

1800 m

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2014

<https://archive.org/details/christiansun78gene>

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1926.

NUMBER 1.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Stewardship Leaders to Meet.—

The United Stewardship Council of America will meet in Pittsburg, Pa., January 16 to 18, 1926. The meeting is made up of the stewardship leaders of twenty-three communions besides the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. There is to be no set program, but plans and problems will be discussed by the membership generally. The Christian Church is a member of the United Stewardship Council of America.

President Sees No Difference.—

In an effort to enforce the prohibition laws the President has recommended that the federal attorneys prosecute alike the personal use violators as well as the bootleggers. He can see no difference, and neither can we. The personal use men are the ones after all to whom the bootlegger looks for support. President Coolidge's recommendation to the attorneys ought to be heeded, and the church folk ought to see to it that it is heeded and carried out to the letter.

Radio's Growth.—

Five years ago radio was the hobby of a few scientists. The radio business of the country amounted to less than six million dollars. During 1925 the radio business amounted to half a billion dollars. More than three million sets were sold, and the sales of tubes passed the twenty million mark. There are a thousand manufacturers of radios and radio supplies, with 300,000 people engaged in the industry, and forty thousand dealers scattered throughout the United States.

Canada Sends Us Whiskey.—

Figures show that one fourth of the export whiskey from Canada comes into these prohibition United States. A shipment of goods purporting to be turnips looked suspicious sometime ago, and upon investigation the shipment proved not to be turnips at all, but eight thousand bottles of whiskey. Somebody didn't get his Christmas liquor, safe to say. Wet Canada just to the north of us is a troublesome problem. We found a long time ago that one town or one State could not be dry with all the neighbors wet; that was a home problem. We solved it by making the whole country dry; this Canada problem can be solved in the same way, with world prohibition.

Another Pressing Problem.—

According to government figures, there were divorces granted to 170,867 persons last year, an increase of five thousand over the previous year. In this appalling number of homes going "on the rocks," Texas led with 15,375 divorces to 71,896 marriages. Illinois was second, and Ohio, California and Michigan followed. The total number of marriages in the United States last year was 1,178,206, which was 45,000 fewer marriages than during the previous year. This problem is self-evident; there is much talk, but nothing has been done, and probably nothing can be done with this generation. Our hope lies in the next; we may mold them differently, if we will.

Food for Thought.—

At a piano recital in New York, recently, Paderewski, the noted pianist struck the keys of the piano so heavily that he split the fleshy end of a nail on one finger. The hands of the great pianist are insured, however, and he is being paid for the time his finger is healing. This is a trivial thing, but it suggests food for thought. The great Paderewski had the most valuable part of himself insured. Have we a most valuable part? What is it? Is it insured? Are we sure that we are keeping up the policy all right? This Christmas time was a time when payment was due; did we make it? Are we bigger souls than we were? Think on these things. Paderewski's insured hands suggested them to us.

A New Speed for the Earth.—

According to Dr. Dayton C. Miller of the Case School of Applied Science, the earth is rushing through space at the rate of 125 miles per second on its way, with the whole solar system, toward Draco, the great dragon of the sky. This new speed assigned to the earth is seven times that maintained in its orbital trip around the sun. This information was discovered in the ether drift experiments of Dr. Miller. He finds that the ether is dragged along by the earth to some extent, and this discovery will make the modification of the Einstein theory imperative. If the theory can be sustained with the modifications thus made necessary, it will stand; otherwise it must go with many another theory, if Dr. Miller's experiments are verified.

Americans Eat Ice Cream.

When Americans finished their desserts on New Year's Day they had consumed approximately three hundred million pounds of ice cream, or an increase of over twenty-five million pounds over any previous year. This increase in the past year is due to the hot dry summer in many parts of the country, and to the advertising campaigns to which the business has devoted itself. There is a tendency also for the ice cream business in the country to go into the hands of great concerns. Many mergers have been entered into that have put individual manufacturers out of business. Manufacturing costs have gone up somewhat, but better facilities for distribution and for purchasing raw material have kept the costs low for the consumer. Ice cream is becoming one of the large productions of the country.

America Disgusts Chinese Leader.—

Dr. Hu Suh, the most influential Chinese intellectual and the man responsible for the Chinese Renaissance a few years ago, in an address before the Episcopal University at Wuchang, said that religion ought to be left out of educational work since it had no value. He referred to his American experiences from 1914 to 1917, when he said that America was full of war hatred. "I am disgusted," was his curt summary. He also said that missionaries were not ready to take the risks their predecessors did, nor did they identify themselves with Chinese life. His accusations may be just. We admit freely that if Dr. Hu Suh sees only one side of America, it is enough to disgust him, but if he looks beneath the surface, we think he must still find America and Americans sound. It was in the school where Dr. Hu teaches that the anti-Christian movement began.

Dr. Slaten Gets Rid of God.—

Dr. A. Wakefield Slaten, pastor of the West-side Unitarian Church, New York, who has declared against the use of the word Christian, has now told his congregation that the next word which must go is God. "There is some reason in the contention that we should eliminate from our vocabulary the word God rather than that we should keep it and give it a new meaning. If that in which we believe is impersonal, unconscious, indifferent force, how can we call it by a name which denotes the direct opposite—a personal, a conscious, an affectionate being?" Dr. Slaten is right if his "If's" are right, but they aren't! We do not believe in an impersonal, unconscious, indifferent force. We believe in a very personal, a superconscious, and a tenderly affectionate Creator, who is the most potent force in this universe. Anyone may understand God so, who will lean upon Him, or who must do so. Dr. Slaten may try to eliminate God for himself and some other atheists, but he cannot get rid of God for us.

Fined for Sabbath Breaking.—

The players who staged a basket ball game in Madison Square Garden on a Sunday were arrested and fined ten dollars each for violation of the Sabbath law. This fine amounts to nothing when the gate receipts were twenty thousand dollars. On that same Sunday, "Red" Grange, the former Illinois University foot ball player, drew seventy thousand people to a foot ball game with seats selling up to three dollars each. Hockey games are being planned now for Sundays at Madison Square Garden, and in the sympathy lent by Mayor Walker, the theatres of Broadway are planning Sunday night performances. Where is the trouble? Certainly not with the players nor with the law, but with the public conscience which attends, supports and sympathizes with the Sabbath breaking. What would the fine of a hundred dollars mean? It would be regarded as a tax and paid. It is a task for the church and for church folk to deal with, but one which will demand all the tact, the thought, and the power we possess.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Chaplain H. E. Rountree, who edits the Family Altar Page of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, with Mrs. Rountree and daughter, who had been visiting relatives made a welcome visit to this office the first part of the week.

The Sunday School attendance was one of the largest ever had at the First Church of Richmond. An excellent musical program by the Sunday School orchestra and short talks were given in celebrating the sixth anniversary of its organization.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, who was present at the Sunday evening service of the First Christian Church of Richmond, paid the SUN office a hasty visit Monday morning. He says he is going to put forth his best efforts during Mission Month to have his charge go "over the top."

The Durham Christian Church voted in business session to observe Mission Month, "It being the sense of the membership," Says Rev. S. C. Harrell, the pastor, "that there should be a more generous support on the part of all our people, for the cause of missions."

The congregations Sunday, both morning and evening, were among the largest that have been in attendance at the Richmond Church. Deacon Price, who has been ill for some time was able to be present and assist in the administration of the Lord's supper. The church took in fifteen new members last quarter.

On January 1st, when Uncle Wellons preached at Elon on his 100th birthday anniversary, some one asked that all the preachers in the audience stand up. It was discovered that between forty and fifty preachers were present. The preachers as well as the laymen, of other communions as well as of our own, love, respect and revere Uncle Wellons.

We see by print that Dr. D. A. Long is offering for sale 630 acres of land in Polk County (near Tampa) Florida, at $80.00 the acre; and 80 acres 14 miles from Tampa for $40,000. We understand that this is land that Dr. Long took years ago on a debt, and here is hoping that the sale will result in all that Dr. Long desires and that his patience and enforced risk merit.

Purple and Gold, Vol. 1, No. 1, makes its advent into the journalistic world from Wadley, Ala., December, 1925. It is a four-page paper published quarterly, so announced, by Bethlehem College. Dr. S. L. Beougher is editor; Rev. S. M. Lynam, Mrs. Lynam and O. C. Fincher, are associate editors. The first issue is interesting and gives promise of great service in its chosen field. We wish for the enterprise all the success its worthy promoters anticipate.

Rev. Willce J. Hall, who has done such a remarkable work in building Shiloh Springs Christian Church, Dayton, Ohio, and who resigned the same some time ago, is anxious to undertake a similar program elsewhere. The work he has done in building this church has opened his eyes to the possibilities before us. The organization had to be from a ground start, but in three and a half years they have taken in 215 members. He says, "Now I feel that someone else can take the work, as I desire to build and develop as has been done at this place." What a pity it is that we cannot place Brother Hall in Washington, or in Atlanta or in Birmingham. In all of these places we have a nucleus but in neither of them have we a pastor or church.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

Just a word to you who have paid your subscription recently: The label on your SUN will be advanced to the correct date on the first issue in January, 1926. Be sure to look at that label and see that proper credit has been given you. The greatest care is taken to see that this is done, but all of us are human, and a mistake is possible. And now just a word to our other friends: Look at the label on your paper now, and if you are very far in arrears—say a year or more—it will make our Christmas happier, and yours too, if you will pay the arrearage up to date—or better still, a year in advance. We would like to change in arrears, it will make our Christmas happier the date on your label the first issue of the year. And you might order THE SUN sent to some dear friend for the coming year. You know, those who do not take their church paper are really the ones who need to take it most.

ROSEMONT AND BERE A.

Christmas was observed in both the Rosemont and Berea Churches. On December 22, an interesting program was given at the Berea Church, consisting of Christmas songs and recitations which was enjoyed by a splendid audience, despite the inclement weather. The program was enlivened by the visit of Santa Claus near the close of the program, and his distribution of candy, apples and oranges to the children, and apples and oranges to all the audience. Nor did Santa overlook the pastor and his family, but called the pastor forward and pounded him with a number of good things which had been furnished by the good people of the church and community. Upon investigation after we got to the parsonage we found flour, sugar, eggs, oranges, apples, lard, potatoes, and many other useful things, for which the pastor and family express hearty and sincere thanks.

At Rosemont the birth of the Christ was observed by the singing of the cantata, "The King of Kings and the Lord of Lords," by the choir on Sunday evening, December 20th, and by the pageant "The Shepherds Vision," rendered by the young people of the Sunday school, on Wednesday evening, December 23rd. This pageant was preceded by a beautiful pantomime by Mrs. H. E. Roane's Sunday school class of girls. The idea of the pageant was that of the White Christmas, and an offering was laid by the side of the Manger, amounting to more than $50.00, which will go to our emergency missionary fund. Needy families in the community were also given Christmas cheer, and made happy.

On Sunday, December 27th, a beautiful Christmas exercise was rendered in the Junior school, and the children were presented with their Christmas treat, and many presents were given to the pupils by the teachers, and to the teachers by the pupils.

The pastor also tried to deliver appropriate messages of the season at both his churches.

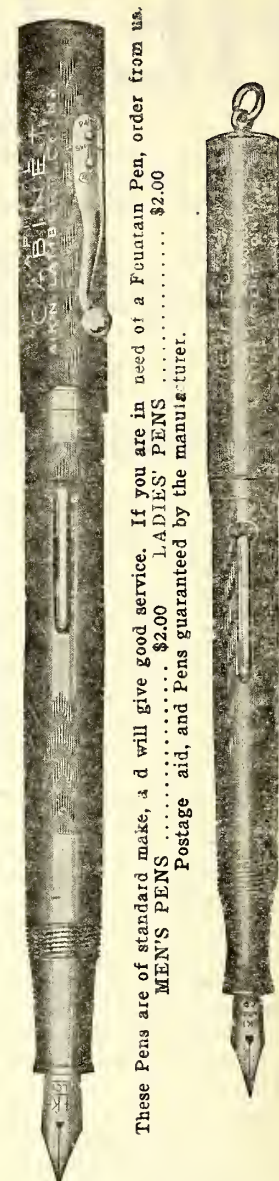

J. F. MORGAN.

FROM THE PASTOR OF HOLLAND CHURCH.

Complying with a promise given the managing editor, we herein make the first of a series of quarterly reports from the Holland Christian Church.

With October we began our fifth year as pastor, and in October the church and pastor came to an agreement by which the present pastoral relationship shall continue for another

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS $2.00

LADIES' PENS $2.00

Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

---To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears). $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

Mission Study Books.

Official List for 1924-1925.

ORDER BY TITLE OF BOOK.

FOR ADULT CLASSES.

- For Home Mission Classes:
"The Romance of Home Missions," by S. L. Morris, D. D.. Paper, 50c; cloth..... $.75
- For Foreign Mission Classes:
"Ming Kwong—the City of Morning Light," by Mary Ninde Gamewell. Paper, 50c; cloth .75
"In China," by H. F. Williams, D. D.25

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

- For Intermediate Home Mission Classes:
"The Land of All Nations," by Margaret F. Seelbach. Paper, 50c; cloth..... .75
- For Intermediate Foreign Mission Classes:
"China's Real Revolution," by Paul Hutchinson. Paper, 50c; cloth..... .75
- For Junior Foreign Mission Classes:
"Chinese Lanterns," by Minna McEwen Meyer. Paper, 50c; cloth75

LEADERS' HELPS.

- Leaders' Helps for "Romance of Home Missions" (Adult Classes)15
- Leaders' Helps for "Romance of Home Missions" (Young People's Classes)..... .15
- Leaders' Helps for "Land of All Nations"..... .15
- Leaders' Helps for "Ming Kwong"..... .15
- Leaders' Helps for "China's Real Revolution"..... .15
- Leaders' Helps for "Chinese Lanterns"..... .15

Send all orders to—

THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 East Broad Street - - Richmond, Virginia.

five years. This action is, of course, open to criticism, but it was taken with idea of settling a question which if brought up annually, or remains open, leads frequently to embarrassments and even disastrous misunderstandings.

In the four years ending with September the Holland Church has awakened somewhat to its latent powers and resources. Necessity proved the awakener. Separated from Holy Neck Church, the Holland Church was forced to meet grave problems, overcome embarrassing difficulties and emerge from these on the strength of a program which would lay foundations for the future as well as provide for the present. In the four-year period the church built a very comfortable and commodious and to many an attractive parsonage. The membership realized a net increase of 87 and the average attendance of the Sunday school increased 58 per cent. During this period increases have been realized in benevolent support and the pastor's salary increased $1,000.

Beginning with October, the church adopted the duplex envelopes and a benevolent budget, exclusive of the benevolent offerings of the Sunday school, missionary societies and other organizations, of $1,300. During the quarter there has been raised and distributed for benevolences $1,028, but the bulk of this was given by organizations.

On Thanksgiving Sunday the Sunday school received the largest orphans' offering in its history—$200. This followed very closely class gifts of $25 and $75 toward the new building at the orphanage.

In December a drive was made for funds with which to curtail the indebtedness of the church, and more especially the $2,500 balance on the church building. Following a campaign of promotion through letters, notices and press publicity, the drive was made between the hours of one and seven Monday afternoon, the 7th. The $2,500 was secured, and on Sunday the 13th the church note was burned following the morning worship service; the ashes were distributed on the church ground.

The missionary societies are reaping, as is the church, the benefits of the attendance last summer of two delegates at the Chambersburg School of Missions, and one at Northfield. These delegates are giving in a splendid way inspiration and information, and the feeling is growing that the Holland Church never made a better investment.

The prayer services are much enjoyed by the pastor, and frequently they are characterized by the deepest and richest devotion. The attendance is small, but rather consistent. We have been tempted to promote attendance at the prayer service by injecting a social hour, but always there has come over us the feeling that it should not be done, but that it should remain a purely devotional service.

Our morning congregations continue inspiring and our night one's disconcerting. There has been some improvement in the night congregations this quarter, but the improvement is perhaps accounted for by three special services.

We have been advised by one who comes into touch with all of our churches of the Southern Convention that the Burlington Church has effected the best organization of any of our churches. The Executive Board and the pastor of the Holland Church do not entertain any ambition to challenge this leadership, but they have established for the Holland Church an objective. It is that we may become one of the best organized of our rural churches. As we understand it, real organization in church activities and life necessitates real consecration and devoted service, and produces vigorous and contagious Christian character.—J. H. L.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x 5/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x 5/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools93c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

YES, A GOOD DAY.

A good day, and even more, a really great day. Rev. E. M. Carter, away yonder in Alabama, voiced the wish of about ten thousand others. "January 1, 1926," Bro. Carter is writing, "I hope this is a good day at Elon and that Uncle Wellons was able to attend the services. We are having a pretty day here and I am so anxious that all have a good day there." We did. Uncle Wellons able to attend the services? Well one would say he was the services, this Uncle Wellons was. Able? He preached an hour and fifteen minutes by the clock—and he preached, too, if ever a man did. He announced his text without opening the Book, told where it was, gave every word of it from memory, and then proceeded to stick to his text and tell us what it taught and what it implied. His mind was as clear as a bell. He neither lacked for words nor ideas. He would have preached another hour if he had been allowed. But we feared for his voice and strength, and had to beg him, for his own sake, to stop. And no one present will ever forget the grand climax this beloved of the Lord reached as in closing, he said, "I want all present," and the great Whitley Memorial was packed with 800 eager listeners, "I want all of you to repeat after me the words I now leave with you." And they did, Uncle Wellons repeating a line, from memory, of course, and then the congregation taking up his words, "Praise the Lord, Oh! my soul, and all that is within me praise his holy name. Let all the people praise thee, Oh Lord, let all the people praise thee," and so on, the words coming clear and distinct from the lips that had called seven thousand sinners in his day from the ways of the world to a life in Christ Jesus. And the great, wondering, amazed, admiring audience (some say there were a thousand present), repeated line for line after him, "Praise the Lord, Oh my soul, let all that is within me praise his holy name." And the people did praise the Lord—and thousands of people throughout the Christian Church and the world, as for that, do praise God for the wonderful works he has wrought through this one man, dear, blessed, beloved Uncle Wellons.

We will never see the like of this again—a preacher on his 100 birthday anniversary, body vigorous, faculties functioning, mind clear as the morning, memory perfect—preaching for an hour and more, without notes or book or manuscript, not repeating himself save at will for the sake of emphasis; and he dwelt upon his text, Matt. 6: 33, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." "Seek, Seek, Seek! Never stop seeking!" cried this man of God out of a voice laden with the rich experiences of a hundred years, "but be sure ye seek first, first, first and foremost and always, the kingdom of God,—and God will add unto you all the good things you will need, both in this life and in that to come."

But we shall give to SUN readers shortly now this sermon. We have been requested to do so by elderly ones in remote places who could not be here, and they may read and rejoice with us that dear, good, beloved J. W. Wellons has been spared, a benediction and a blessing to us and the world one hundred years. There were competent stenographers present who took down the whole sermon as it was delivered—and SUN-readers may have it soon.

Yes, it was a wonderful day. J. O. A.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION AND THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The Christian Church has been interested in education from its beginning, and no educational institution of the Christian Church has ever been conducted on any other than a co-educational basis.

The first college in the country that admitted men and women on absolutely equal terms without any discrimination, leading to regular degrees, was Antioch College of Yellow Springs, Ohio, under the leadership of Horace Mann, and this college was fostered and promoted by the Christian Church.

So far as we know, the Christian Church was the pioneer in providing an endowment for higher education, giving the note of incorporated bodies to particular colleges and paying the interest on the note without paying the money. This has been done in two instances, and it has served a purpose in these two instances of tying the constituency in a most loyal fashion to these colleges.

The Christian denomination was the first completely to unify its work of Christian Education by the union and merger of its Boards of Education, of the Sunday School and of Christian Endeavor. The present Board of Christian Education is the only accredited educational agency of a general character in the Christian Church.

One of the colleges of the Christian Church was the first to erect on its campus a laboratory of Christian Education in which students in Bible and Religious Education subjects are given definite training as superintendents and teachers in closely graded Week Day School of Religion.

W. A. H.

GAINS AND LOSSES.

At this time of the year corporations and business houses are counting up their gains and losses. Recently a Norfolk, Virginia, daily gave out the news that the last six months had been the best in business and in profits since the World War period. Bank deposits had grown to unprecedented proportions. Merchants had had unusual trade. Wheels of industry and of gain had been run at high speed. Yes, the business world has prospered: witness automobiles, new and splendid: witness fine apparel: witness hotels and places of amusement and luxury crowded to the limit.

And yet in the face of all this, as the church reckons up its business of carrying forward the kingdom and spreading the gospel, there is the cry of want, poverty, need, indebtedness on every hand. Verily, verily, the people who have a gospel that has made them a prosperous one, in the days of their prosperity, crowding God out.

So far as this writer knows, every Mission Board of every Protestant denomination is handicapped with heavy and increasing indebtedness. Take this line from the Richmond Christian Advocate:

"No student of the recent history of missions can fail to see that there has been a sad decline in missionary interest and missionary giving. This is true of all the denominations, and is quite evident among Southern Methodists. Our own beloved and honored Virginia Conference, which has had in the past a well-deserved reputation for missionary enthusiasm, a reputation extending beyond the borders of our own denomination, has in many places seemed to lose the vision of the great purpose of the Church."

Yes, true of all the denominations, even in a time of wonderful gain, prosperity, progress, in the material world.

The Southern Baptists are calling upon their people to help lift their Board out of an indebtedness of $1,800,000. Sunday, January 10th has been appointed as Mission Day in all of their churches. Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Disciples, Adventists, are all appealing for increased gifts to carry forward the Lord's work.

The Christians have appointed, in the Eastern Virginia Conference, February, in the other Southern Conferences, March, as the period when all shall be given a chance to help raise a fund of $25,000 to get our Board out of debt and go forward in our work. And here the words from the Foreign Mission Board of the Baptist Church fit our case exactly: "The way this offering is put in the churches (by the pastors) will, of course decide its failure or complete success. Put on with prayer and passion, victory is certain. Put on casually and with moderation failure is inevitable."

There is the crux of the whole situation. It is up to the pastors to say whether the Kingdom of God shall suffer loss in this hour of need, and in this time of material prosperity.

J. O. A.

A SUMMONS TO SACRIFICE.

God's work only goes forward in this world through those who suffer, sacrifice, deny self, and endure hardship. Paul's experience of hardship, disappointment, trial, tribulation, is not any exception. His is the rule, and the example, of all who carry forward the world, the word and the work of the gospel.

This call to observe a great out-pouring of our means at this time for missions is but a call to self-denial, sacrifice, suffering, if need be, that the gospel may go forward.

Rev. J. F. Love, secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptists, writes of the way some of his people are hearing and heeding this summons. It helps us to the heroic to see how others are answering the call. "Here is the way," says Dr. Love, "some of the Baptists are going about lifting our missionary indebtedness. An old Confederate soldier gives $5 out of his little pension, and does it with a smile and a prayer. A pastor of a small church gives

$1,000 and challenges a thousand other Baptist men and women in the South to do the same. Many have already accepted this challenge. A Sunday School class of working girls gives $1,00. A missionary who has for three years been denied a house to live in gives $100."

If the Christians dare such heroic sacrifice as this during Mission Month, our entire $25,000 Emergency Fund will be donated and more. And our church and people will be richer for the self-denial and the sacrifice. Our Lord's work goes forward through the efforts of those who are willing to deny themselves, take up their cross daily and follow Him. J. O. A.

"THE CHURCH IN A CHANGING WORLD." No. II.

The Church has been the angel of light to the world down through the centuries. She has carried the torch of truth in every age since her inception. Her missionaries went to our savage ancestors who were offering their human sacrifices in the dark forests of northern Europe, and taught them the error of their superstitious beliefs. The Church was the pioneer in both the educational and political life of our nation. She has been, and is creating and organizing our philanthropies, and sowing the seeds of social democracy. The Church has sought to adapt itself to the needs of every age and every condition of life. The progress of the Church in the history of the past eighteen hundred years and more, is evidence most convincing that the world is moving forward. The Church has led in the vanguard of every movement for social betterment. The vital question that should concern Christian people today is this, namely, "Is the Church to continue to lead in the forward march of mankind?" "Is the Church to change its approach to meet the needs of a changing world?"

Professor Tyler expresses a very pertinent truth in his work on Anthropology. Says he, "The priests of Egypt, who once represented the most advanced knowledge of their time, came to fancy that mankind had no more to learn, and upheld their tradition against all newer wisdom, till the world passed them by and left them grovelling in superstition. The priests of Greece ministered in splendid temples and had their fill of wealth and honors, but men who sought the secret of a good life found that this was not the business of the sanctuary, and turned away to the philosophers." Continuing, Dr. Tyler goes on to say, "Unless a religion can hold its place in the front of science and of morals, it may only gradually in the course of ages lose its place in the nation, but all the power of statecraft and all the wealth of the temples will not save it from yielding to a belief that takes in higher knowledge and teaches a better life."

Christians today are understanding, more than did past generations, that the religion of Jesus Christ, whose teachings and whose life they seek to follow, is concerned more with deeds than with creeds; that it is a progressive religion; that its message is social as well as individual. The Church of the twentieth century is slowly adjusting itself to this larger view of the Christian message and mission of Christianity. As Professor Rauschenbusch so aptly declared in his masterpiece, "Christianizing the Social Order," "The Kingdom of God deals not only with the immortal souls of men, but with their bodies, their nourishment, their homes, their cleanliness, and it makes those who serve these fundamental needs of life veritable ministers of God."

This readjustment of the Church to meet the needs of our day is not only the salvation of society, but it will prove to be the salvation of the church itself. For recasting the thought of Professor Tyler, "Unless Christianity can hold its place in the front of science and morals, there is nothing that can save it from yielding to a belief that takes in higher knowledge and teaches a better life." Hence the church has had to throw off some of its preconceived notions in order for Christianity to adapt itself to the demand of the changing world. Christianity has not changed, but our interpretation of Christianity and our understanding of what it involves has changed, thanks to the men and women who, with sincere convictions and open minds, sought to reclaim from the medieval theological entanglements the true and saving religion of our Saviour Christ. The church is simply advancing nearer to the mind and heart of the Captain of our salvation who lived thousands of years in advance of his day.

The message of the church has therefore changed from calling men to dream of the sweet bye and bye, to challenging them to make the most of the sweet now and now. The church of the future will demand for men every justice, and every blessing here on earth that in the past it has promised them in heaven. The church has come to realize that sanitary homes on earth may be of as much significance to some as is the promise of mansions in the skies; that religion is concerned about good health as well as about good morals. The two may be closely inter-related. Sin may be the result of ill health as often as it is the cause. Men pushed to the wall financially because of the expenses incurred by sickness and from being out of employment during the time, are more susceptible to the temptation of resorting to dishonest and ignoble measures in order to get on their feet again financially. The church is coming to realize more and more that it should be interested in every movement for social betterment, believing that in as much as it does for the least member of society, it does for the Saviour of the lives of men.

Though the church must ever keep in mind that its primary function is that of leading individual lives into a definite and vital personal relationship with God, still it dare not forget that any personal religion is spurious and meaningless that does not find expression in concrete service to mankind. The church has a mission "for the whole of life and for every life." The churches that have been preaching individual righteousness to the neglect of preaching social and national righteousness have not been responding to their full obligation, and just to the extent of that neglect they have been untrue to the Christ they represent. If the church is interested in the whole of life, it must express its concern in the promotion of social righteousness, laws of sanitation, commercial honesty and industrial justice. If it can prevail upon the civic authorities to protect the citizens by demanding that none but pure milk and pure food will be sold them; if it can launch movements to maintain public playgrounds for the children of the streets and those deprived of play privileges; if the church can promote such playgrounds where boys and girls can give proper expression to their play instinct, and thereby develop stronger bodies and more alert minds; if the church can organize men's clubs providing wholesome recreation and social uplift; if the church can organize mother's clubs and give help in solving their problems; if the church shows its interest in these things, its practical service will lead men and women to investigate its spiritual contribution to life.

"When you lighten the poor man's heavy load;
When you brighten the path they trod.
Perhaps when they learn of the love of man,
They will trust in the love of God."

R. C. H.

CAN RELIGION BE TAUGHT?

By CHARLES M. SHELDON
Author of "In His Steps: What Would Jesus Do?"

(From the Atlantic Monthly, October.)

The question raises a good many others. But suppose we start with a statement made by the greatest Teacher of religion the world has ever known. It is more than a statement; it is a command made to a small group of personal friends who were without social, political or commercial influence, and for the most part uneducated, or at least not educated in any professional definition of the term. The command of Jesus Christ followed this most astounding claim made for Himself:

"All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you."

It makes no difference what our position is today on the question of religion as a part of the education of a human being, so far as this astonishing command is concerned, for the historical fact is that these unlettered disciples of Jesus went out into the pagan world and began to obey the command of their Teacher. And they obeyed the command so well that what we know as Christianity was established as a ruling force in the history of the human race.

Was the thing that Jesus told His disciples to teach the whole world religion? How about that? What were they to teach? What had He commanded them to do?

If we are going to be able to answer the question "Can religion be taught?" we must first of all find out what Jesus told His disciples to teach. When we bring it all together we are amazed to find that the greatest of all religious Teachers did not teach any system of theology. All He taught was life as it ought to be lived. That to Him was religion. It was all condensed into two articles of one creed: supreme love of God, and love of one's neighbor.

But wait a moment. Of course this creed had some detail. It could be expanded into a number of things to be taught. And we find on expanding this teaching that it includes every item of human behavior. This simple thing known as religion means purity, meekness, mercy, peacemaking, justice, kindness, righteousness, brotherhood, forgiveness, faith, redemption, God, future, hope, love—the basic virtues of mankind, about which there cannot be any doctrinal dispute. And in his epistle we find James defining religion after this teaching of the Teacher:

"Pure religion and undefiled before our God and Father is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

But what has the human race done to this teaching of the Teacher of religion? It has woven into His basic teaching about human behavior the most intricate tangle of philosophy and metaphysics. It has made certain creedal statements necessary to salvation. It has divided the Christian world into sects and denominations, some of which have violently denied to others the right to call themselves true Christians. It has magnified the importance of certain words and theories about which Jesus Himself never uttered a word. It has involved the basic matter of human behavior toward God and the neighbor with non-essential and trivial discussions over doctrines that have nothing whatever to do with the way a man behaves. It has built up a system of forms and ceremonies about the thing called Christianity that are as far removed from the teaching of

(Continued on page 7.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The question of the relation of the Chaplains of the Army and Navy of the United States, in their present capacity, to War and Peace occupied the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council in Detroit. The Church is committed to peace and against war. The Chaplain, in uniform, living under military conditions and regulations, his whole environment in a military atmosphere, raises the question of whether the Church compromises her attitude by endorsing the present status of Army and Navy Chaplains. Can the Chaplain, while he remains an officer in the Army or Navy, be free from the policies of the War and Navy Departments? Is it possible to carry on religious help among the men in the Army and Navy in any other way better than the present plan? Great discussions of such questions resulted in approval of the present plan of Chaplains from the denominations on an equitable basis and under present regulations.

The purpose of the Chaplaincy is to put the religious teaching, the spiritual life, into the Army and Navy. The Chaplain is no more a part of the war program than the evangelist is a part of the life of sinners he is trying to lead to Jesus Christ. The Chaplain's task is to instill into the minds and hearts of soldiers and sailors the spirit of worship and devotion to God. His place in war is not to fight, but to pray, live, and teach. No minister has larger opportunity to witness for Jesus Christ than the Chaplain, and there is no field that needs such testimony more than soldiers and sailors. They are far removed from home influences, from church associations, from social refinements, and contact with the world. They live apart from those contacts which civilians enjoy. The Chaplain has an opportunity to present in a concrete way the religion that all men need.

This service of Chaplains for soldiers and sailors is more important in time of peace than in time of war. In time of war, the activities of the camp and the field are greater than in time of peace. The danger in battle, the dead and dying comrades, the wounded on the field of battle and in the hospitals, all tend to serious and spiritual thought. In time of peace there is nothing serious enough of itself to beget within men such serious thought; but time drags, imagination works, temptations creep in, and men need the religious man, the spiritual teacher, the man of prayer, to turn their minds to holy things and holy living. It is not the function of the Army and Navy Chaplains to render perfunctory service at stated times, but to live a life, to teach a gospel, to guide men in the way of character-building and spiritual life.

The Church would make a great mistake to withdraw Chaplains from the Army and Navy, lest the world think that the Church favors war. The Chaplaincy is just the opposite of that. It is a note of peace in the hymn of war. It is the voice of hope in the wail of despair. It is the star of safety in the night of woe.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Roger Babson, the well known statistician and loyal supporter of a militant and forceful Christianity, has founded at Wellesley Hills, Babson Park, Mass., the Babson Institute for training young men for business careers. This institution purposes to prepare the sons of rich men to take their places in the great business enterprises their fathers' genius has created. Babson's school is not for creators of business, but for clerks to carry out the ideas of such creators. He will save these sons three years in their preparation and $8,300 in money each, and all will be well. But I must print this appeal in full. It is spacious and it will require close thinking to detect the fallacy of this argument. He says:

"Colleges were founded to fit men for the ministry and later for the other professions. Vacations were instituted to permit the students to work on the farms when such work was possible. The professional man needed environment and the colleges were developed to supply such environment. They are still performing the functions they were designed to perform one hundred years ago. Greek is no longer required, and certain other changes in the curriculum have been introduced. Athletics and fraternities have become a great feature; but otherwise the average college of today is largely the same as that of yesterday minus the spiritual element—the most important of all.

"Men training for the professions or for teaching, should go to college for four years, but it is debatable whether most men training for business should do so. Leadership in business depends not on personally having a mass of information, but on being able to mobilize it through others. The business leader himself must have energy, initiative, vision, and ability to make decisions quickly. To train men along these lines, a short, intensive and rapid course of study may be absolutely essential. A course longer than two years tends to defeat the very purpose, while a twelve-months' course would be preferable. Such a course must train men to work, plan, and reach decisions with the use of business tools and business habits.

"Another thing: The four years that a young man spends at college are the most important four years of his life. They are the foundation years which determine to a very great degree his entire life. It is very important that during these four years he should form habits of integrity, industry, thrift, promptness, initiative, and other fundamentals of a successful business career—providing of course he is to enter business. Perhaps he can acquire these traits at the average college, but the chances are that, unless intensely interested, he is more likely to acquire the very opposite habits during four years of college work. Hence, I believe it is much better for him to spend one of these years in intensive training and the remaining three employed in the industry to which he is to devote his life. The important thing is for him to be, during these three years, with an up-to-date concern—one operated by men with the right motives.

"Some may say that a young man should study more courses than those which train only for business; that is, he should also have literature, art, and the cultural subjects. I agree that every business man who really is to live must love good books, true art, and constantly develop his best emotions. Men who do not enjoy this broader life, really do not live. On the other hand, must not the taste for such finer subjects be developed in the home? If the boy hears at home only talk about land, money, society, and golf, can any college professor do much for him? The best that can be done outside of the home is to prescribe certain courses of worthwhile reading which he can carry on during his years of employment and which he can follow with travel. The real desire for spiritual and cultural things usually comes with maturity. During a one-year course, it is possible to so help the boy that he always will know where to turn when this desire comes.

"Finally: There is the question of expense involved—although this is least important of all. Four years at the average college costs as follows:

Tuition, 4 years at $300.....	$ 1,200
Board and lodging, 4 years at $500.....	2,000
Allowance, 4 years at $600.....	2,400
Earnings lost:
First year	$ 1,000
Second year	1,300
Third year	2,000
Fourth year	2,400
	6,700

Total$ 12,300

Tuition	$ 2,000
Board, lodging and allowance	1,000
Earnings lost	1,000
	4,000

Total$ 4,000

"An intensive twelve months' course should cost:

"In other words, a four-year course at college really costs about $12,300; but a one-year intensive course—the very best procurable—should cost only $4,000 or less.

"I know this is a very unpopular doctrine to teach and that this pamphlet may develop harsh criticism, but it treats of something every parent should carefully consider. Moreover, I feel the importance of it so strongly that I personally am making a great sacrifice in time, nervous energy and money, to back up these theories with results. I refer to my interest in the Babson Institute, an endowed scientific institution, operated, not for profit, but to help young men along the lines above indicated."

The answer to it all is simple: you can't grow an oak tree in a year; if you want a sapling, a year will do. It should further be said that college education is only for the rich so costly as he indicates. Further, he may have padded the cost in order to conceal his own very excessive tuition rate of $2,000, which is $800 more than four years' college tuition, which price is far too high in his estimate.

W. A. HARPER.

P. S.—He also offers courses by correspondence for women who have financial responsibilities or who are to inherit money. It would be well for them to beware.

W. A. H.

MOTHER.

"Mother of the smiling eyes,
Love-illuminated, kindly wise,
Heaven's goodness shines straight through
Those clear orbs of softest blue;
To your deeply furrowed face
They impart an angel's grace.

"Mother of the helping hand,
There are few in all the land
With so many friends and true;
Those who know you, love you too.
Poor folks, rich folks, all agree
You've a heart of sympathy.

"Mother of the silver hair,
You have borne a weight of care,
But have never lost your zest
For the game of life, possessed
Of that gift of childhood joy
Which no hardship can destroy.
But, to sum it up, no other
Takes the place of you, my mother."

Selected.

(Continued from page 5.)

Jesus as He was removed from the Scribes and Pharisees of His own time. Jesus never said a word about evolution, about His own birth, about the absolute inerrancy of the Scriptures, about the necessity of assenting to a long doctrinal creed before one could be called a Christian and be saved. In His tremendous picture of the Last Judgment He based the final destiny of mankind on the way mankind behaved, not on doctrinal or theological beliefs. But mankind has not been willing to accept a religion so basic as the religion of Jesus, because it means doing the things He taught. It is, indeed, easier to give assent to the Westminster Confession than to love one's enemies. It is not so hard to believe in the inerrancy of the Scriptures as it is to practice the brotherhood of man.

It is because the whole definition of religion has been obscured and debased by all this doctrinal and formal treatment of it by theologians and controversialists that the problem of introducing the teaching of religion into an educational system has become a matter of debate and fierce argument, and refusal to acknowledge the right of religious training except in the home and in the church. The State has excluded Bible instruction from the public schools, not because the teachings of the Bible are harmful to the children, but because the interpretations put upon its teachings are so involved in doctrinal dispute and sectarian jealousy that it has been declared to be impossible to teach religion without at the same time teaching vast error and creating endless trouble.

If the reader will pardon a very personal illustration of this amazing fact in our educational life, I will relate what happened a few weeks ago when I was invited to address a high school in a certain State which I shall not name, although it is in the class with eleven other States of this country where the mere reading of the Bible is absolutely prohibited in the schoolroom. I accepted the invitation from the principal, and we were about to go into the assembly room where the students were gathered when he called me back into his office and with some embarrassment said, "I forgot to tell you that we are not allowed to say anything about religion in the schools of this State. You will, of course, in your address, bear this in mind."

"But," I protested, "I am going to talk to the students on the subject, 'Some Results of a True Education.' How can I talk on a subject like that and leave religion out? Religion is the very foundation of true education."

He looked more embarrassed than before, and replied, "It will make trouble for me with our school board if you mention religion in the course of your address."

Then I said, "I did not invite myself to speak to your students. The invitation came from yourself. But I do not see how I can talk about education and leave religion out. I will save you from all embarrassment or criticism by not making the address at all."

At that he looked thrice embarrassed. The hour had struck and the students were assembled. Finally, he said, "Well, go ahead and I'll risk it."

And I went ahead, and risked it for both of us, and if I remember correctly I said more about religion to that school than I have said in a long time. It seemed to me that they needed it, and I have not heard up to date that the principal has suffered from it.

But here is the remarkable situation that confronts education in the United States today. There are 32,000,000 children attending the public schools of this country. In thirty States there is no prohibition of Bible reading, but custom bars the discussion of religion by the teachers, except the historical discussion or teaching of the religion of the world, like Islam or Buddhism, as they are a part of a history course. In twelve States the use of the Bible in any form is forbidden. In six States Bible reading is a part of the school course. And the common reason given for all this is that religion cannot be taught with safety; that it is a thing for the home and the church. It is a principle, say the objectors to the teaching of religion in the schools, that Church and State must be separated. That principle, as it was intended by the framers of our Constitution, seems sound. But, while it may be good statesmanship to separate Church and State, it is poor education to separate a human being from religion. And it is a pitiful fact that in this republic there are, according to the census, over 27,000,000 American children and youth under twenty-five years of age who are not enrolled in any Sunday school and receive no systematic religious instruction. In other words, 66.5 per cent of all the youth in America are not enrolled in any religious schools, either Sunday or week day.

But if the Bible, or parts of it, should be permitted or compelled as a part of our educational system, what would prevent the teachers from interpreting the teaching according to their own sectarian or doctrinal bias? The whole matter seems to come back to the teachers, as in fact it would have to come. But I have been wondering what sectarian interpretation could be put upon the Ten Commandments, or the Beatitudes; or, for that matter, upon the entire life of Christ. It is a most astonishing fact that the great majority of people do not object to sending their children to the modern Sunday school, where in very many cases the most tremendous religious subjects are discussed by teachers who have had little or no training, and the ideas they put into the children's minds are not always what they ought to be, and in many cases are not true. And yet, as the years go by, the average citizen who has attended Sunday school in his own boyhood, and afterward sent his own boy, does not feel afraid of the influence of the Sunday school teaching. It is also a very significant fact that all over this country thousands of fathers and mothers are sending their children away to State schools and colleges where some teachers of philosophy and psychology are putting instruction into the minds of the students that undermines the religious teaching the children have had in the home and the church. But we do not hear of an uprising against the danger of indiscriminate teaching of these subjects by professors whom we should not allow to teach our children even the most elementary lessons of conduct based on the Golden Rule.

Our system of public education covers about every subject of human knowledge except religion. We have long courses in science, mathematics, history, philosophy, psychology, language, and in all of these courses error is taught. I was compelled in my university course to study the lives of Caesar, Napoleon, Alexander, Frederick the Great, and take exhaustive courses in the translation of the pagan poets and dramatists, some of whose writings would put me in the penitentiary if I were to try to send the English translations through the postoffice. I was taught by my teachers in history facts which I have since found out were the statements of violently biased nationalists or misinformed historians who described historical events from the standpoint of the man who tells about a dog fight where his own dog whipped the other, but does not tell the truth about how the fight began. As long as I live I shall have a very confused batch of so-called knowledge in my mind about certain historical events, because I have been finding out after getting away from the schoolroom that a good many things I was taught are not so. I was taught to believe that Napoleon and other killers like him were great men. I have had to make new definitions for myself about some of the so-called great men of history. I have had to take many of them down off the pedestal and bury them in the potter's field. And yet, in the midst of all this emphasis put on the material and militaristic side of human life, the only religious education the schools ever gave me was confined to a few chapel talks and the voluntary religious organization we ourselves started in the academy and in the university.

If it had not been for the religious instruction given me in my home and my church, so far as the public school and university courses were concerned, I might as well have studied in Peking or Constantinople the sciences and philosophies and histories I was compelled to take. I hope I am not hypercritical about our educational system, but I am quite sure that the students of my time were more familiar with, and those of this present time are more influenced in the schools by, the lives of pagan men and women than the life of the Best Person who ever lived.

I should not like to say how many books I was obliged to read about the scoundrels and liars and depraved personalities of the human race in the different centuries, beginning with Nero and coming on down to Benedict Arnold. I had to study them and their abnormal careers—but not a word about Jesus or His matchless teaching. That would be too dangerous. And in fact the study of Jesus and real obedience to what He taught is a very dangerous thing. If our educational system should some time put Him into the course, and if the students should somehow become really interested enough in Him to put His teachings into everyday practice, it would lead to a revolution which would be dangerous to established selfishness in the market place and even to century-old doctrines which have given the human heart a blow instead of a caress, and have made to stumble millions who otherwise would have walked joyously into the beauty and happiness that pure religion and undefiled always imparts.

But some one will say: If true religion is love to God and man expressed in concrete terms everywhere, and if what Jesus taught is behavior, how can His life be taught and studied in the schoolroom without taking into account His personality and the supernatural and miraculous which are interwoven into the very fiber of the story of His life? If the story of His life is taught in the schoolroom, what shall the teacher do with the Gospel narrative of healing, and angels and heaven and hell and the resurrection and the ascension and all the tremendous incidents that are linked up with the other world? Can religion be taught without teaching a great many things which a great many people frankly repudiate? How can religion as conduct be separated from religion as faith? How shall the average teacher in a public school system treat the life of Jesus and teach it so that the parents of the children shall not object to his own personal interpretation of the character and beliefs of Jesus Himself?

In trying to answer these questions, I put them frankly to a number of teachers in different high schools. The very first answer I received was a fair sample of all the others. The teachers said he would simply teach the Gospel narrative as it is actually told by the Gospel writer, just as he would teach the life of Mohammed or Napoleon as it is told by the his-

(Continued on page 14.)

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENNISON, Secretary.

Start 1926 by becoming a tither, also by making a personal and family budget, and keep accounts.

January is the month designated by the General Board for the special consideration of the Executive work of the General Convention of the Christian Church. Here we show how much we are really interested in the Christian church. Here we show how much we believe in it. If the Christians have a mission, any reason for their existence here is where we make it known. Here, this month, you and your church will prove your faith by your works and express it in your Convention offering. A great church cannot do its work on dimes and quarters alone; nor can it be supported by a part of the churches.

The Heart

The heart of the Every-member canvass is that two especially prepared men of the church go to the home and talk in person and in confidence with the member about his subscription explaining the importance of each item in the budget. Any other plan is not the best even though there may be commendable features.

The standard plan of the E. M. C. is now thoroughly established by the experience of thousands of churches as the permanent and successful method of financing a church for both the current expenses and the benevolences. A rapidly increasing number of our churches are using it. While we are writing this item the mail brings us the budgets and plan of the canvass in a most ideal way for our Red Cloud, Nebraska mission church, Rev. C. G. Nelson,

The canvass, as a method alone, is no guarantee of financial success. Preparation long in advance is needed; there must be thorough organization; education or training should be faithful and earnest. The solicitors should be carefully chosen and trained. There needs to be faithful, private solicitation, preparation, organization, education.

Winning a Contest

Last spring we conducted a Stewardship institute in the Christian church at Henderson, N. C. There was a large attendance and great interest. Members from nearby Christian churches and of other denominations were present. There is in Henderson a Men's Federation. Some of its members were so impressed with the value of stewardship teaching as a character builder that the Federation offered a dozen prizes to the young people of Vance County, between the ages of twelve and twenty years, who would study and write essays on the subject of Christian Stewardship. The first prize of three dollars was awarded to Miss Josephine Langston, of our Henderson church. She attended our Elon Summer School in August and took a deep interest in young people's work. Numbers of other young people competed and won other prizes. This is a valuable way to teach stewardship. It is frequently used in Sunday schools where pupils of high school age compete in essays on definitely assigned stewardship subjects. Information for reading contests may be secured from this office.

FEDERAL COUNCIL MEETING AT DETROIT.

F. G. COFFIN, A. M., D. D.

President, General Convention of the Christian Church

In addition to the important matters reported by other representatives to the Detroit Federal Council Executive meeting was the Christian attitude toward the Asiatic exclusion section of the immigration law. There was very little difference of opinion as to the unnecessary and even unchristian affront which this legislative act had been to oriental people. Upon no point did the Committee find itself more unanimous than that there was national unwisdom and Christian maladministration in the methods of securing limited immigration. There was a general regret expressed that since the new restrictions had kept out only a few dozen orientals there should have been caused all the international hard feelings and possible threat with practically nothing accomplished toward the real purpose which the legislation contemplated. The Council was of the opinion that the immigration issue should not be regarded as settled but that a quiet and persistent campaign of education should be promoted looking toward a legislative change at an appropriate future time.

The whole question of inter-racial relations loomed large upon the horizon of the Council, as it does in every Christian gathering having anything to do with world applications of Christian principles. Quite every nation is feeling the pressure of this problem and hunting a solution. In America, the self-styled melting pot of the world, there is a confessed inability to fuse all of the racial elements into a common democracy. The discussion in the Council indicated that much might be accomplished through a co-operative program between white and negro churches frankly dealing with the race questions of a local community in a Christian way. The inclusion of the churches of colored people in local federations and councils would also be promotive of better understanding and administration in these vexing questions. Instances were cited where by such co-operation race riots had been avoided and a more harmonious relationship established.

It was declared that the Christian church had not been broad enough in matters of common social concern. These problems are not Gentile or Jewish, Protestant or Catholic. They are human problems in the solution of which all should be enlisted. They are now of such significance to the success of the whole human family that every agency willing to co-operate should have that privilege and responsibility. The feeling of superiority held by the white races and certain religious groups is as preventive of world brotherhood as the backwardness of the backward races. The essential unity of the world's people under a common creative Fatherhood must be recognized and the welfare of mankind worked out from that point of approach. More frequent contacts of diverse social elements were urged. Acquaintance itself possesses a certain power to eliminate social poisons.

The Executive Committee urged a new emphasis upon church co-operation in the local community. Only by uniting in the community common tasks can there be exerted an effective Christianity. In the larger centers there should be employed an all time secretary to unite and promote all of the interests of Christianity in the community. In communities where the constituency is too small to permit so pretentious a program work of a similar kind may be promoted by agencies already in operation, utilizing their officials for this purpose. A Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A. secretary or some other official in Religious Education or Young People's work may be profitably used as Executive Secretary of a council of churches, thus tying together in effectiveness all of the community agencies of common purpose.

A new plan was inaugurated at this meeting. Heretofore the president of the Federal Council has called a meeting of the presiding officers of the several affiliating denominations into conference for the consideration of subjects connected with their official responsibilities. The gathering has usually been held in New York. This year this conference was called in connection with the Executive Committee meeting and was a delightful and profitable gathering. Several hours were spent in an interchange of plans and discussion of topics of mutual interest. A great value of this session was the closer fellowship which it promoted.

Though there was no disposition on the part of the Council to soft-pedal differences of opinion, there was a deep conviction that the unities of purpose should be stressed and sufficiently backed by organization to make them effective. The Council feels that sufficient demonstration of the principle of co-operation has accompanied its operation up to this time to prove its worth unquestionable. We may therefore proceed to make co-operative programs extensive and effective with the inner certainty that this is real Kingdom building of a kind against which the gates of hell shall not prevail.

SHALL MISSION MONTH HAVE A MEANING?

If our Christian Church is to grow, it must become missionary. (The word "become" is used in that sentence advisedly.) Our Mission Month as fixed by all the conferences laas fall, gives a wonderful opportunity to help make our church missionary. It is not going to cripple any pastor or church to observe, in the most energetic and liberal way possible, this Mission Month. Only those pastors and churches and people who do not observe it, and do their best for it, will be crippled, hurt, hindered, left the poorer financially and spiritually. Take the poorest church in all the land, one struggling to pay its pastor a meager salary and hold its own. That church will know a new day, and have an easier time paying its pastor and holding its own as it becomes missionary. Let that church observe Mission Month, give it a real meaning, and see what happens. We agree with the Richmond Christian Advocate in declaring: "The home church will itself know real growth and development in the supreme things of the Kingdom, only in so far as it is missionary. No band of men professing to believe in church teaching can claim to be Christian, unless it is missionary, and it is Christian in proportion to the extent that it is missionary. A true Christian experience, a real baptism of the Holy Spirit, a genuine missionary enthusiasm, invariably go together."

J. O. A.

Much of so-called Christian munificence is wasted charity. Men give because they are begged; they give as an advertisement and as a business investment, to causes that are neither Scriptural nor God-honoring. This is wrong.

In the support of God's work, the Christian should know that what he gives is sure to go where a whole Bible and a whole Christ is proclaimed.—Selected.

DISCIPLES CALLED CHRISTIANS.

BY REV. P. H. FLEMING, M. A., D. D.

[Annual Address before the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, Salem Chapel, Forsythe County, N. C., November 10, 1925. Published by request of the Conference.]

(Concluded.)

SOME PRESENT-DAY PROBLEMS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS.

Divided Protestantism. There is need of a greater solidity and spiritual unity in the Christian world of today. The Protestant Church sings:

"We are not divided,
All one body we,
One hope and one doctrine,
One in charity," and yet the Protestant Church is divided into many denominations, and sometimes into opposing camps. The Church can never do its best work thus divided,

The Church claims to want to reconcile the antagonisms of a war torn world, and to make war impossible, yet there is not unity within its fold.

The Church, as denominations, claims to want to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ to all mankind; and yet, the gospel that each denomination wants to proclaim at home and to take to the heathen, is their individual brand.

Would it not be well for the physician to heal himself?

May the day speedily come when the followers of Christ will be one, even as Christ prayed, "That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."—John 17: 21.

Social Conditions. A deadly danger in this age, is the absence of high ideals; and the increase of criminal tendencies among boys and girls of the 'teen ages. This condition is not only serious, but alarming. The average age of those who commit crime or violence is given as ten years younger than it was fifteen years ago. Delinquent boys and girls are reported in alarming numbers. It is said that prosecution of criminals cost this country last year, 1924, more than all gifts made to religious purposes.

There is evidently a breakdown somewhere, and the breakdown is being traced to the lack of home training, inefficient school discipline and instruction, and to the lack of definite and positive religious training and instruction by the church. And then there is the deadly divorce evil that is striking at the very foundation of the home and the very life of the nation. Destroy the home and you have wrecked the nation.

It is not well to sit supinely by and optimistically say, these conditions which confront the home, the school, the church, and society, will right themselves without an effort. I tell you nay. There must be repentance, faith, and work, or we perish.

Thorns and thistles grow without cultivation; but beautiful plants, fruits, and flowers need careful cultivation and culture. To stem the tide and change present day conditions, there must be prompt, strenuous and well-directed effort.

The church has the key and knows the way; but, alas! how slow to open the door and show the way. There is but one that can save, and strange to say, the church has almost forgot Him, Jesus, in its rush after pleasure, popularity, and material things. While the church squabbles over shibboleths, and is having its clubs, plays, and social functions, the world is dying for the simple gospel of Jesus Christ.

The world needs and even calls for a confident, positive church that stands by faith, even in this age which boasts of its scientific negatives.

The church needs a vision of God and of religion that stands by faith in the testimony of "evidence not seen."

In the language of another, "I envy no quality of mind or intellect in others, be it genius, power, wit or fame; but I would prefer a firm religious faith before every other blessing."

The Pulpit and the Pew. There is need for a clear and more definite call to the gospel ministry by those entering the ministry. The gospel ministry is a divine call. True gospel ministers are spoken of as chosen vessels, shepherds, overseers, stewards, ambassadors; all of which indicate a call, an appointment.

Those entering the ministry as the called of God and then departing from the Bible and the doctrines and commandments of men, and the unproven theories and deductions of science, as truth, are going far afield in the right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience. If they are Christians and the Bible is their rule of faith and practice, they must stick to the Bible and preach its truths. Liberty is not license.

I would bind no man's conscience; but I would not have any man profess one thing and then preach and teach another. If you believe the Bible, preach it; teach it; but if you do not believe it, show your colors; and the church and the world will know where to place you. A preacher must ever remember that he is an ambassador of Jesus Christ. He must deliver the message of his King, not his own.

Present day preaching is not equal to the task nor suited to the needs of the hour in righting the wrongs of this restless, uncertain, doubting age. It is at a low ebb in authority and adequacy. The right to command and enforce obedience with "Thus saith the Lord," is singularly lacking. There is need for prophets that will denounce sin and proclaim the message of salvation with "Thus saith the Lord."

The world of today is hungering for faith, hope, love and sympathy. It is not asking for sociological discourses, nor for dissertations, nor theories, but for truth, love, courage, for something upon which it can plant itself, firmly stand, believe, and trust. It is asking for a way out of the dark into the light. But instead of finding a bold, daring, believing and challenging church, it finds a halting, hesitating, questioning church. The church in bold, confident, defiant faith, ought to give to the lost, Jesus, who is the way, the truth, and the life.

Infidelity in the pulpit and the pew is no better than out of it; nor does its appearance in school or classical halls of learning make it sacred. The church, the pulpit, the school, that professes to be Christian and to believe the Bible, has no right to teach doctrines that are shot through and through with atheism, skepticism, infidelity and unbelief. I find myself here and now; and the book, the Bible, which tells me wither I am going, is the book that tells me who I am; whence I came; why I am here; and how I got here. I dare not throw overboard my chart and compass on life's tempestuous sea.

Strenuous efforts are being made in the present age to remove the ancient landmarks and to destroy faith in the old order of things and in spiritual verities, give us nothing to anchor our faith, hope and love to, but leave us to drift in uncertainty and unbelief without chart and compass.

Those who profess open-mindedness in search of truth and go at it in a sarcastic and flippant way will not find it. Truth is sacred and those who search for it and find it, in spiritual realms, must take their shoes off their feet and reverently worship Jehovah.

Reverence. There is a distinct need of reverence for and in the house of God and a holy fear for things spiritual. The church is built and dedicated to God, the Father; to Jesus Christ, His Son; and to the Holy Spirit, the Comforter. It is dedicated to worship; to the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ; to the communion of saints. It is not a hall; nor an open forum; nor a play house; nor a theatre; but a place for the meeting of God and His children. It is a place for worship.

The great open world is a play place for God's boys and girls; and there are undedicated halls and debating places for lectures and the open forum. Make not my Father's house a house of merchandise, said Jesus; and we ought not to make the church of the living God a play house, lecture hall, club-room, or place of amusement. Let there be reverence in the house of God, in the pulpit and the pew; in all the services of the church; and the music should be sacred, not the music of dance halls and pavillions.

Missions. The church must be missionary. The church that is not missionary in spirit and in effort might as well close its doors; for sooner or later, it will die.

Of Christ's twelve disciples, all were missionary, except one, and he was a traitor.

The command of Jesus still rings down the ages, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." The individual and the church that accepts Christ as head, commander, and leader, must be missionary in spirit and effort.

To meet the needs of the hour, there is need of superhuman wisdom, love and power. Much time needs to be spent in the school of prayer with Christ; and there must be an abiding faith in God that will not tremble on the brink of any earthly woe.

In the organization, principles, aims, things initiated, accomplished and in process, we see something of the spirit, visions, and great ideas of the denomination now known as Christian; and how their principles, doctrines, fellowship, and practices, comport with the church of apostolic times; with the church at Antioch where the disciples of Christ were first called Christians.

If these principles are rightly set forth, interpreted, lived, and propagated, I believe they will lead into the paths of righteousness where bloom the immortal flowers of truth, goodness and beauty.

The telephone bell rang, and one of the group in the living room went to answer it. Her part in the conversation came back readily to the circle she had left, and called forth this remark from the guest, who was an old friend:

"What a clear, pleasant voice Helen has."

"When she talks over the phone," admitted the little girl of the family with judicial deliberation, and then she wondered at the burst of laughter that followed a moment's silence.

Whether or not her comment really meant what it seemed to imply, the fact remains that in many homes the voices that are sent out are very different from those that are kept for household use. The tartness, the whining, the ungraciousness, do not greet the caller at the front door or the acquaintance over the wire, and a sudden change of tone from unpleasantness to bright friendliness is often so marked that no hearer can fail to note it. Voice cultivation is worth while, but it should not be wholly for export.—Forward.

"The Association opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment is inviting us back to exactly what we had before, and we won't go."—Clarence True Wislon

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson No. III.—January 17, 1926.

“JESUS AND NICODEMUS.”

FULL LESSON: John 3: 1-17; 7: 45, 52; 19: 38-42.

PRINT: John 3: 5-17.

GOLDEN TEXT: “God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have eternal life.”—John 3: 16.

Here is one of the night scenes of the Bible. It is immortal because it is the setting for John 3: 16, which has been called the heart of the gospel, or the “little gospel.” Few passages in the Bible have more of that spiritual power and appeal than these few verses. Here the Word becomes living with power.

“He that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out,” said Jesus. In last week’s lesson it was two humble fishermen who sought him out. The Master received them and talked with them about the Kingdom of God. In this week’s lesson it is an “elder,” a “master in Israel,” a member of the Sanhedrin, the highest religious tribunal of the Jewish nation. The Master receives him and likewise talks to him about the things of the Kingdom of God. Let us learn this lesson. The Lord of all being is great and he has many a varied interest, but He is always accessible to those who call upon Him in spirit and in truth. We have not, because we ask not.

Nicodemus came by night. He may have done this because he could not get an “appointment” with the busy young teacher during the day. Or, he may have come at night because he felt a sense of delicacy in coming, as one of the rulers to this young “Rabbi” or “Teacher” as he called him. In either event, the man was probably sincere, even though his problem was theoretical or theological, rather than personal and vital. As an elder man, steeped in current and traditional theology, he found it hard to accommodate his thinking to the new ideas which Jesus had been teaching.

The Master struck at the heart of the problem. He calmly and bluntly said that “except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.” Spiritual things are spiritually discerned, and no man in his natural or unregenerate state can see the deeper spiritual things of the Kingdom of God. It is only as the Spirit of the living God regenerates him, only as it renews his moral character, that a man can see or enter the Kingdom. Jesus on a later occasion said that there were men who had eyes but did not see—did not see the real meaning of life; did not see evidences of God’s presence and activity in the world; did not see the supremacy of spiritual values. We must be born again.

Jesus said three plain things about the new birth. He said first of all that it was necessary. We must be born again. Here is the beginning of real religion. When the God whom men argue about becomes the God of the inner life, religion begins. Just as a man must be born into the world of physical things, just so must a man be born into the world of spiritual things. There will never be any Christian life unless there is spiritual birth. This does not mean, of course, that every man must have the experience in the same way. It does not mean that every man must go through the long drawn-out agony which used to be characteristic of the average revival service. It does mean that a man must have that experience. Except a man be born again of the Spirit of God, he cannot see the Kingdom of God, to say nothing of getting into it. Flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God.

In the second place the new birth is mysterious. Jesus used a familiar figure here. Just as the wind blows and one hears it, but cannot tell from whence it comes or whether it goeth, just so is the new birth. One is always in the realm of mystery when he is dealing with spiritual things. It is not to be wondered at, nor need it lessen the value of the experience, if one cannot explain the how of the new birth.

In the third place, the new birth is real. A man may not be able to explain it, but he knows it as a fact in his life. “We speak that we do know,” said Jesus. The blind man did not know whether Jesus was a sinner or not, but he did know that whereas he was blind, now he saw. He who in the spirit of penitence and humble faith, turns to God through Christ, knows that something has taken place in his life. God’s spirit beareth witness with his spirit that he is the child of God. Let no man deceive himself here. A man may know he has been born again.

It might be remarked in passing that while in this particular instance Jesus had much to say about the new birth, in other instances, and in a general way, throughout all his teaching, he had much to say about growth after birth. It is very important that a baby be born into the world. But it is just as important that that baby be fed and nurtured and trained. It were better sometimes that folks had not been born at all, than having been born, they have been cast adrift. Just so in the spiritual life. It is very important that men and women be born again. In fact, as has been said, it is not only important, it is necessary. But it is just as important and just as necessary that having been born again, they are fed and nurtured and trained in spiritual things. The man who looks back to a certain specific date or experience as the experience of salvation, and who does nothing else, will soon have no salvation to boast of. Here is the tragedy of so many lives. Having been born babes in spiritual things, they remain babes all their lives. Christian nativity is necessary, but Christian nurture is just as necessary. It is not enough to be saved or born again by grace; we must grow in grace.

“For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have eternal life.” Here it is, the whole gospel in one verse. Man, finding in sin his chiefest peril, and doomed to defeat unless there is the intervention of a power not of himself that makes for righteousness; Jesus Christ coming as the one who should make the supreme contribution to man’s fight for great character against sin; faith in Jesus Christ—not speculative beliefs about Jesus, but a giving of one’s self to Jesus—as the way of eternal life. And all of this born of love in the heart of God, a love which was all-inclusive, for whosoever believeth in him should not perish. Why did God give? Because He loved. Whom did God give? His only begotten Son. To whom did He give Him? To whosoever would believe in Him. To reject this love, or to distrust this love—he that doeth these things is condemned already. That is the essence of sin.

Teaching Points.

1. No man could have done the things that Jesus did unless God had been with him.
2. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned.
3. The wisdom of God is often foolishness to the natural man.
4. The mystery of spiritual things does not lessen their reality.
5. Christianity is more of an experience than a discussion.
6. If a man does not believe natural things, he will hardly believe heavenly things.
7. God sent His Son into the world to save the world.
8. Christian nurture is as necessary as Christian nativity.
9. The supreme sin is to refuse Christ.

MISSIONS PROGRAM. WOMEN’S SOCIETIES.

“Every step in the progress of Missions is directly tracable to prayer.”

Prayer is the Strategy of Missions:

- a. Bible reading: Ephesians 3: 14-21.
 - b. Prayer for various denominations, for missions, for unity of spirit.
- The leader should outline the purpose of the chapter, as given in the outline on pp 75-77. She should close her statement by introducing the various denominational representatives, who are to explain how the whole Church of Christ shared in the missionary enthusiasm born of prayer.
- a. The Presbyterian giving a sketch of Robert Miller and his earliest books on the primacy of prayer in the missionary enterprise.
 - b. The Methodist tells of the rise of Methodism and gives an account of Bishop Coke, pp 77, 79.
 - c. The Congregationalist tells of Jonathan Edwards call to intercessory prayer, p. 77.
 - d. The Baptist follows with a story, p. 78.
 - e. The Episcopalian tells of the organization of the church Missionary Society, p. 79.
 - f. The Moravian tells how her missionary history began in the prayers of Zinzendorf, pp. 82-83.

2. Paper, “The Haystack Prayer Meeting.”
 3. Examples of believing in prayer. Let five women instance the experience of:
 - a. The China Inland Mission, pp. 77-78.
 - b. The Telugu Mission, pp. 92-93.
 - c. Prayer Meeting Hill, p. 95.
 - d. Prayer in Burma, p. 96.
 - e. Founding of Union Christian College, pp. 96-100.
 4. “The Four Walls of Opportunity.” Leaflet.
 5. “By Special Messenger.” Leaflet.
- Hymn: “What a Friend We Have in Jesus.”
Prayer.

YOUNG PEOPLE’S SOCIETIES.

“Whosoever prays most, helps most.”

Roll Call: Each member responds with the name of some famous Slav. See “High Adventure.”

Dues collected.

1. A short discussion of last lesson.
2. “A Long Look Across the Sea.”
3. Tell something about the Orthodox church; the Roman church; the Protestant church; the Christian Church.
4. Devotional period—Hymn, prayer.
5. “The Four Walls of Opportunity” and “By Special Messenger,” leaflets.
6. Refreshments and social hour.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to realize the naturalness of prayer, to help them talk with God.

(Continued on page 11.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The children at the Christian Orphanage had a very pleasant and happy Christmas day, and it passed off without anything to mar the joy of the occasion. And when the day had come to a close and the sun had hid itself behind the western horizon and the last beams had faded away and the stars had begun to twinkle, we could not help but feel that we had enjoyed a real happy day.

"Old Santa" was good to the children. He gave the little girls dolls and the little boys jumping monkeys, wagons, trains, and kicking horses, and many other things. The larger children received ties, handkerchiefs, face powder, and many little things to make them happy and feel that while they were in an orphanage, some one had thought of them and had contributed to make the occasion a happy occasion for them.

We had on our yard this year four nice turkeys, and the matrons had prepared them for the children's dinner and with the most excellent ice cream furnished by the Durham Ice Cream Company and the apples, oranges, grapes and many other things, along with our nice fresh meat of our own raising, we had a most excellent dinner, and the little fellows had a real joyful time.

One of the happy parts of this work is to do something to make the children happy and to show them, though orphans, that somebody thinks of them and loves them.

We want to express to one and all our many thanks for any part you have taken in helping to make this Christmas time a happy occasion for our little children. It was kind of you and we are grateful.

We did not have a single unhappy child in the institution. All seemed to be as happy as if they had been in their own homes with their own fathers and mothers.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JANUARY 7, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 31,713.24
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Reidsville	$ 6.21
Greensboro, Palm Street	7.56
Elon College, Citizen's Class	4.09	17.86
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Dendron (for quarter)	$ 19.00
Norfolk	5.00	24.00
Western North Carolina Conference:
Zion (Nov. and Dec.)	1.70
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Auburn (Oct., Nov., Dec.)	4.50
Alabama Conference:
Wadley	1.38
Valley Virginia Conference:
Antioch	$ 4.52
Timber Ridge	1.50	6.02
Special Offerings:
A friend, Durham	$ 15.00
Interest on bond	30.00
C. D. Johnston	3.00
Mrs. Bessie Jordan	25.00	73.00
New Building Fund:
Young Men's B. C., Burlington ...	$ 40.00
Ladies' Bible Class, Young Men

and Women's Class, East End Church, Newport News, Va., on a subscription for 1925	73.60
Class No. 1, Holland, Mrs. J. E. Luke, teacher	5.00
Mrs. M. A. and Miss Edith Walker	25.00

143.60

Thanksgiving and Christmas Offerings:
Turner's Chapel	$ 5.45
Big Oak	8.20
Wake Chapel	113.04
Frankliuton	25.42
Union (Surry)	18.50
A friend, Dendron, Va.	20.00
Ladies' Aid, Leaf River, Ill.	6.00
Philathea Class, Winchester, Va.	1.00
Brown's Chapel	3.44
Bethany (Val. Va.)	2.55
Shiloh, Church and S. S.	6.10
Dendron S. S.	20.70
Mrs. J. M. Roberts	1.00
Antioch (Va.) S. S.	2.25
Senior C. E., Graham Prov. Mem.	25.00
Johnsou's Grove	8.47
Oak Grove	5.15
Mr. G. M. Womble	10.00
Timber Ridge Church	30.80
Hebron	13.60
Union (Va.)	29.31
John H. Turner	8.00
Cragford	5.00
Oakland	6.00
Auburn Church and S. S.	10.50
Antioch, Windsor, Va.	18.27
Mt. Zion Church and S. S.	20.00
Chapel Hill	11.76
First Greensboro S. S.	10.00
Seagrove Church	11.35
Berea Church, Driver, Va.	36.35
Henderson Ch. and S. S. Chr. Tree	12.00
Fred Campbell	1.00
Class No. 5, Jr. Dept., Suffolk	8.50
Stella Johnstou	10.00
Cypress Chapel S. S.	7.50
Christiau Light Church and S. S.	25.00
T. W. Trogden, High Point	5.00
Mrs. J. H. Pierce	1.00
Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Copeland	5.00
Ladies' Aid, Haubstaldt, Ind.	5.00
Greensboro White Gift Collection .	12.10
O'Kelly Bible Class, Greensboro ..	14.00
J. L. Andrews, Carboro	5.00
Shady Grove Church	1.19
Mrs. J. E. Vincent	10.00

619.50

Total for week

$ 892.56

Grand total

$ 32,605.80

MISSIONS PROGRAM.

(Continued from page 10.)

"Brave Adventurers": "The Count who Wrote Letters to Jesus."

1. Worship Period: Hymn, Scripture Reading, Prayer. Roll Call and Dues collected.

2. Discussion Period:

a. Do you wish you had lived when Jesus was on earth, and could have talked with Him?

b. Tell the story of the Count who wrote letters to Jesus c. Do you think Count Zinzendorf would have been a good friend, a good playmate when a boy?

d. Would you like to become a member of the "Order of the Grain of Mustard Seed"?

3. Each member might write a letter to some other member, telling the story of the little Count.

4. Refreshments and Social Hour.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY.

SELF CONTROL.

"Be not hasty in thy Spirit to be angry; for anger resteth in the bosom of fools."—Ecl. 6: 9.

"Hold thy peace and I will teach thee wisdom."—Job. 33: 33.

"In your patience ye shall win your souls."—Lk. 21: 19.

Other lessons: Psa. 25: 9; Eph. 4: 2, 3, 31, 32; Col. 3: 15; Isa. 29: 19; Prov. 25: 28; 13; Matt. 18: 21; Col. 4: 6; Gal. 6: 1; I. Tim. 6: 3-4; Job 6: 24; Prov. 16: 32; 19: 11; 10: 12; 14: 17; 15: 1; 29: 22; Lk. 21: 19; 6: 33; Matt. 18: 4.

Tennyson said that happiness in this life consists not in the presence of but in the mastery of passions. Be sure to read the above scriptures and see how nearly correct he was.

Prayer.—Our Father, give us Thy conquering strength through Jesus Christ, that we may be masters of ourselves always. Give us guidance in Justice, satisfaction in waiting, the joy of peace, sweet harmonies of soul. Make us helpers and keep us from doing foolishly ever. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

FRIENDSHIP.

"A friend loveth at all times."—Prov. 17: 17.

"Faithful are the wounds of a friend."—Prov. 27: 6.

Some friendships come to short and poor conclusions because they are built on the fragile texture of fun and fancy instead of the tough fibre of the human heart; because they are sought and nourished with the adulterated passion of quick and ready benefit and not sacredly. The laws of friendship are austere and eternal and a part of our natures and morals. It is like fruit. It takes many summers and winters to ripen it.

It is something that brings aid and comfort through all the relations and passages of life and death. It is serene in storm and Grace in the calm. In the rough ways, the hard fares, poverty and persecution, it keeps us company; in drudgery it adds rythm and reason. We dignify it in faithfulness, embellish it with courage and fortify it with wisdom and unity.

Prayer.—Our Father, give us friendship, real like the Master's. Make it the solidest thing in our lives. May we lose ourselves in the welfare of others and be like Christ. In His name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

CHEERFULNESS.

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine, but a broken spirit drieth up the bones."—Prov. 17: 22.

"It has been said that laughter, while it lasts, slackens and embraces the mind, weakens the faculties, and causes a kind of remissness and dissolution in all the powers of the soul; and in such a sense it may be looked upon as a weakness in the composition of human nature."

But if we consider the frequent reliefs we receive from it, and how often it breaks the gloom which is apt to depress the mind and damp the spirit, if we consider the physical benefit, the permanent heartiness of soul and satisfaction of mind, the blessings of its fellowship, yea, the transient and unexpected joy it gives us and others, we will take care not to grow too wise at the price of so great a pleasure.

Prayer.—Our Father, we believe thou hast made us to laugh as well as to weep. We pray that we may use both of these faculties aright and for the good of ourselves, of one another, and for the glory of God. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

THURSDAY.

LIFE'S HIGHEST COMPACT.

"Buy truth and sell it not."—Prov. 23: 23.

"Stand therefore, having girded your loins with Truth."—Eph. 6: 14.

"Seeing ye have purified your souls in your obedience to the truth unto unfeigned love of the brethren, love one another from the heart fervently."—I. Peter 1: 22.

Emerson said, that the highest compact anyone can make with another is, let there be truth between us forever. It is sublime to be able to say of another, whether I meet, or speak, or write to him; or even should we never renew our friendship or send tokens of remembrance; I can rely on him as truly as on myself; if he did thus or did not thus, I know it was right.

Prayer.—Our Father, give us more faith to trust in Thee and to have more of Thy Spirit in all our living with another. Forgive us of our sins, our short-comings, remissness, and strengthen us in the truth forever. In His name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

MAKING CHOICES OF LIFE.

"Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil and choose the good."—Isa. 7: 15.

This is the prophecy concerning Jesus. When He came, He taught that one of the supreme lessons in Christianity was to desire and to know how to eschew evil and choose the good.

Abraham Lincoln once wrote, that there are few things wholly evil and few things wholly good. Almost everything is an inseparable compound of the two, so that our best judgment is in continual demand to choose that which is best. Sometimes, it is not a question of duty or not, but highest duty.

Prayer.—Our Father, we thank Thee that Thou hast not cut us off in our shortcomings. Forgive us and choose us and help us to choose Thee. Give us the power to choose between the good and the evil, and in all do Thy will. Amen.

SATURDAY.

HAPPINESS.

"He that keepeth the law, happy is he."—Prov. 29: 18.

"Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord, that walketh in his ways, for thou shalt eat the labor of thy bonds."—Psa. 128: 1-2.

"Happier is he who has only a dinner of herbs, but has love with it, than he who has this world's goods in abundance and hatred therewith."—Prov. 15: 17.

Lots of folks think they have to make other folks good. It can't be done. Each of us has one person to make good: self. Our duty to others may be better expressed by saying, "I love to make them happy." This is the shortest route to goodness.

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us our mission toward others. Make us willing and give us the power to carry the spirit of Christ to all. And let us not forget Thy Word, that insomuch as we do something for the good of others we do it for Thee. Forgive us and bless us, we ask it in the name of Christ. Amen.

SUNDAY.

DOING GOOD AND ITS REWARD.

"Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them; else ye have no reward with your father who is in heaven. . . . Sound not the trumpet, as the hypocrites do . . . that they may have glory of men . . . but let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth . . . and thy Father who seeth in secret shall recompense thee."—Matt. 6: 1-2.

"One man, when he has done a service to another is ready to set it down to his account as a favor conferred. Another is not ready to do this, but still in his own mind he thinks of the man as a debtor, and he knows what he has done. A third, in a manner does not even know what he has done, but he is like a vine which has produced grapes, and seeks for nothing more after it has produced its proper fruit.

As a horse when he has run, a dog when he has caught the game, a bee when it has made its honey, so a man when he has done a good act does not call out for others to come and see, but he goes on to another act as a vine goes on to produce again the grapes in season.

Must a man then be one of these, who in a manner acts thus without observing it? Yes, what more dost thou want when thou hast done a man a service? Art thou not content that thou hast done something comfortable to thy nature, and dost thou seek to be paid for it, just as if the eye demanded a recompense for seeing, or the feet should demand a recompense for walking."—Marcus Aurelius.

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us Thy way of love, make our living and our service one of love and demanding nothing but love's price. In the name of Christ we ask it. Amen.

FROM SANFORD.

On November 1st we began revival services in our Sanford Church, which continued three weeks. Rev. H. C. Caviness, North Carolina Conference evangelist, did the preaching. He is a preacher of forceful style and personality, and presents the truth in love, but faithfully and fearlessly. We had a packed house from the beginning. There were many conversions and many renewed their vows. The spiritual life of our people was deepened. There were seventeen additions to our church and quite a number gave their names for membership with other churches.

Rev. M. R. Moss was with us as pianist and personal worker. He rendered valuable service, both in the church services and in the homes. I trust our churches will keep these brethren busy, and I am sure that our Master's Kingdom will be advanced wherever they serve.

Beginning with this conference year, Sanford Church has full-time service. The pastor preaches twice a month at Turner's Chapel. When he is absent a program committee arranges for the service at Sanford in a most satisfactory way.

Signs of quickened life and interest are seen in every department of our work.

The Christian Endeavor services are largely attended and are interesting and helpful.

The Woman's and the Young People's missionary societies are doing splendid work. The Ladies' Aid Society continues as one of our most active and helpful auxiliaries.

The Sunday school, under the leadership of Prof. J. S. Truitt, recently reached the highest number in attendance in the history of the church. For all these signs of growth we thank our people for their splendid cooperation, and we give to God the honor.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

ON HIS ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY.

Elon College, Jan. 1.—An occasion unique in the annals of North Carolina occurred here this morning when Rev. J. W. Wellons, D. D., Chaplain of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home at Greensboro, celebrated his 100th birthday by preaching a sermon to more than 800 of his friends who assembled in the Whitley Auditorium Building. These friends came from all parts of the State to see and hear this venerable minister, and many from outside the state.

"Uncle" Wellons, as he is familiarly known to all his friends, has been a minister of the Christian Church for more than 75 years, and has rendered a long and faithful service to the cause of the Kingdom of Christ. He has looked forward to his 100th birthday for some time, and thinks that this sermon will be the last time he will be able to appear in public. His sermon was wonderfully clear for a man of his age and carried a message gained from experience.

Preceding Dr. Wellons in the pulpit, Hon. Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy and a life-long friend of Uncle Wellons, spoke words of greeting to this venerable brother and to the congregation. President W. A. Harper, of Elon College, introduced him as one of the greatest private citizens this state has produced, and as an outstanding public citizen.

Mr. Daniels began by saying: "We are to congratulate ourselves that we live in a commonwealth with the same great man as Uncle Wellons." He depicted something of the change of conditions in the material world since 1826, the date of the birth of Dr. Wellons. He described the pioneer days of that time, but stated that no change in heart had occurred, and that the spirit that guided people then must guide us today. He stated that he first knew Uncle Wellons at Franklinton, where he had been pastor for twenty years. "Youth is the great cry of today," he said, "but we must not forget our debt to age. Age with experience, knowledge, and judgment must guide the Ship of State."

He concluded his speech by saying: "We have come today for two things, first, to begin the New Year by praying to Almighty God that we may have some of the spirit and earnestness of this great man and of his service to mankind; and second, that we shall hear this good man give us from his long life and experience the foundation principles of the Christian life. Therefore, let us hear him as a man bringing out from long experience lessons that cannot be learned in any books."

Dr. W. W. Staley, a minister of Suffolk, Va., brought on behalf of the whole ministry of the Church words of greetings also. Dr. Staley stated that all the ministers knew Uncle Wellons, and all loved him and all received inspiration from his life, and looked to him as an example. He has made a remarkable success as a minister, Dr. Staley said, and that this success was due to his great love, perseverance, and popularity. Under his ministry more than seven thousand people have been converted, a greater number than any other minister in the Christian Church has been able to convert in a life-time.

President Harper, of Elon College, presided over the anniversary occasion. Drs. P. H. Fleming and J. O. Atkinson offered prayers, and Dr. W. S. Alexander, college pastor, read the scripture. Following the sermon an informal reception was given by the people of the village to Uncle Wellons and the visiting friends in the Y. W. C. A. hall. At the conclusion of the sermon Dr. Fleming presented Uncle Wellons a purse of $100 in gold given by 100 people. Also another purse was presented at that time.

As Dr. Wellons came into the auditorium the audience stood in recognition of this venerable brother on his 100th birthday. Great of stature, which evidences great physical strength in youth, with white hair and beard, he made a fine picture as he sat in the pulpit and looked many years younger than the actual record of his age.

Dr. Wellons took as the text for his sermon: Matt. 6:33. "Seek First the Kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

To the young people Dr. Wellons spoke words of encouragement, admonishing them to seek for the solid things of life, and pass over the frivolous. He urged them in reading to seek for the best, urged church attendance, and obedience to parents. To the parents he spoke next, urging them to seek a true love for the Christian religion, and to teach religion to their children. Finally he spoke to the pastors, urging them to preach to win souls, and not to preach for money and popularity. He said that the winning of souls for the cause of Jesus Christ was the greatest and noblest work in all the world.

Dr. Wellons was born January 1, 1826, in Sussex County, Virginia, near the Southampton line. His father, Hartwell Wellons, and his mother, Polly Stephenson Wellons, were farmers at Smithfield, Va. Dr. Wellons was the third child of the family, his two brothers and one sister being now deceased. Uncle Wellons was educated at Graham College.

His duties at the Home at Greensboro keep him quite busy looking after the spiritual welfare of the inmates there. He has been a trustee of Elon College from the day the charter was granted, March 11, 1889, and has never missed a meeting of the Board of Trustees during all these years. His counsel has been invaluable, and through his prayers the administrators of the college have been greatly aided in their work. The building in which he preached on his 100th year, the Whitley Memorial Auditorium, is one of a group of five new buildings on the Elon College campus erected to take the place of the main building burned in 1923. "Uncle" Wellons was very instrumental in securing a number of large gifts for the rebuilding program. Elon College is the pride of his heart, and its success his joy.

The mind of this venerable minister goes far back into the years. He can remember, as a boy of five years, seeing Nat Turner, the Virginia slave who was leader of an insurrection in 1831, hanged at Jerusalem, near Courtland, Va.

In 1837, when 11 years of age, he joined the Christian church, becoming a member of Barrett's congregation in Virginia. In 1854 he officially joined the North Carolina and Virginia conference as a minister, though he had assisted in ministerial work, and held pastorates before this. Just within the last few weeks he attended the general session of this body at its general meeting in Greensboro, which he thinks will be the last time he will be able to attend.

In 1856 he was officially ordained as a minister of the Christian church in Hank's Chapel church near Pittsboro, N. C. For several years prior to his ordination he was minister on a circuit in Moore county, but after being in this work for several years he was forced to retire because of illness. He then went to Suffolk to live, where he assisted other Christian ministers in their work.

When the Civil War came General Mansfield requested him, along with the other ministers to leave Suffolk, but he at first refused to go, staying on and doing his preaching and work of ministry there amidst the activities of war. Finally, however, he did leave Suffolk and until the close of the war lived with his father in Sussex county. Later he lived in Petersburg, and from there came to North Carolina where he took charge of the Franklin circuit, which he served for 20 years. In 1900, Dr. Wellons gave up the active pastorate and made his residence at Elon College, where he has served as co-pastor for 25 years, having recently been elected co-pastor emeritus. His work at the college among the students has been one of real influence and benefit.

About two years ago he was elected Chaplain of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, and since that time he has made his home there. Dr. Wellons is the oldest Mason in the State of North Carolina, and attends sessions of the lodge whenever it is possible for him to do so. He is beloved by all the Masons. He joined the Graham lodge seventy years ago, and has held many offices in the different bodies. He has also for many years been an active member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

In addition to his long service in the ministry, Dr. Wellons, is also known as a writer and editor. He has assisted with the editorial work and management of the denominational periodicals of his church, and has written five books, the last of which was written during his 94th year. In spite of his great age, Uncle Wellons has always held an open mind in regard to new methods and progressive measures. He reads the papers and keeps up with all the current news. He is enthusiastic over education, especially Christian Education, and never loses an opportunity to sponsor it.

C. M. CANNON.

MATERIAL VERSUS SPIRITUAL.

There is a cause, I think, for the recoil of the soul upon itself and the awakened interest in the interior life of men. All the characteristic achievements of the Western world in general and of America in particular this last generation have been material—things that could be seen, touched, weighed, measured, inventoried. As Emerson said, things are in the saddle and ride mankind. One of the wealthiest men in the United States said to me a few months ago, "If I had my way I would not own so much." We do not own the things we own; the things we own own us; and oftentimes they get upon our backs. That is not simply true of a millionaire man, it is true also of a millionaire civilization. We do not own the things we own. What we own owns us, and gets upon our backs. We invent automobiles to make transportation simpler, but automobiles do not make life simpler, they make it more complex. We invent telephones to make communication easier, but telephones do not make life easier, they make it more complex. We go out in the summertime to endeavor to reproduce a little of the simplicity of the lives our fathers used to live. Coming back to the city, our spirits rebel against things. For we do not live by things, but by meaning, by the inner significance of life, by the resources and purposes of the soul. After a rather magnificent generation of external development in America, where we have been exploiting a new continent, we are beginning to get the reaction. There is one verse of one of the Psalms that expresses the mood of multitudes of my own country: "Bring my soul out of prison."—Selected.

(Continued from page 7.)

torian. If the narrative included miracles and the supernatural, that would simply be a part of the history lesson because it was there.

If there is a better answer than that I should be glad to have it. As a matter of fact, I believe the seriousness of the problem is more apparent than real, and in practice it would be found that a regular course in the life of Jesus, taught by the average teacher in the public schools of this country, would not become a course of personal interpretation of disputed doctrines, but it would become a study of Him who taught the way of Life. The danger arising from studying and teaching any part of the Bible in our schools is insignificant compared with the danger of not teaching it at all.

Of course, if the general public fears the use the teacher would make of the life of Jesus in the classroom, that brings up again the whole subject of the teacher's character and purpose. And that would suggest a subject of another article to go with this. Of course, I do not need to explain my own position when I say that I think a teacher who is going to teach my children religion ought to be religious, and I hope that is the ideal that all true educational leaders are advancing and teaching.

But what insuperable difficulty would there be in putting the life of Jesus into a public school curriculum? What theological or doctrinal confusion would arise over the learning of the Ten Commandments in the schoolroom? Is the real trouble over the teachers? Can they not be trusted to teach religion as conduct, not as doctrine? It raises some very serious questions all along the line; and if the educational forces of America are ready to confess that the teaching of religion is impossible on account of the character of the teachers, that confession in itself ought to raise more questions still. Put into a practical form, how many of the readers of this simple paper, as they look over the list of the teachers in their own home town, either in the graded schools, the high schools, or the State university, would fear to have the teachers in those schools teach Johnny or Mary the life of Jesus as the Gospel of Mark has given it to us? Would they teach Johnny or Mary that Jesus was a Fundamentalist or a Modernist? Would they try to teach that Jesus was a Presbyterian, or a Methodist, or an Episcopalian? Or that He favored this or that theological doctrine of the Trinity? As I look over the teaching list of my own State of Kansas, I find myself quite willing to trust my boy in the classroom of the teachers in our high schools or university in a course on the life of Jesus, taken right out of any of the Gospels. I do not believe he would receive any more incorrect or biased teaching than he sometimes received from some teachers in my own church Sunday school when he was small. I know some ministers I should not want to trust to teach my boy in a course on the life of Jesus. But when it comes to interpreting the meaning of Jesus' plain teaching about how the human race ought to behave, I am very confident that the average American school teacher would not begin to make the false and grotesque statements that some of my teachers made to me about the glory of war and political economy that was divorced from every ethical and moral standard.

If religion cannot be taught, why did Jesus tell His disciples to teach it? If it can be taught safely only in the church and in the home, how about the millions of youth that never have any religious instruction in either of these places, but are in daily attendance on the public school? If the teachers now employed cannot be trusted to teach religion, is it because they do not have any, or is it because they have a wrong definition of it? Or is religion in the very nature of the case a thing that belongs to the emotions, a thing which one has to learn for himself and which no course in education can teach?

The answers to these questions will depend largely on the way you yourself have been brought up, and on the definition you have of religion. But the need of some form of religious instruction hardly calls for argument or debate. All thinking people agree that fully developed life must have something more in it than the accumulation of facts. Even if the facts are necessary for comfort and physical happiness there is something lacking. But before the educational and ecclesiastical world will come together in a common assent to this need, both sides will have to make new definitions. The pharisee in the church is answerable for the distortion of the teaching of Jesus into a burlesque of theology and forms and ceremonies. Religion cannot be taught in our educational system if by religion is meant controversy over matters that are not connected with behavior. But it can be taught and it must be taught if by it we mean what Jesus meant when He said, "Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself." If that cannot be taught in our educational system, then the system is wrong. If it can be taught, in the name of Him who came to give us life abundantly, let us incorporate it into the very heart of our schools, putting it first of all into the hearts of our teachers. For education without religion is more than a blunder—it is a falsehood; and if we do not teach religion in the schools we deserve to suffer as a nation and go the way of all those nations that have thought more of accumulating facts than of making life.

To sum up:

If religion is theology, and doctrine, and creeds made over disputed definitions of God and theories of man's destiny, it cannot be taught in our schools.

But if religion is love to God and man, it can be taught anywhere and it ought to be taught in our schools. If it is not taught, our whole educational pyramid will continue to wobble on its pinnacle instead of resting firmly on its base.

(Printed in "The Sun" by permission of "The Atlantic Monthly.")

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

TO THE CHURCHES AND SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

Dear Friends:

We come at this time with this very urgent appeal for funds to help meet the running expenses of Bethlehem College. It is necessary to secure funds to the extent of at least $5,000 above what we will get from students this year in order to balance our accounts for the year's work. $2,000 of this amount may be secured in and around Wadley, but the other $3,000 will have to come from other places.

Financially, Bethlehem has been hard hit this year. The cotton crop of this section is very short and the price is a third less than last year, and we are receiving very little help from Men and Millions. So we must fall back on the individual churches for help, or close up the institution.

Our churches and Sunday Schools have always been so thoughtful and considerate of all the enterprises of our beloved church, and you will not fail us now in this hour of our direst need.

Our teachers are at Bethlehem at a stupendous sacrifice, and their salaries must be paid when due, if possible, but we have not the funds to pay them for the last month.

We believe this appeal will not go unheeded—that the interest your church and Sunday School have in their own College will lead them to make a worth-while Christmas Gift to Bethlehem College.

"Bethlehem College is your College—build it."

Send money to—

S. L. BEOUGHER, President,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

GRIFFETH.

Mrs Elizabeth Griffeth was born in Guilford county on December 11, 1849, and departed this life December 11, 1925, which was her seventy-sixth birthday.

She was married to the late Mr. James H. Griffeth on July 30, 1866, at Lawsonville. To this union were born ten children, seven of whom survive and mourn the loss of a faithful mother. They are Miss Julia Griffeth, Mrs. Lottie Hatch, Mrs. Maggie Southard and Mrs. Ada Adkins; and Mr. Samuel Griffeth, Mr. Walter Griffeth, and Mr. Luther Griffeth. Besides the deceased is survived by fifteen grand children, one great-grand-child, three sisters and two brothers. Early in her girlhood days Mrs. Griffeth gave her heart to God and united with the Lutheran Church remaining a faithful member of that church until a few years ago when the Reidsville Christian church was built and her people united with this church she transferred her letter to the Christian church and was until the time of her death a faithful, devoted and loyal member. The funeral was conducted from the Christin Church at 3 o'clock Sunday p. m. by the pastor, Rev. R. A. Whitten, assisted by Dr. C. H. Rowland of Greensboro, and the many beautiful floral offerings as well as the great concourse of people in attendance testified to the esteem in which she was held by those who knew her. After the last tribute of respect was paid the body was aid to rest in Greenview cemetery.

Perhaps Mrs. Griffeth was not widely known, however the fact remains that those who knew her found that she possessed a heart of pure gold. It may be truly said that she was in every trial a true Christian, a mother whose children rejoice to call her blessed, a friend to all and one that could be trusted, and a neighbor that will be missed for her many acts of kindness for which she was noted. May the grief stricken family and friends bow in humble submission to the divine will of him that doeth all things well and while we know that you will miss her, remember that our loss is H-aven's gain.

R. A. WHITTEN.

W. FRED RICHARDSON
Security Storage Company
INCORPORATED
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS FOR SILVER
RICHMOND, VA.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL
SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING -- REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD
CHILDREN'S
BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus....$1.85
- 02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations.....$2.50
- 03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches).....$2.40
- 02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES
For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Specimen of True Holman Home Bible

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durable Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES
NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

THE LORD is my shep
he not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D.....Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D.....Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D.....Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL.....Associate
- REV. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D..Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM.....News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE.....Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

GUNN.

Sister Ida E. Gunn, daughter of Deacon William P. and Matilda Gunn, near Wentworth, N. C., in Rockingham county, was born August 27, 1874, and departed this life, November 6, 1925, age 51 years. She professed faith in our Christ at the age of 16 years, and united with the Christian Church at Howard's Chapel, and lived a faithful, true and consecrated Christian life to her death. She was never married. She was loved by all that knew her. She leaves to mourn their loss an aged father and mother, four brothers and three sisters: Mr. Charley Gunn, Mr. Hardy Gunn, and Mr. Tomy Gunn, of Wentworth, N. C. and Bethel Gunn of Monticello, N. C.,

Mrs. R. S. Smith of Wentworth; Mrs. J. T. Strader of Reidsville; Mrs. Rainey Stirns of Wentworth, N. C., besides a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral by the pastor Rev. J. W. Knight assisted by Rev. Mr. Johnston of the M. E. Church of Spray, N. C., in the home, and the body was laid to rest in the family burying ground near the home. W. B. MADISON.

KITCHEN.

Mrs. Cora Lee (Branch) Kitchen was born July 17, 1890, and died at her home in Wakefield, December 13, 1925, age 35 years, 4 months and 26 days.

February 21, 1912, she was united in marriage to Mr. Emmitt L. Kitchen. To this union were born five children, Elma, Benjamin, Clara and Ella Kate Kitchen who survive, and Norma Lee infant deceased. Besides the four children, she leaves to mourn their loss a husband, mother, and two sisters, Mrs. Crawley Laine of this place, and Mrs. Jasper Goodrich of Isle of Wight C. H., and a host of friends.

Early in life she made a profession of faith in Christ and united with Hebron Church, and later moved her membership to Wakefield Christian church, of which she remained a consecrated and devout member until death called her home. Her faith in Christ was strong and before the end came expressed a willingness to go and be with her Lord. Her only regret was leaving the family, and now since she has gone, we can but feel that she has been removed to a better country than this. She was laid to rest in Wakefield cemetery beneath a beautiful floral tribute. May God bless Brother Kitchen and the family, also the mother and sisters. G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick... $0.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE A Co-Educational School LOCATED AT WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type 27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title, round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, .85 gold side title on red panel, gold edges.

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136NP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1926.

NUMBER 2.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ••

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Grape Juice Magnate Dies.—

The manufacturer of grape juice, Charles E. Welch, died recently at his winter home in St. Petersburg, Florida. He had just motored from his home in New York State. Mr. Welch was in 1916 a candidate for the Presidency of the United States on the Prohibition ticket, and represented the Methodist Church at the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in London in 1921.

Honor Greatest Country Pastor.—

Dr. William Lyon Phelps of the English Department of Yale University is seeking funds to do a unique thing. He wishes to have the students of Yale who have specialized in the work of George Herbert to place an organ in the little church at Bimmerton, where Herbert did his pastoral work. The parish is too poor to buy an organ, and Prof. Phelps believes that this will be a fitting honor for the greatest country pastor in the history of the church. George Herbert was an English poet of the first half of the seventeenth century, and because of his long preparation and short working time, has been likened to the Christ. In his poetry is to be found the profoundest of truths bodied in exquisite words.

Much Suffering in Strike Area.—

Much suffering is caused by the anthracite coal strike, and the inability of the operators and miners to get together. The strike has been in progress since September 1st, and no work has been done since. The newspapers of the area sent a telegram demanding some sort of settlement to the conference between the operators and workers in progress in New York. Stories of much suffering are reported daily, and the schools, by the generosity of the Red Cross movement are serving bread and soup to the children. The women and children are the chief sufferers, the newspaper men declare. Such suffering always falls heaviest on those unable to help themselves. The public felt the strike keenly during the recent cold season.

Alabama Wins.—

One of the greatest events in the world of sport was the victory of Alabama University over the Washington University, at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day. This victory, one commentator said, "Placed the East on top of the West, and the South on top of the world." However that may be, the victory of the Alabama athletes has been given a large amount of newspaper space, both before and after the game. The Crimson Tide, as the Alabama team is called, was welcomed back with rejoicing by the entire State, and the Governor and President of the University were among the jubilant throng. Governor Brandon was loud in his praise as also was President Denny. This game really marked an epoch in the athletics of the South, and will lend an impetus to healthful sport.

To Launch Christian Papers.—

Two more experiments with secular papers having a pronounced religious tone are about to be begun. In New York, Mr. Jason Rogers, the able publisher of the Globe, is about to bring out a paper free from crime news, and devoted to constructive programs. In Philadelphia, Mr. Walter Irving Clark, long the publicity agent of the Presbyterian Church, is about to launch The Christian American, which will in 1926 be a monthly, in 1927 a weekly, and in 1928 a daily and so remain. It is hoped by this method to build up a paying subscription list. Neither of these projects is to have a church affiliation. These papers are to be watched with interest by those who would like to have better journals, free from the undesirable features of most of our present dailies.

Oldest and Biggest.—

At the close of 1925, some interesting figures came to light in the magazine world. The Curtis Publishing Company, publishers of The Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies Home Journal, and the Country Gentleman, announced that the circulation of The Saturday Evening Post had passed the two million five hundred thousand mark, which is the largest circulation of any magazine in the world. It is the oldest magazine in America also, having been founded in 1728 by Benjamin Franklin. The circulation of The Ladies' Home Journal is well over the two million three hundred thousand mark, and the Country Gentleman, recently made a monthly, has passed the million mark. The publication of these three great magazines has attained to gigantic proportions. When we think that at least four persons, on an average, see every copy of the magazines, we can arrive at something of the power resting in the hands of the publishers.

Where There's a Will.—

One of the most beautiful examples of Christian service is being carried on from the rectory of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Armour, South Dakota. In that rectory lives Mrs. Dora C. Vannix. She cannot leave her wheel-chair, but she is ministering to more than 450 families into which no religious influence would otherwise go. She also conducts a correspondence school in religion, and gives every letter her personal attention. During one month she sent out more than 1,200 pieces of mail. Her work is a unique one, and one for which there is great need in the outlying districts of our country, where there are as yet no churches within reach. Mrs. Vannix has found a great service, and her work brings brightness into many homes where without her there would be only shadows. It is another case of where there's a will there's a way. Mrs. Vannix wanted to serve, and she has found a way. When we think of our advantages, how little we do for our Lord compared to this service. Let us seek, and seeking find more ways to serve.

Says Books too Costly.—

Just as Mr. Winston Churchill, the novelist, was leaving for Bermuda, he gave out the statement that he would write no more books. Mr. Churchill gave as his reason that books are too costly. More copies of Mr. Churchill's books have been sold during the first quarter of the present century than any other American author. In reply to the charge of Mr. Churchill, the secretary of the Publishers' Association gave out some interesting figures. He pointed out that the book which in 1914 cost $1.35, now costs $2.00. This he declared was but slightly more than a fifty per cent increase in price, and then went on to prove, by quoting prices of paper and labor, that the increase in the cost of book production had increased in the eleven years 106 per cent. The charge of Mr. Churchill and the reply of the secretary have brought about much editorial comment. It is safe to say that whatever the cause is, books have in price gone out of the reach of the ordinary man in average circumstances. Books are to be owned and read and re-read as friends, but this cannot now be done, and the people who read depend upon public libraries for their books, and return them within two weeks or less, not to see them again.

A Worthy War.—

The League of Nations may not be doing much in some directions, but it is getting a worthy war under way of which little is being said. The Malaria of the Near East is the enemy against whom the League is operating. Dr. John Gilmore, an English physician, says that 85 per cent of all the children examined by him in Persia had enlarged spleens as a result of malaria. He came on one village where no one person was more than forty-five. In the same town there was a woman who had had six children, and the year old baby in her arms was the only survivor. This baby already had enlarged spleen from malaria. Some authorities declare that more than a million people die from malaria in the Near East every year, and that the blotting out of this disease would cut the death rate in half. A few historians would make out that the destroying Angel who smote the army of Sennacherib just outside the walls of Jerusalem was none other than malaria. However that may be, it is certain that the vitality and usefulness of the near East would be greatly increased could this enemy be destroyed.

NOTES-PERSONALS

While much space is given to reports and financial tables, yet THE SUN this week contains much other good reading.

Dr. C. C. Ryan, pastor of the First Christian Church, of Richmond, is in Ohio this week visiting his children and attending the Scottish Rite Reunion at Toledo.

Brother M. T. Sorrell sends us the following notice: "Born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Meredith (nee Miss Iola Hedgepeth) a son, Samuel Matthew, December 20, 1925."

The Dedication services of Randleman Christian Church were held on Sunday morning, January 10, 1926. The people of this church are awake, and are to be praised for the work they are doing. THE SUN's Editor spoke at the services.

The editor learns with deep regret that his good friend and venerable brother, Deacon T. J. Haskins of Mt. Auburn Church, is very feeble and continues in a poor state of health. Bro. Haskins has been a loyal and faithful servant in the church and of his Lord many years. May God bless and sustain him in these days of decline in physical, but growth in spiritual strength.

Among the many exceedingly interesting and beautiful Christmas cards THE SUN's Editor received was one strikingly unique and artistic: "Toshio Kato, 590 Tobichi, Tokio, Rokkomura, Kobe, Japan." Our dear Miss Toshio Sato who graduated from Elon College some years ago, does not forget her friends on this side, while she helps to establish Christmas in, and carry Christmas cheer to, her native Japan.

Rev. A. R. Flowers, writing from Sims, N. C., says: "I am going to leave now in a few days for Waycross and other places in the South Georgia Freewill Baptist Association, where I will spend about two and one-half months in lecture work. My leading theme will be, 'Christian Education and Christian Union.' My invitation was extended me some time ago by Rev. J. A. Blanton, president of the South Georgia Association. I am wishing you a happy new year. Wish I could send you one thousand subscriptions to THE CHRISTIAN SUN during the year 1926."

Both the Eastern North Carolina Conference and the North Carolina Conference have endorsed Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., as Conference Evangelist. Bro. Caviness has now had a year of rich and fruitful experience in our churches as an evangelist, and wherever he has labored and held meetings, great victories have been won, souls have been brought into the Kingdom, and the church and men and women have been helped and blessed. Bro. Caviness is missionary in vision and in spirit, as well as evangelistic, and is as deeply concerned in sending the gospel to those who have it not as he is in preaching to those whom he can personally reach. In the interim of his evangelistic meetings, he will be Field Secretary for the Christian Missionary Association and lend his aid and efforts to promoting our stewardship and missionary work. Bro. Caviness realizes with all Christians who have considered the matter that the church must be missionary if it measures up to the demands and expectations of our Lord.

UNION, LONG'S CHAPEL AND HAW RIVER.

The old year closed with a cheerful retrospect in my field. My charges, Union, Long's Chapel and Haw River, showed good progress during the year 1925. Each church was represented at conference by delegates. One hundred and twenty-seven were received into church fellowship. Each church had an interesting and well attended Sunday School. Union and Haw River each have a Missions Society and a Christian Endeavor Society. The society at Haw River is large and active. The society at Union is just beginning. The outlook is excellent. Long's Chapel is pleased with its remodeled house of worship. It is a nice building. They reduced their church debt by about one-half during the year, notwithstanding the poor crops.

The pastor of this field and his family have been very kindly remembered from time to time during the year. He is now using a new Ford Coupe, and Union and Haw River made nice contributions in its purchase. We were kindly remembered by individuals and families just before the Christmas holidays. We appreciate the thought and the kindness shown. I am sure that it made those glad who thus remembered us, and I know it cheered and gladdened us. Thank you.

The new year opens, I think, auspiciously for our work. It will be from an economic standpoint a hard year because of poor crops and short time work for some who work for wages; but all seem to face the future hopefully, and I am hoping for great spiritual growth and enrichment in the field.

P. H. FLEMING.

DAY OF PRAYER FOR MISSIONS.

Helen Barrett Montgomery, Rochester, N. J., the author of our present Mission study book, "Prayer and Missions" has issued the following letter, which no doubt many of our women's missionary Societies and other groups in the churches will give heed to and observe. Her letter is as follows:

"The annual Day of Prayer for Missions, held under the auspices of the Council of Women for Home Missions, and the Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, has become a fixed feast in the Christian year to which thousands of women look forward with eager expectation. The date is February 19th. A joint committee of the Federation and the Council has already prepared the program for this year.

"The theme is, 'In Everything by Prayer.' The committee decided that as this year is to be signalized by the study of prayer as a force in the mission enterprise, the attempt should be made to have the day really devoted to prayer; that we should come together for thanksgiving, communion and intercession, and that instruction and inspiration furnished through addresses should be minimized. Definite periods are assigned for thanksgiving and for meditation. The prayers are made very definite. Responsive readings are provided in which God's great promises are recited. Intercessions for great causes are stressed. Songs are interspersed. It is suggested that the offering on the day as in former years, be devoted to causes that belong to all denominations. In the home field the offering will go toward the work among farm and cannery migrants; in the foreign field, for women's union Christian colleges and Christian literature for women and children.

"HELEN B. MONTGOMERY,
"Rochester, N. Y."

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY?

What is Christianity? Is it the Nicene Creed? That is a great creed, I think it is the greatest of all the Creeds. But it is not Christianity. What is Christianity? Is it the Catholic Church, or the Episcopal Church, or the Baptist, or the Presbyterian Church? No. These are important. They have made great contributions, but they are secondary. They are not Christianity. What is Christianity? Is it baptism or the Lord's Supper? They are very beautiful symbols, and those who know them, find in them deep significance. But they are not Christianity.

What is Christianity? Christianity is the spirit and quality of life breathed into people from fellowship with Jesus, and the people in whom it is, you will find among all Creeds and Churches. Father Damien, the Catholic, going out to help the lepers and, as Robert Louis Stevenson said, shutting the door of his own sepulchre—that is Christianity. George Fox, the Quaker, proving the reality of the inner light that God had given him by the radiance of his living—that is Christianity. The Protestant missionary, murdered by the Boxers in China, sending back word to his ten year old son that when grown he should go out to China to tell the people who had killed his father about the love of God—that is Christianity. And the folks whom we have known, through whom God hath shined marvelously to make life beautiful—our fathers and mothers and friends—they are Christianity. When you are all through discussing the formal and elaborate things that are needed for the improvement of the Church, this is what the Church needs most of all: more Christians, to whom Christianity is keeping fellowship with the Master and learning how to live.—Dr. H. E. Fosdick.

GRANDMOTHER'S RULES.

Somebody's grandmother has given to her descendants these admirable rules of conduct:

"Always look at a person to whom you are speaking. When you are addressed, look straight at the person who speaks to you. Do not forget this.

"Speak your words plainly; do not mutter or mumble. If words are worth saying, they are worth pronouncing distinctly and clearly.

"Do not say disagreeable things. If you have nothing pleasant to say, keep silent.

"Think three times before you speak once.

"Have you something to do that you find hard, and would prefer not to do? Do the hard thing first, and get over with it. If you have done wrong go and confess it. If your lesson is hard, master it. If the garden is to be weeded, weed it first and play afterwards. Do first the thing you don't like to do, and then, with a clear conscience, try the rest."—Selected.

POWER OF PRAYER.

Prayer has divided seas, rolled up flowing rivers, made flinty rocks gush fountains, quenched flames of fire, muzzled lions, disarmed vipers and poisons, marshaled the stars against the wicked, stopped the course of the moon, arrested the rapid sun in its great race, burst open iron gates, recalled souls from eternity, conquered the strongest devils, commanded legions of angels down from heaven. Prayer has bridled and changed the raging passions of man and destroyed vast armies of proud, daring, blustering atheists. Prayer has brought one man from the bottom of the sea, and carried another in a chariot of fire to heaven. What has not prayer done?—Selected.

"You are always nearer joy when you do right, act generously, and live unselfishly."—A. E. Bartlett.

WORDS FROM WEBSTER.

The Christmas Spirit was more felt this year at Webster Community Christian Church than ever before.

At our last social of the year 1925, Thursday evening, December 17th, we gave our minister a pantry shower.

On account of the extreme cold weather, there was not a large congregation at our Christmas services.

On Sunday morning, December 27th, we had a splendid sermon, and the choir rendered several fine selections.

Monday evening the Sunday School held their entertainment which was a great success. The congregation surprised Mr. Sutcliffe with a purse, but he soon recovered from the shock and in his usual grateful manner showed his appreciation.

On Thursday evening the congregation was entertained in the home of a member who cannot attend the festivities of the church on account of poor health.

On Saturday evening, the choir held a banquet and all said it was a great success.

Sunday, January 3d, being the first Sunday of the month, we held our regular communion service and also membership Sunday.

The Webster Community Christian Church wishes the whole SUN family a happy New Year. HARRIET E. COOLEY.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter .15
3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter .06
4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter .05
Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter .07
3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc.

has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools $2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8 x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

GOD'S CALL AND OUR ANSWER.

Why is it that God has only called two men, in our day, from all our numbers in the Southern Convention, to go out as missionaries? The answer to that question, and that alone, will tell the whole story of our slow growth as a church. From the day that Jesus of Nazareth preached in Galilee till this hour, the God of the church, and of heaven and earth, has never prospered, and blessed with power and growth, a non-missionary people. Neither does God call men and women to go from non-missionary churches. God is ready to call, when, He always has called when the church is ready to hear and answer.

There are churches, local congregations, in other denominations, from which He has called and sent out a dozen, fifteen, twenty missionaries. The church, in every such instance, created the atmosphere, the missionary zeal, interest and passion. Which one of our local churches has created such an atmosphere?

Recently the writer read of one church from which there had gone more than a dozen missionaries to various of "the uttermost parts." And why? The pastor of that church taught his people that "Go ye" included every member in that church. And one day a deacon in that church took up the words of the pastor and said, "That means all of us. If we haven't young men and young women who are called and will go, then let us show by our missionary giving that we at least are willing to help send out those from other churches whom God has called." The missionary offering in that church doubled, and tripled, and quadrupled, and then the church prayed that if God would not use their members, then be pleased to use their money. Then God began to "call" and use on the mission field their men. That explains why this one local church sent from its membership in a few years six times more missionaries than He has ever called and sent from our whole Southern Convention.

We need not expect God's progress until we begin to put into practice God's program. We need never expect great things from God until we are willing to undertake great things for God.

Mission Month, now soon to follow, ought to answer in terms that can never be forgotten, the question with which we began this editorial. If we give with a passion for God and for souls, we may expect God to answer with power and with progress. It is no ordinary plea or campaign. It is an opportunity under God to make this an epoch in our church life that will never be forgotten. Will we make it this? Reader, each can help answer. God direct us. J. O. A.

KEEPING FIT FOR SERVICE.

There is only one way by which one may keep fit for the service of Christ. That way is the way of continuous service. When an individual becomes inactive in the work of the Church, the Church not only loses the service which that individual might render, but the individual loses fitness for service. And with the loss of fitness for service goes also the loss of much of the happiness, and blessing, and peace of living. This was clearly revealed to the writer recently in a conversation with a man who had dropped out of the service of his Church. He had become "disgruntled" over the way certain things were being done, and as he frankly acknowledged, he had dropped out of the work of the Church to spite his fellow church members. His work and his contributions were missed for a time, but others worked a little harder and gave a little more liberally, and the work of the Church went on. The man himself was the real loser. He realized and admitted as much. And when he would have gone back, he found, as he said, that he was no longer fitted for the service he would like to render.

We are prone to feel often, when called upon to undertake hard tasks in connection with the work of the Lord, that we are making real sacrifices. When if we really could discern the truth, we would see that we are only getting in line to receive God's richest blessings. When we are in line for service, we are in line for real growth. No church ever really begins to grow until it undertakes a task that is too large for its present resources and abilities. The big task calls for all the latent talents and energies. And it does more than that; it drives us back to the source of all strength and power, even unto God himself. Jesus recognized this truth. That is why He said to His disciples, "Go ye into all the world." There could have been no bigger task assigned to them. The same task is confronting the Church today. And it looks too big for all the combined numbers and resources of the various church organizations. But those to whom He spoke dared to take Him at His word, and undertook the task. They realized that alone their efforts would be futile. So they claimed His promise and invoked the presence of the Holy Spirit. And how they did grow both in numbers and in power!

Christians today are afraid of the big tasks. They are afraid to plan big things. They are afraid that they will undertake more than they will be able to accomplish. They are like the disciples when the multitude followed the Master into the wilderness. They are taking stock only of the resources that are in hand. The thing the disciples lost sight of was the fact that the Master himself was there. And we, too, are losing sight of the fact that the Master has said, "And lo I am with you always." And we may be absolutely sure of His presence so long as we are willing to undertake His program. And so long as He is with us there will be spiritual growth, and enlarged powers, and heavenly blessings for the souls of men. Whenever the Church lays itself out for great tasks, then the Church begins to grow.

The immediate call that confronts us of the Christian denomination is that of raising $25,000.00 as a special offering for missions. Already there may be some who are saying that it is too big a task, and that it cannot be done. Whether it shall be done or not depends upon the extent to which we are willing to be used, and upon the extent to which we seek the presence of Him who has promised. But of this we may be profoundly sure, every individual who willingly gives of his best to the service of Christ's Kingdom, will be enlarged in heart, and strengthened in soul, and made more fit for Christ's service.

And every local congregation that gives itself whole-heartedly to the task, will find itself blessed accordingly. "Prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

S. C. H.

HERE, INDEED, IS A SIMILAR SITUATION.

The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, met recently in regular session, and said something, through print, to their fellow Methodists. Their "Address," issued on January 1st, is too lengthy to reproduce here, but it reveals a condition and an attitude so similar to that, so identical with that, in the Christian Church at present, that we wish SUN readers, one, all and sundry, to have a few paragraphs of it.

"Address to the Ministers and Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

"Dear Brethren:

"In view of the condition of extreme exigency which confronts the Board of Missions and the mission fields under its care, your general superintendents feel constrained to remind you of the matter and to entreat you to relieve it by prompt efforts and generous contributions.

"Some years ago, as you know, the Centenary Movement was projected to meet the unprecedented demands for the speedy evangelization of the world which were so manifest and urgent at the close of the World War. Other great churches in our country undertook similar movements, and the response made to these appeals by the Christian people of America was most gratifying. Our own people responded to the Centenary Movement with pledges which in the aggregate exceeded the most sanguine expectations.

"Relying upon the payment of these pledges and moved by the imperative needs in all our mission fields, the Board of Missions devised plans for the expansion of the work and made appropriations accordingly.

"But while the larger part of these pledges have been paid in full by the members who made them, many remain unpaid. The sum of the undischarged pledges amounts to nearly or quite $15,000,000, and our Board of Missions, in common with the other great Mission Boards of our country, is burdened with a heavy debt which would not have arisen if the subscriptions to the Centenary Movement had been paid as pledged.

"Meanwhile the work which has been undertaken in both home and foreign fields has grown by its success until it is now nearly double what it was in the year 1919. This is not a fact to be regretted, but a condition in which we should rejoice. But it brings to the Church opportunity and responsibility as well as occasion for rejoicing."

If SUN readers will substitute "Men and Millions" for "Centenary Movement" in the above, they will think that these Bishops are talking at, or about us.

They are stating that their people are now called upon to make a real missionary offering to relieve the "extreme exigency" (we call ours an "Emergency") confronting them.

These words are added to the call:

"We, your General Superintendents, address you, therefore, earnestly entreating and exhorting you that this wise measure of relief be carried to complete success. Let the presiding elders and preachers in charge carry it to every church and lay it upon the heart of every member.

"We cannot believe that our people will allow the missionary work of our beloved church, which our Lord has so signally blessed, to suffer damage when once they have been made acquainted with the perilous situation by which it is confronted."

Now it so happens that we of the Christian Church are seeking to do, and by God's grace and help are determined to do, in a free, full, democratic way that which the Bishops are "addressing" their people to do through the vast and compact organization at their disposal.

Within the last few days more than nine-tenths of the pastors in the Southern Convention have written us voluntarily that they are planning to observe Mission Month, as unanimously voted in all of our conferences, and will do all in their reach to make it successful.

Is it, or is it not strange, that while business is flourishing in all lines of industry, and the banks are simply overflowing with deposits, the causes of the Kingdom, and the Mission Boards of all churches, are laboring with hands tied and struggling against deficits?

But we shall see conditions similar to this till the Lord's people learn to tithe, and thus finance their own, and God's affairs in God's own way, as plainly taught in the sacred Scriptures.

J. O. A.

THE NEED OF A PROGRAM IN CHURCH WORK.

A program is essential for coherent and progressive action in any line of work. The least experienced recognize that a program—an outline of the work that is to be done—a suggestion of the field that is to be covered and the definite steps indicated that must be taken in order to accomplish what is desired—is most advisable. Every church, even to the smallest rural congregation, should have a program for the year's work.

But as a matter of fact, not one church out of twenty of our denomination throughout the States really has a program, a definite goal in mind, and a knowledge of the steps that must be taken in order to realize the goal. Of course every church has a number of things it wants to do, and expects to do, during the year. The pastor and the official board have as a rule a pretty clear conviction that they would at least like to do something in a progressive way during the year, so as to be able to make a favorable report at the annual conference. Moreover, they may feel that during the year the church ought to buy a new organ, or a new carpet; that the roof ought to be repaired; that a Men's Club ought to be organized, and that a Woman's Missionary Society should be established within the church. The pastor may appreciate the fact that he will be expected to prepare and deliver a certain number of sermons during the year, officiate at the funerals and weddings, and respond to the numerous calls for ministerial service.

But we are living in a day when the world is expecting systematic effort from every public institution and from every public servant. And both the church and the pastor come under these heads. In the final analysis, the church is a public institution, and the pastor is a public servant. The church does not exist for itself, but for the common good. It has no right merely to try to build itself up out of the community. Its function is to build up the community out of its own very life, and this absolutely cannot be accomplished nor even attempted without a definite program of action. Furthermore, a church in this day cannot even maintain its own existence without such a program.

The pastor who jots down an outlined program of what he wants to do the next day, week, month, quarter, and year, can organize his time and energy in planning ahead. Such a pastor naturally accomplishes the most. Likewise, the church which maps out a program in advance for the year will accomplish the most, because it has something definite to work toward.

Time was when a church building was considered "the church." Merely to announce an occasional preaching service was sufficient to secure a generous response from the people of the community in attendance. But that time has gone, and gone forever. In the past, a church was thought to be still alive, if it had preaching services regularly, and if it did not have regular preaching services, that an evangelist could drop in for a week's meeting once a year, and thereby the church could be considered as still alive. But such a church would be considered dead today. There is absolutely nothing of a constructive nature about bringing people to a pastorless church through the agency of a revival meeting, and then to leave them without a program of effort. Furthermore, there is nothing of a constructive nature in merely having preaching services. The church must be more than a preaching station. It must be an organized expression of social and religious idealism and of social and religious activities.

To this end the church should have a definite program reaching through the entire year.

In the country church, as well as in the city church, there is usually a slump in interest and a falling off in attendance during the vacation season. This fact is not to be deplored. The church that is active throughout the fall, winter and spring, can well expect such a reaction as a release from the high tension of the preceding months. The people who advocate that a pastor should not take a vacation, fail to realize that a pastor can do more work in eleven months in the year than he can in twelve. In my early ministry, a good sister did not approve the solicitous interest of my Official Board relative to my health and strength when they, out of kindness, voted that I should have a month's vacation. She was very free to let me know how she felt about it and declared that "the devil never takes a vacation." I won the everlasting approval of the Official Board and of the congregation, when I replied to this narrow minded, short visioned sister that as her pastor I made it a point not to follow the devil's example in anything, and so had a clear conscience in letting him stay on his job while I took a vacation to gain strength to give him a harder fight.

In reckoning with the fact of the slump in interest and falling off in attendance during the summer months, the church should plan its program accordingly. It should plan to do its chief work between the first of October and the first of June.

Hence the logical order of the program, from the point of time, is to have the year's program begin with the month of September. The first objective of the pastor, and his cabinet officers, or if he does not have such, of the pastor and the official board and the Sunday School staff, is to rally the entire membership, to stimulate and revive the interest which has lagged during the summer, and to effect the organization of special committees, etc. If the pastor and the officials have high expectation along this line of getting the people to come back strong in responding to the church activities after the vacation period, and if they can establish a universal conviction among the people that it is naturally expected of all the members that they resume their church relations and activities with renewed interest the first thing in the fall, it will be surprising the general response that will be made.

The first Sunday in September, the program of The Church Year should begin. A letter sent by the pastor the previous week to each family urging their presence at Sunday School and at the preaching services of the first Sunday of the new year program, emphasizing the inspiration a loyal response would be to the work of the entire year, and what a testimony it would be to the community at large; and reminding them that he knows he can depend upon them to respond and make the first day of the church's new year's program a great success—such a letter will start the ball rolling. And in connection with this point of the program, let me say that it will be necessary for the pastor to write several letters to the members in carrying out the year's program. And for this reason every church should include in its budget a sufficient fund for advertising and correspondence.

On this first Sunday in September, a most fitting subject for the pastor to speak on is, "Retrospect and Prospect," taking some such text as Exodus 14: 15, "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." With such a subject and such a text his sermon will naturally take the form of a review of what the church has accomplished in the past, or what it has failed to accomplish, and a challenge to greater things in the year just beginning. This will furnish him an opportunity to outline before his people the work he would rejoice in seeing the church do that year. A sincere challenge to do larger things in the service of the Master cannot fail to be a stimulus to the congregation. The prospect of their church taking progressive steps, and doing constructive work in a big way is sure to appeal to every truly interested member.

Of course the nature of the program for the year's work is of great importance. But the thing of greatest importance is that the church have a program of some kind, instead of merely going along from week to week and from Sunday to Sunday in the old "hum drum" manner. And it is the pastor's business to work out the program in advance, making provision for the different phases of church life, and to secure the co-operation of the membership in carrying it out. The program will vary much with the local conditions. There must naturally be individuality in every church program. A program which would be just what one church needed might be absolutely useless for another church, and in some instances might possibly be injurious, just as "what is one man's food may be another man's poison." Yet there are certain items that must be included in the program of every church that wants to make progress. These general items will be given in an editorial in the near future on the topic, "A Suggested Church Program."

R. C. H.

The Turkish headgear of yesterday is being made into foot warmers of today. The Red Crescent, corresponding to our Red Cross, is collecting discarded fezzes and having them made into bed slippers.

CONTRIBUTIONS

ELON LETTER.

Going to College is the habit of our present-day youth. Since it is the thing to do, a great many go to College just to be in fashion. Also parents send their sons and daughters to College sometimes because it is cheaper to keep them there than at home. Occasionally parents wish their sons and daughters to come under discipline and so hie them off to College.

This creates an embarrassing situation oftentimes for the Colleges. Students come who have no desire to study and who refuse to obey the College regulations. Such students specialize in the College activities, spend money, idle their time away and also the time of others. What shall be done about it?

One solution is the 60 per cent rule, by which is meant that students not passing three out of five subjects are not allowed to return to College for the next semester. Every semester at Elon finds from a dozen to twenty young people who are eliminated by this rule. This fall thirteen were thus disbarred, and next May an equal number will be.

It is a sad commentary of the lack of seriousness on the part of our youth and of their unwillingness to appreciate an opportunity, that about ten per cent of them in a year are thus eliminated from College. And yet I know literally scores of young people unable for financial reasons to enter College at all. I think I have never known a student working his way through College to fail to pass 60 per cent of his courses, and usually those who work hardest to obtain an education profit most by the opportunity to be in College.

W. A. HARPER.

"STRAIGHTWAY!" A SLOGAN FOR THE NEW YEAR.

In many of life's experiences hesitation means failure. To linger is to lose, once the course of duty has been made known. The Gospel according to Mark makes frequent use of the words "straightway" and "immediately." Mark is one of the younger Apostles and like most young men is interested primarily in action. In giving the account of Christ's life he is quick to note the immediate action of our Lord, and shows how He exacts the same instantaneous response from those gathered about Him. Once the power and personality of Jesus is brought to bear on one, there can be no delay in the Master's purpose.

"Straightway they forsook their nets and followed Him."—Mark 1: 18. Here we have the response to one of the calls which Jesus made in His early ministry, and Mark is particular to call attention to the immediate action that followed the call of the Christ by the Sea of Galilee. When Christ has finished a great work like feeding the multitudes, "straightway" He moves on to other fields of service. When He has spoken to the evil spirits, "immediately" they leave the person afflicted and the cure is instantly effected. The accounts of most of His healing work record immediate results. The work of the Master must never linger.

If immediate action was what Christ demanded by the shores of Galilee, does He not expect the same today? Response to duty should be the same whether on the banks of the Jordan or on the shores of the Atlantic or the Pacific. One can adopt no better slogan for the New Year, in regard to duty, than that of "Straightway." One should learn well this lesson, and when the Master calls obey at once by doing the very best as God gives one the light. Do it now, straightway, at once, and this practice will add much for the success of the Kingdom in 1926.

To be ready for the immediate task one must be at one's best all the time, for no one knows what tomorrow may bring forth, what a challenge to physical strength and mental efficiency, nor what a need for spiritual reserve to expect at any time. In order to be at one's best all of the time one must live ahead of the ordinary person. Success in anything depends largely upon preparation for the future. It's too late to prepare for the rainy day after the drops begin to patter against the window pane. One's bank account will prove to be a disappointment if the habit of thrift is not begun until old age. It is, to say the least, an imposition on the mercy of God to wait for death bed repentance to prepare for eternal glory. The larger life should always be considered as something in the future for which one is making steady preparation each moment.

Life's bitterest defeats, failures that distress, and plans that come to a tragic nothingness, are usually the result of vision and preparation for the future that one did not have. One of the most tragic things in Protestant Christianity is the waste of so much money spent on church buildings, most of which are out of date before the roof goes on, builded with the idea of a preaching station attended largely by people supposedly Christian. The result is seen in the failure to meet the supreme challenge of Christian Education for youth. It is too much to expect of the next generation that it shall be Christian when such failure is so evident in the hour of crisis in the life of boys and girls. Even when church buildings are adequate the distribution of equipment for worship is just the opposite from what it should be. There are churches, many of them, content with a twenty-five cent organ in the primary department, while the organ for adults cost thousands of dollars. Failure to reach the child, or the use of methods that present the idea of Christ's religion as something cheap, spells doom for the future church.

The young person that fails to get all of the education within reach is flirting with Miss Failure, and is sure to be accepted. Those who are not thoroughly equipped for life should take immediate steps to complete that preparation by adding all that there is to be had in physical fitness, intellectual keenness, and spiritual strength. The picture which Christ gives in the parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins is the picture of life. Many begin life with the practice of doing only that which is necessary for the moment, and do that as poorly as the case will permit. Soon wails of disappointment, not unlike those of the Foolish Virgins, go up to heaven. An offer of promotion has been made, but the lad who played when he should have studied, or slept, is unable to accept the responsibility, and the unattractive but faithful old plodder steps up above him. Across the way another wail is heard: the doctor has just broken the news to a newly married couple that they can never have normal, healthy children to grace the home and bring joy that children only can bring. Why? In earlier days of reckless living, the mistaken idea of what constitutes a good time had robbed one of sound bodily strength. The price of sin and folly must be paid in the coin of sorrow.

Real opportunity knocks but once at any man's door. The most precious privileges are like mountain trout or a popular young lady: they must be sought with patience and tact, and they never want for admirers. The one who gets that which is best, is alive to all possibilities and stands ready to do a full share of momentary duties. Seize the opportunity that passes or straightway it flitters to the open hand of another who is prepared and eager to receive it. Particularly is this true of opportunities to do good. Pass up a call to duty, and the calls come fewer and fewer as the days roll by. The vision is clouded by sin, the life is dwarfed, and greater temptations to do evil appear.

Anything less than the constant prayer attitude will leave one unfitted for the tasks and opportunities that seem to flit by in the mad rush of modern life; but real prayer that allows God to speak to the heart will serve as an announcer of coming events.

The great struggle that brought forth American independence was begun by Minute Men, men who were depended upon to respond to the country's defense at a moment's notice. But these were not content to begin, they were willing to continue to the bitter end. Here is found the secret of true service, of which sacrifice is an important ingredient. Sacrifice is what brought that grim struggle to a glorious conclusion. Christ sacrificed Himself, the highest sacrifice, to bring redemption to the world, and followers of Him can expect nothing less than sacrifice in the service of the Kingdom. Real service embodies a state of readiness fortified with the spirit of unlimited sacrifice.

When Frederick Arnot was traveling through Africa as a Christian missionary, a man eating lion attacked his party, and just as the beast was leaping for one of the small Negro lads, the missionary threw himself in its face with such boldness that the animal fled in fear and dismay. Straightway Mr. Arnot saw an opportunity to serve, and he responded with such immediate and heroic action that the lad was saved. This noble example of service is a challenge to all for 1926. May it be said of those who read and of him who writes, at the close of this year and of every year: "Straightway they forsook [whatever ties that bind] . . . and followed Him."

EUGENE H. RAINEY.

Danville, Illinois.

A SIGNIFICANT MEETING.

On January 2, 1926, a group of young people who are leaders in young people's Congress work in nine conferences of the Christian Church, met in Dayton, Ohio, in all day session to discuss the best ways in which they might lead the young people of their conferences into a larger Christian life and service. It was a practical meeting. Talks were made by young people who are doing things, and each talk was brief and to the point, and was followed by general discussion. Miss Beryl McReynolds led the discussion on "Young People and Missions," challenging these leaders to inspire their young people, all their young people, to missionary giving and service. Frank Wright presented "Young People and Evangelism," proving by the record of Northwestern Ohio that young people can win others to Jesus Christ, and that they do so gladly. John Rauch spoke on "Young People and Summer Schools," and Marian Morrill on "Young People and Our Colleges." Both impressed the need for trained leadership, and the place of our own schools in producing this leadership. Miss Lucile Conner led the discussion on "The Young People's Congress at Work," showing how, through smaller and larger groups of young people in conference, district, and local church, all working toward common goals, the great movement may spread to enlist the loyalty of more and more young people to Christ and His church and His work in the world. The matter of calling together a meeting of all the young people of the Church was heartily endorsed, and a committee chosen to work toward this great national congress. A complete record of the day's doings and discussion would develop all of these themes, would tell of plans for great gatherings in the coming spring and summer, of definite problems and successes, shared in order that a common path forward might be discovered. The complete record of the day will only be written as those present meet smaller groups in their own sections, and all together go forward in their work as "the fine oncoming leaders of the Christian Church," as Dr. Denison called them.

The two worship periods led by Marian Morrill and Rev. C. J. Felton, were inspiring. The luncheon, at which all present were guests of the Mission Departments, was an occasion of good fellowship. At this time the general officers of the Church joined with the visitors, and were introduced to them one by one. The day closed with an earnest and inspiring talk by Dr. Kerr, editor of the Herald, which challenged every one present to go on to "Do it for Him."

The following visitors were present: C. J. Felton of Ontario; Edith Williams of Rays Hill and Southern Pennsylvania; John Rauch of Miami Ohio; Frank Wright and Ruby Armentrout of Northwestern Ohio; Lucile Conner, Miss Hixon, Mrs Drake, of Southern Ohio; Earl Dudley of Eastern Indiana; Herman W. Meyer and Raymond Allspaugh of Eel River; Beryl McReynolds of Western Indiana; E. H. Rainey of Central Illinois. Miss Morrill, Miss Eldredge, Mr. Eldredge, Dr. Minton, Dr. Thomas, Dr. Kerr, Dr. Denison, Dr. Burnett and Mr. Stewart, attended the session during the day, Miss Morrill acting as song leader and Miss Eldredge as chairman of the meeting.

Greetings and messages of eager interest in the meeting, and a desire to receive its findings and share in the work planned were received from Southern Wabash Illinois (whose president was detained by illness); Northwestern Indiana, New York Eastern, New England, Southern Indiana, New York Central, and New Jersey.

LUCY M. ELDRIDGE.

Dayton, Ohio.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Rev. J. E. Fry, former College Pastor and Professor of Religious Education in Union Christian College, and who has served in Indiana and Illinois some of our strongest churches with excellent success, has agreed to become Field Secretary of the Board of Christian Education, and entered upon his duties on January 6th.

Brother Fry will have as his special duty at this time the raising of money for Palmer and Defiance Colleges and for the higher education work of the Board of Christian Education, by which is particularly meant the raising of funds for the support in their college and university studies, ministers and missionaries in training.

Brother Fry's first official duty in his new responsibility was discharged at Elon College, where he addressed the student body at the regular chapel service on "Following an Ideal." Following his address, two days were spent in personal conferences with ministerial students and life-work recruits in the college.

Brother Fry went from Elon to Franklinton Christian College, where he through personal touch acquired the acquaintance with that institution which is necessary to him in his new work.

He will immediately begin the raising of funds in Illinois and Indiana, and as the field there is covered, he will move into other territory.

W. A. HARPER, President,
Board of Christian Education.

MISSIONS PROGRAM.
WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

"Every step in the progress of Missions is directly tracable to prayer."

Prayer is the Strategy of Missions:

- a. Bible reading: Ephesians 3:14-21.
- b. Prayer for various denominations, for missions, for unity of spirit.

The leader should outline the purpose of the chapter, as given in the outline on pp 75-77. She should close her statement by introducing the various denominational representatives, who are to explain how the whole Church of Christ shared in the missionary enthusiasm born of prayer.

- a. The Presbyterian giving a sketch of Robert Miller and his earliest books on the primacy of prayer in the missionary enterprise.
- b. The Methodist tells of the rise of Methodism and gives an account of Bishop Coke, pp 77, 79.
- c. The Congregationalist tells of Jonathan Edwards call to intercessory prayer, p. 77.
- d. The Baptist follows with a story, p. 78.
- e. The Episcopalian tells of the organization of the church Missionary Society, p. 79.
- f. The Moravian tells how her missionary history began in the prayers of Zinzendorf, pp. 82-83.

- 2. Paper, "The Haystack Prayer Meeting."
- 3. Examples of believing in prayer. Let five women instance the experience of:
 - a. The China Inland Mission, pp. 77-78.
 - b. The Telugu Mission, pp. 92-93.
 - c. Prayer Meeting Hill, p. 95.
 - d. Prayer in Burma, p. 96.
 - e. Founding of Union Christian College, pp. 96-100.
- 4. "The Four Walls of Opportunity." Leaflet.
- 5. "By Special Messenger." Leaflet.
- Hymn: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Prayer.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

"Whosoever prays most, helps most."
Roll Call: Each member responds with the name of some famous Slav. See "High Adventure."

- Dues collected.
- 1. A short discussion of last lesson.
- 2. "A Long Look Across the Sea."
- 3. Tell something about the Orthodox church; the Roman church; the Protestant church; the Christian Church.
- 4. Devotional period—Hymn, prayer.
- 5. "The Four Walls of Opportunity" and "By Special Messenger," leaflets.
- 6. Refreshments and social hour.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to realize the naturalness of prayer, to help them talk with God.
"Brave Adventurers": "The Count who Wrote Letters to Jesus."

- 1. Worship Period: Hymn, Scripture Reading, Prayer. Roll Call and Dues collected.
- 2. Discussion Period:
 - a. Do you wish you had lived when Jesus was on earth, and could have talked with Him?
 - b. Tell the story of the Count who wrote letters to Jesus
 - c. Do you think Count Zinzendorf would have been a good friend, a good playmate when a boy?
 - d. Would you like to become a member of the "Order of the Grain of Mustard Seed"?
- 3. Each member might write a letter to some other member, telling the story of the little Count.
- 4. Refreshments and Social Hour.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

WHAT WE FACE IN MISSIONS.

The Church has come to an hour in its missionary work when great decisions must be made. With greater resources than it has ever before been able to command, it faces a world in travail, nations in upheaval, and vast populations seeking light and leadership. The situation which God has made for it calls for definite and immediate action. It approaches an hour of glorious triumph or an hour of disastrous defeat. There is no middle way.

Southern Methodists are loyal to the missionary enterprise, but apparently many of them do not realize how serious the present situation is. Half-hearted and intermittent efforts will not meet it. We cannot, dare not discontinue our efforts for a more convenient season when they might be resumed. The opportunities before us will not await our convenience. The urgency of the situation is overwhelming.

This is not merely another missionary campaign. Our fidelity as a church, our very discipleship as professed followers of the Redeemer of the whole world is in the balance. We must decide whether we will go on with him in the great adventure or be brushed aside and the kingdom be given to those who will more worthily meet its requirements and demands.

If we were actually unable to do all that is required by the exigencies of this eventful hour, we could justify any failure we might make. But we are able. We cannot excuse ourselves on the ground of poverty. In the year that is just closed, we have made greater advance in wealth than in any previous year. In the Christmas season through which we have just passed, we set a new record in expenditures. We are not poor, and the Owner of all holds us to account for the way in which we discharge our stewardship. Our Christian profession demands that we frankly face this responsibility.

Nor can we hide behind our contributions to local church expenses and stated benevolences. These are important, but even at their highest they do not represent our ability. The total amount required to maintain our missionary work, when there are so many to pay it, represents a mere trifle. We may well doubt if our church ever faced a more important and far-reaching issue than in these first days of the new year. Let us not overlook the fact that as much as we need money, we have yet a greater need. We need the spirit and the leadership of the Lord Jesus Christ. Is it asking too much of our people to ask them to pray daily for that which we need so much?—Editorial in Nashville Christian Advocate, January 8, 1926.

PLEDGES UNTO THE LORD.

The Mission Secretary received such an interesting letter on January 5th: "I am sending you $20.00 to finish paying in full my Men and Millions pledge. I pledged $25.00, and had paid $5.00, but it never seemed convenient for me to pay the balance. I have fully decided, however, it is nothing but neglect on my part, and I can't feel right unless I pay in full, I feel like our church could have paid the full amount it pledged, and should do so yet, if it ever expects to prosper; for these pledges were made unto the Lord." The Mission Secretary felt when he read the letter that this dear, loyal sister did love her Lord, and would serve her church better during 1926, because her devotion led her to do that which many others could do with praise and profit to themselves, could they be brought to the same degree of loyalty and devotion.

One of our faithful men of God, who works away at his task daily, handed the Secretary a check for $90.00 on the same day, and stated that this paid his pledge in full, which he would have done before but the feeling that it was not convenient to pay it all. One has an idea that such a decision helps the man of God who at his daily task is trying to do the will of God and serve his fellowman.

J. O. ATKINSON, Mission Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERINGS. DECEMBER, 1925.

Henderson, N. C.	$ 5.46
Burlington, N. C.	194.80
Ocean View, Va.	1.97
Richmond, Va.	1.93
Hank's Chapel, R. 1, Pittsboro, N. C.	9.90
Bethlehem, Timberville, Va.	9.20
Durham, N. C.	9.15
Raleigh, N. C.	2.50
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	7.00
Wake Chapel, Fuqua Springs, N. C.	4.20
Haw River, N. C.	6.09
Franklin, Va.	8.00
Lynchburg, Va.	4.88
Berea (Norfolk), Hickory, Va. R. 3,	6.05
Wadley, Ala.	3.66
Elon College Community Church	2.50
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	12.78
South Norfolk, Va.	5.82
Liberty, N. C.	1.00
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	4.79
Elon Philathea Class, Elon College, N. C. ..	2.07
First Church, Greensboro, N. C.	17.60
Linville, Harrisonburg, Va.	4.57
Morrisville, N. C.	2.67
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	2.24
Richland, Ga.	1.00
North Clayton, R. 2, Clayton, N. C.	1.00
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	5.02
Zion, Moncure, N. C.	2.24
Bethlehem (Nansemond), Suffolk, Va.	1.65
Ramseur, N. C.	3.59
Oakland, Chuckatuck, Va.	4.00
Cragford, Ala.	5.00
Apple's Chapel, Brown Summit, N. C.	2.75
St. Luke's, Dover, Del.	1.00
Holland, Va.	10.00
Beulah, Wadley, Ala.	1.07
North Highlands, Columbus, Ga.	1.57
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.00
New Lebanon, Reidsville, N. C.	3.24
People's Church, Dover, Del.	45.19
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.	1.36
Pleasant Hill, Liberty, N. C.	1.50
Ambrose, Ga.	1.36
Randlemau, N. C.	2.34
Newport News, Va.	6.07
Shallow Ford, Burlington, N. C.77
Hines' Chapel, McLeansville, N. C.	7.50
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	4.33
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	2.52
Suffolk, Va.	9.74
Fuller's Chapel, Henderson, N. C.	5.05
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	4.00

Total for month$ 467.60

J. O. ATKINSON, Mission Secretary.

REPORT OF MISSIONS COLLECTIONS. DECEMBER, 1925.

Mrs. Jas. M. Black, Stanley, Va.	$ 1.00
T. G. Alger, Stanley, Va.	5.00
Mrs. Maggie Huffman, Stanley, Va.50
Miss Nellie Alger, Stanley, Va.50
E. L. Louderback, Stanley, Va.	1.00
Chas. W. Louderback, Stanley, Va.	1.00
Wm. H. Jenkins, Stanley, Va.50
J. E. Foster, Luray, Va.	1.00
Miss Pearl Huffman, Luray, Va.	1.00
W. J. Rothgeb, Luray, Va.	1.00
K. T. Rothgeb, Luray, Va.	1.00
Mrs. W. H. Keyser, Luray, Va.	1.00
Miss Della Rothgeb, Luray, Va.	1.00
Miss E. Lena Rothgeb, Luray, Va.50
Rev. A. W. Andes, Harrisonburg, Va.	5.00
Mrs. Linda Seawell, Durham, N. C.	5.00
Liberty Christian Church, Liberty, N. C. for service of Mission Secretary	10.00
J. W. Payne, Wedowee, Ala.	1.00
Miss Mettie Sutton, Burlington, N. C.	15.00
Miss Celestia Penny, Sanford, N. C.	10.00
Miss M. Catherine Riddick, Suffolk, Va.	5.00
J. S. Holt, Graham, N. C.	1.00
A. Pearce Godley, New York City	10.00
A. P. Strickland, R. 2, Louisburg, N. C.	1.00
Miss Hontas Rawles, Holland, Va.	20.00
Mrs. I. W. Johnson, Suffolk, Va.	40.00
Mr. and Mrs. A. M. House, Franklinton N. C.	10.00
Mr. B. D. Jones, Holland, Va.	50.00
J. A. Fogleman, R. 3, Liberty, N. C.	10.00
Dr. F. A. Farmer, Roanoke, Va.	5.00
C. H. Mitchell, Cragford, Ala.	5.00
Mrs. M. A. and Miss Edith Walker, Burlington, N. C.	25.00
Rev. & Mrs. J. E. McCauley, Nashville, Tenn.	10.00
Peter Strickland, R. A, Reidsville, N. C.	5.00
J. T. Murphey, Chipley, Ga.	1.00
Miss Minnie Boswell, Union Ridge, N. C. ..	5.00
Mrs. J. W. Lane, Lafayette, Ala.	5.00
Mrs. W. L. Osborne, Lanette, Ala.	1.00

Total individual subscriptions	$ 271.00
Mountain Work	9.90
Rocky Ford Building Fund	9.00
Specials	209.80
Sunday School, Regular	272.80

Total collections for December$ 772.50
Paid to R. W. Malone, Treas. 772.50

Respectfully submitted,
J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

ROCKY FORD BUILDING FUND.

October, November, December, 1925.
Amount previously reported	$ 436.14
October:
Woman's Miss. Soc., Antioch, Windsor, Va. .	7.05
Young Ladies' Class, Liverty, Vance, Henderson, N. C., Mrs. Tollie Ayscue, teacher ...	5.00
A Friend	25.00
Webster Com. Church, Aberdeen, Md.	14.00
Chas. N. Johnson, Supt., Wake Chapel S. S. Fuquay Springs, N. C.	53.06
J. M. Fix, Burlington, N. C.	2.00
Mr. Walter Edwards, Fancy Gap, Va.	20.00
November:
R. O. Rothgeb, Luray, Va.	1.00
Ladies' Aid Society, Ivor, Va.	15.00
N. C. and Va. Conference (at Salem Chapel) ..	75.05
Holt Gerringers	5.00
A. R. Brothers, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
Rev. J. D. Wicker, Sanford, N. C.	5.00
John Murray, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
J. T. Walden, Henderson, N. C.	5.00
Miss Ruth Johnson, Fuquay Spgs., N. C. ...	5.00
J. A. Denton, Apex, N. C., R. 2	5.00
W. B. Wright, Franklinton, N. C.	5.00

C. H. Stephenson, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
J. O. Atkinson, Elou College, N. C.	5.00
Rev. R. L. Williamson, Sanford, N. C.	5.00
J. D. Gunter, Sanford, N. C.	5.00
W. S. Ayscue, Henderson, N. C.	5.00
L. L. Vaughan, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
Dr. Wm. D. Parry, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
Mrs. Ben Holden, Louisburg, N. C.	5.00
G. W. Eaves, Henderson, N. C.	5.00
Miss Margaret P. Alston, Henderson, N. C. .	5.00
Mrs. R. G. Ayscue, Henderson, N. C.	2.50
Eastern N. C. Conference (collection)	77.50
December:
Dixie McCrary	1.00
Miss Pattie Adams, Ingram, Va.	3.00
Liberty, Vance, Philathea Class	5.00

Total for quarter$ 832.30

J. O. ATKINSON, Mission Secretary.

IS YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL ON THIS LIST?

Our Southern Christian Convention, and all of our Conferences and Sunday School Conventions have repeatedly voted that every Sunday School in the convention give one Sunday's offering a month to the Orphanage and one Sunday's offering a month to Missions, the offerings of the other two Sundays per month to be retained by the school for local and current expenses. The following schools, the past year, 1925, proved themselves loyal to this decision, and sent in, according to our records, the following amounts:

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Antioch	$ 14.00
Berea (Nansemond)	79.32
Berea (Norfolk)	32.55
Bethlehem	18.66
Christian Temple	1065.00
Dendron	50.51
Dover, Peopel's Christian Church ..	154.74
Dover, St. Luke's	8.00
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth	52.22
Franklin	105.00
Holland	122.50
Holy Neck	64.00
Johnson's Grove	3.80
Liberty Spring	14.00
New Lebanon	14.00
Newport News	27.68
Norfolk, First Church	29.46
Oakland	52.34
Ocean View	20.21
Portsmouth, First Church	34.24
Richmond	34.24
Rosemont	47.91
Rosemont, Class No. 3	55.00
South Norfolk	70.28
Union (Southampton)	5.75
Union (Surry)	14.76
Wakefield	40.45
Waverly	35.80
Webster Community Church	5.78
Windsor	35.68

Total$2,514.65

North Carolina Conference:

Apple's Chapel	$ 9.45
Auburn	13.74
Burlington	970.35
Catawba Springs	25.00
Chapel Hill	10.79
Danville, Third Ave.	38.24
Durham	73.86
Elon College	62.50
Elon College, Citizens' Bible Class..	27.84
Elon College, Philathea Class	6.19
Franklinton	15.00
Fuller's Chapel	14.44
Graham	20.00
Graham, Providence Memorial	2.52

Greensboro, First Church	175.78
Greensboro, Palm Street	53.68
Hank's Chapel	9.85
Haw River	36.94
Hendersou	21.36
High Point	11.54
Hines' Chapel	11.00
Hopedale	4.17
Ingram (Va.)	16.50
Liberty (N. C.)	8.00
Liberty (Vance)	50.94
Monticello	7.06
Morrisville	7.62
Mt. Auburn	34.76
Mt. Bethel	7.16
New Elam	21.08
New Lebanon	21.73
North Clayton	4.00
Parks' Cross Roads	8.20
Pleasant Grove (Va.)	18.17
Pleasant Hill (A.)	20.71
Pleasant Hill (J.)	3.15
Pleasant Union (H.)	3.90
Raleigh	12.50
Ramseur	59.74
Randleman	22.84
Reidsville	80.99
Salem Chapel	10.72
Shallow Well	3.35
Shallow Ford	24.60
Turner's Chapel	18.48
United Chr. Ch. (Lynchburg)	51.76
Wake Chapel	64.65
Wenworth	16.11
Zion	15.55

Total$2,228.51

Valley of Virginia Conference:

Antioch, Harrisonburg	$ 53.13
Bethlehem, Timberville	24.09
Dry Run, Seven Fountains	25.14
Leaksville	22.06
High Point	2.00
Linville	59.97
Timber Ridge	20.26
Winchester	69.92

Total$ 276.57

Alabama Conference:

Beulah, Wadley	$ 19.38
Cragford	5.00
Roanoke, First Church	9.30
Rock Stand	6.18
Wadley	13.02

Total$ 52.88

Georgia and Alabama Conference:

Ambrose	$ 2.00
North Highlands	17.33
Richland	9.39
Rose Hill	17.16

Total$ 45.88

Total for year$5,118.49

If any school is omitted, or there is any error in the above, we will cheerfully correct it.

These schools sent to us as Missionary Offerings a total of $5,118.49 during the year 1925. I am sure Brother Johnston has received a far larger sum than this from these schools for the Orphanage. If one of these schools is poorer in purse or in membership or in progress because of these offerings, I would certainly like to know it. They are the richer and better for it. Moreover, every member of these schools has the joy of knowing that he or she has had a part in building up the Kingdom of our Lord, and in giving the Gospel to some who never heard it before.

What great things we could accomplish during the good year 1926, if every Christian Sunday School in the Southern Christian Convention would decide, as a new year resolution, to begin the year right, prove itself loyal to its Convention, and give one Sunday's offering each month to Missions. Again and again, testimony has come, that Sunday Schools undertaking this find ample income from the offering of the other Sundays to pay their current expenses. Just why all our schools cannot see their way clear to adopt such a program is difficult to understand. I have no doubt but that the schools not on this list are doing a good work; but what have they accomplished definitely for their Church and its enterprises beyond their own doors? In union and co-operation there is strength, and there is conquest, and what our Convention is trying to do is to secure united effort on the part of all our schools for worthy and definite undertakings.

J. O. ATKINSON, Mission Secretary.

MEN AND MILLIONS COLLECTIONS FOR DECEMBER.

The following are the collection on Men and Millions for the month of December, 1925:

Valley Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 80.00
Leaksville	8.50
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Holy Neck	60.00
Newport News	143.50
Antioch	47.00
Dendron	25.00
Windsor	30.00
Suffolk	339.70
Alabama Conference:
New Hope	10.00
North Carolina Conference:
Burlington	5.00
Elon College	25.00
Mebane	15.00
New Center	66.00
Mt. Auburn	10.00
Turner's Chapel	5.00
Liberty, Vance	10.00

Total$ 939.70

Respectfully submitted,
CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Executive Secretary.

WHAT THOSE WHO TITHE CAN DO.

The Seventh Day Adventists report a total membership of 238,657. There were 25,626 accessions during the past year. The total income of the denomination was $29,367,742.12, due to the fact that the members practice tithing. The largest missionary budget in the history of the denomination was adopted at the last council, aggregating $4,000,000 for the year 1926. In the last 19 years their members have contributed $20,342,153.19 for foreign missions, and during that time 2,279 missionaries have been sent to foreign fields. Their work is conducted in 119 countries, speaking 220 different languages and dialects, in which 4,313 publications are issued and circulated in 144 languages. They report 190 conferences, 164 mission fields, 248 institutions, employing 8,679 evangelistic workers and 7,726 institutional laborers, or a total force of 16,405. The denomination owns 52 publishing houses, with assets of $4,000,000; 63 sanitarium and treatment rooms valued at $6,386,311.32; 1,125 primary schools, 133 advanced schools, and six colleges, with a total enrollment of 56,210, a teaching force of 3,077, and a property value of $8,000,000. We cannot accept all their doctrines, but we might well emulate their holy zeal.

—DR. ELDERDICE in Methodist Protestant.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson No. IV.—January 24, 1926.

"JESUS AND THE SAMARITAN WOMAN."

FULL LESSON: John 4:1-42.

PRINT: John 4:13-26.

GOLDEN TEXT: "With joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation."—Isaiah 12:3.

Here is a scene, dramatic in setting and content, and immortal in enduring quality and appeal. Personally, it is one of my favorite passages of the entire Bible. There are few passages that contain so much of human life and so much of divine grace. The story thrills and throbs with life for those who read it with open mind and responsive heart.

The Master was on his way to Galilee, and instead of going around Samaria through Perea, as so many of the Jews did because they hated the Samaritans with such an implacable hatred, he went direct through Samaria. The man who is committed to do the will of God will find something of the romance of righteousness even in the out-of-the-way places of life. The day was probably hot and the journey was long, and the Master, sharing with us the limitations of the flesh, had become wearied with the journey and had halted at noonday for a rest. His disciples had gone into the town to buy food, and the Master sat alone on the retaining wall of the well. It was a spot with sacred memories for the Jews, for the father of the twelve tribes, Jacob, had owned the parcel of ground, and he had dug the very well by which Jesus was seated. To one versed, as the Master was, in Hebrew history who sat by that well, there must have come a flood of memories and a wealth of inspired thought as he sat there alone. But suddenly he was disturbed in his reverie by the approach of a Samaritan woman who had come to the well to draw water. It is not improbable that she too was weary, not only weary with the burdensome task of carrying water, but weary with the burden which she carried on her heart.

The Master addressed the woman. He asked in a simple and frank way for a drink. In doing this, as Mr. Eldredge says, he broke all the fifty-seven varieties of laws written and unwritten, which governed the actions of the two principals here involved. It was too hot to talk; He was weary from his journey; she was a woman and it was not proper for Him a Jewish rabbi to address her; she was an immoral woman; she was a foreigner who hated his nation; she was of a different religion and despised his; she did not want his talk or his help; he would be misunderstood if he were found talking to her. The Master could have found any number of excuses why he should not have addressed that woman that day. He might have done as we so often do when we face a duty or have neglected a duty. But over against any number of excuses why he should not speak, there was one reason why he should speak—that woman needed his help. She did not want his help at first. As a matter of fact, she did not even know that she needed any help. But he knew, and in the face of human need, the Master never stopped at man-made traditions. The world would be a different place if we had more of the Master's spirit and more of His loyalty to the revealed will of God.

Jesus said, "Ye call me Lord and Master, and ye do well, for such I am." He gives evidence of that fact here. Nowhere else in all the record is there more striking evidence of the fact that Jesus is Master of human life. The woman was surprised that He had asked her for water, and when he went on to talk to her about the living water, she did not catch the point at all. She thought he was talking about the water at the bottom of the well, and tauntingly asked him if he was greater than the patriarch Jacob, in that he could draw water from the well without anything to draw it threfrom. Jesus then told her that he was not talking about that water at all, but about living water, water, which if a man drank, he would never thirst again. It was the kind of water, which springing up within a man, should give unto him everlasting life.

That sounded interesting to the woman. Think what a fine thing that would be—to have water that would quench thirst so that she would not have to make daily trips through the heat and dust to draw water that at best only temporarily quenched her thirst. Here is one of the real problems of the labor problem. There are all too many people who are looking for a way to get cut of work. They would quickly accept any religion that would promise them rest from toil. The woman has a long list of descendents, many of them living in our midst.

The conversation suddenly took an unexpected turn. The Master suggested that the woman get her husband so that he could share the water of life eternal. As a matter of fact Jesus knew that she did not have a husband at all. It was a sore spot with her. Like many others, she did not mind the Master's generalities, but when he made the thing personal and especially when it was a moral issue, she tried to turn the conversation to other things. She thought it might be well to discuss a little theology. She tried to inveigle the Master into some mooted points at issue between the Jews and the Samaritans. Again her species is not extinct. There are few of us who do not like to be told that we are sons of God, that God loves us, and that we are heirs with Christ. But it is quite another thing to be told that we must live like sons of God, and what is more treat our fellow-men as if they were sons of God; that while we are heirs of spiritual things in Christ, we are but stewards of material things for Christ. After all, the problem in the lives of those who do not accept Christ is not intellectual; it is moral. The man who is willing to do the right will come to know Christ, which is far better than merely to know about Christ.

The woman found in this man that which awakened something fine in her life, something that had been drugged by her evil life. She left her waterpot and went to the city and urged her fellow-townsmen to come and see a man that told her all that she ever did. Many of them believed in Jesus because of the woman's testimony. But many of them believed on him because of personal experience. We are to be witnesses for Christ. But men cannot get religion by proxy. They must come to know the Christ personally.

Teaching Points.

1. Life's common-place tasks often are fraught with unseen spiritual adventures.
2. Because the Master was human, He knows how to help us best.
3. The spirit of the Master over-leaps racial prejudices.
4. Where there is a will to serve humanity there is a way.
5. Human need has pre-eminence over man-made traditions.
6. Jesus Christ satisfies the deepest needs of life.
7. He who would win others to Christ must be tactful.
8. Jesus Christ unerringly finds what is wrong in our lives.
9. Worship is only mockery unless it is done in spirit and in truth.
10. Men cannot get religion by proxy, but our testimony helps others.
11. He who finds Christ should find others for Christ.
12. Real love for humanity recognizes no insuperable barriers.
13. He who embraces religion for material gain will never find real religion.
14. It is not a question of where men worship God, but of how.
15. Life's tasks take on new meaning in the light of Jesus' help.
16. There is a harvest here and now for all these who see with the eyes of Christ.

OUR MOUNTAIN WORK.

The following has been sent since our last report:

One box of clothing, Mrs. Will Jones, Holland, Va.

One box, Mrs. W. L. Dunn, Lynchburg, Va.
$5.00 from Woman's Missionary Society, Shallow Well.

Box of clothing, Martha Stacy Society, Burlington, N. C.

$1.00, Mr. Fon. Pearce.

$2.50, Plymouth.

$200.00, Eastern N. C. Conference.

Bible for Rocky Ford Church, Mrs. A. A. Teague.

Box of clothing, Mt. Gilead Church.

Christmas box, North Christian Church, New Bedford, Mass.

Five boxes, Elon Woman's Missionary Society, by Mrs. Barrett.

Box of candy, J. B. Ball & Co., Raleigh, N. C.

Box, Circle No. 1, Greensboro, N. C.

Barrel of clothing, Ramseur Christian Church.

Two boxes, Elon College, N. C.

Five boxes, First Christian Church, Raleigh.

$2.00 for Christmas Tree, F. F. Rudd.

Christmas box, Camp Fire Girls, Lynchburg.

12 Testaments, Sunbeam Class, Liberty, Vance.

Christmas box, Durham Sunday School.

Box, Miss Alice Denson, Anison, Ohio.

Package, Mrs. Priest, Franklin, Ohio.

Two boxes, Suffolk Sunday School.

Box, S. C. Harrell.

It may be possible that some have sent boxes, to whom I failed to give credit. If there should be such, they will do a favor by writing me a card, calling my attention. We are profoundly grateful for the above donations, as they not only enabled us to give the children a Christmas Tree, but also helped us to give to those in need of clothing.

M. T. SORRELL.

Christian Orphanage

Elon College, N. C.,
January 14, 1926.

Dear Friends:

This report closes our year for 1925. It has been the best year financially in the history of the Christian Orphanage. It has also been the most expensive year. This was brought about from the fact we had no rain from early spring to late in the fall. We had to buy much of the food stuff we could have raised on the farm. We also cared for more children than in any one year of our history.

Eleven of our churches got on the Banner List in the Thanksgiving Offering. The Burlington Church stands at the head of the list. We give you the list in full:

Burlington, N. C.	$ 500.00
Holland, Va.	200.00
Suffolk, Va.	200.00
First, Greensboro, N. C.	165.00
First, Durham, N. C.	150.86
Holy Neck, Holland, Va.	136.00
First, Richmond, Va.	114.57
Wake Chapel, N. C.	113.04
First, Berkley, Norfolk, Va.	108.52
Liberty, Vance Co., N. C.	105.61
Wentworth, N. C.	102.15

We called for twenty churches to give $100.00 or more. You see eleven answered the call. I wish twenty churches had answered the call; how happy it would have made us. If all our churches just knew the great need and the opportunity each church has, I feel sure we would have had fifty churches on this list instead of eleven.

I want to thank the churches and Sunday Schools for their loyal support during the year 1925, and pray God's richest blessings upon you.

Below is given a list of articles sent to the Orphanage since last report.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

Mrs. Sarah E. Copeland, Eagle Springs, N. C., 1 nice quilt.

Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, Mt. Airy, N. C., 3 garments.

Women's Missionary Society, Dover, Del., 1 box of clothing.

Woman's Missionary Society, Oak Grove Church, Chipley, Ga., 6 pillow cases, 1 sheet, 3 towels, 5 quilts.

Lebanon Christian Church, Semora, N. C., 2 blouses, hose, soap, cocoa, 2 cans fruit, handkerchiefs.

The Olive G. Williams Missionary Society, Sanford, N. C., 1 quilt.

Bellville Cotton Mills, Wilmington, N. C., 200 yards gingham.

Greensboro, First Church, White Gifts, towels, hose, tooth paste, soap, thread, meal, sugar, raisins, jelly, corn and other articles.

Hart Bible Class, Sanford Sunday School, hose, bloomers, union suits, caps, sweater and dress.

O'Kelly Bible Class, Henderson, N. C., Christmas Tree with 12 one dollar bills on it.

Henderson Christian Church, oat meal, Post Toasties, tomatoes, peaches, corn, pineapple, coffee, apples, sugar, and many other groceries.

Sanford Church and Sunday School, clothing and toys.

Sun Beam Class, Mrs. Margaret Alston, teacher, Liberty Vance, 1 box of toys for the children. Miss Mary E. Beard, Lincoln, Kansas, tablets and pencils.

Mrs. E. J. Brickhouse, Norfolk, Va., Christmas cards for the children.

Young People's Missionary Society, People's Church, Dover, Del., presents for the little girls in the Dover room.

First Christian Church, Berkley, Norfolk, Va., boxes containing presents for all the children.

A. L. Holland, peanuts.

Margaret Alston, Henderson, N. C., toys and handkerchiefs.

LaGrange Church, LaGrange, Ga., Fruits and candy.

A. J. Home, Tifton, Ga., 1 quilt.

Willing Workers' Missionary Society and Sunday School, Franklin, Va., 1 box of toys and presents for the children.

Big Oak Church, 3 quilts, fourteen cans of fruit.

Mrs. F. C. Lester, box of Christmas gifts.

Suffolk Church, clothing, toys, etc.

Community Kindergarten, Burlington Episcopal Church, toys, fruits, handkerchiefs, etc.

Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Urbanna, Ill., handkerchiefs for children.

Rose Hill Missionary Society, Columbus, Ga., dresses, bloomers, pillow cases and many other things.

Sunday School Class Vanceville Church, Vanceville, Ga., 1 nice quilt.

Burlington Christian Church, apples, oranges, towels.

Circle No. 1, Burlington Church, 1 box of oranges.

Junior C. E. Society, Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C., Christmas toys for children.

R. T. Holland, Suffolk, Va., bag of peanuts.

First Christian Church, Richmond, Va., box of toys for the children.

The Primary and Beginners Departments, Walnut Hills, Dayton, Ohio, 2 boxes of Christmas presents.

Willing Workers, Burlington Church, soap, books, toys.

Catawba Springs Church, 1 ham, 30 lbs. sugar, butter beans, peas, 4 qts. fruit.

Waverly Christian Church, pillow cases, towels, handkerchiefs; stockings, peanuts, tomatoes, 6 feather pillows.

Hocutt Memorial Baptist Church and Sunday School, Burlington, treat for the children in the "Baby Home."

J. D. Howard, Norfolk, Va., 60 lbs. candy.

Women's Missionary Society, Beulah Christian Church, Wadley, Ala., 3 quilts, pair pillow cases, pongee waist, gingham dress.

REPORT FOR JANUARY 14, 1926.

(Including all Contributions to Dec. 31, 1925.)

Amount brought forward$ 32,605 80

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Greensboro, First Church	$ 10.03
Hines Chapel	7.50
Shallow Ford	2.34
Apple's Chapel (Oct., Nov., Dec.) .	3.75
Third Ave., Danville, Va.	3.84
Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va. .	3.00

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Suffolk	$ 25.00
Holland	11.00
Richmond	2.17
Mt. Carmel, Class No. 6 and S. S.	4.54
Windsor (May to Dec.)	31.25
East End, Newport News, Va. .	6.09

Waverly (Oct. to Dec.)	15.00
Mt. Zion (Oct. to Dec.)	2.81
Union (Surry) (Oct. to Dec.)	3.00
New Lebanon (Oct. to Dec.)	5.00

105.86

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Pleasant Hill	$ 2.00
Henderson	3.92
Liberty, Vance	5.00
Morrisville	2.00
New Elam (last quarter)	4.31

17.23

Western North Carolina Conference:

Ether	$ 2.53
Union Grove	3.00

7.54

Georgia and Alabama Conference:

Beulah	5 2.53
Kite	3.00

5.53

Alabama Conference:

Pisgah	$ 1.30
Rock Stand (last quarter)	6.50

7.80

Valley Virginia Conference:

New Hope	$ 3.00
Winchester	7.03
Linville	3.00

13.03

Special Offerings:

W. W. Brown	$ 15.00
W. A. Ellis, on Baby Home	30.00
E. M. Davenport: support of children, $37.50; music for little girl, $4.25; clothing, $15.55	57.30
Norfleet Bible Class, Franklin, Va.	30.00
Mrs. Bessie Jordan	25.00
R. B. Wicker	15.00
Mr. Glass for Bettie Farrell's music ..	8.50
W. A. Raseoe	15.00
Mrs. Hardie	5.00
J. F. Burnett	11.10
Mrs. H. B. Guilford	1.00
Interest on Bond	15.00

227.90

New Building Fund:

Miss Margaret N. Lawrence	$ 10.00
Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, Salisbury ..	2.00

Salem Chapel Church:

A. W. Reid	5.00
E. F. Johnson	5.00
C. M. Marshall	5.00

First Church, Berkley, Norfolk:

J. S. Kagey	5.00
Men's United Bible Class	10.00
J. M. Jones	5.00
Geo. H. Frey	5.00
J. B. Phelps	5.00
J. B. Warren	5.00
B. J. Speight	5.00
Juo. R. Brownie	5.00
Edua Harold, Willard Fuleher.	5.00
E. H. Everton	5.00
S. W. Pierce	5.00

A. S. Dunn	5.00
Lebanon Church	55.00

Christian Light Church:

W. H. Blanchard	10.00
Ernest Ausley	5.00
J. O. Dean	5.00
Mrs. Rena Ausley	5.00

172.00

Thanksgiving and Christmas Offerings:

Christmas Offering, First Church, Burlington	$ 48.67
Mrs. L. E. Carlton, Richmond	5.00
Hines Chapel	1.50
Bethel Church	6.75
Dr. J. T. Clack, Abanda, Ala.	5.00
Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C. ..	10.00

(Continued on page 14.)

30.46

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

JUDGE WITH CHARITY.

"Judge not that ye be not judged."—Matt. 7: 1.
"Each one shall give an account of himself to God."—Rom. 14: 12.

In all things judge with charity. An imperfect and unchristian love may see what is good and great and true, though often failing himself to attain these, is apt to be harsh in his judgments of the shortcomings of others.

But a divine soul who has the Christ Spirit and who has attained more nearly unto the perfect man, takes a calmer and gentler attitude toward the shortcomings of others because his large-heartedness views their weaknesses and indiscretions out of love and sympathy.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray daily for the spirit of Christ to fill us with the "milk of human kindness." Help us to live with our neighbors as brothers, and we pray that they may too. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE END.

"He must reign until he put all enemies under his feet."—I. Cor. 15: 25.

It has been said that evil is unnatural, that goodness is the natural state of man. The world carries in it complete redemption. Sin must die; sickness must stop, poverty must end; love must triumph, hope must be planted everywhere. This is what Christ came to the world for. This is what we are called to be Christians for. It is God's work. How much are we helping Him?

Prayer.—Dear Father, we acknowledge that love and goodness are best and what the world needs. Help us to give ourselves unreservedly to Thy cause. Forgive us of our sins and make us Thine wholly. In His name. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE BIBLE.

All scripture is inspired of God . . . that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work."—II. Timothy 3: 16, 17.

From the far past unto the present, no state or country has had a constitution in which the interest of the people is taken into account, in which duties more than privileges of rulers are insisted upon, that surpassed that drawn up for Israel in Deuteronomy and Leviticus.

History has recorded indelibly that truth, welfare of state, happiness and wellbeing of folks, depends upon the righteousness of citizens, and that righteousness is in God and set forth in His word. The Bible is the best book in the world.

Prayer.—Our Father, we seek a light for the darkness. We seek Thee in our living. Be Thou our light and save us and the world. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

MY TASK.

LESSON: Eph. 6: 10-24.

Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."—Eph. 6: 11.

"To be honest and kind, to earn a little and spend a little less, to make the family happier for his being in it, to renounce when it is necessary and not be embittered, to have and keep a few friends, but without capitulation; above all to be a friend to self, and go about doing good for the glory of God: this is a task that takes all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy."

—Robert Louis Stephenson.

Prayer.—Our Father, we thank Thee for our lives and our living, for this day and its blessings. We pray for a vision of a high standard of life, for happiness among our neighbors and people, for service among one another and send us forth as servants of thine for this task. In His name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

AT THE MASTER'S FEET.

LESSON: Luke 10: 38-42.

"She had a sister called Mary which also sat at Jesus' feet."—Luke 10: 39.

In one of Leighton's most poetic pictures, "The Spirit of the Summit," the queen of the summit, the symbol of the human soul, is seated on the mountain's loftiest peak. She has reached the highest height; yet the yearning after the "heavenlies" fills her eye.

We have, in Luke's Gospel, a word picture of Mary at Jesus' feet, which expresses the same thought. Mary is the queen of the summit, following the gleam. Luke gives to Martha the central place in the picture, while Mary is in the shadow. She sits apart; yet she was out in the sunshine of "The Light of the World." She sits low at His feet; yet she was dwelling on the mountain's loftiest peak.

Another scene! A feast in the house of Simon the Leper. It was a Mary who knelt at the Master's feet. The cross had thrown its terrible shadow over Him, and the bitterness of His cup of agony had already entered His soul. Mary alone sensed the chill of the shadow or tasted with Him the bitterness of the cup. She pours the costly nard upon His feet and wipes them with her hair. It was her homage to her crucified Lord. She had learned that to sit at His feet was to reign on the summit.

Prayer.—The Lord's Prayer.

SATURDAY.

A LUXURIANT LIFE.

LESSON: Gen. 49: 22-24.

Joseph is a fruitful bough, a fruitful bough by a fountain; his branches run over the wall."—Gen. 49: 22.

The brethren of Joseph mocked at him and said, "Behold, this dreamer cometh"; but his dreams were dreams of usefulness; he saw himself binding sheaves. With every day there was a vision of larger things beyond. In Potiphar's house he was given some menial task, but so well did he do it, that he soon found himself the absolute steward of all Potiphar's household. His branches had "run over the wall."

Then came prison life, but so useful was he among the prisoners that his branches still spread. At last he is free again, Prime Minister of Egypt! No wall can confine his usefulness to Egypt alone, but all the world is welcome to come and buy famine supplies.

The writer recently saw a grape-vine about four inches thick; it had run over one side of the house, and out into the topmost branches of a large tree. And, as he marveled at its luxuriance, they told him that its roots ran into the old well. Ah! there is the secret of Joseph's life: he lived by an unfailling fountain. Four times in one chapter we are told, "Jehovah was with Joseph"; therefore he was a prosperous man. Every one may draw from Joseph's source of life and become luxuriant.

Prayer.—Lord God of hosts, King of all lands and Master of all energies of the human life, we thank Thee for divine leadership, and pray for prompt and loyal obedience to Thy commands. May no task seem too hard, and no burden too heavy with Thy help to do and to bear. Amen.

SUNDAY.

PROVING GOD.

LESSON: Mal. 3: 10

"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts."

Money is a great factor in the affairs of men. It can do many things. There are, however, limits to what money can do. This saying of the prophet Malachi, which he ascribes to Jehovah, intimates a thing to which many of us are apparently indifferent, namely the promise of God that certain blessings shall be contingent upon the right use of our earthly goods.

Have we ever thought of proving God? By which is meant, not the use of our money for religion necessarily, but the use of it in the light of religious motives and principles. If the accumulation of money is a great test of character, the distribution of it is even more certainly an index to the motives and passions of our lives. All honor to that increasing number of stewards who keep their accounts with the Lord as conscientiously as with earthly creditors. The greatest blessing that can come into our lives—a sense of partnership with God—has often accompanied an act of complete renunciation. The sacrifice of all he had was evidently the only medicine to cure the rich young ruler who came to Jesus and who, refusing to give up his great possessions, went away sorrowful.

Prayer.—We pray for the testing of our discipleship, O Master, so that we may know if we are indeed Thine own. May we not be afraid to go to any one and break to him the same bread of life that has fed us. In the name of Him who told us to go into all the world. Amen.

PERSONAL INFLUENCE.

An atheist going along a country road overtook a woman poorly clad, who seemed strangely excited. Her face was glowing with a calm and radiant joy.

"What were you talking about as you walked along?" he asked.

"I nebber knowed I was talking; 'pears like I didn't notice myself. I was thinkin' as I look on de worl' an' de sky, an' took 'em all in, dat they is all mine—all mine, 'cause I is Christ's and Christ is God's!"

He was a learned man, but this was a kind of learning he had never heard of. He was a successful man, but here was such triumph that he had never dreamed of. He listened, full of curiosity to what the woman had to say; he went away, but the heaven worked, causing him so much thought that he never rested until he also could say: "They are all mine, for I am Christ's!"

This kind of influence counts. God owns it. It makes its impression upon the unsaved. The results are a blessing to the one who gives and the one who receives. No apology is needed because of any adverse effects. The earthly end of such a being is peace and joy and satisfaction.

—Central Christian Advocate.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Dears:

It's a Happy New Year! Oh, gee—let's make the sun shine everywhere this year—will you, dears? Of course we will try hard, for you are all such dears, and so happy too. Oh, when the summertime comes, of what will we sing? Birds and trees and everything—yes, sir-ee. But till then, we are going to try hard to make everyone happy.

Hey there, Mr. Snowman! Come along on the run. We want to skate and fly around in the soft snow. And dears, when the snow does come, it will be easy to be happy.

I still want some letters from the Kiddies.

Heaps of love, dears,

YOUR EDITOR.

TWELVE OF THEM.

BY FRANCES A. FAUNCE.

"I sometimes wish I might let the merry month of May come first," sighed Mother Year, holding a calendar before her. "She is such a dear, willing child"

Father Time, who had dropped in to talk things over, stretched his feet out on the hearth before the blazing December fire. Then he inquired thoughtfully, "Well, couldn't you try it, just this once?"

"Perhaps, perhaps," answered Mother Year. "But you can see what would happen. It would upset the months for always and always. Mothers would not know when to buy Christmas presents for the children. Farmers would be ready to harvest when no seed had been sown. The birds would build their nests at the wrong end of things. And the snow would not know whether it was supposed to be falling or melting. Today might as well be tomorrow and tomorrow today."

Now Father Time was kept so busy tending to the Days and the Hours and the Minutes, that he had long since given over the care of the Months to Mother Year, and she was as fond of them as any mother with twelve children could ever think of being. She would comb out young March's hair when it became tangled in the wind and laugh with October when the child came in from running over the ground with dry leaves. Each month was as precious as every other month to her warm heart.

"Would you like to see them tonight?" asked Mother Year proudly.

"Do let them come in!" urged Father Time.

So in they marched, one and two, and three and four, way up to twelve.

Then, "Attention!" cried January, who, being the first child, had been made captain of their games. The eleven stood themselves in a circle with January and replied with one voice, "Sir!"

Of course it would have been more military for them to have stood in a row, but that would have put January at one end of the line and December at the other, when they really belonged next to each other, because, as you know, the new year always brings January close on the heels of December. That is why they stood in a circle.

Mother year looked them over with an air of pleasure. "Father Time and I were just wondering," said she, "whether you would all like to be shuffled about and go through the calendar a new way. November might come just before April, and February after August—any way for a change."

The twelve Months looked very sober at such a strange thought.

"But," volunteered September after a moment, "we shouldn't be different ourselves; so what good would it do? I should have to have my own flowers and my own skies and my own rain just the same, no matter who came in front of me or who came behind me."

Something very much like a tear came into one of April's eyes. "And what about my rain? And my skies?" she inquired.

"That is the trouble," said July. "We all have our specialties, and most of us have holidays. If we got to changing about, people could never be sure of the weather, or when the orioles would be flying north, or when to go blueberrying."

"And I should be quite afraid of myself," put in June, "if May hadn't prepared things for my coming."

"And if I came in the place of May," said August, "my birds would think they were through with their singing when it was just time for them to begin."

"Seasons group!" ordered the captain at this point.

They broke ranks from their circle and blocked themselves into four triangles for the four regular seasons—Winter Spring, Summer and Autumn. March, April and May could hardly hold the pattern because the thought of Spring made their feet feel like dancing for their turn at the world.

December yawned once or twice. He had been hard at work all day and had come into the house for only a few winks of sleep before going out to manage a winter storm that was due almost any minute.

"For my part, I certainly should hate to have the Days skipped around," complained November. It might happen that Thanksgiving Day would be given to somebody else, and I might as well not have any Thursdays at all, if one of them can't be Thanksgiving."

"You see how it is, Father Time," said Mother Year. "All of the dear Months have very special reasons for being just what they are."

She held up her calendar and quietly called the roll of the Months in the usual order.

"Right about face!" shouted January, when all had answered present. "Forward march!"

And the twelve fell into regular line, such a swift line that they almost tumbled out of the room.

"Did you see the way March whisked through that door?" asked Mother Year when the last of them was out of hearing. "I do love the dears. I could not do without a single one."

"I know; I'm glad you decided not to change them," said Father Time, looking thoughtfully at his watch. "And now January will be going on duty in a few hours. A Happy New Year to you, Mother Year, and to all the children! Good night! Good night!"

A FABLE.

A willow tree once bent to look

At her own image in a brook.

"I am the fairest tree," she cried,

"In all the wooded countryside!"

Just then a rogue wind chanced to pass

And trampled on her looking-glass.

When next she looked she was not flattered;

Her mirror and her pride were shattered.

—Rowena Bastin Bennett.

The song, "The Sweet Bye and Bye," composed in the lantern light of a country store, brought a royalty of $56,000, but not until fifty years after its composer, Joseph P. Webster, of Elkhorn, Wisconsin, had written it.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00

Postage aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Mission Study Books.

Official List for 1924-1925.

ORDER BY TITLE OF BOOK.

FOR ADULT CLASSES.

For Home Mission Classes:

"The Romance of Home Missions," by S. L. Morris, D. D.. Paper, 50c; cloth.....$.75

For Foreign Mission Classes:

"Ming Kwong—the City of Morning Light," by Mary Ninde Gamewell. Paper, 50c; cloth .75

"In China," by H. F. Williams, D. D..... .25

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

For Intermediate Home Mission Classes:

"The Land of All Nations," by Margaret F. Seelbach. Paper, 50c; cloth..... .75

For Intermediate Foreign Mission Classes:

"China's Real Revolution," by Paul Hutchinson. Paper, 50c; cloth..... .75

For Junior Foreign Mission Classes:

"Chinese Lanterns," by Minna McEwen Meyer. Paper, 50c; cloth75

LEADERS' HELPS.

Leaders' Helps for "Romance of Home Missions" (Adult Classes)15

Leaders' Helps for "Romance of Home Missions" (Young People's Classes)..... .15

Leaders' Helps for "Land of All Nations"..... .15

Leaders' Helps for "Ming Kwong"..... .15

Leaders' Helps for "China's Real Revolution"..... .15

Leaders' Helps for "Chinese Lanterns"..... .15

Send all orders to—

THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 East Broad Street - - Richmond, Virginia.

WORSHIP AND HEALTH.

There is no royal road, no short cut to health, either by taking something out of a bottle or by purchasing manipulations. There is no short cut by juggling with mystic phrases or by trying to stand on one's head through an insistence that one shall believe what his common sense tells him is incredible. All those curious cults to the contrary notwithstanding, there is no such short cut to human wellbeing. It has been worked out according to law, and the best results are attainable where the work is done intelligently, systematically, and in serene reliance upon the great fact that God is working within us to accomplish His good pleasure. It is the office of the church to make this clear; to teach the people to assert, not by jumps and jerks, but by the steady thrust of their own truest aspiration, the full potentiality of their natures in the name and by the help of the God who loves them.

The very worship and service of the church can be made, and should be made, a means of health. It can be used to develop interior courage and high resolve. It can be made an opportunity for the influx of that larger supply of vitality from the great reservoir of spiritual energy so that "as the day, so shall our strength be"—the presence of energy from within meeting and balancing the pressure of obligation from without.

It is a well-known fact that certain emotions have an expansive and liberating, as well as a steadying and strengthening effect upon the entire body. Every one has had these experiences when participating in some nobly conducted religious service. The church by the whole appeal of its worship and instruction, by its power in moral renewal and in spiritual uplift, can steadily induce those states of feeling and attitudes of soul which make for health.

If one will study closely the relation of worship and aspiration, reflection and meditation, to nervous poise and stability, he will understand how fruitful this line of effort may be made. It is the doctrine of modern philosophy that God is immanent as well as transcendent, immanent in all these forms of life; and that He is finding a growing and maturing expression of His beneficent power and purpose in their advance. In the words of Josiah Royce of Harvard, "God wins perfection through expressing himself in the finite life and triumphing over and through its very finitude. God means to express himself by winning us, through the very triumph over evil, to unify with the perfect life; and therefore our fulfillment, like our existence, is due to the triumph of God himself."

All this is but a far-off echo of that divine word of the Master: "In this world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome!" By virtue of this victory, first vicarious, then representative, then individually effective, through personal appropriation, we win our own victories. Life becomes a "continuous divine communication." It is the high office of worship and aspiration, of meditation and reflection, to keep wide open the arteries of the soul for the divine influx to the end that men may be lifted into the joy and efficiency of that more abundant life to which we are called.

It was not the pastor of a church, nor a learned theologian in some seminary, but the leading psychologist of America in one of our oldest and greatest universities, who said: "The sovereign cure for worry is religious faith. The tossing billows on the fretful surface of the ocean leave the deep places undisturbed. And to him who has a hold on the vast and more permanent realities the hourly vicissitudes of his personal destiny seem relatively insignificant." If anyone would gain that poise and steadiness, that serenity and peace, which make for health twenty-four hours in the day, he can best accomplish it, according to William James, by personal, vital religious faith, making these mighty truths, these infinite sources of help, his own by daily utilization.—C. R. Brown, in Faith and Health.

Analysis of the ministers received into the Unitarian Church last year according to the Christian Register, Boston, shows that only three of the twenty-three received, were from the church itself. Of the total number, five were from the Universalists, six from the Congregationalists, two Presbyterians, two Methodists, one Roman Catholic, one Lutheran, two Episcopalians, and one Baptist. It would appear from these figures that ministers in some quarters have an especial preference for the Unitarians.

"The snow had begun in the gloaming,
And busily all the night
Had been heaping field and highway
With a silence deep and white.

"Every pine and fir and hemlock
Wore ermine too dear for an earl,
And the poorest twig on the elm-tree
Was edged inch-deep with pearl.

—James Russell Lowell.

(Continued from page 11.)

L. E. Newsom, Lucama, N. C. . . .	10.00
F. J. Seiver, Greenville, N. C.	1.50
Dry Runn Church and S. S.	23.07
W. H. Woodard, Greenville, N. C. . . .	2.00
R. L. Davis, Farmville, N. C.	2.00
J. R. Davis, Farmville, N. C.	2.00
J. W. Heggs, Greenville, N. C.	1.00
C. V. Cannon, Ayden, N. C.	2.50
Jas. H. Young, Greenville, N. C. . . .	5.00
J. H. Blount, Greenville, N. C. . . .	5.00
W. V. Williams, Washington, N. C. . .	5.00
J. H. Paylor, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
Pleasant Grove, Va.	17.05
Bethlehem (A.)	8.09
New Hope	13.05
Suffolk Church and S. S.	200.00
East End, Newport News	17.29
Beulah, Wadley, Ala.	6.52
Oak Level C. E., Youngsville	5.00
Third Ave., Danville	10.00
Circle No. 4, Mrs. C. A. Walker, Chairman, Burlington, N. C.	11.00
	424.99
Total for week	$ 1,012.34
Grand total for year 1925	$ 33,618.14

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

TO THE CHURCHES AND SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

Dear Friends:

We come at this time with this very urgent appeal for funds to help meet the running expenses of Bethlehem College. It is necessary to secure funds to the extent of at least $5,000 above what we will get from students this year in order to balance our accounts for the year's work. $2,000 of this amount may be secured in and around Wadley, but the other $3,000 will have to come from other places.

Financially, Bethlehem has been hard hit this year. The cotton crop of this section is very short and the price is a third less than last year, and we are receiving very little help from Men and Millions. So we must fall back on the individual churches for help, or close up the institution.

Our churches and Sunday Schools have always been so thoughtful and considerate of all the enterprises of our beloved church, and you will not fail us now in this hour of our direst need.

Our teachers are at Bethlehem at a stupendous sacrifice, and their salaries must be paid when due, if possible, but we have not the funds to pay them for the last month.

We believe this appeal will not go unheeded—that the interest your church and Sunday School have in their own College will lead them to make a worth-while Christmas Gift to Bethlehem College.

"Bethlehem College is your College—build it."

Send money to—

S. L. BEOUGHER, President,
WADLEY, ALABAMA.

ELON

COLLEGE

Library Building Auditorium ELON COLLEGE Alamance Hall—Administration Building Religious Activities Science Hall

OBITUARIES.

SPITZER.

Alpheus Marion Spitzer was born, February 2, 1872, and died November 8, 1925, making his age therefore 53 years, 9 months and 6 days. Bro. Spitzer was a highly respected man, and one who made friends everywhere he went. He was a faithful member of Bethlehem Christian Church, and will be missed greatly there. He is survived by his widow, five brothers, and four sisters.

Funeral services were conducted at Linville Creek Church of the Brethren, November 10, 1925, and interment made in the adjoining cemetery. May God comfort the many sorrowing relatives and friends. A. W. ANDES.

SCOTT.

Mr. Rufus Scott, son of the late William and Sallie Scott of Hertford county, N. C., died at the home of his son, E. L. Scott, Norfolk, Va., January 6, 1926, aged 68 years. The funeral services were conducted at Holy Neech Church, Nansemond county, by the writer, and the remains buried in the family plot in the church cemetery. Mr. Scott leaves three sons, E. L., E. R., and B. J., all of Norfolk, and one sister Miss Julia Scott of Cofield, N. C., and a large number of friends. His wife was Annie Elizabeth Jones, who died in 1922.

May the heavenly Father's richest peace and comfort rest upon his dear children and other loved ones.

N. G. NEWMAN.

HOLSINGER.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Holsinger was born June 10, 1847, and departed this life, December 10, 1925, at the age of 78 years and 6 months. Sister Holsinger was a faithful member of the Bethlehem Christian Church, and will be greatly missed there, as well as by her many friends throughout the entire community, for she was a woman of very decided Christian character. She is survived by two sons, twelve grand-children, and fifteen great-grand-children. Funeral services were held at Bethlehem, December 14 1925, and the body interred in the adjoining cemetery, by the side of her husband, D. C. Holsinger, who died in March 1916. A. W. ANDES.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES. SELF-PROMOUNGING. Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children. Send for Illustrated Catalog. THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers American Bible Headquarters 429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN Pipe Organ Expert TUNING -- REPAIRING REBUILDING. Motors Installed Yearly Contracts 3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va. Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES. The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children. A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request. 02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. 32 black illus. $1.85 02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50 03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches) $2.40 02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. $3.00 ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN" 1536 E Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES. For Old Folks and the Home EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES. Specimen of Type Holman Home Bible. AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that Flexible Binding. Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches. Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book. No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles. Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES. NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE. The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all. Size, 5 1/2 x 7 1/4 inches. Specimen of Type THE LORD is my shephee not want. 2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters. No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker. Price—Post Paid 4.20 No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above. Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

MARTZ.

Miss Mary A. J. V. Martz was born August 31, 1865, and passed from labor to reward November 27, 1925. Her stay of 60 years, 2 months and 26 days upon this earth was characterized largely by suffering. She was a faithful member of the Bethlehem Christian Church, though of late years not able to attend often the services. She was highly esteemed by a large number of friends in the community. She is survived by a sister, Miss Ruby. Funeral services were held at the home, November 29, 1925, and the body laid to rest in the family burying ground near by. A large gathering of friends were present, thus attesting the high esteem in which the deceased was held. A. W. ANDES.

SMITH.

Mr. William E. Smith was born May 24, 1898. On the morning of November 7th, in some unaccountable manner he lost control of the machine he was driving, which turned over, causing almost instant death. He leaves to mourn his untimely death his wife, mother and little girl as the nearest relatives. The funeral was conducted from the Pittsboro M. E. Church. He was a member of the Raleigh Christian Church. Many friends weep with the grief-stricken relatives. May God comfort the bereaved and give them the assurance of a happy meeting beyond the grave.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

GUYNN.

On December 26th, while fixing his gun, Mr. Joe Guynn shot and killed himself accidentally. He did not live but a few moments after the ball struck him as it entered his right lung and came out near his shoulder blade.

He was forty-one years old and had been married twenty years. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife, seven children, brother and father and mother. He will not only be missed by his host of friends and neighbors, but by the work here. He gave the first donation on the Elk Spur Church, did the first work and most likely made the largest donation as he gave the rough material. While he was not a member of the Church, yet he did all he could for the work. He was always ready to do anything he could. In our building at Rocky Ford he made a very liberal donation, thus showing he was interested in all the work we are trying to do.

As the weather was cold on Monday following the accident the writer gave a short talk at his home after which the remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery. Mrs. Guynn is left in needy circumstances. We extend to her and those left our deepest sympathy. The best we can give them will be only in a small measure our sympathy. May God's richest blessing rest and abide with them. M. T. SORRELL.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04408 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANELED SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 9/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there A was a marriage in Cana of Galilee: and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 18RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136NP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1926.

NUMBER 3.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATOR

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Letters to be Read.—

That army and civilian fliers may have a sure guide, letters seven feet in length, to spell the words "Salt Lake City" or "Salt Lake," will be painted across the top of the world famous tabernacle. These letters will be easily perceptible at an altitude of over 3,000 feet above the city.

Automobile Death Toll Greater.—

During 1925, deaths due to automobile accidents showed a sharp increase over the preceding year. During the year, according to figures compiled by the Associated Press, the number of deaths in thirty of the larger cities totaled 4,411. In Chicago there were 787 fatalities, while in New York, 810 were killed in ten months.

Europe's Flood Losses Heavy.—

The countries of Central and Western Europe have suffered heavy losses, both of property and life, from the recent floods caused by heavy rains and unusually rapid melting of the snow. Thousands of people have been rendered homeless by the raging waters and the death list will probably run high in the hundreds. At Cologne, the Rhine was thirty feet above the normal level, and the property loss in that city alone was placed at $2,500,000. In Roumania and Hungary vast areas have been inundated and many lives lost. The floods in France are said to be the worst in the memory of living men, while the damage in Belgium is said to be comparable to that done by the World War.

No End in Sight Yet.—

All of the early developments in the negotiations between the operators and the leaders of the 158,000 hard coal miners, have been disappointing at the least. The operators are still insistent that an arbitration clause be inserted in the contract, while the miners have shown themselves to be just as determined to accept no plan which will leave the final decision on their demands to a third party. During the first conference, and so far in the second, there has been nothing to indicate that the deadlock would be broken. Both sides, however, realize that public indignation will be aroused if no settlement is reached, and this doubtless will prevent an abandonment of the peace efforts so long as any possibility of a settlement remains.

Chewing and Smoking.—

The Vice-President has been asked by the anti-tobacco people to give up his pipe. And it is rumored that the President will be asked to give up his cigars. It is rather early to comment. Mr.

Dawes seems to have brought it on himself by counseling the pages of the Senate not to use tobacco. Advice which is not illustrated by action is always inconvenient. Not many of us can be successful sign posts—pointing the way, but never going ourselves. The habit of chewing tobacco has almost disappeared from polite society, and public smoking is on the decrease. No one expects to meet lawyers, doctors, bank clerks, pharmacists, store clerks, conductors, chauffeurs, with cigars or cigarettes stuck in their faces. Newspapermen are about the only ones these days, who do not remove their pipe or cigar stump when they address people. And even these are learning better.

The Top of the Planet.—

"Over the top of the planet by airplane is all done but the doing, and we may hear of it being successfully done almost any day. A combination of interests are linked for the feat. A newspaper system wants the exclusive story. A certain make of airplane wants the advertisement. Aviators want to demonstrate that no element but fire is now closed to their prowess. Explorers want to see what they can find. Militarists are looking for a short cut to the other side of the earth. Think of it—out of the Western Hemisphere into the Eastern Hemisphere by a jump over the ice of the Polar Sea! "Take the Polar Short Route to the Orient!" And that is not all by far. The Pole will be opened up. We may live to see a real estate boom develop in its vicinity. What better place is there on earth for a health resort? It is not a bouncing imagination, but quite within the realm of possibility, and within our lifetime, too, that "ordered North" will be as much a health note as "ordered South." Our race tends more to the Pole than to the jungle, and we may yet see golf courses laid among the ice hummocks, where endless tournaments may be held through the long arctic day."—The Dearborn Independent.

Greatest Force Developed by Man.—

In a recent issue, The American Review of Reviews carried an article on "The Miracle of Radio Broadcasting," by James G. Harboard, president of the Radio Corporation of America, as follows: "Radio broadcasting, I devoutly believe, is the greatest force yet developed by man in his march down the slopes of time. Since Gutenberg devised his crude wooden type and made printing possible, nearly five centuries ago, there has been no single invention which so closely touches human interest and human welfare as this miracle of the ages.

"The voice of radio broadcasting penetrates the cottage of the humblest citizen as readily as it does the palace of the Fifth Avenue millionaire.

It laughs at distance. It recognizes no distinctions and plays no favorites. It is the entertainment and the education for the million, and as such it is available to everyone, being literally as free as the air.

"Today, with 600 broadcasting stations in operation throughout the United States, a truly remarkable service is being rendered to an audience of listeners estimated to reach at times as many as twenty-five million people.

"With these utilitarian benefits of radio, there comes a wealth of entertainment. The great men of the nation, the President, himself, will speak to the city man and the farmer alike. To paraphrase Emerson, if a man have a radio receiver, no matter where he be, the world will beat a path to his door."

The Football Problem in Colleges.—

We read the trend in the papers. It may be called a problem, for it has reached the stage where it over-shadows many better interests, and where students themselves have felt that certain things connected with it must be changed. The Youth's Companion makes the following comment on the situation:

"No subject is more thoroughly discussed than the future of football. Almost everyone has a good word for the game itself; but those who love it best are the most eager to prevent it being turned into a circus. The other day a conference of college editors from Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Williams, Bowdoin and Wesleyan, met at Middletown, Conn., and made some very sensible recommendations concerning the conduct of the game. One was that coaches should not be paid salaries greater than—or even as large as—professors. Another was that the coach should not be permitted to have any access to teams or substitutes between the beginning and end of a game. The third was that no team should play more than four games, and those with teams in its own class, and the last was that "championship" titles should be avoided. These suggestions are interesting above all, because they come from the undergraduates themselves. If the game is "reformed," it will be the college and not the newspapers or the faculties who will do it."

Baseball is also coming up for thought. The game has been misused a good deal. It has many good features, but bad ones, too. One of the bad ones is that it is merely a spectator's sport. There are thousands who look on, but only a few can participate. What America needs is a simple, inexpensive game of somekind in which everyone can join. That will give true relaxation and promote sociability at the same time. A baseball man imagines a good deal more than he gets when he witnesses and shouts at a game.

NOTES-PERSONALS

In a private note, Bro. D. A. Mann, renewing his subscription to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, says, "I am proud of our Church paper, I think none excels it."

Do not wait till after Mission Month is over before beginning to plan other work. Keep that in mind, and think of plans for summer schools, conventions, and the various other church enterprises.

Many letters are received containing statements about THE CHRISTIAN SUN like this: "It has been in my home ever since I could remember." It would be a pleasure to acknowledge these letters, but time forbids.

Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College, N. C., attended, during the past week, the Council of Church Boards of Education and the Association of American Colleges, which meetings were held in New York City.

Chaplain H. E. Rountree has been transferred from Portsmouth and is now in the Panama Canal Zone. He will be glad to hear from his friends. Till further notice, his address will be: Chaplain H. E. Rountree, U. S. S. Antares, c/o Post Master, New York City.

At the quarterly meeting of the Rockingham County (N. C.) Ministerial Association, composed of eight different denominations, on Monday, January 4th, at Spray, N. C., Rev. R. A. Whitten, pastor of our Reidsville Church, was elected president for the year 1926.

If pastors put on Mission Month in an indifferent and half-hearted manner, we may expect indifferent and heart-breaking results. Some of our churches are going to reap great benefits and blessings from Mission Month, because their pastors are praying and planning for it.

Rev. R. C. Helfenstein, D. D., Dover, Del., went at the very heart of the matter for observing Mission Month. Though his letter was purely personal to the Mission Secretary, its contents were too rich and suggestive to be kept. We trust that every CHRISTIAN SUN reader this week will turn to Bro. Helfenstein's letter and read it carefully and then meditate for a moment what such a sacrificial service means in the life of a church and people.

Dear "Uncle Wellons" is none the worse for the centennial celebration on January 1st, and the delivery of that fine sermon which required an hour and fifteen minutes—to say nothing of the ordeal of shaking hands with hundreds of his friends. Fact is, the event seemed to help him. Having lived a hundred years, much of which time he was frail and in bad health, one might as well quit prophesying or surmising as to how long he will live.

The liberty granted by the tenets of the Christian Church should not be construed to grant license to promulgate unwarranted private opinions. Immediately following the statement of the Five Cardinal Principles, the Church places itself on record thus: "The Church should avoid all debates and disputations, especially of a public character, which tend to create strife, enmity or division among the followers of Christ, and should not employ means of doubtful propriety, but should use those spiritual weapons which are mighty, through God, to the pulling down of strongholds."

If one is inclined to think a woman cannot preach, and stick to her text while she does so, we invite such, and all others, to read that masterpiece by Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Norfolk, Va., presented elsewhere. Mrs. Bryant is the efficient and capable president of the Woman's Missionary Conference of Eastern Virginia, and works at her task all the year. We trust all SUN readers will read carefully her presentation of a very engaging theme.

Rev. G. A. Pearce, Sunbury, N. C., writes on January 11th, "Have filled one appointment at each church of this field (Gates County) and am liking the work better each day. In fact, I am just an instrument in God's hands, so I am not uneasy about the work here." Brother Pearce is an Elon graduate of the class of '25, and after teaching a few months has entered the pastorate for all his time and strength. He has an important field and here is trusting that God will bless his labors abundantly.

THE SUN'S Editor wonders if all of our readers noticed in THE SUN of January 7th, the account from Pastor James H. Lightbourne, Holland, Virginia, of labors wrought and achievements attained in a program of the past five years with Holland Church? Though modest and unassuming in its presentation, it was a revelation of what may be accomplished through divine guidance by one who gives himself to a program of real Kingdom service. Evidently Brother Lightbourne has the ability to plant, to water, to cultivate, in such way and manner that God approves and gives the increase. We should be calling this man "Dr." Lightbourne, and if some of our colleges do not recognize the opportunity of honoring themselves by conferring this degree, THE SUN'S Editor will feel like an opportunity has been missed of awarding merit where merit belongs. He is already a "Doctor of Decds" that count in a marked manner for the advancement of that knowledge which is most worth-while in this world.

The Mission Secretary received a line from his friend and brother in service, M. T. Woodall, formerly of Raleigh, N. C., R. 4, now of Chicago. The following betrays no confidence and shows the mind and heart of one who has learned to sacrifice even in his days of preparation for service. "Since I made my pledge to missions, many things have happened to me of which I need not tell. However, I have given myself to the service of the Lord and I am now in my second year as a student of the Moody Bible Institute, and I hope some day to be out in the world actively engaged in some line of work for God. Pray for me. Enclosed you will find a check for $25.00 for which amount give me credit on my pledge. I am trying to keep up the practice of tithing and it is helping me in many ways, although it costs me a lot of money to live here and go to school. I am working my own way. I go home in the fall and run a cotton gin to secure means on which to come back." Evidently our brother is getting joy even in the days of his preparation. In fact is not tithing itself a large and legitimate part of education and preparation for life?

POUNDED.

One of the biggest surprises we have ever had happened on Thanksgiving evening. A number of the good people of Bethlehem Church came to see us, bringing with them many things that had been gotten together, such as are helpful to a preacher's family.

Some of these things were money, sugar, coffee, flour, butter, meat, fruits, cabbage, sweets, cloth, etc. We have also been remembered since.

Perhaps one wonders what we said. What could we say? We were at a loss to know what to say, or rather we were "too full for utterance." Now after the shock is over, about the best thing we can do is to pray the Lord may continue to bless these good people and "supply all their needs according to His riches in glory," helping us to serve them better.

Many thanks, Bethlehem.

J. F. APPLE AND FAMILY.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

On Saturday, January 30th and Sunday, January 31st, there will be a special session of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference at Wake Chapel Church, near Fuquay Springs, N. C. The session will open at 2:30 P. M., Saturday and close Sunday night. All delegates, all ministers, and members of Standing Committees of the Conference are urged to attend this meeting. Important business will come before the conference for consideration.

All churches should be represented by the delegates chosen to attend the last annual session. All members of conference should be present at the opening and stay till the close Sunday night.

Entertainment will be provided for all who come. Write Rev. J. Lee Johnson, Pastor, Wake Chapel Church, Fuquay Springs, N. C.

H. C. CAVENESS, President,
W. C. WICKER, Secretary.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONGRESS.

The Alamance-Orange-Durham District of the Young People's Congress of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference will be held at Elon College in the Christian Education Building on January 31st, which is the fifth Sunday.

This Young People's Congress was authorized at the last Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the conference at Shallow Ford Church.

The program will open at 10:00 o'clock that morning, and will close at four in the afternoon. Luncheon will be served the visiting delegates in the College Dining Hall. The program is arranged especially for the young people, the young people having places on the program and on the committees. At this time also, plans and arrangements will be made for the continuance of the congress.

All young people from the ages of 15 to 24 are urged to attend. The delegation will be unlimited, but will include all the young people of every church in the district. Also an auxiliary organization of pupils from 9 to 15 years of age, a Junior Congress will be conducted at the same time, with a separate program.

C. M. CANNON.

MT. CARMEL.

The work at Mt. Carmel is still alive and we have no idea of turning backward, for we know that our Captain, Jesus the Christ, is able to give us the victory if we will only trust Him.

On Thursday evening, the last day of 1925, Sunday School Class No. 5 rendered a very interesting program, in the way of a pageant entitled, "The Babe of Bethlehem." This program was directed by Mrs. Otelia Johnson, Mrs. C. K. Barrett and others. There was a very large crowd present that expressed themselves as being much interested an inspired.

After the entertainment was over, the Sunday School gave a Christmas treat. A Christmas tree was exhibited, a Santa Claus was in evidence, and all the children and junior pupils received presents.

We appreciate the help of those on the program and the Sunday School having remembered the children.

The people here are very good to us in many ways, and while we have not received a general pounding for the past few weeks, we have not only been remembered with kindness of word and act, but by many in a very substantial way, all of which we would not be able to mention.

Not long ago, Bro. C. K. Barrett remembered us with a quarter barrel of flour, Bro. Elihu Lankford with a nice box of fresh meat, Mrs N. V. Bradshaw with a nice ham for Christmas, Bro. J. B. Bland and wife with a nice lot of "freshes," and many others have given potatoes, and other things that go to help in pleasing the appetite and sustaining the body.

Praying God's richest blessings upon each member, we are looking forward to a very successful year in the church work.

ELISHA BRADSHAW,
Pastor.

A FAST COVENANT.

What Do Other Pastors Think of This?

January 14, 1926.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson,
Elon College, N. C.

Dear Dr. Atkinson,—

Last night at the regular monthly meeting of our Official Board I presented the proposition of the Emergency Mission Campaign for February, and submitted my recommendations as to an appropriate way for our church to observe the month, and to recommend that the families of the of the good.

There were twenty-four members of the Board present, business and professional men and women.

The Board voted unanimously and enthusiastically to observe February as special mission month, and to recommend that the families of the church sign a Fast covenant pledging themselves to fast each Wednesday noon of the month, and give what the meal would have cost as the minimum offering of that week for the Mission Campaign.

The plan includes the idea of having the members of the family gather around the unset table at the noon hour, and there in the atmosphere of the sacrifice they are making by going without the principal meal of the day, to spend a few minutes in silent prayer for the Mission interest of our beloved church, and for the success of the Emergency Campaign.

This plan is the same as the one I presented to the church a few years ago in the interest of Near East Relief, which was adopted by hundreds of churches of all denominations, and which was heartily recommended by the National Near East Relief Committee. Such an observance has both a subjective and objective benefit. It is sure to prove a great spiritual blessing to all who enter into the Fast Covenant. Moreover, it is bound to result in larger offering of Missions at this particular time, and it will implant the idea of Missions more deeply in the minds and hearts of the people.

What a wonderful thing it would be if every family in the Southern Convention would observe such a Covenant for the month of February!

May God crown your untiring efforts in this campaign with the most inspiring victory of your life is my earnest prayer.

Sincerely yours in the Master's Service.
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, Pastor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

65—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$3c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THEREFORE PRAY!

One billion people, two-thirds of the human race, nearly two thousand years after Jesus sent forth His apostles, are still without any knowledge of the Saviour. The testimony of the Christian nations of the West is marred by injustice, race prejudice, covetousness and immorality. More than a million children, in this the richest nation of the world, are denied opportunities for education and are sacrificed on the altar of greed. Prohibitory laws, the outstanding manifestation of America's idealism, are meeting such a widespread and determined opposition in their enforcement as to make of our country a byword and hissing among the nations. Our churches are tainted with worldliness and hypocrisy. More than 25,000,000 young people and children are outside the influence of any Sunday School, Jewish, Catholic, or Protestant. Family religion is at a low ebb. Family worship, the daily reading of the scriptures, the family singing of hymns, have almost dissipated. Disrespect of the Sabbath is wide-spread; and attendance upon church services and upon the weekly prayer meeting are in most churches not half the membership of the church. All these and a hundred other threatening symptoms call loudly for some remedy, some fresh stimulus to spiritual living.

Such a remedy is prayer. If God's people, those who profess to love him, would give half the time to earnest, believing prayer that they now spend in activities, a wave of spiritual energy would sweep the earth, that would hasten the coming of the Kingdom by centuries. Jesus' recipe is the recipe for present perplexities. "The harvest is great, the laborers few," he said, "therefore pray." Therefore pray! Therefore PRAY!

The above citation of facts and conditions is taken from the pen of Helen Barrett Montgomery, issued as "A Call to Prayer." Surely such a summons should not go unheeded. Now, when we are preparing for Mission Month in all of our churches, prayer should be emphasized, for missions go forward on the knees of prayer. This is the mightiest factor in missions, and the reason why two-thirds of the human race is without Christ is because Christians have not prayed as their Lord taught and commanded. J. O. A.

KINGDOM LOYALTY.

A Kingdom is a Realm with a King as its head. At Sinai God spake to the people through Moses and said: "Ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation."—Exodus 19: 6. John said: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." And Jesus said: "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence."—Matt 11: 12. If there is any difference between the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Heaven, it must be the difference between the Old Dispensation and the New Dispensation; and the Messianic Kingdom and the Jewish Kingdom are one, for Jesus came to fulfill, not to destroy. (Matthew 5: 17.) The Christian dispensation grew out of the Jewish dispensation, and the Church is a part of this Kingdom over which Christ rules. And, "The kingdoms of this world are to become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ; and He shall reign forever and ever."—Rev. 11: 15.

Kingdom loyalty is devoted allegiance to the Kingdom of God in all of its interests. Loyalty to the United States includes loyalty to all of the States, to all of the laws, and to all of the people. It is no small matter to be loyal to the Kingdom of God, as that embraces all divine and human interests and obligations. To be a Christian is the greatest thing in the world.

Loyalty to God.

(a) As Creator. "All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made."—John 1: 3. He hath made us in His own image, and crowned us with glory and honor.

(b) As Savior, through Jesus Christ, who is, "King of kings and Lord of lords."—I. Tim. 6: 15. Jesus is head of the Church, and loyalty to Him is loyalty to the Kingdom.

(c) As Holy Spirit, who gave us the Bible, and inspires the readers and teachers of the Bible, so that men may know their spiritual obligations in all relations of life. "He shall take of mine and shall show it unto you."—John 16: 15.

These three lines of loyalty—to God, to Jesus Christ, and to the Holy Spirit—are all inward, spiritual, and personal. Man cannot deceive God, it is fatal to deceive himself, and wrong to deceive others. Loyalty to the Kingdom is the foundation for character and a crown. The hope of eternal life is in loyalty to the Kingdom.

Loyalty to the Church

(a) Its Mission, which is Missionary. The love of God and the command of Jesus prove this: "God so loved the world," and Jesus said, "The field is the world."—John 3: 16 and Matt. 13: 38; and He sent His disciples "to teach all nations, and to preach the Kingdom of God."—Luke 9: 60.

(b) Its Institutions and Publications, Educational and Benevolent. These are all parts of the Kingdom, and disloyalty to the institutions of the Church is disloyalty to the Kingdom; for they are all agencies of the Kingdom.

(c) The Sunday School. Sunday School literature and social and welfare work deserve the loyal support of members of the Church. It is a great privilege to be a member of the Church and, like good soldiers, to wear the whole armor of God," and "Fight the good fight of faith."

Loyalty to the Local Church.

(a) Its Pastor. And it is equally important for the pastor to be loyal to the members. This relationship between pastor and members is sacred and essential to Kingdom loyalty. It is, also, mutual and binding. Where this mutual relationship is cordial and permanent, the local church will be influential and loyal.

(b) Its Organization. The local organization is based on some Biblical foundation. It is, by its creed, its conference, or its principles, tied up to the Kingdom; if separate from these, it is not a New Testament Church, and it is not a part of the Kingdom of God. There are organizations within the Church, as an organization: Missionary Societies, Aid Societies, Young People's Societies, and the members should be friendly to all the sub-agencies and activities working for the Kingdom. One may not be a member of all the auxiliary societies, but should be friendly toward all of them.

(c) Its Financial Support; not only of local expenses, but of conference, convention, and authorized obligations of the local church. Financial support of the local church and its obligations is essential to the life, growth and the activities of the church. The Home cannot exist without money. The State cannot exist without money. The Church cannot live and do its work without money. "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and "God loveth a cheerful giver."—Acts 20: 35. Giving is like God, who "giveth man all things richly to enjoy."—I. Tim. 6: 17.

Here, in the Local Church, is the field for individual loyalty, and individual service. The majority of members never get beyond the local congregation in attendance, activity, influence, and representation, but it is a great field, and a great opportunity to cultivate and express loyalty to the Kingdom, for the local church.

W. W. S.

WHAT THEY SAY OF MISSION MONTH.

We cannot begin to give in full what our many pastors say about Mission Month, but a sentence from some of the many letters will indicate the spirit of the pastors as touching this vital matter:

Rev. B. J. Howard, Chapel Hill, N. C.: "Our plans for Mission Month are now in the making; may send you program when completed."

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C.: "Our church has voted to observe Mission Month, and take the special offering. I wanted the program to be officially adopted by the church."

Rev. C. E. Geringer: "I mean to observe Mission Month in my church, and I am arranging to give my churches two Sundays each."

Rev. T. J. Green: "I purpose to observe Mission Month in all my churches and wish you would be with me at each of them one Sunday before then."

Rev. G. A. Pearce: "I will do the best I can in putting on a missionary program in the churches of which I am pastor. I can use any printed matter you may think beneficial in helping to get the people interested to the point of giving."

Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va.: "I am not sure just how we will accomplish the desired end, but we will work it in a serious way. I now think that we will put on an educational program during the month of February, culminating in a pageant near the last of the month with the understanding that the mission end of the envelope offering and the special offering at the pageant go as our special for the funds desired. It seems to me that this will keep us with the budget system and at the same time enter into the program of the conference."

Rev. J. A. Ledbetter: "I most heartily approve of the plans for Mission Month. I am constantly calling the attention of our people to Missions. We can do His will only as we are missionary. We will observe Mission Month in my churches."

Rev. H. B. Hall: "It is our purpose to observe Mission Month heartily. I am heartily in favor of missions. No church can thrive without missions."

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, Suffolk, Va.: "We are planning to observe Mission Month in February, and we hope to make it an intensive missionary period. I have been thinking about some ways in which I can make the matter interesting and especially concrete. Among other things, I hope to have an illustrated lecture on our foreign mission work, as well as data in regard to all our work, both at home and abroad. I also plan to preach on missions on several occasions during the month and to use the theme in my mid-week prayer services. I will probably use "Prayer and Missions" in these meetings. If you have any suggestion, or any material I will be glad to have it. I hope we can get an offering of love that will represent our share in the work."

Rev. C. W. Hanson, LaGrange, Ga.: "I will do all that I can in observing Mission Month. Our people have been up against it so hard, I do not know what can be accomplished just now; but will do all I can."

Rev. C. W. Carter, Wadley, Ala.: "Yes, I am interested in the plan to raise a special fund for Missions. Expect to make a special effort and do all I can in all my churches."

Rev. J. S. Carden, Durham, N. C.: "I will say in regard to Missions, that I will do my best to hold Mission Services in the Month of March, 1926, in all of my churches, and take the offering and have it sent to you. Yours in Christ."

Scores of others write in similar vein. Rev. R. C. Helfenstein writes a letter which we have taken the liberty to print in full. Many have ordered their envelopes, and these will be sent out to every church secretary in a few days. Every member of Sunday School, Christian Endeavor, Church and congregation should be given an envelope, and we are trying to supply enough to meet the need.

J. O. A.

"THE CHURCH IN A CHANGING WORLD." No. 1.

There are two philosophies of life. The one teaches that the human race started on a very high level of morality and intellectuality; the level of human perfection, but that from this state of perfection man fell, and that the human race has been retrograding ever since. This philosophy of life teaches that from the day dawn of humanity's existence, the world has been going backward, and that what humanity is hoping for is that man shall ultimately be reinstated to the exalted position of perfection from which he formerly fell.

The other philosophy of life teaches that the human family started from a very low state of moral and intellectual appreciations, and has been slowly but surely climbing higher and higher in an upward trend toward God. It teaches that nations may decline and Empires crumble away, but that upon their ruins humanity builds more largely and more securely. This philosophy of life grants that at times humanity has lost its footing, as for instance was evidenced by the world war, but that by and large, humanity from the inception of the human race has been climbing, advancing, progressing. This philosophy of life teaches that at heart the world has been growing better, despite the numerous outward indications that argue the contrary. The only person who does not believe that the human race has been advancing and that the world is growing better, is the person who does not read history. No thinking person can fail to appreciate the fact that in spite of the occasional periods of stoppage in the development of the human race, and in spite of the apparent periods of falling back, that in man's many-sided life may be clearly traced a marvelous development, evidenced by the irrefutable fact that civilized man is adapted for a far higher and happier career than were his savage ancestors. Who would care to change conditions in life today for those of a hundred, or fifty, or even ten years ago?

Humanity was born to push forward. A perfected humanity is the goal of human desire at its best. The spirit of promotion, the spirit of achievement, and of progress, is the spirit of the Author of life, the God who reigns in and over all.

This God implanted spirit in man is opposed to every expression of the principle of laissez faire which is content to let well-enough alone, and which looks with fear and distrust upon every suggestion of change that would break with established thought or time-worn custom.

In every age this native instinct, this inherent passion in humanity's bosom to rise, to move forward, to better existing conditions has been opposed by a perverted tendency in society to take things as they are, to hold to the past instead of looking to the future, to accept without question all that the past has given, to be guided by the thought of the past, but to fail to direct the thought of, or to make any contribution to the the future, other than to hand down to the future what the past has vouchsafed to the present. In short this perverted tendency in interests, seeks to preserve the existing conditions instead of changing them for something better, instead of building on the foundation of the past larger things for the present and the future.

Notwithstanding a perverted tendency in society to let well-enough alone, and to hold tenaciously to the past at the sacrifice of a change for the better, the world has been and is moving forward. We individually have to vote as to whether we are going to move forward with the world on our thinking or to keep our thoughts from being inoculated with the progressive ideas of our day. If we want to follow the line of least resistance in our thinking, we will follow the well beaten paths of the past. Otherwise we will seek to help blaze the trails to guide men in their quest after truth.

Today, as never before, men in every civilized land are coming to namely that,—

"New occasions teach new duties;
Time makes ancient good uncouth.
They must upward, still and onward;
Who would keep abreast of truth."

The present can best show its appreciation of the magnificent contribution of the past by building upon it more largely for the future. The present owes its existence to the past, but to the future it owes its right of existence.

Human progress consists in society readjusting itself to new and even higher planes of life socially, industrially, politically, educationally, and religiously. Each succeeding century effects more readjustments than the preceding. The world of science and invention, the scientific method being adopted in every field of learning, made the nineteenth century conspicuous for the numerous readjustments in thought and life which it introduced. The twentieth century will be no less conspicuous. We have passed beyond the time when the prevailing tendency was against reform and progress.

Possibly men hold more persistently to the old order of things in religion than any other sphere of human interests. They may welcome with enthusiasm innovations in farming and other industries, in business methods, in education, in politics and yet set themselves dead against anything new in religious thought or propaganda. Men are slow to change their religious views. The Church is experiencing and is to experience many readjustments in the twentieth century, readjustments which will make it more Christian. Each succeeding generation is getting closer to Jesus and to the content of his gospel. The heterodoxies of one generation become the orthodoxies of the succeeding generation, and thus progress in religious interpretations has been effected.

Many people are disturbed by the changes which are so rapidly taking place in the readjustments of the different creeds of our day, and in the theological restatements of Christian faith. The reason some people experience a shaking of their faith in these times of theological readjustments is the fact that they fail to distinguish between theology and religion. Their religion is based on what they have received from others, rather than upon what they have experienced for themselves. Religion which is based on experience has nothing to fear from any source. You can't shake a man's faith if he has experienced God in his life. Religion is based on facts that are eternal, whereas theology is but the interpretation of those facts, and will change as knowledge increases. Theology is but the index of religious consciousness. Men who are content with medieval Christianity will cling dogmatically to the medieval theology, even though it may be dusty with age and utterly meaningless for the day in which they live. Theology is to religion what botany is to the plant world. The science of botany has changed but the phenomena of the plant life remains constant. So in the relation of theology to religion, the theological forms and opinions have changed and are changing and will continue to change as knowledge increases, but the great facts of God, Christ, his holy love, and the purpose and meaning of human life remain unchangeable and eternal.

R. C. H.

THE STUDENTS AT EVANSTON.

An Interdenominational Student Conference, with some thousand in attendance assembled at Evanston, Ill., December 28th to January 1st. The brilliant Stanley High was the guiding and directing genius. The elders were welcomed to the gallery. It was a young people's gathering, and they proceeded to do things.

The first day and a half were consumed in fault finding. The most erroneous criticisms were launched against the Church. The atmosphere was decidedly "anti."

Then, for two days, the commissions appointed in advance to study the positive achievements of the Church, reported. Facts proving that organized religion had not failed were given. The whole atmosphere changed.

Of course resolutions were then adopted, or "findings" as the current vocabulary has it, and a continuation committee appointed. Now we shall see what shall be done.

I do not think it can be maintained that the writer is unsympathetic with youth, but he nevertheless desires to say to them that they lack the knowledge, the experience and the insight to run the world and its institutions. Their fine enthusiasm, their noble loyalty, their self-sacrificing altruism, are needed by the world. But they are erratic in judgment and should seek the co-operation of their elders in finding ways of realizing their splendid aspirations. Stanley High himself is beginning to sense this—Stanley High, who is the acknowledged leader of the Youth Movement, and who promises, I trust, to become a second John R. Mott or Robert Speer.

W. A. H.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The Southern Christian Convention will meet in the Christian Church in Durham, North Carolina, on Tuesday before the first Sunday in May, which, this year, will be April 27th, 1926.

It was suggested at the Minsiterial Association of the Eastern Virginia Conference in Norfolk yesterday, that it would be a wise and happy thing to get all the Ministers in the Southern Convention to reach Durham by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, or before, that day, April 27th, and have a meeting and supper together at the new Washington Duke Hotel. Such a meeting for conference, before the Convention opens, would put the ministers in sympathetic touch with the work and with one another. Such opportunities are rare for the ministers, and yet important for work, not only in the Convention, but in the local conferences as well.

Such a meeting would generate a spirit of fellowship and co-operation among the ministers, a fine spirit that is essential to best results in the Lord's work. Ministers often feel the need of such association, but occasion does not arise for the realization of such fellowship except at the Convention. The approaching Convention looms so large in obligations and opportunities that the presence of all the ministers, whether delegates or not, contains an essential factor of future success. This is not meant to leave out the importance of the presence and judgment of laymen and women; it simply emphasizes the importance—almost necessity—for all the ministers to attend this Convention. This should be, and it can be made the greatest Convention in the seventy years of its history. Such a meeting is reasonable and possible; and a simple suggestion can make this pre-social conference tell for the interest of the Convention, and that means for the whole constituency of the Convention for two full years of real service.

It may be stated, without proof, that many ministers who would love to attend would be embarrassed to let it be known that they were financially unable to attend. This is not said to blame ministers or churches; it is written to lead up to a suggestion which it is hoped will meet the approval and compliance of all the local churches. The suggestion is this: That every church or pastorate in the Southern Christian Convention give its ministers a sum of money that will defray his full expense to and from the Durham Convention. This would not be a burden upon any church or pastorate. If a church has a whole-time pastor, that congregation should hand the pastor a purse adequate to cover his expenses and say: "We want you to go to the Convention, remain all the time, and do your part, and return better qualified to serve our church as pastor." If the minister serves several churches, they should all take part in such a contribution as will defray his expenses to and from the Convention, pass it to their pastor as a willing gift from the churches, and tell him: "It is a pleasure to us to help you in this extra way to attend the Convention, to learn what you can, to contribute what you can, and then to come back to us better equipped for the work to which we have called you." W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

A writer in the Yale Review recently made bold to say that Colleges can get along without athletics, and can even achieve their major purpose without inter-collegiate sport.

The Alumni of Colleges do not believe this. The students do not believe it. The coaches do not believe it. The faculty do not believe it. The coaches regard it as rank heresy. The writer joins in the chorus of disavowal.

The College authorities are prone to regard athletics as a method of advertising. The students take the recreational view. The alumni regard athletics as a means of renewing their College loyalties. Coaches, of course, have the professional attitude toward the situation.

They are all wrong. Athletics is for character development, and unless College athletics can qualify under this category, our Christian Colleges part company with the whole thing.

Very naturally and inevitably the character values in athletics hinge on the coach or coaches employed. Colleges like to win. I have been greeted frequently by Elon friends and Alumni with the gibe—"Well, I see from the papers that Elon also played." In every such case, I explain that we played a real game and lost like real sports, that the real thing in athletics is the spirit in which you play the game.

But I never have yet satisfied a friend by this method. The emphasis is on winning, and this has been disastrous for the Colleges. It has caused Colleges to look for coaches who could win games, no matter by what methods. A winning coach always has the students, the alumni, and the public with him, no matter what his moral character. He may not pay his debts or live with his wife, his language may be that of a drunken sailor, but if he can put out winning teams, that is enough.

No, it is not enough. Those who coach, have the young men of a College under their control for good or ill, for Christian character or the opposite. A Christian College, therefore, must never lose sight of the fact that its coaches as well as its professors, shall by example, represent the best type of Christian manhood. Winning games is a small matter when compared to producing Christian character in College students through athletics.

W. A. HARPER.

I AM GRATEFUL.

I am grateful, in the first place, to God for having spared my life so long. While I feel that I have not lived perfectly, I am grateful that he has spared my life a full 100 years, and that I have been able to do something for Him and His Kingdom.

I am thankful, too, for my friends—so many of them—more than three hundred who remembered me with letters and cards for my 100th birthday. I cannot answer these dear friends; I am too weak to do so, but I pray that God may bless them for their thinking of me, and I certainly appreciate their kindness.

I am grateful, too, for the money which my friends sent me on my birthday—more than four hundred dollars, which I am hoping to take care of and use for the Master's service. I am not even strong enough to write everyone of my friends who sent me money. I appreciate more than I can say their kindness to me, and I pray that God will bless them for thinking of me in my old days.

I am grateful, too, to the College for having arranged such a fine program for me on my 100th anniversary. I owe special thanks to Dr. Harper for having arranged the program in the Whitley Auditorium, and to Mrs. Harper for preparing for the reception for me in the Y. W. C. A. room of the Mooney Christian Education Building. I am grateful, too, for the fine things that Dr. Staley said about me, as well as for the fine things that Mr. Josephus Daniels said for me. I did not deserve these praises that these dear friends heaped upon me, but I appreciate the spirit that prompted them to say them, and I am grateful to them.

I am so glad, too, for the parts taken in the program by Dr. Alexander, Dr. Atkinson, Dr. Fleming, and Dr. Rowland.

I can safely say that I enjoyed the sermon that I was able to preach on my 100th birthday, more than any sermon that I ever preached. Perhaps I ought not to call it a sermon, but simply a statement of my experience and joy in serving my Lord. I will never forget how beautifully the people joined me in repeating those verses from the 103d Psalm. It will always be a pleasant memory to me. That Psalm is one of my favorite Psalms, and I can never forget it.

I am grateful to say that I have recovered from the strain of celebrating my 100th birthday, and while I am not strong and able to write letters like I always was, I do enjoy praying, and I will be glad for those who need prayer, to let me know, and I will pray for them. It is a great joy to me to pray. Prayer travels with the rapidity of thought, and it is such a comfort to me to feel that I can be present in spirit with those who are far from me. So do not hesitate to let me hear from you, dear friends.

You may address me at Elon College, N. C., and if I am not there, Dr. Harper will forward my mail to me.

I again thank everyone who made my 100th birthday so pleasant and happy for me. I am Gratefully,

J. W. WELLONS.

WHY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

BY WILLIAM A. HARPER

Mr. Harper, author of many books and editor of "The Journal of Christian Education," is the President of Elon College, Elon, North Carolina, one of the small Christian Colleges which hold the development of character and the Christian outlook upon life the summum bonum in education.—THE EDITORS.

There is a widespread feeling that there is no special need now for Christian education, that education in one type of institution is as wholesale as in another, and that to all intents and purposes the resultant of the educational process is equivalent, no matter where the education is received or under what auspices. In order to be able thoroughly to understand the necessity for Christian education it will be well to examine the aims that influence people in their endeavor after education, and what influences educators profess to be governed by in their educational work.

There have been many different aims for educational effort. The first, perhaps, and the most persistent, is what we may describe as the development of the powers of the mind, or mental discipline. According to this view it does not make much practical difference as to what we study, just so the materials of the curriculum have the ability to produce mental muscle. In a former generation it was esteemed that Latin and Greek and higher mathematics had this talismanic power in especial degree. Consequently they were known as "the humanities." There is something to be said for this idea of mental discipline. It is true that education does tend to promote mental power, and that the inborn abilities of a man can be strengthened and developed by the educational process.

A second aim of education is directly practical in outlook, aim and method, as well as in content. According to this view it makes all the difference in the world what subjects we study. We are no longer looking for power, but rather for power in a particular direction, and useful information is the ultimate aim to be sought in all educational effort. "Of what use", the advocate of this view inquires, "is it for a farmer to study Latin or the president of a cotton factory to study Greek?" A man should decide in what direction he will invest his life, these practical minded people think, and then he should shape his studies in line for that vocation. There is no doubt but that this is the vogue for the most part in educational circles today. There are some, however, who think that those who take this, what they are pleased to call "bread and butter view" of education, are not educated at all, but that they are merely trained and skilled for a certain calling.

A third aim that has been quite influential in the history of education, especially of young women, is what we may style the "cultural," for lack of a better term. There can be no doubt that education does tend to produce persons of culture, and that culture is no mean possession, and its pursuit no disgraceful undertaking. According to this view we are not looking for mental power nor for skill in the performance of any particular duty in human society, but for an agreeableness of manner and wholesome delight in what we may call the amenities of life. Literature, art, music are esteemed to be specially valuable in contributing to such culture and refinement of life and manners. This type of education is being berated in these latter days, but a great deal can be said for it. It is the aim of the cultural view of education to qualify persons to enjoy their leisure hours. Increasingly the conquest of nature and improvement in mechanical devices make possible a larger leisure for a larger number of people. Our educational system must not break down at this critical point. It must educate people to use their leisure hours profitably and to do what a philosopher has called "invite the soul," whatever that may mean. We may laugh at the philosopher all we wish, but we may mark it down as a certainty that no civilization can survive whose people are unable properly to use their leisure hours.

A fourth view of education, and one which appeals very decidedly to the social conscience of our time, is the so-called adaptation theory, by which the purpose of education is esteemed to be the fitting of the individual to live in the group or society in which his lot is to be cast. This is a social development of the second theory which we have already discussed, the so-called practical, informational, or vocational theory, but its advocates seem to link it up with what is known in the most recent vernacular of the educational world as the project method. Now the project method is nothing more nor less than appealing to the mind of the student in the realm of his own interests. There is no doubt that interest plays a large part and is a decisive factor in the acquisition of learning, and there is also no doubt that it is the duty of a student to adapt himself, in accordance with his taste and interest, to live the most effective and serviceable life he can in the particular group, or society, or profession, if that should be preferred, in which his lot is to be cast.

These four theories summarize briefly the aims that have influenced individuals and educators in the educational world, but there is something lacking in all of them. It is conceivable that a man may use his mental powers in such a way as to advance his own interests at the expense of his brother-men. We have no assurance that a

(Continued on page 14.)

MISSIONS PROGRAM.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

"Every step in the progress of Missions is directly tracable to prayer."

Prayer is the Strategy of Missions:

- a. Bible reading: Ephesians 3: 14-21.
- b. Prayer for various denominations, for missions, for unity of spirit.

The leader should outline the purpose of the chapter, as given in the outline on pp 75-77. She should close her statement by introducing the various denominational representatives, who are to explain how the whole Church of Christ shared in the missionary enthusiasm born of prayer.

- a. The Presbyterian giving a sketch of Robert Miller and his earliest books on the primacy of prayer in the missionary enterprise.
- b. The Methodist tells of the rise of Methodism and gives an account of Bishop Coke, pp 77, 79.
- c. The Congregationalist tells of Jonothan Edwards call to intercessory prayer, p. 77.
- d. The Baptist follows with a story, p. 78.
- e. The Episcopalian tells of the organization of the church Missionary Society, p. 79.
- f. The Moravian tells how her missionary history began in the prayers of Zinzendorf, pp. 82-83.

- 2. Paper, "The Haystack Prayer Meeting."
- 3. Examples of believing in prayer. Let five women instance the experience of:
 - a. The China Inland Mission, pp. 77-78.
 - b. The Telugu Mission, pp. 92-93.
 - c. Prayer Meeting Hill, p. 95.
 - d. Prayer in Burma, p. 96.
 - e. Founding of Union Christian College, pp. 96-100.
- 4. "The Four Walls of Opportunity." Leaflet.
- 5. "By Special Messenger." Leaflet.
- Hymn: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Prayer.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

"Whosoever prays most, helps most."

Roll Call: Each member responds with the name of some famous Slav. See "High Adventure."

Dues collected.

- 1. A short discussion of last lesson.
- 2. "A Long Look Across the Sea."
- 3. Tell something about the Orthodox church; the Roman church; the Protestant church; the Christian Church.
- 4. Devotional period—Hymn, prayer.
- 5. "The Four Walls of Opportunity" and "By Special Messenger," leaflets.
- 6. Refreshments and social hour.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to realize the naturalness of prayer, to help them talk with God.

"Brave Adventurers": "The Count who Wrote Letters to Jesus."

- 1. Worship Period: Hymn, Scripture Reading, Prayer. Roll Call and Dues collected.
- 2. Discussion Period:
 - a. Do you wish you had lived when Jesus was on earth, and could have talked with Him?
 - b. Tell the story of the Count who wrote letters to Jesus.
 - c. Do you think Count Zinzendorf would have been a good friend, a good playmate when a boy?
 - d. Would you like to become a member of the "Order of the Grain of Mustard Seed"?
- 3. Each member might write a letter to some other member, telling the story of the little Count.
- 4. Refreshments and Social Hour.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

Mrs. Stanley C. Harrell of Durham, N. C., writes: "During this year we have used Maud Jenkin Baldwin's Stewardship Lessons for Juniors called, "Using Our Heavenly Father's Gifts" with a marked degree of success. We thank you for the suggested Stewardship course." It is worth many times its cost of thirty cents.

Mrs. L. T. Proctor writes, "I expect to send you some tithers soon from the Liberty (Ind.) Church. The people were delighted with your work and the thoughts and plans you left with them. Some have already decided to tithe. Can you come to our Buffalo church in February?"

WHAT FIRST?

Certain important matters should have our earnest Christian consideration at the opening of a new year. One of the vital matters is that of our personal and family benevolent giving. There are many persons who are studying this item carefully and are seeking to make their giving to Christian work and to the various benevolences a real matter of conscience. They understand that the Kingdom must have the first place in their lives and they definitely plan to give their first fruits to the Lord's work. To them personal and family luxuries, pleasure trips, extended vacations, personal pleasures, must take the secondary place in their expenditures. They take a genuine satisfaction in placing the Lord's work first. There are vast numbers of others, even professing Christians, church officers, whose personal expenditures, luxuries, pleasures, come first. This ought in no wise to be so on the part of any Christian. They give to God and His work the left-overs, the loose change. They give only their tips to Him as they would to a waiter. Any number of families spend more on one automobile pleasure trip and visit than they give to the Lord's work in a year. They seem to have no concern whether the missionaries of their church suffer or not, whether the work is crippled or retrenched. They do not seem to care whether their colleges close their doors or are compelled to turn away worthy students seeking a Christian education so long as they have their pleasures, trips, luxuries. To them they and their families come first and their Lord, their church, their denominational enterprises have the left-overs if any. He gets but a pittance. To all such we call attention at this opening of the year to remember that we are stewards, and as such we must give an account to God of how we have used for him, or failed to use, that which has been entrusted to us; and again, that he must come first in all of our expenditures.

Then there is another stewardship matter that must be kept in mind; and that is that one cannot shirk his responsibility in deciding to what benevolent objects he will give his money. It is not enough to give to any good cause. There are primary and secondary objects to which one gives. The primary objects should have the larger gifts. We are stewards, and we must be faithful stewards. Who is first in your expenditures, you, your family, your luxuries, pleasures, trips, etc., or God, your missions, your colleges, your church? What proportion of your expenditures does God get? These are some of the questions that face the Christian in this new year, 1926.

MAKING THE BUDGET.

This is one of the most important matters connected with a church's activities. It will not do to make out the budget and put the denominational benevolences in a lump sum as simply one item in the budget. The budget items should be set out separately and as distinctly for the denominational benevolences as for the local church expenses. The common treasury should not be allowed in any church, for benevolences and local funds so that it may be drawn upon by both. The denominational benevolences should be dignified, be regarded as important, be emphasized and explained in detail just the same as current items. They should not be subordinated in any way. Canvassers should be instructed and be required to explain each item of the benevolences as they are those for the local church. No church will permanently gain by decreasing benevolences or by minimizing their importance, or by including a nominal sum in the current budget of the church. There should be the steady striving to bring the two totals to equal amounts. All benevolent money should be kept entirely separate in every way from the current expense money, and should receive the same emphasis and stress as funds for local use. When a church begins to increase its own local budget at the expense of its benevolent budget it then begins to decline. It is high time for all churches to put the benevolent work on its right basis."

Rev. A. B. Kendall, D. D., Springfield, Ohio, says, "I believe in tithing. I have tithed for many years. Whenever any money comes into my hands I set aside one-tenth of it for the Lord before I take one penny of it for myself. As for me I know no other standard for giving."

YOUR MONEY TALKS.

Money lessons learned in childhood linger through life. Even when you are generous your money talks about motives. Money is the most romantic thing in all the world. IT is the epitome of your life, revealing what you really are.

PURPOSE AND PLAN OF MISSION MONTH.

Every member of Church, Sunday School, Christian Endeavor and Missionary Society can help now. All our Conferences have voted to have Mission Month in 1926, the Eastern Virginia, February, the others March.

Our Mission work at home and abroad is greatly handicapped from lack of interest in Missions and funds to carry on. The Mission Board has done its best and is now greatly embarrassed because it cannot meet its outstanding obligations.

To continue work already begun and meet obligations already made, an Emergency Fund of $25,000.00 is called for and is a necessity. Of this amount the ten members of the Board pledged themselves, as individuals, to give $2,500.00, (one tenth of the entire amount) if the remainder of our membership will give the balance.

What is desired is this: Plan for and emphasize Mission Month. During that month put on in all of the churches a missionary program, have a missionary sermon, emphasize missions in some way. Then on the Sunday designated by the pastor, take the missionary offering—a free will offering but with an earnest endeavor to get every member and friend to make as liberal donation as possible. In this way it is greatly hoped we will make our churches more missionary in spirit, and in giving and that our present work shall not further suffer.

Our Lord certainly meant each one of us when He said, "Go ye into all the world and preach my gospel to every creature." Many cannot go in person, but all can go, and thus obey our Lord, in prayer and in purse. Here is an opportunity, and a real need if there ever was one. As we give to Missions we will become more interested in Missions. And as we know about Missions we will give more to Missions. Let's give the people of our churches the information, and then their support will give inspiration.

J. O. ATKINSON.
Mission Secretary.

TAKING STOCK, OR MEASURING OURSELVES.

"Then shall the Kingdom of Heaven be likened unto ten Virgins which took their lamps and went forth to meet the bridegroom. Five of them were wise and five were foolish. They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them. But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. While the bridegroom tarried they all slumbered and slept, and at midnight there was a cry made. Behold the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him. Then all those Virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps. And the foolish said unto the wise, give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out. But the wise answered saying, not so; lest there be not enough for us and you; but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves. But while they went to buy the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut. Afterwards came also the other Virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us. But He answered and said, verily I say unto you I know you not."

In the gallery of the Russell sage chapel at Northfield, Mass., there hangs a famous oil painting of these ten Virgins. This picture was presented to this church by Mr. John Wanamaker, and is viewed and studied every year by hundreds of people who attend the Northfield summer conferences. The five wise Virgins have happy, radiant faces, light, graceful steps, flowing white robes and lamps with high flames. It is an inspiration to catch the gleam of contentment and happiness that they reflect. If only these were shown on the canvas one would leave the gallery with pleasant memories of having enjoyed a rare treat in viewing a masterpiece.

But what about the other five Virgins who are called foolish? Some are frantically running hither and thither, others have fallen prostrate, all have looks of utter despair on their faces. Their robes are torn and soiled, their lamps are not lighted and their picture spells misery of soul. What caused the difference among these two groups of Virgins? The scripture simply states one difference: Matthew 25: 2-4, reads, "And five of them were foolish, and five were wise. They that were foolish took their lamps and took no oil with them; but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps." Strictly speaking, it was a question of oil, its possession and use, that caused five of these Virgins to be happy, light hearted and free to enter in with the bridegroom while the lack of oil was responsible for the others being closed out and deprived of the great pleasure.

As I have reviewed our work for the past eleven years, I have applied some tests that I feel may be helpful to us as missionary leaders. I am asking for myself and for you, if we would be found among the Virgins, where would our places be? Naturally we would be expected to be found with the five who were wise and I hope we all will be, but what about our oil and its use? Do we have the right kind and are we using it correctly, or are we adulterating it with plans, organizations, apportionments, etc.?

I am thinking of that Eastern Virginia Conference which met in Suffolk, November, 1911, and passed a motion authorizing a committee to appoint officers for a Woman's Board of Home and Foreign Missions for Eastern Virginia. Up until this time we had had no organized work among our women. Now, was the action of this conference a wise or a foolish one? I do not know the names of the committee of men whose business it was to make the appointments but I do know that they appointed Mrs. C. H. Rowland, President, Miss Margaret Brickhouse, Secretary and Mrs. W. H. Dick, Treasurer. Mrs. Rowland served as president thirteen years; began with no organization but with a wealth of faith, hope and courage, and a strong reliance in the cause of missions. This year we report, 1,008 Women, 594 Young People, 310 Willing Workers, and 395 on the Cradle Roll, or a total membership of 2,271. When she assumed her responsibility we as women of this conference had not a penny in any common treasury devoted to this cause. During her term of service our treasurer's book showed almost $50,000 raised by the women and children and spent for the purpose of missions. I am asking you to determine just here whether this committee was wise or were they foolish to appoint such a person to head up the stupendous undertaking?

The organization once started, we established a regular fall conference for our women. This meeting has always been well attended and last year the church would not hold the women who came and came on time to discuss and plan the work for another year. I shall not soon forget the impression made upon me as I saw the church full and the Sunday School rooms being opened to accommodate the women who came to Holy Neck last year and were there when the conference opened. Did not this indicate interest in the hearts of our people? I am asking you to decide were we foolish in establishing our fall conference.

Then began our method of raising specials to help certain definite places indicated by our mission boards as being worthy of our special efforts. We have felt certain criticism along this line but in the main it has created a splendid feeling of co-operation and dependence of one society upon another, and caused us to realize that altogether we might lift a load. I am asking you to decide again were we wise or were we foolish in undertaking great common tasks and letting each group feel that they had a part to be responsible for and which tied up our societies into one grand whole.

Then we started our district rally days, or one day school of missions, hoping to reach even more individual members than could possibly be reached at our fall conference. These district rallies were better attended this year than ever and the programs were very helpful. We used our ministers who had had the splendid opportunity of attending the great Washington Mission conference and they gave valuable service in brining to us messages of inspiration and infirmation, I am asking you again to determine were we wise or were we foolish in inaugurating our one day school of missions or district rallies?

One of our latest ventures is our standard of excellence, tried out for the first time this year, it is more or less an experiment, but is intended to be a scale by which we can climb to points of efficiency. I ask you again to determine in this new undertaking, were we wise or were we foolish to plan a scale of progress as a guide or aim for each local society, thereby hoping to increase the value of our efforts and the worth-whileness of our items.

Our board meetings are no trivial affairs. When a group of women leave their home tasks and set themselves apart for one whole day, to discuss business pertaining to this organization, they are willing to give time, service and expense to help further our usefulness. Are we wise or are we foolish to spend one whole day meditating and planning for our organization?

We have introduced study books and mission study classes and nearly all of our women are acquainted each year with the home and foreign study books for the winter's work. The Young People and Willing Workers study and read their books in the prescribed mission course. We have encouraged many subscriptions to our own Christian Missionary, and our girls and boys read "Everyland." I ask you again to decide in putting on a program that calls for such literature and study, have we been wise or have we been foolish?

We have urged our people to attend summer conferences devoted to missionary work entirely and we have made a splendid beginning. Year before last besides those who attended our own Elon Chautauqua we had a representative at the Chambersburg conference. Last year one at Northfield, Mass. This year we had two delegates at Washington conference, two delegates at Northfield and two at Chambersburg. It is suggested as an ideal, that each district send at least one representative. I ask you again to decide, are we wise or are we foolish in trying to urge our people to attend these wonderful conferences where inspiration just flows out to the delegates.

Now as to the finances; some have criticised us and said that the raising of funds seemed to be our greatest aim. What is more important in any business than funds? The men in our conference who have been saying this have probably failed to realize that that seems to be the chief aim of everybody. Most of us work at some specific job because we earn money. If we fail to receive our earnings or just recompense, how long could or would we stay in our position? Isn't the "getting of funds" as it were in the form of salary one of our chief aims? It is true, unless we are interested in our jobs, we either do not stick to them or they do not stick to us long. So it is in this woman's work. Some of us have stuck for fourteen years, others for ten, and so on. Have we stuck only for the job of raising funds? I am asking you to decide after hearing this program that has been put on by the women of this conference and built up over a period of fourteen years do you consider that we have made the raising of funds our greatest aim?

You perhaps hear about our struggles to raise our apportionments but you do not hear about our splendid study books, our great conferences, our good program at district rallies, our educational magazines and literature, that we use, the places that we help with our dollars and cents. I am asking again, are the critics who criticize our plans for raising finances wise in their criticisms, or are they foolish? I do believe that funds should come easier and that they could be doubled, but sometimes it isn't the apportionment that should be called foolish but our method of raising it.

Now I refer you again to the question of our oil. Do we possess any, and what is its quality? Have we individually been wise in selecting the kind, or have we foolishly substituted or really lacked? I am inclined to believe that our oil, in most cases bears the qualities of self-sacrifice, hard work, faithfulness, as well as denominational pride, ambition for the local church, and prayer, but I do believe that most of us do not pray enough. Our motto this year is "Teach us to pray" and the inspiration for such a motto came from a close study of Mrs. Helen Barrett

Montgomery's wonderful book, "Prayer and Missions." If a single society in the conference leaves out that book this winter in the study course, their oil will be the poorer for it. She quotes Christ, who said, "The harvest is great and the laborers are few, therefore pray." We say the need for something is great; it must be done, appoint a committee or raise some money. Are we not after all guilty of being found with the foolish ones here? "And it came to pass that as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by the Lake of Genneseret, and saw two ships standing by the Lake, but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets, and he entered into one of the ships which was Simon's and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land, and he sat down and taught the people out of the ship. Now, when he had left speaking he said unto Simon, "launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught." And Simon answering said unto him, "Master we have toiled all night and have caught nothing, nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net." And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, and their net brake. And they beckoned unto their partners which were in the other ship that they come and help them, and they came and filled both the ships so that they began to sink. When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees saying, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord. For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken."

I am wondering what would be the result of our next year's work, if we could actually have demonstrated in all of our societies one of the suggestions of the scripture just read. Many of us are really in Simon's boat as it were, and the Master has taken his seat with us and is praying with us as he did to Simon Peter and teaching us.

Many women, young people and children are in the other ship waiting for our invitation to come over and help. They should be enrolled in our ranks, instead they are standing by uninterested or watching our results. They haven't felt the call or seen the need to lend a hand. Have we invited them as did Simon and his fellow fishermen, when they saw their nets too heavy? Have they refused? Do they have suggestions to offer before lending aid? Find out from the people who have looked on and stood by if they have a constructive criticism to offer and then ask for their assistance. Those who have been carrying the load or drawing in the nets, both in hand and heart, gladly beckon to their partners which are in the other ships that they come over and help them.

Now the two pictures that I have presented, "The ten Virgins" and "The net", have been to help us see ourselves. I am not prepared to say, or convinced even, that all of our plans could be credited to the wisest ways, neither do I think we have always acted foolishly, but I do believe, if we view our work, every phase of it, and put it to a good test, we will certainly be able to eliminate anything that may be necessary and hold fast to that which is good. In doing this reflective work we ask and invite the helpful constructive suggestions of our friends the members of the mission boards and the ministers of the eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

A scientist was giving a test. He selected a certain number of young men physically fit and put them through a strength test, he tested them to the utmost of their ability under normal conditions, and graded their average work as 100 per cent. He then hypnotized them and told them what weaklings they were, how very useless were

(Continued on page 13.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson V.—January 31, 1926.

"JESUS FEEDS FIVE THOUSAND MEN."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall not hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."—John 6: 35.

LESSON: John 6: 1-71.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 34: 3-11.

"A great multitude followed him, because they beheld the signs which he did on them that were sick." It is always easy enough to get a crowd by sensational methods and by an appeal to the miraculous. It is no wonder, then, that Jesus, who did that which was from the human standpoint miraculous (Jesus never resorted to the sensational as we understand it) always had a following from those who saw his mighty acts. But the Master did not want this form of publicity. He did not come primarily as a wonder-worker, and he did not want his work to rest upon any such foundation. Therefore, "he went up into the mountain," and there sat with his disciples. It is good to get away from the crowd sometimes, to spend some time with one's self and with those of common interests and tastes. The Master often withdrew apart for such seasons of fellowship and renewal of his spiritual resources.

A great crowd was gathering, for it was the time of the Passover, and the Jews attended that feast. As the Master looked out upon the great crowd, he turned rather unexpectedly to Philip and asked how such a great crowd was to be fed. The Master had no idea of allowing the people to go hungry. It is not the will of the Father that His children should go hungry. The major portion of human misery is caused by man's sin, and it has no part in the divine order of things. There is enough and to spare, but it is unequally distributed.

"This he said to prove him." God does not tempt any man, but he does test men. It is sometimes a dangerous thing to boast of, or even to assert one's love to God, for God often puts that boasted or asserted love to a test. "Lovest thou me?" said Jesus to Peter. "Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee," said Peter. "Feed my sheep," said Jesus. The Father does not want lip service; He would have the practical fruits of righteousness.

Philip was a plain, calculating business man. He seemed to be good at figures. He intimated that two hundred shillings' worth of bread would not be sufficient, even if every one had only a little. It would seem that he dealt only in the things that a man could see and handle. But the Master found a large place for him among the twelve. It is a good thing that the affairs of the church are not run by the young preachers as they come fresh from school with new ideas, or by that group of people who are idealists only. There is a great need and a large place for the matter-of-fact business man, the man who has practical sense, the man who can figure right on material things. Many churches stand today as monuments to just such consecrated common—and business—sense.

"One of his disciples, Andrew"—it seems we have met this fellow before. His name sounds strangely familiar. Andrew, oh yes, Andrew is Simon Peter's brother, and it was he who found his brother Simon Peter and brought him to Jesus. Here he is again at his exalted task, finding men. "There is a lad here who hath five barley loaves and two small fishes." God give us more Andrews, who can see the lads in our midst, with their resources, be they ever so meager. God give us more men like Andrew who are concerned with having men and boys relate their talents and their material things direct to fellow to have around during an evangelistic service or during Kingdom Enlistment Week. But even Andrew had eyes that did not see all, for even though he saw the lad, he did not see the unseen possibilities of the situation. "What are they among so many?" Poor Andrew, how like him so many of us are. We face the tremendous problems of church life in modern times and we see also the things that we have—time, talents, training, energy, money—but what are they among so many? The world is full of people who because they cannot do as much as they would like, will not do as much as they can. When will we ever learn that it is not so much a matter of how much we have, but of whether we are willing to give God what we do have. Here is a lesson for you, Mr. Teacher. You are only an average man. You do not have much education. You have only a limited amount of time on Sunday. What is the use of trying to teach a class anyway? What are these things among so many forces that are arrayed against me? Well, they are a great deal. If you will use what talent you have, if you will see to it that by careful advance preparation you make what time you do have count, if you will give yourself fully to your high calling—if you do these things, when you reach that land where we shall know fully even as also we are fully known, you are going to be surprised at just how much God did do with what you gave Him the use of. "Be not weary in well-doing for in due season ye shall reap if ye faint not."

Jesus said, "Make the people sit down." Let all things be done decently and in order. There is provision for method and orderliness in the things of the kingdom. Then he took the loaves, and gave thanks. We might well put a little more emphasis on this custom of the Master in the giving of thanks before eating the gifts of the Father. Under his magic touch and through his power he fed the great crowd. It is the miracle of reproduction and multiplication which is being repeated every year in response to the spirit of the living God moving in the realm of natural forces and material things. If there is one who doubts this seemingly strange story, let him follow the farmer as he plants in the spring and go with him as he reaps in the fall.

"Gather up the broken pieces that remain over, that nothing be lost." There is no place for waste in the divine economy. Waste is sin. America, rich in material things, must learn the lesson of economy. The Master will not hold us guiltless if we waste the gift of the Lord our God in vain. "And they gathered them up, and filled twelve baskets with broken pieces" from the five barley loaves, which remained over unto them that had eaten. Twelve baskets—one for each of the disciples. There is a philosophy that says "self first." The Master says, "self last." He that loseth his life findeth it. The man who gives the tenth, has more than the man who keeps all. This is one of the paradoxes of life.

Teaching Points.

1. The Master's spirit is always seeking to go to the other side and to other places with its good news.
2. One should keep company with himself at times alone.
3. The Master looks upon the multitudes with compassion.
4. God tests men.
5. A profession of faith should find confirmation in action.
6. The church needs the man of sound business sense.
7. He who finds a man saves a soul; he who finds a lad saves a life and a soul.
8. Man needs bread, but he needs more than bread.
9. Christianity can express itself more effectively in organized ways.
10. The giving of thanks should precede the eating of bread.
11. Jesus ministers to human need through His disciples.
12. Waste is sinful.
13. Giving to others is saving for one's self.
14. Jesus Christ is the Bread of Life.

DEFIANCE COLLEGE PLANS LARGER SERVICE.

The Board of Trustees of Defiance College was faced with great responsibilities for larger service when it met last June. The greater call for leadership in the Christian Churches, the increased number of students seeking education under Christian influences, the enlarged place the college occupies not only for all college students in its territory, but in the life and activities of the Christian Church caused the trustees to call upon the brotherhood for a loyal and larger support. The staff must necessarily be increased. A committee of five was appointed to prepare a program for the future work of the college, arrange for a constructive campaign to secure the necessary funds to promote the program, and to secure a Promotional Secretary to become a permanent member of the College staff.

The Committee announces that Mr. Leland McReynolds, M. A., has been elected such Promotional Secretary and will begin his work May 1, 1926.

Mr. McReynolds graduated from Defiance College in the class of '21, and has taken his Master's degree in Columbia University. He has been principal of Consolidated High School at Sharpville, Indiana, for four years, and has attracted attention to his success in school circles. He is thoroughly interested in Defiance College, in Christian education and character, in the Christian church and in young people. Other features of the program are being carefully worked out by the committee, which consists of trustees, Warren H. Denison, John S. Halfaker, H. E. Sims, R. H. Sutphen, and A. F. Foor.

Mr. McReynolds is a nephew of the late president of the college, Rev. P. W. McReynolds.

W. H. DENISON.

"Today is your day and mine; the only day we have; the day in which we play our part. What our part signifies in the great whole we may not understand; but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know: it is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love, not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other course of life leads toward decay and waste."—David Starr Jordan.

Christian Orphanage

DEAR FRIENDS:—

Our report this week starts us off for the year 1926. The loyalty of the Churches and Sunday Schools and friends for the year 1925 was fine. Most of the Sunday Schools made offerings to assist us in the work. Some few did fail to respond. It should be the joy and delight of each Sunday School to have a part in this work of love and charity.

About a year ago a mother died and left a husband and six little children to mourn their loss. The father was a tender hearted man and had a tender feeling for his little children and made a hard fight to keep his children with him and he succeeded for a year. Then he was in an automobile wreck and lost his life. The six children were left homeless and helpless. They went to a neighbors house, a widow with six children, who was not able to support her own. The welfare workers became interested, and many of the Orphanages were appealed to, to take them; but to get on the waiting list was all that was provided. They appealed to the Christian Orphanage in the most touching way to come to the rescue of these helpless children. Could you have said no to them? I fear not. We gave two of the little girls a place at the present. The only vacant place we had. We wish we could have taken all of them. What a blessing it would have been to them. The two little girls are just as sweet and happy as they can be. This is why we ask your Sunday School to give a monthly offering. It takes money to feed, clothe and care for children. We want your help in 1926. Will you help us?

Now we must set some goals for 1926, and we must keep them in mind and work towards our goals.

First Goal.—Get every Sunday School on our list of monthly givers.

Second Goal.—To raise $4,000 for our special Easter Offering.

Third Goal.—To raise $7,000 for our special Thanksgiving Offering.

Fourth Goal.—To raise $19,000 from all other offerings, including Sunday School monthly offerings. Making a total for the year of $30,000.

Can it be done? Yes, providing you do your part. Let each church member, Sunday School member, teacher and officer, start now to push us up to our goals.

REPORT FOR JANUARY 21, 1926.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
New Lebanon S. S.	$ 2.00
New Lebanon Baracca Class	2.00
Howard's Chapel	1.00
Hopedale	2.60
Durham, Main St.	5.00
Elon College, Citizen's Class	1.85
Greensboro, Palm St.	3.20
	<hr/>	$ 17.65
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Wentworth	$ 4.30
Turner's Chapel80
New Hill	10.00
Mebane	1.25
Catawba Springs	5.00
Raleigh	4.35
	<hr/>	25.70
Western North Carolina Conference:
Pleasant Ridge (Dec.)	$ 1.35
Liberty	1.00
Providence Christian Memorial ...	4.89
Pleasant Hill	4.50
Hank's Chapel	2.00

Randleman	2.89
Ramseur	8.19
	<hr/>	24.82
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Cypress Chapel	$ 10.00
Suffolk	25.00
South Norfolk	2.00
Norfolk, First Church	5.00
Christian Temple	50.25
	<hr/>	95.79
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Richland	$ 1.00
Bethany	1.40
	<hr/>	2.40
Valley Virginia Conference:
Dry Run	$ 3.03
Palmyra	1.34
Leaksville	2.00
	<hr/>	6.37
Special Offerings.
Junior Philathea Class, Suffolk ..	$ 5.00
Mrs. T. Simpson, Mt. Bethel	1.00
M. M. Leggett	2.00
New Year's Offering, Richland, Ga.	1.00
	<hr/>	9.00
New Building Fund:
Miss Minnie Lohr, Mt. Vernon, O..	$ 5.00
Mrs. E. L. Gray, Waverly, Va. ...	10.00
	<hr/>	15.00
Thanksgiving and Christmas Offerings:
Damascus Church	$ 6.25
New Hope Church	2.14
Enigma, Ga.	7.65
Waverly, Va.	29.52
Chapel Hill Church	51.00
Rev. J. M. Allred, Asheboro, N. C.	5.00
Palmyra	2.25
New Lebanon	6.25
	<hr/>	110.06
Total	$	306.79

FUNCTIONING GRACE.

One of the great needs of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference is more functioning grace. We all realize that. Usually the Conference Committees wait until the convening of conference to discuss and prepare their reports, there being little opportunity afforded for consideration of those vital problems which affect the work of the Christian Church. The result is neglect of the all-important and vital matter—which relates to the very life of our cause—Missions.

These are some of the conditions which should be changed, and we believe we have a plan by which this may be done. Of course, this is not a philippic against our committeemen personally, for with the present conditions, they have done remarkably well, under such handicap. Our contention now is directed against the system which should be abolished.

The plan we have adopted, after consultation with some of the brethren, but particularly with our Lord and Saviour, the Head of the Church, is this, viz.: That on each fifth Sunday during the year, in those respective months occurring—and the Saturday preceding—call in conference each Conference Committee, the respective pastors of the forty-eight churches composing the conference, and also laymen, at some central point in the conference, for the purpose of discussing Church problems, evolving plans and programs for Church activities, through our Lord, which may enable Him to take an organization with the greatest, grandest principles and purpose on earth, and make marvelously function for God. Brethren we have miserably failed in the past, with one hundred years of our Church history behind us, and now supporting only two Missionaries on the foreign fields, and these, while supported by churches of, are former residents of other sections than our conference. With so little done in a gigantic program of world achievement, this condition should make us confess to God, with breaking hearts, our traitorship to His cause. This condition can be attributed to no cause save you and me; for assuredly we could have no finer men of spiritual vision than those who direct our Missionary activities. At the head of the grand program is One Who is the Mighty General, the Unconquerable Captain, the King of kings, the Lord of lords, yet One who is dependent upon those who compose the army. Oh, great God, awaken us from our listless indifference, our careless disregard, our dream of death!

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service, and be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable and perfect will of God. Being filled with the spirit," and "redeeming the time because the days are evil."

Then, and not till then, shall we move forward with marvelous progressiveness and in greater degree than now accomplish His will, fulfilling His program, for the Church—causing great joy in Heaven and consternation in Hell! Will you? Won't you do this, brethren? Yes! Praise God! We believe you will, for the glory and honor and praise of Him, for "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive power, and riches and wisdom, and strength and honour, and glory and blessing." Amen!

H. E. CAVINESS, President,
E. N. C. Christian Conference.
Cary, N. C.

UNSEEN.

"I couldn't see the wind, that wondrous day
I frolicked with a playful sea;
And yet it sent the sailboats on their way
With bellied sail; it blew me salty spray,
And heaved great sea waves under me.

"I failed to see the wind that stormy night,
Though all night long the lightning flashed!
Yet well I heard its rage and wailing flight;
Uprooted trees bore witness to its might,
And viciously the rain it dashed!

"I saw it not—although the moon made plain
A garden wall I paused beside!
Yet breath of flowers it wafted down a lane;
I heard it move the garden weather-vane;
A vine stirred where it tried to hide!

"Nor could I see, one ne'er-forgotten day,
That wind which stirred within my soul
As in a holy place I knelt to pray!
But, oh, it brought me peace from far-away—
That Spirit Wind that makes men whole."

—C. A. Vandermeulen.

The Department of Evangelism and Life Service of the Federal Council, has issued a booklet of thirty-two pages on "The Fellowship of Prayer." It contains a Bible reading, a text, a meditation and a prayer for each day of the Lenten Season, February 17th to April 4th. THE SUN is permitted to say that any desiring the booklet, which is especially helpful to pastors, can secure a copy by mail post-paid without charge by addressing request to "Commission on Evangelism and Life Service," 105 East 22d St., New York City.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY.

WHEN NOT TO GOSSIP.

"Keep my lips from speaking guile."—Psa. 34: 13.

"Rejoice when thy lips speak right things."—Prov. 23: 16.

"There are two good rules which ought to be written on every heart: Never believe anything bad about anybody, unless you positively know it is true. Never tell even that, unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary, and that God is listening while you tell it."—Henry Van Dyke.

Prayer.—Our Father, forbid that we shall be tale-bearers of our brethren, but, we pray Thee Lord, faithful friends. If contention ceaseth where there is no whispering, help us to do our part. We pray Thee that we may dwell in Thy Holy Hill by working righteousness and speaking truth. Grant this in the name of Christ. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE MEASURE OF A MAN.

By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, that ye love one another."—Jno. 13: 35.

Not—"How did he die?" But—"How did he live?"

Not—"What did he gain?" But—"What did he give?"

These are the units to measure the worth Of a man as a man, regardless of birth.

Not—"What is his station?" But—"Had he a heart?"

And "How did he play his God-given part?" Was he ever ready with word of good cheer,

To bring back a smile, to banish a tear?

Not—"What was his church?" Nor—"What was his creed?"

But—"Had he befriended those really in need?"

Not—"What did the sketch in the newspaper say?"

—"How many were sorry when he passed away?"—Kotary Rays.

Prayer.—Our Father, help us to live so that, when passing, men may say, "Verily there is a reward for the righteous. Endow us with Thy love that we may be called the Sons of God. In His name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

"If any man thinketh himself to be religious while he bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his heart, this man's religion is vain."—James 1: 26.

"To speak wisely may not always be easy, but not to speak ill requires only silence."
"Nuf sed."

Prayer.—Dear Heavenly Father, we know that Thy Spirit only can make us wise in both speech and silence. We pray for that gift. This with all other blessings we need, we ask in the name of Christ. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE SUBLIME WISDOM OF THE BIBLE.

"There is no wisdom equal to that of the Bible; no counsel more consistent, more true, more just, more worth while. Its very severities are prompted by its solicitude for human good. It exalts the individual, solidifies society and foresees a harmonious world. It affirms love in place of hate and right in place of wrong because these opposites are eternally separate. Between them is a deep, dark precipice which lawlessness can not bridge, nor sophisticated apologies for lust abolish.

"Hence when we are asked to seek a new world which silences honor and fits our desires, the proposal should be submitted to this ancient literature of the Hebrew and the Christian. No modern work can compare with it for sagacity, foresight, sublimity and authority. It holds a true balance between the seen and unseen universes in which all men live. It condemns unreservedly the theoretical paradise of free love as a painted Inferno, a sham, a snare, in which there is no lasting peace nothing but pain, woe and death. It brands lawlessness of every kind as sin, and shows how penalties grow on the same stem with its offenses. It will have no alliance with evil; it is intolerant of oppression; it spurns the hypocrite and the cheat."

"Advocates of license, pleaders for a lower code of morals, who assail clerics and their followers as narrow, bilious and bigoted, should turn their guns on the Bible. I undertake to say that if any preacher in our land were as unsparing of iniquity as are the prophets of Israel he would draw down upon himself the anger of millions of our citizen. These prophets sat closer to the everlasting conscience than we do. They held that nations which break down the barriers erected by prolonged experience against the flesh will perish. Before God, who made man for a larger life than that of animalism, such nations ought to perish! Better a thousand such drop into oblivion than that the race fail to realize its divine goal."

Rev. S. Parks Cadman, D. D.

Prayer.—Our Father, Thy word make Thou our light, day and night, and help us to take it along with us every day and follow its guidance. Forgive us we pray for neglecting it. Lord help us to do better. In His name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

WHY AM I A CHRISTIAN?

LESSON: II. Timothy 1: 3-8.

This is the answer: I am a Christian because in all my reading and investigation of other cults and sects I have found nothing to match the message of the Christian revelation. In all my study of great men and famous personalities I have found no teacher of character and conduct to match the Teacher who gave us not only the Sermon on the Mount but Himself. Christianity teaches the giving of self. It is against self-love, and self-love causes more tragedy than anything else.

When I follow Jesus Christ I am following the greatest Teacher Who ever lived. I am in the company of the noblest of earth. I am expressing myself in the highest terms along every line of human thought and endeavor. It is no longer a question as to who and what makes the greatest contribution to human happiness, peace, amity, concord. Christians do the best thinking and offer the best type of life. We need no spoken or written word to convince us of this. History and experience, in progress, civilization, literature, art, music and institutions, tell us this—a perpetual reminder and constant persuader to follow Jesus Christ.—Selected.

Prayer.—Our Father, day by day in every way help us to receive truth into our lives and into all our transactions and make us heirs according to thy promises. We ask it for Jesus sake. Amen.

SATURDAY.

A TEST OF RIGHT WITH GOD.

"Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me."—Matt. 25: 40.

A PRAYER.

"Those who love Thee, may they find
Thou forever-more art kind;
Those who trust Thee, may they know
Thou dost hear their cry below.

"Those who serve Thee, may they see,
Service draws them near to Thee!
May this service, trust and love,
Lead at last to Heaven above!"

—George F. Chawner.

SUNDAY.

LAW OBSEVANCE.

"Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God. The powers that are ordained of God."—Romans, 13:1.

The Ten Commandments is not a set of laws—it is the law. It is the law of God. Volumes might be written on the result of obedience to law and the result of disobedience to law. But these volumes might not be read. Christian life, however, is seen. Example of righteous personality is more eloquent than Christian rhetoric.

Law observance is a matter of good citizenship. If our laws are not practical, good citizens should study and labor to make them practical. The rising generation must be educated up to law observance, in the Sunday School and in the week-day school and everywhere else. The spirit of lawlessness is not a new thing. Consistent Christian living is the remedy. The Church and civic powers are not asked to face a new problem. They are challenged by an old problem. The Church must educate. This the religious side of the question: Educate youth. The civil side is the vote of mature Christians. Put men in office who will enforce the law.

We have laws enough, but not enough enforcement. It is not a question of party triumph so much as it is a question of Christ's triumph. The Church has power, money, personnel, sufficient to carry any question to completion. If the present generation has failed, let the younger generation take up the issue.

This topic comes as a challenge to all young men and women. It is time for testing. Perhaps our efforts will be feeble when we attempt anything on a large scale, but there is no question of what may be done in local ways. He who can not influence his own environment will not be of much use in larger fields and he who has nothing for his own age has nothing for any age.

Richard Bromstein.

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us to live our time with vision, usefulness and power; to live right do right and bring the kingdom to men. In his name we ask it. Amen.

LYNCHBURG, VA.

The Second Sunday in January, the congregation of the United Christian Church met for the purpose of calling a pastor for this year. It was moved and unanimously carried that the present pastor be elected for ninety-nine years.

The congregation, however, thinks it would only be right to offer him an assistant toward the end of his pastorate. Hence they are counting on Elon College to educate one. They think that they should help Elon do a good job. That is why they went "over the top" in their contribution for the Building Fund. We greatly enjoyed the illustrated lecture given by Rev. W. T. Scott, and now feel better acquainted with our church.

M. T. ALLEN, Pastor.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Kiddies:

One day not so long ago, your editor met one of our Kiddie Korner "men" on the street, and he said, "Oh, Miss Moffitt, how are the Kiddies?" And he said a lot more too—just wait and see now if he didn't. On a little picture in his pocket was a little boy—one of our own Kiddies—and the little wee boy's pet calf. And, oh, oh, the calf's name—what do you suppose it is? I'm sure you never could guess, so I will tell you, dears. It's a pretty good name for a beautiful little calf. It is "Orange-ade." And the boy and the calf looked so happy that our nice, big grown-up friend just carries it around in his pocket to show to his friends. One of the Kiddies who will read this, today, will know at once what the grown up man's name is. Would you like to write him a letter and tell him about your pet cat or your big doggie? Dears, where are all of our pets this snowy weather? Keeping warm, I just know. Be kind to them all for they get cold, same as you.

Ready, now, for a letter from each of you. Hurry dears, before the snow is melted.

If you will write to our Kiddie Korner friend now, send your letter, and I will turn it over to him at once.

Your Editor,
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT.

BIRTHDAY SONG.

(Tune: "Jewels.")

Happy birthday, happy birthday,
Your friends are all singing.
May the year that is coming
Bring Gladness to you.
May it teach you to be helpful,
Kind hearted and loving,
Happy birthday, happy birthday,
Happy birthday to you.

Wadley, Ala.,
January 2, 1926.

Dear Editor,

I am a little boy seven years old. I go to school every day. My teacher is Mrs. Fincher. I love her dearly.

Christmas is just over and I have had a very happy time. Santa was good to me. He brought me a coaster-wagon, fruit, candy and nuts.

I enjoy reading the Kiddie's Korner.

Wishing you and all the Kiddies a happy New Year.
CHARLES W. VEASEY.

KEEPING OUT OF MISCHIEF.

"We're going to have a splendid fire," said Jack with enthusiasm.

"The pile will be 'most high as the house," cried Jim.

"Oh, won't it be fun?" cchced Mary.

The children were alone that afternoon. And they were as busy as little beavers, raking up the yard. It was a good deal of work, but they didn't mind for they would have such fun afterward watching the bonfire. Besides, mother had promised them marshmallows to toast!

So Jack and Mary and Jim worked away diligently. Only Sport would not work!

Now Sport was always with the children. Every morning he trotted along the country road with them on their way to school. Sometimes he carried a lunch basket or a mitten, for it made him very proud to help. And every afternoon he was waiting to see them safely home. You would have thought that Jack and Mary and Jim couldn't be trusted to go alone. At any rate, Sport was convinced that without him they would surely be lost.

But when it came to raking leaves, Sport wasn't a bit of help. He would crouch beside the pile and bark. Then he would make a plunge and send the leaves flying in every direction. How he chased them! But they whirled so gaily in the breeze that no wonder he took them for butterflies!

At first the children thought this amusing. They were so fond of Sport that whatever he did made them happy. But after their pile had been scattered several times, it didn't seem such fun.

"Sc'p it, Sport; get away," said Jack.

But it wasn't any use to drive Sport away. He took that for part of the game. And as soon as the children returned to their raking he came back more like a whirlwind than ever.

"We've got to tie him up," said Jack.

"You won't hurt him?" cried Mary.

"'Course not, said Jack. "Where's some rope?"

"We can take the rope off the sled," Jim suggested.

Sport was delighted when they brought out the sled. There wasn't any snow, but he was quite willing to drag his friends about over the leaves, if they wished: He caught the rope in his teeth, ready to pull. But why were they putting the rope around his neck? Sport's delight changed to perplexity. And when they tied him to a tree and left him, he expressed his hurt feelings in howls.

With no sport to hinder the work went on rapidly. The wind was rising, and an occasional gust caught the leaves. In spite of this the raking was soon finished and the pile ready to light. Jack struck a match and started the blaze. Fanned by the wind, the whole pile broke into flame.

And then Jack discovered that the bonfire was too close to the house. The wind was carrying the flames in that direction!

Jack began beating at the bonfire with his rake. "Get some water," he shouted to Jim. Jim rushed away. But in his confusion he couldn't find a pail. The flames were spreading. Mary caught up another rake to help Jack. Their efforts served only to make the fire burn more fiercely. The wind lifted bunches of the burning leaves and hurled them across the yard.

"Hold them down with your rake, Mary," Jack cried.

He ran to the woodpile and began dragging boards to keep the bonfire from blowing away. Jim had found the pails and was pumping furiously. Mary was doing her best to hold the pile against the wind, when an extra gust tugged at the mat's beneath her rake. And half the pile rose into the air to fall blazing upon the porch!

A scream from Mary, and answering bark, a flash of tawny fur and Sport had hurled himself upon the porch and was stamping and scattering the burning leaves. He had gnawed through the rope and freed himself just in time.

In a few moments the fire was checked, and the children hung over Sport, petting and praising him and binding up his scorched paws.

"If he hadn't got loose," said Jack soberly, "the house might have burned down."

"And we thought," laughed Mary, with her arms about the shaggy neck, "that we were keeping Sport out of mischief. But he kept us out of mischief instead!"—Abigail Burton, in Sunday School Times.

(Continued from page 9.)

their muscles and succeeded in convincing them of their helplessness. He then gave them the same test as when they were normal and they only measured 40 per cent as well as under the first condition. Then he hypnotized them again and gave them a lecture on how powerful they were, what wonderful muscular strength they possessed, what vigorous bodies they had, and stressed their possibilities in the coming test. He gave them the same test as each time before, and they measured 40 per cent over and above what they measured when at their best under normal conditions. Now what became of the 60 per cent of the strength they had, but lost when they were told they were weaklings, and how account for the 40 per cent increase when told of their wonderful strength and when they exerted all possible force?

These three groups are easily found and placed among our missionary members. We have those who do their best under all circumstances and conditions, and who when pressed and urged, do 40 per cent more than is reasonable to expect of them. We have those who do only a small per cent of what is possible, and they feel themselves weaklings. I am asking you again to place yourselves in one of these three classes. Are we doing our best under normal conditions, are we doing only 40 per cent of our real efficiency, or are we leaving the load for those who are always willing to do 40 per cent more than should be required? In the final analysis, it may help us to decide where we are with our lamps, where we are with our nets, and where we are with our talents.

MRS. M. L. BRYANT.

Norfolk, Va.

(NOTE.—The above paper was read before the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Conference held at Liberty Spring, October, 1925.)

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00
Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

(Continued from page 7.)

giant intellect will always express itself in altruistic service. We have abundant evidence to the contrary, that the development of the mind oftentimes makes a man a more dangerous force in society. This element is lacking in the aim of education that we have called practical. There is nothing included in that thought which would necessarily keep the man possessed of such practical knowledge from using it for hurtful and anti-social purposes. The knowledge of chemistry, for instance, which is of very practical benefit to the world, was during the recent war made to serve the purpose of human destruction in the creation of poison gases, and the same thing is true of culture, innocent and refined, as it is the popular conception. People of culture may be tempted to form themselves into a caste and to make themselves snobs, and to feel that they are inherently better than other people. Likewise in the conception of education which regards its highest good to be the enabling of a man to adapt himself to his environment, there is nothing to preclude the thought that a man should adapt himself to an environment that has in it elements and forces which will ultimately mean the death of all that is esteemed to be high and good in human brotherhood. In a sense the adaptation theory may content people with things as they are and so halt human progress.

What is this element that is lacking? It is the unselfish, altruistic, reformatory, transforming use of the power, the information, the culture, and the capacity for adaptation, which education is designed to confer. Where is this altruistic, transforming element to be had? What is its source? Its origin is to be found in the Christian religion. It is summarized in the phrase "Christian Character." How does Christian character eventuate in the educational process? How can we be sure that the impartation of knowledge, no matter what the ultimate purposes of that knowledge may be, will always yield that splendid product which we know as Christian character?

The answer to this question is to be found in the aim of education conceived in Christian terms, and that aim is not the development of mind power simply, not the impartation of useful information simply, not the production of a true and uplifting culture simply, nor yet again the ability to adapt one's self to one's environment. Christian education is not adverse to mind power, but rejoices in it. Christian education does not oppose useful information, but is glad when the fund of such information increases. Christian education welcomes all true and genuine culture, and it is itself a most potent force in enabling a man to adapt himself to the place and station in life in which he finds himself. Christian education claims that it includes all that the other theories of education can possibly include, but that it goes further than any of these aims and undertakes for itself the high goal of transforming the character of students in terms of Christian idealism.

Is Christian education able to do this? Does it have this transforming power? I think it has and I believe that the records of the denominational colleges in the country justify the expectation that they will continue to exercise this transforming influence in moulding the lives of young people and in motivating them so that when their work years come, no matter in what direction they may invest their lives, they will exhibit in every relationship the compelling attitude of Christian character.

We live in a day of great controversy. The Christian world is divided between the Fundamentalists and the Modernists; between the scientists and the religionists. It appears that Christian education is absolutely necessary if we are to come safely through this crisis. Christian education does not teach facts, it teaches truth. The fact, let us say, is that on a certain day God fashioned the body of man and breathed into it the breath of life, so that man became a living soul. The truth is that every man has in him a spirit of the divine and this spark is no more extinguishable than God himself is extinguishable. The body returns to the dust from which it came, but the spirit returns to God, who breathed it into the body of man. The fact, we will say is that on a certain occasion, while a great storm was on the sea of Galilee, Jesus walked on the water and kept Peter from sinking when he presumed also to walk on the water. The truth is that this same Jesus is present always to extend a helping hand to any man who is in need of assistance. The fact the Gospels say, is that on a certain day late in the afternoon, Jesus fed a great multitude with a few loaves and fishes. The truth is that this same Jesus always provides for every necessity of His children. Christian education is concerned with truth and is not limited blindly to facts. Truth is eternal, facts are incidental. Christian education gives a complete and ultimate view of every situation, because it spiritually comprehends every factor in every situation, comprehends it in terms of God.

This controversy which divides the modern Christian world into hostile camps is explained by the fact that the discoveries of scientists are being taught as material and mechanical explanations of the universe, including the origin of the life of man, with God eliminated from the process. Some schools teach facts, they do not teach the truth. They teach facts, they do not teach men and women. They teach facts, but they teach them in such a way that God is not assumed as the fundamental conception by means of which we are to understand the world and man. No discovery that science can ever unearth will be able to heal the breach between the Fundamentalists and Modernists until Christian education teaches men to find God in the processes of His universe, until Christian education convinces all men that there is no explanation of the universe except through God.

But there is a type of educator today who regards all this discussion as puerile. This educator is a compound of behaviorism in philosophy and of mechanism in science. In religion, if he deigns to profess any he is a stark fatalist. According to these teachers, many of whom infest our colleges, character is a product of the physical man in his reaction to the stimuli of his environment. The behavioristic philosopher and the mechanistic evolutionist reduce life to automatism or, worse still, to blind necessity. They argue that a man must either express his instincts, in which event he lives on the animal plane, or suppress them, in which case he will likely develop a complex, and experience all the diabolical effects of caged emotions. They find no place in their scheme of life for the sublimation of man on the higher spiritual plane. They deny that there is any higher spiritual plane.

Christian education must boldly witness at this point. The conflict between materialism and a spiritual view of life is irreconcilable. The mechanistic evolutionist finds in the pre-mordial protoplasmic cell in embryo all the developed and fruiting powers of the modern man. To him there is no more spirit in man than there is in the electrons and protons that compose his body, than there is in the electrons and protons that compose any other animal's body. That is what Mr. Bryan's great soul cried out against. To him it was a choice between God and the gorilla as our ancestor. The behaviorist in psychology is of the same quality as mechanist in science. Christian education is based on a psychology of personality and a program of sublimation of instincts. To it, the mind is fashioned out of the physical brain of the indwelling soul, which man essentially and eternally is. The brain is but the instrument of the soul and the mind is the soul's product. The soul did not inhere in the primordial cell. God definitely inserted it in the human body when it had developed to a point in His judgement when it was a fit dwelling-place for the divine. Thus theistic evolution not only recognizes the process by which the human body became the temple of the human soul, but at the same time recognizes that the soul is not a part of that developmental method of creation to which we refer in biology as evolution. Christian education accepts the evolutionary theory for the physical origin of man. It also accepts the revelatory teaching of our faith, that the soul is a definite act of God's creation, it teaches that, because of the spark of the divinity which indwells in us, we are properly said to be made in God's own image.

These attitudes make all the difference in the world in the educational aim and process. The materialists do not concede the possibility of sublimation or of spiritual creation of the indwelling soul. The Christian educators, on the other hand regard education as a transforming process, as essentially a method of motivation, not in any necessary sense a mere expression of instincts or a suppression of them, with the resulting animalism or complexes. It is not, therefore, a matter of facts or of text books or of subjects which is at stake, but an attitude and an underlying philosophy of life.

Two institutions will be offering courses of instruction in the same subject. They will use the same text book or group of materials. The facts they present in their classes will be identical, but the result in one case will be the production of a mind thoroughly trained and appointed, but conceiving of the world as a mechanism, as a blind and unreasoning force. The other will look beyond these facts and find their explanation in the immanence of God, and what the one esteemed to be life, just so long will there be need for Christian education, with the ability to transform the powers of a man and to re-fashion them, so that every act and thought and aspiration of those who are truly educated will reflect the beautiful principles which we have learned to associate with the concept Christian.—DR. W. A. HARPER, in Christian Work.

THE GREATEST FORCE IN THE WORLD.

Paul's belief that prayer was the greatest force in the world was justified by results. Says Thomas Payne, p. 123 of "The Greatest Force on Earth."

"In answer to their prayers, the lame man was made to walk and to leap and to praise God, Multitudes of others were saved and healed of their maladies and out of weakness were made strong. Also many of those who were possessed with devils were delivered. When they prayed and made supplication unto God the hearts of kings and rulers were made to tremble, and dead souls felt the spiritual vibration and were quickened into newness of life. In answer to their prayers, bolts and bars gave way and prison doors flew open, and captive souls, as well as bodies were set at liberty. In answer to their prayers, friends and foes, men and devils, were made to realize that God was on the field and that victory was sure. So rapid was the spread of the gospel under their ministry, plunged as it were into the Spirit of grace and supplication, that shortly after Pentecost populous cities were turned upside down, and soon the ancient beliefs of the Roman Empire were overthrown, and the very throne of Nero shaken; and others who followed in their train prayed so intensely that by its power and the ministry of the Word, they shook the known world and compelled the master of legions to cast his crown at the feet of the world's Redeemer.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Science Hall
Alamance Hall—Administration Building

OBITUARIES.

MARTIN.

Brother Norman Martin of Pattersons Grove Christian Church, departed this life January 2d. He leaves to mourn their loss, one Brother N. P. Martin, and four children. His wife preceded him in 1917.

The Community and Church each sustains a great loss in the departure of this man. He was the Church sexton and the Superintendent of Sunday School and died while preparing fuel for Church services on Saturday, preceding services on Sunday. He had been a member of Pattersons Grove for more than twenty-five years. He died in the faith and at the post of duty.

Funeral services were conducted on the 1st. Sunday afternoon by his pastor W. C. MARTIN.

BAILEY.

James R. Bailey, departed this life January, 6, 1926, at the age of 76 years October, 11, 1925.

He married about fifty years ago Miss Ann Parish, who survives him. Ten children were born unto them. The eight living are Mrs. Della Busbee, Mrs. Minnie Busbee, N. H. Bailey, Geo. Bailey, Roy Bailey, Mrs. Ina Ford, and Mrs. Mirtie Carter, all of Wake County, N. C. There are forty living grand-children.

Brother Bailey had been a member of Auburn Christian Church for many years. A quiet and sincere believer to the end.

May those who are left behind, accept Jesus as their Savior, and all meet in the land where parting shall never come. Funeral service by writer.

J. E. FRANKS.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus. . . . $1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. $3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephee not want.
2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Helman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

MADREN-WALKER.

Married at the residence of Mr. W. J. Barker, Burlington, N. C., Mr. Raleigh Madren and Miss Irma Walker of Watson N. C. December 24, 1925. Quite a number of friends were present to witness the rite and to wish them a happy and prosperous wedded life. The writer officiated. Heaven's blessings attend them. P. H. FLEMING. Burlington, N. C.

PERRY-WALKER.

Mr. William Jasper Perry, son of W. T. and Ella Perry of Union Ridge, N. C., and Miss Mamie Lea Walker, daughter of J. M. and Ella Walker, Watson, N. C., were united in marriage by the writer at his home in Burlington, December 27, 1925. A few of their many friends accompanied them and witnessed the marriage rite. May heaven's blessings attend their wedded pathway. P. H. FLEMING. Burlington, N. C.

BYRD-FITCH.

On Sunday morning Dec. 6, 1925 Mr. Lindsey J. Byrd and Miss Pearl E. Fitch, both of Caswell County, Yanceville, N. C. were united in marriage. The marriage took place at the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Fitch. The ceremony was performed by the writer, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. They have the good wishes of their many friends for long, happy and prosperous lives. J. F. APPLE.

CRAVEN-SMITH.

To the surprise of many of their friends, Mr. Stephen M. Craven of Asheboro, N. C., R. 1, and Miss Grace Anna Smith, also of Asheboro, N. C., R. 1, motored to Pleasant Cross Christian Church on Christmas Eve and were happily married by the pastor of the church. Mr. Craven is the son of Mr. R. R. and Mrs. Ida Craven of Ramseur, R. 1. Miss Smith is the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Asheboro, R. 1. May our dear heavenly Father richly bless and crown this young couple's life with success. W. C. MARTIN.

Ask Your Grocer for Antrim's

OLD MANSION

COFFEE Prove Its Goodness for Yourself "Taste is the Test"

Always packed in 1-lb. Sealed Tins, and 3-lb. Handy Kitchen Container Cans. Never Sold in Bulk.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM

"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School

LOCATED AT

WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basketball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President

Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type 27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID-PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing

VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 1/4 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

HISTORICAL SOCIETY, 1956
Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1926.

NUMBER 4.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Closes Holy Year.—

On the day before Christmas, Pope Pius XI. brought the Holy Year of 1925 to a close. The year is considered the most successful celebration of the church in modern times. On the closing day the Pope closed and sealed the door in the Basilica of St. Peter. Among those taking prominent parts in the final ceremony was Cardinal Hays of Boston, Mass.

Boston University Elects President.—

Boston University, the Methodist Institution which claims the largest enrollment of any college in New England, has been for sometime without a president. Dr. Daniel L. Marsh has now been elected to its presidency. He is a graduate of the theological department of the school, and has been superintendent of the city missionary organization of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Students Assemble.—

At the New York State meeting of the Students Volunteers twelve Colleges and Universities were represented by 155 students. Among the speakers who most impressed the gathering were Dr. James M. Yard, a leader of missionary work in China, and Dr. James H. Nichol who has been stationed at Bierut, Syria. All over the county students of the various colleges and universities are assembling like this to consider the serious problems of life and religion.

Talks About the Lost Arts.—

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, Pastor in Detroit, while speaking at the noon day meetings of the King's Chapel Church in Boston delivered a series of sermons on the lost arts. He spoke on the lost art of being alone, of self-criticism, of being vital, and some others. The series from the few titles would promise great things. We have lost many arts which, could we find them, would contribute vitally to our spiritual worth in the world. Dr. Hough's style must have made the series interesting indeed.

A Fundamentalist Organization.—

The Fundamentalists have organized another movement which came into existence recently with the name, "Bible Crusaders." It is to be the business of this organization to agitate against all preachers, teachers, politicians, and all other persons suspected of not being sound in their learnings. The headquarters of this body are at Clearwater, Florida. Dr. Geo. C. Washburn is Director General, Rev. John R. Straton, Director General of Discussion, T. T. Martin, Director General of Campaign, I. R. Dean, Scientist, and Arthur I. Brown, Director of Science. This body promises to make it lively for those who are not in full accord with their views. They seem to believe firmly in the church militant, and are getting ready for the war for righteousness.

Refuse Rabbi Wise's Resignation.—

After a week of agitation brought on by the resignation of Rabbi Wise who is head of the Palestine Appeal of the Zionist movement the executive committee of that organization met and refused his resignation after his statement of his faith.

The Rabbi in that declaration said, "I stand for the oneness of God and the oneness of the Jewish people. I could not and did not depart from the traditional attitude of the synagogue toward the doctrine of three faiths."

Reaching the Older Child.—

Every Sunday School is familiar with the dropping out of young people over fifteen, and it presents a genuine problem. One church at least has found a solution which worked for it. The Presbyterian Church at Inglewood, N. J., had in 1922 only two pupils over fifteen in attendance. The situation appealed to Dr. T. H. P. Sailer of the Teachers College, Columbia University faculty. He tried "discuss" classes, and in 1924 the Young folks decided to discuss the problem of what Christ expects of young people. In that year there were thirteen over fifteen and four over sixteen in attendance though a dozen or more had gone away to boarding school.

The New French Ambassador.—

Henri Berenger has been appointed Ambassador to the United States by the French government. He is a former newspaper man, and prior to 1912 he was successively editor of two leading French journals. In 1912 he became Senator from Gaudeloupe, and has since that time been a statesman. He became known to this country last September when he was a member of the Parliamentary committee advising M. Callaux in the negotiations amounted to nothing, but in spite of that fact, M. Berenger made a favorable impression here. In the Capital an Ambassador's wife is little if any less important than her husband, and M. Berenger's wife is reported to be a woman of great charm, and to her coming Washington is looking forward with glad expectancy.

The Rome to be.—

On the last day of the old year now Premier Mussolini of Italy assisted at the inauguration of the Governor of Rome. Signor Cremonesi who was thus inducted into office is to hold something like the place of our city manager. At the inaugural occasion Mussolini took occasion to outline his plans for the city during the next five years. The city according to the Premier is to be restored to its Augustan grandeur. The great monuments are to be isolated so that the amphitheatres, the Pantheon, and other structures are to be freed from their surrounding sordidness. Open squares are to replace the now filled ones, and the city is to have statuary, parks and bath houses as of old. In the midst of all this grandeur there are to be no street cars along the avenues, but the city is to have the most up-to-date communication. Nothing which is modern that will add to the comfort and beauty of the Rome that is to be will be omitted. It is to be the ideal city. Signor Cremonesi has upon his hands one of the greatest tasks given to man since Hercules performed among men, doing deeds at which we still wonder.

Encouraging, and Yet.—

Simultaneously with the reintroduction of the anti-lynching bill into Congress is given out the figures for the year's lynchings by Robert R. Monton of the Tuskegee Institute. During 1925 there were sixteen persons lynched in this country. This is less than in any year since the record has been kept. It is seventeen less than the thirty-three of 1923, and thirty-one less than the fifty-seven of 1922. In this respect the figures are encouraging. In thirty-nine instances during the year lynchings were prevented by officers of the law. In twenty-six of these cases the prisoners were removed from the excited area or the guard augmented. In thirteen other cases armed force was used to ward off the mobs. Two of the victims were insane. All of them were Negroes. Ten of them were taken from the officers of the law either out of jail or from the officers while on their way to jail. Three of the victims had been formally released by the courts. The victims were charged with murder, six; with rape, four; with attempted rape, two; killing officers of the law, two; attacking child, one; insulting women, one. The states with soiled records are Alabama, one; Arkansas, one; Florida, two; Georgia, two; Louisiana, one; Mississippi, six; Missouri, one; Utah, one; Virginia, one. Such a paragraph as this is sad reading, but it is better than ever before since record has been kept. Many of the agencies are at work to bring about a respect for law and justice, and to harmonize the relations of the two races who must dwell side by side in this land. Their work is proving a success, and we as followers of Christ should lend our aid and support until in the land that we love, no mob shall take into its hands the work of the law and execute without a hearing. This thing is a matter for the churches, and for the Christian men and women who are members of them. It concerns you and it concerns us in a most vital way. So many of the interests at home and abroad depend upon the love and justice we can cause to prevail.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. H. E. Rountree did not sail as reported in last week's SUN on account of necessary treatment. He will sail later.

The envelopes are being sent out this week to secretaries of churches in Eastern Virginia, to be used in the membership canvass, and offerings for the $25,000 Emergency Mission Fund.

Rev. W. J. Edwards changes his address from Steeds to Ether, N. C., his correspondents will please write him accordingly. And in his note he closes, "Hoping this will be the best year in the history of our paper."

"Wisdom is like electricity. There is no permanently wise man, but men capable of wisdom, who, being put into certain company, or other favorable condition, becomes wise for a short time, as glasses rubbed acquire electric power for a while.—Emerson."

Robt. E. Speer says the greatest need in the Mission cause is prayer, real devout, earnest intercessory prayer. And Helen Barrett Montgomery says in her great book on "Prayer and Missions" that "Prayer is the greatest force in Missions." Are our people and pastors engaging often in prayer for Mission Month?

The Mission Secretary was at two of Dr. Fleming's churches last Sunday, Union Alamance at 11:00 A. M. and Haw River at 7:00 P. M. Dr. Fleming, much beloved and trusted by his people, is planning to observe Mission Month in all his churches, and will do all he can to enlist that interest, and cooperation of his entire membership.

There are in round numbers 30,000 of us in the Southern Convention. How easy it would be to raise this Emergency Mission Fund of $25,000, if all would do their part. While the average per member is hardly one dollar, unless many, very many give more than a dollar we will fall far short of the goal.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Suffolk Christian Church is to celebrate its 14th Anniversary on the evening of February 8th. Mrs. M. L. Bryant of Norfolk, President of the Woman's Board, and Mrs. W. L. Leathers, Holland, Treasurer of the Woman's Board are to present for the occasion. An interesting program is planned.

If all our Sunday School Superintendents had the Missionary vision and zeal of Brother Charlie Johnson, of Wake Chapel school it would not be long until our Mission Treasury would have funds with which to do things for God and they would be calling our boys and girls to go out to carry the Gospel and build Churches for those who haven't their blessings.

"Officers of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church, for 1926, it was stated yesterday, include Mrs. C. C. Ryan, president; Mrs. Earnest Carr, vice-president; Mrs. Annie M. Brown, secretary and Superintendent of the Cradle Roll department, and Miss Sadie Boyd, treasurer.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Price."—Richmond Times Dispatch.

The Nashville Christian Advocate states that the growth per pastor in Southern Methodism in the home field was 8, in the foreign field 50. "If the churches at home had grown as fast last year as the foreign churches did the increase in membership would have been 549,519, instead of 53,362, as it was, and yet, continued the same authority, "We are extending to them little aid now" and "even this must be withdrawn unless the churches at home provide more money."

"John T. Kernodle was re-elected teacher of the Men's Bible Class of the First Christian Church. Other officers include Dr. C. C. Ryan, assistant teacher; W. Lee Beale, president; E. F. Kesler, vice-president, Claiborne Kelley, secretary, L. H. Echols, treasurer. The class is called The Wellon's Bible Class, being named after Dr. J. W. Wellons, who on his 100th birthday recently preached a sermon at Elon College before a large congregation."—Richmond Times Dispatch.

Our Methodist brethren are rejoicing over the returns now flowing in from their Emergency call for Missions in January. Over $700,000 is reported and more follows. One Methodist pastor told THE SUN's editor that after preaching one Sunday at 11 a. m. he had his members to remain a few minutes and then laid before them the call and the need and asked them to say on what Sunday they should take the offering. "Right now," said several, and in a few minutes the full amount asked of his church was raised.

The Mission Secretary had the joy and privilege of being with Rev. J. Lee Johnson, at his Wake Chapel appointment at 11 A.M. and his Christian Light appointment at 3 P. M., last Sunday. Many familiar faces and friends were seen at both churches, the singing was an inspiration and the listeners were very attentive. This good pastor is held in high esteem by his people, to whose moral and spiritual welfare he ministers with all the zeal and strength of his mind and heart.

There recently fell into the hand of The Sun's Editor a piece entitled, "When the Deacon Talked in Church." We wish every Sun reader would secure a copy of that piece and read it prayerfully. If they did, and would hear with willing hearts what that old deacon said, a new day would dawn in the Christian Churches.

The Editor will furnish the piece gratis to any one who will send him a request for it. We ordered a thousand copies at once. Writing to one of our ministers about it he replied that he had already ordered 3,000 copies for his use, and two days later we were talking with another pastor who said that he had also read it and had ordered 1,000 copies to give to his people. As the boys on the street would say, "Believe me," "that deacon made some speech." A talk which, like that "embattled farmer's" gun at Concord, "was heard around the world."

Several pastors had written requesting the envelopes for their Mission Month, saying that they wished to place the envelopes now and have them brought in a month hence. This request came mostly from pastors of churches with once a month preaching. So we estimated as best we could and sent envelopes to the Secretaries in each church. (Some pastors have several churches, hence envelopes to the Secretaries.) We have endeavored to supply envelopes, but not too many. Every member great and small, not only of the church, but of the congregation, the Sunday School, the Endeavor Society, the Mission Society. Every member should be given an envelope and asked to bring the offering on the day appointed. A committee appointed for the purpose, should see to it that every member gets an envelope.

The Woman's Mission Board of the N. C. Conference met in special session at Elon College, Saturday, January 23d. Members present were: Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, Raleigh; Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Greensboro; Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Burlington, and Mrs. W. A. Harper and Miss Gertrude Browne, Elon College; and District Leaders: Mrs. Wicker of Greensboro, Mrs. Strader of Burlington, Miss Alston of Liberty, Vance, and Mrs. Chandler of Virgilina. Dates and programs for Spring Rallies were arranged, and much work was done. Mrs. Sellars, treasurer, reported the best first quarter's collection for Missions she had ever received. Her quarterly report will be printed in THE SUN at an early date. The Domestic Science Department was hostess to the Board at a beautifully appointed luncheon, the Board members each and all declaring that cooking is a real science at Elon and serving a meal has been made a thing of the finest artistic taste and achievement. Evidently the Domestic Science which has been under Miss Morrow, developed into an art.

Rev. J. D. Dollar of Roanoke, Ala., writes: "It is my purpose to observe March as Mission Month in all of the four churches I serve, and will appreciate any help you may give me and any literature you may suggest for me to buy. I shall be glad to do this for if Mission Month is to be a success I must have some help such as suggestions from you, and some literature to be distributed. Please feel free to give me any suggestions that you may deem wise. I have tried to cooperate with my Conference and Convention in all their undertakings as far as my ability would allow. I appreciate all the help and suggestions that my Conference and Convention can give me for our churches need such suggestions and help. So please help us all you can to make Mission Month a success in our Conference."

Brother Dollar is one of our most loyal and faithful pastors and seeks in every way to bring home to the hearts of his people that which the Christian church stands for, and is trying to do, in building up the Kingdom of our Lord.

The following is from the Suffolk News of recent date and relates an event of interest.

"It is the custom of the Christian Sunday School to present a definite Missionary program on the third Sunday of each month, this being known as Mission Sunday. These programs are under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Andrews, who is Sunday School Superintendent of Missions.

"The program was rendered on Sunday morning in an effective and pleasing manner by twenty young men, members of Mr. W. E. MacClenny's class and of Mr. Richard Klages, class.

"The topic was: 'The Bible and Missions from the Standpoint of Giving.'

"Motto: 'Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me.'—John 5: 39.

"If in all our Sunday Schools some one was interested as Mrs. Andrews is in the Sunday School and in Missions, greater results would follow. Mrs. Andrews had her little folks give a Missionary Pageant on Mission Sunday and on the third Sunday of February, which is Mission Month in the School and Church, the Willing Workers will put on a pageant at the Sunday School. This is a real contribution not only to the Mission cause, but to the Sunday School itself. Some of our Schools are finding Mission Month the most interesting of the whole month and this should be so because there is nothing that will interest children and grown-ups quite so much as proper presentation of Mission facts and teachings."

DISTRICT MEETING.

The District Meeting of the Y. P. Congress of the North Carolina and Virginia S. S. and C. E. Convention, will be held in the Christian Education Building at Elon College, N. C., on Sunday, January 31st. The theme of the congress is: "Young People for the Church; the Church for Young People." The following is the tentative program:

Morning.

- 10:00 Convention Song.
- 10:10 Worship service, Lillie Horne.
- 10:25 Welcome address, C. M. Cannon.
- 10:35 Response, Vora Maynor.
- 10:40 Special Music, Elon Young Peoples Class.
- 10:50 Division into groups.

(Young people 9 to 15 with Frank Alexander.)

- 10:55 Roll Call.
- 11:00 Business Session.
- Appointment of committees.

- 11:05 Song.
- 11:10 Address, "The Church's Call to Young People," W. T. Scott.
- 11:25 Address, "The Y. P. Response to the Church," E. H. Thompson.
- 11:40 Announcements and Offering.
- 11:45 Song.

- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.
- (Dinner will be served at the College Dining Hall at 12:30 for visiting delegates.)

Afternoon.

- 2:00 Devotional service and Mission program
- Julia Woodson.
- 2:20 Address, "Life in the Making," Helen Stearns.
- 2:35 Special Music, Orphanage singing class.
- 2:45 Messages from the Churches.
- (Delegate from each church to tell briefly of their work and plans.)
- 3:10 Business Session.
- Report of committees.
- Presentation of goals, Gertrude Brown.
- 3:40 Convention Song.
- 3:45 Adjournment.

NOTICE.

There has been called a meeting of the pastors and committees of the Eastern North Carolina Conference for Saturday and Sunday January 30th and 31st, at Wake Chapel, Wake County, N. C. The meeting will begin at 2:00 P. M., Saturday the 30th. It is greatly desired that pastors and all committee men be present and also laymen from the churches that we may take counsel together and lay plans for doing the work that the annual Conference in session at Liberty, Vance County, last November, committed to our hands. Trusting we shall have a full delegation present at the time and place designated.

H. C. CAVINESS, President,

Eastern North Carolina Conference,
Cary, N. C.

A SHIP.

Just a speck, were you when you appeared,
Upon the dim horizon far away.
No one spurred you on, you were not cheered,
As you battled bravely thru the day.

But at length with gleaming spar and mast,
Safely moored beside the dock you lay.
Conquered were the wind and wave at last,
Rested you in peace at end of day.

So I'd have it be with me in Life,
Unassuming at the start and dim.
Fighting bravely on thru storm and strife,
Just to rest in peace at last with Him.

JOSEPH HOSKINS, JR.

People's Church, Dover, Del.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
- 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
- 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
- Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
- 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05

Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.

- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
- 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
- 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools 95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

IS THIS TOO MUCH?

The vote of all our conferences was unanimous for Mission Month. The Eastern Virginia churches will observe February, all the other conferences March, as the period of our every member canvass and free-will offering to raise an Emergency Fund of $25,000.00. Is it too much to ask, or expect, that the churches will average One Dollar per member? Would it not seem reasonable, and within reach, for a church with one hundred and fifty members, to make a free-will offering of One Hundred and Fifty Dollars? And a church with three hundred members to make an offering of Three Hundred Dollars?

How much real sacrifice, how much self-denial, how much real hardship would such an offering entail? One wonders. Our Saviour said, "He who would come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow me."

Are we Christians willing now to make a self-denial offering, go without something we really need, in order that we may make an offering in His name and for His sake?

He is our best and truest Friend, Oh, such a Friend. He has shown, He is showing His friendship to us. Are we willing now, in Mission Month, to show our friendship to Him by making an offering for Him—to help make Him known to those who have not heard of Him. Is it too much to hope, pray, expect, that we average $1.00 per member in all of the churches?

J. O. A.

EDUCATION THEN AND NOW.

THE SUN'S Editor does not know the author of the following, nor who the educator referred to is, but he picked this up from a very reliable journal and presents it as a bone worth picking awhile:

"An educator recently examined some 1,300 school readers and spellers in use around the time of the founding of this Republic on the one hand, and those in use and published about 1920 on the other hand, with the following tabulated results:

"Of the books in use in 1776, he found the contents to consist of—

	Per Cent.
1. Religious Material	50
2. Moral Material	22
3. Other Subjects	28

"Of the books published and in use in 1920, the contents consisted of—

	Per Cent.
1. Religious Material	0
2. Moral Topics	3
3. Other Subjects	97"

Well, now, if parents are not teaching religion to their children, and the schools are not, in their early years when such teaching counts for most, one would like to know who is? Or are we growing in a Christian land a generation of pagans, or "know-nothings" about religion? No wonder we are hearing much about the "Rebellion of Youth," the "Protest of Youth," against the Church. Usually those who rebel against religion, or protest against, or ignore it, are those who have never embraced it or have never been taught it.

J. O. A.

WHY?

One rises to enquire, Why should pupils in a Sunday School be called upon to make a contribution, "put something into the collection," and then older heads take what their children have thus "contributed" (given to the Lord?) and use it to buy something for those children? Why not take up a collection in our day schools to be used to buy the children's books, paper and pencils with?

There is a small denomination in this country that sends out a hundred missionaries to foreign (pagan) lands every year. Do you know how they do it? Well at least they do not deceive the children and make them think they are giving when they are not. I quote: "In 1922 they (the pupils of the Sabbath Schools of this small denomination) gave $1,164,646.46, every penny of which was used for missions." That denomination at least gives its children a square deal. If we can buy our books for our children in the week, why can't we on Sunday? And if we mean to teach our children honestly and justly that it is their duty and their privilege to give to the Lord's cause, why not use that money to make known to the world the Lord's love and the Lord's redeeming power, and not to spend that money in buying something for themselves.

In the face of this there are today Christian Sunday Schools who feel so poor that they cannot let their children even give their pennies, their nickels and their dimes, once a month, to the spread of the gospel and the cause of God. It must all be kept to buy something for them. Yet such a Sunday School will sing lustily, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," when it will not even give its dimes to make that dear, precious Friend known to the millions who are perishing without Him.

J. O. A.

JUST ONE WAY.

There is just one way, and one way only, of making Mission Month a success. We must carry into it a sincere desire and a consecrated purpose. It matters very little as to what sort of plan is adopted: it does matter materially as to the zeal, the sincerity, the consecrated determination we carry into our plan.

David could not fight in Saul's armor! But, thank God, when David handed that armor back, he did not criticize Saul for fighting in it, nor did he refuse to fight because the offered armor did not fit him. David fought the battle of God whole heartedly and in the name of Israel; and God gave him the victory.

We do not know the details of every plan that would suit every pastor in observing Mission Month. And if we had a detailed plan worked out we would not try to put it over on anybody. What we do know is that in properly putting on Mission Month, we are fighting the battle of God. Let each fight in his own armor; but let each carry into it a devout and consecrated desire and purpose to make it a success and an epoch in our church life.

We know that some of our pastors and leaders are doing this very thing. And they deserve the loyal cooperation of all the rest of us.

For instance: If the members of our Dover Church are willing to fast and pray at the dinner hour four times during the month, and give the price of those four dinners to help raise this Emergency Fund, do they not deserve the self-denial assistance and co-operation of the whole Church, in the effort to lift the common burden? Or if Bro. Hardcastle of Suffolk, or Brother Truitt of Norfolk, are putting into the Month all their consecrated energy and zeal to lift this common burden, do these not deserve, would it not rejoice them to have, the co-operative planning, zeal, and effort of all other pastors? We could name other pastors and people as interested, and as full of zeal for the task as these named. Shall this zeal, this fine enthusiasm, this consecrated energy for God be chilled or penalized by the indifference, the coldness, the unconcernedness of other pastors and people? God forbid.

The writer has just read what to him is a wonderful tract, "When the Deacon Talked in Church." Another Deacon may not talk like that, or act like that; but every deacon and every pastor should do at least one thing that this good old deacon did, namely, carry into the missionary effort and offering, consecrated purpose and devoutness of desire. God will do the rest. Think of more missionaries going out from one church in which the deacon dared talk a bit than have gone out from our Southern Convention in all its history!

J. O. A.

BETTER SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

This is a good age in which we are living. God has blessed the people of this country wonderfully in many ways, both in temporal things and in spiritual things. And His people are showing their appreciation of His goodness in many ways. The churches have never been more active in their work at home and also abroad. The members of the churches have never given more liberally of their means to advance the interests of God's kingdom.

However there is one feature of the Christian life of this country that is not showing up very well and that is in connection with the observance of the Sabbath. Every thoughtful Christian realizes that there has been a sad letting down in the keeping of God's law of the Sabbath.

This is true of the individual. Many professed Christians seem to fail to recognize the fact that the Sabbath is God's day, and should be kept sacred to His service.

One of the serious conditions of the present time is the way in which the Sabbath is publicly desecrated by being commercialized. This is true in connection with both business and pleasure. A strong effort is being made all over the country by commercialized sports and amusements to break down the sanctity of the Sabbath.

How to meet this attack is troubling the churches very greatly. It is a difficult problem to handle effectively. Of course, the churches must preach and teach the obligation of all people to keep the Sabbath holy, but there is much need for concerted effort to bring to bear the united sentiment of the churches against the attacks being made upon the Sabbath.

The agency of the churches is the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, which has just celebrated its thirty-seventh anniversary in New York. This organization has been endorsed by nineteen of the largest denominations in this county, and its Board of Directors is made up of men appointed by these churches.

Rev. David G. Wylie, D. D., is the President of the Alliance and Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, D. D., is the General Secretary. These both have their headquarters in New York.

Rev. Wm. S. Campbell, D. D., of Richmond, Va., has recently been appointed Secretary of the Alliance for the South. He is anxious to get information in regard to the way the Sabbath is observed in every community in the South. And he is also anxious to know of any place where there is need of improved conditions, in order that the Alliance may, as far as possible, aid the churches of the communities in making conditions better.

It is hoped that the readers of this paper write on this subject to Rev. Wm. S. Campbell, D. D., 3910 Seminary Ave., Richmond, Va.

THE INTER-RELATION BETWEEN FAITH AND WORK. NO. 3.

It is not only to the work of character building for self that Jesus calls us. He calls us to work in his vineyard, also to help others in their character building. Individual righteousness is only one part of Jesus' requirement of his followers. He calls men to help each other. Social righteousness was as near the master's heart as was individual righteousness. The two go hand in hand.

Men may be religious and still not be Christians. Men may be religious, but if they cheat and lie; if they take advantage of the unwary; if they get money regardless of the misery and heart pangs it has caused those who worked to produce their wealth; if they have been dishonest in their dealings with their fellow men; if their only interest is self, they are none of Christ's.

Christianity cannot be reduced to a hard and fast system of ethics, but it is shot through with the highest, richest and noblest ethical appreciations. It lives and moves and has its being in the principle of love. Every man must make his own deduction. Christ did not lay down a set of rules to go by. He did infinitely more and better. He gave his followers the principles of living in a filial relation with our heavenly Father, and in brotherly relations with our fellow men. He calls men to a life of trust in God—and a life that can be trusted by both man and God. Though Christianity is not a prescribed system of ethics that tells a man just what to do in every instance, it lays down certain ethical principles from which if a man will conscientiously and prayerfully follow, he can deduce for himself a system of ethics that will prove in his life the supremacy of Christian ethics over all other types of ethics. If Christianity did not pay the largest ethical dividends then we might as well close up the Churches.

Christian faith stands on its own merits. It proves its value by its works. It creates in every person who possesses it the desire and the willingness to work out one's own salvation with fear and trembling. It stands the pragmatic test of which we hear so much these days.

Pragmatism teaches that,—“the sole significance of thought for us is the effect which it produces in conduct.” The late Professor James in his book on “The Variety of Experiences,” says “the only meaning of truth, is the possibility of verification by experience. Truth has always cash value. Its proof is not logical but dynamical; it is demonstrated by what it does. And if it does nothing, if it will not work, it is not truth, and has no further claim upon our allegiance.”

I believe that the Apostle Paul had some such conception as this of faith when he admonished the Philippians to work out their own salvation. I am sure it is my conception of Christian faith. The only meaning of faith to my mind is the possibility of its realization. The only value of faith to my mind is the effect it produces in conduct. To me faith has always its cash value. It is demonstrated by what it does. And if it does nothing, if it will not work out its own salvation, it is not faith, and has no further claim upon our allegiance.

Faith in God and companionship with Jesus Christ gives men the strength to work out their salvation and to work for the salvation of others. Faith unseals in the soul the springs of a new power which gives victory even to the weakest and most degraded of men. Men who have never experienced the transforming power of Jesus Christ in their lives cannot understand what we mean when we say that “Jesus saves.” But they can experience it for themselves and then they will know. Do we know what salvation is?

Mark Rutherford expresses the experience of all sincere Christians when he tells what Christ has done for him. Says he, “I only speak my own experience. I am not talking theology or philosophy. I know what I am saying, and can point out the times and places when I should have fallen if I had been compelled to rely for guidance on nothing better than a commandment or a deduction. But the pure, calm heroic figure of Jesus confronted me, and I succeeded. I had no doubt as to what He would have done, and through Him I did not doubt what I ought to do.”

No type of Christianity which leaves out the redemptive facts of the Christian gospel is able to help men where and when they need help the most. No type of Christianity that leaves out the necessity of Christian work and effort will appeal to the men, who feeling the need of help from without, want to do something to help themselves. Stoicism points men to the great bare heights of duty, but it lays no gracious restraint on unwilling feet, to hold them to the difficult task; and when because of the steepness of the way men falter and fall, it opens to them no source of inward renewing and strength.

Jesus points us to the great bare heights of duty, and lays his gracious constraint on our unwilling feet, binding them to the difficult task. And when because of the steepness of the way we falter and fall, he opens to us a source of inward renewing and strength, and spurs us on by his encouraging, “I will not leave you nor forsake you.” The power for moral attainment in man is weak, but God strengthens it. Men fighting a battle against temptation as every man does, unless he has given up the struggle, want a gospel that does more than to summon the forces of human nature; they want a gospel that ministers to its weakness. The Christian gospel combines the two. No other gospel is long enough to reach men.

A Unitarian minister some years ago went to Aberdeen, Scotland, to preach his gospel to the people in the city park. The crowds gathered to hear his teachings. But after a time or two they told him that “If that was all he had to tell them, it was of no use his coming.” “Your rope,” said one fallen Scotch woman standing by, “is nae lang eneuch to reach me.”

Nor is it long enough for any of us who know the pangs that sin has caused us because we were not able to overcome it in our own strength alone. The gospel that reaches men in sin—and hence reaches us all, is the gospel of Jesus Christ,—the sinner's friend to help in every temptation.

“Lead us, O Father in the paths of right,
Blindly we stumble when we walk alone,
Involved in shadows of a darksome night,
Only with thee we journey safely on.”

“Let us press on, in patient self denial,
Accept the hardship, shrink not from the loss,
Our portion lies beyond the hour of trial,
Our crown beyond the Cross.”

It is ours to work out our salvation, but it is God who enables us thus to work. It is ours to help others work out their salvation, it is God who inspires us thus to work, and God alone can make our lives and our work fruitful. R. C. H.

HOUSE PASSES NARCOTIC DRUG RESOLUTION.

“Of all the plagues that visit our land, drug addiction is by far the most horrible and the most deadly,” declared Commissioner of Immigration Frederick A. Wallis, of New York, whose work among the immigrant population there is well known. The House of Representatives recently passed a joint resolution introduced by Mr. Walter F. Lineberger, California, that if concurred in by the Senate, assures the participation of the United States in the conference upon narcotic education to be held in Philadelphia in 1926.

This meeting is called to consider the new menace to the United States in the exploitation of the drug heroin. This drug was discovered in 1898 and brought to this country about 1910. A few statements from responsible authorities reveal its startling inroads.

Already more than half of the inmates of the correctional institutions of New York City are heroin addicts. The average age of these unfortunates is twenty-two. United States is one of the largest users of drugs, per capita, in the world. A recent survey made under the direction of the Treasury Department discloses that there are over 1,000,000 addicts in this country. Some estimates run the figure up to 4,000,000. United States uses eight grains of opium per capita as compared to four grains in France, three in England, two in Germany and one in Italy. More than 40 per cent of all prisoners convicted of crime in the Federal Courts were drug addicts, according to the Assistant United States Attorney General. Judge McAdoo, of the New York City Court, estimates that of the thousands of addicts that have appeared before him 98 per cent were below the age of thirty and 98 per cent were heroin addicts. The health officers of Chicago, investigating the cause of crime there, have found drug addiction alarming among the youth of both sexes.

Once a person becomes a heroin addict, he has a mania to secure recruits. Only a few doses are required to make a confirmed user and then follows a life of suffering and usually crime.

Inasmuch as heroin addiction ensnares the mass of its victims because of their ignorance, the best protection to the public, especially to the youth, is through the utilization of organized agencies, public and private, to apply the forces of education, to combat the ravages of narcotic drug addiction. The purpose of the Philadelphia Conference is to devise ways and means to achieve this end. The resolution passed authorizes the government to participate in this conference on narcotic education.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

There is one question that troubles many good, intelligent people. It is the question of paying ministers for the conduct of funerals. Of course, many people give it no concern, let it pass without consideration, and it passes into the things that are forgotten. There are other people who think of the matter, really desire to give the minister something for his service; and, especially if the minister is not the pastor of the deceased. There are others who present the minister with cash or a check because they feel that they must do it. There are then, three classes of individuals in relation to this subject of a gift to ministers for conducting funerals: those who do not think of it; those who are not certain that it is the proper thing to do; and those who make a gift to the minister as an expression of their appreciation of his services.

The first class thinks very little about the matter. The second class is often embarrassed for lack of knowledge on the subject. Three cases of personal experience will illustrate what is meant to be said here on this subject. A learned doctor had a relative who died and left him considerable money; and a minister conducted the funeral services. The doctor came to ask me if it would be a proper thing for him to hand the minister something for his service. He was not certain that it might not embarrass the minister, or he might think it was a sacrilege. He was a learned man, but that was new in his experience. Another man—a lawyer—who had the settlement of his step-mother's estate, came to me with a similar question: whether as her executor it would be a proper thing for him to hand a gift in money to the minister who had conducted the funeral service? More recently an undertaker came with this same question to know what he should say to the people he had served in case they wanted to express their appreciation by a gift to the minister who had officiated at the funeral.

These questions indicate delicate questions in the minds of good people. The occasion is so sacred, the service is so religious, and the experience so limited, that people are in doubt as to what is propriety in such cases. This is not written as a reflection on such people, but to clear the field for those in doubt on this subject. I told the three questioners named above, that it was perfectly proper to hand the minister any some the party felt able and felt like giving the minister, and they did. This is certainly the thing to do when the minister is not the pastor. The conduct of funerals of members of his church is a part of his pastoral duty, and such persons are under no obligation to pay, unless they really want to do so; and some good people do, because they want to do so.

When the minister is not the pastor of the deceased, and the friends are able to give, it is a fine way to express appreciation and do a good deed. There is no sacrilege in such a gift, and often it helps a poor preacher in his work for the Master. If I were going further into this subject, I would say that it would be a fine expression of appreciation if people, who are able, would make gifts to choirs and special singers. None but ministers and singers know how often, and inconvenient often, in all weather, such service is willingly rendered. Any expression by financial gifts, by persons who are able to make them, are fine tokens of appreciation.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The principle of Stewardship applies just as much to Christian organizations as to Christian individuals. It applies to Christian communities as much as to Christian organizations and individuals.

We say a man is a pagan no matter what his theological assents and tenets, unless he tithes as a minimum and we insist that all his income must be used for Christian purposes. He must however pay one-tenth of his income to the Kingdom's enterprises, or be properly styled a robber of God.

We have not developed as clear cut a conception when it comes to Christian organizations. We need consistent teaching on this point, too. A Church, or Society, or Club, or Circle, or other Christian organization, that uses its income for itself is just as pagan as the individual who keeps all his income for himself and family. Years ago I insisted in a Conference Annual Address before the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, that our Churches should adopt a benevolence budget equal, at least, to their total current expense account, in which should be included an item for the use of their church plant. There was dissent.

But why should a Christian organization be satisfied with doing less for others than for themselves? Is it not selfish for a Christian organization to do less for others than for itself? The plant of such an organization is God's. Such organizations should therefore pay to benevolences an amount equal to their current expenses plus an allowance for the use of the plant, in order to break even with others.

Some churches and organizations excuse themselves from helping missions, orphanages, Christian Education, superannuation, and the general enterprises of the Church, on the ground that they are engaged in community service programs. A church, however, imperils its spiritual life when it takes such an attitude. It is blurring the vision of its people, and where there is imperfect vision, there is imperfect service. Jesus once advised the scribes and Pharisees to continue tithing anise and cummin, but also not to neglect the weightier matters of the Christian way. This same procedure should characterize the church engaged in a community service program. It should continue its good work, but not to the neglect of the other benevolent enterprises of the Kingdom.

Communities, too, need to be benevolent to others. Our national gifts to other peoples in times of disaster are great illustrations of the Christian principle of stewardship. However we should not wait for disasters to come to call forth our generosity. The Christian nations and communities should expend more in brotherly service and less on military and naval preparedness. So will they show forth true brotherhood in their social relationships.

W. A. HARPER.

DO EDUCATIONAL MEASUREMENTS PAY?

Does Johnny Jones read as well as a nine-year old boy in the fourth grade should read? Is he having the kind of reading teaching that his individual needs require? Does Mary Smith know as much in arithmetic as a girl in the eighth grade and of her age should know? If she is weak, just what facts are needed to round out her knowledge of arithmetic?

Teachers once guessed at the answers to questions like these. The best teachers now use fairly accurate measuring scales which have been developed for the purpose. But many teachers are still guessing—expecting too much or too little from the children and never quite knowing where the real trouble lies. Why guess when accurate measures are available and the children's happiness and success are at stake?

Is the Longfellow school doing better in spelling than the Whittier school? In arithmetic? In reading? How does the achievement of pupils in Lincoln, Nebraska, compare with what they are able to do in Denver, Colorado? Are the schools of Clay county doing better work than the schools in Webster county? What results should the superintendent expect of various schools? What shall the principal expect of various teachers? These are vital questions in the wise management of schools. A generation ago school officers would have guessed at the answers. Now measures are available which enable them to compare results with other schools, cities, counties, and states.

Does it pay to employ supervisors to aid the county superintendent in the improvement of schools? In an attempt to answer this question two supervisors were put in each of two counties. The work done in basic subjects in the schools was carefully compared with that in two similar counties without supervisors. The schools with skilled supervisors did more and better work than those without. Those with supervisors covered as much ground in eight months as the others covered in ten. In other words, they increased the efficiency of the schools twenty-five per cent. The service they rendered measured by the most careful tests saved four times its cost. Can facts like these be gathered for other counties and in relation to other important points in school management?

A million school children in America fail to make their grade each year. It means that teachers, seats, and supplies must be given a million children for another school year. It means that these children will enter the next grade or the work of life a year later than their more fortunate classmates. Most important of all, it means that at a tender age they have been given the deadening sense of failure just when they should be learning the joy of work and achievement. Much of this terrible loss can be avoided by an intelligent use of what is now known about child life and teaching.

Investigations bearing on problems like these are being made in many states, cities, counties and individual schools. The results are so little known that many teachers do not profit by them. One of the duties of a Department of Education would be to collect and distribute such information.

JOY ELMER MORGAN.

ALONE.

It is human to stand with the crowd; it is divine to stand alone. It is manlike to follow the people, to drift with the tide; it is godlike to follow a principle, to stem the tide.

It is natural to compromise conscience and follow the social and religious fashion for the sake of gain or pleasure; it is divine to sacrifice both on the altar of truth and duty.

"No man stood with me, but all men forsook me," wrote the battle-scarred apostle in describing his first appearance before Nero to answer for his life for believing and teaching contrary to the Roman world.

Truth has been out of fashion since man changed his robe of fadeless light for a garment of faded leaves.

Noah built and voyaged alone. His neighbors laughed at his strangeness and perished in style.

Abraham wandered and worshiped alone. Sodomites smiled at the simple shepherd, followed the fashion, and fed the flames.

Daniel dined and prayed alone. Elijah sacrificed and witnessed alone. Jeremiah prophesied and wept alone. Jesus loved and died alone.

And of the lonely way His disciples should walk, He said, "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

Of their treatment by the many who walk in the broad way, He said, "If ye were of the world, the world would love its own; but because ye are not of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

The church in the wilderness praised Abraham and persecuted Moses. The church of the kings praised Moses and persecuted the prophets.

The church of Caiaphas praised the prophets and persecuted Jesus. The church of the popes praised the Saviour and persecuted the saints. And multitudes now, both in the church and in the world, applaud the courage and fortitude of the patriarchs and prophets, the apostles and martyrs, and condemn as stubbornness of foolishness like faithfulness to truth today.

Wanted, today, men and women, young and old, who will obey their convictions of truth and duty at the cost of fortune and friends and life itself.

G. D. WATSON.

THE TWO CHURCHES OF THIS AGE.

The Character of Christ's Church that Will Be Saved in Heaven.

Christ told his disciples that upon himself as its foundation would he build his church. Christ is the foundation stone, and the gates or powers of hell shall not prevail against it; for other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ. (I. Cor. 3: 11.) And the members of His Church are born into His Kingdom, and they are cleansed by His own efficacious blood, of all sin. (I. John 1: 7.) They are not white-washed by shaking somebody's hand or signing a card or joining some church. Christ's Church is a glorious Church and He so loved it that He gave Himself for it, that He might present it to Himself, a glorious Church, without spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. (Eph. 5: 26-27.) Christ further says, He will purge His Church, that it may be a fruitful Church. "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit." (John 15: 2.) Here we can see that Christ wants to bring His Church to her best strength for soul-winning by this second work of Grace. Thank God for Christ's Church; for He will lead it to perfect triumph. The members of His Church love one another, and thereby lift Jesus up before the world. And they let their lights so shine that others can see their good works (not them, but their works). The mission of His Church is not to show the world its equipments, its wealth, its institutions, its creeds, its programs, its fine church buildings, or its denominations, but to let the world see Jesus manifest in its daily life. The Church of Jesus Christ believes that God created man as a man in His own image and in His own likeness. (Gen. 1: 26) Christ's Church believes in God the Father, Jesus Christ His Son, and the Holy Ghost, and that Jesus made atonement for the sin of the whole world.

Jesus intends for each member of His Church to be an evangelist—a soul winner. Hence He said, "Go ye in my vineyard and work," and not to be a deadbeat, but whatsoever thy hands find to do, do it quickly. For the night cometh when no man can work. He doesn't want His people to come up empty handed. There is no organization worthy to be compared with the Church of Jesus Christ, for it is a blood-bought Church. Glory to His dear name forever.

Man's Church.

Now we shall speak of man's church.

There is now a civil war being waged between the Church of Christ and man's church. The contending forces are within the church. The contention is between the modernist and the evangelicals. Some go so far as to deny the divinity of Christ. We think the modernist may well be classed with the Athenians. They spent much of their time either seeking, hearing, or telling something new. (Acts 17: 21.) They may be described in II. Timothy 3: 7. They are never coming to the soul-satisfying peace or the knowledge of the truth. For one of them has recently said: "I don't promise that I shall hold tomorrow the views I expressed this afternoon, for I may change the over night."

Here, we mention the evolutionists, who claim we sprang from the dumb brute. The church of Buddhism, which sprang from Buddha, which prevails over a large part of Asia, including China, Japan and a part of India.

Again, we mention Mohammedanism, instituted by Mohammed. And another, that of Shintoism: Christian Scientists. They claim that God is not a person, but that God is a divine principle. "God is infinite mind, mind is God." Next the church of Spiritualism. They claim that there is no such thing as a personal Holy Spirit. They say that Jesus did not claim for himself more than he held out for others. The Bible says, "God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and truth." (John 4: 24. There is the church of the Russelites. They claim that the man Jesus is dead—forever dead. They further claim that Jesus never arose from the dead. They say we know nothing about what became of Jesus' body—whether it was dissolved into some kind of gas—no one knows.

We now think of the Mormon church. They claim that God is not a spirit, but a man like Brigham Young, and that the Kingdom of God is the Mormon priesthood.

The modern Theologist claims that God is infinite and eternal energy—not a person, and that God has no existence apart from the universe, and never had.

These are some of the churches that were instituted by men. These churches are ameanable to no one. These churches offer nothing to bring men out of sin—hence nothing to satisfy the soul of man. Here is the testimony of two missionaries. They saw an old Brahmin place his little shrine or his idol against the trunk of a Banyan tree and prostrate himself before it in great anguish, and these missionaries asked him what he meant to accomplish by his prayers. He replied that for sixty years he had been seeking to get rid of his soul's burden of sin. "All my life I have been seeking it, but each effort that I make is as unsuccessful as the one before, and the burden is still here." And he continued: "All my pilgrimages, my prayers, penances, for sixty years have been in vain. I have bathed in the River Ganges, but it was all in vain. I gave away the large estate that my parents left me, and I walked three thousand miles to the holy city, but it was all in vain."

How different is Christ's Church. It has a Saviour to commend to the poor, dying sinner. His Church stands for a living faith in God. His temples are places for the divine worship of God, and not open forums where all sorts of men can deliver all sorts of messages, and even denounce parts of God's Bible.

Dr. Chatman says that anything except the real worship of God in his Church is profanity and is sacrilegious. In God's temple we are to worship Him in the beauty of holiness. When Jesus went into the temple he found things there that were desecrating the holy place and he drove them out and sharply rebuked them for perverting the use of his Father's house.

God bless and strengthen the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ. P. T. KLAPP.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN. 1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

HOW ANOTHER PASTOR WILL OBSERVE MISSION MONTH.

Rev. John G. Truitt, Pastor First Christian Church Norfolk; "This is our plan: Missions in the Sunday School period of worship; Missions in the classes; Missions in the sermons; Missions in the bulletins, and Missions in pastoral visiting, during the month of February.

On the third Sunday in February we will give to every man, woman and child that comes to any service in our church an envelope with instructions to the effect that they are to return it on the fourth Sunday with a Missionary Offering. On the fourth Sunday morning our Mission Secretary is to speak, and the offering will be received. At night I will give further opportunity to all to make a Missionary Offering so that none be left out."

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, Suffolk has a similar plan for the month, and is also counting on his young people to help him out with a pageant and also a program.

Every Pastor will adopt his own plans. The one vital and essential point is that every pastor work with all his heart and soul the plan that he does employ. David would not fight in Saul's armor, but he did everlastingly fight in the manner he did choose.

It is not what sort of plan, but what sort of spirit we carry into our plan that counts most.

J. O. ATKINSON.
Mission Secretary.

HOW ANOTHER PASTOR PLANS FOR MISSION MONTH.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, Pastor of our Suffolk Church writes: "I am planning to make Mission Month more than the occasion for taking an offering, as vital and spiritual as that may be. I want to make it a time of education and inspiration, and especially a time of intercession; intercession that I hope may be permanent to some extent, because my people have been captured by the bigness of the Missionary task.

Perhaps it might interest you to know in a general way of my plans for the month. I am planning to have, first of all missionary charts and mottoes in the Church and the Sunday School throughout the month. I also plan to have a map of the world, showing the location of our mission stations, both at home and abroad. A special map of Japan will show more in detail our work there. An illustrated lecture on Japan, a missionary pageant, and a hymn-pantomime, following a special missionary sermon to the women, will be given on successive Sunday nights. "Prayer and Missions," will be studied by a large group twice a week for three successive weeks, and special seasons of prayer for specific things will be observed. I also hope to have a special service for men, using as my theme "Men and Missions." If my present plans do not miscarry I shall have a special illustrated lecture on the "Children of Many Lands" for children and young people on one night during the week. The women will have a special Missionary anniversary service also. It seems to me that these features ought to do something toward imparting some inspiration. My plans are more or less tentative but something as outlined will be given unless some unforeseen turn of affairs should necessitate a change."

TITHING TESTIMONY.

Dean Charles R. Brown, Yale Divinity School: "Thirty years ago I was induced by a thoughtful layman in my first pastorate to inaugurate the habit of giving a tenth. My salary was only a thousand dollars a year and to give away one hundred of it seemed to make a big hole in it. But when the decision was once made, I was amazed to find how much more I could give and did give than was the case when it was all left to mood and impulse. . . . In all these thirty years I have never seen the day when I was tempted for a moment to return to the old spasmodic, haphazard method of giving to the Lord. We too, have been blessed temporally and spiritually, in basket and in store, in mind and in heart, in this practice of systematic giving. There has seemed to be an overarching Providence all the way."

Dr. Robert E. Speer: "Our Lord Himself recognized and approved the validity of the principle of the tithe. He said to the scribes and the Pharisees, 'You give tithes and this you ought to have done.' So many times now do we say that the Old Testament laws are abrogated in Christ. The types and shadow were fulfilled and terminated in Christ. None of these moral ideas did Christ abrogate. He reinforced and sanctioned every one of them and poured upon each one of them the burden of a greater obligation. He explicitly endorsed the tithe. There is no objection that holds against the principle of the tithe that does not hold against the principle of the Sabbath day."

NOTICE OF ERROR CORRECTED.

In the Christian Sun January 14, First Church Portsmouth Sunday School is credited with $34.24 for 1925, whereas the total received by the Mission Secretary and reported in his copy to the CHRISTIAN SUN was $91.87. This was a printer's error in making the items credited to Richmond, and Portsmouth the same.

Another printer's error was that of omitting our Suffolk Sunday School all together, whereas, our copy to THE SUN reported $149.14. The Mission Secretary deeply regrets the error in one instance and the total omission in the other. Many letters came to his calling for an "explanation," and if one thinks the Sun is not read just let one get something printed erroneously in it, and see what happens.

J. O. ATKINSON.
Mission Secretary.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

I have the pleasure to announce that Rev. A. W. Sparks, who has been acting as field secretary of the Rav's Hill and Southern Pennsylvania Christian Conference for the past few years and has achieved such a signal success in the re-organization of that work, has accepted appointment as field secretary for higher education with the Board of Christian Education. He will enter upon his duties March 1, and he is to work under the direction of the same committee which is to direct the work of Rev. J. E. Fry. Brother Spark's duties will be those already set forth respecting the work of Brother Fry. They will, however, work in different sections of the church, their territory being assigned them by the committee which has this work in charge.

The committee in charge of this work consists of the Executive Committee of the Board of Christian Education and President F. G. Caris.

I feel sure that the church will cooperate most heartily and sympathetically with Brother

Sparks and Brother Fry in their effort to build up the work of higher education in our church and particularly in their effort to secure funds to maintain and support Palmer and Defiance Colleges.

W. A. HARPER President,
Board of Christian Education.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF SPECIAL FINANCE COMMITTEE.

SUFFOLK, VIRGINIA, JANUARY 12, 1926.

The committee called to order by Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Southern Christian Convention, at 10:30 A. M. in the pastor's study in the Christian Church, Suffolk, Va.

Prayer by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne of the Holland Christian Church.

Members of the committee are as follows: Dr. L. E. Smith, chairman, Dr. W. W. Staley, Col. J. E. West, Mr. Kirk Holt, Mr. P. J. Carlton, Mr. J. A. Williams, Mr. K. B. Johnson, Mr. L. L. Vaughan.

Members of the committee who were not able to attend the meeting are as follows: P. J. Carlton, K. B. Johnson, J. A. Williams.

Others who were invited to sit with the committee and who represent Divisions of the Southern Christian Convention are as follows: Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College; Dr. S. L. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College; Mr. Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent of the Christian Orphanage; Dr. I. W. Johnson, Secretary of the Convention; Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, representing the Board of Religious Education; Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Secretary of the Board of Missions; Rev. W. D. Harward, President of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

The department heads or representatives not present: Dr. W. A. Harper, Dr. S. L. Beougher.

Dr. Smith stated briefly the object of the meeting, namely: That the committee should consider the needs of the Convention and attempt to work out plans whereby the several divisions of the Convention can be adequately financed. Dr. Smith further stated that this committee was authorized at the annual meeting of the Mission Board, held in September, 1925.

Dr. Atkinson spoke at length to the point that our Annual does not show in any adequate manner how the funds of our Convention, as a whole, are distributed, nor does it show amounts collected and distributed in the past years in any accumulative way. Discussion by Col. West, Dr. Staley and Rev. Lightbourne. Dr. Atkinson further stated that, unconsciously our subordinate divisions of the Convention have developed ahead of the Convention in the matter of finance and its distribution. He suggested that some method should be developed whereby the funds collected could be distributed on some proportionate basis. Perhaps the Budget System would help if it could be put across to the churches in such a way as to have them co-operate to the fullest in the plan.

At this point Dr. Smith suggested that the committee could work more constructively, if it was informed of the desires of the several divisions of the Convention in regard to the financial support for them for the next fiscal year. Dr. Atkinson was asked to state the needs of the Mission Board, and after some discussion on his part, and also by Col. West, it was suggested that a minimum of $38,000 per year was needed. Mr. Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent of the Orphanage, stated that it would require $30,000 to maintain the Orphanage per year. Rev. Lightbourne stated that if the Convention co-operated with the Department of Christian Education, that at least $9,000 per year would be required to carry out the program. Since neither Dr. Harper, nor Dr. Beougher were present to state the needs for the Schools and Colleges, a tentative estimate was made, namely, $35,000 per year. A letter from Dr. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College, was read by Dr. Smith. This letter set forth immediate needs of the college and further stated, that if financial relief could not be given to the college by the Convention, that the college would be forced to close its doors. After some discussion, it was suggested that to maintain our publications, it would require approximately $5,000 per year, a Convention Fund of $5,000 and for Superannuation $3,000.

Estimate of needs of the Convention:

Missions	$ 38,000.00
Christian Education	9,000.00
Colleges and Schools	35,000.00
Orphanage	30,000.00
Publications	5,000.00
Convention	5,000.00
Superannuation	3,000.00

Total$125,000.00

After the estimates were made and tabulated, Col. West asked the Chairman what was to be done with the report of the Special Committee on Finance, which was submitted to the Southern Christian Convention in May, 1924, as shown on page 22 of the 1925 Annual. After some discussion, it was the consensus of opinion of the committee that the Orphanage should be included in the apportionment table of the Convention, rather than omitted as requested in said report, paragraph 3. Dr. W. W. Staley made a motion that this committee recommend to the Convention that it adopt the Modified Budget System and also recommend that we raise $25,000 for Convention purposes, which is a reaffirmation of paragraph 2 of the report of the Special Committee on Finance as printed on page 22 of the Annual. The motion was seconded by Kirk Holt. After some discussion of the Modified Budget System, which is in principle the distribution of the Convention funds on some proportionate basis to the several divisions of the Convention and that those divisions of the Convention which do not receive enough funds for maintenance from the division of the Convention funds be allowed to ask for specials to the extent of the amount needed to maintain them, the motion prevailed.

After considerable discussion the committee decided to recommend that the disbursement of the $25,000 which is to be raised by apportionment throughout the several conferences and as recommended by report of Apportionment Committee, page 36 of the 1925 Annual, be as follows: Publications, $5,000; Convention, $5,000; Superannuation, $3,000; and that the $12,000 balance be distributed: 40 per cent to Colleges; 32 per cent to Missions; 20 per cent to Orphanage; 8 per cent to Christian Education. The difference between the allotted percentages of the $12,000 and the apportionments to the several divisions to be raised by specials.

The committee went on record as recommending a church calendar year as follows: That January, February, March and April be the months in which the special for Missions be raised. May, June, July and August be the months in which the special for Christian Education be raised. September, October, November and December be the months in which the special for the Colleges be raised. By adopting the church calendar year, it will prohibit any one division of the Convention from overlapping or interfering with any other division during the period in which these divisions are to raise their special.

The Orphanage to pursue the methods now in vogue to raise its quota over and above the amount it will receive from the Convention funds, viz: one Sunday's collection from the Sunday Schools of the Convention and special offerings at Thanksgiving and Easter.

A motion was made and carried that a sub-committee composed of Dr. W. W. Staley, Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, and Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Convention, be authorized to work out a financial system for disbursing Convention funds and submit the same to the other members of the Special Finance Committee for consideration Adjourned.

L. E. SMITH, Chairman,
L. L. VAUGHAN, Secretary.

THE BOOK OF BOOKS.

Playing a conspicuous part in the religious progress of this country is the Gideons (The Christian Commercial Travelers' Association of America), organized July 1, 1899, and with offices at Chicago, Ill.

The purpose of this organization is—

"To band together the Christian travelers of America, and through them win the commercial travelers for the glory of God. To supply every hotel in this country with a Bible for each guest room. To prepare the hearts of travelers for the acceptance of salvation."

The weary travelers may thus gain spiritual refreshment when they retire to their rooms after a hard day engaging in life's battles, and perhaps coming in contact with the materiality so apparent in every large American city.

The stereotyped traveling salesman, that gentleman to whom is traced the origin of many off-color tales, is passing into the discard where he rightfully belongs, if indeed he ever existed in the exaggerated form generally conceded by the retailers of "latest stories." Today one may witness a new type of traveler—clean-cut, efficient, and in many instances religious.

The influence of that little volume reposing in the hotel room has, it may be safely assumed, been responsible for this noteworthy change. The very presence of God's Holy Word is sufficient to awaken the spiritual consciousness, and appeal to the best that is in a man.

In giving a few of the remarkable features contained in the Bible, the Gideons have stressed the following:

"It is a Book of Laws, Wisdom, Truth, Life.

"It is authentic and entertaining history. It contains the most remote antiquities, the most remarkable events, and wonderful occurrences.

"It is a perfect body of divinity. An unequalled narrative. A Book of biography, travels, voyages.

"It is the best covenant ever made, the best deed ever written.

"It is the best will ever executed, the best testament ever signed.

"It is a learned man's masterpiece. It is a young man's best companion. It is the school-boy's best instructor.

"It is the ignorant man's dictionary, and every man's directory.

"It promises an eternal reward to the faithful and believing.

"But that which crowns all is the Author. He 'with whom there is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.'"

In thus "giving a cup of cold water in Christ's name," the Gideons are rendering valuable aid to humanity, and it must inevitably follow that hotel guests of all manners and descriptions will be lead to the light of spiritual understanding by this quiet, unostentatious but remarkably effective service. L. D. W.

"SO MUCH OUT OF SO LITTLE."

A little five-year-old boy, son of the editor of one of our local papers, came home from Sabbath School one day. The lesson that day had been on "The Feeding of the Five Thousand." He was helping his mother in his small way about setting the dinner table, when in an astonishing outburst he exclaimed, "Mother, I'm tired of that Jesus." The mother was aghast for a moment, but she is a wise mother, and proposed to move slowly. So she went on with what she was doing in silence, and then asked, "What did you say, Robert?" He reiterated, "I'm tired of that Jesus." "Why," said his mother, "What is the matter with you and Jesus now?" "Well," replied the child, "The lesson today said Jesus took five loaves and two little fishes and fed five thousand people. You know He couldn't do that. Five thousand people and only a few little loaves. So much out of so little. I tell you I don't believe Him any more."

The mother silently prayed for wisdom. Then her eye fell upon a dish in which she had at some previous time put a few petunia seeds, which you know are very tiny. The little fellow, as it happens, is passionately fond of flowers, and knows many of them by name. She picked up one of the tiny seeds, and said, "Robert, do you remember the petunias mother had last summ r?" He enthused at once, and said, "Oh, yes, those long-stemmed flowers, with the pretty blossoms that we had in the porch-box. I love them." "Yes, those are the ones. How tall did they grow?" He replied by holding out his hand, indicating a stem almost as long as he was tall. "Did the stems have any leaves on?" she asked, and he replied, "Just lots of pretty green leaves." "And blooms, did they have blossoms on?" Again he expressed his remembrance of the many delicately colored blossoms on each plant. Then the mother said, "Robert, did you not know that each of those beautiful plants with the many leaves and wonderful flowers and long stems, all came from a tiny seed like that," as she held out to him one of the almost microscopic seeds. Then the little fellow exclaimed, "What! mother, all that out of such a little seed? How could He do it?" "I am sure I do not know, Robert, how God could get all that out of such a little seed. We only know that He just did. He can do lots of things that we cannot explain why or how. But we know He does them."

Then the little fellow's mind went back at once to what they had been talking about, and without being conscious at all that the illustration had been used with a purpose, he said, "Mother, maybe Jesus could get all that food out of the loaves and fishes." "Yes, my boy, He could and did. It doesn't do for us to say that Jesus can't do anything, when we know He does such wonderful things that we cannot explain.

This has seemed to me so wise an answer to give to so youthful an inquirer, that I pass it on to your many readers.—Rev. H. N. Mount in The Presbyterian.

POWER OF PRAYER.

Prayer has divided seas, rolled up flowing rivers, made flinty rocks gush into fountains, quenched flames of fire, muzzled lions, disarmed vipers and poisons, marshaled the stars against the wicked, stopped the course of the moon, arrested the rapid sun in its great race, burst open iron gates, recalled souls from eternity conquered the strongest devils, commanded legions of angels down from heaven. Prayer has bridled and changed the raging passions of man, destroyed vast armies of proud, daring, blustering a'heists. Prayer has brought one man from the bottom of the sea, and carried another in a chariot of fire to heaven. What has not prayer done?—Selected.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VI.—February 7, 1926.

"JESUS HEALS AND SAVES A BLIND MAN."

DEVOTIONAL READINGS Isaiah 42: 1-7.

PRINT John 9: 1-41.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8: 1-2.

"As Jesus passed by, he saw a man blind from his birth." The Master always saw human need. He was never so absorbed in the things that pressed in upon Him and which made such a tremendous drain on His time and energies, that He could not see the needs of men and women. This pathetic sight caught the Master's eye as He passed along. How unlike so many of us! We can walk along the streets and see nothing of the deep needs of our fellow-men. We can read of conditions on the mission fields and be unmoved by their deep appeal. We may well pray, "O Lord give us eyes that see."

The man was blind. That was tragic enough. Not to be able to see the village in which he lived; not to be able to see the beauty of the out-lying country or the glory of the sunset; not to be able to see the faces of friends, the smiles of children, the faces of loved ones—how tragic. But this were not all. The man had never been able to see these things—he was blind from his birth. This were tragic indeed.

But there is something worse than to be blind physically. As bad as it is not to be able to see with the natural eye, it is still worse to be blind morally and spiritually. Not to see the abiding values of life; not to see the moral issue of life; not to see evidences of God in human life; not to see the glory of God as reflected in the face of Jesus Christ—ah, that were the greatest tragedy of all. There are none so blind as those who will not see. God help us to have eyes which see.

The disciples were ready with an explanation of the man's blindness, although they did not know just where to place the blame. It was because either this man or his parents had sinned that he had been born blind. Very simple, very simple indeed. Sin brings punishment; this man was being punished; therefore this man or his parents had sinned. Thus reasoned the disciples and thus reason many people today. Let a calamity come upon a person and there are those who will say, "It serves him right." The Lord is punishing him for his sins or meanness." Perhaps so. Sin does bring punishment, and a great deal of suffering is the direct and indirect result of sin. The wages of sin is death, and he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption. A great deal of the world's suffering comes from sin. A great deal, but not all. The Master made that plain. There is suffering which is disciplinary and suffering which is vicarious. The Captian of our Salvation was made perfect through suffering. Whom the Lord loveth, he often chasteneth, and that chastening often produces a beauty of character that is surpassing in glory. Furthermore, the Master suggested that cases like the blind man often existed that the works of God might be made manifest, and he suggested that His disciples ought to be working about the Father's business while it was yet day. There is no time for idleness in the light of the many opportunities which the work of the Kingdom presents.

"And when he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and annointed his eyes with clay, and said unto him, 'Go wash in the pool of Silcun.'" Here is the divine method of working. There is the use of the material things which God has put in this world—the herbs, the drugs, the instruments—and there is also the appropriation of divine forces operative in life—faith and hope and obedience, and the spirit of the living God. A man asked me the other night when the power of healing was lost. I replied that I did not think it had been lost; I think it merely manifests itself in a different way from what it did in other days. The curative powers that were operative in Jesus Christ are still abroad in the world and as men appropriate them and apply them they learn that today as yesterday He is the Great Physician.

"He went, therefore, and washed and came seeing. He who doeth the truth cometh to the light. When a man obeyed he received his sight. As a great preacher once said in a phrase that has become classic, "Obedience is the organ of spiritual knowledge." If any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine.

He came seeing. Things look differently when Jesus Christ touches a life. Here is a man who sees life only as a cup to be drained. His idea and ideal is to get all he can out of life. Then Jesus Christ touches his eyes, and he sees that life is not a cup to be drained but a measure to be filled; that it does not consist in the abundance of the things which a man possesseth but certain qualities of mind and heart, in friendships, in noble service for others.

Or again here is a man who looks upon money as his own, a mere material possession, a medium of exchange, a power in life. Then Jesus Christ touches his eyes and he sees that money has tremendous spiritual possibilities; that even though the Kingdom of God can never come merely money it will never come without money. And so on with anything a man may name—time, talents, energy, influence, life itself. Men see things differently when they see things through the eyes that Christ has touched.

The man who had been blind from his birth had received his sight. What a time for rejoicing! But alas, with a perversity that crops out under similar conditions in many of our contemporaries, the scribes and the Pharisees turned on the man and actually persecuted him. The thing had not been done according to Robert's Rules of Order. The man who did the miracle was not orthodox. He did not think like they thought, nor did he keep with scrupulous care their traditions. He was not a good man. He was even a sinner. "Come now," they said, "confess up. He is a sinner, isn't he?"

"And when Jesus heard that they had cast him out—they excommunicated him—He found him. Men may ostracise us and cut us off from organized forms of religion, but no man can cut one off from God except the man himself. That is an open door which no man can shut. The Master is never nearer to anyone than he is to the one who has been cast off from human love and friendship. And when the Master reveals himself as the Son of God as He did to this poor man, life takes on a new meaning and men find not only that which evokes their worship; they find that which satisfies their hearts.

Teaching Points.

1. The Master has compassion for all those who are in need.
2. Love rather than logic is the glass through which we are to see life.
3. Suffering may be voluntarily chosen or it may be disciplinary.
4. Suffering or human need is always a challenge, no matter what the cause.
5. There is too much to be done to waste time.
6. Jesus Christ is the Light of the world and that Light is the Life of men.
7. Healing is a matter of natural and divine forces in cooperation.
8. The thing that counts is experience and not explanation.
9. Men see things differently and aright under the touch of Jesus.
10. To believe on Christ is to have eternal life.

THE BIBLE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A movement is on foot in Virginia to make Bible reading in the public schools compulsory. The Portsmouth Association (Baptist) is opposing the proposition on the grounds that church and state should always be separated.

It is very true that church and state should be separated. Here is a vast difference which the Association has failed to distinguish.

Will the reading of the Word of God militate against the doctrine of the Baptist church? It would be infinitely better for the Baptists to give up their doctrines than it would be for the public schools to give up the Word of God.

If the reading of the Word of God in the public schools will unite the church and state, which church will be united to the state? It certainly would not be the Catholic, for Bible reading does not make Catholics. It certainly would not be Baptists, for Bible reading does not make Baptists. It would not be Methodists, for reading the Bible only does not make Methodists. How then will the reading of the Bible join the church and state? Again let us ask, what church would be joined to the state if the Bible was read in the public schools? We are told in the Bible that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation. The Gospel, therefore, is a saving power, but it is not a denomination saving power.

School children need salvation more than they need an education. Why not aid them in getting both?

If the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation, it is not going to hurt any one to have it read to them any where.

A school that is not so conducted that the reading of the Word of God will be in place at any time, that school is not worthy the support of a Christian government. Neither is it a safe place for American children to attend.

The World Evangel is not fearful of any bad effects coming to any school or to the nation or to the church by having the Word of God read in the public schools of the land. It is ours to plant the seed, and God will give the increase. —Exchange.

Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage?

He delighteth in mercy. . . . He Will have compassion upon us: he will subdue our iniquities: and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.—Micah 7:18, 19.

Christian Orphanage

DEAR FRIENDS:—

What did you think of our goals for 1926? Can our Churches push us up to them? Of course they will. They always do more than we ask. The Christian denomination is doing things and making fine progress and everybody wants to see its Orphanage grow with the other institutions of our denomination. Then, too, everybody wants to give something to help the little fatherless children and we would really be hard hearted, if we did not have a tender feeling for children left fatherless and motherless and homeless.

Our Master was very tender toward little children and took a little child in his arms and blessed the little children. He also, "sat a little child in the midst of them." If Jesus in his busy life, took the time to give such careful attention to the children then should not we, as His followers, give of our time and our money to help these helpless ones.

Let our Sunday Schools, our Churches and all of us do our very best this year for our Orphanage.

Remember this is just a modern way to render a loving service in the Master's name. Surely we will reach our goals for 1926.

It is a little late to mention Christmas gifts, but our former letters have been so long that we had to leave off something; but we want to say that one of the most enjoyable gifts we have had lately was sent to us sometime ago by our good friend R. W. Foster, of Chapel Hill, N. C. Brother Foster had the misfortune to have a fire in his place of business last year and had on hand many Christmas toys, little wagons, sleds, little automobiles, scooters and many other things, which were damaged in the fire to much to sell and the thought struck him that while these things were not saleable they would make a crowd of little Orphan children happy. So he sent us a truck load. But since we had received them the weather had been so cold we could not let the little fellows play out doors, but we had a few pretty warm days this week and we filled their hearts full of joy when we called the little fellows in the storage room and let them select the toy they wanted most. Then to the yard they went, with scooters, wagons, automobiles and other things to their liking. If Brother Foster could have paid us a visit the first afternoon and beheld the real joy he had brought to these little folks he would have been as happy as the children.

I am the mechanic for them and I am getting some real experience in fixing automobiles. They have wrecks too.

Then we have one other thing I wanted to mention, because it showed such a sweet spirit. The Hocutt Memorial Baptist Church in Burlington, in giving out their Sunday School treat had quite a number of packages left over and they decided that they would donate these to the children at the Christian Orphanage and they made seventy-five of our small children happy. The Church did the same thing last year. This is a very sweet spirit, and we are grateful.

Oh! there are so many things our people can do to bring joy to the life of our little folds if they would just think and then act.

C. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JANUARY 28, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 306.79
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Long's Chapel	$ 2.70
Salem Chapel	1.00
Bethlehem	2.73
Shallow Ford94
Elon College	2.50
Third Avenue, Danville	4.42
	14.29
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Christian Light	$ 6.00
Liberty (Vance)	5.12
Shallow Well	1.37
Wake Chapel	5.82
	18.31
Western North Carolina Conference:
High Point	$ 7.00
Pleasant Ridge	3.00
Mt. Auburn	3.15
	13.15
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem (Va.)	$ 2.50
Rosemont	11.28
Ingram	3.00
Ocean View	2.03
Oakland	16.92
	35.73
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Rose Hill	1.20
Alabama Conference:
Wadley	1.66
Valley Virginia Conference:
Timber Ridge	1.47
Special Offerings.
Boone Bible Class, Sanford	$ 15.00
Lawrence Holt Endowment Fund..	150.00
J. W. Wheeler, Louisburg, N. C. . .	5.00
Mrs. C. T. Pruden	2.00
	172.00
New Building Fund:
Alamance Laundry, V. H. Lane, Proprietor	20.00
Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Hogan, Burlington, N. C.	5.00
	25.00
Thanksgiving Offerings:
Union (Southampton)	$ 12.00
Eures	10.00
Mrs. Mollie Williams	1.00
	23.00
Total for the week	$ 305.81
Grand total	$ 612.60

THE CHURCH AND THE RELIGIOUS PRESS.

By Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

(Part of an address at the annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches.)

A vigorous religious press is needed:

First. To furnish an accurate record of religious and church news. It is true that the secular press is giving more space to religious matter than in former years, but the average reporter is not qualified either by training or by comprehension to give careful and adequate news of the Church. The desire to make a headline or to create some special interest is so strong that accuracy is subordinated to color. Moreover, few secular papers will give as full a record of church news as those interested in church work should have.

Second. A religious press is needed to furnish an interpretation of the life in the world about us from the Christian standpoint. This does not imply that the secular press does not frequently give a proper interpretation of life. But it does imply that men who themselves are not Christians and who do not look at matters from the Christian standpoint cannot interpret the events of everyday life as they should be interpreted. So more important service is rendered by the religious press than the review of current happenings in the world and the discussion of the attitude of the Church with reference to them.

Third. The Church press furnishes a necessary medium for presenting and advocating policies and programs of the denominations to justify the secular papers in furnishing space for such matters. Furthermore, the religious press furnishes opinions among church leaders on all the varying phases of the Christian life.

Fourth. The religious press is needed for the publication of articles of a devotional nature. Many people get the best of their devotional reading from the pages of the church press. Especially in the rural sections of the country is the religious paper a great help in presenting to the young, stories with a distinct moral tendency and impulse.

For these and other reasons, the church press is a necessity. But it is a lamentable fact that it is exceedingly difficult to pay the necessary running expenses of a well edited and well printed church paper. Few indeed of the church papers of the present day are meeting their expenses by receipts from advertising and subscribers. The writer was the editor of a denominational church paper for twenty-five years, and it was only with the greatest difficulties that he was able to pay the current expenses out of the current receipts, and it was done only by the restriction of the usefulness of the paper because of inability to pay for a sufficient staff of workers and contributed articles.

The weekly church paper is as great a necessity for the maintenance and development of the church as are the publications of the Sunday School Boards, the Church Extension Boards, the Mission Boards, the Social Service and Temperance Boards and other special literature necessary for the carrying on of the work of the great agencies of the Church. The Conferences, Assemblies and Boards recognize the necessity for large appropriations for the preparation and distribution of various kinds of literature in the homes of the members of the Church. Each denomination should have a Board of Christian Literature which should consider the needs of the Church for high-class weekly, monthly and quarterly publications, which such Boards should be given the authority to subsidize all publications which such Boards may deem necessary for the work of the Churches. Either the endowment of the church press, or a yearly appropriation of such amounts as may be necessary to guarantee an adequate church press service would seem to furnish a sensible, if not indeed the only, solution of the present problem.

FOLLOW THE GLEAM.

"To the knights in the days of old,
Keeping watch on the mountain heights,
Comes a vision of Holy Grail
And a voice through the waiting night,
Follow, follow, follow the gleam,
Banners unfurled o'er all the world,
Follow, follow, follow, the gleam,
Of the Chalice that is the Grail."

"And we who would serve the King,
And loyally Him obey,
In the consecrated silence know,
Till the challenge still holds today,
Follow, follow, follow the gleam,
Of the light that shall bring the dawn."

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY.

DECIDING A DESTINY!

"Unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him."—Luke 19: 15.

Had Jesus left us this one brief story only, we should have had three of life's most important lessons. First, the great possibilities of life. One person discovers this early, works hard, saves the moments, and finds himself at last possessor of ten talents and master of ten cities. Another is satisfied if he merely maintains his existence.

A second of life's lessons is responsibility. We did not come into the world of our own choice, neither were we given the selection of our environment or our endowment. Most of us, however, have had the mistaken notion at some time in our life, that it is entirely optional with us whether or not we shall use that endowment. But not so. The Lord returns and commands these servants unto whom He had given the money, that He might know what they had gained. To some this was not unexpected. But to those who carelessly turned away the opportunities of life, it comes as a complete surprise. Life is a responsibility. We must accept it, and we cannot avoid its day of accounting.

The third lesson is a warning. You are consciously or unconsciously choosing your own destiny. How little do we realize that a failure to choose the good immediately is of itself a choice of the bad. Postponing a decision is itself a decision.

Prayer.—May we learn more and more the need of Divine guidance in every emergency, and make the best and highest use of our opportunities.

TUESDAY.

THE GRACE OF A NEW WORLD.

"Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel."—Gen. 32: 28.

When God changes a man's name, it is significant. Esau's twin brother was born Jacob; he became Israel. By birth and home training he was the "supplanter;" by grace he became a "man of God." The lower the kind of life we inherit, the greater the honor of working up to true nobility.

Esau was a finer boy than Jacob, kindly, dutiful, popular. What gave Jacob the ascendancy? How can we justify God in blessing Jacob above Esau? In spite of his cupidity and unworthy deeds, Jacob won out because he changed his manner of life. Esau was always satisfied with material profits and bodily pleasures. At Peniel, Jacob made a complete surrender to God and was accepted. Hence it was only fair to Jacob to change his name, to express his changed life.

This gives us the secret of a happy Christian career, with new life, new hopes, new possibilities. What will our new name express? The first step is opening our heart to the love of God in Christ. Then, being raised with Christ, we set our minds on things above, things spiritual. Then we desire to follow in Christ's steps, that we may attain something of His spirit.

We surrender absolutely, without reservation. The passion of our life is to do God's will. Everything else sinks into its proper, inferior place.

WEDNESDAY.

"Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker."—Isa. 45: 9.

Isaiah pronounces the woes that already were beginning to gather about the crumbling bulwarks of his morally decadent nation. His people were at strife with God. Terrible is the picture of a nation blind to the uses of adversity, and in a frenzy of spiritual madness, hurling defiance into the face of an angry God.

Jesus could utter one of the noblest of beatitudes, and yet there must have been something of the very thunder of the Judgment in His tones as He spoke of the woes against scribes and Pharisees, or the cities of the busy and populous plain. Our age, too, needs more than soft words.

But is not history repeating itself today? Is not the heart of our world at strife with God? The great things of our civilization are being used in the conflict against God. Israel's woes are even at our door, and unless the Church arises to the greatness and the grandeur of her God-given mission, not only will our national perils thicken, but the handwriting of God may be even upon the walls of his spiritual Zion. Happy ye who have taken Jesus Christ as your Saviour and the Light of your life. The unsundered life is always at strife with God.

Lord's Prayer.

THURSDAY.

THE SCORNFUL HEART.

"Nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."—Psa. 1:1-2.

This great Psalm gives us the Old Testament picture of the happy man. From our modern point of view, it almost seems strange that the portrait is drawn in negative colors. He is marked by certain avoidances and one of these is that he avoids scorn.

Scorn is a matter deeper than speech or action. A scornful man has no respect for God or man. The springs of his life are poisoned. His heart is soured. He sees through the yellow eyes of a jaundiced vision or the green ones of a jealous outlook.

The scornful man is contemptuous of his fellow man. Nothing in the lives of others is sacred to him. Very often he asserts that he has "seen life," when what he has seen is death. How different the Saviour! He knew the worst and yet He believed in the best. Jesus saw, not so much of what men and women were, but what they might become.

Each and every form of scorn has its common penalty in a scared soul.

The man or woman who finds it eating its insidious way into their life must give pause and ask whither it is leading them. There is no effective cure for it but a changed heart. "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean."

Lord's Prayer.

FRIDAY.

REPENTANCE FROM THE HEART.

Job lived a conscientious life before God, his family and the world. Yet when he came face to face with the Judge of all the earth, he felt that he was but clothed in filthy and unclean rags.

The best of us are guilty of sins, conscious and unconscious, that will shame us when we come to confront the All-Seeing One. Therefore, we must search ourselves, find out the evil propensity, mark the bad temper, see the unjust act and repent of it with humility and shame.

This matter of a genuine repentance is of first practical importance to Christians, because they are in danger of being self-deceived. The test of repentance from the heart is that we so abhor our guilt that we cannot repeat the sin. The danger here is that besetting sin forms a habit.

Yet God feels for us in our temptations, and "will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able." We have a sure means of escape. That is the Word of God, and the indwelling Holy Spirit. If we abide in these, we can stand fast in the trying hour.

SATURDAY.

TRIBUTE TO THE GREATEST.

"Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come."—Eph. 1: 21.

Lord Kelvin, the famous scientist, was asked to name his greatest discovery. His answer was: "My greatest discovery is Jesus Christ!" When Wilford Grenfell was announced to preach at Harvard University, the students thought they would listen to a thrilling description of the Labrador missionary doctor's adventures among the perils of ice and wave. Instead he took for his theme the question, "What will you do with Jesus Christ?" His theme was Christ, not Grenfell.

Great men and famous women refer to their Master, not to themselves.

"I have not done this wonderful thing; this wonderful thing was done through me," is the fitting expression. One of the characteristics of leadership is humility and abasement. "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me," was Paul's way of expressing the thought.

Prayer.—May we have a closer touch with Jesus in our daily lives, not only as our Redeemer, but as our Guide and as our Familiar Friend, remembering that He has given His followers the promise: "Lo, I am with you always." Amen.

SUNDAY.

KNOWN BY THE DEED.

"And Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor."—Luke 6:16.

What did Judas Iscariot do but betray his Lord? A thousand things likely, and good things too. But the evil which he did so overshadows every good thing he did that if his name is mentioned at all there must be something added to remind me of his crime. Try as hard as you may, you cannot separate him from the wrong which he did. If there is another so unfortunate as to have the same name, it must be said, "Judas, not Iscariot (John 14:22.) to make sure that Judas the traitor is not meant."

But Judas is not the only one whose name suggests the wrong they have done. Whoever does wrong may expect his good deeds to be forgotten and his wrong remembered. It was so with Benedict Arnold. We should, therefore, be careful to do no wrong. There is much in a name. One single act which is wrong may hide every good deed and destroy that forever.

Prayer.—We pray for divine strength that we may be kept from sin. When we think of our wrong deeds done, we trust they are covered by the blood of Jesus, and that they will be remembered against us no more forever. With men and history there is perpetual remembrance, but with thee there is abundant pardon. Amen.

T. E. White.

"The only enemy that can do you irreparable injury is that one called Fear, who sits upon your shoulder and whispers in your ear,—'You can't do it! You are afraid to try!'"—The Watchman.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

DEAR KIDDIES,—

"Father, hear us as we pray,
Guarde and keep us day by day;
Help us feel thy loving care,
Every day and every where."

WHO GOES TO SUNDAY SCHOOL ON TIME?

"If you get up on Sunday early,
While the grass with dew is pearly;
Be on time, be on time, be on time,
To your class.

"You'll be on time to Sunday School,
Never tardy—that's the rule—
Be on time, be on time, be on time;
To your class."

CHORUS,—

"We are the on time Juniors,
Hooray—hooray,
For tardiness we have no use,
We do not care for your excuse,
Be spry; Do try to get to class on time,
Hooray—twill pay to get to class on time."

Now dears, if your teacher likes this little song, tell her you will sing it for her to the "Dixie" tune—Want to try it? Take your Kiddie Korner to Sunday School next Sunday and sing the words off the paper,—won't that be fun? Besides, it might teach some little tardy Kiddie to be on time next Sunday.

YOUR EDITOR.

January 4, 1926.

My dear Miss Moffitt,

This is my first letter to THE SUN. I am a little girl ten years old and I go to school on a bus. I am in the third grade and I love to go to school.

I go to Johnson's Grove to Sunday School. I love my Sunday School teacher fine.

We take THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and I like the Kiddie Korner.

Love to you from

ODELL GAY.

INTRODUCING JACK.

BY FRANCES FITZPATRICK WRIGHT.

There was no question about its being jack-o'-lantern time. From the farm in Indiana, granny had sent the pumpkin, packed in hay, by parcel post to Wally. Mother had helped him cut the face, a winking, knowing jolly face with so much expression in its lifted eyebrows and its snagged-tooth grin that Wally almost felt that it must have sense inside its empty head!

He took it to school. The other boys tried to trade Wally out of it. Ed Asher offered him his pocketknife, and Bill Downing his new yellow top. Sammy Braden said he'd give him his dollar watch—it wouldn't run, but it looked mighty nice. But Wally wouldn't trade. He said he'd rather keep Jack for the parade that night.

On his way home he passed by the house where Billy Baxter lived. It was not at all the kind of house anyone would want to live in. It was dingy, and it had a small front porch that sagged at the end. To tell the truth, the only gay and cheerful and attractive thing about the house was Billy. He was sitting on the front porch as Wally passed, and he whistled his blackbird whistle and waved one of his crutches in a gay and care-free manner.

"Hellow!" called Wally, holding up his jack-o'-lantern. "Let me introduce Jack."

"Jimminey! It's the best I ever saw!" said Billy.

Wally came close and let him hold Jack in his hands. Such thin eager hands they were!

"Ain't he the friendliest one you ever saw!" said Billy.

"A fellow wouldn't be likely to get lonesome at all, with him around, now, would he?"

"I guess not," said Wally, laughing.

He didn't know much about being lonesome. He had two straight and sturdy legs to carry him about and a pleasant home to live in and books and toys and pets to entertain him, to say nothing of a little sister to play with. He had never been lonesome in his entire life—and that was seven years.

He took his jack-o'-lantern and started toward home, feeling very gay. But after a while he began to think about Billy's saying a fellow wouldn't get lonesome with Jack around. Wally walked slower and slower, wondering how it would feel to live in Billy's house and stay there alone all day while mother went out to work, and to hobble around on crutches and have little or nothing to amuse yourself with. Finally he stopped walking and stood staring down at the impish face of his jack-o'-lantern.

"Now if you were Billy's," he said aloud, "he could put a candle in you tonight and set you on the porch when the parade went by and have almost as much fun as anybody. He'd keep you a long time and talk to you and tell you those funny stories he knows over and over, and maybe he'd even whistle like a blackbird for you. So I reckon that's just what I'll do with you."

It may have been his imagination, but Wally was almost sure that Jack winked, and that his smile grew broader. He turned round and walked briskly back toward Billy's house.

Billy was still sitting on the porch; he looked surprised when he saw Wally coming back.

"Listen, Billy!" said Wally. "He says he'd rather belong to you!"

"But I don't want to take him," protested Billy.

"He's yours for the parade.

"Pshaw! Think I want a jack-o'-lantern that wants to belong to somebody else?" scoffed Wally.

"Here he is, and I hope you will be good friends!"

"Good friends!" cried the delighted little boy. "Good friends is just simply no name for what we're going to be!"

DON'T HIDE THE SUNLIGHT.

(Tune: "Jesus Loves Me.")

When little cloud on high,
Sailing swiftly through the sky,
Hides the sun—the world seems drear
Without sunshine longer here—

Chorus.—

Don't hide the sunlight,
Don't hide the sunlight,
Don't hide the sunlight,
With naughty words and ways.

Do we let a cloud of sin,
Naughty deed or thought within,
Hide God's sunlight in our sky,
Like that other cloud on high?

IDAHO VOTES FOR BIBLE READING IN SCHOOLS.

Daily reading of passages from the Bible in the public schools of Idaho is provided for in a bill which recently passed the Idaho legislature, and was signed by the governor. The law requires the teacher to read daily from twelve to twenty verses from the standard American version of the Bible, such verses to be selected from a list of passages designated from time to time by the state board of education. No comment by the teacher is allowed. A bill providing for the release of pupils from school to receive religious instruction was defeated.

Idaho thus follows closely on the heels of Florida, which recently enacted a similar law. The movement failed in Ohio, however, when Governor Donahey vetoed the bill.

THE NEW YEAR.

"It's coming, boys,
It's almost here;
It's coming, girls,
The grand New Year!

"A year to be glad in,
Not to be bad in;
A year to live in,
To gain and give in;

"A year for striving,
And hearty thriving;
A year for trying,
And not for sighing.

A bright New Year,
Oh! hold it dear;
For God, who sendeth,
He only lendeth."

—Stories in Season.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS	$2.00	LADIES' PENS	$2.00
Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

AN ANSWERED PRAYER.

I was night clerk in one of the best drug stores in the town of N—, says a writer in the Christian Observer. One evening at 11 O'clock, I began to make preparations to retire to my cot behind the rear partition of the store, locked the front door and lowered the lights. I was just falling into a pleasant sleep when the night bell rang. I arose, waited on the customer, refixed the door and light, and returned to my room.

Before half an hour had passed, the bell rang again. I answered it, waited on the messenger, and again lay down.

Perhaps it was an hour later, when, once more, I was aroused by the bell. I was enjoying sound sleep, and by no means in a good humor admitted the boy, who thrust a prescription at me, saying, "Mother is very sick, please put up this medicine quick."

With sleepy eyes and ill humor I prepared the medicine, dismissed the boy, locked the door, and was about to lower the gas light, when I picked up the prescription to file it, and to my horror, discovered that I had made a serious mistake. A deadly poison was in that medicine!

What should I do? Overcome with shame and self-accusation, I paced the floor. Had I known the boy, or where the family lived, I should have followed to prevent the use of the medicine; but I knew not whence he came. I threw myself on my knees; with tears I confessed my sin of petulance, ill humor, and neglect of watching or praying, pleaded with the Saviour not only to forgive my sin, but, somehow, to overrule my every mistake. I knew not how this could possibly be, but continued on my knees, scarcely knowing what I said; my prayer was more groaning in the Spirit than anything else.

My prayer was interrupted by the violent ringing of the bell. I opened the door, and there was the boy. "Oh," he said, "I fell and broke the bottle; please put up the medicine again."

I almost fainted for joy. Before I put up the medicine again, I slipped into my little chamber and threw myself on my knees, simply saying, with tears of gratitude streaming down my face, "Lord Jesus, I thank thee." My prayer was heard and granted.—Selected.

OUR HOME.

This world is not our home. We were born for heaven, and must enter it here and now if we would enter hereafter. But where is heaven? The Lord answers, "The kingdom of God is within us. And the description of Canaan is meant to convey some idea of it to us: "The land whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out.—But the land,—it is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven." The promised land is a land of mountains and valleys. We know what this means when we have set our hearts on keeping the King's laws, have chosen to do the will of the Lord as the chief object in life. At once we ascend the heights that formerly lay in the distance. We saw them afar off; now we scale them. We have in the Lord's life a high and noble standard of life which we strive to reach. We draw near unto God. We are far above the earth, on the mountain top,—entrance into the heavenly life here on earth brings with it exaltation and humiliation. At times we feel the elation of a conquest over self in the Lord's name, and at other times the deep depression of trial and temptation, with its doubts and fears and uncertainty as to what we can do or ought to do. But the Lord always sends His refreshing truth according to our needs and again draws us nearer to Himself. And through every experience we feel that the Lord is always present with us and providing for our highest needs.—Selected.

AN OLD FALLACY EXPOSED.

At a dinner given in honor of Geo. F. Baker, J. Pierpont Morgan, one of the world's leading bankers and financiers, said: "Were I required to state an ethical code for our profession. I think that I should say the first rule should be: 'Never do something you do not approve of in order more quickly to accomplish something that you do approve of,' for there are no safe short-cuts in piloting a business or a ship."

This is just another way of refuting the old fallacy that "the end justifies the means," which has so large a place in the thinking and practice of people today in spite of the fact that it has so often been exposed. The vicious practice of taking "short-cuts" which seem to lead to a worthy goal, but which never arrive, is all too common.

One of the saddest phases of the situation is the prevalence of this sentiment and practice in church and religious circles, not alone in Catholicism, but among Protestants as well. Wrong methods seldom, if ever, bring satisfactory results. To use a teacher in a holiness school who is not up to the standard for which the school stands, just to tide over an emergency may seem to be a wise policy, but the dire consequences that follow such a course more than counterbalance the good. To assign a preacher of questionable character to an important and responsible place, even in a cause of extreme urgency, is an extremely hazardous course to follow. To involve a church or an institution heavily in debt with little or no certainty of securing the obligation and meeting it when due, is more than a "poor policy;" it is "building on the sand." It is unethical, unscriptural, undisciplinatory, and contrary to sound business principles.

It is better to take ten years to do a thing right, than to do practically the same thing in a manner which will not stand either the test of time or the fire of the judgment.

—Wesleyan Methodist.

N. E. A. TACKLES SCHOOL BUSINESS PROBLEMS.

The problem of school administration has become one of the most important single functions of municipal government and as an aid to this important factor of administration, a nation-wide survey of the business phases of this great work is to be conducted by the National Education Association.

No item will be overlooked in the inquiry and the entire question of the business of school finance will be examined. Among the topics to be developed are the methods of financing, including taxation and bond issues, construction of new building, remodeling and adapting old buildings to present needs, anticipating future populations and the purchase of sites with a view to providing adequate playground facilities at minimum cost to the public, development of the plans by competent municipal architects, supervision of all instruction in relation to adequate equipment for special purposes and many other allied problems.

At the regular annual gathering of superintendents of public schools, at which time several hundred educational administrators from all parts of the country assemble, a preliminary report will be made to the department of superintendence and the groundwork of the survey will be completed.

The survey was begun at the suggestion of Frank W. Ballou, Superintendent of the District of Columbia public schools and president of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association. The commission organized to conduct the inquiry is composed of J. J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education; Ernest Greenwood, vice-president of the Washington Board of Education; Thomas E. Finegan, former State superintendent of education in Pennsylvania; Elliot H. Goodwin, resident vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; George D. Strayer, of Columbia University and John H. Beveridge, of Omaha.

THE CAT THAT MINDED.

Klonny was a big cat that weighed ten pounds when he was "grown up," as the children used to say. He was brought to his pleasant home when he was just a tiny kitten, a little yellow ball that could be held in one hand. He had to be fed milk from a spoon at first, but soon learned to lap the milk from a saucer.

Sometimes, as Klonny grew older, he seemed to understand almost everything that was said to him. He was taught to mind with just two words said to him—"Ah! ah!" No matter what he was doing, if he heard those two words, he always minded at once.

If he started to go into the living-room when no one wanted him to, and heard someone say, "Ah! ah!" he immediately turned and went back the other way. Whenever meals were ready and he heard, "Klonny, go get up in your chair," he would get into his special chair by the window and lie down with his back to the table until all had finished eating.

One Thanksgiving Day there was company and the usual big turkey for dinner. Just to show what a good cat Klonny was to mind, the platter containing the turkey remnants was placed on the kitchen floor. Klonny, knowing that all were through dinner, started toward the platter. When he heard "Ah! ah!" he turned away from the temptation. When it was time to retire at night and he heard, "Klonny, it is time to go to bed," he instantly started for the cellar.

—Clara A. Hale.

DISOBEDIENCE IN THE HOME.

When parents permit disobedience in the home, they are sinners against the family, the church and the state. Disregard, if not contempt, for authority is in evidence everywhere. The man is in the child. Neglected childhood, whether in mind, body or spirit, must produce deformed manhood. Disregard of God's commandments are directly responsible for lawlessness, mobs and anarchy, that threatens destruction to the home, the church and the state. If I were called on to write a sentence of five words, telling the greatest crime of this wonderful age, I would say: Permitted disobedience in the home. And the greatest criminals, Parents who permit this disobedience.

DANIEL ALBRIGHT LONG.

RECOMPENSE.

If someone should come to me and say,
"What would you rather have as pay,
For the toil you've done, for the grief you've had,
For the hours you've spent alone and sad;
For the tears you've shed, for the love you've lost,
For a life of Faith? Come! Name the cost."

I'd smile as I answered, glad and free,
"The pay for it all has been given me.
There's One Who watched as I toiled along,
When I was weak He made me strong.
When I was sad He talked to me,
When I was blind He made me see.
Speak to me not of pay, my friend,
My pay will come when Life shall end."

JOSEPH HOSKINS, JR.

People's Church, Dover, Del.

ELON

COLLEGE

Library Building Auditorium ELON COLLEGE Alamance Hall—Administration Building Religious Activities Science Hall

OBITUARIES.

JOHNSON.

Mrs. Martha Johnson quietly passed away on December 21, 1925. Her exact age was not known, but she was thought to have been near ninety years.

Her maiden name was Martha Womack. She was married some years before the Civil War to Elbert Johnson. To them three children were born, and her husband died during said War.

The children are Mrs. Anna Marks, wife of deacon R. R. Marks, Wake Co. Fletcher Johnson, of Harnet Co. and Windlow Johnson of Texas. With these there are a number of grand and great-grand children. Sister Johnson was first a member of Christian Chapel, and became a charter member at the organization of Bethel Christian Church.

As her pastor for eight years, I knew her to be a much interested and faithful believer of our Lord and Savior. She had been very feeble for a number of years.

May her loved ones, who are left behind strive to meet her in that land where they never grow old, or become feeble. Funeral by writer.

J. E. FRANKS.

FUNK.

On December 17, 1925, I was called hurriedly to the bedside of Clareuce E. Funk near Dry Run in Powell's Fort. He desired to make peace with the Lord and unite with the church. I did what I could for him, and he seemed to be satisfied. On December 19, he died, and I preached his funeral at Dry Run, December, 21. His age was 39 years, 11 months, and 3 days. He is survived by his aged mother, two sisters, and a brother.

A. W. ANDES

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES. SELF-PRONOUNCING. Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children. Send for Illustrated Catalog THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers American Bible Headquarters 429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN Pipe Organ Expert TUNING - REPAIRING REBUILDING Motors Installed Yearly Contracts 3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va. Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES. The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children. A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request. 02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus... $1.85 02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations... $2.50 03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40 02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches... $3.00 ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN" 1536 E Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES. For Old Folks and the Home EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES. Specimen of True Holman Home Bible. AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that Flexible Binding. Size when closed, 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 inches. Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book. No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles. Price-Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES. NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE. The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all. Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches. Specimen of Type THE LORD is my shep he not want. 2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters. No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker. Price-Post Paid 4.20 No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above. Price-Post Paid 9.35

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES. SELF-PRONOUNCING. Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children. Send for Illustrated Catalog THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers American Bible Headquarters 429 Winston Building Philadelphia

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

EATMAN.

Sister Harriet Ann Eatman died January, 11, 1926.

She was nearing her 79th birthday. Her maiden name was Boone. She was married at twenty-two years of age, to Haywood Eatman. To them were born five children. Only two are living. David Eatman, with whom she has lived since the death of her husband twenty-seven years ago, and Mrs. Charlie Adams, both of Johnson County, N. C. Besides these there are eighteen grand-children, and two brothers, James Boone of Benson, and Wesley Boone of Raleigh, who survive her. Sister Eatman was the daughter of Wiley Boone, who was a very devout Christian of the old line type. She accepted Christ when quite a young girl, and joined old Liberty Baptist Church near Clayton, continuing her membership in the Baptist Church, until after the death of her husband. She united with Amelia Christian church, where her two children were members. From a girl to the day of her death she grew in grace and in the knowledge of God. The ambition of her Christian life was to be drawn nearer and to be lifted daily in communion with her Lord. Her favorite song, requested to be sung at her funeral was, "Higher Ground." I have never been associated with any one that carried more of the life and light of Jesus in her daily walk, and was more truly filled with the blessed Holy Spirit, than was sister Eatman. I have often seen her so filled with His presence as to shout aloud, expressing the joy that filled and thrilled her very soul, and yet no one ever accused her of tilting the cup. As this had been her habit from girl-hood, and there was no mistake in the power that was demonstrated through her, She was indeed a valuable witness for Jesus.

Funeral services by writer, ex-pastor, assisted by present pastor, G. J. Green. J. E. FRANKS.

DOFFLEMYRE.

Jacob N. Dofflemyre was born April 15, 1896, and died January 2, 1926, aged 29 years, 8 months, and 17 days.

I visited him a few weeks before his death and found him critically ill, unsaved, and unwilling at that time to yield to Christ. Upon my return to the community January 2, I was told that he desired very much to see me at once. I went to the home, but found he had died a few minutes before I got there.

He is survived by his widow and one small child, by his father, one brother, and two sisters. Funeral services were conducted at Battle Creek school house near the home in the Newport section of Page County, January 4, 1926.

A. W. ANDES.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper; only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGH, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

Size, 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah-cl, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style. Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115F. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY. IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY. IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII. RICHMOND, VA., FEBRUARY 4, 1926. NUMBER 5.

Mrs N T Farmer

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Progress of Prohibition.—

Prohibition has made real progress. Its first six years are marked by decided achievement. No one unless blinded by liquor-wrath and thirst-prejudice will fail to see the benefits of the 18th Amendment. Prohibition is one of the greatest upward steps the people have ever taken.

Building New University.—

The Methodists of Kansas and Missouri are building a new Methodist University on the outskirts of Kansas City. The land has been purchased, and a board of trustees elected. The Methodists of both North and South are interested in the projected university, and it will bear the name Lincoln and Lee University. Such a name should satisfy both sides so far as historical prejudices are concerned, and there is something in a name.

Find Students Good Pastors.—

The University of Chicago through the Divinity department has been investigating the effectiveness of student pastors. In examining the records of churches served part of the time by resident pastors, and part by student pastors during the last fourteen years it was found that those years when the churches had student pastors were the most prosperous in Sunday School enrollment, accessions to the churches and in all other phases of work. A study of the Baptist churches of Illinois for the past three years for the same purpose revealed the same results.

Ten Most Popular Children's Books.—

Of late there has been a good deal of voting of one sort or another outside of politics. One of the latest votes taken is that of about forty thousand school children on what books they liked best. These children live in thirty-four cities, and therefore are fairly representative. Those books receiving the highest number of votes are as follows: "Tom Sawyer" by Mark Twain, "Heidi" by Spri, "Little Women" by Alcott, "Black Beauty" by Sewell, "Pinocchio", "The Little Lame Prince", "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain, and the "Call of the Wild" by London. This is an excellent one, and shows that the tastes of our school children have not entirely degenerated.

Biggest Newspaper Stories.—

The New Republican has made up a list of the biggest newspaper stories which appeared in the 1925 papers. They indicate where the interest of Americans lies. The stories follow: The Dayton Evolution trial, the Shenandoah Disaster, the Entombing of Floyd Collins at Cave City, Gunnar Kasson's race to Nome, the Coal Strike, the Caillaux Mission, the Rhinelader Case, Gerald Chapman, Amunden's attempted Dash to the Pole, and Colonel Mitchell's attack on the Army. These ten stories have furnished many columns of copy for the press this year. Some of them have their legitimate right to the space they received, some of them did not have, and are plainly an appeal to the lower interests of the race.

Our New Ambassador To Spain.—

Ogden H. Hammond has been appointed as Ambassador to Madrid. Mr. Ogden was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1869, and was graduated from Yale University in 1893. He has served two terms in the lower house of the New Jersey Legislature. He has been twice married, and is engaged in the real estate business.

Mr. Hammond holds the post of Republican National Committeeman of New Jersey, and is a member of ten clubs, eight of which are in New York. There are those who feel that Mr. Hammond's career does not justify the appointment to one of the more important diplomatic posts. This judgment is scarcely justified in view of the fact that those having charge of such appointment could hardly afford to choose inefficient men for such places.

Valuing Reputations.—

We have always heard, and have accepted the fact too, that a reputation is worth real money. The recent purchase of the Chicago Daily News for fourteen million dollars proves this fact. There was no real estate involved in the transaction, and the mechanical equipment is worth very little of that sum. It was the good will which the paper has built up that the syndicate purchaser paid for. A ten million dollar offer for the good will of the New York Sun is being considered by the Frank A. Munsey estate. Several other papers have been estimating the value of their reputation, some of the values set are: The Detroit Free Press is estimated at twelve million dollars, The New York Journal at twenty million, and the reputation of the Saturday Evening Post and Country Gentleman is valued at one hundred million dollars. These figures show in a concrete way what a good name is worth, and bears out the old proverb that a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches.

An Estimation.—

Two men have died recently who had in their life times amassed vast fortunes. Of these two men, James B. Duke, and Frank A. Munsey there has been much discussion as to their success. There is no question that they made money, but were they genuinely successful men? Mr. B. C. Forbes in Forbes Magazine, a great business journal, says frankly that he did not think Duke was. William Allen White, author and editor of the Emporia Gazette estimates Munsey so; "Frank Munsey, the great publisher is dead. Frank Munsey contributed to the journalism of his day the talent of a meat packer, the morals of a money changer, and the manners of an undertaker. He and his kind have about succeeded in changing a once noble profession into an eight per cent security. May he rest in trust." That is what one man thinks, but against that estimate stands the fact that Munsey left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art the bulk of his fortune to be used in educating and delighting the great picture loving public of America, and after all can we say that the estimate is exactly fair?

A Church for Penitentiary.—

Rev. T. O. Reed, Chaplain of the Ohio Penitentiary where O. Henry spent some four years and learned how to write short-stories, has perfected plans for the organization of a nondenominational church within the walls of that institution. The church will receive members just as other churches do, and upon release of a prisoner he will be given a letter of transfer to the church of his choice. A board of trustees has been elected to manage the church, limited only by the rules of the institution. The plan has been approved by Warden P. E. Thomas and Governor Donohy. This is another feature of the much discussed reforms in the Ohio Penitentiary. Sometime ago we told of the school being conducted in this same penitentiary under the direction of Chaplain Reed who has a vision which may revolutionize prison life, and greatly ameliorate its hardships, and so fulfil the mission of a penitentiary which is not to punish, but to reform men.

Necrology.—

1925 brought great loss to America. Among the outstanding men who were claimed by death are Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, President of the University of Michigan, Mebill McCormick, U. S. Senator from Illinois; Bishop William A. Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Elwood Haynes, inventor of the first American automobile; Miss Amy Lowell, poet and critic; Lieut. General Nelson A. Miles, Dr. Ernest De W. Burton, President of the University of Chicago; Thomas R. Marshall, former Vice-President of the United States; Warren S. Stone, President of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Robert M. LaFollette; U. S. Senator from Wisconsin; William Jennings Bryan, Lecturer and former Secretary of State; John Temple Graves, editor and lecturer; Victor F. Lawson, editor of the Chicago Daily News; Samuel M. Ralston, U. S. Senator from Indiana; Theodore Presser, Publisher of the Etude; These men leave great gaps to be filled in the national life. They challenge younger men to higher endeavor, and to preparation, for in the coming years other leaders will drop in the ranks, and some one else must fill each vacant place, for life must move steadily on.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Well we must face the facts of Mission Month with courageous hearts and self-denial, or face a calamity.

Ask your neighbor and friend to give you a subscription to your church paper that others may know where he stands.

Bandage this fact on your forehead: No man will ever attain success and remain a success long until he makes a special study of his own faults and then fixes them.—Selected.

Will you, Mr. Pastor, set yourself the task to get the full name and address of every member of your churches? You should know each member of your flock by name; the Good Shepherd calls "His own sheep by name."

Only one, or two of the Regional Conventions of the Christian church, seem to be functioning. What a pity that the other Conventions cannot be led or encouraged to assume their places in the great church of this age.

Some pastors and churches are going to reap a glorious harvest from Mission Month. These are those who, through prayer and the practice of self-denial will carry their hearts and their zeal into the task before them.

The Southern Christian Convention will meet at Durham, N. C., April 27th. Less than three months now remain to get reports and programs shaped up. This convention should set the stakes large and strengthen the cords.

The International Council of Religious Education will be held at Birmingham, Ala., April 12-19, 1926. The number of delegates is placed at 7,500. The Christian church is entitled to 100. Write Dr. W. A. Harper, Elon college, N. C.

Shall we raise $25,000 from 30,000 Christians with which to help give the Gospel to those who have it not? Or shall we be indifferent and curtail and cripple the work already begun? Our Mission Secretary declares we will have to face the issue, or the Board will have to meet and curtail the meager work we are even now trying to do.

On this day give me a mind unafraid to travel, even though the way is not clear. Give me the ambition of the untiring sea, an understanding heart, a sense of humor, a few moments for silent meditation, plenty of problems to test my pluck, the patience to wait for greater prosperity, and the wisdom to know when it arrives.—Selected.

The Managing Editor hopes it will be the pleasure of every subscriber to THE SUN, who has not sent in his renewal to do so within the present month; and if in arrears to bring the dating of his label up to date. Remember the Southern Christian Convention meets soon, and the managing editor would be glad to make a good report.

Doubtless there is a feeling among some fluent writers that all they have to do is to send in a carbon copy of their articles, and the editor will be overjoyed to inflict the readers of his magazine with their effusions. THE SUN is glad to receive articles of intrinsic worth. It is however, concerned in serving its constituency. To impart to its readers information concerning the various departments of church work is its prime object; and articles, though not classed in the best of the King's English, if they have soul and spirit and uplift in them, will be given a place.

All our churches in the Eastern Virginia Conference are to observe February as Mission Month. Properly observed the period will not be a burden, but a blessing; not a task to be dreaded but a benefit to be coveted. We hold our revivals to bless and benefit others who have never had a revival, and know nothing of Him, who alone can revive and redeem.

A minister of another denomination writing to THE SUN speaks as follows: "Inclosed you will find check for which send me THE SUN. I like to read the paper. You are getting out a paper that is a credit to your church and denomination. I know several of your ministers, as my mother was a member of the Christian Church. I feel interested in what is going on in your church"

That was a beautiful, and affectionate tribute Rev. J. G. Truitt paid to the memory of Mrs. Hannah Newman—mother of N. G., J. U., and C. E. Newman, Mrs. W. C. Wicker, and Mrs. L. N. Stagg. Truly she was a mother of ministers, and her influence will be living on in the world when the makers of millions of money will have been forgotten.

What would some of our Sunday Schools say if they were asked to give to the spread of the Gospel all that they raised in the school? Well now, that is exactly what all the schools in one denomination do. What results? In 1922 they gave $1,164,646.46, and every penny was used for mission purposes. Now what do you think of that? Those Sunday schools gave something because they had something to give to.

Rev. J. G. Truitt issues a weekly program to his church, which besides having a program, carries items of interest. "We are trying to make the morning and evening services worthy of a full house, alert minds, and worshipful hearts. 'Come thou with us and we will do thee good.' This church is your church, wherever you live, whatever you do, whenever you will, this church is yours. Feel welcome, come often, and make suggestions."

Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., Evangelist of the N. C. Conference is to begin a meeting with Rev. G. O. Lankford in Burlington, Christian Church, Sunday April 4th. Bro. Caviness has proven himself an exceedingly successful and acceptable evangelist, and has been remarkably blessed in all his meetings in our churches thus far. Other churches desiring to secure Bro. Caviness this year should write him at an early date as he is an evangelist much in demand.

Three Sunday Schools heretofore not doing so began the new year right, by deciding to give one offering a month to missions, Ether and Mt. Pleasant in the Western N. C. Conference, and the First Church of Norfolk (though the last named, had been giving regularly to missions through another channel) and all have sent in their January offering. We are hoping 1926 will witness every school in the Convention giving at least one offering a month to missions. Many schools in one denomination give their entire offering to missions, the church furnishing the literature and local expenses.

As we go to press, we learn with sorrow of the almost total destruction of the Grove Avenue Baptist Church of this city. This is the second time that this congregation has lost its edifice through fire. The loss is set at about $125,000.00, which is to a large extent covered by insurance. Members of the Christian Church know well Rev. Len G. Broughton, a former Raleigh man and a son of the Christian Church, who was for several years pastor here.

Writers on economics tell us that the surest index of a people's wealth is in their savings bank accounts. In 1912, according to statistics recently published, North Carolina had in savings banks $35,390,000. Thirteen years later, 1925, she had $142,282,000, on savings deposits. And yet this State ranks low, we are told, in the same publication, in comparison with other Southern States. In 1912 there were in savings banks $480,611,000. In 1925 there were $1,761,734,000. If people of the South would give to benevolence and the Kingdom of God, with a ratio equal to the bounty and a benevolence with which the Lord is prospering them His Kingdom would not be a begging and a needy one. Our prosperity and not our poverty is our greatest menace.

From Greensboro Daily News, January 30th:

"At a meeting held last night in the Jefferson cafe, the Elon Alumni club, of Greensboro, was formed and officers elected. Those chosen to head the organization were L. E. Klutz, president; Willie Stoner, vice-president; Miss Margaret Rowland, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Dr. C. H. Rowland, pastor of the First Christian Church of Greensboro. During the course of the evening talks were made by many of the former students, including H. C. Simpson, who was the first student to register at the Christian college, Charles A. Hines, well known attorney of Greensboro, and other students. Lawrence Berrier was chosen to head the publicity work of the club.

"The principal address of the evening was made by Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College." An extended report of President Harper's able address followed in The News.

THE CALL OF THE FIRE.

Three years ago the greatest financial disaster of the Christian Church, in the South, came in the loss of the Administration Building of Elon College. A few hours' fire laid waste the toil and sacrifices of years. The Board of Trustees met and decided to build a greater Elon on the ruins of the old. Their ideals have been realized in one of the most beautiful and most complete small college plants in America. Five commodious buildings have been erected and the campus beautified and enclosed by a wall.

Owing to outstanding pledges on Standardization and Men and Millions, no canvass of the churches was made for the rebuilding fund and with the exception of a free will offering taken in a number of churches on College Day following the fire, no appeal has been made to the churches until this fiscal year.

The time has come when a call to the churches is imperative. Elon College must have $48,000 this year to meet payments on bills incurred in the rebuilding program, interest on deferred payments and to meet the requirements of the state for a standard college by paying the interest on her bonded indebtedness.

This is our first call on the churches and it is "The call of the fire."

Make your checks payable to Elon College, and mail them to the undersigned.

W. T. WALTERS,
Field Secretary.

Burlington, N. C.

BIRMINGHAM CONVENTION.

The Christian Church has been assigned one hundred delegates for the Birmingham, Alabama, Sunday School Convention. The convention assembles from April 12th to 19th. The registration fee is $3.50. I am very anxious that our church shall have its full quota of delegates and am prepared to issue credentials entitling to all convention privileges and to the rate for reduced railroad fare to any who will send their applications to me at once.

We are also assigned a quota of twenty-five young people. The young people's registration fee for the 16th, 17th, and 18th is $1.50, but by paying $3.50 they can attend the entire convention. I hope we shall have quite a number of young people attending this convention and I shall be glad for them to send me their registration fees.

We are expecting a particular hotel to be designated for our church as headquarters, but at this writing we do not know the name of this hotel. However, we will arrange for our people to go to the same place.

W. A. HARPER, President Board of Christian Education.

AN ILLUSTRATION.

A favorite illustration with which the late Hon. W. J. Bryan delighted to confront those who doubted the creative power of God was the luscious watermelon of the Southland. In brief it follows:

"I was eating a piece of watermelon some years ago, and was struck with its beauty. I took some of the seeds and dried them and weighed them. I found that it would require some five thousand seeds to weigh a pound; and then I applied mathematics to that forty-pound melon. One of these seeds put into the ground, when warmed by the sun and moistened by the rain, takes off its coat and gets to work. It gathers from somewhere two hundred thousand times its own weight, and then forcing this raw material through a tiny stem, constructs a watermelon. It ornaments the outside with a covering of green; inside the green it puts a layer of white, and within the white a core of red, and all through the red it scatters seeds, each capable of continuing the work of reproduction. What architect drew the plan? Where does the little seed get its tremendous power? Where does it find its coloring matter? How does it build a watermelon? Until you can explain a watermelon, do not be too sure that you can set limits to the power of the Almighty and say what He would do or how He would do it. Everything that lives, in like manner, mocks by its beauty and power, the proud intellect of presumptuous man."—Selected.

LET THEM KNOW IT.

When John Sylvester Horne was once asked how he got hold of so many men he sentimentally answered: "Have a good thing and let them know it." By living the Gospel ourselves we best advertise its worth to others. In one way or another, by lip or by life, by word or by work, the professor of Christ's religion ought to make it known to his fellowmen, so that if, notwithstanding all that may be said in its favor, they reject it, they will be without excuse. We are not responsible for the results, but for the character of our work: for its aim, spirit and methods. We should get the best, and then let our friends, neighbors and chance visitors know that they may (if they will) come and share it.—Zion's Herald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter .15
3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter .06
4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter .05
Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter .07
3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES. Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools. $5c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold. $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPEL
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

HERE ARE SOME FACTS.

One wonders what THE SUN readers will think, and say, about these facts? Just read them. They sound like fiction, but are authentic. In 1872 the Seventh Day Adventists numbered 4,800. Then something happened. That denomination decided seriously to accept the challenge of our Lord "Go ye into all the world and make disciples of all the nations." In 1874 their first foreign missionary went out. In 1925 this denomination numbered 248,000. An increase of 60 fold almost, in 43 years. There is a reason. This denomination had the sense to see where its prospects and possibilities were. They began to plant and carry on Sabbath schools.

Today the Sabbath Schools of this denomination belt the globe and have an enrollment of 274,000 actually more in their Sabbath Schools than in their denomination. But look. This reads like romance and should teach us Christians something, if we are teachable. "Up until 1887" says the report of Sabbath Schools, "The offering was small and intermittent. Then a more regular plan of giving was adopted, and in that year more than $10,000 was contributed from about 850 schools. At this time, and continuing until 1903, a part or all of the local expense incurred through the conduct of the schools was paid from the offerings; but at that time a resolution was passed "that Sabbath school contributions be not used for local church or (Sabbath) school expenses," and in ten years the plan was universally adopted.

Naturally, as the schools increased, the offerings grew. Between the years 1887 and 1911 they gave a million dollars. The next million dollars was raised in a little over three years; and in 1922 alone they gave $1,164,646.46, or an amount equal to $5.58 for each believer in the world. Since 1913 every penny of the contributions has been used for mission purposes.

Now what do people in our Christian Sabbath schools, and churches, think of that? Notice three things: (1) In one year, 1922, the Sabbath schools gave more than a million dollars. (2) Not a penny of this went to pay local expenses. (3) All of it went to Missions. Here indeed is a denomination that is playing fair and square with its young people. It does not make them think they are giving when they are not. We Christians teach the children in our Sunday schools that they are giving to the Lord when we take the money they have given and use it to buy something for them, namely, the literature they use in the schools.

Here is a denomination with an actual program for its schools—the same program our Lord adopted "Go ye into all the world, and preach."

Now see what happens, and here is something that seems impossible and incredible. He read it from their report. "Each year the denomination sends more than one hundred missionaries to foreign fields. But these are not enough to fill the calls coming to the Mission Board." Well now, what is that. Think of this small denomination sending out four times as many Missionaries each year as our whole Christian denomination combined has sent out in all its history. May God teach us and give us wisdom and have mercy on us.

J. O. A.

DURHAM GETS THE CONVENTION.

As has been printed in THE SUN, the next session of the Southern Christian Convention is to be held with the Christian Church, Durham, N. C. The time of meeting is Tuesday before the first Sunday of May, 1926, which this year falls on April 27th. The SUN's editor has been advised that the meeting will begin with an evening session, though an official announcement may be expected from the President, Dr. L. E. Smith. Our Durham Church under the fine leadership of Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, may be counted on to care for the Convention to the limit of its needs and desires.

It is to be an important session and will mark an epoch in our Church history. Issues will be brought up and discussed of the gravest moment and consequences.

We presented last week in these columns a report from the Special Finance Committee, which will need full discussion and the wisdom of the combined church. Other issues equally as grave will be in question. Durham is accessible and pastors and delegates, where ever located, should begin to plan for this Convention, and give it the best of their wisdom and devotion.

THE SUN's columns will be open from now till the time for the Convention to meet to present and discuss items that should be considered by the Convention. This suggestion is made because all issues of far reaching concerns should be discussed and considered before the day of the opening session, and there is no better plan for the discussion and consideration than the columns of THE SUN.

When this is said be it understood that only issues of Church wide importance will be admitted and discussed, and not matters of personal or local concern, since the Convention deals in a general and specific way with all the Conferences, Institutions, and Enterprises of the Southern portion of our work.

The Convention owns, directs and undertakes to support our Missionary enterprise, Elon College, Bethlehem College, The Christian Orphanage, The Christian Sun, and "Principles and Government of the Church" and seeks to plan and outline the work of the several conferences composing the Convention. In addition to the Convention, though a part of it, the women will also meet, at hours to be designated by them, in financial session of the Woman's Missionary Convention.

J. O. A.

WHAT THEY SAY OF MISSION MONTH.

If Mission Month is not successful and the full amount of the $25,000 Emergency Mission Fund is not raised during February and March the fault will certainly not be from any lack of interest on the part of our pastors. Practically all have written the Mission Secretary that they will do their best, and are planning and praying for success. We cannot begin to quote all that is written but a sentence or two from some will suggest: Rev. H. M. Gray, Lanette, Ala. "I will observe Mission Month, the Month of March, as voted by our Conference, and will put it on in both of my churches and do my best. Send me literature so I can get ready for the work."

Rev. F. D. Ballard, Elon College, N. C.: "I think the plan of Mission Month is a wise one, and one that meets my heart approval. It is my purpose to observe Mission Month as designated by the annual Conference: to preach on Missions and emphasize the importance of Missions, and necessity of Missions if we are to carry out God's command. I am hoping and praying that this will be a successful year in the work of God's Kingdom, and especially profitable one in the field of Missions. I will be glad to cooperate in every way possible. Besides preaching on Missions, I plan to have one of my Deacons or someone else talk on Missions every Sunday in March."

Rev. J. F. Apple, Elon College, N. C.: It is my plan and purpose to observe Mission Month. I am planning to preach on Missions, and to get others to make talks along that line."

Rev. J. E. Amason, Newell, Ala.: "I am much pleased that the Church has set March for Mission Month, and hope for success in observing the same. I will do what I can to make it go. I wish Mission Month much success."

Rev. J. M. Allred, Asheboro, N. C.: "We will do our best to follow the spirit of our Lord, and preach as He may direct, but we can not fail to be Missionary so we will do our best in observing Mission Month. Paul was a Missionary and did his greatest work as such. We should be Missionary in spirit if we mean to accomplish anything in the name of our Lord. I am hoping all my Churches will observe Mission Month, and will do every thing I can."

Rev. P. H. Fleming, D. D., Burlington, N. C.: "Will observe Mission Month in my Churches." Mission Secretary was with Dr. Fleming at Union Sunday, Jan. 24th, and preparations are being made to observe March as Mission Month.

Dr. W. C. Wicker, Elon College, N. C.: "It is my purpose to request Churches under my pastoral charge at their first quarterly Conference to arrange to observe Mission Month and take a free will offering. I suggest that you write to the Secretary of my Churches and send literature. I will announce the service and explain the nature of the offering at my appointment, both in January and February."

So far as I know every pastor of the Convention will observe the month and do his best to make it successful in his churches. Are we praying that Mission Month year will mark an epoch in our church history? It is the beginning of a better, bigger day for the Church and the Kingdom.

J. O. A.

SELF-DENIAL.

Self-denial is fundamental to human nature. It is a necessity, if human nature is to have wholesome development. When our Saviour said (in Luke 9:23) "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily," He was saying that which is essential. Self-indulgence begets self-dissatisfaction; self-denial begets self-mastery. No man ever masters himself till he learns and practices the art of self-denial.

This is no doubt the reason why such mighty responsibilities, and heavy obligations, are placed upon Christians. They think they are called upon for many and varied causes and claims in the name of the Lord. But did not the dear Lord choose this way of carrying on His work in the world that He might school His children in the fine art and fundamental virtue of self-denial?

When our Saviour had conquered His last foe Death, and realized that all power was His, He commissioned men and women, not angels and arch-angels, to undertake the stupendous task of carrying the Gospel to all the earth. He knew this would entail hardships, trial, tribulations and piles and millions of money. Still He chose this way. Was it to impoverish or unduly burden men and women? Nay, verily. It was to teach them the fine art and holy culture of self-denial.

We are called upon to take our last dime or dollar some time and give it to help send the Gospel. We will be called upon, possibly every SUN reader, will be urged, within the next few weeks to make some self-denial for Gospel's sake. If we hear and heed this call we will not be poorer, but richer; God is facing us with the high privilege and the fine discipline, of self-denial. Only as men and women practice self-denial do they learn self-mastery. We stand master of ourselves only as we learn and practice self-denial. Self-denial in order to give the bread of life to those who have it not is a great and worthwhile good.

In this wise do we enter into fellowship with God through Christ our Lord. He gave all. He declined a crown and the empires of the world, as well as the applause of men, and chose a cross. He did deny Himself. He gave His very life that He might take it up again.

If we deny ourselves for His sake we enter into sweet communion with Him. This is why we are called upon for self-denial during Mission Month—that we Christians may have a sweeter fellowship and closer communion with our Lord.

Every one should count the privilege of self-denial for the Gospel's sake that thereby all may have a more intimate association with Him, who is the Light of our life and Savior of all who deny themselves, take up their cross and follow Him.

J. O. A.

PREPARATION AND PLANS FOR MISSION MONTH.

The envelopes for all Churches, and Sunday Schools, and Societies to use in Mission Month, have been sent to church secretaries. It is desired that these envelopes be used, every one of them. If we are to raise $25,000 all must have a part in the giving, and each should be supplied with an envelope.

Before another issue of THE SUN, Mission Month, will have begun in our Eastern Virginia Conference. This is our strongest Conference financially. If Eastern Virginia does, as she always has, this will inspire and encourage other Conferences that follow in March.

A committee in every church, preferably of young people, to place an envelope in the hands of every one who should have one, is desirable and should be appointed. Surely no pastor will try to distribute the envelopes and take the offering at the same appointment or on the same day. The envelopes should be given out at one appointment and the offering taken at the next. Every one receiving an envelope should take time to think, consider, and pray over the matter, and urged to do his or her best for the Lord's cause. Some pastors are taking the month for Missions—four Sundays, and services intervening. One pastor, unable to do this, is taking a whole week—every night of the week for a service in which to teach Missions to his people and plan for the offering. Other pastors—numbers of them—are asking their people to practice self-denial of something greatly needed or desired, and put the value of the object desired in the Missionary envelope.

Many Sunday School Superintendents and presidents of Endeavor and Missionary Societies are asking by prayer to use their influence and help of their organizations to increase interest in the offering for Mission Month.

J. O. A.

POOR BURBANK.

This wizard of the plant world, the so-called sage of Santa Rosa, the man who has laid the human race under obligation by his marvellous successes in improving things of our gardens and fields, has become a victim of his own genius. So absorbed has Luther Burbank been in co-operating with God's laws that he has lost God in discovering those laws. Oftentimes men cannot see the forest for the trees nor a city for its houses. They become so absorbed in the details around them that they lose the sense of proportion. Under such circumstances wise men say and do foolish things. The great Luther Burbank has done this.

Last week this great scientist gave out an interview in which he declared there is no ground for belief in God and that religion is a mere superstition. What a pity! The poor fellow has experimented with potatoes, and corn, and melons, and flowers till he has lost the apprehension of spiritual things. Darwin had a similar experience. The fault is not with science that these men have ceased to appreciate the spiritual values of life. The fault is in their interpretations of science.

Those of us who have experienced God will go on profiting by the discoveries of Burbank in his laboratory, but we will regret that he is not able to profit by our discovery of God in the still greater laboratory of human life and experience. Our sympathy goes out to Burbank. We pity him. He is losing the richest, rarest, holiest privilege we humans can enjoy, the privilege of fellowship with God. And the joy and the strength we receive from that fellowship, how we wish our scientific friend could share it with us! Poor Burbank!

W. A. H.

"THE CHURCH IN A CHANGING WORLD." NO. III.

Much that has gone under the name of Christianity has been in fact nothing less than blasphemy. Some of the ceremonies and ritualism advocated in the name of Christ have been more pagan than Christian. Some of the forms and teachings have been actually unethical in that they have presented God as a monstrous criminal rather than as a loving Heavenly Father. Take one illustration. "In a certain city a minister of the Gospel was called to conduct a funeral service over the body of a six months old baby that had died from being poisoned because, from ignorance or carelessness, the mother failed to keep the nursing bottle sterilized. With these facts in mind,—that the baby was poisoned by feeding from its nursing bottle which the mother confessed "perhaps hadn't been washed for several days," the minister sought to give the bereaved mother the Christian consolation by saying that "God in his infinite wisdom had seen fit to take that innocent baby's life. God wanted it to live. Not God, but the ignorance or carelessness of the mother cost the baby its life.

God has been getting the blame for thousands upon thousands of deaths, simply that consolation might be given to those in sorrow. In many cases death is not due to God's will at all, but to the landlord's greed, the parent's ignorance, or society's neglect. Three hundred thousand babies die every year from preventable diseases, we are told by the best medical authorities. The church today is being awakened to its responsibility along this line, and is realizing that Christianity is concerned with the conservation of life, as well as with the salvation of souls. People need to know the facts. There is something more important than comfort to the sorrowing. Enlightenment and education in caring for children; measures to protect the lives of children yet unborn and give them a fair chance in life, is of infinitely more concern than to comfort a bereaved parent by taking the responsibility off society's shoulders and putting it upon God, in cases where death is due to some preventable disease.

The city church today assumes that in promoting the work of mothers' clubs among the immigrant and less fortunate classes of society, in concerning itself with the amelioration of the various social maladjustments, it is doing a Christian service of the highest type, for like its Master it is going about doing good. These churches that are responding to the spirit of the new social conscience preach Christ as the only hope of the individual and of society. It is the Christ passion which impells them to this larger service for God and man.

Rural churches also are beginning to enlarge their program of service to the community. The church as the social center is radiating its redeeming influence in to every department of the community life. People are even coming to understand that there may be a significant relation between Christianity and "The good roads" propaganda. If good roads serve to increase the attendance at the church services and there by serve to enhance the interest of the community in the purpose and program of the church, certainly the church can well concern itself in promoting good roads. Most rural churches that attempt to hold their revival meetings during the winter months when in some sections of the country the roads often become impassable and the meetings forced to close because the people cannot attend, appreciate the significance of the good roads proposition. Though the progressive rural church is readjusting itself to this larger program of community service, it does not cease to make the central and primary aim that of enthroning the spirit of the man of Galilee in the lives of the individual men and women. In the words of Professor Bailey, one of the leading Sociologists of our day, "The primary business of the rural church is not to teach men how to raise larger turnips, but to teach them how to live larger lives." The spiritual work of the church must ever be its chief concern. But the church in our day that fails to consider its opportunities of serving the social life of the community will soon lose its spiritual authority among the people it seeks to serve.

Moreover, there has been a decided readjustment taking place in the work of the church on the Foreign Mission field. Other vital readjustments are destined to follow. At one time anybody who felt called to be a missionary was gladly accepted by the Mission Boards and sent to the Foreign field. But today, as a rule, only young men and young women of college training are accepted. Formerly, the motive for foreign missions was to "prepare 'The heathen' to die." The fact that so many "heathens" were dying un-

Continued on page 9.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

"Alarm" seems to be the word that expresses the fear of many Christian people when they see or hear the word "Evolution." Connected with fear, when that word appears, is the danger that threatens the church; because they feel and think that evolution leaves out God. Then the "Virgin Birth" question increases the danger to Christianity. The purpose of those who claim to be scientists, and those who believe in science, and know little about it, may have the idea that evolution originated in nothing at all, and an All-Wise God, existing from eternity past to eternity future, does not exist, but when I see a watch, an automobile, or a steam engine I conclude at once that it had a creator, and that creator was intelligent, had a purpose in the creation, and that it could not create itself; but this homespun letter does not claim to undertake to do more than to try to hearten those who fear that Christianity and God will be put out of this good world and that science will rule mankind. Science itself is the product of Christianity. History of science proves that. The atheistic scientist reminds one of a son, whose father grew rich by dint of a life of honest effort and prudent living, and then he becomes so important as to ignore the type of man his father represented. His father's ideas are old foggy, out-of-date. Science may ignore its parentage.

Now for a few ideas to quiet the children of God, the members of the church, the followers of Jesus Christ. There is no danger. God is on the throne; not only His throne in Heaven, but on the throne of this world; and science is a puny rebel, so far as it ignores God. Let us see.

The United States recognizes God in many ways. On the coin, which is the basis of all money and all business, there is this "In God We Trust." When the President of the United States takes the oath of office at his inauguration, he places his right hand on the Bible and says: "so help me God." Every official in the nation, and every witness in every court does the same thing. How does a big scientist in a big university, paid by taxes from the citizens, look beside the power and faith of the republic? The Bible upon which the oath of office is taken is printed in more languages, sold in larger numbers, and read in more languages than any other book. It is printed in 770 languages. The whole Bible in 158 languages: New Testament in 142; in parts, one book 422; in chapters and verses 48. The word of science cannot shake the word of God. The Jewish church, the Roman Catholic church, and all Protestantism, accept the Bible as the word of God. True science simply interprets what God has written in nature, and it is as true as the Bible, but it could not work at all, were it not for the image of God in man. Even Mohammedanism believes in God. Belief in God is inherent in mankind. All races, all nations, believe; but the Christian nations know more of God through His word. Science will have to overcome Christian nations, Christian literature, Christian institutions, Christian business, Christian life itself, before it can shake the inherent faith, the confirmed faith, the professed faith, of the millions who "Know Him and the power of His resurrection." One of Aesops fables, which I read in Latin when a boy, illustrates what I am trying to write. A gnat lit on the horn of an ox, and while sitting there, said to the ox: "If I am a burden to you, I will fly away." The ox replied: "I did not even know you were sitting there." Christianity does not even know that skeptical science is there.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Those who have read the history of human development know that as the sacer writer puts it, there is nothing new under the sun. New interpretations appear, but the concepts underlying are the same. There is not an issue before us today that is not age-old, not in the sense that in its present form it has been faced in succeeding generations, but in the sense that it was faced by them in different form.

It would oftentimes help our thinking to be aware of this fact and it would certainly allay the fears that burden many of us for the future to keep in mind this tendency of human problems to recur.

A good man told me the other day that he dreaded to send his children to college, because he would rather have his children ignorant than unbelievers. He had an idea that education and salvation are opposed to each other. We talked for some time and I hope I satisfied him.

I explained to him what I have tried several times to make clear in the Elon Letter, and elsewhere, that there certainly cannot be any conflict between science and religion, that God made the world that science seeks to explain and understand, and likewise, our human life, the chief interest of which is religion. God would certainly not be inconsistent with Himself. But He would have to be if religion and science conflict.

What we need is a salvation that educates and an education that saves. That is our problem. It is no new problem. It has recurred in every generation of human life. It will continue to recur. Why? Because the knowledge of science, of the world, advances on the one hand, and there is constant need for readjustment.

There is urgent need of such readjustment today. Men cannot live in a scientific world six days in the week and in a spiritual world on Sunday. We must be spiritual beings all the time. Our spirits are our vital parts. But we are in the world and God has commanded us to subdue it. It must never subdue us. So we need an education that will minister to our spiritual life, and a spiritual life that can utilize all the knowledge we can secure relative to God's world for the upbuilding of God's Kingdom and the happiness of the human heart. Or as Joseph Fort Newton has epigrammatically said "We need a salvation that educates and an education that saves." And mankind has always had this need. And it always will have it, world without end.

W. A. HARPER.

JESUS' TEACHING.

"The teachings of Jesus were not to destroy but to fulfill."

Moses was the legislator of deeds, Jesus of the soul. Moses prohibited murder, Jesus, hatred itself. Moses, adultery; Jesus, even an impure thought. Moses reconciled masters and slaves, Jesus desired that there shall only be brothers. Moses established the worship and prestige of the temple, Jesus erects an altar in every heart. Jesus said to a sinner outside of the temple, "Woman, believe me, the hour cometh when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. But the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for the Father seeketh such to worship Him. God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

The greedy custodians of the law decided that the work of Jesus was not fulfilment, but subversion of the law. And who was it that brought the charges against Jesus of blasphemy and treason? They of whom he said, 'with exquisite irony and stinging rebuke, "Woe unto ye Scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites! Because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the Sepulchres of the righteous, and say, 'If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.' Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?"

Notice, Christ does not denounce the law, but the so-called lawyers, the domain of the Master's power is not for one nation, or people, but for humanity. He wrote no books, founded no political party, headed no religious faction, propounded no judicial system. Well did Lord Bacon say: "There is no other entrance to the Kingdom of Man, which is founded in the sciences, than to the Kingdom of God, into which no one can enter but in the character of a little child."

It was about April 2, A. D. 30, that Jesus entered Jerusalem amid the thousands of the multitudes. The trial before the Sanhedrin was on Friday, 15th Nisan. From the court of Caiaphas to that of Pilot, Christ was quickly taken. The Roman trial will be briefly noticed in the next paper.

D. A. L.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

BY REV. WM. S. CAMPBELL, D. D.,

Southern Secretary, the Lord's Day Alliance.

I have received a letter from a member of one of the large Christian churches of our country in regard to this subject. He writes:

"There are far too many of us so called 'Church Members' who fail to observe the Sabbath day as we should. The people are moving along entirely too fast to give the Sabbath enough Christian thought. Our people spend the Sabbath too much in riding over the country, joyriding, when they could be of great service to the Lord in visiting the sick and giving words of encouragement, and reading the Bible in our homes and to our children.

"Take my own case, personally. I am a member of a church here, and live only five blocks from it. I attended regularly until three months ago, when I was taken sick, and have been under the care of a doctor ever since, and I am still unable to attend church. Not a member of a large congregation of 400 people or more has ever been to see why I am absent, sick or dead. We have a fine Bible Class of 40 or 50 members, which I enjoyed very much. With all of this, I have gone along with my afflictions and suffering for over two months without one member coming to give me one word of comfort or encouragement. I have been wondering during my sickness, how it would do for those who claim to be Christians to take a little while on Sunday in looking up the sick members, having prayer and offering just a few words of encouragement. They would be happier, the world would be better, and the Lord would be pleased with such kind and noble acts.

"I am an old timer and believe in the old-time religion or none. It is the only kind that will take us to Heaven, and unless we observe the Sabbath day as the Lord intends that we should, we will never get there."

I wonder how many other people are having the same experiences. I also wonder how many will be willing to follow this writer's suggestion about the way for spending the Lord's Day.

I BELIEVE.

1. I believe the earth is the handiwork of God.
2. I believe man is made in the image of his Creator, and that in mental, moral and spiritual nature we have kinship with the Deity.
3. I believe Jesus of Nazareth is "the only begotten Son of the Father."
4. I believe Jesus was born of the Virgin Mary, that He lived, taught, died and was buried, rose again from the dead and ascended to Heaven, as the New Testament teaches.
5. I believe we may have salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord.
6. I believe man shall live beyond death according to the New Testament promises.
7. I believe Christ will come again and receive His own, that where He lives they may live also.
8. I believe God gave us the Bible, to teach us the way of life.
9. I believe the application of the teachings of Jesus to the affairs of men will bring justice and peace to the world.
10. I believe the Bible furnishes a practical rule for the life that now is, and a sure guide to the life that is to come.—E. S. ALLHANDS in The Christian Evangelist.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

Opening Thought: "Pray Ye Therefore."
Prayer and Missions: "Prayer and the Missionaries."
Aim: To show the place that prayer has always held in the life of missionaries.
Devotional Scripture: Luke 10: 1-11.
Prayer: A chain of prayers in which the women shall pray for the great mission fields and missionaries of the world.
Solo: "I'll go where you want me to go."
 1. My favorite prayer hero: Four women participate in this, giving the substance of the matter found in the text.

- a. Immanuel Wichern, pp, 108-115.
- b. Pastor Gossner, pp, 116-118.
- c. George Muller, pp, 118-126.
- d. Thomas Barnardo, pp, 127-131.

2. Discussion:
 - a. What importance would you give to prayer in the training of a missionary?
 - b. Do you know missionaries whose life is notable?
 - c. Why cannot our missionary Societies depend more on prayer? Do not our prayers lack definiteness and purpose? We need to pray by name for the missionaries, to hold before ourselves the definite goals we wish to reach in prayer.
 - d. What lesson ought Missionary Societies to learn from this chapter? What Individual Christians?
 - e. What supreme duty do we owe our Missionaries?
3. Have some member of your Society read the following poem.

SOMEBODY, SOMEWHERE.

"Somebody, somewhere,
 Is praying for me,
 Although it may be
 Afar o'er the sea.
 This thought like a star
 Shines over my way.
 Somebody, somewhere,
 Is praying today."
 "Somebody, somewhere,
 May not know my need,

Whispering Angels
 All praying hearts lead,
 And God who is love
 And knows all my ways,
 He answers the prayer
 Of someone who prays."

"Somebody, somewhere,
 May be far or near; One God over all
 Who cares for me here;
 And someone is true
 A loved one or friend,
 Somebody, somewhere,
 Will pray to the end."

"Someone is praying,
 And prayer is the key
 That opens up heaven's
 Rich storehouse for me.
 My faith must not fail,
 Though weak I may be,
 Somebody, somewhere,
 Is praying for me."

Arnold.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM.

Opening Thought: "What is the limit of that which prayer may accomplish?" "High Adventure." "Lonely Strangers in a New Land."

Discussion:

- a. What do you think has been the greatest gift of the Slavs to the world?
 - b. Why do people immigrate? Do you know what the present immigration law is?
 - c. What does Americanize mean? What kind of workmen does America need in order to have good citizens?
 - d. What does a good citizen know about his neighbor? What does the commandment "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," mean?
- Devotional Scripture:* Romans 10: 15.
Prayer: That our missionaries in the field may have health and courage for their tasks, and that other missionaries may be reared amongst us.

Special Music: "It Pays To Serve Jesus."
Roll Call: Dues collected.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Opening Thought: "Pray for all Missionary agencies."

High Adventures: "Two Adventurers who listened in."

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to understand that prayer is more than asking for things, and that if we really pray we must also listen to hear what God is saying to us.

Worship Period: For a Bible lesson call on members to repeat Bible verses.

Prayer: Leader.

Solo: "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Discussion Period: Have someone tell the story of "The Two Adventurers who Listened In."

- a. Were all of the radio messages in the air all the time, and nobody heard them, because no one knew how to listen in?
- b. When we pray to God should we do all the talking or should we listen sometimes to hear what He has to say to us?
- c. How does God speak to us?
- d. Do you think that Hans Egede and David Livingston learned Bible verses when they were boys and had them hidden away in their hearts?
- e. If you were going on a long trip and could take no baggage except one box, would you put your Bible in the box?
- f. Do you think the name of David Livingston and Hans Egede are worthy of a place on the Brave Adventurers Chart? Give the name of some Brave Adventurer of your own denomination, and pray for his or her work.

Roll Call: Dues paid.

Business:

Adjourn:

Send all dues and "Specials" to your conference treasurer.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
 - Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
 - Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St..

Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., *Field Secretary.*KEEPING YOUR CHURCH FINANCES
IN LINE.WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

It is always well to prevent any difficulties in church finances. There are certain recognized plans that should be followed by all churches. The church and its business methods should be an example and inspiration to the community. It is not always so. Many churches do not keep their financial records so that they can give information needed. There is a great need of better financial plans. The following suggestions are offered with a view of assistance:

1. It is well to keep all records by months and calendar quarters, say from October or January to January and so on. It is not well to break up weeks, months or quarters irregularly.

2. In making reports to conference always end your report with the close of a calendar quarter, and not with May, August or other odd months. It is better to close your report with March, June, September, or December regardless of when conference meets.

3. In making your Every-member canvass do it annually and as thoroughly as if you had never used it before. It should be made about two weeks before the new church year begins.

4. The canvass for both current expenses and benevolences should be made at the same time. A subscription should be secured from each person for each part of the budget separately. Do not make your benevolence budget as one item in your budget. One part of the budget should be as dignified as the other. Both should be on equal footing and be equally explained and emphasized. They are like the wings of a bird, both being essential. A church can no more succeed without them both than a bird can fly without both wings.

5. Always use the duplex (two pockets) envelopes with the full fifty-two envelopes, even though you do not have preaching every Sunday.

6. Fully inform every family about each item in both parts of the budget. After the budget is made out by the finance department (or committee) and pastor, it should be submitted to each family giving opportunity for amendment at a given service and let the people adopt. They are to pay it; let them help decide it after it has been recommended by the proper department.

7. Elect two treasurers; one who shall handle only benevolent funds.

8. Have a Financial Secretary who shall receive and credit all subscribers and properly turn funds to the respective treasurers, keeping proper record.

9. Pay all bills by check as may be ordered by the church or its official board. It is well to have the orders drawn by the Financial Secretary. Benevolent funds should be forwarded to their proper places monthly or quarterly.

10. Elect a church Auditor as a regular officer of the church. He should audit the books of all departments of the church annually, or oftener if directed.

11. As you approach the end of the church year at least make every reasonable effort to collect all unpaid subscriptions no matter how small or whether the church has special need for the funds. Primarily, the matter is not the need of the church, but the need of the subscriber to pay the subscription made, if he is able to pay it. If he is not able to pay let the church graciously close the account. The balance should be paid or forgiven. It is a serious matter to make a pledge to Christian work and not pay if one is able, and it is a serious matter for the church or organization not to make reasonable effort to collect all subscriptions where the subscribers are able to pay. Dr. Agar, head of the Stewardship work of the Baptist Church in his book "The Competent Church" speaks as follows on the above subject: "Can the church members say that they love the brethren when it is a common practice for the officers to accept a written pledge from a fellow member that involves the payment of money which the pledger could easily, but never does pay because it is well known that there is neither love nor courage enough among the officers to cause them to faithfully deal with such a man and secure the payment of his pledge? The officials virtually allow the pledger to commit spiritual suicide on all installment plans. Many a time the officers, when facing the situation, say: 'Oh well, let him alone. If you say anything to him he will get mad and cause trouble.' The trouble is already there in the heart and life of the false steward. It is just as surely there in the heart and life of the unloving, false officials."

JUST SOME PLAIN, PERSONAL FACTS.

How many Missionaries have gone from all our Southern Convention to live, to labor, and remain on the foreign field within the last fifty years? Just two. That's all. We have helped support others, but just two of our own have gone out for us. Yes, two others went for a season, but circumstances compelled them to return home. Just two. Why? Well look. There are in Porto Rico four Missionaries from all our Christian Church (I am not speaking now of the Southern Convention, but the whole General Convention.) There are ten in Japan. That's fourteen in all. We have five native preachers and workers in Porto Rico. We have eighteen in Japan. That's thirty-seven in all. Last year our total budget for the Gospel in all the world—in Porto Rico and in Japan—was $68,333.26. Of this amount, which was a necessity, only $54,342.64 was actually raised. Think of it—all of us of the Christian name and faith were just asked for $68,333.26, and of this amount we only gave $54,342.64. May God in Heaven pity us; have compassion on us.

And now for the year 1926 we are asked to raise $69,689.17. The work lags and suffers, and staggers beneath bank—indebtedness and borrowing to the limit. Is it any wonder we are hindered and God will not prosper us? We have crowded off into a corner the one big business of the Church—just fed it on the crumbs from the Church's beneficences. We are behind in paying salaries, we have had to curtail expenses and stop building and rent. And there are now a dozen men and women offering to go out for us and they can't go, because there is nothing to send them with, nor support them on when they do go. Do you wonder why God has not called more of our number to go? And do you wonder at our slow growth as a people? Well, God never has in all the ages prospered and blessed with growth, and power to mention, a non-missionary people. Why should He? He said "Go ye" and we do not obey. Has He ever yet prospered a disobedient people? Not for long at a time that there is any record of. And so we of the Southern Convention want God to remember and esteem us worthy of laying on our sons and daughters

His blessed Hand and saying to them, "Go ye out yonder where the need is greatest and the gospel is not heard."

Shall we obey or disobey our Lord? That's all. By self-denial we can obey and receive the blessing. By continued self-indulgence we can disobey and go empty handed into the presence of our Lord. God help us.

J. O. ATKINSON.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERING FOR JANUARY.

Wakefield, Va., $2.85; Waverly, Va., $6.32; Winchester, Va., $6.99; Citizen's Bible Class, Elon College, $6.00; Windsor, Va., $35.76; Raleigh, N. C., $2.50; Berea (Nans) Driver, Va., $6.50; So. Norfolk, Va., $5.53; Linville, Harrisonburg, Va., $4.08; Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va., $3.80; New Elam, New Hill, N. C., $3.52; Rock Stand, Roanoke, Ala., $3.44; Union (Surry), Dendron, Va., $2.03; Holy Neck, Va., $16.00; Randleman, N. C., $3.25; Liberty, N. C., $1.00; Wake Chapel, N. C., $5.00; Ocean View, Va., $2.03; Wentworth, N. C., $2.85; First Church, Greensboro, N. C., $16.65; Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va., $4.41; Webster Community Christian S. S., Harve de Grace, Md., $4.94; Elon Community Church, $2.50; Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga., $1.41; Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C., $4.76; Hopedale, Burlington, N. C., R-5, $2.30; High Point, N. C., $12.50; Bethlehem (Nans), Suffolk, Va., $1.77; Pleasant Hill, (a) Liberty, N. C., $1.11; Liberty Vance, Henderson, N. C., $4.65; Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C., $1.05; Leaksville, Va., $2.81; North Highlands, Columbus, Ga., $1.63; Randleman, N. C., $2.00; First Church Portsmouth, Va., $20.70; Durham, N. C., $14.67; First Church Norfolk, $7.12; Ether, N. C., $1.54; Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va., $2.9; Suffolk, Va., $12.50; Palm St., Greensboro, N. C., $4.20; Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C., $1.25; Mt. Pleasant, N. C., $3.00; Ramseur, N. C., $5.85; Holland, Va., $10.00; Lebanon, Semora, N. C., $6.00; Wadley, Ala., $1.39; Burlington, N. C., $2.58.

Total S.S. collections for month of January, $262.75.

We are profoundly grateful to the schools named for their liberal offering and to the other schools which contribute monthly to Missions. It is a joy to report that three schools not heretofore making the monthly offering, are included in the above. These schools began the new year right, and we trust that every school in the Southern Convention will be listed before the year 1926 ends.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

January 30, 1926.

JANUARY COLLECTIONS FOR MISSIONS.

Jan. 2	Mrs. T. F. Roquemore, Lanette, Ala..	$ 2.00
" 4	Mrs. Eugene York, Ramseur, N. C..	1.00
" 5	Mrs. W. L. Osborne, Lanette, Ala..	5.00
" 6	J. M. Etheridge, Columbus, Ga.....	3.00
" 9	Miss Stella Sharpe, Mayodan, N. C..	10.00
" 14	Miss Mary Pickering, Washington..	5.00
" 14	J. F. Hilliard, Norlina, N. C.....	1.00
" 14	Richland (Ga.) Sunday School.....	2.67
" 18	Mrs. M. F. York, Ramseur, N. C....	1.00
" 15	A Friend	3.00
" 20	W. J. Benson, Dover, Del.	10.00
" 20	Mrs. C. T. Pruden, Chuckatuck, Va..	4.00
" 21	Miss Nannie B. Farmer, Rocky Mt..	5.00
" 26	W. M. Goodwin, New Hill, N. C....	5.00
" 29	Citizens' Bible Class, Elon College..	6.23
" 30	J. F. Hilliard, Norlina, N. C.	1.00

Total Emergency Fund$ 64.90
Regular Sunday School Fund 262.75

Specials from Sunday Schools	97.58
Mountain Work	6.56
Rocky Ford Building Fund	20.00
Collections on Pledges	53.50

Total Collections for January$ 505.29

Check to R. W. Malone, Treasurer$ 505.29

We are profoundly grateful to each and all who contributed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.
Elon College, N. C.
January 30, 1926.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

Report of Treasurer of the Woman's Mission Board of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference for the quarter ending January 15, 1926.

Women's Missionary Societies.

Winchester, Dues	$ 10.30
Winchester, Thank Offering	30.57
Leaksville, Dues	5.70
Leaksville, Thank Offering	10.00
Linville, Dues	5.00
Linville, Thank Offering	13.50

Young People's Societies.

Winchester, Dues	$ 1.35
Timber Ridge, Dues	4.10
Timber Ridge, Extras	1.97
Antioch, Dues	1.75
Antioch, Thank Offering	7.74

Total$ 91.98

Nov. 28, 1925.—Paid Dr. W. P. Minton $14.89 on expenses from collection at One Day School of Missions held at Mt. Olivet (R) Church.

Nov. 30, 1925.—Paid Dr. W. P. Minton $60.00 from Young People's Missionary Society of the Antioch Church to go to one of the outposts.

MRS. R. A. LARRICK,
Treasurer.

ROCKY FORD PEOPLE
CARROLL CO., VA.

On October 8, 1925. I left my home near Nathalie, Halifax Co., Va., for Rocky Ford, Carroll, Co., Va. Our train left South Boston at 2:30 for Greensboro at which place I changed for Mt. Airy and was met by Mr. Sorrell and Miss Morey.

Since the beginning of our work in the mountains I had felt a deep interest in the same, and ever since Miss Morey visited our church in April, 1923, I had deeper interest. The mountains were beautiful at this season of the year yet I could but feel a little uneasy as the road wound in and around the mountains.

We reached Rocky Ford about noon where the workmen and patrons were still at work on the building. The men were kind, friendly and courteous. I went on up "on top" (as they call it here) and spent the night with Miss Morey and Mr. and Mrs. Sorrell, coming down the next morning, to begin school in an unfinished building with workmen hammering continually. The building was not finished for two weeks after school began.

I opened school with 16 present and Tuesday Miss Morey came down and took charge of a room, as the school had increased from 16 to 30, and has continued to increase until we have enrolled more than 50, and my room is crowded almost beyond capacity.

We had no desks or school-room equipment of any kind for at least a month or more; yet under these hindrances both parents and pupils seemed to be happy and grateful. Naturally the teacher caught some of this spirit and this helped to make the work a pleasure even under extreme inconveniences.

But now we have our school rooms furnished and no one can know how grateful we are. We hope that those who contributed to the same may receive a great blessing and full joy for giving to such great and worthy cause.

The children are kind, obedient and appreciative. I have never worked with such agreeable and eager and willing children. All they need is a chance. Some of them have to come a long way to school, but they are in place almost every day and seem to be happy.

We had a Christmas exercise and a beautiful Christmas tree. We are so grateful for the nice things that were sent in by our churches for the children.

The people enjoyed the exercise and the tree as much as the children did, and all went home happy.

We have a good live Sunday School, and most of our day pupils attend Sunday School and church services. Mr. Payne has just started a singing school, which will, we hope, greatly benefit our day school, and church services.

I am glad I came here, though I think often of the folks back home and all that I left there.

I love the people here. I love the Christian Church, its principles and what it stands for.

I want to try to do my part in this work for it is a worthy and noble work. Pray for us.

ELSIE BRAY.

Cana, Va.

THE CHURCH IN A CHANGING WORLD.

Continued from page 5.

saved every minute seemed the most forceful challenge to Christians, to give their money or to volunteer with their lives in this work of reclamation, but today the motive of missions is more Christian motive. It is to prepare "The people" to live as well as to prepare them for the life beyond. Formerly the Foreign missionary's work was purely evangelistic, today the nature of the work has enlarged and takes in medical missions, industrial missions, and educational as well as evangelistic missions.

We can furthermore see the change in the attitude the church has taken toward the political interests of our nation. The church is readjusting itself to the position Moses and Amos, and the early Hebrew prophets took in the affairs of Israel. It is beginning to impress upon men the fact that the right of franchise is a divine right as well as a human privilege. In olden days "God chose a man after his own heart," to look after the civil interests of the people and today the only way He has in a democratic form of Government like ours, of choosing men after His own heart, is through the ballot. God is as much concerned about the welfare of our governmental interests as He was concerned about the governmental interests of Israel. The church is becoming more conscious of the fact that the only way to purge our political system is for Christian men to throw themselves into the fight, realizing that had men will continue to have their way in politics so long as good men fold their hands and do nothing. It is indeed a source of much gratification to all of us to see the change that has taken place in the attitude of the more thoughtful people in the church and out of the church toward the temperance question. Formerly it was a party issue, today it is a humanity issue.

Let us look for a moment at a still larger section of human interests than that of the relation of a single institution in society, and notice some of the evidences of readjustment that are to characterize the twentieth century.

In the evolution of human society the individual surrendered to the higher interests of the family, the family to the tribe, group or clan, and then the tribe or clan to the State, and the State to the Nation. The twentieth century will witness the next logical step in the evolution of the human society, namely, the nation will surrender to the higher interests of the world. Nationalism is bound to give way to internationalism. The national good must serve the international good. An international, yes "A world consciousness" is possessing many of the leading minds of our day. It will rule society before this century comes to its close. The promise of a World Federation is written large on the horizon of the twentieth century. It is bound to come for it is the plan of the one Father of mankind for His family.

But we as a nation have been unconsciously fostering a Pharisaical spirit of nationalism. The other nations have been doing the same, but that does not excuse us. We have boasted of our unprecedented progress, prided ourselves in our national prosperity, felt secure in the wealth of our natural resources, and all too often thanked God that we were not as other nations. Sermons have been preached showing our special favor with God as a nation, and demagogues have gone so far as to declare that we are God's chosen people, the which we are, but these demagogues have failed to realize that every nation is God's chosen people in the same way, namely to the extent that the people of the nation choose God.

The worst foes our nation has are not on foreign soil. They live within our own borders, men who put selfish gain above national welfare. There are men today, captains of industry and money vampires in the United States who would be willing to see our nation plunged again into the hell of war, if such would increase their profits; men who would actually sell our nation's peace for money. Less than a week ago, I heard a native born American say that "the war days were the days when money flowed freely," and he longed for those days of prosperity again.

Though our nation is a peaceful nation, believing that the patriotism of peace is a higher patriotism than the patriotism of war, still our nation has a certain group who cling to the antiquated notions of our savage ancestors and sanction war as a means of settling controversies between nations. But thank God, there is another group and a much larger group of American citizens who believe that international disputes should be settled in a World Court, a League of Nations, or in a Council of Conciliations. As dueling between individuals has long since been outlawed and discarded by all respectable people as a means of settling individual disputes, so war should have been outlawed long ago and discarded forever as a means of settling disputes between nations. National armies and navies should be replaced with an international army and navy as a world police force to insure protection to the interests of every nation.

The Church of Jesus Christ has come to realize that it is sacrilegious to bless any war, and that the business of the ministers and of the laity is to cry out against war and all that makes for war.

As Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick has so forcefully declared, "We cannot reconcile Jesus Christ and war. War is the most colossal and ruinous social sin that affects mankind; it is irremediably unchristian; in its total method and effect it means everything that Jesus did not mean and it means nothing that he did mean; it is a more blatant denial of every Christian's doctrine about God and man than all the theretical atheists on earth could ever devise."

The church has changed its attitude toward the question of war. And with the change of the attitude of the church toward war, the life of the world is to be changed. For when the church of Jesus Christ stands unitedly against war, then any war will be impossible.

R. C. H.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON VII.—FEBRUARY 14, 1926.

"JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD."

DEVOTIONAL READINGS Psalm 23.

PRINT: John 10: 1-30.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. John 10:11.

The lesson centers around the relationship between a shepherd and his sheep. These notes will suggest a few of the characteristics of the Good Shepherd and the Sheep.

I.—THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

1. He is the door of the sheep. No man cometh unto the Father but by Him. He has opened up a new and a living way whereby we have access unto the Father through Him.

2. He is the Savior of the sheep. "By me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved." Thou shalt call His name Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins, said the angel when he spake to Mary. When one thinks of the power of sin to fasten guilt upon us, its power to make itself habitual, its power to bring its consequences upon others, one sees the imperative need for some help that will enable man to overcome sin in his fight for good character. Here is the supreme contribution of Jesus Christ to any man. Through Him man can be conqueror over sin. The unique place of Jesus Christ in history has been due in large part to the mission which He has filled as the Savior of men.

3. He gives liberty. "By me if any man enter in, he shall go in and out." Christ sets men free, not free to do as they please but to do as they ought. This is real liberty indeed. As Savior Jesus Christ has broken the bonds of sin and of evil habits that have enthralled men and women and has set them free, released their powers and set them to higher uses, and has given liberty from the bondage of self and the law. Wherefore stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath set you free.

4. He feeds. "By me, if any man enter in, he shall find pasture." Man cannot live by bread alone. Jesus Christ is a sufficiency for our needs. He is that living bread which came down from heaven, which if a man eat he shall not hunger, and He is that living water, which if a man drink thereof he shall not thirst. As a matter of fact only Jesus Christ can satisfy the deepest hunger of the heart.

5. He gives life, the more abundant life. "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." Men desire life and more life. It is an instinctive hunger of the human heart to live. The Master came to satisfy the deepest heart hunger for the highest life. He imparts a new quality to life. He gives life new meaning and new freshness. He makes a man alive at more points and on higher levels. Life was a word often on the lips of Jesus.

6. He gives himself for the sheep. "The good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures. No man taketh his life from him; he gave himself for us because he loved us. He is the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world.

7. He knows his sheep. "I am the good shepherd and know my sheep." There is a personal relationship between the Master and His individual followers. He knows our limitations, our possibilities, our hopes, our fears, our motives, our weaknesses, our thoughts. And knowing everything about us, he loves us still.

8. He claims all sheep. There are other sheep not of this fold, but the Master claims them for himself. None are without the pale of his love and care. There is no respect of persons with him. One is our Lord and Master and all we are brethren.

II.—THE SHEEP.

1. They know the shepherd. There is that personal intimacy between the sheep and the shepherd that makes the sheep recognize the voice of the shepherd. The true follower of Christ knows when the Master speaks. There is an unmistakable note that they recognize.

2. They follow the shepherd. They not only hear; they follow. The good shepherd goeth before the sheep and they follow. He has given us an example. How closely do you follow the Master? How much are you like Him?

3. They do not follow those who would lead them astray. The true follower of Christ should be guided in the way of life eternal, avoiding the paths that lead astray.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

February 14, 1926.

WHAT IS FAITH AND WHAT DOES IT DO FOR US?
(Consecration Meeting.)

Scripture.—Heb. 11:1-10.

Worship Program.

Repeat in union (standing) "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me." John 14:1.

Remain standing and with bowed heads sing: "Faith of Our Fathers."

Prayer.—For greater strength and faith to do a bigger work as a Christian Endeavor Society.

Story of St. Valentine told by some member.

(The story greatly condensed.)

Long years ago men who wanted to serve Christ without worldly distractions, gave up their homes and friends, and went to live in monasteries. They called themselves Monks. While in these monasteries they used their talents to serve the people as best they could.

One day Valentine came to the Monastery to live. He soon became discouraged because he had no talents. Some of the Monks could sing and used their voices to make people happy; others could weave and serve with their hands. But alas! Poor Valentine could do none of these things. Finally he decided to plant a garden and distribute flowers to the sick and discouraged. He selected seeds and plants of many kinds of flowers. When his flowers bloomed he took them to those who were sick and needed comfort and cheer. After a while he had so many that he gave some to all the people he met. People learned to love him very much and to look forward to seeing him with joy and pleasure.

When he was an old man, too old to distribute his flowers, his many friends came to see him. They brought him beautiful flowers which made him very happy.

After he had died the Catholic Church made him a Saint because he had made so many people happy. Since then people have celebrated his birthday, Feb. 14th by sending gifts to their friends on this day. Now we send candy, and flowers and hearts to represent our love.

Plans for the Meeting.

Scripture references should be written on hearts which have been cut out of red or white paper. These should be given the members in time for them to look them up in the Bible and memorize. The verse should be given in response to the roll call, as this is the monthly Consecration meeting.

Leaders talk.

It was St. Valentine's faith in God which made him want to serve Him and the people. That is what faith always does. It makes us servants of God.

The first verse of the Scripture lesson is a fine definition of faith, "The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." One definition given in the dictionary is "belief." Without faith in God, in an after life, in our friends and loved ones; life would mean very little to us. Without faith, we would live in our past experiences with no hope or plans for the future. Faith brightens our lives and makes everything seem worth while.

Subjects for Short Talks.

1. Faith in a time of sickness.
2. Faith as a part of religion.
3. Christ's faith in His Father.
4. Keeping the faith and confidence of our friends.

Questions for the Meeting.

1. What do we mean by the song, "Faith of Our Fathers?"
2. Give some Old Testament examples of faith in God. Some new Testament examples.
3. What are some rewards of faith?
4. Why does lack of faith make us unhappy?

PATTIE COGHILL,
Henderson, N. C.

GOD'S OWNERSHIP.

A tenant would never think of putting the payment of rent in the same class with voluntary gifts. Neither can a Christian who subscribes a stated amount to support the program of some church class the amount subscribed as voluntary gifts. Rent is an acknowledgment of the property rights of the landholder. In like manner the setting aside of a definite portion of income for religious purposes is an acknowledgment of the property rights of God in the life of the Christian.

A man who does not pay his taxes or his rent is called dishonest, and is marked by society. To be dishonest with God is to set aside one of the strongest regulative principles of life. H. R. Calkins says in his book on A Man and His Monkey: "To recognize the spiritual content of money and rescue it from sordidness and greed; this shall be the saving evangel for our generation. To have is not to own, but to owe."

Real giving lies beyond the tenth. The tenth is the Christian's acknowledgment of God's ownership. He does not give the tenth because it is a financial plan or a scheme to support the church, but because he is honest and desires to pay for the blessings he has received. Failure to do this would mean the denial of God's ownership and the suppression of the finest things of the soul. Beyond the tenth lie the true riches of stewardship. If there be no venture into the beyond, then the tenth may become legalistic and often left unpaid. Partnership with God requires strong devotion and unwavering faith.

Christian Orphanage

OUR NEW BUILDING.

Our new building at the Christian Orphanage will be a credit to our Orphanage plant and one our denomination can well appreciate. It has been well thought out and meets the approval of people who are interested in child welfare work. It is planned strickly on a home plan for children both boys and girls, and will make an ideal home. It should inspire boys and girls reared in the building to want to do a real service in life.

This building will cost when completed and furnished thirty thousand dollars. Up to this peroid in our building program we have been able to meet all our bills and have a clear sheet to date. We have hoped and prayed all the while that we would be able to pay every dollar the day the final statement is presented to us, and if we could raise ten thousand dollars by March the first we would be able to do it.

It seems to me that every member of our church would want to invest at least a small amount in this building to have the consolation of knowing you had contributed something to help the fatherless children.

A good woman in Arkansas sent me a dollar sometime ago to pay for one brick to go in this building. It was so kind of her and I appreciated her sweet spirit so much, I had that brick placed in the brick mantel in the front room. Far away, so far as distance is concerned, but close to us with her dollar.

You may give us your sympathy, your love and your kind words of appreciations, but it takes money to build buildings, and to care for children. Your sympathy, your love, your prayers, and your kind expressions will avail much, if you will back them up with an offering. A beautiful little boy, whose mother died a year ago and whose father was killed in an automobile accident some weeks ago has appealed to us in the most distressing terms to give him a home here. We took two of the little boy's sisters some-time ago. My heart goes out to this little fellow and aches because I have no room for him. How I would like to put my arms around this child and take it to our institution and give it a home and let it live with its two little sisters, Oh, if I had the money how I would like to invest it in this child. Don't you want to help it? I may sympathize with it, I may say kind words to it, but if I cannot help it, all the sympathy, love and kind words will be in vain.

The poet said a beautiful thing when he said, "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man," but another poet said something more beautiful when he said, "Let me walk with the men in the road," "There's a cup of cold water to give; and the man in the road by the side of his friend is the man who is helping others to live."

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON, Supt.

REPORT FOR FEBRUARY 4, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$	612.60
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Durham	$	14.26
Reidsville		6.82
First Church, Greensboro.....		19.91
		40.99
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Morrisville	$	2.00
Henderson		5.49
		7.49
Western North Carolina Conference:
Burlington	$	65.52
Ether		6.58

Smithwood	1.18
Pleasant Ridge	2.00	75.28
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Holland	$ 10.00
Mt. Carmel	5.05	15.05
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Kite		2.45
Alabama Conference:
Pisgah		1.00
Valley Virginia Conference:
Linville		3.79
Special Offerings:
20th Century Baraeas, Suffolk....	$ 50.00
Ladies' Aid Society, Dendron	10.00
E. M. Davenport, support of children	37.50	97.50
New Building Fund:
Union (N. C.) Church	5 4.00
Union (Surry)	32.00
W. T. Noah, Burlington, N. C. ...	1.00
Mt. Zion Church	7.00	44.00
Total for week	$	287.55
Grand total	$	900.15

THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

"Long years ago in a manger lay,
In a lowly bed, in straw and hay,
The Prince of Peace, though of royal birth,
The greatest man that ever walked the earth.

"Some men are great because of money, or fame,
But this man, was great in blood and name,
For his marvelous blood can cleanse each stain,
And to all, His name, we will proclaim.

"A celestial mansion for we all have heard,
It's the mansion described in His blessed word.
Walls of jasper and streets of gold,
With wealth and beauty that have never been told.

"Then, let's all, both young and old,
Strive to enter that city fair,
Where sorrow nor trouble or never a care,
Can mar our happiness when we get there.

"Much work have we in this world to do,
And the time will pass before we get through
Then the books will be opened and the record tell,
The place where you and I forever dwell."
MRS. HELEN HARROW.

THE VALUE OF A MAN.

"How much are you worth? However we may value man, the following information may be of interest to you. It is said the average man contains enough oxygen, hydrogen, and nitrogen to make $2.45 worth of illuminating gas. Granting that to be a fact, yet he may not be bright enough to throw light on the simplest subject. It is said that he contains enough carbon to make more than nine thousand lead pencils. That is indeed a lot of carbon to take from one man, yet he may not have a thought worth noting with a single lead pencil. He contains enough phosphorus to make eight hundred thousand matches, yet he may be a poor stick, and a bum match for any girl in the community. It is said that he contains about sixty lumps of sugar. Little did I realize that man was so sweet, yet I have seen men as sour as a pickle.

I read a story of a man in New York City who awakened in the night to find his wife weeping. 'My darling,' he said in distress, 'what is the matter?' 'A dream,' she said, 'I have had a horrible dream.' The husband begged her to tell it to him that he might comfort her. After long persuasion, she was induced to tell it. She said: 'I thought I was walking down Broadway, and came to a warehouse where there was a large sign: Husbands for Sale. You could get handsome ones for $1,500, or for $1,200 for that matter. I saw some very nice men for $1,000 each.' The husband asked innocently, 'Did you see any there, darling, that looked like me?' 'Oh, yes dozens of them,' gasped the wife. 'They were done up in bunches like asparagus, and were selling for ten cents a bunch.'—Exchange.

THE COMMON PEOPLE.

In the blatant assumption of Modernism made by a few scholars, we must remember that there is a good deal of assumption of scholarship. They claim they have all the scholarship of the world on their side, and this is very far from the truth. It is absolutely untrue. There is a host of scholars that have not "bowed the knee to Baal or kissed his image."

But the trouble is that so many in the church and world are so anxious to find some excuse for not accepting supernatural religion that they have taken the conclusions of some carnal minded scholars for the truth. It is not the first time that the scholars have run away with the church. This was the state in England when the Methodist revival became necessary for the nation was drifting to perdition because of the semi-infidelity of the pulpits. The errors that were rife in the doctrines then were the same as are advocated by Modernists today. It is said by good authority that Presebyterianism of England never got over the doctrinal errors of that time.

It was the revival by John and Charles Wesley and George Whitfield that saved the nation from the Modernism of that day. It was a spiritual movement among the common people that saved England from the skepticism of the pulpit. It was the revival among the common people, and not the scholars, that saved the world in the corrupt days of the Roman Empire. They, by their holy living and triumphant dying, overcame the sophistry of the education and wisdom of the Roman world with all its scholarship. Olhausen, the great German commentator, well says: "The ancient Christians were for the most part slaves and men of low station; the whole history of the expansion of the church is in reality a progressive victory for the ignorant over the learned, the lowly over the lofty, until the emperor himself laid down his crown before the cross of Christ."

In the light of history it would not be at all surprising if God should again pour His Spirit upon the common people and lift the church out of the slough of doubt and weakness into which the scholars with unsanctified hearts, relying upon their own attainments, have dragged it.

St. Jude speaks of the "faith once delivered to the saints." It was delivered to the saints that it might be preserved. There are sanctified scholars who have done much for the cause of God, and their learning is commendable. But the trouble with the unsanctified scholarship of the church today is that they are trying, just as are wordlings, to solve the mysteries of grace by the human intellect, and they fail, as such attempts have always failed since God gave His revelation in the beginning.—Christian Witness.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY.

HOME MOTTO.

"Happy thou shalt be, and it shall be well with thee. Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine, in the innermost part of thy house; Thy children like olive plants, round about the table, yea, thou shalt see thy children's children.—Psalms 128: 2, 3, 6.

There is no greater thing that thou canst do than to make thy home a place of God's creation. More fruitful all the time, better, more worthy of God; thy family more loving and happy, their hearts wiser and more trusting, their lives manlier and more useful, their labors more blessed and constant, and having nothing that is accursed.

Prayer.—Dear Heavenly Father: Look upon us—the family—this day and may we live with an eye of singleness to thy Glory in our home. Forgive us of what we have lacked and done amiss; erase the black spots; blot out the unpleasant things, and help us to work together in thee to make our little nook a worthy place of God. In Christ's name we ask this blessing. Amen.

TUESDAY.

TIME AND OPPORTUNITY.

"Redeeming the time because the days are evil. We must work the works of His that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work." John 9: 4-5.

"If time be of all things most precious, wasting never found again; and what we call time enough always proves little enough. Let us then be up and doing, and doing to a purpose; so by diligence shall we do more with less perplexity."—Franklin.

Prayer.—Our dear Father, teach us when to work and when to play. Give us an eye of singleness to the use of time in a way that brings most blessings. Grant unto our work the Christ spirit and the Christ fruit. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE DIM FUTURE.

LESSON: Eccl. 12. (Be sure to read.)

"Work while it is day for night cometh when no man can work." John 9: 4.

Today, as we row hard against the stream of life, is it only blindness in our eyes, which have been too long strained, which makes us see far up the river where it fades into distance, through all the mists that rise from the riverbanks, a clear, golden light? Is it only a delusion of the eyes which makes us grasp our oars more lightly and bend our backs lower; though we know well that long before the boat reaches those stretches, other hands than ours will man the oars and guide its helm? Is it all a dream?"—Olive Schreiner.

There comes a time when we are aware that the years draw nigh, when the vision is dim, when the strong man that we were weakens and bows a bit, "the sound of the grinding is low." When we are startled at the flutter of a bird, and the voice does not sing as it used to, when we can't climb ladders nor get up on high things any more, when the silver chord of the heart slackens, hastening on to the time when earth's "golden bowl" will be broken, life's fountain ceases, and we go to God our maker. How necessary we spend our time profitably and nobly.

Prayer.—Our Father, we realize that life is fleeting and we will soon pass on. Inspire Thou our lives to the noblest living every day, and every moment of the day. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE LAST ENEMY.

LESSONS Prov. 15: 20-28.

"The last enemy to be destroyed is death." I Cor. 15: 26.

Evil is unnatural, godness the natural state of man. Earth has no hopeless islands or continents. We live in a redemptive world. Poverty will end; sin will die; love will triumph, and hope will plant flowers on every grave.

Prayer.—Dear Father, in our finite wisdom we can see that there is no need for sin. Help us to abolish it from our lives and consecrate us to help others. May Satan and all his works be put out forever. Amen.

FRIDAY.

TRUE HAPPINESS.

LESSON: (Read again Eccl. 12.)

"He that keepeth the law, happy is he." Prov. 29: 16.

Happiness is not for wild animals. They oscillate between apathy and passion. To be happy, be law-abiding. To be happy, be reasonable. To be happy, be useful. To be happy, be wise. To be happy, be loving and kind. To be happy, endure correction, it makes perfect.

Happiness involves chastening and renunciation but it is not less sweet for having this and the spirit of it is healthy.

"To awaken each morning with a smile brightening my face, to greet the day with reverence for the opportunities it contains, to approach my work with a clean mind; to hold ever before me, even in the doing of little things, the Ultimate Purpose toward which I am working; to meet men and women with laughter on my lips and love in my heart; to be gentle, kind and courteous through all the hours; to approach the night with weariness that ever woces sleep and the joy that comes from work well done, this is how I desire to waste wisely my days."—Thomas Dreier.

Prayer.—Our Father, day by day, help us to grow better, more useful and happy. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

SPIRITUAL GROWTH.

"But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. II. Pet. 3: 18.

God wishes and commands us to grow. He also furnishes us much that is conducive to growth. How disappointing and sad when children in the home do not grow, but remain as babies! There is nothing they can help their parents do. Not only so, but they are objects of pity and constant care. How it must grieve the heart of our Heavenly Father for his children to remain as babies! They can only be fed with milk whereas if they would grow they might be fed with meats. Neither can the spiritual babies render any service. They are too weak. They are in the Kingdom sure enough. Angels have rejoiced at their spiritual birth, but they bear no fruit. They glorify not the Father.

Grace and knowledge are the wings that enable us to rise higher in holy things. It is possible to grow in one and neglect the other. We may have real zeal and lack knowledge. We can have knowledge, and it alone "puffeth up". The command is that we are to grow in both.

Prayer.—Our Father how gracious art Thou to thy children. Thou hast granted unto us spiritual life through Jesus Christ. Feed us on the true Bread from Heaven that we may grow and glorify thee by rendering worthy service. In Jesus name. Amen.

T. E. WHITE.

SUNDAY.

THE VALUE OF OTHERS TO US.

"Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ." Gal. 6: 2.

"We are foolish, and without excuse foolish, in speaking of the superiority of one sex to the other, as if they could be compared in similar things. Each has what the other has not; each completes the other; they are in nothing alike; and the happiness and perfection of both depend on each asking and receiving from the other what the other only can give."—John Ruskin.

Ruskin may have been talking about the relation of man and wife but the same truth applies in our relations to one another. We can't get along very well without the aid of the other. Therefore, help others with what you have.

Prayer.—Dear Lord Jesus, we turn to Thee for example, and spirit for our guidance in love and helpfulness for one another. Help us to shake off selfishness and live for others as Christ would do. Forgive us of our sins and grant us Thy Spirit. Amen.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR THE MISSIONARY PASSION.

Writing in the International Review of Missions, Frank Mason North under the above title has given a splendid study of the present situation in the United States which he sums up as follows:

Here and there men act as though our Leader had left the field, or that what he did nineteen hundred years ago ended his part of it, and that the rest is our overwhelming task with him away and not caring. Is the gospel of a living Christ a new gospel in our generation? Does the motive which moved the missionary heroes of the early days—the constraining love of Christ—seem too personal, too intimate, for a highly organized Christianity? Would the effort once again to fan into flame the missionary passion serve a purpose which the cultivation of a missionary intelligence and a missionary conscience leaves incomplete? Frankly, "out of the depths," and out of the buffeting of the cross currents of modern experience, many in America are crying unto him—this living Lord. They believe that "there is no other name." They discredit no organization, they decry no program, they would honor and arouse the church, but just now, with breaking hearts, they are asking for the vision of him—the Christ who lives. They believe in the throb as well as in the science of missions. They urge for themselves and for others that the warmth of a fervent spirit may go with the cool thinking of a clear brain.

There is no substitute for the missionary passion.

The burning heart of our compassion for the multitudes must be our passion for Jesus Christ, the Son of the living God.

It was the compelling power in the first century. The twentieth has found for it no substitute.

THINK A MOMENT.

Two-thirds of the human family—one thousand million souls—not yet even reached with the Christian message—the Gospel.

And this nearly two thousand years after the world's only Saviour and Redeemer said, as His parting and most emphatic command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

He did not leave me out of that command. And yet He has not called me to go in person. So He has, I know, commanded me to go in purse and in prayer, as there is no other way for me to go.

J. O. A.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

DEAR SNOW-FLAKES,—

You are all so lovely when you are playing in the air, and you are beautiful too, when you have covered the earth with your white blanket. We love you dear Snow-flakes, and are glad you came from your sky-home to see us.

Oh, listen well Kiddies, there is a man close by who owns a circus, Yes-sie-ce, a whole circus. There are elephants, and horses, and monkeys. Oh, of course, and the circus is going to live close by for the rest of the cold, cold winter, for the animals like a warm nice home to live in during the winter, so here they found a great big barn, all safe from the winter weather, only Jack Frost can come through, and its a secret, how he can come through. (Some day I hope to catch him and make him tell how he gets into our homes.)

But Dears, I want to tell you something, the poor little monkeys were so cold when the circus train came, that they all had to be warmed, and then they felt happy again, and the doggies were so full of fun that they didn't get cold at all. Oh, how I do wish that all these Kiddies could come to Burlington and see these wonderful animals, in their winter home. Couldn't you come, really?

At story hour this week, we had a Humpty-Dumpty-Circus parade, and all the story hour Kiddies attended, and the orchestra played, then we all sat in a big circle and talked about caring for God's animals, and we all prayed that we could always be kind and good to dumb creatures, for God made animals see—didn't He, dears?

The Sun is shining now, so all the snow-flakes will be gone away into the earth to make the flowers and grass grow, and soon Spring will be coming.

YOUR EDITOR.

Timothy Dexter.

"Timothy Dexter rides to town,
Timothy Dexter wears a crown,
Timothy Dexter is the sport
Of all the boys in Newbury Port."
Lord Timothy Dexter.

"Dexter's purse is warm with gold,
Warm as the warming-pans he sold;
Dexter's house is the county's boast,
A palace on a rock-bound coast."
Lord Timothy Dexter.

"Dexter's ways are almost lawful,
Dexter's spelling is most awful,
Dexter's ships are in the Indies,
Dexter's guests are having shindies."
Lord Timothy Dexter.

"Attention, General Washington!
Stand up straight there, Soloman!
Bonaparte, and you John Jay!
Dassent look the other way!
Adams, Venus, Chieftain Red,
Keep a strict, respectful head!
Don't you dare to wink an eye—
DEXTER is a-goin' by!"
Lord Timothy Dexter.

"Timothy Dexter's gone from town,
Dexter's wind blew Dexter down;
Dexter's castle is the sport,
Of singing birds in Newbury Port."
Lord Timothy Dexter.

Streams.

By CLINTON SCOLLARD.

"Is so love water-laughter,
Its bubbling flecks and gleams,
I pray in the hereafter
There somewhere may be streams."

"I'd have for my companion
In some celestial nook,
Beneath a spreading banyan,
The music of a brook."

"Its measures would entice me,
Uncumbered by the clay,
Its melody suffice me
Till dropped the heavenly day."

"Then its all-liquid laughter
Would murmur through my dreams;
I pray in the hereafter
There somewhere may be streams."

ROCKY FORD SCHOOL.

Rocky Ford, Carrol County, Va., is no longer without a church and school building. After five years of praying, pleading and planning our new building is completed.

Through united effort this great work has been accomplished. The people of the neighborhood gave freely of their time and money, and loyal friends of our Fancy Gap Mission exceeded our expectations in their liberality.

Twenty nine years ago, a one room school house was erected near the bank of Paul's Creek about one mile from the site on which our new building now stands. Mr. Noah Combs, in whose house Miss Bray and I live, built this house. The only assistance which he received was twenty dollars in cash and some help in putting on the roof.

After eleven successive terms of school had been taught, the building was burned in mid-winter. Mr. Combs then took the school into his house and the term was finished in a room on the second floor and across the hall from the one in which I am writing. The following year a school was taught in the same room.

During the succeeding years, until the summer of 1921, these people were without a school. In June of 1921, Miss Laura Clemmer and Miss Gladys Lankford opened a school in a vacant house on the Combs farm. The school was moved from place to place until it found a home with Brother H. T. Rigney.

The Sunday School organized in 1921 grew rapidly. A church was also organized which has grown to a membership of forty. The day school, Sunday School, and Church, all outgrew the little room in the Rigney home.

Many of our people of the Southern Christian Convention know something of the struggle we have had during the past three years to secure a building which would meet our needs at Rocky Ford.

Three years ago, land on which to build was donated, and in October, 1925, our building was completed. It is located on the left side of the Fancy Gay road as we ascend the mountain, twelve miles from Mt. Airy (N. C.) and six miles from the top.

Inquiries have come from various sections, as to whether the teachers' salaries are paid by the county or by our Mission Board. Up to this time Rocky Ford school has received no aid from the county, but it is thought that arrangements may be made soon which will secure the payment of fifty dollars per month on salaries.

It may readily be seen that much still depends upon the support of those who have been so loyal to our mountain work and others whose interests will become awakened.

One glimpse of the happy children who attend our school would, I am sure, be compensation for any assistance given.

This is a spot of the Lord's vineyard which is ready for cultivation. Let us not neglect it.
MARGARET H. MOREY.

Cana, Va.

HOME, SWEET HOME.

"Life changes all our thoughts of heaven;
At first we think of streets of gold.
Of gates of pearl and dazzling light,
Of shining wings and robes of white,
And things all strange to mortal sight."

"But in the afterward of years,
It is a more familiar place;
A home unhurt by sighs or tears,
Where waiteth many a well-known face;
With passing months it comes more near."

"It grows more real day by day;
Not strange or cold, but very dear—
The glad homeland not far away,
Where none are sick, or poor, or lone,
The place we shall find our own."

"And as we think of all we knew,
Who there have met to part no more,
Our longing hearts desire home, too.
With all the strife and trouble o'er."

—Browning.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00
 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

LEWALLEN.

Mrs. Sarah J. Lewallen was born Sarah J. Gray Oct. 24, 1844, and peacefully fell asleep Jan. 18, 1926. Blessed of God with more than four score years, she blessed and benefitted the world about her, and made it better and happier for her being in it. Her parents, Grier and Pernicia, were prominent citizens of Guilford County, and from them she received inheritance and training that enabled her to make a permanent impression upon her day and generation. On May 22, 1866, she was united in marriage to Z. A. Lewallen who died Feb. 14, 1912. Of the ten sons and daughters born to this pair, seven survive, E. E., W. G., R. C., and J. T. Lewallen, all of Asheboro, N. C., Mrs. D. W. Brown of Elon College, Mrs. H. S. B. Thompson of Pleasant Hill, and Miss Lizzie Lewallen of Greensboro. From early life till marriage the deceased was a member of the M. E. Church, but soon after marriage transferred to the M. P. Church with her husband. To her church she was ever loyal, faithful and true, beautifully exemplifying in her own life the spirit of her Lord and Master, the founder and builder of the church.

On Christmas day, the anniversary of her Lord she suffered a stroke of paralysis in the home of her son in Asheboro where she was then living. From this stroke she never regained consciousness and twenty-three days later, like a beautiful soldier wearied of the battle, quietly, peacefully, calmly, went to a well earned rest. "Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep." The funeral was conducted from the Methodist Protestant church of Asheboro Wednesday, p. m., Jan. 20th, by Rev. J. E. Pritchard, assisted by Revs. W. H. Willis, and C. L. Gregory, and beneath a mound banked with fragrant flowers and beautiful designs her body was interred and not one there who knew her doubted that this noble, motherly soul had gone to the God who gave it and whom her long and beautiful life had served faithfully and well. Her laurels are her loved ones whom she ever sought to lead, by thought and example in the high and holy way. A.

GARDNER.

William Stanley Gardner, was born Dec. 1, 1859, and fell asleep Jan. 8, 1926. His age was 66 years, 1 month, and 7 days. At the age of 18 he professed faith in Christ, and united with Shiloh Christian church, and a few years later he transferred his membership to Park's Cross Roads and remained a faithful member of that church until death. In 1881, he was united in marriage to Lydia Jane Rains. To this union were born four children, Mrs. Mattie Dorsette, Mrs. Alice Bray, Mr. Luther D. Gardner and Nathan Gardner. The latter and wife preceded him in death. Brother Gardner, died at the home of his son in Gibsonville and the remains were brought to his former home, near Park's Roads and funeral services were conducted from the above church by the writer in the presence of a large crowd of his friends and neighbors.

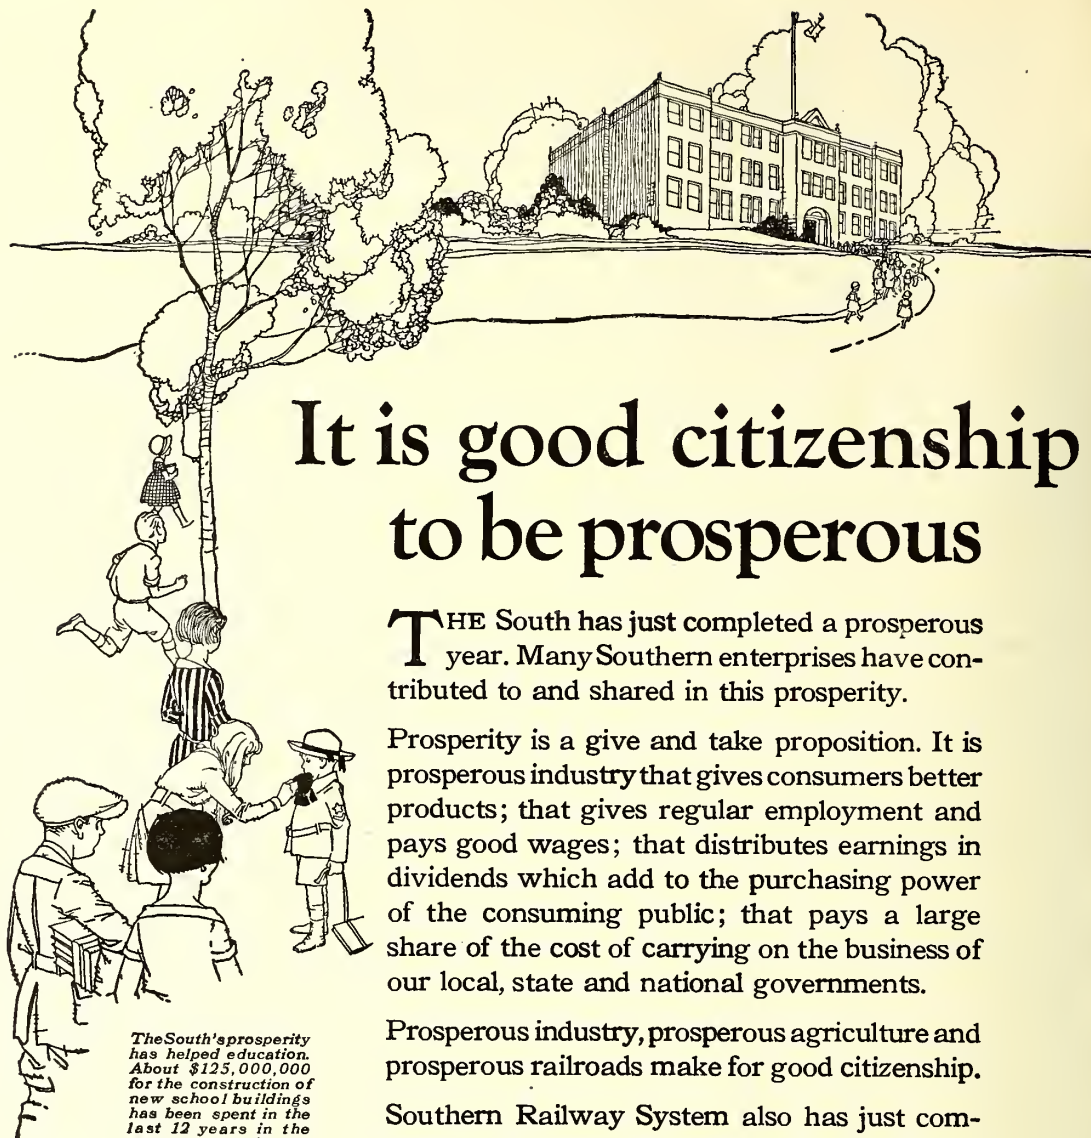

To know Brother Gardner was to love and appreciate him. To visit in his home was a real joy. Truly another good man has gone from our midst and earth is made better by his life being spent among us.

God bless those children who mourn for their father, and help them to live to meet loved ones. C. E. GERRINGER.

AUMAN.

Bessie Anne, daughter of J. R. and Flora Auman, was born Dec. 20, 1925, and

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

SHEPHERD.

died Jan. 1, 1926.

Funeral services were held from Ether Christian church by the writer, Jan. 2, 1926, and interment made in the cemetery beside her brother and sister who preceded her in death.

She is survived by two sisters and two brothers, also her parents.

God bless those who mourn.

C. E. GERRINGER.

Clem Edwin Shepherd, son of James A. and Carrie M. Shepherd, was born Oct. 7, 1920, age 5 years, 3 months and 14 days. He leaves a father, mother, one sister and two brothers. Two brothers are dead. Those living are Miss Lalla, Master Arlie, and Paul Shepherd. May the Heavenly Father comfort the hearts of the loved ones. Burial was at Apple's Chapel, by the pastor, T. J. GREEN.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call to her reward, Mrs. Mary M. Pierce a devoted member of the Woman's Missionary Society, Sumbury, N. C., be it resolved.—First, that we have lost a faithful and loyal member and one who did her best in all things. Second, that while we miss her, yet our loss is her eternal gain. Third, that we extend our love and deepest sympathy to her loved ones and pray that God may comfort and bless them in their loss. Fourth, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Christian Sun for publication and one to be spread on the minutes of our society.

MISS ANNIE LASSITER,
MRS. ALMIRA HINTON,
MRS. J. E. CORBITT.

PIERCE.

Damascus Christian Church lost one of her most faithful, and loyal members, when the Death Angel came Saturday morning, Jan. 16th, and summoned Mrs. Mary M. Pierce to the Heavenly reward. The Lord blessed and sustained her to the ripe old age of seventy-six years, of which fifty years were spent in loyal service to her Master and to her church. She was a loyal, and faithful Christian mother. She leaves to mourn her loss five children, three sons and two daughters, namely: John H. Carter, Lassiter Pierce, and Genie Pierce, Mrs. John H. Lassiter and Mrs. Maggie Modlin, together with a number of grandchildren and a host of friends. The last sad rites were conducted at her home Sunday at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. G. A. Pearce, and interment was made in the family burying ground.

LAMBERT.

Mrs. Sarah Caroline Lambert died Jan. 14, 1926, at the age of 58 years, 5 months, and 20 days. Sarah Caroline Rains was born July 24, 1867. On Oct. 11, 1898, she was married to C. R. Lambert. To this union two children were born, both of whom with the husband survive. Besides these she is survived by one brother and one sister, also many other relatives and friends. She had been a member of Park's Cross Roads church since childhood, and was faithful until death. The writer was assisted in the burial services by Revs. Elain of the Baptist church and Hoyle of the M. E. church of Ramseur.

T. J. GREEN.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL
SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert

TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD
CHILDREN'S
BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus....$1.85
- 02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations$2.50
- 03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches)$2.40
- 02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 3/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durable Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepche not want.
2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

AYSCUE.

Velma (Eaves) Ayscue, daughter of B. R. Eaves and wife, was born May 23, 1893, and died January 8, 1926. She was married to Walter G. Ayscue, December 26, 1909.

She professed faith in Christ and joined Liberty Church when she was about twelve years old, and remained a consistent member until death.

She was a loving and devoted daughter, sister and wife, and had most congenial and friendly greeting for all her many friends. She is survived by a devoted and deeply grieved husband, father and mother, four sisters, Mrs. R. J. Newton, Mrs. J. L. Ayscue, Mrs. S. B. Foster, Mrs. F. B. Fuller, and four brothers, C. O. Eaves, G. W. Eaves, Robert Eaves, and Gill Eaves.

This large family, of which Velma was a member was one of the most active of Liberty Christian Church, but Velma's special talent climaxed in ministering to the sick. It was in the sick room that she doubtless rendered more service and made for herself more friends than any one in her community.

The large congregation present and the profuse floral offering on the very inclement day of her burial, bore witness of how much she was esteemed.

Funeral services conducted by pastor H. E. Crutchfield, assisted by writer.

J. E. FRANKS.

TROGDON.

Mrs. Caroline Trogdon died Jan. 14, 1926. Had she lived a few hours longer she would have been 88 years old. She had been a member of the M. E. Church at Concord since she was twelve years of age, and about 10 years ago transferred her membership to Park's Cross Roads church, where she remained faithful as long as she was able. She is survived by two sons, Thomas Trogdon of Coleridge, N. C., at whose home she died, and Alec Trogdon of Gibsonville, N. C., seven grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. Interment was made at Concord M. E. cemetery, after services at the home of her son where she died. She was the third member of Park's Cross Roads lost by death in less than a week.

T. J. GREEN.

HOLLAND.

James Richard Holland, 18 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus. R. Holland, R.F.D., Holland Va., died Jan. 29, 1926, after a brief illness of pneumonia. The funeral services were conducted by the writer at the grave in Holland cemetery. This dear little one had but a brief stay in the home, but sufficiently long to entwine himself about the hearts of all and leave sad and aching hearts. May our Heavenly Father comfort and bless the fond parents and other members of the home.

N. G. NEWMAN

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/4 inches. $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE A Co-Educational School LOCATED AT WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

- The following Courses are offered in the—
- COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.
- SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basketball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHNER, President Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type 27 And the boys grew and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORS PICTURE EDITION Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Isra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms $1.10 included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2314. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1926.

NUMBER 6.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Y. M. C. A. Seventy-five Years Old.—

During this year the Y. M. C. A. in America will reach its seventy-fifth birthday. The first Association on the American continent was born at Montreal, Canada in 1851, and a month later one was organized in this country at Boston.

Another Air Service Fight Looms Up.—

One air service upheaval barely subsides, ere another has started. Secretary Davis has ordered an investigation of alleged lobbying activities on the part of officers in the air service. This investigation is being undertaken with the sanction of President Coolidge. Maybe Colonel Mitchell did start something!

Begins With Bible Course.—

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, the famous British preacher, began his work as stated supply for the First Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, with a course of Bible study lectures. The program of the church while Dr Morgan remains with it will be a course of Bible expositions every Sunday morning, afternoon, and evening, and on Friday night. His son Dr. P. C. Morgan will deliver a lecture on Tuesday evening. It is hoped that Dr. Morgan may yet accept the permanent pastorate of the church.

Race Relations Sunday.—

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has designated February 14th as race relations Sunday. In its general call the Federal Council points out that race relations have an international as well as a national importance. Indians are seeking justice at our hands, it is pointed out, and Negroes are asking participation in community and national life, while Chinese and Japanese in this country are insisting upon treatment such as is accorded to other foreigners. The question of race relations is of vast importance, and one which the churches must face now, and must face intelligently.

Negro Schools Complete Fund.—

The Hampton and Tuskegee Institute endowment fund drive has been a success. By its terms these two Negro institutions receive seven million dollars. Three million of this amount was given by George Eastman and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. By the acquisition of this vast endowment the financial stability of the institutions would seem assured, but Hampton and Tuskegee have a great service to perform here in the South, and their responsibility increases constantly as the condition of the average colored man is bettered. While we think of the marvelous success of Hampton and Tuskegee we should remember our own Franklinton College for colored boys and girls, and seek to make some provision for its overcrowded condition and enlargement of its much needed service.

Church Papers Seek Funds.—

It is a well known fact that church papers are not self-supporting, and now two Episcopal organs have undertaken to raise funds sufficient to insure their future existence, The Churchman, and The Living Church. The former is out to raise two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, while The Living Church has drawn up a form of trust to be used by those bequeathing funds to it. It is understood that The Christian Leader, a Universalist organ, is meditating a similar campaign. One would certainly invest money in a worthy cause, should one endow THE CHRISTIAN SUN sufficiently to meet all deficits and so insure its future existence. It would be a worthy gift to a worthy cause, and would make the paper able to serve the church better.

Protestants Religiously Ignorant.—

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman speaking at a dinner given in the honor of the editors of the New Protestant Encyclopedia in New York, declared that Americans otherwise well educated were religiously ignorant. He feels that if a vote were taken as to whether the world were round or flat the flats would have it. He regards such ignorance appalling, but he looks forward to a broader minded Protestantism which will come through education in religious matters. Dr. Cadman based his statement concerning religious ignorance on the thousands of letters which he receives every month. Dr. Cadman conducts the question and answer hour over radio every Sunday afternoon. This brings him in touch with much of the ignorance of religious matters in America. If any one has a right to know how we stand in this particular, it is Dr. Cadman.

Plan Religious School for University.—

A board of trustees have been elected to conduct a school of religion at the University of Iowa. The school will be conducted along the general lines now being followed at the University of Michigan. Dean George F. Kay is to serve as the president of the board on which Baptists, Catholics, Congregationalists, Disciples, Episcopalians, Jewish, Lutherans, Methodists, and Presbyterians are to have a representative. Such school of religion in connection with the great universities of the country, if properly conducted should prove a great stabilizing factor for the youth of the country. They will place religious influences within reach of thousands of university students who now have none of it. Such schools face the problem of making their courses attractive enough to compete with the work of the university, and so to make their services desirable to the students whom they serve.

To Send Specialists to South America.—

The Committee on cooperation in South America whose business it is to co-ordinate the work of the various mission boards doing work in that part of the world, has announced a plan to send three specialists to South America. One is to be a specialist in public health, sanitation, and social service, the second is to be a religious education expert to aid churches and school authorities in the planning of their curricula of religious education. The third will be a specialist in evangelism who will assist the national churches in their evangelistic work. The two Methodist Episcopal churches, and the Presbyterian church have been made responsible for the selection of these specialists. Dr. Robert E. Speer has been re-elected chairman of the committee, and Dr. Samuel Guy Inman has been re-elected secretary. The work in the South American countries should prosper if the right men be found for these most important positions there.

Senators are Silenced.—

By one of the largest senatorial votes in the history of the country the senate voted for a cloture to the tune of 68 to 26. This vote came after much debating some of which was very educational, and some of which meant nothing but an expenditure of breath. This cloture made possible the vote on America's adherence to the world court, but with eight reservations. These reservations of the Swanson resolution declaring for adherence, the irreconcilables believe make the resolution of no avail. America will enter the court, providing (1) that the United States assumes no relation to the League of Nations, and no obligations under the Versailles treaty; (2) that the United States participates on an equality with other members in the election of judges; (3) that America agrees to pay a fair share of the court's expenses; (4) that the United States may withdraw from the court at any time and that the statute of the court can not be amended without America's consent; (5) that the court shall "Entertain" no advisory opinion on a subject concerning the United States without America's consent; (6) that America will not enter the court until all other members agree to these reservations; (7) that no question affecting the United States can ever be submitted to the court without her consent, except by agreement in a treaty; (8) that American adherence will not be construed as to "require the United States to depart from its traditional policy" of opposing entangling alliances, nor cause the United States to relinquish "its traditional attitude toward purely American questions."

When the vote was taken on the Swanson resolution it stood 76 to 17 which was fourteen more than was necessary. The vote was taken late on January 27th, after the irreconcilables had tried in vain to insert two other reservations. They feel that the resolution as passed is a victory in defeat, and are sure that they have made adherence to the court impossible.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Every active pastor in the Southern Christian Convention has planned to observe Mission Month during either February or March. There is co-operation and loyalty.

The World's Sunday School Association reports that there are in the world 347,000 Sunday Schools with 350,000 officers and teachers, and an enrollment of 29,157,000 pupils. The next meeting of the Association is to be in Los Angeles, California, July, 1926.

On January 29th, Rev. W. B. Fuller, Dendron, Va., writes: "I am planning to observe Mission Month in all my churches. I think it a great opportunity for any church or individual to have a part in this great cause and a real privilege to help in the Master's cause at this time."

It is learned with profound regret that Rev. V. T. Crawford has been compelled to retire from the pastorate of our Winchester (Virginia) Church and to go to a sanatorium for rest and treatment. His wife has gone also for treatment. They are at Catawba Sanatorium in Virginia. Here is hoping that both of these faithful ones may soon find relief.

Rev. T. E. White, Graham, N. C., writes on February 4th: "We are planning to observe Mission Month in our church and to give every one an opportunity to contribute, the last Sunday in March. I plan to acquaint our people better with our mission fields, missionaries, needs, and to see our obligations as stewards and our high privilege in having a part in carrying out the great commission of our Lord."

It is not often THE SUN has the privilege of printing a sermon preached by a man 100 years old. We have an idea that Uncle Wellons' sermon will be read with interest and profit by many. The sermon was not written, was delivered without notes or manuscript, and was secured by a stenographer who took it down as it was spoken on the day it was preached, January 1, 1926. And it is a much clearer sermon than many of us younger ones preach now. Long live Uncle Wellons.

"'Missions' is the mission of the Church." So declares Rev. H. Biscoe Hall of Elm Avenue Church, Portsmouth, Va. "We are going to do our best to raise the Emergency Fund that is so greatly needed." Brother Hall is eminently correct. Unless the Church is missionary, it has no claim to the promise, "Lo, I am with you"; neither has it a rightful claim to being a Church. The only reason the Christ could have had for founding the Church was that it might be missionary—an institution through whose message and activities He might win the world to Himself.

Mrs. M. L. Bryant, First Church, Norfolk, Va., in a personal note says: "Every member of our local Missionary Society is undertaking to give $1.00 extra to the Emergency Fund during the Missionary offering in our church." This is the way in which every member of the Missionary Society may help in this time of great need, and a great undertaking. We believe our Missionary Societies, wherever they are in the churches, will show their worth and prove their liberality in helping to make Mission Month a glorious success and a victorious achievement.

The First Church, Richmond, took its Mission Offering on the first Sunday of this month. With 117 members on roll, of which number several are non-residents of Richmond and about twenty per cent of the remainder children, they raised $118.00, which was sent to the Mission Secretary February 9th. This is something over a dollar a member. Some of our older churches should better this average, but if all of them will do as well, we will go over the top with the Emergency Fund. Dr. Ryan's "call" to his congregation is given on the "Missions Page" of this issue.

We wish that every Sunday School teacher were as deeply interested in the Kingdom and as loyal to the Church as Mrs. J. D. Luke, Suffolk, Va., teacher of Class No. 10, "Boys of 22." Mission Month had just reached its first day, February 1st, in the Eastern Virginia Conference, when this teacher wrote: "My class of boys of the Christian Church Sunday School, Suffolk, want to help in the Emergency Mission Fund, so we are sending you $5.00, check enclosed. We pray that the entire sum of $25,000 may be raised. We will give through the church collection on Mission Day, but wanted to send this ahead that it might help now." This fine Christian spirit of co-operation is appreciated as much as the donation which accompanied it.

The Mission Board of the North Carolina Conference (Christian Missionary Association) was in session at Elon College, Thursday p. m., February 4th. The members of the Board are Dr. W. C. Wicker, chairman, Dr. W. P. Lawrence, secretary-treasurer, Bro. W. K. Holt, Bro. K. B. Johnson, and J. O. Atkinson, corresponding secretary. All members were present at the meeting except Bro. Johnson. Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., has acted for the past few weeks as field secretary of the association, and was re-elected to the same office till the annual meeting of the association, next December. He will seek, in connection with his work of evangelism, to increase membership in the association and to prepare the churches for a great annual meeting in December.

The Mission Secretary sincerely hopes that all church secretaries have acted as promptly and faithfully as did Brother W. M. Sparkevan of Eure, N. C., who on receipt of the envelopes for the church wrote: "I have received from your office the package of Mission envelopes, which will be distributed on the second Sunday in February to the congregation and collected on the fourth Sunday as indicated. (Our pastor has announced Mission Day in our church on the fourth Sunday in February.) Rest assured we will do what we can in the matter to get our people interested in the cause." We are grateful indeed, and trust that every envelope sent out will be discreetly placed, and on the day of the offering will be returned with a liberal donation in the name, and for the sake, of Him who said, 'If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross daily, and follow me.'

The Morning News Review of Florence, S. C., in its issue of February 3d, carries the following item of interest to SUN readers:

"Dr. Daniel Albright Long, for a half century a minister of the Christian Church, educator, historian and orator of note, has moved to Florence and will make his home in this city. For the present Dr. and Mrs. Long will be at home to their friends at the home of their son, J. C. Long, on Guerry Street, but will remain there only until their home next door is made ready for occupancy.

"It will be a source of great gratification to all in Florence to know that Dr. Long is to become a citizen of this city. Upon the occasion of his visits here he has made large numbers of friends and has delighted several gatherings with his presence and oratory. Dr. Long is from Franklin, N. C., but recently he has been in Florida looking after his extensive real estate holdings there. With Mrs. Long, he arrived in the city yesterday.

"Although he has reached the age of 82 years, Dr. Long retains all the vigor of youth in mind and body and will take an active part in the social, civic and religious affairs of Florence, to which he will be a great addition. He is a Confederate Veteran of four years' honorable and brilliant service."

No pastor is more deeply interested in Missions and the success of Mission Month than Dr. H. W. Dowding, pastor of First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., who, under date of February 2d, writes: "My plan is to devote each Sunday morning during the month to Mission topics, to talk it in the Sunday School, to visit the Ladies' Missionary Meeting and make a definite appeal for funds.

"I know our people will respond as cheerfully and generously as possible, because of their devotion to the Mission cause in general, and for their appreciation of your personal, consecrated interest in the work.

"Those of us who deal with the local church cannot be otherwise than amazed and gratified with the responses of the poor people. For instance, last Sunday we took up four different offerings in our Sunday School among the adults. As you know, we have only one business man in our church, and only one professional man. The average wage of the balance 40 heads of families would not exceed thirty dollars per week. To meet all the legitimate demands of this church, we need an income of nearly $100 per week, that is with the salary of a full paid pastor. Therefore we must conclude that the few people who support a church like this have got religion or something very akin to it.

"I am going to stir up the embers of mission effort this month, and I trust that the time is not far distant when God will place our church and all churches of the Christian fellowship in a position where we can carry on in the Mission Field all the great things which you have in your heart to do."

A MOTHER OF MINISTERS.

Yesterday they banked above and about the lifeless body of a mother flowers of many hues and colors. Gathered there at her bier were ministers, the achievement of her years. In a very literal sense she was a mother of ministers. From the keen brain and kind heart of one of her minister-sons scores of ministers in the making have been helped. Count them if you will. Or would it not be easier to count the ministers of the Southern Christian Convention who have not heard the teachings and felt the friendship of that minister-son? The Alma Mater of most of us has known never a day without him! A mother of ministers indeed was she.

Few, very few, are the years of that same Alma Mater when another of her sons has not gone forth a minister to help make and mold ministers from his place in pulpit, at the teacher's desk, and in college chapel. Year after year as preacher, pastor, and promoter of God's Kingdom in Conference and Convention he has labored incessantly. A mother of ministers she was! And still another minister-son for more than twenty-six years has likewise been a son of that same Alma Mater, and in those years he has gone forth preaching Christ and practicing Christianity. In the home, in the church, and about full many a fireside his kindly help and Christian teaching has been mightily felt. But is even that all? Nay, for a daughter, possessing in a full measure the grace and charm of her mother, became a minister's wife and the mother in turn of a minister's children! Her lot it has been and still is to be hostess to scores of homesick college boys and girls in the same above referred to college town. More than hostess to many was she, as many who read these lines could gladly testify. And further still, a leader of fine vision, and faithful performance, is that other daughter from whose home and tender, loving, hands they bore her yesterday. What gathering has there been of the Christian Church in Eastern Virginia for many years that has not been benefitted by her counsel and blessed by her presence? And there are others beyond the pale of this writer's personal knowledge, but already enough is given to cause her record to be hard to equal among the mothers of men.

Yesterday I looked upon the flowers, and I thought of mothers. And after all is it not the wish of all mothers worthy of the name that their children be ministers? Not necessarily ministers of the Gospel in the technical sense, but servers in God's world. Some mothers go early and leave their children behind, and some live long and with their children walk, but in motherhood have they not both rendered a service which only God can measure? All of us have mothers, either actually with us or in memory's sacred domain. Would the world not be much better if we all sought more earnestly to cause our mothers to be in deed and in truth mothers of ministers?

JOHN G. TRUITT.

FROM WAKEFIELD CHARGE.

The Fifth Sunday in January was a delightful day, and one that will be long remembered in the hearts of the people of the Wakefield charge. While there was a down-pour of rain most of the day, which had been preceded by a day and night of such weather, yet we feel that the day was one that marked a great and lasting good in the history of the churches. We regret that the weather conditions prevented the rural churches from being present with a large number of folk, yet those who were present entered into the spirit of the day. The program began at 10 o'clock with a delightful Sunday School, which I think was above the average, both in interest and in devotion due, perhaps, in a large measure to the fact, that the week preceding had been given over to the study of the problems of the Sunday School led by Miss Pattie Cghill. Her work, while with us, was of a very high order; it led us to see the work in a new light and to realize some changes that would profit our school to make.

Following the Sunday School period, was an address by Mr. E. B. White of Richmond, Va., Rev. C. C. Ryan, pastor of the first Christian Church, Richmond, Va., was to be with us, but sickness prevented. Then a very delightful lunch was served in the Sunday School room, by the ladies. In the afternoon Miss Coghill spoke on the Young people's work, characterized by her optimism and enthusiasm of that phase of the church work.

The writer then was called on to give a short talk. This was followed by other short talks by the superintendents and teachers present. The ladies quartet of the Dendron Christian Church delighted the audience with two selections during the afternoon. Brother Wwhite was heard again by a large congregation, this bringing the day to a very successful close.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD,
Pastor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE SIZE OF OUR MISSION OFFERING.

No "quota" has been "assigned" any Church, or any member of a church, for the offering to our Emergency Mission Fund in Mission Month. The Mission Board did not have the authority, or the wisdom, to do this. The Board did realize, and does now realize, that an Emergency Fund of $25,000.00 is a necessity. And it had the faith to believe that the people of the Southern Convention were willing and loyal enough to their Church and their Lord, to make a real personal self-denial offering, that this sum may be laid upon God's altar for the spread of the Gospel.

Now the size of the offering in each congregation will be in proportion, not to the wealth and financial ability of its members, but in proportion to the heart, the zeal and the soul that the pastor and other leaders of each congregation carry into the task. There is much in ability; but there is even far more in will-ability. The Mission Secretary has endeavored to furnish facts and suggestions to all whom he could reach. By the courtesy and liberality of Dr. W. P. Minton, Foreign Mission Secretary, Dayton, Ohio, our pastors, Sunday School superintendents, and presidents of Missionary Societies, have been furnished two comprehensive and illuminating booklets on our work, needs, and prospects, in Porto Rico and Japan. If our people do not know what we have done and are doing on the Foreign Field, and the heart-rending need, the fault is certainly not with our Foreign Mission Secretary.

Our cause at home is pressing, and the demands are urgent. Yet our cause in Japan and Porto Rico is in such a critical and distressing condition just now that the Board realizes that relief must be given—or we face entrenchment and a tragedy.

So Brethren, Sisters, SUN readers all, let's make our offering in Mission Month the largest and most liberal possible. This we can do by some self-denial in His name Who denied Himself all for our sakes.

J. O. A.

SHALL WE REJECT OR REJOICE?

We will do one or the other. We will not do both. Which shall it be—Reject or Rejoice? Every pastor and every congregation in the churches of the Southern Christian Convention will make that choice for themselves. And they will do so in February or March. They cannot escape. Will they Reject or Rejoice? Even our Saviour could not but Reject or Rejoice: "If it be possible let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless not my will but Thine be done." And God's will was done. Jesus accepted the ordeal, made the supreme sacrifice of self-denial and rejoiced in the triumph of a glorious resurrection.

We Christians are called now by the extreme urgency of absolute necessity to practice in some way the holy virtue of self-denial. We are all asked, every church, every individual in every congregation of Christians, either in February or in March, to make a self-denial offering for the glory of our Lord and the furtherance of His Gospel. Will we Reject or Rejoice?

We are calling ours by its hard and practical name—Emergency Fund Offering. Our Baptist friends, maybe with better choice, called theirs "A Love Offering." Their period was January. Read now, if you will, what resulted, as told in the Western Recorder, and see if we are not justified in saying, Reject or Rejoice. It is Dr. Love, Missionary Secretary, writing:

"I pass this word of cheer on to the men and women who have shown a glorious spirit in this debt-paying effort. I have never known anything like it in my acquaintance with Southern Baptists, and I do not believe anybody else has known anything like it. Such abounding in liberal giving, such joy in sacrificial offerings, was never known among Southern Baptists before. I am glad to pass on to those who have sacrificed, the assurance that they have not sacrificed in vain. Of course, if all our people had caught the spirit which these caught and had given in any such proportion as these have given, there would not be a dollar of debt on the Foreign Mission Board, every volunteer who is fitted for the service could be sent to the fields, and all the absolutely necessary equipment could be given the missionaries. Their hearts would be comforted, their spirits strengthened and a new and mighty conquest would be the result upon all of the fields. It is a pity that all our people could not catch the great spirit which has characterized so many. Some have gone to the bottom of the barrel and sent all the money they had; some have borrowed; some who did not have money have sent Love Gifts in the form of jewelry which had the most sacred recollections. Here is a ring which came Monday morning from a good woman in Texas, who did not have money to give, and whose heart would have broken in giving this ring, but for her great love for her Saviour. The ring is valued at $750, though we shall probably not be able to get that sum for it. It is a beautiful diamond in a beautiful setting—a Love Offering indeed, as many have been.

"One other fact ought to be remembered, and that is, everybody has got a blessing out of it who has put true missionary passion into it. Many pastors write that this Love Offering has been a great blessing to their churches. Texas Baptists have given considerably more than $100,000 to this Love Offering, and Dr. F. S. Groner of Texas says: 'I am so happy over the outcome in Texas. This special effort has helped everything and has toned up the morale of our people throughout the State. It was a Godsend to us.'

"Missouri Baptists have taken this matter to heart and achieved commendable results. Dr. A. J. Barton, the Corresponding Secretary, says: 'The Love Offering for the Foreign Mission Board has been a joy and an inspiration. . . . The Love Offering has been coming in, the regular contributions from the churches have not been reduced, but have steadily increased. The offerings for the regular work during the month of December showed a gain of 92.9 per cent over the contributions for December, 1924.'

"Louisiana is among the States which put this offering on with passion, and Secretary Solomon says: 'It has been a blessing to our people and will help everything we are doing.'

"These are examples of what pastors and secretaries are saying. The Virginia women have raised $50,000 on this offering, and there is rejoicing among them from Cape Henry to beyond the Peaks of Otter. All over the South men, women and children have poured out their Love Offerings to the Saviour and He has poured His blessing into their hearts, making them better church members and greater denominational assets."

Again we exclaim to all our people, great and small, "Shall we, as a result of Mission Month, Reject or Rejoice?"

J. O. A.

SELF-DENIAL FOR HIS SAKE.

The Purpose.

The Mission Board believes that the people of the Christian Church are as willing as other people are to make any reasonable sacrifice for the sake of the gospel and the Kingdom of our Lord. But they must, (1) Know why; and (2) Be given a chance. The "Why" is, that the Board is doing its best to push the work at Home and Abroad in the name of our Lord, but is laboring under galling but necessary indebtedness. We have tried our best to help enlarge the Kingdom of our Christ. Our returns from several sources, especially from Men and Millions, have not been what we had a right to expect. We must now have a large increase of funds at once, or cripple the meagre work we are trying to do.

So during February all of the Churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference, and during March, all the Churches in all the other Conferences of the Southern Convention, are to take an offering in an effort to raise a $25,000 Emergency Fund. We believe our people are willing to raise this amount and will do it if given the proper suggestion and opportunity. It certainly will help us spiritually, and therefore powerfully, in every way if we give all a chance. Here then is a Suggestion. Please read and think it over.

The Plan.

Why not all of us in the Christian Church practice Self-Denial in some way during Mission Month for the sake of our Lord and the extension of His Kingdom? In this we follow Christ and get closer to Him. "If any man will come after me let him deny himself, take up his cross daily, and follow me."—Luke 9: 23. The Kingdom of God has been built up, and only goes forward, through self-denial. God Himself chose that way of founding and of building up His Kingdom. He builds in no other way than through the self-denial of His followers. Through self-denial He seeks to make us more like His blessed Son, Who Himself practiced self-denial as none of us ever have or will. Are we willing, during Mission Month, to deny ourselves something, and lay on His altar—place in the collection plate—on the day of the Missionary offering the price of that of which we deny ourselves?

We can choose the time of our self-denial as may seem best—either some object every day of one week during Mission Month; or one day of the four weeks of Mission Month. Let all of us make it a real self-denial offering.

It may be the price of—Our daily dessert for a week; a pleasant trip we coveted for a week-end; the candy, gum, or cold drinks for a week; an entertainment we had decided to give; a pet luxury or indulgence; one meal a day for a week; gas and oil and wear of the car for a day or week.

Little, one says? Yes, little or much, but let us Christians practice self-denial for His sake, Who denied Himself all to make His name—Christian—worth our having and wearing.

Then for Jesus' sake we will make our Mission Month a real success and win a glorious victory over self and for Him. We can do it. Are we willing? God help us. J. O. A.

SUGGESTIONS FOR A CHURCH PROGRAM.

No. II.

It is every pastor's business to survey the field of his church, take an inventory of the needs and of the opportunities, and then to prescribe the course of action his church should pursue to meet the needs and to make the most of the opportunities. This course of action recommended to the church by the pastor, will with his program of pastoral activities constitute a definite program for him and his church. Some ministers seem to think that if they deliver two sermons each Sunday that is all the program needed. But a definite program of what the church should be doing is of more importance than the sermons that are to be preached by the pastor. We are told that the pulpit is the minister's throne, but we should not forget that his study or the office where he works out his programs as well as where he grows his sermons is the stairway to his throne, the stairway to his right of occupying the pulpit. In his study he needs to think of how to lead his people out in a constructive program of achievements as well as to prepare sermons to stimulate their spiritual appreciations.

Having observed the first Sunday in September as "Inspiration Sunday"—reviewing the work of the past, and outlining the work of the coming year, the rest of the month of September can well be devoted to rallying and organizing the church members. The third Sunday in September can be observed as enlistment day. The week previous, the pastor should send a cordial letter to each member. This letter should be signed by the Executive Committee of the Official Board also. The letter should be brief and to the point, as should all pastoral letters. In the letter, it is well to state the aims of the church and Sunday School for the year. The church that does not aim high is sure to strike low. In the letter, a card should be enclosed with a list of Sunday School activities, Christian Endeavor activities, Missionary Society activities, Brotherhood activities and all the church activities indicated, and a square space placed before each item, requesting each member to check the kind of work he or she is willing to do during the year. In every church there are people who have always been loyal and faithful in one line of work, but have cared little about other lines of church activities. All such should be encouraged and urged to enter into a different department of the church work for a year as a means of development in Christian leadership. It should be the ambition of every sincere Christian to be "well rounded, thoroughly furnished in every good work." A definite church program makes such possible. At the morning service on this third Sunday in September, a very appropriate subject to preach on is, "Enlisting for Christ."

A Visitation Committee equal to one-tenth of the membership, and composed of the most active members of the church, together with the less active members, should be selected and ready for action on the afternoon of this third Sunday in September. Of course the pastor will not announce that he has chosen the active and the inactive members of this committee, as a contention might arise as to "which was which." But the benefit of such a method, I am sure is perfectly apparent. The committee should be divided up into teams of two each—one active and one inactive, and sent out to visit the entire membership on that Sunday afternoon in the name and interest of the church. They should be sowers of optimism in all the church homes—boosting the church in all of their conversations. The inactive member on the team will soon catch the spirit of the active member, and before the afternoon is over, he may be the better booster of the two. These visiting teams will collect the cards on which the members have indicated the kind of work they are willing to engage in, and return to the church where supper will be served them. After supper, the men should be given the privilege of telling their experiences of the afternoon, reporting the various reactions, favorable and unfavorable. It will be surprising how few unfavorable reactions there will be by reason of the comprehensive program the church is launching. The result of the visitation will be a great inspiration to the visitation committee and to the pastor and to the members called upon. It will convince them that a church committee can make a call without asking for money. That will be a most gratifying demonstration to some.

The following week, or the week leading up to the first Sunday in October, should be fellowship week. Ample announcement should be made of the church social to be held on the most convenient night during the week. The members should be urged to make as many calls on each other during the week as possible, and to share the hospitality of their homes with each other to some extent during the week. Each family should invite at least one other family of their church to their home for a meal, at which time the work of the church should be the chief topic of conversation. Such fellowship, and for such a purpose, will prove a tie that binds the hearts in closer Christian love.

Careful plans should be made for the church social during this week. This being the first social of the year, it is the most important of any to be held. It will largely determine what the social life of the church is to be during the year. It is a good idea to make this the annual Home Coming occasion. A good meal will be provided free under the direction of the social committee, and an interesting and snappy program arranged. It should be a genuine "get-together occasion."

At this social, every person present should be button-holed with a souvenir Home-Coming tag, with the words printed on the opposite side, "I'll be at Church Rally Sunday. Will you?" Also special announcement should be made by the Sunday School Superintendent, the Christian Endeavor President and the pastor, relative to the Rally Day on the following Sunday—the last Sunday in September. Let this social be "a really jolly good time." Play some of the church social games that create a fine feeling of fellowship.

Each class in the Sunday School will be expected to organize to promote Rally Day, and to try to get all the old members out on that day. That is the purpose of Rally Day—namely to rally the old members. The name is self explanatory. But so often the purpose of the day is absolutely defeated by the people working to bring in new members and outsiders. The time for bringing in "the outsiders" has not yet come. It will come after Rally Day. For up to that time the program of the church should be devised toward getting the membership lined up ready for action—namely getting the machinery organized and the workers committed to service. And if the program for the first month of the church has been carefully carried out, the success of the entire year's work has been practically assured. On Rally Sunday, a most fitting subject for the pastor to speak on is "The Supremacy of the Church." Some people do not believe in having a church program. Their churches show it! They say, "Let God's Spirit lead." God will lead a pastor more truly, however who plans ahead. God will bless a church more largely that has faith and vision enough to plan for a year's program.

An adequate program, an outline of what is to be done and the steps to be taken in doing it, is just as essential as the organization, yes more essential, for there are churches that have strong organizations, but week programs, and hence accomplish little. An organization without a program is useless. But the world always makes way for the organization, whether it be church or any other organization, that has a definite goal in view and is on its way toward the goal.

Next week further suggestions for a church program will be given. R. C. H.

THE TRIAL OF JESUS CHRIST.

Among the recorded judicial trials no one has had such a reaching consequences, as the two-fold trial of Jesus Christ. It was the culmination upon which is built all Christianity. It is found in the huts of the poor, and the palaces of kings.

In what I may say I shall leave out theological disputes and try to show the legal side of this question.

The man Christ Jesus was against the Jewish law, ecclesiastical and civil. He was a subject of Rome, amenable to the law of Rome. In the study of this question, we should not think of the trial in terms of United States, but in the light of the law, as it then was. Tiberius Caesar, the second Emperor, was on the throne at Rome. Jerusalem was a Roman province, and Pontius Pilot was a Roman procurator. The Sanhedrin was the supreme tribunal of the Jews, but the court of Rome passed upon the legal and political rights. The central figures of all history stood charged with two capital crimes, blasphemy and treason. Andrew C. Bisek says: "History records no other trial conducted before the court of God and the court of men; under the law of Israel and the law of Rome; before Caiaphas and Pilot, as the representatives of these powers and administrators of these laws."

The trial for blasphemy before the Sanhedrin was ecclesiastical. The decision was adverse to the prisoner. Pilot vetoed this when he said, "I find no fault in this man."

D. A. L.

A church in a certain rural district was sadly in need of repairs. The official board had called a meeting of the parishioners to see what could be done toward raising the necessary funds. One of the wealthiest and stingiest of the adherents of that church arose and said that he would give $5, and sat down. Just then a bit of plastering fell from the ceiling and hit him squarely upon the head. Whereupon he jumped up, looked confused and said: "I—er—I meant to say I'd give $50," and then resumed his seat again. After a brief silence a voice was heard to say: "O Lord, hit him again!"

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

It is a rare experience for one woman to be the mother of three ministers; but such a mother was buried at Oakland Christian Church, January 24, 1926. She was Hannah Cross Urquhart. Her father, John Urquhart, was born in Inverness, Scotland; her mother, Helen Shivers, was a native of Isle of Wight County, Virginia. She was born in Isle of Wight County, Virginia, on March 16, 1835, and died in Norfolk, Virginia, January 23, 1926, at the age of 90 years, 10 months, and 7 days.

She was married to John Bridger Newman in January 1858. Her husband died September 22, 1900. They lived happily together for 42 years. She was the mother of seven children, six of whom survive her; she is survived, also by one brother, W. J. Urquhart of Richmond, Va., and two step-children, Mrs. Ella Hirst of Middleton, N. Y., and Mrs. Job Holland of Chuckatuck, Va. Her own dear children who survive this mother are: Rev. Dr. J. U. Newman, Professor in Elon College, North Carolina; W. T. Newman, West Palm Beach, Florida; Rev. Dr. N. G. Newman, pastor of Holy Neck Christian Church, Holland, Virginia; Rev. C. E. Newman, pastor of Union Christian Church, Virgilina, Virginia; Mrs. W. C. Wicker, wife of Rev. Dr. W. C. Wicker, Elon College, North Carolina; and Mrs. L. W. Stagg, Norfolk, Virginia. In addition to three sons, who are Christian preachers, she has one grandson, Rev. Worth Wicker, who is an Episcopal preacher in Rocky Mount, North Carolina; one son-in-law, Dr. W. C. Wicker, a minister, and one daughter, Mrs. L. W. Stagg, a successful and useful church worker.

Few mothers of such modest and sincere life have made such a large contribution to the Christian activities of a generation as dear Mrs. Newman. She spent her last years with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stagg, where she enjoyed their constant care and the visits of children and friends.

Rev. Dr. I. W. Johnson, pastor of Oakland Church, conducted the funeral services in the presence of a large congregation of appreciative friends whose hearts really congratulated the children upon the life of such a mother and the hope of re-union in the "Home of the Soul."

Dr. Johnson based his remarks on the first verse of the second chapter of John: "The mother of Jesus was there." "This is," he said, "an unusual occasion. As I stand here representing this church and this congregation, I feel that I am really on holy ground. As I look upon this casket containing the body of one of your friends and neighbors, I feel that silence would be more eloquent than any choice words which I could use to express my thoughts. But I am venturing to bring to your minds some impressions which I wish may be received with prayerful consideration. 'The mother of Jesus was there.'

"I.—Mother in the Home Life.

"It was a feast—a marriage feast, the beginning of a home. Jesus was there. His mother was there. He was seeking to create the best home, and mother makes the home. Mother said to the servants, 'Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it'; and they did. This mother whose body lies beneath these flowers was a real mother out there in that home of the Newman family.

"II.—Mother in the Public Life.

"The Cana picture was only the beginning. She was with Him in the Temple when He was twelve. She was not always with Him in person, but she was always with Him in spirit. These three sons in their pulpits, these others in the pews, mother has been with them in her prayers, her anxiety and her faith, all these years.

"III.—In the Hour of Trouble.

"At the cross mother was there. At the experience that cost Him His life, mother was there. 'Now there stood by the cross of Jesus, His mother.' She could not do much for Him then, but she was there. This mother has been with her sons and daughters in all their troubles, through the years." W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

One of the most significant facts, I think, is the giving of large sums of money by business men for Christian Education. The three greatest givers in American History have been Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, and James B. Duke, and not a single one of these men had the advantage of a college education, yet, when they considered what they should do with their money, they gave millions to Christian Education.

These men were evidently convinced that the future of the church and also of the state is intimately wrapped up with education, and consequently they decided to give large sums of money for these purposes.

These men achieved distinction in their lives. I think they may fairly be said to be great men. Any man is great who comes to a commanding position in any line of human endeavor, and these three great philanthropists were dominant figures in our commercial life. They had open to them all the world to which they might devote their wealth, but there is not much evidence that they ever considered any other investment of their millions than the opportunities offered through Christian Education and allied agencies.

The Church can learn a lesson from these captains of industry, a valuable lesson, it seems to me. The Church must strengthen her educational institutions in order to conserve her strength and be sure to win for herself that place of commanding leadership in human affairs which it is her right to occupy.

The same considerations which influenced these princely givers of millions to give so largely for purposes of education, should have weight with those of us who must necessarily give in a small way. We may think, because we are unable to make large contributions, that our contributions will not count in the great program of Christian Education. However, the sum total of small gifts to Christian Education always over-balances the larger ones, and he who is able to give only a few dollars for this cause should feel happy that he is investing it in a way that is approved by the business judgment and foresight of the greatest givers in human history.

In this connection I wish to express grateful appreciation to those who are aiding the work here through contributions to our field secretaries. I know that they have every reason to feel that they are making a solid contribution of lasting worth to the cause of Christian Education in our denomination and to the strengthening of our Church in all its life and in every enterprise which it fosters.

I make this statement in the preceding paragraph because the basic thing in any Church is its leadership, and an intelligent leadership is an absolute necessity in a day of general intelligence such as that in which we are now situated. W. A. HARPER.

SERMON OF REV. JAMES W. WELLONS, D. D.

Preached on His One Hundredth Birthday, January 1, 1926, at Elon College, N. C.

I don't know that I can talk loud enough that many of you can hear me, but I will talk and hope that a few of you may hear me.

For the last few days I couldn't keep the tears from my eyes when I received so many letters and cards of congratulation. I couldn't help weeping, and today to meet this great crowd here I feel that it is an honor not deserved, but richly conferred upon me.

I want to say here in the form of a sermon a few words. I was always a great believer in the Bible. My mother taught me that, and I have always loved the old standard King James Version of the Bible and have always read it, and the days that I can read, that is all I read now. It is the greatest pleasure of my life. I prayed earnestly a few years ago when my eyesight became dim that I might read the Bible as long as I lived. I do read it, but I do not read it perfectly. I cannot read it perfectly.

I very often have to read over a verse twice, sometimes three times, before I can get hold of it, but always I find pleasure in that old Bible. I intended to bring it with me today, that old Bible, the one that I have used so many years, whose lessons have been such a comfort and such a pleasure to me all my life.

I have had many Bibles, all of them King James versions, and have worn them out. I don't know how many I have worn out in my life. Not as many as I ought. The one I now have is in larger letters, and I have had it many, many years. The last few months this old Bible has given out, but I would not buy a new one. I had it rebound, and every day read this old Bible of mine. And I want to say here, brethren, that I would not give this old Bible for all the new translations you can make.

I have tried to preach for over seventy years, and during that time I have always used the King James version of the Bible. I call it the old Bible. I love it. It comforts me. I never but one time, I remember had to use a substitute, and that was when I could not get hold of my old Bible.

I want to say here that the lessons taught me from that old Bible were taught me by my mother. She taught me in my early age. She taught me to love God, as far back as I can recollect, and I can recollect a little further back than some of you. I can recollect all her teachings.

I was always so glad to have ministers come to my father's house. I was reared in the country. We didn't have so many preachers and they didn't come as often as they do now. They came but seldom, and I was always so glad to run and open the gate. And when they got there, it was not a ten or fifteen minutes' visit; it was a half a day or a whole night. Those old lessons they taught me I shall remember all my days. They taught me about the Three Hebrew Children, the Fiery Furnace and Daniel. I listened to them, and there are so many things in my mind which those dear men taught me and which I shall never forget. We didn't have Sabbath Schools then. We didn't have the privileges we now have, and children did not arrive at maturity as rapidly as they do now. Times change, but I am glad to say that even in this day and time the same old religion taught me when I was a boy is the religion we need. We cannot change it, though we may interpret it differently.

Will you allow me to say here, that the children of my youth were taught by godly parents to fear God, and when I had grown to be about eleven and a half years old, had reached that period of life when I began to see and think of the goodness of the Lord and the great power of the Lord. I used to go to the church and sit down and listen to the preacher. We each year had a series of meetings, we called them "Protracted Meetings." I always attended these meetings. Between my eleventh and twelfth years I was deeply convinced. I felt strangely moved on Sunday. On Monday I listened to the preacher as he told of the stories of the great wonders of Christ and the power of God to save. The tears began trickling down my cheeks. When my heart was moved to compassion, I felt that there was something that I had to do, but oh! what a cross my heart had to bear. I had the hardest cross. Someone advised me to go the front seat with the unsaved, and I refused. But presently an old gentleman came down the aisle. His name was Harward Lanier, and he came and laid his arms so tenderly around me and said: "I have come to help you." I yielded and went forward. I had been there but a little while when the dark cloud began to disperse, my fears began to steal away, and light came. Everything changed. The whole house and everything changed in appearance. Everything looked so much better, so much clearer, so much nicer. When I arose from there, I don't know what I said, I don't know what I did, but I arose from there and felt that there was something for me to do. "You must bring someone else in," and I went searching for somebody else to bring to the foot of the Cross, and there I got comfort.

My old grandmother was at home. I felt that I must hurry home to tell grandmother. When I got there, I found she was so anxious to hear what her little boy had to say, and, as I told my grandmother, the tears began to trickle down the face of this earnest woman as she listened attentively to what I had to say. I cannot follow the story further, but I always love to tell it, and it has always been a source of comfort to me; it has always sustained me; it has always strengthened me; that little streak of light and joy I gathered there at the foot of the Cross. And, brethren, today, when I am one hundred years old, it is a fresh story that I love to tell, the story of the time when I found joy at the foot of the Cross.

Allow me to say here that I have always liked to sing. My voice has failed me now, but still I enjoy to hear singing. My voice was good for many years and I loved to sing. I cannot remember when I began to sing. When the preachers came to visit my father, I always listened attentively, but when they sang, I joined in. Most of the time I led at their request. When I learned the fear of the Lord and when it became my duty, I taught the rest of the family to sing. They would read the words, and I would sing them for them. That was before I could read and write.

But, somehow I didn't think I was called to the ministry, though my older brother thought I was. He was a great preacher and nearly five years older than myself. I didn't feel that way. He was a bookworm, and I was not. I loved to look after father's stock and the farm, and I have never seen the time when I didn't work; when I didn't have something to do. When I became impressed with the idea of preaching, I didn't tell anybody, not even my brother. I never kept anything else from my mother. I said I was going to wrestle this out with the Lord, and I did for three years. I was going to school, such schools as we had, and I used them the best I could. And, when I told my mother, she wrote at once to my brother, and he wrote me immediately: "We have all thought for three years that you were going to preach." I was then giving some attention to medicine. "For three years we have been thinking you were going to preach. Give all your time to the Lord," he wrote me, and I took his advice.

I attempted to go to school, but my health was such that I could not remain, and I was forced to leave the school room on account of my failure in health. But when I went into the ministry, I resolved to study in school; though under difficulties. I had a large field of labor while I was in school. The churches in those days did not pay anything scarcely. One gentleman proposed to give me a horse. Another man proposed to give me a buggy and harness. "No," I said, "I will not accept these things as gifts, but when I can pay you for them, I will do it." They said: "We will never ask you for the money." But I went to work, and in less than two years I had paid for the horse, buggy and harness.

There are many things here that I might mention if I had the strength and the time, that might be a pleasure to you to hear, but I will go lightly over them. And I say, my brethren, when I commenced to try to preach, I preached as my mother had taught, as that old fashioned Bible had taught. I preached Jesus Christ and Him crucified. God heard my feeble efforts, and souls were won for Christ. What a comfort and what a pleasure! I started out preaching for souls, not money, and it was such a pleasure always to see them coming. And as I went to the people in their homes and talked about the blessed Lord, I could feel the fine influence that moved me to work. I have never doubted the baptism of the Holy Spirit.

At an early age I came up with a gentleman. My father had sent me to market, and I stopped at the shop for lunch, and the gentleman of the shop came up and invited me into the house and showed me an invention, perpetual motion. He said that a great royalty would be offered him for it. I looked at it, and saw that it would run until it wore out. Further, it didn't accomplish a single thing. It just moved and did nothing. He said that he was on his way to Washington, where he was going to patent and sell it. "What does it do?" I asked. "What does it effect? It doesn't accomplish anything." He couldn't answer me. That incident first brought to my mind that a number of men and women grow up in the country just for society and the gay things of life, but what do they do? Oh, how many young men and young women are growing up and not learning to work! Joseph took Jesus and taught Him a trade. And every man and every woman should feel that there is something for them to do. There is something for each of us to do. We should feel that way about life.

We see the boy and girl in early life coming to the front, much sooner than we did. The question comes up here, what are they doing? Are they working? Are they doing anything? Then it comes to my mind, what are their parents doing? Do their parents teach them to work? Do their parents teach them to do something worth while? No, they let them go out at night to learn wickedness. Brethren, these things ought not to exist, and parents should feel that their children should not go into associations of this kind. They should not go into them, they should not associate with their inmates, and, when you allow your boys and girls to go with the lazy, the idlers, and the corrupters of life, then you are letting them go into a channel where they will be ruined unless you can get them back. And remember, when you have learned a thing, it is hard to unlearn it.

Consider our small boys, with cigarettes in their mouths. They learn the use of tobacco, and acquire the taste of tobacco. God didn't give them this taste. The boy cultivates it himself. But we are making some progress. There are brandy and whiskey, now outlawed. God never made any brandy and whiskey. Men made them, and men and women learned to drink them. There was never anything good in them, but only a bad habit. These bad habits are many that we fall into. We also sin against the religion of Jesus Christ when we indulge in these evils.

A little boy or a little girl now reaches the years they feel accountable to God sooner than they used to. It is his duty to ask then to know the Lord. It is the duty of his mother, his parents, to teach him the fear of the Lord. Start him right early in life, and then he will accomplish so much more than he can possibly do if he fails to start at the right time.

I failed to give you my text. My text is: "But seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness: and all these things shall be added unto you." Shall I tell you where it is? It is in Christ's Sermon on the Mount, Matthew 6: 33.

Do you recollect the time you commenced seeking? We have been seeking all our lives. The question comes, what are you seeking? Are you seeking the godly, are you seeking the wicked places, wickedness and corruption? What are you seeking? I told you of a man who was seeking to invent perpetual motion, and it was not worth anything. Are you seeking a large number of things in life that are not worth a thing, not a solitary thing? Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you." No man can preach religion unless he has it. Therefore, it is necessary that we seek. Always be seeking. Always be looking and seeking, and therefore, to you will be coming these gifts of the Lord. Seek ye first, and all these things will follow. When we seek the Lord first, we have made Him an object in life. Seek to do something. Seek to do somebody else good. Seek to do something that will be of service to someone else. In seeking the Lord, we gather good truths and we can store them; but when we seek other things first, we gather trash, and what does it amount to? You get nothing out of it. But read your Bible and you will get good things every time you read. Every time I read my Bible, I get some fresh ideas. I get every time some new truths. I read my Bible because it is a storehouse that doesn't exist anywhere else.

I want all the preachers here to stand. [Some fifty stood.—Editor.] Now let me say to you preachers just a word. I want to inquire of you ministers, whether you have sought souls or whether you have sought money for your hire? If you have sought money, you are a failure. If you have sought souls, you are not a failure. The great object of our religion should be seeking souls. Ministers should be seeking souls to get them to accept Christ. I have known ministers who were interested only in a big congregation and a big salary. They did not think of the poor souls all around them. They say now, "Give me a big church and a big salary, and I will accept it. If you don't, I am in the market, and somebody else will give it, and I will go there." But let me say to you, my dear brethren in the ministry, don't stay on top of the house. Come down here among these boys and these girls. Come down here and teach them and take them up step by step up the ladder, until you get them into a higher position. Don't despise the children, nor the day of small things.

And right here I want to say to my brethren of the ministry, and to those who want to be ministers, give your whole heart to the seeking of souls; be soul hunters and not money hunters. God doesn't forget us, and you will not be forgotten. Go out among the poor, among the people in the country, go out yonder among the people in the mills and seek souls.

My brethren, let me say here that you should
Continued on page 14.)

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

TWO AND TWO.

"And he went around about the villages teaching. And he called unto him the twelve, and began to send them forth by two and two."—Mark 6: 6-7.

"Now after these things, the Lord appointed seventy and sent them two and two."—Luke 10: 1.

Christ was the greatest teacher and the model organizer. He is always honored when his followers use his plans and methods. He has ever honored the use of his own plans. The plan of "twos" is one of the very best plans ever used by those who would do Christ's work. It does not matter whether it be in soul-winning, social visitation or the Every-Member Canvass. Witness the Kingdom Enlistment Week results throughout our church, witness the Every-Member Canvass throughout our brotherhood now where they have followed the standard plan though "we tried it once and it wouldn't work with us."

See what two men can do, when they have been properly instructed, sitting down in a home; they can explain every item in both parts of the budget and make it plain to the entire family, answering questions that the pulpit does not have time to answer in detail, even if all members of all the families were present.

These two canvassers can talk it through with the family, showing the needs, fields, responsibilities, and tactfully make suggestions if amounts likely to be subscribed are unworthy. They can show that a tithe of the income is the least that any one should give and that the greater portion of this should ordinarily be subscribed through the church.

Here is a family where the husband has heretofore made the only subscription of perhaps fifty cents a week for current expenses and a nickel for benevolences. There is a chance to do real stewardship teaching and urge that each member should subscribe for his own sake as a matter of worship, which is individual. Then there is a chance to show that the ratio is not a right one, and the importance and magnitude of the denominational benevolences may be shown. Then it may be suggested that fifty cents and five cents are fifty-five cents a week, or $28.60 per year, which is a tithe of an income of only $286.00 for the whole year. Then it may be shown that the family pledges should total several times the former amount. It is a great privilege and honor to be a canvasser and a great blessing a canvasser brings to one whom he encourages to come up more nearly to his privilege and duty.

A team not only secures subscriptions for the Kingdom work, but carries a message of cheer to the family, shows the accomplishments of the past year and the aims of the new year. Often new workers are discovered, sometimes the way opens for a brief prayer, especially if there are sick ones or shut-ins or if there is sorrow or trouble. It is a great chance to get next to that family and sow stewardship teaching. It is great to be honored by one's church by being chosen as a canvasser.

Jesus was always seeking to develop workers. He took some pretty raw material, the twelve and the seventy, and see what he brought them to be. The Every-Member Canvass develops the canvasser in a wonderful way. It is a pastor's priceless privilege to develop them into splendid workers. It trains them for larger leadership. It gives them a man's task, not a boy's job. It draws out the best. It gives them new and interesting points of contact. They became advocates, and it is a great thing to be an advocate of the various causes of the Kingdom. No church can afford to go without a regular Every-Member Canvass annually.

MEN AND MILLIONS.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

Dear Sir:

The collections from Men and Millions for January are as follows:

Eastern Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 10.00
Antioch	57.00
Western North Carolina Conference:
Burlington	95.50
Poplar Brauch	5.00
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
New Lebanon	20.00
Valley of Virginia Conference:
Leaksville	10.00
Concord	3.00
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Richland	10.00
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Franklinton	5.00
Liberty (Vance)	80.00
Henderson	46.00

Total amount for January$ 341.50

Yours truly,
CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Executive Secretary.

REPORT OF EASTERN VIRGINIA
MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

The following is a report of the receipts of the Women's Missionary Societies of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, for the quarter ending December 30, 1925:

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

Antioch	$ 12.81
Berea (Nansemond)	18.40
Bethlehem	17.35
Christian Temple	83.04
Cypress Chapel	2.00
Damascus	5.50
Dendron	16.15
Dover	16.80
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth	4.73
First, Norfolk	60.00
Franklin	12.65
Holy Neck	38.20
Holland	52.05
Isle of Wight Court House	4.50
Liberty Spring	5.65
Mt. Carmel	11.50
Newport News	8.80
Oakland	2.80
First Church, Portsmouth	20.24
Richmond First	20.25
Rosemont	51.21
Suffolk	98.50
Wakefield	13.30
Waverly	30.20
Windsor	5.10

.....$ 611.73

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

Berea (Nausemond)	$ 14.20
Bethlehem	12.39

Christian Temple	5.00
Cypress Chapel	11.50
Damascus	10.00
Dendron	4.00
Dover	45.00
First, Norfolk	3.05
Franklin, Va.	1.00
Holy Neck	2.95
Holland	46.35
Liberty Spring	5.80
New Lebanon	9.01
Richmond50
Suffolk	227.70
Union (Surry)	5.40
Waverly	9.20
Windsor	14.15

WILLING WORKERS' SOCIETIES.

		427.20
Berea (Nansemond)	$ 2.88
Bethlehem	2.60
Christian Temple	7.01
First, Norfolk	15.00
Franklin	13.75
Holy Neck	9.45
Holland	23.50
Mt. Carmel	3.00
Rosemont	3.00
Windsor	4.00

84.19

Grand total$ 1,123.12

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. W. V. LEATHERS,
Treasurer.

REPORT OF NORTH CAROLINA
MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

The following is the report of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the North Carolina Christian Conference, for the quarter ending December 31, 1925:

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

Bethlehem Aid	$ 5.00
Burlington	120.08
Chapel Hill	12.90
Durham	36.45
Elon College	96.79
Greensboro	62.25
Heuderson	50.00
Hines' Chapel	20.00
Howard's Chapel	10.00
Liberty (Vance)	15.00
Lynchburg, Va.	6.50
Monticello	3.00
Mt. Auburn	30.00
Mt. Giliad	1.73
Piney Plain	2.85
Pleasant Grove, Va.	10.80
Pleasant Hill	9.40
Pleasant Ridge	21.05
Raleigh	25.40
Randleman	2.50
Sanford	26.00
Union Ridge	11.25
Union, Virgilina, Va.	23.26
Wake Chapel	18.45

.....$ 620.66

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

Burlington	$ 40.55
Elon College	15.10
Burlington, Jr.	4.70
Greensboro	25.00
Mt. Zion	8.35
Ramseur	5.00
Sanford	3.75
Uniou, Virgilina	1.00

103.45

WILLING WORKERS' SOCIETIES.

Burlington	$ 3.10
Elon College	2.25
Greensboro	6.25

Liberty (Vance)	1.00
Mt. Zion	3.00
		15.60
Grand total	$ 739.71

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. W. R. SELLARS,

Treasurer.

Burlington, N. C.,
February 1, 1926.THE REASON FOR MISSIONARY ZEAL.

BY REV. C. C. RYAN, D. D.

Pastor First Christian Church, Richmond, Va.

[This sermon was delivered before the congregation of our Richmond Church on Sunday, February 7th. just before the taking of the Emergency Mission Offering. This church reports its quota raised.]

TEXT: Heb. 2: 9; I. Thess. 5: 19.

It is with a view of arousing such an understanding of the great underlying reason for Missions, that I bring this to you today.

According to the New Testament standard, the passion of a Christ-like love for human souls is a greater thing than eloquence, knowledge, or faith. "If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels and have not love, I am become as sounding brass or a clanging cymbal; and if I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have faith so as to remove mountains, and have not love, I am nothing." The passion of a Christ-like love for human souls develops in the soul of a Christian disciple from the presence in himself of powers and activities that reflect the mind of Christ.

We see three things in Christ's life: First, A clear vision of the world; Second, A deep feeling toward the world; Third, Actual effort for the world.

Our Lord saw all human life clearly. He saw the world as it is. No mists of optimism deceived Him; no veils of pessimism blinded Him. While taking note of every local interest, while loving and toiling for the individual, yet ever with clear eyes he saw the world, loved of God, cursed by sin, groaning and travailing for redemption.

And with this clear vision of all human life, our Lord Jesus joined the deep feeling of perfect appreciation and divine compassion. What He saw He felt. Upon His own holy soul He bare the griefs and carried the sorrows of humanity. The sighing of the prisoner came up before Him, and the cry of the oppressed was ever in His ear. When he beheld the city He wept over it. He had compassion on the multitude because they were as sheep without a shepherd. And with unwavering faith, He turns toward Jerusalem that He might be lifted up and draw all men toward Himself.

And to this clear vision of the world, and to this deep feeling for the world, our Lord added actual effort for the world. His sorrow was not the impotent lament of one who fain would do, but could not. His burden was not the crushing burden of pessimism. It was the weight of the Sacrificial Cross. It was the Mediatorial burden. "For the joy that was set before Him, He endured the cross, despising the shame." He came not to lament, but to redeem; He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many. And out of this holy triad of powers: His clear vision of the world, His deep feeling toward the world, His active effort for the world, issues the passion of His love for human souls. "The love of Christ which passeth all knowledge"—the love which for us to know is for us to be filled with all the fulness of God.

No conception within the range of human intelligence is so magnificent as this—the love of Christ for man, the boundless, fathomless, deathless love of the Son of God.

The great movement of the Church in this, the twentieth century, is the Missionary movement, that is the awakening of apostolic minds at home and the illumination of heathen darkness abroad.

Minds content with the form rather than the life of Christianity are blinded by local religious interests and must be awakened to the larger questions of the world's evangelization. This apathy can be broken; but the man who thus awakes, who thus conquers, must himself be first conquered and set on fire. It is his to educate the Church's intelligence. Knowledge is the true and substantial basis of an interest in Missions. Vague preceptions of duty may help a flagging interest to survive, but the zeal that endures, the zeal that grows, the zeal that rises to the level of consecration, is the zeal that is according to knowledge. I see developing at many points a new conception of the ministry that must attract toward it many of the most gifted and consecrated young men and young women. The college and the seminary are growing closer together. The study of Missions in the college is bringing out a type of manhood which is full of heroic beauty, enthusiasm and faith. The student is studying the world today as never before, is feeling in his fresh young heart the thrill of the new conception of applied Christianity, is realizing Christ's love and Christ's present salvation for the world in terms of reality. In many a college today, are found the very flower of our youth, to whom the work appears not a reserved and gloomy world of ecclesiastical technicalities, but as the King's own highway to joyful and abundant service.

Methinks I catch a vision of the ministry of tomorrow. It shall be a ministry devoted to the highest scholarship and the most fearless search for truth, looking upon the culture of the mind as no foe to the spiritual life. It shall be a Christ-filled ministry, beholding the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ, worshipping Him with the enthusiasm of an absolutely fearless affection, and presenting Him as the only name given under heaven whereby men might be saved. It shall be a Biblical ministry; holding fast the faithful Word and preaching that Word as one great sufficient message and revelation of God to man. It shall be a Missionary ministry; full of passion to redeem, clear-eyed to discern the outgoings of Christ's work, faithful in its stewardship at home and abroad, apostolic in its assurance that Christ has ordained it to bear much fruit, apostolic in its eagerness to spread far and wide the Gospel of the Risen Lord, apostolic in its blessed hope that that unseen and crowned Saviour shall surely come again.

With such a ministry, it would be the natural thing to expect and to find a laity all aglow with a Missionary spirit, not alone because we have such a ministry, or because we have money invested, or loved ones in the field, but because we see Jesus, and by that marvelous sight, catch His spirit.

If we look at money, we know that it shall perish; if we look at friends, we know that they may fail us; but if we look at Jesus—Dr. Guthrie says: "To see Jesus clearly with the eye of faith is to see the deep opening of a way from Egypt to freedom's shore; is to see the water gush full and sparkling from the desert rock; is to see the serpent gleaming on its pole over a dying camp. To see Jesus is to see the life boat coming when our bark is pounding on the rocks; is to see a pardon when the noose is around our neck and our feet are on the drop."

No sight in the world like Jesus Christ, with yearning and self-surrender in His life, with forgiveness on His lips, and a crown in His blessed hand! This is worth laboring for, praying for, living for, suffering for, dying for.

"Also I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" "Then said the Lord's servant, Here am I, send me," and I beheld the outstretched hands of the millions who know no Christ, and near these millions one saying, "How shall they preach, except they be sent?"

This is the new message to the church. David Livingstone used to say, "The end of the exploration is the beginning of the enterprise, the end of the privilege is the beginning of the duty, the end of the receiving is the beginning of giving, the end of praying together is the beginning of the final victory." I would add, that the end of the awakening of ministry and laity is the beginning of a final conquest for the world's redemption. Moffat told Livingstone that he had seen, in the light of the morning sun, a thousand African villages where the name of Christ had never been spoken. Then Livingstone entered the southern end of Africa and drew by his journeys what Stanley called a cross upon the continent, praying before he died that this open sore might be healed.

We have told that story in our colleges and churches. We have told of Hannington and Coleridge, Patterson and Paton, and the rest, until hosts stand ready to go. They are our imperial troops, waiting to carry our symbols away beyond our far flung battle line. They seek not ease, but service. They have knelt in some new "upper room" until they have heard the sound of the mighty rushing wind, they have knelt by some new hay stack, by historic river, until cloven tongues, like as to fire, have sat upon their lips. They are the children of a material, commercial age, but they have been so touched by the Spirit that they rise from their knees, a new light upon their faces, saying, "The love of Christ constraineth us."

Oh, Church of Christ, quench not the spirit of your sons and daughters! Halt not again at Kadesh Barnea to wonder and die in the wilderness! Fail not as in times past!

"How shall they go, unless they be sent?"

The nation arms and equips her soldiers for a conquest. She staggers not at any millions needed to plant her flag in triumph. The nation sees to it that her soldiers can be useful as well as willing. She meets their readiness with her means. Will the Church of God do less than that. The Church of Christ must enable her sons and daughters to be useful as well as willing. The devotion of the volunteers must be equaled by the devotion of the church. The patriotism of the soldier must not fail because of the apathy of the country.

Then, Oh, to our knees, ye Church of God, that we may catch the vision our children have caught—the world in its need, and Christ with His love. Quench not their spirit!

Individual wealth must be reconsidered in the light of the moving Spirit of God and our people. Passion brings power, and power brings duty. Meanwhile, for every man of wealth and every man getting wealth, there is one sentence with its living definition, "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich." This is the living philosophy of wealth, written in every page of history from Abraham to Christ, and written at last on the Cross itself. By this philosophy all individual wealth shall be tested.

Cotton is not king; the South thought it was, and she was overwhelmed. Commerce is not king; great cities have thought it was, and they have perished. Culture is not king; Greece thought it was, and she lost her candle out of her candlestick. Gold and silver are not king; nor oil, nor

(Continued on page 13.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VIII.—February 21, 1926.

"JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD."

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live."—John 11: 25.

LESSON: John 11: 1-12: 11.

DEVOTIONAL READING: I. Cor. 15: 50-58.

The Master did not dwell apart from the race of men. He lived in their midst and entered into their homes. He went about doing good. It seems that there was something so friendly and genial about Him that there were always those whose homes and hearts were open to Him. The home at Bethany was such a home. It seems that there were three in this humble family, a brother, perhaps the sole support of the family, and two sisters, Martha and Mary. The Master probably made a practice of stopping at this home instead of spending all the time in Jerusalem when He came up to the feasts and on other occasions. These visits had developed a strong friendship between Jesus and the brother and the sisters, for John says, "Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus." It goes without saying that they loved Him too. Happy is the man who has real friends. Thrice happy is the man who has Jesus Christ for his friend. One might add that thrice fortunate is the home with the open door into which the Master comes as a guest. The writer recalls with a spirit of abiding gratitude the homes that were opened to him when, as a college man, he went out on Sundays to preach, or during the summer to engage in evangelistic work. He recalls also a visit with a lady in New Haven whose home was open to students in Yale, and who made a practice of inviting foreign students especially to her home. Inasmuch as we do it unto these, we do it unto Him.

Trouble had come into the home where Jesus was wont to visit. Lazarus, the brother, was ill. When a loved one is ill, especially if he is dangerously ill, hearts are heavy. The sisters felt their deep need and they sent for Jesus. Humanity at its best turns instinctively to Jesus Christ in the hour of trouble. The Master has demonstrated His claim to be called the Great Friend. Those who call upon Him in sincerity and in truth, will never call upon Him in vain.

The Master did not go at once. There is a divine order of things, which human ignorance and impatience does not always recognize. What seems like an unjustified delay in God's dealings with us is not delay at all. God doeth all things well. We must learn to have faith in Him. He moves in mysterious ways His wonders to perform, and at times He seems to move slowly, but He works His wonders just the same. The Master's delay in going was not due to indifference or unresponsiveness; it was all to the end that the Father might be glorified.

But the Master went. The Jews had made an effort to stone Him only a short time before this, and His disciples were surprised that He would dare go back thither again. Duty, not danger, was the great word with the Master. His will was to do the will of the Father that sent Him. The man who does that need fear no danger. He who does not that is in danger already. Jesus would walk in the light as He saw it. And under the inspiration of His moral courage, the disciples, headed by Thomas—Thomas may have been a doubter, but he was no coward—went with Him.

When the Master arrived at the home-town of Lazarus, He found that Lazarus had been dead already four days. The home as reported by John was a scene of sorrow. Many Jews had come to sorrow with those who were in sorrow and to weep with those that wept. The sisters themselves were grief-stricken, perhaps not only because of the death of their brother, but because of the Master's seeming unresponsiveness to their call for help. The writer in his brief ministry has already been into just such homes.

Martha runs true to form. When she hears that the Master is coming, she goes to meet Him. Her greeting was a mixture of what might be called a reprimand and an assertion of faith. "If thou hadst been here my brother would not have died. But even now I know that whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee." "Thy brother shall rise again," said Jesus." "Ah, yes," said Martha, "he will rise at the general resurrection"—the Jews believed in such a resurrection. Then the Master of Life spoke the words that have been the comfort and the strength of countless men and women since. "I am the resurrection and the life. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." There was something about this man that imparted eternal and abiding quality to those who believed in Him and lived in Him. Man is, of course, a creature of time, and subject to the limitations of material things to some extent. But when a man directs his faith to Jesus Christ, there is something so vital in the process that it lifts him into the realm of the eternal. Eternal life is not something that we are going to have in the world to come; eternal life is something that we have here and now if we are in Christ, if we direct our faith to Him and strive to achieve His character and express His spirit. "He that hath the Son hath life." "We know that we are passed from death unto life."

"Jesus wept." This is the shortest verse in the Bible. It is also one of the most important, for it asserts once and for all that the Master took upon Himself our infirmities, and enters into our sorrows. Let no man think as he stands by the open grave that he weeps alone. There is one standing there, nearer than hands and feet, Who weeps with him. Jesus is the Great Comforter because He enters so sympathetically into our sorrows.

There is drama in the situation as Jesus stands before the opening in the cave in which Lazarus has been buried. Here is the supreme test thus far of Jesus' claim as the Lord of Life. As always in a crisis, the Master prayed to the Father, thanking Him in advance that the Father had heard Him. We need to learn that we often have not because we ask not, and we also often have when we ask. "Lazarus, come forth." "And he that was dead came forth." One may interpret this gospel story in many ways, but he who does not see in it all the victorious power of Jesus Christ over the last enemy that must be destroyed—death—does not see the heart of the story. Jesus Christ as the Son of God is the resurrection and the life. There is no death to those who live and believe in Him.

Teaching Points.

1. Jesus Christ exhorts human friendships.
2. God is a very present help in the time of trouble.
3. Delay in answering prayers on God's part is no evidence that they will be unanswered.
4. When danger lies in the path of duty, then danger must be faced.
5. What seem like tragedies are often opportunities for glorifying God.
6. Jesus Christ is Master of Life because He is Master of Death.
7. Fellowship with Christ lifts a man above the temporal into the eternal.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic for February 21, 1926.

"LIVES TRANSFORMED BY CHRIST."

SCRIPTURE: Acts 9: 1-20.

Worship Service.

1. Stand for silent prayer. Close with: "Lord, speak to me, and then speak through me."—H. C. King.
2. Song—"O, Master, Let Me Walk with Thee."
3. Scripture Lesson. (As above.)
4. Prayer—(From "God's Minutes.")

"In Thee, O God, we live, and move and have our being. If Thou wert to withdraw Thy hand for a moment, we should sink into nothingness, as when a drop of dew exhales into the air. We thank Thee for all that makes life worth living; for home and kinship and loving friends, for happiness, the hope and the opportunity of doing good. We thank Thee for life and immortality, brought to light in the Gospel, and a strong staff to lean on as we journey toward the immortal life.

"Enlarge our hearts that we may constantly be doing good, as we have opportunity, unto all men. Look graciously on the sick, and incline the hearts of those who do not come to Thee.

"Hear and answer, Father of all mercies; because we ask in the all-prevailing name of Christ our Saviour and Thy beloved Son. Amen."

Leader's Talk.

All that we have is our heritage from the men and women whose lives have been transformed by Christ. The churches we enjoy are representative of the life blood of men and women whose lives were transformed by Christ. No doubt all of us know people who were won to Christ and the Jesus-way of living—some in a very sudden and unusual experience and others by constantly seeking Him.

Perhaps you are familiar with Holman Hunt's picture of Christ knocking at a door which has no opening from the outside and around which high weeds have grown. It is called "The Light of the World." Christ knocks at the door of our hearts, but the door can only be opened when we will it.

Have we friends whom we should like to see transformed by the spirit of Christ? Friends whose lives could be made so much richer through communion with Him?

Topics for Short Talks.

1. Paul's Conversion. (Acts 9: 1-20.)
2. "Growing Up in the Jesus Way."
3. "The Abundant Life." (John 15.)
4. "Christ—the Man Who Transforms Lives."

Questions to be Asked in the Meeting.

1. What is our duty toward those who have never accepted Christ?
2. Do you know people whose lives would cause you to want to be a Christian if you were not one? What qualities do they have that you like best?

PATTIE COGHILL,

Henderson, N. C.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Kiddies All:

Do you ever talk about the little Japanese children to your mother or to your teacher?

Here is a dear little poem that tells about a lantern-maker who lives in Japan. Read it, dears—then let your scissors make a Japanese lantern and your crayon color it in beautiful Japanese pictures.

THE LANTERN MAKER.

By Janet Gargan.

On the green little isle of Japan,
In a bamboo built fishing town,
Lived the old lantern maker, a man
Who was wrinkled and bent and brown;
But he carried his lanterns each day
Down the street, all strung on a pole—
And he bartered them, painted and gay,
For so little—for just a dole!

But he says: "Oh, the little ones laugh
While they watch my lanterns so bright—
So it is that I sell them for half!
Will you buy one to hang tonight?
Does it matter at night I work long?
Or hard is my bed-mat of rush?
I am happy and humming a song
While flowers grow under my brush.

"When the 'Feast of the Lanterns' comes 'round,
They are mine that the little maids
Will then swing as they march to the sound
Of song in the village parades;
As the lanterns, quick bobbing, go by
With their fragments of candles lit,
They will look like the stars from night's sky
Coaxed down to delight us a bit."

Your Editor,
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT.

THE BISHOP BREAKS A TRAIL.

"He is the best musher in Alaska."

The friends of the bishop in Alaska often say this. They mean that the bishop is the best "trail breaker" in the country. In order to visit his people, Bishop Rowe often goes on long winter trips with his dog team, traveling during a winter from one to two thousand miles. On these journeys he walking ahead of his team of six, on snowshoes, clearing the way for the dogs that are doing all they can do to drag the heavy sled laden with a six week's store of food and camping outfits. Sometimes as he goes along he selects, at each camping place, a tree for a landmark, and under this he hides some of his food until he returns. So he makes the load lighter for his dogs. But he must hide the food very carefully, or the prowling, hungry wolves will find it.

Would you like to see just what happens on one of these hard trips? The bishop is on his way to carry cheer to some far-off homesick miners who have been toiling for months and even years to find gold, but without success. A hard winter has fallen, and their barren homes are miserable places in which to live.

On his sled the bishop carries robes, tent, stove, axes, clothing, and food, for himself and dogs. A keen wind is blowing, and the snow is beating on his face as he treads ahead of his dogs. They have come to a wide river, and the bishop is cutting away hills of ice with his ax to make a passage for the sled. The eyes of the poor dogs are closed by the frost, and the bishop must wipe the frost off before the dogs can travel again. Now they move once more, but the storm has grown so fierce that they must all stop for the night. The company scramble up the high, rocky banks of the river to where there is wood for a fire. The dogs wait while the master climbs one hundred feet higher to find a suitable place for a camp fire. He ties a life line to a tree up there and comes back, unharnesses the dogs, and pulls up to the camping place the robes and enough food to eat. They eat and go to bed in the snow—to shiver all night and get up next morning with faces frozen!

During that day the storm is blowing too hard for the dogs to face the weather, so he chops wood all day and prepares to spend the second night. The second night has passed, and in the morning the storm is better. The dogs are harnessed, and the brave bishop goes on his way.

What cares he for discouragements? Like a hero he marches on, laughing, whatever happens to him. He is on a great mission, and the look of joy on the faces of the weary miners whom he goes to see is worth all that he pays for it!

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

Opening Thought: "Pray Ye Therefore."

Prayer and Missions: "Prayer and the Missionaries."

Aim: To show the place that prayer has always held in the life of missionaries.

Devotional Scripture: Luke 10: 1-11.

Prayer: A chain of prayers in which the women shall pray for the great mission fields and missionaries of the world.

Solo: "I'll go where you want me to go."

1. My favorite prayer hero: Four women participate in this, giving the substance of the matter found in the text.

- Immanuel Wichern, pp, 108-115.
- Pastor Gossner, pp, 116-118.
- George Muller, pp, 118-126.
- Thomas Barnardo, pp, 127-131.

2. Discussion:

a. What importance would you give to prayer in the training of a missionary?

b. Do you know missionaries whose life is notable?

c. Why cannot our missionary Societies depend more on prayer? Do not our prayers lack definiteness and purpose? We need to pray by name for the missionaries, to hold before ourselves the definite goals we wish to reach in prayer.

d. What lesson ought Missionary Societies to learn from this chapter? What Individual Christians?

e. What supreme duty do we owe our Missionaries?

3. Have some member of your Society read the following poem.

SOMEBODY, SOMEWHERE.

"Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying for me,
Although it may be
Afar o'er the sea.
This thought like a star
Shines over my way.
Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying today."

"Somebody, somewhere,
May not know my need,
Whispering Angels
All praying hearts lead,
And God who is love
And knows all my ways,
He answers the prayer
Of someone who prays."

"Somebody, somewhere,
May be far or near; One God over all
Who cares for me here;
And someone is true
A loved one or friend,
Somebody, somewhere,
Will pray to the end."

"Someone is praying,
And prayer is the key
That opens up heaven's
Rich storehouse for me.
My faith must not fail,
Though weak I may be,
Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying for me."

Arnold.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM.

Opening Thought: "What is the limit of that which prayer may accomplish?" "High Adventure." "Lonely Strangers in a New Land."

Discussion:

a. What do you think has been the greatest gift of the Slavs to the world?

b. Why do people immigrate? Do you know what the present immigration law is?

c. What does Americanize mean? What kind of workmen does America need in order to have good citizens?

d. What does a good citizen know about his neighbor? What does the commandment "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," mean?

Devotional Scripture: Romans 10: 15.

Prayer: That our missionaries in the field may have health and courage for their tasks, and that other missionaries may be reared amongst us.

Special Music: "It Pays To Serve Jesus."

Roll Call: Dues collected.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Opening Thought: "Pray for all Missionary agencies."

High Adventures: "Two Adventurers who listened in."

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to understand that prayer is more than asking for things, and that if we really pray we must also listen to hear what God is saying to us.

Worship Period: For a Bible lesson call on members to repeat Bible verses.

Prayer: Leader.

Solo: "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Discussion Period: Have someone tell the story of "The Two Adventurers who Listened In."

a. Were all of the radio messages in the air all the time, and nobody heard them, because no one knew how to listen in?

b. When we pray to God should we do all the talking or should we listen sometimes to hear what He has to say to us?

c. How does God speak to us?

d. Do you think that Hans Egede and David Livingston learned Bible verses when they were boys and had them hidden away in their hearts?

e. If you were going on a long trip and could take no baggage except one box, would you put your Bible in the box?

f. Do you think the name of David Livingston and Hans Egede are worthy of a place on the Brave Adventurers Chart? Give the name of some Brave Adventurer of your own denomination, and pray for his or her work.

Roll Call: Dues paid.

Business:

Adjourn:

Send all dues and "Specials" to your conference treasurer.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY.

SOUL LIGHT.

TEXT: Matt. 5: 16.

"Let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father, Who is in Heaven."

As a person—one unit of human beings—I have only one desire: to fill you with fire, cheerfulness, distilled essence of heaven's spirit. "I want every thought, every word, every act of mine to make you feel that you are receiving into your body, into your mind, into your soul, the sacred spirit that changes clay into men and men into Gods."

—Drier.

Prayer.—Our Father, so bless us this day that Thy light may shine in us and our light may so shine before men that they may see good, God, and Glory. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE GREATEST BEING IN THE WORLD.

LESSON: I Cor. 13.

"Love never faileth."

"No one understands the nature of love; it is like a bird of heaven that sings a strange language. It lights down among us, going we know not how or when, striking out wild notes of music that make even fatigued and heavy hearts to throb and give back a tone of courage.

Shall we say that the creature without love is like the lamp unlit? There it is and no one needs it. But touch it with flame, and it trembles and glows and becomes the center of the room where it stands. Everything that falls under its rays is new-gilt. So does the lover see all natural things like new.

Or take the image of the withering plant that is dying of drought. The Sun's rays have parched it; the roots have searched and searched for moisture in a soil that grows every day harder and drier. The plant wilts and hangs its head; it is fainting and ready to die, when down comes the rain in a murmuring multitude of round scented drops, the purest thing alive, a distilled essence, necessary to life. Under that baptism the plant lifts itself up; it drinks and rejoices. In the night it renews its strength; in the morning the heat it has had from the Sun, reinforced by the rain, bursts out into colored flowers. So I have known a man battered by hard life and the excess of his own passions. I have seen love come to such a man and take him up and cleanse him and set him on his feet; and from him has burst forth a flood of color and splendor—creative work that now lends its fiery stimulus to thousands.

Another image might be of the harp that stands by itself in golden aloofness. Then comes the beautiful arms, the serving fingers that pluck at the strings, and the air is filled with melody; the harp begins to live, thrilling and rejoicing, down to its golden foot.

Or picture the unlighted house, empty at fall of night. The windows are dark; the door shut; the clean wind goes round and about it and can not find an entrance. The dull, heavy air is faint within; it longs to be reunited to the wind of the world outside. Then comes the woman with the key, and in she steps; the windows are opened, the imprisoned air rushes out, the wind enters; the lamps and the fire are lit; so that the light fills windows and doors. The tables are set, there is the sound of footsteps; and more footsteps. The house glows and lives."

GRACE RHYS.

Prayer.—Our Father, we believe that love is the light of the soul and of the world, and that we are mighty poor lights. Help us to come daily to the fountain of eternal love—Thine own bosom—and never thirst, but be then in us a well of love from which others may drink and be blessed. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

KEEP YOUNG.

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth."—Eccl. 12: 1.

"So that thy youth is renewed like the eagles."—Psa. 103: 05.

"Oh, eagerness and freshness of youth. How the boy enjoys his food, sleep, his sports, his companions, his truant days. His life is an adventure, he is widening his outlook, he is extending his dominion, he is conquering his kingdom. How cheap are his pleasures, how ready his enthusiasm. In boyhood I have had more delight on the hay-mow with two companions and a big dog—delight that came nearer intoxication than I have ever had in all the subsequent holidays of my life. When youth goes, and manhood comes, much comes with it. We exchange a world of delightful sensations and impressions for a world of duties and studies and meditations. The youth enjoys what the man tries to understand. Lucky is he who can get his grapes to market and keep the bloom on them, who can carry some of his freshness and eagerness and simplicity of youth into his latter years, who can have a boy's heart below a man's head."—John Burroughs.

We find great things, do great things, accomplish great things and live greatly when we are young, eager and receptive.

Prayer.—Our Father: Thou art perpetual youth, and everlasting spring. Make it possible for us to carry along into our increasing age all of youth possible, until we shall enjoy eternal youth with Thee. Amen.

THURSDAY.

CIVIC DUTY.

LESSON: St. John 13: 1-7.

See that none render unto any one evil for evil; but always follow after that which is good, one toward another, and toward all.—I. Thess. 5: 15.

"Abound in every good work."—I. Cor. 9: 8.

"There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy if I may."—R. L. Stevenson.

Prayer.—Our Father, make us good and help us to live this day for the happiness of others. May this be our Motto every day throughout life. In His name. Amen.

FRIDAY.

UNREQUITTED SERVICE CHRIST'S WAY.

LESSON: Matt. 6: 1-4.

"One man when he has done a service to another is ready to sit down to his account as a favor conferred. Another is not ready to do this, but still thinks of the man as his debtor, and he knows what he has done. A third in a manner does not even know what he has done, but he is like a vine which has produced grapes, and seeks for nothing more after it has once produced its proper fruit. As a horse when he has run, a dog when he has caught the game, a bee when it has its honey, so a man when he has done a good act does not call out for others to come and see, but he goes on to another act, as a vine goes on to produce again the grapes in season. Must a man then be one of these, who in a manner acts thus without observing it? Yes. What more dost thou want when thou hast done a man a service? Art thou not content that thou hast done something comfortable to thy nature, and dost thou seek to be paid for it, just as if the eye demanded a recompense for seeing, or the feet should demand a recompense for walking?"

—Marcus Aurelius.

Prayer.—Our Father, make us good. Teach us how to make others happy and inspire us to Christ's way to do all we can without reward. In His name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

GODLINESS IS CHARITABLE.

LESSON: Matt. 7: 1-5.

"Judge not that ye be not judged."

"An imperfect soul seeing what is good and great and true, but very often failing in the attempt to attain it, is apt to be very harsh in its judgments on the shortcomings of others. But a divine and sovereign soul—a soul that has more nearly attained to the measure of the perfect man—takes a calmer and gentler, because a larger-hearted view of those little weaknesses and indirectnesses which it can not but daily see."

—Farrar.

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, we pray unto Thee most earnestly for Thy divine sovereign spirit in us—in all our thoughts—in all our ways—in all our relations to others. In Jesus name. Amen.

SUNDAY.

SUCCESS.

TEXT: Joshua 1: 8.

"This book of the Lord shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein. For then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success."

There is but one straight road to true success, and that is merit. The most useful man is ever the most successful one, and vice versa. Capacity or ability to do a thing seldom lacks the opportunity. As light lighteth the room and all that is in it, so usefulness cannot remain undiscovered. It is sought by too many anxious to use it. God and His word is first to follow.

Prayer.—Our Father, may we apply our lives to wisdom and the getting of understanding of the kind that Thou dost give, and lead us into the most useful life. In His name. Amen.

CHINESE GENERAL BUYS BIBLES.

Word has just been received by the officers of the American Bible Society that General Chang Tze-kiang, one of General Feng's leading officers, has recently purchased from the Society's China agency 8,000 copies of the Christian Scriptures for distribution among the officers of his army. This is reported to be one of the largest orders for Chinese Bibles and Testaments ever received by the Chinese agency.

It is a most significant event in view of the anti-foreign and anti-Christian sentiment in China today. It indicates that apparently Chinese opposition is not against the Bible.

These Bibles and Testaments are to be furnished in full leather and half leather, gilt binding, and are to contain, at the request of General Chang a personally inscribed presentation statement written by the General himself. The cost of the order will be about 6,000 Chinese dollars.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

I heard a man of wealth say some years ago that the hardest thousand dollars he ever made was the first thousand. The second was much easier than the first.

In this work I am always anxious to reach the first thousand for the year. I am happy that this week carries us over the first round in the ladder. You know we have a ladder to climb this year. It has thirty rounds in it. Our goal of thirty thousand dollars is at the top of this ladder, and every time you send us one thousand dollars we will step up one more round. You have helped me to step up the first round this year. Let us see how fast you will permit us to climb. It is interesting to me to climb this ladder. Is it interesting to you? If so, watch us climb. Pray for us to be strong. If we don't climb fast enough for you, mail us your check, it will give us greater energy to climb.

My Ford got stuck in the mud sometime ago and it did its best, but could not pull out, until a very kind young man came along and stopped his machine and wanted to push; but he had on his Sunday suit, and I didn't want him to get mud on it. I told him to drive and I would do the pushing. He turned on the gas, and we gave it a real manly push, just like we wanted it to get out, and out it went. The pushing had given it new energy because it had a good pusher. So it is in this work, when we look in the faces of one hundred and ten children and realize that it takes money to feed and clothe them; and it gives us new energy when some kind sister or brother sends us a nice check. I want you to be a pusher this year and help us reach the goal.

The following articles have been sent in since our last report:

The Woman's Missionary Society of Beulah Christian Church, Alabama, 3 quilts, pair of pillow cases and a gingham dress.

Mrs. D. I. Stephenson, Raleigh, N. C., 2 pairs of pillow cases, 2 vests and 2 towels.

Dr. J. B. Walker and Mr. Walter Sellars, 60 children's bathing suits.

Ladies of the Liberty Christian Church, Randolph County, 1 new quilt.

Mrs. W. A. Newman, Henderson, N. C., 1 doz. stockings for boys.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR FEBRUARY 11, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 900.15
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Mt. Bethel	1.36
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Pleasant Union	$ 10.00
Youngsville	1.70
Clayton	3.15
New Elam, by Mrs. C. B. Thomas ..	10.00
	24.85
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Wakefield	$ 2.40
Antioch (Dec. and Jan.)	2.00
First Church, Richmond	5.73
Holy Neck (quarter)	24.00
	34.13
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Rose Hill	1.19
Valley Virginia Conference:
Antioch	2.65
Special Offerings:
Men's Class, Springboro, Pa.	$ 9.00
W. W. Brown	15.00

Christian S. S., Pleasant Hill, O. . .	6.41
J. F. Burnett, D. D.	2.50
W. A. Raseoe on support of child. .	15.00
R. B. Wicker on support of child. .	30.00
Omer S. Thomas, Mission Treasurer	39.68
	117.59

New Building Fund:

Mrs. G. O. Lankford, Burlington. . $	5.00
Eugene Lankford, Burlington	1.00
Primary Class, Holy Neck	5.00
Mrs. L. M. Clymer, Greensboro . . .	20.00
W. H. Truitt, Burlington	1.00
Mrs. E. J. Lester, Franklin, Va. . .	10.00
	42.00
Total for week	$ 223.77
Grand total	$ 1,123.92

THE REASON FOR MISSIONARY ZEAL.

(Continued from page 9.)

iron, nor steel. Only Christ is King, and evermore, His message, written in His life and shapened in His cross, is this: "Rich, but for their sakes poor, that they through His poverty might be rich."

It has come in the divine order that the volunteers are ready first. Woe to them if they refuse to volunteer! But ten thousand woes to us if this holy offer of life be not met with an enabling offer of money. Christ-like devotion is all too rare with us, and the Christ-like passion does not yet possess the Church. We still like to be ministered unto. We still absurdly count ourselves to have served, when we have only praised, and have been served, by eloquence and music and art.

The end of the worship is the beginning of service, and that service reaches to the ends of the earth.

I cannot say my prayers or listen to an anthem or look at stained glass windows, nor listen to the soft strains of music, nor enjoy the Holy Communion, nor be lifted to heights on hymn or worship, unless I hold in my heart and in my prayers, and gifts and fellowships, the dwellers by the Congo and Ganges, in India and Africa, Japan and Porto Rico, and in the islands of the seas.

That was a magnificent time in history when the revival of learning ocured; when the classics broke out from the cloister, and scholars journeyed from city to city with a strong, new passion upon them. Universities were born, literature leaped into life, humanity recovered its birthright. Learning ceased to be a thing of the cell and became a familiar figure of the mart and parlor. Those were great days when the famous universities were born in Germany, Italy, France and England. But the most majestic era since the Lord's ascension is the era which began with some students praying beneath the shelter of a hay stack, and will close with the coming of our Lord. The era that saw fifty Cambridge and Oxford men offer to take up the work of Bishop Hannington after he was martyred; the era with twenty thousand in the field and a multitude waiting to go.

The volunteers stand ready. Oh Church of God! Line up with them to follow the Man of Galilee to victory, life and peace.

Dr. Strong says, "The authority of Foreign Missions is Christ." What is the purpose of Foreign Missions? Again the answer is Christ. Paul, the first great foreign missionary, tells us the purpose of Foreign Missions when he says, "For me to live is Christ."

So through the ages one increasing purpose runs. Let our thoughts be widened to take in that purpose and to make it ours. Christ is all and in all. As His authority is supreme and universal, so His purpose is supreme and universal. The Prince in the Arabian story took from a walnut shell a minature tent, but that tent expanded so as first to cover himself, then his palace, then his army, and then his whole kingdom. So Christ's purpose and authority expand as we think upon them, until they take in, not only ourselves, our homes, our country, but the whole world of sinning, suffering men, and the whole universe of God. There is but one authority in Foreign Missions, and that is Christ. For of Him, through Him, and unto Him, are all things. To Him be the glory, forever. Amen.

We are at that stage of the game when the land has been surveyed, when the field is well mapped out, when the strategic positions have been chosen. Trained hosts are in the field, and the hour has come for the signal of swift advance along the whole line. As plain as the signs that gathered about the advent of our Lord, are the signs that gather about us that God is giving to this generation a new summons and a glorious opportunity to win the world to our Redeemer.

We know the Divine purpose, we see the field, our hosts are ready, the march has begun. It is for us to determine what our share shall be in the struggle and the victory!

"He is sounding forth the trumpet
That shall never call retreat;
Oh, be swift my soul to answer Him,
Be jubilant my feet,
Our God is marching on!"

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

DR. WELLONS' ANNIVERSARY SERMON.
(Continued from page 7.)

never quit. Don't ever stop thinking, or planning, or seeking. Don't let your mind become inactive. Don't let your mind stop acquiring things. What is your mind after? This text is, "Seek ye first," not second, "the Kingdom of God," and keep seeking and, as you grow older, you will grow wiser. And as you seek the Lord, He gives. He does not give unless sought. You will never make a physician in life unless you keep seeking. You will never make a lawyer, you will never make a teacher, you will never make a farmer, you will never make a merchant, unless you keep seeking. And when you keep seeking, you will keep finding. But God does not give it to you, unless you seek it.

I am now one hundred years old, and I have never found a place to stop seeking. Keep learning and keep adding. I have never found in all these years that there was a time when I could stop seeking. Here is a farmer that seeks. Here is a teacher that learns, a lawyer that learns. Seek. Keep seeking. As I said, I am a hundred years old and my mind is always trying to run off and seek something, but not trash. I don't seek that. I try to seek something that will do good.

I have never reached the place where I could stop praying. Every time I pray, I seek. If I stopped seeking, I don't suppose God would give me any new light. I keep seeking, and I have always asked the Lord to help me to do something, something worth while.

And today I am one hundred years old and I have kept trying to pay. Last year outside of the other contributions I made, I made a contribution to the church of more dollars than there are months in the year, and it is all paid. I owe $1.00 because I haven't seen the brother to pay him, and it is all I owe in the past. Now I start out today on a New Year, and I don't ask to start out to do nothing. I don't ask it. I want to pay, and have always given more than a tenth. I don't give anything till that is paid.

Another thing I want to say is that when the salt loses its savor, it is worth nothing more than dirt. And there are so many church members just that way. They don't go to church, they don't pay the church, they don't work in the church, and like that dead salt, they should be cast on the ground. I say to you in the name of the Lord, don't occupy that position. Don't stay in the church and feel that there is nothing for you to do. There is something for you to do, and you should do it, and be always doing something as long as you live. You can always find something here to do, somewhere to work, somewhere to give, somewhere to live, somewhere to labor. There is always opportunity for great service. But if you don't labor, you will be like that dead salt, worth nothing. I say then, let us rise up to a higher state than that. Let us rise up and keep seeking. Lord, help me; Lord, may I see. I have never seen the time when I haven't had something to do and something to say.

I have had a great many friends in my life, and I am glad to see them and shake their hands and bid them Godspeed. In all my life I loved to go to see people, to read, and to go to protracted meetings, and so many times I have gotten something right here in my heart that swells with emotion and joy and gave me pleasure all along through life. Let us keep seeking, keep hunting, keep trying, keep working, and there will always be something for us to do.

Let me tell you one or two experiences. I have witnessed seven thousands of souls at the altar, asking for mercy, seeking for pardon, seeking for Christ, under my ministry. I give God the praise. I am thinking of them as some stood up. They couldn't help but tell what the Lord had done for them. Others of them had nothing to say. I could sit here and keep telling you so many instances, of so many souls converted. I went to Georgia once as an evangelist, but my health was so bad I could do scarcely anything. When going from Georgia to Alabama, somebody said: "Let's have a prayer meeting tomorrow in the school house." And sure enough we had a prayer meeting. When we got through, a nice looking man came to me and said he wanted me to go home with him. I went, and he summoned his family and we prayed together. We had a good time. The next morning we prayed together again with the servants in attendance. He said: "You must be here when I come back for dinner," and when he came back for dinner, he wanted to talk and pray with me, and I said: "Now tell me what you have to tell me." He said: "When I was ploughing this morning, my horse stopped, and I was behind the plough when everything was changed. The trees were more beautiful, everything looked new. I never saw such a change." I never saw him any more, never heard from him any more. I told him to join the church and serve God. He said he would. God had saved him.

I knew an old lady; some of you would recognize her name if I were to call it. It was in the time of the Civil War, and she would often go to the camp to see the soldiers. The officers would let her go and not bother her. She would go down there and talk with them and bring them home with her, and she was constantly working; but swear, how she would swear! I converted her and her tongue ceased to serve Satan.

When I was living just out of Franklinton, and had started to Pope's Chapel, one of my churches, an old lady living in a house that was decayed, saw me coming and asked me to ask the people of Pope's Chapel to pray for her. We did. Shortly after I was helping a brother of another denomination in a meeting at Franklinton, and the preacher said: "Will you go there and talk to —," (giving the name of this woman.) I asked her to go with me to the altar. She got up and went. Soon the tears were streaming down her face, with sorrow and with grief for her sins. In a little while I went back and she was praising the Lord. She had found Him such a precious Saviour. I said: "Now I won't ask you to join my church, but join right here," and she took my advice.

I must say this in stopping. My brethren, keep seeking; my sisters, keep seeking; and you will keep finding. And by and by, when you close up the things of this life and close your eyes on the experiences about you and open them in the spirit life, and you are borne by angels to that home, you will see all the souls you have helped to a better life. Heaven will mean much to you. You will enjoy it all. Seek. Keep seeking, keep working, keep trying, and you will accomplish something good. You will win Heaven as your rich reward.

May God bless you, my brethren. May God bless you, my sisters. And now I just want to ask you to repeat after me a few words. I am going to say the few words that I want you to repeat. Everybody together repeat these few words with me responsively:

"Praise the Lord all ye nations. Praise Him all ye people. Praise Him with all your musical instruments. Praise the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, praise His holy name."

All of the enterprises of the Southern Convention should claim our attention. Especially should we be interested in the cause of Missions at this time. Read THE SUN and see how the cause goes.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 9.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St..

Richmond Va.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities
Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

MARRIAGES

MEREDITH—THOMAS.

Mr Clyde Meredith and Miss Myrtle Thomas were united in marriage by the writer at the bride's home, Cana, Va., January 17th. Immediately after the marriage the bride's father and mother served dinner. The meal was enjoyed very much by the few friends that had been invited to witness the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Meredith will make their home at Fancy Gap, Va.

Their many friends wish them a long, happy life. M. T. SORRELL.

OBITUARIES.

AYSUCUE.

Mrs. Lessie Velma Ayscue, wife of Walter G. Ayscue, born May 23, 1893, departed this life Jan. 8, 1926. She had been a faithful member of Liberty Christian Church for twenty years. She was always willing to aid in any way possible those who were unfortunate in health. She will be greatly missed by the entire community. She leaves a husband, father, mother, four sisters and four brothers. The services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. E. Franks. Interment was in Liberty Cemetery. May the Lord bless and comfort the bereaved ones. H. E. CRUTCHFIELD.

FAISON.

Mrs. Jessie L. Faison was born, March 16, 1871, and died January 23, 1926, age 54 years, 11 months and 21 days. February 2, 1888, she was united in marriage to Mr. Jesse L. Faison, and to this union were born eleven children, six of which preceded her to the grave. The five that are left to feel the keenness of a mother's death are as follows: Mrs Lonnie Vaughn, Mrs. Susa Bell Faison, Mrs. Josie Florence Barrett, Mr. Percie L. Faison and Mrs. Ruth Denson. Mrs. Faison for many years had been a member of Burton's Grove Church. She was laid to rest in the family plot near the Church of which she was a member and Church that she loved. Service conducted by the writer.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN

Pipe Organ Expert

TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts

3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus....$1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations$2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 E Broad Street,

Richmond,

Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Size when closed, 6 3/4 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid.....4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepche
not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

The Christian Sun
Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

WILKINS.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Wilkins, widow of J. E. Wilkins, passed into the great beyond on Wednesday morning, Dec. 16th at her home, 120 Crawford Street, and was interred in Oak Grove Cemetery, on Thursday afternoon. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. H. E. Rountree, Chaplain, U. S. N. During the service Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Baker sang "Sometime We'll Understand", "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", and "Nearer My God to Thee." The funeral was largely attended. There were many beautiful floral designs, bearing their sweet and symbolic testimony to the loving esteem and high favor held in the hearts of her friends. Truly a great spirit has been removed from us in the person of our Sister Wilkins, and with mingled feelings, we have been compelled to place her name on the list of departed ones. For she has gone to the city that lieth "foursquare", where "the gates shall not be shut all the day, and there is no night there." Praise God for such noble souls as our Sister S. J. Wilkins. H. B. HALL.

FAISON.

Mr. Jesse L. Faison was born July 16, 1864, and died January 30, 1926, age 61 years, 6 months and 20 days. Brother Faison was a charter member of Burton's Grove Christian Church and a man of a high Christian character, a man admired and respected by all who knew him. His wife, Mrs. Florence Elizabeth Denson Faison, preceded him to the grave just one week. He was placed beside his wife, in the family plot. A host of friends join with the pastor in praying God's blessings upon the children who have been called upon to part with both father and mother in so short a time. Service conducted by the writer.

In addition to the children, Brother Faison leaves two brothers: Mr. John Faison of Petersburg, Va., and Mr. Willie Faison of Wakefield, Va. May God bless them also. G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

HAYNES.

Sister Barnes went to receive her reward Friday January 22nd after a few hours of suffering. She was fifty years old and had been married twice. She leaves to mourn their loss, two sisters and two sons. Sister Barnes was a woman that loved the Lord and always held up the highest standard of Christian living. She will be missed by her many friends, but may God's richest blessing rest with those left behind. May all be ready at all times to meet and greet the hour as Sister Barnes did, with a smile "I am ready."

She was laid to rest in the Haynes cemetery, January 24th. The writer was assisted by Rev. Colsen. M. T. SORRELL,

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES
An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.
04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
0623x [Same Bible as 044031 Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick $6.00
04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
0773x [Same Bible as 044531 Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
05453 [Same Bible as 044531 With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches $5.50
0923x [Same Bible as 045231 Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/8 inches thick $9.75
ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE A Co-Educational School LOCATED AT WADLEY, ALABAMA
This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work. The following Courses are offered in the—
COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.
SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.
Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.
The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.
This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.
Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.
S. L. BEOUGHER, President Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type 27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

Size, 5 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches. With beautiful photo. views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Smallest Size 4 1/8 x 2 3/4 x 1/8 inches

Specimen of Type AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

- 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $1.10
2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $0.70
2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $0.85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $0.85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1926.

NUMBER 7.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Some Automobile Figures.—

The Ford Motor Company turned out 2,103,588 cars last year. This enormous output probably accounts in part for the total number of cars in the country. It is estimated that there are now running 20,200,000 cars, in fact one to every five persons. This means that every man, woman and child might ride at once, but there are still some pedestrians unfortunately for the automobiles to kill.

Newspaper Publishers to Give Bay.—

The newspaper publishers of New York City will erect one of the bays of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The bay will cost about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. William Demart, who has succeeded Frank A. Munsey as publisher of the New York Sun, is at the head of the committee, and twenty thousand dollars has been pledged. Other bays of the cathedral are to be erected by doctors, lawyers, naval and military men, labor interests, stage folk, children, and sportsmen.

To Straighten Out Florida.—

Dr. John Roach Straton has been called from his Calvary Baptist Church to the First Baptist Church at West Palm Beach, Florida. Dr. Straton has given out no statement as to what disposition he will make of the call, but newspaper reporters have it that arrangements are being made whereby he may preach in Florida during February and March, returning to his New York church for the rest of the year. Dr. Straton is now the fundamentalist leader, and he has declared that Florida is going to pieces, and he will probably endeavor to straighten it out a bit morally.

Christianizing Modern Communications.—

Mr. Earl A. Roadman, pastor of Grace M. E. Church, Waterloo, Iowa, devoted the Sunday evening services in his church during January to a consideration of the Christianizing of modern communications. Mr. Roadman's five topics were: "Electricity and the Light of Life"; "The Printing Press and the Truth of Life"; "The Railroad and the Path of Life"; "The Automobile and the Way of Life"; "The Radio and the Word of Life." This series, bearing as it does upon the great material powers in our world and linking them up with Christianity, should have been interesting preaching. The topics ought to be suggestive to other preachers.

Sees Protestantism Passing.—

In an article contributed to an Amsterdam publication which commented upon the Stockholm conference on Life and Work, Maxmilian Harden, the great Jewish publicist in Germany, declared that if the Protestant denominations did not get together they were, every one of them, doomed to sink into powerlessness. He commented at length on the absence of the Roman Catholic Church from the conference, and pointed out that it was the only church which could have afforded to stay away, because it alone is truly international. He pointed out also that the Pope's leanings to peace during the late war were effective while all other religious bodies combined had very little weight. Maxmilian Harden's comments are well worth consideration. It is certain that the Protestant Churches are not exerting the influence which they should upon the world, and there is a reason. Whether Maxmilian Harden has touched it or not, we do not attempt to say.

Cardinal Mercier Dies.—

Cardinal Mercier, the Primate of Belgium, died on January 23d as a result of an operation undergone on December 28th, from which he never rallied. The Cardinal was, perhaps, the best known churchman in the world. His work during the war in opposition to Germany caused his name to be heralded throughout the world. With the Cardinal, at the time of his death, were his two nephews, both priests, one of whom serves in Belgium, and the other is a professor of philosophy in Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind. The funeral of Cardinal Mercier called forth an outpouring of humanity such as which even thickly populated little Belgium has never before seen. Since the war Cardinal Mercier has been busy with work looking to the reunion of all Christian churches. It is believed that in a religious will left to the Archbishop of Canterbury, he has outlined a plan by which he believed this great event might take place. The Cardinal was much beloved by the Belgium people for whom he had done so much.

To Purchase Jefferson Home.—

Plans are now being laid to raise a sum of about half a million dollars to purchase Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, from its present owner, and to make it a national shrine. The days between February 12th and February 22d, the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, are being devoted to this drive. 1926 is the one hundredth anniversary of the death of the writer of the Declaration. Included in the purchase will be Jefferson's honeymoon lodge and his law office. There are 640 acres of rich land in connection with the place, much of which could be cultivated to defray the expenses of upkeep. Monticello is still intact and about as it was when Jefferson left. Many intimate objects connected with the third President of the United States and the founder of the Democratic party are still preserved there. Since this is the centennial of his death, the National Jefferson Centennial Committee who have the project in charge hope to dedicate the old, historic home as a national shrine before December 31st next. It is a worthy effort which would keep alive much of the best of our tradition, which as a young country we need.

Popularizing Astronomy.—

The Planetarium of Carl Zeiss is attracting more attention perhaps, than any other pedagogical invention in history. There are only two of these planetariums in the world, one at Munich, and one at Jena, where the Zeiss factories are located. The one at Jena has been removed from the roof of the Zeiss factories and placed in the Princess' gardens where more than a hundred thousand visitors have seen it. It is proving so popular that eleven other German cities have ordered planetariums. The planetarium is a mechanical device for throwing upon a dome by means of lenses, about four thousand, five hundred stars. By other devices the names of the chief constellations may be flashed on the dome. The movements of the sun and the planets are shown, down to the equinoctial variations, which of course are speeded up since they occur only once in twenty-six thousand years. When the sun is being shown, the dome has the appearance of a clear blue sky; when the stars are shown, it is like the sky on a starlit night. This device, invented by Herr Zeiss, promises to be the means of popularizing astronomy.

Women in Industry.—

The Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor called a conference of women in industry recently. The speeches of President Coolidge and Secretary of Labor Davis excited considerable opposition on the part of the National Woman's Party bloc. These speeches looked at all women either as a mother or a potential mother, which the party women seemed to resent. Mr. William Green pointed out in his address before the conference, in the capacity of President of the American Federation of Labor, that women were considered in industry only temporarily. This view was taken by other speakers, and in each case was challenged by the party women. The problems of women in industry were discussed from every angle, and an investigation of all laws relating to women in industry is to be undertaken by the bureau which called the conference. The women feel that there should be regulative laws protecting the women in industry. The party bloc are anxious for equal rights, but we wonder if these women really understand what equal rights are. Man has a definite place in the world and woman has a definite place in the world. God made each to complement the other, and sad will be the condition of the world when either seeks to escape from the place in which God meant them to serve.

NOTES-PERSONALS

$25,000 is the minimum call for Missions.

30,000 members of the Southern Christian Convention should be readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

The Southern Christian Convention will meet in biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 27, 1926.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN is a missionary hard at work to bring things to pass. Dear reader, will you not add one more new name to its list of subscribers.

The subscription price of the SUN is only $2.00. See that your label is made to read '26 and upward. A blue pencil was formerly used to mark expirations.

Albert B. Hines, Director of the Boys' Club of New York City, says that 80 per cent of the crime in the United States is committed by men or boys who have had no religious training.

An inviting program for the Christian Endeavor Union at Wake Chapel, on the fourth Saturday and the Sunday following, is being arranged, and a good session of the Union is promised we are advised.

Our Lord's work is done, and His Kingdom on earth is built up through self-denial. And if the church does not teach, learn and practice self-denial, the work of the Kingdom will be slow and painful indeed.

The Christian Endeavor Union of the Eastern North Carolina Conference is to meet at Wake Chapel Saturday P. M., February 27th, and will be in session Sunday, the 28th, also. Mr. Galen Elliott of Chapel Hill, N. C., is president.

The churches of our Eastern Virginia Conference are in the midst of Mission Month. It is too early to tell results of the offering, but not too early to say that many pastors and congregations of that Conference are giving themselves wholeheartedly to the program of missions and that they are already reaping spiritual blessings and benefits.

Miss Margaret Alston, R. 1, Henderson, N. C., who is Superintendent of Missions for her district, is giving every Sunday in February and March to visiting churches in her district in a worthy endeavor to organize a Woman's Missionary Society in each of them. She hopes to organize societies in New Hope, Beulah, Franklinton, Youngsville, Pope's, Mt. Carmel, and others.

At the morning service of the First Christian Church of Richmond, Va., last Sunday, Dr. Ryan preached a sermon on the principles of the Christian Church. It was semi-historical and showed the trend of the churches of today. Original in its arrangement and setting, it was one of the best presentations of the Christian Church it has ever been our privilege to listen to.

If evangelizing the work will do nothing else than teach and inculcate the principle and practice of self denial among Christians, it will even then and in that act confer a blessing and a benefit on the church and mankind. The fundamental principle of Christianity is self-denial, and in this spend thrift and money grabbing age, we need to learn and practice that principle. It is the one hope of our age and of civilization.

In a note from Mrs B. G. Drewry, Secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Wakefield Christian Church, she writes: "We are preparing a program to be given Sunday night, February 28th, in connection with the regular service. We are ready and willing to do all we can to help the cause of missions and to make this the best mission month we have ever had."

Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va., in his church program for Sunday, February 7th, put this question to his congregation. "One million people in Japan wait for us, members of the Christian Church, to tell them of the Christ. If every member were just like you, and if every church were just like ours, how long would they have to wait? 'Go ye . . . and teach all nations.' 'If a man love me, he will keep my commandments'."

Dr. C. H. Rowland celebrated on Sunday, February 7th, the second anniversary of his pastorate with First Church, Greensboro. The program for the service that day carried this announcement. During these two years, your pastor has learned to love his flock, and this love creates the desire to serve. He has found you responsive to the calls of the kingdom and has faith that God intends to work out great things through you. Let us stand together and make this year a good year for our God and His Christ."

Rev. O. D. Poythress and his South Norfolk, Va., congregation are certainly erecting a most beautiful and commodious house of worship. The structure is of brick and the architecture is appropriate and pleasing. The edifice is to cost about $75,000, and is now nearing completion. The walls are up, the covering is on, and only inside work lacks completion. The formal opening of the new edifice is appointed for Sunday, April 4th. It is a monument to the consecrated energy and marvelous devotion of a faithful pastor and a loyal and liberal congregation.

The whole program in Suffolk Church on February 7th, was missionary in spirit, emphasis, teaching and vision. The Sunday School was led for the day in its opening and closing by the pastor, Rev. H. S. Hardcastle. It was a striking presentation of missionary teaching from scripture. At the preaching hour a great map hung on display above the pulpit, and electric lights on the map showed where our missionaries are at work in the world. Before the sermon the pastor told a beautiful and gripping missionary story. Pastor Hardcastle and his people are certainly getting the blessings and benefits of Mission Month.

The printed program for service in the First Church of Greensboro, Sunday February 7th, carried this item: "March is set aside by the Southern Convention as the month in which each local Church in this Conference is asked to stress particularly our Mission work. The Official Board of our church endorsed the action of the Convention, and the pastor is expected to keep this subject before us during the month of March. The following subjects are to be used: March 7th, 'A Missionary Vision'; March 14th, 'Obedient to Our Vision'; March 21st, 'Our Neighbors'; March 28th, 'The Lord's Treasury'."

Dr. William J. Cox, Philadelphia, Pa., says that in nine States, he finds, the very name of God may not be mentioned in the public schools, "but anything about any religion under the sun except Christianity is permitted to be taught." He found that in Chicago in the five years up to 1915, out of 55,000 persons below the age of sixteen who had passed through the hands of the police, fewer than one-sixth had ever heard of the Ten Commandments. In a New York high school with 1985 pupils, when a test case was given and they were told to write anything they knew at all about the Ten Commandments, only 434 were able to write anything. Several graduates of the Newark, New Jersey, high school informed him that they were preparing to become teachers of Socialism, and confessed that they had never heard of the Ten Commandments.

Dr. P. H. Fleming writes, February 8th, the following: "Long's Chapel voted last Saturday, to put on Mission Month, March, and envelopes were distributed on Sunday, and the Superintendent of the Sunday School was requested by the pastor to make mention of the facts of Mission Month for March at the Sunday School, and to read literature to those attending, that is the literature in hand regarding the special Mission offering, and the need. I am sure that my other churches will make March a special Mission Month." We are grateful for the hearty co-operation shown by all our pastors in putting on Mission Month and trying to interest their people in the great subject of Missions.

Our good friend and Sister, Mrs. R. J. Newton, under date of February 9th, was kind enough to send this note: "On February 7th, Miss Margaret Alston and myself went to Oakland in the interest of the Woman's Missionary work. The pastor and people gave us a royal welcome, and we organized a Woman's Missionary Society. A number of interested ladies joined in, and with Mrs. Wade White as president, we feel sure of their success. These people should congratulate themselves for such a pastor as Rev. J. Fuller Johnson. We were delighted to hear him that day on the theme 'The Mountain Top of Salvation.' This was a wonderful message, and Brother Johnson, under the demonstration of the Holy Spirit, filled our hearts with inspiration. We are so thankful for the faithful and God-fearing men who cry aloud and spare not. From Oakland, we went to Youngsville for a 2:30 P. M. meeting. Only a few met us, but we learned that this is a weak church in numbers. We did not organize a Woman's Society here, but feel sure that they will organize later. We must not fail to help these dear people that help us through their cordial reception of us. We enjoyed the visit and feel that we really received spiritual benefit." Miss Alston is the Superintendent of the Vance-Franklin-Warren district for Woman's Societies, and is working faithfully to have a great rally on the part of the women of these churches at Liberty (Vance), Saturday, April 3d. She is hoping and faithfully working to get a society in every church in her district, which is certainly a most worthy ambition.

The Blanks recently moved from the city to the suburbs. The first night in their new home, their little five-year-old boy climbed into bed as soon as he was undressed.

"Walter, dear," said his mother, "haven't you forgotten to say your prayers?"

"Why, mamma," he replied, "is God way out here, too?"—Exchange.

"Red tape" is a popular name for official or legal formality and delay. The term had its origin in England during the 18th century, and arose from the custom of tying documents with red tape. It was perfectly natural that the ordinary man, impatient for action should ridicule this everlasting tying and untying of red tape, which bound the dispatch and document cases.

SAY IT WITH DOLLARS.

Florists tell us to bear our messages of sympathy, appreciation, and love, with flowers, and they are a fitting symbol to express these feelings.

The Christian Church has a college that is well worthy of the pride of any people. Its equipment for school work is equal to the best of the smaller colleges of America.

Its faculty are high-toned Christian men and women. The atmosphere of the student body is spiritual. The ideals set before its students are high. In the thirty-five years of its history, it has sent out 92 ministers, 10 missionaries and 251 teachers, and only 1 out of over 400 graduates had no church affiliation.

If you, as a member of the Christian Church, appreciate your splendid college and the great work it is doing, "Say it with Dollars."

Elon College appeals to you in her hour of need. Make your check payable to Elon College, and mail to the undersigned.

W. T. WALTERS,
Burlington, N. C. Field Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONFERENCE.

I am delighted to note the interest that is being shown in the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor work in the Eastern North Carolina Conference.

Under the able leadership of Mr. Galen Elliott of Chapel Hill, the Christian Endeavor Union of our Conference is accomplishing great results in the organization and expansion of this work. I want to congratulate and thank Mr. Elliott and his co-workers for the results already attained, and urge them, in the name of the Master, to continue unceasingly in this great service.

In our Sunday School work, I am wondering if we are doing our best. May I ask this question? How many Sunday Schools in our Conference have gone into winter-quarters? I fear that a great many have followed the terrapin and the frog into the mud of inactivity, fleeing from unfavorable weather conditions and complying with a custom, the outcome of which, can only be destruction. If there are any of this type (and I pray God there isn't), wont you, a powerful instrument for good in your church and community, reconsider, and if necessary, reorganize, and revitalize your efforts? If you will, I'm sure you will be made to rejoice when in the twilight of God's holy Sabbath, although the day may have been cold and unfavorable, you can think back over its duties and realize that they have been faithfully and unselfishly discharged.

I am hoping that every committee will begin to function, and I am depending on you to make our convention in 1926 the best in the history of our Conference.

At the present we have received no invitation for a meeting place this year, and we will be glad to hear from any churches in the Conference who would like the convention to meet with them.

J. FULLER JOHNSON,
President.

LIFE.

Life is but a test for Life Hereafter—
Just a problem you must solve to win
Life Eternal with your Lord and Master,
Joy and Love and Triumph there with Him.

Live each day that you may say at evening,
"I have paid my debt; my duty's done."

Then when summoned from this earth, in passing

You will know that Life has just begun.

JOSEPH HOSKINS, JR.
Dover, Delaware.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8-1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

RICHMOND FIRST.

No one need be surprised that the First Church, Richmond, was the first church in the convention to take the offering in Mission Month, and place the check in the hands of the Mission Secretary. The church has a membership of 117, and the check which reached the Secretary on February 10th, was for $118.00. If all the churches of the convention will show as good an average as Richmond has done, the full amount of the Emergency Fund, $25,000, so very, very much needed, will be raised. Richmond is one of our most recent churches to organize and to build, and still labors under the handicap of heavy indebtedness. This congregation, however, which from the day of its organization until this good hour has proved itself most loyal and liberal to every enterprise and institution of the church, realizes that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and so could not forego the privilege of sharing with the rest of the convention the joy of this glorious undertaking. The pastor's sermon on the day of the offering was strikingly appropriate, pointed, and powerful. Dr. Ryan has done that which many of our pastors are now doing, namely, given his greatest thought to the greatest theme of the church. There is no greater theme or undertaking known to men than that of winning this world to Christ and of carrying Christ to all this world. Missions is simply an enlarging evangelism. There are scores of churches which have held annual or biennial revivals for fifty years or more, endeavoring to reach for Christ those within the range, and neighborhood of the local church. These same churches are now called upon to enter into a revival to evangelize, with the same Gospel, those who have never had an opportunity of the Gospel and know nothing of the saving power of our Lord.

Richmond has shown an enviable spirit in her zeal to be first and to lead off in our present undertaking of immense proportion. Her example should inspire every church in the Convention. All the churches who do their best during Mission Month will be made the richer and happier for their efforts, for Mission Month is and will be, not a burden, but a blessing to all who do their best to make it a glorious success. J. O. A.

THE GROWTH OF MISSIONS.

There are said to be three Dispensations: 1st, The Jewish Dispensation; 2d, The Christian Dispensation; 3d, The Spiritual Dispensation. Or, in other words: (a) The Dispensation of God; (b) The Dispensation of Jesus Christ; (c) The Dispensation of the Holy Spirit.

1. The Jewish Dispensation was non-missionary. The Jews had no dealings with Gentiles. Gentiles never became Jews, and they do not to this day. The Jews honored God, and God honored them; but it was a church separate from other races and other nations. Yet they were God's chosen people, the seed of Abraham, who was called of God to establish a religious nation; and promised: "In thee shall all families of the earth be blessed"; and they have. The Jewish church was the beginning of God's plan to save the world.

2. The Christian Dispensation is missionary in its origin and development. It is a second step forward in God's plan of reaching the world. Jesus, the author and heart of this Dispensation, was a Jew; but a Jew with a new revelation of God's love for lost men. He converted a few Jews and sent them forth to preach the new gospel to every creature. Jews, as Jews, make no converts to their faith to this day; but Christians are making converts to their faith from all races, all nations, and all conditions of mankind. In fact, the missionary task is an obligation that rests upon all followers of Jesus Christ.

3. The Spiritual Dispensation continues and increases the work which the other two dispensations began.

(1) God built up a religious family, and out of that religious family a religious nation. He communicated directly with His people, through Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses and Mary. The work of revelation and human progress was increasing all the time under this method of saving a lost world. It was missionary, as far as God was moving toward men; but the missionary idea had not yet reached the church.

(2) Jesus Christ founded a missionary church out of converted, non-missionary members of the Jewish church. The disciples were members of the church, but Jesus converted them to the new faith in Him, which included the missionary spirit and purpose. His whole ministry was missionary, and the Apostles were sent out as missionaries. Paul, the great missionary, was a converted member of the Jewish Church—a "Hebrew of the Hebrews." Paul was just as religious before his conversion as after his conversion; but after he found Christ, or rather Christ found him, his attitude toward others changed from opposition to the advocacy of the Christian missionary spirit; and he devoted his life to the missionary task.

(3) The Holy Spirit now carries on the work of missions for the salvation of the whole world. The Holy Spirit dwells in the church of today, and keeps alive the activities that honor God and help mankind. By the help of the Holy Spirit, the church is doing its greatest work; and this Spiritual Dispensation is the greatest of all. Jesus said, before He went away: "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go to my Father." The multiplied resources of this Dispensation, through the work of the Holy Spirit can do, and is doing more for the salvation of the world than was done while Jesus was in the flesh. But some church members of this day have to be converted, like Saul, to become missionary in spirit and service, as well as in faith. This missionary necessity is a matter of education; and education works in a triangular way: (a) On self; (b) on others; (c) on the unseen. When the church member becomes thoroughly missionary, influences other members to become missionary, and the whole church becomes missionary then the world will learn of Christ.

W. W. S.

ALL CHRISTIANS.

It will take all the Christians to bring the world to Christ. Or, if a different phrase is required, it will take all Christians to bring Christ to all the world. None other than the Christ put these restrictions and limitations upon Himself. He made His message, and the light He would carry into all the world, dependent upon human beings. And He told us how those human beings were to act: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me."

He excluded no followers of His from the task of helping to build His Kingdom on the earth. He included all who accepted Him. If one wishes to shirk the responsibility and the obligation of making Christ known in the world, one should not accept Him as Saviour and Redeemer. But in the act of acceptance the obligation of obedience is entailed. Christ is willing to save the individual who comes to Him in faith, in order that the individual may go out, or send out others. "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." Christ did not merely want Peter, James and John for their sakes, or to keep them from catching fish. He wanted them for His sake that He might send them out as fishers of men; that is, to bring men and women into His Kingdom.

It has not been commanded that each individual in person go out after the unsaved. Our Saviour knew this would not be possible. So He made arrangements whereby all could go in one way or another. If any Christian cannot go in person, he or she certainly can go in purse and in prayer. It will take all Christians to bring the world to Christ.

On this account, our Saviour founded the Church, through which every Christian might be co-workers with each other and with Him, in carrying the Gospel to all the world.

The Church is not an end in itself. It is a means to an end. It is that divine agency or institution through whose activities the whole world may come to know Jesus the Christ. He founded the Church because He himself was not going to remain in the flesh among men, and the Church will be done away with when its purpose shall have been achieved, and through it the Gospel has been made known in all the world. When John saw the heavens opened during his vision of Paradise, he saw no temple in heaven. There was no need for a temple there. The Gospel was already heard and accepted by all who were there.

This explains why the Church was founded and is necessary. It opens up a channel through which our prayers and offerings and sacrifices are called out, and may be sent out into all the world, even unto the uttermost parts thereof. That Church best fulfills the purpose of its Founder which is missionary in spirit and in activity. And members of the Church are under obligations to its Founder and Builder to dedicate their lives and substance and service, to carry out the great purpose that the Saviour had in founding it, namely, that His Gospel might be preached, and that all men, everywhere, should hear of Him, and should know Him, Whom to know is life everlasting.

J. O. A.

SUGGESTIONS FOR A CHURCH PROGRAM. No. III.

In our last editorial on this subject we considered the essential need of the church having a definite program for the year, and indicated possible ways of creating such a program, showing the results that would follow, and gave a practical outline of a church program for the first month of the church year—the month of September.

The reason I went more in detail in considering the program of the first month is that the first month is the most important of all. And if a church gets started off right the first month after the vacation period, the rest of the program will run comparatively smoothly.

Having observed September as Rally month, seeking to stimulate renewed interest on the part of the membership, and having the people enlist for whatever line of church work they are willing to engage in during the year, the logical thing to do for the month of October is to observe the month as Family Month, having for the objective the presence of every member of every family of the church at every service of church worship and at every Sunday School session during the month, and to have the members of the family sit down together at the services. The Presbyterian Churches observe the month as Loyalty Month, urging all the members of the Presbyterian Church to show their loyalty to their denomination by being present every Sunday during the month. But personally I believe the idea of loyalty should be woven into the whole program of the year so that the appeal for denominational loyalty will be a part and parcel of the appeal for church loyalty and Kingdom loyalty. And the idea of having Family Month offers the opportunity to emphasize the beauty of having visitors as well as the members attend with their entire families. During the month of October, the pastor may well preach a series of sermons on the subject of "Church Attendance," showing its significance, its benefit, the fact that it is a duty and an obligation resting upon Christians. Some kind of card should be printed announcing Family Month, indicating the great inspiration that comes to the pastor and to the church, and the pleasure it must give our Heavenly Father to have whole families attending church together, occupying the same pew. That practice is something the churches are missing today, the practice of parents and children sitting together in church. And they are missing it simply because they are neglecting to emphasize its beauty and worth. The custom means a great deal to the families and it means a great deal to the church. And by observing the month of October as Family Month, the idea will impress itself upon the minds of many of the members, and they will carry out the practice during the year.

On the little card announcing Family Month, there should be included an invitation to non-members to attend the church with their families, and at the bottom of the card feature the idea of a Family Church, for, indeed, the church should be one large family of worshippers and lovers of God.

During the first two weeks in October, a religious census of the community should be taken to ascertain the number of families that are not connected with any local church, and to learn their church preference. This census is of as much importance for the country church as it is for the town or city church. The census being taken during the first two weeks of October, the last two weeks will give opportunity for the pastor and the Official Board to select a Friendly Visitation Committee to call in the homes of those who have stated that church as their preference. The Visitation Committee should be divided into teams of two each, having, if possible, a husband and wife on each team. The homes should be so allocated as to have three different teams call upon each house during the last two weeks in October. And the people composing the teams should be carefully coached by the pastor before the visitation begins, urging them to go in the spirit of prayer, in the name of Christ, and in behalf of the church. It ought not to be difficult for the people upon whom they call to discuss the purpose of their visit. In fact they should plainly state in the conversation that they have called because of their interest in them personally and because of their interest in the church. Though never should they state that they were appointed as a committee for such a purpose.

The month of November, if the program of the two preceding months has been carefully planned and executed, will find the general attendance increased quite materially. The program idea keeps the fact before the mind of the community that there is something doing at the church all the time. People outside the church generally do not consider how busy the pastor is. They are not concerned about the way he gets excited and generates undue emotion in his preaching, or in his praying, or the time he spends in study and in performing his pastoral duties. But when they see the members of the church bestirring themselves in the interest of the church and of the Kingdom, they themselves begin to take notice. Activity always creates interest. People will even pause to look at a busy ant hill, but the same people would not stop to notice a bunch of a hundred or more tramps loafing in "Hester Park." The reason why some churches find that the people of the community pay so little attention to them is that there is really so little to pay attention to.

So the church that has a program which thus provides opportunity for service from every member is bound to attract the interest of the people of the community. And the program as suggested does provide an opportunity for every members to do something definite in church work, even though they may not be on one of the special committees. And that is the ideal in church work, namely, for each member to feel that he has something to do in promoting the work of his church. During the months of September and October the pastor will have emphasized the need of regular attendance at all services of worship, showing that for one to be a regular attendant at every service is a most impressive testimony to the church and to the world of one's interest in the church. So that every member will really feel that in being a regular attendant at all the services, he is having a part in promoting the welfare of the church. Then, during the month of October every member will have been urged to invite their friends and neighbors to church, and will have been made to feel that that, too, is another phase of definite church work.

During the month of November, emphasis should be laid on friendliness toward the visitors. Another pastoral letter is in order the first week in November. In this letter the pastor can make a strong appeal to every member to have a part in establishing a reputation of friendliness for the church. He can point out that nothing else will give the church such a favorable consideration on the part of outsiders as the fact that all the members greet the visitors in a genuine spirit of friendliness. He should urge that instead of the members visiting first among themselves at the close of the services, they meet the visitors and make them acquainted. Some churches actually keep visitors away because the members visit only among themselves. It is far more important to greet the visitors and make them feel welcome than it is for the members to greet each other. The friendly church always wins. The church that speaks of its visitors as strangers and treats them as such, is in a poor way for growth and progress. Never should visitors at church be spoken of as strangers, but always as visitors or as guests. And during the month of November this idea should be held uppermost in the minds of the members, for, strangely enough, records of attendance in many churches, both in the city and in the country, show that in no other month in the year are there so many visitors—non-members attending the church as during November and December. For this reason, during November the members should be urged to learn how to welcome visitors to the church. And the last Sunday in November may well be observed as "Guest Sunday" with a special sermon for the occasion and special courtesies extended to all visitors, by having them sign their names in the Visitor's Book. Every church ought to have a Visitor's Book for visitors to write their names and addresses in. The psychology of recognition should be utilized by the church, for all humans are affected by it, whether they realize it or not. And this Visitor's Book will serve various purposes. It will cause those who sign their names in it to feel a greater interest in the church that was concerned enough about them to want their names in its Guest Book. It will also give the pastor and the Official Board the names and addresses of men and women with whom they should keep in touch by sending announcements of special services, special series of sermons, etc., and invitations to various church gatherings.

According to the program, the month of September has brought the members in closer touch with the church. The month of October has brought the church in closer touch with the people outside of the church, and the month of November has brought the people outside of the church into a closer touch with the life and purpose of the church. The rest of the year should be spent in getting both more closely in touch with the needs of the Kingdom.

To this end the pastor should plan his messages. During one month he should consider the meaning of prayer, the privileges and the opportunities of prayer, the law of prayer, the benefits of prayer, so as to increase and intensify the devotional life of the church and the community. During another month, the subject of evangelism should be considered, making that the major note in all of his messages.

During the month of January, or the month preceding Easter, the pastor should make a list of all the prospective members in his community, all of the boys and girls in the Sunday School who are not members of his church, all of the parents whose children are in the church or Sunday School, but they are not members of the church, all of the brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law to the Kingdom, and anyone in the community not identified with some other church. He will spend most of his time during this month doing personal work and will urge the men and women of his church to do the same.

The pastor and the men and women of his congregation who are qualified for the task will take the message of the church to the people where they live and work—in the home, in the office, in the store, the shop, the field. Instead of waiting for the people to come to the church to be saved, they will take the church to the people and save them. The pastor will urge the laymen of his congregation to tackle somebody their size. The banker should seek to win an-

(Continued on page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Suffolk Christian Church is making the whole month of February Missionary in its sermons, Sunday School, and Missionary Societies. Rev. H. S. Hardcastle is giving lantern slide pictures of all the mission fields, at home and abroad, with maps punctured to show where the fields are located, electric lights showing through those points. In addition to the above, the young people have been giving pageants with large attendance and good results. On Sunday morning, February 7th, Rev. Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Secretary of the Mission Board of the Convention, preached a great sermon, and at night, the Girls' Missionary Society gave a pageant, "The Quest of Japan." The pastor is putting the emphasis of the Sunday and Wednesday night services on Missions and the $25,000 Emergency Fund, during the whole month, and we are hoping for a liberal offering next Sunday.

The Woman's Missionary Society celebrated its fourteenth anniversary on Monday night, February 8th, with 88 members present and visitors enough to make the audience more than one hundred. Several features made this occasion of special interest. A Pantomime, "Fling out the Banner," and "Take My Life and Let it Be," which was rendered by six girls and two boys, who had been trained by Mrs. H. L. Jacobs. Mrs. Ethel Saunders sang the songs accompanied by Mrs. I. W. Johnson. The quiet audience, the decorations, the shaded lights, with the music and the lesson, made the scene one of impressive effect.

Mrs. M. L. Bryant of Norfolk, the President of the Woman's Missionary Association of the Eastern Virginia Conference, delivered a fine address which, by request of the meeting, will be printed in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Treasurer of the Woman's Board, of Holland, Virginia, also delivered an address that caught the sympathetic attention and approval of the audience and it, also, by vote of the meeting will appear in THE SUN. All who read these addresses will enjoy and profit by reading them.

Dr. Atkinson was present, was called on for a word, and responded in an informational, inspirational, very appropriate address, one of the best in his life. By a rising vote the appreciation of all these addresses was expressed and request for print in THE CHRISTIAN SUN of the addresses delivered by Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. Leathers.

This Woman's Missionary Society was organized in February, 1912, and has been a working body during the fourteen years of its existence. The report for this meeting showed four new subscribers to the Christian Missionary, two renewals, and collections for the evening of $149.20. The collection the first year of the Society was $199.87; and the total for the fourteen years is $8,498.02, making an average annual income of $708.15. That is a good record when one remembers that the total receipts by the church the first year of my work here as pastor, were less than a thousand dollars; and that included pastor's salary, sexton's salary, organist's salary, light and heat. It must be kept in mind that this is only one organization in this church doing missionary and benevolent work.

At the close of the meeting, twenty-six of the larger girls from the Willing Workers' Society served a Japanese Tea in Japanese costumes. Altogether the work of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Suffolk Christian Church is a model of Christian activity, and the Girls Missionary Society, which may celebrate an anniversary birthday sometime, does not lag behind in devotion and success. How sensible people can think the world is growing worse in the light of present-day Christian service, is a question that needs proof. W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Last September I began at the Monday morning chapel services for the college, which custom makes it my duty to lead, to discuss the twelve disciples, giving the things we have learned in regard to these men from Biblical and other sources. I concluded these talks on Monday morning, the 8th of February, in a summary of what our investigations had enabled us to learn in regard to these leaders of the early church.

The most outstanding thing which we had learned was that Jesus had the power to transform the character of men and that He truly made good his invitation in Matt. 4:19 where He says: "Follow me and I will make you." That is what He did with the group of men who were fortunate enough to be selected for the discipleship.

I think this will be concluded from a consideration briefly of what we learned in regard to these men, and so I shall here briefly recount it.

First: Peter.

When he entered the discipleship, he was an energetic curser. Jesus made him a fearless preacher. His rare aptness and vigorous expression were not destroyed, but were transformed from a base to a noble use.

Second: James.

James was a man of fine executive ability. We know this not only from the fact that his mother applied for a chief place for him in Christ's Kingdom, but that Herod made him the first martyr among the disciples. When he entered the group of disciples, he was, like most business men, interested in promoting his own interests. Jesus made him into a promoter in the business and life of the early church. He succeeded so largely in this that Herod in destroying him thought he would destroy the infant church.

Third: John.

When John entered the Christian University—and I think we have perfect right to regard the association of Jesus with his disciples as the first Christian institution of higher learning in the world—when John entered this first Christian University, he was capable of the leadership of men, as we learn from the plea his mother made that a chief position be provided for him and from the fact that he was later exiled as an outstanding leader in the church. He had leadership ability all right, but he was in love with himself. Unfortunately many men who have ability to lead others use their power for selfish designs. However, when John comes out of the School of Jesus, he continues to love, but not himself. He first loves God, and then loves his fellowmen.

Fourth: Matthew.

Matthew was at the beginning what we may call a "self-server." He became at the end of his course the finest exponent of the social gospel, and has given us in the gospel which bears his name the finest account of the Sermon on the Mount.

Fifth: Nathaniel.

Nathaniel entered as a moral man. He was graduated a spiritual man. The moral man acts according to standards of conduct, self-erected, but the spiritual man acts from an inner urge of divine compulsion.

Sixth: Philip.

Phillip was a practical man, and he became a practical Christian statesman.

Seventh: Thomas.

Thomas was a doubter. He placed a question mark after every statement or principle. He came out of his experience in the School of Jesus as a satisfied worshiper. "My Lord and my God," he said.

Eighth: Andrew.

Andrew was a man of rare personal power. He exerted his influence by personal touch in dealing with men. He was graduated from the discipleship as the prince of personal workers. He has been an inspiration to untold thousands throughout the Christian centuries.

Ninth: James.

James is known sometimes as James the Less, and sometimes as James the Just. His reputation for justice and good judgment was so pronounced that he was after the death of James, the brother of John, elected president of the Jerusalem Council. In him justice was spiritualized.

Tenth: Judas.

This man is known sometimes as Lebbeus and sometimes as Thaddeus. This no doubt was a kindness to remove from his character the stigma that was attached to the name because of the other member in the group of the disciples who was a far different character from this obscure man. He was slow to comprehend, but in the last conversation Jesus had with the twelve, because he was slow to comprehend, he asked Jesus a question, and the answer he received has been the joy of mystics ever since. It was to this man that Jesus said: "Whoever has seen me, has seen the Father." There is room in the fellowship of Jesus for obscure men which should be an inspiration to many readers of this Letter, as well as to the writer.

Eleventh: Simon.

Simon was also known as "Zelotes," which means Radical or Red or Bolshevik. He became a Christian patriot.

Twelfth: Judas Iscariot.

This man entered the School of Jesus as a lover of money. We can understand how tenderly and yearningly Jesus sought to transform his character from the fact that he has more to say about the harm of wealth and the use of money than any other theme. However, Judas steals himself against every appeal of his Master and refused to be taught. He it was who betrayed his Master.

Christian colleges have the same high purpose in leadership for their students which Jesus exemplified in the group of men whom he selected to pass on to the future ages the Kingdom and its principles. It is the purpose of these institutions to make men and women into persons of real Christian character. They do not undertake to destroy inborn powers or to minimize native ability, but to transform and direct the powers of each young man and woman with which they are innately endowed so that they will express in all the relations of their life the beautiful characteristics of Christian discipleship.

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Your opportunity confronts you. What will you do with it? There never was a day that did not bring its own opportunity for doing good that never could have been done before, and never can be done again. Vigilance is watching opportunity; tact and daring is seizing upon opportunity; force and persistence is crowding opportunity to its utmost possible achievement.

Do not wait for extraordinary opportunities. Seize common occasions and make them great. Weak men wait for opportunities, strong men make them. Things do not turn up in this world until somebody turns them up. It is the idle man, not the great worker, who is always complaining that he has no time. Some young men will make more out of the odds and ends of opportunities which many carelessly throw away than others will get out of a whole life-time. Like bees, they extract honey from every flower. Every person they meet, every circumstance of the day, adds something to their store of useful knowledge or personal power.

Many have seized the opportunity for making money, but fortunately there is coming a new generation of artists upon the stage of action, who will find opportunities, thick as thistles, for doing something nobler than merely amassing riches, for wealth is not an end to strive for, but an opportunity; not a climax of a man's career, but an incident. It is all right to make all we can legitimately, but not right to can all we make.

Young men and women, why stand ye here all day idle? Was the land all occupied before you were born? Has the earth ceased to yield its increase? Are the seats all taken? the positions all filled? the chances all gone? Are the resources of your country fully developed? Are the secrets of nature all mastered? Is there no way in which you can utilize these passing moments to improve yourself or benefit yourself and others?

Born in an age and in a country in which knowledge and opportunity abound as never before, how can you sit with folded hands, asking God's aid in work for which He has given you the necessary faculties and strength? With the world full of work that needs to be done; with human nature so constituted that often a pleasant word or a trifling assistance may stem the tide of disaster for some fellow man, or clear his path to success; with our own faculties so arranged that in honest, earnest, persistent endeavor, we find our highest good; and with countless noble examples to encourage us to dare and to do, each moment brings us to the threshold of some new opportunity.

Some men have three hands: a right hand, a left hand and a little-behind-hand. No clock can tick for us the moment gone. Two centuries ago a great sundial was reared in All Souls' College, Oxford, England. Over it were written in letters of gold the Latin words, "Horae preunt et imputantur"; "Hours pass and are set down to our account." Opportunities come to all, but the trouble with too many is that they do not make anything out of them. Some persons go through life sighing for opportunities, while others with like means, chances, circumstances, privileges, achieve results, do heroic things, win for themselves honor or renown. The secret is not in them or their environment.

The financial needs of Bethlehem College have been set forth in THE CHRISTIAN SUN and letters sent to all the churches in the Southern Christian Convention for the past month and a half, and to date, one individual and three churches have responded to this urgent call. Most every member of the Christian Church in the whole Southland should give something to Bethlehem College, and give it now. If they do not respond they may regret it later. Opportunity is like the doctrine of election, you can tell nothing about it from the front, but may see millions in it from the other side. There never was an angel of God, however bright, terrible or strong, that was able to roll away the stone from the grave of a dead opportunity. Have you prayed over the biggest problem confronting our Southern church? Have you lost any sleep over our situation here at Wadley? Are you with-holding money that God is telling you to give to Bethlehem College? Here is your opportunity, what will you do with it?

S. L. BEOUGHER.

MORRISVILLE AND BERE A.

The Morrisville Church met in its first quarterly conference January 17, 1926, and dispatched its business in the regular order. This was one of the first churches we ever had pastoral charge of, back in the seventies. At that time it had quite a nice membership, but now it has only some 6 or 8 resident members. However, it is as prompt in its financial obligations as a bank. They have a small Sunday School. We have some people here members of the Christian Church but attending the Baptist Sunday School. I suppose it is because it is a larger Sunday School. Pray for us that conditions may change and that God may be honored in the saving of many souls.

Berea Christian Church held its first quarterly conference on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and transacted its business in order. We had the largest attendance that we had ever seen here at a quarterly conference, and this is my third pastorate here. The membership of this church is very much scattered and the resident membership is small. The work and the business here last year went bad, and the church suffered financially. In the midst of these conditions the church had undertaken the addition of four Sunday School rooms at a cost of nearly two thousand dollars. This explains why the church has fallen short on her conference apportionments. Besides this, the church was without pastor during part of the year. The addition to the Sunday School had become an actual necessity, and was begun while Rev. J. E. McCauley was pastor. We are hoping soon to be in our new quarters. Our Sunday School is in a promising condition.

The communion at Berea was large, and many acknowledged Jesus as their Saviour. Pray for us that God may be glorified, Jesus exalted, and the Holy Ghost honored, and that nothing may be done but what God's approval may rest upon it. We are not unmindful of March as our Mission Month. We will do what we can, God being our helper.

P. T. KLAPP,
Pastor.

"There is a best way to live. There is a best occupation to choose. There are best friends to select, and our lives for shame or honor, for success or failure, for life or death, depend upon our choices. Every day, every hour, every instant, we are choosing. We are not able to guide ourselves; we cannot rely upon men. Upon whom can we rely? Can we rely upon anyone? Can a lions of things that he might do, The k c, p young man elect his life-task with the certainty that it is for him, that among the million things which he might do, this is the one thing which he should do? Is there an infallible Guide?"

One will find these questions very definitely answered in the book "An Infallible Guide," written by Charles A. Blanchard, the author of the above paragraph. This author draws from his own experience—a life-time of association with God and with the work of God—in pointing out that there is an infallible Guide in every step in life. No Christian need be in the dark, no matter how confusing or conflicting the circumstances may seem, God will lead in the right path, if we trust Him as a guide.

The booklet above referred to is priced 40cts. net, and is for sale by The Bible Institute Colportage Ass'n, 826 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 12.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St..

Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Following the Interdenominational Stewardship Institutes and the annual meeting of the United Stewardship Council at Pittsburgh, Toledo and Dayton, January 16th to 25th, your Secretary assisted in the stewardship part of six district institutes in the Miami, Ohio, Conference, at the Plattsburg, Genntown, Campbellstown, West Grove, Trotwood and Cove Springs Churches, January 27th to February 2d.

VALUE OF EVERY-MEMBER CANVASS.

Rev. A. W. Hirby of Walnut Hills, Dayton, Ohio, writes his experience and conviction:

"After six months, I am writing to tell you the fine results from your help in our Every-Member Canvass. I feel certain that after six months the results can be pretty accurate. You will remember what was facing us at the time and the almost compelling need of reaching our proposed budget. You will also remember the apparent indifference of some of our canvassers. Now we have proven some things.

"First: The Every-Member Canvass is the best method of getting at the church folks with the plan of the Kingdom, as it relates to their church. Our men, many of them, have to confess, after their canvassing experience, that they were not giving enough; how could they talk to others then? They had revealed to the selfishness of many folks, and so have realized why the church does not progress with greater strides.

"Second: Training of the canvassers is as vital as the canvass itself. Our men now know that the Kingdom's business demands business principles, not that it shall become a business, but that it may be at its best. Men often think that church support is a matter of giving and not investing. The training of the canvassers helps men to understand that there is need to invest in the Kingdom work.

"Third: That the plain presentation of the facts and what the church is accomplishing and what it expects to accomplish, will bring results. The seven reports our Financial Secretary has brought to us since you were with us, have shown many extra items of expense, always necessary to entering a new building, many items of new equipment, regular payments on our church loan, all benevolences and many special features, all paid without having to borrow or to scold the people. There is money ahead.

"Fourth: That we want you to come again next June to help us do the same thing.

"Fifth: That we owe you a debt of gratitude for the splendid and invaluable service and wish you God's blessing in your work."

OUR WOMEN ARE PLANNING AND WORKING.

Nothing has been more encouraging in the work of Mission Month than the deep interest on the part of our good women. The Mission Secretary is just in receipt of a note from Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, Wakefield, Va. "I wish you might have been with me this afternoon," writes Brother Crutchfield, February 9th, "in a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society here, and could have heard the expressions of enthusiasm which the ladies of the Wakefield Christian Church gave in discussing and planning to make our program for Mission Month successful. And I wish you could have heard the prayers which the women made in behalf of this movement in our Mission work. I think I can safely say that with such zeal and vision as our women have, you can count on Mission Month in this church being a great success." And immediately the Mission Secretary thought of two other scenes.

He was with the Woman's Missionary Society in the Franklin Church on Monday, P. M. February 8th. It was a meeting long to be remembered. Twenty-five women of our Franklin Society were present, and the whole service was given to a consideration of and planning for Mission Month. The pastor, Rev. F. C. Lester, was present, and the whole meeting was charged with the spirit and vision of Missionary zeal and endeavor. The women of our Franklin Church will have no small part in the success of Mission Month in their congregation.

Then another scene appeared. Monday night, February 8th, the Mission Secretary was with the women in their celebration of the 14th anniversary of their Society in the Suffolk Christian Church. There must have been more than one hundred women present, and the scene of interest and enthusiasm was one never to be forgotten. It was activity, energy and zeal from start to finish. The program was beautiful and appropriate. Dr. Staley and Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, pastors, were present and will no doubt tell SUN readers in detail of this wonderful meeting. Mrs. M. L. Bryant, President of the Woman's Conference of Eastern Virginia, and Mrs. W. V. Leathers, the Treasurer, were present as invited guests, and gave messages of inspiration and charm that will do good in the months to come. The women in the Suffolk Church, through their Society, are determined to make Mission Month a success, and their enthusiasm for the work was beautiful, unselfish and sincere. Their influence will be felt on the day the offering is made for our Emergency Fund.

There is no doubt that the women in other churches are working as faithfully as in those named. Nothing is more inspiring than the enthusiasm our dear women are carrying into the work of making our Mission Month a glorious achievement.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

MAKING EDUCATION CHRISTIAN.

There is no doubt in the mind of any observer of our day that two types of education are in conflict with each other for the mastery of the age. Those two conflicting types of education, I may describe as materialistic and spiritual. There is no possible ground of reconciliation between materialism and spirituality. The founder of Christianity said that one single human soul is of more worth than all the material substance of the universe. He also said that a man cannot serve God and Mammon. That is to say, a man cannot be a materialist and a Christian. The two terms are mutually exclusive, like light and darkness, like black and white, and by no sort of juggling can they be blended into a unity.

The materialist in the realm of education is a compound of mechanical evolution and behavioristic psychology. Mechanical evolution makes foundational in its hypothesis of the origin of the world that matter operating according to certain observable laws has brought to pass the universe as we see it and all that in it is. Human life, this type of scientific thinker asserts, began in a single protoplasmic cell in which were present electrons and protons, and that out of this primordial entity has developed the universe of living things as we see and comprehend it. There is nothing in the most highly accomplished human being which did not primarily and essentially inhere in the first living cell. The materialistic evolutionist, therefore, reduces our life to mechanism.

The behavioristic psychologist working in the realm of the human mind, arrives at a parallel conclusion. According to this school of psychology, human conduct is determinable, and more than determinable; it is predictable. All that you need know, according to these scholars, in order to forecast what any man will do under any circumstances, is to be aware of his environment and of his mental history. Stimuli applied to brain synapses through the organs of the senses will always supply a sufficient explanation of every conscious act. They do, however, make one exception. They admit that a man may refuse to give vent to his impulses, in which case he will develop a mental complex, a pathological condition exhibiting all the diabolical effects of imprisoned passion. The normal man, however, according to these psychologists, the man who gives free play to his instinctive impulses, lives on the animal plane.

We, therefore, find that the behavioristic psychologist joins with the materialistic evolutionist in the making of our human life a simple mechanism of the interaction of stimuli and the mind.

There is, however, a school of Christian Education which finds itself in deadly conflict with this tendency to mechanize life. The Christian school begins where the Christian Bible begins, by declaring as its fundamental principle that the first fact in the world is the fact of God. "In the beginning God." Thus begins the Christian Bible, and on this basis begins Christian Education. The Christian Educator says to the Evolutionist that he should be able to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, and now he is far from proving it, that the theory of evolution is able to account for the physical life of man, as we know it today, what is evolution, in that event, can only be understood and explained as God's method of physical creation. The Christian Educator says to the evolutionist, that man is more than his body and that the important thing in regard to man is not where his body came from, neither whither it is going, but the tennant that dwells in the body and rules over it and is capable of a personal existence, independent of the body. In respect to the soul, Christian Education has somewhat also to say to the behavioristic psychologist. He admits that much of our human conduct is to be explained by the interaction of environment and the human mind. He also admits that it is possible by the suppression of an instinctive impulse a complex may develop as a pathological mental condition, but the Christian Educator is not willing to stop with these two admissions. He goes further and insists that it is possible to redirect the impulses and instincts of the mind in such a way that they will function on a spiritual plane. The Christian Educator believes in what we may philosophically describe as a sublimation of instincts or what we may theoretically describe as a new birth, and there are far too many instances of radical changes in character for us to question successfully the fundamental contention of the Christian Educator respecting these matters.

So on the basis of science as well as of psychology, the Christian Educator is secure in the position which he takes with reference to the crass materialists that infect our civilization like a deadly cancer.

Having justified the claim of the Christian Educator, it now becomes us to inquire how we are able to make our Education Christian. It is as important that he should do this as that he should be able to fortify his claims with sound reasons.

And in the first place, we must frankly admit that the legal control and ownership of institutions of learning by ecclesiastical authorities is no guarantee that their product will be Christian. However, it is entirely proper that ecclesiastical bodies should exercise legal control over the institutions they have founded and to whose support their constituencies are regularly called upon to contribute. There is even more justification of ecclesiastical control of institutions of higher learning than there is of private ownership of property, but, while we thoroughly concur in the thought that the church which founds a college should control it, we must at the same time admit that such control does not necessarily make the institution Christian.

We must also, with equal frankness, admit that the teaching of the Bible and Religious Education courses in colleges does not necessarily guarantee that their product will be Christian. We sometimes say that State colleges are un-Christian because they cannot legally teach Bible and Religious Education subjects, and, therefore, they cannot teach religion. As a matter of fact, State institutions do often times most effectively teach religion, and this is particularly true in their departments of social science, history and the natural sciences. They teach religion in these departments by taking positions with reference to the motives that should actuate men in their relations with one another and the motives which they often times inculcate are definitely anti-Christian. It is true that some effective Christian teaching is found in these same institutions in the attitude of certain professors toward life and the application of their subjects toward the problems of life. However, there is no subject so well adapted to the teaching of religion as the Bible and Religious Education, and we must frankly acknowledge that the inability to offer instruction in these branches is a fundamental handicap for tax supported institutions of higher learning. While this is true, honesty compels us to say that if the Bible and Religious Education subjects are taught as mere informational courses, the resultant in character will in many cases be desperately disappointing. We have Scriptural authority for this condition, for we are told that even the Demons not only have knowledge, but they believe and tremble, and yet continue Demons still. While all Christian colleges rejoice in the number of their courses in Bible and Religious Education and in the growing enrollments in these courses, these institutions are aware that these wholesome conditions do not necessarily guarantee Christian character in their product.

We must with equal frankness admit that the fact that all the teachers in an institution of higher learning are church members does not necessarily mean that the institution's output will be Christian. No denominational college would think of keeping on its teaching staff a man or woman who did not confess discipleship of Jesus and who did not hold membership in some branch of the church of Christ, and this is a most desirable situation. It is true that 70 per cent of the professors in State institutions of higher learning are church members and that of the remaining 30 per cent, many are known to have definite leanings toward the Christian life. It would be far better for these institutions if they could have only Christian men and women as teachers and administrators. But it is possible, we must admit, for a church member to be pious and devout and worshipful on the Sabbath and to teach like a heathen in the class room. Unfortunately some professors do not let their religious interfere with their professional knowledge. Their religion is in one mental compartment and their knowledge in another. Of course, the ideal would be for every professor to connect up his Christian faith with his learning, and Christian colleges are constantly aspiring to this ideal condition. But as the situation now is, no college can rest its claim to being Christian on the fact that all its faculty members are associated with some Christian church.

The college is Christian and education is Christian only when Christian character is the definite aim and consuming purpose of all its organization, teaching program, and life. Conduct in such an institution must be motivated in terms of Christian idealism. The Alumni of such an institution must face every problem and issue of life in the attitude of altruism and of Christian love. Their motive for action in every realm of their experience must not be selfish, but altruistic. Their purpose must not be to get for themselves, but to give for others. The Alumni of a Christian college should forget their own rights in the joyous pursuits of their duties. Their prime thought and aspiration should be to see that their brethren and sisters in the race of life should secure their rights. Their high endeavor and satisfaction of heart should be realized, not in exercising authority over others, but in rendering generous service in behalf of others. Their Master came not to be ministered unto, but to minister. He took upon Himself the form of a servant and He declared that he who would be greatest in His Kingdom should be servant of all. This philosophy of life should be the inspiration always of the Alumni of Christian colleges. These highly favored young people should have one other aim and purpose for their life's endeavor, and in it they should find their life's supremest satisfaction. They should recognize as a final, forceful fact that human progress is not achieved through competition, but through cooperation and fellowship and love, and their deepest joy should be experienced not in crushing out their competitors in order that they may climb high the ladder of life's fame and achievement, but rather in the lifting up of their fellows and the strengthening of the weak until all alike should come to the highest possible plane of human development.

When an institution has stamped upon the hearts, minds and consciences of its Alumni these splendid attitudes toward life and its progress, it can rightly claim the high distinction of having really and truly and vitally made Education Christian.

W. A. HARPER.

Elon College, N. C.

A CHURCH PROGRAM.

(Continued from page 5.)

other banker, the doctor another doctor, the merchant another merchant, and so on along the line.

Of course the evangelistic element will permeate all the services throughout the year. But during this month special emphasis will be laid upon it. The members should be urged to enlist in a "Win One Fellowship" during this month, everybody working for the winning of souls. A special evangelistic campaign might well be held during the last two weeks of the month in churches that are accustomed to having revival campaigns.

Some may fail to see the significance of so many Special Days, but the psychology and pedagogy of the idea, I am sure, is quite apparent to all religious leaders and students of human nature.

Then one month should be given over to the subject of Religious Education. The work of the Sunday School should be kept uppermost in the minds of all. The pastor's sermons during Religious Education month should deal with the subject of Christian Training—"the individual's need of it, the church's need of it, the world's need of it.

Then one month should be given to the consideration of the subject of Missions, at home and abroad—the following topics are suggested: "The World's Need," "The Christian Obligation," "The Macedonian Call for Help with Money," "The Call for Help with Life." Any pastor who has been in the ministry ten years and has not in all that time fired some heart with the desire to serve God in some line of Christian Life Service, has reason to ponder as to whether his ministry is not a failure. During this month the work of the Missionary Societies of the church should be kept uppermost. If there are no such societies in the church, steps toward organization of such should be taken.

Then one month should be given to the consideration of the subject of Stewardship. The pastor will give a special series of sermons on the subject. The prayer meetings during the month will be devoted to a study of the subject. The last Sunday of the month should be Stewardship Enrollment Sunday, and a goal set for say 25 per cent of the membership enrolled in the fellowship of tithing. The logical month to consider the subject of Stewardship in churches that use the duplex system of finance will be the month preceding the Every Member Canvass, so that the work will lead up to the Every Member Canvass Sunday for the climax of the month's work.

The two weeks preceding Easter is a most opportune time for special Evangelistic emphasis leading up to Easter Sunday—making Easter the great Day of ingathering of souls for the entire year. During this month, if it is not observed as Evangelism month, the pastor's messages might well deal with the meaning of church membership, the opportunities and the challenge, the qualification and the invitation.

From Easter on will give the pastor ample opportunity to consider the needs peculiar to his field of labor, the opportunities for social service in the community—does his community need a play ground, is a community Daily Vacation Bible School practicable, can the boys of the community be organized for Boy Scout training, and the girls for Camp Fire Girls' training, etc.?

Of course, throughout the year every progressive pastor will make much of all the special church days, such as Thanksgiving Sunday, Christmas Sunday, New Year's Sunday (Sunday nearest these days), Easter, Mother's Day, Children's Day, Father's Day, to bind the hearts of the people closer to God and to the church. Also he will make much of the National Holidays, observing the Sunday falling nearest those days for teaching true patriotism. And each year, a church and Sunday School picnic should be held during the early summer, for we have all learned that such binds the congregation together in a happy family fellowship.

There are many, many other items that a wide-awake pastor will include in his church program, but these are a few of the items that should never be left out.

R. C. H.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson IX.—February 28, 1926.

"JESUS TEACHES RESPECT FOR LAW"

(Temperance Lesson.)

GOLDEN TEXT: "Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets. I came not to destroy, but to fulfill."—Matt. 5: 17.

America is the greatest law-making nation in the world. It may be true that the "mills of the gods grind slow," but it is not true of the legislative mills, for they turn out laws in such volume that they keep pace with America's unchallenged capacity for production in all other lines. When one thinks of the laws that the present General Assembly will pass, to say nothing of the ones that are submitted that will not pass, and when one multiplies that number by the number of States in the Union, all of them having "legislative mills" running at full capacity and on full time, and when finally one adds to all these laws the laws that will be passed by Congress, he begins to see that here as elsewhere, America leads the world in large production. Furthermore this process is repeated year by year, year after year. As one thinks of this, he is reminded of the words that John wrote about Jesus when he said that if all the things had been written that Jesus said and did the world would not hold the books. It would seem that the world would hardly hold the laws that have been passed by our States and Nation. Yes, America is the greatest law-making nation in the world.

America is also the greatest law-breaking nation in the world. In spite of the fact, or perhaps because of the fact that we have so many laws, we are the greatest law-breaking nation in the world. There are more bolshevists in America from the standpoint of law-breakers to the square yard than there are in Russia to the square mile. That is only an extravagant way of saying that we have the worst form of bolshevism here in our own country, and we need no longer point to other nations as examples of bolshevism. It would seem that it is not good form to keep the laws any more. We have come to the point where we not only break the laws, but we openly flaunt that fact in the face of the law. This is especially true of the Eighteenth Amendment, and it is true not only of our elders, it is especially true of our youth. Perhaps the example of the elders has something to do with the practice of the youth, but in any event there is an increasingly large number of our young people who are flaunting law in the face with flagrant violations.

Now, whatever the cause of this situation, the situation is not only alarming, it is becoming constantly menacing. No nation can survive which does not respect law. This is certainly true of a democratic nation. Unless a government that is of the people and by the people and for the people can command respect for the law, it cannot long endure. One does not have to be pessimistic to become concerned about the future of our great nation, when he sees the lack of respect for law, not only among the so-called lower classes, but among the elite, and then reflects upon what a fundamental factor in abiding national life respect for law is. The Psalmist has said, "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God." He might just as well have said, "and the nations that disregard law," for it amounts to the same thing. Organized religion has no more pressing challenge than the situation presented by the wide-spread and deep-seated disrespect for law.

It is one thing to see a situation; it is quite another thing to point out the factors that have caused the situation, and still another thing to prescribe a remedy for the situation. It is perhaps quite true that there are a number of factors that have entered into the disrespect for law that abounds in America. The writer is not presumptuous enough to dare to offer a panacea for this evil, but there is one point that he would like to stress. We will never have a nation of law-abiding citizens until we have a nation in which we have obedience in the home. We get back to the crux of the matter here. The home is God's first school in all things. The disobedient child in the home is the scoffer of law and the breaker of law in the State. The school and the church cannot act as the proxy for the parents here. The home in which children are taught respect for properly constituted, and it might be added merited, authority, the home in which obedience is expected and had, that home is thrice blessed. It is a blessing to the children, for it has bequeathed to them an inestimable blessing that will stand them in good stead in the years to come; it is a blessing to the State and society, for it is sending out law-abiding citizens; and it is a blessing to the parents themselves, for their children shall rise up and call them blessed. Furthermore such a home is training in the fundamentals of the Christian religion. What quality of life was more insisted upon by Jesus than the quality of obedience. If self-preservation is the first law of nature, then obedience is the first law of God.

All of this has been by way of introduction to the lesson. The Pharisees and the Herodians sought to entrap Jesus and they presented a coin to him and asked him if it were lawful to give tribute unto Caesar. If He had said that it was lawful, He would have antagonized the people, for the Jews rebelled against the idea of paying tribute to a heathen emperor, when they recognized only God as King. If He said it was not lawful, He would have made himself answerable to Pilate as one who rebelled against the Roman government. Here, as always, Jesus lifted the thing from the realm of the petty and the detailed into the realm of the larger principle. He took a coin and asked whose inscription was imprinted thereon. When they replied, "Caesar's," He told them bluntly to render unto Caesar the things that were Caesar's. Those who live under a government and receive the blessings and the privileges which it bestows, owe something to the government. But the Master went further. "And unto God the things that are God's." A man has higher obligations than his obligations to the State. He has obligations to God, and he must seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. As a matter of fact, however, there is usually no conflict here. The man who is the best citizen of the Kingdom of God is the best citizen of the State. And the man who is the best citizen of the State in the highest sense, is certainly not far from the Kingdom of God. Jesus came not to destroy but to fulfill. The man who is dominated by His spirit gets beyond the mere letter of the law into the spirit. The man who lives according to the law of God will not have any trouble obeying the law of the State. Let us render unto God the things that are God's and we shall then render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Sunday, February 28, 1926.

"NEGLECTED AREAS IN THE COUNTRY." (Missionary Meeting.)

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Isa. 35: 1-8.

THEME: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel."

Object of the Meeting.

The object of this meeting is to discover places in our own vicinity especially, where the gospel is not being presented, and to gain a knowledge that will help us to help in having the gospel preached in these neglected areas.

The Leader's Talk.

Two-thirds of the world today are living on farms or in the open country. The great majority of all our leadership comes from those who have lived their early life in the open country. One little Pennsylvania settlement which never had a church and only a little Sunday School mission has sent a preacher into one of our great city churches and a missionary to far-off Africa. I know a city church with a membership of over 1,000 and with a financial budget of over thirty thousand dollars a year that has never done as much as that to extend the gospel of Christ. Let us not forget the big country where two-thirds of all the folks live.

It is said that

"God made the country
But man made the town."

At least the Bible tells us that it was wicked Cain that went out from the first home and built a city.

But all who live in the country are not good, and all who live in the city are not evil. But the emphasis is that the country districts are more apt to be "neglected districts" and the facts bear out the presumption. We find that many churches are deserted because the people about them have largely moved to town. But there are many left and they have need of God when those of larger income or retired life have gone.

And then the preacher seeks a town church and the country again is at a loss, and it is a great question in many places what can be done to save or help churches which were once strong and influential.

HERMON ELDRIDGE.

Questions for Discussion.

What do we mean by Neglected Country Areas? Is the tourist camp on the edge of our city a Neglected Country Area? If so whose fault is it? Can Christian Endeavorers correct this fault, and how?

What are some of the causes that tend to discourage church work in the Country Areas today?

What are some of the things that should be taken advantage of in promoting work in the great open country?

Name the different kinds of gifts that a Christian Endeavor Society can make to help the cause.

What of our own "Mountain Work" in the mountains of Virginia?

Christian Orphanage

M. F. Allen, Lynchburg, Va.	5.00
Nicholas Weber, Irvington, N. J.	500.00	511.00
Total for the week		$ 907.74

Dear Friends:

It is certainly easy to climb when we have a friend to push. Our good friend, Mr. Weber of New Jersey, pushed us above the second rung in the ladder this week, with a check for $500.00. Brother Weber has helped us several times before and his check certainly comes at a time we need it on our New Building. It would be grand to be able to pay every dollar on this new building the day it is finished. The work is moving along nicely and it will be a splendid building when finished. We will all be happy to know we had a part in it. Then think of the happiness you will bring to that little boy who is waiting to come and join his little sisters. Could you withhold your contribution if you wanted to?

The weather keeps so cold that we do not get much work done on the farm. We have succeeded in getting our fruit trees trimmed and everything ready to spray them the first time, when we can catch a warm, still day.

Pasture fences to build to have it ready for early spring, and we will need the pasture early too. Garden to make, Irish potatoes to plant and many other things to do, as soon as the weather gets better.

The children have been exceedingly healthy this winter and have had only a few colds. One boy with an infected hand and another boy with a boil on his neck seem to be about the limit of our troubles along the line of sickness. The Master is mighty good to us.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR FEBRUARY 18, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 1,123.92
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Hopedale	$ 2.75
Berea	4.79
Durham, Main Street	5.00	12.54
Western North Carolina Conference:
Ramseur	$ 10.58
Pleasant Hill	4.30
Liberty	2.19
Seagrove	4.22	21.29
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Franklinton	$ 10.00
Turner's Chapel	2.25	12.25
Eastern Virginia Conference:
South Norfolk	$ 18.50
Oakland	6.00	24.50
Valley Virginia Conference:
Dry Run	$ 3.45
Winchester	5.86	9.31
Grand total	$ 2,031.66
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Lanett	$ 7.04
Richland	1.00	8.04
Special Offerings:
R. W. Malone, guardian	300.00
Northern Sunday Schools:
Pleasant Hill, Ohio	8.81
New Building Fund:
Lola Tickle, Elon College, N. C. . . .	$ 1.00
Mrs. S. V. Holt, Moneure, N. C. . . .	5.00

STEWARDSHIP.

After reading more than a dozen books, and hearing many famous sermons and addresses on this subject, I find that the foundation of everything I read and heard may be stated in a few words: 1. "Ye are not your own; for ye are bought with a price." 2. We are commanded to be "good stewards of the manifold grace of God." 3. "Moreover, it is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." Thus we see that we are but stewards of everything God has given us, prosperity, time and talents. 4. While the welcome plaudit awaits the faithful, the unfaithful will hear the command: "Give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest no longer be a steward." D. A. LONG.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

Opening Thought: "Pray Ye Therefore."
Prayer and Missions: "Prayer and the Missionaries."

Aim: To show the place that prayer has always held in the life of missionaries.

Devotional Scripture: Luke 10: 1-11.

Prayer: A chain of prayers in which the women shall pray for the great mission fields and missionaries of the world.

Solo: "I'll go where you want me to go."

1. My favorite prayer hero: Four women participate in this, giving the substance of the matter found in the text.

- a. Immanuel Wichern, pp, 108-115.
- b. Pastor Gossner, pp, 116-118.
- c. George Muller, pp, 118-126.
- d. Thomas Barnardo, pp, 127-131.

2. Discussion:
a. What importance would you give to prayer in the training of a missionary?

b. Do you know missionaries whose life is notable?

c. Why cannot our missionary Societies depend more on prayer? Do not our prayers lack definiteness and purpose? We need to pray by name for the missionaries, to hold before ourselves the definite goals we wish to reach in prayer.

d. What lesson ought Missionary Societies to learn from this chapter? What Individual Christians?

e. What supreme duty do we owe our Missionaries?

3. Have some member of your Society read the following poem.

SOMEBODY, SOMEWHERE.

"Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying for me,
Although it may be
Afar o'er the sea.
This thought like a star
Shines over my way.
Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying today."

"Somebody, somewhere,
May not know my need,
Whispering Angels
All praying hearts lead,
And God who is love
And knows all my ways,
He answers the prayer
Of someone who prays."

"Somebody, somewhere,
May be far or near; One God over all
Who cares for me here;
And someone is true
A loved one or friend,
Somebody, somewhere,
Will pray to the end."

"Someone is praying,
And prayer is the key
That opens up heaven's
Rich storehouse for me.
My faith must not fail,
Though weak I may be,
Somebody, somewhere,
Is praying for me."

Arnold.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM.

Opening Thought: "What is the limit of that which prayer may accomplish?" "High Adventure." "Lonely Strangers in a New Land."

Discussion:

a. What do you think has been the greatest gift of the Slavs to the world?

b. Why do people immigrate? Do you know what the present immigration law is?

c. What does Americanize mean? What kind of workmen does America need in order to have good citizens?

d. What does a good citizen know about his neighbor? What does the commandment "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," mean?

Devotional Scripture: Romans 10: 15.

Prayer: That our missionaries in the field may have health and courage for their tasks, and that other missionaries may be reared amongst us.

Special Music: "It Pays To Serve Jesus."

Roll Call: Dues collected.

JUNIORS AND WILLING WORKERS.

Opening Thought: "Pray for all Missionary agencies."

High Adventures: "Two Adventurers who listened in."

Aim: To lead the boys and girls to understand that prayer is more than asking for things, and that if we really pray we must also listen to hear what God is saying to us.

Worship Period: For a Bible lesson call on members to repeat Bible verses.

Prayer: Leader.

Solo: "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Discussion Period: Have someone tell the story of "The Two Adventurers who Listened In."

a. Were all of the radio messages in the air all the time, and nobody heard them, because no one knew how to listen in?

b. When we pray to God should we do all the talking or should we listen sometimes to hear what He has to say to us?

c. How does God speak to us?

d. Do you think that Hans Egede and David Livingston learned Bible verses when they were boys and had them hidden away in their hearts?

e. If you were going on a long trip and could take no baggage except one box, would you put your Bible in the box?

f. Do you think the name of David Livingston and Hans Egede are worthy of a place on the Brave Adventurers Chart? Give the name of some Brave Adventurer of your own denomination, and pray for his or her work.

Roll Call: Dues paid.

Business:

Adjourn:

Send all dues and "Specials" to your conference treasurer.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Secretary.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

AN EXAMPLE.

"What doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul."—Deut. 10: 12.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Lev. 19: 18.

"For I have given you an example, that ye also should do as I have done to you."—Jno. 13: 15.

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one for another."—Jno. 13: 35.

I would like to give merely my testimony as to example. There are a few old men in my memory—old when I first knew them—who were such devout servants of God that they have always attracted me, and I carry mental pictures of them which time cannot efface. Their influence in my life cannot be estimated.

I think that to have known some old people, who, through all the ups and downs of their life, chances and mischances, have carried their hearts in their hands, like palm-branches, waving them to everybody passing by, waving discords into peace, changing hate to love, fanning love into a flame, helps our faith in God, in ourselves, and in each other, more than many sermons.

Prayer.—O Lord God, be with us yet, lest we forget. May we be blessed by examples we have known, and may we too, in return, be examples unto others as they pass. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

TUESDAY.

DEATH AN ANGEL.

I heard a voice from heaven saying, Write, blessed are the dead who die in the Lord . . . that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."—Rev. 14: 13.

"We are spirits. That bodies should be lent us, while they can afford us pleasure, assist us in acquiring knowledge, or in doing good to our fellow creatures, is a kind and benevolent act of God. When they become unfit for these purposes, and afford us pain instead of pleasure, instead of an aid become an incumbrance, and answer none of the intentions for which they were given, it is equally kind and benevolent, that a way is provided by which we may get rid of them. Death is that way. Our friend and we were invited aboard on a party of pleasure, which is to last forever. His chair was ready first and he has gone before us. We could not all conveniently start together; and why should you and I be grieved at this, since we are soon to follow, and know where to find him."—Franklin.

Prayer.—Our Father, so teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom, and reveal to us the preciousness of the saints to Thee, that even death to our bodies, come when it will, will be a welcome guest to bring us better things. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

GREAT QUESTIONS.

"How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent?"—Rom. 10: 14-15.

There are some questions that are answered in the asking. It is so with these, and the answer is in the negative. There are four of these questions, beginning with the heathen about calling upon God, and ending with the responsibility of the Church to do the sending. Christians would do well to study the last question first; for if they can be persuaded to do the sending, then all of the questions may be answered, from the last to the first, with the result that the heathen will call upon the Lord and be saved.

Viewed from the questions, the great need of the heathen world is a church that will send them a preacher. This done, they will have an opportunity to hear. By hearing they will believe; for "faith cometh by hearing." By believing they will pray, "And whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

The greater portion of mankind do not pray, do not believe, and have no preacher. For their salvation, the Bible reveals just one plan: The Church must send, the preacher must go, preach and teach; the heathen must hear, believe and pray.

Prayer.—Our Father, grant that Thy people may see their obligation to a needy, hungry, heathen world. Open our eyes to their cry, and make us willing and glad to send them preachers that they may hear, believe and be saved. Amen.

T. E. WHITE.

THURSDAY.

TODAY.

"Take no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself." "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."—Matt. 6: 34, 33.

"Ye ought to say, if the Lord will, we shall live and do this, or that (tomorrow)"—Jas. 4: 15.

"In the mind of him who is pure and good will be found neither corruption nor defilement nor any malignant taint. Unlike the actor who leaves the stage before his part is played, the life of such a man is complete whenever death may come. He is neither cowardly nor presuming; not enslaved to life nor indifferent to its duties; and in him is found nothing worthy of condemnation nor that which putteth to shame. Test by trial how excellent is the life of the good man—the man who rejoices at the portion given him in the universal lot and abides therein content; just in all his ways and kindly minded toward all men. This is moral perfection: to live each day as though it were the last; to be tranquil, sincere, yet not indifferent to one's fate."—Marcus Aurelius.

Prayer.—Our Father, we realize that every day has its demands on us and that these demands will take all that we are capable of. We pray that we may fill our time each day with work and play that is with an eye of singleness to Thy Glory. Teach us how to do good and give us the will to do it, and may we not put off till tomorrow what we can well do today. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

PASS JUDGMENT SLOWLY.

LESSONS Matt. 7: 1-12.

"Behold a beam is in thine own eye."—V. 4.

John Greenleaf Whittier said, "Search thine own heart: What paineth thee in others, in thyself may be." Christian living consists in the discipline of self and charity toward all. Let beautiful self-examination be a festival of every day, and one of our efforts be that we shall be faultless ourselves before we criticise others. We can remember that every one, however far removed from our idea of what ought to be, is impressible for good as well as evil, right as well as wrong, and, in the nature of things, cannot improve himself by unkind criticism of others. On the other hand, none of us can be good without improving others. Which way shall we take?

Prayer.—Our Father, as Jesus stood by the adulterous woman, forgave her without uttering condemnation, help us to be something like Him, by being loving, charitable and forgiving toward others, perchance we may help the world to be better. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE WISDOM OF WISDOM.

"Wisdom excelleth folly as far as light excelleth darkness."—Eccl. 2: 13, 14.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."—Prov. 9: 10.

"Wisdom preserveth the life of him that hath it."—Eccl. 7: 12.

"I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday."—Abraham Lincoln.

Prayer.—Our Father, the earth is full of Thy riches and in wisdom hast Thou made us. Teach us to number our days, that we may get us hearts of wisdom. Give us the joy of knowing Thee and life eternal. To Thee we pledge ourselves this day. Amen.

SUNDAY.

A GOOD CUSTOM.

"And, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day."—Luke 4: 16.

Character is the product of custom. It is easy to do right when the custom rules the life. It tells in the life of anyone who has the church-going custom. It ought to be formed in early life, so when manhood and old age is reached, attending services will be a happy experience. This was the experience of Jesus.

Absences from church services would be very rare if church members had the good custom which Jesus had. To Him the place of worship was sacred, and frivolous excuses did not keep Him away. Imagine Jesus staying away from the synagogue because there was company at home, or a party had planned a boat ride, or that He didn't like the Ruler! It can't be done; for "as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day."

Churches, preachers and church members are suffering today because a custom of staying at home or going elsewhere than to the house of worship is being formed. It is hard to tell where the custom will finally lead or end. But it is safe to say that those who will suffer most are those who form the pernicious custom of neglecting and slighting the services of the sanctuary.

Prayer.—We thank Thee, our Father, for our church, the place where we may worship Thee in the congregation. Have mercy upon the careless ones who have the custom of staying away. Save us from it. In Jesus' name. Amen.

T. E. WHITE.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Dear Kiddies:

Did you go to the Valentine Party? I'm just sure you had one—and oh, such a good time, too! And, how many valentines did you get? Write and tell your editor. What a happy time we are having this month, with George Washington, and Martha—and Valentine's day already come and gone. Fun and frolic, dears, comes in February, does it not?

Now, I wonder what the Rocky Ford children are doing this month, away up there in that beautiful country. It may be snowing up there—and, oh, don't we wish we were there to enjoy it, too. Their church is all built now, and they can have their Sunday School, and their day school, too, and I hear that they are the very happiest children in our Kiddie Korner. Why of course they belong to the Kiddie Korner. Who in our Korner would like to write these Kiddies a letter? Who in the Kiddie Korner could tell me—have you sent a little offering—a few pennies—a bright new nickel—and, oh perhaps a big Dollar—all from YOU to them—with your love and prayers that they will learn all the nice things you know? Who? Who?

Will you, and you, and all you other YOU'S, in our little Kiddie Korner, write me a letter this week, and in the letter tell me if you have an offering for the school children at Rocky Ford. They need pencils, and books, and warm mittens, and tablets and crayons. Oh, write to me, what you want to do for them. If the pennies and nickel are all ready, you can send them along in the letter. Send it to

YOUR EDITOR.

BEING HELPFUL.

"This little girl washed the dishes,
This little girl swept the floor,
This little girl helped her mother
With many an odd little chore.
This little girl loved her daddy,
And all the rest of them too:
And this little, tiny baby
Was ready to laugh and coo.

"This little boy brought the water,
This little boy brought the wood,
This little boy helped his father
To do all the things that he could.
This little boy rocked the cradle,
And sang little brother a song;
Indeed, they were all happy
Being helpful all the day long."
—Selected.

A NEW LEAF.

He came to my desk with a quivering lip.
The lesson was done.
"Dear teacher, I want a new leaf," he said,
"I have spoiled this one."
In place of the leaf so stained and blotted,
I gave him a new one all unspotted,
And into his sad eyes smiled—
"Do better now, my child."

I went to the throne with a quivering soul.
The old year was done.
"Dear Father, hast Thou a new leaf for me?"
"I have spoiled this one."
He took the old leaf, stained and blotted,
And gave me a new one all unspotted,
And into my sad heart smiled—
"Do better now, my child."

"NISHITIVE."

"What is it?" asked Billy.
"What is what?" asked Johnnie.
"Why that you said just now."
"Nishitive?"
"Yes."
"Don't you know? It's easy."
"No, I don't know; if it's easy, why then, tell me."
"Why, it's—it's—let me see—" and Johnnie paused.
"Guess you don't know yourself," and Billy looked at Johnnie teasingly.
"Yes, I do too; it's getting things done before the other fellows do, then, that's all."

"How do you know that's it?"
"I've heard my folks talk about it."
"But you can't do things until you think of them, and suppose the other fellows think of them first?"
"That's just what you've got to look out for," said Johnnie, eagerly; "it's the thinking or the not thinking that makes all the difference."

"Well, then," said Billy hopelessly, "I guess I'll never have a nishitive, 'cause I never think of things to do. I can do things all right when some body else thinks them up and tells me to do them, but I hardly ever think of things to do. Did you ever think of something to do before some one told you about it?"

"Yes, yesterday my dad couldn't find the key to the garage, and he was in an awful hurry to get to the office. He said he'd have to walk to the station and go on the train. Then I remembered that it was raining the night before when he put up the car, so I rushed to the closet where his waterproof hung and looked in his pocket, and there was the key."

"I bet he was glad," said Billy, laughing in sympathy.

"You bet he was, and when I took it to him, he said, 'That's the stuff! You're the boy with the nishitive!'"

"Oh," sighed Billy, "don't I wish I could do something like that!"

"It's easy," said Johnny, "if you just keep watching and watching, and thinking and thinking, all the time. You try it now, and maybe you'll have a nishitive too; it's lots of fun."

"I'll try," said Billy, but his tone was very hopeless.

The little boys' mothers and some other ladies were walking behind the two little boys. They had all motored out from Chicago to visit some friends, but as the car could not be kept waiting for their return, they were about to go back by way of the interurban train, which ran only once an hour, and they were now on their way to the station. They had never ridden into or out of Chicago by this train, so they knew nothing of the rules by which it was managed. When they reached the station, the ladies went inside at once, for they were glad to sit down, even on the hard benches. Johnny also went inside, but Billy stayed out, saying that he guessed he'd look around a little. Johnny smiled to himself as he thought, "I know what he's staying out for, but he'll not see anything here to do, so he might as well come in."

The ladies fell into merry talk, and Johnny was soon busy reading the colored posters, of which there were many, setting forth the delights of trips on Lake Michigan.

Thus passed several minutes, while Billy with his "looking around" was quite forgotten. Suddenly they heard swiftly rushing feet coming across the station platform and Billy burst into the waiting room, exclaiming, "O Mother, there's a sign out there which says that the cars don't stop here unless the flag is pulled down. I can't reach the rope, and the train just whistled around the bend."

In another second the waiting room was empty, and Billy's mother managed to grasp the rope and pull down the flag just before the train reached the station platform.

When they were all safely in the coach, the two little boys sitting together, Billy said to Johnny: "That was nishitive, wasn't it?"

"I guess so," said Johnny.

"Whatever are those children talking about?" asked one of the ladies.

"Oh," said Johnny's mother with a smile, "my little son has been hearing a great deal lately about people having the initiative, and it sounds as if he's been trying to pass his knowledge on to Billy, but, son, if you wish to teach others, you must be careful to pronounce your words correctly, so, Billy, say the word slowly this way, 'in-i-ti-a-tive.'"

Billy obeyed and managed to say the word very correctly, but in a moment he added, "But I like nishitive better."

This brought a laugh which bothered Billy very much. Then one of the ladies said, "Well, Billy, whatever you call it, you surely saved us a long stay in that dreary waiting room."

So Billy was satisfied.—Clara J. Denton.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
MEN'S PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

BOOKER.

Mrs. P. B. Booker, formerly Lithia Ann Stroud, entered into her eternal rest February 1st, at the home of her son, William M. Booker of Burlington, N. C., where she had made her home for some time. The deceased would have been eighty-two years of age had she lived until March 7th. She professed conversion at the early age of twelve, and united with the Damascus Christian Church of Orange County, N. C., with which church she continued in membership until her death. The departed one was united in marriage in 1866, which happy relation continued until July 4, 1893, when Mr. Booker entered into his rest. From this union there resulted seven children, five of whom survive the mother, namely: Mrs. R. S. Petty, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. J. W. Petty, Durham, N. C.; Mrs. R. P. Kirkland, Lynchburg, Va.; William W. Booker, Burlington, N. C., and Mrs. C. I. Olive, Durham, N. C. Twelve grand-children have been born to her of whom six are living. One brother and three sisters survive to mourn this break in the family, all residents of Chapel Hill, N. C., namely: M. M. Stroud, Mrs. E. C. Thompson, Mrs. H. W. Lloy, Mrs. M. G. Bishop.

Mrs. Booker was an active, energetic and generous hearted woman; even in late years these characteristics were observable; and a sweet and sunny cheerfulness made her life a benediction to loved ones and strangers in her old age. She died in the faith, trusting in her Saviour to the very end. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Martin W. Buck, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Burlington, and consisted of a brief service at the home, where Dr. G. O. Lankford of the First Christian Church, assisted; and then at the Damascus Church where Dr. P. H. Fleming assisted. The interment was in the Damascus Church cemetery.

Well may we cherish the heavenly benediction: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors; and their works follow after them." "As it is written, eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." B.

GASKINS.

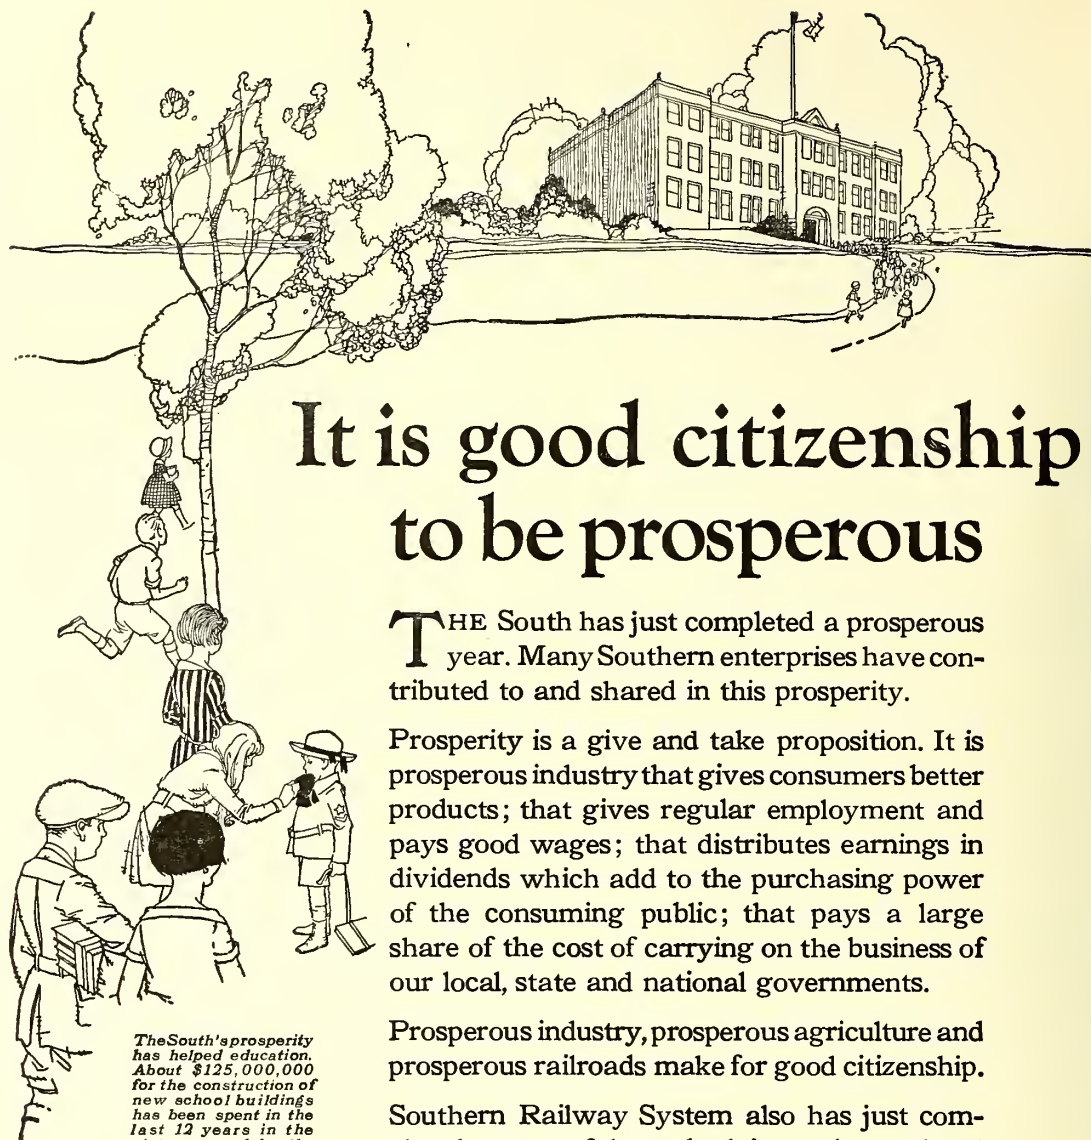

Whereas it hath pleased almighty God to remove from our midst our friend and brother, R. L. Gaskins,

Therefore, Be it resolved:

First. That we express through these resolutions, our appreciation for our association with him and our heart-felt sympathy to the members of his family.

Secoud. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the church book of Berea Christian Church, a copy sent to The Christian Sun for publication, and a copy sent to the family.

J. E. BRINKLEY,
P. S. BLANDFORD,
Mrs. J. W. BRINKLEY,
Mrs. H. P. HARRELL,
Miss MARY BRINKLEY,
Mrs. A. S. HARGROVES,
Committee.

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

HARRELL.

When one who is known and loved leaves this life, for a better sphere, it is not meet for those left behind to grieve, but we do have the consolation of expressing our gratitude to God for having been associated with one of Christian character.

Therefore, Be it resolved:

First. That we, the members of Berea Christian Church, express to the members of Mrs. C. E. Harrell's family our sympathy in their bereavement, and our thanks to the Supreme Being for the kindly associations we have always known with Mrs. Harrell.

Secoud. That a copy of these resolutions be put in our church book, a copy published in The Christian Sun, and a copy sent to the family.

J. E. BRINKLEY,
P. S. BLANDFORD,
Mrs. J. W. BRINKLEY,
Mrs. H. P. HARRELL,
Miss MARY BRINKLEY,
Mrs. A. S. HARGROVES,
Committee.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities
Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

OBITUARIES.

JOHNSON.

Mrs. Deborah Johnson, wife of the late William Johnson, of Pleasant Union Christian Church, Harnette County, N. C., was called from his earthly pilgrimage to the "home of the soul" on the fourth day of February, 1926. Mrs. Johnson would have been 71 years of age in April. We believe she was a good woman, and we shall miss her in our church, both as a faithful attendant and as a supporter of the work. She had been in declining health for some time, but the end came quite suddenly and unexpectedly.

The interment was in the family burying ground near the old home, and it was attended by a large concourse of people. The grave was beautifully decorated with flowers. The singing was beautifully rendered by the Bouie's Creek male quartette. The burial services were conducted by the writer.

May our Lord's richest blessings rest upon the children who shall so much miss her, and may they see each other face to face in the realm of the blessed.

J. LEE JOHNSON.

BADGER.

Our fellow church member, Amos Badger, having departed this life, it is our desire to express through these resolutions our sympathy to the members of his family, and our appreciation of his earnest life, by recording these resolutions in Berea Church book, publishing a copy in The Christian Sun, and sending a copy to his family.

J. E. BRINKLEY,
P. S. BLANDFORD,
Mrs. J. W. BRINKLEY,
Mrs. H. P. HARRELL,
Miss MARY BRINKLEY,
Mrs. A. S. HARGROVES,
Committee.

School Desks, Opera Chairs, Folding Chairs, Kindergarten Chairs, School Supplies, Blackboards.
SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

HOLMAN BIBLES
For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES
Specimen of Type Holman Home Bible
AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that
Flexible Binding
Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches
Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.
No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.
Price-Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES
NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE
The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.
Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.
Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.
Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephee not want.
2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.
No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.
Price-Post Paid 4.20
No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.
Price-Post Paid 9.35

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL
SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD
CHILDREN'S
BIBLES
The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.
A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.
02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/4 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus. . . . $1.85
02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50
03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/4 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40
02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/4 x 3 3/4 inches. $3.00
ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

The Christian Sun
Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL, Associate
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
REV. S. M. LYNAM, News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE, Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.
When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

ROLLINGS.

Richard Harrison Rollings was born May 25, 1853, and died February 5, 1926, at the age of 72 years, 9 months and 18 days. On February 19, 1880, he was united in marriage to Miss Susanna J. Barrett, and to this union were born six children: Junius H., who died in infancy; Edwin Mills, Jesse B., Amon T. and Viola Virginia Rollings, and Lona May Williams, all of whom survive. His wife preceded him to the grave five years ago. Mr. Rollings was the oldest of six children, all of whom preceded him to the grave.

In early childhood Mr. Rollings made a profession of faith in Christ and united with Barrett's Christian Church, of which he remained a faithful member until ill health prevented him from attending, and still his interest in his church never waned. He had been a deacon for the last half century.

Brother Rollings was called upon in his closing days to pass through great suffering, which he bore patiently. His faith in Christ was strong. Funeral was conducted by his pastor assisted by Rev. J. W. Roberts. Interment was in the family burying ground near the old home, beneath a beautiful floral tribute. May God bless the family.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

VAUGHN.

William Dewey Vaughn was born on October 27, 1907, and died September 1, 1925, at Edmonds Hospital, Danville, Va. He was affiliated with Mt. Carmel Sunday School and was a regular attendant. Shortly before his departure, he confessed Christ and joined Happy Home Christian Church. He was a noble young man and was loved by all who knew him. He was kind and obedient to his parents, whom he leaves to mourn their loss, together with three sisters, four brothers, and a number of relations and friends.

Burial services were at Happy Home Church by his pastor in the midst of a large congregation. Interment in the church cemetery.

May the Lord comfort the family.

L. L. WYRICK.

COX.

Mattie Booker Cox, born June 19, 1876, died February 9, 1926, age 49 years, 7 months, 20 days. Married to W. G. Cox, December 6, 1905. To this union was born one son. Joined the Baptist Church early in life and remained a consistent member until death. She is survived by husband and son, many relatives and friends. Laid to rest in Holly Springs Cemetery, beneath many beautiful flowers. Funeral by the writer.

"O days gone by forever,
When mother she was here,

The years came on to sever.

We miss our mother dear."

A. K. SCOTTIN.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50
0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM

"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type; Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles. .60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. .70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included. $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges. .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer
2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included. $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHNER, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1926.

NUMBER 8.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Directs Reading.—

Rev. Edwin B. Burns, Methodist, of Kenosha, Wis., undertakes to direct the reading of his congregation. His efforts have been crowned with remarkable success. Twice each year he publishes a list of about fifty titles which he recommends to his congregation. This is a task which other pastors might undertake with profit to their churches.

A Great Dedication.—

At the dedication service of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, Detroit, Michigan, five hundred persons united with the church. Dr. Merton S. Rice is the pastor, and the new church plant cost a million and a half dollars. The pastor was assisted by three Methodist bishops at the dedication, and each service was attended by around four thousand people.

Favors Teaching Religion.—

Herbert E. Hawkes, Dean of Columbia University, New York City, told the American Association of Colleges recently that he believed in the teaching of religion in higher institutions. He maintained that real teaching was a stimulation of students to read, and on that ground he believed that religion could be taught just as other subjects, and that it was possible to do so.

To Head Temple University.—

Dr. Charles E. Beury has been chosen to head Temple University as successor to the late Dr. Russell H. Conwell. The policies of the university will remain the same. Dr. Beury has been for years an active trustee of the institution, and a close friend of Dr. Conwell. The University was founded for those who would not otherwise be able to obtain a higher education.

Exchange Pulpits.—

In many cities it is the regular practice of the ministers to exchange pulpits at least one time each year. A rather unique event of this kind occurred recently in Concord, N. H. Fourteen ministers exchanged pulpits, and all of them spoke from the same theme, "The Appeal of Jesus to Modern Life." Much interest in the services was aroused, and the ministers of Concord have decided to make this sort of thing an annual event.

The British Boxer Indemnity.—

England is taking a cue from the United States. Twenty-five years ago, the American Government remitted a large portion of the money paid as an indemnity to this country by China, following the Boxer rebellion. The money thus returned was to be used for the education of Chinese students in this country. Russia, France, and Spain, have since followed our example, and now England would do the same. England needs to cultivate all the good will she can in China. Her trade there is threatened with extinction, and it will be necessary to come down a little if England wishes to continue trading with the folk on the Yellow Sea.

Lloyd George's Land Policy.—

The land problem has been for many years a great one before the British people. Lloyd George has shown shrewdness in siezing upon it as a means of returning to political prominence. His first proposal which was that the crown should resume ownership of all the land as was once the case, has been modified considerably. It is now proposed that the crown shall resume the ownership gradually and under certain conditions, as for instance, when a farm becomes vacant, when it is raised for sale, when it is poorly managed as a rule, and when the farmers of a parish express a desire that the state take charge. To carry his point Lloyd George is giving some pointed illustrations. In one of them he pointed out the roads were built at public expense, and that the land along these roads had increased from thirty to forty pounds an acre to from five hundred to one thousand pounds an acre, and in one instance to twelve thousand pounds an acre. This increase was caused by the road built at public expense, and the increment ought therefore to belong to the government, which would enable it to build other roads. He proposes, therefore, to levy on the increment. This policy recalls many other land proposals, and even though Lloyd George is having a difficult time keeping himself at the head of the British Liberal Party, there is some sound argument in his policy. The builder of roads, be it county, state, or nation, should derive something from the unearned increment on the land along them so that other roads may be built, and those roads kept in repair.

Tightening Up Enforcement.—

It seems to be the idea of the Department of Justice of the United States Government that the judicial machinery should function more promptly in liquor cases. To this end, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrant, the Assistant Attorney General, is touring the country and holding conferences with district attorneys. The announcement of Mrs. Willebrant's tour came the day following a speech by Mr. Lincoln C. Andrews, in New York, in which he charged that the lax enforcement of the Volstead law was due to the breaking down of the judicial machinery. It was thought at the time that the head of the liquor destroying department of the country was reflecting on Mrs. Willebrant's office, but he was not. A co-operation between the judicial department and the treasury department is becoming constantly closer. Just what Assistant Attorney General Willebrant will say to the district attorneys is not known, but it is pretty well understood that all of them will be given to understand that nothing but their utmost will satisfy the lady in charge at Washington. The federal government is becoming earnest about prohibition enforcement, and those violating the law may rest assured that conviction and punishment will grow more certain. It may be that the Congress will be asked for an appropriation to provide more prosecutors and judges in the wet areas where the dockets are clogged, and possibly to put sharper teeth in the law itself, since Mrs. Willebrant is of the opinion that the penalties for the violation of the prohibition law are entirely too light to be effective. It is certainly true that the enforcement of the law as to whiskey and other crimes has grown lax, and may possibly account for the loss of respect for law. Mrs. Willebrant is to be commended.

First Things in America.—

Someone has taken the pains to look up some of the things important in our life, as they first appeared in America: Silk was first made in 1850. Women first voted, in Wyoming, in 1870. The phonograph was first heard in 1877. Sewing machines were first used in 1846. The first steamboat plied the Hudson in 1807. Standard time was first adopted in 1883. The capital was established at Washington in 1800. The first canal was opened in Connecticut in 1804. The first dental office was opened in New York in 1788. Petroleum was first discovered in Pennsylvania in 1860. Iron was discovered in Virginia in 1705, and gold in California in 1848. The first ship to carry the American flag around the world was the Columbia in 1790. The first telegram was sent from Washington to Baltimore in 1844, May 27th. Vaccination was introduced into the United States in 1800 by Dr. Waterhouse of Harvard University. The first State to add a star to the constellation of thirteen was Illinois in 1818, admitted on December 3d. The first bridge of any kind to span the Mississippi River was completed in January, 1855, at Minneapolis. The first hospital was established in Pennsylvania, in February, 1851; it was called the Pennsylvania Hospital. Cotton was first grown in Virginia in 1621, and first exported in 1747. The first cotton mill was operated in New Hampshire in 1803. The first steamer to cross the ocean left Savannah, Ga., May 24, 1819, and reached Liverpool, England, twenty-five days later. These things, aside from the natural interest, show how very young this country is, and in many instances, how much progress has been made within the last century. Have we kept abreast of material progress in our mental and moral life?

NOTES-PERSONALS

Churches and pastorates will do well to raise purses with which to send their pastors to the Durham Convention.

Durham, N. C., is the place, and April 27th is the date fixed for the next session of the Southern Christian Convention.

We understand that the proposed measure to relax the Sunday observance law in the State of Virginia was killed in committee. We congratulate the committee.

Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., Windsor, Va., President of the Eastern Virginia Conference, writes a timely and worth-while letter printed elsewhere in THE SUN this week. We trust that all of our pastors in that conference are as deeply interested in Missions and Mission Month as is its president.

It is devoutly hoped that all churches in the Eastern Virginia Conference will have taken the offering for the Emergency Mission Fund by the close of the fourth Sunday in February, but if any failed because of rain or inclement weather, we are sure the offering will be taken at the first possible service after February.

Dr. W. H. Denison in his department, this week, writes convincingly on a most timely topic. If ever the Church, and people, ever needed their attention fixed on the fundamental Christian virtue of Self-Denial, that time is now. Every SUN reader should follow Dr. Denison closely this week. It is worth while.

Blue prints for an O'Kelly Memorial on the Elon College Campus and for the Old Lebanon Memorial on the site of that first Church in Surry County, Virginia, have been made, and now it seems that the committee appointed for the purpose will have something tangible and definite to present to the next session of the Convention.

Our dear Brother, Rev. H. E. Rountree, Chaplain U. S. Navy, whose valuable contributions to THE SUN each week are read with such pleasure and helpfulness, has been for several weeks in the Naval Hospital, Norfolk, Va., for examination and treatment. He does not have promise of early release from the sick room as his trouble is chronic. A line of encouragement and good cheer from his friends will help.

Dr. C. H. Rowland and his Greensboro people have the right idea about the offering during Mission Month. Knowing that the goal is $25,000 and realizing that many people in many congregations will not have the privilege of contributing anything, and that some will not contribute even a dollar if given a chance, he and his church have fixed their goal at an average of $2.00 per member. That is the spirit of co-operation, liberality and loyalty that does things for the Kingdom.

On January 12, 1901, Rev and Mrs. D. P. Barrett sailed from New York to Porto Rico as our missionaries. These faithful soldiers of the Cross have been on the firing line for us ever since. We are this year, and very appropriately, celebrating the 25th anniversary of their going out. The Christian Missionary for February is dedicated to "Ministry for Christ in Porto Rico—January, 1901-January, 1926." The number gives a beautiful presentation of the work done, and now being done, by us in Porto Rico.

The Mission Secretary enjoyed immensely a letter from a former Elon student, the son of one of our faithful Christian Ministers, and whose business, and present location, has carried him away from the reach of a Christian Church: "Through my father and through the columns of THE CHRISTIAN SUN I keep in touch with some of the church activities. I know that at this particular time you are very much in need of financial help. I am now tithing my income and things seem to be going much better with me. Enclosed you will find check for $25.00 as a payment on my Men and Millions pledge." This young man is certainly maintaining an enviable attitude to his church and obligations, for which he will never be the poorer, but the richer, in heart and experience.

Rev. M. F. Allen, pastor of the United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va., writes under date of February 18th. He says: "The tracts and envelopes for Mission Month have reached us. We are planning to observe Mission Month in our Church. The pastor will preach on the subject at one service each Sunday during the Month. Other in the several departments of our work are planning to discuss the cause of Missions during this special period." Though our Lynchburg Church is of recent accession to our Conference, it has proven itself loyal in activity and allegiance to all the interests of the Church. It is not a strong Church numerically and financially, but it is a working Church, and is lined up loyally with the work of the conference to which it belongs, and this is a virtue that any, and every Church and pastor may well cultivate.

Miss Margaret Alston, Superintendent of Missions in her district and President of the Woman's Missionary Society of Liberty (Vance), sent this encouraging word under date of February 14th, "At our regular Woman's Missionary meeting this afternoon, we decided as a society to give extra to the Emergency Fund during the Missionary Offering at our church in Mission Month. I wish so much that each member of our society may give $1.00 extra. I just hope that the Missionary Societies in all the churches will help to make Mission Month a great success, and I am praying that the entire sum of $25,000 for our Emergency Fund will be raised. I want to be one to help raise that amount, and I am willing to be of any service I can, or render help in any way." The women of our Missionary Societies are certainly interested in Mission Month and are co-operating beautifully and bountifully, and on this account one feels encouraged.

Under date of February 20, we received the following from our Webster Church, of which Harriett E. Cooley is the correspondent: "The weather having been so unsettled and there having been so much sickness, we have had smaller congregations at the Webster Community Christian Church than usual, this month. But with it all, we have been very fortunate not to have missed services but one Sunday. We entered into our pre-Easter Service last Wednesday evening, with a fine sermon by our pastor, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe. There will be a one hour service every Wednesday evening until Easter. We expect to have some fine speakers and a different one each week. We are all hoping and praying these meetings may mean much to our church and to the community. We are planning to organize a Woman's Missionary Society and also a Junior Society in our Sunday School this month. Several of our members attended the anniversary of the St. Paul's Brotherhood at the People's Church at Dover, Delaware, last Tuesday evening. They came back delighted with the church and the people at Dover."

Mrs. P. J. Kernodle, who is chairman of the Publicity Committee of our Richmond Woman's Society, sends us the following: "The 'Day of Prayer' was observed by the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church of Richmond, Va. It was possibly one of the most deeply spiritual meetings ever held by the church. The meeting was under the direction of the president, Mrs. C. C. Ryan, and opened at 11 A. M. The pastor of the church conducted the prayer and devotional services. The theme was 'The Result of a Prayer Life.' The different phases of the work were definitely prayed for, and at this time special blessings were invoked upon Dr. J. O. Atkinson, in leading our forces to do this especial work. At this service, Mr. White, of the Episcopal Church, delivered a splendid address on 'The Power of God in Our Own Lives.' At 12:30 dinner was served, and at 2:30 P. M., Mr. Robert Lecky, of the Presbyterian Church, gave a very splendid address on 'Challenging God in Our Prayers.' The fruits of such meetings will be shown in the days to come."

Rev. R. L. Williamson, always faithful and anxious to co-operate in every thing that pertains to the up-building of the Church and the advancement of the Kingdom, writes under date of February 12th: "Sanford Church is planning to observe Mission Month, in both the Sunday School and preaching services. The superintendent of the Sunday School, Prof. J. G. Truitt, will give a place for the presentation of the subject of Missions each Sunday during March. I am planning to preach at least two sermons on some phase of Stewardship, all leading up to the offering on the fourth Sunday. Our plans will include the distribution of literature that we may be able to obtain. Nothing definite has been decided at Turner's Chapel, but I shall expect that church to fall in line and do her part. Sanford now has all time services. The two services that I am away are supplied by the laymen, and I am told that they do it well. I am well pleased with my work here. I have never served a better and more appreciative people. My greatest concern is that the Master may give me grace and strength to accomplish His will and purpose here?"

RAILROADS AND THE WORLD WAR.

The expense to the government of its World War control of the railroads amounted to a total of $1,696,000,000. That is shown in a report just submitted to President Coolidge by James C. Davis, Director General of Railroads. With the report, Mr. Davis sent his resignation as Director General, for his work is finished. That work is a remarkable achievement. In accepting the report and resignation, President Coolidge expressed to Mr. Davis his heartiest congratulations and referred to him as "a public servant who has performed a particularly efficient, able and difficult task."

When the railroads were turned back to their private owners after the World War, the government was faced with perhaps 50,000 lawsuits. Many of these suits were brought by private parties against the railroads during the period when they were under government operation. The railroads also filed claims against the government for a total of more than a billion dollars. Mr. Davis succeeded in settling every one of these lawsuits out of court, to the satisfaction of both the government and claimants.—Current Events.

THE BIRMINGHAM CONVENTION.

The International Council of Religious Education is to meet in Birmingham, Alabama, April 12-19, 1926, and it is earnestly desired that every section of our church will be fully represented at this gathering, but it is especially a rare treat for our Southern Convention to be represented in this great interdenominational assembly.

The Christian Church has selected the Empire Hotel as its official headquarters during the convention. Those who are interested in hotel reservations should write Mr. Geo. Bellsnyder, Chairman, 401 Title Guarantee Building, Birmingham, Alabama, and state that reservation is desired in the Empire Hotel, where the Christian Church is to have its headquarters.

Dr. F. G. Coffin, President of our General Convention, President A. G. Caris of Defiance College, Dr. S. L. Beougher of Bethlehem College, Mr. Hermon Eldredge, Mrs. F. E. Bullock, and Miss Lucy Eldredge of our field force in Christian Education, Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va., and many others have already signified their intention to attend the convention, but there are numerous others who should enroll for this purpose.

The Christian Church is entitled to one hundred delegates. The issuance of credentials for our church is in the hands of the undersigned, and application should be made with the registration fee of $3.50 at once.

The last three days of the convention will witness a rally of the young people of the United States. We are allotted twenty-five delegates for this Young People's Congress, and I hope that every one of these places will be taken and I shall be glad to issue the proper credentials.

The registration fee for the young people for the three days is only $1.50.

At some suitable time during the convention, there will be a rally of our people in charge of Mr. Hermon Eldredge.

W. A. HARPER.

RANDLEMAN CHURCH.

The Randleman Christian Church, Randleman, N. C., was organized about the year 1890, and was first built in South Randleman. It had one pastor, Rev. Boliver Richardson, 1890-'92. In 1892 the church was moved to West Randleman, where it now stands, by Rev. E. H. Jarrell who was pastor from 1892 to '93. The Rev. Henry Albright served during 1894. Since that time the following pastors have served, with their terms of office: Rev. M. A. Baldwin, 1895; Rev. J. W. Parker, 1896-1902; Rev. P. T. Klapp, 1903; Rev. W. H. Roach, 1906-'07 and 1910; Rev. E. L. Stack, 1908; Rev. J. R. Comer, 1909; Rev. J. V. Knight, 1912-13; Rev. W. N. Hayes, 1914; Rev. R. F. Brown, 1915-16; Rev. S. B. Klapp, 1917; Rev. W. J. Edwards, 1919-22, and Rev. J. M. Allred, 1923-25.

During the past three or four years the church has been remodeled and has enjoyed a large increase in church membership. The Sunday evening prayer meeting is a special feature of the church now, and has been kept up for twenty years.

We have also a good Sunday School with about 150 members on roll. It was organized about the year 1895. Rev. J. M. Allred is the present beloved pastor, and the church is in a prosperous and progressive condition under his wise leadership. The enlarged building is now cleared of all indebtedness, and was dedicated the second Sunday in January. The Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN and the Superintendent of the Christian Orphanage were both present for the occasion.

CHURCH SECRETARY.

Randleman, N. C.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

WANTED, A PROGRAM.

The Christian Church is the strongest in Principles and the weakest in Program of any organization one knows. We certainly are proud of our principles, and we have a right to be. No Church, no branch of the Church, ever had finer, better, truer principles. One cannot find fault with our principles. Here they are in brief. Read them closely and see if there is one lacking, or one too many:

"1. The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

"2. Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

"3. The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

"4. Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

"5. The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

In all our travels and contacts we have never heard these principles ever plausibly criticised or reasonably disputed. One cannot gainsay them without denying the Bible and placing some other name above that of Christ. The trouble with the Christian Church is not its principles. Our sole trouble has been, and is with our program. Principles do not build anything. They form foundations on which to build. Every building is erected according to some principle; but no principle ever erected any building. One must have more than principles to lead, and inspire, one to build. Principles alone, a foundation only, would certainly not justify one in erecting anything.

We Christians must have a program to lead, to inspire, to encourage, to challenge us.

Now Jesus the Christ Whose name we have adopted, and wear, gave us a program on which we cannot improve. If it had been too big a program for any part, branch, or portion of His people, He would never have given it. If it had been an easy or an impossible program He would never have given it. He knew it was hard and He knew also that it was possible.

Into that program He packed all the passion, concentrated all the power, and poured all the faith, of His resurrected strength and glory, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation." Our Saviour based all His hope and expectations for a saved world on our willingness to obey that command and adopt that program. That, at any rate, is our risen Christ's program. That is the one, and only program, in the Word of God, at all equal to the principles that we Christians have adopted.

And our Father in heaven knows we will never grow much as a Church on this earth till we square our program with our principles.

Men do not construct a great locomotive to pull one spool of thread, or even one bolt of yarn. Men do not build and equip an ocean liner to carry one person or a single package. Men do not clear and plow great fields to plant one grain of corn in. Neither do men dig deep foundations and fill the same with stone and cement, to build a hut or a hovel on.

Neither does a Church show wisdom and grace and economy that does not build according to its foundations—construct and seek to carry out a program commensurate with its principles.

To date, in lands where they have not known our Christ they have assigned us Christians one million souls to reach with the Gospel in Japan; seventy thousand in Porto Rico. There are other millions also we should have assigned us, because others are not reaching them. But we are not putting on a program that even contemplates reaching in a long, long time the million, seventy thousand assigned us.

Yes, there are hundreds, thousands in fact, round about us here at home, not yet reached with the gospel. Well, at any rate, the most of them have had the opportunity. We were told to begin at Jerusalem. But, thank God, we were not told to remain there. And because Paul went out, and on, and beyond, God used him mightily to the spread of the Kingdom, and the building of Churches.

Paul at any rate had a program commensurate with his principles. In our missionary program, now, we are trying to secure $25,000.00 as an offering from all the Churches of the Conferences of the Southern Christian Convention. Will we do it? Well, if we are willing to put on a program equal to our principles we will. We have the foundation. Let us build mightily on it, for God.

J. O. A.

MEETING THE DEMANDS OF PURE RELIGION.

James told what the demands of pure and undefiled religion were. Read his statement: "Pure religion and undefiled before God the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."—James 1: 27. There are three words in that definition which are essential; and they seem very often to be left out of our thinking and our acting. These three words are "In their affliction."

Now outside of our Lord Christ's great command, "Go ye," this definition is one of the strongest missionary utterances ever delivered.

Who are the afflicted, the really and truly afflicted orphans and widows of this world? If it is not those poor neglected, unhelped and unpitied widows and orphans in non-Christian lands where the Gospel of our God has not yet lightened their burdens and tempered their afflictions, then we don't know. When one thinks of the millions of widows whose burdens, and lot, are unbearable and unspeakable, because those about them show no pity or compassion in Christ's name (because they do not know and have never heard of the Christ), here indeed are widows who really and truly are afflicted.

And when one contemplates the lot of millions of fatherless and motherless children in non-Christian lands, where the passionate love of our Christ for children has never been heard of or told about—well now those fatherless ones are afflicted. If we are to measure up to the demands of pure religion, and visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction—well we will have to visit, through our prayers and our offerings, those whose home will never know of our Christ, if we do not make Him known to them.

If some CHRISTIAN SUN reader wonders why so much is being said and done now in our columns, and in our Churches, about Mission Month and the Emergency Missions Fund, just let that one know that we Christians have the heart to try once in our life, and right now, to visit the fatherless and the widows who are afflicted—afflicted with the deep darkness of death and despair, because they have never known, many have never heard, of the love and saving power of Him who loved little children and called them to Him.

J. O. A.

A CHRISTIAN OBLIGATION.

If Jesus had never commanded his disciples to "Go into all the world and preach the gospel," the value and power of his gospel is just as definite command in itself. Christianity is naturally a missionary religion, because it alone has the bread of life for the universal hunger of human souls. In the command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel," Jesus is but summing up the spirit and obligation of his gospel imposes upon all those who accept it.

The person who professes to be a Christian, but who says he does not believe in Missions, thereby flatly contradicts his profession of faith. If Christianity is a good thing for him, it is a good thing for every man and woman. The principle of the golden rule impells a man to want others to have the benefit of what has helped him.

If Christianity is a good thing for me, if it has saved me from sin to the love of God, then in all fairness and justice, I must do my part to let my brother in Japan, in India, in Porto Rico, and in whatever land, learn of Christ's redeeming love, that he too may enjoy the life, the light, and the liberty of the Gospel. If I am unconcerned about the needs of men and women in non-Christian lands, then I am just to that extent of unconcern, non-Christian myself. A whole Christian believes that Christ is for the whole world, and knows that God's Kingdom cannot fully come until the whole world is for Christ. If Christianity is a good thing for America, it is a good thing for Africa, for China, for India, for Japan, and for every land wrapped in the darkness of superstition, ignorance and sin. The only person who does not believe in Missions is the one who does not know what Missions is doing. Robert Louis Stevenson put it well in these words, "Those who debate against Missions have only one thing to do, namely, to go and see them on the spot," see what the missionaries are doing.

The warrant of Foreign Missions is found in the fact that Christ has a right to be made known to the neglected areas in our own land, and to the lands that know not the love of God. The love that He breathed into the life of the world is a universal love. He revealed a universal God. He taught the universal brotherhood of man. He has a right to be made known to the world, and the world has a right to know Him. None but Christians can make Him known, none but Christians will. There is no other name given among men that has the power to lift man out of the mire of sin.

Mohammed introduced a religious system which has won its millions of devotees. But Mohammed offers no redeeming grace for the man who, burdened with guilt for his past sins, seeks the strength to rise above his sinful condition in life. When the name of Mohammed is mentioned the terrible atrocities of the Moslem sword instantly rush across the mind. His name is not associated with love, but with hate. And "God is love." Some of the ethical teachings of the Koran are good, but on the whole they are so inferior to the teachings of Jesus that the Christian feels that every Moslem should hear of his Christ. Compare the story of Joseph as given in the Koran with the story as we have it in the Bible, and one sees the degrading sensuality that pervades the Mohammedan mind. "Mohammedanism is sensuality under the guise of religion. Its heaven is a land flowing with wine and honey, all of whose houses are palaces filled with beautiful, black-eyed women, where all wear garments of gold thread, and where the warrior remains young and is endowed with passions that can never be exhausted."

Confucius presents a noble ethical code, but he offers no help to measure up to it. Budha presents a more developed religious system. He says to escape sorrow, one must follow his eight principles of living—"Have right views, right resolves, right words, right acts, right life, right thinking, right meditations, and right effort." "Have these," says Budha, "and thou shalt be free from sorrow." But he offers no dynamic for experience. Zoroaster called men to purity in thought, in word, and in deed, and challenged men to live up in personal co-operation with the good spirit, Ahhman, in his fight against the evil spirit, Ormuzd. He showed God's dependence upon man, but failed to emphasize man's dependence upon God in the moral struggles.

Christ introduced to the world a personal God, who has a personal touch for every life. He showed that God depends on men and that men must depend upon God—the co-operation between God and man. All men need to know the essentiality of this co-operation. We are devotees of the ethnic religions if we complacently say that because their religious beliefs are of some value, that we will say nothing to them about the teachings of our Christ. Christianity has all of the good found in these various religions, and is free from the undesirable elements, and has much additional good. Christianity alone has the message of "the more abundant life." And if we have experienced the more abundant life in Christ, we will desire a worthy part in enabling Christianity to prove its superiority over the other religions of the world.

Moreover, the superstitions in many countries make it imperative that we as Christians take Christ to the people. The alligator worship in Africa which causes each family to sacrifice one child to the ancestor spirit embodied in the alligator, and the numerous inhuman practices in other non-Christian lands due to the people's superstition and ignorance, impel the serious-minded Christians to do something to make Christ known to the people held in such ignorance. The stories of the life of Krishna so corrupt the Hindu youth as to make India's moral conditions almost unbelievable. Each mother vows to the deity of Khandola that she will give her first-born girl to the idol. This amounts to placing her own child in the horrible hell of the white slave traffic.

Such conditions existing in other lands is a challenge to the Christian world to lead the benighted people into the paths of truth and life as found in Jesus Christ.

The motive of Christian Missions has changed from what it was a generation ago. The old motive was to save men from dying out of Christ. Missionary enthusiasts appealed to the Church for aid on the ground that there were so many million heathen dying every minute unsaved. It was taught that all such were doomed to hell. But are they? The man or woman in Africa or India who never heard about Christ may fare better in judgment than the man or woman in America who never gave a dollar to help send the missionaries to make Christ known to those who know Him not—those who never can know Him in their life on earth unless Christians take Him to them.

The new motive of Christian Missions is that of preparing men and women to live in fellowship with Christ and to serve in His love. The new motive is to teach them how to live. To this end, Industrial Missions are fostered—to teach the natives to engage in profitable labor, introducing the different trades, agriculture, horticulture and all the rest. Medical Missions, Educational Missions, as well as Evangelistic Missions, are now carried on in every Mission land. Formerly only the Evangelistic Missions were known.

We owe our own Church life in this country to Missions. Paul took the message of the Christian religion, which is for all the world, to Rome. Missionaries from Rome went up into northern Europe and labored among the Goths and Vandals, then on over to England, from whence later the Pilgrims and Puritans came to plant the cause of Christianity in America. Less than fifteen centuries ago, our Saxon fathers were cannibals, drinking human blood out of human skulls. They were pirates on the sea and robbers on land. Not until Charlemagne conquered them in the early part of the eighth century had they heard of Christ. "It is well for us to look at the pit from whence we were digged."

The reflex influence of Missions on the home Church is not really a motive, but a by-product. The home Church that does the most for Foreign Missions is always the strongest, spiritually and financially. For a person to say he does not believe in Missions is for him to confess his ignorance of what the conditions are in non-Christian lands, and of what Missions have done and are doing. Livingstone in Africa, Morrison in China, Judson in Burma, called to the buried possibilities of those countries as Jesus did at the grave of Lazarus, "Come forth." And thousands upon thousands of men and women have come forth into the light and liberty of the gospel in response to their call. Those countries have come forth into the world of civilization and all mankind is being blessed thereby.

What response have you, dear reader, ever made to the call of Missions? "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also harvest." Money given to Missions is good seed sowed in the Kingdom of God. The harvest will be a redeemed humanity. We may not be willing to give our lives on the Mission field. Then we dare not do less than give of our money to send those who are willing to go. We cannot shift our responsibility. We ought not want to if we could. It is a strange thing for a member of the Christian Church to be witnessing for Christ in the mountains of Virginia, in the logging camps of Washington, in the Mission stations of Porto Rico and Japan every Sunday. But that is what every member of the Christian Church is doing who gives worthily to the Missions Emergency Campaign of our beloved Church. His money which he has earned "by the sweat of his face" is "bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh." It is a part of him. For while he works in his community, his money is witnessing his love for Christ in Porto Rico, in Japan, and in every Home Mission point of his Church, all at the same time. It is a great privilege thus to work in God's Kingdom. This is our Christian obligation. "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not do the things which I command you." "Go ye into all the world and make known the Gospel," which is "God's power to save."

R. C. H.

BRO. JORDAN WRITES ANOTHER BOOK.

"Central American Indians and the Bible," by W. F. Jordan, of the Christian Church is the title of a book recently published by Fleming H. Revell Company. Price $1.00.

This is an entrancing story of the progress of the gospel among the Indians. In its pages we are told with warm sympathy and gripping appreciation of how moonshiners, gamblers and drunkards have become successful preachers of the gospel. This book is more entertaining than a novel. Mr. Jordan sympathizes with the Indians and has his heart in the work he is undertaking as a representative of the American Bible Society in Central America.

Particularly does Mr. Jordan's soul cry out against the virtual serfdom to which the industrial system of the country subjects the Indians. Speaking of the fact that it costs 84 cents a hundred pounds to transport merchandise on mule back for one hundred miles, while an Indian carries it on his own back for 60c, Bro. Jordan says:

Of course, the Indian cannot live from the proceeds of this enforced service. He with the help of his wife and children cultivate a little patch of corn and carry from home the unleavened cakes that form his sustenance during the trip. A mule must be fed and cared for and someone must be hired to go along and look after it. The mule also represents a considerable investment and its sickness and death means financial loss to the owner. The Indian requires no care. If the Indian dies, there is no money lost, his own people bury him and his children or relatives take his place at the task. Hence it is that in the labor market of Guatemala the animal is worth more than the man."

The book is written in a most charming style, and takes high ranking among missionary works.

W. A. H.

HIGH COST OF WAR.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in discussing the attitude of the United States on the question of the World Court, recently made the following statement: "The amounts spent by this Government in aid of agriculture and business, for science, education, better roads, and other constructive efforts, are insignificant when compared with outlays due to war and national defense. This will be the situation as long as war is the method of settling international disputes. These facts should be faced squarely by those who clamor for reduced Government expenditures and at the same time oppose the world's effort to devise rational methods for dealing with international questions."

Mr. Mellon's statement is worthy of the prayerful consideration of every Christian in this broad land of ours. Too long has the world sacrificed to the God of War. Too long already has he ruled. There is only one real cure, and that is the putting into actual practice of Christ's command that we love one another.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

"The Church" is missionary, or it is not "the Church." The Church was missionary in its origin, in its early teachings, and its centuries of history. Jesus was the original missionary. That oft-repeated John 3:16 says: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life"; and Jesus said: "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you."—John 20:21. Then, when the first Christian Church was organized, with converts to Christ from Jews and Gentiles, they held a meeting and "when they had fasted and prayed, and laid hands on them, they sent them away."—Acts 13:3. It is implied that the Church provided for the expenses of Barnabas and Saul, whose name was soon changed to Paul. The missionary enterprise started with God, continued through Jesus Christ, and is the main work of the Church. This enterprise is the largest in the world. Its goal is the salvation of the world. No big business has as large an undertaking as the Church. People who help the mission cause are engaged in the largest undertaking known to man.

There are three ways to help others: to go, to carry, to send. You can go to a poor family, and your visit helps beyond what you think; you can carry provisions, and that will feed the body as your visit did the mind; you can send a message, a basket, a book, and that makes you a contributor to comfort, to relief, it may be to life. The only value of money is its circulating value; the only value of a human life is what it does for others. Hermitage was a failure. The hermit is not only the most useless, but is himself in the most danger. When the devil tempted Jesus, Jesus was alone in the mountain. The greatest temptations come to men in solitude. We sometimes think of the spiritual danger to young people out in society; but the danger is when the dance breaks up into smaller groups. Human values are in contacts regulated by moral and spiritual principles. No nation is safe alone. It is safe only when it is at peace with all other nations, and is willing to co-operate with other nations. A brick in the yard has no value; a brick in the wall is worth more value than it cost.

The Church is God's agent to save the world; and members of the Church are laborers, workers in that field. The Church is retarded in its mission by inactive members more than by the unsaved outside. A fence is not a successful agent unless every pannel is in its place. A common rail fence without a pannel left out is better than the best iron or stone fence with a gap in it or a pannel left out. What the Church needs is that every member shall be a real member, filling his place and doing his part. All cannot go to the mission fields; but all can give—all can help. There are many ways to help: by prayer, by encouragement, by contributions, by words, by study of missionary books, by Church attendance.

This "good month of February," as Dr. J. O. Atkinson would say, has been set apart, and March also, to raise $25,000.00 as an Emergency Missionary Fund to help the Mission Board to pay its debts and to keep the good missionaries on the field. The work has grown faster than the receipts, and debt had to be incurred. Nothing is more serious to Christians than debt. "Owe no man anything, but to love one another; for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law."—

Romans 13:8. Every member of every Church in every Conference of the Southern Christian Convention, should, during February or March, as the Emergency Fund may be taken, make an offering as a contribution to this Fund. Do not neglect this golden opportunity, this membership obligation. Because your gift may be small: remember the poor widow who threw in two mites; and Jesus said: "This poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury."—Mark 12:42-43. Let every member contribute to this fund as the Lord hath prospered him or her.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

A convict in a penitentiary with plenty of leisure on his hands, discovered to the world outside prison walls the following facts:

The Old Testament contains 39 books. Multiply the two numbers in 39 and you get 27, the number of books in the New Testament, so that the total number of books in the Bible is 66.

There are 1,189 chapters in the Bible.

There are 31,173 verses in the Bible.

There are 773,692 words in the Bible.

There are 3,586,489 letters in the Bible.

The 21st verse of Ezra 7th chapter, contains every letter in the alphabet except J.

The longest verse in the Bible is Esther 8:9.

The shortest verse in the Bible is John 11:35.

But he remained a jail-bird in fact and in spirit, despite all his expert acquaintance with the Scriptures.

Of what value is such knowledge of the Bible? Is not one good deed wrought in the spirit of Christ of more worth than a mountain of such Biblical lore?

I might be able to repeat every word of the Bible from the "In the beginning" of Genesis to the "Christ be with you all. Amen" of Revelation, and yet be a veritable pagan in my heart and life. It is the heart and life that my Master requires. Not every one that saith "Lord, Lord" is accepted, but the man who does God's will is the true disciple.

We need all the knowledge of the Bible we can get, but we need most of all to understand the truth the Bible teaches and to practice it in personal living. One man believes every word of the Bible from lid to lid, and it seems not to change his fiery temper in his home nor his moral delinquency in his business relations. Another man cannot quote a dozen verses and is easily dismayed by questions testing his knowledge of Biblical facts, but he understands the Golden Rule and lives by it. Which of these men is the better Christian?

We should study the Bible devotionally, prayerfully, reverently, not like we study other books to gather facts, but to gain spiritual insight and to acquire power to go forth to practice what we have learned. The Holy Spirit will guide us into all truth when we search the Scriptures in this reverent way. More than this, we shall arise from such Bible study comforted as well as enlightened. The Holy Spirit is both a truth revealer and a comforter. Try it and see.

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

The supreme need of the pulpit, today, is an educated, consecrated ministry; the supreme need of the pew is a consecrated membership; and the supreme need of each individual is a consecration full and complete of all we have and are to the work of saving the world. Our church machinery is ponderous and of the most improved character; our array of formal ceremonies is imposing; but the fire of enthusiasm burns low, the power is weak, the music is dull and spiritless—a baptism of the Spirit upon the pulpit and the pew would add more to the efficiency of the church and the power of the pulpit than all the titles ever conferred by human schools. This baptism of the Spirit can never come until all the tithes are brought into the store house; in other words the windows of heaven cannot be opened until all we have, and are, is consecrated to God.

This consecration of the entire life—physical, mental, and spiritual—with all that we may acquire, must be carried on perpetually. We cannot consecrate ourselves in advance. What I am must be consecrated now, for I shall be different tomorrow from what I am today; and unless I am better in every way, stronger, richer, and more Christ-like, something has failed me, or I have failed in the application of forces and conditions to my life. What I shall be tomorrow depends upon what I am today, and what I am today is the aggregate result of all the influences of all my past life. What we are now, what we have now, what we can do now, must be consecrated to God and His service. We could not consecrate it before we had it. I cannot consecrate a manhood I have not developed; I cannot give a dollar that is not mine; I cannot lay upon the altar something I have not got, and may never get; but what I have must be given to God at the time I have it.

This full consecration will give to life one supreme purpose. The whole range of thought is lifted to a higher plane, and the entire life receives tone and power. It will set up a new standard of excellence, give a new definition of achievement, and a new measure of success. The one supreme purpose will be to achieve under Jesus' standard of moral excellence. He said, "Whosoever would become great among you," and "Whosoever would be first among you, let him be your servant." Let this principle be applied to all human endeavor: That success is measured by the amount of service rendered and not the amount one may get for himself, and you will have the finest expression of the Christian idea.

When a Christian public opinion has accepted the standard of Jesus and decided on this new prize, when men in business understand that to be counted great and eminent they must be in the fullest sense a servant, when each person can in the truest sense feel the force of the words of Jesus: "I am in the midst of you as he that serveth," there will come a new day to the Church and its institutions. The good of all is the good of each; of this we can no longer deceive ourselves. To seek selfish ends is to forfeit the love and gratitude of men and to lose life. To win gratitude and love is to earn earth's highest award. To be truly great is to be servant of all. To make some contribution to the common life is the only thing worth living for. For this great task the call of God to this generation is loud and clear.

Pure religion is more than a doctrine, more than sentiment, ritual, code of action, or ceremony. We often hesitate to do what we could, because we cannot do what we want to do, but what we have must be consecrated. A little, thoroughly consecrated to God means more for humanity than all the world may have, if unconsecrated. It is not power that lifts the world; it is consecrated power.

If the membership of the Southern Christian Convention were thoroughly consecrated, with all their means we would have no trouble in raising annually, for Missions $38,000, for Christian Education $9,000, for Colleges and Schools $35,000, for Orphanage $30,000, for Publications $5,000, for Convention Fund $5,000, for Superannuation $3,000, or a total of $125,000. Pray that this condition may come true, that the Church may have the necessary funds to carry on the work of the Kingdom.

S. L. BEOUGHIER.

HEBREW LAWS.

A few words about their application—especially at the time Christ was brought into their court. If you would have an intelligent knowledge of these laws, you must study not only "the Pentateuch," the foundation, but "the Talmud," the superstructure of the temple of Hebrew Justice. A translation of the Talmud makes 400 volumes of 360 octavo pages each. They are a "blending of the oral law of the Mishma and the sages through centuries."

Capital Crimes—Penalties: For murder and Apostasy—Beheading. Strangling for six offenses: Adultery, Kidnapping, False Prophecy, Brusng a Parent, Prophesying in the name of false deities, and Maladministration. Burning and stoning for 30 other capital crimes. The smallest number of witnesses was two, to condemn to death, any criminal.

The Hebrews had three kinds of tribunals to administer justice: 1. Courts of three judges to pass upon civil cases only. 2. Provincial Sanhedrin, 23, having both civil and criminal jurisdiction. 3. "The Great Sanhedrin" of Jerusalem, which was the supreme authority of the nation. "In contradistinction of the practice of every other ancient nation, the king, among the Jews, was not permitted to exercise any judicial functions." "Could not appoint any judges." The jurisdiction of the Great Sanhedrin extended over the whole land. "Neither king nor prince was beyond its jurisdiction." To refuse obedience was death.

In Jerusalem there were three Sanhedrins: two of 23 members each and the "Great Sanhedrin" of 71 members. I will only mention a few things which qualified a man to be a member: A lineal descendent of Hebrew parents; learned in the law; good appearance; judicial experience. A few disqualifications: If he had no trade; must be a father of a child; if he dealt in the fruits of the seventh year; no king could be a member; if he made money by gambling; if he took interest; if a store dealer; must be young. "An aged man because of his years and infirmities, was likely to render him harsh, perhaps obstinate and unyielding."

"The Judges of Israel were not paid anything for their services."

There were two presiding officers: Nosi, president, and Ab Beth-bin, vice-president. The other members "were equally divided into three chambers," 23 in "the chamber of priests; 23 in the chamber of the scribes; 23 in the chamber of elders." The first represented the religious; the second, the legal; the third, the patriarchal.

"At the close of the morning sacrifice, the members of the court entered the judgment hall in solemn procession. They took their seats, turbaned, on cushions, with crossed legs and unshod feet, in a half-circle. The high priest in the center, with the other members of the court to the right and left of him." His head was crowned with a turban of blue inwrought with gold. On his bosom hung the priestly breastplate, in which glittered twelve precious stones, emblematic of the twelve tribes of Israel. A flowing robe of blue, gathered about his waist by a girdle of purple, scarlet and gold embroidery, enveloped his person and set off the pure white linen of his capacious sleeves. The buttons of his costly robe were onyx stones. His slippered feet were half concealed beneath the long fringe of his pontifical vestments, which were curiously embroidered with pomegranates in gold and crimson. "No pontiff, of any religion, ever wore robes more resplendent than those in which the high priest was attired on public and state occasions."

And who could be witnesses in the august presence of this tribunal? I will mention a list of those who could not be: "Gentiles, women, minors, slaves, idiots, lunatics, deaf mutes, illegitimate persons, immoral persons, irreligious persons, any one convicted of crime, immodest persons, and no one directly interested in the case."

No one was forced to give testimony against himself—he could give all the evidence he had in his own behalf.

These items scarcely touch the subject. If they create a desire for any one to do more reading and studying, my object will be accomplished.

D. A. LONG.

A GOOD FINANCIAL PLAN.

The Financial Plan for the Southern Christian Convention, submitted by the Special Committee which met in Suffolk a few weeks ago, is I think the most constructive and most workable of any financial system yet proposed for our consideration.

Many of us feel that the ideal to be striven for is a budget that will amply care for the needs of all of our general enterprises apportioned to the churches so that every member might have the opportunity to contribute his proportionate share. But apportionments on churches have to be raised gradually as congregations are educated to give, and it will be many years before they can be made large enough to meet all our needs. Meantime, other methods must be adopted to raise additional funds, lest our general enterprises suffer for financial support.

The report of the committee makes this provision.

After providing for the expenses of the Convention and the publication of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, it sets aside a fund for aged ministers, and then divides the remainder of the conference funds on a percentage basis, allowing the Christian Orphanage and the Board of Religious Education to share in this distribution. Following this, it sets a goal to meet the needs of these enterprises: Missions $38,000, Colleges $35,000, Christian Orphanage $30,000, and Religious Education $9,000.

The Orphanage to continue its Thanksgiving and Easter offerings, and the other three enterprises to have a period of four months each to raise funds in addition to what they get from the conference apportionments, in order to reach the quota set by the committee. This will give each enterprise an opportunity to make their appeal, and will at the same time prevent an overlapping of calls.

Here is hoping that this plan, or a similar one, may be adopted at the Durham Convention.

W. T. WALTERS.

Burlington, N. C.

A MEDITATION.

"The Lord is my shepherd."—He goes before me making plain and safe my path.

"I shall not want."—He supplies all my material need.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures."—Provides comfort and rest, even luxuriant rest, for my body.

"He leadeth me beside the still waters."—Affords quiet refreshment for my mind and spirit.

"He restoreth my soul."—Receives me back when I slip and fall and gives me peace and assurance.

"He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake."—Makes real to me his practical earthly existence and his perfect glorification.

MRS. J. J. LINCOLN.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

SELF DENIAL WEEKS.

Our Mission Departments have done well and wisely in setting aside certain self-denial weeks both for Foreign and Home Missions. Lack of self-denial is one of the weakest points of the church. The element of sacrifice is one of the greatest needs of the church. Where sacrifice is well developed, you will always find spiritual growth and power. It is costly, however, and difficult to develop. It takes love, patience and prayer to get it really started. If you want your church to progress and to be a real spiritual dynamic, that is one very necessary element. Only when the spirit of sacrifice takes possession of the hearts and minds of the members of a church, will the church become a good working church.

The missionary cause has always been linked with sacrifice. The missionary work, more than any other line, reveals the spirit of sacrifice in a church or denomination. Our Mission Secretaries have done well to set aside definite weeks for sacrificial training. There should be real sacrifices made, real denying of self, a real going-without, not only because our mission cause is crippled and suffering for funds, but because we need to get started on the sacrificial idea and method. Dr. Helfenstein and his Dover people have introduced a splendid idea. They have set a common day each week on which to go without the noon-day meal and give its equivalent to missions. They gather at the table, have the usual devotions, and thus by a bare table emphasize the sacrificial spirit. It is not merely the going without a meal a week and giving the value of the meal; there are vital matters with it—there is the very definite day and meal and there is the gathering at the empty table and spending the usual time at the table. These are especially important. The reality of Christianity is revealed in the sacrificial elements. Self denial week should not only make large additions to our regular mission giving, but should greatly enrich our lives spiritually. It will mean little or nothing if it means but just a method to raise our regular and usual missionary offering. The self-denial giving must be an extra giving beyond what we give ordinarily.

"IT DIDN'T HAPPEN."

This was the reply Mr. John D. Rockefeller made when he was asked how it happened that out of his great wealth he gave so many millions of dollars to Christian work. We know that frequently the more one's possessions, the less proportionately he gives to Christian causes. People who have large resources do not always give largely to Christian enterprises. The reply that Mr. Rockefeller gave was that "It didn't happen." No, it didn't happen, for he learned it at his mother's knee. There as a little boy, he was taught by her to tithe and lay definitely aside the Lord's part. That teaching has gone with him through his long life, and great Christian causes have been greatly blessed.

Are your children learning to tithe and lay aside the Lord's part now? Their habits and principles go through life whether they be for selfishness or as stewards. Will your children be selfish or will they "honor the Lord with their substance"?

GOING "OVER THE TOP" IN MISSION MONTH.

This month of February should be to the churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference, a month of months, in this conference year, for it is Mission Month, and the conference decided to observe it as such.

Let us hope, pray, and give, to the end that, as a conference we may go "over the top," being the first conference in the Southern Christian Convention to so observe.

To raise our quota of the emergency fund would not be the most encouraging thing about the observance, although that is important. It would indicate a deepened interest in the work to which Christ has called His church. In it we might see the fruitage of prayer and self-denial and of missionary vision, and without this attitude and viewpoint we shall likely not reach our goal.

The time is all too short to get this matter, in an intelligent way, on the hearts of all of our people, even when the pastors have the missionary vision and do their best. What I am saying cannot reach the readers of THE SUN in our conference before the last issue of the month, and just before the fourth Sunday, the last one in Mission Month in which to make the offering. But as president of the conference, I want to make this plea that we give every member a chance to have a part in this offering to raise this emergency fund, even if it takes another Sunday or two in March.

Let's do it for their sakes, for Christ's sake, and for the Kingdom's sake, and with this prayer that along with the offering there may be a deepening of the spiritual life among our people.

W. D. HARWARD, PresidentWindsor, Va.Eastern Va. Conference.

GIVE ALL A CHANCE.

All that can be desired in Mission Month is that all members of every congregation be given a chance. If this is done, the event will be a glorious success. But will even this be done? It is doubtful.

For instance: Two or three pastors have written that their Church Secretaries have not received the envelopes. Well, it is possible, of course, that packages get lost in the mails. It is also possible for a busy secretary to get a package from the mail, "just some old printed matter," take it home, maybe lay it down somewhere—and forget it.

That secretary was not giving his church, or his Lord, a square deal. He did not give his church a chance, even the privilege of individual contribution through the envelopes.

Or another instance: The secretary gets the envelopes and on the Sunday they are needed, and expected at church, he takes his family and goes visiting and forgets all about sending the envelopes to church. Or he is unwell, or the weather is inclement, and he, failing himself to go to church, forgets the trust committed to him in handling a matter that vitally affects the membership of the church and to that extent hinders a great cause.

Another instance: A pastor realizes that his people are hard-pressed, that there is a church debt, that some other matter is more vital and necessary now—this month—than the Emergency Mission Fund. He yields to the impulse of immediate or local demands or needs—and does not give his people—all his congregation a chance at helping in this endeavor to carry forward the essential and vital work of God's Kingdom.

It is hoped that the instances cited above will not occur during Mission Month. Let's give all the peoples of our churches, our Sunday Schools, our Endeavor Societies, our Missionary Societies, and the rest—let's at least be loyal to our conferences and our Lord, and invite all to have a part in this good and wholesome undertaking.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

A CALL TO SELF DENIAL.

Since our Saviour founded His character, His conduct and His Kingdom on the basic principle of self-denial, it is not to be wondered at that we must practice that Christian grace and virtue to carry on the work of His Kingdom. The writer notes that the denominations are calling on their people generally to practice now some form of self-denial that the Mission Boards may be relieved of their embarrassments and go forward with the work committed to their trust. The call of the churches generally now is to the practice of some form of self-denial.

And this will prove of great helpfulness to all who practice it, as well as to the growth of the Kingdom of our Lord. This extravagant, money-getting, materialistic age of ours needs to learn and to practice self-denial in a very emphatic and decided manner.

So during Mission Month, a fine opportunity is given, and a pressing invitation is extended to all Christians, everywhere, to practice some specific form of self-denial and then lay on God's altar for His glory the price of that self-denial.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

EASTERN VIRGINIA MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Dear Friends and Co-Workers:

Your splendid and whole-hearted co-operation made a wonderful success of our missionary work for the year 1925. More members were gained, more people were engaged in study, more interest and enthusiasm was evident and the financial results surpassed anything in our history.

Our Spring Rallies or One Day Schools of Missions were particularly helpful to the work of the separate districts and gave impetus to our program in general. Our superintendents worked faithfully, and their efforts were rewarded. The officers and members of each local society deserve a word of praise for putting over a most successful year.

At our Annual Conference held at Liberty Spring, we adopted a resolution that carried with it the obligation to go forward in all lines. We can do it easily if we get a good start. In order to let every individual member know our plan and program we have issued a small booklet telling of our goals for the year. We are sending several copies to each society hoping that the officers will pass them around so that every member may read and become acquainted with the plan for the year. We trust that no one has been asked to do too much.

Our Annual Conference program showed some of the effects of sending delegates to Missionary Conferences. Would it be wise for us as districts to consider sending representatives this summer?

Again thanking you for your splendid support and with best wishes that our work this year may be the best ever, I am

Very sincerely,

MRS. M. L. BRYANT, *President*E. Va. Woman's Missionary Conference.
201 Poplar Avenue,
Norfolk, Va.

THE PREACHER IN HIS PULPIT.

By REV. J. H. DOLLAR.

The preacher in his pulpit represents the king on his throne. The name "pulpit" represents the place of authority.

The minister is measured, and his success is largely determined, by his strength in the pulpit. Dr. Staley once said, "The minister's study and personal life enter into his pulpit ministrations, as seed and cultivation enter into the harvest." The pulpit is the place for the delivery of the sermon and not the place where it is to be built. Sermons are built in earnest study, and when a preacher comes into his pulpit unprepared, he reduces the power and dignity of his office.

The pulpit is not the place for the discussion of current issues, only insofar as they affect such principles as concern the Church and the betterment of the social order. The pulpit is one of the most powerful offices in existence, and should always be used in the light of that fact. Issues which are for the betterment of humanity and society should be considered as gospel and should be treated as such from the pulpit. The Church often loses great opportunities for service by being silent on matters which vitally affect society.

We, as Christians, wish to "keep ourselves spotted from the world," by detaching ourselves from it. The Church is not a detached institution. Its purpose is to meet the needs of all humanity. These needs can only be met when the Church is brought into contact with men. There is a vast difference in letting the world come into the Church, and taking the Church into world. The former must be carefully guarded and prohibited, but the latter must be realized. The pulpit is the dynamo which generates the power and makes possible the realization of the purpose of the Church, which is, "making disciples of all nations."

The man who stands in the pulpit represents the general who stands at the head of the army; he is their leader. His ability to command both the respect and the following of his people is measured largely by his power in the pulpit.

The minister should be himself in the pulpit, "He is neither an actor nor an elocutionist." Nobody will have more respect for the pulpit than the preacher himself has. Just as the pulpit is authoritative, it is likewise sacred. It should be entered prayerfully and used sacredly.

Some preachers ruin what otherwise would be a strong message by detractive mannerisms. No gesture or movement should be allowed which calls attention from the message to the act itself. The preacher who converses in the pulpit during the service may expect conversations in the pew.

Nothing should be worn in the pulpit but the plainest and neatest of clothing. The preacher should dress well before coming into the pulpit and not appear uneasy about his clothing by adjusting details which should not be noticed.

The preacher must be careful as to whom he invites into his pulpit for a part in the service, lest the objective of the whole service be lost.

The pulpit is the office of the preacher's authority and all questions requiring its exercise must be dealt with there.

Having thus very briefly considered the preacher in his pulpit, let us now consider likewise, his delivery of the sermon.

No message on any topic can be of service until it comes in contact with human hearts and lives. The delivery of the message is the preacher's means of getting his message to his hearers. How a message is delivered will determine very largely how it will be received. Many things enter into this important part of the message. The preacher must train his voice to adjust itself to the audience who are to hear the message, and to the place of its delivery. The voice should be used in a way which will allow emphasis on certain points in the message. The preacher who begins with a yell and ends in the same manner, gives no place for such emphasis. Much of such yelling and squealing is intended to, and often serves the purpose of bridging gaps in the thought of the message, and many times serves its intended purpose. Yelling is not preaching.

Nothing is more disgusting than a preacher who tries to impersonate another—who is usually of greater ability than himself—either in gesture or expression. A parasite has no place in the pulpit. Saul was a king. David was a shepherd boy. Saul had a great armor, but it didn't fit David. He took his little sling and won a great battle. He trusted in the Lord to help him. So must the preacher be himself in thought and action, if he would have his message serve God's purpose. The preacher carries the message which is given to save the world, and he must deliver it with that end in view.

Nashville, Tenn.

ARE WE MOTHERS DOING OUR DUTY?

I am wondering if any of us are doing our full duty, or are we wasting our opportunity? Privilege and responsibility are twins. They cannot be separated. God has given us the privilege of being co-workers with Him, and He holds us responsible for our workmanship. In a spirit of love, I desire to bring these thoughts to mothers especially.

We remember the words of Mary, "Thou hast regarded the low estate of thine hand-maiden." Did the mother of our Lord see a great step in the up-lift of woman-hood, or out of her perfect humility of spirit she magnified the Lord because of His choice of her for so honored a position? We may never know, but we do know that He has done mighty things for all that fear Him. We all remember that woman was once considered nothing more than a slave or burden bearer for man, and even so it is at the present time in places where our Lord is not known. Then again we remember what the blessed Son of God did for woman kind. He never rebuked women, but always with love and compassion for them, He would say, "Thy sins be forgiven thee, go and sin no more." Then He placed the highest honor upon woman, when He said, "Wherever my gospel shall be preached, this shall be told as a memorial to her." Again, He chose Mary to preach the first sermon of a risen Lord. He could have sent Peter or John to carry the glad news, but He wanted to give the honor to Mary—to woman—and by so doing show to the world that woman had a place equal to and as important as that of man.

Now our Lord expects an acknowledgement of His gift, whereby the Christian woman is made free indeed. Therefore one of the greatest places in God's program has been assigned to woman—the realm of the home—where hers is the power to wield an influence for good or evil over the family life; an influence that will indelibly stamp itself upon husband and children, and neighbors. Upon woman has been placed a trust, a responsibility, which is hers alone, and one she cannot shift to man, even if she would. In loving service to those about her, she may minister to her Lord and Master, just as truly as did Mary and Martha, who served and entertained Him in the flesh.

While our Lord has given us this great privilege, He, too, holds us responsible for everything intrusted to our care. In rearing the children whom God has entrusted to her, woman is handling her Lord's most precious jewels, and will be held responsible for the shaping of them.

Mothers, are we training them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Are we shaping them into characters that will show the transforming love of Christ Jesus? Or, are we allowing them to be filled with worldly amusement, to become more interested in material thing than in the spiritual? The Word tells us, that if we love the world and the things of the world, the love of the Father is not in us. Then a Christian mother sees a trust committed unto her to save that precious soul and body for the Master. Then in the name of Him who so loved us that He gave His life for us, why will we let the tempter lure us on, until the body alone cannot be saved?

When we see no difference in the costume for winter or summer, we can expect nothing better than a weakened body. Are we not giving too much thought to attractive apparel? God's Word says, "Let a woman adorn herself in modest apparel, not with gold, pearls, or costly array, but (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works." Yet modesty, with all of its sublime virtues, is rapidly becoming a thing of yesterday. Some may be able stand with the present environment, while others will fall, and who will be responsible for the fall?

We are commanded in God's Word not to become a stumbling block in another's way. If our own dear girl falls by the wayside, I am wondering if we mothers can say, "I have held up modesty before them, I have done my best to train them right." If we have failed to do this, then let us go get on our knees and ask God to forgive us, inspire us what to do, and grant the day in the near future, when the so called forms and fashions of 1926 shall be gone forever.

Mothers, the hope of the world lies in our little children. May we by precept and example, train them right, keep them pure, to be used for the glory of God. Are we mothers shaping our girls into characters, socially, morally and religiously, qualified for the worthy and honored vocation whereunto they (mothers) are called? No woman need to consider her sphere in life a narrow one if there are children in her home. Those who esteem it so, have failed to realize the importance of their vocation. As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined, and the high standard of womanhood will be reached in accordance with the guiding done by mother's hand.

So may we strive to keep in the exalted place assigned by our Lord to woman-kind. Mothers, let us face the task, shoulder the responsibility, take Jesus as our chief Partner, and through co-operation with Him let each bring them back to the fire-side where prayer is wont to be made.

"United we stand, divided we fall." Then may we unite, and in a loving way, work to save these precious jewels for our Lord and Master. This do through gratitude to Him, for the great privilege and responsibility He has bestowed upon us. Let us do our duty for the good of our community and the glory of our Lord.

MRS. R. J. NEWTON.

Henderson, N. C., R. 1.

"Do you know that if you have even one eminent relative as close as parent, uncle, nephew or grandparent, you have from five hundred to one thousand times of becoming famous yourself as if you had in your ancestry no remarkable blood?"

Study your Sunday School lesson for next Sunday, for nothing helps your teacher so much as to know that you appreciate him and the lesson enough to help make the lesson period worth while. A teacher wrote this.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson X.—March 7, 1926.

"JESUS WASHES HIS DISCIPLES' FEET."

GOLDEN TEXT: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."—Matt. 20: 28.

LESSON: John 13: 1-17.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 138: 1-6.

The Master was eating His last meal with the disciples. He knew it was the last meal with them, and in another gospel it is reported that He said that He had a great desire to eat it with them. He wanted their fellowship as He faced the events of the tragedy that had been shaping itself for a long time now, and which He knew was fast coming to the last act. As John says: "He knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world." Even as they gathered in that upper room, the mob was forming which on the morrow would not stop short of doing Him to death. The Master wanted to be with His friends for company, for strength, and perchance because there were some things which He must say ere He went away.

One is struck by two phrases in the first verse of the lesson. One is the statement that Jesus knew that He should depart out of the world "unto the Father." The Master spoke of going home to the Father. There was in His heart an abiding conviction that there was that regard for personal and moral values in the heart of the universe that would not allow death to end all. He knew whom He had believed. He knew from whence He had come and whither He went. He had come from God and He was going back to God. That was not so much a matter for argument as it was an abiding conviction and assurance. There are those today who are troubled about the implications of evolution. They fear lest it will answer the whence of man in terms that will be incompatible with what they have been taught in the Bible. To all such, Jesus would say that we can never go beyond the record of Genesis. In the beginning God created man in His own image. Evolution may be sound in principle, but evolution is doomed in so far as it proposes any theory that contradicts this central truth of Jesus' teachings. When it comes to a question of choosing between a theory of evolution and Jesus' authoritative assertion of man's origin, sensible men will take Jesus' word every time. Man came from God, regardless of the process whereby he came and became. That is the kernel after all. All else is simply the husk.

Another statement is to the effect that "having loved His own, He loved them to the end." They were blundering and intensely human, but He loved them unto the end. It is quite probable that the Master knew that they would forsake Him and flee—in fact He said as much—but He loved them to the end. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Nothing but a man himself. Jesus loves unto the end or to the uttermost. Let no man think that he can get beyond the love of Christ. Christ loves with an unchanging love.

"Jesus knowing that the Father had given all towel and girded Himself. After that He took things into his hands . . . riseth from supper and layeth aside his garments, and took a towel and girded himself. After that he poureth water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded." It was a menial task usually reserved for the servants. But the Master took upon Himself to do it. And He took it upon Himself to do when He knew that the Father had given all things into His hands. It was a case of the spirit of service in its most exalted form. A man deserves but little credit for doing what he has to do. But he deserves credit for doing what he does not have to do, and the greater the man the more credit does he deserve in a way. No man can be truly great who does not have this spirit of service.

Simon Peter bobs up in one of his characteristic acts. He may not have seen the implications of Jesus' act as he prepared to wash His disciples' feet, but when the Master came to Peter himself and made ready to wash his feet, Peter saw the incongruity of it all. The idea of Jesus, their Lord and Master washing their feet! No sir, it should not be done in his case. But Jesus was persuasive and persistent. Then Peter with characteristic impetuosity bade Jesus wash not only his feet but his hands and his head. Peter never did things by halves. Better by far to have energy and zeal even though it may carry one amiss at times than to be luke-warm and unresponsive to the higher impulses of life.

"What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter." Here is the romance of righteousness. It is a simple assertion of the strange ways of God with men. We walk by faith, not by sight. But he who hath faith need not have sight, for sometime we will understand. God called Abraham, and he went out not knowing whither he went. The Master laid His hand upon a Scottish lad working in a mill, yet he little dreamed of the way in which future generations would honor the name Livingstone. God called a shoe cobbler, and in the person of William Carey manifested His name among those who knew Him not, but little did Carey dream of what the Master was doing when He called him. And little did the writer dream, when as a young man working as a bank clerk, God called him, of the adventures in righteousness that awaited him, and of the wonders of His grace. It is always thus. What the Master does now, it may be by way of discipline, it may be by way of adventure, we know not now. But he who follows on by faith shall know hereafter. One of the things to which the writer looks forward, is an understanding in the world to come of many of the things which have happened in the providence of God.

"Know ye what I have done to you?" The Master Teacher would not have the lesson lost. He would have them learn once and for all the meaning of the seemingly strange act. Listen as he speaks. Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye do well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." And some folk do it—do it literally. There are certain sects or religious bodies that wash the feet of their communicants at stated occasions. They carry out the letter of the law to the jot and tittle. It may be that they also carry out the spirit. But there are those who do it—carry out the Master's command in a far better way. Getting back of the husk of the thing they come to the kernel and find there the law of service which Jesus had in mind. Catching the spirit of the Master they serve, in serving, they make themselves great. For whosoever would be great among us must become the servant of all. If we know these things happy are we.

Teaching Points.

1. Those who are in Christ can face death in peace of mind and heart.
2. The Christian goes to be with the Father at death.
3. Jesus loves to the end or the uttermost.
5. Man came from God, and is made for eternal life with God.
6. An acid test of a man's character is the use he makes of power.
7. The road to greatness is through the path of service.
8. Humility is the mark of real greatness.
9. Those who follow Christ may not know the road, but they need not fear it.
10. Now we know in part, but we shall know later.
11. Impulsiveness is to be preferred to indifference.
12. A man may be in the congregation of the righteous and still have the spirit of the devil within him.
13. The Master would have us to become doers of the word we hear.
14. Christ is our example in all things.
15. Happiness comes through doing rather than through merely knowing.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

March 7, 1926.

CONSECRATION MEETING.

TOPIC: "Persevere—In What?"

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Acts 20: 17-24; Heb. 12: 1-4.

Worship Period.

- 1.—Repeat in unison: "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise."
- 2.—Song: "O, Worship the King."
- 3.—Prayer.
- 4.—Scripture: Psalm 117.
- 5.—Song: "With Gladness We Worship."
- 6.—Scripture for Topic, read by two members.

Leader's Talk.

Paul's message to the Hebrews is, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Living our lives is a kind of race, a glorious adventure, where we have set our selves to the task with earnestness and purpose. Paul was qualified to speak of the good race—of perseverance—because he constantly stood up for the things he believed; and his actions were always the result of purpose and planning.

He refers us to Christ—our Leader and Saviour—"the author and finisher of our faith"—as the true example of perseverance. Christ came to the earth, as God's only begotten Son, for a purpose; and toward the accomplishment of this purpose, He endured persecution, and finally death, at the hands of His enemies.

Because of the perseverance of those who have gone before, we have the church as it is today, and our modern civilization. What may people of future generations owe to us because of our perseverance?

Perseverance in Religious Education.

Protestants are realizing that our present system of giving religious instruction to boys and girls can be improved upon. Because of this real-

(Continued on page 11.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

ROSITA'S FINGER.

Now who would have supposed that a finger could cause things to happen; just one finger? Yet it all came about because of Rosita's finger, the first one on her right hand.

Rosita was a dark-eyed Porto Rican girl. Her mountain home was one of the poorest in the little cluster of houses not far from the city of Ponce. The place was called Corral Viejo, which means Old Back Yard. That is just exactly what it was. The house was a tiny shack, the door opening on the mountain road. The house was raised on sections of tree trunks, which made the floor quite even and left room for the pigs to play underneath. Pigs? Oh, yes; and chickens and goats as well. Why, the goats came and went in the house with as much freedom as your best dog friends in this country.

In spite of her poor home, Rosita was a happy little girl; but there was just one thing she wished for more than anything else in the world. Sometimes she whispered it to the banana tree and her pet goat. "If I could only go every week to the school of the missionary! She had so sweet a smile, and the girls who go say she tells wonderful stories."

"I would like to go, too," said a voice beside her, and she turned quickly to face her playmate, Maria.

Rosita clapped her hands. "Would you?" she asked eagerly. "I have wanted to go, but they will not let me," and here she motioned toward the house. "But baby Rauol is asleep now and we can play."

"I know what we can do!" exclaimed Maria. "We can go down and listen outside the school. That would not be going in, and we will not tell a soul."

Rosita nodded agreement, and taking hold of her friend's hand started down the road. "That is right," she said. "If we do not go in, surely my father can not be angry, though we will not say anything about it," she added anxiously. One could never tell, and perhaps the father would not even approve of listening outside.

They hurried along the path, and in a few minutes were creeping quietly under the windows of the school, and listening to the sounds coming from within. They were in time to hear a beautiful story; that is, part of it. It seemed they had listened no time at all, when they heard the teacher say, "Why, I did not know it was so late. I shall finish the story tomorrow."

They crept quickly away and ran up the hill. "It was wonderful, Maria," said Rosita, when they stopped for breath. "We must go often."

"Yes," answered Maria. "We must go tomorrow and hear the rest of the story."

"Yes, indeed," agreed Rosita. "I will hurry and get the work done so there will be no reason why I should not play. I shall wait for you under the banana tree; and remember, it is our secret."

"Of course—our secret," and Maria nodded as she took the path that led to her own little home.

The next day they went again, and the next, and the next. They heard the rest of the story, many stories, and a song. To learn that they had only listened carefully when the other children sang it, then joined in very softly. They often sang the song when they were together, and they were sure no one could hear. In fact, it seemed to Rosita that her heart was singing it most of the time, and that some day it just must come out without her knowing it. Which is exactly what it did, much to her father's surprise.

"What is that you are singing?" he asked. Rosita was so surprised that she jumped, but she told the truth. "It is the song that they sing at the missionary school," she replied.

"What!" shouted the father. "Have you been going there? Did I not tell you never to go?" and he was very angry.

"I did not go into the school," answered Rosita quickly. "I only listened outside to the stories and songs. They are beautiful—"

Her father would not listen. "I know! I have heard! I tell you to stay away! You are not even to listen outside! The missionaries only come with strange customs and ways that are not good. You are not to sing that song again, either." And indeed Rosita did not feel much like singing that or any other song.

It was the next day that it happened. The mother called from outside, "Rosita, bring me the black pan, and hurry." Rosita ran to get it. The pan was hidden behind the big cans of water that had been carried half a mile from the mountain spring, and as she leaned over to get it, she put her hand against the wall to keep from falling. As she did so a rusty nail pierced her finger and she jumped back. "Ouch!" she said, and then reached again for the pan, taking care to avoid the nail. The matter was soon forgotten, because there was so much to keep her busy, and she was too tired at night to let a little pain in her finger keep her awake.

In the morning, however, Rosita held a council with her pet goat and the banana tree. "It still hurts," she confided to them. "But of course it isn't much, and I won't say a thing about it to anybody."

That was not the last of it. The finger grew worse and Rosita became quite ill. Then it was that the missionary lady herself appeared. Rosita looked up from her little bed on the floor and saw her standing in the doorway like a bit of sunshine. "It is the missionary lady!" she called gladly. It was not long before the mother had told about the finger.

"I heard about it," was the answer. "That is why I came. I knew Rosita used to listen outside the window and I missed her. She must have care; she is very sick."

The mother shook her head. "There is no money," she said sadly.

"That makes no difference," said the missionary lady. "I will take care of that. I will take her to the hospital."

Just then the father came in. He was not at all glad to see the company, but the Sunshine Lady did not seem to notice and was as nice as ever. In the end she had her way and planned to take Rosita away to get well.

A few days later the little Porto Rican girl entered another world, a world of beautiful beds and clean, soft sheets and kind nurses. Never had Rosita enjoyed so much attention. And indeed she needed it at first, because she was very sick. One day even the father was only allowed to look in at the door without speaking. Then he forgot his dislike and went to the missionary lady for comfort. After that he never spoke any but kind words about the missionary and her school. In fact, one day when Rosita was well enough to sit up, he came in the hospital ward in time to hear her lead the rest of the children in singing, "Yes, Jesus Loves Me."

And he only smiled. With that happening you can guess the rest; and not only did the happy little Rosita walk proudly into the school of the missionary, but Rosita and her whole family walked proudly into the church of the missionary every Sunday. And all on account of a finger—
Ethel Demont, in Junior World.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

ization, new thought is given to better church architecture, graded lessons for instruction, the four-fold development in Young People's work, and in many places Daily Vacation Bible Schools are conducted in the summer months; and week-day Schools of Religion are supported in a number of our large cities. With perseverance and patience, much more can be accomplished. We have only made a beginning.

Perseverance in Missions.

Perseverance on the part of those who have gone to the foreign fields and those who have planned the work at home, is perhaps the greatest factor besides faith in the work of missions. This perseverance is based upon faith in the work and in belief in Jesus' command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel."

Questions for the Meeting.

1. What is perseverance? (Find the dictionary definition.)
2. How is perseverance related to faith? Accomplishment?
3. How may perseverance strengthen our personal lives?
4. Give some examples of perseverance from the Bible.
5. How can perseverance help our Christian Endeavor Society? Our Sunday School?

PATTIE COGHILL,

Henderson, N. C.

Children are an heritage of the LORD
—Ps. 127: 3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING

Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5¾ x 3¾ inches

Specimen of Type.

16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with
Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished
Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Morocotol,
overlapping covers, round
corners, red under gold
edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound
in French Morocco, genuine
Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

MORE PERFECT.

"The God of all Grace, who called you unto His eternal Glory in Christ, after that ye have suffered a little while, shall himself perfect, establish and strengthen you."—I. Peter 5: 10.

To grow unto perfection means an increasing capacity for love. And even this does not come without suffering and sacrifice. It is by affliction chiefly that the heart of man is purified, and it is by suffering that man appreciates and loves others. It is not natural that we covet suffering, but it is given to us to appreciate the value of suffering and let it burn out of us all that is selfish, mean and bigoted and to teach us the value of others.

Prosperity, honor and happiness, unalloyed, intoxicates our imaginations, produces too much confidence in ourselves, and makes us forget the Hand that has bestowed it all. It takes reverses and hard places to awaken us to such imbecility and to teach us that all these acquisitions conduce but little solid ground or peace of soul.

How much better to ascribe to Him, the giver of every good gift, the blessing which we thought we acquired.

Prayer.—Our Father, put us in line for perfection. Humble our hearts until we shall be. Impel us until we shall know we are in Thee, give us hungering until we shall be-filled, help us to live in peace until we attain into a full grown man, into the fullness of Christ. Amen.

TUESDAY.

NOW AND ETERNITY.

"Thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the Lord."—Deut. 6: 18.

James Freeman Clark said, "It may make a difference in all eternity whether we do right or wrong today." This in itself is enough to make us careful, but when the truth of the proverb that, "There is a way that seemeth right, but the way thereof is the way of death," is realized, it appalls us to think how easily we may do wrong. This should make us more careful.

Prayer.—Our Father, we cannot do right without Thee, so we pray for Thy spirit that we may do right this day in thought, word and deed. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

RICHES AND RICHES.

"Wealth addeth many friends" (Prov. 19: 4) "but if riches increase, set not your heart therein." (Psa. 62: 10). "Charge them that are rich in this present world that they be not high-minded, nor have their hope set on the uncertainty of riches, but on God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy" (I. Tim. 6: 17), "for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Luke. 12: 15.

George Horace Lorimer said: "It is good to have money and the things money can buy, but it is good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure that you haven't lost the things that money can't buy."

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, remove afar from us any falsehood or lies, save us from doing that which in the gathering takes away soul value. Feed us with the food that is needful for us, lest we fail and deny Thee, or lest we be poor of soul and profess Thy name in vain. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

THURSDAY.

TRAVELING HEAVENWARD.

"Study to shew thyself approved of God."—II. Tim. 2: 15.

Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."—Phil. 4: 8.

"To be strong and true to be generous in praise and appreciation of others; to impute worthy motives even to enemies; to give without expectation of return; to practice humility, tolerance and self-restraint; to make the best use of time and opportunity; to keep the mind pure and judgment charitable; to extend intelligent sympathy to those in distress; to cultivate quietness and non-resistance; to seek truth and righteousness; to work, love, pray and serve daily; to aspire greatly, labor cheerfully, and take God at His word—this is to travel heavenward."—Grenville Kleiser.

Prayer.—Our Father, only Thou art Lord of our lives, we cannot even choose our way without Thee. Make us charitable without the thought of compensation; make us humble and self-restraining; keep our minds pure and our souls sympathetic; may we seek truth, radiate love and serve cheerfully; may we trust Thee implicitly. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

PROPER AND IMPROPER WAR.

Proper War.

"Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

"And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God."—Eph. 6: 14-17.

Improper War.

"Men I find to be a sort of beings very badly constructed, as they are generally more easily provoked than reconciled, more disposed to do mischief to each other than to make reparation, much more easily deceived than undeceived, and having more pride and even pleasure in killing than in begetting one another; for without a blush they assemble in great armies at noon-day to destroy, and when they have killed as many as they can, they exaggerate the number to augment the fancied glory.

"In what light we are viewed by superior beings may be gathered from a piece of late West Indian news. A young angel of distinction being sent down to this world on some business for the first time, had an old courtier spirit assigned him as a guide. They arrived over the seas of Martinico, in the middle of a long day of obstinate fight between the fleets of Rodney and DeGrasse. When, through the clouds of smoke, they saw the fire of the guns, the decks covered with mangled limbs, and bodies dead or dying; the ship sinking, burning, or blown into the air; and the quantity of pain, misery, and destruction, the crews yet alive were with so much eagerness dealing round to one another, he turned angrily to his guide and said: 'You blundering block-head, you are ignorant of your business; you undertook to conduct me to the earth, and you have brought me into hell.' 'No sir,' says the guide, 'I have made no mistake; this is really the earth, and these are men. Devils never treat men in this cruel manner; they have more sense, and more of what men (vainly) call humanity.'"—Franklin.

Prayer.—Let the head of the family lead in prayer today, closing with the Lord's Prayer.

SATURDAY.

MAKING THE BEST OF ONE'S SELF.

LESSON: Matt. 25: 14-46.

"It appears to me that almost any man may, like the spider, spin from his own inwards his own airy citadel. The points of leaves and twigs on which the spider begins her work are few, and she fills the air with a beautiful circuiting. Man should be content with as few points to tip with the fine web of his soul, and weave a tapestry empyrean—full of symbols for his spiritual eye, of softness for his spiritual touch, of space for his wanderings, of distinctness for his luxury. . . . I was led into these thoughts, my dear Reynolds, by the beauty of the morning operating on a sense of idleness. I have not read any books—the morning said I was right—I had no idea but of the morning, and the thrush said I was right."—John Keats.

Prayer.—Our Father, fill our lives with Thy touch today, soften our manners to the goodness of love, harmonize our souls with the beauty and glory of today. Make our lives and our living in harmony with Thy universe—one good picture of peace for the life that now is, for glory. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THINGS THAT MAKE MEN HAPPY.

"Blessed is the one that feareth the Lord, that walketh in His ways, for thou shalt eat the labor of thy hands. Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee."—Psa. 128: 1-2.

"All real and wholesome enjoyments possible to man have been just as possible to man since first he was made of the earth as they are now; and they are possible to him chiefly in peace. To watch the corn grow and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over plow share or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy. . . .

Now and then a wearied king or a tormented slave, found out where the true kingdoms of the world were, and possessed himself, in a furrow or two of garden ground, of a truly infinite dominion."—John Ruskin.

Prayer.—Our Father, fill our hearts with true desire for peace and happiness; fill our mouths with wisdom; put the law of kindness on our tongues, may we look well to our affairs and eat not the bread of idleness. May we not be lacking in love and prayer and in the smallest of things, find Thee. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

It may safely be said that the growth of a Christian is, in the great majority of cases, exactly proportioned to the real, applied knowledge of the Word of God. "Is it not for this cause that ye err, that ye know not the scriptures nor the power of God?" And so the Word becomes the greatest and most rational means to personal acquaintance with God. We may as certainly and truly come to know Him through His Word as we may come to know a correspondent whom we have never seen through his letters.—Selected.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

Our Piney Plains Church joined the Banner List in Thanksgiving Offerings in this week's report. It was not the church's fault that they were not included in this list at first. They first sent us $91.12, and afterwards sent us ten dollars to make out the one hundred, but somehow the letter was misplaced in the mail, and the check reached me this week. Our Piney Plains folks are a faithful band, and of course they expect to be on the Banner List. This makes twelve of our churches that got on the list in the Thanksgiving Offerings. We asked for twenty. We are going to ask for twenty churches in the special Easter Offering, and we expect to see Piney Plains the first on the list.

Our little children had the thrill of their lives last Saturday. They have read story books of horses, bears, lions, tigers, monkeys, elephants, and camels, and doubtless had heard many bear stories; but quite a number of them had never had the opportunity to see any wild animals until last Saturday. Heritage Brothers Show are wintering in Burlington, and Mr. R. H. Whitehead of Burlington, Vice President of the Corporation, extended to the children of the Orphanage a special invitation to attend a special program given by the animal trainers for their benefit. Mr. Chas. A. Walker of our Burlington Church asked for ten machines to come for the children and bring them back, and the children, eighty-five strong, were delighted to go and see the animals perform. The little lady with her bear school of five bears teaching them to do her bidding was marvelous to them. The elephant running a barber shop and shaving his brother elephant made them hold their breath, and the trained goats came in for their part of applause. But they got the thrill of their lives when five large lions were turned in a cage, and the trainer walked in with a chair in one hand and a whip in the other and made them obey him as if they were school children. The bag of peanuts each at the head of the program gave them another delight.

It was very kind of Mr. Whitehead and his associates to extend this courtesy to our children and give them this opportunity to see the wild animals and see what they can be trained to do. It was also very kind of our Burlington people to make arrangements to convey the children there and back without a penny of cost.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR FEBRUARY 25, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 2,031.66
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Happy Home	$ 2.17
Durham	16.50
New Lebanon S. S.	2.00
New Lebanon Baraca Class	2.00
Palm Street, Greensboro	4.21
	26.88
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Piney Plains	$ 11.16
Mebane	1.25
Shallow Well	1.56
Wentworth	11.32
Catawba Springs	10.00
Raleigh First Church	4.45
	40.19
Western North Carolina Conference:
Sanford	$ 4.00
Mt. Auburn	8.40

Mt. Pleasant	2.00
Pleasant Hill	3.78
Providence Christian Memorial ...	4.81
Randleman	2.59
Hanks' Chapel	2.85
	28.43
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Wakefield	$ 2.29
Berea, Norfolk	5.20
Bethlehem	2.28
Berea, Nansmond	10.00
Suffolk	25.00
Norfolk First Church	6.65
Ocean View	1.70
Franklin, Jan. and Feb.	10.00
	63.12
Valley Virginia Conference:
Leaksville	$ 1.72
Bethlehem, Timberville, Va.	3.14
	4.86
Northern Sunday Schools:
North Grove, Egan, Ill.	6.15
	6.15
Thanksgiving Offering:
Providence Christian Memorial ...	$ 5.00
Piney Plains	10.00
	15.00
Special Offerings:
Mrs. Bessie Jordan, for rent	$ 25.00
Jr. Philathea Class, Suffolk	5.00
Wake Chapel Church, Chas. A. Ballentine	25.00
Wake Chapel Church, Mrs. L. M. Ballentine	10.00
	65.00
New Building Fund:
New Hope Church	$ 51.00
J. M. Coble, Jr., Burlington	5.00
B. M. Rogers, Graham	5.00
J. B. Thorpe, Greensboro	5.00
	66.00
Total for week	$ 315.63
Grand total	$ 2,347.29

FATIGUE.

The human body can no more do work without using up energy than can an engine run without using up steam. If you go hunting when the weather is cold and shoot a rabbit or partridge, it feels warm when you first pick it up, but after lying dead for a few minutes it becomes as "cold as death." Why the difference? The same coat of fur or feathers is there to furnish protection, but the heat is gone. It takes as much fuel to maintain body temperature in the living body as it would to maintain the same temperature in a stone of the same size and weight. In the school room, every child not only keeps its own body warm but gives off to the room as much heat as a burning candle. All of this energy and body heat is produced by the combustion in the body of the foods we eat. Violent exercise increases the body heat because it increases combustion.

Wherever there is combustion there must be a residue of ashes and gas. If combustion takes place in the body, this residue of waste material must be taken up by the blood and eliminated by way of the lungs, liver and kidneys. So long as this combustion in the body does not take place faster than the blood clears away the waste products, the individual feels no fatigue, but just as soon as the blood fails to clear away the waste products as fast as they are formed there is an accumulation of this waste in the muscles. This waste material then acts as a poison or on "intoxication" which irritates the nerves, causing a like pain, and which we call fatigue. Fatigue is nature's cry for rest. As escaping steam from a hot automobile radiator warns us that the motor is running hot, so fatigue is a warning signal that there is accumulating in the system a surplus of waste products.

When all the available blood in the body is being sent to carry fresh fuel and clear away waste products, there remains a scarcity of blood for the brain, and this produces sleepiness. Getting sleepy is nature's insistent demand that the body needs a period of rest in order to give the blood time to carry away the waste material and repair the tissues.—N. C. B. Health Education.

DAUGHTER'S DECALOGUE.

1. Love your mother above all women.
2. Don't have thoughts which she cannot know, nor commit acts which she should not see.
3. Declare yourself in fault rather than lie hypocritically.
4. Be in your home the one who with love and merriment vanquishes bitterness and sorrow.
5. Strive to be modest before being beautiful, and always be amiable.
6. Have sincere convictions, pure faith, solid knowledge, and an inexhaustible charity.
7. Work at home as if you did not have the help of your mother. Act all your life as if she were present.
8. Learn the art of hearing with patience, talking without anger, suffering without murmuring and being joyful without excess, and you will have nearly attained happiness.—Exchange.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HARGRAVE.

Samuel D. Hargrave was born October 4, 1848, and departed this life on February 13, 1926, age 77 years. Mr. Hargrave was a member of the Rocky Hock M. E. Church and had been for several years. He leaves no family, being the last of his immediate family. Services were conducted by the writer. Interment in the Rocky Hock cemetery.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

BAILEY.

Marvin Gale, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bailey, was born August 11, 1925, and died February 4, 1926, age 6 months, 3 days. The little one was only sick a few hours before death claimed the tender life. There can be no doubt of his resting place, since Jesus said, "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." May God bless the parents. Service conducted by the writer. Interment in Rocky Hock cemetery.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

KLAPP.

Luther B. Klapp passed to his reward January 29, 1926, aged 30 years. He was the son of Rev. S. B. Klapp, and the nephew of Rev. P. T. Klapp. He was a consistent member of the First Christian Church. He leaves to mourn their loss two brothers, Russell Klapp of Greensboro, and James Klapp of Salisbury, N. C. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. P. T. Klapp. May the Lord comfort the bereaved ones. We are thinking especially of his aged aunt with whom he lived, Mrs. Christmon.

C. H. ROWLAND.

BURROUGHS.

Mary Anne Burroughs was born about the year 1844, and died January 31, 1926, aged about 82 years. She was a member of a family of 11 children, all of whom preceded her in death except one sister, Mrs. W. L. Anman, Ether, N. C.

For some years Miss Burroughs had made her home with her niece, Mrs. John Freeman, Ether, N. C., where she died from the third stroke of paralysis.

The funeral was conducted from Ether Christian Church, February 1st, 4 P. M., by the writer, in the presence of a host of relatives and neighbors, and the body was placed in the church cemetery.

C. E. GERRINGER.

SPIVEY.

Mrs. Lucy F. Spivey was born October 27, 1850, and departed this life on February 9, 1926, aged 76 years. In early childhood Mrs. Spivey professed faith in Christ and united with Barrett's Christian Church. She later moved her membership to the Christian Church at Isle of Wight Court House, Isle of Wight County, Va., being one of the charter members of the church. Mrs. Spivey's husband preceded her to the grave in 1910. She leaves to mourn their loss, three daughters and two sons: S. F. and A. H. Spivey, Mrs. Ada Hall, Mrs. Maggie Hart, and Mrs. Lula Garner. There are twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Hall of the Baptist Church. Interment was in the Union Hill Baptist Church cemetery. May God bless those who mourn.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

SPIVEY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Spivey of Gates County, N. C., was made very sad on Saturday, February 6, 1926, when their little son, Rufus Linwood, age two years, two months, twenty-two days, was claimed a victim of deadly flames. There were three of the children playing in the living room, in which there was a heater. About eleven o'clock, the alarm was given and the parents rushed to the scene and did all in their power to save the child. However, the flames prevailed, and about four o'clock the same day little Rufus went to be with Jesus and his little brother Edward who had gone on before. The father suffers both his hands severely burned and the mother has her right hand badly burned. Let us pray that God may comfort them in their loss. Funeral services were held at the home on Sunday afternoon, February 7th, at one o'clock, by the writer, and the remains were laid to rest.

G. A. PEARCE.

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

S O U T H E R N

RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

OBITUARIES.

GRIGGS.

Caleb Griggs, aged 77, a member of Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va., departed this life on December 1, 1925, after several weeks of declining health. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Corine Mary Griggs, and nine children: Mrs. J. H. Woodard, Mrs. C. C. Pierce, C. M., S. I., and C. O. Griggs and Miss Nina Griggs, of Suffolk, Va., O. H. and E. C. Griggs, and Mrs. C. E. Chappell of Newport News, Va., her mother, Mrs. Mrs. Susanna Griggs, aged 95 years, of Newport News, and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Joynes, Mrs. Dora Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Sherman, and Mrs. Addie Burcher, all of Newport News, Va., and eleven grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in the Bethlehem Christian Church, by the pastor, assisted by Dr. W. W. Staley. The body was laid away in the church cemetery.

W. D. HARWARD.

HICKS.

Mrs. Lola Scott Hicks was born May 13, 1903, and died February 8, 1926, her age being 23 years. Left motherless when only a child, she assumed the responsibility of her father's family and cared for four other children. In September, 1914, she joined the Christian Church at Ramseur, and August 3, 1921, she married Guy Hicks, to this union two children were born, one of whom, little Mary survives, the other an infant. In her going, the Sunday School and Ladies' Aid have lost a faithful member, the community a real friend and her husband and daughter a devoted companion and adored mother.

The memory of her sweet, unassuming life will linger with us, but we rejoice that though this house of her earthly tabernacle was dissolved, she has a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, and that in her, death has no sting and the grave no victory.

Mrs. T. A. MOFFITT,
Mrs. H. F. BRADY,
Miss BESSIE WARREN,
Committee.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING -- REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus...$1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations.....$2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 52 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES
For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES
Specimen of Type
Holman Home Bible
AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that
Flexible Binding
Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches
Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.
No. 2014. Durable Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.
Price-Post Paid.....4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES
NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE
The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.
Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.
Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.
Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shep he not want.
He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.
No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.
Price-Post Paid..... 4.20
No. 433X. Helman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.
Price-Post Paid..... 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

WORRELL.

George Edward Worrell died at his home near Holland, Va., February 5th, 1926, after a brief illness of pneumonia, aged 60 years. The funeral services were conducted at Holy Neck Christian Church by his pastor, Rev. L. F. Paulette, assisted by the writer, and his remains interred in the church cemetery. Mr. Worrell leaves a widow, Maria Byrd Worrell, three sons, Harvey and Leeof Holland, and Edward of Suffolk, Va., one daughter, Mrs. W. J. Gomer of Whaleyville, Va., three sisters, Mrs. Mary Jane Lewis of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Bettie E. Raiford of Ivor, Va., and Mrs. Martha E. Williams of Elwood, Va.; and five grandchildren.

Mr. Worrell was a loyal and faithful member of the Holland Baptist Church. In his death the church and community sustain a great loss. He had lived in Holy Neck community for more than 35 years, and his industry, honesty, and kindness to everybody had won for him the respect and honor of the entire community. We deeply sympathize with his dear family in their loss.

N. G. NEWMAN.

MICHAEL.

Mrs. Hallie Blanche Michael was born in Rockingham County, N. C., February 8th, 1891, and departed this life January 30, 1926, aged 34 years, 11 months, 22 days. She was married to Joseph W. Michael July 2, 1914, and to them was born a son, J. W., Jr., who survives her. Sister Michael gave her heart to God, embracing Christ as her Saviour in 1912, and remained a loyal, faithful and devoted member of the Christian Church until her death. The funeral services were conducted at Apple's Chapel, Sunday, January 31, 1926, at 3:30 P. M., amid a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives. At the time of her death she resided on Montgomery Street, Reidsville, N. C., and had been closely identified with our Reidsville Church. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, who used by previous request of the deceased the scripture text: I. Thess. 4: 13. The following is taken from the Reidsville "Review":

"Mr. Whidden paid a beautiful tribute to the exemplary life of Mrs. Michael, her service to others, her abiding faith in Christ and her triumphant death. The life that she lived and the death she died is a sweeping challenge to the forces of evil that seek to unsettle the faith of the human race in God and religion.

"The floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing in a small way the high esteem in which the deceased was held."

R. A. WHIDDEN.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School

LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title, round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, .85 gold side title on red panel, gold edges.

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1926.

NUMBER 9.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

Mrs N T Farmer 1-1

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Flexible Glass.—

The newspapers report that two Austrian scientists have invented a flexible glass which can be easily bent without breaking. Such a glass would be of inestimable value in motor cars, railroad trains and other public places, where the danger of breaking glass is large.

A New Protein Food.—

Prof. J. W. M. Bunker has succeeded in making a new protein food from beef serum which can be used in place of the white of an egg. The food is odorless and has a golden color. It has excellent keeping qualities. This discovery can be of much service in equalizing food values in the cure for disease.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.—

Dr. C. A. Harkness of Chicago, Ill., is offering a reward of $100.00 for a color-blind woman who will submit to clinical observation to determine the cause of the trouble. He makes this offer because color-blindness among women is the rarest sort of phenomenon, though it is common among men. In thirty years of ophthalmic work, Dr. Harkness has never seen one.

Two Publishers Die.—

During a single week two men connected with two of the best known publishing concerns in the country died. William C. Bobbs, president of the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis, Ind., died of heart disease. Henry Holt, the famed founder of the publishing company which bears his name, died at the age of eighty-six, following an attack of bronchitis. He was the author of many books dealing with the cosmos, and also of "The Garrulities of an Octogenarian Editor." The companies with which these men were connected are well known to readers all over the country.

England Changes an Old Custom.—

In the announcement which comes from London making known a recent enactment providing that in the administration of intestate estates, the eldest son shall have no preference over the other children, and providing further, that male children shall have no advantage over female children. In this act, effective soon, passes the law of primogeniture long practiced in England. Primogeniture first became firmly fixed in English life in the time of Henry III., and was an outgrowth of feudalism, in order to keep fiefs together. In the beginning, the youngest, instead of the eldest son, inherited the father's property. England is the last of the civilized powers to abolish primogeniture. This new act will profoundly change an ancient custom.

Find Old Maya Towns.—

The Spinden-Mason expedition to Yucatan is discovering some very important towns in ruins which were not before known to explorers. Five of these ruins were found in four days. Xkaret and Paalmul are the largest and most important of the towns thus found. Some intensely interesting archaeological information was brought to light. The Mexican government has forbidden excavations, and the explorers are carefully obeying the law. They have found the native Indians most hospitable and willing to assist in the operations. They gave them gifts of calicoes, and other things, including perfume. The perfume was offered to the women, but was taken by the men. These discoveries together with others recently made, promise to throw much light on that ancient civilization of the Mayas who long ago inhabited Yucatan.

Eat Corn Mush.—

The farmers of the eleven mid-west corn States are voicing an appeal to their city brothers to eat corn mush for breakfast, as their fathers used to do. They advise it fried crisp and hot with maple syrup, sorghum, or honey, as may suit the taste. They want corn bread eaten hot or cold in dodgers, corn muffins, corn pone, or corn fritters, and to forego the egg at seventy cents a dozen. Just how bad prohibition hit the farmer who grows corn in the mid-western States will be threshed out at a big meeting at Des Moines, Iowa, and Uncle Sam is to be asked for damages. In the pre-war days when cotton was selling at ten cents a pound, there went about a slogan, "Buy a bale of cotton." Now these corn farmers would rewrite that slogan that it will read, "Buy a pail of mush." The corn farmers are hard hit with low prices, and some relief seems absolutely necessary.

Building an American Oxford.—

One of the most significant movements in the college world is going on at Claremont, California. In 1888 Pomona College was founded there by a group of New England descent, and the individuality of teacher and taught was emphasized. It is situated near the tenth largest city in the United States, Los Angeles, and its popularity grew rapidly. The officials set the enrollment maximum firmly at seven hundred, but this did not relieve the pressure. So they began to think of a community of colleges, all small and all individual, yet working under one management. The first of these is the Scripps Woman's College, which is to be opened next August. The money was provided by Miss Ellen Brown-Scripps of La Jolla, California, said to be the State's most beloved woman. She is 89 years of age and is a very rich woman. She holds her money as a trust, and has so administered her wealth.

Cost of Ambassadors.—

Frank C. Page, son of the late Walter Hines Page, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, London, appeared before the foreign affairs committee of the House recently. "What does it cost an ambassador to live at the Court of St. James?" he was asked, and he replied that it cost from twenty-five to thirty-five thousand dollars more than the salary of $17,500 paid by the United States Government. One year, he told them, it took forty-eight thousand dollars for his father to run the embassy, and Walter Hines Page was an economical man. This goes to prove that no man without a large private fortune can represent our government abroad, and that brings up the question of whether or not men of fortune can unprejudicedly represent our government. It means that a change in the salaries of our ambassadors should be made so as to enable any man competent to do so to represent our government abroad. Lack of funds in one's private purse ought not to be a bar to his entrance into the diplomatic service. It places the power of representation in foreign lands in the hands of wealth. Walter Hines Page had three sons, Ralph W., Arthur W., and Frank C., the one who brought this answer to the committee of the House.

Approves Plans for Church.—

A few weeks ago Dr. Fosdick, who last summer accepted the call to the Park Avenue Baptist Church, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is a parishioner, under certain stipulations, was in Europe. He rushed home to approve the plans for the new church which is to be erected at the corner of 122d Street on Riverside Drive. The architects have had ten draftsmen at work on the plans for months, and they will work for six months more on details. There is no lack of money. The present holdings of the church are under valued at one and three-quarter millions, and this amount is to be duplicated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. These amounts have still further been increased by other gifts. Adequate finances have been guaranteed. The Cathedral of St John the Divine will cost considerably more or about twenty-five million dollars, but that is a cathedral, and has been going up by pieces since 1891. The Church of the Heavenly Rest, Episcopal, cost about three million, and will be next in point of value to Dr. Fosdick's church. The new structure will seat two thousand, five hundred. Dr. Fosdick's salary, he has stipulated, shall not be more than five thousand dollars. He is to continue his teaching at Union Theological Seminary, with which he has been connected since 1915.

NOTES-PERSONALS

The Richmond Church will put on a series of Pre-Easter Services, beginning on the Sunday before Easter.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle of Suffolk, very appropriately followed Mission Month with a revival. When a church does something for others, it is ready and willing to do something for itself.

"No seeker after God can turn to the Bible and be disappointed. He may be puzzled; he may be given tough material to deal with; but if he is in earnest, he will find at last the light."—J. J. Marshall.

Well, did anybody ever! Here comes our grand old young man, not much passed the century mark, sending $5.00 from his slender purse and savings, for the Emergency Mission Fund! Just count on dear good Brother J. W. Wellons, for that's who it is, to do the right thing and to be loyal to every movement and enterprise of his church. God bless Uncle Wellons.

Construction is more costly than destruction. The Lusitania cost $3,000,000. To destroy it with a torpedo cost $1,400. It took three years to build the ship. It took three minutes to destroy it. The ship was 900 feet long. The torpedo that destroyed it was 14 feet long. The work of Christianity is constructive. That is why it requires time, perseverance and money.

It is devoutly hoped that the people of the Valley of Virginia will read the strong words of the secretary of their conference, Rev. A. W. Andes, which is printed on page 5 of this issue. Brother Andes is one of our very busiest pastors and yearns for the day when our dear Church will become missionary in spirit and put on a missionary program in keeping with its principles.

It just may be that some CHRISTIAN SUN readers will not be close to their church on Mission Sunday when the offering is taken, or that some have moved away and seldom reach their church. If these will send their offering direct to the Mission Secretary, and name the church to which they belong, credit will be given both to the person so contributing and to the church designated.

Miss Lucy Eldredge, C. P. A. Building, Dayton, Ohio, is preparing a list, and already has the names of some of our worthy and well qualified young people who are offering themselves for full time Christian work. If any of our pastors desire an assistant or worker in the field of Religious Education in their church, they would do well to correspond with Miss Eldredge and get her list of names and suggestions.

If all pastors in the Western N. C. Conference feel as does its worthy and beloved president, Dr. G. O. Lankford, much indeed will be accomplished in the churches of that conference in Mission Month. Dr. Lankford's letter should have wide reading by the members not only of that but other conferences as well. He is himself a member of the Mission Board, and he knows the need as well as feels the responsibility.

The Christian Sunday School Conference of Greater Norfolk is the name of the organization under which the Sunday Schools of our Norfolk churches came together at Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Sunday P. M., February 14th. Rev. J. F. Morgan, pastor of Rosemont and Berea, was elected president, and Bro. E. H. Everton of First Church, secretary. Rev. J. G. Truitt delivered the address. The attendance was large and the new organization starts off under most promising auspices.

Rev. P. S. Sailer, Brooklyn, N. Y., who writes so engagingly and to the point in another column of THE SUN this week, and who has many friends in THE SUN family, remembers our Emergency Fund with a personal offering, for which we are grateful. One wonders how it is that pastors, living as they do, on salaries all too meagre, are always ready and willing to help, and do help, in every movement that makes for the progress of the Kingdom of our Lord.

Rev. H. C. Caviness, president of the Eastern North Carolina Conference, certainly makes a plausible and powerful plea to the churches, pastors and people of his conference to observe Mission Month in a most emphatic manner. "Will a man rob God?" It would not seem so, and yet—if Christians had not robbed God, there would be hundreds, yea thousands, of missionaries in the field where there are only tens; and churches would be in building where there are none.

The Morning News Review, Florence, S. C., of February 24th: "Florence is proud of its new possession, Dr. Long, and he will add many an enlightened hour to this region where he is already much in demand. His wealth of experience will do more good for this community than the wealth of a Rockefeller." From the same, we learn that Dr. Long greatly entertained the Lion's Club on the evening before with an address on George Washington.

Rev. G. O. Lankford, D. D., of the Burlington Church, certainly has a fine and fitting program for Mission Month, March. The first Sunday of the month is to be: "The Sunday School and Missions"; the second Sunday, "Self-Denial and Missions"; the third Sunday, "The Men of the Church and Missions"; the last Sunday of the month, when the offering is to be taken, will be, "The Local Church and Missions." And very wisely and logically, the following Sunday—the first in April—the evangelistic meetings begin.

One Church Secretary, Bro. Geo. T. Whitaker, Franklinton, N. C., to whom envelopes were sent for the Emergency Mission Fund offering in March, writes: "Envelopes have been received and duly distributed to our membership and friends. We are trusting in the Master to so lay it upon the hearts of all our people that our little church offering shall be one worthy of the cause for which it is being taken." Scores of church secretaries are writing in similar vein. This shows a zeal that is certainly commendable.

The Mission Secretary had the privilege on the morning of Sunday, February 21st, of being in the Men's Bible Class of Christian Temple. It is a great class, and was a real inspiration to be among so many men in one great interest in Kingdom service. The worship period at 11:00 A. M. in Christian Temple was a joy, with its great pipe organ, splendid choir, and large and intelligent audience. Dr. Smith has a tremendous task and a heavy burden, and has certainly accomplished wonders in the service of the Lord at Norfolk.

On Sunday night, February 21st, your Editor was with Rev. H. E. Truitt at our Waverly Church. He would have been disappointed unless the wonderful male quartette of the church had been present to charm, and inspire, and uplift the good congregation with their splendid selections. Brother Truitt is attached to his work, and is laboring faithfully to build up the same, and to advance the Kingdom through his church. Waverly anticipates a building program with large and admirable equipment for Sunday School purposes. The congregation is deeply interested in Missions, and in all that pertains to Kingdom progress and Christian Church growth.

From all quarters come reports that our Missionary Societies and Young People's Societies are putting on missionary programs, and studying the questions of missions as they have never done heretofore. Mrs. Will Tate, Mebane, N. C., president of the Young People's Society of Mt. Zion Christian Church, writes: "We are preparing a program to be presented in our church on Sunday evening, March 14th, for the cause of missions. We are ready and willing to do all we can to help in any way to make Mission Month the best ever, for we feel we have done so little yet to help the cause. Let us hope and pray that we will reach our goal."

BROTHERHOOD BANQUET.

From the Dover, Delaware, Index, the following item of interesting church news is taken:

"One of the leading social events of 1926, in Dover, took place in the spacious banquet room of the People's Christian Church, Tuesday night, the event being the sixteenth annual banquet of the St. Paul's Brotherhood of People's Church.

"The event was declared by many to be the greatest banquet in the history of the organization. One hundred and seventy-five happy, congenial men were served. The ladies of the Lend-a-Hand Society, who had charge of the banquet menu and the decorations received enthusiastic praise by all for their unexcelled proficiency.

"The elaborate menu, the fine decorations, the excellent music made by the Mapledale orchestra, the fine singing by the Dover Male Quartette, composed of Dr. C. R. Cummins, Mr. Joseph Hoskins, Dr. Frank Hare and Mr. Leonard Schwarz, the splendid solos by Mrs. W. D. Burton accompanied by Mrs. J. Henry Hazel, the magnificent address by the speaker of the evening, Rev. John G. Truitt, pastor of the First Christian Church of Norfolk, Va., the unexcelled service by the women who served in the kitchen and those who served in the dining room, made the occasion one long to be remembered.

"Col. J. Henry Hazel, president of the Brotherhood was master of ceremonies. Mr. John S. Collins, vice-president, offered the invocation. The pastor, Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, brought greetings to the gathering. Mr. Robert E. Lewis, president of the choir, led the company in singing familiar hymns. Rev. Milton Sutcliffe, pastor of the Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., offered the closing prayer and benediction.

"The Rev. Mr. Truitt, speaker of the evening, spoke on the subject, 'Adding Fuel to the Fire.' His inspiring address was greatly appreciated from the very beginning, with the wholesome vein of humor, his keen logic, and his forceful presentation. The Brotherhood will be glad to welcome him back on some future occasion. Mr. Truitt is a personal friend of the pastor's, and is one of the promising young men of the Christian Church, having received his Master of Arts and Bachelor of Divinity degrees from Princeton University."

THE BIRMINGHAM CONVENTION.

The International Council of Religious Education is to meet in Birmingham, Alabama, April 12-19, 1926, and it is earnestly desired that every section of our church will be fully represented at this gathering, but it is especially a rare treat for our Southern Convention to be represented in this great interdenominational assembly.

The Christian Church has selected the Empire Hotel as its official headquarters during the convention. Those who are interested in hotel reservations should write Mr. Geo. Bellsnyder, Chairman, 401 Title Guarantee Building, Birmingham, Alabama, and state that reservation is desired in the Empire Hotel, where the Christian Church is to have its headquarters.

Dr. F. G. Coffin, President of our General Convention, President A. G. Caris of Defiance College, Dr. S. L. Beougher of Bethlehem College, Mr. Hermon Eldredge, Mrs. F. E. Bullock, and Miss Lucy Eldredge of our field force in Christian Education, Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va., and many others have already signified their intention to attend the convention, but there are numerous others who should enroll for this purpose.

The Christian Church is entitled to one hundred delegates. The issuance of credentials for our church is in the hands of the undersigned, and application should be made with the registration fee of $3.50 at once.

The last three days of the convention will witness a rally of the young people of the United States. We are allotted twenty-five delegates for this Young People's Congress, and I hope that every one of these places will be taken and I shall be glad to issue the proper credentials.

The registration fee for the young people for the three days is only $1.50.

At some suitable time during the convention, there will be a rally of our people in charge of Mr. Hermon Eldredge.

W. A. HARPER.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To Missionary Societies of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

The District Spring Missionary Rallies will be held as follows:

Franklin District—Mrs. J. A. Williams, superintendent, Windsor, March 30th.

Waverly District—Mrs. B. E. White, superintendent, Burton's Grove, March 31st.

Nansemond and Gates District—Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, superintendent, Cypress Chapel, April 1st.

Norfolk District—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, superintendent, First Church, Portsmouth, April 2d.

These Rallies were a great success last year. Why not make them a real source of help and inspiration again this year?

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, and Rev. J. G. Truitt, will be present at each session with messages of importance and interest.

Each superintendent is urged to have a good representation from all the churches of her district.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Norfolk, Va. Secretary.

NOTICE.

Beginning the first of May, Rev. H. Jennings Fleming will be available for evangelistic work for the summer months. He will be glad to serve in that capacity. Those desiring his services will please address him at Richfield, N. C.

We will be glad to send a sample copy of THE SUN to your friend who does not now subscribe.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x5 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x5 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/4 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

JESUS BELIEVES.

Since our Saviour has made, and is making such a contribution to mankind, and was so wondrous wise in all His ways, it would seem that Christians could well afford to believe what He believed. Yet, strange as it may seem, there are thousands who call themselves Christians who will plainly tell you they do not believe what Jesus believed, and will not do what He commanded them to do.

Here is an example. He believed in Foreign Missions as strongly as he believed in anything. His whole life proved that. That's why the Jews crucified Him. He believed that the time had come when the whole world should have the privilege of knowing and worshipping the only true and living God.

But even if His life and labors had not proved His belief in Foreign Missions, the most emphatic declaration He ever made on earth was in behalf of Foreign Missions, showing that He believed in this to the fullest of all His power. "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Jesus believed in Foreign Missions or He would never have uttered the words ascribed to Him. But we know He uttered the words, for the keenest interpreter of His gospel that was ever given to earth, namely, the Apostle Paul, not only believed, but practiced Foreign Missions, in keeping with the supreme command of our Lord. Is it not strange that there can be found individuals who call themselves Christians, and yet will not believe that which our Saviour believed with all His mind?

This is not half the story. Thank God there were those who believed in Foreign Missions, or we ourselves, who daily enjoy the gospel, would never have had it. Moreover, it has been true that God's blessings, with power and prosperity, have rested upon those who did most to carry out the command of His Son.

The burden of the Church today is not in its program for having Missions, but the lack of it, and the paralyzing indifference to all Church interest, because the Church does not have an adequate missionary program. The Church and people who are doing most for the institutions and enterprises at home are those who have put on a program in keeping with the supreme command of our Lord, and who have accepted His belief as superior to their own. Jesus believed in Foreign Missions, and commanded all of His followers to do so. If they do not believe, the penalty of their disbelief must of necessity fall upon them. What Jesus believed, His followers may well believe and practice.

We are seeking now, at this period set aside for the purpose, to emphasize, to teach, to preach and to give liberally to Missions. In such a way we accept our Saviour's condition, "If ye believe me, ye will do whatsoever I command you."

J. O. A.

THE VALUE OF PREPARATION.

The very able and efficient editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty gave his readers this paragraph of timely wisdom last week:

"No one who is informed in the practical details of taking a mission offering can doubt the value of the right kind of preparation. For more than a quarter of a century the editor has watched this matter of the mission giving among our churches, and he has never yet known a large and generous offering to come by chance. Neither has he ever known a large and generous offering to be taken by any church whose pastor did not work hard in preparing the people for it. These are the cold and significant facts as written into the record of mission giving among our churches. They ought to be highly potential in moving the pastors who really care about God's work and about the evangelization of unsaved lands and unsaved souls to begin immediately, if they have not already done so, a carefully planned use of literature and letters and offering envelopes for their foreign offering. In the face of such facts, for a pastor to do nothing but 'take a collection,' indicates that he either does not know the value of preparation or does not care."

How we do wish that our pastors and churches during Mission Month would not be content with just "taking a collection," but with preparation, passion and zeal, would take a real offering.

One thing that this writer has observed: No congregation ever objects to their pastor's mentioning money, preaching about money, and asking for money, for a legitimate and proper cause—provided the pastor gets the congregation to give the money and gets it. The objection, if any, always comes when the matter is presented in a half hearted way and poor results follow. When a pastor and his people go after the money and get it; blessings follow, and rejoicing also.

Mark it down here and now. There is not going to be carping criticism and regret in those congregations where a real vigorous campaign is put on and results are achieved. The criticisms and regrets are going to be, if anywhere, in those congregations that "just take a collection" and meagre results are achieved.

When pastor and people do their best in a hearty, zealous, determined, well-planned, consecrated effort, and literally surprise themselves by getting more than they anticipated, there one will find rejoicing, blessings, and real benefits accruing from "Mission Month."

J. O. A.

THE MEANING OF FRIENDSHIP.

Friendship is human relations raised to their highest plain. It is the touching of life with life, of soul with soul. Without friendship, life, even in a palace with all its luxuries, is void of charm and a stranger to happiness. With friendship, life in the lowliest cottage is a joy and a delight. Friendship is the elixir of life—it is the glory of living. The stars never shine so brightly, the sky never seems so blue, as when friends look up into the heavens together. Even the simplest flower along the road blossoms with beauty in the eyes of friends as they walk side by side. Wealth in lands and money is meaningless as compared with wealth in friendship. The happiest man is he who has the most true friends. The saddest man is he who has no friends at all.

But many use the word friend in a purely unlicensed manner. No other word in the English language goes so deep into the interests of human life or rises so high in the interests of God as the word "friend." For only he is a friend who lives to serve, to help, to gladden, to enrich, and ennoble the life of the one who calls him friend. Acquaintances may deceive, but a friend can only be true. Acquaintances last as long as your money lasts—as long as you can help them. Friends last as long as life lasts—as long as they can help you. Acquaintances are glad to use you. Friends are glad to serve you.

Jesus knew the benefits of friendship. His heart passion was to lead men into a friendly relation with each other and with God. As He called the men of Galilee to follow Him, that He might show them the beauty and value of friendship with mankind, with Himself and with God, so He calls men today to follow Him into the joys of friendship. No life is complete into which has not come the friendship of Jesus.

Friendship with Jesus is conditioned by obedience to His commands. "Ye are my friends if you do whatsoever I command you." Jesus would raise every human relationship into the light of friendship, for on the plain of friendship, God comes the closest to man, and man rises nearest to God. That is the mission of Christianity today, namely to persuade men to be good friends to God and to man.

The father who is a real friend to his boy, is the best father. So the son who is a real friend to his father is the best son. In such a relation, each enters into the other's life. The son confides in his father, for to him his father is more than his progenitor, more than one who has given him a home, more than one who has sought to tell him what to do and what not to do—he is a friend. If the home relations are thus brightened when the members meet each other on the high level of friendship, think you how happy this world would be if all men could meet each other on that same high plane of fellowship.

Friendship is always built on love, and therefore contributes to the well-being of our lives. Whatever relation or association gives us lower ideals, leads us into evil practice, and draws us away from mother's God, is not friendship. Many associations bring disaster to men. Evil companions are the secret of many downfalls and failures in life. But a man is always helped by his friends, for no man is a friend except he who helps another to be better. The man who gives another his first glass of liquor is not his friend, but his enemy. The man who influences another to enter into a dishonorable proposition, the man who starts another to gambling, the man who puts evil thought into the mind of another, is not a friend, but an enemy. Whoever would seek to weaken your manhood, or your womanhood, is your enemy; whoever helps you to be a better man, or a better woman, is your friend. The good God, who gave us each our lives, intended that we should live to honor Him, and grow a noble soul that would be fit for eternity. Whoever and whatever comes into our lives to defeat God's purpose is an enemy to us and to God.

The call of Christ to men of today is that they shall be friends to their fellow men, to Christ and to God. Only those who love their fellowmen are able to love Christ, and only those who love Christ, are able to love God for what He really is. God commands us to love one another. And it is folly for any man to say that he loves God, if he fails to show his love to his fellow men. It makes no difference how much profession a man may make about his religion, nor how many times he has been baptized in a church baptistry or in the river, if he says he knows God, and fails to show love to his fellow men, he is deceiving himself. Friendship with God brings one into friendship with men. And true friendship with men brings one into friendship with God. It is into such a friendship that Jesus calls men today.

There are certain conditions of friendship with God and with man. The old proverb says, "He that would have friends must show himself friendly." A man cannot be a grouch and a chronic knocker and expect to have very many friends. One must have a happy disposition, a willingness to let friends come into his life, his whole life, if he is to have real friends. A man cannot have his life divided off into departments of friendship, and have his business friends, his lodge friends, his social friends and his home friends. He may have his business acquaintances, lodge acquaintances, and social acquaintances, but his friends demand an interest in the whole of his life. They are concerned about his business and about his home. They are concerned about him and everything that affects him and his interests.

Religion is friendship with God. Religion is not a department of life. It should be a part of all life. God as our friend wants to be with us in our business, in our lodge relationships, in our social life and in our home life. He is concerned about us and all that affects us, and as friends of God, we are glad to have Him enter into all our relationships, and we refuse to enter into any relationship that would offend Him. No man who cares for the friendship of another will willfully offend his friend. Nor will one who is a friend of God willfully offend Him.

Moreover, in all real friendship among men, there is faith in each other. You are always glad to trust your friend. You will trust him under any condition. You feel as safe to trust him out of your sight as when in your presence. You feel that you know him. You feel that he will defend your name if it is being maligned. Moreover, you feel free when you are with him. As someone has so beautifully spoken of the comforts of friendship, "Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person—having neither to weigh thought nor measure words, but pouring them all right out just as they are, chaff and grain together; certain that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and with the breath of love blow the rest away." So the blessing of friendship grows with the trust we have in each other. You are willing to trust your very soul with your friend, for you know that in the shadow of his love your name, your life, your all is safe.

God is our friend, for He trusts us. He trusts us with our talents, trusts us with our lives, trusts us with all the blessings of life. Isn't it sad to think that so many men betray God's trust? We prove that we are his friends by our faith and trust in Him. The joy and delight of true human friendship brings a heaven to earth, but such joy and delight is not to be compared to the joy of friendship with God, for it lifts earth up to heaven. Just to feel free in the presence of God, just to love Him, just to trust Him, just to be true to Him, and to know that He loves us and cares for us, is the blessing of friendship with God. R. C. H.

"WILL A MAN ROB GOD?"

"Choose ye this day whom you will serve," is just as imperative now as in the ancient days when God's spokesman uttered the above words; words which are a living challenge, arresting in character and of eternal import. Whom do we serve, money or the Master. Has the love of money, which is the root of all evil (I. Tim. 6: 10) made us slaves of sin and subjects of him who is a universal tyrant, instead of bringing us the privileges of those who are servants of the Lord Jesus Christ? "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service; and be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God."—Rom. 12: 1-2.

Just now the Church seems to stand at the cross-roads, the Jabbok hour, facing a stupendous program, and one more urgent, perhaps, than she has ever known. A hungry, heart-broken world—with its sin-sick, sobbing, teeming millions challenging us to undertake His program: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."—Mark 16: 15. With an imperative need on the part of our Church Mission Board for $25,000, with a tentative program of retrenchment and defeat—if we fail! Yet the cry of the commercial world is expansion and conquest. What shall it end in, our love of money or of the Master, our greed for gold or our worship of God? Our actions just now must determine our position. The wondrous principles of our Church will not permit us to fail Him in that program which alone can save us from failure, humiliating defeat, and a denial of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The sin most deceitful in its influence and most soul-destroying in its immediate effects is not drunkenness with its crazed victims, nor harlotry with its hellish orgies; but the love of money, the crowning evil of our day. While other vices ruin their thousands, fashionable and favored indulgence sends its tens of thousands to perdition. It sears the conscience, incrusts the soul with an impenetrable hell of worldliness, debauches the affections from every high, holy and heavenly object, making man or woman a worshiper of greed and self. Its victims are allowed by public opinion to think themselves Christians, while the drunkard, the gambler, or the prostitute is not deceived by such a thought for a moment.

We are hoping for great things to be achieved in the month of March, in our Mission work—praying that this may become a new and real beginning of development in and growth in our Church. Brethren, beware the "Ides of March." March is our Mission Month.

A new era, a new vision, must come in this hour of our crisis, and we believe it is going to be consummated. How? Through the door-way of self-denial, we enter upon that road that leads to spiritual success. "Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me."—Mark 8: 34.

All Christians should practice some form of self-denial. Especially do we urge the pastors and people of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference to respond in every way possible to this compelling challenge, for the cause of Christ is its issue.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." Shall the cause of Missions suffer defeat because we love money more than we love the Master? God forbid. (Hebrews 13: 20-21.)

H. C. CAVINESS, President,
E. N. C. C. Conference.

Cary, N. C.

"MISSION MONTH" IN THE VIRGINIA VALLEY CONFERENCE.

I should like first of all to wave a handkerchief to attract the attention of all members of the Virginia Valley Central Conference.

Our Conference, in company with the other Conferences of the South, is in a campaign. It is a worthy cause. Great issues are at stake. The eyes of the denomination are upon us, and surely our Heavenly Father is taking particular notice. Our Mission work must not be allowed to suffer, and our Mission Board must not and can not continue to struggle along under its present load of debt. We must come to the rescue, and help save retrenchment, and help unload the burden of debt, and help put new life into our mission work.

The call and urgent need is for $25,000. There are about 30,000 members in the South to pay it. That means an average of almost a dollar a piece. We ought to come up to the average, and of course we can if we will. If we gave as freely to this worthy cause as we pay for things not half so important, we could go over the top with a shout. Think of the many unnecessary things for which we freely spend our money. Quite applicable to us are the words of Isaiah, in chapter 55 and verse 2: "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness."

When from the farther end of our earthly journey we look back over the many foolish and unnecessary expenditures we have made, will it not shame us beyond measure that we have not left off many of these things, and in their stead, have laid up treasure in heaven by laying more of our earthly goods on the altar of God to be used in the advancement of His Kingdom?

If we are to reach our average of about a dollar a member in the present campaign, it is quite certain that those who read this will need to give much more than one dollar. For of course, there are members who are away from the church, and who will not even hear of the present campaign, and then there are likely some, who, even though they hear about it, will give less than a dollar, and some may not give even a quarter; but I do honestly think that those who cannot give at least a dollar, if they really want to, and realize the need of it, are very few and far between, indeed.

March is designated as Mission Month in our Conference. Let us observe it in a fitting manner, not by indifference and groans, but by praying for it publicly and privately, talking it up, and giving enough to make an average of above a dollar per member. Let us also remember that we are accountable unto God for the way in which we take care of our mission work, and feed the hungry, needy souls, that have as good right to the gospel as we have.

A. W. ANDES, Secretary,
Va. Valley Central Conference.

Harrisonburg, Va.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Twenty-five Thousand Dollars look big to a local church; but to thirty thousand members it means only one dollar a piece. That is the quota suggested by Secretary J. O. Atkinson of the Mission Board for the Emergency Missionary Offering. An emergency is a necessity; and necessity knows no law. When a quota is named as one dollar per member, that does not mean for each member to give one dollar; but that the average shall be one dollar. Some members can give one hundred dollars, and should. A few can give fifty, twenty-five, ten, and five, and should. There is no sound reason why twenty-five thousand dollars should not come into the missionary treasury under this emergency call. One man has said that he will give one thousand dollars, if the whole sum is raised. That is a good challenge to all the rest to give liberally. If the offering could be fifty thousand dollars, it would not be too much to enable the Mission Board to carry on the work as it should be carried on.

Many things might be written on this subject, but only a few can be printed in one column of the good CHRISTIAN SUN, which, as a church paper, has no superior for real contact and Christian spirit. Every family in the Southern Christian Convention ought to subscribe for THE CHRISTIAN SUN; and the simplest way to reach that goal is for every subscriber to try to get some other church member to subscribe. If that were done, there would be no trouble about raising money for worthy causes. It is the rarest thing when a reader of THE CHRISTIAN SUN is not ready to help all the financial necessities of the Church. Readers of THE SUN are informed, are interested, are willing to help.

Members of the church too often determine their gifts by what others do. One member thinks and sometimes says, "The rich folks in the church ought to give it; they have got the money." On the other hand, the well-to-do members say, "We could give it, but all the members ought to give." Some say, "I don't believe in missions; I believe in taking care of the home church." They are all wrong when they render excuses like the above, whether to themselves or to others. Moral and financial obligations are inherent in church membership. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."—I. Cor. 16: 2. A systematic, individual, prayerful attention to this Pauline method would solve the problems of church finance, develop spiritual character and usefulness, and help to win the unsaved to Christ. Money counts in the Kingdom as well as in business. Stingy Christians never win souls. None should fail to give because they can give but little; and none should withhold because they can give much. "Give, and it shall be given unto you."—Luke 6: 38. "The liberal soul shall be made fat."—Prov. 11: 25. Look to the future for the children. "I have been young, and now I am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."—Psa. 37: 25. Withholding from God may result in your children begging bread.

One of the chief failures in church finance is the timidity, indifference, or fear, of the people on money questions. Here, as in home life is the most difficult task. Every head of a household knows that the financial question is the most difficult problem, and the greatest necessity. Its solution requires his greatest wisdom, his greatest energy, and his soundest judgment. As the family looks to father, the membership looks to the pastor. If the pastor says, "It must be done; it is the Lord's work; we must not fail; if it fails, we fail." "Let us pray." It will be done.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Dr. N. D. York, Mebane, N. C., was buried at Elon College, February 27th. Dr. York was about seventy-five years of age, and is survived by his widow, a sister of the late Dr. W. T. Herndon, and by his two daughters, Mrs. N. F. Brannock and Mrs. E. A. Crawford.

Dr. York was busy practicing his profession till the last. The day before his death, he set an arm for a neighbor. Taken ill about 4:00 A. M., he passed away shortly before 9:00 A. M. This is as he would have chosen, because he loved to work and suffered with his patients. Having given his life to relieve suffering, his Master spared him suffering in his transition experience.

Dr. York was the son of a Methodist Minister and Christian Educator, Rev. Brantley York, who founded in Randolph County what is now Duke University, at Durham, N. C. His wife was a granddaughter of the Rev. James O'Kelly. The home he and his wife established could hardly have been other than devoutly Christian. That it was such, intimate friends testify, and children and grandchildren certify by their lives.

Religion with Dr. York was not a creed, but a way of life. I think I never heard him discuss theology, but Christian ethics was his joy. The Bible was a comfort to him. Among his favorite passages were the 23d Psalm, the Sermon on the Mount, the closing chapters of John, the 25th chapter of Matthew, the 6th and 10th of Luke, Romans 12, and the 13th of First Corinthians. His rule of life was the Golden Rule. Next to Jesus, he loved Luke, "the beloved physician," and tried to be such a physician himself.

The rich promises of Scripture to Dr. York were personal promises. When he read, "The Lord is my shepherd," he believed it and acted upon it. When he read, "Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God," he believed, and forthwith began to keep his heart pure. When he read, "Be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind," he proceeded to obey. And when he read, "I go to prepare a place for you," he considered it a personal assurance of eternal life. The simplicity, the genuineness of his Christian faith and life will long remain a sweet and hallowed memory.

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

I have just received a letter from Dr. Harper, which reads as follows: "I am handing you herewith a donation of five dollars from Rev. J. W. Wellons, for Bethlehem College. He says it is a pleasure to him to make a donation to this cause."

Bethlehem College accepts this gift with the deepest of thanks and appreciation. This gift from Brother Wellons will be applied on the first car-load of brick purchased for Bethlehem's new administration building.

What more peaceful and restful scene than the close of a calm summer's day, as the sun, just hidden below the horizon, sends his tints of golden and crimson light across the sky, giving to all nature the spirit of tranquility and quietness! Fitting emblem of the eventide of Brother Wellons' life, when the cares and burdens of earlier days are laid aside and there is a quiet waiting for the time of release from this "tenement of clay."

We glory in the achievements and attainments of his early manhood, and yet, after we have exhausted our resources in praises for his noble, aspiring youth, we are compelled to acknowledge that the end crowns the work, and there is nothing that exhibits such a spirit of sublimity and grandeur as the hoary head of him who with unblemished, virtuous and Christ-like character comes down to the evening of life full of moral vigor, with mental and physical prowess well preserved by reason of an abstemious, well-ordered and well-regulated life. While we honor the morning of his life for its achievements, we must still admit that his mature manhood has acquired the chief distinction where the exercise of the highest order of mental ability is demanded. Socrates uttered his grandest sayings near the close of his life of seventy years. Plato was a pupil until forty, and did not begin teaching philosophy until he was more than fifty. Bacon wrote his "Novum Organum" at sixty. Lord Mansfield has a world-wide fame as a jurist, but he acquired it after he was fifty. Humbolt began his "Cosmos" at seventy-five. Haydn's "Creation" was written when he was seventy. Michael Angelo finished the "Last Judgment" at sixty-seven. Benjamin West painted the celebrated picture, "Christ Healing the Sick," in his sixty-fourth year. Brother Wellons is still helping to build Colleges when past one hundred years old.

There are thousands in our country who intend to bless mankind by gifts of benevolence. In the near future, when a little more wealth has been acquired, they are going to endow colleges and found libraries, museums and homes for the friendless. And they are sincere in their intentions. They fully decide that their memories shall be revered for their beneficent gifts. The real truth, however, is that, of these thousands of promising hearts, very few enjoy the golden days when benevolence is a pleasure to them. In the prime of life, when the powers of the mind are in full bloom, when eloquence, literature and art present their best productions, this is the time for works of benevolence and religion. Brother Wellons commenced to do things out of his meagre storehouse in youth, and it has grown on him with the years.

This aged man may not be so well fitted for the bustle and turmoil of active life, but this is not a reason why he should retire from the responsibilities and cares connected with the guidance of the world's movements. The faculty of wisdom is a diviner gift than the faculty of energetic action.

The oldest communities mold the character of the rest. The counsels of veteran statesmen and jurists are most operative in shaping our public institutions. The experience of this aged saint gives character and stability to the Christian world. The crowning virtue and glory of old age is an adornment of the Christian graces. Those who live with life's great end in view, never outlive their days. Their closing days suggest a going up into the mount of vision rather than a declining into the vale of death. Their end is peace.

If you would be of service, live long and be happy, go and do thou likewise.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

WHEN OPPORTUNITY SPELLS OBLIGATION.

BY REV. P. S. SAILER, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The sense of obligation grows upon me with each succeeding view of the general situation here in Greater New York, as viewed from the religious standpoint.

In Brooklyn, which was formerly called—and still is to some extent, though mistakenly—"The City of Churches," we have an appalling situation. Forty years ago, when this title was appropriate, there was a church ministering to Protestant people, for about every fifteen hundred of the total population. Today we have one to each 4,000 in round numbers. Certain sections would still give the impression that this borough is a well-churched community. On the Prospect Slope, near our beautiful Prospect Park, are six big, wealthy churches within four blocks of each other.

If you were to go into the office of the Federation Secretary, as I frequently do, you would find on the wall a map of Brooklyn, with various colored pins indicating the location of our Protestant churches, and the denomination to which they belong. Some sections, like the one mentioned above, show the pins standing pretty close together. In some instances, so close, their heads about touch. But in others, vast stretches of thickly populated territory without a church of any description. Within a mile and a half of where this is being written, is a section with at least 20,000—one pastor estimates it at 35,000—without a church.

This is perhaps the most flagrant instance of neglect, but many other sections approximate it, which is an evidence of the amazing blindness of the great denominations to seize a wonderful opportunity for God. As indicative of the actual situation, allow me to point out that during the past five years, only twenty-six churches have been organized in the neighboring boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, on this side of the East River. In this territory there has been a growth conservatively estimated at 300,000 by the health bureau for the five year period. Thus it will be seen that only twenty-six churches have been organized to care for twenty-six communities of approximately 12,000 each. Think over the cities with which you are familiar, having a population of 12,000 each, and then pause and take account of the churches to be found in those cities.

But the objection is frequently offered that there are so many Roman Catholics and Jews in New York City, that probably there are quite enough Protestant Churches to supply the need. All right, let us look at it from that angle: The source of information from which the above figures have been gleaned, show a Roman Catholic population for the two boroughs named, of 618,783. Only 15,079 are listed as belonging to Jewish religious organizations. A footnote, however, reveals the fact that this indicates number of families. If we allow ten to a family, we would still have but 150,790. But even this does not represent all of the Jewish people to be found in these two boroughs, I am sure, because so many of our Jewish neighbors have broken altogether with religious organizations. We will therefore place their number as equal to the Roman Catholics, which gives them a joint population of 1,237,566 as against 1,572,171 who are nominally Protestant. With such a ratio to consider, we still have the amazing situation confronting us of at least twenty-six communities of more than six thousand Protestants in each, with but one church to minister to their crying needs.

For one to pray daily, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as in heaven," while before him lies this most challenging spectacle, is more than our people outside this great, throbbing metropolis can appreciate. If you of the Christian Church in other places could but have the experience for but one brief month, of realizing all of what I have been trying to make clear to you, you would become frantic at times at the apathy of a people more than a hundred thousand strong, who doze along with a panorama like this spread out before them, excusing inaction on the plea that "our people are too poor."

Dr. F. G. Coffin spoke a great truth at Binghamton, N. Y., during the session of the Metropolitan Convention there a few months ago, when he said in substance, "The measure of a people's ability to give, is not in the amount of their possessions, but in the measure of their will."

A man said in my presence the other day that he could not afford a radio outfit, as much as he desired to have one. "For," said he, "while we are facing such wonderful opportunities for Kingdom service, and meeting those opportunities with such reluctance to respond with glad service, and really generous giving, I must, to be true to my Lord, give at least a thousand dollars a year to Kingdom service." This man's salary, I happen to know, is $3,000 a year. He does not own an automobile, though he could do his work more efficiently if he had one. He does not own his own home, though he feels it would be economy to do so, if he could finance it in some way without compromising what he conceives to be Kingdom interests.

I know another man, who has given within a few years more than two hundred thousand dollars to Kingdom interests. He writes me—apologizing for delay in correspondence—that he cannot afford a secretary. A man who can give away a fifth of a million in three years or so, can afford a secretary as well as many people with much smaller income, if he is willing to take what he has good reason to feel belongs to God to do it. But this he refuses to do.

Would it not be well for us to put up standards of conduct for our observance that we have not been accustomed to, for at least a sufficient length of time to see what results might follow such a spirit of consecration? No one who reads these lines will feel justified in taking trust funds, labeled such, by any person or organization of persons, and spending for self-gratification monies so received. Why not practice the presence of God, as a very real personage, and talk with Him about the great trust he has reposed in us?

ROSEMONT AND BEREА.

Rosemont and Berea Churches were fortunate the week of February 14th to 19th, in having with them Miss Pattie Ceghill, the Field Secretary of the Board of Religious Education of the Southern Christian Convention. Miss Ceghill spoke at the Rosemont Church for three evenings, and at the Berea Church two evenings during the week, and held a number of individual conferences on the subject of religious education.

Her work with us, I feel sure, will result in great good, and all our people were delighted with her, and also with the splendid messages and the tactful and happy presentations of solutions to our Sunday School problems.

Personally, I would like to say that Miss Ceghill is one of the most efficient field workers that I have ever had in any of my churches at any time. The Christian Church in general, and the Board of Religious Education in particular, are to be congratulated in securing from among our own young people, a field worker of such splendid accomplishments.

J. F. MORGAN.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed.

J. O. ATKINSON,

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.50
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St..

Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP PAGEANTS.

Recently the United Stewardship Council held one of its interdenominational institutes here in Dayton. One part of the program was the pageant, "The Dream that Came True." It was rendered by the Dayton Christian Endeavorers. It was so effective and helpful, that within two weeks fourteen churches requested the Endeavorers to repeat it in their churches. Pageants are a splendid way to teach stewardship. Are you availing yourself of the wealth of pageant material to help your church?

Rev. B. A. Hartley, pastor, North Manchester, Indiana, writes: "Last night was the third meeting of our Stewardship classes. There are eighty-four taking part in the reading course. The interest is fine and we are expecting great things along spiritual lines as the outcome of this study."

Thus in the third week a number equalling more than one-half of the church's enrolled membership is participating.

LEADERS.

When the leaders lead the people follow. When the pastor and official board study Christian Stewardship, the congregation will soon follow. When the pastor and church officers actually practice Stewardship principles, a goodly number of the membership will do so too. When pastor and those holding official church positions actually tithe, many church members will tithe. Where the leaders lead, the people in goodly numbers follow. Are you a pastor, a church official; are you actually practicing the principles of Christian Stewardship? The people follow where you lead.

FOREIGN MISSION PERIOD.

This is the time when every church and pastor should be stressing the importance of our foreign mission work. Happy may that person be who makes a worthy gift to our work across the seas. The church that does not possess the spirit and passion for missions to the uttermost parts cannot prosper permanently. No Christian can afford for his own sake, regardless of the need of the world, to fail in praying, giving, sacrificing for the missions in the lands of need. Your real interest will be shown by the proportion of your giving in the March offering. Our Christian Church foreign work needs your money and prayers most sorely.

1926 HANDBOOK.

The 1926 Handbook of the Christian Church its schedule of activities, is packed full of just such facts, data, information, as every pastor and church officer needs. It is full of helps for the churches. It is available upon request for any church officer. It is the most complete reference book of its kind yet issued by the Christian Church. It is different from the Christian Annual, which church officers should have too.

NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES.

It is most reassuring to see how the great magazines and newspapers are writing on the important theme of Stewardship. Recently, while on a train we picked up a Toledo Blade, and our eyes fell on this editorial utterance: "The idea of Stewardship of money is one of the biggest ideas of which the human being is capable. When a man thinks of his money as having been put in his hands for the good of human kind, he has reached the highest level of common sense idealism of which any man is capable."

Have you seriously considered what your money has been put in your hands for?

FIX A GOAL.

There is great help, and advantage, in having a goal in mind, some high peak to reach in any undertaking. This is essential in any church task, if anything worth while is to be the result. We do not get far in any task by just going aimlessly about it. We need something to aim at if we mean to hit. This is self-evident.

In our offering for the Emergency Mission Fund, every pastor and every church should certainly fix in mind some definite amount to be secured in each congregation. The whole amount necessary is $25,000. Naturally in thinking of this total one thinks of an average of one dollar per member in all the churches. Now if we are to raise this amount, no church should fall below the average; many churches will have to go beyond it. So no church should have as its goal less than a total equal to its membership. By fixing a goal and praying for it and working for it, best results will follow.

Let no congregation just take the offering without first fixing in mind the amount to be raised.

J. O. A.

TO THE PASTORS AND PEOPLE OF THE WESTERN N. C. CONFERENCE.

At the annual session of the Western North Carolina Conference, in November, 1925, it was unanimously voted that March of the present year should be set apart in all our churches as Mission Month. As president of this conference, I write to call your attention to this important action of the conference, and to urge all to give this most worthy cause your hearty and undivided support.

In sending this message to the people of my conference, I am aware that many were not at the annual meeting of conference, and, for this reason, may not understand fully the meaning of Mission Month. Let me give you a word of explanation.

At the annual meeting of the Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention in Suffolk, Virginia, last September, the Board faced a situation that it was unable to meet, namely, many urgent and worthy calls for aid from many of our home mission churches of the Convention were heard, and with no funds on hand or in sight with which to meet these calls, and besides these calls for aid from our home mission churches, was the imperative need of our foreign work, and with the same shortage of funds. In view of this distressing situation, the Board voted, asking that all our conferences of the Convention be asked to observe one month of the present conference year as Mission Month, during which each of the local churches should make an offering to a special Emergency Fund of $25,000. Every conference in the Southern Christian Convention voted to co-operate in this great undertaking. And it is hoped that every local church, and every member of every local church, will fall heartily into line in this effort to do a great and a greatly needed service for our Church and the Kingdom of Christ.

But it is desired that Mission Month shall mean a great deal more than an effort to raise $25,000 as a special emergency fund to meet an immediate need. This, of course, we hope to do, but a great deal more. We hope to Make Mission Month a season of missionary teaching, missionary growth, and missionary intercession. This ought to be a time of seed-sowing among our people, as well as a time of gathering a financial harvest for present needs.

So, I come to you with this appeal and prayerfully urge all of our pastors, Sunday School superintendents and teachers, every one, to throw yourself into this undertaking with prayer, consecration, sacrifice and zeal. Let our good people of the Western Conference undertake to raise at least a dollar per member in this emergency campaign, at the same time giving ourselves to an intensive educational endeavor along missionary lines. Let us pray and then pay. Let us live and give for the sake of Christ. Let us each one resolve that the work of the Master's Kingdom shall not be hindered or retarded by our failure to do what God is requiring at our hands.

Yours for the Kingdom of Christ,
G. O. LANKFORD, President,
Western N. C. Conference.

EL HERMANO PANCHO.

REV. T. E. WHITE

(For nine years a missionary in Porto Rico)

I have been asked to tell the readers of THE CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY an experience which I had while I was in Porto Rico. The editor does not name the experience I am to tell. He perhaps thinks I spent enough time there to have had many. And he is quite right.

Now, I am puzzled more about the one I should select than I am about recounting it; for one does not have to live long in Porto Rico till he has a varied and full list—experiences of robbers, of fleas, mosquitoes and malaria; of beggars of every description, calling at your door and asking for alms; of times spent in humble dwellings of the poor, where barefoot men whose shirts are ready to be discarded because of rents, or perhaps no shirt at all, impress you in every barrio. Experiences with men of means whose hospitality may not be questioned or forgotten. Experiences of times of great drought when grass died and cattle suffered; and times of flood, when we were marooned for a day or two. Experiences that make the heart ache, and those that thrill with joy. There were, too, those deep, inner experiences which pen cannot describe, as we beheld the mountains in their ruggedness, covered in perpetual green, or vast stretches of low lands, where the sugar cane flourished; or by the seashore where the murmur of the waves was for me a constant song.

Out of the vast storehouse of memory, I select for you an experience which I had first with a stranger who afterwards became an acquaintance and friend, and finally a faithful brother in Jesus Christ. His real name was Francisco Ochello, but we all soon learned to call him simply El Hermano Pancho.

Now the sweetest and the bitterest experiences of life are not those of things, but of human beings. It was so with Hermano Pancho—save there was nothing in the experience we had with him that was bitter.

I well remember the first time I saw him. It was at the close of a service in Salinas, and he was standing on the outside near the door. He lingered as the crowd went away, and I offered him my hand and asked him to come again. He had, I thought, a very kind face, and there was in it a prophecy of a close and sweet relation.

At the next service I saw him again. This time he was leaning against the door. I invited him to come in and take a seat. He refused but remained all during the services at the door.

I sought where he lived and found that he was very poor. He lived with a woman but they were unmarried, and they had a girl about twelve years of age. He was illiterate, but not ignorant. He had been coming to the services with his daughter, who was then in our Sunday-school. And he had not gone inside because he had no shoes.

Commerce would receive a fatal blow if the influences of Christianity should cease. It put the first pair of shoes on Hermano Pancho's feet he ever had, and brought him close up in front in all our services. It did much more than that. It caused him to make the wrongs he had done right, or as far as he could make them so; for no wrong can be repaired that it will afterwards be as though it were never wrong. But he did the best he could. He married the woman with whom he had lived, and made his daughter a legitimate child. He joined the church and was baptized. He tried to learn to read that he might better know the Bible, but there were too many years behind him, and after he had tried so hard and failed, he said for him to learn to read it would be necessary for him to be born again. He memorized many passages of the Scriptures, was fervent in prayer and had a convincing testimony that everybody believed.

He was one we could depend upon to go with us on Sunday afternoons to villages near by where we held services. He never led a service, but he was always ready to help carry the little organ which we had to make the service more attractive. His presence always helped such a meeting.

I could easily recall unpleasant experiences in our work at Salinas. Sometimes it would be necessary to discipline a member, or it might be an expulsion. Often it would be a reproof for unfaithfulness, but I have no such unpleasant recollections about Hermano Pancho. He never forgot me, and I shall never forget him. Since I came away I have often written letters to some of the brethren there, and as often as I would write, I would send him a greeting, and when I received a letter from any of them, I always had a greeting from him. About two years ago I received the notice of his death and that he had remained faithful till the end.

From what I gather from the Revelation of St. John, I believe Heaven will be a great school where dark things will be made plain. There John learned what he did not know. And redeemed souls from under the altar had their questions answered. And so one of the sweetest experiences of my life was to have had a feeble part in the preparation of Hermano Pancho for the great university of Heaven.

Graham, N. C. Christian Missionary.

A MOUNTAIN YOUTH WHO WON OUT.

We must not decide that all the heroes are dead. There are yet left in the world those who are willing to face all odds, hardships, and difficulties for the sake of their Lord. The following is taken from the daily press, and reveals the character of a boy who did not stay down even though his desire was to serve the Lord in the very hardest place. The facts are worth nothing as we pass along.

Roy Price, a product of the mountains of Virginia and a shining example of the "boy who would not stay down," at last is on his way to China as a Methodist missionary.

His was a stormy, uphill fight from the little home in which he was born in Calloway, Franklin County, to the realization of his life dream. And now, as he is on his way to San Francisco to take ship for the Orient, he is happy. Happy, he says, because he has won his fight—a fight which sought only the dedication of his life to the uplift fraught with vicissitudes which more often threatened adversity and failure than success.

His story is the story of a boy's struggle and the final realization, after many bitter disappointments, of a cherished dream. Hindered many times, Roy Price probably would not be on his way to China now had it not been that at the recent session of the Virginia conference in Richmond, when that body was being told of threatened retrenchment and of slow missionary collections, the youth from the Virginia highlands arose in his seat and in a sort of eager but impassioned plea begged permission to go to the East and not to be kept away any longer. He told how, as a lad, he had offered his life to Christian service and how, through the succeeding years he had, step by step, met the necessary educational requirements and now was detained at home because the officials at the mission board in Nashville had no money to send him there.

APPEAL MET RESPONSE

His appeal was simple, dramatic. The conference took fire and quickly raised the money on the conference floor. His support was assured by Broad Street Methodist Church of Richmond. In addition, the root spread and that morning there was started a movement which since has resulted in raising $100,000 in the Virginia conference for Methodist World Missions.

After attending grammar school in his little village of Calloway, and because the school only had seven grades, Roy graduated from the seventh grade four successive times, for he had no money to go off to a school that offered higher instruction.

Then it was that he wrote his first letter asking to be allowed to go to China as a missionary, but the prompt answer came back that he did not know enough to be a missionary. Then began his long, hard grind. Through the instrumentality of Dr. W. F. Tillett, dean of the school of registration at Vanderbilt, he was enabled to enter that university. Homesick and almost penniless, he nevertheless ran the gamut, firing furnaces, pressing clothes, anything to pay his tuition. After a year at Vanderbilt he secured a scholarship at Randolph-Macon, Ashland, Va., and there remained until he graduated in 1922 with an A.B. degree.

He again wrote the mission board telling it he was ready. But again he met disappointment. He first must have practical experience in preaching. So for a year and a half he filled small appointments in Virginia. Even then the mission board required a B. D. degree which, by dint of his indomitable will, he obtained at Emory University, Atlanta. A request at this time to the board brought tidings that there were no funds for missionary work. Instead of taking the advice of friends, however, and accepting preaching appointment permanently, he made a last desperate plan to the Richmond conference.

And this time he won.

YOUR MONEY AND YOUR LIFE.

We shall bear in mind that it is not poverty, but riches that destroy nations and civilizations. In the light of this eternal fact the following items of value are set forth by the CHRISTIAN EVANGELIST.

It is certain that we will hinder the world and not help it to happiness, goodness and truth unless we learn the true value of money. Are we doing this? There are those who think not. For example, Bishop Johnson, Episcopal, of Colorado, stirs us with the following accusing figures:

If Jack Dempsey receives half a million a year for skill in handling his fists; if Charlie Chaplin receives a quarter of a million for skill in manipulating his face; if Paderewski receives $100,000 a year for skill in playing a piano; if President Coolidge receives $75,000 a year for skill in running the Nation; if the Surgeon-General of the United States receives $15,000 a year for skill in treating the sick, and if the Chief Justice receives $12,000 for skill in dealing with the morals of the Nation and the Chaplain General receives $4,000 for skill in spiritual leadership, we get something of an estimate of values as expressed in the world's standard of values, which is money. If a Christian lady spends $10,000 a year in dress and $1,000 in charity, you get another cross section of values. If a Christian gentleman spends $100 a week at the club and puts $1 in the plate on Sunday, here, too, is a cash register of values.

What will become of people who spend money after such a fashion and for such ends? If all the people acted thus, we might expect the crash of the nation at any moment. But they do not do so. We must acknowledge this and rejoice when we remember the vast sums of money given for good causes.

MISSIONARY DEFICITS.

The following is from The Raleigh News and Observer, and shows that we Christians are not alone in our endeavor to raise Mission Funds nor are we by ourselves in the matter of debt on account of a following of receipts for the Lord's work.

Rev. M. T. Plyler, presiding elder of the Raleigh district and a member of the general board of missions of the Southern Methodist Church, preached at the morning service at Edenton Street Church yesterday, on the present deficit in the board of missions of the M. E. Church, South.

"The condition confronting our board of missions confronts every board in Protestantism in America except the Northern Presbyterian Church," he said. "Although there has been collected $21,000,000 in cash on Centenary pledges, much of that subscribed has not been paid. And because of the launching of new enterprises, the board now faces a debt of $1,200,000. To help meet this deficit a special offering of $1,000,000 has been asked for. Of this amount $250,000 is to be raised by the Sunday school and Epworth Leagues of our church. The remaining $750,000 is to be raised by special offerings in the various churches of Southern Methodism.

"But why all this expenditure, and why this great outlay," asked Mr. Plyler. "It is a big job to undertake to make this world Christian. Our choicest and finest young men and women are coming out of our colleges saying, 'Here we are ready to go out to the ends of the earth.' What is the objective? Some think it is a project to Westernize the East, or to propagate our own denomination. We do not think the time is ever coming that this world is going to be all Roman Catholic, or Methodist, or Baptist, or any other denomination. No, we want to make the world Christian, to give Christ to the world. We are interested in making known Him who hung on the Cross and of whom the Scribes and Pharisees said, 'He saved others; Himself He cannot save.'"

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson XI.—March 14, 1926.

"LAST WORDS OF JESUS WITH HIS DISCIPLES."

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life."—John 14: 6.

LESSON: John chapters 14-17.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 40: 1-8.

We cherish the last words of our loved ones. We may forget all the other things mother has told us, but we never forget the last message she gave us as we knelt by her bed-side, and with our eyes blinded with tears, and with our hearts almost breaking, she spoke to us for the last time. It is in like manner with any of our loved ones. It is not strange, then, that we have such a full account of Jesus' words to His disciples, as recorded in these three chapters of John's gospel, for they were His last words to His intimate circle of friends and loved ones. It mattered not that there was no stenographer there to take them down as they were spoken. They burned their way into the hearts and minds of the disciples in such an indelible way that they have been preserved for us even unto this day. In spite of the fact that nearly twenty centuries have passed since the Master spoke these words, they still have a tremendous appeal and power. As I sat alone in the quiet of my study this morning and read and re-read them, there came a tug at my heart and an appeal to my life that testified that as the Master once said, "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." When one reads such passages of scripture as this, if he be even half-honest and sincere, he needs no words to tell him that the Bible is the Word of God. Here are words that even though heaven and earth should pass away, they shall not pass away.

"Let not your heart be troubled." The Master was speaking to men who had cause to be troubled in heart. For was not their Lord and Master, their Friend and Saviour, to be taken from them! Was it not plainly to be seen that the end had come, and had come in such a way that hope had been blotted out. How dare He tell them not to be troubled in the face of this hard and inexplicable fact! "Let not your heart be troubled," said the Master, "believe in God and believe in me." Ah, there is the secret of the thing. Direct your faith to the living God and to Jesus Christ. Trust in Him. Cast all your care upon Him, for He careth for you. In nothing be anxious, but by a bold and living faith, trust in Him and the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall guard your minds and hearts in Christ Jesus. And just as Christ spoke peace to troubled hearts that night, He can and does speak peace to troubled hearts and anxious lives today.

The Master then gives a little insight into the heavenly home. Men had been speculating about heaven for a long time, and they were still spinning their theories about it. The Master does not give a blue-print of heaven; He simply tells us heaven is in the Father's house or mansions. And He says that God is there and that He will be there. He says, too, that there will be a place there for His followers. This may seem like all too little, but it is enough. What matters it whether there be gates of pearl and streets of gold if heaven is a place where we can have fellowship with God and with Christ and with one another. No matter how grand heaven may be from any other standpoint, it would not be heaven for those who have been redeemed by the love of God through Christ unless Christ be there. No matter how meagre it might be from any other standpoint, it would be heaven if God and Christ were there.

But how are we to reach this abiding place, this house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens? Christ is the Way, no man cometh unto the Father except through Him—Christ is the truth; He not only taught the truth; He is the truth—He is the life; for in Him was light, and that light was the life of men. He who gives himself to Christ and who follows Christ to the end will not only be granted an entrance into heaven, but will in some small measure at least be prepared for heaven.

"Lord show us the Father, and it sufficeth us," said Philip. Here is expressed the heart hunger of the men of all time. If only they could see God; if only they could know what He was like; if only they could come to know Him at first hand! And here is the answer for all time: "He that hath seen me, hath seen the Father." We may find God in nature, in history, and in His word, yea we find Him even in human life, but we find Him revealed once and for all in a full revelation in Jesus Christ. The men of Jesus' day, that is those who came to know Him intimately, felt that in Him God moved among men. The men of succeeding generations have felt the same thing. Ever since Jesus Christ walked among men, men have felt that God was like Christ even as Christ was like God. And what Jesus did in the flesh for the men of His day, He does through His spirit for the men of our day. If we would see God, we must look to Jesus Christ. Christ's works, no less than His words, bear testimony to this central fact in Christianity that God was in Christ.

"Greater works than these shall ye do." How can these things be? How dare the Master assert that His followers should do greater works than He did? "Because," said He, "I go to my Father." Through the operation of His spirit on the hearts and through the lives of His followers, they are teaching and preaching and healing in a far greater way than the Master ever could have done. Luke says, The things which Jesus began both to do and to teach." We have caught up the Master's unfinished work and in a larger, ever increasingly larger way, we are carrying it on.

"Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do." On the face of it, it seems like a daring promise. If we ask anything, shall we get it? Hardly. If we ask anything in His name, that is if we ask in His spirit, we shall have it. But the Master goes farther. We are to have these things only to the end that the Father might be glorified in the Son. That involves a great deal, for as Dr. Meyer says, "Be sure that it is impossible to seek the glory of God consistently with selfish aims."

"If ye love me ye will keep my commandments." The man who keeps God's commandments because he fears hell-fire, does not have the filial spirit at all. Only he who keeps God's commandments because he loves God, is a true son of God. For the Christian, at least, the main deterrent from sin should not be the fear of the penalty of sin, but the fact that he knows that sin breaks the Father's heart. Love is the fulfilling of the law. And if a man loves God he will want and try to keep God's law.

"And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that he may be with you forever." As Dr. Newman used to say the Comforter or the Paraclete, as the Greek word is, is "one called to your side." Just as the presence of a tried and trusted and true friend at one's side is a very present help in trouble, just so does the Comforter, the gift of the Father, stand by all those in trouble who will open their lives to His ministry of comfort and consolation. He abideth true. He sticketh closer than a brother.

Teaching Points.

1. Faith in God is an antidote against a troubled heart in time of trouble.
2. Belief in Christ is belief in God.
3. Heaven is a home in the Father's house.
4. Fellowship with God and Christ, and with loved ones, makes heaven heaven.
5. The reward of righteousness is life eternal.
6. The Christian walks by faith, not by sight.
7. He who has vital fellowship with Christ has life eternal.
8. Christ has answered once and for all man's quest for God.
9. God was in Christ.
10. God may be in the midst of men and they may not know it.
11. The words and works of Jesus Christ bear witness that He was in the Father, and that the Father was in Him.
12. Christ's disciples multiply His dominion.
13. It is legitimate to ask for things in prayer.
14. No prayer uttered in the Master's spirit or name is unanswered.
15. Our works should be to the glory of God.
16. The test of a man's love to God is to be found in the way he keeps God's commandments.
17. God is able to comfort those in need of comfort.
18. The things of God are revealed only to those whose hearts are open unto God.
19. The words of Jesus are spirit and life.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

March 14, 1926.

TOPIC: "How Overcome the Spirit of Anger and Revenge?"

SCRIPTURE: Matt. 5: 21-26; Rom. 12: 14-21.

Leader's Talk.

There are several different kinds of anger. One may arise from personal or selfish feeling, and is not justifiable; the other may arise because one's sense of justice is offended, and it, too, may not be justifiable. Someone has said that anger is human, but not Christ-like.

Perhaps the best way to overcome the spirit of anger is to reason out for one's self the folly of it and to determine never to let it get the best of one. Some of our strongest and most famous men have had bad tempers, but they did not become famous until they learned at least a certain kind of control of themselves.

The old saying, "Think twice before speaking," may often avoid anger on one's part as well as on the part of others. "A soft answer turneth away wrath," while hard words only make more trouble.

Overcoming Revenge.

It is not Christ-like to hold malice in one's heart against another. Christ said, "Love your neighbor as yourself." Paul said to the Romans, (Continued on page 11.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Wake Chapel Christian Church sent to the Christian Orphanage last week two boxes containing seventeen chickens, enough to give the children in both buildings a splendid chicken dinner for Sunday. It certainly was kind and thoughtful of these good women to make one hundred and ten children happy. We have often thought how easy it would be for the good women in our country churches especially, to help us in this way. Sixteen ladies in any church, furnishing one hen each and shipping them to us, no one would miss the hen, but how happy it would make our little children. Then you would get so much happiness out of the giving. What Church or society will be the next to make us happy?

Uncle Wellons sent us five dollars on our new building this week. We appreciate this donation as much as any contribution we have received on this fund. Coming from Uncle Wellons, a man more than one hundred years of age, makes us happy indeed.

Easter dresses for little girls, ages from four to thirteen years. Easter suits for little boys, ages from three to eight years. Ladies' Aid Societies, Missionary Societies, and friends, if you will help us we will be happy; if you forget us we will be sorry.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR MARCH 4, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$	2,347.29
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Citizens' Class, Elon College	$	2.91
Ingram		3.00
Shallow Ford		1.87
Salem Chapel		1.06
Reidsville		8.79
		17.63
Western North Carolina Conference:
Pleasant Ridge	$	3.10
Burlington		82.03
		85.13
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Liberty (Vance)	$	6.01
Plymouth, Jan. and Feb.		10.72
Oak Level		1.67
Bethel (W)		2.40
Damascus		1.00
		21.80
Alabama Conference:
Wadley		1.62
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Hill Side, Dec., Jan. and Feb.		6.00
Bethany		1.40
		7.40
Valley Virginia Conference:
Antioch		4.74
Special Offerings:
C. D. Johnston, guardian	$	60.00
A friend, Durham		15.00
A. W. Parrish, on support of children		20.00
New Building Fund:
Mrs. J. M. Turner	$	1.00
Jewel Hatch, Burlington		40.00
Happy home Church:
Mrs. Arthur Powell		5.00
Mrs. G. H. Richmond		5.00
Miss Irene Stephens		4.50
J. A. Williams S. S. Class Franklin, Va.		2.00
Mrs. W. E. Jones, Franklin		5.00

Rev. J. W. Wellons	5.00
Christian Light Church:
S. H. Ausley	5.00
W. C. Carrell	5.00
E. C. Blanchard	5.00
Class No. 25, First Church Greensboro	10.00
	92.50
Total for week	$ 325.50
Grand total	$ 2,673.11

MAN'S WICKEDNESS.

It is a most wonderful thought to consider the greatness of the one Eternal God, as so compared with the weakness of the apostate and most depraved man.

God is a Supreme Being and a Supreme of all supremes. God in His infinite wisdom and patient gentleness and long-suffering to us-ward, still allows men the privilege to choose whom they will serve.

In the beginning God placed man in that position, and though His wrath has been repeatedly kindled against man for his disobedience, and though his rash judgment has fallen upon man from time to time; and His promise to destroy all wicked doers stands prominent upon the pages of His word.

And yet man continues his wicked devices, his wrathful thought, his acts of prejudice, and voluntarily to disobey God for the pleasures of sin for a season. In his word He tells us that His Spirit shall not always strive with man. And though that statement finds many places for its special application, and yet it is applied to all sinners at any age of their career.

The opportunity for man to repent of his sins and clothe himself with the garment of salvation, is fleeting before his face and is visible to each individual. The world is hurrying on to pleasure seeking of every imaginable kind. It is on the continual go, both day and night, speeding toward eternity. That was the case with the Antedeluvians. It was even so with the Sodomites, and a rain of water and a rain of fire ended the great clamor of disobedience.

What the old world needs now is something to remind man of his depraved, frail and lost condition. Places of worldly amusement and the ease with which they may be entered into, has obstructed the view and crowded out the thought of death and judgment.

I could preach to you for hours of the importance of the hour, which would include, conclude and embrace the various angles of sin, as contrasted with that of righteousness; and of the pangs of hell compared to the blissful abode of the righteous; but for time and space, I close.

Let us remember that one thing is an absolute certainty: That it is not our mortality that brings us to God; but it is our spiritual devotion and obedience to Him in the spirit of meekness, submission and truth.

May the reader seek for himself and herself, immediate friendship with God. Da it through the spilt blood of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. If there be anything to which the writer hereof can help you in finding peace with God and a hope of salvation; please be assured that he stands ready to serve you. If you are a friend to this vile world, you are an alien to God. If you are at peace with God, then you abhor that which the world adores.

J. S. WILSON.

Bailey, N. C.

A bill was recently introduced in the Senate of Virginia, which, if passed, would have thrown Sunday wide open for every form of commercialized sport. It was felt that this was not only bad in itself, but that it would be an opening wedge for many other violations of the sanctity of the Lord's Day. The bill was, however referred to the committee on General Laws of the Senate, and after a careful hearing on the part of the committee, it was decided not even to report the bill back to the Senate. This was done by unanimous vote of the committee.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR. (Continued from page 10.)

"Love your enemies; do good to them that spitefully use you." Paul was human and he knew what ill treatment was. If he could "overcome evil with good," it is not too much for us to do today. The law today deals harshly with the revengeful spirit. Premeditated crimes are considered the worst.

Questions to be Answered in the Meeting.

1. What was Christ's attitude toward anger? Revenge?
2. What should be the example of church folk in regard to anger and revenge?
3. Can love and goodwill overcome the spirit of anger and revenge?
4. Discuss anger and revenge in relation to business life.
5. Would getting revenge for a wrong ever bring justice?

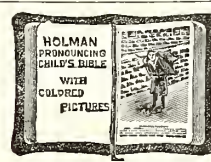

Subject for Debate: "Resolved that Anger is Never Justifiable."

Children are an heritage of the Lord
—Ps. 127: 3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
16 But Jesus called them unto him,
and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with
Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished
Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold
titles. $1.50

5709 Grained Moroccotol,
overlapping covers, round
corners, red under gold
edges. $2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound
in French Morocco, genuine
Leather. $3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33:3.

MONDAY.

REFUGE IN TROUBLE.

Text: "Behold (he) (a King) shall reign in righteousness . . . and (he) (a man) shall be as a hiding place from the wind and a cover from the tempest."—Isa. 32:1-5.

"A shadow of a great rock in a weary land."—Isa. 32:3.

"Thou hast been a strength to the poor, to the needy in distress, a refuge from the storm, a shade from the heat."—Isa. 25:4.

"A shelter for me and a tower from the enemy."—Ps. 61:3.

Max Muller said, "The whole world seems to be ordered for the sole purpose of furthering the religion of the Redeemer. Even winds, tempests, dry places and weary lands lead us to Christ."

Are we Christian enough that annoyances, interruptions, disappointments, misfortunes, failures, losses, adversities, any or all of which come upon us like a storm, are but tests of faith and opportunities for finding Jesus in His secret place.

He is our brother, born for days of adversity, and a refuge from the winds and storms and tempests. Sometimes these experiences are nothing but a cloud on the horizon, but they shut out our vision and it is hard to see God, but when they have passed, we rise among the hopeless ruins to reconstruct all that is laid waste. It is then we need Him. If thou wilt stand before the storm with the faith of Elijah, when it is over, thou shalt also hear the "still small voice."

Prayer.—Our Father, we have many dry places. O satisfy our soul's longings. Turn thou all our desires toward Thee and hold Thou us up and protect us when the storm comes. There are others whom we may help. In Thy mercy make us merciful as servants of Thine. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

GOD NEAR US

Text: "He is not far from each one of us."—Acts 17:24-28.

Countless thousands are asking, "where is God?" It has been so throughout all time. No wonder, for there is no doubt that to countless thousands He is very remote and vague.

A little boy asked, "Dad, how can God be in Boston and New York both the same time?" Dad said, "Son it is this way:" he pinched the boy on the arm, "are you there?" "Yes." He pinched him on the other arm, "are you there?" "Yes," and then on the leg, "are you there?" "Yes." And then tapped him on the head, "are you there?" "Yes?" "Well, how can you be in so many places at the same time?"

God dwells in the inner silence of the soul as near us as our conscience—as our very thought and He seems far away only because we forget Him.

Let us practice the presence of God and see how much richer our lives will be. "Will the fish say, "where is the water," or the bird, "where is the air?" and yet we say, "where is God?"

Prayer.—Our Father, we are Thy offspring, and a part of Thyself. Make us to realize that we may be all that and that Thy life is this life and we are Thine. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

STRENGTH TO WALK.

Text: "They shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."—Isaiah 40:31.

"They that wait for Jehovah shall renew their strength" to do all these things. While flying and running are useful, the most useful of all is just walking. This we have all to do, and much more of it than of the others. An American critic says of the poet Shelley, "He discovered how to fly, but nobody taught him how to walk."

There are Christians like this. They have ecstasies of feeling, flights of glory. They have spurts and dashes of running. But when it comes to steady walking in the Christian life—doing small duties and tasks and doing them faithfully and well—they do not stand the test. They faint in the every-day practice of walking. The way is hard and their feet grow sore. They limp and halt and break down. They lack endurance and perseverance. Mounting up with wings is only occasional, and running is not expected all the time. Walking in the Christian life, steady-going progress, is the demand of every day.

It is comparatively easy to leap up for the doing of some new and unusual thing. It is not hard to rush after some attractive duty. But to do the same thing day after day for Christ's sake, to keep on doing common duty gloriously, it is this that counts!

REV. EDGAR WHITAKER WORK.

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us how to "pray and pray and peg away" at our tasks for Thee. Help us to stay with Thee and refresh Thou us for the hard pressures of the way. For the hourly burdens. For the returning tasks and for common duties. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

ACCEPTABLE SERVICE.

Text: "She hath done what she could."—Mark 14:3-9.

Paul said, "I beseech you brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake—that ye strive together with me in your prayer, that my service may be accepted of the saints."—Romans 15:30-33.

All service is not acceptable. There is a service which is selfish. Parents know it who have children who will not receive their suggestions and advice. Teachers know it whose pupils will not receive their instructions. There seem to be saints who have not learned true and acceptable service.

Reversely, some folks are willing to be served, but are unwilling to receive service of others. In the case of the woman, Jesus received of her. He expects us to be on the receiving end sometimes. One of the best means of winning and enemy sometimes is to let him do something for you. By doing so we make him happy. Then too, God is trying to give us something: spiritual power, sweet temper, happy disposition, patient love, fruitful opportunities, etc. Have we been accepting these?

Prayer.—Our Father, we come to Thee, and would walk with Thee, our hand in Thine, and have the assurance of Thy love and forgiveness.

Where we fail, help us. Where we fall, lift us up. Where we are weak, make us strong. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

HEARERS AND DOERS

Text: "He that looketh into the perfect law—and so continueth, being not a hearer that forgetteth, but a doer that worketh, this man shall be blessed in his doing."—(R. V.)—James 1:25-27.

Their great realities of religion are in works. "Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father." "He that willeth to do my will shall know." There is emphasis upon the will be the real force is upon "do."

At the close of a church service a little boy said, "Is the sermon done?" "No, my boy," said his father, "It is finished, but it is for us to do it."

Prayer.—Our Father, may we adore Thee so that we will do for Thee what Thou desireth of us. In Christ's name. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE GREAT EXEMPLARS OF FAITH

"The time will fail me if I tell of . . . the prophets."—(R. V.)—Hebrews 11:32-38.

If we would learn to do something new, we say, "Show us." It is easier for us to do if we have seen the doing, than if we merely have the abstract directions. The past has been enriched with those who have put ideals into conduct. Some have shown patience in waiting. Whatever the pressure, they did nothing unseemly to avoid distress or trouble. They sat with the right, though it meant long waiting. Reading the story of their lives, we are encouraged in the like patience.

We are summoned to some task that seems too great for us. But we read of a loyal one, without resources, who was called to do the seemingly impossible. He did not shrink, but plunged into his task. Out of impending failure came success. So we too resolve not to regard the odds, when we are summoned, but to obey and trust the Power to Whom there are no odds.

Through the ages there are multitudes who have lived the virtues. A chair and a book make them our companions. Their nobility and strength lift us. Let the empty and the sainted be banished from our reading, and let us commune with those who will arouse us to the best. Their lives were lived and written for our encouragement, for our perfecting. Therefore let us lay aside the distractions, and the weights, and run with confidence our race.

J. H. MILLS.

Prayer (by one of the parents).—"If the day shall have within its pages any story of disappointment, make us brave, O loving God, to rise above it. Whatever the volume of the day shall record, may it close with a prayer of praise for sins forgiven and hope for a better day tomorrow. In Jesus' Name we ask it. Amen."

SUNDAY.

PLANNING WITHOUT GOD

"For that ye ought to say, if the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that."—James 4:13-17.

So strong is the throb of life, and so constant are the times and the seasons, that nothing seems more natural than that we should plan for a year, or even ten years ahead. And why not? It is those that look farthest ahead that win success. "Let us go into this city, and

(Continued on page 13.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

My Dear Kiddies:

Your Editor sends regrets that she was unable to take care of the Korner last week. She is still on the sick list, and I am writing you this little note and sending you a Youth's Companion story, which I know you will like.

Won't you be glad when the warm spring days come and this awful "Flu" is gone? Sick people enjoy letters, so how about writing to your editor while she is at home. Here are two letters that she received last month. We all like to be remembered, and she would like to know how many valentines you got and all about it. Mine were rather unusual, a grand box of chocolate cherries and a lovely, frosted Angel Food cake, besides some real cards.

Yours with love,
MRS. T. A. MOFFITT.

Dear Miss Moffitt:

I am a little girl ten years old. I am in the fifth grade, and my teacher is Miss Katie Brown. My music teacher is Miss Mary Currin. We take THE CHRISTIAN SUN. I am a member of Liberty Church. I have only one brother. My mother and father are both living.

Well, I must close, so "Good by Kiddies"
ELEANOR NEWTON.

Henderson, N. C.

Dear Miss Moffitt:

I will write you a few lines today. I am a little girl ten years of age, and am in fourth grade. My school teacher is Mrs. Ed. Dean, and she is a very sweet lady. We take THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and I enjoy reading it very much. I am a member of Liberty (Vance) Christian Church.

With best wishes to all the Kiddies, lovingly,
MARY NELLE EANES.

Henderson, N. C.

WHEN THE LITTLE BEAR PLAYED WITH THE PIGS.

By FRANCES M. FOX.

Seven small wild pigs came to play in the woods. Little Bear liked them, but he knew his mother would not. They were rude and had bad manners.

"I wish I could play with you," Little Bear told them.

The pigs said, "Do not tell your mother. She will never know."

Little Bear played rough games with the pigs every day for a week and did not tell his mother.

Then Auntie Brown Bear came to dinner.

When Little Bear saw her he was glad. He squealed for joy, like a pig! "Quee-al, quee-al!"

"I brought you a cake of maple sugar," then said Auntie Brown Bear.

Little Bear made a grab for the sugar. He ate the sugar all up so fast Auntie Brown Bear opened her mouth wide!

"You have been playing in the mud!" then said Father Bear.

Little Bear made a queer little grunt like a pig and bobbed his head. "Yep, this way!" he told Father Bear.

He then put his nose on the floor, bumped it along, bump, bump, and said:

"Root—root—root!"

Auntie Brown Bear shook her head. All she could say was:

"Dear me, dear me!"

Then Mother Bear told them:

"Little Bear has been playing with the pigs!"

"How do you know?" asked Little Bear.

"Mothers always know," said she. "You act like a pig, you look like one. Now you may go and live with the pigs if you wish. You cannot play with pigs and live at home!"

Little Bear did not wish to live with pigs. He did not play with them again. He took a bath before dinner and was polite.—Youth's Companion.

THE MAN IN THE MOON.

Oh, the Man-in-the-Moon is a sailor bold,
A sailor-man old and wise;
And he steers his beautiful craft of gold
Through billowy cloudy skies.

He pilots his bark the long night through
And glides between planet and star,
And he knows where the current runs swift and true
And just where the cloud-rocks are.

Yo-ho! for the Man-in-the-Moon so bold.
He's a mariner old and wise
Who pilots his precious bark of gold
Through the blue and silver skies.

"I GAVE THEM MYSELF.

Said a mother to me one day: "When my children were young, I thought the very best thing I could do for them was to give them myself. So I spared no pains to talk with them, to read to them, to teach them, to pray with them, to be a loving companion and friend to my children. I had to neglect my house often. I had no time to indulge in many things I should have liked to do. I was so busy adorning their minds and cultivating their hearts' best affections that I could not adorn their bodies in fine clothes, though I kept them neat and comfortable at all times.

"I have my reward now. My sons are ministers of the gospel; my grown-up daughter is a Christian woman. I have plenty of time now to sit down and rest, plenty of time to keep my house in order, plenty of time to indulge self, besides going about my Master's business wherever He has need of me. I have a thousand beautiful memories of their childhood to comfort me. Now that they have gone out into the world, I have the sweet consciousness of having done all I could to make them ready for whatever work God calls them to do."—Life and Faith.

THE OPEN MIND.

"I would not close or lock
My door against the knock
Of truth and love and light,
With lanterns in the night,
Those friendly spirits three
Who want to visit me.

"I would not close my eye
To rose or tree or sky,
Nor yet my ear refuse
Where ecstasies suffuse
The voices of the birds
Beyond the reach of words.

"My windows open wide
To take in all outside
Vibrations from on high,
That bring my spirit nigh
To God who speaks to me
Of what is best to be."

—A. M. Corwin.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from page 12.)

spend a year there, and trade and get gain." Ye ought to say, "If the Lord will . . ."

But it is not our planning ahead that God would discourage, but planning without Him. Such planning makes us worldly. Think in terms of the great contingency. A pebble may change the course of a river; how much more the will of God the stream of life. Christ is the Lord of life; if the Lord wills it, we shall live. Let us consult Him how we shall use the life He so graciously gives, but which may in a moment be cut short. He is the Lord of our time and energy; He has a plan for today and tomorrow.

Let us make plans, but hold them as tentative only, waiting for the revelation of His will. Then we will not chafe over disappointments. We shall do this, or that, as He decides. Even life itself is not to be held tenaciously; whether we live or die, we are still the Lord's. So shall we remember that the aim of life is not to serve self, but Him. May our wills be so subordinate to His, that we may say, "I have but one passion in life; it is He. It is He."

REV. D. RAYMOND TAGGART,

Prayer (by one of the parents).—Asking that we and our children may learn to acknowledge the Divine rulership in all things, and to realize that if we reverently submit to His guidance, He will lead us in a safe path.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00
Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address: 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

THE FAITH OF A CHILD.

One cold winter morning Mr. B— was sitting at his work near a good fire in a comfortable, pleasant room. From time to time he stopped to look at the falling snow; and, while thanking God for his own well-being, thought of the thousands of poor trembling with cold and hunger. All at once the thought of a widow who had lately come to the village crossed his mind. He position was unknown to him; he only knew she had seen better days. He could not get rid of the thought of her. He rose, walked up and down his room, and again took his pen, but in vain: the widow occupied his mind in spite of himself; he wondered whether she was really in need, perhaps suffering from cold and hunger. He resolved to do the only thing that could quiet him—he went to the village to see for himself her condition.

Across a thick snow he soon reached the house inhabited by the widow; stopping a moment before the door, he heard a child's voice saying the Lord's Prayer. The child repeated it many times, pronouncing with a special emphasis and touching fervor the words, "Give us this day our daily bread." Mr. B— listened, and was certain the Lord had sent him there.

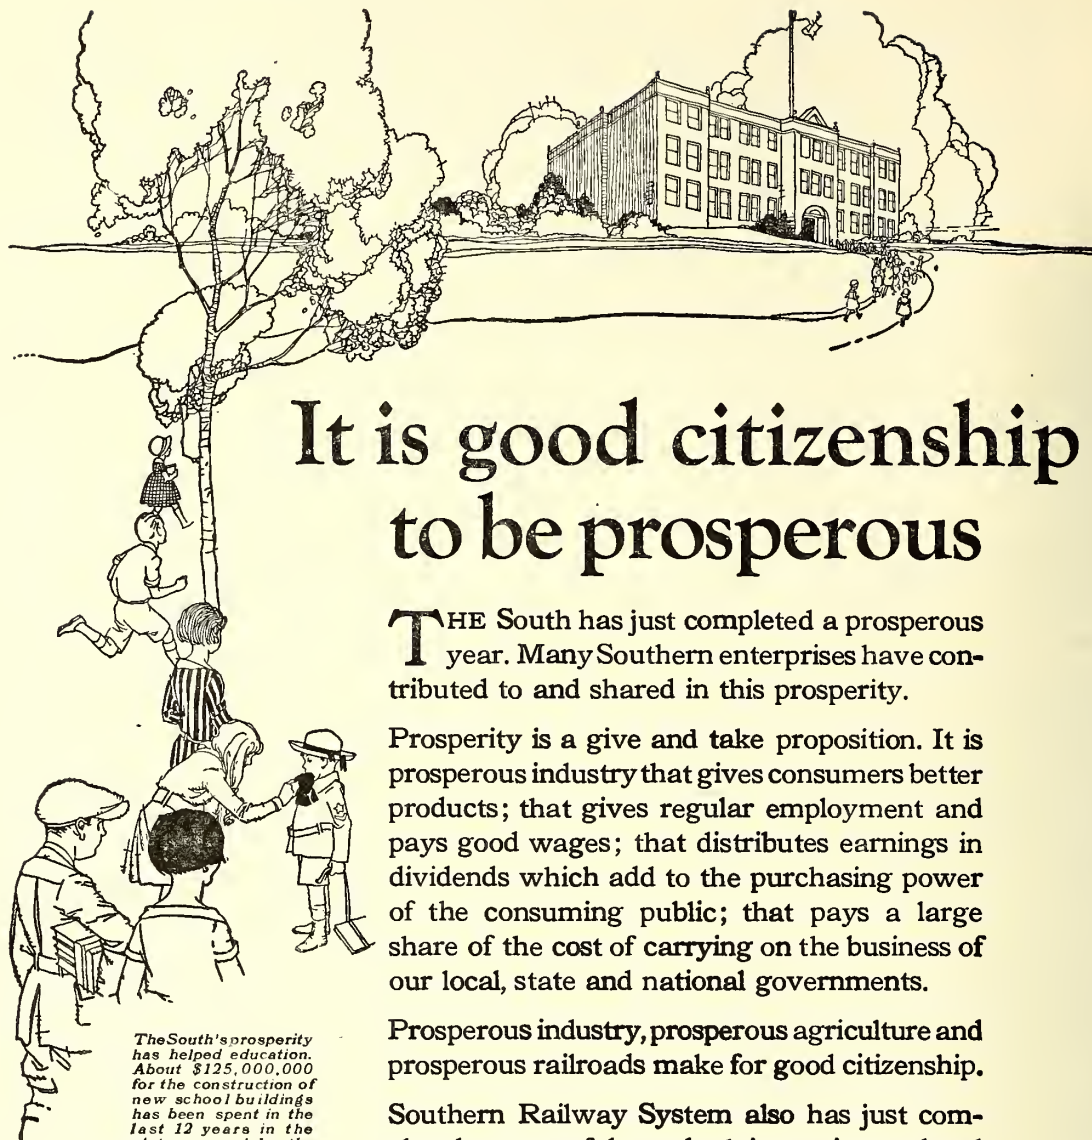

Thanks to the snow which covered the ground, his approach had not been heard. Softly lifting the latch, he saw a little boy of five years kneeling before a chair near the empty grate. His little hands were joined, and his pale face raised to heaven with an expression of earnest entreaty. He rose in a minute or two, and the visitor entered. The child appeared surprised, but not frightened. In reply to the kind questions of the stranger, he said that his mother was ill. Mr. B— then took him on his knee, and asked him what he had been doing. "Oh, sir," he replied, "you know in our prayer it says, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' and as we have no bread, I have been asking God to give us some." Mr. B— soon left the house, and going to a neighboring shop, bought bread and some other provisions.

Returning to the widow's, he found the little boy still before the grate, as if waiting for God to answer his prayer. As soon as he saw the bread, he ran to his benefactor, and putting his hand on the loaf, said: "That comes from our Father; how quick He has been in sending it! I am going quick to tell uama." Mr. B— left the house, and on his way, ordered some coal to be sent to the widow.

Returning to his own room, he took up his work with an unaccustomed facility; for even in the small things of life, God honors them who honor Him. In the evening he returned to the little house, and how changed all was. A fire blazed on the hearth, near which the mother and child were enjoying their evening meal. As soon as Mr. B— appeared, the little boy ran to him, took him by the hands, and joyfully said: "Mamma, here is the gentleman that God sent with the bread." Mr. B— soon discovered that the widow loved the Lord and trusted in Him. Weak, ill, and without support, living in a lonely house, her only resource had been prayer and confidence in God:

but that morning she was well-nigh in despair. "And now," she said, "God has given me far more than I asked or thought. Ah, sir, after what has just occurred, it seems impossible that I can ever again doubt the goodness of the Lord."—Selected.

What promise is given to those who trust in God?—Psalm 37: 3-5.

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves  the South

THE DIFFERENCE.

Charcoal is no greater than the difference between the two kinds of lives we may have. If we live just to get, to absorb attention, our lives are valueless. If we live to love, to serve, to give back to others the blessings that are poured upon us, our lives become bright, attractive. What makes the difference? The diamond gives, and the charcoal keeps. The diamond gives an opportunity to everyone to make their lives worth while. The difference between diamonds and their lives worth while.

ELON

COLLEGE

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

OBITUARIES.

SHOWALTER.

Thomas H. Showalter, one of the deacons at Antioch, departed this life January 22, 1926, at the age of 75 years, 10 months and 26 days. Brother Showalter was well and favorably known throughout the Virginia Valley Central Conference, having been a frequent attendant at the sessions of the conference for a number of years, and often serving on important committees. He will be greatly missed in the conference and in Antioch Church, where his presence, counsel, and service have always been highly regarded. He was a loyal and faithful member at Antioch for about sixty years. He is survived by his widow, five sons and three daughters. The funeral services were held at St. John's Lutheran Church, near the home, January 24, 1926. We greatly miss these old soldiers of the cross as the grim reaper, death, snatches them out of the service.

A. W. ANDES.

DEPUTY.

Charles Theodore Deputy, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Deputy, was born March 28, 1919, and died February 8, 1926, aged 6 years, 10 months, and 10 days. Surviving, besides the parents, are one brother and one sister. Funeral services were held at the home near Hinton, Va., February 10, 1926, and burial made at Spader's Lutheran Church. May God's blessings be upon those bereaved and broken hearted.

A. W. ANDES.

MACON.

Amos Harry Macon was born May 6, 1880, and died January 28, 1926, aged 45 years, 8 months and 22 days. He was married to Della Moffitt, December 21, 1905. To this union were born three children: Mrs. Cleveland Burgess, Nellie Louise and James Russell. He united with Shiloh Christian Church about fifteen years ago and remained faithful until death. Besides widow and three children, he leaves to mourn their loss, one grandchild, three brothers, four sisters and a host of friends. Funeral services by the writer. D. R. MOFFITT.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN

Pipe Organ Expert

TUNING -- REPAIRING
REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts

3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.

Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus... $1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches..... $3.00

ORDER FROM

"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 E. Broad Street,

Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price-Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shep
not want.
He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price-Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Helman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price-Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

SAUNDERS.

Mrs. Alice Saunders, wife of J. A. Saunders, was born May 17, 1862, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Bowden, November 29, 1925, aged 62 years, 6 months and 13 days. Besides her husband, she leaves seven children, Mrs. S. H. Butler, Norfolk, Va., Mrs. J. H. Bowden, Windsor, Va., Mrs. Ruth Parsons, Wilmington, Del., E. L. Saunders, W. E. Saunders, J. H. Saunders, Jr., and W. H. Saunders, all of Norfolk, Va., and one brother, W. J. Duke, Suffolk, Va.

The funeral service was conducted in Antioch Christian Church, where she had been a member for many years. Interment was in the church cemetery.

W. D. HARWARD.

THOMPSON.

Eliza Jane Murray was born April 13, 1854, and departed this life January 23, 1926. On October 7, 1879, she was united in marriage to James H. Thompson. To this union were born six children, three of whom survive. Besides these, she leaves an aged husband, one sister, one half-sister and one half-brother, four grand children and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

In early girlhood she professed faith in Christ and united with the Presbyterian Church, and remained a faithful and consistent member through life. She was laid to rest in Rock Creek cemetery. Services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. A. Burgess, pastor of Rock Creek M. P. Church. May the Lord comfort the bereaved ones.

H. E. CRUTCHFIELD.

MARRIAGES

PASCHALL-GILLIAM.

A wedding of widespread interest was solemnized at the home of the writer at Elou College, N. C., on Thursday evening, January 7, 1926, at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Fannie Paschall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Paschall of Altamahaw, became the bride of Mr. Carl H. Gilliam, also of Altamahaw. The ring ceremony of the Christian Church was used. Miss Annie Paschall, sister of the bride, who presided at the piano, rendered an informal musical program. To the first strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, the bride and groom entered un-attended.

May heaven's blessings attend their wedded pathway. J. F. APPLE.

If you are in the Automobile Trimming or Top Building Business, it will pay to send for our new Spring Catalog, which will be off the press about March 15th.

THE G. G. MOSS COMPANY
726 W. Broad St. - - Richmond, Va.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type
27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION
Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.
22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t
Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 9/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, .85 gold side title on red panel, gold edges.

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
Thin as a Water
2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1926.

NUMBER 10.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

To Be Praised.—

It is claimed by the authorities that thirty-two per cent of the money spent in New York State is spent for educational purposes. If this claim is true, it is to be commended. It is not spent on schools alone, but on other forms of educational work as well.

What Gasoline Brought In.—

The forty-four States which have a tax on gasoline, collected more than 150 million dollars from that source in 1925. It is estimated that the tax will exceed two hundred million for 1926. The four states which do not have a gasoline tax are: New York, Illinois, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

An Indication of Wealth.—

The export and import trade of the United States amounted to more than nine billion dollars for 1925. The value of the exports from this to foreign countries was $4,908,743,259. The total value of the imports coming from foreign countries to this, was $4,224,224,962. This gave the United States a favorable balance of nearly 685 million dollars, for the year.

Offers Egypt Ten Million Dollars.—

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has offered the Egyptian Government ten million dollars with which to build a museum for the housing of the relics of the Pharaohs. It is also planned that there should be an archaeological institute in the museum. In a land where so much has been discovered, such a museum should prove of great value to the rest of the world, and particularly to the science of archaeology.

Make Church Advertising Possible.—

Sixty-seven business houses of Washington, D. C., have provided funds by which every church in that city may insert a notice of its services in a Saturday morning newspaper. The display will fill one page, and is given in the same philanthropic spirit which supports hospitals, schools, and other constructive enterprises. This is a commendable movement and one which other business men in other cities and small towns may well emulate.

A Bequest for Peace.—

Sir Henry Lunn has bequeathed his large fortune to the cause of peace in the church and among the nations. He has established the Sir Henry Lunn Trust Fund, which on March 31st will come into possession of half of the fortune. The remainder will go into a private trust for the members of the family, and as they die the trust fund will receive their part. This experiment will be of interest. It will certainly provide capital for whatever work may be undertaken in behalf of peace among the nations and the churches. It may bring a great blessing to the world so torn by division.

Some Life Insurance Figures.—

More life insurance policies were sold in the United States in 1925 than ever before in a single year. The total of these policies amounted to more than fifteen and one-half billion dollars. The total amount of insurance now in force in this country is more than thirty-two billion dollars. Men are taking advantage of this method of providing for their families in case of death or serious accident. This amount of insurance in force should prevent much of the suffering so common among us, and should place many widows and orphans beyond the grimness of dire need.

Mission Church Self-Supporting.—

The First United Brethren Church of Ponce, P. R., has become self-supporting. It is the second Protestant church on the island to become financially able to care for itself. Other congregations are in sight of that goal, however, and it is sighted as proof of the power of the spiritual impulse. The United Brethren church is only twenty-five years old. When mission churches cease to need financial support from the home land, it is a matter for great rejoicing, and gives hope to struggle a while longer until the work has grown strong, and it in turn may send forth missionaries to aid in the extension of the Kingdom.

Within Thirty Years.—

For the past five years the population of Japan has had an average increase of three-quarters of a million each year. At that rate, within the next thirty years, the population of Japan will pass the one hundred million mark, and will be as large as ours is now. For many this fact will be cause for alarm, but Japan is offering a great field for service. It may be the greatest possible service which we could render, to Christianize Japan and save the world from an aspiring power, should Japan ever aspire. Knowing this, it ought not to take so much appealing from our mission boards to bring us to the giving for missions during this month.

Mexico Clashes with Church.—

The situation in Mexico in regard to the Roman Catholic Church is growing constantly more tense. There is a provision in the Mexican Constitution requiring all ministers of religion to be native born. The government has given notice, however, that it will not be enforced with severity unless missionaries and priests break the law.

The government believes that the Roman church is a hot bed of reaction and opposition to the progressive social program of the Calles administration. Ten priests have been deported and eight others are said to be held for deportation, while the police seek still others. A number of schools and asylums conducted by Catholic orders have been closed, and five churches in Mexico City, where the deported priests served, have been also closed.

A Hopeful Sign.—

On his way to Charleston, S. C., on the last night of the old year, Dr. Mercer P. Logan, Dean of the Du Boise Missionary Training School, an Episcopal institution, was awakened in his berth by a pullman porter who asked him to come to the smoker to conduct a new year service for a group of travelling men gathered there. The minister put on his overcoat and went to meet the impromptu congregation. He found a Baptist, a Congregationalist, a Disciple, a Methodist, a Roman Catholic, and an Episcopalian. Dr. Logan read a psalm and led an appropriate prayer, and now Dr. Logan believes that men have more religion than they are given credit for. Certainly it is that such instances along the way give us more faith in our fellows, and make us hope and work with greater zeal.

More Wealth Indicators.—

It is a frequent boast of Americans that ours is the richest country in the world. An indication of the truth of that boast appears in the announcement by the American Banker that at the beginning of 1926, the one hundred largest banks of the country had a grand total of nearly sixteen billion dollars in deposits. Thirty of these one hundred banks are in New York City, eleven are in Chicago, nine in San Francisco, seven in Philadelphia, six in Boston, five each in Detroit and Los Angeles, four in Pittsburgh, three each in St. Louis, Cleveland and Buffalo, two each in Minneapolis, New Orleans and Providence, and one each in Kansas City, Mo., St. Paul, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Savannah, Newark, Oakland, and Jacksonville. The total capital stock of the one hundred banks amounts to more than three-quarters of a billion dollars, and their surplus and undivided profits fund is more than a billion. These facts lay upon this country of ours a tremendous obligation which to shirk is sure to bring us sorrow. They indicate, too, the great centers of wealth, but there are many other banks with a total capital as large as these one hundred, and the owners of so much wealth should give to those in need. Where much is given, much is expected. We have received much, are we to give as liberally? This Mission Month will tell so far as the Christian Church is concerned.

NOTES-PERSONALS

It is to be hoped that pastors will not be contented with "just taking a collection" during Mission Month for the Emergency Fund. With zeal and consecrated wisdom it is hoped all pastors will take a real offering for this most needy and meritorious cause.

THE SUN's Editor enjoyed the services at Newport News Christian Church on Sunday P. M., February 28th. Rev. B. J. Earp is zealous in a good cause and the Lord is blessing his labors. The church still feels and enjoys the influence of the great revival there last summer led by Rev. H. C. Caviness.

Here are figures that tell a story of permanent growth and progress in our Waverly, Va., Sunday School: "The records show that January, 1925, leads January, 1924, by 120 in attendance, and that January, 1926, leads 1925 by 122. Each month during the year, except one, shows an increase over the corresponding month."

THE SUN's Editor was with Rev. J. G. Truitt at First Church, Norfolk, Sunday, February 28th. A great work, constructive, solid, and of large proportions, is going on in this church. Under the superb leadership of Brother E. H. Everton, superintendent, a wide awake and growing Sunday School is doing things, and the consecrated energy of Brother Truitt is manifest in every department of the church.

Had THE CHRISTIAN SUN been in every home of our Southern Christian Convention, the matter that has appeared in this paper the past six or eight weeks would have so stirred our people that the treasuries of the Church would have been running over with mission funds. But this is not to be the last call. Why not prepare the people? What will you do about it? The church paper must be put in the homes.

In the person of Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., the Christian Churches of the North Carolina Conference have a real evangelist of great power and unusual, consecrated ability. The churches should keep him busy in evangelistic work—his chosen field, and one to which he was elected also by the last session of the North Carolina Conference. Later in the year, all of his time will be taken, but it seems a pity that we put all of our evangelistic campaigns off till one season of the year.

New Lebanon is one of our strong and wide-awake rural churches in Rockingham County, N. C. Brother J. W. Knight is the beloved and consecrated pastor. Envelopes were distributed to, and an offering for the Emergency Mission Fund was made by, those present at the service the first Sunday in March. The offering of $47.35 is to be added to by the offering upon the return of the remainder of the envelopes the first Sunday in April. Brother Knight and his good people are deeply interested in missions.

A meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union of the Eastern North Carolina Conference was held at Wake Chapel, February 22d to 28th. An inviting program was prepared, and Miss Ruth Johnson writes that the meeting was a success. Our young people are willing and anxious to do things in the name of the King, if they may but find the way, where, and how, to do it. Many of our churches are putting on programs of activity, and the Christian Endeavor Society is an institution through which much of this virile life finds expression.

Rev. R. A. Whitten, Reidsville, N. C., is bringing things to pass with his church and Sunday school. A beautiful, spacious, eight-room parsonage has recently been built, by the diligence and zealous energy of Brother Whitten and his faithful co-workers; and a sure-enough, wide-awake Sunday School, under the superintendency of Brother Mitchell, is in evidence in all good works of the church. It was a joy to be in their services Sunday morning, March 7th. During Mission Month, an offering for missions is taken every Sunday in the School, and envelopes are distributed to those who have not had them for the church and school offerings the last Sunday in March.

Rev. C. E. Newman, pastor, jointly with his church secretary at Virgilina, Va., sent out a personal letter to the membership of his church on February 19th, urging all members not only to take an envelope, but to be present, and place the same with the offering on the plate when the offering is taken the second Sunday in March for the Emergency Fund. The splendid letter to his members closes with this plea. "Let us pray, sacrifice and contribute together on that day the largest cash offering for the greatest cause in the history of our church, so that the blessings of God may be upon us as never before." If all pastors will reach not only those present, but those absent, for an offering to Missions during Mission Month, our Emergency Fund of $25,000 will be raised in full.

One of our very devoted and capable workers, in her Missionary Society, is Mrs. B. E. White, Waverly, Va., superintendent of the Waverly-Wakefield District. While her letter is personal, it has significance and interest for SUN readers, and we quote: "I just feel like the people of our church are waking up on the subject of missions. Our Woman's Society has had a long, hard pull. For years we struggled along with ten members. Today we have twenty-five, all good. We had a special mission program at our last meeting. About forty were present, and I think much good resulted. As superintendent of Waverly District, I have been in touch through all the year, either by visiting or through correspondence, with all the secretaries in our district, and just know our Spring Rally at Burton's Grove will show our district very interested. I think there is no work a person can undertake that brings more pleasure than missionary work. I am expecting to organize a Woman's Society at Centerville next Sunday, and crave your prayers, that I may say just what our Master would have me say that the work may be a success." The Society at Waverly, with which Sister White is identified, took a deep interest in and made a valuable contribution to the success of Mission Month in their church. There is no more hopeful sign for the future of our work than the increasing and consecrated effort and energy that the women of our churches are putting forth to keep alive their Missionary Societies.

Rev. O. D. Poythress, South Norfolk, Va., writes interestingly of two real events in his church recently: "Our Church looks better and better every day. All the windows are in place now, practically all the trimmings are completed, they are putting down the floors as fast as they can and the painters are now putting on the second coat of paint. If we can only get our heating man here and begin to install our heating plant, within the next six weeks certainly, we will be able to have our opening. Only wish you could have been here last night to attend a business meeting of our newly organized Young People's Society of Progressive Christian Endeavorers, or, as they call it, the Young People's Progressive Christian Endeavor Society. They very enthusiastically voted to purchase at once a Pipe Organ, to be installed and ready for our opening service, just whenever that takes place, if it is within the next thirty days. Believe me, these are some young people we have down here at South Norfolk; in fact, I tell them all the members of our church are young folks. We had good services here on Sunday; fine congregations. We had a missionary program Sunday night, presented by the Junior, Young People's, and Senior C. E. Societies. Everybody enjoyed it." When the church is completed, it will be second, in Eastern Virginia, to Christian Temple only, and will certainly be a credit, not only to the people of South Norfolk, but to the Christians.

"EXCEPT."

A good many excepts, several notable ones, occur in the Bible, two of the most distinctly missionary being "How can I except some man should guide me" and "Except your brother be with you." Are we conscious and mindful of our responsibility for the salvation of others? Are we making the scriptures known? It being "the power of God unto salvation" is it not obligatory upon Christian people to unfold and impart the Word to those who know it not? Knowing ourselves the gospel message dare we withhold it from others? "How shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard?" Millions, far and near, cannot discern nor understand for themselves, nor even read. On this account deserts and famines of spiritual need are calling from everywhere to every true Christian disciple. These arid, neglected places may be found in the path of daily duty—as we go from Jerusalem to Gaza or from Egypt to Canaan, so to speak; or at a definite post in some distant land; or, perchance, right at our door. The chariot of opportunity is passing our way daily. Failing to get aboard; failing in ministry, according to our gift, to those in spiritual affliction, soon some of us may have to hear the words, "Inasmuch as ye did it not."

Writing some song verses a good many years ago these lines came to me:

"Home and rest and heaven, Jesus face to see,
He's gone to make all things ready for you and me."

Then the complacency of my thought was arrested. God was speaking, seeking to enlarge and ennoble my understanding of His spirit and of His purpose in sending His Son into a cruel, sinful world to be the Savior of all men. Hearing God's voice I listened oh, so closely, so prayerfully, and this is what He said: "Ye shall not see my face except your brother be with you," from which I learned a never-to-be-forgotten lesson, viz.: that in no sense is any human being a preferred subject for the Kingdom and that only as we respond, according to ability, to the temporal and spiritual need of others, is our own salvation assured.

Oftimes when we wait in His presence God disturbs our attitude of self-satisfaction by turning our thought away from so much of heaven to a little more of earth where there is so much to be done before we shall be fitted for the home and rest and heaven about which we are wont to sing. Thus by His great love and mercy God would save us from ourselves. There is no foe like the one within. When we have overcome self we will have overcome the world.

MRS. J. J. LINCOLN.

THE SECURITY OF BELIEVERS.

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in Him will I trust." "He shall cover thee with His feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust:" That word trust means in the Scripture, to have confidence in, to lean on, to take refuge. In reading the Psalms it makes the promises to the righteous mean more if we keep this in mind.

"The name of the Lord is a strong tower; the righteous runneth into it, and is safe." "The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in safety by him; and the Lord shall cover him all the day long." Safe are they who abide under the shadow of the Almighty. Safe are they who take refuge under His wings.

Oh, the boundless, unfathomable promises of safety by day and by night, which are given us in His word, "Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the Most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling." Have you made Him your dwelling place? They come to Him pleading His promises, remembering always our crucified and risen Lord is now at His right hand pleading for all who have believed on His name. Our God is a God of truth. He cannot deny Himself. Heaven and earth will pass away before one word of His will fail.

So by day let us abide under the shadow of the Almighty, and by night let us take refuge under His wings. "Then when thou liest down thou shalt not be afraid: yea, thou shalt lie down and thy sleep shall be sweet," for underneath are the everlasting arms, above is the shadow of His wing, and as the "mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even for ever." If you are not one of His own, will you not make your calling and election sure this day by taking His beloved Son, who died upon Calvary for all, as your Savior and Redeemer!

MINNIE LOHR,
Mt. Vernon, O.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To Missionary Societies of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

The District Spring Missionary Rallies will be held as follows:

Franklin District—Mrs. J. A. Williams, superintendent, Windsor, March 30th.

Waverly District—Mrs. B. E. White, superintendent, Burton's Grove, March 31st.

Nansemond and Gates District—Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, superintendent, Cypress Chapel, April 1st.

Norfolk District—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, superintendent, First Church, Portsmouth, April 2d.

These Rallies were a great success last year. Why not make them a real source of help and inspiration again this year?

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, and Rev. J. G. Truitt, will be present at each session with messages of importance and interest.

Each superintendent is urged to have a good representation from all the churches of her district.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Norfolk, Va. Secretary.

NOTICE.

Beginning the first of May, Rev. H. Jennings Fleming will be available for evangelistic work for the summer months. He will be glad to serve in that capacity. Those desiring his services will please address him at Richfield, N. C.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 4. Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 5. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-0 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$3c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 3/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8-1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

A VISION OF THE CHRIST.

There is no need as emphatic and pronounced today as a vision of the real Christ. The eyes of the world have been so visioned with war and butchery, and so intent upon material development, gain, and prosperity, that there has been little disposition or inclination to vision the Christ. We seem to have lost a consciousness of His presence, personality and power. In brief, we seem not to be striving to visualize the man of Galilee, the Son of God. A serious and striking attempt to visualize Him has recently been made by Rev. E. Stanley Jones, a missionary in India. Dr. Jones sees Christ walking on the way of the India road, sympathizing with India's burdens, problems and poverty. He has caught a vision of the Christ as few men have in our day, and the thousands of India are taking note of this man that he has been with Christ. It is a wonderful message he is carrying to sin cursed India, because he seems to have caught a very distinct vision of the Christ.

A vision of the Son of God, or of God the Father, always reveals opportunity, duty, and prayer. When Jacob slept and dreamed, he saw a ladder sent up from earth to heaven. At the upper end of the ladder he saw God standing. It was in the light of this vision of God that Jacob realized the character of the house of God, an awful responsibility of the presence and power of God, and his own duty to all his earnings and expenditures. Up to this time Jacob hadn't thought much about the welfare of others or his relationship to his kindred, or even to his earnings and prosperity. It was the vision of God standing at the top of the ladder that revealed to Jacob his opportunity, his obligation, and his duty.

In his sermon Sunday morning, March 7th,

Dr. C. H. Rowland of the First Christian Church, Greensboro, carried home to the hearts of his congregation this thought in a very great and convincing manner. The Greensboro Daily News of March 8th, quoted him as saying:

"There is a mistaken idea that the vision of the needy is a missionary vision. This vision of the needy is not going to save the world unless we have seen Christ. The vision of numbers has deceived us. More people are connected with the church than ever before in its history and yet the church has never struggled under such debts. We have thought equipment would suffice. We have more great buildings, and the plans are for greater ones, yet the world is not reached. We have trusted to education and culture, but now know that these do not meet the needs. There is more wealth, larger gifts, greater benevolence, but with all this, there are hundreds of qualified workers ready to go and there is not money to send them.

"Isaiah had a real missionary vision when he saw the Lord. Paul had one when a man stood by. It is not a vision of the needy nor one of things but of a person. All missionaries have their vision when they see the Lord. It is a vision of love, for 'God so loved that he gave.' It is a vision of humility, 'He was rejected and spat upon.' It is a vision of the conqueror. 'This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise.' When we see him in his beauty it begets a desire to be like him. To be like Him is to be missionary."

Dr. Rowland is eminently correct. For if the gospel is carried to those who have it not, it will be not for our sakes, merely, or for their sakes, but for Christ's sake. We may trace our other efforts, and our other gifts even in benevolence, charity, and church, to some selfish motive, and get some reward, through expression of gratitude or appreciation, from those whom we have thus helped by charity, and benevolence. But when we put our money on the altar, or our sacrificial service, to send or to carry the gospel to foreign lands, we never expect any reward or expression of gratitude, nor any honor or appreciation from any one this side of heaven. We do this for Christ's sake, because we have a vision of Him, of His command to us, and of His love for all the world. We may not be able to love all classes, and kinds, and colors of all races, tongues and climes; but our Saviour was able, and God does love all peoples every where. And if we have a vision of the Christ as Dr. Rowland has so well pointed out, we shall do the Missionary deed, and undertake the Missionary task. It is this vision of God, and of His Christ, that the world so much needs today. Wealth is increasing, mansions and palaces and great material gains are being piled up on every hand. But the world does not grow happier, better or more contented because of these. Christ alone can bring peace, and contentment to this troubled, torn world, and only those who get a vision of Him can truly say with Paul, "I have learned in whatsoever state I am to be content."

If our Mission Month, and the emphasis our pulpits are now trying to place on Missions, does not bring a great vision of the Christ to our churches, we have missed the mark and the prize of the high calling for which we are striving.

A real, true vision of the Christ will reveal to us our responsibility, our duty, our obligation and our privilege of Mission Month.

J. O. A.

CHILD LIFE IN PORTO RICO.

When we Christians in Mission Month give to the Emergency Mission Fund, we are making direct contributions to the relief of child-life in Porto Rico, having been doing so now for nearly twenty five years. We have four missionaries there now and want to keep them there and do more than we are doing, because the need is great and the opportunity for real Christian service there is great.

A writer in the Missionary Review of the World for March, throws some light on conditions of child life in Porto Rico that is now timely and interesting:

"After four hundred years of the Spanish regime in Porto Rico, ninety-seven per cent of the people of that island were illiterate. Twenty-one years of the American regime reduced this to sixty-five per cent. The government, the missions, and Masonic orders are realizing the need and increasing the schools. The poverty of the people is a drawback. For example, one of the teachers found that the children could work only an hour or two in the morning before they became listless. Members of the American Protestant Episcopal congregation in San Juan provided, as an experiment, the simplest meal in the middle of the morning, oatmeal and milk, or bread and cocoa. They were going to try it for three months and judge the effect, but at the end of a month the children were found to have gained in weight from that simple fare, and the teacher reported an incredible improvement in their work. One small boy begged to come to school on Saturday. 'Do you like school so much?' 'No,' he said, honestly, 'but I want my breakfast.' The missionary found that in this child's home there were nine children, and all the food they had in a day was coffee and a banana or a sweet potato."

J. O. A.

HOW MUCH OF THE MONEY GOES THERE?

A good friend writes to learn how much of the money raised for foreign missions actually goes to the foreign work—reaches the object for which it was contributed. The enquirer wishes a quick and certain answer "because it is very important. Some are saying they would give to foreign missions, but so little of the money reaches the foreign field that they refuse to give."

Now in the first place our enquiring friend is just mistaken as to the "importance" of the question. Those who raised that question and put it to our friend do not care anything at all about the answer. They may think they do, but they are mistaken. It is just one of the age old excuses for not making an offering, an excuse that has been in vogue, we presume, ever since the days of Ananias and Sapphira. Those who make the excuse just deceive themselves and ease their conscience in that way.

How much of the price that we pay for a hat goes into the pocket of the laborer who made the hat? Now did the answer to that question ever prevent one who wanted to buy a hat from doing so? How much of the money that we pay for life insurance goes into the pocket of the agent and the office? Does the answer to that question prevent one from taking out life insurance? How much of the money one pays for a Ford goes into the pocket of the workmen that built the Ford, and how much into Henry's pocket? Does the answer to that question keep one from buying a Ford? Nay, verily. It is the price that prevents us, if we are prevented, and not where the price goes after we have made the purchase.

Then there is a second consideration. Those who handle mission money and church funds are, as a rule, among the most reliable and trustworthy people we know. The churches would not keep them employed long if they were not. To say that we will not give to foreign missions because such small fraction of that given reaches that to which it is given is to question the integrity, the varacity and the honesty of those whom the church has selected to handle such funds.

Then a third consideration, and the answer to our enquirer is, All that is given to foreign missions goes to the object for which it was given. Those who handle the funds do not take them in a bag and carry them across the seas and pay them all over to the missionaries. But they do that which is far better, more economical and more helpful. They work with the missionaries, counsel with them, plan and pray and pull and push and advise and economise in every possible way to make the meagre funds contributed go just as far, and accomplish just as much as possible.

We might as well say that we will not ride on trains because the railway company indulges the extravagance of having a conductor to take up tickets and carry out the schedule, as to say we will not give to foreign missions because so little of the money given goes into the pockets of the workers on the field.

It is all just an age old, easy, silly excuse—made only by those who want an excuse for not obeying their Lord's command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

No wonder our Lord preached a great sermon in denunciation of the excuse makers (See Luke 14:16-24). And no wonder He said in that sermon (verse 21) that the master was angry. Those who made such excuses know better, but they talk to deceive both themselves and others.

J. O. A.

"THE PATHS THAT LEAD TO GOD."

This is the suggestive and promising title of a book which more than fulfills its promise.

Dr. Wilbur Fisk Tillet, Dean Emeritus of the Theological Faculty and Professor of Christian Doctrine in Vanderbilt University, is the author of this perfectly wonderful book, the second and revised edition of which has recently come from the press.

Anyone who has ever heard Dr. Tillet on the convention floor of the Federal Council of Churches, can easily appreciate the unique contribution any book from his pen would be.

Dr. Tillet's training has fitted him in a peculiar way to write this masterful volume. He received his theological education and M. A. degree at Princeton, the honorary degrees of S. T. D. from Northwestern University, D. D. from Wesleyan University, LL. D. from Southwestern University. Dr. Tillet has been a professor in the department of Philosophy of Religion at Vanderbilt University for more than thirty years.

His latest book, "The Paths that Lead to God," is the fruitage of a life-time of study, observation and experience. For the pastor who has had the benefit of a Seminary training, this book will be a source of delight and satisfaction by reason of the clear style of the author and the comprehensive summary and restatement of the principles involved in the Philosophy of Religion.

For the pastor who has not had the benefit of a Seminary course, the book will prove a veritable messenger from God, by reason of the clear cut and easily understood presentation of the great themes with which every religious leader ought to be acquainted.

The volume is a breath of fresh air in the stifled atmosphere of the present theological controversy, for it demonstrates that man does not have to assume the role of either a Modernist or a Fundamentalist in order to be heard, but that the truth will always have a hearing. Hence the book will be welcomed by that large group of religious leaders who refuse to be labeled as either "Modernists" or "Fundamentalists," but who want to be known as "Christians only."

The book is literally filled with food thought for the minister who gives time and study to his sermon preparation.

Chapter one, the introduction, bears the heading, "A Knowledge of God—Man's Greatest Need"; chapter two, "The God We Seek"; chapter three, "Religion and Religions as Related to God"; chapter four, "Through Nature to God"; chapter five, "Through Science to God"; chapter six, "Evolution and God"; chapter seven, "Through Man to God"; chapter eight, "Through Philosophy to God"; chapter nine, "Through Reason to God"; chapter ten, "Through the Bible to God"; chapter eleven, "The Progressive Revelation of God in the Scriptures"; chapter twelve, "The Divine Inspiration of the Scriptures"; chapter thirteen, "Miracles in Modern Apologetics"; chapter fourteen, "The Prophets as Interpreters and Revealers of God"; chapter fifteen, "Through Christ to God"; chapter sixteen, "Through the Church to God"; chapter seventeen, "Through the Creeds to God"; chapter eighteen, "Through Doubt to Faith"; chapter nineteen, "Through Experience to God"; chapter twenty, "Through Suffering and Death to God."

Any one of these twenty illuminating chapters is well worth the price of the book, which sells for $3.00 net. The volume has 581 pages of most interesting and helpful reading. It is published by George H. Doran Co., New York, and can be secured from any book store.

This brief statement from the introduction to the chapter on "Through Experience to God," illustrates the wholesome and challenging spirit of the author: "The only knowledge of God that is saving and satisfying is that obtained in and through a personal experience. The intellectual experience of God finds expression in creeds; a heart experience of God expresses itself in love and other emotions; a volitional experience of God expresses itself in obedience and deeds. To know God by experience involves all of these."

The volume will be an asset to any pastor's library.

R. C. H.

HIS FIRST SERMON.

THE SUN'S Editor has just read with glowing heart and amazing joy, Rev. E. Stanley Jones' marvelous book, "The Christ of the Indian Road." Without comment we give Dr. Jones' account of his first sermon:

"When I was called to the ministry, I had a vague notion that I was to be God's lawyer—I was to argue his case for him and put it up brilliantly. When I told my pastor of my call he surprised me and thoroughly frightened me by asking me to preach my first sermon on a certain Sunday night. I prepared very thoroughly, for I was anxious to make a good impression and argue his case acceptably. There was a large crowd there full of expectancy, for they wished the young man well.

"I began on rather a high key. I had not gone a half dozen sentences when I used a word I had never used before (nor have I used it since!)—'indifferentism.' When I used that word I saw a college girl in the audience put down her head and smile. It so upset me that when I came back down to the thread of my discourse, it was gone—absolutely. I do not know how I stood there, rubbing my hands, hoping that something would come back. It seemed an age. Finally I blurted out: 'Friends, I am sorry, but I have forgotten my sermon!' I started down the steps leading from the pulpit in shame and confusion.

This was the beginning of my ministry, I thought—a tragic failure. As I was about to leave the pulpit a voice seemed to say to me, 'Haven't I done anything for you?'

"Yes," I replied. 'You have done everything for me.'

"Well," answered the voice, 'could you tell that?'

"Yes, I suppose I could," I eagerly replied.

"So instead of going to my seat, I came around in front of the pulpit below (I felt very lowly by this time and was persuaded I did not belong up there) and said: 'Friends, I see I cannot preach, but I love Jesus Christ. You know what my life was here in this community—that of a wild, reckless young man—and you know what it now is. You know he has made life new for me, and though I cannot preach I am determined to love and serve him.'

"At the close, a lad came up and said: 'Stanley, I wish I could find what you have found.' He did find it then and there. He is a member of that Church now—a fine Christian man.

"No one congratulated me on that sermon that night, but after the sting of it had passed away, I have been congratulating myself ever since. The Lord let me down with a terrible thump, but I got the lesson never to be forgotten: In my ministry I was to be, not God's lawyer, but his witness. That would mean that there would have to be a living communion with Christ so that there would always be something to pass on. Since that day, I have tried to witness before high and low what Christ has been to an unworthy life.

"The students of a Hindu college asked me to come and speak to them at the college, and they suggested the topic: 'Tell Your Own Personal Religious Experience.' Always, on the last night of every series, I tell my personal experience. They forget many, if not most, of my arguments, but they bring up this matter of experience again and again. It grips." J. O. A.

A PASTOR'S QUESTION ANSWERED.

One of our pastors wrote THE SUN'S Editor last week enquiring as to how many missionaries our Christian Church has sent to the foreign field and how many it now had on the field. The answer was given, but the number is painful to contemplate and is not repeated here. But this pastor asked another question which we did not answer because at the time we did not have the facts. That other question, which we are now prepared to answer, was this, "How many Missionaries has the Moody Bible Institute sent out?" The answer to this question is found on page 222 of the Missionary Review of the World, as follows: "The Moody Bible Institute has sent more than 1,300 students as missionaries into foreign fields alone, since it was organized. Last year it sent out sixty. There are now at work in thirty-seven (foreign) mission fields 959 of its graduates."

Think of it—more foreign missionaries by far went out last year from this one institute than have gone out from all the institutions and churches of our Christian forces in the last one hundred years. Is it not time we Christians were putting on a program of missions, and evangelization worthy of the great principles we have and teach? J. O. A.

"If you have injured another, you will never again know abiding joy in their presence till you straighten it up, as it is the very nature of the soul to hate those we have wronged. Self-condemnation forces the feeling upon men as God's call to heart unity and oneness."—Exchange.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

There is too much said in these days about dress, automobiles, joy-rides, young people, and the laxity of this age. In everything, the extremes are discussed, in ordinary conversation, as the rule. Extremes meet and make the average; and extremes of different ages make an average; and that average in one generation is determined by the dominant thought and life of that generation. No doubt a fair comparison of the social, industrial, and religious life of many generations would show an increasing gain for the good, and an increasing gain for the evil; but the sum total comparison would, undoubtedly, show that the good is gaining over the bad, and that humanity is growing better.

Those who make up their judgment out of their own experience or one generation, are liable to err, as no one generation determines anything on a world-scale. Again, individuals who believe and lament the evils of their generation only are liable to draw wrong conclusions because they are growing in grace. As Christians grow better, the same lines of human conduct that once were overlooked by them, appear worse than they did when they were young. It is a difficult thing to grow in grace without growing pessimistic. Ignorance always looks worse to those who are educated; poverty looks worse to the rich; uncleanness looks worse to the clean; dishonesty looks worse to the honest; irreligion looks worse to the religious; the backward Christian looks worse to the advanced Christian. Progress is made by criticism. Flattery pleases the self-satisfied.

The Press is responsible for much of the alarm felt in these days for the young. The Press publishes the evils in bold type and the good in minion. In other words, the Press carries more of the evil than of the good. The bad is news; there is so much of the good that it cannot be printed. The holes in the road are noticed more than miles of smooth surface. The ills of life count more than the health of life; in fact health is realized most in sickness; and fortune is appreciated most in misfortune.

If the world is getting worse, Christianity is a failure. Jesus came to save the world, and He will. It may take ages, it may witness great evils that will, for the time, crucify the good; but He will win. Evil comes to the light more than ever before in the history of man; and it may be that the Press is helping to call the attention of the church to the evils of the times, unconsciously, to provoke Christian men and women to the condemnation of evil. It may be helping rather than encouraging wrong. God can "make the wrath of man to praise Him."

Every age has its fashions; but fashions control only for the time. The fashions of this age may be only a link in the chain of fashions from Eden till nineteen twenty-six. But "the fashion of this world passeth away." Fashions are like storms. They come and go. Storms seem to do much damage, but they created the weather bureau, the life-saving stations and service, and the life-preservers. The world moves on after Jesus Christ, and He will lead the world into the safe Harbor.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

One of our good brethren is quoted as being opposed to so much union propaganda. Why not merge with some other denomination and quit? he is reported as asking.

When a man and woman marry, do they cease to exist? When Christ prayed for the oneness of His followers, did He desire their obliteration?

The Christian Church has never felt that way about it, and our great and ultimate aim from the beginning has been to consummate the union of all Christ's followers. Perhaps it would be stating the whole truth to say that we had from the beginning two great, ultimate purposes. The first related to religious liberty and the second to Christian union.

For more than a hundred years, we have stood for religious liberty, till today that principle is all but universally accepted. Our movement has been the leaven that has brought this happy situation to pass. There has never been a heresy trial in the Christian Church and it is inconceivable that there should ever be. The liberty of conscience, or the right of private judgment, which we ascribe to all Christ's followers, definitely disposes of that matter. So long as a professing Christian exhibits Christian character, or vital piety in his daily life, his membership and fellowship in the Christian Church is unquestioned. The Christian world outside our Brotherhood has looked on dubiously to see how our liberty would work. It has worked, and increasingly other denominations have come to adopt our attitude. The Christian world today tacitly accepts our cardinal principle of religious liberty.

It may take us another century to bring Christian Union to pass. Already we see signs of progress in that direction. Leaders in other folds are declaiming for Christian union. Eventually it must come, and when it does come, the Christian Church will not have quit. Rather she will have entered upon a larger life and a nobler service.

Of this we may be sure: Christ will not permit a church that undertakes to answer His prayer for the union of His followers to suffer. He declared that the world would never accept Him as sent by His Father till His followers should unite. Christian Union is therefore the central concern for us today. When we neglect it for less weighty matters, we but delay the winning of the world to Christ. We need denominational disarmament as some one has said, and we need it primarily. Let the Christian Church lead in this important matter.

W. A. HARPER.

GIVING OR PAYING?

Giving is God's plan of making us like himself. It is his divine plan of transforming character. When once this truth grips us, it will change our whole attitude of life. Giving will become one of our pleasures and it will lose its distastefulness. Why are there so many calls for worthy purposes, the church, missions, education, the orphan, the starving? Of course one reason is that of the need; but a greater reason is because of our need. We need to give, whether our church needs our giving or not. When we complain of the many calls that come to us, all worthy calls, we reveal that we do not yet understand God's plan of making us Godlike. Rather, let us thank God for every worthy call that comes to us. We may not be able to give to every call or as much as we would like to many of them, but let us not complain at any worthy cause. Giving is not for God's sake; it is for our sakes.

"For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills, I know all the fowls of the mountains; and the wild beasts of the field are mine."

"If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fullness thereof."

"The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts."

"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof."

Frequent giving and generous giving help to cultivate the grace of giving. I must give because I need to give.

Our gifts are made to God, not to persons or causes. One does not give to his pastor, or to his church treasurer or to the trustees. When we put our offering on the plate in our church services each week, we are not giving to the men who pass the plate, nor to the minister or the officials. We are making our gifts to God. It is just as though it were the pierced hand of Christ himself receiving our gift. All this giving is to be an act of worship. Too often it has never added anything of spirituality to our lives. It has been merely paying our church bills. We have not made it a beautiful act of worship and let it enrich our lives. We have been losers because we have not realized what Paul tried to teach us in "Upon the first day of the week let each of you." The weekly gift at church by each one of us, young and old, husband and wife, is a weekly reminder of God's ownership and of our Stewardship. That is to link up our weekly work and earning with our prayers, praises, and hymns.

WARREN H. DENISON.

THE MEMBER'S TASK.

(A Plea for Personal Evangelism.)

BY DR. S. D. DAUGHERTY.

The following article which appeared recently in The Lutheran, was written by a friend who is a past-master in the art of soul winning. Dr. Daugherty has been wonderfully used of God in building a large number of strong and influential churches. The secret of his great work has been his zeal in Evangelism and his ability to inspire the laity to win their friends to Christ. Dr. Daugherty is Secretary of Evangelism in the United Lutheran Church. We appreciate his courtesy in permitting us to give his message to our people.

ROY C. HELFENSTEIN.

"The Member's Task" in the program of evangelistic effort takes us back to the very beginning and heart of this matter. For too long a time the Church has been depending upon special evangelists, the few soul-thirsty pastors and Bible school teachers, or perhaps the pious parent, to point out the way of salvation to the unsaved. It is high time that the rank and file of church members be brought to realize that the Lord is depending upon them to do their part in this God-given task.

Jesus, in lining up men to help Him in this work of evangelism, which he would soon turn over to them and to those who, through them, would become His disciples, called some plain fishermen, a money changer and a few others. On an occasion when He had a big evangelistic campaign to put over in a very short time, He put His hands on seventy men and sent them out two by two before His face to the cities and places to which He would come. In all He had but one outstanding man of culture and of religious stock—Saul of Tarsus—and he was called after our Lord's ascension.

On the day of Pentecost, Peter assured the bewildered crowd and the critical Jews that the witnessing in many tongues on the occasion was but the fulfillment of the prophecy of Joel that the Spirit of God would be poured out upon all flesh and that their sons and their daughters would be the evangelists in all nations.

Strange as it may seem, the church members have been wont to turn over this most holy task, namely, that of "winning souls," to the pastors, special evangelists, and other employed workers. The great need of this and all ages is that the church members—the priesthood of believers, male and female—should take their places in the home, in the Bible school, and in the community, as witnesses for the salvation of the unsaved about them. It is the blessed task which the Lord Jesus confers upon His spirit-born disciples.

Facing the Obligation.

Perhaps the whom, the how, the where, and the when, are the out-standing difficulties in the way of many church members in meeting the responsibility of this task of evangelism. To whom can I go with the evangel? How can I tell the story? Where can I do this and when is the proper time to do it?

The whom includes any and all persons who are unsaved and for whose salvation the Holy Spirit may use you as a real church member. As parents, your supreme task is to be the evangelists of the Lord in helping your children to a conscious realization of their present salvation. Parents should be so zealous of this holy task that they will not permit even their pastor to do this. Surely those who have been used of God in giving physical birth with all its burdens and joys, should covet most earnestly the task of co-laborship with God in the spiritual birth of their children. Mr. Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist, said: "I would not allow anyone other than myself the privilege of showing my children the way of salvation." The writer did the same. This should be the task of every teacher in the Bible school, if parents are not doing their duty in this matter. Is there a greater task and a sweeter joy for you, as teacher, than that of laboring with God in the matter of their new birth? Are you satisfied to be a teacher of the truth and not covet the privilege of witnessing to the power of that truth in giving life and freedom from condemnation of sin? All members of the church have a like task to perform for the salvation of the unbelieving anywhere and everywhere. There are but two classes of people in the sight of God—the believing sinner, who has the gift of eternal life, and the unbelieving sinner, who shall not see life, but has the wrath of God upon him and is eternally lost, unless he is led to receive Jesus Christ as the One sent of God to him.

How to be used of God in this holy task is a matter of vital importance. Christian parents are often perplexed by "the how" of leading their children to a conscious realization of salvation, which is the only and all-satisfying condition coveted by them. The ordinary means of grace, such as baptism, instruction in the Scriptures at home, in the Sunday School, and in the public services of the church, along with prayer, have been used, but the real receiving of Jesus (John 1:12), the realization of the new birth (John 3:5), the all-sufficient ground of saving grace (John 3:14-15), and the assurance of a present salvation (John 3:36 and John 5:34) alone will meet the full soul-cravings of a consciously redeemed mother or father.

This should be equally true of the consecrated teacher in the Bible school, and no less true of any Christian who would do personal work among his fellows as partners in business, laborers in the same occupation, comrades in a club or neighbors on the same street. This should be true of all God's handmaidens in their varied relations in every-day life. The ardent missionary laboring for the salvation of womanhood in the far-away land should have an equal concern in the positive salvation of womanhood at home. This yearning for the spiritual life of others should begin in the family circle and find its fullest joy in touching the individuals of the entire community.

But we are still confronted by how shall the member's task in real evangelistic effort be "put over." Since this is the work of God, and the Holy Scriptures reveal not only His will to save men but the Lord Jesus Christ as the Saviour, it is the duty of all who would be soul-winners to use the Word of God freely and fully in doing this work. The Holy Spirit is ever ready to honor the proper use of the Word in quickening the soul to a consciousness of sin and then to a saving faith. The how may best be realized when you take your Bible, or a copy of the Gospel of St. John for example, and have your child, your pupil, your business associate, your friend, your companion, or your neighbor sit down with you and with the Scriptures in his or her hands, read such passages from the Word as you may wisely suggest, until the Holy Spirit has shown the way of salvation therein. It may be done after this fashion:

A father who has been used of the Lord in winning souls was dealing with his own daughter when she was in her tenth year. She began by reading John 1:12, and had read perhaps ten or twelve other portions of the Word when, to the great joy of the parent, she said: "Daddy, I know I am saved." The father replied: "These are the sweetest words that ever fell from your lips on daddy's ears. But how do you know that you are saved, daughter?" She immediately read John 3:36, the first part of the verse, "He that believeth on the Son has everlasting life—" "But how do you understand it?" was asked of her. She replied, "Why, daddy, it says that if I believe on Jesus as my Saviour that I have everlasting life, and, daddy, I believe God." Then the father asked, "When do you receive or have everlasting life?" To this she answered, "I have it now." "But how do you know?" the parent evangelist continued. "Why daddy," she said, "God says that if I believe on Jesus I have everlasting life and that I have it now, and, daddy, I believe God."

This may be the experience, not only of the parents and Sunday School teachers, but of all soul-winners. It requires faith, knowledge of the Word of God, and courage, in leading others to Christ. A teacher was recently asked: "Are you leading the members of your teen-age class in the Sunday School to salvation by faith in Jesus Christ?" The reply was, "Oh, I could never do that." She was assured that she could do so and that that should be the aim of her teaching to those who had not already declared their faith in Him, and that it would bring great joy to her own soul as a teacher evangelist.

The Lord is needing fishers of men (personal evangelists) quite as much now as in the days of His public ministry. He is ready to take the average man as He did then and make him a winner of souls. Parents, Sunday School teachers, and members of the Church in general, must respond to His call and do the work of an evangelist wherever opportunity presents itself or wherever opportunity can be made.

"The where" to perform the task of an evangelist may be answered—"Anywhere." In the home, if at all possible. The environment is the most favorable there.

The when may be answered—"Anytime, so that it is not too late." Take advantage of the childhood opportunity in the home, in the Sunday School class or whenever you are led of the Spirit to deal with any soul. "Today is the day of salvation." It is dangerous to wait for a better opportunity when the Spirit bids you draw near to show the way to an unregenerated person.

We will be glad to send a sample copy of THE SUN to your friend who does not now subscribe.

NOTICE.

If any of our churches in the Southern Convention are without pastors, I shall be pleased to furnish a list of available ministers with whom correspondence would be invited. I shall be glad to furnish this information as some of our willing and able pastors are ready to take work where needed. J. O. ATKINSON,

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

CO-OPERATION and LOYALTY

Through February and March the churches of our Southern Convention are raising an Emergency Mission Fund. In the Christian Sun of February 11th the editor, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, says, "Every active pastor in the Southern Christian Convention has planned to observe Mission Month during either February or March. There is co-operation and loyalty." That is the spirit that wins. Every active pastor co-operating. What a work will be accomplished when throughout our whole brotherhood the spirit of loyalty and co-operation prevails. What steps forward will be taken when every active pastor and church heartily co-operates with the work of his conference. What a note of victory will be heard when all our conferences actually co-operate with the plans and programs of their Regional Convention; and better still will we be able to go forward when all our Regional Conventions unitedly carry out the plans, program and work of our General Convention. There is a steady growing spirit of co-operation and loyalty by our churches and pastors for all the enterprises of our work and we thank God for it. That is the way it ought to be. We should get behind our General Convention plans unitedly, behind our colleges, missions, literature, officials, all our agencies. In our church they are not handed down from some person or boards. The plans and programs in our Christian Church are worked out by the General Convention. All our officials are chosen by said convention. All such programs are placed in the hands of definite boards and executives to carry out what the Convention itself votes. In our church all matters of importance come up from the people. Plans and programs are theirs. Board and officials are agencies and annually they give account to the General Board, which is the Convention itself ad interim, and then every quadrennial year they give an account of their stewardship to the Convention itself. There should be hearty, loyal co-operation and ready spirit to yield local and individual plans to the general plans. Our people are doing more of it. It is necessary in baseball, basketball, football, the games of life. It is necessary for co-operation in the home between husband, wife, children, if the home is to be happy and successful. It is necessary in a school, in state, in church. The more we can learn to co-operate as pastors and churches in all the blue prints and outlines worked out by our General Convention the better will our individual churches prosper as well as the whole work of our Christian Church. We can never get very far when church and pastor will not co-operate with the officials and plans of the conference. Our work will not go forward when your conference is a law unto itself and will not work in unison with the plans of your regional convention. The work will always limp and halt when a regional convention does not loyally co-operate with the General Convention. It is splendid that we are coming to a day, not far ahead we hope, when we shall not be saying, "Everybody is out of step but me." It is great to work together.

I believe in the Christian Church, its history, principles, future;

I believe in its people, their faith, loyalty, generosity;

I believe in its institutions, departments of work, agencies;

I believe in the men and women who stand in its places of leadership, their faithfulness, ability, devotion, economy, sacrificial spirit;

I believe in our oncoming young men and women.

Because I believe thus I give my heart, prayers, money, service, loyal co-operation to the plans and work of the Christian Church, its men and agencies.

Loyalty and co-operation will go a long ways in making our Christian Church fulfill her mission in the world.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERINGS FOR FEBRUARY.

Wakefield, Va., $2.17; Henderson, N. C., $5.33; Richmond, Va., $1.92; Antioch, Zuni, Va., $5.00; Timber Ridge, High View, W. Va., $1.25; Rosemont, South Norfolk, Va., $14.05; Winchester, Va., $4.07; Franklinton, N. C., $10.00; South Norfolk, Va., $18.50; Berea (Nans), Driver, Va., $6.45; Linville, Harrisonburg, Va., $3.68; Salem Chapel, Walnut Cove, N. C., $1.00; Shallow Ford, Burlington, N. C., $1.83; Raleigh, N. C., $2.50; Ocean View, Va., $1.70; Suffolk, Va., $12.50; Franklin, Va., $20.00; Richland, Ga., $1.00; Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C., $1.00; Ether, N. C., $4.12; Bethlehem (Nans) Suffolk, Va., $1.67; Bethlehem, Timberville, Va., $3.15; Leaksville, Luray, Va., $.95; First Church Greensboro, N. C., $21.73; Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va., $3.09; First Church, Norfolk, Va., $5.12; Liberty, N. C., $1.87; South Norfolk, Va., $24.66; Dendron, Va., $15.72; Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C., $5.10; Burlington, N. C., $82.03.

Total S. S. Collections for month of February, $205.53.

While we are profoundly grateful to the schools named above for their liberal offering and to the other schools which contribute monthly to Missions, it is noted with regret that there are quite a few schools in the Southern Christian Convention not yet sufficiently interested in enlarging the Kingdom and building up schools and churches elsewhere to make a monthly contribution. It is devoutly hoped that many of our schools not already doing so will vote for and send us one offering a month for this most worthy and needy work of the Kingdom during the year of our Lord, 1926.

J. O. ATKINSON.
Mission Secretary.

FEBRUARY COLLECTIONS FOR MISSIONS.

Feb. 2—Miss Mary D. Atkinson, Mt. Airy, N. C.$ 5.00
Feb. 3—Miss Mettie Sutton, Burlington, N. C. 5.00
Feb. 3—Class No. 10, Suffolk, Va. 5.00
Feb. 10—First Church, Richmond, Va. 118.00
Feb. 16—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Atkinson, Jr., Boston Mass. 5.00
Feb. 17—Mrs. W. H. Speight, Sunbury, N. C. 1.00

Feb. 23—Rev. P. S. Sailer, Brooklyn, N. Y. 2.00
Feb. 23—Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Apple, Elon College, N. C. 10.00
Feb. 23—Liberty Spring, Holland, Va. 57.25
Feb. 24—Dr. J. W. Wellons, Masonic Home, Greensboro 5.00
Feb. 24—Ivor Church, Ivor, Va. 15.68
Feb. 24—A friend 1.00

$229.93

Feb. 27—Total Emergency Fund Feb...$229.93
Feb. 27—Total Reg. S. S. 205.53
Feb. 27—Total Special from S. S. 82.03
Feb. 27—Total Rocky Ford Building Fund 12.75
Feb. 27—Total Collections on Pledges.. 110.00

Total Collection for February.....$640.24

Amount of Check sent to R. W. Malone, Treasurer$640.24
J. O. ATKINSON, Secretary.
Elon College, N. C.

COME AND SEE.

AN APPRECIATION

(Read before the Woman's Society, Suffolk, Va., Fourteenth Anniversary, February 8th, 1926.)

In two very recent Sunday School lessons we have used and emphasized the expression, "Come and See." The subject of one lesson was, "Five Men Believe On Jesus." It was the story of John and two of his disciples who standing by, looked upon Jesus as he walked. John said, "Behold the Lamb of God." The two disciples heard Him speak and they followed Jesus. When Jesus turned and saw them following He said unto them, "What seek ye?" They said unto Him, "Rabbi, where dwellest thou?" He said unto them, "Come and see." They came and saw where He dwelt and abode with Him.

When Andrew had found Simon and Jesus had found Philip, Philip found Nathaniel and said unto him, "We have found Him of whom the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, son of Joseph." Nathaniel said, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Philip said, "Come and see."

Another subject was Jesus and the Samaritan Woman. When the woman at the well was convinced that Jesus was the Messiah she left her waterpot and went her way into the city and said to the men, "Come, see a man that told me all things that ever I did. Is not this the Christ?"

The minutes of the Eastern Virginia Conference of November, 1911, will bear the record of appointing a committee to nominate officers for a Woman's Board for the purpose of organizing Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies in the bounds of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference. This committee consisted of Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Miss Margaret Brickhouse, and Mrs. W. H. Dick. They had their first meeting in the Suffolk Christian Church, December, 1911, for the purpose of drawing up a constitution. While they were meeting in Dr. Staley's study the Christian Missionary Association was in session in the main auditorium of the church. Mrs. Rowland said when the two meetings had adjourned one of the Suffolk ladies came to her and said, "We are ready to line up and go to work." Another lady of this church inquired of the committee of their plans and seemed very anxious. Both of these ladies have from its organization until now been valuable members, and their personal influence has gone far in helping the work.

The first separate sessions apart from our Conference was held in the Suffolk Christian Church. Mrs. Dick and Miss Brickhouse remained with the work only a short while but Mrs. Rowland worked faithfully for thirteen years. In February, 1912, eight different Societies were organized, the Suffolk Society being one of them. I am sorry I do not know how they came in number. We had a probable forty chances in our Conference to have Woman's Societies and it has taken us fourteen years to get twenty-five of these organized. In addition to these we have about sixty Young People's Willing Workers' and Cradle Roll Societies. Our Treasurer's report for the quarter just ending December 31, 1926, shows every Woman's Society reporting and all societies together sent the amount of $1,123.12. This is remarkable for our first quarter, the best in the history of our work.

My sudden removal to Asheville, N. C., January, 1912, and the very busy life while there actually caused me to keep very little in touch with you during the first three years of your growth as a Conference. Upon my return to Virginia in February, 1915, I was asked to complete the term of your Conference Treasurer, Miss Bessie Norfleet, one of your own members, who had passed away.

Records will show that your Society has been a leader in all lines of our work. The Young Peoples, Willing Workers and Cradle Roll Societies, which are children of your Woman's Societies, have proven themselves strong and vigorous. I am sure you led off in having Mission Study Classes. Now almost every society in our Conference has fallen in line with the plan and we could scarcely have a Conference program complete if we did not give a portion of time to discuss our Study Books. No feature of our last fall meeting was more to be enjoyed than the reports given by our delegates to Chambersburg and Northfield concerning the current study books.

During my ten years as Treasurer you sent more Life Memberships than all other societies together. Ever since I have known of the work you have sent money regularly for the support of Sunday Schools in Japan. You have each year clothed an orphan and all this in addition to following the mapped out program of our Conference Board. When we started our District Rallies or One Day Schools of Missions you helped us start off our work and have continued to have a most enthusiastic meeting. You have furnished very valuable, faithful members for our Conference Board and have filled important places on our program. This year for the first time we tried our Standard of Excellence. Your own Cradle Roll Society received the banner in that Department. Your Woman's Society is the largest in the Conference and sends the largest contributions both to dues and specials. This year our Conference total was $6,300, and your societies sent more than one-fifth of this amount. I have worked long enough to know that it is not always the ones who are able who give large sums but I can imagine that in the large amounts your church gave some people had to work hard or sacrifice.

During my ten years as Treasurer and one as President your officers and societies have given me splendid support. You have been an inspiration and a wonder both at the same time. Do you wonder why I wanted to accept your very kind invitation sent me by Mrs. Duke.

I really wanted to come and see. Come and see a Woman's Society that could do the things you people have done in these years of organized effort. I wanted to "Come and See" and get from you some inspiration and enthusiasm, some ideas and ideals. I wanted to "Come and See" the band of woman who would undertake a six hundred dollar special over and above other obligations when most of our churches would swoon away if given that task. I wanted to "Come and See" the women who, having selected the task of caring for certain Sunday Schools in Japan, stuck to that task for fourteen years and are still sticking. I wanted to "Come and See" the ones who, when they said they would cloth an orphan, did it every year consistently. I wanted to "Come and See" the people who honored their members who passed away with Life Memberships that costs something.

I wanted to "Come and See" the Society that furnished leaders who carried Missionary messages over in their Sunday Schools. I wanted to "Come and See" a Society that sponsored a Young People's organization that undertook tasks that yours undertake. I am convinced that a big challenge awakes a like response and fear that most of us do not challenge our Young People with things large enough. I wanted to "Come and See" a society that was big enough and liberal enough to lead in the Conference and be a great help and inspiration to all other societies.

I wanted to "Come and See" a society that could be counted upon to increase its activities in all lines ten per cent according to the plan of the Conference. Finally, I wanted to "Come and See" a society that had put its efforts and influence whole heartedly into the work to make the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Conference of Eastern Virginia one of the most active and worth while organizations of the Southern Christian Convention.

MRS. M. L. BRYANT.

ENDURANCE AND MISSIONS.

DEAR EDITOR:

All along the pathway of life there are springs from which we drink, that not only quench our thirst, but strengthen us for the journey as well. Sometimes the pathway leads o'er barren deserts, hot sands, rugged mountain paths, and beneath a scorching sun.

Frequently the traveler becomes faint, and often gives up in the race, or journey of life, while others, whose purpose is well grounded can see the goal in view, even through the obstacles over which they must pass if they reach the desired haven. Paul was a splendid illustration of such a character. He said "this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, I press forward," and if we would sip the juice of Nectar, we must be willing to also forget the things that hinder, and press more firmly the unknown path, the dangers of which will appear less when we have come nearer them, the giants will only prove to be shadows seen from a distance that loom up like ghosts of fearful proportions, that fright the faint hearted and cause them to despair. The battle is not always to the strong, but more often to him who is willing to "Endure."

While "Endurance" is a necessary factor in the race of life, it is by no means all that composes the successful soldier. When the call was issued by the Commander in Chief of the American Army, in the interest of the protection of our homes, our property, and our lives marking the entrance of our Nation in that great conflict, "The World War," which seemed inevitable, there was a responsive chord within the breast of the manhood of our people that quickened into action when the call to arms was broadcasted. Our noble young men presented themselves at the altar of our Country as a patriotic duty. While we appreciate the response given to the call, we must remember that "That call," "That response" meant more than a patriotic duty, however noble this act might have been. I know of nothing more honorable, nor would I be pleased to think of my comrades being less willing to protect the land of the free and the home of the brave, than to exemplify that great quality of which I now mention, self denial. As our boys marched from the camps, as they boarded the ships, as they said "good-bye" to those at home, it meant self-denial. It meant the sacrifice of ambition, of comfort, of home, of life itself, if need be, upon the altar of a Christian Nation trying to establish that peace that the angels sang of that starlight night so long ago, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Today we are on the eve of responding to a call, in this instance not one to arms, where men engage in battle, where the fields become crimson with the blood of their fellow men, but the call for us today is that of our Mission Secretary, the man whom we have delighted to honor and place at the steering wheel of our Missionary affairs in this great Southern Christian Convention. He it is through much prayer and effort issues the call. He is helpless unless the ranks be filled with soldiers possessed with endurance qualities, as well as the Spirit of Him who said, "He that will, come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." The call is not man made, but God given. The Command of the Master when He said "Go" included all. Not one will be exempt, and all can have a part on the battle we now fight for the restoration of lost souls.

Mission Month is at hand. Many will pass the time without much serious thought regarding the outcome, others will intercede with the Father, and prove heroes in Self-denial; and when the end of the journey is reached will hear the sweet music in the voice of our Lord saying, "Inasmuch as ye did unto the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me. Enter into the joys of thy Lord."

Would I could find words to stress the need of the hour, or language to express the greatness of the task. Could I but lift the veil and expose to view souls groping in darkness that will be doomed to eternal misery and go over the precipice of eternal darkness, and whose blood may be required at our hands, unless we respond in making Mission Month, a month of prayer for extending the Kingdom, and practice every opportunity to deny ourselves and place every penny we can upon the altar, dedicating it as we do so with our continued prayers.

Jesus said on one occasion, "Think not there are yet four months till the harvest. Life up your eyes, the fields are white." With only one life to give, with so short a time to help, and with a shameful memory of how little we have done in the past, may you and I be willing to do our very best to make Mission Month the greatest effort in the history of our Church, making the hearts of those who carry the responsibilities of this sacred duty glad, and not only this, but I believe we can ring the bells of Heaven with our prayers, and when we have brought all the tithes into the storehouse of the Lord, our barns will be filled with plenty and our presses will burst out with new wine.

R. A. WHITTEN,
Reidsville, N. C.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

COMING EVENTS.

Valley of Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Leaksville Church, near Luray, Va., May 12, 13, 14, 1926.

Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Rock Stand Church, May 29, 30, 1926.

Georgia and Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, North Highlands Church, Columbus, Ga., May 29, 30, 1926.

Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, place unsettled, on July 13, 14, 15, 1926.

Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Ramseur, N. C., Date not yet decided upon.

Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Waverly, Va., June 20, 21, 1926.

North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Lynchburg, Va., date not yet decided.

Elon Summer School of Christian Education, Elon College, N. C. July 26 to August 4, 1926.

Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education, Wadley, Ala., August 8 to 15, 1926.

(For information about any of the above, write to PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson X.—March 21, 1926.

"JESUS DIES AND RISES FROM THE DEAD."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Therefore doth the Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I may take it again."—John 10: 17.

LESSON: 18: 1-20; 23.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 16: 5-11.

TIME: Midnight, Thursday, April 6, Friday, April 7, and Sunday, April 9, A. D. 30.

PLACE: The house of Annas, the Hall of the Sanhedrin, Pilate's judgment hall, Calvary or Golgotha, and the tomb near the Damascus Gate outside the northern wall of Jerusalem.

In a last minute effort to cover the Gospel of John in a single quarter, the "powers that be" in the Sunday School lesson world, have tried to crowd into the space of one lesson, material that would well fill three at the very least.

After very minutely describing the happenings in the upper room at Jerusalem, John tells us that Jesus went to the Garden of Gethsemane, and His disciples with Him. John omits the account of Christ's agony in the garden. Amos R. Wells says: "Doubtless his tender love could not bear to record it. Perhaps also, he was ashamed to record his own drowsiness, a fault which he shared with Peter and James. Nevertheless, from our Saviour's agony . . . came to the world its most striking lesson in prayer. 'Not my will, but thine be done' has ever since been our model of the spirit in which all petitions are to be laid before the throne of God's grace."

Not long were they to remain in the garden alone, for soon came Judas with his traitor's kiss, and Jesus, ever thinking of his own, went to meet the soldiers saying, "I am he (whom ye seek); if therefore ye seek me let these go their way: that the word might be fulfilled which he spake, Of those whom thou gavest me, I lost not one."

Following quickly upon His arrest in the garden came the trials of Jesus. There were four in all. "The ecclesiastical trial began before Annas, who was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, the high priest, at the headquarters of Annas' party. This was illegal—as though the trial of some reformer in New York should be begun in Tammany Hall."—Robert E. Speer.

Finally after the Jews had beaten and abused Jesus, the Roman governor was sought, for he alone could pass a sentence of death. Here we have a story of shirked responsibility. Pilate, finding that Jesus came from Galilee, gladly sent him to Herod for trial, thinking thus to escape responsibility. But God does not allow us so easily to escape, nor did He in the case of Pilate, for the dissolute Herod, though he saw that Christ was innocent, sent him back to Pilate for trial. O, what a glorious opportunity that was—if Pilate could only have seen. He made a weak protest against doing an innocent man to death—he might have been "good" had he not been tempted—"but the man worth while is the man who can smile (and still be a man) when everything goes dead wrong." He yielded to the tempter—the mob.

And here again John's loving heart seems unable to dwell upon Christ's suffering, for he omits all details of the trip to Golgotha, and briefly sums up the story with, "when they had crucified him."

Here begins the printed part of the lesson, in which we are told of the parting of His garments by the soldiers, "that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, They parted my garments among them and upon my vesture did they cast lots." Throughout the entire New Testament this golden thread of evidence runs. "These things therefore the soldiers did."

But if the soldiers were there, there were also some of His friends still faithful, for John was there, and "there were standing by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister (the mother of James and John), Mary the wife of Cleopas (and mother of the other James, known as the less), and Mary Magdalene. "Thank God," says Dr. J. H. Jowett, "for the mothers who cling to us in the hour of our shame, who stick to the sinking ship, who befriend the lost cause, who stand near our cross when everybody else has fled! I am grateful that our Lord, in the hour of His passion, could look upon a little company of faithful women."

And when Jesus looked and saw His mother there methinks He forgot His pain in sorrow for her. Fain would he call her mother, yet he durst not less He bring His shame upon Her. So we hear Him say, "Woman (woman glorified), behold thy son." And then turning to the beloved disciple, He gives him the charge to be a son to her in His stead.

One must read in the other Gospels the other happenings while Jesus was on the cross, for here we find the brief summary: "He said, It is finished, and gave up the ghost."

There is a pretty story here. Two men who had not professed Jesus while he lived, men of wealth and station, went to the Roman governor and begged the body of Jesus. Too late (?) had they repented—no not too late, for Jesus was to live again. These two men came and gave to the body of Christ what his disciples could not give. Nicodemus gave rich spices and Joseph the tomb that he had had made for himself. The last touch is one of tender love.

And now the scene changes. Where was seeming defeat is victory. The third day is come, and the tomb is empty. The Lord is risen. And the record of His first appearance is a proof of its authenticity. No false writer would have had the risen Lord appear first to a woman. It would have been to Peter, to James, or to John, or perhaps to Pilate but never to a woman. "This signal honor to Mary Magdalene, so appropriate in our eyes, must have seemed strange indeed to early Christians. No false historian would have dreamed of inventing it."

Later in the day Christ did appear to Peter and then to the disciples on the way to Emmaus. And on "that day"—the day of days in John's life he appeared to the ten disciples. It was a great day in the history of the disciples—in the history of the world—it was the first Easter Sunday.

Some Questions to Think About.

1. How does John's account of the betrayal, trial and death of Christ compare with the other Gospels.

2. Of what crime was Jesus accused before the Sanhedrin?

3. Of what was He accused before Pilate.

4. What do you think of Pilate?

5. Why did Pilate deliver Jesus to be crucified?

6. What does Paul give as the reason for Jesus' death? (I. Cor. 15: 3.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Sunday, March 21, 1926.

"JESUS AND CROSS-BEARING."

TOPIC: "What Does Jesus Mean by Cross-Bearing."

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES: Matt. 16: 21-28; Jno. 10: 11-16.

In Jesus' day cross-bearing meant death. Jesus bore the cross of death, that we might live. Today cross-bearing means living for others. In Jesus' day it meant "putting one's head in the lion's mouth." In our day it means daring to do right, whatever the cost.

Cross-bearing means the doing of hard things, things we would rather not do. Sometimes it means facing physical death, sometimes, self-crucifixion, death to worldly pleasures. It means thinking of others more than ourselves. It means saving others at our own loss.

Suggestive Thoughts.

To bear the cross first of all calls for self-denial. We cannot indulge ourselves and follow Christ who lived for others.

A bad disposition is not a cross to be borne, but a disease to be got rid of, an enemy to be conquered.

The idea of the cross has almost gone out of modern life. We strive for success and efficiency, not for service and sacrifice.

Jesus endured the cross. There are things we must endure. These are our daily crosses.

To Think About.

What crosses have we to bear?

Why should we bear crosses at all?

What is the reward of cross-bearing.

"They that can take the cross cheerfully on their backs will find it just such a burden as wings to a bird or sails to a ship."—Salter.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We get lots of real joy in climbing from one rung in the ladder to the one above. We made quite an effort this week to get up on the third rung in the ladder, but when we counted up our income for the week we found we still lacked a few dollars of getting there, and while we stopped to catch our breath, hoping and praying that some kind hand would give us a push, we went to the post office to get our mail, and received a letter from our kind friends, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cook Howell, who live down in the "Sunny South" State of Florida, containing a check for $500.00. Oh, what a push it gave us. It pushed us clear above the third rung in the ladder and on toward the fourth. Isn't that fine? It filled our hearts with joy, and we walked much faster going back to our office to get this in our report for this week. It gave us a new encouragement, a greater determination to still do more for the "little orphans" and give them a chance in life. It is a worthy work and should receive the kindest consideration from all our churches, Sunday Schools and friends. Such good friends as our Brother Howell and his kind wife make our burdens lighter and our work more cheerful.

Our beautiful new building will be completed about the first of April, and we will need six thousand dollars to meet bills at that time. Let us pay cash for it. We started this building on faith, and God has blessed us all along the way and we have met every payment up to this date.

The following has been sent in since our last report:

The Women's Missionary Society of Beulah Christian Church, Ala., Three new quilts, one pair pillow cases and one dress.

Mrs. D. I. Stephenson, Route 3, Raleigh, N. C., Two pair of pillow cases, two vests and two towels.

Dr. J. B. Walker and Walter Sellars, Sixty bathing suits for the little children.

Ladies of Liberty Christian Church, one quilt. Mrs. W. A. Newman, Henderson, N. C., One dozen stockings for boys.

Bethlehem (E. Va.) Ladies' Aid Society, Forty-four quarts of canned goods, preserves, pickles and fruit.

Mrs. Julia Holt, Chapel Hill, N. C., Three quilts, four sheets, and nine towels.

Miss Bettie Stephenson, Atlanta, Ga., Clothing.

Mrs. Mattie Davis Bowden, Windsor, Va., One dress, underwear and stockings.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR MARCH 11, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 2,655.26
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem (N. C.)	$ 2.53
First Church, Greensboro	22.58
Pleasant Ridge64
United Christian (Jan.-Feb.)	16.83
	42.58
Western North Carolina Conference:
Shady Grove	$ 1.00
Pleasant Hill	5.32
	6.32
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Christian Light	$ 8.91
Morrisville	2.00
Henderson	5.59
	16.50

Eastern Virginia Conference:
First Church, Richmond	$ 5.10
Waverly, Jan.-Feb.	10.00
Holland	10.00
	25.10
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
North Highlands	$ 1.08
Kite	2.40
	3.48
Alabama Conference:
Pisgah	1.27
Special Offerings:
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Howell, Jacksonville, Fla.	$500.00
E. M. Davenport, support of children	37.50
E. M. Davenport, for clothing	7.40
C. D. Johnston, guardian	60.00
W. W. Brown	15.00
W. A. Rascoe	15.00
Mrs. Bessie Jordan, for rent	25.00
Boone Bible Class, Sanford	15.00
A friend, Durham, N. C.	15.00
	689.90
New Building Fund:
Leaksville Christian Church	$ 10.00
Friendship Class, Leaksville Ch. ..	5.00
Pleasant Ridge Church	43.00
	58.00
Total for week	$ 843.15
Grand total	$ 3,498.41

DEFENDING YOUTH.

The Virginian-Pilot, Daily, Norfolk Va., in its issue of March 1st carried under a double column headline the following extracts from a sermon by Dr. L. E. Smith:

"Hip flask toters" are in the minority among the youth of today and the percentage of drinking college students is very small, declared the Rev. L. E. Smith, minister of the Christian Temple, last night during the course of a sermon on "Save Our Youth," which denied widespread accusations of immorality against the modern young generation.

The trouble with most of the criticism which has been raised against the youth of this country for the past five years is that it usually has consisted of "blanket denunciations," not taking into account the thousands to whom the criticisms do not apply, Dr. Smith said.

"It is true that there are some who are unclean," he said, "but by far the larger number are chaste in their habits and clean in their living. Together with others, I resent wholesale denunciation of youth and desire to vigorously defend the pure and virtuous of our community, country and church."

BLAMES IT ON WETS

Propaganda to the effect that there is universal drinking among the youth of today, Dr. Smith declared, is a trick of the "wets" who have encouraged drinking by asserting that whisky can be had on every corner and inciting contempt of the prohibition law by attacking its constitutionality and enforcement methods.

"And now the wets have become over anxious for the youth of today," he said, "and are turned evangelistic in their pleadings. Their instrument of salvation is a recipe for light wines and beers and their law of redemption is the law legalizing the sale of intoxicating liquors. Who ever heard of intoxicants saving the morals and the characters of anybody? They have been the instruments of hell in spreading sin and shame and want and death."

Dr. Smith declared that young people are not naturally corrupt in their living but are naturally religious and that the expansion of the mind and a yearning after God is evident in youth as at no other age.

The minister concluded his sermon by urging the youth of his church and congregation to form for themselves what he would call, "The Young People's League of Loyalty."

ARTICLES OF LEAGUE

"This league," he said, "should consist of the following Articles of Faith: A belief in God, Christ, the Bible, the Church, our country, ourselves, and that our parents believe in us."

"The Articles of Declaration," he said, "should consist of assertions to uphold the laws of the country and defend its honor, defend ourselves from the onslaughts of this age, refusal to give to any person or organization or legislature the right to defame the youth of this age, and the declaration that we are not skeptics, we are not immoral, we do not drink.

"And then there should be the articles of request," the minister concluded, "to-wit: 'We ask all persons, regardless of class, color, sex or persuasion to consistently refrain from any and all blanket denunciations of the youth of today. We ask all newspapers, magazines and periodicals please to refrain from any further publication of statements derogatory to the youth of this present age.'"

Children are an heritage of the LORD
—Ps. 127:3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6:7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches

Specimen of Type.
16 But Jesus called them unto him,
and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them
not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with
Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished
Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold
titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Moroccotol,
overlapping covers, round
corners, red under gold
edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound
in French Morocco, genuine
Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33:3.

MONDAY

"RADIANT LOVE"

Text: "Love suffereth long and is kind."—I Cor. 13:4-8.

"Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works."—Matt. 5:16.

The most memorable thing said about any one is that "he was thoughtful and kind." Some one has said that Francis Willard was the living embodiment of the 13th chapter of First Corinthians.

What humanity needs is not only love but love that is kind,—radiates in generous service. It is this that sends us rushing to the bedside of the sick and the dying, to care for the needy and distressed, sustains the temper of the home, fires the zeal of Sunday school teachers and sends the missionary to foreign lands. This was Christ's great passion.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray for that love that is life's crowning virtue, and that the loving kindness of our Saviour may lead us into paths of service that will make our lives blessings to others. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE POWER OF HIS PRESENCE.

"My presence shall go with thee."—Exodus 33:14.

One of the severest tasks of history is laid upon Moses. Amid dangers and trials indescribable, he is to undertake to lead a long enslaved and semibarbarous people to their promised home. They will turn to idolatry; they will rebel; they will fall into the vices of the heathen surrounding nations; they will try the soul of their leader to the last extreme. This critical situation Moses is now facing; he is ready to sink under it. His only hope of bearing it is by the Divine Presence going with him. And so he utters the fervent prayer that Jehovah go with him, or that he must abandon the task. And then he receives the gracious answer: "My Presence shall go with thee."

We all need the Divine Presence for guidance. We are as sheep who require a shepherd. We cannot see even what the next step will bring upon us. Difficulties and dangers unseen lurk in our path. We know not when some unlooked for temptation will assail us. "Strong in the Lord, and in the power of His might," is the Christian's only bulwark.

Again the Divine Presence is required to incite us to duty. God has a purpose, a task, a calling for every Christian. And it is only when we realize God in our lives that we are moved to put on the whole armor of duty.

The Divine Presence fills us with a sense of comfort. Who can fear when God is our Help and Shield, our Defence, our Peace, our Calm, our Comfort?

Finally, the Divine Presence fills the Christian with "fulness of joy." As the rising sun decks the world with life and splendor, so when the Christian in his experience, in prayer, in the sanctuary, or in life's battles, realizes that God is looking upon him in love, his soul shines with a radiance and leaps with a joy unspeakable.

—REV. JUNIUS B. REMENSNYDER.

Prayer.—Our Father, rough and stormy is the way we have to travel, lighten our loads, solve our problems, shine along the way, open up the path as we go, and make us a blessing. In His name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING EASIER.

Text: "Because the haven was not commodious."—Acts 27:12-15.

"There is a section of our land that has become famous as a healthful country, being blest with a general climate and endowed with great natural beauty. Even visitors from abroad visit this place and stint not its praise. Yet this happened. On visiting there a few years ago, we found two large vans at the station unloading crated furniture for shipment by rail. The man who was leaving the neighborhood was moving to a place some hundred miles distant. He had been informed that the section to which he was going was most attractive, healthful, beautiful and of genial climate. In response to questions, he said he did not know that the place he was leaving was accredited with these same desirable qualities."

How like us! Restless and anything for a change. Lack of stability; lack of self-control, the captain of Paul's ship was safe where he was, but he thought he would be better off somewhere else and he was shipwrecked.

Prayer.—Our Father, in all matters may we not forget to seek Thy counsel. Forbid that we shall be quick to take the counsel of the soft south winds of the world. So guide us that the many troubles that arise may be averted. Help us to bring all our troubles to Thee in prayer and say, "What a friend we have in Jesus." In Christ's name. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE ECLIPSE OF FAITH.

Text: "I have prayed for Thee that Thy Faith fail not."—Luke 22:31, 32.

We all know what happens when there is an eclipse of the sun and even so small a thing as a cloud may hide it from us.

Humanly speaking Peter had some reason to have his faith darkened! There was the shadow of self, the shadow of blasted hopes, disappointment, failure, the crucified Lord; There are lots of other things that make us wonder if God is real and faithful.

It is related that Diogenes once was asked by a friend, "What can I do for you?" He replied, "Stand out of my light." The forces that are unfriendly to religion do not so easily stand aside but we can avoid the shadows by self-renunciation ("If any man come after me let him deny himself"); and we can surrender self and daily "present our bodies wholly acceptable unto God," and we can pray. Prayer and resolute effort removes many obscuring facts and forces.

Prayer.—Our Father, help us this day to so dedicate our lives to Thee that faith may be unbounded. Give us a Christian conscience that enables us to grow mightily and our earnest prayers may be heard at the throne of grace. Amen.

FRIDAY.

WALKING BY THE LIGHT OF OUR OWN FIRE.

Text: "Walk in the light of your fire and in the sparks that ye have kindled."—Isaiah 50:10-11.

When man and God came together in Christ Jesus, like the positive and negative poles of electricity, it produces a spark. This spark is divine love in man. It regenerates and fires the soul to the noble and the true, goes out and is kind, saves souls and transforms society. Have we that experience? or has our spiritual spark plug gone dead? Sometimes we lose our vital connection and we fall back into spiritual lethargy. The fire has not been kept burning—the incense has not been kept burning there. Let us heed Isaiah's admonition, "Walk in the light of your fire."

Prayer.—Our Father, may our faith grow stronger with the years, and our hearts cling closer to the Christ, whatever temptations may assail us. Amen.

SATURDAY.

"THE BITTER WITH THE SWEET."

Text: "To every man according to his several ability."—Matt. 25:14-18.

The boy and girl who goes to college in preparation for life's work and is constantly choosing that which is easy and pleasant and avoiding that which is hard and distasteful can hardly be said to be acquiring an efficient preparation for life and living. The person who goes through life in the same fashion misses the true values of life. Life is "good soldiers," able to "endure hardship." It is taking up the cross, or there is no crown. If we would reign we must suffer. The athlete trains until he acquires thorough achievement of himself as an athlete, and it is a hard road, but without it he cannot win. Neither can the Christian. Christianity is the "overcoming" life, and to overcome is its challenge.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray that we may learn to make the best use of our abilities with which Thou has endowed us. We know that we shall be accountable and we wish to render a good report. In Christ's name. Amen.

SUNDAY.

DARK THREADS IN THE PATTERN

Text: "Now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face."—I Cor. 13:9-13.

One reason why suffering seems so terrible to us is because we see through a glass darkly, not discerning the purpose that it is to serve. If our suffering shall serve to make us humble and sympathetic, if it shall make us prayerful, if it shall lead us nearer to our God—who will not say that after all, it is a good thing for our souls? A well-known verse says:

"Not till the loom is silent
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Shall God unroll the canvas
And explain the reason why,
The dark threads are as needful
In the weaver's skilful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver
In the pattern He has planned."

Which is but to say that our life is like the pattern of a wonderful design. There are bright threads in the pattern, threads of silver and gold, the threads of our happiness and earthly joy. Then there are dark threads, the threads of sorrow, of pain and suffering. These have their place as well as the others, because, by reason of contrast with the dark, the bright thread stands out with greater beauty. Some day we shall see the pattern in its entirety, and when we do, we shall know that God is wiser and kinder than we, and that even in our suffering, He was but planning that which should work out for a greater good in the end.

—REV. GERHARD E. LENSKE.

Prayer.—(by one of the parents) that we may have faith in God, Who doeth all things well, and Who knows all our needs and will supply them.

Kiddies' Korner
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

To the Children.—

We regret that your Editor's sickness prevents her from being able to perform the duties of her office, and, with you we are sure, wish her a speedy recovery.

MANAGING EDITOR.

A NEW GAME.

Percy Saunders had come up to Perryville to spend a week. He had been there just twelve hours, having come the night before, and he had already been classified and pigeonholed by the Goodrich twins, his country cousins, whom he was visiting. He couldn't climb a tree; he could not swim; he threw a ball like a girl; the delights of using a sling were unknown to him; and—he had to go to bed at half-past seven! As he was a year older than the twins, who were eight, this last was too much.

After breakfast, the three boys went out to the barn, where the twins ran up the ladders and walked the narrow crossbeams thirty feet above the ground as unconcernedly as if they were on the ground.

Percy caught his breath. "Oh, I wish I could do that! I'd love to do all those things, but mamma won't let me because it makes me dizzy."

"Oh, it's easy. See me fly." And Albert took a flying leap of fifteen feet into the hay, followed by his brother.

Then they compared muscles, and found that Percy's were "awful flabby." Their own were like iron. But showing off soon palled on all three of the boys, and they began to wonder what they could play.

"I made up a game the other day," said Percy in the slow, sober tones that had struck the twins as so curious. They chattered as fast and as shrilly as monkeys themselves, in spite of their mother's hourly protestations.

"Did you?" said Albert.

"Out of your own head?" said Herbert.

"Oh, it's easy. I often make 'em up," said Percy, delighted to have made an impression on these athletic boys, who could do so many things which he could not do, although he was so much older.

"Tell us how you play it," said the twins together, eager for some kind of new something.

"Well, it's a kind of Tag. I'll be it, and will start to run after you just the same as I would in tag."

As he spoke, the twins, who had been lying in the barn, jumped to their feet and ran out of the barn.

"Hold on," said Percy. "I must tell you something about it first. As I run after you I holler out a letter of the alphabet, like C, and then if you think of an animal whose name begins with C, and shout it, I can't tag you; but if you don't shout, then I tag you, and you're it, and must run after the others and holler out a letter. It must be some animal; or, if you choose, you can call out flowers. But it must be either animals or countries or fruits; you mustn't mix 'em up in the same game. Now start, and I'll follow."

"I hope he says the same letter again, because I've got a fine animal all ready," said Herbert to Albert.

The boys had not run fifty feet before they found that, whatever else Percy could do, he certainly could run. He was almost upon Herbert before he shouted, and then he yelled "C" as before.

Herbert waited until Percy reached out his hand to tag, and then he shouted "Seal."

"Tag!" said Percy with a burst of laughter.

"That's not fair," said Herbert, "I said 'seal' before you touched me."

"But seal doesn't begin with a C; it begins with an S," said Percy, soberly.

"How about sealing? Isn't that c-e-i-l-i-n-g?" retorted Herbert.

"The plaster one is, but hunting the animal isn't," said Percy with authority.

"He's right, Bert," said Al, who had run up. "You're it."

"Very well," said Bert, "Ready?"

And the two fled before him. He pursued Percy, who ran fleetly out into the road. After a long chase, Percy stubbed his toe, and Herbert gained enough on him to call out "G."

"Gnu," yelled Percy. But with a derisive laugh, Herbert closed on him and tagged him.

"I didn't say N; I said G."

"And I said gnu—g-n-u," said Percy, simply.

"Say, a fellow needn't ever get caught if he spells that way," said Bert angrily. "G-p-o-n-y—pony. That's easy." But Al came up and declared that Percy was right.

They played the game for over an hour. Sometimes even Percy did not think fast enough to avoid being it, and after a while they gave variety to the game by changing to flowers; and there they rather got the best of Percy, who was not familiar with as many varieties as the country boys were. Bert made many laughable mistakes in spelling, and Al gave "phlox" as an F flower.

At last when they grew tired of the sport, they all went up in the hay loft together. The twins helped Percy up the ladder, and they tumbled into the hay.

"You're all right," said Al. "You can run fine, and that's a splendid game."

"And you can spell fine," said Bert.

"I'd rather be able to climb a tree like you fellows than spell any word I ever saw," said Percy, modestly.

"Come on out then, and we'll teach you," said the twins in unison.—St. Nicholas.

"WHY?"

When Peggy and Rose were little girls, they had the "why?" habit. When father or mother told them to do anything, they would invariably say, "Why?" Father often said, "Soldiers never ask why; they obey without asking the reason."

One day mother said, "It's such a nice, sunshiny afternoon, let's take our lunch and go in the woods." Peggy and Rose were so overjoyed that they forgot to ask "Why?"

They made little, tiny, thin sandwiches and rolled them up in waxed paper, tucked these with some fluffy sponge cakes in a basket, and started.

It was only a little way to the woods, and Peggy and Rose hopped and skipped merrily over the road, while father and mother walked behind; and presently they turned into the cool shade of the chestnut grove. Just beyond the woods was a high bank, along which was a railroad track; and Peggy said, "May we go and see if any trains are coming?"

Trains always had a great fascination for the little girls, so father and mother said yes, and they all went farther on and sat on a rock in the field, where they could see the train if it went by.

Presently Rose said, Father, I see something moving on the bank, close by the track. What is it?"

And Peggy said: "Look, there are five, six, seven little animals there!"

Sure enough, there was a big, fat woodchuck and a family of little baby woodchucks, and they were running up and down the bank and up over the tracks.

"Probably some of the cars drop grain, and they are hunting for it," said father.

Suddenly the mother woodchuck sat up alertly and made a queer little noise. Instantly every baby woodchuck flew to her, and together they disappeared into their hole.

"Why," said Peggy and Rose together, "why did they do that?"

Father was silent. Not a sound was heard for several seconds; then away off in the distance an engine screeched, then a rumble was heard, nearer and nearer, and a train rushed over the track. After it was gone, and everything was quiet, father said, "Did either of you hear one of those little woodchucks ask why they must go in when their mother called?"

And do you know that Peggy and Rose never asked "Why?" foolishly again!—Youth's Companion.

"There are battles in life we only can fight,
And victories, too, to win;
And Somebody Else cannot take our place
When we shall have "entered in."
But if Somebody Else has done his work
While we for ease have striven,
'Twill only be fair if the blessed reward
To Somebody Else is given."

—Selected.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MENS PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00

Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

MARRIAGES

GUYNN-MEREDITH.

Mr. George Gynn and Miss Emmaline Meredith were united in marriage on Sunday, February 14th, at the home of the bride, near Elk Spar. The ceremony was performed by the writer. They will make their home at Mt. Airy, N. C. Their many friends wish them much success and happiness.

M. T. SORRELL.

WHY MISSIONS?

When Christianity was first preached, our ancestors were wild men of the woods. They were as degraded as the non-Christian peoples of today. The gospel was carried to them by foreign missionaries, and those who did that risked their lives in the attempt. Many of them sealed their testimony with their blood. We are the fruit of Christian missions. By just so much as we prize our blessings are we bound to give the word of life to others who are in need. One might speak also of the reflex influence of missions. He might show how the church and the soul that takes part in this enterprise is richly blessed of God. He that sows bountifully reaps also bountifully. The Lord honors those that honor him.

We have the positive command of our risen Lord, "Go ye therefore." That command has never been revoked. The duty of making Christ known to all nations rests upon the church till he comes in power and glory to gather his redeemed to himself. This is the one work that he is most anxious to accomplish. And just in so far as we are loyal to him we will share in his gracious purpose and in his efforts, to the end that he may see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied.—World Call.

"Look on all His gifts around thee,
Gifts that make it joy to live;
Best of all, O regal kindness!
He has given thee power to give."

OBITUARIES.

THOMAS J. HASKINS.

The passing of Brother Thomas J. Haskins of Palmer Springs, Va., removed from the community and Mt. Auburn Christian Church a man of extraordinary qualities and high Christian character. Brother Haskins was born June 28, 1839, and died February 14, 1926, at the ripe age of eighty-six years, four months, and sixteen days. He was born and reared in Mecklenburg County, Va., where he spent his entire life in useful service to his fellowmen. He was public spirited, possessing the highest conceptions of the obligations resting upon him as a citizen, husband, father, and a Christian gentleman.

He served four years as a faithful soldier in the Confederate Army, with a record second to none in the service. He battled with faith and courage to overcome the difficulties which surrounded the survivors of that struggle. He fought in the front ranks of those who sought to rehabilitate a devastated country and reestablish its institutions—a leader in the civil and religious life of his community for over a half century.

In early life he identified himself with the Christian Church at Mt. Auburn, probably influenced by his marriage to Miss Helen Read, at the early age of twenty-one, whose father, William H. Read, Esq., was long prominent as a member and officer of Mt. Auburn Christian Church in the years immediately preceding and following the Civil war.

He was educated at Hall's private Academy, then located near the present site of Mt. Auburn Church, a well-known institution in its day. He was a man of fine intelligence, independent habits of thought, and high moral character, a true Christian gentleman, loyal and enthusiastic churchman, loved and respected by all, an untiring Sunday School worker, teacher or superintendent most of his life, and a deacon of his church for over fifty years. He served frequently as delegate to his church conferences and conventions, and rendered valuable service on important committees in these organizations.

To the end of his life, he showed a

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

ed by all, an untiring Sunday School worker, teacher or superintendent most of his life, and a deacon of his church for over fifty years. He served frequently as delegate to his church conferences and conventions, and rendered valuable service on important committees in these organizations. To the end of his life, he showed a keen interest in what was transpiring about him. He greatly desired to see yet more of that which held him firmly—the kind of progress resulting from honest effort both in a material and spiritual sense—yet he realized for some time before the end, that his day was spent, and he was ready to go when the summons came and fell on sleep as quietly as a child in the vigor of health.

ELON

COLLEGE

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Alamance Hall—Administration Building Religious Activities Science Hall

Not long before the end came, his pastor visited him, read several passages from devotional portions of the Scriptures which he enjoyed greatly, and with his hand clasped in that of his pastor, united in prayer and fellowship which was a benediction to both.

The funeral services were conducted from Mt. Auburn Church by Rev. Charles L. Read of the M. E. Church, by special request of several years standing, assisted by Dr. P. H. Fleming and Dr. W. C. Wicker, of the Christian Church. The services were largely attended by friends from far and near, the floral designs were beautiful and abundant, the service was simple and appropriate, and his body was placed beside that of the companion of his youth, in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, beneath a mound covered with flowers, to await the resurrection morn.

W. C. W.

THOMPSON.

Died at her home, Haw River, N. C., Mrs. Frank Thompson, February 27, 1926, aged 69 years. She had been an invalid for seven years and suffered much; but bore her affliction with much patience. During the time I have known her, I never heard her utter one word of complaint. She always seemed hopeful and cheerful.

She was a member of the Haw River Christian Church and delighted in its services when she was able to attend. Her husband, one son and two daughters survive her.

The funeral services were conducted from the church of which she was a member by the writer; and her body was laid to rest in Linwood Cemetery, Graham, N. C. The large attendance at the services and the beautiful floral designs attested the esteem in which she was held.

Sweet be her sleep till Jesus bids her arise on the resurrection morning.

P. H. FLEMING.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING. Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.

Send for Illustrated Catalog THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers American Bible Headquarters 429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN

Pipe Organ Expert

TUNING — REPAIRING REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts

3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va. Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. 32 black illus....$1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations$2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible. French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 E. Broad Street,

Richmond,

Virginia

For Old Folks and the Home EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type THE LORD is my shep he not want. 2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Sea Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

HILL.

A. A. Hill departed this life from his home in Rockingham County, N. C., on Saturday, February 20, 1926, at the age of 76 years, 10 months, and 20 days.

He was born in Virginia, but at the age of 27, he moved to North Carolina and spent 39 years at the present home site.

He was married to Miss Martha J. Smith, February 2, 1876, having passed their golden wedding anniversary a few days before his death. To this union were born eight children, five of whom are living, Mrs. Ida Gillic, and Raleigh, George, Roy and Arthur Hill, all of Ruffin, N. C., except Arthur, who lives at Highland Springs, Va.

Brother Hill was a successful and industrious farmer, a splendid neighbor, and a peaceful citizen. He will be greatly missed.

He professed Christ as his Saviour in middle life and joined Happy Home Christian Church, to which he was devoted and loyal until his earthly pilgrimage ceased. He had been in declining health for several months when he fell asleep in Jesus peacefully.

He leaves to mourn their lot, a devoted wife, one sister, five children, thirteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, besides a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at his home church, conducted by his pastor, in the presence of a large congregation, a token of the high esteem in which Brother Hill was held. Interment was made in the church cemetery. "Peace to his ashes."

May our Lord comfort the sorrowing ones.

L. L. WYRICK.

DUNLAP.

Coruelius Dunlap was born July 17, 1851, and died February 22, 1926, aged seventy-four years, seven months and five days. He was married to Mary Elizabeth Stutts, November 18, 1880, and to this union were born ten children, seven of whom are living. Besides these, he leaves his wife and twelve grandchildren to mourn their loss.

He joined Christian Union Baptist Church in early life. Four years ago the writer had the privilege of taking him in at Needham's Grove Christian Church, where he was a faithful member.

He was laid to rest in the cemetery at his old home to await the call of our Lord. May the good Lord bless his family.

W. J. EDWARDS.

If you are in the Automobile Trimming or Top Building Business, it will pay to send for our new Spring Catalog, which will be off the press about March 15th.

THE G. G. MOSS COMPANY

726 W. Broad St. - - Richmond, Va. Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04103 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0928x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type
27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter:
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

Size, 5 3/8 x 3 1/2 inches. With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.
22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid, 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size
1 3/8 x 2 1/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RI. French Morocco, flexible limp, .85 gold side title on red panel, gold edges.

1511P. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer
2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1926.

NUMBER 11.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

Mrs N T Farmer 11

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

A Typewriter Scandal.—

Echoes of the typewriter scandal precipitated when it was discovered that most of the typewriters used by the British government are American made. Though the Prince of Wales owns six American made portables, both he and the Duke of York felt compelled to speak in praise of British made machines. When asked what so many American made typewriters were used for, Mr. Ronald McNeill, the Financial Secretary of the Treasury, replied blandly, for typewriting. The British people feel that the government should use British made machines, which evidently they do not find so good as American made.

John R. Mott in Japan.—

During a brief stop over in Japan on his way to Australia, John R. Mott, world traveller, world organizer, and Christian statesman, was lavished with ave's and vale's, and crowds clattered to hear him on his few appearances in Japan. He was given the freedom of cities and upon him was bestowed the freedom of the empire. This is what Christianity may mean to the Far East, if it is taken by men like Mott, who typify the best that is in it. We should go softly as missionaries, remembering that the faiths of the east are as precious to them that hold them as are our faiths to us. We should take to them to whom we go, the good, the Christ, not the bad of our churches. It is a task for the church, but one which we should undertake gladly, but humbly, going for in prayer, in money, and in person, in the spirit of our Lord, who came not to destroy but to fulfill, or fill full, that which man already had secured of truth.

Sane Education.—

Prof. Lawrence P. Smith of Wellesley College, gave each of his students in a course in the financial organs of society, twenty-five thousand dollars each to go and speculate or invest in stocks and bonds or corporate securities on any stock exchange, or curb market in the country, from February 21st to May 1st. He gave them twenty-five thousand dollars each, theoretically, and up to-date the profits have been $14,000, while the losses have been $660. Some of them had a great time in the recent upset in Wall Street financial circles. The course seems to be popular, particularly with the parents, who hail it as a sane method of education to teach women what to do with money, and how to take care of it for herself. It is certainly a practically applied one, and one which women all over the country genuinely need. The greatest profits in the course so far go to Helen Levine, New Rochelle, New York. She has made three thousand dollars.

Proposes Books.—

Dr. E. Burns Martin, who has become well known because of his recommendations for the reading of his congregation, has now sent out a list of books for Lenten reading. He is pastor of the Park Avenue Methodist Church, Kenosha, Wis. He would have us read twelve books during the Lenten season, and it seems to us that the books suggested could not but be helpful, so we pass the list along. They cover much ground, and their titles, which follow, are provocative of thought: "The Story of Jesus," compiled from the Gospels by Dr. Thomas W. Graham, of Oberlin College; "The Influence of Christ in Modern Life," by Newell Dwight Hillis; "There They Crucified Him," by John A. Hutton; "The Life and the Way," a collection of sacred poetry; "Pro Vita Monastica," by Henry Dwight Sedgewick; "Why I am a Christian," by Dr. Frank Crane; "The Christian Belief in Immortality," by J. H. Snowden; "The Healing Shadow," by W. A. Quayle; "The Meaning of God," by Harris F. Rall; "Faith and Success," by Basil King; "Seven Days with God," by Abraham Ribhany; and one of the standard lives of Christ. Dr. Martin recommends, "The Days of His Flesh."

Celebrates Eighty-fifth Birthday.—

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday recently. He is still hale and hearty at that age, and though he has been a member of the court for twenty-three years, he is still considered one of its most brilliant and liberal members. He was appointed to the bench by President Roosevelt in 1902, when the president was only forty-four. Justice Holmes had at that time been a member of the Massachusetts Supreme Court for twenty years, and was sixty-one, having been born in 1841. He graduated from Harvard in 1861, and served for four years in the Civil War, being thrice wounded. He then edited the American Law Review, taught law at Harvard University, and wrote a number of works on law. Justice Holmes received much from his ancestors, all of whom were brilliant and talented men and women, contributing much to New England history. His father lived to be eighty-five years and thirty-nine days old, so the venerable justice is not yet so old as his father, but nearly so. He is the oldest member of the Supreme Court, however, none of the others having yet reached seventy. Justice Brandeis is sixty-nine, and Chief Justice Taft is sixty-eight.

A New Sort of Teacher.—

Harvard has recently named the first incumbent in the new chair of the Charles Eliot Chair of Poetry. This chair was established by C. C.

Stillman, Manhattan, and an alumnus of the institution. The gift specified that the teacher should be internationally known, and that the latch string of his study should hang on the outside for students who desire tutoring and informal conversation. Harvard has named George Gilbert Aime Murray, who satisfies the requirements. He is Regius Professor of Greek at Oxford University. This new chair resembles the Creative Parts Fellowship at the University of Michigan, which has been filled successively by Robert Frost, Robert Bridges, and Jesse Lynch Williams. With this announcement of good news from Harvard comes also some bad news. Albert Bushnell Hart, since 1910, Eaton Professor of Government, and a member of the Harvard faculty since 1883, is retiring to devote his age, he is now seventy-one, to writing and editing. Mr. Hart has already done much of this. He has written in almost every field of American history. His best known editorial venture was the American Nation in twenty-eight volumes, though he has written and edited a score of text books and sources on American history. He is planning after June 1st to devote himself to South America, Australia, and Theodore Roosevelt. Harvard will call him Emeritus.

Sabbath and Sunday.—

The Committee of the District of Columbia has been holding hearings on the Lankford bill proposed by the Lord's Day Alliance to make Washington the model Sabbath observance city in America. The bill would close all stores and theatres, baseball parks, and prevent all work not absolutely necessary on Sunday. The bill is being strongly advocated by many, while others are opposing it just as strongly. Heber Herbert Votaw, of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, one time missionary in Burma, appeared against the bill. He pointed out that a careful reading of the bill revealed it as religious legislation, and declared that religious legislation always led to persecution. Congressman John Sosnowski of Michigan, appeared against the bill, pointing out that it was the business of the ministers, not the law, to keep people in church, and if they couldn't do it they ought to resign. The supporters of the bill used the usual arguments in support of Sunday Blue-Laws. Notable among the supporters was Dr. Sam Small, who has spoken in eighty-five per cent of the counties of the country. He does not think the business organizations can be trusted in a matter of morals. He believes that the people have a right to one day of quiet. The advocates of the bill were reported as shocked to find some of the committee smoking when they entered the hearing room. The Lankford bill is exciting much discussion in Washington circles.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. J. G. Truitt, pastor of First Church, Norfolk, is a happy man. He has a right to be. Following immediately his fine work and good offering of Mission Month, he and his church, with Rev. Jas. H. Lightbourne of Holland, Va., leading in the work, put on an evangelistic campaign that resulted in forty-four accessions to his church in one day. His letter on page 14 rings with joy and victory.

Bro. Dennis F. Parsons, who is attending the University of Chicago, writes: "For some cause this has been put off and has been neglected, but to make amends for such I am sending you money order for four dollars to pay for this year and next. I enjoy reading THE SUN very much." We thank Brother Parsons, and hope that he will take time to tell us of the work he is doing in Chicago.

N. T. Baxter of Glenville, Ga., writes that Brother A. R. Flowers is meeting with great success in his work among the Free Will Baptists in South Georgia. He is lecturing on "The Fellowship of All Christians," and was invited to Georgia by Rev. J. A. Blanton, president of the South Georgia Association. During the latter part of February, he delivered a series of lectures at Hazlehurst, Ga., and according to Mr. C. C. Quinn, the church clerk of Satilla F. W. Baptist Church, he was graciously received.

Rev. M. F. Allen of the United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va., sends THE SUN paragraphs from a recent sermon on missions. In reading these paragraphs one naturally hungers for the whole sermon. "Our $25,000.00 Fatted Calf," must have been a very thought-provoking sermon, and such of it as is presented on page 7 makes very interesting reading. Brother Allen hopes and expects, so he writes, the largest offering for missions that his church has yet made for any "out side" effort or endeavor. He is working faithfully to this end.

We are passing along our heartiest congratulations to our good friend Charlie Newton Johnson of Fuquay Springs, N. C., and our very best wishes to our equally good friend, formerly Mrs. S. V. Holt, of Moncure, N. C., now Mrs. Charlie Newton Johnson. The happy event, making the twain one, occurred at Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, March 10th. Mrs. Johnson used to be one of the much esteemed matrons at our Christian Orphanage and is a deeply interested worker in all Christian enterprises. She will prove a valuable asset to our Wake Chapel Church and community. Brother Johnson is the efficient and wide-awake superintendent of our Wake Chapel Sunday School.

Rev. G. O. Lankford, D. D., is working faithfully and effectually during Mission Month on a most constructive program in our Burlington Church. The Mission Secretary was with him at the Sunday School and preaching services on Sunday, 14th. The people were talking missions, and the pastor was thinking and praying and planning in terms of missions. Our Burlington Church is missionary in vision and in giving, and may be counted upon to do its part well. The offering is to be taken the last Sunday of the month, but a missionary program is on every Sunday of the month. It was a joy to be with this interesting and active congregation in their worship last Sunday.

Rev. O. L. Gilliam, pastor of Oxford Methodist Church and secretary of the Suffolk Ministerial Union, in writing of the fifteen day Evangelistic Campaign which just closed in Suffolk, says: "The meeting has been a great blessing to our town. There will be about five hundred accessions to the churches here as a result of it. In addition to this, there were quite a large number who in the meeting consecrated themselves to the service of the Lord." Brother Gilliam adds that he takes pleasure in recommending Dr. Culpepper, the evangelist, and Mr. Robinson, his assistant, as sane and earnest workers for Christ. Dr. Staley writes at length of this meeting in his Suffolk Letter this week. Other cities might well follow the example of Suffolk.

In Washington, very recently appeared the first issue of The United States Daily. Its slogan is "All the facts, no opinions." It has no editorial page. It is supposed to give all the happenings of the Federal Government every day. Among its founders are many of the best known men and women of American life, some of whom are: David Lawrence, the publisher, himself an extraordinary man; Owen D. Young, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Otto H. Kahn, Edward W. Bok, Robert Lansing, Albert Lasker, John W. Weeks, Bernard M. Barouch, James W. Gerard, E. T. Meredith, Julius Rosenwald, C. Bascom Slemp, Mary Roberts Rhinehart, E. M. House, Clarence H. MacKay, John W. Davis.

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., is certainly working along intelligent lines, and we think in a most effectual manner, in his plans for Mission Month. Besides preaching on missions and having a missionary program every Sunday of the month, he is to put on the every member canvass, beginning Sunday, 21st, having divided his entire membership into groups, and having a canvasser for each group so that every individual in the Church may not only have an envelope, but be solicited for an offering. One class of the Sunday School has volunteered to set its goal to give $100.00 the day the offering is taken. Such well-planned efforts always result in good things for the Kingdom. The Mission Secretary enjoyed the service with Brother Harrell and his good people, Sunday evening, March 14th. Durham may be counted upon to do its part in Mission Month.

Miss Harriett E. Cooley, of Havre de Grace, Md., writes that the Pre-Easter Services being held there are meeting with great success, and mentions especially one service. She says: "On this past Wednesday evening, we were delighted to have with us Dr. Roy Helfenstein, of Dover, Del. Dr. Helfenstein gave us a splendid sermon, but before his sermon he gave a very impressive talk to the congregation. It is just two years ago this month, since Dr. Helfenstein came to us by request and told us what the Christian Church stood for. From this our church was established. He congratulated Mr. Sutcliffe and all the parish on what we have accomplished in the past two years. He was much pleased with our church, and his talk was most encouraging. He spoke in such nice terms of our minister, and we like him and feel that Mr. Sutcliffe deserves much credit for having such a splendid church. After the sermon, we had a most impressive consecration meeting by the dim light of the electric Cross. All felt much benefitted by this meeting and hope that Dr. Helfenstein can visit us again." Miss Cooley writes that their much-loved pastor is now giving them a series of sermons from the Revelation of St. John, which are proving most inspiring and helpful.

MISSION MONTH—AN APPEAL TO THE CHURCHES.

This is mission month in our Conference, and I trust that every pastor and member are doing their very best for the Kingdom's interest. All of us pastors need to face the fact that we are key men. The attitude of the pastor will, to a great extent, decide the actions of the members. When pastor and people are agreed as touching the matter of missions they can claim the victory. "If two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven."

Our Conference voted in the last session to make this Mission Month, and to do our part in the Emergency Missionary Offering. This is an Emergency Call, and our part is $55,000. This would be large for one Church, but for thirty-six churches it is not large. Think, pray, plan and expect big things. Let every one decide to do his part regardless of what others may do. When we have raised this emergency fund it will mean more than simply meeting the needs of the present hour. "The liberal soul shall be made fat."

The appeal in this emergency call is for Jesus' sake, or it ought not to be made. Pastors, Superintendents, Teachers, members, old and young, rich and poor my appeal is to each of you to do your part for Jesus' sake. It is the Lord's work and we cannot fail Him. The Lord is depending upon us.

C. H. ROWLAND, President.
N. C. and Va. Conference.

NOTICE.

The Woman's Missionary Conference, composed of the Franklin-Vance-Warren District, belonging to the E. N. C. Conference, will have its "District Rally" at Liberty (Vance) Saturday, April 3rd. A special effort has been made to secure a good report from each Church.

We urge that all churches send a full delegation of interested workers, that will help make the day a success. All pastors serving these churches are especially invited to attend this Rally. A good program has been prepared and several speakers are expected to be present. The outstanding speaker for the day will be Mrs. M. L. Bryant, President of the Eastern Virginia Conference. Then our Mission Secretary, Dr. Atkinson, will be present. He is prepared to fill and thrill one with inspiration for greater service.

Any one desiring intertainment over-night will please write the undersigned. We will be very glad to have you. Let us strive to make Romans 12:1-2, a living reality, then our desire will be to carry out His great commission, "Go ye," Mark 16:15. Pray that our women may work to make this our best year, and that it be spent in sacrificial service for Jesus, Our Saviour.

A big "Welcome" awaits one and all, at Liberty (Vance) April 3rd.

MISS MARGARETE ALSTON,
District President.

MRS. R. J. NEWTON,
Secretary W. M. S. Liberty.

R. I, Henderson, N. C.

Shortly before Columbus discovered America, it is stated that sugar sold for $2.75 a pound in London.

"It is disastrous to any man whose outlook is narrower than the world."

"The happy heart is likely to do a good deal of singing."

COMMUNION WINE.

One of our Church members came to me last night at Church and asked me how I made the wine we used for communion purpose. I told her how I did it. She said, "Well, that is only juice. Now the reason I asked you, some person said he would join the Church, but his objection was that we did not use wine in our communion service." I told her it was the unfermented wine, and it looked thick like blood, more like the emblem we were representing than anything else, and that it was only used as an emblem.

Now if we take common sense and good judgment, I believe we can reason out that Jesus never made fermented wine. On one occasion, at a marriage feast, much wine was used. We see no account of Jesus or the guests getting drunk. They had wine presses in those days, and it was wine when it came from the press. Now Paul said something about taking a little wine for the stomach's sake. If fruit is good for the stomach, then the wine, or juice, as we might call it, is good for the stomach. Is that not reasonable? Read the twenty-third chapter of Proverbs. There are different kinds of wine, and its causes. If you have ever had a drunkard in your home you know the effects of it. It causes all kinds of sorrow, it effects the eyes, it upsets the stomach, and its after effect is very, very bad. Often the man will be so sorry for the things he said, and did while drinking, and weep and beg forgiveness of his dear ones.

What a small thing it is to serve God, considering His wonderful love and care for us. It pays in this life, giving us a good conscience, and we have a Father always to look to, and to guide us through the most difficult problems.

Don't let us pick out those lives in the Bible to go by, who through ignorance of sin made mistakes, but let us take the real true life as an example, the one the Saviour lived for us. And if we should die on the cross as he did for living the right life, will we not have the same Father He had, and be blessed accordingly? It is impossible to dabble in sin and please God.

I write this as God has directed me in love, praying it will not offend any one, but that the weak may become strong, and the wicked may forsake his sins, and humble himself before God.

MRS. SUSIE V. STRICKLER,
R. No. 3, Luray, Va.

MEN AND MILLIONS FOR FEBRUARY.

Mr. J. E. West,
Suffolk, Va.

Dear Sir:

The collections for Men and Millions for the month of February are as follows:

- Alabama Conference: Pleasant Grove, $20.00; New Hope, $10.00.
- North Carolina and Virginia Conference: Union, Va., $20.00; Ingram, $7.00.
- Eastern Virginia Conference: Christian Temple, $10.15; Holy Neck, $58.00; Dendron, $25.00; Newport News $15.00 and $10.00.
- Western North Carolina Conference: Providence Christian Memorial, $22.50; Burlington, $23.82.
- Virginia Valley Conference: St. Peters, $11.00; Newport, $5.00.
- Georgia and Alabama Conference: Vanceville, $2.00.

Total, $239.47.

Yours truly,
CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Executive Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 4. Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 5. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

- 2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
- India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

- 2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
- Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

- 2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

- 2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

- India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.
- 2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

- 60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

- 133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

- 135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

- 135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

- 4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

- 101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10
- 112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

- 112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

- 7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.73

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

- 1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

READING THE BIBLE.

It has been a favorite pastime with many so called scholars, throughout all ages we suppose, to make attacks on the Bible. They have all thus far proven futile. Still many Christians fear for the Bible, and seem to tremble lest it be overthrown or abolished. One reason why so many scholars, and wise (?) ones question the inspiration and authenticity of the Book is because of its great simplicity, its directness, its comprehensiveness in saying what is meant. There have been many accounts of creation, for instance, since Moses wrote the book of Genesis, but none which satisfies and is so strikingly beautiful, convincing, and gripping as the account Moses gave. "In the beginning God created," "God made man in his own image, male and female created He them," "Let there be light, and there was light"—these are declarations upon which Science has never improved, and to which philosophers have never been able to add aught. The Word of God has fought its way ever upward and onward, and abides more strongly entrenched in the hearts and lives of men and women today than ever before in the world's history.

These reflections pass through the mind of one as one reads of the incident of peculiar and significant worth which has just occurred in the Christian world. The department of Evangelism in the Church of the Disciples of Christ, through its Secretary, Mr. Jesse M. Bader, put on a nation wide simultaneous Scripture reading campaign during the month of February. Mr. Bader's slogan to his brethren and people was one that will do for any of us to adopt, "A Chapter a Day Keeps the Tempter Away." The Book used for this reading was the Acts of the Apostles. The book of Acts has 28 chapters, and there were 28 days in February, so the numbers corresponded. Mr. Bader advised that copies of the book of Acts could be furnished from the American Bible Society for one penny each, these penny portions of Scripture being easy to carry, and to read on the train, in the school room, in the office or any where. So numerous were the orders going into the office of the American Bible Society from Mr. Bader's campaign that the entire stock of the Bible Society was soon exhausted, and new orders were placed. The Editor of the Christian Evangelist estimated that no less than 5,000,000 of the members of the Disciples of Christ Church were reading the book of Acts during the month of February.

This is the first time so far as we know that a single Church has put on a Scripture reading crusade of such magnitude. The experiment certainly seems a valuable one, not only to the communion that tried it, but to the Christian world as well. It shows how eager people are for the Scripture, and how readily and gladly their daily reading may be challenged, and directed. The reading of no other book could produce such results, either as to number or enthusiasm, to say nothing of the results on the moral and spiritual life. The Bible is the Word of God. All the science and philosophy that man may learn, or has produced through the centuries, cannot overthrow this as the inspired Word of God. One does not have to argue about the inspiration of the Scriptures. It inspires the one who reads it. Every individual who reads with sincerity and a desire for the truth, daily, a chapter or more from the Word of God will be inspired, and will need no argument to prove anything about inspiration. The Word of God is indeed and in truth the one impregnable rock of literature and of printed truth.

J. O. A.

REPORTS ARE FAVORABLE.

Only in a very few instances have full reports come in from the financial offering of Mission Month. Many Churches have taken the offering, especially in Eastern Virginia, where the period for the same was February; but very few have finished and nearly all are holding their checks in the endeavor to give all members an opportunity of adding their donations. This is wise. In a movement of such significance, and an emergency call of such a pressing nature, no pastor, or church can afford to neglect giving an urgent opportunity to every member of the church, Sunday School, and congregation, to contribute something.

From all sides reports come that many churches are seeking to raise the quota adopted by themselves, a minimum of one dollar per member of church enrollment. Some of the churches we know have reached this minimum, and are seeking to go beyond it, to help out where there are great obstacles and difficulties to overcome, locally. Dr. Staley once said that it never hurt Tom to bring in the wood, and help do chores about the house, provided his brother Bob would do his part of the work. What always hurt Tom was, not the work he did, but the injustice, and inequality falling to his lot because Bob did not help, and do his part. We certainly do not wish the feeling of any of our good brethren wounded in this campaign of righteousness and religion, and none will be wounded or humiliated provided all will do their part. God calls all of us to work in His vineyard. Some may not go out until a late hour in the day, but those who go out late, and do their best when they arrive, receive the same wages from the loving Lord as those who arrive early and do much. The reports thus far are encouraging, and it is believed that a sincere and very honest and earnest attempt is being made throughout the churches. The responsibilities of Mission Month are not merely in taking an offering for missions, but in doing that duty, obligation and privilege of missions to, and in, the churches, Sunday Schools, and societies. This whole Southern Convention of ours will be made to rejoice and will take a new grip on things, and have a new sense of worth in the world, when, and if, we reach the goal in this Emergency Mission Fund offering. Here is hoping and praying our report for March will be encouraging to every man, woman and child in the Christian Church.

J. O. A.

MISSIONS AND FAULT FINDING.

To the end of time, we have no doubt, there will be those to criticise and find fault with Missions and missionary endeavor. No doubt that this is why our Saviour committed the work of Missions to mortal hands and hearts, instead of to immortal souls. He could have committed the work of Missions to the angels. He chose, wilfully and deliberately, to commit the task (of winning the world to Him) to mortal hands. Evidently He knew this would necessitate self-denial, hardship, trial, sacrificial effort. And whenever people are called upon to practice self-denial or to endure hardship or render sacrificial service, they just naturally want to find some excuse for not doing so. So criticism is invented and excuses are made plausible.

It would seem that it is sufficient to know and to realize, that our Saviour gave His command. Therefore, if we are loyal and obedient, we will do our part to carry out that command. For instance, there is the old thread-bare excuse that very little of the fund reaches the missionary field. There never was any truth in this, but many desiring an excuse for disobeying their Lord, even resort to such a flimsy pretext as that. One wonders to what extent those who make such criticisms and find such fault have, up-to-date, obeyed the supreme and final command of their Lord when He said, "Go ye into all the world." Has the individual who finds fault with missionary methods obeyed his Lord, and if so to what extent, in carrying out this divine command? We have never yet heard those who give to Foreign Missions, and who are trying to obey their Lord, raise these objections or make these criticisms.

They are made, of course, by those who do not obey their Lord, want an excuse to ease their consciences and sooth their souls. There stands the command, "Go ye into all the world." If I obey that command to the best of my ability, making my contribution and working through the channels that God has so far provided, my hands are at least clean, even though every man handling the money after it leaves me, defile his own hands with the use of it.

Our Lord knew that the biggest work ever undertaken by the effort and energy of man would entail hardship and provoke criticism. That is why He commanded it. He desired that we should be obedient even in the face of criticism, fault finding, and excuses of all kinds. And those who obey their Lord's command, get the blessing and the benefit, even if there be those round about who excuse themselves with flimsy pretexts that only satisfy them, but never bring results.

Those who do their best to prove loyal to their Lord and obey His command, are building up the Kingdom of our Lord in the world, and only through their efforts will the Kingdom be built. The critics and fault-finders make the task harder; but the work of the Lord is ever and always through self-denial, hardship and self-sacrifice.

J. O. A.

WHOSOEVER AND WHATSOEVER.

These two words connote the universal scope of the Gospel, both in its invitation and in its power.

For those outside the Kingdom, the invitation is, "Come"; no matter who you are nor where you are, "Come." That is the Gospel's invitation. The most inclusive personal word in our language is this universal pronoun. In the Kingdom there is room for the scholar and for the ignorant man, for the moral man and for the sinner of deepest degradation, for Jew and Gentile, for white and black, for young and old, for all. "Whosoever," that is it.

And for those who have accepted Christ there is also a universal, "whatsoever." No matter what we need, all we have to do is to ask God for it "in the name" of Christ. There is no limitation to His grant of power to us as Christians. All things are to be His and ours. The world is to be won to Jesus and to His program of life. We are privileged to help in the grand achievement.

Blessed "whosoever"—that means me.

Blessed "whatsoever"—that challenges me.

W. A. H.

THREE-FOURTHS OF ONE PERCENT.

Three billion dollars is the yearly loss in the United States due to fraud, burglary, and embezzlement. To this should be added ten billion dollars as follows: War, Post, and Military and Naval Establishments, $4,000,000,000; Disease, due to sin, $1,500,000,000; Poverty, $500,000,000; Loss of Life and Energy, $2,500,000,000; Alcoholism, $800,000,000; Prostitution, $400,000,000; Narcotic Drugs, $300,000,000.

This makes a total cost of $13,000,000,000 for paying our bills as failures to produce out of the boys and girls of our communities, the raw materials of life, men and women of Christian character. It is a frightful bill. We could add each year to our accumulated national savings not $8,000,000,000 as is now the case, but $21,000,000,000, if we did not have this tremendous drain.

Is the explanation of our losses in part at least not to be found in the fact that we give not a tithe of our income to the Lord's work, but a paltry three-fourths of one per cent? We rob God as a nation to our peril.

W. A. H.

The great people of the earth today are the people who pray—people who take time to pray. They have not time. It must be taken from something else. That something else is important, very important and pressing, but still less important and pressing than prayer. There are people who put prayer first and group the other items of life's schedule around and after prayer. These are the people today who are doing the most for God in winning souls, in solving problems, in awakening churches, in supplying both men and money for mission posts, in keeping fresh and strong the lives far off in sacrificial service on the foreign field, where the thickest fight is going on, and in keeping the old earth sweet a little while longer.—S. D. Gordon.

"Certainly there is no other way in which one may do as great a thing as by winning another to Christ for 'he who converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall cover a multitude of sins.' That is the way to help take the poison out of the fevered veins of the world."

Only eleven survivors of the Mexican War, all of them more than 95 years old, are on the rolls of the United States Pension Bureau.

AN HISTORY OF EARLY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION IN ALAMANCE COUNTY.

(By Capt. W. H. Turuntine, Burlington, N. C., read before the N. C. Christian Conference at Greensboro, N. C.)

To appreciate this sketch a description of the country and people would help the reader to more fully understand the situation. This old schoolhouse was located in Alamance County, near the town of Graham, at the place where Providence Christian Church is now located on the backbone between the two streams, Haw River (Indian name, Saxapahaw), and Big Alamance. In the forks of these two streams is the finest land to be found anywhere, abundant springs and brooks of the freshest waters. Our first settlers always took up the best land first, consequently you found the best citizens where the best land was, and they always built near a spring as such a thing as digging a well was not thought of. A section noted for its industry, intelligent enterprise and liberty-loving people.

When these people first settled they first built a house to live in. The next was a schoolhouse which was used as a general purpose house school, preaching, singing school, debating society and district political meetings.

It is a regrettable fact that the southern gentleman or planter, as he was called at that time, was represented by many writers of that day as a man who stalked about in his top boots, spending his time in drinking rum and brandy, chasing foxes and racing horses. This was a condition that existed in the mind of the men who wrote it, but not in fact. To discount a note or plead the statute of limitation was a thing that one of them would not think of, and there are many instances where a father died owing debts and the sons worked and earned the money and paid them; and as for their religion, it was of a practical God-fearing kind, they lived and practiced it. I have before me the will of one of those old fellows that is a fair indication of what he really thought and believed, which I take the liberty to append:

"In 1787, in the name of God, Amen. I, Nicholas Holt, of Orange County, North Carolina, a planter, being very sick, but of sound mind and memory, thanks be given to God, calling into mind the mortality of my body and knowing it is appointed for all men to die, do make and appoint this my last will and testament.

"First of all, I give and recommend my soul to the hands of Almighty God that gave it and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried in a decent Christian burial at the descretion of my executors, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same again by the Almighty power of God."

I have another by Sarah Harden, the first clause makes provision for her son John's education. It set apart a fund and if this is not sufficient, then there is another fund to be used, so it is very apparent that these people thought of other things besides frolicking.

It has been charged that the Christian Church was opposed to education. It may at one time have thought a preacher should wait for the Lord to put in his mind what he should say, but the time has come if a preacher waits for that he will not say much or have many hearers. The Friends or Quakers, tried that for many years, but found it did not work. That would naturally follow for the country was thinly settled, few roads and the towns far apart. When you left Hillsboro the next town you came to was Salisbury. Guilford and Chatham had not been taken from Orange, so a preacher had to do a lot of traveling to meet his flock and the idea of a non-educated ministry was not confined to any denomination. A preacher in this day and time without an education would cut about the same figure as the old time man with his reap-hook, winnowing cloth and flail, besides the modern thirty-horse reaper and thresher combined. Space does not allow mention of all the first settlers of this section, but I will mention a few.

Adam Trollinger was born near the Rhine in Germany in 1681, settled on Haw River in 1745, died in 1776. He had a son, Jacob Henry, who was born in Germany in 1718, he came to Haw River in 1745 and died in 1798. Jacob Henry had a son named Henry. He was born in 1762. When the revolution broke out his father sent him to the war and sent a negro with him, as he said, to help him fight. He served there three years and drew a pension as long as he lived. Henry had a son named John born in 1798. He had a sister, Elizabeth, who married John Roney, who had a daughter, Artelia, who married Washington Duke, who had two sons, J. B. and B. N. Duke, who have given more to education and charity than any two men that ever lived in North Carolina. When the North Carolina Railroad was being built there was no one who would undertake the heavy grading at Raleigh, so Ben and W. H. Trollinger took the job and did it alright. John Trollinger built the big railroad bank at Haw River. John Trollinger was a man who did not hesitate to help his fellow man when he found him in need. One of his neighbors got into trouble in Virginia near the Ohio line, and he rode horseback up there and got him out of the trouble. He never hesitated to help when he could. He had a tent at Providence Church and was always on hand at the Camp Meeting. If a farmer got behind with his work either by sickness or misfortune, the neighbors would go and help him. A Christian spirit was always present with them.

The old log school house, with the brick floor, was the seed planted many years ago that grew and weathered the storms of many years and faced many scenes of adversity, but it has finally become a living reality in the magnified and well equipped, Elon College. Now when this schoolhouse was built, we have no records to show, we can arrive at a date by the age of men who were teachers there. There was a literary society there. They had a valuable library with a lot of very valuable books in a house built for that purpose. They had their debating society and undoubtedly enjoyed many pleasant hours at their meetings and from the many years I have heard of the occurrences there, they doubtless had a good time. Daniel C. Turrentine taught school there about 1792, James Mulholland about the same time. Able, John and Benjamine Rainey were teachers there; Joe Thomas about 1810; Jonathan Freeland about 1812; then followed Jerry Whidbee, Jonathan Worth, later Governor of North Carolina; W. F. Bason, C. F. Faucette, John Faucette, John Mebane, Leonard Prather, John Steel Turrentine about 1824. John Steel Turrentine was father of Capt. J. A. Turrentine, prominent for many years in the political and religious life of Alamance County; Samuel Turrentine and William Holt Turrentine, Sr., a little later. William Holt Turrentine was father of Dr. S. B. Turrentine, for many years presiding elder in the Western North Carolina M. E. Conference and president now of Greensboro College for Women. Rev. John Holt first began teaching there in 1842. He taught there several terms, also he taught at his home in Chatham in 1851; he and Gaston Al-

(Continued on page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Rev. Dr. Burke Culpepper and Mr. J. U. Robinson of Memphis, Tennessee, regular Methodist Evangelists, conducted union services in the Christian Church, from Sunday, February 27th, to March 7th. The Methodist, Presbyterian, and Christian Churches united in the invitation extended to Dr. Culpepper, and in the preparatory services, and co-operated heartily throughout the entire period of services. The Baptist Church had no pastor at the time, but the members of that congregation attended in large numbers and took marked interest in the meeting throughout. On Sundays meetings were held forenoon for men only, and for all afternoon and night. On week days extra meetings were held in stores in the forenoon and in the church afternoon and night. Mr. Robinson conducted the singing at all the services and used "Golden Bells" as the song book. Extra meetings were held in the jail and for the negroes on Sunday.

The weather was good, and the attendance was more than the church would hold. It might be safe to say that the congregations averaged a thousand. Many were turned away for lack of room, though the Christian Church has the largest seating capacity of any auditorium in Suffolk. Dr. Culpepper spoke twice in the High School auditorium, once to the schools and young people in the church, and once in the school auditorium at Cypress Chapel. He spoke from three to five times a day.

The Doctor is Biblically sound, humanly appealing, spiritually earnest, and personally attractive. Concrete experiences illustrate his interpretations and applications of truth, and he is rapid and vivid from start to finish. His mind, body, and soul, unite in a successful effort to bring the evangelistic message home to the heart. A vein of humor runs through his strong arguments, and bodily action drives the sermon into the audience with dramatic power. In all his strenuous efforts, he was ably sustained by singer Robinson and the good helpers by the choirs from the Suffolk churches; the group of ushers and the committees and secretaries, who co-operated industriously and religiously for the salvation of souls.

Dr. Culpepper stressed three things: the transfer of church membership from other places to the church where the member lives; the re-consecration of those who had backslid in their lives; and the surrender to Christ in repentance for sin to those who had never made a public profession of faith in Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour. There were enough lady secretaries to take the name, the head under which they came, and their church preference. These cards were turned over to Mr. Robinson, who also acts as secretary, and at the close of the meeting, the ministers received envelopes containing the names for transfers, consecrations, and new converts. The minister of each church then has in his possession all names for his church. Up to that time the ministers and lay-workers are not concerned about what church candidates will join. By this method of counting up results, jealousy, proselyting, or any sectarian efforts, are entirely eliminated. No outsider could have told one denomination from another in these meetings. The churches maintained the "unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace" throughout the fifteen days of crowded congregations and town talk.

Of the three classes already named, about 500 names were distributed to the pastors, and next Sunday and a few Sundays after, will show the result in additions to the membership of the Suffolk churches; and the months and years to follow will test the increased activity of the members in real Christian work. W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The Burlington Federation, an organization that grew out of the Ham-Ramsey Evangelistic Campaign in Burlington in April and May of last year, has been holding a series of meetings at the college this week. Mr. W. E. Sharpe, who was chairman of the Alamance County Campaign Committee that made possible the Alamance Hall for Elon College, is president of this Federation and has had active charge of the meeting. He has been assisted by several others, notably, Mr. O. F. Crowson, editor of the Burlington News, and Mr. C. A. Walker.

However, I am not writing particularly at this time about the meeting which these saintly men have held in our midst. I am thinking of a remark which Mr. Sharpe made in his second talk to the effect that the most important asset in our life is the boys and girls of our homes and of our hearts. I think Mr. Sharpe is entirely right in the position he takes and the history of the world is with him in assuming that the best thing this generation can do is to provide young men and women of character to carry on the work of our active days when we have passed and they take our places.

In this connection I am reminded of a recent statement by Roger Babson, in which he says: "This is an age in which fathers give their children too much pocket money and too little personal attention, too many automobiles and not enough of their own companionship." Mr. Babson goes on in this account to speak of the most enduring of all forms of investment, the development of young life. He further states: "Inheriting money from a father has often proved disastrous; inheriting character, never."

These two splendid business men have the very same idea in regard to the most important thing for parents, the character development of their children. The average successful business man occupies his time and energy in amassing a fortune which he expects to hand on to his children. One such friend not so long ago told me that he had made up his mind to leave each one of his children, and he had several of them, $100,000 when he should pass away. He also stated that he had placed every child he has, whether married or unmarried, on his payroll so that each month each child is to receive a salary like any other employee in this splendid business man's organization.

You cannot but admire the spirit of love and sacrifice which such an attitude necessitates on the part of this father and business man. It is fortunate too that this business man takes interest in things religious, and that he not only sends his children to the Lord's house on the Sabbath, but goes with them and in every way inculcates in them the noble principles of Christian living. You will agree with me that he is a rare man.

The average man, however, gives most of his time and attention to the making of money, and leaves the rearing of his children to his wife, to hired servants, to institutions, or to their companions. Roger Babson says in the article to which I have referred that it is far better for a young man to begin life with a good character and $2500 than to begin it with a $100,000 and his father a stranger and alien to him so far as having taught him life principles is concerned. He recommends that men who have reached the point where they can live in comfort, should cease to accumulate and should give themselves to the high calling of developing their boys and girls into men and women of the highest Christian type.

My friend, Mr. Sharpe, has the same view, for in that talk to which I have already made reference, he gave several instances of men who had attained high distinction in the financial world and who came down to old age satisfied that they had chosen their life interests according to improper standards of value. True happiness is certainly not to be found in the possession of wealth, nor in its lack, but in a life lived according to the program which a certain Teacher outlined for twelve men some nineteen hundred years ago, and which He commissioned them to teach to all men everywhere, until the whole world should become a brotherhood founded on a fatherhood in God. W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

It is with great pleasure that we announce to the friends of Bethlehem College that we received the following letter from Hon. and Mrs. C. C. Howell of Jacksonville, Florida:

"Mrs. Howell (nee Clara Moffitt, a sister of Dr. E. L. Moffitt) and I are Alumni of Elon College; and until we came here and found no Christian Church (of our denomination) were members of the Christian Church. We have always watched with cordial interest the progress of Bethlehem, and finding with real pleasure that we have at this time something left over to apply to 'outside' causes that we are interested in, we are asking you to accept the enclosed check and apply it to such of the needs in your work there as you may find most desirable."

The check enclosed was for $250.00, and we certainly accept it with thankful hearts and appreciation as a token of their deep interest in Bethlehem College. It is not likely that it could have come at a more needy time. May this institution be always conducted in such a manner as to command their deepest interest and best endeavors.

Elon College can look upon such broad-minded, big-hearted, consecrated characters as a part of her work, with pardonable pride as the years come and go. This is another example of the statement that "Elon College turns out Christians," and the fruits of the slogan, "Christian Character, First and Always at Elon."

In this letter and gift there is implied the question of stewardship. It is apparent that when Christians see their possibilities and responsibilities, it will follow that all their substance will come under the rule of the principles of the larger stewardship. If a man is a faithful steward of his personality, his talents, and his calling, he will be a faithful steward of his possessions: for personality and possessions cannot be divorced. Stewardship of substance includes all that is involved in the acquisition, administration and consecration in giving. Tithing is the gateway to the splendid avenue of an enlarged and consecrated Christian giving. A true stewardship of substance reaches its highest expression in sacrificial giving, a giving that catches its inspiration at the cross of Christ, where infinite love gave its utmost for us. It is the service that costs most that has the highest value.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Howell made it possible to have something left over for "outside causes" because they adhere to the rule of the larger stewardship. They have been successful because they understand the true meaning of life, as it takes

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., *Field Secretary.*GOD, GIVE US MORE MEN WITH A PASSION.

By JAMES E. ELLIS

To anyone reading our Church press at this time there are some things which force him to think and perhaps wonder. For instance, one is impressed by the enthusiasm, the heat, and the passion being expended by proponents and opponents of a certain great question before our Church. Bishops, preachers, and laymen are writing, speaking, preaching, working, and praying about this matter. One can see that certain leaders of the Church are ready to do everything in their power without thought of sparing themselves in order that the outcome may be what they verily believe to be the best for our beloved Church and for the extension of the kingdom of God upon earth. I am sure that there are men who are ready to give their very lives to see the result for which they are working accomplished.

Men reach their highest or lowest levels when they are in the grip of a great passion, a passion for the accomplishment of some great end. The life of Luther or of Wesley will furnish an excellent illustration of this, though we may find other examples nearer home and nearer our own time.

But just at this time and with a knowledge of the situation in our Church as it relates to the missionary work we wonder why there are not more men in our Church fully in the grip of a passion to see our Church awake to a realization of the seriousness of this situation. That is a masterful plea which our College of Bishops sent out to the Church. Some of the statements of this paper contain enough thought to send a whole Church to its knees first for pardon and then for consecration to the task.

In 1919 a passion gripped the hearts of many men and women and sent them first to their knees and then from their knees to the battle, and what a result! Missionary work was given a new impetus, and, thank God, our Church (as well as other Protestant Churches) can never go back to where we were in 1917 and 1918. But, alas! 'tis only too true that in most cases the passion has died down. Perhaps it is smoldering in the heart as yet, but other things have claimed first rank, and no longer are we praying or working as we did in 1919. There are preachers who have not preached a real missionary sermon since the Centenary campaign closed. There are Churches where during at least four years after the campaign ended the congregation has heard no missionary messages delivered to them.

At times during the past few months we have wondered if it might not do us good if we had a few men to openly oppose, by voice and pen, our missionary program and openly advocate that we recall all of our missionaries and stop our missionary work, limiting our endeavors to the United States. Were this done seriously, it would arouse the Church to defend and advocate the extension of the work. We wonder if we could not arouse as much heat and fire as has been aroused during the past few months by another great issue. If we could really understand that there was real danger, surely we would arise as a Church and meet the situation as it ought to be met.

We are not writing this to reflect upon anyone or to make any charges against anyone.

preacher or layman. Nothing is further from our mind than that. We are merely penning these lines to say that on the battle fronts, where one can see unlimited opportunities, where one can see the fields white unto the harvest, where one can see that our great Church has an open field for service and has an open way to the hearts of men and women, and where one can see that there is no limit except that set by a lack of men and money, there cannot but be a group of your representatives who are praying that God may raise up more men and women with a passion for seeing the Church meet this crisis and also make adequate provision for the extension of our missionary work. Yea, one would pray that bishops, presiding elders, pastors, and laymen may get so in the grip of this passion that they may spend more time on their knees and more of their energy for the purpose of arousing our Church to meet its opportunity. Perhaps we need more men who are willing to spend the very last ounce of their energy if need be for this cause.

There are men at home and on our so-called foreign fields who are so in the grip of this passion for seeing the world evangelized that they are not sparing themselves in the least. They are in the grip of the passion for seeing a world redeemed by Christ. Again we would say; "God give us more men with a passion."—Christian Advocate.

A PASTOR TO HIS PEOPLE.

(There has come into the Editor's hands a copy of a letter, Rev. F. C. Lester, pastor, wrote to each of his members of the Franklin Church March 2nd. It is certainly worth reading by others than those to whom it was addressed, so we print.—Ed. SUN.)

Members and Friends of Franklin Christian Church, Franklin, Va., and Many Other Places.

DEAR FRIENDS:

Last night more than forty people met in our church to pray for missions. It was a great meeting. But the meetings each night this week will be equally as great. And the best of all will be next Sunday morning when we come together to make a Love offering that comes right out of sacrifice for the cause we love. A special program is in the making for the occasion, and we hope that every member and friend who can possibly do so will be present to enjoy with us this great day.

Those who have attended the services the past month know, and the others want to know, that the Mission Board of the South Convention is asking for a special offering of $25,000.00, the major portion of which will go to the work in Porto Rico and Japan. That means about a dollar for every member of the church. Some will not feel able to give so much, and others will want to do more.

I have just discovered that if Franklin Church should make a gift of two dollars per member, we could thereby support the whole foreign missionary enterprise of the Christian Church for three days. Wouldn't that be fine? According to the budget for this year, it costs $167.52 a day. That supports about thirty-five workers, runs Sunday schools and kindergartens, keeps students in school, assists in running schools and printing papers and pamphlets.

and does a dozen other things "over there," as well as pay all the expenses of the educational work of the Secretary and Board at home. Yes, that small amount builds churches, chapels, and mission homes, and furnishes all the Christian preachers and teachers for a million seventy thousand people. And our church for the sum of two dollars each could do all this for three full days! Can we? Will we? Next Sunday will answer.

Boys and girls, let's get busy this week and try for two dollars. Why not save all that is given you this week, and try to add to it? I am proud of the way some of you have been working, and hope that every one of you will have a splendid offering next Sunday.

Of course the women are coming with a good offering. They always do. And the men—suppose we deny ourselves of that pet pleasure this week, add a little to the amount saved and give that Sunday morning. Or you may want to do more. We will all be happy, and the Gospel will be preached for us.

Here is some literature telling of the work, and an envelope for your offering. Don't give a bit more than you think the Lord would like for you to give. Doubtless He will sit by the treasury Sunday and see who "casts in more than they all, for it is her (or his) whole living."

Most sincerely yours,

F. C. LESTER, Pastor.

A LETTER TO HIS FELLOW-PASTORS.

(Dr. C. H. Rowland, who is President of the North Carolina and Virginia Conference, sends us the following as a copy of a letter he sent of his own accord to all hosts in his Conference. It is worth reading.—J. O. A.)

DEAR BROTHER PASTOR:

The Emergency Call for Missions is on us, and this is mission month. During this month we are expected to answer this call. I am sure you are doing all within your power to get ready for this great forward movement. It is a critical time with our Mission Work, and we cannot consider this call lightly. It is up to us as pastors to lead in this critical time. The Church is looking to us, and the Lord is depending upon us to lead His people into better things.

We need to get our people to set a goal, and then they will feel that it is their own business. Aimless aiming accomplishes nothing, but a definite plan means success. Tell the people what you expect them to do, and plead with them to act. For Jesus' sake let us do this work. Make your goal not less than one dollar for each member. Let us pray, preach and plan and the people will help us to put this great movement across.

Your friend and brother,

C. H. ROWLAND,

President N. C. and Va. Conference.

"More light on Dr. James Empringham's plans! He wants beer and wines to save our young men from drunkenness! Fine! Give young men the right to break into a grocery store to save them from blowing the safe in the bank! Give them the right to make counterfeit nickels and dimes so they will be saved from making counterfeit eagles and hundred-dollar bills! Give them the right to shoot babies so as to save them from assassinating the President and members of his cabinet! Give us beer and wine! Let us subject our young men to the bite of a rattlesnake so they will be saved from the deadly coils of a boa constrictor."—Religious Telescope.

EARLY EDUCATION IN ALAMANCE.

(Continued from page 5.)

bright were teaching at the old log schoolhouse and when the Graham Institute was completed about 1852, he and Albert Anderson took charge of that school. Dr. Martin Hanks, of Chatham County, used to preach at the old log schoolhouse and at the Grog Springs during the time Benjamine Rainey was teaching and preaching there. Hanks Chapel was named for him. (This was about the last school at the old log house.) John R. Holt and Albert Anderson conducted this school for a few years and gave it up, then Job Swift and Edwin W. Beal taught a few terms and gave it up, then Archable Ray took charge, then the school was reorganized and W. H. Dougherty was made principal. Joe King was professor of Greek with Dougherty's two daughters, Bell and Mary, as assistants. After running a while it was incorporated, Graham College with W. H. Dougherty president 1859. W. H. Dougherty, Joe King and Bell and Mary Dougherty conducted the school a while and gave it up, then a man named Bray took charge, then Baem conducted it until the War Between the States broke out and he gave it up and went to the war. The College was sold at auction to satisfy a claim due B. F. Roney and bought by Henry J. B. Clark. He afterward sold it to Mrs. Mary Harden and she sold it to W. S. Long. We have not been able to find any record of the original promoters of the Graham Institute. It was started about 1848 or 1849, but it seems that the Trustees got no title to the land until 1859.

The Legislature of 1859 appointed Alfred Isley, John Faucette, P. R. Harden, Bennett Hazzell and Willis Sellars incorporators of Graham College and appointed W. H. Dougherty, Thomas J. Fowler, Peter R. Harden, Bennett Hazzell, John Faucette, William H. Faucette, Alfred Moring, William B. Wellons, Thomas J. Kilby, Robert H. Holland, Edward C. Riddick, Meredith H. Watkins, Jubilee Smith, James Minnis and John Walker, Trustees of Graham College. I find that on the 27th day of May, 1859, that John Harden deeded to the above Trustees of Graham College the land on which the building stood consisting of five and seven-tenths of an acre, for the sum of One Hundred and Forty-two Dollars and Fifty Cents ($142.50). These Trustees were to have continuance for fifty years and were to be known by the style and name of the Trustees of Graham College. We know of a fact that John Harden did not dispose of the property from 1849 to 1859. The Trustees of Graham Institute may have had an agreement with John Harden, but we can find no record of it. We know that John Harden had been the owner of the property for many years, so it would seem there was a general agreement between them.

It seems that the question would naturally occur where does the Christian Church come in? Where does their right, title or interest lay?

We find in 1858 that W. H. Boykin was appointed by the stockholders of Graham Institute to sell stock, and we find in 1853 that the conference of Mt. Pleasant, T. J. Fowler was appointed to raise funds for the relief of Graham Institute. In 1850 the conference appointed E. F. Watson, John Trollinger, C. F. Faucette, Pleasant A. Holt and Alfred Apple, Trustees of Graham Institute. This is proof that the Church looked upon the school as being one of their enterprises, but evidently that the Church had no legal right or title for when the suit was entered into by B. F. Roney, a brother of Mrs. Washington Duke, to recover his $120.00 it was laid against the Trustees of Graham College and not the Trustees appointed by the Church. There came to be doubt therefore, that the Graham Institute and Graham College were really and truly enterprises upheld and fostered by the Christian Church.

We find further that there were a good many men from Eastern Virginia, Chatham and Randolph Counties attending these schools, the most of them were identified with the Christian Church. James W. Wellons and Richard Costen were ministerial students, both of them afterwards were ministers in the Church and Uncle Wellons is the pet of the Church.

We will now go back to the log schoolhouse, one of the most prominent men there was Benjamine Rainey. He was born in 1753, and we find that he was associated with James O'Kelly until a late date, but he was a teacher and a lay preacher, what they called in those days an exhorter for sometime before he was ordained and he held religious services at the log schoolhouse many years before his ordination. In 1776, when "man found man," he was prominent in exhorting his fellowman, and pointing out to him that his duty to him was something more than to make a beast of burden of him, on the other hand to impress the fact upon him that he was his brother's keeper. William Able and Benjamine Rainey, all identified with the society at the log schoolhouse and their descendants have up to this day stuck to the Christian Church. We can trace the Rainey family up to the present day and find that they were strong friends to education and the Christian Church. Benjamine Rainey's wife was Rachael Sullinger, daughter of Thomas Sullinger, one of the daughters of Benjamine Rainey married Thomas Sellars, who was the father of Dr. B. A. Sellars, who was the father of D. E. Sellars, W. R. Sellars, C. V. Sellars and T. L. Sellars, all of whom were prominent in the Christian Church and strong supporters of Elon College.

By going back to the time for the log schoolhouse, a large number of parties that were educated around that old place who are prominent today, the Holts, the Hardens, the Longs, the Trollingers, the Tarpleys, the Fonvilles, the Turrentines, the Gants, the Albrights, the Stockards, the Whitsetts and Freeland's, you find their graves in Province Cemetery and they all went to school at the old log schoolhouse. We find that most of the teachers were identified with the Christian Church. Joe Thomas was a prominent man in the Church, he was raised near the schoolhouse and taught there. Rev. John R. Holt began teaching there in 1842, and continued to teach there up to the finishing of Graham Institute when he moved his school there.

These old men were building better than they knew, for the seed planted there one hundred and fifty years ago has borne fruit in our Elon College.

We have referred to the Rainey family. Another of Benjamine Rainey's daughters married Michael Holt, and he had two sons, William and Edwin. Dr. William, of Lexington, North Carolina, was a very prominent man in his section, while Edwin was the pioneer cotton manufacturer in the southern states. Both went to school at the old log schoolhouse to John Steel Turrentine about 1822. Edwin M. Holt had a son, Gov. T. M. Holt, governor of North Carolina, and W. E. Holt, who died in Charlotte some time ago, made a fortune as a manufacturer, both went to the log schoolhouse to Rev. John R. Holt about 1842. William Holt (Capt. Billy), married Elizabeth Rainey, she had one son and died. Then William, with his son, moved to Missouri, where he was appointed Indian Agent. The town of Holt, Missouri, was named after him. He went to school at the old log schoolhouse about 1818. Jacob Long, the father of W. S. Long, D. A. Long, Judge Ben Long, Dr. Geo. Long and Jacob Long, and his brother, William, attended school at the old log schoolhouse about 1812 to 1820 under the teaching of Joe Thomas, Jonathan S—SUN 7890$...7890 Freeland, and John Steel Turrentine. Ephraim Cook was born about 1748 and married another of those Sullinger girls. He had two children. A son (Sullinger), died without issue and Elizabeth, who married Mason Tarpley. He had several children and a brother, William, who never married. Dr. W. C. Tarpley, son of Mason, married Tempey Holt, whose daughter married F. W. Fonville, the grandfather of D. R. Fonville, Trustee of Elon College. Mason Tarpley was always very prominent in the work at the old log schoolhouse as was his son, Dr. W. C. Tarpley, and very prominent in the Christian Church.

Austin Whitsett, another prominent man in the society, is the grandfather of W. T. Whitsett, writer and poet. Michael Holt had a son named William, who married Sarah Steel, daughter of Col. John Steel, of revolutionary fame. He had six sons and two daughters. Four of these sons, Dr. Michael, Dr. Sam, Dr. Pleasant Allen and John, were university men, all of these sons went to school at the old log schoolhouse, his son, John, was a very prominent preacher of his day. William Holt was one of the builders of the first Church at Providence and always took an active part in the work of the school. Michael Holt had a daughter, Sarah, who married John Harden. They had a son, John, his father died when he was young and his mother in her will set a fund for the education of John with the provision that if it was not sufficient, then there was another asset to be used. Now this was Col. John Harden, the father of P. R. Harden, D. C. Harden and J. W. Harden, and the grandfather of Junius H. Harden. Col. John Harden sold the land to the Trustees of Graham College, all of these men went to the old log schoolhouse and were all identified with the work of the Church. Michael Holt had a son named Isaac, and he had a daughter named Mariah, who married George Foust. They had two sons, Isaac and Thomas C. Thomas C. had two sons, one holds the position of Superintendent of schools in Guilford County, the other is President of the North Carolina Normal College at Greensboro. These Foust brothers went to Graham College under the Longs.

The writer went to the last school that Rev. John R. Holt taught at the old log schoolhouse and remembers W. H. Trollinger, Jackson Pinnix (Dr. Pinnix), Thomas C. Foust, Eugene Greeson (Superintendent Insane Asylum at Raleigh), John Royster, Stephen Glass, W. V. Montgomery and Flack Lambert, all men of character and prominence.

The writer has probably taxed the patience of the reader by referring to so many who were connected with this school, but the object was to impress upon the mind of the reader that this school was not what they called the old field school which was often presided over by men of very little education. On the other hand, they were competent and well qualified to teach. John R. Holt was a fine Greek scholar and the most of them were educated men.

The men clustered around this place were alive to the necessity of an education, and they never relaxed their efforts to keep the importance of a man knowing something. They believed an educated man made a better husband,

(Continued on page 11.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

COMING EVENTS.

Valley of Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Leaksville Church, near Luray, Va., May 12, 13, 14, 1926.

Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Rock Stand Church, May 29, 30, 1926.

Georgia and Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, North Highlands Church, Columbus, Ga., May 29, 30, 1926.

Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, place unsettled, on July 13, 14, 15, 1926.

Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Ramseur, N. C., Date not decided upon.

Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Waverly, Va., June 20, 21, 1926.

North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Lynchburg, Va., date not yet decided.

Elon Summer School of Christian Education, Elon College, N. C. July 26 to August 4, 1926.

Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education, Wadley, Ala., August 8 to 15, 1926.

(For information about any of the above, write to PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson XIII.—March 28, 1926.

"THE GOSPEL OF JOHN."

(Review.)

GOLDEN TEXT: "These things are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing, ye may have life in His name."—John 20: 31.

DEVOTIONAL READING: John 17: 1-8.

John had two ideas and purposes in writing his gospel or "good news." They are expressed in the Golden Text. "These things are written," said he, "that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ." From of old the Jews had been looking for the Christ or the Messiah. To them he was to be one who should restore the glory of Israel, and although the views of the Messiah were many, in all too many cases he was to accomplish his purpose through force. It was Isaiah alone who announced the startling doctrine that the Messiah was to be the Suffering Servant. It is not surprising, then, that the Jews found it difficult to accept Jesus as the Christ or the Messiah, God's Anointed. As a matter of fact John the Baptist, himself the fore-runner of Jesus, at one time doubted whether He be the Christ, so foreign to the Jewish conceptions of the Christ's work, was Jesus' method. John, the author of the gospel, therefore writes to prove that Jesus was the Messiah or the Christ.

But it was not enough merely to believe that Jesus was the Christ. One could give, and still can give, intellectual assent to this doctrine, and still be far from the Kingdom. John wanted men, not only to believe in a formal way, but to believe in such a vital way that believing, they should have life in His name. Like every true preacher, he wanted men to do more than merely accept the message; he wanted men to accept Christ Himself. His gospel, therefore, is written from such material, and presented in such a way, that he who reads may not only believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, but that believing, he might have life in His name.

It seems to me that any sincere and open-minded man who reads this gospel of John will find that it fulfills its purpose. As the blacksmith said as he read the gospel, "There's a man in that book." That man is Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and that man has the unique power to give life, rich, full, more abundant life. This review lesson ought to deepen the impressions already given during the quarter.

A few suggestive teaching truths will be given under each lesson heading.

I.—The Son of God Becomes Man.

1. God can come into human life.
2. Because Jesus Christ became man, He can enter sympathetically into the experiences of men.
3. He became what we are in order to make us become what He is.
4. Jesus Christ is God's Word to us.

II.—Five Men Believe on Jesus.

1. Jesus satisfies the deepest needs of human life.
2. The law of the Christian religion is: Find Christ yourself; then find others for Christ.
3. Jesus Christ sees the unrealized possibilities of our lives.

III.—Jesus and Nicodemus.

1. A person must be born of the spirit to enter the Kingdom of God.
2. God loves men supremely.
3. Faith in Jesus Christ saves from sin and gives eternal life.

IV.—Jesus and the Samaritan Woman.

1. The spirit of Jesus Christ over-leaps racial prejudices.
2. The Master's touch makes commonplace experiences immortal.
3. Worship is not a matter of place but of spirit.

V.—Jesus Feeds Five Thousand.

1. It is not the Master's will that any go hungry.
2. Common and small things are multiplied an hundred fold when given to the Master.
3. There is a divine order and a divine economy.

VI.—Jesus Heals and Saves a Blind Man.

1. Jesus Christ helps men to see things straight and right.
2. The Master is always responsive to human need.
3. He who follows the light he has will have more light.
4. It is only as we co-operate with the divine that we can be cured.

VII.—Jesus the Good Shepherd.

1. The relations between Christ and man are personal and intimate.
2. Jesus Christ has led the way and goes before; we are to follow.

VIII.—Jesus Raises Lazarus.

1. The Master is near all those who have been bereaved.

2. The divine shares our human woes and sorrows.
3. Jesus Christ is victor over death.
4. Faith in Jesus Christ lifts a man above the power of death.

IX.—Jesus Teaches Respect for Law.

1. A man's citizenship in heaven does not release him from the duties of his citizenship on earth.
2. The claims of God have precedence over all other claims.

X.—Jesus Washes His Disciples' Feet.

1. Humility is a mark of greatness.
2. We are most like Christ when we become servants of our fellowmen.
3. Jesus Christ is our Great Example.

XI.—Last Words of Jesus with His Disciples.

1. Faith in God is an antidote against trouble.
2. Heaven is a place where we shall have fellowship with God and Christ and the saints.
3. Jesus Christ revealed God.
4. If a man loves God, he will keep God's commandments.

XII.—Jesus Dies and Rises from the Dead.

1. The Cross of Christ shows the awfulness of sin, the love of God, the power of love.
2. The spot where divine love meets human sin is always marked by a cross.
3. Jesus Christ is victorious over death.
4. Our faith is not in a dear hero but in a Living Saviour.
5. Because Christ lives, those who believe in Him shall live also.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

March 28, 1926.

"THE NEAR EAST."

(Missionary Meeting.)

TOPIC: "The Gospel in the Near East."

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Isaiah 54: 11-17.

The Missionary Meeting each month should be made as interesting as possible. It is the only place in some of our churches where definite missionary instruction is given the young people. Some denominational missionary news should be included. It will make the atmosphere better to select the songs and prayers which have a missionary emphasis.

Worship Program.

(If your church uses "Worship and Song," use the missionary service—"Thy Kingdom Come," on page 74, in the back of the book.)

1. Stand for silent prayer. Close with leader reading the prayer given below:

"Almighty God, Father of all mankind, send out Thy light and Thy truth into the darkened corners of the earth. Stir in our hearts anew, from day to day, sympathy for Thy needy ones, loyalty for our Master, and a high purpose in Thy work; that laborers may be sent forth into the harvest and Thy Kingdom may come throughout the world. Amen."

2. Song—"We've a Story to Tell to the Nations."

3. Scripture Lesson: Isa. 54: 11-17. Psa. 67.

4. Missionary Story.

5. Song—"O Zion, Haste."

Leader's Talk.

If a map showing the Near East territory can be secured for the meeting, have some one make a map talk in the beginning, pointing out the most important places. If not, have some one look them up before the meeting and explain.

(Continued on page 16.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The "flu" has paid us a visit during the month of March. We have had quite a number of cases, but none serious. At this writing we also have one case of mumps. For two years we have had no sickness and no epidemic of any kind. We are hoping to get off light this time, but when something like mumps, measles, whooping cough, or "flu" breaks out, it seems that all who have not had it get it and it generally makes a clean sweep.

Several years ago, when we had the "flu," every child in the institution except one had it. As the winter weather is near the end and spring days with their warm balmy sunshine are near at hand, when the children can play out of doors, and can breathe the fresh air and bathe in the sunlight, we hope all diseases will vanish and we will escape any serious trouble.

The most beautiful snow of the entire winter fell on March 11, the pine and cedar and all the trees were clothed in a heavy coat of fluffy snow, and I think the forest was the most beautiful sight I ever saw. No artist could paint a picture so beautiful.

Don't forget our special Easter Offering in the month of April. Make it something to be proud of. Don't forget we need money on our new building. We want to pay for it when it is finished, in the next few weeks. If you have not made a contribution, are you willing for this splendid building to be built to care for the fatherless children in your denomination and you have no part in it. When you read this letter, if you have not already donated, won't you mail us a check for the building fund?

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR MARCH 18, 1926.

Amount brought forward$ 3,498.41

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Pleasant Grove, Jan. and Feb. ...$ 3.80
Durham, Main Street 5.00
Elon College, Feb.-Mar. 5.00
Union (Va.) 6.00
Third Avenue, Danville 5.64
25.44

Western North Carolina Conference:

Pleasant Ridge$ 1.70
Ramseur 5.69
Pleasant Hill 2.48
Liberty 1.15
Ether 7.67
Providence Christian Memorial ... 1.98
20.67

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Catawba Springs$ 4.00
Turner's Chapel 1.60
Wake Chapel 5.34
10.94

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Union (Southampton)$ 2.40
Centerville, Jan. and Feb. 2.00
Mt. Carmel 4.44
Class 6, Mt. Carmel S. S.90
Norfolk First 5.15
Rosemont, Feb. and Mar. 12.00
Oakland 4.00
30.89

Georgia and Alabama Conference:

Rosehill$ 1.02
Richland 1.00
2.02

Alabama Conference:
New Hope	1.35
Valley of Virginia Conference:
Linville	$ 3.97
Leaksville	1.97
Winchester	7.06
Dry Run	3.97
Special Offerings:
Birthday Offering from Reidsville Church	15.10
Northern Sunday Schools:
Pleasant Hill, Ohio	6.98
New Building Fund:
B. B. Johnson	$ 25.00
Wake Chapel Church:
Boyd Johnson	5.00
K. B. Johnson	20.00
Harold Johnson	5.00
W. J. and C. A. Balleantue ...	10.00
S. W. Johnson	5.00
C. D. Powell	5.00
O. R. Senter	5.00
Mrs. Mollie E. Liskey	3.00
	83.00
Total for week	$ 213.36
Grand total	$ 3,711.77

EARLY EDUCATION IN ALAMANCE.

(Continued from page 7.)

a better father, a better citizen, a better neighbor and a better Christian and they did not stop to argue the point whether a man descended from a monkey or a bear. They were men of too much good practical knowledge to fool their time away with modernism and such non-essential subjects. They would rather a boy could do an example in the double rule of three than to know about a truck load of monkeys or bears.

So after many years, or in 1849, when they found that the old log house was not suitable, they decided to build Graham Institute. The money for this work was raised by the men of the Christian Churches of Virginia and North Carolina, and they kept the fire burning notwithstanding the fact that it grew very low. Still they kept adding fuel until September 1, 1863, when it went apparently out and it was sold at the Sheriff's sale to H. J. B. Clark for $4,200.00 (there is no record to show what went with this money), and hope had apparently fled. But not so, the friends moved to Elon College and there kindled the fire anew and these men stood by with their mite of fuel and the fire is burning again and we hope not to go out again, for this same breed of people will throw in the fuel if they see it about to go out and we believe to judge the future by the past it will not go out, especially so long as we have such a fine body of stokers as we now have.

About the year 1826, Daniel W. Kerr taught a school north of Raleigh about where Wake Forest is now, later a school near Mt. Zion, in Orange County, then he moved his school to Pittsboro, N. C. William Bingham taught a school for young men near Oak, in Orange County, N. C. We have no date for this school, but it was considered a most excellent school. At the time Graham Institute started Alexander Wilson had a school for young men at Burnt Shop, now Melville. Dr. E. F. Watson conducted a school for young ladies at his home near Stoney Creek Church, which closed at the beginning of the War Between the States, after running about fifteen years. The place was called Watsonville. Legend says Albert Anderson taught a school where old Trinity College afterward was located in Randolph County, but we know nothing of the particulars. The above is about the history of Education in the vicinity of the old log schoolhouse.

In 1731, orders were sent from England that no one should be allowed to teach school in North Carolina unless he had a certificate from the Bishop of London, giving his authority to teach. It seems it was the policy to discourage education as much as possible. The Lords Proprietors and the King made it their business to keep the common man in ignorance as much as possible. By examining our ancient history you will find there was nothing done for the up-building or betterment of the common man until after American Independence. Herman Husband, John Pugh, Solomon Apple and Ludwig Clapp fired their guns at Alamance. It was heard around the world and it said man was no longer a slave; and when Eli Whitney finished his fiddle and began to make his cotton gin and James Watts fired up his steam engine, they blazed out a trail that led man from slavery and oppression to a life of ease and comfort and since that time there has been more done for the betterment of humanity than had been done the whole time since creation. Bishop Asbury, when he came over from England, told his people what they had to do was "work, pray and obey." That was when James O'Kelly kicked out of harness.

Children are an heritage of the LORD
—Ps. 127: 3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5¾ x 3¾ inches

Specimen of Type.
16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Moroccotol, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound in French Morocco, genuine Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY

THE BLESSEDNESS OF AFFLICTION

Lesson: Psalm 94:12-16, 19, 22. (Read the lesson verses consecutively as given.)

Text: "Blessed is the man whom thou O Lord chastenest . . . that thou mayest give him rest from days of adversity, until the pit be digged for the wicked."—V. 13, 13.

God has spoken to us in this world and hath dealt with us in a way that we may have peace, in the world of tribulation (Jno. 16:33), and as a good father chastens his child for his good so the Lord chastens his children (Deut. 8:5), and we often cannot see the good of our lot any more than a chastened child may see the good of his, but we parents know the happiness that comes of proper corrections. It is this happiness the Lord brings us if we despise not His chastening. (Job. 5:17.)

Many is the one who has gone astray because there was no affliction to offer a barrier (Ps. 119:67). But when we endure with hardness as a good soldier and come out of affliction with faith steadfast, we come forth like gold out of the furnace. Paul said, "Tribulation worketh steadfastness, and steadfastness, and approvedness hope (Rom. 5:3, 4), and that if we suffer with Him we shall be glorified with Him (Rom. 8:11).

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, we yield our tires and our souls to Thee, pleading for faith and strength to endure for Christ's sake and receive the crown which Thou hast promised to those that love Thee. In all Thy ways and our experiences teach us Thy statutes. So shalt Thou deliver us from all our trials and temptations. Amen.

TUESDAY.

DIVINE ARCHITECTURE.

"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."—John 14:1-3 and II Cor. 5:1-5.

Our Lord, in the fourteenth chapter of John, and Paul in the fifteenth chapter of I Corinthians, are obviously both referring to the soul of man as the occupant and to God as the Divine Architect. We are building a house, but we do not have to die to have the foundation laid and the construction begun. Here and now, in this present life, we must open our hearts to the Divine Architect and welcome Christ as the Builder. Said Paul, "By the grace of God, I am what I am,"—by the power of the Indwelling Architect, the old, ugly structure of Paul's "house" was demolished, and a new house was built upon the foundation of a strong, positive personality. So may it be in our own experience. We are all building some kind of a spiritual habitation. Whether it shall be a mansion or hovel, a thing of beauty or an architectural monstrosity, depends upon the Builder.

Today—now—are we building that "mansion" in which we shall live eternally. To whom have we let the "contract"—to evil or good, Satan or Christ? "Nothing," said Michael Angelo, "makes the soul so pure, so religious, as the endeavor to create something perfect." Said William James, "The man who has daily inured himself to habits of concentrated attention and self-denial, will stand like a tower when everything rocks about him, and when his softer fellow-mortals are winnowed like chaff in the blast."

REV. ALBERT R. FISKE.

Prayer (by one of the parents) that we who have faith in God, and who rejoice in His love and care, may be the means of leading others into the same experience, bringing them to the knowledge of Jesus Christ.

WEDNESDAY.

OUR DAY OF OPPORTUNITY.

"Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."—II Cor. 6:1, 2.

Today is our day of opportunity and salvation. Why? Because life is short, and so far as any of us know, this may be the only time when we shall ever have this opportunity.

Life is short. The average length of human life in the United States a few years ago was said to be thirty-nine years. Medical skill and efficiency have increased that span, but still it is not long. If you subtract from it the time required for growth, as well as that required for education, you can readily see that the average man, at least, if ever he intends to do any great and good work in this world, had better start that work promptly and push it energetically.

Who was it that said: "When a man has a good work to do let him not delay its execution calculating too nicely all the risks and costs. Before the flood it was perhaps well and good for a man to consult all his friends for advice, and then to wait a hundred years before acting upon it. Today, a man cannot do that sort of thing. Today, a man who must first see all his cousins and get their opinions before he acts, is going to wake up and find that death is already upon him and that there is no time left to work or to put to account all the wisdom that he has been so careful to gather"? Whoever it was, he was but saying in another way what the Scripture says, "Now is the accepted time! Now is the day of salvation!"

REV. GERHARD E. LENSKI.

Lord's Prayer—all the Circle joining.

THURSDAY.

FELLOWSHIP WITH CHRIST.

Lesson: "I know whom I have believed."—II Tim. 1:12-14.

More than thirty years had passed after Christ was crucified before Paul wrote these words. If we remember this fact, the unusual nature of the first three words becomes apparent. Paul speaks as if Christ were still alive, as if it were possible to meet Him and talk with Him. We too believe in the actual resurrection of Christ, and in His ascension and His continuing ministry. We believe that in fellowship with Christ we experience what the mystic, John Tauler, declared to be "the pure presence of God in our souls." George Fox, the Quaker, was equally certain that, in contact with Christ, he had come into living friendship with God. These testimonies are merely other ways of expressing what Paul himself declared when he said, "I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

Not every rich man knows he is rich. Not every wise man knows he is wise. Not every strong man knows he is strong. But every soul who commits his keeping to Christ, has within him a power which in its nature is eternal. He recognizes himself as in league with unlimited forces. Death may dim his torch, but cannot extinguish it. Nothing can separate him from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus.

Our faith is firm, our confidence secure, in a Christ whose power cannot be measured by finite standards nor limited by human conditions.

REV. C. C. ALBERTSON.

Lord's Prayer.—Closing (by one of the parents) that we may have abundant faith in Jesus Christ as our Redeemer and Guide, having the assurance of His fellowship.

FRIDAY.

GOOD FOR EVIL.

Lesson: "Overcome evil with good."—Romans 12:17-21.

In Jefferson County, Kentucky, on the edge of a strip of oak and chestnut timber, is a small building, about fourteen feet square, made of hewn logs and stone. Built in frontier days, the tiny structure is now roofless. On all four sides the stones and logs are peculiarly pecked, evidence of many a fusillade of bullets and arrows rained upon the house by hostile Indian hands. This tiny structure was a spring-house in days of peace, and a fortress when the Indians became aggressive. In each of the four walls, close up under the eaves, are port-holes through which the defenders gave back bullet for bullet.

There has been preserved a well authenticated scrap of history which narrates how a young woman among those early frontier people obeyed literally the injunction of Scripture. Picking wild berries one day, she came upon two skulking Indians in a strip of woodland. She was quickly overpowered. Vengeful because of past defeats, the two Indians decided to retaliate by scalping the girl alive. Fortunately help came before they could execute

Years afterwards, missionaries working their purpose, among the Kentucky Indians were successful in winning a few to lead civilized lives, and one of the two who had surprised and captured the girl was among the number. The girl had become a grown woman with a family, and it was she who taught this Indian to read!

REV. JOHN HARRISON ALEEN.

Lord's Prayer—all the Circle joining.

SATURDAY.

VOICES THAT CALL US.

Lesson: "Therefore let no man glory in men, for all things are yours . . . and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's."—I Corinthians 3:16-23.

The Church is the Bride of Christ, and Christ is constantly wooing us to greater love, loyalty and service. As He calls and the faithful answer, is it our prayer, yours and mine, "Cause me also to hear it?" Do we desire to hear above all other voices, the voice of our Lord who calls us to discipleship?

(Continued on page 13.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Dear Miss Moffitt,

I am a little girl eight years old. I am in the third grade. My teacher's name is Miss Gladys Whitfield, and I like her very much. We take THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and I enjoy it. I go to Bethlehem Christian Sunday School.

I very much regret to hear you have been sick. I am sick myself and can't go to school today. We have some very pretty little chicks and I like to help mother feed them.

With best wishes to all the Kiddies, lovingly,
MARY EFFA SAVAGE.

Suffolk, Va., R. 2.

THE WISHING GIRL.

She wished she were a princess—
Or, better still, a queen;
She wished to see strange countries
That she had never seen.
She saw the wealthy ladies
And wished to take their place;
She wished for their fine jewels,
Their satins and their lace.
She wished that all her duties
Were changed to play and fun,
Or that, by merely wishing
Her duties could be done.
But strange, with all her wishing
She never wished to be
The helpful and unselfish child
That others wished to see.
—Morning Star.

WHAT HAPPENED TO LOUIEDEAN.

By LINDA STEVENS ALMOND.

It was Louiedean's practice hour, but Louiedean liked to put off doing things. She thought before she sat down to the piano she would like to run next door and see the new puppies.

"I'll only stay a teeny-weeny minute," she said to her mother.

"Well, hurry back, Louiedean," said her mother. "It's much nicer to practice early in the morning."

"All right, mother," answered Louiedean, as she skipped away.

After a very long time had gone by she returned to find her two brothers preparing to go out to the edge of town to pick blackberries.

"Come along with us, Louiedean," invited Ted. "Going to have lots of fun," said George.

"Of course I'll go," answered Louiedean. "Wait a minute till I get my little basket."

But mother appeared at that moment on her way to market. "You haven't practiced," she said. "If you had come right home after seeing the new puppies, your practicing would have been over, and you could have gone with the boys."

Louiedean's happy countenance clouded. "Oh, but I want to go, mother," she said. "I will practice this afternoon; really and truly I will."

"I don't approve of your always putting off things until another time," replied her mother.

"Oh, but, mother, just this once," begged Louiedean.

"Suit yourself," said her mother.

"Then I'll go with the boys," she cried, hopping up and down.

"I am sorry, Louiedean," said mother, and there was really a grieved look on her face as she went down the path. "Good-by, children," she called at the gate. "Don't stay away too long."

"All right, mother," they chorused.

"Run get your basket," said Ted.

"Mad be quick," ordered George.

But Louiedean hesitated. Suddenly, to the astonishment of her brothers, she said: "I don't think I'll go. Oh, I want to, but I'm afraid I'd keep thinking how sorry mother looked about my always putting off things. I'll stay home and practice."

"Suit yourself," said George, just as mother had said; but Ted felt sorry for Louiedean and promised to take along her little basket and fill it with the choicest blackberries he could find.

So Louiedean went inside to practice her music lesson. At the end of the half-hour she rose, found her favorite book and seated herself beside the window to read. She was so interested in her story that she did not hear a sound until voices on the porch outside came to her ears.

"Oh, I am so sorry, Miss Lovell," she heard her mother say. Miss Lovell was Louiedean's music teacher. "Louiedean has gone blackberrying with her brothers, and there is no telling where they are by this time. She will be disappointed."

Louiedean wrinkled her brow. Then she jumped up and ran out to the porch. "Here I am, mother. I didn't go with the boys. I practiced."

"Louiedean!" cried mother.

"Oh," said Miss Lovell, "I am so glad you didn't go blackberrying, for I want you to ride out to my sister's farm with me. She has a little daughter about your age, and we'll stay for dinner, and you'll have lots of fun. There will be haystacks to slide down, and you'll ride on old Dixie, and probably go wading in the branch, and hunt eggs, and dear knows what all!"

Louiedean clapped her hands. "Oh, Miss Lovell," she cried, "I never heard anything so lovely!" And while she was swiftly tidying up and putting on a fresh dress she said: "I'm so glad I didn't put off practicing. I shall try so hard after this not to put off things."—Youth's Companion.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from page 12.)

There are many voices that call us, probably more today which call insistently than ever before. Youth is often bewildered. There are many professions calling him, almost countless lines of vocation. There is the call of Money-making, of Ease, of Pleasure, of Power. Calls innumerable, Voices eloquent and insistent. But there is one Call, one Voice, more important than them all. That is the Voice, the Call, of Jesus Christ. "Cause me also to hear it."

REV. ALBERT R. FISKE.

Prayer (by one of the parents) that we too may be followers of Jesus, and that we may be faithful and true in our efforts to win others by the influence of our Christian example.

SUNDAY.

CHRISTIANITY'S BEST ARGUMENT.

Lesson: "Ye are the epistle of Christ."—II Corinthians, 3:2-6.

One of the best known and most lovable men that the land of India has produced is the poet Rabindranath Tagore. In one of his writings Tagore addresses a message to the Christian churches of the world. In substance he says: "You Christians desire to evangelize India. Do not send men to preach Christianity to my people. Send men to live Christianity in India, men who shall show forth in their lives how patient, merciful and good Jesus Christ was. Do this and my people shall understand and, like doves hovering about the window from which they are fed, they shall come to the door of the church seeking entrance."

Christianity's best argument is not a sermon delivered by a master preacher. It is a simple Christian life, lived courageously before the gaze of all. Let a man live Christ—let a man love Christ—let him be "the epistle of Christ" showing in his conduct the goodness that is written on his soul.

Not only will the people of India understand, but so also will the most hardened and heartless in America, and, if they are not converted, they will at least be compelled to say, "Well, Christianity is good and I am without excuse for not having adopted it."

REV. GERHARD E. LENSKI.

Prayer (by one of the parents).

The annual license fee for an auto in Japan is more than $200, and gasoline sells for 40 cents a gallon.

English is the leading speech of the world, being spoken by 180,000,000. German is second, with 120,000,000.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
MENS' PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

OUR FATTED CALF.

(Continued from page 7.)

Like the Elder Brother, they fail to see why the Church should kill the fatted calf for the wicked heathen, and they talk about how bad we need the money at home. They lack a sympathetic understanding both of God and the Prodigal at the gate.

I wonder if the Prodigal Son knew what was taking place between his father and the Elder Brother? What sorrow it must have caused him if he did. And today, the Elder Brothers in the Church are the greatest handicap to the work of the Church. By their selfish spirits they are delaying the return of the Prodigal. The Prodigal knows they will not welcome him.

Ah, if the whole Southern Convention could but catch the spirit of the Master who yearns for those "to the uttermost parts of the earth," then there would be no difficulty in raising the necessary $25,000.00. I believe we will raise it, but if we had a sympathetic understanding of the Father in regard to His Prodigals, an additional sum would be forthcoming for the expansion and growth of the work.

Yet, how many will cast in their offering as only another contribution to "a drive for more money." They have no heart-felt interest in the undertaking. They talk about "these many years" of service in a way that makes it plain that it has not been a heart-service. They murmur because the Church spends so much money.

What a blessed thing it would be if each individual member could see the hands stretched out to us from those who sit in darkness; if each one could hear the Macedonian cry, "Come an help us"; if each one realized the responsibility our Lord placed upon us when He said, "Go ye." Then, I am sure, there would be a willing sacrifice, and a united prayer, and when the news of success reached us, there would be rejoicing in each individual heart. That mighty rejoicing would shake up Old Zion back here at home, and the windows of Heaven would be opened, and such a blessing would be poured out upon us that there would not be room enough to receive it.

M. F. ALLEN.

Lynchburg, Va.

FIRST CHURCH NORFOLK.

There is rejoicing in the First Christian Church of Norfolk, Virginia. This rejoicing is the result of real co-operation and consecration on the part of the members of the church. This morning (Monday) the members of the First Christian Church are going to their tasks thankful to the heavenly Father that their church is getting together and achieving. And they are looking forward to next Sunday with expectant and happy faces. Their church is becoming for an ever increasing number, a very vital part of their life and daily living. In their work for Him, they have found Christ their Saviour.

For instance they set about to have a full house to hear Dr. Atkinson on the last Sunday morning in February. They packed the house. They came back to hear Rev. James H. Lightbourne that evening. On simply passing the offering plates for missions in the morning, they received two hundred and seventy-one dollars, and there are other gifts, for our Mission Fund offering, which will bring our total to much above that. There is rejoicing.

Yesterday morning the rain was pouring, and the wind blowing, and yet we had a full house, and received twenty-four adults and six children into the church; in the evening, the clouds were still flying and the air was damp and bitter, but there were received into the church an additional twelve adults and two children, making a total for the day of forty-four. Besides this, we presented to the other churches of our section of the city seven applicants for membership, making a grand total of fifty-one yesterday. There are fifteen others to come into the church next Sunday, or just as soon as they are able to get to church. There is a great deal of sick-

It is good citizenship to be prosperous

THE South has just completed a prosperous year. Many Southern enterprises have contributed to and shared in this prosperity.

Prosperity is a give and take proposition. It is prosperous industry that gives consumers better products; that gives regular employment and pays good wages; that distributes earnings in dividends which add to the purchasing power of the consuming public; that pays a large share of the cost of carrying on the business of our local, state and national governments.

Prosperous industry, prosperous agriculture and prosperous railroads make for good citizenship.

Southern Railway System also has just completed a successful year both in service rendered and in earnings. The public comment, in the press and elsewhere, on this record has sounded a unanimous judgment that it is to the best interest of the South that the Southern's prosperity continue.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

The South's prosperity has helped education. About $125,000,000 for the construction of new school buildings has been spent in the last 12 years in the states served by the Southern Railway System.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

ELON

COLLEGE

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

ness in our city just at this time. One week, six talks by Brother Lightbourne, and sixty-six accessions to the church, is a brief summary of our Kingdom Enlistment Week. There is genuine rejoicing in the church.

But that summary is too brief to tell about the preparatory efforts of pastor and people; too brief to tell about the thirty faithful teams of two that went about this work at first with fear and trembling; too brief to tell about the group of forty men who ate supper in the dining room of the church on Wednesday evening of the meeting week; too brief to tell of the preparing of that supper by the women of the church and the most effective service they rendered in actual soul winning; and all too brief to tell the story of rejoicing in the hearts of hundreds of people, causing our church to walk in the paths of unity, love and peace.

Last night our church was filled into the gallery, and after our service was over, happy-hearted people lingered about in the church for a considerable time telling one another of the marvellous experiences that had transformed their lives in the last few days. The meeting was over before we realized it was on. No, not over, for there will be no great slump in our services, and by Easter Sunday our people are saying they are going to try to bring our additions up to eighty-five.

But are they converted? Were those who came to this altar last year and the years preceding converted? What are they now? By the grace of God our church is going to do its best to see that they live the Life! For our Saviour knows that in our hearts there is rejoicing.

JOHN G. TRUITT.

A society for the prevention of cruelty to animals recently offered a prize of ten dollars to the person who would suggest the best word to describe the character of those who were cruel to animals. It is said that more than 500 people competed for the prize. The newly coined word regarded as the best and which received the ten dollar award was "pitolacker."—Exchange.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL
SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES
The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.
A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/8 inches, 32 black illus. . . . $1.65

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/8 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible. French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/8 inches $3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E Broad Street,
Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES
THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S BEST BIBLES
FLEXIBLE BINDINGS

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Specimen of Type
Holman Home Bible

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight hook.

No. 2014. Durable Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES
THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S BEST BIBLES
FLEXIBLE BINDINGS

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephee not want.
2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.
Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.
Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

The Near East territory is much larger than people usually suppose. It covers Palestine, Syria, Persia, Russian Armenia and Greece. In these places millions have suffered and are suffering. Every Christian should feel at least a historical interest in this country, as the country where Christianity had its early beginnings. Most of us, through Sunday School lessons or church history, have not only a historical interest in this territory, but feel that it is part ours too. It means that these people, through generations have experienced the quiet and peace of a shepherd country and the other extreme of war and pestilence. Their background is so different from ours that we have to make a close study of their history, their habits and their customs, to appreciate their position.

America and the Near East.

The people of the Near East are depending upon America to save them from starvation and to give them hope of future existence as a people. America began help by sending doctors and nurses—people who ministered to them physically as well as spiritually. All of us have seen pictures of the Near East Children eagerly crowding around the soup and crackers provided by Americans. It is hard to realize that these little starving bodies, so thin their bones are easily seen, and so scantily clothed, exist in a time when we are enjoying reasonable prosperity.

Orphanages.

The hope of the Near East is the orphanages which have been established by Americans. These children were gathered up after their fathers and mothers had been killed or had perished to death. In many orphanages they have been cared for and trained to take care of themselves. If these children can receive proper food now and be given sufficient training to take care of themselves, American people who have helped, will have accomplished something worth while.

Investing in the lives of children is always worth while.

Questions for the Meeting.

1. What attitude should Christian Endeavorers take toward suffering humanity?
2. Can young people help to establish world brotherhood?
3. What was Jesus' attitude toward missions?
4. What country do you think needs our help most now, outside of the Near East? Why?

If you are in the Automobile Trimming or Top Building Business, it will pay to send for our new Spring Catalog, which will be off the press about March 15th.

THE G. G. MOSS COMPANY
726 W. Broad St. - - Richmond, Va.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.33

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School

LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN

PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is-ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles .60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1926.

NUMBER 12.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Good Sense.—

A bill was recently introduced in the Japanese Diet to prohibit the western style of dancing in cafes, hotels, and other public places, on the ground that modern dances are demoralizing to Japanese. We in the west might say as much. They are equally demoralizing here. The Japanese seem to be using that great virtue, common sense.

Estimating Population.—

Senora Natalia Calles, the wife of the President of Mexico, has accepted the honorary presidency of the W. C. T. U. in that country. President Calles is known to favor temperance for Mexico, and his wife holds similar views. This support will aid materially in freeing Mexico from the liquor burden under which it now suffers.

Southern Presbyterians to Make Big Drive.—

The Southern Presbyterians are to undertake to raise thirteen million dollars for current expenses and benevolences: $4,750,000 is to be used for benevolences, and $8,250,000 for church running expenses in the local churches. The Southern Presbyterian Church has a membership of 457,000, and operates in seventeen Southern and Southwestern States. The plan to be pursued is the "volunteer" plan. It is hoped that this amount can be raised, since it is very urgently needed in order that the work of the denomination may not suffer.

taken, that census has been used.

Fisk University to Have New Head.—

Fisk University, the Negro school at Nashville, Tenn., is to have a new president in the person of Dr. Thomas Elsa Jones. He is a young man who is just completing the work for the Ph. D. degree from Columbia University, but he has had ten years as a Quaker missionary in Japan, and as director of the Y. M. C. A. at Vladivostok, during the war. He is a graduate of Earlham College and Hartford Seminary. Dr. Jones comes to Fisk at a critical time because of the previous administration's refusal to allow the students and alumni a larger share in the running of the university.

Hopes Dr. Coffin Will Leave Church.—

The Presbyterian Herald and Presbyter hopes that Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, will soon be forming other ecclesiastical affiliations. The hope is a result of an article by Dr. Coffin in The Forum, in which he wishes for a Presbyterian Church on the order of the Scotch Presbyterian Church or the United Church of Canada. In such a church, modernists and fundamentalists would have equal rights. This Presbyterian paper cannot seem to tolerate so liberal a position as that held by Dr. Coffin, and would gladly part company with him.

Jazz Hurts Babies.—

Dr. Duren J. H. Ward, a Denver psychologist, has announced that jazz hurts babies, arousing, as such highly syncopated music does, primitive emotions and leading to jazz conduct. The announcement of Dr. Ward came following the granting of an injunction to prevent the erection of a theatre adjacent to a home for delinquent girls on the ground that jazz implanted unhealthy tendencies in babies. Dr. Ward feels that this act of Cincinnati people should be made the basis for instructing theatre managers as to their responsibility for baby behavior of which they know nothing, but upon which they exert profound effects.

The Bible Holds Its Own.—

The Bible is still the world's best seller among books. The last year's output in 150 languages, was 9,059,120 volumes, which was 2,500,000 more than the previous year, and it was also the largest output of any year during which the American Bible Society has been in operation. The Bible is not only holding its own, but is increasing in popularity. There is another hopeful sign, too; men are not merely buying the book to ward off danger as the folks used to take rabbits' feet around with them, but they are reading the Bible. A part of this increased interest, some believe, may be traced to the great disputes concerning religion now tearing the churches in pieces. It is indeed an ill wind that blows no good. He makes the wrath of men to praise Him.

Head of Remarkable Negro Family Dies.—

Zach Hubert, the father of one of the most remarkable negro families in America, died in White Plains, Ga., recently. He was eighty-four years old, and survived his wife, Camilla, only a few months. Both Zach and Camilla were born in slavery and obtained their freedom during the Civil War. Zach and his wife lived together for fifty-three years, and set an excellent example of thrift and high conduct for their race in the community in which they lived. They saw twelve children grow to maturity and take prominent places among their race. Seven sons and five daughters gathered for the funeral. Of the sons, John Wesley Hubert is superintendent of the Savannah colored high school, one is with Tuskegee agricultural department, one is a minister, one a government employee, and one a college president. Four of his daughters are married to prominent business and professional men in the Negro race. Few families, white or black, attain to such outstanding achievements as this.

Popularizing Art in Sweden.—

An effort is being made to popularize art throughout Sweden. It is proposed to make life easier for all the population by placing excellent pictures in the places where working people gather. The eating houses where laborers take their meals have been decorated with attractive pictures, and the factory lunch rooms have been repainted in bright, attractive colors, and their walls relieved from bareness with good scenes. From these have been removed the one long table, and benches, and individual tables and chairs substituted. In hospitals and schools excellent pictures are finding warm receptions. It is hoped that by this means the whole cultural tone of the nation shall be built up. The brother of the king is an artist, and has given his time and ability to doing mural decorations for several churches, and has also given several pictures to be placed in some of the most northern churches. This whole effort of Sweden is a most commendable one. Were the public schools and other public places filled with the best instead of the worst pictures, the morals and the culture of the great majority of people would be materially raised. We have come to the place where we must provide with care the best for all the people. This is particularly true in a democratic country where so much depends upon the individual.

Destroyers Sent to Beirut.—

The United States government has ordered destroyers to Beirut, the capital of Syria, to protect American life and property. Beirut is said to be most beautiful with its back ground of snow-crowned mountains. Through its beautiful harbor, over which float the flags of nearly every maritime nation in the world, is brought the trade of Damascus and the Levant. The French have done most to build up the harbor of Beirut, but the British have done most to advertise it. Before the war Beirut was one of the great religious cross-roads of the world. Through it passed the Mohammedans on the last lap of their journey to Mecca, and through it, too, passed Christians on their way to Palestine in order that they might have a look at old Damascus and Baalbek. From its bow-shaped harbor both sail home again. Beirut has broad streets and a great American university whose campus is said to be the most beautiful in the world. The Druses are responsible for the destroyers having been ordered to Beirut. These tribesmen live on a fertile, but treeless, plain twenty-five hundred feet above sea-level. Their religious beliefs forbid their use of alcohol, tobacco, and profanity, but enjoins upon them the duty of taking a life for a life when one of their tribe is killed. These strange men have been endangering the lives and property of American citizens.

NOTES-PERSONALS

"The moment we by faith unite ourselves to Christ, we become His, and His destiny is ours; we are raised with Him to live here and now with Him and for Him."

The Elon College catalogue is off the press and now in the hands of the binder. It is a handsome booklet, and requests for copies should be addressed to Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College, N. C.

Was the Sunday on which the Missionary offering for the Emergency Fund was to be taken, a rainy or an inclement day? If so, try and try again till every member has had a chance and an invitation to give something.

Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., evangelist of the North Carolina State Christian Conference, is to begin a series of meetings with our Burlington Church Sunday, April 4th. Bro. Caviness is a most capable and thoroughly consecrated evangelist, and has been wonderfully blessed of the Lord in all the meetings he has held in our Christian Churches. Pastors desiring evangelistic help will do well to engage Bro. Caviness as early as possible.

We are indebted to Dr. W. H. Denison, Dayton, Ohio, for the following, and our sympathy goes out for Bro. Hirby in his great bereavement: The wife of Rev. A. W. Hirby, of our Walnut Hills Church, was laid away Friday at Piqua, Ohio. She was ill but a few days, and died Tuesday. She leaves six children, the oldest being fourteen. It is a heartbreaking occasion. Services were held at the Church first, then at the Piqua Church, from whence they both came. Thirty-four ministers were present.

The Bureau of the Census has estimated the population of the United States, and finds that in the year ending July 1, 1926, the population will have increased by some two million, which brings to light the fact that from approximately 105 million in 1920, it now numbers 117 million. The estimates of the department are based on the registrations of births and deaths, the figures concerning emigration and immigration, and the increase of the ten years from 1910 to 1920, distributed over the six years since the census was taken. In the States where a 1925 census was

THE CHRISTIAN SUN is doing its goodly work in the Missionary Emergency Fund Campaign, as it does in every good movement of the Church. The editor is in receipt of a letter by today's mail containing $10.00—$5.00 to be given to our Emergency Fund, $3.00 to the Orphanage, and $2.00 to the Building Fund of the Orphanage. This good sister is not in touch with her Church, and does not get to attend its services, but out of her meager earnings and because she sees in THE CHRISTIAN SUN the call and the need, she makes the contribution. This is not the only instance even in this Emergency Fund offering. Several readers of THE SUN have sent their contributions, not because they learned of it through their Church or pastor, but because THE SUN kept them in touch with their Church.

Christian Temple, Norfolk, that received such blessings and benefits last year from the work of Rheba Crawford, is again enjoying her remarkable messages. The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot of March 20th, says: "Rheba Crawford, nationally known as the 'Angel of Broadway,' will conduct services every night at the Christian Temple, beginning tomorrow and continuing until April 4th. The regular morning services at the temple tomorrow will be in the nature of a welcome for Miss Crawford, who held a very successful preaching mission there last year. At 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon she will address a mass-meeting for men only at the Strand Theater, arranged by the Christian Temple, Norfolk Council of Churches, and the Central Y. M. C. A. Doors will be open at 2 o'clock. Her first service at the Christian Temple will be held tomorrow night at 7:45 o'clock. The same hour will prevail at her other night meetings there. Miss Crawford delivers a simple but effective message, telling and retelling the tales told by the Scriptures."

Many of our pastors are unwilling that the offering for the Emergency Fund shall be sent in until every member of Church and Sunday School and Missionary Society has been given an urgent invitation to make some donation to the Emergency Fund. This is well, for in an undertaking that means so much to the future of our work every individual should certainly be urged to make some contribution, and we could wish that all pastors would do in this matter as many are doing. We feel that if every individual is given some knowledge of the situation and the needs, and then is urged to make a donation, the goal will be reached. There have been several inclement Sundays since Mission Month has been on, and it would be unfair to send in the offering that may have been made in the very small percentage of the membership present on one of these Sundays when the offering was taken. "Give all information, and then request all to make a donation." That should be the effort of every pastor and every friend.

Our Methodist Protestant brethren have a fine sense of proportion in the distribution of their funds, it seems to us. This denomination is making commendable and praiseworthy efforts for progress in all directions, and the following, taken from the Methodist Protestant of March 10th, explains, and is interesting: "Beyond expenditures of our local Churches, and to carry on the work of the denomination, our annual budget has been set at $500,000. This money is distributed to all the interests named by a fixed percentage of so many cents of every dollar, as follows: Foreign missions, 37 cents; home missions, 29 cents; education, 23 cents; superannuates, 4 cents; ministerial salary relief, 2 cents; the children's home, the home for the aged, the American Bible Society, one cent each; contingent fund, 2 cents; young people's work, $9,000 out of the whole budget. This cost of $500,000 is apportioned to our annual Conferences to raise from the members of their local Churches according to the number and ability of each."

It is doubtful if any of our pastors worked harder on, and got more out of Mission Month than did Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va. Elsewhere, we give some products of his pen. His letter to his members following Mission Month, reveals the spirit in which he went about his great task, and his Playlet, produced by his pen and presented by his young people, carries data, facts and teachings that all Christians should have. It would be difficult to find more and better facts about Porto Rico in brief space than Brother Lester's Playlet presents. During Mission Month, Brother Lester preached on these topics: "Shall the Japanese be Christians?" "The Present Needs of Our Church"; "We can do it if We Will"; "His Gift and Mine"; "What is a Missionary Call?" During the month, "Prayer and Missions" was studied at the regular mid-week prayer meeting. The week before the offering there was a prayer service every evening. Surely victory crowned these noble efforts, and our Christian Church, because of such efforts, will have a different story of missions to tell to the world than the one of regret and humiliation that we have been telling.

The Woman's Missionary Society district rallies begin next week at Windsor, Va., Tuesday, March 30th. The programs for these rallies have been issued and sent to the societies. There are to be four rallies in Eastern Virginia, following daily the one at Windsor, and then followed by eight rallies in the North Carolina Conference, beginning at Liberty, Vance, April 3rd, and concluding with the one at Ramseur Sunday, April 18th. These are important meetings, and the women are making strenuous efforts to have each society and every Church in each district represented at the rally. Some of these rallies are almost as well attended as the annual Conference and are equally as interesting and important in the work that is undertaken. Other dates and places of meeting are Burton's Grove, March 31st; Cypress Chapel, April 1st; Portsmouth, First Church, April 2nd; Raleigh, Tuesday, April 6th; Durham, Thursday, April 8th; Ingram, Va., Sunday, April 11th; Shallow Ford, Wednesday, April 14th; Pleasant Ridge, April 15th; Sanford, April 17th. The dates for the rallies in the Valley of Virginia Conference and in the Alabama Conference, though possibly arranged, have not been given us thus far. It is hoped that these dates and places can be published in an early issue of THE SUN.

The Mission Secretary had the privilege Sunday, March 21st, of worshiping in the congregations of two of our youngest ministers—Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, at Liberty (Vance County, N. C.), and Rev. F. D. Ballard, Henderson, N. C. These pastors are laboring under tremendous handicaps, both being members of the senior class in Elon College, and serving Churches full time. The people, however, whom they serve in the pastorate seem most highly gratified at the services they are rendering; and each congregation thinks they have chosen most wisely and well the one to serve them. Both are progressive pastors, and are alert to every movement that makes for progress and growth in the Church. They both have the missionary spirit in the keenest and most marked manner, and are seeking with full strength to impart their missionary vision and enthusiasm to their congregations. The Emergency Fund offering was taken at Liberty at the 11 o'clock hour, and while quite encouraging there were many members not present, and the campaign will be carried on until all are reached and given an opportunity of increasing the offering. The Woman's Missionary Society met in the afternoon, and besides the regular offering through the Church, made a special offering, having as its goal the gift of as many dollars as they had members. This society is active and is a good factor in building up the missionary work in Liberty Church. The Emergency Fund offering is to be taken in the Henderson congregation Sunday, March 28th, when the women of the Missionary Society are to put on a pageant and help in the every-member canvass. In every Church where there is a Woman's Missionary Society there is missionary interest, and an organization upon which the pastor may depend in every undertaking of the Church.

DYING RICH.

When John Wesley died he left as his heritage a half a dozen silver spoons and the Methodist Church. Not a little of the success of Methodism has been due to the disinterestedness of its founder. Millions in money had passed through Wesley's hands, during the long and arduous years of his ministry, but it all passed through. None of it stuck to his fingers. Methodism has a tremendous argument for Christian stewardship ready at hand in the example of John Wesley.

Another great preacher who passed away recently has left a rich heritage to posterity. We refer to Russell H. Conwell, whose sole estate appears to have been a $3,000 life insurance policy left to his widowed daughter. Dr. Conwell, for many years perhaps, was the most popular lecturer on the American platform. His masterpiece "Acres of Diamonds," was delivered over 6,000 times and the lecturer was usually given a fair recompense for his services. Dr. Conwell earned and distributed millions of dollars during his life-time but kept none of the money for himself. Hence, like Wesley, he died poor. Examples like these are more potent than the most eloquent sermons upon the Christian use of money. We do not instance these two illustrious preachers because their history is exceptional in the annals of the ministry. Few preachers accumulate money or care to do so. Nevertheless it is doubtful whether many men in other professions whose legitimate earnings were as great as were those of Wesley and Conwell would have kept so little for their own personal use. The power of these men as preachers arose larger from the fact that they made their preaching real by carrying out their ideals in the business relations of their lives.

NOTICE.

The Woman's Missionary Conference, composed of the Franklin-Vance-Warren District, belonging to the E. N. C. Conference, will have its "District Rally" at Liberty (Vance) Saturday, April 3rd. A special effort has been made to secure a good report from each Church.

We urge that all churches send a full delegation of interested workers, that will help make the day a success. All pastors serving these churches are especially invited to attend this Rally. A good program has been prepared and several speakers are expected to be present. The outstanding speaker for the day will be Mrs. M. L. Bryant, President of the Eastern Virginia Conference. Then our Mission Secretary, Dr. Atkinson, will be present. He is prepared to fill and thrill one with inspiration for greater service.

Any one desiring intertainment over-night will please write the undersigned. We will be very glad to have you. Let us strive to make Romans 12:1-2, a living reality, then our desire will be to carry out His great commission, "Go ye," Mark 16:15. Pray that our women may work to make this our best year, and that it be spent in sacrificial service for Jesus, Our Saviour.

A big "Welcome" awaits one and all, at Liberty (Vance) April 3rd.

MISS MARGARETE ALSTON,
District President.

MRS. R. J. NEWTON,
Secretary W. M. S. Liberty.

R. 1, Henderson, N. C.

Easter means a new experience. We are as immigrants eagerly looking forward to the land of our dreams.—Selected.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - 4. Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 5. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE CONVENTION.

One more month and our Southern Convention will be in biennial session at Durham (April 27th to 30th). All sessions of this body are important, and make history; but it is doubtful if any session ever confronted graver problems than this one will face. The Christians have been trying to make principles grow and shine and flourish. It simply cannot be done. Principles are foundations. That's all. They serve not as a building to live in, nor a product to be displayed to the world, but simply as a foundation on which to build, a root from which the tree and its products spring. We have no program commensurate with our principles. We need a building equal to the foundation we have laid. We have interests, enterprises, institutions that belong to the Convention: THE CHRISTIAN SUN, the Christian Orphanage, Elon and Bethlehem Colleges, Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, Evangelism, Superannuation, Missions Home and Foreign; these are among the institutions and enterprises that the Convention owns, fosters and endeavors to promote. The carrying on and development of these would indeed be a task, and require a program, adequate to the principles on which we are building, provided of course we were measuring up to the demands of such a task and program. This we are not doing.

How are we to push on to power and greater perfection the interests and enterprises committed to us? That is the question. We need to adopt the slogan Paul used in addressing the Hebrews, "Therefore, leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection."—Heb. 6: 1. We need to plan well, we must plan well, to carry our institutions and enterprises unto perfection.

1. THE CHRISTIAN SUN needs a larger constituency and more adequate support. Wherever THE SUN goes, it carries messages of information and helpfulness to every other enterprise of the Church. The orphanage, the colleges, missions, all enterprises of the Church find help and loyalty and support in the homes and hearts of those who take and read THE CHRISTIAN SUN. The Convention should and must, in some way provide for its wider circulation and support. Our Men and Millions movement has helped, but help from this source is practically ended.

2. Our Colleges must be provided for. We have a new plant, and a very beautiful and adequate one, at Elon College. Bethlehem needs a new building and better equipment for the present one. Both institutions are in sore straits and desperate need of larger incomes. In some way the Convention must provide for the maintenance of these colleges on a larger and more liberal scale. These are centers from which denominational strength (or weakness) will go out.

3. Since the last session of the Convention, a new building which will care for fifty more children at the Orphanage, has been erected. This will add one third more to the cost of up-keep and support, for a new building means, not the end but the beginning of expense in benevolences.

4. We have made a beginning, a gesture, in the direction of caring for our aged ministers, and the widows and dependents of deceased ministers. This is a beginning in a most worthy and meritorious direction.

5. We are doing something for Missions, Home and Foreign, but that something is just large enough to show us the greater lack and the more pressing need. The growth, power and prestige of the Church depend upon its missionary vision, spirit and activity. Our mission work, today, needs men, women and means, as it never needed them before. If the Christian Church is to prove loyal to the One whose Name we wear, and obedient to His most emphatic command, it must do more for missions.

These are only some of the many problems that this Convention will and must face. There can be no shirking, side-stepping, or halting, if we are to have a place and do our work in the Kingdom of our Lord.

Shall we prove sufficient for these things?

All loyal Christians of THE SUN family should pray and plan for this Convention that it may be divinely guided, and in all things directed of Him whose name we wear and whose Kingdom we seek to help establish in the world.

J. O. A.

THE BEST INHERITANCE.

Many parents act as if the best legacy they can leave their children is a large estate, a big bank account, a lot of good securities in stocks and bonds. It does no good to remind these parents that they are sadly and seriously mistaken. That child is handicapped indeed who begins life with a fortune in money and a poverty in morals and in character. The best inheritance a child receives is a good character. If a father really means to bless and benefit his off-spring, and is reduced to one of the two, he far better transmit to his off-spring a good character and a spent bank account than a bad character and a huge bank account.

Roger Babson, the great economist, certainly had history and the facts on his side recently, when he wrote, "Inheriting money from a father has often been disastrous; inheriting character never." Too much money and too little character is too much house on too little foundation.

Many a father will tell you that he does not want his children to have to work like he had to work and make the sacrifices he has had to make. And yet that father will tell you that what he most enjoyed in life was work and the power to overcome obstacles and difficulties.

Wealth, money, riches, are not necessarily a curse, a hindrance, a handicap. They should be the opposite, and they are the opposite, when those who have and handle them have also the character, the moral power and purity necessary to handle them. Wealth carries weight—the tremendous weight of responsibility. And the God who created and gave wealth will one day require our accounting. We brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we will carry nothing with us out of the world. We plant and we water, but God gives the increase. All wealth belongs to God. We are managers in charge for a season. And the end of all gain, the getting and the giving of all wealth, is to help make in the world the right sort of character, the right sort of boys and girls, men and women. The boys in the home may need now their father's help in character building far more than they will need later their father's millions.

The wise man was writing an immortal proverb when he penned the lines, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold.—Prov. 22: 1. The world, including our children, will honor and esteem us not by the bulk of fortune we may bequeath them, but by the good name and loving favor we transmit to them,

The world has never yet been cruel and heartless enough to recite in death what a man had accumulated nor inscribe on his tomb stone his epitaph in terms of his bank account. The final and fundamental rating of human character is always in terms of what he gave, what he did, what he was, for others.

J. O. A.

OUR MISSIONARY DUTY.

There is a missionary duty. That duty was laid upon all Christians by our Lord when He said, "Go ye into all the world." But the same Lord who laid on His disciples that obligation also said, "My yoke is easy and my burden is light." The burden becomes easy when the yoke is put on and the obligation is undertaken.

What an easy burden indeed many of our pastors and people have found in Mission Month and in the taking of the offering for the Emergency Fund! These are they who carried their heart into the task and undertook the work and the self-denial, in honor of and for the sake of their Lord. The yoke was easy, the burden became light, when the task was undertaken out of love for Him who gave all for us.

It has been a hard task, it is yet a burden difficult to be borne, by those who faltered, feared, trembled, dreaded, and went at the matter in a cold-hearted way. Those who are getting the least out of Mission Month are those who are not doing their plain duty by Mission Month.

The voice of our Lord, and the vote of our conference, both call all of us to do our duty by a movement and a measure that mean so much for us, for the Kingdom and for the Church.

One plain duty of every pastor, of every Sunday School superintendent, and of every church official, is to see to it that every member in every congregation be given some intelligent information about missions, also about our present needs, the stress and the strain of this Emergency, and then in addition give everyone the privilege of making an offering. That at least is one duty all concerned can discharge now, in honor and in loving devotion to their Lord. Even this duty well and gladly performed will not weaken nor impoverish us for other duties, but will strengthen and help enrich and further prepare us for other duties in His name. There is one word of praise that all may well covet: "Well done thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things." J. O. A.

"AMUSEMENT."

"By amusement we understand those lighter forms of activity to which we turn when relieved from the stress and strain which the serious tasks of life impose upon us. In amusement we can follow out lines of choice and special preference, which we are not permitted to pursue in our daily work—that is usually imposed upon us without any particular regard for our tastes and wishes. Amusement in this wide sense relieves and agreeably interrupts the dull routine of existence. The more the work in which a person is engaged assumes the character of drudgery, the more does play become necessary in order to prevent a dulling of the finer sensibilities. Unfortunately, the modern division of labor and overspecialization of function have taken the joy out of work and reduced it to a purely mechanical task that makes no appeal to the higher faculties of man.

"The * * * Church has always taken a sane stand in the matter of amusement. It does not condemn pleasure or play or amusements. It knows that periods of recreation are a psychological necessity. Its doctrine concerning pleasure is in full harmony with the nature of man. It condemns the excess in pleasure as it denounces excess in everything else, and it improves those forms of recreation that either are sinful in themselves or are calculated to lead to sin.

"When we ask which amusements are best suited to fill up the free time of our young people, we can answer in a general way: Those forms of recreation are most beneficial which require some co-operation on our part, and which call into play the faculties that are not sufficiently exercised during our work, whilst they allow the faculties overstimulated by our vocational occupations to rest.

"Recreation should (1) give rest from work; (2) afford joy; (3) enhance physical vitality and increase mental vigor; (4) offer opportunities for pleasing social contacts; (5) begin, renew, and strengthen friendship; (6) introduce us to intellectual pleasures, such as good literature, history, religion, science, and teach us the enjoyments of objects of art. Recreation should contribute towards a harmonious rounding off of our education, awaken in us a taste for culture and things of the mind, draw out and develop the finer human emotions, and cultivate the aesthetic side of our nature, furnish an outlet for artistic abilities and inventive genius, exercise our faculty of choice, and in general, allow us to grow up to the full stature of manhood and womanhood in the practice of the moral, social and domestic virtues."

I think my readers will agree that this is a very sensible article. Now look above where the three stars are and insert the word "Catholic." The Catholic Church, after all, is not so bad as some may think. This is quoted from the Parish Monthly, representing the Catholic Churches of New York City. I have yet to read a more sensible article on the subject of amusement than the above. W. A. H.

It is regretted that in the report of receipts from Sunday School missionary offering in February, by some mishap, Liberty (Vance), M. L. Grissom, treasurer, $4.40, was omitted. Our sincerest apology to the Liberty Sunday School and Brother Grissom, as the amount was promptly sent in and duly receipted, but simply omitted in the printed list in THE SUN.

THE CALL OF PORTO RICO.

A playlet by

REV. F. C. LESTER,

Pastor Franklin, Va., Christian Church.

(The scene is laid in any of the thousand Christian Churches of the United States. No special staging is necessary, but native costumes for the Porto Ricans and a long flowing gown for the Spirit of the Christian Church will add to the effectiveness, though not really necessary.)

Spirit of the Christian Church (enters and stands near center of stage): Twenty-five years ago my heart was touched by the needs of the people of Porto Rico, a little island to the south of us, about 120 miles long and thirty-five miles wide. The land is beautiful beyond description, "with its great backbone of mountains fringed all the way round by a narrow strip of lowlands slipping into the Atlantic on the north, east and west, and into the Carabbean on the south." Here one "may revel in the mountains and valleys, the rivers and the rills, the blue sky and the bluer seas, the green grass and golden harvests, the fruits and flowers, and the sunshine mingled with showers." Here, it would seem there is everything to make life really worth while. And there 1,300,000 people to enjoy it to the full; but they do not enjoy it. There are 310 people to the square mile—far too many for economic enjoyment—and the moral and spiritual lack is overwhelming.

The needs of these people appealed to my heart, and I sent there to work for me Rev. and Mrs. D. P. Barrett and Mr. H. J. Rhodes. They went out in January, 1901, and began work at once in Ponce. Just a year later, Rev. T. E. White and Rev. Miss Jennie Mishler went to assist in the promising work, and Mr. Rhodes returned to the States. The work made commendable progress from the beginning.

But there are great needs yet! Ignorance is the rule rather than the exception. Poverty is in evidence on every hand. Nearly half the people have no interest in religion. The Churches are weak and struggling. I wonder if I shall be able to meet the needs. Or will I be compelled to say "No" to those who call for help? But, hark! here comes some one now from that beautiful little country. Let us hear the message she brings.

Representative of Ponce: O Spirit of the Christian Church, I come to you as a representative of Ponce, the second largest city of Porto Rico. There are 41,912 people in our city, and the surrounding community makes the figure more than 71,000. We are at the extreme west of your field of labors, and the first to receive of your help.

In 1901 your missionaries came to us with a message of Christ, and two years later we organized the first Christian Church in Porto Rico, with five members. Today we have 134 members and a Sunday School of 426.

We have a kindergarten, daily vacation Bible school, and Rev. D. P. Barrett is doing some industrial work in connection with the many other duties. In 1913 our Church was dedicated. It is a very nice Church, although it cost only $9,000. The Barretts are enjoying the nice home you gave them in 1917, and are working hard for the cause of Christianity. Dona Delfina Zayas is doing good work as a Bible woman.

But the great mass of our people are without instruction in the things of religion. The Roman Churches claim half the people, but have very little spiritual life in them. Our people are dying without hope. Can you make some arrangements to give us more missionaries to tell us of the Christ and to train us in the things of the Spirit?

It is true that you have recently erected a chapel in Clancells, a very needy suburb of our city. But what can one Church and a chapel do for the lives of a city half the size of Norfolk?

Representative of Aurus: I come as a messenger of Aurus to thank you for the Church you built in our city in 1911, and for the splendid work being done by our pastor, Rev. R. Sandoval, since you bought a parsonage for him in 1924 at a cost of $1,100. Our Church was organized in 1915 with six members, but we now have forty, a gain of nearly 600 per cent in ten years. The Church is small and the equipment inadequate, but we are doing our best. Will you be able to give us some more chapels this year?

Rev. R. Sandoval: I am the Rev. Sandoval, pastor of the Aurus district. For ten years I have worked in the Christian Church, having come to you from the Christian and Missionary Alliance in 1916. These have been busy and happy years. I appreciate the new home you have given me at Aurus and am trying to do more efficient service. The work is quite heavy. In addition to the work in Aurus, where there are fifteen hundred people yet to reach, I go each week a mile and a half west to Tiburon, and three miles east to Playita and hold services at each place in rented houses. Altogether, I have a field of more than 2,000 people, with about forty Christians. You can see that my job is not easy, but there is real joy in preaching the gospel, and many of the people hear it gladly.

Some chapels of our own and another worker would add greatly to the effectiveness of our work. Can you help us this year?

Representative from Santa Isabel: Santa Isabel is a familiar name to many of the people of America. For a number of years the young people of the States worked to get money to build a chapel in our city of 1,290 and a surrounding community of five thousand more. A fine Church building was dedicated in 1923 at a cost of $13,000.

I am one of the seventy members of the Church and one of the 196 members of the Sunday School. We have a kindergarten, daily vacation Bible school, and Mr. Morton is doing some fine industrial work. Rev. Juan Romero is our splendid pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Morton are doing excellent work, but they should have a home in which to live that belongs to the Church. Could you give them a parsonage?

Representative from La Playa: I come from the little seacoast town of La Playa, a mile south of Santa Isabel. There are 290 of us, and we appreciate the weekly services conducted by Rev. Romero. If you keep sending him to us and will give us a chapel in which to meet, it may be that our little village by the sea will some day be Christian.

Representative from Paso Seco: My home town, Paso Seco, lies at the foot of the mountains, four miles north of Santa Isabel. We are very poor, and our religion before America came to us was poorer still. There are 541 of us, but only nine are active members of the Church, and they have to meet in a little rented shack. We have service each week, led by Rev. Romero, but we have been hoping that you might be able to give us a Church and a preacher. Can you do so?

Representative from Descalabrado: I come as a representative of 1,196 people in Descalabrado, three miles west from the home of our evangelist, Rev. Romero. For years and years we have waited for the Christian message. This young man comes each week and preaches on the streets of our town. Many hear him attentively. He never preaches to a small crowd. But there is no house
(Continued on page 11.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Last Sunday, Mrs. W. H. Andrews, who has charge of a missionary period in the Suffolk Sunday School every third Sunday, presented what seemed to me to have a value worth sending to THE SUN; and it is what follows. It was given to the school as a test of their knowledge of what the Christian Church is doing in the field of missions.

Question. Where are the Executive Offices of the Home and Foreign Mission Boards located?

Answer. In the C. P. A. Building in Dayton, Ohio.

Who is the Home Mission Secretary? Dr. O. S. Thomas, Dayton, Ohio.

Who is the Foreign Mission Secretary? Dr. W. P. Minton, Dayton, Ohio.

Who is General Secretary-Treasurer of the Woman's Board? Mrs. Emma S. Powers, Dayton, Ohio.

Who is General Mission Secretary of the S. C. Convention? Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

Who is President of the S. C. C. Woman's Board? Mrs. W. H. Carroll, Burlington, N. C.

Who is President of the Eastern Virginia Conference Woman's Mission Board? Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Norfolk, Va.

What is the official Missionary Organ of the Christian Church? The Christian Missionary.

Who is the Managing Editor of the Christian Missionary? Dr. Wilson P. Minton, Dayton, Ohio.

In what foreign countries does the Christian Church have mission work? Japan and Porto Rico.

How many missionaries, Home and Foreign, has the Christian Church on the field at the present time? Nineteen.

Who were the first Foreign Missionaries sent out by the Christian Church? Rev. and Mrs. D. F. Jones.

Where did they establish the first Christian Mission? In Ishinomaki, Japan, June 10, 1887.

How many missionaries are now in Japan? Ten.

Who are they? Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Woodworth, Tokyo; Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Fry, Utsunomia; Rev. and Mrs. W. J. McKnight, Sendai; Miss Martha R. Stacy, Sendai; and Miss Angie Crew.

How many missionaries has the Christian Church in Porto Rico? Four: Rev. and Mrs. D. P. Barrett, Ponce; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Morton, Santa Isabel.

How long have the Barretts been in Porto Rico? Twenty-five years.

How many Home Missionaries has the Christian Church? Five: Rev. W. R. Caldwell, in Logging Camp, Monleesano, Washington; Miss Marguerite Youmans, Americanization Missionary, Haverhill, Mass.; Miss Elizabeth Howsare, among the Indians at Fort Apache, Arizona; Rev. M. T. Sorrell, in the mountains of Carroll County, Virginia, with Miss Margaret M. Morey as his assistant. Rev. M. T. Sorrell is pastor of Fancy Gap and Rocky Ford. There are schools at both churches.

Who will be the first missionary from this church?

Other women may find this of enough importance to use in their Sunday Schools.

Rev. George Arvey Pearce, who has charge of Oak Grove, Damascus, Sarem and Eure Christian Churches, in Gates County, N. C., and who is a graduate of Elon College, and who came to this field as a licentiate, was, upon recommendation of the Educational Committee and the Executive Committee of the Eastern N. C. Conference and the recommendation of the Educational Committee of the Eastern Virginia Conference, ordained by a Presbytery appointed by the Executive Committee of the Eastern Virginia Conference, in Norfolk, Virginia, at the Ministers Association on March 22, 1926. The candidate was presented to the Ordaining Presbytery, Drs. W. D. Harward, president of the conference, L. E. Smith, and W. W. Staley, by Dr. I. W. Johnson, secretary of the conference, and Rev. John G. Truitt, pastor of First Church, Norfolk, Va. Seventeen ministers were present, and the young man is now clothed with official authority to perform all the functions of an Elder in the Christian Church. It was really a good service, as all present were ministers who could enter sympathetically into the ordination of a young man whose life is thereby committed to the work of the ministry. And it is hoped that the four churches of which young Pearce is pastor will develop into a group of active, liberal, and successful churches. It is a good field with a good future.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Last week I quoted from two fine laymen about accumulating money. This time I plan to say something about giving it away.

It is almost impossible to make money without hurting somebody. "Golden Rule" Nash seems to have solved the question, but there are few who avail themselves of his principles and practice. There is hardly a man within your knowledge who has amassed a great fortune, who has not been forced at one time or another to do injury to some weaker brother or competitor or whose family has not suffered from lack of personal attention. How hard it is for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven! The One who said that knew what was in man.

But it is even more dangerous to give money away. Money is power, and power improperly directed is a most destructive agency. "Poor laws" have never been administered in such a way as to build up a people. Witness Ireland's sad plight today with its unemployment dole. Indiscriminate giving is a sad tale. One poor family in Eurlington, N. C., this past Christmas had five turkeys sent to it. Relief work, it seems, must be done in co-operation in order to avoid waste and injury. It is sad, but true, that our good intentions, otherwise, may injure the very persons whom we aim to help.

Jesus said: "Give to him that asketh of thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." He also said, "Let not thy right hand know what thy left hand doeth." How are we to measure up to these standards? He was speaking to a people who associated only with their relatives. He was thinking of the intimate relationship of the family. So understood, there is every reason to ponder long and deeply His sayings.

But in our modern complex social organization, we cannot carry out these simple, these beautiful suggestions. Men did not borrow money in Jesus' day to speculate or to indulge their desire for pleasure. They only borrowed in kind the necessities of life. It would be mean, positively mean, to publish your gift or your loan to a sick or needy relative. The modern business man cannot lend to every applicant, and there is no ham in letting it be known that you have helped an Orphanage or a College or a Mission Board with a gift, small or large, provided you did not give just to get the advertising feature out of it. The only way to keep funds given such enterprises from being misappropriated is to have the sources of the income made public.

We should give helpfully, which means we must give intelligently, and this means that for the most part and aside from aiding our friends and relatives, we must give through recognized channels, such as incorporated boards, institutions and agencies. The average man realizes that he does not have the time to investigate every appeal that comes to him. He had better continue to pursue his vocation and do his giving through agencies that do have the facilities for investigation. He also realizes that giving to endow institutions perpetuates his good will to generations yet unborn. That is why so many thoughtful persons use institutions and boards in which they have confidence as the channels through which they will give their tenth to the Lord's work. It appears that they are wise in this practice.

W. A. HARPER.

P. S.—Some people say they cannot keep their right hand from knowing what their left hand gives, and so they give nothing. What do you think of that?

W. A. H.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Since the months of February and March have been designated as the time for all the churches in all the conferences of the Southern Christian Convention to take an offering in an effort to raise $25,000.00 as an Emergency Fund for our mission work; all members should practice self-denial in some way during these months.

The earth is the sphere upon which God is carrying out His "plan of the ages." The goal of sacred history is the salvation of the world. The consummation of all missionary endeavor will be when the knowledge of the love of God through His Son has reached the uttermost part of the earth.

Missions began in the great heart of God; He agonized and sacrificed to bring back His own. The work is also Christ's supreme thought, and it will be ours in proportion as we live in Him. The dying reply of Henry Martyn, missionary to Persia, to a letter asking how the spirit could be increased in the home church, was "Tell them to live more for Christ, to catch more of his spirit, for the spirit of Christ is the spirit of missions."

It is the duty of the church to give the Gospel to the whole world; for if Christ is not made Lord of all, He is not Lord at all. With our help, Jesus Christ can save the world; but missionary history is a mystery until we read it as His story carried by us. If we have no interest in missions, the only explanation is, inexcusable ignorance or wilful disobedience.

The Kingdom of God is waiting for the hard earned leisure of the business man; the day of formal praying and petty giving is over, and the day of big things has come. The time was when we could get along very well, if we received but $10,000.00 annually from the entire church for the support of missions, but we need $25,000.00 now, annually, from the Southern Christian Convention alone for the support of our mission work. Dr. Carey of the Baptist Church, went as the first missionary to India, June 3, 1793, and spent forty-one years without any intermission. His last words were to Mr. Duff: "You have been speaking about Dr. Carey; when I am gone, say nothing about Dr. Carey—speak about Dr. Carey's Saviour."

It took ninety years to gain the first million converts; two million were added in the next twenty-three years, and now they are added at the rate of a million in less than ten years: "Of the increase of His government there shall be no end." Dr. Watson was founder of missions in the Christian Church, and he announced in 1878 that he would hire a missionary just as soon as he could raise the money. Our missionary work is no longer a child, it has grown to maturity. Our church has been prospering, and we as individuals have also been prospering; and yet many of us give the same we did ten years ago.

Our obligation is seen in the unity of the race, and the cost of redemption: "God made of one every nation of men." "Ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price." Men cannot be classified according to color of skin or language. Science cannot tell any difference between the blood of an Arab, a Chinese or an Englishman, for we are all one by nature. Sin is not a heathen characteristic, but a human characteristic. We speak of the backward races, and we might have been so termed had the gospel traveled eastward instead of westward. Christianity and civilization would have gone in the same direction. Our obligation is commensurate with our opportunity; this expands as the world is explored, and as the population increases—we must give all a chance to accept Christ.

If I give nothing, I vote to recall all missionaries; if I give less than last year, I vote to reduce the force; if the same, I oppose any forward movement; but if I increase, I vote for an advance in the work. The gospel can and should be proclaimed to earth's remotest bounds. We need to make a full consecration of all that we have, for what can we bring more? To have what we want is riches, but to be able to do without is power. $25,000.00 is little enough. Let us go over the top! S. L. BEOUGHNER.

"MUCH UNION PROPAGANDA."

In the current issue of THE CHRISTIAN SUN there is an article over the signature of W. A. Harper touching the question of union. I quote two sentences from this article. "One of our good brethren is quoted as being opposed to so much union propaganda. 'Why not merge with some other denomination and quit,' he is reported as asking." The undersigned is evidently "one of the good brethren" referred to by Dr. Harper. I made a statement not long since touching union, but not as quoted above. There was another man in the same meeting who also made a statement about "union propaganda." But neither of us made the statement as quoted above. What I really said, and what the other "good brother" really said, is, "Why not unite with some other denomination, or quit so much union propaganda?" There is all the difference in the world in the two quotations.

I have good reason for asking the above question. This question cannot be passed over lightly. For one hundred and thirty-four years the Christian denomination has preached Christian union; but in all these years this denomination has failed to practice its preaching. No one has been able to tell us why we have not practiced the thing that we have so earnestly preached. Of course several lame excuses have been offered, but there has not been a single logical reason advanced for our failure in this vital matter. The one supreme opportunity of our Church history came last year when the three leading denominations of Canada united, forming the United Church of Canada. But the Christian Church in Canada was left out of this union. Why? Not because it was excluded; but one of our men said it was because we were not invited to unite with them. Isn't that wonderful! Why wait for an invitation to practice the thing we have been preaching all these years? Why didn't the Christian Church in Canada prove its faith by its works and ask to be admitted?

As far as the Christian denomination occupying a unique position with reference to religious liberty and Church union is concerned, those who know anything at all about Church history know that that is not the case. There are at least a half-score of denominations that have taught religious liberty and Church union just as faithfully as has the Christian denomination. This statement will shock the nerves of our denominationalists; but it is my opinion that they need a shock—anything to get them out of the rut! There are several denominations that have not only preached religious liberty and Church union, but they have shown a far greater desire and willingness to practice their teaching than has the Christian denomination. It is high time for us to practice Church union, or keep our lips sealed about "union." We must practice it or become the laughing stock of the other denominations.

Of course there is no desire here to do the thing that was suggested in Dr. Harper's "Letter." He could not have arrived at such a preposterous conclusion had he quoted "one of the good brethren" correctly. By saying that we should unite with some other denomination, or quit so much union propaganda, I do not mean that we should "cease to exist" and ditch some of our leaders. Christian union has never meant that; and it never will. It means the enlargement of our usefulness as Christian people, and the fulfillment of Christ's prayer, "That they all may be one." Again I ask, "Why not unite with some other denomination, or quit so much union propaganda?" We must take our choice between the two propositions.

R. F. BROWN.

(The article is printed as Bro. Brown requests, and as our good friend Dr. D. A. Long would say, "ad literatum ad punctuatum."—ED. SUN.)

TODAY.

Today we bring our Special Offering for Missions

*God loveth a CHEERFUL giver.
Freely ye have received, freely give.
God LOVED and GAVE*

Let your offering be based on Love and grow out of Sacrifice.

If you were a missionary giving our whole life to the work as a servant of your church and your meager salary were unpaid and you knew that the church at home was spending money just like you spend yours, how would you feel? Would you think that a dollar from each member, and a hundred dollars from some members, is too much to ask for as a special offering?

Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye.

(Reprinted from Bulletin Franklin Christian Church, Sunday, March 7, 1926.)

TEMPERANCE.

This is a hackneyed, but always a live, question. Did you ever stop to think that our beloved brethren of many persuasions argue that the temperance question should be left entirely to moral suasion; that legal suasion was unconstitutional because it took away the personal liberty of the individual? Counterfitting and murder are moral questions. Would they be willing to leave these things to moral suasion? But they tell us that the laws against the liquor traffic are broken every day, and for that reason should be repealed.

If that logic is sound, then the ten commandments should be repealed because they are broken every day.

The fact remains that "the wicked flee when no man pursueth," but they make better time when a law-abiding sheriff is after them.

D. A. LONG.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary

OUR DENOMINATIONAL PROGRAM

One of the splendid things done by our General Convention was to outline a denominational program covering five points. All churches, conferences and regional conventions are advised and urged to establish those five departments: Devotion, Evangelism and Life Service, Christian Education, Missions, Stewardship. The New England Convention has so organized with the five departments, and has wisely added a department of publications. The Metropolitan Convention has organized with these five departments and has also added departments of publications and relief. The Central Convention has organized with four departments of the church program. It still lacks the department of Devotion. It also added a department of publications. The Western Convention likewise lacks the department of Devotion. It has the other four and also added a department of publications. The Southern Convention has the departments of Christian Education, Missions and Stewardship. It yet lacks the departments of Devotion and Evangelism and Life Service. It also added departments of publications and super-annuation. It is very fitting that Regional Conventions and Conferences should have the extra departments of publications and relief. They are not necessary or advisable for local churches. It is to be hoped that all the conventions will soon complete the departments they now lack and thus carry out our denominational program. It is splendid to see such co-operation toward such a permanent and well rounded program. It is splendid to see the conferences and churches organizing on the same basis. This will be completed just as rapidly as denominational and conference officials and pastors actively advocate it. It is fine to be organizing on a definite program. Kindly bear in mind this important matter when you revise your local church, conference or convention constitution.

ACTIVE STEWARDSHIP SECRETARIES.

One of the real pressing needs now is to have a real, live, active Stewardship Secretary in each church and in each conference. So very much depends upon this. Every conference needs one. Then in the churches one is essential, for it is he that heads up the Stewardship Committee in each church. At first many churches and conferences chose the person for this office who had served under the Forward Movement and who was known as the Benevolence Secretary. That was no doubt wise at that time. Now with the unfolding of this work they may or may not be the proper persons to serve. In other churches and conferences conditions have changed. The persons now needed are men intensely interested in promoting Stewardship. Raising money may not be a part of their work now. At any rate care should be given now to this important position by churches and conferences.

TRY CHECKING UP.

Dr. F. A. Agar in his book, "The Competent Church," says, "The sin of Ananias and Sapphira is common in many a local church, but one seldom finds that particular sin dealt with, but mostly is it condensed and spread by cowardly fear of trouble." Possibly it would be well to read Acts 5:1-11 with that thought in mind, and to recall when you last heard a sermon on that theme. He also says in the same book, "It must always be remembered that money spent reveals the loves of the spender's life." How about checking up on our expenditures and see how much we spend and for what? It might be a revelation if you would get a "Diary and Budget Account Book" from the Christian Publishing Association (25 cents), and keep a record for a given time of your Income, Saving, Giving, Spending. Then under the Spending keep a record of expenditures for food, shelter, clothing, operating, advancement, non-essentials.

THE EMERGENCY CALL—A PLEA FROM YOUR PASTOR.

Have you not sometimes planned your expenses, when only by careful expenditure you could possibly get by? And then have you not had unexpected things to happen—an extra pair of shoes for a growing boy, or an occasion that demanded a little more from you, or a spell of sickness or a hospital bill? And did you give up? No, you gritted your teeth, you cut off some where it was not so important, your red blood asserted itself, you met the Emergency, and you felt better and stronger that you had proven yourself equal to the situation.

Something like this is what confronts our mission work. Your Board planned expenses in the most careful manner. Then the growing work called for some new equipment, the Japanese earthquake made unexpected demands on our funds, other conditions arose that could not be avoided. The question is, are we going to be as true and faithful to our Lord as to our other relationships in life? Through the Emergency Call that comes to our Church we must prove ourselves worthy of the trust our Father has imposed upon us. We will be stronger if when we are tried we are not found wanting. Let us make such an offering that we would not be ashamed to place in his outstretched hand if he were visibly present. You cannot fail Him for He never fails you. The offering will be received next Sunday.

(The above is taken from the printed Bulletin and program of services in First Christian Church, Greensboro, N. C. Dr. C. H. Rowland, Pastor. Sunday, March 21, 1926.—Ed. Sun.)

DISTRICT MISSIONARY RALLIES.

EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE
Place—Windsor, Burton Grove, Cypress Chapel, First Church, Portsmouth.
Time—MARCH 30-31; APRIL 1-2.
Superintendents—Mrs. J. A. Williams, Mrs. W. E. White, Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, and Mrs. J. E. Cartwright.
Call to order—10:30 A. M.
Hymn—"Safely Through Another Year."
Devotional—John 14-24:31-20:21.
Minutes.
Superintendent's Message—(The Unfinished Task).
Address—"Shall We Advance?," Rev. H. S. Hardcastle.

Recognition of Societies.
Address—"The Imperative Need of the Hour,"
Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Appointment of Committees.
Offering.
Adjournment for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotional.
Special Music.
Making Missions Attractive to Young Folks—
Mrs. W. H. Andrews, Mrs. M. L. Bryant.
Address—"If We Do Not Advance—Why?,"
Rev. J. G. Truitt.
Visual Demonstration of Our Work.
Report of Committees.
Closing Exercise.
Adjournment.

A PASTOR'S LETTER TO HIS PEOPLE.

(A copy of the letter sent by Rev. F. C. Lester, Pastor, to the members of his congregation, fell into the hands of The Sun's Editor and he passes it on to Sun readers.—J. O. A.)

Franklin, Va., March 9, 1926.

Members and Friends of Franklin Christian Church, Franklin, Va., and Many Other Places.

DEAR FRIENDS:

Sunday was a rainy day, but the missionaries went on to their preaching places, and the people came to Franklin Christian Church with their Love Offering for missions. The vote of our church is in favor of the Japanese and Porto Ricans being Christian. Here are the figures:

Number of people making gifts.....	107
Number of families represented by gifts	43
Number of families all members giving	35
Number of friends not members giving	6
Amount of money received to date.....	$274.70

Many of these gifts meant real sacrifice. People away from Franklin sent in their money, those on sick beds sent their gifts, children worked hard and brought in dollars, and many who have only limited means made liberal contributions. Surely God has seen how gladly you have given and will richly reward you for your faithfulness.

There are 258 members of the church, all of whom we feel are interested in the work of the church. Many could not attend the services last Sunday, and for that reason the treasurer will not send in the money until after next Sunday. Any who wish to give may yet do so. There is no committee to solicit funds. This is purely a voluntary offering on the part of those who wish to give that our missionary work may be continued. God loved and gave; we also love and give.

I want to thank you for the offering on behalf of those who want churches and preachers and can have them only because you have given. I thank you for the missionaries who are giving their lives in the work of the Christian Church across the seas. I thank you for the mission boards which are struggling with debt in order that the work may increase rather than decrease. And I thank you for myself, your pastor. The splendid way in which you have responded to this call of the church greatly encourages me to undertake greater things for the Lord. This sort of co-operation and sacrifice will make our church grow and keep our hearts warm and sweet.

With very best wishes to all who take the time to read this message, and with fervent prayers for all my people, I remain,

Faithfully yours,
F. C. LESTER.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR AN ASSET TO ANY COMMUNITY.

By W. H. BAKER

President Va. State C. E. Union.

Forty-five years ago in a city in the northern part of Maine the need for a distinct young people's organization was so great that Francis E. Clark, pastor of the Williston Congregational Church, Portland, Maine, organized an organization giving it the name of Christian Endeavor. This organization proved such a valuable asset to their church and the community that it started branching to other communities, cities and states, and on and on 'till it crossed the sea and at the present time Christian Endeavor is known in every country, and nation and millions will testify to its worth and value.

Denominational leaders and church workers every where realize the need of an organization that will hold its young people, for our young people are the material which go to make up our churches and our communities. If we do not train them in the right way our country as a whole will suffer. Christian Endeavor, if its principles are properly carried out, will train our young people in the right way and they will prove an asset in anything they undertake. One might say that the Sunday Schools are doing this, and we grant that the Sunday Schools are doing a magnificent piece of work. They are teaching the great truths of the Bible and the correct way of living, but in no Sunday School is there given an opportunity for its members to express themselves; and without expression there is stagnation. Loss of interest then creeps in and members soon drop out. This is where Christian Endeavor proves that it can hold its young people, for it encourages its young people to express themselves holding them in that adolescent age, tying them to the church and they in turn will prove an asset to their church and community. Christian Endeavor, during its forty-five years of existence, has proven that it can do this and there is a continued growth of Junior, Intermediate and Senior societies throughout this and foreign countries.

Christian Endeavor is an asset to any community because it develops consecration, and never in the history of the world has the need of consecration been greater. With the various forms of religions and sects that are continually coming to light, with the increasing defiance and contempt of all laws of God and man we are beginning to realize that it is necessary for our young people to fully consecrate themselves to Christ and over-throw these evils that are confronting our churches, cities and nation. Just in the past month an organization was incorporated in the State of New York for the purpose of waging active war upon our Bible and Christianity, and shame on such a great state as New York which will allow the incorporation of such an organization, whose main object is to tear down the things which are so dear to the hearts of we Americans. This organization, with its charter and large membership, have announced that in the near future they will erect a series of radio stations and will broadcast their vile propaganda all over America. Charles Smith, president of this association announces, "Our Association will endeavor to stop all religion in public schools, prevent issuance of religious proclamations by government officials, prevent the flying of church flags and erase from the American coins the inscription, "In God We Trust." Just a week ago our daily paper published the following paragraph:

FORM "DAMNED SOULS" SOCIETY.

Rochester, N. Y., March 3.—The Rochester Journal and the Post Express says today that a "Damned Souls" society has been formed by the students at the University of Rochester, a Baptist institution, "to prove the necessity of atheism and to abolish belief in God and all religions based on that belief." With these things a known fact we see the need of the consecration of our young people, and Christian Endeavor is doing this in its weekly meetings. One-twelfth of all Christian Endeavor meetings is called the consecration meeting, and is devoted mainly to emphasizing different phases of the thought of consecration. The prayer meeting topics for these meetings have to do always with the higher spiritual life, with our relation to Christ, with our supreme duties and most precious privileges, with all that is involved in complete devotion to our Redeemer.

Christian Endeavor is an asset to any community because it develops a community spirit. A religious organization is the base of all agencies for inspiring community spirit. Its system of officers and committees fit in with the system of government in communities, state and nation. The Christian Endeavor Unions bring together young people from various churches and from all sections of the city, from all grades of society, so that they are able to see community problems from all view points. All of this makes the society equally efficient in developing a community spirit. Young people see the need of improvements in a community and if enough enthusiasm can be aroused and enough pressure brought to bear, improvements can be brought to materialize. Endeavorers can become interested in a community museum in which historic objects should be gathered, together with a representation of the fauna and flora and geological deposits of the district. Much can be done to beautify most communities, with "clean-up-days," the creation of parks, the planting of trees and flowers, contests in well kept yards, the laying of better paving, improving street lighting, clear and uniform street signs, and innumerable other betterments. The various festivals may be celebrated: a community Christmas tree, carol singing in the streets, an "old home" week, a "safe and sane Fourth of July," an old-fashioned union service for Thanksgiving full of Christian Endeavor novelties and zest. Community spirit shown by Endeavorers is contagious and can be spread all over a community, it will make any town or city a better place to live in. It is the spirit in our clubs, our colleges, our schools that makes them the success they are, take the spirit out of the Rotary Club and you will find that it will die, and not only the Rotary, but any organization or community will suffer without a spirit. This is why Christian Endeavor urges its young people to take an interest in its community and if they do, no one can say that they are not an asset. Our boys and girls of today are our citizens of tomorrow, and if we can instill into them a community spirit when they are young we can readily see that our communities will be brighter, less law-breaking and a better place to live in.

Christian Endeavor is an asset to any community because it develops executives. In every walk of life there is need of executive ability, the church is continually calling for leaders, our Sunday Schools are in need of trained men and women and our communities fully realize the need of men of executive ability. As stated before, Christian Endeavor organization resembles city and state government. Every society has its president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary and various communities and most civic organizations use the same plan, and young people receiving training in the Christian Endeavor organizations and societies are not novices when they are called on for greater and larger tasks. A Christian Endeavor president is trained how to preside over a business meeting, how to plan and outline new projects, how to make the "other fellow" do things, and when this training is received in a religious organization such as a Christian Endeavor Society, the Church and Community should have no hesitancy in calling its young people for bigger things. You can go into any society of Christian Endeavor when they are having their business meeting and you will find their meeting carried on in a manner that will make you wish that you could have had the same training when you were young. With this training started in the youngest society, with every member given an opportunity to hold office, great things can be expected from any community which is fortunate enough to have as its citizens young people who have received such training.

The three things mentioned in the above paragraphs are just a few of the various things which are emphasized in a Christian Endeavor society. Every one will agree that, greater consecration, more community spirit and better executives will make our young people better citizens, and being better citizens will naturally make them an asset to the community in which they live. A Christian Endeavor Society in any community will prove an asset, and to let you prove it yourself we urge you to organize one in your community and see the good it does you, your community, your city, your state and your nation.

Newport News, Va.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

To Churches and Missionary Societies of the North Carolina Christian Conference:

The "One Day Schools of Missions" will be held this spring as follows:

Warren-Vance District—Liberty Church, April 3d. Miss Margaret Alston, Superintendent, Henderson, N. C.

Halifax District—Ingram Church, April 10th. Mrs. T. W. Chandler, Superintendent, Virgilina, Va.

Alamance District—Shallow Ford Church, April 14th. Mrs. J. D. Strader, Superintendent, Burlington, N. C.

Guilford District—Pleasant Ridge Church, April 15th. Mrs. L. P. Wicker, Superintendent, Greensboro, N. C.

Lee-Chatham District—Sanford Church, April 11th. Miss Emma Hart, Superintendent, Sanford, N. C.

Wake-Johnson District—Raleigh Church, April 17th. Mrs. L. L. Vaughn, Superintendent, Raleigh, N. C.

Randolph - Montgomery District—Ramseur Church, April 18th. Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Superintendent, Seagrove, N. C.

We are indeed anxious to have every church in the conference represented in some one of these meetings, whether or not they have a missionary organization the church. Send a delegation of young people to the "One Day School of Missions" in your district. Last year the meetings were a great success. This year we hope that they will be a much greater help and inspiration than heretofore. Let all work together for Jesus; it is His work, not ours, and He will bless us.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Field Secretary.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

COMING EVENTS.

Valley of Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Leaksville Church, near Luray, Va., May 12, 13, 14, 1926.

Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Rock Stand Church, May 29, 30, 1926.

Georgia and Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, North Highlands Church, Columbus, Ga., May 29, 30, 1926.

Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention; place unsettled, on July 13, 14, 15, 1926.

Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Ramseur, N. C., Date not decided upon.

Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Waverly, Va., June 20, 21, 1926.

North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Lynchburg, Va., date not yet decided.

Elon Summer School of Christian Education, Elon College, N. C. July 26 to August 4, 1926.

Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education, Wadley, Ala., August 8 to 15, 1926.

(For information about any of the above, write to PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson I.—April 4, 1926.

“JESUS APPEARS TO HIS DISCIPLES.”

(Easter Lesson.)

GOLDEN TEXT: “Because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.”—John 20: 29.

LESSON: John 20: 24-21: 25.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Rev. 1: 9-18.

The lesson embraces the record of three appearances of the Risen Christ to His disciples. On the first occasion ten of the disciples—Judas was dead and Thomas was not there—were in the room, probably the same upper room in which Jesus had eaten the Last Passover with His disciples. It was at evening on the first day of the week. The doors were locked because of the fear of the Jews. It does not state what the disciples were talking about, but it is not difficult to imagine what was the central theme of their conversation. The rapid turn of events, culminating in the coming of Mary Magdalene with the message that she had seen the Lord and that she had spoken with Him, furnished these ten men with a subject for conversation that was vital with throbbing human interest. Undoubtedly they were talking about Jesus and about the mystery of the empty tomb and the fact of His resurrection.

Suddenly, and it must have been startlingly, Jesus appeared unto them, standing in their midst. And this in spite of the fact that the door was shut. We may have our conjectures about the nature of the resurrection body, and we may stoutly insist upon a resurrection body, but in any event we must admit that the resurrection body was different from an unglorified body, for not only on this occasion, but on other occasions the Master did things that an ordinary body would have made impossible. “How are the dead raised up, and with what body do they come?” is a question that men have asked from Paul’s day until our day. The question cannot be answered as to absolute detail, but it would seem that our body is glorified, and as the story here implies, it will be recognizable. The Master showed His disciples His hands and His feet. There was no doubt that it was He, for there were the prints of the nails. One thing is certain: the man who wrote this gospel had no hesitancy in affirming that the disciples saw Jesus Christ alive after His crucifixion. We may not be clear in regard to it all, but let us not surrender the central truth of the thing: Jesus Christ is not a dead, remote hero; He is a living and present Saviour and Lord.

“But Thomas, one of the twelve was not with them when Jesus came.” It is not necessary to go into detail as to why Thomas was not present, even if we knew. Suffice it to say that he was not present, and because he was not present, he missed seeing his Lord on this first glorious Easter Day. It is not necessary to discuss all the excuses which men offer as to why they do not go to church. Suffice it to say that because they do not go, they miss the inspiration that comes from the service of worship, the warmth and strength of fellowship, the higher aspiration that is born of the spirit of God in the quiet places of human life. Let every man beware of being away from the place where he is most likely to meet the risen Christ!

When Thomas did come, and the disciples told him that they had seen the Lord, he immediately became the charter member of that great crowd of people who are “from Missouri.” “Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe,” said Thomas. It is not quite as bad as it seems. As someone has said, there is more real faith in honest doubt than in many man-made creeds. It is not wrong to doubt. The wrong lies in refusing to follow the truth.

The second appearance was eight days later. The disciples were again within, and this time Thomas was with them. Again the door was shut and again Jesus came and stood in their midst. It would seem that his special visit was for the sake of Thomas. The Lord would not have any honest doubter remain in the dark. He wanted the men who went out to witness for Him to know whom they had believed, and why. But when Thomas came face to face with the living Christ, he did not demand physical proof. The Christ himself was the proof. It is so today. Men may argue about Christ and they may doubt Christ, but when they come to see the He challenges Thomas to do the very thing that Thomas had said he must do before he believed. Christ himself, He is an answer to their arguments and their doubts. Blessed are those who, not having seen, believe. Happy is the man who does not require demonstrable proof of spiritual things.

The third appearance of Jesus was by the sea of Tiberias. The disciples had been fishing, and after fishing all night they had caught nothing. In the morning the Master stood on the shore. To the inquiry as to what they had caught they replied that they had caught nothing. At his command they let down the net and caught so many fish that the net was full to overflowing. Men catch more when they obey the divine purpose. Our modern organizations with all their efficiency will not be fruitful unless they are divinely guided.

When they at last came to the shore, they found a fire of coals there and fish laid thereon and bread. Here is a fine touch—the Master providing for the physical needs of men who are tired and hungry and discouraged. Man cannot live by bread alone, but he must have bread. Here is a parable of life. The Master is indeed the Bread of Life.

When they had dined, the Master asked Peter if he loved Him. When Peter replied to the effect that he did, Jesus told him to feed His lambs. The question was repeated twice more, and Peter answered in the affirmative each time. And each time Jesus commanded Peter to feed his sheep and his lambs. If a man love God the same is known of him. The test of a man’s love to God is the man’s love to his fellowmen. If we do not love our fellowmen whom we have seen, how can we love God whom we have not seen? If we love God, in what better way can we show that love than by doing something for God’s children. Here is the acid test. Not every one that saith Lord, Lord, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Show me your love of God without your works, and I will show you my love of God by my works.

Teaching Points.

1. Jesus Christ is alive from the dead.
2. The Master brings a message of peace to His disciples.
3. A knowledge of the fact that Christ is risen from the dead brings joy.
4. A man misses something when he is not present when the Master moves in the midst.
5. Honest doubt may have its place in a man’s thought.
6. Jesus Christ meets honest doubts in a practical way.
7. Blessed is the man whose faith in spiritual things does not rest on physical facts.
8. The risen Christ is interested in the needs of men.
9. Obedience to the divine suggestion always brings results.
10. A practical test of our love for Christ is our service to our fellowmen.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

April 4, 1926.

“THOUGHTS OF EASTER.”

(Consecration Meeting.)

TOPIC: “Thoughts Suggested by Easter.”

SCRIPTURE LESSON: I. Cor. 15: 55-58; Col. 3: 1-4.

If man is to live beyond death, where is its sting? Death is only the gateway to a higher life than this earthly one of ours—it is the transition. One often wonders if what one has done here passes with them to eternity. Nothing, so the scientists tell us, not so much as an atom, of the material world has been lost since the world began. Then, if the physical world is so permanent in spite of its many changes, certainly the good work of the spiritual man lives on in the life to come. And Paul tells us that we are raised with Christ, that the resurrection is as certain as the fact that Christ lives. And in order to prepare ourselves for that better life beyond the grave, we must live our best here.

Suggestive Thoughts.

There is no death, as Jesus intimated in John 11: 26, life goes on through death, which only opens new doors to us.

(Continued on page 13.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

Our report this week gets us a little above the fourth rung of the ladder. Climbing is fine when we have those who will push. We certainly have some good pushers in our churches and Sunday Schools. We are doing our best to get every Sunday School on our list this year. We are now wondering which conference will have the largest number on during the first quarter.

We will let you know in our next report which one gets on the banner list for the first quarter.

The "flu" has hit us pretty hard for the last month. We have had quite a number of cases, but none serious so far.

Easter Sunday comes the fourth of April. Our special Easter offering comes but once a year. Our Easter offering goal this year is $4,000.00. This is the first goal to reach this year. We are anxious to reach it.

Our new building is nearing completion and it is a beautiful building. Mail us a check to help us finish paying for it.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR MARCH 25, 1926.

Amount brought forward	3,711.77
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Greensboro, Palm Street	$ 4.40
Durham First Church	11.94
New Lebanon	2.00
New Lebanon Baraca Class	2.00
Elon College, Church	1.00
	21.34
Western North Carolina Conference:
Randleman	3.05
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Clayton	$ 1.00
Mt. Pleasant	1.50
Raleigh First	3.48
Oak Level	3.25
Mebane	1.25
Piney Plains	5.11
	15.59
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Berea (Nansemond)	$ 10.00
Wakefield	1.93
	11.93
Alabama Conference:
Wadley	$ 1.33
Mt. Zion65
	1.98
Virginia Valley Conference:
Antioch	7.95
Special Offerings:
Lawrence Holt Endowment Fund	$150.00
Mrs. H. A. Culver	45.00
	195.00
New Building Fund:
J. W. Barney, Elon College	$ 5.00
J. W. Wiufree, Virgilina, Va.	2.00
Mrs. J. D. Strader's Class, Burlington	5.00
H. C. Simpson, Greensboro, N. C. .	10.00
Odessa Barber, Shallow Ford Ch..	5.00
Violet J. Holt, Burlington	5.00
Nellie Mae Holt, Burlington	5.00
Wilmer Holt, Burlington	5.00
R. M. Rothgeb, Elon College	10.00
Ettie K. Harvey, Lynchburg, Va..	10.00
	62.00
Total for week	$ 318.84
Grand total	$ 4,030.61

THE TRIAL OF JESUS.

Luke tells us of the indictment, "And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar saying that he himself is Christ a King." Keep in mind that, however, false, and malignant the above, that the Roman law demanded "the supreme character of the imperial religion," which was pagan. "It was high treason to refuse to believe in the deification of an Emperor, or an Empress." This, Jesus, and His followers, refused to do. The teachings of Christ was against every heathen god.

Jesus stood before the Roman Prosecutor early in the morning. Pilate said to the Jews: "What accusation bring ye against this man?" They reply: "If he were not a malfactor, we would not have delivered him up unto thee."

Jesus stands alone. Seemingly not a friend of his was there. It was Jesus before Pilate then. It is Pilate before Jesus now. The readers of the Christian Sun are familiar with the New Testament account of the questions and replies. Note this question by Pilate: "Art thou then a King?" Jesus said, "Thou sayest that I am a King. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I unto the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Everyone that is of the truth hearest my voice." This description of the Kingdom of the Master is the best ever spoken. Pilate is anxious to get rid of his prisoner, and sends Him to Herod. He makes no reply to Herod. The murderer of John the Baptist, in mockery, clothed Christ in a gorgeous robe, and sent Him back to Pilate. All proposals to release Jesus, only intensified the cry, "Crucify." Pilate washed his hands—wrote the statement "to be nailed to the cross," and ordered the Roman Soldiers to crucify the World's Redeemer.

After the spitting, buffeting, hooting, thorn crowning and unmerciful flagellation, the prisoner, bearing his own cross, was taken outside the city, to be crucified. The body was stripped naked before it was nailed to the cross. After death, burial was usually forbidden. Pilate granted the request of Joseph, of Arimathea. The body of Jesus was buried. The Roman law declared that the blood of any one crucified was attained, and it was not lawful to mention the name of a crucified man or woman. The cross, before Jesus died on one, was the most execrated and despised symbol in the world. Now it is the most honored. Not that the cross saves, but the Crucified. Every Sunday morning the cross is elevated above "The Union Jack" and the billowy folds of "The Star Spangled Banner." It glitters about the neck of beauty, and purity. It is the spirit, from Cathedral spire, to catch the rays of the rosy fingered morn, and lost to be kissed by the rays of the setting sun, as it hangs in loops of fire over a world that Christ died to save.

—D. A. L.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 12.)

Easter did not change Jesus' character. Resurrection will not change ours. We take with us the disposition we have created for ourselves on earth.

"Our Lord has written the promise of the resurrection not in books alone, but in every leaf in springtime."—Luther.

To Think About.

Why do people fear to die?
Why do we believe that Jesus rose from the dead?
Why do we believe in life after death?

CALL O FPORTO RICO.

(Continued from page 5.)

in which to meet. In the States, the Christian Church meets in nice buildings, and we feel that such buildings must mean much to the worshippers. In the name of more than a thousand people, I beg for a house in which to worship the Christ, and for a pastor to teach us the way of life

Representative from PenueLas: Ours is a new Church at PenueLas, four miles east of Santa Isabel. In February, 1924, Mr. Pedro Roman came to us fresh from the seminary, and in June of the same year he organized a Christian Church with twenty-five members. Each week we have service in a little rented house. We feel that if we had a nice Church with Sunday School rooms we could do much better work and could attract many more of the 824 people in our town. Do you think the Churches of America will help us build?

Representative from Jauca: You call us only an outpost at Jauca, but our Church was organized in 1904 with five charter members. We are a mile nearer Santa Isabel than PenueLas, and have nearly seven hundred people in our village. There ought to be a Church membership of four hundred instead of twenty-four, but we have had only one brief service a week, and many times during the year not that much, and we have no

(Continued on page 14.)

Children are an heritage of the Lord
—Ps. 127: 3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5¾ x 3¾ inches

Specimen of Type.
16 But Je'sus called them unto him,
and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them
not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with
Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished
Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold
titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Moroccol,
overlapping covers, round
corners, red under gold
edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound
in French Morocco, genuine
Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF PRAYER.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33:3.

MONDAY.

AN ESSENTIAL TO PRAYER.

Text: "When thou prayest enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy father."—Matt. 6:6.

St. Augustine said, "Go not abroad; retire unto thyself, for truth dwells in the inner man." The Psalmist said, "Commune with your own heart and be still," and "be still and know that I am God." It was the "still small voice" that Elijah heard, when he was all alone that made him aware of God. It was the silent burning bush to Moses when he was all alone that made him know God. It was the aloneness of Jesus when He got away from everybody when He prayed and was kept one with the Father, and got His strength for living His life; it is the experience of mankind thruout Christendom that spiritual power is obtained and wrought in the alone hours of life. It cannot be had otherwise.

The reason we are powerless is because we are prayerless and we are prayerless because we do not pay the price of aloneness with Him. Everybody is hurrying, rushing on from morning till late at night—everything occupies the mind but prayer. Then we pray briefly and very abstractly. I know a minister who is busy with his duties of the Lord and his family. From early morning until late at night he is in a race and he has barely time to eat. I happened to know also that though this man lives a spirit of prayer, the best possible, no doubt, he is but little alone with God. In fact he is never alone from others and therefore can never be alone with God. That man's prayer life and power life is waning.

I have known others who found the misfortune of sickness their greatest blessing because it gave them the opportunity to be alone with God and look up.

What else does the text mean than this? The "closet" means "alone." "Shut the door" means shut out everything else. Then one can pray. There is not much praying otherwise.

Prayer.—Let the head of the household lead today and close with the Lord's prayer.

TUESDAY.

BE THINE OWN JUDGE.

Text: "Try your own selves, whether ye be in the faith: prove your own selves—Christ is in you unless indeed ye be reprobate."—II Cor. 13:5.

"Study to show thyself approved of God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."—II Tim. 2:15.

"It is dangerous for a man too suddenly or too easily to believe himself. Wherefore let us examine, watch, observe, and inspect our own hearts, for we ourselves are our greatest flatterers. We should every night call ourselves to an account.

What infirmity have I mastered today? What passion opposed? What temptation resisted? What virtue acquired.

Our vices will abate of themselves if they be brought every day to the Christ. Oh the blessed sleep that follows such a diary! Oh the tranquillity, liberty, and greatness of that mind which is a spy upon itself, and a private censor upon its own manners! It is my custom every night, so soon as the candle is out, to run over the words and actions of the past day; and I let nothing escape me, for why should I fear the sight of my errors when I can admonish and forgive myself? I was a little too hot in such a dispute: my opinion might well have been withheld, for it gave offence and did no good. The thing was true; but all truths are not to be spoken at all times. I would I had held my tongue, for there is no contending, either with fools or with our superiors. I have done ill, but it shall be no more. If every man would but then look into himself, it would be the better for us all! What can be more reasonable than this daily review of a life that we cannot warrant for a moment? Our fate is set, and the first breath we draw is only our first motion toward our last. There is a great variety in our lives, but all tends to the same issue. We are born to lose and to perish, to hope and to fear, to vex ourselves and others, and there is no antidote against a common calamity but virtue; for the foundation of thy joy is in the conscience."—Seneca.

Prayer.—Our Father, make our daily prayers a communion with Thee and a stay with our own hearts,—a trial of our own ways to see that they be right, and a turning toward Thee from all that we find wrong and lead us into the life everlasting. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

BROTHERS.

Text: "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ."—Gal. 6:2.

A life without love in it is like a heap of ashes upon a deserted hearth with the fire dead, the laughter stilled, and the light extinguished. It is like a winter landscape—with the sun hidden, the flowers frozen, and the wind whispering thruout the withered leaves. God knows we need all the unselfish love that can come to us. For love is seldom unselfish. There is usually the motive and the price. Do you remember William Morris and how his life was lived, his fortune spent, his hands busied—in the service of others? He was the father of the settlement movement, of co-operative homes for working people, and of the arts and crafts revival, in our day. He was a soldier of the common good. After he was gone—his life began to grow in radiance and power, like a beacon set high upon a dangerous shore. In the twilight of his days he wrote what I like to think was his creed—and mine: "I'm going your way, so let us go hand in hand. You help me and I'll help you. We shall not be here very long, for soon death, the kind old nurse, will come back and rock us all to sleep. Let us help one another while we may."

—FRANK B. TEBBETTS.

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, may we have so much of the Spirit of Christ in the world that all may be able to be brothers to others going the same way we are going. May we take not vengeance nor bear any grudge against anyone, but may we do unto others as we would have them do unto us. Teach us to fear Thee and keep thy Commandments. In His Name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

KEEPING THE TEMPLE.

Text: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."—Ps. 91:1.

"Keep your minds so filled with Truth and Love that sin, disease, and death cannot enter them. It is plain that nothing can be added to the mind already full. There is no door though which evil can enter, and no space for evil to fill in a mind filled with goodness. Good thoughts are an impervious armor; clad therewith you are completely shielded from the attacks of error of every sort. And not only yourselves are safe, but all whom your thoughts rest upon are thereby benefited. The self-seeking pride of the evil thinker benefited. The self-seeking pride of the evil thinker injures him when he would harm others. Goodness involuntarily resists evil. The evil thinker is the proud talker and doer. The right thinker abides under the shadow of the Almighty. His thoughts can only reflect peace, good will towards men, health, and holiness."

Prayer.—Heavenly Father, dwell Thou in this temple of ours that it may be heard and known of men to be the abiding place of the Living God. May be so filled with the Spirit that there may be no place for evil. In His Name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

AS JESUS SEES.

Text: "Workers together with Him." (12 Cor. 6:1), as "Working in them to will and to do for his good pleasure."—Phil. 2:13.

We are enjoined to live each day regarding others as Jesus does. See others as Jesus sees them. To do this one's whole life must be interfused with the divine presence manifesting itself in the temper as loving folks, with and "Enthusiasm of humanity" and of God. This can come only in realizing the soul's boundless value of even the most sinful and despised, and the relation of all to God as Father and Christ as our big brother of whom all are brothers. When we can obtain this blessed state all things will become new and we will yearn with sympathy for the man that might be or ought to be in Truth and Righteousness. To such are given "an insatiable desire for doing good and an abundant outpouring of holy inspiration.

Prayer.—Our Father, we know not how to express ourselves in the overwhelming demand of mankind, a brotherhood whom we are told we must regard as Jesus does. Without Thee through Jesus it is impossible. Increase our devotion, our consecration, and our Faith that we may rise to these heights and make happy and be happy all our days. In His Name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

CHRISTIAN TYPE OF LIFE.

Text: "By this shall men know that ye are my disciples, if ye love one another."—Jno. 13:35.

"Love one another as I have loved you."—Jno. 15:12.

All love passages of the Bible tell us that the all-embracing virtue of the soul is love. This ideal was born into humanity through Jesus. It was the keynote of the apostolic ministry. It means boundless good will directed to the highest good and perfection of its object, viz. human personality, viewed always in the light of Jesus. It is inspired and is charged with highest moral purposes, ready to do and to (Continued on page 13.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

My dear Kiddies:

Your editor is getting well fast. All the nice letters are working a charm, and I like letters so much better than pink and white pills—don't you? Oh, yes! yes!

One dear Kiddie sent love over the telephone by his mother—now wasn't that dear! I love all my Kiddies a lot and a lot.

YOUR EDITOR.

Here's a beautiful card and verse from a wonderful class in my Sunday School at Burlington:

"So many folks are missing you,
So many people care,
Please don't feel lonesome in your room,
For all our hearts are there.
"MERRY MAIDS PHILATHEA CLASS."

And here are two more letters:

Dear Miss Madge:

How are you getting along. I am just fine. I am in school now, and I am having a good time. Are you? I hope so. I wonder what you are doing today. I am all right. I think you are good to me. We are all drawing now and are having a good time. Write to me.

With lots of love from

AELYNE WHITESELL.

Elon College, N. C.

Dear Miss Moffitt:

I will write you a few lines today. I am a little girl ten years of age and am in the fifth grade. My school teacher is Miss Lena C. Morrison. She is a good teacher, and we all like her fine. My father takes THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and I always look for the Kiddies' Korner first. I enjoy reading it very much. I am a member of Big Oak Christian Church. I am sorry you have the "Flu" and hope you are better now. I am out of school today with the cold. I have made all my grades and am expecting to be promoted to the sixth grade next year. Our teacher is giving a prize to the one who gets the most head marks. I have the most, seventy, and the next one has forty-nine.

With best wishes to all the Kiddies, lovingly,

LOIS FREEMAN.

Eagle Springs, N. C.

THE COIN.

Into my heart's treasury
I slipped a coin
That time cannot take
Nor a thief purloin—

Oh, better than the minting
Of a gold-crowned king
Is the safe-kept memory
Of a lovely thing.

—Sara Teasdale.

MARCH ADVICE.

Be very polite to the Wind, my child,
For the Wind's a fellow both wise and wild.
A tramp, he travels from town to town
With his bag of tricks like a circus clown.
The Chimney pots are his pipes to play;
The sails are his dancing partners gay.
He leads them out and away from shore

Over the sea's blue, polished floor.
He never rests, he never tires;
He blows on grass blades and gilded spires,
On tasseled corn and fields of wheat,
And the skirts of the farmer's wife so neat!
If you chance to meet him, always say:
"Wind, are you feeling well today?"
Be sure to lift the cap from your head,
Or the Wind may do it himself instead!

Rachel L. Field.

DUSTING DONE FOR THE DAY.

Psst!

Peter turned to see three little Tiger Cubs merrily waving their tails.

"Look, Mother, look! The red ball is rolling up in the East!" cried the three little Cubs in chorus.

All the while that Mother Tiger had been talking, lighter and brighter had been growing the sky—and Peter had never noticed it at all.

"Sure enough, dawn is here!" growled Mother Tiger, and looked pleased. "A new day in which to work a little, play a little and be happy in. Come, children, don't let the rising sun find us with mussed fur and straggly whiskers!" Mrs. Tiger set to work to wash her face and hands.

"Ker-choo!"

Suddenly the clear morning air became heavy. Something flew into Peter's eyes, up his nose, into his mouth. He sneezed, once, twice, and again.

Peter wiped his eyes, sneezed a fourth time, and, looking about turned to ask Mother Tiger if she knew what was chocking him, when he caught sight of the three little Cubs. And then he didn't need to ask that question.

Three little Cubs were rolling over and over and over in the road, scratching and scraping and kicking up their legs in great glee and stirring up a cloud of dust that almost hid them from the boy. And it was the dust they kicked up that had flown into Peter's throat.

"Good gracious, stop them!" Peter grumbled. "Why are they making such a mess? Doesn't that dust bother you, Mrs. Tiger? Aren't they getting dirty?"

Mrs. Tiger chuckled.

"The children are getting clean—taking their morning bath, Two-Legs. Be a little Cub ever so neat, horrid little insects will hop in his fur. He can't dig them out, he can't wash them off, and so he rolls in the dust and rubs them off that way. Let 'em alone—they'll soon be tired and glad to stop. There! Now they are going to have a game of 'I Spy!'" —Florence S. Vincent.

"MUVVERS."

One time, I wuz so very small,
I prit' near wuzn't there at all—
An' Muvver says I wuz as red
An' hadn't any hair—an' led
My folks a nawfle life—an' cried
An' bawled—an' more she tried
To hesh me up, the more I'd yell,
She says—an' if I'd stop a spell
They'd wunder if I wuzn't sick—
An' I would squootch my face an' kick
An' dab my fists in things, an' go
In spazzums 'most, but even so
My Muvver loved me!. Even hol'ring
An' red, she loved me! Queerer' thing!
She telled me 'at she loved me more
'An anything 'at wuz before
Er since—er go'n to be, I spoze!
Muvvers is funny, goo'nness knows!
Why, even 'fore you git a name
They love you—'ist the very same!

Harry Lee.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from page 12.)

dare, and suffer for that good. Christian love lives to help others and make them strong for what they ought to be.

Prayer.—O Lord, redeem us Thy servants for Christian usefulness. Give unto us the conception of right relations to Thee and among mankind. May all mankind and especially that of our own community be so at peace and trust and intimacy that Christianity may have its full scope. In His Name we ask it. Amen.

SUNDAY.

WHILE PASSING.

Text: "To do good and to communicate forget not" (Hebrew 13:16). "Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven."—Matt. 5:16.

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving, cheering words while their ears can hear them and while their hearts can be thrilled by them.—HENRY WORD BEECHER.

Prayer.—Our dear Heavenly Father, if we are thy workmanship, created by Jesus for good works while we are passing, impress upon us as never before our bounden duty to work and render unto Thee and our fellowmen a faithful servant in Jesus' Name we ask it. Amen.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us
MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00
 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

CALL OF PORTO RICO.

(Continued from page 11.)

church or chapel in which to meet. At present we meet in a little rented house. Mr. Romero brings us some fine messages, but with the other churches he has, he is unable to do much for us. Some of us are discouraged and are almost ready to give up in despair. And yet we feel that the message of the Christian Church is the best thing that has ever come to us. Had we the money, we would build a church and pay a preacher, but we haven't the money. Will the churches in the States help us?

Representative of Salinas: Salinas is where Miss Williams labored so long and lovingly. The population of our city is 1,385, but the surrounding territory brings up the number that should be reached by the Church to more than 11,000. Sixty-four Christians among so many can do only a small part of the needed work.

Our church was organized in 1904; a building was dedicated in 1908, at a cost of $2,500 on a lot given by the town. In 1921 a parsonage was bought at a cost of $1,200. Early in 1924 the house in which Miss Williams was doing her splendid industrial work was offered for sale, and had your people not come to the rescue at once the work would have been greatly retarded. Two liberal gifts were offered, and then Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Foor, of Everett, Pa., asked for the privilege of paying the full purchase price of $2,800. This is now known as the Foor Neighborhood House.

We have a Daily Vacation Bible School, industrial work, and Kindergarten, in addition to the regular services on Sunday. Rev. Aquino Ojeda is our pastor—since Miss Williams went away. Oh, we are so grateful for all she meant to us during her long years of unselfish and suffering service! We thank you for sending her to us. And our hope and prayer is that some one else may come soon to take her place and carry on the work she so much loved.

Representative of La Playa: Miss Williams loved our little town of 500 by the sea. Often she came to La Playa and visited in our homes and told us of her Christ. It is only a mile south of Salinas, but it was a long walk for her when in such feeble health. She often came—because she loved us so. And we loved her. Our little rented chapel has not seemed the same since she went away. Rev. Ojeda comes regularly to preach to us, and we greatly appreciate his service. But many of us are hoping that soon we may have a nice new chapel in memory of the one who meant so much to us. Can you help us?

Representative of La Rosada: Only three miles east of Salinas lies my home town of La Rosada, with a population of four thousand, if the surrounding territory is included. Rev. Ojeda comes to us each week and preaches in a rented house. We like the message and the man. Perhaps some day we will be Christians. There are 4,000 of us waiting for the message of the Christian Church.

Rev. Pedro Roman: I am Rev. Pedro Roman, the travelling preacher of Salinas. I go four miles north to Sabana Llana, a community of 2,732, and hold services in a rented hall. I go to Las Marea, six miles east on the shore and hold services in a rented house. There are 400 people here. Las Arenas lies a mile and a half west of Salinas and is a town of 300, with fifteen hundred more in the surrounding community. I have recently begun holding services here in a rented house.

My pastorate, therefore, covers a distance of about eight miles by four miles, and has a population of near 5,000. Not many of the pastors in the States have such an opportunity. I shall be very happy when you can give us a parsonage and some chapels. Can you do it now?

Spirit of the Church: In silence I have listened to your pleas for help. My heart goes out to all of you, for I know your needs. You have made
(Continued on page 15.)

Keeping costs down and service up

IN this complicated economic age, when consumers are dependent upon the efficient performance of industry for the necessities of life, it is not only good business but also an obligation of industry to keep costs to consumers down and service to them up.

The Southern Railway System has achieved operating economies which enabled it to operate last year on freight charges that averaged 16 per cent lower than in 1921. These reductions applied to the 1925 traffic meant a saving of $27,000,000 to the shipping public.

And these rate reductions have been effected in spite of greatly increased taxes. In 1921, the Southern paid in taxes $3.80 of every $100 of its gross revenue, while last year it had to pay $6.39 of every $100. This increase in taxes is equivalent to $6,500,000 a year.

The service of the Southern has been kept up. Its capacity is larger, and the physical condition of the property better than ever before. In fact, it has spent about $112,000,000 in the last three years in making improvements and for new equipment.

The Southern is rendering a larger and better service at a lower price, and is promoting the welfare of the industries and agriculture of the South by keeping its costs down and its service up.

Railroad transportation is cheap. The charge on the Southern for hauling a car of 30 tons of freight one mile averages only 35 cents.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

ELON

COLLEGE

Auditorium Library Building Alamacne Hall—Administration Building Religious Activities Science Hall

CALL OF PORTO RICO.

(Continued from page 14.)

no unusual calls. All these twenty-five years your numbers and needs have been a silent challenge to the liberality of my heart. At times my people have responded generously, but there have also been the bad years. I have seen many open doors for service which have not been entered. Churches could have been organized and whole communities reached for Christ, if the people in the States had supplied the money and the workers. I realize that there must be new chapels—I think they should be churches—and there must be more workers, if the work is to accomplish what it should.

Rev. and Mrs. Barrett need a rest after their twenty-five years of hard work and heavy burden, but their hearts are in the work. They and the two Mortons surely must feel incapable of reaching seventy thousand people with the Christian message, even though they are assisted by three native pastors and one Bible woman. What can they do among so many?

And now the call comes from still other fields. Cities in which we have done no work are asking us to come.

I am glad you have brought your requests to the Church in the States. Many of my people have not really known what was being done with their money, and have not been greatly interested in your charming but needy land. The Mission Secretary, Dr. Minton, is doing his best to make known the facts. He is sending literature to all the churches telling what has been done and what the needs are, but even then many of the people never read the literature.

This year we hope to build at least two chapels. One of them will be at Salinas Playa, a memorial to Miss Williams, and the other at Descalabrado. I should be very happy if we could give all of you the churches, chapels and preachers that you need, but the funds are not available.

We are investing more heavily than usual this year in the Union Seminary, believing that in this way we can train leaders who in the future will be of greater service to the church. We

(Concluded on page 16.)

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN

Pipe Organ Expert

TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts

3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus. . . $1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations . . . $2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. . . $3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/2 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd, he will not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words; are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

CALL OF PORTO RICO.

(Concluded from page 15.)

hope to have another student there this year.

A movement to combine all Christian efforts in Porto Rico has been gaining momentum, and we have appointed a committee to investigate the details of the plan. It may be that within a very few years there will be only "The United Evangelical Church of Porto Rico" instead of the divided church as at present. In this I know you all rejoice.

The total budget for your work this year has been set at $13,896.00. This is not much when divided among seventeen preaching places and is used for the support of all the workers, to assist in the Seminary and to pay our part in the publication of the union paper. Indeed, many of our individual churches in the States have budgets far in excess of this for themselves, but it seems to be all that the more than a thousand of churches with as many pastors, will permit me to give to meet your needs. It seems hard, I know, but I must ask you to wait another year. It may be that I can help you then.

Yes, there are more than a hundred thousand members of the Christian Church, and if each one would give just a quarter for your work this year, we could practically double our budget. A quarter does not seem to be much for each one. It is not enough for a hair-cut, it will not buy a pound of chocolates, it will not supply some of my young people with chewing gum for a month, it is hardly the cost of a dozen eggs and will not buy a pound of ham. But twenty-five cents is more than I can expect each member of the Christian Church to give during a whole year for spreading the Gospel in Porto Rico. I suppose they have never thought about it that way. But I can't meet your needs this year, because I haven't the money. Oh, please come again next year, if you are still living—I may be able to help you then!

The End.

NOTE.—This playlet was given by the young people of Franklin, Va., at the morning service of Sunday, March 7, 1926.

How infirm and lean are all our plans without God! We can do nothing without Him. We can do all things with Him. This is the apostolic attitude to great undertakings: "Pray ye therefore."—James Vance.

It requires as many steps for a big man to come to Christ as it does for a small man. Long strides cannot set aside divine requirements.—Selected.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School

LOCATED AT

WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHNER, President

Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land. No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing

VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 E. Broad Street

RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1926.

NUMBER 13.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Plan Congress of Religions.—

Philadelphia is planning to call a Congress of Religions as a part of the international exposition to be held there. It will be modeled after the one held in Chicago in 1893 and will have as its purpose the promotion of religious tolerance in the United States. Such congresses of all the religions will certainly lead to a better understanding of the efforts which all are making, and a better understanding means a better world in which to live. We need a tolerant spirit throughout the religious world, and particularly in the United States.

President Congratulates Dr. Cadman.—

Among the many congratulatory notes received by Dr. S. Parks Cadman on the celebration of his twenty-fifth anniversary as pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., was one from President Coolidge. The President praised Dr. Cadman's sturdy Christianity and liberal and careful analysis of the Christian life and thought. He declared that his influence had reached far beyond his Church and his city, and hoped that his usefulness might continue for many another year. At the same time, Dr. Cadman's Church presented him with a purse of twenty-five thousand dollars.

The Church and the Theatre.—

There has been a perennial effort to bring about a closer co-operation between the Church and the theater. This came to a head recently at a dinner in New York attended by prominent ministers, religious teachers, editors, and playwrights. The meeting seemed harmonious in its hope for a closer co-operation, and a committee made up of some of the eminent figures in the clerical and theatrical world was formed to promote an adequate support for clean plays. At its head is Rev. George R. Andrews, chairman of the Federal Council of Churches' committee on religious and educational drama. It is hoped that this step will make for wholesome plays and lessen the opposition caused against the theater.

Looking Toward Prohibition.—

A bill has passed the legislative council at Madras reducing the number of places where liquor may be sold. This bill is the first step looking toward a dry India within the next twenty years. The measure, as originally introduced, provided for immediate prohibition, and the only opposition which even this measure excited came from the British members, who pled the old excuse of loss of revenue. This opposition, though in the minority, was strong enough to bring about the compromise. As it is, it is a hopeful sign from far away India that the people are looking forward to a better day. Whether or not the Christian Church has converted India to Christianity, it is making such laws as this possible. It is putting Christianity into the vital portions of the Indian life. And it may be that this is as well as the making of adherents to the various Churches.

Opposing Military Drill.—

A committee of one hundred has been formed to agitate for a referendum in Nebraska to determine whether compulsory military drill shall be continued in the Nebraska State University. The matter came to a head at the Baptist convention when the delegates voted to urge a referendum on the question and to take away the compulsory feature of the military drill at the university and to have no drill in the high schools. At the head of the committee of one hundred is Rev. Harry Huntington, Methodist student pastor at the university. The Baptists felt, as many others feel, that military training tends to make of the United States another Germany and to make possible another war.

Automobiles and Liquor.—

Dean Christian M. Gauss, of Princeton University, has declared that the illicit liquor evil and automobiles go hand in hand. Princeton is now making a drive against road houses and hot dog stands within the university zone, because of their handling of liquor. He has appealed to the Trenton authorities to assist him in his efforts to destroy a number of dives. President John Grier Hibben has appealed to the parents of undergraduates to withdraw from them the privilege of owning and driving automobiles while in residence. In an address to the mothers of Princeton undergraduates, President Hibben characterized athletics as a moral safeguard and outlet for energy, and stated that 80 per cent of Princeton students participated in athletics.

Hebrew Lectures to Seminary Students.—

Professor Samuel Cohen, of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, recently delivered a course of three lectures at Garrett Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill. Prof. Cohen spoke on "What is Judaism?" He stated that the educational aim of Judaism was the same as that of Christianity. He states the five points of reformed Judaism. They were: the ethical monotheism, the ethical life, the approach of God through prayer, and the coming of the messianic regime. Prof. Cohen's lectures at Garrett were the result of an arrangement between the two schools whereby there is to be an exchange of professors once each year. During the month of April a member of the Garrett faculty will speak at the Hebrew Union College on "Present Tendencies in Christianity." This arrangement promises to bring about a better understanding between Jew and Christian. Such an understanding is desperately needed, and if this plan can aid in it, it is to be heartily commended.

Provides for Veteran Ministers.—

James C. Penny, the great chain-store owner, has given five hundred thousand dollars for the erection of an apartment house at Green Cove Springs, Fla., in which will be provided house-keeping rooms for veteran ministers. The whole project is to be administered without charge, and the ministers to benefit by the gift are to be chosen by the James C. Penny Foundation from the Protestant Evangelical denominations, regardless of creed. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, New York City, is at the head of the foundation. This gift is an able recognition of the work of the veteran minister. Too few think of the minister after his days of usefulness are passed. Few of them are able to provide well for their old age on the meager salaries which they receive, and need the careful attention of the Church which they have served. They deserve far better than is usually provided for them by the superannuation boards, however generous they may be.

President's Father Dies.—

Col. John C. Coolidge, the father of the President, died on March 18th. Col. Coolidge's health had been failing for a year because of the strain, many believe, imposed upon him by being the father of a President. He felt that he had to receive visitors personally, and answered hundreds of letters inquiring about the famous son. Col. Coolidge was eighty years old. He was buried among the Vermont hills which he loved. There was no pomp and ceremony, but the father of the President was laid away to rest surrounded by his old neighbors whom he had always known and loved. It is recalled that very few fathers of Presidents were ever entertained at the White House. Dr. Harding, father of President Harding, is the only father in the history of the presidency who has ever seen his son elected to the presidency and then survive him. It seems that fathers of presidents have usually died while the future President was still young. Col. Coolidge, as a justice of the peace, swore his son into the highest office in the nation in the little front room of the Vermont cottage in the wee small hours of an August morning by the light of a kerosene lamp. It was an event never before witnessed in American history. Col. Coolidge could not be persuaded to live at the White House. He wanted to be and was active to the last. His longest visit came on the occasion of the death of the President's eldest son. The President made an effort to keep the colonel in Washington, but without avail.

NOTES-PERSONALS

The pastor of the Durham Christian Church has a notice in this week's issue, to which the attention of delegates to the Southern Christian Convention is called.

If because of sickness, indisposition, or inclement weather, the offering for the Emergency Mission Fund was not taken in March, will you help us to see that an offering is taken in April.

It is learned with pleasure that sand and brick are being placed on the ground at Bethlehem College, with which to begin the new, and much needed, building there. Here is hoping that the work may be prosecuted until the building is completed.

We learn that the First Church of Richmond has been holding Pre-Easter services during the present week. Dr. Ryan is a hard worker, and is doing a good work in Richmond. The church choir will put on an Easter Cantata on Sunday evening.

Some of the dates given last week by the Editor for the Missionary Rallies were incorrect, as these dates were changed after the information was handed us. However, Miss Browne gave the correct dates and places, and the same appear in their correct form elsewhere in this week's SUN.

We regret to learn that Rev. R. A. Whitten and a very large per cent of his congregation at Reidsville went down under the epidemic of "Flu" that prevailed there in March. Brother Whitten writes that owing to this epidemic, they will carry their Missions Campaign over into April that all may have a chance to contribute.

The "wets" and anti-prohibition folks are spending tens of thousands of dollars trying to convince the dry people of the United States that there is more liquor consumed under the dry laws than there was in the old "wet" days. Why then, have the "wets" become so anxious to repeal the dry laws—since liquor is what they want.

Owing to a very inclement and disagreeable day on the first Sunday in March, Rev. J. Lee Johnson, pastor, writes that the missionary offering was not taken at Catawba Springs or Plymouth, but will be taken, the Lord willing, the first Sunday in April. Other pastors with churches that have preaching once or twice a month, write to similar effect.

Very agreeable callers at THE SUN's editorial office last week, were Dr. W. W. Staley, Suffolk, Bro. P. J. Carlton, Richmond, and Hon. Ben T. Holden, Louisburg, N. C., who constitute the "Visiting Committee" of the Board of Trustees, of Elon College. These brethren reported their findings at the College as quite satisfactory and promising. They were here Friday, 26th, spend the hours of a busy day in inspection, visitation, and investigation.

The most interesting feature THE SUN has carried in many a day, is the fine sketch of Rev. D. F. Jones, our first missionary, which sketch is so vividly drawn by Bro. A. D. Woodworth of Japan, who knows and loves Bro. Jones. Many had, no doubt thought that Bro. Jones had passed to the spirit land, and will read with interest that he still lives and labors. A card or a letter to him from SUN readers who remember him, will no doubt be greatly appreciated. Bro. Woodworth very thoughtfully gives his present location and address.

Again we are indebted to the columns of THE CHRISTIAN SUN for a check for the Emergency Mission Fund, as these lines indicate: "Dear Brother Atkinson: Having learned through THE CHRISTIAN SUN that March has been designated as Mission Month, I am enclosing herewith $15, which I wish applied to the Mission Fund." This, like some other donations, comes from one not in touch with the church, save through the columns of THE SUN. We little estimate of what value our church paper is in keeping alive in the hearts of many the flame of loyalty and love for the church.

"My dear Friend: The time has come when we are to make our offering for the Emergency Mission Fund. I have tried faithfully to set before you the situation, and at each service this month emphasis has been placed on this vital subject. Enclosed you will find, not an envelope, but your envelope, in which you are asked to put your offering and, if possible, place it on the plate next Sunday morning, as a self-denial offering to the cause we love. The larger part of this offering will go to the support of the work in Porto Rico and Japan, where we have a million and seventy thousand people looking to us for the gospel. We are asking for an average of two dollars for each member. Some will not be able to give this much, so others will have to give much more. We want every boy and girl, every man and woman, to give liberally, just as you think He would have you give. When you have done this your pastor will be satisfied. Yours very truly, C. H. ROWLAND, Pastor." And no wonder pastor and people were rejoicing. Those pastors and people are rejoicing where they have carried their hearts and their souls into this great task. Those who have gotten most from Mission Month have, of course, been those who did their best, and put their heart and consecrated energy into the task, and then gave of their substance as unto the Lord. Only those who did little and gave less during Mission Month have anything to regret, while multitudes have much to rejoice over and to be thankful for.

THE SUN's Editor is in receipt of a most agreeable letter from his dear friend, Rev. A. D. Woodworth, one of our faithful missionaries at 26 Kasumi Cho, Zabu Tokio, Japan. Brother Woodworth, like other missionaries on the field, spends a busy day, and has obligations that absorb every hour of his time. In this very personal letter, Brother Woodworth gives his program of the day: "I get up at 6:00 A. M., hasten through preparation for breakfast, and after that and our morning prayers together, it is necessary to be at the school twenty minutes before the school begins to give a Bible talk to the students. This occurs at 7:20 A. M. Eight hours a day, three times a week, I spend in teaching English, and morals in the middle school, and six hours in the Aoyoma Gakuin, teaching New Testament Greek, besides these the students come to my house for four hours more of Greek Testament. Two evenings a week are spent with the boys who wish to study the Bible in English. Besides these there are the calls to preach in the churches on Sunday, to attend funerals, etc. Naturally there is more or less of business that I have to attend to in order to keep the work and the family going. I am only trying to keep up my part of the work, and do the things for which I am in Japan. I believe I do work hard and put in full time.

I do not want you or any one else to think we do not appreciate all the earnest effort and hard work which so many on that side are doing to keep up the financial end of the work. We do appreciate it." Speaking of the indebtedness of our Mission Board, and the regret and surprise at the accumulation of the debt, Brother Woodworth continues: "It has seemed to me that for the sake of the credit of the Mission Boards at the bank, the debt ought to be taken care of as soon as possible. But even such a problem is not so much for us to consider as for those of you who have done such great things in the way of raising money. We are very faithful in spending all that comes this way. We have just had a very tempting offer of a piece of land and a very good house that might for a number of years be used as a church, at a cost of $7,500, but as there is no money to buy with, we shall have to let go the opportunity." Yes, Brother Woodworth, we Christians have been letting opportunities like this pass in our Mission work through these twenty-five years. And we at the home base wonder if we are ever and always to let the opportunities pass of doing great and good things out "beyond the horizon" where the call is strong and loud indeed, and where our Lord has commanded us that we answer, and do as faithful disciples of His should? The closing paragraph of Dr. Woodworth's letter desires that they may be remembered in the work, that they "may not spend our time in this land in beating the air."

"MUCH UNION PROPAGANDA"—A REPLY.

Dear Dr. Atkinson:

I have just read in THE CHRISTIAN SUN the contribution by Rev. R. F. Brown, in which he assumes that my recent article in THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Elon Letter on "Christian Union," had reference to him. I had never so much as heard that Rev. R. F. Brown had an opinion on Christian union or had ever made a statement about it.

He should have known from the fact that his opinion expressed, as he says, differed from the quotation that I gave in my letter made it impossible for me to be referring to him.

Our history so far shows that those who have entertained an opinion such as Brother Brown expresses in regard to the method of Christian union have been very ready to go from us individually and unite with other Churches when opportunity was offered, and many of them have purposely sought such opportunity.

Without any desire to enter into controversy, inasmuch as the correctness of a supposed quotation reflects upon my integrity, I ask that you print this letter over my signature in THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

W. A. HARPER, President.

Elon College, N. C.

NOTICE TO DELEGATES TO THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

Blanks have been sent to all members of the Southern Christian Convention, asking that they furnish us with information that will help us very materially in planning for their entertainment. We are urging that every member fill out and return these blanks as soon as possible, whether they are planning to come or not. We are planning to provide entertainment for all members of the Convention who desire it. We shall endeavor to provide lodging for all who desire to attend the Woman's Convention, who are not near enough to come and return the same day, provided they will notify us in advance. We have no other means of ascertaining the personnel of the Woman's Convention. We regret that we are not in a position to provide lodging for all visitors who might wish to attend. Dinner and supper will be served at the church. All delegates coming by train will be met at the depot if they will send date and hour of arrival. Those coming by automobile will find the church, corner W. Main and Gregson Streets. We hope to have all homes assigned and plans made for your entertainment before you arrive. We cannot be responsible for your entertainment unless you notify us in advance. The Convention will be in session April 27 to 30, 1926. The program provides for the first session to be held at 7:30 P. M., April 27th.

STANLEY C. HARRELL, Pastor,
Main Street Christian Church.
Durham, N. C.

RAISING OUR LEVEL.

Our Presbyterian brethren (North) have as their slogan "Lift the Level." They are fifth down the list among the twenty-five denominations in the United Stewardship Council of the United States in their per capita giving to the regular denominational benevolences of their Church. If they are rallying their people to a higher level than now, how much more ought we of the Christian Church to consider our benevolent giving. We are much further down the list. Last year we stood twenty-third down the line, or within two of the bottom of the list. Is it not time for us to awaken and seriously consider how little we are doing for the extension of the kingdom? The Presbyterian giving as mentioned above was $5.15 per capita last year for their denominational benevolences. Ours was $2.52—less than one-half as much! Five denominations last year gave more than double what we gave per capita for said benevolences. Some gave more than three times what we did. We should earnestly consider the fact that twenty-two out of the twenty-five leading denominations that make up the United Stewardship Council stand above us in per capita giving for our denominational benevolences. Our people are just as willing and able to give as their neighbors on the same street or next farm and in similar professions when their duty is made known and they are properly trained. Pastors, Conference officials, Church officers should be concerned. It is high time to raise our standards of giving for our denominational benevolences.

The kingdom of God cannot be extended without money. The spiritual life of our people will not be raised without their giving money. Where our leaders lead, our people will follow. The average per capita giving last year for the twenty-five denominations for denominational benevolences was $4.11. Ours was less than two-thirds of the average. We do not believe that our people are only two-thirds as able or willing to give for the kingdom as the average Church member. Shall we not decide that we will come to a fuller realization of our stewardship privilege and duty—shall we not bring our line up? We just must increase our benevolent giving the 15 per cent annually as outlined by our last General Convention.

1926.

Already we are going rapidly through 1926. Two of our general Church offerings are now past due—the General Convention offering was due in January, and the foreign mission offering in March. Some Churches have not yet taken them. Some pastors have not yet presented them and urged their importance. Some of the offerings taken are all too small. Our work can never go forward without the co-operation of all our pastors and Churches and without generous giving by all our people. There is no place to cripple our work quicker than in the executive department and in the call from the Christless in lands abroad. Can any Church or Christian afford to be left out of these vital enterprises? We believe not.

Mr. L. D. Wilhelm, Secretary of the Western Illinois Conference, says: "I heartily approve of the every-member canvass, for I think it is the only way."

Rev. A. B. Kendall, D. D., Springfield, Ohio, sends out annually a strong series of personal letters to his congregation preparatory to the annual every-member canvass. We are in receipt of one of them for this year in which he makes two strong appeals—one for a subscription from every man, woman, every child and for both parts of the budget; the other is an appeal to the sense of fairness: fairness to themselves, their Church, their fellow-members, and to God.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x5 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x5 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold...$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE MISSIONARY PASSION.

Since the Mission Boards in all denominations are laboring under such handicaps from indebtedness and decreased resources, many thoughtful ones are making the one inquiry, Why? It is a rather strange phenomenon. At the beginning of this present year the daily press issued statements of marvelous financial gains and growth in business and material prosperity the past year. The banks showed unusual deposits—those of North Carolina climbed up to the unprecedented amount of more than $500,000,000 in deposits. The banks in other States show a similar sum, and in many instances even more millions of money piled up in the vaults and to savings accounts.

Now, over against this let CHRISTIAN SUN readers contemplate the following facts given by Frank Mason North, D. D., in the January International Review of Missions: "The facts for the Mission Boards are that incomes have surprisingly fallen, and that the real cause for the decline has not yet been fully disclosed. As this is written, one of the most liberal communions in council is considering the adjustment of its budget for next year to a loss of $1,200,000. * * * The Board which makes the largest contribution to foreign missions is working under a reduction to its fields, throughout the world, of 40 per cent. Another Board in the very front rank for liberality and devotion found itself last year with about 70 to 75 per cent of its expected income * * * Another Board recalls that two years ago it was obliged to order a reduction of 25 per cent in its field work. A study of the incomes of several Boards indicates not only the drop in income for the two or three years past, but in a longer period for the other benevolent undertakings for the Churches. * * * The striking fact is that among the larger communions there seems to be no exception to this deplorable trend. One is forced by these figures to think in terms of general causes, or of some other causes which produce the common effect."

Dr. North, himself one of the outstanding mission secretaries of America, seeks to find the cause for this unhappy phenomenon. He points out that there is a great deal of money in America—more per capita, in fact, than ever before, and it was never more widely distributed. There is a remarkable increase in savings banks, and the organization of business shows constant expansion. The opinion of this writer, which is written for the students of mission in all countries, is, briefly stated, that the idealism of the people of the United States has been sadly shocked. There was, a few years ago, felt in all quarters the great urge of altruism during a war which was to end war. However, when that great struggle which called out the soul of America and the nations and elicited a beautiful spirit of co-operation was ended, "The bicker and barter and bargaining of policies" brought disaster to the morale of our nation, and the forward march of American souls was checked. In brief, we could fight, and destroy, and kill under the impact of co-operation, and a professed desire to make the world safe for democracy. When we now come, after that great struggle, to the supreme endeavor to make the world safe and to bring salvation through Jesus Christ to all the nations, the passion and the morale are lacking. We have not the same conservation, and devotion, and altruism in giving and in co-operation for the cause of Christ as we had in the struggle of a great war.

It is nowhere charged that Mission Boards have mismanaged funds, or that the work of missions is less effectual, or less needed, or less glorious than it has been in the past. If we had now the same passion to show the nations how to live for Christ as we had to show them how to die for the god of war, the Mission Boards would not be burdened, and "The Prince of Peace" would be marching on in glorious conquest.

Our own Christian Board suffers, though less than some, and this call on the part of our Convention, our Conferences, and our Churches for an Emergency Fund of $25,000 is nothing more nor less than the desire on the part of the Church that the passion for saving souls may be expressed, and find effectual response, as was the passion for destroying men and winning victory in the battle of blood and of arms.

Giving to missions is the most unselfish of all giving, because it is then solely for Christ's sake, and to preach His Gospel in the world and to help make the "Prince of Peace" the King of all the earth. Unless the soul of our Christian Churches can be stirred in this direction, and divert an ever increasing amount of our money and our savings in the direction of missions and winning the world to Christ, there is no hope other than in the blood and battle of other wars that are sure to come. These may be general terms, and have little appeal to the individual. However, let no individual Christian think that he can escape his responsibility and duty in this matter. In the call for our Emergency Fund there were many difficulties from inclement weather, and much sickness during February and March. On this account, one of our faithful pastors writes: "We are determined to press on, even if it requires several Sundays yet to give every individual in our Church and congregation an opportunity at least of contributing something to this most worthy cause." J. O. A.

PREACHERS AND OFFICERS MEETING AT BANQUET.

Dr. L. E. Smith, Norfolk, Va., President of the Southern Christian Convention and chairman of Committee on Program, is making a most commendable effort to get the preachers and officers of the Convention together before the first session of the next Southern Christian Convention meets. In a recent letter, Dr. Smith writes: "The Executive Committee, together with Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, pastor of the Convention Church, Durham, N. C., are planning an unusual and most attractive feature for the opening of the Southern Christian Convention, and we want every officer and minister in the Convention to co-operate with us." The feature referred to is that of having a banquet, with real fried chicken, good gravy, and hot biscuits, "with all the trimmings," at the Washington Duke Hotel, in Durham, on Tuesday at 6 P. M., two hours before the Convention meets in regular session. Dr. Smith is to be toastmaster, and Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, Suffolk, is to be the principal speaker. There will be other attractive features so that the ministers and officers may get together in feeling, fellowship and plans before they begin the regular work of the Convention. Dr. Smith, for his committee, gives the following as the purpose of this get-together banquet: "To bring together the officers and ministers of the Convention in one great inspirational meeting to discuss briefly items of primary interest to the Church at large and also to give an impression to the city in which we meet that we are present, on time, and mean business, and are on business for the Church and for the kingdom."

Every pastor should take advantage of this for the sake of the Convention as well as for the sake of himself and congregation. The ministers should certainly get together and prepare themselves for the work of the Convention. It is to be hoped that every minister and officer of the Convention will attend this meeting.

It may be said again that any Church or pastor will certainly do well to arrange to pay the expenses of its pastor in attending this session of the Convention. Pastors will be giving their time for the benefit of the Church and congregation, which benefits will appear after the Convention has adjourned, and the congregation should certainly be willing to bear the expense of travel to, from and while at the Convention.

J. O. A.

A CONVENTION ITEM.

In the general anxiety to adopt proper plans to finance the enterprises of the Church at the coming session of the Southern Convention, one superlative fact should be kept in mind and repeatedly emphasized. It is this: How may the Convention help in the supreme task of the Church, namely: to win more souls to Christ, to enlarge the kingdom of our Lord and to beget in the lives of men and women a deeper, and a stronger passion for souls. Our Convention will meet to little purpose, and accomplish even less, if in our plans and purposes we forget that our chief business is soul saving and the deepening of the spiritual life. The Church needs a deeper, and a more abiding spiritual tone and note, and the call of the hour for evangelism at home and abroad must not be ignored. This is or should be the purpose, the one purpose, of all our interests and enterprises. Our CHRISTIAN SUN, our Christian colleges, our Christian Orphanages will be worse than useless unless the soul and the service of them are dedicated not merely to the feeding of the mind or clothing the body, but to giving to men the bread of life, and to clothe individuals with the righteousness of God. Our Convention should keep in mind that beyond all of these enterprises and institutions of power and finance, of brick and mortar and material, are the souls of boys and girls, men and women to be redeemed through Christ and listed to higher planes of living, of faith, and of spiritual achievement. All our program should point in this direction and lend itself to the one aim and desire, of making Christ known to those who do not know and practice Him.

J. O. A.

A WORD TO THE MEN AND WOMEN IN THE PEW.

The biennial session of the Southern Christian Convention is to be held, as is now well known, at Durham, N. C., April 27th to April 30th, inclusive. Delegates have been chosen from all the Conferences to attend this session, and all delegates chosen should be present. Certainly every pastor of each Church in the Conference should be present. These pastors are not prepared in many instances to bear their expenses, especially those who live at a long distance from the Convention; but a little co-operative effort without impoverishing any one and a comely deed would be for the congregation to make up a purse and see that the pastor attends the Convention. A Convention is a real schooling for any pastor. He is brought in touch with the plans and purposes and enterprises of his Church in this way as he cannot otherwise be. He secures from fellowship and the contact and the discussions and the reports of his brethren in the Convention, both information and inspiration that send him back to his people better equipped for efficient service. No congregation stands to lose anything in insisting that its pastor attend the Convention, and then help to make it possible for the pastor to attend. It helps the Convention, the local Church, and it helps the individual in the Church. It is hoped that many pastorates will give this matter serious thought and consideration.

J. O. A.

THE TRANSFORMING POWER OF CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP.

Miss Kaylor is a worker in the promotional division of the United Christian Missionary Society and daily handles hundreds of letters dealing with stewardship, which has given her a first-hand knowledge of its transforming power.

Dr. Jowett has given us an interesting account of a visit which he made to a Christian cobbler who lived down near the sea. As he watched the cobbler hammer away at his work amidst the unpleasant surroundings, the thought came to him that this must be a dreary existence. He said to the cobbler, "Don't you ever get tired of this?" The old cobbler stopped his work without uttering a word, went to the door and opening it, said, "Whenever I do, I open this door." The preacher's eye followed those of the old cobbler to the view which lay before them—that of the great, wide sea. Dr. Jowett said, "Immediately that little room was glorified by the vastness of its relationships—to the fields and skies and the rolling sea and to the Creator of them all."

That is like the transforming power of this thing that we call Christian Stewardship. Stewardship is the open door which permits us to see beyond our own selfish interests and desires. It transforms the humdrum of our busy activities in the church, making it mean more to us than mere "busy-work," for it makes us aware of our partnership with Christ in "being about our Father's business." It helps to establish in our lives the "vastness of the relationships" which are ours.

About a year ago a letter came to the United Christian Missionary Society from a Christian mother who wanted to have a part in the support of the kingdom work in memory of her son who had hoped to dedicate his life to the Master's service, but had died before he could carry out this desire. Because her son had hoped to work in the African field, she was anxious to support a native worker in Africa. She undertook this support not knowing just how she would be able to meet the payment, but she said that she knew the Lord would provide a way. She has met the payments by picking apples during the apple picking season, and by saving nickels and dimes until she had the amount necessary to support "her" worker on the foreign field. Can you doubt the transforming power which Christian Stewardship had upon her life when you read this extract from her letter: "If you could only know the joy I have gotten out of it already because I can send this money!" Would not her devotion put to shame that of some of us who have had greater opportunities for earning?

Another woman not long ago sent an offering for the work which represented a truly love gift to Christ. Her husband is an invalid and there is little money with which to buy the necessities of life. A nephew sent a check as a present to her. This made her so happy and grateful, and so anxious to have an opportunity of sharing that she sent part of this gift as her expression of love to Christ and her desire to have a share in his service.

Just recently a check was sent in by a woman whose only income is a pension of thirty dollars a month. Out of this small amount she maintains her home, besides helping a brother. Yet, in spite of this condition, she has a true spirit of stewardship, and feels that a part of her pension belongs to God. Her letter indicates a fine spirit of devotion which is seldom found. She writes: "I am not complaining of my lot, for I am very thankful for what I have. I will send all I can and wish I could do more. I want to be true to my Lord and to the trust he left for me." Do you not think that Jesus would commend the giving of such good women as these just as he did so long ago when the widow gave her two mites in the temple?

But this transforming power of stewardship is not only apparent in the lives of men and women in America. From time to time letters from missionaries reveal to us the fact that native Christians on the foreign fields are developing in this grave of giving, as in other ways. In fact, it would appear as if they grasp the meaning of true Christian stewardship quicker than Christians in America.

The following is from a letter from one of our missionaries in India: "A few weeks ago we had our 'Children's Day' exercises here, and the offering for that service was $63.00, and the best thing about it was the fact that the Indian Christians gave no less than $40.00 of that amount. This is perhaps the largest offering given on 'Children's Day' in any of our Churches in India. One man gave his children no less than half his salary for the month to place in the offering. Forty-two children earned their money for their 'Children's Day' offering by making roads through the Christian village."

Kulpaphar, India, has fifty tithers and thirty-one proportionate givers. If space were available, we could fill the page with such statistics as this from our foreign fields.

During this stewardship year many Churches throughout the brotherhood have reported a deepening interest in this most vital subject. These reports are indicative of the transforming power which any Church may experience which will adopt God's plan for financing the kingdom. Hundreds of stewardship classes have been conducted, and in these classes some people have had their consciences awakened on this matter perhaps for the first time in their lives. This was evidenced by the splendid increase in pledges made in the every-member canvass following this study. Many tithers have been enlisted. The following report will be repeated in various places when our people begin to tithe and give as the Lord has prospered them: "As there is a considerable per cent of the members who are tithers or better, we have no financial troubles at all. We are entirely out of debt and always have money in the treasury."

One of our Kansas pastors writes as follows: "You will be interested in knowing that in December, 1924, I requested our ladies to stop serving meals and putting on sales to raise money for the local Church. They are a wonderful group of Christian women. They complied, and all departments of the local Church have enjoyed a prosperity such as was never known here. And our finances were never in such fine condition. We are sold on the idea of stewardship of time, talents, influence and money."

One of our prominent ministers preached stewardship so fervently that the effect of his preaching showed marvelous results in that Church's part of the world-wide missionary enterprise. During one year more money was sent for the preaching of the gospel throughout the world than had been sent during the preceding ten years combined.

There is nothing that will so transform the work of the Church as will a developed conscience in the matter of Christian stewardship. When this conscience has been aroused, we shall see people give generously and most joyously, "not grudgingly or of necessity," but giving cheerfully as God has prospered them.—World Call.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HISTORY.

On Thursday (March 25th) of this week, Mr. Burwell Riddick, Sr., who was at one time secretary of the Suffolk Christian Sunday School, in looking over some old books and papers in an out-house, came across a neat little book, and picking it up he found that it was the first record book of the Christian Sunday School. Before the War of 1861-65 there was no Sunday School at this Church; an attempt, however, was made to organize one, and two joint superintendents were elected to organize a Sunday School—Captain J. A. Turrentine and Captain Robert B. Brinkley. Both of these men went to the war and the school was not organized.

In the front of the book mentioned above we find the following: "History of the organization of the Suffolk Christian Sabbath School.

"After the close of the Civil War of 1861-65, when the Christian Church in Suffolk had partially recovered from the demoralization occasioned by the war, and had begun to get into active operation again, it was seen by a few of its most observing and enterprising members that all efforts to establish a Christian organization in Suffolk or elsewhere would be comparatively ineffective without the aid of a Sabbath School, where the children of the congregation might be trained up in the nurture and adoration of the Lord and be fully indoctrinated into the principles of the Christian Church.

"It was plainly seen, by contrasting our progress with that of societies of other denominations around us who foster Sabbath Schools, that

(Continued on page 13.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

As most real church members are interested in real church work, it does not seem amiss to report the result of the union meeting recently held in the Suffolk Christian Church. The meeting itself has already been reported in THE SUN; but this tells of results for the Christian Church. Sunday morning, March 14th, 104 members were received, making the total number 121. Of the total number received, 32 came by transfer from other churches and 89 upon profession of faith. The total number of members reported from this church to the 1925 Annual Conference was 1068; add to this number the new members received since conference 8 plus 121 equals 129, and the total present membership is 1197. More from the meeting will join, as application cards have already been signed.

The big task before the church comes after the revival and the addition of new members to the roll.

There are at least three important points of vital interest after such a meeting. Church attendance is one of them. No one can be a first class church member and neglect regular attendance. "Forsaking not the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is."—Heb. 10: 25. Contributions is another vital thing in church membership. This is not a matter of choice, but a vital obligation. "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."—I. Cor. 16: 2. This is a plain statement that implies an obligation to be observed systematically, the first day of the week; literally, as God hath prospered you; the reason, "that there be no gatherings when I come." If a member gives, or lays up, every Sunday, that member will give more than to give only when the preacher takes up a collection. When they meet, the time should be occupied in worship, not in begging for money. The congregations that complain because, they say, "the preachers are always after money," are the congregations that give very little. All members should give attention to this matter of weekly offerings, not "weakly" offerings. The church will never be her best until she is her best financially. God gave man material wealth of trees, fruits, coal, grains, before he gave man His Word. The church must learn to give as the "Lord prospers." Those who have little, give little; those who have much, give much. The third thing is work. "Son, go work today in my vineyard."—Matt. 21: 28. True members not only give, but work. It is no doubt true that the most liberal givers, not the largest givers, as a rule, are the best workers. Real workers hunt work and do not let work hunt them. The Sunday School is one vineyard; the Missionary Society is another; the home of destitution is another; bereavement is another. The committee is a good field, the chair is another. Each must find his place and be faithful in it. The prayer meeting is a good place to work. Absent members to be looked after. Sinners to be sought out and prayed for. Every person has some talent and he must use that talent in service to be a good member.

The world will never be brought to Jesus Christ by professions and church membership only; all must attend, give, and work. When that day comes the church will obey Isaiah's injunctions

"Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee"—Isa. 60: 1.

Well, a real revival is like a storm. The storm comes, blows down fences and trees, overflows the neglected ditches, tears up rows upon rows of corn, and, after the storm, the quiet farmer who has neglected his fences and ditches, bestirs himself and does what should have been done before. Stirring revivals shake up the careless church, and set the good members to doing what they should have done before. Spiritual storms seem to be as necessary as natural storms. They leave a lot of cleaning up work to do. "Revive thy work, O Lord. Thy mighty arm makes bare:" for the church needs it.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

We live in constant conflict we are told and are urged to believe that such conflict is good and wholesome for us. Racial wisdom respecting this matter has crystallized into such adages as: Competition is the life of trade; Friction enables the wheels to turn; Our critics are our friends; The party spirit tends to perpetuate free government. Even the poet has helped us in the much quoted verse: "We rise o'er our dead selves as stepping stones to higher things."

A little sober thought will serve however to disclose a weakness in the chorus of praise which we are accustomed to heap upon conflict. Let us illustrate by a flying machine. We say the airplane flies by reason of the opposition of the air, which is true. But it is only part of the truth. The full truth is that the Wright Brothers taught us how to construct a machine that could co-operate with the resistance of the atmosphere. At times this co-operation becomes impossible, and the airplane is destroyed.

Opposition that can be utilized through co-operation is good, but opposition as such is a pestilence. We can accomplish far more through co-operation in business and industry than we ever can hope to achieve through competition. War thrives on conflict, but peace is the flower of co-operation. Brotherhood is not only the ideal religiously, but it is the best method of living together mankind has yet been able to discover or devise.

Our critics are our friends provided they are constructive critics, but cautious and malicious criticism is a thorn in the flesh. We progress in spite of it, not because of it. It causes more heartache than bereavement and makes acid and bitterness where sugar and sweetness naturally belong. The joy of life goes out where destructive criticism enters.

It is wholesome that nature requires us to work in order to make a living. Our advancement comes through such struggle. But to be profitable to us, there must be a way out of the conflict through the synthesis of our efforts with the forces that oppose us, a way of co-operation by which we use the obstacles as stepping stones to higher things.

Conflict as such never helped anybody. Co-operation, not competition, is the law of God's advancing program for His children and His world. That is what is meant by the saying, "We are members one of another."

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Rev. H. W. Elder of Richland, Georgia, has been placed in full charge of raising of finances for Bethlehem College, together with the general oversight of the building of an administration building for Bethlehem. He is a man of action, and is ever ready to tread upon seeming impossibilities. Like Napoleon when informed by his engineer, who had just explored the wild passes of St. Bernard, that it would be impossible to take the artillery across, replied, "There shall be no Alps!" And at the head of an army of 30,000 men, he ordered an advance, and with horses and artillery, he overcame dangers, difficulties and obstacles, and swooped down upon Italy like an Alpine eagle upon its prey. His record in building twenty-three churches during his short life time, shows him to be a man who treads upon the seeming impossibilities.

What a splendid declaration that is of Paul's: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" He does not answer, for no answer is necessary. Nothing can stand in the way of a determined soul that obeys God. Looking over the millions, you will find a few people who are over-confident. On the other hand, there are those who lack confidence in their own abilities, timid, fearing ones, who always underrate their own efforts. Mankind is, however, not largely afflicted with this class. Faith in self, God, and our fellowmen, has been the miracle worker of the ages.

Brother Elder does not spend all of his time in thinking and meditating. He thinks his problems and propositions through, then acts. How often men decide to do good and noble deeds, but never accomplish them, because they spend so much time in thinking of doing these things, that they have no time to do them, or do them too late. The things they meant to achieve, the money they meant to save, the pleasures they craved, the boon they coveted, are all stored away in the land of "Pretty soon."

Faith removes fear of falling. It must be a stirring moment in the life of a little bird when, thrust fluttering from the nest, it discovers that it need not fall—that its wings can bear it up. Too often we depend upon our own strength, the promises of friends, circumstances that seem so favorable, and suddenly we find them giving away beneath us. But even then there is no need for us to fall helplessly, we need only to spread our pinions of faith and love, and soar upward.

It is a clear delight for the soul to have trust in the fidelity of another. It makes a pillow of softness for the cheek which is burning with tears and the touch of pain. It pours a balm into the very source of sorrow. It is a hope undeterred, a flowery seclusion, into which the mind, when weary of sadness, may retreat for a caress of constant love; a warmth in the hand of friendship forever lingering on the hand; a consoling voice that dwells as with an eternal echo on the ear; a dew of mercy falling on the bruised and troubled hearts of this world. The world is dying for friendship: for just a little bit of love. The man who can build worth-while structures for the elevation of mankind and leave a memory to be cherished by others behind, must have faith in the ability, goodness, and willingness of others, to do, be, and dare.

There is nothing like a determined will. Brother Elder is like Paul, who said: "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." That person who can be disheartened by difficulties, will do but little. That person who is determined to conquer, will never fail. Nothing is impossible to the man who can will.

There are three kinds of people in the world—the "wills," the "wont's," and the "can'ts." The first accomplish everything; the second oppose everything; and the third fail in everything. All men of note have been men of determined wills. A determination is half the battle of life, but when accompanied by untarnished character and an unflinching faith in God, its achievements are beyond computation. Let nothing stand in the way of your helping to build Bethlehem College. Send your offering at once to Rev. H. W. Elder, Richland, Ga., or direct to the College, Wadley, Ala. S. L. BEOUGHIER.

LUTHERANS PROTEST PAPAL ENCYCLICAL.

The National Lutheran Council, meeting in plenary session, has issued a statement declaring Pope Pius XI to be in error in his December encyclical instituting the "Feast of Christ as King," and dissented strongly from the proposal of the Pope that Protestant churches participate in this festival. The representatives of American Lutheran bodies charged that not without cause was the Sunday nearest October 31st set as the date for the celebration of this Roman Catholic holiday, a day which for 400 years has been observed by Protestants throughout the world as Reformation Sunday. It was on October 31st, 1517, that the Reformation movement was started through the act of Dr. Martin Luther in nailing his famous Ninety-five Theses on the door of the castle church at Wittenberg.

The statement of the National Lutheran Council defined the Pope's December encyclical as one step in a great program to restore the rule of the Vatican over all Christian Protestants and over all civil governments.

The first Protestant group to take exception to the proclamation of December 11th, the National Lutheran Council, appointed a special committee who are to subject the encyclical to careful study, to communicate with all sections of Protestantism and to disclose what the Lutherans declare are subtle attacks on the doctrines of religion and the distinctive principles of secular freedom.

The following preliminary special statement on the encyclical was adopted unanimously:

"Lutherans Will Not Be Caught With the Pope's Bait"

"We have read with great interest the Encyclical Letter of Pope Pius XI given out on December 11th, 1925, in which, 'with Apostolic authority,' he instituted the Feast of our Lord Jesus Christ as King. This feast is to be celebrated 'every year and in all the world on the last Sunday of the month of October, that is, the one just preceding the celebration of all the saints'. He 'commands also that on that day each year be renewed the dedication of the human race to the most Sacred Heart of Jesus which our predecessor, Pius X. of holy memory, orders to be repeated each year.'

"It would seem almost a sacrilege to speak any word except in approval of such a feast and such a dedication. All true Christians desire to see Christ honored as King and pray that the kingdoms of this world shall become the Kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ. And we would not utter a word of dissent were it not for certain statements in the Encyclical which are not true, which are sectarian in the worst sense, and which are uncharitable; and were it not for a fact which is obviously designing and hostile to very large groups of Christians and to widely accepted views of Christian truth.

"The Pope does not express the truth for instance, at least not the whole truth, when he says that 'the Catholic Church'—meaning of course the Roman Catholic Church—is the Kingdom of Christ on earth.' But that it is, or by right should be acknowledged as such by all baptized Christians, by all nations and governments, is clearly implied, if not definitely stated, throughout the Encyclical.

"In connection with this it must not be forgotten that the Pope sits with his triple crown as the 'Vicar of Christ' on the whole earth. There is no institution on earth, no person or order of persons, to whom we may point and say, 'Here behold the Kingdom of Christ.' That Kingdom cometh not with observation. It is wholly spiritual. Wheresoever the Spirit of God is and works through the means of grace, leading men to faith in Christ, there is the Kingdom of Christ. To accept and celebrate this Feast of Christ as King in the very spirit of the Encyclical is at least tacitly to acknowledge all of the pretensions of the Pope to temporal and universal sovereignty as Christ's Vicar. To keep it in any other spirit would not change in the least, in the eyes of the Pope, the status of those so observing it.

"The Pope just as evidently assumes that the Church is none other than the Roman Catholic Church; and in so doing he would brand all Christians who are not his obedient subjects not only as heretics and sectarians, but as guilty of having 'put Jesus Christ and His most holy law out of their ordinary life, their domestic relations, and public affairs,' and thus responsible for 'the deluge of evils' which has invaded the world. This is clear from his first paragraph and from his quotations from his predecessor Leo XIII. Thus he makes himself the Head and leader of the most sectarian of all the sects and acts very uncharitably.

"The designing spirit and hostile purpose of the Pope are unmistakably visible in the choice of the day upon which, every year, this feast is to be celebrated. He has not forgotten the strokes of the hammer which, on October 31, 1517, resounded throughout Europe and ushered in the day of freedom for Christ's people, when Luther nailed his famous Ninety-five Theses to the Church door in Wittenberg. It is the Reformation that is aimed at in this Encyclical. We may not say that the Pope is not sincere in his expressed desire to see Jesus Christ universally recognized as King over all people and things on earth; but there can be no doubt that he thinks, and perhaps sincerely, that the best way to bring this about is to counteract, as far as possible, the Reformation and the liberating truths of the Gospel which it restored to men. Therefore, the day chosen by him for this newly established feast. It is on the 31st of October, or the Sunday last preceding that date, that we usually celebrate the festival of the Reformation; and this has been done by Lutherans in all lands for four hundred years. What a master stroke it would be if His Holiness could set up a festival that would be enthusiastically celebrated with ' manifold ceremonies of veneration' not only by Catholics but also by great multitudes of Christians calling themselves Protestants! But we, at least, will not be caught.

"The three great principles of Christianity which were restored by the Reformation, after centuries of obscurity, are the authority of the Holy Scriptures as the Word of God, justification by faith alone in Jesus Christ without man's righteousness and merit and the universal priesthood of believers. We hold that those who believe in Jesus Christ as their God and Saviour and who accept the great principles stated above together with their plain implications are truly in the Church and the Kingdom of Christ, and are His loyal subjects. We hold further that the best way for them to show that they indeed acknowledge Him as King is to lead holy lives in accordance with His Word.

"May we not commend to the consideration of all Protestants the question whether they will not more certainly honor Christ as their Saviour and King by faithfully adhering to the truth of the Gospel and conforming their lives thereto than by joining in the celebration of a mighty festival marked by 'magnificent processions' and outward 'ceremonies'?"

—National Lutheran Council.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary

The churches of a given conference should conduct their E. M. C. on the same date. A number of conferences have so voted. The date for the simultaneous canvasses should be set early by the conference boards or the Stewardship Sec-made one or two weeks before the new year begins. There are plenty of helps now to put on the canvass, where formerly there were none. Churches that use this plan successfully should aid churches not familiar with the plan. If you use this splendid method, follow the standard plan and do it right. The conference and local church Stewardship Secretaries should shine in this task. It is worth their while. The church that persists in using the same financial plans as it did fifty years ago, will succeed no better than a farmer or business man who farms or conducts his business as he did fifty years ago. There is no need for failure or for annual deficits or depleted treasuries if we will follow the scriptural plan of finance. Such conditions reveal poor financial methods. The church should be made a model for the community in business methods. The financial part should be as interesting, pleasant and spiritual as any other part of the church life when it is properly conducted. Why not bring your finances up to the place where they should be, and as a part of your worship and religion? There is much more in church finance than merely paying your church bills. Does your present giving really contribute anything to your spiritual life? It should do so. Plan now to use the E. M. C. this year in your church.

You have read the story of the Prodigal Son many times. Did you ever ask yourself what a different story might have been told if the father had taught the principles of Christian Stewardship to his son in youth so that he would have known how to save, give and use any inheritance properly. The boy "wasted his substance."

Did you ever wonder what Jesus and Zacchaeus talked about that day when Jesus went home with him for dinner? The Bible says Zacchaeus was rich. We have no record of their conversation, but suffice it to say that after dinner Zacchaeus stood and said unto the Lord, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have wrongfully exacted aught of any man, I restore fourfold." If the Lord should see your check book stubs and your business accounts, and He does, what does he say to you and you to Him.

February 13th and 14th, we conducted a Stewardship Institute with the Buffalo, Indiana, Church, Rev. Eva B. Proctor, pastor.

February 21st, your secretary preached on Tithing and presented twenty-three "Certificates of Membership" in the Tithers' League of the Christian Church to persons in our Murlin Heights Church, Miami Ohio Conference. Rev. Ross McNeal is the faithful pastor of this church which is planning to invest $7,000 in enlarging and equipping their plant. At a conference with some of their committee, some strong tithing experiences were related. If all our pastors would follow Brother McNeal's example in enlisting and enrolling tithers, it would be a great blessing to the tithers as well as to the Kingdom.

On February 24th, the West Liberty and McKees Creek Churches held an all day and evening Stewardship Institute at West Liberty, Ohio. Rev. Robert Wearley is the interested pastor there. The attendance was good, and it was a most inspiring institute. Six full hours were spent in actual study of this subject from various angles.

MISSIONARY RALLIES, NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

The dates, places, and Superintendents of the Missionary Rallies of the Woman's N. C. Missionary Conference are as follows:

Warren-Vance District—Miss Margaret Austin, Superintendent, R. F. D. Henderson, N. C. Liberty (Vance) Saturday, April 3rd.

Halifax, Va., District—Mrs. T. W. Chandler, Superintendent, Virgilina, Va. Ingram Church Saturday, April 10th.

Lee-Chatham District—Miss Emma Hart, Superintendent, Sanford, N. C. Sanford Church, Sunday, April 11th.

Alamance District—Mrs. J. D. Strader, Burlington, N. C. Shallow Ford Church, Wednesday, April 14th.

Guilford District—Mrs. L. P. Wicker, Superintendent, Greensboro, N. C. Pleasant Ridge Church, Thursday, April 15th.

Durham-Wake-Johnson District—Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, Superintendent, Raleigh, N. C. Raleigh Church, Saturday, April 17th.

Randolph-Montgomery District—Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Superintendent Seagrove, N. C., Ramseur Church, Sunday, April 18th.

The general program for these Rallies, to be modified as each Superintendent may deem wise, and the situation may justify, is as follows:

Theme: "Pray Ye Therefore."

Call to Order by District Leader.

Devotional.

Hymn: "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Scripture, Luke 10:1-11.

Prayer.

Enrollment.

Reports from Societies.

District Leaders Message.

Introduction to Our Missionaries, prepared by Mrs. C. H. Rowland.

Prayer for Our Missionaries.

Hymn: "Ye Christian Heralds-Go Proclaim."

Address:

"Our Greatest Missionary Asset"

Dr. J. O. Atkinson

Special Offering.

Appointment of Committees.

Adjourn for Lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Call to Order.

Devotional.

Presentation of Goals.....Mrs. L. L. Vaughn

Address: "The Need of New Life For

Our Young People".....Miss Gertrude Browne

What Our District is Doing.....Visitors

Discussion of Problems in Our Societies,

Miss Browne, Leader

Annual Woman's Conference Meeting.

Report of Committees.

Election of Officers.

Adjournment.

Our good women will appreciate it if the pastors in these Districts will give all publicity possible to these meetings, and urge a large attendance. These Missionary Rallies mean much to our Church life as well as to the Woman's Missionary work, and the women interested are anxious to see them attended by delegations from every Church in the several Districts.—

J. O. ATKINSON.

Mission Secretary.

LOVE COVERETH

Recently a sister asked me to write an article answering the question why those professing godliness, so constantly criticize Christian workers, and pass on evil reports. There is only one answer: they lack the perfect love of God that covers.

Under the old covenant and under the new, we have the statements, "Love covereth." (Prov. 10:12; 1 Pet. 4:8.) And "the Love Chapter," emphatically confirms this, as the Greek for "Love beareth all things," is "Love covereth all things with silence." I Cor. 13:7.

Early in Bible history we have a record of God's appreciation of the love that "covereth."

Blessings were given to Shem and Japheth because, when they heard of their father's shame, they walked backward and "covered" him and "saw not the nakedness of their father." (Gen. 9:23-27.)

The Holy Spirit writing through Moses must needs record Lot's worldliness for our warning. (Gen. 13:10-13.) But the Holy Spirit, writing through Peter, overlooks Lot's sin, long since forgiven, and tells us, "God . . . delivered just Lot, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked; for that righteous man . . . in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds." (2 Pet. 2:7-8.)

A true history must mention Rahab's falsehood, but love covers the heathen woman's sin of ignorance and only recalls her faith when she heard of Israel's God. (Josh. 2:8-16; Heb. 11:31.)

Jesus was unsparing in his denunciation of the Pharisees to their faces, and He sent a strong, characteristic word to the sly, cunning, deceitful Herod; but He never personally spoke evil of any individual behind his back. He reproved Peter to his face severely, but He did not tell John privately that Peter was influenced by Satan. He openly and publicly rebuked Simon, but He did not go into the home of Mary and Martha and talk over how unrighteous Simon had been.

With God a forgiven sin is "covered." (Psa. 32:1.) There is not a hint of David's transgression in the New Testament, though his name occurs fifty-seven times.

If we forgive "even as" He, we never speak of an injury done to us. (Eph. 4:32.)

A high standard? Yes, but the overcomers reach it. The sons of God are perfect in love "even as" their Father. (Matt. 5:44-48.) They reprove those whom they believe wrong, but they put away all "evil speaking," and "take account" only of the "lovely" things. (Eph. 4:31; Phil. 4:8.) They never mention a true, vile report, nor pass on an evil story, that possibly after all, may be much exaggerated or altogether untrue.

Years ago when I was a babe in Christ, somebody stabbed me. It was my rule never to tell any human being of a wrong perpetrated against me. But this time I said to myself as I lay on my couch thinking it over: "I must just tell just Tom." But the Spirit whispered, "Love covers," and I saw that I must not even tell my husband.

Then I opened my lips to talk to the Lord about it in prayer, and more decidedly than before the Spirit said, "Love covers." I was ready to weep. "Why, Father," I cried, "may I not even tell Thee about it?" Very tenderly He said, "Love covers." I rose instantly and went to my writing. Perhaps a week, perhaps a month, elapsed before I even recalled that I had been wounded, and then could not remember who or what had caused my pain.

The years went by, and whenever the Spirit said, "Love covers," He wrought in me the obliteration of the bitter wrong, until one midnight I found myself wholly sleepless as the surges of a cruel injustice swept over me, and the love which covers seemed to have crept out of my heart. Then I cried out to God in an agony for the power to obey His injunction, "Love covereth."

Immediately the Spirit began to work in me the power that brought the forgetfulness. Mentally I dug a grave. Deliberately I threw up the earth until the excavation was deep. Sorrowfully I lowered into it the thing which had wounded me. Quickly I shoveled in the clods. Over the mound I carefully laid the green sods. Then I covered it with white roses and rapidly walked away. Sweet sleep came. The wound which had been so nearly deadly was healed without a scar, and I know not today what caused my grief.

Last week, opening a letter from a dear friend, I read the words, "For your eyes alone. Read and burn." So I walked down the roadway out of sight, and sat in a breach in the stone wall and read the letter three times over with much blessing. Then I tore it into bits and threw them into the crevices beside me. Then I covered every crevice with small stones until not a single trace of the letter could be seen.

—A. C. M. B.

OUR FIRST MISSIONARY STILL LIVING AND LABORING—REV. D. F. JONES.

Of the missionaries who have been in Japan, probably none of them made a much greater contribution to the Christian work of Japan for the time they staid in Japan than our first missionary and brother, the Rev. D. F. Jones. In a large way he laid down the boundaries of our mission field. The stations in Miyagi Ken, north of Sendai, are substantially the places where our work in that field is carried on. The Tokio churches in Azabu and Oji are still being carried on in practically the same places. At that time no work by our mission had been begun either in Sendai and in Tochikigi Ken, these places being opened by Brother and Sister Fry.

Brother Jones was with our mission but six years, leaving very soon after Mrs. W. and I came to Japan. He first went to the Disciples of Christ and later joined the Plymouth Brethren group.

After leaving us he went to China, where he was engaged as a Bible colporter by the American Bible Society. In 1898, when I made a short visit to China, he was living in Shanghai, and I became acquainted with Dr. Sykes, who was then the American Bible Society agent. From him I learned some very interesting things about the work of Brother Jones.

Brother Jones at first applied to the British Bible Society for employment and was turned down, but was afterwards employed by the American society. It was the work of Brother Jones to visit the ships, especially at night before the ships sailed. Brother Jones had his limitations as a linguist, having never been able to master the pronunciation of either Japanese or Chinese. But in China the dialects are so numerous and difficult that the Chinese themselves, who go out from their own district to another, are much like strangers in a strange land. Brother Jones was able to little more than show his Bibles and state the price. The Chinaman, seeing that the book was large and the price cheap, usually bought it with the idea of selling it to some one else at a profit. If they could not understand the language which Brother Jones used, they used to say, "He must be a Ningpo man," a place where the language was especially unpronounceable and difficult to learn. Brother Hykes said Brother Jones was the best Bible seller in China. As he was in Japan, so was he in China, indefatigable in the work he was doing. Dr. Hykes said that on one occasion he had need of extra help in his office and took Brother Jones away from his Bible selling for the day. But the next day he learned that Brother Jones, after doing a day's work in the office, went out to the ships as usual, and did another day's work there.

Sister Jones was a true helpmate to Brother Jones, fully as earnest as he was and ready to make any sacrifice for the work. But in the course of human events, she became so ill that it was thought best to send her to America, and she went. She did not improve, and thinking she would like to die in China where her husband had remained at his work, she returned to Shanghai and passed away. But Brother Jones did not know of her return, and when she did return, he was far out in the country on a Bible selling trip, quite beyond the reach of letters or a telegram, so that he did not know of his wife's death until three weeks after she was buried.

Perhaps it will be in place at this point to indicate some of the difficulties which the Plymouth brethren have with one another. About forty years ago one of the brethren lived in Tokio and later a man of the numerous tribe of Smith came to Tokio. This last young man, hearing that there was in the city a man with like faith as his own, went to call on him and had such a good time, he later went to make another call. But he returned so soon that the man with whom he staid asked him why he had returned. The version which Bro. Smith gave of the visit was this, "I went to the door and knocked. It was opened by the man whom I wanted to visit. He did not invite me in, but said to me, 'I want you to explain to me what Jesus meant by the cry on the cross, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?' I cannot let you come into my house until this explanation is given.'" Bro. Smith, standing on the doorstep, gave the best explanation he could, but the man of the house said the explanation would not do, slammed the door in my face, and I came home.

In China almost the same kind of thing happened in the burial of Sister Jones because the only other Plymouth brother of Shanghai refused to have anything to do with the funeral for doctrinal reasons. But the other missionaries of the city paid the last marks of respect to the body of this dear woman, a most beautiful soul and beloved of the Lord.

Brother Jones later left China. Twice Mrs. W. and I visited them in their home in San Francisco, for Bro. Jones had married the sister of his first wife. Since we came to Japan this last time, she, too, has passed away and Bro. Jones lives with his only son in the city.

His address is 3259 Encinal Ave., San Francisco.

In all these years Bro. Jones has been a kind of Paul in his labor for his own support while he has been preaching the gospel. Even now at the age of seventy-eight, he works and makes his living and preaches on the street as he did in Japan and the Lord bless his service. Bro. Tajima, of the Azabu Church, a man who has been the treasurer of the church for thirty-five years and for the same time a deacon of the church, was won to the Lord in one of the open air meetings which was held under the auspices of Bro. Jones.

As the years have passed, I have increasingly felt the great character of Bro. Jones and the love which he has manifested in Japan, in China and in San Francisco in the unselfish and faithful work he has done to bring his fellow men to the Lord Jesus Christ. He may not be long after this in the land of the living, but he will leave behind him a record of two things that mark a great man, unswerving loyalty to his Lord and unstinted, unselfish sacrifice for the uplift of mankind.

A. D. WOODWORTH,
26 Kasumi Cho, Azabu, Tokio,
Japan, March 4, 1926.

(The above history of the life, present living and labors of our first missionary, Rev. D. F. Jones, will be read with deep interest by many Christian Sun readers. Many of our older readers still well remember Bro. Jones and his zeal for the Lord's cause. It is a joy to know that, and where, he still lives and labors.—Ed. Sun.)

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

To Churches and Missionary Societies of the North Carolina Christian Conference:

The "One Day Schools of Missions" will be held this spring as follows:

Warren-Vance District—Liberty Church, April 3d. Miss Margaret Alston, Superintendent, Henderson, N. C.

Halifax District—Ingram Church, April 10th. Mrs. T. W. Chandler, Superintendent, Virgilina, Va.

Alamance District—Shallow Ford Church, April 14th. Mrs. J. D. Strader, Superintendent, Burlington, N. C.

Guilford District—Pleasant Ridge Church, April 15th. Mrs. L. P. Wicker, Superintendent, Greensboro, N. C.

Lee-Chatham District—Sanford Church, April 11th. Miss Emma Hart, Superintendent, Sanford, N. C.

Wake-Johnson District—Raleigh Church, April 17th. Mrs. L. L. Vaughn, Superintendent, Raleigh, N. C.

Randolph - Montgomery District—Ramseur Church, April 18th. Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Superintendent, Seagrove, N. C.

We are indeed anxious to have every church in the conference represented in some one of these meetings, whether or not they have a missionary organization the church. Send a delegation of young people to the "One Day School of Missions" in your district. Last year the meetings were a great success. This year we hope that they will be a much greater help and inspiration than heretofore. Let all work together for Jesus; it is His work, not ours, and He will bless us.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Field Secretary.

The Daily Companion for Endeavorers makes the following suggestion: "The society should have a sunshine fund. What for? For any purpose that it thinks will bring joy to someone. It may send a gift to a shut-in and pay for it from this fund. It may use the fund at Christmas to bring joy to children. Keep a sunshine box in the meeting, and talk it up all the time." But why confine sunshine boxes to C. E. Societies.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

COMING EVENTS.

Valley of Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Leaksville Church, near Luray, Va., May 12, 13, 14, 1926.

Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Rock Stand Church, May 29, 30, 1926.

Georgia and Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, North Highlands Church, Columbus, Ga., May 29, 30, 1926.

Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, place unsettled, on July 13, 14, 15, 1926.

Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Ramseur, N. C., Date not decided upon.

Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Waverly, Va., June 20, 21, 1926.

North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Lynchburg, Va., date not yet decided.

Elon Summer School of Christian Education, Elon College, N. C. July 26 to August 4, 1926.

Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education, Wadley, Ala., August 8 to 15, 1926.

(For information about any of the above, write to PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson II.—April 11, 1926.

"THE STORY OF CREATION."

GOLDEN TEXT: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."—Gen. 1: 1.

LESSON: Genesis 1: 1-2: 25.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 33: 1-9.

We are on a famous battleground here. In the long "war-fare" (so called) between science and religion, many battles have been pitched on the first chapter of Genesis. Science attacks it as one of the most vulnerable points in the light of modern study and research, while religion defends it as the one redoubt or stronghold, which if taken, will bring disaster and defeat to the cause of religion. Science affirms that the account of the creation as recorded in Genesis cannot be taken as literally true. Science says that the Genesis story fails in the light of modern knowledge. Religion says that to admit that would be to admit the invalidity of the Bible. In other words, it seems that it is either a case of Genesis or Geology. That is the issue which is usually drawn up by both loyal scientists and loyal religionists.

Perhaps it will help toward a better understanding of the matter if we ask the question, "What is the Bible?" Is it a final authority on every question? Can it speak with authority on science? Or is the Bible primarily and without question the supreme authority on religion? In other words, does the Bible itself assert anywhere its claim to ultimate and infallible authority on matters such as, say for instance, geology, astronomy, chemistry, etc? Much of the present discussion loses its point when the right point of view is taken. For it would seem to the writer that the Bible is pre-eminently a book of religion. It is the record of the developing experience of the human race in its relations to God. It is concerned with the moral and spiritual life of the race. It speaks with final and absolute authority here. But it is both unfair and untrue to say that the Bible can be quoted as the world's most authoritative text-book on science. Let me not be misunderstood here. I am simply saying that it is not a matter of science or religion; it is a matter of science and religion. It is not a matter of whether we must accept the verdict of science or the verdict of the first chapter of Genesis; it is a matter of getting the viewpoint. It is not a matter of Genesis or Geology, but a matter of the mutual relation of the each to the other. If I want to learn something about astronomy or chemistry or physics or biology, I would not think of going to the Bible; I would get the most authoritative text-books on these subjects. But if I want to know something about man's moral and spiritual nature, something about his relation to God and his fellowman, something about his spiritual capacity and destiny, I would not think of going to a text-book on science. Here the Bible is supreme. And here it bases its claim to supremacy.

With this preliminary discussion in mind, let us turn to the first chapter of Genesis and see what spiritual truths are there. What did the man who wrote these first two chapters of Genesis have in mind anyway? Was he concerned at all with the thing which we call science? Not for a minute. He had some great, abiding, spiritual truths which he put in the form of poetry—the story of creation is poetry. It is to see the flyspeck on a great painting to quibble over the details of the so-called discrepancies between the story and scientific theories, when there are eternal and abiding truths that stand out so clearly that even those who run might read. Let us state them and discuss them briefly.

I.—God is the Creator of the universe and all that therein is.

The writer of Genesis summed up the whole thing when he said, "In the beginning God." This great universe did not just happen. It did not come together by brute chance. It was the result of Creative Mind working by purpose in the creation of a vast universe. Science may have its theories as to the origin of the earth and of life. But whatever their theories, they must have a starting point. And whether they call that starting point Power, or Infinite Energy, or Mind or whatnot, they are simply getting back to what the Christian simply asserts in the stately words, "In the beginning God created." Personally I have never been troubled by the research of science. I have refused to become wildly excited over the whole thing, for I believe that from whatever standpoint honest science approaches the thing, all their paths will come to the central truth, "In the beginning God."

II.—The universe is an orderly, and hence a dependable thing.

The process was orderly and the result is orderly. The universe is subject to the processes of law, and can be depended upon. But over and above the universe is a God who not only created it but who orders and sustains it. A God great enough to do that, is a great God. And yet it was this same God whom Jesus affirmed was Father. We might paraphrase the first words of Genesis and say, "In the beginning was the Father," and not change the vital meaning thereby.

III.—The providence of God.

The story of creation reveals in a wonderful way the providence of God. New forms of life did not come into existence until provision was made for them. In God's universe as originally planned, there was enough for all. It is man's inhumanity and selfishness to man that has so often caused a lack.

IV.—God created man and woman.

Our country has been taken by the ears as to the origin of man. It might be well for us to read again that "God created man in his own image; in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." Science may attempt to explain the why and how of man. It may assert, as many scientists do, many of them Christian—that man evolved from lower forms of life. But sooner or later they come to the point where they have to have the beginning of life. They may put it in one form, but the biblical writer has put in a form that holds the central truth, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Man came from God, however he came. There are those who think that it takes just as great a God to bring man to his place as the crown of creation through the processes of evolution as through an instant and finished act of creation.

V.—Man is made in the image of God.

Man is above the brute creation. He can have fellowship with God, for he is made in the image of God. He can grow into god-likeness because he has the God-capacity in him. He is made for eternal life with God.

VI.—Man is to subdue the earth and to have dominion over it.

He was not only to be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth; he was to have dominion over it. He is "the lord of creation." Man is increasingly gaining the mastery over the material world. He must learn, however, that he can never be master indeed until he is master of himself.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

April 11, 1926.

"SHOWING CHRISTIAN LOVE."

TOPIC: "How Can We Show Our Christian Love?"

SCRIPTURE LESSON: I. Cor. 13: 1-13; Matt. 25: 40.

Worship Service.

1. Song—"O Love that Will Not Let Me Go."
2. Psalm 23, followed by
3. Song, "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is."
4. Prayer (of praise and thankfulness for God's great love).
5. Song—"Love Divine, All Love Excelling."
6. Christian Endeavor Scripture. (See above.)

Plans for the Meeting.

Assign the daily Bible readings to different members before the meeting. Ask them to make a short talk on their assignment.

How Can We Show Our Christian Love?

By Forgiving, Matt. 6: 14-15.

By Forbearing, Col. 3: 12-17.

By Serving, John 13: 1-15.

By Patience, Luke 22: 31-34, 54-62.

By Unselfishness, Romans 9: 1-5.

By Sacrifice, John 15: 12-16.

Leader's Talk.

Perhaps the way we best like to show our love for anyone is to do something for that person. The (Continued on page 11.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

A LITTLE MAID HELPS HER MASTER.

Once there was a little maid who lived in the home of a very brave soldier. He was a captain in the king's army, and his name was Naaman. There were many things she did to help—ran errands, worked in the house, and whenever she saw anything she could do, she ran quickly and did it.

Naaman had brought her to their home to help his wife. The little maid's home was far away, and perhaps at times she was lonely, but she loved to help her mistress and was happy when she could do things for her. She loved both Naaman and his wife, for they were very kind to her.

Naaman was a great man. He was kind to every one, but every one felt very, very sorry for him because he was dreadfully sick—so sick that all the doctors could not make him well.

Their home was sad—Naaman's wife and all the servants were sad. They all wanted to do something to help him get well, but they couldn't. The little maid felt sorry. She, too, longed to help him. In her own home, far away, she had often heard of Elisha, and she said to Naaman's wife: "In my country people love God, and there is a great friend of God's there. Oh, if Naaman could only go to see Elisha. He would make him well. Elisha would ask God to make him well, and he will learn to love God."

Then the little maid told her mistress all about Elisha and the wonderful things he had done. How he had made the little son of the rich woman breathe again.

Naaman's wife looked happy as she said: "Oh, do you really think he can make Naaman well? If you really think he can, perhaps he will go."

The king, who loved Naaman, heard what the little maid had said. He said to Naaman: "Go right away, and maybe Elisha can make you well."

The king's soldiers got the horses and carriages ready, and soon they started on the long journey.

On and on they rode, until at last the fine chariots and the splendid horses stood at the door of Elisha's house. As they waited for Elisha to come out they wondered what he would do.

But Elisha talked with the Father, and the Father told him what to do. He did not come out. He sent Gehazi, his servant. Gehazi said: "Go and wash in the Jordan River seven times and you will be well."

At first Naaman was angry. He thought that Elisha could not ask God to make him well without coming near him, and he thought he would go home without going to the Jordan River. But his servants begged him to do as Elisha said, and so he went. He stepped out of his chariot, dipped under the water once, twice, three times, four times, five times, six times, seven times, and—he was well. How glad and thankful he was, and all the soldiers were glad too.

Then Naaman and the soldiers started back home. They rode as fast as they could, and when they reached home the king and all the people were so surprised and happy to see Naaman well. Naaman's wife was happy too; but Naaman was happiest of all, unless it was the little maid who had helped her master. Naaman had learned, too, to listen to the Father's voice, and he was glad. Such sweet, lovely things happen when people listen to the voice of the Father.—Selected.

LOYALTY TO WHAT?

We frequently hear of loyalty to our denomination, or the absence of it. What does it mean? Is he loyal to the denomination who seeks to increase the number of its adherents or members, while ignoring its ideals? Is it a mark of loyalty to enthusiastically support our financial aims, and ardently labor for that kind of success which enables us to appear respectable in the eyes of our contemporaries?

Surely we have no good reason to despise numbers, nor financial success, nor yet the progress of our institutional life. These may all be worthy aims as means to a higher end. They belong in the realm of mechanics though, rather than in that of dynamics. A proper use of dynamic power may have produced them, and hence they may be looked upon as of great value. But from the standpoint of true Kingdom progress, their value can only be measured by their power to reveal the spirit of Jesus Christ.

To wear only the name Christian, to the exclusion of all other names in order to pose as being more Christian than we are, is to eventually find ourselves victims of our own delusion. Such as frankly confess themselves to be motivated by differentiating doctrinal standards, in the interest of which they seek to be labeled before the Christian world, or whose name may indicate a form of government which they esteem more conducive to progress in the interest of the Kingdom, may at last be found much more fruitful than we.

If we have good reason to believe that loyalty for us spells faithfulness in seeking to carry out the high ideals with which we believe O'Kelley and his associates began, and which became crystalized later in the movement of which we are a part, then there are a few dates in our experience which we may do well to preserve as landmarks. The first, of course, for us as a distinct people or movement, is 1792. The second is 1808. The third is 1886. The fourth is 1919. Shall the fifth be 1926?

Perhaps it will prove more profitable for each to reflect a little on the reason for the choice of these outstanding dates, than for me to suggest their significance.

P. S. SAILER.

OPPORTUNITY.

They do me wrong who say I come no more

When once I knock and fail to find you in,

For every day I stand outside your door

And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away;

Weep not for golden ages on the wane!

Each night I burn the records of the day;

At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,

To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;

My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,

But never bind a moment yet to come.

Tho' deep in mire wring not your hands and weep;

I lend my arm to all who say, "I can!"

No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep

But yet might rise and be again a man.

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?

Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?

Then turn from blotted archives of the past

And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell;

Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;

Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,

Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

—Malone.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

more we do for people, the more we love them—not the more they love us. The more we do for the Lord, the more we love Him. That is always true, and we should be interested in getting others to serve God as well as in serving Him ourselves.

It is said that much of our money for charity loses its meaning because it is so mechanically given. Many people give without realizing the need, others because their consciences must be eased, and when the gift finally reaches the needy the lack of love is felt there too. Paul, in his letter to the Corinthians, says: "And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing."

Love is the greatest thing in the world. God so loved the world, "that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. There are many instances of great Christian faith and love, not only in the Bible, but down through the ages, since men have known the power of God's love.

World friendship—the love of one nation for another—is the ideal of world brotherhood. It is the ideal which Jesus gave us. When we give our prayers, our money, our services for missions, we are helping to spread God's Kingdom and to promote world brotherhood.

PATIE COGHILL.

Children are an heritage of the LORD
—Ps. 127: 3
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles
FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Holman Make
Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5 3/4 x 3 3/4 inches

Specimen of Type
16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Moroccotol, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound in French Morocco, genuine Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

MONDAY

STRENGTH ACCORDING TO OUR NEED

Text: "And as Thy days, so shall thy strength be."—Deut. 33:24-29.

What is thy day? What is thy task? Any good? Sometimes we pray for power and we have nothing to which we can apply the power; or perhaps we have not prepared for power.

A captain of a sailing vessel called on a missionary aboard to pray for wind or they go on the rocks. The missionary asked, "Is your sail up?" "No" was the reply. "Put it up," said the missionary, "and I'll pray." Soon the captain was calling, "stop praying we've too much wind now."

Power waits for the load or else it would be dangerous and wasted. A ship in a storm often rises lifting the propeller out of the water, and the engines race as though they would shake the ship to pieces. That is power without load. What would happen to a Christian who received power and no load. "God does not race his engines. He gives power according to the load, as Thy days, so shall thy strength be."

Prayer.—Our Father, Thou art our refuge and underneath are Thy everlasting arms. Help us to lay out our loads on Thee and give us strength for Thy task. Give us love that forgives all wrongs and brings the wrongdoer to repentance. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

TUESDAY

"THE MANUSCRIPTS OF GOD"

Text: "Having eyes, see ye not?"—Mark 8:15-18.

In the Master's note as He uttered these words of rebuke there was infinite patience mingled with disappointment. He might well have expected something better from those who were closest to Him, and whom He had been training for leadership in the Kingdom. He had spoken to them of spiritual things, of underlying purposes, and they had confused His thought and confounded His meaning and had thought of material things and of the fleeting values of the moment. He had tried to lead them to an understanding of life and life's values, and they had been too dull. Eyes they had, but they saw not!

How well merited by us is that rebuke! Eyes we have but we do not see! God speaks to us and we do not hear. In a world that is God's, that is live in blissful ignorance. We look out and see nothing!

It is one of the supreme missions of religion to help open our eyes that we may see and understand.

"List ye—'tis your estranged faces

That miss the many splendored things."

It was in no wise the fault of our Lord that the little group round Him did not see. It is no fault of the infinite God that we today have eyes and see not.

Prayer (by one of the parents) that our hearts and minds may hear the Divine Voice as it speaks to us, not only in Scripture but in our own life and experience, and that our eyes may be opened that we may discern.

WEDNESDAY

THE "HIGH CALLING"

Text: "The high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Philippians 3:12-16.

A Christian is not an ordinary person. He is not of a low order or rank. His is a high calling. Not merely that either, for the words mean, not only that his calling is high, but that it is from on high. It is a calling made in heaven by God on the ground of Christ Jesus. No wonder the apostle says in another place, "Behold your calling, brethren!" Being thus a calling from on high, it is also "a holy calling," and believers in general are "partakers of a heavenly calling." If President Coolidge had personally invited one of us to be present at his inauguration and sit on the platform, that would have been a calling from a high source. The calling of a Christian is like this, save that it comes from the highest source of all.

Do we think as much as we ought about the high honor that has been bestowed upon us in our high calling? The apostle Paul was humble enough about himself. He was "the chief of sinners." But he never tired of speaking of his calling. He was Paul, an apostle, called of God. The marvel of it never ceased with him. So ought it to be with Christ's followers.

Prayer (by one of the parents) asking that we, and all whom we can influence, may become earnest workers for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom.

THURSDAY

THE IMPRESSIONS OF A HOME

Text: "What have they seen in thine house? . . . All that is in mine house have they seen."—Isaiah 39:1-8.

Those who come to visit us in the utmost friendliness may unconsciously and unwillingly be transformed into spies. Not the objects but the spirit in which they were shown wrought this transformation. Not the things in the house, but all that is in the house including ourselves have they seen. The abiding impression of a home comes not from its furniture, but the spirit of its inmates.

Have they seen a lack of discretion in us? He that will have friends must show himself friendly, but not too friendly. There is a degree of confidence due to your wife, your children, your most intimate friends, which the casual visitor has no right to share.

Have they seen a fear of God that begets simplicity in life, and in our home appointments? In our eating and drinking, and whatsoever we do, is it evident that we are doing all for the glory of God and not for the mere praise of men? Then there shall be a sincerity that is above criticism.

Have they seen a guardedness against the enemies of the home that insures protection? Or are the enemies slipping in through the gates of literature, and amusements, and friendships, and wrong ideals? What have they seen in thy house?

Prayer (by one of the parents) that we and our children may seek to serve God worthily, and to make our home a center of Christian helpfulness; also that our children may lead simple and useful lives, near to Jesus.

FRIDAY

THE GREAT OPPORTUNITIES OF YOUTH

Text: "Your sons and your daughters shall see visions."—Acts 2:14-18.

Peter was quoting from Joel's prophecy. Youth stands today facing what looks like the grandest era in human history. The world is calling for the young manhood and womanhood of the age to throw themselves into the lists in favor of certain great crusades that just now seem to be waking into life.

It would be a fitting time for some youth, with the stewardship of millions, to translate his millions into spiritual and moral values. It would be a great time for some youth to dedicate himself to the field of scientific research, with the avowed aim of bringing religion and science closer together. It is a great time for youth throughout the whole world to throw the weight of its influence against war, and so hasten the time when the nations will make war no more.

Let the young men and the young women of the world dream their dreams: dreams that will bless the ages to come with a higher and holier sense of the dignity and worth of humanity.

Prayer (by one of the parents) that the youth of America may be led to see the opportunity for careers of splendid usefulness in the up-building of Christianity.

SATURDAY

"RING THE JOY BELLS!"

Text: "Let the people praise Thee, O God; let all the people praise Thee."—Psalm 67:1-7.

One of the chief things wrong with the Church today is that she does not ring her joy bells loud enough. Too many of God's saints are like sepulchres, holy, but cold and icy as marble. Is it any wonder that our young people have not been attracted to our churches, and that many of them insist on seeking their religion elsewhere?

We Christian worshippers must put more of the spirit of joy and good-will in our worship. We are not marble saints whose faces will crack if we smile. We are neither slaves nor mourners who grieve without hope. We are a free people, God's children, crowned with His love, blessed by His mercy, watched over day and night by His holy angels. When we come to church let us think especially of these things. Let us rejoice in them. Let us on their account make our worship the gladdest thing we do during the long week. Let us not worship God with grumbles and complaints, but as the Psalmist would say, if he were with us today: "Let the people praise Thee, O God; let all the people praise Thee!"

Prayer.—"We thank Thee, Thou who art the Word, for the precious words we have read at this Altar. For the comfort and inspiration of the Bible. For all that the great Book of books teaches us, we bless Thee, Thou who wert from the beginning, the Word. Amen."

SUNDAY

MAN'S NATURAL DEPRAVITY

Text: "The heart is deceitful above all things, and is desperately wicked: who can know it?"—Jer. 17:9, 10.

These are the words of God, and they seem to be true with a great many in this day. His forbearance and long-suffering must be tried in the extreme. We all will do well to do as Job, "repent in dust and ashes," or like Paul, "O wretched man that I am."

We have to realize our depravity before we Christians realize what a moral warfare life is, lest temptation assail us and we become guilty of that which we would not have thought possible.

Prayer.—Our Father, strengthen our weak wills by Thy Holy Scriptures. Help us to sit at Thy feet and put "on the whole armour of God," and be able to stand in the evil hour. Purify our hearts by Thy divine Grace and help us to stand firm in Thee and be overcomers and win the unfading crown. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

Easter comes but once each year; so does Thanksgiving. It has been the custom of the Christian Orphanage for a number of years to ask each Church and Sunday School for a special Thanksgiving offering and a special Easter offering. Most of our Churches and Sunday Schools gladly respond, and many individuals give us personal checks. And with the Sunday School monthly offerings, the Orphanage has continued to improve its plant and has added to its number of children from time to time till 110 little fellows enjoy life here at the present time.

This is a very happy arrangement, as the Thanksgiving offering comes in to help us tide over the winter months, when our expenses are naturally heavy, and the special Easter offerings come in to help us to buy spring clothes and tide over the summer months when our income is small.

Now, at this special Easter season, when every tree and flower is coming out dressed in a coat of green bedecked with beautiful blossoms, and we are merging out from the cold winter weather into balmy, sunshiny days, it makes us feel like making a real special Easter offering to help the little fatherless children and make our joys complete. So let us all take a special interest in the special annual Easter offerings in our Churches and Sunday Schools this year and see how liberal we can be and make it a real joy to have a part in the happy occasion.

It should be a joy to every one to have a part in this special offering. Let every Church and Sunday School do its best this year. We need it.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR APRIL 1, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$4,030.61
North Carolina and Va. Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 3.00
Ingram	3.00
Pleasant Ridge	1.75
	7.75
Western North Carolina Conference:
Pleasant Union	$ 10.00
Burlington	54.91
Shady Grove	1.00
Union Grove	3.00
	68.91
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Auburn, Jan., Feb., March.....	$ 4.50
Christian Light	1.40
Wentworth	6.74
Reidsville	7.06
Wake Chapel	5.05
Liberty, Vance	5.65
	30.40
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Ocean View	$ 1.90
Mt. Zion, Jan., Feb., March.....	2.93
Hobson	3.54
	8.37
Alabama Conference:
Pisgah	1.51
Thanksgiving Offering:
Auburn Church	1.00
Special Offerings:
Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Salisbury	$ 3.00
Boone Bible Class, Sanford	15.00
Refund on clover seed	8.50
	26.50

New Building Fund:
Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Salisbury.....	$ 2.00
Mrs. G. E. Reid, Walnut Cove.....	5.00
Mrs. W. H. Marshall, Walnut Cove..	1.00
	8.00
Total for week	$ 152.44
Grand total	$4,183.05

SUNDAY SCHOOL HISTORY.

(Continued from page 5.)

we could never succeed without giving more attention to this valuable auxiliary of the Church.

"No active measures were taken in this direction, however, until the meeting of the Quarterly Conference of the Church in May, 1867. At that time the pastor of the Church, Rev. W. B. Wellens, strongly urged the claims of the Sabbath School upon the members of the Church and advised the Church to proceed at once to the organization of a school.

"After deliberation it was decided that the proposed school should not be organized at that time, but that a night be set apart for that especial purpose. The next Tuesday night was appointed. When Tuesday night arrived, from some cause, the meeting for organization was postponed until the following Friday night.

"On Friday night the meeting for organization was held. The school was organized by electing the following officers for one year each: Virginius S. Kilby, superintendent; Thomas J. Kilby, assistant superintendent; Jesse T. Whitley, secretary and librarian; R. C. Wells, treasurer.

"Subsequently, Mrs. Sarah L. Wellons, the pastor's wife, was appointed female superintendent.

"The school was organized with a few books, tracts, etc., the remnant of a fine collection purchased previous to the war for the school to be connected with this Church, which was never organized. The pastor, the superintendent and the assistant superintendent were appointed a committee to draft by-laws to govern the school, but up to this time (January 3, 1868) have not yet reported.

"The school commenced its active operations on Sabbath morning, May 19, 1867, with about six teachers and twenty-two pupils. Subsequently this number was greatly augmented. (For subsequent proceedings see the "Superintendent's Condensed Record," to which this is prefixed.) (Signed) "J. T. WHITLEY, Secy."

Of the above officers, all are now dead except Rev. J. T. Whitley, now living in Norfolk, and has been a Methodist minister for many years. The superintendent, Virginius S. Kilby, was for many years Sunday School lecturer for the same school. The assistant superintendent, Thomas J. Kilby, became a judge, and was president of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference for a long term of years, and represented Nansemond County in the House of Representatives for four terms. The treasurer did not have any duties until July 21st, when the first penny collection was taken up and forty-six cents were received, it having been decided on July 14th to take this collection.

The report for the first sessions shows three officers, six teachers, and twenty-two pupils present and on the roll, and that it was a fair day. Under remarks, the following is noted:

"The school met today for the first time. Bro. Virginius Kilby, the superintendent, being compelled to be out of town, the school was opened and the services conducted by Bro. T. J. Kilby, the assistant superintendent. The classes were arranged as well as possible, and suitable books provided. The universal opinion is that we have made a very favorable commencement. The Bible class will not be organized until Bro. V. S. Kilby, the superintendent and teacher of the class, is present."

Class No. 7 of the school, Mrs. Geneva P. Cotte teacher, had three pupils, and they are all living today. They were Lizzie Smith, now Mrs. C. F. Norment; Eita Bartlette, now Mrs. Geo. W. Nurney; Katie Norfleet, now Mrs. Kate Brothers, and the class record shows that they were regular attendants.

As near as can be figures out, there were about eighty-two pupils enrolled the first year, and of that number 22 or more are living today, although it has been fifty-nine years this May since the school began.

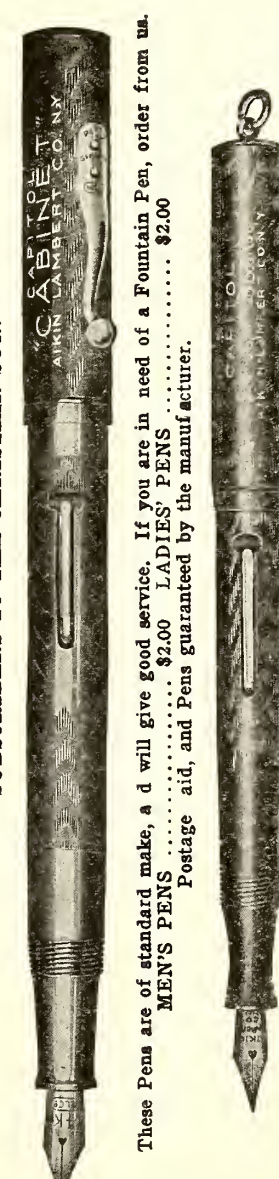

During the first year, many donations of books were made by friends and members of the school, and the annual picnic was held on Saturday, August 3rd, and the school went to Bethlehem Church for the day.

There were prizes offered to each pupil who would bring in a new scholar, and several received these prizes, Miss Alice Norfleet bringing two on August 11th, and several others bringing in one at the time.

There was no Sunday School at the Baptist Church at that time, and many pious Baptists were among the first members of the school.

W. E. MACCLENNY.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

OBITUARIES.

COX.

Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Cox was born in Guilford County, N. C., January 3, 1851, and was called from this life on March 20, 1926.

Mrs. Cox was making her home with her son, Eugene Cox of Gibsonville, at the time of her death. The body was carried to Howard's Chapel, Rockingham County, Monday, March 22, where the funeral services were conducted by the writer assisted by Rev. G. H. Hendry, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Gibsonville, and the remains interred in the church cemetery by the side of her husband, the late Joe Cox.

Early in life Sister Cox accepted Christ as her Saviour and united with the Christian Church, remaining a member of Howard's Chapel until her death. She lived to the ripe old age of 75 years, 3 months and 17 days, and the testimony she has left behind will live long in the hearts of those who knew her. Her friends speak in terms of highest praise of her faithful Christian life.

Sister Cox is survived by five children, Mrs. Kate Lowe, Miss Mollie Cox, John M. Cox, Luther Cox, Eugene Cox, also one brother, Mr. W. P. Madison, and one sister, Mrs. Mary E. Baker.

R. A. WHITTEN.

WALKER.

Died at her home near Monticello, Guilford County, N. C., March 16, 1926, in her 77th year, Mrs. Frances Celestia Walker, widow of Rev. William Thomas Walker. They were united in marriage on December 28, 1865, and to them were born seven children. Her husband and two children preceded her to the grave. She was a member of Hines' Chapel Christian Church, and had been for a number of years. As wife, mother, friend and neighbor, she served her day and generation well. She died in the triumph of the faith in which she had lived. Sweet be her sleep till Jesus bids her awake; and may Jesus comfort those who mourn.

The funeral services were conducted from Hines Chapel by the writer, assisted by Bros. G. D. Lankford, Whitten and Green. The interment was in the cemetery at Hines Chapel Christian Church. The attendance, floral tributes and music all spoke of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

P. H. FLEMING.

BEDDOWS.

James Francis Beddows was born on March 8, 1857, and died February 26, 1926. His age was 68 years, 11 months, and 18 days. Brother Beddows was a member of the Palmyra Christian Church, though the last few years of his life were spent out of the neighborhood, and he was thus deprived of the privilege of attending the church. He is survived by his widow, one son and three daughters. Funeral services were held at Palmyra, February 28, 1926.

A. W. ANDES.

Keeping costs down and service up

In this complicated economic age, when consumers are dependent upon the efficient performance of industry for the necessities of life, it is not only good business but also an obligation of industry to keep costs to consumers down and service to them up.

The Southern Railway System has achieved operating economies which enabled it to operate last year on freight charges that averaged 16 per cent lower than in 1921. These reductions applied to the 1925 traffic meant a saving of $27,000,000 to the shipping public.

And these rate reductions have been effected in spite of greatly increased taxes. In 1921, the Southern paid in taxes $3.80 of every $100 of its gross revenue, while last year it had to pay $6.39 of every $100. This increase in taxes is equivalent to $6,500,000 a year.

The service of the Southern has been kept up. Its capacity is larger, and the physical condition of the property better than ever before. In fact, it has spent about $112,000,000 in the last three years in making improvements and for new equipment.

The Southern is rendering a larger and better service at a lower price, and is promoting the welfare of the industries and agriculture of the South by keeping its costs down and its service up.

Railroad transportation is cheap. The charge on the Southern for hauling a car of 30 tons of freight one mile averages only 35 cents.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

RHINEHART.

Dale Franklin Rhinehart, infant son of Vernon and Bettie Rhinehart, was born August 10, 1925, and died March 5, 1926, aged 6 months and 25 days. Funeral was held at Battle Creek school house near the home in Page County, Va., March 7, 1926. May God comfort the sorrowing parents and brothers and sisters.

A. W. ANDES.

JONES.

Mrs. J. E. Jones died February 25, 1926, at the home of her son, Mr. Tom Jones, Danville, Va., being in her seventy-ninth year. Her husband preceded her to the spirit world several years. She was well known in her community and highly respected by her acquaintances. She leaves to lament their loss one brother, three sons and three daughters, and a number of other relatives and friends. She had suffered from paralysis for several years before the end.

Funeral services were conducted in the Third Avenue Christian Church, at 3:00 P. M., and Rev. P. A. Mickel assisted. A large congregation was present. Interment was in Leemont Cemetery.

May the Lord comfort the family.
L. L. WYRICK.

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

APPLE.

Mrs. Mary Ann Apple was born November 19, 1850, and departed this life March 18, 1926. She was the wife of James M. Apple. To this couple was born one daughter, Lena. She professed faith in Christ early in life and connected herself with the church at Hines' Chapel, and was regarded as faithful until she came to the end of this life. She leaves a husband, one daughter, six sisters and four brothers, and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

Dearest Sister, thou hast left them;
Here their loss they deeply feel,
But 'tis God who hast bereft them;
He can all their sorrows heal.

The funeral was by the writer, assisted by Revs. G. H. Hendry of the M. P. Church and Rev. Clark of the Baptist Church.

P. T. KLAPP.

DEPAY.

Philip Depay died at the home of one of his daughters, in Washington, D. C., March 9, 1926, at the ripe age of 88 years and 5 days. He is survived by two sons and four daughters, one brother, one sister, eight grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and several other relatives. Bro. Depay was a member of Linville Christian Church; and, we believe, was prepared to meet the Great Judge when the summons came. The funeral was conducted in the Linville Christian Church, and the body buried in the Linville cemetery, on Thursday, March 11, 1926.
R. PERRY CRUMPLER.

HUFFINES.

Mrs. Jane Huffines, widow of the late Abel Huffines, passed to her reward on March 3, 1926, in her 84th year. She leaves to mourn their loss, two sons, H. F. Huffines of Gibsonville, N. C., and J. S. Huffines of Altamahaw, N. C., and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Jane Baldwin, two grandchildren, and many other relatives and a host of friends.

The burial was at Apple's Church, where she had long been a member. The floral offering was abundant and beautiful. Services by the writer assisted by Rev. W. G. McClanahan of the Lutheran Church.
T. J. GREEN.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING
Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches. 32 black illus....$1.85
- 02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations.....$2.50
- 03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches) $2.40
- 02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5 1/2 x 3 3/4 inches.....$3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond, Virginia

HOLMAN BIBLES
For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Specimen of Type
Holman Home Bible
Family Bible

Flexible Binding
Size when closed, 6 1/2 x 9 3/4 inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durable Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.
Price—Post Paid.....4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES
NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd, not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.
Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.
Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

TROGDON.

March 20, 1926, Mrs. Naomi Lewis Hatch Trogdon departed this life, being in the seventy-seventh year of her age. She was the daughter of Rev. J. W. Hatch, a goodly man. She and Harrison Kelly Trogdon were united in marriage on May 25, 1871, and they lived happily together for nearly fifty-five years. To this union were born five children: Etta A, who departed this life November 14, 1918, and Mrs. Estella Ray, Thomas W., Mrs. Herbert Steed and Mrs. Paul Kennett, who survive, together with the husband, five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

In her early girlhood she became a member of Hanks' Chapel Christian Church, of which denomination she remained a devout member until the time of her death.

Quiet, unassuming, exemplary, she lived for her home, for her community, for the glory of her Lord, whom she devoutly loved and served.

In the town cemetery of Liberty, N. C., in a vault, was placed the beautiful casket that contained her earthly body. She is not dead but only asleep—"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep." Thus she appeared as she lay in her casket. There was a large congregation at the services, and many and beautiful were the floral offerings.

The funeral was conducted by the writer. J. W. PATTON.

UNDERWOOD.

Miss Hallie Sellmer Underwood was born June 23, 1910, and departed for the "glory land" March 12, 1926, at the early age of fifteen years, nine months and eleven days.

She made a profession of faith in Christ as her personal Saviour in July, 1924, and joined Concord Church, the home church of her parents. To this obligation she remained faithful and devoted until the end came, while she was in Edmonds Hospital, Danville, Va.

Her parents were Rev. and Mrs. I. T. Underwood of Yanceyville, N. C.

Hallie was highly esteemed by her associates and was a very promising and talented young person. She had begun to assist her father a great deal in song services which he often conducted.

She leaves to mourn their loss a broken hearted father and mother, two sisters, and three brothers, besides a number of relatives and friends.

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor in her home church, on Saturday, March 13, 1926, assisted by Revs. McMorris and Hood, both of Yanceyville, N. C. The earth was covered with a beautiful counterpane of snow as if a token of her pure life.

May the Lord comfort the family.

L. L. WYRICK.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04103 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04103] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. . . $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. . . $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School

LOCATED AT

WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President

Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is-ra-el, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing

VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/4 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges.70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 139L. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges.85

159LP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

J. A. Harrison

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1926.

NUMBER 14.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Can Talk Across the Sea.—

The scientific world is rejoicing over the fact that on March 7th conversation was carried on through most of the day between New York and London. It is rather singular that this event occurred just fifty years to a day after the patent of the telephone was granted to Alexander Graham Bell.

What Roads are to Cost.—

A billion dollars will be spent this year for the building and upkeep of roads throughout the United States. The States, assisted by the Federal Government, will have approximately 600 million dollars for the construction of 6,751 miles of new road and the upkeep of nearly 235,000 miles of road now in use. The countries will spend 400 million in building and keeping up roads. A billion dollars seems a great bill to pay, but whoever has had good roads and changed to bad, would not mind his part of the bill for good roads. Our hope is that the Billion dollars will be wisely spent.

Another Good Treaty.—

The United States and Cuba have just concluded a treaty by which Cuba gives the United States the right to search ships flying the Cuban flag on the seas beyond the three mile limit now allowed by international law. The treaty extends the limit to about twelve miles. The United States made the first of such treaties with England in 1924, and since that time has concluded similar treaties with a number of foreign countries. All of these will be of great assistance in maintaining prohibition in this country. It will make it practically impossible to ship liquor into the country, and may bring about more failures such as happened to one great British rum runner.

Asked to Aid Mercy.—

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has issued a statement urging that all citizens write their Senators and Assemblymen urging the passage of bills protecting animals captured for their fur from cruelty which they now suffer. The bills now pending would make it compulsory to inspect traps every twenty-four hours, to stamp every trap with the owner's name, to abolish non-killing steel traps from the trade. The animals would have to be taken alive and unhurt, or else killed instantly. These bills should not be interpreted to prevent farmers from taking vermin at any time and in any manner to prevent the destruction of their crops. There is also a movement among women to prevent the wearing of fur in protest against the methods used in the capturing of fur-bearing animals. It is certain that some steps should be taken to prevent the heartless methods now in use, and also to prevent the entire extermination of fur-bearing animals which is threatened.

A Candy Eating People.—

How much candy did you eat last year? According to the figures given out by the National Confectioners' Association, the people of America ate 825,000 tons of candy, or 1,650,000,000 pounds. There are more than 75,000 retailers handling candy for the American people. These figures mean that every man, woman and child ate approximately fifteen pounds of candy last year. This is an enormous amount of sweets when we consider all the other things consumed by Americans. It is probable that this candy cost on the average about a dollar per pound, which is an enormous amount. It would be interesting to check up and find out how many readers of THE SUN paid more for candy last year than they paid for all religious causes. There would be more than we think. Think back and see how you stand in the list.

Women Head a Big Business.—

The other day a woman was elected to head a five-million-dollar business. This election was startling, because women in business are considered mere factotems, even in this enlightened age. This woman, Mary E. Dillon, now in her middle thirties, is head of a great gas business in Brooklyn, and two other women are her prime assistants. She went to work when a girl just out of school, and served twenty-three years of apprenticeship with the gas company. She started as an office girl, and by keeping awake and working hard, she rose. When the employees wanted to strike a few years ago, she talked to them like a mother and a Dutch uncle combined. They worked on. She is a friend to her forty thousand customers. It is interesting, too, to note that Mary E. Dillon is married to Henry Farber, a wholesale coal dealer. She keeps her maiden name in order not to confuse her friends, her customers. Her election to the head of such a business is a triumph for business women and a tribute to what they are capable of, and proves that a career and a home are not incompatible.

Establish a New Chair.—

The University of Chicago has taken a forward looking step in that it has just established a chair of religious literature and drama. For a number of years the drama as a means of making impressive great religious truths, has been gaining attention. Lack of suitable plays was one of the chief handicaps to the work, but a library of these has been gradually established. To this new chair, Mr. Fred Eastman has been named. He is a contributing editor of The Christian Century, and until very recently was managing editor of Christian Work. He will be given more liberty for his work by the merger of these two great journals. Mr. Eastman carries to this new work genuine qualifications. He is thirty-nine years old, and has held a five-year pastorate on Long Island, was business manager of the Red Cross Magazine until the end of the war, headed the educational work of the Presbyterian Home Missions Board, and has been managing editor of Christian Work. In the meantime he got in two years of graduate work in English Literature and in drama at Columbia University. Chicago is undertaking a thing which promises much in the dramatic world. The course will develop a literature on the subject, and make possible more worthwhile plays of a religious nature.

Two Great Journals Merge.—

The Christian Century and Christian Work, two of the leading undenominational journals in the religious field, have merged. Because of the limited support which a religious paper can command, it was felt that one journal might do what both were doing. They held practically the same views, and advocated practically the same things. Both were liberal, both believed in Christ as the pattern for the world, both were evangelical, and both were undenominational. The first issue of the combined journal appeared on April 1st, under the title Christian Century and Christian Work. There will be little change of policy. Dr. Frederick Lynch, Dr. Huntington, and Mr. Fred Eastman, go over to the new staff. The subscription lists are to be combined, and those subscribing to both periodicals will have their subscriptions extended for their unexpired time. We wish for the new organization a most successful future. The difficulties which brought about this merger, every religious journal faces. Our own CHRISTIAN SUN is not sufficiently well supported so that it can run without convention aid. It seems that we should be more loyal to our religious press. It is a sad comment on the American mind and morals, when the religious papers of the country go so poorly supported, and the mental poisoners are subscribed to by the millions. It is time that the church and church people came to the rescue. It is the business of the minister to induce a higher type of reading in his congregation, for consciously or unconsciously, we imitate that of which we read. It is a grave responsibility, therefore for the home and the church, and one with which we dare not trifle. What type of publications come into your home? What do your church people read?

NOTES-PERSONALS

Mr. Delegate to the Southern Christian Convention, have you returned that blank, which Rev. S. C. Harrell sent you? If not, do it now!

Mr. P. J. Carlton, of our Richmond Church, sailed on the Mauretania for England last Tuesday. While he is in Europe, we understand that he will visit France and Italy. Mr. Carlton is accompanied by his wife. We wish them both a most pleasant voyage.

We extend sympathy to Rev. M. F. Allen, pastor of the United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va., in his bereavement over the death of his father recently. His letter to the Editor, though personal, is of such general interest, we give it elsewhere with the hope that many Christians will read it. It has a most significant lesson for us.

Rev. R. A. Whitten, Reidsville, N. C., issued a very neat and attractive Easter program for the service of the First Christian Church, entitled "A Day in Old Jerusalem." There were sub-titles, "Dawn in the Garden," "The Guest at Twilight," and "Eventide." Evidently a very striking program in dramatic or pageant form. As copies of the program were sent out in advance, no doubt a large audience gathered for the service.

A very neat card comes, saying, "The pastor, members and friends of the South Norfolk Christian Church, extend to you a cordial invitation to be present at the Corner Stone Laying of the New Church, on Saturday, April 3d, at 2:30." Norfolk papers Friday carried a fine picture of pastor and church. Brother Poythress and his people have certainly done a great, constructive piece of work. The Church nears completion, and is to be formally opened Sunday, May 9th.

Cypress Chapel Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va., is to be formally opened for service on Sunday April 11. There will be all day services, Dr. W. W. Staley and the Mission Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, being invited preachers for the occasion. Pastor J. M. Roberts and his people have certainly built and equipped a beautiful haven of worship at a total cost of more than $20,000.00. The community is very happy over this achievement and anticipate a large gathering on the opening day of the new edifice.

On the evening of March 28th, the Mission Secretary was at Greensboro First Church, with Dr. C. H. Rowland and his people. They had had a great service at the 11:00 hour, it being the day of their Missionary Offering. Over $400.00 in cash was laid upon the altar at the two services of the day, and Dr. Rowland felt that by the time all had brought in their offerings the $500.00 goal would be reached. Dr. Rowland had worked with great zeal, consecration, and enthusiasm for the results, and the out-come of this day.

The Easter services at Richmond, following a week of cottage prayer-meetings and a series of pre-Easter meetings, were most encouraging. The morning service showed the largest Easter attendance ever had, and Dr. Ryan preached a most wonderful sermon. The Cantata given in the evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed. The following composed the choir: Mrs. W. I. Wilkins and Mrs. F. S. Gardner, sopranos; Mrs. Louise Francis and Miss Gladys Ellis, altos; Mr. Lawrence Masen and Captain Albert T. Samuels, tenors, and Mr. William R. Harton, bass. Mr. D. W. Darden sang in the quartette work. The program was put on under the direction of Mr. Ernest G. Carr, the efficient organist and director, and one of the earnest members of the church.

The Mission Secretary had the joy, and coveted privilege, of preaching to his neighbors, and home folks at Elon College, on Sunday, March 28th, at the 11:00 A. M. service. The Missionary need was set forth, and the campaign for the Emergency Fund in this church was emphasized. The pastor distributed envelopes, either through committees or by mail, to every member of the church, both here and elsewhere. The pastor announced that the goal set for his congregation was $500, and that the offering would be taken next Sunday, and that every member of church, and congregation would be urged to give something on this Emergency Fund. It was a joy indeed for the ex-pastor to speak to, and worship with, a congregation whom for many years he served with great profit and pleasure to himself.

A GOOD VOTE WELL TAKEN

Brother W. S. McKenzie, Secretary of our Sunday School at Randleman, N. C., writes this interesting item to the Mission Secretary: "You asked us from time to time to give one of our Sunday's collection each month to the Missionary work. But thinking ourselves poor we postponed it from time to time until about one year ago we brought it to a vote in the school to try this one collection of each month for one year. It carried by a small majority. The year was out a few Sundays ago, and the vote was again taken on whether or not we should continue giving this one Sunday's collection out of each month for the cause of Missions. We found that we had a much larger majority in this vote than that of a year ago." We believe that what the Randleman school did any Sunday school can do, and with profit, and helpfulness to all concerned. Missionary giving is the most unselfish giving that any school or Church or individual ever would or ever will do in this world. Nevertheless, it requires education and effort on the part of those who know and give. For all gifts that we make in this world, save that of sending the Gospel to those who have it not, we may expect some earthly thanks or appreciation or compensation. But when we place a dollar or ten cents on God's altar to carry the Gospel to those who have it not, we never expect any word of appreciation from a living mortal nor compensation from any source, save that of our Lord who gave us His supreme command to do this one thing. We may give our funds for the sake of the helpless, and the needy of material things or for sweet charity's sake, and receive expressions of gratitude from those who are benefited by it. "Our Mission money is not given for the sake of those round about us, or for the sake of reward or applause of man. It is given for Jesus' sake, for the sake of Him who gave all for us, and through whom we ourselves have received redemption, and grace, and glory. Our Missionary money is the most unselfish money we will ever give to any cause, whatsoever, while we live on this earth. There is no doubt but that this is the very reason why our Lord laid upon the hearts of men to carry the Gospel into all the world. He knew that to accomplish this the biggest task that man ever undertook, would require the most unselfish gifts and the most unselfish deeds that man would ever do beneath the sun. This is divine for it is done in Christ's name, and for His sake only." —J. O. Atkinson.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St., - - - Richmond Va.

NOTICE TO DELEGATES TO THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

Blanks have been sent to all members of the Southern Christian Convention, asking that they furnish us with information that will help us very materially in planning for their entertainment. We are urging that every member fill out and return these blanks as soon as possible, whether they are planning to come or not. We are planning to provide entertainment for all members of the Convention who desire it. We shall endeavor to provide lodging for all who desire to attend the Woman's Convention, who are not near enough to come and return the same day, provided they will notify us in advance. We have no other means of ascertaining the personnel of the Woman's Convention. We regret that we are not in a position to provide lodging for all visitors who might wish to attend. Dinner and supper will be served at the church. All delegates coming by train will be met at the depot if they will send date and hour of arrival. Those coming by automobile will find the church, corner W. Main and Gregson Streets. We hope to have all homes assigned and plans made for your entertainment before you arrive. We cannot be responsible for your entertainment unless you notify us in advance. The Convention will be in session April 27 to 30, 1926. The program provides for the first session to be held at 7:30 P. M., April 27th.

STANLEY C. HARRELL, Pastor,
Main Street Christian Church.
Durham, N. C.

A MINISTER AND HIS FATHER.

Dear Dr. Atkinson:

I have just returned from Texas where I was called on account of the recent illness and death of my father, John W. Allen, a resident of Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

My father had been a member of the Green Hill Presbyterian Church of the community in which he lived for thirty-eight years. He had held the office of an Elder in that church for many years. During my visit to him last November I read to him the Principles of the Christian Church. He declared that these accorded with his idea of a Church exactly, but had never known that such a church existed. So happy was he over finding such a church that he immediately set about to lay the foundation for a Christian Church there. He signed a petition with twelve others to be presented to conference to establish an organization, and a Sunday School was organized. He was appointed as one of the teachers in that Sunday School. Twenty-six have enrolled as regular members of the new Sunday School, and the prospects for the work there look very encouraging.

He was a faithful follower of the Lord Jesus, and his life was a blessing to many. His death resulted from apoplexy. He was stricken on his 59th birthday, March the 15th, and died March 19th. He is survived by his wife, six sons and two daughters, all of Texas except myself. Nineteen grand-children also survive him.

M. F. ALLEN.

Lynchburg, Va.

COMING EVENTS.

- Valley of Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Leaksville Church, near Luray, Va., May 12, 13, 14, 1926.
- Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Rock Stand Church, May 29, 30, 1926.
- Georgia and Alabama Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, North Highlands Church, Columbus, Ga., May 29, 30, 1926.

- Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, place unsettled, on July 13, 14, 15, 1926.
 - Western North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, at Ramseur, N. C., Date not decided upon.
 - Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Waverly, Va., June 20, 21, 1926.
 - North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Lynchburg, Va., date not yet decided.
 - Elon Summer School of Christian Education, Elon College, N. C. July 26 to August 4, 1926.
 - Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education, Wadley, Ala., August 8 to 15, 1926.
- (For information about any of the above, write to PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.)

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

- Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7x7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.
- 2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
- India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.
- 2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
- Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.
- 2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00
- 2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50
- India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.
- 2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

- 60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

- 133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

- 135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

- 135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

- 4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

- 101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

- 112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

- 112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
- Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8-1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

- 7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

- 1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, . . . Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR.

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors.

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

"THE COST OF A NEW WORLD."

The Honorable Kenneth MacLennan of London, has written, and the Missionary Education Movement of the United States and Canada has published, a book of 190 pages, bearing the above title. It is a great volume on the subject of Missions, in its broadest scope and significance. The author was practicing law in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1910, when the World's Missionary Conference met in that city. Being all ready a leader in the Laymen's Missionary Movement among the Scottish Churches, at that time he felt constrained, by the Conference at Edinburgh to give up his law practice and enter the service of Inter-Denominational Agencies of the British Societies. During the World War, Mr. MacLennan occupied a responsible post in the British ministry, continuing in government service for a long time after the war. He has since returned to his work in connection with the world enterprises of the Church as such, and with the best possible opportunity of observation and study for such a work, he has produced a volume that no student of Missions can afford to ignore. The author undertakes to face the problem and perplexing fact of what cross currents could produce almost simultaneously—a World Missionary Conference and a World War. He declares that these events were the climax of two streams in the history of the modern world. One of these streams was the expansion of Christianity, the other was an ever increasing material development that was not sufficiently curtailed by spiritual influences. Now the author contends that the problems of the world today are just as those of the pre-war world, but with a new background. In such a light the author attempts to set forth the factor in the world's life at the present, and to show that while there is real conflict, the world is really in school, seeking to learn honestly and candidly how to stop this conflict by way of the spirit instead of through war and destruction. He believes that "the cost of a new world" is simply that of giving the Christ and Him crucified to all the nations, and that there is no salvation for the world other than that in Jesus Christ. We will have other wars, and devastation, and blood-letting, unless the Christian world shall give, at whatever cost and sacrifice, the Gospel of the Christ to all the world. The price of the volume is $1.00, and may be ordered from the Missionary Education Movement, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York. It is certainly a volume worth many times its price. One of the closing thoughts of the author is, "The heart of Christianity is that God came down to human beings to help men up." This is the element lacking in other faiths, and in the faiths of those who do not profess and practice Jesus Christ.

J. O. A.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN—SOME QUESTIONS.

The next session of the Southern Christian Convention faces a problem in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. We cannot do without the paper, and we would not if we could. THE CHRISTIAN SUN must continue to advocate our cause and to gladden our hearts each week.

There are two methods of helping achieve this result. The first is to secure more advertisements, which hardly appears feasible. And the second is to increase the circulation, which is entirely practicable and should be done. I have an idea that the Southern Christian Convention could well afford to place THE CHRISTIAN SUN in every home in the Christian Church, sending them in packages to the Church or Sunday School Secretary to be distributed to each member. It could even afford to send the paper to individual addresses, if this would better insure delivery. Many churches could afford to include THE SUN in their budget and subscribe for each member. In such cases, the paper should give a club rate.

Why don't preachers and churches use THE SUN as a bulletin to announce forthcoming events? Then, after an event, they should report it promptly to the paper.

Our colored people have no church paper. The Suffolk Daily News has a page devoted to colored people. Here again the children of the world may be wiser than the children of the Kingdom in our day.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to have a people's forum in THE SUN?

How about a sermon each week?

What are your ideas as to how THE CHRISTIAN SUN can be made more earnestly to serve our Church?

Write your ideas to the paper or bring them to the Convention. The paper is yours, and your ideas will receive every consideration.

W. A. H.

ALL TOGETHER.

The Scriptures teach that God is no respecter of persons. This is plainly said by Peter at the centurion's house. It is also to be inferred that God is likewise no respecter of causes, enterprises, and institutions. All of them are equally dear to Him or the opposite, on the same grounds. God's Church and people should be like Him in this regard.

Paul has a precept along this line. In writing to the Corinthians, he uses the figure of the human body to represent Christ's Kingdom. And this is what he says: "If one member suffers, all members suffer with it. If one member is honored, all the members share its honor." And at another place he admonishes, "Bear ye one another's burdens."

Those who advocate a unified budget on a percentage basis as the method of financing all the enterprises of the church, would therefore appear to be on Scriptural grounds. Even the offering which Paul took to Jerusalem for the poor brethren was not designated for individual congregations or persons. It was budgeted. Strange we had not searched the Scriptures on this matter. It may be this is why the church institutions are often financially embarrassed.

W. A. H.

"BOOKS THAT HELP."

There are many books that serve but one purpose—namely to occupy shelf space. The author aspired "to write a book" and he did it. But it might as well never have been written. One wearies of the multiplicity of volumes coming from the press that promise much but offer little.

But a good book is worth many times its cost. Good books make bigger men and women. Good books are messengers of God to guide us on the upward path of knowledge to the ever widening field of service.

I have just been reading such a book that I want to recommend to others. The title of the book is "How Shall Country Youth Be Served?" by H. Paul Douglas, published by George H. Doran Co., for the Institute of Social and Religious Research.

The book is a compilation of reports from various programs of character building agencies, giving projects, methods of approach, and accomplishments in the work of serving the youth in the rural communities.

Without question, no book has ever been written that presents so comprehensively and so systematically the whole field of social and religious responsibility to the youth of the rural districts, and which presents the manner in which the various National Agencies such as the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and the Camp Fire Girls, and also incidentally the Sunday School and Church, are seeking to meet the need.

The data given in the book, and the interpretation of the various situations presented, make the volume one that will be of special service to pastors and Sunday School workers in the rural communities, which of course includes small towns and villages. The book will also be of great interest to city pastors and all others engaged in social and religious work of any kind, because it is imperative today that workers in the city shall know the background of the lives of the youth that are continually coming from the country to the city.

This is the kind of book that really helps.

The Institute of Social and Religious Research, 370 Seventh Avenue, New York City, is responsible for the publication of the book and thereby has rendered a great service to religious and social workers. The book may be secured of any book store at $2.50 the copy.

The author approaches the whole problem from a religious motive in a scientific manner. This fact will make the book appeal to thoughtful people who are seeking information rather than inspiration.

Another Book.

Dr. W. Harry Freda, pastor of the Church of the Master in Cleveland, Ohio, one of the progressive churches of that great city, has given the public in a small volume what he has been giving his congregation from Sunday to Sunday. It is a volume of sermons that is different from any other volume. The title of the book is "The Biggest Business of Life," and it is published by Fleming H. Revell Co., and sells for $1.25.

The originality of style, the intensely human touch, the every day language used, and the spirit of the author which leaps from every page, make the book really interesting reading. It is of benefit to every minister to hear as many different successful preachers as possible. If one cannot hear them, it is profitable to read what they preach, for what the successful pastor is preaching serves as a window through which you may study his thought life and that of the congregation to which he ministers.

To know Dr. Freda of course makes his book the more interesting. His genial personality and great heart make all who know him love him. His great love for God and man finds expression in his writings in a unique way. His sermons are not written for the literary critic, but for "the traveler on the King's Highway."

There are ten chapters bearing the following titles—"The Biggest Business of Life," "Safety Last," "Locking for the Dawn," "Greater Than the United States," "A Receiver of Wrecks," "Reality," "Greater Than the Radio," "Light in the Dark," "Who's Who in the Kingdom of God," "The Preacher and the People."

This is another book that helps.

R. C. H.

THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The American Bible Society reports the unprecedented number of 9,069,120 volumes of Scripture, in more than 150 languages and dialects as the total issues for its one hundred and tenth year of service. This represents an increase of nearly two and one-half million volumes over 1924 and exceeds by 1,307,743 the largest number issued in any previous year. The increase over the past year in the home field amounted to 738,855 volumes, while the foreign field reports issues of 1,677,966 volumes more than in 1924.

These figures are a source of special satisfaction as they show a healthy advance in both fields, with the largest gains among the people of the Far East. The China Agency broke all previous records by reporting 4,075,853 volumes for 1925. The Japanese and Philippine Agencies each doubled its 1924 issues. Concerning the total circulations in China the Agency Secretary writes:

"Circulation figures that break all previous records are reported not only by the American Bible Society but by those working so intimately with us. It is notable that in this year when the organized opposition to Christianity has been more widespread than at any time since the beginning of the century, the circulation of Scriptures by the three Bible Societies has for the first time exceeded ten million copies, and has crossed the eleven million line." (The British and Foreign and the National Bible Society of Scotland have China Agencies.)

Such facts are full of significance. The Bible came to the people of the West from the Near East. Through numerous translations it has been opened to all races in the Occident and has molded and shaped all that is best in our civilization and remains the priceless heritage of Western Christendom. The Book of Books is now open, through scores of translations, to the people of the Far East. These people are now receiving it in unprecedented numbers. Will it re-mold and remake oriental as it has occidental civilization? We believe that it will and that these millions of volumes of Scriptures which are annually going into the hands of the oriental peoples will prove to be the seed from which will spring forth a new life and hope in the Far East. The American Bible Society is deeply grateful for the privilege of rendering this signal service both to the people of the Far East and to the churches whose missionaries work among them.

At the meeting of the Versions Committee of the American Bible Society during 1925, consideration was given to no less than thirty-eight languages and dialects. Of these, special mention should be made of Luba Lulua, which is the language spoken by some two and a half million people in Africa. The completion of the translation of the Luba Lulua Old Testament and the revision of previous translations to conform to government requirements in spelling, made it possible to begin the printing of the whole Bible in this language. The work will be carried through the press in 1926. This Bible will release new sources of power for good to work among the people of the Dark Continent.

After several years of violent opposition to the Bible, the Soviet government in Russia has given permission to Russian Christian groups to print Russian Scriptures on the government presses in Leningrad and Moscow and the American Bible Society has provided between $10,000 and $15,000 for the purpose of making new electrotypes plates from which to print these much needed Scriptures. A committee is now busy arranging for the inauguration of this work, which will make the Scriptures available for all Christians in Russia.

The "Penny Portions" of the Scriptures have proved so popular that the Society decided to issue the complete New Testament in eleven separate volumes, each of which sells for one cent. A five cent New Testament in English has been issued. This meets a crying need for a New Testament for wide distribution by missions and individuals.

The celebration of the Four Hundredth Anniversary of the translation of the New Testament into English by William Tyndale furnished the theme for Universal Bible Sunday in December, 1925. Reports indicate that this occasion was more widely observed than in any previous year. Many thousands of churches used the American Bible Society Tyndale literature. Translations of part or all of this literature were made for use in Japan, China, and South America.

As in past years, the American Bible Society has co-operated with the mission boards, both at home and abroad, in supplying Scriptures as free grants or at special rates. The limit to which this service is rendered is measured by the amount of funds available. The report for the year shows a satisfactory gain in the United States in the issues of whole Bibles, most of which go to churches, Sunday Schools and mission stations, for use in classes and study groups. Over the decade 1915-1925, the gain in the issues of whole Bibles was 28 per cent.

If the Christian workers in our churches constitute the army of the Lord in a campaign for peace and goodwill among men, the American Bible Society is most certainly the chief supply house for ammunition. An abundant supply of Scriptures in the spoken languages and dialects of the people is essential for any effective advance either in the home or foreign fields. These Scriptures the American Bible Society supplies.

As in the past, so in the present, the Board of Managers and its staff at home and abroad know and would have all remember that, "except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it;" and would ask all their friends and supporters to seek for God's blessing and guidance on all sharing in the great work of circulating God's Word, that, indeed, it shall not return unto Him void.

W. A. H.

RURAL WORK OF CHARACTER-BUILDING AGENCIES REVEALS DEFECTS.

"How Shall Country Youth Be Served?" is the title of a report, just published by the Institute of Social and Religious Research, of the findings of a survey of the rural work of such national character-building agencies as the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, etc.

The author, Dr. H. Paul Douglass, while paying tribute to the altruistic aims, high ideals and real accomplishments of the agencies, is also unsparing in pointing out their weaknesses. He finds, for instance, that much of the so-called "rural" work carried on by the agencies, is not, strictly speaking, rural at all but suburban in character, and further that in the fifty-three counties surveyed, which probably gave an unduly favorable sample of the work, the agencies were found competing for prestige and support in places of considerable size, while making little or no effort to reach the boys and girls of distinctly rural areas.

When these conditions were discovered, the five agencies named were urged, according to the report, to select certain experimental territory and there actually try to reach farm boys and girls, not by present competitive methods but by a carefully supervised cooperative effort which, if successful, might be adopted on a national scale.

"The data of the study showed," says the report, "that relatively only a few boys and girls, in a few places, are reached by all the character-building agencies combined. Only a little of the territory of the nation is covered by definitely organized work, and that fragmentarily and with poor internal diffusion of actual units.

"At the most favored age, 14 and 15 years, the five agencies are reaching only about 10 per cent of the total youth population of the 53 counties studied, and less than 5 per cent in the next most favored age, 16 and 17 years. In the best counties and combined work includes only about one-sixth of the total youth population of 10 to 20 years of age.

"Since the estimated total of rural membership of the five agencies is less than one-fortieth of the total rural youth population of the nation, it is obvious that most of the country is not occupied to any extent. The fraction reached by any single agency is trifling indeed."

Elsewhere the report states that even of the boys and girls reached by the so-called "rural" work of the agencies, three-fourths are not from farm homes.

Concerning the work called rural, but actually carried on in towns and small cities, it says:

"The smaller incorporated places are relatively neglected. The proportion of incorporated places which are occupied by the agencies ranges from 30.3 per cent for places of less than 500 population to 85.2 per cent for places of 2,500 to 5,000, the trend being strongly to the occupancy of the larger places. Only three out of ten communities of less than 500 population are occupied, compared with eight out of ten communities of 2,500 to 10,000.

"The least needy places are the most frequently organized. The larger places, to which the agencies so strongly tend, are already more highly developed and better provided with community resources."

Dr. Douglass emphasizes the importance of the questions considered by pointing out that "the potential beneficiaries of these character-building processes are about 14,000,000 young Americans between the ages of ten and twenty years inclusive, who live on the farm and in the villages and small towns of the country, constituting all told about 74,000 communities."

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The dependance of people upon other people in world progress is universal and contains useful lessons. A man can exist alone in the woods by a spring. He can eat nuts, grapes, wild fruits, and drink water from the little spring; but man cannot live alone, "for none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." Asceticism is a failure in all life as well as in religion. A car wheel is a car wheel only when the particles of which it is composed are held together by that unseen, yet powerful, force called attraction; and the life of a car wheel, for safe use, is limited to a few years, because constant use reduces the binding force of attraction between the particles; and the wheel must pass again through the furnace and the moulds.

The human race is a unit. Mankind is one. Unity and co-operation are essential conditions of human progress, and it is no less important in religious progress. The railroads dumped nearly two million tons of coal around Hampton Roads during the month of March. That means that miners, trackmen, engineers, conductors, station agents, foundries, shops, workmen, designers, capitalists, and a thousand other agencies were engaged in dumping those two million tons of coal, to say nothing of wharf and shipbuilding, steam and electric power, and all that goes with transporting the coal over the ocean.

Take the simple matter of an individual's money. No man can handle his own money with profit. Of course he can lock it up in a drawer or a safe; but it earns nothing. He may complain and worry when the stock he bought comes to naught. He may blame the managers of the business; but if his money earns, he must trust somebody. Confidence is the largest asset in business, in government, in religion, and in personal relations. "Without faith, it is impossible to please God"; and without faith, it is impossible to succeed in any line of life. Money is a dead asset unless it has the help of others than the possessor. Capital would perish without labor; and labor would perish without capital. It is co-operation that produces wealth and makes progress. A man could not invest his money without others. He must trust others with his money, his time, his talents, his energy and his service. The losses sustained through incapacity, mismanagement, or intentional wrongdoing, are all incidents in the course of business. Even losses are not as bad as hoarded or unused money; when one suffers loss, the money continues to work and benefit others. Lost money is better than hoarded money. Money like men, is no good unless at work. Often failures for an individual mean success for the community. Men had better do something and lose their money than to hoard their money and do nothing.

A man built a fine residence on a main street—the finest in the town—and then failed; but the house stands there today, and other fine houses were built because that house indicated taste and confidence in the town. Many of the most successful industries failed so far as the original investors were concerned; but the business has grown into vast proportions and great success. "The workers die, but the work goes on." Up to the time of the burial of Jesus, His work seemed a failure. On the cross He was a failure as the world sees; but His resurrection and the subsequent history of the cause for which He died has been a marvelous success. Do not be afraid to lose or to fail.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

I am riding homeward from Florida. I did not go on a vacation. I went on a special mission and returned immediately I had concluded it. I did not bathe in the sea, though I saw hosts in the surf along the East coast from Palm Beach to Miami, a remarkable seventy mile auto drive. I had a few hours in a town while waiting for a connection, and went to a hotel for a bath. Four dollars was the modest fee for which the clerk agreed to allow my travelling friend also to bathe. We bathed not.

Real estate agents, subdivisions, hotels, restaurants, tourists, campers, busses, golf, surf-bathing, theatres and picture houses, large cities without a house, lots advertized as having water frontage and sold to unsuspecting purchasers in distant States, the water frontage being along a canal cut to drain the swamps, glorious drives through the everglades and along the endless lakes and canals, alligator and ostrich farms, orange, lemon, grapefruit, cocconut and banana groves, truck farms in full harvest, palms world without end, and glorious flowers, evidences of oppressive poverty along side mammoth luxury—these are the things you see, and you see them everywhere.

You hear three notes in Florida—one the note of the man who has made his fortune in real estate, by magic as it were. I met several of this type. Not having my straw hat along (I am not sure but that it was my impressive good looks), this class readily picked me out as a sucker. I sucked all the information that I could, and incidentally I was offered real estate by "reliable" gentlemen for from $10,000.00 to $100.00 per front foot, one-third down within thirty days, and the balance in one and two years, with interest. I was assured I would double my money within six months.

Another note I heard more insistent on the North bound trains. One of these fellows defined "reliable" for me as it applies to Florida real estate promotion. "Re" means "again" in Latin. Read it backwards and you get, he said—"able to lie again.—That's what they did to me and will do to others." You always feel sorrow mingled with contempt for such people. I thought of the fable of the fox and the sour grapes. But before going further, I should add that I neither made nor lost a fortune. One fellow said, however, after talking with me—"With your line, you would mop up a million in a year." I am just longing to see Mrs. Harper and tell her this, so she can feel proud of her matrimonial choice.

The third note is the one I liked. It faces the future constantly. "We have the climate and must build a great State," said a fine, forward-looking young man. He represents a legion and they will see it through. These men are optimists and they are workers. These qualities will succeed. They are interested in Florida as a home, as an opportunity for life service.

Already, realizing that the day of inflated values has passed, the blowers who sound the first note and the suckers who sound the second, have many of them closed up their Florida offices and gone to Western North Carolina, where the next great financial selling is scheduled to occur. But those who sound note number three will stay with the sunshine and health giving State of Florida and transform it into the great life-giving resort of the country. The next few years will witness an amazing city on the East coast, reaching from Palm Beach to Miami, seventy miles long and from three to five miles wide, and how high I am unable to predict, a city built on real values for human happiness. More money yet is to be lost in real estate in Florida, but the day of consolation and construction is at hand. For my part, I expect to continue to live in North Carolina, "where the weak grow strong, and the strong grow great," but if I were rich and out of a job, it would be Florida for me, provided of course Mrs. Harper should take kindly to the idea.

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Jesus placed a premium on work, when He said: "My Father works, and I work." Jesus worked as a carpenter, preacher, teacher and healer; and at the close of his life brought his finished work to his Father for inspection, approval, and reward. Manual labor is dignified both by the teachings and example of Jesus; which is in opposition to the Greek and Romans, who despised it. With Him work was even a means of warship: "Father, I have glorified Thee on earth, having accomplished the work which Thou hast given me to do" (as a carpenter for thirty years and a world-redeemer for three years and a half). Christ still further dignified toil by calling His earliest disciples from the ranks of manual laborers.

Work is not a curse of the fall of man, but a blessing to the race. Life is only worth while as it is measured in terms of work; as a consequence of this every man has the right to an opportunity to work. The Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man determine the relations, conditions and terms, and the spirit of employers and employees. The interests of employers and employees are mutual, and corresponding conduct is at the basis of all progress. The spirit of co-operation should lead to the settlement of all disputes, including those of labor, by conciliation and arbitration.

Where ability is equal, the quantity of work done determines relative merit; where ability varies, then it is not the absolute quantity of work done but the ration of the quantity of ability; but however great the diligence and zeal displayed or the amount of work done may be, no work can have any real value in the Kingdom of God which proceeds from an impure motive; this is set forth in the parable of the Laborers in the Vineyard.

"The laborer is worthy of his hire," and the hire must be worthy of the laborer. This implies the right to a living wage and the prompt payment of wages. By a living wage is not meant merely enough to keep soul and body together. There must be sufficient to live a decent and fairly comfortable, a cleanly and a noble life. A non-living wage is sometimes due to indifference or ignorance, but often to greed of employers. Too low wages are responsible for about one-half the cases of primary poverty. A living wage is ethically and economically reasonable. Such wages would render child-labor and that of many women unnecessary.

Unsanitary working conditions; non-safe-guards in dangerous trades; non-provision of old age pensions; and lower wages paid to women who do the same work as men, are sins against the working man and woman. Some of the sins of the working man are: Refusal to allow another to take the place given up, in case of strikes; proportioning the amount of work which a workman may be able and willing to do—either to his own profit or that of his employers—to the amount done by the least efficient workman; personal violence to non-union men; lack of interest in one's work—working by the clock.

(Concluded on page 14.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson III.—April 18, 1926.

"THE BEGINNING OF SIN."

GOLDEN TEXT: "For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive."—I. Cor. 15: 22.

LESSON: Genesis 3: 1-24.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 1.

There are two ways of approaching the simple story as recorded in Genesis 3. One way of approach is the literal way. One may interpret it as a record of detailed facts which must be accepted in their literal meaning. According to this view, one might consider where the garden was, how large it was, what kind of trees it had in it, what kind of serpent played the villain in the tragedy, what language he spoke, what kind of tree was the forbidden tree, and so on. This may be an exaggerated idea, but a hard and fast literal interpretation of the story would involve such questions. And anyone who accepts such an interpretation will be hard pressed to give intelligent and satisfactory answers.

On the other hand, one may approach the story, not in a literal way as corresponding to a particular event in the history of the race, but in a figurative way as depicting with fidelity the presentation of moral truth. In other words, such an approach would not be concerned with whether the events of the story ever actually took place, but as to what moral and spiritual truths the story embodies and teaches. Just as it does not make any difference whether there was an actual prodigal son or a man who was the good Samaritan, just so does it not matter whether there was an actual serpent, so far as the great abiding spiritual truths are concerned. The story is simply the shell of the abiding and living truth. Let us get beyond the husk or the shell to the kernel of living truth, and we shall find there great abiding facts that are spirit and life.

"Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field." It was not mere chance that the writer of the story selected the serpent, as the form of temptation. Temptation comes in that subtle form. In its stealthy approach, in its power to "charm" or to fascinate, in its power to bind in its folds, temptation is like a great serpent. Furthermore, like the serpent, it has within itself deadly power. Let no one think that the devil comes to take us by storm; he comes in the more subtle form personified by the serpent.

The serpent was a good psychologist. There is devilish ingenuity in his approach. "Yea hath God said, 'Ye shall not eat of any tree of the garden?'" Here was a remark that was calculated to arouse a distrust of God. Here was a remark that was designed to madden one with the thought that personal liberty had been infringed upon, and that God had dealt unjustly with one. Temptation often makes this very approach.

The woman—Eve—replied to the effect that there were many trees in the garden of which they could eat the fruit thereof, but there was one tree which had been forbidden to them. Here is the great moral and spiritual truth that there are certain things in life that are wrong, eternally and unalterably wrong, that there are certain prohibitions always operative in life. It is true that Jesus laid the emphasis on the "thou shalt," but even in His ideal of life there is a large place on "thou shalt not." One thing stands out here—the danger of lingering in the presence of temptation.

The serpent lied—the devil is a liar from the beginning. In common slang he said, "God is spoofing you." "It is not a matter whether you will die if you eat that thing; it is simply a case of God being afraid that you will know even as much as he does, the good from the evil." Disobedience to God is often born of misrepresentation of the truth.

"And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof and did eat." The story rings so true to life that it may just as well have been written yesterday. The appeal to curiosity, the appeal to the appetite, the desire for knowledge—there are those who say that they must have their fling at sin in order to "know life"—the appeal to the senses, the feeling that such a thing as a little act of disobedience, all these things run true to form. The devil does not come with horns and tail and fork; he comes with that which appeals to the appetite and passion and ambition.

"And she gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat." Our sins are mightier than we are in their power to make us tempt our fellowmen. Just as no man liveth to himself, just so doth no man sin unto himself. Once a man has succumbed to temptation, he in turn becomes a tempter. The man who drinks does not like to drink alone. The man who is impure must satisfy his passion at the expense of some woman. The man who sins himself becomes the temptation to others. It is this fact that so often enters into a man's grief in repentance. The knowledge that his passion has conjured up like passions in others, that his sin has made it harder for others to live right, often crushes a man with a sense of helplessness as he comes at last to the point where he wants to confess his own sins. He finds that his sins have caused others to sin.

The penalty for their wrong-doing did not follow immediately. The woman or the man did not drop dead instantly. But be not deceived, those of you who think that because sin does not exact its penalty at once, it does not exact it at all. Be not deceived for God is not mocked; whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. The wages of sin is death, even if the wages are often paid on the installment plan. Be sure your sins will find you out even if you have succeeded thus far in keeping them hidden.

"And they heard the voice of Jehovah God walking on the garden in the cool of the day; and the man and the woman hid themselves from the presence of Jehovah God amongst the trees of the garden." Here is the picture of the shame and guilt that always follow the act of sin. The way of the transgressor is hard, but it is also the way of shame. "I was afraid," said the man. A man may well become alarmed when he becomes so coarsened and hardened that he does not feel it.

"And the man said, 'The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.'" Here is the favorite in-door and out-door, in-season and out-of-season pastime of the human race—"passing the buck," or blaming it on the other fellow. Who caused you to do this thing? My heredity, my environment, my companions, my ignorance, etc. It is true, of course, that these things do enter in. But as one of my professors in Seminary used to say, deep in our hearts we must say with the Psalmist, "Against thee, thee only have I sinned." The ultimate responsibility cannot be shifted. Every one of us must give an account of himself to his God.

The penalties upon disobedience are here shown in terms that correspond with the rest of the picture. Expulsion from the garden, follows the act of disobedience. "Their eyes were opened indeed to painful, shameful phases of experience." They became not as gods but as human beings with knowledge enlarged to include the ugly and hateful. And out into the life struggle and sorrow they bore the marks of their rebellion against the gracious will of One who walked in the garden to minister to their joy. All these things are written in a parable for our learning, and the whole sad story of moral delinquency is there portrayed.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

April 18, 1926.

"THE SABBATH."

TOPIC: "How Do People either Build or Undermine the Sabbath?"

SCRIPTURE: Rev. 1: 9-11; Mark 2: 23-28; 3: 1-6.

Daily Readings.

Monday, April 12th. Build by Worship, Luke 4: 16-32.

Tuesday. By Helpfulness, John 5: 1-16.

Wednesday. By Service, Isa. 58: 8-14.

Thursday. Undermine by Work, Deut. 5: 12-15.

Friday. By Formality, Isa. 1: 10-17.

Saturday. By Neglect, Heb. 10: 23-25.

Leader's Talk.

All of us either build or undermine the Sabbath and the spirit of the Sabbath. We are either "for or against" any cause. The Sunday Blue Laws have come because in a number of places people have kept stores open and in other ways broken the commandment: Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy, six days shalt thou labor and do all thy works, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work . . . For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth . . . and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it. This commandment is not only broken in large cities, but in country places. It is often more dangerous in country places because it is "the" central gathering place for the boys and men of the community—and the entire community often feels the effect. They are places of idleness for those who stand around—and the old saying, "The devil finds work for idle hands to do," is often true in such places. Every one has an influence for good or bad, and each of us should use this to build up the Sabbath day. If Christians fail in this, then others will surely not build up the spirit of this Holy Day.

Why Keep the Sabbath?

The Father, our Creator, always knows and does the best thing for us. He knew our physical natures, and that every one needs a rest one day in the seven. It has been said that more work can be done in six days than in seven, when one day of rest is observed. It should not be a day of complete relaxation but a change from work, and a time for thought and meditation. Our Father knew that we needed this when He provided the Sabbath for us. How often do we take the

Continued on page 15.)

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary

FEELING EASY

Frequently we receive letters from persons saying that they have been delayed in remitting their Forward Movement payments through unfortunate conditions, as prolonged illness, losses by fire, afflictions of body or mind, but that they do not forget their sacred obligation and "Cannot feel easy" until it is paid in full. Such circumstances justify reasonable delay and in some cases forgiveness of the obligation according to the scriptures.

But how people in health, favorable circumstances, often living in luxury, spending generously for themselves and theirs can feel easy with their Forward Movement subscription unpaid or repudiated is hard to understand. With the work of the kingdom suffering, the undertakings of the church crippled because of their unpaid pledges, it is a serious matter to treat such Christian obligations lightly. The work was undertaken because of such subscriptions which were received in good faith. All debts now facing our several boards could be wiped out at once if such subscriptions were paid in. Our executives are pressed by the heavy load because some regard their sacred obligations so lightly. Our boards are careful with funds. Our executives are wise but unpaid obligations lay a heavy and unjust burden on them. This is not merely a serious matter for the work, but it is an even more serious matter for the spiritual and financial welfare of those who are able to pay their obligations, sacredly assumed, and yet ignore or refuse to meet them. It will mean their serious spiritual loss.

WORKING TOGETHER

The Ontario conference has voted to close its church year March 31. That is a splendid example to all our conferences to close the year with the end of a calendar quarter. It has also adopted the Duplex envelope system which the resolution says, "Is today considered the most satisfactory as well as the most economical way of giving. Once adopted and properly carried out we believe it will never be regretted." The Keswick church starts the example. Others will follow, Mr. E. B. Hoover is the Conference Stewardship Secretary. The Eel River conference ministers have voted to put on a simultaneous Every-Member Canvass and have set May 9th as the date. Rev. R. G. Clark is the Conference Stewardship Secretary. The Miami-Ohio conference will conduct a simultaneous Every-Member Canvass. The Executive Board has set the date as June 13th. Rev. R. F. Brown is the Conference Stewardship Secretary.

CHURCH OFFERINGS FOR CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

The Department of Christian Education of the Christian Church gratefully acknowledges receipt of the following contributions for the Christian Education work of our church (Dr. W. A. Harper, Chairman), from the church of the Southern Christian Convention. These offerings all came through the hands of Mr. C. H. Stephenson, of Raleigh, the Treasurer of the Board of Religious Education of the Southern Convention, with the exception of the contributions from Wadley, Dover and Pleasant Hill, which were sent direct to the Dayton office.

Eastern Virginia—Antioch, $7.00; First Church, Norfolk, $6.64; Holland, $50.00; Holy Neck, $10.05; Isle of Wight, $6.35; Newport News, $19.00; People's Church, Dover, $69.75; Richmond, $15.31; Rosemont, $5.00; Windsor, $5.56.

Valley of Virginia—Palmyra, $2.25; Timber Ridge, $4.30; Winchester, $7.39.

Eastern North Carolina—Henderson, $5.19; Liberty (Vance), $4.16; Fuller's Chapel, $2.50; Pleasant Hill, $5.05; Turner's Chapel, $4.00.

Western North Carolina—Burlington, $25.00; Pleasant Ridge, $1.75; Randleman, $1.93; Seagrove, $2.52.

North Carolina and Virginia—Elon College, $116.47; Greensboro, First, $18.94; Lynchburg, $10.66.

Alabama—Wadley, $9.00.

Total, $415.77.

If other churches which have included an amount for Christian Education work in the Christian Church in their budgets, or wish to have a share through an offering to this work at this strategic time in the work, the contribution should be sent to Mr. C. H. Stephenson, 120 West Martin Street, Raleigh, N. C., and will be credited to the church by the Department of Christian Education, and used to forward this great work in our church.

LUCY M. ELDRIDGE, Secretary.

FOR A NEW CHURCH.

If ever a pastor had occasion to feel that his people love and appreciate him beyond his worth, the pastor at Vanderveer Park Christian Church is that man. Just on the eve of entering upon our great campaign for funds for building our first permanent unit of what promises to be one of our best church buildings, I came home and heard beautiful music. At first I thought we must have callers, but soon detected the difference. In my absence the president of our Board of Trustees had been in and hooked up a beautiful radio receiving outfit, the gift of warm friends. This, in face of the fact of a very substantial purse at Christmas. The next day we began our solicitation for funds. At the morning service $5,712 was subscribed by individuals of our congregation. Enough additional has been subscribed before and since that service by our own people, to make their subscriptions total about $7,000. In addition to this, through our departments and a few denominational friends, we have a total from our own little company of about $23,500.

The Community Campaign is now beginning to warm up in good shape, so that by the time this reaches the Herald and Sun offices, we shall be very close to the $30,000 mark. This we hope to see reach $40,000 by the end of the campaign. If we can raise an additional $10,000 through the generosity of our friends in other parts of the country, we believe our success is assured.

Our Sunday School is rapidly outgrowing our present quarters. In fact we do not have adequate room now. Our Sunday congregations too have grown until nearly every pew was comfortably filled last Sunday, and approaches that kind of audience frequently. Our people have never shown greater loyalty and enthusiasm than at the present.

P. S. SAILER,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

MARCH, 1925.

Wakefield, Va., $2.29; Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va., $2.10; Richmond, Va., $4.25; Waverly, Va., $8.86; Auburn, Garner, N. C., $3.75; Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C., $1.67; Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C., R. 5, $1.25; Mt. Pleasant, Vass, N. C., $1.75; Waverly, Va., $12.72; United Christian Sunday School, Lynchburg, Va., $14.70; Rosemont, South Norfolk, Va., $6.21; Wadley, Ala., $1.23; Elon College Community Church, $5.09; Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga., $1.43; Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C., $5.37; Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C., $8.17; North Clayton, N. C., R. 2, $1.00; Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va., $5.00; Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va., $4.61; Winchester, Va., $4.47; Ramseur, N. C., $4.12; Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va., $17.73; Oakland, Suffolk, Va., $4.00; Richland, Ga., $1.00; Raleigh, N. C., $2.50; First Church, Norfolk, Va., $4.88; Durham, N. C., $9.97; Antioch, Zuni, Va., $4.00; Rock Stand, Roanoke, Ala., $2.32; Berea (Norfolk), Hickory, Va., $11.50; Wentworth, McCullers, N. C., $3.45; Ocean View, Va., $5.15; First Church, Portsmouth, Va., $7.90; Leaksville, Luray, Va., $2.00; First Church, Greensboro, N. C., $21.83; Peoples Christian Church, Dover Del., $23.84; Liberty Vance, Henderson, N. C., $3.27; Durham, N. C., $16.45; Ingram, Va., $3.00; Oak Level, Youngsville, N. C., $7.19; Liberty Springs, Suffolk, Va., $6.00; Richmond, Va., $1.74; Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C., $2.61; Bethlehem (Nansemond), Va., $1.50; Suffolk, Va., $12.50; Liberty, N. C., $1.91; Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va., $1.88; Ether, N. C., $8.70; Wakefield, Va., $2.90; New Lebanon, Reidsville, N. C., $4.49; Mt. Pleasant, Over Hill, N. C., $1.50; Shallow Well, Jonesboro, N. C., $2.00; Oakland, Suffolk, Va., $2.00; Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., $10.00; Burlington, N. C., $74.91; Total, $311.66.

While we are profoundly grateful to the schools named above for their liberal offering, and to the other schools which contribute monthly to Missions, it is noted with regret that there are quite a few schools in the Southern Christian Convention not yet sufficiently interested in enlarging the Kingdom and building up schools and churches elsewhere to make a monthly contribution. It is devoutly hoped that many of our schools not already doing so will vote for, and send us one offering a month for this most worthy and needy work of the Kingdom.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

Mr. J. E. WEST,
Suffolk, Va.

The following is the report for Men and Millions for the month of March, 1926:

Holy Neck, E. Va. Conference, $20.00; Mt. Auburn, E. N. C. Conference, $10.00; Mt. Gilead, E. N. C. Conference, $10.00; Morrisville, E. N. C. Conference, $20.00; Haw River, N. C. and Va. Conference, $25.00; First Church, Greensboro, N. C. and Va. Conference, $25.00; Dendron, E. Va. Conference, $25.00; Zion, W. N. C. Conference, $13.00. Total, $148.00.

Yours truly,
CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Executive Secretary.

"PERSONAL INTERVIEW EVANGELISM."

By ROY C. HELFENSTEIN,
General Secretary Evangelism and Life Service.

I have never realized until last week where I received the idea of Lay Evangelism, or Visitation Evangelism, or "Personal Interview Evangelism," which characterizes Kingdom Enlistment Week, and which I have practiced throughout my ministry. I wrote my graduation thesis, when a student in Yale Divinity School in 1913, on the subject—"The place of Evangelism in the Modern Church," and devoted considerable space to the work of "Lay Evangelism" as I then called it. While in the University of Edinburgh, I prepared a paper on "Modern Evangelism" to read before the students of the Theological Department. In this paper I also stressed the theme of Lay Evangelism or "Personal Interview Evangelism." Later, when I returned to the States to take up my work as pastor of a New England church which I had served while a student in the Seminary, I launched a campaign of "Personal Interview Evangelism" which I called "Home Evangelism," receiving a large class of new members into the church after a week of such effort.

In my succeeding pastorates I have made much of the Personal Interview Method of Evangelism. And when I was appointed Secretary of Evangelism in the Forward Movement Program of the Christian Denomination, I outlined a program of Pastoral and Lay Evangelism, which later served as the original basis of the Kingdom Enlistment Week Campaign, and which was later adopted by the Board of Evangelism. The Kingdom Enlistment Week Campaign, under the direction of the Board of Evangelism and the Executive Secretary, Dr. Howsare, has developed around that original idea of "Lay Evangelism," "Personal Interview Evangelism," "Home Evangelism," now known as "Visitation Evangelism," (the same idea under different names) on which I had been working since 1913.

And not until last week did I realize where I received the first suggestion of this modern type of Evangelism. I knew it was not from Dr. Black, as I had written my thesis on Evangelism at Yale ten years before he introduced his program which he first called "Silent Evangelism." I knew it was not from Dr. Kernahan, for he states in his book on Visitation Evangelism that he was a convert to this type of Evangelism after the World War. Each of these men who are without question the greatest leaders in Modern Evangelism, adopted the idea independently of anyone else, and each has developed his program in his own original manner. Of course we have all declared it was "Jesus' Program of Evangelism." He was indeed the author of this modern type of Evangelism. And all evangelistic pastors down through the years have practiced this type of Evangelism in some measure.

After returning home last week from the Kingdom Enlistment Week Campaign I had conducted in father's church in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, the whole origin of the idea of Visitation Evangelism in my own ministry dawned upon me.

It was while I was a student at Des Moines University, that as a pastor of a Congregational Church near Des Moines, I was being assisted by my father in an Evangelistic Campaign. I remember now as distinctly as if it had only been yesterday, how he asked for the names of all the people in the community who were kindly disposed to the church I was serving; how he asked for a list of those in the Sunday School who were not members of the church, and how he asked for a list of the key men and women of the community who were not Christians; how he asked each member of the church to have a prayer list of those they wished to win to Christ, asking all the workers to pledge themselves to pray at a certain time each day for those on the prayer list; and then how he asked the members to go two by two on a certain day to call on certain individuals in the interest of winning them to Christ and the Church.

Of course no detailed systematic program such as we now have in our Kingdom Enlistment Week was made for the work. But the principal idea that has grown into our Kingdom Enlistment Week Campaign was there. As I write these lines, father does not know that he gave me the idea which later gripped me as a student in the Seminary, the idea which determined the subject of my graduation thesis, the idea which inspired whatever contribution I was able to make as Secretary of Evangelism in our Forward Movement Campaign, the idea which has proved so helpful in my ministry, and which finds expression in its developed form in the Kingdom Enlistment Week Program given our beloved denomination by the Department of Evangelism and Life Service.

Some of the readers of these lines who have been privileged to be under father's ministry may have not recognized the similarity between the principal idea of Visitation Evangelism as embodied in our Kingdom Enlistment Week Program and the idea they have seen father emphasize in his Evangelistic Campaigns in the years gone by, but they will recall as they read these lines. Of course it is not the same now. It has been developed and enlarged upon. But the sprout was there which has grown into the present tree.

Having given credit as to the one who gave the idea which has grown and developed into our present program "Personal Interview Evangelism," it is for the readers of these lines, and all members of the Christian Church to decide what future developments are to be made in the work of Evangelism in our Church, and what the future of the Department of Evangelism and Life Service is to be.

I have presented our Kingdom Enlistment Week Program to Pastor's Conferences and Lay Meetings representing all the leading denominations in the principal cities of the East, the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast. Everywhere, the universal response has been that the Christian Church has one of the very best programs of Evangelism of any of the denominations.

The members of the Board of Evangelism and the Executive Secretary, Dr. Howsare, have spent much time and study during the past Quadrennium in improving, developing and enlarging upon this program of Evangelism to make it what we now have.

It is for the pastors and members of the Christian Denomination now to declare how much they appreciate what has been done for the cause of Evangelism in our church and to decide what shall be done to promote the cause of Evangelism in our denomination in the future.

The Department of Evangelism and Life Service has been a servant of our church. The offering in May will determine what its future service will be.

Every person who appreciates the practical and efficient program of Kingdom Enlistment Week will want to help promote the Department of Evangelism.

Every person who wants the Christian Church to go forward in Kingdom of Service will be anxious to help support the Department of Evangelism.

Every person who has been won to Christ through the program of Kingdom Enlistment Week will want to promote this great work.

Every member of the Christian Denomination ought to have some part in the offering on May 2d for the Department of Evangelism and Life Service.

OUR MOUNTAIN WORK.

The people of our different churches have been very kind to us during the past months. We have received several nice donations other than the clothing. We want each and every one to fully realize that not only do we appreciate these donations, but the people here do as well. Since the winter has been so bad if it had not been for the large donations of clothing, we do not see how we would have been able to have carried on our work as well as we have.

The following donations have been sent in since my last report: 1 organ, Mrs. Foster Burlington; 10 peach trees, J. Van Lindley Co., Greensboro; 2 boxes clothing, Mrs. H. P. Harrell, Driver, Va.; 1 box clothing, South Norfolk, Christian Church; 2 boxes clothing, Circle No. 3, Burlington; $2.77 freight on organ shipped, Mrs. J. R. Foster's Society, Burlington, N. C.; 2 boxes clothing, Mrs. Carrie Fields, Reidsville; 24 fruit trees, 12 from Men's Bible Class, Bethlehem Christian Church, 12 from the Bible Class of Mt. Bethel Christian Church. These trees were sent through Bro. L. P. Rippey, of Stokesdale.

H. T. SORRELL, Pastor.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

To Churches and Missionary Societies of the North Carolina Christian Conference:

The "One Day Schools of Missions" will be held this spring as follows:

Warren-Vance District—Liberty Church, April 3d. Miss Margaret Alston, Superintendent, Henderson, N. C.

Halifax District—Ingram Church, April 10th. Mrs. T. W. Chandler, Superintendent, Virgilina, Va.

Alamance District—Shallow Ford Church, April 14th. Mrs. J. D. Strader, Superintendent, Burlington, N. C.

Guilford District—Pleasant Ridge Church, April 15th. Mrs. L. P. Wicker, Superintendent, Greensboro, N. C.

Lee-Chatham District—Sanford Church, April 11th. Miss Emma Hart, Superintendent, Sanford, N. C.

Wake-Johnson District—Raleigh Church, April 17th. Mrs. L. L. Vaughn, Superintendent, Raleigh, N. C.

Randolph - Montgomery District—Ramseur Church, April 18th. Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Superintendent, Seagrove, N. C.

We are indeed anxious to have every church in the conference represented in some one of these meetings, whether or not they have a missionary organization the church. Send a delegation of young people to the "One Day School of Missions" in your district. Last year the meetings were a great success. This year we hope that they will be a much greater help and inspiration than heretofore. Let all work together for Jesus; it is His work, not ours, and He will bless us.

GERTRUDE BROWNE,
Field Secretary.

For some time past, The Wesleyan Methodist has had on a campaign for new subscribers. In the last issue of that periodical, the announcement is made that there have been nearly a thousand new subscribers added to the list. Can we not do the same thing for our own church paper?

MATTHEW.

CHAPTERS I AND II.

This evangelical, inspired author, called from the custom-house to be an apostle, introduces his narrative of glad tidings to all people by giving us a sketch of the Redeemer's pedigree, according to the flesh; but, as the prophet sayeth, "Who shall declare his generation?" The answer is (according to His divine origin), He is from everlasting to everlasting, not fully known to men or angels! But as touching His humanity, He was born a Jew, from an elect royal line, or family, as is set down in the Book; not so as to enumerate every individual who succeeded each other, but dividing them into forty-two generations. This blessed Jesus was the seed promised to our father Adam, whereby his soul was pardoned, and of course all his offspring: as it is written, "Behold, the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world." The sacred history further reports that this holy virgin Mary, of the royal family, was promised to a worthy man of the same line, whose name was Joseph; but before their marriage, it was discovered that Mary was pregnant, when Joseph intended to separate himself from her in a private manner. But the holy angel revealed the secret to him, as it is written—read the story. And it came to pass some time after the birth of Jesus that a company of astronomers came up from the east country, under the impression of the Holy Spirit, and by the movement of a new star. They came to the house where the holy babe lay, and with confidence inquired, "Where is He that is born King of the Jews? Conceal Him not; we have seen His star, and are come to worship Him." Wise men do worship Jesus, because He is "God with us." These things roused the feelings of old Herod, who caused a multitude of innocent little boys to be martyred. This brings me to the third chapter.

CHAPTER III.

Here goes on a report respecting John, the Hebrew prophet, sent before to convince, correct, reform and prepare the way for the Lord and His new kingdom, which was near at hand.

As John followed baptizing, he was called Baptist. Many disputes have been about John and his baptism, from his first cry in the wilderness until now. In fact, he was a chosen vessel, set apart from the womb, for a certain purpose. He lived and died near the close of the legal dispensation. He proclaimed the new kingdom to be near at hand. He was as a link between the two dispensations; and, indeed, he was a very laudable preface! Yet, as he was not an apostle, nor did he live under the new dispensation, nor had the Lord yet offered Himself to the Jews, neither had the divine spirit come according to the new kingdom (for the spirit was not to be poured out until after the divine humanity was glorified) (John 7:39). Therefore, Christians have no more to do with John's baptism than with the Jewish pass-over. John prophesied of his decrease, as the old kingdom closed; and how the Lord and the new kingdom would increase. After our Lord commenced the public speaker, He raised disciples distinct from John's, and they were baptized with a baptism higher than John's, for these were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. But at Penticost the Christian baptism commenced, viz: in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen. Our Lord's baptism was at a proper age, and at a proper place, even the river of Judgment, done by a proper person. This was in order for His consecration, in conformity to the order of the priesthood; but, although He was baptized by John, it was not according to John's baptism "unto repentance." Moreover, it was the order of baptising, or consecrating the high priests, who were consecrated with water and oil; but only the hands and feet were baptized in the water. Then as he came up out of the water, the oil was poured on the head. Now you have it!

CHAPTER IV.

This chapter needs only to be read, for it requires very little explanation, as it treats on the temptations our Lord passed through with glorious victory. I shall only make a few remarks.

First: The divine operations of the Holy Ghost led Him into the wilderness, to be tempted.

Secondly: Our Lord showed man's noble creation, whose soul could feed, grow and thrive—yea, live forever on the word of God!

Thirdly: Satan discovered his unpardonable sin, viz: he willed to be worshipped; but when he proposed for the Lord to worship him, I call that the impudence of the devil! Yea, and all the miserable who sink to hell will have to worship the devil!

Fourth remark: When Satan brought Scripture to back his temptation, our Lord produced another text, and Satan could not reconcile them. This is like unto the long dispute between John Calvin and James Arminius, for one text may seem to say a convert cannot fall entirely away; another text speaks as if we may certainly fall away and perish! Then seeing, no Scripture hath any private interpretation, I suppose it impossible to show the Scripture texts in harmony without throwing in the condition. "He will withhold no good thing from them that walk uprightly," etc. And it came to pass after our Lord had defeated Satan, Jesus returned to Jerusalem at a time people were collected for divine service. Then our Lord commenced public preaching; opened the Bible and read His text, viz: Isaiah lxi 1, etc. Reader, pause a moment. "From that time, Jesus began to preach," saying, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand:" not yet come. How say some, that John began the new dispensation?

CHAPTERS V AND VI.

Let this portion be read with solemn attention, and let the reader examine himself, whether he comes under the character of the blessed.

Nothing is here hard to be understood, as to the letter; and as to the experience, that the Lord only can interpret. Let the disciple mind, that if his spirit be lit as the candle of the Lord, that the light in his understanding will be displayed in a holy life, and goodly conversation. Moreover, remember that grace comes under the lively similitude of salt, which is a preservative to flesh, as grace is to the soul, to save it from corruption. Had there been ten gracious people in Sodom, the city would have been spared. Salt is that active substance, as some say, which giveth consistence to all bodies, by causing them to be preserved from corruption, causing the variety of tastes; yet by long exposure to wind, sun and weather, salt may lose its savor, i. e., become insipid, and of no value. So are all those who make shipwreck of faith and a good conscience! Our glorious Lord well understood similitudes. These who fall away from Christ and religion, are disqualified for religious, or civil society, so their last state is worse than the first.

As to the sixth chapter, it is plain and easy to understand; at least, the greater part may be understood without an interpreter. The moral law is explained in its primitive lustre, which shows it to be spiritual, as well as literal; so that a sinner may justly be condemned for adultery, and murder, although never reduced to action! Reader, I wish you to take notice, that self-murder is the most inhuman and cruel of all murder. To murder parents, wife and children, as some men have done, appears the height of savage cruelty. But, for a man in cold blood, with his own hand, by throat-cutting, a rope, a hot ball, or to strangle in the merciless stream—to torture his own flesh, that he ought, in a right way, to love and nourish, is murder and cruelty in the extreme! He not only dies like a fool, but he dies in the devil—and awakes, where? From such a death, good Lord, deliver me and all the human family. Reader, you may think yourself in no danger of such an infernal act. Take heed, watch and pray, forsake sin, nor give place for a moment to the devil.

Reader, you will notice the twenty-fifth verse, relative to that saying, "Agree with thine adversary quickly," etc. An adversary is an antagonist, or opponent. This adversary is not thy God, nor does it in this place refer to Satan; but it refers to an offended brother, or neighbor, as the two preceding verses will abundantly show. In the order of common law, if, in any case, you have in any wise injured a man, but he intends to run the law upon you, and not retaliate himself, you being inwardly convinced you will be cast—then the judge will order the officer to cast you into prison. Thus, it would be wisdom in you to go speedily and try for a reconciliation. By the same rule, if you wrong any person who will not retaliate, but leave his cause with God, then cast your eyes on the first epistle and fourth chapter to the Thessalonians, and sixth verse, where it is thus recorded in the divine law: "Let no man defraud his brother in any matter, because that the Lord is the avenger of all such! Therefore, labor to atone, or, by suitable acknowledgments, reconcile thy injured neighbor, before his complaint is lodged before the great Judge, and you be cast into the hot prison!"

In the close of the fifth chapter, we are taught the doctrine of Christian perfection, which is perfect love to God, and good will to all men. In chapter six you will read that putting away wives is a hateful thing, and unlawful, except for one cause. Yet, if a wife is cruelly abused, or in danger of her life—no doubt she may depart, so she remain virtuous.

If a divorce may be given in a lawful manner, I should think the judiciary department should be applied to, who should act according to the laws enacted by the legislative body.

CHAPTER VII.

In this section we read how hard it appears for a returning sinner to deny self, resist the devil, become small and sufficiently humbled to rush through the narrow gate, and be translated into the kingdom of righteousness, joy and peace. Hear another parable, comparing men to trees, both good and bad. But the pure law pronounces all bad, for none are good—no, not one. Nevertheless, by digging and manuring, the bad fig tree could be made to bear (Luke 13). Thus, a bad man, by grace can be made good, and a good man may turn back to sin and folly and become bad again, as backsliders do abundantly prove. The interpretation may be this, note. A fruit tree holds its seed, or essence in itself (see Gen. 1:11); from thence it produces fruit in conformity to its natural seed, whether a horse apple or a sweet apple. Therefore, the carnal-minded natural man, whose heart is wicked and deceitful, cannot bear good fruit before God. But grace can renew this bad man, give him a new heart, and renew a right spirit within him; so he is born of God, and that by the word of God, and that by the word of God, and the word is the seed in the heart of the new creature; he being influenced by the good spirit, how can he bear evil fruit? The seed is the word of God sown in his heart, and by taking root downward it bears fruit upward. John observes he cannot sin because the seed abideth within. Not because a convert is irresistibly kept; he possesseth power to do wrong, but has no will to do it. Joseph asked his base mistress how he could act wickedly and sin against God? Now, if a good man can never change, but remains immutable, and the seed can never depart—then "once in Christ, always in Christ," is a true saying. (Read John 15.) If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you," etc. "Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall!"

CHAPTERS VIII, IX AND X.

A few remarks may suffice.

First: Our Lord observed that many pious Gentiles, like Cornelius, who were influenced by the great Spirit, which is the quickening power, that such people who feared God and worked righteousness should sit down in the kingdom, and the professing Jews and backsliding Christians, who had enjoyed great and glorious privileges, would be shut out.

When Jesus rebuked the wind, and the sea, and they obeyed Him, the people exclaimed, saying, "What manner of man is this?" Were I to answer the interrogative, I would say, Emanuel—God with us! Note the parable of the old and new bottles, old and new cloth, which bears the following interpretation: the bottles were leather, and when they waxed old, new wine in its fermental state, the bottles being well stopped, would burst. And strong new cloth edged to old rotten cloth, would make the rent worse. The similitude is this: it will not answer to put new spiritual religion in old, deceitful, unrenewed hearts; nor to blend the old, Levitical rites with new gospel substances. Some fell from grace in Galla by such corrupt ideas.

Reader, pay attention to the close of the ninth chapter. Directions are here given to all sober-minded bodies of Christian people who are desirous to hear the word, and have but few laborers; not to join error for the sake of preachers, but earnestly pray the Lord Jesus to send them preachers; and when they come, they will be pue preachers—by their words and their works you may know them. They will preach the pure word, according to godliness—men of holy lives, meek and lowly, men of one book, steady to their Master's business. They will not be hirelings, but learn to be content with what their friends will freely give them, as they feel it their duty. Not as lords over their Master's vineyard, but public servants for Jesus' sake—loving, equal brothers; yet they will be acknowledged as overlookers, and official men in the house of God. Some pray to colleges, presbyteries, and conferences to send them preachers; but the best way is to petition the King of heaven. The true ministers are called of God, i. e., Christ, who is Lord of the harvest. Some are called by men, and money. I will not say that Christ never called such at first. Let no man be offended; I could say more, but a word to the wise is enough. The best ministers are those called of God, and continue to act under the influence of His spirit. The Lord selected twelve ministers, whom He named apostles, as being called and sent out by His own person, whom He appointed to write His will—at least two-thirds of them. To them He gave the key of the kingdom, or spirit of inspiration, whereby they could open mysteries, never so clearly understood before! They wrote so much and no more; and what they have written is recorded in heaven. Others were sent to preach and do the work of an evangelist that was to carry the apostles' writings and deposit the same among the friends of Jesus; which were ordered to be read in the Churches as their only rule book of faith and government. Amen.

CHAPTERS XI AND XII.

The more light we have, and do not improve it, the greater will be our condemnation. Even Sodom will rise in judgment against gospel slighers! My dear reader, make no further delay, but follow the light, lest eternal darkness should ensue! Pay close attention to the twenty-seventh verse, notice the oneness, the mysterious and reciprocal union subsisting between the humanity and divinity of one Lord God. In verse twelfth, we should pay attention to the word of the Lord in disputing with the Jews about the Sabbath, that even under the strict letter of the law the Lord justified all merciful acts of kindness to man or beast, and to try to prepare food to eat if distressed with hunger. The Lord Jesus being the Lord of the Sabbath, it appears, then, we may reverence the old Sabbath in its time and place, yet adopt the Lord's day for the Christian Sabbath, which exactly fits the new dispensation. Alas! alas! how shamefully do people in Christendom trample upon the authority, and profane the sanctity of the Lord's day! Some are secretly doing business that otherwise would be to do on Monday. Others are gathered in parties for feasting and drinking, and the poor slaves are laboring in the cookery. Their loose conversation shows their tongues are unbridled, and in the multitude of their vain talk, and much laughter, they commit abundance of sin. The common youngsters are sporting, playing, gambling, disputing, wrestling, swearing, fighting, etc., well wearied at night, and need rest! Others make use of that spare day to set at the grogshops. Oh! tell it not among the East India rude infidels! When the Lord of the Sabbath cometh, he will put a stop to it. Where are civil rulers? where are the magistrates? We hear the name, but are they a terror to evildoers? Are these God's civil ministers who bear the sword? O ye Sabbath-breakers, despisers of the glorious Jesus, doth not your flesh tremble for fear of Him? Doth your hearts ache when you think of meeting Him, on His fiery judgment seat, with His countenance like flashes of lightning? Reform, repent, before it is too late (verse 20).
—From "Divine Oracles Consulted," by James O'Kelly.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
Our Chaplain in the United States Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33:3.

MONDAY

LOOKING AT YOURSELF

Text: "Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation."—Matt. 26:41.

Shut up in a room alone, with a good mirror opposite where one is sitting, one sees himself as others see him as nearly as it is possible for him to do. With what admiration of handsomeness, marks of character and distinction and other charms, he gazes expectantly upon himself. Such conceit! Preposterous! Lo, one is not half of that which he thinks he is—when he shifts his vision from the eyes of imagination to the eyes of reality he sees hard lines in the face, the knitted brow, "crows feet," a crooked nose, a snaggle tooth, horny hands, sideways mouth, a tongue that is coated and a breath that fouls the mirror. This is us as others see us.

If one uses the lenses of common sense, and will be honest with himself, he will discover inabilities, and impossibilities that shock his conceit. He may see a character the flaws of which, though existing in thought only, would ruin him if all the truth were known. He is ready to exclaim, "Things are not what they (have) seemed."

Well, the mirror helps. It not only aids in putting the person in the right shape, but may help to drive away some wrinkles, straighten up the figure and the face, and if used further, may aid in removing the spots and flaws of the character.

Do you use your mirror for more than toilet purposes?

"Would to God the Gift to give us
To see ourselves as others see us."

—BURNS.

Prayer.—Our Father in Heaven, we pray for such watchfulness over ourselves that we may profit by our mistakes and may not enter into temptation. (Lord's prayer by all.)—Amen.

TUESDAY

HAPPINESS

Text: "We both labor and suffer reproach because we trust in the living God, who is the Savior of all men."—I Tim. 4:10.

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."—Matt. 6:33.

"Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of men, the good things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."—I Cor. 2:9.

"It is only a poor sort of happiness that could ever come by caring very much about our own narrow pleasures. We can only have the highest happiness, such as goes along with being a great man, by having wide thoughts, and much feeling for the rest of the world, as well as ourselves; and this sort of happiness often brings so much pain with it, that we can only tell it from pain by its being what we would chose before everything else, because our souls see it is good."—POMULA.

Prayer.—Our Father, we come to Thee with outstretched hands and pleading hearts for Thy help, for Thy wisdom, for delight to do Thy will, for will and power to suffer for the good of others, for Thy corrections, for even trials to prove us, and, found true, as shall be happy. In Thee we beg it, Amen.

WEDNESDAY

GREATNESS

Text: "He that is greatest among you must be your servant."—Matt. 23:11.

"There are so many things wrong and difficult in the world that no man can be great—he can hardly keep himself from wickedness—unless he gives up thinking much about his pleasure or his rewards, and gets strength to endure what is hard and painful. My father had the greatness that belongs to integrity; he chose poverty and obscurity rather than falsehood. And there was Fra Girolamo (Savonarola); he had the greatness which belongs to a life spent in struggling against powerful wrong, and in trying to raise men to the highest deeds they are capable of. And so, my Lillo, if you mean to act nobly and seek to know the best things God has put within reach of men, you must learn to fix your mind on that end, and not on what will happen to you because of it."—GEO. EPIOT.

Prayer.—Dear Heavenly Father, may we study to know what are true and eternal values of the things of this world. Show us the burdens we may bear to make it light for the suffering. May the honors of men, the first seats, and the search for the exalted, be subordinated in us to the great desire for service for the Kingdom in the extension of righteousness and peace. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY

SORROW WITH NO BALM

Lesson: Matt. 7:26, 27.

Text: "Godly sorrow worketh repentance unto salvations, which bringeth no regret; but the sorrow of the world worketh death."—II Cor. 7:10.

"If you were to choose something lower, and make it the rule of your life to seek your own pleasure and escape from what is disagreeable, calamity might come just the same; and it would be calamity falling on a base mind, which is the one form of sorrow that has no balm in it, and that may well make a man say 'It would have been better for me if I had never been born.' I will tell you something, Lillo. There was a man to whom I was very near, so that I could see a great deal of his life, who made almost everyone fond of him, for he was young, and clever, and beautiful, and his manners to all were gentle and kind. I believe, when I first knew him, he never thought of anything cruel or base. But because he tried to slip away from everything that was unpleasant, and cared for nothing else as much as his own safety, he came at last to commit some of the basest deed,—such as make men infamous. He denied his father, and left him to misery; he betrayed every trust that was reposed in him, that he might keep himself safe and get rich and prosperous. Yet calamity overtook him."—GEORGE ELIOT.

Prayer.—Our Father keep before our eyes day by day, the Fate of those who build their life unwisely, and the safety of those who are building on the rock of salvation. Forgive us of our sins and draw us to Thee. In His name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY

DEATH

Text: ". . . Absent from the body, and to be at home with the Lord."—II Cor. 5:8.

"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints."—Ps. 116:15.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord . . . that they may rest from their labors . . ."—Rev. 14:13.

"Oh Death, where is thy sting."—I Cor. 15:55.

"They that love beyond the world cannot be separated by it. Death cannot kill what never dies. Nor can spirits ever be divided, that love and live in the same divine principle, the root and record, of their friendship. Death is but crossing the world, as friends to the seas; they live in one another still . . . This is the comfort of friends, that though they may be said to die, yet their friendship and society are, in the best sense, ever present because immortal."—WM. PENN.

Prayer.—Our Father, who art in Heaven, We thank Thee for the blessings of life. Teach us to see the blessings of death and to so live that the glory beyond is more to be desired than this earth. In Jesus' name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY

ANGER

Text: "Be ye angry,—sin not. Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."—Eph. 4:26.

"He that is soon angry will deal foolishly."—Prov. 14:17.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath."—Prov. 15:1.

The other day I heard a great man, who handles hundreds of men every day, say words to this effect. "I used to get angry, but I have learned better. It spoils my mind and gets me no where. I have learned to take everything quietly and treat everyone with courtesy. If I must be hard I will try to be it without a sign of a ruffle."

Wm. Penn said, "Passion is a sort of fever in the mind, which ever leaves us weaker than it found us . . . It, more than anything, deprives us of the use of our judgment; for it raises a dust very hard to see through . . . It may not unfitly be termed the mob of the man that commits a riot upon his reason."

Prayer.—Our Father, when we would be angry give us the Christ spirit for it. Help us to be stern and unrelenting against sin, but loving toward those who would be unkind. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SUNDAY

A PRAYER

Our Father in heaven, "We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; for the love that unites us; for the peace accorded us this day; for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the health, the work, the food, and the bright skies that make our lives delightful; for our friends in all parts of the earth, and our friendly helpers in this foreign isle. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Spare us to our friends, soften to us our enemies. Bless us, if it may be, in all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gate of death, loyal and loving one to another." In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

I told you in my letter a few weeks ago that I would tell you which conference got on the Banner List by having the largest number of the Sunday Schools in the conference making a monthly offering to the Orphanage for the first quarter this year. In making my calculations on the percentage basis, I find the North Carolina and Virginia Conference gets on the Banner List this quarter. It has the largest percentage of Sunday Schools on the list making monthly offerings of any conference.

I truly hope all the conferences will get on the second quarter. If your Sunday School is not making a monthly offering, see that it does, and help your conference get on the Banner List during the second quarter.

Our special Easter offering is now on. Let every church and Sunday School do its best. Every individual should give something to help such a worthy cause. And make the offering for your Church as large as possible.

Mrs. E. J. Brickhouse, of Norfolk, is the first individual to send us a special Easter Offering. Our Haw River Church and Sunday School is the first church to send in an Easter offering. I am wondering how many churches and Sunday Schools will get on the Banner List by sending us $100.00 for a Special Easter offering. Won't your church be one?

The following is a list of things sent in since the last report:

The ladies of the First Christian Church of Warren, Ind., 45 dresses, 13 suits, 8 pairs of sox, and 5 pairs of sandals.

Mrs. R. D. Craven, Cole's Store, N. C., 2 dresses.

Ladies Missionary Society of First Christian Church, Tuscola, Ind. 13 dresses and 2 blouses.
Mrs. J. H. Massey, Durham, N. C., 2 boy's suits and three dresses.

Ladies Aid Society, Hunting, Ind., 13 dresses, 3 suits and other clothing.

Ladies Missionary Society, Antioch Church, Manchester, I., 22 dresses, 2 suits, 1 blouse.

Jirch Missionary Society, Goshen, Ind., 5 dresses, 1 suit and 1 blouse.

Ladies of Sidney Church, Sidney, Ind., 18 dresses, 4 suits and 1 hat.

Mrs. Willie Mann, 1 dress.

Mrs. Dora Ballentine, 1 dress.

Mrs. W. J. Ballentine, 1 dress.

Mrs. E. J. Edwards, 71 Henrietta St., Ashville, N. C., 2 dresses, 1 sweater, 1 slip.

The Missionary Society, Danville, Ill., suits, dresses, hose, blouses and many other garments.

The Ladies Missionary Society, Pisgah, Ala., 2 quilts.

Miss Birdie Wilson, Virgilina, Va., 2 dresses, four handkerchiefs.

Philathea Class, New Lebanon Church, Wentworth, N. C., 1 dress and 1 pair of sox.

The Woman's Missionary Society, Franklin, Va., 41 dresses, 10 hats, shoes and many other articles.

Missionary Society, Eaton, Ind., Mrs. Mattie Gump, Sec., 19 little boy's suits and 9 dresses.

Circle No. 3, First Christian Church, Burlington, N. C., 10 pairs hose, 6 little boy's suits, 6 dresses, 1 shirt and four yards of gingham.

Ladies Missionary Society, Turner's Chapel Church, 12 hens for Easter.

Ladies of the Christian Light Church, 1 box of chickens for Easter.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR APRIL 8, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$ 4,183.05
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
First Church, Greensboro	$ 25.00
Citizens' Bible Class, Elon College.	2.30	27.30
Western North Carolina Conference:
Sanford	$ 3.68
Ether	3.87
Damascus	1.15	8.70
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Henderson		6.45
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Third Avenue, Danville	$ 3.70
First Church, Richmond	4.60
Liberty Spring (4th qr. 1925)....	6.00
Suffolk	25.00
Newport News	9.90	49.20
Alabama Conference:
New Hope		1.70
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Bethany		2.00
Virginia Valley Conference:
Linville		5.80
Thanksgiving Offering:
Vina McKiuzie25
Special Offerings:
W. W. Brown	$ 15.00
E. M. Davenport, support of children	37.50	52.50
New Building Fund:
Mrs. R. T. Kernodle, Burlington..	$ 10.00
Mrs. E. C. Curl	3.00
Rev. I. T. Underwood	1.00	14.00
Total for week	$ 167.90
Grand total	$ 4,350.95

FIRST MISSIONARY EFFORT.

Note on the first missionary effort of the Christian Church. From the Life of Rev. Isaac N. Walter, page 368.

"On yesterday (August 29, 1852) I met the people of this city (Raleigh, N. C.) and gave them two discourses with some effect upon the congregation. Dr. (Joseph B.) Hinton preached an ordination sermon in the afternoon, of a colored brother, Isaac Scott, of good talents and deep piety; who was set apart to the work of the ministry. He expects to sail for Liberia, with his family and a number of others from this city, about November 1st next, to preach the gospel to his kinsmen in the flesh in that distant region. The ordaining prayer was by Eld. H. B. Hayes, and the charge was given, and the Bible was presented by myself. His Excellency, Governor Reid, was present to witness the ceremonies, and everything passed off pleasantly and profitably."

Questions: Did he go to Liberia? Was he assisted, if he went, by the Christian Church in North Carolina? Perhaps some reader of THE SUN can answer the above questions, and throw some light on our early history.

W. E. MACCLENNY

BARRETT'S CHURCH.

Note on Barrett's Meeting House in Southampton County, Virginia.
From an old deed on record in the Clerk's

Office of Southampton County, in Deed Book 19, page 19, dated March 12th, 1823, Burwell Barrett and Lucy his wife sold to Matthew Harris 50 acres (including one acre on which stands Barrett's Meeting House, which is excepted). The said land adjoined Polly Barnes' line, Moody Burk's, Gilbert Lane, Benjamin Williams, and Polly Barnes.

For this we are indebted to our friend Rev. A. Clayton Torrence of Suffolk, Va.

Putting the above with Rev. Joseph Thomas' accounts of his visit to that place, we see that the inference is that Rev. Burwell Barrett built the original meeting house on his own land for the use of the community, and it thus stood until he conveyed the original tract to another, when he excepted that acre for the use of the church. Rev. Joseph Thomas calls the church Brother Barrett's Meeting House several times, and it was thus known.

W. E. MACCLENNY

The Department of Commerce has given out some interesting figures regarding our hog population. Iowa stood first in the number of hogs raised, Illinois second, and Nebraska third. On January 1st of this year, according to the Department, there were 8,700,000 hogs in Iowa, 4,400,000 in Illinois, and 4,300,000 in Nebraska. The total number of hogs in the country on January 1st was approximately 52 million.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 Postage paid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Children are an heritage of the Lord
—Ps. 127: 3.
And thou shalt teach them diligently.
—Deut. 6: 7.

Easter Bibles

FOR THE YOUNG
SELF-PRONOUNCING

Holman Make

Containing Practical Helps
and Beautiful Colored Pictures
Size of Bible, 5 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

5704 is most popular with Young Folks

5704 Dark Blue Silk Finished Cloth, with edges colored to match, round corners, gold titles.....$1.50

5709 Grained Moroccorol, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges.....$2.50

5715 Same as 5709, but bound in French Morocco, genuine Leather.....$3.00

Sent postpaid at above prices.

Order from—
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad St.
Richmond, - - Virginia

Keeping costs down and service up

IN this complicated economic age, when consumers are dependent upon the efficient performance of industry for the necessities of life, it is not only good business but also an obligation of industry to keep costs to consumers down and service to them up.

The Southern Railway System has achieved operating economies which enabled it to operate last year on freight charges that averaged 16 per cent lower than in 1921. These reductions applied to the 1925 traffic meant a saving of $27,000,000 to the shipping public.

And these rate reductions have been effected in spite of greatly increased taxes. In 1921, the Southern paid in taxes $3.80 of every $100 of its gross revenue, while last year it had to pay $6.39 of every $100. This increase in taxes is equivalent to $6,500,000 a year.

The service of the Southern has been kept up. Its capacity is larger, and the physical condition of the property better than ever before. In fact, it has spent about $112,000,000 in the last three years in making improvements and for new equipment.

The Southern is rendering a larger and better service at a lower price, and is promoting the welfare of the industries and agriculture of the South by keeping its costs down and its service up.

Railroad transportation is cheap. The charge on the Southern for hauling a car of 30 tons of freight one mile averages only 35 cents.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves  the South

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

(Continued from page 6.)

The many and varied schemes, now so vigorously undertaken by employers, of conciliation, co-operation, profit sharing, and industrial partnership, represent a candid recognition of the fact that the wage-system in its bare economic form must be supplemented, if not supplanted; that the line of division between employer and employee must be effaced by fraternalism, if it is not to be obliterated by socialism. Schemes of industrial reform must be incorporated with the business, adapted to the type of industry concerned, and charged to production. The proper payment for them is not gratitude, but loyalty. They are one form of evidence that the industrial order, imperfect as it is, may be developed by intelligence and ingenuity into a system of mutual advantage, which is certainly more accessible, and may perhaps be more durable, than the vague ventures which social revolution now so lightly proposes to make. God appreciates and rewards justly and generously all work, basing His judgment on the work's quantity, quality, spirit and social value. We should do our best with a full consecration to Him.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

The flavor and courage of life are well tested by the uses to which we lend our spare moments. How our lives are flavored depends on what we read and think about. A man may work in a glue factory by day, and at night flavor his life with some of the writings of Paul or Peter or Solomon or David, and make his life a thing of beauty to be admired by those that know him. The courage of life is tested when a man determines to use his spare time in something that will benefit instead of please. Would to God we would all invest our spare moments in that which will give returns! In the day when failure is written in large letters across our life, we will be able to understand this better than we do now. If we spend our time striving for earthly rewards, the returns will be of an earthly kind. If we work for that which is beyond this life, our returns will be of the kind that fadeth not away with the passing of this world.—Exchange.

You can find the best-paying gold mine in the world if you go after it hard enough. It is located just above your neck.

Send in your renewal, now!

E
L
O
N

C
O
L
L
E
G
E

Auditorium Library Building ELON COLLEGE Religious Activities
Alamance Hall—Administration Building Science Hall

MARRIAGES

ROSE-DUCK.

On Thursday, February 18th, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Duck, Charlie H. Rose and Elsie P. Duck were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Miss Duck was one of the leading Christian characters of the community, being president of the Woman's Missionary Society of Mt. Carmel and the teacher of the Young Ladies' Class. She is highly esteemed by all who know her. Mr. Rose is also very highly respected in the community.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the writer, the bride's pastor, in the presence of a few friends. May they have a long and successful life.

ELISHA BRADSHAW.

WHITMIRE-WOODS.

On the afternoon of March 13, 1926, Mr. Louis H. Whitmire and Miss Virgie M. Woods motored to my home and were quietly united in matrimony. They are from the neighborhood of Broadway and New Market. They are industrious young people, and here is hoping they will make good in life.

A. W. ANDES.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 7.)

time to meditate on things of the spirit—our relation to God and man? Perhaps our lack of meditation causes us to be so materialistic.

How Observe the Sabbath.

Christ preached in the synagogues on the Sabbath. What better place may we meditate on God's love than in church on Sunday? We should enjoy the spirit of joyful worship there with others.

Christ also healed the sick man on the Sabbath. We may "go about doing good." To visit the sick on the Sabbath surely means that at least two people are happier, or more cheerful because of the visit.

To attend church on Sunday—"a Sabbath well spent", invariably means a better week to follow, "brings a week of content."

PATTIE COGHILL.

WHEN IS EDUCATION CHRISTIAN?

When It Produces Men and Women of Christian Character.

What is Christian Character?

It is exhibiting toward life and its problems the attitude of Jesus.

There are four hundred Colleges in the United States that aim to produce Christian Character.

ELON is one of them.

For full information, address

C. M. CANNON, Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home
EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Specimen of Type
Holman Home Bible

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6½ x 9¼ inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE
TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5¼ x 7¼ inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd. He maketh me to lie in green pastures: he leadeth me to the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.

Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
429 Winston Building Philadelphia

V. E. MAREAN
Pipe Organ Expert
TUNING — REPAIRING
REBUILDING

Motors Installed Yearly Contracts
3011 Lamb Ave., - Richmond, Va.
Phone, Madison 5630-J

OXFORD CHILDREN'S BIBLES

The best gift for your child is an Oxford Bible. Nothing else you can give has such wonderful possibilities in enriching their lives. Oxford Bibles for Children have black and colored illustrations that interest as well as instruct. Some have special helps for children.

A few styles are listed here. Others are to be found in the Oxford Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

02145 [This size print] Bound in Keratol (imitation leather), overlapping covers, red under gold edges, size 5½ x 3½ inches. 32 black illus. . . $1.85

02153 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. Has 32 colored illustrations $2.50

03325 [This size print] Oxford S. S. Scholar's Bible. Has special helps for children, alphabetically arranged, and 32 illustrations. Bound in Keratol (imitation Morocco), overlapping covers, red under gold edges. (Size 5½ x 3½ inches) . . . $2.40

02327 [This size print] A beautifully illustrated Oxford Bible, French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, red under gold edges. With 32 colored illustrations. Size 5½ x 3½ inches. $3.00

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 E. Broad Street,
Richmond,
Virginia

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
 W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
 W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
 REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
 R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
 REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
 P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

One Year $2.00
 Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

MRS. EMMIE CHANDLER LASSITER.

Mrs Lassiter, the wife of Rev. L. L. Lassiter, was ill at their home, Virgilina, Virginia, and Dr. C. M. Bohannon and the nurse, Miss Emmogen Givens, were accompanying her on the Southern train to Lakeview Hospital, Suffolk, Virginia, on March 25, 1926. Her husband was, also, with her. Her attack was influenza. At 3:30 P. M., as the train neared Courtland, Virginia, she passed out into the great beyond.

Mrs. Lassiter was the daughter of the late Charles S. and Virginia Chandler of Virgilina, Virginia. She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. T. B. Nelson, and four brothers, J. L., A. G., J. B., and R. O. Chandler. Mrs. Lassiter was a member of Amos Chapel Baptist Church; a devoted, faithful Christian and wife, sister, friend and neighbor. She gave her life in sacrificial service to her husband, her church, and her friends.

Her passing so suddenly was a shock to her husband, the family, and her friends, but they do not mourn without hope of reunion in the home of the soul.

Funeral services were conducted in the Suffolk Christian Church on Sunday, March 28th, at 2:30 P. M., by Revs. W. W. Staley, H. S. Harcastle, and I. W. Johnson. The floral designs were many and beautiful. The choir sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Sweet By-and-By"; the quartet sang, "Sometime We'll Understand"; and W. W. Ballard sang, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me." And then she was laid to rest in Cedar Hill Cemetery. It was a sweet and quiet hour in the church with streams of Christian sympathy going out to Brother Lassiter.

W. W. STALEY.

HUFFMAN.

Emma Viola Huffman was born on November 9, 1877, and died March 8, 1926, at the age of 48 years, 3 months, and 29 days. Sister Huffman was a member of Linville Methodist Church, a kind neighbor, a good wife and mother. She is survived by her husband, one son, and one brother. Funeral services at Linville Christian Church, March 10th.

A. W. ANDES.

School Desks, Opera Chairs, Folding Chairs, Kindergarten Chairs, School Supplies, Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04593 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. . . $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. . . $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHNER, President
Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grow; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo. views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION
Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.
22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing

VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

139LL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

15R1P. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1926.

NUMBER 15.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

Mrs N T Farmer 1-1

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Plan Skyscraper Church.—

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church of Chicago has announced plans for a skyscraper church and apartment building to cost between two and three million dollars.

A Lawyer-Preacher.—

Dr. Mark A. Matthews has been admitted to the practice of law before the Supreme Court of the United States. He is in the active pastorate, holding the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle, Washington. He was admitted to the bar while a pastor at Jacksonville, Tenn. Dr. Matthews is probably the only active minister admitted to practice law before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Orders Philippine Survey.—

President Coolidge has appointed C. A. Thompson of Ohio a special commissioner to conduct a survey of economic and other internal conditions in the Philippine Islands. Colonel Thompson is a close friend of Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor-General of the Philippines, and the survey will be friendly to the Wood administration. It is being made to determine how this country may best proceed in the development of the islands for the benefit of both the United States and the Filipinos.

Heretic Preaches Still.—

The General Synod of the Dutch Reform Church found Rev. Mr. Geelkirchen guilty of heresy and suspended him from the exercise of his ministerial functions for three months. His church, however, one of the largest in Holland, has insisted that he continue preaching. This he is doing, and the heretic's church is being filled to overflowing by the people of Amsterdam. What will the General Synod do about it? What can they do? If a church sufficient unto itself, and most of them have to be, prefers a heretic for a pastor, what can anybody do at this time? There was a time when they might have burned him, but not now. The church has lost its civil power.

Christian Emphasis Week.—

Des Moines has repeated its Christian Emphasis Week, and turned to Sherwood Eddy for leadership. It is stated that 129,000 persons attended the meetings. Meetings were held for high school groups, college and university groups, women, business people's meetings at noon, parent-teachers meetings, and mass meetings in the evening. We certainly need to lay emphasis upon Christianity in its most genuine sense, getting away from doctrine and dogma, away from theorizing and mere discussion, and turn to the practical aspects. So can we make Christian the many phases of our complex life. We call ourselves Christians, let us practice Christianity by undertaking to behave under all conditions as Jesus would behave. We can do this only by becoming intimately acquainted with Him.

To Have Much Preaching.—

The program of the Southern Baptist Convention reveals much preaching. There is to be a prayer meeting on the evening before the formal opening, and each meeting is to be closed by a sermon by some leading preacher. This shows that the South likes preaching still, and some intimate that it is done to safeguard the convention from some bitter discussion engaged in by that body in gatherings not so long ago.

A Bill to Silence Preachers.—

A bill has been introduced into the New York Legislature to prevent preachers from appearing before committees in support of measures except those affecting their immediate congregations. The bill was brought up because of the active support of the New York clergymen of temperance legislation in the wet inclined commonwealth. It is not expected to pass, but it bears eloquent testimony to the power of the ministry in that State. It is something to cause us all to take courage and to fight on unswervingly for those things which make the world a better and a happier place for men to live in.

Honors a Country Doctor.—

Eighty-four years ago, Dr. Crawford W. Long, a country physician in a small Georgia hamlet, discovered anesthesia, and performed the first operation using it. He worked independently, and without any of the equipment now considered so essential for medical experiment. About the same time three other men, all of them New Englanders, with the best equipment then in the world, made the same discovery. It is now practically certain, however, that Dr. Long was the originally independent discoverer of anesthesia. At any rate the State of Georgia thought so so strongly that it has placed his statue in one of the two niches accorded her under the capitol dome at Washington. Georgia has done well in placing the statue of this country physician there and so honoring her country doctors. They have done much for humanity and for civilization, and Georgia has reason to be particularly proud of her country practitioners of the art of medicine, and she chose rather to honor the man who had wrought in defense of life rather than a mere politician, as so many have done. It is a wholesome choice.

A Prohibition Referendum.—

Senator Edge of New Jersey is agitating for a referendum by States on the Volstead Act. Senator Edge is already the sponsor of several wet measures now pending before Congress. The Judiciary Committee of the Senate, on the report of the sub-committee has decided to hold hearings on the wet measures. There is a feeling that the drys ought to support a referendum by States, and that the States ought to make provision for such a referendum at the fall elections, and if they do not, then the Postmaster General through the department of the census should make it. If Senator Edge secures his referendum, then it will be up to the Christian people of the country, who have the best interest of their homes, their boys and girls, at heart, to act, and to act together, to maintain the law as it is, or if any change is to be made, to put more teeth in it. What we need is not a repeal of the eighteenth amendment and a retardation of a quarter of a century, but law enforcement and courts and juries who will convict and punish offenders. The crime of which we hear so much is directly traceable to lax courts and too much pardoning power in the hands of governors who are either too tender hearted or politicians bent on strengthening their support. If the latter is true, then we who claim to be Christians ought to have none of them.

What Is It For?—

There is a bill before the committee on post offices and post roads to prevent any paper not printed in English from enjoying the second class post office rates. This bill is known as the Colton bill, and would destroy the foreign language press of the United States. This bill has been branded as a legitimate successor of the Upshaw bill of the last Congress. This bill was directly meant to destroy the foreign language press, and so to Americanize our alien population. According to the Upshaw bill, it was prompted by the fact that 287,000 soldiers in the American army during the World War could not read an English paper. Whether or not this bill would have accomplished Mr. Upshaw's intention, is a grave question. The Colton bill has the same object in mind, because no periodical could possibly live which could not use the second class post office rates. The Colton bill would thus indirectly destroy the foreign language press. It may be possible that the foreign language press does occasionally seek ends not in accord with American ideals and principles, but the average paper seeks to Americanize its readers, and the press is the only hope for those who immigrate here, all of whom can read and write in a fair manner some language, which is not true of American born people. The Colton bill would not forbid the use of alien tongues, but only destroy their reading matter. As The Outlook puts it, it is a bill "To shut out the light," and that publication brands it as a silly measure.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Only two more weeks before the Southern Christian Convention meets in Durham, N. C. What plans have you made for the advancement of the cause?

"The church service extends throughout the week; we simply worship on the Lord's Day. Religion should stir us to action; it is a stimulant and not a sedative."—Ex-Mayor Claude Kiser of Greensboro, N. C.

As announced in "The Observatory" last week, the two out-standing non-denominational papers, Christian Work and The Christian Century, have merged, and will be issued under the name of the latter from its office in Chicago. This merger should guarantee a great religious journal. We wish it much success.

