflection upon my superior; and, if this does not satisfy my

Mrs. M. A. Sawyear and daughter, Miss Hel- et K. Sawyer, and Miss Emma Wenner, of Kissenee, Florida, are spending some time with Prof. E. O. Randolph and family.

Dr. S. A. Ware and family left Friday for their new home in Demorest, Georgia. The good wishes of the community go with these good people to their new location.

Mr. D. W. Johnson and son Hunter were the last of the week visiting Mr. L. B. Womble and family. They were also prospecting and have under consideration the matter of moving to Elon.

Mr. B. M. Williams, a member of the Junior Class for next year and a ministerial student of the Methodist Protestant Church, was here Saturday and Sunday visiting his people. He is located at Duke, N. C., for the summer.

Uncle Wellons is spending some time with friends at Finquay Springs and Chapel Hill. It is remarkable how well this faithful servant of the Master can get about so well at his age.

The Moffitt house, near the depot is undergoing repairs and will be occupied soon.

Little Margaret Rowland of Franklin, Virginia, who has been spending some time with Mary Graham Lawrence, returned to her home this week.

Mr. A. C. Hall and wife were Sunday visiting the family of our townsman, Mr. J. H. Farmer.

Mrs. W. R. Hobby and children of Raleigh are here this week with friends and relatives.

Mr. H. M. Redding of the President's official force is away this week spending his vacation.

A young man from the lower section of the county was here Saturday to see President Harper about entering college this fall. This was his first trip to Elon and the journey of twenty-seven miles was made on a bicycle. Truly the great force of education is moving young men and women to action.

How would Elon look with a street car line through her midst? That is what is soon to happen, so Madam Rumor has it. The new traction company operating between Burlington, Graham and Haw River will make the proposal at an early date to citizens of this section, and it is hoped and believed that the project will be a success.

The Opening Number of the College Bulletin is now on the press with Southern Christian Publishing company, the expert printers of Alamance, and will be ready to mail from the President's office within the next few days. It will portray the College and the wholesome spirit which prevails here as no other publication has ever done. With thirty-two illustrations it will give one a bird's eye view of the College life in action and at the same time set forth the most fundamental principles of education. A postal to President Harper will entitle you to a copy of this handsome publication.

We are glad to have on the Hill this week Rev. C. E. Newman of Raleigh and Rev. A. T. Banks of Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cline of Thomasville are visiting in the home of Mr. J. W. Ingle.

Mr. W. T. Noah has moved to Greensboro, where he expects to make his home. The best wishes of the town go with Brother Noah and we regret to see him leave. "X."

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. A. B. Kendall, D. D., pastor Burlington Christian church is spending his vacation weeks at Erie, Pa.

—Rev. J. W. Elder conducted a revival at Noon Day church last week. Tell Sun readers of results, Bro. Elder.

—This year's cotton crop is estimated, on the basis of the condition of the crop Aug 1st, to be about 11,970,037 bales in comparison with 16,134,930 bales last year.

—As a result of a union meeting in Wadley, Ala., in which there were many conversions, Rev. G. O. Lankford, pastor, received six members into the Christian church.

—Last Sunday was observed in the churches throughout Germany as a day of thanksgiving "to Almighty God for his blessings in bringing repeated victories to German arms."

—Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., pastor Memorial Temple, Norfolk, has been voted a month's vacation and he is spending the same at Middleburg, N. Y., R. 2.

—Prof. T. C. Amick of the chair of Mathematics in Elon College has been doing special work at the University of Virginia this summer. He is to return to Elon College this week.

—Prof. and Mrs. Alonzo Hall are spending a part of their vacation at Burlington where they arrived from Columbus, Ga., last week. Prof. Hall holds the chair of English in the city high schools of Columbus and is to return there next sessions.

—A revolution is on in the negro republic of Haiti. Last week 160 prisoners were executed, following which the President of Haiti was dragged from his palace, riddled with bullets and left for hours unburied on the street where he fell. In restoring peace two American soldiers were shot and killed.

—Christian Endeavor, beginning in the parsonage of Williston church, Maine, on the evening of Feb. 2, 1881, has spread over the earth and continues its progress and power among the nations. At the World's Convention, Chicago, last month there were reported 77,766 societies in all parts of the earth and a membership of 4,000,000.

—The esteemed and exceedingly erudite Charlotte Observer spells it irrepresable, a getting in where the i belongs; but shucks! the linotype does all such silly stunts as that voluntarily. If there were not so many who depended on their Observer instead of their Webster for the correct spelling we would not have had a word to say.

—Rev. E. M. Carter, Wadley, Ala., is this week assisting Rev. R. F. Brown, pastor, in a series of meetings at Salem Chapel, Forsythe Conty, N. SUFFOLK LETTER largely attended, well entertained, and did splendid work though the temperature was well up in ninety.

The officers from President R. H. Peel to the last on the list provided an elaborate program and conducted the exercises to the edification of all who took interest.

The Exhibit was good and well arranged. The demonstration of how to convert a one-room school into class rooms by James H. Blanchard was an instructive feature of the convention and left for the use of Antioch.

Netum Rathbun, manager of the Christian Publishing Association was present with a large supply of publications on missions and Sunday Schools and sold all his teacher training books.

Mr. Hermon Eldridge of Erie, Pa., was present on Friday and made two splendid addresses. His work at the Seaside Chautauqua has attracted such attention as to make our people want to hear him, and his addresses are of such interest as to make those who hear him want to hear him again.

The reports and collections seemed to be good, and higher aspirations and deeper consecration are manifested in the convention.

The absence of Drs. Atkinson and Harper was regretted as both were on the program for addresses.

The hospitality of Antioch and pastor H. H. Butler abounded in all sorts of attention and accommodations.

The Christian Sun of July 28th contained some statements by its distinguished "Editor" that reflect upon the writer of the "Suffolk Letter"; and the "Suffolk Letter feels entitled to some consideration by virtue of its age and infirmities. The otherwise courteous and fair-minded "Editor" of the "Sun" intimates that the writer of the "Suffolk Letter" became jealous of the "Editor" because he (Editor) had been fishing and had great luck and "from that day to this he has hardly spoken to us."

This deponent does not deny the main charge of not speaking to the conscious "Editor," but he does deny the motive implied in the allegation. The relation of the "Suffolk Letter" to "Editorials" is that of a lower order in the quill-world. A lowly person is not supposed to speak to ladies and important gentlemen, unless recognized by the more important persons, lest such salutation be construed as intrusions. It is, therefore, surprising that such a notable personage as the "Editor of the Christian Sun" should feel any slight because the humble writer of the "Suffolk Letter" had not spoken to him since he had "great luck" in fishing. If apologies were required to relieve the "Editor's" feelings: they would outnumber the fish caught by the happy "Editor." It is a pity that human feelings should be disturbed in the midst of success by imaginary slights; but this is common experience among men.

The truth is, that Beale Johnson's pond is such a good pond to fish that it requires no great piscatorial ability to satisfy one in this apostolic art. No jealous feelings arise in this scribe's heart for any success attained in any field by the good "Editor" of the "Sun", and all that is needed for renewal of friendly salutations is recognition and opportunity. One smile of recognition from the Editorial force would cause the removal of the "Suffolk Letter's" hat and an humble but sincere "good morning" that would quiet the troubled waters and gild every wavelet with golden light. Here is to the success of the Editor with reel and rod in spite of slurs and hints at jealousies! This is meant as a pious defense of a hard-earned reputation, and need not be construed as a complaint or reflection upon my superior; and, if this does not satisfy my brother and restore former friendly relations, let him name the time when we can test our skill on that pond that has made the "Editor's" nerves so sensitive to imaginary neglect on the part of an ink-artist.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

—Mrs. M. A. Sawyear and daughter, Miss Helen K. Sawyer, and Miss Emma Wenner, of Kisseme, Florida, are spending some time with Prof. E. O. Randolph and family.

Dr. S. A. Ware and family left Friday for their new home in Demorist, Georgia. The good wishes of the community go with these good people to their new location.

Mr. D. W. Johnson and son Hunter were the last of the week visiting Mr. L. B. Womble and family. They were also prospecting and have under consideration the matter of moving to Elon.

Mr. B. M. Williams, a member of the Junior Class for next year and a ministerial student of the Methodist Protestant Church, was here Saturday and Sunday visiting his people. He is located at Duke, N. C., for the summer.

Uncle Wellons is spending some time with friends at Fuquay Springs and Chapel Hill. It is remarkable how well this faithful servant of the Master can get about so well at his age.

The Moffitt house near the depot is undergoing repairs and will be occupied soon.

—Mr. A. C. Hall and wife were Sunday visiting the family of our townsman, Mr. J. H. Farmer.

Mrs. W. R. Hobby and children of Raleigh are here this week with friends and relatives. Mr. H. M. Redding of the President's official force is away this week spending his vacation.

A young man from the lower section of the county was here Saturday to see President Harper about entering college this fall. This was his first trip to Elon and the journey of twenty-seven miles was made on a bicycle. Truly the great force of education is moving young men and women to action.

How would Elon look with a street car line through her midst? That is what is soon to happen, so Madam Rumor has it. The new traction company operating between Burlington, Graham and Haw River will make the proposal at an early date to citizens of this section, and it is hoped and believed that the project will be a success.

The Opening Number of the College Bulletin is now on the press with Southern Christian Publishing company, the expert printers of Alamance, and will be ready to mail from the President's office within the next few days. It will portray the College and the wholesome spirit which prevails here as no other publication has ever done. With thirty-two illustrations it will give one a bird's eye view of the College life in action and at the same time set forth the most fundamental principles of education. A postal to President Harper will entitle you to a copy of this handsome publication.

We are glad to have on the Hill this week Rev. C. E. Newman of Raleigh and Rev. A. T. Banks of Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cline of Thomasville are visiting in the home of Mr. J. W. Ingle.

Mr. W. T. Noah has moved to Greensboro, where he expects to make his home. The best wishes of the town go with Brother Noah and we regret to see him leave. "X."

The Choice of Heracles

By PRES. FAIRFAX HARRISON, Washington, D. C.*

"To the extent that I will declare how governors of realms and cities may be prepared, I will use the police of a wyse and counnyng gardener; he purposynge to haue in his gardeyne a fyne and precieuse herbe, that shoulde be to hym and all others reparynge thereto, excellently comodiouse or pleasant, he will first serche throughout his gardeyne where he can finde the mose melowe and fertile erth; and therein will he put the sede of the herbe to growe and be nourished."—Sir Thomas Elyot.

It is our pride to term the South conservative, not, as some Philistines connote the word, with an intentment of what is behind the times, but with a congratulatory appreciation that here are a people alive to all the real progress of the age in which we live, but still clinging with respect to that concept which spells patriotism—the subordination of the individual to the community under equal laws. Here, as in few parts of our broad United States, men still regard that as good which their fathers did because their fathers did it. We live at the end of an old era as well as at the beginning of a new. We can still look back with perspective

The safety relies of a race which moved slowly perhaps, but was guided more by principle than by sentiment and emotion—a race which none dares condemn, but all gentlemen are bred to honor—it is fitting that the South should equip her sons for the contests of the new life with whatever is best in the condition of the past; that we should pass on the torch our forefathers passed to us, if it still illumines, as I shall today try to maintain that it does.

Our modern creed tells us that those who laid the foundation of our nation demanded too large a sacrifice of the inherent rights of the individual to the general good of the commonwealth; that for all the fine French philosophy of the Declaration of Independence, the government which resulted from it was rather a government of Man than men and women; in fine, that it gave opportunity for the very things it sought to overthrow, the growth of classes and special privilege. In our reaction it may be questioned whether we are not going too far in our concern for the Individual, and whether a modicum of that kind of education which formed the principles of the Fathers might not teach us that, after all, the rights of the Individual conservatively might ever be subjected to such limitation as sentimentality can not be expected to appreciate, but which wisdom, founded on a knowledge of human history, and indeed of Nature herself, can safely impose. One is reminded of a philosophical observation by Darwin:

"Perfect equality among the individuals composing the Fuegian tribes must for a long time retard their civilization. As we see those animals whose instinct compels them to obey a chief, are most capable of improvement, so it is with the races of mankind. Whether we look at it as a cause or a consequence, the most civilized always have the most artificial governments."

There have been three previous periods in the history of the world when men, in reaction against the tyranny of classes or of states, were actuated by that high passion of idealism for the individual which breathed through the last inaugural address which has come to us from the Capitol at Washington. The literature of Greece reveals a moment when men were freeing themselves from the grip of the state and seeking an unrestrained expression of individual rights with the privilege to discover and to explore themselves. It is no longer the age of Æschylus, finding its catharsis in the poet's rehearsal of the fortunes and feelings of kings and prophets and princely heroines—it is the age of Euripides, the disintegrator, who searched the heart of personal experience and gave a poignant expression to what he discovered. He in turn yielded the stage to Menander and the heroic emotions of Everyman in the New Comedy, just as Browning has given way to Bernard Shaw.

Again, at the end of the splendid history of the Roman Republic, man sought once more to live for himself and no longer for the state. Literature ceases to be epic in the old Greek sense; it has become personal, esoteric. Catullus plays upon our own private experience as freshly as the Lydian waters still laugh on Sirmia, today as when, returning from Oriental wanderings, he came once more to his beloved Lago di Garda. But chiefly do we find the new note in Virgil—no longer the stern, compelling eloquence of Ennius, but a sweet sentimentalism which a school girl can understand.

Once more, at the close of another age—that of feudal Europe—do we find men considering intensely the rights, and even more the wrongs of the individual. We are taught to look upon the defense of Calas by Voltaire as psychologically the highest moment of a great career of illumination.

It is perhaps unnecessary to suggest that each of these periods of divagation of the interest of the citizens from those of the state was followed by a subjugation of the dearest of all rights—that of political liberty; that Philip and his son put out forever the lamp of Greek liberty; that Augustus destroyed the fabric which more than anything material represented "the grandeur that was Rome"; that Napoleon crushed during a cruel hour a nascent national independence. It is equally unnecessary to deduce from what has been said that individuals find their freest expression only under personal tyranny, which, depriving them of concern in the welfare of all, diverts them to a private fingering and fondling of their own souls. It is enough to realize that we are living today in another such age of dissent from the standards of the past; that our literary prophets drive home disillusion in order to make us modern—Isben, behind the leering mask of comedy, with the same clairvoyance as moved Erasmus or Lucretius.

Our search is then, for a gospel which each of us may interpret as authority for the freest choice of moral standards; and we hurry through all beliefs, dissecting as we go those which have been held in the most sacred esteem. We seek natural explanations of those dear prejudices which moved men to wonder and secret sympathy through countless ages, and what was religion has for some become merely mores, taboos, sun myths—an interesting subject for research, but no longer a restraint of conduct.

And so our modern system of education, discontent with the studies which have moved men to high and noble endeavor, prescribe in place of them a pabulum of applied science—the most reasonable as it is the most dreary, of the modern world. We hear accepted leaders of opinion insist that we shall no longer waste our time with building of character; that the true end of education is to sharpen our wits for the conflict of life, to arm ourselves with weapons of immediate use.

All the cry of the schools is of vocational education. The lad who has learned to read is to prepare himself for a trade or even a profession. To study the classics, to drink inspiration. To study the classics, to drink inspiration, we are told, than the efforts of Tantalus to slack his thirst. I do not mean to suggest that vocational education is without its uses—far from it; but that among such men and women as I am addressing today it might well be confided to the individual whose bent of mind discovers a probable career as a technician. Even if a man is eventually to specialize he is a sounder man if he does so on a solid foundation of tradition. Vocational education as a system for all is what I deplore. It is a sage counsel only for the industrially inept, for wage-earning mechanics at the highest, but most necessary shall we say for the negro—not for potential leaders of men. The trail of it is, however, everywhere evident, when in our higher schools and colleges, with the result that we are breeding a race of average men whose education operates alike a labor union to deprive the best of the opportunity of his natural equipment and to reduce efficiency to a level attainable by the incompetent. This is responsible for the most-to-be-regretted type in our industrial life today—the man in authority who is merely an official, competent to enforce rules, diligent, earnest, faithful it may be, but incapable of imagining new things.

With all deference to current opinion to the contrary, I believe with old Sir Thomas Elyot that proper education for holding places of authority is as vital to the welfare of the state as the education of the many. As we are now facing new and fundamental questions of politics, of social science and economics, there was perhaps never a time when, as a nation, we more required leaders of poise and self-restraint, capable of bringing to the solution of the new the experience of the old, not that they may solve the questions only as they have been solved in the past, not that they may resist the pressure of the new, but that they may be able to choose what is sound and avoid what is merely specious.

I yield to none in admiration of the man who knows—the man equipped with modern science; but I venture, nevertheless, to assert that without background, as he too often is, he may be a narrow man, and in very truth plays, after all, but a small part in the world. He can not move men to action—he can only facilitate their poor material and human convenience, which breeds ment which is founded largely upon study of the humanities, that such a man enters life a mere amateur. He knows nothing useful, and so, it is said, he is unfit for industry, which in our age and in our civilization is the chief end of life, and so of education; that for example, in international commercial competition he is putty in the hands of a technically trained German. I venture, however, to maintain the thesis that a man with a literary education is as well equipped to lead the industrial world as is the vocationally educated physicist or mechanical engineer of similar natural parts and character. It is a familiar experience in industry, as it is practised today, to see the man who has little or no special training in science—indeed, alas! sometimes little education of any kind outside of the school of experience—leading successfully some great industry, solving its problems with full use of all the mysteries of applied science, and reaping the rewards of power and honor which come with successful leadership. How he does is not far to seek. He hires the specialist as he requires him, and that too, unfortunately for current educational theory, usually at a comparatively small wage. He does not himself need to know what others can tell; he can use technical men as he uses a table of logarithms. But, for leadership in its largest aspect, he does need a personal and ever available equipment of high principle, courage, both moral and physical, and imagination—qualities which are native in some characters, but may be cultivated in most through touch and contact with the thoughts and minds of the great souls who have by those qualities achieved great deeds in the past—that immortal company the tradition of whose acts or words constitutes the body of literature which we term the classics.

I urge, then, upon those who would lead in industry, as in other conflicts of life, to build character and imagination by the study of the humanities. It is, however, no easy school that I counsel, no promenade or passeeur through the contemporary literature of predigested knowledge—the books about books—which crowd our libraries, the ancient history drugged with modern politics, not Grote and Mommsen, but Thucydides and Tacitus. I summon him who would know and understand.

back to the sources, to the originals in all ages, that by the very labor of the search the knowledge may be more securely gained and taste the sweeter in achievement. He has weary days and straining nights before him, but he has deathless privilege, the communion with great souls. Scholarship in its technical sense is not now my subject. It is not the life of an Oxford don, nor of a German Privatdozent, that I hold up to the emulation of a young American who would become a captain of industry. The life of a Scaliger, a Casaubon, a Bentley would be an anachronism in our teeming world of industry. But from such as these there is much more than scholarship to learn. Because their tools are those I recommend to him who would know how to lead men, and because their methods are those of the painful endeavor which alone yields enduring success in any form of human enterprise, their lives may be our inspiration as we read the books which their labors have made readable, more wants than it satisfies; he can not stir the heart to singing—he can only reckon its pulsations.

My appeal is, then, to a view of life which will take account of the past as well as of the future, in education as in the conduct of affairs for which education is the preparation. The object is often made to that kind of equipment. Here, for example, is Joseph Scaliger, pleasantly pictured for us by his great contemporary Casaubon, even debonair in the use of his hard-won learning:

“A man who, by the indefatigable devotion of a stupendous genius to the acquisition of knowledge, had garnered up vast stores of uncommon lore. And his memory had such a happy readiness that, whenever the occasion called for it, whether he were consulted by letter, he was ready to bestow with lavish hand what had been gathered by him in the sweat of his brow.”

So it is that true classical study can never be delectantism. “Not without dust and heat” may one obtain a literary education which may serve in the practical life to come. I will take the liberty of illustrating my point by a version from one of the books recommended. It is the old, old parable of the joy which comes in work, as Prodicus the Sophist wrote and published and read it to numberless audiences of young Greeks in the great fifth century, and was commended therefor by Socrates. Its moral is today no less pertinent than is its charm of expression, though the full measure of that charm must, indeed, be sought in the Greek original. It is the parable of The Choice of Heracles.

“When Heracles was emerging from boyhood into the bloom of youth, having reached that season in which the young man, now standing upon the verge of independence, shows plainly whether he will enter upon the path of virtue or of vice, he went forth into a quiet place and sat debating with himself which of these two paths he should pursue; and as he sat musing there, appeared to him two women of great stature which drew nigh to him. The one was fair to look upon, frank and free by gift of nature, her limbs adorned with purity and her eyes with bashfulness; sobriety set the rhythm of her gait, and she was clad in white apparel. The other was of a different type; the fleshy softness of her limbs betrayed her nurture, while the complexion of her skin was embellished that she might appear whiter and rosier than she really was, and her figure that she might seem taller than nature had made her; she stared with wide-open eyes, and the raiment wherewith she was clad served but to reveal the ripeness of her bloom. With frequent glances she surveyed her person, or looked to see if others noticed her; while ever and anon she fixed her gaze upon the shadow of herself intently.

“Now when these two had drawn near to Heracles, she who was first named advanced at an even pace towards him, but the other in her eagerness to outstrip her, ran forward to the youth, exclaiming, ‘I see you, Heracles, in doubt and difficulty what path of life to choose; make me your friend and I will lead you to the pleasantest road and the easiest. This I promise you: you shall taste all of life’s sweets and escape all bitters. In the first place, you shall not trouble your brain with war or business; other topics shall engage your mind; you only speculation, what meat or drink you shall find agreeable to your palate; what delight of ear or eye; what pleasure of smell or touch; how you shall pillow your limbs in softest slumber; how cull each individual pleasure without alloy of pain; and if ever the suspicion steal upon you that the stream of joys will one day dwindle, trust me, I will not lead you where you shall replenish the store by toil of body and trouble of soul. No! others shall labor, but you shall reap the fruit of their labors; you shall withhold your hand from nought which shall bring you gain. For to all my followers I give authority and power to help themselves freely from every side.’

To which she: ‘Know that my friends call me Happiness, but they that hate me have their own nicknames for me—Vice and Naughtiness.’

“But just then the other of those fair women approached and spoke: ‘Heracles, I too, am come to see you, seeing that your parents are well known to me and in your nurture I have gauged your nature: wherefore I entertain good hope that if you choose the path which leads to me, you shall greatly bestir yourself to be the doer of many a doughty deed of noble emprise; and that I too shall be held in even higher honor for your sake, lit with the lustre shed by valorous deeds. I will not cheat you with preludings of pleasure, but I will relate to you the things that are according to the ordinances of God in very truth. Know then that among things that are lovely and of good report, not one have the gods bestowed upon mortal man apart from toils and pains. Would you obtain the favor of the gods, then must you pay these same gods service; would you be loved by your friends, you must benefit these friends; do you desire to be honored by the state, you must give the state your aid; do you claim admiration for your virtue from all Hellas, you must strive to do some good to Hellas; do you wish earth to yield her fruits to you abundantly, to earth you must pay your court; do you seek to amass riches from your flocks and herds, on them you must bestow your labor; or is it your ambition to be potent as warrior, able to save your friends and subdue your foes, then must you learn the arts of war from those who have the knowledge, and practice their application in the field when learned; or would you e’en be powerful of limb and body, then must you habituate limbs and body to obey the mind, and exercise yourself with toil and sweat. . . . Toils like these, O Heracles, son of noble parents, it is yours to meet with, and, having endured, to enter into the heritage assured you of transcendent happiness.’”

These are immanent lessons of success in a selfish world, but the fierce joy which comes of consciousness of work well done is not only reward of him who builds his character upon the humanities. He who equips himself for life with an education of science, but with “small Latin and less Greek,” what is his intellectual resources in his hours of ease and divertisement? If he is a banker, like Sir John Lubbock, he can doubtless amuse his leisure with ants and bees; but if he is an entomologist for his livelihood, he can not reasonably expect diversion in banking as an avocation: it is probable that the Comptroller of the Currency might intervene with an awful veto. But he who has founded his career upon a study of the great dead whom we term the classics, has not only a fund of experience and tradition of achievement to guide and stimulate his workaday life, but when work is done he has a sweet well of imagination to dip into, vastly to be preferred to the muck of a modern literature of unrest and sordid discontent. He may betake himself to that wonderful isle of the poet’s conjuring, there to invite his soul and refresh his faculties. He, too, can live in Aready.

“And I have fitted up some chambers there
Looking towardst he golden Eastern air
And level with the living winds, which flow
Like waves above the living waves below.
I have sent books and music there, and all Those instruments with which high Spirits call

The future from its cradle, and the past
Out of its grave, and make the present last
In thoughts and joys which sleep, but can not die

Folded within their own eternity.”

Permanent Elements of Education

By PRES. W. A. HARPER, Elon College, N. C.

EDUCATION'S PERMANENT ELEMENTS MAKE IT WORTH WHILE

It is the permanent elements of education that justify the vast expenditure of money for it and the enlistment of hundreds of thousands of teachers in its army of workers. More than 400 colleges and universities with more than ten thousand teachers and more than 400,000 students with endorsements aggregating more than a billion dollars, make up the higher educational budget of the United States. More than 18,000,000 pupils taught by more than half a million teachers receiving salaries out of the public exchequer aggregating more than $500,000,000 annually represent numerically the American people's interest in secondary education. And these expenditures in money and in human energy are increasing every year. It is because we have seen, or think we have certain abiding elements in education that we are willing to invest men and money in it in such bewildering proportions. We have found or think we have, that education pays well for every dollar invested in it and for every particle of neural force devoted to its acquisition. The American people sit at the feet of the pedagogue during the formative period of childhood and adolescence and far into that of early man- and woman-hood and they do it because of the permanent elements they have seen in education.

1. PRACTICAL INFORMATAION

EDUCATION SHOULD ADD TO PRACTICAL EFFICIENCY

Among these permanent elements the practical American would place foremost, practical information, knowledge equipping directly for some vocation, skill contributing to wealth production and industrial success. We have departed far from the old notion that a gentleman should have no business. The American gentleman with no business is your tramp or jail-bird. We believe that work ennobles man and consider every loafer a parasite, whether he be rich or poor. Education ought to be practical and it ought to assist in achieving material success. It always has and it always will. In insisting on the practical benefits of education, however, there is involved the danger of stunting the finer sensibilities of the soul and reducing life to materialism only. We must all make our living—that is materialistic—and that living should be the best of which we are capable—that is crass materialism, and yet I believe in it. I would include in "best," however, many things which the extreme materialist would rigorously exclude. I would not be content with muck-raking only; I would occasionally peep at the stars.

BUT ITS INSISTENCE SHOULD BE ON MAN, NOT ON PRACTICAL

In our insistence on practical education we should put the emphasis on education, which is another name for man-development, rather than on practical. Man is the most important element in education, not practicability. You can never make a first-class lawyer out of a man God has set aside to till the soil, and the best way to make of him the most efficient farmer possible is to give him acquaintance with life in the large as well as with the practical, technical training required of the farmer. The best man is your broad, catholic, sympathetic man, and this holds true whether he be a farmer a mechanic, or a professional man, and this type of man, the man who makes his living and at the same time lives his life, this type of man will help forward the life of every man who feels the impulse of his energy or even remotely is touched by his influence.

WE MUST NOT CONVERT OUR SCHOOLS INTO APPRENTICE SHOPS

The narrow specialist, the man who has confined himself to one thing to the exclusion of everything else, who has seen in education only practical information and in life only his own vocation—that man may make his millions, may stand at the top of his profession, but his own life will be poor in the elements that really make living worth while—poor in the things that elevate human life above mere animal existence and brings it close to God. This is not degrading success. This is not degrading material success. It is pleading for man as the master of materialism as against man enslaved to his own acquisitions. And it is a plea that needs to be made. Short-sighted educationists, mad with desire for popularity, are enunciating in catching phrases the gospel of mammon and the mammonites are saying "amen and amen." They would eliminate from our schools all but practical studies and they would introduce vocational training everywhere possible. They would convert our schools into apprentice shops and put under the ban of disapproval every ideal save that of materialistic success. We need apprentice shops, but we need schools also. Our schools will quicken our ideals. Our apprentice shops will enable us to work out in material form these ideals. But if our schools become apprentice shops, where will our ideals be?

THE OLD COUNTRIES ARE NO SAFE CRITERION FOR AMERICA

The advocates of vocational training and practical education as the only worthy aim of our educational system do not help their case when they cite the examples of foreign countries as justifying their reform. They forget that life in these countries is cast in certain moulds, and that there is very little, if any, transference from one stratum of society to another. Sons and daughters of the nobles will be nobles and the children of artisans will follow their forebears. Not so in America, where even the humblest can aim at the highest station. In the old country there is very little need for the quickening of ideals, but in America such quickening of ideals, is the secret of our glory and the destiny of our future. Yet even in the old countries, there exists two types of education—practical for the children of the poor and the artisans, and classical for the education of the professional and higher classes. We shall likely come to some such arrangement in this country, but as between the vocational school only and the classical school only, there can be but one choice for a nation whose national greatness is dependent upon the ideals that stir the heart's blood of its every citizen.

THE REAL PRACTICALNESS WHICH WE NEED

And yet I am willing to grant that education should give practical information, that it should give special training, that it should yield expert skill for special training, that it should expect skill for the work of life, but not to the exclusion of those studies which really enrich life and render it worth while. We need specialization and vocational training and practical education and we will have them, but in their getting let us not forget that idealism too is a potent factor in human progress, and even more potent factor than realism, which would not be and could not be without idealism as the fuel producing energy. Let us put our emphasis on man and life first and on specialism and making a living next and in sweet self-forgetfulness realize our best selves and live our best lives. Education animated and controlled by such a spirit cannot but yield us the best results in terms of life and in point of practical information—not the information that narrows and belittles man, but that broadens and uplifts and exalts him.

II. MENTAL POWER

MENTAL POWER ENNOBLES MAN

There can be no more inviting claim set forth for education's necessity than that it generates mental power, for it is mental power that we must look as the source of human progress. From his eyes down no man is worth more than $1.50 a day. But he who is thoroughly developed from his eyes up may command a salary mounting up to startling proportions. Mental power—that is the difference; and that is one sort of power we have the right to expect from our educational system.

POWER AND SKILL ARE FAR DIFFERENT

We have the right to inquire of any institution offering us its services or seeking our support what it can do in the matter of generating mental power. Does it propose to take the undeveloped human being and to make him into a man remarkable for his mental grasp? If so, it is entitled to our respect and should have our support. If it merely proposes to train him more deftly and skillfully as an animal, with little or no attention to mental power, then we should look elsewhere for education. There is a vital difference between skill and power. Skill enables us to utilize power, is the belting that transfers the power from the dynamo to the wheels and the machinery of the plant, but is powerless without the dynamo, the source of power. We need to consider this carefully in deciding as between schools and colleges. Your special school put the emphasis on skill; your colleges put it on power. Our normal schools train—they do not educate. They give skill—they do not give power. The normal school reviews carefully the ground covered by the grammar and high school curriculum. It adds to that methods of teaching and practice in teaching, but makes no advance in general education. Normal graduates for the first few months outshine in the class room the college graduates, because of their skill. They are limited in power, however, and their superiority is brief and momentary. As soon as experience gives the College graduates skill, her magnificent power places her in a different class as a teacher and she far outdistances her normal trained competitors. It is power that counts, not skill, because power will express itself and skill is its handmaid.

A CASE IN POINT—PONDER IT WELL

What has been said of teaching applies equally well to every other vocation. The other day I read the curriculum of a far-famed technical school—a curriculum that was designed to produce civil and electrical engineers. It had the smell of the shop. I could see almost nothing in it but machinery and the whirr of the wheels was almost audible as I read. Three courses in English, one in Political Economy, two in German or French, with technical mathematics and applied science and shop work—that was the curriculum offered as constituting an education, with no History and no Philosophy and no acquaintance with the great literatures of the world and no real knowledge in the liberalizing sense of either English, Mathematics, or Natural or Social Science. Those who are thus “educated” may repair railroads and operate machinery, but they will never tunnel under the Hudson nor construct the Panama Canal nor invent any contrivance for the uplift of men. Your great engineers are they who have been thoroughly educated before their special training began, whose special training has been the belting and shafting by which their previously generated mental power and acumen were applied to the practical problems of their profession.

NARROW MEN ALWAYS RUN IN RUTS

These principles apply to the farmer, to the business man, to the mechanic, to the minister, to the physician, to the lawyer, to every type of man. The narrow man must necessarily work in grooves. He is not broad enough to avoid new lines, because he is limited in horizon, deficient in vision, and devoid of ideals. What does he know of England who only England knows? What does he know of medicine who only medicine knows? Such narrowness yields skill, but not power, and power makes the wheels of life go and keeps them from moving always in the same way.

THE COLLEGE COURSE GENERATES MENTAL POWER GENEROUSLY

The college course, following the proper sort of preparatory education, is able to develop this needful mental power. It enlarges the vision, quickens the ideals, strengthens every mental faculty—and as these are the main springs of power in the mental realm. The college curriculum interprets the past, lays bare the present, and unfolds the future, thus laying a solid foundation for the understanding of life and the cultivation of judgment. In History the student sees the passions of men at play under all circumstances. He is thus enabled to weigh the problem of life in a sure balance, and he who knows his History will not be easily lured into hurtful schemes of wild-cat reform. Language and literature enlarge his life by revealing to him the aims, ambitions, and ideals of every conceivable type of man. His sympathies are thus quickened and he is better able to help his fellows to the light, basing his helpfulness on the enlarged experience in living offered all who ramble widely in literature's paradise of charm. Social Science gives him insight into the institutional life of man and qualifies him to understand the intricate problems of government and society. Natural Science will show him nature and nature's God, and through this knowledge he will be prepared to turn natural forces into helpful channels of human uplift. Mathematics will not only teach him pains-taking exactness in thinking, but will encourage him to expect definite results from definite sources in composition. The man who knows his higher mathematics—his calculus and his conic sections—will be no easy prey to schemers and charlatans with pet theories of great delverance to man through insignificant social alterations. And Philosophy, in which should be included ethics and Bible study, will bring him face to face with men's highest hopes and holiest aspirations, and no man who has felt his soul stir in the presence of these transcendent problems with their attendant hopes can be other than a new man for his experience. The man who has covered the gamut of life—past, present, future—as it is revealed in the college curriculum, becomes a man of power, of mental power. We may not be able to ferret out the physics or the chemistry or the biology of it, but we know that it is ever so. One day perhaps we shall understand the process of it, but such understanding is no more necessary to its acquisition and enjoyment than understanding of the manner of conversion is to the enjoyment of the Christian life. We know the college course gives this power and we know this power is necessary to the individual who is to lead the world to redemption, and we who are wise will never rest till we have it or till those dependent upon us for their outlook on life through our efforts have had it or have had opportunity to have it.

III. PROCESSES OF WORK

EDUCATION CULTIVATES PROPER HABITS OF WORK AND THOUGHT

If College did no more for a man than cultivate correct habits of work and thought, it would on that score only be entitled to every man's respect and support. The regular recurrence of college duties may be inconvenient at times, but so are the duties of the work-a-day world. The punctual performance of these duties will tell wonderfully in after years, when the stress and the storm of life's obligations gather thick and fast about us. Every college man has in his vocational duties after graduation had occasion to feel grateful to the routine exacted by the rules and regulations of his college days. He may have found them interfering with his pleasures and desires at times and he may have yielded a half-hearted obedience, when he was under obligation to attend class rather than witness a great athletic contest in a nearby city, but in his maturer years when the self-discipline thus achieved has brought him the needful resolution for sticking to his duties in the face of discouragement or inviting pleasure, his mind will revert to the old scenes and gratitudes will well up within him for lasting benefits received.

AND CULTIVATES THE WILL—THE REAL SOVEREIGN

But it may be objected that such discipline can be had in a store or a factory or the army. In a sense this is true, but with a vital difference. In a store or a factory or the army, the duties are prescribed and the “boss” under whatever title enforces strict adherence thereto or discharges the refractory employee. There is not much opportunity for the display of the will power in making a choice between duties that may be neglected and pleasures that bid for indulgence. No such seminary for the development of the will has ever been devised as the small college, where parental care is showered over all and where duties and pleasures involving the will cultivation and development are plentifully supplied. To this benign opportunity for strengthening the will through exercise the vocations of daily life can offer no parallel.

AND GIVES MAN THE KEYS TO THE STORE-HOUSE OF KNOWLEDGE

But far more valuable than the inculcation of correct habits of work and thought is the acquaintance the college course gives with the field of universal knowledge and the processes of attacking the problems that demand solution at our hands. It is not required that a man shall remember all he learns during his College days in order to profit by his study. He may forget all the Latin and Greek he ever knew and not be able to demonstrate a single proposition in geometry nor perform a single experiment in science. He may not be able to recall the facts of history nor the schools of philosophy, and yet have in the mastery of these items of forgotten lore acquired such insight into the methods of attacking difficult problems that he is qualified for leadership in the affairs of life, and where other men falter and ultimately go down in the fierce onslaught, he calmly and serenely and self-confidently because of his rare insight into the process of grappling with difficult situations goes on to rich and satisfying achievement. Let the College man who shrinks from the tangled maze of his daily allotment of Greek and Latin or higher mathematics content himself with the sweet thought that in their mastery he is destined to discover the golden threads of the most effective processes of work—a discovery that shall give him a tremendous lead in the race of life. And further let him consider that his wide acquaintance with truth as the college course opens it up to him will stand in good stead in coming days and enable him with little effort to keep himself informed or to inform himself as to any matter involving expert skill in investigating. The training of the will through manifold moral decisions, the inculcation of correct habits of work and thought, the insight into the effective processes of grappling with difficult situations, and the possession of a wide range of knowledge connected with the ability to investigate for himself any particular realm of it—these are priceless boones of college education and happy is the man who fortunately is possessed of them.

IV. GENERAL CULTURE

I SAID CULTURE, NOT POLISH

Note that I did not say polish, but culture. Polish is put on from the outside. It is a veneer and its thinness is easily discernible by all. It does not come off because it is not put on. There are schools which essay to teach culture. They really teach polish—what might perhaps be dubbed culturine—and their product is distasteful to all who really know what true culture is. The graduates of such schools know the latest styles of dress and the names of the newest indigestible viands and the tricks of entertaining and are past masters in idleness and frivolity. They are experts at playing bridge, but veriest ignoramuses at playing Bridget. If they are possessed of culture, the less we have of it the better.

THE REAL CULTURE OF THE EDUCATED MAN

The culture for which I plead is that which Matthew Arnold described as acquaintance with the best that has been thought, said, and done in man's history. Such acquaintance gives dignity, gives charm, gives worth to its possessor. Such a person is refined, genuinely refined, because his refinement is the outcropping of his soul and not the habiliment of a groom. He is cultured, genuinely cultured, because high thinking always takes practical form in culture that cannot fail—a culture as high above that which comes of fashionable living as a real man is above his pampered horse or a real woman is above her fondled poodle. The man or woman of culture is at home in the kitchen or in the workshop, in the parlor, in society, in educated circles, among the unlearned, amid wealth or poverty, everywhere or anywhere and at any time. His culture does not puff him up, but makes him the servant of all his fellows, and wherever there is a human need to be satisfied he has found his friend and neighbor. Such culture comes unconsciously, as a by-product. It comes without being sought for, but when it has come, what a richness, what a joy, what a halo of glory it lends the life of its possessor and of every one with whom he comes in contact! And nothing else can yield it so sweetly as the college course.

V. CHRISTIAN CHARACTER.

BUT CHRISTIAN CHARACTER IS EDUCATION'S HIGHEST CONTRIBUTION TO LIFE

But the crowning contribution of education to life-equipment is Christian character. Nothing else can take its place. And the education which fails in this respect has failed beyond redemption. It becomes the enemy of progress and should be cast into outer darkness. A man without character, without Christian character, is a danger to our civilization, and the better he is educated the greater menace he becomes to our free institutions. We want education, and we will have it; but we want education based on Christian character even more, and we are determined to have it. We will not permit any maudlin sentimentality in regard to the necessity of free-thought to rob us of the most vital element in any education—character and the God that makes character possible. We believe in the right of every individual to choose his own religious faith, but we also believe that the educational system should make it easy, not hard, for him to have a faith at all. Freedom of thought is not synonymous with skepticism and infidelity and if it is, we will have no more freedom of thought. The American people have issued their ultimatum to this fetish of a deluded age. They have said to it: "you shall not crucify the most priceless possession of life, Christian character, on your cross of free-thought. Christian character has been our nation's bulwark in all our generations. It has brought us to leadership in all national and private life. It has been our pillar of cloud by day and our pillar of fire by night. It is to us evidence that the God of our fathers is with us yet, and you shall not sacrifice this glorious heritage of free-thought. If your education cannot give us as its crowning work the sweet fruitage and exquisite charm of Christian character, then we will dwell with the Lord in the tents of the untutored and the unlearned!" So say the American people and from this pronouncement they will never recede.

THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE A NECESSITY.

BY PRES. W. A. HARPER, ELON COLLEGE, N. C.

STATE AND DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGES SHOULD CEASE FIGHTING EACH OTHER

It would be inexcusable folly for the denominational colleges to wage war on the state institutions of higher learning. Both types of institution are here to stay and the sensible thing to do is to realize that fact and for each to get busy doing its special work. State institutions should cease to encourage their graduates to write theses on the narrowness and "uncertainty" of denominational colleges and they in turn should try to forget the short comings of their competitors supported by the state. We have had crimination and recrimination long enough, and would do well to stick to our distinctive ideals and do our distinctive work with fidelity and earnestness and simplicity of heart.

WHAT SOME COUNTRIES ARE DOING FOR RELIGION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

But it will not be amiss to characterize briefly the fundamental aims of state and denominational colleges. Nor will it be amiss to recall that the United States is the only Chris-tnan nation which undertakes to educate without religious influence. The great Christian nations, like Germany, France, England, make provisions even in their secondary schools for religious instruction, and they do well in so doing. The usual custom, modified to suit local conditions, is to have all the pupils go at certain hours each day to religious instructors of their parents' choice, where they are nurtured in the things of the Kingdom. It seems to me that this is a much more sensible plan than the diluted moral teaching advocated by some educational leaders for our own public schools. Religious instruction suited to the conscience of Protestants, Catholics, Jews and free-thinkers would seem to be a colorless, powerless thing, devoid of practical influence in touching the heart of children. For laugh at dogma tho we may, yet we must all admit that Christian faith must assuredly rest upon it, if it is vitally to affect the character. The multiplicity of Protestant sects in this country, clamoring more for their distinctive differences than for the fundamentals of salvation, renders such a plan almost impossible with us except in the large centers of population. Therefore it would seem that our present system, crowned by our great state institutions of higher and technical learning, is a fixture in our educational life.

THE AIMS OF OUR STATE COLLEGES

Returning now to the distinctive aims of the two leading types of college operating in our country, we may inquire first into the aim of the state college. The original of all state colleges is the University of Virginia. Its founder was Thomas Jefferson. He was farseeing enough to realize that this educational departure would affect wondrously the life of the country and considered the fact of his origination of the idea of sufficient importance to warrant its inscription on his tombstone along with his claim to the authorship of the Declaration of Independence. That was Jefferson's idea in this educational innovation. His writings make it perfectly plain—that higher education should be free from religious control and that educated citizens might be had for the new nation. These are the aims of the state colleges today—absolute freedom from religious control and the production of citizens. The atmosphere of the state school is patriotic, and patriotism is a great force. We cannot without it. The state schools have certainly succeeded in that line of their aim. They have also succeeded in keeping themselves absolutely free from religious control. They are models of toleration, permitting students and faculty to believe and teach incidentally and practice in daily life any faith desired or any form of infidelity conceivable. The free-thinker and the devout Christian, whether in faculty or student body, are on equal terms. Thomas Jefferson could not have wished it to work out better than it has. And for those who believe these to be the aims of higher education we have no criticism—they have our sympathy and commiseration.

AIMS OF THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE

The denominational college realizes the necessity for higher education that the best type of citizenship may result. It is opposed to secretarism, except in rare instances, and these instances are growing rarer in view of the extreme toleration of the state colleges and of the steady growth of Christian liberality among the supporting churches. It does not believe in subjecting youths in its formative years to all the conflict of faith and skepticism that so universally rages around the state colleges, feeling that great harm is done the spiritual life of many in such a conflict, while willing to concede that a trifling few may come out of it stronger, but yet battle scared and crippled. Its aim is character—Christian character—first and always. Its atmosphere is not less patriotic than that of the state college, but also definitely and distinctly and designedly Christian—not sectarian, not narrow, for there is no narrowness in Christ—but broadly and genuinely Christian. We believe that such institutions are a necessity in our country and shall expect the sun of its glory to set forever when they shall cease to exert their saving influence over the nation or depart from their noble aim and heritage.

THE STATE NEEDS THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE

The denominational college is a state necessity. This paradox is easy to justify and explain. Whoever has read history knows that the religious bond is mightier than even the patriotic bond in preserving national life. In the Jews we have an instance of the religious bond making a nation a unit, the dispersed over the face of the earth. No nation has ever survived the loss of faith in religion. Even the temporary enthronement of free-thinkers and skeptics in any land has brought always a quick harvest of inquisition, and proscription, and the bloody havoc of the block or the guillotine. Some agency therefore to cultivate the intellect and the heart at the same time of the men and women who are to be leaders in the nation's life is essential. That agency is the denominational college.

A NEW FORCE IN MODERN COLLEGE LIFE— ITS INTERPRETATION.

Recently a new type of higher educational institution has been foisted upon the United States—the independent college. The Carnegie Foundation has busied itself in this direction, not so much with the effort to induce philanthropists to found additional colleges, as with the effort to wrest existing denominational colleges from denominational control. The Carnegie hook is baited with gold, and has proved a most efficacious bait indeed. There is hardly a state in which some denominational college has not had its charter amended in such manner as to wrest from its fostering church legal ownership of itself in the hope of a subsidy from the wily steel magnate in the form of an outright donation or of retiring allowances and discarded administrative officers. These colleges of so-called larger freedom will eventually go the way of the older free institutions, like Harvard, Yale, Columbia, and the University of Chicago—that is to say, their atmosphere will be the same as that of the state institution with patriotism left out as a distinctive aim, an atmosphere of scholarship and learning. The so-called scientific spirit will characterize their life, the chief ingredient of which is the skeptical attitude toward every thing until proved, even toward religion and the dearest moral standards of national greatness. Manifestly this type of institution cannot save the nation, and really renders the necessity for the Christian institution more acute. America may yet rue the day when this insidious business of upsetting her conservators of national life began its de-spiritualizing campaign of iniquity and darkness.

WHAT THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE HAS DONE FOR THE STATE.

But has the denominational college shown itself to be a national necessity in the past? Aside from the theory of the situation, what has the record of more than a century to teach in substantiation of this claim? This is a fair challenge, and the facts are far more eloquent in enforcing our contention than any rhetoric or argumentation. We have had twenty-seven presidents of the United States. Nineteen were college graduates. All but two of them were graduates of denominational colleges. Our present Federal Supreme Court has eight college graduates, seven of whom came from denominational colleges. Two-thirds of the members of congress in both houses are graduates of denominational colleges and three-fourths of the governors of the various states. Practically all the teaching and administrative forces of the denominational colleges are graduates of such colleges and forty per cent. of the same in state institutions are of like intellectual pedigree. Eighteen of the twenty-six literary lights of the first rank in America are graduates of denominational colleges. The great majority of the lawyers, physicians, and other professional men of large distinction are graduates of denominational colleges. A cursory glance through Who's Who will satisfy any one that the contribution of the denominational colleges of the country to the aggressive leadership of our life in all its departments is far out of proportion to the number committed to their care and instruction. Yet the attendance on denominational colleges is not increasing actually to any appreciable degree, but is decreasing relatively to marked degree in the light of the unprecedented growth in enrollment of the state and independent institutions. The moral of these facts is suggestive of serious lowering of moral, intellectual, and professional standards, unless the sober second-thought for which the American people are proverbially noted shall turn the tide back into the safe channel of a century of magnificent achievement. Manifestly the state needs the denominational college.

THE CHURCH CAN NOT DO WITHOUT THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE

But the church needs it even more—can not possibly permit its extinction and will not. It is a matter of common knowledge that the church has always led in education. The first universities of the Christian world were officered by clergy only and not until 1482 did laymen acquire the right of serving on their teaching staffs. In our own country all education was of the church till Thomas Jefferson in 1818 founded the University of Virginia. Even today of the somewhat more than four hundred colleges in the United States above three hundred are denominational. It would be equally gratifying to record that seventy-five per cent. of college students are enrolled with these colleges, but the fact is far different and the disparity is growing annually greater. It is time that the American people, the people of her churches I mean, were waking up to the enormity of a situation growing ominous with astonishing rapidity. I am no pessimist; I have confidence in the non-denominational college and its future, but I am not blind nor can I call my hopes my facts. It is time, I repeat, for the Christian forces of America to indulge in a little sober thinking along the line of the eternal verities of education in their relation to national life and prosperity.

ITS SPECIAL WORK FOR THE CHURCH

But what special need has the church for the denominational college? Here again let facts speak. They are eloquent and convincing. The denominational college furnishes 80 of the ministers of the country; all other educational institutions of the higher grade 6 per cent. Of foreign missionaries the proportion is greater—84 % from the denominational colleges as against 7% from all other colleges. More than 90% of the lay-workers in the various communions are estimated to come from denominational colleges. A great many young men decide on the ministry during their college career in denominational colleges. In state colleges many candidates for the ministry at entrance have chosen some other profession before graduation. The Y. M. C. A. is doing noble work in many instances, but it cannot generate the spiritual atmosphere of the church, and it is the atmosphere that makes life or death, not only physically, but also spiritually. The large decrease in candidates for the ministry, deplored by all, may be accounted for in part no doubt by the unparalleled growth in power and numbers of the state colleges, whose students by the very necessity of their aims are not drawn toward the Gospel ministry as the acme of professions. In our own state, one denominational college with 350 students had in theological seminaries during the year 1910, sixty-one graduates; the state university with twice as great an enrollment, only four. One denominational college has during all its existence sent more than 50% of its graduates into the ministry, and all its graduates have been Christians. The denominational college rarely graduates a student who is not a Christian, while the state and other colleges show a record just the opposite. Without doubt the church too needs the denominational college.

WHAT RELATION SHOULD THE CHURCH ASSUME TOWARD THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE

This discussion would not be complete without an inquiry into the duty and privilege of the churches toward their denominational colleges. There will surely be no opposing voices to the proposition that it is the duty of the church to provide for higher education nor to the correlative proposition that it is the privilege of the church membership to avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded for the very best results educationally for their children. The state colleges are supported by taxation. Their teachers are well paid and retiring allowances are provided. The same is true of the independent colleges, which are usually well endowed and for whose teachers the Carnegie Foundation makes generous provisions. The teachers in the denominational colleges are willing to serve an appreciative constituency at financial sacrifices often, but the church should see to it that it should be as small as possible and that provision is made for retiring allowances when old age renders further service impossible. No college can earn enough to pay its current expenses, to say nothing of interest on the cost of its plant. An endowment of $100,000 is required of all colleges in many states, of $200,000 in others, none of which can be invested in buildings or equipment. This is done not so much to crush out the weaker colleges, as in recognition of the fact that a college cannot do good work with a smaller productive income beyond tuition and fees from students. I have no doubt that the church will realize the strategic value for her of the denominational college and that generous provision in equipment and endowment will be made and an increase in enrollment, both actual and relative, will ultimately be accorded. Certainly we at Elon have no occasion to complain at the generosity of our brethren toward us nor of their most devoted and loyal patronage, and when the time comes for further assistance we are confident that the beautiful and loving response to every previous call will be forthcoming in gracious plenitude and abundant satisfaction, for of all the denominational colleges known to me none can boast a more devoted and loyal constituency than our own Elon, the strength and beauty of whose arching campus oaks are exceeded, only by the love and sacrifice for her of her devoted friends, for whom Elon is a joyous necessity and they her proud delight and sweet inheritance.

WHEN THE GIRLIE GOES TO COLLEGE*

"GIRLS ARE NOT SENT AWAY TO SCHOOL THESE DAYS; THEY GO AWAY."

You have often heard it said that a woman without a child can tell you better how to rear one than a mother of six can. Whether or not this is the reason that the leader has asked me to tell you in four minutes what I should tell a daughter of mine going to college I do not know.

Any way the first thing I should do would be to try to impress upon her mind what a college education means. I should want her to value her college course in the fullest and not consider it of slight consequence, a mere incident, or accident. The college will be a means a method or force through which she will be given a vision of the possibilities that lie within her. It will open the windows of her soul and the air of human life will sweep in to make her a sturdy and fine character if she arises to her opportunity. Then too, I would have her look beyond the college walls. A college education is not the all, the be-all and end-all of life, but always a means for a larger vision, a method for better service and a force for greater power. All this I would tell her.

I should tell her also not to forget home; that we were sending her to college in order that she might be prepared to live at home; that I desired her to become wise and large minded in order that she might bring a new strength and an earnest appreciation into the home which shall be loyal, rich and fine; that she was to become in heart and strong in will in order to bring into the home a gentleness, which is sympathetic, loving, and true.

Then I should lay a great deal of stress on the value of the girlie's health. Physical soundness gives great aid in getting hold of and holding sound views of life. Life is a mirror. One smiles into it and it smiles back. One frowns and it frowns. If one is sick, all life is sick. What ails you ails most folks in this world. Now all life is not well, sound and vigorous, but if you yourself are, you can help to transmute that vigor and life into someone else. If we would only open the doors and windows of our hearts and souls in the presence of a strong, vigorous, happy person we would just as surely catch that disease as we would small-pox from one infected with that incubus.

*Read by Mrs. W. A. Harper at the Mothers' Conference, Virginia Beach Chautauqua, July 23, 1915.

At the age of 32 Robert Browning fell in love with Elizabeth Barrett. At the same period his heart-aches began. Up to that time he had been free from such symptoms. The relation between the head and the heart may be close. The College girl should keep herself free from sufferings and incapacities. She should not be plagued by headaches, heartaches, nervousness, and indigestion. I would caution her to be careful, very careful, of her health.

I would in loving tenderness put my arms around her and say: "I want to say to you, my daughter, as you go away from home, get the very best for yourself from college. That may sound a little selfish, but wait a bit and let me emphasize for yourself. For do you know what may be good for one may not be good for another? Try to find in the college the supplies for your dire and direct wants. No gardener tries to raise cabbages from cucumber seed. We might wish you had more and better stuff in you, but you are what you are and education must educate that individual and that individuality which nature out of all her material made you. In getting the best for yourself, let one element of that best be appreciation. In other words, a love for best. I want you to know what is best. I want you, then, to love this best and then want you to make this best a part of yourself. Now you will find your teachers in college like teachers in schools everywhere and like all other folks, having a great variety of abilities. Perhaps you will have the idea that each professor is pretty near perfection. Well, go on thinking so until you have to think otherwise. But you will soon find they are a bit nearer perfection in some lines than others. What I want you to do is this, take each one at his best and think as little as possible about his not best.

"I want you to have an appreciation of the best books. Books have been so common a part of your furniture and of your home, you may not know that some books are good, some better and some best. What I want you to do is to be able to know the best books and make them a part of your life.

"I would like to say the same about music. Hear the best music. Also about art. Study the best pictures and paintings. By studying the best in nature and in art, you will know the best. By knowing the best, you will love the best. By knowing and loving the best, you will become a part of the best.

"Apply this same rule in forming your friendships. Do you know the way for getting the very best friendships? Of course you do. It is to give the best of yourself. And do you know the surest way of giving the best of yourself? Of course you do. It is to find the best in the other girl. She has her best and not best just as you. Find her best and help make it better. By so doing you will find yourself lifted, enlarged and inspired and the best of friendships formed.

"I want to say one thing more. It is perhaps the most important of all. Get the best and most out of your religion. The relation one bears to the Supreme Being is the most important. Many people do not get much out of their religion and certainly religion can not get much out of them. Emerson says somewhere that every man must pray. The mood of prayer and the act of prayer belong to the devout soul. Keep up your Church life. If the church is poor and the preaching uninteresting make the service of the church worship, even if you cannot make it instruction and inspiration. Many girls and boys think they have to study on Sunday. It is very foolish. Use Sunday for a time of interpretation, reflection and inspiration. Make each day too like George Herbert's Sunday, 'The bridal of the earth and sky.' If you will follow these simple principles, your own intuitive good judgment will make of you the real woman of your mother's aspirations and prayers."

—Send in the news from the revivals. Sun readers want to know of the harvest, and how the work progresses.

—Rev. Leon E. Smith, First Christian church, Huntington, Ind., writes under date of July 26: At the morning service yesterday I received 18 members into the church here, six adults and twelve children from the ages of 10 to 14. This makes a total of 23 received since May 30." Bro. Smith and his good wife are happy. Little Rebecca arrived, to add joy to the home, on July 8th.

—Greensboro has been suffering from something of an epidemic of typhoid fever. Last week Dr. Rankin of the State Board of Health went made an inspection, and after thorough examination, declared the city "unclean"—much of the sanitary condition being about as poor as could be found anywhere, Dr. Rankin declared. Filth is paid for in money, health and life. "Swat or be swatted."

—A very busy man, and one well-to-do in achievement of possessions, a good friend to the editor, remarked recently that there was no work one could do with one's hands that paid such a dividend in dollars and in comforts as the work of planting and cultivating a good garden. Francis Bacon the sage, points out for a wholesome and worthy example that "Almighty God planted a garden."

—Greensboro Daily News Aug. 3 Revival vival services began at Hines Chapel Christian church Sunday, with probably as many as 1,000 people attending. The pastor, Rev. W. C. Wicker, of Elon college, is conducting the meeting, assisted by Rev. H. S. Smith, a young divinity student of Elon college. J. H. Morning who recently taught a singing school there is back to lead in singing during the time services last, which will be probably the entire week.

—The Daily Virginian Pilot, Norfolk, Va., recently gave out two very interesting items of news for Elon College. It says the Southern Railway is arranging to greatly beautify its property (the station) at Elon College and that the Railway Company will soon erect a handsome waiting room for ladies in the station. The same paper also says that some one (it does not tell who) will soon send a landscape gardener to Elon and have the college campus beautifully laid off and improved. This is good news indeed. Elon has a beautiful campus, and when this work is completed, it will be a delight to look upon.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

—The many friends of Miss Pearl Fogleman, a popular teacher in Elon College, will regret to learn of her bereavement in loss of her mother recently. Of Mrs. Fogleman we get the following from the Burlington News: Mrs. Luther Fogleman died at her home at Mebane after having been afflicted eleven years with paralysis. The remains were brought here Monday evening and carried to Mr. John Ingle's and the funeral conducted there yesterday afternoon by Dr. P. H. Fleming of Greensboro. Mrs. Fogleman had spent her entire life here, living on Davis street, until about a year ago they moved to Mebane. She continued to grow worse until the end came peacefully. She leaves a sorrowing husband and daughter, Miss Pearle, who teaches at Elon College.

YOUNG WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Adds to Culture and Spiritual Life—
An Ideal Training for Young Women.

Elon College speaks with pardonable pride of her three religious associations, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Christian Endeavor Society, and the Young Women's Christian Association. Each of these bodies fill a separate and distinct place in the religious life of the institution, and work harmoniously together for the uplift of the spiritual life of the student body. But the Y. W. C. A. fills a place which no other organization can, and that is why we have this wholesome and helpful band of workers.

The young women of the country are not being trained in religious work because they merely want to cope with men in the extension of the Kingdom, but because the great call of the Master was to all. Not only this, but the religious woman of today will be the mother of the Christian man of tomorrow. The Y. W. C. A. at Elon has these fundamental things in view as well as the many other phases of the religious life and moral conduct.

Not only does this organization foster the spiritual and religious side of life, but it endeavors to add something to the environment of the student body. Last year the Association planted flowers about the ladies' buildings, kept flowers on the dining room tables, beautified the walks and did an unlimited amount of mission work. A great work of telling stories to the children was also carried on. This organization sends a delegation to Black Mountain Conference each year and keeps abreast of what is doing in the great work of the Y. W. C. A. throughout the country.

Next year our aim is the progressive aim, the Master's aim, and with the co-operation of all, we shall make history to perpetuate the good word, the dear name—Elon.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Its Place in College Life—Elon's Society a Working One

The most wholesome religious organization which can be admitted to any institution of learning is the Christian Endeavor Society. The work of this Society quickens the religious life of the College and stands as a lighthouse to all other religious organizations.

The time of its meeting, which is Sunday evening at Elon, is most fitting. The morning Sabbath school has been held, the eleven o'clock preaching service has been attended, the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. meetings have been held in the afternoon, and it is a blessing to all and benediction to the community life, for all to meet in the Christian Endeavor service in the evening. It is the common meeting place for all organizations, and no college with Christian education as its ideal can afford to be without this movement. It trains in Christian fellowship and adds largely to the spiritual growth of the young men and women. The meetings are live and spiritual and so many are the participants, that no one, who observes propriety, dare speak more than two minutes.

The Society at Elon had a class last year studying Expert Endeavor under the leadership of President Harper. This class numbered nearly twenty-five and will exceed that next year. Bible and Mission study classes will be under its auspices, personal workers and the various committees will push forward throughout the year to add something to the life of every student, and let this be so telling and vital that he can easily and readily tell you what that is. C. E. Stands for Christian Endeavor—also for Christ Exalted, and that is the aim of Elon's one hundred and fifty Endeavorers.

C. B. RIDDLE, Pres.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

A Vital Power—Elon's Association Has High Standard for Next Year

The Young Men's Christian Association which has established its principles in every land, does its first and fundamental work in colleges. I say this because with the college man it establishes its position and principle on an intellectual foundation such as cannot be easily severed elsewhere. No college is complete without the Y. M. C. A. and no Y. M. C. A. is complete without a band of working members Elon and her loyal, and splendid Y. M. C. A. meet both these requirements.

The College Y. M. C. A. furnishes a place for the timid speaker whose desire is to begin the public expression of his thoughts and feelings, it is for the man who is gifted with speech, as chance is his to impart his knowledge with others; it is a place where young men meet on common ground and discuss their problems and the fundamentals of life. The College Y. M. C. A. furnishes a place in which to sum up the vital and important things learned in the class room, and most especially is this true at Elon, where students and faculty mutually work together in the Y. M. C. A.

The Cabinet for next year has outlined a plan of work and expects to work its plan. The mission schools will be continued, more Sunday schools in the urban districts will be established, a campaign for the highest standard of citizenship for the students will be vigorously pursued under the direction of the General Secretary, and our slogan, "Every College Man a Y. M. C. A. Member," shall reach its ideal under the guidance of the Christ.

ADDITIONS TO ELON'S FACULTY

THE NEW HISTORY PROFESSOR
Prof. R. C. Glenn, A. B. M. A., graduate of Lenoir College, the University of North Carolina, and Columbia University and a man of several years' experience as a teacher becomes Professor of History. Elon is fortunate in securing the services of such a promising educator.

Dr. Wm. A. Dunning, head of the History Department of Columbia, speaks of him as follows: "Robert Craig Glenn took American History as his subject of major interest at Columbia. Five courses were under my personal supervision. His work in both American Political Philosophy and the Seminar Courses in Latin American History was thoroughly satisfactory and in fact among the most thorough and satisfactory done for me during the year. His Seminar papers showed careful thought and diligent research. Mr. Glenn is an able, energetic, and persistent student. His Master's Essay entitled "Military Government in the Fifth Military District" is one of the best essays submitted for my approval recently. I most heartily recommend him to College Boards in need of a good history teacher."

NEW DIRECTOR OF MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Miss D. Jean Demuth, graduate in piano, voice, and harmony of Oberlin, postgraduate in all three branches of the same Conservatory, and successful teacher of large promise, becomes Director of the Music Department. While a student in Oberlin Miss Demuth's talent was recognized and honored in that she was made soloist in the Second Congregational church choir of one hundred and fifty trained voices and considered one of the greatest choirs of the country. She was further honored in being made substitute for her regular voice teacher in the Conservatory for her final two years there. Her class upon its graduation gave Midsummer Night's Dream, and she sang the fairy solo parts, the play being given with complete musical score rendered by an orchestra of fifty pieces. Her graduation recitals are spoken of by the Oberlin press and by Director Morrison of the Conservatory in highest terms. Her musical education included also special training in musical history, ear-training, form, analysis, and counterpoint.

Her second year as teacher was spent in Cooper College, Sterling, Kansas, from whose catalogue the following excerpt is clipped:

"Cooper is most fortunate in securing Miss Jean Demuth of Vhriebsville, Ohio, as head of the piano department.

"Miss Demuth is a graduate of the class of 1912 of the Oberlin Conservatory. During the year 1911 and 1912 she occupied the chair of piano and voice in one of the select finishing schools of Missouri. During the past summer Miss Demuth has been a pupil of Ernest Hutcheson, of Berlin, one of the most popular and efficient artists of the day. Miss Demuth's playing is marked by her brilliancy of technique combined with a rich full tone.

"As a teacher Miss Demuth has

Elementary and Cradle Roll Departments

Dear friends: Owing to the reduced size of THE SUN, we have found it impossible to carry on our column regularly, but we trust that you are carrying on your work, nevertheless.

Seedtime and harvest is the rule of the world, and our harvest must some of it, be reaped right now, in the form of a gathering together and taking stock of what we have done, planning for new work, and making plans for better things in the future. The Conventions have either all been held or are soon to be held by the time you read this letter. We have heard of new and better ways of doing. Let us go home with a determination to make the best of what we have and do the best we can in our own home and among our own people.

I want you to think specially of the Cradle Roll work during this coming year. This is one department which holds undisputed sway. Everyone recognizes its beauty, but too many times, they have failed to recognize its power and necessity and, therefore, too many of our schools are without. We would urge that a united effort be made through our denomination to magnify the importance of this work. Everyone should be interested in it, and may be easily be interested in it by being made to feel its importance and their responsibility for the successful accomplishment of its highest aims.

The Cradle Roll, like every other other department may become far more efficient by working toward some goal, by aspiring to reach certain standards. Believing this to be true, we would urge that every Cradle Roll Superintendent make a systematic effort to reach the standard which has been suggested by the International Superintendent of Cradle Roll work, and which is as follows:

1. A Cradle Roll Department.
2. A systematic effort to secure members from birth to three.
3. Public Wall Records (of names) and Private Card Index or Book Record (including babies' names, birth, age and parents' name and address.)
4. Prompt recognition of Birth-days.
5. Remembered in case of sickness or death.
6. All removals and cause registered.
7. Babies welcomed as visitors whenever present.
8. A Cradle Roll Day Annually.
9. An occasional social affair for mothers and babies.
10. Mothers and babies invited on special days.

Prominent Tennessee Attorney Endorses WEAVER Piano.

"The Weaver Piano I purchased from you some seven years ago has proven entirely satisfactory. My wife and daughter are very much pleased with its appearance, as well as its tone. I have purchased three pianos and this is the best of them all."

Yours very truly,

JAMES B. COX,

United States Attorney, Eastern District of Tennessee.

The Weaver Piano everywhere graces the home of refinement. It is an investment from which daily dividends of useful service and delight of ownership are drawn in the best Southern homes.

Why Do WEAVER Pianos Please?

Because we have been building pianos and organs for forty-five years and have never manufactured any instrument except a good one. Our whole ambition has been to conduct a business that would grow a little higher in the respect of the public each year. That kind of a business house pays and it is a pleasure to be connected with it. Our present position as manufacturers of the Weaver—the highest standard of piano quality so far attained—is due to that ambition. Only a piano that is artistically made can give adequate expression to what is in the soul of the musician: it is this distinctive quality in the Weaver that so appealed to Miss Alice Nielsen, who so delighted Chautauqua audiences in North Carolina this summer. Miss Nielsen, says: "The Weaver Piano is a superb and delightful instrument which responds to every requirement and wish of the artist."

We also make and sell the charming toned York Piano, the popular Livingston Piano and the celebrated Weaver Organ.

These instruments are everywhere conceded to be

RHEUMATISM AND INDIGESTION

Practically all physicians and medical writers are agreed that there is a close relationship between indigestion and Rheumatism. This view is substantiated by the fact that Shivar Spring Water, which is probably the best American mineral water for Dyspepsia and Indigestion, relieves Rheumatism and the Rheumatoid diseases, such as Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and Nervous Headache. All of these diseases are probably related and all are probably due in whole or in part to imperfect assimilation of food. Physicians who have studied this water and who have observed its effects in their practice believe that it relieves these maladies by rendering the digestion complete and thereby preventing the formation of those poisons which inflame the joints and irritate the nerves, and also by eliminating, through the kidneys, such poisons as have already been formed.

The following letters are interesting in this connection. Dr. Crosby, a South Carolina physician, writes:—"I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of Rheumatism, Chronic Indigestion, Kidney and Bladder troubles and in Nervous and Sick Headaches and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that, if used continuously for a reasonable time, will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter."

Dr. Avant of Savannah writes:—"I suffered for years with a most aggravating form of stomach disorder and consulted a number of our best local physicians, went to Baltimore and consulted specialists there and still I was not benefited. I had about despaired of living when I began to use Shivar Spring Water and in a short time was cured."

Mr. Rhodes of Virginia writes:—"Please send me ten gallons of Shivar Spring Water quickly. I want it for Rheumatism. I know of several who were cured of Rheumatism with this water."

Editor Cunningham writes:—"The water has done more good than any medicine I have ever taken for Rheumatism. Am entirely free from pain."

Mr. McClam of South Carolina writes:—"My wife has been a sufferer from Rheumatism and after taking twenty gallons of your Mineral Water was entirely cured of the horrible disease."

Mr. Carter of Virginia writes:—"Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints upon her hands, caused by Rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement. The water is simply excellent."

If you suffer with Rheumatism, or with any chronic disease, accept the guarantee offer below by signing your name. Clip and mail to the Shivar Spring.

Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, the entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me as most genuinely Christian." Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists; men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.

The lowest rates in the South, only $121 to $191 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address been most successful, since her methods correspond to those of the greatest teachers.

Cordially, your Cradle Roll Superintendent, Mrs. F. BULLOCK.

ADDITIONS TO THE FACULTY

"Miss Demuth is a young woman of unusual physical charm besides being the possessor of a beautiful lyric soprano voice."

For the preceding two years Miss Demuth has been a member of the music faculty of the Illinois Woman's College, Jacksonville, Ill., where she taught advanced pupils only in both piano and voice. She resigned her position there to become Elon's Director. We count ourselves fortunate in securing her services. She will give special attention to Glee Club, Choir, and Oratorio music as well as direct the department.

HEAD OF THE SUB-FRESHMAN DEPARTMENT

Prof. R. C. Cox, A. B., A. M., graduate of Elon and the University of North Carolina, and successful teacher in the high schools for many years, becomes head of the Sub-Freshman Department. His splendid executive ability, his high ideals, his rare talent as instructor will be felt to fine advantage by all those who come to the College not fully prepared for a Freshman Class. Removing conditions will be a pleasure under his skilled and sympathetic direction and supervision. Elon welcomes Professor Cox gladly.

ASSISTANT IN PIANO AND VOICE

Miss Mabel Harris, A. B. graduate of Western Maryland College as well as of its Conservatory of Music, becomes assistant in piano voice, and organ. Miss Harris won her A. B. degree "summa cum laude" and received the music medal as well. In her Junior year in College she received the piano diploma and took a post graduate course, which included Music History and Harmony, in her Senior year. She has had graduate work in Voice Culture under Frank E. Morse, Boston (Steinert Hall), and a teacher's course in piano under H. S. Wilder of the New England Conservatory, studying methods and doing the foundational work in the Virgil methods." She has studied interpretation of the great masters under Leon Sampaix and pipe organ under Frederiek Maxson. Miss Harris is a splendid soloist in both piano and voice and a skilled choir director. Her coming to Elon is most fortunate.

HEAD COACH AND DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Mr. C. C. Johnson, A. B., A. M., whose chief characteristic is that he is infected incurably with the Elon virus, becomes head coach and director of athletics. This means that Elon teams will be efficiently coached and that her athletics will be clean. Mr. Johnson is at Columbia this summer studying the very latest methods in physical culture for men and every Elon man will profit by this study. Mr. Johnson will be assisted by Mr. H. Lee Thomas, one of the best "gym" men Elon has ever produced.

NEW LIBRARIAN

Mrs. C. C. Johnson, having completed a special course in Library Methods at Columbia, becomes head librarian for the next year. She and her assistants will make the library and reading room fill an even larger place in the College life than in former years of great usefulness.

TEACHER OF VIOLIN

Mr. Talmadge Henry, Maysville, Ga., becomes teacher of Violin. Mr. Henry is a most talented artist and has had several years experience in teaching. He will have part in the orchestral work as well as in teaching his violin pupils. Music lovers will gladly welcome his coming.

ASSISTANT IN LATIN

Mr. W. J. Cotten, A. B., valedictorian of the class of 1915 a studious, ripe scholar for his years, becomes assistant in Latin. Mr. Cotton's splendid record as a student and as a man entitled him to this distinction and nobody doubts he will prove a valuable acquisition to the teaching staff.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE PLANT

Aside from the general repair work which is characteristic of every vacation and from the fumigating and disinfecting of every portion of the plant in the interest of health and sanitation, the most noteworthy improvements during the vacation have been as follows:

THE POWER HOUSE

The boiler capacity has been doubled in order to guard against any accident to the present boiler, which is ample for the heat, light and water system. In extremely cold weather, the doubled capacity will speak for itself. The College power plant is now a model in equipment as well as in up-keep and will be found even more valuable as an adjunct to the Physical Laboratory.

THE DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

This department last year outgrew its former laboratory and kitchen in the Alumni Building. It has been removed to the first floor of the Ladies' Hall and, besides being much enlarged, is modernly equipped throughout.

THE ALUMNI BUILDING

The radiation surface of all rooms in this building, with northern exposure, has been increased so far as to offset any emergency drop in the temperature. The Biological Laboratory has also been enlarged, made possible by the removal of the Domestic Science Department to the Ladies' Hall.

THE COLLEGE DINING HALL

A direct steam line from the boiler room of the power house has been connected up with the College kitchen and pantries, making the work of cleaning and sanitation more expeditious and convenient.

THE ART DEPARTMENT

Many new models have been provided for this department, which bids fair to enjoy a very prosperous year with decided increase in enrollment.

THE LIBRARY

Besides providing more adequate clerical force for this department and making many minor changes in the arrangement, looking to convenience and efficiency, about eight hundred additional volumes of standard works are to be shortly added.

THE CAMPUS

By the kindness and munificence of Brother John King, of Suffolk, Va., a landscape artist has been employed to furnish the College a blue print for beautifying the campus, showing location of walks, shrubs, rest places, flowers, etc., and a progressive policy of beauti-

"BILLY" SUNDAY

THE MAN AND HIS MESSAGE

By William T. Ellis, LL.D.

AUTHORIZED BY MR. SUNDAY

Tells the story of Mr. Sunday's eventful life, gives a keen analysis of his manner and methods and traces his remarkable success as the most conspicuous Christian leader in America, and also contains the heart of his message, arranged by subjects, including his vivid utterances, his startling epigrams and his homely, Lincoln-like illustrations that add to his tremendously earnest appeals. Published by special agreement for the use of copyrighted material and photographs.

fication is to be entered upon. Some work along this line was last year undertaken by the Christian Associations. They will have their part in the progressive policy just mentioned, and the co-operation of the student body generally will be abundant in this matter as in all progressive, forward-looking measures. Nature has made Elon a spot of unexcelled natural beauty. By co-operating with nature the campus will become a thing of beauty indeed and a joy forever to all who ever behold its loveliness.

COLLEGE AUDITORIUM

The choir space has been considerably enlarged, so as to enable more of the musically talented of the student body to secure the splendid training of this feature of the public worship. Provision is to be made also for a Junior choir for the Sunday services. Much stress is to be laid on the development of musical talent of all this year.

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES

Capt. H. E. Jorgenson, the popular and efficient teacher of the Commercial Department, becomes College Bursar next year. This announcement will please everybody.

Mrs. Florine Peace becomes matron of the West Dormitory. Herself an Elon product, having received her education here and having served the College so acceptably well as housekeeper of the building, Mrs. Peace's selection for this important post will readily commend itself to all as eminently wise and appropriate.

Mrs. Rose J. Machen returns, with renewed strength and vigor, to her former position as housekeeper of the West Dormitory. All the Elon family will congratulate the College on being able to have Mrs. Machen's splendid assistance in this important post.

Mrs. Dora Wheeler becomes matron of the Young Men's Co-operative Boarding Department, with Mr. J. C. Auman as manager. Mrs. Wheeler is not known to the Elon constituency, but she comes highly recommended and her satisfactory management is assured. Mr. Auman needs no recommendation for his past service speaks for itself.

Mr. C. B. Riddle becomes manager of the Young Ladies' Co-operative Boarding Department. Mr. Riddle will put this institution on a strictly business basis and hopes to reduce the expenses for all purposes there this session to the extremely low minimum of $60. Mrs. Sadie Jones remains as matron of this department, but being relieved of the business features of her work there, will be able to serve the young women even more acceptably than in former years. She needs no recommendation, her splendid services speaking for themselves.

Mr. W. L. Kinney becomes Student Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Kinney is thoroughly devoted to the religious and spiritual life of the College and of the Y. M. C. A.; Mr. W. B. Fuller, president of the Y. M. C. A.; and Mr. C. B. Riddle, president of the Christian Endeavor Society "Nuff sed."

Everybody will rejoice that Dr. W. P. Lawrence will resume his duties as Dean of Men with the opening of the Fall Term and that Miss Bessie Urquhart has escaped the Canadian conscription for the British army and so will continue to fill with her well-known and appreciated satisfaction the responsible post as Dean of Women.

There will be genuine regret that the Board of Trustees felt constrained to abolish the office of College Dean, which Dr. J. U. Newman has so long and so acceptably graced. The Doctor says he will by this change have more time for his regular work and this will in some measure compensate for the loss of his services from the administrative force.

Every student, Alumnus, and Faculty member will sympathize with Miss Pearl Fogleman, head of the Domestic Science Department, in the death of her mother on July 24.

Dr. J. U. Newman has spent the vacation in his matchless garden and among his mines of religious books. He has recently begun a series of articles for the religious press on the poetical beauties of the Psalms in which matter he is an acknowledged authority.

Dean W. P. Lawrence has spent the summer recuperating in the mountains of North Carolina, Watauga county. He is entirely recovered from his severe and prolonged illness of the winter and will be at the old stand in September.

Miss Bessie Urquhart, after learned pilgrimages in New York, Cambridge and Toronto, has been planning for "the girls" at her Hensall, Ontario, home.

Dr. E. E. Randolph was science professor in the Appalachian Training School this summer.

Dr. T. C. Amick has spent the summer in mathematical research at the University, fathered by T. Jefferson, Esq.

Prof. A. L. Hook has done research work in Physics, his chosen department, at the John Honpkuis University this summer.

Three members of the Faculty have worked at Columbia this summer. Prof. R. C. Glenn, of the History Department; Mr. C. C. Johnson, professor of basket ball, baseball, and 'gymns' stunts; and Mrs. C. C. Johnson, librarian.

Prof. N. F. Brannock, Capt. H. E. Jorgenson, and Miss Lois Davidson have enjoyed the good old-summer-time in peaceful, joyous rest and recuperation.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson has addressed numerous assemblies on as many themes written editorials between times and withal conducted himself in the dignified manner becoming a professor of Political Economy in these war times.

Dr. W. C. Wicker has travelled N. C. from "Dan to Beersheba" this summer on behalf of the Masonic fraternity, of which he is one of the State's most prominent members and most honored as well as capable.

Prof. R. C. Cox has been nestled for the heated term in the delightful mountains around Hiddenite, N. C.

If You Suffer From Stomach, Liver or Kidney Troubles

Here is a relief so absolutely certain that it can remove every doubt in your mind by the unqualified proof of making you well

Read every word of this statement. Let us prove it by the opinion of men and women who have exalted their names and their professions.

Nature's Own Remedy

First of all it is water. Pure sparkling mineral water from a spring noted the world over for its curative waters. We claim for it that it has made complete restoration to health in cases in which recovery has been deemed remarkable. We claim—and we are ready to send you the proof—that thousands of sufferers from stomach and organic troubles have completely regained their health and strength by the judicious and constant use of Fouticello Mineral Water. Please take this as a personal message. Ask yourself the question, "How can I rely upon the truth of this statement?" That is the question we want to answer. We want to prove our statements—to show what Fouticello Mineral Water has done—that generation after generation has tried it and have been cured by it. We have the written proof from eminent physicians, ministers of the Gospel, men and women in all walks of life. They will tell their own story in their own way, week after week, in this paper. Do you know any of the famous medical men of this country? Read this list—they have all endorsed Fouticello Mineral Water. Dr. Geo. Ben Johnson, Drs. J. C. Walton, Dr. John F. Winn, J. H. Mock,

A. M. Wheeler, J. Allison Hodges, Jacob Michaux, J. G. Trevilian, Stuart McGuire, Lewis Boscher, Hugh M. Taylor, John S. Wellford, Edward McGuire, Chas. V. Carrington, M. D. Hoge, Jr., Landon B. Edwards and hundreds of others. Their statements ring true.

M. E. Gary, 516 N. Eighteenth Street, Richmond, says he was suffering from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles and Tordid Liver. Dr. Geo. Ben Johnson urged him to try Fouticello Water. Read his own words: I confess I had but little faith in it at that time. To my surprise I began to rapidly improve and am now in better health than for years. My wife has also been drinking the water for NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA, so has derived great benefit. My son has been wonderfully benefited.

T. N. Gaines, of Richmond, Va.: "I have used Fouticello Water for the past month for Dyspepsia and Kidney Diseases and have been entirely relieved of both."

Mrs. J. W. Phaup, Manchester, Va.: "Have suffered three or four years from Dyspepsia. Fouticello Water was the only thing that gave me relief. I think a few more bottles will permanently cure me."

We could fill this paper year after year with thousands of testimonials like this. We will be glad to mail you many of them, but if you are a sufferer, we want you to try the water. We back every statement with a guarantee: if it doesn't help your trouble it costs you nothing.

Here's Our Proposition and Guarantee

We have proven by years of experience that it requires about three weeks for this water to show beneficial results. In that time you should drink about ten gallons of water. We will ship you two five gallon carboys with the understanding that if it does not benefit you WE WILL RETURN FULL PURCHASE PRICE, which is only $2.00. WE RECOMMEND THE WATER for Stomach, Kidney Liver and Bladder diseases, Rheumatism, Uric Acid, Gall Stones, Nervous, Debility Headaches resulting from impoverished blood.

Don't wait. A trial of this water costs you nothing if you are not benefited according to our claims.

OUR DEAD

Crews.

The funeral services of Mr. Joseph H. Crews were conducted from the residence, 812 Green street, Saturday afternoon, at 6 o'clock, Dr. J. E. Hicks, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Friends serving as pallbearers were as follows: Messrs. B. S. Motley, J. R. Tate, J. H. Griggs, C. B. Clements, C. H. Shepherd, F. H. Wheatley, Chas. Orchard, J. R. Reagan and C. W. Davenport.

Power-bearers: Messrs. P. F. Conway, S. D. Rickman, L. Herman, C. S. Wheatley, Z. V. Johnson, A. L. Fuller, S. C. Smith, W. T. Wright, C. T. Wilson, Geo. W. Chisholm, Jos. B. Anderson, J. A. Murray, J. W. Cook, Edwin Kettle, P. L. Booth, J. F. Parker, John B. Anderson, W. F. Thomas, G. M. Hamlett, and Doctors T. L. Sydnor, Julian M. Robinson, Chas. K. Carter, John B. Brewer and others.

Joseph H. Crews, son of Robert T. and Catherine Wilson Crews, was born in Halifax county, Va., July 17, 1852, and died in Danville, Va., July 22, 1915.

In early life Mr. Crews became a Christian and connected himself with Mt. Vernon Baptist church in his native county. When quite a young man he began his career as a school teacher, and had been a successful Christian educator in this and other States until a few months ago, when declining health forced him to give up his life work.

Many of his pupils from distant points journeyed to Danville to pay their last tribute of respect and to place floral emblems on the grave of their beloved teacher.

Mr. Crews married Miss Jeannie Wilson, of Caswell county, N. C., by whom he is survived, together with one son, Mr. J. H. Crews, of Chicago, and six daughters. Mrs. J. L. Reynolds, Misses Annie, George, Gena, Roberta and Lucile; also three grandchildren, Wilson, Catharine and Josephine Reynolds, all of Danville.

The surviving sisters are Misses Mary and Anne Crews, of this city and Mrs. E. L. Faber, of Richmond. The brothers are Dr. R. N. Crews, of Fulton, Mo., and Dr. C. C. Crews, of Tyler, Texas.

With the exception of the two brothers in distant states, the relatives mentioned and numerous others from adjacent points attended the last rites, which were in a beautiful spot in the Green Hill cemetery.—Danville, Va., Bee.

Brady

The church and town of Rameur have been saddened the past week in the almost sudden death of William Wesley Brady, who suffered a stroke of paralysis on last Sunday morning, which ended his life the following Wednesday.

He was a son of Thos. M. and Nancy Brady, and was 48 years, 6 months and 8 days old. He married Almeta Lowdermilk and they had four children—Floyd, Ava, Electa and Sheldon. These with the heart-broken mother survive him.

He professed faith in Christ in early life and united with the church at Antioch. When he moved to Rameur he did what Christians as a rule ought to do, united with the church at Rameur by letter, and was faithful in the discharge of his religious duties till death. He held the highest office in the gift of his local church, that of deacon, was the honored treasurer of the church, and a better sexton the church can never hope to have.

He was a member of the I. O. O. F. and Jr. O. U. A. M. and was a loyal member in both of these orders. We carried his remains to Pleasant Grove for burial, and a large company of sincere sympathizers from Franklinville and Rameur attended his funeral, which was conducted by his pastor and the Jr. O. U. A. M.

THE TROUBLE IS NOT INSIDE

The myriads of parasitic germs which cause Typhoid, Eczema, Kingworm, Itch, Acne, Rheum, etc., cannot be killed internally. They live and feed on the surface and must there be treated. Tetterine is the common sense treatment that has scientific principles to back it up. E. A. Kennedy, druggist of Brooklyn, Fla., says: "Tetterine has cured quickly and permanently several stubborn cases of tetter that came under my personal knowledge. One of 15 years standing." 50c at druggists' or by mail from Shuprine Co., Savannah, Ga. Ad.

A Foe to Tuberculosis

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 9, 1914), reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," said: "They (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."

Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alterative is calcium (lime), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a service which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, a trial is safe. Price $1 and $1 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

Opening Blind Eyes

Recently a blind man, who is a farmer, approached Rev. E. F. Goodson, Henderson, Kentucky, and handed him one hundred dollars to be sent to assist in preaching the Gospel in Africa. "I, myself," said the blind man, "have been deprived of physical sight and I want to be some help in giving spiritual vision to those who have it not." How much more should we, who have not been deprived of sight desire spiritual vision carried to those who sit in darkness. "Jesus said unto them, "Go and show the things which ye do hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear." (Mat. 11:4, 5.)

The Service of Idols

Recently a missionary in Travancore saw a convert place a heavy sack at his door. Upon enquiring it was found that the sack was full of idols—images of gods. "I do not want these," said the missionary, "But you have taught us not to need them," rejoined the convert and I thought they might be of some use. Could we not melt them down and make a bell for our church?" The work was done and now that bell, made of idol gods summons every Sunday morning many natives to its place of praise and prayer of the true God. So may our idols, and other dearest possessions, be made to praise God. "What agreement hath the temple of God with idols? For ye are the temple of the living God." (II. Cor. 6:16.)

"The Poor Heathen"

We hear much speaking and praying about "the poor heathen." Yes, they are poor. But "Why poor?" enquires The Lutheran. "Because the heathen have not received their share of the inheritance which the Father left us to give them." The big brother who has got possession of the best part of his father's estate withholds that which was legally and morally due other members of the family. He fastens his grip on that inheritance, refuses to let it go, and then pities (?) with tears and sorrow his "poor brothers." So does he in a Christian land who refuses to carry or send the light to those who wait in the dark places. The heathen are poor because we withhold and use their inheritance. "Ask of me and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance." (Psa. 2:8.)

A Friend

Just one friend has saved us in the crucial moment, turned us about when we were going wrong, encouraged us when we despaired, inspired us when we were languid, and strengthened us when we were weakest. So a human friend. But there is a Friend more helpful and powerful than this. James Freeman Clarke thus speaks of Him: "We have a Friend who knows us better than we know ourselves, loves us better than we love ourselves, helps us when we cannot help ourselves, and in the midst of our deepest despair breathes into our heart the breath of a new and divine hope." This the Friend that sticketh closer than a brother and will not fail us. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly; and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." (Prov. 18:24.)

Fighting the Plague

The death rate from tuberculosis has decreased since 1880 from 326 in every 100,000 of our population to 146.6. Knowledge of the disease, its causes and conditions has thus reduced the death rate more than one-half. And yet tuberculosis remains the great white plague, the most fatal foe to man in the realm of disease, and 10,000 consumptives annually "go West" to die. In its last or more violent stages it is incurable, fresh air and wholesome food being the only restorative in its incipient and milder form. The "white plague" is that slow but sure heat which burns out, by insensible degrees, the fountains of life, the wick and the oil being burnt up before their time. Was this the plague referred to in Rev. 16: 8, 9, "And power was given him to scorch men with fire. And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues; and they repented not."

Barbarians and Barbarians

The Record of Christian Work points out that troops from the Fiji islands are volunteering, for the present war in Europe, under the British flag. The fathers of these troops were wild savages and cannibals. Wise men of state and politics thought it the sheerest madness to spend money in trying to Christianize them. But the missionary went on his way in the name of his Master and the Fijians were Christianized. Now these erstwhile savages are volunteering to save Europe from its savagery and barbarity. And throughout China thousands of converted Chinese are praying daily that Europe may soon return to sanity and submit to the reign of the Prince of Peace. A distinguished Chinese Christian recently said, "The foreigner has been praying for the Chinese barbarians for many years. Now it is the turn of the Chinese to pray for the foreign barbarians." Truly did an inspired one describe the kingdom in these words, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male or female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." (Gal. 3:28.)

Dollars and the Man

Both Church and State recognize that the educated man is an asset. On this account both Church and State subsidize the man or woman seeking collegiate or university education. That is to say, no man or woman attending college or university pays by one-half even the cost of his or her instruction while there. The United States Commissioner of Education has recently issued a Report showing that Cornell students pay only 26% the cost of their tuition, Howard students 34% of the cost of their tuition, Harvard students 34% Possibly a report from Church and State colleges throughout the country would show a similar average. But this is a subsidy well granted and an investment widely made, for your college—or university educated man or woman in the forming is worth all that can be society, provided the education has been of the right type, many fold more valuable than all the dollars invested therein. Every man and woman in the forming is worth all that can be done for him or her. The good Book puts such a value on man in these words, "For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and has crowned him with glory and honor. Thou madest him to have dominion * * * ; thou hast put all things under his feet." (Psa. 8:5, 6.)

Sources of Education

One learns at college not books, but men. The personal factor has ever been, will ever be, the most powerful in one's educational asset. President Garfield expressed not a personal, but a universal idea when he said that President Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and he on the other would be the best university for him. When that keen old observer and high-minded thinker, Marcus Aurelius, Roman Emperor and moralist, wanted to tabulate and indicate the source of his education, he made a list of persons who had taught him, placing his grand-father at the head, then his father and his mother. It is not so much the kind of books that a pupil studies, as it is the kind and character of teacher that instructs, that influences the life and shapes the destiny of the pupil. The world is filling up with indifferent and immoral college graduates because there are so many college teachers who are themselves immoral in their habits and indifferent to religion. Godless schools and irreverent teachers have done more than all other forces combined to bring on this cruel and heartless war in Europe. The course of this present generation is irreverence; and irreverence is nowhere so apparent, nor so powerful as in schools and colleges where Mind and Culture are worshipped as gods and Soul and Religion are scorned or ignored. "I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil." (Rom. 16:19.)

—The Germans last week completed their capture of Warsaw, the Polish capital and third largest city of Prussia. The fighting around Warsaw for day was fearful and many thousand men on both sides were slain or captured.

A GREAT PROGRAM

The program of the church is no small one. It is sufficient in scope to challenge the genius and the strength of the wisest and most mighty.

The Church is undertaking nothing less than the carrying a whole gospel to the whole world. Society is to be regenerated from bottom to top. Poverty is to be banished from the world, and corruption everywhere is to be done away. Jealousy and ignorance and prejudice and drunkenness and divorce and inequality and injustice are to be eliminated. Men are to do these things, and not angels; the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is to compass this, and not some alien or mystical agency.

But the church is not taking its task seriously enough; is not carrying out its program with vigor and violence. It is a man's task; and many feel that it may be left to women and children. Hence the names of more women than of men are on the Church rolls.

All the strength of all the Churches is needed for the tremendous task. But the Church is not utilizing one-half its strength for any purpose or any undertaking. The very few do all the giving, and the few do not give one-half as they are able and as God prospers them. The few do all the planning, and they do not plan as wisely and as efficiently as they might.

And so the great mass of members hang as a mill-stone about the neck of the Church. They consider the Church as a good thing to hold on to, but not worthy of help, or deserving of sacrifice.

What the Church needs today as never before is an efficiency program—organized for business, and vigorous in action.

The question that confronts the Christian Church today is, How can we bring about efficiency in the Church? Get the many to do their part and the few to lead them to better and bigger tasks? The Christian denomination is not today doing one-tenth of what it can do, even to the profit and prosperity of its individual membership, either for education, for missions, for benevolence, for extension.

We travel at a snail's pace because we have not grasped the greatness of our program and the mightiness and the glory of the task before us.

COMING TOGETHER

Hebrew Christians are setting Gentile Christians a goodly example. They are getting together. They held their first General Conference in New York April 6 to 9 of this year and their published minutes are before us. There were delegates present from Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Canada.

The Conference was called to order by their President, Rev. S. B. Rohold. The song used in opening was "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The scripture read was I Peter, 2nd chapter. The president in welcoming the delegates said: "It goes without saying that every Hebrew Christian's heart yearns for a union of Hebrew Christians, and longs for a fellowship with his own brethren who have left Judaism and have become humble followers of the lowly Nazarene, Jesus, the Christ of God. This can only be possible by a spiritual uplifting and a real Christ—union of the Hebrew Christians."

The object of this Hebrew Christian Alliance seems to be to bring together in one body all those who have left Judaism and accepted

Christ as Saviour and Messiah. Furthermore the Alliance seems a plan by united effort to reach the Jews of America and Canada and preach to them Jesus and Him crucified. Thousands are forsaking Judaism and turning to Christ, and the words which He spake are coming to pass. "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." (John 17:37.)

THE USE OF "YOU" IN PRAYER

In a public gathering the other day a college graduate was called on to lead in prayer. To the surprise, not to say the humiliation, of many present the brother used "you" in appealing to God. That made the whole prayer irreverent, not on the part of the one leading the prayer, as he was one of the most reverential men, but certainly on the part of the more intelligent members of the audience. If our brother had considered a moment he would have known that there was no Biblical justification for such usage, the more-formal and reverent thou and thee being used solely. Or if that was not sufficient our brother's knowledge of English would have stood him in better stead; for you, since the thirteenth century, has been used in the plural, and interchangeable with ye, as is evidenced by being connected in our time with a plural verb. Our brother would not, we presume, say "you is!" He would naturally say "you are." And yet "are" is plural. And we know our brother did not believe in a plurality of Gods! But even worse: "You," as a pronoun of direct address is used only in addressing very familiar friends, indicating equality, or in addressing inferiors. So coming to the analysis of it the use of "you" in intercessory prayer is, first, unbiblical, second, ungrammatical and third, irreverent—though one using it may not be either, and have only the highest and holiest motive in view. But every public speaker, even in prayer, must have some regard for the minds, thoughts and hearts of those who hear.

PRECIOUS PROMISE TESTAMENT

We wonder if all Christian SUN readers are accustomed to read their Bibles daily and would like to have a New Testament for that purpose, light to handle, substantial in binding, easy to read? We have just received for examination and review in these columns such a Testament entitled, "Precious Promise Testament," so named we presume because every promise in the New Testament is here printed in red. And then in the back of the book there is a complete index to every subject and important word in the New Testament. To our minds it is one of the most inviting Testaments brought from the press in a long time. It sells for $1.00, measures 3 3/4 x 6 inches, and is Divinity Circuit. It is certainly a beautiful and convenient book and is easy on the eye and the index a pleasure indeed. If Christian SUN readers are looking for the best they will certainly get it in this book, both in binding, appearance and convenience. If desired the SUN could furnish the book at the price named.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—The Defiance College Bulletin, Vol. 8, No. 4, is made up largely of college views and shows in artistic style the attractions of the college plant. The Bulletin is an inviting number and does credit to the great and growing institution that issues it.

—Secretary McAadoo of the Treasury has received a plea from a farmer's wife in Oklahoma for $1,000. "If you will do this," reads the pitiful plea, "I can purchase two cows, an automobile and a set of false teeth—all of which are absolutely essential to farm life." There are some queer necessities in our time.

—Rev. R. P. Crumpler changes his address from Stem to Wendell, N. C. Bro. Crumpler is a successful High School principal and goes to Wendell for the position there to which he was recently chosen. Some of our Churches should have Bro. Crumpler as pastor, as his talent and services are needed there.

—Miss Alice True writes joyously of the Craigville, Mass., Christian Camp Meeting, July 6-Aug 1. The meeting was better attended this year than last and a splendid program was executed. The exercises were much of the nature of our Seaside Chautauqua at Virginia Beach and Miss True thinks were exceedingly helpful and inspiring to those who attended.

—The United States Health Department has dropped into rhyme after this fashion:

"Baby-bye, here's a fly,
Let us swat him, you and I."

And this line of poetic prose is added in explanation. "The common house-fly is no longer an object of tolerant interest, but has become an object of hatred and distrust. He is known to be the principal factor in the distribution of the germs of typhoid."

—The Young Men's Christian Association of Chicago is to erect a hotel 19 stories high, containing 1,800 sleeping rooms and a lobby with a seating capacity of over one thousand in which the guests are to be entertained every evening with moving pictures and stereoptical lectures. The minimum charge for a night's lodging is to be 25 cents, maximum charge, 40 cents. The building complete is to cost $1,100,000. Eleven Chicago citizens subscribed $50,000 each to the enterprise.

—Rev. H. Russell Clem, Springfield, Ohio, sends us a very neatly printed copy of the "Program Twenty-fourth Annual Session of the Mt. Vernon Christian Conference, Centerville, Ohio, Oct. 6 to 9, 1915." This is what we call business sense in preparing a program on time. The devotional services each day are to be conducted by Rev. J. P. Barrett, D. D., and in addition there is to be an evangelistic sermon each forenoon, afternoon and evening, except Friday evening when the Woman's Board meets.

—Rev. J. G. Truitt has enjoyed two glorious revivals in the churches of which he is pastor. The first was at Mt. Herman in Wake county, where the church was greatly edified and united for Christian service and there were ten conversions with eight accessions. At Pleasant Grove, Halifax county, Va., last week there were 25 conversions and 20 accessions to the Church. Good audiences gathered daily, reports Bro. Truitt, to hear Bro. Victor Lightbourne, the evangelist who assisted the pastor in the work. Mrs. Lightbourne also added much to the meeting by her inspiring song. The people were highly pleased with Bro. Lightbourne and his work.

—In a letter which the editor, as minister, has received, and which letter was evidently sent to other ministers of the Southern Christian Convention, by President W. A. Harper, appears these lines: "I That you will pray God's blessing upon Elon, her faculty, and students, in public and private. I have personally never felt so keenly the need of the prayers of the brethren as at this time. Intercession is not only the need of the missionary situation; it is the prime need of your College. Pray for us." This seems to us a most worthy thought appropriately expressed. The purpose of this note, however, is that we may ask others than pastors to join in this intercession. A Christian College is a boon and a blessing and should be the subject of gratitude and intercession.

—From The State Journal, Raleigh, we glean the following gratifying information: "There is a prospect that the Piedmont Railway and Electric Company will go to Elon College, the College agreeing to sell its town lighting system to them. This will be a distinct gain for the town, because power can be had for manufacturing. The College lighting plant is already taxed to its full capacity. This will eventually mean the extension of the inter-urban car line to Elon."

—The following from the Alamance Gleaner, Graham, will be of gratifying interest to many SUN readers: "On the 3rd of February Dr. Geo. W. Long was carried to the Stokes-Whitehead Sanitorium, Salisbury. After being there under treatment six weeks he was carried to the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for an operation. The Dr. left there yesterday for home after an absence of five months and arrived here at 8:20 this morning. He is looking remarkably well, but has not yet fully recovered from the operation. The treatment has been long and tedious and attended with much discomfort and suffering. It is gratifying and delightful to see the Dr. home with family and friends again, and it is hoped that ere long he will be his former self again."

—Of the Chautauqua at Virginia Beach which he attended and of which he was a part. Dr. O. W. Powers, writing under date Dayton, O., July 30, says: "The whole session was delightful, not only because of the character of the work done, and the opportunity for rest and recreation afforded, but by reason of the spirit of fellowship and mutual helpfulness manifested. The freedom of utterance accorded, and the absence of any appearance of restraint on the part of teachers and lecturers was noteworthy. Each seemed to feel at liberty to speak out the best that was in him, trusting in the ability of his brethren to appropriate what they needed or approved, and to their willingness to listen without prejudice. We need more such occasions. Thus will we know each other better, and be strengthened for our work by the mutual interchange."

—We wish all our friends who think to visit us this year would accept this notice as a personal invitation and come right now. Here is the way Mrs. Atkinson served today at dinner—(no 6 p. m. "dinner" either, but a square henst 12 o'clock dinner) corn, peas, butter beans, cabbage, ham, sliced tomatoes, baked Irish potatoes, corn bread, okra sliced potato pie (this year's potatoes) and sweetmilk. The vegetables all from our own garden! We had everything heart could wish, save buttermilk (yesterday was Sunday and they didn't churn); and if Dr. Staley, pastor of the Suffolk church, who thinks he can fish, but can't, and Editor Harris, chief-priest of the Charlotte Observer staff, who could spell in days of the old metal, but can't in these days of the linotype, will come, we will send for a jug of that—that of course having none other reference whatever than to buttermilk, an abundance of which our neighbors always have on hand. It is certainly glorious to be living now. Don't put off coming, beloved

Brethren and Sisters of the Eastern N. C. Christian Conference, please read this:

There never was a time for home-mission work in this conference with a door so wide open for mission efforts as now. I am continually getting requests in new fields, either by letters or verbal request for help. Will we go in and possess them. We are ble to do it, if we will believe we can, and put forth our best endeavors, trusting in God for help. Will we do it? Or will we let the wonderful opportunities pass on to others?

Now, I am praying and begging each church to raise all home mission funds apportioned, and then add to that 12 1-2 per cent. in order to give some aid in their new fields. Dear Brethren and sisters of the Eastern N. C. Conference, I have faith in you to believe you will meet this call. I have my eyes on a field, for which we must have the additional amount for which we ask. Meet this request and then send your reports up to Conference, showing you have met it, and you will feel much happier.

W. G. CLEMENTS,
H. M. E. N. C. C. C.

NOTICE

The securing of a place to hold the next session of the E. Va. Christian Sunday School Convention was left with the executive committee. Any church desiring to entertain the convention will please inform the committee as early as possible that this matter may be settled.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The Editor has insisted that I keep up "Suffolk Letter" during my vacation; but out of harness is no help to pull.

I came home Tuesday afternoon through a driving wind and rain storm in a buggy by myself and got as wet as Dr. Atkinson would be overboard in a millpond.

Rev. W. G. Clements was conducting a meeting at Oak Level and my folks had returned before the rain; but at noon and during the service a tornado struck near the church and touched the church and grounds. Dinner tables and buggies were overturned in the grove, window panes were knocked out of the church windows, and Mr. James Pearce's barn, about two hundred and fifty yards from the church, was completely destroyed. The wagon axle was broken, buggy axle bent, timbers and contents of the barn scattered far away. A piece of roofing was brought from six miles away to match it and found to be a part of the barn roof. His residence was not injured and his mules were not in the stalls and hence not injured.

Our dinner table was blown over in one direction and our carriage in the opposite direction and lodged together in the church yard with serious damage.

In the church women and children screamed and one woman fainted; but nobody was injured.

Two days after this a horse ran away while I was preaching, turned his buggy over, ran against another buggy and turned that over, broke the shafts from the buggy and dashed through the graveyard and was finally caught, the buggy righted up and driven home that day.

If the city people think they have all the excitement and experience and news, let them come out to a country protracted meeting with tornadoes, runaway horses and big crowds. The country is not the tamest part of the South.

The meeting continued the usual number of days, brought in the usual number of converts and members and closed this (Friday) afternoon. Brother Clements goes to Good Hope for a meeting next week and I go to Lousburg tonight and out to Mt. Gilead tomorrow to deliver an address at Children's Day exercises. Then I will return to my home to do a little manual work to strengthen my muscles and my nerves and prepare for fall and winter work.

My fair women folks are in fair health on this fair day in this fair land of ours. "Home! Sweet Home!" looks so good on paper and feels so good in the heart; but it is only that when Christ dwells in the home.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Many words of praise from many quarters have been received relative to the SUN's Elon edition of last week. We tip our hat in acknowledgment.

The Opening Number of the College Bulletin goes to the friends this week. It preaches the Elon doctrine all right, and will contain 32 illustrations of College life.

The President's office reports the friends more interested than ever in the College. Every day letters roll in sending names and applications. It is announced that a splendid opening is anticipated.

Dr. T. C. Amick and wife returned from the University of Virginia Summer School. Dr. Amick is to teach in that Summer School next session—a deserved recognition.

Dr. E. E. Randolph and wife are here from the Appalachian Training School at Boone, N. C., where Dr. Randolph has been Science Teacher this summer. They report Dr. Lawrence as rapidly improving.

Miss Mary Pritchard, Chapel Hill, N. C., class of 1905, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. A. A. Riddle. She and Mrs. Riddle leave for New York on the 17th. Mrs. Riddle is to take a short course in Cooper Union and select new models for the Art Studio.

Mrs. P. C. Richmond, Youngsville, N. C. visited her cousin, Mrs. J. H. Farmer this week.

Visitors at Dr. Watson's the past week were: Mr. J. H. Watson, Graham, N. C., and Mr and Mrs. A. G. Garrison, Union Ridge, N. C.

Revs. W. L. Wells and A. F. Banks were pleasant callers at the Hill the past week, Both these brethren are making good in their charges.

Mr. Archy Pritchette who holds a responsible position with the S. A. L., at Hamlet, N. C., visited his father here the past week.

Miss Thelma Stone is guest at this writing of Miss Lila Newman.

The executive committee of the Christian Publishing House met here on Thursday evening to consider increasing the SUN to 16 pages. They regretted that it was impossible to undertake this step yet.

The Executive Board of Trustees of the College will meet here on Tuesday, the 10th, to take final steps completing the Faculty for next year and arranging for the opening.

Dr. Atkinson and President Harper go to the Valley, Va., Central Conference at Trone, W. Va., on Wednesday night.

Mr. C. B. Riddle has been forced to take a rest because of a return of his mastoid trouble, for which he underwent an operation in New York about sixteen months ago. He deserves the rest, tho the Office Force need him, and here is wishing him a speedy restoration.

Capt. Jorgenson is suffering from a carbolic acid burn at this time. He hopes soon to be locomoting again. He is to be Elon's bursar next year.

Miss Demuth, the Musical Director, will not arrive at the College till Aug. 30. Her engagement with the New York Chautauqua does not permit her to arrive earlier. It is expected that her first recital will be given immediately on the opening of the College.

Dr. Wicker reports a gracious revival at Hine's Chapel last week as does Rev. L. O. Cox at Pleasant Hill.

"X."

PORTO RICO LETTER

Editor of the Sun:

Last week I described the homes of the poor in the country, those of the city are an improvement in some respects but do not seem to me as sanitary as these built of palm leaves from the fact that in the little palm leaf shacks the fresh air has plenty of places to enter while the shacks built in the city of boards are tight, and the people, dozens or more, are shut in all night without any ventilation until it is no wonder that many of the poor of this island have tuberculous.

In the poorer sections of Ponce the houses are built of whatever material the occupant can obtain—boards, slabs, pieces of soap boxes, oil cans, etc. The result gives a curious patchwork appearance and is a true indication of the poverty of the people who are obliged to live in such shacks. The roofs are of corrugated zinc or tin, oil cans frequently being utilized. The floors are of boards and raised from six inches to two feet above the ground. The houses are crowded closely together and often located on low ground, so the sun and air can not reach the damp and moldy air beneath them. This is a source of disease, and where ever the builder of a home has sufficient money to secure material for foundation the house is put up on stilts three or four feet, and the children and the goats have a fine time playing underneath. Several times I have passed houses where a hammock has been swung under the house for the baby, and it seems perfectly contented there.

Speaking of goats, reminds me of a funny sight I witnessed the other day. I had been out to the Blind Asylum, and there used to be a statue erected in the square just above the building to some one, but the statue had been taken down, but upon the base the goats with their kinds had climbed for a nice nap in the sun, I counted four goats and six kids sleeping there very contentedly. The poor people take great care of their goats, as they depend upon them for milk, and it is no uncommon thing when it rains to take the goat and her kids into the house. The other day it was raining quite hard and I heard a racket out on the balcony, and upon going to see what was the matter found an old goat with two kids come to get in out of the rain. I drove them off, and at every step the little kids bleated their dislike to the rain, so the old mother took them across the street to a family of native Porto Ricans, who not being as hard hearted as "the Americano" allowed them to remain until the shower was over.

Almost every day we have a shower, for a few minutes the rain just pours, and then the sun comes out bright and warm and dries up the earth until in an hour there is no mud at all. Once in a while it rains all day, not a gentle rain like we are accustomed to, but a steady down pour, and then the streets become very muddy, and men sweep the crossings, as I have read in books they used to do, but in none of my travels had I ever visited a city before where there were the crossing sweepers. They do not do it for alms, as I have read that they did in London, but the city authority employs them to keep clean the crossings in the central portion of the city, away from the business houses, one has to wade, and my over-shoes are a great comfort to me.

So far I have told the readers of the SUN only of the poorer class in Porto Rico. Last week I was at the home of one of the wealthy citizens, and found it magnificently furnished with solid mahogany. A wall about ten feet high shut out the street completely and a large yard was filled with the rarest of flowers, in full bloom, a balcony ran along the entire length of the house, and in front of the dining room widened out into a bay, where the table was set, and where the family dine amid a beauty that reminds one of paradise. The high wall served two purposes, it gave seclusion to the family, and it shut out the constant stream of poverty-stricken people that would for me at least have spoiled all enjoyment that I otherwise would have obtained from the beautiful surroundings. Here all the missionary ladies and a number of Porto Ricans meet once a month and sew for St. Luke's hospital, making sheets, pillow cases, and clothing for the charity patients.

Last Friday afternoon I was invited by my Spanish teacher to talk to her select school of young ladies, the older girls all being able to understand English. Blood will tell always, and these daughters of a pure Castilian race, were the most beautiful set of young ladies I had ever seen, they were extremely bright, too, and asked many questions about the countries that they were studying. These girls are taught all the accomplishments, music, painting, languages—Spanish, English, French, Italian and German, and fitted to become the wives of wealthy men and as I talked I sent up a silent prayer that when these girls were grown to womanhood they would use their influence in having the huts of the poor pulled down and replaced by sanitary buildings which will rent at a nominal sum, for I realized that if Ponce is ever to take up the "Welfare movement for a City Beautiful" the work must originate with the women of the wealthier class. And so I told them of what women in other cities were doing, and showed them a few pictures, which I had collected in my travels and then spoke of the wonderful beauty of Porto Rico, and especially of the opportunity of transforming this into one of the most beautiful cities in the world.

Until I am able to talk Spanish I am very little use down here, so the greater part of my time is engaged in study. I have a few sentences which I have learned that I use while visiting the homes of the poor, and I listen patiently to what they say, but do not understand them at all. They talk faster than I can comprehend, and so I am teaching a class in English at our Sunday school. Mr. Barrett gave me the class of boys who are the first year in the high school, as they understand and speak English fairly well, and as I go along the street I ask every boy that I meet if he can speak English, and if he can I then invite him to join my class, and the result is that I have just the nicest, most interesting class, and the study hour is all too short for us. Not always can I teach the lesson just as it is given, some times I see by the faces of the boys that they do not understand some reference I make, and so I back and explain some other part of the Bible, the boys who have been attending Sunday school helping me if they are able to do so. I have started the boys working for a hundred members, and when we have that number enrolled will write and tell the SUN about the class. One of my friends in Troy, Ohio, sent me a number of Sunday school papers that were not used at our Sunday school and I gave them out last Sunday, but I was very careful to explain to the boys that I could not do this every Sunday, because when I first started the class I gave each boy that joined a copy of St. Matthew printed in Spanish which had been given me in New York City. After a time the supply was exhausted and I had a time making them understand that I could not keep this up. "But, Miss Williams," they say "you gave to him, why not give to me." I tell them I can not, "but you will next Sunday?" they insist. It is very hard to make them realize that there is not an endless source some where from which we can get everything they want.

MAKING LIFE WORTH LIVING
Luke 12: 13-23.

BY REV. R. L. WILLIAMSON

Is life worth living? This is a question that is being asked by many in this age of stress and striving. Some are answering in the negative, and cking out a doleful existence, tired of the burdens of life, yet dreading to lay them down. Others are enjoying that life abundant that proves to themselves and to the world that such lives are worth while.

So we might ask and try to answer the question: "How may life be made worth living," in the grandest sense? The true life does not depend upon environment or acquisition, as we may learn from the parable of the lesson. One of the rich man's mistakes was in believing that the deeper longings of his nature could be satisfied by material things. We are apt to make the same mistake. It is not what we possess of this world's goods, but the attitude of mind and heart that determines life's value for us. Discontent often abides in palaces of luxury; while contentment and happiness rest sweetly in the homes of poverty. Not because of the abundance in the first instance or poverty in the second, but because of the difference in the inner life. Noble aspiration and ambition are to be encouraged, but selfish ambition can never bring the greatest blessings.

Another mistake this man made was to ignore the needs around him. He was self-centered; and a selfish life can never be a happy one, or one that counts for much to the individual or to others. We must have "soul room," as one has said—room for the noble virtues and graces to grow. Selfishness narrows and hardens the life until it is not suitable soil for the deep feelings of joy and happiness that lift life's cares and toils from the irksome routine to a place of real delight in service. What we give in service or sympathy to others breaks up the fallow ground of our hearts, enlarges our views of life, and gives us larger capacity for enjoyment. Christ told the young man who desired eternal life to sell what he had, give to the poor and follow Him. He saw that covetousness was destroying the best that was in the young man, and this was the remedy to make that life really worth living.

One of the saddest things is to see one who has grown old in selfishness, whose deeper emotions and sympathies have been suppressed until the whole life is embittered and is just a round of discontent and complaint. Not so with those whose feelings have been touched by the need and sorrow of others, and have responded again and again until their cheerful and sunny dispositions show that they have learned that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Lastly, to "make life worth living," we must be in harmony with God's will. This is most important. The spiritual is the real self, and that cries out for the living God, wealth, education, culture, friends may be a blessing when we give Him the first place in the heart. But without Him there is "a void the world can never fill." Luray, Va.

—Rev. H. E. Rountree, pastor of Portsmouth First Church on a recent Sunday night held graduating exercises for his teachers' training class. An elaborate program was carried out and the occasion was appropriate.

Jeroboam Leads Israel Into Sin.

I Kings 12:35, 33

Golden Text: Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them. Exod. 20:4, 5.

Israel at the time of the Queen of Sheba's visit was greatly blessed under Solomon's reign. It seems Israel's resources were unlimited in everything that could be thought of. Yet in binding the people together in purpose and interest Solomon failed to accomplish.

The consequences that followed under the reign of Rehoboam showed that all did not have the same purpose. The young man, Rehoboam, was ambitious. His first thought was to consult old men, who had had experience in governmental affairs. He did not stop with the splendid advice received from the settled brains. He sought the advice of his fellows, who were probably less wise than he. We find that the kingdom was torn asunder and Israel divided.

Rehoboam's friends (the tribe of Judah and Benjamin) followed him while those who were opposed to his rash threats followed Jeroboam.

Jeroboam was self-centered. He wanted to keep the position he had obtained. In order to do this he reasoned that he would have to give Israel something to worship. Fearing that if the people went to Jerusalem to worship in the Temple they would go back to Rehoboam, he set up images and bade the children of Israel to worship them.

In Jeroboam's first steps as king he distrusted God. From a worldly point of view Jeroboam was making his kingdom strong, fortifying cities, etc., but he left God out. This did mean and still means final decay. The individual who is so short sighted as to leave out the Divine element while he or she is planning the life-work will soon become unhappy and unprofitable to the world. A strong physical and mental man with plenty of resources for a mighty kingdom fell down.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC, AUG. 15.

Be True to Your Ideals. Acts 20:12, 19 (An Honorary Members' Meeting.)

Paul had an ideal before he went to Damascus. He was carrying out that ideal to the best of his ability. He was diligent, persistent and honorable. He did the tasks before him so well that Christ saw there was something in the man. Then Paul got his life's ideal in a vision. He knew and realized the power that had appeared to him. We hear the words ringing: "Whereupon, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." We know the story of Paul's life; how successful he was. It was because he had an ideal and followed that ideal.

What is our ideal? Is it as worthy as that of Paul's? If it is not; then we are falling short of the best that is in life. When we begin a task it is half done; when we know exactly what we are going to do and the final results to be obtained. This may be applied to a life with an ideal—it's so much more pleasant to live when we know we are living right and doing right and doing just what God wants us to do.

We ought to always attain the highest ideals. One of the best and surest ways to get on the right side is through prayer. God wants us to talk to Him about our life and the plans we make. Surely He will guide the honest seeker in his quest for the true ideal.

SHE AND I

She was a Chinese girl, and I was her neighbor. She was saved from the dogs when she came into the world only because the family needed another slave. I was gladly received and royally welcomed, and consecrated to God. She was given no name, but was called "slave." My name denotes preciousness. She was sold in childhood to be the wife of a child. I was tenderly cared for, sent to school and then to college. Her feet were broken and bound "untid they looked like a goat's feet," when she was five years old. I remember my mother's searching the town to find comfortable shoes for my fast growing feet. She saw sin face-to-face, from babyhood. I was carefully shielded. She had no choice a sto whom she would marry, and became a slave in a home with other wives of her husband. I choice as to whom she would marry was the beloved and only wife in our home. She homed in a rude little mud house with mud-bed, mud cook-place, and mud walls. My home was white, airy and clean, with many modern conveniences. In her country it is indelicate to speak of one's wife; and she never appeared in public with her husband. My husband and I were chums, and he liked to have me with him wherever he went. She, and every wife in that dark country expects to be beaten hard. If my husband had beaten me, he would have been returned to America by our fellow countrymen there, as unworthy to carry on the work he was engaged in. Her husband died, and she was blamed for his death and held in fearful bondage in his home. My husband died, and my parents and parents-in-law could hardly await my return, so eager were they to comfort and care for me. Her baby came, and went to the dogs, because there were already too many mouths in that family. My baby is the particular joy and pride of two house-holds, and he would get the last bite of food any one of us had. She will probably kill herself to end her miserable existence, as so many thousands of women in her country do every year. I shall be lovingly provided for as long as any of my people live, and there are friends who will gladly help me till my Father calls me Home. And after death there is nothing but darkness for her, and nothing but brightness for me.

Why the difference? She was born into a land for which Satan done his worst. I and you were brought up in a country where Christ is known and served,—that's the difference. Out of gratitude to God for what He has done for us and out of pity for her and the millions in her condition, let us send the Light into the Darkness.

WOMAN'S BOARD MEETING

The S. C. C. Woman's Missionary Board in their meeting at Elon College, in May, adjourned to meet during the Chautauqua at Virginia Beach to attend whatever business might claim its attention. The resignation of Mrs. J. J. Lincoln as a member of the Board and as Supt. of Literary Mite Boxes was accepted and Mrs. A. F. Smith of Cardenas, N. C., was elected to take her place. The committee appointed to recommend someone as Field Secretary and organizer reported that possibly Miss Annie Williams of Burlington, N. C., could be secured and Miss Williams was elected to begin work in September.

The matter of publishing a Woman's Missionary Magazine was discussed, but it was decided to postpone the matter for the present. We believe there is a great need for such a publication, and it is hoped that at some time in the near future such a movement may be inaugurated.

Again it was urged that all societies elect their officers for the coming year in September, so that a correct list of these may appear in connection with the Annual Conference in the Fall.

CONCERNING THE WORK

We have now three Bible Women in Japan, Miss Hamaguchi in Tokio, Miss Watouche, in Dinogawa and Miss Hana Yashida in Ichinaseki. The latter is a graduate from Mrs. Fry's school and has just recently been appointed a Bible Woman.

In Wakunya, a church was dedicated in December, known as the Rowelle Memorial.

The cheering news comes that the money has been provided for the purchase of the lot adjoining the Ponce Church.

Mrs. Fry writes "Last Friday six of the school, one kindergarten mother and a lady of 68 were baptized at Yajo Church, Utsunomiya. Sunday two more of the school were baptized, again making all the school Christian. Fumiko Sato hopes to go to Defiance."

The Western Memorial is to be finished this summer at Ichinoseki.

My Dear Children and Friends:
 We yielded our space last week to President Harper and his excellent Educational Number of the SUN, so we give two weeks' report this time.
 It was our pleasure and good fortune to be with Rev. J. G. Truitt and his excellent people at Pleasant Grove, Va., on Sunday and Monday of their revival. The Orphanage has many loyal and faithful friends in this congregation. It was a pleasure to talk Orphanage with them. The ladies are canning fruit for us; the men are getting up a shipment of wheat.
 We are now rushing to get off to the Valley Conference, and will ask our friends to excuse a short letter.

Clayton, N. C., Aug. 5, 1915.
 Dear Uncle Jim:—Here I come with my dime for August. I am well, hope you and the cousins are also well. We have had a nice rain. Rev. A. T. Banks assisted our pastor in his meeting at Amelia. We had a good meeting.
 Uncle Jim, mother said she would send you a barrel of peaches in about two weeks. She would can them but she has not the time. Will close with love.

Ashley Breedlove.
 Glad to get your letter and dime and to learn of your good meeting. Tell your mother we shall be very glad and grateful to receive her barrel of peaches.

Magnolia, Va., July 23, 1915.
 Dear Uncle Jim—I guess it is time for me to write again. How are all at the Orphanage getting along this warm weather? Fine, I hope. It is awful warm down here. Enclosed you will find ten cents, my dime for July.
 Lovingly, Anie Lee Felton.
 Many of our children are away on visits; the rest of us are working away longing for our time to come.
 Suffolk, Va., July 30, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—Enclosed please find one dollar for the Orphanage. Hope you and the dear little children are having a delightful vacation. Love and good wishes for this noble cause.
 J. T. Williams, Jr.,
 Katharine Williams,
 Thomas Williams.
 Many thanks for your liberal help.

 Dear Uncle Jim:—Where is our corner this week, Uncle Jim? You surely must have forgotten to leave a space for us. We have just been on a trip to Durham, Hillsboro and to see our Grandpa McCauley at Mebane. We had a fine time, too. Wanted so much to go to Chapel Hill, but didn't get there this time. We have never been over there, but mother has told us about the town. We miss Mr. Newman's family while they are away. I know they're having a good time at Elon. I am afraid we cousins are a little negligent about writing this hot weather. We hope to see the corner filled next week with letters and to hear that your treasury is jingling with dimes.

If You Suffer from Stomach, Liver or Kidney Troubles
Here is a relief so absolutely certain that it can remove every doubt in your mind by the unqualified proof of making you well
 Read every word of this statement. Let us prove it by the opinion of men and women who have exalted their names and their professions.

NATURE'S OWN REMEDY

First of all it is water. Pure sparkling mineral water from a spring noted the world over for its curative waters. We claim for it that it has made complete restorations to health in cases in which recovery has been deemed remarkable. We claim—and we are ready to send you the proof—that thousands of sufferers from stomach and organic troubles have completely regained their health and strength by the judicious and constant use of Fointicello Mineral Water. Please take this as a personal message. Ask yourself the question, "How can I rely upon the truth of this statement?" That is the question we want to answer. We want to prove our statements—to show what Fointicello Mineral Water has done—that generation after generation has tried it and have been cured by it. We have written proof from eminent physicians, ministers of the gospel, men and women in all walks of life. They will tell their own story in their own way, week after week, in this paper. Do you know any of the famous medical men of this country? Read this list—they have all endorsed Fointicello Mineral Water. Dr. Geo. Ben Johnson, Drs. J. C. Walton, Dr. John F. Winn, J. H. Mock, A. M. Wheeler, J. Allison Hodges, Jacob Michaux, J. G. Trevilian, Stuart McGuire, Lewis Boscher, Hugh M. Taylor, John S. Wellford, Edward McGuire, Chas. V. Carrington, M. D. Hoge, Jr., Landon B. Edwards and hundreds of others. Their statements ring true.

 M. E. Gary, 516 N. Eighteenth Street, Richmond, says he was suffering from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles and Torpid Liver. Dr. Geo. Ben Johnson urged him to try Fointicello Water. Read his own words: I confess I had but little faith in it at that time. To my surprise I began to rapidly improve and am now in better health than for years. My wife has also been drinking the water for FOUNTICELLO DYSPEPSIA, so has derived great benefit. My son has been wonderfully benefited."
 T. N. Gaines, of Richmond, Va.: "I have used Fointicello Water for the past month for Dyspepsia and Kidney Diseases and have been entirely relieved of both."

Mrs. J. W. Phaup, Manchester, Va.: "Have suffered three or four years from Dyspepsia. Fointicello Water was the only thing that gave me relief. I think a few more bottles will permanently cure me."
 We could fill this paper year after year with thousands of testimonials like this. We will be glad to mail you many of them, but if you are a sufferer, we want you to try the water. We back every statement with a guarantee: if it doesn't help your trouble it costs you nothing.

Here is Our Proposition and Guarantee

We have proven by years of experience that it requires about three weeks for this water to show beneficial results. In that time you should drink about ten gallons of water. We will ship you two five gallon carboys with the understanding that if it does not benefit you WE WILL RETURN FULL PURCHASE PRICE, which is only $2.00. WE RECOMMEND THE WATER for Stomach, Kidney, Liver and Bladder diseases, Rheumatism, Uric Acid, Gall Stones, Nervous Debility, headaches resulting from impoverished blood.
 Don't wait. A trial of this water costs you nothing if you are not benefited according to our claims.

OUR DEAD

Copeland
 Mrs. Sarah Jane Copeland, wife of Charles W. Copeland, died July 19, 1915, at the family residence Hawthorn avenue, South Norfolk, Va., age 61. Sister Copeland was born and reared about six miles southwest of Suffolk, in Nansemond county. At an early age she united with the church at Bethlehem, and lived in the Christian faith until her death. She was the daughter of the late John J. and Martha Darden Holland. She is survived by her second husband and two sons, Willie Edward and John S. Taylor. Also three sisters, Mrs. Alice Stewart, of South Norfolk; Mrs. Roxie Ellis, of Suffolk, and Mrs. Nannie Ellis of Battery Park, Va.; and two brothers, Solomon Holland, of Newport News, and J. C. Holland, of Suffolk, Va. During the last two months of her life she was a great sufferer, and was constantly attended by her faithful husband, assisted by her younger son and his wife, who lived with her, and by her older son and his family, who lived near her. The funeral services were conducted at the family residence, Tuesday, July 20, 1915, and her body laid to rest in Riverside cemetery.

L. L. LASSITER, Pastor.

Burnside
 Died at his home in Greensboro, N. C., Ralph G. Burnside, July 25, 1915, aged 59 years, 5 months and 10 days. He was a member of Alamanee Presbyterian church about, seven miles from Greensboro, and it was here that the funeral services were conducted by the writer, Rev. Mr. Murray, assisting. The interment was in the church cemetery. Bro. Burnside had been sick for several months. The end of his pilgrimage came quietly and peacefully. He fell asleep. The floral tributes were beautiful.
 July 30, 1915 P. H. FLEMING.

Fogleman
 Died at her home near Mebane, N. C., July 26th, 1915, Mrs. Laura A. Fogleman, wife of Luther C. Fogleman, aged 50 years, 9 months and 2 days. The funeral services were conducted from the home of her brother, Mr. John Ingle, Burlington, N. C., by the writer and the body laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery. Sister Fogleman had been in poor health for a number of years. She bore her affliction with much fortitude. She was a member of the Christian church and had been since childhood.
 July 30, 1915 P. H. FLEMING.

Sanderford
 Deacon J. J. Sanderford of Mt. Herman Christian Church, Wake county, N. C., departed this life July 26, 1915. He was about 64 years old. He leaves one son, W. M. Sanderford, and two daughters, Mrs. Annie Woodward and Mrs. Sallie Pool, and many grandchildren and friends to mourn their loss. His wife had gone to the Spirit land ten years ago, the 10th of this month. Two sons had also gone to their long home several years ago, Johnnie and David. Bro. Sanderford, a man without literary education, started in the world's contest without anything but good sense, physical manhood and honest dealings, owned, when he died, a good home, a tract of land of over 200 acres and a farm well-equipped. He was always a liberal giver to the Churches. The funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Bro. Joseph Pool. He was laid to rest by the side of his wife in the family burying ground, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and neighbors, who came to pay their last tribute of respect to one who they loved.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis
 In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1915), was the following: "It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculous stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demonstration has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis."
 If tuberculosis is due to lime loss, the success of Eckman's Alternative in its treatment may be due, in part, to its content of a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.
 Always we have urged consumptives to attend to their diet, to eat good, but often unobtainable, remedial agents is needed. In many cases of apparent recovery Eckman's Alternative seems to have supplied this need. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

Renew Your Health At Nature's Fountain

Without the Expense and Loss of Time Necessary for a Visit to the Spring

THE CRISIS

There comes a time in the life of practically every man and woman when their digestive or eliminative organs, or both, fail to respond to drugs prepared by human skill. In fact drugs seem to do them about as much harm as good for their systems rebel against all drugs. These are the cases which physicians call "stubborn" and "chronic" for the reason that they persist in spite of drug treatment. I do not refer to incurable diseases such as cancer and consumption, but to that larger class of functional disorders which we meet every day, where the organs of digestion and elimination are impaired.

For this class of cases our best physicians and our big city specialists send their wealthy patients to the mineral springs where, in the great majority of cases they are permanently restored or decidedly benefited. But what about the poor man who has not the money or the busy man or woman who cannot spare the time to spend several weeks or possibly months at a health resort? Shall circumstances deny them the restoration to health which Nature has provided? Read my answer in the coupon at the bottom of this page.

I have the utmost confidence in the Shivar Mineral Spring Water for to it I owe my Restoration to Health and probably my Life. It has made me tens of thousands of friends in all parts of America and even in foreign countries, whose faces I have never seen. Yet I count them my friends for the Shivar Spring Water has bound them to me by lasting gratitude.

I ask you to read their letters, a few samples of which I publish below for your benefit, and if you find among them any encouragement as to your own health do not hesitate to accept my offer which has no limits or conditions except those shown on the coupon. If you could read the letters that come to me daily, numbering about ten thousand a year, and the vast majority of them similar to those printed below, you would not wonder that I make this offer displaying my absolute confidence in the restorative powers of Shivar Mineral Water.

INDIGESTION

Savannah, Georgia.
I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all the train of horrible phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

La Grange, Ga., Nov. 25, 1914.
I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to make public announcement of the benefits I have derived from Shivar Spring Water. I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years from indigestion and dyspepsia. After one week's trial of Shivar Water I commenced to improve, and after drinking it for four weeks I gained fifteen pounds. I feel better and stronger than I have in twenty-five years. I strongly recommend this Water to any one with stomach trouble of any character, and truly believe it will cure ulcer of the stomach. I am writing this voluntarily and trust it will fall in the hands of many who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.
C. V. TRUITT,
President Unity Cotton Mills.

DYSPEPSIA

Blaney, S. C.
I have suffered for many years from gastric troubles, stomach puffed and food sour. I have tried many remedies and a good many waters. Some have helped, but none have given me such relief as your Spring Water. I use it and recommend it to my patients.
W. D. GRIGGSBY, M. D.

Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 2, 1914.
It is a great pleasure to tell you that your Water has been a great benefit. I may say a great blessing, to me. My wife says it has helped me more than anything else I ever tried. I have been, for thirty years, a sufferer from stomach trouble.
REV. E. H. ROWE,
Co-President Southern Seminary.

Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914.
For many years I suffered with stomach trouble as a direct result of asthma. I consulted the very best specialists in this country, and spent quite a large sum of money in my endeavor to get relief. However, I had about come to the conclusion that my case was hopeless, but by accident I happened to get hold of one of your booklets, and decided to try Shivar Spring Water. After drinking the water for about three weeks I was entirely relieved, and since that time have suffered but little inconvenience from my trouble. I cheerfully recommend the use of your Water to any one that may be suffering from stomach trouble.

OSCAR T. SMITH,
Vice-Pres. Young & Selden Co., Bank Stationers.

RHEUMATISM

Leeds, S. C.
I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.
C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

Frederickburg, Va.
Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints upon her hands, caused by rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement.
W. M. C. GARBER.

Roper, N. C., Oct. 30, 1914.
I am anxious to get more of the Water. It has done me more good than anything I have ever tried for rheumatism.
MRS. H. C. EDWARDS.

Florence, S. C., Dec. 1, 1911.
I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble, and a year ago was stricken with acute articular rheumatism; was helpless for months, and since using your Spring Water I am walking without any crutch and improving daily. Indigestion much relieved. I wish I could write Shivar Spring Water in the sky so that the world could become acquainted with it.
MRS. THEO. KUKER.

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 28, 1914.
For over two years, following a nervous breakdown, I have suffered with a liver so torpid that ordinary remedies were absolutely powerless. Under such circumstances, I came to Shivar Spring, and began drinking the Water. Upon advice however, the first night I took a laxative; the second night a milder one. Since then I have taken none at all. The effect of the water has been remarkable—its action on my liver most marked, and my health and spirits greatly improved. I am satisfied that the laxative, followed by the Water, was the proper treatment in my case. My condition is improved.
S. A. DERIEUX.

Carlisle, S. C.
It is fine for liver troubles, also for constipation. I cheerfully give you this information as to beneficial results in my case.
REV. A. McC. PITTMAN.

RENAL AND CYSTIC

Columbia, S. C.
I suffered for eight years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder to the extent that I would have to get up during the night some five or six times. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.
J. F. D.

Virginia, Va., March 28, 1914.
Your Water has done me more good than anything I ever tried for bladder trouble.
A. R. F.

Wesley, Ga., May 12, 1914.
I had been down with bladder trouble. Couldn't stand on my feet three minutes at a time. In three days after I commenced drinking your Mineral Water my pain was all gone, could walk where I pleased, and felt like a new man.
S. B. D.

High Point, N. C., Oct. 6, 1914.
My wife has had a bad kidney trouble for several years. She has been using the water only about three weeks and it has already made her a new woman. Her color is much improved her appetite is all that she could wish for, her digestion seems to be perfect. We give Shivar Springs credit for it all.
T. G. S.

GALLSTONES

Greenville, S. C.
Shivar Spring Water cured my mother of gallstones, or, I might say, it snatched her from the hospital door, as the doctors had said nothing short of an operation would do her any good. After drinking the Water she was able to get out of bed, and is today stout and healthy. I hope these few lines will be of help to some one suffering as my mother did.
W. J. STRAWN.

Williamston, N. C., Oct. 3, 1914.
My doctor said I would have to be operated on for gallstones, but since I have been drinking your water I haven't had to have a doctor.
W. H. EDWARDS.

Columbia, S. C.
My wife was a chronic sufferer from gallstones. She was stricken critically ill, and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious, notwithstanding she is a good one, seemed to do very little good. Rev. A. J. Foster, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after arriving at the Spring she was apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has suffered no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers.
J. P. DRAFFIN.

URIC ACID & DIABETES

Chancellor, Ala.
I have been for many years a sufferer from uric acid and kidney trouble, and the Mineral Water has helped me more than anything I have ever done for them, and therefore heartily recommend same to all who need a speedy relief and cure.
W. F. MATHENY, M. D.

Lexington, Va.
I can recommend your Mineral Water for disorders caused by uric poison. I suffer from it, and have been relieved. It affords me pleasure to recommend this Water to all sufferers.
J. H. WHITMORE.

Roxboro, N. C.
I have used ten gallons of your Mineral Water, and it has done me worlds of good. My disease is diabetes. I lost two years out of three from my work, and your Water is putting me back on my feet again.
JOHN H. REIDIGER.

Derma, Miss., May 8, 1914.
Have suffered for several years with diabetes. I feel almost cured. Have recommended the Water to others.
Mrs. J. J.

Sanford, N. C., April 15, 1914.
Have been down eight weeks with diabetes. Ordered Shivar Spring Water, began drinking it, and keep improving. Showed my doctor the analysis and he said it was just what I needed, with a lithia tablet added.

NO. 32

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

One Path Remains

*It is down! The Dawn! the nations
From East to West have heard a cry—
Through all the earth's blood-red generations
By hate and slaughter climbed thus high,
Here—on this height—still to aspire,
One only path remains untrud,
One path of love and peace climbs higher
Make straight that highway from our God.
—From Noyes' Winepress.*

Forgetting

A Japanese proverb reads "As a man who does not suffer from headache forgets his forehead, and a man who does not suffer from toothache forgets his teeth, so the upright man things not of himself." All selfishness is sin and leads to pain or sorrow, and the joy of life comes in forgetting self. "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." (Psa. 103:2.)

The Silver Lining

When the clouds lower we comfort ourselves with the thought that "every cloud has its silvery lining," and that behind "the cloud the sun is still shining." But a philosopher has remarked somewhere that "That there is one cloud that has no silver lining—that on a man's good name." And more than a philosopher wrote, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold." (Prov. 22:1.)

Human Creeds

Thomas A. Kempis said whoever would fully and feelingly understand the words of Christ must endeavor to conform his life wholly to the life of Christ. And another has pointed out that in the final we are to be judged not by our creeds, but by our deeds. If we wish to know we have to do. We learn of God by doing the will of God. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." (Matt. 7:21)

The Greatest Gift

Many regret that their deeds are not great, their achievements are not noted, their names are not famous. It was the great Thomas Hughes who remarked that it was "a good thing to be able to contribute to the world a painting like Raphael's Transfiguration or a poem like Tennyson's In Memoriam, but a diviner contribution to the world than all these is a beautiful stainless character." It is within the reach of each and all to present this greatest of all gifts to the world. The rich young ruler had achieved much and possessed much; but "Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven." (Matt. 19:21.)

"Like As A Father"

In the "Life" of the late Principal Fairbairn, famous on two continents as scholar and teacher, is a letter stating that the great teacher had often told his eldest son when a lad that he himself would be willing to be or to do nothing in the world, if by such renunciation his boy would grow up to be a good man. How many fathers there are now who are so busy working to make something to give their children that they have no time whatever to give themselves to them. The child often needs the parents far worse than he will ever need what the parents possess. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him." (Psa. 103:13.)

A Sandy Foundation

The power plant of the Knickerbocker Cement Company near Hudson, N. Y., was swallowed up by the earth August 2. The plant carried down with it 40,000 tons of trap-rock, a large power house, an eighty-foot concrete smokestack, a concrete storehouse, a large barn with its three horses and an automobile, much other property and five men. These were all buried in a hole forty feet deep and without warning. The plant when built cost $250,000. The supposition is that the foundation was quick-sand which gave way of a sudden and permitted the earth to open and to swallow up all that lived or was placed upon it. "Every one that heareth these sayings and doeth them not shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand." (Matt. 7:26.)

Alone

Fellowship is sweet. A good mixer is fortunate, and usually seems happy. We dread being alone. We pity the one who seems alone. And yet no man ever came to greatness, and to real goodness who was not much alone. As one reads the life of Lincoln how one is impressed with his alone-ness in the world. Ibsen makes one of his characters say that the greatest man is most alone. This signifies that one may be with others and yet be alone. One must take counsel with his own heart and dwell in realms of solitude there if he would touch life at its highest and holiest. "Each must find out the ideal mixture for himself," remarks an exchange, "but one is not likely to see God unless he is a lover of the large and silent spaces." No man who is not much alone can be pure. It takes time and thought and counsel with self to curb the passions, check the ambitious, and bridle the appetite—and become pure. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." (Matt. 5:8.)

Slaughtering the Innocents

The present war in Europe had its horrors in sufficient magnitude and abundance already; but when the unspeakable Turk entered the worst was to be expected. And it has happened. After murdering all the male population of a region in Armenia, 9,000 women and children were assembled on the banks of the Tigris where they were shot and their bodies thrown into the river. Reports are that more than 40,000 Armenians have already been slaughtered and atrocities multiply. If there is retributive justice in this world, or in the next, the Turks have a fearful fate awaiting them for the outrages against humanity in general, and the Armenians in particular. "But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil." (Rom. 13:4)

"The essence of all rights of ownership lies not so much in the enjoyment of the thing owned as in the legal power of excluding others from its enjoyment." So wrote Thomas Erskine Holland of Oxford in his Jurisprudence. This is based upon the Roman conception of ownership which we have adopted. If Tullius "owned" a horse the test of ownership was not in his right to ride or enjoy the horse; it was in his power to prevent Marcus from riding the horse without consent of Tullius. This is the test of ownership today. The test of a man's ownership of a million dollars is not his ability to use, hoard or enjoy the million, which he may or may not do as his nature and tastes may require. But the test of his ownership is the power to prevent any one else from using or enjoying or possessing it. The test of ownership in law is the power to prevent, to hinder, to exclude. Think then of the responsibility a man takes upon himself when he, by right of ownership, will not use belongings worth fifty thousand dollars, say, for the good of others, for his own betterment or for the glory of God, and hinders, prevents, excludes any one else from so using them. Every man at his best is only a steward and after a few brief years in the exercise of his stewardship must stand before Him who created all things, and there give an account. "Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his Lord shall make ruler over his household?" (Luke 12:42.)

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne now assisting Rev. J. L. Foster, Waverly, Va., in a meeting at Spring Hill, writes most pleasantly of the meeting last week with the people at Pleasant Grove where a great revival was conducted "The people were surprisingly kind to us and we enjoyed the stay there wonderfully. Mrs. Lightbourne is of great help in song." Bro. and Sister Lightbourne did not know, we suppose, that in going to Pleasant Grove they were meeting some of the very best people on this whole earth, some of the most willing, ready and hospitable.

EDITORIAL

IN THE HAMPSHIRE HILLS

(Editorial Correspondence)

If one will leave Elon College on the 9:30 p. m. train for Greensboro and there catch the Southern's north bound No. 38, one may have a good night's rest on a Pullman and eat breakfast early next morning in Washington. Then taking a B. & O. train at 9 o'clock, changing at Harper's Ferry, one can have his lunch in Winchester, Va., at 12 o'clock. An automobile, especially if it is a new and heavy Hudson, driven by Bro. E. W. Cather, will carry one to the Hampshire hills, in West Virginia in an hour and a half, where the atmosphere is light, wholesome and sweet, where the mountain scenery is glorious, and where some of the best people on earth dispense gracious hospitality and make the stranger happy. Dr. Harper of the College, Bro. Cox of the Orphanage and this unworthy were the pilgrims last Wednesday night and Thursday on this trip, our objective being the annual session of the Virginia Valley Central Conference at Timber Ridge Christian church, Hampshire county, West Virginia. The journey was four hundred miles by rail, as we took it, and twenty odd miles by automobile. But we left home long after supper one night and were cordially received at our destination soon after noon of the following day. Modern travel is not only rapid; it is conducive to comfort, to convenience and to work. A man with the working mania like Dr. Harper loses no time in travel any longer.

The brethren gave us glad greeting at the Conference. Rev. W. T. Walters was in the chair; Rev. A. W. Andes at the recorder's table. These two, with Bro. Samuel Earman to handle the finances, carry forward the work of the body. The representation from the churches is up to the average, the reports from the churches show some progress the past year, and there is much discussion of plans and prospects for the ensuing year. During the session Superintendent J. O. Cox of the Orphanage tells in fitting terms of the work and needs of the institution he represents, Pres. W. A. Harper takes a lively interest in all the work and delivers two great addresses, one on the Christian Doctrine of Education, another on the Possibilities and Conditions of Growth, and Rev. A. W. Andes preaches a timely and able sermon. THE SUN's editor was permitted to speak on two occasions of Missions and on Sunday held service at the regular preaching hour and at 3 p. m. Bro. W. C. Hook of Winchester, Va., was licensed as probationer by the Conference. There were many pleasing and inspiring incidents of the Conference and all who attended were happy.

Rev. R. L. Williamson delivered a fine address on The Cure for Evil, and Pres. Walters' annual address on Our Conference Problems and their Solution was well spoken of.

But this Timber Ridge church and its frank and fine membership appeal most to the editor. The traditions of a hundred years of sacred service and divine worship here get strong grip on one and make one feel that the ground on which one walks is holy. For a century the sturdy, stalwart manhood, the faithful, charming womanhood of these Hampshire hills for miles around have foregathered here in this high place to worship God, to hear the Gospel and teach their youths the way of righteousness. A fine old brick meeting house on an elevated plateau, a substantial iron fence surrounding it, and protecting in its ample range a spacious church yard of velvety green, huge trees speaking eloquently of a century of growth and resistance, silent and solemn tomb stones marking the burial places of a proud and noble ancestry, these combine to make one breathe the spirit of eternity and to look out up to "the hills whence cometh all help."

And the strength, sincerity and devotion of the men and women who worship here are as marked and measured as the everlasting hills of their well-kept, hospitable homes. The fellowship at Timber Ridge is a blessing and a benediction, and the joy of worshipping with them in this high place is sweet indeed, and lifts one to holy and to heavenly meditations. The Garvins, the Eatons, the Oates, the Johnsons, the Andersons, the Morrisses, the Larrieks, and hosts of others equally devout and loyal and true are men and women of glorious fellowship in service, and faithful to church and righteousness. These hills of Hampshire have not stood in vain these thousands of years when they have brought forth such a race of men and women as these. To live and serve and worship with them even a few days meant an up-lift and an inspiration that will be thought of and rejoiced in while the months and years shall come and go.

There could have been no more royal hospitality extended to Conference than this at Timber Ridge, and every member of the body went away feeling better and happier for the meeting and the entertainment there.

I am travelling now on the Seaboard's "Fast Mail" out of Washington, the great old mountains in their blue outline having faded in the distance and thoughts of home and Elon, with their associations of quiet labor, daily routine, and wholesome pursuits crowd the mind as rapidly as the grinding wheels of these steel palaced cars mark off the miles and measure the vanishing space. J. O. A.

IS THE WORLD WORSE?

Is the world growing better, or worse? Scholars, thinkers, observers and critics are much divided. Many ministers of the gospel in our day declare by the Book that the world grows worse, and that the only hope of the race is salvation through some great catastrophe coming all of a sudden. Others declare that the gospel is gradually doing its work and that, like leaven the whole lump is to be leavened not with evil but with good; that gradually the good triumphs and will ultimately prevail.

Here are some facts that are calculated to make one optimistic, if one is so inclined. When William Carey in 1793, went to India as the first Protestant missionary the whole number of nominal Christians in the world was 200,000,000. Now according to authenticated statistics the entire number of nominal Christians is put down at 500,000,000. At the time Carey went out to the benighted world of heathendom there were estimated to be one billion souls in all the earth. Now the world's population is put down at one billion five hundred million. So while the earth's total population has increased 50 per cent. the number of nominal Christians has increased 150 per cent. and the ratio shows that the cause of Christ has advanced more in the past 25 years than it did in the seventy-five preceding years.

Evil is mighty and the strongholds of sin and satan are many and powerful. Yet figures at any rate would indicate that our God is marching on and that His Christ constantly and steadily gains in winning men to His banner.

Whether the world grows better or worse we know that King Immanuel will win out and that all who trust in Him, shall be conquerors and more than conquerors.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Leo M. Frank, the noted Georgia life-term convict, was taken from prison by a mob Aug. 16 and lynched.

—Rev. E. M. Carter has been the past week with pastor R. F. Brown in an interesting meeting at Ingram, Va.

—The Allies have decided to declare cotton a contraband of war because so much of it is used in making high explosives.

—Rev. P. H. Fleming, D. D., Greensboro, N. C., is this week assisting Rev. J. W. Holt, pastor in a revival at Bethlehem, Alamance.

—We are in the midst of the revival season in the South. Remember the wise man's words, "He that winneth souls is wise." (Prov. 11:30)

—Rev. S. B. Klapp makes an appeal for help in building the house of worship at Danville, Va. This is an important point and the need is urgent.

Rev. L. I. Cox, pastor, was assisted last week, in a great evangelistic meeting at New Lebanon, Rockingham Co., by Rev. J. F. Morgan. There were twenty or more confessions and fourteen accessions to the church.

—Graham and Providence churches are on the look out for a pastor for the coming Conference year. So is Virgilina, Va., Bro. J. F. Morgan going from these churches to become pastor of First church, Berkley, Va.

—Rev. W. L. Wells was voted a vacation and given an extra purse to bear his expenses in taking it by Durham church, of which he is the beloved and faithful pastor. Bro. Wells has been extended a call, and accepted same, for another year.

—Rev. J. F. Morgan, Graham, N. C., has accepted the call to the Berkley, Va., pastorate. Bro. Morgan had a very pleasant and inviting field but was made to feel that his duty was at Berkley. This is a pastorate of promise and opportunity, and we felicitate pastor and people in the choice made.

—If a CHRISTIAN SUN reader wishes to confer an everlasting favor, and one that for time and eternity will not be forgotten, let such an one influence some young man or woman to go to a Christian college and acquire an education. There will be gratitude for you through a whole life.

—Rev. E. M. Carter, Wadley, Ala., former Superintendent of our Christian Orphanage and also pastor of our Columbus, Ga., church would be glad of work for full time in the pastorate. All the churches of his Conference are supplied and he would be willing to move into any locality where a pastorate needs him.

—Rev. W. C. Garland, Cumberland, Md., is the favored and deservedly beloved pastor of Timber Ridge church where the Virginia Valley Central Conference convened last week. It was a pleasure to meet Bro. Garland, and learn of his labors and devotion to the church. He is exceedingly popular with his people and like a faithful under-shepherd is seeking to lead them to aggressive service and positive labors in the Lord's work. Bro. Garland is a man of sweet, Christian spirit and to be with him is to respect and esteem him. He is deeply interested in every movement that makes for progress in the church.

—Rev. O. B. Whittaker, D. D., has written a delightful little volume entitled "Evenings With Uncle 'Bijah." Its name does not indicate its nature or its merit, but Dr. M. T. Morrill in Herald of Gospel Liberty, expresses our view of the volume in these words: "This little book of Dr. O. B. Whittaker's is very sweet-spirited and excellently done, and is worth a hundred polemics. In chaste dialogue form the author has introduced the things the Christian denomination stands for, using fresh illustrations and some arguments that are not hackneyed. Most people will feel the appeal as the writer of this did. I cannot but think that all who read the book will be more Christian toward those who differ from them. Don't hunt the book for weapons; let it do its own execution."

THE SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA

The writer is at home again after a pleasant and profitable week at Virginia Beach and the Seaside Chautauqua of the Christian Church.

Apart from the deluge suffered on Tuesday the session was delightful and the Chautauqua itself all that could be asked for:

The program a year ago was so good that it seemed as if it could hardly be improved upon, and yet it seemed to me to be much better this year. Dr. Dennison and his faithful advisers had carefully and judiciously planned it to meet the needs of our own people, and they were most successful in effecting their object.

When the Christians of the South, as well as our brethren from all over the country wake up to this opportunity offered for fellowship and for modernizing their methods of church and Sunday school work we shall have a full attendance and a meeting that will be most inspiring to all our enterprises.

MARTIN SUMMERBELL.

GREENSBORO LETTER

Three members were received into Church fellowship last Sunday.

The Truitt Philathea Class had an interesting program in connection with the study of the Sunday school lesson, "Solomon Dedicates the Temple." Mr. W. B. Truitt, the teacher, was in charge. He had a large picture of the temple for examination and study. Miss Sallie McKaughn presented an excellent paper on the "Conception of the Temple;" Rev. J. W. Patton in a few well chosen words told of the "Structure"; the pastor spoke of the "Uses"; and the teacher, Bro. Truitt, continued the study with a strong and interesting "Meditation of the Temple."

Our Sunday school picniced at Guilford Battle Ground six miles out from Greensboro on July 28th. We went out in automobiles. The ride out and back was delightful; the afternoon meal an excellent and an abundant one. The attendance was good and every one seemed to enjoy the occasion very much.

The week following the second Sunday in July, I was with Rev. A. T. Banks in revival meeting at Fullers. It was a pleasure to be with Bro. Banks in his work and to meet the good people at Fullers' Church. Bro. Banks is serving Henderson and Fullers. This is a good field, and the pastor has worked very earnestly and has met with good success.

I was with Rev. J. W. Patton at Lebanon in revival meeting the week following the third Sunday. The congregations were large, attentive and seemed deeply interested. They have a commodious house of worship and the work appears to me to be in excellent condition, with a growing interest. From things seen and heard Bro. Patton is very popular with the Lebanon people and, I think, very deservedly so.

Our people have the question of a parsonage under consideration. It is hoped at an early date to have the matter well in hand.

Ladies of our Church have recently contributed some twenty-five or thirty new garments, made with their own hands, to needy and almost clothless Servians in the Eastern War Zone.

P. H. FLEMING.

NOTICE

This is to notify the Sunday schools of the Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention that at the recent session of that body Mrs. Fred Bullock, of Waverly, Va., was employed to give as much of her time as she deemed best to the general Sunday school work in this Convention as Field Secretary and that she is authorized to take an offering at each school she visits to be applied to the expense of the field work. I feel sure that those who know Mrs. Bullock will lose no time in calling her service into their schools and that before the Convention year is far gone she will find herself visiting many schools at the request of the superintendents. Before she left the Convention floor several engagements had been booked and those schools needing her services would do well to correspond with her at once so that she may arrange her work, or trips, and cover the least possible mileage. Mrs. Bullock is a specialist along all lines of Sunday school work and you may feel free to call on her at any time that your school is sick and you need a good doctor for it. Address Mrs. Bullock at Waverly, Va.

J. H. BLANCHARD,
General Secretary.

A GREAT REVIVAL

We began our revival meeting at Virgilina, Va., last 1st Sunday. Rev. J. V. Knight reached us on Monday and conducted the music from then until the close of the meeting. He also preached two great sermons, one on Thursday night and one on Friday night. Bro. Knight is a great worker and will be remembered by the people of Virgilina for a long time because of the great work that he did in the meeting. As to results there were about 60 professions, and 35 joined the church, and the church was much revived. The house was crowded at every service after Tuesday, and we feel that much good was accomplished. To God we give the glory.

J. F. MORGAN,
Pastor.

NOTICE

To those who attended the Eastern N. C. Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention:

I learn that Mr. D. C. Golladay attended your Convention at Wentworth recently representing himself, or being represented by others, as a minister holding membership with the Va. Valley Central Conference. He is not a member of the Conference, having neither licensure nor ordination, nor any recommendation or endorsement from the Conference.

SUFFOLK LETTER

It seems to this scribe that the Christian church needs two classes of men to render the things for which we stand more potent and more efficient. But in saying what I am about to write, I realize that it is much easier to see and say what others should do than to do one's own duty; yet this does not prevent visions of what is needed and what is possible.

The doctrinal position of the Christian church is such as to meet the approval of right-thinking people; but the work done is not sufficient to win their allegiance. The age in which we live demands successful action as well as sound propositions. Men will live up with what succeeds though its doctrines may not command inward approval. This does not seem to over-state general conditions or the status of our church.

Present-day theological thought as expressed in non-denominational and inter-denominational movements indicate that the position held by the Christian church for more than a hundred years is the position toward which Christian thought and purpose are tending; yet the public mind is not attracted by what the church has accomplished.

To meet the issue of such an opportunity as the present age offers to the Christian church we need the help of the best laymen; and by this I mean a fair share of their best thought, their best time, and their best money. There are men of large capacity, planning ability, and large means who are doing no more than a small man's work in the Kingdom; and they are legion. The church can never be great till the latent energy of laymen is active. Such men of power would add to their own personal life by taking up some special line of church enterprise for investigation and support, as Missions, Education, Orphan work, church building. The study of any of these enterprises, or publications, would enlarge the man in all the elements of manhood, citizenship, Christian influence and usefulness. If I could I would inspire every successful layman in the Christian church to some great undertaking in the Kingdom. The first need of our church is the devoted activity of our successful laymen.

In addition to this the church needs a self-surrendered, consecrated ministry. There never was such an opportunity for young ministers who can say: "Here am I, send me." But there must be no commercial or social strings attached to motives that want place and prestige. The idea must not be to get a good place, but to make a bad place good. Rescue work does not consider self in any sense; and ministerial work is rescue work in the highest sense. The Christian church has had too many ministers who devoted parts of their time and of themselves to the work; but that age is past, and new conditions demand self-surrender on the part of the minister at any cost.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Mr. Carl Wheeler of Guilford College has moved his family to Elon for the benefit of his children. The family occupies Dr. Ware's house.

Messrs. W. L. Monroe, J. F. Minnis and R. D. Coulter have arrived for the opening.

Mr. J. C. Peel, class of '15, has been elected to take charge of a school in South Carolina.

Miss Bessie Holt and Mrs. W. E. Hay, of Burlington have been visitors here recently.

President Harper and Dr. Atkinson returned Monday night from the Valley of Va. Conference and report a successful session.

Mr. John H. Wilkins and son Earl of Northern Alamance were here Friday of last week. Brother Wilkins has been a patron before and is to add another the coming year.

It will be a source of pleasure and joy for friends to learn that Prof. E. Oscar Randolph, brother of our beloved Dr. Randolph, has been called to a professorship in Elon College. His training at the University of North Carolina and his experience and record as a professor in City College of Charleston, South Carolina, speak for him as an educator.

Mr. T. A. May, our genial mail carrier, has just returned from a trip to Detroit, Mich., where he attended the National Letter Carriers' Association.

Misses Vivian and Kathleen Huffman and little sister have returned from an extended visit to Charlotte and other places.

The prospects for a good opening Sept. 1 get brighter daily, as applications for rooms and entrance come in by almost every mail. A force of men are putting campus and buildings in fine shape for the opening.

IN THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION (Chicago, Ill., July 7, 1915.)

Chicago has surrendered to Christian Endeavorers! This Fifth World's and Twenty-seventh International Convention is indeed a great convention. The great Coliseum, seating, it is said, 20,000 people, is taxed every evening. Fifteen thousand Endeavorers, representing practically all of our States and nearly every country in the world, are here.

Chicago has put on her best bib and tucker to welcome us. Policemen and car conductors give us detailed information with all courtesy.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, in making an address of welcome, said Chicago is interested in you, for it does business with every city of any size in the world and it stands for the following:

- C for cordiality.
- H for happiness.
- I for intensity.
- C for co-operation.
- A for action.
- G for good, goodness.
- O for opportunity.

The Chicago Daily News carried a significant cartoon today; a picture of the Coliseum in A. D. 115 when Christians were driven to the arena and fed to wild beasts, and one of the thousands of Christians in A. D. 1915 going to the Coliseum to plan how to make Christians of all peoples of the world. What a change! Yes, that is the purpose of Christian Endeavor—to bring the kingdom of God to the world. Dr. Stone said that Christians in Chicago hoped soon to make Chicago "dry." This declaration, with the strong endorsements of prohibition by the convention caused some officers of the Board of Trade to tear down the C. E. colors that had been placed on the building. But did any Chicagoians think this convention had come here to endorse the saloon?

The day of orating is not past. Some fine speeches are heard here, and brethren, it is a fact that the church after all, commands the talents of the greatest.

It is my privilege to represent the Christian church on the program, taking the places assigned Dr. Harper, our Department Secretary of Christian Endeavor—two speeches before the convention, one for the Ohio-Southern Rally, preach at the Willard Ave. Baptist church, and preside at our denominational rally. When I spoke to the convention yesterday forenoon I stood on a table four feet high, placed on the platform about seven feet high, but I did not try any Billy Sunday stunts.

President Wilson, William Jennings Bryan, or Billy Sunday were not present as advertised. Mr. Sunday wanted the convention to provide a special train to bring him from Colorado here for a Sunday noon meeting, but the delegates said "Nix." But such men as Daniel A. Poling, William Shaw, A. R. Wells, Marion Lawrence, Ira Landrith, Royal J. Dye who with his wife stood 600 miles away from civilization in Africa and while cannibals threatened to kill and eat them, told the story of Christ. Floyd W. Tomkins, Clinton N. Howard, Geo. H. Coombs, and others I might mention, make the attendance at this convention exceedingly worth while.

Our denominational rally was the largest and best of our church in his history. Not a single person advertised to appear on the program was here, except myself—and I did not make the address that I had prepared. But we drafted speakers for the topics of the rally, and then opened the meeting for impromptu speeches.

Rev. Mr. Kegg of Ohio, spoke on "C. E. Possibilities in our Brotherhood." Mr. R. F. Pruitt led on "Advance Steps in C. E." Rev.

Roy G. Helfenstein, Illinois, on "Our Need of Christian Endeavor;" Miss Kirkendorf of Indiana, on "C. E. and the Book;" and Mrs. Hagens of Ohio on Junior Work.

If several parties follow out the intentions manifested at the rally those who failed to take their places on the program will receive some sharp criticism in the church papers. Brethren, some way ought to be devised so that such disappointments would not occur. It is unfair to both the church and the speakers who must be drafted at that time.

Several valuable suggestions were made regarding our rally at New York in 1917. We ought to have a hotel headquarters where we could find each other and we ought to have some more publicity.

Our rally was held here in the beautiful Second Presbyterian church, just a few squares from the Coliseum. The auditorium was opened and prepared for us, and several of the church members present assured us of a hearty welcome and the enthusiastic vote of thanks given them will show them in some measure at least, our appreciation.

CHAUTAUQUA NEWSLETS

The Chautauqua was a splendid success. Its power and influence will surpass that of last year. Everybody seemed to thoroughly enjoy it. On every side were words of appreciation and satisfaction. "Count on me for next year" was heard on every side.

Over 500 different persons attended some part of the week's services. There were 152 season tickets purchased, 225 persons registered, and no attempt was made to register those who attended the popular lectures at night nor for the Monday and Thursday night sermons, nor the Sunday services.

Forty-one persons received certificates showing that they had attended 35 or more periods of instruction out of a possible 43 periods. Eighteen persons completed the Christian Endeavor Expert course under Dr. W. A. Harper, passed the examination, and received certificates from the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

Thirty-four ministers of the Christian church were present and three from other denominations attended.

Twenty-seven members of the General Committee of 50 were in attendance. They showed their faith in the future of the Chautauqua by their works. They authorized their faith in the future of the Chautauqua by their works. They authorized an increase in the committee from fifty to one hundred. Each conference is to have one representative on the committee of 100 and then a sufficient number of members-at-large are to be chosen to make the full number.

The General Executive Committee voted to raise a guarantee fund of one thousand dollars, one-half to be paid in December first, and the members of the committee present and others interested in the work guaranteed $530 of that amount.

The same officers as last year were elected except that Prof. S. M. Smith resigned the office of General Secretary because he had removed so far from the headquarters. Rev. Geo. D. Eastes was elected General Secretary, and Rev. H. E. Rountree Assistant Secretary.

Those registering were from Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Rhode Island, Ohio, Illinois, New Jersey.

The fellowship was fine, the addresses and lectures were of the highest order.

The Central Executive Committee will meet soon to plan the work for next year, enlarge the General Executive Committee to 100, complete the guarantee fund to the one thousand dollars.

The Chautauqua is here to stay and be a great blessing to the workers of the Christian Church. Plan to come next year. Several attended this year who saved nickels, dimes and quarters throughout the year for that special purpose. These Bible and Church summer conferences are worth your while.

The Chautauqua is discovering to ourselves what splendid talent we have in our Church. We are getting acquainted with each other.

WARREN H. DENISON, Pres.

GENERAL CONVENTION

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor General Convention met in connection with the Chautauqua at Va. Beach, July 22 and 23. President W. T. Walters of Winchester, Va., presided. After the opening exercises the President made an address relative to the work and needs of the Convention.

The Committee on Resolutions recommended that the constitution be so changed as to permit the convention to meet in connection with the Chautauqua biennially.

The treasurer's report showed the convention in debt about $175.

The constitution was amended by merging the Cradle Roll Department with the department of Elementary Grades.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing biennium: President, Rev. W. T. Walters; Vice-President, Rev. C. H. Rowland; Secretary, Rev. A. W. Andes; Assistant Secretary, Rev. H. S. Smith; Treasurer, C. B. Riddle; Editorial and Field Secretary, A. L. Hook; Department Secretaries: C. A. Hines, Organized Classes; D. R. Fonville, Home Department; Mrs. Fred Bullock, Elementary Department; Rev. H. E. Rountree, Teacher Training; Dr. W. A. Harper, Christian Endeavor.

Through the Executive Committee an apportionment was laid upon the various S. S. and C. E. Conventions as follows: Va. Valley Central, $10.00; Eastern Va., $50; Western N. C., $25; Eastern N. C., $25; Ala., $5; Ga. and Ala., $5; N. C. and Va., $30. It is hoped the Conventions will respond with these amounts annually and thus get the General Convention out of debt, keep it out, and enable it to enlarge its work.

That part of the constitution relative to representation was changed to read as follows: The Convention shall consist of an equal number of Elders and Laymen, chosen by the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Conventions in annual session, in the proportion of one delegate to every two hundred members; but every regularly organized S. S. and C. E. Convention shall have the right to send two delegates—one Elder and one Layman. The delegates shall be elected for two years.

The session of the convention at the Chautauqua was short, but we trust plans were set in operation looking to an enlarged scope of the work in the future.

A. W. ANDES, Sec.

Harrisonburg, Va.

—Dr. W. C. Wicker writes: "The Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods at Virginia Beach July 19-25 was all that I had expected and more. The program was an advance over last year in quality and execution. While some of the excellent speakers of last year were not on the program for this session others took their places and measured up to the high standard set by the Faculty of the first session."

THE RIGHT VIEW

is what we want now. So we turn from the history of the northern kingdom and take up again the history of the Kingdom of Judah. In the last lesson we saw Jeroboam leading Israel into sin. The course of the southern kingdom had been downward also. Idol worship had been followed and that always leads to the down fall of both individual and nation. We are to see in this lesson the great awakening which saved the southern kingdom. Keep the good King Asa in mind and see what he does.

THE SEARCHLIGHT OF TRUTH

is public opinion's great telescope, and if this lesson can aid us in using this for our benefit, and for the benefit of others, it will have succeeded in its mission. King Asa put away the abominations out of the land of Judah, and what he did is what we are doing here in our good land. Whiskey has the black eye, gambling the scourge of public sentiment, war the challenge of the Gospel and civic righteousness, ignorance the balm of education—yea, every menace has its menace, and adding to that the love of the whose hillside gospel caused him to be a martyr, but whose love and life triumphed. Now turn to the lesson. Those who failed to seek God were put to death. The law has changed, but the spirit remains. Those who fail to seek Jehovah today are not put to death but put themselves to death. This is the red board which is pulled across your little road at every station as a danger signal. Stop! Look!! Listen!!! Eternity's Crossing.

C. E. TOPIC, AUG. 23

A Basis of Sound Belief. Why and How to Get It.

I Peter 1: 13-16

To accomplish results it is necessary to have some belief. The results will be in proportion to the belief you have in that particular thing you are doing.

It is necessary to have a sound belief. Often a partial belief is worse than none at all—a partial belief leads to guess work. Guess work is not profitable.

How do we get a partial belief? A wrong belief? What are the dangers of a wrong belief? How may a wrong belief be changed?

When we want to know about the past we search the pages of history. We learn what people have known of chemistry by the study of experts' books before we engage ourselves with the applications of methods which might be used to create explosives which would mean the cost of lives.

Isn't it just as important to study the principles laid down by experts in religion in that we may not formulate a method that would mean soul destruction? It is more important and of greater magnitude to save a soul than to save a life.

The Bible is the great text-book of religion. The experts who walked with God and Jesus have given us for all time principles which are true. We can place the basis of our sound belief in these principles.

If you wish to be assured of the truth of Christianity, try it. Believe, and if the belief be right, that insight which gradually transmutes faith into knowledge will be the reward of thy faith.—S. T. Coleridge.

Now God be praised, that to believing souls,
Gives light in darkness, comfort in despair!

—Shakespeare.

DANVILLE, VA., MISSION

I am now appealing to SUN readers for help for the Danville, Va., church. This is one of the most important missions in the Southern Christian Convention. This is the hopeful opportunity for one of our future Christian churches; but we need help to build our house of worship. We need help now till we get strength to carry our own responsibility. Can I get your attention and sympathy? We are to begin our revival next Sunday. For the want of room the brethren and friends are to build an arbor under which to worship for two weeks. I most earnestly appeal for help to build our house of worship. I am again asking all who subscribed to this mission at last Conference to please send me your subscription as soon as possible. Our work is standing still for the want of funds. Send donations to me at 1204 N. Dairy St., Greensboro, N. C., and they will be acknowledged in THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Department

This Department is edited by Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., assisted by other members of the Board, to whom all items of Missionary interest and matter for the Department should be sent.

STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE FOR SOCIETIES

As ordered by the Woman's Board, Mrs. Harper has had these Standards printed in large lettering on heavy board and desires that each society in our Southern Convention should have one to display in their meeting place. The only charge is five cents for mailing. There are copies for both Y. P. and W. M. S. and since they are for use, let us write to Mrs. W. A. Harper, Elon College, N. C., secure a copy, place it where it can be seen and strive to come up to the standard for a number one Society.

TWO NEW SOCIETIES

Societies have been organized at Shiloh (W. N. C. Conference) and at Turner's Chapel. We are indeed glad to report these and wish that we might announce many more churches as having done the same. If our women could only catch a vision of the possibility of all of our women contributing regularly to the mission work. It is not the large amounts of the few we are grateful indeed for these—but the small amounts of the many count for the most in our work, for this means the interests and prayers of a host. Again we plead with our women to line up together in this our greatest opportunity for service.

MEMBERSHIPS IN OUR WOMAN'S BOARD

Our societies have been urged to take, at least, one membership each in our S. C. C. Woman's Board. These memberships are ten dollars and the purpose of the fund is to build churches on our mission fields, where needed. There are a number of places in Porto Rico where we have organizations that are in need of church buildings. In a few years, if our women would push this matter, we would be able to provide a church in some place. Individuals are urged also to take memberships. We feel sure there are numbers of persons who are interested to the amount of ten dollars. Send the amount through your society treasurer, so she can report it in her fourth quarterly report which closes Sept. 30th.

THE WORLD KNOWN REMEDY

Take Line for Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (July 27, 1912, Page 308), Dr. C. A. Dison, of Minneapolis, holds that a "deficiency of calcium" (lime) is responsible for the physical conditions which lead to tuberculosis, and the therapy he advocates rests on this basis.

One of the reasons for the wide-spread success of Eckman's Alternative in the treatment of tuberculosis is due to its ability to supply this deficiency. It contains a lime salt in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Many cases seen to have yielded to it.

We make no exaggerated claims for it, but prefer that it be tried on a fair basis as any other prescription, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit forming drugs, it is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

Here's Permanent Work For You

In the State of North Carolina, with an old-established institution whose fame is nation wide. The work requires, sober, industrious men; the position is as good as you make. Liberal commissions paid.

Box 789, Raleigh, N. C.

Uncle Jim has just returned from the Virginia Valley Central Conference where he had a most delightful time greeting friends of the institution. Every one seemed to be interested in our work and many inquired concerning the different members of our household. Our home was with Brother C. N. Garvin, one of the leading spirits of Timber Ridge church and community, who spared no means or effort to make our stay pleasant and enjoyable.

THE SUN's editor will tell you about the great Conference we all enjoyed so much. I will not take the time or space to write concerning that now.

Many things are calling for me so I will have to get out and get acquainted with my family and my work again.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Jud B. Wood, M. D., D. D. S., late President Society Prevention Cruelty to Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear what takes place in the office of the Fonticello Lithia Water," and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles. It is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced its use, they then became very promptly and I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalies in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Stomach, Liver, Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Fonticello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is afflicted with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Urinary and Kidney affections, Gravel Stone in the Bladder, Eric Acid, Rheumatism, and Gout."

Fonticello Mineral Water is sold on guarantee. Order two carboys—ten gallons—price $2.00. If it doesn't benefit you we will refund your money.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL TO THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Note Our Guarantee. I want to try Fonticello Mineral Water and promise to use it regularly, daily, drinking the water in the glass prescribed. I will return you the coupon if I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalies in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Stomach, Liver, Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Fonticello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is afflicted with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Urinary and Kidney affections, Gravel Stone in the Bladder, Eric Acid, Rheumatism, and Gout."

Enclosed find $2.00 for which please send me two carboys of Fonticello Mineral Water referred to above.

A WONDERFUL NEW COUNTRY

The Treasurehouse and Wonderland of Eastern America.

A wonderful Railroad through a wonderful country! Such is the exclamation of surprise and delight with which visitors view the beauty and grandeur of the Appalachian Wonderland from trains of the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railway. This wonderful new line has been built at an enormous expense of time, engineering skill and capital, as a quick-service short-line, cutting off two days in time of freights between the Central West and South-East, by a direct route through the Great Appalachian Mountain barrier. The dream of our forefathers—a direct route from "Cincinnati to the Sea" is at last an accomplished fact and in its accomplishment the Nation has acquired a treasure-house of surpassing richness in undeveloped wealth of forests, fields and mines. A Mineral Paradise! The greatest body of standing hard-wood timber in the Eastern half of the Continent! Farm, stock and orchard lands of surpassing productiveness! The loftiest mountain peaks! The deepest canyon! The most beautiful water falls and turquoise river gorges! The grandest scenery! The highest altitudes and the most delightful and invigorating climate in Eastern America! These are but a few of the superlatives with which nature has endowed this hitherto inaccessible region whose beauties and treasures are now unlocked by modern transportation facilities.

On July 1, 1915, the passenger and freight service over the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railway was inaugurated between Elkhorn City, Ky., where connection is made with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and Spartanburg, S. C., where connections are made for all points in the Southeast. The Line traverses Eastern Kentucky, Southwestern Virginia, Eastern Tennessee, Western North Carolina and the Piedmont region of South Carolina, crossing four great mountain chains, the Cumberland, Clinch, Great Smoky and Blue Ridge, which comprise the loftiest section of the Appalachian System.

This wonderful new country is bidding for men—for brains, brawn and capital—in terms of wonderful opportunity. With unlimited resources of forest, soil and mine; with close proximity to the populous consuming centers of the East, South and Central West; and with its splendid and newly acquired transportation facilities, this great new country, the latest and richest addition to the wealth of the Nation, bids highest for human enterprise and endeavor. Unfettered by fixed conditions, this new land offers almost unlimited opportunities to both capital and labor.

Come, see it for yourself, or write for descriptive literature including the scenic, resort, agricultural, horticultural, stock raising, mining and manufacturing features. Address the Information Bureau, Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railway, Johnson City, Tenn.—Adv't.

PLEASANT GROVE CHURCH Halifax Co., Va.

recently had one of the best revivals in the history of the church. Rev. Victor Lightbourne did the preaching and was ably assisted by Mrs. Lightbourne whose singing was an inspiration. For a week he preached with increasing effectiveness to packed and jammed houses. There was the push and the power of the spirit in the words of the evangelist that made men think. The invisible results of such a meeting cannot be estimated for who knows but that a song, a single illustration, even a parenthetical expression has fired lives with courage and hope. More than thirty confessed and more than twenty united with the forces of Pleasant Grove church to better the community, the church and themselves. The writer had had reports of Mr. Lightbourne and had looked forward to hearing him. He was not disappointed and hopes to hear him again and is sure he will hear of him often. Mr. Lightbourne strikes one as a man of significant ability who will grow greater and greater in the service of God.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR HEALTH

For diseases which do not readily yield to drug treatment, such as chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, Bright's disease, gall stones, uric acid poisoning, and diseases of the kidney and liver, the best physicians send their wealthy patients to the famous mineral springs. Some even spent months at the Spas of Europe and were almost invariably cured or greatly benefited. I believe that the Shivar Spring is the greatest mineral spring ever discovered and I believe it so firmly that I offer to send you enough water for a three weeks' treatment (two five-gallon demijohns) on my guarantee that if it fails to benefit your case I will refund the price. You would hardly believe if I told you that only about two out of a hundred on the average, say that they have received no benefit. The water is restoring thousands. It restored my health when my friends and physicians thought my case was incurable and I am willing and anxious for you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If I win you become a life-friend of the Spring. If I lose I will be sorry for you, but I will appreciate your courtesy in giving the water a trial and will gladly refund your money on request. Sign the following letter:

Shivar Spring,
Box 90, Shelton, S. C.
Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

“BILLY” SUNDAY THE MAN AND HIS MESSAGE

By William T. Ellis, LL.D.

AUTHORIZED BY MR. SUNDAY

Tells the story of Mr. Sunday's eventful life, gives a keen analysis of his manner and methods and traces his remarkable success as the most conspicuous Christian leader in America, and also contains the heart of his message, arranged by subjects, including his vivid utterances, his startling epigrams and his homely, Lincoln-like illustrations that add to his tremendously earnest appeals. Published by special agreement for the use of copyrighted material and photographs.

OUR DEAD

Keys

Mrs. Emma Keys, the wife of Rev. Daniel A. Keys passed away Thursday morning, July 15, 1915, after a ten days' illness. Mrs. Keys had not been in very good health for many years. She was a native of Riverside, N. J. Some six years ago Rev. and Mrs. Keys came to South Norfolk when he became pastor of the church there. Mrs. Keys endeared herself to the membership of the churches her husband served, was much interested in all his work, was a kind and neighborly woman, and her ministries were many. Rev. and Mrs. Keys have no children of their own, but three children have found a home with them and they have been as their own children. One of them has grown to manhood and with his own family now lives at Riverside, N. J. One, a young lady of seventeen, and a boy of four, were living with them at the time of Mrs. Keys' death. Rev. Mr. Keys is the beloved pastor of the Rosemont Christian church near Norfolk. The funeral services were held at the church of which he is pastor, conducted by the writer and assisted by the ministers of the Christian Ministers Association, Revs. L. F. Johnson, George D. Eastes, W. H. Gamman, H. E. Rountree, L. L. Lassiter, and W. W. Staley, Saturday at three o'clock, July 17, 1915, and the mortal part was laid to sleep in Riverside cemetery. The community sympathizes with Bro. Keys in his loss and his brother ministers share the sorrow with him.

WARREN H. DENISON.

Johnson

William Gay, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Johnson, of Gilmerton, Va., was born in Norfolk county April 4th, 1899, and passed out of this life by drowning, Aug. 4th, 1915; aged sixteen years and four months. He was a young man of the highest ideals and from his earliest boyhood his life was controlled by the purpose of attaining the best. Having joined the Third Christian church of Norfolk when but eight years old, he lived a Christian life in the truest sense of that term and often spoke of the ministry as a life calling. His death was sudden, unexpected and untimely in every respect and the whole community, in which he was very popular, as well as his large circle of friends and acquaintances, are grieved at his departure. There remains to mourn their loss, father and mother, a sister, Miss Esther, a brother, Willard, and his grandmother, Mrs. Jane Andrews, who resides with the family. Added to these immediate relations, many other relatives, his classmates and a host of friends.

GEO. D. EASTES.

Herndon

Whereas, God in His divine wisdom has called from her earthly home and transplanted her to the home beyond our friend and sister Ada Herndon;

We deeply feel the loss of our dear sister, but bow in humble submission to God's will for we know the "Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; bless his holy name."

Therefore, be it resolved, First, That her going from our midst will be a great loss to her friends and relatives and leaves a vacancy and a shadow in Concord Christian church of which she was a faithful member.

Second, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in this sad hour and commend them to Jesus the great Healer of all sorrow.

Third, That the Lord may comfort the bereaved ones and when they are called hence, may they all meet Ada and form an unbroken family around God's great united throne, where joy, peace and love reigneth eternally.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy to be recorded in the Secretary's book of Concord Christian church and a copy to be published in The Christian Sun.

J. W. MASSEY,
MISS IDA ANDERSON,
MISS ROSA SAUNDERS,
Committee.

Pierce

Our Heavenly Father in His wisdom has taken from our midst our esteemed friend and brother, E. T. Pierce. His religious life was one of deep conviction, great faith and fervent zeal. Therefore, we, the members of Pleasant Grove Christian church, do adopt the following resolutions:

First, That the loss of such a life leaves a vacancy which will be deeply felt by all the members of the church, and will prove a great loss to his immediate friends and relatives.

Second, That with deepest sympathy for his bereaved wife and children we express our hope that even so great a loss to us may be for good.

Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be recorded in Secretary's book of Pleasant Grove church, and a copy be published in The Christian Sun.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Sharing Our Sorrows

*God wills that we have sorrows here,
And we will share it;
Whisper thy sorrow in my ear,
That I may also hear it.
If anywhere our trouble seems
To find an end,
'Tis in the fairy land of dreams,
Or with a friend.*

—Tennyson.

Conscience

Remorse is as old as sin. This is because man has a conscience. And, wrote the poet Schiller, "Only the morm of conscience consorts with the owl. Sinners and evil spirits shun the light." Evil seeks cover and loves darkness. "Men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil." (John 3:19.)

The Supreme Thing

It is not genius, nor intellect, nor culture that warms the world and makes all things possible; it is the heart, soul, and "the fire of life." When any system or curriculum or theory of things puts culture above character and genius above grace and goodness, one is doing what Emerson called "painting lightning with charcoal." This was never spoken of the heart or the mind of man: "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." (Prov. 4:23.)

Guarding Their Treasure

On August 10 there arrived in New York from Canada a train of steel cars carrying $52,000,000, two-thirds of which was gold, the other third securities. Forty armed men guarded the treasure which had been brought from England in a battle cruiser. The cost of transportation, guarding, interest, and such was $250,000. The English are fearing for their treasure and are hiding it, locking it in supposedly secure places and shipping it at great expense and caution from their country. If men feared for their heavenly possessions as they do for the earthly far greater would be the treasure awaiting them in that better land where wars do not come and thieves do not break through nor steal. "For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." (Mat. 6:21.)

Without Price

Recently a very lucrative offer was made to a devout church member in Detroit, Mich., to convert his manufacturing establishment into a munitions factory. The offer was declined in these words: "I will make and sell what will do men good, but what will injure others I will not make." Hundreds of other Christian men in this country have declined to get rich quick on similar offers during the present conflict. It is comforting to know that in this age of graft and greed there are those who are without price and cannot be bought.

A Nation On Its Knees

In a great sermon before thousands of Territorials in St. Paul's Cathedral, on a recent Sunday afternoon the Bishop of London made this utterance, "If we are to rise to our vocation the first essential thing is that as a nation we should turn to God. The only power which can save Europe today is a nation which, while it fights and works and serves and saves, is also a nation on its knees." In an inspired moment the great prophet Isaiah cried, "The word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, That unto me every knee shall bow." (Isa. 45:23.)

The Best Gift

What is the best gift that one could wish for oneself? Is it money, lands, houses, fame, honor, preferment? The beloved, and very sensible Dr. Grenfell says "The best gift that I can conceive that God could give to one human life is opportunity. Success seems to me to be not in what we have, but in what we do with what we have, that is, on the opportunity to use it." No honest, sane person could prefer a better gift—the opportunity to do, to be, to serve. For this is none other than the gift of God about which Paul wrote to his spiritual son Timothy saying, "Stir up the gift of God which is in thee." (II Tim. 1:6.)

The Church

Mr. J. B. Duke, a former North Carolinian, now a wealthy business man of New York, makes announcement that he has decided to give $35,000 annually to North Carolina Methodism, fifteen thousand to be used in church extension work in the State, ten thousand to be used for home missions, and ten thousand for superannuate preachers. Mr. Duke assigns as his reason for the gift: "I wish to do some good and feel that this is the best way to do it. I have no other purpose. The Church is the only institution that lasts. Other institutions change and pass away, but the Church abides; and the good I try to do I wish to do through the Church. And I have great faith and interest in the country Church. From it comes the best we have in the Church, State or business. It should be kept strong and active. I have thought much about our country Churches and wish to help them some." Another and a wiser One said of the Church, "I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Mat. 16:18.)

Solomon's Advice

It is said that President Wilson is getting bushels of advice by mail these days as to how best to direct our Government in the present crisis. The following was in his recent letters: "I hope, Mr. Wilson, whether you desire a second term of the high office you hold or not, you will not allow such slurs and cant as that of 'patient waiting,' etc., to cause you to change your wise, prudent and common-sense administration. Let Mexico, England, France, Germany, Austria and Russia settle their own quarrel, on land, on sea, and in the sky; and let the people of the United States, with our own manifold questions of political economy that confront us, remember Prov. 20:3, 'It is an honor for a man to cease from strife; but every fool will be meddling'; and Prov. 26:17, 'He that passeth by, and meddleth with strife belonging not to him, is like one that taketh a dog by the ears.' Read this to your Cabinet. I think that, whether they are averse to taking a dog by the ears or not, they will agree that Solomon's advice on the administration of our national government is worthy of our highest consideration."

Murmuring

The people of the United States are the richest on earth, both per capita and as a nation. Our workmen receive a larger wage than any others, our capitalists receive larger profits, our land lords higher rent, and our planters larger return than the peoples of any other clime or tongue. According to the August crop report of the Department of Agriculture the forecast of food crops for the present year are most favorable indeed. The corn yield is estimated at 2,918,000,000 bushels, an increase of 284,000,000 over last year; and the estimated winter and spring yield of wheat is 966,000,000 or 75,000,000 over the yield of 1914. During the past year, "war time," we have exported agricultural products to the value of $1,289,388,057, an increase of about $224,000,000 over the amount exported last year. And yet it is doubtful if there is as much complaint and murmuring among any other people on earth, and there are more "hard times" and "money panics" amongst us than amongst any other peoples. Verily riches cannot satisfy, and an increase in wealth means an increase in discontent, murmurings and complaints. "They despised the pleasant land, they believed not his word; But murmured in their tents, and mocked him not unto the voice of the Lord." (Psa 106:25.)

—Italy which some months ago declared war on Austria, on August 21 declared war against Turkey. The whole European world seems mad with the lust for human blood.

—Great Britain has declared cotton absolute contraband of war, but proposes "to take steps to relieve any depression which might temporarily disturb the cotton market." The general belief is that as much cotton will be shipped under contraband as before, and that there will be little disturbance so far as prices are concerned.

A REAL CHURCH PROBLEM

In our modern complex civilization the church has problems of a most momentous type. It is doubtful, in fact, if the church ever faced a situation as serious, as trying, and as multifarious as at present. Business interests and material development have come to be so strenuous and complex that there are ever new and untried problems confronting the church. Stranding out, as possibly the most prominent and pressing of these problems, is that of how to enlist the interest of laymen in the real work of the church.

Take for consideration the matter of missions. This is an opportunity and task of sufficient proportions to challenge the wisdom and the sacrifice of the best, sanest, and soundest business judgment. Missions in our day have passed the sentimental and the emotional stage and appeal, in superlative degree, to the calmest judgment and widest wisdom of the day; or should do so. We are assured that men of means make their investments where largest returns of satisfaction, comfort, and enjoyment are expected. Now, any one taking the pains to investigate on his own account, will find that the largest field of opportunity for real service to humanity in our day is that of sending the Gospel to, teaching, or helping to uplift, the millions in pagan lands who are in poverty, want and degradation, not because they prefer it, but because they are reduced to it by religious prejudice and vain superstition. A man and his money can do more in our time for the elevation of the race, the betterment of humanity, and the cause of righteousness among those who have not had the opportunity of Christian evangelization than in any other field of human endeavor. Rapid transit, wireless telegraphy and other modern inventions have eliminated nationalities and made the entire world one in service, suffering, and fellowship.

Such facts as these are common place, and known to all who care to inform themselves; but the real problem is, How to enlist the interest of our men of means in a movement of the church fraught with such power and possibility? Attend an annual Conference and nine-tenths of the planning and the talking relative to church polity and plans is done by the ministry. Laymen, as a rule, are usually conspicuous by their absence, or are indifferent when vital problems arise and are to be discussed. There is power with the laymen, but how to utilize that power is the question. There is wisdom and business acumen among the laymen, but how to benefit by that wisdom and business acumen is a problem unsolved. Laymen feel that there is a professionalism about what the ministry does in church movements, and ministers themselves feel sorely this fact. But how is it to be otherwise when in our church councils laymen, if present, assume a disinterested attitude, or as most often happens, absent themselves altogether?

We know of a certainty that the Christian church in particular suffers severely because of its inability thus far to arouse wide-spread interest among its laymen, and to enlist their wisdom and means in its propaganda. He who will solve the problem of securing the co-operation, sympathy, and interest of laymen in our larger church problems will certainly prove himself a benefactor to the church and to the race. Brethren of the laity, your church needs your wisdom, and suffers severely from your indifference. How can the burden of the church, with all its offers of opportunity, privilege and pursuit be laid upon the heart of the capable and intelligent laity? To our mind no larger problem presses with more urgency for solution.

OUR WOMEN GO FORWARD

By reference to the Woman's Missionary Department this week, SUN readers will see that our Woman's Missionary Board of the Southern Christian Convention mean business and are in the forward movement for missions. As is announced, the Board having decided that there must be a Woman's Missionary Society in every church and a mission study class in every society, and, that the women of our churches shall have an opportunity to do something for missions, have voted to put a secretary in the field to give all her time to the development of the missionary interest among the women in the churches of the Southern Christian Convention. The one selected to undertake this work is Miss Annie Williams, who has been deeply interested in missions for years, and who in her local church has done what she could to interest women in missions. She has been identified with our Orphanage and held for a number of months a responsible position with Elon College, and for many years has been an active member in New Providence church, Graham, while residing in the home of Rev. J. W. Holt. Miss Williams is intelligent, energetic, capable, thoroughly identified with the church in all its forward movements and is deeply interested in missions. Our women in the various churches will certainly receive information and inspiration from her visits and we have no doubt that she will be instrumental in creating in the churches to which she will go a deep and lasting interest in missions. We congratulate the Woman's Board on securing the services of Miss Williams and feel that it means great things for our Woman's work. Miss Williams is to begin her work Sept. 1st. Her headquarters and post office address will be Elon College, N. C., from which point she will go to the various churches as occasion and opportunity may afford. If any sister reads this line and feels that she should have a missionary society in her church, let her take the matter under consideration and write Miss Williams, by whose help we have no doubt such a society can be organized. We feel sure that there are great things for our women to do, and evidently the members of the Woman's Board feel the same; hence this forward step.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—St. Louis lost eleven lives in a flood which swept a section of that city Aug. 20.

—In the sinking of the English liner Arabic by a German submarine 39 lives were lost.

—A total of 256 lives lost and property damage to the extent of $50,000,000 in the Galveston floods of last week.

—As the Allies have declared cotton contraband of war, Treasurer McAdoo says he will place $30,000,000 if needed in the South to help take care of the cotton crop.

—The last of Brigham Young's 19 wives died at her home in Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 21. She was 87. Young was the "father" of Mormonism and of many other ills and evils which Utah and the whole country fell unhappy heir to.

—The Methodist Times, successor to the Philadelphia Methodist, a denominational paper of wide circulation for the past forty years issued its last number July 30, and went out of business. The religious press is being crowded to the wall by the secular press and the growing tendency toward materialism.

—Rev. C. E. Newman and family, Raleigh, are resting at Elon, the baby of the family having been quite ill but now very rapidly improving.

—Bro. K. B. Johnson and family of Cardenas, N. C., were welcome visitors to Elon this week. If the College had one hundred friends like Kemp Johnson it could do anything it wanted to do, and would soon be the foremost church college in all the South.

—If a field of service in easy access of Elon College, were to offer to Rev. W. D. Harward, Newport News, Va., he would move his family to Elon we are advised. This is an opportunity for some of our near-by churches to secure a devout, capable, and worthy pastor.

—Rev. O. D. Poythress who graduated from Elon in June is now travelling representative of THE SUN and Publishing House and is doing faithful service. We greatly appreciate any service the friends render him. If you need printing of any sort hand it to him or send to us your order. The same will have prompt and accurate attention.

—Speaking of the Township Sunday school Convention at Burlington last Sunday the Burlington Dispatch says: "The principal speaker on the program was Dr. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, who delivered a most splendid and magnificent address on 'The Prepared Teacher.'" Other addresses were made by Hon. E. S. W. Dameron, Rev. A. B. Kendall and Prof. J. B. Robertson.

—The following are the members of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Southern Christian Convention: Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., Pres.; Mrs. A. T. Banks, Henderson, N. C., Vice-Pres.; Mrs. W. H. Carroll, Burlington, N. C., Secretary; Mrs. W. T. Walters, Winchester, Va., Treas.; Mrs. W. A. Harper, Elon College, N. C., Corresponding Sec.; Mrs. Mamie Holland Leathers, Holland, Va., Supt. Y. P. Societies; Mrs. A. F. Smith, Cardenas, N. C., Supt. Lit. and Mite Boxes; Mrs. L. F. Johnson, Berkeley, Va., Supt. Cradle Roll.

—Rev. Jas. L. Foster, pastor of Waverly church was a pleasant visitor to THE SUN office this week. He reports a very fine meeting at Spring Hill church, of which he is pastor, and in which meeting Rev. Victor Lightbourne, evangelist, did the preaching. He thinks that Bro. Lightbourne never preached abler or more eloquent or effective sermons than in this meeting. The church was greatly revived and built up, and there were many accessions at the close of the meeting. Bro. Lightbourne this week is with pastor I. W. Johnson in a meeting at Berea (Nansemond).

—In the death of Mrs. Bettie M. Jones, Holland, Va., Aug. 21, THE CHRISTIAN SUN and its editor personally loses a staunch and devoted friend. Hers was indeed a most enviable life and one of the very best and finest characters we ever knew. She combined vital piety with common sense and superior intelligence in a marked manner. She was a woman of splendid business tact and ability, but never allowed affairs to interfere with attendance at and service for her church. Her door was ever wide open to preachers of the gospel, whom she entertained in great numbers and most graciously. Her sons and daughters and hosts of friends rise up to call her blessed. She lived at the time of her death in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wilson J. Holland. The funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. B. F. Black, assisted by Drs. Rowland and Lawless.

—Rev. Billy Sunday went out to the Panama Exposition at San Francisco and preached three or four times. Tens of thousands flocked to hear him. A San Francisco reporter for a New York paper wrote: "Sunday has gripped San Francisco. He is as big an attraction as the exposition. Ten thousand people jammed and crammed into and about the tabernacle. Not large compared with some of his Eastern crowds, but marvelously large for San Francisco. And on Monday afternoon at the exposition grounds, under the auspices of the Bible Congress, in the Court of the Universe, the crowd surged and clamored, and fought for seats just as wildly and as determinedly as they did to hear Theodore Roosevelt a week ago. The Court of the Universe was crowded. Sunday was at his best. He swayed that out-of-doors audience just as he did the audience in the tabernacle."

—It is far better to be born right than to be born rich. Now comes a case in point. We recently described, without any pink tea flourish, a dinner such as Mrs. Atkinson serves any day in this fine vegetable season, and invited all our friends to come visit us at once. None came; but instead dear ones sent us additional delicacies. Our good friend A. G. Hayes, Norlina, N. C., forwarded by express prepaid, two crates of canteloupes as sweet and savory as ever grew; and our long timed brother and faithful friend, Capt. J. A. Turrentine, Burlington, contributes to our luxury a bushel of great and gorgeous tomatoes; and Miss Beale Garvin, Timber Ridge, W. Va., by parcel post sends a box of incomparable mountain huckleberries. Now what would an ordianry fisherman—say, for instance, like Dr. Staley—think, if he were to get such fine favors as that all in one week? It is certainly great to be living now.

A CHAUTAUQUA SUGGESTION

Last year at the Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christian Church a course of lectures on "The Minister" was delivered by Dr. W. W. Staley. The course was so rich and valuable that he was requested to have them published in permanent form. He did so and those lectures should be used in our schools and colleges where they will be in reach of the student bodies. This year there were several courses of lectures given on vital subjects and by vote of the Committee of Fifty the writers were requested to give them a wider hearing either by offering them to our church papers or having them put in permanent form, and some of the classes by vote asked their instructors personally to do the same. It seems to the writer that at least four of these courses given should be given before the students of our several institutions. The course of five on "The Minister" by Dr. Sargent; the course of five on "Evangelism" by Dr. Powers; the course of four by Dr. Atkinson on "The Missionary Conscience"; the course of five by Dr. Coffin on "Church Efficiency and Christian Leadership." Not that the other addresses were not as good but these courses brought out the very best of thought and would be of inestimable value to our students-at the Christian Biblical Institute, Defiance, Elon, Palmer, Union Christian colleges. I hope several of these courses may be given before each of our schools.

SUFFOLK LETTER

Dr. Atkinson's description of the dinner Mrs. Atkinson served for him recently and his broad invitation to his "friends who think to visit us this year would come right now" provokes me to say two things: His praise of Mrs. Atkinson is just and true and suggests that men usually say least about their wives. Now a "good wife is a good thing," according to Solomon, and he had so many he could make comparison and tell us the truth. His kind thought of Editor Harris of Charlotte Observer and this scribe in connection with his wife's good dinner and his friends puts us in a class which ought to make us proud that we are put in the buttermilk list. I had known for a long time that Mrs. Atkinson could beat the world on "scalloped potatoes" and I have been willing for years to sign a Diploma for her with the degree of P. C. which means "potato cook." If there is a Domestic Science University anywhere of high grade and they will issue a Diploma or Certificate, I will gladly endorse it.

The second thing I want to say is that Mrs. Staley is a good cook, too, and we have had our dinner and twenty-seven partook of it. Fourteen of my Alamance kin came down in automobiles and spent part of the day. George Cook, John Cook and wife, Bob Cook, Mrs. L. M. Clendenin and Nina, Miss L. M. Staley, Staley Cook, W. C. Kirkpatrick, wife and sons, Everett and Alton, Jesse Bradshaw and wife, and Ben Holden, wife and Patricia of Louisburg and Mr. Evans of Burlington. The home folks and colored folks made up the twenty-seven. Here is the menu: Ham and cabbage, cornfield peas, butter beans, corn pudding, baked tomatoes, lamb, fried chicken, bread, crackers, pickles, stuffed eggs, iced tea, milk, apple pie, ice cream, cake, water melon and mints; and it was all first class. Mrs. Staley and Annie can put up as good country summer dinner as any man's wife and daughter. They all enjoyed the dinner after long machine ride.

Dr. Atkinson has for years been trying to make the public believe that I was not in his class as a fisherman; but when he comes to the dinner question and tries to make it appear that my folks are behind his folks, I am compelled to arise and make a few feeble remarks. If I let his claims go unchallenged he will soon claim the land and sea. He has already set up a claim for pond and dining room.

As to his neighbor's buttermilk in case friends come, I am prepared again. Sheriff W. H. Allen of Louisburg sent me four big water melons by Ben Holden for this family occasion. One of them weighed 47½ pounds, another 40½ and the other two were in the same class.

In the dining room at dinner I offered about the following prayer: "Our Father, we thank thee for family life and family love. We thank thee for this family re-union and we pray thy blessing upon the members who would be present today if they could.

We thank thee for this meal. Help us in the strength which it gives to more perfectly do thy will. Bless us when separated and help us to walk worthy of thy love and thy care. Amen.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The railways are certainly kind to us and our students this year. The S. A. L. is to operate a special car from Portsmouth via Henderson to Durham where it will be transferred to the Southern for Elon on the 31st of August. The train which arrives here at 6:32 p. m. on the same day from Goldsboro over the Southern will also carry a special car for Elon students.

Mrs. C. E. Hudson, Greensboro, N. C., has assured the President that the Young Women's Christian Association of Greensboro, N. C., will give special attention to young ladies en route to Elon and having to change cars in that city.

Students have already begun to arrive. The great influx, however, will occur on Aug. 30 to Sept. 1. The majority will arrive on Aug. 31. The prospect is very bright. Our friends have certainly worked hard for the College this summer to everyone of whom we express our hearty and sincere thanks.

Visitors the past week were Rev. E. M. Carter, Chipley, Ga.; Rev. J. V. Knight, of everywhere; Rev. J. L. Foster, Waverly, Va.; Mr. C. A. Ballentine, Fuquay Springs; Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herndon, Aseboro, N. C.; Mr. R. O. Tate, Norfolk, Va.; Miss Lena Barnes, High Point, N. C.; Mr. Banks Murray, Blanche, N. C.; Mr. R. M. Vestal, Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johnson are back from Columbia and are agreeably quartered in the West Dormitory. They are getting the gymnasium and Library ready for the students.

Rev. J. W. Wellons is in Norfolk this week, officiating at the marriage of his grand-niece. He returns Thursday.

Capt. H. E. Jorgenson is vacating in Eastern Virginia for the remainder of the summer.

President Harper was at the Randolph County S. S. Convention in Ramseur Thursday and the Burlington S. S. Convention Sunday of last week.

Dr. T. C. Amick preached an educational sermon at Youngsville on last Sunday, with Rev. W. G. Clements, pastor. Dr. Staley also preached at the same rally.

Mrs. Harper entertained the Willing Workers of the local church at a cantaloupe and water melon feast Saturday. It was a thing of beauty to see the little folks enjoy themselves.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson officiated at the marriage of Trustee K. Beale Johnson to Miss Mamie G. Cheek, in Durham last Thursday. All Elon will wish them a long and happy life. Elon has no better friend than Brother Johnson. His wife will be found equally as loyal.

Mr. Grady Smith, son of Brother W. L. Smith of our city, was married to Miss Elizabeth Garvin, of Salisbury, on the 18th instant. They will make their home in Greensboro where Mr. Smith serves the Southern as machinist. We wish them well.

Mr. J. H. Farmer has returned from the "big meeting" at Pleasant Grove. He is a good Farmer, but his wife is a better. She is growing tomatoes that weigh from one and one half to two pounds, and good all the way through.

Dr. W. P. Lawrence returns to the Hill after a rest period in the Western N. C. mountains on Thursday of this week.

The fourth quarterly Conference of the College church is called to meet on Wednesday evening the 25th.

Miss Urquhart, Mrs. Peace and Mrs. Machen arrived Tuesday and are getting the West Dormitory and College Dining Hall ready for the opening.

All the Elon family will regret that Miss Jean Demuth, our new director in music, has suffered a complete physical breakdown. Complete rest for at least a year is her physician's requirement. She will have the sympathy of all. But at the same time all will rejoice in the happy overruling of this misfortune to the College's good. Our ease was laid before the New England Conservatory and Director Chadwick was kind enough to release one of his own faculty members to us, Miss Anna M. Baker, who has studied in the New England Conservatory six years and taught there too, a graduate in piano and voice and thoroughly "at home in harmony, analysis, sight singing, ear-training, theory, music history, concert work, and in French, German and Italian diction" to quote Mr. Chadwick. She is a woman of culture and refinement, two of her uncles being Harvard professors. She is also genuinely interested in the religious life. We count ourselves peculiarly fortunate in being able to secure so splendidly equipped a director for the music department.

A MESSAGE TO THE PASTORS OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION

Nearly two months ago the following letter was sent to each pastor within the bounds of the Southern Christian Convention setting forth our obligation to the foreign mission work of the denomination and the action of our S. C. C. in its last session. Will you each please write to us telling what you have done, and what you are planning to do, and when you will do it? We desire to keep in close touch with all our pastors and we ask your cooperation in giving the information so that we may use it to help others. Conference time is close at hand. May we hear from you in the next few days on the matter contained in the letter?

WARREN H. DENISON,

Chairman Foreign Mission Committee.

August 2, 1915.

Dear Brother:

Our committee had a meeting recently to consider the foreign mission work of our Convention. It lays heavily on our hearts and we have had several meetings for prayer and plans. We are writing to you and to all our pastors in the interest of this vital work. You will recall what careful and prayerful consideration the Convention gave to the vital nature of foreign mission work to the life of our churches. After most deliberate consideration it was unanimously voted that we raise from our people an average at least of one cent per week from the number of members on our church rolls, or an average of 52 cents per enrolled member in a whole year. We can easily do that if we put our hearts to the task for some of our own churches are giving as much as two or three dollars per member for foreign missions. An average of 52 cents per member in the Southern Convention would be between $11,000 and $12,000. That would be an amount that would materially help do a work worth while.

If every church in the Convention should bring in its full conference apportionment for foreign missions it would be less than one-sixth of the amount we have voted to raise; and we all know that an average of eight cents per member is but a pittance of what we should do and what we have voted to do. We know that our brethren are not satisfied with that, much less can Christ be pleased.

We further realize that the pastor is the key to the situation in his field. As your brethren and as servants of the church, we write you to see what you will do in your charge to help raise the amount voted by our Convention. Will you make the matter a subject of earnest prayer; will you call together some of your most spiritual members in prayer groups; will you undertake the matter in a serious way in will you lay it upon the hearts of your brethren, have special days, and preach upon the matter and in some way help to reach the aim? It is not for us to say that you shall do it, but we come asking you to lay the matter seriously to heart. More than a year has already passed since we took that action and we must hasten the matter without delay. We believe we can count on you to undertake this matter aggressively in your field, and we believe we can count on your hearty co-operation. Will you write us your plans in the matter. We desire helpful suggestions. It will be a new day for our churches in their real life when we can bring eleven or twelve thousands of dollars for this cause so near the heart of our Christ.

Some will talk dull times, and in a measure it may be true, but what are dull times as compared with a world at war, and as compared with the missionary force of the world now out in all the dangers and hardships. We never ought to mention dull times when we remember what missionaries and native Christians are enduring for Christ now. May we count on your positive, active, aggressive help?

Yours for Christ,

FOREIGN MISSION COMMITTEE,
Warren H. Denison, Chairman
W. D. Harward, Secretary...

THE CHURCH AND EDUCATION

BY REV. G. A. CONIBEAR, FALL RIVER, MASS.

(Before the Craigville, Mass., Chautauqua)

An unfortunate opinion prevails that the church is an obstructionist as to progress, and that its influence is inimical to education in the real broad and liberal sense.

The Christian church inherited from the system of Indiaism the idea of the importance of training the youth, and the church has ever been more or less energetic in fostering the thought of learning. But the church has been more concerned as to its own conception of knowledge and learning than it has for the development of the people and the true nature of learning. Schools were rather for certain ideas than for discovering truth. True education seeks always to develop training and use of the faculties so that the individual will be ready to recognize truth and appreciate it, of whatever kind it is.

The church would be the patron of learning and research because the world is infinite in its fulness, and God has arranged it that those who seek in this shall surely find. The universe is open to the human soul and all schools should in the large sense be of the university spirit.

Why be afraid? Why not be hospitable to all the facts in God's world? No research can destroy a verity. Kepler has helped us to see how the heavens declare the glory of God, and Edison has helped us to a faith in the things unseen. Humility is a becoming grace to those who would follow the Christ, who declared that there were many things yet to be revealed. The world also must recognize that notwithstanding some episodes in history and barring the influence of some ultraconservatives, the church has stood for learning in a definite measure, it has fostered intelligence and been a factor in the progress of humanity.

In the middle ages, the darkest spot of church history, the fiars were a sort of peripatetic school as they traveled from place to place, carrying information, lighting torches of intelligence here and there. The schools of the Jesuits saved the Roman church from total darkness. This country of ours is a striking and splendid illustration of the work of the church in promoting education with so many private schools and so many colleges and institutions of higher learning, which at a great sacrifice in many cases have been established in the interests of education. It is safe to say that the church has been one chief factor in the work of education, for it has always stood for instruction in the rudiments of education without which little progress would have been possible. What the church has done should be remembered to its credit and should soften the spirit of criticism regarding her past.

There are two things the church should do today in the interests of education:

1. It should discountenance the spirit of hostility against the university as such, the spirit that would discourage efforts of inquiry, research and investigation. Not that such institutions are beyond the realm of criticism. They may be extravagant, have insane professors, go daft on athletics, be frivolous and shoddy in their work. But the purposes and ideals of a university are legitimate and necessary. The church should make clear and definite its sympathy as to the fullest opportunity for education for all classes. Christianity thrives on intelligence, while this cannot be said of all religions. We can congratulate ourselves as a nation in this and indeed this may also be said as to ourselves as a branch of the church. One thing, we hope, may be said without qualification concerning our schools as a people, that they are democratic institutions. And this is well and as it should be.

2. The church is to see to it that there shall be thorough education as to its own specific mission and significance. The great work of the church is teaching. "Go teach" is the great word of the Christ to his followers. It is very vital that the church attend to teaching. It is vital to be born, but birth without development means paralysis. The Christ life and purpose are of tremendous significance. The nature of Christianity itself demands study.

After 2000 years of experience, it seems neither to be exhausted nor comprehended.

The church has rightly been devoting some effort toward studying the Bible but it is as important to understand humanity and is just as difficult.

Would there be so much indifference to missions if the people had a keener comprehension of what Christianity means? When there is of what Christianity means? When there is gacity, outlook and understanding.

To be born into the Kingdom does not mean understanding the Kingdom. Jesus grew in wisdom and Paul looked at things differently in later years. If men understood better what the Gospel is they would not be as shy of it as they seem to be. Jesus seemed to assume that if people really understood Him, they would flock to His banner. An imperfect conception of the Gospel tends to a misrepresentation of the Gospel. To be a true witness it is important to know the facts as they are.

Many churches have among their regular and paid workers a Supt. of Instruction. Along with this are the Teacher's Training Classes. It should be assumed and understood always that after a person has been in the church a certain period, he should be able to give an intelligent and clear statement as to the nature and purpose of the Bible. It is really pathetic to observe how little some people seem to know of the Bible, even after they have been in the Sunday school for many years.

Another feature of the curriculum of the church should be religion itself. As we all recognize, one may be exceedingly religious and be an utter stranger to Christianity. Christianity is true religion, sane religion, the supreme religion; but how is the average man to understand and appreciate this without an acquaintance with other forms and manifestations of religion?

Another field is history. "His Story" one has suggested. It is a great factor in the development of Christian character in the true and real sense.

The methods of work present another wide field. Christian Endeavor has been an attempt at this, but it has hardly been methodic and systematic.

"The Kingdom of heaven suffereth violence." If Christianity is vital for eternity as well as for time we shall find time and energy for all it requires. Just as soon as the church takes itself seriously, it will get what it desires.

The call to embody and exemplify genuine and rational religion was never more opportune, the circumstances never more propitious, nor the promise more appealing than now.

S. S. LESSON, AUG. 29

God's Care of Elijah. I Kings 17:1-16

Golden Text—Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.—I Peter 5:7.

Just preceding Elijah the nation of Israel was changing kings every few years. The nation was divided and unrest prevailed. Jeroboam had led Israel into sin and taught them to worship graven images.

When Asa ascended the throne the situation was discouraging. The people in sin—living immoral lives and in constant war with one another. Asa, as we found in last Sunday's lesson was a real reformer. By the help of God he won great victories. But the kings succeeding Asa led Israel into sin as did Jeroboam.

In today's lesson we meet a man of God, whose life is interesting because he walked with his hands in God's hands. His faith was fixed in Jehovah.

We know very little of his parentage and preparation for the work God planned for him to do.

It took courage for Elijah to face the wicked king with God's message. Elijah was the man for this work. He was fearless under the leadership of Jehovah and dared to deliver the message. Ahab was one of the most wicked kings Israel ever had.

To deliver this message was dangerous. Elijah put himself in God's hands and feared no evil. After delivering the message God told Elijah where to go in order to save his life. He went where God commanded him to go for he knew God would care for him in the wilderness. The ravens brought him bread and flesh twice a day and he found water in the brook Cherith.

This part of the lesson seems at first thought rare and out of the ordinary, but there are many Elijahs in our land today. Many are being fed and sustained by the birds of the air, as it were, but they are God's children. God does not protect and feed men and women in mysterious ways unless they follow Him. God is always ready to help those who help Him. He cared for Elijah in a most marvelous way. He will care for you in a similar way if you will but trust Him.

God asked the widow to help Him care for Elijah. Thus the widow was cared for too. Are we helping God to care for His servants? God has never failed to keep and sustain those who trust Him.

"The man that stands before Jehovah need not fear the face of man."

"The child of the King while obeying his Father may trust Him for daily bread though it comes only one meal at a time."

"God uses those that do not acknowledge Him to minister to the needs of His servants."

C. E. TOPIC, AUG. 29

Frivolity—Its Dangers and Remedies
Ecl. 2:1-13

To be frivolous is to be weak and shallow. We may be frivolous in many ways. We may be frivolous in the Christian Endeavor society. How may we? In many ways. We may be frivolous by going to the meetings without study of the topics, without praying for the success of the meeting; or without keeping the pledge.

We may speak of religion without being earnest. This would be the height of frivolity. It is dangerous to be frivolous in living this life. We may be frivolous with our physical and mental bodies as well as with our spiritual bodies.

In taking our vacations it seems apparent to many that we are idle and worthless to the community. Many who take their vacations do pass from the aim of the vacation—renewing and recuperating the mental, physical and spiritual body—to a frivolous life and extravagant living. It is this that gives the summer resorts the name they have.

Can Christian Endeavorers remedy this evil and establish sport for recreation's sake?

Endeavorers may be profited by trying to influence those who indulge in frivolous speech to be earnest and thoughtful of what they say. The man who thinks and asks himself the question, "what would Jesus say" will become earnest and leave off the unnecessary words, thoughts and deeds, thereby building a stronger and more influential character.

Let us be more earnest and Christ-like in our walks of life.

Do not try something for the fun of seeing the results. Do the thing that is worth while.

FOR ANSWER IN THE MEETING

When is speech frivolous and how can we avoid frivolous speech?

When is prayer, even, frivolous?

When is Bible-reading frivolous?

How does frivolity hurt our prayer meetings?

What is frivolity in sport?

What is frivolous dress?

How does frivolity injure friendship?

Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Department

This Department is edited by Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., assisted by other members of the Board, to whom all items of Missionary interest and matter for the Department should be sent.

A FIELD SECRETARY FOR OUR WOMAN'S WORK

It was announced through these columns that Miss Annie Williams had been elected Field Secretary or Organizer by the S. C. C. Woman's Board. Miss Williams has accepted the place and, using her own words, she is going to throw her heart and life into the work. She feels her weakness and the need of our hearty support and asks that our women everywhere hold her up by their prayers, that she may have wisdom and strength and under the blessing of God, be able to do much toward establishing and strengthening the work.

And now, we feel that we want to appeal to the women among whom she shall go, and beg of you to support and to co-operate with her in the work she is doing. Do not let the peculiar difficulties that may loom up in your particular surroundings keep you from engaging in these organized for women, boys and girls. The greater the obstacles overcome, the greater the joy of overcoming. It is not an impossible thing for us, in any of our churches, to maintain some sort of helpful relationship and to combine our efforts in behalf of those not so favored as ourselves, if once we have had the responsibility we sustain towards such revealed to us and the desire to meet the same burning in our hearts. If we feel no concern for those in sin, for whom we are responsible, we may be sure there is something wrong within us. Our religion is vain and there is high need for us to get right ourselves. Perhaps doing something for others may prove for our own salvation.

It may be out of place to ask of the pastors, among whose churches Miss Williams may work to assist and support her in whatever way they can for you will recognize in her one whose mission, if acted upon, will put new life into the livest of your churches and will revive those that are languishing. And so we are counting on you for the heartiest of co-operation.

Sisters of our church, it seems that now is the time for us to show that we are in earnest about this matter. Now is the time for us to lengthen our cords and strengthen our stakes, and all pull together. Let us not forget to pray for Miss Williams in the work she is undertaking.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA AND SCHOOL OF METHODS

It was the writer's privilege to attend the Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods held by the Christian church at Virginia Beach. To say that it was good and enjoyable does not express it.

It was a great feast of good things from start to finish. The regular courses of lectures on various subjects are not only instructive but inspiring, giving a larger vision of our possibilities and opportunities. The week's association with the brethren from all parts of our Zion, makes the stay there pleasant and more profitable.

The great regret about the Chautauqua was that more of our people were not present. Every church should endeavor to have a representative present next year.

MEETINGS

Our meeting at O'Kelley's Chapel was a union meeting with Rankin's Chapel and Massey's Chapel. The meeting was conducted from Massey's Chapel church. It began the 18th of July and closed the 25th.

There were fifteen professions. Three have given their names to unite with O'Kelley's Chapel. The others with Massey's Chapel M. E.

The meeting was conducted by Rev. P. H. Massey of the M. E. church, Rev. L. M. Hall of the M. E. church and Revs. A. T. Banks and Thos. W. Strowd of the Christian church. To God be all the praise.

DAMASCUS

Our meeting at Damascus began July 24th and closed July 29th. There were two conversions. Rev. O. D. Poythress and Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., assisted in the meeting. To God be all the praise for the new born souls.

BETHEL

Our meeting began July 31st and closed Aug. 5th. Rev. J. C. Stuart was present and did all the preaching. There were three conversions and one addition. The ministers in all these churches endeared themselves to the people to whom they preached.

How to Fight Tuberculosis

Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, Texas, says: "Since lime salts constitute three-fourths of all the mineral substances of the human body, they must be supplied in the foods or supplemented in mineral preparations, or mineral starvation ensues, with tubercular unchecked. The spread of tuberculosis and other preventable diseases is due largely to decalcification (lacking) condition of multitudes throughout the civilized world."

Since lime is one of the ingredients of Eckman's Alternative, much of its success doubtless is due to its combination in such a way as to render it easily assimilable.

Eckman's Alternative has effected remarkable results in tuberculosis, which in many instances, apparently has yielded to it, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

My dear children:

We desire to call special attention to the liberal contribution this week from the Willing Workers Society of Berea (Norfolk). It shows how helpful children may be when they organize and begin to work for others. Twelve dollars will buy many good things. My! how we would like to receive a hundred letters like this one right away. How it would relieve matters and enable us to sleep better at night and inspire us to work harder in the day.

We are greatly indebted to Master Ashley Breedlove and his good mother for a barrel of fine peaches. About the best we have seen this year. We are grateful for this valuable donation, and each child in the institution joins us in offering thanks.

On last Thursday we carried little Marion Franklin, one of our smaller boys to Dr. S. D. McPherson, Durham, N. C., who removed his tonsils and adenoids. He stood the operation fine. We wish here to record our grateful thanks to Drs. McPherson and Boone for this important operation free of charge.

See how many good things have come our way all in one week.

We are profoundly grateful not only for these special favors but to every one who has contributed to our work in any way.

Henderson, N. C., R6, Aug. 17 1915
Dear Uncle Jim: I have been a busy little girl of late, and didn't get my dime up in July. I am sending you this time. I wish you and the cousins could be down here to help me eat fruit. Come to see us at Liberty sometime. We have lots of little girls in the Sunday school who love the Cousins.
Virginia. Pearl Ayscue.

Thank you for the kind invitation to visit you and the many other friends at Liberty, and I shall be glad to do so at the first opportunity.

Holland, Va., Aug. 18, 1915.
Dear Uncle Jim: Please pardon us for not writing last month. We will try to do better in the future. But we are sending our dimes with this month's dimes. Hope it will do the same good. We had a little program Sunday afternoon at Holy Neck. I wish you and the all the orphanage family could have been with us. Wishing you much success in your good work, we your little friends,

Mary Nell and
J. Howard Holland.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18, 1915.

Dear Little Orphans: We are sending you a little offering of $12.00, from our Willing Workers society of Berea church. We organized our society this summer and hope we will do good work in helping the little orphans and the future of each one of you may be crowned with honor, is the wish of your little friends.

Charlotte Hall, Pres.,
Mary Hall, Sec.,
Nellie McCoy, Treas.

This letter is too good to keep so we pass it on that others may know of our faithful and liberal band of Willing Workers at Berea. Many thanks.

Drinking That Has Proven

Beneficial

This is not a statement to cause consternation among our readers because the beverage is Fointicello Mineral Water. The waters from this Mineral Spring have made restorations to health in cases of sickness of such lung standing that the sufferers had given themselves up to believe that recovery was impossible. The proposition in a nutshell is this: Pure Water—water that is free from organic matter is known by the medical profession to be the safest and best of all agents to cleanse the system—and flush the blood and vital organs before the refuse can contaminate them and interfere with their functions. It is through imtemperate eating and drinking of beverages, or the failure to drink plenty of water, and the exercise of common sense in living that we incur sickness, which finally becomes chronic.

But to prove the truth of the statement that Fointicello Mineral Water has made these wonderful restorations to health we make this Guarantee:

We will give you statements from physicians of acknowledged high reputation, of ministers and others who will show positively that Fointicello Water has cured them of many chronic diseases, including dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney and liver diseases, uric acid, etc.

We will ship you two five gallon carboys of Fointicello Water with the understanding that if it does not benefit you, we will return full purchase price.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL

Note Our Guarantee.

I want to try Fointicello Mineral Water and promise to use it regularly, daily, drinking the number of glasses prescribed in the directions which you agree to send me. If this treatment does not prove beneficial, you agree to refund purchase price upon receipt by you of the two empty carboys which I promise to return promptly.

Enclosed find money for which please send me two carboys of Fointicello Mineral Water referred to above.

WHERE DRUGS FAIL

Many chronic diseases fail to respond to drug treatment, even in the hands of the best physicians, whereas acute diseases usually respond readily. When a disease has become chronic, drugs often seem to do as much harm as they do good, for the system rebels against them. It is just this class of cases which derive the greatest benefit from Shivar Mineral Water. If you suffer with chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, uric acid poisoning or other conditions due to impure blood, do not hesitate to accept Mr. Shivar's liberal offer as printed below. His records show that only two in a hundred on the average, have reported "no beneficial results." This is a wonderful fact. Simply sign the following letter:

MARRIAGES

Craven-Albright

Mr. J. B. Albright and Miss Ida Albright were united in matrimony at Ramseur Aug. 4th. The groom is a son of W. A. Craven of Shiloh church and community, and the bride is a daughter of Rev. H. A. Albright. They came over the good road which unites Ramseur with their community in an automobile, and were accompanied by Miss Lillie Craven and Ernest Moffitt, and Allah Moffitt and C. W. Craven. May their married life be long and happy.

Lankford-Carr

In Suffolk, Virginia, on Saturday evening, August 1, 1915, at half after seven o'clock, Miss ida Bell Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Carr, was married to Mr. Gardner Duke Lankford of Newport News, Va. After the ceremony about seventy-five guests enjoyed a reception at the home of the bride's parents on Main street, Hall Place. Miss Linda Hefington was maid of honor and Mr. Paul Lankford was best man. Miss Carr is a member of the Suffolk Christian church and has many friends in Suffolk. Mr. and Mrs. Lankford will reside in Newport News with best wishes and prayers of

Lane-Varner

At Ivor Christian church on July 29, 1915, at 3:00 p. m., Mr. Benjamin J. Lane, a merchant of Ivor, Va., and Mrs. Naomi Varner, were united in marriage in the presence of a church full of interested relatives and friends. The church was beautifully decorated, an orchestra rendered charming music, and benedictions fell from many hearts. The bridal couple left on the evening train for a trip to Washington, D. C., via Norfolk steamer, and upon their return will reside in Ivor. The bride is the daughter of the late Stephen G. Eley of Norfolk. Her mother and brother Leslie of Norfolk attended the marriage and her brother Leslie gave her away. The bride is gifted in music and has taught music for years. The groom is a successful merchant and both are Christian persons of good repute. Their future glows with hope.

He leaves a wife and 4 children: Rufus Butler Pierce, Jr., Ruby, Virginia and Amanda Pierce; six sisters, Mrs. H. C. Brown of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. J. W. Griggs, of Myrtle, Va., Mrs. B. F. Norfleet of the county, Mrs. R. G. Luke, of Myrtle, Va., Mrs. J. H. Byrd of the county and Mrs. J. P. Whitley of Suffolk, Va.; brothers, E. M. B. Pierce of Lee county, Va., J. A. B. Pierce of Exit, Va., J. F. and A. K. Pierce of Buckhorn, Va., and W. J. Pierce of Suffolk, Va. Funeral services were conducted at Bethlehem Christian church and his remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground near Buckhorn, Va. H. H. B.

Bradshaw

Joseph Clinton Bradshaw, the only son of J. Clinton and Mamie Irene Bradshaw, was born August 14, 1914, and died July 26, 1915, eleven months and twelve days of age. His little sister, Mildred Hall, survives the darling. His mother was in Sarah Lee Hospital in Norfolk, where she was recovering from a serious operation, when the little fellow was ill at the home of E. T. Holland near Carrsville, whose wife had a baby about the same age and kindly cared for the babe in its mother's absence. As soon as the mother heard of her darling's illness she disregarded all advice and went to his bedside where she remained to the end of the life that was as precious to her as her own. The funeral services were conducted from E. T. Holland's residence on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the remains were interred in Beaver Dam cemetery. Rev. G. C. Duncan, pastor of Beaver Dam church, and Rev. Henry T. Clark of Richmond assisted in the service; and Dr. Claude Bradshaw, Dr. Gavin Bradshaw, Wilbur Bradshaw and E. T. Holland acted as pallbearers. Mrs. Bradshaw is the daughter of the late Dr. Jacob Duck and was married October 2, 1907. The babe was a promising little fellow, the pride and joy of parental hearts. The loss was made sadder by the sickness and absence of his mother; but both parents are Christian believers and recognize that the "grace of God is sufficient" for them in this greatest trial. Love disregards distance and time and reaches heaven and spans years with no effort and no loss of intense feeling. Joseph Clinton has anchored their hearts in the fathomless depths of eternal love.

Duke

Evelyn Pretlow Duke was born June 15, 1915, age 2 years and 1 month. Her parents were Charles E. Duke and wife who are members of Bethlehem Christian church. The precious one died of typhoid fever and lingered beyond the power of medical skill to restore. The parents were greatly grieved, but could say with Christian resignation, "It is the Lord, Let Him do what seemeth Him good." Why babes come and go in such tender years, no human wisdom can tell; but "sometime we'll understand, for Jesus has said: 'What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.'" Little graves are little gateways for human thought and human love into heaven.

Headaches

There are several different kinds of headaches classified according to their causes.

And whether induced by nervous disorders, or disorders of the digestive organs or disorders of the blood, they are alike very unpleasant symptoms.

Headaches are sometimes more than symptoms, for the pain reacts upon itself and grows worse if not relieved.

It is fortunate that relief can usually be obtained by the use of Mentholatum externally applied to the forehead and temples and within the nostrils.

This usually gives relief and avoids resort to the use of opiates and anodynes.

Mentholatum can do no harm. As a delicate counter irritant its usefulness in giving relief in all classes of headaches is well known.

The causes of the headaches should, however, be determined and a general systematic treatment should be adopted to rectify the conditions which cause them.

Mentholatum also has a wide range of usefulness for sunburn, scalds, burns, bruises, insect bites and stings, summer colds and other forms of inflammation.

NO. 34

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

The Book

Of all books the Bible remains the most popular, and grows in favor, and in power as the years pass. In 1914 more than twenty-eight million copies of the Bible were issued and distributed—one volume for every second of time, day and night for every work day of the year. That a copy of this amazing Book is issued at every tick of the clock is the miracle of all time. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for instruction in righteousness." (II Tim. 3:16.)

The Choicest Gifts

Delighted at the gift, and rejoicing in its benefits, we may easily forget the giver. To do this, however, is deepest ingratitude. "Religion has ever brought forth the choicest gifts, the finest literature, and the noblest art," writes a philosopher. And yet many writers and artists would ignore religion and be indifferent to worship. A Latin proverb truly says "A man without religion is like a horse without a bridle." And in holy writ it is said that "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights." (James 1:17.)

The Tithe

One who says he gives the tenth is in error. The tenth of one's income belongs to, is owned by, the Lord. It is written in the law (which has never been abolished) "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's; it is holy unto the Lord." (Lev. 27:30.) And then later this bold question was asked and answered: "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse; for ye have robbed me." (Mal. 3:8, 9.) The tenth then already belongs to God and he who withholds it does so at his own peril. Because church members withhold the portion that belongs to God Harvey Reeves Calkins truly writes in A Man and His Money, "The glorious church of Christ robbed of its rightful portion, must limp halting to its task. It must ask for support, as the destitute poor ask for alms, while its own dedicated portion is either positively withheld or turned into other uses. The shame of it emasculates the ministry, but the dishonor of it must rest upon the laity."

"Knee Medicine"

A Chinese convent being asked what remedy had been applied in China to cure the opium habit, idolatry, fear of persecution, and many other sins, replied, "Knee Medicine." The most powerful remedy for human ills, ailments, sins and sorrows, is prayer. And Coleridge wrote most truly

*He prayeth well who loveth well,
Both man and bird and beast;
He prayeth best who loveth best
All things both great and small."*

Wherefore an inspired one wrote: "Is any among you afflicted? let him pray." (James 5:13.)

Sin

You will find its hideous consequences portrayed in the literature of every tongue, and its dastardly deeds in evidence in every clime. Evangelist Billy Sunday thus defines it: "What is sin? It's a viper which fastens its fangs in the soul and fills it with poison; it is a serpent that twists its slimy coils around the soul and crushes out its life; it is the whirlpool that draws the soul out of its course to heaven and plunges it down to hell; it is a loathsome, incurable disease which turns all moral beauty into rotteness and filth; it is a chain which the sinner forges, link by link; it is a sexton that digs graves for human souls; it is a stoker that feeds and fires mere passion and hate; it is a siren luring man into her embrace and then leaps with them into the surging sea of ruin." And the Book, after devoting more space to it than to any other single theme thus declares: "The wages of sin is death." (Rom. 6:23.)

The True Riches

A man traveling as a common tramp was knocked down and severely injured in a strange city the other day, an exchange reports. The poor fellow was carried to a charity hospital where he died. His body was unrecognized for two days and then one who had known him saw the body and told the history of the man. He started as a poor boy, but with energy and great persistence accumulated wealth and rose to high political and social standing. In finance he became a millionaire, was elected mayor of his city, was placed at the head of five leading industries of his city, and was prominently spoken of as candidate for governor of his State. He lived happily with his wife and five children, but his great "success" turned his head. He began with the social glass, lived in highest luxury, built the finest house in his city, and led in expenditures and extravagance. He became a drunkard, lost out in business, fell from his high social prestige, and became a tramp. "Let not the rich man glory in his riches; but let him glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise loving-kindness, judgment, and righteousness in the earth." (Jer. 9:23, 24)

Rights Above Welfare

Though many good citizens took a fall out of Mr. Bryan for resigning as Secretary of State when and as he did, the ex-Secretary is now saying some very sensible things, among them the following: "I have read the editorial opinions concerning the sinking of the Arabic as those opinions were reproduced in Sunday morning papers, but they seem to me to avoid the most important question. The real question is not whether American citizens have, under international law, a right to travel through the danger zone on the ships of belligerent nations. That is admitted. The question just now is whether an American citizen should put his convenience or even his rights above his Nation's welfare. If American citizens refuse to consider their own safety or the safety of the Nation, then a second question arises, namely, whether the Government should permit a few persons to drag the country into this unparalleled war. The pro-ALLY papers are insisting upon war with Germany, for the benefit of the Allies, and the pro-German papers are insisting upon an embargo on arms and ammunition for the benefit of Germany. If these two groups or papers would join together and urge measures to restrain American citizens from going into the danger zone on belligerent ships, and prohibiting American passenger ships from carrying arms and ammunition—if they would do this they would aid in preventing war and in reserving for our Nation the priceless opportunity to act as peacemaker when the time for peace arrives." Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. (Mat. 5:9.)

That Dull Boy

"Of all pupils in the schools of this country, about 2 per cent (between 300,000 and 400,000) have organic heart disease; probably 5 per cent (1,000,000) have now or have had tuberculosis of the lungs; about 5 per cent (1,000,000) at least have spinal curvature, flat foot or some moderate deformity serious enough to interfere with health; over 5 per cent have defective hearing; about 25 per cent (5,000,000) have defective vision; over 30 per cent (6,000,000) have enlarged tonsils, adenoids or enlarged cervical glands which need attention; over 50 per cent (10,000,000)—in some schools as high as 98 per cent—have defective teeth." (A recent official report after experiments in many schools.) The most eminent physicians and surgeons in this country have insisted that school boards "hire a dentist," and the National Mouth Hygiene Association has been urging the same, all declaring that the germs of scarlet fever, tuberculosis, and other fatal diseases hide in the cavities and at the roots of the teeth. Thousands of children never use, do not know how to use, a tooth brush when it is known by repeated experiments that children whose mouth and throat are kept clean by proper sanitary methods have far the better chance both for mental and moral improvement and physical development. In the case of thousands of "dull pupils" the cause has been found to be physical and not mental. Parents need not expect a sound mind and safe morals in an unsanitary, ill-kept body. "Hire a dentist." "Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep * * * and none is barren among them." (S. of S. 4:2.)

STEWARDSHIP

A Few Facts About Faith, Favors and Figures

"TO OWN IS TO OWE"

If a man thinks he owns his possessions what will he do with these divine declarations? "For all the earth is mine." (Ex. 19:5.) "The earth is the Lord's." (Ex. 9:29.) "Whoever is under the whole heaven is mine." (Job 41:11.) "For the world is mine and the fulness thereof." (Ps. 50:12)?

Evidently God owns it all and man is tenant, trustee, steward; or man owns it all and God is crowded out. There cannot be two separate owners of one and the self-same thing. Which horn of the dilemma shall we lay hold of? Are we owners, or are we stewards?

OWNERSHIP

Ownership does not mean the right to enjoy, to use, to appropriate. If so one owns the running brook, the boundless sea, the infinite blue, and the free air. For one enjoys, uses and appropriates all these. Ownership takes this right for granted, but means more than these. It signifies the power to hinder, exclude, forbid. If I cannot hinder, exclude, forbid your use of my horse, my house, my holdings, then they are no more mine than they are thine. The one who owns must have the power, somewhere, somehow, to exclude, hinder, forbid. The case might be argued. But it is so plain that it needs no argument.

Try this test then, (and there is no other) Does God or man own horses, houses, lands, accounts, estates? Who has the inherent right to exclude, hinder, forbid man, or God Almighty? It sounds like sacrilege to put the question. "Thou, even thou, art God alone; thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that is therein, and thou preservest them all." (Nehemiah 9:6.) God alone Who created and Who alone can keep and preserve has the right to exclude, hinder, forbid. In Him alone, therefore, is vested the right of ownership. This is the plain teaching of all Scripture, and the simple fact of all experience. "For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out." (1 Tim. 6:7.) We are tenants for a time, stewards for a brief span, managers of Another's affairs, and then we are called upon to render an account—to check up the items entrusted to their Owner to our temporary keep and management.

Think, for instance, of the awful responsibility of a man's thinking, believing or saying he owns a million dollars in property, and then instead of using that possession to bless and benefit man, and hasten the Kingdom of God, he seeks by withholding to exclude, hinder, forbid God and man and to pile up for further exclusion and more hindrance another million. Verily possessions mean responsibility and wealth means might; since man is to be called into account for the way and manner in which he managed that which he seems to have.

WHAT IS PROPERTY?

The essence of property is value, and value is an invisible, intangible, spiritual force. I saw a field with ten thousand barrels, of ripe, round, ready cabbages upon it. Were those cabbages property? No. Why? They had no value. The man could not give them away. They had no power over men's desires, appetites, wishes. The price was not sufficient to pay (persuade, control, induce) men to cut, pack, transport. That was all. Unless another wants what you have it is not property—it has no value. The worth of a dollar in your pocket depends, not upon how much you want and need it, but how much others want and need it. The sole and total value of your dollar, and all of your property as for that, depends upon the depth and strength of the desire of others for that dollar and that property. When others want what you possess then that possession has value—value, that mysterious something without substance, form, or any material element, that which is invisible and can neither be fully defined nor wholly analyzed. I saw an old coin the other day whose original stamp and worth was fifty cents. You could not buy it for ten dollars. Its value had increased twenty fold. Its use, employment and enjoyment in trade have decreased a hundred fold. You can't define nor analyze value. In 1910 thousands of barrels of finest apples lay rotting in the orchards of the Central West. They were ripe, wholesome, savory, healthful; but they had no value. "But," one replies, "land cannot escape and fertile soil must always mean riches and have value." It is stupid error to think it. I found this in history. A few years ago capitalists bought land in New Mexico on which to range cattle. Conditions changed and the breeding of cattle there became impractical. Thousands of acres of that pure virgin soil, capable of immense production and inherently rich, are today worthless—have no value—constitute no part of property whatever. The essence of all property is value, and value means power over men's wants, desires, inclinations. Real value is invisible, tangible and abides not in things material, but in things immaterial and spiritual. Value is a spiritual power.

A MAN'S PLACE

Your property owner (?) is moving ever in a world of spirits. What he wants and works for is not things, visible and tangible possessions. Nay, verily! What he spends his busy days and sleepless nights about is that he himself may control, at his will, the forces and factors and favors that others want. He wants to invest himself of that for which others will have a desire, a longing, a love.

This is why the love of money is the root of all evil. Money is the measure of value. And value means power over the lives, longings, desires of others. Money is congealed vital power. The man who puts it to selfish and sordid use puts life, temporal and eternal, in jeopardy. He shares with Almighty God the power to control, shape, direct the lives and the destiny of others.

The man who uses his money right is indeed and in truth a collaborator with God. He is living, laboring and moving in a spiritual realm. As it is a dangerous and a devilish thing to use money wrong; so is it a happy and heavenly thing to use right.

This is why the Jewish peoples prospered so in ancient times. They realized that all they possessed belonged to God, and that they were under constraint of laying by in store at least one-tenth of all they controlled. God had a regard for their possessions because they realized that they held those possessions in trust for God—were trustees, tenants, stewards of Jehovah. God increased their possessions because their faith in God was strong enough to cause them to share largely and lavishly those possessions for the glory of God and the benefit of fellow man.

This is man's place. He must understand that he is only a steward, a tenant, a trustee of that which belongs to God, and for the management of which he must render due and strict account.

The Christian church goes at a slow pace, and the Kingdom does not enlarge because men in their greed for gain would exclude God, and in their possessions and holdings and business exercise little or no faith in God. The church will not come into its own until men learn again the spirituality of property, and that the eternal welfare of his soul depends upon his attitude to his possessions. The church of our day is under constraint of teaching men the blessing and the benefit of Christian giving; for in a time when men are mad with the craze of possession Christian giving, the need of stewardship, is the hope, the source and the secret of Christian living. If the church would win the hearts of men it must win that on which the hearts of men are set, namely, on property, possession, treasure, "For where your treasure is there will your heart be also."

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. E. M. Carter, Wadley, Ala., is anxious to give full time to ministerial work. Brother Carter has not had full work the past year and is ready to go to any Conference where churches may need his services.

—Rev. L. I. Cox, pastor, is pushing the work on the Reidsville church with great zeal. If all who pledged for this work would send in same now it would greatly relieve the burden and facilitate matters generally.

—Elon College is today, Wednesday, Sept. 1st, having what promises to be by far the largest opening in its history, despite dull times and business depression. This is too early in the day for showing any numbers, but indications are that the figures will fully justify the claim of the best yet opening.

—No Woman's Board in any of our Conferences has a more capable and efficient secretary than has the Va. Valley Central Conference in the person of Mrs. L. C. Fultz, Mt. Solon, Va. She is acquainted with the work, keeps her records in fine shape, and is thoroughly interested in our woman's work.

—Meanwhile, as the teachers are now preparing to instruct the youth of the land for another nine months, this sober thought is handed out by an exchange: "Educators who are so anxious to make learning easy should not forget that the harder a nail drives the better it holds."

—Rev. S. B. Klapp, pastor, is in a fine meeting at our Danville, Va., mission. "We have large congregations, at night especially. Several professions of faith and many asking for prayer. How I do wish for our house of worship here." This is a most promising mission. A dollar invested there now means very much for the future.

—Rev. W. D. Harward, who resigned his work in Newport News, Va., has a flattering field of work offered him in the West, but here's hoping that some of our North Carolina churches will lay hands upon this good brother and bring him back home where he belongs. Our vacant pulpits will do well to consider Brother Harward in calling a pastor for the coming year.

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne is in a glorious revival this week at Dendron, Va. "Had a wonderful meeting here yesterday afternoon for men only. Probably 100 men came forward in reconsecration, many of them prodigals of pronounced type," he writes under date of Aug. 30. The meeting last week at Berea was fine, and he is to be with Dr. Johnson at Liberty Spring next week.

—Rev. M. W. Butler, Conshohocken, Pa., writes under date of Aug. 28: "It will be interesting to you to know that we formally dedicated the new house at Kitts Hammock two weeks ago. A permanent building to take the place of the Portable church destroyed by storm. This new building is valued at $1200 and I am told it could not be duplicated for that money. The land was given us. They had a full house there last Sunday I am told, and fifty in the Sunday school."

—The Suffolk correspondent to the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot had this to say of our wide-awake Bible class in the Suffolk Christian church: The Twentieth Century Baraca class of the Christian church went out yesterday morning 100 strong to Bethlehem Christian church, about three miles from Suffolk, and uniting with the Bible class of the country church were taught by Heresy Woodward, teacher of the visiting class. The members went out in automobiles, gathering at 9 o'clock at the Suffolk church.

—We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. William Kirkpatrick Holt, Burlington, N. C., who, on last Friday evening, Aug. 27, from eight to eleven p. m., celebrated at their elegant home in Burlington, N. C., the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Bro. Holt is one of the leading business men of Burlington, and is loyal to all that is good and great. He and his good wife have a large and happy family to share with them, the joys and successes of life. Many friends gathered to extend congratulations and best wishes on the eventful occasion.

—The Eastern Virginia Sunday School Convention did a wise and progressive act in electing a Field Secretary at its recent session. A live and growing Sunday school means a wide-awake church. If the schools in Eastern Va. shall do their part in the next year or so the churches there will show great growth and progress. Mrs. F. Bullock, the faithful, devoted and efficient Sunday school authority and leader is the wise choice of the Convention as the leader in this work; and that means that the work will be well done. The weak and struggling schools in particular should send for Mrs. Bullock to visit and assist them.

—Miss Annie Williams, Elon College, N. C., begins this week her work as Field Secretary for the Woman's Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention. This should prove, and under the blessings of God will prove, a mighty boon for our woman's work. Any good woman in a church desiring that a missionary society be organized, or any society already organized but in a languishing condition, should write Miss Williams for instructions and a visit. She is now making up a list of dates and appointments for churches and societies and hopes to keep a long string of dates on her list that she may get things in readiness for the visit and personal work. Miss Williams has a large field for usefulness and here's hoping and believing that she will enter in and under divine directions bring great things to pass.

KENTUCKY FEUDS

Not many years ago Clay county, Kentucky, was one of the most notorious counties for the famous feuds that broke out continually. The newspapers made frequent mention of the Baker-Howard feud that was waged so bitterly. Today there is no newspaper notoriety for Clay county, for there is no feud there. The remarkable story of what conquered the feuds is to be told in the Sunday School Times by a well-known writer who visited the county and met the man who is the hero of this thrilling story. This man who brought about the transformation in the county was once in the thick of the feud himself. A three weeks' trial of the Sunday School Times may be had,

(as long as the supply lasts), for a post card request, asking for "Kentucky Feuds," addressed to the Sunday School Times, Philadelphia, Pa.

ELON OPENING

(Read in College Chapel on the Morning of the Opening, September 1, 1915.)

To the Faculty, Officers, and Students of Elon College—GREETING:

I congratulate you and greet you in the name of "Christian Education."

This modern phrase is more pregnant than usually considered, for it differentiates between education in its generic sense and education in its specific sense in Christendom. Education in Christian lands is necessarily faulty unless it is really Christian. Elon College was among the first of its class to emphasize this important distinction; and it should raise the standard so high as not to be left out of the catalogues of colleges that maintain it. I have confidence that it will hold first place in this most important relation to other colleges and to education.

I congratulate you upon this auspicious day and this auspicious year. The war in Europe and business depression in this country make your opportunity and obligation all the more important. The end of the European conflict will open up all lines of human endeavor on a scale before unknown, because the whole world will be affected. The young people who are then prepared to seize the opportunity will have first place in the coming years. The arts of peace have never been so highly developed in any age as they will be in the years that follow.

The most important thing for students is to make the best of the college course, to be followed by special preparation for some life-avocation. Banish everything during these college years except character building and thorough literary work. Do not be too anxious to get to your place in life; be most anxious to prepare for that place when you come to it.

I need say only a word to the President and his co-workers. You are artistic builders. You have living material out of which to construct leading citizens and churchmen. You stand between the home and the big world that is to receive your products and test them in the field of destiny. Yours is no small task and no mean reward. The prophet said of Jesus: "He shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied." The best work gets no pay. It is the menial that is paid for what he does; there is no pay for what one is; and that is the highest goal. Do not estimate life by the markets, but by the needs of a great world.

I am with you in spirit this good day and shall be with you throughout the year.

Very sincerely yours,

W. W. STALEY.

Aug. 30, 1915.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The folly of follies is exhibited in Chicago's introduction of swimming into the public schools, since the Eastland disaster, at a cost of a million dollars. If there is anything that tends towards the fanatical and the lunatic it is some theories in modern education. The schools undertake to do everything with teachers that know very little. It is of the nature of a bow-legged, humped back man teaching erect position. Until teachers know everything, the public schools cannot teach everything. In fact schools can teach the laws and uses of English, but composition is the work of the individual.

In morals a conscience must be developed by correct precept and example but conduct must be wrought out by individual choices.

The fundamentals of education is all that the public school should undertake to teach. When too much is free it eliminates self reliance which is the most valuable asset in human society. The young should be helped just enough to encourage and develop individual capacity and effort; but not enough to produce a nation of babies who want to be nursed by the State.

We have the example of the rich who have everything done for them by their parents and who are the unfortunates because they know how to do nothing and spend their fortunes in dissipation. On every hand we see the Baashas coming up to displace the Nadabs. This is a great country with great opportunities, but we are in danger of doing too much for the young instead of too little.

Well, my vacation is drawing to a close. I have enjoyed it immensely. I have spent the entire time with my family. Wm. Staley Cheatham is with us and he is enjoying himself to the limit. He says he likes the country better than the town. He builds Russian forts and then shells them down with the big German guns. I do not know where he got the idea.

It has not rained since I came home till three days ago and crops have suffered severely.

I return to Suffolk Friday the 3rd of September to resume my duties as pastor of the Suffolk Christian church, which has always been over kind to me. W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The College pulpit was occupied Sunday in the absence of the pastor by R. v. John G. Truitt, a member of the Senior Class. He delighted the congregation.

Dr. Atkinson went to Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va., Saturday, to baptize several candidates. He also preached for his former parishioners on Sunday. (Pleasant Grove is one of our few country churches that has a pool in the church so that by moving pulpit desk and throwing open folding doors the congregation may witness the ordinance of baptism while comfortably seated in the church.)

On Sunday the Summer Term of the Sunday school came to an auspicious close. Supt. McNally and his co-workers were given a hearty vote of thanks for their services, and deserved it.

The local church held its fourth quarterly conference on last Wednesday evening. The standing officers made good reports and the pastor and co-pastor were unanimously re-elected to their posts of service. It was decided to choose an additional deacon in November. Mr. C. C. Johnson was elected chief usher. Prof. Brannock was reelected secretary and Mr. H. D. Lambeth treasurer. It was announced that the annual evangelistic campaign would begin with the third Sunday in September, with Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, Norfolk, Va., in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Holton were visitors to Mrs. Harper's Sunday.

Mrs. C. C. Johnson spent the week-end at Franklinton, N. C., with her father's family. She returned Monday evening, bringing her brother to the College with her.

Mr. W. E. Lowe has purchased an automobile—just for the joy of it.

Prof. Oscar Randolph and wife are returned from a visit to friends and relatives in Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. Edwin Betts, of the Southern Conservatory, Durham, N. C., becomes assistant in piano.

Mrs. W. Z. Atkinson has moved into the May cottage. Mr. A. C. High has occupied the Whitesell House, vacated by Mrs. Atkinson.

From all appearances the College is to enjoy its finest yet opening on Wednesday of this week. "X."

THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIANS

The Christian Church in Eastern Virginia is by no means a dead Church, or rather, the Sunday schools of these churches are not dead, but very much alive, and one who is acquainted with the work that is being done wonders in amazement what will be next. Two years ago at the Suffolk Convention some thought that this body had gotten so large that it would be well to meet at Virginia Beach where there was room for its work. It was so ordered and last year a great program was arranged and carried out that thrilled the very souls of all who attended, but, while a large number of the workers and delegates was there enjoying the greatness of that School of Methods there were hundreds that were back at home and could not attend and wishing for the Convention back at the old church. This caused double work on the part of some of our workers this year and two instead of one program had to be arranged and, what do you think happened? Well, let's see. I expect both were poorly attended, you say. No indeed. The Chautauqua had a more profitable session than last year and was well attended regardless of the cool weather for the beach and the Convention overflowed, that's all. Now what does all that mean? It simply means that the folks who build these programs and arrange things will have to continue to work harder for there is a great demand for the Chautauqua and the folks say that they are going to have it and there is a great demand for the Convention and the folks say that they simply must have it. As I see it, there is a great demand for both and the possibilities for greatness in Sunday school work in these parts is only in its infancy yet, with two great meetings like these in our midst and a clamoring demand for them by people with eager ears we are driven to ask what may happen?

Did I hear you say that they had employed a field worker in the person of Mrs. Fred Bullock of Waverly? Yes, sir, that is what they did and they mean to have her visit and instruct every school in the Convention during the year and when another year has passed, well, I will not say it but, just watch how eager these people are arranging to go to the beach for one whole week and then the following week they will gather up in the country some place for a great Sunday school convention. My, My, I expect in the next few years that there will be some live wires in Eastern Virginia for progressive Sunday school work. Why, Mr. Editor, I believe from the bottom of my heart that it would be fatal to our work not to have these two gatherings and when the people want them we must give them their wants and I believe also that these two bodies are going to set a high standard for other and greater denominations. The Chautauqua fills a long felt want, and the Convention is too gigantic and valuable to pass up. I believe as the years pass rapidly along the demand for both will increase and that the two great meetings will be given the heartiest support by our brotherhood. I see in THE SUN last week that some convention over in the Editor's State was poorly attended. Say, brother editor, send some of your folks over to the beach next year and we will show them how to get crowds and then keep them over a week longer and go up to the Convention and we will show them two crowds. Why, I am a tar heel myself, but I am ashamed to own it if that is the way they attend Sunday School Conventions. Bring them over anyway one time and let them see between one and two thousand people at one of these great gatherings.

FROM PRES. COFFIN

The Seaside Chautauqua held last month at Virginia Beach was a splendid contribution to our denominational life and growth. No conference of our people gives better opportunity for careful, competent and deliberate consideration of such important subjects as was offered there. Conference sessions are too brief, and of necessity too much dominated by business to give adequate attention to methods of church work. I have attended summer assemblies of nation wide fame, the program of which had no greater merit than that of Virginia Beach. The program was varied, practical, scholarly, devotional and constructive. Every person who attended is more efficient in some particular because of it. He had the benefit of receiving specialist instruction. Not the least valuable is the opportunity for close fellowship and mutual understanding. Men isolated in their fields of labor become hungry for association with those similarly engaged. The Chautauqua supplies this under most favorable conditions. Such gatherings are needed and should be well attended. Not less valuable or significant is Craigville in our church program.

These summer meetings will be beneficial to our church life in proportion to their patronage. Certainly the Christian church ought to support two such gatherings with a large attendance. Many people go somewhere for a summer outing, why not go to Virginia Beach or Craigville, where natural surroundings make an ideal vacation place and other incalculable benefits are both given and received. Plan now to attend next summer.

OUR REIDSVILLE MISSION
An Appreciation, An Appeal

Just a word of appreciation to our friends, who have aided in the work, for the evidences of their interest in our mission work at Reidsville. I want to thank every one most sincerely and I am truly grateful for the help given in carrying the work forward. Your prayers have strengthened us; your kind words have encouraged us; and your donations have aided us.

I am happy to announce that the work on the main auditorium is nearing completion (except seating), and that we expect to worship in our new quarters the third Sunday in September.

May I remind our many friends, however, who have not as yet aided us in this great undertaking, and also those that desire to give additional aid, that your help is very much needed right now. The bills for all the inside work on the auditorium are coming due and must be paid. We are trusting God and relying on our friends to help us meet these obligations. Will you help us carry the burden? It will crush life out of one man to carry it alone, but if the brethren and sisters will help now it will make it easy. You can be of untold help to us just at this time by sending a liberal donation to the Reidsville work. Will you do it? Thank you.

With appreciation,

L. I. Cox, Pastor.

THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

The question might be asked: When is an education not an education? And the answer would have to be: When the religious element is excluded and one grows into a Christless life. All the university training in the world does not make one educated man if there be not in his life the essential element of Christian faith and culture.

The inspired writer was undoubtedly correct when he said that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." The very foundation stone of true culture is the recognition of God. There is no true life without this, and there can be no worthy or adequate theory of science that it ignores. Theoretically or practically atheism is destructive of all that is good in personal life or in any philosophy of the universe.

The training of a child begins with pious grandparents, who give the proper inheritance and environment to the parents, so that the child comes into life and is reared in the atmosphere of faith and good works. Happy he with such parents and grandparents! Not only does faith in God come easy to him, but a proper appreciation of proportion and relation in the world about him. Right living and right thinking are in his line. He gets a good start in his living and in his studying and in all things finds "In the beginning God." From this beginning he grows into the godly living and the theistic thinking that belongs to the true scientist and the Christian man.

It is a folly that assumes the proportions of a crime for one to place his children in a college or university where Christian faith is ignored or antagonized. Even if our public schools lack the element of religious teaching and Bible-reading, parents have their children at home with them and can see that they are properly impressed and instructed in the church and its various departments. But when sent away from home it is supremely important that wholesome religious influences shall be about them.

A gentleman said not long ago that it was his lifelong and bitter regret that he had sent his son to an institution where he had imbibed unbelief and had been led to discard his Christian faith. He had sent him there unwittingly, not thinking that harm would come religiously, but believing that there was something superior there in the scientific courses. But he learned that too high a price may be paid for what is highly esteemed among men. As Burns says: "An atheist's laugh is a poor exchange for Deity offended." And a world of secular education is a slight compensation for the loss of eternal life.

Our Church and Christian colleges have a claim upon us which is urged by many considerations, among them being the immensely important one of the eternal welfare of our children and young people. It is to be presumed that special care will there be taken to impress them properly with the vital truths of God's word and with right views to guide them in the ways of Christian conduct. It does not follow that all our secular or State institutions are necessarily godless. Many of these are under the guidance of most capable, conscientious Christian men, who are doing all they can in the right way, and in many of these there are college pastors to look after the young people of their own Church. But with all this the way is not so open for Christian instruction and guidance as in our own Church colleges.

It is sometimes a sin to choose something that is good, because we might have chosen something better; and it is really an iniquity and a reproach not to accept from God the best that He offers us. Let not the good or even the better stand in the way of taking and using the best. Our Church colleges ought to be the best. They ought to be made the best. If they are best, it is best to attend them.—Herald and Presbyterian.

S. S. LESSON, SEPT. 5

Elijah and the Prophets of Baal.
I Kings 18: 16-40

The prophecy of Elijah was being fulfilled. The people of Israel were being depressed and suppressed by the lack of rain for 3 years and six months. The king realized the words of Elijah as being true. The king was becoming anxious about the welfare of the nation. God knew this was the time to bring forth His prophet so he caused the announcement of the presence of Elijah to be made to the king of Israel. This time Elijah's life was not sought to be destroyed—it was sought to be a probable means of saving lives. Why was the change in attitude in the three years towards Elijah?

God has to do many things to His children in the way of punishment, in order that they may see their evil ways and turn to Him for strength and sustenance.

Elijah made his appearance and made the Prophets of Baal a proposition. Elijah wanted the people of Israel to see the powerlessness of the prophets that they were following and the powerfulness of the God he was serving. They agreed to gather themselves together and make a test, a public test on Carmel.

The prophets of Baal prayed to their gods to send fire and burn the incense. Their prayers, tho prolonged and seemingly earnest, were without results.

Then Elijah prepared the incense on the newly constructed altar and had water poured on it so all suspicion and trickery would be impossible. Earnestly and fervently Elijah called upon Jehovah and not only did the fire burn what was on the altar but it also licked up all the water round about.

Elijah depended upon God to send the fire and God did not disappoint him. God never disappoints those who serve Him. He always takes care of His own.

This lesson has been found true down through the ages. The men of God have done things while those who have their faith in some false god have pretended to do things but fail in the real test.

Every great reform, every marked development that the world has known has had its Elijahs. Every community, every church has its Elijahs right now. Get acquainted with him and lets see God's kingdom move forward.

C. E. TOPIC, SEPT. 5

Throw Yourself Into Your Task.
Rom. 12:11
(Consecration Meeting)

"In diligence not slothful; fervent in spirit, serving the Lord."

In Paul's busy life he found by experience that every task done well, (a task is better not done at all than poorly accomplished), requires labor and earnestness of purpose. When Paul wrote this letter to the church at Rome he realized there was a great opportunity before the people and gave them the words of our lesson.

We have talked with employees whose conversation ran thus: "You are late this morning." "Yes, but I don't care, the boss hasn't come and just so I pull the wool over his eyes and make him think I have put in full time, it's all right."

A second employee in a manufacturing establishment gave answer as to why he had the keys and was in the office bright and early: "You see it is this way, I try to do all I can for my company. It is giving me a living and I think I ought to give it one in return. I am here early to work out some experiments that I have been thinking over. I believe they will facilitate our business so we can give the world a better grade of goods at a lower figure. I'm interested in the work and when I disclosed my plans to my employer and told him I wanted to work them out he had confidence enough in me to give me the keys to the establishment. I'm feeling good over it."

Which of the above two men would you rather have in your employment? If you are an employee to what class do you belong? This world is much sweeter if we do our work without shirking or grumbling or fussing at the accommodations we happen to have or the lack of tools or insouciments at our hand. In other words apply the topic, Throw Yourself Into Your Task, and don't look for faults, flaws and troubles.

Flaw Task, and don't look for faults, flaws, and troubles.

The plan works equally well with our religious work. If it is better to do your task for man well, how much more important is it that we should do our task for God well. The church, the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are looking for men who want to work and not for men who want to fill up space on the roll books.

ANNUAL REPORT

Report of the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board of the Va. Valley Christian Conference which was in session at Timber Ridge church, Hampshire county, W. Va., Aug. 12, 1915.

The meeting was opened by a chain of prayers led by Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College. President, Mrs. W. T. Walters then read the 46 Psalm and a short song service followed.

The Secretary, Mrs. W. T. Fultz, gave a report of the work done during the year. Some progress was shown as two new societies had been organized, one at Bethlehem with 19 members and one at Leaksville with 20 members.

The Treasurer, Miss Ivie D. Andes read her report which showed $34.62 given by societies and individuals for the work. The report was accepted.

The subject, "A World-Wide Call" was discussed by Mr. W. C. Hook, after which an appropriate vocal duet was given by Mrs. Boyd Richards and Mr. W. C. Hook.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson then gave some helpful ideas concerning the Woman's work of the Conference.

The meeting then adjourned to convene in regular session of the Conference in 1916 at Palmyra, Shenandoth county, Virginia.

Secretary.

An Exclusive Southern Industry

The State of North Carolina can boast of at least one exclusive Southern industry—the production of blue marble. The Regal Marble Company's quarries, at Regal, N. C., being one of the few producers in the westerly hemisphere of this valued stone. The Regal Company's product is known as Regal Blue and is characterized by a deep blue color and an exclusively compact texture, which accounts for the remarkable weather resisting properties of this marble. Government tests show its water absorption to be only .0035, meaning that so little moisture penetrates that frost can do no damage. Frost is the natural enemy of exposed marble monuments and eventually destroys those of coarse grain. The Regal Company have a very complete finishing plant at the quarries where natural Regal Blue is sawed, turned, cut, sanded, polished, etc. Only American workmen are employed. Adv.

Elementary and Cradle Roll Departments

Dear Friends and Co-Workers:

At the meeting of the Young Peoples General Convention held at the Chautauqua, it was decided to join the Elementary and Cradle Roll Departments in one, and under one superintendent.

As you know, Mrs. J. J. Lincoln was compelled to resign the work, owing to her removal to the other side of Virginia, and away from any active branch of the Christian church.

Under the circumstances, the Convention, finding no one else at hand, has simply dropped the vacant office on the shoulders of your Cradle Roll Superintendent, and the two departments will be handled together, and letters appearing under the Elementary and Cradle Roll Dept. heading will be, as heretofore, on various phases of the work of the Elementary Department, of which the Cradle Roll is after all, only a part.

Our letters must be short to get into THE SUN at all, and it is not always even at that, that we can have space, but will you not watch for this space when we do have it, and let us try to make it mutually helpful. I wish that you would help me by reporting interesting "doings" or advancements in various phases of the work. It would help and encourage me, and perhaps you yourself would also find help and encouragement in it.

I want this week to take the room, to seek of the Eastern N. C. Convention which I had the pleasure of attending. I also had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Harriet McCullers, the Cradle Roll Superintendent. My! but she is making things fly down there. I predict great things for the Cradle Roll work in Eastern North Carolina. They have started several new Rolls, and a large number of others are interested and asking about the work. Right here, I would like to say, too, that if this catches the eye of any of the good ladies who asked me at that time to send them literature of any kind that if they will write either to me or to Mrs. McCullers and repeat their request for I have lost or mislaid my notebook in which I entered names and addresses, and I am totally at sea. I will truly appreciate it if you will notify me, if you have failed to receive something I promised to send.

My, but it was hot in Wentworth church that week, but we had

Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

In the Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, Dr. John F. Russell says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance, but if the salts are not in organic combination, it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm our belief that the success of Eckman's Alternative in tuberculosis is due largely to its content of lime, in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results in many cases which appear to have yielded to it. As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. We desire to correct two errors that have crept into our reports recently. One was an error of the typesetter and the other is chargeable to our defective adding. In report of August 11, the Damascus Sunday school should have been credited with $2.12 instead of $1.12 and then in report for Aug. 25th the amount brought forward should have been $2122.56 instead of $2182.56.

It was our pleasure to be with the good people of Hanks' Chapel on Sunday and Monday of their meeting. Rev. J. S. Carden is the faithful pastor of this church. The orphanage has many interested friends in this community, and they love the orphanage not only in word but in deed as well. We are very grateful to Brother Ellington and his good wife of this community for nine pounds of the nicest honey we have had. Oh! how the children did enjoy it. We also wish to record our thanks to

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I am to be the writer of commendation of the Weaver Piano purchased of you July 5, 1907, for use in our Sunday School room. It is by far the sweetest toned piano we know of. It excels in responsiveness to the slightest touch of the player. It has given the Members entire satisfaction, and the Official Board are pleased with it beyond expression.

The climate of Florida is especially hard on pianos, being very damp. But the Weaver Piano has been giving satisfaction all these years. It is durable and will last a lifetime under even trying conditions.

Why Do WEAVER Pianos Please?

Because we have been building pianos and organs for forty-five years and have never manufactured any instrument except a good one. Our whole ambition has been to conduct a business that would grow a little higher in the respect of the public each year. That kind of a business house pays and it is a pleasure to be connected with it. Our present position as manufacturers of the Weaver—the highest standard of piano quality so far attained—is due to that ambition. You wouldn't be surprised that

Weaver pianos last a lifetime if you knew the methods, men and materials on which their reputation is based. Weaver Pianos are used and endorsed by many of the world's leading musicians, including Alice Nielsen, Mme. Homer, Victor Herbert, Frank La Forge, Frank Croton and many others.

We also make and sell the Charming Toned York Piano, the popular Livingston Piano and the Celebrated Weaver Organ.

I trust the good folks of McCullers will invite me some time again should the Convention go there, and I will say now that if at any time in any convention I can be of assistance, do not hesitate to ask me. This, friends, is not your work or my work. It is OUR work, and it is not for ourselves alone. A higher service is ours, a nobler calling. "Ye serve the Lord Christ." Think of this when you get discouraged; you are not working for your Superintendent, or your church or even your Convention, you are engaged in a far greater service than any of these "Ye serve the Lord Christ." SOUTHERN RAILWAY NEW TRADE MARK

The Southern Railway Company has adopted a new and attractive trade mark as shown above. The design "SR" is symbolical to the name of the road and the wording "The Southern Serves the South" is suggestive of the many lines operated by the Southern Railway throughout all of the states south of the Ohio and Potomac and east of the Mississippi rivers.

There is hardly a city or town of importance throughout the entire South that is not connected with the balance of the South, either directly by the Southern Railway's own trains or by sleeping car lines over other roads in connection with Southern Railway, via some adjacent junction point. On this account the title "The Southern Serves the South" was adopted as being appropriate.

Southern Railway spends about $200,000.00 a year in advertising and a great deal of this advertising is done in the Northern, Eastern and Western sections of the country so as to attract people into the South, and on all of this advertising matter this trade mark will appear hereafter.

OUR DEAD

Rian

Charles Luther Rian, infant son of Luther L. and Vergie Rian, died Aug. 1, 1915, at the age of nine months and twenty-eight days. Loving hands did all that could be done to save the life of little Charles, but the death angel claimed its victim and carried the spirit away to dwell safe in the arms of Jesus forever. Funeral services were conducted at St. Peter's near the home Aug. 2, 1915, and the little body laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

A. W. ANDES.

Cook

The home of Bro. and Sister John H. Cook, near Joppa, was for several months the scene of serious affliction. Almost the entire family were at times seriously ill. After much anxious watching and faithful nursing by the parents the time finally came when death could be stayed no longer, and their youngest child, Ralph Andes Cook, died July 28, 1915, aged one year, one month, and ten days. In my absence the funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. C. Sloan of the Methodist church, and on the following Sunday, Aug. 1, 1915, I preached the funeral sermon at Joppa.

A. W. ANDES.

Barrett

It is very seldom that any family has to pass through what Mr. S. A. Barrett has had. With little warning his wife died and in less than a month he received a message that his only child, Leonard, was seriously ill. The father reached the bedside of the son a few hours before death claimed the last member of the family, save the father. Therefore, Mt. Carmel church and Sunday school do adopt the following resolutions:

First, That the church and Sunday school have lost true and faithful members, who were willing and ready to work for God's cause.

Second, That while we realize our loss, we will strive to profit by the exemplary lives and examples that they left behind.

Third, That we extend to the husband and father our deepest sympathy and ask God's richest blessings to rest upon him in this time of trial.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the husband, a copy be spread upon the minutes and a copy sent to the Christian Sun for publication.

Edwards

The charter members of Mt. Carmel church are fast departing this life. Mrs. Louisa Edwards gave the land for Mt. Carmel church, many years ago, and she lived to see two churches put on the land and the church desires to recognize and pay tribute to her; therefore, be it resolved:

First, That the church has lost a true and faithful member, for she was in her place as long as health would permit.

Second, That we cherish the exemplary life she left behind.

Third, That we express to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy and ask God to direct, comfort and lead them into a higher life, which the deceased endeavored to place before them.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy placed upon our minutes and a copy sent to the Christian Sun for publication.

IF YOU VALUE YOUR HEALTH

Read Every Word of This Remarkable Story

It is told by one who has himself experienced the regeneration in health which he encourages you to seek by the self-same means.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The hardships of a traveling salesman's life had wrecked my health. My family physician diagnosed my case as chronic gastritis, brought on by disease of the liver and complicated by kidney trouble. I consulted specialists who confirmed his diagnosis. Months passed, I grew worse and was finally compelled to give up my work.

By chance I heard of some wonderful cures which had resulted from drinking the water of a little spring in the Mineral Belt of South Carolina, a picture of which spring appears on this page. In desperation I tried it. On the second day I thought that I could notice some improvement; at the end of the first week my appetite and digestion had returned and I was much stronger; at the end of the third week I felt that I was completely cured. That was six years ago and I still enjoy perfect health.

Knowing that it had restored my health and believing that it had saved my life, I bought the Spring.

I then determined to see whether the water would cure others as it had cured me. I shipped ten gallons absolutely free of charge to each of one thousand sufferers from chronic diseases. Only four reported no benefit from the use of the ten gallons. The other nine hundred and ninety-six reported decided benefit or complete cures. Many claimed that the water had saved their lives.

I realized that I had discovered one of the world's greatest mineral springs, and I decided to devote my life to it. But how could I make the world listen; how could I make them believe my story? The precious water was running to waste while thousands were suffering. I said, I will make them believe me by showing my faith in them and in the curative power of the Spring. I will tell them that the water shall cost them nothing if it fails to benefit.

The world listened! Some wrote for proof and I sent them the letters which I had received from their fellowmen. Others accepted my offer without question. Thousands have written me reporting relief and permanent cure of a great variety of chronic diseases.

But some of the water still ran to waste for lack of belief. I determined that every drop should be used to relieve the sufferings of humanity. To this end I requested the advertising manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate to come to see me. At my desk I opened my mail and showed him the letters from men and women from all parts of the country who had suffered and who had found relief. I gave him my letter files and induced him to spend several hours reading my past correspondence with those who were using the water. I showed him the chemical analysis and letters from physicians explaining the curative properties of the water.

He believed, and as a result he has written this announcement for me.

WILL YOU BELIEVE?

I do not ask your implicit faith; only enough to try the water for three weeks as I did. I estimate that I drank about ten gallons and I, therefore, offer gladly to ship you two five gallon demijohns on my guarantee that if you find that it does not benefit you I will promptly refund the price, which is only $2.00. You must promise to drink the water in accordance with the instructions which I will send you and return the empty demijohns. I make you the sole judge as to whether the water has benefited you, and as the Advertising Manager of this paper has kindly consented to guarantee my guarantee to refund your money, if you are not benefited, I hope you will feel perfectly free to accept my offer.

This offer is extended to all who suffer with any chronic disease, except cancer and consumption, but I especially recommend the water for the treatment of stomach, liver, kidney and bladder diseases and for rheumatism, gout, uric acid poisoning, gall stones, diabetes, nervous headache and general debility resulting from impure or impoverished blood. These are the diseases most frequently mentioned in the letters which I have received, but my offer is open to anyone who suffers from any chronic ailment. Yours sincerely,
N. F. SHIVAR, Proprietor.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir, As you are well aware, in 1897 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very limited diet for an active working man, and of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered 10 gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously, recoding when necessary, and in four months from date I began drinking it gained 20 lbs., was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely nature's remedy.

Shiloh Spring, Shelton, S. C.: Gentlemen—I have suffered for years with nervous indigestion and kidney troubles. Derived more benefit from the Shiloh Spring Water than from months at Hot Springs, Ark., and numerous other Springs. I consider it the very best water extant.
AUGUSTUS DUPONT.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 24, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I suffered with intestinal indigestion and the Shiloh Spring Water has cured me. I would gladly recommend it to all suffering with indigestion, kidney and liver trouble. My father had kidney trouble last fall and he thought Shiloh Spring Water saved his life. Respectfully,
MRS. HARVEY DIXON.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I ordered 10 gallons Shiloh Spring Water especially for my restless baby who was suffering with its stomach and bowels. This water cured her disorders entirely and she is happy again. I stopped all medicine and gave her only the water. It was also run down from the best and fastest and the water was better for me also. Thanking you, Very respectfully,
MRS. W. C. MCGILL.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 2, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—Until a few weeks ago my wife was a chronic sufferer from gall stones. She was stricken critically and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. I stopped all medicine and gave her only the water. It was also run down from the best and fastest and the water was better for me also. Thanking you, Very respectfully,
P. S.—I suffered for 3 years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder. After using this water an only a few days I am enjoying relief and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Half a Prayer

A certain useful missionary now on the field declares that he prayed Isaiah's prayer only half way through. "Lord, here am I send—the other man." When the Lord enquired of Isaiah, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" that obedient man responded "Here am I Lord send me." Many are like our missionary—when the Voice calls to duty the reply is quick enough, "Here am I—but please send the other man."

Roads and Repairs

During the year 1914 we of North Carolina spent $5,190,000 in building improved highways. With the money, we built 2,552 miles of improved roadway, grading 1058 miles, and surfacing 1495 miles. The average cost of building these roads was about $2,000 per mile. "And all this is money wasted," writes an exchange, "unless these roads are constantly inspected and repaired." There is no convenience, comfort or achievement of man of which the same may not be said—a waste of time, money, energy unless there is constant watching and repairs. This is why the inspired Word enjoins: "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation." (Mat. 26:41.)

Wants

Every man seeks to satisfy his wants. Any single want of man, (character and taste remaining the same, and time for physical recuperation from stimuli not being allowed) can be satisfied. But all the wants of man cannot be sated. Herein is the hope of the human race and the possibility of unlimited individual and social progress; the simple fact that a single want may be sated, but that all wants can never be sated. The curse of man is not in wanting so many things, but in being contented with such things. The danger of possessions is not in the things possessed, but in the possibility of becoming sordid with possessions. We need to want not fewer things, but more things and better things—a love for the good and true and beautiful, and the power to indulge that love. It is the work of religion, not to make men want fewer things, but to create in them a desire for the richer, nobler, better things. That which controls the wants of men controls men. "Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart." (Psa. 37:4.)

Cigarettes or Christianity?

By one heroic measure China has at last freed itself from the deadly opium habit. Now, says the Chinese Christian Advocate, America is doing all it can to push the deadly cigarette habit upon them, the British-American Tobacco Company having adopted the slogan: "A cigarette in the mouth of every man, woman and child in China." "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is made weak." Rom. 14:21.)

Busy Pastors

The Methodist Recorder prints the record of a Wesleyan preacher at the end of his third year on a circuit: "Preached 428 times, using 298 separate sermons. The Old Testament supplied 150 texts, the New 148. He paid one call during every quarter to every member, worshiper and parent of a Sunday-school scholar, making 1,118 calls the first year, 1,005 the second year and 1,168 the third. Of the 981 pieces in the hymn book he had publicly used 572." Many other ministers, even among Sun readers are equally busy; for a devout, earnest and efficient pastor is the busiest man in the community. They are obeying or are seeking to obey the advice of Paul: "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine." (I Tim. 4:2.)

The Childless Church

One wonders why children go to Sunday-school but do not go to church. Children are worthy of the best, and need the best. We are told that not one half of those in the Sunday-school are ever reached for the church or by the church. Is not the reason to be found in the fact that as soon as Sunday-school is dismissed the children are made to feel that the church is no place for them, but for the grown folks? And the child soon learns his lesson—and turns from the church. Do we not have a childless church because we rear a churchless child? One of the very sad, and exceedingly regrettable scenes in our day is to see hundreds of children marching away from church just as divine worship is about to begin there. This is neither natural nor normal for "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." (II Pet. 3:9.)

Following Commerce(?)

A writer in the Missionary Intelligencer surprises us with this: "In the heart of Africa, where the faintest whisper of the Gospel had not yet penetrated, the writer found an Ingersoll watch dangling about the neck of a half-naked native. Trade knows no distance in its satisfying of human demand. How laggard is the church, as it follows far behind commerce." Our contention, and the facts of history sustain us, is that commerce follows the church, civilization follows the cross. Unless David Livingstone long ago had carried the Gospel to "Darkest Africa," we doubt if a watch or any other article of civilized commerce would have been found anywhere in Africa. This is declared of those who follow the Lord: "I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight." (Isa. 2:16.)

Written On a Tomb

That which portrays character and smacks of the eternal we look for, or inscribe upon, the tombs of the dead. "What I gave away I still have" was an inscription on a Roman tomb. But why do a man's possessions never figure on his tomb stone? Neither in Hebrew, Greek, Latin nor English has one found it inscribed in honor of the dead, "He owned a million," or "This was a man rich in this world's goods." One wonders why. Do we spend our energetic days and sleepless nights pursuing gain, and then want our life's pursuit buried with us and forgotten as soon as we cease to pursue? Speculation runs rampant. If we seek so persistently while living to get rich why do we not want that fact inscribed on our tomb-stone when gone? And yet all men of all time have been unwilling—and no man has been found who was so wicked as to desecrate and slander the dead by placing that fact on a tomb-stone. "That which was written was upright, even words of truth." (Ecl. 12:10.)

Remember The Sabbath

One who reads the papers regularly shudders a bit as he picks up the daily Monday mornings. He knows, because he has long since observed, that many fatalities and tragic scenes of the day before will greet his eye. The Monday morning paper will, as a rule, tell of almost, if not quite, as many deaths by accident, and by horrid tragedy, as will the papers of all the other days of the week. We agree with the Boston (Mass.) Transcript: "Ten lives or more every Sunday is too big a price to pay for the great boon that nature has given New England. When to these are added those lost in Sunday automobile accidents the grand total is staggering. There is immediate need in New England for a safe-and-sound Sunday movement." This immediate need obtains throughout the whole country. Did you know that between 100 and 200 men and women now living in full health and hope in the United States will in all human probability be dashed into eternity by some horrid and preventable accident, and that without warning next Sunday, and the next, and the next? So estimates run. Every Sunday's toll of killed and wounded in this country is something fierce. A safe and sane Sabbath is needed not only in New England, but in all our land. "For that the Lord hath given you the Sabbath, abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day." (Ex. 16:29.)

—China is sending, at Government expenses, from fifty to one hundred of her choicest young men to America each year that they may be educated here and better equipped for service in China. Before the American missionary went to China, Chinese officials lost their heads on the block for less crimes than allowing their sons to come toward America.

STOP IT

To prepare for war, to go to war, and to settle our quarrels in war, is the old, old way. It has been going on after that manner since the early dawn of creation when Cain slew his brother. When Satan finds a thing bad enough he never seeks to improve on it except to carry it on after the same deadly, destructive and awful fashion. Righteousness would lead us by a better path. As sure as God rules and reigns there is a way, a better way, for nations to settle their difficulties than by going into armed conflict and engaging in blood letting like fiends and demons. There is even a way of honor as well as of right, to settle these difficulties between nations. It is its madness, it is folly, it is wicked to think otherwise. The day will come when human beings will be surprised at the folly and madness that lead people to think that the only way to maintain national honor was by redress to arms. We found in the Christian Work of New York in its issue of Sept. 4th our own sentiments so clearly and forcefully put that we wish every SUN reader to share with us the joy of reading and considering a phase of the war question which to our mind the great masses believe in, but which few are saying or thinking:

"The whole civilized world is supplied every morning with a deluge of battles, sieges, hand-to-hand struggles on bloody trenches, the rush of cavalry charging and slashing heads and bodies, bombs falling on great cities and bursting in rooms where women and children are sleeping, horrible fumes of deadly gases floating towards regiments and brigades of men who, breathing of them, are tortured to death; the greatest ships afloat torpedoed in a moment and innocent travelers by hundreds torn in pieces and drowned in twenty minutes. The whole civilized world should rise from the reading with one great cry: This thing must stop—just that and nothing else. It must stop. It must stop because it is too dreadful to continue.

"But the civilized world rises and says in place of this: 'We must keep on.' We must keep on making more cannons and rifles and bombs, preparing more chlorine, digging more trenches and dragging more young men to the battlefield—producing more demonic torpedoes and plunging them into the vitals of mighty steamships. Britain cries over to France, 'We must keep on' and France echoes back to England, 'We must keep on.' Russia replies with its million-fold voice, 'We must keep on'—and beneath all rolls the deep bass of Germany, 'We must keep on.'

In the time of the resumption of specie payments a wise man met the cry, 'How can we resume?' by this solid round shot. 'The right way to resume is to resume.' And they resumed. Now the word is, 'The right way to stop is to stop.' If one hundredth part of the energy that is expended all over the lands in keeping on were spent in stopping, the whole thing would stop. Let King George cry over to President Poincare, 'This hellish thing must stop!' And Poincare answer, 'It must stop.' Let the Czar cry to the Kaiser, 'This utmost devilishness must stop,' and the Kaiser answer, 'This combination of all the hells that Dante ever thought of, must stop.' Then if they have human hearts in their bosoms they must cry again, 'Not another rifle shall be made or cannon forged, not another young man be dragged from his home and torn to pieces by shrapnel, not another bomb be filled with torturing death, not another torpedo dashed into the quivering side of a noble ship, not another murdered soldier laid in a nameless but bloody grave. Surely unless they wish to be considered human fiends they must change their cry and do it now. And every man in his order, the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State, the Governor, Senator, judge, the minister, doctor and lawyer, the blacksmith, the carpenter, the farmer, down to the boot-black on the corner of the street, must cry, 'This sum of all villainies must stop.' And every man does not join in the cry, we dare not say what he is; let him name himself as the great God will surely name him. Let the whole world cry, 'Stop it!'

ELON'S GREATEST OPENING

Friends of Elon College everywhere will rejoice that as the years pass the enrolment in the institution grows larger. Already this year more than 350 have enrolled. This is about 50 more than had enrolled by the same date last year, during which year the enrollment went to 402. And the opening last year was far better than that of the year before. Elon's growth is phenomenal and is a source of constant gratification to the thousands who have sacrificed to make it possible. Its friends multiply with succeeding years, and its usefulness and influence increase abundantly.

The policy of the present year, as set forth by the trustees at their last annual meeting, was for internal improvement and efficiency, and this policy is already proving its wisdom. The number of members of the faculty has been increased, and larger pay, with increased demand for larger service, has been granted regular college teachers. Elon now pays her professors in keeping with the oldest and best institutions of the land, and in return is demanding, and is receiving, service second to none in other colleges of like class and character.

But the strongest and most noticeable emphasis has been that placed upon Christian education. Elon's founders intended that this should be what its name indicated, a virile, Christian institution. And never since its founding has the endeavor been more constant and more determined to make it a strictly Christian college than at present. Never was more earnest heed given to the moral and spiritual welfare of all connected with the college than at present. And patrons everywhere are appreciating this fact, and giving the college their support accordingly. Elon has builded well and looks to the future with strong ground for hope, encouragement, and larger things yet.

THE COLLEGE MAN AND SACRIFICE

Our hearts went out last Sunday (Sept. 5) in gratitude to the faithful of other years who labored to make Elon College what it is today. It was at the eleven o'clock preaching hour. The spacious college auditorium could scarcely seat the vast audience present. Villagers in large numbers, accepting a written request of the pastors, had assembled to mingle with the students at the opening church service of the school year, and thus by presence and example declare the fact that this was a church going community. Kindly and courteous ushers were in charge and were kept busy just prior to the opening song in finding seats for the ingathering multitude.

The choir of well trained voices, led the audience in song, the congregation joining in singing the good and glorious hymns of praise. It was an inspiring and a soul-stirring scene. Hearts went out to God in praise and prayer as the five hundred and more voices blended together in sweet and solemn song. And then when songs were done, prayers were said and offering was taken, President W. A. Harper of the College, the speaker of the morning, delivering the opening message of the college year, announced as his theme, 'The College Man and Sacrifice.' For thirty minutes this layman with a preacher's heart and a divine message carried his audience into realms of reverence and holy meditation as he portrayed the high places which college men and college women might attain—if they were willing, as God had been for them, to pay the price, make the sacrifice. Learning, knowledge, culture, wisdom, could not carry one to the best and most useful—only the spirit of sacrifice could do that. No life will be efficient, no character rounded out, unless it learn and put into practice the spirit and the fact of sacrifice. The address was eloquent and must be given in full to SUN readers. The hour was auspicious and the sons and daughters at Elon last Sunday certainly must have made a Sabbath day's journey toward the high place and the holy city.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Kodaks should now sell cheaper, a United States Court having decided that the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y., was a combination in restraint of trade and must be dissolved.

—The annual series of evangelistic meetings are appointed to begin at Elon College Monday evening, Sept. 20. Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, Third church, Norfolk, is to be the preacher for the meetings which will likely continue ten days.

—The latest development in the war zone is to the effect that the Germans and Austrians are driving the Russians toward their interior strongholds and defeating them in their engagements.

—The Board of Education of Iredell county, N. C., at a recent meeting passed a resolution "providing that no teacher of the county be allowed to smoke cigarettes during the school hours or on school grounds." Good for progressive Iredell. A cigarette smoking school-teacher is at best a rather poor sample.

—The Submarine, F4, which sunk in the Honolulu harbor March 25 with 22 men, was raised last week and put in dry dock. The vessel sunk 300 feet and the task of raising the same has been a gigantic one. Many of the bodies that went down with the F4 are found in the vessel.

—Men and Missions makes this timely observation: "The every-member canvass has only a spiritual objective: to carry to others the life of Christ and to secure in ourselves a more perfect expression of the life of Christ. Only as the Church ismade conscious of this spiritual objective will the movement become a blessing and a power."

—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, Sept. 4, 1915: Suffolk, Va., Sept. 4.—At the Christian church Sunday, Dr. W. W. Staley's subjects will be: A. M., "Service Without Love." P. M., "Love Without Service." At the morning service the choir will sing the anthem, "My Friend of Calvary." The evening anthem will be, "Rejoice, The Lord is King." Miss Mildred Kendrick will sing at the evening service, the solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd."

—The Home Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention are called to meet in annual session at Elon College on Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 10:30 a. m. The members of the Board are Col. J. E. West, Suffolk, Va., Chairman; J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, Sec'y-Treas.; Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va.; Rev. H. W. Elder, Richland, Ga., Mr. K. B. Johnson, Cardenas.

—Germany is to offer full satisfaction to our Government for the sinking of the Arabic with the loss of two American lives recently. The declaration is that German's attitude to America is much more friendly than that of a few weeks ago, and the feeling, so tense at that time, that there would be war in spite of ourselves is more complacent, to say the least.

—Dr. W. C. Wicker, pastor, made a talk on "The Principles of the Christian Church" before his Hines' Chapel congregation last Sunday, at the conclusion of which eight persons who had been members of other churches, and one who had not been a member of any church, came forward and united with the church. At the time the talk was being made Pastor Wicker did not know anyone present wished to unite with the church.

—That Americans still love their English cousin, despite sundry unpleasantnesses in 1776 and 1812, is evidenced by the statement that 10,000 Americans are at present enlisted in the British army, and that 50,000 Americans have made application for enlistment in Canadian regiments. It is said that 1,000 men from our neighboring State of South Carolina are fighting under the British flag in Flanders. One wonders why some patriot did not induce Governor Cole Blease to enlist—and get in the front ranks of those being shot at.

—Bro. T. J. Holland, writing from Ambrose Ga., Sept. 3, sends this gratifying news: "I am very glad to say that our new church building at Ambrose will be completed in two weeks, except the painting, and we hope to have service in the new building October 1. Everybody at Ambrose feels proud of Rev. H. W. Elder. Every one at Ambrose, of every denomination, calls him "our preacher." I wish our church had more preachers like Bro. Elder. I do not know of a minister of any denomination that could have built the church that we are building here, in these times, except Bro. Elder." It was through THE SUN I saw of the great work he was doing and wrote him last October to arrange to pay us a visit. He came in December and preached two sermons. The congregation requested him to come again. On his second visit he was requested to organize a church. This meeting was a regular love feast. A church was organized and a subscription for a building fund was started which soon resulted in $2,000. Ours is the only church in town, though there are two others in the country near-by. All have been liberal in helping us and the prospects for a splendid church here are very flattering."

SUFFOLK LETTER

By invitation of A. P. Strickland I attended Children's Day exercises at Mt. Gilcard Christian church, six miles below Louisburg, N. C., on August the seventh.

Rev. Mr. Duke, a Baptist, and this scribe, made addresses in the forenoon, and Mr. Geo. T. Whitaker in the afternoon.

The exercises were very interesting and the attendance was large and well behaved. The children had been well trained and acquitted themselves with surprising credit. Brother Strickland is a good singer and had trained his school well in this important department of Sunday school work. His co-helpers had all done their part successfully and the day was a credit to the community.

A sumptuous dinner was served in the grove, and the intermission gave opportunity for social intercourse and neighborly greetings. Pastor Wolf was not present as the meeting was held on Saturday.

Rev. J. D. Wicker was the leader in the establishment of this church and I heard the wish expressed that he could have been present to witness the progress and improvement in the community since he first began to preach in that neighborhood. No man can tell what will be the fruit of his planting; but often great harvests come from small beginnings. I remember going to Franklin, Va., the last Sunday in April in 1883, to help brother Hurly organize a Christian church in a small hall. It was a very rainy day and the congregation was small. It was a gloomy prospect. That congregation is now erecting a modern, twelve thousand dollar church, with Sunday school rooms and furnace heat, under the wise leadership of Dr. C. H. Rowland. There are many places where Christian churches could be planted in a modest way and which would grow into vigorous and active institutions.

Evangelist Victor Lightbourne is assisting Dr. I. W. Johnson in a meeting at Liberty Spring church this week and we are hoping that God will abundantly bless their efforts.

I am re-instated in my work after a pleasant vacation which I used as a means of physical recuperation. The country is a good place for exercise and a good substitute for a gymnasium.

Mrs. I. W. Johnson has begun work with a class in Expert Christian Endeavor study and we will start a teacher training class in October. We hope to have a good class for graduation in May. We had a class of 27 a few years ago, but no effort was made then at graduation; now we aspire to diplomas. Increasing intelligence through the public schools demands teachers trained for their work. This is no longer a privilege, but a necessity; and we must do our little part in this modern progress.

The fine opening at Elon College is gratifying to all the friends of the Institution; and especially to those who have been associated with the college from its birth. It registers more students than any two colleges in N. C. when I was in college. W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

"The finest opening in Elon annals"—that's the verdict our friends have permitted us to announce through their efforts and prayers. Fifty more students are on the hill than at any one time before. Thanks to everybody.

Let the lovers of ancient days take note that the time-honored vacant seat between the ladies and gentlemen in chapel has been obliterated—the hyphen so-called. It had to be to give seats to the student body and leave a few for the villagers and visitors.

"The situation demands a College church" everybody is saying. The Sunday-school cannot be accommodated in the College building. Two classes recite in the chapel, one in the library, and another in the gymnasium for men. We certainly need a church.

One of the most impressive things about the College this year is the hour from 10:50 to 11:50 a. m., on Wednesdays. Every student and every teacher during that hour gives himself up to Bible study, from which all go to chapel for public praise and thanksgiving.

On Sunday at the opening address every seat in chapel was taken but two. It was a splendid audience. It would inspire any member of the church to look upon them.

Dr. Atkinson on Sunday morning "woke up" the M. E. Baraca class of Burlington with a few flashes of light on a most eloquent theme—The Romance of Righteousness. One man remarked—he never knew religion was fun before. He forgot that God made the monkey.

Dr. W. W. Staley's words of greeting on the opening morning were applauded to the echo.

The Sunday evening service was an introductory one. The officers of the C. E., Y. W. C. A., and Y. M. C. A., with the College pastor presented the religious life powerfully. It was good to be there.

Beginning with last Sunday, there will be no break between Sunday school and church. Sunday school is to begin at 10:00 a. m. in the class rooms. After 30 minutes all assemble in chapel and close the Sunday school, immediately after which the preaching service begins. The whole will be concluded by 10:30 to 11:45.

All the new members of the Faculty are fitting well into their places. The College is fortunate in the personnel of the old and new. A faculty such as Elon has would make a College anywhere.

No visitors can be personally mentioned this week—they were too many, but all were treble welcome and must gladden us again soon by their presence. "X."

WINCHESTER LETTER

The Winchester church has just closed another conference year. From many standpoints it was our best year. 26 members were received during the year, bringing our present membership to 93. This is an increase of 36 per cent over last year. Our present Sunday school enrolment, including the Home Department and Cradle Roll, is 385. This does not include the patients in the Winchester Hospital, who gladly receive and read our Sunday School Lesson Leaflets, which are distributed to them every Sunday by the superintendent of our Home Department. Our Christian Endeavor society is getting along nicely. During the Summer we have been combining the Christian Endeavor and preaching service. The combination has been very satisfactory and has drawn increased congregations.

The financial depression of the country has been felt in the contributions on our church debt, but we have raised enough to meet the interest and make some reductions on the principal. Our church reported $1,031 raised for all purposes. All of this was raised locally, which means an average of nearly $10.50 per member. We want to make considerable reduction on our church debt this year and will have to call upon our friends to help us.

The following contributions have been received:

We are thankful for these contributions and are glad we have passed the Eight Thousand Dollar mark in our receipts.

Our conference at Timber Ridge was well attended and hospitably entertained. We were glad to have Drs. Atkinson and Harper with us and appreciate the help they gave us. We had a good session of which the secretary will write more fully.

W. T. WALTERS.

THE VIRGINIA VALLEY CENTRAL CONFERENCE

The sixty-seventh session of the Va. Valley Central Conference met with the church at Timber Ridge, Hampshire County, W. Va., August 12-14, 1915. Three of the ministers of the Conference were present. Fourteen of the twenty-five churches of the Conference were represented by delegates, there being twenty-six delegates enrolled. Seven churches which were not represented by delegates sent in their reports. Four failed to send reports. Thus we see a few of our churches are still afflicted with secretaries who are too indifferent to send in their reports—a thing which ought not to be.

The President, Rev. W. T. Walters, delivered a president's address, using as his subject "Our Conference Problems and their Solution." It was an excellent address, practical and to the point.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, editor of the Christian Sun, delivered the Annual Address in his usual eloquent style, and it is needless to say the address was highly enjoyed. Dr. Atkinson and Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College, each gave several addresses during the conference session, adding greatly to the enjoyment and profit of the conference. Rev. J. O. Cox, Superintendent of the Orphanage set before us the claims of that institution in a splendid address. The addresses, counsel, and inspiration of these brethren are greatly appreciated. Dr. Atkinson preached twice on Sunday and Dr. Harper once thus making Sunday a feast of good things to the soul.

The following officers were elected: President, J. C. Bradford; Vice President, Rev. W. T. Walters; Secretary, Rev. A. W. Andes; Assistant Secretary, Geo. C. Mayes; Treasurer, Samuel Earman. Officers for the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. T. Walters; Vice President, Mrs. J. K. Ruebush; Secretary, Mrs. L. C. Fultz; Treasurer, Miss Ivie D. Andes; Superintendent of Cradle Roll, Mrs. Boyd Richards; Superintendent of Literature and Mite Boxes, Miss Mamie Summers; Superintendent of Young People's Department, Mrs. A. W. Andes.

The following were elected delegates to the Southern Christian Convention: W. T. Walters, H. C. Moore, A. W. Andes, R. L. Williamson, W. C. Hook, J. C. Bradford, E. W. Cather, D. L. Larrick, J. E. Foster, Samuel Earman.

Palmyra was chosen as the place to hold the Conference next year.

Dr. W. A. Harper was elected to deliver the annual address, with Rev. A. W. Andes as alternate.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president for his ten years of faithful service in the chair.

Rev. L. L. Lassiter was given a letter of transfer from this Conference to the Eastern Va. or any other Conference he may wish to unite with.

W. C. Hook of Winchester was recommended for licensure, and was duly licensed on Sunday by Rev. W. T. Walters. Bro. Hook will take pastoral work in the Conference this year.

The following are banner churches this year: Antioch, Bethel, Bethlehem, Benlah, Concord, Dry Run, East Liberty, Joppa, Leaksville, Linville, Mayland, Mt. Olivet (R), New Hope, Newport, Palmyra, Timber Mountain, Whistler's Chapel, Winchester, Woods' Chapel. Some of these churches had a pastor only about seven or eight months, and preaching only on week nights once a month, yet they have come up in full on the apportionments. Six churches failed to come up in full. It is hoped that the time will soon come when not a single church will think of failing in this matter.

Let us push ahead that this year may be the best yet.

PORTSMOUTH LETTER

I have just concluded a 4 week's absence from home with the exception of each Sabbath. No, it has not been a vacation altogether, and not intended as such, though my church has been gracious enough to accord me two weeks absence; but it has been four weeks of work which in many ways have been refreshing.

The first ten days were spent at Virginia Beach attending the Chautauqua and School of Methods. This indeed was recreation. I had nothing to do but attend the sessions, make press reports, and dive the surf. The Chautauqua is the finest thing for the "Go Forward Movement" the Christian church ever instituted. I think Brother Eldredge is right in saying, "I can contribute more to the mission field by contributing to the Chautauqua and sending twenty-five or more trained workers into the field than I can by contributing direct to the support of the missionary on the field." Perhaps these are not just the words but I am certain it is the substance. Brother Eldredge is one who gives both to the field and to training workers here. Every Christian worker of the church should plan to go every year, and if finance is an item as it is with many, start a little savings account now and use it in placing you at the Chautauqua next year. I am putting it on my schedule and shall try to arrange with my workers to have them there too. If you are interested as a Christian worker, whatever the circumstances may be, you cannot afford to miss this training school for the kingdom. If you are not interested, it is all the more important that you visit the Chautauqua and see what it will do for you. Some objections have been raised by some honest consecrated workers:—they cannot satisfy their conscience that it is right to hold a Christian convention at a summer resort where the most things there are condemned by the church. This objection is due to the lack of information. Virginia Beach Pavilion where all the amusements are, is a mile and a half from the auditorium. I spent the entire week in a Christian home and with Christian people and did not go to the pavilion at all, and had I not known that such a thing was there, I could not have known it. It is a nice quiet good happy place and if one attends the Chautauqua and enjoys the surf the time is wholly taken.

After the Chautauqua I attended the Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention at Antioch. I was bare-headed and open-hearted. Literally we had a hot time without any resurrection of the old slang expression. Nothing else expresses it. And you need not ask why I was bare-headed. That's a secret. I had a hat but not with me. The Convention was fine. What the speakers could not do for the occasion, old Sol did, and we felt sometimes as though there would be nothing left but a spot of grease. The Convention was fine and I think many congratulations and thanks should be extended Bro. Blanchard and the program committee for the most excellent work which they did. Berea (Norfolk) Christian church has invited the Convention for next year. We have not received their acceptance yet. We hope they will.

Following the Convention, I spent two weeks in revival at Berea. Brother Geo. D. Eastes, of the Third church and his good wife, were with me. Mrs. Eastes presided at the organ charmingly, I led the singing in the old time way, and Eastes did the preaching nobly and powerfully. There were seventeen converts and reclamations, eight united with the church and seven were baptized. It was a happy meeting for the church. Baptismal services were held last Sunday evening at five o'clock in the creek near Bro. J. E. Hall's.

During these four weeks I have had distinguished visitors in my pulpit at Portsmouth. The third Sunday in July Dr. Jno. MacCallman, of New York, spoke for me to a very good congregation, and on the fourth Sunday Mr. Hermon Eldredge spoke to a large congregation. The first Sunday in August Dr. J. W. Harrell, of Dayton, former pastor, was with us both services. He preached in the morning and in the evening brought a message to the Teacher Training class. The evening service was given over to the graduating exercises of the Teacher Training class. Miss Grace Jollet, of the class read a most excellent paper on "The Importance of Trained Teachers." Mr. R. B. Wood, of the class, made a delightful address on "The Value of Geography in Sunday School Teaching." Mr. J. J. Pitt, of the Memorial Temple and Supt. of the Sunday school added efficiency to the program by speaking on the subject "Efficiency in the Sunday school," and Miss Fannie Brickhouse, also of the Temple, charmed the audience by demonstrating how to tell a story to Primaries. It was a very stormy night. During the program the rain poured in such torrents the voice could hardly be heard at times; notwithstanding, there were nearly an hundred people present.

I am now home again for business. The weather is as hot as I ever felt. Our educational campaign is on in September and we are planning large things for next year which begins October. Pray for us.

Truly,

H. E. ROUNTREE.

THE CALL FOR GOD'S GREAT MEN

Wanted, a million men to serve—a million men their arms to nerve—for a task that calls for God's great men. Will you be one of that million, then? And end that spells a King's success, a job that bids men give not less than heart strength, life blood, virile power. Who answers is the man of the hour! This—the Golden Now—is the day to meet God's challenge,—"Speed Away,"—a challenge to genius and skill; to a million men who say they will.

"What gigantic, heroic task so much of life would claim?" you ask. The world for Christ through men be won in this, our day. It can be done. Nay, not by power, nor by might of man alone is won this fight, but by His Spirit; by man's prayers; by gifts man with Him gladly shares. Then trust in God. The conflict face with courage, faith. We will win through grace. Be true to duty; dare not shrink. At duty, God's men do not wink.

Men of Christ of the Crimson Cross, our indecision means man's loss. Militant hosts, awake! Obey the Great Commission. Speed the day when a world will crown Christ Lord of All! May a million strong men heed the call.—ANON.

S. S. LESSON, SEPT. 12

Elijah's Flight and Return I Kings 19.

Immediately following last Sunday's lesson we have the lesson for today. Elijah had won out in the contest with the prophets of Baal. He had had them slain with the sword. The news spread to Jezabel and Jezabel pronounced the same sentence upon Elijah that he should be treated in the same manner as the prophets of Baal were treated.

The man of God flees for his life and rests under a Juniper tree. Elijah is despondent and desires that he might die. Feeling that his work had been in vain and that he was absolutely friendless he wanted to die. He was hungry and tired from this long, hasty journey. Many times we fail in the task we have earnestly sought to perform and are driven to ourselves. The future is dark and clouds hover over our heads. But the task was honest and the silver lining finally is seen in the glowing sun.

An angel was Elijah's silver lining and strength for the physical body was near at hand.

God takes care of those who try to serve and do His will. We have trials. The work would not be worth while until it tried us. We would not know our strength or Jehovah's strength if it was not tested—put on trial. We are not all put to the same test. Some one has suggested that Elijah was "at home" swaying the multitude but he was lost with himself of a few.

That reminds us we are not Billy Sundays, but we have our sphere. The village or country pastor would soon resign as pastor of a country church with a few scattering members. God has a work for us all to do; if we do not do it, that work will go undone. "Men are poor judges of success or failure; a man has not lived in vain if he has fitted into God's plan." (Luke 1:17; Matt. 17:3.)

Despair is the lamp of hell; rejoicing is the serenity of heaven.—Donne.

C. E. TOPIC, SEPT. 12

Friendships that are worth forming; Making them, keeping them.—Prov. 27:5, 6, 9, 10, 14, 17, 19.

Scripture

"Open rebuke is better than secret love.

Faithful are the wounds of a friend; but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful.

Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel.

Thine own friend, and thy father's friend, forsake not; neither go into thy brother's house in the day of thy calamity; for better is a neighbor that is near than a brother far off.

He that blesseth his friend with a loud voice, rising early in the morning, it shall be counted a curse to him.

This is one of the most important subjects that we have studied during the past few months. The subject of friendship is practiced by every human soul and we also, see it manifested among the beasts of the field and birds of the air. Certainly we have friends some where. Friendship that is true and lasting is one of the best assets that a man can have. Most friendships are not made in a moment or a day, but are weeks and months in forming. The important task of making friends suffers from the little attention that is given to it.

In making friends we must use our very best judgment and be sure that we are putting a great deal of thought into the matter. We see around us too many good, ripe friendships broken; we can't afford to pass this important side of our social nature without cultivating it well.

I consider beyond wealth, honor, or even health, is the attachment due to noble souls; because one with the good, generous, and true, is to be, in a manner, good, generous and true yourself.

Dr. Arnold.

Friendship is a cadence of divine melody melting through the heart.

Mildway.

HERE AND THERE

The Eastern Va. W. M. Conference meets with the women of the Waverly church on Thursday, Oct. 28th. They are anxious that our societies shall send a full delegation. A helpful program is being planned. Elect your delegates at your September meeting, and see that they attend.

September is the time for the election of officers for the coming year in all of our societies, and it is hoped that none will neglect to attend to this. We want the names of the President and the Corresponding Secretary-Treasurer to appear in the Annual in connection with the proceedings of the Woman's Missionary Conference.

Miss Williams writes, "I have just returned from Aiboniti where I had a delightful vacation and I am glad to say that the cool atmosphere has restored me to my old time health. The Barretts will remain in Aiboniti until Saturday of this week. The Methodist Missionary Society built this beautiful Rest House up there among the hills for all the Protestant missionaries on the island to go for rest once a year and it was offered to Mr. Barrett and his family for three weeks. I went as the guest of Mr. Barrett for two weeks.

The first Sunday in October is the day set apart as Woman's Mission Day, and all of our pastors are asked to speak of the work the women are doing for missions, and see to organizing societies in their churches.

DOES THIS SUGGESTION APPEAL TO YOU?

(Extract from a letter from Miss Williams)

Our field is thirty-five miles long. Practically Mr. Barrett has been alone in that work. Our native pastor here in Ponce is a splendid assistant, and if Mr. Barrett has done nothing else but train this man, the time spent down here has been well spent. That reminds me that we have no place to train our native workers. All other denominations have training schools down here on the island. Mr. Barrett has taken this man in the buggy with him, training him as he went from place to place. Then I came down with no experience, and Mr. Barrett has taken me in charge and trained me on our long drives, and I can testify to the soundness of the teachings, but it is "long drawn out" and I wish it were possible for him in some way to have the native workers meet at his home once a month for instruction. We do not let a man preach at home until he is prepared, and certainly should not permit on a foreign field. As I understand the work in Japan, Dr. Woodward is putting in most of his time training students. Now, there is hardly enough money sent in for the Mission Board to keep up the regular expense of the work down here, could not the Woman's Foreign Mission Board take this other matter in hand? I think $5.00 per month would cover the travelling expenses of our workers into Ponce. This is a little thing now, but will add greatly to the quality and efficiency of our work years hence, and will also save Mr. Barrett a great deal of time and strength.

THE MOTHERS CONGRESS

To the Editor of The Sun:

May I take a little of your space in which to express my hearty thanks to the ladies who so kindly assisted me in giving to the "Mothers' Conference" at the Chautauqua what ever measure of success it may have had?

Personally, I feel that we as mothers, and as women, have a great duty to ourselves and our family—to ourselves to be the best possible woman, wife and mother we can be; to our daughters, to

Total for the week 98.83

Grand total 2309.54

Our regular collections are greatly reduced this time on account of the fifth Sunday being an off Sunday for many of our country churches. But the good women saved the day by furnishing us with a long list of specials.

The contributions to the Dining Hall improvements may require the following words of explanation. Just before commencement we had our dining hall overhauled and the interior painted at a cost of $75. We wrote seventy-five good women and asked them to contribute $1.00 each for the improvements. We heard from forty-five whose contributions amount to $63.00. We had hoped to be able to report the entire amount at one time but it seems that some of our good friends forgot to answer our letter, and we are still $12.00 short. We sincerely hope that enough may yet respond to make out the $75.00 so we can get this item off our hands.

It was our good pleasure to worship with Rev. J. W. Holt and his Long's Chapel congregation on yesterday. The good farmers of this community subscribed 25 bushels of wheat toward the feeding of our family. We are very grateful to pastor and people for this liberal contribution.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Julius B. Wood, M. D., D. D., S. late President Society Prevention Cruelty to Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear what takes place in the office of the 'Fenticello Lithia Water,' and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles, it is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced its use, they then became very enthusiastic. I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalis in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Kidneys, Skin and Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Fenticello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is suffering with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Gravel and Kidney Affections, Gravel Stone in the Bladder, Uric Acid, Rheumatism, and Gout."

Fenticello Mineral Water is sold on guarantee. Order two carboys—ten gallons—price $2.00. If it doesn't benefit you we will refund your money.

Dr. Osler on Tuberculosis

Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1892), on page 249: "The healing of primary tuberculosis is shown clinically by the recovery of patients in whose sputa elastic tissue and bacilli have been found. * In the granulation products and associated pneumonia a scar tissue is formed, while in the earlier cases areas become impregnated with lime salts. To such conditions alone should the term healing be applied."

The success of Eckman's Alterative in tuberculosis may be due partly to its content of a lime salt in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated. It is worth a trial, unless other treatment already is succeeding. We make no promises concerning it any more than do reputable physicians with their prescriptions, but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

make of them the best possible women and prepare them for the duties they will have to face in the future. That we may achieve these results, every mother must meet and answer for herself the question, "What shall I tell my daughter?" of the things she needs to know? How shall I best prepare her for womanhood?

Many thanks are due Mrs. J. L. Foster who presented so ably the subject, "What shall I tell my daughter before she starts her school life?"; to Mrs. W. H. Denison who discussed the question, "What shall I tell my daughter before she enters college?" will give you some idea of the splendid way in which this was handled.

I trust, Mr. Editor, that you will permit or persuade Mrs. Denison and Mrs. Foster to offer their papers also for publication in your columns, for I am sure that all who were there and heard them will agree with me that they were too good to be lost.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. F. BULLOCK

A HEALING SPRING AT YOUR DOOR

Here is a very unusual and peculiar offer—one that you rarely meet with. It evidences the greatest faith on the part its maker and inspires confidence. It is made by an earnest and enthusiastic man who not only thinks but knows from personal experience that he is right. He proposes to give you the equivalent of a three weeks' visit to a Mineral Spring of most remarkable restorative powers and make no charge if you are not benefited. His offer has been accepted by several thousands of sufferers in all parts of the U. S. and his records show that only two in a hundred, on the average, report no benefit.

If you suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney, bladder or liver disease, uric acid poisoning, or other condition caused by impure blood, take Mr. Shivar at his word and sign and mail the following letter: Shivar Spring,

Box 9H, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Elon College

For Both Men and Women

Elon College, North Carolina

For a quarter century Elon College has rendered the best families of the South a paragon service in providing young men and young women with the best mental, moral and physical training under positive Christian influences, too entirely free from sectarianism.

Karl Lehman, of Boston, testifies that "of all the Colleges I have visited as International Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor during six years, the spirit of Elon College appeals to me as most genuinely Christian." Elon College is situated in the delightful hill country, a section unsurpassed for beauty, with a climate far-famed for its healthfulness. There is no medical fee, for there is no necessity for it. Its campus, comprising twenty-five acres of native oak and hickory, shrubbery, winding walks and driveways, is one of the most beautiful in the South and, with its two unsurpassed gymnasias, provides abundant opportunity for recreation and relaxation.

The splendid equipment of Elon College was only made possible through liberal endowment. It maintains seven elegant new buildings, especially designed and appointed for college work. These are furnished with every known convenience; steam heat, electric lights, running water, baths and sewerage. The College plant is conservatively valued at $300,000.00.

Elon College is distinctly a high-grade institution, though its charges are moderate. Its graduates are admitted to the graduate departments of all the great universities without examination. Its literary and scientific courses are arranged in various departments which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Pedagogy, and a three-years' course leading to the degree of Licentiate of Instruction, designed especially for teachers. This institution affords special opportunities for training in Piano, Voice, Expression, Fine Arts, Normal Training, Physical Culture and Commercial Practice.

The Faculty consists of twenty-one specialists; men and women selected not only for their superior teaching ability, but also for their exemplary character and manners.

The student body numbers nearly four hundred and comes from thirteen states.
The lowest Rates in the South, only $131 to $191 per College session of ten months. Fall Term always opens the first Wednesday in September. For full descriptive catalogue and view-book, address

OUR DEAD

Whitley

Mrs. Virginia Peters Whitley, wife of Bro. J. F. Whitley, of Franklin, Va., died at the Sarah Leigh Hospital, Norfolk, Va., July 31, 1915, in her fifty-second year. She was a great sufferer for three years, but was the most patient and cheerful person under affliction it has been our privilege to know. She was heard to say many times, "Many are the afflictions of the righteous; but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." Sister Whitley was a loyal member of the Franklin Christian church, and was a teacher in the Sunday school for many years. On account of building new church the funeral services were held from Emmanuel Episcopal church, Aug. 1, at 4 p. m. Her pastor conducted the services assisted by Rev. R. M. Chandler of the M. E. church. The deceased leaves to mourn their loss a husband, two brothers, R. A. and R. H. Peters, Franklin, Va., and one sister, Mrs. Parker Metcalf, Roanoke, Va., three step-sons, and two step-daughters. Christianity assures us that it is well with her.

C. H. ROWLAND.

Cutherell

Mrs. Laura A Cutherell, aged 74 years, quietly passed away Thursday morning, Sept. 2, in the home of her son-in-law, J. J. Hall, and her niece, Mrs. Reys Williamson, Great Bridge, Va. Her remains were interred in Berea cemetery Friday afternoon, the writer officiating. Fifteen years ago her husband died, leaving her alone with one afflicted boy and for the most of this time she has resided at the home of Brother Hall, her son-in-law. For the past six months she has been confined to her bed, practically helpless; not sick and not suffering at times when under attack of asthma. During her last illness her faithful niece, Mrs. Reys Williamson, Jr., ministered to her wants and filled her last days with as much comfort as it was possible for human hands to do. She leaves, of her relatives, the afflicted son, now about 25 years old, and her niece, Mrs. Williamson. She was a good Christian and a member of Monumental M. E. church, Portsmouth, Va. She was prepared for her eternity and longed for the day that would usher it in.

H. E. ROUNTREE.

Cross

Sister Virginia Cross departed this life June 26, 1915, aged 69 years, one month and twenty-nine days. She was with her niece, Mrs. Collins, of Newport News, when the summons came. Her husband preceded her to that upper land some few years. She leaves to mourn their loss two nieces and one nephew and a host of friends. She was born in Hertford county, N. C. Sister Cross was a good woman; loyal to her church—Holy Neck. Funeral service by her pastor and burial at Holy Neck.

Milteer

John T. Milteer was born March 19, 1852; died June 6, 1915. Oct. 15, 1874, he married Margaret Annie Garner. They were blessed with twelve children. Five are living and seven dead. He leaves to mourn their loss a dear wife, two boys and three girls: John and Jethro Milteer, Mrs. Susie Harsum, Mrs. Pearl Lewis and Mrs. Iva West. He was a life-long member of Holy Neck church. He was faithful to his church as long as he was able to go. It was my privilege to visit him in his afflictions. He was ready to go when the call came. Funeral at his home by the writer. He was buried in the family cemetery. B. F. BLACK.

Journigan

Mrs. Julian Journigan departed this life Aug. 17, 1915, aged 53 years. She leaves to mourn their loss a husband and three children: W. H. Journigan, Henry and Richard, and Mrs. Lizzie Tomlin. She suffered a great deal, but was patient and resigned to the Master's will. She was a faithful and loyal member of South Quay Baptist church. Funeral conducted by the writer and interment made at the church of her choice. B. F. BLACK.

Baker

Martha Francis Baker was born 1867, departed this life Aug. 2, 1915. She was a faithful member of Liberty Spring church. She leaves to mourn their loss one sister and two brothers: Mrs. Josephine Rountree, J. H. and Jack Baker. Henry M. Baker and Francis Baker, per parents, preceded her to reap their reward. She was devoted to her home and loved ones. Her last hours were spent in pointing her loved ones and friends to Him whom she loved so dearly and served so faithfully. Funeral by the writer, assisted by Rev. Stanly Harrell. She was placed beside her dear ones in the family plot at the old homestead.

B. F. BLACK.

Jones

Mrs. Bettie M. Jones departed this life Aug. 21, 1915. She was born Dec. 17, 1840, in Johnston county, N. C. Her pilgrimage here on earth covered 74 years, 8 months and 5 days. She was the daughter of Dr. J. T. and Elizabeth Leach. In March, 1868, she married James K. Jones. Soon thereafter they moved to the community of Holland, Va. Here they fought life's battles together, sharing each other's joys and burdens alike. In 1888 her husband died. From 1888 to 1910 Sister Jones superintended the farm. She provided for her children in spiritual, mental and temporal things as only a wise mother could. For the past ten years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Holland, Holland, Va. Here in her last days she was ministered to by her four daughters and son as few people are privileged to enjoy. When in her teens, Sister Jones joined the M. E. church. Later it fell to the good lot of Holy Neck Christian church to have her as one of its members. For 47 years she worked for the Master with this good people, proving faithful to her church vows. She was in sympathy with every forward movement of the Master's kingdom. Many have read The Christian Sun year after year because of her thoughtfulness, who otherwise would not have had that privilege. She gave of her time and means in a way that few know of and to many who will miss her kindly and helpful attentions. She leaves to mourn their loss, four daughters and one son: Mrs. D. H. McCallers, Clayton, N. C.; Mrs. Job G. Holland, Mrs. Nell Langston, and Mrs. W. J. Holland and J. T. Jones, Holland, Va., fourteen grandchildren, and a brother, C. B. Leach, Wilson, N. C., a host of relatives and friends. Funeral services conducted by the pastor, assisted by Dr. C. H. Rowland, Franklin, Va., and Dr. Lawless, pastor of Holland Baptist church. The services were held in Holland Christian church, after which she was interred in the family burying ground at the old homestead. The church was filled to its capacity. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

"BILLY" SUNDAY

THE MAN AND HIS MESSAGE

By William T. Ellis, LL.D.

AUTHORIZED BY MR. SUNDAY

Tells the story of Mr. Sunday's eventful life, gives a keen analysis of his manner and methods and traces his remarkable success as the most conspicuous Christian leader in America, and also contains the heart of his message, arranged by subjects, including his vivid utterances, his startling epigrams and his homely, Lincoln-like illustrations that add to his tremendously earnest appeals. Published by special agreement for the use of copyrighted material and photographs.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Progressive

Christianity never has been contented with things as they are. It is ever looking for, and ever finding, some new task to do, some new plan to try, some novel purpose to pursue. Discontent is divine. The soul at ease will soon be the soul with disease. Piety put on cold storage loses its flavor and becomes insipid. The Jews and certain lewd fellows of the baser sort at Thessalonica spake the truth of Paul and Silas and all Christians when they cried "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither." (Acts 17:6.)

Fun to Do Good

A recent writer in a great journal declares "Our religion is the one recipe for optimism. The jolliest, happiest, longest-lived men are preachers. There's a reason. It is not a plethoric bank account. They have found in experience that is great fun to do good and that religion and a good time are one and the same thing." The most dismal, dull and dreary life is that of doing evil, plotting injury and injustice to others, and learning hatred. "To hate is to be in hell" declares a philosopher. Happiness, laughter, smiles, joy, fun come from living the life of righteousness.

Gold Bars

A New York exchange tells that a railway conductor on a flier from the West into New York has nine gold bars on his left sleeve. That means forty-five years continuous service on that road. He began with pick and shovel on the road-bed at eighteen. Asked the secret of his long and successful service the modest man replied: Good health, work for the road as though it were his own, especial attention to old people and invalids, practicing daily the Golden Rule and the spirit of patience becoming a Christian. Character counts everywhere and the spirit of the Master tells in every vocation. What patient industry, what constant care, what persistent waiting, watching, and endurance it takes to win the gold bars on the left arm; but they are worth it for the joy and peace and comfort they bring. "Therefore I love thy commandments above gold; yea, above fine gold." (Psa. 119:127.)

The Innocents

A health Bulletin informs us that an average of 685 babies die every day in the United States, or 250,000 a year. "The coffins in which they are buried costs $12,500,000 annually, and if placed side by side they would make a solid row ninety-five miles long." And yet doctors tell us that the death of children is a defeat of God's plan. The plan of righteousness which is working out in the world is divine, but is hindered and delayed in consumption by disease and the weakness and follies of man. Verily disease is as the dragon which "stood before the woman to devour her child as soon as it was born." (Rev. 12:4.)

The Tree and The Train

During the season recently closed the Southern railway operated 187 special trains, from Atlanta to the North, in handling the Georgia peach crop. There were 3636 cars of the luscious, life-giving fruit, and so highly prized were they that they were carried the whole distance on passenger schedules. For each of the special trains four engines and four crews of five men each were required. The Southern hauled this vast cargo 649 miles and carried 98.3 per cent. of it in on perfect schedule time. It is as if the Southern peach orchards were for the time being transplanted in Northern cities. "For the tree of the field is man's life." (Deut. 20:19.)

Sending the Message

The Sunday-school scholars of America have sent to the soldiers of Europe 340,000 copies of the New Testament. This in answer to the plea sent out: "A million nickles from a million Sunday-school scholars for a million Testaments for a million soldiers." All Christian movements are worth while in that they make us think in large numbers and big facts. The church and Sunday-school enlarge constantly the thought and the mental grasp, as well as the religious character and disposition of man. On which account the Apostle to the Gentiles exhorted "Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." (Col. 3:16.)

The Unfinished Creature

Some one has called man God's creative venture. This for the reason that other forms of creation seem to be complete; but man is far from being complete or a finished product. Plant life responds to its environments perfectly, seems to have perfect adaptation and correspondence there; animal life (below man) is in accord with nature; has unerring instinct; is satisfied to fill its function as its ancestors for a thousand years have done. But man is the incomplete and unfinished creature. He looks, not backward, but forward, and fully understands that he is to be more than he is. This is why it is written of him, "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." Or more to the point: "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth together, for the manifestation of the sons of God."

Staffing the Enemy

On August 20, at the age of 61 Dr. Paul Ehrlich, discoverer of anti-toxin for diphtheria, died suddenly in Hamburg, Germany. In Europe and America he had received the highest honors to be given a physician and scientist, and was said to be the greatest exponent of modern pathology on earth. No wonder. Whereas diphtheria was once the dread of parents for their children and cruelly multiplied baby deaths without number, it is now a disease of small moment, and is prevented before it occurs. There are thousands of people living today who would have been in their graves since childhood but for Dr. Paul Ehrlich. "Out of the mouth of babes hast thou ordained strength because of thine enemies, that thou mightest still the enemy and the avenger." (Psa. 8:2.)

A Christian

In a recent religious census, to the answer of the question "Are you a Christian?" many replied, "Well, I hope so. At any rate, I am trying to do the best I can." It was a lame reply, and with a doubtful backing. Christianity is that scheme or plan of things which God is working out for, and through, men; a Christian is one through whom and in whom God does things. The main question of the Christian is, Not what can I do for God, but, What will I let God do for me and with me? That which makes one a Christian to begin with is the voluntary receiving of Jesus as personal Savior and Redeemer. And that which keeps one a Christian is the willingness that Christ should abide within, dominate and control the life. "Brethren I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, * * * I press toward the mark for the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." (Phil. 3:13.)

—Rev. Orman T. Headley who had to leave a good church in Maine because the climate was too severe for his wife's health has been for some months located and teaching at Ozon Tenn. Bro. Headley is a member of the Rhode Island and Massachusetts Christian Conference, but would transfer to one of our Southern Conferences if work were secured. He would be glad to correspond with some of our pastorless churches. It would be worth while for any church desiring an able and successful pastor to write him. His address at present is Rev. O. T. Headley, Crab Orchard, Tenn.

—Pleasant Grove church, Halifax county, Va., always anxious for the best, striving for the most efficient, has decided to adopt the every member canvass and the envelope system for collecting all of its church finances the coming year. Our congratulations to Pleasant Grove church, as we believe this system is the solution to many church finance problems. The strange thing to us is that all of our churches do not adopt this system, which works so well wherever it is given a thorough trial. Rev. J. G. Pruitt, a member of the Senior class in Elon College, is to serve Pleasant Grove as pastor the coming year.

A MAN AND HIS MONEY

There is no question that concerns the human race more than that of the attitude of mind to property. We live in a world of material possession and pursuits, to a large measure at any rate. Man is in his bodily and mental make up of the earth earthy. Aware at the same time that he is more than material, that there is that within which is more than of the earth he begins the work of adjustment. Shall the bodily and the sensual dominate the moral and spiritual? Or shall the moral and spiritual dominate and control the bodily and material as to make these contribute to the well-being of the former?

Philosophers tell us there should be no conflict. But we realize that there is conflict. "Ambition is the way in which a vulgar man aspires," declared Beecher. But all who count aspire. And vulgar or not vulgar we press forward for possessions and in pursuit. Neither will we be persuaded that it is wrong to so press. But as we press on and as we achieve, what shall be our mental and moral attitude to the things we invest ourselves of? For after all "personal morality resolves itself into a question of personal attitude." It is not what one possesses that is dangerous or benevolent, but one's attitude to what one possesses.

Here is the question fairly drawn and squarely put, and there is no third alternative: Shall a man regard property as an earthly treasure, or recognize it as a heavenly trust? Paganism declares for the former, that it is an earthly treasure. Christianity declares for the latter, that it is a heavenly trust. It is the burden of Christianity to carry the proof and the practice of its teachings into all the earth. "Christianity repudiates the pagan doctrine of ownership and recognizes possessions, honorably acquired, as a token of confidence on the part of the Divine Owner, and as its own pledge of fidelity in return," writes a recent publisher.

Harvey Reeves Calkins has undertaken to set forth in a volume of more than 350 pages the attitude of the Christian mind to possessions, "A Man and His Money." It is a wonderful book. We wish preachers, pastors and financiers would read it. It is an exaltation of ownership; it spiritualizes possessions; it makes the honest financier feel that he is a co-worker with God; it makes every honest seeker after truth and after wealth that there is One above who really owns all and that to Him all are accountable, but that from Him the blessings and benefits of possessions and proprietorship all come. The Methodist Book Concern, New York and Cincinnati is the publisher of this wonderful volume that should have a place in every library. The price is cheap at $1.00, plus postage—12 cents. Philosophical, powerful, pointed, practical, no one can read it without having a finer conception of the spirituality of ownership and the morality of money.

"Giving" according to Dr. Calkins, is not a matter of duty or of principle even; it is a matter of acknowledgment. The reason why we are to give of the first fruits, or lay by in store "the first day of the week," is not because God wants to deprive or impoverish us, but because He wants us to acknowledge Him as being Supreme. And if we acknowledge Him with our words and not with our offerings when we set more store on our possessions than we do our words, then we do not give God first place, but second or third in our esteem and admiration. And God will have first place—or none. Do you give God first place? If so how?

TO THE ENDS OF THE EARTH

Those who believe in "Home Missions" and not in "Foreign Missions" do not read their Bibles carefully and with open mind and heart. Of course there is plenty to do "at home." Of course there are numbers who have not turned from the error of their way and are not yet convinced of righteousness and the judgment to come.

But we may wait and work a thousand years and the same will be true, if the history of the past is any index for the future.

Paul and Barnabas on their first missionary journey went to Antioch in Pisidia. There they taught, and there they preached in the synagogues to almost the entire town. But the Jews in particular to whom the missionaries went and preached first would not heed. From reports not very many of all the number who heard repented and were saved. So the rest rose up to drive Paul and Barnabas out. If these men had believed in "Home Missions" and not in "Foreign Missions" they would have said, "Here is enough work to engage us for years. We will do the work here before going elsewhere." But in stead of that listen at Paul's declaration: "For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the ends of the earth." (Acts 13:47.) And so when Paul and Barnabas had given the people of Antioch in Pisidia a fair chance at the gospel, and sufficient warning "they shook off the dust of their feet against them" and departed into another place. (Acts 13:51.)

Communities at home, even our great cities where so much preaching, warning and exhortation have been given have had a fair chance at the gospel, but they heed not. It is folly and nonsense to say that these shall continue to have and hear while millions are perishing who have not had the opportunity. It is God's plan through the gospel to give every man a chance.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Here is a pertinent question, though there is only one letter of the alphabet making the difference: "Are you as eager to be thorough in your work as you are to be through with it?"

—Some American troopers and Mexicans fell to fighting in the lower Rio Grande valley near Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 13. Two Americans were killed and two slightly injured. The skirmish lasted 30 minutes.

—Rev. P. S. Sailer contributes an able and worthy article this week on "Imperialism." When it is seen to what lengths Imperialism in Europe has carried the people, it is high time men were considering seriously its danger.

—An Anglo-French Financial Commission is in New York seeking a war loan of one billion dollars with which to buy provisions and munitions of war. The Commission seems to have only French and British bonds to offer as collateral.

—What was it Josh Billings said about your over serious and sour faced man? "If a man kant laff there is sum mistake made in putting him together, and if he won't laff he wants as much keeping away from as a bear—trap when it is sot."

—The Youth's Companion calls attention to an auctioneer's sign 'Contents of homes bought and sold.' A mistake. You can buy or sell the contents of a house, but not of a home." Which reminds one of what an observer wrote long ago: A man can build a house, but it takes a woman to make a home.

—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has announced that the United States Government will deposit $30,000,000 in federal banks of the South in order to enable banks to rediscount loans made on cotton. This action was made necessary by the Allies placing cotton on the list of absolute contraband.—Ex.

—Dr. E. E. Randolf of the Elon Faculty gave a splendid lecture to the College community last Thursday evening on "Tuberculosis, Its Cause and Cure." This lecture was prepared at the request and for the use of the State Board of Health—to be published and distributed widely—all of which it merits.

—Rev. J. W. Holt, Burlington, N. C., after several years' faithful service as pastor of Union church, Union Ridge, N. C., has declined to serve longer than the present conference year. Union, one of our good and strong country churches, is looking for a pastor. Bro. Holt advises that he is open for work for two Sundays of the month.

—Our good brother A. F. Smith is giving the people of Fuquay Springs and Vicinity a splendid paper, The Gold Leaf. Editor Smith believes in his town and county and is certainly doing his part and in a commendable way to build up all the interests, physical, moral and religious that his paper deals with. The Gold Leaf has wonderfully improved since it came under his editorial management.

—The World's Eighth Sunday School Convention, announced for October, 1916, at Tokyo, Japan, has been postponed to a date soon after the close of the war. This date is to be suggested by the Japanese Committee of which Count Okuma, Prime Minister of Japan is Chairman. The action postponing the convention was taken by the Executive Committee of the World's Sunday School Association in Philadelphia, September 3rd.

—Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper gave a most delightful hour and a half last week, at their elegant home, in honor of the new members of the Faculty at Elon. The time was Friday P. M., and this thoughtfulness and courtesy on behalf of Pres. and Mrs. Harper were certainly appreciated and enjoyed. All members of the Faculty and a few friends were also present to share the joy of the occasion.

—The esteemed Charlotte Observer comes to the point in this editorial utterance—as it usually does—"And now the occupation of the cigarette-smoking school teacher in Iredell County is gone. The school board has put up the bars against him. This is the second county in North Carolina to take this step. It is a good idea to pass along. No school boy in this State should ever be able to say that he learned to smoke cigarettes by copying the habit from the school teacher.

—Our good friends and beloved kinspeople Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jones and Mrs. Susie Holland, the last named of Suffolk, the others all of Norfolk accepted our invitation extended a few weeks ago through these columns to all our friends, broke in on us Sunday evening and tarried till Monday p. m. this week. What a joy it was to have them in our home. They gladdened every moment for us while they were here and enjoyed seeing Elon, the College, the village, the Orphanage—and Mrs. Atkinson's good dinner. They actually said they could not believe Dr. Staley and his folks provided such a dinner of home grown vegetables for his guests—and they would tell him so. Come again beloved —In the death of Deacon Leonard H. Whitley of Isle of Wight C. H., Va., the Christian church loses one of its staunchest adherents and a most loyal, tried and true layman. He was one of the most lovable men we ever knew, kind, courteous, dignified, amiable, and pure. His conversation was godly and his bearing that of the faithful man of God. His church, Isle of Wight Court House, which he helped much in building and for whose support he gave constantly and liberally, will sorely miss his wise counsel and sustaining hand. His death occurred Sunday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Darden, Suffolk, whither he had gone for treatment. Besides a faithful and devoted wife he leaves to mourn his departure, two daughters, Mrs. J. M. Darden, Suffolk, Mrs. Ida Fogleman, Crittenden, Va., and four sons, Clinton, Geo. F., of Smithfield, Homer and Turpin of Windsor. These are our kindred and we weep with them in their sorrow. They all know well enough where they may expect to find their father, for the manner of his life left no doubt in any mind that knew him well.

SUFFOLK LETTER

"Eggs and Aids" in the church suggests a way of doing things in country congregations that excites my admiration and prompts me to tell the story of "Eggs and Aids" at work in a certain church.

A good many years ago Rev. John T. Kitchen began to preach at Isle of Wight Court House, Virginia. Isle of Wight is one of the oldest counties in the State, and the court house was erected long before the days of railroads. It is midway between Smithfield on the James river and Windsor on the Norfolk and Western railroad between Norfolk and Richmond. The court house, jail, hotel, a few stores and a few residences constitute the village; but a good farming country surrounds the historic spot. An old water mill within the village has been grinding the corn for the neighborhood for, perhaps, a hundred years.

It was here that Rev. J. T. Kitchen and the few friends who co-operated with him erected a nice Christian church. It has grown into an active congregation. It never allows its delegates to go to the Annual Conference without the conference calls paid up in full. L. H. Whitley, who died last night (Sunday) at the residence of his son-in-law, J. M. Darden, on Broad street in Suffolk, where he had been confined in the care of trained nurse, and who was the father of Geo. F. Whitley, and his good wife, and Mrs. J. C. Thomas, were among the active helpers of Brother Kitchen in the establishment of this church. J. M. Darden and his good wife were, also, genuine helpers in this enterprise and have always aided it.

Well, they have had many good pastors since these early days of modest beginnings. They have had many good revival meetings. Last year reported 135 members and 100 in the Sunday school.

A few years ago they felt the need of some special rooms for Sunday school purposes in addition to the main church room. The work was undertaken and all the improvements to the church as well as these additions have been paid except $35.00. This new enterprise inspired the good women to help in this new improvement and they did to the extent of over $300.00. Here comes in my "Egg and Aid" story. The ladies "Aid" Society determined to do something. They thought of many plans. They finally settled upon the "Egg" plan. This was the plan. Each woman was to contribute all the Sunday Eggs gathered at her home to this new and worthy enterprise. They did it. Some months brought in as much as $30 or more. The hens formed choirs and praised God. Some cackled solos; there were duets on some farms; choruses on other farms; and when the eggs came together, good fresh Sunday eggs, and went to the market they swelled the Lord's treasury. Then the hearts of the women rejoiced and the men were glad.

What that people did, other people can do. "Where there is a will there is a way." Sunday eggs in most country congregations would, in a few years, build Sunday school room to the churches.

Why shouldn't the hens be allowed to help in the Lord's work? "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord."

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Dr. Atkinson preached a splendid sermon on Sunday morning and to a magnificent congregation. Miss Baker sang a most beautiful solo, Horatio Parker's Morning, just before the sermon.

Elon will send eleven young men to the N. C. Y. M. C. A. Conference for Colleges to be held at Guilford College, Sept. 23-26. The following are the eleven: W. L. Kinney, L. W. Vaughn, F. M. Dunaphant, C. N. Whitelock, A. C. Bergeron, H. L. Thomas, L. B. Barneemann, W. L. Monroe, J. G. Truitt, J. C. Auman, and Prof. F. F. Myrick.

Judge N. L. Eure and wife, Greensboro, N. C., were down one day last week to see their niece, Miss Ione Richardson, who is a member of the Freshman class.

Mr. J. C. Peel, class of 1915, left Tuesday for Myrtle Beach, S. C., where he becomes principal of the High school.

Rev. N. G. Bethea, Henderson, N. C., was here shaking hands with his numerous friends on Monday and looking after his property interests here. We hope soon to have him a citizen at Elon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lynton Jones, Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Susie Holland, Suffolk, Va., life-long friends of the College, were pleasant visitors at Dr. Atkinson's on Sunday and Monday. The College welcomed them gladly.

Mrs. T. W. Chandler and children, Virgilina, Va., are visiting at Dr. Watson's. The doctor is slightly unwell, but will soon be well, everybody hopes.

Mr. A. C. High and family have moved to Durham, their old home town. Elon was glad to have them here for two years and wishes them well always.

Mr. J. P. Huffman and three children, Garland, Vivian, and Cathleen joined the local church on Sunday. They have always worked most actively in the church and their membership but gives organic form to an ever-present spirit of fellowship. The local church gains greatly by their addition.

Dr. W. C. Wicker was called to Greensboro last Friday to conduct a funeral.

The College is moving on nicely in its new year. The large and increasing student body is noteworthy for its gentility and refinement.

Mr. and Mrs. Huffman, and Miss Mary Huffman, Hickory, N. C., parents and sister respectively of Mrs. E. E. Randolph were visitors on the Hill from Friday till Sunday.

Prof. A. L. Hook expects to be occupying his new bungalow within two weeks. Prof. Hook is a capable member of the College Faculty.

Miss Vera Gay, class '13, Smithfield, Va., is a pleasant and welcome visitor here this week. Miss Gay has a sister in Elon.

The entire student body and College community is getting in readiness for what we trust shall be the greatest spiritual revival the College has yet enjoyed. The annual evangelistic campaign begins next Monday evening with Rev. Geo. D. Eastes in charge. "X."

IMPERIALISM

BY REV. P. S. SAILER

Imperialism one hundred and forty years ago began to lose some of its glamor for the colonists of America. Those who were given the clearest visions of true democracy hardly dared hope to see their dreams come true. As oppression became greater however, they resolved to make the heroic attempt to secure to themselves and their posterity a larger degree of civic liberty or die fighting. The result is well known.

Readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN are also familiar with a similar break for liberty a few years later in the ecclesiastical world. Having experienced some of the benefits of civil liberty, they who figured in this later scene had come to feel a crying need for democracy in religion.

The war which it was necessary for them to wage while bloodless, was none the less trying. A type of bravery was as necessary to success in this struggle as in the one which had preceded it, and in a measure paved the way for it. A venal hierarchy had in the main controlled the religious world for centuries. The avenues leading to the discovery of truth were all guarded with sentinels whose orders were to let no one pass under pain of excommunication or death. Only those in authority were allowed to pass on that which might be accepted as true. If the hierarchy chose to reverse its own decisions, such reversal must be accepted without question by the common head. It is therefore little to be wondered at, that centuries of restraint by various coercive measures should have resulted in so unoscillating the religiously inclined as to leave but small opportunity for vision.

Notwithstanding Pope Innocent's decree in 405 A. D. to endorse as canonical the twenty seven books of our present New Testament, for centuries even this collection of books was denied the people.

Though the Reformation declared for a larger degree of liberty, and rivers of blood were shed to achieve it, the study of the Bible was only encouraged by the reforms under the restraining influences of certain interpretations. True, Luther, who presented such an heroic figure, seemed disposed to break away from all external restraint, even going so far as to declare Hebrews and Revelation apocryphal, yet few creeds in the Protestant world today are more insistent than the Lutheran for acceptance by its communicants.

It was out of this atmosphere of ecclesiastical bondage that James O'Kelly and his associates marched in 1792. For two years they experimented with a modified form of Methodism, only to abandon it as hopeless for those whose hearts had been inspired to seek out at any cost the truth, whose continued unfolding to their spiritual vision should set them for and safeguard their liberties.

The other two movements of New England and Kentucky which flowed into, and became a part of, the first, in like manner passed through experimental stages as Baptists and Presbyterians respectively. The field of exploration and experiment in each case being narrow, two or three years sufficed to reveal the need for a wider field, and a better equipped laboratory. So sweet and invigorating was the air of liberty, that those pioneers became an evangelizing force the like of which their successors in this twentieth century are unacquainted with.

THE CHANGE

Since the great Civil War in the sixties there has been a growing tendency in our civil life toward Imperialism. The few that have taken possession of the machinery of the government, shooting down at will, when that seemed necessary to perpetuate their power, those who became too insistent in the matter of their rights as citizens.

If the ruling class found it expedient to nullify a legislation act of our national lawmakers, it could usually be managed somehow to have the Supreme Court pass on its constitutionality according to their need of the hour.

During the past twenty years or so, the circle of power has been narrowing, until now we stand in grave danger of being plunged into war, notwithstanding the fact that if it were left to the people to decide, no one in five would vote for it. A handful of men see an opportunity to plunge the nation into war, thereby reaping great pecuniary profit for themselves. If published reports are to be believed, Secretary Daniels has shown that the government paid 80 cents a pound for smokeless powder before going into its manufacture for itself. It is now being produced for 35 cents the pound. The saving effected last year was nearly $400,000, though the plant at Indian Head does not supply the demand in time of peace. The government has a torpedo plant at Newport, R. I., where it manufactures torpedoes at $32,000 each. But this plant is inadequate and so we are paying the Bliss people $5,000 each. The same thing is true of armor plate with which we protect our battleships, etc. No less than nine official investigations have been made as to cost of producing armor plate. All unite in showing estimates far below the cost to the government, which purchases from private producers, so that there is left no room for doubt that we, the people, have been paying tribute to these concerns at the rate of more than $1,000,000 a year for nearly thirty years, in excess of what we should have paid, granting that there was need of such armament.

As Allen L. Benson, author of "A Way to Prevent War", points out, Germany has demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt the absolute folly of battleships and other floating craft for defensive purposes. Mines and submarines have more than matched the great British navy. Were it ten times as powerful, the mines would prove an equally effective barrier against that navy. The push of a little ivory button with the finger would destroy in a moment, what Great Britain has spent long years and great treasure to construct, should her fleet venture into the mine zone.

Why then should this country be forced into the wastefulness of building a great navy?

One of two conclusions is open to us: We are being unconsciously driven into a war of aggression, or we are being deliberately robbed of large sums of money, with armor plate, and such other unnecessary commodities as an expense.

If Christianity means anything to those who give it their nominal endorsement by identifying themselves with Christian organizations, it must mean "Peace on earth and good will among men."

But the reaction has set in in the church. The democratizing doctrines of Jesus are giving place to the imperializing forces of the managers. Congregational bodies like the Baptists, Congregational, and Christian, have—perhaps unconsciously, but none the less effectually—drifted away from the democratic method of allowing freedom of choice in the selection of their officers. Nominating committees are now appointed which virtually elect the officers, and through them the various committees which shape the action of the whole body. The fact that beneficial results usually flow from such procedure, but makes it the more dangerous. It disavows suspicion of its inherent power for evil. Important matters are frequently committed to executive boards, composed usually of the general officers. Judicious choice, on the part of a presiding officer, or a nominating committee, may perpetuate from session to session about the same set of officers, who shall shape the policy of the body. This, in the long run, means lack of vital interest on the part of many who are denied the full exercise of those rights which a so-called congregational form of government is supposed to guarantee. Then too, the absence of frequent exercise in the voicing of one's sentiments unfits one for expressing one's convictions with telling effect when the need is imperative.

Why should not the Christian manhood of this country arise in dignity and power and silence once and for all the menace of jingoism?

Having drifted away from democratic ideals, and entertaining such as are more imperialistic, the Christian manhood of the nation is practically paralyzed. The channels of expression through which a registry of popular will may be made are clogged.

Censorship, which reaches pulpit and press alike, is but a symptom of the imperialistic spirit which is seeking to assert itself with renewed power. While it is true our fundamental law provides congress alone with war-making power so far as an actual declaration of hostilities goes; yet the President and Secretary of State may make it seem well-nigh impossible for congress to do anything else.

Let Christians see the wisdom of evolving a true democracy in both their ecclesiastical councils and civil affairs at the same time, and the people could very readily stop any greater access of power to those who seek to serve only their own interests.

The Christian world needs today, lofty ideals, and a people who will at any cost make an honest effort to realize them. What people can be found anywhere whose genius and history so fit them for rendering such a service as the people known only as Christians?

THE SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA

The Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods of the Christian Church at Virginia

Beach, July 19-25 was all that I had expected and more. The program was an advance over last year in quality and execution. While some of the excellent speakers of last year were not on the program for this session, others took their places and measured up to the high standard set by the members of the Faculty of the first session.

It was an inspiration to come into contact with more than forty ministers and great numbers of laymen of the Christian Church and to catch their larger vision of the church and the kingdom as revealed through their scholarship which is consecrated to Christian service. To have followed any one of the courses offered in Missions, Evangelism, the Ministry, the Bible, Sunday school Methods, or Christian Endeavor Efficiency would have been ample reward for any person who was so fortunate as to attend; but to have met the conditions required for a Certificate of Recognition as more than were able to do last year did, was a rare privilege for those who attended and will prove a great blessing to all whom they may come into contact with in their respective fields of Christian service.

No richer blessing, no more helpful inspiration, no greater impetus could have come to the Christian church in so short a time, if all the ministers, Sunday school teachers and church workers of the denomination could have had this rare opportunity to study the great problems of work and methods and outlook on the future growth and development of the work that we as a people are undertaking.

This Chautauqua has now passed through the period of enthusiasm and criticism, and entered upon a period of growth and development. The future offers even greater things for the ministry, for church leaders, religious workers, Sunday school teachers and Christian Endeavor experts than ever before. The future is big with promise, the outlook is prophetic, the inspiration is contagious and with the coming years larger numbers of our ministers will gather by the seaside for the deepening of their spiritual life for evangelism, for the sweet spirit of Christian fellowship with the best that the church can offer, for the larger outlook on the fields that are whitening for us to harvest, and for the instruction and preparation, unity of the spirit and inspiration that alone can come from such gatherings. Larger numbers of churches will expect such preparation on the part of their pastors and will provide time and means for them to attend, so that they may be able to render larger and more efficient service.

The recent meeting of the Chautauqua has inspired me with a greater appreciation for my church and her efficient leadership in pulpit and pew. It has touched my own life and spirit with a deeper grasp on the vital things of church life and efficiency. It has strengthened my earnest desire to do more for every department of Christian service and brought me into vital touch with the living problems of church life. To me as to others, who attended, this week was the richest and best week of the entire year in preparation for the largest service to the kingdom of God.

It is my earnest desire to meet hundreds of our ministers and thousands of our members in this great gathering of distinctively Christian workers at our next annual gathering at the Seaside Chautauqua. It will mean for them recreation, education, inspiration and spiritual uplift and outlook; it will give them insight and foresight, and enrich their spiritual fellowship and Christian service for all time to come and not only the individual but the entire church will be richer for its future and growth.

C. E. TOPIC, SEPTEMBER 19

World Ideals and How Foreign Missions Will Promote Them.—Dan 2:36:45
Suggestions for the Meeting

Ask a member of the Society to prepare a very short biography of Daniel. Ask another to prepare a biography of king Nebuchadnezzar. Have another member to discuss the ideals of a world-empire as thought of by Nebuchadnezzar and Daniel.

Have four members to prepare on each part of the king's dream; in each case telling what nations were in Daniel's mind and the result of same.

Review some of the ideals that the world has had in the past and the result of them. Show the influence that these ideals have had on the world.

Ideals have been worked out by brainy men of the past, based first on one thing and then on another. We read and scan the pages of history, finding therein ruined nations; some with very little advancement along the road of progress; others more nearly ideal. The nearer the ideals were based upon the solid foundation of Christianity, the nearer the republic or nation reached success. Just as soon as the ideal was abandoned the nation began to decay and fall to pieces, if its ideal was justice and peace.

The nation founded on the principles of the church of God are still standing; the foundation is secure and cannot fall. We who know these facts have the privilege and duty to give them to others to carry to other lands, if we cannot go in person.

A home that is happy is federated with love. The members work for the best interest of each other. A state to be prosperous must have its counties all of one accord. The ideal of the United States is to have every state do her part and work for the common good of all.

A good ideal is to have every nation federated with every other nation based upon Christianity. Then we will have wars no more and peace will reign supreme under the leadership of the Prince of Peace.

S. S. LESSON, SEPTEMBER 19

Defeat Through Drunkenness.—1 Kings 20:11-21.

Golden Text: Wine and new wine take away the heart.—Hosea 4:11.

The Syrian army had the numbers and was ready for the conflict. However, the leaders were in the pavilions partaking of that which cut their efficiency half in two. While they tarried with wine their enemy had time to prepare for the conflict and had a chance to find their weak places and strike them a heavy blow, which compelled the army to retreat with heavy losses.

The head of the army was not sufficiently strong to guide his men. He had weakened himself by taking of the poisoned spirits. He was on the battle field and in fact waging war.

We have a battle to fight and are waging war every day with evil. Are we preparing ourselves and keeping on the watch in order that we may not have to fight two enemies?

We have a war in modern history that has been significant. We read of Russia's enemy. The Czar felt that Germany was not the first enemy but that vodka was. So the edict was signed to prohibit the use of vodka. At once a marvelous change took place. Instead of the cities nearly in bankruptcy, becoming bankrupt, as some had predicted, they took on new life, prospered, and grew as never before. Likewise the savings banks show an increase of 65,000 rubles since the edict went into effect.

Do you think of a home that has had such a change in your community since the husband and father took a stand for temperance? Instead of misery, sorrow, dread, lack of meat and bread, and most unhappy souls, do you find now gentleness, sunshine, lightness of heart, plenty in the pantry, and loving spirits in that home? What temperance has done for that home it will do for others.

Alcohol made Benhadad inefficient and it will make every mortal man inefficient. Temperance is making its influence felt in Russia, France, China, and it is waging a strong campaign in Germany and England; yet we hold back and make slower pace than these nations and still call ourselves a Christian nation. Who is going to be held accountable for this slowness to free our noble men and women from the jaws of strong drink? Certainly we who know the facts and effects have the greater part of the responsibility to bear.

CANCER CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The record of the Kellam Hospital is with out parallel in history, having cured without the use of the Knife, Acids, X-Ray or Rad ium, over ninety per cent. of the many hundreds of sufferers from Cancer which it has treated during the past eighteen years. We want every man and woman in the United States to know what we are doing. KELLAM HOSPITAL, 1617 W. Main St., Richmond.

TO BE NOTED

September is the close of the fourth quarter, and each society should see that all back dues are collected and a full report of the year's work is made.

As September is the close of our missionary year, it is also the time for the electing of officers for the coming year. Each Conference Cor. Sec. Treas. is asked to furnish a complete list of all societies with the names of the president and the Cor. Sec. Treas. to be printed in the Annual with the account of the proceedings of the W. M. Conference.

October is the month set apart for the making of an offering for the Literature Fund.

The first Sunday in October is the day appointed for W. M. Day. It is hoped that all our pastors will set forth the claims of the work to their congregations, that new societies may be organized and old ones strengthened by new additions.

Miss Amie Williams, of Elon College, N. C., began her work as Field Secretary for the Woman's Mission work the first of September. She asks for the prayers and assistance of our people. It is our duty and privilege to support her in every way possible.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference has a live Cor. Sec. Treas., Mrs. M. L. Bryant. By chance, we learn that already she is spurring up society treasurers for the last pull of the year, informing them of how much they have done the past three quarters, and urging a prompt, full report to close the year with.

The Blue Marble Quarry of North Carolina

The quarrying and manufacture of marble has been one of the world's great industries since the dawn of civilization: it is a particularly important industry in North Carolina; for this state stands alone in the Southern production of blue marble, a highly prized marble quarry product. The Royal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., are the owners and operators of the quarries and their Royal Blue is famed for its beautiful permanent color and extreme durability: due to its very slight absorption of moisture. A finely equipped finishing plant, employing only native Southern workmen in all departments is an important adjunct to these well known quarries.

DURHAM LETTER

The second Sunday in June we began a revival at the Durham church and continued for two weeks. Rev. Neil Rowland of Texas was with us and did the preaching, and he did it well. His sermons were strong and convincing, and made a lasting impression. The meeting resulted in about twenty-five conversions and recommitments, and twelve additions to the church. Eleven received the ordinance of baptism, ten by immersion and one by affusion. Good interest was manifested throughout the meeting. To say the least, the meeting was a great success, and we are grateful.

The Sunday school and church attendance are holding up well, considering the hot summer months.

Dr. Franklin N. Parker, who has been for several years head of the Theological Department at Trinity College, preached for us Sunday night, July 18. Dr. Parker is a strong preacher, as well as teacher, and his sermon made a profound impression.

At a recent business meeting of the church a call was extended to the writer to serve the church as pastor another year. The call was accepted. The church also voted to give their pastor a vacation, and an extra purse has been raised and presented him with which to pay his expenses. Such courtesy as this is appreciated more than words can express, and I shall endeavor to show my appreciation by being a better pastor. The members of the Durham church are pleasant to work with and my prayer is that God may bless and prosper them all.

I had planned to attend the Seaside Chautauqua at Virginia Beach, but sickness in my home at the time prevented my going. I shall go for a short vacation later.

Our school starts next Monday. All of our children are old enough for school this year. We shall have quiet for a space of six hours at the Orphanage each day. Mrs. Cox is living in grateful anticipation of these hours of quiet.

The starting of the school will mean increased expense. Besides the salary of the teacher, many books will be to buy and clothing to provide and numerous other incidents to school life. We are several hundred dollars behind in current expenses now and this increase in our expense account must be met by increased offerings. We greatly appreciate the voluntary action of our Bethlehem Sunday school (E. Va.) in voting to thrille their monthly offering to the Orphanage. Possibly there are scores of other Sunday schools in our churches that could with profit to themselves increase their monthly contribution to the Orphanage. These children are committed to our care. It would be a reflection on our church to say that we were not able to provide for fifty orphan children.

Within the past week I have written personal letters to 100 friends of the Orphanage asking for a special offering of ten dollars or more, to enable us to meet the pressing obligations that are upon the institution. So far we have had from seven, of this number five enclosed a $10.00 check, one regretted that he was not in position to comply with our request but enclosed a smaller offering and one refused. We have 93 yet to hear from. Here is hoping that none of these will fail us, for the Orphanage is bound to have some money and that soon. We are profoundly grateful for the prompt and cheerful responses received so far.

Magnolia, Va., Sept. 3, 1915.
 Dear Uncle Jim:—Guess you all at the Orphanage think I have forgotten to write; but I have not. I just neglected it from one time to another till now. Well it is almost time for school to start again. I wonder if the cousins are ready to start. Enclosed find 25c —my dues for August and September.

 Dear Uncle Jim:—Enclosed find our dues to July. You will hear from us again in November. We had a fine opening at our school Monday, so you see we are "busy bees" again. Wish you and all the children would come down and help us eat grapes this month. Will close with love to you and each of the cousins.

TETTERINE CURES PILES
 Every sufferer from Piles ought to read these words from H. S. Hood, Bellaire, Mich.—"For 16 years I had been a sufferer from itching piles. I got a box of Tetterine and less than half the box made a complete cure." Tetterine gives instant relief in all skin diseases such as Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Granular Itch, etc., and constitutes a permanent remedy. 50c at druggists or by mail from Shuprine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Drinking That Has Proven Beneficial

This is not a statement to cause consternation among our readers because the beverage is Fonticello Mineral Water. The waters from this Mineral Spring have made restorations to health in cases of sickness of such long standing that the sufferers had given themselves up to believe that recovery was impossible. The proposition in a nutshell is this: Pure Water—water that is free from organic matter is known by the medical profession to be the safest and best of all agents to cleanse the system—andflush the blood and vital organs before the refuse can contaminate them and interfere with their functions. It is through im-temperate eating and drinking of beverages, or the failure to drink plenty of water, and the exercise of common sense in living that we incur sickness, which finally becomes chronic.

But to prove the truth of the statement that Ponticello Mineral Water has made these wonderful restorations to health we make this Guarantee:

We will send you statements from physicians of acknowledged high reputation, of ministers and others who will show positively that Ponticello Water has cured them of many chronic diseases, including dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney and liver diseases, uric acid, etc.

We will ship you two five gallon carboys of Ponticello Water with the understanding that if it does not benefit you, we will return full purchase price.

Note Our Guarantee.
 I want to try Ponticello Mineral Water and promise to use it regularly, daily, drinking the number of glasses prescribed in the directions which you agree to send me. If this treatment does not prove beneficial, you agree to refund purchase price upon receipt by you of the two empty carboys which I promise to return promptly.
 Enclosed find $2.00 for which please send me two carboys of Ponticello Mineral Water referred to above.

Lime and Tuberculosis

Dr. Roberts Bartholow, former professor in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says in his Medicalia Medica (1898), on pages 218 and 219: "Critical experience has shown that it (referring to a calcium salt) possesses the ill-defined property known as alterative, removes certain toxic or toxicogenic material and secures their excretion by the organs of elimination. . . . The testimony which has lately been published in respect to its curative powers in consumption is certainly very striking."

He does not refer to testimony regarding Eckman's Alterative, since the medical profession never publicly recommends proprietary remedies. However, many cases of consumption seem to have yielded to this remedy. This success may be due largely to the fact that in Eckman's Alterative a calcium (lime) salt is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. It contains neither opiates, narcotics nor habit-forming drugs, so is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

week. I have been busy for nine weeks and will be for weeks to come. We are getting along fine on our new church building at Ambrose, Ga. We have the outside work done and are at work on the inside. We are building a splendid house there. It will be the second best building in our conference. The main building will be 36 x 56, two towers in front, solid brick foundation, inclined floor, bay for pulpit, metal roof. Two Sunday school rooms, 10 x 30 feet, can be divided into four or six rooms. The building is storm-sheeted, with heavy lumber. The windows will be out of cathedral glass, with gothic tops. We are planning to put in nice pews, etc. More anon. Yours in service,
H. W. ELDER.

LETTERS THAT INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

I wish very much that every reader of the Christian Sun could send sufficient time in my office to read the thousands of letters which I have received from all parts of the country. I have printed several hundreds of them in a booklet, but I wish you could see the originals, for I would like for you to realize the wonderful results which they report in the relief of dyspepsia, indigestion, persistent headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney, bladder and liver diseases, uric acid poisoning and other conditions due to impure blood.

Before my own health was restored by Shivar Mineral Water and I purchased this spring, and before I received all of these letters from sufferers, I didn't take very much stock in advertisements like this. I therefore cannot blame you if you doubt, but, my friend, I am absolutely convinced that the Shivar Spring is the greatest restorative mineral spring ever discovered, not excepting the famous Spas of Europe. I have shipped this water to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the U. S. and they almost invariably report either permanent restoration or beneficial results. That is why I make the guarantee offer contained in the following letter. Sign it now and mail it.
Shivar Spring,
Box 9J, Shelton, S. C. Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

OUR DEAD

Rawls

Luther Rawls was born June 2, 1831, departed this life June 9, 1915, age 80 years, 7 days. Funeral service conducted by the pastor, assisted by Dr. W. W. Staley, of Suffolk, Va., and Rev. James Foster, of Waverly, Va. The services were held at Holy Neck church. He was laid to rest in the church cemetery.

He leaves to mourn their loss, his widow, Mary Elizabeth Rawls, and six children, three boys and three girls: Jesse P. Rawls, of Enterprise, Ala.; Dr. J. E. Rawls, of Suffolk, Va.; Mrs. E. S. Norfleet and Mrs. Vivian Gatling, of Holland, Va.; and Mrs. Ernest Williams, of Smithfield, Va.; one brother, Japheth Rawls, of Enterprise, Ala., and eleven grandchildren, a host of relatives and friends. The floral offering was beautiful.

He was a life long member of Holy Neck Christian church, and was true and loyal to the church of his choice. Though sorely afflicted, in his last hours he knew in Whom he had trusted. With prayer and thanksgiving he bade farewell to his loved ones by his side.

Beset with afflictions of the body the past few years, he was not privileged to attend church as he would have done otherwise.

Brother Rawls' father, Elisha H. Rawls, was born in the year of 1772, and lived to the ripe age of 79 years.

David Rawls, an uncle of Luther Rawls, fought through the seven years of the Revolution. Others of the family fought in the war of 1812. Thus we can well understand from whence came the blood and spirit that characterized the brave Confederate Veteran who served his beloved South for four years, during the Civil War, in Company K 41st Virginia Regiment.

The deceased and his father cover 143 years as occupants of the present Rawls homestead. Going back to the great-grandfathers of the deceased, Luther Rawls, and figuring in the absence of records, it is reasonable to believe that the present homestead has been in the hands of fathers and sons (four generations) for 250 years at least, if not for 286 years.

Our departed brother was married to Mary Elizabeth Darden, May 30, 1867. God gave them six children, as noted above, to bless the home in which they lived. Since, they have blessed the community and made the world better by their living.

B. F. Black.

Smith

W. J. Smith departed this life July 14, 1915, age 51 years. During his illness and at his death he was with his brother, J. W. Smith, near Holland.

He leaves to mourn their loss two brothers, J. T. and J. W. Smith. He was a member of Beavertown Baptist church. Funeral conducted by the writer. Interment made at Beavertown cemetery.

B. F. Black.

Brady

Whereas, it has pleased our heavenly Father, in loving kindness and tender mercy, to remove from our midst, Bro. Wesley W. Brady, and has transferred his membership from the church militant to the church triumphant, therefore be it resolved:

First—That we bow in humble submission to Him whose ways are always just.

Second—That in the death of Bro. Brady, our church has lost a faithful deacon and a loyal member, our community a good citizen, and his family a kind husband and father.

Third—That we, as members of the Ransour Christian church, extend to his wife and children our most tender sympathy in their sad bereavement, and bid them look up through a mist of tears and behold the rainbow of promise in the Father's face.

Fourth—That a page of our church register be dedicated to his memory, and these resolutions be suitably inscribed thereon.

Fifth—That a copy be sent to the family under the seal of the Ransour Christian church, and a copy be furnished The Christian Sun and county papers for publication.

Cole

Mrs. E. P. Cole, relict of the late Rev. Jesse K. Cole, and sister of Dr. Grissom, died about the last of July, 1915. Had she lived till December 27 she would have been 89 years old. She professed religion in early life and united with the church at Pope's Chapel, and lived a faithful member until God called her to the spirit land. She was buried at the old homestead. Burial services were conducted by Bro. Allred of the Methodist Church. She leaves two living children, one in California and one, Mrs. Turner, at the old homestead.

Rev. Jesse K. Cole was a great revivalist. He organized Good Hope church.

May God bless the children and grandchildren.

W. G. Clements.

Harward

Deacon J. S. Harward of O'Kelly's Chapel was born October 3, 1842, and died August 16, 1915, leaving a wife and one son to mourn their loss; one son and two daughters having gone before. For the major part of his life he had been a faithful member of the church at O'Kelly's Chapel. He was a kind husband and a loving father. He was a brave Confederate soldier.

Interment was at the Asa Edwards cemetery in Cedar Fork township, in Wake county, N. C. Burial services were conducted by W. G. Clements.

Raby

At her home, with her son, Mr. Geo. W. Raby, near Cypress Chapel, Nansemond county, Va., August 26, 1915, Mrs. Elizabeth Raby, aged 82 years, 3 months and 23 days. She was a member of Great Fork church, and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was a good mother, neighbor and friend. She leaves one son and one daughter, Mrs. Maggie Miller, of Suffolk, Va., five grandchildren, and many friends. Her funeral services were conducted at Cypress Chapel by the pastor, and her remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery. H. H. B.

NO. 37

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Proper Exercise.

Many seek exercise for body to find rest, ease, sleep, comfort. Often the real difficulty is not with the body; it is with the conscience. "Nothing is more wretched than a guilty conscience" said Ben Johnson, for it wrecks its vengeance upon body mind and soul. If we would follow the example of Paul sweet sleep might soothe us the better: "Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men," (Arts 24:16).

Elements of Efficiency in Prayer.

There are three necessary elements of prayer that prevails, according to Rev. Geo. D. Eastes of Norfolk: It must be earnest and importunate; it must be unto God; it must be definite—for a specific purpose, person or object. These three elements are definitely portrayed in these words of inspiration, "Prayer was made without ceasing of the church, unto God, for him." (Acts 12:5.) Many of our prayers fail because they lack candor and zeal, because they are delivered unto men and not unto God, and because we pray for everybody in general and nobody in particular.

Self-Centered.

In 1906, (the latest available statistics) the churches of this country had property valued at $1,257,575,857—as much property as the schools, colleges, universities and professional schools had all combined. In that year the churches had a working income of $212,000,000 not including what was put into church buildings. There were in that year 164,830 ministers, one to every 460 people in the United States. And there were 1,648,664 Sunday school teachers—one to every 46 pupils in the United States, and one to every 20 children from birth to twenty one years of age. And yet with tens of thousands and millions in pagan lands who have never heard of Christ, there are those already amongst us who say we need all our "church money, preachers and Sunday school teachers at home." If this is not a species of selfishness and narrow-mindedness nothing is. God cannot bless or prosper a non-missionary people and keep His word.

Crippling the Work

The United States Census Bureau reports that the average salary of ministers in America is $636 a year. This is just a little above the pay for black-smiths, who average $537 a year. Stabblers' average is $689 a year, pumpmen's average is $685 and carpenters' $603. Yet ministers are supposed to wear good clothes and be neatly and becomingly dressed every day, keep their families in good condition and educate their children—all of which, as a rule, they do, thus proving them to be the best economists and sanest financiers to be found in any profession. But there is no more necessary, worthy or important workman amongst us than the minister. "The scripture saith, Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. And, the laborer is worthy of his hire." (1 Tim. 5:18.)

His One Want

Prof. Horace Williams of the University of North Carolina says that the most remarkable letter that has come back to the University in recent years was one addressed to President Graham, by a former student, now a young attorney of Charlotte, which declares, "I have no fault to find with my college course; I have no fault to find with my profession; but, Mr. Graham, I want God." Then Prof. Williams added, "I think that was a very remarkable statement. His college course was satisfactory, his work at the bar was satisfying, but there was one thing he wanted. I want to say that that is a deep demand in human life. No man escapes it; it is the ancient and great call of human life." But, does the young attorney not find fault with his college? Or is a college to busy itself about the minor and unimportant wants, and leave the one that "no man escapes—the ancient and great call of human life" to take care of itself? Should not every college help its students to find God? If not, why not? Colleges are supposed to teach the truth. "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life." (John 14:6.)

Healthful Growth.

People who think there is a falling off in the number of those entering the ministry seem to be in error. The United States census shows that during the 30 years from 1880 to 1910 the increase in the number entering the ministry was greater than that entering the law or medicine. During the period mentioned the number of ministers increased from 64,698 to 132,988, or had more than doubled. Those choosing the law as a profession increased from 64,137 to 121,149, while in the same time the number of physicians increased from 85,671 to 157,956. Moreover, the number of theological students in the seminaries has doubled in 33 years. There were in 1880 5,242, while in 1913 there were 10,965. Men are seeking gain, and business occupations are lucrative and inviting; but those who dedicate themselves solely to the King's business find agreeable service and spend such lives of employment and influence as to make their vocation seem inviting to an ever increasing number. "I will clothe her priests with salvation, and her saints shall shout aloud for joy." (Psa. 32:16).

Are They Able?

The Laymen's Missionary Movement is planning, and has issued a call for, the most pretentious missionary campaign ever witnessed from October of this year to April of next. The Movement has appointed seventy-five distributed and accessible centers of American population in which are to be held great missionary rallies for men. The missionary task and burden are to be laid upon the minds and hearts of men, throughout all America, by able and eloquent speakers and the missionary note is to be sounded far and wide because of the more urgent need for additional missionary zeal and funds caused by the European war. If the great heart of America can be touched for those who have not the gospel of our Lord truly will the campaign be worth while and a great victory for Christ will be won. The Movement declares that this will put to the test the primary question of the ages—"whether the followers of Christ are indeed able to take the world for Him." The answer to which, if we are willing and ready, is found in these words: "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4:13.)

How To Meet Expenses

There is many a church "struggling" for existence. And there always will be—until they begin to struggle for something else. The greatest trouble with about nine tenths of our churches is that they think more of themselves than they ought to think. They think so much of themselves that they have little time or mind to think of others. There are selfish churches, as well as selfish individuals. God will not allow some of our churches to grow because they think only of themselves. That master among church builders and financiers, Phillips Brooks was once asked: "What is the first thing you would do if you had accepted a call to become the rector of a small, discouraged congregation that is not even meeting its current expenses?" The quick response was, "The first thing I would do would be to preach a sermon on, and ask congregation to make an offering for, 'Foreign Missions.'" There is no sober, sounder, sayer advice than this. Weak churches are remaining weak because they think the last thing they should look after is Foreign Missions, whereas it is the first. "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." (John 12:24.)

—Men certainly cannot complain at any lack of nature's bounty this good year of 1915. The Department of Agriculture estimates a yield of 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn, 963,000,000 bushels of wheat, and 1,460,000,000 bushels of oats. These are record breaking yields of rye, potatoes, rice and hay. If there are "hard times" it must be attributed to something else than a lack of nature's benevolence and bounty.

EDITORIAL

"AS THE TWIG IS BENT"

"If you want your boy to be a physician or a lawyer or a business man, you train him while he is young.

If you want your children to appreciate and understand music when they are grown, you train them to know it and love it while they are young. If you want them to be well read as men and women, you do not wait till they are grown to surround them with good literature and encourage them in acquiring a love of reading. Whatever you want your child to be or do as a man, you inculcate in him while he is young. You don't wait until he gets old or grown-up.

"Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

Why apply this principle of human experience to everything but things relating to the church?"

The editor found that plain speech and conclusive logic in an advertisement. One wonders. Why will we apply common sense practical, business like methods to every human relationship, save that to the church?

Giving to the church and for the support of the gospel certainly is a matter of habit—and a most wise and wholesome habit. One must be trained to do it to really love and enjoy it. There is no more wholesome habit for a child to cultivate than that of giving to Sunday-school, giving to church.

Why will parents not train their children to this good habit.

Let children give their pledges to the church. Furnish them an envelope for the weekly or monthly offering. Let the child make it a part of his or her thought—life, social life, religious life, to give regularly and liberally—and that child will rise up to call you blessed for it. Try it. It is worth while.

UNITY AND MISSIONS

Has denominationalism served its legitimate mission? If there was a time when many denominations were necessary has that time not passed? If any one of a half dozen evangelical denominations will define that which is fundamental and essential in its polity and teaching can you tell which denomination the definition suits? Can a church divided into 164 denominations in America and 183 in Great Britain make Christianity influential enough to save these nations? Can separate churches succeed in winning the world for Christ? If there is any where definite proof or ground for logical conclusions, that God gives His approval to a divided church, and that many denominations accomplish more than a united church would accomplish? If so, when? Should the churches unite? Will men continue to split hairs in talking about church unity as distinguished from church union? If so, why and how long? What are the real and vital objections to church union? Are they insuperable? Will real and true unity stop short of union? What organic unions have been effected and what are now pending? How is the need, and the practicability, of church union illustrated and demonstrated in foreign mission work and results? What about the Episcopal plan for a World Conference on Faith and Order? How long before Christians of every name and denomination will be sincere with each other and with God, and by every honest and legitimate effort and endeavor seek to get together and fight in a common cause against a common foe to man? Haven't the churches wasted enough of their means, eloquence and strength fighting each other, and do they not now think it worth while to fight instead the enemy of home, State and church?

These and similar questions, those of like vital character and concern Rev. Arthur J. Brown, Secretary of Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and the author of many valuable and able volumes, has put to himself and the public in a recent volume entitled "Unity and Missions." This is the ablest, sanest and most readable volume on the topic of church union we have found any where. Through a long and varied and rich experience Dr. Brown has arrived at the conclusion that God is not prospering the churches as He would prosper them because they are divided into so many useless sects and schisms. The various denominations have given to the world some great fact, and laid emphasis on some needed truth; but those facts and those truths are no longer doubted or disputed, and are accepted not only by the denomination that discovered or emphasized them, but by all evangelical denominations. This is so apparent that men are ignoring denominational lines and easily go from one church into another—as convenience or location or taste may suggest. And, to quote, "The age of denominationalism is merging into the age of union in which one splendid Church will bear convincing witness to all essential truths of Holy Scripture and present a united front to an unsaved world."

"It is not necessary that we should lose sight of the estimate we have been accustomed to place upon the value of our church to any community, the value of the doctrines which it represents and the polity by which it seeks to incarnate them in Christian life and institutions. But the time has come to maintain stoutly that that church best serves itself which serves its Lord most singly, and that a devotion to a denomination, which is not dominated at every point by devotion to the Kingdom of Jesus Christ has all degenerated into an unworthy ambition."

In the noble words of Browning Dr. Brown thinks

"What is left for us, save in growth of soul, to rise
From the gift looking to the Giver,
And from the cistern to the River,
And from the finite to Infinity,
And from man's dust to God's Divinity?"

At any rate Dr. Brown has written and published a powerful volume and one that will bear fruit in a thousand places. We wish every Christian Sun reader had a copy of this volume and would read it. The publishers are Fleming H. Revell Company, N. Y. and the price is $1.50 plus postage.

A WALK THROUGH THE GREAT TEMPLE OF CHRISTIANITY

BY REV. WILLIAM A. SUNDAY, THE EVANGELIST.
"Twenty-two years ago, with the Holy Spirit as my guide, I entered this wonderful temple called Christianity. I entered at the portico of Genesis, walked through the old Testament art gallery, where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Moses, Joseph, Isaac, Jacob, and Daniel hang on the wall. I passed into the music rooms of Psalms, where the Spirit swept the keyboard of nature and brought forth the dirge-like wail of the weeping prophet Jeremiah to the grand, impassioned strain of Isaiah, until it seemed that every reed and pipe in God's great organ of nature responded to the tuneful harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel. I entered the chapel of Ecclesiastes, where the voice of the preacher was heard, and into the conservatory of Sharon, and the lily of the valley's sweet-scented spices filled and perfumed my life. I entered the business office of Proverbs—then into the observatory room of the prophets, where I saw telescopes of various sizes, some pointing to far-off events; but all concentrated upon the bright and Morning Star, which was to rise above the moonlit hills of Judea for our salvation. I entered the audience room of the King of kings, and caught a vision of His glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; passed into the Acts of the Apostles, where the Holy Spirit was doing His office work in the formation of the infant church. Then into the correspondence room, where sat Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, Paul, Peter, James, and Jude, penning their epistles. I stepped into the throne room of Revelation, where all towered into glittering peaks, and I got a vision of the King sitting upon His throne in all His glory, and cried:

"All hail the power of Jesus' name!
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown him Lord of All!"

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. W. G. Clements, Morrisville, a church builder, beloved pastor and a vigorous man of many labors at the youthful age of 75 was a pleasant caller this week.

—After several weeks absence Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herndon have returned to their home, Elon College. The Doctor is much improved in health, but is by no means well and strong yet.

—After trying state-wide prohibition for 26 years in North Dakota the lawyers of that State in the State Bar Association in annual session recently went on record as favoring not only state-wide, but nation-wide prohibition.

—Rev. O. D. Poythress, pastor, assisted by Rev. A. T. Banks, conducted a most happy and fruitful revival at Martha's Chapel last week. The church was much edified, souls were converted and more than a dozen united with the church.

—Rev. J. D. Wicker, is open for engagement as pastor for one Sunday a month the coming year. Bro. Wicker is a true soldier of the Cross, and a faithful man of God. Bro. Wicker can be reached at Sanford, N. C.

—We congratulate our Newport News brotherhood on securing Rev. J. V. Knight as pastor for the coming conference year. Bro. Knight graduated from Elon College last June and has had some years of successful experience as pastor of a circuit of churches.

—Rev. G. O. Lankford, Wadley, Ala., writes that his work this year has been a great pleasure, as well as a blessing to his life. Bro. Lankford's conference, the Alabama, begins October 19, at Rockstand church. He hopes for a full attendance at the sessions and is of opinion that the reports from the churches will show progress and increase the past year.

—The Farmer's Bank of Nansmond still holds the lead of all the banks in this country for amount of footings on a ratio to capital stock: the capital being only $20,000. The total footings at the close of business Sept. 2, being $3,099,718.18. The deposits amount to $1,926,225.77 while the surplus and undivided profits total $989,283.18. It takes brains, energy, character and wisdom to build and maintain an institution like that.

—On September 3rd a Silver Anniversary reception was held in the Christian Parsonage, Waverly Va., in honor of the 25th anniversary of the marriage of Rev. and Mrs. Jas. L. Foster. The hours were from 4 to 6 and from 8 to 10 P. M., and the silver offerings which were numerous were applied to the parsonage indebtedness. The editor gratefully acknowledges though late in doing so a neatly prepared and silvery printed invitation to be present.

—The First Sunday in October is Woman's Missionary rally day in the churches. All churches with a Woman's Missionary Society should seek to have an inspiring and helpful program on that day and the women in churches without societies should seek to organize a society—with a Woman's Missionary Society, a Young People's or a Willing Worker's Society. If any one interested does not know how to organize, write to or send for Miss Annie Williams, Field Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

—Viscount Brice, formerly British Ambassador to the United States has sent a plea to America to use its endeavor as a neutral power to stop the slaughter of the Armenians by the Turks. Mr. Brice declares that the Turkish government, since war began against the Allies, has been carrying out a plan, with relentless cruelty, of extirpating Christianity in Armenia by killing all the Christians of the Armenian race. Accounts agree that over the whole of Eastern and Northern Asia Minor and Armenia the Christian population is being exterminated with butchery and the sword.

—The following is given, in a recent book, as an example of how one may reason from facts to very absurd conclusions: A young man married a widow who had a grown daughter. His father met the daughter and married her. Thus the son's step-daughter became his stepmother and his wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law. A child was born in each family. An expert has worked it out that this made the son's mother-in-law, his step sister, the grand mother of his child, and by a series of clear deductions the son becomes his own grandfather. Evidently it will not do to push facts too far.

—John Barleycorn is certainly catching it from every side now; but he deserves the hard knocks, for he has given many a one. An exchange relates: "A saloon keeper in Nebraska sold liquor to a man whom he knew to be a habitual drunkard. The drunkard's wife sued the saloon keeper for $5,000 damages, as she could do under the Nebraska law. The local court awarded the wife the full amount of damages and the saloon keepers carried out case to the United States supreme court at Washington. The highest legal tribunal in the country sustained the Nebraska court, and the saloon keeper must pay."

—Miss Annie Williams, Field Secretary for our Woman's Mission Board is meeting with encouragement and is happy in her work. She was with Pastor L. I. Cox at New Lebanon in Rockingham county this State Sunday, Sept. 12, and organized a Missionary Society with more than twenty charter members. On Sunday, September 19, she was with Pastor, J. W. Holt, at Bethlehem (Alamance) and a Young People's Society with nine members and a Willing Worker's Society with seven members. "I found the young people very much interested" reports Miss Williams. Pastors will do well to make dates with Miss Williams to come to their churches to organize Societies. It means much for the life and activity of the church to have a Missionary Society.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The usual annual revival meetings have been held in the Eastern Virginia Conference; and some of them are either in progress or yet to be conducted. Dr. Johnson's Liberty Spring congregation enjoyed a good meeting week before last with Evangelist Victor Lightbourne; and he has been in a meeting at Holy Neck with Pastor Black since the 2nd Sunday, and the meeting continues with good results.

Dr. Rowland assisted pastor Stanley Harrell at Isle of Wight Court House the first week in this month and at Bethlehem the second week with good results at both churches. At Bethlehem an old-time revival broke out and thirty-two united with the church at the close of the services on Friday afternoon.

Dr. Johnson conducted a very successful revival at Union Southampton county, last week for pastor Roberts.

Good meetings have been held recently at Waverly and Spring Hill with pastor Foster by Victor Lightbourne; and, also, at Dendron by Rev. R. H. Peel by some evangelist. At Berea, Nansemond, brother Lightbourne conducted a successful meeting with Dr. Johnson in August. Dr. Johnson was assisted in August by Dr. Rowland at Crittenden and Oaklawn in good meetings.

The protracted meeting at Damascus and Oak Grove under pastor Butler assisted in the one by Dr. Johnson and in the other by brother Sawyer resulted in many conversions.

Brother Peel will conduct a meeting at Union Surry this week and pastor Butler one at "Old Antioch."

In this conference the custom has changed from all-day meetings and dinner on the ground to half-day meetings in the afternoon. The congregations are just as large and many think it gives the women more time to enter into the spiritual work and enjoyment of the meetings; and it leaves more time for the men to keep their business in good shape on the farm. Two full hours can be given to the main service with a full half-hour for a prayer service as a spiritual introduction and preparation for the preaching service.

I think this Conference will be able to report good results in the evangelistic department of the year's work; and this, with missions, carries the emphasis of present-day importance. The evangelistic effort requires spiritual enthusiasm based on faith; the missionary enterprise requires the gift of money based on faith and prayer. The evangelistic is easier to work; the missionary is a better test of real Christianity. There are many Christians whose emotional nature will respond to an appeal, whose purses will not open at the call of missions in foreign lands. But the church or Christian without the missionary conviction and the liberal spirit toward missions is lacking in the essential thing in the Christian religion. It is missionary or it is nothing; but many Christians stop at the horizon of their own eye-vision and do not get a vision beyond this by an act of the soul.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The annual evangelistic campaign began last evening (Sunday) with an appropriate sermon on personal work by the College pastor. This discourse followed a very appropriate sermon on the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at the morning service which was concluded by that sacrament. Rev. Geo. D. Eastes arrives this evening (Monday) and is to be in charge throughout the remainder of the campaign. It is Bro. Eastes' initial visit to the Hill, and we hope he will like things. We expect to be very much helped by his presence. Already the personal workers are at their post and a glorious season of spiritual refreshing is anticipated.

At the morning service Miss Harris sang a beautiful solo, Hozannah by Granier. The music department is considerably larger than it has ever been. The music faculty are deservedly popular and every one of them takes a vital interest in all the institution's life.

Dr. E. A. Crawford Mebane, N. C., whose wife is a member of the senior class, was a visitor to the Hill Sunday.

The Elon Graded School opened this morning with Miss Cynthia Garrett as principal and with Misses Verna Garrett, Mary Byrd and Gurtha Deadman as assistants. A good attendance was noted and a successful year anticipated.

Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herndon are visiting at Prof. Brannock's.

Mr. T. W. Chandler came over in his car from Virgilina to spend his vacation with his family, who are visiting at Dr. Watson's.

Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Randolph are to have charge of the Health Exhibit of the State Health Department during fair week at Durham. This is another distinguished recognition of Dr. Randolph's efficiency as a specialist in his department.

Mr. A. A. Riddle, the efficient superintendent of the College power plant, was painfully injured today when a heavy weight fell on his foot. Dr. John E. Walker, Gibsonville, rendered him medical assistance and he is resting quite easily at this writing.

Mr. II. H. Holland and his brother, Charles E., Suffolk, Va., former Elonites and devoted friends of the College, made a cross-country trip to the Hill today. They will be here several days among friends and amid the old scenes of happy by-gone days.

Mr. Bernice Johnson, Cardenas, N. C., was a visitor at Mrs. W. Z. Atkinson's today.

The Home Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention is to meet here Wednesday morning. The members are Col. J. E. West, Chairman; Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Secretary; Brother K. B. Johnson, Mrs. C. II. Rowland and Rev. II. W. Elder. A full attendance is expected.

Miss Kate Wheeler visited her mother here last week. Mrs. Wheeler is the very popular matron of the Young Men's Co-operative Hall.

Mr. John H. Wilkins, Union Ridge, N. C., whose son Earl is a Freshman, worshipped with the College congregation Sunday.

Mrs. N. G. Newman and son, Nathaniel, DeFiance, O., are visitors at Dr. Newman's this week.

Rev. J. V. Knight, '15, pastor-elect at Newport News, Va., is a happy visitor on the Hill. We wish him well in his new field of labor.

Mr. W. E. Lowe and family spent the weekend at Trinity, Mrs. Lowe's old home, motoring over in their new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis J. Lee, Bennett Creek, Va., those veteran friends of the Elon idea, are visiting at Dr. Atkinson's for the next few weeks. Elon people could wish that these devoted friends would become permanent residents here.

Students continue to come in. The enrollment is now 376-43 more than a year ago. The 400 mark will soon be reached. Thanks to our friends. "X"

GULPH MILLS LETTER

The Gulph Mills Church celebrated their eighty-second anniversary, Sunday, July 18th. Rev. A. W. Lightbourne, D. D., of Dover, Delaware, and Rev. B. F. Hoagland of Milford, N. J., were present and greatly added to the interest of the occasion. Brother Hoagland was to have delivered an address to the Sunday school in the forenoon but was delayed in reaching here. Dr. Lightbourne preached at 10:45 A. M. and again at 7:30 P. M. in his usual power and eloquence. Brother Hoagland preached a stirring sermon in the afternoon following which, brothers Geo. Shoffner, Samuel Guthrie, and L. W. Goebel were ordained deacons. The ordination service was conducted by the pastor and the charge was delivered by Dr. Lightbourne. It was a day of deep interest and a fine impression was left on the community.

I have just returned from a three-weeks vacation which I spent in the territory of the Delmarvia Conference. Two weeks ago we dedicated a new house of worship at Kitts Hammock on the Delaware Bay to take the place of the Portable Church destroyed by storm in April. The building is a very creditable permanent wood structure and was dedicated with less than $100 of the debt on its account. They are having fine congregations there and last Sunday there were 50 present at the Sunday school, which was good for a new mission. The energy and devotion of the pastor, Dr. R. S. Stephens, with the co-operation of the Dover people, made this new building possible. I preached one Sunday at Fredricka, Del. Fredricka is a town of about 800 population, with only one church at present, and is said to be possibly the wealthiest town of its size on the Atlantic Coast. The M. P. church began a work there and built a good house of worship but subsequently abandoned it. For the past four or five years it has been standing idle, except occasional services by different persons passing through. The M. P. church has transferred their interest there to the Delmarvia Conference in exchange for a work we had remote from our base of activities. The house is in good condition, equipped with modern furniture, carpet, organ, heating arrangement, bell, etc., and will serve our purposes for a number of years. An individual held an equity in the property of $500 which we have bought and are now having the deed prepared. This opens to us a fine opportunity for a new work. The property is valued at $3500 and the town is calling for our church. They will need assistance of about $500 from our brotherhood for one or two years for the maintenance of a pastor and those having the matter in hand and are familiar with conditions think that within one or two years the work should be self-supporting. Less than four years ago we had no church in that section and our church was unknown. Through the organization of the Delmarvia Conference we have today about $42,000 worth of church property, several churches and seven active ministers have been brought into the work of our church, some of whom are men of superior ability and usefulness. We must place a strong man at Fredricka for his entire time, but before that can be done our brotherhood must come to the help of the work and the people of Fredricka and Dover will take care of the balance. I hope our mission boards in the older Conferences will not let this pass with out serious consideration. Remember that in this section until very recently our church was not known.

GREENSBORO LETTER

Two members, a man and his wife, were received into church fellowship upon profession of faith last Sunday. This makes thirty members received since last November and not one of them has been received from revival or special services.

We expect to begin a revival on the last Sunday in this month. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Bro. Chas. A. Hines, has named Sept. 26th as Sunday School Rally Day. We think to make the first Sunday in October Decision Day in our school and on October 10th we contemplate having a Home Coming Day.

Following the first Sunday in August I was with Rev. J. W. Patton a couple of days at Berea, but on account of rain we had no service on Tuesday and the meeting was discontinued. Berea is well located for a large congregation. The attendance, the two services that I was with them, was very good, especially the evening service. I was glad to meet the Berea people.

Following the third Sunday in August I was with Rev. J. W. Holt at Bethlehem. This is one of the old and strong churches of the Conference. Bro. Holt has been pastor for a number of years. Pastor and people impressed me as being very fond of each other.

The congregations were large from the beginning to the end of the meeting. The church was much revived. One afternoon there was almost a general break down in which tears, exhortation, shouts and praise were heard above the songs.

It was good to be there. It does one good to be in an old time meeting, sing the old songs and rejoice in the old time religion.

NEWPORT NEWS LETTER

Four years ago we had agreed to begin work, as pastor of the East End Christian Church, at the beginning of the coming conference year. Now we have resigned, as pastor of the church, to take effect at the close of the present conference year. I trust that it was of the Lord that we came to this field and that it is to Him also that we are leaving at the close of this year. The church here does not yet know who will serve them as pastor, neither does this pastor know, definitely, to what field he is going.

We are not leaving with the results that we hoped to see, but we have endeavored to keep before the people the thought of progress in the divine life and in the work of the church and loyalty to the word of His truth. The following are some of the visible results: About fifty names added to the church roll, four additional Sunday school rooms, a Primary department in the Sunday school, the duplex system in church and Sunday school, and a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

We mention these things in a thankful spirit rather than that of boasting, for we have nothing to boast of save in Him who has been our strength. May the church here be led in securing as pastor, a man of vision and consecration, who under the leading of the Spirit may lead the people on to greater attainment and to a larger development in the spiritual life.

The retiring pastor is open to consider the matter of a field of work for the coming year.

Sincerely,

W. D. HARWARD.

GOOD HOPE

It was a glad time at this church on last Saturday and Sunday. Between the third Sunday in August and second in September the old ceiling of the building had been taken off and new put on. It had been raised 3½ feet and put in a half hexagon shape. The Ladies' Aid Society paid for the ceiling, and a few of the energetic brethren put it up.

The congregation was good on Saturday and large on Sunday. Two ladies were baptized Sunday P. M. in Bro. Wilson's pool.

W. G. CLEMENTS.

ROSE HILL

The work at the Rose Hill Christian church, Columbus, Georgia is in splendid shape. We have just closed a real good revival. Rev. H. W. Elder the church builder of the Christian church, South, has been with us and did almost all the preaching. His sermons were logical, inspiring, and delivered in a very enthusiastic manner, and many were helped. Large congregations came every night, and the interest was great. As a result of the efforts and in answer to our prayers, there were several professions, and six united with the church.

B. J. EARP, Pastor.

DAMASCUS

Our revival commenced at Damascus church on Monday after the first Sunday in August, and continued until Friday evening. The Lord was with us from the beginning to the end. There were fifteen confessions and thirteen united with the church. The church was greatly revived and built up. Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., did the preaching and it was fine all the way through. Every body seemed to enjoy having Dr. Johnson with us, and hope we will all live to have him with us again. We give God all the praise.

—The Associated College Newspaper Publishers in recent convention in New York took action barring all liquor advertisements from all college papers and publications in the United States.

—In the 19 air raids that German Zeppelins have made upon England about 100 persons have been killed and about 250 injured—all non-combatants. The raids are usually made under the cover of night.

—In writing the Biblical Recorder last week Superintendent Kesler of the Baptist Orphanage, Thomasville, N. C., says "We would not send out a discouraging note from the Orphanage, but the truth about our situation had as well be known. We owe $35,000. Our burden of expenses last year was the heaviest ever borne." And then comes the plea: "What are we to do about it? We simply ask that every Sunday school that is not taking a collection once a month for the Orphanage do so at once and keep it up and the schools already taking this collection make it just a little larger month by month. Don't allow any other appeal to come in the way of this first Sunday's collection. In our larger churches this day in the Sunday school has been set apart for the Orphanage and belongs to it.

Our further plea is for a general observance of work day or "one day for the Orphanage"—the price of one day's work, or the income for one day, as a thank offering. This to be given at Thanksgiving—on the day or some Sunday for the day, designated by your church." This sounds much like it had come from the pen and heart of our worthy Superintendent Cox.

S. S. LESSON, SEPT. 23.
Obedience and Kingship. .Ps. 72:1-20
(Review)

Golden Text: The king shall joy in thy strength, O Lord; and in thy salvation how greatly shall he rejoice! Ps. 21:1.

In the scripture for the review lesson we find David praying for the kings of the earth. David was well aware of the fact that God took an earnest part and interest in the affairs of nations planted in His behalf and for His glory. God had been gracious to David and he was willing for the golden rule to hold throughout the coming years.

In the lessons during the quarter we find the actions of God very distinctly shown toward the individuals that we studied. God is no respecter of persons, but He does have a different attitude toward those who are endeavoring to serve Him and those who do not serve Him.

Obedience is the foundation of kingship. We must learn to obey before we can hope to be king. The greatest king of earth was the most humble of all kings. The king that is humble and ready to do the will of the Master—his nation will prosper. We like to think of the president of our great country as a man who asks God about the affairs of State before he passes upon the questions involved.

Before we are capable of being king of our own lives we must be humble and obedient to God and nature.

SUGGESTIONS FOR REVIEW

We find for Sunday school scholars of the teen age it is a good plan to have a black board handy and write a word representing the lesson, and then ask each member to explain what lesson the word stands for and to give the lesson in outline, bringing out the practical truths. If you have more than 12 scholars, one for each lesson, have two to report on the same lesson; one giving the meaning of the word and the other the story of the lesson. Suggested words: 1 Faith; 2 Coronation; 3 Choice; 4 Dedication; 5 Visitor; 6 Vision; 7 Sin; 8 Revival; 9 Sustainer; 10 Experiment; 11 Flight; 12 Defeat.

For the adult classes a good plan will be to use the biography method. It is the desire of all of us to learn as many lives as possible and from this list see the results and thereby be able to pick the ones that we would like to follow and take as our own. During this quarter we have met a variety of lives and have plainly the results of those lives from that of the glory of Solomon to the drunken, defeated Benhadad.

C. E. TOPIC, SEPT. 26
Shields Against Temptation
Eph. 6:10-18.

The French have recently provided their soldiers with improved shields for protection against the shrapnels of the Germans. The shields give excellent protection and at the same time give the soldier freedom.

Our financial institutions are protected by the shield of honesty and integrity. Our governments are protected by the shield of wise men.

Our lands are protected by the laws of the state.

These shields are well and necessary but Paul was writing to the Ephesians of a shield that was much stronger than soldiers' shields made by man, or man's laws that rule and govern worldly goods. Paul wrote of the shield that protected a man's soul from the influence of evil; a shield that would bar temptation from the door of those who girded on the shield of God. It is easy to keep on and the beauty of this shield is that it is always ready for every emergency on every side and can be worn with the greatest freedom and ease. In fact this shield instead of being heavy and burdensome like man's shields is light and it is a pleasure to wear it; for it lends happiness to the individual and makes him the ideal citizen. It promises strength, honesty, integrity, purity, cleanness, gentleness, sweetness of disposition and righteousness.

As a protection against all temptations we have the pleasure of putting on the breast plate of righteousness, the shield of God.

Robert E. Spier says: "The word of God is a shield because it is God's word. God is the great defense. The Old Testament saints called Him their rock, their strong tower unto whom they could flee and be safe. Temptation can never hope to overcome us unless it can find us away from God. Read again Martin Luther's hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," and if you have not tried its truth do so with the temptation that is assailing you now."

A MISSIONARY VISIT

A pleasant and helpful afternoon in the missionary work was spent with the Ingrams, (Va.) Society on August 25, 1915. On arriving at the church we could but notice the beautifully cleared yard and grove. We knew the friends that were interested had spared no trouble in preparation for the occasion. The meeting was opened with a song, "Rescue the Perishing." After that many inspiring papers on the missionary work were read by members of their Society and many beautiful songs were sung. Then the visiting societies were called on to give their views as to how to make a society more interesting. A few from the other societies responded. There were seven societies represented but the discussion was not what it should have been and we hope to have more union meetings so we will be better prepared for such work. The inspiration there will do us all much good in time to come. After the uplifting meeting in the church we were invited out in the yard to a bountiful table which was loaded with many kinds of cream cake and lemonade. All enjoyed the refreshments to the fullest extent. The people at Ingrams church were so hospitable we will want to visit them again. Pleasant Grove Missionary Society. (By Mrs. R. D. FROM MISS TRUE

Parsonage, Kittery, Me.
Sept. 3, 1915.

Dear Missionary Friends:

Yesterday I received mail from Japan and will be glad to share it with the SUN readers.

Mrs. Fry writes from Shioyama (literally Salt-Pot for the bay in shape reminded some of that iron kettle or pot.) Takeyama a part of Shioyama, is the name of the summer colony, outside Sendia, where the McCords and Frys and Garmans and other missionaries spend their summers.

Three new "big two-story houses" were built here this spring. Some have fireplaces and all sorts of sideboards. So the beach is greatly changing.

Mr. Fry has gone to a meeting of the Beach company executive committee, the two Japanese girls (from the Girls' school, who help Mrs. Fry in the house work and also in Sunday schools during the summer) have gone to a shimbokubi (sociable) at the church. Maki is reading in his new First Steps in Gospel Paths that we gave him for his fifth birthday. He sends love.

Yesterday letters came from each of the three college presidents who are interested in the girls who went to America last year. Each girl receives praise.

Here at Takeyama, we are to have prayer meeting on Wednesdays and a concert on Thursdays.

The "honor from the seven nations present" (New Englanders and Southerners counting for two of them) concert of Thursday night lasted two hours and had a crowded house.

A big camp fire supper is on hand for next Thursday.

I remember that Aug. Woman's meetings had for their subject; "Where Our Missionaries Rest," so have quoted from this personal letter what Mrs. Fry herself would not perhaps have thought important enough to print.

Sincerely,

ALICE TRUE.

YOUNGSVILLE

Fourth Sunday in August was homecoming day at Youngsville Christian Church. A large gathering greeted us. E. M. Winston, with nice words, said the speech of welcome, and Brother Pearce responded in fitting terms.

Prof. Amick of the Elon College faculty delivered an excellent lecture on the Sunday school lessons of the outgoing quarter.

An intermission of ten minutes prepared the audience to enjoy the splendid educational sermon by Prof. Amick.

An hour and fifteen minutes were given in an earnest effort to consume the good dinner which had been prepared by the ladies of Youngsville; but the best endeavors failed on this line, for when everybody had been well filled, enough was left to fill as many more.

In the afternoon Brother W. W. Staley delivered a strong argumentative sermon on Missions.

My Dear Friends:

It will doubtless be of interest to the many friends of the Orphanage to know that our children are all in school again. Miss Blanche Byrd, daughter of Deacon Y. C. Byrd of our Liberty Spring church is teacher. She arrived last Friday, and entered upon her work Monday of this week. We are expecting a delightful and profitable year in the school room.

It was our good fortune to worship with the good people of Liberty (Vance) on last Saturday and Sunday. It was the occasion of their annual "protracted meeting" and the folks were there in large numbers. They were kind enough to let us talk Orphanage at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday, and the people listened with interest and responded liberally.

The first hundred of the thousand dollars we are endeavoring to raise has been received, and a good friend of the institution writes that he will pay the last hundred. So we just lack eight hundred of having the thousand. Eighty friends giving ten dollars each will make the eight hundred; and we have several whose souls are so liberal that they will not be satisfied with giving ten dollars. Will not some other friend write us that they will be one of the middle men. We have the first hundred in hand and the promise of the last hundred; we must take these eight "middle men." If you can't give a hundred, send fifty, twenty-five, or ten.

Clayton, N. C., Sept. 16, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim: Here I come with my dues for September and I hope you and the cousins are as well and enjoying as good health as I am at this time. I have been having a fine time for the past three months eating water-melons, peaches and grapes; but they are nearly all gone, but we have plenty of potatoes and I enjoy eating them. I hope the cousins have plenty potatoes too. I will close this time with love and good wishes for a happy autumn to you and all the cousins.

We are glad to hear from you and to learn that you are having such a fat time.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Jud B. Wood, M. D., D. D., S., late President Society Prevention Cruelty to Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear what takes place in the office of the 'Fonicello Lithia Water,' and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles, it is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced its use, they then become very enthusiastic. I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalis in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Kidneys, Skin and Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Fonicello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is suffering with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Urinary and Kidney affections, Gravel Stone in the Bladder, Uric Acid, Rheumatism and Gout."

interesting and soul thrilling from start to finish. All the denominations took hold of the work with a Christlike spirit. Youngsville has no denominational fights. This is as it should be everywhere. There were eleven converts and five accessions to the Christian church. The meeting was a great uplift to all God's people. The good done cannot be seen in this life. Bro. J. F. Morgan did all the preaching after Sunday night. He is a good preacher clothed in a garment of energy. He greatly endeared himself to the people.

Oak Level

The result of the revival at Oak Level was five converts and four accessions. The music was soul-thrilling, and the attention of the people good. The tornado and the horse running away were exciting. But as Brother Staley has given an account of them, I will simply add that a majority of the congregation controlled themselves with calmness, while the elements were showing their power. Bro. Staley preached four excellent sermons which were much enjoyed.

Good Hope

The meeting at Good Hope resulted in one convert and two accessions to the church. The congregations were large in the afternoons. The music was first class. One thing I can say to the great credit of the Good Hope neighborhood: I did not see a man or boy with a cigarette in his mouth during the week.

Mebane

I was at Mebane last Sunday and found the work in collecting funds better than I expected. The congregation was very good, and the Sunday school doing good work.

W. G. CLEMENTS.

Smithwood

Our revival began the second Sunday in August and closed on Thursday. The church was very much revived, some eight or ten professions of faith and three joined the church. There may be others to join later. Rev. J. F. Apple assisted and his preaching was highly appreciated by all. He made many friends while there.

Happy Home

Our revival began the third Sunday in August and closed on Thursday evening. This was the best revival held here in several years. The church was very much built up in spiritual strength. There were fourteen professions of faith and nine accessions to the church and others may join at the next appointment. Rev. E. M. Carter assisted in this meeting, doing the preaching, and I will say his sermons were of the highest type. Brother Carter is a great preacher and he made many friends there, who have invited him to return next year to preach in our next revival. There was the largest congregation there on Sunday I have ever seen at that place. The work seems to be moving on very well.

Danville, Va.

We are in the midst of an interesting meeting in our Danville Mission. Our congregations are large at the evening service. Our accommodations are very good. An open stand for preaching and singing, boards seats in the open air for several hundred people. The attention and interest is good. The preaching by Rev. T. Klapp, my brother, is good. If our friends throughout the Southern Christian Convention could attend one of our evening services and see the great need of building our house of worship, and fully understand our peculiar environments, and that we cannot go on with the building of this house till we can get more help, then I feel sure that many who could help us would most gladly do so. We are losing here now by not being able to push the work in this mission as we ought to do. It is so hard to get new members into a new mission church with such a financial struggle as we are in here now. If we only had our house of worship, then we could soon have a good membership and an interesting congregation. Dear friends, will you please help us as soon and as much as you can. It would be a good investment to do all you can in this mission church now.

DISCOVERY BY SENSE OF SMELL

Washington Irving in his life of Columbus tells us that when Christopher Columbus discovered America he thought Santo Domingo a part of Cibao or Cipango (Japan). The spicy breezes reaching his vessels from landward were his principal evidences of arrival at Cibao—the world-famed source of aromatic oils and spices: From Japan still come the aromatics which have made Mentholatum famous for chapped hands and sunburn, for headaches and head colds, for inflammations of the skin and membranes of the head. Mentholatum is used everywhere. Adv.

MARRIAGES

Hillyard-Williams

At the home of the bride's uncle in Harrisonburg, on July 1, 1915, I married Mr. Frederick Hillyard and Miss Callie V. Williams. It was a quiet, pleasant occasion, with only a few intimate friends present. After the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served in the home and in the afternoon the happy couple repaired to the home of the groom at Mayland where they will reside. May their married life be happy.

A. W. ADAMS.

White-Roberts. . .

Woodland Charles White of Hebron, Maryland, and Miss Myrtle Estelle Roberts, of Isle of Wight county, Va., were married in the pastor's study at 3 p. m., September 15, 1915. A few friends and relatives of the bride motored to Suffolk and witnessed the ceremony. The groom and his bride will visit his home in Hebron, Maryland, and then return to Va., where the groom will resume his duties at a lumber plant near Myrtle. Love continues to unite hearts and destiny. It is the savor of society. It is the fountain of human happiness. "Love is of God."

The Last Gattis Exposition Tour

Leaves Oct. 10; Returns Nov. 7

The Route and the Trip.

The outgoing route is thru Kansas City, Denver and beautiful Colorado and on by Salt Lake City to the Pacific when the Rockies are at their best—in the Fall. Several days in San Francisco and then back home down the coast of California. Three days in Los Angeles—one day at the picturesque Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Diego, returning home thru Riverside, and by the wonderful Grand Canyon of Arizona.

The Two Expositions.

The Two Expositions will be in a sheer burst of glory in October, the month of homecoming for the native Californians.

California in October

You will never forget California in October—the month of flowers, on the Pacific coast—the time when California wears her brightest dress.

OUR DEAD

Rodgers

In the person of Brother J. L. Rogers, the All-wise Heavenly Father, in the wisdom of His unerring Providence has called another one of our number from earthly cares and labors to peaceful rest and reward in the realms of that better land.

Brother Rogers was loved by all who knew him and his untimely death is mourned by his many friends and acquaintances. As a member of the Third Christian Church and as a Christian in all his relations he was faithful and true to the trust committed unto him. Well did he perform his tasks as Church Clerk, member of the Official Board and Bible Class Teacher and in all other relations to his Father's Kingdom. He is greatly missed among us yet we feel that our feelings of loss and sadness cannot measure in intensity with that which must have seized the hearts of his beloved wife and children.

We, therefore resolve, as the members of the Third Christian Church, that the presence and usefulness of our brother is much missed but we bow in humble submission to our heavenly Father.

Be it further resolved, that we express our deepest sympathies to the greatly bereaved companion and children who so keenly feel their loss and pray that they may be able to say, "Not my will, but Thine be done."

Resolved also, that a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy to "The Christian Sun" and a copy be spread upon the Minutes of our next annual meeting which meets in October of this year.

Heptinstall

Ruth Heptinstall was born in Norfolk, Va., July 29th, 1904 and departed this life September 5th, 1915, after an illness of a month's duration. Aged 11 years, 1 month and 7 days. She gave her heart to the Master when but a child of ten years and became a member of the Third Christian Church of Norfolk, Va. She was a lovable little Christian girl, careful to her parents and a great lover of her church and Sunday school. Her disposition was such as to win for her a host of affectionate friends who greatly mourn her untimely departure.

Besides her many friends there remains father, mother and sister Martha, also other relatives who mourn their loss.

The funeral was conducted by the undersigned from the house on Monday, September 6th, and was largely attended. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

GEO. D. EASTES.

Burke

Lydia Jane Burke was born Sep. 21, 1869 and died June 24, 1915, aged 45 years, 9 months and 3 days. She united with the Christian church at Dry Run about thirty years ago, and remained a faithful member and devoted Christian until death called her up higher. Sister Burke was recognized throughout her community as a most excellent Christian woman. Her maiden name was Cullers. She was married to Robert A. Burke Nov. 29, 1888. Of this union there were eight children born, five of whom are living. In addition to her husband and children and other relatives her many friends deeply mourn their loss, for all who knew her loved her.

Funeral services were held at Dry Run, June 26, 1915, and the body laid to rest in the family burying ground on the old homestead.

Lime Against Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of tuberculosis:

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Geison has seen a number of his patients improve. The spurters clear up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Fiducial journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alternative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy, its healing power may be due to the way this element is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Eckman's Alternative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Life's Evening Time

*What then? shall we sit idly down and say
The night hath come; it is no longer day?
The night has not yet come; we are not quite Cut off from labor by the falling light;
Something remains for us to do or dare;
Even the oldest tree some fruit may bear;
Not Oedipus Coloneus, or Greek ode,
Or tales of pilgrims that one morning rode
Out of the gateway of the Tabard Inn,
But other something, would we but begin;
For age is opportunity no less
Than youth itself, though in another dress,
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars, invisible by day.
—Longfellow.*

The Same Maker

The Bible reveals man to himself—is a mirror through which the looker sees his own likeness. Bishop Boone secured a Chinese scholar to help him translate the New Testament into the Chinese tongue. Before the work was done the Chinaman exclaimed one day, "Whoever made that book made me; it knows all that is in my heart." "The Lord gave the word; great was the company of those that published it." (Psa. 68:11.)

Responsibility and Prayer

President Woodrow Wilson is a firm believer in the power of prayer and (we are told) not infrequently, particularly of late, calls on his cabinet to join with him in prayer for divine guidance. Any man who feels truly the weight of responsibility feels also the need of prayer, and of divine help. "Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." (Heb. 4:16.)

Vain Man

The Baptist Advance tells of a foolish farmer out in Arkansas who said to a neighbor recently, "I have the Lord cornered on feed this year. If it continues to rain I will have plenty of corn; if it turns dry I will have plenty of hay." But a flood came and swept away both corn and hay. From Adam and Eden till now it has been declared and decreed that man is wholly and solely dependent on God; but men still act as if they were creators and owners of all things about them—though they are neither creators nor owners of any thing. "Man's goings are of the Lord; how can a man then understand his own ways?" (Prov. 28:24.)

A Godle's Nation

Missionaries tell us that if we are ever to do anything for Japan now is the time. The Japanese have swung from their ancient mooring and are at sea. A recent census of students taken at the Imperial University in Tokyo, showed the following classification as to religious faith: Confucianists six; Shintoists eight; Christians sixty; Buddhists three hundred; Atheists fifteen hundred; Agnostics three thousand. That is to say the body of students in the great university believed in no God, and in no religious faith or formula. Japan has swung from its own religion. Now or never is the time to give this people the religion of our Lord Christ. What is the Christian church doing in this behalf? "The Lord is high above all the nations, and his glory above the heavens." (Psa. 113:4.)

When Love Constrains

A missionary journal relates that a missionary in Africa was asked if he liked his work? He replied: "Do I like this work? No, my wife and I do not like dirt. We have reasonably refined sensibilities. We do not like crawling into vile huts through goat refuse. We do not like association with ignorant, filthy, brutish people. But is a man to do nothing for Christ, save what he likes to do? If so, God pity him. Liking or disliking has nothing to do with it. We have orders to "go" and we go. Love constrains us." General Booth said he loved the filth and debris and the dregs of humanity in the slums for Christ's sake. If we are to choose our work by "how nice" it is, or how easy or how inviting, then God pity us indeed. He had hard work and bitter dregs who wrote: "For the love of Christ constraineth us." (2 Cor. 5:14.)

Fighting the Plague

On September 8 the authorities confirmed as true a case of bubonic plague in the city of New Orleans. Within fourteen days from that date 91,000 houses in that city had been made rat-proof and 435,000 rodents had been captured in traps, to say nothing of those captured and killed otherwise. The United States Public Health Service, the Department of Health of Louisiana, and of the city of New Orleans co-operated in prevention of spreading the plague. If people would become as much alarmed over moral and spiritual disease and contagion as they do over physical this world would in this generation be put upon a high and wholesome standard of moral activity and the Son of God would be hailed as Sovereign everywhere. We will have a new Eden on earth some day, and it will cover the earth, but men must first learn that eternal life is of even more significance than temporal life. "The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment." (Luke 12:23.)

Good Books

Here is pity for the house-hold into which new books and good books do not frequently come. We are not too poor to buy a new book now and then—unless we are too poor to buy the other necessities of life. Many a boy is drifting from the home, many a girl is going to wreck and ruin because the family circle is never gladdened with a new book, and the home receives no new thought and wholesome ideas from the best thinkers. Dr. Washington Gladden is preeminently pointed and practical in saying: "Can you afford carpets on your floors, feathers on your bonnets sweetmeats on your tables, seats in the gallery of the theater? Then you can afford to buy books. You might far better live in a house with bare floors, and dispense with many of those luxuries of food and dress that every mechanic and laboring man contrives to get, than to deny yourself books. When it comes to be understood that books are necessities of life—indispensable furnishings of every adequate home—even the poorest people will find ways of purchasing them." It was a wise writer who declared, "He that loveth a book will never want a faithful friend, a wholesome counsellor, a cheerful companion, an effectual comforter."

Billy Sunday Estimated

Recently the Literary Digest (of New York) made a poll of the religious press as to the estimate of Billy Sunday. The vote was interesting, and comment from the various editors of religious papers was rich, not to say racy. Opinion of good men are at variance. But SUN readers will be interested in the estimate of one of the editors of the Baptist World, namely, Dr. E. Y. Mullins, who is also President of the Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville, Ky. It strikes to the heart of the matter: "Billy Sunday is to be estimated by what he does, not by the proprieties of speech and manner. I do not believe in all his methods, but I do believe in his results. I like polished sermons, but I like polished souls better. I am very sorry for broken moral precepts. I like the proprieties of speech much, but I like the proprieties of right living more. I am willing for the preacher to break grammar, if he will in doing so break hearts. I hate buffoonery in the pulpit, but downright moral earnestness may convert what would otherwise be buffoonery into the desperate earnestness of a prophet. The 'language of the street' seems out of place in the pulpit to the conventionally trained, prim, and proper piety of the day. But it is fine to 'see the people of the street' crowding into religious services. If a preacher can induce the liar to quit lying, and the drunkard to quit drinking, and the thief to quit stealing, and the adulterer to become clean, and the grafter to reform, he is a fine asset for civilization, whatever be his manner of speech." * * * I believe the great good God is far more interested in the man who converts men from sin in rough language than in the man who leaves sinners self-complacent with polished sermons."

LOSS OR GAIN

In this life of change and movement, there is no stand still. One must go forward or backward. The church must. As an institution it must make losses or it must make gains. And since the church is a divine institution, the one God-appointed, Christ-founded institution, it would seem that it, most of all, must go forward.

But is the Christian church, as a denomination now, going forward? As a people peculiar to God and the service of righteousness, are we going forward?

The editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN doubts very seriously if we are. He doubts if we have gained, absolutely, one point, or one step, within the last ten years. He may, of course, be in error.

For a church to increase in membership it must do so more rapidly than the population that the church seeks to serve increases. Is the Christian church increasing in membership more rapidly than the population is increasing? We doubt it very seriously.

Again, for a church to increase in gifts and in offerings it must do so more rapidly than the wealth, the resources, of its constituency increase. Here is a church that contributed ten years ago $50.00 for benevolences, missions and so forth. This year that same church contributes $75.00. In ten years its gifts have increased 50 per cent. But during the same time resources of its membership, (the total wealth), have increased one hundred per cent—the combined membership is worth in dollars twice what they were ten years ago. Such a church has not gone forward; it has gone backward. It is not holding its own; it is losing ground.

From year to year many churches go to Conference urging that their apportionments be not increased. And some churches have not increased their apportionment a dollar in five years. But the total wealth of the membership has increased by a very large per cent. Unless our gifts increase with our resources we decrease in our liberality, and not increase.

The more a man has the more he craves. To have is not to own, but to owe. A man may think he owns; but wait a few years and see. He simply held tenure for a season, served as steward, occupied as tenant of the Lord's belongings. Then one day his Lord says to him, "Come now and give an account of thy stewardship. Show what thou hast done in managing the talent I entrusted thee with." And he goes to cash in all his accounts—render the most definite and strict account he has ever been called upon to render.

To have is to owe, not to own—to owe to Him from Whom all help comes and in Whose hands are the earth and all beneath the earth and the cattle upon a thousand hills.

Is this fact being felt amongst us? Are we more and more realizing that we are stewards, occupants, tenants for a time? Or are we growing closer and more penurious as wealth increases and the years pass?

Has the Christian church gone forward the past ten years? If so, in what particular?

Is her membership any more pious than formerly? Is it any larger in proportion to population? Is it any more liberal in proportion to resources? We doubt and we doubt and we doubt again.

THE LARGER SERVICE

The ministers of the gospel, and Christian workers, in our day who are seeking and realizing the greatest results from their labors are those who are ministering for Christ in pagan lands. China and Japan and India are not only open to the gospel as never before, but are hearing the message with more welcome and gladness than ever before, and are giving heed thereto as never before.

We of the Christian church are seeking to cultivate the lesser field, and let the larger field go. We are seeking to live by seeking our own—by caring for and cultivating our own life. This is contrary to logic, to life, and to scripture. The only way life can reproduce itself is to give itself—die to itself. Unless the grain of corn die to itself, its own nature, its own static disposition, it can never yield any increase, never add to the world's gain and profit.

And the Scriptures saith, "Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it" (Luke 17:33). We of the Christian church are seeking to save our life by keeping it, not by giving it. We preach and preach and preach to folks who will not heed us—and we wonder why. We give and give and give to our local and home benevolences and do not increase—and we wonder why. Through the long years we do this self-same thing, and keep on wondering why our churches don't grow and our numbers don't multiply. Scripture tells us why; history tells us why; facts and figures tell us why. Still we wonder and keep on in the well worn and long-beaten path. God cannot prosper a non-missionary people and keep His word. And He will not even break His covenant and go back on His word for the sake of the Christian church with all its heaven born principles.

Brethren and beloved we have been trying to go our way a long time—and haven't gone far. Would we better not seek God's way and to walk therein? That way is by the larger opportunity, the larger field of service, the larger task. It is time every member of us was asking, what are we going to do about this matter of missions? Shall we not have a man amongst us to cry aloud and spare not; to lead us out of the wilderness of our woe and our wanderings? If ever there was need even now that need presses hard upon us. Measures however good and gracious and great do not run themselves. It ever and always requires men to make measures go.

A NEW SONG BOOK

Those who attended the Chautauqua at Virginia Beach last July will remember the book from which were sung those glorious and thrilling words and music. The name of the book was "The New Make Christ King." This book is inexpensive and is adapted for use in Sunday-schools, Endeavor Societies, Prayer-meetings, Evangelistic meetings and church services. Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., Suffolk, Va., who led the Chautauqua singing writes, "I think the book (The New Make Christ King) is very good, and it is a good combination for almost any kind of a service. I have found nothing better for general use." The book is inexpensive and in substantial and handy form. Any school or church or Society wishing a new song book should examine this. We can supply them from THE SUN office, and will be pleased to quote prices on enquiry.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—South Carolina, by an overwhelming majority, went into the ranks of prohibition States at a recent election.

—Prof. Thayer, the distinguished Dean of the Harvard Law School, committed suicide recently by drowning in the Charles river.

—A number of churches have appointed November 7-14 as "Win-My-Chum-Week"; and November 15-19 as "Go-to-Prayer-Meeting" week.

—Rev. J. F. Morgan, Graham, conducted last week a series of meetings at Liberty church, Vance county, N. C. There were sixty or more conversions and a large number of accessions to the church.

—Premier Asquith states that the daily expenditure for war on England's part is $17,000,000 and that these figures will rise. It is declared that by the end of this year the British national debt will be $11,000,000,000.

—M. Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph system was recently elected to the Italian Senate. He is the second Protestant to be elected to this high office in Italy—where Catholicism holds sway.

—Among the convention cities chosen by the Laymen's Missionary Movement for the National Missionary campaign are Greensboro, N. C., February 9-11 and Richmond, Va., February 15-17.

—Rev. T. W. Strowd, pastor, writes urging "All persons and churches who have made pledges to the Chapel Hill church to please send check to Mr. Everett Neville, Chapel Hill, N. C. We ask this that we may make our report complete before Conference."

—English and French statesmen are in New York trying to borrow a thousand million dollars to help carry on the war in Europe. Meanwhile Germany is reported to be floating a loan of three billions in its own country. It requires thousands of millions to carry on war.

—Rev. P. H. Fleming, D. D., is conducting a special series of meetings in First church, Greensboro, this week. The Daily News reports that on Sunday 26, Pastor Fleming preached two able sermons and that the evangelistic meetings begin with promise of good results.

—The church services in London last Sunday evening were converted into thanksgiving services, papers report, on hearing the good news from the front that German trenches along a front of 20 miles between the Belgian coast and Verdun had been taken and 20,000 unwounded prisoners with 32 field pieces had been captured.

—Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., has decided to remain in Virginia, having accepted a call to the church at Wakefield and the circuit thereabout. His headquarters will be at Dendron, Va. This circuit is to have a parsonage at not a far distant date to be located at Wakefield.

—By about 15,000 majority the province of Alberta, Canada, voted to prohibit the sale of liquor after July 1, 1916. Prohibition is sweeping over Canada as it is over the United States. All civilization is at last learning that alcohol is more of a foe than a friend to man and is declaring it a dangerous and an illegitimate product.

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne working with pastor B. F. Black has recently closed a revival at Holland, Va., which was deemed one of the most fruitful ever held there. There were some three hundred conversions and re-clamations and the whole community was greatly benefited. Bro. Black's letter about the meeting was crowded out this week, we regret to say.

—Bro. K. B. Johnson, who was a visitor at Elon last week (on business for the church) reports that Wake Chapel has recently enjoyed the best revival it has witnessed for years. Audiences were large, the response was ready, there were some 35 conversions and a large number of accessions to the church. Pastor Lee Johnson conducted the meetings without ministerial help.

—At the State schools they depend largely upon the Y. M. C. A. to look after the religious welfare and spiritual life of the students; yet by a recent standard it is found that the denominational colleges have better Y. M. C. A.'s than do the universities. Of the five general secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., four (Mott, Brockman, Colton, Jenkins) received their training in church schools.

—Pres. W. A. Harper of Elon spoke before the State Students Conference of Y. M. C. A. men at Guilford College last Sunday a. m., and in the evening addressed the Sunday-school workers of Winston-Salem at the Lutheran church on the subject of Teacher Training. Pres. Harper has come to be one of the most sought-for speakers at religious gatherings for men and Sunday-school workers in the State.

—Nine times out of ten—and not infrequently more often than that—the reason why churches do not carry to Conference the full apportionment asked for is to be found with the pastor. Of course if he has no method of securing the apportionments and then at about his last appointment asks the brethren to "try to raise" them, he should not expect results. The King's business deserves attention, method, skill, prayer, ingenuity.

—Rev. Geo. D. Eastes has presented his resignation, to take effect Jan. 1, as pastor of Third church, Norfolk. Bro. Eastes has done a great work with this church and his people were surprised and saddened at his resignation. He is to enter the evangelistic field, for which he is well fitted, by the way, and in which he has had great success. He thinks to make his headquarters at Norfolk, and go where and when his services may be desired.

—This is at hand: "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Spencer announce the marriage of their daughter, Laura Hubbard to Mr. John Lewis Tucker on Saturday, Sept. 25, 1915, Williamsburg, Virginia." And so our lovable friend Lewis Tucker, Mecklenburg county, Va., has decided that wedded bliss is better. His fine disposition and unselfish spirit will do much to prove the wisdom of his decision. If he receives the joy that these entitle him to there will be few cloudy days on the wedded highway. Here is wishing him and his bride all happiness.

—The Governor of North Carolina has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of the commonwealth to observe Saturday, October 9th as "Fire Prevention Day." On that day the Governor urges that the people clean up their premises, burn rubbish that has accumulated in dangerous places, see that stove and chimney places are cleaned out and precautions be taken against danger from fire during the winter. About $3,000,000 worth of property is destroyed in this State annually and effort is to be made to reduce this preventable destruction of property.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The near approach of the Annual Conference suggests thoughts of apportionments on local churches for sundry benevolences. Every church feels proud of carrying up the full sum for which the Conference calls. Some of the weakest congregations pay up in full, and this indicates that all could if they would. The need presses more and more upon the thoughtful members and the obligation is no longer an unknown quantity in the minds of the church.

Three claims are uppermost in the column of importance, and our people must realize their obligation to these demands as never before to discharge their obligation in their support. These are Education, Home Missions and Foreign Missions. The College is a plain necessity. No church can grow without knowledge and intelligence; the public and other schools cannot furnish the kind of training which the constituency of a church needs. Home Mission Boards are hampered by the lack of money. Demands for Christian churches spring up in so many inviting fields that Boards know they could do great things if they had the means. The Delmarvia Conference is making great headway in Delaware and could double results with liberal aid. Frederica calls loud and a good $3500.00 church needs only $500 to put a man in a fruitful field there. Dr. Lightbourne and President Butler find open doors and insistent welcome to the Christian church. I hope that every church in the Southern Christian Convention will carry up to Conference this fall the full call for all these great objects so important to the cause of Christ.

The Delmarvia Conference has already put into the hands of the Executive Committee an application for membership in the Southern Christian Convention, and will send delegates to the next session of that body; and the Committee will recommend their admission.

The Foreign Mission call is the largest in its scope of operations and is the one thing that engages the whole church in real united effort in an enterprise the most Biblical. That work is beyond us; is for others only; is the test of loyalty and liberality toward the cause of the kingdom. The college is a source of pride; Home Missions may spend some money among us; but Foreign Missions cross the sea. That work is so huge in its proportions, so far away in its location, and so hopeless a task as to stagger the doubtful and deter the faint-hearted; but informed Christians must know in Foreign Missions is the field for the exercise of great faith. People are measured by the size of the work they undertake. Foreign Missions is the only task that calls out the largest and the best in the church. The Geography of mission fields and mission lands is a great study in itself. Foreign Missions furnishes a school for the study of races, nations, continents, and opportunities for commerce, and all enterprises that enrich mankind. The Foreign Mission enterprise has contributed more to the business and wealth of the world than it has cost to carry on the work. The world is in debt to Missions and that debt can be paid only by large contributions on the part of business men. Christian men of means only pay small interest of what this cause has put into their hands by more liberal offerings to this cause. Mission study would double the offerings of many Christians if they could be persuaded to read missionary books.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The evangelistic campaign, under the leadership of Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, has entered the second week with growing interest. On Wednesday evening personal workers were called for and about one hundred twenty-five responded. About twenty-five up to Sunday evening had made definite decisions for Christ.

The twelve young men of the student body who attended the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Guilford College have returned and express themselves as highly delighted with their meeting.

The Home Mission Board met here Wednesday last with every member present as follows: Col. J. E. West, Chairman; Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Secretary; Mrs. C. H. Rowland; Brother K. B. Johnson; and Rev. H. W. Elder.

Dr. W. S. Long and Rev. W. G. Clements were here in connection with the session of the Home Mission Board. The College was glad to welcome them. Dr. Long attended chapel and made an excellent talk.

Rev. H. S. Smith is assisting Rev. C. C. Peel in an evangelistic service at Sanford this week.

Mr. W. D. Loy and Brother, Burlington, were visitors here Saturday and Sunday. Mr. W. D. Loy graduated last May and is to teach in Buncombe county this year.

Dr. E. Osear Randolph has gone on a geological specimen hunting tour to Charleston, S. C., this week. Dr. Randolph was formerly professor of Geology and Biology in the University of Charleston.

Rev. J. F. Morgan, pastor-elect of the Berkeley church, was a happy visitor to Alma Mater Saturday. He leaves this week for a three weeks' series of meetings in Richland and La Nette, Georgia, assisting Rev. H. W. Elder.

Mr. W. C. Michael spent last week in Randolph county, inspecting farm lands and possible locations for removing his brick-yard to that section.

Dr. W. C. Wicker on Thursday conducted the funeral of Brother Andrews of the Hines' Chapel church.

Dr. S. W. Caddell, Rameur, N. C., was a visitor this week in the home of Bro. D. W. Brown of Elon, and his daughter who is a member of the Freshman class in College. Mr. Caddell was prospecting with a view to permanently locating here for the practice of his profession. He is one of the State's best physicians and it is hoped he will cast his lot with us at Elon.

Rev. O. D. Poythress, traveling agent for the Publishing House, delivered a Sunday school address in Wilson county, at Stantonburg, on Sunday.

REPORT OF L. I. COX, MISSION SECRETARY

To the Home Mission Board of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference—W. A. Harper, Sec'y and Treasurer, for 7th and 8th Months ending July 20, 1915.

Our work at Reidsville is progressing nicely although we are a little disturbed in our services on account of working on the interior of the building. We have been compelled to abandon the church for the present, and are now holding services at the Reidsville Seminary. The workmen are at work on the main auditorium and we hope to have it completed soon. Our congregations continue good with splendid interest at each service.

We trust our friends will not forget us in this time of need in regard to the Reidsville work.

Memberships secured for the Christian Missionary Association and subscribed for, are as follows:

NOTICE.

The Executive Committee of the Eastern Virginia Sunday School Convention has accepted an invitation to hold the next session of the Convention with the church at Mt. Carmel, in Isle of Wight county.

R. H. PEEL, President..

TO THE LAYMEN OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION

Below is a copy of a letter sent by your committee to over two hundred laymen in the various churches of the Southern Christian Convention in June. It is a list of those whose names and addresses we could secure and who in the main are officials in the several churches. There are many other strong laymen whose names and addresses were not in our hands. We would call the attention of all laymen to the importance of the matter.

We are anxious to hear from you and your pastor and ask you to write us about the matter at your earliest opportunity yet in this month. The conference sessions are near at hand, the apportionments for Foreign missions if met in full by every church will be only a fraction of the amount we have undertaken to raise. Our mission work depends on us, the Mission Board counts on us. Will you please write us and let us know the mission plans in your church, and may we have your heartiest co-operation.

Dear Friend and Brother:

At the last session of the Southern Christian Convention after the most deliberate and prayerful consideration the Convention decided that it is vital to the life of our churches that we make a forward step worth while in the matter of foreign mission emphasis and that we raise an amount equal to an average of one cent per week for every member on our church rolls. It does seem that 52 cents per year on the average is reasonable and no less than we ought to do. That would make an amount between eleven and twelve thousand of dollars and would be something worth while.

Now if every church would give the full amount apportioned by its conference to foreign missions it would meet only about one-sixth or an average of only eight cents per year per member.

Your Foreign Mission Committee believes that we can average at least fifty-two cents per enrolled member from all our churches and do it easily and be better off for doing it. For this purpose we are writing you as a layman influential in your church and conference and ask if you will give the matter your active and aggressive support? Will you talk the matter over with your pastor and with your brethren and see what can be done? Will you form a little group of your brethren in prayer circles? We never can depend on our conference apportionment alone to win this world to Christ? Will you get in touch with your conference officers, write or ask them to take the matter up actively; will you make it a matter of much prayer; will you as a layman and business man in your church inspire others by making a personal gift yourself, and by talking it favorably with your brethren?

We ought never to mention dull times in this land of peace and favor as compared with the multitudes of missionaries and native Christian workers who are undergoing every kind of hardship in our stead. It ought to be our glad opportunity to go to them with this encouragement and with a spirit that says we will stand by you in these difficult times and places. Will we hold the ropes if they are willing to go down?

Our committee would like the suggestions of our laymen who are interested. Have you any helpful word? Can we count on your co-operation in your church? This is an important matter and we ask for your heartiest efforts. Let us hear from you telling us your plans of helping to get this before your church. Will you go to your pastor and offer your assistance in any possible way? More than a year has already passed since we undertook this enlarged work. We have been calling the attention of our people in various ways to the needs and to the great facts through the CHRISTIAN SUN and we now ask you to help in the work in your church. It will mean a great blessing to your life and church.

Yours in service,

Foreign Mission Committee S. C. C.

WAKEFIELD NOTES

We have just closed a very good meeting at Dendron, Va., led by Rev. Victor Lightbourne. The meeting began Sunday, Aug. 29, and continued until the following Friday night. There was good interest from the beginning. Three services were held on Sunday, morning and night for the public and afternoon for men only. There were some fifty or more reconsecrations at the afternoon meeting. The congregations were large from the beginning even though part of the week the weather was very disagreeable. There were several professions and renewals through the week. On Friday night there was one of the greatest meetings the writer ever witnessed. The Holy Spirit came in great power and there must have been fifty or sixty professions. Some of these accepted Christ for the first time, others who had grown cold and indifferent came forward with the promise to press forward in the Christian life with renewed vigor and zeal.

We regretted that we were forced to close the meeting but Bro. Lightbourne has an engagement to help Bro. Johnson at Liberty Spring the next week.

This is the greatest revival held in Dendron for several years.

Bro. Lightbourne is a power as an evangelist, both as singer and as a preacher.

Rev. W. H. Garman aided in a meeting at New Lebanon week following the third Sunday in August. The meeting began Monday and continued until the following Sunday night. There were several professions, many renewals, one united with the church and others will likely unite later. Bro. Garman did some excellent preaching in this meeting. R. H. PEEL.

—The Alamance Loan & Trust Co., Mr. J. H. Holt, Pres.; Mr. J. M. Fix, Treas., Burlington, N. C., has stemmed the tide of strenuous times in fine fashion and have evidently served their constituency well in a period of need: their loans and discounts being, by a recent statement, $363,015.42 and their cash on hand $92,392.15. The deposits amount to $249,907.40, surplus and profits $55,808.81. This institution has deservedly won first rank in financial circles and operates upon a safe and conservative basis.

South Carolina last week joined the ranks of prohibition States. Here they are: Maine, North Dakota, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Washington, Iowa, Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama, Idaho, South Carolina. And in as many more States more than half the territory is "dry."

It is the theories and the speculations of men, not facts and experiences that divide them into sects and schisms. "Study men's theories about Christ and you will find division; come to know their experiences of Christ, and you will find unity," declared Dr. Arthur J. Brown in a recent great address.

S. S. LESSON, OCTOBER 3

Elijah in Naboth's Vineyard
I Kings 21

Ahab being successful in battle and having a grand palace, made him wish that he had more of this world's goods. A well-kept vineyard near by tempted Ahab. He desired this vineyard in order that he might add more pleasure to his luxurious living.

Is it true of some of our "best" people that the more they get the more they want, without considering what it costs the other fellow?

According to Ahab's desires he went to Naboth and made the proposition to trade or buy the property. Naboth refused to sell, for it was a gift. Ahab was not satisfied and he was grieved because he could not get the vineyard. In this sulky state of mind Jezebel came to him and inquired the trouble, which was made known to her.

We have few such tragedies recorded in history as the one that this woman plotted against innocent Naboth. We fear that King Ahab was ashamed of the deed committed by the hands of his queen.

However, Ahab went into the vineyard to take possession. He went cautiously expecting something to happen. Just as he expected, he saw Elijah and his evil deeds loomed up before him. Elijah spoke firmly to the old man, telling the penalty. Ahab was penitent and thereby escaped the punishment, but it was visited upon his sons. (2 Kings 9:25, 26, 35, 36.)

Let us search our lives, take an inventory of our dealings with our fellow men and see if we covet anything that our neighbor has. This lesson ought to teach us that it is a very unwise thing to do. If we cannot make purchases to suit our wants, don't hold malice toward the fellow who wouldn't sell. We speak of the spiritual world as well as of the secular world.

Jezebel thought herself as one of the special privilege class. She inferred that she could do as she pleased and all power was at her hand.

We know some business corporations and individuals that delight in stripping Naboth of all that he has, because he cannot help himself, but would if given half a chance. If you do this expect God's prophet soon to speak in unmistakable language to you.

The only sure foundation for justice toward men is love toward God.

Shifting the dirty work of crime upon some one else does not make one less a villain, but more despicable as a coward.

At the same time, here or hereafter, every account must be settled, and every debt paid in full.

C. E. TOPIC, OCTOBER 3

What Will Make Our Society a Greater Success
John 4:27-36

(Consecration Meeting, led by the Lookout Committee)

In Unity There is Strength

The president of your society is powerless to run a Christian Endeavor society without your aid. You expect to go to the society and have the meeting go along in apple pie order as well, and even better than the best you have ever attended. You have made no preparation for the meeting yourself and haven't talked to any one else about the meeting until you are in the meeting as helpless as a little lamb. The leader closes his remarks and asks for volunteers to take part. No one says anything and then you wonder why some one doesn't take part. Why don't you take part in the meetings, dear reader?

It is because you are not co-operating with your society, with your president and helping to make the society an instrument for good.

If you are a member who takes part regularly and you have seen that every member takes part then it is time for your society to do advertising. If the seats are all filled, get some more, or if there are more than 30 in your society divide it and make two societies. You can do better work with small interested societies. Advertise the society, the leader, the program, the special music, the free testimonial phase and above all advertise that Jesus Christ meets with your society. Then make your advertisement good and show people that Christ is in the meetings and your society will have greater success.

When the disciples came up they saw that Christ was speaking to a woman. When Jesus had finished the woman forgot her water-pot and went into the city. Why? To advertise Jesus Christ; to tell others that they might have the privilege of eating the bread of eternal life.

Junior Societies

Among the senior Christian Endeavor societies in the country we find only a small percentage encouraging Junior societies. It will be a happy day when we, as seniors, begin to realize that WE are to soon take the places of our elders, both in the church and community life, and that OUR places are to be taken by those who are now our juniors. And it will be a happier day when the realization of this fact influences us to train those who are to follow us so that our work may be taken up by hands that are more able and more willing than were ours when we first became members of the senior Endeavor society. If we will organize our younger boys and girls into junior and intermediate workers, we will find them to be a most vital force in the life of our senior societies. ALMA BOWDEN.

PLEASANT HILL

We began our revival services at Pleasant Hill (Johnston) third Sunday in July. Although the weather was not most favorable, we had a very successful week—about twenty professions and six accessions to the church. Rev. C. E. Newman did the preaching. The people were highly pleased both with his personality and with his preaching.

Liberty (Va.)

Fourth Sunday in July we began our revival services at Liberty (Va.). We had a good week—ten accessions to the church, and the church greatly revived. Rev. C. Rowland of Texas did the work.

This church is doing more in a financial way, according to its ability, than any other church I have ever known.

Pleasant Union

First Sunday in August we began our revival here. We had a

Our friends are responding slowly, but I trust surely, to our appeal to raise $1,000 as a special relief fund at this time of need. We have about $200 paid in, and the promise of the last hundred when we have secured $900. So we lack only $700. This should be secured easily and quickly. 50 persons giving $10 each will make $500 of the amount; and then if two of our more liberal friends will contribute $50 each, and four others $25 each it will make the entire amount. This will give relief and enable us to reach the Thanksgiving season.

Some have inquired as to what we purpose doing with the thousand dollars if secured. To make a long story short, we mean to pay our debts. But many are greatly surprised to learn that the Orphanage is in debt. But may I remind such friends that king cotton was dethroned last year, and has scarcely regained his kingship as yet. On account of this many of our churches in the cotton belt failed us entirely on the Thanksgiving offering. And then the many rainy Sundays following Thanksgiving greatly reduced the offering in other congregations. Consequently the Thanksgiving offering last year was $500 less than the year before.

And to explain further I beg to assure our friends that it costs us $400 per month to maintain the Orphanage; and September is the first month since January that our receipts have reached the four hundred dollar mark. When the expenses are $100 per month and the receipts less than $50 it does not take long to get in debt.

This much has been said to explain how the Orphanage got in debt, but how to get should concern or thought and energy even more at this time. This can easily be done by the faithful co-operation and liberal help of all the friends of the Institution. Let the Sunday schools continue the Monthly Offering and where possible increase it so as to take care of current expenses. The next step is to raise this thousand dollars as outlined above to enable us to meet pressing obligations; and in the third place let the entire church begin to plan now to make the Thanksgiving offering the greatest in the history of the Institution. Each church should see that every man, woman and child in its congregation, whether a member of the church or not, contributes to the Thanksgiving offering an amount equal to a day's labor or a day's income. If this program is carried out by each of our Southern churches the Orphanage will enter upon the new year free from debt and have money in the bank and we will all feel good and happy.

Dear Uncle Jim: I am ten years old today. I haven't forgotten you. I send you a dollar to pay my dues for the past month. This is my first check. Jos. Babb will write next time. All send love to you and the boys and girls.

Your friend,
NEWMAN DENTON.

We congratulate ourselves on being remembered by you on your tenth birthday, and to receive your first check.

Holland, Va., Sept. 23, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim: We have started to school and I am taking Jesse Howard with me. He likes to go splendid. Please excuse this short letter, we are so busy just now. Will close with love and dimes.

MARY NELL and
JESSE HOWARD HOLLAND.

Here is wishing each of you a pleasant and profitable year in school.

reasonably good week although the weather was not favorable. The result was eleven accessions to the church. Rev. C. Rowland helped us here. He has helped here four Summers in succession, besides having helped once or more several years previous.

LEE'S CHAPEL

We arrived at this place on Monday following the third Sunday, and were with the pastor, Rev. P. T. Klapp, in a revival meeting until its close the following Friday.

Our congregations, though a little below the average, were larger than we had expected after learning that several of the neighboring churches were holding their meetings at the same time.

The Lord gave us a good meeting. We don't know how many conversions, but there were several, and the church was greatly revived. There were two added to the church with perhaps others to follow at the next appointment.

Bro. Klapp has labored very zealously at this place for several years, and may well rejoice in results already visible.

May God bless both pastor and people in all their worthy undertakings.

SOME FACTS ABOUT BLUE MARBLE

It is commonly known that Southern marble quarries hold an important place in the production of the world's marble, but it is a question if the people of the South know that to one of their own home industries, strictly Southern in ownership and management, belongs the distinction of producing some of the finest blue marble in the world.

Blue marble is not a common product and the Regal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., own the only quarries in the South. One of their best products, known to the trade as Regal Blue, was recently made the subject of interesting tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The government report showed the marble to be of such fine and compact texture that it withstood the highest test for crushing strength and water absorption. These are the properties that make for the recognized performance of color and durability of this marble. The Regal Company employs native Southern workmen exclusively, both in the quarries and in their finishing plant. Adv.

FORTUNATE FOR THE SOUTH

Skin diseases seem more prevalent in the warmer climates, which makes it fortunate for the South that it has such an exceptionally fine remedy in Tetterine for Eczema, Tetter, Itch, Acne, Salt Rheum, etc. Every skin trouble from a simple chert to the worst case of Tetter is quickly relieved by Tetterine. Applied externally, harmless and fragrant. 50c at druggist's or by mail from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

UNION, N. C.

I am writing to let you know of some changes that are in prospect in my field. Union church will want a pastor after the close of the present conference year. I offered my resignation at the close of my service yesterday to take effect after the second Sunday in November. I hope the church may secure the right man to fill its pulpit. I may have part of my time without work next year.

I held a meeting of some interest last week in Orange county at a schoolhouse six miles north of Hillsboro, N. C.

Drinking That Has Proven Beneficial

This is not a statement to cause consternation among our readers because the beverage is Fonticello Mineral Water. The waters from this Mineral Spring have made restorations to health in cases of sickness of such long standing that the sufferers had given themselves up to believe that recovery was impossible. The proposition in a nutshell is this: Pure Water—water that is free from organic matter is known by the medical profession to be the safest and best of all agents to cleanse the system—and flush the blood and vital organs before the refuse can contaminate them and interfere with their functions. It is through intemperate eating and drinking of beverages, or the failure to drink plenty of water, and the exercise of common sense in living that we incur sickness, which finally becomes chronic.

But to prove the truth of the statement that Fonticello Mineral Water has made these wonderful restorations to health we make this Guarantee:

We will send you statements from physicians of acknowledged high reputation, of ministers and others who will show positively that Fonticello Water has cured them of many chronic diseases, including dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney and liver diseases, uric acid, etc.

We will ship you two five gallon carboys of Fonticello Water with the understanding that if it does not benefit you, we will return full purchase price.

Note Our Guarantee.

I want to try Fonticello Mineral Water and promise to use it regularly, daily, drinking the number of glasses prescribed in the directions which you agree to send me. If this treatment does not prove beneficial, you agree to refund purchase price upon receipt by you of the two empty carboys which I promise to return promptly.

Enclosed find $2.00 for which please send me two carboys of Fonticello Mineral Water referred to above.

What Causes Tuberculosis

In the opinion of many medical authorities, tuberculosis is aided, if not actually caused, by a loss of lime from the system. "Where there is a decalcification, the lime salts must be supplied medicinally," says Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, in the May, 1913, issue of "Medical Progress."

To supply these salts often is difficult, since in some forms they are not easily assimilable. In Eckman's Alternative, however, calcium (lime) is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be assimilated by the average person, and to this, in part, is due its success.

We make no boastful claims, but many cases of tuberculosis apparently have yielded to it. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

PORTSMOUTH, VA.

One of the finest things you have known to happen in the past century, was the election of Mrs. Fred Bullock of Waverly, Va., as general and traveling secretary for the Eastern Virginia Christian Sunday School Convention. She is to give her time, as much of it as she can, to the schools of this Convention in developing them to "Front-Line" standard. She is expert and practical and can make things go when you support her by trying to put in execution the things she says. If all the schools will avail themselves of the opportunity to have her visit them within the next two years, we are going to see come to pass an advancement in Sunday school achievements such as we have never seen before. I expect to use her in my churches for all she is worth, and we'll pay her salary too; and I hope every other church and school especially those that have not reached the "Front-Line" standard, will have her with them just as much as she can do them good. The pastors are the key me. If they will take hold of this it will go. She is expert and so recognized by international authority. Get her and try to do what she says.

Yours sincerely,
H. E. ROUNTREE.

YOU WILL WRITE A LETTER LIKE THIS

I wish that I knew which one of the thousands of letters I receive would have the most weight with you, my friend. I can't quote all of them here, but I am going to ask you to read these carefully and then give me a chance to renew your health and make you write me one very much like them:

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910
Mr. N. P. Shivar, Shelton, S. C. Dear Sir: As you are aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acted as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance, had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

Leeds, S. C., March 2, 1911.
I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.
C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

These are not selected cases nor are the results unusual. I receive thousands like them from physicians, ministers, lawyers, merchants, farmers, manufacturers and every conceivable profession. I want the satisfaction of receiving such a letter from you. No matter what your complaint may be, dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, or any chronic ailment that has not responded to drugs. I invite you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If the water fails to benefit you simply say so, return the empty demijohns and I will promptly and willingly refund your money—every cent. Sign below:

Shivar Spring,
Box 9B, Shelton, S. C.
Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Divorces.

There are more divorces to the population in the United States than in any other nation on earth. And they are on the increase daily. To supply the growing demand a new Divorce Court was opened in Chicago September 21. On the day of the opening there were 2,402 names on the docket. Are we increasing in the spirit of Christ when our court records show an ever increasing number of divorces? "Whosoever shall put away his wife and marry another, committeth adultery against her. And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery." (Mark 10:11-12).

Ford For Peace

Despite the ravages of war in Europe and in Mexico, there are those amongst us who believe in peace, and that it may be brought about by education, information and inspiration. Among this number is Henry Ford manufacturer of the Ford automobile who announces that he increases his World Peace Fund from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000. The nations are to learn that war is worse than waste—is useless, heartless, sinful and is to be done away. "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore." (Isa. 2:4).

The Hungry Fed

The European war has given opportunity for the largest charity from the peoples of one nation to those of another ever witnessed. The Belgian Relief Commission, organized in the United States ten months ago has sent to sufferers in Belgium food and supplies during the ten months valued at $80,000,000. The Commission has also fed the population of the German-occupied territory of France. This constitutes the world's greatest charity. "And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." (Mat. 25:40).

Envy.

"The man who keeps busy helping the man below him will not have time to envy the man above him." That is why people have envy—they are so busy looking at imaginary persons above them they forget to help those below them. Envy is the excretion of an idle brain. On which account the Roman historian, Livy, wrote centuries ago "Energy is blind and is only clever in depreciating the virtues of others." And an inspired writer, "Charity envieth not." (I Cor. 13:4).

A Bloody Resolution.

During the Reign of Terror in France the legislative assembly of that unhappy time solemnly resolved in session assembled that, "There is no God." That resolution did not long remain in force, for shortly after its enactment the streets of Paris were washed with streams of human blood. The legislators discovered their grave error and rescinded their gory resolution. Only the fool hath said in his heart there is no God, but many otherwise sane and sensible people have said in their head there is no God—or have acted, and do now act, as if God were not.

When the Light Was Dim.

In his memoirs of fifty years in public life United States Senator Cullum wrote that he saw no reason to believe in the immortality of the soul. But on his death bed in January 1914, at the age of eighty-four he requested that record be made that his doubts were expressed "when the light was dim"; but now that he faced the real issue he no longer doubted, and so as he passed over the river he was murmuring "I believe in God, in Christ, in immortality." Many doubt, when "the light is dim." But when one comes face to face with eternity and with God, as reality and not as theory, then there is a difference.

Winning Through Death.

Says a New York exchange: "Death was the winner of a 100-yard race in a Brooklyn park." Then the story is printed of how in a close and thrilling race, thousands urged on their favorite runners with cheering, yells and vociferous applause. One runner was seen to sprint ahead and the multitudes went wild, till, as the winner touched the goal, he was seen to throw up his hands and fall forward dead. He had won through death. All of us win through death—provided the running (the living) has been of the right sort. So Paul declared: "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Phil. 1:21).

The Single Standard.

When the small boy hears the large boy use profanity he wants to use it also. He thinks it will make him manish. But if that same small boy were to hear a girl swear he would be disgusted at her. Why? Because there is one standard of morals for men, another for women. We find this declaration: "If all respectable parents, all school and Sunday school teachers, Sunday-school and church papers, ministers and reforms would actively advocate and specifically teach the single standard of morals for ten years, the habit of profanity would disappear entirely from respectable society." The same standard applies in the Bible, as commandments have no gender.

Encumbering the Earth.

Early after the Revolution good Captain Randall purchased a farm for $12,500 on Manhattan Island and bequeathed it to trustees for a home for worn and derelict seamen. The land has never been sold and is now worth $18,000,000. It occupies ten blocks in the heart of New York's business center. Wanamaker's and other great buildings are upon it. The trustees have made it known that no more leases will be allowed for saloon purposes upon it and that when existing saloon leases have expired they will not be renewed. Thus the sale or manufacture of liquor in the center of New York City area, or soon will be, forbidden.

The Scattered Race.

With the exception of the 3,500,000 Jews living in America all other Jews of the world live in the war zone and in many instances are facing and fighting each other. There are 350,000 fighting for Russia, 250,000 fighting for France, 170,000 in the Austrian army, 50,000 in the German army, and 20,000 are bearing arms under the British flag. A people without a country, a name without a nation or a flag. "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not! Behold: your house is left unto you desolate." (Luke 13:34, 35).

The World's Seed Corn.

It is related of the great missionary, Adoniram Judson, that on his return to this country, after more than thirty years in Burma, he remarked to a friend: "If I had a thousand dollars to give away, I would put it into a Christian school." Building Christian schools and filling them with students is raising the seed corn of the world." And yet in this materialistic time when young men and young women are in a hurry to get out and "to work," when a person's character is measured by the amount of money he makes, many disregard religious training in the schools and care little that preceptors and instructors are godless. Dr. John R. Mott, possibly the best student of social and religious conditions in the world says, "There is no greater mission field in the world than our state universities." A university president recently remarked that he would not bring together his 3,000 students into any sort of compulsory religious service because he feared the Legislature and a fall off in applications. "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? by taking heed thereto according to thy word." (Psa. 119:19).

MEASURES OR MEN

No measure can run itself. No plan can execute its purpose—if it has one. Law without an executor is a dead letter. Behind all measures, plans, laws, there must be a man or men. A measure is nothing in the world but a man's opportunity. A plan is nothing but a convenience for a person.

Nothing on earth better illustrates these trite truths than the Christian church. We have laid plans enough to convert the race. We have had measures enough to evangelize the world. We have "resolved" enough to redeem mankind. But we have not put men beneath our measures, persons behind our plans, blood and bone and sinew into our resolutions. What we need is to invest more time and thought and prayer and money in men, and less in measures.

This was and is the divine method of doing things. When God wanted to make a race, a nation peculiar unto Himself, He did not adopt a measure, propose a program or offer a resolution. He called Moses and sent him forth. When His people wanted a king and a kingdom He did not present a preamble, or offer a constitution. He went into the pastures and called David. When he wanted to call the nation from apostasy He did not direct a proclamation against Baal: He called Elijah and sent him to offer sacrifice and show Israel who was God.

We of the Christian church will yet learn the divine and the wise way. We will learn that the dynamic of all deeds is a man. We will have to invest more of our money in men and less in measures, before we attain to growth and strength which should be ours.

The Christian church suffers from a surfeit of measures and a dearth of men; live, wide-awake, enthusiastic, passionate men to execute the measures. Remember that the Church was founded not in a measure, but by a Man—One who gave His very life for its existence, that it might be made possible.

As our Conferences approach let us decide to have fewer measures, and go in quest of men to carry forward the divine work. The most important measure that God has laid upon our church or any church is missions.

We have acted as if we deemed this measure so sacred that it would run itself. But it even does not run. It just stands dead still. The missionary man must get beneath the missionary measure. Measures never move till men move them. Our Conferences will do little for missions until there are men in them who pray missions, preach missions, teach missions, and live missions.

THE "FALL"

The reason why one falls down instead of up, when one "stumps" one's foot against a stump or stone is on account of the law of gravity. The earth attracts everything towards its center. If one were far enough from the earth's center when one "stumps" one's foot one would fall up—and up—and up. The center of gravity which holds our system in place is the earth's center. The earth, for us, draws all things toward it. On which account we are of the earth earthy.

There are those who contend that "the fall" of Adam and Eve was a fall up and not down—that they fell from ignorance to knowledge, and in the fall up they became as God, knowing good and evil.

If to know is the center of gravity then the fall was "up"—for they came to know. But if to be is the center of gravity then the fall was down—for they fell from purity to impurity, from innocence to guilt.

Knowledge has proven the fall of many a man. He made knowledge the center of all his universe. He simply wanted to know at any price. He said, cared or did little about his habits, his conduct, his being. He wanted to know. Knowledge without Christ is a dynamic that drives downward. Christ said that He was the sum of knowledge (Truth); but on the one side He put the "Way" and on the other side He put the "Life". Truth should lead to life—and is fruitless unless it does.

Mere knowledge should not be the center of anything. Knowledge should lead one to a better understanding of the Way—and the Life. Every fall, whether down or up, should be forward, and toward Christ. He should be the center of attraction and of activity and of energy for us. If we fall with our faces toward Him the fall is upward and not downward.

CHURCH FINANCES

Now that the dates for annual Conferences draw nigh, our pity is aroused for the pastors and churches who have had no financial system through the year, and must now beat the bushes as best they may, and scrape up for the Lord's treasury such crumbs and pickings as unwilling members may let fall. It is a humiliating, not to say a sacrilegious, spectacle to hear the pastor and the "faithful few" beg each other for a few more dimes or quarters to help make up the balance "so our dear church may go up to Conference paid up in full." If the church had been really "very dear," does one suppose the brethren would now be holding it up as a pauper and be begging for it? Do we make a pauper of that which is near and dear to us? Not often.

It is time, it has been time these hundred years, to quit begging for the church, and go to planning some and giving the dear brethren and friends a fair chance to be sensible, sane, any systematic in their offerings for the Lord's work. I have never found in the Bible an account of a congregation or a church that begged.

Can somebody explain why we have business and plans and systematic methods in other affairs, but leave all these out and take it haphazard in the Lord's work?

To be plain and frank about it, is not your church tired and worn thread bare with the old plan of no method, save that of begging at the end of the year, and now would like to introduce some system and order for the coming year?

To our thinking, the every member canvass and the envelope system of offering is the most rational, religious and Biblical method of church offerings known to us of the modern day. Why not give this system a trial in your church the coming year? "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him." (2 Cor. 16:2). At any rate let us seek to take the church out of the pauper ranks.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Pres. W. A. Harper was the principal speaker at the Sunday-school rally at the First Presbyterian church, Graham, N. C., last Sunday A. M.

—Four States—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts—are to vote on woman suffrage at the approaching Fall elections.

—Since September 5 Rev. "Billy" Sunday has been campaigning for righteousness in Omaha, Nebraska. Multitudes are hearing and the usual hundreds are "hitting the trail."

—A terrific and deadly storm swept the Mississippi Gulf Coast last Thursday evening, killing 150 persons and destroying millions in property. The levees broke below New Orleans, where the property damage was heaviest.

—The gross revenue of the Southern railway for August, 1915, was $5,311,892, a decrease compared with August, 1914 of $376,152. The operating expenses for August, 1915, were $3,921,253, a decrease of $661,639. So while revenue was cut off expenses were cut off more.

—Rev. J. O. Cox, Supt., is working to the end that all churches, and all members of the churches, shall make a liberal Thanksgiving offering this year. All pastors and churches are being appealed to to make preparations accordingly.

—Dr. James Cannon, head of the Anti-saloon League in Virginia announces that both United States Senators of Virginia—Swanson and Martin—will not only vote for Prohibition in the District of Columbia, but will when opportunity is given vote also for the National Prohibition Amendment.

—Rev. R. H. Peel, Wakefield, Va., closes his work with the Wakefield circuit of churches at the end of the present Conference year, and is open to engagement the coming year. Bro. Peel is a consecrated man, a capable and successful pastor and should not be without a full and inviting field of labor.

—Berkeley, Va., News in Norfolk Virginian-Pilot Sept. 30: "Dr. L. F. Johnson retiring pastor of the First Christian church will leave today for his new charge in the Christian church in New York avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Johnson has made many friends here who regret his leaving."

—Miss Annie Williams, Field Secretary of the Woman's Mission Board organized a Young People's Missionary Society with fifteen charter members in our High Point Church last Sunday. Miss Williams has, we believe, organized a Society in every church she has thus far visited. Pastors wishing missionary societies among the women or young people in their churches should write Miss Williams.

—Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, pastor Third Church, Norfolk, did faithful and fruitful work at Elon College last week and week before as evangelist. The people were edified by his sermons, and the church was much revived and scores of young men and young women made a profession of faith in Christ. Twelve united with the local church; others preferring to defer the matter till they return home. Bro. Eastes is well adapted to evangelistic work and is to enter that field of service solely at the close of the present year.

—Documentary evidence declared to be authentic substantiates the horrible facts about the Turk's massacre of Armenians. Men, women and children, by thousands, have been subjected to the most cruel atrocities and then butchered by the unspeakable Turks. It is said to be the most bloody and heartless butchery to blacken the pages of history for a thousand years. "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord; and one day the Turks will have to pay the price of their heartless crimes against the helpless and harmless Armenians.

—Rev. W. C. Wicker, D. D., Pastor, reports a fruitful service at Hines Chapel, Guilford County, Sunday, October 3. The remainder of the funds necessary to the completion and furnishing of the new house of worship was raised and the house is to be dedicated the first Sunday in November. The corner stone is to be laid on Saturday before and the new pastor is to be installed on Sunday, as Pastor Wicker is not to serve longer than the present Conference year. The church has enjoyed a year of vital growth and progress, a new and modern building having been erected and many members having been received. Dr. Wicker is much beloved for his faithful services as pastor and there is general regret at his quitting the pastorate.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS

Today is my last vacation day. Tomorrow we take up our nine months school session and a long time it will seem till the first of next May when we will have another vacation. Both my vacations have been spent here in Boone, tramping over our lonely mountain country or visiting with our sociable people or just lying bed resting, resting. We had five weeks rest time between the close of the nine months session and the beginning of the six weeks summer session, and have had four weeks from the summer school till now. I never had a more pleasant or restful summer. I feel like an entirely different person from the fagged out one who had such an effort to get through the last part of the work last spring. I have let absolutely everything go, but the actual necessary things and I am truly grateful for renewed strength. I have been wanting, all these days, to write these few words and, among other things to thank the members of the Woman's Board for their kindly sympathy so sweetly expressed to me last spring through your faithful President. It is useless for me to repeat what was said to you through her of my sincere and deep regret because of the necessity for my resignation. I am just as interested and will do just as much and as willingly what I can as when officially connected with the work. As with all of you mine is an intensely busy life and sometimes I find my religious papers all piled up in my desk unread, so I take one of my regular holidays and read all I can and then make an extra effort to read them as they come in. I keep myself supplied with all our church periodicals and thus try as much as I can to keep closely in touch with our church and missionary work. I often long for opportunity to write more often, and now since I am stronger if I can only keep my renewed strength I hope that I can do so.

I send kind greetings to all my distant friends.

Faithfully,

BETTIE STEPHENSON.

Boone, N. C., Aug. 18, 1915.

SUFFOLK LETTER

That eighteen states of the forty-eight states in this Union have already voted in favor of prohibition shows which way the mind of this nation leans on this subject. The first thing I ever did in the Eastern Virginia Conference at the Bethlehem session in 1882, was to write a temperance report of more strength than met the views of the people at that time. I hope to have the privilege, before I leave Suffolk, of writing in the "Suffolk Letter" that all the States in this nation have voted "Dry." I am aware that law cannot make Christians; but the "law is our school-master to bring us to Christ." "Dry times" in the great swamps have enabled "loggers" to get trees out of the swamps. Millions of feet have been taken out in "Dry seasons" and millions of money have been added to the wealth of the country. Out of this number thousands of houses have been built in which happy families have lived in peace. "Dry" states make it possible for men to be taken out of places and positions from which they could not have been rescued under saloon conditions. Out of such men the church can make good husbands and fathers and happy homes. Christ can reach the sober man and make a new creature out of him.

It is wonderful to see the good homes, in large numbers, erected in Suffolk since the saloons were removed, by colored people. The saloon has been the bane of the colored race in the Southern states. Seven of the Southern states are now under prohibition by vote and will soon be by the law in operation. Both races will be benefited materially, morally and spiritually. To be sure the saloon is not the only evil, but it is one of the giant evils, and a Christian nation must remove it as a legal institution or retrograde as a nation. The temperance forces are flooding the country with light on this subject and the people cannot longer remain innocent and be indifferent. "I was alive without the law once; but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died." Light increases responsibility and awakens conscience in honest men. Men are coming over to temperance ranks from high positions in business and in State; and they strengthen the timid when they pronounce in favor of prohibition. Both Virginia Senators recently declared in Richmond that they would vote for prohibition in the District of Columbia and in the nation, if the question came up for vote in the U. S. Senate. That is a new note in politics. They both said that Virginia had voted "dry" and they would represent the expressed will of the people.

It is time for all church people, as church members, to be temperate in personal habits and in civic action. The pulpit and the pew should not fall behind the statesman and the politician on this subject—the greatest before the American people, at this time, except neutrality and peace in the presence of a hemispheric battle field. War is teaching some European nations their first temperance lessons; even that is not too dear, if it can be learned no other way, since intemperance has destroyed more lives and wrecked more homes than war—horrible and destructive as war is. The saloon has broken more hearts and dug more graves than sword, rifle, cannon and bomb.

God speed the day of a saloonless nation and a total abstinence church.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Sunday was an ideal day from the standpoint of weather and spiritual things at once. Attendance at all public services was good. Dr. Atkinson's sermon at the morning service was highly appropriate and very favorably received. Several were baptized at the conclusion of the sermon. At the C. E. service at night about 45 young ladies were received into the Society's membership. Next Sunday evening young men will join.

The evangelistic services conducted by Rev. Geo. D. Eastes closed on Wednesday evening. It was a good thing to be present at the closing hour. Not more than a dozen non professing Christians were left. Brother Eastes and his good wife greatly endeared themselves to all Elon.

Brother Willis J. Lee and Mrs. Lee left for their home in Eastern Virginia this morning (Monday), concluding what to all here was a most pleasant association of three weeks. Brother Lee expressed himself as highly pleased at things around the College. It is a great satisfaction to him and his faithful companion to see the faith of a quarter century past fruiting in the Elon of today. The part they have gladly had in making it so is certainly appreciated by all here.

Mr. Karl Lehmann, Boston, Mass., Field Secretary of Christian Endeavor, who four years ago paid the College spiritual tone so splendid a compliment, is to visit us again on Oct. 14.

Mrs. J. T. Moffit, Asheboro, and Mrs. W. K. Scott, Winston-Salem, visited their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Herndon last week. The weather was quite unfavorable during their visit and they could not get about much. The College welcomed them gladly.

Dr. Atkinson is to be in Raleigh one day this week as a member of the N. C. Division of the Cecil Rhodes Oxford scholarships. Mr. T. P. Harwood, a senior, is to take the qualifying examination. He is the first Elon man to become a candidate for one of these scholarships.

Miss Alene Patton, Greensboro, and Miss Harris, Trinity, were visitors at Mrs. W. E. Lowe's for the week-end. Miss Harris is Mrs. Lowe's sister.

Miss Ethel Harris, of the Normal College faculty, Greensboro, visited her sister, Miss Mabel Harris of our Music Faculty, on Sunday.

Mr. A. E. Stone, Charlotte, and Rev. T. W. Strowd of Chapel Hill, were callers at the College the past week.

Mr. C. E. Holland, Suffolk, who has been visiting on the Hill, which he calls his second home, for the past week, left for Suffolk this morning, going through the country.

All the College sympathizes with Mr. Edwin M. Betts, of the music faculty, in the death the past week of his brother-in-law.

Rev. H. S. Smith conducted a splendid revival at Sanford last week. There were 40 professions. At High Point Sunday evening at his regular appointment there were 14 professions. Brother Smith is powerful as an evangelist.

Dr. and Mrs. Amick and Mr. R. C. Causey, of the student body, spent the week-end visiting relatives at Liberty.

Mr. R. H. McCauley, Chapel Hill, has succeeded Rev. O. D. Poythress as field representative of the Publishing House. Brother Poythress resigns to become pastor of the South Norfolk Christian church.

Dr. Atkinson on Thursday evening at 7:30 will deliver the second Faculty lecture of the fall term. His subject is to be: Shakespeare's Cordelia. The public is cordially invited. X.

THE PROVIDENCE (R. I.) DEDICATION

By Dr. F. G. Coffin

This was an event of far-reaching significance to the people whose planning and industry made it possible, to the denomination of which it is a part and to the church at large. It was significant to the local congregation for all of the reasons which dignify such an event in the life of a church. It provides them with equipment so long needed and enlarges the opportunity in the neighborhood. But it means more than this to the Elmwood Christian Church. It is the first great work which they have done together since the union of the Elmwood congregation with our people. It was all done with such unanimity and deepening fellowship that the process of building mortared the two congregations together as only a great work could. Today neither congregation is in an adopted home and there is nothing about their surroundings to suggest the two-congregation idea. They are all in the home which they themselves have planned and built.

The coalition of these two congregations is one of the finest pieces of ecclesiastical diplomacy which I have seen. It is also a striking testimony to the strength of conviction and loyalty of the pastor.

When the Broad Street Christian Church was crowded from its old field for want of a neighborhood constituency, the question arose as to where an unoccupied residential section could be found for their work. There seemed to be no new field demanding a church. To enter one already amply supplied would have invited the public disapproval of the local federation of churches. Members of the church discovered unofficially the attitude of the Elmwood Congregational Church toward union with some other body. This, through the Secretary of the Providence Federation of Churches, led to a joint meeting of officially appointed representatives of the two congregations. At the first meeting, before the question had come to discussion, Dr. Sargent asked the privilege to state his attitude toward the proposed union. He stated kindly but firmly that if the plan meant anything except a union into a Christian Church they might as well not open the subject for discussion. He pointed out the breadth of the Christian Church position as being ample to accommodate the situation; the fact that Broad Street was the only Christian Church in the city; that its moral obligation to New England and the denomination at large could not be ignored; and that the local history and standing of the church through almost a century was an asset to be conserved. This first meeting promised little encouragement, and adjourned without action and but little favorable sentiment. At the initiative of the Congregational brethren another meeting was called sometime later, the ultimate result being the present Elmwood Christian Church. The church is incorporated thus, affiliates with the Rhode Island and Massachusetts Conference, and is a Christian Church in every way that every other Christian church is so recognized. It has no relation, actual or implied, with any other religious body.

For the above reason the dedication is of no small denominational significance. The union has given a prominence to the work and position of the Christian Church in Providence and Southern New England in a way it has never had before. It has also set an example of Christian comity to religious forces generally.

The retiring pastor of the Congregational church and the officers of its conference were unusually magnanimous in sanctioning the transfer, and have given every moral aid which could be expected since its consummation.

The new building is a very fine plant valued now at $50,000. It was built at a price which could not again be approached by $6,000. It is equipped with everything necessary to do every phase of work required in a city. There are more than twenty class-rooms, also parlors, Christian Endeavor, social and committee rooms for every need. Three features especially impress one and are indicative of the vision of the church. They are a teacher training class room equipped with table chairs, blackboard and every convenience necessary for such work; a boys' room for gymnasium and entertainment generally, equipped with shower bath and other accessories; and a well planned primary department.

The Building Committee composed of Ernest A. Chase, Henry F. Purrington, Sidney A. Wells, Herbert C. Lloyd, George W. Petri, A. M. Walker and Dr. W. G. Sargent have proven themselves equal to their task in every way.

The dedicatory services were conducted by the pastor assisted by Rev. Dr. C. A. Tillinghast, Rev. F. H. Becker, former pastor of the Congregational Church, and the writer. The services throughout were impressive and deeply devotional. The music, under the direction of Mr. Ernest A. Chase, Miss Medora Ladevese, organist, was very fine. It was a service to leave deep and lasting impressions.

THE LIGHTBOURNE MEETINGS

Rev. Victor Lightbourne has conducted three revival meetings in Nansemond Co., Va., during August and September. He spent one week at Berea, Nansemond, one week, at Liberty Spring and two weeks at Holland. As a result of these meetings sixteen new members were received into Berea, 15 at Liberty Spring and forty-seven at Holland. No definite record of the professions and reconsecrations can be given but there were probably more than two hundred. The churches were all greatly revived and a new impetus has been given to the regular church work. The meeting at Holland marked the highest tide of interest so far as attendance and visible results indicate.

Some men past middle life were won for Christ and added to the churches. I recall one case of special interest to me. One night I spoke to a fine young man in the audience and tried to win him for Christ. He did not go forward. The next night before the service began I was walking down the crowded aisle and this man's wife called and said with a new light in her eyes: "Brother Johnson, I want to tell you that I have a Christian husband now." He had come into the light since the closing of the previous service, and he went forward that night as soon as the invitation was given. During another service a young man asked me to speak to his wife's father. I went to the man with some doubt as to what the result would be. I said, "Do you want to be a Christian?" "Yes sir." "Are you willing to become a Christian tonight?" "I think it is time for me to begin." "Will you begin now?" "I will." Down the crowded aisle he went and gave his heart to God, taking Jesus as his Saviour. As I saw him standing among those who joined the church, I thought truly this is the work of the Holy Spirit.

Brother Lightbourne is well adapted to the evangelistic work, and is rapidly developing his talents in that useful field. His sermons are clear and well conceived; his arguments strong and convincing; and his appeals are powerful and effective. Nature has endowed him with a good physique, pleasing appearance and splendid voice. He gives himself without any reservation to the work, and it is a marvel that he does not break down under so much concentration of physical, mental and spiritual energy. At each of the three meetings the crowds could not be accommodated. Mrs. Lightbourne is a great helper with her good singing and other personal work. The presence of these workers in this county has been a great blessing, and many new friends will follow them, in their prayers and best wishes for great success.

THE CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION

Christian workers and loyal supporters of this splendid organization in the Eastern Virginia Conference will surely keep in mind the time and place of the next meeting. Time: Tuesday, Dec. 7th. Place: Rosemont Christian church. A good time to meet and a fine place to go, and a noble, faithful band who come together in this Association. Plan to be with us in our next session. We want some new members this time. We will be disappointed if we do not get them, for we get some new ones each year. We are also looking for some who have "lapsed" to be reinstated this time. We are going to have a helpful program. Other meetings of the Association have had a very joyful atmosphere, close to that of a revival. In a meeting where there is praying and paying the avenues of the soul are opened up and the blessings of the Lord descend.

W. D. HARWARD, Pres.

WAKEFIELD NOTES

My work with the Wakefield pastorate will close with the end of the present Conference year, (Nov. 1.) The two years spent here have been pleasant in many respects. We have some very loyal members here. Some progress has been made during the two years. Sixty members have been received into the churches composing the pastorate. Over half this number have joined Wakefield church where we have made our home. Five of the Sunday school teachers, the church and Sunday school secretaries and several of department superintendents have joined Wakefield during the time.

A Home Department has been organized that now has nine members; also a Willing Workers Missionary society which is doing interesting work. In addition to the regular dues they have sent in their part to clothe a boy at the orphanage, and sent in the first contribution to help purchase an automobile for our Porto Rico missionaries. They are looking with interest for other contributions that shall make the automobile a reality. A superintendent has been appointed for a Young Peoples' Missionary society. This will likely be ready to report to the next woman's conference.

We have been anxious for this organization since coming here but the lack of a competent and willing leader prevented for awhile. Miss Mason, an Elon graduate, who has recently taken charge of the music department in the Wakefield High School has taken this work and we are sure it has fallen into good hands. We have been very anxious that some one should take up this important part of our work. Rev. W. D. Harward will take charge of this work after Conference. He will locate at Dendron. We hope this may mean better things for Dendron. The recent Lightbourne revival at that point should mean great things for Dendron church. I have not yet decided on my field after Nov. 1. Trust that the Lord may direct where is best. I am open to consider any call that may come to me.

S. S. LESSON, OCT. 10
Elijah taken up into heaven.—2 Kings 2:1-12.

Golden Text—In thy presence is fullness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore. Ps. 16:11.

In studying the life of Elijah we have witnessed the power of God on more than one occasion. We knew little of this man's boyhood and the cultural education that he received. The fact that he has been constant and true to God has impressed itself on us. It doesn't matter so much in these days of enlightenment where a man comes from, as what a man is, and what he can do. The world is looking for men who are something now and can do something rather than what they have been in the past.

It is honorable to have a clean, pure record for your past life but it is more honorable to have a pure heart and willing mind to do God's will now.

After we met Elijah we found a man who was striving after the things that were good. Elijah wasn't prepared to go to heaven at first—it took time for his preparation; though every day he got closer and nearer to God.

We are getting closer to the bridge where we will step over into eternity. Are we getting closer to heaven? To be able to enter we must live like Him while here on our earthly pilgrimage.

The scriptures say that Elijah was taken up in a whirlwind. Commentators differ as to the method. We are not so much concerned with the method of going up as we are with the fact that he went to God. We must live so we are sure that we have the privilege of going and the method will take care of itself.

Another truth we are permitted to learn in this lesson is the secret of a strong man's character. Elijah was steadfast and earnest. He wanted the best for the work that was going to be left for to accomplish. Elisha felt the responsibility and wanted power to take up this responsibility. He asked Elijah for the best he had. Elijah gave the conditions whereby Elisha might know whether he would receive the gift asked for.

If we expect to do something for humanity we must associate with the best men in the country; the God fearing people and seek that which Elisha requested. These leaders that we have among us today will soon pass away, probably not by the summons of a chariot of fire, but they will, nevertheless, pass beyond. Will we be ready to take up their work and carry it on, even to better success than they have made? Certainly not; unless we prepare for the responsibilities that are inevitably coming.

C. E. TOPIC, OCT. 10
Be a leader; Be a follower—1 Sam. 14:1-10; 18:1-4.
(Led by the President)

In this meeting the Executive has an excellent opportunity to show his ability as a leader of his society. He has the opportunity to lay before the society the ideals and standards and qualities that a man has to have to be a successful leader.

Giving examples from history will impress the lesson. The best example we have is Jesus Christ. He was the ideal leader. At first he was about His Father's business. He learned the Father's will. Knowing the Father's will then He was prepared to lead men. During the life of Christ at every time when He wanted men for His disciples He was successful in getting the men who served His purpose; men who carried out the divine plan.

Mention other leaders that we have had who have been leaders of men in religious affairs and others who have been leaders in the affairs of the state; leaders in the scientific world, in the industrial world, in the world of letters, and the results.

State these men's qualifications. We are all leaders. Some one is looking to us for an example of life. Is ours a good example for a sound basis of the deep principles of life?

Then, too, we are all followers. Every one of us has some one who we think is ideal as near as our judgment comes to an ideal and we follow that person. Are we, as followers, following the true ideal?

Young man in being a follower are you following some man who has a changeable character, who spends his time in foolishness and frolic; who depends on some one else for his maintenance? Are you following the member who comes to the Christian Endeavor society regularly but fails to move a peg when the meeting is open for participation. If you are of the above type ask yourself the question whether that is the best you can give to your day or not. We feel that the people of our church are not earnest enough in doing the Lord's work and living the best that we can live while here among earthly humanity.

WAVERLY, THURS. OCT. 28

The E. Va. Woman's Missionary Conference meets at Waverly on Thursday, October 28. A helpful program is being prepared and a full representation from all our societies is desired.

Mrs. C. H. ROWLAND, Pres.

MEMBERSHIP OF WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

As information to our societies, regarding the election of delegates to our W. M. Conferences, we quote the following from our constitution: "The President of each auxiliary society shall be, ex-officio, a Vice-President of this Conference and entitled to a vote in its meetings. This applies also to the Superintendents of Literature and Mite Boxes, of Young Peoples' Work and of Cradle Rolls. The Auxiliary societies shall be entitled to one additional delegate to the meetings of this conference for every ten dollars paid into the treasury.

Let each society send a full delegation and let us plan to have large and enthusiastic meetings.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Richland, Ga., Sept. 29, 1915. I am sending out the blanks for the Annual report of all the churches and ministers in the Western North Carolina Conference to the various secretaries of each church today, and I write this notice to say that if any secretaries or churches fail to receive blanks to please notify me at once, addressing me at Graham, N. C. Remember the Conference meets at Pleasant Hill church on Tuesday after the second Sunday in November, and we must be up and doing in order to be ready for Conference.

We urge that each report be very carefully made out, and as correctly made out as possible in order that we may have the correct statistics and addresses. We trust that every church will send up a full report and let's make this the greatest session ever held in the history of the Western Conference. Hence we urge that every pastor and every member of the churches in the Western Conference use his or her influence to make the approaching Conference a great blessing to our church.

Yours in His name,

J. F. MORGAN,
Sec. Western N. C. Conf.,
Graham, N. C.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

MURINE For YOUR EYES

Murine is prepared by our Physicians, as used for many years in their practices, now dedicated to the Public and sold by Your Druggist. Try Murine to Refresh, Cleanse, and Strengthen Eyes after exposure to Strong Sunlight, Wind and Dust and to restore healthful tone to Eyes Reddened and made Sore by Overwork and Eye Strain.

Some broadminded Physicians use and recommend Murine while others perhaps jealous of its Success, talk and rush into print in opposition; those whose Eyes need care can guess why, as there is no Prescription fee in Murine. Just hand your Druggist 5c and you have a Complete Flag- Eye Book—Murine—Dropper—and Cork Screw—ready for use. Try it in your Eyes and in Baby's Eyes for Eye Troubles—No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. Dear Friends of the Orphanage:—

We express thanks to Rev. P. T. Klapp for one-half barrel flour, the good people of Lambeth's Point, Va., for a nice box of groceries; Misses Morrow and Basin, Burlington, N. C., for a valuable donation of hats for our girls and smaller boys and to the good ladies of Oak Level church who are the first to make shipment of their canning for us, which consisted of thirty cans of nice fruit, all received in good shape and carried free of transportation charges by the railways. We are grateful for each of these helpful gifts as well as each contribution in cash.

This has been a very strenuous year but we have labored with faith and done our best for the Institution and each child committed to its care; but we have reached that point now when we must call upon our friends to come to our rescue at once. I have written personal letters to more than a hundred friends, in which we endeavored to make plain our pressing needs. About thirty have been heard from while the others as yet remain silent. We hope their love and interest will soon prompt them to act.

I never like to put up a pitiful plea or paint a dark picture, but I think it best to let the church know our needs. Unless the friends of the Institution will stand by me and uphold my hands in this time of need as well as in times of prosperity, I shall be unable to superintend the Institution and conduct its affairs with credit to myself and honor to the church. If it had not been necessary, I would not have called for this $1,000 as an emergency fund to pay pressing obligations. We have made a good start on the amount and I hope the other friends will respond promptly. It will mean much to the success of the Orphanage work if they will. I know you want your Orphanage to succeed. Will you help it to succeed or stand off and see it fail?

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 24, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim:—

We are late this month but here we come with a nicker eke. Wednesday was Reuben's birthday. Of course we had cream and cake, he was two years old. You and your little folks ought to be here Monday to go to see the parade, you know that is circus day. Are you coming to the fair? We expect to be there. Tell all the little cousins to come for we have such good times going to the fair. Much love from,

KATHERINE and R. H. MORGAN, Jr.

MY SUMMER VACATION

Most city pastors are allowed a month's vacation, which they spend in the rural districts, at the seashore, or in the mountains. I congratulate myself that I have had five weeks' vacation (Sundays excepted) in the rural districts of Georgia and Alabama. No one can really know the happiness to be enjoyed in the rural districts at this season of the year unless one has experienced it. Especially is this true of the South. My! How we have enjoyed these peaches and melons! True, the sun shines very warm down here, but who cares for the hot sun when there is a breeze passing along and plenty of melons in the shade?

Our vacation began the fourth Monday in June and ended on Saturday before the second Sunday in August. The following is a partial account of the way this vacation was spent:

The fourth Monday in July we went to the home of Brother H. W. Elder, Richland, Ga., and he carried us to Reynolds' Crossing, four miles from his home and gave us the privilege of preaching twice daily for the rest of the week. Some few were revived and there were two or three professions of faith in Christ. On Saturday we broke into the vacation long enough to come to Columbus and fill our regular appointments.

On Sunday night, July 4, we took the midnight train for Enigma, Ga., arriving there between 7 and 8 o'clock the next morning. Here we labored with our good Brother Elder for the entire week until Saturday, preaching twice daily. As a result of our efforts and in answer to our prayers there were a score or more people who professed faith, and seven or eight joined the church. This is a fine little town in South Georgia, situated on the Coast Line Ry., and Brother Elder is doing a splendid work here. I think there is a brilliant future for this church.

The next week our vacation was broken into, as it was spent in Columbus, during which time we tried to prepare our sermons for Sunday, and made 46 religious calls.

On Monday, July 19, we left Columbus for Chipley, Ga., near which point we found the largest church of the conference. This church is about 17 years old, and Bro. Elder is its first and only pastor. He has certainly done a wonderful work here. It was good to again meet with our college friend and brother, Rev. J. W. Short, at this place, and to go with him to his home and mingle among his people. And never but once in my life did I preach to a larger congregation than I did this week. It looked as if everybody came to church. God wonderfully blessed us this week, and we felt as we had to take our departure, that it was good to be there. There were scores who came to Christ, many revived, and about 24 members received. This closed the part of the vacation that was spent with our dear good Brother Elder. God bless him for the great good he is accomplishing in the Master's name.

On July 26 we began our next week's pleasures and joys with Brother W. E. Carter at Providence Chapel near Red Hill, Ga. Here we spent the week preaching twice daily. Brother Carter had to leave us on Wednesday because of sickness at his home and pressing duties that called him back, but before leaving he assured us of his prayers, and the Lord answered them and gave us a good revival. There were about 12 or 15 conversions and 8 joined the church. We had to remain over to do the baptizing and that was an interesting as well as happy experience to us.

The first week in August was spent in Alabama, at Pleasant Grove in the field of my highly esteemed and consecrated brother, G. O. Lankford. Only one week with so earnest a man as Brother Lankford is worth more than a life time spent in sin. May God wonderfully bless him in the good work he is doing. At this place the people came to church more if possible than they did at the Oak Grove meeting. There were people there from 9 and 10 miles away. At

Line Combats Tuberculosis

"It is difficult to escape the conviction that time starvation and time assimilation are the real issues behind the masks of vulnerability and resistance in tuberculosis," wrote the late Dr. Van Geison, M. D., in the N. Y. Medical Record, May 11, 1912.

Ordinarily, time is not easily assimilated, but Beckman's Alternative contains it in such form and combination as to insure assimilation by the average person. This explains its success in many cases of tuberculosis which apparently have yielded to it.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Jud B. Wood, M. D., D. D. S., late President of National Conference on Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear anyone who came to the office of the 'Ponticello Lithia Water,' and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases, and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles, it is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced its use, they then became very enthusiastic. I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalies in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Kidneys, Skin and Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Ponticello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is suffering with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Urinary, Kidney affections, Gravel Stone in the Bladder, Uric Acid, Rheumatism, and Gout." Ponticello Mineral Water is sold on guarantee. Order two cartons at a discount—price $2.00. If it doesn't benefit you we will refund your money.

nearly every service at night this large church was packed full of people. There were several decisions for Christ and 7 who joined the church.

This week ended my summer vacation, and my only regret is that it closed too soon. I am now back at Columbus working hard with the people on Rose Hill trying to win them for Christ. My work here is difficult, but I try all the harder and leave the results with Him who can take care of them. Brethren, in our present situation the thing we desire above all others is your prayers. Ask God to help us do our best.

Yours prayerfully, B. J. EARP.

MT. AUBURN

The revival at this place embraced the second Sunday in July, and week following. Rev. I. W. Johnson, of Suffolk, Va., aided in this meeting. His sermons were clear, logical, forceful, and dealt with the fundamentals of religion.

There were ten or more professions of faith and two accessions. The meeting at Lebanon commenced the third Sunday in July. Rev. P. H. Fleming, of Greensboro, was with me in this meeting. His sermons, too, were fine, and much enjoyed by the large audiences. There were two accessions.

Berea

Dr. Fleming was with me also at Berea. The prospects were fine for a revival, but the inclemency of the weather brought the meeting to a close.

I have accepted the call to Mt. Auburn and Lebanon for another year.

We are to have a special day at Lebanon next third Sunday. It is Home-Coming Day. All day service and we expect much good to be accomplished. We are anxious for all members of the church to be present. We are hoping to finish getting up Conference assessments, that day, in money and pledges.

Weaver Piano Endorsed by Musicians and Family Alike.

"The Weaver Piano that I purchased from you several years ago still has the remarkable clear and sweet tone that has satisfied so many musicians who have played on it. We are frank to say that it has more than pleased our whole family in every respect.

The tone and action is—and has been—all that we could expect of any instrument."

Yours truly, JNO. T. WILKINS.

Mr. Wilkins is the wholesale grocery man of Hendersonville, N. C. The same pure tone qualities of the Weaver Piano that have appealed to his musical friends have endeared it to Mr. Wilkins' family.

Why Do Weaver Pianos Please?

Because we have been building pianos and organs for forty-five years and have never manufactured any instrument except a good one. Our whole ambition has been to conduct a business that would grow a little higher in the respect of the public each year. That kind of a business house pays and it is a pleasure to be connected with it. Our present position as manufacturers of the Weaver—the highest standard of piano quality so far attained—is due to that ambition.

You wouldn't be surprised that Weaver pianos last a life time if you knew the methods, men and materials which their reputation is based. Weaver pianos are used and endorsed by many of the world's leading musicians, including Alice Nielsen, Mme. Homer, Victor Herbert, Frank La Forge, Frank Croton and many others.

We also make and sell the Charming Toned York Piano, the Popular Livingston Piano and the Celebrated Weaver Organ.

They may be obtained on terms to suit your convenience.

Renew Your Health At Nature's Fountain

Without the Expense and Loss of Time Necessary for a Visit to the Spring

THE CRISIS

There comes a time in the life of practically every man and woman when their digestive or eliminative organs, or both, fail to respond to drugs prepared by human skill. In fact drugs seem to do them about as much harm as good for their systems rebel against all drugs. These are the cases which physicians call "stubborn" and "chronic" for the reason that they persist in spite of drug treatment. I do not refer to incurable diseases such as cancer and consumption, but to that larger class of functional disorders which we meet every day, where the organs of digestion and elimination are impaired.

For this class of cases our best physicians and our big city specialists send their wealthy patients to the mineral springs where, in the great majority of cases they are permanently restored or decidedly benefited. But what about the poor man who has not the money or the busy man or woman who cannot spare the time to spend several weeks or possibly months at a health resort? Shall circumstances deny them the restoration to health which Nature has provided? Read my answer in the coupon at the bottom of this page.

I have the utmost confidence in the Shivar Mineral Spring Water for to it I owe my Restoration to Health and probably my Life. It has made me tens of thousands of friends in all parts of America and even in foreign countries, whose faces I have never seen. Yet I count them my friends for the Shivar Spring Water has bound them to me by lasting gratitude.

I ask you to read their letters, a few samples of which I publish below for your benefit, and if you find among them any encouragement as to your own health do not hesitate to accept my offer which has no limits or conditions except those shown on the coupon. If you could read the letters that come to me daily, numbering about ten thousand a year, and the vast majority of them similar to those printed below, you would not wonder that I make this offer displaying my absolute confidence in the restorative powers of Shivar Mineral Water.

INDIGESTION

Savannah, Georgia. I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horri-fying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water which I used continuously, reserving when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effect. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

A. L. R. AVANT, M. D.

La Grange, Ga., Nov. 25, 1914. I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to make public announcement of the benefits I have derived from Shivar Spring Water. I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years from indigestion and dyspepsia. After one week's trial of Shivar Water I commenced to improve, and after drinking it for four weeks I gained fifteen pounds. I feel better and stronger than I have in twenty-five years. I strongly recommend this Water to any one with stomach trouble of any character, and truly believe it will cure ulcer of the stomach. I am writing this voluntarily and trust it will fall in the hands of many who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.

C. V. FRUITT, President Unity Cotton Mills.

DYSPEPSIA

Blaney, S. C. I have suffered for many years from gastric troubles, stomach puffed and food sour. I have tried many remedies and a good many waters. Some have helped, but none have given me such relief as your Spring Water. I use it and recommend it to my patients.

W. D. GRIGGSBY, M. D.

Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 2, 1914. It is a great pleasure to tell you that your Water has been a great benefit. I may say a great blessing, to me. My wife says it has helped me more than anything else I ever tried. I have been for thirty years, a sufferer from stomach trouble.

REV. E. H. ROWE, Co-President Southern Seminary.

Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914. For many years I suffered with stomach trouble as a result of asthma. I consulted the very best specialist in this country, and spent quite a large sum of money in my endeavor to get relief. However, I had about come to the conclusion that my case was hopeless, but by accident I happened to get hold of one of your booklets, and decided to try Shivar Spring Water. After drinking the water for about three weeks I was entirely relieved, and since that time have suffered but little inconvenience from my trouble. I cheerfully recommend the use of your Water to any one that may be suffering from stomach trouble.

OSCAR T. SMITH, Vice-Pres. Young & Selden Co., Bank Stationers.

RHEUMATISM

Leeds, S. C. I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

Fredericksburg, Va. Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints upon her hands, caused by rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement.

W. C. CARTER

Roper, N. C., Oct. 30, 1914. I am anxious to get more of the Water. It has done me more good than anything I have ever tried for rheumatism.

MRS. H. C. EDWARDS

Florence, S. C., Dec. 1, 1911. I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble, and a year ago was stricken with acute articular rheumatism; was helpless for months, and since using your Spring Water, I am walking without any crutch and improving daily. Indigestion much relieved. I wish I could write Shivar Spring Water in the sky so that the world could become acquainted with it.

MRS. THEO. KUKER

BILIOUSNESS

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 25, 1914. For over two years, following a nervous breakdown, I have suffered with a liver so torpid that ordinary remedies were absolutely powerless. Under such circumstances, I came to Shivar Spring, and began drinking the Water. Upon advice however, the first night I took a laxative; the second night a milder one. Since then I have taken none at all. The effect of the water has been remarkable - its action on my liver most marked, and my health and spirits greatly improved. I am satisfied that the laxative, followed by the Water, was the proper treatment in my case. My condition is now perfect.

S. A. DERIEUX.

Carlisle, S. C. It is fine for liver troubles, also for constipation. I cheerfully give you this information as to beneficial results in my case.

REV. A. McCA. PITTMAN.

RENAL AND CYSTIC

Columbia, S. C. I suffered for eight years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder to the extent that I would have to get up during the night some five or six times. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

J. F. D.

Virginia, Va., March 28, 1914. Your Water has done me more good than anything I ever tried for bladder trouble.

A. R. F.

Wesley, Ga., May 12, 1914. I had been down with bladder trouble. Couldn't stand on my feet three minutes at a time. In three days after I commenced drinking your Mineral Water my pain was all gone, could walk where I pleased, and felt like a new man.

S. B. D.

High Point, N. C., Oct. 6, 1914. My wife has had a bad kidney trouble for several years. She has been using the water only about three weeks and it has already made her a new woman. Her color is much improved her appetite is all that she could wish for, her digestion seems to be perfect. We give Shivar Springs credit for it all.

T. G. S.

GALLSTONES

Greenville, S. C. Shivar Spring Water cured my mother of gallstones, or, I might say, it snatched her from the hospital door, as the doctors had said nothing short of an operation would do her any good. After drinking the Water she was able to get out of bed, and is today stout and healthy. I hope these few lines will be of help to some one suffering as my mother did.

W. J. STRAWN

Williamston, N. C., Oct. 8, 1914. My doctor said I would have to be operated on for gallstones, but since I have been drinking your Water I haven't had to have a doctor.

W. H. HOWARD

Columbia, S. C. My wife was a chronic sufferer from rheumatism. She was stricken critically ill, and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. My physician, who is a good one, seemed to do very little good. Rev. A. J. Foster, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after arriving at the Spring she was apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has suffered no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of others.

J. P. DRAFFIN

URIC ACID & DIABETES

Chancellor, Ala. I have been for many years afflicted with uric acid and kidney trouble, and the Mineral Water has helped me more than anything I have ever done for them, and therefore I heartily recommend same to all who need a speedy relief and cure.

W. F. MATHEMY, M. D.

Lexington, Va. I can recommend your Mineral Water for disorders caused by uric acid. I suffer with it, and have been relieved. It affords me pleasure to recommend this Water to all sufferers.

J. H. WHITMORE.

Roxboro, N. C. I have used ten gallons of your Mineral Water, and it has done me worlds of good. My disease is diabetes. I lost two years out of three from my work, and your Water is putting me back on my feet again.

JOHN B. FITZGIBBON

Derma, Miss., May 8, 1914. Have suffered for several years with diabetes. I feel almost cured. Have recommended the Water to others.

Mrs. J. J.

Sanford, N. C., April 15, 1914. Have been down eight weeks with diabetes. Ordered Shivar Spring Water, began drinking it, and keep improving. Showed my doctor the analysis and he said it was just what I needed, with a lithia tablet added.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

History of Our Orphanage

By the Superintendent, Rev. J. O. Cox

We are endeavoring to give through this Orphanage Number of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, a larger vision and a clearer conception of our orphanage work. A brief word concerning its history will be necessary for a full understanding.

The Christian Orphanage was chartered by the North Carolina Legislature in its 1905 session. The Corner Stone of the "Children Building" as shown below was laid December 5th of that year, and completed during the following year. Its doors opened to receive orphan children in January, 1907; the first child, Lelia Mae Canada, of Durham, N. C., being admitted on the 29th of that month.

Some regard this as the beginning of orphanage work in our church; but in this they are mistaken. For back of that date are eleven years of interesting and important history, in which the children of our church took the leading part. For many years the Children's Corner had been an interesting feature in our Church Organ, and many worthy causes were being aided by the children. The object of their contributions at this time was a loan fund for ministerial students. This though a worthy cause seemed not to enlist the interest of the children, nor meet the approval of the brethren. In writing to THE CHRISTIAN SUN under date of April 23, 1896, Rev. J. L. Foster advocated changing the object of the children's contributions, and suggested the funds raised by the children should go toward the establishing of a Theological Library for Elon College. This suggestion was heartily endorsed by THE SUN'S editor who vigorously argued that the Convention should make the change at its next session.

D. J. Mood, better known to the children as "Uncle Tangle," was the old man in the Corner at this time, and instead of waiting for the Convention to convene submitted the question without argument to the children in the following manner: "If the Convention which meets in June changes our work, which would you rather our money be used for, a Theological Library for Elon College, or for the support of an Orphanage? I want every one of you to write just as quick as possible and give me your answer."

Nora Brinkley of Cypress Chapel, Va., has the honor of being the first to reply, or at least her letter was received and published before the others reached Uncle Tangle, as will be seen from his reply to Nora's letter as it appeared in THE CHRISTIAN SUN under date of May 21, 1896, and reads as follows:

"Cypress Chapel, Va., May 12, 1896.

Dear Uncle Tangle:—

I will write to the Corner now, and not be as late as I was last month. It has been very warm the past few days. Our school closed the ized that the Children's Fund should go for the support of the orphanage. These recommendations and reports were adopted without a dissenting vote, and Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., John A. Mills, and E. L. Moffitt were named as the first orphanage committee.

On December 8, 1897, Uncle Tangle tendered his resignation as treasurer of the Children's Fund and manager of the Corner, and was succeeded by Rev. J. L. Foster, better known by the children as Uncle Jim. He and his enthusiastic band of children labored zealously throughout the biennium and when the Convention met on May 3, 1898, the Committee on Orphanage reported the following: "Since our last session we have considered the matter committed to us with much care, and canvassed the situation diligently, but have not decided on a location or begun work. With funds at our command, we could not have opened an institution to the helpless and neglected children among us. Until funds are supplied we are helpless also. The little children of our church, however, have not been idle. They have in the last 14 months contributed $498.38 for this purpose. They have set us a good example and we trust all will follow them. They and Bro. Foster deserve our hearty

24th of last month. I was very sorry for I miss my schoolmates very much. Uncle Tangle, you asked me what we would rather have our money used for: I prefer it be used for the support of an orphanage. I have no money to send this time, but will send some next time. Your little niece,

NORA BRINKLEY."

Nora, you are the first to answer my question about where you would rather our money be used if a change be made. I do hope to hear from every one before next Thursday."

Seven other letters were received before Thursday—three from North Carolina and four from Georgia—and each cast their vote in favor of the orphanage. So the question was practically decided even before the Convention met. The President in his biennial address advocated the establishment of an orphanage; the committee on education recommended "That this Convention establish an orphanage." The finance committee author-ty thanks and co-operation. We have no plan to submit other than the one adopted two years ago."

At this session the Orphanage Board was increased to five members, and composed as follows: Revs. P. H. Fleming, J. W. Holt, W. S. Long and Dr. G. S. Watson. Little progress was made toward locating the institution during the next two years, but the work was kept before the people through THE CHRISTIAN SUN and $1522.82 contributed by the children and friends of the cause. The Board was increased to seven at this session, but no definite steps were taken toward establishing the institution. The next General Convention met in Asheboro May, 1902, and the Committee on Orphanage recommended the following which was adopted:

1. That this Convention direct the establishment of an Orphanage at some accessible and suitable place, which shall be known as The Christian Orphanage, and shall have for

A DAY'S WORK

By print elsewhere in this paper it can be seen that the Orphanages of the State of North Carolina, irrespective of name or affiliation, are calling upon the people of the State to give the revenue, or the price, of one's day's labor to the support of an orphanage. This seems to us fitting and well.

The commonwealth has no more valuable asset than its orphanage. Supported without levy or taxation, these institutions are gathering from all quarters and conditions boys and girls who are in most instances, ignorant, bereft, homeless and defenseless, and after training them for years under favorable mental and moral conditions, return them to the State well equipped for the duties and responsibilities of intelligent citizenship.

Moreover, the inmates of our penitentiaries cost the State 50 cents per day each; the children of our Orphanages cost only 30 cents a day each—both for up-keep and for training. It is much more economic to train for righteousness than to seek to correct, after the evil day has come. And further, there is that which is not wealth, but is far better than wealth, political economy teaches. That something is welfare—wholesome sentiment, sympathy, interest in others, a vision of need. All this an orphanage creates in the minds and hearts of those who support it.

If every citizen of the State could be induced to give the thought, labor and revenue of a day to an orphanage that State would not be poorer, but far richer for the undertaking.

The appeal of our Orphanage is not to the citizens of this State, but to all CHRISTIAN SUN readers everywhere. Give a day's work for our Orphanage. It needs the revenue thereof, and needs it sorely, and you need the increased sentiment and sympathy that the experience will give you. The gain will be to the giver. It is always more blessed to give than to receive.

To Whose Care the Welfare and Destiny of Our Orphanage Is Entrusted

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MR. C. D. JOHNSON, Graham, N. C., Register of Deeds, Alamance Co., Chairman Board of Trustees. Mr. Johnson has been prominent in the political, civic and religious affairs of his State for years and has been frequently reelected by the people of his county to the position of honor and trust which he now holds. He has been from the beginning a close and liberal friend of the Orphanage and when elected a Trustee by the Southern Convention was made Chairman of the Board by vote of his fellow-members.

DR. G. S. WATSON, Elon College, N. C., resident physician. Has served on the Board since the opening of the institution; and has given unstinted support and constant medical service and attendance upon the institution without charge. There have been few, if any meetings of the Board without his being present and showing marked interest in every detail of the Orphanage's welfare.

MR. J. E. VINCENT, Holland, Va., a prosperous and influential citizen of Nansmond Co., deeply interested in all matters and enterprises that make for charity, righteousness, and better citizenship. The orphanage has no more loyal or liberal friend than Mr. Vincent and the Southern Convention acted with great wisdom and discretion when, nearly two years ago, it made him a member of the Board of Trustees. He hasn't missed a meeting of the Board since his election.

MR. C. D. WEST, a successful insurance and real estate dealer, Newport News, Va. Though living furthest from the institution he seldom misses a meeting of the Board, bearing the cost of his own travelling expenses, as do all other members of the Board. He is vitally interested in the Orphanage and besides giving it liberal support, seeks its progress and welfare in many ways. As deacon and Sunday-school Superintendent he has served his local church well, and as a prosperous layman gives unstinted support to its various enterprises.

MR. H. C. SIMPSON. A successful merchant and influential citizen of Greensboro, N. C. Has the distinction of being the first student to enter and matriculate at Elon College from which he graduated six years later. Has ever been deeply interested in the progress and welfare of his church and has served it well as deacon, Sunday-school Superintendent and layman. The Convention made no mistake in electing him a member of the Board on which he has served several times successively.

HON. W. H. CARROLL, Burlington, N. C., Attorney. Is a leading citizen of Alamance County, By whose people he has been honored with high positions of trust and confidence, a former representative in the Legislature, a practitioner of prominence and influence. His legal advice and assistance on the Orphanage Board, which he has given for years most generously, has been invaluable. He has been selected several times by the Convention and is devoted to the institution.

WHO MAKE THE WHEELS GO

The Trustees and Superintendent are not all of the Orphanage. There are others who by constant daily toil keep the wheels turning and the machinery of the institution moving. Mrs. J. O. Cox, wife of the Superintendent lives in the Children's Building and gives her time, strength and wisdom to the up-keep, cleanliness and general management of the internal affairs of the institution. Miss Blanch Byrd, daughter of Bro. Y. C. Byrd, of Nansmond county, Va., is teacher and gives all her time to the mental and moral training of the children and is proving quite satisfactory in this position. Mrs. Effie Wicker, daughter of W. A. Ellington, Chatham Co., N. C., and relict of the late lamented A. C. Wicker, son of Rev. J. D. Wicker, Sanford, is the efficient Superintendent of Dining Room and Cooking Department, and is highly competent and faithful in the discharge of all her duties. No department of the work is more satisfactorily managed. Mrs. Kate Thompson, daughter of the late lamented Joseph Fix, and sister of Bro. J. M. Fix, Treas. Alamance Loan and Trust Co., Burlington, N. C., is Superintendent of the Sewing and Mending Department of the institution and is a most competent and capable official. To see that the clothing and person of more than half-hundred children are kept in neat, proper, comfortable and sanitary condition is no small undertaking, but Mrs. Thompson is proving herself equal to it.

The farm of one hundred acres is directed by Mr. Cleveland Morris, Sanford, N. C., and the boys of the institution are his helpers in carrying on the work. Mr. Everton Morris, a former inmate of the institution has charge of the dairy which has developed into large proportions and service under his management. The greatest harmony and cooperation exist between the officials and employees of the institution, and the work and efficiency were never in a more prosperous and wholesome condition.

It costs to keep up the Orphanage, but the institution returns to the church in sympathy and in fellowship more than it exacts from the church. It is a real asset to the denomination who is pledged to its sustenance and development.

OUR CHRISTIAN DUTY TO THE ORPHANAGE

"A father of the fatherless is God in His Holy habitation" is a great declaration of the Bible; but God works through human agents to care for the orphaned ones. An orphanage is not only a Christian institution, but God's earthly home for the fatherless and motherless. No institution contains the elements of appeal to human sympathy and Christian support as the orphan's home.

The CHRISTIAN ORPHANAGE is God's institution intrusted to our keeping and support. The first obligation resting upon the people composing the Southern Christian Convention is to remember this institution in our daily prayers. I always put it into my prayer list with missions and other institutions. I signed one of Dr. Atkinson's prayer-covenants to pray for missions every day. If I miss one day, I will try to double up the next day. I pray for myself last. I am of least importance in my prayer-world.

The second important obligation is to give money to the support of the institution; and that ought to mean more than current expenses: it ought to include growth for the institution. Giving, like every other exercise, increases the ability to give. It, also, becomes a pleasure to give.

There are three ways of giving authorized by the Southern Christian Convention: 1. By monthly Sunday school offerings. 2. By annual Thanksgiving by the churches. 3. By individual donations.

I wish to emphasize very strongly the first method as being very simple and very easy to work. Pastors and Sunday school superintendents should see to it that EVERY SCHOOL take a special offering for the Orphanage every month. The schools could easily average $2.00 a month; and the 200 schools

REV. J. O. COX, Superintendent of the Orphanage since October 22, 1913. Since graduating from Elon College class '04 has served successfully as pastor of Berkeley, and South Norfolk, Va., and Durham, N. C. Himself an orphan and with a deep sense of an orphan's needs and possibilities, his heart is in his work and his ideal for the institution is high and practical. He believes that character counts and that every dollar invested in an Orphanage should be made to tell for the physical and moral betterment of those intrusted to the institution. If the church will stand by him in his unselfish efforts, a strong and stalwart citizenship of its orphans will result.

ORPHANAGE GROUP

would make $400.00 per month from this source. Then twelve months would yield $4,800.00. Any school could raise $1.00 per month. People in the neighborhood would help. Our Superintendent runs around early every fourth Sunday morning and picks up a few dollars outside the school. The smallest schools giving $1.00 per month and the larger schools giving more would easily bring the average up to $2.00 per month. Try it.

The second method is the THANKSGIVING OFFERING taken by the church. This would bring the regular offerings up to $6,000.00 per year. That sum would enable the Board to plan for better work. Add to this such personal gifts as might be made, and the children's dues, and the Superintendent could give his time and attention to the development of the Institution. WE should furnish the MEANS; the BOARD should lay the PLANS; and IIE should care for the CHILDREN, the BUILDINGS, the FARM, and the GROUNDS.

W. W. STALEY, President,
Southern Christian Convention.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

A most timely and scholarly lecture was delivered before the Y. M. C. A. Sunday by Dr. E. E. Randolph. The speaker took for his subject the much and often misinterpreted theme "Evolution," and it was a feast of good things to hear the discourse.

Dr. Atkinson used for his theme before the student body Sunday at the eleven o'clock service, "The All Sufficient Vision." The Doctor was at his best and all pronounced it the greatest discourse so far of the College year.

Tuesday was "Picture Day." All group pictures for the College Annual were made. The Class of '16 is planning to bring from the press the "best yet" Annual, and friends of the College will be proud of this splendid publication.

President Harper is this week in the North on business for the College. He is expected to return the last of the week.

The working condition of the College is fine. Both students and Faculty are enjoying good health, the warm weather gone, and much is being done along educational lines.

Rev. Victor Lightbourne was here last week after a trip of three months. He left on Thursday night for Dover, Delaware, where he is assisting his father, Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, in a meeting. Great success is attending Brother Lightbourne's labors.

Prof. R. A. Campbell of Hagerstown, Md. is on the Hill this week. Prof. Campbell is a favorite among us and we are glad to see his face.

Mr. Ralph McCauley, a former Elon student, has accepted a position as field representative for the Southern Christian Publishing Company.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Scores of letters and contributions for this week's Sun and much valuable and important matter had to go over till next week on account of our Orphanage special number.

—Dr. E. L. Moffitt writes that Asheboro, N. C., and a circuit of churches contiguous thereto are on the look-out for a suitable and available man as pastor to locate amongst them. Here is a large field of usefulness for the right man and we trust he will be found.

—At a business session of Third Church, Norfolk, an evening last week, Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, pastor was prevailed upon to reconsider his recent resignation as pastor to take effect January 1st, and Bro. Eastes will continue in the pastorate. He is much beloved by his people and serves them to great acceptance. We are not surprised that they refused to give him up.

—Rev. J. W. Holt has been prevailed upon by Union church, Union Ridge, N. C., to withdraw his resignation and he has consented to serve the church as pastor another year. Bro. Holt has served Union several years and the church was unwilling to let him go. Long's Chapel has also extended a unanimous call to Bro. Holt to serve as pastor another year and he has accepted.

—Rev. H. Shelton Smith, now acting pastor asks us to make the statement: "Those who made pledges at the last session of the Western North Carolina Conference to the High Point mission will please remember that the conference year has almost closed. We are in need of money and will be very grateful if those who made pledges will forward the amount subscribed to Mr. D. V. Cassady, High Point, N. C."

HISTORY OF OUR ORPHANAGE

its object the support, the training and proper care of indigent orphan children of the white race.

2. We consider a farm of one hundred or more acres of land with good water and sufficient firewood, situated near a city or town as the most desirable location for such an institution.

3. That a committee of three be elected to take charge of this matter in all details, to secure a site by donation or purchase, to employ one or more to manage the institution, to secure a charter, to prepare a constitution and by-laws for the government of the same, and to do and to perform all things necessary to put the contemplated institution into practical operation. When the action of this committee shall have been endorsed by the Executive Committee of this body it shall be valid and in full force.

Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., Rev. J. L. Foster and W. J. Lee were elected Orphanage Committee. Many communities in North Carolina and Virginia were visited by them with the view of locating the institution, and finally after four years of investigation, decided, on December 27, 1914, to locate the Orphanage at Elon College, N. C., and sent the following communication to the Executive Committee of the Convention, which was approved on January 23, 1905.

"We your Committee on location of the Christian Orphanage beg leave to report to you for your approval, that this committee has carefully considered different propositions for the location of said Orphanage, and now respectfully submit that we have accepted a location of about 108 acres of land near Elon College. These form an eminence south of the railroad and in full view of the college."

The question of location was at last settled, all minds and hearts now turned to the work of building. This was no small task. Plans were drawn and approved, and the contract awarded on the 24th of July, 1905, and as previously stated the corner stone was laid on the 5th of the following December.

The General Convention met in Burlington again in May, 1906. In making its report to that body the Orphanage Committee submitted a charter from the State, a deed to 108 acres of land, and reported the building nearing completion. This ends the first decade of our orphanage history.

The Convention elected seven trustees to direct the affairs of the institution, who immediately organized and entered upon the work of completing the building. They elected Rev. J. L. Foster first superintendent of the institution who entered upon the work in January, 1907, and served in that capacity until December 1, 1912. He was succeeded by Rev. E. M. Carter, of Alabama, who served one year and retired on his own motion, and was followed by the present superintendent.

It is impossible to give an accurate history of the institution or tell the good it has accomplished during these eight and a half years, but we know that progress has been made along all lines of our work, and we are better equipped for serving the orphan children of our church than ever before. The farm has been improved and brought into a better state of cultivation. The buildings are now equipped with all the modern conveniences that make for the comfort, convenience, and health of the children.

We rejoice that in its brief history the Institution has been privileged to administer to one hundred orphan children. Fifty of these have gone out into the world better equipped for life's task because of the training received at our hands.

S. S. LESSON, OCTOBER 17 Elijah Heals Naaman the Syrian II. Kings 5:1-10, 14

After the departure of Elijah the responsibility fell upon Elisha. Elisha had received a portion of the faith that Elijah possessed. Since the days of Elijah the Syrians had become stronger and considered the Israelites a weaker nation.

Naaman was a king who thought much of himself, of his personal welfare. After gaining many successful victories over men in wars an enemy faced him that he could not combat with. He tried all the physicians of his own land without relief. A disease which was pronounced incurable was gradually sapping the life blood of the king of Syria.

A little child came to Naaman's assistance. She told of her faith in the prophet of her own people, the prophet of God. Naaman was interested and really desired a cure. Preparations were made for the long journey, for a long journey it was. The gift equivalent to eighty thousand dollars was made ready to give to the man who healed the suffering king.

Naturally, Naaman decided the man to go to would be what he thought the highest man in the kingdom of Israel, viz., the king. He went to the king receiving a reply that did not help him in his distress.

Happily the prophet heard of the desires of Naaman and sent for him to come to him. We can imagine Naaman in his chariot as he approached the house of the prophet, in his mind he expected to be treated royally, with many ceremonies. To Naaman's surprise the Man of God welcomed him as he would the lowest beggar who was afflicted with leprosy. The king was angry and on first thought decided to leave the prophet. But he considered the matter and went to the muddy waters of the Jordan and dipped according to the word of Elisha.

He was made whole and returned to his own people a whole man physically.

All of us have leprosy. Some have a worse case than others. We ourselves do not realize how dangerous the situation is. Naaman was an important man in his kingdom. He felt the life blood slowly ebbing out. He decided to be cured if it was possible. He could not find any one in his kingdom, he sought a man of whom he had heard. He met the conditions though he felt that he was humbled.

We have a disease that no earthly physician can cure. The disease of sin. It is day by day getting the best of us. Shall we be healed? There is a great Physician who is anxiously waiting and even beckoning to us to come, as did Elisha of old.

C. E. TOPIC, OCTOBER 17 The Responsibility of our Society, for the Christian Endeavor Unions— Local, State, and National Psalms 133:1-3

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! It is like the precious oil upon the head, that ran down the beard, even Aaron's beard; that came down upon the skirt of his garments; like the dew of Hermon, that cometh down upon the mountains of Zion; for there Jehovah commanded the blessing, even life for evermore. Psalms 133.

In the scripture we are told that in unity there is strength and pleasantness. Now, if any member happens to read these lines who is a member of a society that has not linked itself up with the country organization, the city organization, the state organization, or the national organization, it is time for you to give the subject a little of your undivided attention and to bring it before your society at the next meeting.

We know of a few unprogressive societies that do not take any part in any organization and argue that they can live by themselves. It is true that a society can get a few new ideas working within itself but it will not prosper like the one which is associated with all the unions of the Christian Endeavor movement. You might think that your society can get along nicely allied with the city and state unions. It can; but it will make more progress linked with the national union and the other unions.

To build a Christian Endeavor society with the help and suggestions of the city or state unions is like building a house and working on one or two sides only. It would be a one-sided house the other sides would not bear inspection for workmanship. If you build your society for the church, for God and do not build a whole society so it can be surveyed from all view points do you think you are doing God's work honestly.

Let the leader of the society announce that you can get literature from your field secretary or from your publishing house or the United Christian Endeavor Society,

"ODDS AND ENDS" MADE TO DO DOUBLE SERVICE

The World's S. S. Association does several things beside those we usually think about as fixing the Bible passages to Study Sunday after Sunday; seeking Home Mission Fields for unshepherded lads and lasses—lambs of the flock—and raising the efficiency standards higher and higher of our home schools.

Rev. Samuel D. Price has the lengthy title of Superintendent of the Department for Utilizing Surplus Materials. He makes our S. S. supplies serve 100 per cent more children—sometimes 200 per cent more—than they otherwise would.

For example, after the Sunday school roll has been shown to all the children every Sunday in the quarter, the children give a penny apiece and it is sent over to Ishinomaki and Rev. Iwkawa shows it at Negishi, where his family live, at Kanomata where, the children appreciate the work though the grown people are hard to win; in his trips out to the fishing villages on the Hamto (half island) and then our uncouth home worker, Bro. Ogata takes it and shows it to the children who boldly gather, in spite of the school teacher's opposition in the little room the Christians hire for a Sunday school at Hirabuchai; then he shows it on his walking tours to children all over the country.

When people are so accustomed to idols and objects, and have so few Bibles, the pictures mean more.

Not only the picture rolls but cards, small scrap books; panels for the wall; old postals, posted back to back to cover address and keep within the merchandise law; dolls for the S. S. rewards or dressed as a model for mothers to see and learn concerning more suitable clothing for their children; old Christmas toys; ornaments for Christmas trees—odds

Boston, to help you to get in touch with what the society is doing for the world.

Hand the following questions out sometime before the meeting and have the members to comment upon them:

What is our relation to the various unions?

In what way can we help the unions?

In what way can the unions help our society.

What is the best way to get in touch with the unions?

Trace the similarity between the county and town Christian Endeavor unions.

and ends—some of them, but made to do double service, first in making children happy here then in a far away heathen land. Sometimes Mr. Price sends an individual gift for the missionary.

I remember when several of Torrey's vest pocket notes on the S. S. lesson came handsomely bound in red, and we gave one to each of the three native pastors in Ishinomaki; all of whom read English—then had one ourselves—a practical commentary on a much used part of the Bible.

This summer a letter came suggesting that some church had an organ that could be sent if desired and we do desire.

Some of you are doing this sort of work. Do you mind sending Rev. S. D. Price, Metropolitan Tower, New York City, a card that he may credit us with the work we are doing?

Some of us have been talking about more economy in the missionary work—and our points may be justly taken. But let us do this economy too, of using the material we have in all the ways we can and let us indicate our church clearly, disingishing it from the Disciples.

Yours with gratitude to the S. S. Association.

ALICE TRUE.

THE DIFFERENCE

About one-third of the Baptist Sunday-schools of North Carolina are giving regular monthly collections to the orphanage; and this one-third furnish over 40 per cent of the current fund. We are gratified that these schools are so steady and loyal, and we note with joy that their contributions are a little better year by year.

But what about the two-thirds that spend all their money on themselves? Is it fair to the children in these Sunday-schools to train them up without allowing them to take a hand in the support of the orphanage? Is it right to refuse them this opportunity of service and thus deprive them of this means of growth in the grace of giving? For it is not the children's fault that the Sunday-school to which they belong is not in the list of monthly givers, if they had

GIVE DAY'S INCOME TO ORPHAN-

Orphanage Association Appeals to People Through Press With This Request

To the Press of North Carolina:

Relying on the generosity and public spirit of the press of the State, the undersigned are emboldened to ask of our newspapers such timely and telling help as they are able to give us in impressing upon every man, woman and child in the State of North Carolina the importance of contributing one day's income to the orphanage work of the State as a Thanksgiving offering.

The orphanages of the State are contributing largely to the enrichment of the life of North Carolina. They are gathering up the waste material and transforming it into valuable citizenship. They, more than any other institutions of whatever kind, are beginning at the beginning of things. They are molding indigent childhood into useful manhood and womanhood exactly at the point where the process of training is vital; and they are doing this work for the most part without the cost of a copper to the State.

The movement to secure a contribution of one day's labor from every citizen was begun last spring. At a meeting held in Raleigh September 28, the executive committee met and formally launched the campaign. The editors of North Carolina were the men toward whom the members of the committee first turned their eyes. We are counting on these men who, more than any others, shape and control our public sentiment to stand by in this movement and make the next Thanksgiving notable in the annals of the State's history.

We are often called to do honor to the dead and this is a sentiment that is creditable and worthy, but in this movement we are called upon to perform a service for the living at a time and place where that service will tell most mightily on coming ages. Thou-

Lime Medication In Tuberculosis

In the New York Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes of tuberculosis is 'lime starvation.'" "In all cases of incipient tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Many do not eat food containing enough lime." "In such cases we must resort to lime medication."

Eckman's Alternative should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its chief ingredients is calcium (lime), in such combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis.

It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by all drug druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and reference.

Drinking That Has Proven Beneficial

This is not a statement to cause consternation among our readers because the beverage is Fonticello Mineral Water. The waters from this Mineral Spring have made restorations to health in cases of sickness of such long standing that the sufferers had given themselves up to believe that recovery was impossible. The proposition in a nutshell is this: Pure Water—water that is free from organic matter is known by the medical profession to be the safest and best of all agents to cleanse the system—and flush the blood and vital organs before the refuse can contaminate them and interfere with their functions. It is through immoderate eating and drinking of beverages, or the failure to drink plenty of water, and the exercise of common sense in living that we incur sickness, which finally becomes chronic.

But to prove the truth of the statement that Fonticello Mineral Water has made these wonderful restorations to health we make this Guarantee:

We will send you statements from physicians of acknowledged high reputation, of ministers and others who will show positively that Fonticello Water has cured them of many chronic diseases, including dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney and liver diseases, uric acid, etc.

We will ship you two five-gallon carboys of Fonticello Water with the understanding that if it does not benefit you, we will return full purchase price.

ands of children are safely sheltered in our orphan homes, but four times as many are as yet uncared for and left to shift for themselves in a world of temptation and peril without a father's counsel or a mother's care—without a home, a penny or a friend!

It is primarily in behalf of these homeless ones that this movement is launched. We must enlarge our orphanages and admit more of the little ones on the outside, who are clamoring to come in. Each institution in the State is crowded to its utmost capacity, with a stream of children standing at the gates and crying for admission. If a tithe of the citizens of North Carolina will give the price of one day's labor to the orphanage work it will mean the salvation of a thousand North Carolina children now on their way to the dogs and the devil. Is this work not worthy of the best effort of every good citizen?

It is our hope that every North Carolina pastor will freely and gladly give his best efforts to the advancement of this movement. We hope and believe that they will urge those of their congregations who have an income to sacredly set apart one day's work to this great cause, and send it forward to the orphanage of his choice on or near Thanksgiving Day.

Fellow citizens, this is no child's play. It is a man's job. The pennies of the children are not despised. Every gift, however little, helps the giver more; but we are not appealing especially to children in this movement, but to men and women who are busy in the world's work. And knowing the spirit and temper of our North Carolina people, we do not believe that we will appear in vain.

THE DIFFERENCE

their way they would gladly bring their pennies and nickels and dimes on the orphanage day to help feed and clothe and train the children of broken homes.

We have in mind now a strong church with a good Sunday-school whose pastor took no interest in the orphanage. Again and again this pastor refused to allow a representative from the orphanage to appear before the Sunday-school and lay upon their hearts the purpose and needs of the institution.

By and by there was a change of pastors. The new one was a different sort of man. His heart was not cold and clammy but warm and true. He was not afraid his salary would not be paid if the church and Sunday-school began to give, and he vigorously pressed the orphanage work and joyfully welcomed the orphanage representatives.

Now that Sunday-school gives joyfully, regularly and liberally, and the church feels that the orphanage is their very own and that the orphans are their brothers and sisters. Instead of a burden the orphanage has become the object of their love and care.

The difference is this: Then there had a pastor who did not care anything about the orphanage; now they have a pastor who loves it and who wants his people to love it too.

So the difference is simply that one of these pastors had a vision and the other had not.—Charity and Children.

FOR EMERGENCY USE

Every well regulated family should keep on hand a jar of Mentholatum.

Its uses are various, because it is an excellent antiseptic and germicide and also a delicate counter irritant—just the thing needed for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chapped skin, insect bites and stings.

Mentholatum is a combination of volatile aromatic oils with a heavier base. In the case of scalds and burns the heavy base keeps out the air, a very necessary condition.

The lighter aromatic oils disinfect the surface and protect it from infection from without.

The lighter oils also set up a delicate counter irritation which seems to draw the soreness out of the injured part, reducing the inflammation and encouraging rapid recovery.

For this reason it is very much used for colds, sore throat, catarrh, cold sores and croup. Adv.

An Exclusive Southern Industry

The State of North Carolina can boast of at least one exclusive Southern industry—the production of blue marble. The Regal Marble Company's quarries, at Regal, N. C., being one of the few producers in the western hemisphere of this valued stone. The Regal Company's product is known as Regal Blue and is characterized by a deep blue color and an exclusively compact texture, which accounts for the remarkable weather resisting properties of this marble. Government tests show its water absorption to be only .0035, meaning that so little moisture penetrates that frost can do no damage.

Frost is the natural enemy of exposed marble monuments and eventually destroys those of coarse grain. The Regal Company have a very complete finishing plant at the quarries where natural Regal Blue is sawed, turned, cut, sanded, polished, etc. Only American workmen are employed. Adv.

ERUPTIONS CAN BE STOPPED

By internal blood purifiers because they are caused by blood disorders. However, Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Itch, Scaly Patches, etc., cannot because they are parasitic skin diseases. It takes a positive skin remedy like Tetterine to destroy the germs and heal the surface. Dr. W. S. OUR DEAD

Barnes

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father in His all wise providence to remove from our number our much loved and highly esteemed member, Mrs. W. H. Barnes, therefore be it resolved by the members of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Christian church, Suffolk, Va.:

1st. That we bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well.

2nd. That our Society has lost a faithful member, one we will ever cherish in our memory as having always with such sweet willingness performed her duty.

3rd. That while we most sincerely mourn her departure we realize our loss is her gain and extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, bidding them look forward to the time when they shall meet their loved one.

4th. That in the death of Sister Barnes our society has lost a valuable member and her family a most devoted wife and mother.

5th. That a copy be sent to the family, one spread upon the minutes of the society and one sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

HOW SHIVAR MINERAL WATER RELIEVES RHEUMATISM

According to the standard medical books, Rheumatism is not a germ disease but is the result of imperfect nutrition. The food is either imperfectly digested or imperfectly assimilated. Poisons accumulate and these irritate and inflame the delicate linings of the joints, the heart and other organs. To cure Rheumatism it is therefore necessary to stop the formation of these poisons and get rid of those already formed.

The celebrated Shivar Mineral Water acts on the stomach and kidneys. It corrects the digestion and washes out the poisons through the kidneys. This is the opinion of physicians who prescribe it. If you suffer with rheumatism, dyspepsia, indigestion, gall stones, disease of the kidneys, bladder or liver, uric acid poisoning, or any condition due to impure blood read the following letter, then sign it, enclose the amount and mail it. Only two out of a hundred on the average, report no benefit.

Shivar Spring,
Box 9M, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

THE TROUBLE IS NOT INSIDE

The myriads of parasitic germs which cause Tetter, Eczema, Ringworm, Itch, Acne, Salt Rheum, etc., cannot be killed internally. They live and feed on the surface and must there be treated. Tetterine is the common sense treatment that has scientific principles to back it up. E. A. Kennedy, druggist of Brookline, Fla., says: "Tetterine has cured quickly and permanently several stubborn cases of tetter that came under my personal knowledge. Use of 15 years standing." 50c at druggists' or by mail from Shurtzine Co., Savannah, Ga. Ad.

NO. 41

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Christianity and Education

Culture follows the cross; learning is the gift of the gospel. In this country there is a college for every 200,000 of the population; in China one for every 50,000,000. "In him was life; and the life was the light of men." (John 1:4.)

This Way

As we rush on our hurried way good William Penn's words are worth recalling now and then, "I expect to pass through this life but once. If there is any kindness or any good thing I can do to my fellow beings let me do it now. I shall pass this way but once." Thus another also wrote: "The world passeth away; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." (1 John 2:17.)

Multiplication by Division

Some regard Christianity as a set of rules which encourage certain virtues and discourage certain vices. This is a part, but not all. According to the example and teaching of its Founder, Christianity is a scheme whose very essence is the sharing of one's best with others. Christ simply gave Himself, the best He had, for the benefit and blessing of others about Him. And in this He found the essence of living and the very soul of all joy and happiness. When one shares one's best with others one gets the best life has for him. The fountain of life is inexhaustible, if touched at its source.

A Valuable Tree

There is a single tree, an avocado (or alligator pear) at Whittier, California, on which the owner carries $30,000 (life) insurance. The annual crop of fruit, and buds for propagation, are of such great value that the greatest care and precaution are exercised for its life and well fare. And yet there is a Tree with whose fruits and buds, this one is not to be compared in value and real worth. Even the leaves of this Tree are beyond comparison. John tells of it: "In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bore twelve manner of fruits, and yielded fruits every month; and the leaves of the trees are for the healing of the nations." (Rev. 22:2.)

Giving or Relinquishing

Quoting an exchange: "So Mr. Jones gave $5,000 to missions at his death did he?" was asked of a minister the other day. The answer was, "I did not say he gave it, but he left it; perhaps I should more explicitly have said that he relinquished it, because he could no longer hold it." One does not give away anything of one's death. One leaves it because one can no longer hold. That is all. "For when he dieth he shall carry nothing away; his glory shall not descend after him." (Psa. 49:17.)

Filling the Gaps

As the soldiers fall at the front others have to be mustered in to fill the broken and shattered ranks. It appears established that the Germans have to send up 300,000 recruits from her depots every month to fill up the gaps made by shot and shrapnel. Feeding that many able bodied men to the hungry demon of war is the height of human folly and madness. Pity those who must answer, at the judgment bar of God, for the responsibility of this unpardonable murder and massacre.

Misplaced Sympathy

Some one has written that one will be more concerned about the loss of one half inch of one's little finger than about the fact that ten thousand people in a region far away are dying of starvation; or that a million bodies in far off India, for instance, will lie down on dirt floors tonight emaciated and hungry from want of food. Sympathy to be sincere and genuine must be cosmopolitan—world-wide. Millions are perishing for the bare necessitate of life, not because climate is cruel or nature is niggardly, but because men do not serve and worship Jehovah. "Honor the Lord with thy substance; so shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine." (Prov. 3:9, 10.)

Sources of Authorship

There are twenty-seven books of the New Testament. Of this number, it has been pointed out, more than half were written by missionaries while engaged in missionary work. Thirteen of the number, ascribed to Paul, were written out of a missionary's experience and about conditions among missionary churches. The book of Acts, devoted largely to an account of Paul's life, is missionary in tone, manner, and method of treatment. "Fourteen of the twenty-seven books of the New Testament present chiefly the ideas and the work of one missionary." Revelation, as were the general epistles, was written to meet missionary situations. And the greatest books of our own time are missionary books.

Woman Suffrage

SUN readers may not be aware that woman suffrage, as a "movement" is quite popular and is rapidly spreading. The States that now have complete woman suffrage are: Washington, Oregon, Nevada, California, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas. States having partial woman suffrage are New Mexico, Oklahoma, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin,

Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Louisiana, Mississippi. The question is to be voted on in Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania the next three weeks. The sisters have about made up their minds that they want to vote, and they usually get what they have a mind to. As thus far tried the ballot has been safe in her hands, and no State one adopting it has revoked it. "The Lord hath created a new thing in the earth, A woman shall compass a man." (Jer. 31:22)

Cutting Off the Appendix

A while ago a missionary bishop felt the need of a catechism for the use of new converts in his missionary field. There were several other denominations than the bishop's which were doing missionary work in the same province. So the bishop called a meeting of all the missionaries in his district and it was decided to make a union catechism. Everything on which the missionaries agreed denominationally was to be put into the body of the catechism, and that wherein they disagreed was to be put in the appendix to the book. When the book was published all were struck with the strength of the catechism, and with the weakness of the appendix. It was decided that the book had appendicitis and should be carried to the operating table. That explains why they have a union catechism in mission fields and sectarian catechisms in Christian lands. Is it not time for Christianity to have a similar surgical operation in all lands? The strength and beauty of our religion is that wherein all Christians agree; its weakness is that wherein they disagree. "Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." (John 17:11.)

An Advertisement

A reporter on a current journal relates an experience he had recently that had pathos and human interest. He was looking over the "Situation wanted" advertisement column when he saw two applicants for different sorts of work both giving the same address. One was willing, read the advertisement, "to do any kind of clerical work," the other wished "to do fine laundry work." Being curious, the reporter investigated. The one who was willing to do any kind of clerical work was a worn out minister of the gospel—feeble now and unable to keep up pulpit and pastoral duties. The other, who would be glad to take in laundry work, was the minister's wife. The exchange that relates the reporters findings comments thus: "There is little that is peculiar about the case except that it came to light. Thousands of other old ministers and their wives either suffer in silence or become dependents upon some form of more or less grudging charity." This, if true, is indeed a sad comment, not on the ministry, but on an evil and perverse generation. For the minister devotes his life to the happiness, help, welfare of others. "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. The laborer is worthy of his reward. (1 Tim. 5:18.)

A CHURCH PROGRAM

Little is accomplished where little is planned or little expected. One great reason why the church does not accomplish more is because it does not plan more—it does not at any time mark out for itself a definite and specific program.

Christian Endeavor owes a large part of its success and achievement to the fact that every two years, in international assembly, it decides upon some definite goal to be achieved within the next two years. Its general lines of work are looked to and emphasized; but prominent above these stands some objective. And this objective is usually attained.

This great principle could be carried, to great advantage, not only into the annual conferences of the churches, but into the local churches themselves.

If a Conference, for example, should decide with unanimity and fervor, that its membership must be increased by the addition of at least two churches the year who doubts but that the objective could be reached? Or, if there were enthusiastic endeavor and united interest in the determination to increase the contributions from the churches by at least 10 per cent in any single year, who would doubt but that this very thing would be easily achieved? Or, if Conference were to decide, with prayer and consecration that the membership to the churches must be increased by five or ten per cent during the year, and all would agree to plan and pray for the attainment of that objective, who would doubt its attainment.

Do Conferences not need to plan a program that will last through the year, and will keep some definite object in view as the months of the year come and go?

A person plans his business if he does much. The architect plans his building, if he accomplishes anything in building. Why should a church not lay out some definite scheme for it to work by and towards as the weeks and months come and go. We need to plan more for the extension of the kingdom and then we need to work our plans more and better.

REIDSVILLE

We shall have to number Rev. L. I. Cox as one of the most capable, efficient and successful church builders in all our brotherhood. He combines personal piety, persistent push, and tireless energy with great discretion and fine business judgment in a most marked manner; and simply brings wonders to pass when it comes to organizing a Christian church and erecting a house of worship. His Reidsville effort is the fourth in this line, and bids fair to surpass all previous records, though any minister with either to his credit could certainly indulge a pardonable pride.

With the opportunity of visiting Reidsville only once a month now for two years, and with other churches and many other duties to look after Bro. Cox has some how been able to gather about him a loyal and an enthusiastic band of workers, and erect a handsome brick building for about twelve thousand dollars which would have cost many builders three or four thousand dollars more than that sum. How this man has done so much with such capital, and within such limited scope passes our understanding and challenges our highest admiration. Truly the wisdom of God has guided from the beginning in this great undertaking.

The main auditorium, now completed, and opened for service for the first time last Sunday, will easily accommodate two hundred and fifty persons. There is a gallery that will seat fifty more. There are cloak rooms, Sunday-school rooms, and a basement yet to be finished that will be invaluable, and add much to the comfort and convenience of the church. There is a pool beneath the rear of the pulpit, and a large elevation for choir and organ. The windows are of ample and beautiful cathedral design and the structure is one that bespeaks permanence, stability and reverence everywhere. The finest taste has been displayed from floor to arched roof, and the structure is one of the most appropriate and inviting that we have worshipped in in many a day.

If every one who has made a pledge to the Reidsville church could see the building that has been erected, and realize now the need of immediate funds, the treasury of the church would be full. This is one of the very best investments we have made in years, and all who have invested a dollar in the church must be proud of the same now.

The Sundays' congregations were immense enthusiastic and exceedingly promising. Our Reidsville church serves a constituency and a locality not reached by any other church in the city. And the outlook for a large and growing membership is bright indeed. The need now is for funds to pay off indebtedness and help complete furnishing the building.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Let's make the Conferences this Fall the best yet, and let's make them count for something definite.

—President Wilson, and President Hibben of Princeton University, have both declared themselves in favor of woman suffrage.

—The Conference calendar is printed every week on page 2, column one of THE SUN now and none should overlook the dates and place of meeting. Prepare to attend your annual Conference.

—The war in Europe affects us all in one way or another. The price of quinine has increased from 26c to $1.00 per ounce in this country because Continental and London makers control the market.

—The British casualties in trying to force the Dardanelles totals 96,899 officers and men. That is slaughter. There was never displayed among men such wanton and unpardonable madness as in this European horror.

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne is this week and next engaged in evangelistic meetings in his home church at Dover, Delaware, and greatly desires the prayers of his friends for the arduous and important work he is engaged in there.

—Rev. S. B. Klapp, Greensboro, N. C., has resigned two of his churches and is open to a call from one or two churches needing a pastor. Bro. Klapp has been a faithful and effectual pastor for twenty-five years, and is full of loyalty, energy and power. He should be engaged for all his time next year, as he was this year.

—Pres. W. A. Harper on his recent tour North, spoke morning and evening in the First Congregational church, Rev. Frank S. Child, pastor, Fairfield, Conn., Sunday, Oct. 10. Pres. Harper reported most delightful fellowship in the home of Dr. Child, also in the homes of Dr. Martyn Summerbell, Lakemont, N. Y.; and Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, Dover, Del.

—Rev. W. L. Wells, pastor of our Durham church which entertains the N. C. & Va. Conference Nov. 23, 24, 24, writes, "We are looking forward to Conference with a great deal of pleasure and expectation of much profit to ourselves." The Conference will be well cared for in Durham, and delegates from all churches should prepare to attend.

—Foot-ball under "improved rules" is not quite as fatal they tell us as formerly, but nevertheless one sees it like this in the morning paper ever now and then: "Decatur, Ga., Oct. 12, Davis Chambers 17 years old, half-back of the local high school football team, was killed here late today in a game with Marist College of Atlanta."

—Last Sunday was rally day in church and Sunday school with Washington Street Christian church, Portsmouth, Va. One hundred and forty-six were present at the Sunday school and one hundred and seventy four at the regular preaching service. A voluntary offering of $235 was taken for the building fund of the church and much is to be added to this during the present week.

—Our thanks are expressed for this pleasant reminder, "Mr. and Mrs. William Wood Ellis announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Nancy Wood Webb to Mr. Rosser Beale West, on Saturday, Oct. 16, 1915, Roanoke, Va." Mr. Rosser West was once a student in Elon College and is a son of Bro. R. T. West, Waverly, Va. We congratulate him on his happy event. They are to reside in Newport News where Mr. West has a responsible position.

—Being crowded from last issue, it is not too late to report a very fruitful and helpful revival recently held by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Peel, in Sanford Christian church. Bro. Peel was assisted by Rev. H. Shelton Smith, Elon College, and the meetings grew in interest throughout. The house was filled to its capacity the last night of the meeting. There were thirty or more confessions and eight united with the church at the close of the meeting.

—Rev. J. W. Holt was unanimously reelected to serve as pastor at Bethlehem, Alamance, another year and has accepted. Bro. Holt is to serve the same field next year as this. The Ladies' Aid Society at Bethlehem sprung a glad surprise on the church last Sunday when it presented the church with a handsome individual communion service. All the churches will have these after awhile. Even the railroads furnish individual drinking cups now—and a church should certainly be as cleanly and as decent as a railway corporation.

—Dr. Geo. W. Long, a prominent physician of Graham, N. C., died in a hospital at Statesville Saturday p. m., Oct. 17. Dr. Long had been in failing health for some years and had undergone operations in Salisbury and Baltimore hospitals. He was 67 years old, and was a brother of Revs. W. S. and D. A. Long, D.D., and of Mrs. Clendennin of Graham, also of Attorney J. A. Long, Graham, and Judge B. F. Long of Statesville. The funeral was conducted from the First Presbyterian church, Statesville, Sunday p. m., Oct. 17, and the interment was in the cemetery there. He was a beloved physician and a splendid Christian gentleman.

—'Tis said that even Homer nodded. So, for even the classic editorials of the esteemed Charlotte Observer allow an occasional infraction of grammar. Recently this appeared: "We have been after him to tell who the Republican Gov. of North Carolina looks like." This reminds us. When the writer was a small boy—just a few years ago—he heard a colored boy say to a small white lad, "Say, little boy, yonder comes the bad man." Quick as a flash the informed lad replied, "You look like he yourself." We thought the boy's wit was better than his grammar, but presto, the Observer's grammar would lead us to believe the lad's English was as perfect as his wit. But the lingo is to be allowed for in newspaper grammar always.

—There are 7,152 saloons in Chicago, and they have been running wide open day and night, Sunday and week days, until Mayor Thompson of the city fished up a law on the statute-books which enabled him to have a "dry" town once a week. So two weeks ago the mayor ordered all saloons closed for Sunday. On the first "close" Sunday 28 violations were reported and on the next Sunday 52 violations. No arrests for drunkenness were made on the first closed Sunday and only seven the second. Fewer arrests than Chicago has seen in a decade. Yet the saloon men are "some" mad because a narrow minded mayor is trying to deprive them of their rights. The way of liquor is wondrous, and a saloon man's long suit is "liberty."

SUFFOLK LETTER

"Christian Citizenship" is a phrase that has been uttered by many politicians in recent years in their public addresses. This indicates that our public men are realizing, as never before, the importance of Christian character in the citizen. It does even more: it shows that public men have improved in this respect themselves. More and more it appears that moral integrity is the most valuable quality in public men. We are recovering from the moral depravity of the Civil war. There is no doubt that the lowest order of public men in office in this country controlled after the Civil war. In State and nation spoils seemed to tempt men to office and in office. Fortunes were made by unjust legislation. Men went into office by unjust elections. War corrupts society as well as burdens society with debt. The pension expense, the maimed men, the helpless widows, the wrecked manhood, the ruined fortunes, all lie in the wake of that fraternal butchery.

But it is time now to produce a generation of Christian citizens. We have one in the White House and there are millions more who support his Christian policies. But what is a Christian citizen? Among the Jews no one was a citizen at all unless he was a Jew. A Gentile could not be a citizen of the Jew commonwealth. And every Jew was in the church. He was dedicated to God in his infancy and trained in the doctrines of the church and the laws that governed the people. Applying that principle in Biblical history a Christian citizen must first be a Christian; and when those who shape the policy and direct the affairs of the nation become really Christian men, we may call it a Christian nation. It is only partially so at the present time. One sign of improvement is in the anti-saloon sentiment that has won eighteen states and promises to win all of them. Another sign is the prohibition of obscene literature and bogus financial propositions, that deceive the people, from the mails. The Post Office department has rendered great moral help to the reformers in this field of public service. Railroads treat passengers as guests and provide for their comfort and safety under the sanction of the law. The White House is already a model home for the nation. To be sure there is much that is sinful and criminal in American society and in official circles; but improvement makes the black spots show plainer. Optimism is in the air and a higher sense of honor is in the national heart. It is the unattained that lures us on and makes us strive, hopefully, for the best in Christian citizenship. But the church must lead in this great work or lose its power. The church must produce the Christian and then the State can develop the Christian citizen. Just what contribution woman's suffrage will make to citizenship can only be a conjecture; but that human society has advanced in the best thing. One thing can be safely said, and that is, that human social has advanced in the best things as woman has advanced toward equality with man. The backward and benighted nations and races are those where woman has few rights. The gospel accords the same rights and privileges to woman as to man. Equality is both Biblical and democratic. Movements like tides wait for no man. Even reason fails before the march of movements.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Mr. H. M. Neese, a former student of the College, was a welcome visitor here Sunday evening.

The efficient College janitor, Mr. J. W. Morton, of Burlington, has moved his family to the Herndon house.

Miss Juanita Hammer of High Point visited friends here Saturday until Monday morning.

Mrs. T. W. Chandler, who has been visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Watson, has returned to her home in Virginia, Va. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Annie Watson.

Misses Minnie and Lessie Phillips and Miss Johnnie Oliver, of Winston-Salem, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Womble.

The College was favored Thursday with a visit from Mr. Karl Lehmann, Field Secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society. He spoke to the student body from 10:50 to 12:00 on "What the Christian Endeavor Stands For, its Purpose and its Teachings." At 3:00 p. m., he spoke to the Cabinet, giving it helpful instruction as to how to make our society better. We are always glad to have Mr. Lehmann with us, for he always brings a message of genuine uplift to us all.

We are glad to report Mrs. D. W. Brown and son, who have been sick, much better at this writing.

Dr. A. B. Kendall of Burlington, was in the village Monday.

President Harper is attending the Georgia and Alabama Conferences, as is also Mr. R. H.

McCauley, in the interest of the Publishing House. "X."

CHURCH NEWS

Amelia

We began our meeting here on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in July. Bro. Lonnie Banks came to us on Monday and did most of the preaching until the close of the meeting on Friday. Bro. Banks was pastor of this church for a number of years and the people were indeed glad to have him, and received the strong messages joyfully. About twenty professed faith in Christ, and seventeen joined the church.

Christian Chapel

This large building was blown down about the 10th of May. We continued the work as best we could until the farmers were about through with the cultivation of their crops in July. Our dear brethren of the Puckhorn Methodist church very kindly offered us their house to worship in until we could rebuild. But after meeting with them once we decided "because of convenience" to meet under shelter in our grove. On July 12th we began to rebuild and on Saturday, August 9th, we began our meeting in the new house, and it was, except the painting, almost completed. Rev. Neal Rowland came on Sunday and did most of the preaching in his strong, earnest way. He was at his best. God wonderfully blessed us with the best meeting it has been my pleasure to attend I think. There were about fifty or more professions, with twenty-two accessions to this church, and many joined elsewhere. Strong men who had lived long in sin were converted and joined the church.

Bethel

Bethel is a very weak church, real close to Collins Grove Baptist church. The two churches decided to hold meetings together. Rev. Cad Norris is the Baptist pastor, and he is a fine, sweet spirited, hard worker, and an earnest preacher of the Gospel. God gave us a glorious meeting. About 35 publicly professed Christ and the churches were greatly revived. Bethel had only 11 members before this; now she has 45, with more to join at next meeting.

Garner (Hays Chapel)

We continued our meeting here from the first Sunday in September. Rev. J. Lee Johnson was with us here from Monday until the close, Friday night, and did the preaching to the glory of God. The people of Garner were well pleased and greatly revived. The Methodist and Baptist worked with us and the little town of Garner was stirred as it has not been in some time. About 30 professions, with 12 to unite with the Christian church and several with the other churches are some of the visible results.

For the work here and elsewhere, we thank the dear brethren and friends who have helped us, and ask them and all to join with us in giving God all the praise that all the glory may be His. J. E. FRANKS.

Cary, N. C.

NOTICE

Those intending to attend the Eastern N. C. Conference will notify J. W. Neighbors. Failure to do so might result in failure to be met and to be assigned a home. Only two trains will be met unless special request is made. They are: From Selma, arriving at Benson about 3:30 p. m., and from Fayetteville, arriving at Benson about 1:00 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 10, 1915. For information address, J. W. Neighbors, Benson, N. THIRD CHRISTIAN CHURCH, NORFOLK, VA.

I am writing as the pastor of the Third Church, for, after much prayer and consideration of the matter, the resignation which was sent in a few weeks ago has been recalled and we are settled to begin the third conference year's work under my administration. Despite the feeling that has always pressed itself upon me that my special work is in the field of evangelism, I am now convinced that here is the place where God wants me for the time being at least. There is no greater field for a sane program of evangelism than the pastorate. There is a great opportunity for the carrying forth of such a program in this city and community of 125,000 souls and it is our purpose to press forward the kingdom's interests as a pastor here until we are convinced that our work is more nearly completed in the present field and the call more definite for the general work as an evangelist.

Wednesday evening last the annual meeting of the congregation was held and the reports showed splendid work by all departments of the church. There have been received into the membership of the Church during the last conference year, 38 people and after all losses have been deducted the record shows the Church to have a membership of 194 at present. A small membership, but one made up of the finest people on earth! Earnest, consecrated, liberal!

This little band of people decided last year before the annual conference to cease sponging on the Conference Mission Boards and entirely pay their own way. (Well the word "sponging" in this case is an unjust term but I use it to call attention to the fact that a good many churches do "sponge" when in reality they are able to care for themselves.) They requested the conference Boards not to offer them any more money for expenses. Beside this they decided they wanted a representative in the foreign field and consequently Miss Olive G. Williams is doing a great work assisting Brother and Sister Barrett in Porto Rico. Then again they thought their poor preacher was not getting enough so they raised his salary from $1200 to $1500. All these things together increased the current obligations about $1100 per year. That is a big, sudden step up and yet, despite it all, the reports at the annual meeting showed a balance in the combined Treasuries of nearly $370 after all bills, including conference assessments, were paid. All this and I have never heard a word said about money during my whole administration (for the preacher is not called upon for one minute of his valuable time for the temporal affairs of the congregation). To my mind these things are unusual for a small church. It argues, also a deep spirituality, for my observation has been that liberal souls are usually spiritually fat souls.

But there is a task ahead we have not tackled as yet. That is the building of a much needed church edifice. The community and the demands of the work call for a new building very soon. Just let us say, we are going in for it soon and get it if there is enough power within our concerted strength to bring it to pass.

The Sunday school now has an enrollment of 253. The Christian Endeavor has been reorganized and Miss Lucille Bowden is the President. A rally week of services has been held with great profit. We had a program by the Women's societies of the church and another by the Young People, a sermon by Dr. W. H. Denison, two sermons by Dr. W. W. Staley and one from Rev. B. F. Black all of which were inspiring. This week of services followed a "House to House" visitation of the entire community.

The Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with us the first week in November and we are glad they are coming.

Add the Third Church and her enterprises to your prayer lists and we will greatly appreciate it!

Next week I will tell you something of interest about the work of our other churches in Tidewater.

GEO. W. EASTES.

GREENSBORO LETTER

We have just closed a very successful revival which began on the last Sunday in September and closed last night, October 10th.

The interest was good from the beginning. The first Sunday in October was Rally Day in the Sunday school and coming in the midst of the meeting it was decided to make it also a Decision Day. Our superintendent, deacon, Chas. A. Hines, had arranged a good programme with special music and short talks for the opening exercises. His talk was good and showed a deep and abiding interest in the welfare of the school and his appeal to the school for decisions for Christ was a strong one. The teachers were urged to present the matter to their classes in an earnest and prayerful way which was done with some very happy results.

In the closing moments of the school with the decisions then and there made and those reported by teachers in their classes, some twelve or fifteen confessed Christ. The morning preaching services opened with the closing service of the Sunday school without a break. It was a great service. The congregation was large and attentive. A deep reverence and seriousness seemed to pervade the entire audience. The music was good, and deeply spiritual. We used the good old hymns that our mothers and fathers used to sing; and ere that morning service closed, others came forward confessing Christ and strong men here and there in the audience wept like children, and a shout of joy went up to God. As the audience went out there were those who said, "I never saw it here this way before." It carries me back to the old home church." The Sunday school report showed fourteen more present that day in Sunday school than at any time in the history of the church.

The weather was inclement most of the time—so much rain—but the meeting went on with several conversions during the week and closed last night with a good service. There were three professions, I think, yesterday morning and eight last night. Ten joined the church yesterday morning. We have announced to open the doors of the church next Sunday morning at which time the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

The daily papers of the city gave good reports of the meeting from time to time. This morning's paper said there had been thirty professions during the meeting and spoke very complimentary of the services. To God we give thanks for blessings bestowed and take courage for greater things.

P. H. FLEMING.

NOTICE!

On Friday after the Conference closes at Enigma, we are going to have the Masons lay the corner stone of our new church at Ambrose, Ga. We want many of the ministers and delegates to go by and enjoy the day with us. There will be dinner on the ground. We hope to have church completed by that time.

H. W. ELDER, Pastor.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To the Ministers of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference

Please send to me at the earliest date possible the name and address of the woman who is at the head of the missionary activity in your church.

If there is no missionary activity among the women of your church please send me the name of some woman who might be interested in the work.

Thanking you for a prompt reply,

JESSIE MASSEY,
Supt. Lit. and Mite Box Dept., E. N. C. Conf.

NOTICE TO DELEGATES

The ninety-fifth annual session of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference will convene November 2 with the Third Christian Church, corner of thirty-fourth street and Lewellyn avenue, Norfolk, Va., and remain in session until Friday afternoon, November fifth. Notice is hereby given to all who expect to attend this gathering, both delegates and visitors, to please send in their names and tell what train they expect to arrive in the city on and how long they will remain at the Conference. It is very important that all write at once, giving this information, so that the various committees on entertainment may get their work in systematic form. A neglect of this duty on your part will seriously handicap the work of the church entertaining the Conference. So please govern yourselves accordingly. Yours for service in the Master's work, Address,

J. H. BLANCHARD,
Chairman Entertainment Committee.

MEMORIAL CHRISTIAN TEMPLE

The annual business meeting of the church revealed the following facts as the year closed September 30: That 68 new members have been received this year there being 414 names now on roll. Seven members died during the year. The Sunday school average attendance for the year was 254. There were more than 1200 lessons studied by more than 100 members of the Home Department and there are over 80 babies on the Cradle roll. At Promotion Day Services in the Sunday school 110 were promoted from one grade to a higher one. 61 have earned a place on the Honor Roll of the school.

The church has given $1,357 for benevolences this year or an average of $3.28 per capita for all names on the roll at the close of the year, including non-residents and inactive members. This does not include many private benevolent gifts that have not gone thru the church treasury. It needs not be said that the church will have its full apportionment for Conference. A building fund has been started for the purpose of new addition to Sunday school building and $5,600 have been subscribed and over $600 has already been paid in before the sketches and plans are completed. The church has just increased the pastor's salary $300. Nineteen completed the First Standard Teacher Training course during the year and six have taken the Christian Endeavor Expert work graduating in it. A large class has just been started in that now for the new year. The every-member canvass has just been made with good results for the new year. Twenty-two men did the canvassing. A new deacon was elected. The choice fell upon James Howard Craig. The current expenses for the church year were $1,922.

REPORT OF OUR FIELD SECRETARY FOR SEPTEMBER

I am just home from High Point. I organized a Young People's Society there with fifteen members and feel that they have started well, as they have several that are so interested. President, Miss Hartie Glass, High Point, N. C.; Vice-President, Mrs. L. R. Gibson, High Point, N. C.; Secretary, Miss Treva Ward, High Point, N. C.; Treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Whitt, High Point, N. C.; Superintendent of Literature, Mrs. B. P. Moffitt, High Point, N. C. I think four of these are married women; but they thought best to start with this and perhaps later they could have the Woman's Society. The second Sunday we organized a Woman's H. & F. M. Society at New Lebanon, Rockingham county, with twenty members. President, Mrs. W. G. Sharp, Wentworth, N. C.; Vice-President, Miss Ellen Sharp, Summerfield, N. C.; Secretary, Miss Laura Sharp, Wentworth, N. C.; Treasurer, Miss Florence Sharp, Summerfield, N. C. The third Sunday we organized a Young People's Society, with nine members and Willing Workers with seven members at Bethlehem, Alamance county. President, Miss Fannie Paschal; Vice-President, Miss Bessie Smith; Secretary, Miss Annie Rippy; Treasurer, Miss Nora Keek, all of Altamahaw, N. C. The young people were to see that the Willing Workers had a leader but if they did not get some Mrs. L. D. Rippy will have charge. I did not have an appointment for the fourth Sunday, so went to Graham. I am not sure that they will do anything down there, but at Providence we have a Ladies Aid, so we thought we could not have two and will give half our dues to missions. We have sixteen good members and several others that will perhaps pay a part of their dues. We have a Mite Box society with fourteen members and will have our mite box opening the 4th Sunday. I do not feel that I am doing the work that I should do, nor can I do the work I want to do with out the hearty co-operation of our ministers. I do not know why some of them have not responded. I feel a delicacy in writing so many times. I find that no one where I have been takes the Christian Missionary and very few THE CHRISTIAN SUN, so they depend on their pastors entirely to tell them what we are doing along missionary lines. I have a letter from Mrs. Foust and hope to spend a month in and near Ramseur. I want to recommend that our pastors be asked to preach at least one missionary sermon a year to each church. Yours in the Master's service,

ANNIE WILLIAMS, Sec.

MISSIONS

Some Things God is Guiding in Today.

The blessed assurance that God is with us is more to the Christian than anything on earth. All fear of defeat vanishes when we know he is in our hearts. The Bible societies, thirty in number, are the result of God's guidance. Every country in the world except Tibet, Afghanistan, and some of the north African countries are open to the circulation of the Bible. It has been translated into 500 different languages; and this is the book which a little over a century ago Voltaire said would be extinct in a hundred years. Has it come true? The out-put is a hundred and twenty times that of a century ago. Twenty-five years ago Ingersoll predicted that in 25 years the Bible would not be read, but today the Bible is the most read book in existence. If we receive and obey its teachings we will become as the Word itself. In this God is guiding the people of the world into His Word.

The last few years have witnessed remarkable changes in China. After the adoption of many western customs, comes the respect for the missionaries, and it is said, that not for centuries has the Orient been so interesting as it is today. Men and women being guided by God have brought health and happiness to these dark lands. Just try to imagine what a blessing hospitals, and doctors and nurses have been to these people, by teaching them the laws of health in these lands of plague and pestilences. His love has lifted women from a condition of utter degradation and is training a new generation of Christian mothers who are trying to uplift the social life. The religion of the Lord Jesus Christ is getting among the officials. Following the example of President Wilson, China had a day of prayer for Europe, services which many officials attended, and one said, "God is not far off. He is near at all times." For centuries the Chinaman has sold and traded every day in one of the busy streets of Peking. Today there is a sign hung out, "Today is worship day." The missionary is able to go to cities where a few years ago they would have driven him away. India today is in a state of great spiritual unrest. Schools are being opened all over the empire. Old faiths with their superstitions are losing grip and the children are gaining a modern education. As a result, many are turning to Christianity and there is a challenge to the entire church today. God is still urging His helpers to go out in the highways and compel them to come in. Visitors at the World's Fair in California are urged to visit the Mission there and give the workers a lift. A committee on one hundred and twenty automobiles are on different corners every night telling of God and His wonderful guidance in our home lands in the Western States. There is a great field for work. Hundreds of districts that have no religious work or workers await the reaping of God's harvesters. What must be the future of our country, unless God guides some one to give those boys and girls the Christian instruction and training? It is sad that these districts have been neglected so long.

There is a call today from the mission fields at home and abroad, for more consecrated men and women that are being guided by God and wholly given to Him. One hindrance, and a great one, to foreign missionaries, is the Christian at home. Statistics show that that end is kept up by just 20 per cent of the members of the Christian church. What Christian men and women have done thru the guidance of the Holy Spirit, can never be told. Were it possible for our minds to realize the immensity of it, language would fail us. Yet God is calling us, for there is more work to be done ere the Lord comes, and he wants each to have a share in it. The harvest truly is great but the laborers are few. Do we realize that our lives, our influences, our feeble lights, may be guiding some one to God? And if we refuse to let our light shine we may be held accountable for the loss of that soul. The poet says,—

"Some one is groping his way to God,

Someone is looking to you.
Following on where your feet have trod,

Someone is looking to you."
So don't imagine our lives don't count, but let God have his way with us, and He will guide us to see that nothing is too hard for us to do, if we go in His name.

PLEASANT GROVE

The meeting at Pleasant Grove began first Sunday in August. Bro. T. E. White and I serve this church jointly. Bro. White was only with us Monday, being recalled by sickness in his home, until he returned to gladden our hearts on Saturday. While results were not what we would like to have seen yet we had a splendid meeting. There were a number of renewals and professions; 8 accessions to the church (and a general revival of church. To God be all the praise.

UNION GROVE

Our meeting began here on the first Sunday in September. Bro. White and Bro. Albright were with us on Monday, on which day Bro. White did the preaching. On Tuesday morning Bro. J. F. Morgan arrived and did the preaching from that time forward. I will not say as I do not know how many professions and renewals there were. 21 were added to the church and the church was greatly revived. Meeting closed on Friday evening with baptismal service by Bro. Morgan. We had a gracious meeting and a good time, for all of which we are thankful to God. May the Lord return Bro. Morgan to us on a like mission in the days that are to come.

PATTERSON'S GROVE

At this place our meeting began on the third Sunday in September. Bro. T. E. White came to us on Monday, and did the preaching which was forceful and effectual. There is a faithful little band here as is to be found anywhere. May the Lord wonderfully bless them in the days that are to follow. There were several conversions, six substantial members added to the church and the church much revived. To God be all glory and praise.

T. J. GREEN.

NEW BETHEL

Our meeting here took place from the first Sunday in August and continued till the following Friday. It was indeed a revival among the Christians. There were a number of reclamations and professions of faith in Christ. Several additions to the church. We were hindered by the heavy rains. We were assisted by Rev. Brothers F. C. Lester and John W. Knight. These brethren rendered faithful service. The brethren here have remodeled their house of worship. This church has some serious disadvantages. Most of its members live so far from the church that it is difficult for them to keep up a good Sunday school and prayer meeting. Since the date of this meeting, Bros. Knight and Lester had a very gracious revival at a school house not far from Mt. Bethel. There were quite a number who professed faith in Christ. We give all praise, glory and honor to our Lord.

Dear Friends:

Only one month till Thanksgiving, when we hope to coin all our love and sympathy for the orphan child into cash and give it as a Thanksgiving offering. The results of this year's offering will depend upon the influence and work of our friends during the next 30 days. We hope that none will fail us; for failure now means defeat through the whole year. On account of the financial depression and the many rainy Sundays following Thanksgiving, our offering last year was $500 less than the year before. This has greatly hindered the work and handicapped us through the year. We are depending upon the pastors, the Sunday school superintendents, and all friends along the line to redouble their efforts this time and make up the loss of last year. We are asking for the proceeds of one day's work or income from every man, woman and child in each of our Southern churches. This looks reasonable and easy and if only complied with will be profitable to the orphanage, the congregation and each individual contributor. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Friends if you want to help the Orphanage now is your time. Please give us one day's work and then induce all your friends and fellow members to do likewise. We need the help of every friend and member of the Southern church. If you will help us in this time of need we will be able to pull out of debt and go on in the good work, but if you fail us now the work will be hindered. Will YOU be a helper or a hinderer?

NEW BETHEL

Sunday in August and continued till the following Friday. Here we had a good meeting; a good number professed faith in Christ, and several united with the church. They have an evergreen Sunday school and a prayer meeting. They are expecting to dedicate their new house of worship at our next appointment. We have resigned at this place as pastor, the distance being so great and the railroad expenses so heavy. I hope God will lead them in securing the right man for their pastor for the coming year. No other minister has ever given this community any attention except the writer. There has been a wonderful change in this community since this church has been planted in it. Men from Mecklenburg and Nash counties have bought up a good deal of the land in the community of this church and have settled on these farms. I hope this place will not be neglected. God bless these churches. Each of them needs more of the spirit of missions. Rev. B. J. Harward assisted us in this meeting and his messages were good for a young man. P. T. KLAPP.

THE DANVILLE MISSION

I had the privilege of spending the most of two weeks with the brethren of this mission and preaching twice a day while I was there. The brethren had arranged to have the services in the open air. They had a seating capacity for about five hundred and had a good pupil stand for the choir and preacher, but in a few days the rains began to fall, and we were forced to go to the school house, which lessened our accommodations very much. Some times the rains were so heavy that very few could get out to the services. We were not only hindered by the frequent rains, but we had to contend with the "No-hellites," the Russellite doctrine, etc., but notwithstanding all this we had a good meeting. There were a good number of confessions and reclamations, and several united with the mission church, and I was impressed that others will soon, some waiting to see what we are going to do. I think this a good opening for us, and I think your money spent at this point will be a good investment. Those of us who subscribed to this mission should turn it in as soon as possible that the work may go on. God bless this mission. P. T. KLAPP.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

- (1) Cream of tartar, derived from grapes;
- (2) Alum, a mineral acid; and
- (3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities that exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white, powdered acid. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the names of the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

A Fee to Tuberculosis
 The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 9, 1914), reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitutive Health," by the authors report numbers of concretions in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."
 Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome. One of the constituents of Eckman's Alternative is calcium (Ca), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a service which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it; but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit forming drugs, a trial is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Jud B. Wood, M. D., D. D. S., late President, Society Prevention Cruelty to Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear what takes place in the office of the Fenticello Lithia Water, and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles, it is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced to use, they then become very enthusiastic. I am convinced that it is the peculiar combination of the alkalis in this water that causes it to act so very promptly on the Kidneys, Skin and Lymphatics, thus relieving the system of accumulated poison. I have great faith in Fenticello Lithia Water, and unhesitatingly recommend it to any one who is suffering with Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Urinary and Kidney affections, Gravel, Stone, the Bladder, Uric Acid, Rheumatism, and Gout."

Fenticello Mineral Water is sold on guarantee. Order for one dozen gallons—price $2.00. If it doesn't benefit you we will refund your money.

MARRIAGES

Hale-Pritchette
 On October seventh, at eight o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Albright, 21 Latham Ave., Atlanta, Ga., was solemnized the marriage of Mr. Benjamin Franklin Hale, of Pineapple, Ala., and Miss Maibelle Clare Pritchette, sister of Mrs. Albright. Rev. A. F. Sherrill of the Central Congregational church, Atlanta, performed the ceremony. Only near relatives and a few friends were present. The bride was becomingly attired in a blue cloth travelling suit with hat and gloves to match. The happy couple left shortly after the ceremony for an extended trip to Florida and will be at home at Camden, Ala., after November first. They were the recipients of lovely gifts of cut glass, silver and hand embroidery. Among the relatives out of town who were present were Mr. C. M. Pritchette, Altamahaw, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pritchette, Greenville, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pritchette, Albany, Ga.

Shropshire-Meadows
 At Salem Chapel, Forsyth county, N. C., Oct. 3, 1915, Miss Fannie Meadows and Mr. R. D. Shropshire, both of Winston-Salem, N. C., were happily united in the holy bonds of wedlock. The ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation. May they enjoy a long and happy life together.

Weldon-Daniel
 Mr. Tullie H. Weldon, a former Elon student and now a successful business man of Henderson, N. C., was married on Sept. 29, 1915, to Miss Esther Clyde Daniel, of McCullers, N. C. Mr. Weldon, accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Cassie Cotten and his sister, Miss Verlie Weldon, also a cousin, Mr. Thomas Evans, came to Raleigh in his car and here was joined by the writer who accompanied the party on the remainder of the trip to McCullers where the marriage was solemnized at 5:30 p. m., at the bride's home. Immediately after the ceremony the party motored back to Raleigh, dined at one of the local hotels and then went to Henderson. Mr. and Mrs. Weldon will reside at their nice country home, the Judd farm, in Franklin county, N. C. This is a very popular young couple and will be useful both in the social and religious life of their community. C. E. NEWMAN.

Furman-King
 On Wednesday, Sept. 8th, 1915, at 2 p. m., in Raleigh, N. C., at the home of bride, 307 W. Johnson street, an impressive home marriage was solemnized. The contracting parties were Mr. John D. Furman, of Hazleton, Indiana, and Miss Mattie King, daughter of Deacon J. M. King. Mr. Furman is an employee of the Norfolk Southern Ry. Co., a member of the Baraca class of the Christian Sunday school and a popular young man. The bride is a faithful member of our church and Sunday school and has a host of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Furman, after a bridal trip of several days will return to Raleigh, where they will permanently reside. May this marriage add to the happiness and usefulness of each, and may they be blest in both material and spiritual blessings.

UNION (SOUTHAMPTON)
 I desire to say a word or two in interest of Union church (Southampton). We have just closed a very successful meeting here.

We began the work with a week of prayer services held each night led by different brethren. Sunday, Sept. 12, we had preaching morning and night. Monday service at 3 p. m., on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday services were held at 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., came to us on Monday and preached at each service. The preaching was in the spirit and with power. His singing was very impressive. As a result we had 30 professions and over 50 reclamations. Twelve persons joined the church on Friday and we expect others to join on Sunday, October 10. I remained over and on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock nine persons were baptized in the river nearby.

Union church has been under pressure and a target for the adversary, but it has taken on new life. Pray for us that God may find a dwelling place in the hearts of the people of Old Union.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
 To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Advt.

OUR DEAD

Hankley

Mrs. Mary Hankley departed this life Sept. 10, 1915, age 68. The cause of her death was malaria. She was a member of Liberty Christian church, (Va.) She was a faithful and serviceable member of the community and of her family and will be missed by both. Her unpretentious life will no doubt long exert an influence for good upon those who knew her best. She leaves a husband, two brothers and one sister.
T. J. GREEN.

Morton

Andrew Jackson Morton, son of James and Frankie Morton, of Franklin county, N. C., was born Oct. 24, 1846; died September 29, 1915, at the home in Franklinton, N. C. He was married three times and is survived by eight sons, one daughter and the companion of his third marriage, whose maiden name was Miss Lillian House. About fifty years ago Brother Morton professed religion and united with Pope's Chapel Christian church, where he remained a faithful member till death.

Adams

Death is sad under any condition, but unusually so was the death of Howard Hobson Adams, son of William A. and Lula Adams of Lee county, N. C., Sept. 10, 1915, aged 16 years, 6 months and 16 days. He went out with his gun and as is supposed, accidentally shot himself, for he never regained consciousness after found. He leaves father, mother, grand-mother, two grand fathers and three sisters to mourn his sad departure. The sorrowing have the sympathy of a host of friends. God bless them.

BETHEL

At my last appointment at Bethel the first Sunday in September, I received and baptized one member. We are expecting everything in shape and to be ready for conference.

Chapel Hill

The second Sunday in September Rev. W. S. Long was present and preached at 11 a. m. and at the close of the sermon I received two new members. We elect our delegates to conference the second Sunday in October.

Our assessments will be ready by Conference.

O'Kelley's Chapel

The third Sunday in September Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., was present and preached. The church received three new members. I baptized these three Sunday evening after preaching.

We are planning to have our assessments ready by conference. We have our last meeting for the conference year in October.

Damascus

We have two more meetings at Damascus before Conference. We are expecting to have our finances in good shape for Conference.

YOU WILL WRITE A LETTER LIKE THIS

I wish that I knew which one of the thousands of letters I receive would have the most weight with you, my friend. I can't quote all of them here, but I am going to ask you to read these carefully and then give me a chance to renew your health and make you write me one very much like them:

701 Barnard Street,

Savannah, Ga. Dec. 28, 1910.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C. Dear Sir: As you are aware in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorder and all its train of horri-fying phenomena for several months. I had tried on milk soft eggs, shelled wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continually, increasing when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

A. L. E. AVANT, M. D.

Leeds, S. C. March 2, 1911

I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time it will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

These are not selected cases nor are he results unusual. I receive thousands like them from physicians, ministers, lawyers, merchants, farmers, manufacturers and every conceivable profession. I want the satisfaction of receiving such a letter from you. No matter what your complaint may be, dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, or any chronic ailment that has not responded to drugs. I invite you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If the water fails to benefit you simply say so, return the empty demijohns and I will promptly and willingly refund your money—every cent. Sign below:

Shivar Spring,
Box 9B, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give, if a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Says Simple Laxative Better than Castor Oil

Case of Chronic Constipation Yields to Mild Laxative Compound

Writing from The House of the Good Shepherd, at Sunnyside Ave., and 50th St., Seattle, where she is the guest of her life-long friend the Reverend Mother, Mrs. Mary Austin, widow of a wealthy San Franciscan, who lost everything in the fire of 1906, says she experienced speedy relief from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and that she found this gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative more effective than several doses of castor oil.

The active principles of certain laxative herbs are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to act on the eliminative organs in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort. Its freedom from opiate or narcotic drug of every description, combined with its gentle action and positive effect, make it the ideal laxative for family use. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

MRS. MARY AUSTIN

should be in every home for use when the occasion arises. A trial bottle free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 473 Washington St., Mouticello, Ill. Adv.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

The Greater Things

It is a very small person and a very narrow mind who cannot see that the things which the churches hold in common are far greater than anything each church holds as its own peculiar possession. Go down deep into the heart of any denomination and there you will find that which all other denominations have and hold also. Only when we come to the exterior, the superficial and the non-essentials do we find that which severs and separates us into sects, schisms and creeds.

Two Definitions

Americans who cannot understand the present upheaval in Europe may call to mind this: "War is godlike," wrote the great Bernhardt, a leader and expounder of German thought. "War is hell," declared Sherman, a great American soldier in terser vein. Being god-like Germany prepared, and took the plunge. Being fearful of sulphur and brimstone Americans took warning and are struggling to maintain peace. The heroes of peace are as daring as the heroes of blood and battle.

The Impossible Realized

The other day a man, using a wireless telephone apparatus, uttered a few words at Arlington, Virginia, and his voice was heard distinctly, even easily recognized, at the Eifel Tower in Paris, across the Atlantic and more than 4,000 miles away. The most daring dreamer of antiquity never prophesied a thing like that. When Marconi declared wireless telegraphy possible he was declared a fool. It was ever thus with the world's discoveries and benefactors. Harvey, who discovered that the blood circulated through the human body was dubbed a "phenomenal crank" and was charged with insanity. Fulton was hooted in derision because he made believe a boat could be driven on water by steam. And as for Robert Morse the inventor of telegraph "he was satirized in the American Congress," a senator in a speech of derision putting him on a par with a local mesmerizer. If one discovers a new idea, or invents a contrivance worth while to man, or departs from the conventional and the traditional, one would better look to one's head. "The Lord's mercies are new every morning." (Lam. 3:23.)

The Severer Test

Christianity in the American spirit has proven its ability to withstand frontier conditions; hardship, slavery, suffering, persecution. The Christianity of America has yet to show whether it can remain virile and vigorous amid wealth, prosperity, ease, leisure, and all the softening influences of so-called civilization, and enlist all these in the promotion of the Kingdom of God. And this is the severer test and greater strain upon the Christianity of America. It was this that shattered mighty Babylon and wrecked the Roman Empire. "Behold, these are the ungodly, who prosper in the world; they increase in riches." (Psa. 73:12.)

War Essential

It was Germany's great warrior and idol of the last century, Von Moltke, who declared that "Permanent peace is a dream and not even a beautiful one. But war is an essential element of God's scheme of the world." Fed on such food, reared to such doctrine, is it any wonder that the Germans are now waging a war which to them is a religious struggle "since war is an essential element in God's scheme." And yet what becomes of the life, labors and teaching of "The Prince of Peace?" Blood letting between nations is no more essential or excusable than it is between individuals. "Whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not even of your lusts? (Jas. 4:1).

Is Disease Denominational?

A recent writer on missions claims that disease is not denominational, and that there is no good reason why its treatment should be. "Medicines, surgical instruments, nursing, hygiene and sanitation have no more relation to sectarian tenets than to the fertilization of orchids." Still the sects act as if disease were denominational, since the various churches have separate and distinct hospitals in heathen countries. Since disease is neither sectarian nor denominational, it is proposed that there be union hospitals and union medical schools in mission fields. There are many other ailments also that are not denominational and might be made a matter of united effort. "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." (Psa. 133:1.)

Thanksgiving

President Woodrow Wilson has issued his proclamation designating "Thursday, the twenty-fifth of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and invites the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God." The people of our country never had more cause for thankfulness and profound gratitude to God. We have remained in peace through a year of storm and strain and strife and bloodshed by other nations; our lands have yielded their bountiful increase, and our markets have been increasingly active with trade and commerce. Schools have flourished and churches have prospered. "Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms." (Psa. 95:2.)

Messages of Peace

The Grand Army of the Republic held a re-union in Washington the other day celebrating the 50th anniversary of the date of their mustering out of service after the civil war. On the last day of the reunion four girls seated together and representing North, East, South and West, let go four doves to bear the peace message of the Army to the monarchs of the world. From the dome of the capitol, as the doves of peace were released a member of the Signal Corps signaled the wireless station at Arlington these words: "Greetings from the U. S. A. R., Washington, D. C., 1915, to the rulers of the nations of the earth, with a hope that peace will come soon and reign forever." Then the wireless operators at Arlington flashed the message through the air to the four points of the compass and to all nations of the earth. It was by wireless messages through the air that Judean shepherds caught the first strains of the grand peace jubilee. "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men." (Luke 2:14.)

A Real Loss

This sentence was picked up from a recent page: "To lose the old, mournful front room (of the home) may be no subject for tears, but the loss of the evening family group, about the fireside or the reading lamp, is a real and sad loss." Loss or not, the family group about the evening lamp or fireside is gone. Electric lights and steam heat make the whole house possible, even on a winter evening, and the family group has scattered. But the real cause is that amusements have been made cheap and easy, and vigorous youth goes out of evenings to see the entertainments, visit the liceum, hear the lectures. The family that once spent most of the twenty-four hours together now spend only seven or eight and that is while they sleep. And yet some one has wisely said, "The family as humanity's great opportunity to walk the way of the cross." Will the loss of family life, the breaking up of the family circle, produce a stronger breed of men and women? Not, indeed, unless the church can overcome the deplorable tendency. "God setteth the solitary in families; he bringeth out those which are bound with chains; but the rebellious dwell in a dry land." (Psa. 68:6.)

—The State Board of Health estimates that 160,000 persons in this State were rendered immune from typhoid fever through vaccination the past summer—partially all free to the individual taking the vaccine. North Carolina has a Board of Health that is giving good account of itself in improving health conditions everywhere.

—The actual number of automobiles in this State is 16,410, which is estimated to be about one for every 28 homes.

THE LINK OF ENSLAVEMENT

The only way for one to be free is to become a slave. Serfdom and subordination are the beginnings of liberty. No man arrives at Liberty Hall save he who goes wearing bonds and fetters.

But the Master that sets the prisoner free and gives liberty to the oppressed is a high and holy Ideal. One never begins to live until one has been overcome by an Ideal. Unless one has become a slave to an ideal one hasn't an ideal. Your ideal must dominate, drive, compel and force you. It binds, masters and tortures you. Paul recognized such master, and such slavery, when he cried out, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel."

The supreme Ideal for man, for the whole mental, moral and spiritual man is Christ Jesus.

The link of enslavement is the power of an ideal. To realize, come in contact with, and be led on by an ideal three things are necessary. Many Scriptures portray these combined elements of a perfect ideal, and analyze for us the full force of the pulling power of the ideal. One of the very sublimest of these is Psalm 16:8, "I have set the Lord always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved." Peter quotes this Scripture on the day of Pentecost and declares that David was herein expressing that which should come to pass, and which did come to pass, more than a thousand years afterwards. The Lord whom David set before his face was in the flesh a descendant who would not be born for generations upon generations to come.

The first great factor of a true ideal is that it links us to the future, makes us slaves of a far off event; gives us to understand that we are somehow bound up with, and responsible for, events that must be in the centuries to come. An ideal that can be fulfilled in a day or a life time is not a worthy or wholesome one. If David Livingstone had taken an inventory of his deeds on the day of his death he must have counted his life a poor one indeed. It is taking the generations to realize what he hoped and longed for; his ideals are now being fulfilled. When Paul at the close of his earthly career recounted his stripes and bonds and beatings he must have seen that his life had been barren indeed but for the fact that he had an ideal that he knew would be realized in the ages to come. Every true ideal links us to the future, to far off to define events that must be fulfilled in the years to come.

The second element of a true ideal is that it links us to something that is fixed, stable, abiding. "I shall not be moved," declared the singer of Israel. Dr. J. H. Jowett declares that no life is useless and impotent but the loose life, the life without a center, the life not bound with the link of enslavement. Unless one becomes a slave to Christ he may never hope to live and reign and be free with Christ. Christ was the freest of men, yet the One who at all times re-recognized the bonds and fetters that united Him to eternity to God the Father, the Will of Him whose He was and Whom He served. One's life is adrift and without moorings until that life is tied, fixed, fastened to an ideal. I have set the Lord always before me. You can't move one who keeps the Lord always before one's face. If such an one fall he will fall with face toward God and toward victory. You might as well talk of moving eternity as to talk of moving one whose faith is firmly fixed on God, and whose sole determination in life is to go toward God. Such an one is adamant and can't be deflected.

The third element of a proper and wholesome ideal is that it makes one seek to appropriate. "The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance." That which is one's ideal becomes a part of one's very own. No human being ever seemed to appropriate God as did David. He made God, and God's blessings and benefits his very own. He, having fixed the desire of his heart on God, enters into a singular and sweet fellowship with God. When we make God our Lord, our Master, our All and in all, then we share all the joy of creation, of being, of conquest and victory with Him. When we reach out to appropriate God we share all that He has with Him. The heathen world becomes ours for an inheritance. The world of sin and shame becomes ours to save, to redeem, to help.

"Oh! for a closer walk with God" cries the singer. A salient element of an ideal is that it forces us to seek to appropriate, to make the Ideal our very own.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN THE FAMILY

Henry F. Cope, General Secretary of the Religious Education Association, takes the position that the old idea of the home, the ancient custom of "family prayers," and the good old days of the family circle gathered about the evening lamp or fireside, have passed away. However much we deplore the fact, we must admit it is a fact. The more is the pity because it cannot be denied. Mr. Cope is further of opinion that the old custom, however happy and wholesome it may have been, cannot be revived. Conditions have changed. And "our concern for the future should be not whether we can pass on intact the forms of home orfanzations, but whether we can give to the next day the force of ideal family life." After all even the family exists for the sake of the individual, and "personal life has been always the enduring thing." And maybe we would likely "do well to turn our eyes from the mechanism of the home to personal values in the association of lives in the family." Mr. Cope thinks that the loss of the evening family group about the fireside or the reading lamp is a real and sad loss. The commerce in amusements has offered greater attractions to vigorous youth. The theater and its lesser satellites, amusements, entertainments, lectures, the lyceum, have taken the place of united family recreation."

With amusements commercialized and specialized and individualized, the combined family amusement and recreation have largely passed away.

Yet the writer is aware that the salvation of the individual and the social order is a wholesome and vigorous family life. "A family is humanity's great opportunity to walk the way of the cross." So, "there is a science of home-direction and an art of family living; both must be learned with patient industry."

In a volume well printed and substantially bound in cloth, carrying 300 pages and published by the University of Chicago press, Mr. Cope undertakes to teach the reader this science and portray the art of family living in a way and manner to meet the demands of our new order of things and our commercialized times. It is a new note and goes to the heart of a great and an essential matter. We wish SUN readers would secure and study this excellent volume. The price is $1.25 net.

FACING THE ISSUE

We of the Southern Convention have been playing at missions—hardly that for many of our annual conferences do not even consider missions playfully or otherwise.

But the issue is to be forced upon us. Thank God we face a crisis. It had to come sooner or later. It is coming, and that at a rapid pace.

There are now in Elon College a dozen or more young men and young women, as good and as bright and as promising as any in the student body, who are determined to offer themselves to our Mission Board at no far distant date. These young men and young women, with more to follow, if it may please God to answer prayer, are going to force the issue upon us. They feel that they should go to foreign fields to push the battle for righteousness and the kingdom there. They know that in the foreign field today there is a much larger opportunity for Christian service than any afforded at home. They know that God wants and needs them where the larger and more pressing service can be rendered.

What is the church going to say to these young people? It is going to cry "No means with which to go; no funds with which to send." If it does for once in my life I shall be miserably ashamed of the church of which I am a member. We can't deny these young people. To do so would be stark madness and stupid folly, not to say everlasting shame and perpetual humiliation. The crisis. We might as well prepare to face it. Shall we prove ourselves Christians? Or shall we shut up our pocket books and prove ourselves cowards and unworthy stewards. God cannot prosper a non-missionary people and keep His word. He is going to test us at an early date to see whether we are missionary or non-missionary.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Dr. T. C. Amick of the Elon College Faculty occupied the pulpit at the Burlington Christian church last Sunday P. M. Dr. Kendall the pastor speaking at Elon College at that hour.

—Pres. W. A. Harper, Superintendent of the Orphanage, Rev. J. O. Cox, and THE SUN's editor are of the Elon contingency who anticipate the joys and fellowship of the Eastern Virginia Conference at Third Church, Norfolk, next week.

—Some of our churches should engage for full time the services of Rev. R. H. Peel, Waverly, Va., one of our faithful, loyal and active pastors. He does not return next year to his present field of service. The church will not do well to leave him idle.

—Mr. R. C. Hood, one of the most prominent and influential business men of Greensboro, accidentally shot himself with a double barreil shot gun while out squirrel hunting with a party of friends last Saturday P. M. Mr. Hood was a good man and his tragic taking away is greatly deplored.

—Rev. J. E. Franks, Cary, N. C., wishes us to correct the statement in THE SUN of October 20, that Bethel church had only 11 members before the recent meeting. The number was 21. Since then 27 have joined, making the present membership 48. We cheerfully correct.

—Rev. C. C. Peel, Elon College, N. C., returns to Sanford Christian church for next year by a unanimous call. Bro. Peel has not yet accepted work for the first and second Sundays next year and is open for work on those Sundays. Bro. Peel returns to Hebron, Va., the third Sundays, which church he has served acceptably for many years.

—Rev. J. E. Franks, Cary, N. C., whose recent report through THE SUN showed him a workman for the Lord that needeth not to be ashamed has accepted New Elam church for next year in addition to those served in the past year. Bro. Frank's first year in the active ministry has been wonderfully blessed and the work at his hands has had faithful and efficient care.

—The Conferences are on from week to week now. It will cost hundreds of dollars, and much time and toil, to hold these sessions, entertain and conduct them. How much better off will the local churches be, will the individual and the enterprises of the church be, after the Conferences are held than they are before? Can't we make all our Conferences count for something—result in some definite thing for church and the Kingdom?

—Our thanks are due for being pleasantly remembered in receiving the following, "Mr. and Mrs. Abram Thomas Holland invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Virgie Cobb to Mr. Jesse David McClenny on the evening of Wednesday, November 3rd, 1915, at 7:30 P. M., 444 West Washington St., Suffolk, Va." We wish for these delightful Christian friends all the happiness that the real union of two hearts and lives in wedded life can give.

—Editor Smith in Fuquay Springs Gold Leaf, October 22, "The editor enjoyed a very pleasant outing with Rev. J. Lee Johnson to Christian Light Church, in Harnett County, last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Johnson, the pastor is very popular with these good people who are fully alive to 'every good word and work.' They have recently beautified their house of worship by a liberal use of the paint brush, which has improved the looks of their beautiful little church very much. They are still at work raising funds to kalsomine the inside walls and to put in new up-to-date pews, which we are sure they will do as they are a people that are looking forward and know not how to fail."

—Webster's Weekly of Reidsville in a recent issue had the following anent the opening service in our new church in that city: "The building is a brick structure of modern design and reflects credit on the liberality of the band led by Rev. L. I. Cox, pastor. It is situated on Montgomery street, in a splendid residential section, and will serve the needs of the congregation for many years to come. The congregation while not strong numerically comprises some of our best citizens and has in it the elements of growth and great usefulness. The Sunday-school under the leadership of Mr. J. M. Lambeth is flourishing, and the congregation is steadily growing." Our opinion is that Reidsville is the most promising point we have chosen for service in many a day.

NOTICE

To the Churches of the W. N. C. C. C.:

Dear Brethren: We want the coming session of our conference to be a great one. I believe it can be done, 1st by praying earnestly to God to be with us; 2nd, by each church being fully represented; 3rd, by every delegate staying until the close; 4th, by each church bringing the full assessment. Let's have the best men and women and the largest offering.

Yours for a great Conference,

G. R. UNDERWOOD.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The question is often asked: "Is the world growing better?" Christian people spend much time in arguing this undecided question. The question is so large, the facts so multitudinous, and the field so widespread that it must remain a question for a long time to come. This is the nature of all live questions: they are always under discussion. As soon as questions are solved they pass into static history, and other questions clamor for solution. It is the unsolved problems that maintain human activities. It is so in legislatures; it is so in courts; it is so in the press; it is so in war; it is so in missions. Science would lose interest if all its intricacies were solved. It is the unknown in religion that holds men in Christian effort. "We walk by faith, not by sight." Man grows old as soon as he ceases to take up new questions. The church declines when it neglects Sunday school and Missions. Some new life, some new task, some new problem is necessary to continued activity and growth for persons or institutions.

Theology changes with the passing ages and new questions spring up in schools that sometimes require decades for solution. New methods of doing religious work are discovered under new conditions and new tests of social order are applied to Christian life. Religion changes its modes of manifestation, and the aged are continually lamenting the passing away of religious manifestations as they remember them. I would hate to live in a finished world or work on a finished task. The unfinished, the unsolved, the unknown give employment to our hands, our minds and our hearts.

Returning to the opening question, "Is the world growing better?" it is a more personal question to ask: "Am I growing better?" If every person who asks the first question would ask the second question and then try to answer the second question in the affirmative, then we would have the answer to the first question. Big questions have their best solution in the solution of little questions. The experimental farm helps to make the great harvests. The successful experiment has flooded the cities of the world with electric lights and spoken from Washington to Paris in tones of the human voice.

My little opinion is, that the world is growing better—that the good is growing better and the bad is growing worse—but that the good the bad is making gain over bad; otherwise I would lose faith in Christianity itself. As we advance in enlightened spiritual vision the bad material necessities that had 78905 23452345 iffi pears worse. I find people dissatisfied with material necessities that would have formerly been luxurious to them and would have filled them with delight. Continents seem to leave us as we move out to sea on a little ship. Much depends upon the point of view and our own motion as to the opinions we hold and the conclusions we reach; we may be going forward while the world seems to go backward; but we will differ as long as we think.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Last Sunday was another red-letter day in the Y. M. C. A. work of the College. Mr. T. C. Boushall, General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at the University of North Carolina, addressed members of the Y. M. and Y. W. on the Honor System. The speaker's address was forceful, impressive and enjoyed by all present.

At the eleven o'clock hour Sunday Dr. Atkinson used for his theme The Link of Enslavement. At the 7:30 service which is under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, Dr. A. B. Kendall of Burlington, occupied the pulpit and used for his discussion The Importance of Youth. Both these services were of the highest type and thoroughly helpful in every way.

We have seen with us the past week the following friends: Mr. Marvin S. Revell, class of '14, Chapel Hill, N. C., Mrs. C. N. Conley and son of Mebane, Miss Nellie Sue Fleming, Greensboro, N. C., class of '13, Mr. J. R. Truitt and wife; also their daughter, Virginia, and son Lacey, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Brooks of Burlington, Prof. J. S. Truitt, Merry Oaks, N. C., Dr. J. F. McCulloch, Greensboro, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Kinney, Miss Donnie Sharpe, Mr. J. F. Check and sister Flora of Burlington, N. C., Route 1, and perhaps others.

Word comes of the fine success of Mr. J. C. Peel, who graduated, at the head of his class, from Elon last June. He is principal of a splendid school at Myrtle Beach, S. C., and is making good in every particular, as his class mates and college acquaintances were sure he would do. He is the son of our townsman, Rev. C. C. Peel.

Reports for the college work will be mailed out the last of this week, and from indications the record will be gratifying to both students and faculty.

President Harper is still in the far South attending Conferences. He is expected to return to the Hill the last of the week.

Pastors are closing their work for the year, the various amounts apportioned to the churches are being raised, and it is with pride that Elon looks to the various Conferences for loyal support. The church can rise no higher than her educated leaders, and with thirty-five men each year at Elon in sincere preparation for the ministry, to say nothing of the other young men and women of the church in training for Christian work, is continual progress. You may separate church and state, but you cannot separate church and college.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH RALLY

At the Laymen's Missionary Movement, Chicago

The initial convention of the Laymen's Missionary Educational movement was opened in Chicago Oct. 14, 2:30 p. m., with an enrolment of about forty-five hundred registered delegates, which was more than double the enrolment of the convention held in this city several years ago. The speakers who had been given places on the program were there to a man and with a prepared message—a message full of information and inspiration. Every session was characterized by a deep religious conviction and the whole convention throbbled with an enlarged missionary conscience. This, the opening convention of the series of conventions which are to be held in seventy-five of the principal cities of the United States, should, and will, in all probability, mark the beginning of a newly awakened interest in missions, and an entirely new era in foreign missions enterprises which shall by far eclipse the results of the similar campaign held in 1908--and such results were nothing less than marvelous. Think of it! According to the statistics given by the thirteen denominations reporting to the Chicago convention there has been a gain in the combined membership of these denominations in the last decade of 2,577,899; an increase in the offerings for church expenses of $33,515,913; for work done in the United States, $6,627,975; and for foreign missions $5,166,864, or a total gain in the offerings for all missions and benevolences in 1914 of $11,792,839. I think you will agree with me that these results are marvelous, but I fully believe that the results of the present campaign shall be far greater. Indeed the Chicago convention should serve as the source from which shall flow streams of education, of information and inspiration to all parts of this country and these combined streams should issue in to veritable rivers of living water to the various mission fields which are thirsting today as never before for the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. And if we as a denomination are to share the blessing we must also share the burdens and responsibilities which make such a campaign possible.

It is not my purpose, however, at this time to report the convention or to give my impressions of it, but simply to speak of the Christian Church Rally as was requested by those present.

Saturday afternoon, according to program, was the time for denominational rallies. Rev. W. P. Minton, Secretary of Missions for the Eel River Conference had put forth every effort possible to have a good representation of our church present. His efforts were not as successful as they might have been but not a failure by any means. We found on Friday that we had four registered delegates in the convention, all from the Eel River Conference, and three young men in the city who were students in the Moody Bible Institute. We got permission to use a room in the convention building and met to hold our Denominational Rally, and it was good. If you had been there you would have said so. Those present to a man, seemed devoted to the Christian church and enthusiastic over her prospects. But they were not unmindful of the fact that if the church is to be recognized in such interdenominational efforts that the leader of the church must put themselves abreast with the movements. Among the thirteen denominations reporting to the Chicago convention as mentioned above, the Christian church was not to be found, neither was it mentioned on a single banner display d in the convention hall. The two questions most discussed in the rally were 1. Why was our church not represented in the statistics and reports, and whose fault was it? and 2. That we, each of us, use our influence in every way possible to induce our pastors and mission secretaries and influential laymen to live up with the movement and attend the convention meeting nearest them.

It seems to me that it is getting time to make the Christian church recognized and felt in such important religious gatherings. Our glorious principles—and they are all glorious—are such as to challenge consideration. They are the principles upon which the Christian world must unite. It's a great boon to our forefathers that they had such breadth of vision. They are a credit to us but our efforts are not a credit to them. We need men, not simply men in the ministry, but men in the laity who are willing to give their time and their money for the cause of Christ thru the channels of the Christian church. We have the men, the question is are they willing to make the sacrifice and share the joy and blessings of the work?

HOLLAND LETTER

On September 12th, Rev. Victor Lightbourne came to Holland Christian church and preached twice daily until the 23rd. The ladies of the town met in prayer service each morning at 9:00 o'clock. All denominations attended these prayer services. Words fail me here so will tell just what I can. The church was filled with people—many stood through the entire service in the aisle and at the windows outside. Bro. Lightbourne is a mighty power in God's hands. Everyone speaks highly of him. Mrs. Lightbourne sang at each service. No sweeter singer than she ever honored an audience here. Every solo was a mighty sermon within itself.

We have not been able to keep up with numbers, but it is safe to say that in all, conversions and reclamations, 300 went forward. Fifty went up at the last service, by actual count by Dr. Staley. At our closing service 41 joined the church, and at least that number will join later, besides those who will join Holy Neck, Liberty Spring and Holland Baptist church.

What sermons; full of Christ, of warning, of love, of the awfulness of sin, the worth of a soul! Then add the passion for souls that possesses Bro. Lightbourne and you begin to get an idea of what I am trying to express.

We hope to book Bro. Lightbourne for Holland and Holy Neck for next year. I have heard many expressions to this effect, but have not had the chance yet to bring the matter before the churches. Talk about protracted meetings; we had a revival of religion. Brother preacher, do you want a revival in your church? Then get Bro. Lightbourne. But don't try to make your date September 1st Sunday to 4th Sunday, 1916.

NOTICE

The forty-ninth annual session of the Western North Carolina Christian Conference will be held at Pleasant Hill church, Alamance county, N. C., November 16, 17, 18, 1915.

All ministers, delegates and visitors who expect to attend the Conferences should notify Mr. Paul E. Coble, secretary, Liberty, N. C., route 3, not later than Nov. 10th. Those coming by rail will be met at Liberty, however, only two trains will be met, unless by special request. These trains are: No. 130 from Greensboro, arriving at Liberty at 1:46 p. m., and No. 131 from Sanford, arriving at Liberty at 3:40 p. m., Monday, November 15, 1915.

It is desired that all come on private conveyance who can conveniently do so.

We trust that every church will be fully represented, that each minister of the Conference will be present, and that we shall be favored with many visitors from other Conferences.

For further information address, Mr. Paul E. Coble, Sec'y, Liberty, N. C., Route 3.

L. I. Cox, Pastor.

IS YOUR CHURCH ON THIS LIST?

At the last session of the Thirteenth Christian Convention it was decided that each church in this convention should try to raise an amount each year for Foreign missions equal to one cent a week for each member on the church roll. We can do it, brethren, if we try. Fifty-two cents per capita for each member on the roll of your church is not an unreasonable amount to raise for Foreign missions. We have learned of the following churches that have done this the year now closing:

LURAY LETTER

Our work is the same this year as last, with Bethlehem, Concord, Leaksville and Newport I am entering my sixth year; with East Liberty, my fourth; with Linville, my second. The work generally is in average condition. Good congregations have met us at most of our services. Many of the members seem interested, but many, too, are indifferent as to the success of the Master's cause and their own obligations. I have often thought of the couplet I saw somewhere:

"If I the members were just like me
What kind of a church would my church be."
If I were to take the unconcerned and unfaithful as the standard, and measure the church by the standard the outlook would indeed be unpromising and would discourage the stoutest heart. If on the other hand we judge by the truest and most faithful we take courage and press on. The great need in my field is for more workers thoroughly consecrated to the Lord's service. Perhaps other pastors feel this need. How is this to be realized? Christ answers this question: "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest." Matt. 9:38.

We have just closed a revival at Concord. While the farmers are very much behind with their work, and the attendance was not what we had wished, we hope much good was accomplished. We haven't a large membership there, but there are some faithful workers, who cooperate with the pastor and try to make his work pleasant. There were 6 additions to the church. To God be all the glory.

S. S. LESSON, OCT. 31

The Boy Joash Crowned King
2 Kings 11:1-20.

Golden Text: The house of the wicked shall be overthrow; but the tent of the upright shall flourish. Prov. 14:11.

The first impressions that we get from the lesson is the courage to stand for right and justice. The royal family was being destroyed. On account of the death of her son, Athaliah is determined not to lose her power and therefore, put to death her grandchildren all except one, Joash, whereupon his aunt, Jehosheba, rescued and hid him in a room in the temple. Jehosheba was the wife of the high priest, Jehoiada.

The boy, Joash, had a bright face and stood for justice, right, clean heart, pure life. Jehosheba trained men in the way of Jehovah and gave him the best care and attention for six years. During this time Athaliah was the ruler of Israel but did not know of the concealed grandson.

The priest, Jehoiada, was kept well informed as to the young man's welfare and progress as well as to the desires of the people. When the time was ripe Jehoiada called the captains of all the hundreds together and made a covenant with them and showed them the king's son. The five captains were well pleased as they wanted a king and were ready for a revolution.

The details for the coronation being worked out, Joash was crowned king and all the people rejoiced. Athaliah hearing the noise came and saw what had happened, who not being pleased, was ushered out of the company and slain.

Jehoiada made a covenant with Jehovah and the king, and a covenant between the king and the people. The people went to the house of Baal and broke down all the images and altars of Baal.

The courage that it took to save this king was worth while. It was important that a member of the royal family be saved for this position. Are we brave enough to step in and save the young boys of our land who are being driven from the church of God by cold formalities and seeming lifeless services to them? There are boys worth while going to destruction who will be glad to have a word of cheer and care. It is easy to turn them right if the right method is used. The church has this opportunity thru its Sunday school and other similar organizations; the state has this opportunity through the public schools. If the young men of today are trained to love justice and righteousness then the people will rejoice when the young men go into office—enter life as a full fledged citizen.

Otherwise Proverbs 14:11 tells us that we shall fail.

C. E. TOPIC, OCT. 31

Increase and Efficiency: Two Permanent Christian Endeavor Ideals. Eph. 4:1-16.

One good way to bring out the importance of these two ideals is to have them pitted against each other and discuss which is of the most importance. When the members come in arrange the chairs so the members will be about evenly divided in numbers and in strength printed with the word EFFICIENCY on one and INCREASE on the other; hang these cards opposite the respective groups, this will increase interest and there will be no doubt as to what side the different members are on after they take their seats.

Open the meeting with several sentence prayers. Insist on having sentence prayers only. By this you will be able to get some to pray who otherwise would not. Have the music so arranged that the hymns will suit the occasion and have the songs sung through.

Let the leader outline the meeting briefly and give the general scope of the increase that the Christian Endeavor is working for as set by Dr. Clark in his message to the Chicago convention. Also, outline and describe the efficiency campaign as represented by the new Efficiency chart that the United Society of Christian Endeavor society has recently published. Every society ought to have this chart and can well afford to get it. It costs only a dollar, or you can get it free with one subscription to the Christian Endeavor World. It is very unique and complete, having a thermometer to register the Society's standing at all times on all lines of Christian activity. It will create interest and enthusiasm in the development of the society.

Hand out the questions below for answer in the meeting sometime during the week preceding the meeting.

After singing a stanza of some hymn let the leader of the efficiency group define efficiency and present what he proposes to show in regard to efficiency being of more importance than increase. Then the leader of the increase group explains what is meant by increase and define how he expects to show that increase is of more importance than efficiency.

OUR STANDARD

We as women of the Christian church have taken the Bible as our standard of living, loving and giving. Have we as Christians lived up to its teachings? Have we shown the love for and interest in the non-Christian women of the world that God has taught us? Are we living up to the duty as we know it? It is said that the greatest need of the world today is Christian homes. How can we have Christian homes without Christian mothers? Some one has to teach these mothers the way of eternal life, so that they may be able to impart the knowledge to the little ones sent to their homes. Missionary workers tell us that a woman can best break the bread of life to the women in heathen lands.

When we hear of a woman consecrating her life to the service of the Master in the foreign field, we admire her for her faith and courage and promise to support her by our prayers. Is that all? When we read, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." That means us. Then comes the command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." How about that? Are we going with the means which God has loaned us to use for the advancement of His kingdom?

We need an enlarged conception of life and its duties and nothing but a world wide vision will give us the richer, fuller life. When we have come to a realization of the world and its needs, we will then go forward as never before to work for the evangelization of the world.

Now we come to ask the women of the Christian church to join us in this great missionary movement. We want a consecrated woman in every church in the Southern Christian Convention whom we may help to organize a Woman's Missionary Society in her church, (if she does not have one.) The work is too heavy for the few that are trying to carry it on.

If you have an impression that your church should have a Society For answer in the meeting from the C. E. World.

What do you think is the best method to increase the membership of the society?

Why must we constantly get more members into the society?

What fields should the society work to get more members? How should the fields be worked?

What work are we not doing that we might be doing?

ty, that impression comes from God, and as you go forward into the work praying Him for guidance, He comes to make good the promise made through His Son, "Whatever you ask the Father in my name he will give it you."

WAKEFIELD LETTER

It has been some time since this field has been heard from through the SUN.

We held our meeting at New Lebanon week following the 3rd Sunday in August. Rev. W. H. Garman did the preaching. The church seemed revived and one member united with the church.

Our meeting at Dendron was held the week following the fifth Sunday in August. Rev Victor Lighthourne did the preaching in this meeting. It was said to be the best meeting held at Dendron for years. There were more than a hundred professions and renewals. Brother Lighthourne is a preacher of great power and any church is fortunate to secure his services.

THE LITTLE THINGS

It is often the little things of life which brighten existence the most.

A smile, a cordial handshake, a gentle, kindly word. We cannot measure their value, but they make up the sunshine of life.

It is also true that the little and inexpensive conveniences are the source of much of our comfort and health.

Mentholatum is one of those little household conveniences which fits into many emergencies.

Is it a head cold, difficult breathing, cold sores or headache?—Again Mentholatum, the ready relief.

In almost any case of external inflammation this cleanly, convenient and efficient counter irritant serves to relieve the pain and hasten restoration.

Dear Friends:

We are in receipt of our first Thanksgiving offering. Sister G. W. Suits, one of the orphanage's most loyal friends, has the honor of being first. We greatly appreciate the dollar because of the interest it represents. We have in our church many thousand women who are just as able as this aged sister and if they only had the same interest the orphanage treasury will be filled to overflowing. Our daily prayer is that the spirit of the Lord, which is the spirit of sacrifice, may move upon the hearts of every member and friend of our church, and they will consider it a delightful privilege to give at least the proceeds of one day's labor to the Orphanage. Just think what it would mean to the orphanage and the church if we could receive an offering from more than 20,000 and each offering dedicated with a prayer to the great work of rearing our orphan girls and boys for Christ and the church.

"It is not the will of our Father in heaven that one of these little ones should perish." Will you help in the great work of carrying out the Lord's will concerning these orphan ones. There are three ways in which every one can help—prayer, gifts and service.

The Orphanage needs the earnest prayers of the church, it needs a cheerful, liberal offering from every member, but in order to do this some must be reminded of their duty and privilege of rendering valuable service. The pastor can render invaluable service by urging his congregation to sacredly set aside one day's earnings or income for this purpose. The Sunday school superintendent and other leaders of the church may also use their influence to telling effect. And our children, who have always been leaders in orphanage work can open many hearts and purses. Friends will you not help us? We are counting on your prayers, your money and your influence.

Holland, Va.

Dear Uncle Jim: I am getting along fine in my school work. Have already taken two tests and have gotten a goon grade on both of them. We have two basket ball teams, the girls have one and the boys have one. We are just learning how to play. We will close with our love and our dimes.

Your little friends,

MARY NELL & HOWARD HOLLAND

Clayton, N. C.

Dear Uncle Jim: Here I come with my dime for October. I am well and having a fine time, wearing my pants mother made for me. Mother made me some pants and carried me with her to Clayton last Saturday and every lady that saw me laughed at me and Dr. Hunnicutte named me Jeff and said I was the biggest man in Clayton. Daddy bought me a harp. You ought to see me with my pants on blowing my harp. I will close for this time with love to all.

ASHLEY BREEDLOVE.

Dear Uncle Jim: It has been a long time since we wrote you but we have not forgotten you and the orphanage. Do you ever see our sisters Eula and Jessie at Elon? They are in school there and when we go to Elon we want to visit the orphanage. Enclosed find our dimes with much love to you and all the cousins.

a meeting at Burton's Grove. Rev. W. H. Garman was with me at this point. We had an excellent meeting. Six members united with the church.

We began the meeting at Union with no ministerial help. The writer did the preaching until Wednesday noon, after that Bro. Garman came and preached the remainder of the week. There were about 20 professions and 11 united with the church.

This revival season has been a very pleasant one and the revivals ought to mean a great deal for the churches in the future. Especially should this be true of the revival held at Dendron.

My work in this field will end with the conference year. Rev. W. D. Harward will be my successor. I am much interested in the work here and trust that it may prosper in his hands. I have not ar-

THE TROUBLE IS NOT INSIDE

The myriads of parasitic germs which cause Tetter, Eczema, Ringworm, Itch, Acne, Salt Rheum, etc., cannot be killed internally. They live and feed on the surface and must there be treated. Tetterine is the common sense treatment that has scientific principles to back it up. E. A. Kennedy, druggist of Brooklyn, Fla., says: "Tetterine has cured quickly and permanently several stubborn cases of tetter that came under my personal knowledge. Calomel Makes calomel and can not salivate

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is: it's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crases into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start our liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it roses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

MARRIAGES

MARRIED
Twitty-Hosier

At the home of Mrs. Florine Hosier on West Washington street, Suffolk, Va., October 12, 1915, Mr. James Duncan Twitty and Miss Lillian Hosier were married in the presence of a parlor full of personal friends. Mr. Twitty is the son of the late Rev. Dr. James F. Twitty at one time pastor of the Main Street Methodist church of Suffolk; and Miss Hosier's father was the late Samuel Hosier, who was an official in the Suffolk Christian church; and she is one of the fine soprano solo singers in the Christian church choir. A brief bridal trip to Washington and they will be at home in Suffolk and resume their respective duties. Mr. Chas. B. Cramer was best man and Miss Edith sonal interest of many friends will follow this young couple in their life-union. W. W. STALEY.

Hill-Gallman

On Sunday, Oct. 18, 1915, at 2.30 p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, 108 5th Ave., Girard, Ala., an impressive marriage was solemnized, the contracting parties were Mr. Ervin W. Hill and Miss Emmie J. Gallman, both of Girard. Mr. Hill is a member of Beulah Christian Sunday school and a popular young man, while the bride is a faithful member of our church and Sunday school and has a host of friends. Mr. Hill is to be congratulated on winning for his bride one of Girard's most charming and beautiful young ladies. The ceremony was pronounced by the writer. Their many friends join the pastor in wishing for them a long and happy Christian life. W. E. CARTER.

The Blue Marble Quarry of North Carolina

The quarrying and manufacture of marble has been one of the world's great industries since the dawn of civilization; it is a particularly important industry in North Carolina; for this state stands alone in the Southern production of blue marble, a highly prized marble quarry product. The Regal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., are the owners and operators of the quarries and their Regal Blue is famed for its beautiful permanent color and extreme durability; due to its very slight absorption of moisture. A finely equipped finishing plant, employing only native Southern workmen in all departments is an important adjunct to these well known quarries.

RHEUMATISM AND INDIGESTION

Practically all physicians and medical writers are agreed that there is a close relationship between Indigestion and Rheumatism. This view is substantiated by the fact that Shivar Spring Water which is probably the best American mineral water for Dyspepsia and Indigestion, relieves Rheumatism and the Rheumatoid diseases such as Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia and Nervous Headache. All of these diseases are probably related and all are probably due in whole or in part to imperfect digestion or to imperfect assimilation of food. Physicians who have studied this water and who have observed its effects in their practice believe that it relieves these maladies by rendering the digestion complete and perfect and thereby preventing the formation of those poisons which inflame the joints and irritate the nerves, and also by eliminating, through the kidneys, such poisons as have already been formed.

The following letters are interesting in this connection. Dr. Crosby, a South Carolina physician writes:—"I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of Rheumatism, Chronic Indigestion, Kidney and Bladder troubles and all Nervous and Sick Headache and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time, will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter."

Dr. Avant of Savannah writes:—"I suffered for years with a most aggravating form of stomach disorder and consulted a number of our best local physicians, went to Baltimore and consulted specialists there, and still I was not benefited. I had about despaired of living when I began to use Shivar Spring Water and in a short time was cured."

Editor Cunningham writes:—"The water has done more good than any medicine I have ever taken for Rheumatism. An entirely free from pain."

Mr. McClam of South Carolina writes:—"My wife has been a sufferer from Rheumatism and after drinking twenty gallons of your Mineral Water was entirely cured of the horrible disease."

Mr. Carter of Virginia writes:—"Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints upon her hands, caused by Rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement. The water is simply excellent."

If you suffer with Rheumatism, or with any chronic disease, accept the guarantee offer below by signing your name. Clip and mail to the Shivar Spring, Box 98, Shelton, S. C. Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1915), was the following: "It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculous stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to lime loss, the success of Eckman's Alternative in its treatment may be due, in part, to its content of a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged consumptives to attend strictly to matters of food, but often some effective remedial agent is needed. In many cases of apparent recovery Eckman's Alternative seems to have supplied this need. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

Drinking That Has Proven Beneficial

This is not a statement to cause consternation among our readers because the beverage is Fonticello Mineral Water. The waters from this Mineral Spring have made restorations to health in cases of sickness of such long standing that the sufferers had given themselves up to believe that recovery was impossible. The proposition in a nutshell is this: Pure Water—water that is free from organic matter is known by the medical profession to be the safest and best of all agents to cleanse the system—and flush the blood and vital organs before the refuse can contaminate them and interfere with their functions. It is through intemperate eating and drinking of beverages, or the failure to drink plenty of water, and the exercise of common sense in living that we incur sickness, which finally becomes chronic.

But to prove the truth of the statement that Fonticello Mineral Water has made these wonderful restorations to health we make this Guarantee:

We will return you statements from physicians of acknowledged high reputation, of ministers and others who will show positively that Fonticello Water has cured them of many chronic diseases, including dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney and liver diseases, uric acid, etc.

We will ship you two five gallon carboys of Fonticello Water with the understanding that if it does not benefit you, we will return full purchase price.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL TODAY

Note Our Guarantee.

I want to try Fonticello Mineral Water and promise to use it, by drinking the number of glasses prescribed in the directions which you agree to send me. If this treatment does not prove beneficial, you agree to refund purchase price upon receipt by you of the two empty carboys which I promise to return promptly.

Enclosed find $2.00 for which please send me two carboys of Fonticello Mineral Water referred to above.

OUR DEAD

Portlock

Your committee on memoirs begs leave to report that the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Suffolk Christian church has sustained a grievous loss in the death of Mrs. Virginia P. D. Portlock, who passed away on Sunday morning, August 1st, 1915, as the result of a fall on Friday afternoon, July 30th, in the home of her son-in-law, Mr. W. C. Wyatt.

Mrs. Portlock was the daughter of the late Col. Wm. Eley, one of Nansmond's distinguished citizens, and she was a devoted member of the Christian church.

Her whole life was a model of self-sacrifice, adorned with many Christian virtues and graces. Meek and modest, sincere and faithful, she had the confidence of all who knew her, and their love. In the home, the social circle, and the church she was exemplary in conversation and conduct. Her motives and Christian character were never questioned. Her loyalty to inner spiritual conviction and to outward church obligations brought forth fruit in the vineyard of the Lord. We, therefore, Recommend that the prayers and sympathy of the members of the Society be extended to the survivors of her family; that the above expression of our estimate of her character be entered in our Record book; and that a copy be sent to her family.

And, further, that we will endeavor to emulate her virtues, to carry forward the mission of this Society, and to meet her in that home where flowers never fade, where no tears are shed and where no farewells are ever spoken.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. H. L. WEBST,
MRS. W. H. JONES,
MRS. C. A. SCHOOP.

Barnes

We doubt if history records a greater example of true Christian character, patience and sunshine through long years of affliction than did our late member, Mrs. E. S. Barnes, the beloved wife of Deacon W. H. Barnes, of Suffolk Christian church, who died suddenly on the 10th day of September, 1915. Although an invalid for nearly fifty years, she never faltered in her faith in God, nor complained of her inability to walk, and bore her affliction with unusual patience and courage and added sunshine to the lives of those with whom she came in contact. She will be missed in the home, by her neighbors, and by this class of which she was a faithful member.

We, therefore, resolve, as the members of the Philathea class of the Suffolk Christian Sunday school, that, while in the death of Mrs. Barnes our class has sustained a great loss, we bow in humble submission to our Heavenly Father.

Resolved also, that we extend to the bereaved companion and children our deepest sympathies; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy to the Christian Sun, and a copy be spread upon the records of our class.

J. E. WEST,
MRS. H. L. JACOBS,
MRS. W. H. ANDREWS, Committee.

Kewly

Your committee appointed to draft resolutions upon the death of our highly esteemed teacher, Bro. G. A. Kewly, submit the following:

Resolved, 1st, That in Bro. Kewly the Sunday school has lost a true friend and a faithful teacher;

Resolved, 2nd, That we strive to emulate his example of faithfulness and devotion;

Resolved, 3rd, That we cherish his memory while we live, and commend his Christian character to all our young people and friends;

Resolved, 4th, That we bow in humble submission to our Father's will in His removal of our beloved teacher, and commend his parents and sisters as well as all other relatives and friends to our heavenly Father who is able to care for them in this sad bereavement.

Geo. A. Kewly was born Aug. 19th, 1879; died July 24, 1915. Bro. Kewly was a consistent member of Antioch Baptist church and was ordained a deacon in his church just a little more than a month before he died. He was a faithful teacher in the Beulah Christian Sunday school, true to his church, faithful to his class, and prayerful in his life. A good man has fallen in his youth. God bless the bereaved.

G. D. HUNT.

Williams

In memory of Mrs. Mattie Williams, who departed this life Sept. 21st, 1915, being nearly 34 years old. Sister Williams was a great sufferer, but always patient and submissive, a loving wife, a fond mother, a neighbor kind and true, and a help to those who were in her gain, and while we weep, we mourn not as those who have no hope, but one day the dear bereaved loved ones and friends will meet her in the Father's house on high. G. D. HUNT.

Tate

Otis Lee Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Tate, at his home near Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 15th, 1915, in his 16th year. The funeral services were conducted from the home by the writer and the burial was at Holt's Chapel. The sympathy of friends and loved ones go out to the bereaved family. May the blessed Christ comfort them. P. H. FLEMING.

Graham

At the home of her daughter in Garner, N. C., Mrs. E. B. Graham, relict of Edmund Graham, and daughter of Bryant and Elsie Bagwell, aged about 83 years. She was married in 1865 to Edward Graham. God gave them four children, two of whom passed into the future state years ago, two are now living, W. A. Graham and the wife of W. B. Jones. Sister Graham professed faith in Christ in early life and united with the Baptist church and remained a faithful member until God called her to the spirit land. She was buried in the cemetery at Hayes' Chapel, N. C. Funeral services conducted by Rev. C. A. Jenkins, assisted by

Simple, Inexpensive Remedy Checks Early Tendency To Constipation

About the first thing impressed on the young mother is the necessity for regularity in her baby, which brings up the question of the most desirable laxative for children's use.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, Philpot, Ky., says she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for the past year and that there is no medicine in the world like it. She writes, "My little son, William, Jr., just loved it because it is pleasant to take, and everybody talks about his being such a fine healthy boy."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of simple laxative herbs, free from any opiate or narcotic drug, and is the standard remedy for constipation in thousands of homes throughout the land. "IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Proving Worthy

The prodigal son repentingly returning home from waste, wickedness and wantonness received forgiveness, a feast and a fattened calf; but it is not told that he was placed in charge of the farm or the household. He must needs prove himself worthy and capable for that undertaking. "Show thyself a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

The Soul's Garden

A brilliant New England writer in explaining why he went to church said: "There is a little plant called reverence in my soul's garden which I like to have watered about once a week." Watering once a week does not insure rapid growth to a tender plant, but many do not even care for the soul's garden that often. Failing to dress and keep the garden aright was the downfall of our first parents—and of many others since then.

Borrowers and Buyers

It is announced that the Anglo-French loan recently negotiated in this country will be spent as follows: One fifth (a hundred million) for cotton, supposed to purchase 1,250,000 bales; one-fifth for meat and food products other than wheat; one-eighth for wheat and corn. This amount (one half) will thus go to the farmers. Copper producers and manufacturers of munitions of war will get one-fifth; iron and steel workers one-tenth; miscellaneous supplies (no war munitions included) will absorb the remaining hundred million. By this loan Americans set themselves to the task of supplying English and French soldiers food and supplies while they are busy killing and being killed for their country. The wide world is one neighborhood and "we are members one of another."

Salute, Recognize, Acknowledge

One day as a religious procession passed through the streets of Paris carrying a crucifix Voltaire lifted his hat in salute. An amazed friend enquired, "What! are you reconciled to God?" "No," came the reply, "we salute, but do not speak." Many others than this avowed skeptic remove their hats, enter church, hear preaching, "salute God," but do not speak to Him. Others recognize God, flatter Him with words, prostrate themselves before Him, pay their respects, and show Him a certain courtesy. But they do not acknowledge Him by an offering of service, of sacrifice, or of offering. God is sovereign and the only real worship is that wherein we acknowledge Him—His proprietorship of the universe and our tenantry for a season, our stewardship. "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein." (Psa. 24:1.)

Preparedness

On October 19 official announcement was made of the Navy's part in what is called "national preparedness." Within five years now we are to spend, according to this plan, $502,482,214 on the construction of new ships, air crafts and huge reserve of guns and ammunition. The first two dreadnoughts to be constructed will be the largest and most powerful fighting ships ever built. They are to cost $18,800,000 and are to have a displacement of 8,000 tons greater than that of our present super dreadnoughts. The time for spending this half-billion dollars is to be five years, a hundred million a year, and contemplates the construction of ten dreadnoughts, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty torpedo boat destroyers, fifteen sea-going submarines, eighty-five coast defense submarines, four gun boats, one hospital ship, two ammunition ships, two fuel oil ships and one repair ship. So, our nation has has caught the war fever and believes in the doctrine now being baptized in blood and shot to death in Europe that "the way to prevent war is to prepare for war." And yet no one believes but that when this awful and unpardonable holocaust in Europe is over the nations will be sick unto death of blood-shed for a half-century to come—by which time "dreadnoughts" constructed now will be superseded by something far superior, all out of date and ready for the junk heap. "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not?" (Isa. 55:2.)

A Present-Day Martyr

The name of Edith Cavell, an English nurse, will go down in history as a martyr of the present decade. She was executed two weeks ago by order of a German court-martial. England will ever regard her as a brave, patriotic and most worthy daughter. Germany will look upon her as one who unduly aided a foe, unfortunate in being taken and removed from her earthly career "by the stern necessity of war." Christians everywhere will deplore her unhappy going and applaud her undaunted courage and her strong Christian faith. The English chaplain who was permitted to visit her cell on the afternoon she was condemned and the last day she was to spend on earth, declares that she was "perfectly calm and resigned." She, as her Master, did not revile her captors and declared "I must not have hatred or bitterness toward anyone." She partook of the Communion and then as the sun was sinking, the last she would ever witness on earth, she repeated with the minister the hymn "Abide with me! Fast falls the eventide." When they parted her last look was a smile and her last words were "We shall meet again." The German military chaplain who was with her when she faced the German rifles that fired the fatal shots testified afterwards that "She was brave and bright to the last. She professed her Christian faith and said she was glad to die for her country." And so the soul of this pure girl, who was giving her life to succor the fallen and nurse back to health the sick and dying, went back to the God who gave it. Which reminds us of words in Scripture, "And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep." (Acts 7:59,60.)

Unspeakable Horrors

One would not believe the horrors now taking place in Armenia unless eye-witnesses had confirmed over and over again the reality of the unthinkable facts. Never in all time, so far as history or tradition portray, has one nation decided to literally exterminate another nation of honorable and law abiding citizens as the Armenians are. In 1895-6 Turkey killed above 50,000 Armenian Christians and the world stood appalled before such a tragedy. But that is as nothing beside the present number and massacre. The Turks have decided seemingly to wipe Armenian Christians off the face of the earth and are putting their bloody determination into execution in a most heartless and cruel manner. The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America sends out this notice: An entire race, and that, too, one of the oldest and most honorable, is undergoing a process of extermination that for completeness of design and cruelty of execution surpasses anything that ever preceded it in Turkey or in any other country. Although this work of destruction began more than six months ago, it did not reach the height of its fury until July and August, and, owing to the close censorship of the press, the world is only now learning the facts from eye witnesses and from official documents. It is now unquestionably established that the plan includes the extinction of all the Armenians and probably of other Christian races throughout all Turkey. The highest Turkish official at Constantinople declares to representatives of foreign governments that this is their purpose, and the local officials in the provinces openly proclaim that such are their peremptory orders from the capital. Probably it is not an overestimate to say that 1,000,000 of the possible 2,000,000 Armenians in Turkey at the beginning of the war are either dead, or in Moslem harems, or forced to profess Mohammedanism or are on their sad journey to the desert and death. There never has been a more urgent call for help. A more heart-rending need has never been established by overwhelming evidence. A more inhuman treatment of a helpless people has never shocked a humane world. Sunday, November 14, has been appointed a day for the churches to pray for these helpless and defenseless Christians.

CONFERENCE CALENDAR

The Conferences yet to be held meet as follows:

Eastern Va.—Third Church, Norfolk, Tuesday, November 2nd, 10:30 A. M. Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., President, Franklin, Va., Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., Secretary, Suffolk, Va.

Eastern N. C.—Pleasant Hill, Johnson Co., Thursday, November 11th. Geo. T. Whitaker, President, Franklinton, N. C., W. C. Wicker, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

Western N. C.—Pleasant Hill Church, Alamance Co., Tuesday, November 16th, 10:30 A. M. Rev. G. R. Underwood, President, Sanford, N. C., Rev. J. F. Morgan, Secretary, Graham, N. C.

N. C. and Va.—Durham, N. C., Tuesday, Nov. 23rd. W. P. Lawrence, President, Elon College, N. C., W. A. Harper, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

Christian Missionary Association (E. Va., Conf.)—Rosemont church, Tuesday, December 7th. W. D. Harward, President, Newport News, Va., R. H. Peel, Secretary, Wakefield, Va.

CHURCH UNITY

On behalf of 138,000 Protestant churches representing 17,000,000 members the National Council of Congregation churches has submitted a report on church unity. The churches thus reporting through the council represent 100 different denominations, which of itself indicates that there is need of unity and a trend toward unity.

Time was in the world's history when certain theological dogma and doctrine needed to be emphasized. These have been emphasized and re-emphasized until nobody doubts them and the great majority care nothing whatever for them. The world of our and the demand of our day is for the right sort of life—character, and not creed, if you please.

Not one tenth of the people who enter your church know or care what your creed is. They are there to hear the gospel of righteousness and peace and salvation and truth. If a preacher will state the essential and fundamental doctrine and dogma of his church five to one of you could not for the life of you tell which of a half hundred denominations he belonged to. As a scholar and philosopher has pointed out "The Methodists believe in free grace and never dying love, and so do the Presbyterians. The latter believe in the absolute sovereignty of God and so do the Methodist." When you come to the things essential to salvation and necessary to redemption, all Christians of every name are agreed; but when you come to the non-essentials and beliefs that redeem no soul from despair or save no soul from ruin then Christians differ.

But Christian unity is in the air. It is coming because God hears and answers prayer. His Son, our blessed Lord, prayed that it might come, and millions of Christians are working and praying today that it may come. The following editorial in the Greensboro Daily News, Oct. 28, is significant and expresses the views of thousands of other intelligent writers and thinkers of our time:

"There can be no question that the continuous splitting up of denominations has become a cause of weakness and inefficiency in the religious world. There may have been good reason originally for the formation of any particular creed or form of organization, but in most instances that reason is today of slight force. Men and women are not disposed to quarrel over many points of doctrine. Theology is no longer the vital thing it was for many centuries. Congregations know little about the articles of faith they are supposed to profess, and care still less. The great masses who seldom enter a church door care not at all for such matters.

All are interested in religion, even those who do not attend church; but what they mean by religion is the simple essentials of Christian belief and conduct which are pretty much the same in all the Protestant churches, and which are established in the hearts and lives of millions who have no regular church connection.

If the denominations could get together on these essentials, with some such unity as the Christian church had in the early centuries, maybe they could regain some of the early church's power. Certainly the merging of the 100 or more denominations into a few would make a stronger popular appeal.

From a practical business standpoint such unification is particularly desirable. There are too many church buildings today, considering the use made of them. The big city has its hundreds or thousands of churches, the small town has its dozen or more, all half filled or a quarter filled for a few hours a week. Many a village supports four or five churches and pastors, and of course does it poorly, when it might support one fine, big, efficient church and a well equipped pastor in comfort. It is seldom deep-seated differences of belief that plant those four or five churches where one should be, but rather the inertia of an established system.

The merging has actually started. It is no uncommon thing in late years to see two or three congregations of different denominations pooling their membership and resources. But there is still a vast amount of work to be done before the loose ends are gathered up and the waste of duplication is eliminated and religious work is made genuinely effective."

THE INCREASING TIDE

The forces for temperance and sobriety in the United States increase in numbers and multiply in strength with the passing days. Moral revolutions, or evolutions, never go backward. And the prohibition movement has come to be quite revolutionary in its breadth and sweep.

One of the keenest discerners of coming events that visits this sanctum is the editorial page of The Charlotte Daily Observer. In the issue of October 30 appeared this prophetic utterance:

"There seems no doubt of the fact that Congress will be unable to much longer stave off the submission to the people of the amendment providing prohibition for all the States. The various units of organization are being assembled as by a giant magnet, and back of it looms the vote the man who wants to stay in Congress, or the man who wants to go there, must have. It is a large movement and like all large bodies must progress slowly. It is being accelerated somewhat lately by the recruited influences of business. Fast public recognition is being given by business interests that liquor, next to labor agitation, is the greatest enemy of business and that liquor is responsible for the greater part of labor agitation prevailing or to prevail. And the whole country is fast coming around to this view of the business world. The handwriting is even now on the walls of the National Capitol, perhaps dim and indistinct to some, but developing into the proper focus as on a moving picture screen."

Those who are conversant with the present situation must know that The Observer's words are well and fitly spoken, and that our Congress rapidly becomes aware that action in this all important matter cannot much longer be deferred. The people are becoming restive, and the feeling grows everywhere that the legalized saloon has been weighed in the balances and been found worse than wanting.

THE DEADLY CIGARETTE

The attention of every SUN reader is directed to a timely, scientific and moral utterance in this issue by Rev. T. J. Ogburn. That in the many years of his ministry Bro. Ogburn has not witnessed the conversion of a single boy or man addicted to the cigarette habit is a striking and sad comment. The deadly sedative poison of the cigarette gradually takes away the moral basis of character and determination and leaves the pitiable one to his hopeless and helpless fate.

It matters not how strong a boy is, nor how bright, if he smokes cigarettes he has not an equal and even chance in the world with the one who does not smoke, and invariably loses out.

There is no more deadly or desperate evil today among the youth of our land, and we wonder with Bro. Ogburn why the church and the ministry do not have more to say on the subject.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., changes his address from Newport News to Dendron, Va.

—The 32nd annual session of the North Carolina Sunday School Association (for all denominations) will be held in Salisbury Nov. 22-24.

—Pres. W. A. Harper reports successful and progressive sessions of both the Alabama and Ga. and Ala. Conferences, which he attended the past two weeks.

—The new and handsome church building, Hines' Chapel, Guilford county, is to be dedicated next Sunday at 11 a. m. Dr. W. C. Wicker has been pastor during the time of building. Rev. J. Fuller Johnson is to be installed pastor next Sunday.

—The Advance, Chicago, one of the leading and most widely circulated of the Congregational papers, announces that it is impossible to continue publication at the present subscription rate of $1.00 a year and that the price will be advanced to $2.50 the year on Feb. 1.

—Rev. S. B. Klapp is exceedingly anxious for our Danville, Va., mission and is pushing the work on the building. Brick and wood work are going on now and the desire is to push the work to a successful conclusion without having to stop.

—Our sympathy is extended to our brother, Rev. Warren H. Denison, D. D., Norfolk, Va., who on Sunday received a telegram from Clifton, Ill., announcing the death there of his only brother, Fredrick C. Denison. Dr. Denison left Norfolk at once to attend the funeral at Clifton.

—Twenty children, most of them girls, ranging in age from 7 to 17 were burned to death in a school building at Peabody, Mass., Oct. 28 when the school building took fire. Six hundred pupils had just entered the building when the flames, which caused a stampede, were discovered.

—Rev. J. F. Morgan, pastor, held his "farewell service" with New Providence and Graham churches last Sunday. Bro. Morgan goes shortly to the pastorate of Main St. Christian church, Berkley, Va. Rev. J. G. Truitt, member of the senior class in Elon College becomes pastor of Providence and Graham churches.

—Our "precious promise" that the Word would have us bear in mind often, for our comfort, is "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, an house not made with hands eternal in the heavens." (II Cor. 5:1). That is not a matter of speculation; it is fact —we know says the writer.

—Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., recently celebrated the fifteenth anniversary as pastor of Franklin, Va., church. A modern and costly edifice is now going up to take the place of the old building which Bro. Rowland found there. His congregation has grown in esteem for their pastor, and in numbers, and in devotion to the cause of Christ's kingdom. These have indeed been fruitful years for Bro. Rowland and his people.

—A. M. Grant, a planter of Green county, N. C., has employed detectives to find the men who have stolen from him $2,250, the savings of a life-time. Mr. Grant feared the banks and so kept his money locked in a trunk at home. He found his trunk locked all right the other day, but his precious sheekles were gone. It seems the irony of fate for the man who distrusts everybody else to fall a victim to that distrust. It is usually so. Always pity the one who has no confidence in the business integrity of his fellowman.

—The Executive Secretary reported to N. C. Synod of the Presbyterians in session at Salisbury last week that there had been 4,059 additions to the church in their foreign mission field the past year which was 38 conversions and additions for each missionary on the field, whereas ministers in the home land only had ten additions each to their credit. This may be taken as a quite general average—more than three times the results to each minister in the foreign field as compared with each minister in the home field.

—Dr. W. W. Staley on Nov 1 enters upon his thirty-fourth year as pastor of the Suffolk Christian church. In electing him for next year the church voted to increase his salary from $1500 to $1800 and parsonage. This is a deserved expression of the continued and growing esteem of an appreciative people to a most efficient, loyal and faithful pastor. Bro. H. Woodward was elected treasurer of the church for the twenty-fifth year in office, and we doubt if any church ever had a more capable and worthy official.

—Our village and their hosts of warm friends greatly sympathize with Dr. E. E. Randolph and wife in the loss by fire of their handsome and newly completed home here last Friday p. m., and with Prof. Oscar Randolph and family who lived in the same home over the loss of their furniture, library and fixtures, on which there was no insurance. Dr. Randolph had no insurance on furniture and not a great deal on his house. The total loss is heavy and much of it irreparable. Generous friends of the village and community have done much in liberality to help make the loss as bearable as possible.

—Rev. J. W. Holt dedicated Lee's Chapel, in Lee county this State last Sunday, as a house of worship. The building is ample, comfortable, neat and is paid for. A church of some 50 or more members has been organized and is to ask for admittance to the Eastern N.

C. Conference at its annual session next week. Bro. Holt dedicated the church and also preached in the afternoon last Sunday in the presence of a congregation that more than filled the house. Rev. P. T. Klapp has been pastor and leader of the flock in gathering the congregation and erecting the building which is situated about four miles south of Moncure on S. A. L. Ry.

—The women of the Missionary Societies of the Eastern Va. Conference had a glorious session at Waverly Oct. 28. More than a thousand dollars was raised by the Societies reporting in this Conference the past year. Mrs. C. H. Rowland presided and Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Waverly, Mrs. Hattie Savage, Norfolk, Miss Margaret Brickhouse, Norfolk, Mrs. W. H. Denison, Norfolk, Mrs. I. W. Johnson, Suffolk, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Berkley, Mrs. R. H. Peel, Wakefield, Mrs. F. Bullock, Waverly, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland and Mrs. R. B. Wood, Portsmouth, were those whose names appear on the well arranged program. Our women in Eastern Va. are doing something for missions.

—We are glad to get the following items of interest from the Roanoke (Alabama) Leader, Oct. 27: The Alabama Christian Conference convened last Wednesday at Rock Stand—one day late. In spite of the inclement weather every church in the Conference except one was represented. Officers were elected as follows: Pres. Rev. G. O. Lankford; Vice-Pres. Rev. J. W. Elder; Sec. Rev. E. M. Carter; Asst. Sec. Rev. J. H. Hughes; Treas. Dr. J. M. Welch. Reports from ministers and churches were good, the churches having made substantial gains in the matter of finance and in membership. During the year progressive Home Mission work has been done. Steps were taken leading to an enlargement of this phase of the work. Reports from various committees showed progress. Addresses by different ones were instructive and inspiring. Rev. G. D. Hunt preached ably Wednesday evening. Dr. W. A. Harper delivered a masterly address Thursday morning, after which Rev. B. J. Earp, of Columbus, Ga., preached a soul-stirring sermon. Though limited in time, this was one of the best sessions of the conference ever held. The next meeting will be held at Dingler's Chapel.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The test of loyalty to any cause is not found in the time of its greatest prosperity, but in the time of its great adversity. The "Shibboleths" of a denomination are easy to pronounce when position or patronage is the immediate reward of such proclamation, but when personal sacrifice is imminent silence or desertion often follows. But this reveals human selfishness rather than deep conviction. What the church needs is a conviction that is stronger than any personal interest; that will accept a cross rather than an unmerited crown.

The political chameleon often lands in political oblivion, while the citizen with fixed convictions, unchanged in defeat, wins out in the end of even the cravings of ambition. This same principle has its counterpart in church shifters. This is especially true of those who change for selfish reasons. All changes made on the basis of real convictions are really praiseworthy; for it often requires great courage to leave an old communion, to break with personal associations and friendships of long standing; but where purely personal interests control in the change, it is, usually, a losing proposition.

This is more fully demonstrated in the union with a church by an outsider for the purpose of making friends, increasing customers in trade, getting into social circles, or any personal ambition that may move the person to identify himself with the church. It invariably results in failure. Nothing counts here, but a real change of heart, union with the church of his real choice, and a sincere following of the meek and lowly Jesus.

There is room always for the sincere man; and the word sincere is a very strong word. In Roman sculpture the artist would often fill up small crevices in the marble with wax; but an honest artist would not use wax to cover up defects. A statue without wax was said to be sine cera, without wax; i. e., without flaw. Now, the sincere person is the person without flaw, and that means a very high type of man.

This is the age of fickleness, frequent change, looking out for the best thing and the best place; and, even in churches this tendency may carry people into ranks where they do not belong. Be true to thyself and thou wilt not be false to the cause of Christ; or, be true to Christ and thou wilt not be false to thyself. Character is not built on the size of the body to which one is united but upon the character of the body to which one is united. The Christian church offers a good test to loyal souls. No worldly advantage is locked up in great numbers, no false ambitions are rewarded, and no unmerited honors are bestowed. It is the church that gives opportunity to convictions, to merit, to self-sacrifice, and a loyalty that cannot be questioned. W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Allen and little daughter Elizabeth of Danville, Va., were here Sunday to see their daughter, Miss Estelle, who is in College.

Mrs. Matthew Liles of Danville, Va., was here Sunday, visiting her daughter, Miss Iva.

Mr. W. S. Wicker of Hickory, N. C., was here Sunday visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Wicker.

President Harper, Rev. J. O. Cox, and the Sun's editor are attending the Eastern Virginia Conference in Norfolk this week.

Prof. A. G. Randolph of Hendersonville, N. C., was here Monday.

Dr. E. E. Randolph was in Pittsboro two days this week as an expert witness for the State, having been called upon some time ago to analyze certain substances for evidence in a State prison case in Chatham county.

Last Friday evening at six o'clock the entire College community was alarmed and saddened when the news quickly spread that the Randolph residence was on fire. The residence was a handsome one and had just been completed. It was owned by Dr. E. E. Randolph, and was occupied by him and his wife, Prof. and Mrs. E. O. Randolph and little daughter, and Miss Mary Randolph, a sister to Dr. and Prof. Randolph. The fire originated somehow in the basement, it is thought, and the members of the family being away at the time, only a few pieces of furniture were saved. The entire student body and people of the village surrounded the building, but little could be done to help. The loss was a severe one to the entire family, and especially to these two noble teachers whose libraries amounted to years of careful selection, and costing more than two thousand dollars, to say nothing of the loss of other valuables. These friends have the sympathy of the entire community. "X"

THE CIGARETTE EVIL

BY REV. T. J. OGBURN

BO BEGIN with, tobacco is a powerful sedative poison. A single pound of it contains enough nicotine, its chief poison, to kill 300 men; and a single cigar enough to kill two men. One-seventh of a drop on a cat's tongue will produce instant death. "The heart, the brain, the entire system is relaxed, softened and weakened by the use of tobacco, and more dangerously and rapidly so by the cigarette than by tobacco in any other form" because of the larger quantity of furfural in cigarette smoke. Furfural is said to be fifty times as poisonous as ordinary whiskey, and the smoke of one cigarette contains as much of this most poisonous "aldehyde" as is contained in two ounces of whiskey, besides the nicotine and monoxide inhaled—all deadly poisons! Inhalation is the most rapid and effectual method of introducing a volatile poison into the system. The fumes of burning tobacco are destructive to all forms of life, animal and vegetable. When used to kill grubs and noxious insects on plants, great care must be used to protect the plants from destruction. No form of animal or vegetable life can thrive in tobacco smoke.

Summary: Tobacco is a powerful poison. Inhalation of tobacco smoke is the most rapid and deadly method of tobacco poisoning. Cigarette smoke contains tobacco's most deadly poison. Therefore the cigarette habit is an evil. And it is an evil which, though it affected the body only, would deserve far greater condemnation and opposition from the church and society and the state. But when we consider, as we shall presently, the evils the cigarette habit brings upon the minds and hearts of men we must wonder at the comparative indifference and silence of the influential people of our land concerning it. How must we account for this apathetic attitude towards the greatest curse of our land today?

WHAT IS THE HARM OF THE CIGARETTE HABIT?

Cigarette smoking brings weakness, disease, and death to the body. It unfits one for athletics, hard labor and skilled workmanship. "Out of 100 boys examined for admission to athletic sports in a Chicago school, 21 were unfit for the exercise and 97 suffered from some form of heart disease, and almost to a man they were cigarette smokers." The non-tobacco users in a Yale class were found to have gained, during their college course, over the tobacco users 32 per cent. in weight, 29 per cent in height, 19 per cent in chest measure, and in lung capacity 66 per cent. President Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, says: "The boys who smoke cigarettes rarely make failures in after life, because they do not have any after life. The boy who begins smoking before his fifteenth year never enters the life of the world. He is concerned with the sexton and undertaker." Mr. Burbank, the great plant wizard, says: "Even men who smoke but one cigar a day cannot be trusted with my most delicate work. Cigarettes are even more damaging than cigars. No boy living would commence the use of cigarettes if he knew what a soulless, useless, worthless thing they would make of him." Out of 71 merchants interviewed in Detroit, Michigan, 69 employed no cigarette smokers. The Chicago post office authorities will, under no circumstances employ a cigarette smoker. The superintendent of one of our trolley car companies would as soon apply to the county lunatic asylum for its employees as to retain cigarette users in his employ. One railway superintendent says "the cigarette smoker is even more dangerous and unreliable in an emergency than a drunkard. His nerves are sure to fail him." The physical effects of cigarette smoking, scientists declare, are such that each generation of smokers becomes more degenerate until finally wiped out.

The nicotine of cigarettes thoroughly saturates the smoker's system and poisons his blood. Leeches placed on his arm soon loosen their hold and in a few minutes drop off dead.

Cigarette smoking injures the mind. Out of 2,336 public school cigarette boys examined, tabulated and reported on, only six were reported 'bright' students; ten were 'average,' and the remaining 2,320 were 'poor' or 'worthless' students."

In a certain school were found cigarette smoking boys in the 8th grade, five years behind girls they had strated with in the 1st grade.

An examination of several men in 1400 American colleges showed that the average mark in scholastic standing of the non-smokers was 79.4 against 74.5 for the smokers; while the non-smokers furnished 31 per cent. of the highest marks and 21 per cent. of the lowest, and the smokers furnished 31 per cent of the highest marks and 79 of the lowest, and twice as many conditions and failures as the non-smokers.

So demoralizing is the effect of cigarette smoking upon student life and work that some colleges refuse to receive tobacco using applicants, the Pennsylvania College faculty, for one, advising such applicants to go to some other college, believing that "no tobacco user can escape injury physically, mentally and morally." William Allen White says, "the man who knocks out his brain with tobacco is knocked out of the contest for supremacy in any field of activity."

The cigarette smoker suffers moral injury. The oldest fidelity company in America declares that the effects of cigarettes are deleterious both physically and morally and they refuse to bond the cigarette smoker, evidently doubting his honesty.

John Wannamaker says, "the cigarette is the starting point of the downfall of thousands who fall into its clutches and eventually drift away from all sense of morality."

"The boy who before adolescence forms the cigarette habit will be a deceiver, and in other ways show degenerate tendencies."

Dr. Robert Speer says, "The use of cigarettes breaks down the principles of self restraint and personal cleanness and purity."

One authority declares that the small boy's association with cigarette smokers invariable makes him a liar.

The famous "boys judge," Judge Lindsay, of Denver, Col., "who has dealt with thousands and thousands of boys in disgrace and sorrow and misery" attributes "these troubles almost altogether to the vile cigarette habit"; and he declares "no manly honest boy will smoke cigarettes. The cigarette invites every other demon of habit to come and add to its degradation."

Very few cigarette smoking boys become Christians. I have never known one to be converted in a meeting of mine.

Of course the conversion of the boy smoker would be possible with God were the conditions of conversion possible with the smoker. Ordinarily the cigarette habit renders its victim incapable of evangelical conviction. He quickly becomes insusceptible of the feeling of shame or of remorse. Judge Gemmell, of a Chicago court, before whose bar 25,000 criminals had passed, said "nearly all the men and women who had lost the faculty of blushing were cigarette smokers." The ability to think of shameful sin without the sense of shame is a fatal moral disability.

Perhaps the saddest and strangest factor in the smoker's inability to reform is the perversion of the little will power left him—the utterly irresolute, or the perversely resolute attitude and condition of the soul found only in the most abject and debasing moral slavery. To illustrate: when he resolves to quit smoking he instinctively, automatically, begins to roll a cigarette; he must smoke to get courage to keep his resolve; he is unable to quit smoking without smoking. Finally he resolves to smoke on, always. A pale, lank, trembling cigarette fiend once replied to my kind remonstrance, "Mister, I would smoke this cigarette if I knew it would land me in hell in five minutes! And he no doubt would. Thousands of men are thus enslaved, and thousands of our boys are making for this fatal goal. The cigarette habit binds as fast as the opium habit does, and I fear very few of its victims will ever escape the doom of the incorrigible.

The whole cigarette business is an awful wrong; its manufacture, sale and use. No good, sensible man will dare defend it as a positive good. It is "evil," and only evil, and that continually. It has no redeeming feature whatever." It is utterly unreasonable and indefensible.

Surely it behooves all good people to exert all possible good influence against this dreadful evil, so ruinous to many thousands of our boys and young men, the traffic in which must be demoralizing and from which no good can come.—In N. C. Christian Advocate.

NOTICE! NOTICE!!

The Program of the Western N. C. Conference is being mailed to each speaker to-day. Remember the date, November 16-18, 1915. The place, Pleasant Hill Christian church. The chairman of the Entertainment Committee, Mr. Paul E. Coble, Liberty, N. C., R. F. D. No. 3. Write him when you are going to conference and be sure to go on Monday, Nov. 15th, in order to be on time for the first service Tuesday at 10:00 A. M. All together for a full delegation, a great conference. Let our watch word be "Move forward."

J. F. MORGAN, Secretary.

—It has been formally announced from the White House that President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt will be quietly married and with a simple ceremony at Mrs. Galt's residence in Washington near the close of December.

Joash Repairs the Temple. 2 Kings 11:21-12; 16

At the early age of seven the boy Joash was crowned king of Israel. He had been spared from the hands of his idolatrous grandmother by his aunt who was the wife of the high priest who lived in the temple.

The people rejoiced when Joash was crowned because they felt the need of Jehovah. The high priest made a covenant with the king and Jehovah and a covenant with the king and the people. A covenant was the most binding of all sacred and civil contracts. Since they had entered into a covenant with the king the people felt the allegiance to him.

After the king had reigned for twenty-three years under the guidance of Jehoiaha he thought that the house of God needed some necessary repairs. The priests had failed to repair the Temple and therefore Joash deemed it wise to make an earnest appeal to the priests and the people for money to repair the Temple. Jehoiaha was willing and bored a hole in a chest and set by the altar for the purpose of receiving money to repair the "breaches."

The people responded generously and the priests gave their salary only receiving the sin money for their support. The Temple was soon repaired; the house of God was made new and and inviting again.

The lessons we can draw from the actions of the young king Joash are: The house of God that we worship in may need repairing. Compare it with your own house. Does the furniture look inviting? What about the carpet on the floor? Does the outside need painting or repainting? Is God's house as good as yours? Are you satisfied to give God any kind of a building and then live in a palace yourself? Is this consistent with His will?

Then what about the lawn and the grave yard? Are they kept neat and clean looking, or are they used for pasture lots? You might say that looks don't count much, but Joash thought looks was well to consider. Do you have ample space for the accommodation of vehicles near the church? If not can you get the space? It is worth while to consider it.

Joash found the people ready to respond to his call when he gave them a chance. You will find it likewise. Give the people of God a chance to fix up the grounds and the building; appeal to them in the right spirit and you will be surprised at the result.

"The condition of the house of the Lord reflects the spiritual condition of the congregation."

"When God's kingdom holds first place in the heart, giving for it will be done joyfully."

C. E. TOPIC, NOV. 7

Tasks That are Waiting for the Church of Christ. Luke 4:14-21 (Consecration Meeting)

This being consecration meeting every one will especially want to take part in some way aside from singing. The leader will define what is meant by a task, giving as illustrations tasks that pertain to the duties in the field, in the office, in the shops, in the store or from some other secular work.

The leader will remind his hearers that whatever the task may be in his church it is a task given by Jesus Christ. Request the members to speak of one task only, for others want to speak.

For answer in the meeting from the C. E. World:

Are the tasks of the church growing harder or easier? Why?

What tasks are waiting for the church in our town?

What tasks are waiting for the church in our State?

What tasks are waiting for the church in our nation?

What great international tasks are waiting for the church?

Why should the smallest and least Christian have a share in doing the great tasks of the church?

How can Christian Endeavor help in accomplishing the tasks of the church?

What reforms should the church undertake and aid?

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE AT WAVERLY, OCT. 28

For some time our women have been looking forward to our third annual missionary conference which met with the women of Waverly, and a splendid day we had with them. The weather was ideal; the attendance was good—there were 64 delegates from 20 societies. The hospitality of the entertaining society was all that one could ask. The reports were especially good, showing an increase in members and funds and the papers read were of a high order, showing study and preparation.

The treasurer's report is always of especial interest. Mrs. Bryant has shown the most painstaking care in getting up her report and it was indeed a model for definiteness, detail and accuracy. The total amount from the women's societies for all purposes was $772.06; from the Y. P. $200.60; and from the W. W. $130.64; grand total $1094.05.

Perhaps this is not the best that could have been done; yet it shows that something is being done, and we are planning for greater things for another year. We want to reach the women in each church in the Conference during the year, with the mite boxes, if not with a society.

The Willing Workers will continue to clothe Jesse Foster at the Orphanage and the Y. P.'s are going to work for the Porto Rico automobile, and that means that an automobile will be forthcoming; for they have a determined leader who brings things to pass. We do not know where you would find a leader who would come nearer accomplishing what she sets out to do than they have in Mrs. Leathers. An opportunity was given to those present to contribute and $34 was raised on the floor.

The women's societies will continue to work for the Building Fund and each is asked to raise $10 again this year for that fund.

The women and Y. P. in this conference are becoming aroused, and full of enthusiasm. It was indeed a goodly sight to see the large number of women assembled to learn and to plan for greater things. The Conference will meet with the women of the Franklin society next October—until then let us labor with zeal and pray with great earnestness and we believe that there will be even better reports than for the past year.

It would perhaps be remiss not mention the highly entertaining and impressive exercise gotten up by Mrs. Foster and given by the W. W. of the Waverly church. Most of this was original with Mrs. Foster and to those who know of her talent along this line, nothing further need be said. It was a fitting close to the day's work and after an automobile ride in and around Waverly for the delegates we turned our faces homeward, enthused for the coming year and determined to do more efficient service. Mrs. R.

REPORT

Of E. Va. Woman's Mission Board to the E. Va. Woman's Missionary Conference

Your Board recommends the following: 1st. That societies again be asked to take an offering for the Building Fund—societies contributing $10.00 being entitled to a membership in the S. C. C. W. Board. 2nd. That Willing Workers continue to support Jesse Foster in the orphanage. 3rd. That the Y. P. societies have as their special work the raising of funds for the Porto Rico auto. 4th. That all societies be urged to take a special offering for the Contingent Fund in March and the Literature Fund in October. 5th. That we continue to apply our foreign funds to the Ichinoski field. 6th. That an effort be made to put mite boxes into every church having no other organized work.

The proper care of the orphan child is a problem that is ever before us; but one that is receiving greater consideration at this time than ever before. Different solutions are suggested by different individuals but according to our way of thinking the following from "Our Orphans' Home" is about the best we have read on the subject. We trust every friend of the Orphanage will carefully read and prayerfully consider:

SHOULD THE CHURCH CARE FOR ORPHANS

We doubt whether of all plans devised by human wisdom, or suggested by human love and benevolence for the care of children left orphaned in the world, there has ever been any which takes the place of the child's broken home or so completely fills the purpose of our Father in Heaven who, in his infinite wisdom, established the Home, as do the orphans' homes established by the benevolence of the church.

The mothers pension plan which provides for the orphan in its own home is good as far as it goes, where the mother is what she ought to be. But the benefits of this system do not reach the very class of orphans most in need of them. It is in the motherless home that the orphan suffers most, and it is the children of such homes that need most the guiding hand, and the kindly offices provided in the children's home of the church.

The system of adopting orphans into childless homes is excellent in some respects, but only in proportion to the goodness of the home. Speaking out of several years experience in the orphanage work and from a very close observation of many experiments, we come to the conclusion that not every well-to-do childless home that opens to the orphan is an ideal place in which to rear and develop a strong Christian character.

We very much doubt whether the dying mother, could she make the choice, would prefer many of these childless homes to the refuge provided for her children by her church.

The State is not in a position to make proper and adequate provision for needy orphan children for the reason that religious instruction is no part of the duties or privileges of the State, while it is the first and chief obligation that the church owes to the dependent children.

It is our firm conviction that the church ought to take care of the orphan children of her departed saints and also as far as possible of dependent and needy children thrown upon the charity of the world without regard to church affiliations, for the very reason that she can do it better than any other agency.

We believe also that it is a divinely instructed mission to use her God-given gifts in the interest of those who need her help and into whose wounded hearts she may pour the healing balm of consolation. The Christian church is God's blessing to the orphan, and the orphan is His richer blessing to the church. "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how that He said it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Magnolia, Va., Oct. 23, 1915.

Dear Uncle Jim: I suppose it is about time for me to write again as it is getting late. I am very busy studying and don't get much time to write. I hope all at the orphanage are getting along all right at school. Enclosed find my dime for October.

Lovingly,

Annie Lee Felton.

We are grateful for your letter assuring us of your continued interest.

WILL YOU READ THIS PERSONAL MESSAGE

It may mean the beginning of the happiest moment of your life—a complete restoration to health and strength—the thrill of once more feeling that you are well. We want you to read the simple, truthful statement of one of the most noted of Richmond's medical men, a plain impassioned truth from a man who reached the very highest pinnacle of success as measured by his work and what he did for "The Cause" and for Christian-like humanity. Read this message from—

Dr. B. Wood, M. D., D. D., S. late President Society Prevention Cruelty to Animals: "For the past three years my office has been in the same building and so situated that I could see and hear what takes place in the office of the 'Fonficleo Lithia Water,' and out of thousands of persons who have used this water for various diseases and especially for Stomach, Bladder, Kidney and Liver troubles, it is a rare exception that they do not declare that they have either been cured or benefited by its use and a large number of these cures have come under my observation. In some instances where they had no faith in the water until after they had commenced its use, they then became very enthusiastic. I am convinced

Do You Read Labels?

Domestic science teachers and food authorities are urging the housewife to carefully read the labels on all food articles.

The laws of most States compel food manufacturers to print the ingredients of their products on the label, and this enables consumers to distinguish healthful foods from those which may be deleterious.

High-grade baking powders are made of pure cream of tartar, derived from grapes. Royal Baking Powder is a type of the highest grade. It is healthful beyond a doubt and the safest and best to use.

The low-grade baking powders are made from alum, a mineral acid salt, or phosphate of lime.

Consumers can learn the character of the baking powder by referring to the label, which must state whether the contents include cream of tartar, alum or phosphate.

Take Line for Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (July 27, 1915, Page 308), Dr. C. F. Disen, of Minneapolis, holds that a "deficiency of calcium" (lime) is responsible for the physical conditions which lead to tuberculosis, and the therapy he advocates rests on this basis.

One of the reasons for the wide-spread success of Eckman's Alternative in the treatment of tuberculosis is its ability to supply this deficiency. It contains a lime salt in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Many cases seem to have yielded to it.

We make no exaggerated claims for it, but prefer that it be tried on the same basis as any other prescription, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

POPE'S CHAPEL

The meeting at this place was conducted by Rev. A. T. Banks of Henderson. Those who attended enjoyed hearing the deep spiritual truths presented by Bro. Banks. There were five professions, 3 accessions and 1 baptism.

BEULAH

Our meeting second Sunday in September was largely attended. People thronged from far and near to hear Rev. Neil Rowland. Crowds outside the house listened attentively to the soul stirring sermons. 22 conversions and 14 accessions and baptisms. I return to Beulah for the fifth year. During these past four years have had a very pleasant pastorate.

MT. GILEAD

Our meeting second Sunday in September was conducted by Rev. J. F. Morgan. Everybody was delighted with Bro. Morgan. There were 18 conversions and 18 baptized by Bro. Morgan. We are glad for the good work being done at this place. Bro. Allen, our past superintendent has sown the good seed in the hearts of the young that have grown into a live and wide-awake Sunday school. We have one of the best. Bro. Strickland is present superintendent.

NEW HOPE

The meeting fourth Sunday in September was held by Rev. Neil Rowland. Although the weather was against us, Bro. Rowland's services were highly appreciated. The people love to have him with them. There were several conversions and two accessions and baptisms.

Weaver Piano Pleases North Carolina Family.

"The Weaver Piano I bought of you has been in use about six years and we are well pleased with it. It is one of the sweetest toned pianos I have ever heard, which is the opinion of all who have heard it. If I were buying another piano, it would be the Weaver.

Very truly yours,
J. C. FISHER."

Mr. Fisher is Superintendent of the Junaluska tannery, Hazelwood, N. C. He is a capable man who would be satisfied with nothing but the best for his home.

Why Do Weaver Pianos Please?

Because we have been building pianos and organs for forty-five years and have never manufactured any instrument except a good one. Our whole ambition has been to conduct a business that would grow a little higher in the respect of the public each year. That kind of a business house pays and it is a pleasure to be connected with it. Our present position as manufacturers of the Weaver—the highest standard of piano quality so far attained—is due to that ambition.

You wouldn't be surprised that Weaver pianos last a life time if you knew the methods, men and materials on which their reputation is based. Weaver pianos are used and endorsed by many of the world's leading musicians, including Alice Nielsen, Mme. Homer, Victor Herbert, Frank La Forge, Frank Croton and many others.

We also make and sell the Charming Toned York Piano, the Popular Livingston Piano and the Celebrated Weaver Organ.
They may be obtained on terms to suit your convenience.

OUR DEAD

Morris
James E. Morris was born October 23, 1825, and died July 17, 1915, age 89 years, 8 months and 24 days. He resided in the same community during his long pilgrimage on earth. He married in 1866. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Annie L. Jennings, of Richmond, Va. His wife died February 4, 1907. He had been a member of Centerville, Va., church for years—possibly before it became a Christian church, while it was a Methodist. For many years he had been greatly afflicted and suffered intensely. He bore his suffering and abided his time well. The funeral service was conducted from the home and burial by the side of his wife in the family plot on the farm. A large group of friends, neighbors and relatives attended the service, which was conducted by the pastor.

Jan. L. Foster.

Harris
George Robert Harris was born Aug. 6, 1914, and died September 15, 1915. He was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Harris, of Waverly, Va. He was a fine child, large and handsome in every feature; the joy of the home and delight of loved ones, till the dread disease, diphtheria, took him from the earthly home to the heavenly, where he shall still be joyous in the company, "for of such is the kingdom of heaven." IF YOU VALUE YOUR HEALTH Read Every Word of This Remarkable Story

It is told by one who has himself experienced the regeneration in health which he encourages you to seek by the self-same means.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The hardships of a traveling salesman's life had wrecked my health. My family physician diagnosed my case as chronic gastritis, brought on by disease of the liver and complicated by kidney trouble. I consulted specialists who confirmed his diagnosis. Months passed, I grew worse and was finally compelled to give up my work.

By chance I heard of some wonderful cures which had resulted from drinking the water of a little spring in the Mineral Belt of South Carolina, a picture of which spring appears on this page. In desperation I tried it. On the second day I thought that I could notice some improvement; at the end of the first week my appetite and digestion had returned and I was much stronger; at the end of the third week I felt that I was completely cured. That was six years ago and I still enjoy perfect health.

Knowing that it had restored my health and believing that it had saved my life, I bought the Spring.

I then determined to see whether the water would cure others as it had cured me. I shipped ten gallons absolutely free of charge to each of one thousand sufferers from chronic diseases. Only four reported no benefit from the use of the ten gallons. The other nine hundred and ninety-six reported decided benefit or complete cures. Many claimed that the water had saved their lives.

I realized that I had discovered one of the world's greatest mineral springs, and I decided to devote my life to it. But how could I make the world listen; how could I make them believe my story? The precious water was running to waste while thousands were suffering. I said, I will make them believe me by showing my faith in them and in the curative power of the Spring. I will tell them that the water shall cost them nothing if it fails to benefit.

The world listened! Some wrote for proof and I sent them the letters which I had received from their fellowmen. Others accepted my offer without question. Thousands have written me reporting relief and permanent cure of a great variety of chronic diseases.

But some of the water still ran to waste for lack of belief. I determined that every drop should be used to relieve the sufferings of humanity. To this end I requested the advertising manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate to come to see me. At my desk I opened my mail and showed him the letters from men and women from all parts of the country who had suffered and who had found relief. I gave him my letter files and induced him to spend several hours reading my past correspondence with those who were using the water. I showed him the chemical analysis and letters from physicians explaining the curative properties of the water.

He believed, and as a result he has written this announcement for me.

WILL YOU BELIEVE?

I do not ask your implicit faith; only enough to try the water for three weeks as I did. I estimate that I drank about ten gallons and I, therefore, offer gladly to ship you two five gallon demijohns on my guarantee that if you find that it does not benefit you I will promptly refund the price, which is only $2.00. You must promise to drink the water in accordance with the instructions which I will send you and return the empty demijohns. I make you the sole judge as to whether the water has benefited you, and as the Advertising Manager of this paper has kindly consented to guarantee my guarantee to refund your money, if you are not benefited, I hope you will feel perfectly free to accept my offer.

This offer is extended to all who suffer with any chronic disease, especially cancer and consumption, but I especially recommend the water for the treatment of stomach, liver, kidney and bladder diseases and for rheumatism, gout, uric acid poisoning, gall stones, diabetes, nervous headache and general debility resulting from impure or impoverished blood. These are the diseases most frequently mentioned in the letters which I have received, but my offer is open to anyone who suffers from any chronic ailment. Yours sincerely,
N. F. SHIVAR, Proprietor.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir, As you are well aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered 20 gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months from date I began drinking it gained 25 lbs., was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribed it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely nature's remedy.

DuPont, Ga., Nov. 25, 1911.
Shivar Spring, Shelton, S. C.: Gentlemen—I have suffered for years with nervous indigestion and kidney troubles. Derived more benefit from the Shivar Spring Water than from months of treatment with A. L. and numerous other Springs. I consider it the very best water extant.
AUGUSTUS DUPONT,
Lexington, Va., Nov. 24, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—suffering with intestinal indigestion and the Shivar Spring Water cured me. I would gladly recommend it to all suffering with indigestion, kidney and liver trouble. My father had kidney trouble last fall and he thought Shivar Spring Water saved his life. Respectfully,
MRS. HARVEY DIXON.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27, 1911.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I ordered 10 gallons Shivar Spring Water especially for my teaching baby who was suffering with its stomach and bowels. This water cured her disorders entirely and she is hereafter healthy. I stopped medicine and gave her only the water. She was also run down from the heat and fatigue, and the water has restored me also. Thanking you very respectfully,
MRS. W. C. MCGILL.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 11, 1912.
Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—until a few weeks ago my wife was a chronic sufferer from gall stones. She was stricken very ill and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. Rev. A. F. Fontaine, pastor of Shandon Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after using the water she was again apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has suffered no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers.
J. P. DRAFFLE

P. S.—I suffered for 8 years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder. After using this I was cured. I would advise all who are afflicted and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL IT TODAY.
Shivar Spring, Box 9, Shelton, S. C.
Gentlemen—I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two ($2.00) dollars for ten gallons (two five gallon demijohns) of Shivar Spring Water. I agree to give the water a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you have given me, and derive no benefit therefrom you are to refund the price in full, upon demand and upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Divine Discovery

God revealed to man, man did not discover for himself, the conception of the divine ownership and the human stewardship of all things. The one is corollary of the other. If God owns all, man is tenant, a trustee for a time, a steward who must render an account. The recognition of stewardship marks the supremacy of the spiritual man. To set aside a tenth for the support of one of their tithes for religious instruction and worship was a solemn trust committed to the Israelites by the divine Owner of the land on which they lived. "Behold, the heaven and the heaven of heavens is the Lord's thy God, the earth, also, with all that therein is." (Deut. 10:14.) The happiest day for man was when he made the discovery through revelation that God owned all and he was steward in charge for the time.

Man-Worship

On Wednesday of this week (November 10) Yoshihito was crowned Emperor of Japan in the ancient capital of Kioto. On last Sunday as the royal cortege moved into the ancient capital a "church-like hush enveloped the city and the Emperor and the Imperial Shrine were silently worshipped by his subjects." This is not the first time a man was ever worshipped. And the results in this instance may be as fatal finally as in that other case. Read: "And upon a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them. And the people gave a shout, saying it is the voice of a god, and not of a man. And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory; and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost." (Acts 12:22,23.)

The Plan of God (?)

In addressing the Y. M. C. A. at Norfolk recently Attorney-General Pollard of Virginia is reported to have said that "he could not understand why the church is divided into so many denominations, but he thought it must be the plan of God." We wonder why so astute a politician as General Pollard and a man so keen in moral perception cannot discern the distinction between the follies and blunders of man, and the wisdom and mercies of God. The plan of God to have schisms and divisions and distractions among the children of God and the household of faith? Sin and selfishness and Satan, not wisdom and righteousness and God have torn the peoples of God asunder and divided His church into ridiculous isms and schisms.

Safety First

J. C. Rose, chief claim agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in addressing the National Safety Council at Philadelphia last week, insisted that no man who takes one drink of liquor should be allowed or licensed to drive an automobile. "This may seem drastic," declared the speaker, "but if you will take the question home to your friends for consideration, you will agree with me. Why not eliminate this hazard of life and property by refusing a license to the rum drinker?" Saloon keepers will doubtless howl that this is taking away "their liberties." But if Mr. Rose's advice were carried out fewer accidents would occur from automobiles and hundreds of lives would be prolonged. "Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow * * * what is your life?" Jas. 4:14.)

Honoring God

It is possible for man to honor God. This is done not with words or works or worship. It is done by acknowledging with our substance that God is supreme and is sovereign. Words and works and worship may be cheap and come easy. Into our substance, our possessions, our belongings we put our best energy, best strength, best blood, best thought. And so when we give of our best, render to God that which is rightfully His, we honor Him by acknowledging that He comes first, and is first. That is why the wise man wrote, "Honor the Lord with thy substance, and the first-fruits of all thine increase; so shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine." (Psa. 3:9, 10.) We may flatter God with the vain words of our mouths; we honor Him with the offerings of our hands and hearts.

Weight of Example

One of Baltimore's notable citizens is W. W. Spence, now past a hundred years of age. He has been a member and regular attendant at church for seventy three years. Recently his pastor said that which was true of this man and of many other fathers who make it their business to attend church every Sabbath: "I question whether any of our younger men, however faithful, render a more valuable service to vital religion in this community than is effected Sunday after Sunday by the mere sight of that venerable figure slowly moving up the aisle to his accustomed place." Every father physically able, could leave to his son and daughter the rich legacy and the holy example of regular and constant church attendance. And that is worth more as a legacy than gold and silver and rubies. Our blessed Master while on earth set the example. "And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day." (Luke 4:16.)

Praying Through

In 1906 on the anniversary of the Haystack Prayer Meeting (which was the beginning of modern missionary endeavors) a group of men knelt in prayer in the old Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York. From three to six o'clock in the afternoon these men remained on their knees and prayed, prayed that the men of America might see a vision of a world in need, and hear as they had never heard the Great Commission of our Lord, "Go and make disciples of all nations." And this was the beginning, and the first meeting of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. In 1906 the total receipts to missions of all North American Boards were $3,980,448. In 1914 the receipts were $17,168,611. This increase in eight years about equalled the increase of the previous ninety years. No wonder an American Christian statesman has said that "Prayer is the most powerful weapon ever put within reach of the people of God." So David felt when he wrote, "Evening, and morning, and at noon, will I pray, and cry aloud; and he shall hear my voice." (Psa. 55:17.)

Is the Church A Pauper?

If not, why does it have to beg and beseech and implore men and women of means to support it? The church is the most powerful institution in the world. The cattle upon a thousand hills, and the millions of unminted gold belong to Him who is Head and Founder. Yet the church must needs beg, and beg, and beg. Something is vitally wrong somewhere. I found this paragraph in a current volume: "Nineteen centuries have passed since Jesus Christ ascended from Olivet. Has Christianity accomplished its stewardship for the world? The shame of shrouded nations is the shame of the church today. Covetousness cankers at the heart of Christendom. God's ownership of value is believed, but merely as an academic truth; there is no honorable acknowledgment of the faith of the church. The holy tenth, God's portion from the beginning, does not reach the majestic purpose for which it was dedicated by God himself; therefore the stewardship of Christianity in the world is weak and uncertain. Israel could not maintain the divine worship, a regal and worthy acknowledgment of God's sovereignty, for the tithes of the people never failed, and they were never diverted into other channels. But the glorious church of Christ, robbed of its rightful portion, must limp halting to its task. It must ask for support as the destitute poor ask for alms, while its dedicated portion is either positively withheld or turned to other uses. The shame of it emasculate the ministry, but the dishonor of it must rest upon the laity." Harvey Reeves Calkins in "A Man and His Money.") —So the 1915 corn crop comes along with 3,673,000,000 bushels, the largest ever, and an average of 30 bushels to the acre. American fields have yielded their harvest this year and deserts have blossomed like gardens.

EASTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE

Third Church, Norfolk, was host to the 95th annual session of the Eastern Virginia Conference. The meeting house is small and temporary, but the location is accessible and the lot on which the chapel stands is very valuable. This vigorous and progressive congregation will shoulder the task of building in due season, and if their future house shall comport with their present hospitality it will certainly be ample and sufficient.

This Conference has begun to think in terms of thousands and can do anything it wishes and will undertake. It has a church membership aggregating 7,000, a church property valuation of $265,000 and a ministry numbering about twenty-five, most of them college bred men, all of them loyal, active and aggressive. Its contributions to various enterprises are no longer rated in hundreds, but in thousands of dollars. Year by year there is growth and development from within. One day it will catch the missionary spirit, see a vision, and will literally surprise itself in achievement for Christ and righteousness. Such an intelligent, capable and loyal constituency is destined to do mighty things for God and truth.

The Mayor of the city of Norfolk gave a splendid, and spiritual address in welcoming the Conference to the city. He thanked the Conference for coming to Norfolk, declaring that the deliberations of such a body would prove a blessing and a benediction to the city. Dr. Hutchison of the First Presbyterian church gave glad and cordial welcome to the Conference on behalf of the Tidewater Ministerial Association and gave the body to understand that if we were not one in name we were all one in purpose, pursuit, and in spirit.

Our own Bro. D. J. Bowden, a deacon of the church, gave cordial and eloquent greeting to the Conference on behalf of the local church, and made every one feel thrice welcome. Dr. W. W. Staley arose to the occasion in responding to these several addresses of welcome. Dr. Staley always rises to the occasion and has the unique and happy faculty of making his audience feel happy and comfortable. No one is ever uneasy as to the outcome when Dr. Staley speaks, it matters not where, when, nor how. The Conference had a great opening, and the standard set in the beginning was maintained throughout. We did not hear a sorry or regrettable utterance from start to finish.

Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., is the esteemed and worthy president and has been for several successive years. He fills the position with dignity, discretion and impartiality, and expedites business. Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., has been the capable secretary and Mr. W. H. Jones, Jr., the efficient treasurer for several years.

Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., conducted the devotional exercises each day, and by his splendid Bible talks put the body in a frame of mind and heart for work and worship.

In his annual message on "The Opportune Opportunity" Pres. Rowland struck the key note of the session, and made the delegates and visitors feel that "we must go forward." This Conference is taking an advanced step. In his report on Home Missions Col. J. E. West, chairman, gave recommendations and utterances which indicate a forward movement. A committee was appointed to decide what the Conference wanted most and needed worse than anything else whatever the coming year. The decision was that it needed most an awakening among the laymen; and so ministers and laymen this year are to preach, work, counsel and pray to this end—that the laymen may be awakened to a sense of their power, duty and responsibility. Bro. I. A. Luke, Holland, Va., is chairman of this committee, and if something does not result from this movement we shall be surprised.

Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., preached a sermon of power and helpfulness on Tuesday evening and delivered on Wednesday an extraordinary address on "The New Tendency in Ministerial Education." Pres. W. A. Harper set forth in a masterful oration the "Christian Doctrine of Education." He not only made his audience realize that there was such a doctrine, but made them well acquainted with that doctrine.

One of the very ablest and most eloquent addresses we have heard from any source as touching our women's missionary work was delivered by Rev. H. E. Rountree. He touched and stirred the Conference mightily as to woman's attitude to missions and her power of leadership in church work. Space forbids our telling of the many other helpful and wholesome papers, decisions and addresses, all of which must prove a source of inspiration and helpfulness to the churches represented in the Conference.

It was not decided where the next session is to be held—the matter being left to the Executive Committee.

Our home in Norfolk was with the delightful and happy family of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones out in Ghent—in a most beautiful and attractive part of the city. We were treated so royally and made to feel so happy and comfortable that we could wish Conference would go back to Norfolk next year and remain in session a month instead of four days.

THE HOLY SPIRIT

The editor gathered the following from some source he does not now recall, but considers worth while as touching in an intelligent manner a very vital theme:

Scripture attests and indicates the character and offices of the Holy Spirit to be, The Comforter, proceeding from the Father and the Son, whom Christ promised to send unto his disciples, saying that when he is come he will reprove the world of sin, of righteousness and of judgment. (I John 15:26. II John 16:8.)

He is the Witness testifying to the sonship of Christ, the sonship of believers, the power of the gospel, and the things freely given us of God. (Luke 3:22. Rom. 8:16. Acts 5:32. I Cor. 2:12.)

The Spirit is Guide leading us into all truth, and by Him are we justified and sanctified. (John 16:13. I Cor. 6:11.)

He is Teacher who searcheth the heart, and not the heart only, but all things of God and reveals them unto us. (Luke 12:12. Rom. 8:27. I Cor. 2:10.)

Comforter, Witness, Guide, Teacher, as such He is in the world seeking to bring it closer to God and prepare it a fit dwelling place for the saints of God that the Redeemer may come again and claim it as His own.

GOING FORWARD

It needed just a beginning, a willingness to depart from the old and the ordinary, to reveal to ourselves what the dear women could do. If CHRISTIAN SUN readers see nothing else this week, it will be worth their while to turn to page 5 and read the report of Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Eastern Virginia Conference. Bear in mind this is the work for one year only of the women of one Conference—and the women are just beginning to organize. What will our women do for missions when they are thoroughly awakened and well organized in all our churches! Next week Mrs. Walters' report as treasurer for all Southern Conferences will show a quarter's work that is worth while.

One day we shall see that it was a happy day indeed for our work, and an epoch marking event, when the women of our Southern Convention, through their general Board, decided that the hour had struck for definite and specific action. This is one of the very greatest movements and most forward steps we have taken in a decade.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Rev. J. V. Knight has changed his address from High Point, N. C., to Newport News, Va. Bro. Knight becomes pastor of our Newport News church, succeeding Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., who goes to Dendron, Va.

—Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., was called to Illinois early of last week to attend the funeral of his brother, and was not able to return in time to attend any of the sessions of his conference in session at Third Church, Norfolk. There was much regret that Bro. Denison was away and deep sympathy was felt for him in his sorrow.

—Rev. B. F. Black, Holland, Va., delivered a timely address before the Eastern Va. Conference on Christian Endeavor, though he was laboring under great mental strain and depression, being advised shortly before by wire of the death of his sister. Conference expressed sympathy for Bro. Black in his bereavement.

—There is no need for any delegate or visitor to any of our annual conferences to have any excuse for not knowing the time and place of meeting. For weeks now every issue of THE SUN has carried the Conference Calendar top of first column second page. Yet a Christian Sun subscriber informed us two days since that he didn't know when his Conference was to meet, though he had looked over THE SUN to find out and failed to discover.

—The esteemed Charlotte Observer is of opinion that the one who continually writes letters rubber stamped at the bottom "dictated but not read" verges on insult to his correspondent in thus dismissing him from his mind and thought as quickly as possible. It always impressed us as a form of egotism—"I am a great man and very busy and you being a little fellow haven't the right to claim much of my time, so go-along and don't pester me further."

—Mrs. J. W. Boone of Clayton, N. C., in renewing for THE SUN says very graciously, "I will pay for THE SUN as long as I am able. It is the best paper of all to me. The editor's page is worth all I give for the entire paper. I wish all our church loved the paper as I do, for in that case there would be no falling behind. It is a God-send in our home and I cannot praise it too highly. I am working to send some new subscribers." These are treasured words indeed and we are grateful.

—We have received the following for which we return thanks: Mr. and Mrs. Simeon C. Hobby announce the marriage of their daughter Mary Allen to Mr. Clarence Emerald Bowman on Wednesday, November 3rd, 1915, Raleigh, N. C. While a student at Elon College, Miss Hobby made many friends who will join in wishing her a happy married life. Mr. Bowman is a highly esteemed business man of Raleigh, and our congratulations are extended to him.

—President Wilson on behalf of our Government has sent a very formidable protest to Great Britain demanding that our rights of trade as neutrals be recognized and respected. The note contained 15,000 words and made it very clear that England's conduct in curtailing our trade with other nations is "ineffective, illegal and indefensible." The press is agreed that the note is an exceedingly strong one, and that President Wilson regards England's attitude very unfriendly, not to say unjust.

—Rev. C. H. Rowland, D. D., and his people of Franklin, Va., are constructing one of the most handsome and modern church edifices in all our Southern church. There are twelve rooms on the first floor grouped about a central and main auditorium for Sunday school purposes; the second floor has a spacious auditorium for preaching purposes, also a pastor's study, a ladies' parlor and secretary's room. The building is of red pressed brick and is certainly a very creditable house of worship for any congregation. The first floor is to be ready for use within another week.

—We notice from the papers over the State that some of the politically inclined are anxious for Hon. Benj. R. Laey's position as State Treasurer. Here is predicting that they will have a hard time on the hustings, and their trouble for their pains when it comes to ballots. Our province is not in politics and we do not know the minds and meanderings of the politician, but our candid conviction as a citizen is that Treas. Ben. Laey is about the most popular and efficient official in the good commonwealth, and this is said with no disparagement of our other highly eminent and esteemed State officers. A Christian gentleman, a man of the people, as honest and candid and frank as ever the great Zeb Vance was, he is justly loved throughout the State and is likely to remain State Treasurer as long as he cares to.

GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CONFERENCE

The seventeenth annual session of the Georgia and Alabama Christian Conference was held at Enigma, Ga., October 26-28. Most of the churches were represented, the interest was good, and the discussions were enthusiastic.

We were delighted to welcome and grant the privileges of deliberation to Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College, and Mr. R. H. McCauley, who responded with a twenty minutes address, ably presenting the Publishing House and its general work. Also Revs. E. M. Carter and G. D. Hunt as fraternal messengers from the Alabama Christian Conference. All four of these brethren took part in the discussion and each of them made splendid addresses on topics that were discussed.

The first evening (Tuesday) was given to enrollment, organization, and the president's address. The officers were elected for next year as follows: President, Rev. B. J. Earp; Vice-President, Rev. H. W. Elder; Secretary, E. E. Hill; Assistant Secretary, Rev. W. E. Carter; Treasurer, J. H. Floyd.

The President's address delivered by Rev. H. W. Elder, on the subject: "Go Forward" was appropriate, to the point, and forcibly delivered.

Wednesday morning, the ministerial reports and church letters were read, and the report on Moral Reform was discussed, and at eleven o'clock Rev. G. D. Hunt delivered one of the strongest sermons that was preached during the Conference.

The reports on Education and Home Missions were discussed in the afternoon. Two addresses were delivered while these reports were pending. One on education by Dr. W. A. Harper and the other on Home Missions by Rev. H. W. Elder.

The Christian Missionary Association met Wednesday night. Much interest was manifested and several new members joined. Rev. B. J. Earp was elected as Field Secretary for next year to collect dues and solicit new members. Preaching by Rev. W. E. Carter.

The last day was given to the subjects of Sunday schools, Religious Literature, Foreign Missions, and preaching by Revs. E. M. Carter and J. Denham.

Addresses were made by Revs. P. L. Dukes, H. W. Elder, E. M. Carter, G. D. Hunt, B. J. Earp and Dr. W. A. Harper.

Rev. C. E. Short was ordained by ordaining presbytery: H. W. Elder, G. D. Hunt and E. M. Carter.

All business of the Conference was discussed with the best of Christian feeling, and the session closed with a splendid fellowship service conducted by the president. B. J. EARP.

NOTICE

All ministers and delegates who expect to attend the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference which meets with the Durham Christian church November 23-25th, will please notify Bro. D. L. Boone, chairman of the entertaining committee, or the pastor, W. L. Wells. The daily trains leaving Greensboro are scheduled to arrive in Durham at 9:28 and 11:28 a. m., and 6:15 p. m. N. & W. trains from South Boston are scheduled to arrive in Durham at 11 a. m. and 9:15 p. m. It would be well for you to notify us on what date and train to expect you, in order that we might arrange to meet you and provide you a home. Conference meets at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, Nov. 23.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, held in the Third Christian Church, Norfolk, Va., Nov. 2-5, was well attended and did very good work. Rev. C. H. Rowland was re-elected President; this quill-driver Vice-President; Rev. H. E. Rountree Assistant Secretary; Secretary Dr. I. W. Johnson, who was re-elected; and Wm. H. Jones, Jr., Treasurer.

The collections were $577.11 more from the churches than last year, and an offering was taken to help Rosemont church of $115, which added to the $577.77 makes $692.11 more than last year for church purposes. The total was $4,441.26. An order was made to send to W. C. Wicker, Treasurer of the Southern Convention, for Foreign Missions $1,000.00; for Elon College $1,000.00; for Convention Missions, $1,000.00; and for Convention Fund, $200.00; making a total of $3,200.00.

This is the most this Conference has ever sent up to the Convention Treasurer in one year; and this the year they call "hard times." Christian people are learning that the Lord's work is as important as their own business, and that church necessities should be provided for as well as our families. The entertainment by the Third church was ample, hospitable, splendid.

The only really new undertaking was the appointment of one layman in each church as a committee to lead in a campaign of education and forward movement in the local churches. The plan has not been worked out in detail; but each man chosen is supposed to co-operate with his pastor in bringing the men together for instruction in missions and all live subjects that need the help of the laymen. A committee of seven laymen and three ministers was appointed by the President and that committee nominated a man from each local church and the nominations were confirmed by a vote of the Conference.

The Conference was greatly pleased by the presence of Rev. J. O. Cox, superintendent of the Orphanage; Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College; Rev. Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor of the CHRISTIAN SUN, and brother McCauley, who represented THE SUN. The new pastors for Newport News and South Norfolk, Rev. J. V. Knight and Rev. O. D. Poythress, were also present and took part in the Conference work.

Dr. Harper made a great address on "The Christian Doctrine of Education;" and Dr. Atkinson a great address on "A Man and His Money." These two Doctors always bring great messages and greatly enrich our Conference sessions. Their profound scholarship, their deep earnestness, their good spirit, and attractive delivery, always put our Conference under obligations to them and their work.

Dr. Denison was called away on the eve of the Conference by the death of his brother in Clifton, Illinois, and Brother Black had a message too late to go to the funeral of his good sister, Mrs. Baugh. Both of these brethren had the sympathy of the entire Conference.

I had to run up to Suffolk on the evening of the 3rd of November to marry Jesse David McClenny and Miss Virgie Cobb Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Holland. Mrs. W. T. Leathers, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and her sister Thompiss as maid of honor; Sidney McClenny as best man. Harvey Eley presided at the piano and Marmaduke Woodward sang just before the bridal party entered the parlors which had been decorated most beautifully. Margaret Kelly of Norfolk was ring-bearer; Helen Hart was flower-girl; and Margaret West, Florence Ashburn, Anne Rawls and Antoinette Darden were ribbon girls. Mr. McClenny is an member in the church, and Secretary of the Baraca Class, and Miss Virgie is a teacher in the Sunday school of a fine class of girls. They are now on a bridal trip in Washington and Northern cities and will reside in Suffolk upon their return.

It was a beautiful home marriage, thronged with happy guests and fragrant with flowers, and enlivened by charming music.

The Call To Prayer and To Service

(To the women of the Eastern Va. Conference, presented by their President, Mrs. C. H. Rowland, in annual session at Waverly, Va., Oct. 28, 1915.)

WHEN we come to an occasion of this kind, we usually have some feelings of regret that we have not accomplished all that we might, that not all of our plans have materialized. And yet there is another side to the situation that should encourage us; for while the past is no longer ours, the future lies before us, another opportunity is given us, we may profit by our failures in the past, we can let them be as warnings for the future. Forgetting the things which are behind, the discouragements, the heartaches, the indifference, the failures, we may press forward, undertaking new tasks, putting new life into old ones, breathing forth praise and thankfulness that our Father gives us the opportunity of co-operating with Him in accomplishing the one supreme task of the church, the carrying of the glad tidings to all people.

Our Corresponding Secretary-Treasurer's report shows that there has been progress and growth during the year, an increase in membership, societies and funds. While this is true, her report also shows that one or two churches that reported last year have not done so for this year. We cannot afford to lose any of the ground we have taken and an effort must be made to get in touch with these women again. The work is so great and the need so insistent that there must be constant recruits added and new territory gained from year to year. Our aim is some form of work in each church of our Conference. Is it too early to expect this to be realized during the coming year? Have we faith to ask it? If ye have faith... it shall be done. We are of the opinion that there are a few women in each of our churches who desire to have part in carrying out the last request of our Saviour, but the difficulties in the way seem too great to be overcome. We all need to get a vision, as Elisha's young man, of the heavenly hosts, invisibly, which are around about us, to lend us aid in time of need. If each of the 44 churches in our Conference were in line in this work and were contributing of their means and interest to the same, there would be a considerable increase of funds in our treasury. Lives would be blessed in the giving and lives would be blessed by the giving. It would mean Christian experience deepened and a realization of the joys of service. Christ yearns for the other women of our churches and they need the blessings which would come into their lives from love's service and love's offerings. It remains for us to put forth a strenuous effort that the two may be brought together. It was prayer that opened the eyes of Elisha's servant and gave him the vision, and it will do as much for us if we come in faith, nothing doubting.

The Standard of Excellence as adopted by our Boards is an ideal for us to strive for and is worthy of a conspicuous place in the life of our Societies. A copy of it should be displayed in our meeting places and an effort made to measure up to its requirements. It recognizes growth and development, studying and giving faithfulness and the prayer life, all of which are necessary if we are to do our best. A copy of the standard in large lettering has been prepared and each society is asked to provide itself with one.

Last year each society was asked to raise $10.00 to be applied to a Building Fund, and thereby securing a membership in the S. C. C. W. B. A few of our societies have complied with this request; others are planning to do so and it is hoped that all may have a part in the establishing of such a fund. There are so many places where buildings are needed and no funds are available for their construction. In Santa Isabel, they tell us, we have a magnificent building site and the next step needed there is a nice cement church. At many places our workers are holding services in rooms for which we pay excessive rent. Our Mission Board has paid for rent for the Barrett's during the 14 years they have been in Porto Rico, more than twice enough to have bought the house in which they live. So from an economic and human standpoint, there is a great demand for such a fund and the opportunity and privilege is ours to help provide it. Let us keep this before our societies and from time to time add to the fund and soon we will be able to provide a building in some of the places they are so sorely needed.

Again we would insist on our women's societies to foster the Cradle Roll and the Y. P. work. We cannot lay too much stress on this. The child today occupies the center of worldwide thought. No heart is so tender as that of a little child, nor so responsive; no imagination so vivid; no mind that so yearns and pleads and reaches out for knowledge; no soul so pure and fit for the Saviour's dwelling. Most of our religious leaders were called in childhood and God's word says "a little child shall lead them."

The most pleasing thing in our treasurer's report is the increase of means and members among our younger members. And just here we feel that it cannot be amiss to ask that parents co-operate with the leaders of the boys' and girls' societies in making their meetings a success and see to it that none of your plans conflict with their attendance on these meetings. Let the child know that you think it very important for him to be present on time, and an occasional visit from parents will stimulate and encourage to a wonderful degree. There should be the heartiest co-operation of the parents in this line of work to attain to the best results. The woman's society in each of our churches should see that the babies, the boys and girls, are enrolled and that they are trained in missionary service. So do not put this off longer if it has not been done. There is perhaps a class of young girls just waiting for you to lead them into fields of missionary activity. There are workers, doubtless, whom you could interest in mission work through their babies being enrolled in the Cradle Roll.

From the beginning of our work it has been urged that, during the year, we make a Thank offering unto the Lord. Few of our societies have complied with this request and yet it is not an unreasonable one. Our Standard of Excellence calls for one such service during the year and our S. C. C. Woman's Board has asked that this offering be made during the Week of Prayer. We hope that each president of a society will see to it that this is not neglected and that our women have an opportu-ity of making this offering, prompted by love. We have so much to be grateful for, over and above the usual blessings that life holds for us, that it should be an easy matter to come into His presence, once a year, with an offering, above the ones we are accustomed to making. And now we would remind you again to observe the Week of Prayer, the first week in January. Perhaps it would not be far from right to say that the cause of the indifference and listlessness in mission work is because of the prayerlessness of the church. Since the day of Pentecost whenever the church has set herself to praying, marvellous results have followed. John R. Mott says that prayer is the greatest force we can wield, (how many of us think that it is money!) The greatest talent God has given us. The Bible teaches us it is sinful not to use and develop the talents God has given us. How many of us are guilty of not using this one? We need to cultivate the prayer-life, daily. We also need to have seasons of prayer, when the desires from many hearts, united, shall ascend as sweet incense upon the altar.

The year just past gives us much cause to rejoice, not all the difficulties have been overcome yet, we feel, that God's blessing has been upon us. Perhaps the most distinct call from God that we hear today is the call to service and to prayer. Christ set before us the life of service as the ideal life and left us the example in his own perfect life. The life of Paul was one of continual service and the early Christian martyrs sacrificed their lives that they might do something for Christ. No matter what we are or where we are we are given the opportunity to serve somehow, somewhere. God has a plan and a purpose for each of our lives, and just so far as we fall in with that plan and purpose, can His will be done through us. The call comes to us from our own community, our own country, and no less pressing is the call that comes to us from non-Christian lands.

Can we not pledge ourselves now in service and prayer to dedicate our lives anew to His cause? Let us pray for our churches that they may become missionary churches; for our pastors that they may lead and encourage their churches in missionary work; for our missionaries that they may have health and strength and the Spirit of God in their lives; for the native workers who have so many difficulties to overcome in trying to lead a changed life; for our societies that our women may be self-denying, full of faith, trusting in God; for ourselves that our eyes may be opened, and our lives consecrated fully to His service. If we are really in earnest in this matter, the close of another year will show far better things than this. May it even be so.

—The City of Raleigh had a very destructive fire Saturday A. M., when the Uzzell Printing Company's building, the News and Observer building and several other adjacent buildings were found totaling a loss of about $400,000. This is the second fire the News and Observer has sustained in less than three years, and it owned one of the completest and most efficient newspaper plants in the South. Our sympathies are extended to the editor and largest owner, Mr. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

S. S. LESSON, NOV. 14
Daniel in the King's Court
Dan. 1:1-21

Nebuchadnezzar had won a victory over the Israelites and carried some of the spoils to his own land of Babylonia. Some of the most able looking young men were carried along to be trained in the court for service. The king desired as strong men as he could get and prescribed a diet for the four captives and the others of his own race whom he was training for the court. Nebuchadnezzar wanted young men with a round, full, well developed body, men who could make the best appearances in body and mind. The diet that he partook of would naturally seem to him to be the one for the young men.

Daniel begged to have a chance to show how his countenance would look by leaving off the wine and eat simple food. The stewards were willing to comply with Daniel's request. The result was, as is always the case, the four young captives were stronger in body and mind and soul.

They were able to stand for their rights, resist temptations, think quickly, act quicker, in short, far superior to the men being trained by their side who were following the king's instructions and using wine.

Later we find these same young men who were abstainers at the head of the kingdom, filling the most honored positions in the land. The same is true today. The boys who have kept away from the poison are filling positions of responsibility and trust.

We quote the following from Dr. Cowan's writings: "Nicotine is another joker that 'fools' the boy and poisons him. Surgeon-General Rixey of the United States Navy has said: 'Cigarette-smoking is becoming a serious impediment to robust health in the navy. This habit seems to have taken decided impetus since the Spanish-American war and has spread to incredible proportions.'

Dr. D. H. Kress, third vice-president for the American Medical Society for the study of alcohol and other narcotics, says:

"During the past twenty years in my medical practice I have had under my care for treatment numerous drug addicts. I have always recognized that the one addicted to opium, morphine, or cocaine needed medical assistance, or some outside influence to aid him in his efforts to break the habit.

"In regard to the boys addicted to the use of cigarettes, brought to me by anxious parents, I had felt quite differently. All I had thought necessary in these cases was to point out to them its evils and give them some good, wholesome advice, and possibly pray with them.

"This, I in time discovered, did not bring about the desired results. Gradually, and I must say unwillingly, I have been forced to recognize and acknowledge that the cigarette addict is about as hopelessly enslaved as is the opium or morphine addict, and that unaided it is about as difficult to give up the one habit as the other."

How the Denominations May be United in Service
Isa. 52: 7, 8

(Led by the Pastor)

"The object of the church is to witness for its Head and to do His work. He might have bidden all to follow Him as individuals without any organization, but there is great gain in the united action.

"At certain times and in certain places it has seemed to some of Christ's disciples that there was neglect or denial of truths that they felt to be most important. Their attempt to give these truths due emphasis has led to the forming of denominations. The aim was to make the church purer and stronger. The step was taken for the sake of the church. The divisions of forces itself was not desirable. It lessened the power of the churches to fulfill its mission to the world and to its own members. Sometimes jealously and other unworthy motives have crept in, and in the ambition to outdo other branches of Christ's church the first purpose of loyalty to the church and its Head has been lost.

"When this purpose is held firmly, when the denominations keep to the front the fundamental truths on which they are agreed, the world and the denominations themselves get a new vision of the size and the strength of the church. Their great interests are one. Together they can face evils and meet needs that would be too much for them singly. They add to their power in this way, for the more they have fellowship in work for Christ, the closer they are drawn to Him and to one another."

Many of our churches wage competition instead of co-operation with other denominations. Explain to the society what has been done and what is being done in the way of federation. Have the main scope of the national organizations reviewed and tell how Yesterday, Oct. 31, finished my work in the Wakefield pastorate. Services were held at Burton's Grove in the afternoon and at Wakefield at night. There were good congregations at both services. Two members were received and four baptized at the afternoon service. This makes nine members received at Benton's Grove during the year and a total of 65 received in this pastorate during the two years I have served as pastor. The Sunday schools at Dendron and Union have recently purchased a nice supply of new song books. These are very helpful in the music and good music is always an inspiration to pastor and people. The Young Peoples' Missionary Society has been organized at Wakefield. This under the management of Miss Beatrice Mason, Wakefield's efficient music teacher. Miss Mason has been in Wakefield only two months but has already shown herself a ready and willing church worker and seems to make friends of all with whom she meets. The work here will now pass to the efficient leadership of Rev. W. D. Harward.

WAKEFIELD NOTES

THANKSGIVING IS APPROACHING

There is not much time left between now and Thanksgiving. The days and weeks have flown until only two weeks lie between us and the great Fall holiday.

We hope that all friends of the orphan cause will bear this well in mind and make a strenuous effort to induce as many people as they possibly can to heed the call for the donation of one day's wages. Every source from which help can be secured ought to be sought. The press which is always in the forefront of those who are trying to be of service to humanity has given valuable support to this movement through its news and editorial columns. Organizations of various kinds can, by making a special plea for the helpless, cause many of their members to give their one day's income. Individuals, by independent work, can interest other individuals. Every friend of the child, who has no home nor prospects of reaching a healthy manhood or womanhood can be of material help in this great campaign now under way. There is none too great and none too humble to be of service, and there is no service being advocated at the present time that ought to make a greater appeal; there is no service more worthy and more necessary.

Is North Carolina just to herself when she permits from three-fourths to four-fifths of her helpless children to continue in their condition of helplessness? The State has been singularly prosperous of recent years. She has built vast industries and her citizens are in many ways contributing to the world's work in a manner to bring distinction upon her and upon themselves. The great old commonwealth is enjoying a prestige and power which is ever increasing and is making its impress upon the world.

North Carolina has done great things and other great things are in the making. When the issue is put straight in front of them, her citizens have always met their responsibilities and responded nobly. In one respect, however, they have not yet measured up to their duty; they have not awakened to the duty they owe to the orphans. This situation, we know, is the result of their lack of information upon the subject and the failure to realize the pressing demand in that quarter.

It is in this connection that the friends of the orphan can be of such help. We firmly believe that, if these will bestir themselves and engage themselves so actively that the great North Carolina public can be reached between now and Thanksgiving, the great public will do the rest.

Lt every North Carolina citizen put these questions to himself: Can North Carolina any longer afford to rest content with providing for only one-fifth or one-fourth of its destitute children? Is it not my personal duty to help give a refuge to those who are neglected?—The Orphans' Friend.

DANVILLE LETTER

I have filled all my appointments in the Danville mission for this Conference year. The work is in a very gratifying condition. The congregations have been good all the year. The Sunday school has been of the highest type of interest. Our revival was good, but not what we wanted. Rev. P. T. Klapp, my brother, did faithful work in this meeting. We were hindered by not having room for our congregations and some evil influences in several ways. There were some 16 professions of faith, and 10 accessions to the church. Our much needed house of worship is going up now. Bro. A. J. Allen one of our most energetic contractors is at his very best with his strong force of men, and if the weather is good and we can get our friends interested enough to help us at this very particular period, at this time of great need, the house of worship can be ready for use within 60 or 90 days. Now that this may be possible I am praying most earnestly that all those who gave us such nice subscriptions at the Berea Conference last Fall will please send the same in to me as soon as possible, so we can meet our obligations and pay our bills as they come due. We will have a nice house of worship here, one that will be a credit to the Conference, to Danville, and to all who are working so earnestly (and those who are sacrificing so much for the much needed church. THE GREATEST NECESSITY

You can do without food for weeks. You can do without drink for days. You can do without warmth for hours.

But you can do without air only for minutes. And very few minutes at that.

For without air the body promptly poisons itself. This air starvation is called strangulation.

In coughs and colds the phlegm in the organs of respiration coats the membranes, so that only a part of the air is effective in reaching the membranes and in purifying the blood. You have partial strangulation.

The blood is not purified momentarily as it should be and the whole body is self-poisoned, for the waste is not oxidized.

Under uch rircumstances Mentholatum is a great relief.

Its pungent oils tickle the membranes into activity, loosening the phlegm, assisting in removing, so that the air can reach the membranes and

For this reason Mentholatum is almost indispensable in cases of sore throat, catarrh and croup. purify the blood.

CENTERVILLE

The protracted meeting at Centerville, Va., was held week following first Sunday in August, with Rev. L. F. Johnson doing the preaching. He has good talent for an old fashioned country protracted meeting and used it to good effect till Thursday afternoon when some of the brethren thought best to close the meeting. There were 5 converts, 3 members received and 4 baptisms. Could the meeting have continued we believe much good could have been accomplished. This community needs two weeks' revival. Bro. Johnson did earnest and very able preaching and the people appreciated. people appreciated his service.

OUR DEAD

Whitley

At her home, near Isle of Wight C. H., Isle of Wight Co., Va., on the 30th of September, 1915, at 7:30 o'clock, a.m., Mrs. Ida Whitley, beloved wife of Deacon James F. Whitley, of Central Hill Baptist Church, and daughter of the late Col. Geo. F. Hall, aged 61 years and 8 months. She was married to Mr. J. F. Whitley on October 16, 1873, and God blessed the union with three children, two daughters and one son: Mrs. Annie G. Latimors, Mrs. R. L. Seward, and Willie Whitley, who died at the age of 21 years and 8 days.

She made a profession of Christ and united with Central Hill Baptist church and was true and faithful to the end of life. She was greatly beloved by all who knew her, on account of her many amiable qualities of life. She will be greatly missed in her community, church and home. We feel deepy our loss in her death, but our loss has been her eternal gain, and while we weep and mourn over her death, we do not weep without hope. We hope to meet her by and by in heaven, where sorrow and death can come to us no more. She leaves a devoted husband, two devoted and loving daughters, four grandchildren, four sisters: Mrs. Irene A. Duck, beloved wife of the late Dr. J. J. Duck, of Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. J. M. Ballard, of Walters, Va.; Mrs. George Edwards, of Isle of Wight Co., Va.; Mrs. Victoria Outland, of Isle of Wight Co., Va.; one brother, Mr. R. L. Hall, of Isle of Wight C. H., Va.; and many friends.

Her funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her church by her pastor, Rev. J. W. Reams, assisted by Rev. S. F. Dunaway, of Smithfield, Va.; Rev. J. L. King, of Windsor, Va.; and Rev. H. H. Butler, of Suffolk, Va.; and her remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery.

"Dearest sister, thou hast left us; Here thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God that hath bereft us; He can all our sorrows heal. Yet again we hope to meet thee When the day of life is fled; Then in heaven with joy to greet thee, Where no farewell tear is shed."

Welch

Bro C. H. Welch, of Pleasant Grove, of which church he had been a member for about fifty years, died, Oct. 24, 1915, being 77 years, 9 months, 9 days old. Was married to Lydia Brady in 1856, and to this union were born ten children, eight of whom survive and all reside in Randolph county, except one, Mr. S. L. Welch, who lives in Greensboro, N. C. There are 24 grand children and 27 great grand children. May the Lord bless the bereaved ones.

Wallons

Mrs. Lucy Ann Wallons was born June 22, 1860, died August 19, 1915, age 55 years, one month, 29 days. For about a year before her death she was a great sufferer. In Sept., 1914, she went to the hospital but was told that her case was beyond human skill to help. Often during her sickness she would say that she was awaiting the Lord's time to call her home and away from her suffering. She was a charter member of Burton's Grove church and remained a consistent member until death. She leaves many friends and loved ones to mourn her death. Funeral services were conducted by the writer.

SOME FACTS ABOUT BLUE MARBLE

It is commonly known that Southern marble quarries hold an important place in the production of the world's marble, but it is a question if the people of the South know that to one of their own home industries, strictly Southern in ownership and management belongs the distinction of producing some of the finest blue marble in the world.

Blue marble is not a common product and the Regal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., own the only quarries in the South. One of their best products, known to the trade as Regal Blue, was recently made the subject of interesting tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The government report showed the marble to be of such fine and compact texture that it withstood the highest test for crushing strength and water absorption. These are the properties that make for the recognized performance of color and durability of this marble. The Regal Company employs native Southern workmen exclusively, both in the quarries and in their finishing plant. Adv.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR HEALTH

For diseases which do not readily yield to drug treatment, such as chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, Bright's disease, gall stones, uric acid poisoning, and diseases of the kidney and liver, the best physicians send their wealthy patients to the famous mineral springs. Some even spent months at the Spas of Europe and were almost invariably cured or greatly benefited.

I believe that the Shivar Spring is the greatest mineral spring ever discovered, and I believe it so firmly that I offer to send you enough water for a three week's treatment (two five-gallon demijohns) on my guarantee that if it fails to benefit your case I will refund the price. You would hardly believe me if I told you that only about two out of a hundred, on the average, say that they have received no benefit. The water is restoring thousands. It restored my health when my friends and physicians thought my case was incurable and I am willing and anxious for you to match your faith in the Spring against my pocketbook. If I win you become a life-friend of the spring. If I lose I will be sorry for you, but I will appreciate your courtesy in giving the water a trial and will gladly refund your money on request. Sign the following letter:

Shivar Spring,

Box 9C, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full on receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

The Colored Illustrations consist of reproductions in natural colors of scenes, places and life in the Holy Land. Each picture is accompanied by a complete description of the scene portrayed.

All efforts of the imagination and all descriptions in words cannot make the land of the Bible as real and vivid as a walk through it by means of pictures. There has been so little change in that part of the Orient that pictures of its scenes as they now are show the very places as they actually existed in the time of Jesus and the Apostles.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

(1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.

(2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.

(3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.

(5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Gratitude

*"Some spirit in me leaps to bend the knee
In utter gratitude and love and praise
For all the wondrous beauty of the days
That God has given to earth, and given to me."
—Amory Hare Cook.*

The Largest Fact

Only the small man, and the simpleton, regard religion as a small matter. The good and great and wise know with the philosopher John Fiske that "Religion is the largest and most ubiquitous fact connected with the existence of mankind upon the earth." That is what the best of all men said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." (Matt. 6:33.)

The Chief Question

Have people forgotten the care of the soul, in an age when so much time and thought are given to a care for the body? An anonymous writer recently declared that the chief question used to be, "Is it right or wrong?" The chief question today is, "Is it sterilized?" "Life which used to be a brave fight between heaven and hell, has come to be a long and anxious tiptoeing between the microbe and the anti septic." But the life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment." (Luke 12:23.)

Refuse to Worry

It may be said and written, as it has been, a thousand times: but men and women keep on worrying the life out of them all the same. More people worry to death than work to death; and three-fourths of our troubles never materialize. "Finish every day," said Emerson, "and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities, no doubt creep in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense. This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and aspirations, to waste a moment upon the yesterday." And one far wiser than Emerson spake to better effect, "Therefore I say unto you, Be not anxious for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than the food, and the body more than the raiment?" (Matt. 6:25.)

Incapable Nations

Whether our nation shall plunge into "preparedness" in order to "prevent" war, or preserve its path of peace, we are going to pin our faith to the philosophy of G. Lowes Dickinson in the Atlantic Monthly for April. "The nobility of a people lies not in its capacity for war, but in its capacity for peace. It is indeed only because the nations are incapable of the one that they plunge so readily into the other."

Hiring the Best

One never gets the best Christianity has to offer until one quits trying to get a blessing and begins to be a blessing. We add to our Christian graces by sharing them. The very essence of Christianity is the sharing of one's best with others. The strength of Christianity is not a creed; it is an expression, an experience, a life. "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Eph. 1:21.)

Hiring a Book

Some years ago a boy on an Illinois farm becoming much interested in geology endeavored to borrow a book on the subject. Being unable to do so he hired one for six weeks with a two dollars he had earned with many hardships. During that six weeks the boy spent his evenings and rest hours copying the book from cover to cover. He mastered every line and lesson in the volume. Men with a passion for one subject and a determination to know that subject usually win out. And this boy did. He was the builder of the Canadian Pacific railway and was knighted by the English government as Sir William Van Horne. "See ye out of the book of the Lord, and read; no one of these shall fail." (Isa. 34:16.)

Universities Then and Now

Time was when a great university meant only a place where great thinkers and scholars met and buildings were not counted or cared for. Pupils gathered in the town where scholars lived and went to the homes in which the teachers lived for lectures and instruction. Now a writer in a recent Atlantic declares, "Millions do we lavish upon university buildings, but pay generally starvation wages to professors; so that our halls of learning resemble mostly very large shells with rather small fish inside them." David may have had some experience when he wrote, "I have more understanding than all my teachers; for thy testimonies are my meditation." (Psa. 119:99.)

The Church Inferior

Do not many of us come to love our church more than we love our Christ? Yet the church is less important than Christ. The object of the church is to make Christ real, and carry the message of Him to the mind and hearts of men. The church is a means to an end, and that end is Christ. The church will be done away with when its mission is fulfilled, but Christ will abide for ever and forever. If we cared more for Christ and less for our particular creed or church there would not be so many schisms and divisions among the followers of Christ. There is no church in heaven. One is not needed; Christ is triumphant there. "And I saw no temple therein; for the Lord and the Lamb are the temple of it." (Rev. 21:22.)

Forgetting

All wise people, and the charitably inclined, are good forgetters. Simply refusing to forget, failing to forget, has deprived many a man of a useful and serviceable career. Says one exchange in a philosophic mood, "The successful man forgets. He knows the past is irrevocable. He lets the death past bury its dead. The magnanimous man forgets. He is too big to let littles disturb him. He forgets quickly and forgets easily. It is only your small man who cherishes a low revenge and ill-will. Or an Indian. The Indian never forgets, and because he is forever wanting to pay somebody back he never gets on. Be a forgetter. Bigness dictates it and success demands it." Many professed Christians will harbor, to their own hurt, even imaginary or supposed wrongs and will carry these about with them as poison in their system. "Forgetting the things that are behind I press toward the mark." (Eph. 3:13, 14.)

A MISSIONARY BOOK CLUB

While at one of our Conferences the other day an intelligent sister made a suggestion that seems to us eminently fitting, feasible and worth while.

In not a few communities are "Book Clubs," "Literary Clubs," "Shakespeare Clubs," "Reading Clubs," in which the members buy a book each, and have meetings from time to time, say once or twice a month, at some central point, or at some member's home. Now the suggestion coming from our good sister is, Why not use in these clubs some of the missionary books now being published, particularly since many of these are the very best books now being published, according to the literary critics.

If a literary club can be kept alive a year, or several years, on reading current fiction, much of which itself does not live more than a year, why could not that same club be kept alive and quite active by reading and circulating among themselves the thrilling and heroic books now being written and published on missions? If members of literary clubs are looking for the latest and best books, those most thrilling, most daring, most romantic, most venturesome and vigorous, they will find these, not among the shallow and silly current fiction of the time, but among the current volumes on some phase of the missionary topic. To put it in short, no book club of the time is keeping up with the latest and best books, unless that club is buying and reading missionary volumes.

Why should our Woman's Missionary Societies not take on the book club feature, organize themselves into a literary club or a reading circle, and adopt for their reading the most fascinating and thrilling books of the hour—books on missions. A circulating library of missionary volumes in a community would be interesting and worth while.

THE FIRST LESSON IN RELIGION

Many of us have not learned, and so have not put into practice, the very first and fundamental lesson of religion. It is found in Genesis 1:1: "In the beginning God created." And then the New Testament emphasizes the same: "All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made." (John 1:3.) All things belong to God by right of creation. That right or title God has never relinquished to this good day--as far as we have any record.

We act as if we ourselves were the lords of creation. No human being, no mortal man living or dead, ever created anything. That master of Political Economists, John Stuart Mill, points out very vividly that all any man ever has done, or can do in this world, is to move things to or from their proper position and relations. The farmer and mechanic, the miller, the merchant and the miner, all peoples everywhere and at all times in this life are confined in all their agencies, activities, labors and operations to one thing, and one only—the process of moving things. The farmer moves his seeds into the soil, the mellow dirt to the growing plant, the sickle into the reaped harvest, the garnered grain to the moving miller's wheel, and the crushed meal to the larder and later to the cook stove and to the dining table and the diner's mouth. All earthly and all human operations and agencies are limited to the self-same process—just moving things from the cradle to the grave, that is all. Man can neither make (create) nor destroy.

And yet man acts as if he both makes and unmakes, creates and destroys, kills and makes alive. God alone creates and God alone can destroy. The earth and all things that therein are belong to him by the right and title and sole power of creation.

We poor mortals then are only tenants for a time, stewards for a season.

If the proprietor, owner, land-lord remits all and demands no return from tenant, steward, manager, then he becomes equal and there is no room or opportunity for expressing superiority or right or title of ownership. The only possible way the tenant or steward can acknowledge his fealty to, and dependence upon, and the title of ownership by, his land-lord is by payment of a certain given, definite, specific amount either in kind or in money.

No man has learned the first lesson of religion until he has learned that God is His superior, and that he is God's steward for a season, tenant for a time, on the Royal estate and that his fealty to his King is shown only when he makes proper and appropriate returns. One-tenth of a man's income is and should be holy unto the Lord. It is the Lord's portion. By it man acknowledges his allegiance to God's right and title to the real ownership of that which He alone has created.

THE GREATNESS OF GREAT MEN

Abraham and Moses and David and Daniel are not immortal because they are in the Bible; the Bible is immortal because of them. These men have lived, and will live for all time, because they walked in the light of God's life, and moved in the conscious majesty of God's might. God revealed mysteries and the hidden depths to them because they acknowledged their utter dependence on God, and an unshaken faith in God. They put God first, and viewed the world and all its problems in the light that shone in their faces from off the altar of God. They looked at the world of moving men and events about them through the brilliant but mellow light of God's life and love.

Many of us miss the meaning of the world, and misinterpret our fellows and acquaintances because we look at them purely from a human point of view. This is God's world, and these are God's children, His sons and His daughters, all around about us. If we interpret these as purely human, and without standing ourselves in the divine light and seeing them in their divine relationship, we misjudge and misinterpret. A man becomes great and profound and just and Christ-like only when he, as did David, puts God first and views the world and all its problems in the light of God. Daniel could not interpret Nebuchadnezzar's dream, neither did he want that King to think he could; but he knew God could do it and so made known to the King that it was his God, not he himself, that had done the great, good and marvelous thing. Daniel dealt with Nebuchadnezzar in the liberty of a light that shone from off the altar of God. Daniel recognized that God was dealing with and through this pagan king, as well as himself, and that the king, as well as himself, was an agent and an instrument of the divine dealing and communication. Daniel was not anxious that the king believe in him and his power; but he was anxious that he believe in his God and God's power.

David well knew that he had not strength with which to meet and match the giant Goliath. But he knew God had the strength; so he went out in the name of the God whom the Philistine had defied. Viewed in God's light, (in which David lived) Goliath was exceedingly small. Satan's and sin's power becomes shrunken and shriveled and easily conquerable to the man who looks at them out of the brilliancy and illumination of God's light.

We count great tasks small and small tasks great because we view them purely from a human point of view; look at them not in God's light, but in the light only of our own mind.

The greatness of the great men of the Bible is just this: they had a right perspective, they viewed their tasks, their fellows, their problems in the white light of God's life and love. In His light do we see light, declared David.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—German submarines have sunk 183 British vessels exclusive of fishing vessels, and 183 fishing vessels, so the British report. One wonders how long England can supply vessels for the Germans to destroy at this rate.

—The United States Steel Corporation is running every mill and furnace to the limit, but announces that it had at the end of October unfilled orders amounting to 6,165,000 tons—a gain of nearly a million tons for the month. Business in the steel industry is wide awake.

—The Germans interned at Norfolk seem anxious to escape the country and get back into the fray in the Fatherland. One officer, two doctors, and six warrant officers have broken their parole and have seemingly made good their escape.

—The Executive Committee and various Commissioners of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America will hold their annual session at Columbus, Ohio, beginning Dec. 8, at 2 p. m. The closing session on Friday night is to be addressed by President Woodrow Wilson.

—The children of the Christian Orphanage will give a Thanksgiving entertainment at Elon College Thursday morning, Burlington Christian church Thursday night and Graham Friday night of next week. No admission charged, but an offering will be taken, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the orphanage. Everybody invited.

—Our obituary columns this week carry an account of the death of our beloved brother, Rev. W. W. Lawrence. Bro. Lawrence was a faithful and devout man of God and served his day and generation well. He will be missed in his community and in the Western N. C. Conference of which he had been a member many years.

—Rev. Victor Lightbourne is now in an evangelistic campaign with Rev. W. T. Walters in the Winchester, Va., church. Bro. Lightbourne enjoyed one of the most remarkable revivals Dover, Del., ever witnessed. God is moving and is reaching the multitude through the talents, the devotion, the surrendered life of this man.

—Hon William Jennings Bryan preached in the Grand at Greensboro Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, using as his text the first commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." The great auditorium was packed to its capacity and hundreds were turned away. The papers declare it to have been a great sermon. It seems a pity Mr. Bryan does not give himself entirely to the ministry.

—The newspapers have some funny ways of telling it provided you understand and don't take the thing too literally or too seriously. For instance, "The Carolinians the other day ate up the Presbyterians." We presume the reporter was meaning that the University football team beat the Davidson football team in a game the day before. But the idea of all Presbyterians in the State being eaten alive at one fell swoop is rather shocking to say the least.

—There will be general and wide-spread regret at the resignation of Rev. J. O. Cox as Superintendent of our Orphanage. At a recent called meeting of the Board, Bro. Cox presented his resignation which was accepted. Bro. Cox has worked with loyalty, devotion and zeal for the maintenance and upbuilding of the Institution, and retires from its management with great love for the Orphanage and best wishes for its continued growth and development.

—Our thanks are expressed to the Philological Literary Society of Elon College for a very attractive program and invitation to the 26th annual celebration of the Society on Thursday, Nov. 25, 1915, at 8 o'clock p. m., College Chapel. Among the other items of interest for the occasion is to be a debate on the query: "Resolved, That the Weaver Child Labor Bill Should be Enacted a Law in North Carolina." Joseph H. Raper and Hamilton J.

Fleming are to represent the affirmative; William L. Monroe and William C. Poe the negative. There are to be other items of interest and the occasion promises to be one of unusual pleasure and profit.

—Strange as it may seem there are yet many of our churches that go about raising their Conference apportionments in the same old way—waiting till about the last appointment and then “beg” everybody in sight. Ah! me! I wonder where pastors and people get their scripture for such conduct. The church of God is no pauper. The treasury of the Lord is no alms depository. How long before our people are going to learn that begging belittles the church and cheapens the religion of Christianity. Why not at the beginning of the year arrange for everybody to lay by him in store each week of the first fruits as God has prospered him? This is the only scriptural method of raising funds for the church.

—The President of the North Carolina Orphan's Association, Rev. Zadok Paris, has sent out the following resolution which should be adopted by every able bodied CHRISTIAN SUN reader in the State: Whereas, our kind Father above has blessed us with peace and plenty, and in recognition of this, the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina have set apart Thursday, November 25th, 1915, as a National Thanksgiving Day; I Zadok Paris, President of the North Carolina Orphans' Association, do respectfully ask every citizen of North Carolina, irrespective of color, politics or religion, to set apart one day's earnings to be sent on Thanksgiving Day, to the Orphanage of his choice, or some needy Orphan in his community.

—Pres. Booker T. Washington of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., died at his home there Sunday a. m., Nov. 14. No man in the United States has done as much for the elevation and real progress of his race as had Booker Washington. He loved and honored his race and was consumed with a passionate ambition to lift it to a higher plane of living and service. He was a great orator, a profound scholar and a brilliant writer. He was the founder of Tuskegee Institute which began in a rented shanty but which now owns 3,500 acres of land and has nearly 100 buildings, valued at half million dollars. Washington found his place and by his tact and wisdom won and held the respect and admiration of white and colored, North and South.

—The entire brotherhood will learn with deep regret and much sorrow of the death of Rev. T. W. Strowd which sad event occurred at his home in Chapel Hill Friday a. m., Nov. 12. Only the Sunday before Bro. Strowd had filled his regular appointment at Bethel in Caswell county, but was taken sick there and rapidly grew worse till the end came. The funeral was from the Chapel Hill church, of which he was pastor, Saturday at 2 p. m. It was conducted by Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., assisted by Rev. J. W. Holt and ministers of other churches in Chapel Hill. Deceased leaves a wife, one brother and a sister to mourn their loss. Bro. Strowd was a meek and devout follower of the Lord Jesus and was a man of a most amiable Christian spirit. He was at the time of his death pastor of several churches and he died as he had lived, full of good works and zeal for his Father's kingdom.

NOTICE! NOTICE!!

The Southern Christian Convention at its last session in Portsmouth, Virginia, adjourned to meet on Tuesday before the first Sunday in May, 1916. That date will be May 2nd.

The place of meeting was not chosen but was left with the Executive Committee. We desire to know the place for the meeting of the next session at an early date, and hence this notice is a request for some church or churches to extend an invitation to the Convention to be their guest.

If your church wants the Convention next May, write the chairman of the Executive Committee. REV. W. W. STALEY, Ch'm., Suffolk, Va., Nov. 15, 1915.

MONEY RAISED FOR DR. J. W. WELLONS

The N. C. and Va. Conference last year just before adjourning asked the Secretary to write all the churches of the Conference and request a special offering for Dr. J. W. Wellons since he had not been voted any of the superannuate fund. This was done and the following amounts were sent to me and handed to Dr. Wellons:

1st Church, Greensboro.....	$ 5.50
Ingram	2.66
Long's Chapel	1.50
Union	2.00
Bethlehem	1.50
Hines' Chapel	1.65

Total $14.81
Monticello made an offering, but it was sent direct to Dr. Wellons. Perhaps other churches did likewise.

W. A. HARPER,
Secretary.

THANKS

To all our Elon friends we wish to gratefully express our sincere heartfelt thanks for the loving generous kindness and sympathy shown to us during our recent misfortune.

We loved Elon and her people. Now we know a nobler community surely does not exist. We cannot tell you what your thoughtful consideration means to us, but we want you to interpret for us the feeling of our hearts when words fail us. That our presence among you may be of some little help to each one of you, and be a means of brightening the passing days, is our earnest desire.

E. E. RANDOLPH,
MRS. E. E. RANDOLPH,
MARY RANDOLPH.

SUFFOLK LETTER

Two new Deacons have been elected and ordained in the Suffolk Christian church: Dr. D. L. Harrell and Wilbur E. McClenny. Joshua Harrell, father of Dr. Harrell, is a Deacon in Cypress Chapel; and David McClenny, father of Wilbur McClenny, is a Deacon in Bethlehem church. It seems good to find sons exalted to the same high position in the church occupied so long and honorably by their fathers.

C. A. Shoop, for many years the faithful and efficient superintendent of our Sunday school, has resigned and his assistant, W. S. Beamon, has been chosen superintendent, with John King assistant. W. A. King, for many years the model secretary of our Sunday school has resigned, and his assistant, Otis S. Smith, Jr., has been made secretary, with D. C. Lewis his assistant.

The every member canvass for current expenses and benevolences last year brought good results and the officials hope that this year will be an improvement over last year. There can be no doubt that the every member canvass and the systematic use of envelopes for church finance is the best yet devised. It is a difficult matter to reach every member, and to get every member to contribute, weekly, or monthly; but an honest canvass will increase the number of regular contributors. It is better that four members of a family give 5 cents a week than that one member of a family give 20 cents a week; but, as a matter of fact, when each member gives separately they will give more. Where services are held monthly the offering may be made monthly. The main thing is to get every member to give in his own name, and to give regularly. All work is done by littles and by regular strokes. The carpenter builds the house by driving one nail at a time. I write this page one word at a time. Giving should be done regularly, systematically, all the year through; and it would surprise those who have been accustomed to pay “just before Conference” to see how easy it would be to pay by littles all the year through—every Sunday or every month. One thing is plain to all thinking Christians, and that is, that the church must give more money to both current expenses and benevolences. Improvement has been made for which all good people are thankful; but progress in other things requires a corresponding progress in Christian giving. Col. J. E. West in the E. Va. Conference emphasized the duty of laymen to increase salaries of ministers to a minimum of one thousand dollars, so they can buy books, be free from debt, be leaders in giving, and do better work. That can be done easily by every member giving. Then Missions looms up as never before and here the increase is demanded both for the existence of the home church and the extension of the kingdom in heathen and pagan lands.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McAdams of Siler City, Miss Hazel McAdams, their daughter, who is teaching in Burlington, were here Sunday, visiting in the home of our townsman, Mr. J. C. McAdams.

Mrs. J. Walter Johnston, a member of Long's Chapel church, was here Sunday visiting Mrs. Pritchette.

Mr. W. A. Fonville, Wilmington, N. C., a former student of the College, spent the week end with friends on the Hill.

Mr. H. E. McPherson of Burlington, a practical farmer, has been elected Superintendent of the Orphanage to succeed Rev. J. O. Cox.

The College was very fortunate in having Hon. B. R. Lacy, State treasurer, Raleigh, N. C., Sunday afternoon and Sunday night to speak to the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. The two addresses were practical and inspiring, and all who heard them were greatly uplifted by the gospel message from this Christian layman.

The 26th annual celebration of the Philological Society is to occur as usual on Thanksgiving evening at 8 o'clock. A splendid program has been arranged consisting of music, instrumental and vocal, orations, humorous selections, and a debate. The participants are Messrs. John G. Truitt, N. F. Richards, R. F. Brown, J. H. Fleming, H. J. Fleming, G. F. Huffman, W. L. Monroe, G. F. Pridgen, J. F. Paper, W. C. Poe, W. C. King, H. S. Smith, W. C. Franks, H. E. Atkinson, J. F. Apple, J. M. Bradford. The public is cordially invited.

What was considered the cleverest “strunt” given here in some time was that in the form of “faculty meeting” rendered Friday evening by members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Characters were chosen to represent the various members of the faculty and the proceedings given on the platform of the College auditorium. For one time in life the members of the faculty saw themselves as others see them. It was an hour of wholesome fun for all. “X.”

THE TEST OF EFFICIENCY

Applied to Defiance College and the Christian Biblical Institute

"By their fruits ye shall know them." Matt. 7:16.

Twenty centuries of fruitful experience have not produced a better efficiency test than that given to us by Jesus Christ in the words: "By their fruits ye shall know them." In applying this test, allowance must be made for circumstances such as the element of time, environment, etc. But when properly applied will constitute an accurate guide to judgment.

In applying this test to the work of Defiance College and of the Christian Biblical Institute (in its present location) it must be distinctly remembered that thirteen years constitute a very small period in the history of an educational institution—scarcely sufficient to justify the expectation of more than an indication of fruit bearing possibilities. But notwithstanding the brevity of time Defiance College and the Christian Biblical Institute invite the application of this test of efficiency.

Others have called attention to the trustees and friends of the institutions, to the buildings erected, the equipment acquired, and the endowment secured. These are not "fruits." They are means to ends. They constitute the educational "plant." The "fruits" consist of the hundreds of students that have been developed and trained for service, and especially of those who have graduated, for an educational institution shall be known by its alumni.

An examination of the college records shows a constant increase in the number of students, from 33 at the opening in September 1902 to 669 different students in the calendar year of 1914, and it has been especially gratifying that this increase has for the most part been in students of college rank. The student body has always been a select one and characterized by high ideals and noble purposes.

A study of the list of the graduates of Defiance College and of the Christian Biblical Institute in its present location reveals some very interesting material for the efficiency test. Out of the total number of graduates of these institutions, which is 192, 28 are homemakers, 38 are ministers or missionaries, and 101 are teachers. In other words 20 per cent of the graduates are ministers and nearly 53 per cent are teachers. Of the remaining 27 per cent, half are homemakers and the others are pursuing a variety of occupations. Each of these classes has special opportunities for rendering efficient service. And since the moral and religious influence of the teacher is frequently only second to that of the minister, it is significant to note that nearly three-fourths of the alumni of the College and Institute are holding positions of large and positive Christian influence.

NOTES OF TRAVEL

When the Conference closed at Norfolk, Va., I started according to engagement for New York State. I left Norfolk at 6 p. m., on the N. Y. P. & N. ferry for Cape Charles. Soon after the boat started I formed the acquaintance of Rev. Mr. Watts, State Sunday School Secretary in South Carolina and a brother of the Sunday School Secretary in Virginia. With him the three hours run across the bay was pleasantly spent. Arriving at Cape Charles the next place sought was the sleeper. The berth was comfortable enough in many respects, but the jar of the train and the voices of a number of people in the smoker near by, who were evidently more interested in politics than they were in the sleep and rest of the writer, prevented to a great extent the desired sleep. Through the hours of the night the train dashed on its way. When the morning came I was told we were in New Jersey. For about one hour we traveled by factories of different kinds, through several towns, through country, some rolling, some marshy and some pasture lands. Just before the train reached its destination we passed through the tunnel under the Hudson River. From this tunnel we came into the station on 32nd street. Thence the journey was made to the station on the West Shore R. R. at Weehauken. Soon the journey was being made up the beautiful Hudson. This ride of about three and a half hours was intensely interesting. The scenery was grand beyond description. On one side lay the historic river, on the other hills and crags of different heights and sizes. Across the river lay what I was told were the highland hills. As the eyes and thoughts feasted upon these views, suddenly we would dash into a tunnel and then out to other views and into another tunnel and so on for several hours.

We passed through West Point, got only a glimpse at the main building of the great institution there, a glimpse of the lake where they have their famous boat races and of several plants of interest in the town. At one point we could plainly see suspended cars used to carry rocks from a mountain down to a cement factory by the river. These cars must have been from 75 to 100 feet above the railroad and the cables on which they traveled must have been between a quarter and a half mile.

We reached our station about noon and then took an automobile for Greenville, N. Y. Yesterday (November 7) I preached at South Westerlo Christian church. The congregations were good and very attentive. I met here a cousin of our beloved Dr. Dennison of Norfolk, Va. I shall remain in this section and preach for these people again November 14 and then by invitation go to preach for the church at Louisburg, Penn., November 21.

This is a very beautiful country. It would seem that everybody here would be very grateful to God for the many beauties of nature which He has placed around them. I may be heard from again on this trip.

R. H. PEEL.

FROM THE FIELD

My work for the conference year is drawing to a close. Next week I shall be reporting to our annual conference. I have tried to serve six churches this year—Ramscur, Pleasant Ridge, Park's Cross Roads, Shiloh and Antioch. Pleasant Grove, claiming a part of my time. We are now holding evangelistic meetings at Ramscur. In all the other churches revivals have been had. It would be interesting to speak of these churches separately, but as it would make my letter too lengthy, I shall speak of the work in a general way.

Evergreen Sunday-schools are conducted in all these churches. We had very good services during August and September when the churches were revived and souls were saved. In our evangelistic meetings, Rev. T. J. Green aided us at Shiloh and at Park's Cross Roads, his home church. His preaching this year was wonderfully blessed, and the brethren are rejoicing in the hope of future service from this messenger of the Gospel. Rev. J. W. Patton is assisting me this week at Ramscur; and his splendid sermons, so well delivered, are rejoicing the hearts of believers, and we feel will carry conviction to the unsaved. Miss Annie Williams, the Field Secretary, is with us trying to help our women in their organization. We are trusting God for results in our meeting, and believe Miss Williams will help the women in their societies.

Rev. R. H. Albright is a member of Shiloh, and his work is now limited to my field. This man of God has stood for our cause and righteousness like the sturdy oak of the forest; and he is still alive, a blessing and benediction to the churches and his many spiritual children. He preaches occasionally now, and will probably attend our conference. May it please our Father to spare him to us many more years. Raising the Conference apportionments is a task in my field. We are deficient in our plans; but as poor as our plan is, we hope to carry to conference that which is expected of us.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere gratitude to this entire community—faculty, students, townspeople, and all—for their generous kindness to us since our recent heavy loss by fire. Many things for our comfort have been thought of in detail. Never had it occurred to us so strongly and positively that a people could be so thoughtful, kind, and truly sympathetic towards its members.

Our esteem for all becomes more deeply implanted in view of the fact that we are new comers into your midst. The entire community has vividly portrayed the life and mission of the Master as all have joined unitedly in ministering to our needs. We fully appreciate everything that has been done for us.

It will be our earnest endeavor to prove more faithful and really helpful to all of these good people.

THE BEST CLASS IN GREENSBORO

The Young Men's Baraca Class of the First Christian Church of Greensboro, N. C., is a wide awake, energetic and loyal band of young men who are seeking to do the will of Him who holds the stars in their course and marks the fiery meteor's trail. This class with their teacher, Mr. S. A. Caviness, have done a great work and are expecting to do a still greater work along the line of uplifting the young men of Greensboro, not by their strength but upheld and guided by an omnipotent hand they shall be able to conquer the demon wrong in the lives of those with whom they come in contact and in this way help bring about that time when all nations and climes shall call Him Lord of lords and crown Him King of kings.

JENNINGS FLEMING, Press Rep.

—Word reaches us that Rev. Victor Lightbourne has led in a wonderful evangelistic campaign in Dover, Delaware, and though he had to leave for engagements elsewhere the revival still goes on. The city of Dover became stirred and hundreds were reached by the wonderful messages of this man of God. It is reported as one of the mightiest revivals of religion Dover has experienced in years.

S. S. LESSON, NOV. 21

Jonah a Missionary to Nineveh
Jonah 3:1-10

Jehovah asked Jonah to perform a large task. A task that he thought he could not perform. Jonah began to make excuses and try in some way to get away from God and away from this city which God had directed him to go to and preach to the people; get them to see their sins and wicked ways and thereby be instrumental in saving the city and people from utter destruction.

We are all familiar with the story of the whale swallowing Jonah and how he was delivered and was willing to do God's bidding. This is small as compared with the task that Jonah had to accomplish. Jonah felt the responsibility and the gravity of the situation. A large city of wicked people, who, in his mind, would sneer and joke at his preaching. Jonah only thought of his own welfare and feelings in the matter; he wasn't thinking so much of how many people would be destroyed because he was not willing to do God's will. Nineveh was ready and willing to repent; only waiting for some one to bring the glad message and bring good tidings to their ears. The people repented and Nineveh was after that another type of a city.

We are inclined to think that Jonah was of another caliber after God had subdued him and showed him that it was God's purpose for men to do His bidding.

Every person who has had the opportunity of knowing the Christian religion has at some time in his life had the call of God to do some special work. Many have been like Jonah, tried to get out of doing the thing that God wanted him to do. Have made all kinds of excuses; some have defied the spirit so long and kept it quenched so that it may not come again. We are given the choice of accepting or rejecting the call. God has so endowed man that he can choose for himself. We found in the lesson today that it is not the best thing to do to refuse God's advice.

We are being called upon to go or support missionaries in some city or country just as Jonah was called upon to go Nineveh. Jonah refused; the result is recorded. If we refuse what will be the result? It is not made clear, though we may expect some punishment in proportion to what Jonah received. When we are called and do accept, as is the wise thing to do, we will have the joy and glad heart as Jonah did after he preached the gospel message.

Nineveh is not the only city that repented in a day, so to speak. We read recently of the campaign in Philadelphia under the leadership of Billy Sunday and his associates. Then we read of the Boxer movement in China and in a few months the missionaries that were left there were entertained by the president of the new republic and plans were laid for a Christian China. Japan has been marvelously changed. There are other lands calling just as strong and need the message as these nations have needed it. Are we ready to take Jonah's position?

C. E. TOPIC, NOV. 21

The Way in Which God Wants to Be Thanked. .Psa. 67:1-7
(Thanksgiving Meeting.)

There are several ways in which to conduct the Thanksgiving meeting. One way is to announce that the meeting will be for the purpose of contributing gifts of what ever amount the donor desires to give of food, clothing, money, or any other valuable article that will be useful for the person to whom the society wishes to make the gift. Maybe there are some families in your community that the society would like to make feel good and comfortable. Maybe there are some children that the local society would like to dress. Is there a church that needs assistance close by? What about the orphans, are they well supplied?

These gifts may be brought to the society and given in the society's name or may be given in the name of the individuals.

Truly God wants us to be thankful for the blessings that He has bestowed upon us during the year. Our earthly father is made glad when we show our appreciation for what he has done for us, how much more so will our Heavenly Father be made to rejoice by our attitude for what we have received.

If God has blessed us in such a way that we have prospered during the year, we have received worldly goods, have had our talents cultivated, have made a step in cultural civilization and well as material civilization; He expects us to show it and use these special advantages for the upbuilding of the human race and good of all. We want to give thanks to God. Jesus told us while here on earth that the best way to give thanks to our Heavenly Father was to treat our fellow men well; to administer unto those who needed help, thereby we would glorify our Father which is in Heaven.

The Scripture follows:

God be merciful to us, and bless us, and cause his face to shine upon us; that thy way may be known upon earth, thy salvation among all nations.

Let the peoples praise thee, O God; let all the peoples praise thee.

Oh let the nations be glad and sing for joy; for thou wilt judge the peoples with equity, and govern the nations upon the earth.

Let the peoples praise thee, O God; let all the peoples praise thee.

The earth hath yielded its increase: God, even our own God, will bless us;

God will bless us; and all the ends of the earth shall fear him. —Ps. 67.

For answer in meeting from the C. E. World:

Why should we be grateful to God?

In what way have you shown gratitude to God in the past year?

Why should we share our good things with others?

How can we thank God for our society?

How can we show our gratitude for our church?

Report for the week 145.81
Grand total 3306.54

This report closes our official relationship with the Christian Orphanage, but our love for and interest in the work continue. For the past two years we have endeavored to superintend and manage the institution to the best of our ability. The financial depression of the past year has made the work more difficult to maintain, and prevented us from carrying out many of our plans, but we have tried to serve faithfully and do our best for the institution and each child committed to its care. These years of labor in its behalf have greatly endeared the institution to our hearts, and revealed to us the wonderful possibilities of the orphanage work. It is with a feeling of deep regret that we leave this field of service, but the best interest of my own family demands the change. The two years living in the institution together with the worry and responsibility of the work has proven too great for Mrs. Cox's physical strength.

The Board will doubtless announce its own plans, so it will be unnecessary for me to give out anything further than to pledge to the Superintendent and each of his helpers my co-operation and loyal support. Here is hoping that the entire church may do likewise.

We regret that is has become necessary to make the change just at this time, on account of the Thanksgiving offering, but we trust that this may not lessen the offering of a single individual or church. Be loyal to your orphanage in this time of need, uphold it with your prayers and money.

Dear Uncle Jim: Enclosed you will find ten cents that I earned working at home for mamma, and a little bag I made myself. I thought it would be nice for some little girl to take her penny to S. S. in.

Your little niece,
SARAH MANN.

We certainly welcome your dime and little present. I am very sorry to see that so many of the cousins have forgotten us. We hope you will do something to wake them up in your State.

Dear Uncle Jim: It has been a long time since we have written to you, but we haven't forgotten you and the little orphans. We are having some nice weather now and we enjoy playing out. We hope you and the little orphans are real well. We will try not to wait so long next time. Enclosed you will find a dime for brother and me. With love to you and all we are as ever your little nephews.

We appreciate your interest in our large family and hope you will not wait so long to write next time.

MISSION BOARD MINUTES

By Warren H. Denison, Secretary
Norfolk, Va.

The Mission Board of the Christian Church met in annual session in the Mission Rooms of the Christian Publishing Association Building, Dayton, Ohio, Tuesday, Oct. 19, 1915, and closed the following Friday. All members of Board were present as follows: Home Department—Revs. Carlyle Summerbell, C. B. Kershner, O. S. Thomas, Mr. M. S. Campbell and Mrs. J. F. Burnett; Foreign Department—Revs. M. T. Morrill, W. H. Denison, W. P. Fletcher, J. W. Harrell and Mr. J. O. Winters.

The minutes of last session and the Correspondence Actions for the year were ratified. It was voted to extend an invitation to the Board of Trustees of the Christian Publishing Association, the friends in the C. P. A. Building and other visiting brethren to attend our sessions at their convenience. The Home Mission Secretary, the Foreign Mission Secretary, the Treasurer, the Financial Agent, the Publisher all made their annual reports and they were referred to their proper departments or committees.

A vote of sympathy was extended to the Home Mission Secretary on account of the serious illness of his father.

Greetings were received from Rev. D. M. Helfenstein, of Iowa.

Nominations: Members Campbell, Summerbell, Fletcher.

Joint Committee with C. P. A.: Members Morrill and Thomas.

The Forward Movement Committee appointed last year made the following report which was accepted.

Your Forward Movement Com-

She Knows What She Wants

The well informed housekeeper insists upon using only a baking powder which is made of cream of tartar. She might read in an advertisement or be told that alum and lime phosphate, which are used as inferior substitutes in cheap baking powders, were all right in the quantities used but she would not buy them or permit them to enter her kitchen. Why?

Because she knows that cream of tartar has always been accepted as the most wholesome agent, with soda, for raising cake and biscuit, and she wants a baking powder made of cream of tartar, like Royal.

This conclusion is the result of unconscious absorption, either her own or her mother's, of the opinions of the highest authorities on hygiene and home cooking.

The prudent housekeeper, when she uses baking powder, reads the names of the ingredients printed on the label. She knows what she wants.

mittee has held three meetings during the past year and endeavored to carry out the purpose and spirit of the Forward Movement resolution adopted by your Board a year ago. The personnel of the committee as it stands today is as follows: O. S. Thomas, C. B. Kershner, M. T. Morrill, J. W. Harrell, J. A. Stover, H. A. Smith, P. W. McReynolds, Hermon Eldridge, W. A. Harper, E. A. Watkins, C. B. Hershey, and J. F. Burnett constituting the active membership; and F. G. Coffin, W. G. Sargent, W. C. Wicker, D. B. Atkinson, W. P. Fletcher, P. H. Peters, W. W. Staley the consulting membership.

The Committee in its second meeting had Dr. Corey of the Men and Millions Movement of the Disciples church to come before it and outline the origin and plans of that movement. That proved very helpful to our Committee. A questionnaire was prepared and sent to 100 laymen and 100 ministers. About 60 persons replied, all with the exception of two, thinking well of the Movement and promising their support and co-operation.

The general plans of the Movement adopted by the Committee and approved by the Executive Committee of the American Christian Convention provide for the launching of the Movement; a stake of $500,000; that the beneficiaries be the American Christian Convention, Sunday Schools, Christian Endeavor, Education Missions; that the Movement cover a period of five years; that the appeal be made to individuals; that Christian workers be secured and directed to our institutions for training; that individuals be sought out to finance the Movement for definite periods; the manner in which the division of funds may be agreed upon; and that team workers while out on the canvass do all they can to introduce the Every-member canvass, and the Duplex Envelopes.

The Committee at its last meeting, September 9, elected a general Treasurer, and Executive Board,

Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

In the Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, Dr. John F. Russell says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. * Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance. * but if the salts are not in organic combination, it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm our belief that the success of Eckman's Alternative in tuberculosis is due largely to its content of lime, in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells. Doubtless this has had much to do with the results in many cases which appear to have yielded to it. As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

FREE UNTIL 1916

Have you subscribed yet for The Youth's Companion for 1916? Now is the time to do it, if you are not already a subscriber, for you will get all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1915 free from the time your subscription, with $2.00, is received.

The fifty-two issues of 1916 will be crowded with good reading for young and old. Reading that is entertaining, but not "wishy-washy." Reading that leaves you, when you lay the paper down, better informed, with keener aspirations, with a broader outlook on life. The Companion is a good paper to tie to if you have a growing family—and for general reading, as Justice Brewer once said, no other is necessary.

If you wish to know more of the brilliant list of contributors, from our ex-Presidents down, who will write for the new volume in 1916, and if you wish to know something of the new stories for 1916, let us send you free the Forecast for 1916.

Every new subscriber who sends $2 for 1916 will receive, in addition to this year's free issues The Companion Home Calendar for 1916.

and a Director of the Movement and authorized the raising of a promotion fund for the first year of the campaign of $4,000. The brother called to the leadership of the Movement has the matter under consideration and we are hoping he may see his way clear to take it up at the earliest date possible.

Signed J. W. HARRELL,
Chairman.

It was voted that the action of the Mission Secretaries in the matter of the Traveling Exhibit of National Religious Forces be confirmed.

The Mission Board met several times in conference with the Board of Trustees of the Christian Publishing Association to consider a plan of having a Field Secretary for Religious Education. The Board approved the action taken by joint conference approving the proposition for employing such a Field Secretary and recommended the following schedule:

Mission Boards.....	$ 500.00
Chris. Pub. Asso.....	800.00
Amer. Chris. Conv.....	400.00
S. S. Department.....	750.00
Educational Dept.....	800.00
C. E. Department.....	250.00
	<hr/>
	$3500.00

The Secretary was directed to lay the recommendation before the American Christian Convention.

The auditors, A. F. Chase and S. O. Albaugh, made report showing the books of the Treasurers, J. G. Bishop and O. S. Thomas, the Home Mission Secretaries, O. W. Powers and O. S. Thomas, the Foreign Mission Secretary and Publisher M. T. Morrill, correct, with all moneys, collaterals, and legal papers properly accounted for as shown by the books and vouchers.

The reports were all adopted and the bill of the auditors was ordered paid. The nominating committee reported and the following officers were elected by ballot:

- Honorary Pres., J. G. Bishop.
- President, M. T. Morrill.
- Secretary, W. H. Denison.
- Treasurer, O. S. Thomas.
- Mission Council: M. T. Morrill, O. S. Thomas, J. W. Harrell, J. O. Winters, C. B. Kershner, Mrs. J. F. Burnett.

Investment Committee: O. S. Thomas, M. T. Morrill, J. O. Winters.

It was voted that the Board express its thanks to the Christian Publishing Association for their generosity and thoughtfulness in providing our Board with such suitable offices and donating the rent for same to our work.

It was voted to be the sense of the Board that the annual meeting of the Board be held beginning October 17, 1916.

On motion the salaries of the Secretaries and officers were fixed the same as last year.

On motion an additional appropriation of fifty dollars was made to the salary of the Financial Agent.

On motion a vote of appreciation was extended to our Financial Agent, Dr. J. G. Bishop, and the hope was expressed that during the ensuing year he may be permitted to be of even larger service in securing funds and in writing for our church literature.

The Home Mission Department made its report through its Secretary, C. B. Kershner and same was adopted.

It was moved and carried that the obligation of the Home Mission Board in favor of the Miami, Ohio, Christian Conference be transferred to the Foreign Mission Board.

The Foreign Mission Department made its report through its Secretary, W. H. Denison, and same was adopted.

An appropriation was made covering the expenses of the Board meeting.

On motion all unfinished business was referred to the Mission Council.

Hon. O. W. Whitlock, Miss Alice True, Dr. J. G. Bishop, Rev. Emily K. Bishop, Rev. C. A. McDaniel, Dr. J. P. Barrett, were present at times with the Board.

Adjourned.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Advt.

OUR DEAD

Lawrence

Rev. William Wesley Lawrence was born July 23, 1838, and died Oct. 26, 1915 in his 77th year. He was married Oct. 8, 1861, to Miss Irene Cox, who died July 29, 1884. Eight children came to bless their home. Of this number three have passed away. The living are Mrs. M. A. Rhodes, Marion, Ind., Mrs. John Campbell, Lynn, Ind., Mr. Lindly I. Lawrence, Bryant, Ind., Mrs. E. L. Stack, Elizabeth City, N. C., and Mrs. J. G. Anthony, High Point, N. C. He came of religious parents. His father's home gave to the Christian church two ministers, Rev. John S. Lawrence, and the subject of this sketch. Both were members of the W. N. C. C. C., and their names are known in all our churches. Rev. W. W. Lawrence had not been actively engaged in preaching for several years. He delivered occasional sermons at revivals and funerals. He entered the ministry just after the close of the war between the States, and for a long time was actively engaged. In 1884 his companion died. Later his sons and daughters left the old home and established homes of their own; but to him no place was home but his own. He therefore spent his declining years in visiting from place to place among his friends, and back again to the home of his joys and sorrows, which he would neither sell nor for any length of time abandon. His children will never forget the many acts of kindness which his friends bestowed upon him in his last days. His life was pure, his education good for his day, his character upright, and his last testimony assured his relatives and friends that he departed with no fear of the beyond. He was buried in Pleasant Hill cemetery, and his funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. H. A. Albright.

Portlock

Mrs. Virginia P. D. Portlock was the eldest daughter of Colonel William Eley of Nansemond county, Va. Her mother died and she was in charge of five brothers and five sisters before she was twenty. This made the family feel toward her as their mother. She married at twenty-two, was a widow with one child at twenty-four. Born June 21, 1839, she died August 1, 1915, in her seventy-seventh year. Her only daughter, Lydia, married Wm. C. Wyatt and was the mother of four children. She died January 23, 1915, survived by her husband and three children. Mrs. Portlock became mother to her grandchildren until her sudden death. Her life was one of sadness and beautiful service for her loved ones. Her life was a model of self-sacrifice for others. Modest, pure, and pious, she had the confidence and love of a host of friends. Few lives have been so devoted, so free from criticism, and so full of church value. There are stars in her crown bejeweled by faith and good works. Like a spotless lily, she adorned the world then faded into sweet memory and her spirit went to God and loved ones.

LETTERS FROM RHEUMATISM

Possibly you have imagined that you could never get your own consent to write a testimonial letter, but if you have ever experienced the excruciating pains of Rheumatism you can at least appreciate the feelings of those who have been relieved of this terrible disease by drinking the Mineral Water from the justly celebrated Shivar Spring at Shelton, S. C. This water overcomes many diseases, including Indigestion, Gout, Uric Acid Poisoning and Liver and Kidney diseases, but no patrons of the Springs are more enthusiastic in their praise of the water than those who have been relieved of their Rheumatism. Hundreds of letters like the following have been received by the Management:

Dr. Crosby, a South Carolina physician, writes:—"I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of Rheumatism, Chronic Indigestion, Kidney and Bladder troubles and in Nervous and sick Headaches and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter."

Dr. Vanat of Savannah writes: "I suffered for years with a most aggravating form of stomach disorder, and consulted a number of our best local physicians, went to Baltimore and consulted specialists there and still I was not benefitted. I had about despaired of living when I began to use Shivar Spring Water, and in a short time was cured."

Mr. Rhodes of Virginia writes:—"Please send me ten gallons of Shivar Spring Water quickly, I want it for Rheumatism. I know of several who were cured of Rheumatism with this watr."

Editor Cunningham writes:—"The water has done more good than any medicine I have ever taken for Rheumatism. Am entirely free from pain."

Mr. McClam of South Carolina writes:—"My wife has been a sufferer with Rheumatism and after drinking twenty gallons of your Mineral Water was entirely cured of the horrible disease."

Mr. Carter of Virginia writes:—"Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints on her hands caused by Rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement. The water is simply excellent."

If you suffer with Rheumatism, or with any chronic disease, accept the guarantee offer below by signing your name. Clip and mail to the Shivar Spring,

Box 9B, Shelton, S. C. Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

A Prayer

We thank Thee, O Lord, for the lives of those who have suffered and died that Thy truth might be free. The noble army of martyrs praise Thee. Bid us be strong in their strength, that we may glorify Thee in our souls and bodies which are Thine.

Remember us as a nation, O Lord. Thou hast blessed us with peace and plenty and prosperity. May these riches of Thy blessing not enfeeble us and rob of that high and holy incentive which ever belong to the nations which are called upon to do the will of God. Give us peace in our time, O Lord, but peace with honor and blessing and without reproach.

Forgive our many sins, our Father, for the sake of Thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and help us to be like Him day by day. Amen.

—Anon.

A Bounden Duty

It was Abraham Lincoln who said that he was not bound to win, but that he was bound to be true; that he was not bound to succeed, but he was bound to live up to the light he had. The man who holds such a creed is bound to win out finally, for it leads to the very fountain and source of life. Any man who compromises himself and his conscience in order to win—finally an inevitably loses. "For whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it." (Luke 9:24.)

The Morning Watch

If one considers the worth and majesty of life one will hardly spend all the twenty-four hours of the day without devoting some of it to worship. Time is so precious that God deals it out to us only in moments. To waste it all on self and devote none of it to the work and business of eternity is folly. "He who rushes from his bed to his business," declared Spurgeon, "and waiteth not to worship is as foolish as though he had not put on his clothes, and as unwise as though he dashed into battle without arms or armor." How any sane person can pass the entire day and not give some of it to prayer and thanksgiving seems beyond comprehension. "The morning is the gate of the day and should be well guarded with prayer." "Evening, morning and at noon, will I pray, and cry aloud; and he shall hear my voice." (Psa. 54:17.)

Preparedness

"The sum and substance of the preparedness necessary for a coming eternity is that you believe what the Bible bids you," wrote Chalmers. And that is a preparedness worth while. An inspired writer long ago exhorted likewise, "Prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and serve him only." (1 Samuel 7:3.)

A Logical Sequence

The Western North Carolina Methodist Conference gave to foreign missions the past year—during hard times they tell us—$25,000. The churches of the same Conference report accessions to their membership the past year, on profession of faith, 7,791 members. The one follows the other. When any church becomes missionary, and begins to think in world wide terms, then God strengthens that church and greatly increases its strength and numbers. God cannot prosper a non-missionary church and keep His word. Neither can He help prospering a missionary church and keep His word. "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations * * * * and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28:19, 20.)

Vain and False Philosophy

"In time of peace prepare for war," is an old slogan as erroneous and misleading as that other which should have died before it was born, viz: "When in Rome do as Rome does." Both are contrary to Bible doctrine and the Christian religion. The Book says, "Blessed are the peace-makers: for they shall be called the children of God." If any man were to declare himself to be a peace-maker while he busied himself arming himself to the teeth he would doubt his word and declare him dangerous. And instead of doing as others do, we are commanded by the spirit of our Christian doctrine, "Do unto others as you would that others do unto you." A nation is no less subject to the will and teachings of Jehovah than an individual is.

A Valuable Cargo

On a vessel steaming out of San Francisco harbor for Shanghai, China, the following were found to be on board: Missionary pastors 134 (thirty-seven men and ninety-seven women); seventy-eight furloughed missionaries and fifty five new missionaries; number of years of foreign service of former, 656; eleven Protestant denominations were represented, besides three Roman Catholics, two independents. The destinations were: China 82; Japan 20; India 14; Korea 8; Siam 5; Honolulu 3. When we consider the need and the opportunity in foreign fields for Christian service, this cargo becomes inestimable. "Are not five sparrows sold for a farthing? and not one of them is forgotten before God * * * Fear not therefore; ye are of more value than many sparrows." (Luke 12:6, 7.)

A Wide-Open Sunday

The Supreme Court of Oregon, in its decision on the Sunday closing law, has permitted places which deal in the necessities of life to remain open on Sunday. Such places include drug-stores, livery-stables, undertaking establishments, theatres, bakeries and markets. The theatre was held by the court "a necessity as affording needed mental diversion." If one wishes to know why we have mental unrest, nervous prostrations, increasing divorce and multiplying inmates in our asylums one will find one large, if not a sole cause, in the desecration of the holy Sabbath by the American people. "Six days shall work be done; but the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, an holy convocation; ye shall do no work therein; it is the sabbath of the Lord in all your dwellings." (Lev. 23:3.)

A Blessing of War

Out of the horrors and the hell of war God gets to Himself glory, majesty, praise. Already the European holocaust renders its meed of praise to a just and wise God who would not have one of His children murder or be murdered even on the field of blood. In France and Germany and England, men bowed beneath the burden of overwhelming disaster are turning to God and are mightily calling upon His name for light and life and help. The Sunday School Chronicle of London quotes a recantation from the brilliant journalist, M. Henri Lavedan whose jibes and mockeries at religion had made him famous throughout his country; but what he has seen and experienced since France has been in the war makes him say: "I once laughed at faith and thought myself wise." But as I saw France bleeding and weeping, my laughter could not give me joy. I stood by the way and saw the soldiers as they went light-heartedly to face death. I asked, "What is it that makes you so?" I counted the sacrifices of our people and saw how they accepted them with praying hearts. Then it was to me a great comfort to know of an eternal fatherland. A nation must despair, if it does not believe that the sufferings of earth will become the joy of heaven. Who can hope, when everything is failing, save he who has faith in God? Oh!—I dare not name Him [Jesus Christ]. He was so good, and I . . . What would become of France, if her children did not believe, or her women did not pray? A vast people of the dead cover the field! How hard it is to be an atheist under this national burying ground! I can't do it, I can't be one! I have deceived myself, and you who have read my books and sung my songs. I was mad. It has all been an awful dream! O! France, France! Return to your faith and to your best days. To depart from God is to be lost. I know not whether I shall be alive tomorrow, but I must tell my friends Lavedan does not dare to die an atheist. It is not hell that makes me afraid, but this one thought grips me. God lives, and thou art so far from Him! O! my soul, rejoice that thou art permitted to see the hour in which, kneeling, thou hast learnt to say, I believe, I believe in God, I believe."

CONFERENCE CALENDAR

The Conferences yet to be held meet as follows:

Christian Missionary Association (E. Va., Conf.)
—Rosemont church, Tuesday, December 7th. W. D. Harward, President, Newport News, Va., R. H. Peel, Secretary, Wakefield, Va.

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA

The place of the session was Pleasant Hill meeting house, Alamance county, November 16, 17, 18. A sufficient delegation was present, hospitality was abundant, and the proceedings of Conference were harmonious. One loves to attend this Conference. The spirit of it is always beautiful and the fellowship is sweet. The great pity of this body is that, like many others of our bodies, it refuses to grow. There seems to be no objective. The weight of responsibility does not seem to oppress the body. The Conference has no burdens. It just moves along easily, without hurt, let or hindrance. The Conference has never sent out but one missionary that we now recall, and it has been twenty years building three churches—during which time it has lost some four or five.

The Conference needs to get beneath some weighty matter, feel the power and the pull of some tremendous burden. It needs an objective. It needs a great task set before it—a goal to strike for, a definite aim and end in view.

The Conference can, if it will. There are consecrated and capable men in it. There is vast wealth. There is loyalty to church and love to God among the brethren. The sweetest fellowship obtains. If the Conference will undertake some great and good work, aggressively, for the Kingdom it will go forward by leaps and bounds. It is capable. It lacks in weighty responsibility.

Rev. G. R. Underwood, Sanford, N. C., is the worthy and esteemed president; Rev. T. J. Green is the capable secretary and Capt. J. A. Turrentine is the worthy treasurer. The Conference in session ordained to the ministry Rev. T. J. Green, raised $250.00 in cash and pledges for the High Point work, received two recruits to the Biblical class, and talked of building churches at Bennett and Seagrove the coming year. Dr. A. B. Kendall, Dr. W. A. Harper, Dr. J. U. Newman, Rev. L. I. Cox delivered inspiring addresses before the Conference, and Rev. T. E. White delivered a fine and fruitful annual sermon before the body. Rev. J. O. Cox was elected to give no fourth his time the coming year to home mission work in the bounds of the Conference. Mrs. W. H. Carroll of Burlington sent in a splendid paper and report relative to the women's work in the Conference the past year.

This Conference has unlimited possibilities for service, and abundant resources. It will awake one day to its power and opportunities, and then it will enjoy the growth and prosperity that its fine membership and delightful fellowship deserve.

Mr. C. B. Riddle, a worthy and capable student in Elon College was licensed by the Conference to the ministry and gives promise of much usefulness in the body. The next session is to be held at Pleasant Ridge in Randolph county.

A THIEF AND INDUSTRY CLUB

Many Christians complain that they do not know what their increase, or income, during the year amounts to. Suppose such put it on this basis. If the State were to offer all its citizens a bonus of ten per cent at the end of the year on all they had made during the year, provided an accurate statement were rendered, would there be any great trouble in figuring out what that bonus should be? So, likewise, all who really want to render a tithe unto the Lord of all their yearly income can do so if an honest and faithful effort be made in that direction. And it behooves Christians everywhere to render a tenth unto the Lord. In fact it belongs to the Lord. The tithe is holy unto the Lord and he who holds it robs God and does himself and family great injury and injustice. The sacred Scriptures plainly teach and enjoin tithing and no one can obey the Scriptures and refuse to tithe.

The church must beg and beg like a piper, when in very truth it is the best and most powerful of all our institutions and should have unlimited store and treasure with which to carry forward its divinely appointed work.

THE CHURCH A BEGGAR

No church ought to beg. It is contrary to the spirit of Christianity. There is nothing in the Bible that justifies it. It compromises the value, worth, majesty and might of the church. It is the most powerful and beneficent and helpful organization or institution on earth. Therefore it certainly ought not to beg—place itself on a par with a pauper.

The church is divine. It was founded by God and for His glory. It should not be reduced to the necessity of begging.

And it will cease begging when Christians shall have assumed the right attitude to property and begin again to give according to plain and unmistakable Scriptural teaching.

Every Christian should faithfully tithe. A tenth of all our income belongs to the Lord and should go into the treasury of the church. It is holy unto the Lord. If we lay by in store the first day of the week as the Lord hath prospered and be sure to make that equal to and fully one tenth of all our increase the church will go forward and can quit begging.

REV. THOMAS W. STROWD

Rev. W. S. Long, D. D., under date of Nov. 15, contributed the following which is a true memorial to a faithful life, and one given in loving and loyal service to the church of his choice. Dr. Long's words and the record he writes are worthy a place in the editorial columns of THE SUN, and will have wide reading in THE SUN family where Bro. Strowd was so well known and so widely loved:

"Rev. T. W. Strowd died Nov. 12, 1915, at his home in Chapel Hill, N. C., while in his 56th year. He embraced religion in his youth and united with the Christian church at Damascus in Orange county, N. C. He was educated in Graham High School and the University of N. C. He entered the ministry in his youth and for more than a quarter of a century he was an efficient and faithful preacher of the gospel. In connection with his ministry he taught school a great part of his time. For several years he taught at Union Ridge in Alamance county, N. C., and in Caswell and Orange counties. He had served several churches as pastor and at the time of his death had just closed his labors with the churches at O'Kelleys, Damascus, Chapel Hill and Bethel. The last named church he organized and served continuously from the time of its organization until his death, a period of over 20 years. In all the relations of life, as citizen, teacher, preacher, or companion, he was considerate, kind, conscientious and true. While in school he lived in my home and I found him to be a clean and upright boy and I have observed his course in life and he has never wavered. He continued to serve his churches although his health was poor, and even against the advice of his physician and his wife he went to his last appointment at Bethel, a distance of 40 miles on his buggy, married two couples, and preached his farewell sermon, returned home on Monday and died Friday following. He leaves a wife, one brother, several sisters and many friends to mourn their loss.

The funeral was held in the Christian church in Chapel Hill, conducted by the writer and assisted by all the ministers in the town, Dr. Moss of the Presbyterian church, Dr. Smith of the Baptist, Dr. Starr of the Episcopal, Rev. Walter Patten of the Methodist and Rev. J. W. Holt of Burlington. The floral tributes were numerous and exquisitely beautiful. A large congregation attended, and the Masonic fraternity officiated at the grave."

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—In ten years the Methodists in India have increased from 68,000 to 164,000 or 141 per cent. The most ready and responsive fields for Christian service today are those in pagan countries.

Mr. Jas. B. Duke of New York gave to the Western N. C. Methodist Conference in session at Reidsville last week $25,000 to be used for home missions, church extension, and aged ministers. The Conference accepted the gift with the hope that it will be repeated annually.

—Alamance Gleaner, Graham, Nov. 18: The children of the Christian Orphanage will give a Thanksgiving entertainment at Elon College Thursday morning, at Burlington Christian Christian church Thursday night, and at Graham Friday night, all next week. No admission will be charged, but an offering will be taken, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the Orphanage. Everybody is invited.

—The following is received, for which we return thanks: "Mr. Joel Patterson Huffman requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of his daughter, Vivian Jewell to Mr. Bruce Lafayette Cantrell on Thursday evening, December the ninth at 8 o'clock, Elon College Chapel, Elon College, N. C." Miss Vivian is the accomplished daughter of our good townsman, J. P. Huffman and is held in wide esteem. Mr. Cantrell is to be congratulated.

—The following is from The Starkey Seminary for November and has reference to an Elon graduate (in the class of '15) from Denron, Va.: "Prof. E. T. Cotten comes from the South to conduct the Classical department. He has thirteen in First Latin and ten in Second Latin, and he is keeping them busily engaged at work. There are five in his class in Ancient History. He has every promise of making a successful instructor.

—We regret to learn from Rev. G. D. Hunt, Wadley, Ala., of the death of our beloved and venerable brother, Rev. Thomas H. Elder of our Alabama Conference. "Uncle Tom," as he was lovingly called had a wide circle of friends and was a blessing indeed to his day and generation. There was not a sweeter spirited or more optimistic brother of all our number, and his long life was rich in abundant and fruitful labors. Bro. Hunt writes appropriately of him in our obituary columns this week.

—Alamance Gleaner, Graham, N. C., Nov. 18: For the past five years Rev. J. F. Morgan has been pastor of Graham Christian church and New Providence. He came among the people here as a school boy and mere lad, but throughout his stay he has at all times been a manly man. His manner of service and his going in and out among the people here have won for him the highest esteem and confidence of all, irrespective of church affiliations. His churches here were loath to give him up, but their best wishes follow him to his new field. He goes to the First Christian church, Berkeley, Va.

—The Starkey Seminary of Lakemont, N. Y., for November has the following which will interest and gratify SUN readers: "Early in October the Seminary was favored with a visit from Pres. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, North Carolina, who came to see the Seminary for the first time. He had spent the previous Sunday with Dr. Child, and preached for him in the First Congregational Church of Fairfield, Conn. The next day he spent in looking over Columbia University. Tuesday afternoon he was at Lakemont and Tuesday evening he addressed the students in the Seminary on "Things in General and Some Things in Particular." The lecture was masterly in its conception and delivery, humorous enough to attract and hold the young people in a solid grip, and very helpful in its suggestions of the ideas and ideals that the student should constantly keep before him. Pres. Harper won the affection of the students at the first stroke. As Dr. Child expresses it, 'Dr. Harper is a rare man, one in a million.' We have his promise to come again before long, when we expect that Mrs. Harper will accompany him, as he is very desirous that she may see this beautiful region of Central New York."

BEREA CHURCH (NORFOLK)

The fifth Sunday in Oct. was annual Rally Day at this church. All day services were held and picnic dinner. Mrs. Fred Bullock, Field Sec. of the Eastern Va. Sunday School Convention was present and helped the occasion with her delightful instruction. The entire program was turned over to her.

At 10 o'clock she conducted as nearly as possible a model country Sunday school, and I have no hesitancy in saying that from every point of view it was the best country Sunday school I ever had the pleasure of attending. At the close of the Sunday school a half hour was given to round table in which Mrs. Bullock answered questions in a very practical manner. She also spoke on the Front Line Standard and how we can get on it.

After dinner, which was characterized by fine food and fellowship, Mrs. Bullock held a conference with the workers of the church and a Cradle Roll and Home Department were organized. Miss Lola Nichols was elected Cradle Roll superintendent and Mrs. Wm. Hodges was elected Home Department superintendent. These workers are interested in this service and are already busy at the job. Other phases of church life were discussed to much profit.

Mrs. Bullock then delivered an address on "Study to Show Thyself Approved of God" to an audience of about 200 people. Due to the thoughtfulness and generosity of Bro. W. S. Hanbury and other friends of Portsmouth the Junior choir, about 25, of Portsmouth motored to Berea for the afternoon service, and the juniors rendered two song numbers very effectively. The pastor was to have spoken on "The Young People and the Church" but time failed and his address was held in reserve.

The day's work contributed much real good to the people there and we want Mrs. Bullock to come again.

We hope every school in the convention is making arrangements to have her at some time during the year. I wish to suggest to all the superintendents that you have Mrs. Bullock conduct a model school for you under your circumstances and limitations. Many have her come and they go ahead conducting their same old way and she makes a talk and does what she can to improve any weak point. That is well, but I have learned that by far the best plan is to plan a program with her embracing both your systems and her ideas and then let her run it in as nearly model way as possible. You will find that she is fully competent to do the work in an ideal manner, and at the close you can question her as to why she did things in certain fashion. Then if you find her way works better than yours at any point you have a practical demonstration and you can apply the methods.

I have been holding a revival at this church this week, nights only. The plan was to hold a two weeks' meeting, each sermon being a consecutive study of Revelation. Owing to a deep cold I was physically unable to do the work, so closed last night. H. E. ROUNTREE.

SUFFOLK LETTER

I am as much perplexed often to find material for a "Suffolk Letter" as a good housewife to decide what to have for dinner. The cook in the kitchen may have an easier time than the matron in the carpeted room making the decision. In fact the determination of questions, great or small, is the most difficult human service. Decision is at least half of any proposition. The preparation of sermons is easy, in my case, when decision has determined the text and the subject; but I am face to face with that important matter every week. God knows His book and the people, while I know very little about either; He only can show me the text for the next Sunday. When I see the special delivery clerk, hastening to deliver a letter, I say there goes a sort of preacher. He delivers a message from one to another; and his duty is to deliver what is important to those two parties; while a message of his own might have little meaning and no value.

There are many defective people in this present world; defective in body, defective in mind, defective in character. Many of these people get discouraged in life's competition. In fact all educational processes and examples hold up the most perfect persons and exhort us to aspire to their attainments and station. The very thought of such hope bewilders and discourages those who are conscious that their condition forbids such attainments. It is my desire to present an open door to the less fortunate, and I find my text in the 10c store. If there were no defective articles turned out from the mills and the factories there would be no 10c stores; and yet, I am thinking that the 10c store is just as important as the most fashionable and luxurious palace of expensive articles. This store opens a door to a multitude of customers of small means, and their necessities are met in a beautiful and satisfactory manner. Here defective wares find a market. Single pieces of china, imperfect pieces of glass, cheap but useful articles, a thousand things make brilliant windows, furnish needy customers, and give employment to an army of workers. There is the same place in the Kingdom for defectives as in business. People of small caliber and small means can find a place in the Kingdom that larger people cannot fill. The daisy has its place in the world of flowers as important as the century plant.

Little folks, little Christians, are as important as big folks. The invalid may serve God and humanity as genuinely and as usefully as the strongest giant. Do not feel that your life is useless because you are weak in body, in mind, or in social influence. Your very smallness may be your opportunity.

Did you ever buy anything from a 10c store? You remember how much pleased you were with your bargain. Do not try to be as big as the biggest, but try to be as good as the best.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

President Harper addressed the Orange County Teachers' Association at Efland last Saturday.

Mr. Massingill of Benson was here Monday visiting Dr. W. C. Wicker.

Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Amick, Miss Mabel Harris, Dr. J. U. Newman, Rev. J. W. Wellons, Mr. J. C. Auman, Mr. J. F. Minnis, Mr. W. C. King and Mr. J. D. Hardy attended the Methodist Protestant Conference in Greensboro last week.

Miss Irene Holton of Jamestown was here Saturday visiting Mrs. W. A. Harper. Mrs. M. L. Holton of Burlington, R. F. D., was also here Saturday to visit Mrs. Harper.

Drs. Atkinson, Harper, Wellons, Revs. H. S. Smith, P. T. Klapp, J. O. Cox, F. C. Lester, J. G. Truitt, J. F. Apple, L. L. Wyrick, L. I. Cox, W. B. Fuller, Messrs. C. E. Gerring, D. W. Brown, R. H. McCauley and H. M. Redding are attending the North Carolina and Virginia Conference at Durham this week.

Rev. H. S. Smith, a member of the Junior class, is to be ordained here next Sunday and is to preach that night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Rev. J. D. Wicker of Sanford was on the Hill Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Ruth Johnson, Miss Alma Bowden, Miss Jennie Willis Atkinson, Messrs. C. N. Whitelock, H. S. Harcastle, and R. T. Bradford, are attending the State Sunday School Convention at Salisbury this week. These young men and women are Elon's representatives.

Dr. F. T. Tagg, Editor of the Methodist Protestant, Baltimore, Maryland, occupied the College pulpit Sunday at the eleven o'clock hour. It will be remembered that Dr. Tagg preached the baccalaureate sermon here in 1914, and this time as before, his words were of the highest order, his message a spiritual one and gladdened the hearts of all who heard him.

Mr. W. L. Monroe, a member of the Junior class, attended the M. E. Conference at Reidsville last week.

Friends will be glad to learn that Mr. C. A. Hughes has taken charge of his store again.

Regular Thanksgiving services will be held here Thursday. The children of the Orphanage will render exercises in addition to the other parts of the service. A few of the students will spend the holiday season at home and many friends of the student body and College are expected to be here for the yuletide.

Mrs. A. V. Lightbourne and children are at home after a two months' trip with Mr. Lightbourne. Mr. Lightbourne is expected to arrive about December 1 and will leave January 1 for a tour in the west. Calls for his services are rapidly coming in and the evangelist is being kept busy.

Miss Emily Young of Selma, spent Sunday with Miss Lena Ragsdale.

Mrs. J. G. Anthony of Hight Point, and Mrs. Rhodes of Indiana, were visitors at the home of Mrs. W. P. Lawrence last week. "X."

THE WOMEN AND THE KINGDOM

By Rev. H. E. Rountree, Portsmouth, Va.

T was a woman who outwitted the Lord Jesus Christ. He said "No" to her request when He was unaccustomed to use that word. He said, "I am not sent but to the lost sheep of Israel. It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs." Reply: "Truth Lord, yet the dogs eat of the crumbs that fall from the Master's table."

Immediately the Master was a prisoner of love. The great heart of woman is made to outstrip the brain and genius of the lay-service and will do so, till the missionary vision shall be the mellenium.

There was a time when there was such a when the church of God cried, "Oh that woman would take up the sad world's cause and live an die for Christ." But that cry is heard no longer. This day the prophecy is fulfilled and the prayer answered.

There was a time when there was such a need of women's work, Jehovah cried, "Cry out and shout oh daughters of Zion." The world has thought and does to a great extent today think, that it was a cry of madness or impropriety at least; but the present generation has come to learn that it was a cry of high heaven recorded in his word for all generations. We have also learned that to woman is accredited the saying of the finest things in the Bible and the doing of the noblest deeds. Jesus never discouraged her ministry but made her rich with his blessing till today the command to "shout oh daughters of Zion," has a new meaning of appeal to woman's heart, that she lend her ministry to the salvation of the world. The work of the women is answer to the cry of the ages, without which element the church would lose her charm, her divinest passion, and her chief function to warm others into responsive and cooperative zeal.

We are told that when the Romans delivered a certain people from the Meceonian and Spartau tyranny, the cries of deliverance so dissipated the air that birds of the planes fell down in amezement.

I do not believe we have rent the air with our praise and thankfulness, but when our women shall reach their God-called mecca the cries of a delivered people whom they now seek to save will startle the world, and will make every follower a hero and every woman a saint.

It was a woman who visited the tomb of our Lord. But any atheist might have done that.

The presence of the women there was a cleaving of the skies and their womanly hearts gave th world the noblest hopes of the centuries, and placed man in the custody of higher love and trust.

It was the mother's and the housewife's homes whom Jesus honored with his quiet hours and forever since the home has been the sanctuary. It was woman whom Jesus honored with the most touching scenes of His ministry and sent them forth to preach, teach and save and upon them hung the charm of the apostolic church. And their successors are they today who have heard the cry as "Daughters of Zion," and shall set the heathen free in Christ and one day will startle the world to amazement.

I wonder what we have been doing all these centuries? We have been looking over our neighbor's garden fence upon his flowers and our hearts have been cheered by the vision, though we have slept upon it. Let us look in our own garden. Talk about woman's mission, place, rights. I favor woman's suffrage I think, and yet what need has woman for the platform of expression and those mysterious abstractions which are called "Woman's rights?" when here is as wide field as her grace and superior qualities can fill? A field wider than is open to any one else in the world; and a field which possesses the world for spiritual awakening and the finish of a world-wide conquest for Jesus. The women not of our church alone, but of Christendom, have heard the call and have begun the duties of the morning of a new day and I shall not be surprised that they supercede and lead the laymen in the great work.

But this does not mean that the men have forsaken religion and left the woman to keep the altars ablaze; though to some it may seem so. I have heard as a mocker's taunt, "The women keep up the church." It may be true. The woman does keep up the church. God bless her. But she does more than that, she keeps up the love and the patience of the world, the homes of the unworthy, and the roof of thousands of truant wanderers and world worshippers. It is this same great spirit motive power of her work that keeps the mission fires ablaze and men have been content to sit idly by and enjoy her glory.

I would not for one moment disparage the consecrated support of the laymen, but as yet the great mass of men, and women too, are still sleeping to the great call of God, the great powers of their abilities, and the great world-wide conquest to be won by them.

"Blessed is that servant whom when his Lord cometh shall be found waiting," is a kind of feather bed upon which we are satisfied to lie; but that is a sentiment never to be trusted. Men and brethren there is a faithful service to perform in behalf of our woman's cause who are answering the divine call "Go." It is the "music of reason" that we pastors shall not be any more alert to duty than we have been, for I believe we conscientiously and scrupulously try to discharge our duty as we see it; but we are called upon if necessary to eliminate our lesser duties, if such there be, and give more time to our woman's work and the missionary department of our church than we have done in the past. It is the "blossom of righteousness" and the glory of heaven that we be discontented with the saving which saves merely to cut down heathenism, slay infidelity, abolish scepticism and atheism and unbelief. But contented only to save that the saved may call the world into His house of great joy.

If we are delivered men, if we are saved men, let us show our gratitude and purpose of life by our consecration to this cause.

GREENSBORO LETTER.

The closing of the present Conference year shows gains and progress in all departments of our Greensboro church work. I think the church will go to Conference with full report and good delegation.

Nov. 7th the church and friends gave me a very pleasant surprise. Just before preaching at the morning hour the Sunday school superintendent, Bro. Chas. A. Hines, came forward and made the usual church announcements and then in a few but well chosen words presented to me in behalf of church members and friends a beautiful and valuable edition of "Wilmore's Analytical Reference Bible." I appreciate the gift and the sincere spirit of good will which prompted it.

Rev. Dr. D. A. Long was with us on the second Sunday in Nov. and preached for us at eleven a. m. That afternoon Bro. J. B. Truitt took Dr. Long and myself out in his automobile to the Masonic and Eastern Star Home where I had an appointment at 3:30. Dr. Long very kindly consented to conduct the services for me. We were glad to have Dr. Long with us. His sermons were much enjoyed and we hope he will come again.

That evening we went to hear William Jennings Bryan at the Grand Opera House deliver an address on the first commandment. He spoke under the auspices of and complimentary to the Minister's Association. A great choir, the clergy of the city and visiting clergymen occupied the stage. The building was packed to its capacity and it is estimated that a thousand or more people were turned away. The people were anxious to hear the great "Commoner" preach. He is a magnetic speaker. The great audience hung upon his words from the beginning to the end of his address. After all the most attractive theme in all the world is: God's message to man.

I often think of the words of Ernest Renan, rationalist though he was, when near the close of his Life of Christ he says, "But whatever may be the surprises of the future Jesus will never be surpassed. His worship will grow young without ceasing; his legend will call forth tears without end; his sufferings will melt the noblest heart; all ages will proclaim that among the sons of men there is none born greater than Jesus."

A convention of the National Missionary Campaign—Laymen's Missionary Movement—is booked to be held in Greensboro in Feb., 1916. We are planning to have a good representation from the Christian churches contiguous to Greensboro. Announcements and literature will be sent out in due time.

P. H. FLEMING.

NOTICE

The Christian Missionary Association

To the members and friends of the Christian Missionary Association of the Eastern Va. Christian Conference: Are you planning to attend the next session of this Association? Remember it meets at Rosemont Christian church, and that the time is December 7th. Many will find, in all probability, that it will not be convenient for them to attend, but will doubtless do the next best thing, viz., send up their membership fee by the pastor or send it to the treasurer, B. D. Jones, Holland, Va.

The Rosemont people, I am sure, will be disappointed if we fail to keep up the record of past meetings as to attendance. I am sure also that they would like to know, before hand, about how many to expect to come. If you expect to attend the session spend a penny and let the fact be known. Write to Rev. D. A. Keys or to C. L. Gibson, Berkley Station, Norfolk, Va.

The fare from Norfolk is five cents, and I do not know of any car ride that one might take and come as near getting his money's worth. We want an enthusiastic meeting. Look out for program and plan to be present at the opening of the session, 10:30 a. m.

S. S. LESSON, NOV. 28

Amos, the Fearless Prophet
Amos. 5:1-15

At the time of our lesson Israel was living under good circumstances from outward appearances. She was enjoying much prosperity but along with this prosperity there was luxury indulged in in a reckless sort of manner with corruption and oppression among the people. Nations with these conditions cannot prosper long.

Amos, an untutored shepherd is called of God to become His prophet and bear the message of warning to the leaders of the Israelites. Amos was willing to do anything that God told him to do and went at once to Bethel, a place of idol worship. Amos was not received kindly and the message was rejected. Amos did not stop and wish to die like some of the prophets of old and some that we have today, but kept right on under the divine direction. Amos was more concerned about what God had bidden him do than what people would say about his actions and words.

The nation could not exist as it was—faithless and unreverential. There was only one thing for the people to do; that was to do as Amos warned—turn from their ways of luxury, money getting, corruption in government, oppression of the helpless and the worship of idols. Turn to Jehovah and ask for forgiveness, repent and receive full salvation.

We think it would be wise for the teachers to consider with the class the great and prosperous age in which we are living and enjoying. Should we turn our ears to God and see if we need some revisions made in our lives and our attitude toward the church, toward the State, toward the nation, yea, toward our brother?

Sometimes we try to ease our consciences by substituting something for religion. We are indifferent to religion but pay strict attention to the moral side of our life. This does not work. We have the story of the young man coming to Jesus and asking what to do to be saved. We have the story of the one talented man who hid the one talent.

"All the substitutes for righteousness that men can think of have been tried, and the results have been that where a community was not godly as well as educated, where the church spire did not stand alongside of the academy cupola, where the Young Men's Christian Association did not have a place as well as a public park and the library, we have had the same old story of mob violence, of mountain feuds, of bribery in elections, of California hop-field riots, and all the rest."

C. E. TOPIC, NOV. 28

Home-Mission Work to Be Done in Our Community
Luke 14:15-24

Scripture:

And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things he said unto him, Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God. But he said unto him, a certain man made a great supper; and he bade many; and he sent forth his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a field, and I must needs go out and see it; I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. And the servant came, and told his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor and maimed and blind and lame. And the servant said, Lord, what thou didst command is done, and yet there is room. And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and constrain them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, that none of those men that were bidden shall taste of my supper. Luke 14:15-24.

We are taught in the Word that God is no respecter of persons and that He places a high estimate on every soul. He sent His only son to be and walk among men to show them the way and to give the invitation. Jesus charged His disciples to gather in the weak and heavy laden for the kingdom. In the parable he gives us the commission to go in the slums, in the high ways and hedges and press the invitation so that the unfortunate may have the opportunity to taste eternal life.

Study the situation around you, in your community and see if your Society can in some way better the community. Discuss the situation freely, carefully and prayerfully. Don't let your meeting close with nothing but talk. Make some definite plans for the work. The Mis-

REPORT OF FIELD SECRETARY

I have visited three churches this month, organized one Woman's Society at Reidsville, with Mrs. J. C. Lambeth, Pres.; Mrs. N. C. Bland, Vice-Pres.; Mrs. A. G. Simmons, Secretary.

I went from there to Monticello but could not organize so left literature and Mite Boxes. I attended a Mite Box opening at New Providence. They had a missionary program, gave the play, "Why Some Dollies Went as Missionaries," which was very impressive, and the collection and Mite Box offering was fourteen dollars and forty cents.

I was in Graham this week and they have organized a Mission Study Class, and will have it in connection with the Ladies' Aid. I would rather see them start that way as am sure where we have a study class we will have an interesting and enthusiastic society.

I have written seven letters and put literature in most of them. I start this afternoon for Ramseur, and will be gone about three weeks. I will attend a part of the Western N. C. and N. C. and Va. Conferences. I hope to meet quite a few of our ministers and in that way learn more about their respective churches.

MINUTES OF THE FOREIGN MISSION DEPARTMENT OF THE MISSION BOARD

BY WARREN H. DENISON, SECRETARY

The meeting was held in the Foreign Mission Rooms, C. P. A. Building, from October 19-22, 1915 with all members present: M. T. Morrill, W. P. Fletcher, J. W. Harrell, J. O. Winters, W. H. Denison. The Correspondence actions were read and on motion ratified.

The Foreign Mission Secretary made his annual report and re-sonary committee ought to make some recommendation and then the Society stand by the recommendation and carry it out if it is the thing to do.

"The object of all missions is to win men to Christ and His service. Most of this must be done by hand-to-hand work with individuals. It is by personal evangelism that home-missionary progress must be made.

ports were read from our missionaries in Japan and Porto Rico. The Treasurer's report was read and referred to the auditors. Communications from brethren concerning the work were carefully considered. Careful study was given to all phases of the work. Miss Alice True, missionary to Japan, home on furlough spoke concerning the work.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Rev. M. T. Morrill; Secretary, Rev. W. H. Denison; Treasurer, Rev. O. S. Thomas; Mission Council: M. T. Morrill, J. W. Harrell, J. O. Winters.

It was voted that an appropriation be made not to exceed $50.00 for the Danville, Ill. Mission Study Conference, provided the Home Department sees its way clear to appropriate a like sum.

It was voted to be the sense of the Board that we appropriate $250.00 toward the employment of a Field Secretary for Religious Education, especially to work among our Sunday schools and young people, provided the other departments of the church cooperate in such a plan.

It was voted that Dr. J. G. Bishop be requested to communicate our hearty thanks to the friend who so generously donated the munificent gift of $1,800; $800 for the purchase of the lot adjoining our church in Ponce, Porto Rico; and $1000 to our permanent funds, $500 for home missions and $500 for foreign missions.

It was voted that we express our thanks to A. V. Priddy for his continued interest in and contributions toward our missionary work, and especially for the gift that makes possible the purchase of a lot in Descalabrado, Porto Rico, for the erection of a chapel.

It was voted that the Foreign Secretary be instructed to reply to the letter of sister Orpha Adkins, expressing our appreciation of her frank communication and informing her that we find it impossible to take any action on the school matter she discusses.

It was voted that the following brethren be elected delegates to the Congress on Christian Work in Latin America, Panama, February 10-20, 1916, the first two to (Continued on next page.)

Receipts for the week	118.95
Grand total	3424.59

Besides the financial report we are pleased to mention the following donations: The good ladies of Pleasant Grove, Va., several days ago sent us 104 half gallon cans of peaches, apples, etc. Every helper and child in the Orphanage wishes to thank each of these good ladies for their liberal service to us. Then the Hines Chapel people wrote us to come after a load of wheat, corn, flour, potatoes, fruit and hickory nuts, and we wish to thank each of these contributors for the many good things which add to our necessities. Saturday a buggy load of merchandise for the sewing room, amounting to about $10 was brought up from Graham, and we are grateful to each of our Graham friends. We thank Miss Joanna Jones of Graham for the box of pears just received.

Those of you who send contributions to us, please address it to the CHRISTIAN ORPHANAGE, and state plainly from what church (or individual) it is sent and whether it is a S. S. or Thanksgiving offering.

Our dear friends: This week will measure the appreciation of the people of the Christian church for the work the Orphanage is doing for the homeless and helpless children.

So far as it was possible the North Carolina Orphan Association has made known to the public the needs of the Orphanage work and the object of the funds. It is hoped that the friends of the various institutions will liberally provide. The gift of one day's income from all the people would more than meet the demands, and would so far enlarge the equipments of the different Homes as to admit thousands of children now homeless and on the downward road. We sincerely hope that Thursday will be a great day for the Orphanage cause; that the different Orphanages may be so uplifted financially that thousands of these wayward orphans of our states may be brought into a home of religious and educational training.

Reader, if you have been contributing, you know the joy there is in giving to the orphan and you will do it this week; if you have not, we appreciate your love and interest, but this is the week to coin all your love, interest, sympathy and good wishes and send to us that we may bank it and provide for the approaching winter. Do you love the orphan child one 365th as much as you love yourself? If you do you will give us that one day's labor. If each of you will do that, the Orphanage will be relieved of all debts and go on its way unhampered to greater achievements.

But some whom the Lord hath greatly blessed will fail to contribute a penny for the relief of the Orphanage. We can't understand how they can be so indifferent to this worthy and needy cause. Yet we thank God for "Caesar's Legion." They are ready and are going to do a Roman soldier's part. They will do their best within the next few days to lighten all burdens of the Orphanage and lift it up to its great and noble possibilities. Remember: "But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him." I John 3:17.

the expense of the Board: Rev. M. T. Morrill, ex-officio, Rev. D. P. Barrett, Porto Rico, Rev. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., Rev. F. R. Woodward, Hill, N. H., Rev. Wm. Flammer, Balboa. That in case vacancies occur in our delegation our delegates present are hereby authorized to fill such vacancies from any of our brethren who may be present.

It was voted, That, inasmuch as the World's Sunday school Convention, owing to the war, has been indefinitely postponed, we defer any effort to name delegates thereto.

It was voted that we appropriate $36 towards the budget for Missionary Headquarters in New York City.

It was voted that we appropriate $100.00, two years appropriation, to the Hilah and Lina Woodworth fund.

It was voted that we endorse and urge co-operation of our laymen in the National Missionary Campaign of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and that we urge our churches and ministers to heartily co-operate in the United Missionary Campaign.

It was voted that we grant the following requests of Miss Alice True to take effect January 1, 1916:

In view of my parents' age, the debt on our mission work, and my views on the Girls' school, I ask for an extension of my furlough without salary.

(Signed) ALICE TRUE.

An appropriation of ten dollars was voted for the clerical expenses of the Secretary.

JAPAN

It was voted that we appropriate $11,000 for the Japan work. It was voted that the question of new buildings in Japan be held in abeyance until the deficit is raised and the Forward Movement is under headway.

It was voted that the balance of the cost of the Weston Memorial Chapel be paid out of the unused balance of the Japan appropriation.

It was moved and carried that the balance on account of C. P. Garman be paid.

It was voted to approve the plan of the Japan Mission to give the Japanese pastors further school privileges.

It was voted to be the sense of the Board that we contribute toward the Tokyo school for foreign children; but, that inasmuch as we seek this year to reduce our indebtedness we should defer contributions until January 1, 1917.

It was moved and carried that we agree to the payment of death benefits to our Japanese workers as proposed by our Japan mission.

It was moved and carried that we approve the plan of the Japan Mission to apply the unused balance from the Building Fund as a maintenance for the Rowell Memorial.

It was voted to be the sense of the Board that it is unwise to appeal for special contributions for the education of our Japanese ministers' children.

It was voted that the other items in the Japan Mission Minutes not specifically acted upon by this Board have our general approval.

PORTO RICO

It was voted that Rev. D. P. Barrett be made Superintendent of Missions for Porto Rico.

It was voted that we appropriate for Porto Rico as follows:

General work, $4100; $84, to finish paying for the Ponce lot; $54 for insurance of our property there; $50 to build a fence around the Santa Isabel lot.

Adjourned.

The Value of Fresh Air

The oxygen of the air is the world's great scavenger.

Drawn into the lungs it oxidizes the refuse in the blood through the lungs.

But when the lungs are engorged by croup, catarrh or colds the oxygen cannot penetrate the phlegm and therefore cannot reach the membranes through which it purifies the blood.

Apply Mentholatum in the nostrils and upon the throat and chest.

The body heat releases the aromatic volatile oils contained in the Mentholatum. These oils are pungent and penetrating.

When inhaled they accelerate the flow of the secretions, loosening the hardened phlegm and encouraging its expectoration.

Then comes the life-giving, refreshing air—nature's restorative.

Mentholatum is also a germicide and an antiseptic.

It also has a rapid healing effect upon all inflamed surfaces, such as chapped skin, burns and bruises.

MARRIAGES

Hodnett-Burke

A most brilliant event was celebrated recently when Miss Lottie Burke, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Burke was united in marriage to Mr. Harry B. Hodnett, a successful young farmer of Ingram, Va. The ceremony was performed by the writer in Ingram Christian church in the presence of a large company.

The altar and chancel of the church which were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and ferns and lighted tapers made an effective background for the bridal party. The wedding gown was an exquisite affair. She wore a travelling suit of brown cloth with a shower bouquet of bride's roses. To the strains of the wedding march the bride entered the church with her father who gave her away. Miss Eva Alderson rendered the wedding music, playing "Hearts and Flowers" during the ceremony. R. F. BROWN.

Duck-Brown

Mr. Timothy Duck of Franklin, Va., and Miss Elizabeth Brown of Nansmond county, Va., were married in the pastor's study of the Suffolk Christian church on Wednesday, November 10, 1915.

They were attended by Mr. Emmett Brown and Mrs. Essie Mathias, and the party motored to Norfolk and back for supper at the Stonewall Inn in Franklin where they will reside.

Marriage vows bind lives in bonds that nothing but the State can break; and introduces hearts into a field where love may do its largest service. Benedictions on this new home.

SPRING HILL

The Spring Hill meeting followed 2nd Sunday in August. Evangelist Lightbourne was with us in two services a day. His preaching was the deepest, strongest and most appealing which we have as yet heard him deliver, and this was the third meeting in which he has been with us. The community was much interested and possibly the greatest results of any meeting held at Spring Hill for years. There were 18 converts and 11 joined the church, with 10 baptisms. The community heard Bro. Lightbourne gladly. Conbicting meetings made the attendance small. This has been the best year in three at "Old Spring Hill." May the glorious work of the gospel go on and His saints rejoice in the prosperity of the work committed to their hands. JAS. L. FOSTER.

An Exclusive Southern Industry

The State of North Carolina can boast of at least one exclusive Southern industry — the production of blue marble. The Regal Marble Company's quarries, at Regal, N. C., being one of the few producers in the western hemisphere of this valued stone. The Regal Company's product is known as Regal Blue and is characterized by a deep blue color and an exclusively compact texture, which accounts for the remarkable weather resisting properties of this marble. Government tests show its water absorption to be only .0035, meaning that frost can do no damage. Frost is the natural enemy of exposed marble monuments and eventually destroys those of coarse grain. The Regal Company have a very complete finishing plant at the quarries where natural Regal Blue is saved, turned, cut, sanded, polished, etc. Only American workmen are employed. Adv.

Dr. Osler on Tuberculosis

Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1892), on page 249: "The healing of pulmonary tuberculosis is shown clinically by the recovery of patients in whose sputa elastic tissue and bacilli have been found." In the granulation products and associated pneumonia a scar tissue is formed, while the smaller caseous areas become impregnated with lime salts. To such conditions alone should the term healing be applied."

The success of Eckman's Alternative in tuberculosis may be due partly to its content of a lime salt in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated. It is worth a trial, unless other treatment really is succeeding. We make no promises concerning it any more than do reputable physicians with their prescriptions, but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

OUR DEAD

Parks

Fleta M., daughter of Mrs. T. B. Parks, died at the home of her mother October 17, 1915. She had been in feeble health for several months, but was thought to be improving, so much so that she was visiting in Greensboro where she was taken suddenly worse, and lived only a short while after she returned home. She was a member of Park's Cross Roads Church, having professed faith in Christ in childhood. She loved her church and was kind and devoted to her friends. Her death cast a gloom of sorrow over the community. She was laid to rest in the cemetery at Park's Cross Roads, and her grave was covered with beautiful flowers. She is survived by four brothers: John N., Colin Geo. Parks of Rameaux, Thos. B. of Eion College, and two sisters, Mrs. John Dorsett and Ada M., both of Rameau.

T. E. WHITE.

Allred

James M. Allred was born May 22, 1842, and died Sept. 29, 1915, in his 74th year. He was son of Jonathan and Nancy Allred. Of his father's family of ten children, only two are now living: Rev. J. P. Allred, Franklinsville, and John M., who lives in the community of Gray's chapel. James M. married Ruth Coward, and they had eight children, six of whom are living, W. E., John, Cossie, Maude, Leosia and Homer. These with 24 grand children survive him. Brother Allred was a very pious man, and read and remembered the scriptures. He had been a deacon of Pleasant Ridge church for 45 years, and his interest in his church was manifested in many ways. The building and completion of the new church was a joy to his heart. The church sustains a loss in his death. Funeral was conducted by the writer and the remains were buried in the Pleasant Ridge cemetery.

T. E. WHITE.

Craven

Nancy Craven died November 6, in her 84th year. She was married in 1860 to Hiram P. Craven, and they had two children, Mariah and Hannah Mariah E. married W. H. Yow and died about two years ago. Hannah A. married Rev. B. F. Kerns and is still living.

Sister Craven had been a member of the Christian church for 73 years. She joined Pleasant Grove when she was ten years old and after her marriage in 1860 moved her membership to Shiloh. She was a good woman. She lived and died in the confidence of her friends and left a sweet testimony that cheers her relatives and friends. She was buried at Shiloh. T. E. WHITE..

Elder

Rev. Thomas H. Elder was born Dec. 28, 1846 and died Nov. 2, 1915. He joined the church at New Hope at the age of 18. At the age of 23 he was licensed to preach the gospel. Uncle Tom was of a sunshiny disposition, always cheerful and making others happy. A great part of his life was spent in his Master's service. In the early age of his pastoral life, he frequently walked to his appointments. Perhaps no man in all the Christian connection ever made greater sacrifices than he to carry out his Lord's command. Many people will remember him as a leader of music for such he was. My first knowledge of him was as a music teacher, but he has been called to view the result of the gospel of Jesus Christ and with voice clear and eternally distinct, sing His praise forever. He leaves to mourn, a wife, four sons and four daughters, besides a host of relatives and friends. He suffered much, but his sufferings are over. Let us meet him on the eternal shore. May God bless and sustain the bereaved. G. D. HUNT.

Morris

Mina E. Morris, daughter of S. J. Morris and Minnie Whitehead Morris departed this life at Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 15, 1915. She was 40 years and one day old. She leaves one sister, Mrs. W. B. Bagwell. Her father and mother had gone to the spirit land years ago. She sleeps in the Morrisville cemetery. Funeral services conducted by the writer. She united with the Christian church at Morrisville in early life, later moved her membership to Durham Christian church. She was a faithful member. W. G. CLEMENTS.

King

Near Union Ridge, Nov. 14, 1915, aged 22 years, 2 months, 26 days, Charlie J. King. He was a member of Union Christian church and was a very worthy young man. His parents, several brothers and sisters are in sorrow because of his death. Funeral at the home and interment at Union Ridge, conducted by REV. J. W. HOLT.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Editorial Briefs

Breeding Virtues

To go agreeably and vigorously at the unpleasant task, that is courageous and Christ-like. Any one can rush to the task that is easy, agreeable, inviting. But every day brings some task that is not inviting. Thank God for such a task; for it begets in one's mind and heart virtues that are needed and worth while. It was Chas. Kingsley who said: "Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to do your best, will breed in you a hundred virtues which the idle never know." Men are commanded to work six days as much so as they are to rest one day. God is working to breed virtues in the soul of man. "Lo all these things worketh God oftentimes with man, to bring back his soul from the pit." (Job 33:29.)

"Safety First"

According to authentic data recently issued the railroads of the United States, during the last quarter of 1914 carried 230,500,000 passengers without the loss of a single life in collisions, and with only 78 fatalities to passengers, employees or other persons; this being the best record since the government began to compile and keep the figures in 1901. The cause assigned is the urgent and wide spread injunction, "Safety first," and to the fact that less intoxicating liquors is consumed now than formerly by those who handle trains and those who travel on them. But "Safety first" is no new slogan. It was given nearly two thousand years ago in these words "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6:33.) That is the greatest and best "Safety first" commandment ever given.

Marriage A Failure

Marriage, sacred and holy as it is, may be a failure, and The Springfield Times, declares it always is: "When one of the parties engages in a business that is not approved by the other; when either of the parties marries for money; when both parties persist in arguing over a subject upon which they never have and never van think alike when the money that should go for a book goes for what only one side of the house knows anything about; when politeness, fine manners and kindly attention are reserved for company or visits abroad." Also when the bonds are violated and the relationship is considered other than sacred. For it was instituted of God. "They twain shall be one flesh; so then they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." (Mark 10:8, 9.)

"The Time Legion"

The Methodist Episcopal Church (North) has set for itself a very definite objective to be achieved within the year. The goal is 500,000 Methodists in the Time Legion; 1,000 Methodist young people in special Christian service as a life work; 250,000 net gain in church membership. That is a program worthy of execution by a great church and a goal by no means impossible to reach. The task is to be undertaken by prayer and work, work and prayer, by the members of the Time Legion. These are official members of boards, superintendents of Sunday schools, teachers of classes, fathers, mothers and others who have taken the following pledge: "In the service of Jesus Christ my Savior and under the direction of my minister, I agree to give, in time, at least two hours each month in definite personal effort in persuading others to begin the Christian life." The pastor is obligated to furnish the names of persons to be won to Christ. So these 500,000 lay evangelists, members of the Time Legion, are to bear the message of the Christ to those to whom the pastor sends them. "What the laity needs is not exhortation, but assignment. We dare not say they will flinch when we fail to give them a definite task." All the members of the church are being urged to join "The Methodist Forward Movement Prayer League" and to pray daily for the success of the work of the Time Legion. No one doubts that the Forward Movement will be realized, and that the quarter of a million new members will be added to the church membership within the year. God does not, He cannot disappoint His people when they go to Him with burdened souls, and undertake great things for Him. "I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you." (Luke 15:16.)

Soul-Absorbing Work

The work that calls for all one's zeal, energy, and strength is that which appeals to the soul—it is soul-absorbing. We never do our best until we engage in such a work. Neither does the Church. This sentence was seen somewhere "No denomination may hope to retain an active, vigorous life without some definite, soul-absorbing work. A church with a mission, through the sacrifice and the continuous labor which such an undertaking requires, is assured of a long life and abundant usefulness." This Christian church of our fails to grow and refuses to go forward for no other earthly reason than it is unwilling to go at the one definite, soul-absorbing work that Jesus Christ made the supreme business of the Church. There is no theme or command so often repeated and emphasized in the New Testament as the great commission. Yet we think to ignore this command, and decline to undertake the chief business for which the church was founded, and grow. It is a thing most illogical and unthinkable. And so from year to year we shall go on hearing that "apportionments are too high," and reporting about the same number of members, and realizing that the churches are growing less and less liberal till we obey our arisen Lord's blessed commandment, which is at once the great commission and the supreme business of the church: "Go ye and make Christians of all nations * * * teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) Christ has not consented to abide with a people who will not obey that command; and God cannot keep His word and be true to His Son if He allows a people to grow and prosper who will not obey that command.

A Terrible Indictment

This is taken from a Sunday newspaper (Charlotte Observer, Nov. 28): "With a billion and a half of dollars invested in its plant, and with an income for all religious and benevolent purposes of something over a million dollars a day, the Christian Church in the United States is finding itself under fire for its slipshod methods in the local Church. While at once the biggest business enterprise in the land, and the most widely distributed, the Church (in which all denominations are included) is taxed with having the least system and efficiency in the administration of its local branches." It would really seem that the King's business should have the wisest and most modern business methods applied to it. But again and again do we find the indictment from the business world that church methods of doing business are the loosest, slackest, most puerile and slipshod of any known. Whether this be true or not, the idea is derived from an irrelevant and an irreverent attitude toward the church. Many regard the church as a kind of pauper, a beggar to whom a "hand-out" should be indifferently given once a week or once a month, for which a certain sort of listless and aimless preaching will be given, at stated periods and times, in return. They forget that the church is the most potent factor in our civilization, that the church is the mightiest, noblest and most divine of all our institutions, and that it really constitutes the "biggest business" in this country. It gives away for various religious and benevolent purposes an average of a million dollars a day the year round and that there is no form of benevolence to be compared in magnitude with that of the church. It is estimated that the seating capacity of the churches in this country is fifty-eight and one-half million persons; that there are two hundred thousand church buildings and that the average membership of each church is 157 persons. Such a business, such an enterprise, deserves the best in wisdom, in energy and in consecrated zeal that we can give it. "Upon this rock will I build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Matt. 16:18.)

CONFERENCE CALENDAR

The Conferences yet to be held meet as follows:

Christian Missionary Association (E. Va., Conf.)
—Rosemont church, Tuesday, December 7th, W. D. Harward, President, Newport News, Va., R. H. Peel, Secretary, Wakefield, Va.

EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

This Conference held its annual session at Pleasant Hill church, Johnson county, but it was not the good fortune of the editor to attend the session. From all reports this Conference did things in the usual way—I should like to say in the unusual way. For the last ten years there has been very little change in the methods and progress of the work in the Conference. About the same amount of money is raised from the churches for missions, for education, for Elon College, and for other enterprises as was raised ten years ago. This is not due to lack of ability, for times are better and the church membership is richer. There is no lack of money to build fine houses, to buy lands, to purchase fine automobiles and to make fine progress in all industrial lines, and all of these things ought to be done; but it is rather due to lack of vision of the great possibilities, the great needs, and the expansive territory of all the eastern part of the State as an inviting field for the Christian church. The people have the ability; but the will and the vision are lacking.

It is encouraging to know that two new churches were admitted to the membership of this Conference—one recently organized at Mebane by Revs. W. G. Clements with a good nucleus of members; and another organized in Lee county by Rev. P. T. Klapp with about fifty members, known as Lee's chapel.

Mission contributions were made to the churches at Henderson, Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Mebane; and a special offering was made at Conference for the Mebane work. There were representatives attending Conference from near Wilson, N. C., inviting the Conference to co-operate with them in the organization of Christian churches in that territory, and the Conference will undertake work during the present year looking to the planting of churches in this section.

In the Conference apportionments the churches are asked to raise more money for Home Missions, Foreign Missions and Elon College during the coming year. This raise was made to meet the pressing needs of the work and to comply with the request of the Southern Christian Convention. While this raise in the apportionments does not yet reach the request of the Convention, nor the ability of the Conference, it is in the right direction. The churches could cheerfully pay all that is asked and more, for they are amply able to do so without the least effort beyond doing their simple duty. Systematic giving, the every member canvass and co-operation will solve the problem of finance with the churches without further difficulty.

Any church that will follow the fine practical address of President Whitaker before this Conference will have little trouble in meeting all the needs of the local church and the calls of Conference.

Rev. J. E. Franks, who had a very successful year, especially in evangelistic work, was ordained to the gospel ministry. Bro. Joseph McCauley of Damascus church was admitted to the Biblical Class. This Conference now has the largest Biblical Class, as has the North Carolina and Virginia Conference, in its history. This is a hopeful sign for the future of the ministry.

In the report on Moral Reform, our people were requested to secure as far as possible, moral and spiritually minded teachers in our public schools, as some of the communities have suffered by the employment of godless women who have corrupted the morals of the children. In this report, ministers and people are urged to co-operate in the establishment of family altars and family worship.

The next annual session meets with the church at Shallow Well, on Wednesday after the first Sunday in November, 1916, and continues in session three days.

This Conference with its four thousand members, its various churches, its vast property holdings, its educated, consecrated and wide-awake ministry, along with some others of our Conferences, hasn't sent a missionary to the foreign field since its organization. It seems that our Lord's great commission, which is the supreme business of the church, has to be learned by us in slow growth, in meagre progress, or in none, in humiliation and in regret; but it will be learned—and then this glorious church of ours, with its holy and heavenly teachings and principles will go forward by leaps and bounds. Only as we undertake great things for God does God undertake great things through us. God cannot make a non-missionary people grow, and be loyal to His Son and keep his word.

NORTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA

The annual session of this Conference was held with the Durham Christian church November 23, 24, 25, and was fairly well attended by delegates from the churches and by visitors. Prof. W. P. Lawrence, President, was not present on account of poor health, and the body was called to order by Vice-President Rev. P. T. Klapp, who by vote was made president. Pres. W. A. Harper was re-elected Secretary and Bro. D. S. Farmer was re-elected Treasurer. Some of the officers of some of our Conferences are paid for their services; not so in this one in which all officers render their services very efficiently and gratuitously.

A few years ago the Conference went to prayer that the Lord would, if according to His will, call more laborers into His harvest. The pleas and prayers have evidently been wonderfully answered, as we presume the Conference has more members of the biblical class and preparing for the ministry than any Conference in the Convention. There were thirteen in all reporting at this session. One was ordained, and there are now a dozen men in the Conference headed toward the ministry as a life's calling, practically all of them in college and hastening their work of preparation.

One year ago the Conference undertook an unusual thing. (This is something surprising for a Christian Conference where everything goes on one year about as in the last.) The Conference a year ago decided to employ a Field Secretary, in conjunction with the Christian Missionary Association of the Conference. The one selected for the place could only give it two Sundays the month and some week days intervening. The pay for this half-time was to be $450 and traveling expenses. Rev. L. I. Cox was chosen for the work. Some feared he would not collect enough during the year to pay his own salary. His report at Conference, at the end of his first year, showed nearly $2,000 collected, a sum the like of which this Conference is not accustomed to collect and spend for Home Missions in several years—and this in addition to the usual home mission fund. Bro. Cox was re-elected and we have no doubt but that he will go beyond the $2,500 the present year. The Conference simply decided to invest a little money in a man instead of all of it in measures—and the result was an unexpected and most gratifying increase. The Conference is pushing the work at Reidsville and Danville and expects at no far distant date to undertake to organize and build at Winston-Salem.

The Conference is having slow growth. It is trying hard to do the impossible—make rapid progress and great gains in membership without seriously considering or giving timely heed to the foreign missionary problem. From the beginning of time till now no church has had vital, substantial and rapid growth save when and as it has given itself vigorously and determinedly to the divine work of missions. A non-missionary people will not grow. God will not, He cannot, allow it. This Conference sent out our first missionary—Rev. David Jones. That was a long time ago. And it hasn't sent out one since. In order to appease its conscience, and appear respectable, it gives a small "hand out" once a year to our general missionary work—and that is the last it knows or enquires. Ah me! who shall teach us that the non-missionary spirit is a dead body which we insist on binding about us, and thus hug to our hearts, and in our fond embrace, the decomposing body of this death? Will nothing but the unsavory odor of it arouse us to a sense of death and danger? There are a half dozen churches, and a dozen individuals, in this Conference that could each support a missionary on the foreign field, and be the richer, the better and the happier for the task.

"The New Tendency in Ministerial Education," and a sermon, "A Thanksgiving Meal" by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., President of the Southern Convention, were both great utterances and worthy of the occasion and the great mind that conceived them.

The increase in total membership and offerings for the various enterprises were about as usual.

The next session is to be held with Union church, Union Ridge, N. C.

Rev. W. L. Wells is doing substantial work in Durham and his people are rallying to him nobly. The Conference was cared for in the most regal and cordial manner. The large dinners spread on a far reaching table in a room of the church adjoining the main auditorium were not only ample, but exceedingly well prepared and reflected great credit upon the women of the church who served them. No session of Conference has been more splendidly cared for.

The reports and addresses by members of the Conference were helpful and up to the usual standard and many members of Conference returned to their homes determined to do more for the church the coming year than in the past.

"BILLY" SUNDAY'S SYRACUSE TABERNACLE

After one of the most marvellous and successful, of all his evangelistic campaigns, in Omaha, Nebraska, Rev. Billy Sunday has gone to Syracuse, New York, to carry to the people of that great city his strangely powerful message. We are told in the papers that no man ever visited Omaha and left it whose entrance, whose stay and whose leaving were attended by so much enthusiasm, such wide spread respect and esteem, so many marks of loving favor and honor as that of Dr. Sunday. And the people of Omaha declares that they have a new and cleaner city, and one that can never get back to the old ways again. The campaign there lasted fifty-five days; but the last was the best, the most strenuous and the most fruitful of all.

In Syracuse they have built for the evangelist a tabernacle that seats ten thousand people. The hundreds of students at Syracuse University have entered enthusiastically into the project, and Chancellor James R. Day, one of the great educational lights of the time, preached the dedicatory sermon, one of great significance and power we are told, and the following dedicatory formula was used:

Leader—As an inspiration to make our virile city a veritable city of God,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the rebuilding of broken homes and neglected family altars,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the re-establishment of broken faiths and the payment of forgotten vows,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the mending of broken hearts and the healing of shattered lives,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the encouragement of everything wholesome, uplifting and righteous,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the inspiration of the young, for the strengthening of those who bear the tug and strain of middle years, and for the heartening of the aged,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the destruction of evil in places high and low,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the winning of the lost through the power of a crucified and risen Redeemer,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the honor of Jehovah God who through the centuries has led His people in love

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the honor of Jesus Christ, only begotten Son of the Father, despised and rejected often, and yet today the supreme Lord and only Saviour of men,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the honor of the Holy Spirit, revealing the light and life and love of Father and Son, and bringing the mind of the Master to our remembrance,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

Leader—For the Glory of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit,

People—We dedicate this Tabernacle.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—“We are now spending two hundred and fifty millions of dollars a year getting ready for war—ten times as much as we spend on the agricultural department.” And yet the jingoes want us to begin to prepare for war! What is preparedness?

—Rev. C. C. Peel, pastor, reports a pleasant service at our Sanford church last Sunday, the services being well attended and one new member received into church fellowship. Bro. Peel is pleased with the prospect at Sanford and the outlook for the work there.

—The Methodist Conference of Virginia has endorsed a proposition to hold an annual chautauqua and school of methods at Virginia Beach during the Summer, much as our people have had the past two Summers, and the Baptist have had for several Summers.

—Mr. Carnegie, the world's greatest giver of money, has given away approximately $350,000,000 and now has only $60,000,000 left we are informed. But after the three or four million mark is passed, what difference does it make—save in the number of figures it takes to write it?

—How much happier and better this world would be if all observed this simple rule of conduct given by Henry Van Dyke: “Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it is true; never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary.”

—Both ex-President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt have declared themselves as opposed to President Wilson's “Preparedness” program, Mr. Taft because it savors of militarism and the proposed expenditure is too great, Mr. Roosevelt because it is not sufficiently war-like and the proposed expenditure is all too small.

—Fuquay Springs Gold Leaf: “The Wake Chapel Church people held their Thanksgiving service on Sunday 21st which was very much enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. Quite a handsome sum was given for the Elon Christian Orphanage. It is to be hoped that every Church and fraternal order will make a special effort and help the poor, unfortunate orphans that are dependent upon a generous people for support.”

—Berkley correspondent of Norfolk-Virginian Pilot: “The Young People's Auxiliary of the first Christian Church gave a reception from 8 to 10 o'clock last evening at the residence of Mr. George H. Frey, 38 Poplar avenue, in honor of their new pastor, Rev. J. F. Morgan. An informal program was rendered and refreshments were served. All members and friends of the church had been invited to call and meet the new pastor and a host embraced the opportunity of doing so and spent an enjoyable evening.”

—The Anti-Saloon League of New York State, William H. Anderson, Superintendent, has opened war on Mr. William Barnes, Jr., the accredited leader of the saloonites and corrupt politicians of that state. Mr. Anderson claims that Mr. Barnes obstructs all legislation looking toward ridding the State of saloons, and so in order to proceed on moral grounds Barnes must be eliminated. It is declared that “no quarters will be asked and none given,” and it will be seen whether the moral forces of the State are powerful enough to eliminate the obstructionist. The fight promises to be a merry one.

SUFFOLK LETTER

My visit to the N. C. and Va. Conference in Durham last week was a real pleasure and profit to me.

The quality of the work, the higher purposes of the laymen, the splendid addresses, and the earnestness of the entire body, all indicate progress and hopefulness. Rev. P. T. Klapp, an old schoolmate, is President; and Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College, is Secretary. This means that business is dispatched and members receive cordial recognition, while the records are kept accurately and made rapidly. So far as I could learn, in the one night and one day I was present, the year's work had closed in good shape and the new year is to be entered with zeal according to knowledge. The Conference will meet next year with Union church, Alamance county, where the Convention was organized in 1856, and where Rev. J. W. Holt is pastor. That is one of the historic churches where many good people have lived, worshipped, and gone to glory. People used to gather there at “big meetings” from Caswell, Orange and Alamance in great throngs. Mrs. E. W.

Beale told me that she had seen, in her girlhood days, more than a hundred two-horse carriages, with their silver-mounted harness and colored drivers, on the grounds at one time; but that was before the Civil War when people had slaves and leisure, and when churches were far apart.

The two main points of interest in the Conference at the present time, are Reidsville and Danville. Rev. L. I. Cox has charge at Reidsville and Rev. S. B. Klapp at Danville. Both of these new enterprises seem to promise good results in the prospect of good churches and good work. The Christian church has been slow to enter cities; but more recent years have added many good congregations and church buildings in cities. It is not too late for such Home Missionary enterprise, because people are moving to the cities as never before, and that makes new population for new churches.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Wellons, who has been a member of this Conference for sixty years, was present, taking a lively interest in all the business and shaking hands with old and new friends. Rev. C. A. Boon, long since retired from the active ministry, and who, since the death of his faithful companion, resides in Durham with his son-in-law, Mr. Saunders, was also in attendance with keen interest in the progress of the cause which he oves.

My good home was with Dr. McPherson and his wife and I dined on Thanksgiving Day with Dr. Will Boon and his family; and all the guests enjoyed their Thanksgiving dinner. No year in the history of our country contains so many reasons for thanksgiving as this good year of our Lord, Nineteen Fifteen. The greatest harvests, the greatest peace education, the greatest laymen's movements in the kingdom, the greatest educational activities and the greatest outlook for prosperity, all furnish themes for addresses and editorials and reasons for giving thanks to God who is “the giver of every good and perfect gift.”

W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

We were glad to have with us a few days ago Hon. F. M. Farrell of Pittsboro. Brother Farrell had never been to Elon before, and it was indeed a great pleasure to this generous brother to see the College, Orphanage and Publishing House for which he had done so much. We also record a recent visit of Miss Treva Ward of High Point and Miss Mattie Rich of Graham.

Mr. John Randolph, of Charlotte, is spending a few days with his sons, Dr. E. E. and Prof. E. O. Randolph.

On Thanksgiving morning the children of the Orphanage entertained in the College auditorium. At night the same plays and recitations were given in the Christian church at Burlington. At both places the program was much enjoyed and a liberal offering taken for the benefit of the institution. On Friday night the play was likewise given in the Graham Christian church.

So many of our people attended the N. C. and Va. Christian Conference in Durham that space forbids individual mention. They report a splendid time.

Elon had six representatives at the N. C. Sunday School Convention in Salisbury last week.

The Philological Literary Society gave its annual entertainment on Thursday evening of last week. Mr. W. C. King of Seagrave, delivered the oration of the occasion, using for his subject, “The Value of an Idea,” while Mr. G. F. Pridgen, of Trenton, amused the audience with his wit and humor of local situations. The debate shaped itself around the question: Resolved, That the Weaver Child Labor Bill Should be Enacted a Law in North Carolina. For the affirmative, Mr. J. F. Raper, Linwood, N. C., and Mr. H. J. Fleming, Greensboro, N. C., championed the cause, while Mr. W. L. Monroe, Biscoe, N. C., and Mr. W. C. Poe, Ramseur, N. C., contended for the negative. The judges saw fit to render the decision 2 to 1 in favor of the negative. Other items of the program were well rendered and reflected great credit upon the Society's work.

The Music Department gave an annual entertainment on Friday evening. The participants were: Misses Annie Simpson, Gertrude Mason, Jennie Willis Atkinson, Madge Moffitt, Gertrude Minnear, Novella McIntyre. These young ladies showed the best of training, the highest appreciation of music, and genuine talent.

Rarely has a more tender religious service been enjoyed here than that of last Sunday evening, when Rev. H. S. Smith led the regular fourth Sunday evangelistic meeting under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor. Several Life Recruits were added to the growing list.

Dr. Thomas C. Amick was Elon's representative in the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, Raleigh, N. C., last week. Mr. Edwin M. Betts represented the music faculty at the same gathering.

And they were here! Yes, friends of the College, students, villagers, and all, were here last week. Space forbids us to mention all their names, but Thanksgiving brought to us many pleasant callers. May these friends come again and enjoy themselves as they seemed to this time. We were de-lighted as the Rough Rider would say. "X"

PROVIDENTIAL CONDITIONS OF LIFE

If we know ourselves, we should consider the various relations in which we stand to other beings, and the several duties that result from these relations and conditions. Our first and principal concern is to consider the relation we sustain to Him who gave us our being. We are the creatures of His hand. Nor are we merely His creatures; but He has made us rational and intelligent. And, as rational creatures, we must consider the condition of life in which Providence has placed us. A man that knows himself, will deliberately consider and attend to the particular condition and circumstances of life in which Providence has placed him: what is the duty and decorum of that station; what part is given him to act; what character to maintain; and with what decency and propriety he acts that part, maintains that character.

For a man to assume a character, or aim at a part that does not belong to him, is affectation, and is a certain indication of self-ignorance. Whence is it that many seem so willing to be thought something when they are nothing, and seek to excel in those things in which they cannot, whilst they neglect those things in which they might excel? Whence is it that they thus seek to counteract the intention of nature and Providence? Whence but from an ignorance of themselves, their relations in life, and the part and character which properly belongs to them?

It is an excellent observation of a heathen moralist, that human life is a drama and mankind the actors, who have their several parts assigned them by the master, who stands behind the scene and observes in what manner every one acts. Some have a short part allotted them and some a long one; some a low and some a high one. Take care, then, to act well our respective parts in life, is ours. But a man can never act his part well; if he does not attend to it, or know what becomes of it; much less if he assume to act another which does not belong to him. It is always self-ignorance that leads a man to act out of character. We are not to take an example of conduct from those who have a very different part assigned them from our own, unless those things that are most excellent and exemplary. If we do so we shall but expose our acceitation and weakness, and ourselves to contempt for acting out of character; as what is proper in one person may be ridiculous in another. Nor must we blindly follow those who move in the same sphere and sustain the same character with ourselves, except in those things that are befitting this character. To maintain a character, then, with decency, we must keep our eye only on that which is proper to it.

In fine, as no man can excel in everything, we must consider what part is allotted us to act, in the station in which Providence has placed us, and keep to this, be it what it may, seeking to excel in this only.

"There's a light in the valley once shrouded with darkness,
Hope sheds her bright rays o'er the gloom of the grave;

The Savior ascending fills earth with his brightness,

'Tis Jesus! 'Tis Jesus! The mighty to save!"

THANKSGIVING AT THE UNIVERSITY

The churches in Chapel Hill held a union Thanksgiving service in the Christian church, Nov. 25. The sermon was by Rev. Sidney Robins, D. D., of Kingston, Mass. Dr. Robins is a native of N. C., a son of Marmaduke Robins, Esq., of Asheboro, and an alumnus of the University. Dr. Robins will be here again the 3rd Sunday in December, and preach in the chapel.

The services in the Christian church have started off encouragingly. We have preaching twice each Sunday, a good Sunday school, and lectures by members of the faculty every Sunday. Dr. Chase will lecture during the month of December.

W. S. LONG.

—Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., has settled in his new field of labor at Dendron, Va., and has visited all the churches of his charge and preached once at each. He has been most cordially received and feels that a good year's work awaits him.

Will You Read This Twice?

A very important question to-day which every housekeeper must decide for herself is whether she prefers pure, cream of tartar baking powder like Royal or whether she is willing to use baking powder made of inferior substitutes which do not add healthful qualities to the food.

One kind is easily distinguished from the other, since the laws of various States require the ingredients to be printed upon the label. If anyone is in doubt which kind is most healthful, it is worth while to ask the family doctor. Then decide.

And when once a decision is reached let no advertisement or dealer's argument or canvasser's solicitation change the decision. It is not a question of a few cents or of pleasing a salesman. It is a question of health.

If this appeals to you as reasonable and sensible advice, it is worth reading twice. And it is worth remembering.

S. S. LESSON, DECEMBER 5
Uzziah's Pride and Punishment.
2 Chron. 26:8-10, 15-21.

Golden Text: A man's pride shall bring him low; but he that is of a lowly spirit shall obtain honor. Prov. 29:23.

This young man, Uzziah, had ascended the throne of David with the best promises that could be made to man from God. He had all the chance that he needed to "make good." He lost no opportunity to take advantage of these special privileges. The king fell heir to great possessions, both of this world's goods and of the Holy Spirit for he sought the guidance of Jehovah in the early part of his reign.

We are told that he became so strong and prominent on account of his power to rule men and influence in the kingdom that his name was spread abroad.

He became so strong that he thought he had the key to everything, even to God's will because of his influence and prominence. He began to do things without God's consent, or without consulting Jehovah. This was a sad step in the life of Uzziah. He had lived a moderately long, successful, and influential life and now he is going to take all the beauty out of it in a few minutes.

It is true today of so many of us when we are blessed with this world's goods we tend to drift away from the Creator and Giver of all good and perfect gifts. Instead of thanking Him for the privilege of having and using the special advantages, we forget the Giver. The lesson plainly teaches us that when we do forget the Giver and fail to seek His guidance we will lose what we have, or in some way be severely punished. "As long as he (Uzziah) sought Jehovah, God made him to prosper." We too, have that promise. If we seek God, He will prosper us with good sound characters, a reasonable amount of this world's goods, and a name that will be heralded abroad.

"It is obvious that Uzziah's sin was due to pride, and this in turn was due to forgetfulness of God. It is deplorable when, after the reception of God's blessings, we should forget the giver and think ourselves independent. Prosperity is often one of the greatest tests of life. A somewhat eccentric clergyman in England, about one hundred and fifty years ago, once made this announcement to his congregation: 'The prayers of the congregation are desired on behalf of Mr. _____, who has just come into a fortune.' Pride has always been one of the commonest causes of trouble in human life.

C. E. TOPIC, DECEMBER 5

Golden Fruit from the Prayer Life
Hebrew 4:14-16; 11:6
(Consecration Meeting)

As this is a consecration and prayer meeting combined every one will want to take part in some way. We suggest that the meeting be opened by silent prayer, the leader closing the prayer by a few short sentences. We take pleasure in praying to God and then listening to the guidance of the spirit, to the answer. The answer doesn't come always as we expect, but to all of our real earnest prayers the answers have come in the way which is best for us and at the time that we needed them most.

Let the leader tell what prayer has done for him and then let the other members follow as fast as they will in giving personal testimony—make the meeting an experience meeting for Jesus. To the members who are yet young in the kingdom give out the following questions to answer in the meeting:

"How does prayer help you to be strong?"

How does prayer help you conquer temptation?

What blessings have you received from prayer?

Why can we be sure that our prayers will be answered?

What part of our prayers should be petitions?

What are the elements of a model prayer?

What are the advantages of a regular time and place for prayer?

How is Christ a model of prayer?

What may be the reason if we do not enjoy praying?

How will our society aid us in the prayer life?

Why is it a duty to pray in public?

How does prayer help us in time of sorrow?

What blessings come from intercessory prayer?"—C. E. World.

A MISSIONARY CONFERENCE
DEAR SUN READERS:

A wonderful Missionary Convention is being held this week at the Battle Creek, Michigan Sanitarium.

It is the Seventh Medical Missionary Conference, but evangelistic and educational missions are represented, sometimes more fully on the program than the strictly medical work.

The first address I heard was by an old friend, Rev. Mr. Axling, now of Tokio who is engaged in evangelistic work there. He was joyous in the fact that he was returning then to the foreign field.

Mr. McNaughton, who was this current year, imprisoned for weeks in Turkey, told of the faith yet left in the Armenian Church and of the good points in even the Turk. Yet he told of the Armenian women and girls praying for and welcoming massacre because the alternative—torture was so much worse—or déportation had its certain dangers, worse than death.

Dr. Ward of Beirut told of his Red Cross work down in the desert with the Turkish army when the red crescent and not the red cross was respected and where the patients tore off the red cross markings on the pillow slips and spat at them, because the Mohammedans hate the cross.

Dr. Grenfell told of the brave work of deep sea fishermen on the barren Labrador and Newfoundland coasts and of the hospitals established there. Did you know it is Sir Wilfred Grenfell? He seemed only "one of us," a modest missionary doctor, as he said "no more a missionary than anyone who is not living for self but is carrying out His Lord's plans in his life for others.

But I am writing the "Sun" largely because the address "The Uplift of the Gospel in the South"—the second address I heard, was so vivid and Dr. Powell has put in so many Southern touches as well as Baptist ones all through the conference that I have wanted the Atkinsons and Harpers and Uncle Wellons to appreciate them with us and tell their stories too here, next year at conference.

I hope the Sun will get back to normal size again for I'm afraid the editor will not have room for this letter.

But I must write something of the experience this Kentucky Mission secretary told of one night in Mexico. Three farmer-looking boys had timidly been in the meeting and lingered. They had been told that foreign devils with horns and tails would sing! The oldest boy had said, "Boys, our father and mother expect me to look out for you because I'm the oldest, but I warn you, if I see what we've been told, I'm going to run for my donkey and you'll have to look out for yourselves!" What they saw and heard was a man reading from "the best Book in the world" and singing the love of Jesus and it captivated them. Mr. Powell was invited out to the home. He had to ford a river where his mule became a submarine and naturally arrived in wet garments.

In Mexican farmers' garments, high shoes, no socks, yellow striped vest (with a recess between, like some church members that can not be brought together, this tall missionary sallied forth to preach the gospel to the whole neighborhood, which had gathered to hear the stranger. By putting a blanket over the table and hiding as much as could be of the ill-fitting garments, the polite Mexicans managed to subdue their laughter at this tall, lank Southerner in such a plight, and listened to what he said. He forgot the clothing and "walked all around and all over" preaching John 3:16, the people forgot, in listening and receiving, the boys' father interrupted, "I see it. It is not the Suits. It is the true God that saves." The boys' mother confessed Christ that night, 23 altogether and the father and the two boys became preachers."

It impressed me very much because in Japan, I too, talked to such an audience, though fortunately I had not been obliged to ford a river first, but ridiculous things occur sometimes even in Japan and tragic ones.

All good fortune to you people who are taking subscriptions to the "Sun" at conferences. Some day you'll have more space for missionary letters. ALICE TRUE.

Besides the financial report there are so many good things to mention, all of which are so much appreciated and so much needed, I can add: The Ladies' Aid Society of New Hill, N. C., sent us a fine box of chickens for which we want to thank every one who contributed; and the Willing Workers of Berea, Norfolk sent a nice box of canned fruit which we wish to thank them for, and all will enjoy a nice barrel of potatoes from our good friend R. B. Howell, Holland, Va. Such a fine treat from T. E. Brickhouse of Norfolk—a splendid barrel of apples. A barrel of mixed potatoes from Holy Neck by W. H. Norfleet; Mrs. John Ingle of Burlington sends one dozen cans of tomatoes; from the Sellar's Hosiery Mill of Burlington, 2 dozen pairs of hose. Miss Selma McCauley clothing for a little fellow. Elon College Milling Co., 1 bag of mill feed; W. J. Fonville, one-half barrel flour and a nice fat turkey for Thanksgiving dinner. We want to thank every one for these good things, for the little ones must be fed. We feel sure if the good people all over the country knew just what it takes to feed these children and the ones that stand by them in their trials each day they would, every member of the church, send something, and if the farmers will just notify the Supt. he will gladly send for anything they will contribute. Pumpkins, potatoes, and anything that will go to waste on your farm will help feed these children; any kind of clothing that isn't ragged, they need clothes to keep them warm. And the cows and pigs must be fed to have something for them and any kind of feed stuff will be highly appreciated.

Prominent Musician Says: "Weaver Piano Has No Equal."

"I purchased a Weaver Piano ten years ago and have used it continually in my studio since that time. The tone has wonderful singing qualities, round and sympathetic, which has improved each year. In my opinion the Weaver Piano has no equal. The tone is more nearly like a Grand than any other Upright.

Yours truly,

MRS. VAUGHTIE CARROLL ALEXANDER."

Mrs. Alexander, after graduating under Edward Hipshire of the Royal Academy, taught piano and voice for two years in Halbrook College, Tennessee, two years in Marvin College, Fredericktown, Mo., and has since taught in her private studio at Morristown, Tenn. She writes with authority.

Weaver Pianos Make Best Christmas Presents.

Nine tenths of all Christmas presents wear out quickly, depreciating rapidly with use. The Weaver Piano, on the contrary, has an intrinsic value, uniform everywhere, and little affected by length of use. Moreover, it is an investment from which you draw daily dividends of useful service and delight of ownership. The Weaver Piano is nearly as valuable intrinsically, and much more so sentimentally, after twenty years' use, as the day you buy it.

The Weaver Piano has a distinctive quality or tone that has found favor among the leading musicians. It will do much to preserve the spirit of Christmas in your home throughout the years.

The charming toned York Piano, the popular Livingston Piano and the Weaver Organ are also worthy of your consideration.

They may be obtained on terms to suit your convenience.

These instruments are everywhere conceded to be

Lime and Tuberculosis

Dr. Roberts Bartholow, former professor in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says in his Materia Medica (1895), on pages 215 and 216: "Clinical experience has shown that it (referring to calcium salt) possesses the ill-defined property known as alterative, removes certain toxic or morbid materials and secures their secretion by the organs of elimination. * * * The testimony which has lately been published in respect to its curative powers in consumption is certainly very striking."

He does not refer to testimony regarding Eckman's Alterative, since the medical profession never publicly recommends proprietary remedies. However, many cases of consumption seem to have yielded to this remedy.

This success may be due largely to the fact that in Eckman's Alterative a calcium (lime) salt is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. It contains neither opiates, narcotics nor habit-forming drugs, so its use, priced at $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Adv.

Warfare in the Blood

In the constant struggle of the army of phagocytes in the blood against an opposing army of bacteria and other noxious matter, the element most necessary in the battle for health is fresh air.

The air supply is received through the lungs and respiratory tract.

When lungs, throat and nostrils are engaged by colds, sore throat, croup, etc., the air cannot reach the membranes and through them the blood, because of this barrier of engorgement.

Hence the phlegm should be loosened and thrown off, that the air supply to the blood may be ample.

This object is attained by the liberal use of Mentholatum on chest and throat and in the nostrils.

The volatile aromatics of the Mentholatum encourage this loosening and exporation of the phlegm.

For this reason Mentholatum is almost indispensable in cases of sore throat, colds, catarrh and croup, chapped hands and lips. Adv.

OUR DEAD

McCauley

At her home, near Union Ridge, N. C., on the 30th of October, 1915, at 7:30 p. m., Eliza Ann McCauley departed this life at the age of sixty-four years, eight months and twelve days. She was the daughter of Asa and Susann Fonville and was married to Levi H. McCauley Feb. 5, 1874. Her husband preceded her to the grave two years ago. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Tate and Mrs. Emma Enoch, two daughters, Della and Selma. Three sons, Lon, J. Ralph and Oscar W. and five grand children. She was a kind sister, a loving mother, and a good neighbor. She administered to the sick and suffering in her community and comforted those who were in sadness and sorrow. Funeral services conducted by Rev. T. W. Strowd, October 31st, at Union church, where she had been a faithful member. Her remains were laid to rest in Union cemetery and her grave covered with lovely flowers.

"At rest in the peaceful home-land,
Not very far away,
She is waiting for her loved ones,
In the realm of endless day."

A COUSIN.

Liddick

Pauline Evelyn Liddick was born Oct. 17, 1913, and died Nov. 17, 1915; aged two years and one month. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Liddick, recently of Pa., now of Waverly, Va. Little Pauline Evelyn had been sick about three weeks, and the latter part of her sickness she suffered greatly. Her precious little soul went out from "the lumber shack" in the pines to the splendid mansion in the skies. "For of such is the kingdom of heaven." Though the family are strangers in the community the sympathy of the known acquaintances was extended to the family and the dear little form was placed in the silent tomb in cemetery of Spring Hill Christian church at 4 p. m., Nov. 18, 1915, to await the resurrection morning. Burial services conducted by the writer.

Teague

Frances Teague was born June 12, 1861, and died at High Point in the hospital Oct. 24, 1915. He was sick for a short while but his suffering was severe. He was a member of Antioch (R) Christian church and was a good man. We buried him at Shiloh and felt that out loss was his gain. He leaves a widow and five children—Carrie and J. M. Teague, High Point, Jesse and Mrs. Benj. Kerns of Moffitt's N. C. May God comfort them in their bereavement.

WHERE DRUGS FAIL

Many chronic diseases fail to respond to drug treatment, even in the hands of the best physicians, whereas acute diseases usually respond readily. When a disease has become chronic, drugs often seem to do as much harm as they do good, for the system rebels against them. It is just this class of cases which derive the greatest benefit from Shivar Mineral Water. If you suffer with chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, uric acid poisoning or other conditions due to impure blood, do not hesitate to accept Mr. Shivar's liberal offer as printed below. His records show that only two in a hundred on the average, have reported "no beneficial results." This is a wonderful record from a truly wonderful spring. Simply sign the following letter:

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the faith.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

A Dream

Some of your most practical folks are the most impractical people alive. Edison, Ford, Bell, Marconi, Wright are of your impractical sort. They see visions, dream dreams, create for themselves images of that which is not. Upon such the world waits for its progress, development, discoveries. The very practical will tell you that poets, painters, musicians, artists should have imagination; but not they themselves. Many a man is called meager, mean, narrow, hide-bound, close fist, "stingy," prejudiced, non-progressive, when what the man needs and lacks is imagination. He refuses to create images in his mind. He is obstinate against any thing except that which has been or is. Every man needs imagination God has often carried the world forward through a dream. "For a dream cometh through the multitude of business." (Ecc. 5:3)

Living in a Larger Sphere

Our thoughts easily become narrow, restricted, provincial. We need to have the field of our intellectual conceptions and activities constantly enlarged. To think in world terms makes us members of a world-wide family. This is one of the chief glories and assets to a people from foreign missions. The idea is strikingly portrayed in the following from an exchange: "While speaking in a church in Michigan," says a missionary worker, "I noticed among the audience a woman whose whole appearance spoke of the deepest poverty; but there was light in her faded face which fascinated me. I took occasion to speak to her. 'Two years ago,' she told me, 'I learned for the first time of this women's work for women, and each month since I have been able to put something into the treasury.' Her bent form straightened and her eyes shone as she continued: 'When I have given my gift, I am conscious that I am no longer simply a part of this little town, or even of this great Commonwealth; I am a part of the forces which God is using for the uplifting of nations.'"

First Fruits

God is seeking not ours, but us. He wants, and will have, only the best. We are the best of His creatures, and we are better than the things we possess. God requires some of our possessions in order that He may get all of us. We identify ourselves with our belongings. A man lives to a degree in his bank account.

He puts into it his best thought, his greatest skill, his constant attention, his hardest efforts and his greatest wisdom. Then, if a man puts into his bank account the best that is in him how can God get the best that is in him save through that self-same bank account—a term we here use to signify possessions God wants the best in us—wants us—and this He cannot get save through the best we have and can do. A man can flatter God with his words. (Words are easy, plentiful and very cheap.) But when he offers his possessions on the altar of God—then he is offering that which is not cheap, but that which represents blood and sinew and nerve—force, energy and ability. "Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first-fruits of his creatures." (Jas. 1:18.)

Holiness Unto the Lord

From the beginning God ordained that certain things, persons and places should be holy unto Him. The Creator of all, and the Giver of every good, will not be left without evidence and witness to His glory, to His majesty, to His sovereignty. There are certain holy people in the world. They have made complete surrender of themselves, their will, their affections, their all to their God. There are certain holy places in the world. They have been set aside, consecrated, dedicated to the worship and service of God. There are certain holy things in the world. The tenth of our increase is one of those things. The tithe is holy. Through it God declares His sovereignty over matter and over men. Those who do not set aside the tithe are taking tremendous risks with the holy things and sacred privileges. Here is wherein we rob God. We take His holy part and spend it for greed or on self. Through the holy tithe God would reach the mind and heart of the business man. God reserves a tenth as His own not because He is poor and needs it, but because we are poor and need Him—need to feel that we are co-workers with Him. "Israel was holiness unto the Lord, and the first-fruits of his increase." (Jer. 2:3.)

A Story of A Book

A woman, her husband, and two children accepted the other day by a certain mission board and soon to sail for India to give their lives to living, preaching and teaching the gospel among that benighted people have a story of uncommon human interest. The mother was dedicated to India as a missionary by her parents before she was born into the world. Very early in life she was given a book telling all about India, the country, the people, their superstitions, their needs. She grew up with the idea in her mind that she was to live and labor and teach in India. But unseen difficulties arose. She was prevented. She married. Children were born into the home. That book on India was brought out and read to those children. Then of a sudden, in the providence of God, the difficulties were swept away; and mother, husband and two children were offered to and accepted by the mission board and the whole family will soon go to live, labor and die in India and for their Christ there. It is the story of the power in the right sort of book. What sort of books are being put into the hands of the children? "Seek ye out of the book of the Lord and read." (Isa. 34:16.)

Missions, Men and Movement

The North Carolina Methodist Conference—the smaller, numerically, of the two Methodist Conferences in the State, the larger one numerically being called the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference—the smaller body, to repeat, met in Wilmington last week. The assessments for foreign missions for the past year were $19,450; the total amount paid, as reported to Conference, was $23,455. The amount assessed for home missions was $21,742. The total amount paid, as reported to Conference was, $20,851. To the churches of the Conference there were added the past year on profession of faith 5,975. The net gain in membership the past year was 4,240. It does not just happen that a Conference which raises all its assessments for foreign missions, and then gives more, grows. God ordained that the fact should be prominent, permanent, and inevitable. The light that shines farthest from home shines brightest at home. When a people lift their lights on high that they may shine afar there is brilliant illumination around about the place. These missionary lights are God's pillars of fire by which He shows the people how to go forward, and warms them to their task. "In thy light shall we see light." (Psa. 36:9.)

Henry Ford and Peace

Many papers are making quite merry at the venture of Henry Ford who, at his own expense, has chartered and victualled a ship, and invited a company of peace advocates to go with him as his guests to Europe to see if any thing can be done to hasten the day of peace in that blood drenched land. Some of the little ones who are croaking at Ford and imputing to him all sorts of impure motives haven't turned their hand and heart in any direction that would make for peace, and would not if they were worth a hundred million: Mr. Ford made his money by honest industry so far as we have ever heard. Our Father in heaven knows that this war is the awfulest and most unspeskable tragedy that ever occurred. It behooves every honest and right thinking man, woman and child to want to see it stopped. If Mr. Ford thinks he can help, and is willing to try, why not applaud him in his undertaking. Some of the fellows howling at Mr. Ford haven't grace, grip or gumption enough to make a thousand dollars in forty years, and yet they are zealous to censure and severely arraign a man who had the sense to make millions. We never knew a philanthropist yet to go to spend his money for any righteous cause, but that there were hundreds and thousands of wiseacres ready to tell him how to spend it in some better way. We welcome any movement from any source that even looks to the end of this European holocaust. Should we not begin to chant the angel anthem: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." (Luke 2:14.)

CONFERENCE CALENDAR

The Conferences yet to be held meet as follows:

—Christian Missionary Association (E. Va., Conf.)
—Rosemont church, Tuesday, December 7th, W. D. Harward, President, Newport News, Va., R. H. Peel, Secretary, Wakefield, Va.

HUMILIATION, NOT DESPAIR

THE SUN's editor is not discouraged, he is only humiliated, over the present missionary situation—the non-missionary spirit—in our churches and amongst our brethren. The fact that the supreme business of the church receives secondary consideration, or no consideration at all, in our Conferences and church meetings is unspeakably humiliating and strikes home to the heart of those who know that if we make progress we must do so by and through and along the missionary way. Think of Conferences, with scores of churches and thousands of constituents, existing for years, and in the time not sending out one missionary. Think of those same Conferences meeting year after year, and hardly discussing missions at all—or near the close, or at some inopportune and uninviting hour. Or, as one Conference did this year, pass a motion beforehand, that the "report on Foreign Missions be read and adopted without discussion." Many of us are unwilling to discuss missions and for two reasons. First, we are not enough interested to care to discuss the topic. Secondly, we do not know enough about missions to discuss it intelligently. We often pass resolutions in our Conferences that "our preachers deliver at least one sermon a year on foreign missions." It is laughable to start with and useless to end with; for the resolution is a dead letter as soon as printed. The reason? Why, beloved, four fifths of the preachers who hear the resolution read and vote for its adoption do not know enough about missions to preach a sermon on missions. We hand out that indictment for what it may be worth. The pastors are not preaching on foreign missions. They persistently refuse to do so, many of them. They can't. They don't know how. They are not interested enough to learn. Their precious time is too much engaged in other things. And yet we solemnly avow that the greatest theme that faces the church today is that of foreign missions. The greatest burden of the church today is or should be that of foreign missions. The greatest opportunity, and the loudest call to the church today is that of foreign missions. The mightiest task and the sublimest possible achievement for the church is that along the line of foreign missions. And the supreme and fundamental business of the church is foreign missions.

We challenge all thinkers, theorists and writers on church problems to show a church that has prospered, or under God's grace can prosper, as long as it remains indifferent to missions and failed to do its duty for missions. Brethren and beloved, God cannot allow a non-missionary church to grow, if He remains true to His beloved Son and keeps His word. And this He will do.

INCREASING ARMAMENTS

It seems to us a regrettable fact that there is a great and very determined movement to increase the spirit of militarism in this country, and to spend millions of dollars forthwith for a great army, a great navy and a great national defense. We have evidently not learned that preparations for war help to precipitate rather than prevent war. The theory that in time of peace a nation should prepare for war has been shot into a million fragments in Europe and then every fragment has been baptized in blood, but the militarists in this country still believe it a safe and sound philosophy. Of all times in our history when this nation did no need to get in a hurry about preparedness, and the storing of our magazines with munitions of war, this seems to be that time. The remotely possible foes of this government are wearing themselves out and exhausting their strength and treasure in a bloody conflict beyond the sea. When they are through with each other they will not care for war for a long time to come. The world is already sick of war and for a mighty and first rate nation, as is ours, now to begin afresh to arm to the teeth is not only untimely, but folly and wasteful. Battleships and armaments made or acquired now will be antiquated and largely relegated to the junk heap before any possible foe of ours will have rallied from the present holocaust.

Rev. Carlyle Summerbell, D. D., of Wolfsboro, N. H., sends us by way of clippings from the Granite State News excerpts from a recent Sunday evening sermon of his in which he enters vigorously the protest which we here voice:

And now America looking on the great slaughter in Europe, hearing the cries of the wounded, the weeping of children, the stillness of the dead, is making preparation to follow in the same path. And we have agitators going up and down the land preaching the gospel of suspicion, of hate, of great preparation of war, and war is hell. The men who do not think, and some who do, will be carried away with this wave of so-called preparedness, and I expect to see America also going in the way of the sword.

But against this, I would raise my feeble voice of protest, asking you to consider if the calm judgment of history has not been that "all they that take the sword, shall perish with the sword?"

Following this Dr. Summerbell gives six very potent reasons why we should not rush into a billion dollar preparedness, showing that such a program only trains men for war and not for peace and that it is most inopportune and wasteful and wicked indeed for us now to tax every family in the United States $75.00 and every man woman and child $15.00 each to prepare for war which in all probability will never come and which we as a Christian nation should seek to avert by the honorable pursuits of peace.

PELOUBET 1916

This reliable and able treatise on the Sunday-school lessons is now offered to the public in its forty-second annual volume. Peloubet's has come to be looked upon as a classic in Sunday-school literature, and most able and capable teachers, as well as many pupils and students would feel at a loss without it. The 1916 volume seems up to, if not beyond the issue of previous years, so far as our examination of the work so far entitles us to speak. The binding is much the same: the colored maps seem to us plainer and better wrought out; the illustrations are striking and to the point, the introduction and bibliography are more suggestive than usual, and the treatment of the lessons seems copious and sufficient. The publishers, W. A. Wilde & Co., Boston, Mass., offer the volume of 376 pages for $1.25. Those who order the book of The Southern Christian Publishing Co., Elon College, N. C., by Jan. 1, 1916, can secure the book for $1.00. We will be glad to supply Sunday-school Superintendents, Teachers and pupils a copy of this great work. We have now an order from one school, that of Suffolk, Va., for twenty-seven copies. The teachers and some pupils in this school have used Peloubets for years and find it the most satisfactory work to be had on the lessons. Others are equally loud in their praise of the work, and the 1916 volume will, we think, not lessen their esteem for the work.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Pres. W. A. Harper has an able and beautiful utterance in the Christian Endeavor World of November 18, entitled, "Thanksgiving for Service." Dr. Harper thinks there is no privilege we should be more thankful for than that of service.

—Our Publishing House is fully intending to print and mail the Annual before the Christmas holidays—if Secretaries of Conferences will forward their minutes. We have a letter now enquiring "When will the Annual be out," and not half of the minutes are in our hands yet.

—Prof. S. M. Smith, recently of the Norfolk Y. M. C. A., and formerly a professor in Elon College and a Wake county, N. C., boy, writes some rather startling and stunning words to our farmer friends and country preachers in this week's SUN. Are Prof. Smith's statements correct? If so our farmers do need to sit up and take notice.

—Three cheers and a wave of handkerchiefs to Revs. G. R. Underwood and T. E. White of the Western N. C. Conference. Bro. White writes most enthusiastically about the newly organized church at Seagrove. These brethren mean business and the work is to go forward. We congratulate them one and all.

—Bro. T. J. Holland, Wray, Ga., writes: "Our work at Ambrose is moving on nicely, much better than we expected. We have received five new members since we organized. Our offerings have doubled since we got into our new church. We expect to dedicate the new building third Sunday in December. We have built a church that is a credit to the Ga. and Ala. Conf., and it is nicely furnished. Any town would be proud of it. Rev. H. W. Elizer is a wonderful man as preacher, organizer and church builder. I wish we had more ministers like him. Our church would build up in the waste places."

—Miss Elsie Bray, of our Liberty church, Nathalie, Va., who was a delegate to our Durham Conference wrote recently, "I enjoyed Conference very much and I shall strive harder than ever before to do my duty as a church member and shall endeavor to get our church to raise its full apportionment next year, and I fully believe we will do it." Our good sister was one of the prime movers in building Liberty church and has its interest and welfare at heart—as she has the progress and development of all our Christian interests at heart. She is usually sent as a delegate to annual Conference.

—Speaking of Thanksgiving, had you thought how the population mixes it? Take this at random as typical, same being from The Sanford Express, which incidentally shows that Bro. Underwood gave good account of himself: "Thanksgiving Day was generally observed by the people of Sanford. The weather was ideal. Many of the mills, shops, factories, stores and the banks and school were closed. Many men and boys spent the day with dogs and guns in the woods and fields hunting. Thanksgiving services were held at the Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock that morning by Rev. G. R. Underwood. No services were held at the other churches. Several members of the faculty of the Graded School were in Raleigh attending the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, while others from the town were in Richmond to see the game of foot ball played by teams from the universities of North Carolina and Virginia."

GREENSBORO LETTER

Last Sunday with us in the Piedmont section of North Carolina was a bright, beautiful day. It was our first Sunday's service in the new Conference year. The day opened auspiciously for us. There was a good attendance at Sunday school and nice congregations at both the morning and evening services. The music was good—inspirational. A thanksgiving offering was taken for the Christian Orphanage which amounted to $77.39 in cash and pledges.

Rev. J. W. Patton was with us at the morning hour and took part in the services. We are always glad to have him with us. The Philathea and Young Men's Baraca classes in connection with the Ladies' Aid Society entertained, recently, young ladies belonging to the Christian church who are attending school at the State Normal and Industrial College and the Greensboro College for Women. It was a very enjoyable occasion. I have the names of twenty-nine young ladies at the Normal and Industrial College and the names of two at the Woman's College who are members of the Christian church. We have an interesting class of Normal girls in Sunday school. We are glad to have with us in our services young ladies from the above named Colleges.

The Young Men's Baraca Class is putting forth special effort just now in the way of securing new members and they are succeeding. We are profoundly thankful to God for the success of the year and we are planning for greater things for Christ and the Church for this Conference year.

A PERSONAL WORD

I am now offering to the public my book, "Vital Truths for Hungry Hearts," the fifth book I have given to the world and the last I ever expect to give as I am now nearing the 1st day of January, 1916, when I will be ninety years old. My memory, my eye sight, my hearing, the use of my limbs, are all yielding to old age. I feel that my work is about finished and I awaiting the summons to come up higher. I fondly hope I will hear, "Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." My life has been one of bright and dark days, but far more light than dark. The work of my Master has been the joy of my life and yet what a pleasure was the little that I could do trying to win souls for the Master, and to induce the rising generation to be faithful servants of the Lord. Here are some of the contents of the book: By Way of Beginning; The Word of God; The Atonement; Preach the Word; Faith, Conversion, Repentance; The Spiritual Birth; Love as a Grace; John's and Christ's Baptisms; Mode of Baptism; The One Baptism; A Candidate for Baptism; Baptism of the Holy Ghost; Baptism by Fire; Baptism for the Dead; The Unity of the Church; The Lord's Supper; The Trinity; Who Was Melchisedec?; The Falling from Grace; Restoration, and other chapters not mentioned. The book is nicely bound in red cloth, 131 pages, sells for 50 cents postpaid. What a nice Christmas present for your children? Ask your pastor for the book or send direct to me for it. Can sent postage stamps.

J. W. WELLS, Elon College, N. C.

P. S. Will brother ministers assist me in selling the book, and read the above to their congregations and explain the same? J. W. W. (Note: The N. C. and Va. Conference endorsed the book and urged our ministers everywhere to assist Bro. Wells in selling it as he needs the money for his living as a supernumate.—J. O. A., Ed. SUN)

SUFFOLK LETTER

The first snow of this winter fell last night. Roofs of houses and grass-covered ground are white this morning—Monday. Where it fell on the bare earth it melted.

This has been a fall season of unusual extension of good weather and beauty. Late flowers and forests have glowed with protracted brilliance. No season has been better for harvesting summer crops. Such weather has increased the cotton crop and filled the bins of the nation with matured grain in good condition. Weather is "the state of the atmosphere with respect to heat, cold, dryness, moisture, wind, rain, snow, fogs, etc.," but it powerfully affects earth and man. Weather, as appears from above definition, is made up of many elements, any one of which changes conditions in the atmosphere, the tints in forest leaves, fruits in the orchard, and harvests in the field, are all affected by weather. The health of the people, the egg market, the travel on the public roads, the sports on the athletic fields are all determined, in large measure, by the weather.

Now there is "moral weather," so to speak, a "spiritual atmosphere" that envelops us; and this "moral weather" or "spiritual atmosphere" affects human society in its religious life and operations. Many elements enter into this condition to make up its total influence upon the minds and hearts of men; yea, upon their outward conduct. Thought, feeling, temper, books and papers, associations, aspirations and ambitions, organized societies, all make up what is here called "moral weather." Let it be kept in mind that individuals cannot overcome weather; though the wiser and stronger may take advantage of scraps of good weather and outdo their neighbors. So there are strong natures, sustained by grace, that cannot overcome, in a measure, bad moral conditions, and maintain good character and conduct; but "moral weather," the "spiritual atmosphere," determines the results in most lives. You see, therefore, that the important work of the church is not looking after individuals, but after public conditions. Given, good weather, and poor farmers will harvest and house fair crops; given, good moral and spiritual conditions and most people will maintain a fair grade of character and conduct. Sound public sentiment on all moral questions is the first and most important thing to be settled. It is even so in secular affairs. You cannot have good roads till public sentiment demands them. Public schools come in the same way, in obedience to the will of the people, arising as a spontaneous uprising of the public will, or a sentiment in its favor created among the people by strong minds for some unexpressed purpose. Real religion works on the community, on the public mind, the thought and the will of the people.

Most of all evils of society are public evils, made respectable by public sentiment, supported by public approval, and carrying individuals on its strong current. It was such a sentiment that made the cry in the streets of Jerusalem—"Crucify Him! Crucify Him."

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

The fall term of 1915 is soon to be closed. Examinations begin Dec. 15. Soon thereafter the flight for home will begin. The vacation will soon pass amid happy surroundings. Most of the students expect to return. Some new faces will be here for the January 6th opening. So the work goes on. The present term has been a good one.

President J. I. Foust, of the Normal College, Greensboro, is to speak here at 2 p. m. next Sunday on 'Teaching As a Life-Work.' It is expected that he will speak also that evening in the Christian Endeavor Evangelistic meeting.

Dr. Atkinson attended the trustee meeting of the Deaf and Dumb Institution at Morganton three days last week. He also visited the State Hospital there. He pronounced it fine, but Elon drew him back.

Dr. A. B. Kendall, Burlington, conducted chapel service Wednesday. He is busy in a large parish and in a large way. Dr. Kendall is a real leader of his people.

Mrs. T. A. Moffitt, Ramseur, patron and devoted champion of the Elon idea, visited us Friday and Saturday. More students come to Elon from Ramseur than from any other N. C. church. A fine tribute to the friends there!

Marriage bells are to ring in Elon this month twice. On the 9th Miss Vivian Huffman is to become Mrs. Bruce Cantrell and just two weeks later Miss Hattie Belle Smith, Mrs. H. O. Dixon. We extend felicitations and congratulations.

Mr. Carl Wheeler is opening a grocery store in the Noah building. This means five merchants for Elon. We are "going some."

Dr. W. C. Wicker filled the appointment at Hines' Chapel yesterday. Rev. F. C. Lester was elected pastor. Rev. J. F. Apple was yesterday elected pastor at Shallow Ford.

Rev. J. O. Cox filled his first appointment at Salem Chapel yesterday.

Dr. E. E. Randolph has begun to rebuild his home recently destroyed by fire. Fortunately the foundation walls and chimneys were not damaged much. To save them against destructive frosts however early building was imperative.

Mr. W. C. Michael, after excursions to many places offering him locations, has decided like all the others who have ever dwelt in the atmosphere of this splendid place to continue his residence at Elon. It takes more than a house to make a home. "A home is a whole community concern," says a recent writer. May this community become progressively and thoroughly Christlike in all its life.

The Woman's Civic League met last Tuesday in the Graded School Building. Colds and Sanitation was the theme. Our women are "folks," I tell you, and no doubt of it.

Rev. Victor Lighthourne is scheduled to arrive Tuesday. He has just concluded a glorious meeting at Winchester, Va. He is going to rest until the New Year, when he starts with his wife as singer on a trip to the West.

Mr. M. C. Barbee, Charlotte, '15, was a visitor to the old scenes on Saturday and Sunday.

The Book Club met Friday with Mrs. T. C. Amick. South America is being studied, and a book is read every fortnight.

The services of the sanctuary yesterday were spiritually sustaining throughout, from the Sunday school through to the C. E. prayer service at night. Dr. Atkinson's sermon was an impelling plea to make our life virtually the life of Christ. "X."

THE GOSPEL OF BETTER LIVING

The first duty every man owes to himself, to his family, and to the nation is to earn a living, and in that earning to make a life. The man who realizes his opportunity and recognizes his manhood asks neither favors nor charity. All he wants is a chance.

The farmer today is probably the most conspicuous figure in American life. The country preacher has a greater opportunity than ever before. It has been generally presumed that the farmer is the most independent of all men, but this not true. The small farmer in the South under present conditions is gradually becoming more and more dependent. He is unable even to feed himself. When the crop is made, and he has settled with his landlord, the next thing is to make arrangements for some one to "furnish" him the coming year, and before the next crop is made he has already eaten it up. The average farmer has never yet learned how to feed himself and live at home. As evidence of this fact 84 per cent. of the farm lands of the South are under mortgage, and at the present rate it is only a matter of time until the other 16 per cent will be covered. The average county in the Southern States spends more than a million dollars a year for food and feed (corn, hay, vegetables, butter, eggs, etc.) things that should be grown on every farm. This condition accounts for the great revival on now in the South in the interest of better farming and better living. Business men and bankers have realized that if the South is to prosper, the farmer must succeed, and if he is to succeed he must be taught how to "live at home and board at the same place."

It is they who are promoting and financing this great campaign of education. In Alabama last year 10,000 families lived on one meal a day. The writer was in Arkansas a few weeks ago in a section where the poorer farmers, both white and colored, last winter lived partially on nuts and berries. The country preacher should be a student of rural sociology. He and the local school teacher are the two men upon whom rests the responsibility of leadership in the community.

The one-crop system has been the curse of the South. Under present conditions the farmer is practically helpless. The slightest calamity would put him on the bread-line. Last Fall when the war and strained financial conditions forced the price of cotton down the Southern farmer was caught in destitute circumstances. He was unable to feed himself through the winter and but for the "buy-a-bale movement" and the assistance of business men and bankers he would have suffered for something to eat. Strange as it may seem the farmer in the South is not content with Southern grown products. He feeds his horse on hay grown in Colorado, he eats Irish potatoes and cabbage grown in Michigan, canned goods put up in a dozen Northern States, turnips shipped from Canada. He fights grass all the summer to raise cotton to buy hay.

This gospel of better farming and better living carries with it the text: "Farmer man, learn to feed thyself and live at home." Many a poor fellow, because of his loyalty to King-Cotton doesn't really live—he just "uses" around in the community.

The country church and the local school should be community centres and from them should emanate every influence that will help the farmer to be a better farmer and a better citizen.

Louisville, Miss.

NORTH HIGHLAND CHURCH (COLUMBUS, GA.)

The revival at this church has just closed and it was a remarkable one. Conviction deep and it was a time of great heart searching, humble confession and earnest prayer. Almost the entire church was blessed and a number of unconverted were won to Christ; there were ten additions to the church. The Lord's children were searched out and established in His grace.

We believe that the entire church and community got upon a higher plane of spiritual living than ever before.

There was little or no mere human excitement, but the spirit of God wrought mightily for a few days.

We believe that the fruit of this meeting will be some gospel ministers and missionaries. Two of our girls are gone away already to study for this work.

Bro. Shellhammer and wife from Atlanta helped us in this meeting and preached able sermons.

We ask our friends and brethren to rejoice with us for the blessing of the Lord upon us, and pray for his continued presence with us.

P. L. DUKE, Pastor.

NEW CHURCH AT SEAGROVE

It was my pleasure to go to Seagrove last Sunday and to be with Rev. G. R. Underwood, who was asked by the Western North Carolina Conference to go there in the hope of interesting the people in a church. Before I reached the village I was stopped by John M. Yow, a brother of my good friend, W. H. Yow of Shiloh, who gave me supper and who went with me to the village for divine service. Brother Yow is in the mercantile business, has a good wife, three children and lives with his aged mother, who is a sister to Rev. H. A. Albright.

The place for services was in the public school building and I was surprised to find it filled with people, and I believe, anxious about a church. It was my pleasure to preach to them, and I never had better attention. At the close of the service it was announced that we would meet the following night and report the result of our canvass of the town, and probably organize a church.

We spent the night with Mr. D. A. Cornelison, who with his good wife made our stay so pleasant that we shall never forget them, and will be glad of an opportunity of visiting them again. Mrs. Cornelison, besides giving her name as a charter member of the church, gave us a list of the families in the town, and we spent the day calling at the homes and speaking concerning the church. Their friendship, their hospitality, and their desire for a church were manifested everywhere.

There are about thirty families in the town and they represent seven different religious denominations. They have no place of worship save the school building, and no preacher except the preacher who might be passing by. So strong has been the feeling that the town needs a church that several attempts have been made but proved unsuccessful. These unsuccessful attempts made it somewhat difficult for us, we thought. They expressed themselves favorably, but wanted to wait—possibly to see and be sure.

But by noon we were assured that a church could be organized. We took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cornelison, who, while not coming into the organization, assured us of their sympathy and support. Supper was taken with Dr. Johnson, who with his wife, assured us that they would come into the church later.

When the time for the meeting arrived, we found the school building nearly filled. The church was organized with eighteen charter members. Brother Underwood assured them of his services the coming year, and the trustees tendered the use of the building. They will have services on the fourth Sunday at night. It might be well to add that an option on a lot has been taken.

The church at Seagrove will give the good people of that place a good opportunity to unite their songs, their prayers, and their efforts in the salvation of the men and women, boys and girls of their town; and also their coming together will help answer the prayer of Jesus as recorded in the seventeenth chapter of John.

Moreover, this new church at Seagrove will give the W. N. C. C. an opportunity to help them in the speedy erection of a suitable church building. Look and listen, brethren, you are going to see and hear of Seagrove, and when you do, you will want to help.

My visit to Seagrove was so pleasant that I should like to mention all the homes we visited, but my letter would be too long. I cannot refrain, however, from mentioning Brother Henry Yow for his kindness and Brother Frank Cole, where we pleasantly spent the night, and laid some plans for the future.

T. E. WHITE.

—The Southern Railway announces that it has established for young men, born and bred in the South a "post graduate course in overalls with an assurance of a practical life opportunity to those who succeed." In this "course" the Southern announces its desire and willingness to take carefully selected young men, trained in the schools, and teach them railroading, paying a stipend all the while, from a section hand on up to supervisor of roads. This is progressive and means business in the right sort of way. Our right hand of fellowship to "the post-graduates in overalls." We would like a degree in the Southern's university of railroading.

—We are pained to have the following from our beloved Brother H. E. Rountree, Portsmouth, Va.: "I am suffering very much from my voice. It is out of tune and has been so for about seven or eight weeks. It responds to no treatment. My physician advises that the tendency is that I will lose it altogether if I do not stop using it till it is well again which means several weeks at least. This is very distressing to me as it is all I possess in the world. I believe, however, the Lord has called me to preach and I think He will restore my voice if I take care of it." We sincerely trust Bro. Rountree's voice will soon be restored as the work needs all his vast energy and consecrated zeal.

Hosea 11: 1-11

Golden Text—I drew them with cords of a man, with bonds of love. Hosea 11:4.

In the study of Hosea and his book we find that he is of a different temperament from Amos. The two men, Amos and Hosea, had about the same advantages of education.

Hosea grasped all the opportunities that came his way. He made good use of his time. He studied life from a different view point from that of Amos. He, undoubtedly was a layman and took his work in public, as the Divine Spirit led him.

This is a day of personal work. We get the inspiration from the pulpit; then it becomes our duty and privilege to go, like Hosea, and tell the people of God's great goodness and marvelous love. All through the book of Hosea we notice how the writer emphasizes the love of God for His chosen people.

Hosea began his prophecy about the time that Israel was falling from prosperity, which existed under the reign of Jeroboam II. These dark days made impressions on the prophet's life. Then, too, the trouble that Hosea had with his family was noticeable and had its influence.

Things come in our lives some times that make us consider long and think deeply.

One writer outlines the book of Hosea as teaching four principal ideals: 1. God is love. 2. God asks for love. 3. God will judge those who slight His love. 4. He shows us love triumphing over judgment.

"We can best understand the message of Hosea to the people of Israel when we realize that God has frequently typified his relation to His people under the symbol of marriage, which in its perfection expresses the deepest, holiest, most perfect love between two human beings. Thus in Isaiah 54:5 it is said, For thy Maker is thy husband, the Lord of hosts is his name. And in the last book of the Bible, Rev. 19: 7, 8, Let us rejoice and be exceeding glad for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. And it was given unto her that she should array herself in fine linen, bright and pure; for the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints. (A. M. R.) Hence for God's people to go after other gods, and to depart from God's laws, was like breaking the marriage vow."

The Reasonableness and Value of the Christian Endeavor Pledge.

(By Prof. F. F. Myrick.)

One of the most reasonable and valuable pledges that we have in print today for the Christian is the Christian Endeavor pledge. Some criticize it because, in their minds, it sticks too closely to the Christian idea of our attitude toward God in his goodness to us.

But if we stop and think for a moment of the promise which David made to God when he said, "I will abide in thy tabernacle forever: I will trust in the covenant of thy wings," we may rest assured that we are not doing any more for God in carrying out the Christian Endeavor pledge than David pledged to God as his wilful duty.

Why do we make promises, any how? First, because they are necessary. We have to make them in the business or social life, and therefore they are necessary in the religious life. Secondly, we make them for a definiteness of purpose and of life.

A pledge is nothing more than an earnest, deliberate promise wherever it may be made. So why is it any more unreasonable in the moral and religious life than it is a contract or a partnership agreement? When we confess Christ openly before men that is a pledge. When the boy leaves his mother for the first time to go to College and she asks him to promise her so and so and he says, "Indeed, mother, I will," that is his pledge.

The Christian Endeavor pledge emphasizes daily Bible reading, the prayer life, and wilful service on our part when the opportunity rightly affords it. If the opportunity is given and we are hindered, we are not held accountable, providing the excuse is a valid one. Who is he that cannot make an honest and earnest pledge like that?

This pledge has meant more to my life than any thing else could have meant. Since it was my privilege to sign it and place it near by for frequent reference, I have formed the habit of regular Bible reading and daily prayer, and worked out for myself a definiteness of purpose and of life. It sets a goal for which one strives to attain—a goal for a bigger, better and happier life.

REPORT OF W. M. BOARD

Of the North Carolina and Virginia Conference

Nov. 24, 1915, closed its third year's work.

We adopted as our goal financially for the year $300.00, of which we raised $236.90. Four new Societies were reported, but they were organized too late in the year to add to the financial shaving of the Board this year. We set as our goal for next year $500 and hope to work harder to reach it than in the past. As to organization, we set as our goal some form of society in every church—to this end we solieit the prayers and co-operation of all our pastors. We cannot hope to prosper unless the shepherds of the flocks are concerned for our cause. Is the time not near at hand when we women will exert our influence to have pastors called who will help advance the missionary work and really lead us to larger success?

Miss Annie Williams, the Field Secretary of the Woman's Board of the Southern Convention was present and organized a Society at Durham which we hope and believe will be a faithful working one.

The following officers for the Conference Board were elected: President, Mrs. W. A. Harper, Elon College, N. C.; Vice-President Mrs. Minnie F. Cook, Greensboro, N. C.; Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Pierce, News Ferry, Va.; Treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Clymer, Greensboro, N. C.; Superintendent of Young People, Miss Cora L. Foster, Semora, N. C.; Superintendent of Cradle Roll, Mrs. W. S. Daniel, Virginia, Va.; Superintendent of Literature and Mite Boxes, Mrs. W. P. Lawrence, Elon College, N. C.

Let us individually resolve to pray daily for our own work and the progress of the great mission cause throughout the world.

Mrs. W. A. HARPER., Pres.

OUR WORK AND WORKERS

Miss Williams, down in Porto Rico, is rejoicing over the conversion of her boys. She longs to see them all come to the Saviour. Pray daily with her to that end.

* * *

That was a splendid idea given us by the editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN to organize Missionary Reading Clubs. Two weeks could be given to the reading of a book, then passed on to the next on the list. Let us have many such clubs among our women.

The Week of Prayer for the coming year falls on January 4th-7th. A program is being prepared and every society is asked to observe the Week. The life and vitality of our work depend on our prayerfulness. In connection with the Week of Prayer, we are asked to make a Thank Offering to the Lord. This should be an expression of gratitude according to our ability. The money raised in this way is to be applied to the Building Fund.

* * *

The report from the women of the N. C. and Va. Conference shows that they are making progress and looking to better things. There is a great opportunity for development in this Conference.

Mrs. C. H. R.

REPORT OF MISS ANNIE WILLIAMS, FIELD SECRETARY

Nov. 1st to Nov. 12th

I have written eighteen letters; made five talks; visited eight churches; organized three W. M. S.; two Y. P. S.; placed Mite Boxes in two churches, and probably they will use them in the other church. I can see that there is greater interest than when I went into the work, but it is not what it should be. Something must be done for our country churches.

ANNIE WILLIAMS,
Field Secretary.

NOTICE

The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Handbook was sent November the 9th and should now be in the hands of the schools. They should have been out two months ago and would have been if the secretaries of the various conventions had sent their minutes in within ten days after the close of the conventions, which could be done. The delay in getting the minutes is a great handicap to many of our workers and should be avoided in the future. I think it would be advisable for every convention to instruct its secretary to prepare the minutes for the publisher within a limited time.

The Handbook shows the new basis upon which the General Convention is working. We hope it will meet the approval of the brotherhood and that we may have the loyal cooperation of every one in making the convention measure up to its opportunity for usefulness.

Receipts for the week 412.95

Dear friends: We are very grateful for the liberal offerings this week. This is the largest we have had for several months and we hope all the Thanksgiving offerings are not in yet, but that we may have this same large offering for several weeks. We are pleased to mention a few valuable material donations this week also. The good ladies of Liberty church, Nathalie, Va., last week sent us 23 gallons of canned fruit and 11 pounds of dried fruit. We desire to thank each lady who had part in this worthy deed. About the same time we received two boxes of canned fruit and other groceries from our friends of Lebanon, Se-mora, N. C., and we thank each of these contributors. We are very grateful also to the Salisbury Cotton Mills for two bolts of gingham; the Banks Holt Co. two bolts of cotton cashmere; White & Williamson Co., a bolt of gingham, and the Holt Granite Mfg. Co., for a box of samples. We wish to thank Mrs. W. T. Stokes for a coat and hat; Miss McCauley for a beautiful center piece, and for any others which might have been overlooked in the Thanksgiving rush. If at any time we fail to report any donation, in kind or money, we would thank you to let us know. Since the people have been so thankful and liberal we are also thankful to every one who has aided or may aid us.

Friends, remember that it is not long until Santa will be driving around to most of our homes and we certainly want him to come by the Orphanage and leave something for every child. Will not that Sunday school class of yours help Santa to leave us some little gifts for the children? There are lots of little necessities that our children would appreciate his leaving; such as towels, combs, handkerchiefs, hose, shirts, ties, ribbons, etc. We are badly in need of some table cloths for our six foot tables; that would be a good thing for some classes or individuals to send us Christmas. And of course any kind of groceries is always needed and appreciated. Our children

Line Against Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of tuberculosis:

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Geusen has seen a number of his patients improve. * The sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alternative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy, its healing power may be due to the way this element is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Eckman's Alternative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

do not expect toys whose worth is less in a day, but substantial necessities will be more appreciated. Now is the time to plan for these gifts.

We would be glad if all the Thanksgiving offerings could be sent in before January 1st, however, we want you to take the offering when you can get the most money for us regardless of date. We are far behind with many accounts and we would like to begin the new year with no indebtedness and pay all our bills promptly.

There are a great many Sunday schools that are not contributing monthly offerings at all. Will you not see to it that your school contributes something every month in the year of 1916? It is not the big things done that we do in life that count but the many little cause great results. Help us a little if not much. May God impress it upon you that this is your institution and it is your duty, privilege and pleasure to maintain it. We earnestly request the prayers and support of every member and friend of the church. "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and keep himself unspotted from the world." James 1:27.

OUR DEAD

Brown

Stella Marie Brown, daughter of John W. Brown of Kemp's Mill, died Aug 5th, in the hospital at High Point. She was in her nineteenth year, and her almost sudden death was a shock to the community. She professed faith in Christ at the age of thirteen, and lived a consistent Christian life. She was buried at Holly Springs and the church was not large enough to hold the people who came to attend her funeral. She leaves a father, a sister and brother who have the sympathy of many friends. T. E. WHITE.

Stephenson

William Burton Stephenson of Severn, N. C., oldest son of J. B. Stephenson and Nannie Clements Stephenson, was carried by the angels from his earthly home to Christ's kingdom in the better world, Nov. 7, 1915. Had he lived till his birthday in next April he would have been ten years old. His physician, the pastor of the Methodist church, friends and relatives who were with him in his last hours, said they never saw or heard anything like it. His suffering was fearful for days prior to his death; but a few hours before his departure God gave him strength and voice. He asked his father to read the Bible for him, and told him where to read; told them not to grieve after him; said he was going right to heaven; said Jesus and two angels were on the bed with him. When asked if he could see them, he said no, but "I can feel them." He was perfectly conscious; knew he would die and knew he was going to heaven. He leaves a father, mother, six brothers, two sisters, a grand father, grand mother, many relatives and friends to mourn their loss. His remains sleep in the cemetery at Severn. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Rose, pastor of the Methodist church. W. G. CLEMENTS.

Anderson

Sister Virginia A. Anderson was born Oct. 15, 1849, and died Oct. 24, 1915. She was a daughter of Rev. George Walker and sister of Rev. W. T. Walker, who at one time was editor of The Christian Sun. She was married to Z. L. Anderson on Feb. 14, 1865, a son of Rev. Albert G. Anderson, and of this union were born 9 children, 7 of whom survive her, 4 sons and three daughters. Sister Anderson professed religion when about 10 or 11 years old and united with the Concord Christian church and led an exemplary Christian life. She loved her church and when health permitted was a regular attendant upon its services. In the latter part of July she fell and was seriously injured and was carried to a Greensboro hospital. After suffering for nearly three months her spirit passed into rest and her remains were brought to Concord church and laid beside her dear husband. Funeral by the writer. A. F. ISELEY.

The Blue Marble Quarry of North Carolina

The quarrying and manufacture of marble has been one of the world's great industries since the dawn of civilization; it is a particularly important industry in North Carolina; for this state stands alone in the Southern production of blue marble, a highly prized marble quarry product. The Regal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., are the owners and operators of the quarries and their Regal Blue is famed for its beautiful permanent color and extreme durability; due to its very slight absorption of moisture. A finely equipped finishing plant, employing only native Southern workmen in all departments is an important adjunct to these well known quarries.

EXCHANGE YOUR OLD BODY FOR A NEW ONE

You can do it in three weeks and thereby renew your health. This article is written by a physician who has seen it demonstrated in numerous cases and explains how it is done.

Listen: If your weight is one hundred and thirty-three pounds your body contains eighty-three pounds of water, for, according to the standard medical books, the human body contains sixty-seven and one half per cent of water. Now disease is invariably caused by impurities which we call poison, and these are readily dissolved by the right kind of mineral water. Drink ten gallons (eighty pounds) of Shivar Mineral Water (use no other water for twenty-one days), and you will have exchanged your old body for a new one, so far as the soluble part of it is concerned. The impurities will be dissolved and pass away. If you suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney or liver disease, uric poisoning, or other conditions due to impure blood, accept Mr. Shivar's liberal offer, which appears below. Read the following letter carefully; then sign and mail it:

Shivar Spring,
Box 9-G, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Home

Chicago divorce statistics recently published show that 3,458 divorces were granted by the courts in that city the past year, and that about 2,000 suits for divorce were pending at the close of the year. Three-fourths of the applications for divorce were made by women and forty per cent were granted because of desertion. In 2,171 cases there were no children. Of the three divinely constituted institutions—home, church, state—the home is the base and foundation of the other two. Strike down the home and every sacred interest and institution falls with it. There can be no church growth, no national strength and prosperity unless the home is kept sacred and inviolate. "For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh." (Eph. 5:31.)

Born Blind

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, in illustrating the Christian conception of heaven tells the story of a boy who being born blind was brought to see by skilled physicians: "The doctor had cut away the obstruction from his eyes, and the bandages placed there were removed one by one until, after a little, they had all been taken off. When he opened his eyes, in silent wonder, as if a new world had been opened to him, he beheld his mother, and yet he did not know that it was she. Finally he heard her familiar voice asking him, 'My son, can you see?' He sprang into her arms, exclaiming, 'O mother is this heaven?' Heaven is vision; it is having the obstructions and bandages removed; it is looking into the face of our loved ones; it is seeing our Saviour face to face." This calls vividly to mind a declaration made in righteousness in the earth's early years: "I put on righteousness, and it clothed me; my judgment was as a robe and a diadem. I was eyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame." (Job 29: 14, 15.)

Christ's Last Words

Christ's last, and, as touching the gospel, His most important words were, not that the gospel should be kept under a bushel, or even preached for the sake of self-preservation, but that the gospel be preached in all nations. Dean Williams of the School of Journalism in the University of Missouri, recently observed that "When a church has kept the good news of the gospel to itself it has died. When it has given this news out it has conquered." Many of our Christian churches are now having a struggle to live, to preserve their own life. They have members and the members have money, but the churches do not grow. Of course they do not. They cannot. God cannot allow a non-missionary church to grow and keep His word. We offer here and now one sure and safe remedy for every struggling church in all our number: Increase the contributions to foreign missions ten or twenty fold, and the relief will surely come and the church will bound forward. We get by giving; we increase by dividing; we grow by going. "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." (Psa. 2:8.)

Felix Trembled

There is nothing that makes men fear and tremble like the overwhelming sense and consciousness of sin. We think our age has lost the spirit and temper of emotionalism under the steady advance of culture, refinement, and learning. Perhaps; but have we not also to a degree lost the sense of the awfulness, the hideousness, the ruin of sin? And when one is brought face to face with a realization of the enormity and the terrors of sin one still fears and trembles. Rev. Billy Sunday in now conducting an evangelistic campaign in the highly intellectual city of Syracuse, New York. When it was announced that he would preach the other night on Sin one of his assistants cautioned the ushers that they would better be on the look out during the service as Felix trembled under a sense of his own sin. The warning was timely says a New York exchange, for as Sunday "portrayed the horrid forms of human sin, and its consequence, the vast congregation was swept by powerful tides of emotion, and one man after another succumbed to the tension and swooned, until no less than thirteen had to be taken out and cared for by the ushers." Sin is hideous and horrible and when he who is guilty looks upon it in life size and full proportions he fears the consequence and desires the remedy. "And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come Felix trembled." (Acts 24:25.)

Co-laborers With God

Since when, and from whence, came the conception that the preacher and the saints in the sanctuary, are co-laborers together with God, but that the man busy on the marts of trade was a co-laborer with the world, the flesh and the devil? Did not such a conception come from pagan philosophy and Roman jurisprudence! It did not come as a teaching from the Scripture or as a lesson from the Christ. He who moves among dollars moves in a realm of spiritual, an intangible, an invisible force, the measure of value—value being purely a spiritual, an intangible, an invisible force. No man should make money his god; but every right thinking man will see God through the glorious gift and possession of his money. Any man who allows his vision of God to be obscured by his money is blind; for all money should be a shining mirror that reflects the face and favor of God. No man makes money; God made it all and through its spiritual force called value seeks to come in vital and glorious touch with the man who handles and possesses it. For man not to see, feel, recognize the goodness, the glory and the power of God in his money is for him to miss the very grandeur of of all creation, and blindfold himself to the goodness of God. "But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellence of the power may be of God, and not of us." (II Cor. 4:7.)

The Devil's Own

Dr. Lyman Abbott in the Outlook awhile ago wrote that the saloon has been weighed in the balances of American public opinion, had been found wanting, and unless the American people could reform the saloon they would abolish it. To which it may be added that the saloon can no more be reformed than satan himself can, and like satan, will resort to any sort of device to serve and accomplish its fiendish and pernicious purposes. Now that the saloons are being to a degree checked in this country they are seeking an outlet for their ruinous trade among the half-savages and low tribes of West Africa, thousands of whom American rum dealers are debauching and sending to premature graves. Nearly seven million gallons of liquor annually are being poured into West Africa, and the average each year is greatly increasing. The effects of liquor are far worse among uncivilized, or poorly civilized peoples, than among the civilized, and missionaries to West Africa, and to many other pagan countries now, are finding their most insidious foe to be, not the false gods and idol worship, but the rum brewer and liquor dealer of America and other "Christian countries." Recently a Gold Coast missionary went to the custom house to get a case of Bibles that had been shipped him for use among the Africans. The custom house officer told him he would have to wait until sixteen thousand cases of rum and gin had been unloaded from the ship before he could get to the Bibles. Truly no work of righteousness is ever undertaken but that satan becomes active to get in his insidious and ruinous work. The words of 2nd Peter 2:12 certainly apply to the saloon: "But these as natural brute beasts shall utterly perish in their corruption, and shall receive the rewards of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure to riot in the day time."

Oh, what a lesson from the cross of Christ to comfort us in the world today with its shame and sorrow, with its many millions of outcasts and friendless ones, with its crimes and wrongs, with publicans and sinners. Not one need be cast out of the kingdom, not one need fail to hear the gracious words if only he will from the depths of his wretchedness plead, "Lord, remember me."—Rev. Hermann Lilienthal.

Ging to Conferences, preparing minutes for the Annual and a multitude of other duties had prevented us till now from reading a book on Faith published by the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio. The author is Rev. Martyn Summerbell, D. D., Lakemont, N. Y., and the full title of the volume of 237 pages is "Faith for the College Man." But faith for the college man is faith for every man, and Dr. Summerbell has really given in this volume twelve chapters, full, fresh and forceful, or twelve sermons, pointed, practical and powerful, on Faith. Each chapter begins with a scripture quotation as text and treats faith leading to or developed by some great human or divine truth. For example, the first chapter treats of "Faith in Revelation," and is derived from the scriptural text, Exodus 3:5: "Draw not nigh hither: put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." In this chapter the author reveals in a marked manner the real and vital need of faith in revelation. "Why bow the head? Why bend the knee? Why loose the sandals? What need of the outward sign when the heart prostrates itself before God? Moses might worship in his heart. Is not that enough? No others are here. He is alone with God. Why ask more than that he feel reverential?" And yet more is asked. Moses is commanded to do more; put off the shoes from his feet. Why? Here is where faith gets in its work. Moses must show by act, deed, actual performance that he believed in a revelation which he now witnessed. It is not sufficient that we be reverential in our attitude to nature, to science, to philosophy. Nay, verily. We must have faith in revelation—in God's revelations to us. It has been many a day since we have read a more vital chapter in any book than this by Dr. Summerbell on Faith in Revelation. We are, it seems, losing faith in revealed facts and phenomena. The author calls us back to faith in the unusual, the superhuman, the supernatural, and shows that this is as vital as is faith in the natural. If there were no other chapter in the book than the first it would be worth ten fold the price of 75 cents charged for the whole volume.

But there are other chapters. And what chapters they are. "The Faith revealed in Christ," is one. What a faith, a sublime, trustful, holy faith. No man can read what Dr. Summerbell says on this topic without having his own faith made stronger, better, more vital.

"Faith the Guardian of Youth" is another chapter. How fresh, how vigorous, how virile! Take this paragraph of a picture sublimely simple and exquisitely painted, "God's love has been provident. So mothers cut out and stitch together little garments, singing at their labor, and sewing love into every seam. Surely not less was the love which planned the earth for man's residence and supplied it with gifts to meet his every want. I survey these wants and they seem endless, but the provision for their satisfaction more than keeps pace with the need. Before Adam set up house keeping in Eden the earth home was all swept and garnished. The whole establishment was furnished indoors and out, in earth and sea and air. In all the years of man's possession, whether many or few, this store of treasure has not been exhausted; for always as human wants increased new stores of bounty are developed and new proofs of the provident mercy of our Heavenly Father are displayed. The whole earth is filled with His glory." In an age like our own when men are requiring proofs, facts, figures for every thought and movement, Dr. Summerbell's treatise on faith is certainly timely, and must inevitably result in great good.

In this book a great scholar has employed his finest forms and figures of speech to portray for the reader his thoughts and meditations on one of the sublimest of all themes. The language is chaste, the logic is cogent and unanswerable, the treatment of every theme simple, profound, eloquent; and the spirit of the whole volume is uplifting and inspiring. To our mind Dr. Martyn Summerbell, one of the finest scholars of our day, has never done a better piece of work for his day and time than this volume on Faith. Here is wishing and predicting for it a wide reading and a permanent place in sermonic literature.

NEGRO POPULATION AND INCREASE

Some facts have recently been given the public about the negro race that are interesting. There are 121,000,000 negroes living in Africa; 27,000,000 in the American hemispheres and 2,000,000 in Asia. There were 500,000 in the negroes of the U. S. owned nothing, but were dened, 4,500,000 at the outbreak of the Civil War, and about 10,000,000 in 1914. In 1860 the United States owned nothing, but were owned. In 1875 they owned about 3,000,000 acres of land; in 1900 about 12,000,000 acres; in 1910 about 20,000,000. In 1910 their property in the U. S. was estimated at $300,000,000. This is no mean progress, and if property is a blessing then peoples have been blessed indeed. "Thou hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred and tongue, and people and nation." (Rev. 5:9.)

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—Do you wish a Bible of best print and binding? THE SUN office now has on sale a fine and valuable selection. A Bible is the best and most suitable Christmas present.

—The address of Rev. L. F. Johnson, D. D., is 1270 New York Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. Bro. Johnson is delighted with his new field of labor and is hopeful of great results. He has our best wishes for success.

—Peloubet's Select Notes for 1916 are now on sale at THE SUN office. Price delivered, if ordered before Jan. 1 $1.00. The publisher's price is $1.25. It is a great treatise on the Sunday school lesson.

—Rev. R. H. Peel has changed his address from Wakefield, Va., to So. Westerlo, N. Y., at which latter place Bro. Peel and family are now very pleasantly situated and the work there opens well and is one of promise.

—The Confederate Women's home, erected by the State of North Carolina for dependent women of Confederate soldiers was formally turned over to the State with appropriate and patriotic ceremonies Nov. 18. The home is at Fayetteville.

—Secretary of the Navy Daniels says that two 36,000 tons battleships are included in the first year's part of the five-year building program Congress will be asked to approve. There are no war ships afloat any where in the world as large as these.

—The brethren report a fine session of the Christian Missionary Association at Rosemount church, Norfolk county, last week—royal hospitality, over a thousand dollars paid in, and much enthusiasm. The Association meets next year at Berea (Nansemond.)

—One of the easiest financial problems a church has is to build a fit and suitable house to worship in. The problem is solved, and the cash is available once the people of a church get together, and all decide to co-operate in building a worthy and suitable house to the Lord.

—Our thanks are gratefully expressed for the following: "Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lafayette Smith invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Hattie Belle to Mr. Henry Osborne Dixon on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 22nd, 1915, at 5:30 o'clock, College Chapel, Elon College, N. C.

—A newspaper paragraph tells why they are having trouble with the earth breaking up and sliding into the Panama Canal: "It is caused by supersaturated soil slipping through unstable equilibrium to ultimate stability, transmitting the strain to weak underlying strata as it travels." About as we suspicioned.

—The Supreme Court of the State of Washington has rendered a decision that the State election of Nov., 1914, was valid and that every saloon and every brewery in that State will have to go out of business after Jan. 1, 1916. The great law applies in that State about as in North Carolina. Score another for prohibition and sobriety.

—Rev. C. E. Raper, a prominent and much beloved minister of the Methodist Protestant church, died in a Greensboro sanitarium Sunday a. m., Dec. 12. He had been a member of the North Carolina M. P. Conference 32 years and was 55 years of age at the time of his death. He was a useful man in the ministry and his death is widely lamented.

—The daily visits of our delightful friend, the Congressional Record, remind us of the fact that the legislative grind is again on at the national capital. Life is one grand sweet song with the rich and racy pages of the record to cheer and brighten it. Moreover its generous sheets furnish fine wrapping paper for mailing the weekly issue. Long live the Congressional Record.

—As noted in THE SUN previously, Rev. J. F. Morgan is now in charge of the Berkeley, Va., church. The address is 18 Hardy Ave., Berkeley, Norfolk, Va. "I am liking my new field splendidly," writes Bro. Morgan, "and the people are lovely to me, and seem to be very much interested in the work here. We are hoping that God may help us to be of some service to Him in this field."

—Our beloved and versatile brother, Rev. J. P. Barrett, D. D., Dayton, Ohio, announces that about Dec. 5 he will bring from the press a new book entitled "Garden Spots in the Old Testament." The book is to be illustrated, printed on good paper, neatly bound in cloth, and is to contain 14 chapters on interesting scenes, incidents and events of the Old Testament. The book is to sell for 50 cents the copy. Dr. Barrett besides editing the Herald of Gospel Liberty is a writer of many books, all of which find ready sale and wide readers.

—The Georgia legislature at its special session recently passed three prohibition bills which Gov. Harris approved with his signature and which become operative May 1, 1916. The first is that no beverage which contains more than one half of 1 per cent. alcohol shall be manufactured or sold within the State. The second forbids any advertising in papers, books or on bill boards or in any other way, of any spirituous liquors. The third provides that no person in the State shall receive for personal use by shipment more than two quarts of liquor within any 30 days' period.

"—One writer suggests that Christmas be celebrated on February 29. Others would favor December 32." We do not see why as "ugly" a suggestion as that should be printed in as nice a paper as the Charlotte Observer. We learned sometime since that a real optimist was one who could say at table "Please pass me the cream," when he knew he was to get nothing but skimmed milk. Which being so, a real pessimist must be the man who would ask that Christmas come once in four years, or not at all. Or was the Observer really trying to illustrate the mind and thought of a pessimist, without defining him? Its psychological editor is given to such tricks just to catch the unwary.

—Count on the great and good people of dear old Holy Neck church, Nansemond county, Va., always to do the best and noblest things. They are just moving into their new $8,000 church, and "they" say it is one of the very best and most modern and convenient country churches—inclined floor, furnace heat, heavy circular oak pews, five large Sunday school rooms (of which three can be thrown open so as to make a part of the main auditorium) and there are twenty beautiful memorial windows in the building. And all this has been done so readily, quickly and quietly that people outside the community hardly knew it was taking place. If there is a more devout, devoted, loyal, progressive people any where than those of Holy Neck we would not know where to find them. Our jovial and happy Bro. B. F. Black, pastor, is to be congratulated on his great and good work, as leader of this wide-awake people.

—Comes now by personal letter a line telling us that one William Reddick of Bennett Creek, Nansemond county, Va., passed out last week to the upper and better world. With this one drop of ink we would pay tribute to this man of honor, integrity, devotion to friends and duty, and faithful to church and to God. We called him Captain Reddick about the Lee farm, for he manned and piloted the Lee boats, and ordered his life well among the hundreds of other colored people of his associates and friends about the place. He could be trusted to live up to his word, and to render right account of himself and the others whom he had about him, in the absence of his employer as well as in his presence. For more than a quarter of a century he served his employer well, won that employer's great respect and confidence, and never once in all that time betrayed a trust committed to him. The editor has had many happy fishing days with him, and when his hand was at the helm or was plying the oars, felt perfectly safe, in calm or in tempest. We have eaten many a good meal of fresh fish, good corn pone and hot coffee prepared under his watchful eye and cleanly hand; and we sometimes conversed together, this faithful colored man and I, as friends and fishermen do, of that Leader of fishermen whose stately walk made blue Galilee a place of renown forever. And so, if it please God, William, the faithful captain of the trucker's boat and the fishing smack, and this unworthy scribe, whose daily occupation is to pen lines for reading and preach sermons for instruction, if it please God, I say, we shall meet again by and bye, if not on the waters of the Nansemond and the Chesapeake, then by the rivers of waters that flow alive and fresh through the city of our God. Till then, William, we shall not forget your honest heart and your willing hand.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The Berkley Christian church enjoyed the installation of her new pastor, Rev. Joseph Franklin Morgan last Sunday at 3:00 p. m.

The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. W. R. Flanagan, pastor of the Baptist church. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. W. Shaw, Presbyterian pastor. Sermon by Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., from Luke 1:33—"Of His kingdom there shall be no end." The closing prayer was offered by Rev. J. T. Routen of the Seamen's Bethel.

The charge to the pastor was delivered by Rev. H. E. Rountree, pastor of the Portsmouth church; to the church by Rev. Geo. D. Eastes, pastor of 3rd church, Norfolk.

The welcome on the part of the whole church community was delivered by Rev. E. T. Dammun, Methodist pastor; and the response by the new pastor Rev. J. F. Morgan, who also pronounced the benediction.

The church choir rendered the music in keeping with the occasion and the congregation was good for the snow covered streets.

The new pastor enters upon his work under auspicious conditions, and his former success in Graham prophesies a useful pastorate in Berkley.

The committee of TEN appointed by the late Eastern Virginia Christian Conference to lead in a new campaign among the laymen of the Conference held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building on Monday of this week and transacted the following business:

I. A. Luke of Holland was chosen chairman; E. E. Wagner of Exit, was chosen secretary; and it was decided to call a meeting of the committee appointed by the Conference, consisting of one layman from each local church in the Conference, in Suffolk, Virginia, on Thursday, January 27, 1916, at 11:00 a. m., as a preparation for their future work. It was also decided to ask all the pastors of this Conference to attend this meeting. Rev. Dr. W. H. Denison will deliver an address and others will speak, and literature will be distributed. The Great Men's Meeting in Richmond February 15, 16, 17, 1916, will be explained and the big committee will be urged to attend. After the meeting dinner will be enjoyed by the committee as a sort of banquet as a closing feature of the day.

It will be the duty of the chairman and secretary of the committee of TEN to make a great effort to get all the big committee of forty laymen and their pastors to the Suffolk meeting.

The object of this movement is a campaign of instruction in the line of activity among the laymen and to parallel the great work now being done by the women by organized service by the men of the church.

The Central Executive Committee of the Seaside Chautauqua also held a meeting and continued work on the program for the 1916 session. The work of that committee promises the completion of the program earlier than last year.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

"Winter at last" is on every lip. Saturday afternoon and night the beautiful snow came and carpeted the earth in glistening raiment. Nature is never lovelier than when dressed in white.

A letter from far-away Cuba, written by Dr. Carlos A. Martinez, bears this encouraging word: "Elon College is one of the best schools in the United States. I intend to send my brother there next year. I shall never forget Elon." The College constantly receives letters like this, but they cannot be published. Perhaps this one ought not to be. But then Dr. Martinez will not see it.

Brother D. M. Trollinger, father of Miss Grace, a Student Volunteer of the College, died Friday of last week. Dr. Wicker conducted the funeral. The sympathy of the entire College is extended.

President Foust of the Greensboro Normal, is an Elon man, having graduated from Graham Normal College, gave a splendid address Sunday afternoon on Teaching As A Life Work. Dr. Foust believes in his profession and so do all who heard him.

Elder Denny, Charlotte, N. C., a minister of the Primitive Baptist Church, preached two excellent sermons for us on Saturday evening and Sunday morning. His theme Saturday was Eternal Life and Sunday, Sin and Its Cure. His discourses were excellent and expressed very largely in scriptural language. Elder Denny is a man of deep devotional spirit and vital piety.

Evangelist Victor Lightbourne used a part of his vacation in bringing the second Sunday evangelistic message to the Christian Endeavor service. Mrs. Lightbourne assisted by her singing. Brother Lightbourne spoke of "Rest" from the Christian standpoint. He gave his own experience. He said he had during his ministry been sorely tried and but for the Master's rest, so graciously granted, he would have fallen. There was one profession.

The Huffman-Cantrell wedding was a most lovely affair on Thursday. The Chapel was beautiful and the ceremony tender and winning. Dr. Atkinson read the ceremony. A prenuptial reception was given at the Huffman home on Wednesday evening preceding and several showers in honor of the event had previously been given.

Mrs. H. D. Lambeth entertained last Friday in honor of Miss Hattie Belle Smith, who is on December 22 to be married to Mr. H. O. Dixon.

The Freshman English Class Debate on Friday night was excellent. The query was: "That All Higher Education Should Be of the Elon Type." Defending the purpose were Miss Gertrude Minniea, Indiana, Mr. W. C. King, North Carolina, and Mr. H. T. Floyd, Alabama. Opposing were Miss Frances Med Adams, North Carolina, Mr. M. W. Hook, New York, and Mr. H. S. Harcastle, Delaware. It is useless to announce the decision. It was already decided (?).

Examinations begin Wednesday. Elon is a real college these days. The pursuit of knowledge is popular and the College professor is in his glory. All the Faculty are extremely popular now. They ought to be all the time.

The College is looking forward with glad expectancy to welcoming Dr. Martyn Summerbell on Saturday, January 8. His lectures will treat of "Manhood in Its American Type." Mr. Charles J. Day, of New York City, is to accompany him.

Miss Pattie Preston, '15, visited the scenes of four happy years last week. It was a pleasure to greet her.
"X."

HOLLAND LETTER

The work moves on nicely. Holland church made a house to house canvass in October, and put the Duplex envelope in the hands of every member. Results so far are fine; bills for November are paid, the pastor over paid to date.

All of my churches (Holland, Holy Neck, and Damascus) have made an offering for the Orphanage.

We went to Conference with all bills paid, and a special offering besides, by Holland church.

December the 5th was a red letter day for Holy Neck. We left the hall and worshipped in the new church. Friends came from far and near. It is no hard matter to preach to a housefull of people who are comfortably seated and in the spirit of worship.

The new church at Holy Neck, reflects credit upon its members and the community. This good people and their friends put in twenty memorial windows at a cost of $50 per window. The circular pews are of the best, the furnace heat is a convenience and a joy indeed. You will have to come and see what $8,000.00 will do to an old church, to appreciate Holy Neck. Many are thinking of the Duplex envelope as a way to solve our everyday financial problem.

Damascus, (Gates, Co., N. C.), has a good people to serve. December 5th was my second trip there. A splendid offering was made for the Orphanage. They are thinking of the every member canvass. They think that to pay all bills the first of every month will be easier than to let them run, and have the same hard old pull at the end of the year. Too, they are planning now for the Conference call of $125.

The Sunday schools in the three churches are in a growing condition. Holy Neck is trying to get Bro. Lightbourne for a two weeks meeting in September 1916, first to third Sunday.

B. F. BLACK, Pastor.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

On Sunday morning, the twenty-eighth of November, the Young Men's Baraca class of the First Christian church of Greensboro, N. C., gave as their orphanage collection, $25.35. Should every Baraca and Philathea class in the Christian church in North Carolina do as well as did this class of the Greensboro church the orphanage would have all the money needed to carry on the great work which is being done at present, and with the help afforded by more such contributions as the above the work of caring for the motherless and fatherless ones of our great commonwealth would be greatly benefitted.

NEW YORK LETTER

To the dear friends down home and everywhere, greeting:

You will be pleased to know that I am pleasantly located with our new church in Brooklyn, N. Y. I am delighted with my new charge. The people have received us kindly and have done all they could to make us comfortable and happy. The church is composed of a membership deeply interested in spiritual things. The religious atmosphere is quite inviting. The spirit of the congregation is missionary. The outlook for growth and progress is very encouraging. The Lord has greatly blessed this people in their efforts to build up the church of Christ in this important section of the city. We are located in two blocks of the Nastrand New Subway, cor. New York Ave. and Ave. D. This is called the garden spot for homes. We hope to build a great congregation and church—one that will be a credit to our entire church, North and South. We desire the prayers of all of our church people in the interest of this new work and the pastor.

Two Different Effects

The quality of food is very largely determined by the ingredients in the baking powder with which it is made. Cream of tartar baking powders, such as Royal, add only healthful qualities to the food.

The cream of tartar of Royal Baking Powder as used in food has the same wholesome effect on the digestive system as the cream of tartar in grapes, from which it is derived.

On the other hand, it is in evidence that objectionable mineral residues exist in food made with alum or phosphate baking powders.

There is a clause on baking powder labels which names all the ingredients. Read it and let it guide you.

can Christian Convention, for next July's course on "The Minister." We anticipate that it will be no less valuable than those that have gone before. Can you afford to miss his series? Thirty-three of our ministers were present last year. We expect many more this year.

WINCHESTER REVIVAL

The revival services, conducted by Rev. Victor Lightbourne at the Winchester Christian church, for the past three weeks, closed December 5th. The weather was ideal, the congregations were good, the sermons were fine and there were twenty-nine decisions for Christ. The new members will be received next Sunday.

W. T. WALTERS.

I was worshipping in a chapel of one of the old world's cathedrals. It seemed at the evening hour as if our little shrine were isolated, from the world, but in the light of day we realized how it was but a part of a far grander temple which raised its mighty dome high above our heads into the very heavens. So the consecrated service of our daily lives will be seen at the last to be a part of the divine temple we are building for eternity.—Dean Tolman.

There is the greatest practical benefit in making a few failures in life. You learn that which is of inestimable importance—that there are a great many people in the world just as clever as you are; and you very soon will find out that patience and tenacity of purpose are worth more than twice their weight of cleverness.—Huxley.

VIRGINIA BEACH

Virginia Beach should be the rallying spot of our people for the week July 17-23. It is here that our young church workers should gather for summer conference. Here is the place for those who are coming to leadership in the church. Our young ministerial students should plan to make this a week and place of great value to their lives. Our Christian Biblical Institute theological students, Elon College students in biblical department, and those from our other schools should make every effort to attend. I recently heard George R. Stuart tell how ten young ministers were benefitted who spent one summer conference at Winona Lake. It will do the same thing to our young ministers then in preparation and those who are in the work already. He watched their work for the next year and in souls won to Christ and money raised and work developed it was gratifying. The associations are most delightful, and parents, churches, and Sunday schools should plan to have their young people present to get visions. We ask our ministers and ministerial students to make every effort to come this year, we ask our churches to help make it possible for them to come. The first year the course of lectures on "The Minister," by Dr. W. W. Staley was very fine. He set a standard high and valuable; last year Dr. W. G. Sargent followed with another course to the ministers and it took equal rank in value to every listener. We have secured Dr. F. G. Coffin, Albany, N. Y., President of the Ameri-

CHRISTMAS LESSON, DEC. 19

The Song of the Angels. Luke 2:1-20

Golden Text: The angel said unto them, Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people. Luke 2:10.

The time of this lesson was probably December 25, B. C. 5, and the place was at Bethlehem, about six miles south of Jerusalem.

The greatest event in the world's history was the coming of Jesus Christ into the world. His coming meant more to the world than any other thing that has happened since the beginning of history. There has been more joy given to the world from man to man on account of his coming than was ever hoped from any other source.

God was so good and thoughtful and merciful and loved the world so much that He gave His only begotten Son that we may not perish but have everlasting life. It was the greatest gift that God had to offer, it was the greatest that he could offer. This shows in reality how much God really loves His children.

The Christmas time (not Xmas time, we do not like to see the unknown quantity "X" stand for Christ) is the time of giving gifts. God our great Heavenly Father gave gifts and we like to enter into the spirit of the time and give gifts to loved ones and our friends. Let us see if we cannot make some of God's children happy by giving them tokens of our affection and thereby gaining ourselves as well as making them happy.

Of the time the Christ came and the manner in which He came the Peloubet's Notes says: He came at the best time, the time most completely fitted for accomplishing His mission of redemption from sin, in the whole history of the world.

EASY BREATHING A LUXURY

To persons afflicted with catarrh or severe head colds the difficulty of breathing is a great burden.

The defective aeration of the blood, through lack of contact between the air inhaled and the mucous membrane of the lungs, produces headaches, depression and lower health conditions, because the blood is not properly purified.

Under such conditions Mentholatum should be applied within the nostrils. Its aromatic oils penetrate to the membranes and tickle them to greater activity.

The secretions become more active, loosening the coagulations which cover the membranes, encouraging the clearing of the air passages.

Then comes the good fresh air in satisfying volume, direct to the membranes, purifying the blood.

Mentholatum is antiseptic and germicidal, encouraging the restoration of inflamed parts, and has proven very useful as well in relieving croup, sore throat and chapped skin.

"He came in the best possible way for his purpose.

"His personality, Immanuel, 'God with us,' son of God and of man, was the most completely, uniquely, adapted to the accomplishment of his mission, of all the men or angels that ever walked the earth—the Word of God, 'in Him was Life and the Life was the Light of men,' 'the true light,' and he dwelt among us full of grace and truth."

The world was never prepared better to receive the Savior than it was at the time of His birth. The people gave Him a gladsome welcome. Israel had been constantly at war with the surrounding nations. God had been merciful to them and in a great measure led them to think of Him as a God of mercy rather than a God of war. When the angels announced the birth of the Prince of Peace the shepherds were made to rejoice. This was God's greatest gift which met the world's greatest need.

C. E. TOPIC, DEC. 19

How the Prophecy of the Angel's Christmas Song May Come True. Luke 8:20.

We have again come to the Christmas tide under circumstances which we hoped last year we would not face this year—the war in the European countries. In this meeting the Peace unions should be discussed freely and the Christian Endeavor Union explained. Many hearts will go for the men in the trenches and many hearts will be lifted to God in prayer for the suffering lit- tles at home in the foreign lands who have been made fatherless. The story is a sad one. We can sit in the light of the hearth coals and praise God for the many blessings showered upon progressing America and her inmates, yet we think of those who do not have peace and plenty of which the angels sung on the night of the birth of the babe in Bethlehem.

The star was noticed by the watching shepherds and the angels told them that it meant Peace and Good Will to men.

The nations had been warring; they had lost their hold on God and His mercy. Israel was not joined to God as she should have been and the ties that held the people in close contact with one another were very far a part. They needed a Prince of Peace, they expected a Savior, they received Jesus. Oh, how we need the Prince of Peace in our whole world today. We American Christians have a duty that is larger than any that we have ever had in the history

WEEK OF PRAYER

We are giving you the program which has been prepared for our women to use during the Week of Prayer, January 4-7, 1915, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and we trust that all of our societies will observe the week. What a force, what a power, if all of our women would unite at the same hour, crying aloud unto God for the work he has committed unto us. "If two of you shall agree on earth concerning anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them by the Father."

When we begin to pray, we will begin to study and to learn of the work of our church, of our missionaries, of our mission field, and of our duty to the same. A human sympathy and interest will be engendered. No season of prayer will leave us indifferent towards the ones for whom we have prayed. Begin to prepare for this season of prayer, set aside for our women.

WEEK OF PRAYER—JAN. 4-7, 1916

Program

TUESDAY

Topic: Thanksgiving. Devotional: Psa. 69:1-7, Thanking God; 1 John 4:1-11, Blessings Passed On.

Prayer: For ourselves that we may be more fully consecrated.

Reading: "Mrs. Stanton's Thank-Offering," (Oct. C. M.)

WEDNESDAY

(For the Mid-Week Prayer Service.)

Topic: Layman's Missionary Campaign and the Warring Nations.

Devotional: Neh. 4:19-22, The Greatness of the Task; Rom. 12:3-8, Co-operation; Isaiah 2:2-5, The God of all Nations the God of Peace.

Poem: The Playground of Eu-of our nation. The facts are before us—nations trying to extinguish pure manhood and demoralizing noble womanhood by the awful conflict. We see the need of the presence of the Prince of Peace. Are we expecting Him to come? Do we want Him to come and are anxious enough to sacrifice some of our pleasure and give gifts—yes, we can't give as great a gift as the Father gave—but we can give some of our means to the bringing about of the lowly Jesus in the trenches, in the minds of the sovereigns and the trenches will be empty and people praising God for the gift of His Son to the world.

Let us not fail to learn all we can about the peace expedition and try to keep up with its success.

rope, the Prayer of the Nations, (Dec. C. M.)

Prayer: For World Peace; For Leaders in Church and State.

THURSDAY

Topic: Woman's Work. Devotional: Isaiah 55:10-13, The Life Giving Word; Gen. 12:3, Blessed to be a Blessing. Leaflet: Japans' Back Door. Gleanings: From the Annual Reports of Woman's Work in Dec. Christian Missionary.

Prayer: For the Women of our churches to be aroused; For our Work and Workers by name.

FRIDAY

Topic: Our Young People and Children.

Devotional: John 21:15-17, Undershepherds for Christ; John 15:13-16, Jesus, our Friend.

Prayer: For the Girls of all Nations, For Schools and Kindertens, For Volunteers, For Leaders for Children, For Consecration of Christian Girls to the Cause of Christ.

Reading: A Cluster of American Beauties.

Receipts for the week.....$ 454.28
Grand Total.....$4,468.14

Dear Friends:—
You see our receipts are very good again this week, and we wish to thank every contributor for his share of it. We have been blessed with material donations, too. Our loyal friends of Ingram, Va., sent us 31 half gallon cans of extra good fruit, and we desire to thank each and every one of these friends. The good ladies of Roberson, Ill. have just sent us a large box of little things that are so nice at this time of year, and we appreciate the love, interest and help from these distant friends. The children are now enjoying a barrel of good red apples sent by Mrs. Alice Morris, of Timber Ridge, Va. Mrs. R. I. Watkins, of Middleburg, N. C., sent us 48 quart cans of tomatoes for which we wish to thank her. We are very grateful to Mr. N. M. Pickett for 50 lbs of California peaches. We appreciate the gift of 11 quarts of fruit and 3 pecks of potatoes received from Mr. Duck. We greatly appreciate a little overcoat by Mrs. Charlie Hardon, also a box of merchandise from Mrs. Geo. Rahn, of Ill. The Reidsville ladies sent a beautiful quilt, which is of course especially appreciated at this time. Mr. C. F. Tate of Mebane N. C., sent us a large bucket of fancy pickles, and every child joins in thanks to him. We are very grateful to our former resident friend, Dr. S. A. Ware, for a receipted bill of $3.00.

This deep snow reminds us that the year of 1916 is near at hand with all its privileges and duties. Every member of the Christian Church is a stockholder in this Orphanage. It is not our Institution, but yours. The officers of the Institution cannot support it; but that end of the proposition is left to you. Many of the schools and churches have done well, some better, a few best; but there is a large number that have not done what they could do for us. Some who have promised to contribute regularly have neglected to keep that good and only right record up. A large number have not sent a single offering during the year; now it seems that every church could send to their Orphanage an offering, large or small, every month of the coming year without being burdensome to any one, but when the littles would come together our large indebtedness, at least, would grow no larger.

We appreciate what you have done and trust that you may be able and willing to do more for the orphan children of your church and State during the coming year. We hope that no church will fail to take the monthly offerings regularly. If every member of the church would give only a small amount each month to his Orphanage's support, we could accomplish great things for the church and Kingdom. Will you not do your best every month next year?

H. E. McPHERSON, Supt.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

A HEALING SPRING AT YOUR DOOR

Here is a very unusual and peculiar offer—one that you rarely meet with. It evidences the greatest faith on the part of its maker and inspires confidence. It is made by an earnest and enthusiastic man who not only thinks but knows from personal experience that he is right. He proposes to give you the equivalent of a three weeks' visit to a Mineral Spring of most remarkable restorative powers and make no charge if you are not benefited. His offer has been accepted by several thousands of sufferers in all parts of the U. S. and his records show that only two in a hundred, on the average report no benefit.

If you suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney, bladder or liver disease, uric acid poisoning, or other condition caused by impure blood, take Mr. Shivar at his word and sign and mail the following letter:

Shivar Spring,
Box 9H, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

What Causes Tuberculosis

In the opinion of many medical authorities, tuberculosis is aided, if not actually caused, by a loss of lime from the system. "Where there is a decalcification, the lime salts must be supplied medicinally," says Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, in the May, 1913, issue of "Medical Progress."

To supply these salts often is difficult, since in some forms they are not easily assimilable. In Eckman's Alternative, however, calcium (lime) is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be assimilated by the average person, and to this, in part, is due its success.

We make no boastful claims, but many cases of tuberculosis apparently have yielded to it. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

OUR DEAD

Self

Mrs. Francis Self was born August 4, 1829 and died November 20, 1915. She was 86 years, 3 months and 16 days old. She was twice married, first to T. H. Paris; and last to J. R. Self who survives her. There is only one living daughter.

For thirty-five years Mrs. Self was a devout member of the Mt. Carmel Methodist church. She was a devoted wife, a loving, thoughtful mother, and an agreeable neighbor. The burial was at Belevs Creek.

R. F. BROWN.

Lawrence

Capt. Jonas Lawrence died at his residence, South Quay, Va., Nov. 10, in the 85th year of his age.

Capt. Lawrence had lived at South Quay since 1855, at which time he was married to Miss Virginia Lee also of Nansemond county. Twelve children were born of this union, seven of whom are living.

At the beginning of the War between the States he was elected Captain of a company known as the South Quay Guards, or Co. K., 72nd Regiment. He served in this capacity during the first years of the war, but resigning afterward, he rendered efficient service to the Confederacy in furnishing supplies and information to the soldiers.

After the war he engaged for several years in the turpentine business in South Carolina. He afterwards devoted himself to mercantile pursuits and to farming. During his latter years he retired from active business life and spent his time in congenial employments on the farm.

He was a typical Southern gentleman, of the old school, his latch string always hung out and his home was always overflowing with profuse hospitality, and the stranger as well as the friend was always welcome at his bounteous board.

He leaves the following members of his immediate family: five sons, namely W. J. Lawrence of Gates Co., N. C., T. J. and A. R. Lawrence of Washington, D. C., Dr. J. H. Lawrence of McBee, S. C., and J. E. Lawrence of Nansemond Co.; two daughters, Mrs. S. E. Holland and Mrs. W. A. Jones of South Quay; one half-brother, H. J. Lawrence of Nansemond Co., and two half-sisters, Mrs. Pattie Jones of Franklin and Mrs. J. T. Rawls of Florida.

Capt. Lawrence was the oldest representative of the descendants of John Lawrence, one of three brothers who came to Virginia shortly after the founding of the Jamestown colony. He brought with him grants from the English crown to the land along the Blackwater River upon which he settled.

Since 1635 this land has been occupied continuously by members of the Lawrence family.

The funeral was conducted from his house, conducted by Rev. C. H. Rowland, assisted by Dr. W. W. Staley of Suffolk, Rev. B. F. Black of Holland, and T. G. Lowe of Gates, N. C.

Resolutions of Respect of Caswell Lodge No. 539 A. F. & A. M.

Resolved 1st, That God in his wisdom has seen fit to take from among us our dear beloved brother, T. W. Strowd, who was a faithful member among us and his presence always brought gladness and joy to our gatherings. He wept with us in our sorrows and rejoiced with us in our joys.

2nd, That in his death there is a broken column among us and that we may weep as a beautiful virgin over the temporary resting place of the illustrious dead but God Almighty has given us faith in the immortality of the soul.

3rd, That we are all born to die. We follow our friends to the grave; we feel our own feet sliding and we will be swept 'neath death's awful wave, but in this the end of man, No, blessed be God, He bids us turn our eyes with faith and confidence upon the opening scenes of eternity.

4th, That we have lost the friendship and love and companionship of our dear brother but in our loss he has gained and that we bow in humble submission to the will of our Creator who doeth all things well.

5th, That we extend our sympathy and love and respect to our dear brothers companion and relatives.

6th, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved companion and a copy spread upon our minutes and also one sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

Bridger

At her home near Antioch Christian Church, Isle of Wight Co., Va., on October 4th, 1915 Mrs. Martha Ann Bridger, widow of the late Washington Bridger, aged 79 years and 20 days. She was one of the oldest and best members of Antioch Christian Church. She was truly a good Christian mother and will be greatly missed in her home community and church. She leaves four children: Mr. J. H. W. Bridger, of Zuni, Va., Mrs. Mary E. Eure of Gates Co., N. C., Mrs. Ballie N. Pierce of Isle of Wight Co., Va., and Mrs. Mattie Boyett of Isle of Wight Co., Va., 15 grandchildren and many friends. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor at her church and her remains were laid to rest at her home in the old family burying ground. God bless the dear bereaved ones. H. H. B.

NO. 50

"IN ESSENTIALS UNITY, IN NON-ESSENTIALS LIBERTY, IN ALL THINGS CHARITY."

OUR PRINCIPLES.

- (1.) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the church.
- (2.) Christian is a sufficient name for the church.
- (3.) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4.) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of church membership.
- (5.) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

Bethlehem

*O little Town of Bethlehem!
How still we see thee lie;
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee to-night.*

*For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King
And peace to men on earth.*
—Christmas Chimes.

Peace

The Church Peace Union, of which Bishop Greer of New York is President, and Dr. Frederick Lynch is Secretary, is unqualifiedly opposed to the present demand for increased armaments and recently adopted the following: "Whereas it is the duty of God-fearing men to increase in the world the stock of good will, and to devise means by which the recurrence of the present world tragedy may be rendered impossible, Therefore, be it Resolved that we ask all pastors and teachers and other religious leaders to bend their minds to the great task of creating and fostering a deeper spirit of racial sympathy and international good will and of exalting in men's hearts the divine ideals of human brotherhood, And be it Resolved, that we appeal to the American people to withstand the present demand for increased armament for the United States. We are already spending each year the enormous sum of $250,000,000 on the army and navy and if neither of these is now efficient we would ask that Congress discover how the money of the people may be more effectively expended." One wonders what is becoming of that enormous annual expenditure, if it is not making army or navy efficient. The more a nation prepares for war, the more likely is that nation to have war. "He that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints." (Rev. 13:10.)

"Fighting Men First"

The deplorable war with all its direful tragedies brings out some gleams of gold that compel the heart to take new wonder at the wealth and riches of our human kind. An English ship was transporting soldiers and a bevy of nurses to the front when a sudden a German torpedo got in its deadly work and the ship went down. As she was sinking, life boats were lowered and the women nurses were told to get aboard. They refused, saying "Fighting men first," and while the soldiers went into the life boats the brave nurses went down to watery graves. "The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment." (Luke 12:23.)

Exceeding Abundance

The finite mind cannot grasp the magnitude of the crops grown and harvested in the United States this year. No mind can comprehend a billion; and to say that our crop yielded more than a billion bushels of wheat simply staggers the imagination and blunts the mind with a dull sense of bigness. To say nothing of the crops consumed at home by those growing them, those marketed make more than 150,000,000 tons of freight—enough to fill a freight train that would reach twice round the world. America has never had such a bountiful year as 1915, in the abundance of those things that go to feed the eater and clothe the wearer. And yet there never was such a greed for gain and a scramble for more as there are today. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver; nor he that loveth abundance with increase." (Ecc. 5:10.)

Applying Our Energy

We are told by many wise ones that each has sufficient energy to carry one to the high places, if it is only applied right. I found this plain and striking paragraph from the pen of Dr. Martyn Summerbell: "There will certainly be activity of some kind. These energies of ours must be employed, if not for Christ, then they will be for some other. If they are not occupied in the duties of devotion, they will flow out in the gaities of worldly occupations and diversions. If they are not engaged in the Sabbath school, they will be manifested in social visitations and recreations. If they are not concerned with the exercises of religion they will be heard from in the club, the pool-room, or on the street corner where loafers congregate. Building for God, then, is not so much increase of exertion as it is a better application of energy." Paul taught the same: "For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not." (II Cor. 8:12.)

Information Worth While

There is today no more weighty or important or interesting question than that of world-wide evangelization—missions. And yet many people who inform themselves on unimportant questions take little pains to become advised on this the best and greatest of all questions now. The Laymen's Missionary Movement sends out a question that should concern every CHRISTIAN SUN reader. It is this: How can I keep informed about missions? Here are some answers to which others may be added: 1. By spending some money on my own missionary education. (How much has it cost thus far?) 2. By reading missionary books and magazines. (How many have I read this year?) 3. By joining a missionary discussion group. (Is there one in my church?) 4. By attending missionary conventions. (How many have I attended?) 5. By contact with missionaries. (How many do I know?) 6. By acting on what I know now. (Am I doing this?) 7. By passing on what I learn. (How much have others learned through me?) Any one who cares to heed Paul's teaching will not pass these questions by without consideration. "Covet earnestly the best gift." (I Cor. 12:31.)

A Part of Worship

It may be possible for a person, who withhold his means from the kingdom to worship God; but it is exceedingly doubtful if one does. Words are cheap and cost little energy or effort. Therefore when we give God the words of our mouths, and keep for our own or our family's use our hard earned dollars we give God that which is cheap and keep for ourselves that which is dear. And God must have first place, or He will have none. "You cannot eliminate the spirit of giving," declares J. Campbell White, "without eliminating Christianity itself. It is a crime for the head of the family to do all the giving. It is a part of each person's worship and life." If we worship God in spirit and in reality on the Sabbath we will certainly carry with us to the sanctuary as an offering a part of that into which we have put the energy, effort and strength of the six days preceding the Sabbath. It is just as essential to Christian living and enjoyment for us to labor six days in the week to earn something to give as it is for us to rest and worship on the Sabbath. He who with his heart would approach the altar must carry to that altar an offering of that on which his heart and his affections are and have been much set. "And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house; and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee." (Gen. 28:22.)

—To encourage employees to be courteous in all their dealings with the public, the management of Southern Railway is asking that reports of examples of courteous acts on the part of employees be made to it. With this in view the following has been printed on the menu cards in some of the Southern Railway dining cars: "The management of Southern Railway expects its employees to distinguish their service to the public by courtesy and requests the traveling public to report examples of successful service so that the employees may be encouraged by appreciation of their efforts." Come to think of it, why should we not give more heed to reporting courteous and the agreeable and less to that of reporting the disagreeable?

WHEN CHRISTMAS BEGAN

About that time an edict was issued by the Emperor Augustus that a census should be taken of the whole (Roman) Empire. (This was the first census taken while Quirinius was Governor of Syria.) And every one went to his own town to be registered. Among others Joseph went up from the town of Nazareth in Galilee to Bethlehem, the town of David, in Judaea—to be registered with Mary, his betrothed wife, who was about to become a mother. While they were there her time came, and she gave birth to her first child, a son. And because there was no room for them in the inn, she swathed him round and laid him in a manger.

In that same country-side were shepherds out in the open fields, watching their flocks that night, when an angel of the Lord suddenly stood by them, and the Glory of the Lord shone around them; and they were seized with fear. "Have no fear," the angel said. "For I bring you good news of a great joy in store for all the nation. This day there has been born to you, in the town of David, a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this shall be the sign for you. You shall find the infant swathed, and lying in a manger."

Then suddenly there appeared with the angel a multitude of the heavenly Host, praising God, and singing,—

"Glory to God on high,

And on earth peace among men in whom he finds pleasure."

Now, when the angels had left them and gone back to heaven, the shepherds said one to another: "Let us go at once to Bethlehem, and see this thing that has happened, of which the Lord has told us."

So they went quickly, and found Mary and Joseph, and the infant lying in a manger; and, when they saw it, they told of all that had been said to them about this child. All who heard the shepherds were astonished at their story, while Mary treasured up all that they said, and dwelt upon it in her thoughts. And the shepherds went back, giving glory and praise to God for all that they had heard and seen, as it had been told them." (Luke 2:1-29. The Twentieth Century New Testament.)

ONE YEAR OF EVANGELISM

The editor fell to wondering the other day as to what one man could accomplish for Christ and the kingdom within the range of one year—provided that man lay himself on the altar and, by the grace and favor of God, go after results. Then the writer recalled that just a year ago Evangelist Victor Lightbourne left his home at Elon College to labor with one church after another, as strength and engagements would permit, for the winning of souls. Pro. Lightbourne was appealed to and furnished us the following facts: During the year now closing he had held evangelistic campaigns at the following places and churches: Le Grand, Fergusson and Truro, Iowa; Oranoke, Kansas; Newton, Ill.; Waverly, Suffolk, Pleasant Grove, Spring Hill, Berea, (Nansmond) Dendron, Liberty Spring, Holland and Winchester in Virginia; Graham, Mebane, Ether, Union Ridge and Spray, in North Carolina, Dover, Del., and Conshohocken, Pa. At these meetings, as nearly as could be told, there were sixteen hundred converts, four thousand five hundred reconsecrations and five hundred joined churches of the Christians—many joined other churches, but the evangelist had no way of learning how many. In addition there were three special meetings for children in which fully 600 children took a stand for Christ. In these meetings a wide area was covered and a spirit of co-operation was established between the various churches. Thousands of Christians, under the inspiration of this man's preaching were led to a deeper spiritual life and renewed energy for the Master's cause.

But facts, however startling and gratifying, hardly begin to tell the worth and influence of such a year's service. Bro. Lightbourne did not suggest or volunteer these facts or figures; we solicited them from him for our own satisfaction and inspiration.

Who can begin to estimate the real worth of such a year's work? souls redeemed, homes reunited, loved ones brought back together, long severed friendships restored, consciences seared with sin aroused to quick and keen activity, lives lost in deep trespasses and iniquities brought back again!

Such a man going in and out amongst us is of inestimable worth and value to our Christian cause and brings inspiration to every one who comes in contact with it.

By every legitimate device all of us should follow this man with our prayers and assist him to go forward in his, and our, great work. It shows what can be done amongst us. And this, we trust, is but an earnest of what we may hope for and expect in the years to come. Evangelism is a most worthy work amongst us, and one that should be sustained by united prayer and encouraged by enthusiastic and united endeavor. God bless Evangelist Victor Lightbourne and his good wife for the wonderful work of 1915 and use them for even a more glorious work during 1916.

WE ACCEPT THE INVITATION

The publicity department of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association sends us a copy of an article "published in the current issue of the Unpopular Review" and feels sure our readers will be interested in "any editorial comments that you may make" and that "we will appreciate the favor of a copy of your paper containing anything that you may publish concerning the article." We feel disposed to accommodate said National Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association, 301 United Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The issue raised in the article in question is "Whether the Preacher and Priest shall give way to the Policeman as an agency for inculcating moral principles, and whether religious training is of more importance in the development of moral character, than laws intended to protect the individual against the consequences of his own weakness and his own folly." In reply he it said that the prohibition movement has never sought to substitute policeman for preacher; but has sought and does ever more seek to make the policeman's task easy by inculcating moral principles into those about him, whereas the saloon seeks and has sought to make his task difficult and dangerous by making fiends and demons of those who but for the saloon would be sober, law-abiding and industrious. There is no agency on earth that has done so much to make the policeman's life hard, difficult and dangerous as the saloon.

But to quote further: "It is claimed by the prohibitionists that they represent the united religious sentiment of the country," which "is not the case. Only fifteen per cent of the population of the country is identified with the churches which are alleged to have endorsed prohibition, the great Roman Catholic church, the Protestant Episcopal church, and the Jewish congregations, not to mention many minor religious bodies, having failed to approve of the attempt to establish temperance by law." In reply to which he it said that if fifteen per cent of the population have closed up saloons in over half the territory of the United States, what shall we expect when the whole church population speak out in this matter as Christians everywhere are beginning to do?

But of all the absurd, brazen faced utterances we can conceive of this of the Wholesale Liquor Dealers attempting to tell the churches of America what they should not do is the limit. This Association, with all its allied interests and industries, has proven itself the most ruinous monster that ever sought to do hurt and harm to home, to church and to State. What it seeks is debauchery, drunkenness, wrecked homes, ruined fortunes and undone lives. The very mouth-piece of Satan, it would seek to tell church people what is right and wrong, what they should or should not do. Now that its nefarious business has been weighed in the balances and found wanting, and that the moral sense of a nation has been awakened so as to threaten, and we trust destroy, this demon of death and of ruin, it begins to cry out, like a howling fiend driven to its lair, to the church and church people to save it! Poor, pitiable abomination! A few more years at longest and we trust and pray that your ilk, kith and kin will be wiped off the earth forever.

Since it will be a pleasure appreciated for us to send you a marked copy of our paper containing references to your letter and its enclosure, we shall take pleasure in doing so.

A STANDARD MISSIONARY CHURCH

The Laymen's Missionary Movement which has come to be a mighty factor in missions throughout all our country gives the following as the chief features of a standard missionary church:

1. A missionary pastor.
 2. A missionary committee.
 3. A missionary Sunday-school.
 4. Systematic missionary education, including: (a) Regular missionary meetings, (b) The use of missionary literature, (c) Organized mission study classes.
 5. A program of prayer for missions.
 6. An annual every-member canvass for missions.
 7. The weekly offering for missions.
- We wonder how many of our Christian churches, on this basis, can be counted "standard missionary churches?" Not many we fear. And yet we shall not come into our own until we measure up to this or a similar standard.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

—A joyous and wholesome Christmas to all SUN readers.

—There will be no issue of THE CHRISTIAN SUN next week.

—The next issue of THE CHRISTIAN SUN will be that of January 5th, 1916.

—Italy now has two million men engaged in the war against Austria and is preparing to put in another million.

—The event of this week's SUN is Dr. Staley's "Suffolk Letter," which is classic. Evidently the spirit of youth and vigor seized this man's pen as he wrote of the glad Christmas time. It is like a rest in a weary land to read an utterance like that. Suffolk Letter all the year has been good; but this week's is the good and grand climax.

—President Woodrow Wilson was married to Mrs. Norman Galt at the latter's home in Washington, D. C., Saturday, Dec. 18, at 8:30 p. m. It was a quiet home marriage, only members of the immediate family being present. The distinguished couple, attended by the best wishes of a hundred million people are spending their honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va., President and Mrs. Wilson both being Virginians by birth.

—Rev. J. W. Wellons, D. D., our venerable and beloved Uncle Wellons known by thousands and loved wherever known will turn his ninety-ninth mile stone on Jan. 1, 1916. Why not hundreds of his friends of THE CHRISTIAN SUN family write him a line for that good day? Let's give him a "letter shower" and let him know that his ninety years have been well spent, and that there are loved ones to cheer and gladden him, and make the days bright for him. What a life of blessedness, of service, of inspiring example has been his. There are thousands now living whose lives have been made better and richer by him. While he tarries with us let us make him feel that his efforts have not been in vain. Write your card or letter so as to reach him on or about Jan. 1.

THE MISSIONARY SITUATION

After one sits in two annual meetings of the Mission Board he begins to appreciate in a new way the tremendous task that confronts the Board in its work. The Board must endeavor to take care of the mission fields that they are already supporting. This is no small task when you take into consideration the fact that the growth of missions naturally call for larger outlays of money and men. The growing business calls for the larger expenditures of money. We are glad to say our mission work is growing, though we are having a hard struggle to take care of its growth in an adequate way.

The giant proposition that confronts the Mission Board in all of its meetings is that of adequate funds with which to do the work that must be done. I use the word must because one feels when sitting with the Board that the work cannot be neglected or hampered for the want of a few hundred dollars. The demands are so great and so urgent it looks like a shame not to be able to say to our missionaries push the work as rapidly as possible and we will stand back of you with the ready cash to pay the bills. This is what every business board would say to its men in charge of its affairs. Why is it that those in charge of the affairs of the King's business cannot say the same to the men out on the firing-line? Have Christians less zeal than the cold calculating business men of our times? Have we forgotten that the greatest business that can claim the attention of men is the publishing of the gospel unto the ends of the earth? How may we have caught the proper vision of this great business? How many of us have the missionary business of the Christian church upon our hearts and are bearing it up to the Throne of God in our prayers from day to day.

One of the greatest needs of our missionary situation today is a larger number of intercessors—a greatly increased volume of prayer for the cause, for the workers, for the means and for the boards and the secretaries. We need to have more of our people using the prayer room for the cause, more of them meeting in groups and gathering in conferences for intercession. God has His hand upon the heart of the Christian church and is urging her to ask of Him largely that He may have the opportunity to give unto her according to the purpose of His great heart? God is waiting for us to ask. Our prayers will furnish Him His opportunity to come to the rank and file of our brotherhood and awaken them to a new sense of their obligation to Him and to their fellow men. How much longer will we keep God waiting? How much longer will we continue to do small things for the cause that is so dear to the heart of our Lord and Master? We gave only about $30,000 to both home and foreign missions last year. This is hardly one third of what we ought to be doing and could do with great ease provided we had the mission work of our church upon our hearts to a larger extent. It is up to the interested ones among us to pray our mission work upon the hearts of the disinterested ones. By this means we shall win quickest and most surely. We need intercessors. Will you become one?

J. W. HARRELL.

SUFFOLK LETTER

The birth of Jesus was the most important epoch in human history. It changed the tide of time and the current of human events. It changed the calendar of the world, and gave the world a new estimate of childhood. Motherhood was clothed with a new beauty and came into the art-world with a new significance. The "Madonna and Child" placed maternity and infancy in the art galleries of the world, and in the libraries and stores of centuries. The spiritual and the material united in a fashion before unknown, and womanhood and childhood came out of obscurity into domestic and historic renown. From that night till this day women and children have been filling the thought and affection of mankind. The home, the school, and the church are brightened and strengthened by their presence and activities. The manger was transformed into a piece of art. The Inn lost an opportunity, as many a home has since, by not making room for Jesus.

As the season changes the forests into a thousand hews of beauty, so Jesus has changed the thought, love, and hope of the human race. Wherever His name is known His birth is remembered by gifts and good will. Christmas, as a date, may be unknown; but the historic fact, honored by its celebration, pictures to the imagination scenes almost too sacred for pen and ink. The archangel announcement, the welcome of the angelic choir, the visit of humble shepherds, and the worship of the wise men, give us some idea of the importance of a new born babe. Heaven and earth are both interested in the little one, though the birth may be humble and obscure. Jesus could not help loving children, for He knew what it was to be a child. He could not help loving mother, because He had a sweet mother Himself. He could not help loving the poor, for He felt the sting of poverty Himself. He could not help loving the world, for His feet pressed its rocks and its grass. He inspired the gifts and songs of the world. All the toys and pictures, the books and horns, the dolls and balls, the sweets and the loves, come from Him. He put rockers on the cradles and bells in the nurseries, and sweet songs in mothers' souls. Yes, He decorated the store windows, and fills the stores with decorations for busy shoppers and happy merchants; and lights the fires of the winter nights, when Christmas comes. His temple is no dark chamber with clammy air; it is a bright warm house with joyful songs and happy hearts.

There is a Santa Claus and His best name is Jesus, and He was born in Bethlehem of Judea. He touched the heart of man with a new impulse and that impulse has been growing ever since that holy night. Twenty million of children in this land of peace will dream of Santa next Friday night, and look for his presents next Saturday morning. I hear their feet on the carpet of the rich and the cold floor of the poor; but above those chubby feet are warm and happy hearts and voices that fill the air with gladness. Age trembles with a new emotion, and human strength in men and women becomes as tender as childhood. It is Christmas! No saloon in a third of the States of this Union! A new Christmas is coming when new stockings will be full in what is now a drunkard's home; and a saloonless nation will be happy on a new Christmas morn! "On earth peace, good will toward men." Yes, some day war will cease and the world will enjoy a Christmas in peace. W. W. STALEY.

ELON COLLEGE NOTES

"What a splendid day we had" was the common expression around the campus yesterday (Sunday.) The Sunday school was largely attended and the closing exercises enlivened by special Christmas music by the Junior and College choirs. The ventilation of the chapel had been re-arranged and the weather was ideal—a fitting close to the devotional life of the excellent fall term!

Prof. Oscar Randolph led the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon most acceptably. The impression continues to grow that the College secured in him not only a first-rate scholar, but also a man of vigorous Christian life. Not every man can succeed as a College professor. It takes more than scholarship. Character is an invaluable asset and culture of the noblest type. The Elon Faculty has always measured up to these high requirements.

The College community welcomes to its citizenry Rev. and Mrs. N. G. Bethea and family. Brother Bethea becomes Field Secretary of the M. P. church in this State, with residence here. He is a man of marked ability and of sweet Christian spirit. Any community would gladly welcome such citizens.

Rev. R. H. Peel writes that he is comfortably situated in 30 inches of snow, with the thermometer standing at 40 degrees, in South Westerlo, N. Y. It takes a man of Brother Peel's magnitude some time to get cold. Alma Mater rejoices to lend him—mark the words—for a time to the New York brethren.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Liberty, N. C., were guests at Mrs. Amick's for the week end.

All the Elon family will wish Mrs. S. C. Leary, Suffolk, Va., well. They knew her as Miss Fannie Brothers.

Mr. Joseph McNally, recently of Mexico, now of Richmond, Va., visited his brother, Mr. J. R. McNally last week.

The primary, junior and intermediate grades of the Sunday-school will give an entertainment Friday evening. A treat to them will follow.

Miss Hattie Belle Smith and Mr. H. O. Dixon will be married Wednesday afternoon in the College chapel.

The Christmas vacation begins on the 24th and concludes January 5th. May every student and all our friends enjoy a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. "X."

NEWPORT NEWS LETTER

Our work with this field began November the first. The first week in Eastern Virginia was spent with the 3rd church Norfolk at the Conference which was in every respect helpful, uplifting and filled with inspiration for better and more efficient service for the Master. I doubt if one could find a more congenial set of men and women than those of the Eastern Va. Conference.

On our return we began planning for a revival which began on the second Sunday night and closed with the evening services yesterday (Sunday). In many respects this was one of the best meetings I have attended for quite a time. Having no ministerial help I called upon the church to take the responsibility and they responded with the "Here am I, send me" spirit. It would remind us of a house to house canvass when men and women were going from place to place doing work for the Master. Have never had better helpers in a meeting than the church folks here. As a result of the meeting, the church is revived and though we do not know just what has been accomplished on the outside, thirty-one have united with the church so far, and others have given their names, which in round numbers will make about forty additions since I came on the work Nov 1st.

I find the work altogether different from what I had expected. The better acquainted I become with the people the better I like the work. They are congenial, hospitable and very kind to me, as well as having a desire to see the work go forward, backed by a determination to do their best for the work of the church. We are to have a young people's rally next Friday night at which time it is purpose to organize a C. E. Society. Rev. J. F. Morgan of the 1st church Berkley is to be the speaker of the occasion. Brethren remember us in your petitions. J. V. KNIGHT, Pastor.

AMONG MY CHURCHES

Fourth Sunday and Saturday before we met our appointment at New Hope. Not so many present on Saturday, but a large crowd on Sunday. The offering for the orphanage was $8.00. Singing was good, led by Deacon J. D. King. This church has a good Sunday school. They paid nearly one-fifth of the pastor's salary at our first appointment. This makes the third time I have served this church.

First Sunday I met my first appointment at Berea, morning and evening. Had a fine congregation in the morning. Here they have a good Sunday school, with Deacon C. M. Pritchett superintendent. The membership of this church is very much scattered and it will be a difficult task for the pastor to see them all.

The second Sunday and Saturday before we went to our first appointment at Mt. Bethel. On Sunday, though the snow was from ten to twelve inches deep, we conducted a funeral and burial service. The subject of this funeral service was Sister Silphia Williams, who passed to her home in the spirit world. She was as we believe, ripe for heaven. She was a member of Mt. Bethel Christian church. She lived and died in faith. She was the mother of 13 children, ten of whom survive her. May God bless the above mentioned churches this year with gracious revivals and the addition of many saved members. P. T. K APP.

BERKLEY LETTER

On Saturday evening, Nov. 20, 1915, I landed on my new field of labor as pastor of the First Christian church (Berkley) Norfolk, Va., and was met at the station by a committee from the church, and carried in automobile to the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morgan, on Berkley Ave., where the night was pleasantly spent and the hospitality extended and the welcome which I received in the Morgan home were all that could be desired.

On the 3rd Sunday in Nov. we were greeted by a splendid congregation, for the first service, and ever since the first service the interest, and the congregations have been on the increase, both at the preaching service and at the mid-week prayer service.

I find plenty of work to do here, but the greater part of the members of the church are rallying to the pastor and we believe that something is going to be accomplished here for the Master. To this end we are working, and our prayer is that ere long every member of the church may become a real soldier of the Cross, and an enthusiastic worker for the Christ.

The welcome to the new pastor by the church and also by the community has been beautiful, and all the homes into which I have gone I have received a very cordial welcome. All of which gladdens a pastor's heart, and encourages him very much in the work he is trying to do.

The formal installation services for the new pastor were conducted the 2nd Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., by Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., pastor of the Memorial Temple Christian church, Norfolk, and was enjoyed by all present.

The Sunday school will give its Christmas entertainment next Thursday evening, and on the 4th Sunday morning there will be special Christmas music, and the pastor will preach a Christmas sermon. At the evening service the choir will render the cantata "The Christmas King," by Fred S. Holton.

Next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock we expect to organize a Christian Endeavor Society in the pastor's study.

We earnestly ask the prayers of the brotherhood in behalf of our work here.

Yours in His name,

J. F. MORGAN, Pastor.

WHY NOT THE OTHER GOSPEL AS WELL?

I am more and more impressed with the great opportunity which this Middle West offers. It was this that called into being the work in which the writer is at present engaged. The greatest Farming Campaign ever launched in the South is now on in Tenn., Ark., and Miss.

Sixty speakers from many States, of which the writer is one, are engaged in preaching the gospel of More Profitable Farming, in the territory adjacent to Memphis.

We are visiting every county in the three States within a radius of 150 miles of Memphis, traveling in three teams of 20 each. The work began several weeks ago and will continue until the territory is covered.

Twenty-five thousand dollars is being spent to carry this gospel to the farmers. The money is furnished by bankers, business men, the different railroads and the International Harvester Company. This is no doubt the richest farming section in the United States and yet on account of the one crop system the farmers have not been able to feed themselves. Cotton has been king until the farmer who has produced it has become a slave. The slogan of this campaign is "Feed yourself and live at home," and the farmers are catching the spirit. Many other sections of the South need what this campaign is accomplishing. It is too true that the South has been robbed of much of its wealth because the farmers have not learned the lesson of crop diversification.

Bankers, merchants and manufacturers are beginning to realize that the wealth of the entire country depends upon the success of the farmer. They are therefore willing to spend their money to teach him methods of more profitable farming. His success consists in knowing how to feed himself and to make cotton his surplus crop. The farmers in these cotton growing states have not yet learned this lesson. When crops have been good and prices high they have lived well, bought what they needed to eat and thought nothing of it. When crops have been poor and prices low they have suffered. In the midst of wealth they have lived in poverty. This has been especially true of the small farmer, the tenant. The large planter has grown rich at the expense of the renter. Soil building by means of leguminous crops and the raising of cattle is a thing about which many farmers in the South have never concerned themselves. They fight grass all the year to make cotton to buy hay grown in Iowa or Michigan, when experiments show that there are no better lands for hay in the country than are found in the South. The Southern farmer sells his razor-back hog in the winter for seven or eight cents a pound, and in the spring pays double that price for meat made from the thoroughbred grown in Iowa, Ill., or Ind. These are facts which are being brought to the attention of the farmer and he is learning the lesson.

This is the most carefully organized and the most thoroughly conducted campaign I ever heard of. The teams are divided into crews of two each and we cover three counties a day, holding meetings at practically every church, school, and in all the towns and villages. Each crew holds three to four meetings averaging from 25 to 300 persons. Altogether about 100 meetings a day are held, the speakers traveling by automobile and train, each crew carrying a complete outfit of charts and demonstration material for making soil tests, etc.

All arrangements for meetings are made before hand from the head office in Memphis, where the Farm Demonstration Bureau has its headquarters, every detail being carefully worked out. This whole proposition is a good example of how thoroughly men can put on and conduct a big campaign when the commercial interests of the country are involved. The next, and the most important gospel after all, that these undeveloped country districts need is the Gospel of the Master's Kingdom. This is particularly true of the sections we are covering—a great opportunity for the church.

S. S. LESSON, DEC. 26

Jehovah's Gracious Promises to Israel.

Hosea 14

(Review Lesson)

Golden Text: Jehovah is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness. Psalm 103.3

Hosea was a prophet to Israel about the time of the captivity of the Northern Kingdom. He had witnessed the idolatrous ways of his people and was peculiarly fitted to give them the message which he had for the chosen people. We find that Hosea, in the last chapter of his prophecy, pleaded with Israel to return to the one true God and gave them glorious and gracious promises from God.

God had been very patient with Israel. They had constantly broken their vows and covenants with God from the time they left Egypt until this time. They indulged in all kinds of sin. Jehovah was a gracious God. Jehovah is still a gracious God. He told the Israelites if they would only come back and worship Him He would forget all the past and make the most prosperous people.

The great God of Host is the same today; although we have wandered away in sin, He is ready to receive us back to the fold if we will only give Him a chance to do so.

In conducting the review lesson, as we have been studying so many characters during the quarter, we believe it will be a good plan to have the members of your class report on a character each. If you have more members in your class than we have studied characters the other members can supply what the particular member did not mention about his particular character.

It will be more interesting and instructive to have the members speak of their own characters in the first person and tell their story in their own words.

Some characters we have studied during the past quarter: Naboth, Jezebel, Elijah, Elisha, Elisha's servant, Naaman, Joash, Jehoiada, Daniel, Jonah, Amos, Uzziah, Hosea, and the Angel's story to the shepherds.

"The review is very appropriately entitled 'Jehovah's Gracious Promises to Israel,' and both the Golden Text and the passage to be read constitute a revelation of God very suitable for the end of the year."

How to Keep on the Upgrade. Phil.

3:12-16

(New Year's Meeting)

The Scripture:

Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which I am also apprehended of Christ Jesus.

Brethren, I count not my self to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting the things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Let us, therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded; and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

Nevertheless, wherunto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing. Phil. 3:12-16.

As this is New Year's meeting it is a splendid time to form resolutions. Resolutions not only for our individual benefits and profits but resolutions as a society. Probably during the past year the members of your Society have come to the Society, the leader opened the meeting, had a few songs sung half way through, gave a few comments on the topic and when the meeting was thrown open for general participation a few members probably not as many as five, rose one after the other said a few words or read a passage from the Bible or from some where else and the meeting was over. We would call this a static Society. We want dynamic Societies. May be the reason you have a static Society is because you do not have a goal to work to. You were satisfied with what the Society was doing.

Let us make a resolution that we will have every member of the Society an active member, taking some part other than singing in every meeting. Let us make several other similar resolutions and have for our main goal the service of the Master.

As long as we are satisfied with what we have we will not progress. Then to be progressive we must have our goal higher than what we can actually reach, in other words, when we reach the one sought for goal always make another which is higher than the one just attained. If we do this we will easily keep on the upgrade.

NOTES FROM NEW YORK

I began my work with the church at South Westerlo, N. Y., the 1st Sunday in December. The congregations have been good the two Sundays I have been here. There is a good church here and a need for a great work to be accomplished. I find the country here and the climate quite different from that in Virginia. The people have shown themselves very kind, and seem very much interested in church work. We have a weekly prayer meeting and a Christian Endeavor and preaching service twice every Sunday. I trust that the Lord may prosper His work here and use both pastor and people to build up the work. We have had fine weather here until Dec. 13—just a little snow, out enough to cover the ground thoroughly. But it snowed here all day yesterday and all night last night. The snow is now about 30 inches on a level and drifts are 6 to 7 feet deep—a regular New York blizzard. The people console us by telling us that these storms come very seldom and they hardly think there is anything worse ahead.

We have in the village a creamery which made 80,000 pounds of butter last year and I am told will make more this year. A mill that grinds both wheat and buckwheat flour, corn meal and crushed peas, and an evaporator that utilizes the fruit that cannot be shipped to advantage.

We are living comfortable on what furniture we found in the parsonage and on household goods and provisions the kind people have furnished. Our household goods are at the station and we will soon be settled down to live and work again.

My address is South Westerlo, N. Y. R. H. PEEL.

THE SINNER'S CHOICE

By Leta H. Woodell
Christ stood at the door of a sinner's heart,

And pled for admittance there;
Christ, who had given him everything,
Yea, even each breath of air.

But the sinner turned his face away,
And haughtily tossed his head;
He did not care for a Savior's love,
Or the Christ, who for him bled.

He cared more for earthly pleasures,
Which last one fleeting day,
Than he cared for joys eternal,
Which we are told will last for aye.

So all in vain did the Savior plead,
For a love that should be His;
Was it in vain that Jesus died?
Is every sinner like this?

Ah, no, there are some that will repent,
And enjoy eternal life
With the Lord of lords and the King of Kings.
In a land where is no strife,

Of which type are you, my sinner friend?

It is time for you to decide;
So won't you turn to the loving Christ,
Who for your life has died?

You've gone far enough in the path-way of sin.

It's now time to turn to the right;
For Jesus has promised to guide you along,

And He is the truth and the light.

—Rev. J. V. Knight is delighted with the progress of the work thus far in Newport News, and the people are much pleased with Bro. Knight. He has recently organized a Christian Endeavor Society and the outlook is very hopeful.

—Rev. J. F. Morgan has started well with the Berkley work and is greatly gratified at results thus far. He has organized a Christian Endeavor Society in his church and thinks there are possibilities for much good in the Society.

Receipts for the week $ 169.64
Grand total 4637.78

Our Orphanage family extends Christmas greetings to its many faithful friends throughout the church whose prayers and sacrifices have made the work possible, and we wish for each of them the Merry Christmas and prosperous New Year they so richly deserve.

We are grateful for liberal offerings again this week though the totals are not as large as those of recent reports. Perhaps most of the churches have already sent us their Thanksgiving offering, but a few have not yet reported. We trust that we may hear from these at an early date with a liberal offering as we have many pressing obligations yet to meet before January 1st. The orphanage is entirely dependent upon the church for funds to meet these bills.

The records of 1915 are about complete. We shall be unable to change the work of the past, but we must look to the future for growth and progress. Now is the time for every Sunday-school to lay its plans for increased offering for the orphanage each month throughout the new year. While the orphanage is under new management the expenses can not be less; the chances are that they will be more. War prices still prevail and we are paying much more for what we eat than ever before, and it seems that the appetites of the children were never better. We are glad to see them eat, but it takes money to buy groceries. The salaries will also be greater the coming year than the past. At present we have no one in the field to solicit funds so we will have to rely upon our faithful and loyal friends throughout the church. If the pastors and superintendents will only plan for the monthly offering and lay it upon the hearts of their people, the Sunday-schools alone will amply care for our orphanage. I know the great Christian church is both able and willing to care for more than fifty orphan children, but they haven't yet the burden of the work on their hearts. Let every friend of the orphanage pray earnestly that the Lord may reveal His will to each of our churches and Sunday schools.

SOME FACTS ABOUT BLUE MARBLE

It is commonly known that Southern marble quarries hold an important place in the production of the world's marble, but it is a question if the people of the South know that to one of their own home industries, strictly Southern in ownership and management belongs the distinction of producing some of the finest blue marble in the world.

Blue marble is not a common product and the Regal Marble Company of Regal, N. C., own the only quarries in the South. One of their best products, known to the trade as Regal Blue, was recently made the subject of interesting tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The government report showed the marble to be of such fine and compact texture that it withstood the highest test for crushing strength and water absorption. These are the properties that make for the recognized performance of color and durability of this marble. The Regal Company exclusively, both in the quarries and in their finishing plant. Adv.

LETTERS THAT INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

I wish very much that every reader of The Christian Sun could spend sufficient time in my office to read the thousands of letters which I have received from all parts of the country, I have printed several hundred of them in a booklet, but I wish you could see the originals, for I would like for you to realize the wonderful results which they report in the relief of dyspepsia, indigestion, persistent headache, rheumatism, gall stones, kidney, bladder and liver diseases, uric acid poisoning and other conditions due to impure blood.

Before my own health was restored by Shivar Mineral Water and I purchased this Spring, and before I received all of these letters from sufferers, I didn't take very much stock in advertisements like this. I therefore cannot blame you if you doubt, but, my friend, I am absolutely convinced that the Shivar Spring is the greatest restorative mineral water ever discovered, not excepting the famous Spas of Europe. I have shipped this water to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the United States and they almost invariably report either permanent restoration or beneficial results. That is why I make the guarantee offer contained in the following letter. Sign it now and mail it.

Shivar Spring,
 Box 9J, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:

I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send, and if it fails to benefit my case you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Lime Combats Tuberculosis

"It is difficult to escape the conviction that lime starvation and lime assimilation are the real issues behind the masks of vulnerability and resistance in tuberculosis," wrote the late Ira Van Geison, M. D., in the N.Y. Medical Record, May 11, 1912.

Ordinarily, lime is not easily assimilated, but Eckman's Alternative contains it in such form and combination as to insure assimilation by the average person. This explains its success in many cases of tuberculosis which apparently have yielded to it.

Containing no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

OUR DEAD

Iseley

Departed this life November 21, 1915, at her home in Greensboro, N. C., Mrs. Sarah A. Iseley in her 73rd year. One sister Mrs. Elizabeth Cook and one brother, Mr. Jeff Huffines survive her. Her husband preceded her to the grave by a little more than eleven years. One son, Mr. Ira B. Iseley, Chief of the Police force of Greensboro survives her. She was a charter member of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, South. She died as she lived, trusting Jesus. In the absence of her pastor, the writer assisted by Rev. Mr. Turner conducted the funeral services. May the dear Master comfort the bereaved ones.

P. H. FLEMING.

Rountree

Irene, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rountree, members of the Christian Church at Newport News, Va., was born June 23rd, and died one month later, July 23rd, 1915. The stay of the little one in the home was not long but long enough for the tendrils of love to fasten themselves about the hearts of the members of the family. The little rosebud was plucked early for the heavenly kingdom, but it still sheds fragrance of influence over those who held it but for a time in fond embrace, for there is another beckoning hand over on the other side as a reminder of the importance of living for the life beyond.

W. D. HARWARD.

Skinner

At her home, Dendron, Surry, Co., Va., on Wednesday at 11:50 a clock P. M., October 5, 1915 Mrs. Indiana Skinner, the beloved wife of Mr. Javon W. Skinner, aged 58 years, 11 months and 24 days. She was a life long member of Cypress Chapel and will be greatly missed in her home, community and church. She leaves five daughters and one son, Mrs. A. W. Faison, Mrs. J. R. Bishop, of Dendron, Va., Mrs. D. F. Jackson of Port Norfolk, Va., Miss Minnie B. Skinner, of Harrisonburg, Va., Miss Annie Beake Skinner of Norfolk, Va., Mr. O. J. Skinner of Aycock, Florida. Grandchildren, 14; one sister, Mrs. E. D. Hansell of Cypress Chapel, Va., one brother, Mr. George Harrell of Gates Co., N. C. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor at her church and her remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery. The dear bereaved ones have the deepest sympathy of their many friends.

Marks

Bro. A. G. Marks, a member of Zion Christian church, departed this life Oct. 12, 1915, at the ripe age of 84 years. A good man has fallen. The church has lost a good member, the neighborhood a good neighbor, the children a good father. On the 13th we laid his body in Zion cemetery to sleep the long sleep of death. May the Father who doeth all things well comfort the bereaved ones. Funeral by the writer.

Harrell

As the clock was on the stroke of half past six on the evening of Dec. 2, 1915, the death angel visited the home of D. S. and Rosa E. Harrell, taking from them their darling Benjamin at the age of 16 months. He had been sick for a few months but was suddenly taken worse Tuesday night about midnight with diptheria. During his sickness all was done for him that could be done by loving hands and skilled physicians. We have lost from our cradle roll a sweet little angel. May God bless and comfort us in this our sad hour. His remains were laid to rest in the family cemetery at Eure's church.

"Safe in the arms of Jesus,

"Safe on his gentle breast;

"There by his love overshadowed,

"Sweetly my soul shall rest."

By the superintendent of the Cradle Roll Department of Sarem Christian church.

Williams

Evender Williams, a member of New Hill Christian church, departed this life Nov. 9, 1915, at the age of 34 years. He was a good man and loved by all who knew him. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife, one daughter and a host of friends. On the 10th we laid his remains in Mt. Gilead cemetery. May the blessings of the Lord comfort the bereaved ones. Funeral by his pastor.

Rawles

Whereas, God in His wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our brother, Jesse Rawles, who was an honorable member of the Ladies' Benevolent and Social Union of the Suffolk Christian church, therefore, be it resolved:

1. That while we feel deeply the loss of this valued member, who was a shining example of loyal devotion to his church, patient in suffering and true to his faith, and shall greatly miss him, we bow in resignation to God's will.

2. That we convey to the members of the family our tenderest sympathy, and pray God to sustain and comfort them in the blessed thought of being reunited in "The Home Over There."

3. That these resolutions be entered upon our records, a copy sent to the family and a copy to the Christian Sun.

Faucette

John Washington Faucette went to meet his God on the 15th inst. He gave himself to God in the early part of his life and united with M. E. church at Shiloh and remained a consistent member till death; aged 67 years, 3 months. He leaves a wife, 6 children, 2 brothers and 2 sisters to mourn their loss. Service by the writer at the request of the deceased. The pastor, W. P. Galloway was present. God bless the bereaved.

P. T. KLAPP.

Sauls

John Callie Sauls, infant son of William and Lucretia Sauls of Merry Oaks, N. C., as born October 20, 1914; died Nov. 5th, 1915; aged one year and sixteen days. The funeral as conducted by myself from New Elam church Saturday p. m., Nov. 6th, and the burial was in the church cemetery where in a row rest the remains of five children of this family. Two boys and three girls remain to the parents. May a heavenly Father comfort and guide through life and unite the family in the joys beyond.

C. E. NEWMAN.

Tucker

Mrs. Margarette Ella Tucker, daughter of William and Herper Ann Tucker, was born near Merry Oaks, Chatham county, N. C., in 1871 and died in Raleigh Nov. 4, 1915. Early in life she united with New Elam church, but later transferred her membership to the Christian church of Raleigh where she remained a faithful member till failing health last Spring caused her to discontinue her work in the church activities. In the past two years her life was full of trials, but her faith never failed and she met death with no fears. She is survived by one son, three brothers, and one sister, together with a host of friends. The funeral and burial was at New Elam, Chatham county, N. C., Saturday Nov. 6, 1915. May the son and other loved ones ever follow the example of her devoted Christian life and meet her in heaven.

C. E. NEWMAN.

Jerrell

December the 6th the death angel visited the home of Brother Chas. C. Jerrell, 425 Harrison St., and took him away. Brother Jerrell was forty nine years of age, and for three years had been a great sufferer. He leaves to mourn their loss his devoted wife who was Miss Nellie Byrd of near Suffolk, one sister, Mrs. Lula Evelyn, of Tunstall, Va., and a large host of relatives and friends. On the evening of the 8th at the home, the funeral was preached by the writer assisted by Rev. Mr. Franklin of the Methodist church, of which denomination the deceased was once a member. The body was carried to Suffolk on the 9th and interred in the Bethlehem cemetery.

H. E. ROUNTREE.

Foushee

William F. Foushee was born June 3, 1824 and died Dec. 6th, in his 92d year. He married Lovcy Edwards and they lived happily together till her death, April 3, 1803. They had three children: Franklin, J. M., and W. F. Foushee. The latter part of his life was spent in the home of his son, W. F. Foushee, the only son living and where he pleasantly spent his declining years free from every care. He was well and favorably known in his county and community. He was colonel of the Home Guard during the Civil War, and was Deputy Sheriff in the county for 18 years. He was a good citizen, a kind neighbor and a devoted father. He never united with any church. His church preference was Primitive Baptist, and he claimed to have met with a change of heart about 25 years ago while attending an Association of Primitive Baptists. His faith in the Bible as God's word was beautiful and he read it constantly, regularly and thoroughly. He had read it through 16 times. He was buried at Park's Cross Roads beside his wife, and a large number of friends attended the funeral. His son, the four grand children, and the great grand-child have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Cox

Benjamin F. Cox was born Aug. 2, 1831, and died Dec. 9, 1915. He had been in feeble health for several years, and for several months was confined to his bed. He and his aged companion lived with their only child, Calvin Cox. His life was quiet and he had the respect of everybody in the community. He had been a member of Pleasant Ridge Christian church for over forty years, and he died in the faith, perfectly resigned to the will of God. He was unable to attend church and I remember one service held at his home for him and his wife, which they enjoyed and fully appreciated. He was buried at Pleasant Ridge, and a large congregation of friends were present at his burial. He leaves a widow, one son and four grand-children who mourn his departure.

T. E. WHITE.

Brown

Colon Clark, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Brown, departed this life Dec. 11, and was buried at Park's Cross Roads. It was a sweet child, and the parting at the grave almost broke the parents' hearts. They have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement, and assurance from the word of God that their darling is "safe in the arms of Jesus." Funeral by the writer.
